Dear Sir,—I received your "Udisco" Set, Model L5 and am more than pleased with it. For Daylight reception it is excellent, in fact, the tone is near as night reception as possible, on loud speaker.

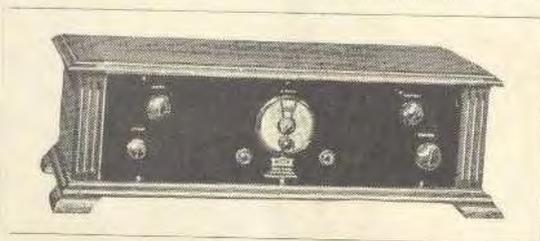

I might mention that I have tried several sets, of other makes of Wireless, here, and I could not receive daylight reception with any volume at all with Loud Speaker.

I was giving up hope for a daylight reception set in this town, as I was told that this town was not suited for daylight reception. Your set proves it to be a wonderful one.

Wishing your firm every success.

Yours faithfully, (Signed) W. P. L. CEARNS.

UX 200A

THE equipment is as important as the set. The range of a set depends a great deal on the valve in the detector socket. The over-all performance of the set depends very much on the valves in every socket. The volume and tone quality you will get are dependent on the valve in the last audio stage. On every point the valves are as important as the set, and everyone who realises this insists on genuine Radiotrons. Look for the Genuine Radiotron Seal

Broadcasting Stimulates Artists

BROADCASTING is stimulating many artists to put forth greater efforts and enabling them to present better performances than they could ever achieve in personal appearances.

Programme directors are discovering many artists who are at their best when performing for the microphone. In the quiet of the broadcasting studio divorced from the mental pressure which a visible audience always causes, these artists can more completely utilize their talents. They are inspired by the fact that countless numbers of people are hearing them, while they are free from the nervousness which arises from the actual presence of listeners in any sort of personal appearance. Many artists experienced in stage work prefer the broadcasting studio to the theatre or the concert hall.

There have been outstanding examples in musical history of artists who could never do their best before large audiences. Consequently they have been listed among the great musicians of their day merely through their compositions.

Chopin is an example of a marvellous performer, whose real ability was never known beyond the comparatively small circle which included his intimate friends. Before them he could present his own and other composers' music in a manner which probably few pianists have achieved. But the thought of facing a great audience of people who were strange to him, kept his remarkable gifts as an artist from the world. We know him as a composer, not as a great performer.

Chopin would have made an outstanding radio artist. Alone with the microphone and a few of their friends, they could have allowed the world to enjoy his extraordinary gifts.

Radio work is more difficult than stage work in many respects. For that reason it gives an artist a better opportunity to show his true worth. On the stage there are tricks of gesture and other artificialities which enable a singer to cover up vocal lispiness or voice imperfections. But the microphone, by removing the visual appeal, shows up all vocal tricks as just what they are.

Practically every one who attends a performance of a play carries with him some preconceived ideas of what he is about to see, with the result that the majority of theatre-goers are disappointed when the final curtain falls. Radio listeners can have no preconceptions of what they are to hear when they tune in a programme. Music over the air is bound to conjure up memories and mental images in the minds of those who hear it.

In the broadcasting studio the performer is not annoyed by the petty disturbances which are bound to occur when a large audience assembles in a concert hall. If radio listeners cough or rustle their programmes he cannot hear them, and if they move about in their chairs they cannot disturb.

Beyond the fact that conditions in the studio help an artist to concentrate radio work possesses other advantages from the artist's standpoint. A performer makes as many appearances over the air in six months as he would in the ordinary course of two or three years on the concert stage. This necessitates a much greater repertoire on the part of artists who are facing the microphone regularly.

Another advantage for broadcasting artists arises from the great catholicism of musical tastes possessed by those who listen to radio programmes. On the concert stage it is necessary to suit the selections to the tastes of the comparatively small group of people which will hear, but when facing the microphone, in the hope of pleasing a large number of those who are listening in, the artist must broaden the scope of his programmes.

Catching Up with the Wireless World.

By R. E. CORDER.

THE AFRICAN BROADCASTING COMPANY is applying to the Southern Rhodesian Government for permission to erect a new relay station for the benefit of lonely settlers scattered over Rhodesia.

A CABLE HAS now been received from WGY, Schenectady, stating that the Australian programme submitted by 2FC will be broadcast on the night of Sunday, 24th July, from 8 o'clock to 8 p.m. (Sydney time), and that in preparation for this Australian programme, their station will, during the coming week, carry out several preliminary tests in low wave length.

THE AMERICAN RADIO League has been the medium to deliver a message originating in New Zealand from Lane Grey, famous author of western stories, to Phillips Carlin, of WEAF. The message, originating from the yacht Fisherman, cruising off New Zealand on April 28, was relayed from Honolulu and arrived at WEAF from station GCUW, Bisbee, Arizona, on May 11.

THEATRE PROGRAMMES: The wide range which the broadcasting companies cover in preparing their daily and nightly programmes for listeners-in is indicated by evidence given before the Royal Commission on Wireless. It was stated that one station (2FC, Sydney) had the right of broadcasting musical and theatrical performances from the following:—J. C. Williamson's theatrical and musical productions at Her Majesty's Theatre, Royal, Criterion and Palace Theatres; J. and N. Tait's concerts and other musical and theatrical productions; Musgrave's Tivoli Theatres; Union Theatres' orchestral and other musical productions; Haymarket Theatres' orchestral and other musical productions; Prince Edward Theatre's orchestral productions and great organ recitals; Sydney Madrigal Society; Royal Apollo Club; Sydney Harmonic Society. Other broadcasting stations, of course, have their own special sources which they draw upon in preparing their programmes. Yet every now and then a voice is heard expressing dissatisfaction with the fare offered. Apparently it is impossible for any broadcasting station to please everyone.

A BURTON INVENTOR has made a crystal set in a beer bottle. Our experimental laboratory staff reports that on test the Bass came out very well.

"THE INVENTION of broadcasting has wholly changed the face of things musical," says Sir Walford Davis.

Perhaps that's why the voices of some "things musical" seem so unholy.

WRESTLING DESCRIPTIONS: The busiest man in Melbourne on Saturday afternoons is the man who answers the telephone in the studio of 3LO, Melbourne. In addition to the usual host of inquiries for information regarding sporting results there is a further constant responsibility—the tremendous number of people who ring up to find out whether the wrestling is to be broadcast.

APART FROM the indications revealed by the recent plebiscite conducted by a Melbourne newspaper it is obvious that the broadcast descriptions of wrestling bouts at the Melbourne Stadium occupy a paramount place in broadcast popularity, and the occasional news that arrangements prevent the broadcast entertainment cause much disappointment. Owing to the tremendous crowds which assail the Stadium on Saturday nights it is not always possible to make the necessary arrangements, thus it is not known until the last minute whether Mr. McCance can be heard over the air in his vivid impressions of the bouts.

JONES turned on his radio set and found he had cut in on the weekly medical talk from his favorite station. He heard:—

"And all medical authorities recommend Dr. Plooy's formula for ailments of the heart, lungs, stomach, liver, kidneys, intestines, pancreas, gall bladder, thyroid gland, oesophagus and verminiform appendix."
"My word!" he declared. "An organ recital!"

COMMISSIONS FOR REGULATING radio seems to be spreading throughout the world. Italy is the latest country to have such a body as the head of the broadcasting in the Peninsula. This commission was set up by royal decree, and will begin its work by examining broadcast problems from all angles, artistic, commercial and technical. As the government has always been keenly interested in radio developments, it will be interesting to see the extent that Premier Mussolini will use this modern agent of propaganda.

