THE DIRECTORY OF RELIGIOUS BROADCASTING

THE NEW AMERICAN FAMINE

It's coming upon our land slowly
... sin by sin.

We stand on the verge of a spiritual desert—thirsty, hungry, dying.

Back to the Bible is fighting the famine.

We're turning people back to the Book they've buried.

And we're helping them experience
new hope ... joy ... life.

YOU can fight the famine ...
turn Back to the Bible today.

NRB MEDIA EXPO

NATIONAL RELIGIOUS BROADCASTERS CONVENTION & EXPOSITION
JANUARY 29 - 31, 1990, WASHINGTON, D.C.

Introduction

For years The Directory of Religious Broadcasting has been the authoritative source of information about religious radio and television stations, program producers and the various agencies and auxiliary services connected with religious broadcasting.

This 1989 edition represents an exhaustive updating of all the data published in past years, including the latest personnel changes and address corrections, and it contains many new listings of stations and producers, making it the most comprehensive directory of its kind.

Produced by the staff of National Religious Broadcasters, this directory fills a variety of needs within the industry. It includes:

- A compilation of radio, television and cable television stations with either a full or partial format of religious programming.
- A list of producers of religious radio and television programs, along with a listing of individual programs.
- Separate sections for international broadcasting, equipment and technical services, consultants, advertising agencies, fund raising and donor management, print and music publishers, satellite program services and other services related to religious broadcasting.

- Indexes of radio call letters, TV station call letters, key people in radio and TV and radio and TV programs.

To compile this information, the staff of National Religious Broadcasters mailed questionnaires to every station and organization known to be involved in religious broadcasting, asking that addresses and telephone numbers be verified and requesting detailed information on personnel and other data pertinent to that category. Follow-up telephone calls were made where necessary to verify the information. The editors of this directory estimate that 30 percent of the listings this year contain new or updated information.

The result is a fact-filled practical resource book for radio and television executives who want to locate stations, programs or services to fill their needs in religious broadcasting. Advertisements for many of these stations and organizations provide additional information. The staff of National Religious Broadcasters believes this directory will be an invaluable tool for everyone interested in this important and growing field.

Marj Stevens, NRB staff director for marketing services, has served for five years as the managing editor of the annual Directory. A year-long job, the managing editor of the annual Directory directs a staff of persons in research, typesetting, layout and overall administration of the printing phase of production. The 1989 Directory of Religious Broadcasting is the result of the work of many persons, not the least of which is the managing editor, Marj Stevens. (Marj lives in Little Falls, New Jersey, and is a longtime member of First Presbyterian Church, Caldwell, New Jersey.) She is deserving of a heartfelt word of gratitude.

National Religious Broadcasters: United for Excellence

Origins

Ever since the Gospel was first proclaimed over radio, on January 2, 1921, on Pittsburgh's pioneer station KDKA, evangelical program producers have had to struggle for the right to be heard. Although most of the early religious radio programs were paid-time evangelical broadcasts, a move was made by the Federal Council of Churches (now the National Council of Churches) and the giant networks to refuse payment in favor of granting sustaining—or free—time for all religious programs.

In 1943 the National Association of Evangelicals formed a committee to fight for the right of churches and parachurch groups to continue to buy air time. This was the birth of National Religious Broadcasters. In April 1944 a group representing 50 broadcasters met in Columbus, Ohio, to draw up a statement of faith and to begin work on a constitution, bylaws and a code of ethics.

Growth

Since then the organization has grown to comprise about 1,450 religious broadcasters, all of whom subscribe to the original purposes. With headquarters in Morristown, New Jersey, National Religious Broadcasters now engages in far-reaching activities that touch on nearly every facet of religious broadcasting.

Functions/Services

Each February thousands of broadcasters gather in Washington, D.C. for the annual NRB Convention, which draws top name speakers such as Billy Graham, Jack Hayford, Oswald Hoffmann, E. V. Hill, the late Francis Schaeffer, Jerry Falwell, Pat Robertson, James Dobson, and, usually, the President of the United States. The related NRB Media Expo draws hundreds of exhibitors to share the latest in technology and services with the broadcasters, while a full range of workshops provides a means of sharing the knowledge gained by experienced broadcasters.

National Religious Broadcasters maintains a full-time publications department which, besides producing annually the Directory of Religious Broadcasting, publishes a monthly magazine, Religious Broadcasting, that has a circulation of over 10,000 copies. It is the only publication of its kind providing news, information and feature articles to keep its readers abreast of the latest developments in the religious broadcasting field.

Among other services, National Religious Broadcasters maintains a clearinghouse for personnel experienced in broadcasting. For a small fee, persons seeking employment in religious broadcasting may be included in the NRB Employment Registry for up to one year. Members of National Religious Broadcasters can have access to the employment listings without charge, while non-members are charged a fee for the service.

The most recent service offered NRB members is the NRB Comprehensive Benefit Plan which allows members to offer employees, at a far lower cost, extensive medical and life insurance benefits.

As an association, National Religious Broadcasters provides a forum of fellowship and the sharing of information, not only through its annual convention and its publications, but also at regional chapter conventions, usually held each autumn in various parts of the United States. Regional conventions, like the national convention, provide speakers, seminars and workshops for attendees, as well as opportunities for fellowship.

