COMEDIANS Here are two numbers by HENRY TROY that will add 100% to your act. Let us have your answer. What would you do if you thought you were going to a ball, but upon arriving found yourself at a meeting of a well-known organization—which was known to be hostile to all except its own members? Get this song and find out why Annias said: "IF ALL GOD'S CHILLUN' GOT WINGS I SURE NEED MINE RIGHT NOW" When dreams come true, imagine what this "down and outer" will do—if the bird be sent to the rainbow's end brings back the pot of gold. We have the answer in our comedy song. "POT OF GOLD" Both these numbers are restricted. We are obliged to charge $5.00 each. This brings a performer our permission to use the number, complete words and orchestration. You can always depend upon getting a good comedy number from us. SPECIAL MATERIAL WRITTEN BY ARRANGEMENT. New York, July 11.—The United Scenic Artists' Association, Local Union 829, of the Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators, which has under its jurisdiction all the scenic designers and artists in the theatrical business, has sent out notification that a ruling was adopted at its last meeting which fixes a minimum charge for all scenic creations by the members of the organization.

French and English Actresses Strike in Havana, Cuba

Havana, July 9.—A number of the English and French girls now appearing in Cuba with the French company, La Ta Clan, of Madame Rasimi, have gone on a strike. It appears that the company has further contracts for Mexico, Central and South America, but many of the chorus girls, both English and French, decline to continue the journey and have appealed to their respective consuls to have them sent back to France. The company has just returned from a "barnstorming" trip thru the interior of Cuba and the young women, it is said, have had very poor accommodations in the hotels and had to make some early trains, which they have rebelled against. The managers of the company have refused to allow the girls to break their contracts with them and the matter

ASCHER BROS. HEAD CHAIN OF FIFTY CHICAGO M. P. THEATERS

Effect Combination With Cooney Bros., Andrew Karzas and Coston Group---Called Motion Picture Theaters Consolidated

Chicago, July 11. — Ascher Brothers have effected a combination with Cooney Brothers, Andrew Karzas and the Coston group of motion picture theaters whereby Ascher Brothers head a consolidated chain of 50 Chicago picture theaters, according to an announcement made today.

It is said the newest movie combination will be named the Motion Picture Theaters Consolidated. Max Ascher is quoted as saying the number of houses controlled will be increased to 125 inside of a month. It is believed the recent merging activities of Lubliner & Trinz and Balaban & Katz and the expansion of the latter firm in becoming interested in other motion picture theater groups are responsible for the action of Ascher Brothers and their new associates.

One motion picture man told The Billboard that the hub in the wheel of the motion picture exhibiting business is the ability to buy the pictures you want and when you want them and buy them right. Mr. Ascher is also quoted as saying the latest move is one to protect and increase the buying power of the exhibitors concerned. Showmen generally look upon the new combination as a booking arrangement pure and simple and some of them expect to see all of such combinations now existing increased in scope.

CENTRAL STATE SHOWS STRUCK BY CYCLONE

The Central State Shows were struck by a cyclone at Carlisle, Ky., at 10 o'clock Sunday night, July 12, and everything was blown down. It is reported that the shows would be in operation the night of July 13. Full details are promised for next week's issue.

TRAVELING STAGEHANDS GET $10 RAISE AFTER SEPTEMBER 6

Amicable Adjustment Also Grants $20 and $25 Increase for Members in Road Shows That Play More Than One City in Week, Such as Tryouts--Projectionist Included--"Lower Berths" Part of Contract

New York, July 11.—After a series of smooth, business-like conferences between representatives of the general office of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees and Moving Picture Machine Operators and The International Theatrical Association a straight increase of $10 was granted the stagehands working in road attractions, and $20 and $25 increases to those traveling members in shows with so-called "production contracts" due to the show being in its try-out period or playing more than one city in a week.

The new wage scale goes into effect September 6, when the present two-year contract expires. The fact that the matter has been amicably adjusted two months before the actual time of the expiration of the present contract is considered an indication of how well the I. A. organization is capable of handling such affairs in a conciliatory manner.

Exclusive of the price scales, the clauses and provisions in the old contract will be retained in the new, with the following exception of the first paragraph of the contract which will read: "To furnish sleeping car accommodations, consisting of single lower berth, when night traveling is necessary." Notice of the new scale sent to officers and members reads in part:

STRAIGHT CONTRACT

Members engaged under traveling contract shall receive a flat increase of $10 per week on and after September 6, 1925, over the present scale of wages, and in order that there may be no misunderstanding the old and new scales are set forth below:

Year's Record at Coney

New York, July 13.—Coney Island was visited by 750,000 people yesterday. This is a record crowd for the year. Manhattan Beach, Long Beach and the various Greater New York parks were crowded. Business for concessionaires was just fair owing to the terrific heat. The crowds seemed to be interested only in bathing and remained in the water until late in the day at all beaches.

Loew's Purchase of Astor Heads Important Theater Deals

Reade Transfers Broadway House to Loew at Profit of $2,000,000 ---To Be Used for "Superspecials" With "Ben-Hur" Probably First---Theater Realty Active All Week Thruout New York City

New York, July 13.—The past week saw several big theater deals consummated, perhaps the most important and least expected being one between Marcus Loew and Walter Reade whereby the Astor Theater, which was recently purchased by Reade, becomes the property of Loew's, Inc. Under the contract Loew takes over the Astor for a period of 10 years with a renewal option of 21 years. The contract will also net Reade a profit of $2,000,000 on the first term of the leasehold or $200,000 a year.

Reade secured the property a few weeks ago from B. K. Binberg and E. R. Thomas, and under a clause in their contract the Shuberts were allowed to cancel their lease on the theater at the time of the sale. Reade announced that he intended to operate the house himself. The property consists of a five-story

STATE SUSPENDS ENFORCEMENT OF CONNECTICUT MOVIE TAX LAW

Two Companies Questioning Constitutionality of Measure Ordered To File Briefs Within 10 Days—Operators Must Keep Records of Films Shown or Forfeit Licenses

HARTFORD, July 11.—Enforcement of the new motion picture tax and censorship law for Connecticut has been suspended pending the settlement of the question of its constitutionality. The Fox Film Corporation and the American Feature Film Company, which are testing the law in behalf of the producers, distributors, exchange men and exhibitors, yesterday were ordered to file briefs within 10 days in support of their cases, the order being issued by Judge Henry Wade Rogers, of the United States Circuit Court. In expounding the cause of the two plaintiffs Attorney George W. Wickersham based his attack on the ground that the taxing feature of the law is in direct violation of "freedom of commerce among States", and, as such, is against the Federal Constitution.

The decision to suspend operation of the law was reached following a conference Wednesday between Attorney-General Frank E. Healy and Arthur L. Shipman, special counsel appointed by the former to represent the State in the proceedings instituted by the film interests. While no attempt is being made to collect the tax of $10 a reel imposed by the law, all picture operators are being required to keep an exact record of all films exhibited and the nature of the pictures. If the legislation is adjudged unconstitutional the tax will be figured on the basis of these records.

In a statement printed in the newspapers Tax Commissioner Blodgett said in part:

"The failure of any motion picture machine operator to keep such data as is here required will subject him to forfeiture of his license to operate under the provisions of said statute, and other penalties prescribed by the law.

"The provisions of said chapter 177 do not require payment of any tax on reels commonly called news reels and which portray current events, or reels which show pictures of a strictly scientific character and are intended for the use of the learned professions, or reels for the exhibition of pictures for the promotion of educational, charitable, religious and patriotic purposes, or for the instruction of employees by employers of labor. However, the record required to be kept must be complete as to all reels, whether exempt from taxation or not.

"A faithful compliance with these regulations pending the decision of said court will greatly assist in the proper administration of this law. The co-operation of exhibitors and motion picture machine operators and strict compliance with the regulations herein contained are very respectfully invited."

"THE LOVE SONG" WILL OPEN REBUILT OLYMPIC

Will Mark Opening of Another Loop Home of Opetetta by the Shuberts in Chicago

Chicago, July 9.—J. J. Shubert was here for several days in conference with contractors and artists, arranging for an entirely new interior in the Olympic Theater. He promised something very handsome in the way of a new house interior. The opening attraction, as things now stand, will be The Love Song, which had an all-season run at the Century Theater, New York. This operetta has a score made up chiefly of Offenbach's music. Mr. Shubert said the original cast will be brought to Chicago, together with the original production.

Stanley House, Atlantic City, Changes Policy

Atlantic City, N. J., July 10.—A change in the Stanley's policy has been instituted, according to an announcement made by the Stanley Company of America heads last night. The Stanley, the newest photoplay house in the resort and what has been regarded as the most sumptuous in the State, will bill only cinema attractions in the future and there will be a complete change of program every Wednesday and Saturday in lieu of the original program, on which there were several vocal and dancing specialties.

With the large capacity of 2,200 it was deemed that a 75-cent admission, which is a high-water mark for local photoplay houses, would not stand a policy of a program revision but once a week.

Refuses To Lease Theater; Court Action Is Sought

London, July 11 (Special Cable to The Billboard).—Lawrence Cowen on Thursday brought action in Chancery Court requiring Dennis Eddie to perform an agreement to lease the Fortune Theater for 7, 14 or 21 years. Eddie alleged that the theater was unprofitable, as the lines of sight were faulty, seating capacity insufficient, accommodation had and lighting system inadequate. The case was adjourned.

Leon Washburn Rehearsing Stetson's "Uncle Tom" Show

Veteran Manager Glad To Have the Old Organization Back Under His Name Again

Chicago, July 11.—Leon Washburn, a pint-size 69-years-of-militant-showmanship, beamed with satisfaction today when he told a Billboard reporter that his Stetson's Uncle Tom's Cabin Show, now in rehearsal, is to set a high mark in Tom history. Mr. Washburn is reviving the show after being away from it for 15 years. He originated Stetson's Tom 45 years ago and ran the show for 20 years. For the past 15 years he has owned Washburn's Theater, Chester, Pa., which he recently sold to local capital. Stetson's Tom has been running right along in the meantime but under other management.

Mr. Washburn will open on Butterfield Time at Port Huron, Mich., August 1, playing two-day stands. He will have 25 people on the show, with special settings and uniforms and will manage the show in person. In the parade he will have a platoon of white buglers in gorgeous uniforms. The colored performers, also in uniforms, will have a drum corps with the drums mounted on wheels.

"I don't claim the honor of having had an ad in the first issue of The Billboard," said Mr. Washburn, "but if I remember rightly, W. H. Donaldson rounded me

SEALING THE DEFENSIVE MOVIE ALLIANCE

Frederick H. Elliott, new general manager of the Independent Motion Picture Association, presents to R. F. Woodhull, national president of the M. P. T. O. A., at Asbury Park, N. J., a testimonial resolution adopted by his organization pledging its co-operation with the theater association in its fight for independence. Joseph M. Seider, president of the New Jersey M. P. T. aped with $1,000 after striking Walter Fowler, janitor, on the head and locking him in a dressing room. Fowler escaped shortly afterwards and gave the alarm.

It is thought that the burglars gained entrance from a window of an unoccupied office on the second floor. They escaped by breaking the lock off a back door.

The Alhambra is the largest house in Ogden and books Pantages vaudeville and motion pictures.

25 Years Without Auditorium, New Orleans May Get One

New Orleans, July 12.—For 25 years New Orleans has been handicapped by the lack of an auditorium to handle the many conventions that meet in this city. Mayor Martin Behrman has devised a plan whereby an auditorium seating 10,000 people can be erected without cost to the taxpayers. At a meeting held in the Association of Commerce and attended by 100 business men, committees were appointed to confer with the mayor on this project and it is expected that within a few weeks he will divulge his plan. Hal Thompson, representing the Roosevelt Hotel, has announced that in the new structure, now nearing completion, an auditorium has been provided which will seat 3,500 people. This hall thru the courtesy of the management of the Roosevelt, is at the disposal of all conventions coming to New Orleans.

up just before the second issue and pointed out the light. I bought my paper from the Donaldson Lithographing Company farther back than 40 years ago, even before that firm went over to Newport."

"Student Prince" Not Taking So Well at Atlantic City

Atlantic City, July 10.—The Student Prince, now showing in the Garden Pier Theater after its Philadelphia engagement, is meeting with a rather unsuccessful season, altho it has completed but one week of a several-week engagement.

The Student Prince is the first big musical production to open in this resort for a run longer than a week and it is understood that many are skeptical as to its drawing power for the coming week. The two weeks subsequent to July 4 in Atlantic City have always been regarded as poor from a theatrical standpoint and it may be that the Prince will hold the next two weeks. In that event it will meet with clear sailing.

The publicity in this connection has been termed excellent. A circus ballyhoo preceded the opening night. The entire student chorus serenaded Sigmund Romberg, the composer, on the Boardwalk in front of the new Stanley Theater, in which he had consented to lead the Stanley Orchestra.

TWO MORE HOUSES FOR OMAHA, NEB.

A. H. Blank Plans One To Seat 3,200 People and World Realty Company the Other

Omaha, Neb., July 12.—Two new theaters, each of which will cost about $1,000,000, will be built here as soon as negotiations are completed.

A. H. Blank, operator of the Rialto and Strand theaters, has closed a deal with Creighton University for a long-time lease on the southwest corner of 20th and Farnam streets, where he plans to build a theater to seat 3,200 people.

The World Realty Company, operating the World, Sun, Moon, Muse and Empress theaters, plans another theater on the northeast corner of 16th and Douglas streets. To build this will require the tearing down of the two-story Bushman block and the Empress Theater.

Retail shops probably will be included in both theater buildings.

"The Jazz Singer" Opens To Enthusiastic Ovation

Stamford, Conn., July 10.—The Jazz Singer, by Samson Raphaelson, a newcomer in the ranks of playwrights, had its premiere at the Stamford Theater here last evening, with George Jessel as the featured member of an exceptionally fine cast. Whatever preproduction misapprehensions and conjectures that may have arisen concerning Lewis & Gordon's first dramatic offering of the new season were set at ease when the play revealed itself as an exceedingly interesting comedy drama with a far-reaching and tremendous emotional appeal.

Both the piece and Jessel received an unusual ovation not only from the coterie of professional celebrities, which included Al Jolson, who had heard the rumors that The Jazz Singer was a biography of his life; Louis Mann, Sam Bernard, Clara Lippman, Sam Shipman, Vera Gordon, Mary Ryan, Pavloska and Sam Forrest, but also from the regular Stamford first-nighters.

During rehearsals of the play many stories got around about the theme of the piece. One was that it was a musical play, another labeled it as another Abie, and still another rumor was that the plot was the story of Al Jolson's career. It is none of these but is an altogether momentous subject, treated in a unique manner. The Jazz Singer is based on a magazine story, The Day of Atonement, by Raphaelson. With Broadway as its locale and the lower East Side as a background, it depicts an actor-singer of syncopated melodies who, when just as he is about to be starred at the head of a big musical revue, at the pinnacle of his career and his life's dream almost realized, is suddenly called upon to sacrifice his ambition, stardom, the girl he loves, to the call of duty toward his father and mother.

George Jessel, recruit from vaudeville and musical comedy, is ideal as the jazz singer. The drama is not entirely without music. Jessel, in his inimitable way, renders two jazz numbers, and in addition, with the aid of a choir, sings the sacred Kol Nidre, which is one of the most beautiful effects of the tense story. By his naturalness and pleasing personality the young actor scored a triumph in his first dramatic venture. He is surrounded by a well-chosen cast, which includes Thelma Foster, Ralph Locke, Paul McAllister, Bandle Fredrick, Henry B. Toomer, Edwin Maxwell, Sam Jaffe, William E. Morris, Mildred Leaf, Lynton Athol, Winifred Barry, Dale Bretton, Meyer Posner, Arden Benton, Abraham Klotz and J. Warren Sterling. Al Lewis, of the firm of Lewis & Gordon, the producers, staged the piece himself, his first attempt at directing.

The Jazz Singer plays three days in Stamford and next week moves on to Asbury Park for the first half and Long Branch for the last half. It will then be shelved until fall for a Broadway showing.

Spokane Theater Fire

Spokane, Wash., July 9.—Fire from an adjoining building resulted in a $10,000 damage to the Class A Theater here Sunday night. The house is closed indefinitely, according to Ray A. Grumbacher, manager, who operates the Class A as part of his chain of picture houses here. The rear end of the building was damaged, water adding to the loss in furnishings and the organ. A near panic was averted when an attendant gaged a hysterical woman patron who screamed "fire" when the smoke was first discovered.

"The Rehearsal" Revived

London, July 11 (Special Cable to The Billboard).—The Phoenix Society has revived The Rehearsal, by the Duke of Buckingham, a burlesque of Dryden. It affords amusing opportunities for comic acting by Fred O'Donovan, Harold Scott, Alfred Clark, Eileen Helen, Beatrice Wilson and Melville Cooper.

Municipal Opera Co. Reorganized

Affairs of New Organization Under Direction of Samuel Sobel --- "Aida" Initial Presentation

New York, July 11.—The Municipal Opera Company, Inc., which was recently compelled to discontinue rehearsals when the Actors' Equity Association called on its members because the backers of the organization had failed to put up the required bond, has been completely reorganized and announces that it will open its season at the Polo Grounds Wednesday evening, July 22, as originally planned, with Aida instead of H. M. S. Punter for the initial presentation. This change of bill from a light opera to a grand opera places the company out of the jurisdiction of Equity, as the actors' association does not deal with grand-opera performers.

The affairs of the new company will hereafter be under the direction of Samuel Sobel, attorney, as president; Julius Blumenthal, a real estate operator, as treasurer; and Ralph Steinberg, who headed the former organization, as vice-president and secretary. Tom Burke's name is not mentioned in connection with the reorganized group, and as he is an Equity member it is believed he is out of the venture entirely.

A cast of 150 artists has been selected. It is announced, and rehearsals are in progress. Carmelita Bonnelle has been engaged to sing leading roles and negotiations are said to be under way to secure the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra in its entirety. Estelle Liebling will continue as director of auditions and will assist in the production of the operas throughout the season.

Stage Guild Meetings

Godfrey Tearle Stresses Need of Capital Fund at Artists' Section Gathering—Managers' Section Re-Elects Percy Hutchinson Chairman

London, July 11 (Special Cable to The Billboard).—Godfrey Tearle presided at the second ordinary general meeting of the Artists' Section of the Stage Guild when the list of the new council was read and a statement of the year's work made. Nothing particular was achieved apparently, and Tearle stressed the need of a capital fund in addition to subscriptions, the latter being insufficient to carry on the work.

John E. Barham, secretary, reported the year's doings guardedly, and, answering members' questions, Tearle admitted that the Guild had been unable to enforce the so-called agreed contract.

The Managers' Section met previously and re-elected Percy Hutchinson chairman and B. A. Meyer, vice-chairman. A brief press statement was issued, alleging continuous growth of both sections and promises of peace and understanding between managers and artists in the future.

Neither meeting disclosed the financial position of the organization, nor indicated any practical achievements or reforms achieved.

Firmin Gemier To Direct Play For International Playhouse

New York, July 11.—Firmin Gemier, noted French actor and director, who presented a repertory here last season, has signed a contract with Irna Kraft, executive director of the newly formed International Playhouse, to come over here in January and direct the production of Dr. Knock or The Triumph of Medicine, a satire by Jules Romains, which is now being played with great success in Paris and Berlin. Miss Kraft, who is traveling abroad in search of suitable material for presentation by her organization next season, has obtained the American rights to this play and it will be one of the first offerings of the International Playhouse.

Robert Atkins' First London Managerial-Venture

London, July 11 (Special Cable to The Billboard).—Robert Atkins' first London managerial venture, Israel Zangwill's comedy, We Moderns, opened Tuesday at the New Theatre. The piece is not devoid of merit, for it has occasional passages of sleek dialog, but the plot characterization is trite, stogy and threadbare. It is an extraordinary selection on the part of one of the best English producers, from whom better things are expected.

Gibbons at White City

Chicago, July 11.—Harry Gibbons, illusionist, who has been working around Chicago, is now engaged at the Madame Montoya Beauty Shoppe, at White City. For a number of seasons Gibbons has been with Chris Langstaff as a dancer.

Professionals Going Abroad

New York, July 8, 1925.
The Billboard, 1560 Broadway, New York City, Gentlemen:
Daniel Frohman, our president, will be very grateful if you will insert the following paragraph in your next issue of The Billboard:

The United States shipping lines have made this a general rule on all their vessels, and the fund receives from them monthly contributions.
Very truly yours,
W. C. ALSTIN,
Assistant Secretary The Actors' Fund.

Arbitration Sought

In I. A. T. S. E. Controversy at Milwaukee

Milwaukee, Wis., July 11.—Arbitration by an international officer of the stagehands' union is sought by Milwaukee theater managers in an effort to straighten out the controversy between down-town managers and their stagehands. Both sides claim grievances. The union men are dissatisfied with wages, while the managers complain of demoralized conditions among the employees and accuse the union of unjust discrimination in demands of managers.

Particular exception is taken by the Milwaukee Theater Managers' Association against the alleged rigid enforcement of closed-shop rules in down-town theaters, while neighborhood picture houses are permitted to employ non-union help backstage and still can get union musicians and operators. It is claimed by the M. T. M. A., which has been roused from dormancy by the impending crisis, that outlying houses benefit as much by stage presentations by tabloid companies and others as do the down-town houses by their performances. In order that competition with the outlying houses be on a fairer basis, they ask that only union stagehands at union wages be permitted to work in the smaller houses.

The managers are asking that the entire difficulty be placed before an international officer for adjustment and several of them have individually signified their willingness to abide by his decision. The houses represented in the recently incorporated Milwaukee Theater Managers' Association, and as such involved in the controversy, are the Palace-Orpheum, Majestic and Miller, vaudeville; Davidson, legitimate; Garrick, dramatic stock; Wisconsin, Strand, Alhambra, first-run pictures; Gayety and Empress, burlesque.

Mrs. Ellsworth is spending the summer with her daughter in St. Louis.

Plan Screen Guild For Better Films

Improved Technique Sought by New Organization Which Will Make as Well as Exhibit Pictures

New York, July 11.—The development of a new and higher technique in the making of motion pictures is one of the aims of the Screen Guild, which is to be organized with a membership of film stars, directors, critics and other persons interested in improving the screen tastes of the people of the country. Not only will the organization exhibit "sophisticated films" but it is also intended to produce a number. Present plans also call for the extension of the idea thru-out the land by forming similar groups. Affiliations are planned with foreign producers.

Prominently identified with the movement are Robert A. Sanborn, New York editorial representative of Small, Maynard & Co., publishers; Curtis Melnitz, Eastern press representative for Charles Chaplin, and Joseph R. Fleisler, director of publicity for Ufa-Usa. Among other presentations they intend to show Von Stroheim's cutting of Greed and several films produced by German directors. Active membership in the organization will be limited and the guild will be operated upon the subscription rather than the "membership dues" plan.

Press Representatives Deny Move To Unionize

New York, July 11.—The Theatrical Press Representatives of America, Inc., at a general meeting held yesterday in the assembly rooms of the Burlesque Club adopted unanimously a resolution to issue the following statement:

"Regarding the publication in a local newspaper of the statement that theatrical press representatives and advance agents were being unionized, this organization places itself on record as disclaiming any connection with any such alleged movement and that it is not in sympathy with a movement of this nature.

"The organization, comprising nearly 300 men and women engaged in this work in amusements, is organized for the following purposes:

"To bring together in a professional and fraternal relation all those theatrical press representatives—both men and women—who are eligible for membership. "To foster a high standard for the conduct of the work of its members. "To maintain the strictest ethics and so uphold only those practices which are fair and honorable.

"To encourage its members to merit the esteem and confidence of business associated by rendering faithful and efficient service at all times.

"To urge its members to gain and retain the unbounded respect of the press and the public alike by a conscientious regard for the facts in all advertising and reading material."

The Theatrical Press Representatives of America is affiliated with the International Theatrical Association, which comprises the theater owners, producing managers and house managers of the country.

George Gatts To Revive "A Daughter of the Sun"

Chicago, July 12.—Announcement is made that George M. Gatts will revive A Daughter of the Sun, a South Sea comedy-drama, written by Ralph T. Kettering and Loren Howard, which enjoyed a vogue about 10 years ago. It is believed the recent success of White Cargo and Alona of the South Seas had something to do with Gatts' decision. The latter will also send out Stere, in which Eugene O'Brien was his star recently, and will again exploit Walter Scanlan as an Irish star for the sixth year. Gatts was for years a Chicago producer when a score of firms were putting plays out of the prairie metropolis.

Rebuilding Opera House

Newark, N. Y., July 9.—Workmen are employed here now cleaning up debris and putting razed walls in condition for rebuilding the Opera House, which was almost completely destroyed by fire six weeks ago. W. R. Campbell is working on plans for a two-story concrete building. The theater will occupy the ground floor, while offices will fill the second floor. It is planned to have the building ready for occupancy in January.

Sentences Girls To See "The Naked Truth"

Chicago, July 11.—Judge Trude, of the Morals Court, has been sentencing girls who appeared before him on various charges to see The Naked Truth, at the La Salle Theater. The girls are admitted by the judge's personal card and are required to report back to Miss Swanson, probation officer. The arrangement is a special one with Sam Cummins, producer of the picture. The contract with the Shuberts has been extended, meaning that the T. N. T. will show at the La Salle for four weeks. It is reported that a protest petition, asking the movie censor board to reverse its decision and allow children between the ages of 16 and 21 to attend The Naked Truth, is being circulated with more than 12,000 signatures up to this date.

Night Club Artists Booked for Rivoli

New York, July 11.—Night club entertainers will assist in amusing the audiences at the Rivoli Theater, beginning tomorrow, in connection with the premiere showing of Paramount's Night Life in New York, which features Rod La Rocque and Dorothy Gish. A different contingent of artists will appear each evening and, incidentally, tomorrow will mark the start of the summer engagement of Ben Bernie and his orchestra.

Monday evening will be Club Kentucky Night, when Southern Hospitality will be presented with Bert Lewis. On the following evening Earl Lindsay will present In the Sun while observing Everglades Night. Wednesday evening will be Plantation Night with the Tan-Tan Topics, featuring Ethel Wales, and a cast including Will V. Wiley's Plantation Orchestra. Central Park Casino Night will be next, when Florence Richardson and her Casino Orchestra will entertain. Friday evening will be known as Club Alhambra Night, when performers from that entertainment place will go thru a program.

Washington Square Players Distinguish Themselves

New York, July 10.—Judging from the large attendance at the good-sized little theater of the Washington Square Players at the New York University, made up of citizens and visiting delegations of students at Columbia and New York universities, the summer repertory of the Washington Square Players will prove notably successful.

In the opinion of this reporter, who saw the present production of Shaw's You Never Can Tell, Professor Somerville, director of Dramatic Art at New York University, has succeeded in putting on a repertory which no lover of Shavian masterpieces can afford to overlook. From the standpoint of good acting and clear diction, Professor Somerville's presentation of You Never Can Tell compares favorably with any professional offering along Broadway.

After completing their run in this vehicle, the players will run another of Shaw's comedies, Candida, beginning July 23. Miriam Steep, who appeared as Glorla in the first play, will have the title role in Candida. Richard Cough, the Fergus Crampton of You Never Can Tell, will play a totally different role, that of the Rev. James Mayor Morrell. The Marchbanks of Candida will be the Philip Clandon of the other Shaw play. Richard Lambert, having finished the solicitor, McComas, takes up Candida's father, Burgess. And the Mr. Bohun, K. C., of You Never Can Tell will appear as the young curate assistant to Morrell. Proserpine Garnett, the emotional secretary, will be played by Davida Galbraith, who appeared in the first-act bit of the maid for You Never Can Tell.

Another Theater for Stanley in Atlantic City

Atlantic City, July 11.—The Stanley Company of America has announced its plans for the erection of a $2,000,000 photoplay and vaudeville house at Missouri and Pacific avenues, in the downtown section of this resort. The announcement followed the opening of the palatial Stanley, in the central section of the city on the Boardwalk, which is playing first-run pictures, dance and musical diversions and occasional specialties. The Stanley Company also owns the site at South Carolina and Atlantic avenues, which is the center of the business district, and is to build there a pretentious theater in one year.

Ralph Spence to Coast

Chicago, July 10.—Ralph Spence, movie scenarist, who stepped strongly into the dramatic angle of the business when his Gorilla became an overnight hit in New York, was here yesterday and looked over The Gorilla Company, playing at the Studebaker Theater. Spence is on his way to Los Angeles, where his new play, The Yes Man, will have its premiere.

"THE MIRACLE" TO TOUR

Morris Gest To Present Huge Spectacle as Civic Enterprise in at Least Four Cities Next Season—Sails for Europe To Arrange for American Appearance of Moscow Art Theater Musical Studio and Other Foreign Attractions

NEW YORK, July 11.—More than $1,000,000 in guaranty funds has been subscribed in four American cities to make possible the presentation of The Miracle as a civic enterprise in those communities next season, according to an announcement made by Morris Gest just before he sailed last Thursday night on the S. S. Olympic.

In each city the profits will be devoted to charitable or civic purposes. Gest to receive a fixed amount for his services. St. Louis was first in the field with the announcement some weeks ago of a definite four weeks' engagement beginning Christmas Eve, for which a guaranty fund of $325,000 has been arranged. Cincinnati has also underwritten an enormous fund, and the spectacle will begin a three weeks' engagement there Monday evening, September 28. On his return from Europe Gest will attend a special conference of a group of public-spirited citizens in Boston to conclude the arrangements for presenting the great spectacle in the Boston Opera House. He will also confer with a similar group in Chicago which is preparing for a presentation at the Auditorium following the completion of the Chicago opera season. In addition to these four American cities, Toronto is conducting an active campaign to induce Gest to bring The Miracle to Canada. Lady Diana Manners and Rosamond Pinchoff will in all probability fill their original roles in the production when it goes on tour.

The Actors' Equity Association has agreed to waive one of its most important rules in favor of The Miracle. The stupendous task of dismantling the Cathedral structure at the close of an engagement and erecting it once more in the next city renders it physically impossible to lay out a continuous booking for it throughout the season. The Council of Equity has written to Gest waiving the law covering consecutive employment and agreeing to allow its members to tour as per dates and layoffs planned.

An important rendezvous of Gest abroad will be that with Vladimir Nemirovitch-Danchenko, creator and director of the Moscow Art Theater Musical Studio. This meeting will take place in Salzburg, Austria, some time next month, and Gest has every assurance that the great Russian regisseur will by that time have in hand the definite reply of A. V. Lunatcharsky, Minister of Fine Arts, to the enormous petition signed by thousands of American connoisseurs of art, literature and the theater requesting leave of absence for this company from Russia and permission for it to come to America under Gest's direction for two months next winter.

Gest's rendezvous with Danchenko in Salzburg will come simultaneously with the first presentation of The Miracle in Reinhardt's home city. The Salzburg premiere of the great spectacle will take place Sunday evening, August 16, as the outstanding event of the fifth annual Summer Festival, and the performance will be repeated seven times in the course of the following fortnight. Lady Diana Manners plans shortly to arrive in Salzburg to rehearse her role of the Madonna, and Rosamond Pinchoff, the nun of the New York and Cleveland productions, is sailing this week to participate also in the rehearsals and play her original role. Work has been under way on this production for several months. The only feature of the American production which will be used in Salzburg will be the Madonna's robe of stone, and this Gest is taking along with him at the express wish of Lady Diana.

En route to Salzburg, where he will be the guest of Max Reinhardt at his castle home, Schloss Leopoldsdorfer, Gest plans to visit Paris, London and Berlin. In Paris he will confer with Nikita Balieff, whose Chauve-Souris is the summer hit of the French capital once more at the Theatre Femina, relative to a tour of the famous Russian company out to the Pacific Coast next winter.

From Venice, where he will spend a few days, Gest will motor to the home of Gabriele d'Annunzio at a secluded spot on Lake Garda. His experience last summer in being the first visitor from the outside world whom the Italian poet-playwright had received in many months will be recalled, and as d'Annunzio expects shortly to depart for a tour thru South America Gest hopes to induce him to include a visit to the United States as well.

Summer Opera, Failure At Auditorium, Takes At Poli's, Washington

Washington, July 11.—Edouard Alblon is making a brave fight to convert Washington to summer opera. The director of the Washington Opera Company, who has spent the last six years working to make the capital one of the nation's music centers, this spring undertook to give Washington a season of summer opera.

The productions staged here during the winter, under Alblon's direction, and featuring many Metropolitan Opera Company singers, have always drawn good houses and it was the former singer's hope that a summer season would be equally well attended. And so he engaged Sudworth Frazier, Robinson Newbold, late star of Moonlight; Helena Morrill, Sol Solomon, Francis Tyler and others long established as light-opera singers on Broadway, and opened his series with The Bohemian Girl at the new Auditorium at 19th and B streets. The Auditorium, large, airy and nicely appointed as it may be, is no center for a stock company or summer opera company, tho. It is too far out of the way. The car and bus service there is inadequate and within two weeks Alblon had decided that a summer opera season in Washington was no go—at least not at the Auditorium. The small houses had not even paid expenses and it looked as if Washington would have to wait until next winter to hear any other than jazz music from the stage.

But a "friendly patron interested in the success of opera in Washington" came forward, so this week's program at Poli's declares, and backed the company to a new start, and it reopened, after a week's idleness, Monday night. De Koven's tuneful Robin Hood was the production picked to see if the crowds would drift into the more accessible Poli's. Despite the hot weather the houses have been fairly good and what was lacking in numbers, at any show, was more than made up in the intense enthusiasm of the audience.

And today Alblon was more optimistic about the possibilities of his company. Pinafore is the attraction billed for next week and other Gilbert & Sullivan flings at the prudish folk of their time will follow.

The orchestra is under the leadership of Max Hirschfield. The chorus contains many engaging-looking girls, while Frazier and Miss Morrill promise to become the summer's matinee idols.

Rouben Mamoulian will be the director of the new school.

With the opening of the new school the present Eastman Theater ballet will pass out of existence as a separate organization and will be merged with the new school, where dance training will have a much wider scope. Besides ballet training, which will be along the most modern lines rather than strict adherence to the old Italian style, instruction will be offered in stage, classical and interpretative dancing, as well as classes in health education.

Washington, July 11.—The failure of Pola Negri, Paramount screen star, to declare to customs officials two diamonds and emerald bracelets and a 30-carat diamond ring when arriving at New York last May on the S. S. Berengaria, costs her $10,000. This is the penalty imposed by the government for the smuggling. It is reported that officials assessed the ring and bracelets at $47,000.

In a statement issued at Hollywood Miss Negri said: "While I have been advised that I have the right to appeal, I certainly have no such intention. I shall remit the money to Washington at once. I can only say that the situation was the result of my misunderstanding and that I had no intention of violating the laws of the country I hope to make my own."

While rolling a newly inflated balloon tire on a spare rim over to his car, it got away from him, rolled into a post and bounced back with sufficient force to seriously injure his knee. He is at present suffering from water on the knee and will probably have to keep his limb in a plaster cast for several weeks to come. In addition to being treasurer of the house operated by his father, Sherman Brown, Jr., he is also treasurer of the Players' Guild, now in the 10th week of its phenomenally successful third summer season.

'Phantom' Opening At Astor Sept. 15

New York, July 11.—Universal will give its superfeature, The Phantom of the Opera, starring Lon Chaney, its New York premiere Sunday, September 20, at the Astor Theater. The picture will remain at this Broadway house for at least one month.

The Billboard also learned today that The Beggar on Horseback, Paramount superfeature, made by James Cruze, is to close at the Criterion Saturday night, July 18, after a run of six weeks. The opus has failed to draw to the satisfaction of Famous Players-Lasky. Probably about August 15 The Wanderer, another feature production, will occupy the Criterion screen. During the interim it is understood that the house is to be closed. Present plans indicate that F. P.-L. has abandoned its intention of displaying Noana of the South, a South Sea story in a scenic nature, in the Criterion this summer at least.

New York, July 13.—A revised accounting of the estate left by Leon Laski, theatrical attorney, who died July 28, 1923, shows that his estate is valued at $117,175.84 instead of the original accounting of $117,137.84 made by the administrator. Emil Laski, the decedent's brother, was made administrator, and the revised accounting, filed and approved by the Surrogate Court, shows that:

WILLIAM FOX GETS WEST COAST CHAIN

Purchases 50 Per Cent Interest From Ramish---Is Now Negotiating for Other Half of Stock From Lesser and Gore Brothers

New York, July 11.—Having acquired a 50 per cent interest in West Coast Theaters, Inc., comprising 120 theaters throughout California, William Fox is now negotiating for the other half of the stock owned by Sol Lesser and the Gore Brothers. The film producer secured control of the concern thru acquiring the shares owned by Adolph Ramish, the contracts having been signed late Monday afternoon. Although no figures were given out by M. Gore, president of the company, it is estimated that the houses embraced in the deal are valued at approximately $18,000,000.

The future of the West Coast Theaters has been the subject of much speculation owing to the knowledge that they could be purchased provided the owners found an agreeable proposition. At one time Warner Brothers seemed to be a possible purchaser. Initial rumors concerning the transaction had it that the Fox Corporation had acquired the entire chain in the deal, but this was inaccurate.

Another announcement in connection with Fox plans was made today when it was stated that the superfeature, Lightnin', based on the stage play in which Frank Bacon was starred, has been booked into the Mark Strand Theater, New York, for the week of July 19, this being its premiere. Jay Hunt is featured in the film, which will be exhibited at the Strand in Brooklyn the following week.

Threatened Amendments

To Registration of Theatrical Employers' Bill Not Attempted by Bishop of London

By "Westcott"

London, July 11 (Special Cable to The Billboard).—Despite last-hour efforts of the Actors' Association to wreck the Registration of Theatrical Employers' Bill in its committee stage in the House of Lords July 9, the Bishop of London did not speak or even attempt to put forward his threatened amendments. These were to reinstate in the bill penal clauses which had been deleted by the Home Secretary, Variety Artists' Federation officials, thru Monte Bayly, who has been concentrating on this bill for five years, warned His Lordship that his suggested action would wreck the bill, and that the consequent odium would rest with him, etc.

The Actors' Association has issued a four-page pamphlet denouncing the bill with "bell, book and candle," but Alfred Lugg was present in Committee C. In the House of Commons, when the Under-Secretary of State for Home Affairs outlined the Government's objection to part of the bill.

The V. A. F. admits the bill does not give all that it asked for, but, nevertheless, that organization welcomes the bill even in its present form as something to go on with.

Arthur Boucherier is credited with the intention of hoping to wreck the bill when it is returned to the House of Commons for ratification.

The attitude of the Actors' Association has again foolishly antagonized the V. A. F., whose bill it is, and also all those who had agreed to the bill, especially the managerial organizations, who were actuated by a genuine desire to get some legislation on the statute books.

By "Cockaigne"

London, July 11 (Special Cable to The Billboard).—The Theatrical Employers' Registration Bill was considered by the House of Lords' Committee Thursday. On Lord Dunsford's motion it was decided to include any manager, not merely the touring manager who abandons a company, guilty of offense and liable to cancellation of registration. A clause on Lord Desborough's motion was introduced empowering cancellation or suspension of certificate for failure to pay salaries. Another clause applies the bill to Scotland. The bill was then reported to the House to await final reading.

New York, July 18.—John S. Robertson, who recently ended his association with Inspiration Pictures as director of Richard Bartholmeuss films, has been signed to handle the megaphone over Queen Calafia, the first of a series of Incaez stories to be produced by John E. Mearns, formerly director of publicity for Metro-Goldwyn. Robertson and his wife, Josephine Lovett, scenarist, sail next week for Spain, where exteriors will be made. The studio work will be done in this city, probably at the Cosmopolitan Studio. In the cast of the opus are William Powell, Nita Naldi, Virginia Valli, Charles Lane and George Marion. The players will leave shortly after the Robertsons.

Film Players in England Suffer From Unemployment

London, July 8.—American competition in the film industry which is fast driving British producers from the field is bringing hardships to the players, many of whom are in dire need. Unemployment has consequently reached a high mark and it is reported that in some instances actors and actresses who formerly experienced great popularity are standing in the breadline. One producer is now employed as a paper-hanger and an associate is working on a poultry farm. A number of actresses have secured work as waitresses, cloak models and stenographers.

Burlesque Rumors

New York, July 11.—There have been numerous rumors and counter rumors around Columbia Corner during the past week of radical changes on the Columbia Circuit.

Cooper's $1,000 Weekly

The chief subject of discussion and debate was the report that Iube Bernstein, franchise-holding producing manager of Bathing Beauties, offered Jimmie Cooper, former franchise-holding producer of Jimmie Cooper's Revue, a $1,000 weekly salary, to be featured in Bathing Beauties next season. When seen on the corner together, Bernstein and Cooper were non-committal.

Changes in Managers

Johnnie Goldsmith, engaged by Sid Lorraine as manager of Abe Reynolds and His Rounders Company, and Midgie Gibbons, engaged as soubret for the same company, have been transferred to Ed. Daley's Rarin' To Go Company.

Jimmy Weadon, originally engaged by Jack Reid as manager for his Black and White Revue, rumor has it, will go as manager with Abe Reynolds and His Rounders, but Jimmie is noncommittal on the subject, and the same is applicable to Maurice Weinstock, who is rumored to have been engaged as manager of Reid's Black and White Revue.

Verily, there are many changes made by the Columbia Amusement Company that leak down to the corner standees long ere they reach those most vitally concerned in the changes, and Silent Sam is more mystified than ever as to the whereabouts of the leaks.

Ben Bernie and Orchestra At Riesenfeld Luncheon

New York, July 11.—Something new in luncheons was tried out on film editors, reviewers and music critics at the Astor Hotel Thursday noon when Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld entertained them at a "jazz luncheon". The affair was staged to introduce Ben Bernie and his orchestra prior to a summer engagement at the Rivoli Theater tomorrow, replacing the regular organization of musicians. In addition to the delicious food, Bernie and his associates popped up the gathering with a number of selections, which were enthusiastically received. Dr. Riesenfeld officiated as master of ceremonies and saw to it that there was nothing in the way of long-winded speeches. Except for a few light remarks by Bernie and the managing director, the only other number on the program was Alfred Bryan, song lyric writer, who effectively recited a brace of poems. Before the guests recovered their hats and vanity cases they were guided to the eastern section of the roof to pose for a news-reel picture which will be included in the program at the Rialto next week.

Ed Olmstead, director of publicity for the Paramount houses, and Abe Meyer aided in the management of the luncheon.

M. P. HOUSES FORM CIRCUIT FOR BOOKING ATTRACTIONS

Cinema Theater Attractions, Inc., Headed by Jerome H. Cargill, Will Follow Unique Plan--Universal Film Company Believed To Be Back of Project

NEW YORK, July 13.—The formation of a large circuit of motion picture houses booking its vaudeville acts, artists or attractions thru a central agency is seen in the Cinema Theater Attractions, Inc., which has been organized under the laws of the State of New York with a capital stock of 50 preferred shares of $100 par value and 100 shares of common stock of no par value. It is a close corporation.

Indications are that the circuit will be able to play most of its presentations from 20 weeks upward, and its success is probably assured thru the fact that the Universal Film Company is believed to be back of the project. This assumption is based on the name of Walter Batchelor being down as vice-president of the organization. He is connected with the booking department of the Universal. Jerome H. Cargill is president. Among other things Cargill has been conducting an agency which handled name acts, and he was formerly with the Keith Circuit. T. D. Kemp, Jr., is treasurer, and Julian T. Abeles, attorney, is secretary.

The feature of the cinema attractions concern is that the booking will be done on a plan never tried before. A franchise system will be used, and each theater holding a franchise will be entitled to send a representative into the booking exchange every Wednesday of every sixth week and confer with other managers affiliated with the exchange, and to witness the audition of various attractions the exchange may arrange in order to determine the merits and value of the attractions for booking into certain theaters. The exchange will virtually act as purchasing agent, booker and procurer of presentation each week for the theaters. A detailed report of each conference will be promptly rendered to each manager and the opinions regarding the attraction also will be set down in the report. The exchange will bring before any managers' conference any attraction that the manager may desire provided said act is then available. A list of acts offered to the exchange and the price will also be a part of the service to managers.

Theaters will pay to the exchange 10 per cent of the salary of the acts booked into their houses. This money will go to the exchange and be used for operating expenses, also for paying the expenses of the theater managers in coming to the exchange headquarters. This is said to be the most unique angle connected with the plan. On a $750 act the fee allowed the manager for expenses will be $15, $20 on a $1,000 act and $25 on a $1,500 offering.

Theaters cannot book outside acts while doing business with the exchange, but can cancel the franchise agreement on six weeks' notice. It is understood that 13 theaters in which the Universal is interested will book thru the agency, and other small chains of from 5 to 12 houses also are interested. About 26 houses are said to be set for the service.

Vaude. Managers in Summer Conference

Managers' Competitive Contest an Important Subject of Discussion

NEW YORK, July 13.—The annual summer conference of the Keith-Albee, Moss and Proctor theater managers begins today, with a large number of managers from cities all over the country coming to New York to attend. Sessions of the conference will be held every day, starting this afternoon and ending Thursday, at the National Vaudeville Artists' Club.

In addition to the usual topics in regard to acts and plans for the coming season, the discussion this year will include the managers' competitive contest now going on. Suggestions for more and better photographs, lobby displays and exploitation methods will be considered and plans will be made for their working out. Ideas for the selling of acts to the public for the purpose of making new headlines and box-office attractions, in line with the new contest, will also be taken up.

The subject of proper publicity and also of the type of photographs to furnish newspapers will be outlined in detail to the various house managers by John Pollock, head of the K-A, and affiliated circuits' press departments. Edwin G. Lauder, Jr., will speak on next season's bookings and give the circuits values of acts that have been most successful artistically and financially, based on the experience of past years. The new foreign importations are to be described by Harry J. Mondorf.

Look thru the Hotel Directory in this issue. Just the kind of a hotel you want may be listed.

Florida's Movie City Streets Are Now Named After Stars

Tampa, Fla., July 11.—Sun City, Florida's motion picture city, has named every one of its 36 drives and streets after prominent screen stars. The main avenue is known as Studio boulevard and the list includes Fairbanks drive, Chaplin drive, Talmadge avenue, Swanson avenue and Petrova circle. Some of the streets have been named after the best producing companies, the appellations being, for example: Goldwyn drive, First National drive, Pathe place and Universal avenue. In cases where similar names represent more than one person popular in the industry, such as Griffith avenue, the matter will be decided by vote. More than 1,000 maps of the city have been mailed to well-known figures in the industry and to the motion picture papers.

Edgar Selwyn Buys Play by J. E. Goodman

NEW YORK, July 11.—Edgar Selwyn has accepted a new comedy entitled The Night Have Beens, written by Jules Eckert Goodman, and will produce it early in the fall, following his production of Something to Brag About, a play which he himself wrote in collaboration with William Le Baron. The latter piece was tried out last week by Selwyn in conjunction with the George Cukor Stock Company at the Lyceum Theater in Rochester and proved a hit. Casting for Broadway will begin next Monday and Selwyn will present the play in New York about the middle of August.

Chaplin vs. Amador Ruling Reversed by Court

Hollywood, Calif., July 13.—Charles Chaplin, film comedian, is not entitled to the exclusive use of his particular style of baggy pants, cane, derby and mustache, according to the final decision of Superior Court Judge John L. Huhner, recorded July 11. The judge also ruled that Charles Amador, whom the famous comedian brought into court recently, may wear such garments in acting before the movie camera, but he must not advertise his films under a name which will make the public believe Chaplin's antics are being shown.

FIRE DAMAGES STAUCH'S

New York, July 13.—Fire which caused damage amounting to $500 broke out Saturday in Stauch's restaurant and dance hall on Stillwell avenue, from the Bowery to the Boardwalk, Coney Island. The blaze, caused by an overheated chimney in the restaurant kitchen, was discovered shortly after 7 p. m. by the manager, who ordered the orchestra to keep playing, drowning the noise of the fire apparatus summoned.

Columbia vs. Mutual Public To Decide Which Has Better Shows

St. Louis, July 11.—Oscar Dane, directing manager of the Liberty Music Hall, presenting stock burlesque, is enjoying a successful summer season and started a unique voting contest among the patrons.

A coupon is printed in the house program which the patron is asked to fill out. It is a voting scheme to decide which shows the audience likes better—the Columbia Circuit shows or the Mutual Circuit shows. The stock company is made up of principals and chorus girls who have played over both circuits. The contest is to run for four weeks. The first week's voting was neck and neck. The final result will be published July 25.

Dane was formerly manager of the Gayety Theater, a Columbia house, and made it one of the most profitable houses on the circuit. Dane later switched his allegiance to the Mutual Circuit and acquired control of the Garrick Theater, a Mutual "coaling station".

Dane will manage the Garrick next season personally. It was erroneously reported that I. H. Herk, president and general manager of the Mutual Burlesque Association, had bought the Garrick. Herk has bought a half interest, Dane retaining the other half interest.

The Liberty Music Hall is now in its 48th week and will run all summer. The Columbia Circuit tried burlesque in the same neighborhood a few years ago, but had to give it up.

Fox & Krause were negotiating to lease from Dane, but the success of the stock company killed the deal.

Herk & Dane are remodeling the Garrick at a cost of $30,000 and increasing the seating capacity.

Nathan S. Dyches, who has been in charge of publicity for Earl Hudson's units working in New York, will be associated with Brand.

Asserts Home Movies Will Help Theaters

New Camera and Projector Made by Pathex Not a Competitor of Exhibitors, Gable Declares

NEW YORK, July 11.—The new combination motion picture camera and projector made for use in the home and announced by Pathex, Inc., a subsidiary of Pathe Exchange, Inc., this week, will stimulate rather than injure the business of movie theaters, according to Gilbert E. Gable, production manager for the concern. The invention, he told The Billboard, "is in no sense in competition with the theater."

Gable pointed out that down thru the history of amusement devices new additions to various industries have tended to promote the popularity of the particular phase of entertainment as a whole. The majority of moviegoers will not be interested in the invention from a standpoint of ownership and the people who will acquire machines, in many instances, show but little enthusiasm in silver-sheet productions, he said. However, Gable asserted the interest in motion pictures will be stimulated thru their home activities and consequently the exhibitor will benefit. He declared that the main value of the machine to the general public lies in its use for the recording of "the history of the home."

As far as the cost of the machine to the public it compares with a good-grade phonograph or radio. The camera and projector fit in a handbag, the combined weight of both machines being about five pounds. The camera is the size of a standard vest-pocket camera and registers its action in ordinary daylight.

The film is projected on a screen of any size from 10 to 15 inches to 23 to 36 inches. Each camera is equipped to produce a 30-foot film, aggregating 1,200 individual scenes. The Pathex Company is planning to issue 60-foot reels in educational and other subjects. Owners of the machine may have their films developed free of charge thru the dealer from whom they purchased the set.

Announcement of the marketing of the invention was printed in full-page advertisements in the New York dailies Thursday.

Shakeup Results in Changes In National Art Players

Omaha, Neb., July 13.—A shakeup in the National Art Players, appearing at the Brandeis Theater for the past eight weeks, has resulted in four of the principal members of the company leaving and a reorganization. Changes in the company, brought about, the actors said, by friction with Samuel Genese, manager of the company, will greatly strengthen the cast. According to Genese's statement those leaving the company are Thomas Mitchell, David Tearle, Beth Franklin and Kathleen Conerys. The new players are Alexis Luce, Isabelle Low and Katherine Clinton.

The National Art Players have become very popular in this city and just what effect this shakeup will have remains to be seen.

PLAN $2,500,000 PICTURE HOUSE

Marks Bros. To Build New Theater in Chicago To Seat 5,000

Chicago, July 13.—A supercinema theater, to be known as the Paradise and to cost $2,500,000, is to be built on the West Side in Madison street, near Crawford avenue, by Marks Bros. The American Bond and Mortgage Company has underwritten $1,650,000 in bonds for a construction loan.

J. H. Woodworth & Son, of Los Angeles, Calif., are the architects. The design will be Spanish and the house will have an illuminated dome 60 feet in diameter, in which a set of gigantic chimes will be installed to be operated from the organ pit. The walls, and even the draperies and tapestries, will be set with inlaid stones and jewels.

A revolving stage, 38x70 feet, for quick changes will be constructed. On each side of the stage will be a balcony for singers and speakers. The house will have a mezzanine floor and a balcony. Two giant elevators will serve the balcony patrons.

It is claimed the theater will seat about 5,000. Marks Bros. already have three theaters here and five others under construction. They include the $2,000,000 theater at Sheridan road and Devon street, the Ritz at Lawrence and Harding streets, the Embassy at Fullerton street and Crawford avenue and the Waukegan at Waukegan, Ill.

The owners announce that negotiations are also under way for two more houses. Marks Bros. are quoted as saying they have a $2,000,000 theater building program in contemplation.

Virginia Maxwell Recuperating

San Francisco, Calif., July 10.—Virginia Maxwell, of Ted and Virginia Maxwell, has recovered from her illness so rapidly that they have recently begun work on new material. They have been commissioned to write and act for Bert and Dorothy Kidder, well-known vaudeville sketch artists of five or six years ago, and have just about completed a crook comedy-dramatic sketch for them. The Kidders contemplate taking the act to Chicago in August for its premiere showing. The Maxwells have also been given the task of finishing the dramatizing of The Nut Cracker, by Frederick Isham, author of Nothing But the Truth and Three Live Ghosts. Isham started to dramatize this novel shortly before his death, and the unfinished work has been turned over to the Maxwells by Mary Forrest, their New York agent.

Maxwell is also devoting a great deal of his time to the Hoffman-Maxwell Play Company, which he has recently become associated with. It has fine offices here and is doing a nice volume of business. Maxwell's Dolly of the Folies continues to lease rapidly and is proving a wonderful Toby play.

Shuberts Will Not Let Go Of Great Northern Theater

Chicago, July 15.—A persistent report that Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick had bought the Shubert lease on the Great Northern Theater and which got into print in at least one theatrical paper (not The Billboard) was pronounced by Sam Gerson, of the Shubert offices, to be without foundation.

"Mrs. McCormick has not bought the Great Northern and is not going to buy it," said Mr. Gerson. "The Shuberts have made the house a big winner with The Student Prince, and have no reason for letting go of it."

Mrs. McCormick was reported to be seeking the theater for use as a civic playhouse.

Siedle Will Probated

New York, July 13.—The estate of Edward Siedle, technical director of properties and scenery at the Metropolitan Opera House for 30 years, who died last March 30, is divided entirely between his wife and son under the terms of his will, which was admitted to probate last week in Surrogate's Court. His estate is estimated at $10,000 in personal property after all debts are paid. His widow, Helen H. Siedle, who is also the executrix, receives the residue of the estate. Edward V. Siedle, his son, is bequeathed $1,000.

The company is playing its regular summer engagement of stock after a successful all-winter run in Florida. The company carries 25 people, with band and orchestra. Business continues good.

Jury Indicts Nine in Night Club Collapse

Boston, July 13.—In an effort to fix the responsibility for the collapse July 4 of the Pickwick Club, in which 44 lives were lost and many injured, among them being a number of the Shubert Boston forces, the grand jury has indicted nine persons, three of whom were immediately arraigned in Suffolk County Court on charges of manslaughter. They were Timothy J. Barry, president and treasurer of the club; Hyman Bloomberg, lessee of the building, and George C. Funk, architect. Three others, John L. Pultz, general contractor, who is building a garage adjoining the club site; John M. Tobin, Pultz's superintendent, and Nathan Fultz, contractor employed by the estate of Albert R. Rosenthal, owner of the property on which the club was located, are scheduled to be arraigned today. The names of the three other men were not learned.

When arraigned before Judge Lumus and charged with having caused the death of Paul Hallerin, patrolman, one of the victims, Barry and Funk pleaded not guilty and were released under bond of $2,000 for trial Wednesday.

Calgary Exhibition and Stampede Record Breaker Despite Two Days of Rain

before staged. Construction of the floats commenced some two months ago. The subject was divided in 31 historical sections, telling the story of the development of the West and starting with the period before the coming of the white man. One section alone, The Coming of the Ranchmen, was some two miles in length and the total pageant exceeded five miles. There were used in it 1,303 horses by actual count.

The Indian section alone was a magnificent sight and there were many novelties, including a team of full-blooded buffaloes which had been broken for the occasion. Hoot Gibson and his moving picture contingent were in one of the sections.

The pageant occupied all of the morning of Monday, the opening day, and then it has rained intermittently since, not so much to keep customers away as to prevent them getting the program promised them. No evening shows have been possible and only one afternoon of Stampede events.

The pageant was witnessed by from 65,000 to 70,000 people and attendance in the city is a record breaker, there being visitors from nearly every State in the Union and from every Canadian province, all "raring to go", but all held up by the weather.

The Rubin & Cherry Shows, in spite of the rain, have been doing good business, but the World Amusement Service Association platform shows have not had a chance yet, owing to the rain.

The Stampede events will be reported for the next issue of The Billboard, there having so far been only one lone day of the contests.

Minimum Rate Set For Stage Designs

at least $100 for any ordered and accepted or not accepted idea for musical revues, and $50 or more for any ordered and accepted or not accepted idea for vaudeville acts. Personal services, calling for supervision of execution of painting, selecting of props and furniture and arranging lighting, will be charged for at the rate of not less than $250 per production. Agreement between an artist and producer may, of course, call for higher figures than the minimum. These charges are in no way to be confused with the additional cost of the actual execution of settings in the studios. The ruling only covers the creators and designers. Construction and painting charges are entirely separate.

The scenic artists' regulations are the outcome of abuses by managers, some of whom have ordered sketches indiscriminately, using the designers' creation or not, and paying for the work put in on it or not as they chose. Others have lifted ideas in some designs, with the originator receiving no compensation. Under the adopted schedule if more than one artist is engaged to submit ideas or designs those rejected must be paid for at the rate of at least $100 each.

Charles E. Lessing, president of the U. S. A. A., in commenting on the action, said: "As an example, to make the new schedule perfectly clear, an artist who designs the settings for a three-act play is hereafter to receive a minimum of $250 per scene or $750 for that three-act production. If he also supervises the execution and setting of the actual stage, that is, acts as art director, he will receive at least an additional $250 for that service, so that the producer will hereafter have to pay at least $1,000 to the man who furnishes the ideas for his play of three different settings, which surely is a small enough compensation when the taste, training, study, effort, time and originality are taken into consideration."

OLGA PETROVA IS SUED FOR $35,759

British Author Alleges "The White Peacock" Is Identical to His "La Rubia"

New York, July 13.—William Henry Roberts, who is employed in the Naval Stores Department of the British Admiralty in London, Eng., has brought suit here thru his attorneys against Olga Petrova for $35,759 damages, alleging that the actress-manager-playwright, who claims that The White Peacock, her last starring vehicle, was written by herself, copied the play from one of his own, called La Rubia.

Roberts say the two plays are identical except as to title. The White Peacock is said to have earned the sum of $228,000 for Mme. Petrova. Roberts claims $20,000 damages and $15,759 as royalty, computed at the usual rates. He asserts, and Mme. Petrova has admitted in an amended answer just filed, that in 1918 he entered into an agreement with the actress under which she was to produce and appear in his play, La Rubia, for one year. An advance royalty of $1,000 was paid at the time. The agreement contained a clause providing for changes in the script to be made by Mme. Petrova and specified that upon production it should be advertised as the joint work of Mme. Petrova and Roberts.

At the end of a year no production had been made, and so, according to Roberts, all rights reverted to him. The plaintiff then makes the charge that in 1921 Mme. Petrova produced and acted in The White Peacock, the authorship of which was ascribed to herself.

Mme. Petrova denied the similarity of the two plays, and has retained as her trial counsel former Judge Nash Rockwood. The issue will be tried during the fall term of the Supreme Court.

"GIL" ROBINSON OCTOGENARIAN

Circus Man Will Celebrate Eightieth Birthday July 15 With Big "Family Party"

This week that veteran of the white-top world, Gilbert N. Robinson, more intimately known as just "Gil", becomes an octogenarian. The date of his 80th birthday, to be exact, is July 15. The occasion will be celebrated with a family dinner party at the Business Men's Club in Cincinnati, with all the members of the Robinson relationship participating.

Mr. Robinson, who is hale and hearty—and spry, not like a youngster but spry just the same—arrived in Cincinnati July 11, traveling by auto from Atlantic City. The trip, which he said was a very pleasant one, consumed about three days, he going by way of Baltimore, Wheeling and Columbus. He will use the same mode of travel for returning.

Mr. Robinson's mission to the Queen City, where he will be for two weeks, is, in addition to celebrating his birthday with the "home folks", to attend the quarterly meeting of the board of directors of the United States Playing Card Company. He was a visitor at The Billboard offices Monday afternoon, accompanied by his nephew, John G. Robinson, who like his uncle also has a wide circle of friends and acquaintances in the show world.

Congratulations to you, "Gil", says The Billboard, and we know your other friends join us in this. May you have many more happy birthdays.

and pictures, and diagonally across from Loew's New York Theater and Roof, which play motion pictures, it is doubtful if either of these policies will be adopted. The Astor has been used for first-run pictures by other producers, and it is possible that the house will be used for exclusive Broadway runs for Metro-Goldwyn pictures at a $2 top, in similar fashion to Famous Players-Lasky with some of their features at the Criterion, and William Fox, who has from time to time leased the Lyric or the Central Theater with the purpose of playing "superspecials" at these prices. Ben-Hur will probably be the first which Loew will use the Astor for.

Shortly before Loew took over the Astor the organization completed arrangements with Joe Weinstein, who operates several independent picture houses in the city, whereby the Freeman Theater, a motion picture house seating about 2,000 at Freeman street and Southern boulevard, the Bronx, becomes Loew's, Inc., property. As this house is adaptable for vaudeville it probably will continue playing films. Loew will alter the house and make several changes in seating arrangements and exits. This gives Loew four houses on Southern boulevard between 163rd and 176th streets, less than a mile covering the entire four houses. The others are the Elsmere, playing pictures; Spooner, also pictures, and Boulevard, with vaudeville and pictures.

The Bronx is also to get another new house at 176th street and Jerome avenue, which will be erected by the Jerome Avenue Exhibition Company. This organization has purchased eight lots from Edith L. Just, Inc. thru the Billingsley Realty Co. This gives the firm a site on Jerome and Davidson avenues, which is the entire block between those streets, running 207 feet on 176th street. Plans for this house are being drawn by Eugene De Rosa for a house with a seating capacity of about 2,200 seats in a two-story building having 15 stores in addition to other commercial enterprises, with a Chinese restaurant on the upper floor. The officers of the Jerome Avenue Exhibition Company are Logan Billingsley, president; Samuel Shack, vice-president; Joseph Levy, treasurer, and Abraham Goldstein, secretary.

A theater seating 3,300 people is to be erected in New Rochelle at Main street and Center avenue. The builders who have purchased the property comprise the 1925 Realty Corporation, Samuel Levy, president. The site was bought from Samuel Brenner.

In conjunction with their recently announced "School of the Theater", John Murray Anderson and Robert Milton have secured the property at 121-131 E. 58th street, between Park and Lexington avenues, on which they will construct the Park Avenue Theater. Plans for this house are being drawn by William Lawrence Bottomley. The school, lecture halls, classrooms, studio ballroom and gymnasium outlined in their plans will all be in the same building. A repertory company is to be organized by the advanced students for the presentation of new plays. It is also planned to offer light opera at the theater and a new form of revue to be called the John Murray Anderson Follies. They have already secured a serious play by Don Marquis which will be presented.

The Claremont Theater changed hands during the week. The house, situated at Broadway and 125th street, was sold by the Fitzman Building Corporation to the Hadassah Realty Corporation. The property rents for about $45,000 a year and includes, in addition to the theater, the Royal Palm Gardens and eight stores.

NO AMALGAMATION OF THEATERS SAY INDEPT. AGENTS AND BOOKERS

Hold Meeting To Consider Advisability of Plan To Pool Houses and Create Vast Circuit of More Than 50 Weeks, But Scheme Fails To Interest Smaller Men

NEW YORK, July 11.—At an informal luncheon held early this week in the Hunting Room of the Hotel Astor, it was definitely decided that an amalgamation of the independent agents and bookers into one big circuit was not feasible at present, and, according to consensus of opinion, not even a possibility in the future.

The agents, who are not overfriendly as far as their routine business is concerned, got together at the behest of a popular booker who believed that an independent circuit offering a year's work in and around New York would prove a great money-making scheme, more profitable than the way it is now being operated. The plan has been considered before, but not seriously.

It was pointed out by the sponsor of the combine idea that there were many benefits to be derived from pooling the houses around this city and those within a 100-mile radius and so create an exchange on a large scale, with the various agents sharing in the profits on a pro-rata basis, according to the houses they handled or brought into the exchange.

By the time the lead tea was served the smaller of bookers said they couldn't see their way clear to getting a decent percentage out of the organization when their houses were nothing compared to a booker like Fally Markus who heads the independents with 30 odd houses at the height of the season.

Others failed to see how they could associate with agents who had at one time or another fallen into disrepute, and again it was said competition is the life of the industry now, with houses constantly changing bookers, whereas it would be an entirely different matter once the business was done under the same roof. They feared that it would preclude the possibility of adding to their chain once the circuit was set.

Some agents thought the plan would prove the greatest boon to acts in years. At least 52 weeks' work could be arranged with little effort should all of the agents and bookers pool their respective houses. What the managers of the houses thought of the plan was not brought up at the meeting.

Big Radio Revue For Loew Circuit

NEW YORK, July 13.—An act consisting of well-known radio artists only, produced in the form of a revue, is to be booked over the Loew Circuit for the coming season, and will mark the first time an offering of this sort will have played vaudeville. Victor Hyde is producing the revue, which will be known as the WIN Entertainers and which is to consist of a cast of 12 radio stars.

The Loew Circuit has already played radio artists, but in conjunction with broadcasting direct from its theaters. The radio entertainers' revue is in the nature of an experiment to see whether their constant broadcasting over WIN has made them valuable to the Loew theaters as attractions without the other being employed for their exploitation at the theaters in which they will be played.

The radio revue is but part of Hyde's plans for next season, which include several big acts. Another is to include a cast of seven people, headed by Wania, a Russian dancer. Ann Reid is also to head a revue which Hyde will produce. This one to have a company of eight. It will be staged in seven scenes.

Leviathan Band Returning

NEW YORK, July 13.—The S. S. Leviathan Band, which has been away from vaudeville for the past year, will return to the two-a-day July 27 when it opens at the E. F. Albee Theater, Brooklyn. The band is now playing on the ocean liner from which it derives its name.

Team Goes Home

Chicago, July 9.—Williams and Bernice have returned from Indianapolis, Ind., where they played for a celebration July 3-4. The affair was a big success they said. The team will go home to Evansville, Ind., for a two weeks' stay and then begin fair dates.

Vaude. Executives On Mayor's Committee

NEW YORK, July 13.—E. F. Albee, Mark A. Luescher and a number of local managers of Keith-Albee theaters have been honored by an invitation from Mayor John F. Hylan to become members of the Mayor's Committee on Receptions which is now being reorganized. The committee heretofore consisted of men well known in public, political and financial circles in addition to those whose names are well represented in society.

The committee will have additional functions to those performed by the one now disbanded. Not only will it make arrangements to honor distinguished visitors to this city but it will be included in all special committees appointed for special celebrations and observations. One of the first of these which will come under the jurisdiction of the newly organized committee will be the observation of the 300th anniversary of the purchase of Manhattan from the Indians, which will be celebrated in 1926.

Ban Ridiculing Of Public Officials

NEW YORK, July 13.—The order asking artistes playing Keith-Albee, Moss and Proctor houses to eliminate any gags or bits in their acts which ridicule the New York Police Department has been extended to cover all other public officials, including the Mayor, Governor and President.

Bulletins have been posted backstage at the various houses affiliated with the K. A. Circuit to the following effect:

"The Mayor, Governor, President and other public officials have been elected by the people and are entitled to every courtesy. While we may differ in opinions and politics from them, under no consideration should they be ridiculed."

Sun-Diamond Office Takes A. & H. Chicago Bookings

Chicago, July 10.—The Gus Sun-Billy Diamond office has succeeded Sydney Schallmann in booking acts for the Ackerman & Harris Circuit in Chicago. A report that this change would take place was published some time ago in The Billboard. At that time the Sun office and Schallmann firm both denied that there were any grounds for the report. Billy Diamond said today that his office would begin handling the A. & H. bookings August 15. The contract with Ackerman & Harris is said to be for 10 years.

Contrary to reports recently published in trade journals, not The Billboard, the Sun Offices report that they will continue to book houses in Lima, Findlay, Fremont, Hamilton, Richmond and Marion. The fact of the matter is, instead of losing any houses, they have added 10 more houses to play vaudeville and 15 to play musical shows.

Pat Rooney and Revue To Play Long Beach Cabaret

NEW YORK, July 13.—Pat Rooney and his son, Pat Rooney III, will open with their supporting cast of their vaudeville revue, Shantrock, at Castles-by-the-Sea, Long Beach, L. I., tomorrow evening. Rooney and his company are scheduled to play at this cabaret thru July and August and will give a special floor show. Most of the material which was used in the act in vaudeville has been adapted for use on the floor. Edgar Allen Wolf, author of the act, has also written some special material which will serve for the cabaret purpose.

Hipp. Reopens Season Aug. 31

NEW YORK, July 13.—The Keith-Albee Hippodrome will be reopened August 31, about the same time it opened for the season last year. The house will continue to be booked by John Schmitze, under the supervision of Mark A. Luescher, managing director of the house. No act has been set as yet for the opening bill, but one of them will be a new European novelty, several of which are now being considered.

Clinton E. Lake, resident manager of the Hippodrome, returned to New York this week from his vacation, having been away since the house closed in June.

Stackhouse With Robbins

NEW YORK, July 13.—C. P. Stackhouse, former owner and manager of Keith's 81st Street Theater, is now associated with John A. Robbins, independent agent and booker. The Robbins offices move some time this week from the Putnam Building to new quarters on the ninth floor of the Bethlehem Steel Building, 1560 Broadway.

Auburn House Closes for Summer

Auburn, N. Y., July 10.—The Jefferson Theater, which closed this week, will reopen Labor Day with vaudeville and pictures. Early in August Al G. Field's Musicals will play a one-night engagement.

Myrtle Theater Closes

NEW YORK, July 13.—The Myrtle Theater, Brooklyn, closed Sunday night and will remain dark until August 27. Meanwhile the renovation and alterations, which were started recently, will be completed. The house recently went back to a split-week policy of six acts and pictures. It will continue to operate the same way when it reopens. Harry Lorraine of the Fally Markus Agency books the house.

Actress Cuts Off Husband in Will

of Shirley and Hermann,
Leaves $4,000 Estate

NEW YORK, July 11.—Marion Shirley, former actress, who died Tuesday of this week, left approximately $4,000 in realty and personality, according to her will filed in the Surrogate's Court the day after she died.

George Hermann, "the dancing skeleton," has been directed to show cause July 22 why the will should not be admitted to probate as it reads. Hermann is disinherited by the will, executed January 31, 1924.

Division of the property left by Mrs. Hermann includes a bequest of $500 to Margaret Hermann, mother-in-law, residing in Cincinnati. Emma Riley, mother of Mrs. Hermann, living at the Old People's Home in Jersey City, will receive a wristwatch and a life interest in the residue, with the principal at her death to her (Mrs. Hermann's) brother, of Lynn, Mass.

John C. Peabody, K.-A. agent, and John Gorman (the latter is believed to be Tom Gorman, theater manager.), both of the Palace Theater Building, are left $50 each. Other bequests range from $200 downward, exclusive of various pieces of jewelry. Of the latter a wishbone bracelet and a bracelet with a tiger head go to Mildred Fennekl, of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Hermann, whose body was cremated, formerly toured this country and abroad with her husband, as a member of the vaudeville team of Hermann and Shirley, and retired about two years ago on account of ill health. Years ago she was well known in legitimate productions.

New Campaign Against Gum Chewers

NEW YORK, July 13.—Local vaudeville houses are inaugurating a campaign against careless gum chewers who park their gum on seats or in the rugs. Last week a special paragraph, headed "A Good-Natured Talk About Gum in the Theater," was inserted in a prominent part of all the programs of the New York houses. This is to be sent to out-of-town managers on the larger circuits for their use in the same manner.