Laughing Competition

Considerable interest is being taken in the forthcoming laughing competition to be conducted by 3LO, Melbourne. Many listeners in town and country have notified their intention to enter. The date will be fixed within the next few days, and conditions of the competition will be available at the Studio of 3LO, Melbourne. The very thought of the competition has inspired "Whisker" to write the following:—

Though every poet, great and small,
Fraisly leech the eaves of beauty's call,
The best emotion of them all
Is merry laughter;
For love itself begins to pall,
The morning after.

So very welcome is the least
To God who does the best thing best;
Each Laughing Jack may swell his chest,
And wag his tail;
There are no flowers, by request,
For those who fail.

While other contests are decided,
And bathing beauties blushing hide,
As this affects our national pride,
There'll be no hitch,
And if you chance to split your side,
Don't mind the stitch.

The spice of laugh's variety,
From "la, ha's" of society,
To roars at inappropriety,
Will charm the eare;

There can be no satiety
Of laughter's cheer.

For you will hear man's brazen throat
Oppose his wife's falsetto note;
Some laughs will scorn and some will flout,
And some will scream,
While through the air the mirth will float.—
A wireless beam.

Let long and lusty laughs abound,
To cheer Australia with their sound,
For laughter makes the world so round,
So make it so.

Until our champion laughter's found
By 3LO.

7ZL ON 3000 WATTS.

Have you Tuned in the Tasmanian Station Yet?

LISTENERS with three and four valve receivers in the Eastern States are now adding 7ZL to their list of stations received. The Tasmanian station opened up on 3000 wats at its new station on Radio Hill, Hobart, early in June, and has since undergone a series of tests.

"According to reports received from the mainland" (and these number 150 this week), says Sidney F. H. Laws, general manager, in a letter dated June 6, "7ZL is being received particularly well in Queensland, N.S.W., South Australia, Victoria, and New Zealand.

"Unfortunately the company is still receiving the usual criticism from local listeners," he adds. "It is admitted that we are extremely sharply tuned, that our transmission is good, and that, contrary to what has been said in the past, the site of the station has proved everything I claimed for it. So far there has not been one individual report on 'blanketing'.

"The kick is now on the programmes, but I ask you, what is to be done, when I state that we are not yet receiving any revenue, and when we do, it will only amount in a year to what I understand H.O. receives in a couple of weeks."

Nevertheless, 7ZL has come through, and Mr. Laws is to be congratulated on his entering vocation.

It is really remarkable that the station has survived the rough weather it has experienced. The management has met with opposition from all sorts of directions, in which co-operation might have been expected. Delays occurred in the shipment and delivery of apparatus which hindered the installation of the station very considerably. It was even said at one of the meetings of the Listeners' League of Tasmania that the station would never be installed, and if by any chance it was, it would not be heard any farther south than the Midlands. This extremely pessimistic forecast has proved to be incorrect, as anyone with the slightest foresight would have known would be the case.

So far the station is suffering from the want of ready cash. There is a considerable sum of money waiting to be collected from the Postmaster-General's Department as soon as the station has been inspected by officials of the department, and certified as satisfactory. This inspection is now being made. So far, the station has been entirely erected and maintained on the capital of the company. The revenue from the present licence fees paid in Tasmania is estimated at £2,600 per annum, a sum which only equals the present expenditure on the upkeep of the station. Once the station receives some of the licence fees which have been stored away for it, it will be able to improve the standard of the programmes broadcast, and to increase the number of licences held in the State, and as a result of this, increase its own revenue.

At the present time there is no official announcer, the work being done by the mechanical staff of the station. Such an arrangement means a considerable increase in the work which has to be done by the staff.

That the difficulties facing 7ZL are shared by all industries in Tasmania, which is just emerging from a period of depression, is proved by a talk delivered by Premier S. A. Lyons at 7ZL and rebroadcast by 2FC recently.

"I understand," said Mr. Lyons, "that this little talk will reach mainland listeners, and I feel that I cannot lose the opportunity of saying how greatly we have appreciated during the last 12 months or so the sympathetic interest which has been forthcoming from the larger States toward Tasmania. Our difficulties at one stage became almost insupportable, but if you are told that these troubles have arisen solely from past mismanagement of the country's affairs, I ask you to reflect that we are not so fortunately circumstanced as the mainland States. I do not wish to recite our troubles, but I will mention such matters as the enormous cost, comparatively speaking, of our roads and railways, our insular position, our entire dependence on maritime transport, the annual loss of many of our virile young men, who seek the wider opportunities which more populous communities afford, and the burdens of post-war years. All these factors contributed to the difficulties which were eventually investigated by the Commonwealth Government. These are far too complex for me to touch upon now, but all reasonable public men have conceded that Tasmania does not seek aid from the Commonwealth. On the contrary, we have asked for that reasonable consideration to which we are entitled by virtue of the fact that we are partners in the Australian Federation."

Hope for the rapid recovery and development of the industry was contained in the conclusion of Mr. Lyons' speech:

"I will conclude by saying that the position of Tasmania is now showing signs of a very decided improvement," he said. "This year, in public opinion, we will have an appreciable surplus of revenue over expenditure; the Government, with the concurrence of Parliament, has now embarked upon the reorganisation of the agricultural industry, which it is hoped will greatly increase production; there is every prospect of new industrial undertakings being established, in spite of many disappointments in this particular direction, and income tax was substantially decreased last year. I can say to all sincerity that I have the very greatest confidence in the future of our State. To our Tasmanian people I send the thanks of the Government for the encouraging support which we have been accorded in times of stress, and to our mainland friends I send greetings from Tasmania and all good wishes."

The Safety Valve

Readers are reminded that the opinions expressed by correspondents are not necessarily those of this journal. A fair measure of criticism is allowed but preference is given to letters combining interest with brevity. Anonymous letters are not considered

POISON AND PIRATES.

Dear Sir,—In order to minimise "pirating," I would suggest that you advocate the adoption of regulations whereby every dealer—wholesale or retail—is required to keep a record of the name and address of every purchaser of a receiving set, complete or incomplete, valve or crystal.

This record would be available for the Radio Inspector, and pirates could more easily be traced. The same principle is applied to the Sale of Poisons in all States, and is beyond doubt successful in reducing the use of poisons for illegal purposes. Why should not the principle be successfully applied to minimising the illegal use of radio?

Yours, etc.,

"COUNTRY DEALER."

Queensland.

ENTERTAINMENT—NOT POLITICS.

Dear Sir—I read your article in "Wireless Weekly" of June 17, and I must hasten to endorse your opinions concerning the State broadcasting scheme. I think this is a matter, since it vitally affects our present broadcasting, that should be taken up by every listener-in, and I would like to see some opinions vented through your columns.

There is an element of uncertainty in this scheme, which makes it sound very dubious, indeed, to the average layman. Personally I would not listen to politics over the radio, for five minutes. I regard broadcasting purely as an entertainment service, for which I pay quite enough, and I fail to see any reason why any portion of my license fee should go to supporting a station to be used for broadcasting the orations of any politician.

Yours, etc.,

RICHARD O'CONNOR.

Lavender Bay.

RABID POLITICS.

Dear Sir,—Since when has it been the policy of "Wireless Weekly" to become an organ of anti-Langism?

To put it mildly, I was astonished when I read your leading article, "Station L A N G Calling." At whatever angle it is viewed, it calls for a lot of criticism, and I sincerely hope that in the light of cooler reflection, you will realise that it is bad manners, and bad policy, for a technical journal to go out of its way to indulge in rabid politics, when its readers embrace all shades of political opinion. Seeing that you have gone out of your way to offend a lot of your readers, I trust, in common fairness, you will give my letter in reply a space in your "grouch column."