In 1988, NRB's Board of Directors and membership approved the standards of accreditation for the Ethics and Financial Integrity Commission (EFICOM). This new self-regulatory commission is designed to insure the highest possible standards in fund-raising and financial expenditures in religious broadcasting.

Goals

Today National Religious Broadcasters carries on the effort to ensure that two goals are met: (1) that religious broadcasters continue to have access to the radio and television airwaves, and (2) that broadcasters observe a high standard of excellence in their programming to present the Gospel clearly. It does this through an active, dedicated Board of Directors elected from its membership, as well as through a full-time professional staff at its headquarters in New Jersey and through legal representation in Washington, D.C. Bills before Congress and cases before the Federal Communications Commission are under constant surveillance through a relationship with government agencies.

Research

In 1984 National Religious Broadcasters was one of the major sponsors of the "Religion and Television" report prepared by the Annenberg School of Communications at the University of Pennsylvania and by the Gallup Organization of Princeton, New Jersey. That study, which researched viewing habits of Americans who watch religious television, determined that religious broadcasting is not in competition with the local church, as had previously been charged. Instead, the study showed that persons who watch religious television tend to be more involved in and give more financial support to the local church than those who watch little or no religious television.

KEY EVENTS IN RELIGIOUS BROADCASTING 1989

January

* The forty-fifth annual convention of the National Religious Broadcasters convened in Washington, D.C., beginning January 30. "Accountable to God and Man -- 45 Years of Service and Integrity" served as the theme for the convention which concluded on February 3. Among the featured NRB convention speakers were: President Ronald Reagan, Vice President George Bush, Pat Robertson, Jack Hayford, Robert Cook, Billy Graham, D. James Kennedy, Paul Yonggi Cho, and Chuck Swindoll. Named to the NRB Hall of Fame was Charles Stanley. Fifty-six new members became a part of NRB during the convention.

* NRB executive director Ben Armstrong appeared live via satellite on the BBC throughout Great Britain January 12 in response to a BBC television movie, The Vision, which portrayed religious satellite broadcasting as a sinister plot with political overtones. Dr. Armstrong, while defending the right of religious satellite broadcasting, contended that the movie revealed an unfounded paranoia on the part of the producers.

* On January 31, the first meeting of the Ethics and Financial Integrity Commission (EFICOM) was held during the NRB Convention. Appointed as commissioners were Marvin Beckman, David Clark, B. Sam Hart, Howard Jones, John Mendler, Sam Moore, Jose Reyes, Carl Richardson, and chairman-elect Thomas F. Zimmerman.

* Darryl Seibold, NRB member and general manager of KCJH-FM in Stockton, Calif., died in a light plane crash January 15 while returning from a business trip. The 33-year-old Seibold had been with KCJH-FM for nearly ten years and was host of the daily Concepts For Living program. He left a wife and three children.

February

* Jerry Rose, president of WCFC-TV (Channel 38) in Chicago, succeeded Robert Cook as NRB president following the election of officers on February 3 during the national convention in Washington, D.C. Others elected to NRB's Executive Committee were first vice president David Clark, second vice president Robert Ball, secretary Kay Arthur, treasurer Robert Straton, plus members-at-large Al Sanders, Richard Bott Sr., E. Brandt Gustavson, George Sweeting, and Dr. Cook.

* Near-unanimous approval of EFICOM was given by the voting membership of NRB during the national convention in Washington, D.C., on February 3. Three-hundred-twenty-three out of a total 330 votes were cast in favor of EFICOM.

* Former Intercollegiate Religious Broadcasters (IRB) chairman James Owens served as an assistant to the producer for ABC Sports during the Calgary Winter Olympics. Dr. Owens, who has worked on other ABC events such as Monday Night Football and the Indianapolis 500, is a media specialist and associate professor of communications at Asbury College in Wilmore, Ky.

* Far East Broadcasting Company (FEBC) announced plans to increase the broadcast power of its South Korea programming from 50 kw to 100 kw. The change was expected to take place by June and would benefit Christians in the North as well as those in South Korea.

March

* NRB sponsored three workshops and a luncheon at the National Association of Evangelicals (NAE) convention in Orlando, Fla., March 8-10. The third workshop, "Accountability in Religious Broadcasting," drew heavy media coverage, as did the luncheon which featured Jerry Falwell speaking on the topic "Religious Broadcasting Addresses the Issues of '88."

* On March 24, the Executive Committee of NRB recommended that the membership of Jimmy Swaggart Ministries be terminated in light of his confessed moral misconduct, which was deemed "prejudicial to the interests of the Association," as stated in Article I Section 4(b) of the NRB Bylaws.

* Thomas C. Durfey, associate professor of telecommunications at Oral Roberts University and a former NRB staff member, died March 17 while undergoing minor heart surgery. The 52-year-old Durfey was survived by his wife Ellen, who formerly owned radio station KTCR in Wagoner, Okla.

* LeSea Broadcasting dedicated the first full-power, full-time Christian television station on the Hawaiian Islands in downtown Honolulu on March 7.