About five years ago the Keith Circuit repeated requests to patrons to be careful about where they deposit their gum. At that time all chewing was eliminated from the candy stands in the theaters and has been since. The circuit's efforts at that time were successful, but in the time which has elapsed patrons have grown careless again.

The paragraph referred to above reads as follows:

"Gum chewing is the great American habit, and fortunately for the theaters most gum chewers park their gum before taking their seats. Now and then, however, someone drops his or her gum on the carpet or sticks it under the seat, and that means discomfort for another patron and a hard job of cleaning for the house. Everyone knows how annoying it is to step or sit on gum and how hard it is to remove from any fabric into which it is ground. Theaters have a goodly cleaning bill on account of gum dropped on the carpets and rugs, and patrons every now and then are mightily disturbed at coming in contact with this sticky reminder of a thoughtless person. Please take heed of where you leave your discarded gum. It will be appreciated if gum chewers do unto others as they would be done by in this matter."

No Acts for First Half

NEW YORK, July 13.—Cohen's Opera House, Newburg, and the Rialto, Poughkeepsie, both of which are booked out of the A. & B. BOSTON HIPPODROME CLOSES AFTER PLAYING ONE WEEK

New House Has Stormy Opening With Several Acts Refused Licenses To Perform by Authorities---Pickwick Club Scare Largely Responsible

BOSTON, Mass., July 13.—After a stormy opening week, in which the city authorities refused permission for certain acts to appear, the new 5,000-seat Hippodrome closed Saturday night, with no date set for a reopening as yet. The executives state that they plan to reopen in the fall, after altering certain parts of the stage and its equipment to avoid a recurrence of last Monday's happenings, in which licenses were refused the theater to play aerial acts and the auto polo attraction.

The trouble with the authorities is laid largely to a scare which is one result of the Pickwick Club catastrophe, which happened just two days before the theater opened. The acts which were refused permission to appear were Ralph Hankinson's American-British Auto Polo Team, Miss La Pearl, aerial artist, and the Fearless Flyers, also an aerial act. The Phoniest Phord was another act refused permission to play. The authorities based their refusal on the grounds that the auto acts used gasoline and that the riders weren't strong enough to support the aerial offerings, none of the acts having their own rigging or uprights with them as they were told that they could hang from the girders. However, while the objection wasn't raised to the authorities, several connected with the theater state unofficially that the girders are strong enough to support elephants, and as the floors are of solid concrete, the fact that the autos used gasoline wouldn't be dangerous.

The acts which weren't allowed to work appeared in person at each show nevertheless and were introduced to the audience by an announcer who explained why they were not permitted to perform. Business was good all week long.

The complete bill for the past week included the Hippodrome Band, conducted by Windfield Green; a tournament, a ballet, the International Arabs, the Rainbow Trio, Francis and La Pearl, The Phoniest Phord, the Cast-les, Randow and clowns, Jackson and Lawlor, Dubusky Troupe, Fearless Flyers, Sutcliffe Family, Miss La Pearl, the Hippodrome Clowns, the Fisher Sisters and the Auto Polo Teams.

It is reported that all the acts have been paid in full for the one week and other obligations also paid off. The house probably will reopen in September.

Resume Auditions At Palace August 6

New York, July 13.—The weekly morning auditions for new acts that desire quick opportunities to show to the Keith-Albee bookers will be resumed at the Palace Theater Thursday morning, August 6. Franklin Graham of W. Dayton Wegfarth's department will be in charge of the auditions.

The resuming of these weekly auditions will give new acts three houses in which to show the bookers, as Proctor's 125th Street Theater and B. S. Moss' Franklin Theater play "professional tryouts" in addition to their regular bills on one day of each week. At the Proctor house they are held every Monday, the acts "showing" being spotted ahead of the regular bill, but run off as tho they were part of the show booked in for the entire half of the week. These are booked by Mark Murphy. The Franklin Theater plays the "tryouts" every Thursday in similar manner, these being booked in by Jeff Davis.

William Morris Leaves For the Continent

New York, July 13.—Cabled advice received at the William Morris Agency are to the effect that Mr. Morris leaves London today for the continent. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Morris and daughter Ruth. After spending some time in Paris they will journey to Berlin and may later go to Vienna. Arrangements probably will be made by Mr. Morris to put on American vaudeville shows along the lines of his successful venture at the Hippodrome and Kit Kat Club. He will also look over foreign headlines suitable for exportation to the U. S.

O'Shea To Do New Act

New York, July 13.—Oscar O'Shea will next season do a new act, which is being written by Carl Niesse. The vehicle, billed as The Highway Lurcher, will employ a cast of three people. Malcolm Lane will direct the bookings.

RE MONKEY ACTS

New York, July 13.—The "Scopes" trial and the publicity it is securing set Matt Kelly, a popular and ambitious independent agent, to an extra effort to get more money for one of his acts, Pouzlin's Monkeys. He submitted the offering to Harry Lorraine, of the Fally Markus Agency. Lorraine asked him the salary and Kelly stated the price. "G'wan," retorted Lorraine, "for that money I'd want Bryan and Darrow to take bows with the act."

Circuit Head Sells Circus Side Show

Buffalo, July 13.—Clyde Griffith, president and general manager of the National Vaudeville Exchange, Inc., of this city, has sold his circus side show and intends to concentrate all his attention on the vaudeville circuit. He will begin a tour shortly with the purpose of lining up new houses to be booked by the exchange of which he is head. Griffith states that he will open a branch office in Pittsburgh shortly. This office will handle the theaters booked by the exchange in Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Tries Musical Stock For the First Half

New York, July 13.—The Freeport Theater, considered the model independent house of the country because of the modern methods employed by Major Hassmussen, owner, will inaugurate a policy of musical stock for the first half of the week and use the usual acts of vaudeville for the last half.

The house formerly played vaudeville on a split-week policy. The Gingham Girl will be the show starting today and other musical shows at the theater will depend upon the business done with the innovation. The capacity of the Freeport, which is in the heart of the actors' colony on Long Island, is more than 1,800 seats.

The animals terminate their vacation the latter part of August when the theater reopens.

Keith's Theater, Washington, Packs 'Em in With Novelties

Washington, July 13.—Manager Robbins of Keith's Theater here has a bagful of tricks with which to keep the silver clinking on the box-office window ledge during the hot weather.

With the capital sweltering in temperatures of 100 and 105 most of the time, it takes no little showmanship to keep a large house filled. And yet Robbins is doing it. Keith's is holding its own with the amusement parks and the National Stock Company, a special favorite of the capital.

One trick Robbins has brought out of the bag is the offer of refreshments at matinees. In the eight-minute intermissions on the afternoon bill the crowds literally swarm the promenade, where ushers dispense tasty and cooling boxes of ice cream free of charge. "Keith Koolies," Robbins calls them, and they are one of Washington's favorite dishes.

Another drawing card to the high-school crowd is a victrola with a stack of the latest jazz records in the promenade available to these youngsters during the intermissions and before and after the performance.

Perhaps the best drawing card Robbins has introduced, tho, is his "bargain matinee". Every Sunday and Monday afternoon two tickets are sold for the price of one.

But Keith's hasn't offered a better bid for cash customers this season than this week's bill, which offers Ole Olsen and Chie Johnson, who drag on everyone else in their "surprise party", which consists of everything from a young gunfight between the partners over one of Gery Valliere's pretty pianists to passing out coffee and cake among the audience.

Pan. Memphis House Redecorated

Memphis, Tenn., July 13.—The redecoration of the Pantages Theater here has been completed. The last item put into the house was $13,000 of carpeting, placed thruout the theater.

Paul Dresser Memorial Work Is Progressing

Indianapolis, Ind., July 11.—Actual building of the Paul Dresser memorial at Terre Haute seems probable in the next month as a result of work being pushed by the Paul Dresser Memorial Association, the Terre Haute Park Board and Mayor Davis, of Terre Haute. Dresser will be remembered as a songwriter and actor who wrote On the Banks of the Wabash.

With the failure to receive an appropriation from the State for the purpose the acquiring of a large tract of land on the west bank of the Wabash River has been abandoned for the present. However, the construction of the circle and drive directly west of the river bridge will be put thru, making it possible to complete the remainder of the improvements at some future date.

Plans drawn last winter will be followed in the work as far as possible. Under this plan the grade at the west end of the bridge will run straight west to the circle, an area of about 450 feet in diameter. In the center of this statutory the ashes of Paul Dresser and a replica of his birthplace will be placed.

In addition to the work on the memorial, the Memorial Association has arranged to have the State song he wrote placed in all Indiana's school song books.

Songwriter on Visit North

Indianapolis, Ind., July 11.—Mr. and Mrs. George Henninger, former residents of Anderson, Ind., have arrived from St. Petersburg, Fla. They will visit relatives in Elkhart and spend a week in Anderson before returning South. Henninger formerly was the pianist at the Riviera Theater, Anderson, but since going to Florida has turned his attention to songwriting, recently winning a $500 prize offered by the State of Florida for the best piece of music advertising that State. His prize-winning song was Sunnyland.

Newark Will Have Colored Vaude. House

Organization Formed To Take Over Orpheum Theater, Which Reopens August 29 With Six Acts

New York, July 13.—The Orpheum Theater, at Washington and Cort streets, Newark, N. J., has been leased by the U. S. Exchange Corporation, which concern will reopen the house August 29 with six acts of vaudeville and a feature picture policy, catering to colored patronage. It will be the only house of its kind in the State.

Leigh Whipper will be manager of the Orpheum, a 1,700-seat house that formerly played stock and road shows. Booking will be handled by Wilbur Sweetman and Billy Pierce.

In the opinion of Whipper, there is a crying need for such a house in Newark, inasmuch as there are some 60,000 Negroes in Essex County from which to draw more than two-thirds of whom are in Newark proper and the nearby Oranges. The Jim Crow tactics of the Newark houses became so oppressive, said Whipper, that an organization was formed to start an all-colored theater, playing both black and white acts. Other Newark houses sell only gallery and balcony seats to Negroes.

The opening night will be a big event, for it is planned to have Sunshine Sammy appear in person in connection with one of his films, Harry Wills, prize fighter; Florence Mills, Bill Robinson, big-time dancer, and others have promised to be on hand for the first performance as guests.

Reported Curtis To Book Keeney Houses

New York, July 13.—Frank Keeney is reported to be arranging with the Gus Sun offices whereby his three houses playing vaudeville will be booked thru them by Fred Curtis, who recently severed connections with the Eastern office of the Pantages Circuit. According to the report, Keeney's houses, the Bedford, Bay Ridge and the one in Brooklyn, will be taken out of the hands of the Fally Markus Agency, which is now booking them, and will be turned over to Curtis, who will establish his headquarters in the Gus Sun offices.

At the Gus Sun offices when asked about the report they stated that nothing had been settled as yet. Markus also disclaimed any knowledge of a contemplated change in booking for the Keeney houses.

Uses 15 Acts To Open Big Plant

New York, July 11.—The Tierney Dining Company celebrated the opening of its new plant at New Rochelle last night by using 15 acts of vaudeville in an entertainment staged at the factory and broadcasted thru Loew's station WJW.

Many notables were present, including Police Commissioner Enright, who availed himself of the radio. More than $3,000 was expended in putting up the stage and lighting effects. The show was booked by John A. Robbins.

Houston Theater Manager Killed in Auto Accident

Houston, Tex., July 11.—Warren M. Holmes, Palace Theater manager, was killed Tuesday afternoon when his car was overturned on the La Porte road, a mile south of the Sinclair Refinery.

At the time of the accident Holmes and Joe H. Fallon, property man at the Palace, were on their way to "Oakerest", Holmes' summer cottage on the bay. Holmes, who was driving, attempted to pass another car. The car skidded almost off the road and altho Holmes made a strenuous effort to right it it rolled over several times. Holmes' skull was fractured and his right arm broken. He was unconscious when aid reached him and remained so until he died an hour later on the operating table of St. Joseph's Infirmary. It was reported at the infirmary that Fallon's chances for recovery seemed good. Several ribs were broken, his left arm was fractured and he was badly cut and bruised.

Holmes and his wife had made all arrangements to leave for New York Sunday on a vacation. Besides his wife he is survived by a sister, a half sister and two half brothers.

Mentalist Has Good Bill

London, July 11 (Special Cable to The Billboard).—Harry Kane, mentalist, put over a very good show at the Victoria Palace Theater here this week, but can only stay four weeks, he says.

Big City Vaudeville Reviews by Special Wire

Loew's State, New York (Reviewed Monday Matinee, July 13)

Of chief import for the current week here—from a box-office standpoint—Balto, the Siberian dog that led the diphtheria drive over Northern snows to diphtheria-stricken Nome last January and February, bringing relief to this Alaskan outpost. From a standpoint of entertainment Balto, the other bukies and Gunnar Kasson, who drove into realms of world-wide publicity, are nil, but from a standpoint of curiosity they are 100 per cent. Kasson himself is a man of few words. The talking necessary to an act of this kind is done by another, who was unannounced. The bill of acts thrown around this one is not very strong, yet a good ways from being weak. Milo fared the finest of all.

Les Pierrotys were the first on the program in an interesting turn of clowning, aerobatics and contortion. There are three members of the Pierrotty clan, two men—one playing straight, the other comedy—and a girl who, besides looking trim as a nut, had little else to do. The work of the comic far surpasses anything seen hereabouts recently in his line.

Cavanaugh and Cooper followed in a two-act that has as its single redeeming feature a cleverly executed Bowery jig by Miss Cavanaugh. Cooper's singing, combined with the songwriter's inevitable ego, which leads him to talk about himself and the songs he's written, passes for little more than naught in an entertainment way. The 15 minutes' running time consumed at this afternoon's show might have been cut to advantage.

Laurel Orday and Company offered her comparatively amusing character numbers in the next spot to apparently enthusiastic listeners. She might shorten the interminably long "Bride" number and also be less vulgar in her "Baby Carriage" specialty if improvement of the act is sought. Miss Orday's "Company", tho' this implies more than one, consists of a lady pianist.

Balto was next. Sol Lesser is billed as presenting the husky in a trailer that takes five minutes to run off and shows a great deal of Alaskan scenery. Upon its conclusion an unannounced man takes the stage to deliver a well-prepared speech apropos the memorable fight to Nome last winter when that far northern city was in the throes of a diphtheria epidemic. He told of the value of the dogs in the north country, where they were the only means of transportation during many months of the year, and graphically outlined the 665-mile trip the animals made in relays with their precious cargo of antitoxin. It was Balto, driven by Gunnar Kasson, well-known musher, who led the mainline to their destination. Finally Balto, which is a Siberian wolfhound, and nine comrades of divergent types are revealed in an Alaskan setting, surrounded by a dog sled and Kasson. Each is introduced to the audience by name, then are hitched to the sled and driven off the stage. Tho' this seems to have been a most logical close for the act, the announcer came forth to continue his speechmaking, which ends in a tribute, accompanied by soft music, to that simple but lovable quadruped, the dog.

Milo went over nicely with his imitations and singing, registering the best hand of the afternoon. He declined an encore.

Al Tucker and Band, the well-known aggregation of seven musician funsters, brought the show to a close after spreading a deal of amusement with their comic playing and clowning. There is a chuckle or two to be gained from this act by perusing the signs that appear in the old-time barroom that is the setting of the band's hilarity. ROY CHARTER.

Pantages, San Francisco (Reviewed Sunday Matinee, July 12)

A crowded house where applause ran riot owing to the excellence of the six vaudeville acts. Feature photoplay and "songolog surprise" was the meritorious offering today. The Springtime Revue, headline feature, carried off applause honors, barely beating the Christmas Letter playlet in popularity.

On the screen, Swords and the Woman.

Songolog, Birth of the Marseillaise, staged by Dr. Maxine de Grosz; songs by quartet and violin solo by Carol Weston, orchestra leader. The best yet shown to date. Well conceived and executed. Fifteen minutes, special in full stage; three curtains.

The opening act was Arthur and Darling in A Forest Idol, a combination dancing and contortion act, Miss Darling scoring with toe dancing and Arthur garbed as a bronstons frog tying himself into figure eights and other seemingly impossible knots. Ten minutes, special in full stage; three curtains.

Gilford and Brown, two colored entertainers in Leave My Wife Alone, a humorous sketch playlet with clever chatter, tuneful songs and lively dancing, all of which went well with the customers. Twelve minutes, in one; three bows.

The Christmas Letter, the Lambs'

THE PALACE NEW YORK

(Reviewed Monday Matinee, July 13)

A smooth-running bill of standard turns, all of them virtually flopproof. The attendance was not up to the mark, due to the small percentage of professionals who usually make up part of the Monday matinee patronage.

Amazon and Nile, man and woman, in "A Tropical Enchantment", offered a routine of contortion stunts in a colorful jungle set, with themselves as forest and swamp denizens. Makes an excellent way of selling the feats otherwise distasteful to some of the patrons.

Charles Sargent and Burt Lewis, formerly Sargent and Marvin, in "Songs", handed out plenty of them, probably more than were needed. They are adept at most any kind of musical instrument, especially the stringed members, and this ought to get them by with singing only fast comedy numbers. Too many ordinary songs make a mere repetition out of the turn, and their efforts at the musical end lose out.

The Four Camerons, composed of Cameron, Sr.; Louis, who does the comedy; Gammie, singing and dancing, and Laura, who fills in as the maid. There is much action, as well as many laughs, as a result of father's threats to his not-over-bright son, who stays in character as a halfwit or nut comedian, and who also is a first-rate eccentric dancer. Louis' ape-like antics would surely be hot stuff to play Dayton, Tenn., this week as a next-to-closing stunt for the Scopes trial defense. Concluding the offering is a bit of comedy and singing with the aid of Sargent and Lewis.

Billy Shone and Louise Squires, in "Lobby Follies", make their debut at this house in their comedy and singing act which they have played around the three-a-day and other houses for some time. The early part is taken up by Shone as a hotel clerk, supplying a series of funny gags. Toward the close Miss Squires does her bit in costume, revealing her symmetrical gamb. The "Polish" seems to be the weakest part of the routine and probably better suited for the neighborhood houses. Two songs at that particular point only slow up the act. The shooting bit makes a strong finish.

Karavaeff and His Company of Dancers, including Muriel Kaye, Joyce Coles, Edith Mal and Charlotte Carmen, the last mentioned a violinist, closed the first half. Karavaeff is one of those competent Russian steppers that know their stuff backwards, doing steps with ease that others are hardly ever able to master. Not only that, but he does a mean buck and wing just by way of showing his versatility of the feminine steppers. Miss Coles is a dainty, elfish thing, especially when doing her waltz caprice, toe dance. Miss Kaye shone as an acrobatic dancer, having a smoother style of working since we last caught her, giving the routine the easy, graceful manner of an Evelyn Law. Miss Mal does a cute acrobatic and eccentric dance and Miss Carmen fills in the intervals with classical selections.

"Black-Face" Eddie Ross opened intermission with his same monolog, funny as usual, followed by the clever manipulation of the banjo strings. It is now announced on the program that Ross uses a standard five-stringed instrument and that he does not use a pick of any kind. But the monolog is surely being done better than ever, with more finesse and as tho' it were an actual reminiscence, so carefully does he dish out. And the makeup—it surely is black and the wig doesn't come off at the usual mammy singer period.

Solly Ward, in "Babies", with Marlon Murray and Estelle Wood, proved more enjoyable than ever before. Slight changes seem to have been made in the latter part of the great comedy skit, but the old reliable is still a whale of an act despite its comparative age. The offering, we believe, was done by others while Ward was sojourning in the "Music-Box Revue". Miss Murray in the role of the wife, plays straight for Ward as the irate husband who likes to flirt, but finally takes a turn for the better with the adoption of a baby.

Van and Schenck, next to closing, preclude the possibility of any of the customers not getting their share of a good show. Immaculate, tuneful and willing, the duo sang as long as the audience was willing to listen, which was for a dozen songs or more.

Paul Remos and His Wonder Midgets closed the show in a versatile offering that included everything from boxing to perch and other stunts.

M. H. SHAPIRO.

Gambol prize playlet, the lines of which give four actors untold opportunities to excel. Combining as it does comedy and serious drama, it was admirably enacted by George Lee as Okita, Jay Morely as John Crosser, Thomas O'Grady as George Hope, and Chas. L. Gill as Dave, stage carpenter, the latter getting special recognition for his efforts. Twenty-one minutes, special in full stage; four curtains.

Dora Early and Frances Kaye in comedy songs, wit and humor. Miss Early is a clever comedienne whose antics earned her many a laugh. Fifteen minutes, in one; three bows.

George Morton, monologist, singer of comic and serious songs, made a bid for applause and got it. Fourteen minutes, in one; two bows.

Springtime Revue, both headlining and closing. In refreshing contrast to some of the dancing revues seen here. An octet of clever dancing girls, delightfully costumed, whose stepping was featured by grace and unison. Mime and Pomme, man and woman dancers, provoked well-merited applause with their fox trot and tango numbers. Fifteen minutes, full stage; five curtains. E. J. WOOD.

Palace, Cincinnati

(Reviewed Sunday Matinee, July 12)

The management of this theater has as yet failed to provide a cooling system, and as a result the audience sweaters thru the program. The management did provide an excellent bill this week, however, and one so entertaining that it held the house enrapt, forgetting the heat. The bill might be called an ideal cool and refreshing show for any heated audience. The house orchestra is very noisy, still showing effects of working a burlesque theater. The chief funster and applause getter.

Palace, Chicago

(Reviewed Sunday Matinee, July 12)

The Palace bill opened to an unusually small crowd, probably because there was no announced headliner. The weather was not to blame, as it was a fairly comfortable day.

Lillian Faulkner and Company opened the bill with a clever marionet troupe, introducing Charlie Chaplin and Valentino, and closing with a baseball scene in which several stars of the diamond did their stuff to the delight of the audience. Rain stopped the game. Twelve minutes, full stage; two curtains.

Perry and Wagner, assisted by Violet Manning, do singing and dancing and a bit of instrumental playing that is good only in spots. Their "rube" impersonation was the best of their offering. The act needs to be better organized. They seem capable. Twelve minutes, in one.

Nitza Vernille in Wonderland is assisted by John Walsh and Misses Dorothy Stephens and Sandy Evans. This act has been arranged with much attention to detail and only needs an ensemble with a punch to make it the success it deserves. The scenery, costumes and the musical arrangement are to be commended for the refinement and beauty of selection. Miss Vernille is a danseuse who, tho' a contortionist, does not overdo this. The dancing is graceful and the interpretation excellent. Mr. Walsh is a singer whose voice could be used more frequently with pleasure to the audience. Misses Stephens and Evans do their dances with grace and agility. Twenty-two minutes, alternating between full stage and number one; three curtains.

Joe Weston and Elaine Grace did some character impersonations that did not meet with much response from the front until their Bowery scene. This went fairly well. Too much sameness. Variety could be injected and should be. Seventeen minutes, in one.

Low Henn and his assistants in Gentlemen of the Evening is a bright spot on the bill. Henn does his old stuff better than ever and this sketch affords him an opportunity to do so. Ethel Gray is a splendid foil for the gibes of the comical Low and William H. Elliott is a big asset in a very small part. There was generous applause at the close. Nineteen minutes, full stage.

Margaret Young was greeted with a hearty welcome and she was able to entertain in a way that justified the kindly reception that was hers. Had Margaret Young been provided the same stage setting as the ever-popular Nora Bayes, she would give the great Nora a close call for first honors in the type of entertainment that is theirs. The act went big. Twenty minutes, in one; three encores with a speech.

The Mosconi Brothers and sister Verna, swiftest of the many swift steppers of this day, threw the audience into a state of real excitement with their thrilling acrobatic dancing. This is a style of stepping that is largely of Mosconi origin and is most wonderful. The ease and grace of execution of this talented band of youngsters is one of the remarkable features. It went over as ever—a hit. Twenty minutes, full stage; encore and three bows.

Eddie Nelson with Dolly and Officer Byron gave an exhibition of the nut variety that threw the audience into a continuous round of laughter. Nelson introduced a large variety of comedy and everything he did was done as only a finished comedian could do it. His dancing was especially good. Another hit. Eighteen minutes, in one; full stage, and one; three bows and a speech.

Bronson and Edwards with their Nonsensical Absurdities closed the bill. It was their same old burlesque of the acrobatic and balancing acts of the variety stage. Eight minutes, full stage.

BOB MORNINGSTAR.

as "Vaudeville's Highest Soprano". Miss Earl makes a nice appearance, wearing what seems to be a golden silk wig. Miss Earl has a very high-ranged voice, singing two songs while above high C. Her opening, The Only One, was done in operatic style, revealing the full quality of her voice. Also sang I Bring The Red Roses and Spain. Fourteen minutes, in one; two bows.

The Masked Athlete has a novelty strong act, working all the way thru in a black mask concealing his features. The mystery part is played up with question marks on back drop, etc. He shows some remarkable lifting powers, lifting heavy weights with an astonishing ease and grace. Assisted by a woman who does the comedy end, making the offering diverting. Closes with a dance, balancing her in a chair on his forehead. Seven minutes, special set in full; two bows.

Meehan's Canines revealed a group of 16 clean, contented and well-trained dogs, going thru their routine of tricks with speed and as tho' they enjoyed their work. Act closed with high leaping by about nine greyhounds and a Russian wolfhound, the latter getting a lot of applause for his consummate skill and grace. Mr. Meehan has a good act. Fifteen minutes, in full; two curtains.

On the screen Elaine Hammerstein and Herbert Rawlinson in Every Man's Wife. GEORGE PIDDINGTON.

Grand O. H., St. Louis

(Reviewed Sunday Evening, July 12) Another all-around corking good variety bill ought to amuse the patrons of this popular house this week.

On the screen Pathé's Weekly, Acrop's News, Topics of the Day and feature play, Stop Flirting, starring Wanda Hawley.

Martinet and His Crow. Martinet, in clown-white makeup, opens with a series of juggling feats and some nifty tricks, all the while propensng pantomimic comedy. Following this his crow emerges from a creako clock and does a few "bitching" stunts. Eight minutes, special in three; two curtains.

Lubin and Bast-do. A man in hectic makeup and his female partner exchange comedy patter. The male end then sang a comedy song, following which the duet harmonized Carry Me Back to My Carolina Home for a good finish. Thirteen minutes, in one; two bows.

Knorr Kella and Company, in a one-act comedy playlet. The sketch is a satire on divorce and married life, and contains a bevy of funny lines and situations. The two ladies and the man who comprise the cast are well chosen and ably take care of their satirical roles. Sixteen minutes, interior of hotel room in three; two curtains and one bow.

Burt and Lehman, two neat young men in regulation gray street clothes, have a fast and clever line of jokes and stories that garnered them laughs galore. Both have splendid voices, too, and they know how to put their songs over in fine fashion. They close with a half dozen verses of a comedy number which called for three bows. Fifteen minutes, in one.

George Armstrong, everlastingly smiling and radiating joy and hilarity always, never fails to strike home solidly with his auditors with his laugh-provoking parodies on late and popular songs. He duplicated as usual at this show. Fifteen minutes, in one; three bows.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Stamm and Co. The likable Stammers have a beautiful vaudeville offering this year in their miniature comedy production. Their company, consisting of a quartet of tall, pretty and shapely maids, is well picked. Three of the girls are nifty dancers, while the remaining one is a splendid singer. Stamm shows wonderful muscle developments, and in a series of poses with his wife both display real physique. For a marvelous finish Stamm exhibits his athletic prowess and perfect breathing control when he lifts a stage coach with four girls aboard on his chest and sings a song while doing so. All in all, the combination of athletics, posing, music, songs and dances make up a splendid attraction of honest-to-goodness merit. Beautiful settings for the different numbers with pretty costumes are all enhanced by lighting effects and form a natty background for the stellar act. Twenty minutes, special in one, three, four and full stage; three curtains and two bows.

Mahon and Cholet need no introduction. Both of these fellows are real performers and altho they have made the circuit several times they never fail to win them over. Their wholesome fun, the singing of the smaller of the duo and the great eccentric dancing of the elongated boy all help in wowing them every time. Twelve minutes, in one.

The Australian Waites closed the proceedings. They, too, are sure-fire repeaters, and when it comes to boomerang throwing and whip cracking there isn't anyone that excels them. Eight minutes, woodland setting on the full stage; three curtains.

Proctor's 5th Ave., N. Y. (Reviewed Friday Evening, July 10) The sign outside the house advertises "Proctor's SUMMER Vaudeville." Just where in the difference lies we know not, but we do know that comedy is the keynote of the bill assembled this last half. Taken as a whole, it's a very good bill and was well liked by the audience.

Gintaro, a juggling Japanese, opens the show with a routine of tricks, including top spinning and blocks. His trick of spinning a top up a string and making it release a fixture that is suspended from the flies, the same taking the form of a large lanternlike object, gets a good hand. The best sold trick of the lot is the stunt of turning a tumbler full of water upside down and balancing it on thumb and then on chin at a long stick. Gintaro uses an assistant and the pair hop around continually like two jumping jacks. A marathon juggler, this chap.

Dallas Walker Trio, two sisters and a man, who resemble Tom Mix, in Western outfits sing, dance and display an assortment of rope spinning and knot tying to good results. Both girls are good looking shapely creatures and put their stuff across. The younger sister displays a variety of dances, including the so popular Charleston, while her big sister sings in fine voice, spins the rope and throws knots in it. The man contributes a couple songs in a voice that is strong, but shades off very peculiarly on some notes. For a finish all three sing and dance in a loop one of the girls is spinning.

Honores De Hollub and Allan Devitt

Majestic, Chicago

(Reviewed Monday Matinee, July 13)

Bert and Hazel Skatelle, dancing roller skaters, opened the new bill today. Full of fire and novelty. Good entertainment. Five minutes, in one and a half; two bows.

Maxfield and Stone, two men, one at piano, entertain with talk and songs. Fifteen minutes, in one; two bows.

Jerry O'Meara and Company, two men and girl, have a comedy skit; same as when here before. Amusing and went well. Fifteen minutes, special drop in one and a half; two bows.

"The Golden Bird", here before, sings as sweetly as ever and is put across by the same clever girl violinist and singer. Same routine and a good one. Fifteen minutes, in two; three bows.

Don Alfonso Zelaya, pianist, known in every big-time house here, went strong as ever. Repertory pleasing, execution superb, and comedy talks went big. A big act any way you take it. Twenty minutes, in two; three bows.

Metropolitan Five has two men and three girls, one at piano. The song program includes operatic selections. Closed with Rigoletto quartet. Pleasing entertainment. Eighteen minutes, full stage; three curtains.

Pierce and Ryan, often seen here; two men in comedy skit. Same material. Went big. Ten minutes, in one and a half; encore and four bows.

Lafayette and Delfino and Company have a Spanish string band and man and woman dancer. Strictly Castilian atmosphere. Act pleased. Twelve minutes, full stage; two bows.

(Reviewed Thursday Evening, July 9)

Attendance showed the results of the new heat wave, nevertheless the business could hardly be considered poor for the time of the year.

De Kos Brothers, European acrobatic novelty, started the ball rolling. One of the brothers who acts as understander worked on stilts until the close of the turn. The handbalancing was both good and bad, at least as good as it can be done with stilts. The perch stunts were even more difficult. There is a woman on hand also who has little if anything to do.

Smith and Cantor breezed in and out of the second spot leaving them wanting more. One works at the piano and the other helps with the singing of fast comedy numbers. Everything in the offering is jazzed up in a fast tempo, especially the orchestrations, and it proves very effective.

Eastman and Mooers, in Bargains, have unusually weak material for the first two-thirds of the running time. The gags are old and most of the comedy falls flat. Toward the close there is a bit of novelty and the song and dance proves to be the best part of the routine.

Rae Ellnor Ball and Brother pleased throat with their fine musical efforts on violin and cello. While not exactly highbrow, the music is of a classical order and it is surprising how well it goes with the family type of audience. The technique of Miss Ball continues to improve, and her violin solos have everything. Her partner's cello solo and obbligato make excellent music.

Morrissey and Wheeler provided interesting comedy on next to closing with their skit titled Buddles. Sitting back to back they talk about various presents, each having a different one in mind. It is further reviewed under New Turns.

Gypsy Land closed the show with a flash offering of the Russian singing and dancing variety. It is further reviewed under New Turns on another page.

M. H. SHAPIRO.

In their Vampire skit gathered the laughs from the start. It's the same act they've been using for some time, but it registers as well as ever. Most of their gags are puns, but they are put over so well one can forgive resorting to the lowest form of humor. After the telephone rings the second time the audience just howls every other time it rings, knowing what's coming. Devitt's shooting at the telephone instrument is a strong finish.

Mary Ann, a charming young lady with an equally charming voice, has a routine of songs, all of them special material, that earned her an encore. The outstanding song of her routine is her Immolation Rose. Her singing and talking When a Fellow Needs a Friend also goes over big. A real entertainer, this young lady.

Benny Rubin, with his company of three men and two women, is the usual riot in the headline spot. This is one of the funniest acts we have seen in a long time. What Rubin doesn't do to the English language to jumble it up just can't be done. He uses his Train Announcer, Stolen Necklace and Moscow Art Theater sketches, with his special sets, and takes one encore; he could have taken more as far as the customers were concerned. Rubin is a clever, versatile comedian. That pinocchio game is worth going miles to see.

M. Alphonse Berg, the lightning dresser-maker, using two models, closes the show with his demonstration of how to drape dresses quickly with the aid of a few pins. This act is a decided novelty, but—

JEFF CARR.

B. S. Moss' Broadway, New York

(Reviewed Sunday Matinee, July 12)

The first show this week ran but an hour and a quarter, due to the fact that Herbert Ashley's scenery hadn't arrived, and he and his straight did two songs instead of the entire offering. The bill has six acts in the first show instead of the former seven, which also accounts for the briefness of the vaudeville. The layout on the whole is good. Considering the hour the show starts (noon) and the hot weather, attendance was very good.

Betancourt and Company made a fair opening turn, most of the balancing work being good, but the finish lets down simply because the last stunt is not sold effectively. Balancing oneself on a chair atop bottles and candlesticks is still a bit of a novelty to New York audiences, and, with some showmanship, Betancourt could get much better results.

Herbert Ashley announced that the trunks and scenery of his offering hadn't arrived and that he and his assistant would not be able to give their regular act. They did two numbers from the act, the straight man doing the regular lyrics and Ashley doing the parodies. Ann Greenway and Company were thus really handicapped by not having the audience warmed up to the extent it generally is by the time the third act is on. It is all the more to Miss Greenway's credit that she did score a big hit.

How anyone can look as pretty so early in the day as Miss Greenway did is something many women would give a lot to know. She has made a change in the offering as reviewed at the Fordham Theater, this being in the opening song, mention of Neville Fleason and the reason she is working with someone else being eliminated. The Rain satire is a classic and the hit of the offering. The pianist is very capable and renders valuable assistance.

Golden's Imported Revue, passed the customs house too soon. If this is a Meyer Golden act, that producer of flashes should have kept the act out of a house where it would be caught by bookers for another week or two at least. The offering undoubtedly is good, but has too many crude spots to be "showing" right now. Golden evidently has splurged on the Imported Revue, for it is gorgeously mounted and costumed, the last Spanish scene being gorgeous. The act carries its own orchestra leader, who competed earnestly with the newness of the offering in attempting to spoil it. He stuck his head up and waved his arms around above the pit in view of everyone to attract attention, stamped his feet on the floor to keep the tempo, and banged his baton on the piano and music stand, with the result that the attention of the audience was continually being distracted to see what was wrong. The Messiah scene, tho beautiful, was ruined entirely by the director's feet banging on the floor and the rapping of his baton.

The applause hit of the show was Bill Robinson. This colored chap is not only the best dancer of his kind in theatricals but one of the cleverest showmen in the bargain. He could have kept on indefinitely for this audience.

The Hedleys have a cleverly and attractively staged gymnastic offering, with some good head-to-head balancing being featured. The woman also scores with some dance bits. G. J. HOFFMAN.

B. S. Moss' Franklin, New York

(Reviewed Thursday Evening, July 9)

After the tryouts were thru at this house Jim Fortheringham had a very good bill for the last half. Fortunately the tryouts were in for the one day, but even they couldn't slow up the regular show, which contained plenty of new acts itself. There were six of the acts showing for the one day, and one of these was good enough to jump right into any big-time bill and hold a feature spot. The others were poorer on the whole than the usual run of professional tryouts. The six were the Salonika Trio, a hand-balancing offering; Hamilton and O'Connell, two lads who were scared to death and did a song and piano act; Sigrist and Calvert and Company, high-class singing and a girl dancer; Jeanne La Mar and Company, who did boxing and unintentional comedy; and the big riot of the entire show and for that matter the biggest hit scored here in years, The Chocolate Dandies, a Colored quartet. This is the big-time act referred to above.

The Dancer of Death was offered by a lone girl, who had no setting or supporting company or anything to fill in between walls. She dances with a snake and also does some remarkable Oriental work with her arms, but needs an act which would be produced for her or can fit into a revue.

The Howard Girls were first of the regular bill with a good aerial novelty. They scored heavily with iron-jaw work at the finish.

Jack Ingels has added a youngster who plays the piano and also sings. Ingels is doing practically the same "nut" comedy routine he has been doing for several years. It was surefire here for laughs and applause.

The youngster who starts off as a plant in Jugaleland is improving. The boy is becoming a very good dancer and

Despite the fact that the weather was quite warm the main floor was well packed and other parts of the house were well patronized, too. The new policy prevailing at this theater seems to be popular with the folks in the neighborhood; they are evidently supporting it well.

De Dio Circus, consisting of a pony, 10 dogs and four monkeys, opened the bill this last half. They work in full stage with special drops. A woman put four dogs that are on their hind props thru a bell-ringing routine that is chockfull of laughs and gets the audience right from the start. A good opening. Then she gives way to a man who works the pony and six other dogs. The pony is a sleek, beautiful black creature; he makes a good appearance and works well. The dog tricks were the usual variety with a few laughs thrown in. Guess the monkeys had a night off or were on strike, they didn't contribute anything but a lot of chattering; two of them had a nice scrap.

Keo Taki and Yoki, "versatile entertainers from Nippon," consisting of two men and a girl in Japanese costumes and then in American evening clothes, stopped the show cold in the deuce spot. They open with a song, one man playing the piano and the other singing. His voice isn't any too strong, but he gets by. The pianist later plays a uke, which he does very cleverly. The girl in the act sings and dances in Japanese costume and with American gowns later. While her eyes are somewhat almond-shaped and her hair is black and straight, the twinkle in her eye is Irish, unless we miss our guess. And her dancing is real American.

"Darned clever, those Japanese." Joe Phillips and Company in their old skit, Inside and Out, special set, in one, click as usual in their patter and knock-about comedy. They gather many laughs with their nonsense and clowning.

Lubin and Lowrie, two men, one in blackface and the other in high yellow, sing and dance their way thru this spot, registering fairly well. The little blackface comedian is by far the better of the two and could put across a good single. His partner's voice is poor and his dancing is mediocre; when the little fellow unbelt his hard-shoe tap dance after the big fellow's would-be strutting those taps panic the audience. The big fellow would do well to work white face, as his features don't lend themselves to his high yellow makeup.

Aleta Vadesca and her six-piece Mexican Orchestra, with two male dancers, in a flash act on full stage, with special cye., brought the house down. The music of the stringed orchestra was good to listen to and somewhat different. The woman and her two male partners do several special dances, all Spanish versions, we take it. The Spanish apache with which they close is great and makes for a strong finish. We've never seen a male dancer whirl his female partner around and around with just a firm hold on her hair. This stunt sure gets them out front. A good laugh is the violinist's Charleston, costumed in flowing, laced, Spanish trousers. It's a riot. The whole act is well put together and well sold.

JACK F. MURRAY.

Says No Colored Vaudeville Will Be Played at Hippodrome

Mae Dresch, of the Hippodrome Theater, Cincinnati, denied the rumor that negotiations were under way for the house to play colored vaudeville when queried by a Billboard representative. "The Hippodrome will never be colored," she said. A report was circulated last week that another colored vaudeville circuit was in process of formation and the above rumor was in connection with that.

Booking Office for Houston

Houston, Tex., July 13.—An office of the Metropolitan Enterprises, a theatrical booking agency, has been opened in Houston.

Ted Berle, in charge of the booking department, announces that scores of towns surrounding Houston have had acts booked into them during the past several weeks.

As a result of the booking office opening here many hotels are playing vaudeville acts in their dining rooms, an innovation for this section.

his comedy sense seems to be developing. They stopped the show.

Laura Hamilton with Ole and Harry Olsen offered as neat a singing, dancing and instrumental offering as one could wish to see. It is one of the new offerings mentioned above.

Another new turn is that of Jack Fulton and Peggy Parker, who were a big hit and who will become one of vaudeville's standards.

The Three Di Gaetnas made a third new offering on the regular bill. They do a dance offering, featuring an apache, in which the man roughhoused the woman in a manner which delighted the "gallery gods" and spurred the man on to extra efforts in wrecking the remains of his dancing partner. NEW YORK, July 11.—At a conference held Wednesday in the Bar Association Building representatives of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, motion picture producers, exhibitors, radio and a score of other interests agreed to refer their copyright differences to subcommittees in an effort to draft a bill suitable as far as possible to the majority of those concerned. Further conferences will be held until the next session of Congress.

Chairman Frederick W. Hume, of the Committee on Copyright Revision, was instrumental in bringing the gathering about. He said that the Perkins bill had been taken as the working basis of a new copyright bill. He pointed out that opinion was in favor of 51 of the sections of the Perkins measure, while slight differences existed concerning 13 sections of it. There was, he stated, a difficulty in regard to the 10 provisions upon which there did not seem to be any reconciliation among the interests. These 10 covered such things as radio broadcasting of copyrighted music without permission, the phonograph rights, and separation of film and other rights in a copyright, thereby making an author's work divisible as to the rights he sells.

Congressman Sol Bloom, also a member of the committee, urged that the interests approach differences in an amicable manner. He said that if the new bill came to Congress with a series of controversies it would likely fail, as did the Perkins measure.

Sydney S. Cohen, speaking in behalf of the motion picture theater owners, again took advantage of an occasion to attack the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers for its method of requiring theaters to pay a license fee when using the society's music for profit. Gene Buck, president of the composers' society, stated that the writers had to get together in order to cut down the overwhelming number of copyright infringements. Other book and author organizations had spokesmen in their behalf.

Other meetings to be held later will take up the matter of the compulsory license clause. This limits the royalty on phonograph records to two cents a song, as provided for in the present Copyright Act of 1909, and also automatically gives permission to all record manufacturers to record a song once it has been done by any one firm. The Music Publishers' Protective Association will fight for omitting the so-called compulsory license clause from any new copyright bill, and the Music Industries' Chamber of Commerce, whose membership is large manufacturers, will fight to have it retained.

The Victor Talking Machine Company apparently is willing to concede such rights to the music publishers and writers, for it is taking no part in the hearings with a view toward siding with the interests opposed to the taking out of the compulsory license clause.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 15.—At the final session of the convention of the Radio Manufacturers' Association, held at the Hotel Ambassador, a committee was chosen to confer with the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers to try and adjust the differences that now exist in relation to the broadcasting of copyrighted compositions and also the same question as it applies to the new copyright bill that is expected to be presented in Congress next December.

plays the piano, in addition to singing, and another uses a banjo at the finish. The opening number is about being "Four Chocolate Dandies", following which a solo with all harmonizing on the chorus of Sweet Thoughts of Home is delivered. A new method of rendering the Negro spiritual, All God's Chillun Got Wings, followed, the four jazzing up the rendition of it and doing bits of the Charleston between verses. Another number, evidently a spiritual, Let My People Loose, telling of Moses and Pharaoh, preceded a hot jazz number in which the banjo was used for a finish. They encored with Sweet George Brown, and one of them did a Charleston in a manner which accounts for the popularity of that dance.

Maybe "all God's chillun got wings" and perhaps all of 'em haven't, but these four of the "chilluns'" wings are spread and they won't fold up until they light right on the big time, where they'll stay. G. J. H.

NEW TURNS AND RETURNS

Reviewed Thursday evening, July 9, at B. S. Moss' Franklin Theater, New York. Style—Singing and boxing. Setting—One and full stage, specials. Time—Thirty minutes.

Were it not for the fact that Jeanne La Mar really has some possibilities to be made into a good act for the small time theaters, her offering, as done at the Franklin Theater, wouldn't be worth reviewing at all. Hence, this review is really given with the intention of helping Miss La Mar, but unless she does make changes, the act isn't worth a nickel to any theater. Miss La Mar, according to sides and a film, which precedes her act, is the "world's champion professional lady boxer". She is also, says the film, "a dramatic soprano."

Right at the start, the best thing possible for Miss La Mar to do would be to forget that she ever could sing. The past tense is used in that sentence intentionally. The singing is the biggest liability she has. What she should do is get an announcer who can sell the act and remain silent herself all thru it. The bag-punching and boxing bits should be worked up. The idea of having a "plant" in the audience accept her challenge is good and if properly exploited could help make an effective comedy bit. But the female impersonator used at this house forgot to shave, altho "Kate McCarthy" did look more like a "Beckie Levinsky". The overdone tough talk might be good for comedy if done in a comedy vein. But the evident "acting" made it appear foolish instead of funny.

With a showman to announce the act and toup with local boxing clubs the act could draw business to family theaters. And above all, the vocal exhibitions, billed as "dramatic soprano", must be eliminated. Miss La Mar's voice, almost proved, instead of "dramatic", to be "tragic" for her. G. J. H.

Gypsy Land

Reviewed Thursday evening, July 9, at B. S. Moss' Regent Theater, New York. Style—Russian dancing, singing. Setting—Full stage, special. Time—Twelve minutes.

Company of six Russian singers and dancers, all competent in their respective routines and not unlike the many flash revues of the Russian type that have been produced since the advent here of the Chouffe Soubres. There have been a number of similar acts with the Gypsy end of it in the title somewhere. There is something familiar about this turn, but if we have caught it in the past the cast has been changed to some extent and the routine also, in spots.

The setting is colorful and depicts a gypsy camp wagon and landscape. Two men are hammering at an anvil, singing an anvil chorus of their own meantime. In company with two other singers. Following is the dance team, the man being the usual heavy-set Russian hoover and the girl a slim graceful thing. They are capable of holding their own in any kind of a big-time flash. A man and woman offered a duet and the male dancer did a solo. The Song of India was sung by the lyric tenor and the company danced in an ensemble number, further speeded up by special efforts of the team.

Costumes and staging are of the best, making it a suitable flash for most any house, provided it is spotted according to the particular house it plays. M. H. S.

Morrissey and Wheeler

In Bundles, by B. K. Wells.

Reviewed Thursday evening, July 9, at B. S. Moss' Regent Theater, New York. Style—Comedy. Setting—In one. Time—Fourteen minutes.

Looks at the this duo will develop into a standard turn for the intermediate houses, due to the novel comedy that supplies the backbone of the offering. They open as straight man and comic, altho the latter is not so well pronounced. They come on carrying several packages and the talk for the most part is not so strong and the laughs but few.

They are on their way to a party at the home of the straight man and the comic wants to go along but thinks he needs a fresh shirt. Whereupon his partner tells him he will find him one somewhere in his bundles. They sit down back to back and each draws out a present from a package and talks about it. The comedian asks questions about the particular thing he has in hand and the other answers according to the one he has drawn forth. This of course leaves plenty of room for comedy. The first thing that the comedian takes out is a dog collar and tries it on around his neck. He asks who it is for and receives the answer that it is for the wife, because the husband is holding a necklace or something. This continues all the way down thru the various packages.

Finishing off the skit is a bit of song and dance, the dance being on the eccentric order, just about good enough, but nothing startling. M. H. S.

Four Chocolate Dandies

Reviewed Thursday evening, July 9, at B. S. Moss' Franklin Theater, New York. Style—Singing and dancing. Setting—In one. Time—Ten minutes.

This is the first act we have ever seen at this or any other house appearing as a "tryout" which doesn't need a single thing changed or any working around before they are set as an act. In ten minutes at this house they scored the biggest hit any act has in years, being compelled to beg off with a nice little speech after taking two encores.

It is a colored quartet and, judging from the billing, are out of the Sissie and Blake show. Their costumes are neat and original and their routine perfect. One hick "sheik" with balloon trousers so wide his feet have to take two steps to make the trousers move one.

The talk here leads up to a comedy number, My Gail Poll, ending with a very funny eccentric dance by the two. The funny is lifted, showing an effective blue prop, set in two or one and a half, being difficult to determine which. It can go in either. Keyes does a Jimmy Barry type of number well, making way for Miss Courtney, who is adorable in a red frock, in fact red from her hair down to her stockings and shoes, the costume being so abbreviated to show a shapely and dainty pair of Frankie Baileys. Who Wants A Redhead? might be the title of the number which the diminutive comedienne does in this part of the act and leads into a dance of kicks showing exceptional dance ability. Keyes does an eccentric solo and returns with a banjo, Miss Courtney doing a song and "Charleston", with both finishing. Surefire anywhere. G. J. H.

Harry Waiman and Debutantes

Reviewed Monday afternoon, July 6, at Lou's State Theater, New York. Style—Orchestra. Setting—One and full stage, specials. Time—Seventeen minutes.
Harry Waiman is formerly of the team of Waiman and Berry. He has surrounded himself with eight girls and a gorgeously mounted setting, in which he employs several place drops and a scrim and has turned out a good female orchestra, as female orchestras go. By that we mean that we have as yet to see an orchestra or at least hear one in vaudeville which can manage that snap of rhythm and that sway of syncopation so essential to jazz bands which even the ordinary jazz band comprised of males generally succeeds in getting. At the risk of being accused of sex partiality, we hold to this statement and back it up with a decade of experience in reviewing vaudeville acts.

Waiman's girls have come closer to it than any we've heard yet. They still must go some to conquer, but they're close and that helps. One improvement could be made in the repertoire. While all the numbers are effectively sold, a few later ones in place of My Best Gal and All Alone would aid. The latter is very well played and calls for the use of the girls in posing bits for a medley which is combined with the playing of the number, this being done as a muted violin solo by Waiman. The number done for comedy is weak, especially so because the lyrics can't be understood as sung by the girl.

The turn is a novelty, inasmuch as there aren't any girl orchestras playing vaudeville in New York right now. It should not have any trouble in getting bookings, but with more snap and rhythm it could aim for the big-time houses. G. J. H.

number and the pianiste follows this with a solo as it would sound on a mechanical piano. The pianist, incidentally, is to be given credit for not only playing well, but for being a very good dancer.

At that, there is a slight change at the finish, as they are now doing a "Charleston" bit, which at the time they were previously reviewed was unknown. This seems to be the only change. In fact, even the comment of the reviewer who caught the act in 1923 could be appended word for word at the finish of this review and still hold true. He said: "The finale was somewhat balled up by the orchestra, which failed to keep time with the girls."

On second consideration, this may not be just a coincidence or the fault of the orchestra at that, but simply because of poorly made or marked orchestrations. After two years an act's music should be pretty well set and shouldn't require much rehearsing for any orchestra to get down pat. It may not be a bad idea to have them looked over. We mean the orchestrations, not the musicians.

The offering is an entertaining flash and should go well in the better-class family theaters. G. J. H.

Jack Adams and Thompson Sisters

Reviewed Monday evening, July 6, at B. S. Moss' Franklin Theater, New York. Style—Instrumental. Setting—Two, special. Time—Fourteen minutes.

According to reports, this trio aren't new to vaudeville, having played that field in other parts of the country. They are new to New York, and, we think, new to K.-A. vaudeville. They offer an entertaining instrumental turn, which can be used for even better than opening spot, which they held at this house.

Adams and the two Thompson Sisters open playing a xylophone. Practically all their numbers are popular, arranged in medleys for the various instruments used. The xylophone is followed by a saxophone trio rendition. Thompson does a whistling solo, using a ballad on the "potato" for his instrument. Both girls follow him with banjos, the man accompanying them offstage with the saxophone for one of the numbers. He returns to the stage with a bassoon, the girls continuing to use the saxes. They finish with the man playing a clarinet sax., the girls playing banjos and doing a bit of the "Charleston". G. J. H.

Parker, Rand and Cagney

In The Try Angle

Reviewed Wednesday evening, July 8, at B. S. Moss' Regent Theater, New York. Style—Comedy skit. Setting—In two. Time—Fifteen minutes.

Two boys and a girl, in a fairly good routine of snappy talk, with some songs and dances as well. One of the boys is discovered on the park bench reading a paper in a disconsolate attitude. The other boy comes on the scene and asks for a match. The style of delivery is snappy and the talk unusually fast. This is maintained thruout the act and at times seems a little overdone. It is effective if one does it and in a way creates a characterization. For both to do it sounds monotonous.

The second youth is determined to start a conversation and finally gets the other interested. He has a date with (Continued on page 21)

Reviewed Tuesday evening, July 7, at B. F. Keith's Fordham Theater, New York. Style—Songs. Setting—One. Time—Fifteen minutes.

Ann Greenway was recently seen over the big time as Neville Fleeason's partner. Fleeason, according to an introductory number sung by Miss Greenway, "has gone away to write a play", and has left her to sell his samples. The "samples" are the songs which he wrote and constitute the same act which Fleeason and Greenway did. In place of Fleeason, Miss Greenway is assisted by Sam Gould at the piano, who wasn't billed at this house.

Miss Greenway is adorable in appearance and shows herself easily capable of doing a single. The "Spanish" number, the "evolution of the popular song" and finally the musical satire on the play Rain are all retained in the act and are very well done. Gould holds his end up well. G. J. H.

Allen, Taylor and Houston

Reviewed Monday evening, July 6, at B. S. Moss' Franklin Theater, New York. Style—Revue. Setting—Full stage, special. Time—Eighteen minutes.

In 1923, according to the "New Turn and Return" files of The Billboard, there was a trio called Allen, Taylor and Barber, of which two members must be the same comprising the trio of Allen, Taylor and Houston. Judging from the review of the act given at that time, no changes have been made in the act at all, the entire routine as described in the "New Turn" review in 1923 remaining the same as caught by this reviewer last week. The juvenile opens with a song and is joined by the girls in a dance bit. One of the girls goes to the piano, while the other does a very good Oriental. The boy returns for a dramatic Chinese

Leaders Plan New Stunt for Next Fall

Will Organize Sensational Units and Make Debut on Broadway ---Cashing in Later Out of Town

New York, July 13.—Thru the medium of new organizations, to include the best musicians obtainable who are willing to take better contracts, prominent leaders will try to place themselves on Broadway again next fall by pulling the sensational novelty orchestra idea, thus getting a new name for themselves upon which they may later trade to advantage.

Large salaries and steady engagements on Broadway are conceded to be a thing more or less of the past, and it is their only hope that the main street will prove a source of publicity and an opportunity that will eventually prove a stepping stone to dragging down a fat guarantee in the steaks or a barnstorming tour. In other words they want to "do a Paul Whiteman".

Rehearsals will continue quietly thru-out the summer. The strict rehearsal plan is largely depended upon to make a crack combination out of the musicians who get together. Precarious conditions for the average big orchestra have resulted in the leading soloists being at all times available to any outside offer that looks good. There are three or four night clubs where engagements such as these leaders want are still running. The average capacity, with one exception, is small compared to the former Palais Royal, where Whiteman held forth, but the only thing the leaders are banking on is the reputation, not the money.

As first reported in The Billboard some weeks ago, the scarcity of "names" on Broadway is without equal in the annals of New York orchestras since jazz came into its own. As this paper said a month ago (and since repeated by others), 90 per cent of the orchestras on Broadway were absolutely unknown in New York a year ago, and will probably be forgotten in less time.

Veteran booking men ascribe the activities of the padlockers as cause enough for the dearth of better-known bands. Rather than take a contract that might be terminated overnight, the best known orchestras are taking to the road.

New Outfit Makes Hit

St. Louis, Mo., July 9.—The Chicago Nite Hawks Orchestra, one of the newer orchestras in this section, has made quite a reputation in and around this city, and as a result, according to Robert M. Turner, manager, has received quite a few offers from managers to play for them. The Chicago Nite Hawks Orchestra was one of the features at the St. Louis Horse Show at Jefferson Barracks last month.

The personnel consists of Gus Hansman, director and pianist; Chester Walk, saxophone; Henry Pikes, saxophone; Albert Fuerst, drums; Hank Lange, cornet; Fred Mueller, violin and assistant director; Wayne Smith, trombone, and Curtis Young, banjo. Howard Thomas, a clever and nimble eccentric dancer, is an added feature with the orchestra. Thomas is the same chap who was the feature dancer of the DeMolay Wonder Why Company, which played a two weeks' engagement at the American Theater here last spring.

Boldt Died Poor

New York, July 11.—George C. Boldt, who was president of the Waldorf-Astoria Company, operator of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, left an estate of only $2,154,995 and debts of almost $5,000,000, according to an amended appraisal of his estate filed this week with the State Tax Commission, as requested by the executors. Boldt, supposedly a millionaire, had many creditors. Not even his funeral expenses, amounting to more than $10,000, have been paid.

Latz Leases Alamac

New York, July 11.—The Hotel Alamac, bought by the David H. Knott interests, has been leased again to the Alamac Operating Company, headed by Harry Latz, which has been operating it. Latz acquires control for a term of 21 years at a rental ranging from $300,000 to $320,000 yearly. Mr. Knott acquired the property June 24 at the Joseph P. Day auction.

Atlantic City Bands

Atlantic City, N. J., July 11.—Benny Davis opened at the Palais Royal here last Monday to an enthusiastic and capacity first-night audience. The Parodians, late of the Parody Club, New York, is the featured orchestra. The Coon-Sanders Orchestra, late of the Hotel Muehlbach, Kansas City, will be featured this summer on Young's Million-Dollar Pier, Charlie Fry's Orchestra being an associate attraction.

Phonograph Concerns Lose Patent Claims

Philadelphia, July 11.—The Federal Circuit Court of Appeals has decided that the Victor Talking Machine Company and the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company both lose in their litigation over patent rights on an amplifying horn enclosed in a cabinet talking machine.

The Victor company sued the Brunswick for interference with its Eldridge R. Johnson patent and the Brunswick company sued Victor for using its John Bailey Browning design. The court ruled both patent claims invalid.

The luncheon was in honor of Bernie, who begins this week an eight-week engagement, with a 40-week option, at the Rialto and Rivoli theaters. Bernie's salary is reported at $2,250 weekly, with an increase if he clicks.

August Janssen, proprietor of the mid-town Hofbrau, has taken the initiative in the agitation now current along Broadway for the reduction of cover charges and has eliminated them entirely at his Broadway place. Both Pitt and the Hofbrau Harmonists continue as the attractions at that place.

Abbie Mitchell, famous colored thespian and singer, opens this week at the Club Alabam, the Broadway black-and-tan rendezvous.

An unusually lenient padlock injunction was signed this week by United States Judge Winslow, who ordered Dinty Moore's famous restaurant closed for two weeks after a trial in which dry agents testified they had bought beer and ale there. The court, however, retained jurisdiction over the restaurant for six months, promising to close it for one year if any further violations occur.

The house wreckers yesterday went to work on the seven-story structure which housed Delmonico's for 23 years. The building will make way for a 25-story bank and office structure for the Harriman National Bank. It is estimated that about 50 days will be required for the wrecking.

Padlock proceedings have been begun by United States Attorney Emory R. Buckner against the Texas Gulian Club on West 48th street. A temporary injunction has been obtained by Buckner restraining the defendant from selling liquor. It was claimed by dry agents that liquor was sold at $10 a pint and charged on the check as "cider".

Ray Miller Opens

New York, July 11.—Ray Miller and His Orchestra, just back from a dance tour thru Pennsylvania and New England, opened Wednesday night at the Marigold Gardens, Harry Susskind's Inn on the Pelham Parkway. The Miller Band succeeds Al Jockey's Orchestra.

Unprecedented Demand for Boarding-House Music

New York, July 13.—Local orchestra booking offices report the biggest demand in history for bands for summer resorts. One large agency plans to concentrate exclusively in this field next season, although the salaries paid to musicians average $15 to $25 per week with the "eats" concession thrown in.

Resorts catering to younger people find that small jazz orchestras are now an indispensable part of their service if they would keep the patrons satisfied, especially in the evening. Places having a band are consistently outdrawing the city boarders from competitors. "It is true that people go to the country to rest," said one boarding-house manager, "but I suppose that a dance lover is a dance lover whether in the city or country. If they can dance at night they overlook many other faults, alleged or otherwise, with the rest of the service. No music at night starts a complaint that eventually leads into everything else connected with the place, and these complainers are the kind that don't come back next year."

Chicago Notes

Terrace Garden has a new band with Gus C. Edwards at the helm. The principal act on the entertainment bill is Stanley, Tripp and Morton, offering a comedy surprise. Others are Moss and Manning Sisters and Olive O'Neill, soprano.

Pershing Palace has a new show staged by Edgar Schooley, with costumes by Lester. Among the artistes are the Le Fevers, a dancing duo; Mary Ellis, prima donna; Harvey Gagneau and Margaro Raffaro. The chorists are attractive in motor and bathing numbers. Bernie Cummins and his orchestra furnish the instrumental support.

The Countess Boscha Mailloff, a beautiful European soprano, is the new headliner at the Moulin Rouge. The countess will seek a tryout in grand opera in this country. Little Caruso, Billie Gerber and Paulette LaPere are among the others on the bill and have been repeatedly held over, owing to their popularity. James P. Wade's Syncopators still provide the dance music.

Ernie Young's The Passing Parade of 1925 appears to have made a big hit in Sioux Falls, S. D., according to accounts of a performance given there and printed in one of the local newspapers.

New Wayburn Show Opens at the Shelburne

New York, July 11.—A new show titled Ned Wayburn's Honey Bunch has opened at the Hotel Shelburne, Brighton Beach. In the chorus is talent from almost every big city in the United States, all pupils or proteges of Wayburn.

On Friday evening, July 17, Myro Glass, Palestine baritone, just back from the Holy Lands, will give a recital in the Grand Ballroom of the Shelburne.

Publishers Welcome Lopez

Spindler Band in Albany

Albany, N. Y., July 11.—Harry Spindler's Sugar Boys will play at the Normandy, a summer dance pavilion here, until Labor Day. Harry Spindler and His Orchestra continue at the Hotel Brighton, Long Beach.

National Attractions Enlarges Personnel

New York, July 11.—Altho the National Attractions of New York, Inc., has been operating its ballroom circuit but a comparatively short time, it has been found necessary to enlarge the organization, with the result that the special field personnel now includes Fred Bennage and Rex C. Carthew.

Bennage is well known as a result of his long experience and association in the amusement field, having been connected in the past with the Anderson & Ziegler Circuit of theaters in the capacity of general manager and the Progressive Motion Picture Company in a similar capacity. He also had the distinction of being the opening manager for the Lexington Avenue Theater under Oscar Hammerstein.

Carthew has for some time been associated with Vanity Fair, and his broad selling experience is expected to be a help to the National Attractions Circuit as special representative and salesman.

B. A. Roffe, vice-president of National Attractions, is on his way to the Pacific Coast to attend the meeting of Western ballroom managers, which will be held at the Olympic Hotel, Seattle, Wash., July 15 and 16, under the auspices of the National Attractions and supervision of J. A. Schuberger, of Vancouver, B. C., the company's Coast representative.

(Communications to 1560 Broadway, New York, N. Y.)

SOME of the publishers who fortified themselves against depression by building up catalogs of standard, instrumental and novelty publications are actually continuing to do a normal business despite the adverse conditions that prevail in the sheet-music end of the industry.

Ukelele hooks particularly are selling fast, one firm reporting a sale of 85,000 "uke" folios since May 15. The head of this firm gives some interesting side-lights on the popularity of the lowly ukelele in the following statement:

"Blame American impatience for the ukelele. While in Europe it is common to see folks study the playing of instruments, such as cellos and harps, for many, many years, the American go-getter, up-and-at-'em spirit will have none of this delay. The ukelele enables the lad or damsel who would be a 'musician' to master its intricacies in comparatively no time. Tedious study, therefore, is eliminated, and in a day or two another music 'artist' is born.

"Then, of course, the present dapper and 'cake-eater' era has much to do with the growth of 'uke' and 'uke'-book sales. No roll-stocking flapper or college-educated 'finale hopper' considers her or his 'wardrobe' complete without a ukelele. For hikes, auto tours, camp-life parties and picnics this modest little instrument has been found to be just the thing.

"Folks like Wendell Hall, Cliff Edwards, Hank Line, 'Ukelele Hughes' and other contemporary exponents of things 'ukish' also deserve lots of credit for the sensational response that has been accorded 'the jumping flea', which is Hawaiian for ukelele. The radio, too, is no unimportant factor.

"Maybe the ukelele has been designated by a divine Providence as the Messiah that is to step in and save the music business from utter annihilation. Quite a few of the music publishers are inclined to think so."

The music-roll companies have been hard hit by the present slumps. Despite the fact that a few of the larger companies have reduced the prices of piano rolls to 75 cents, no discernible increase in sales is noted. Music-roll makers and dealers declare that this field has been even harder hit than the phonograph-record industry, with less chance for early relief.

Altho a still greater reduction might help, "laboratory" men assert that a further cut would be ruinous, as manufacturing costs have not gone down, and the royalty on piano rolls is often as high as 12 cents each, as against 4 cents a record paid by the phonograph companies.

The report that Victor, Brunswick, Columbia and the rest will soon cut prices to 50 cents a record is welcomed by many and dreaded by others.

Dealers, altho their profit will be cut to approximately 20 cents a record, are inclined to regard the step as a favorable one from a merchandising standpoint.

Some of the music publishers, however, have expressed themselves as decidedly opposed to such a slash.

"With a copy of sheet music retailing at 30 cents, as against a two-sided record at 50 cents, where would we be?" is the burden of their song, with the record companies' obvious reply being: "Who cares?"

Harlan Thompson, librettist of Little Jessie James and My Girl, both successful musical comedies, was married last week to Marlon Spitzer, novelist and special writer for The Saturday Evening Post. Thompson wrote the lyrics for the production hits, I Love You and You and I. The couple are honeymooning at Nantucket, Mass.

Jobbers report Miff Mole's Second Series of Original Breaks and "Hot" Choruses as moving exceedingly well. Series One is out of print, altho a new edition is being rushed to the presses.

Mole is probably the most famous of all modern trombonists, and has been with Ray Miller, Bennie Krueger, Ben Selvin, Lou's Kutzman and Sam Lanin. He is now a member of Ross Gorman's orchestra in Vaudeville.

Speaking of Louis Kutzman, that worthy music man, having successfully launched an orchestra in the Mercenary Mary musical show, is about to blossom forth as a full-fledged music publisher, there evidently being nobody to warn him.

Kutzman's first exploit will be the popularization of a mother ballad, by Lew Fitzgibbon and Joe Daniel, titled The Only Real Pal of All.

Music business bad? Well, printing business evidently isn't, for within the past month the following potentialities have come off the presses:

Stop Flirting, Nora Lee, Row, Row, Row; I'm Always Thinking of Someone, Summer Nights, Are You Lonesome, Yes, Sir, That's My Baby; How's Your Folks and My Folks, One Smile, When Eyes of Blue Are Fooling You, Collegiate, Joanna, Then I Met You, Smile a While, Look at Those Eyes, Angry, Shake It and Break It, Save Your Sorrow for Tomorrow, Stolen Kisses, Are the Sweetest, Happy Go Lucky Days, Stoppin' in Sweden, If You Hadn't Gone Away, Siberia, Bermuda Bound, Pretending, Ella, By the Temple Gate, Peaceful Valley, Because of You, Sonya, She's Driving Me Wild, So That's the Kind of a Girl You Are, There Ain't No Flies on Auntie, Heart-Breakin' Mose, I Wonder Where We Met Before, Wishing for You Blues, Deep Elm, Bass Ale Blues, I Ain't Got Nobody, Dreamy Carolina Moon, Golden Memories of Hawaii, The World Is Such a Lonesome Place, etc., etc.

But we also know a printer with a safe full of promissory notes, not counting the good ones discounted by the bank.

The scoring for the photoplay Cyrano de Bergerac at the Colony Theater last week created much favorable comment in Broadway music circles. Edmond Rostand's classic is a big hit, but no bigger one than the music which accompanied it. Fittingly enough, French composers figured largely in the synchronization, the mot is used being selected from the works of Massenet, Gabriel-Marie, Fancher, Debussy and Saint-Saens. An excerpt from the Walter Damrosch Cyrano opera was also employed in the scoring, while for the famous death scene, Wagner's Liebestod was used.

W. C. Polla's Super-Special arrangements are reported as selling rapidly by the local music jobbers. The Polla series of symphonic fox-trots includes, at present, the following titles: The Mikado, Arabian Romance, Think and Kamenoi Ostrich.

John Murray Anderson, well-known producer, has written Lorenz Hart, lyricist of the Garrick Gaities, the following note:

"Dear Larry—Congratulations on the best songs and lyrics I've heard since Messrs. Gilbert and Sullivan's day. I enjoyed every word and every note."

The "hit" numbers of the Garrick Gaities, which is the Theater Guild's first musical offering, are Manhattan, Sentimental Me, April Fool and On With the Dance. E. B. Marks has the publication rights.

Jimmy Fero, formerly associated with Harry Von Tilzer in the music publishing business, will open the new Markwell Hotel restaurant in New York this September.

Fero was one of the most popular lads in the business and dropped out before the slump set in.

Wonder if he will help feed some of his starving cronies in the music industry, or what's left of it, when he opens his restaurant.

Joe Davis says that his "blues" and Hawaiian numbers, on which his Triangle Music Publishing Company is concentrating, are keeping his stockroom active. The No. 1 song of the Davis catalog is Go Get 'Em, Caroline, described as a novelty, strut.

Billy Rose, "millionaire" songwriter, left Thursday via steamer for New Orleans, where he will entrain for Los Angeles. Ralph Spence, writer of the mystery play, The Gorilla, accompanied him. The boys will produce a series of one-reel movie comedies while on the Coast.

On their return to New York they will put on The Yes Man, a comedy of American business life, in which Rose and Spence coauthored.

Maurice Abrahams, music publisher, and his wife, professionally known as Belle Baker, sail for Europe later in the month. Charles Tobias, composer-publisher, who married Edna Gladstone, songwriter, last year, is the father of a boy. Arthur Behin, T. B. Harms' professional manager, is on a month's vacation. Half of Melody Mart's Julying in Montreal, taking the famous Canada "euro".... Leading Me On is a new Charles K. Harris publication, by West-Heiden-Farrar.

The NINT Music Publishing Company, of Hinsdale, Mass., is concentrating on "movie" organists for a plug on its latest release, Sweetest Girl, I Long for You.

The Maurice Abrahams number, Panop-Panop Maid, by Irving Bibo and Howard Johnson, is featured in the new Earl Carroll Vaudeville, which opened July 6.

Two of the out-of-town representatives of Ager, Yellen & Bornstein, Inc., figured in two recent calamities, but, fortunately, came out with their hats on. Bob Gross, who represents the firm on the Coast, was thrown out of his bed by the earthquake that shook Santa Barbara, and writes that being in an earthquake is the strangest thrill he ever experienced. Tom Bullock, Boston representative, was at the ill-fated Pickwick Club, whose collapse recently resulted in many fatalities.

shortly before the cavern. Bullock had just finished a plugging turn and had just left the building when the accident occurred.

New Turns and Returns

a swell gal and has no money. Being broke is the very same predicament of the other one also. She comes on and is not so bad looking thinks the disconsolate one, who takes the initiative in entertaining her. From then on it is nip and tuck between the two boys, who want to quit when she is either hungry or thirsty and when she mentions that her taxi chauffeur is waiting. She has been riding around all afternoon and they quiver at the thought of paying the bill. The taxi man blows his horn now and then and the youths do not know whether to stay or heat it. Finally she tells them that her father owns the cab and let her take it for the afternoon. The songs and dances are above the average. There are many laughs here and there when the possible expenditure of money crops up.

It seems that the offering would be better off if the running time was cut at least two minutes, inasmuch as the same subject is at hand thruout the running time. For the time it is now playing it makes an excellent novelty skit, and it might also do for the bigger houses a little later on. M. H. S.