Yours, etc.,

A. SOWERBY.

Dulwich Hill.

FAULT IN RECEIVERS.

Dear Sir,—I have been reading the criticism of various readers in your valuable paper for some time. I am quite in accordance with Mr. W. F. Williams, of Bargo, when he states that the faulty reception is due to either the receiver or aerials or earth, etc.

Well, I have always found 2BL excellent, 2FC good, in the daylight, and at night sometimes a little blurred; 4QO seems to fade a lot with me; 4QC good.

With regard to programmes, I think they are all excellent, especially when you think of all the various features of amusement. My opinion is that we should leave well alone, and trust to the station managers to provide amusement to suit all tastes. It is a great improvement now that 2BL and 2FC are once again giving Morning Service, which will be well received by all listeners-in in the country.

Yours, etc.,

F. PEMBERTON.

Wombarrn.

WAFFOR!

Dear Sir—Permit me to congratulate you upon the article, "Station Lang Calling," which you published on June 17. What on earth do we want a 15 kilowatt station for? On my set, which is a three-valve, home-made job, I get interstate stations pretty well, and 2BL and 2FC, besides the "B" class stations in Sydney. Personally, I consider we have quite enough stations in this State, and, in fact, after listening in night after night for months, I sometimes think we have too many. What we want is entertainment, and it is certainly not the function of any Government department to provide the stuff that we want over the wireless. There is too much political bunk spouted already, without pushing it over the air to the ears of listeners who have no desire to hear it. I sincerely hope the State wireless scheme meets the fate it deserves.

Yours, etc.,

F. ANDREWS.

Darlinghurst.

CAN'T PLEASE EVERYBODY.

Dear Sir,—I entirely agree with "W.O.P." Leeton, who says there are a lot of dissatisfied listeners in N.S.W. There are plenty of stations to pick and choose from, and if one does not suit, turn to another. The stations can't please everybody, so, if we do not like a programme, put up with it or go without. Something is sure to suit us sooner or later.

Yours, etc.,

J. R. CLARKE.

Lismore.

QUERY ANSWERED.

Dear Sir,—May I offer a further hint to a Queries Answered correspondent in a recent issue?

If a receiver using one or more condenser gangs appears to lose its pep, examine the coupling between the individual condensers. Laboratories report that these coupling mediums frequently slip, thus throwing one of the capacities "out of plumb."

Yours, etc.,

About Broadcasting

By Our 3LO Correspondent

Miss
Morion
Lightfoot,
a talented banjoist in the 3LO

have undertaken many novel programmes. Competitions for singers have been conducted on many occasions and the interest taken has been a satisfactory acknowledgment of listeners' appreciation.

3LO, Melbourne, has given its audience the results of much thought and preparation in many of its novel features. The remarkable success of the Telepathy Test is well known. The Laughing Competition is still to be conducted and the contest for shorthand writers contained an appeal to many people.

Another competition is now being arranged by this enterprising station. It is a talking competition. Not a contest in talking exactly, but a competition of real educative value. It would be unfair to refer to it as a talking competition. It is to be a test in public speaking and there is a world of difference between talking and public speaking.

Apart from the educative interest in the matter of developing speakers capable of taking their part creditably as effective speakers in public affairs, listeners will have an opportunity of listening to various types of speakers. It may be said that there are already enough talkers in the programmes, but a properly conducted competition amongst young speakers cannot fail to interest many listeners and numerous entries are expected.

The conditions of the competition will be announced shortly. Listeners will certainly be interested in the competition, and as the speeches will be of only three or four minutes' duration, the preparation will be a test of condensation as well as delivery of the speech.

THE NEW GOVERNMENT STATION.

I happened to travel on the same train a few days ago with Mr. Lang, the Premier of New South Wales, and I seized the opportunity to ask him what sort of programmes his contemplated new station would broadcast. I wondered whether it would be used for propaganda or whether it would have a wider outlook. Mr. Lang explained that it would be an ordinary Class "A" station, and that it was coming into being to supply the well-known "long-felt want" to the people outback who can now pick up the big stations only with expensive sets. It is Mr. Lang's humanitarian purpose to establish relay stations in connection with the Government studio, so that crystal users in the country can get the same pleasure as his more fortunate city brother. "Why," he asked me, "should the farmer and the country dweller be forced to fork out for an expensive set merely because he lives outside the city? I am going to equalise the disparity and bring the pleasure the city gets so easily to the men and women whose lives need the brightness that radio can bring."

IS WIRELESS HURTING THE THEATRE?

Beecham, the expatriated opera entrepreneur who has hurried from the United States such invective as wireless as the murderer of concerta proper, has probably exaggerated the effect of radio.

The other day, however, I was speaking to an actor of great intelligence, and we fell to discussing why so many good entertainments in the theatre were failing to attract the public.

"It is the fashion to blame the cinema," he said, "but in my opinion the wireless is responsible. Think how many families have it installed, and how pleasant it is on a winter's night to have the fire and the radio going, and listen with comfort to the rain on the windows. People go to the theatre to be entertained. Their boredom at home on a wet night must be greater than the discomfort of turning out in the rain or cold to send their car to the theatre, especially if they have already seen the show once.

"Now, in London and New York, if the play-going public pay ones to see a show, that play is assured of success. In Melbourne or Sydney, unless people will go twice or three times, the play makes only a moderate hit. My contention is that the wireless has made playgoers so comfortable and contented that they are turning down the second and third visits to the theatre."

If that is so, it is serious. The greater improvement in radio programmes, the more inducement for people to stick to their homes and let plays slide.

For myself, I think the phase will pass. The cinema ones threatened to ruin the theatre, but it weathered the storm. It will weather this radio gale in the same fashion.

UNOFFICIALLY it has come to my knowledge that a competition calling for One Act plays, specially suited for broadcasting, is going to be held shortly.

Ambitious playwrights who enter for this contest will have to glean a great deal they have absorbed from the works of great critics like the late William Archer. They can no longer rely on the by-play of actors. William can no longer "smother to the flames, and turn slowly, while with a look of ineffable disdain he surveys his work."

Looks of ineffable disdain will not stand an air journey. They curl up and die en route. An entirely new technique must be born to carry radio drama. Up till now explanations and stage directions have been necessary. There will, in the new type of play, become as unnecessary and instructive as "titles" will be in the moving picture of the future. Competitors will have to realize that every sentence in the dialogue must carry a visual, as well as an aural, message. When William goes to the mantelpiece, the dialogue need not actually mention his change of position, but the "look of ineffable disdain" must certainly be implicit in the next words he utters. It is a more difficult medium than visual drama, but it will make for tremendous economy. It will be drama with no frills.

A COMPETITION FOR PUBLIC SPEAKERS.

The managers of broadcasting stations in their efforts to provide diversified services for their listeners

MR. RAIMUND PECHOTSCH, the celebrated violinist who is entertaining the listeners-in at 2BL Broadcasters, with his marvellous violin playing.

He established himself in London, for many years appearing at the principal concerts and playing concertos in Sir Dan Godfrey's Symphony Orchestra at Rournemouth, England, on many occasions. Mr. Pechotsch's violin compositions are well known especially his "Cradle Song" and "Hungarian Rhapsody."

At 2BL he recently played "Paganini's Moise" on one string only; this is the solo which made Paganini famous. The story is told about Paganini that one night after his concert he drove to his hotel in a cab, and when he landed the exact fare, the driver was indignant and told him, "I know who you are, you are the celebrated Paganini; you play on one string and make your thousands and yet you only pay me this." "True," replied Paganini; "well, if you will drive me on one wheel, I'll pay you what you ask."