* Christian psychologist and broadcaster James Dobson, along with two others, resigned from the National Panel on Teen Pregnancy Prevention in protest of the panel's refusal to find ways to teach sexual abstinence to teens.

* NRB's Executive Committee approved 26 organizations for membership status on March 25.

April

* According to a telephone survey conducted by the headquarters office of NRB, James Dobson's Focus on the Family, heard on 744 stations throughout the U.S., is the most-syndicated daily radio program among religious broadcasters. Rounding out the top ten in the survey were, from second through tenth: Hour of Decision, Children's Bible Hour, Revivaltime, Baptist Hour, Focus Weekend, Unshackled!, Radio Bible Class, Moody Presents, and Questions and Answers.

* Pat Robertson returned to the Christian Broadcasting Network after formally suspending his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination on May 17. Dr. Robertson also announced that he had filed for incorporation of a new political action committee.

* David Clark, first vice president of NRB, resigned May 20 as trustee of PTL. He recommended that all of PTL's assets be sold and the ministry lease facilities from the new owners.

* Mel Johnson, host of the daily Action and Young World radio programs, marked his thirty-fifth anniversary in youth broadcasting on May 20.

FILL IT WITH OUR FILMS.

One of the problems that plagues Christian television P.D.'s is the fact that good Christian feature films are in short supply. Well, that plague has been lifted.

For the first time ever, we're offering a selection of our recent motion pictures for broadcast use. Films like THE HIDING PLACE, THE GOSPEL ROAD, TIME TO RUN, FOR PETE'S SAKE, and THE RESTLESS ONES. And documentaries like HIS LAND, CORRIE: BEHIND THE SCENES WITH THE HIDING PLACE, and ISN'T IT GOOD TO KNOW.

You can pick and choose, too. You're not locked into a package plan—you may take one, or two, or twenty.

June

* Clyde W. Taylor, one of NRB's founders in 1943, passed away at the age of 83 at his home in Arnold, Md., on June 3. In Christian circles, Dr. Taylor was known as "Mr. NAE" for his 40-plus years of service to the National Association of Evangelicals and its subsidiary organizations. A one-time missionary to Peru, Dr. Taylor was a former general director of NAE and also contributed to the founding of the World Relief Corporation and National Religious Broadcasters.

* More than an estimated three million dollars in damage was done by fire to the LeSea Broadcasting facility in South Bend, Ind., on June 12. Moving to makeshift quarters at the Christian Center Cathedral of Praise, LeSea's WHME-TV was back on the air seven hours after the blaze. The damaged broadcasting facility was expected to be rebuilt by the end of the year.

* Philippine president Corazon C. Aquino proclaimed the first week of June would annually be recognized as "National Gospel Broadcast Week" in her country. The proclamation coincided with the fortieth anniversary of Far East Broadcasting Company's first station, DZAS, which went on the air in Manila on June 4, 1948.

* Rate proceedings were instituted June 30 in Federal Court with ASCAP by NRB's Music License Committee (NRB/MLC). The action was taken on behalf of radio broadcasters who play a limited amount and selective portions of the ASCAP-controlled music repertory. The action followed nearly five years of negotiations between NRB/MLC and ASCAP, during which the latter refused to allow special licensing for stations who play only a selected amount of ASCAP material.

* Trans World Radio dedicated a 500,000-watt AM transmitter at its facility on the island of Bonaire in the Netherlands Antilles June 22.

Our People.

When we count our blessings at Marsh Broadcasting, our People head the list. We choose to provide an environment that "grows People"—where professionalism is the standard—and where achievement is without compromise of principle. From the Chairman of the Board to the "operator of the board," we are a company committed to a common goal—in Business and in Ministry.

Our Business.

We're "building on a strong foundation"—six powerful, major market stations, an outstanding management team, and invaluable relationships with our friends in Christian ministries and media. With radio as the vehicle that makes "the wheels of our Business turn," it is our stewardship and responsibility to the Business of Radio that provides the platform for our Ministry.

Our Ministry.

Ministry is the true bottom line at Marsh Broadcasting. It's the focus of our People and the basis of our Business. "Unless the Lord builds the house, they labor in vain who build it." We've committed our God-given talents and our resources to the Master Planner, who gives our work both meaning and permanence. If you share that belief, we're co-workers in Ministry—and we should be friends, as well. Call us.

Stress Control Tip: Eat simply, walk briskly, and maintain contact with the Almighty.

Stress control for the whole person. That's the message of the POWER TO COPE program. Through interviews with individuals who share how God has helped them handle stress, the program focuses on the spiritual as well as on the physical aspects related to stress. From alcoholism to zero-balance finances, compelling life stories affirm that, with God, there is POWER TO COPE.

Juanita Kretschmar, an experienced counselor and speaker, hosts the series from a Christian perspective.

Shively FM Antennas

A good antenna is crucial to quality broadcasting. An antenna that is merely adequate will compromise the performance of even the best studio equipment and transmitter.

Shively regularly includes standard features that other companies either provide only as options or simply do not offer.

At Shively, we design and build antennas of uncompromising technical quality and performance. And, we build them to last.

We Demand As Much From Location Video As You Do.

Multi-camera video shot on location should be as crisp and as technically and artistically precise as anything shot in a studio.