Sylvia and George Di Gaetano

Assisted by Sister Amelia

In Dance Creations

Spanish Dance.....Sylvia and Amelia
Tango.....Sylvia and George
Old and New.....Sylvia and George Variations.....Sylvia and George Militaire.....Sylvia and George
L'Apache.....Sylvia and George

Reviewed Wednesday evening, July 8, at B. S. Moss' Regent Theater, New York. Style—Dancing. Setting—Full stage (cycs.). Time—Fifteen minutes.

This trio start off as the ordinary three-act outfit, but end up like a big-time proposition. The team, composed of Sylvia and George, have a beautiful routine, which they do smoothly and in a distinctive style. Amelia Di Gaetano, is not quite so good a dancer as her sister, but is cute and equally graceful. She does some toe and faster steps.

In the Old and New number Amelia does a minuet and follows it with the same dance jazzed up. Her toe dancing is but fair. In the Variations number the adagio was of outstanding merit. The Militaire was a toy-soldier dance done in novel style. The Apache dance that concluded the performance was not only a clever one of its kind but done in a manner that gathered a few laughs because it was rough but in an amusing style, nothing about it characterizing the usual regulation idea that most dancers have of the dance. The easy style of dancing and competent handling of the girl by her partner should win it a spot on any big-time bill. M. H. S.

Laura Hamilton

With Ole and Harry Olson

Reviewed Thursday evening, July 9, at B. S. Moss' Franklin Theater, New York. Style—Songs, dances, instrumental. Setting—Tico, special. Time—Sixteen minutes.

Laura Hamilton is new to this reviewer, while Ole, Olsen is already familiar to vaudeville thru having played at the head of his own orchestra. It is more than likely that Harry Olson, his brother, who is also in this offering, was with him in the band. Altho Miss Hamilton is new at present she promises to become a familiar face in the better class vaudeville houses for the trio have as entertaining a "revuet", it might be called, as one could desire to see. Ole Olsen stays at the piano thruout the turn, while Harry plays several reeds, including bass, baritone and soprano saxophones, and plays them all in a manner which shows just why the saxophone, in the hands of one who knows the instrument, is one of the sweetest sounding of all.

Miss Hamilton's greatest asset is an adorable personality. This is backed up with a sweet face and shapely figure, and then ability. The latter could be placed before her looks. Her taste in clothes is dainty and all her frocks and outfits are more than becoming. She opens with a number about I Like the Boys, which goes into another with Ole Olsen also singing, You Can't Be Good, followed by a neat dance by Miss Hamilton. Harry Olsen solos with the bass sax, which is followed by St. Louis Blues, done vocally by Ole. Miss Hamilton reappears in another sport outfit for My Home Town in Kansas, after which Harry plays a waltz beautifully on the baritone sax, and Ole follows it with a "hot" piano solo. Miss Hamilton is an adorable picture in a white evening frock for a waltz bit and closes the act with a jazz and Charleston.

Finesse characterizes all of the girl's work. The boys are neat looking and also good showmen. The offering has been produced well and despite the 16 minutes hasn't a dull second in it. It's class all the way thru and requires high-class audiences. G. J. H.

New Playhouse and Theater School In New York's Fashionable Section

NEW YORK, July 11.—A new playhouse and school of the theater will be erected shortly in New York's fashionable section, according to John Murray Anderson, who announces the acquisition of a property on East 53rd street, between Park and Lexington avenues, on which is to be constructed the Park Avenue Theater and the John Murray Anderson-Robert Milton School of the Theater. Plans for the building are now being completed by Architect William Lawrence Bottomley.

This deal is considered by theatrical men and realtors a confirmation of the theory that metropolitan theater building will develop north thru the fashionable section of the East Side. The first indications of this were the Al Johnson Theater on Seventh avenue near Central Park, then the conversion of the old Circle Theater, recently a picture house under the name of the Cosmopolitan, into the Ziegfeld Cosmopolitan, and then the proposed new Ziegfeld houses, to be built by Hearst and Brisbane, at Sixth avenue and 54th street. These houses fringe the fashionable section, but the new Park Avenue Theater will be situated in the very heart of it.

Mr. Anderson and Mr. Milton will direct the policies of the new theater. The school, its lecture halls, classrooms, studio, ballroom and gymnasium will be in the same building as the theater. Every branch of the theater—not forgetting a course in dramatic criticism—will be included in the curriculum of this school. Anderson and Milton will be its administrators and associated with them on the advisory council will be the following: Blanche Bates, Mrs. Pliske, Elizabeth Marbury, Elsie De Wolfe, Margaret Illington, Sam H. Harris, Irving Berlin, Edgar Selwyn, John Alden Carpenter, Bida Johnson Young, Jerome Kern, Holbrook Blinn, Otis Skinner, Richard Herndon, Robert Edmond Jones and Henry Miller.

The faculty and lecturers on special subjects will include: Blanche Bates, Richard Bennett, Arthur Richman, Frank Reicher, Don Marquis, Channing Pollock, Helen Dryden, Robert E. Locher, Livingston Platt, Clark Robinson, Herman Rosse, Martha Graham, Michio Ito, and M. Clerk-Jeanette, Charles K. Gordon and Hugh A. Anderson will be associated in the business management.

In addition to the use of the theater as a laboratory for the school, a repertory company will be organized for the presentation of new plays. Anderson, in association with Milton, will present a light opera and a serious play by Don Marquis. Later in the season Anderson will offer a new form of revue to be known as the John Murray Anderson Follies.

New York, July 11. — Chamberlain Brown has recently placed the following players: Fleming Ward with Frank Keenan, Catherine Willard with Edward Childs Carpenter, Henry Whittemore with A. H. Woods and Walter Regan and Marion Lord with Henry Duffy.

New York, July 11.—Marie Chambers, leading lady in Is Zat So?, at Chanin's 46th Street Theater, has been engaged by Paramount Pictures to play an important role in D. W. Griffith's first film production for this company. The picture will be titled What Roubt Girl and the cast will include Carol Dempster, James Kirkwood and Harrison Ford. Miss Chambers' appearance in the movie will in no way interfere with her work in Is Zat So?, as the film will be taken on the Paramount lot in Astoria.

Frank Keenan in New Play

New York, July 11.—Frank Keenan, according to word from the West Coast, will try out a new play called Smiling Danger, by Oliver White, at the Columbia Theater, San Francisco, about August 19 and at the Biltmore Theater, Los Angeles, a few weeks later, with the intention of starting in the piece on Broadway next season. J. Frank Gibbons, manager for Keenan, was in town the past week and returned West with several members of the cast engaged here, among them being Robert Connery, Fleming Ward and Bertha Mann.

CHANGES IN CASTS

New York, July 11.—Jane Houston will replace Ethel Wilson in the cast of Spooks, at the Cort Theater, Monday night. Miss Wilson will shift over to White Collars at the Sam H. Harris Theater, where she will take up the role played by Cornelia Otis Skinner, who is dropping out of the company.

Wheeler Dryden is playing the part of Worthing in White Cargo, at the 39th Street Theater, in the absence of Allan Davis, who is in the hospital. W. Wan Singha has replaced Herbert Ellis in this cast.

Cass Burt has replaced Stephen Maley as the colored servant in The Gorilla at the Selwyn Theater.

Weber Books Fall Offerings

New York, July 11.—L. Lawrence Weber has booked his first productions of the new season. The Sea Woman, new play by Willard Robertson about to go in rehearsal, will open at Ashury Park August 3 for a week's engagement. Stamford will see the piece August 10 and 11, and the latter part of that week the New York premiere will take place in the Little Theater. The Dagger, recently tested in Atlantic City, will open in Rochester August 31 and will come into New York the following week. The Fall of Eve, play by John Emerson and Anita Loos that has already been tried out, is scheduled to open at the Booth Theater September 7. Weber's vehicle for Houdini starts a 40-week tour in Cumberland, Md., August 31, with a few performances to follow in Wheeling, W. Va., before the booking at the Alvin Theater, Pittsburgh, beginning September 7. The producer will also send out Cobra again and Milwaukee will see the season's premiere on or about Labor Day at the Davidson Theater there. The Chicago presentation of Mercenary Mary, the musical comedy now being offered by Weber on Broadway, is set for the Garrick Theater beginning September 6. Weber has still another play up his sleeve, which he will try out before the summer is over. It is a melodrama by Martin Brown, titled The Praying Curve. Dates and a cast have yet to be settled upon, although it is rumored that Francine Larrimore is considering the lead.

De Costa Has Three More Plays Ready for the Fall

New York, July 11.—Leon De Costa, author and composer of Kosher Kitty Kelly, now playing at the Times Square Theater, has not been idle since the opening of his first Broadway piece. He announces that he now has three more plays ready and their production arranged for. Here and Hereafter, said to be a drama, will be sponsored by the Arch Productions, the producers of Kosher Kitty Kelly. A novelty play, titled Seas of Sound, and a Chinese operetta, called Sing Song See, have also been contracted for by a prominent New York producing firm and will be listed when they announce their fall plans, according to De Costa.

Dramasong Changes Plans

New York, July 11.—The Dramasong Theatrical Productions have changed their plans and will produce a mystery drama by Harold Hutchings and Margery Williams, titled Out of the Night, instead of The Makin's, the comedy drama by Alan Burton. Rehearsal will start on the new play next week.

G. L. Miller and M. Goldreyer have taken over The Makin's and will offer it on Broadway about Labor Day.

John Golden To Open Up New Try-Out Territory

New York, July 11.—John Golden in his second test of A Straight Shooter is to feel out the suspected possibilities of a new "sticks". The play, which is the work of Winchell Smith and George Abbott, will open Monday in the new $300,000 theater in Patchogue, L. I., where it will remain for three performances and then move on for a Thursday presentation in Hempstead, recently reported as a good box-office town by William A. Brady, who tested his production of Devils there. The last two days of the week will be spent in the brand-new playhouse at Great Neck, L. I. A Straight Shooter will be the first legitimate attraction to play in this section of fashionable homes.

The cast of Golden's first offering of the new season will include Leona Hogarth in the role originally played by Helen Gahagan, thru the courtesy of Brady, when the play was first tried out, and George Abbott, Fred Malcolm, Frank Monroe, George Wright, Jr.; John F. Morrissey, George J. Williams, Richard Carville, Bennet Musson, Lella Bennett, William Pawley, G. Albert Smith, George Thompson, Dan Moyle, Emerin Campbell, Elizabeth Allen, Millard Mitchell, Harry Cooke, Ben Meigs, D. J. Carew, Frank Verigun and Ralph Hackett. A Straight Shooter will reach Broadway some time in August.

Shows Under Way

New York, July 11.—What Women Do will open cold at the Bijou Theater July 29. Lawrence Marston is presenting the piece, which is a comedy by Lila Longson, Robert L. Macnaff has been directing the rehearsals. The cast includes Mona Kingsley, Egon Brecher, Irene Purcell, Ben Targart, James T. Ford, Henrietta Adams, Isabel West, Milano Tilden, William Shelley and Marty Helsey.

The Pink Elephant, a comedy by William Podmore, which is being sponsored by Mark Byron, will open in Ashury Park on Monday night. Henry Herbert staged the piece and the complete cast includes Augusta Boylston, Donald Campbell, George Humbert, Robert Harrigan, Clare Mesereau, Paul Nugent, Lester Paul, Edwin E. Vickery and Art Walsh. The last half of the week will be played in Long Branch.

A Man Among Women, produced by the new firm of Dowling & Anhalt, will have its premiere in Stamford July 17. The tryout will consist of two days there, two in Ashury Park and two in Long Branch. Alan Brooks has the leading role, is responsible for the staging and is coauthor with Daniel Carson Goodman. The rest of the cast includes Winifred St. Clair, Dan Sullivan, Kathleen Mulqueen, R. Yama, Allys Dwyer, Ben Smith, Fred Norris, Kate Poenter and Matt Briggs. The piece will be presented in New York in the early fall if the test proves satisfactory.

The Cradle Snatcher, a comedy by Russell Medcraft and Norma Mitchell, in rehearsal under the management of Sam H. Harris and the direction of Sam Forrest, is scheduled to open in Stamford July 23. The following week will be spent in Atlantic City and then the production will come into New York.

Marie Curtis Favored Stock to Broadway for Many Seasons and Is Still a Booster

Marie Curtis, the character woman who plays the role of the mother in White Collars, the comedy of middle-class life, current at the Sam H. Harris Theater, New York, is a great believer in stock companies and stock producers. She has spent the most part of her successful career among them thru her own choice and regrets not a minute of it.

Coming to New York from Columbus, Miss. Miss Curtis studied at Sargent's American Academy of Dramatic Arts. Upon graduating she spent several seasons in New York in support of Julia Marlowe, Nat Goodwin and other stars. An engagement with a stock company in Brooklyn was so enjoyable, however, that she made up her mind to devote herself to this branch of the profession. In the period between that appearance in Brooklyn and the fall of 1923 Miss Curtis played with practically every stock organization worthy of mention in the United States, among the most prominent being Jessie Bonstelle's companies in Detroit and Buffalo, the old John Craig Stock at the Castle Square Theater in Boston, Tom Wilkes' Los Angeles group, the companies in Milwaukee and Cleveland and the famous organization at the Academy of Music in New York. From time to time she received offers to play in Broadway productions, but she turned them all down until finally an engagement with Stuart Walker brought her into a regular presentation at the 39th Street Theater in Time, offered by that producer to the New York public in the fall of 1923. Engagements in Nerves, for William A. Brady, Jr.; The Rising Sun, for Klaw, and Close Harmony, for Arthur Hopkins, followed. When Anne Nichols took over White Collars and moved it into the Harris Theater she engaged Miss Curtis to play the role of Mrs. Thayer. She is making an individual hit in the show and has received many favorable notices.

Miss Curtis, in comparing stock with Broadway productions, says, in part: "Even some of the worst stock companies would not dare to ring up a curtain on a production as bad as some of the offerings that are displayed in New York, the supposed center of our profession, where are gathered, we are told, the best producers, directors and actors in the country. Believe me, there are many buried away in obscure stocks that could give cards and spades to more than one of the Broadway lights. Of course, there are many fine productions in New York and I have worked with and under real artists here very often, but I must say that some of the exhibitions I have seen beat anything I have ever witnessed in a small-town stock company. The stocks cannot get away with it, you know; they have to send their people away with a desire to return. In New York apparently it does not matter, to some of the managements at least, after they once have your money. I am a great believer in stock companies, not only as an excellent training school for actors and actresses, but as the sponsors of real entertainment well served."

GORDON M. LELAND.

James Gleason To Play Mats With His Own Stock Company

New York, July 11.—James Gleason, coauthor of Is Zat So?, the comedy in which he is appearing at Chanin's 46th Street Theater, will play in the matinee performances of his own stock company, which was recently announced to occupy a Broadway house early in August. The opening is to take place on a matinee day and the first play to be presented will be Captain Applejack. Gleason will play the role created by Wallace Edginger, and his son, Russell, is to appear in the supporting cast. The comedian has already assembled a permanent stock company headed by Frank McHugh, now in The Fall Guy and recently the leading man of the Yorkville stock company. Captain Applejack was presented by the Players' Guild in Milwaukee last season with Gleason, his son and Mina Crolius, Gleason's mother, all in the same cast.

"Faust" Revival Tour To Open in Columbus

New York, July 11.—The revival of Faust, planned by John E. Kellard in association with George Backer, is announced to open in Columbus, O., September 17. Kellard will play the title role in this spectacular production and the bookings will take the show on an extended trip thru the Middle West, where Kellard is well known.

Louis Wolheim III

New York, July 11.—Louis Wolheim, who plays the part of Captain Flagg in What Price Glory?, at the Plymouth Theater, has been confined to his home for more than a week with an illness said to have been caused by nerve strain and overwork. Harold Salter, his understudy, has been filling the role. Wolheim hopes to be well enough to return to the cast early next week.

Try-Out Openings

"Trouble Island"

Asbury Park, N. J., July 8.—With the premiere last Monday night of Kilbourn Gordon's production of Trouble Island, a comedy by Len D. Hollister and Leona Stephens, the Main Street Theater reverted to its former policy of housing tryouts of legitimate attractions headed for Broadway. The piece, booked here for only three days, moves on to Long Branch tomorrow night to finish out the week and will play Stamford, Conn., the week of July 13, with New York scheduled as soon after as the production can be whipped into shape.

A first-night audience with an unusual number of New Yorkers present greeted the play with enthusiasm. The dialog is not particularly bright or clever, but the players succeeded in keeping the house in almost a constant state of laughter. The theme, altho it contains a thread of mystery and melodrama, is light and full of comely situations. Henry Hull was amusing and did well with the leading role, but the honors went to Arthur Aylsworth, whose droll humor secured a laugh with practically every line. A. B. Van Buren was excellent, and Emma Wise, as a colored maid, made considerable of a hit with the audience on the opening night. The rest of the cast, which included Verre Teasdale, Kay Johnson, Gypsy O'Brien, Anne Morrison, Herbert Heywood, Claude Allister, Zola Talma, Constance Beaumar and Paul Doucet, were equal to the demands made upon them. Lester Lonergan staged the piece.

"The School Mistress"

Stamford, Conn., July 8.—Henry W. Savage in association with A. H. Woods, offered last night for the first performance in America an adaptation of Dario Niccodemi's European success titled in English The School Mistress at the Stamford Theater here. The play will be repeated tonight and will then go to New London for the balance of the week, with Atlantic City to follow. Gladys Unger adapted the piece and Rollo Lloyd staged it. The title role was capably handled by Ann Harding and McKay Morris was ideally cast in the part opposite the little school teacher of the drama, which is hit-and-miss, powerful and strong in heart interest. An exceptional supporting cast included Elizabeth Patterson, Hortense Allen, Lloyd Neal, Rollo Lloyd, Douglas Pemberton, John Davenport Seymour, Vera Penn and a group of schoolgirls. Savage has given the play an adequate production and the offering should appeal to New York when it is presented there next fall.

"The Strawberry Blonde"

Atlantic City, N. J., July 11.—William Harris, Jr. is testing his first production of the new season, The Strawberry Blonde, a comedy of domestic life by Martin Brown, at the Apollo Theater here this week. Robert Milton staged the piece, which will be removed after tonight's showing and held for a fall showing in New York.

The production has been well received in Atlantic City. Sam Hardy plays the title role of a red-haired young man who dispenses pre-Volstead cheer in his humble home in the great apartment-house section of New York. He and Nina Gombel, who plays opposite him, are excellent in their characterizations and do much to put what is perhaps the best play ever written by Martin Brown across the footlights. All the parts are well cast and the supporting company includes Donald Meek, Josephine Drake, Roger Pryor, Grace Valentine, Argle Campbell, Peggy Allenby, Frances Victory and Audrey St. Clair. The play is essentially a character study of a group of everyday folks, inmates and neighbors of a typical apartment on the outskirts of the city.

Julia Chandler Joining Bel Geddes and Herndon

New York, July 11.—Julia Chandler will sever her association as publicity director for Edgar Selwyn and his productions the first of August to become a member of the Norman Bel Geddes-Richard Herndon Corporation. She will have a producing interest in the organization and also direct its advertising and publicity work.

Mrs. Chandler was for four years a special feature writer on The Chicago Tribune and for eight years dramatic critic of The Washington Herald before coming to New York. She handled the publicity of the Selwyns for six years and that firm dissolved partnership last summer when Mrs. Chandler remained with Edgar Selwyn in a similar capacity.

Laura Hope Crews Back in New York

New York, July 11.—Laura Hope Crews is back from San Francisco, where she has been playing in The Swan and a number of new plays with Henry Miller's company there. Her plans for the coming season are not definite as yet.

Francine Larrimore says she will not appear with the stock company to be conducted by A. E. Anson in Bethlehem, Pa., this summer.

REMARKABLE REMARKS

"The most common cause of bad plays is the fact that the playwright has nothing to say." — Heywood Brown.

"The public cannot do without the theater, and the actor and the dramatist are therefore in a position to insist on honorable terms." — Bernard Shaw.

"A. H. Woods, who started the trend that has led to the limit in risqué bedroom farces and dirty plays in general, is now complaining that his productions were innocent as kittens compared to the recent offerings of several New York producers." — Clouton Alcott.

"The reason poor plays succeed is because they interest, amuse and divert. We will always have that kind of play. The thing to do is to make entertaining plays more literary." — Walter Prichard Eaton.

"The American theater, like every other phase of our life, is a here-and-now opportune institution." — Oliver M. Saylor.

"An actor cannot be natural unless he really has the power to project his personality." — Sarah Bernhardt.

A London Letter

Treating of the Legitimate
By "COCKAIGNE"

Business Better

LONDON, June 25.—The heat wave has given place to the chilliest of cold draughts and the public is making tracks for Shaftesbury avenue and the Strand in preference to Wimbledon and the river. Box-office receipts leaped as the mercury fell and several shows which seemed destined to immediate oblivion have taken a new lease of life. The change indeed has been very merciful to one or two of the new plays, whose presenters were on the point of being bawled out by Cricketer Sol's powerful overarm. The relief has come too late, however, to save several shows, arrangements having already been made for their removal. Fortunately, The Cherry Orchard, which Nigel Playfair had put on at the Lyric Theater, Hammersmith, during the recent warm weather and which languished at the outset altho business improved later, has been able to secure a West End home and I hear that it is doing sound business at the Royalty.

Arthur Bouchier's Candidature

Arthur Bouchier, the well known actor-manager, lessee and proprietor of the Strand Theater, is taking an active part in labor politics. His second wife, Kylie Bellow, is a keen adherent of the political left and Bouchier himself has strongly espoused the cause of trade unionism, more especially in its theatrical aspects. His advocacy of the cause of the Actors' Association during the formation of the Stage Guild was both powerful and generous, for he assisted materially the funds of the Association and it seems probable that one of the reasons why the Actors' Association executive seems so desirous of widening the Council electorate to include actor-managers is that it may be possible to get such people as Bouchier and Sybil Thorndike to share in the regulation of the Actors' Union.

Recently Bouchier allowed the Strand to be used for special Sunday night theatrical entertainments in connection with the work of the Independent Labor Party, with a view to the formation of a sort of Labor propagandist theater. More recently this work is developing along the lines of linking up the various amateur Labor theater movements thruout the country into a kind of Labor Drama League. I learn that Miles Malleon, a clever actor and one of the most amusing Shakespearean clowns that we have—who has written several plays with strong pacifist and Labor tendency, may be in charge of this movement, for which it is rumored he is prepared to give up his acting career. With this movement Arthur Bouchier is in complete sympathy and has promised co-operation.

It is therefore not surprising that Bouchier has Parliamentary aspirations. Indeed, I heard some months ago that it was likely that the Labor people might find a seat for him to contest at the next election. Now the Gloucester Labor Party has decided to put his name forward for adoption as prospective Labor candidate for the old West Country city. As a matter of fact, Bouchier addressed a mass meeting at Gloucester on the occasion of the May Day Labor Celebrations and I should say that this popular actor-manager will pull a good vote if, as is expected, he decides to stand at the next election for the city of Gloucester.

While he is away on a forthcoming Colonial tour Miss Bellow is to make her home in Gloucester with a view to nursing her husband's constituency.

Authors' Rights and Broadcasting

British authors are protesting thru the Incorporated Society of Authors, Playwrights and Composers against authors' rights not being safeguarded in the agreement between the theatrical managers and the British Broadcasting Company. W. B. Maxwell, the popular novelist, who is chairman of the Society, has issued the following statement:

"There are very many contracts in existence in which the manager has no right to broadcast excerpts of the play. It is obvious, then, that if the public expects, when it is told that 26 plays a year may be broadcast, that the best drama of the London stage will be at the disposal of the wireless audiences, its hopes are plumed to a myth. All professional playwrights, men who write drama for a living and who are responsible for the best that is on the English stage today (nearly every famous British author is in our ranks), have to come to agreements with theatrical managers by which the various benefits accruing from the play will be divided more or less fairly. In many cases playwrights have had (in their own interests and for their protection in view of what has happened in America) to reserve the right of broadcasting under certain conditions, not necessarily prohibitive, but equitable. For all their promises to broadcast the best plays the managers cannot broadcast plays unless they are allowed by their contracts. And the authors of the country, as represented by the Incorporated Society of Authors, Playwrights and Composers, were never even asked to enter the negotiations which have been dragging on for the past 15

Frazee Must Pay Costs In "Lady Friends" Suit

New York, July 11.—Attorneys for Dabiel V. Arthur have filed a judgment for $127 against Harry H. Frazee, the producer, for costs of defending the appeal which Frazee recently lost when the courts awarded to Arthur one-third of the profits of My Lady Friends, in which the late Clifton Crawford was starred with great success. The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court reaffirmed the decision in favor of Arthur, who, two years ago, sued Frazee on the grounds that Arthur's play, Oh, James, was the basis for the one known as My Lady Friends.

Leonard Grover Writing Book

New York, July 11.—Leonard Grover, pioneer American actor, playwright and manager, who is about 93 years old and has been a commanding figure in the theater of this country since the Civil War, is at work on his autobiography, which is expected to be completed and ready for publication in the near future. Grover is now in retirement at his home, 124 South Oxford street, Brooklyn.

Davis Play for Madge Kennedy

New York, July 11.—Madge Kennedy will be starred in a new comedy, titled Beware of Widows, fresh from the pen of Owen Davis. Crosby Gaige will sponsor the production, which he announces as one of his first for the new season.

Emily Stevens in "Scoundrel"

New York, July 11.—Emily Stevens will appear next season in a new play by Ben Hecht, titled The Scoundrel, which has been purchased by Hassard Short.

Dramatic Notes

Louis Sorin, general understudy for the Able's Irish Rose companies, replaced Milton Wallace at the Republic Theater, New York, for several performances last week owing to the absence of Wallace, whose wife died suddenly.

Patterson McNutt, producer of The Poor Nut, the comedy by J. C. and Elliott Nugent, current at the Henry Miller Theater, New York, has completed arrangements with the authors of his success to produce two more of their plays during the forthcoming season.

Dorothy Hall, who plays the leading role in White Collars at the Sam H. Harris Theater, New York, donated 250 autographed fans for the mothers and chaperons who accompanied the several hundred children on the annual outing of the Children's Dramatic League up the Hudson River to Indian Head Point last Thursday.

Regina Wallace is now enjoying a vacation in Milan, Italy, after having made a notable hit as Candida in George Bernard Shaw's play of that title in London recently. She appeared opposite Clarke Silvernail, who had the role of Eugene Marchbanks. Miss Wallace was best seen in this country in The Show-Off.

Theoria, a well-known organization of women theatergoers, has purchased the entire house for the third night of Channing Pollock's new play, The Enemy, which Crosby Gaige is to offer in New York late in October. This is perhaps the first time that a thousand seats have been sold for a play nearly four months in advance of its opening and before the theater to house it has been announced.

months. If the powers that be propose to broadcast plays in defiance of agreements to the contrary, they may find that they have not yet surmounted all their difficulties.

The broadcasting companies reply that they have not deliberately denied the rights of authors, playwrights and composers and that they have been careful not to take advantage of the fact that there is no established criterion of copyright in broadcasting. The B. B. C. points out that it has been able to organize over one thousand hours of program without having to establish any legal criterion for the assessment of copyright interests in broadcasting.

This, as a matter of fact, seems on the face of it rather a get out, and it is only natural that the authors should seek to have their rights duly covered by authoritative contracts and agreements. While no such agreements exist, the B. B. C. can, of course, make terms which will gradually come to be recognized as legal custom, and by this means all sorts of abuses may be fostered. The sooner the position is cleared up in a businesslike and legal manner the better.

In any case it is to be noted that where cases have been fought abroad the legal decision has invariably been to uphold full claims made by the authors and composers. This was so, for example, when Hugo von Hoffmannstahl and Gerhart Hauptmann recently successfully maintained their claims against two German radio syndicates. It is probable, then, that the English authors, if they take a firm stand, will be able in a similar way to maintain their rights against the British broadcasting monopolists.

Brevities

Ruggero Ruggeri, the Italian actor, reputed to be the finest living Hamlet, who appeared last week as Henry IV in Pirandello's play at the New Oxford Theater, visited various London theaters during his stay here. Naturally enough he went to the New Theater to see Matheson Lang, romantic actor, who is at present appearing in Rafael Sabatini's play, The Tyrant. Ruggeri liked the piece, and immediately a deal was concluded whereby he took the Italian rights. This is a fair exchange, for Ruggeri created the name part in Christopher Sly, in which Lange appeared in this country.

The O. P. Club, which is in the habit of giving dinners to theatrical celebrities Sunday nights, made a special effort to pay an unusual honor to C. B. Cochran to mark his successful return to West End management. Departing from their usual custom of Sunday-night dinners, they organized a special On With the Dance Ball at the Hotel Cecil. Sir Charles Higham, one of the leading spirits of the club, and a confirmed Old Player, proposed the toast of "Our Guests", to

PLAYERS PUBLISHING PAPER

Murray-Harolde Company Increasing Patronage by Issuing Interesting and Instructive Pamphlet

COLUMBUS, O., July 11.—The Murray-Harolde Players at the Hartman Theater are increasing their patronage weekly by new and unique methods employed by Leon Berg, that includes the publication of The Murray-Harolde News, a chatty little pamphlet that carries a fund of interesting and instructive news relative to plays, players and patrons.

Pirated Paragraphs

"The first of the 'Shoppers' Matinees' proved a most encouraging success and demonstrated that the additional matinee, which is scheduled for every Wednesday during the season, is much appreciated by patrons. Those who visited the inaugural 'Shoppers' Matinee' were recipients of beautiful photogravures of Floy Murray.

"The Murray-Harolde Club held its first meeting at the Hartman Theater Thursday afternoon, June 9. Almost 100 members were initiated. After a short talk by the manager, outlining the policy of the club, Mr. Fraunie, stage director of the company, gave an interesting lecture on primaries pertaining to the stage. During the course, the members were instructed in all branches of stageland and the most talented ones will be given opportunities to appear with the players in such parts, which they may be able to interpret to the satisfaction of the director. It is also the intention of the management to have a great many of the members appear in three one-act plays. All revenues derived from the presentation of these playlets will be given to charity.

"The Murray-Harolde Club meets every Thursday at 5 p. m., at the theater. Any lady and gentleman may obtain a membership card. There are no dues nor initiation fees. Applicants must be over 14 years of age.

"The Murray-Harolde Magazine will be of a more extensive size than the present folder. It will offer the management greater opportunities for 'Chatters' on various subjects, as additional space will be allotted for that purpose. The players will likewise find room here and there to have their say in The Murray-Harolde Magazine.

"The second meeting of the Murray-Harolde Club, June 6, was attended by 139 members. Mr. Fraunie gave an interesting talk on 'Makeup'. The members seemed deeply absorbed in the theme, which acquainted them closer with an art so very essential to stageland. The director requested members of the club to 'get up' in a few lines from any of the Shakespearean plays. At the meeting on Thursday, the week following, he placed those whose interpretations are most artistic in Class A, while those with prospects of developing were placed in Class B. There will also be a C class for those who desire to attend the meetings as a matter of study, but who have no desire of ever stepping in back of the footlights. Those in Class A will have first call to assist in productions where the additional cast may be needed. "Encouraged by the support the Murray-Harolde Players have been enjoying the original engagement of 10 weeks has been extended."

Comment

What the Murray-Harolde Players are doing at the Hartman Theater to extend their season, thereby making their engagement pleasant and profitable, can be done by other players at other theaters.

Heller in Hospital

Walla Walla, Wash., July 11.—Harry M. Heller, business manager of the Maud Henderson Stock Company, which filled a four-week engagement at the Legion Theater last April, was so favorably impressed with the treatment given disabled ex-service men at the U. S. V. Hospital here that he decided to become a patient and is now in Ward 68 A, where he is slowly recuperating from an operation on his eyes.

Speaking of the Henderson Company, Heller says: "Miss Henderson left here for Pocatello, Id., for a short engagement, finishing there she started by car and truck for her summer home in Northern Montana. She was to be in Manhattan, Mont., about the time the earthquake hit that locality. The theater was demolished, as were many other buildings in the place. It was a beautiful theater. I have heard nothing from the company so cannot say how much damage they suffered."

Marjorie Rambeau: Guest Star

New York, July 11.—Chamberlain Brown is booking and directing the tour of Marjorie Rambeau for a summer season as guest star with various stock companies, presenting the plays that made her famous.

Clubly With Harrington

Binghamton, N. Y., July 11.—John Clubly, former leading man in The Bat, more recently with Arthur Pearson's Hudson Players at Union Hill, N. J., until the close of the company, is now with the Guv Harrington Players, at the Stone Opera House.

Casad's Plays Released

New York, July 11.—Campbell B. Casad, well-known press representative of many and varied Broadway productions, and more recently as a radio-broadcasting educationalist, has released for stock company presentations Ways of Men and Stop That Noise, the latter to be presented by the Savannah Players and the former by the Gene Lewis-Olga Worth Players on the reopening of those companies.

ANTONY STANFORD

Made his first entry on the theatrical stage as Little Willie in "East Lynne". Since then he has progressed sufficiently to warrant his appearance in Broadway productions and stock.

Premiere Presentation "The Enchanted April"

Milwaukee, Wis., July 11.—The Enchanted April established a new box-office record for summer stock in this city and in other ways distinguished itself at the Davidson Theater recently when presented by the Players' Guild in association with Rosalie Stewart. The play is an adaptation of the novel of the same name by "Elizabeth" and will be produced by Miss Stewart on Broadway this fall.

The production was unique among premieres of its kind insofar as scenery and properties used were all authentic and will be taken back to New York by Miss Stewart for the New York production. Not only is this the first time that an entire Broadway production has been built in Milwaukee but the Davidson scenic department established a new speed record. Three shifts of stage mechanics under the direction of Peter Albrecht, chief carpenter of the Davidson house staff, built the entire production in less than six days. More than $20,000 worth of antiques and trimmings, owned by Miss Stewart, were included in the properties.

Seven members of the Milwaukee cast have been signed for important roles in the Broadway company. Harry C. Banister and Elizabeth Bisdon, leading man and lady, respectively, of the Players' Guild, will be featured in the New York cast, while five other members of last week's cast, brought from New York by Miss Stewart, have all been assigned regular berths in the company. They are Joan MacLean, Daisy Atherton, Gilbert Douglas, Catherine Stewart and Adeline Roatino.

Everything points to rounding out the present season in record style, according to Frank Miller, business manager of the guild, who reports a consistently growing list of steady customers and a capacity demand for theater party and benefit bookings. Outstanding among recent parties was that sponsored by the Wisconsin Bankers' Association, the event being the chief social affair of the annual convention of that body.

The executive staff of the Players' Guild includes James Gleason, general director; Patrick Kearney, executive director; Frank Miller, business manager; John Hayden, stage director; John Rayold, producer; Peter Albrecht, scenic foreman; Sherman Brown, Jr., treasurer, and Al G. Coughlin, advertising agent.

Clayton Comeback

New Orleans, July 11.—Russell J. Clayton, injured in an auto accident at Houston, Tex., and transferred to the home of his aunt in this city, is making a strong comeback and in all probability will be in working again within a few weeks.

Goodhand and Baker

Gary, Ind., July 11.—Milton Goodhand and Hazel Baker have terminated their engagement with the Hawkins-Ball Company to accept an engagement with the Charles K. Champlin Stock Company, making their third season with the Champlin company.

ANTONY STANFORD

Son of Louise Stanford, Who Toured Thru South for Many Years at Head of Own Company, Including Antony Enacting Child Parts

"Born to the stage" is a trite expression and oftentimes misquoted in its application to theatrical professionals, but not so in the case of Antony Stanford who was really born to the stage, by reason of his mother, Louise Stanford, heading her own company on tour the South at the time of Antony's birth at Dallas, Tex.

Antony was oftentimes called upon to enact child roles in the repertory of plays presented by the Louise Stanford Rep. Company, until Mamma Stanford decided that Son Tony had a voice well worth cultivating, when he was enrolled as a student under the instruction of Mme. Zimmerman, who is proud of the fact that she was the first vocalistic teacher of Nora Bayes. Since then Tony has continued his vocalistic studies under Vivian Kingston, a pupil of Vannini, the art of elocution under Winsdor P. Daggett and dancing at the school of Equity.

Tony made his first professional stage appearance as Little Willie in East Lynne, Paul in The Octoroon and various other child parts. Played first juvenile part in a musical play, The Girl From the U. S. A.; Harold Kicklebush in Wm. Anthony McGuire's play, The Divorce Question; then into stock at the Princess Theater, Chicago; Seattle, Wash.; San Francisco, Calif.; Hudson Theater, Union Hill, N. J.; Hallfax, Nova Scotia; Richmond, Va.; Alhambra Players at Loew's Alhambra Theater, Brooklyn, and Seventh Avenue Theater, New York; also supported Fiske O'Hara, the Irish singing star for two seasons. Created part of Berkley Fresno in Betty Lee; Charley, in the revival of Charley's Aunt, at Daly's 63d Street Theater. At present he is playing leading juveniles at Poli's Palace Theater, Hartford, Conn.

In his review of the Seventh Avenue Players' presentation of Lightnin' at Loew's Seventh Avenue Theater, "Nelse" in part said: "Antony Stanford, as John Marvin, the juvenile lumberman, in love with Lightnin' Bill's adopted daughter, stood out distinctly as a juvenile lead with a likable personality and the ability to handle an important role in the manner in which the authors intended it to be interpreted and portrayed. Stanford was entirely free of the staginess often noticed in juvenile leads. Intrusted with a role that enables them to hold the center of the stage and the concentrated interest of the audience, while the leading man and woman of the company are in the scene. This was especially applicable to Stanford in the court room, in which he dominated the entire scene."

Off stage he takes an active part in all sports, particularly swimming. His hobby is collecting interesting books and articles pertaining to the American theater. In a recent interview with Tony, we inquired if he objected to being called a matinee-girl idol and he replied: "I don't object to anything that goes with the business, but I am married to Peggy Paige and darn proud of it."

National Art Players Having Difficulties

Omaha, Neb., July 11.—Sam Geneen, directing manager of the National Art Players, formerly of Paterson, N. J., more recently at the Brandeis Theater, is experiencing considerable difficulty in holding his company intact.

According to one of the players who opened with the company Geneen has been associated with some of the big producing firms of Broadway and accustomed to doing things in a big way, oftentimes overstepping the boundary line of dramatic stock, when business is more than usually profitable, by increasing salaries uncollected. This habit has eventually gotten Geneen into difficulty with his players, who feel somewhat slighted when business falls below the profitable line and Geneen misses making uncollected increases.

A few such misses on Geneen's part peeved his principals sufficiently to cause a rebellion that promises to make the remainder of the engagement here not only unpleasant but decidedly unprofitable for Geneen, for without the frequent increases the company feels sufficiently dissatisfied to determine on retaliation by a loss of interest in its presentations, with the result that Geneen has also become peeved, and there is every indication of a general disorganization of the company.

Master Artist and Artisans Re-Engaged

New Orleans, July 11.—Holding their departments intact, O. W. Wagner, scenic artist, and Anthony Alloy, carpenter-in-chief, have been retained by the Saenger Amusement Company for the Saenger Stock Company's reopening at the St. Charles Theater for the regular season in September. Walter P. Richardson, leading man, signed a contract Saturday for the coming season. William H. Guerlinger, directing manager, has been in the East the past two weeks on business for the organization, and it is expected that the personnel of the company will be made public in our next issue.

Ardy Wright Leases Marlowe Theater

Chicago, July 11.—Ardy Wright, directing manager of the Dorothy Gale Players, with two units now in operation, one at Hammond, Ind., and another at La Salle, Ill., with four more being organized for a tour of the Keith-Orpheum Circuit, has extended his activities by taking a five-year lease on the Marlowe Theater in the Englewood District.

Movements of Actors

Chicago, July 9.—A. Milo Bennett and son, Junior Bennett, were members of an automobile party that spent five days in Green Bay, Sturgeon Bay and Sister Bay, Wis., returning this week. Others in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Norman McDonald. McDonald is general stage director for George K. Spoor at the Esplanade studios. He was with Spoor in the same capacity in 1911-12-13.

The Temple Players

Hamilton, Can., July 11.—The Temple Players continue on their commonwealth plan of presentations, Getting Gertie's Garter being the fifth presentation along these lines. Next week they present The Sun and close their season July 18.

the reason that he is in great demand as a radio broadcaster. On Saturday night last Casad discoursed on A Theatrical Press Agent from WOR, New York. Supplementing his broadcasting oratorical addresses to the air, Casad is preparing for the presentation of his plays Stop That Noise and Ways of Men by several well-known dramatic stock companies. Film Exploitation at Baltimore Harry Van Hoven, who sensationalized Carlin's Park and who was financially interested in the De Wolf Hopper Comic Opera Company about a year ago, has been entertaining Baltimore with a flashy bit of motion picture exploitation. Van Hoven, who is now advertising manager of the Whitehurst Combined Theatrical Interests, made the toup with the Thomas Meighan picture, Old Home Week. After considerable preliminary display, the campaign of the presentation started in full swing on the opening Monday. A replica of the band in full parade, with a very close impersonation of Thomas Meighan riding in a decorated automobile, marched past the Century Theater just as the doors were being opened for business. The front of the Century was gaily decorated in holiday regalia. The parade circled the theater three times and then proceeded to broaden the circles of the line of march until all the heavy traffic streets were fully covered. At 2:50 p.m., just before the showing of the feature, a prolog setting greeted the audience with characters in the picture awaiting Tom's arrival. Cheering and distant music offstage preceded the marching of the entire street parade onto the scene and crossing for an exit. Tom and the reception committee brought up the rear for much bowing and the curtain. As the first performance broke, the exiting audience came in contact with the parade again as it passed the theater. The continuity from the first showing of the billing right up to the actual showing of the picture soon caught public fancy, with the result that many humorous traffic jams resulted. Taking the prolog on the street for a parade had a unique angle and whereas it seems costly, the dropping of the regular added act from the theater program practically absorbed the cost. Howard Burman did a neat job in staging the prolog. WATER QUEEN RETURNS UP RIVER

Playing Upper Ohio Tributaries With Presentation of Thrilling Melodrama, "Rags and Riches"

THE large flotilla of showboats that went down the river this summer in search of "pay dirt" are due now to start returning to their havens. The advance guard of the returning flotilla, the Water Queen, tied up to the levee at Constance, Ky., Monday, July 6, after doing its share towards entertaining the vast audiences of river people, whose only amusements are those furnished by the showboats. The Water Queen is now on its way towards the upper stretches of the Ohio and its tributaries, where it will play until late fall.

The Water Queen, on going down the river, presented a modern version of Uncle Tom's Cabin, as reviewed in a previous issue. Liking the work of the cast in the sterling old play, this editor visited the Water Queen Monday night to see what they could do with a bill of entirely different qualities. The trip was well worth the time spent, as the versatile cast handled the play in a splendid manner.

Rags and Riches was the bill presented, and altho a melodrama somewhat old in style and thought, perhaps not finding favor with those big-city audiences, the river audience literally "ate it up". It takes something substantial, with pathos and comedy liberally mixed, to satisfy these audiences, and Rags and Riches had all this. The play was written and produced by Will N. Rogers, who also wrote the Tom version for the boat, and as Rogers is a member of the old school of dramatics its influence is felt all the way thru the play. Mr. Rogers also plays the unsung hero of the play, the tramp character, holding this end up in a worthy manner.

Another outstanding performance was the work of Dot Blake in the feminine lead, her peppiness and liveliness giving her the very personification of the soubrette type played. Other performances worthy of mention are those of Mrs. Will Rogers, Leota Clyde, J. W. Bailey (the sinister heavy), Mrs. Bailey, Bert Blake, "Topsy" Smith, Sam Reed, Mrs. Reed and Mr. Brown. The vaudeville specialties were interesting and varied, including the tramp monolog of Sam Reed, singing and talking by Bert and Dot Blake, Brown's accordion specialty and the acrobatic dancing of "Topsy" Smith.

On account of the night being very wet and stormy, business was just fair. Roy Hyatt, the manager, still retained his smile, and Mrs. Hyatt greeted all the customers courteously from the box office.

Hyatt Stock Company Popular in Winnebago

Winnebago, Minn., July 9.—The Hyatt Stock Company pitched its tent on the Duncanson lot Monday and opened the week's engagement with the Girl in the Case, a first-class drama, which filled the tent with lovers of good entertainment. The play was up to the expectations and the players proved themselves to be talented performers. It is one of the best balanced theatrical companies that has visited this town in many years and merits in every way the liberal patronage it is receiving. Society Sam, the feature bill, was well liked.

The company carries an orchestra of fine musicians, who open the evening's offering with a 15-minute concert. The vaudeville acts are clean, wholesome and entertaining.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyatt have been with the Aulger Bros. company for a number of years and this is their first season as owners. They are fine people to meet personally, and this may be said of the entire company.

Henderson Stock Opens

Marcelona, Mich., July 9.—The Henderson Stock Company rehearsed in the home town of the Hendersons, Mason, Mich., and opened its season there June 25. The show is booked solid until Christmas, playing houses, traveling by auto and trucks. The cast remains practically the same as in the past two years. Before closing in May for a four-week vacation the company had played 70 weeks without change of cast or a layoff, covering Michigan, Illinois and Missouri. The company will play Michigan for the summer, with W. J. Henderson in the advance.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Henderson recently took a trip combining business with pleasure, visiting Buffalo, Niagara Falls, New York, Washington, Chicago and Detroit. While in New York Mr. Henderson leased plays of George F. Lawrence and Jos. Wright, and purchased some scenery. While in Chicago he leased some plays from Robert Sherman.

Kansas City, Mo., July 7.—E. A. Harrington, of the Harrington New Tone Calliope Factory, advises that he has just delivered to the Fred Brunk Show one of his new tone self-playing calliopes, said to be the largest ever manufactured in this style. This calliope is to be used with the band and on parade on the Brunk shows and is creating a sensation wherever seen.

H. R. Brandt, president of the Gordon-Howard (Candy) Company of this city, made a visit last week to Wichita to look over the Harley Sadler Show, in stock in that city, and returned with praise for this organization.

Harley Sadler, well-known repertoire showman, arriving at Wichita, Kan., via "route of the air" from Dallas, Tex., after making the 450-mile trip in two hours and fifty minutes. Sadler, standing in the plane with the pilots, is being greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Jackman, of the Ponca Tent and Awning Company, who built Sadler's new outfit.

Illinois has always been fairly good, but this season, so far, it has been very bad. I started with a band, but had to cut it off. I am carrying 14 people, with a fine new dramatic tent outfit seating about 700 people. In our last two towns, Assumption and Mowcaqua, we played to bad business. We are in Findlay, Ill. this week, hoping for a better break."

Edna Chapman Ill

Corsica, Pa., July 9.—Edna Chapman, of the Mack-Murray Players, was taken seriously ill July 3, and upon examination by physicians was found to be suffering with appendicitis, complicated with acute peritonitis. She was rushed to the hospital at Brookville, Pa., where an operation was performed. She was in a critical condition for several days, but at the present date is improving fast. Miss Chapman will be confined for several weeks and would be pleased to hear from her friends.

Hughes-Dunbar Rotary Stock

Walter Gonder sends in a little correction in regard to an item published recently stating that the Hughes-Forbes Players were in stock in Colorado. Walter states that the Hughes-Forbes Players closed in April and the show is now known as Hughes-Dunbar Comedians, owned by Harry Dunbar and Bert Hughes, the former being featured in the comedy as well as being manager. The show is now playing rotary stock in the better Colorado towns and is doing last week. The Ed C. Ward Princess Stock Company played Lees Summit that week to very good business and several members of the company motored to K. C. for visits during the engagement.

The Feist Theatrical Exchange, under the management of Cliff Bryant, a well-known theatrical man, has enlarged its office space and now has in its suite in the Gladstone Hotel Building a reception room and two private offices.

The Hayes Players were in Olathe, Kan., last week.

This summer several of the good repertoire companies have been showing in the immediate vicinity of K. C., and residents here have had unusual opportunities for visiting, eagerly grasped of course, as worth-while entertainment has been offered.

Clara De Mar, formerly in repertoire and dramatic circles, is on tickets for the Miniature R. R. at Fairyland Park this summer.

a splendid business. The roster: Nea Hughes, leading woman; Maudena Dunbar, character comedy, second business; Octavia Powell, ingenues; Bert Hughes, leads; Harry Dunbar, comedy; Jerome Mitchell, heavies; Anor Covert, general business, and Walter Gonder, characters.

The outfit is motorized and carries an orchestra. It has been in Colorado since May 10 and the management expects to remain there until the fall season, when it has been offered a stock location.

CONN SHOW IN FLOOD

Cloudburst Puts Lot Under Water
---Performers Swim to Safety
---Week Layoff To Replace Lost Material

Cordova, Ky., July 8.—Heavy cloudbursts, July 3 and 4, caused the river here to rise suddenly. On Saturday, July 4, the lot where Conn's Comedians was showing became inundated, sweeping away almost all the property which was not staked or held down. It is estimated that the water was more than four feet in depth. The ladies of the company swam or were carried to safety, so no lives were lost. The men of the company, assisted by many willing natives, swam all over the lot saving whatever they could.

After the flood had diminished the lot and tent presented a discouraging spectacle, with a large amount of personal property, scenery, chairs, etc., washed away. So much was lost that the show could not be given. Lew Conn, the manager, aided by the valiant performers, all taking the loss philosophically, set to work at once repairing the damage.

The company has laid off here all week, waiting for new material to come in, replacing that washed away. Each member of the company has worked hard all week at the lot preparing the show for the next stand. Mr. Conn sets the approximate loss at $2,000.

Lancaster Mayor Asks For Billroy's Comedians

Washington Court House, O., July 10.—The Mayor of Lancaster, O., after getting some wonderful reports on Billroy's Comedians, called "Billy" Wehle, manager of the company, by long distance phone and asked if the show couldn't play that town. He reported that the town had been without a tent show for some time and would be ripe for the company. The people of this city wanted the show to remain over for another week, but as Lancaster was already plastered with the show's paper the management had to forego the pleasure of playing the two-week engagement.

This date has been an absolute gold mine for "Billy" Wehle and Roy Hughes, co-owners. More than 500 people were turned away opening night, with the press and public voting Billroy's Comedians as the cleanest show that ever played the town. Roy and Ricca Hughes were a positive sensation here. Luther Johnson's Palais Royale Orchestra is stopping the show cold every night. The working crew has been enlarged to eight men, under the charge of Bert Belknap, on account of taking down the sidewalls every night to take care of the crowds. Forest Brown, new advance man, got the show the biggest opening of the season, even topping Delphos. "Billy" Wehle did a $300 banner sale here.

Several members of the show have bought new cars. The show is all set in seven bills and a rehearsal is a novelty. Four concerts are done on a week and they hold nearly everyone in. The show has encountered plenty of rain and wind, but so far it has only hurt one night and that was the opening night at Bucyrus, Louis Pavan, accordionist and Randolph Van Wagner, cartoonist, are going over big every night with their specialties. Other specialties going over equally as well are Roy and Ricca Hughes, doubles; Ricca Hughes, singles (stops show every night); "Billy" Wehle; Marion Roberts (Mrs. Wehle); Bobby Whalen, Wayne Kirk, singles; Blue Grass Quartet, Palais Royale Orchestra, and "Baby" Winona Wehle, another show stopper. Mrs. Belknap is on the front door, while Mrs. Kirk and Mrs. Pavan handle the reserves. Norval Roberts is doorman.

Jessup and Francis In "East Lynne"

The Jessup & Francis Comedians are playing the suburban towns around Cincinnati and report that since the opening, June 15, business has been good, with ideal tent-show weather, the cool nights especially being in their favor. This past week the show was at Reading, O., and as the town did not have a tent show in some years a good business was done. Jessup, who was a favorite with the John Lawrence Company when it played Reading several years ago, was still remembered there, drawing many of his old admirers.

The feature bill is East Lynne, and altho the play requires a large cast it is successfully put on by this small company. To prove this the company has been featuring the bill for the past three years, getting requests for return dates with it. This editor expects to visit the company soon and see the presentation.

The roster: W. Lafe Jessup, C. E. Francis, "Junior" Francis, Samuel Rees, Toots Acus, Mrs. Lillian Jessup, Dora Swearingen and Hazel Rees.

(Communications to 1560 Broadway, New York, N. Y.)

Victor Herbert Estate
Valued at $58,156

New York, July 11.—A net estate of $58,156.07 was left by the late Victor Herbert, America's foremost composer of light operas, who died May 26, 1924, according to directions issued to the executors of his estate this week by Surrogate O'Brien to pay $762.62 to the State Tax Commission as taxes due under the inheritance tax laws. This sets at rest the reports circulating around to the effect that Herbert's estate had shrunk alarmingly and that it was insufficient to pay more than 11-1-2 per cent of his bequests.

Under his will and codicil, Herbert's net estate passes over as follows:

To Terese Herbert, widow of the composer, residing at 229 Park avenue, $55,631.14, being realty, $39,000; personal effects, $4,392; cash on deposit with Corn Exchange Bank, $11,554.99, and one-third interest in copyrights and musical works, appraised at $5,905.56, but abated to $683.65.

To Ella Herbert, daughter, of 229 Park avenue, two-thirds interest in copyrights and musical works, appraised at $11,812.12, but abated to $1,367.30.

To Clifford Herbert, son, of 167 West Quincy street, Chicago, willed $10,000, but abated to $1,157.63.

The widow and daughter are the executors of the estate.

Excluding the sum of $783.87, alleged to be due from Verdi Edward Brown Fuller, of 1055 Prospect place, Brooklyn, which will be passed upon by the appraiser later, the gross value of the estate left by Herbert was recently appraised at $94,194.75 and showed that it consisted of the following:

Interest in realty at 321 West 108th street, $39,000; cash on hand, $60; with Corn Exchange Bank, $11,554.99; personal effects, $4,392.50; due from Tony Sarg Company, $291.11; Liberty Loan bonds, $18,870, with dividends, $100.58; salary from Sospopolitan Corporation, $1,500; 20 shares of Adirondack Company, $1,000, and royalties from Florenz Ziegfeld, $100; M. Witmark & Sons, $5,798.59; Victor Talking Machine Company, $2,470.82; G. Schirmer & Sons, Inc., $453.87; T. B. Harms Company, $1,259.89; American Plano Company, $219.60, and Edward Schuberth & Company, $122.20.

BROADWAY ACTIVITIES

New York, July 11.—With the opening of the latest version of the 1924 Ziegfeld Follies, labeled the 20th of the annual series and therefore intended to take the place of this year's new production, and the debut of Earl Carroll's third Vanities, the summer musical bill of fare for Broadway was completed this week.

The Follies is in better shape than it has been for a long time and should have no trouble sticking thru till September of thereabouts, when it takes to the road.

Carroll's new show, designed on the order of a night club, has not created much of a stir, the general impression being that it lacks substantial entertainment values, but there are several good features about it and Carroll may yet get it whipped into satisfactory shape.

Tell Me More, the Al Aarons production at the Gaiety Theater, closes to-night after reaching its 100th performance and will reopen in Boston for a road tour in the fall.

No new arrivals in the musical line are in sight for the next month or so.

Real Co-Operative Spirit

New York, July 11.—A bit of real co-operative spirit was displayed recently in the ranks of the Garrick Gaieties Company when James Norris, one of the members of the cast, was called south by illness in his family. In order that he would not be doubly unfortunate in having to lose his salary as well, the rest of the cast agreed to double in the various roles belonging to Norris, which they did—on the stipulation that the young actor receives his money regularly.

Mrs. Harris To Attempt
Her First Musical Show

New York, July 11.—Mrs. Henry B. Harris, well-known producer of dramatic offerings, will take her first step into the musical field when she sponsors a song and dance comedy next September. The piece chosen is Some Day, a new musical comedy with a book by Frances Nordstrom, lyrics by Neville Flicson and a score by Albert Von Tilzer. Work in preparation for the production has already been started and casting will begin the latter part of July.

ENGAGEMENTS

New York, July 11.—Bert Gilbert, Richard Bold, Jack Haley and Newton Alexander have joined the cast of Rufus LeMaire's Greenwich Village Scandals, which went into rehearsal this week. Clifford Grey has been engaged to write the lyrics and Jack Haskell to stage the dances.

Recent additions to the cast of Schwab & Mandel's impending Captain Jinks, include Gus Shy, Max Hoffman, Jr., and Ferris Hartman.

Miss Patricola, vaudeville headliner and sister of Tom Patricola, chief comedian in George White's Scandals, has been engaged by William K. Wells for his forthcoming revue, the name of which has been changed to Parisian Artists and Models.

"The Student Prince"
Opens in Atlantic City

Atlantic City, July 10.—The special company of The Student Prince which recently played in Philadelphia opened here last Saturday night for a summer engagement. A large Fourth of July audience gave the Shubert production a grand reception and judging from attendance at the Garden Pier Theater the past week the show ought to do very well here.

De Wolf Hopper, in the part of Lutz, made a great hit and was ably assisted in his funmaking by Gus Alexander as Hubert and Betty Rand as Gretchen. James Lidy filled the role of the prince very handsomely and sang with a pleasing voice, while Odette Laudner played Kathie in a delightful manner. Others who made a good impression were Eva Davenport as the grand duchess, Lucylene Herval as Princess Margaret, Yvan Servais as Von Mark, Edward Sturley as Dr. Engel, John Adair as Toni and Eleanor Faron, the premier dancer. The remainder of the excellent list of principals includes Charles Thompson, Harold Woodward, Emmet MacDonald, Joseph Vitale, Lee Beggs, Luccio Metz, Harry Shackelford, Henry D. Goff, Rollin Grimes, Jr., Claire Carleton, James Curran, John Smith, Raymond Cullen and Rudolph Wackelin.

The singing ensemble is composed of Lucie Belmont, Donna Deane, Beth Gately, Elsie Kornagy, Sallie Litz, Grace McCormick, Gladys McCormick, Meliss Merriweather, Mildred Mereness, Norma Struse, Mary Sparin, Helen Howard, Emily Allison, Margaret Cantrell, Nadine Ruslanova, Cornelia Ellis, Babette Bell-off, Madeline Darling, Beth Grimes, Marie Harrison, Bror Jeurling, Rudolph Wackelin, Frank Howson, Hubert Hendrie, Lewis Elmer, James Ford, Charles From, Robert Hurst, Paul Jensen, Robert Lee, Eugene Mayer, John Muccio, Jack Rigo, Samuel Rosen, John Roche, Talmadge Wilson, Igor Dariel, Gabriel Delle, Willard Ferrier, William Ferguson, Alien Greene, Sigmund Gulko, Hans Gungowska, Frank Grinnell, Basil Hambury, Michael Kousnessoff, Lawrence Lewis, Alfred Rusnyjak, Efm Vitis, Arthur Verhouwens, Joseph Wells and Harold Woodward.

Sigmund Romberg, who composed the score of The Student Prince, was guest conductor at the opening of the beautiful new Stanley Theater last Saturday night. Romberg directed the playing of several of his popular compositions from The Student Prince, Maytime, Blossom Time, Louie the 14th and other famous musical productions, and the audience all but went wild over the treat afforded it.

Ed Wynn and Elsie Janis
Set Their Chicago Dates

New York, July 11.—Ed Wynn's The Grab Bag and Elsie Janis in Puzzles of 1925 have set their opening dates in Chicago for the coming season. Wynn will make his bow at the Illinois Theater September 6, and Miss Janis will break forth August 31 at the Harris Theater.

Eleanor Rogers Signed
By Metropolitan Opera

New York, July 11.—Eleanor Rogers, a member of the cast of Louie the 14th, at the Ziegfeld Cosmopolitan Theater, has been signed on a two-year contract by the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company and will become a member of that organization next season.

Adapting "39 East"

New York, July 11.—Rachel Crothers is working on the book and lyrics of a musical adaptation of 39 East, which will be titled Concerning Spring, and will see production next season.

CHANGES IN CASTS

New York, July 11.—Allen Prior has replaced Howard Marsh in The Student Prince at the Johnson Theater.

Edward H. Weaver has taken the place of Alan Edwards in Lady, Be Good, at the Liberty Theater.

At Brighton Beach

New York, July 11.—Ned Wayburn's Dancing Darlings will close its engagement at the Hotel Shelburne, Brighton Beach, tomorrow night, and the following evening a new Wayburn revue called Honey Bunch will make its bow at the resort. The talent of the new show includes the following Wayburn proteges: Dan Healy, Marion Chambers, Evelyn Hoey, Madelyn Killeen, Margie and Buddy Lambert, Mary Hoover, Pauline Bartlett, Kathleen Edwards, Elizabeth Higgins, Dorothy Hochland, Letty Gunther, Caroline Nolte, Marilyn Evans, Jacqueline Glenister, Libby Souley, Billie Bostick and Star Woodman.

Next Tuesday there will be a Kosher Kitty Kelly Night at the Shelburne. The cast of this Broadway comedy with music will do down to the resort after the performance and the Wayburn entertainers will give a special show for their benefit.

Myro Glass, Palestine baritone, will appear as a special attraction the night of July 17.

Bobby Connolly, Ned Wayburn's dancing master, was given a birthday party in the grand ballroom of the Shelburne last Saturday night.

Has Name Changed

New York, July 11.—Lucille Chalfant, the beautiful American musical comedy prima donna and former Follies girl, who recently scored a big hit on her operatic debut in Paris, has had the spelling of her name changed by the French press and public. In a letter to Mme. Martha Braard, the voice culturist of this city under whom Miss Chalfant studied, the prima donna writes in part: "They have rechristened me. By a printer's error my name appeared on the advance announcements as Chalfont. The Paris scribbles, thinking they recognized an error therein, promptly corrected it by making the name read Chalfante, and there it stands. Try as I may and do, they will not spell my name otherwise. So as Chalfante I am now known and will probably have to be forever after. So if you read in the future of a Lucille Chalfante that's me, and I hope you and my other American friends will try to remember too."

Lina Basquette on Honeymoon

New York, July 11.—Lina Basquette, premiere dancer of the new Ziegfeld Follies, who was married last week to Sam Warner, the film producer, left the cast of the show after the Tuesday night performance to go on a honeymoon trip. It has been rumored that Miss Basquette is to quit the stage permanently, but the Ziegfeld offices state she is under contract to Ziegfeld and will return to the Follies at the end of her honeymoon.

The Theatrical Astronomers
in June Cochrane

The reviewers proclaimed, wisecracks of Broadway went, saw and exclaimed, and before long it is quite probable that the young lady programmed as June Cochrane in the Garrick Gaieties will be named as a star of some one of the prominent musical revues of New York. Most certainly she is displaying in the current production of the Junior Players of the Theater Guild enough charm, grace, engaging stage presence and general ability in versatile acting, singing and dancing to warrant close observation. With practically no experience behind her she is carrying a tremendous load in the Gaieties and is one of the brightest spots in the brilliance of this delightful entertainment.

Miss Cochrane boasts a summer with the Pauline McLean Stock Company, of Akron, O.; an engagement as one of the Court Ladies in Saint Joan for her first experience in New York and the role of understudy a little later in Fata Morgana, which afforded her a few appearances in a real part. With this training and a few lessons in the art of dancing in California and recently in Ned Wayburn's school as a background she blossomed forth last month as one of the principals of the immediately successful revue at the Garrick Theater, in which she appears in five different numbers. Miss Cochrane is responsible for putting over the two song hits of the show, Romantic You and Sentimental Me and the already popular Manhattan. Her dancing, tho not startling, is executed gracefully and in a style of her own. She has a combination of the fine points of both Beatrice Lillie and Gertrude Lawrence, several of the enthusiasts of Charlot have pointed out, and can almost carry an evening's entertainment by herself.

Modest in her almost overnight success, Miss Cochrane's only words were "I crave experience!"

GORDON M. LELAND.

"Topsy and Eva" Members Sail

New York, July 11.—John Philip Ryder, the faithful general understudy in Topsy and Eva for the last two years, and Madame Katherine Keeler, the designed and costumer of the show, have sailed for Italy, where Ryder is to do some concert work and some studying, while Mme. Keeler will make a special study of Italian and Arabic costumes.

Mme. Keeler is a regular "Ask Mr. Foster" on the costume question. She has made a thorough study of costuming in almost every country in the world, staying in each place several months and devoting considerable time to research work in the libraries and with all the people who knew anything in that line. Motion picture and theatrical producers have for years called upon her for assistance in dressing their productions properly.

Both Mme. Keeler and Ryder are members of a party sponsored by Mrs. Lillian Coffey, a prominent New York school teacher and a great friend of the theatrical profession. At the conclusion of their European stay Mme. Keeler and Ryder will return to the Duncan Sisters' show.

Ridges' Musical Comedy
To Be Produced by Baron

New York, July 11.—Stanley Ridges, the actor now being cofeatured with Lila Lee in The Bride Retires, at the National Theater, has written the book and lyrics of a musical comedy, titled Don't Do It, which Henry Baron has accepted for production this fall. Con Conrad has been commissioned to write the score.

Baron has several comedies and dramas on his list for next season, but his present plan is to offer Don't Do It as soon as The Bride Retires finishes its run on Broadway.

Miss Rasch To Stage
Ballets in Paris

New York, July 11.—Albertina Rasch, the dancer and producer of dancing ballets, sailed this week for Paris, where she is to stage several ballets and also select costumes and novel scenic effects for her different dancing units that have been booked for extensive tours in this country next fall. Miss Rasch declares that she will bring over only costume and scenic effects, and no foreign ballet dancers, as she believes the American girl far exceeds her continental sisters both in talent and in good looks.

In Dance Recital

New York, July 11.—Katherine Littlefield, Florentine Gornova and Evelyn Law, of the Louie the 14th Company, at the Cosmopolitan Theater, will appear shortly in a special dance recital in which they will present gavottes and minuets of an early period.

Musical Comedy Notes

Florenz Ziegfeld, having launched the summer edition of the Follies, has gone to Chicago to visit his mother.

Charles Horwitz has completed the book and lyrics of a musical comedy which he calls Sweet Genevieve.

O. O. McIntyre will write the scenario for the forthcoming Famous Players-Lasky film production of Florenz Ziegfeld's Glorifying the American Girl.

Harry Puck, who is appearing in Lyle Andrews' production of My Girl at the Vanderbilt Theater, New York, is busy staging the road company production of the musical comedy in his spare time. Casting is now going on and rehearsals begin next week.

Oscar Radin, orchestra conductor, now leading the music in The Student Prince at the Johnson Theater, is orchestrating the score of The Sunset Trail, a new cantata by the noted American composer, Charles Wakefield Cadman. The work is an American Indian theme and is to be presented at the St. Louis Stadium shortly.

Max Hoffmann, Jr., who assisted his mother, Gertrude Hoffmann, in staging several of the dances in Artists and Models at the Winter Garden, New York, will direct a new number for the 18 Gertrude Hoffmann Girls, featured in the revue, before he joins the cast of the musical version of Captain Jack, for which he has been engaged by Schwab & Mandel. Hoffmann's last appearance on Broadway was in Plain Jane.

FOR THE MONOLOGIST

READINGS AND MONOLOGUES OF DISTINCTION, by Frances Leedom Hess. Published by Raymond Youmans & Company, Kansas City, Kan. $1.50.

This book has a double value for the monologist. First, it contains a fine assortment of cleverly written monologues, dealing with a scene in a dressing room, a scene in a suburban home before and after the homeowner goes to a bargain sale, a woman in a Pullman car, a shopper in a wallpaper store, a quiet evening at home, the talk of an auctioneer and other themes that afford wide opportunities for the monologist.

In addition to this the author gives several bits of excellent practical advice, counsel and suggestion for the single entertainer. One of these pieces of advice deals especially with the "art of monolog", discussing its possibilities as a medium for character portrayal and advising as to methods of study and of artistic personation. Another chapter gives discriminating advice about readings in the Negro dialect and further on the author discusses "the interpretation of comedy".

There are also a dozen or more selections for reading in prose and verse, most of them taken from recent magazines or books and some of them written by well-known authors.

From the way the book reads it appears that the author is both a teacher and a practitioner of the art of the monologist. At any rate, the volume will prove unusually helpful for entertainers of this kind.

ORCHESTRATION

THE HISTORY OF ORCHESTRATION, by Adam Carse. Published by Kegan Paul, London.

In 14 chronologically arranged chapters, with a general introduction and various appendices, the author of this book follows in close detail the history of orchestration from the early efforts of the 16th century down to the complexities of today. Two chapters are devoted to the technical developments of the instruments, but the book is mainly concerned with their practical employment by composers, of which the author gives a large number of illustrations in music type from scores not readily accessible. It is a very scholarly treatise, valuable both theoretically and practically, on an important subject that has seldom or never been discussed with adequate fulness, in the English language at least.

East and West Enjoy Symphony Summer Concerts

In New York the opening of the summer season of symphony concerts found the public more than ready to enjoy the excellent programs offered by the Philharmonic Orchestra at the Lewisohn Stadium during the first week of the season, which opened July 6. The orchestra has been increased for this summer to 110 players and Willem Van Hoogstraten and his men were greeted enthusiastically by an audience estimated at 10,000 at the opening concert, and the attendance was in like proportion each evening except one, when threatening weather undoubtedly kept many away.

In Los Angeles the opening concert on July 7 in the Hollywood Bowl, by the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra, under the leadership of Fritz Reiner, drew an audience of considerably more than 25,000. Los Angeles, it will be well to remember, gives its concerts for the low admission price of 25 cents, and the huge capacity of the Bowl was taxed to its limit to take care of this first night's audience. East and West thus is enjoying excellent symphony programs under the leadership of several of the most distinguished conductors of the present time, and in both sections of the country these summer audiences increase in number each year, and the influence in cultivating a taste for better music on the part of the general public is of immeasurable value.

Not only is this true in these two cities, but in innumerable cities, towns and communities where summer concerts form an important phase of entertainment during the summer months, and the attendance at these programs reaches into millions, and everywhere the people of this country are learning to delight in the music of the classics.

10 Rehearsals Promised For American Compositions

Plans have been completed by the State Symphony Orchestra of New York whereby 10 special rehearsals will be held for the presentation of works by American composers. The first five will be under the direction and supervision of Ernst von Dohnanyi and the remainder of Alfredo Cassella, and these conductors will have the co-operation of a committee composed of noted musicians, composers and critics. Native-born composers must submit their compositions at the office of the State Symphony Orchestra, Carnegie Hall, New York, not later than September 20 for hearing at the first five rehearsals, and before January 1 for the others. The rehearsals will be held for the purpose of affording opportunity to composers for satisfactory presentation of their works, and the composition judged as best of those submitted will be performed by the State Symphony at the close of the season at a membership concert at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Herbert Witherspoon Named President Chicago College

The well-known New York vocal teacher and coach, Herbert Witherspoon, has been elected to the presidency of the Chicago Musical College to succeed Felix Borowski, who has resigned in order to devote his time to composing. Mr. Borowski has been a member of the Chicago College for the past 20 years and its president for some eight years. Mr. Witherspoon was formerly basso with the Metropolitan Opera Company, and with his wife, Florence Hinkle, has sung in recitals and oratorios throughout the country.

Myrna Sharlow Engaged for Leading Role in "Aglala"

When Aglala, the American opera by Henry DeLeon and Cecil Fanning, is presented on tour next season, Myrna Sharlow will be heard in the leading soprano role, according to announcement just made by Fortune Gallo. Miss Sharlow is well known thru her appearances with the St. Louis Municipal Opera Company, also the Chicago Civic Opera Company. The leading baritone role will be sung by Cecil Fanning, with Francis Sadler in the principal bass role, and Mr. Gallo will have them supported by an all-American company. An elaborate production of the opera will be made.

Summer Opera at Salt Lake

The annual season of Civic Opera in Salt Lake City will again take place at the Nibley Park Water Theater, beginning in August. The chorus and principals will, as usual, be composed of local singers and will be selected at auditions now under way. The opera selected for presentation is Gilbert & Sullivan's The Gondoliers, which will be especially appropriate for the Water Theater.