Mr. Pechotsch was one of the Principal Professors at the Guildhall School of Music, London.

SHORTHAND COMPETITION:

The directors of Studio 110 were delighted with the result of the recent shorthand competition, and were glad of the opportunity of meeting several of the competitors, who were a splendid example of the up-to-date educational methods of our schools and the business colleges of Melbourne. Naturally, they could not all get the first prize, but the shorthand tests submitted for adjudication were of such all-round excellence that the papers of the successful competitors were a perfect example of what an examination result should be, and their success was well merited.

N.S.W. v. QUEENSLAND: 2FC will describe this football match on Wednesday, 29th June.

CYRIL MONK is arranging a students' recital from 2FC studio on Monday afternoon, 4th July.

ROYAL SYDNEY APOLLO CLUB will be heard in their next programme, through 2FC, from Beale's Concert Salon, on Monday, 11th July.

DR. HAIGH's recital from St. Andrew's Cathedral will be given on Sunday, 10th July. This brilliant organist has already given much pleasure to 2FC listeners.

JULES VAN DER KLEI, the noted Belgian cellist, will be heard from station 2FC on Sunday night, 3rd July, in association with Raymond Ellis, who will include in his programme works with 'cello obligato.

ON WEDNESDAY, 6th July, in response to the many requests for a repetition of the concert which was broadcast by this station on 10th June, by the famous Cheer Girls, their entire show will be repeated.

ANOTHER MEXICAN NIGHT: Madame Consuelo de Aldag, in response to numerous requests, will give another lecture-recital on Mexican customs and music, from 2FC studio, on Sunday, 3rd July. Miss Annie Payne will give vocal illustrations.

A REAL BRAW SCOTCH NIGHT will be heard through 2FC from the Rockdale Society's concert to be held in Rockdale Town Hall on Saturday, 2nd July. The artists include Miss Peggy Dunbar, Miss Mabel Batchelor, Charles Lawrence, Alfred Cunningham, and others.

ORPHAN'S WAIL: The next Wail will be held at Warringah Hall on Monday, 4th July. As this is American Independence Day, Madame Evelyn Grieg and Madame Vera Tasma have collaborated in an American programme of typical music, including negro spirituals, folk songs, etc., which will be presented from 2FC studio.

ALFRED O'SHEA, Australia's foremost tenor, will appear next at 2FC studio, on Friday, 1st July.

CHARLES RENTON, the popular comedian from "Sunny," has been booked for a series of engagements with 2FC, commencing 6th July.

W. F. KAY, whose stage reminiscences are of such interest, will speak on "Behind the Scenes," on Wednesday, 6th July.

DR. HENRY, that much travelled and very interesting person, will give from 2FC studio, during one of his short stays in Sydney, a vivid description of "The Streets of Japan," on Friday, 8th July.

FRANK HURLEY will give the result of his third solo competition, and continue his exciting adventure series, on Wednesday, 29th, from 2FC. He will tell of the Mawson Expedition on 29th June.

2YA, WELLINGTON is due to commence operations on their 5 kilowatt power on Saturday, 9th July. A message of greeting will be sent from 2FC, and if the reception is satisfactory, a relay will be given between 7.30 and 8 (9 and 9.30 New Zealand time).

MR. GERALD WALENN, professor of the violin of the Conservatorium of Music, Sydney, has been booked for a series of engagements at 2BL on the following dates: Tuesday, 5th July; Tuesday, 12th July; Tuesday, 19th July; and Sunday, 24th July; Tuesday, 2nd August; and Sunday, 7th August.

RAYMOND ELLIS returns to Melbourne at the beginning of July, to fulfil engagements there, but he has still to make four appearances at 2FC before his departure. These are set down for 28th June, 3rd July, 12th July, 19th and 25th July. An opportunity will be taken by Mr. Ellis to present a Yiddish night, a popular comic opera night, an operatic night and a night devoted to old English songs. His farewell appearance will constitute a request night.

It's All in the Air

Coming Features in the Broadcasting Programs

SYDNEY MADRIGAL SOCIETY will be heard through 2FC on Thursday, 14th July, from Pacing's Concert Hall. There is no doubt, choral work is one of the popular items on the air—and by "popular" we mean it is acceptable to high brow and low brow alike.

NEW ARTISTS: Some more 3LO artists to be heard from 2FC include J. Alexander Brown from Melbourne, and the English Futurists, who have just completed a long season with the southern station. Some well-known artists are included in this combination, such as Cyril Northcote and G. W. Diamond.

ORGAN RECITALS: Permission has been granted by the Sydney City Council for 2FC to present a series of Monday midday recitals given by the city organist, Mr. Ernest Truman. These will commence on July 11, at the conclusion of the present series being presented by Dr. Charles Jarman, from Christ Church S. Lawrence.

NOVEL BOOK COMPETITION: 2FC has hit upon rather a happy idea in their book competitions. The answerer, between items, will find a favorable opportunity of reading a paragraph or two from a well-known book—fiction, literature or poetry—and a copy of the book will be given to the listener whose correct solution is upped first. Quite a number of well-known volumes will be awarded in this way. The competition starts on Monday night, 4th July.

A BRILLIANT FLAUTIST: Mr. Stanley Baines, the well-known Melbourne flautist, has been engaged by Studio 3LO to broadcast a series of Sunday recitals. Mr. Baines is too well known in musical circles to need much introduction in these papers—suffice it to say that he commenced his studies at the age of seven, made a very successful first appearance at the age of eleven and has been before the public as a professional player since he was fourteen. During the bulk of Toti Del Monte's concert tour of Australia and New Zealand, Mr. Baines was associated with her as solo player and obligatoist, and his artistic playing did much to enhance the success of the diva's tour.

ADELAIDE MARKET REPORTS: The market reports are to receive greater consideration at 3CL. In the near future a wealth of information hitherto unobtainable will be heard from the station. Particular attention will be paid to the broadcasting time of this information. Country listeners are invited by Central Broadcasters, Ltd., to write and give their ideas as to the most convenient times for the reports to be given.

MERYL HOLLIDAY: A contralto whose pleasing voice has been heard regularly through 2FC has been chosen as one of Fortune's favorites. She is the happy recipient of a Melba Scholarship, which carries twelve months at the Melbourne Conservatorium, entirely free tuition. Good luck to Miss Holliday, who goes to Melbourne with many pleasant recollections of her work in Sydney, not the least of which is her association with station 2FC.

KEITH DESMOND: Appearing in the programmes again at 3LO, Melbourne, is Mr. Keith Desmond, who, by the bye, must not be confused with Dismal Desmond of "The Futurists." Keith is equally at home in light and low comedy and drama. His rendition of "The Seven Ages of Man" stands out as a great dramatic triumph. In fact, all of his efforts are stamped with a certain distinctive individuality, and are greatly enjoyed by listeners.

RADIO REVELS: Laurence Halbert and his Revelers will trip light-heartedly through the programme at studio 2FC on Saturday, 16th July. Listeners are always asking for something new, and the "Radio Revels" is indisputable evidence of Mr. Halbert's desire to "fill this long-felt want." The artists include Wally Baynes, Gwladys Finister, Peggy Peat, Shirley Cooke, Percival Spouse. Perhaps Mr. Halbert may be induced to sing, "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise."

BRITISH OFFICIAL NEWS SERVICE: The large English Post Office radio station at Rugby transmits news daily, and although great difficulty is experienced in receiving Rugby in South Australia, it is the intention of 3CL to let South Australian listeners have this news service twice daily. Experiments now in hand have shown that it is possible, and an announcement is expected at an early date.