That's what producers for The Disney Channel, ABC, NBC, CBS, ESPN, Walmart and others have come to expect from us. And it's what you can expect as well.

Our 40-foot and new 48-foot trucks are equipped with the Philips and Ikegami cameras, one-inch editing capabilities, and a full-range of effects. And they're staffed by technically-competent people who care about quality and maintain the equipment to peak performance standards.

Trying to motivate your listeners to prayer & action?

INTERCESSORS FOR AMERICA can help!

IFA has been publishing a monthly, 4-page newsletter for over 15 years—presenting concise information on important issues and focusing prayer on three areas of national need. The First Friday of each month is observed as a day of common prayer and fasting and IFA is mobilizing First Friday prayer assemblies in each Congressional district across America.

IFA's president, Gary Bergel, and IFA's executive director, Dr. Robert Billings, will also be happy to grant First Friday phone interviews on current issues for airing over your station. Phone (703) 471-0913 to set up an interview.

Mobilize your listeners to fulfill the mandates of 1 Timothy 2:1-8—that we assemble and pray for “all men” and “for all in authority.” Together, in prayer, we can turn America around.

To set up interviews, receive the IFA monthly newsletter or receive more information on mounting a First Friday prayer assembly in your Congressional district, phone the IFA office or complete and mail the following coupon to: Intercessors for America, P.O. Box 2639, Reston VA 22090.

National Religious Broadcasters Membership Fact Sheet

National Religious Broadcasters is an association of more than 1,450 religious radio and television stations, program producers and related organizations around the world. NRB members are responsible for more than 80 percent of the world's religious radio and television. Founded in 1944, NRB has headquarters in the greater New York metropolitan area in Morristown, New Jersey.

Purpose

NRB has two objectives: 1) access and 2) excellence. Dedicated to the communication of the Gospel, NRB was founded to safeguard free and complete access to the broadcast media for religious broadcasting. NRB supports the rights of individuals, denominations and other religious groups to purchase air time and to use sustaining time on radio and television. NRB sets standards of excellence for its member organizations through its Code of Ethics and annual awards program.

Public Services

As a central source of information concerning Christian radio and television, National Religious Broadcasters informs the public about religious broadcasting.

Releasing news to the religious and secular press, NRB speaks for hundreds of religious program producers and station operators.

Services for Members

- The NRB Comprehensive Benefits Plan offers health, dental, vision and life insurance.
- The NRB Employment Registry lists talented individuals seeking employment and the jobs available in Christian media.
- Intercollegiate Religious Broadcasters

(IRB) inspires the campus membership of NRB, the next generation of religious broadcasters, through special convention programs, chapter meetings and educational tours.

- A handsome membership plaque suitable for display is offered with personal membership press/media identification cards.
- Annual awards recognize the top religious programs and stations in five categories: station operation, program production, distinguished service, milestone award and Hall of Fame.
- Seven nationwide regional conventions are held and an annual convention and exhibition is held the first week of February in Washington, D.C., the world's largest and most important religious media meeting. The annual convention draws top experts in government, church and the industry, including U.S. presidents since Gerald Ford.
- Members receive car and hotel discounts.

Functions of NRB

- Maintaining rapport with the FCC and the broadcasting industry through its Washington legal office
- Cooperating with media associations and keeping up to date on communications theory, technology and practice
- Encouraging the growth of religious broadcasting by assisting those interested in securing stations or programs
- Fostering high professional standards through the NRB Code of Ethics and the sponsorship of national and regional meetings which present opportunities for professional growth and development
- Gathering research data on audiences, programs and effectiveness of religious broadcasting.

Publications

BYLAWS OF ETHICS AND FINANCIAL INTEGRITY COMMISSION (EFICOM)

A COMMISSION OF NATIONAL RELIGIOUS BROADCASTERS (NRB)

ARTICLE 1 OFFICES

The principal office of EFICOM shall be located in Morristown, New Jersey.

ARTICLE 2 MEMBERSHIP

1. Eligibility. Members of NRB, receiving offerings from the public, shall submit to the regulations of EFICOM. It is expected that members will at all times maintain the highest ethical and moral standards.

Members shall be in good standing with NRB at the time of the application, including agreement with NRB's statement of faith. Members meeting such standards shall, upon the affirmative vote of a majority of the Commission, be awarded a certificate of accreditation by EFICOM.

Application for certification by EFICOM shall be made on a form provided by the National Religious Broadcasters' national office.

Accreditation shall be mandatory for all members of NRB who are tax exempt under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. Within 90 days after the effective date of this paragraph, existing members of NRB who are required to submit to the accreditation requirement shall make application for a certificate of accreditation by EFICOM. Prospective members of NRB who are required to submit to the accreditation requirement shall first be certified by EFICOM as a prerequisite to membership in NRB. NRB members who have been certified by the Evangelical Council for Financial Accountability may continue this relationship and, so long as they maintain this ECFA certification in good standing, shall be considered as meeting the certification requirements for maintaining NRB membership.

2. Requirements for Membership.

a. Members shall obtain and submit annually an audited financial statement prepared by an independent Public Accounting firm in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards (GAAS) with financial statements prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) consistently applied.