American Opera Singers Signed by Josiah Zuro

Josiah Zuro, director of the grand opera performances which the City of New York will present free of charge in Ebbett's Field, Brooklyn, has engaged the singers for the leading female roles in Aida, Cavalleria Rusticana, Pagliacci and Faust, which will be presented August 1, 5 and 8. Frances Peralta, well-known American dramatic soprano, will sing the title role in Aida, also Santuzza in Cavalleria Rusticana, and Gertrude Wleder, a New York singer, who has been heard with the San Carlo Opera and the Schola Cantorum of New York, will sing the role of Amneris in Aida. Two young American mezzo-sopranos, Helena Lanvin and Lula Root, will be heard in Faust and Cavalleria. Charles Marshall, famous American tenor of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, will sing the role of Rhadames in Aida August 1, and Canio in Pagliacci August 5. Mr. Zuro is to be commended for his selection of American artists for the principal roles in all the performances to be given in Ebbett's Field.

Summer Opera Announced For Philadelphia

Philadelphia, too, will have summer opera in its baseball park. According to announcement of Francesco Pelosi, general manager of the LaScala Grand Opera Company of America, Aida will be presented at the Phillies ball park on August 6, with Bernardo DeMuro, Italian tenor, as Rhadames, and the other principals will be announced shortly.

Concert and Opera Notes

After filling a number of engagements on the Coast and in the Middle West, Esther Dale, soprano, will be heard in recital at Ithaca, N. Y., in the concert series of the Cornell University Summer School July 17.

Ricardo N. Bonelli, American baritone, has been engaged by Herbert F. Johnson, managing director of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, to sing with that organization during the coming season.

The Louisiana State University Orchestra, under the direction of H. W. Stopher, recently presented at Baton Rouge an excellent program in which it was assisted by the singing organizations of the Department of Music, Julia Morse, soprano; the Tigerette Quartet and Carrie R. Wallace, pianist.

The 29th concert in the series of programs was played by the Capitol Symphony Orchestra of Vancouver the early part of July, under the direction of Calvin Winter. The orchestra, which is considered to be one of Vancouver's regular institutions, has scored many successes.

A joint recital is announced for July 31 by Weyland Echols, tenor, and Hans Kinder, cellist, at the Cornell University Summer School.

Vladimir Rosing, Russian tenor, is holding summer classes in Vancouver, with a large class already enrolled.

Among the artists appearing in an interesting program presented recently at the Mastinelli Studios, New York, were Beatrice Barattom, well-known reader of Boston, assisted by Mrs. Myrtle Brown, coloratura soprano; Carlo Greene, lyric soprano, and Angelo Patricolo, pianist.

Motion Picture Music Notes

Among the excellent numbers included in the program at the Eastman Theater, Rochester, the week of July 5, were a series of dances by Stella Bloch, tenor solos by Douglas Steade, and for the daily organ recitals, by Robert Berentsen, Bits of Jazz were featured.

During the current week at the St. Louis Missouri Theater, Florence O'Denishawn is being featured. With this noted artist, Messrs. Snow and Columbus are appearing.

Victor Herbert's American Fantasia opened the musical program at the Palace Theater, Dallas, the week beginning July 4, with the orchestra directed by Nicholas Minsky.

At the New York Capitol Theater this week An Hawaiian Night, a musical melange, is being given by the principal artists. Assisting the singers are Doris Niles and the Ballet Corps. A new tenor, Albert Rappaport, who has appeared in a number of the leading cities, is making his debut, singing Romanze from Bizet's Pearl Fishery.

In a novelty program to the feature picture, Blondell's Saxophone Sextet and the Ballet Corps are being featured at the Mark Strand Theater, New York, this week. A specially arranged overture, Scotch Airs with Annie Laurie, sung by Emily Day, opens the program.

Theatrical Notes

B. H. Schepers, of Anselman, Neb., has purchased the Star Theater at Callaway, Neb.

F. W. Horrigan, of Phillipsburg, Mont., recently assumed charge of the Grand Theater in Canas, Wash., which he purchased from Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Durham.

Carl Prosser, operator at the Braman Airdome in Blackwell, Ok., recently leased the theater from the owner, and is now the manager of the business. He is meeting with success in his new venture.

Decorators, carpenters, electricians and other artisans are busily engaged remodeling the interior of the Columbia Theater, Erie, Pa., which will reopen September 1. The playhouse was gutted by fire April 18.

Fire in the Gould Theater, a motion picture house, at 719-21 East Ohio street, Northside, Pittsburgh, Pa., recently resulted in damage estimated at $800. Robert R. Smith, the film operator, was severely burned on the hands and face when he made an effort to extinguish the flames.

The Southern Amusement Company has leased the opera house in Hallettsville, Tex., a three-story brick building, and will operate it as a moving picture theater, using the second and third floors for that purpose. The building is being put in shape and will be ready for operation soon.

Both the Bijou and Is's theaters, Richmond, Va., recently closed their doors until Labor Day. Possibilities of remodeling the two theaters later in the summer were discussed by the Wells interests, operators of the two houses. Just what type of houses will be made of the two in the fall will be decided at a conference later in the summer.

The Crystal Theater, Waterloo, Ia., recently closed for alterations and repairs. The repair work is to be very extensive and the theater will be closed for some weeks so that all changes can be made in a workmanlike manner without the need of doing a rush job. When completed the Crystal will be in proper trim to accommodate its many patrons.

A judgment for $16,150, obtained in Douglas County, Neb., by Ludmila Strika against Louis and Gail Margolin for damages by reason of false representations regarding the sale of a moving picture.

THE LEIGHT & GARDNER Teddy Bear Girls Company closed for the season at the termination of their engagement last Saturday at the Roanoke Theater, Roanoke, Va. Many of the members went to their homes for the summer, while some were placed with other companies.

MARIE MACK, "The Girl With the Blues", after playing in Kansas City, Mo., several weeks in musical stock at the Gayoso Theater, left recently for Little Rock, Ark., to appear at the Gem Theater there. Miss Mack is a very charming little ingenue and made many friends in Kansas City.

SAM LOEB, who is now in his sixth year at the Gem Theater, Little Rock, Ark., furnishing the natives musical comedy tabs, wants to thank all those who answered his recent advertisement in The Billboard. Loeb states that he will remain open all thru the summer, having organized a strong show to offset the weather.

STEED & FRANKS' Bijou Comedy Company has gone into the Orpheum Theater, Marion, O., for summer stock and, from reports, business is getting better every week. Members of the company have rented apartments and are enjoying the housekeeping part very much, after discovering that the female members of the company are very good cooks.

MARY TAYLOR has closed with the Tom Attaway Red Bird Revue Company and is spending the summer with friends at Tulsa, Ok. Miss Taylor finds the swimming pools in Tulsa wonderful and enjoys them every day during this hot weather. Tom and Babe Attaway are spending the summer months at their summer home in Dallas, Tex.

FRED L. GRIFFITH, the well-known musical comedy producer, has closed with the Bert Smith Players, as Billy Van Allen has resumed charge of the stage, and as heretofore the bills will be presented under his direction. Mr. Griffith has written several new plays which will be seen shortly. They are said to be very novel in their ideas.

MANAGER INSLEY of the Casino Theater, Ocean City, Md., is presenting John T. McCaslin's Beauty Shop Revue at the theater there. Al Hildesway and Billy Cavanaugh are the featured funny boys, other principals are Edythe Carson, Mildred Fredericks, Johnny and Mina Hugel, supported by six girls. After Ocean City the show will move to Salisbury, Md., where Insley has another house.

THE BLKS' THEATER, Huntsville, Ala., opened under new management July 1 with a two weeks' engagement of Gene Edwards' Oh, Katherina, Company, a 25-people musical tab, playing royalty bills. The theater has been thoroughly renovated and put in a first-class condition, the interior being beautifully decorated. An entire new set of scenery has been installed.

THE 1925 GIRL, known off the stage as Mrs. Lew Palmer, was a visitor to the home office of The Billboard recently while en route to her home in Berkshire, Mass., for a vacation and rest. She was accompanied by Lew Palmer, Jr., who has been attending school at Lawrenceburg, Ind. Mrs. Palmer intends to open up her company of 35 people about September 14. The show is being costumed by J. E. McGeorge.

FRANK NEWMAN'S Fashion-Plato Revue was the feature attraction at Chester Park, Cincinnati, and proved to be most entertaining. The local newspapers spoke very highly of the show, especially on the dances of Mast Newman, comedy and singing of Dick Hulse, Tony Ricker's banjo and saw playing, the singing of Babe Matthews and Pearl Darby, and the eccentric turns of Pat Kelly.

HOPE EMERSON, who last season was with "Rube" Nelson's Bobbed-Hair Bandits, on the Mutual Circuit, spent a few weeks in New York after the company closed before returning to her home in Des Moines, Ia., where she is spending a couple of months visiting with her parents. Miss Emerson will return to tabloid this season, opening soon with Bert Smith's Ragtime Wonders, who are playing an indefinite engagement at the Empress Theater, Omaha, Neb.

SAM B. LEWIS announces that he will return to the tab, game this season, after five years in the music business. Mr. Lewis is at his summer home at East Hampton, L. I., and intends to produce three shows this season. If the weather is warm he expects to rehearse his girls on the beach. The first show will be known as the Moonlight Revue and will open in East Hampton about the last of July. Sam will be glad to hear from any of his old friends.

REX JEWELL AND DORITA CODERO are still at the Rivoli Theater, Denver, Col., where Rex just finished presenting his 202 tabloid musical comedy production. This means 202 shows without a repeat bill in the lot, and out of this number only four were bit or revue bills. The balance were all story shows, royalty and non-royalty productions. Rex reports that business is great after the nearly two years of play-they want to know who could ask for more.

A RECENT ANNOUNCEMENT in the Birth columns of The Billboard broadcast to the tab world that Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mahar were the proud parents of an eight-pound baby girl. Mrs. Mahar is home with her mother in South Sioux City, Neb., while Daddy Paul is with Rudy Winter's Winter Garden Company at the Rialto Theater, Waterloo, Ia. Mrs. Mahar intends to rejoin her husband shortly. She was formerly Irene Murray, of Omaha, Neb., and Paul and Rene were married while on Bob Black's Globe Trotters while on the Spiegelberg Circuit. The Winter show is doing well at Waterloo.

HOMER HARRIS typewrites from Greenville, S. C., that he witnessed a performance of Billy Leroy's Broadway Revue at the Majestic Theater there. He says that Billy has a very good show, but the Jungs were missed from the cast. However, there are some people with the company doing the acrobatic work. The Majestic has had a runway built over the center aisle with the girls dancing on it. This was new to most of the auditors, and they like it so well that the girls had to take four encores on each number. Homer opines that it surely was a novelty.

BEE KING reports that she is still doing nicely. She recently closed with the Leight & Gardner Smiles Company in Lansing, Mich., and at the present time she is spending her vacation in Ft. Wayne, Ind. Miss King, who is well known for her coon-shouting and blues numbers, will be seen the coming season with a very capable partner, Joe Traub, who also was with the Smiles Company last season. This pair will do a neatly ing there. The S. R. O. sign goes out nightly, and the Rivoli's capacity is 3,000.

GEORGE AND BILLIE FLUHRER, well known in tabloid and repertoire circles, kicks in with a line or two to say that they are still at Toronto, Ont., with Eddie Ford's Broadway Masqueraders. Billie is holding down the ingenue end, while George does everything in the way of general business. This is their seventh month on the show and they say, without exception, it is one of the best engagements they have ever had. They have congenial people, good shows, great audiences and a wonderful theater, and arranged black-and-tan act, including new songs and several snappy dances. Mac Traub, brother of Joe, will return to the footlights after an absence of five years. He will be seen this coming season in a high-class dancing act.

V. W. (DIZZY) TATE, owner of Fads and Fancies of 1925, is vacationing at his sister's farm near Anderson, Ind., and is enjoying the farming part. He expects to remain there until August arranging a brand-new show for the coming season. He expects to open about the first of September, which circuit he is not certain

Columbia Casting Agency

Brewing Trouble for Columbia Amusement Company Franchise-Holding and Franchise-Operating Producing Managers and Performers

NEW YORK, July 9.—The Columbia Amusement Company's establishment of the Columbia Casting Agency in the Columbia Theater Building, under the management of Ike Weber, is brewing trouble for everyone in any way allied with the production and presentation of shows on the Columbia Circuit next season. Ike Weber, for years conceded to be one of the foremost agents in this city, specializing in procuring engagements for burlesquers, was noted for his efforts to obtain top-notch salaries for principals in burlesque.

A principal, after registering with Weber could go his merry way pleased that Weber had entry to all producing firms on the Columbia and old American Circuits, and that Weber, at that time operating under a New York State Employment License, would boost the salary of the principal as far as the producer could stand it, therefore principals flocked to Weber in droves and he carried on a business so lucrative that the Columbia Amusement Company, in an effort to hold down the overhead cost of presentations on the Columbia Circuit, decided that it was to their interest and the interest of their franchise-holding producing managers to outgeneral Weber by placing him in charge of the Columbia Burlesque Booking Exchange, in connection with the Columbia Burlesque School of Dancing and Instruction, with Weber in charge of the Booking Exchange and Dan Dody in charge of the School of Dancing.

That the establishments conducted by Messrs. Weber and Dody in the interests of the Columbia Amusement Company and its franchise-holding producing managers ceased to continue along profitable lines was no fault of Messrs. Weber and Dody, but due entirely to principals, who were emphatic in declaring themselves in favor of seeking engagements personally with producers, who gave ample evidence of their lack of co-operation by procuring their talent independently of the Booking Exchange or Dancing School.

Fully familiar with the plans and methods of operation of the school, we openly criticized the producing managers for their lack of co-operation with the school, which if continued, would have done more to uplift burlesque than all the blatant press notices ever issued by the Columbia Amusement Company's News Bureau, operated by Walter K. Hill, for the school was founded on logic and operated by a practical producer of musical numbers and dancing ensembles, but the best efforts of Mr. Dody and all the profits derived from the school were insufficient to make up the deficit of the Booking Exchange, without the actual co-operation of producing managers, who would have little or nothing to do with it when seeking principals.

Be that as it may, the powers that be closed both establishments and re-established Weber in a suite of offices in the Columbia Theater Building, where he is now operating the Columbia Casting Agency, under the personal direction and supervision of Sam A. Scribner, who, it is alleged, sets the salaries and passes judgment on the desirability of all principals being considered by producing managers for presentations on the Columbia Circuit next season.

Ike Weber, the heretofore exponent of principals, is now the exponent of producers; where heretofore he taxed the producer all he would stand in the interest of the principal, he now cuts the performer all he will stand in the interest of the producer.

Principals Protesting

Principals seeking engagements in Columbia Circuit shows are now protesting against the cut in salaries demanded by Weber, with the result that they are applying direct to the producer.

Producers Protesting

Producers seeking principals and finding but few registered with the Columbia Casting Agency, give ample evidence of their perplexity by seeking out principals and putting forth their best efforts to induce them to register with the Columbia Casting Agency, and many of those, seldom if ever in demand, are doing so in hopes of being better featured in presentations next season than in previous seasons, but there are many among those always in demand who are emphatic in their declaration that they will not register with the Columbia Casting Agency, and if the producing manager really wants them that he will pay the salary set by the principal and not the salary set by Scribner thru Weber.

Producers Being Penalized

Producers experiencing difficulty in securing principals thru the Columbia

Casting Agency and signing up principals independently are now being penalized in scathing letters, signed by Scribner, accusing them of failure to co-operate with the Columbia Casting Agency.

Artists' Representatives Protesting Against the Columbia Amusement Company's Arrangement

The scarcity of recognized and reputable burlesquers for Columbia Circuit presentations for next season has caused many producing managers to comb the vaudeville field for principals and make them offers to come into burlesque.

For the most part vaudeville performers are booked thru their own representatives, who relieve them of all arrangements for their presentations, therefore these representatives, finding that they are expected to book their artists thru the Columbia Casting Agency at a net salary, are up in arms and several of them have appealed to the Employment License Bureau for relief.

Columbia Casting Agency Within the Law

A License Bureau Inspector, who specialized in theatrical employment agencies, after a careful investigation of the methods employed by the Columbia Amusement Company and its agent, Ike Weber, states that they are "within the law", therefore it is now up to producers and principals to adjust their grievances amicably, if they desire to operate on the Columbia Circuit next season.

Enterprising Talbot

New York, July 11.—Lou Talbot, franchise-operating producing manager of Wine, Woman and Song, a Columbia Circuit show, was sufficiently enterprising last season to stage his rehearsals at his summer-home town of Wildwood, midway between Atlantic City and Cape May, N. J.

The Wine, Woman and Song Company's rehearsals were the social event of the season and did much toward the big week's business done by the company at the Casino Theater, Philadelphia, for many of Wildwood's permanent residents journeyed to Philly to see Talbot and his presentation.

The innovation was sufficiently successful to cause the Board of Commissioners of Wildwood to wait on Mr. Talbot last week with a proposition that includes the building of a large platform on the bathing beach for the Wine, Woman and Song rehearsals, with the females in bathing suits, supplemented by a preliminary opening of the company at the Nixon Theater August 10 under the auspices of the Board of Commissioners for the benefit of a local charity.

Bert Bertrand's Enterprises

Bert Bertrand, featured Hebrew comique of Wine, Woman and Song, also an active member of the Talbot-Bertrand Realty Company, Inc., is increasing his bankroll by the operation of a summer amusement at Wildwood in the form of a cave similar to the one in Kentucky in which Floyd Collins met his death.

The mysteries of the cave and the discourse of the lecturer have proved a big attraction for the summer visitors and an additional bankroll for Bert.

The Pacific Four

New York, July 11.—When four classy appearing juveniles appeared on Columbia corner during the past week there were immediate inquiries as to who they were, where they came from and what they were going to do.

On interviewing the boys we learned that they are Ed Oost, Tom Jones, Tom Merlo and Art Bowers, known thruout California as the Pacific Four, syncopated harmony dispensers presenting mirth, melody and music, and they are negotiating a burlesque engagement.

Hall in Demand

New York, July 11.—Eddie Hall, featured comique of Columbia Circuit shows, is in demand, but the only known address is the Maine woods.

ERIN WHITE JACKSON

A graduate of musical tabs, who has been engaged by Frank Wakefield to be featured on the Mutual Circuit next season in the show titled "Erin White Jackson and the Girl Friends".

Columbia's Summer Run

Hurtig & Seamon All-Colored "7-11" Company's Engagement To Close July 18

New York, July 11.—Hurtig & Seamon's presentation of the all-colored Seven-Eleven Company, managed by Jack Goldberg at the Columbia Theater for a supplementary summer run, has played to a sufficient patronage for several weeks past to make it profitable to the producers and theater alike, but the intense heat of the past week has caused these discerning showmen to decide on closing the engagement July 18.

The company will continue intact for future engagements at Asbury Park, Long Branch and Atlantic City, and a preliminary opening of the regular season on the Columbia Circuit by playing Hurtig & Seamon's 125th Street Theater, Miner's Empire Theater, Newark, and Billy (Beef Trust) Watson's Theater, Paterson, N. J.

Manheim's Empire Stock

Cleveland, July 11.—S. W. Manheim's burlesque stock company at the Empire Theater continues to make its summer-run presentations pleasant and profitable for management, players and patrons.

There have been several additions to the company recently that include Tom Due, Rose Stone, Althea Conley, Fred Wilson, Charles (Klutzy) Country and George (Buttons) Fares, the latter after a brief rest.

The regular cast includes Dainty Dollie Davies, Marie Laffer, Toots, Bradford, Peaches, the dancer; Frankie Moore, Matt Ellison and Gus Flaig, producer of comedy bits and scenes.

Business has been good despite the warm weather and the house will remain open until the Mutual Circuit shows open here.

Hoofers' Club

New York, July 11.—There is an ever-increasing demand by Broadway musical comedy producers and agents of vaudeville for juvenile dancing graduates of burlesque, and to further their own welfare they have organized the Hoofers' Club, with the Stage Entrance alley of the Columbia Theater their nightly rendezvous after their respective performances at near-by theaters.

Those admitted to membership so far include Bob Carney, Richie Craig, Jr.; Louis Dothers, Scotty Weston and Jo-Jo Warsaw.

Levine's Stock Company Closes

Buffalo, N. Y., July 11.—With the close of the Mutual Circuit's regular season's presentations at the Garden Theater Ben Levine, lessee and directing manager of that theater, organized a company for a summer season of stock that came to a close July 4.

Directing-Manager Levine ordered the closing of the company in order to have the house thoroughly renovated, redecorated and refurbished for the reopening of the Mutual Circuit season in August.

Erin White Jackson

Sister and Student of Leah White—Erin Has Been Engaged by Frank Wakefield To Be Featured on the Mutual Circuit Next Season

Miss Jackson is a native of New Orleans, where she received her early education in the parochial schools while studying vocalism from her sister, Leah White, of the White Sisters act, in vaudeville.

Having a naturally melodious voice, cultivated to sing single or in harmony, Erin was in great demand by local organizations. Her association with her sisters inspired in her ambition for a theatrical career that led up to her appearances professionally with numerous productions and musical tabs, including Fearless Eve, Miles of Smiles, Frocks and Frills, Frank Wakefield's Winter Garden Revue and later with Leah Kelly's Own Show on the Mutual Circuit.

Wakefield considers Miss Jackson a great find for burlesque and has completed arrangements with the Mutual Burlesque Association for the presentation of Erin White Jackson and the Girl Friends over the Mutual Circuit next season.

Redelsheimer Reports

New York, July 11.—Louis Redelsheimer, operating the Mutual Booking Offices, reports placements: Hughie Mack for Kudding Kudies Company, Ernie Mack for Jazz Revue Company, Jean Fox and Lee Hickman for Speedy Steppers Company, Mr. and Mrs. Nat Albers for Red Hot Company, Harry Jackson for Step Along Company, Mr. and Mrs. George Levy and Peaches Pointon for Hey Ho Company, George Leon and Billie Le Verne for Evelyn Cunningham and Her Gang Company and Jean Leonard and Tom Mullins for Happy Hours Company.

Changes in Stock

New York, July 11.—There are only two burlesque stock houses in operation in this city at the present time, the Kraus Bros. Olympic on 14th street near Third avenue, and Charles Burns' Irving Place on Irving place, around the corner from the Olympic. Both houses have been playing to exceptionally good business.

Johnny Weber, the diminutive Sandy Beach Dutch comique, and Gertrude (Babe) La Vetta, the pretty, modelesque, hohed-brunet soubret, close their engagement tonight, Johnny to take a much-needed rest at his Riverside Drive Mansie and "Babe" a few weeks' vacation with Friend Huhby, Ray Clarks, motoring to their Southern home in Virginia.

Charles Burns has consented to loan Harry Seymour, the Dutch comique, to the Olympic for one week, to succeed Johnny Weber.

Burns has engaged Harry LaVine, Hebrew comique, for a return engagement and added Mabel Lea, soubret, to his Irving Place cast for next week.

Thompson Forsakes Columbia

To Manage Raymond's Show on Mutual

New York, July 11.—Harry Thompson, for 15 years a loyal supporter of the Columbia Circuit as agent in advance and manager back with "Uncle" Bill Campbell's Rose Sydell's London Belles, and more recently with "Uncle" Bill's Go to It, has renounced his former allegiance to the Columbia Amusement Company and allied himself with Sam Raymond, a director of the Mutual Burlesque Association and manager of the Star and Gayety theaters, Brooklyn.

Thompson will manage Raymond's Happy Hours show on the Mutual Circuit next season.

"Uncle" Bill Campbell, his show and Thompson's exit from the Columbia Circuit have caused many expressions of regret from their host of friends on the Columbia Circuit.

Cain & Davenport's

"O. K." Summer Run Ends

Boston, July 11.—Cain & Davenport's O. K. show, featuring Harry Stepp, comes to the end of its summer run at the Gayety Theater tonight.

The company has fulfilled a want for the lighter form of indoor summer amusement here for the past two months and in all probability could continue to profitable patronage for several weeks longer, but the Columbia Amusement Company has given cognizance to the repeated request of members of the company and attaches of theaters for a much-needed midsummer vacation ere the opening of the regular season.

Raising the Ante

New York, July 11.—Producing managers of burlesque have accepted as inevitable the indisputed fact that they will be called upon the raise the ante $5 weekly to their musical leaders, whose scale of salary has been set at $90 next season, an increase of $5 weekly over last season.

Producing managers of Columbia Circuit shows are already signing up I. A. B. P. & B. members in advance agents at a minimum wage scale of $60 weekly.

Columbia Circuit

Producers Are Engaging Principals

New York, July 11.—There has been noticeable activity among franchise-holding and franchise-operating producing managers of Columbia Circuit shows during the past week in signing principals.

"Happy Moments"

Sim Williams, franchise-holding producing manager of Happy Moments, has engaged principals, namely, Lew White, Doc Dorman, Walter McDowell, High Brown, Bobby Burns, Allan McDonald, Gladys Vaughan, Gladys Bijou, Mildred Stelle, Pauline Glenmar, and altho not signed up yet there is every probability that the Six McPhersons, singing, dancing and comedy act, will be included in the cast of principals. Bobbie Barker has been re-engaged for his 11th season by Sim as musical leader.

The executive staff includes Sim Williams, owner and manager; Lou Alverts, of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, agent in advance; Alex Spencer, carpenter; H. W. Newman, electrician; George Hall, assistant electrician, and David LaVene, props.

"Models and Thrills"

George Peck and Harry Jarboe, franchise-holding producing managers of Models and Thrills, have engaged as principals Billy M. Green, first comedian; Ben Loring, second comedian; William Davis, straight man; Louise Mersereau, prima donna; Evelyn Whitney, soubret; Ethel Abbott; ingenue; Otto Oretto, character comedian; the Oretto Brothers, Otto, Jr., and Gerdes, juvenile team of dancers; Mona Leonards, soubret, and Al Bressman, musical leader.

The executive staff includes Harry Jarboe, manager; Walter E. Berger, agent in advance; Ray Cahill, carpenter; Homer Borington, electrician, and Al Cohen, props.

"Silk-Stocking Revue"

Mrs. Harry Hastings, franchise-holding producing manager of Silk-Stocking Revue, with Frank X. Silk, has engaged as principals Frank X. Silk, the Busch Sisters, Root and La Mott, Emmott and King, Armonde Monte and Frank Martin. Mrs. Hastings has also completed arrangements with Charles Edwards, for many years personal representative and business manager for the late Harry Hastings and his various theatrical enterprises, to act as her personal representative and manager of her Silk-Stocking Revue Company. Sammy Clark, also a former employee of the Hastings, returns to the fold with Edwards as agent in advance.

"Girls' Club"

Joe Wilton, franchise-operating producing manager of a new show titled Girls' Club, has engaged Jules Howard, former favorite comique of burlesque circuit and stock shows, more recently in a vaudeville act with Ned (Clothes) Norton, for Wilton's new show next season.

"Abe Reynolds and His Rounders"

Sid Lorraine and Abe Reynolds, franchise-operating producing managers of Abe Reynolds and His Rounders, a new show, have engaged Lew Lewis, the Dutch comique, who worked opposite Reynolds last season in Hipity Hop.

Florence Mills Reynolds, former prima donna of William K. Wells' Bubble Bubble, will be the leading lady prima donna, and pretty, petite Ella Johnson, late of Peck & Kolb's Hipity Hop, the soubret.

"Stone and Pillard"

Hurtig & Seamon, in addition to their all-colored Seven-Eleven Company and all-colored Shuffle Along, will have an all-white show on the Columbia Circuit next season featuring Stone and Pillard.

"Chuckles"

Phil Dalton, directing manager of Chuckles, Inc., and franchise-operating manager of a show by that title on the Columbia Circuit next season under the personal management of Charles Falk, has engaged Nello Nelson, the pretty, witty soubret; Rex Circus, Eight English Ballets, Jack Reddy, character and straight man; Saxophone Four, Mary Shaw and the Harmonious Quartet.

"Muir and Jeff"

Warren B. Irons, franchise-holding producing manager of Muir and Jeff, a new show on the circuit next season, has engaged the Bower Sisters, Florence and Marvin, two clever little entertainers who will be chaperoned by their mother while on tour.

Juvenile Managers

Buffalo, July 11.—Lew Isaacs, manager of Frank Danis's Make It Poppy Company on the Mutual Circuit last season, and George Young, also a company manager on the same circuit last season, were Fourth of July visitors here, motor-of as yet, but he guarantees that the show will work. Tate is having 15 new sets of chorus wardrobe made and has also ordered four new drops. He is going to use nothing but script bills and states that they will be entirely new. He adds that he had plenty of bad luck last season, due to the fact that the show wasn't really up to standard, but this year he hopes to have one that the reviewers say is good.

FRANK LA MONTE lines that it is with great pleasure that he closes the season and goes to his summer home in Cape May, N. J. He has bought the next lot to his summer home, which now gives him a 100-foot front by 130-foot depth on the corner, just one square from the ocean, with an unobstructed view of same. Frank says that the past season has been very good and profitable and next season looks even better. He read with great interest the squibs sent in by Bert Humphreys about what has become of the tab actors, but he adds that Bert forgot Ray Road, the feature comique on a Mutual show for the past few seasons. There are quite a few actors at Cape May each season, all from various branches of the profession, and they all seem to like it there.

RECENT PLACEMENTS BY MILTON SCHUSTER are: Earl and Kathryn Darfler, Jess Buttons, Russell Clutterbuck and wife, Florence Mackle, Eugene Broussard and wife to Vic Travers, stock, National Theater, Detroit; Jack LaWall, Frank Hawkins and wife to Chas. LaFord, stock, Bijou Theater, Wausau, Wis.; Pansy Brown to Joe Eyerly, stock, Newtonia Theater, Newton, Ia.; Ted Lester to Frank Milton, stock, Rivoli Theater, Denver; Babe Murphy to Harry Rogers' Bill House Company, Palace Theater, New Orleans, stock; Tim Shean, Bert Smith's Ragtime Wonders; Jimmie Francis and wife, J. W. Lorimer and wife, Jack B. Wright, Adele Travers, Bartley Cahill, Ivy Evelyn to Harvey D. Orr Show, Strand Theater, Kokomo, Ind. and Sidney Cheevers, A. B. Marcus Show, stock, Kearse Theater, Charleston, W. Va.

SYLVAN BEEBE, on a motor vacation trip, writes that so far they have had a wonderful trip. They went from Cincinnati to Detroit, with the usual visit to the oasis across the river. Went from Detroit to Cleveland, where he met some old friends at the Empire Theater, including Gus Flagg, who is producing at both the Band Box and the Empire. Also met Chas. Klotz and George (Buttons) Ferris, both of tab. fame. Sylvan stopped at Sandusky and saw the Sells-Floto Circus, meeting one of his old comies, Eddie Schultz, who is clowning on the outfit. From Cleveland they drove to Buffalo and Niagara Falls, meeting some mutual friends of this editor, and from there they started for a tour of the Thousand Isles, thence into New York City and Atlantic City. He will return to Cincinnati in August to reorganize his rotary tabloid show and to organize a number two company.

AFTER BEING AWAY from Hank's Sunshine Revue for four seasons "Stuttering" Dan Collins is back on the show again, closing a season of 46 consecutive weeks at Richmond, Ind., July 4. The show opened August 18 and never lost a day. Dan reports that the show is 100 per cent better and stronger than ever before, as all the managers that played the attraction testify. Mr. Hank has spent a large sum in new wardrobe and scenery and has a wonderful lobby display. Dan continues that the show played many return dates, breaking several house records. He adds that the company could have kept going all summer, but Mr. Hank felt as tho they all could stand a vacation. There were very few changes during the season, these being confined mostly to the chorus. The new season opens August 17 and Dan states that from the looks of things it will be a better season than the one they have just closed.

POSSUM CLENN infers that Kellam's Merry-Go-Round Revue closed in Greenville S. C., June 27, the show having been on the road for more than 80 weeks. Possum and Fritzie have been with the show since opening, as principal comique and soubret. They are going to Philadelphia for a two-week burlesque stock engagement and will probably work some vaudeville dates while waiting for the season to open. They are signed for a wheel show for the coming season. George Hunter went to New York, Rusty Williams went to his home in Durham, N. C. for a week or so, and they combined business and pleasure in a trip to New York and Philadelphia. All the rest of the folks, namely, Billy Gilbert, Pearl Wilson, Nello Renoir, Peggy Sidel and Dorothy Hurry, joined other shows in the South. Violet Robinson went to her home in Buffalo, N. Y. Possum adds that Walter Kellam is one of the best managers he ever worked for, and he certainly hates to leave the show.

ALLEN'S VARIETIES OF 1926, a product of the Allen Entertainment Enterprises of St. Louis, opened at the Lyric Theater in Vincennes, Ind., Sunday, June 28, and according to word received from Moon Laird, in advance of the show, the S. R. O. sign was out on the opening day, and good houses have been the vogue since. Those in the company include Tony Moreno, wop comique; Chet Unpleby, blackface and female characters; Guy Haupp and George Keystone, straights; Allene Fisher is the chorus producer, while in the chorus and each doing one or more specialties are Virginia Rhodes, Virginia Barkley, Norma Smith, Katherine St. Clair, Alice Knight, Lillian Keystone, Ruth Fischer, Katherine Carter and Margie Lowie. Edward M. Allen, owner and manager of the Allen Entertainment Enterprises and producer and sponsor of the show, will visit the show in Vincennes, where it is booked for the next three weeks.

NAT VINCENT, of Franklyn & Vincent, songwriters, hello's the information that it never gets too hot to read about what the other fellow is doing. Nat says that he'll be busier than a hen on a griddle starting in August, putting out his two tabs, Night Owls and Ho Patsy. Then he is going to deliver another one in conjunction with a well-known tab, producer, and also expects to play in another one himself. Larry Hyatt will handle all of Nat's independent bookings. Dave Sablosky will handle the Keith-Albee bookings and John Bentley will operate in Chicago. Nat expects to have a rip-roaring season, and adds he could have a company working right now from the requests coming in. He and the Mrs. (Blanche Franklyn) start soon on a motor tour of the mountains for a vacation. These two, together, have turned out some nifty song numbers, including La Veeda, I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles, I Know What It Means To Be Lonesome, You Can't Fool an Old Hoss Fly and a flock of other hits.

THE DEWEY THEATER, Minneapolis, Minn., closed July 6 for the summer months after a successful season of tabloid. The Dewey management owes a lot of its recent success to its producer, Walt Stanford, and his performers in the Dewey Merry Makers. The roster of the company was: Walt Stanford, feature comique, baritone singer and producer; Red and Bebe Malvey, second comique and soubret, song and dance specialties, Red doing the tramp and rube bits; Blom and Duell, straight and ingenue, and clever specialties. Much credit is due the chorus, under the direction of Alma Coy, which consisted of Betty LeGrande Stanford, Grace Gillen, Jeanne Finch, Teddy Rogers, Betty Poling and Alma Coy. Mr. and Mrs. Walt Stanford and Alma Coy have engaged a cottage near Minneapolis on Lake Mary for their summer vacation, which they truly deserve. With the exception of Mr. and Mrs. Malvey the company will be the same in the fall when the Dewey reopens. Max Wittels, the manager of the theater, is the informant for all the above news.

THE MEMBERS OF JACK ROOF'S Breeze Girl Revue write that after 15 weeks of working with Jack and Clarabelle Roof, who they say are two excellent people, they want the tab world to know that it would be hard to find two more likable people to work for. They all regret the approaching layoff due to so many houses on the circuit closing for the hot months. Last week the company played Keith's Colonial, Lancaster, Pa. The roster: Clarabelle Roof, prima donna and producer of the peppy dance ensemble, singing and wooden-shoe artist; Vera Leahy, soubret; Valeria Grimes, ingenue; Jack Roof, producing comique and owner, gave up his agency office at the Shubert Theater Building, Philadelphia; Jack (Cheesemakers) Slater, comique, ballad recitation specialties; Casper, Novak, short comedian; Billie Sossolow, juvenile straight, dancing specialties, and Ray Wayne, character man. The chorus of shapely Breeze Girls includes Helen Morgan, Bebe Bryant, Madia Jones, Billie Gilmore, Dot

Baker, Flo Highley, Hanna Costa and Mabel Gerard. Jean Carlos is musical director and doing an accordion specialty. Silvia Reaser is wardrobe mistress. I. J. IRVING, manager of Irving's Knick Knacks, who is spending the summer in Richmond, Va., writes that the Jack Crawford Company of entertainers, featuring a red-hot jazz band, the Georgia Crackers, played a most successful engagement last week at the Lyric Theater, a Keith house in Richmond. Mr. Crawford and his company were well (Continued on page 91)

The Salvation of Tent and Rep. Shows
THE precarious condition of the road, especially for small tent and repetition companies...

"The last issue of The Billboard has arrived and I note that Equity is planning to organize the repertoire and tent shows for the benefit of the small end of the show business..."

The show business of the old days had to be built up from the "barstomping" period, and while the condition of traveling shows is far above the hardships of the early days...

Of course, we cannot altogether blame them for that, as they are not posing as reformers or philanthropists. We, of the small end of the game, have our own battle to fight...

"But to get back to my subject. In my opening paragraph I said that the small-time show business stands today in much the same position that it did just before things started to fall to pieces..."

"In time the business might have recovered from this pernicious onslaught, but the movies were on hand and they give us the other reason why the business fell..."

"Now the parallel between the situation in the old days and the present lies in this: that the small-time show business is beginning to feel the effects of the old-time 'gyp' methods..."

"With so many coming into the game it stands to reason that many of them are not real showmen and that promotion and graft creep in as well as ignorance in running a really high-class show..."

saying goes, but in the meantime the deserv-ing managers suffer the loss of business which they have taken years to build up. And the paradox of it all is the fact that the 'gyp' show is able to weather the storm for a longer time than the legitimate one...

"Only this morning I received a letter from Augler Bros.' tent show and the following from this letter will call your attention more especially to this point. 'We are heartily in sympathy with you in your efforts to bring the (tent) dramatic companies up to a higher standard...'"

"It is a difficult matter to lay down rules of any kind that will govern this situation within the business itself. But as I wrote Mr. Hartmann of The Billboard some time ago I believe something can be done from the license end of the game..."

"This would be more to the point than the older system employed by local authorities and that is the passing of ordinances prohibiting traveling attractions appearing in the community or raising the license to the point where none of them can afford to pay it..."

"And every standard attraction should make it a part of its business to see that the mediocre show stays where it belongs—in the discard. Experienced showmen knew what was being done to the show business in the old days, but being unorganized they were practically helpless..."

"At the present time the movies stand in a very different position from what they did in the first breakup of the show business. Then they simply accepted the theater patronage as it came to them..."

"While the movie managers in the small towns have no close working organization they are at no great disadvantage on that account, for the producers step in and help their cause when it comes to serious opposition..."

up or their traveling representatives. High licenses, shut-out ordinances and the like are often the result of this movie influence. And that is going to be harder and harder to fight as the seasons go by.

"Tent-show managers have been most fortunate in the past in having Equity step in and hold affairs in check, but the time is coming when Equity cannot fight things singlehanded and it's time right now for the tent managers to bestir themselves. The one trouble has been that when the town authorities saw fit to work for local interests as opposed to the traveling attractions there was no one in court to act for the defense..."

ACTORS' EQUITY ASSOCIATION.

Chorus Equity Assn.

SEVENTY-EIGHT new members joined the Chorus Equity in the past week.

Anyone knowing the address of Beulah McFarland or Helen McDonald, formerly members of the Tolen Gossip Company, will kindly notify this office.

We are holding checks for Bonnie Murray, Elizabeth Huyler, Walter Twaroshk, Frank Shea, Carol Raffin and Percy Richards.

The Chorus Equity has a contract which must be maintained—the responsibility of maintaining it must be on the shoulders of the members of the Chorus Equity. If, thru abuse, the contract gradually comes to be disregarded it would be necessary to have another strike in order to re-establish it...

In line with this question is the fact that every Equity member has been told to report to Equity on the day he or she starts rehearsal. If all members would do this there would be less dispute about the length of time rehearsals have continued...

ture house, was set aside recently by the Supreme Court in Lincoln, Neb., because the verdict was not sustained by sufficient evidence.

H. L. Johnson has resigned as manager of the Rialto Theater, Missouri Valley, Ia., and H. F. Shorthey, of Sioux City, la., has taken charge. Mr. Shorthey was formerly manager of the Princess Theater in Sioux City, and has had 15 years' experience in the picture game. Mr. Johnson, who has made a host of friends in Missouri Valley, has not announced his future plans.

With imported silver-tinted draperies on which all colors of the rainbow can easily be reflected, costing several thousands of dollars, the stage at the Babcock Theater, Billings, Mont., is now claimed by experts to be the best in the Northwest. Phil Brady, of Tacoma, Wash., has been in Billings for a month superintending the renovation, and will continue his work there for at least two more weeks. Complete new stage equipment, including drops and curtains, have been ordered.

The Folly Theater, recently opened by Crown & Polemanakos in Houston, Tex., has been acquired by A. Silverberg, owner of the Crown Theater in that city. Reason for the sale of the Folly is that Crown & Polemanakos have acquired a string of theaters thruout the Western part of Texas and are enlarging their territory in that direction. The Folly Theater is one of the most modern of theaters and has an up-to-date cooling and ventilating system. In a short time, according to Mr. Silverberg, the Crown Theater will be remodeled, and when this is done the Crown and the Folly will be two of the best Western theaters in Texas.

Gorman's Theater, Roslindale, Boston, Mass., was recently purchased by the Roslindale Rialto Theater, Inc., from the C. J. Gorman's Amusement Enterprises, Inc. The price paid was in excess of the total taxed value of $95,000. The new owners are to spend between $100,000 and $150,000 improving the property, and will make it one of the most modern of its kind in that city. It will be operated by the New England Theater Operatives Company, which already controls the Modern, the Beacon, New Jamaica and several other houses in and near Boston. The Rialto when completed will have a seating capacity of 2,000, and will be complete in all appointments. Work on the house will be started immediately so as to have it completed in the early fall.

The Hippodrome Theater, Los Angeles, Calif., is installing a $50,000 pipe organ to be used in connection with its presentation of feature pictures. After operating many years with a large orchestra to play for the vaudeville acts, and utilizing a combination piano and semi-pipe organ for its feature pictures, the owners have gone to the expense of more than $50,000 to install an organ that will take its place among the best musical instruments of its kind in the city. Manager Geo. M. Clayton, of the Hippodrome, has been fortunate in securing the services of Stanley Delmar, formerly of the California Theater, to be the master of the console, and Hipp. patrons have a real treat in store when this new organ is officially dedicated. The regular house orchestra, which is also a Hipp. feature, will continue to play for the vaudeville portion of the entertainment offered.

Daniel Jones

DANIEL JONES of London University delivered a lecture on phonetics at Hunter College, New York, June 22. Several phonetic books by Jones are well known in America, especially his Outline of English Phonetics and An English Pronouncing Dictionary, using the alphabet of the International Phonetic Association, which is the only phonetic dictionary in English. Mr. Jones came to New York for one special lecture. His visit to America came by invitation to give an intensive course in phonetics under the auspices of Smith College at Northampton, Mass., June 1-19.

In greeting his audience at Hunter College Mr. Jones expressed his embarrassment at speaking in New York City, where lives the teacher to whom he owes his fundamental training and success as a phonetician. He referred to William Tilly, of Columbia University. He spoke of the enthusiasm which Mr. Tilly had inspired in his mind 24 years ago, an enthusiasm which prompted him to make phonetics his profession when the subject was far less popular than it is now. And he referred to Mr. Tilly as one of the great teachers of languages that he had been privileged to know.

On this occasion Mr. Jones chose to make the topic of his lecture The Application of Phonetics to Teaching English. He described phonetics as the science of speech sounds in all its aspects. The science is concerned with the mechanism of speech, the means by which sounds of language are made by the tongue, lips, teeth and organs of speech. But this mechanical study without ear training is very incomplete. The student of oral language must know the effect that these mechanisms make upon the ear. To this part of the science Mr. Jones gives first importance. He is convinced that it is no use to study the organic side without studying the acoustic side or ear training.

Furthermore, phonetics is not a science of single and individual sounds, but must deal with the manner of combining sounds in connected speech. This includes the effect that one speech sound makes on another, and it includes the length of the sound. In some foreign languages the difference in meaning of two words may depend entirely on the difference in length of a single vowel or consonant.

Phonetics also deals with two different kinds of stress (or accent): word stress and sentence stress. It also deals with intonation, sometimes called inflection of the voice, the rise and fall of the musical pitch in speech.

Mr. Jones referred to the problem of teaching English speech to those who already speak English as the mother tongue. Some persons ask, Why talk about teaching speech to persons who already speak? Mr. Jones somewhat slyly remarked that in English this means teaching English pupils to pronounce the language in a particular way, when they want to speak it another way.

"People in England," he continued, "have a way of thinking that some pronunciations are good and others are bad." If the teacher wishes to teach any particular pronunciation he must use phonetics. The method of doing this was pointed out in the following remarks: If you want to teach speech, study it first. The maxim of modern language teaching is to be systematic, be scientific. When a teacher has had phonetic training he knows what is wrong with his pupils' pronunciation.

Mistakes in pronunciation are of two distinct kinds. The first is easy to correct. The other is difficult to correct. The first kind of mistake consists of misplacing a sound, or the putting of sounds in inappropriate places. The second kind of mistake is the use of wrongly formed sounds, sounds that do not occur at all in the pronunciation that is taught.

As an illustration of misplaced sounds Mr. Jones cited "opposite" ('ɒpəzɪt), which some British children are likely to call ('ɒpəzɪt). Other examples were to pronounce "height" (haɪt) as (haɪθ), "drowned" (draʊnd) as ('draʊndɪd), "butcher" (bʊtʃə) as ('bʊtʃə), and "put" (pʊt) as (pʌt).

As an illustration of the second class of mistakes, the use of wrongly formed sounds, he took the sentence "Is the breakfast ready yet?" He illustrated the pronunciation of this sentence with five varieties of e-sounds. In his classes at Northampton he had heard "not" (nɒt) pronounced in the following ways: (nɔ:t), with the vowel lengthened, (nʌt) with the unliprounded (a) sound, and (nɑ:t) with this sound half long. He had also heard "good" (gʊd) pronounced without liprounding, whereas the (u) requires considerable pursing out of the lips.

With regard to tongue positions, some pupils have the tip of the tongue on the palate for (t, d, l), whereas they should be told to bring the tip of the tongue nearer to the teeth. Teachers who have never had phonetic training attempt to be careful and correct by following the spelling as a guide to pronunciation with the result that they say and attempt to teach ('faʊntɪn) for "foun-

turned to the blackboard and wrote the numerals, 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5. He then repeated five abstract sounds, each one of which was assigned a number, and the sounds were known only as number 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5. After repeating the separate sounds in order a sufficient number of times to impress them on the ear he then proceeded to put three or four of the sounds into meaningless words. These words were also repeated a number of times and then the audience was asked to say whether the first vowel in the meaningless word was number 1, 2 or 5.

FROM THE MIDDLE WEST

The University Club, Madison, Wis.

THIS page is written in Madison, Wis., where the editor of the Spoken Word is teaching phonetics at the summer session of the University. This is a part of the country where a distinction is made between Easterners and Westerners, and where some distinction is made between "Western pronunciation" and "Eastern pronunciation". But the attitude of Wisconsin is by no means hard boiled. The best pronunciation of the New York stage is held up as the standard of speech for instruction in the classroom, and, altho it may differ from the pronunciation of some of the students (most of them teachers), practically everyone is glad to learn the stage pronunciation. The ambition and determination of many of the students to adopt this pronunciation for their habitual speech gives daily zest to the class periods and to the conferences in between.

The good speech of some of these "Western" students is the first thing noticed by the teacher. When a Western boy was reading to me in his room I was immediately struck by his "chance" ('tʃɑ:ns) and "master" ('mɑ:stə), which he told me he had always used. The young man is a little unusual, a graduate student of about thirty, who has given up a business career to come back to his first love of books and philosophy in which he will take his doctor's degree. His name is Norman C. Bradish ('brædɪʃ), and his early education was received in the northeastern part of Iowa, where he lived. He spent one year at the Tones School, outside of Baltimore; one year at Lafayette College, Pennsylvania, and three years at the University of Wisconsin, from which he was graduated. Since then he has lived in Minnesota. His speech has never been corrected. In fact, he never knew exactly what an "inverted-r" was until a few weeks ago, altho he has known that there was something "different" in his speech that he wanted to get rid of. He has been about enough to have heard speech that he liked better than his own, and that is why he is looking into the matter at the present time.

A record of his speech is interesting for two reasons: (1) He uses (ɑ:) sounds as naturally as any Easterner or Broadway actor. He tells me that in this he follows the pronunciation of his mother, who came from Missouri. (2) His inverted r-sounds have entirely disappeared from many words just because his own ear objected to them. As a lover of poetry he has a keen ear for the music of voice and words, and he has read to me over and over certain passages from his philosophers who have written in musical prose. Even in the words where he "inverts" the inversion is slight.

Some people are always trying to say that the speech of the theater with ('tʃɑ:ns) and without inverted r-sounds is "artificial", but here is Mr. Bradish from Wisconsin and thereabouts who has always said ('tʃɑ:ns), and who would have stopped "inverting" long ago if he had only known what he did. And all his interest in speech is just a personal matter, for he is not a teacher of speech or an actor and he is not going East. In fact, the pronunciation of the stage is not artificial, but may be heard in all parts of America, and especially by speakers of Mr. Bradish's liberal mind.

Then Mr. Jones came back to ear training. A keen ear is one of the most important requirements of the teacher of speech. What's the use of knowing about a pronunciation from books if you can't hear it?

and so on with the several vowels sounded in the meaningless words. The advantage of this exercise could be seen at a glance. In reproducing the sounds and repeating the words on exercises of this sort Mr. Jones uses a monotone so that the identity of the sound will not be confused by a conscious change of pitch or intonation on the part of the speaker. A professor of speech in New York, who is known to have turned out some of the best teachers of English in New York, told me that her ear was deficient in many of these tests that were given at Northampton, so that only a few of her papers were free from error.

From this standpoint of sounds and ear training Mr. Jones says that phonetic transcription is not phonetics, or at least not the whole of it, but that the symbols are merely a help in dealing with speech and an aid to the eye. When it comes to the question of deciding what pronunciation to teach that is not phonetics at all. That question is settled outside of phonetics, altho how we pronounce and how we ought to pronounce can only be explained and illustrated on a phonetic basis. When asked what pronunciation should be taught in America the speaker remarked that it would be impertinent for him to offer advice. That was a question for America to settle for herself. He referred to the fact that there are many local dialects in England and Scotland, as well as much local usage in vocabulary.

The pronunciation that is taught in Southern England seems to be best illustrated in the standard of speech in use at the historically select and endowed private schools, as we would call them which in England are known as the Public Schools. English boys in these select schools have their local dialects rubbed off. This Public School pronunciation is to a great extent free from local effects. It is understood everywhere, it exists everywhere, is favored by educated speakers and is generally liked.

Mr. Jones does not like the term "standard" pronunciation or Received Standard, as Henry Cecil Wild uses it, but prefers Received Pronunciation, which seems to convey the idea of standard without using the arbitrary word. His personal speech, he says, is Received (standard) Pronunciation with a little London dialect underneath it. In Scotland something had to be done about a standard pronunciation, for when a teacher from one locality was transferred to another district she could not be understood or else her pronunciation was laughed at by her pupils. A standard for teaching was worked out by the school authorities on the following basis:

1. Certain pronunciations were definitely recommended.
2. Another class of pronunciations was listed as not good, but was to be accepted and not corrected.
3. A third class of pronunciations was to be corrected.

The standard that resulted from this classification was known as polite Scottish. It is described in William Grand's Pronunciation of English in Scotland, which is used as a text in the training colleges.

In the teaching of Received Pronunciation in England it looked for a time as if the popularity of broadcasting by radio with a great variety of pronunciations from different classes of people might upset the existing order of things. But broadcasting in England is coming under the influence of Received Pronunciation. One of Mr. Jones' colleagues in phonetic teaching was asked to deliver a series of lectures over the radio. His pronunciation was considered so pleasing and satisfactory that the public requested a wider use of it. As a result of these requests this speaker of Received Standard has been asked to train the official announcers at the stations in his standard of speech.

As an illustration of the advantage of a standard speech Mr. Jones gave "term" as a word for which cultured speakers in England have only one pronunciation, whereas in Scotland there are three pronunciations in general use. In cultured English of the South "bird, purse, discern" all have the (ɜ:) sound, but in Scotland the "ir", "er" and "ur" will all have a different vowel by the same speaker (bɜ:d, pɜ:s) and (dɪ'zɜ:n).

Questions from the audience were asked in a wording that was intended to be non-committal, but which one suspects showed a certain slant of the questioner. "What becomes of the beautiful local dialects, where standard speech is taught?" was one question with a voice-shaking sentiment on the word beautiful. The answer was that pupils become bilingual, learning the standard speech for educated purposes and the local dialect for home use if this is preferred.

Then came a discreet question from one who spoke carefully: "Is the inverted r-sound (Middle Western R) used by educated speakers in any of the regional dialects of England?" The answer was that the inverted r-sound is heard in the country all over the south of the Thames, and that in Somersetshire and Devonshire it is in use by educated speakers.

In answer to other questions Mr. Jones said that he pronounced "court" and "caught" in the same way, (kɔ:t), altho (kəʊt) and (kɔ:t) was a distinction made by some speakers. His personal pronunciation of "your" is (jɔ:), altho (jʊə, jə, jə) and (jɔ:) are in use.

Someone asked whether "interesting" should be ('ɪntɪstɪŋ) or ('ɪntəstɪŋ), and he said that a growing number of people in England were saying the latter. As an example of how vowels may be weakened in English he pronounced "children" with all the vowels left out (tʃɪlɪn).

Many of the audience at Hunter College were impressed by the fact that Mr. Jones did not sound "especially British," either in pronunciation or in intonation. In fact, a number spoke up in meeting to say that they thought his speech sounded like very good American.

Tapestry handbags hold a conspicuous place in the "fashion picture". The vogue for interior decorations of genuine tapestry is reflected in Milady's handbag. Even beaded bags simulate tapestry in design. It is difficult to imagine anything more exquisite than a generous-sized pale pink, orchid or blue beaded bag with a colorful tapestry design in the center, with frame and chain elaborately studded with imitation jewels.

More popular and practical, however, but none the less beautiful, is the genuine tapestry handbag, made in Aubusson, France. Sketch No. 1 shows the latest melon shape, mounted on a beautiful jeweled frame. It comes in two color schemes: A black or beige background with colored flower design in the center, elaborated with a gold thread border. We liked this type of bag in beige with a conventional red rose or violet and green left design in the center. It is beautifully lined with fine quality satin, with corded edges, and is equipped with mirror and change purse. Size, about four inches deep and six and one-half inches wide. Price, $15.

Sketch No. 2 shows a genuine needle-point tapestry bag. This comes in black, tan and brown. Beautifully made and mounted on a jeweled frame. Satin lined with mirror and purse. Size, about five and one-half inches deep and four and one-half inches wide. Price, $25.

Those interested in making their own Petit Point Bags may have on request a folder showing seven designs in full colors of fine Petit Point canvas, which can be worked either with mercerized floss or crewel wool. Materials may be purchased from the concern issuing the folder, and those unacquainted with tapestry embroidery will be furnished with a small sample done in Petit Point free, when design and material are purchased.

Still speaking of bags, the summer girl is carrying a clever little white silk moire bag, with a frilled ruffle, called The Flapper Bag. Although called a flapper bag, it is carried by every type and age of femininity. It costs $2.

And still speaking of handbags, from Paris comes a charming conceit, picturesque and novel. It is a bag of the draw-string type, covered entirely with cleverly made artificial flowers. There is a butterfly design for the maid who dispenses good cheer, a violet design for the ingratiating widow and a poppy design for the vivid girl. The flower bag constitutes the clever "something to carry." They are $14.50.

If "He" happened to be sauntering along Fifth avenue he would open his eyes wide and whistle softly as he paused before a certain window to view a new kind of gift for "Her". An old-fashioned bouquet with futuristic flowers! It puzzles him at first—the flowers are so strange and lovely, nestling on a bed of greens, surrounded by a frill of paper lace, set off with a bow of filmy gauze ribbon; puzzles him until he reads a sign. The sign informs "Him" that the flowers are silk hosiery, cleverly arranged into roses. Bouquets with three pairs of stockings in varied hues are $6.90 (6 roses), and bouquets with two pairs (4 roses) are $5.20. Each bouquet packed in a handsome box.

The Beauty Box

We do hope that our readers are careful of their diet during these warm months. One of the best beauty treatments one can undergo is to follow a diet of fresh vegetables and fruits, eliminating meats and starchy foods as much as possible. Many of our readers complain of sallow complexions at this time of the year. This sallow condition is generally due to sluggish circulation, due to overeating. Confine your diet to vegetables and fruits during the very hot weather and you will note a decided improvement in the complexion. Of course, sometimes the complexion is sallow, in spite of a careful program of dieting, because the pores of the skin are clogged.

The clogging of pores is very likely to occur in summer, because the skin is naturally oily and small particles of dust adhere readily to an oily surface. When the pores are clogged it is a good plan to supplement the use of creams by adding to the beauty treatment a pore cleanser.

A splendid pore cleanser is made by a specialist in dermatology, who has a large following of society and theatrical women. This cleanser is a superfine powder, which is used with tepid water as a wash. It produces a slight suction on every pore, emptying it of its contents of grease and dirt. It also has a stimulating action on the skin, which gradually drives away sallowness. If used faithfully the cleanser will impart to your skin that clarity which stands closest scrutiny. An eight-ounce jar, costing $3, will last for many months.

The success of electrolysis in permanently destroying superfluous hair without leaving the slightest blemish and without pain depends on the skill and experience of the operator. We know of one such operator, regarded as an expert for many years, who uses 20 needles at

Plain lace tunics, straight lines, to wear over a costume slip are selling for $7.54. These come in all the new colors.

If you adore the pure white petals and entrancing fragrance of a water lily you will simply revel in using Madame Helena Rubinstein's Water Lily Cleansing Cream, for it is made from the petals of water lilies. European women, well versed in beauty lore, who knew that in the Orient the water lily was regarded as the handmaiden to personal beauty, accepted the cream with acclaim before it was discovered by the American woman abroad, at Madame Rubinstein's Paris salon. When the American woman returned to New York she demanded the Water Lily Cream at the 57th street Rubinstein establishment so insistently that Madame Rubinstein decided to acquire water-lily ponds in America so that she might be prepared to meet the ever-growing demand for the cleansing cream. Unctions and herbs of known beauty-giving qualities are combined with the crushed petals of the water lilies, making the cream something more than a mere cleanser; an all-round beauty cream. It sells for $2.50 a jar.

We know of a fine, non-greasy, pleasant-smelling reducing cream, which is unusually effective in removing superfluous flesh. It is also excellent to use as a precautionary cream, to prevent the early formation of a double chin, which usually makes its appearance when one is just "pleasingly plump". The reducing cream is made by an old and well-known firm of chemists. Price, $2 a jar.

"ARTISTS AND MODELS" GORGEOUSLY ATTIRED

It seems that the ingenuity of the theatrical costumer is inexhaustible, as one big musical revue after another makes its bow, each with costumes strikingly original and decidedly different. One of these is the Paris Edition of Artists and Models, which has gained fame for its "minus costumes" as well as its "plus costumes."

The novel features of this colorful edition of Artists and Models are:

The Jewel Scene, with living models, which does not come under the heading of costumes, as it is conspicuously lacking in these.

A pageant, titled Mothers of the World, in which the "mother" of each generation is shown in characteristic costume.

An artistic ensemble idea, titled Pastels. Rows of chorus girls suggest pastel crayons grouped in a box. Jeweled bodices, trimmed with roses, are supplemented with full skirts representing each color in the spectrum.

Oriental Memories. Ornate costumes are silhouetted against a curtain to suggest a landscape, including a house theme achieved by means of a metal cloth window. High headresses of architectural construction helped to round out the landscape. Later each costume is revealed by itself, causing one to marvel at the costumer's skill in putting them all together to suggest a landscape.

The 18 Gertrude Hoffman Girls, who are a feature of the revue, wear very chic ballet costumes, as different from the conventional ballet costume as their dancing is from other dancing. Marguerite of the Hoffman Girls is shown in the photograph on this page, wearing one of these pert little costumes. The skirt is stiff, in a rippled effect with a "fan" at the back. Different shades of taffeta compose the costume, the skirt being lined with a contrasting fabric and the bodice showing a diagonal half of an opalescent spangled fabric.

Other interesting costumes are crisp little taffeta dresses, with crisp ruche edgings on the skirts, with diagonal ribbons on the bodice and about the collar. These are carried out in flower colors.

Rogers, of Rogers and Brennan, causes quite a stir in a long-line fitted gown of silver-gray satin, a long scarf of green outlining the deep V in the front and caught thru a huge rhinestone buckle at the waistline, the ends cascading to the hem of the draped-to-front gown. The sleeves are fitted to the elbow, where a deep flounce of gray and green is edged with lace. A large cavalierlike hat matches the green scarf.

Frances Willems wears an ingenious-looking dance frock of white chiffon, showing the new style shoulder capelet, which is composed of four tiers of the chiffon. The little capelet parts in front and a banding of rhinestones outlines the circular décolletage. The short skirt, with irregular hem, shows an unusual amount of fullness at the sides. A belt of the rhinestone trimming is supplemented by three great red roses at the bottom—caught to the left side of the belt.

FALL EVENING GOWNS TO BE WELL FITTED

Advanced fashion models predict close-fitting, backless gowns for next season. Norma Shearer, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star in A Slave of Fashion, wears one of these new gowns. It is of black velvet, closely fitted at bodice and waist. The bodice is heavily trimmed with jet medallions and fringe, the shoulder straps continuing into the deep V décolletage in back, being outlined with bands of spangled jet. A section of the front of the gown beneath the waistline and sections at each side are trimmed with jet medallions set solid. The skirt falls almost to the instep.

Fashion Notes

When trimming the evening gown the leading designers seem to favor the shoulder spray, a long streamer of ribbon forming the reposing place of three satin roses in related shades, which completes the color of the streamer.

As a trimming for an evening gown, set on at the left hip, fuchsia flowers backed by a large bow of soft satin ribbon, in a soft lavender shade, is most effective.

In the trimming department of a shop we saw a huge rose of wine-colored velvet, with two long stems with leaves of apple-green velvet. The lady who presided at the counter demonstrated to us that it was equally effective as a shoulder or a hip adornment.

An elastic headband. This headband is adjusted comfortably and the lifters permit a full play of facial expression. This little device, which takes 10 years from every woman's face, sells for $5 and is the invention of an ex-actress. When ordering be sure to state the color of your hair.

We have just discovered a most wonderful French bath soap, delicately scented with the rarest jasmine, which many women buy by the box of six cakes so that they may distribute it between the folds of lingerie, preferring it to sachet. Being well matured, the French bath soap lasts longer than most bath soaps and sells for $1 a cake.

SIDE GLANCES

Pauline Lord on Fashion

Whenever we attend a play in which Pauline Lord is the star we become so deeply interested in the picture of graceful femininity she presents that we wonder why she isn't listed in Who's Who as one of the 20 leading beauties. This omission may be due to the fact that her great talent overshadows mere beauty. At any rate we had the temerity to call on Miss Lord and ask her to define personal charm.

Her great soft brown orbs assumed the size of teacups registering surprise. "Oh," replied she, still a bit breathless after the exciting climax of the play, in which she separates the pyrotechnical Leo Carillo from the likewise Glenn Anders before murder is committed, "charm is undefinable."

Remembering that a fashion expert had once told us that a woman's fashion preferences are an index to her character, we asked: "What do you think of the fashions of the hour?"

"I think that the lines are becoming too hard and too sharp," replied Miss Lord, "too lacking in femininity." There in that word "femininity" we found the summing up of Pauline Lord's great personal charm. She is superlatively feminine in style, manner and voice. Every little gesture as she removed make-up was deftly dainty and every statement she made was punctuated with a gracious smile.

Even her judgment of the character she plays is gracious. The question of whether the heroine was ostensibly a good or bad girl came up during rehearsals of They Knew What They Wanted, in which Miss Lord is now starring at the Klaw Theater, New York. "She is ostensibly a good girl with no intention of wrongdoing," was Miss Lord's judgment, "despite the fact that some of the lines are contradictory to my concept of her character." The fact that the heroine of the play had erred thru a culmination of circumstances, carrying on into the future as a good woman in spite of the error, saved the character in Miss Lord's estimation.

Clara Bow's Popularity

Clara Bow, the charming little star of the screen, famed for her spirited playing, has played 13 feature roles in one year, establishing a popularity record. This record is all the more notable when it is considered that, altho she is under contract to B. P. Schulberg Productions, she has appeared for various other motion picture producers during the year. In the last 12 months she has appeared in Capital Punishment, The Adventurous Sex, The Birth of the West, The Laughing Cheat, Free To Love, Riss Me Again, Ever's Lover, Two Can Play, This Woman My Lady's Lips, The Keeper of the Bees and The Primrose Path. She is now filming Parisian Love and The Plastic Age will be her next.

Life on a Show Boat

Our good friend and reader, Grace Thom, mistress of the Princess Floating Theater, touring the Ohio river and its tributaries, writes us that even on the warmest days there is a nice breeze playing about the Princess which raises that theater to the standard of an elysium. But Grace Thom doesn't spend her time enjoying river breezes. She plays the piano and sings, sells sweets and concert tickets, managing in addition to appear on the bill at night, doing leads. And then there's little Norma Beth Thom, a baby daughter, who makes many demands on Mammy Grace. Check up on Grace Thom's activities and if you are busier you are entitled to a certain prize we are holding in reserve.

MANSTYLES

Above is the Style Grosner Hat about which we wrote our men readers last week.

It is called The Hat Without a Headache. It is featherweight, made of fur felt, with a ridge to hold it in shape. It is made from one piece of fabric like the very best English-made hats. It has a flexible brim and may be rolled for flat packing when traveling without danger of wrinkling.

Leave the brim as it is and you have the dress-up hat. Turn the brim down (it is flexible, you know) and you have the ideal sports hat.

It was designed by Style Grosner, who has agreed to sell it to our readers for $3.50 of which is to be donated to any of the following theatrical associations, your name to be mentioned as the donor: The Actors' Fund, Mutual Burlesque Benevolent Fund or Burlesque Club, International Alliance of Billposters and Billers, International Alliance of Stage Employees and Projectionists, Theatrical Press Representatives of America, American Federation of Musicians or Jewish Theatrical Guild.

When ordering the hat from The Billboard Shopper mention whether you desire the style of hat illustrated or a broader brim and a bit higher crown, this to be determined by the breadth of your face. for the busiest reader of the Feminine Frills page.

The Feminine Bees

The rooms of the Professional Woman's League are so cool and inviting that we've managed to find ourself there on the warmest days for a five-minute rest. At first we were surprised to find get-togethers and card parties in progress on warm days, but now we are not surprised to find the leading spirits of the league enjoying a confab and card party with the thermometer around 90 degrees. After thinking over this splendid display of activity we've decided that it is just what one would naturally expect of an organization of professional women. It's a case of "on with the show" forever! Hannah Lee, famous for the good coffee served at the league affairs, is enjoying a vacation in the mountains. She writes that she is having a delightful time.

Our Weather Prophet

Charles Moran, lately of Al Johnson's Big Boy Company, at the Winter Garden, has been appointed official weather prophet of the Feminine Frills Department. He has predicted several successful rainy Thursdays for The Shopper and Thursday is the bill shopping tour, predictions which came true. Thanks to Mr. Moran we wore our raincoat and found that it came in handy.

The Outfitter's Art COSTUMERS By G. M. Leland (Communications to 1560 Broadway, N. Y.)

The third annual convention of the National Costumers' Association of the United States and Canada will be held in St. Louis, Mo., July 27, 28 and 29. The headquarters will be at the Hotel Statler and elaborate preparations for the comfort and entertainment of the visiting costumers are being made. Business sessions will be held on all three days. Monday night the visitors will be invited to attend the Municipal Opera at Forest Park, the largest open-air theater in the world, and the Convention Banquet will take place Tuesday evening. A special program has been mapped out for the ladies attending the gathering who are not members of the organization.

A letter received recently from A. U. Sawbridge, passenger agent of the Illinois Central Railroad and a close friend of the theatrical profession, states that indications are that Eastern members will join the Chicago members in the Mid-Western city and the combined parties will journey to St. Louis on special sleepers attached to the Diamond Special, leaving Chicago at 11:30 p.m., standard time, July 26. Reservations are now being made thru W. G. Ferstel, District Passenger Agent, I. C. R. R., 203 South La Salle street, Chicago, Ill.

Further details of the convention and reservations may be obtained by writing to S. H. Harrelson, president of the National Costumers' Association, 1327 Main street, Kansas City, Mo.

There is much of interest to the costumier in the new edition of Earl Carroll's Knickerbocker, which opened last week at the Earl Carroll Theater, New York. The bulk of the wardrobe was designed by Charles LeMaire and executed by the Brooks Costume Company. The gowns worn by the hostesses in the audience, a novelty of the production, were created by Maybelle Manning of New York. The lace costumes and the curtains, proscenium portals and other decorative novelties of luster lace were made by the Saranton Lace Company. The knitted costumes, sweaters and bathing suits were furnished by Famous Fain, and the Saxophone Kings' robes, made of Boyduroy, were made by the John S. Boyd Company of Williamstown, Mass.

The Brooks Costume Company is now working on the costumes for Russell Janney's impending production of the musical version of If I Were King. James Reynolds made the sketches and has been abroad for some months buying materials for this offering and several productions he will do for Charles Dillingham.

Dave Galdway has severed his connection with Arlington-Mahler, Inc. His future plans are not quite ripe for announcement as yet. It is understood that there will be other changes in Mrs. Paul Arlington's establishment before long. The workshops have not been in operation for some time.

With most of the summer musical offerings already on the boards and the fall productions still in the offing, business is very quiet just at this period in the Broadway costume houses. Activities are expected to start with a rush, however, before the end of July.

LITTLE THEATERS

(Communications to 1560 Broadway, New York, N. Y.)

THE LOBERO THEATER OF SANTA BARBARA

The Lobero Theater of Santa Barbara, as well as the Community Arts Association which it houses, is a natural product of the growth of the community spirit in California. It stands on the site of an old thick-walled adobe theater, built over 60 years ago by a wandering musician, tavern keeper and figure of romance, Jose Lobero. Lobero had drifted into Santa Barbara and opened a saloon on the corner of State and Canon Perido streets. The only place of amusement in those days was a little open plaza off State street, where dances were held on fiesta days and where strolling players stopping for a week or two gave their variety shows under the open sky.

Lobero dreamed of a real theater, a grandiose vision for the proud little town far off from a railway. He acquired a building and called it the Sebastopol, at one time used as a school and said to be the largest adobe hall in California. To this he added a generous stage and a foyer. The little theater had an old world charm with its tiny proscenium boxes, from which only a glimpse of the stage could be had, and its horseshoe balcony with pewlike benches. It was opened by a truly community performance, an opera written by Lobero himself, the scenery prepared by him and his friends, played by an all-Santa Barbara cast, the music provided by a Santa Barbara orchestra. The theater was finally outmoded by the larger Potter Theater and fell by the wayside.

The first suggestions to revive the old building met with enthusiastic response. But it was found too far gone for repairs and on its site the Community built the new Lobero. This is in the Spanish style, white-plastered, with red tile roofs and a towering stagehouse visible from all over the valley. George Washington Smith was the architect. It is practically fireproof and seats, without a balcony, 630 persons. The walls of the auditorium are tinted a warm buff, the ceiling richly decorated in a strong color scheme of the Spanish style, reds, greens and gold. The stage is 75 feet long by 35 feet deep and 60 feet high. Its lighting equipment and scenic apparatus are of the latest design, equal to the most elaborate productions. There are ample dressing-room accommodations and a pretty greenroom, where the actors can gather.

The Community Arts Players of Santa Barbara have given their monthly plays in the Lobero Theater since August, 1924, when the theater was opened by a week's run of The Beggar on Horseback. The Players began their career in 1920, when they assembled as a group of amateurs, interested in the drama. The initial organization grew rapidly and took on new branches, so that the Players are now one department of the Community Arts Association of Santa Barbara, which also includes Music, School of the Arts, and a Plans and Planting division. For the past four years the Players have given their productions under the direction of Nina Mjose. A varied repertory has enabled them to bring to Santa Barbara many of the finest successes of Broadway. During the last year the following plays have been given: The Circle, The Torchbearers, Fanny's First Play, Lilom, The Hottentot and The Green Goddess. The last production of the season, Outward Bound, was given May 7, 8 and 9. David Imboden, technical director of the Players, works with Miss Mjose in producing the plays and is obtaining a very high degree of professional finish. A photograph of the exterior of the Lobero Theater is shown on this page.