BY ARRANGEMENT with Mr. E. J. Gravesbrook, station 2FC has been able to arrange for the appearance of Mr. Alexander Watson, the famous elocutionist, on Friday night, 24th June, at the studios. Mr. Watson has agreed to give a fifteen-minute talk on "Elocution and Public Speaking" in answer to a special request from a number of educational institutions.

RAILWAYS NIGHT: Tuesday, 5th, will be devoted to an evening in the Studio with the musical side of our Railway Service, and the Railways Institute Band, Musical Society and Dramatic Society will help us to help ourselves to some very fine entertainment. There will be very few sleepers among those that listen-in, and the evening is bound to be a signal success.

HISTORICAL DIAMONDS: These must be very few people in the world who have not been fascinated by the diamond. On Monday, the fourth, Mr. H. E. F. Lampe will commence a series of four weekly lectures on Historical Diamonds, tracing the tragic and eventful story of the "Orloff," the "Koh-I-Noor," the "Collinian," and other famous stones. Models of some of these may be seen in our own Museum and would be well worth inspection by those who intend afterwards to listen-in to Mr. Lampe.

"RUDDIGORE": Lovers of the delightful scores of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas (and who is not) will welcome the fact that Mr. James Hay—so long associated with their production—is to speak from Studio 3LO on the subject of the "Plots" of the various operas, giving special attention to the mystery surrounding the opera "Ruddigore," which, although on its production 30 years ago in London, enjoyed a measure of popularity, and played for 370 nights, was suddenly withdrawn without any explanation being given to the surprised public. Various conjectures were put forward—it was declared in political circles that the subject of the opera was causing strained relations between Britain and France—but no explanation was forthcoming. Now, Mr. Hay, who has been delving into the mystery, has gone through reams of old books and papers, and will attempt to unravel it during his interesting talk on "Ruddigore" at 3LO, Melbourne.

"PERCY"—"THE SANDMAN'S" OFFSIDER: Some people are very modest, they simply abhor the limelight. Such a person is "Percy" of 4QG bedtime story fame. Numerous children have written to the Sandman requesting particulars of "Percy," but Sandy respects the wishes of "Percy," who is not desirous of having his identity disclosed and reluctantly refrains from giving the children the information desired. Even numerous grown-ups enquire who "Percy" is, which suits much for Sandy's ventriloquial powers. It is to be hoped that no children, and at least few adults, will discover the identity of "Percy," which the above paragraph clumsily attempts to hide, because for the youngsters at least a good deal of interest would be lost if the real identity were known. The Sandman and "Percy" provide an immense amount of fun for all ages.

MRS. M. CALLAWAY MAHOOD ON COLOR: The very practical and interesting series of talks by 3LO, Melbourne's, art lecturer, Mrs. M. Callaway Mahood, are now dealing with "The Study and Use of Color." Mrs. Mahood is a most clear and delightful speaker, and her talks bring her many letters from listeners anxious to avail themselves of her very practical help in questions of artistic decoration. Her notes on the meaning and production of color have brought this fascinating subject right down to the hearths and homes of many who before had very little inkling of it.

Jack Win, of Win and Windie, the versatile entertainer, appearing at Studio 2FC.

Charles Reiton, comedizing in "Sunny," who has been booked for a series of engagements at 2FC.

FLUTE SONATA BY KUBLAN: Mr. C. Richard Chugg, whose flute-playing is so greatly enjoyed by listeners to 3LO, Melbourne, is to broadcast one of the celebrated Kublan Sonatas, Opus 83, No. 1, on Friday, 1st July, and will do Opus 110 by the same author the following week. At a later date he hopes to render certain Quintettes of the same composer for flute, violin, 2 violas and cello. It will be remembered that about six months ago the Melbourne Flute Quartet played Kublan's famous quartette for 4 flutes with very great success.

Kublan (pronounced Coolow) is known as the "Beethoven of the flute." He flourished at the same period as Beethoven, of whom he was a warm friend. One of the greatest losses music has sustained was the destruction by fire of his collection of unpublished flute compositions. The Opus 83 No. 1 Sonata opens with a florid allegro, followed by a very beautiful Swedish theme, and concludes in a lively Rondo in ancient dancing time. Kublan's music is always most delightfully refreshing to listen to, and Mr. Chugg interprets it in a way which has won for 3LO, Melbourne, many compliments from flute lovers.

JEAN GILLESPIE: Early in July the popular young soprano, Miss Jean Gillespie, will make her first appearance before the microphone at 3LO, Melbourne. She has been engaged to appear at first in a series of midday sessions, and having a delightful voice of great range, and an extensive repertoire will be sure to please listeners-in.

NEW ARTISTS AT 2FC: Alison Dale, soprano, who will sing on 11th July. Edna Sinnott, soubrette, who has done good work with Billy Maloney's Revue, who appears on Tuesday, 12th July. Joyce Frey, the blind student, who studies under Gordon Lavers, and who has gained her L.A.E., will give violin solos on Wednesday, 12th July. Lorraine Jarman, soprano, will sing from the studio on 12th July.

"INDEPENDENCE DAY": Monday, 4th, being Independence Day, we are promised great doings at Studio 3LO—attractive programmes are being arranged for each session, and items illustrative of the Day will have pride of place. On this day, also, a particularly interesting series of talks to children by Miss A. M. Sheppard will commence entitled "Myths and Facts of the Commonwealth," from which listeners will learn that even the most everyday ordinary objects are surrounded with mystery, magic and legend, as old as the hills. For instance, how many people know that the homely pussy cat was once (and is now in some parts of the world) a sacred animal?

"BACH'S MASS IN B MINOR": A notable event in the musical programme broadcasted from Studio 3LO, on Wednesday, July 6th, will be the performance of Bach's Mass in B Minor, quite the most ambitious musical work broadcasted in Australia to date. Two very successful performances have already been given in Melbourne, and now it has been made possible for listeners in remote districts to hear this inspiring work. As in the first performance of the mass, the Postal Institute Choir of 180 voices will undertake the choral selections, and both choir and orchestra will render able assistance to the gifted soloists, under the capable baton of the conductor, Mr. George English.

"LOST HEARTS": "Lost Hearts," the delightful fairy playlet which is due for production at Studio 3LO on June 25th, by the pupils of Miss Yetty Landau, is a most fascinating trifle, in which the performers are all under the age of twelve years. The pianist is Miss Rosa Rosen, A.L.C.M., who will accompany the children, the Fairy Queen and Fairy Blue Bell, whilst they tell their young listeners delightful stories of the "Fairyland of Dreams" and of the "Wedding in Fairyland." Little Norma Davidson, who, in spite of her youthful years, has a great many theatrical successes to her credit, is to take the principal part, and the play takes place in that wonderful period of "Once Upon a Time."

"THE SPARKLERS": Rus Garing and his scintillating band will make their second appearance at studio 2FC, on Saturday, 9th July. The artists include Wifrid Thomas, Miss Peggy Dunbar, Miss Maids Jones, Ernest Archer, Charles Lawrence and Brunton Gibb. Mr. Garing has been asked to repeat his burlesque on the 2FC racing commissioner, which was so screamingly funny.