In the event a member's annual donation income from broadcasting ministry is between $500,000 and $1,000,000, and said ministry has initially submitted a full GAAP audit, the submission of an audit every second year is considered satisfactory, with an audit or a review required on the other year. For members whose donated income from broadcasting ministry is less than $500,000, an annual unaudited financial statement shall be considered sufficient. The Commission shall keep in strict confidence all financial and other data submitted. (See Accreditation Criteria C, under "Financial Criteria," for members' disclosure responsibility.)

Each member organization shall certify annually and in writing that:

i. Its board meets formally at least three times annually, with meetings regularly scheduled over the course of the year, and with a majority of the members in attendance; or, if the board meets only once annually, there are at least two additional regularly scheduled meetings during the year of an executive committee of board members having interim policy-making authority, with a majority of its members present in person.

ii. No board member shall participate in compensation decisions affecting that member; the governing body shall avoid business transactions in which board members, staff or their families have a financial interest.

iii. The names and addresses of individual board members are made available to the Commission, along with any family relationship to other board members;

iv. Solicited funds are used for the purpose stated at the time of solicitation, except that if more money is received than was the actual cost of the project, disclosure of the use of the excess shall be made to the donor; and

v. It is in compliance with all applicable governmental regulations or if an organization is not in compliance, in what manner non-compliance is occurring and what steps are being taken to resolve the matter.

b. All requests for financial support shall be made in an ethical and dignified manner.

c. The Board of Directors of any member organization shall consist of at least five (5) persons.

d. A majority of the Board of Directors shall be other than those joined by a family relationship, staff or employees. In the event that an applicant's annual donation income from broadcast ministry is less than $100,000, said ministry shall be exempt from this requirement.

Applicants for accreditation who are not exempt and who qualify in all other areas shall be granted candidate status until January 1, 1990, to come into compliance with this standard.

e. The Board shall adopt the organization's annual budget, oversee the accomplishment of budget objectives, establish and review the organization's programs and policies, and determine the compensation of the organization's officers, directors and principals.

Accreditation of any NRB member who fails to meet EFICOM standards may be withdrawn following an opportunity for a fair hearing.

By way of illustration the following circumstances shall be considered reason for withdrawal of certification:

a. Failure to make the required annual financial submission to EFICOM;

b. Failure to make a timely submission of any additional financial or other data which may be requested by EFICOM; or

c. Failure to meet EFICOM standards of financial disclosure or application of resources for the purposes for which they were raised.

ARTICLE 3 COMPOSITION OF COMMISSION

1. Selection of Commissioners and Term of Office. Commissioners of EFICOM shall be elected by National Religious Broadcasters as follows: They shall be nominated by the Executive Committee of NRB, and ratified by the NRB Board of Directors, classes of three to serve three years ad seriatim. No individual shall be eligible for consideration for more than two consecutive 3-year terms.

2. Resignation. Any EFICOM Commissioner may withdraw on written notice to the Chairman of the Commission.

3. Removal. Any Commissioner may be removed from office by the Executive Committee of NRB for just cause.

4. Composition of Commission. The officers of EFICOM shall be a Chairman, Vice Chairman, Secretary and such other officers as may from time to time be deemed necessary by the Executive Committee of NRB. The Commission shall consist of no less than five (5) and no more than eleven (11) persons. The officers of the Commission shall be elected annually by the Commission.

5. Chairman. The Chairman shall call all meetings and shall preside at all meetings of EFICOM.

6. Vice Chairman. In the absence or disability of the Chairman, the Vice Chairman shall succeed to and perform the duties and exercise the powers of the Chairman. The Vice Chairman shall perform such other duties as may be prescribed by the Chairman.

7. Secretary. The Secretary shall: a) attend all meetings of the Commission; b) keep in the minute book proper minutes of the proceedings of all such meetings; c) give required notices; d) have custody of the Commission records; and e) perform other such duties as shall be assigned by the Chairman.

8. Standards and Compliance Committee. Members of the Standards and Compliance Committee will be appointed by the Commission as a subcommittee of EFICOM to assure compliance with these standards and will meet as stipulated by the Commission.

ARTICLE 4 MEETINGS OF THE COMMISSION

1. Scheduled Meetings. The Commission shall convene four times a year at such time and place as shall be determined by the Chairman of the Commission.

2. Notice of Meetings. The Secretary shall give to each Commissioner, at his address as shown on the books of NRB, written notice of each quarterly meeting or other meeting of Commissioners, at least ten (10) days prior to the date thereof. Such notice shall indicate the time and place of such meeting and, in the case of a special meeting, the purpose or purposes thereof.

3. Action without Meeting. Action taken without a regularly called meeting of the Commission may be considered valid if the Commissioners shall unanimously consent in writing to such action. Any such consent shall be filed with the Secretary of the Commission.

4. Telephone Voting. The Commission, upon giving due notice to all Commissioners, may hold a meeting by telephone conference call with the same effect as a regularly called meeting. In such a conference call, a majority vote of the Commissioners would prevail.

5. Quorum. A simple majority of all active board members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business at any meeting of Commissioners.

6. Commissioner Votes. Each Commissioner shall have one (1) vote. All elections and questions decided by the Commissioners shall be decided by a simple majority of Commissioners present.