PEEKING IN ON THE DALLAS PLAYERS

Since the Little Theater of Dallas, Tex., has carried home to Texas twice in succession the Belasco cup, the coveted trophy in the Little Theater Tournament, held in New York each year, under auspices of Walter Hartwig, Oliver Hinsdell, director of the group, has received letters from all parts of the States and from Europe and Australia asking questions concerning the success of the group. In response to these inquiries a booklet has been published, which undoubtedly will be sent to all requesting it. We glean from this booklet that no one appears in more than two or three performances during the year, that any one is considered a member of the Dallas Little Theater who buys a season ticket; that the membership of the theater falls informally into two classes: First, that important group which regularly attends the performances as a faithful audience, and second those who are concerned with the actual producing of plays; that this second group is always changing and is largely drawn from the first; that up to the present the group has been entirely self-supporting; that productions are carefully planned so as to come within a reasonable budget (somewhere between $300 and $600, including royalty); that a conscious effort has been made to keep the growth of the organization slow and sound rather than to force it in any way, and that it is deemed advisable to alternate serious plays with light ones and to specialize in giving dramas which otherwise the local public would have no opportunity to see.

WASHINGTON SQUARE PLAYERS PRODUCE

While most little theaters are taking a vacation the Washington Square Players of New York University, New York, are carrying on with an ambitious summer repertory. Their present bill (July 9 to 17) is Shaw's You Never Can Tell, which will be reviewed in the next issue of The Billboard. Their next bill, opening July 23 and ending July 31, will be Shaw's Candida, with the following cast: Davida Galbraith as Proserpine Garnett, Richard Gough as the Reverend James Morrill, John Koch as the Reverend Lexy Hill, Richard Lambert as Mr. Burgess, Miriam Steep as Candida Morrill and Nelson Pearce as Marchbanks. Other plays to follow are: Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire, by Barrie; Magic, by G. K. Chesterton; Mr. Pin Passes By, by Milne; Belinda, by Milne, and A Successful Calamity, by Clare Kummer.

Randolph Somerville is directing the Washington Square Players. Their offerings will prove of unusual interest to little theater workers now vacationing, as well as to the general public, especially the work of Miriam Steep, the charming young leading woman of the organization, who has distinguished herself in many past offerings by the Players. Tickets are being sold on the subscription plan

MONTICELLO PLAYERS SCORE IN NEW BILL

Quoting from The Sullivan County Republican, Monticello, N. Y.: "The Lyceum was filled to capacity and many were standing when the curtain went up on the 15th play given by the St. Peter's Players, entitled Very Good, Eddie, Tuesday night of this week.

"Without any reflection on the other 14 splendid performances these ambitious amateurs have given here, it is generally conceded their last show was the best of all. The play was well cast and each player handled the part assigned to him or her just like a professional, and both the play and the players were extra good and much enjoyed by every person in the large audience assembled."

The Monticello Players, since acquiring as their director James W. Castle, the well-known professional actor-manager, have given a number of full-length plays which have convinced residents of Monticello that they need not patronize the big city theaters to enjoy a really good dramatic or musical feast. Castle also designs scenic effects and shows the young folk how to execute them.

OF INTEREST TO ALL ASPIRING PLAYWRIGHTS

The Attic Players at the Hotel Sherwin, Chicago, announce a contest for new one-act plays to start July 15 and to close August 15. A board of preliminary judges will select three plays from those submitted for production by the Attic Players. A board of final judges will name the winning plays from these three and its author will receive a cash award of $25 at the opening performance. Plays should be addressed to Josef Friedman, care the Attic Players.

HULL HOUSE PLAYERS HOLD TOURNAMENT

The Hull House Players at the Hull House Theater, Chicago, finished their 25th year and season as a little theater group with the first one-act play tournament ever held in Chicago. All high schools and local amateur player organizations in and around the city were invited to compete.

The Dickens Players, presenting an original adaptation from Barnaby Rudge called The Stranger's Visit, won the Laura Dainty Pelham cup. The cup was named in honor of the late director and founder of the present Hull House Players.

M. J. Cooney, director of the Hull House Players, tells us that competition was very keen and close in the high school contest, the judges finally awarding the Hull House Players' cup to the Nicholas Senn High School group, directed by Melita Skillen, second honors going to the Lake View High School group, directed by Ruth Moore. The contesting plays were The Turtle Dove, by Margaret Olliver, and The 15th Candle, by Rachel Field.

Altho the Hull House Players themselves did not compete in the tournament, they gave a complimentary performance each evening of The Workhouse Ward, Maud Smith and Frank Keogh, members of the Players since their organization, and Eric Hjorth, played in the cast.

During the past season the Hull House Players were directed by Maurice J. Cooney, Evelyn Byron acting as business manager. Their new season will open in November and they will give another play tournament in the spring of 1926.

PASADENA PLAYERS IN "LADY OF THE LAMP"

The Lady of the Lamp, as done recently by the Pasadena Community Players for its first presentation outside of New York, greatly pleased the critics as well as the public. It was hailed as one of the most beautiful things ever done in the West and proved far more appealing than the opening vehicle of the new Pasadena Playhouse.

Director Gilmor Brown, appearing as the Manchu emperor in the Earl Carroll Chinese fantasy, particularly delighted the critics by his performance, altho the entire performance won great praise.

"In their eight busy years, now crowned with the acquisition of one of the finest theater properties in the country, it is safe to say the Community Players have never before done anything so beautiful and seldom anything so well," wrote Monroe Lathrop, critic of The Los Angeles Express.

The Los Angeles Times commented: "Sheer loveliness greeted the eye at the rise of every curtain. The sets used by Jane Cowl in Roméo and Juliet are the only ones seen in Los Angeles this season that can compare in beauty to these."

Robert R. Sharpe, a young man who has done much work with the Pasadena Community Players, designed the Lady of the Lamp sets.

Little Theater Notes

Walter Sinclair has been appointed director of the Hart House Theater, Toronto, Can., to succeed Bertram Forsyth, who resigned at the end of the season recently closed.

On June 4 and 5 the Little Theater Guild of Baton Rouge, La., presented the last offering of the 1924-'25 season. It consisted of a dramatic playlet, Dove-tailed, by Marjorie Arbar, a local newspaper woman who dramatized one of her short stories. A crashing tragic climax featured the sketch.

Members of the Northeastern High School Senior Class, Detroit, under the direction of Miss H. Joyce McCurdy, presented Clarence, by Tarkington, in the High School Auditorium, June 19 and 20. John Francis Carleo, of Detroit, writes us that the production "went over with a bang and brought to a close a very active year of high school dramatics at Northeastern." "During the course of the year," writes Mr. Carleo, "26 one-act plays were staged by the members of the dramatic classes under Miss McCurdy's supervision, and then, of course, there was our Alumni production."

The Amateur Dramatic Club of Cambridge, Mass., presented The Beauz Stratagem the latter part of June. The piece, nearly 220 years old, was played by a cast of actors averaging 20 years of life each. The production attracted a lot of attention and the players were praised by the press for their good work.

Of Interest To SCENIC ARTISTS

By G. M. Leland

(Communications to 1560 Broadway, N. Y.)

The dispute between Florenz Ziegfeld and the United Scenic Artists' Association, which has been waging since last January, came to an end last Monday when the producer turned over a final amount to the scenic artists' union in full payment of claims held against him for sketches ordered and submitted at the time of his unsuccessful production of The Comic Supplement, and the members of the association were allowed to go ahead with work necessary to the opening of the summer edition of the Ziegfeld Follies.

The long disagreement started when claims were filed against Ziegfeld last winter by several scenic artists and designers for payment in return for work executed upon the solicitation of the impresario. Members of the U. S. A. A. were forbidden to do further work for the producer except on a cash basis until the claims were settled. Charges of coercion and collusion were brought by Ziegfeld thru the district attorney's office against Local 829 and its president, Charles E. Lessing, and an investigation of the United Scenic Artists' Association by the Department of Justice followed. The claims against Ziegfeld were satisfactorily proven and he settled for everything but the charges for some sketches which were ordered but not used. The payment received last week clears up this final item and it is believed that the producer now realizes the justice of paying for all designs requested of and executed by an artist, whether or not they may be finally used in a production. The charges of restraint and monopoly brought against the U. S. A. A. were cleared up about two months ago when the courts handed down a decision in what amounted to a parallel case between the Government and the Fur Dressers and Dyers' Association, ruling that the members of a trade association may agree to withhold credit from customers who have not paid bills, proven legitimate and overdue, and that organizations of the type in dispute tended to promote rather than to restrain trade.

With the long fight over a more friendly spirit and mutual understanding than ever before exists between Ziegfeld and the body of scenic artists. Both sides are pleased that peace has at last been attained, for Ziegfeld makes use of the scene painters' art more than any other producer of musical shows of the present day. He is an advocate of painted effect and scenery, and does not feed his audiences with number after number in front of black drapes, as do so many of the other dispensers of the lighter and more rapid form of entertainment. An interesting angle on the situation just passed is the fact that when Ziegfeld opened his production of Louie the 14th, right in the midst of the fracas, he received a letter of sincere congratulations from his opponents, the United Scenic Artists' Association, complimenting him on having the most beautiful stage settings on Broadway in his show.

The Dallas (Tex.) Herald recently gave a most complimentary notice to Jack Platzer, scenic artist with Sam Bullman's Cycle Park Players, the popular stock company of that city. The newspaper review paid tribute to Platzer's skill as an artist and his ingenuity in obtaining both suggestive and realistic effect. This is his third season with the Bullman stock, working in Dallas and also Fort Worth.

The P. Dodd Ackerman Studios of New York are working on the settings for a six-scene Indian Ballet in which Renne Roberts is soon to appear in Keith-Albee vaudeville.

Each of the several revised editions of the 1924 Ziegfeld Follies has been an improvement over its predecessor, and the latest version has made bigger strides than any of the others towards achieving something like perfection. But in spite of several excellent additions in the way of principals, material and new scenic and costume effects of a very elaborate nature, even this last edition of the Follies is still far from being a perfect show.

You can't make a new quilt by patching up an old one, and the chief trouble with the "additional" Follies is that the good things in it keep getting stale almost as fast as the bad things are replaced with something better. This may not be noticed so much by the once-a-year visitors from out of town, most of whom still seem to be drawn by the name of Ziegfeld, and to them the Follies, taken by itself, is abundant and glorious. But comparatively—and in the long run it is on this basis that the success and future of an enterprise depend—the Follies is easily surpassed, both in strength of entertainment and in value for money received, by at least one other revue now current on Broadway.

Taking the latest program as it is set down—and, by the way, the inability of the Follies to follow its printed running order still continues—there is a very delightful opening with a new number, called A Trans-Atlantic Pier at New York, in which six girls climb down from the side of a steamer—nicely designed—and sing a song, after which the Tiller girls come in for a snappy new number in emigrant costumes. The program reads that the opening song is sung by Dorothy Knapp, who is one of the six girls, but the entire group did the singing together on the occasion of this review. In a later number with Irving Fisher Miss Knapp's voice is given an opportunity to test itself on a few notes.
Miss Knapp may be the American Venus—there is no denying that she is a treasure to the eye—but when it comes to singing she just can't, and the fact that a girl is a prize beauty is not of itself a sufficient excuse for putting her in a song number. It's bad for the song and bad for the beauty as well.

There is another instance of unwise encouraged precocity in the case of Louise Brooks. This snappy little performer has some good stuff in her all right enough, but she is not ripe enough yet to come out as a principal. In the song number, Rose of My Heart, where she poses around while Irving Fisher sings, Miss Brooks is lost and out of place. It's a hard life for Fisher!

Charles Chase, a newcomer to the Ziegfeld banner, is the comedy hit of the show. His exuberantly funny makeup and antics add greatly to the gradually increasing comedy in the Follies. On this occasion he was under the disad-vantage of having been spotted right at the opening scene, but in spite of that he registered solidly. Another new comedy number is provided by Dare and Wahl, also recruits from vaudeville and who are likewise badly spotted right at the one of the big comedy skits played by W. C. Fields, Ray Dooley and Bertha Belmore. In spite of that, however, the boys earned an encore.

In the Succubating Baby number there is a pretty wicked coach dance and the rude parade in the show is entirely out of harmony with the ranch setting in which it takes place. If there must be rude displays they should at least be presented in a fitting context. Undressed parades don't happen on ranches. If they did Will Rogers might still be a cowboy out West.

Edna Leedom, on her first appearance, indulges in too much preliminary shop talk and trite dialog with Dave Stamper.
In addition to this her material borders too closely on the vulgar, and the bodroom sketch played by Miss Leedom and Fields could be compressed.

Ethel Shutta appears as visiting star for an excellent number, entitled Eddie,

Be Good, in which she is supplemented by a group of girls in black-face Eddie Cantor masks. The Cantor mask business is a great idea, nicely executed and proves one of the biggest hits in the show.

Also among the newly added principals is Lina Basquette, whose beautiful dancing makes its customary hit. Hilda Ferguson, too, is back in the fold. Then there is a group of wild specialty dancers, including Helen McEdden,
Dorothy Van Alst, Barbara N. Wberry,
Peggy Fears and Noel Francis. The Kelo Brothers have bushed up and injected some new twists in their dilin-it acrobatic dancing, while Will Rogers, W. C. Fields, Ray Dooley, Clarence Nord-strom, Irving Fisher, Vivienne Segal, Brandon Tynan and others of the old guard are all in good form.

If everything about the new Vanities were on a par with the theater decorations and the finale of the show Earl Carroll would have something to brag about. But as things stand it's a case of the house and company being all dressed up and no—well, you get the idea.

There is considerable activity of various kinds, both on the stage and throughout the informally conducted auditorium, in the course of the evening, but it all seems purposeless and without result of any kind. The show has no definite opening. It just happens. It begins to happen the minute the doors are opened and a corps of gloriously costumed ladies of the ensemble step forth to greet the patrons and conduct them to their seats. Presently another group of beauties comes forth for a few minutes of easy parading, fashion show-like, across the little stage that has replaced the orchestra pit—the musicians having been shelved on one side of the house. Then the "waltzers" and "bus boys" who attend the $27.50 ringside seats begin to scamper around for no reason at all, and eventually voices are heard from the stage, which is the cue for the audience to take note of the fact that the performance has begun in earnest.

It is all very informal and loose and unsystematic. During the intermission the ballet-costumed ushers distribute cigarets and ginger ale free to the patrons, while other show girls go strolling and chatting freemasonically thru the house and lobby and out into the street.
But when it comes right down to solid entertainment that's another matter.
Carroll has labeled his show "utterly unique and different". The most unique thing about it is the fact that so many performers, such a quantity of scenic and costume effects and so much fuss in general can produce such little real entertainment. When, oh, when, will revue producers—all producers, in fact, but revue producers in particular—learn that ENTERTAINMENT is always of FIRST IMPORTANCE?

There is not one strong entertainment feature in the whole new Vanities. Of course, the Three Whirlwinds deserve and get a big hand for their unusual accomplishments in the roller-skating line, but this act is so decidedly in the vaudeville class that it appears dragged in by the heels in a production of this kind.
There is no singing that amounts to anything. M. de Jarl has a pleasing voice but lacks the ability to sell himself. Vivian Hart is a mighty nice little miss, with an engaging manner and a good style of delivery, but her numbers are not effectively staged. The dancing is not even fairly exciting nature. The comedy is mostly in the form of excuses by Julius Taunen to the effect that he is compelled to ad lib, and take up time so that the stage crew can set up the next scene. "This is going to be a great show when it gets into shape," Taunen keeps telling the folks. The question in the minds of some $4.40 patrons is "Why wasn't the show put into shape before it opened?"

Ted Healy creates most of the genuine fun. Healy is a capital comedian, with a natural way of extracting the comic element, and could be a big hit with the right kind of material. At present he is sadly handicapped by poor lines, when any.

"Different," did Carroll say about his revue? Then why such unoriginality in all of his material? Why all the dirty skits of the type that other revues have played to death? Why the rotisserie effect that is practically the same—the nowhere near as good—as the one in Artists and Models? Why the poorly executed ensemble number on the order of the Totem Pole effect in Rose-Marie?
Why the pointless scenes imitative of several of the current musical hits? Why does Bobby Polson offer the same line of stuff at high revue prices that she used to hand out in the popular-price vaudeville houses?

The scarce comedy material is all re-hashed from familiar sources. So is most of the music. The working chorus needs a lot more drilling and many of the damsels who serve in a decorative capacity—and to fill up the $27.50 ringside seats—have yet to learn how to walk to music.

Taking it as a whole the show has no character. There is no kick to it. The night club effect is attractive, sure enough, but rather stuffy for summer, but a theater in any kind of a dress or lining is a theater just the same and, unless it has a show in it that really entertains, the public is not going to hand over fancy prices just to come in and look around and maybe rub elbows with a few chorines.

Before closing it deserves to be recorded that Jack Norton struggles valiantly with the comedy material handed him and actually does pretty well with it. That means he, too, would show up much better with more favorable lines.
Wallace McCutcheon, Oscar Lorraine, Van Lowe, Dave Chasen and a few of the other boys also contribute some industrious effort that is more or less wasted. Marjorie Peterson comes in for a few fascinating appearances, her dancing and that of an unidentified top-spinner being worthy of mention. Betty
Healy, Kathryn Ray, Adele Neff, Felicia
Sorel, Jeannette Gilmore and Celia Branz also are among the chief feminine performers. Lastly there are a couple of "nance" specialties which Carroll probably inserted in the hope that the authorities would object to them and thus bring publicity to the show. But the stunt, if such it is, looks to be a bloomer.

ACT II—Eleven o'clock, the Same Night.
ACT III—A Few Minutes Later.
Staged by Edward Emery.

There is no need to induce any perspiration over a lengthy review of All Wet. The affair professes to deal with the Russian idea—which never got beyond the idea—of nationalizing women,
i. e., making them the common property of all men. As a piece of stage writing it is just atrocious number 606, dirty, dull and with hardly any real bearing on its far-fetched subject. As for the acting, when Edward Emery, the very capable actor, who is credited with having staged the piece and who plays the part of a butler in it, is so lax and unlike a butler in his own portrayal, what can be expected of the others? If the players who are presenting themselves in this piece of junk have any regard for themselves, and for their future chances with playgoers, they will withdraw themselves double quick.

"Red Bird Revue" Manager Answers

Dallas, Tex., July 3, 1925.

Editor The Billboard:
Sir—In reply to the letter in the open-letter department of The Billboard of July 4 in regard to the closing without notice of the Red Bird Revue, I wish to say that the members of the company who were strictly attentive to business were taken care of and they received their salary in full.

Platformist Says Chautauqua People Prefer Good Hotels to Private Homes, But—

Melfort, Sask., July 5, 1925.

Editor The Billboard:
Sir—This open letter, I trust, will answer the complaint registered in a recent issue regarding chautauqua talent and hotels.

First, let me state that I speak from seven years' experience in every part of the U. S. and Canada, and, believe me, Canada takes the prize, especially the small-town hotel keeper.

Of course, there are many fine exceptions, but I will say, as is the case very often, the majority of the unfair ones have spoiled it for the others.

Why should chautauqua talent be asked to pay a higher rate than a traveling man, many times double? This practice has made talent wary of all hotels.

Why do most American plan hotels insist that talent eat three meals a day and pay for them? Professionals usually eat three meals a day, but owing to hard traveling arrangements sometimes find it more beneficial to sleep during the meal hour and they don't like to pay for a meal they don't get and another in addition.

Platformists play one-day stands. When travel is tedious they need rest, and it's hard to find in hotels, with maids running up and down halls, doors banging, and dishes rattling, sometimes with none too sweet odors and heat wafted from the kitchen.

In private homes platformists get consideration and a homelike atmosphere that is conducive to good programs. Private homes are generally clean. A fellow sometimes awakes in a hotel and for a minute believes he is still in the trenches.

Why should young ladies stay at hotels to be insulted, as they often are, by certain traveling men who have no respect for womanhood? Night clerks are also offenders.

I am going to give hotel keepers some advice that I think will get the chautauqua people and not lose any others:

1. Charge one rate to all—European or American plan at option of guest.
2. Make the rate a just one.
3. Give talent quiet rooms.
4. Keep the place clean.
5. Keep the morals of the hotel first class. It will pay you to kick out a few perverts if necessary.
6. Eliminate the booze and bootleggers.

If the hotel keepers will conform to these rules and take time to notify the local superintendent and send a letter or card to chautauqua people at the preceding town, giving rates and service, they will be surprised at results.

Talent is under no more obligation to hotel signers than to private citizens. In fact, private citizens are more often in the majority over business houses.

However, talent prefers a GOOD hotel any day.

The Trouble With Skating Rinks

Editor The Billboard:
Sir—Some weeks ago I noticed an interesting item in your columns from a Mr. Munch, a professional skater, asking "what is the trouble with roller skating?"

To the keen observer who would travel around and visit the different rinks, especially as Mr. Munch has done in his many contests, he is sure to form his opinion on one thing, and that is that the roller-skating rink today is being conducted as it was years ago when the first roller rink was opened. Rinks lack originality. Managers have not been keen students in observation; they have failed to study what the public really likes. They have failed to remember that once you give the public something it will enjoy it is hard to keep the public away from it. It is just like a little baby with a good piece of candy. Give it one bite and it will cry continually for the balance, but if that candy isn't good it will throw it away and never give it another thought.

If park, traveling show, carnival, circus and other amusement managers were as neglectful of the wants and desires of the public, if they were using today the same old merry-go-round, the same old rides, the same old shows, and the same old tones of music, there would be very few parks running today, and very few, if any, traveling shows that would be able to make their train haul expenses.

They have been keen and found by actual experience that the public cannot be "humbugged" any more, but MUST be pleased. And the public is getting more and more critical each day.

When you study the experience of the "movies," how they started out with nothing but an old phonograph to entertain their audiences, to the present day with the hundreds of thousands of dollars spent in pipe organs, you can see the course of evolution that has taken place. When you study the parks you will see that their rides cost them hundreds of thousands of dollars instead of an old circle swing, or something worth a hundred dollars. When you study the traveling shows you will see large, heavy rides carried at a great expense in order to give the public a novelty. But when we look back what have the skating-rink managers done to give the public a novelty? Or what have they done in order to please the public?

Of course, I'm not writing in this tone referring to all rink managers, because we have some very live, energetic and up-to-date ones who are making money, are not complaining of bad business and who keep their rink open every week of the year. And those fellows have, above all things, changed the tone of their music.

Some may argue that it's the skates, the smoothness of the floor, the style of decoration, the building itself or the location, but those things are not the fundamental cause of the trouble.

If you will look at the skating rink business from all angles you will find that the one greatest reason why people do not go to rinks, why the young folks do not like to go there often and skate, is simply because the music that is heard in the average rink is monotonous, irritating and absolutely repulsive.

To ask young people to go to a skating rink for an evening's entertainment, and skate to the continuous grind of the most monotonous music heard since childhood, is just as ridiculous as asking them to go to a dance hall and dance all evening long to the same tone of music. There is no argument but what music is the heart and soul of any amusement enterprise. Take your music away and you become as silent as a graveyard. A poor show can be put over with good music. So I would suggest to the rink managers who are complaining of bad business that they look around and search the market for a new toned instrument, something melodious, something tuneful, something that will please the public and make the neighbors come around and pass compliments on the beautiful music and concerts instead of going to the authorities and trying to close the rink after 10 o'clock at night.

Then, and not until then, will rink receipts increase. And the fellow who gets out before the lid of the coffin closes upon him, puts in new music, even though he has got a bad floor or bad skates, is going to see twice as many couples on his floor as before. I glean this information from absolute experience, talking to managers who are now using different music for their rinks.

As Geo. Hurst, of Canton, Miss., told me recently: "I now have four times as many couples on my floor as before and practically every night I have people from small towns within 60 miles around and I am positive it is all because I have put in a new tone of music, a tone that the public loves."

The Vaudeville Field
By "WESTCENT"

That Film Publicity Stunt

It has sent the newspapers raving mad and nearly every paper has devoted some sort of an editorial against it. There's a wild talk that the film itself, The Phantom of the Opera, should be barred from being exhibited. Why? The publicity man is entitled to pull off such a stunt if he is clever enough, and that it has caught the powers that be "bending", we as newspaper men can only take our hats off and admire the success. Certain it is that portion of the film taken from the Beverly Hills and the Hampshire Territorials will not be shown, but if the authorities, namely, the Board of Film Censors, take the attitude that because of the press stunt the film must be banned then it will be the meanest action yet.

The Cossack Riders at Olympia

This show, totaling about 250 "White" Russians, is causing Harry Norris, who is handling the enterprise, some worry. The Home Office will not allow them to enter England from France unless their passports, issued by the League of Nations, contain the permission to return to France. Norris has to put up $2,000 with a shipping agency against their return fares, and he also has to put up a personal bond that each and every one of them will clear out of England according to their Labor permit. Harry thinks this is a big order, and as the actual fares amount only to $2,000, he doesn't think it right that he should have to deposit the remaining $3,000.

Wembley Not Doing Well

It seems clearer every day that the guarantors will be called upon for the full amount of their guaranty when the exhibition closes. Sir Charles Higham says the only way to popularize the show is to appropriate $500,000 for intensive sensible newspaper campaign advertising. Higham suggests that C. B. Cochran should be appointed the "booster" and rightly says that "Charlie" is Britain's greatest showman.

Alfred Lester's Will

When he died it was said he would leave about $500,000. Those more competent to judge said it was nearer $200,000, and, in fact, it is just over $188,000. He left $2,500 each to the Actors' Orphanage and the Actors' Benevolent Fund and $1,000 to the V. A. B. F. Lester earned good salaries, but lived frugally. He made some investments. His estates left by some showfolk were: Fred Leslie, $80,000; Dan Leno, $50,000; Herbert Campbell, $20,000; Marie Lloyd (net personality nil) $35,000; Kate Santley, $70,000; Dame Genevieve Ward, $45,000; Sir Charles Hawtrey, $5,500; Herman Vezin, $500; Wilson Barrett, $150,000; William Terris, $90,000; Richard D'Oyly Carte, $1,200,000; J. L. Toole, $400,000; H. B. Irving, $200,000, and Sir John Hare, $150,000.

Judge Scores Wembley Amusements Agreement

A plaintiff recently sued Wembley Amusements, Ltd., for the return of a $50 deposit on account of $1,500 for consideration, which it was alleged had failed. There was a counterclaim for $125. The plaintiff contemplated taking a plot of land 9x10 at the Amusement Park for a game called Eiectra. He became ill and his wife became the licensee and sent the deposit of $500. The proposed agreement she received had 54 clauses, one clause even demanding the restoration of the turf on the site, there being a concrete flooring. Frank R. Lewis, manager for Wembley Amusements, said there were 135 persons renting sites from their company. "Mostly fools," ejaculated the judge. Another condition was that no eating or cooking, or even to sleep on the premises or plots could be done without the permission of the company. Judgment was given for the showman to get the return of 1. money.

Pros. Here and There

Jose Collins pulled them in at the Victoria Palace, where she had the assistance of Thorpe Bates. Altho she put over a good show, many were disappointed in her personality, but the business was S. R. O., so what's the difference! Bruce Green, the "dame" comedian, sails for South Africa on July 3 for a tour of South Africa and maybe Australia to follow. He, like a good many others, has been fiddling around the country running his own "combinations".

Marie Kendall did well this week at the Metropolitan, where Miss Loddington staged a vaude show. Miss Loddington, or "Loddy," as she is called, is the booking directress for the "Syndicate" Halls. "Westcent" gates his "lid" from her marriage to Wright of Wright, Connolly and Mae, in January, 1924. Even Moscow suggested he discard it.

Billy Bleach is away holidaying at Ostend, where he will be with Herbert Clayton, and then on to Shoreham. Billy is mucking about with a Cowley, and despite the fact that it is fitted with a selfstarter, Billy was hard at it the other night outside the "V. P." trying to start her up.

Ernie Leopard has discarded his "Tin Lizzie" and now gets about in an "Essex" coach, and very nice, too, as we can testify. Despite the nonplaying of vaude, the "working men" have still to watch the highways and byways on the lookout for talent. Yes, and it shows, the way things are, as even Mr. Gilchrist had an hour or two at the Alcazar in Charing Cross Road.

Ernie Mayne, who has been playing in the revue, A Working Girl, for the L. T. V., is now back in his single act and, as usual, getting away with it. Gulliver, with some of his big "exclusive" contracts, has found a solution of his troubles in putting some of the acts into revue. Gertie Gitana had diminished in box-office value, but when she was put into a revue, Nellie Deans, she trebled the business.

J. W. Rickaby may be coming your way next spring as that's his idea. Rickaby is a handieap four man (have we got this right) or at any rate, he's a very hefty opponent in the rolling world, being the crack player in the V. G. S. He has a big success in The Flying Man, which has a very big vogue with our Royal Air Force. Jim's tunes and material have a lilt all their own, and he has a decent voice.

Jack Hylton is staging scenic effects for some of his tunes played by his band. Let It Rain—Let It Pour. Has Jack heard of Lopez? Watching the Lopez outfit the other night the audience seemed to like the "settings" for some of those things. We seem to be reverting to the simpler forms of scenic art.

R. W. Willey got the Alhambra audience in fine applause fettle. His big effort, and that without any swanking announcement is his dancing (clog) to the overture of Past and Present. He is a double-legged dancer and the people liked it. It's hard work in a heat wave, but he deserved his reception.

drums; Dale Gilliland, banjo soloist; Harold E. Seldon, pianist; Harold Herl, sax; Glenn Alsbough, saxes, and Forest Bobbitt, sax, and clarinet.

One of the late Conn Musical Truth magazines gives a lot of space to some of the circus bandmasters, publishing their photos and short squibs about each one. Those mentioned are: Victor Robinson, Rodney Harris, Merle Evans, S. L. Miller, Homer F. Lee, John F. Dusch and O. A. Gilson.

Troy's Orchestra closed at the Auditorium, Sarasota, Fla., recently to return to its originating point of Orlando, where it will spend the summer. Members of the orchestra who pleased Sarasotians during the past season are: Pat McCullough, pianist; Hank Kennedy, sax.; Bruce DeWitt, trumpet; Bill Cope, banjo, and Red Newton, drums.

Joe Herlihy's Collegians are playing the Hampton Beach Casino, Hampton Beach, Mass., for the season and the orchestra is merrily rolling along. The personnel: Joe Herlihy, manager-piano; Walter Herlihy, violin-director; Lloyd Berry, banjo, violin; Johnny Williams, drums; Art Atwood, Sousaphone, cello; Pete Rogers, trombone; Bones Littlefield, Al David, trumpets; Jay O'Brien, Monte Montpelier, Jess Hackett, saxes.

Shorty Davies, widely known, trumpeter, formerly of Herbert Clarke's Anglo-Canadian Band, and who is a connoisseur of the art of cuisine, let his big heart overcome all monetary considerations and listed to the call of the boys of Local 43, Buffalo, N. Y., who were fast getting thin. He resigned from the Ringling-Barnum Band to take over the clubhouse for the Buffalo clubhouse and from all reports, the splendid musicians of the Queen City of the Lakes have gained plenty pounds.

Frank (Sticks) Lacy, an old trouper, now located in Little Rock, Ark., reports that there is a big boom on in that city. There are three dance halls, Tokio Gardens in White City, where Don Warner and his Varsity Entertainers are playing nightly to packed floors, with Frank stating that it is the hottest and neatest band in the city, having ten men and three entertainers. At the Rainbow Gardens is Tommy Jackson and his band of nine men. At Willow Beach is Frances Craig and his Nashville orchestra. Both of the latter places are amusement parks.

Joe Murphy, who had his own band, Rainbow Melody Boys, for three years, is now at Sarasota, Fla., with King's Melody Kings and he reports that the band is going over big there. The members are Eddie Gaudet, sax, and violin, formerly of the Rainbow Melody Boys, Ernie King, pianist, who played at Sarasota all season with Evan's Band, deciding to stay in Florida; Hurrell Burt, trombone, formerly trombonist at Sydney, N. S.; Joe Murphy, drummer; Rufus Lide, banjoist, of Waycross, Ga., and Jack Taylor, manager, also a member of the Rainbow Melody Boys.

Alvin Roehr's Music Makers, well known to thousands of radio listeners throuth the country by their playing over Station WLW, Cincinnati, last season, recently opened their second season at the Lookout House, located on the Dixie Highway just outside of Covington, Ky. Roehr and his Music Makers are going big, as can be evidenced by the large patronage they are drawing. Members are: Alvin Roehr, manager-director, violin; Russell Smith, saxophone; N. B. Van, saxophone; Chas. Gatwood, banjo; Art Mees, piano; Fred Goodman, trumpet; Louis Ciccone, trumpet; Ervin Ott, trombone; William Theiss, drums; Morris Magill, tuba and string bass.

Home July 12. Of course good old "Forte" will see that everything is O. K.

The Four Julians with their trampoline act are scoring well in the country after a continental tour. The comedy man is one of the best of his line and puts the act away from the usual type of the business. By the way, the Flying Pottery are doing exceptionally good work at the Wembley Circus, but the Stadium is too vast to allow for the greater class of work to be properly appreciated.

George French made a reappearance in vaude, at the Metropolitan with two numbers, What Will the Wife Say and The Working Man Pays. The latter is rather satirical, but that point seems to be overlooked by the "working men", and the applause is loud and sustained. French doesn't seem to worry about work much, he's too interested in his chickens. It's a pity, because French is a good type comedian and has good material of the "hen-peck" type.

George D'Albert, who earned fame and money with Shall I Be an Angel, Daddy, and Truth or a Lie, is getting away with a "Sally" number on the Moss tour. Unfortunately, there seems a tendency to make little use of this class of "popular" act nowadays. The fact that George always goes well doesn't seem to make any difference with the "time-sheet" men.

John Warr, who used to be editor of The Performer and now on The Sunday People and other papers, has just had to have the middle finger of his left hand amputated. John is a fine librettist.

Week Ending on Long Island at Brentwood and Lake Ronkonkoma

Seeking a week-end vacation away from the Fourth of July crowds, we entered for our former summer home, Brentwood, the village in the Pines, where Al Swenson, of dramatic stock fame and fortune, is establishing an actor colony. Brentwood-in-the-Pines is 42 miles out on the main line of the Long Island Railroad, single fare $1.58, and a well-known health resort. There are three hotels in the village: Arborly Inn, adjacent to the Brentwood Club and golf links; Ehrler's Hotel, in the heart of the village, and Fred Doering's Brentwood Hotel on Brentwood road, leading to Bay Shore. Hotel accommodations can be had at $4 a day up, including meals as there are no lunch rooms or restaurants in the village. There is a cement road leading to Bay Shore and Bright Waters, four miles distant, where salt-water boating, bathing and fishing is to be found in bay and ocean. There is a good motor road and main-line railroad to Lake Ronkonkoma, eight miles distant, where fresh water bathing, boating and fishing is to be found at the lake. Lake Ronkonkoma, 50 miles out, single fare $1.85, is another well-wooded health resort that has come to the front during the past two years as a summer resort. There are 10 of more hotels, boarding and rooming houses, including numerous restaurants and refreshment stands. Rates run from $4 a day up, $25 a week up, according to convenience and comforts of hotels, boarding and rooming houses. We spent the greater part of Sunday at Raynor's Lakeside Beach, a 15-acre tract of land on the edge of the lake, where George C. Raynor, a former college professor, seeking renewed health, has established a summer resort for his two sons, Newton and George Rowley Raynor, two classy young juveniles, whose congenial companionship has done much to make Raynor's Lakeside Beach, a popular resort for families which motor there every Sunday during the summer. For the black bass and perch fishermen there are canoes, row boats, with bait and tackle.

Stage Employees & Projectionists

By ROY CHARTIER

The 32d anniversary of the organization is at hand. On the 11th of this month, 32 years ago, the first convention of the Alliance was held in Elks' Hall, New York, and the result of the meeting was the nucleus of the present I. A. The 11 local unions and their delegates were: New York, represented by Philip Kelly and John G. Williams; Chicago, Lee M. Hart and George W. Glenny; Pittsburgh, John Gallagher; Boston, W. J. Morehead and P. Barry; Brooklyn, Henry M. Harvey and James E. Walker; Philadelphia, Thomas Murry and Percy Farron; Denver, F. H. DePuy and J. H. McCarron; Buffalo, James Gillespie; Syracuse, Frank E. Norton; St. Louis, Alexander Franzmuller; Cincinnati, Edward Kelly.

In the afternoon nomination and election of officers took place and after three ballots were cast, the final one of the three being a roll-call vote, Brother John G. Williams, of New York, was elected first president of the Alliance. He just topped Brother John Gallagher who polled seven votes. The first two ballots, incidentally, were declared void. Other officers elected were Thomas Murry, vice-president; John Gallagher, recording secretary; W. J. Morehead, financial secretary; Lee M. Hart, treasurer; James Gillespie, Percy Farron and Alexander Franzmuller, trustees.

These were the men who guided the I. A. thru the early troublesome days. And the career of the organization was no smooth one in those days. The proceedings of the first convention, it is interesting to note, were partly taken up with the controversy that existed in Cincinnati. By a motion it was ordered that the Alliance give all possible aid to this particular grievance until the local's demands were met, and that no other grievance be taken up until that one be conceded.

Source of revenue was a per capita tax charge of 20 cents per member, payable quarterly, and a charter fee was $25. The cost of printing the proceedings and by-laws was taken care of by assessing each local union $2.75. The "International" end of it came as a result of the Canadian situation. The members of the above-mentioned locals realized that owing to the peculiar nature of the theatrical business no great progress could be made unless the organization worked on a national basis. Therefore it was ordered that the Alliance take up the matter of carpenters and scenery being imported from Canada. After an address by a Mr. Spels of the Actor's Order of Friendship a committee of three was formed, and within a few years its activities brought about the organization of a local union at Montreal. That was the first Canadian charter issued and the classification of the Alliance to an international one.

Nearly a third of a century ago the only real source of employment was the legitimate stage. Vaudeville was in its music hall and cafe stage. Now vaudeville and motion pictures are probably employing more men than any other type of house.

The General Executive Board has closed its business at the New York headquarters and those of the nine who live out of town departed last week. Altho scheduled to meet twice a year, about every six months, the Board will convene again as a body in October, when they gather in Atlantic City for the A. F. of M. annual convention.

New England District will hold its annual outing this year August 2 at Newport, R. I. The District has more than 300 members and is fortunate in having the majority of its houses and membership within a few hours' ride. The theaters in Maine, New Hampshire

MAGIC AND MAGICIANS

(Communications to 1560 Broadway, New York, N. Y.)

S. A. M. Chicago Dinner Is Biggest Event Held

The greatest turnout in the history of the Chicago Assembly of the Society of American Magicians attended its greatest event on the evening of June 30 when the get-together dinner in honor of Dr. A. M. Wilson was held in the Hamilton Club. More than 250 ladies and gentlemen were present, including a number who traveled several hundred miles especially for the occasion. Special souvenirs were given to all guests, being various items in the shape of a sphinx, in honor of Dr. Wilson's publication.

Every magic dealer in Chicago was present. The show included a list of talent from the road and of local entertainers which represented the blue book of Magic. Among those who made special trips to attend were the Great Manuel, from Los Angeles; Silent Morra, from Pittsburgh; T. Nelson Downs, from Marshalltown, Ia.; Mysterious Smith and Madame Olga, from Cedar Rapids, Ia.; "Doc" Brumfield, Indianapolis; the Great Lester, Rhineland, Wis.; Frank Ducrot, New York; Ada Duval, who came in from his lyceum date at Ripon, Wis., to be master of ceremonies; Jimmy Kater, from everywhere; Michael Zens, of Kenosha; Ben R. Bradley, St. Louis, and Frank Van Hoven, stopping en route east.

Among the oldtimers, who dispensed themselves in a manner which put to shame most of those in their early 20s present, were Prof. Silver, Radick, Neal and Caesar. There was also a frisky youngster who was "gallivanting round" all over the place called "Doc" Wilson—just passed his 72d birthday, and the lad is going to be heard from in Magic one of these days.

"Laurels for Inventors"

The crowning glory has been achieved by the Magic Department of The Billboard. It has finally inspired some one to write poetry. Regardless of what kind of poetry it is, it still remains poetry. Harry Opel is the inspired one, and he writes that what especially caused his effusion was La Follette's letter regarding inventors of magic illusions.

The title given above is Opel's name for his outburst. Hold on to your seats and read:

Just been reading in The Billboard Magic items up to date,
Of mentalists and mystery men,
Who to their names have prefixed "Great."
Not to mention that vast army
Scattered thru this "Great" Domain,
Who by masterful illusion
Hope some day to corner fame.

Now we have our friendly arguments
Each week on our magic page,
With the views of various readers
As to the "Greatest" of this age.
But a letter written lately
By the man named La Follette
Contained a thought worth noting,
But missed by many, I regret.

We watch with awe some wizard work
With clever illusion, neat and clean.
We give him praise and credit
And style his act "a magic dream".
But no one stops to realize
As the house with plaudits rings,
While the illusionist gets full credit,
All he does is pull the strings.

I think for each illusion
Inventors should receive just due.
His name on programs should appear,
If not in type of brilliant hue,
So to the man who used his brains
For mystery problems old or new,
The Magic World owes you a debt
And our hats are off to you.

Mysterious Smith Opens New Season August 16

Mysterious Smith will open the new season at Ft. Dodge, Ia., August 16 and will start a tour toward the East. Smith's mechanics are now busy getting the show ready. Smith, who is now at his home in Cedar Rapids, Ia., visited New York recently, this being his first trip to that city in 20 years. While in town he invested several thousand dollars in new sensational effects and illusions for his show.

Henry Has New Opening

S. S. Henry, the magician, who is now playing chautauqua in the Midwest, has put an entire new opening to his show. The new illusions include some exceptionally good fountain effects.

Poor Business in Small Towns Caused by Exposés

Madole Agrees With Opel, But Adds Unethical Methods of "Would-Be" Magis as Chief Cause

Madole the Magician adds another angle to the various causes written by magicians as to the falling off of business in the small towns. Madole, who writes from Danville, Ark., is of the same opinion as Harry Opel, who started the discussion, and evidently disagrees with Joseph Paffen, whose thoughts were published in these columns last week, altho Madole had no opportunity to find out what Paffen thought, since his letter reached us before the last issue of The Billboard made its appearance.

"In your department of June 27 issue," writes Madole, "you published a very ably prepared article titled 'Small-Town Business Not What It Used To Be' and I heartily agree with Harry Opel, as will many other magicians who are playing small towns, that this deplorable state of affairs is very undesirable, but one with which the small-town performer must contend and make the best of the situation.

"This unfavorable condition can be attributed to the various causes set out by Opel in his article, and in addition, in my opinion, the chief cause of the death knell being sounded to the little magic shows is the unethical practice of the multitude of 'would-be' magicians which has sprung up thruout the country during the last 10 years, in exposing the modus operandi of many of the most valuable effects of the profession.

"As the magician's entertainment is one of trickery and deception from the time he makes his opening remarks until the curtain is down on the last act, therefore the greater the deception the more successful the performance, and I sincerely believe that the magician should never be so unprofessional as to expose his tricks. Altho it is a well-known fact that the man who cannot be fooled is not yet born, many persons become disgusted when they find out how easily they have been fooled.

"Hence I believe that the only way for the small-town business to be raised to the plane on which it rested at one time is for the unprofessional practice of exposures to be stopped.

"Of course I know that there are a number of magicians who have different opinions about the matter and I concede that is one privilege they are entitled to enjoy in the United States—to think as they please—while at the same time many other performers who have played and are playing the small towns will sanction each and every statement I have made."

Frank Ducrot Ends Tour

Frank Ducrot, of the Hornmann Magic Company, New York, returned to his offices last week after an absence of almost a month, during which time he has been touring various cities in the East and Midwest, ending in Chicago with Dr. A. M. Wilson. Ducrot secured more than $1,000 of new business while on his tour. In Cincinnati he and Dr. Wilson visited the home of The Billboard, both the "Doc" and the "Duke" meeting with a welcome from Billyboy's home office staff.

Emerson and Co. Planning New Act for Next Season

Emerson and Company are now winding up a solid booking of two years over the Keith-Albee and Orpheum circuits with their magic and illusion offering and are now en route to the Coast. With their arrival there Emerson, "The Master Mystic," plans to have the entire show redecorated and put in a lot of new effects which will be made by the F. G. Thayer Company, of Los Angeles, which built the act now being done.

At the close of the coming season Emerson intends to go to Australia for a tour. The cast of his new act will include Margaret Hall, Helen Peck and Ernest Johnson, who are with him now. Johnson is doing the comedy in the act. Frank Donnelly, of the Norman Jeffries office, Philadelphia, Pa., is handling the act and seems to be in high favor with who is now touring the big-time vaudeville houses en route to the coast, where he will prepare a new act for next season.

Bob Emerson, who writes that he "has booked the act with such good results that we will have him for our New York representative for life, if such a thing is necessary. He is a live wire and a jolly good fellow."

Enoenis To Tour World

Enoenis, the European magician who has been in America for the past few years, is now preparing a big magic show with which he will tour the world. He intends to open in September and carry a company of 25 people. Enoenis has invented a number of illusions and will feature them in his show. Among them are two he calls Prohibition and Noe Unt Versal Delire. This department refuses to supply a translation of the latter. It will gladly accept one.

The Pulls in Chicago

Chicago, July 9.—Prof. Thomas Pull and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pull, magicians and illusionists, were Billboard callers this week. The organization has been touring the West and Northwest and closed the season June 25. The company will open again in September. Trucks and cars are used for transporting the show.

and is responsible for some revue successes. But John can't use a "phone"—he's never lost his broad Doric.

Billy Bennett, who has, like the rest, been playing in revue, is back playing his single turn. Billy comes of a good theatrical stock, or should it be vaude stock, as his parents are Bennett and Martell "oldtimers", the still young, and his sister is Kitty Emsen, a leading woman in Harry Day's shows.

Caryl Wilbur must be a disappointed man, as the Court of Appeal has decided against his decision over the Southern Railway. When in the courts below he was awarded $7,500 for an accident on their line by falling out of a train which had drawn up short at Guildford on a dark night. He used to tour a vaude act, 61 Prospect Street.

Haydyn Coffin, who used to be a shining light in musical comedy and also on the "Alls", broke back again into vaude, at the Chiswick Empire with Jack's the Boy for Work, T. B. D. and, of course, the inevitable encore, Queen of My Heart.

Ann Codee and Frankie Orth, as usual, carried off the laughing honors at Chiswick and are one of the Stoll offices' pet acts; and why not?

Janice Hart, of the team of Hart and O'Brien, has been in a nursing home following a severe operation, consequently her contract with Frank E. Frank's revue has been canceled and she will resume her vaude, date with Moss Empires August 3.

New Theaters

pictures. An electric ticket-selling machine has been installed in the glass-plated booth facing Third street. Fixtures alone represent an investment of more than $5,000, according to Manager D. P. Mikesell.

Razing of the fire-weakened walls of the Colonial Theater, Main and Arch street, Norristown, Pa., was started recently by Contractor Michael Alleva and a force of men prior to starting work on the new amusement house which will rise upon the site of the building ruined by a big fire April 29. The structure, Charles Tremonte, proprietor, stated, will cost about $40,000 and when completed will seat more than 600. It is expected to open the playhouse about September 15 with an auspicious program.

Harry W. Canterbury, formerly bandmaster for the 167th regiment band of Gadsden, Ala., and a well-known citizen of that city, has blossomed into a theater magnate since leaving there a few months ago. Mr. Canterbury, Robert L. Hudson and Grace Spannuth are the incorporators of the Trivoli Theaters Corporation, Indianapolis, Ind., which has purchased a large lot on the north side of that city for the purpose of erecting a $50,000 motion picture theater. The playhouse will have a seating capacity of 1,200 and will be modern in every respect.

Frank B. Smith and Joseph Leventry were the successful bidders on the new theater being erected by the Ideal Amusement Company in Conemaugh, Pa. Work on the showhouse was recently started and is to be completed by October 15. The plans and designs were made by Mr. Leventry. The structure will be two stories in front, with a billiard parlor on the second floor and a storeroom and lobby on the first floor. The lobby will be 20 by 20 feet and entirely in tile, with a ticket office in the center. The main floor of the auditorium will have rest rooms for both ladies and gentlemen. The seating capacity will be approximately 550. The theater will be managed by W. W. Wyke, present manager of the A-mus-U. Conemaugh, and State Theater, Twin Rocks.

J. M. Gillette, of the Gillette-Kerr Investment Company, recently announced that the Ritz Theater, Inc., Tulsa, Ok., will build a $500,000 theater in that city in connection with his new building now under construction at Fourth street and Boulder avenue. The playhouse, which will be one of the most splendid in the Southwest, will startle Tulsans with its unusual features. It will not be a part of the present structure except that its magnificent lobby will extend thru the Gillette Building on the Fourth street side. The playhouse will be a cinema palace de luxe and will be modeled somewhat after the famous New Capitol Theater in Chicago. Construction of the theater will begin about August 1 and the establishment is expected to be ready to open its doors about April 1, 1926.

CHAUTAQUA

Communications to 25-27 Opera Place, Cincinnati, O.)

Send in your news items and other bits. This column is yours. Address the Cincinnati office.

A public-spirited citizen of South Boston, Va. has promised to double the amount of the overside of the chautauqua there this season for some civic purpose.

It is safe to say that more than 75 per cent of the money spent by platform people on publicity is lost because they fail to study the question of publicity from the viewpoint of the buyer.

Charles I. Reid announces that General Giuseppe Garibaldi, grandson of the famous Italian liberator, will visit the United States for lecture appearances during the coming season.

The Redpath Chautauqua opened its Lexington, Ky., engagement Wednesday afternoon, July 8, with the College Singing Girls, presenting a varied program of solos and ensemble numbers in costume.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vierra have just returned from Honolulu with a new company of Hawaiians and are now playing over the White and Brown. Mr. Vierra spent most of his time collecting material for his new chautauqua program, but found time to have a pleasant visit with his mother and father.

Don't let the other fellow do your thinking for you in your publicity. If the printer or editor writes your copy it simply has to be like that of every other attraction. There will be a deadly sameness about it that will kill its effectiveness. The man does not live who can write the publicity for a hundred attractions and do them all well. He can arrange what you have written and get it ready for the printer, but you must furnish your own "gray matter".

The program for this year's chautauqua at Jacksonville, Fla., beginning August 21, practically has been completed and the directors feel that the talent secured outranks any previous program. Speakers include Congressman Richard Yates; Charles Cox, impersonator; Lorado Taft, sculptor; Senator Henry Fountain Ashurst; Mrs. Demarchur Brown, Everett Kemp and Charles Ficklin.

The musical part of the program is made up of Soli's Marimba Band, Thavi's Band, Metropolitan Novelty Orchestra, the Tamburizza Serenaders, the Zedler Symphonic Quintet, the Chicago Lyric Singers and Signor S. Bellino.

Those who belong to the older platform generation hold in their hearts a genuine love and veneration for Colonel George W. Bain. Advancing years have terminated his work, but the good he accomplished thru his many years on the platform still lives. There are few men in America who have done more to better the lives of young and old than Colonel Bain. In a letter to this department he says in part: "I have an incurable affliction for which the doctors do not seem to have any cure. It is called old age and has killed so many that I cannot hope to escape the Reaper's blade. I spend my week-ends in Lexington, Ky., where I have a room in my son's home, and other days at Nicholasville, where I bought a home to be with my granddaughter, who has carefully tended me since Mrs. Bain went around the bend in the road. I have a fine garden in which I spend much of my time and which furnishes in the season everything for our table except pepper and salt."

MINSTRELSY

Communications to 25-27 Opera Place, Cincinnati, O.)

Francis Shira, female impersonator, is at home in Akron, O., recovering from an operation for appendicitis. He expects to be back on the road in the fall.

Famous sayings by famous men. Homer Meachum is responsible for this one: "A Nigger singer will always be a Nigger singer. You can put any kind of makeup on them, but they always come back for the cork."

Edgar G. Bostwick, trombonist, who has trouped with many minstrels, was a recent visitor to this editor. Edgar has been off the road for the past three years, working in a theater, but has got the old foot itch for the 11:45 and will be back with 'em this season.

McIntyre and Heath will go into rehearsal August 18 for their new and last production, which will be directed by Dan Quinlan. The latter has had as long and honorable a career in the stage world as have McIntyre and Heath, and a lifelong friendship between the three is being culminated by this last production.

Harry ("Slipfoot") Clifton's latest letter is addressed to the "Desk Addict", meaning this editor. At that there are some advantages in being seated at a desk—one does not get one's back all blistered up by Old Sol. Someone please write and ask "Slipfoot" about Old Orchard Beach.

William De Robert reveals that George

Sarafino, of Neil O'Brien Minstrels, is very busy on his melody, Silver Lake Moonlight, which soon will be ready for print. Many of the boys will be surprised to learn that George now weighs 150 pounds or about Sherman Carr's avoirdupois. The reason for this is that he is taking a physical culture course by mail. He will probably join the Field Show this season.

Jimmy Cooper relates that the patrons at Atlantic City are very loyal to the minstrels, and they are received every night with big applause. Business is very good and the week that the Grotto had its convention at Atlantic City was very lively. Charley Boyden, Joe Hamilton and John Lenuels, who have been identified with the old Dumont Minstrels and Mr. Welch for many years, are great favorites there. Jimmy reports that altogether it is a very fine engagement, considering that "the world is round, but etc., etc."

Frank Long, feature balladist of Lasses White Minstrels, sends in a little cork talk to let some of those birds (meaning brother corksists) know that he is still living and that he would like to hear from them. Frank says that it looks like some of them get away and hide with no one ever hearing of them until the first of August. Frank is now manager, singer, drummer and champion swimmer of Alabama. He is managing the Alabama Theater, Dothan, which has just been finished, and he claims that it is a beauty. Frank has been down there since closing with Lasses at Zanesville March 25 and climbed up from 145 to 169 pounds, which will give the boys something to talk over in the rummy games this winter. Frank adds that maybe when the boys see how close he is to Florida they might run down and see him, and he opines they will be welcome.

An interesting letter from J. B. Estelle has been received telling about a recent visit he made to the N. V. A. Club, New York, in company with T. F. Thomas, who he adds was one of the greatest of our old-time comedians. He was a great favorite, with his partners, Heaney and George Watson, on the variety stage of 50 years ago, but is still as spry as they make them. J. B. met John Gorman, of the three Gorman Bros.—James, George and John, who were with the Haverly Mastodon Minstrels when he first saw them in 1879. They were splendid dog dancers. James was a great producer and director of dancing numbers. He also met A. D. Duncan, ventriloquist; Fred Melville of Selbit's Illusions, and last, but not least, the perennial Hi Tom Ward, as active apparently as when J. B. saw him last in 1878 on the John Murray Circus, where as the double somersault leaper Hi Tom used to knock them off the starbacks. Between T. F. Thomas and Hi Tom, J. B. spent a very enjoyable afternoon. The oldtimers mentioned are wonderful examples of how a man, tho up in years, may still keep young. Mr. Estelle continues: "I only wish you were with me during this convention of oldtimers, none younger than 60 allowed in the talk. Altho you are not in this class I might have got you a comp. on the strength of your dad being an old trouper. I had a letter from good old Johnnie Carroll, 'Brooklyn's Own'; also Clem C. Magee, who misses his 'Secretary' Billy Blackburn (Clem is blind—both men are guests at the National Elks' Home), as Billy is on a vacation in Detroit to have his wooden leg tuned up. Another letter was from Frank Collins, of Collins Bros., famous in minstrelsy 40 years ago. He has gone to Fairfield, Conn., for the summer."

Vol. XXXVII. JULY 18. No. 29

Editorial Comment

IN our issue of May 30 we published a letter from George A. Hough, managing editor of The Standard, evening and Sunday newspaper of New Bedford, Mass., accompanied by some editorial comment, on the subject of the general practice of newspapers of concealing the identity of circuses that figure in first-page news. Mr. Hough held that there is no more justification for suppressing the name of Ringling, Sparks, Sells-Floto, Robinson, Hagenbeck-Wallace, Miller Brothers' and other shows, which are substantial business enterprises, with large capital invested, than in concealing the identity of any business corporation brought into prominence in the news. "If any newspaper man," argued Mr. Hough, "sent a dispatch that a safe of a factory in his home town had been blown open, omitting the name of the concern, he would be suspected of impending paresis." And, as we pointed out at the time of publishing Mr. Hough's letter, there are thousands of lay people, not to mention the enormous number of showfolk themselves, who are interested in knowing just which show is concerned when front-page stuff about it breaks, and they are deprived of that information thru the practice of concealment. Mr. Hough also had published in The Fourth Estate a letter along the same lines as the one which he wrote us.

This agitation against the stupid handling of legitimate circus news, we are glad to note, has already borne fruit in the most important and desirable quarter—the Associated Press. In its dispatch concerning the accident on the Miller Bros.' 101 Ranch Wild West and Great Far East Shows at Brockton, Mass., the A. P. gave the story fair treatment by mentioning the name of the organization.

Quite in contrast to the Associated Press' treatment was the International News Service's dispatch about the railroad accident of the 101 Ranch at North Easton, Mass., sent out on the New England wires to papers in the immediate territory where Miller Brothers were exhibiting, and suppressing in the FAMILIAR but nevertheless wise words were uttered at the New Jersey exhibitors' convention the other day at Asbury Park by Frederick H. Elliott, who spoke for the first time as general manager of the Independent Motion Picture Association. He said: "In order to bring about and maintain an effective organization, however, internal dissensions, jealousies and disputes must be eliminated. You need not meet force with force, but what you do need is to meet with organized intelligence that organized intelligence which is opposing you. They (referring to the producer-theater owners) are thoroughly organized and know what they are after. So it is up to you to organize thoroughly and see that they do not get what they are after, which is your business and livelihood."

The independent producers and distributors and the theater men, as Mr. Elliott emphasized, must build a solid foundation if they hope to successfully block the encroachments of the "Big Three". This requires the purging of their State and national organizations of the petty differences which are constantly preventing harmonious action. The troublemakers must be silenced and in some instances official heads must be amputated. State associations which lag outside the M. P. T. O. A. and in-

NO HELP FOR THE REP. MAN
UNLESS HE HELPS HIMSELF

ONLY about half a dozen repertoire and tent managers have responded to the recent announcement of the Actors' Equity Association that it was prepared to organize these small showmen and look after their interests provided they showed a willingness to have this done.

Whether it is due to carelessness, laziness or intentional indifference, the fact remains that this apathy is typical of the unco-operative spirit that has left the small showmen open to the many oppressions and abuses that now threaten the future of their business.

There is no help for a man who won't help himself, and there certainly won't be any help for the repertoire and tent people who let the present opportunity go by.

Instead of the half dozen expressions of approval that were received, there should have been about 200 small showmen glad to jump at the chance to have their interests protected and advanced. But no such action took place.

Of course, every man is his own boss. He can do as he likes—which is what a great many of the traveling showmen are doing with not very happy results. But there is one little piece of admonition that they might consider carefully, and that is stay out and do as you have been doing in the past if you want to, but if you choose that course don't ever come around howling that so-and-so is doing this to you and such-and-such has done that.

If you want to be helped—now and in the future—you must first help yourself.

same old way the name of the organization. The A. P. papers in that territory carried full dispatches with the name of the show given.

COINCIDENT with the announcement by Lee Shubert in London to the effect that his firm intends to produce English and continental plays in its newly acquired London theaters for the purpose of testing the pieces before bringing them over here, comes the report that The Guardsman, a continental play that was presented with considerable success by The Theater Guild in New York last season, has been badly received in London.

This gives rise to the question of whether it is possible to judge the American drawing power of a play by its effect on an English audience—or on any foreign audience. There are many instances to prove that the thing is not possible, and unless the Shuberts are able to have their prospective importations that are to be first tried out in London appraised by a capable judge who can look at the play in such a manner as to detach it from its foreign audience and atmosphere, and mentally picture it as it would look before an American audience, the system is not likely to work out very advantageously.

dependent producers and distributors who likewise shun membership in the I. M. P. A. must be brought together in a cohesive, unflinching organization. That alone is the way of starting the fight intelligently. The independents may talk about their Bureau of Trade and Commerce and the Play-Date Bureau, but until both projects have genuine, organized backing, they won't amount to much.

The battle for independence carries a test for the producers and which must be passed if any great degree of success is to be gained. Mr. Elliott, in his address, summarizes this in listing the aims of his organization when he points out the need of "better pictures, so that those theaters which support our members will have an equal chance with the 'million-dollar' ballyhoo subjects of opposition."

If the independents expect to provide real competition for the "Big Three" they certainly must produce films of equal if not better quality, at least for the patrons of the better-class houses. Up to the present time but a comparatively small percentage of the products of the little film makers are seen in the larger theaters because they frankly lack the necessary merit. These same producers have their pictures playing in many of the neighborhood and rural houses and pulling in satisfactory business. But the independents must not make their films solely for one or two classes of moviegoers. They must expand and elaborate their production schedules so as to bring out honestly "better pictures".

Briefly, then, the independents, both exhibitors and producers, have two major tasks confronting them. The exhibitors, in the interests of self-preservation, must solidify their ranks and the producers must place on the market films which permit both themselves and the theaters which play them to bring the fight onto the opposition's own chosen ground.

A CHICAGO man of a philanthropic turn has a Players' Hospital and

Home in his mind, and he thinks it can be worked out along somewhat different lines than is customary in planning such institutions. First, he wants the institution located in Cook County owing to its central geographical location. In the event of such an institution being built he suggests that inmates—he prefers the word guests—be allowed to take any engagements offered them if they wish, either in Chicago or on the road, and return to the Home at their will. This man is a retired business man who has made a success of his own line of endeavor. He is not ready to have his name used or to outline his proposition in detail. He intimated, however, that if he concludes his idea is practicable he will solicit the co-operation of wealthy friends toward building an institution that will be a marvel. The hospital and the home will be separated but on the same tract of ground. The equipment will be everything that intellectual minds could desire for their comfort and pleasure.

This man thinks the actors have contributed so much to the intellectual life of the country that an imposing place should be fitted up for them to use and enjoy when they need it. He said such a place should be free of debt, fully endowed and accept no aid except thru voluntary contributions, as in the case of universities. He thinks the matter is so big and important that he is willing to do a lot of figuring on it and try to work out something detailed and comprehensive. He has promised to give his plans to The Billboard for publication when he has them in workable shape.

The Louisville Times says: "Credit the newspapers with this: 'Not one of 'em ever defented an unclean news article by saying 'It is art.'"

The Scenic Theater, New Britain, Conn., is being renovated, and when completed the playhouse will be a credit to the city. The front of the structure is being redecorated and improvements are being made to the interior. The large organ is being overhauled and other changes are being made. During the alterations the performances are going on as usual. Manager Peter Perakon promises to give the best obtainable in moving pictures and some big attractions have been booked for early showing.

Berlin News Letter

By O. M. SEIBT

BERLIN, June 28.—The Wintergarten has the following bill booked for July: Jenny Golder, O'Hanlon and Zamboni, Schichtl's Marionets, Rose, Honey and Morrison, Sayton and Partner, Mueller Shadow Quartet, Salvator Krems Troupe, Paul Sheldon, Chandon Trio, Wallaston Troupe. The house will next summer undergo important renovations.

The I. A. L. seems determined to proceed with its employment agency scheme outlined many months ago and meanwhile declined by the managers. The loge has decided not to wait until in December, 1930, when all German vaudeville agencies must disappear by order of the law, but has resolved to start its own booking agency now. An advertisement in the current number of Das Programm calls for applicants to organize and work up a co-operative agency, at the same time calling again upon the managers to participate and jointly control the new scheme, which in the opinion of the loge has become an imperative necessity. The Agents' Association has also been invited to form a huge combine of all the existing agencies under the leadership of both the I. A. L. and the Managers' Union, but after several meetings has declined to participate. The authorities on their part are seemingly not disinterested, judging from the repeated investigations of local agencies and their hooks during the past few months. One of the largest firms of international repute came out very badly when the inspectors made the discovery that no books have been kept at all, totally against the rules of the licensing forces, and the agency in question is reported to have had its license revoked.

There were two had accidents at the Ulap amusement park this week, one of them fatal. Herman Liepelt fell from the high wire thru the net and was killed instantly. Cliff Aeros, high diver from a 28-meter high platform, missed the landing point and fell off the track, suffering internal injuries.

This year the Wagner festival plays in Bayreuth will begin July 22 and end August 20. Parsifal, Meistersinger and the Ring will be performed under Siegfried Wagner's and Dr. Karl Muck's conductorship. Many artists from the Berlin State Opera will take part in the festival. Lauris Melchior, Danish tenor, will impersonate Parsifal and Siegfried.

Ameliese von Dessau is the record play of the past season, still running and going strong with Marcella Roeseler, back from New York, in the title role.

Frederick Wynne-Jones, New York director of Ufa films, has arrived here. Before departing from America he closed a contract with the Shuberts according to which Siegfried, the first of the two films in Ufa's Nibelungen production will be road shown in 29 of the principal American cities at leading Shubert theaters, beginning August 23. The New York release will take place at the New Century Theater. Hugo Riesenfeld has arranged the accompanying music from Wagnerian motives, this being the first film to be produced at the New Century.

The Russian State circuses which are subsidized by the Soviet Government lost $150,000 last year. This is partly due to the lack of system. Three complete German circuses, Blumenfeld, Strassburger and Adoff, were engaged from Germany, with transportation paid from Hamburg or Bremen. This lack of system seems also to apply to vaudeville acts, judging from a letter just received by the writer from Leningrad saying that it took them four days to move the luggage to the theater from the station.

paper hangers, etc. The United Scenic Artists feel that they, as a specialized subsidiary of the parent organization, should have control of that part of the Western group including strictly designers and painters of scenery, as they have jurisdiction in the Eastern motion picture field. The Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators has signified its willingness to go thru with the more detailed organization and the Scenic Artists' Committee of the S. S. and P. Local 831, Los Angeles, Calif., has agreed to cooperate with the United Scenic Artists' Association in the work of putting the matter thru. Lessing will discuss the situation with the executive board in Lafayette and it is hoped that arrangements for financing the undertaking may be arrived at. On the way out the president of the U. S. A. A. will stop off at Cleveland and go before a specially called meeting of the members of his organization located in and around that city, who seldom have an opportunity to sit in on the business of the union which has its headquarters in New York.

BERT COLVIN, Write at Once.
IRVING ROUSE, 6215 Drexel Avenue, Chicago.

THE Richard Pitrot, "The Great and Only", has been the subject of many stories, comparatively little of his actual personality ever has been conveyed to the public. This is because he is extremely averse to personal mention. Two or three editors have at different times intimated that if I would write my famous friend's biography they would let their office boys read it when they got leisure. I yield at last to this frenzied public demand. (Which I believe is the correct sentence with which to start any memoir.)

As I glance back over our more than a half century's friendship so many anecdotes spring to my memory that it is hard to know which to relate. The fact is that I am determined there shall be nothing but the truth in this literary work of mine. No, I might romance, but I will not do anything of the kind. I'll go on telling the truth in my simple, straightforward way if it kills me.

I recall that I first made the acquaintance of Pitrot at the old Cafe Boulevard on second avenue, New York. It's more than 50 years ago and much water has flowed under the Brooklyn Bridge, since some of "the boys" were always to be found there at suppertime. Besides the "press gang" some performers used to dine there, and now and then some well-known painters and musicians. It is strange that my recollections of that first meeting with Pitrot should be so vivid, but I suppose his personality from the first was very attractive to me. The hour was late, the theaters were out. In the little backroom by the light of a flaming gas jet sat several men. Among them were the late Imro Fox, the magician par excellence, and Pitrot. To see the latter indeed was to be fond of him. His kind and companionable manner full of animation, the quick flashes of humor and the expression of pleasure or annoyance so quickly read in his face. He asked me to sit down beside him and in a few minutes the ice was broken. Soon he was talking to me as tho he had known me all his life.

The Richard Pitrot at this period was a stout man, small of stature, in a noisy silk vest and several bushels of dark brown hair, the very image of William Jennings Bryan. In appearance he is now as gray and bald as the latter. (It may be that some slight changes have since also taken place in my makeup.)

Unusual Personality

THERE always was, and still is, something about the personality of my fat friend that makes a hit with all the people who come in close contact with him. Seeing him in a theater or on a trolley car is very, very different from seeing him at home. Atmosphere is everything.

"You must visit me," he said one day to me. "I will not take no for an answer."

I went. He won't admit company except at mealtime, hospitable soul! And how he loves to enter into the true spirit of the festive, to fuss around and to watch his spouse boil cabbage and goulashes and stews of breath-taking strength! Mrs. Pitrot's dinners are a surprise to the guest who is there for the first time. (As this isn't an article for The Ladies' Home Journal I cannot go into detail about how she "does things", but I've seen at their fashionable East Side home many experienced housekeepers wince with envy.)

But I will not dwell too heavily upon food, altho, believe me, dwelling upon food is one of the things Pitrot likes best to do. There were live or more parrots at the great impresario's flat. Each one of these birds had acquired that peculiar style of eloquence best suited to his disposition and temperament. One of the clever pets, on my entrance, surprised me by ejaculating: "Raus mit him." Quite ungrammatical for the bird of typical New Yorkers, Pitrot hailing from Vienna and his wife being a native of Berlin. But to return to the former's biography and to begin at the beginning. Pitrot, as I just mentioned, was born in Vienna (Austria) July—but hold on, I remember he doesn't care to have the date made public, preferring to keep people guessing. He was born in the usual manner and at the usual personal inconvenience to his parents, and was for a considerable period thereafter the alternate object of their quite unwarranted enthusiasm or annoyance. From the start he showed evidences of genius and both parents didn't mind admitting they had done a good job. Even at his birth it was made obvious to them that he was destined to be no ordinary child, for he came into the world with a cranium so abnormally large that to this day he takes a size in hats that would put most men in the shade and has driven many a hatter's assistant to distraction.

I know that my biographical remarks on his childhood are disappointing for the reason that I have to leave the reader in the dark as to whether in the olden days he parted his hair on the left or the right side and how many bites he made per apple. However, I am sorry to say that the subject of this biography always has a very indistinct recollection of his early childhood days; he only remembers that he had a longing to chew everything within reach, more especially lucifer matches and kid gloves. He wasn't born with a silver spoon in his mouth and was reared in a suburb of Vienna, where patched pants were no disgrace. In early life, when running like an unbroken colt about the neighborhood, he used to tease the cat and used to put snuff on the stove and indulged in all other of the amenities by which boys sweeten existence for their elders.

His Start in Show Business

WHEN he was quite young he was trained by his father, who was the balletmaster at the Imperial Opera House, the parental desire being that the boy should enter his profession. But his father's early death upset all calculations. "Pop" had been a good liver and, altho receiving the princely salary of $3 per month, had omitted to lay something by for a rainy day, so when the end came the Pitrots were left penniless. But they did not lose heart.

Young Richard, being one of the four children who had to subsist on the meager earnings of their mother, got together a small company of juvenile actors who, under his direction, gave performances of well-known operettas in public halls. This proved such a success that he was requested to repeat the performance at the palaces of the highest nobility, when one of the most popular duchesses patted him on the head and called him an infant prodigy. That was enough for little Pitrot. From then on the stage question was settled, for to act with anyone, anywhere, was his great ambition. So his mother, seeing that the ballet idea did not appeal to her firstborn, reluctantly allowed the youth to have his own way.

His start along that line was not accompanied by all the pyrotechnics of a flashing meteor. For months, after he had left school, he besieged the managers' offices in vain. His first appearance as an actor was at a theater in a small Austrian town about the population of Central Park. From there he started his extremely varied European career, over which I shall pass as briefly as possible.

Here are a few of the positions that he held down before fortune smiled on him. Besides a budding actor he was a stage manager with a wandering tent show, a comic singer, a step dancer and a speller after he grew to speller size. Thus he had tried his hand at many jobs and had acquired the kind of college education that you get by taking the full course at the University of Hard Knocks.