MORE RADIO PLAYS: Following the policy of broadcasting only "high class" items, the Theosophical Station, 2GB, has arranged for Mr. Walter Hunt, the examiner in elocution at the Conservatorium of Music, to broadcast a series of radio plays. Mr. Hunt is a very fine elocutionist. He informed the Royal Commission on Wireless recently that he had had a difference of opinion with the management of another Sydney Station (2FC), because when connected with that station he wished to broadcast three-act plays, whereas 2FC considered the listening public preferred one-act plays lasting only 15 or 20 minutes. As a matter of fact the same applies to 2GB, and the plays now being produced are of the one-act order. Mr. Hunt has trained a number of bright young dramatic artists (including Miss Doreen Bennett), who assist with his new series of plays.

APPRECIATION: When one is an artist, it is always pleasing to get letters of appreciation from listeners—but when words of congratulation travel 2500 miles, there is special interest attached to the message. During this week, Mr. Joe Brennan—a great favorite with all listeners—received a letter from a naval officer stationed at Port Moresby, Papua, who wrote asking if he could get a copy of the humorous sketch, "The Poller Station," posted to him. The officer wrote: "Reception was perfect with my 8-valve Neutrodyne, although we are approximately 2500 miles away, and we listened attentively to your sketch. We were so amused with it, that I am writing to ask you if you will let me know where it can be procured. We hear a good lot of you through 3LO, and must say that the radio makes a great difference to life aboard."

PRIME MINISTER MAY BE HEARD OVER 5CL: The Prime Minister (Hon. S. M. Bruce) will be visiting Adelaide shortly for the purpose of delivering the Joseph Fisher lecture at the Adelaide University. 5CL are making every endeavour to obtain permission to broadcast what will surely be a most interesting and instructive lecture. A further announcement will be made later.

An Extraordinary One Valve Receiver

We make no apology for repeating this excellent article on perhaps the most popular one valve receiver ever described in this country. Many readers have made applications for the back number in which this article appeared, but so great was the demand that no copies were left.

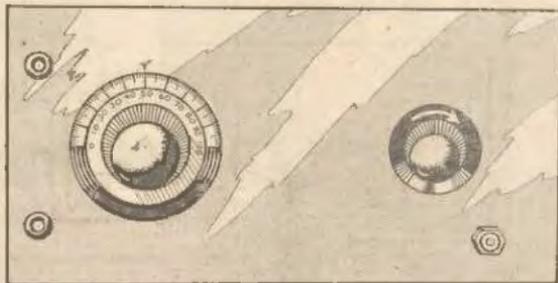

Now that the long winter nights are here this receiver will commend itself to those who desire to hear the interstate broadcasting stations at good earphone strength. The Extraordinary is simple to construct, cheap to maintain and will provide much interest to those who build it.

An explicit diagram showing the wiring.

Looking down on the back of the receiver.

Here's the view of the panel! Drill yours accordingly.

ONE may be pardoned by stating that the most popular single valve receiver published in "Wireless Weekly" was the Marnikay. Certainly it lived up to its reputation as a selective distance getter, and to this day we receive reports of its excellence. The one-valve illustrated here will no doubt supersede the Marnikay, as it has all the good qualities of the Marnikay, without the bulkiness of filament control.

The main features of this receiver are ease of operation, maximum strength of broadcasting, and ability to bring in the distant stations. When tested at Dulwich Hill, 31.0 and 4QG were nicely heard without any background of 3RL or 2FC. Both local stations could be heard nicely on the loud speaker, although you must not be disappointed if your speaker won't answer too well, as the valve used was not of the ordinary run. Nevertheless remarkable volume for one valve is attained, and the clarity of reception is admirable. Another good feature of this little receiver is the cheapness of the parts. No expensive honeycomb coils and coil mounts to buy, simply a small piece of cardboard tubing and a few pennies worth of wire instead.

And it is very easy to construct. Start off with the winding of the coils. At a distance of 2 1/2 inch from one end, drill two small holes, through which thread one end of your 24 gauge wire, making it secure.

Wind on 20 turns of wire, finishing off in a manner similar to the start. Leave a space of quarter of an inch, and wind in the same direction 50 turns of wire, securing at the beginning and end as before. The finished coil should resemble that one seen in the back of panel view.

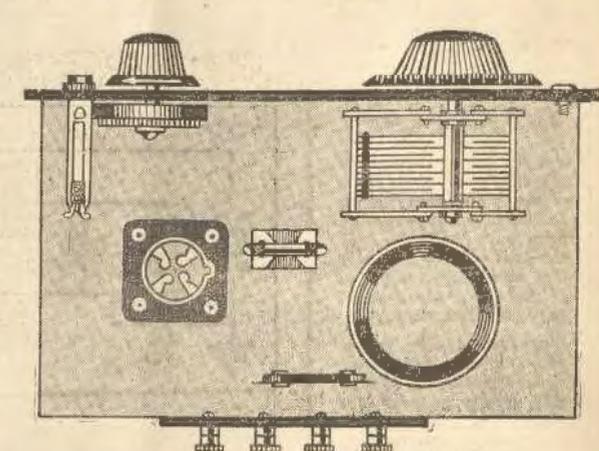

Leave this coil on the one side and drill your panel. A panel layout is not given, as we feel sure that the front view will suffice in this direction. The variable condenser and rheostat are on the same level, midway up the panel and spaced apart 5 inches. The rheostat is 3½ inches from the edge of the panel. Jack and Ecs are easily provided for.

Drill your panel and mount your components, then temporarily fix the panel to the baseboard and plot positions for your valve socket and coil. The coil should be stood on end immediately behind the condenser, the socket just behind the rheostat.

Two small brackets will hold the coil in position; or cut a piece of ½ in. wood, say 1 in. wide, and with a penknife carve off the square corners so that it fits just snugly inside the bottom of the coil former.

Screw this carved piece of wood to your baseboard, and fit your tube over it, screwing through your tube to make things firm.

You are now ready to wire up. Follow closely the back of panel wiring diagram and the circuit, and this little job will be easily mastered. The back of panel view will prove of value to you in any doubtful connection.

Clear view showing layout of parts.

Test out by connecting your batteries, aerial and earth, and plug in your 'phones. Don't put too much

"B" Battery on your valve for a start. Start with 22 or 25 volts, and tune in your station. If poor results accrue increase your "B" Battery, step by step, until best results are obtained. Perhaps even then you may find difficulty. If so, reverse the connections of your 50 turn portion of your inductance. This will fix it. The substitution of a smaller fixed condenser for the 001 may prove of value.

This little receiver will astonish you, but bear in mind, don't depart from the size of variable condenser or number of turns quoted here for the inductance. If you do, you might be disappointed. And if you add a stage of audio, separate "B" batteries will be required. Adding a stage of radio is not practicable.

The circuit. The plate is fed back to the aerial.

5 Valve RCA Receiver

RCA Receiver

MODEL 20

EVERYWHERE the Radio Corporation of America is recognised as the world's greatest radio organisation. It was RCA who refined and perfected the radio valve, made practical the super-heterodyne circuit, and pioneered the uni-control and lighting-socket-operated receiver. It was RCA who first dispensed with aerials, and did away with batteries.

In their Model 20 RCA have succeeded in perfecting a set, 20 times as selective as the average antenna set on the market. They have perfected a set famous for its ability to reproduce musical notes undistorted at full volume, and noted for its reception range. RCA Model 20 gives practically 7-valve performance, though it uses only five valves.

One dial control, too! For far-off stations there are two minor controls for finer tuning, but for ordinary purposes listening-in is regulated by one dial.

In its beautiful two-tone Walnut Cabinet truly this RCA Model 20 offers the greatest value in Radio. Let us demonstrate it, or we will gladly send you our booklet, "Bigger Value in Radio," which describes Model 20 and other RCA receivers.