ARTICLE 5 RECOGNITION

The Commission shall provide an official emblem or other form of recognition which member organizations may use in their promotional activities indicating that the organization has met the established standards of EFICOM and has received accreditation.

ACCREDITATION CRITERIA

1. STEWARDSHIP

Principles—Christian stewardship is the practical realization that everything we have is a gift from God. Stewardship expresses itself as an integral force in Christian life by motivating us to share our goods with others. We are absolute owners of nothing; rather, we are stewards of all we receive and we must use such resources responsibly in our lifelong work of building up the Kingdom of God.

For men and women especially committed to building up the Kingdom of God, stewardship heightens an awareness of responsibilities in matters of material concern no less than in spiritual endeavor.

We are particularly conscious of the sacred relationship of trust that is established when we, in God's name and for His work, ask others for financial support. Our obligation in stewardship mandates a fitting proportion between the importance of the work to be funded and the magnitude and cost of fund raising.

Requests for support, besides being truthful and forthright, must be made on a theologically sound basis and should always be in good taste to strive to lift the hearts and minds of men and women to a greater love of God and neighbor.

STEWARDSHIP CRITERIA

a. Every appeal for funds should be directed toward motivating the believers to participate in Christian ministries as a part of their Biblical responsibilities.

b. The trust relationship between donor and fundraiser requires that funds collected be used for the intended purpose and not be absorbed by excessive fund-raising costs. Reasonable use of funds requires that a) fund-raising costs not exceed 35 percent of related contributions; and b) total fund-raising and administrative costs not exceed 50 percent of total income.

An organization which does not meet this limitation may provide evidence to demonstrate that its use of funds is reasonable.

The donor must be informed at the time of sollicitation how the donated funds will be used and that designations, if any, stated by the donor will be observed. Donors of large estate assets should be encouraged to consult with their own attorneys, accountants or other professional advisers. Dedication on the part of the fund raiser should match the sacrifice of the donor.

c. Applicants for accreditation must specify the basis on which they claim tax exemption.

d. Soliciting organizations shall have an active governing body. An active board meets formally at least three times annually, with meetings regularly scheduled over the course of the year, and with a majority of the members in attendance. If the full board meets only once annually, there shall be at least two additional, regularly scheduled meetings during the year of an executive committee of board members having interim policy-making authority, with a majority of its members present in person. The governing body shall avoid business transactions, including royalties, in which board members, staff or their family have a financial interest.

e. Upon request, organizations shall disclose the officers and governing body members and responsibilities and location of international, national, regional and local offices and facilities, as well as the organization's relationship with any affiliated organizations.

f. All representations of fact must be current, complete and accurate. No misleading data will be allowed for any reason.

2. ACCOUNTING AND FINANCIAL REPORTING

The very nature of religious fund raising places responsible religious organizations seeking funds in special relationships of accountability: to God in whose name they ask, to the Christian Church as a whole which they represent, to those whom they serve, and to the donors who are co-laborers in a particular work or ministry. The relationship between fund raiser and donor goes far beyond the transfer of money, as giving is an expression of love for God, and man as the giver is motivated by God's Holy Spirit.

As every person is accountable to God for his or her stewardship, Christian organizations are accountable to the donor for the disposition of monies received.

FINANCIAL CRITERIA

a. Members shall obtain and submit annually an audit prepared by an independent Public Accounting firm in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards (GAAS) with financial statements prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) consistently applied. In the event a member's annual donation income from broadcasting ministry is between $500,000 and $1,000,000 (inclusive), and said ministry has initially submitted a full GAAP audit, the submission of an audit every second year is considered satisfactory, with an audit or a review required on the other year. For members whose donated income from broadcasting ministry is less than $500,000, an annual unaudited financial statement shall be considered sufficient.

b. Annual financial reports must be prepared in scope and design to meet the particular concerns of those to whom reports are due: namely, the governing body and executive management who have the fiduciary responsibilities of the organization itself, donors to the particular organization who are interested in what was done with the funds available to the organization, and those who are beneficiaries of the funds given, including those who have established planned giving agreements with the organization.

c. Annual reports must provide both a financial summary and a review of the work and spiritual dimensions of the ministry for which the funds were raised. The financial statements as required in Financial Criteria Paragraph a, and the annual reports as required in this paragraph shall be made available by the member to the public.

d. Upon written request, donors must be provided copies by mail free of charge. Other parties may be charged reasonable costs of reproduction and postage.

e. Donations must be receipted with promptness; reasonable requests from donors for information about designated gifts should be met.

f. Acknowledgement of gifts in kind: Property or gifts in kind must be acknowledged accurately with no statement as to the market value. Responsibility to determine the fair market value of the property for tax purposes rests with the donor.

g. In addition to the required financial statements, the members shall supply to EFICOM information setting forth the value of salaries, allowances, benefits, and the entire area of inurement on the part of each of the officers, directors and principals in the ministry.

3. FUND RAISING

Methods of fund raising shall be utilized as a technique of stewardship that can promote effectiveness and assure integrity. Fund raisers should utilize the management technique of internal controls in administrative practice. Exclusive authority over all aspects of financial matters shall not be vested in any single person. Separation of such financial functions of fund raising as collection, allocation and accounting is essential for internal control.