In the '70s, during the Turkish-Russian War, to round the sphere of his versatility, he started his own vaudeville show and traveled along with the Russian troops. His work and personality caught the eye of General Skobelev, and the fact that he was under the famous warrior's protection started him, no, dragged him, into success. Besides Pitrot, with his artistic aspirations, combined keen business qualities and was one of the first Viennese performers to drop his prejudice and go in for money-making.

After several years of this nomadic career he felt he was destined for bigger things. London was the beacon that attracted him. So he went to the British metropolis and made an instant hit at the leading music halls. Then he turned his eyes toward New York, the large village on the Hudson, where the principal industries carried on were "Ye Varieties" and the confidence trick. There, he was sure, fame and fortune awaited him. He complained of the food all the way over and was always threatening to go ashore unless there was a change.

I did not make his acquaintance when he landed at Kersel Garden, nor for a few months after, but heard much about him thru our fellow artists and the daily papers. While I think of it, let me record at this place that he made his first American appearance at Tony Pastor's—that historic variety house on 14th street—and thereupon he joined the late Reilly, once Wood, show. He had been in half the towns in the United States before he could pronounce the names of them correctly.

After several years of international vaudeville the popular mimic resolved to take his own show, the American Globe Trotters (consisting of a mammoth tent and 36 star attractions), around the world, especially the warm spots, and it took South Africa, China, Japan, India and Australia to satisfy his thirst for knowledge.

While in Japan, by the way, he conceived the idea of the once famous "midget city" which he created in Dreamland (on Coney Island) a few years later. During his trip around the world Pitrot had to contend against as adverse fortune as anyone in the show business has ever gone thru. It was a period of discouragement all the way thru, but no day was so blue as to knock the fun out of our old friend, as is evidenced by the humorous letters he sent me about this time.

After his return to the States he had to renew the hand-to-hand battle of life and finally settled down in New York, having become obsessed of the idea that it was his mission in life to introduce to the American public the greatest European headliners, which was a great innovation at the time. He had some letterheads printed, bought a desk, paid a week's rent in advance and had his name painted on the door of a little room on 14th street near Second avenue. Back in those ancient times, before "Doc" Slemier discovered the St. James Building, the rooming houses around Union Square (or rather the square as we called it) were the inexpensive refuge of artists who lived there because they couldn't afford to live anywhere else, and the fraternity used to meet in Joe Schmidt's Cafe and talk "shop" till put out.

Pitrot began to demonstrate to the New York agents that having been a performer did not interfere with his working 10 or 12 hours a day and that if they desired to compete with him on anything like even terms they had to get up early in the morning. We all know that acts are a good deal like the peeps that fellows sell on street corners, they don't always turn out as represented. But Pitrot's big point was that his word was his word. This has been the main axiom of his business career. His yea means yea, his nay means nay.

Thus he was instrumental in bringing to this country some of the greatest acts from Europe, and he is still at it, altho for a long time he's had it in mind to retire. But it has never got beyond his mind. Anyone earnestly wishing to locate him at any season of the year can safely assume that he is either lolling in Suite B of an ocean liner bound for Europe or Asia or is laboring his one-lunged typewriter. This machine is a real curiosity, 45 years old, and has traveled thru every country on the globe with its owner, in a case resembling a child's coffin. At this writing Pitrot is still in the business and apparently intends to stay in it until the end of his natural life. What he's going to do during his unnatural life he has not quite made up his mind.

His system of living is unique and consists of alternately working and sleeping from 40 to 60 hours in a stretch. He is a standing denial of all the rules of hygiene. His dinner contains more food than half a dozen men should eat, and of a flagrantly indigestible sort. He also never took any exercise voluntarily in his life and hopes that he never will. And now, having thrown all these hitherto details off my chest, I will conclude by stating that Pitrot has the most charming, lovable personality of any man I ever knew, and tho some of his "downs" must have been trying to experience, in reminiscing he distributes his cheery philosophy impartially and you realize that he is a man who knows that there are tears in the world but who has figured out that laughter is the best policy.

And that's why it's so good to meet him!

More Torrid Weather Hits Rialto Theaters

"Don Q", Apparently Unhindered, Continues Doing Heavy Business--State Plays First-Run Film

New York, July 11.—Another spell of torrid weather hit Broadway this week and left its depression on the film house-box offices. Don Q, the Douglas Fairbanks opus at the Globe, seemed unhindered by the climatic conditions and was reported to be doing heavy business as in the previous weeks. This picture is due to close Saturday, August 8.

Sally of the Sawdust, D. W. Griffith's last picture for United Artists before joining Paramount, has been booked into the Strand for the week of August 2. The Gold Rush will follow shortly afterwards.

Loew's State Theater broke into the first-run column for a change with Wild Justice, starring Peter the Great, canine star, and released by United Artists. The last time the house played a first-run movie was several months ago, when Jackie Coogan's The Rag Man was the attraction.

The newest contribution to the Times Square film district, the Embassy, is scheduled to open about August 15 with Metro-Goldwyn's Merry Widow, featuring Mae Murray and made by Von Stroheim. This house is located in the same building with The Billboard office, at the corner of Broadway and 46th street.

Cooler weather last week helped matters at the Rialto box offices. In the feature field Don Q registered strongly, altho not as heavily as the preceding week, and The Beggar on Horseback, at the Criterion, continued to pull weakly. At the Rialto Grounds for Divorce had a fair take and Paths to Paradise, the attraction at the Rivoli, established a summer high figure. The entire program arranged by Hugo Riesenfeld was characterized by many people, including reviewers, as one of the best ever seen along Broadway. Kavalina of the Ice Lands went fairly well at the Strand and at the Piccadilly The Mad Whirl did not make much of a hit with the box office. Normal business was brought into the Colony by Passionate Youth. The Capitol was playing The Boomerang, a picture which obviously was not up to the house's standard, business, nevertheless, being good. The Awful Truth pulled fairly strong at the little Cameo.

N. Y. Greater Movie Season To Be Exploited With $50,000

New York, July 11.—A total of $50,000 is to be expended in exploiting New York's Greater Movie Season which begins August 2. Marcus Loew has been elected chairman of the executive committee and Joseph Plunkett and Charles O'Reilly as his principal aids. Wells Hawks, widely-known publicist, has been named general manager in charge of local activities.

One of the efforts planned during the campaign is to show development of motion pictures since their inception 29 years ago. Practically all houses will participate in the drive for attendance and are planning celebrations of their own. Contests of various natures, with suitable prizes, will be held and a mammoth parade will also be a feature. About the middle of this month billboards, newspapers and other publications will begin calling attention to the campaign.

Four hundred theaters throughout Michigan are embraced in the drive that H. M. Richey, general manager of the M. P. T. O. of Michigan, is conducting. In New Jersey the Pabian Circuit is lending its support to the campaign. Activities at Atlantic City are in charge of Edward J. O'Keefe. At Syracuse the program is to be carried out under the direction of the following: general manager, Walter McDowell; Strand Theater; treasurer, Dave Harrison; Empire Theater; publicity and advertising, Cliff Lewis; Strand, and Mitchell Fitzer, Rivoli.

The Orpheum Theater, Scott-bluff, Neb., and its five allied houses will pool resources for the drive, according to a communication from John C. Ingram of the Orpheum. Jake Wells and Harry Bernstein of Richmond, Va., are enlisting newspapers and various civic community clubs to carry the movement successfully thru the State. C. S. Jensen, who has been selected as general manager of the Portland, Ore., season, is co-operating with J. Von Herberg, who is conducting the Seattle drive. One of the events planned by the film men of both cities is a movie ball, which will be attended by a number of screen stars.

Protest Postal Increase Bill Now in Temporary Operation

New York, July 11.—A campaign is in progress under the direction of President R. F. Woodhull of the M. P. T. O. A. to bring about a discontinuance of the postal increase bill now in temporary operation. Woodhull has written to Senator George H. Moses, chairman of a special committee designated to consider the measure, urging that the bill be disapproved. The findings of the committee will be presented in Congress when it convenes next December and the bill will be made permanent, altered or rejected entirely. Woodhull has also communicated with exhibitors throughout the country, recommending that they write their objections to the senators and congressmen from their districts.

The letter to Senator Moses requests an opportunity for the M. P. T. O. A. to state its case. In part it reads as follows:

"Ninety per cent of the theater owners of the country are exhibitors in neighborhood sections of the larger cities or are situated in the smaller towns throughout the land, and a great many of them at a considerable distance from the film exchange center that serves them with the film to operate their theaters. They use the parcel post in the delivery and collection of films, and as they bear the mailing costs you will of necessity see the hardship that is worked on them by the increase in such postal rates.

"Congress in the past has acknowledged the importance of theater owners as an integral part of their community and recognized that the public service rendered by them far surpassed any advantage that would accrue to our Government, itself the greatest service institution in the world, by way of taxes.

"In this regard we respectfully refer you to the Hon. Harry S. New, Postmaster General of the United States, who is conversant with the great service rendered by the motion picture theater owners to the Post Office Department of our country. In modest way we quote the Hon. W. Irving Glover, third assistant Postmaster General of the United States, from an address he delivered as the direct representative of Postmaster General New on the occasion of our Sixth Annual Convention at Milwaukee last May when he stated that no other unit of business enterprise has given to the post-office service of the United States as has the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America.

Meyer and Schneider Acquire 14 Film Theaters in N. Y.

Universal Nearly Barred From B'dway Showings

With New Bookings Made by Piccadilly and Strand, Situation Does Not Look Very Promising

New York, July 11.—Recent booking developments in Broadway theaters apparently leaves Universal "out in the cold" as far as securing many first-run showings for its product. Up to a few weeks ago its pictures were frequently displayed at the Piccadilly, but now that house is barred to them because of its contracting for the entire Warner Brothers output for the coming season. The action of Lee Ochs, managing director of the Piccadilly, in booking Warner films exclusively was due to the fact that Universal switched two of its biggest successes, I'll Show You the Town and Siege into the Strand and Capitol, respectively, after his house had repeatedly played Universal productions. At the Piccadilly it was stated this week that positively no Universal products will be booked.

Universal's chances of putting its pictures into Rialto first-run houses were further diminished this week by the announcement that the Colony, E. S. Moss house, has contracted for 26 products of the Producers' Distributing Corporation, beginning next September. This theater has been playing a good many of the P. D. C. films since its opening early last winter.

Just how Universal will maneuver around the first-run situation is a subject receiving considerable speculation. With the signing of new contracts by the Colony and Piccadilly every big Broadway house is tied up more or less solidly with some other producer. It looks as if Universal's only chances of arranging first-run showings lies with the Capitol and Strand theaters. Especially during the cooler seasons the producer will undoubtedly have a difficult time putting its pictures into these houses unless they are out of the ordinary in quality, as the former theater devotes practically all of its schedule to Metro-Goldwyn products and the latter to First National pictures. It is possible, however, that Universal productions can be squeezed into the Colony's programs.

Penalizing American Pictures No Antidote for Great Britain

London, England, July 7.—The British film industry cannot be saved by penalizing foreign products, including American films, according to an editorial in the June 25 issue of The Bioscope, film paper published at London. The publication prints: "As we said a fortnight ago, 'we do not believe that British films must necessarily be so second rate that they cannot be expected to succeed by sheer force.'"

An attack is made on the Federation of British Industries in which it is charged that "the Federation is undertaking its self-imposed task of reorganizing the film business with no sort of mandate from the trade nor with any particular desire to benefit the trade (at all events as the trade is at present constituted). Pointing out the prevalence of 'intensive newspaper publicity—mainly of a character violently hostile to the cinema.' The Bioscope continues: "The inception of the campaign was due, we believe, to the concern expressed by certain industrial magnates at the immense commercial influence exercised by the American films throughout the markets of the world." Intimation is made that conferences were held after "closer inquiry into the potentialities of screen propaganda."

Exhibitor and Town Dispute

Lebanon, N. H., July 10.—Near the end of a controversy between Frank H. Wotton, owner of the Park Theater here, and town officials and the Lebanon Improvement Society, Inc., the latter organization has started to present movie shows in the Town Hall. Frank J. Cantlin has been appointed manager.

On May 1 last Wotton was arrested for continuing to display films without having a license, the town having refused to renew his permit. His attorneys filed a bill in equity in the Superior Court, the action including a petition for an injunction to restrain the town officials from opening their film shows on July 1. Following the serving of these papers upon Wotton he was arrested and brought into the Municipal Court, which took the case under advisement.

Seize Paramount Film

Montreal, Can., July 11.—Alleging that portions of The Little French Girl were reinserted after they had been deleted by the censors, Count R. De Sales, president of the Quebec Board of Moving Picture Censors, had representatives of the Famous Players Canadian Corporation brought into the Montreal police court recently. Summary trial was set for a later date. Allegation was made that the film with the reinserted parts, was publicly displayed at the Capitol Theater here. President De Sales seized the print after it had been shown at several performances.

"The Agate Line in Advertising"

THE little one and two-line agate lines of names and addresses in The Billboard Trade Directory, regardless of their size, is a convenient reference "what to buy" and "where to buy". Readers turn to this list when they are in need of certain merchandise.

It is standardized as to style and arrangement, and, as nearly as possible, is published in the same section of the paper each week.

"Keeping everlastingly at it" by having your name and address where it can be found easily is the way to make your advertising a success in this special department.

Your name and address in 52 issues of The Billboard keeps the buyers posted on the goods you sell. Let us have your name and address and we will let you know if it can be set in one or two lines.

THE BILLBOARD PUB. CO.
Cincinnati, Ohio:

If my name and address can be set in one line under (name heading).....insert it 52 times in The Billboard Trade Directory for $20. If it cannot be set in one line, write me about rate.

DRAMA AND THE DINNER HOUR

CRITICS in France long ago asserted that the dinner hour had affected the technique of their dramatists who met the steadily later arrival of the public by postponement of the action of a play to assure that nothing should happen until all the spectators were seated...

London did not put its playwrights to such a test. By means of the curtain raiser in one act the principal work could be postponed until the spectators had finished dinner in ease. It might be necessary, or at all events advisable, not to delay the processes of digestion by introducing any interests too complicated or too bright for ready comprehension at the outset...

Evidently there is to be some similar effect on the technique of our writers of musical comedy librettos. These entertainments are growing longer. Two of the most successful of the present season end some time after the hour at which a musical comedy used to close. Some of their imitators last just as long and have at least that quality in common with the genuine successes of the year...

Audiences now do not care to have their plays finish too soon. So many cabarets have been closed by padlocks or other means that New Yorkers seem likely to acquire the habit of going home directly after the play. They do not care, however, to go too early. So the late play is popular. The dramatists are taking advantage of this change in taste, and, like the French writers of the past—among whom the great Sardou was included—their artistic methods are showing the effects of their desire to please.

THE ANSWER ON THE SCREEN

THE assertion of Lord Lee, of Farnham, that the American films fail to portray American life, has been challenged by the moving picture industry, which is able to submit a list of notable films in contradiction. These include Abraham Lincoln, Little Old New York, The Iron Horse, The Covered Wagon, Main Street, North of 36, The Thundering Herd, Down to the Sea by Ships, America, Clarence, The Virginian, Penrod, and numerous others. When Lord Lee complained that the American films fail to depict the American society with which he is familiar he invited the answer that, like most of the visiting peacocks, he has seen a society which is not distinctly American at all.

Not only is the American industry able to point to great representative American films but to the production of some of the greatest pictures depicting English life and English history. The Barrie stories were filmed by America, not England, and Robin Hood, Disraeli, Oliver Twist, Tess and numerous others representative of English life and history would not have been seen upon the screen even in England but for the enterprise and art of the American producers.

Since the real grievance of Lord Lee and The Manchester Guardian is our commercial supremacy in the film industry, the criticisms of the fidelity of our films in portraying American society and life must be taken with an allowance for the prejudice born of defeat.

Stage Hands and Projectionists

and Vermont are almost all in the southern part of those States, which makes it comparatively easy for members to get together.

Local 591, of Hagerstown, Md., announces that it is still on the map, for it looks as tho the crew at the Maryland Theater will work all summer. This is due to the fact that the house is now playing musical tab. shows. The members are looking forward to the prospect of the new wage scale being signed. Brother Feigley celebrated his 24th birthday last week and the turnout was gratifying. Brother Zinkands has charge of the advertising now for the Nixon Academy.

Skits in George White's Scandals, the latest edition of which recently opened in New York, are given as an illustration of the importance of the spotlight man in connection with the success of a skit and the artists putting it over. The quick shutting off of the limelight is very essential, for the point is heightened by a well-timed snapping off of the illumination. Any hesitation on the part of the man with the calcium turns a bit of comedy into a flop, otherwise intended as a sure-fire laughgetter.

Elsewhere in this issue is a story on the new wage-scale agreement for road attractions, contracted between the subcommittee of the General Executive Board and a committee from the International Theatrical Association.

Managers and artists are respectfully requested to contribute their dates to this department. Routes must reach the Cincinnati office not later than Saturday morning of each week to insure publication. The Billboard forwards all mail to professionals free of charge. Members of the profession are invited, while on the road, to have their mail forwarded in care of The Billboard, and it will be forwarded promptly. (Maj) denotes Majestic; (Orph) Orpheum; (Pal) Palace; (Pan) Pantages.

When no date is given the week of July 13-18 is to be supplied.

Walter L. Main Circus

Adds Three Elephants, Two Camels and a Number of Wild Animals to Menagerie—Six Head of Draft Horses Also Received

Three elephants, two camels and a half dozen crates of wild animals were added to the menagerie of the Walter L. Main Circus at Ashland, Pa. The shipment occupied an entire baggage car, and was transported direct from New York by Ellis B. Joseph, the animal importer. The elephants are female Indian pachyderms, two of them standing 5 feet tall, age 8; while the other is 8 feet, 4 inches tall, and is believed to be about 25 years old. These animals give the show one of the largest and most complete menageries ever carried by a circus of its size.

The excellent condition of the baggage stock never fails to elicit a great deal of attention, especially in the parade. The stock is in charge of Charles (Hookrope) Rodimer. Half a dozen head of draft horses were added during the past two weeks.

Howard King and wife have returned to the show after an absence of several days. They entertained at Bedford, Pa., Mrs. John H. Sparks and her daughter and Mrs. Clarence Cooper of East Brady, Pa. W. H. Middleton has returned to his home in New York after visiting with "Doc" Ogden, side-show manager. Middleton's eight-gallon hat suffered a blow-down at Shenandoah, Pa. Failure to guy it out was the reason.

Harry Miller, who had the dining car with the show last season, is again in charge of that department, and also has his hamburger stand on the lot. Arthur Borella, producing clown, who was with the Walter L. Main Circus 25 years ago, is going stronger than ever. He has introduced several novelties this season that will give the boys in clown alley something to talk about. Mike and Jim O'Hara, theater owners, of Shenandoah, Pa., were visitors for several days while in the hard-coal region.

Soldier Johnson is again in charge of the elephants. He opened with the circus at Louisville, Ky., but was obliged to leave for several weeks because of illness. At Coatesville, Pa., Mrs. Felix Morales and brother were visitors. They entertained a party from the dressing room at dinner after the night show.

Mrs. H. C. Howard, the well-known circus wardrobe lady, now living in Philadelphia, was a visitor at Portstown, Pa. Bill Leon, the Greek heavyweight wrestler of Marlinton, O., with his athletes, never fails to score in the corner. This is Bill's first trip thru the hard-coal district in several years, but evidently the natives still remember his prowess.

Richards Bros.' Shows

Have Big Day at Max Meadows, Va., on the "Fourth"—Elephant and Menagerie Animals Added

Richards Bros.' Shows are playing to excellent business in Virginia, reports Joe Eustler, press agent. Max Meadows was played July 4 and four complete performances were given to accommodate the crowds.

Owner and Manager W. C. Richards is strengthening his show, having recently added another elephant and increased the menagerie to 10 cages. He also bought new canvas. Jack Allen, with four assistants, has completed painting the show, and Ted Nerenberg has purchased new maroon-colored uniforms for his eight-piece band. Tom Haley, balancer and juggler, who has been with the show eight consecutive seasons, has recovered from a slight illness and is again performing. The Whitlers, aerial artists, are the feature of the big show. The show has had opposition with the Mighty Haaz, M. L. Clark & Son's and the Rose Killan shows, and is contemplating going into West Virginia, where the mines are running full time.

Observe 115th Anniversary Of Phineas T. Barnum

Bridgeport, Conn., July 10.—In celebration of the 115th birthday of Phineas T. Barnum, born in Bethel, Conn., and who was said by many to have put the city of Bridgeport "on the map", Rev. Charles Kramer, pastor of the First Universalist Church here, spoke July 5 on the great showman's life. Barnum was a lifelong member of this church, a member of the board of trustees and he left a trust fund of $15,000 to the church. In the course of his sermon Rev. Kramer said that Bridgeport should more highly honor the name of P. T. Barnum than it does now. He suggested that July 5 should be set aside annually as "Barnum's Day".

Golden Show Litigation Ended

Petition for Dissolution of Receivership Filed in Office of County Clerk of Pulaski County, Arkansas

Little Rock, Ark., July 10.—The final chapter in the long story of the litigation which has hinged about the affairs of the Golden Bros.' Trained Wild Animal Circus for the past year and four months was written here Tuesday when a petition for dissolution of receivership was filed in the office of H. B. Chrisp, county clerk of Pulaski County. The petitioners were John and Michael Pluta, Louis Rosenberg and S. W. Rogers, these men representing the stockholders who bought the show when it went into the hands of Herbert R. Duval, appointed receiver of the show when it was adjudged insolvent. The circus was sold at auction June a year ago to John Pluta for $18,500. Previously it had been the object of numerous suits directed to force the owners to pay delinquent accounts they had contracted in various ways. The show was placed on the road last season and was reported to be playing to fair business in the Southeast. By the action of dissolution filed here Tuesday the charter of the organization automatically goes to the State.

Townsend Walsh Says Earthquakes Will Not Interfere With R.-B. Route

Chicago, July 9.—Townsend Walsh, press representative in advance with the Ringling-Barnum Circus, was a Billboard caller today. Mr. Walsh said the recent California earthquakes will have no effect on the Ringling decision to go to the Coast. The Coast territory will be covered thoroly as in former years.

101 Ranch Show

Observes the "Fourth" at New Bedford, Mass.—Misses Shirley, Workman and DeMille Return

Miller Bros.' 101 Ranch Wild West Show was at New Bedford, Mass., July 4 and following the matinee performance an elaborate dinner was served, consisting of young onions, celery, sweet pickles, soup, chicken with rice or clam chowder; baked salmon, fried smelts, young Vermont turkey with celery dressing, ham and mashed turnips, pot roast, egg noodles, snow-flake potatoes, asparagus tips in cream, vanilla wafers, Cosmopolitan cream, fruit punch and spring water. The dining tent was decorated for the occasion, and Steward, Tim Carey and his assistant, Ernest Dalgie, are to be commended for the spread. The side-show band, under the direction of Walter E. Mason, played the National

PETE SUN'S SUMMER HOME

Nashville, Tenn., suffering from rheumatism, and appeals to trouper for a little aid. He was with Thomas P. Littlejohn for a while this season, but had to give up tramping owing to his condition. Prickett mentions the names of Mr. Littlejohn and Earl Jackson, of the K. G. Barkoot Shows, who can vouch for his present condition. Last season Prickett was on the Smith Greater Shows with George M. Keightly, of caterpillar fame. He was with the Atterbury Bros.' Animal Show seasons of 1921-'22-'23 and four months in 1924, and with the A. G. Barnes Circus in 1917, 1919 and 1920. He was in the army (overseas) in 1918. Prickett was with the Sells-Floto Circus from 1907 to 1914, and was on the Ringling Bros.' Circus, with Art Rooney Patterson in the animal department, for a season. Prickett is endeavoring to get enough money to go to Hot Springs, Ark.

Lee Bros.' Shows

The week beginning with Fairmont, Minn., and ending with Flandreau, S. D., was a splendid one for the Lee Bros.' Wild Animal Shows. Sunday the show was at Fairmont, which is an excellent summer resort, and the showfolks participated in boating, fishing and swimming. Producing Clown Milton Baker's baseball club suffered its second defeat of the season here. Most of the players on the local club are professionals. At Jackson, Minn., the management had to seat 'em on the grass in the afternoon and there was also a good night house. Madison, S. D., was only fair, but at Pipestone, Minn., the big kid and pit shows did a good business. Mrs. Bert Wallace, whose health has been none too good, left to visit her mother at Astoria, Ore., and will rest for a period of six weeks. Canton, S. D., was fair and at Flandreau the tent was packed in the afternoon. It was only fair here at night, inasmuch as the city had a free exhibition of fireworks, the first in several years. The Lee show celebrated the "Fourth" in true American fashion and Manager Louis Chase and Steward R. H. (Muldoon) Hartman provided a fine dinner, which was greatly relished by the many employees with the show. Everett James and everyone stood at attention as the National Anthem was played. On the menu were olives, green onions, celery,

At Fall River, Mass., business was capacity in the afternoon and in the evening the ticket wagon was closed at 7:45. The performance was broadcast by The Fall River Herald from station W.T.A.B. The 101 Ranch Show is the only white top that has played this city this season, and it proved one of the show's banner stands in New England. Rear Admiral Sims witnessed the matinee performance at Newport, R. I. During the afternoon show at Taunton, Mass., Clair Rogers, while trick riding, fell from her horse and was carried unconscious to the padroom, but before the riders finished their stunts she returned to the arena and received heavy applause as she performed. Jake Brauer is assisting the writer in the big red wagon. Brauer has made many friends this season.

John Robinson Circus

Plays the "Fourth" at Hillsdale, Mich.—Parade "Dressed" Up—Martin Sisters Added to Program

The Fourth of July spent at Hillsdale, Mich., will long be remembered by the personnel of the John Robinson Circus. The day dawned with anything but rosy prospects. It rained most of the night and was still in progress when the circus arrived. However, old "Sol" soon made a brave stand against the clouds and the afternoon and night turned out to be an ideal midsummer's day. Everywhere the national colors were in evidence, the parade being especially decorated with the U. S. flag at every possible spot where a flag could be placed.

At 4:30 p.m. all the circus folk partook of the annual Independence Day dinner. That the John Robinson Circus outdid all previous efforts for this day was the general verdict. The first sight to meet the eye as one approached the cookhouse was a banner with the inscription The Spirit of '76 on it. Inside of the tent there was one gay riot of color, and the tables fairly groaned with viands of every description. Business at the matinee was a turnaway and good at night.

The Martin Sisters are a recent addition to the group of aerialists. Mrs. Bob Sperry recently spent a day visiting the show. Teresa Barron, after being out a number of performances on account of sickness, has returned to the show. Duke Mills is being highly complimented on his latest, unique innovation in the side-show—a singing band. This feature has materially added to the continued popularity of the kid show.

Robbins Bros.' Circus

Adds Five New Cars—Show Now Moving on 30 Cars—Big Top Blown Into River at Rochester, Minn.

Five new all-steel cars were added to the Robbins Bros.' Circus train at Sumner, Ia., July 4, now making the show a 30-car organization. There were three flats, a stock car and a Pullman. Business has been very good in Winona, Minnesota. At Rochester, Minn., a storm struck just after the people had gotten out of the big top. The big tent was blown into the river and badly damaged, but it was repaired in time for the next stand at Osage, Ia.

Joe Walsh, of the Greater Sheeslev Shows, was the guest of Fred Buchanan at Winona, Minn. S. E. Stone, formerly with the Ringling-Barnum Circus, is now assistant boss property man of the big show, joining at Little Falls, Minn. Harold Cranford and Louie Myers, musicians, were guests of Will Holbrook at Rochester, Minn. Clifford (Pat) Johnston, leader of the municipal band at St. Ansgar, Ia., visited Bill Holbrook and Bill Keyser at Osage. Les Minger has a new gold cornet, and Arthur Morrell is also playing a new gold instrument. Dale Smith, clarinet player, is the latest addition to O. A. Gilson's big show band. Marceline Montague, prima donna, has composed a song hit entitled The Girl the River Shannon Blues, Mexican Bill Williams and son Bill, Jr., of the Mighty Hooge Shows, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Williams at Osage, Ia. Williams is Poole's new pit show manager. E. Schatte and G. R. Drake, of the Hooge show band, visited with Gilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Top and members of the Hazel M. Cass Players No. 2 show were guests of Manager Morse and Auditor Schiller at Osage, Ia. Luther and Tom Privett are receiving flattering press notices for their efforts in the Wild West performance. The writer has a relic of by-gone days—a route card of the Mollie Bailey Shows, which were operated from 1848 to 1918 by Mollie Bailey. Later the Bailey Brothers were the successors of this outfit under the management of J. E. Bailey. Henry G. Grimes, who is in the Robbins clown alley, was with the show in 1911, '12 and '13, doing single trapeze, Roman rings, clowning and was also mail and route-card man. Lonnie Buchanan has bought two new red and white striped concession tents for the privilege department.

Will Buchanan, contracting press agent, and Ed L. Brannan, general agent, visited the show for a few days. Ira Whitts, and James Morse were hosts of the members of the Hugo Musical Comedy Company at Winona, Minn. Mrs. S. T. Privette received word at Fairbault, Minn., from her daughter, Mrs. Ella Linton, that her husband, Hank Linton, had been seriously injured by a horse during the Wild West concert on the Gentry-Patterson Circus in Rochelle, Ill., July 4. The report stated that he was in a critical condition and that an operation would be necessary. He is a patient at the Lincoln Hospital, Rochelle. Hank

Ringling-Barnum Circus

Emerging from a delightful trip thru Quebec and Ontario, the Ringling-Barnum Circus is back in the States. Canadian business was beyond expectations at all points, and at the opening in Montreal more people were turned away than occupied the big tent. The weather was perfect.

Billy Smith and his "Eight Sweethearts" visited at Montreal. Roy Barker and Company and Bobbie Harwick, world-famed mud showman, were visitors at Ottawa. The Millettes joined for their summer vacation at Auburn. Ray Goslin has joined Evans' Military Band, replacing Frank Webber, drummer. Mabel Kline is looking forward to a great time when the show makes Minneapolis. Percy Hill was on hand at Toronto.

Can't help but remark about the wonderful handling of the show received from the railroads during the Canadian tour. Made the run from Ottawa to Belleville, 132 miles, and were up and ready before 11 a.m. A derailment caused a late arrival at Toronto, but the customers were patient and the show had two capacity houses there. Never in his life has the writer read such laudatory reviews as given by the Toronto papers.

Alec Picard, old-time aerial performer, visited the Nelsons, Clarks and Sibbons when the show made Saginaw, Mich. Fred Jenks, accompanied by Grace, visited their many friends of clown alley at Saginaw, and Lew Sunlin motored from Flint to renew old acquaintances. George Clow, formerly of Sweet's Band, visited at Alma, Mich. The two ladies' ball teams are practicing daily. May Wirth heads one team and Mrs. Bertie Besson the other.

With a muddy lot and a downpour of rain the show sold out at the matinee performance on the Fourth of July at Kitchener, Ont. Mutt Thompson went home from here to spend the weekend with his family at Detroit, rejoining at London, Ont. The Sunday at London was the big social one of the season, as three different largely attended mulligan parties were held. The executives held a mulligan with Dave Reynolds, of the Canadian Immigration Department, and Dr. Neal Hoskins. W. W. Dunkle and Mr. Kerry, of the Pittsburgh Elks, were guests of honor. The clowns held one with Jack Foley as honored guest and elected Billy Mosler as "Jungle" boss. Billy's first victim was Nemo, whom he had to put in arms and who later made his escape and hiked 10 miles back to town. Nemo violated one of the camp rules when he insisted on putting salt into the bear beer. At the clowns' mulligan they baptized Herman Joseph, painted Micky Graves' head and did a war dance around Frances McStay. It being Everett Hart's birthday, Momus Grady read a very touching address on what the Hart brothers in general and Everett in particular have meant to the social and moral caliber of clowndom for the last 20 years.

At Port Huron, Mich., the show hit an all-day rain, but the customers came just the same. Saginaw gave the usual business in that town. Mr Charles Ringling left for a few days at Kitchener, W. W. Dunkle, after spending a pleasant week left for South Bend, Ind. Coz Pontico cooked the mulligan for the butchers and the piece de resistance was spaghetti a la Neapolitan, and those who were fortunate enough to get some say it was splendid.

Joe Simon, Arthur Witten, Herman Joseph, Carl Steinbrook and Harry Lewis are coming along nicely with their club and held the first chartered meeting last week. "Whitely", formerly seat man for Sam Clark, was a visitor at Saginaw. Clifford Bannell was busy entertaining friends from Marine City during the Michigan tour. Al Sylvester performed some contortion tricks at the mulligan that he has never shown to the public. Col. Leah made the trip from Port Stanley to Cleveland for the week-end and had the thrill of being on a crippled boat in the middle of Lake Erie, out of sight of land for three hours. George Castor rejoined at Auburn.

Y., June 24 Merle Evans, bandmaster, had the pleasure of greeting several Sarasotans, whom he met last winter while the band was filling its winter engagement at Sarasota, Fla. Mrs. Elizabeth (Mother) Corning was recently entertained by Manager Paul Harrell, who was in Elgin, Ill., with the No. 1 advertising car of the Sells-Floto Circus. She, with a party of friends, motored to Chicago last week and they were special guests of the management of White City. From there Mrs. Corning went to Aurora and was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Lachman of the Lachman-Carson Shows. Frank A. Ross, who has been in South America for nearly a year with the Sarzaine Circus, left June 18 for his home in Detroit, Mich. He and his wife had the only concessions with the circus—juice stand and knife rack. Ross says that he introduced the old-time red lemonade down there and it went like wildfire. The night attendance has been falling off 50 per cent, owing to cold weather. The circus played Brazil, Uruguay, Argentine and Paraguay and there was never a bloomer. Ross was with it 11 months and one week, and never missed a day. He will frame something to make the fairs upon his return.

Buck Leahy submits these "remembers": "When M. C. (Tuba) Sherman was with 'Terry's Tom show?' When Toby Tyler was with the Downie & Wheeler Show? When Marvin Ray played Jeannette, Pa.? When Elmer E. Goodell was with the Sells & Downs Shows? When Eddie La Barr was with Al Martz Company? When Warren Travis was with the John Robinson Circus? When Jaek (Monk) Kell was with the Trolley Car Trio on the Wallace Show."

A derogatory notice concerning the Walter L. Main Circus was recently published in The Lykens (Pa.) Standard. Charles W. Boeckler, of Lykens, advises The Billboard that the article was far from justified, saying in part: "The attached clipping concerns the performance of the Main show, which exhibited at Tower City, Pa., July 4. I witnessed the presentation on this date and was sorry that the public was so misinformed by the press. The show was really a credit to any community. Although the costumes and menagerie were not anything to brag about, the entire outfit was fit to exhibit anywhere. A heavy downpour of rain came about the middle of the performance, and the tent did more than its share in keeping the crowd dry and safe. Instead of two elephants and the same number of camels, as the clipping states, I noticed four of each, including many smaller animals. The article, having been published in several newspapers in this vicinity, may have been written for the purpose of keeping the crowd at Lykens, nine miles away, where an American Legion celebration was being held."

O. D. Tibbetts, traveling agricultural development agent of the Great Northern Railway Company, who makes his home and headquarters at Sioux Falls, S. D., is a former white-top trapper. He joined the old Adam Forepaugh Circus at La Crosse, Wis., in July, 1881, and worked on the stands, Andrew Cullen, of Boston, being the boss butcher. The season of 1882 he joined the Forepaugh Circus at Philadelphia and was with it until July, when he left to join the W. W. Cole Circus in Iowa. In 1883 he was with the Barnum, Bailey & Hutchinson Circus until June 25 and then joined the W. W. Cole Circus at Minneapolis July 4. That day the Cole show put on four performances—three in the afternoon and one at night. The same season this show played an eight-day engagement at New Orleans, from December 7 to 15. The season closed at Holly Springs, Miss., on Christmas Day. In 1884 Tibbetts was with the Cole show, which opened the season at St. Louis April 21, for a week, and he was also with it the following season. In 1895 he was with the Walter L. Main Circus until sometime in June. Mr. Tibbetts has been in the drug business in South Dakota for 20 years and has also handled considerable real estate. He visits several shows each season (his recent one being the Robbins Bros' Circus), and he has read The Billboard from the time it started. He will be pleased to see any of his old-time friends when in Sioux Falls.

One of the best known and well-remembered of circus performers is Lew (Alvretta) Faust, 78-year-old Civil War veteran, who lives retired at 417 Buttonwood street, Reading, Pa. He was in 25 battles in the Civil War and was on the battle line when Robert E. Lee surrendered. He enlisted at the age of 15 and one-half years. Following his discharge he became a circus performer, doing trapeze work with almost every circus on the road at that time. Faust and his partner and friend, Col. Charles Whitney, who died 28 years ago after meeting with an accident in Savannah, Ga., which necessitated the amputation of one of his legs, traveled from Maine to the borders of Mexico from 1866 to 1885 with many circuses. Whitney traveled as a contracting agent and Faust as a gymnast, doing trapeze, and as a jockey. His career began in 1866, when he became an apprentice with Gardner's Circus. In 1870 Whitney and he were engaged by the Yankee Robinson Shows. After that time Faust traveled with the largest circuses, including P. T. Barnum's, Sells Bros., and the Great Eastern, the first two-ring circus in the United States. The most colorful part of his career in circus life came when he was made press agent going ahead to bill the towns. Rivalry at that time between circuses was at its height. One circus would give a performance on one corner, while another would play on the opposite corner. Faust became widely known for his ability to bill the towns and had various offers to become press agent of other circuses and opera companies. The latter position he held in his later years, after retiring from circus work. Faust came to Reading in the fall of 1872 and became advance agent for Prof. John M. Shearer, the aeronaut, who died recently, for the season of 1873 to 1874. He later became press agent for a grand opera-house. Faust was a gymnast for 20 years and never had a fall.

Seils-Sterling Circus

F. M. Welch, of Stillwater, Minn., visited the Seils-Sterling Circus, William Lindeman, proprietor, at Star Prairie, Wis., July 7. He states that Mr. Lindeman has enlarged his show a great deal since last year, strengthening the performance and adding three more trucks. He has added among other things a five-ton trailer with a tractor with pneumatic tires, on which he transports the elephant, baby camel, etc. The performance runs very smoothly and is very creditable and the stock and everything connected with the show is in fine condition. The members sleep in comfortable sleeping trucks. Mr. Lindeman has had this show on the road six years, playing mostly in Minnesota and Wisconsin, Sheboygan, Wis., being his winter quarters. Business has been very good this season and Mr. Lindeman contemplates enlarging the show still more next season.

ALFRED SUTCLIFFE

ALFRED Richard Head, professionally known as Alfred Sutcliffe, originator and leader of the well-known Sutcliffe Family, died, as mentioned briefly in our last issue, at the Citizens' General Hospital, New Kensington, Pa., 12 hours after admission Sunday morning, June 28, from heart failure; age 52.

Mr. Sutcliffe had been connected with the entertainment industry since the age of 12, at which time he ran away from home and came to America as a stowaway. The circus claimed his attention and he was soon touring with two Scotch boys named Sutcliffe under the act name of Three Brothers English and a great number of oldtimers will best remember him as Al English, who tramped with all the early circuses from the Sells Brothers down to the smallest.

In the early '90s he married his first wife, Lulu Lafrance, a French Canadian and all-round circus performer. The four then adopted the Scotch costume and formed the original Sutcliffe Family. A small circus they were traveling with failed to pay salaries, so in partnership with the three Fukino Japs he took his own circus to South America, the seven people offering a program of 12 acts. This venture was brought to a close with the outbreak of the Spanish-American War, the whole troupe being shipped back to New York on an American warship. Vaudeville dates followed and such old establishments as Huber's Museum, New York, and Austin & Stone's, Boston, are to be found in the deceased's route book. From 1899 to 1904 he was with the Barnum & Bailey Show, taking in that organization's tour of Europe. Since 1904 Mr. Sutcliffe's activities have been confined to vaudeville, touring mainly in the British Isles with occasional trips to the United States.

The deceased's first wife died in 1910 and nine years later he married Olive Ibbitson, who survives him, together with his only child, Robert Alfred, age four years.

The remains were taken from New Kensington to his brother's home at Shelton, Conn., on the Sutcliffe Family's own truck, the casket resting on the same acrobatic felt which the deceased had trod for so many years. Interment was at Riverside Cemetery, Shelton, July 2, with Masonic ritual, he being a Scottish Rite Mason, Lodge 571, Dramatic, Glasgow.

THE CORRAL by Rowdy Waddy

(Communications to 25-27 Opera Place, Cincinnati, O.)

Next week the big "doings" at Cheyenne—Frontier Days!

Let's have your show roster, Jim Eskew—how's Canada?

Big city papers throughout the Central States have been carrying very interesting publicity stories on Tex Austin's big rodeo in Chicago next month, and they are of a kind that would make people want to "take 'er in"!

Among donors of special trophies to be awarded at the Cheyenne Frontier Days have been Bill Hart, a silver statue valued at $1,500, and Douglas Fairbanks, a $300 silver-mounted saddle.

Don O'Brien, Denver, Col., last week announced a rodeo to be staged at Indian Hills, 21 miles from Denver, July 11 and 12. Several of the leading features are to be contested events with attractive prizes.

Great care should be taken to make sure that blank cartridges used in bullfights, clowning and other parts of Wild West exhibitions do not contain bullets. An "accidental death" was reported from the Southwest last week.

The Corral received some news squibs on the rodeo to be given at Sweetwater, Tex. July 3 and 4, but they didn't get to Cincinnati until after the dates of the "doings". However, thanks to the sender of them for the interest shown. Now let's have the results.

From Pueblo, Col.—The Western sports contests and exhibitions at the Rialta held on the State fairgrounds July 4 entertained about 4,000 people. Dick Jay, manager the State fair, is quoted as declaring that the show was such a success the State fair commission is planning to make it an annual event.

From Texas—The rodeo at Lubbock put on by Elmer Jones went over high. There were a few of the top hands there. Good time was made in the calf roping, with Hugh Bennett, first; Jack McClure, second, and Elmer Jones, third. All other events were contracted. Hank Carlisle, who did the announcing, is leaving for Cheyenne, Wyo., and Claud Couden was arena director.

Among winners at the recent Vale (Col.) Rodeo were: Cowhide race, Jessie Lawrence; potato race, John Powell; wild cow milking, Jack Spain; calf roping, Jack Spain; relay race, the Powell string; best lady rider, Inez Hart (better known as Inez Buscaro). Finals in bronk riding, Jack Spain, first; Jessie Lawrence, second; "Red" Lawrence (youth), third. The foregoing from H. Tenney, announcer.

The following notes received on the recent rodeo at Haines, Ore.: There was plenty of excitement and interest was at fever heat. H. Tenney did the announcing. John Powell was injured the first day and Jess Lawrence substituted for him the next, winning in the calf-roping event. Jess Heard, Jess Lawrence, Dick Lockett, Jim Pruitt and Bill Mackey qualified for the finals in bronk riding, the results of which were Lawrence, first; Heard, second, and Mackey, third.

Word came that the Wyoming Wild West Show was furnishing the night entertainment on the State fairgrounds at Lincoln, Neb., July 2, 3 and 4, with a spectacle entitled Pioneer Days, using 18 riders and other performers and a long stretch of scenery down the infield of the track. Jolly Jones and Bob Shaw were the directors, assisted by "Idaho Bill" and Harry White. The stock was furnished by John L. Dodge and George Kirch, the latter also arena director.

From Anadarko, Ok.—A rodeo was staged at the Dietrich Lake Ranch July 4, and it proved a fine little show. There was calf roping, bronk and steer riding, etc. The ropers were Ruby Dietrich, John Turnbull, Pinkie Sample, Fumby Patterson, Leroy Fallon, Jim Fallon, Charlie Patterson, Rusty Charles, Ollie Hansen, Buck Jones, Eddie Dietrich, O. E. Drake, the results being C. Patterson, first; J. Turnbull, second; Ruby Dietrich, third. Steer riders: Leroy Fallon, Rusty Charles, John Turnbull and Ruby Dietrich. There was a bronk riding exhibition by Ruby Dietrich on "No Name" and without hobbling her stirrups she made a good ride. Pinkie Sample rode "Baby Doll". The big three-day event at the Dietrich Ranch takes place in August.

Corliss (Cleve) LaRue writes from New York State that he and his wife and four-year-old son, Corliss, Jr., while playing at Utica, N. Y., had the pleasure of attending an afternoon performance of the Ringling-Barnum Circus and greatly enjoyed it and the Wild West features presented under the direction of C. Compton. LaRue says he would like to mention each of the performers, but is handicapped in that he did not meet them all. "Anyways," he states, "the performance was fast and snappy." He compliments the roping of Compton, the trick riding of Bill Mossman and all the bronk riders. "As for ourselves," he added, "we are traveling along in the 'same ol' way'—two wagons, five good horses—and playing independent vaudeville and special outdoor dates, including parks—doing nicely. Corliss Junior rides a pony and has been attracting a great deal of attention in every town we have made."

Chief White Eagle sent some news notes from the Jack Burroughs and Hugo Brothers' show playing the Far East. From Osaka, Japan, June 14: "A bit of news from the Wild West Show in Japan. We have been showing in Japan since May 1, our first stop being at Yokohama, and the show has been going over big so far. There is a good bunch of all-round hands with it, including Manager Jack Burroughs, Buddy Sterling (chief cowboy), Jess Keith, Jimmy Taylor, Henry Boggs, Vera McGinnis, Opal Wood, Slim Baltra, Joe Flint and wife, Edwards and Edwards (sharpshooters), Buster Wheaton; Emanuel Marcus and Tommy Tucker, two cowboys from Hawaii, and among the Indians, myself and wife, Chief Thunderface and family and Princess Red Bird; also 10 Cossacks. We have nine head of bronks, all bucking good—'White Lightning', 'Honest John', 'Hoxie', 'Wild Cat', 'Vampire', 'Wampus Cat', 'Theda Bara' and 'Denver Dick'. Miss McGinnis is the featured lady trick rider on her horse, 'Cowboy'. A Billboard to us is like 'getting a letter from home', altho we seldom get a copy of it, as mail is hard to get. The show is making a tour of the world." Along with the letter Chief sent three very interesting pictures of the outfit, but these were probably "snapped" on a cloudy day, as they are too "dark" to allow of reproduction in print.

From Canada, Tex.—The two-day rodeo staged by J. C. Studer & Sons at beautiful Anvil Lake Park July 3 and 4 was a success. Some of the well-known contestants were present, and about 40 ranch hands from near-by ranches made competition lively. Pure-bred Herefords were used. Tom Walls provided the bucking horses. Large crowds were in attendance. Orrin Thompson handled the arena, assisted by Smokey Rae, who did the announcing. Following is a list of "first" winners: First Day—Calf roping, Orrin Thompson (261-5); cow milking, Clyde Coffee; goat roping, Coy Heffner (141-5); bronk riding, Harry Coffee and Chas. Jones split first and second; maverick roping, Pete Cater; steer riding, Earl West. Second Day—Calf roping, Pete Cater (23); cow milking, M. Cater; bronk riding, Earl West; steer riding, Clyde Coffee; goat roping, Carl Heffner (12-5); maverick roping, Ed Smith. There were numerous minor events carrying special prizes and trophies, including a county roping event, in which a roper from each county on the Texas Panhandle competed. In this Clyde Coffee (Roberts County) and Dave Wilson (Ochiltree County) tied (37 seconds). The rodeo is to be an annual affair. The stagers of it are among the wealthiest people in this section and have built a grand stand and arena.

From Salinas, Calif.—During the 14th annual California Rodeo and Salinas Big Week, to be held here July 22-28, which will be Monterey County's greatest contribution to California's Diamond Jubilee Celebration, the Monterey County Live Stock Association will hold its annual meeting to talk shop and discuss ways and means of improving breeds and the like. The meeting will be held on Colmado del Rodeo Day, July 25, and C. Z. Hobert, of this city, president of the association, will preside. Harvey E. Abbott, director-general of the California Rodeo, announces he has signed up the following riders of "bad ones" to perform during the carnival of caballeros: Jess Stahl, "Happy Jack" Hawn, Gordon Williamson, Johnny Judd, Johnny Dobbins, Kl S'acci, Norman Cowen, Tex Crockett, Bill Tholick, Benny Corbett, Clarence Sovern, Juan Ybarra, Morris Kane, Bob Anderson, Al Rooney, Jack Kane, Jim Clark, Mike Stuart, "Slim" Wilson, John Genant, Sam Howe, Walt Whitmore, Enrico Robles, Johnny Arancibia, Al Basero, Bob Erickson, Don Lynch, Tex Parker, Louis Costeo, Buck Williams, "Shorty" Davis, Perry Ivory, Ty Stokes and Emilio Sanchez. Among the women riders who will show their skill are Rose Walker, Nita Hansen, Bertha Stadler, Anita Plazoni, Cecilia Paulsen, Juanita Robles, Marietta Gregory, Marlon Armstrong and Carmen Soberanes. The management has on the ground and waiting: 117 bulls, 50 steers, 50 calves, 70 wild horses and carloads of outlaws, and more due before the roundup.

From Southwest City, Mo.—The three-days' second annual rodeo staged here by Bud Leonard and wife had large crowds and it paid off 100 per cent on the dollar. Rain interfered for a few minutes on the fourth. Mrs. Leonard was paymaster and proved a most likable cashier. On July 1 the cowboys and cowgirls were treated to a fish fry near the foothills, there being about 60 present. More than 100 contestants were entered for the show and 83 ropers. Della Buckles and Ruby Roberts were the lady trick riders. Gerry Tolson was the clown—and a good one. The bronk riding, steer riding and bulldogging were contracted events. Among the steer riders were Clyde Cline, Kenneth Glass, Jay Keifer, Tom and Hugh Tolson, Mike and Joe Buckannon, Earl Cavanaugh, Wain Mayberry, Larkin Hooker and Bill Rothrock.

Carl Beasley and Herb McSpaden rode bronks and bulldogged. Beasley was also announcer. Ruby Roberts, who rode steers each day, is now tipping the scales at 90 pounds. Following are the results in the roping events, winners in order given: July 2—Calf Roping: Ernie Bockus, Clark Hogue, Jack Bockus, Steer Roping: Phillip Brokie, Amos Partridge, Jake Heath. July 4—Calf Roping: Foreman Faulkner, Andy Shannon, Jack Bockus, Steer Roping: Clark Hogue, Herb McSpaden, Amos Partridge. July 4—Calf Roping: Carl Willis, Dewey Bockus, Cleero Coniller. Steer Roping: Carl Willis, Ernie Bockus, Floyd Schultz. Average—Calf Roping: Jack Bockus (94-4-5 seconds), Carl Willis (108-1-5), Clark Hogue (112-1-5). Steer Roping: Amos Partridge (92-3-5), Cleero Coniller (96-4-5), Floyd Schultz (97-2-5). Mr. and Mrs. Leonard are planning a still larger show for 1925. They also had a very successful show at Silome Springs, Ark., recently.

was with the Robbins Show last season. Jimmie Sweeney has joined Lonnie Buchanan as candy butcher. Mrs. Lee Kula, wife of Paul Kula, Hawaiian dancer in the Annex, injured her spine recently but is expected to be on duty again shortly. Les Minger and Bill West met with an accident at Sumner, Ia., July 5. While riding in an auto the car skidded and went over an embankment, pinning both under the car. They were taken to the hospital, where it was found that Minger had three broken ribs and an injured back and West was hurt about the head and face. Both will be laid up for a week or more. Mr. Buchanan tendered the entire personnel an elaborate Fourth of July dinner in the cookhouse at Sumner, Ia. F. ROBERT SAULY (Press Agent).

D., a number of people from the Orange Bros.' Shows, which are showing in that vicinity, visited the Lee show. Sam M. Dawson met many of the Orange showfolk, including Mr. and Mrs. Wayland Stokes and daughter, Frances. Mrs. Stokes is the daughter of Madame James, prima donna of the Lee show.

KANSAS CITY

IRENE SHELLEY

Kansas City, July 9.—All three parks here, Fairlyland, Electric and Fairmount, had elaborate fireworks displays July 4 and record crowds. It is estimated that more than 50,000 people passed thru the gates at Fairlyland, and at 8:30 p.m. the automobile gates were closed.

Electric Park had a wonderful fireworks display and presented the eminent bandmaster, Ferullo, and his band in two concerts, one in the afternoon and the other at night. Coincident with the final performance of The Follies and the appearance of Ferullo, the price of admittance to the park was lowered from 20 cents to 10 cents for the balance of the season. Also the price of dancing in the dance hall to the music of Leo R. Davis' orchestra was reduced to 25 cents for men and 10 cents for ladies.

Edgar Ray, well-known songwriter and music publisher of this city, author of She Used To Ride a Trolley Car, etc., was one of the heroes of the recent Gillis fire. He was in the drug store at 5th and Walnut streets, opposite the theater, and was on the scene a minute after the explosion and saw the first of the bleeding, burned and crippled brought out. He rescued one man from the wreckage.

Millie Rhea and Santoro, a novelty act, consisting of music, dancing and an acrobatic exhibition, headline the bill at the cool Main Street this week. Millie Rhea is a Kansas City girl, her family name being McMurray. The flowers and applause that went across the footlights were a fitting welcome home to this Kansas City girl.

Pete Pate and his syncopators close a very successful engagement at the Globe Theater Saturday night, July 11, and he hid them au revoir with regret. Mr. Pate is an inimitable comedian and has a clever, capable company with him.

Lola Bridge and her company come to the Globe Theater for a limited engagement, commencing Sunday, July 12. Miss Bridge is under the management of the Edgar Barnett Attractions, Inc. Miss Bridge and her quartet, the original California Four, favorites with audiences at the Globe and Garden theaters, gave an entertainment for ex-service men at the U. S. Veterans' Hospital Wednesday night, July 8.

W. H. (Bill) Rice was in the city for a day or so the latter part of June and first of July. Mr. Rice was here in connection with the proposed fall festival, which was rejected by the Merchants' Association for lack of time to properly present the project, which was to have been a Santa Fe Trail celebration and pageant.

Walter Stanley, of the J. George Loos Shows, was a visitor last week when these shows were at Alva, Ok. Mr. Stanley informed that Wichita was a very successful spot and they anticipated a good season. Mrs. Irene Lachman, wife of Dave Lachman, general manager of the Lachman-Carson Exposition Shows, was here for a day, July 6, on her way to Omaha to get her horse, Teddy, which is to be added to the shows for fair work, etc.

Bob Malone, concessionaire, drove in July 6 from Dewey, Ok., where he made the big roundup of July 4, and after putting in a few days here started driving thru to Sioux City, Ia., to join Billie's Gold Medal Shows.

The Great Des Bazelles arrived in K. C. from St. Louis July 1 and intends to play this territory, first showing here and then heading into Kansas and Oklahoma. Des Bazelles has his own magic, hypnotism and mind-reading show and intends to give some window demonstrations of levitation.

David J. Doyle, formerly of the Rubin & Cherry Shows, leaving them in Minneapolis, was in the city July 6. He was headed for Oklahoma to join a carnival company in that territory.

Blacky Freed, of Freed & Sellers, concessionaires, operating five stores, and playing the big celebration of July 3 and 4 at Oakley, Kan., arrived here July 7 and paid this office a pleasant visit. Mr. Freed informed that he and his partner were taking 10 concessions from here this week and would connect with some carnival company in Oklahoma. He was very enthusiastic in his praises of Donald Foster, the promoter of the Oakley, Kan., celebration.

SAN FRANCISCO

E. J. WOOD

San Francisco, July 10.—The plans made by the Marina Exposition Company to resell to the city of San Francisco in yearly installments over a period of 20 years an exposition building have been disapproved by the State Supreme Court. It was the intention to erect a large building to house live stock and other big shows.

Margaret Illington, "star of yesterday", is a visitor here.

Carol Wines is the new star in the role of Tondeleyo in White Cargo in place of Edith Ransom. The local engagement of this play has been a very profitable venture for Thomas Wilkes and will close July 18.

W. S. King is to build a new theater on Haight street, near Fillmore, to seat 1,500 persons at a cost of $160,000.

The clever stage kiddies trained by the O'Neil Sisters, who have been appearing at a number of the local houses, are playing Stockton and San Jose this week.

Santa Cruz is to hold a Kennel Show July 18 and 19.

George M. Lipschultz, conductor of the Warfield Music Masters, has just returned from a concert tour of the West Coast theaters.

What was known as the Alcazar Theater after the fire, and which later became the Republic, has changed hands and been rechristened The Sutter.

Gino Severi, former leader of the Warfield Orchestra, is to arrange the musical score for Charlie Chaplin's new film, The Gold Rush.

The 20th biennial convention of the grand lodge Theatrical Mutual Association will open here Sunday next.

Local critics are panning The Passing Show, now appearing at the Columbia Theater, and credit El Brendel with saving the show.

Reports from San Jose indicate that the final day of the rodeo was a big success, nearly 10,000 spectators being present. Three cowboys were seriously hurt, Louis Cabrill, Boh Ericson and Key Bunne being the unlucky ones.

Madame Julia Claussen, mezzo soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, is to appear in concert July 22 in the Hearst Greek Theater, Berkeley.

It is generally believed along film row that the Famous Players will assume the direction of the Rothchild houses July 15, which is the reported opening date of the St. Francis Theater, formerly the Strand, for which the St. Francis Amusement Company, a subsidiary of the F. P., recently floated $1,000,000 in bonds.

Dorothy Janice, California songstress, formerly with The Passing Show, is in town for a short visit. It is understood that she will return to New York next month to marry Allan Prior, Australian tenor.

Mrs. Alexander Pantages, wife of the theatrical magnate, motored up from Los Angeles Wednesday and will spend a few days here before going to Seattle.

San Francisco is host to the State Music Teachers who are holding their 15th annual convention this week. On Monday 200 persons attended the banquet and one of the features was the singing of Walter Campbell, 87-year-old member of the S. F. branch.

Olin Downes, music critic of The New York Times, is a visitor here this week.

Monte Rio on the Russian River is to hold a pretentious Water Carnival and Midsummer Night's Festival August 15 to 23.

Arizona State Fair Will Have Free Gate

Also Is To Have Night Performances for First Time--Fireworks, Horse and Auto Racing and Other Features on Program

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 10.—The Arizona State Fair this year will be a free attraction and will have both day and night performances, according to the announcement of Joe Dillon, secretary of the Fair Commission. The six-day fair will begin November 9, it was announced.

If the plans are carried out this will be the first time in the history of Arizona that no admission has been charged. For years a charge of 50 cents was made at the gate. This year's fair will also be unusual in that night attractions will be staged. The former practice was for the fair to close at 6 o'clock and from then on a carnival would hold sway in the downtown section.

Spectacular fireworks, horse and auto racing and many aerial acts have been lined up for this year's fair, Mr. Dillon stated. The World Amusement Service Association of Chicago is furnishing the aerial acts, which will include the Cordona Circus.

The Thearle-Duffield Company was awarded the contract for the pyrotechnical displays. The agreement calls for a different program for each night of the fair. On Armistice Day the battle of Chateau Thierry will be reproduced. In connection with the night program it will be necessary to have the entire grounds wired for lighting. As the State legislature cut $3,000 from the fair appropriation the free-gate and night program announcements came as a welcome but unexpected bit of news.

A Nebraska firm has been awarded a contract to furnish chariot races, which will be staged in connection with the regular running races. Two days of the fair will be devoted to horse racing and two days to auto races, it was announced. The children will have their big day on Friday with a special program arranged for them.

Entertainment Aplenty

Will Be Offered by Trenton, N. J., Interstate Fair

Trenton, N. J., July 10.—Increased facilities for the open-air attractions will be provided at the Trenton Interstate Fair, to be held September 28 to October 3. J. Fred Margerum, general manager of the exposition, has arranged for the construction of an additional stage in front of the enlarged grand stand and he has also decided to have the night show presented on five evenings this season by starting Monday instead of Tuesday. Rome Under Nero will be presented at the night shows.

An especially attractive bill has been signed by Margerum. Lillian Boyer will be here for her stunts in an airplane and Vincent Lopez and his band will play each day and evening in front of the grand stand. The Diving Rings will do their act, including the ride down the 100-foot incline on a bicycle for the leap into a shallow pool of water, and the Thomas Saxotette will also be on the program. The other numbers will include Joyce's horses, the Yaopli troupe from South America with the human bridge act, the Three Nitos, European tumblers; the Lime Trio, novelty gymnasts, in "The Gollywog"; the Three Kirkellos, with their bounding table stunt; Moll Brothers and Weir's elephants.

Running and harness racing will be given on the track Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Friday and Saturday will be devoted to automobile races. The show is being billed as a $50,000 attraction.

No Fair at Roundup, Mont.

Roundup, Mont., July 10.—Plans for a fair in Musselshell county have been abandoned, because it was felt that the present financial condition of the county would not warrant the cost and that it was inadvisable to attempt to raise the necessary funds thru a tax levy.

13th Fair for Flatonia, Tex.

Flatonia, Tex., July 10.—The Flatonia Fair will be held from September 8 to 12. It will be the 13th fair for the association. Although this city has only a population of 1,000, a record of 7,959 actual cash paid admissions were registered last year. The J. George Loos Shows will furnish the attractions. M. Fernau, Jr., is secretary-manager of the fair.

MAJOR ARRANGEMENTS

Are Completed for Cambria County Fair, Ebensburg, Pa.

Ebensburg, Pa., July 10.—Well pleased with the big success of the Industrial Exposition held at the fairgrounds last week, officials of the Cambria County Fair Association, under whose auspices the show was held, have turned their attention to the Cambria County Fair, to be held the week of September 14.

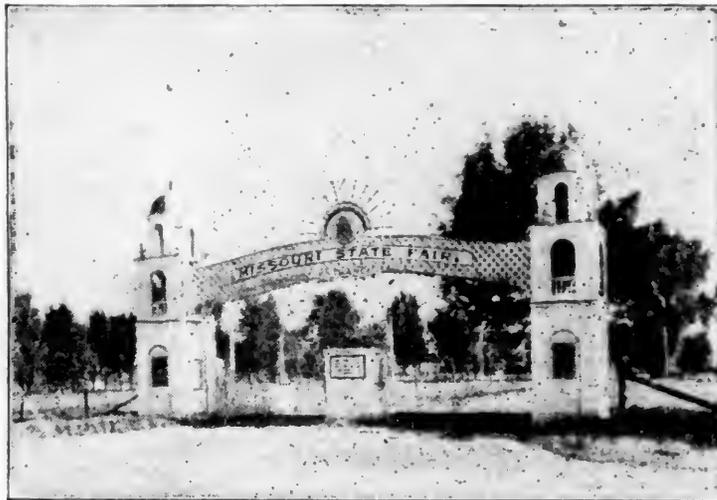

Plans for the fair have been under way since last fall and major arrangements have been completed. Cambria County last year, attempting its first big fair, won immediate State and national recognition and this year's agricultural show will be much bigger and of more importance than the first one at the million-dollar plant.

It was stated by association officials this week that the Industrial Exposition likely will be continued as a mid-summer show. Practically every one of the many exhibitors who displayed their products here expressed themselves as well pleased with the results, most of them making large sales as a result of the exposition.

Arrangements have been completed for the same high-class entertainment program for the fair as was offered last year and again at the exposition. The horse racing will be the best obtainable.

Junior Fair Association Organized at Ashley, O.

Ashley, O., July 10.—Ohio's first Junior Fair Association has been organized here, and with a Junior Board of 15 members will assist in the management of the Ashley Fair. The Junior Fair will be held in connection with the annual Ashley day and night fair, which is independent and tri-county. Fair officials are arranging to entertain the largest crowd ever assembled on the grounds.

Attractive entrance arch to Missouri's $1,500,000 State fair plant at Sedalia, leading into a 236-acre tract on which are located 41 permanent buildings, all being dressed up for the silver anniversary exposition August 15-22.

Greenville (Mich.) Fair

To Be Staged on Free-Gate Plan

Greenville, Mich., July 10.—The Greenville Free Fair will be held from August 18 to 21. This is the first year that this fair, the only one in Montcalm County, will be staged on a free-gate plan. Attractions will be presented each afternoon and evening before the grand stand, which is now being enlarged. Auto races are on the program for opening day and horse racing for the last three days. Fireworks will be presented every evening.

Contracts for midway shows and concessions are being let and every indication is that the fair will be the biggest ever held in Greenville. The fair is under entirely new management this year with Bert Silver, the old showman, as president and general manager of the enterprise, with leading business men of the entire community backing the fair. It will be remembered that only a few years ago the Greenville Fair was the leading one in this part of the State and it is hoped to regain the same reputation.

Dairy Cattle Department Add to K. C. Live-Stock Show

Kansas City, July 10.—At the annual meeting of the board of directors of the American Royal Live-Stock Show last week the addition of a dairy cattle department to the show was approved. A preliminary check of the premium lists showed about $65,000 would be offered in cash awards for the various live-stock departments. The show will be held November 14 to 21. E. F. Swinney is president and F. H. Servatius secretary.

Much Interest Displayed By Massachusetts Fairs

Boston, July 10.—The high record of more than a million persons attending agricultural fairs in Massachusetts in 1924 will probably be broken this year, according to A. W. Lombard, secretary of the Massachusetts Fair Association. He reported to a group of fair-association leaders that at no time since the association was started has there been so much interest in fairs so far ahead of the season. One of the reasons for this increased interest on the part of exhibitors is that the last legislature increased the State premium total from $25,000 to $30,000.

Clinton Fair Reorganized

Clinton, La., July 10.—At a recent meeting of citizens of East Feliciana Parish at the courthouse and sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce it was decided to reorganize the fair association and to have a fair in operation this fall. The dates were set for October 22-24, the last day to be devoted to the Negroes. C. J. Decuir has been elected secretary. The first fair held here was in 1887 and since then the people of this community have always displayed great interest in these affairs.

Johnny J. Jones Re-Engaged For Sarasota County Fair

Sarasota, Fla., July 10.—The Johnny J. Jones Exposition has been re-engaged for the Sarasota County Fair next winter as the prevailing attraction and midway.

Louisiana State Fair

Has Practically All Entertainment
Features Contracted--Opens
November 29

Shreveport, La., July 10.—Although the opening of the 1925 State Fair of Louisiana is more than three months off—November 29 is the starting date—the management has practically all the entertainment features contracted for, and feels that the field which has been booked will prove thoroughly popular with the patrons.

An eight-day race meet is on the program, which means there will be running races on the mile track every afternoon except three during the period of the fair. Liberal purses have been provided, and, judging by early reports he has received, Secretary-Manager W. R. Hirsch is satisfied that many of the fastest horses in the country will be seen in action.

Another entertainment feature will be automobile racing. Two days of this sport have been scheduled, and purses have been offered that are expected to attract some of the best-known drivers in the world. Something new for Louisiana State Fair visitors is push ball, which will be played afternoon and night each day in front of the grand stand.

Three days with football as the featured stadium attraction is also listed.

Thru Fred Barnes' agency a group of the most popular Hippodrome attractions has been booked, with performances both afternoon and evening on a large stage in front of the grand stand. Spectacular fireworks will also be on the evening's program daily, featuring Rome Under Nero. The Morris & Castle Shows, known as "Shreveport's Own", as Shreveport is headquarters for this organization, will furnish the Gladway entertainment.

Although recreational entertainment comes in for a large share of attention, the management, of course, keeps constantly in mind the educational importance of the State Fair, which, primarily, is for the purpose of improving the public welfare and upbuilding the resources of the area it serves. There will be approximately $50,000 in cash premiums, not counting race purses and special prizes, and in the live stock and poultry shows competition will be open to the world. In the agricultural department East Texans for the first time will have the privilege of competing this year, the concession being due to the interest East Texans take in the State Fair of Louisiana.

The most substantial improvement in properties this year is the construction of a new building for the Temple of Childhood, in which the child's welfare department will be held. When complete it will cost $10,000.

18th Annual Exhibition

To Be Held by Morgan County Fair Association, Deer Lodge, Tenn.

Deer Lodge, Tenn., July 10.—From September 15 to 18 the Morgan County Fair Association will hold its 18th annual exhibition here, a thriving little village on the Cumberland Plateau and in the newly developed oil region of Morgan County. Owing to the fact that the State has given very liberal aid, the management has appropriated splendid cash premiums in all departments, which will create added interest in the exhibition.

It is the aim and purpose of the management to make the boys' and girls' clubs exhibit one of the outstanding features and to this end it has devoted a great deal of time and money in organizing these clubs, with the result that it expects to see the largest, best and most interesting exhibit ever presented by these youngsters, who are under the direction of the county agent.

Under new management last year, new grounds consisting of 11 acres was purchased and has been fenced, necessary buildings erected and splendid water obtained by drilling, which resulted in the attendance being almost doubled, and to take care of the increase that is expected in exhibits this year another large building is being built.

The contract for amusements has been closed with the Fritz & Oliver Shows, in which The Billboard figured to a large extent. Oliver has promised the management to present some of the best shows, rides, music and free acts obtainable and if the amusements are in line with the kind and courteous treatment extended to the two officers of the association that motored to Coal Creek and closed the deal on their lot, a splendid program may be expected. H. R. Phillips is secretary of the fair association.

Buildings at Flemington Fair

Struck by Lightning—Horse Stables Destroyed
—New Ones Being Erected To Be Ready for Fair

Flemington, N. J., July 10.—On the night of July 4, after the celebration was over and the people had gone home, a terrific shower came up. The lightning struck the stables on the fairgrounds and the damage done was considerable. Forty-eight of the box stalls were destroyed. The main training barn, occupied by Tommy Berry, was also destroyed. This barn contained 12 boxes and was nicely equipped.

The only horses on the grounds were the 20th Century Circus Wonders, which gave a demonstration at the Fourth of July celebration. These horses were turned into the infield without damage. Berry's equipment was saved. Berry is on the Ohio Circuit, racing at the present time, and had all of his horses with him, which was very fortunate, as the fire made great headway, and it was only by the efforts of the Flemington Fire Department that any of the stables were saved.

There were 125 stalls in the row, and by cutting them in the middle the fire was prevented from spreading up the line. Specifications are being drawn for the erection of new and up-to-date buildings to take the place of those consumed by the flames, and work will be started at once.

There are 170 horses eligible to start in the eight races, each for $1,000 purses, to be held at the 16th annual fair, August 25-29, and the stables will be completed in time to house all of these horses comfortably. Those who have entries need have no fear about accommodations being provided for each and every one of them.

Employees of W. A. S. A. Celebrate the "Fourth"

The usual generous principal and mid-summer holiday spirit was greatly in evidence again this year at the executive offices of the World Amusement Service Association in Chicago. Frank P. Duffield, general manager of the Thearle-Duffield Fireworks Division and member of the firm's Board of Directors, ordered a box of fireworks for all the office employees, that they could have celebrations at their respective homes, and everyone, from the officers to Bobby, the office boy, left Friday, July 3, at noon, with a big bundle gratis.

Duffield also instructed the W. A. S. A. auditing department to hand everyone their weekly checks at noon on Friday, and to say that everyone was most pleased and thankful for this most generous and courteous treatment is to put it mildly.

J. O. Curwood Heads Fair

Noted Novelist Is New President of Owosso (Mich.) Fair

At a recent meeting of the Owosso (Mich.) Fair James Oliver Curwood, the noted Michigan novelist, was elected president. Owosso is Mr. Curwood's home town and he is greatly interested in the fair's development. Mr. Curwood is now in Europe with his family, but will return soon and assist Secretary-Manager W. J. Dowling in putting over a bigger and better fair from August 18 to 21.

"Fourth" Was Big Day In Salt Lake City

Salt Lake City, July 10.—This city had its biggest amusement day for many years and the horse races drew thousands to the State Fairgrounds, where mutual pay betting is allowed.

Saltair also opened for dancing July 4 with a new dance hall, erected as a temporary structure. This resort, as well as Pleasure Park, suffered from a heavy rain in the evening.