A Great Film

I mentioned to my neighbor yesterday that Burgess Batteries were used in "For the Term of His Natural Life." He looked surprised and asked me if a Burgess would really last as long as that!

With deep pity I explained that I was referring to the magnificent Australian film founded on Marcus Clarke's famous novel of early convict days. Whereupon he made matters worse by remarking glumly:

"These Burgess Batteries are like a small boy at a street fight or a fire. They push their way into everything. Nothing big ever happens anywhere in the world that you don't find a blooming Burgess Battery in the middle of it."

How did an extremely modern and up-to-the-minute radio battery get into a film picture describing convicts? Here is the yarn:

One of the biggest scenes in "For the Term of His Natural Life" is the great riot outside the old goal in which 500 prisoners, warders and redcoats fight furiously over a square mile. The task of directing such a scene was too much, even for Norman Dawn, the producer. Once again the good old Burgess Battery saved the day!

Microphone, Burgess Batteries and Loud Speakers, —the latter strung up on gum trees around the vast arena,—enabled Mr. Dawn to dominate and direct every phase of an historic scene. The uncanny effect of the producer's voice roaring forth from every quarter was one of the strangest features in the wild riot.

The Burgess radio batteries supplied the power which sent out Mr. Dawn's mild tones in a crescendo of sound. Residents on the banks of the Parramatta, where this spectacular scene was filmed, must have rubbed their eyes in sheer amazement at the square mile of hate with its resounding ring of voices!

What a pity Marcus Clarke could not step out of the shades of the past, in which wireless was unknown and the only Loud Speakers were uniforms and carried rifles!

The Igranic Patent Twin Winding Frame Aerial

Is the outcome of considerable research and all who have used it appreciate its remarkable efficiency.

It is designed particularly for use with receivers built from the Igranic Supersonic-Heterodyne Outfit, but can be used with practically All Receivers capable of operating with a frame aerial.

The windings are separate and are connected to four terminals on the base, so that windings can be connected in various ways to cover different wave length ranges. It should be remembered that the advantages of counter-winding are not obtained when the windings are connected in series—it then operates as a simple frame aerial.

The Igranic Frame Aerial is collapsible, and folds into a very small space; it can be erected easily and quickly, and is ideal for portable use.

This New Frame Aerial completely eliminates interference, set up by stations using wave lengths in or near the band to which the intermediate frequency amplifier is responsive.

QUERIES

Will readers kindly note that all technical queries are answered through the columns of Wireless Weekly. There is no occasion to send either stamps or addressed envelopes. The only condition is that the number of questions be limited to four. We unfortunately cannot deal with technical queries by telephone or by personal callers.

MAD (BOTANY).—The Hackensay Two, but don't combine your present valves. Get another Coax. The condensers are OK.

A.W. (MILDURA).—Paper posted for Solodyne. Short wave receiver described in May issue of "Radio," also one will be described in July issue of "Radio." Slip the extra coil inside the aerial coil of the Browning Drake and connect aerial to one end and earth to the other. Aerial or earth, of course, doesn't go elsewhere now.

H.W. (MATTLAND).—Write to Metropolitan Elec. Co. 27 King Street, asking for manufacturing plate.

F.H. (CULGIORRA).—No, forget the power tube.

A.E. (HARVEY, W.A.).—Reduce the size of the reaction coil and watch adjustment of rheostat for detector.

G.A. (UNYDON).—The Hair Two of "W.W." is R.F.C.

J.T.W. (BURIMA).—You should certainly be able to build the Indolone. Take your time about it. Any advertiser in "W.W." will supply you with the parts.

30.128 (ORANGE).—See "Radio" for May or June, 1927. I don't know the station you build.

E.W.E. (GLENBROUGH).—Build the Solodyne.

E.A. (GLOUCESTER).—Certainly some kind lighting plant or generator.

A.C. (JACARIA CR.).—The battery in question would be of no use to you unless you had some facilities for charging from the electric light. Why not invest in a Amplifier-Cathometer? They are easily rechargeable for a small cost.

M.R. (BALMAIN).—It would be useless for me to describe both articles; you suggest visiting the materials for their construction are available locally. When they are available you will see full particulars in "W.W."

Thank fair, isn't it? If you want three R.F. stages you had better get on to a super heterodyne. I know of no successful method of building three R.F. stages consistently excepting the above set. Thanks for the Super Regenerative Circuit. I have known it for quite a time, but certainly wouldn't advise it. Yet 20 valves may be used with an accumulator of the correct voltage.

HOBB. (MULLALEY).—You would require a generator to couple with the Cooper engine. Write to the agents for the engine. They will advise you best.

R.P. (N. ILUKA).—The issue of "Radio" included was that of the new monthly which first appeared in May. Sorry we have no back issues, but try your newspaper. This will solve all your problems of short waves. Don't know V.D.L. or the other station. See THE A.W.A. Radio Guide. Zip time is very similar to ours.

A.S.T. (GUILDFORD).—The circuit you envelope is really excellent and should bring in inter-State stations. Perhaps it needs re-winding. See your dealer.

J.D.H. (THEODORE, Q.1).—A properly built Indolone is a wonderful set. All three slides read the same. The valves you mention are quite suitable. See "Radio" for June for more particulars of the Neutrodyne.

A.E.T. (AUBURN)—If Tantalum were available in Australia a chemical rectifier for charging an A battery would be practicable. As it is not, the only solution is to obtain a battery charger.

ELODYNE (INVERELL)—Tumbler switch OK. The circuit in doubt is as follows:—Run a bender from the wire to earth connection of screen 1, thence to E and E of screen 2, etc. Refer to back of panel wiring diagram. Don't forget to join the common S. m.f.d. condenser connection to the E negative. This is omitted from the diagram.

E.W.S. (CANTERBURY)—Eliminate the Wave Trap by taking aerial direct to bottom switch arm.

J.F. (BROOKVALE, MR. MANLY)—See copy of "W.W." of May 27th for further development on the Browning Drake. All of "Wireless Weekly" receivers are tested on a 65ft. aerial.

K.O. (ANNANDALE)—The Filter Circuit One Valve will tune approximately from 300 to 600 metres. It is not advisable to add an extra stage of audio in this receiver.

J.R. (QUEANBEYAN)—Thanks very much for your nice article about the diagram. Believe me, it is well worth the trouble that you have given.

H.A.W. (OHANONG)—(1) Follow carefully the Back Panel Wiring Diagram and Circuit Diagram of the Solodyne.

(2) Benjamin models are very satisfactory.

(3) There is no need of six valves with the Solodyne. Five is quite sufficient to gain the excellent results in tone for you.

(4) Approximate wavelength tuning is 200 to 600 m.

(5) Try any advertiser in "W.W."

G.S. (GLYNN)—Add more turns to the secondary of each coil. Lessen the primary windings. Copy of "Radio," Jan. 15th, is available.

J.R.M. (HARFIELD)—Follow carefully the Back Panel and Circuit Diagram of Solodyne. Unfortunately the wire linking the 3 to 6 by-pass condenser to B was left out of H.O.P. diagram. Put this in.

It would be better if you may take the dash lamp out of circuit later on.

C.M.F. (BELLINGHAM LIVERY)—The best advice we can offer you is to use "W.W." of 28th January. It is not of the aerial of more than 70ft. overall length.

P.G. (PARRAMATTA)—The Colodley receiver is not working at its best on one valve, as a proper regenerative effect cannot be obtained. We suggest you add a stage of audio. See back copies of "W.W." and you will be more than surprised at the volume.

D.M. (TEICHHARDT)—You would do better with a straight cut Neutrodyne. The expense is not very much more than you intend to lay out.