Adherence to legal requirements and respect for professional guidelines are fundamental to sound management of the fund-raising function. There are as many ways of raising funds as there are many and far-reaching ministries to be funded. Each fund-raising method has its own specialized purpose and technique. But responsible and effective fund-raising methodology should never disregard the voice of the Holy Spirit that must permeate an organization's total efforts. The raising of funds for gospel works is indeed a spiritual vocation and a talent working hand in hand with the direct ministry for which the funds are raised.

FUND-RAISING CRITERIA

a. Fund-raising authority and disbursement authority shall not be vested exclusively in any one individual.

b. Ethical business relationships must be maintained by organizations with suppliers of goods and services.

c. Contracts between a religious organization and commercial suppliers and consultants should insure that control over materials, designs, money and general operations remains fully in the hands of the religious organization.

d. To avoid conflict of interest and potential abuse, no inside development staff or outside fund-raising consultants may be reimbursed on a basis of percentage of funds received by the religious organization.

e. Requests for funds shall not be associated with material objects which are inconsistent with the spiritual purposes of the appeal.

f. Fund-raising appeals must communicate realistic expectations to the donor of what the donor's gift will accomplish within the limits of the organization's ministry.

g. Incentives and premiums offered by a ministry must be presented in a manner that is clear and factual to avoid misleading the donor.

h. Members shall maintain records of all fund-raising appeals (including offers of incentives or premiums) for a period of one year. These records shall include complete copies of all written materials submitted to members of the public and transcripts or electronic recordings of all appeals presented to the public by means of radio, television or cable television transmissions. Upon request, these records must promptly be submitted to EFICOM for inspection and review to assure the compliance with EFICOM accreditation criteria.

4. SUPERVISION AND COMMENDATION

The intent of these criteria is to foster high standards of ethics and integrity in raising and disbursing funds for Christian ministries.

EFICOM is authorized to accept requests from member organizations to review their fund-raising appeal materials and methods, as well as their annual reports and independently audited financial reports, in order to certify that such organization does indeed fully meet the high standards of accountability set forth above by the National Religious Broadcasters. The Commission shall keep in strict confidence all financial and other data submitted.

RECOGNITION CRITERIA

a. If, after receiving a request for review and completing its own review, the Ethics and Financial Integrity Commission (EFICOM) concludes that a non-profit organization does meet the criteria of this document, National Religious Broadcasters shall present that organization with a certificate of accreditation.

b. Supervision and enforcement of these criteria will be based upon an initial audit examination plus on-site inspections conducted either on a random basis or on the basis of complaints or other information suggesting that such an inspection is warranted. Members are expected to cooperate fully with these fact-gathering efforts.

c. NRB shall publish an annual listing of all organizations which have received accreditation and shall conduct an annual review of each organization so commended. It shall not publish any list of those religious groups which have not received accreditation nor make any comment against those organizations not on the NRB commendation list.

d. EFICOM shall obtain payment for its service in accordance with the attached fee schedule, which is subject to adjustment by vote of the Executive Committee of NRB, and may retain such accounting and/or professional staff as needed to assist the full Commission in its evaluation.

e. In the event EFICOM does not find an organization's practices meeting NRB accreditation criteria, it shall first indicate to the organization what modifications in practices are needed to meet the established standards and allow that organization sufficient time (up to six months) to adjust to the NRB criteria before EFICOM formally votes on the application for accreditation. In the event the organization believes the recommended modifications are not appropriate for its ministry, such organization is entitled to a fair hearing before EFICOM votes its final approval or disapproval of the application for accreditation.

f. All decisions of EFICOM shall be by majority vote.

g. If, after an opportunity for a fair hearing, EFICOM withdraws accreditation of an existing NRB member, the matter shall promptly be referred to the NRB Board of Directors. The Board of Directors may affirm, reverse or modify the action of EFICOM and, as appropriate, take action pursuant to Article I, Section 4, of the NRB Bylaws. In addition, either the Board of Directors or the Executive Committee may waive particular EFICOM requirements for a period of one year from issuance of such a waiver if it determines such action to be necessary and in the best interests of the Association.

Testimony of Dr. Ben Armstrong, Executive Director National Religious Broadcasters Before the Subcommittee on Oversight Committee on Ways and Means United States House of Representatives October 6, 1987

Mr. Chairman, I would like to express my appreciation for this opportunity to testify and present the views of the NRB concerning the financial accountability of religious broadcasters.

The NRB is an association which includes within its membership some 1,300 religious broadcasters. This group includes about three-quarters of the religious broadcasters, and with the exception of Oral Roberts, all of the ministers who previously appeared this morning.

The principal goals of the association are to assure that such broadcasters continue to have access to the airwaves and to promote excellence in religious programming. In addition, the NRB has a long-standing and continuing concern regarding adherence by its members to high standards of ethics and financial integrity.

The focus of our attention in this area has been somewhat different from that of the Internal Revenue Service and this Subcommittee. While we fully share your interest in ensuring that the laws of the United States are faithfully adhered to and enforced, our self-regulatory efforts have been aimed at a broader objective of promoting sound principles of Christian stewardship. We firmly believe that the resources of our various ministries represent a gift from God and that they must be utilized diligently and responsibly to promote the true purposes of the Christian religion.