THEIR AMUSEMENTS AND PRIVILEGES WITH ITEMS OF INTEREST TO MUSICIANS

GRAND VIEW AT SINGAC, N. J., IS FINE AMUSEMENT PARK

Great Progress Made During Past Year on 35-Acre Tract—J. J. McCarthy, Well-Known Showman, Is General Manager

SINGAC, N. J., July 10.—A little more than year ago we visited the site of Grand View Park along the bank of the Passaic River here and saw just a strip of land, the beginning of a dance hall and the beginning of a merry-go-round house. Returning there recently we got the surprise of our life—we found one of the finest amusement parks in the East completed and in full operation. We could hardly believe our eyes, but upon checking up we found 35 acres of amusements, consisting of two roller coasters and eight other rides, about 80 concessions, a huge and beautiful dance hall, a complete kiddies' playground, about a mile of boardwalks (there are no dirt roads at all; everything is boardwalk) distributed over about four separate midways, a free act platform on which two free acts appear twice daily, fireworks, splendid restaurant and drink stands, and the site selected for the erection of an immense swimming pool, work on which will be started this season; plenty of good canoeing and band concerts afternoon and evening.

The park is ideally situated and has a drawing population of almost a half-million people, with 108 busses daily bringing the crowds out to the park from Newark, Paterson, Passaic, Garfield, Lodi, Montclair, Bloomfield, Morris-town and vicinity. The rides now installed and in operation are "The Thriller" and "The Skyscraper", roller coasters, a merry-go-round, whip, skooter, whirlpool, whirl-the-whirl, airplane swings, frolic, flier and Venetian swings, with an old mill, a turn-a-ride and a glee boat ride ordered and expected yet this season. There also is a pony track and a motordrome. The canoeing is done along a 900-foot stretch of the river front, but there is the whole river there to paddle in so patrons may remain out for hours. The swimming pool when built will be about 150 feet by 300 feet and will be modernly and completely equipped with all the latest innovations and conveniences for bathers. There is parking space for almost 3,000 autos at present.

There is a free gate afternoons except Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, but an admission charge of 10 cents is made in the evening. A combination ticket is sold for 75 cents which entitles the purchaser to admission to the park and a ride on all 10 rides; this gives over a dollar's worth of amusements at a nice saving.

The kiddies' playground is one of the best and most fully equipped it has been our pleasure to see. There is a carousel, Ell baby whip, railway, whirlover (all miniature), kiddie gym outfit, punch and judy show, wading pool, sand pit, letter boards, slides, swings (both kiddie and lawn), and a mother's house which is fully fitted with ranges on which mothers may warm milk, bed for resting, chairs and everything else, with a maid in attendance. The park management operates this. A goat run is to be installed later.

Twenty-five and 35 cents for women and men, respectively, is charged on week days in the dance hall and 35 and 50 cents on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. The dance floor is 90 by 130 feet and has a special art ceiling. It is beautifully decorated thruout and the music is furnished by Joe Krivea's six-piece Crystal Orchestra. Prof. Vito Bavetta's 20-piece concert band, which appeared last year at Luna Park, Coney Island, N. Y., is supplying the music for the afternoon and evening concerts and for the free acts. Last week's free acts were John Agee with his Brewery Horses and the Four Bradnas, comedy acrobatic act. The free-act stage is under the direction of Ernest Anderson and the acts and fireworks are booked by Wirth & Hamid, Inc. The Bradnas are members of the same family as Fred and Mme. Bradna of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus.

J. J. McCarthy, old-time well-known outdoor showman and park man, is general manager of the park and keeps everything humming. He is to be complimented for the wonderful layout and construction of the park. Everything is ideally situated and shows careful thought and planning on his part. B. F. McMahon is president of the corporation operating the park and Walter R. Hudson is treasurer. All three of them are on hand at all times to see that everything goes along smoothly.

The roster of ride owners includes:

Hits and Bits From Riverview

Chicago, July 9.—Interest in park baseball is becoming intense. The office force played the electricians last Sunday and lost. Well pitched good ball and with a little tighter support would have given the electricians a better run. One of the busiest men in the park right now is Eddie Moore, the man who makes the soft drinks and also all minor repairs on the property. His assistant, Louis Rentil, is as busy as the boss, too. Frank Burnett, manager of the Bobs and Jack Rabbit rides, takes a great deal of pleasure in beautifying the landscape around both places. He's never too busy to make things look better if there is any possible chance.

E. Stout, manager of the ballroom, has an institution that arouses the admiration of everybody. The great hall has been added to steadily until it is among the finest of its kind in the whole country. Little Johnny, manager of the merry-go-round, has all his brass work shined up and looking like new.

Charles Browning, of the Browning Amusement Company, was busy today overseeing the various concessions, among which is the Arcade No. 2, said to be the largest of its kind in the country and which has been completely remodeled and re-decorated and with all new pictures. The music is supplied by a big pipe organ with both popular and classic music. Hester Crowley is the manager and Jim Hurley is assistant. Another concession is the Santa Fe Limited, the miniature railway, with Bob White as superintendent and Arthur Acarizze as engineer. The miniature airplane is another Browning concession. Frank Proctor is the manager. Another concession is the "second division" of the Santa Fe Limited, with Fritz Siegfried as engineer. Puzletown is still another unit of entertainment with Ed (Dutch) Walton as manager. Jacob Gunderson is in the ticket box. Pat Brady is manager of Arcade No. 1 and Col. Hopkins is cashier.

Bring Action Against East Shore Amusement Company

Bridgeport, Conn., July 10.—Attorney Matthew A. Reynolds and the estate of the late Judge Edmund Zacker have brought an action against the East Shore Amusement Company of New Haven, Conn., to collect $25,000 for professional services rendered in the Lighthouse Point condemnation proceedings case. The defendants point to the fact that George W. Crawford, who represented the city of New Haven in the case, received but $4,500 for his services and claim that their counsel's fees are exorbitant.

Will Not Allow Sunday Dancing in Marion County, O.

Marion, O., July 10.—Probate Judge L. B. McNeal has announced he will not permit Sunday dancing in Marion County. Judge McNeal's statement answers the direct appeal of the Marion County Ministerial Association to place a ban on all forms of Sunday amusement at Crystal Lake Park. The judge making it clear that control of Sunday dancing is a legislative and not a judicial function.

Old Milwaukee Park Site Sold

Milwaukee, July 10.—The last 12 acres of what was once Ravinia Park, Oakland avenue, has been purchased by Leo and Leopold Goldman and will be platted soon. The park, which was formerly known as the Coney Island of Milwaukee, was once 30 acres large, 18 of which were bought by the Elk Traction Company for its car barns and homes for its employees.

ESMA WILSON

MUSICAL REVUES

To Be Staged at Forest Inn, Starlight Park, in the Bronx

New York, July 10.—The Amphion Producing Company will introduce an innovation in summer entertainment July 13 with the production of a series of mid-summer night revues to be staged in the open air at the Forest Inn, Starlight Park, in the Bronx. By a novel system of outdoor lighting effects it is expected to create the illusion of an indoor theater. A special stage has been constructed with disappearing backgrounds. The company will offer as the first week's bill "The Powder Puff Revue," with a change of program each week. A large cast has been assembled, headed by Violet McKee, Eddie Worth's Orchestra, which has just finished a tour of the Keith houses, will hold forth at the Veranda Cafe.

Krug Park, Omaha, Neb., Having Splendid Season

Omaha, Neb., July 10.—Krug Park is having one of the best seasons in its history. The "Fourth" broke all records for attendance and the rides and concessions were well patronized. Fred Hamm's orchestra of 15 talented musicians is one of the best musical organizations that has ever appeared at the resort and is drawing thousands to the attractive dance pavilion. The skooter, a new ride full of thrills, is a big favorite. Other attractions are Swanee river, big dipper, caterpillar, airplane, old mill, whip and merry-go-round.

The big swimming pool with novel swimming devices is more popular than ever these hot days. Many picnics from all parts of Nebraska have been booked for the season. Motion pictures are the free attraction offered by the park management. Manager Ingersoll has made Krug Park one of the most attractive places of amusement in the Middle West.

Dance Contests

Being Staged at Carlin's Park, Baltimore

Baltimore, July 10.—Following the successful termination of the Fox-Trot Contest which sent the winners to Atlantic City for a week trip John J. Carlin, owner of the park which bears his name, is staging a Waltz Contest along similar lines and it is meeting with the same sensational success. More than 60 couples are competing each Wednesday in the elimination contests. With his fingers ever on the public pulse, Mr. Carlin is understood to be planning a Charleston Contest on a huge scale.

In the park proper, Mr. Carlin is scrapping several of the older concessions and rides that have outlived their usefulness and is installing new devices. The best one in is something new. It is called "The Musical Swirl" and is a device that does a jig dance while swiveling rapidly to and fro to synchronized music. It was crowded last Sunday, its first day in operation. Picnics are being featured at the park this year.

"The Oaks"

Portland, Ore., Amusement Park, Rapidly Striking Its Logical
Early Summer Stride

Portland, Ore., July 9.—The eighth week of the 1925 season at the Oaks Amusement Park finds this scenic playground rapidly hitting its logical early summer stride. June 27 witnessed the banner week-day crowd of the year, and Sunday showed another near-capacity crowd on hand.

As the attractions for the outdoor stage under the oaks the Ithue Shaw bookings for the passing weeks are making that enviable goal of the outdoor showman—a weekly rotation of crowds, Portland papers have been according the programs much notice.

The Royal Khorassan Male Quartet occupies the headline position on the bill this week. Its personnel consists of Charles M. Schedler, first tenor; Paul E. Holm, second tenor; John McKnight, baritone, and Chester Stryker, basso. All members are finished performers, having sung together as a unit for more than two years. Their work is being enthusiastically praised. Their best numbers are "Garden House" and "Lulu Medley," specially arranged by Chester Stryker. Straw hats, serge coats and white trousers make the act dapper and smart. The supporting bill this week is likewise excellent. Stanley and Frank offer their "European Horizontal Bar" novelty. It brings in eccentric missteps in midair, double somersaults and ends with a sensational series of flyovers. It is 100 per cent an Oaks Park act and naturally the applause is lavish. Don Adams, late of the "Dominion Follies" in Winnipeg, Canada, opens with eccentric songs and patter of his own composition. Clifford and Vance, a team just off the Ackerman & Harris Time, present their novelty, "A Vaudeville Delicacy." A special added feature last Sunday was Al Adams on the rolling ball up a seven-foot incline.

A London Punch and Judy continues as a major park attraction under Prof. Fred Kriss, society entertainer. John F. Cordray, manager of "The Oaks", has always been keenly interested in Punch. The closing of schools finds Wednesday of each week again designated as Children's Day. A free ride on some park whirlygig is a suggestion which materially pads park receipts. Prof. Kriss offers extra performances of Punch and adds clown magic for that special day.

The Kortes and McKay traveling World's Museum of freaks and curiosities has just closed a sojourn of almost four consecutive weeks in the park. A bad break in weather opening days was overcome by good business ever since. As the company has a down-town location rented, they removed to it for four days this week, but expect to return soon for a special three-day engagement. The museum's features embrace Tom Tom, 445-pound man; pinhead girl; Madame Ruston's marionets; "Human Heart" maniac; Hajj Ben Ali, musical and mind-reading act; Electricia; Odaliska, the Persian vase dancer; Bozo, dwarf clown; King Dodo and others. Dr. J. C. McKay and Frank Foster are the lecturers. Thomas P. Heney is advance man.

New rides include the "tumble bug", and among the games are hy-goter. Both are getting a good play. The "merry mixup" is going strong, one of the very best in the park.

Big Business at Eastern Ohio Resorts

Canton, O., July 10.—Despite rain in the afternoon, Eastern Ohio amusement resorts enjoyed the highest July 4 in many years, officials of leading amusement parks reported. At Meyers Lake Park, where added attractions were offered by the management, concessionaires, the dance pavilion and the theater did capacity business.

Springfield Lake Park, Summit Beach Park and Riverview Park, all Akron district amusement centers, packed them in.

Elliotts at Fairyland Park

Kansas City, Mo., July 9.—The Four Elliotts, said to be one of the highest aerial acts on the road, commenced an engagement of four weeks at the feature act at Fairyland Park June 28 and are twice a day, at 5 and 10 p.m., thrilling and pleasing the huge crowds that gather to witness their performance. This act is booked solidly for fairs, celebrations, etc., until December and is under the management of Billie J. Collins.

Many Oldtimers at Gumpertz Parkway Baths

Brighton Beach, N. Y., July 10.—Samuel W. Gumpertz has never quite forgotten the days when he was a vaudeville performer and for that reason he gathers around him each summer at his Parkway Baths many old friends of his former days. Members of the profession, regardless of what branch, always get the preference in the matter of vacancies anywhere about the establishment. Right now there are 15 showfolk acting in one capacity or another down there and they all appear happily situated.

Banks Winter and his wife, Blanch Newcomb, are there. Banks wrote that famous old song White Wings, You Never Grow Weary. His wife is the daughter of Bobby Newcomb, the old songwriter, and is a singer and dancer of considerable ability. Then there's William (Billy) Johnson, singing comedian, ex-burlesquer and veteran of the vaudeville teams of the Johnson Trio, Grendell and Esther and Billy Johnson and Johnson, Horton and Johnson. Also among those present are Todd Judge, of the Three Judges; Alec Sievert, of Barnum & Bailey fame; Harriett Miller, character woman; all three of the Three Byrne Brothers, famous for their musical comedy, Eight Bells; Wm. Cameron, of Wilson and Cameron; Harry Bartlett, of Bartlett and May; Chas. Burke, of the Burke Brothers; Sam Murphy, of Sam and Ida Murphy, black-face comedians and veterans of the silent drama; Eddie Crawford, of the Crawford Bros.' Minstrels, and Mary Billsberry, dramatic soprano. Somebody remarked that Mr. Gumpertz could put out almost any kind of show, recruiting his talent from among his employees, which remark is agreed with by those in the know.

Banks Winter will be 50 years in the show business within the next year. Will Rogers, Chauncey Olcott and others of his friends are arranging a celebration that will eclipse all previous celebrations of a similar nature.

Luna Park, Coney Island

Coney Island, N. Y., July 10.—Marceline, the famous Agout or pantomimic clown, who has appeared wherever there are circuses, is now working in a clown's delight—a one-ring circus. Marceline joined out at Luna Park just before the Fourth. He has been receiving rousing receptions at almost every performance. Rose Hulitt, a dainty broncho-buster, has just joined the Wild West Show and Kodo. The Samoan Village Octet delights the crowds with its marvelous singing.

Luna is still popular with large groups of excursionists. The Modern Woodmen of America and the International Photo Engravers' delegations recently paid the park a visit en masse. Tuesday night the management entertained the newspapermen, press agents, artists and camera men from many of the metropolitan dailies and papers in neighboring cities.

Olympic Park, Irvington, N. J.

Irvington, N. J., July 10.—Olympic Park, one of the largest parks in the State, is having the best season of its career. It is understood, Lee Fuerstein, who is more or less of a fixture here, has the aluminum and white enamelware concession this year. George Stanhoff, owns a number of concessions in the park and is enjoying fine business, particularly at his jewelry booth. His wife is known as the "woman with the iron voice" and works with him behind the counters. Harry Curtis is doing well with his four concessions. This is his 14th season. His doll wheel is operated by Jimmy Viola, the blanket wheel by Frankie Cuel, autos and kiddie cars by Eddie Hirkaby, hoopla by Charles Borchert, with Willie Hect assisting. The bird and pet stand run by Nick Serra is having a good play this year.

Hancock Park, Hancock, Pa.

Hancock, Pa., July 9.—Preparations are being made to take care of the largest crowd of the season at the Hancock Park Saturday evening. The Famous Allentown Band will render a full program of classical and popular music. The dance pavilion continues in its popularity and is drawing large crowds, and Bertsch's Arcadian Orchestra of Allentown will furnish the dance music July 11 and Miller's Fiddlers will be on the job for those who enjoy the old-time square dances.

The following will appear at the park during the season: Tim Temp's Clown Band and Orchestra, Emaus Band, Neubert's Entertainers, Police Band and Orchestra, Metropolitan Band, Maucie Band and Orchestra, Mohnton Band and the Philharmonic Band and Orchestra.

Joe Randal, Michael Leon and Bozzie Sabia operate a cat game at Riviera Park, Newark, N. J. Ted Osborne is managing the caterpillar and dodgem out there, and is being assisted by A. Roberge and C. Phillippl. Anna Phillippl is cashier again this season. Mrs. Hart has a lamp stand and cigar concession in this same park. Bronley and Harkavy have the frankfurter stand and the skooter ride. Thomas Cifello has coast beef and hamburger and Jack Corday the pillow concession. Major Ciriql, the midget, has charge of the front entrance and is a great friend of the ladies and children.

Coney Island Chatter

Coney Island, N. Y., July 10.—The crowd on the fifth of July was twice as great as the one on the Fourth, the boys got more money out of the holiday crowd, most of them report. With a hot spell now in full force, the bathhouses are getting top money.

Henry Morey, a real oldtimer, is still acting as ringmaster of the one-ring circus in Luna Park. Morey still makes a fine appearance and can hold his own with the best of them in his particular line.

Frank Gottilly, Coney's favorite barber for the past 40 years, is no more. He succumbed recently to pneumonia. The boys will all miss him.

The Great Gravity, the "man of 1,000 thrills", is lecturing in the Steeple Side Show. He's very interesting to listen to and holds their attention.

Capt. Fred is sure proud of his new fishing boat, the "Rosa E." It leaves the Stillwell avenue bridge every morning and comes back with a good catch—we almost said "always" but we really mean "sometimes."

There isn't a well-pressed suit on the Island since Banks, the tailor, took sick several weeks ago. All wish him a speedy recovery.

Chief Red Eagle does the lecturing in the Dreamland Circus Side Show. Two good friends of his are Lloyd Fowle, the legless wonder, and Chief Amok, a head hunter, who are exhibiting with this show.

Paul Desmuke, the armless marvel, and little Baron Paucel, the midget, are also in the Dreamland Side Show. The Baron's a deputy sheriff in Kings County and has a badge that's almost as big as himself. He's proud of it, too.

The Baron says he just has to pull his badge and Joe Lambert, the strong man, goes right back to his platform and tells his troubles to his wife, Flo Lambert, who is working with him.

Prince Lei Lanj sure has framed a pretty show in his Royal Samoan Village attraction. And the building they work in has been done real attractive in Samoan fashion. It's the talk of Luna Park.

Mike Lanihan, chief cryer of the Rummy squad of the Atlantics, is among the missing. Reports have it he'll return in September, if he can find Sea Side Walk. Let's hope he's still able to.

The lineup of Jimmy Ringi's Side Show includes Harry Zara, talker, dancer and magician; Jack Healy, of the sword box; Maharajah, magician and lecturer; Fatima, Oriental dancer; Milly, the lady with the horse mane, and Fanny Toombs, famed for her needlework done with the mouth.

Others in that attraction are Baby Stella, the fat lady; Abomah, the tall lady; Pawnee Bill, the hair gladiator; Dolores Shephard and Anna De Lisle, dancers, and Robt. Muvihill, better known as "Haba-Haba" the wild man. He's some wild!

Of course, Jimmy Ringi himself is much in evidence. Does everything from play the piano, beat the drum, sell the tickets, to lecture and count the shekels. In his spare time he sleeps, maybe.

A. Koustan looks after things in the Big Show, the illusion show on Surf avenue which he owns, together with S. J. Gordon. They're now operating as Gordon and Koustan.

The waiters in George and Joe's restaurant are scheduled to race the hash-slingers from Louis' Home restaurant soon in the pool in the New Stillwell Turkish Baths. They're used to getting their fingers wet while serving soup; wonder how it'll feel to be all wet?

Eddie Lind, the handcuff king and escape artist, is also with Ringi. We almost forgot him. He's clever at his stuff and puts it over big. Makes them gasp.

Ted Murray's sign business continues to prosper, which is good news, for they know how to turn out the stuff to suit showfolks.

Scopes, the evolution monkey, trained by Don Kelly, entertained the newspapermen and press agents at Luna Tuesday night. Wonder what Scopes would have to say about newspapermen this morning?

Among the attractions in the World Circus Side Show on the Bowery are Koo-Koo, the bird girl; Nona, the midget; Chief Red Bar, the fire eater; Martha, the armless wonder, and Sweet Marie, the fat girl.

They vie for attention with Madame X and her electric chair act; Prof. Christensen, the mentalist; Lionet, the lion-faced girl, and Mrs. Christensen, the lung tester, for they are in the same show. Fantome works the sword box and does the lecturing inside.

The Wonder Wheel, one of the biggest ferris wheels in the country, is getting a good play from the crowds. The caterpillar rides are quite popular, too.

Arnold Neble's "Noah's Ark", is causing much talk on the boardwalk and also getting quite some patronage. It's well framed, so maybe that's partly the reason.

The show that starts at 10 p.m. at Loew's New Theater is quite popular with concessionaires and folks who work along the Island. They usually manage to slip away about that time at least one night a week to look the bill over.

TICKET-ISSUING MACHINE

FOR USE WHEREVER
GENERAL ADMISSION IS SOLD

RAPID—It will sell as many tickets per hour as any machine on the market. Built to handle up to five kinds of tickets and to issue from one to five of each kind. Requires but one feeding unless you desire to change tickets. Each magazine holds 4,000 standard punched and folded tickets.

DEPENDABLE—You will never blow a fuse or have your current cut off during a heavy sale as does happen with electric machines. When the crowd is ready to buy, you are always ready to sell. Every ticket sold is metered and must be accounted for when you check up the cash. Only a burglar can beat it.

ECONOMICAL—The first cost is a great deal less than even the cheapest electric machine and there is no operating cost thereafter.

MANUAL—Being hand operated, it is free from the faults common to other types of ticket issuing machines.

ANTEED FOR 10 YEARS]

The "McClintock" is a sturdily built, classy looking machine, fit to grace the most elaborate Box Office of the swellest Metropolitan Picture Theatre, yet low enough in price for even the small town Movie. McCarthy and his associates can justly point with pride at their achievements for they certainly have erected one of the best amusement parks ever built and when the three new rides, the swimming pool and other additions are installed, Grand View Park will hold its own with any other park in the country and should be the mecca of all pleasure seekers in its vicinity.

George S. Carfolite is still doing business at Rye Beach Pleasure Park, Rye, N. Y., with his 16 head of ponies on one of the best tracks in the country. He's been there for the past 14 years. A Hartford-bound car came down the hill and struck the bus, throwing it away from the track and hurling several passengers thru the rear windows.

Big Day at Sandusky, O.

Boats to Cedar Point handled capacity crowds all day and on Sunday. Put-in-Bay and other lake centers report the heaviest business in recent years.

Park Paragraphs

W. J. Kuminsky has added 10 more stands to his already large list of concessions at Bergen Point, Bayonne, N. J. This spot, by the way, has about 150 concessions, with every conceivable kind of merchandise offered.

E. Mansfield, the "candy kid", is doing fine business at Dreamland Park, Newark, N. J., so he reports. Gordon Brown's cider stand and J. A. (Honest John) Thalheimer's soda and beer stands in the same park are popular spots with thirsty folks.

A recent addition to Vancouver's (Canada) outdoor amusements is the "Giant Dipper", erected at Happyland, Hastings Park. The business done with this attraction since its opening has been enormous and has justified all expectations.

Over the protest of Ray Watters, attorney for Akron, O., dance hall owners, city council voted July 8 to permit Clerk Josephine Bauman to withdraw her certification of the recent petitions, calling for another vote on Sunday dancing in the city at the August primaries.

Robinson's Elephants, under the direction of Dan Noonan, recently finished a two-week engagement at Sea Breeze Park, Rochester, N. Y., and made a big hit. Every day, following the afternoon show, Noonan would take the pachyderms to Lake Ontario for a swim and this drew large crowds.

Bill Berndt is now on the front of the "King Bee" coaster at Granada Park, Detroit, Mich. The crew on this ride includes: Jake Stahlev, manager; Mat Boreys, assistant; Pink Borup, fares; Herb Tamson, brakes; John Pack, floorman; Jake O'Connor, gate; Miss Stevens, tickets; Betty Stafford, checker, and Berndt, talker.

Lieut. J. A. Hitchcock and Miss Patricia furnished the free attraction of water walking and "fire walk" with lake illumination at Lakeside Electric Park, Ruthven, Ia., over the "Fourth". The act proved a magnet, there being 15,000 people on the grounds. Manager F. G. Sissenbanner of the park claimed that it was the record crowd of the season. Gustave Derne's dance orchestra attracted a big crowd.

Railroad Mishaps

Encountered by Dodson's World's Fair Shows at Urbana, Ill.--- Cars in Wreck, Later a Fire---Several Persons Injured

Dodson's World's Fair Shows met with some mishaps to a number of their personnel and a portion of their railroad equipment during their engagement at Urbana, Ill., last week.

July 8 press dispatches from Urbana announced that 10 members of the show company had been injured when an engine had shunted a cut of cars into the carnival train on a siding. Some additional details on this accident, also an account of a destructive fire later at the show cars, are contained in the following, which was communicated to The Billboard late last week by H. E. Sanford, of the Dodson organization:

A bad accident happened here when a freight crew, in making a "flying switch" with four cars loaded with steel, threw them in on the side track on the six coaches of the show. Fortunately the stock car happened to be standing about three car lengths from the coaches, which broke the force of the collision. Manager Dodson's private car was thrown entirely from the rails and things in the other cars were thrown all over the floor. Several people were hurt, but none seriously.

Thursday evening, just as the shows were opening, word was received that the coaches were on fire, and Manager Dodson and a crew of men left the grounds for the scene of the conflagration. On arriving there they found that the privilege car and one stateroom car had been burned, the car being a total loss and the stateroom car being about one-third burned up. Manager Dodson at once ordered new cars. They will be delivered to the show at Terre Haute, Ind., the next stand.

Decatur, last week, turned out to be a real "red one". The engagement closed with a wonderful crowd Saturday. The run to Urbana was a short one and everything was on the lot early Sunday evening. Things opened up nicely, but Tuesday was light, owing to the Sells-Floto Circus being in Champaign. Nearly everyone "took in" the circus in the afternoon as the guests of its manager, Zack Terrel, and many of the circus folks returned the visit at night.

Etta Louise Blake Undergoes Operation in Detroit Hospital

Detroit, Mich., July 9.—Etta Louise Blake, of the Zeldman & Poelle Shows, was successfully operated upon for stomach trouble at the Providence Hospital here yesterday morning, and latest reports are that she is resting easy, but that it will be some time before she is able to rejoin the show.

Miss Blake was in a hospital in Lorain, O., recently, and it was thought that her trouble was over, but specialists here decided that an operation was necessary, altho they assured her that it was not of a dangerous character.

J. L. Cronin Shows

Jeffersonville, Ind., July 10.—The J. L. Cronin Shows are playing here this week, so far to fair business. The stand for last week was Mitchell, Ind. General Agent Harry Deiderich is back on the job after having a visit with the Mrs. and his mother at Youngstown, O. Mrs. Cronin has returned to the show after a few weeks' visit in Michigan. The writer is handling all contest promotions, local ads and does second-man advance work—had a visit with the "old reliable" Bud Hawkins, of the Hawkins Players, at Madison, Ind., and can say that Bud has a fine show. L. MITCHELL RAMSEY.

Talbot Reports Good Business

Chicago, July 9.—Edward C. Talbot, general agent for the D. D. Murphy Shows, came in from Saginaw, Mich., Wednesday and said business was quite good with the show. He said last week was also good at Port Huron and that more than 20,000 were on the lot July 4.

Felice Bernardi Gets

The Arizona State Fair

A wire from Felice Bernardi, owner-manager of the Bernardi Exposition Shows, July 10 informed that his organization had just closed contracts to furnish exclusive shows, riding devices and concessions for this year's Arizona State Fair, held annually at Phoenix, Ariz.

George Genac Severely Bitten by Large Monkey

Uhrichsville, O., July 8.—Agent the old saying, "What happens twice must happen thrice," the third accident of the season on the Wise Shows occurred yesterday, when George Genac, manager of the 10-in-1, was severely bitten by one of the giant monks. The beast tore a large piece of flesh from George's left arm and he is now in the hospital at Dennison, a half mile from Uhrichsville. The doctors at first feared that amputation would be necessary, but today the surgeon said that while the patient is in grave danger it is thought that his superb health and strength will pull him safely thru. The main artery was severed, and a deep piece of flesh, about one inch wide and four inches long, was torn out of the fleshy part of the arm.

Earlier in the season a working man on the chair-o-plane had the end of his finger torn off. The second accident occurred when the high wire of Mills and Mills fell to the ground with them. This last accident is the most serious of the three. George is bearing up bravely under the terrible pain and wanted to leave the hospital today, but Manager Wise will not allow him to leave until the flesh starts to heal and all danger of infection is over. During Mr. Genac's stay in the hospital the side show is being managed by Mr. Courtney, who has the front of the Minstrel Show.

"Daddy" Hildreth Reports Good "Fourth" With Business

St. Louis, July 9.—J. W. (Daddy) Hildreth was a Billboard visitor yesterday and today and informed that De Soto, Mo., the present week's stand of his Dixieland Shows, is proving an exceptionally big one, the rides especially doing a wonderful business.

Fiat River, in the heart of the lead belt of Missouri, was by far the best week for the show in its history, according to Mr. Hildreth. Perfect weather all last week made it a banner engagement. Mrs. Hildreth's new whip ride arrived and was put in operation there. All rides and shows did excellent business, while the concessions were overtaxed up to the last minute Saturday night, he says, the only exceptions being the various soft drink and ice-cream stands, which nearly ran completely out of stock on the afternoon of the Fourth. George Ogletree and Shorty Williams are to be complimented on their improved midway cafe. Prof. Roy Trice and his band made a splendid impression with the natives. The writer at this time understands that the show will play in the vicinity of St. Louis during the next two weeks, after which Manager Hildreth starts on his string of fairs.

McClellan Shows Had Good Week at Superior, Wis.

Kansas City, Mo., July 8.—The Kansas City office of The Billboard received advices from the McClellan Shows, from McCook, Neb., where they are playing this week, that they had a big success in Superior, Neb., their stand for Fourth of July week. Further advice was that this was the first year in several that a carnival company had been in Superior and that business was big for every one with the organization.

Carnival Draws Crowds At Seneca Falls, N. Y.

Seneca Falls, N. Y., July 9.—The World of Fun Shows, a carnival, have been drawing thousands of people to the third ward playground here each night so far this week. The shows are being conducted under the auspices of the Seneca Falls Fire Department and Business Men's Association to aid in raising funds for its annual convention here July 22 and 23.

McConnell in Chicago

Chicago, July 9.—George McConnell, of Des Moines, Ia., a ride manager, who recently closed with the Foley & Burk Shows on the Coast, was a Billboard caller this week. He said the F. & B. people have a wonderful show and have been doing a nice business. Mr. McConnell's father, William, of the old firm of McConnell & Bloomer, had one of the early-day carnivals of the Midwest.

DeKreko Optimistic

Chicago, July 9.—Gene DeKreko dropped in from Stevens Point, Wis., where the show is playing this week, and said he was quite pleased with things in general. He said the show had the biggest July 4 business in Oshkosh in five years.

PLEASANT GROUP OF "LITTLE FOLKS" Harry A. Illions Freed of Charge by Coroner's Verdict

While the Johnny J. Jones Exposition was playing in Dayton, O., recently, members of the French and Belgian Midgets attraction visited the plant of the National Cash Register Co. and the above photo resulted.

Relative to the death of Samuel Murphy, a former member of a ride crew with the Sheesley Shows at Winnipeg, Can., July 2, mention of which was made in last issue's obituary columns, Harry A. Illions, general manager of the H. F. Maynes rides with that organization, was charged with inflicting injuries that caused the death. The Manitoba Free Press of July 4 carried the following account of the coroner's verdict and details:

"That Samuel Murphy, employee of the General Hospital Thursday evening, met his death thru acute peritonitis, caused by blows inflicted by person or persons unknown, was the verdict of a coroner's jury which met at the city police court last evening.

"Harry A. Illions, who was at first alleged to have caused the injuries to Murphy in a fight on Thursday night last week, was freed by this verdict, the evidence showing that it was after this fracas that the man received his fatal wounds. The only injuries inflicted upon Murphy in his mixup with Illions, witnesses said, were confined to the face, whereas the deceased died of rupture of the stomach. Dr. Barney McPhail, who saw the man on Thursday night of last week, upheld this statement, as did Dr. Childs and another interne. Dr. McCowan, who performed the autopsy, stated that a rupture of the stomach would most likely take fatal effects about three to five days after infliction, whereas Murphy's fight with Illions had occurred a week before his death.

"Evidence given showed that on Thursday, June 25, Murphy, who was at the time under the influence of liquor, had been acting extremely wild about the grounds, and had been carrying a revolver. He made his way into a wagon containing a generator, a dangerous place for a man in his condition to be. Illions, it was said, sent in Henry Hoyer to order him out. Murphy refused to go and Illions himself went in. A minute or so later Murphy came out, rolling down the steps of the wagon. He stated later that Illions struck him in the face, and by Illions' own statement he had 'thrown him out.' C. Sheesley also stated that Illions had struck deceased. Murphy was taken to the hospital, where it was found that his nose was fractured. He was sent away and returned the following morning. He was seen about the lot on Saturday and Sunday, and part of Monday, seeming to be none the worse for his treatment, but still drinking at intervals.

"On Monday night he did not return to the grounds, but showed up on Tuesday in a serious condition. He refused to divulge where he had been, but his condition was desperate. He was terribly swollen about the face, and complained of sickness. Thursday night his condition was so critical that he was again removed to the General Hospital, where he died at 9 o'clock. When asked night before last who was responsible for his condition, he was not lucid. 'Several,' he said. He insisted that it was not Illions, and that he had not seen Illions since their disagreement of a week before. Murphy made a conflicting statement to Detective McCutcheon on the night of his death, saying that he had 'mixed in no other fights since the week before.' "Harry Illions was called before the jury, but was not required to give evidence. The witnesses, with the exception of medical men and police officers, were connected with the shows. Sergeant Murphy and James Gray were the officers testifying."

Harry Deiderich a Visitor

About Completely Recovered From Appendicitis Attack

Harry Deiderich, general agent the J. L. Cronin Shows, was a business visitor to Cincinnati last week, from Jeffersonville, Ind., where the organization was playing, and called at The Billboard. Harry, but a few days previous, had again assumed his duties with the show after a three weeks' treatment for appendicitis at his home in Youngstown, O. His attending physician, who performed an operation thru a "freezing" application. He was feeling "nearly his old self" again. He informed that the show had met up with a windstorm on the "Fourth", some damage being done to canvas, but this was being immediately replaced by Mr. Cronin.

Capitol Outdoor Shows

Lebanon, N. H., July 7.—The Capitol Outdoor Shows are playing here this week during the Firemen's Convention and prospects are conspicuously bright. Despite two nights of rain last week at Barre, Vt., the stand there proved one of the best of the season so far, with all shows, rides and concessions playing to an excellent business the "Fourth". George Travers, owner of the Travers Shows, was a visitor Thursday afternoon and night and a party was arranged in his honor by Assistant Manager R. C. (Bob) Crosby. Another show has been added, it being Nanaska's Royal Hawaiians. John Tucker joined with two concessions, as did Jack Wilson with three. JACK LA MONT (for the Show).

Isler Shows in Storm

Kansas City, July 8.—The local office of The Billboard is just in receipt of telegraphic advices from the Isler Greater Shows from Charlton, Ia., their stand for this week, that a terrible windstorm, accompanied by heavy rain, visited Charlton Monday night and caused some destruction to the shows. It was stated that the bowling alley concession was blown to pieces, but no further details were given. Shenandoah, Ia., last week, was reported a good stand for these shows, with excellent crowds in attendance the "Fourth".

Miller Bros.' Shows

Please Crowds at North Adams

North Adams, Mass., July 7.—Miller Bros.' Shows played here last week and pleased a large crowd on the "Fourth" with their shows and rides, and fireworks as an added attraction. The company played under the auspices of the Hoosac Valley Agricultural Society. It was one of the largest carnivals that has played this city. It is making its first appearance in the East and seems to be getting by nicely.

Concessions Again Working at Spokane

Spokane, Wash., July 7.—Altho a number of stands were closed opening night of Snapp Bros' Shows, here this week under "Disabled American Veterans" auspices, most games were permitted to operate, marking a turn in police policy of the past six years. Commissioner Maurice Smith, who was voted out early this year, permitted neither games of skill or chance at carnival or fair dates. The new regime at the city hall is showing a more liberal policy but insists the public be given a run for its money. Two detectives minutely inspected the devices with the shows.

Carnivals have steered shy of Spokane for five or six years, but with the Snapp Shows doing well at the Stampede and Regatta at Coeur d'Alene, Id., near here, last week, and going strong now in Spokane, two other companies are now en route. The Almer K. Kilne Shows will exhibit under auspices of a community club in the East Sprague district of the city next week and the Boucher-French Shows have dates for August.

Lachman-Carson Shows
 (Have Late Opening at Aurora, Ill.)
 Elgin, Ill., July 9.—On account of remaining over and playing at Spring Valley, Ill. Sunday the Lachman-Carson Shows did not arrive at Aurora until late Monday evening, too late to open for that night. However, there was a terrific windstorm at Aurora that night, so the loss of the receipts was probably in fact fortunate. They are playing Aurora under the auspices of the Aurora Baseball Club at its park, New York street and Farnsworth avenue. This is the first carnival the city has had in its limits for several years. Harold Bushea and P. White contracted the date. Tuesday night the local (Elgin) representative of The Billboard visited the show. It was having a good business. The first part of the week at Spring Valley was disappointing to the showfolks, but Friday and Saturday (the "Fourth") all the shows and rides were liberally patronized, the writer was informed. The Aurora Beacon News, which has seemed to be bitterly opposed (for some reason or other) to carnivals, treated Mr. Bushea nicely and has been according the show some nice mentions. The Mayor (Mr. Greene), the writer was informed, was also very courteous to Mr. Bushea when the latter called to invite His Honor to look over the show. The writer cannot but feel and express himself in complimentary terms for Aurora, because of this change in attitude toward deserv-ing shows. W. A. ATKINS.

Nat Reiss Shows

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 7.—New Brighton did not prove the good stand expected for the Nat Reiss Shows owing to the weather, as it rained every night. Saturday (the "Fourth") the midway was flooded, but the show was open at 8 p.m. and did very good business. All shows and rides were open last night on time and every one did a very good business, which indicates that Pittsburgh will be one of the banner weeks of the season.

All of the fronts of the shows are being painted, also all the railroad equipment. The show entertained the orphans of the New Brighton Home last week, also the newsboys of Beaver Valley. Charlie Johnson is having quite a time with his snake. It got out this morning and had the whole midway to itself, but was captured and put back in the cage. The Hutchens Animal Show now has George Miller making announcements and it is getting to be one of the feature attractions. It includes John T. Hutchens, owner; J. H. Barnes, No. 1 ticket box; Bob Wise, No. 2 box; Princess Valetta, midget doll lady; Sallor Ross, tattooed man; Chief Congo, fire eater; Brown and Brown, Zulu artists; "Prince George", high-school horse, dog circus and 35 cages of rare animals.

W. D. Arthur, general freight agent here of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was a visitor last week and spent the entire evening with the showfolks. Mr. Arthur remarked that it was quite a treat to get away from his office for a night's recreation. Happy Jack Eckert, the widely known fat man, had quite a few of his friends pay him a visit Monday. Joe Clifford, of the safety director of fice, Pittsburgh, was a visitor last night and spent the entire evening with the show. Mr. Clifford complimented the management on the organization. General Agent Bob Kline's visiting the show this week. George Rogers, general agent Murphy Bros. Shows, was a visitor; also Harry Crandell, of the McIntyre Circus; Joe Haggerty, representing the World at Home Shows; M. B. Golden, general agent the Bernard Greater Shows, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Price, late of the Zeldman & Polle Shows. Mr. Price is now connected with Kennywood Park as concession manager.

Billie Clark's Shows

Williamson, W. Va., July 8.—Billie Clark's Broadway Shows' train pulled into Williamson Sunday evening and the paraphernalia was immediately unloaded and transported to the show grounds. The run from Narrows, Va., last week's stand, was made in good time. This town and vicinity seems in good condition, industrially and financially, and the shows have been having good business, particularly the Ruschold Minstrels and the rides. Harry Biggs and wife are having a good week with their blanket wheels, and Hiram Bentle is putting on two more concessions this week, making him seven in all. This organization starts its fair season the week of July 20 at Mount Sterling, Ky. All of which is according to an executive of the above shows.

New York, July 9.—There was an error in the advertisement of C. E. Thompson & Company, bill-cage im-porters, which appeared in the July 11 issue. The address as inserted read "85 Cortland street, New York, N. Y." but it should have been "81".

MIDWAY CONFAB
 • BY DEBONAIR DAB •

(Communications to 25-27 Opera Place, Cincinnati, O.)

"Mr. Public" is susceptible! Smiles get more receipts than frowns! A pleased expression really is psychological!

Many a gink living in a "glass house" has thrown stones at the carnival business.

H. A. (Happy) Holden last week joined the advance staff of the Great White Way Shows.

Word from Ludington, Mich., had it that the Lachman-Carson Shows had been signed for a forthcoming Mid-Summer Festival and Fair there.

A fellow postcarder that the show he was with "was" an added attraction at a celebration at the town he was in July 4—and the card was mailed July 3.

How would it do for a large carnival to have an "information" booth in the tanooga, Tenn., that he has been promoting boxing matches there and doing fairly well. However, he is not thru with the show business and may go out for the fairs with some caravan.

When you read an editorial or some other article allowed to pass by a newspaper editor, harping on "bad environment" with "all carnivals", sort of check up by looking over the pictures printed in the same paper!

Half Cory, whose Lucky Boy Minstrels are a big feature with Zeldman & Polite, has definitely made up his mind to take out his Minstrel Show for a tour of "one-nighters" at the conclusion of the present carnival season.

Lady Tiny, the smallest of the four Burt W. Earles' Midgets, and who a few weeks ago joined the troupe from abroad, now understands the American idea of a patriotic celebration. She spent her first Fourth of July in America at Sheboygan, Wis., with the C. A. Wortham Shows, and center of the midway—questions of a "personal" nature not to be answered?

While you are reading this, "Charlie Blue" and his family will be trying to enjoy the "pure and needful"—a motoring-camping trip (this week and next)—on Charlie's annual vacation.

Bob Sickles, general agent for Billie Clark's Broadway Shows, informed that he had a very pleasant visit recently with Jack Oliver and his personnel of the Fritzy & Oliver Shows at Junction City, Ky.

Fred Houseman and Wm. P. Cahill, former troupers, visited West's World's Wonder Shows at Kingston, N. Y., July 5, and the next day Christy Bros.' Circus, meeting old friends with both shows.

There are at least two old-head circus men with Rubin & Cherry this year—Rhoda Royal, who formerly had his own railroad circus, and George Rollins, who at one time was a partner of Sig Sautelle.

According to reports (indirectly received) quite a number of the caravans had bloomers on the "Fourth", in most instances because of wind and rain. As will be noted in this issue, several of them provide details for the readers.

Capt. Scotch Bobbie Infos from Chat-

she had the fun of getting off her own fireworks.

E. (Curly) Smiley, tattooer and otherwise entertainer in pit shows, late of the J. L. Cronin Shows, spent a few days in Cincinnati early last week and informed that he had joined out with Macy's Exposition Shows, then playing Sharonville, O.

Mrs. Claude Mullen, who with her "hubby" is with West's World's Wonder Shows this season, is said to be quite noticeably adding to her avoirdupois. Deb. figures that the Mrs. has every needed opportunity—she's cashier at the midway restaurant.

A. Burks, hall-game man, and Ray Burns, cookhouse concessionaire, both of the Mathis Amusement Company, ran into Cincinnati last week on business from Cleves, O. Burks said he played a very remunerative one-day independent date at Osgood, Ind., the "Fourth".

"Bill" McCoy, the barber with the Zeldman & Polite Shows, has his troubles. He says he doesn't mind Earl Chambers' monkeys eating his soap or Dakota Max's goats feasting on his towels or Lavardo's dog drinking his wash water, but he is strenuously opposed to John Masterson's baby donkeys swallowing his hair tonic!

McCoy has built up a nice trade for himself, all of the hopped-head ladies with the show regularly patronizing him, as well as the "mere men".

The Knickerbocker Shows were struck by a heavy windstorm at Bridgeville, Pa., July 4, nearly all the tops being blown down, according to word from that section last week. The show was remaining another week at Bridgeville to make all needed repairs.

On the front page of The Mansfield (O.) News of July 5 in a two-column "box" headed "From the Editor's Notebook (Editorial)" one of the paragraphs read: "If all carnivals were of the Johnny J. Jones type there would be no protests. It was a clean exhibition and furnished wholesome amusement."

It remains to be seen how "on-the-level" carnival organizations are henceforth treated in Illinois. The "victors" needn't wear broad smiles—yet. If two certain classes of entertainment purveyors in mind start "hogging" their opportunities this is one "column" that will do its best to show up details and help tear down a few "glass houses".

Too many managers expect their p. a's to feature "ad readers" above news in their "show letters". In a showman's paper the readers are far more interested in NEWS, and not of the predictive caliber—many a looked-forward-to "big thing" has turned out a rank bloomer, so it's better to tell what happened than what is expected (it's more informative).

Class 1 railroads of the country paid $340,342,000 in Federal and State taxes during 1924, which total exceeded that of every previous year, it was recently announced at Washington by the Bureau of Railway Economics. This was an increase of $8,426,608, or 2.5 per cent over the taxes paid in 1923. Compared with 1913 it was an increase of 157 per cent.

Many of the personnel of the C. A. Wortham Shows recently devoured every word of press reports from the California quake zone, as they several times made that territory with the Wortham organization. Subsequently, they were much relieved when Mrs. J. L. Karnes wired her husband ("The Judge") that conditions were greatly exaggerated in first reports, both as to life and property loss.

The moving picture business is a great industry and the majority is the exception pertaining to thought here intended—but what if the "sensational" descriptive pictures one sees in front of some movie houses were placed on the front platforms of attractions with carnivals, and what if the scenes the pictures represent were acted out on the interiors (of the carnival shows) for the entertainment of children?

"Porkchops" (or "Everybody's Dog") around the Clarence A. Wortham Shows, has a decided affinity for horses, so Deb. hears. He long ago passed up state-room accommodations for a bed of straw in the stable top. He rides in the stock car. Just to show he's "with it", he recently grabbed a nightwatchman who entered the stable tent unexpectedly. He is a "dog-and-a-half" long and a "half-a-dog" high—a dachshund!

According to a press report from Boston recently, the Licensing Board had informed the mayor that no more grants would be given to merry-go-rounds in that city. Too bad it wasn't put into effect a couple of weeks sooner, as there were dozens of "Fourth" celebration committees just sweating to book such "never-grow-old" riding devices and possibly there would have been a couple of them available (not working in parks) in Boston.

With the present-day representative carnival what is really bad among its shows and rides? There are no "cooch" or "dancing camps", no "bedroom" scenes or any other "suggestive" thoughts transmitted to the youth or grownups of the country (yes, there are many of such organizations)! Deb. would like to hear from some people on this (now "fess up, you "other-business" knockers, also your weak-kneed supporters, including officials and newspaper editors)!

George (Mechano) Stevens was a visitor to the Nat Reiss Shows at Wilkingsburg (Pittsburgh), Pa., early last week and met numerous old troupier friends, some of the old Wortham & Allen Shows in 1912. "Mechano", incidentally, had the Stevens Side Show with the Murphy Gilt-Edge Shows in 1919, which were headed by J. F. Murphy, now managing the Reiss Shows. Stevens is again working independent promotions this season, featuring his mechanical man act, and reports having excellent success.

Not one of the caravans since the season opened (figuring from April) has had a two-column display head for its "show letter" on the first Carnival page. The reason is easily understandable and just. Each week during the past several years and the past spring, and without regard for even news value, there were from

IT HELPS YOU, THE PAPER AND ADVERTISERS, TO MENTION THE BILLBOARD.

1 to 10 requests for that position for "letters" each week. In fact, there arose such a "fighting" among some of the p. a's for it that there was but one relief—make all the "show letters" one-column heads, with display type for openings and other outstanding data. With but two exceptions everybody seems satisfied.

Little Joe Hoffman, son of Cleo Hoffman, the fire high diver with Wortham's World's Best, can get "anything he wants" around the show. He has his own system of dealing with the midway restaurant and soft-drink stand. Each morning he gets hold of a regular restaurant check, on which he laboriously prints "J-O-E". When he gets an ice-cream cone, he puts an "X" on the check and tears off a coupon. For a bottle of milk he puts on two "Xs" and tears off a "dime". For anything else he draws a ring around the "Xs". In that way he remembers what he got. He prefers to deal with Mrs. Jack Kenyon (secret—someone jokingly told him that Jack might "short" him). At night Mrs. Hoffman pays the total.

In Warren, O., Mayor Marshall personally escorted the inmates of the county home and the orphanage to the Zeldman & Polle Shows, at which time all the rides and shows were thrown open to the guests. The mayor took keen delight in looking after the welfare of his proteges. Henry Lavardo acted as clown policeman for the party and kept them continually happy. One old gentleman, past 80, after looking the high midway over said to the mayor: "When I was a boy they had only one tent, now they must have more than a 100." Strange to relate, a majority of the children from the orphan's home had never seen a Punch and Judy until they saw Frank Carl's in Roy Schiver's Side Show—and how they did howl, but their laughter was equally shared by the old folks in the party.

Some "confabs" from the D. D. Murphy Shows: Jimmie Simpson and Ed Talbott are called the "Matthew Quays of the show world"—they shook the tree and down came the plums, Kankakee and Springfield.

J. S. Simpson got back from Springfield in time to shoot the fireworks the "Fourth" at Port Huron.

Dannle La Rouche says he doesn't know anything about evolution, but he is "positive about race suicide".

Ed Talbott is putting the final touches on the season's bookings.

In three weeks everyone will be getting up betimes to catch the early birds on the fairgrounds.

Reports have it that Charlie Rose put in a glorious week as guest at Sid Markham's roadhouse while the shows played Port Huron.

That "four-point-four" the boys got over in Sarnia turned out to be a delusion.

"Oh, fireman, save my outlaws!"—Harry Saunders. The bucket brigade played havoc with the water supply in the tank of the Water Circus. Boots Wecker was in about 17 places at once.

Walter Cosgrove, superintendent of maintenance and repair, is building a stage wagon and settings for the Mansfield Dance Revue.

The whole caravan extends sympathy to Trainmaster Harvey on the death of his father recently.

This caravan has been getting many compliments concerning the deportment of the employees—a canvasser on a ticket box may be a real man for a' that—the impression made on a patron by an unwashed, uncombed attendant nullifies all the good in a show.

Cecil, the Turtle Boy, is entertainment plus. As lively as a cricket, with a happy rejoinder for every question put to him. He's a business getter.

An article in The Rockford (Ill.) Republic of July 7 commented that under the new State law the County Board has within its power ("it is said") to "revoke a license to any carnival company which has not a clean record as a respectable show." This was a part of the concluding paragraph. Above this it stated that a communication had been sent to the board from the Christian Temperance Union of Rockford, asking it to "keep carnivals out of Winnebago County." It didn't state how many members of the Union sanctioned it. Why would they also want to keep out the clean carnivals?

M. J. MARTIN'S NOVELTY HOUSE, 319 W. 35th Street, New York

TELL THE ADVERTISER IN THE BILLBOARD WHERE YOU GOT HIS ADDRESS.

Would that be the Christian spirit? To this writer, while this was but a "request" of those interested, it would seem logical if the "requesters", if they want their other citizenry to enjoy clean outdoor amusements, would have made the request that clean carnivals (with their shows, riding devices, bands, free exhibits, etc.), be shown consideration, also that officials see to it that the carnival people are not heckled, and the men, women and children visiting the midway, not disturbed by local rowdies—about nine-tenths the cause of any "troubles" on the grounds of representative carnivals. Surely the good should be encouraged and impressively supported by those whose affiliations suggest such activities and efforts.

Zeidman & Pollie Shows

Detroit, Mich., July 8.—Business for the Zeidman & Pollie Shows in Warren, O., held up all week, was all that could be desired for the "Fourth" and the Police Benefit Fund added a large sum to its treasury from the week's engagement. Among visitors on Thursday at Warren were Mr. and Mrs. Johnny J. Jones, Johnny Jenkins Jones, Jr.; "Sister Sue", Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Madigan, who spent the afternoon in the company of Messrs. Pollie and Zeidman. The party was entertained by I. Fireside in his famous "Murphy" cookhouse.

Capt. Warner has again assumed charge of the Trained Wild Animal Circus, and with the Ramsey Family of acrobats and clowns once more with this exhibit, the show is going over better than ever. Starr De Belle is orating on the front. Capt. Warner had a narrow escape Wednesday when a big black bear hugged him in earnest and a terrific wrestling bout occurred, with Warner emerging victorious, but badly lacerated and bitten. Prompt medical assistance was given and he is feeling much better. Monday morning Sheba, the big Honess, gave birth to three cubs, but unfortunately to relate both mother and youngsters died the same day. Sheba was a magnificent specimen and was always greatly admired by visitors. Capt. Warner is greatly upset over the loss of his pet. While the train was being unloaded in the Pennsylvania freight yards Monday morning officials of the railroad took pictures of the work being expeditiously done by the show's trainmaster, Art Gardner, and his crew. The pictures are to appear in a forthcoming issue of the official Pennsylvania Railroad magazine, which goes to every office of the company. During Ella Louise Blake's absence "Bill" Mallon is managing the Superba show in addition to playing drums, making openings and attending to his duties as mail man and Billboard agent.

Drizzling rain Monday afternoon and night prevented the show getting under way here on the West Jefferson lot until Tuesday, when a fair crowd was on hand. Business improved Wednesday. Lester Potter, Detroit censor of amusements, was on hand Tuesday night and gave everything the "once over".

Wise Shows

"Fourth" Business "Blewied" by Storm

Uhrichsville, O., July 7.—Since the arrival of the Wise Shows in Ohio business has been very good with the exception of Mingo Junction, where business was poor. Monday night there was lost on account of rain. With an autopolis and ball game booked for the ball park, where the shows were exhibiting, a big day's business on the "Fourth" was anticipated by all the showfolks and the committee, but just as the midway was packed with people a veritable cyclone, followed by a cloud-hurst, descended, and had things its own way for about 15 minutes. The crowd disappeared as if by magic, and concession tents came down one after the other. No great amount of damage was done, however—all the big tops stayed in the air, although a few side poles were broken. Otto Criss' merry-go-round top was torn to shreds and several concessionaires lost stock. Thurston Apples' motordrome was lifted about 10 inches off the ground and several of the heavy supporting beams were whisked out of place, but no damage done. The midway was a sight after the storm spent itself. Mrs. L. McAbee's ball game was perched on top of the cook-house kitchen, and some of her "cats" have not yet been located. A big glass wheel with one of the concessions blew down, but was not broken. The midway and ball park were literally covered with broken dolls, lamp shades, cigarettes, glassware, etc. Those whose tops went down pitched right in with the remarkable optimism that distinguishes real trouper, and started straightening up things, manfully agreeing that if it hadn't been for that storm this would have been a good "Fourth". As it is, Mr. Wise and all on the show checked off another July 4 with a "zero". With just a short jump of 50 miles to go, the work of tearing down and loading was deferred until Sunday morning, when the shows made a special move to Uhrichsville for this week. MRS. D. WISE (for the Show).

Clarence A. Wortham's
World's Best Shows

Milwaukee, Wis., July 8.—Under conditions generally favorable Clarence A. Wortham's World's Best Shows enjoyed an excellent "Fourth of July Week" at Sheboygan, Wis. Regardless of the show's Monday morning arrival (it having left Milwaukee three hours earlier), and a 12-block haul to the lot, four miles up a steep hill and four downhill, the tented city was ready for operation Monday night. Hot weather prevailed early in the week, but a gracious thunderstorm after the shows closed Wednesday night lowered the temperature to a point where the weather became a decided asset to the engagement. Thursday evening there was a slight shower, but it stopped before the most timid had a chance to leave the midway. Afternoon business the whole week was unusually good. The Sheboygan newspapers carried favorable notices, written by staff reporters, and these materially helped the patronage. The "Fourth" was ideal show weather. The "call" was for nine o'clock in the forenoon, the show family was on the minute and business started with a rush and continued until late at night. Lake Michigan was less than 50 feet from the last sidewall of the show and during the week many of the show-folk played the bathing beach at every opportunity. Even the ducks and geese of the Freak Animal Show played the lake. Along the breakwater, which extends more than a half mile into the lake, there was a plenty of perch fishing. Harry Earles, of the midgets, proved himself quite an angler.

Sunday the shows returned to Milwaukee, arriving about 1 p.m. They opened to good business on the far South Side, a section they have never played before.

John Francis Shows

Pawhuska, Ok., July 7.—The initial appearance of the John Francis Shows in Holdenville, Ok., last week was a success. Friday the 3d and the "Fourth" being the feature days, with an almost continuous play from Friday at 8 a.m. until 4:30 Sunday morning. A heavy shower, lasting some 30 minutes Friday afternoon, somewhat dampened the ardor of the big joy crowd, but only made business better after it was over. The auspices were the Chamber of Commerce. The writer wishes to state that this is the only outdoor amusement enterprise that has played inside the city limits there in two years. The show is playing this week at Pawhuska under auspices of the Pythian Sisters, with lady ticket takers on all shows and rides. They helped the promoter to put over one of the largest entrance arches of the season. A new show was added this week in Stacies' Stepping Beauties. Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Woodward were among the new arrivals, with two concessions. Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Francis arrived by motor Saturday night. A crowd of friends was quickly formed and Crawford was introduced to the tank at the Water Show—that being the "route" of all new-arrivals. Trainmaster Hamilton, who was married early in the season, had escaped this "bath", but was carried into the tank with Crawford.

General Agent Rodecker deserves credit for hooking the show on the streets at Hutchinson, Kan., the location being at E and Main streets—said to be the first show on a down-town location there in 12 years. Special permission from the Street Commission and the Fire Marshal had been granted. Hutchinson has no riding devices in her parks.

V. J. YEAROUT (for the Show).

Blue Ribbon Shows

Warren, Minn., July 8.—After concluding their engagement at Ada, Minn., July 1, the Blue Ribbon Shows moved to Hallock for the remainder of last week. On Thursday the midway was struck with one of the worst rainstorms this organization ever encountered. The fairgrounds, including the race track, were flooded, but officials placed a score of men, at work repairing roads, etc., and hundreds of people battled thru the mud to the place of festivity for the "Fourth" doings. Business was excellent. Patrick Harver, manager of the ferris wheel, took top money, his ride running from 8 a.m. until midnight. The merry-go-round, managed by Happy Lane, took in second highest receipts. The Athletic Show also did big business. Mrs. Bud Frisk's chain of concessions also did well. Manager F. L. Cash pronounces it remarkable the way the people turned out under such muddy lot conditions.

Plans Prepared For Session

Elks of Nation Meet in Portland for Week: Spectacular Features Arranged for Many Visitors

Portland, Ore., July 9.—Elkdom will own Portland for one solid week from July 12 to 18 when the 61st grand lodge reunion of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks will be held here.

More than 30 special trains have been arranged to bring delegates and club members from all parts of the country, and thousands are expected to come by automobile and by boat. There will be bands, drum corps and drill teams, and many of the lodges have arranged to send their delegations in special uniform.

The outstanding spectacular event of the convention will be the grand lodge parade July 16, in which 75,000 members of the order are expected to participate. Many floats are being prepared for this parade. Anchorage, Alaska, the farthest north lodge, has announced that it will be represented by a float. The parade is being planned under the direction of Charles H. Grakelow, of Philadelphia, Grand Esquire.

John G. Price, of Columbus, O., grand exalted ruler, will come with an escort on a special train. The local committees have arranged a lively program for the entertainment of the visitors.

Centennials for Six Maine Towns

Shapleigh, Me., July 10.—Six towns in Maine have ample excuse for big celebrations in 1925, for they are 100 years old. The Maine town that lets an opportunity for a centennial observance go by is considered very far gone in community spirit. It may be only a centennial Sunday in the old meeting house, or exercises in the Grange Hall with a paper on the history of the town by some one who has delved into the records, or it may be a whole week of pageants, parades, family reunions, sports, baseball, horse trots, firemen's musters, all winding up with a grand centennial ball. It is a hard old week for the village brass band. The combining of centennial celebrations and old-home week is a popular idea.

There is no sticking to the actual birthday date of the town, as the Legislature of 1825 passed the most of the acts of incorporation in January or February, and that time of the year is not adapted to centennial celebrations in Maine.

The Maine centennial towns for 1925 are Baring, Alexander, Charlotte and Whiting in Washington County, Franklin in Hancock County and Hudson in Penobscot County, all small communities.

Baring started its centennial with a dance Friday night, July 3, had a big day the Fourth with a historical parade, baseball games and other sports, public dinner, concerts by the Calais Band, with a grand display of fireworks winding up the day. The celebration of Baring will probably do for its sister towns of Charlotte and Alexander, triplets as it were, for all three are in a bunch, bordering close on the St. Croix River.

Ludlow Event Successful

Ludlow, Mass., July 8.—The celebration staged last week by the Hospital Aid Society was a success, being well attended. It was scheduled to open Monday, June 29, but heavy rains prevented it getting started; the association carried rain insurance, so was protected from loss. Things got off to a flying start Tuesday and business held up all week. Sydney Ingham was general manager and director of the proceedings.

The Granio Lusitania Portuguese Band of 37 pieces furnished the music the entire week. The Carlises, Australian and American whip crackers, with Western novelties, were the free act on the bill. R. C. Carlisle is the featured whip manipulator of the act. His stuff is something new up this way and was well received. Everton's merry-go-round, whip and ferris wheel got their share of the money spent by the crowds. Monks managed the concessions and had about 30 stores in evidence. Among the concessionaires recognized were George Nealon, from the Coleman Shows; Tony Preston and Frank Griffo, Mustache, with his bird store, and the Stevens Family, working palmistry. There was a fine display of fireworks each evening.

Preparing for Ludington Midsummer Festival-Fair

Ludington, Mich., July 11.—Plans for the First Annual Midsummer Fair are now under way and everything looks forward to a big attendance, July 27-August 1. The entire county is covered with lithos and two-color half-sheet cards. The several societies of the county have been invited to help make it a success, with special printed invitations sent to every merchant, factory and institution in the county to take space in the large exhibition tents to be placed on the grounds.

One of the large carnival companies of this country has been contracted for and amusements, galore of the better class are assured.

The committee made arrangements with an expert in the directorship line to handle all contests, promotions and advertising, and he is getting everything in readiness for the event. There will be a popularity contest with three beautiful prizes for the winners. There also will be three prizes in the form of "savings bank starter" prizes for the baby contest. Every mother in the community is now anxious to see her baby win one of these prizes.

This is the first event of this nature ever attempted in Ludington and as all industries are working full time and the city boasts of the greatest car ferry docks on the Great Lakes, with the harbor full of boats all the time, industrial conditions are of the best, so success is assured in this one particular instance. Crops in the adjoining country are good and one of the largest harvests of fruit in years is expected. The committee says: Come to Ludington—Watch Ludington Grow.

Elkhorn Legion Celebration

Elkhorn, Wis., July 9.—The celebration given by the American Legion on July 4 was a big success. The Independent Fair Booking Association booked the outdoor attractions, which were held out at the fairgrounds. Lamont's Cockatoos and Macaws, a bird act, proved to be a great attraction for the affair. It was different and novel for an outdoor event and the act went over big. Lillian McKay, of the Casting McKays, pleased greatly with her ring and web act. Duffy and Daisy, comedy bicycle act, did nicely and got many a laugh with their comedy. The committee in charge, as well as the visitors, were well pleased with the entire show.

Large Crowd at Maplewood Celebration

Maplewood, N. J., July 7.—A crowd of approximately 25,000 people attended the two performances of the monster celebration staged here July 4. The program included band concerts, community singing, fireworks, singing by the Phonograph City Trio and James Scott Frostick and a monster circus.

On the circus bill were Gus Stimpson and his Merry Makers; Helen McGochlin and her high school horses; Retiaw and Retiaw, aerialists; Barney Demarest and his horses; Prof. Jenckes and his ponies; Bun, the Indian pony, and Mut, the dog, not forgetting Heien, the spotted pony; the Portia Sisters, equilibrists; Frank Hart, the funny man on the rocking tables; Jessie and her ponies and dog; The Beautiful Act, including Jessie Lee Nichols, Snowball, the white horse, and two white pointers; the Great Sig. Franz Troupe, bicyclists; Mme. Ledgare, the marvel on the wire; Laddie Lamont, balancing ladder act; George and Lillian St. Leon, equestrian riding act; the Bostock Riding School, men and women riders; Marie Correlli and Company, head and hand balancing; Lee Nichols, with Duke doing the Charleston; Jacot and his polar bear, North Star; La Favor and Pierce, on the breakaway ladder; Roder and Dean, comedy act on the rings, and the Great Van Norman, in his spectacular leap from his bicycle into a tank of fire. The acts were booked by Wirth & Hamid and were under the personal direction of E. J. Rutan of that office.

Vancouver Celebrates

Vancouver, B. C., July 9.—Vancouver began a four days' celebration on July 1, starting with the street parade in which there were several highly decorated floats. The city was invaded by a large number of American friends and for their benefit the celebrations were continued until July 4. The Fourth was celebrated here with an international baseball match and an international football match, terminating with a grand fireworks display in Stanley Park.

Big "Fourth" for Thebes K. P.

Thebes, Ill., July 9.—The local Knights of Pythias lodge had a big Fourth of July celebration, being the first in eight years and all the stands and shows did a fine business from early in the morning to late at night. Merchants of Thebes are going to help the Knights of Pythias put over a big Labor Day celebration. The concessions were in charge of W. G. Jordan, Jr., and he had everything up to the minute. The grounds were packed all day.

K. P. Celebration Proves Successful

Bryan, O., July 10.—The K. of P. Celebration held here the week of June 29-July 4 was a big success and the most successful ever given under the auspices of this K. of P. lodge. They had three rides, whip, merry-go-round and ferris wheel; two big free acts and three paid shows. The free attractions were furnished by the Bert Marshall Amusement Enterprises of Akron, O. The American Minstrel Maids were splendid and packed the big tent theater every performance. The Midget Show also was very good. Big crowds were on hand all week.

How To Double Receipts of Rinks

GEO. HURST, Manager Rink, Canton, Miss., says: "I now have four times as many couples on the floor as ever before. No more hand-organs for me for skating. My people really dance on skates to the music. All of Canton now comes out to hear my programs."

If you want to actually double your rink receipts and keep the neighbors and city officials from wanting to close you up at 10 o'clock, then change that old, monotonous, rattle-bang music and put in music your skaters, the public and you can really enjoy. Some rink managers have gone along operating their rinks with the same tone and now the people are truthfully disgusted.

Use the CALLIAPHONE, a modern "Fied Piper", the sweetest toned instrument in the world. Ask those who use them. Special small compact size for Rinks. Immediate delivery. Get out of the old rut before the sheriff closes your door. Turn a defunct Rink into a prosperous one. The CALLIAPHONE will do it and music costs only $3.50 for ten-tune rolls.

ELKS' CIRCUS

Produced at Lakewood, O. With Acts Furnished by Dutton—Show Well Liked by Opening Night Audience

Lakewood, O., July 7.—Last night witnessed the opening of the Lakewood Elks' Circus and Exposition which is being held at Elks' Field in the rear of their club, at 14013 Detroit avenue. This year's show is claimed the best that has ever been sponsored by the club. The funds derived from the affair will be added to the Building Fund.

All of the acts in the circus big top are being produced by James Dutton, well-known equestrian, who is using a 100-foot roundtop, with two 50-foot middle pieces, and can seat about 3,500 persons at each performance. Last night one performance was given, lasting an hour and a half, and although the weather was threatening the top was full. During the rest of the week two shows are scheduled for each evening at 7:30 and 9:30, with a special matinee this afternoon, when the children from the various Lakewood and Cleveland neighborhoods will be guests of the Elks and Mr. Dutton. Moving pictures of the show will be taken.

The Elks are promoting the show and have charge of all concessions, numbering about 20. The circus committee is headed by P. Ross, ably assisted by Harry A. Parker, well-known big-top showman of a few years back, also F. A. Eess, A. J. White, Ed Sargent, O. A. Kuhl, Sr., C. E. Cawser, W. D. Cole, A. G. Hinz, Scott Cook, M. Freshwater, F. E. Russel and A. L. Killus. Harry Parker was recently appointed resident secretary of the Elks' Club and wants all the tramping "Bills" to know that the lat-hstring is always out.

Wm. (Bill) Bahnsen, well-known showman, is on the lot with his freak animal show in which he features "Jerry", the horse with eight feet. He has 10 freaks in all, also Bluey-Bluey, dwarf entertainer on the front. The merit of the show was attested by the large attendance. Mrs. Bahnsen is exhibiting Chiquita, the Cuban midget lady. An automobile show with 22 entries is also on the grounds and the advertising committee deserves credit for the excellent 64-page souvenir program which it compiled. Chas. Bowers' ferris wheel and carousel and J. E. Gooding's merry mup are also on the grounds.

Music for the circus performance is being furnished by the Brooklyn Carmen's Boy Band, directed by Prof. Jack Hearn. The circus program runs as follows: Opening spectacle, Fete of the Toy Balloons; Roy Thomas Trio and Peewee and Howard, comedy acrobats; Misses Larazola, Moore and Fisher, swinging ladders; Mlle. Levere, giant bar swines; Ina Delno, contortionist; Tom Saenger Duo, comedy cyclists; Aerial Youngs, speedy double trapeze act; Dan Mitchell, clown, and "Spark Plug", comedy midget mule; the Duttons' Society Equestrian Review; Clowa Band, Frank Stout, director; Young Duo, high perch act; Tom Saenger and his boxing dogs; Myrtle Compton, bareback riding (after which several youngsters from the audience are trusted in a mechanic to "learn" how to ride); Six American Belfords, Riskey acrobatic act; Barn Dance, big clown grotesque number, Frank Stout (clown); longshoe dance; Fun on the Farm, by Tom, Dick and Harry on their old hay rack; Five Fearless Flyers, flying and return trapeze act, featuring Bobby Fisher. The entire performance is generously interspersed with clown numbers produced by Frank Stout, assisted by the Roy Thomas Trio, Peewee and Howard, Tom Saenger, Marlon Wallick and Dan Mitchell. Too much praise cannot be given the Belfords in their fast working Riskey act, for which the audience is very appreciative. The Duttons in their beautiful riding act, and the Fishers are also received very generously. At the opening performance Mayor Ed Lakewood Elks, was introduced. After a few remarks "Hizzoner" pressed the button and the show was on.

Among the visitors seen at the show on opening night were Mrs. J. S. Davidson and Mrs. C. A. Davidson, of Clarksville, W. Va., wife and mother of J. S. Davidson, assistant manager of the Dut-

C. A. Vernon Shows

Perry, Ok., July 8.—This week finds the C. A. Vernon Shows at Perry, which city is in a section that is both a wheat and oil country, with the wheat a little in the lead at this writing. This show has played a choice route so far this season and while no records have been hung up a nice business has been enjoyed. There has been no change in the personnel of the company and the lineup of shows and rides are the same as when they opened. Stroud, Ok., was the stand for the Fourth of July and with ideal weather everything went over big. The show starts its fair dates next month. The route for the balance of the season will be in charge of C. N. Hill, as G. Raymond Spencer will put a couple of shows in the lineup.

Following is a roster: C. A. Vernon, owner and manager; Chas. Tonnings, secretary and president; C. N. Hill, general agent; Bob Howell, special agent. Rides—Merry-go-round, Carl Wagoner, manager; ferris wheel, J. R. Green, manager; mix-up, Bob McPherson, manager; seaplaes, Mrs. C. Wagoner, manager. Shows—Dixieland Minstrel, Bill Starr; Monkey speedway, Jake Dixon; Pit Show, Harry Levi, with P. G. Hannah as talker; Arabian Nights, "Gulla Gulla Mike"; Snake Show, Octopus (platform) Show, H. Traister; Athletic Show, Johnnie Hatfield. Concessions—Roland Smith, 4; Tom Hitchcox, 6; Tex Chambers, 6, including cookhouse; "Uncle Billy" Thomas, 1; Mrs. G. Raymond Spencer, 1; Mrs. Hatfield, 1, and Doc James, "Whitey" Dixon, Harry Richardson and several others. CHAS. TONNINGS, (Press Representative).