K.G. (CONCORD)—Do not use a condenser whose capacity is less than 0.0025.

A.P. (MANLY BRIS.)—If you are situated anywhere close to 440, that station with its high power, would make it hard to receive Sydney stations without the "background" of 440. A 440 Aerial could not help you very much, although a good one is worth a trial.

R.H. (REDRIBB)—That your set for a house wire or fanily transformer. After your Grid leak is connected to the Grid Condenser By-pass Condensers should not be necessary. If you want to by-pass your batteries place 1 M.F. Condenser across "B" battery.

D.C. (KENTHURST)—See "W.W." of Nov. 5th for Four Valve Marcon Receiver. This is really a Belmont with size of Radio added.

A.R.B. (BURWOOD)—Perhaps the condensers, although rated the same value, may differ in operation. If this is not so you still probably did the coils or construction of each receiver differ slightly.

R.O.W. (PARRAMATTA)—As this receiver is not the easiest thing in the world to balance, we suggest that you stick to it, varying coils and battery voltage, etc. See copy of "W.W." of 11th Feb. for winding of B battery.

W.M. (GYMPIE)—As winding "W.W." Nov. 5th. This circuit will meet with all your requirements.

A.K. (CESSNOCK)—Sorry, but we have no record of the station.

D. (SYDNEY)—Glad you are getting good results with the Marvel. Your report will be hard to beat.

"SOUTH" (BARGO)—We have to cater for all classes of Homeborn Programmes are represented by over 40 per cent. of "Wireless Weekly" readers.

(1) Your "B" Batteries have probably run down, or are running down.

(2) Check the connections about the tuning condensers, when tuning, you will certainly get "band chattering." Try shifting the coils.

(3) Yes. Your Det. Valve probably functions better with a lower det. plate voltage. This is very important, as not all valves are made the same. Some require a lower plate voltage than others. Try it for yourself.

H.C.E. (BROOKVALE)—Refer your act to the manufacturers.

G.M. (GRAFTON)—(1) Tune the aerial coil with a .001 condenser, making sure that you decrease the winding of the coil.

(2) This is not exactly a fair question; I value against it, you know. However, it depends what sort of an eight it is. I could certainly recommend the one if you are thinking of either of these sets, as there is not so very much difference, not enough to warrant extra outlay.

J.H.W. (MOREETH)—Let us know your full name and address.

B.O. (ABBOTSFORD)—Sorry we can't help. There have not been enough enquiries to warrant the publication of such a circuit.

T.J.B. (CULGOORA)—It is either a fact that your valves do not function correctly of 55 volts, or that the connection to the coil is broken. If possible, have your battery and valves tested.

G.P. (WAVERTON)—Try three jars in series with 16 cp. carbon lamp in reg. lead.

R.V. (NORTH SYDNEY)—We are sending you a corrected copy of this circuit. Sorry for the delay, as there were no copies available.

W.O. (HUNSTVILLE)—Sorry we have no solution to your problem. Weather does somewhat affect reception, although not to the degree you mention.

D.C. (BANGALOW)—This is rather an unusual occurrence. Probably your acid is weak?

E.W.L. (TARBE)—You have tuned a "harmon" set. This is quite a common occurrence and may be tuned up half the station's wavelength or double it. Sometimes it goes even lower than the wavelength you mention.

G.F. (PARKES)—For your district we should advise you to build the Neutrodyne, appearing in the June issue of "Radio."

J.R. (GLEBE POINT)—See back numbers of "W.W." on how to add a stage of audio. Glad you are getting good results.

NEW LISTENER (MORMAN)—Probably Station 31E situated at Randwick.

M. (MIRRA)—Kindly see the June issue of "Radio." As you stated you have made a serious mistake in adding a potentiometer. From all accounts you have contacted it incorrectly.

H. (SYDNEY)—It is much against the policy of this paper to discuss the matter you want cleared up. Ask your Radio dealer.

X' (NEW PAIR, BRIS.)—You are asking for a lot for a three valve receiver. Although we will not guarantee the results you ask, we recommend the Bioscopic Coil Receiver. Remember the volume will not be as great with this as the others you mention.

P. (BROS. (BRIGHT, VIC.)—Refer to "W.W." for component parts. The coils are manufactured in Sydney. Valves you mention should be quite OK. We advise the use of 30 volts, or more, for the Solodyne.

BIGGINER (DINGOG)—(1) (Approx.) A little more.

(2) 3 to 4 months.

(3) In the long run; yes.

(4) Yes.

A. (LARGONA)—Please send us your full name and address.

W.F.M.—I think not, but write and ask this query to A.G.C.

R.D. (ASHFIELD)—Sorry, but we have no ropes left. The only way to receive the secondary instructions would be to see a friend who has a file of "W.W."

R.B. (NEWTOWN)—If you carefully follow the instructions given, you will have no difficulty in either coil construction or Battery connection.

Coil windings, on 16 Prt. 55 Sec and 25 Reaction.

S.S. (TOOWONG, BRIS.)—The Circuit Coil Kit has an Aerial Coil that is "Auto Coupled," that is, 2 tapings are taken off the secondary. Either one of these A's represent the Aerial. The Earth connection is taken from the E marking on the same Coil. As this set is remarkably selective, no trouble should be encountered in cutting out 480.

L.D. (GOOLBORO)—If you wish to go farther ahead with the Hamil crystal set, it would be just as well to write to Sydney for your former. However, being that you have attained such wonderful results with the other set you mention, I would certainly stick to it, as although the Hamil is a wonderful receiver, we could not guarantee the results you got with the first-mentioned set.

G.G. (SILKSTONE)—30 volts will be required to operate the amplifier stage satisfactorily. No extra "A" battery is required. See back copies of "W.W." of "How to Add a Stage of Audio."

G.M. (GRAFTON)—The instructions you require to Super-Heterodyne are not available. See "W.W." of 17/4/27 for instructions on frame Aerial. Your other query was answered in a previous issue.

H.H.L. (THIRROLD)—Sorry, we can't oblige.

M.D. (ST. PETERS)—Hurry, send us such data of "W.W."

F.S.P. (ASHFIELD)—The condensers you mention are 5000 pf. Use 5000 for tuning. Do not forget that by adding a condenser of higher value, than stated, the winding of the coil to be tuned must be loosened, and vice-versa.

R.S.H. (NYMAGEE)—Write any "Component" question to "Wireless Weekly."

QUESTIONS PAGE

J.M.D. (KIRAMA)—I am sorry I can't help in this matter.

A.L.B. (ALBERTON)—Q: What is meaning of "harmonic"?

A: Difficult to control.

Q: What is disadvantage of long aerial in country?

A: None, provided under 150 feet.

Q: Will outfit 20 feet of 120 aerial affect volume?

A: No.

Q: How long will tubes last if used 20 hours per week?

A: Reputed life of valves, 1000 hours.

A.J.D. (PIPPY DOCK)—Where is I m.f.d. condenser in improved Browning Drake receiver, "W.W." of 25 7 27?

A: 450.

A: Signal is Direct Pick Up?

A: Signal picked up by wiring of set near from aerial obviously interfering with reception.

M. (MAMIE (EASTWOOD))—Write to Neutrodyne.

H.A.C. (MELBORNE, Q.)—Solodyne not commercially manufactured yet.

J.B. (WINDTIN, Q.)—Reverso primary connections of Transformers, 10 sets to Plate.

R.G.D. (SARAHANDERA)—20 turn H.C.C. supply to make aerial coil connected to aerial and earth, and A, and B disconnected from aerial coil.

R.A.H. (LAKEMBA)—Try for yourself.