In 1944, in recognition of these principles, the founders of our association adopted the NRB's first Code of Ethics. The Code provided that appeals for donations should be of a bona fide character for legitimate religious purposes and that an accounting for such donations should be provided to the NRB Board upon request. While this relatively generalized Code was not suitable for detailed self-regulatory enforcement purposes, it did provide a useful vehicle for discussions and counselling within the religious broadcasting community on the subject of financial ethics and integrity.

In recent years, however, it became apparent that a more specific code was necessary—both to educate our own members on sound principles of financial accountability and to promote public confidence in the integrity of those broadcasters who do adhere to such standards. To this end, prominent members of the NRB took a leading role in 1979 in establishing the Evangelical Council for Financial Accountability ("ECFA"), and many of our members subscribed to the program developed by that very worthwhile organization.

However, during the fall of last year, well before the reports of troubles at PTL, the leaders of our association held discussions concerning steps that should be taken to improve standards of financial accountability among our members. At that time, it was concluded that the NRB—the nation's leading organization dealing specifically with religious broadcasting—should directly address the issue of financial accountability and develop a code that could be utilized by all of our members who receive donations from the public.

This effort led ultimately to the adoption of bylaws and accreditation criteria for a new Ethics and Financial Integrity Commission ("EFICOM"). As amended at a meeting held by our Board last month in Chicago, these documents establish a comprehensive code for the handling of donated funds. Some of the specific requirements of this Code are as follows:

(1.) A majority of each ministry's Board of Directors shall be other than those joined by family relationship, staff or employees.

(2.) Such Board shall be responsible for adopting the organization's annual budget, overseeing the accomplishment of budget objectives, establishing and reviewing the organization's programs and policies, and determining the compensation of the organization's officers, directors and principals.

(3.) Funds collected through donations must be utilized for all their intended purpose and may not be absorbed by excessive fundraising or administrative costs.

(4.) Ministries must provide EFICOM with a financial statement and an annual report concerning their operations. For the larger ministries, the financial statement must be audited by an independent public accounting firm.

(5.) The annual reports and financial statements must be made available to the public.

(6.) Individuals involved in soliciting donations may not be compensated on the basis of a percentage of the funds that are raised.

(7.) Ministries must provide EFICOM with complete information setting forth the value of salaries, allowances and the kind of benefits that are accorded to each of the officers, directors and principals in the ministry.

(8.) Fund-raising appeals must communicate realistic expectations concerning what the donor's gift will accomplish within the limits of the organization's ministry.

(9.) For a period of one year, ministries must maintain complete copies of all written solicitation materials submitted to members of the public and transcripts or electronic recordings of all appeals presented over-the-air. Upon request, these records must promptly be submitted to EFICOM for inspection and review.

Finally, and I believe very significantly, our Board of Directors has proposed that compliance with EFICOM policies and maintenance of an EFICOM certificate of accreditation should become a condition of membership in the NRB for all those who solicit donations from the public. We believe that this requirement is an important means of demonstrating to NRB members and to the public that our association is firmly committed to the goal of promoting financial integrity and accountability. I should note that mandatory compliance provision is subject to ratification by our Convention which meets in Washington in February, but I am confident that this provision will be accepted by our members.

We are aware of the fact that there are risks inherent in the course that we have chosen to follow. Undoubtedly some of our members will find the new standards to be too stringent or too costly and will choose to withdraw from NRB membership rather than comply. Moreover, we recognize that, by espousing our ideals in such detail and making so much information available for public scrutiny, we invite the possibility of public criticism whenever one of our members fails to live up to the policies that we have established. However, we accept this as an inevitable risk for any group whose members publicly proclaim high moral and ethical principles.

The alternative to proclaiming such principles is to remain silent in the face of impropriety—and, worse, to imply by silence that such misconduct is condoned. While such a policy of silence may be acceptable for membership associations that view themselves merely as "trade organizations," the leaders of our association believe that the NRB must answer to a Higher Authority and, accordingly, that they must use their offices to serve His purposes and not merely the private interests of individual members. For this reason, we believe that the full implementation of EFICOM is essential.

In many respects, it is fair to say that the adoption of this new code is overdue. We do not claim that the existence of such a code would necessarily have prevented the recent series of scandalous disclosures that greatly have disturbed our leadership and, more importantly, the American public. However, we do believe that the establishment of EFICOM puts the NRB clearly and unequivocally on record in support of high standards of financial accountability. It is our profound hope and expectation that, by putting the full weight and prestige of our organization behind this effort, we will promote broader adherence to these principles within the religious broadcasting community and broader confidence in the integrity of the electronic ministry on the part of the American people, and also on the part of their elected representatives.

In this latter regard, I want to thank the Chairman and members of this subcommittee for their expressions of interest and concern and, indeed, for their sensitive, responsible handling of this entire matter. It is our intention to keep you fully apprised of the future activities concerning implementation of EFICOM by our association.

Thank you for inviting me to testify here today. I look forward to responding to any questions that you may have.