Beacon Exchange Furnishes Acts

Boston, Mass., July 9.—Bert A. Spears, of the Beacon Entertainment Exchange, reports his office booked the free acts at the Fourth of July Celebrations at Manchester, N. H., and Concord, Mass., and the Elks' "Night-Before" program which took place in the Winthrop Theater, Winthrop, Mass. All three affairs were well attended and quite successful.

The acts at the doings in Manchester, which took place in Pine Island Park, were Niskerson's Balloon Ascensions and Parachute Drops for the outdoor end and Audella and Gwynn, the exhibition team. Mae Jensen, Eva Darlon and Ginger Gordon, cabaret entertainers, worked in the dance hall. The Three DuBois, equilibrist; Daly's Tangled Army, trick house acrobats; Dennis Brothers, revolving ladder; the Gregory Troupe, jugglers, and the Five Bounding Clowns on the trampoline appeared at Concord. The Elks' show at Winthrop was a midnight affair, the bill including Minstrel Morris, Juggling and eccentric; Ehrlich and McDonough, dancers; Dorothy Knowles and Homer Roberts in a song revue; Peter Murray, the Rustic Rolsterer; Pietro Mordella and Nina Spaulding, accordion and violin; Brown, the mystic; Johnny Harrigan, the college freshman, and four singing funmakers, Brems, Fitz and the Murphy Brothers.

Steele County "Fourth" Adds to Fair Coffers

Owatonna, Minn., July 8.—The Steele County Fourth of July Exposition held here was just as successful as predicted in the columns of The Billboard some time ago. Thousands of people were in Owatonna from early morning to late at night. Conservative estimates are that the number reached the 25,000 mark. The turnstile count of admissions exclusive of passes into the entertainment provided at the fairgrounds was 17,791. The passes added would bring the count up to over 18,000.

The special performances before the grand stand included the Blanche McKenny-Hunter Combination with their horse show and chariot Roman standing races; Edwards and North, horizontal bar performers and balancers; Louie Kulevski and his boy scouts, billing themselves and making a real hit as the Tumbling Kays; the Lowry male quartet, and Cavilla, clown, were of a high standard all the way thru and greatly pleased the people. The fireworks display in the evening given by the Gordon Fireworks Company was one of the best ever seen in this section of the country.

The profits of the celebration will go toward the payment of permanent improvements on the Steele County Fairgrounds and owing to the large attendance several thousand dollars will be realized for this purpose.

Joe Laurey and wife motored down from Chicago to Cincinnati and spent the first part of last week visiting Mr. and Mrs. Al Hoffman. Joe has sold his express business in Chicago and is contemplating opening a rink this fall. Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Laurey and E. M. Moor, former manager of the Music Hall Rink, Cincinnati, were entertained with a dinner at Coney Island after a pleasant afternoon spent at the races. Joe meets Cloni in a series of races at Akron, and while at the Coney Island Rink he took a couple of good workouts.

Herbert A. Byfield, president of White City Park, Chicago, writes that one has to just walk into the White City Roller Rink to realize that at present this is the center of skating acts in the country. George Bege and his wife are there resting up for the summer. George Jenny, of the team of Jenny and Nylin, is another of the White City Roller Club boys who is at the rink. His partner, Nels, is in New York recuperating from an illness. Eddie Robbins is another of the theatrical world who is at the rink. He is rehearsing with the new act of Flo Jordan and Her Boys. The instructors of the rink are all dolled up in their white summer uniforms, and are making a very pleasing appearance. A novelty party is held every Friday night. One was called a Kangaroo Party, with games and races held with kangaroo shoes. These shoes are strapped on like skates and have springs on the bottom. When you walk you spring up and down, imitating a kangaroo. The feature parties on Friday nights will continue thruout the summer months. Parties for this month are to be a Bubble Party, Candy Spot Party and Gold Spot Party.

Max Hess is busily engaged at present with his bicycle club in Scranton. He has more than 1,200 members and is pulling off some interesting races and events. The Fourth was a big day, as Max pulled off a five-mile scratch race.

Drollick and DeOnzo are still at Spanish Fort Park, New Orleans, and have had a good run there. Besides doing their skating act they are exhibiting a freak, the Elephant Boy, as a concession. They report that it is such a marvelous freak that they are doing very good with it. They will play the fair in the South after closing at Spanish Fort and will have the Elephant Boy along as an exhibit.

Chas. D. Nixon, the Skating Jay-walker, infoes that things are looking good for him at Amsterdam, N. Y., both in dancing and skating, as he is doing almost twice as good as he did last year. He is getting a good crowd every night and running three sessions on Sunday, with a good crowd each session. The rink has been changed since opening, and he now uses the entire floor for skating, when before he only used the outside track for skating. Mrs. Nixon is becoming quite a rink woman, as she is in charge of the skate room, and is very popular there with her smile and pleasant word for everyone. The roster: Miss Hall, cashier; Patsy Wojock, doorman; Mrs. Nixon, skate room; Ray Collins, Sam Smith, John Wojock, skate boys. Charles handles the floor, with the assistance of two instructors. The dances are run to very large crowds, and he is getting the largest crowds that ever attended the park, so he is of the opinion that things don't look so bad.

Lillian Taylor and Joseph Raddy were used by Mr. McClelland, of the Meyers Lake Rink, Canton, O., as a feature attraction recently. Lillian believes that Joseph has mastered the art of skating now, as McClelland billed him as Prof. Raddy. Anyway they got quite a kick out of it. After the fancy exhibitions each night Lillian raced some of the local speed marvels, winning from them. The boys courteously gave Lillian a five-foot start, but the finish proved the lead wasn't needed, as she was about a quarter lap ahead. Miss Taylor believes it is a simple matter to acquire speed in skating if you keep in shape by racing often, but it's tough when one hasn't worked in a couple of months.

The attention of rink managers is called to an interesting article in the Open Letters Department of this issue, What Is Wrong With Rinks?

PIPES FOR PITCHMEN
BY GASOLINE BILL BAKER.

(Communications to 25-27 Opera Place, Cincinnati, O.)

How're straw hats, John Maney? "Indulging" in 'em this summer?

Have heard but very little from specialty workers on their "Fourth" business. How 'bout it?

"Time waits on no man"—almost before we realize it it will again be winter-time.

Have an interesting article, entitled "The Art of Selling Goods", by Dr. Frank A. Latham. Will use it in the near future.

"Zip" Hibler says: "Us pitchmen know darn well the world isn't 'square', so 'Andy Gump' must be right when he says it's round!"

LIE CONTEST

"Have had no cold weather this spring and it never rains here!"—H. J. TAYLOR.

"Dusty" Rhodes reports being 23 years on subs, for The Southern Ruralist. Was at Holdenville, Ark., for the "Fourth". Said he had a good week between Oklahoma City and Shawnee, Ok.

Doubtless many of the boys do not know the fact that quite a number of indoor hustlers have already contracted demonstrations in stores for the Christmas trade—some arranged for this last winter.

Eddie Lyons "shoots" from Minnesota that he is one of the boys having success on paper in the iron-ore country. Says it seems that for some reason not many of the frat. are making this clime this summer.

Word came from New York last week that Charles Hirshfield had passed away. Probably details of the death of this well-known demonstrator will be received in time for the announcement of the date, burial, etc., in the obituary columns of this issue.

Walter C. Dodge, in addition to carrying on his corndodger business and other interests, has been making trips thru New York State. Last week he was assisting a Mr. White with the latter's "no-fire" demonstration in a large window of the New Harmony Hotel at Cohoes, N. Y.

Dick Donlan infoed that he is working paper (Cappers) at Minneapolis. Said that several of the specialty boys were working in doorways and in front of theaters, altho he had not talked with any of them, as all were busy grinding when he passed. Dick wants pipes from George (Slim) Davis and Jimmie Sturgeon.

Billy Rimmer writes: "Paul Wynager and I are increasing the circulation of the paper we handle around Knoxville, Tenn. Will soon turn the 'gas buggy' radiator toward the Georgia tobacco markets. Mr. Wynager and Doris Peacock were today united in the holy bonds of matrimony, 'Whitey' Thompson being the 'best man'."

Jack Hilton, who, during his pitching experience has handled many specialties, has been in Cincinnati, in other lines since last fall. The Mrs. is with him and may soon take up the work again, probably handling needle threaders and other articles. It is possible, also, that Jack will next fall get back in road harness.

C. W. Schneider, manager of a Clifton Comedy Company playing Southern Illinois, recently purchased a new 40x70 tent to replace one (three months old) destroyed in a cloudburst at Newton, Ill.; also scenery, piano and two trucks on which to transport his "opry". He carries seven people and has a five-piece orchestra.

Lord Dietz "shooted": "Am working one of the 'hardest' big towns up in this section, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., for the 'Old-Fashioned Indian Missionary Medicine Co.' It had been about 20 years since a medicine show played this city—$20-a-day reader, whether it rains or shines, and lots of redtape and restrictions to 'keep 'em out'. Am at this writing starting my second week here. Business has been okay."

J. C. Peuril (or Pevil), sometimes known as "Buddha", wrote July 7 that he was confined in Marine Hospital, Stapleton, N. Y., and was to undergo an operation the following day. Stated that he was not in need of funds, but would greatly appreciate letters from his road friends, including Anson Lee, "Needle-threader" Mills and all his acquaintances of the trips and keisters, as well as members of the Brown & Dyer Shows.

A certain pitchman sprung a new article in an Illinois town. One of the local storekeepers bought a gross, paying full price asked (which was sufficient). Pitchman got to wondering. The next week he returned to the place and found the purchaser had sold nearly all his purchase at a very remunerative profit to each sale. "Sure," he was told by the wide-awake merchant, "I knew what I was doing. You surely advertised them!"

Dr. F. L. Morey, secretary of the Texas Pitchmen and Protective Association, writes from his home, 2560 Elm street, Dallas, Tex., that at the last regular meeting of the association about 10 members were present, and that all greatly enjoyed the occasion. After the hot weather breaks they have assurance of about 50 being on hand at each meeting, "and then," says F. L., "we'll go right along."

While the boys are scanning this week's Pipes "Bill" will be on the first of his two weeks' vacation—looked forward to longingly, as he spends six days of every other week of the year at his desk. Will greatly appreciate it, fellows, if you sit right down and send in pipes for the next two issues, thus helping out the member of the staff who makes them ready during this scribe's absence. (Incidentally, Joe Kelling, who filled the vacancy the past two years, is not now with the publication, but one of the other boys of the editorial force will handle 'em.)

From our Chicago office: Mrs. F. G. Kenworthy, of art needle fame, is in Chicago visiting headquarters and perfecting plans for several big locations in which to demonstrate the needles. Mrs. K. says it is remarkable how the art work is coming back and that the demand is growing all the time. She recently introduced their new cake decorator. Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Wheeler, who are demonstrating the cake decorator and needle, visited The Billboard office with Mrs. Kenworthy. The Wheelers have just finished some good spots and are now resting up before starting in on their fairs.

Last heard from Jack Smart, of paper note, was headed from the East to the Pacific Coast. Jack told of some "careless" fellows who secured receipts on a high-class paper from a personal friend of his, and did not send in names to the publication, thus causing complaints. He added: "The men who make a business of writing subscriptions should get together and rid the field of such 'vultures'. Such actions have closed many towns. I am not boasting of my own morals, but I can say that here is one who has always sent a man his paper. A fellow who carries credentials on a paper in his pocket as a cover for another proposition can only be termed a 'heel'!"

Earle Crumbley "shooted" that he had been working the previous four weeks in Northern Minnesota and Michigan, but had found business very poor, owing to "closed towns" and "restrictions". He added: "Would like to see pipes from Fred Cummings, George Silvers, Jas. E. Miller, Fido Kerr, Frank Libby, Edward St. Mathew and Slim Hunter. I heard that the N. P. & S. P. A. boys at Los Angeles planned to give some sort of a 'Fourth' celebration. Among the numbers were to be a four-round bout between Big Sam and Bobby Sullivan, Denny Callahan's Independence Day recitation, also the 'Eastside' and cake were to be served."

Lew Conn, whose Congo Entertainers have been playing under canvas in Northern Kentucky nearly all season, was in Cincinnati July 5 and called at The Billboard, accompanied by Gerry Woodbury, who works in acts and does specialties. Lew informed that his show was at Cordova, Ky., where on July 4 a terrific windstorm followed by a flooded lot (located between two creeks) carried away a great deal of his outfit. He had to purchase a new tent, build new seats, etc., and get nearly all new wardrobe and trunks. He had just received a shipment of 1,000 packages of confections and this was all destroyed. Conn, however, is of a caliber not to "cry over spilled milk", and he buckled right into the needs of the situation, replacing everything, and was to reopen at Cordova July 6.

Notes from Dr. T. R. Marshall's Big Medicine Show—the show has had excellent business in West Virginia and Maryland despite "Lard times". It is now playing its last stand in Maryland at Williamsport, going into Virginia next week, and, after playing a few dates there, will make long jumps toward Florida in order to open in St. Petersburg by October 1. The Ogden family bought a new touring car last week, and a new truck is being added to the equipment this week. "Speed" Eastburn, black-face comedian, just off a theatrical circuit, says: "No more tabs, for me—give me the med. show!" "Speed," incidentally, also acts as chauffeur in Dr. Marshall's new "eight".

SELLS 1/2 GROSS EVERY DAY

He's going better than that now. And we've been talking about him over a year. A lot of other men are hitting around this mark. Now it's got to be a pretty good "poke" to sell like this. The Ferree No. 144, illustrated, of genuine leather, is right—in quality, utility, price. Right because we are one of the largest manufacturers in this line. Right, for we know our business, have a low overhead. What a more, leather has taken a big jump, yet our prices are the same as last year. No 144s as well as several other Ferree items almost sell themselves, according to the letters we are receiving. MAKE A REAL PROFIT SELLING QUALITY POKES. WRITE FOR SAMPLE OF 645 QUICK-ENCLOSING 2c. IN STAMPS. Ask for Catalog. You'll never make a more profitable or better money.

which cost many dollar bottles of medicine. These trouperes would like pipes from Drs. Thos. P. Kelley, J. P. Saunders and Ross Dyer.

Happy Joe Williams, colored comedian and musician, sends the following notes from the Great O'Dell Show, in Pennsylvania: "I joined this show three weeks ago and must say that it is some nifty setup. Dr. O'Dell motored to Pottsville and brought my baggage and all to the lot. There is a good set of performers and it is like 'one big family.' There is a tent for each, with good beds and coverings and everything is painted in bright colors, including the trucks, stage, etc., even to all tent sidepoles and stakes. The roster: Dr. and Mrs. O'Dell, Al Brooks, singing and dancing comedian; Great O'Dell, magic and straight in acts; Mr. Gordon, all-around man; Mose Johnson, the 'Dark Cloud'; Prof. Felix, pianist, and myself, in patter and songs—with the 'big red guitar.' A special radio equipment operates each evening before the performance starts."

Jay Poland (the "Crazy Irishman"), 50 years "young"; 30 years in the medicine show business, and well known among the boys of pitchdom, sends the following as his summing up of acquaintances:

When you get to know a fellow—
Know his every mood and whim,
You begin to find the texture
Of the splendid side of him.
You begin to find his virtues,
And his faults you cease to tell,
For you seldom "hate" a fellow
When you know him very well.

Jay wrote from Nebraska that he had been doing a great deal of traveling about among the shows the previous 30 days, including a stay with Doc Chamberlin (Dakota Ray), manager of a side show with the Al G. Barnes Circus. He had just signed to open, July 6, at Hayes Center, Neb., as lecturer with his old friend, Doc Little Beaver—and was driving thru from Alliance, Neb., to "jine out".

J. H. Pizaro, who sent in a "clipping" on an increased-license issue at Rushville, Ind., a couple of weeks ago, on which comment was made in Pipes, wrote that he had later made it his business to go to Rushville. Stated that he first went to the Mayor, then to the Chief of Police, also to see the city clerk, and that after going over with them the whole ordinance (recently adopted) he was given a permit, went to work and "never was treated better in my life." Pizaro added that he had learned the cause of the "restrictions" ordinance being framed was due in great measure to an itinerant salesman who a few weeks previous had come into town with a load of merchandise and among his other talk to the public announced that a part of his stock was "Irish linen", secured by him in Ireland after the war closed, he getting hold of many thousand dollars' worth of it, and stating that it was the kind sold in stores for big prices. Pizaro says this caused the final decision of the "powers that be" at Rushville to adopt some strenuous measures. Incidentally, it is very gratifying to note, according to Pizaro's communication, that the officials at Rushville are not of a caliber heard of quite frequently—those who would condemn "all" because of a "few".

From Dewitt Shanks: "I rather feel 'at home' in Ohio after an absence of 11 months. Just arrived in Dayton after making towns in Southern Wisconsin, Northern Illinois and Central Indiana. There is a tip (from observation) that I feel sure would be profitable to some pitchmen if they would consider it. I noticed while in the larger cities that almost every shop I went to had an average of a half dozen pitchmen at the gate. In fact, too many. So I began making the smaller industrial towns, and to my surprise found such towns as Aurora, Rockford, Elgin, Muncie, Anderson, Newcastle, Richmond and others all have factories that were working good time, and I have very infrequently seen a pitchman at them. Come on, boys, scatter out a little! I have quit notions, so the fellows in that line have one less competitor—alho the soap workers now have one more (but at top prices and with clean working methods). Let's have pipes from 'Newlywed' Hackendorn, Doc Hauer, down in Tennessee, and others. I expect to drop into Cincinnati soon, at which time I will pay Gasoline Bill my usual four-year visit. Let's hear from the boys handling fans—they sure must be doing business this hot weather."

Along with Joe Bill's pipe, he of the Savoy Show Company, No. 33, from Babylon, L. I., Joe enclosed a lot contract for the show at a stand it made recently with a street railway company that measured just 20 inches long (typewritten), and signed before a Notary Public. It sure was some real document. It dealt principally with assurance that grounds would be left in a good condition. Bill lays the cause of all the "assurance" to the carelessness of a class of shows other than the medicine show business. His pipe: "Business with this show has been sort of 'offsky' this season so far—some 'collective amusements' have been 'burning' this section up, rains and fogs. And last night, just as the sale started, the fire siren blew, the crowd blew, the sale blew, then we blew—so we sure had a 'blew' time of it. A house-to-house canvasser friend of mine recently went to a house where there were about a dozen children playing in the yard. As an opener, after saying good morning, he asked the woman if they were all her children, and received the reply that they all belonged to her. Sort of praised, he remarked: "Well, well, how well preserved they look!" "No, mister," she quickly spoke up, "they ain't preserved; that's their natural smell!"

Notes from the N. P. S. P. A., Los Angeles, by A. G. Holmes, correspondence secretary: "The last meeting of N. P. S. P. A. No. 1 for the month of June was marked by a large attendance of boys, who were full of fire and enthusiasm. Thru the courtesy of James Kelly, the Specialty King, of New York, several new members were entered in the association, their names being as follows: H. H. (Doc) Underwood, E. R. Booker, J. Jacobs, W. J. Burke, W. G. Sullivan, Louis Krauss, Joe Miller, Hot Shot and Ralph H. Turner. Firms coming in this week were the Radio Stropper Company and V. W. Marker.

"Several of the boys were working at Plsno Beach on the 'Fourth'. Among them were: 'Dad' Parker with transfer-ink; E. K. Lewis, peelers, and E. F. Chase, razor paste. Also 'Doc' Berkeley is there on a vacation.

"The knights in Los Angeles are working to small tips, but are getting a little money. Among the faces behind the keisters may be seen those of George Negus, peelers, F. Waterson, shoe white; Louis Goldaber, novelties; Denny Callanan, buttons, and Sid Iverson, soap.

"Matt Brennan is with the World Museum on Main street. He has given the combs a rest for a while.

"Irish Tom Clark, the balloon worker, closed early in the day on the 'Fourth' and reported all sold out."

Sandy's Amusement Shows

Follansbee, W. Va., July 8.—After a successful week at Jeannette, Pa., under auspices of V. F. W., Amos A. J. Meyers Post 28, Sandy's Amusement Shows are now located on the Labelle Farm, East Steubenville car barns. The show was booked for Steubenville for this week, but on arrival there it was found that owing to road work and long detours, impracticable for the big wagons, the Squirrel Hill showgrounds were out of the question. The river showgrounds, the only other available site, proved too small, so at the last minute this site was secured. From the opening night Monday, the shows have played to successful business. The site is one of the prettiest played on this season.

Ford Munger and two associates in the Athletic Show, "Mother Hunter" (with her cookhouse) and her daughter, Babe, with a string of concessions, and "Dad" Buckley with his whip ride are among the new arrivals on the show during the past 10 days. "Baby Alice" and "Elmar," magic worker, are now in charge of the 10-in-1, "Alligator Jackie" has combined the Alligator Farm and animals into a Jungleland, Darktown Follies, under direction of J. W. Green, colored comedian, has joined out since last writing to The Billboard, Canadian Jean Fontaine, escape artist and strong man, is a free act. The first accident of the season occurred last week when "Pop" Tamargo, the past two years in charge of the high striker, was accidentally kicked by "Bill," the trained horse owned by Bill Grotzinger. He sustained two fractured ribs, but is able to be about again.

Sandy's Shows as they stand today are the realization of a "dream" of the man who heads them. Five years ago a cookhouse comprised the outfit. Two years ago jumps were made by auto truck from town to town. Today, traveling in a modern special train of 17 cars, Sandy's Shows carry eight shows, six riding devices and their own uniformed concert band.

Fourth of July business in Jeannette proved big, despite a heavy rain which drove the pleasure seekers off the grounds during the early evening. However, a big fireworks display shortly before midnight brought throngs onto the grounds again after the rain had ceased. All of which is according to an executive of the above shows.

Narder Bros.' Shows

From a financial standpoint the engagement of Narder Bros.' Shows at Bethlehem, Pa., under auspices of Samaritan Council, No. 397, Jr. O. U. A. M., Fourth of July week, was a fizzle. It was the worst spot played by this company this season. Failure of the Chamber of Commerce and local business men to co-operate with the auspices was the chief cause.

Several new concessions appeared on the midway there, their owners being George W. Nelson, Charles Crane, Ed Boswell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Page, Mr. and Mrs. Powers, "Slim" Dunlap and Bill Stiekney. Added to the Athletic Show roster were Jack Doty, George Martz and Miss Billie Leighton, one of the best wrestlers of her sex the writer has ever seen work. May Barrett has fully recovered from her recent illness and has resumed her duties. The engagement at Allentown, week ending July 11, is under the auspices of the Amicus Club.

So You Want Something New

Mr. Streetman, Concessionaire, Carnival Agents and Fair Workers, (Well, here it is.) THE GOLDFISH PERMANENT-INDELIBLE INK (in powdered form) the ink that's all ink; the ink that does at once and better what others don't do and for less money. The leading features and selling points of this ink are: First—it dries instantly, as rapidly as your wife, disappears with the use of blotters. Second—it's indelible. It cannot be erased or altered without detection by knife, eraser or chemicals. Third—it's waterproof, will not fade, corrode, mold or turn sour; contains no gum arabic or acid to clog up the fountain pen. Flows freely and smoothly, making writing a pleasure. (Now, I mean.) The best way to make a flash that gets them interested: First—put a glass globe partly filled with water (and one or two live goldfish. Write on a check, draft or note with the ink and put it at the bottom of the globe with the fish and water so all can see it. This proves, in town right there that the ink is waterproof. Fill your own pen with the ink and with a blank pad of paper show them that it dries instantly, requiring no blotters, flows freely and all the other good qualities of the ink. Remember, this ink will stand any test you want to put it to. Everyone must have ink; all want better ink for less money. It is put up in attractive cartons. Each carton contains exactly as many grains of the pure extract of ink in powder. Dissolves instantly in water, one quart of water to each carton, and you have the best ink on earth. Any common ink costs at least $1.25 per quart, GOLDFISH INK can be sold for 75c per carton, which makes a quart, giving you over 100% profit. (Now, here are my prices.)

One Sample Carton makes 1 Quart of Ink...$ 0.75
One Dozen Cartons makes 12 Quarts of Ink... 5.00

C. B. Whalen Electrocuted Johnny J. Jones Exposition

Box Canvasman of Orange Bros.' Circus Meets Death When Pole He Was Raising Comes in Contact With Electric Wire

It was a sad day for members of the Orange Bros.' Circus at Laurens, Ia., July 7, when C. B. Whalen, boss canvasman, son of James Whalen, superintendent of canvas was electrocuted while raising the center pole on the menagerie top. The pole came in contact with a high-line electric wire which carried 23,000 volts. Whalen, with Walter Williams, was under the pole and raising it when it struck the wire. Two physicians were immediately summoned and worked faithfully for five hours trying to bring back pulse and heart action. The male members of the show took turns in trying to bring back blood circulation, while the women placed hot-water bags against his body to keep it warm. Manager William Newton, Jr., did everything possible to save his life. Whalen was struck at 7:30 a. m. and was not given up for dead until after 12 o'clock noon.

After he was pronounced dead and removed to the undertaker's the flags on the big top were placed at half mast and the bugle sounded. The matinee performance was packed with people, who were in sympathy with the circus folk. Just before the program started Equestrian Director W. Stokes had the members of the show and the audience stand with heads bowed and Manager Newton arranged to have a minister offer prayer for the deceased.

The body lay in state for three days waiting for relatives to claim it. It was prepared for burial and transported 18 miles to Mallard, Ia., July 9, where funeral services were held. Following the matinee the members of the show were provided with cars and a march of four miles was made to the Rush Lake Cemetery. Two cars were loaded with wreaths, crosses, anchors, hearts and other designs of flowers, which were gathered and made by members of the show. The remains were escorted by pallbearers and services were held by Rev. John J. Neppel, of Mallard. Richard Ybarra and his band played Nearer, My God, to Thee. Captain John Hough, of the American Legion Post No. 345, with a squad of eight men, conducted the funeral and gave the deceased the final military honors. Many floral offerings were sent to the grave by a number of women organizations of Laurens and Mallard.

Whalen was liked by everyone who knew him. He was about six feet tall, weighed about 160 pounds, was light complexioned and had blue eyes. Last season he was with the Honest Bill Show and this spring with the Christy Bros.' and Frank J. Taylor circuses. Williams was but slightly burned.

To Reduce License Fees In Marysville, Calif.

Marysville, Calif., July 10.—On the theory that license fees charged traveling shows, carnivals and circuses in this city were prohibitive, the City Council Monday night discussed the draft of proposed amendments to the ordinance fixing the following fees:

Tent shows of the stock company or vaudeville type are now charged $150 for the first month and $80 for subsequent months. This fee is levied for either a day or a month. The amendment will change the fee to $50 a month or $25 a day for such shows. Circuses are now required to pay $75 for each performance if the admission charge is 50 cents or more. The new rate probably will be just half that amount or $37.50 for each performance where the admission is more than 50 cents and $25 where a less admission is charged.

It was declared by Mayor Henry Blue Monday night the Council wants to encourage circuses and properly conducted tent shows. The Veterans of Foreign Wars, who were given a permit to have the Abner K. Kline Shows the first week in May, explained to the council that the fees charged tent shows were prohibitive and should be reduced.

Reduce License at Ardmore, Ok.

Ardmore, Ok., July 11.—The board of city commissioners took $30 off the license fee demanded of carnivals and tent shows exhibiting within the city limits Thursday, making the daily tax $20 instead of $50, which has been in force heretofore.

Mansfield, O., July 9.—Rain marred the afternoon attendance the "Fourth" at Mansfield for the Johnny J. Jones Exposition, but the weather cleared up late in the day and the night business was simply phenomenal.

Mansfield citizens have a movie-house man, who owns and manages two of the leading moving picture theaters in that city, whom they should appreciate. He is William Partello, an old-time theatrical man, and he was a strong advocate in bringing this outdoor amusement organization to Mansfield in direct opposition to his own business. He displayed the American spirit of "Live and let live!"

All attractions opened Monday afternoon here, and at night the spacious "Joy Plaza" was jammed with people. The Mayor informed the writer that never in his memory of the city had there been such a multitudinousness of human beings bent on amusement. Charles Docen, manager of the Freak Animal Stadium, lost one of his greatest attractions, a midget bull (fully grown), two years old, that only stood two feet high and weighed 20 pounds. Col. Lamar, manager Wild West, has a horse that riderless and bridleless jumps a gate eight feet in height. Mrs. Wyatt Sheppard, who was at Johnstown undergoing an operation, has returned and is in very much improved health. Mrs. Johnny J. Jones, who has been in ill health for some time, leaves Friday for Tampa, Fla., to enter a hospital. She will be accompanied by Johnny J. Jones, Jr., and expects to remain quite some time. All members of this company deeply regret the death of Emma Ryan, of the Fat Folks' Congress, sometimes known as Emma Kahoe, Edward Russell Salter, Jr., arrived at Mansfield last week and will spend one month with his "daddy". Junior is now 15 years of age and is two inches taller and weighs about five pounds more than his father. He attends George Washington High School at New York. Mr. Camalo has returned from a business trip to Tampa, Fla. Sam Macy is a recent addition to Gene Nadreau's Hawaiian Show. W. J. Whitton, of the staff, and his family were visitors at Mansfield. Princess Olga, bearded lady, has entirely recovered from the snake bite recently suffered. William Sturgis, scenic artist, accompanied by his wife, Louis Corbelle and E. B. (Abe) Jones, left here Tuesday for Toronto, Ont., where they will prepare the many special fronts and stage apparatus, scenery and electrical effects for the show's engagement at the great Canadian National Exhibition.

Checkerup of Sells-Floto Circus Sustains Fractured Leg When Struck by Auto

Onelda, N. Y., July 11.—Two employees of the Sells-Floto Circus, Fred H. Upton and H. N. Tellett, while walking along the State highway between this city and Durhamville, were struck and injured late Thursday night by an automobile. Upton, who is checkerup for the circus, sustained fractures of the left leg below the knee and scratches on the head and arms. His leg was broken in three places and three silver plates were inserted. Upton is at the Broad Street Hospital, where he will remain for a month or more. Tellett escaped with bruises.

New Orleans Legion Has 10,000 Visitors on "Fourth"

New Orleans, July 10.—Approximately 10,000 people visited the festival given by the American Legion at City Park July 4. Thelma Roeling, daughter of Dr. Roeling, was considered the most beautiful in the Bathing Review and will represent New Orleans at Atlantic City. Manager Earl Steward of the Orpheum Theater tendered Miss Roeling and her friends a box party.

Al G. Barnes

Has Big Two-Day Engagement in Denver, Col.—Big Dinner Served on the "Fourth"

The Al G. Barnes Circus played Denver, Colo., July 3 and 4, and despite rain the first day there were two full houses and on the "Fourth" people were turned away, reports Rex de Rosselli. George Tipton gave a big dinner to the showfolk that will long be remembered. The cookhouse was decorated in the national colors and favors, fitting the occasion, were at each plate. Director "Spud" Redrick and his musicians played the National air as the Stars and Stripes were raised over the cookhouse.

Nels and Agnes Lausten and Mrs. Lausten's sister, Margaret Graham, entertained their many friends in Denver, their home town, "Smaller" Garrison, now representing The Denver Times, was a visitor during the Denver stay. He was a clown with the McCaddon Shows in Europe and is still a lover of the white tops. N. F. Johnson, of Portland, Ore., also was a guest and Ed Wiley, former general agent of the Barnes Show, who has a billposting plant in Denver, renewed old acquaintances.

Six horses which were purchased from Charles Norton, of Lexington, Ky., arrived at Denver. Ethel Chase left the show in this city for her home in Los Angeles. The show had 600 orphans as guests in Denver and they were entertained in fine style. Jake Jacobson, concessionaire, donated toys and balloons; "Red" Everett, in charge of the candy stands, passed out popcorn and peanuts, and Mr. Barnes served ice cream and sweets. Friends will be pleased to learn that Everett is in good health again. A white llama arrived July 4 and was named "Denver".

The show was at Colorado Springs July 5 and 6 and many of the showfolk took the trip to Pikes Peak and the "Garden of the Gods". Joe Martin, famous movie star, and his trainer, Blackie Lewis, visited The Gazette-Tribune office July 6 and Joe created a sensation selling papers on the streets. Mr. Goodwin, manager of the newspaper, paid a fine tribute to Joe's intelligence. Later in the day Joe visited the Antler Hotel and "Garden of the Gods." Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Brown visited at the Springs.

The Barnes Circus has been having opposition, but continues to draw them in.

Moon Bros.' Circus

Manager Cly Newton at Mayo Bros.' Hospital, Rochester, Minn.

The Moon Bros.' Circus has been doing a fairly good business, three performances being given on the "Fourth". The stock is holding up nicely under Boss Hostler "Quenemo Bill". Cly Newton, general manager, recently left the show to enter Mayo Bros.' Hospital at Rochester, Minn., for a major operation. Mrs. William Newton is now with the show and will remain until her son's return. Among the recent arrivals are Mr. and Mrs. Warren Swigert, the latter formerly known as Rose Russell. In a dancing wire turn; "Doc" Wilson and Grace Brown, formerly of the Gentry Bros.-Patterson Circus ("Doc" is steward and Miss Brown is working the big elephant act) and the Echo troupe of Japanese. Prof. Mandville receives daily compliments on his music before and during the show. Mr. Swigert is assistant manager of the show, which is headed south and will remain on tour until Christmas.

Frank J. McIntyre Circus

Has Successful Engagement at Greenville, Pa., Under Auspices of the American Legion

Greenville, Pa., July 10.—The Frank J. McIntyre Circus just closed a week's engagement here under the auspices of Greenville Post, No. 140, American Legion. The show was a wonderful success in every way and netted the Legion a nice sum. It was the second time that the Legion put on a circus and this year it had an auto show under a big top in connection. The Greenville Post has decided to have the McIntyre Circus for annual engagements.

While the Frank J. McIntyre Circus was filling a week's engagement at Buffalo the showfolk spent a day at Niagara Falls. In the party were P. E. Curllis, Bill Badger, Mrs. Lois, Tommy White-side, Ed Raymond, O. V. Hart and his all-star girls' band, Gertrude Decker, Bud Forder, Fredia Forder, Bessie Forder, Florence Hefty, Happy Hadsell, Eva Miller, Deitte Ebersole, Maribel Vanarsvall, Kathleen Hart, Ruth and Dorothy Widney. Features of the McIntyre show are the band, the Riding Waitons, Silverlake Trio, the Barnards, Elizabeth Rooney, Chic Overfield, Marcus, the Great, and Ed Raymond's gloom dispersers.

Circus Men in Cincinnati

Fred G. Barker, special agent of the John Robinson Circus, was in Cincinnati Monday and Tuesday of this week with the brigade billing Cincinnati and vicinity for July 20 and 21. Barker was a Billboard caller Monday.

F. A. Regan, contracting press agent of the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus, also called at The Billboard offices Monday morning on his way to Louisville.

N. J. Shelton is with the H-W. Show, following Regan.

PHILADELPHIA FRED'K ULLRICH

Philadelphia, July 11.—This is the final week for Mae Desmond and her players at the Cross Keys. Continuing on their merry way to good business are When You Smile, at the Walnut Theater, and at the Garrick No. No. Nanette. Only three vaudeville houses are now open, Kelli's, Nixon and the Earle. Burlesque houses now running are the Trocadero and Gayety. Parks are Willow Grove, with Creator and his Band, and Woodside, with Hundertmark Orchestra and Schmidt's Fairmount Park Band.

Summer Town Chatter

The fourth season of the Fairmount Park Orchestra free concerts at Lemon Hill will open Monday evening, July 13, closing Sunday, August 23. It will be composed as heretofore of members of the Philadelphia Orchestra. Three prominent conductors will direct, being Alexander Smallens, Dr. Henry Hadley and Richard Hageman. Each will occupy the conductor's desk for one, two and three weeks respectively.

Bob and Gale Sherwood and their entertainers are playing a return date at Keith's Theater this week and scoring as big as ever. The Courtney Sisters are also scoring.

Gus Edwards and his miniature musical comedy, Fountain of Youth, went over fine at the Earle Theater this week. He will continue here for some time, giving a new revue each week.

The Hedgerow Players will give Beyond the Horizon at Rose Valley July 22. It will inaugurate Ann Harding's third summer with the Hedgerow company.

The Stanley had Night Life of New York as its feature, with the National Male Quartet, Trado Twins and Dorothy Githins, singer, as extras.

Jan Rubini, a remarkably fine violin virtuoso, was a big success at the Fox Theater. Olga and Mishka, dancers, were appreciated.

The Student Prince in Heidelberg, after its long run here, opened last Saturday in Atlantic City, and, judging from the attendance, bids fair to become a big hit with residents and visitors.

Eddie Harian, special agent of the Endy Shows, was in town this week on a business trip. The show plays Hanimond-ton, N. J., next week, with all indications of a big "red" top for everybody.

The Tip Top Shows, William F. Wunder, general manager, and Jack Lyies, general representative, are doing nicely about town with their rides and concessions. The Keystone Shows, Mechanic and Gruber, managers, are doing well with their outfit of rides and concessions. The Philadelphia authorities do not permit carnivals to play side shows, and all must be under auspices of a charitable organization. Only rides and concessions with legitimate games are allowed to run. Both the above shows are scheduled to play Southern fairs soon.

Things are beginning to move on the Sesqui-Centennial 1926 Celebration site, pile drivers being busy as bees laying the foundations for the immense stadium. Plans for the buildings, etc., will shortly be made public.

The weather this week has been one of rainy and very hot days. Things in the theatrical field are at a standstill just now. The few houses now running are doing fairly good business despite the hot and sultry nights.

Winnipeg Summer Fair and Trades Exposition
Winnipeg, Can., July 7, 1925.

Editor The Billboard:
Sir—The first attempt to revive an exhibition similar to the old one was made on the old exhibition grounds here June 22 to July 4. No doubt there are many showmen and people interested in the fair business who have had their eyes focused on Winnipeg during the past two weeks. The writer will try and give an account of the fair particularly during the last three weeks when the publicity end was handled by the same, altho keeping in touch with the situation since the foundation of the present fair. Weather conditions were largely responsible for the poor attendance, especially at the grand stand, but there is an angle that must not be overlooked where the promoter of the fair, Charles Vanderlip, made a grave error which I believe he realized when it was too late. I refer to Mr. Vanderlip engaging the services of a side-show man to put over a Trades Exposition. When the latter went to solicit business from the merchants with a view to getting their co-operation to build up the foundation of a future permanent exhibition they immediately sized him up by his manner of approach and, generally speaking, did not wish to have anything to do with him. The news soon spread around and that is one of the main reasons that Mr. Vanderlip was left "on his lonesome" to put over what he has been fighting for since the old exhibition went out of business. Mr. Vanderlip deserves a great deal of admiration for his pluck and consistent faith in the result of the fair. Had the attendance been half as big on the first night as it was on Dominion Day evening, there is no doubt that, weather conditions being favorable, the fair would have been a financial success from a grand-stand point of view. The grand-stand attractions were in my opinion the best seen in Western Canada. The famous Princess Pat's Band, which won world fame at Wembley last year, supplied the music, and our friends from the South were very complimentary to the conductor and musicians. To pick out any individual turn would be out of place in comparison.

To the readers of The Billboard I wish to say that J. A. Darnaby and his assistant, who spent some time here in putting on a pageant, The Coming of the Skikraks, won the hearts of all those who came in contact with him and Miss Runyan. They deserve great credit and their work was admirable. We on this side will be glad to welcome them back any time. Miss Post, soloist, is another lady who has made a host of friends on this side. Her singing was greatly admired and went over big every night. Now I come to mention a name which no doubt is a household word in the midway world, Captain John Sheesley, one of the most genial fellows it has been my pleasure to meet in my career of publicity work, and I also couple with the same words his good wife, Mrs. Sheesley. It is four years since the captain was here and he left such a good impression then that when he came back this time he had a host of friends to greet him. Rain or shine, he always had the same smile, and he sure met with some tough propositions and weather on this last trip. His press agent, C. Ellis, is a very congenial fellow to meet and a credit to any press organization—in fact the whole staff and employees of the Sheesley Shows are good fellows and we will be glad to see them back any time. Of course, our old friend, A. H. Barkley, is included in the list of honors. Mr. Barkley is becoming a regular member of the "Fair Family" in Canada. The Potts Fireworks Company each night put on a wonderful display. Mr. Voelkel, Potts' representative, came in for an abundance of bouquets for the excellent program.

In conclusion Mr. Vanderlip has proved that there is every indication that the public of Winnipeg wants an exhibition,

Says Show Did Not Play Monroe

29 South Washington Street,
Monroe, Mich., June 30, 1925.

Editor The Billboard:
Sir—This is to notify you that the W. G. Wade Shows did not play Monroe, Mich., the week of June 22, as routed in The Billboard, but showed at Toledo, O.

We would appreciate it if you would insert this in your next issue of The Billboard. The Elks' Jubilee is the first outdoor event in Monroe, Mich., so far.

Trouper in Hard Luck Asks Friends To Remember Him

County Jail, Guthrie, Ok., July 4, 1925.

Editor The Billboard:
Sir—I have been held in the county jail here for the past two months and the way things look I will have to stay here until August 24 unless I receive help.

I wish to say that I went to Marland, Ok., in March to join the Miller Bros.' 101 Ranch Show and as I had about two months to myself before the show took to the road I went to work for a restaurant in that town. Whisky was found in the place and I was arrested with the proprietor of the restaurant. The owner took an oath before police that I had nothing to do with it and did not know that he was selling it, but I was convicted May 26 and given 60 days and a fine of $50.

I have helped many a trouper in the years that I have been in the game and I cannot understand why I have not even had a letter from any showman. Mr. Yeagain of Moon Bros. knows that I kept four butchers in pots and board. Please call this to the attention of Jack Mills, Saunders Baker, Ernest Newman and showfolk of the 101 Ranch Show and see if they will return a favor. I do not want charity.
(Signed) JAMES S. BERRY.

ST. LOUIS
F. B. JOERLING

St. Louis Municipal Opera Company
St. Louis, July 11.—Erminie, the delightful comic opera, is the presentation of the Municipal Theater Association this week. Monday night approximately 9,000 persons witnessed the performance, a record for attendance on any opening night since the origin of the St. Louis Municipal Operas. Capacity audiences have been the vogue, and Erminie bids fair to hang up an enviable record.

Beginning Monday night, July 13, a double bill will be presented by the popular operatic players, Cavalleria Rusticana and Pinafore being slated for each night during the week. Three new principals will strengthen the cast. They are: Walter Wheatley, tenor; Ethel Walker, soprano, and James Stevens, baritone.

According to David Russell, manager of the Municipal Theater Association, Eleanor Henry, prima donna-ingenue of this summer's cast, has resigned, effective with the closing of Erminie Sunday night. Ill health is given as the reason.

New Garden Theater

Flint Garrison and his associates were the recipients of many floral pieces and numerous other tributes Monday night, the opening of the New Garden Theater in University City. It was estimated that about 3,000 seats were taken at the opening show. The Garden Theater is really a work of art, and is excellently appointed thruout. Sophocles' Electra was the opening presentation. Good houses have been on hand to greet Miss Margaret Anglin, the featured opera star in the cast, every night this week. These assisting Miss Anglin in the leading roles include Howard Kyle, John Knight, A. H. Crookwell, Sara Bisha, Alma Kruger, Paul Harvey, Merle Stanton, Lucy Booker, Sarah Pickens Cabell, Beatrice Rapp, Henrietta Ritter, Amy Hodges, Marjorie Moffet, Mae Penelope Green, Agnes Grant, Eloise Kroeger, Florence Walters, Marie Gebken, Gladys Wilson, Lauretta Mueller, Charity Grace, Julia Schmidt, Grace Graves, Edith Lieb, Lucienne Descholdt, Goede Calanne, John Herbert, Dana Jensen, Albert Frazier and Oscar Hambleton.

Attractions

Added features at the movie houses this week include: Rome and Dunn, last season with Earl Carroll's Vanities; Harriet Cole, premiere dancer of the Greenwich Village 1925 Follies, at Loew's State; Captain Charles Nungesser, appearing in person with his picture, The Sky Raider, at the Kings; Burnoff and Josephine and a cast of five, in a dance turn, assisted by Milton Schlosser, and Noble Sisse and Lubie Blake, at the Missouri.

Pickups and Visitors
Henry Fisher, clown, who since playing the St. Louis Police Circus last April has been with Harry LaPearl's Combination Show, arrived in the city and expects to stay with his homefolks for the next several weeks.

Ben Badley, secretary of the St. Louis Assembly of the Society of American Magicians, returned from Chicago Saturday, where he attended the S. A. M. banquet given in honor of Dr. A. M. Wilson. The Assembly will meet tonight. Charles Lindhorst will be inducted as a new member.

Chet Wheeler returned to St. Louis after an absence of about six months, which he spent in Chicago, Dayton and Cincinnati. He is undecided as to what he will do this year.

Bob Lohmar, general agent of the Morris & Castle Shows, breezed into St. Louis Friday, leaving again Saturday, driving to Peoria, Ill., to spend Sunday there.

Ed Brannon, general agent of the Robbins Bros' Circus, was in town today visiting the railroad offices.

Frank A. Payne, until two weeks ago special agent for the C. A. Wortham World's Best Shows, has been in the city the last of the week. He is at present busy getting locations for George ("Red") Heller, scheduled to open in Brooklyn, Ill., Monday.

Tom Kearney, sportsman and friend of the show world, writes that he won't get back to St. Louis until September. He wrote from the Yukon Territory and informed that he sails today for Honolulu.

Billy Finkle, "Charlie Chaplin's double", has been the recipient of some nice publicity in the current issue of The Union Electric Monthly Bulletin. He performed at their picnic last Saturday.

OUT IN THE OPEN
By JACK F. MURRAY
Communications to The Billboard, 1560 Broadway, N.Y.

By the omission of a comma the esteemed New York Times turns visitors to Coney Island into cannibals, thus: "When daylight came and the sun awoke the sleepers Surf avenue was as busy as on an ordinary night. Throngs surged into the restaurants, and after eating those who were not in suits went to the bathhouses to get rooms for the day."

General Pisano postcards from San Antonio, Tex., that it's hot down there, but his act is going over big. General's act would go over big anywhere.

Barney H. Demarest has added another high-class act to the Helen McLaughlin Running Combination. Frank and Lottie Thompson in their different specialties, including trick and fancy roping and fancy riding, are the new addition. Miss McLaughlin has 15 head of stock, including runners, ponies, jumping horses and mules.

"Blackie" Daley reports he has his 10-in-1 on the Endy Shows neatly framed, with a fine display of banners. He's using sword box, the Musical Larsens, Madame Celeste, mind reader; Madame Pinxy and her Punch and Judy, some big snakes, a monkey family and Capt. George Larsen, tattooed man.

Belleclair Bros. recently went to Dominion Park, Montreal, to play one week, but their looping-the-loop to a hand-to-hand stand proved such a hit they were held over for three weeks.

Billy Marous—How's that new proposition of yours getting along? Al Noyes still with you? Let's hear from you.

Clay Green—How's Miller Bros.' Shows making out up there in New England?

Frank J. Murphy—Wm. Dauphin—Oscar Buck—California Shows—Where are you playing these days? How about sending in your routes? We have inquiries almost every week for you fellows, but have been unable to locate you.

We'd appreciate some stories from the "Praise" departments of parks and carnivals in the East. We can't get to see you all, but we would like to hear from all of you. How about it, you hunt-and-find-it typists?

Louis J. Beck—What are you doing this season? Still in the show business or have you finally retired—as you've been threatening to do for years?

Ask Arthur W. Hill how to cut official "red tape" when moving animal acts in and out of the country.

Ray Van Wert—Coney Island doesn't seem the same without you making openings on some front. Where you with this season and where?

J. H. Lukey, of Australia, is looking over everything he can get a line on in the way of Wild West and Rodeo attractions. He's planning something of that nature for his own country.

Two 12-year-old kids tried to buy Columbia Park, North Bergen, N. J., for $248, which one of them had found in a mattress at home. Wonder just how much—how little, rather—of the park Otto Aeschbach would sell for that sum?

The Frank J. McIntyre Circus has a big one on this week up in Buffalo.

Betty Ryam reports fair business on her ball game with the Boyd & Linderman Shows in Perth Amboy, N. J. Did you get things fixed up, Betty?

Frank C. Hughes, inside announcer and "Sheik" in the opening spectacle, has left the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus and is knocking about Broadway for a spell, taking it easy. Stock again this winter, Frank?

Cardis De Hall (Mrs. Leo Stevens), the only tattooed fat lady in the business, paid her first visit to the New York offices of The Billboard, tho she's been in the business for years. Her husband is up in Canada with Capt. John Sheesley.

Emil Marohl is just in from Florida. He had his cookhouse with Tom Hassan for a while down there. Says business was pretty good in the South.

Capt. Harry La Belle keeps his Eskimo Village working pretty steadily. He's booking it independent and has had some nice spots so far. Looks like a good season for him.

Bill Holland, general agent for Larry Boyd and Max Linderman, just must visit Broadway every so often or ennuil will get him. The show jumps into New York State soon.

Ben Williams still keeps busy on the lots over in Brooklyn. He leaves soon to start his Canadian fairs.

A. J. Lichtenberger—How's the balloon business this year? They usually tell how the wind blows.

Will White, manager of Norumbega Park, Anurndale, Mass., is in town making the rounds of the near-by parks. Guess he wants to see how the other fellows are doing. Will's got one of the finest parks in New England.

Rudolph Franke, former cowboy and trick roper, is now lecturing on a side show here in the East. What a pair of pipes he's got!

We note from The World's Fair that that old chestnut about the Hebrew who changed his name twice has finally reached England. Wonder when the one about two other fellows will get over there?

A report reached us recently about a show letting wheels work so "strong" on July 3 that the authorities sloughed them. Needless to say business was poor on that outfit on the Fourth. Talk about "killing the goose that laid the golden egg!"

Dave Rose reports the Wonderland Exposition Shows have disbanded and he has taken them over. His Dreamland Exposition Shows open at Forest City, Pa., for 10 days starting July 10.

World at Home Shows

York, Pa., July 9.—Business for the World at Home Shows this week, playing in West York at West King street and Highland avenue, does not look promising at this writing. Monday night was spoiled by rain, also Tuesday night by an electrical storm. Last night found a large crowd on the midway, but little business was recorded. The auspices is the Reliance Band and Sir Knights of the Gobblers. Last week, at Minersville, auspices of the Rescue Fire Company, business started off good and remained so thruout the week, except that a heavy rain spoiled the Saturday night play. Minersville marked the close of the 10-weeks' tour thru the hard-coal region—all successful but three—a total bloomer at Tamaqua.

Charles Lawrence returned, but has not fully recovered from the attack of pneumonia that caused him to remain in Wilkes-Barre, and Sammy Lawrence returned to the M. J. Riley Shows. Joe Marks was seriously hurt in an automobile accident between Minersville and Pottsville last Tuesday night. Eddie Davis was also injured, but less seriously. They were going to Pottsville, after the show, with a party in a truck driven by C. B. (Talcum) Carter, who was forced to swing to the side of the road to avoid colliding with a reckless driver, and his car struck a pole, throwing Marks and Davis to the ground with great force. Other members of the party were shaken up but not injured. George Tashlan joined here with three concessions. Joe Ward has been called to Philadelphia by the serious illness of his sister, Mrs. Carney, in the General Hospital there. Mrs. Carleton Collins joined in Minersville, from her home in North Carolina, where she had been recovering from a serious illness. Joe Kuzan has taken charge of the dining car. James Corey being transferred to the C. reus S. de Show. Many of the personnel visited the Walter L. Main Circus at Mahanoy City last week. The writer enjoyed visits with his friends, "Doc" Ogden and Andy Kelly. Pat Hayes and "chip" Tazlett, of Suffolk, Va., winter home of Billy Klein, are visiting Mr. Klein here this week. Samuel Polack, of Cleveland, son of the late Harry R. Polack, is spending a few weeks with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Irv. J. Polack, and his greatuncle and greataunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Holland. "Doc" Pronto again visited the show last week and is steadily improving from his recent long illness. Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Knauft, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Dickinson and the writer and wife were guests of Billy Klein at a dinner in Minersville, given in honor of the return of Mrs. Collins. CARLETON COLLINS, (Press Representative).

D. D. Murphy Shows

Saginaw, Mich., July 7.—Saginaw, under auspices of Antler Patrol, B. P. O. E., thus far shows every indication of being the banner week so far this season for the D. D. Murphy Shows. They are the first in, and date the Ringling-Barnum Circus tomorrow. Evidently they left an excellent reputation when they played the Saginaw Fair last year, and the backers are representative business men of the community. The show was unloaded a block from the grounds, and the location on Jefferson avenue is but a block below the circus lot, to gain which everyone must pass the doors of the shows. The promotions here are being handled by Jack Shortt, who has constructed one of the prettiest entrances the writer has ever seen. It is 30 feet in height, surmounted by an illuminated elk's head. The perspective gives one the impression of a deep stage set upon which the display ads are painted.

Reports of the closing days of the Port Huron stand indicate that they went over with a bang—in fact several of them on the last day. It was the "biggest Fourth" in the show's history. Arrangements had been made by the show thru Thearle-Duffield Co. for an afternoon and evening fireworks display. The event was given wide publicity by the local press and a big crowd was in attendance, including the Killies Band with a big delegation from Sarnia, who were guests of the show. With Jas. C. Simpson as master of ceremonies the afternoon display was a success. The night display even more so. However, the first salvo of star shells brought out the fire department, as a sudden shift in the wind carried sparks which set fire to the "Law and Outlaw" top—prompt work averted any considerable damage. A readjustment of the mortars was made and the spectacle proceeded. As the first flight of rockets went "up in the air" so did the agents of an oil company who claimed their tanks were in the line of fire. Another switch in direction was made, and at 1 a.m. the "good-night" set was fired amid the strains of Auld Lang Syne and the crowd trooped happily homeward. W. X. MacCOLLIN, (Press Representative).

Busse's Beautiful Home

The American Funeral Director in its June issue devoted a page to Edward J. Busse, funeral director of Cincinnati, O., who is well known to many showfolk. The article pertains mostly to the beautiful home that he has in the Queen City and has two illustrations, one showing Mr. Busse and his three sons and the other his home.

Greater Sheesley Shows

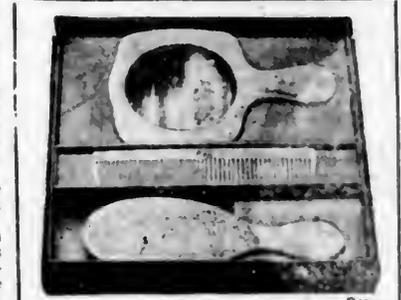

Hubbing, Minn., July 8.—Back among many friends on the Mesaba iron range, where good business was experienced last year, the Greater Sheesley Shows had a wonderful opening here Monday night, located on the new fair grounds, the shows and rides seeming to appeal exceptionally strong to the multitude of amusement seekers.

Capt. John M. Sheesley has many friends in this section and they have been out en masse nightly to welcome his organization back on the range. Triple auspices here have created wide interest in this engagement and much support is being received from Cobb-Williams Post of the American Legion, Hubbing Lodge of Elks and the Lions' Club. Today Mr. Sheesley and many of the showfolk are visiting the Sparks Circus at Virginia, Minn.

A good run was made Sunday from Winnipeg, where the last week's business of the Summer Show and Trade Exposition was a vast improvement over the initial week. Weather improved, and on the final days monster crowds visited the old exhibition grounds. Some of the staff and women of the show took occasion to visit and leave floral tributes at the grave of "Ches" Winters in St. Boniface, the deceased having been a beloved member of this organization, dying in St. Boniface while the shows were playing there in 1920.

Chief Electrician Alex. Srovey took unto himself a bride during the Winnipeg engagement, details of the marriage being in the nuptials department in this issue. Foreman Pat Stanton, of the Ferris wheel, was injured during a visit to his home in Regina, Sask., and will remain there until his recuperation. Tom Scully now has the front of the circus side-show. A recent acquisition is a 24-foot python from Handy & King, Boston. After next week five rides—the Maynes scenic railway, dragon's pup, super-caterpillar and over-the-jumps, in charge of Harry A. Illions, and the flyer, in charge of Harry Moore, will be sent to the Exposition of Progress at Duluth, Minn.

Perlson Show Tents

Chicago, July 13.—The high wind of Saturday night blew down all of the tents of the Perlson Water Show and Carnival, playing at 18th and Crawford avenues. The pit-show and dance-hall tops, together with a number of the concessions, were blown across the street. Silverware from the concessions was scattered about the lot and the cookhouse top was found on top of the Ferris wheel. No one was seriously injured.

Washburn Visits

Smith's Kennels

N. C. Smith, manager of the Great Dane Kennels, writes from New Richmond, Ind.: "Yesterday, July 7, I had the pleasure of a visit from Leon Washburn, who was en route from Chester, Pa., to Chicago, where he is going to organize his old favorite, Uncle Tom's Cabin, opening in Port Huron, Mich., August 1. This is the old Stetson show. He was here at my Great Dane Kennels looking for Tom dogs and I sold him three to be shipped to Port Huron the last week in July. I don't know when I have enjoyed seeing anyone as much as I did Washburn, as I have had several Tom shows for the past 20 years. I have been out of the game several years, devoting my time to my three favorite breeds of dogs. Washburn was very much surprised at the number of dogs we have in our kennels and admired them very much. He stated that he has several new novelties for the show this season, and no doubt he has, for he used to be good at springing them.

"While at my kennels we also had the pleasure of a visit from Claude Hale, wife and two kiddies, they motoring thru from Cleveland, O., to Winnimack, Hale's old home. Hale also bought a Great Dane. This dog seems to be a very popular one, as we sell them faster than we can raise them."

Goodwin reports, with prospects bright for the rest of the season. All members of the company are enjoying a pleasant summer.

The roster of this company is as follows: Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Phelps, ingenue and comedian; Verne De Weight, leads; Mrs. De Weight, characters; Ruth De Weight, leads; Mrs. Joe Goodwin, helping on front door and working on chorus wardrobe, as the Phelps Players expect to play on the Gus Sun Time this winter; Mrs. Masaker, juveniles, having been

Shortly after the holidays Mr. Powell was taken to Epworth Hospital, South Bend, Ind., where he underwent a course of medical treatment. About two months ago he was taken to Riverside Hospital, as he had yearned to return to the old home town. Every resource of medical science was applied in an effort to prolong his life, but the weight of many winters rested upon him and weakened his resistance to the disease which progressed steadily to fatal termination.

The deceased was born in Niles May 1, 1854. At the age of 13 years he left home and went to Chicago, where he formed the acquaintance of Tom Heath, of the now famous minstrel team of McIntyre and Heath. From Chicago they went to New York, where they displayed their wares in dance halls, etc., being one of the stellar attractions for a time at the "Bucket of Blood", one of the granddaddies of the modern cabaret. After Ed Powell and Tom Heath parted Mr. Powell secured a position as a billposter for Broadway & Treassey, a theatrical advertising firm, in Chicago. At the age of 17 the deceased became associated with Prof. S. S. and Clara Baldwin, manipulators of international fame, who were under the management of Chas. Locke. With the Baldwins he went on a tour of Canada, Australia, Africa, India, England, Scotland and the Rhine country. For the last 35 years Ed's brother, Fred Powell, was his teammate. The Powells had many and varied experiences on the road and staged their entertainments in theaters ranging from the finest in the land to lamp-lit dining rooms in hotels in towns which had no playhouses.

During his stage career Ed was an intimate of many of the most gifted members of the theatrical fraternity, and was himself a great attraction in his line. As years passed his admirers in many communities came to regard him as an institution and eagerly looked forward to his coming from time to time.

Fraternally Mr. Powell was identified with the Masonic Order, being a member of the Blue Lodge and the Chapter, and a member of Niles Lodge No. 1322, B. P. O. Elks. The funeral services were held in Niles Thursday afternoon, July 9, under Masonic auspices. The Elks' ritualistic services were conducted at their temple and the Masonic burial services were conducted at the graveside at Silver Brook Cemetery. The deceased is survived by two sons, a brother, three nieces and two nephews.

Shows and for a number of seasons with that organization, and Lottie May Holden, of Regina, Sask., Can., were married at the bride's home there July 1 while the Shesley Shows were at the Winnipeg Fair and Trade Exposition. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holden and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Murdoch MacKinnan. Mr. Sirovey is a Canadian veteran of the World War.

STICKELMAIER-McMAHON — Henry C. Stickelmaier, manager of the Theaters Operating Company, Peoria, Ill., and Rose Mary McMahon, nonprofessional, were married in Chicago June 27.

STRIKER-FULLER—Al Striker, well-known contortionist, was recently married to Miss Fuller, formerly prima donna in many of George Choo's productions. On Friday preceding the marriage Mr. Striker formed a new net with a Miss Fuller. The affair was booked the following day, with the opening scheduled for Sunday. On Monday they were on the bill at Keith's Jefferson, New York, with Tuesday finding the contribution "covered" day forthwith intimated by representatives of the various vaudeville circuits. To cap the climax Mr. Striker and Miss Fuller were married Wednesday and Thursday the net was signed for a long tour of the Pantages houses, starting July 11.

VILLE-CHARLEY—Paul Ville and Germaine Charley, both well-known actors in France, were married recently in Paris.

VINCENT-FAUST — L. A. Vincent, agent for the Golden Rod Showboat, and Violet Faust, chorister on French's Showboat, were married June 20 at Keokuk, Ia.

WHEELER-KIMA—M. L. Wheeler, known as "Fat" Wheeler, member of the

COMING MARRIAGES

Neeley Edwards, formerly of Flanagan and Edwards, and Marguerite Snow, screen actress, are to be married Christmas, according to a report from Universal City, Calif., where both are working in comedies.

According to information just received Pauline Frederick, well-known actress, now playing in The Lady in Australia, is to be married soon to Charles Coleman, her leading man. Mr. Coleman is the divorced husband of Evelyn Varden, one time Los Angeles stock company favorite. Miss Frederick only recently secured her final decree from Doctor Rutherford, Seattle physician. Prior to that she was the wife of Willard Mack, playwright and actor. The present romance, according to reports, began to develop when the pair began the long journey from the Golden Gate.

Ralph W. Ince, motion picture director, who was divorced July 2 by his wife, a sister of Anita Stewart, screen star, is to marry Luella Mendez, dancing and screen star and a daughter of the late President Cipriano Castro of Venezuela. The bride-elect is dancing in My Girl in New York. Captain Terrell M. Jacobs, animal trainer, last season with the Sells-Floto Circus and now with the Lee Bros.' Wild Animal Circus, and Mattie Casley, manager of Casley's Studio, Nacogdoches, Tex., will be married at the close of this season. No date for the wedding has been set.

A glance at the Hotel Directory in this issue may save considerable time and inconvenience.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Elinor at Hollywood July 6. The father is an orchestra leader.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mills are the parents of a daughter born July 4 at New York. The father is at the head of Jack Mills, Inc., music publishers.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tobias at Hunts Point Hospital, New York, recently. The father is a vaudeville single and songwriter. Mrs. Tobias, who is known to the profession as Edna Gladstone, is also a writer of popular songs.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Weiland at Pittsburgh, Pa., recently. The father is associated with the Weiland theaters, Mount Oliver.

J. George Schwelzer, well-known motion picture exhibitor of Titusville, Pa., is now a proud father.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Roehr became the proud parents of a boy June 23. Mr. Roehr is manager and director of Alvin Roehr's Music Makers, playing at Bill Hill's Lookout House, on the Dixie Highway, near Covington, Ky.

DIVORCES

Herbert J. Pfeil, musician, recently obtained a divorce from Marjorie Singer Pfeil, of Lowville, N. Y., in the Supreme Court at Syracuse, N. Y.

On July 3 Victoria Baldwin filed suit for divorce in New York City against Nelson Frederick (Buddy) Baldwin, musician and manager of "Buddy" Baldwin's Orchestra. She charges extreme cruelty and failure to provide for support.

Priscilla Dean has agreed to "a friendly separation" from Wheeler Oakman, but no divorce action has been contemplated. Mr. Oakman is appearing in a New York play. Miss Dean is making a series of motion pictures in Los Angeles.

In our issue of June 27 we stated that Mrs. Fred Wood, who before her marriage was Camille Sarazin, applied for a divorce from Fred Wood. This should have read that she applied for separation of bed and board. This was granted her July 8. We also stated that Mr. Wood went to New Orleans about two years ago. It should have read October, 1924.

John E. Hostettler, president of the Hostettler Amusement Company, Omaha, Neb., recently sued Agnes Hostettler for divorce.

Ethel Marlan Rathbone was granted a divorce in Paris, France, July 6 from Basil Rathbone on the grounds of infidelity. Mr. Rathbone is an English actor, who played in The Casino and The Swan in New York and now is in San Francisco.

Ian Keith Ross, film actor and poet, filed suit for divorce from Mme. Blanche Yurka Ross, Metropolitan Opera star, at Los Angeles July 8, charging desertion. The singer sued Ross for divorce in New York last year and the case is still pending.

Olive Fremstad Brainard, known in musical comedy as Olive Fremstad, secured a divorce from Harry Lewis Brainard, of New York, by decree of Judge Arthur Chapman in the Superior Court at Portland, Me., July 8. Desertion was charged, the alleged act having occurred in May, 1917. The couple were married at Bridgeton, Me., November 4, 1910. Miss Fremstad is also known on the operatic stage.

received by full attendance at all performances, and after leaving the city they went to Norfolk for an engagement there. The Norfolk theater is one of the chain of Wells houses in that section. Irving says: "Mr. Crawford had a company of 20 versatile artists for the stay here in Richmond, and to numerate the virtues of each one would be quite a difficult task, but it would be safe to say that individually and collectively they were, all there when it came to putting their goods across the footlights. Of course, the outstanding feature was the jazz band, with the well-known and well-liked Don Phillips at the piano. Don was for many months the leader of the orchestra at the Strand Theater in Salisbury, N. C., later becoming manager of the Princess in Spartanburg, S. C., but the lure of the road was too great to withstand, so he formed the Georgia Cracker Band and has been the feature with Crawford for the past season. The newspaper critics here spoke very highly and pleasingly of Jolly Jack Crawford's efforts as a comic, and to say that he was a riot at each show would be putting it in too mild a form. Jake Wells spoke very highly of the Crawford Company and said he would welcome it back next season."

Circuses in Spokane, Wash. Must Confine Their Property to Lot Rented for the Date

Spokane, Wash., July 10.—Circuses showing in this city must confine their property to the lot rented for the date, avoiding the closing of streets and parking of wagons about the neighborhoods where the shows set up. Mayor Charles A. Fleming declared when the city council last week granted a license to the Ringling-Barnum Circus to appear here August 21. Al Butler closed the date here, securing the Division street lot, which the Ringling shows pioneered in past years.

which C. B. C. replied. Delysya and the whole company of the most successful show of the season were present. The London Symphony Orchestra celebrated its coming of age by a dinner at the Hotel Cecil at which a great many leaders of the world of music were present. Sir Thomas Beecham, who was in great form, spoke brilliantly and delivered some remarkable home truths on the subject of orchestral organization and management. Sutton Vane is joining forces with Archibald Nettiegold, proprietor of the Comedy Theater. Their first presentation will be The Gentleman in Waiting. Eric Blone, Jane Wood and Olwen Roose are in the cast. The piece has already been tried out in the country and may be seen in town next week. Gladys Cooper will probably do Michael Arlen's The Green Hat as her next production. Ins is likely to be called off any time now, and Miss Cooper wants a holiday before she returns to the West End. So the Arlen piece may not be seen till the autumn.

Leon M. Lion has a provincial trial run of a new piece by N. Jefferson Farjeon. The drama is called No. Seventeen, and, besides Leon himself, the cast includes Nicholas Hannen, Fred Groves and Nora Swinburne. Jungle Law, Philip Ridgeway's last production at the new experimental repertory theater at Barnes, has proved so much to the taste of the public that he has decided to keep it in the bill. Madge McIntosh is doing well with her Playday Players at the King's, Hamersmith; so well indeed that she is looking around for another house in which to continue the scheme when her tenancy of the King's ends. Sir Barry Jackson has decided to withdraw Caesar and Cleopatra from the Kingsway and to replace it by Harold Chapin's The New Morality. Cedric Hardwicke thus turns from Caesar to Woolton, and Gwen Frangon-Davies from Cleopatra to Betty Jones. They will likely change back again, I believe, for Jackson contemplates the revival of the Shaw piece. When It Pays To Advertise ends its remarkably successful run next week Ben Travers' new farcical comedy, The Cuckoo's Nest, will be staged at the Aldwych Theater, with Ralph Lynn and Madge Saunders in leading roles.

Morris & Castle Shows

Auspiciously Open Their Fair Season at Minot, N. D.

Minot, N. D., July 8.—The Morris & Castle Shows had a good week at Aberdeen, S. D., particularly on the Fourth of July. Among guests of Messrs. Morris and Castle were: Fred M. Barnes, of the World Amusement Service Association; Ernie Young, Ray Lamkin, Ed Dailey, Bob Green, Ray Claypole and others of Alex Sloan's racing team. The show made a three-road jump to this week's date at Minot, for the Northwest Fair, and opened Monday evening to a most creditable business. Tuesday the crowd during the day showed an increase up to six o'clock, when a heavy rain set in, lasting more than an hour. However, a good crowd braved the weather and remained on the midway until a late hour. A remunerative week is looked for, as conditions in North Dakota are very good this year and this fair has been advertised for miles around.

As Minot is only a short way from the Canadian border, Mr. Morris took an auto party for a drive into Canada, made up of his two sisters, of Washington, D. C., and his niece, Maxine Kahn, of the same place, accompanied by Mrs. Jno. R. Castle. The trip was most enjoyable, according to members of the party. They returned late the same night. E. R. Montgomery, secretary of the North Dakota State Fair, where the show occupies the midway, ran over to Minot, to pay the organization a visit Wednesday and seemed elated over the shows he saw and visited. Fair officials here have spoken praise for the show, also The Minot Daily News, Minot's only daily paper.

Bernardi Greater Shows

Franklin, Pa., July 7.—This week finds the Bernardi Greater Shows located on the ball park here with a field of mud surrounding it. Owing to a derailment of a freight train just outside of Oil City on the Sunday move from Warren, Pa., the show was late getting in and although with a three-mile haul to the lot everything was up in readiness for the opening. General Superintendent Joseph McFields and his aids were on the jump every minute until every show and ride was up and going. This is a maiden spot for this show, and from the way everyone turned out Monday night, it will be a good one. Then just in three weeks the show will start its fair season, which runs until November 24. Special Agent Jas. W. Stephens, formerly of the George L. Dobyns Shows, had many handshakes Sunday morning, as the Dobyns showfolks mostly travel by auto and passed thru Franklin on the r way from Clearfield, Pa., to Lackawanna, N. Y. Steve and the Mrs. are looking fine and that big car with its outstanding colors make the townfolks talk. General Agent Golden is taking his wife on a vacation to some of the mountains of New York State. Wm. Glick has left for New York to book some new attractions. At the present time there are 16 shows and five rides in the lineup. Mr. Bergen and Robert Mathews opened their new Law and Outlaw show to a very nice business. It is being handled by Leo Tomlinson, who does the talking on the inside, and one of the talkers from the "old school" is on the ticket box, Wm. Staley. The Water Show is completed and going over nicely. All of which is according to an executive of the above shows.

Imperial Expo. Shows

Lafferty, O., July 8.—The Imperial Exposition Shows opened here Monday to good business, although the show had to set up in one of the hardest rains of the season. The Ill wheel could not be erected on account of a cracked cylinder head on the tractor.

Last week's stand at Scio, O., was not very good. A storm struck at 3 p.m., July 4, which ruined the entire day. The 10-ft-1 was completely destroyed and the show is laying off this week waiting for a new top. Three 16-foot stores joined here.

Great White Way Shows

Alexandria, Ind., July 8.—At this writing the midway of the Great White Way Shows is packed to its capacity and all shows and rides are doing a nice business. This engagement is sponsored by the Alexandria Bright Post, American Legion, and it is an annual Legion Frolic, said to be backed by every business man of the city, with one exception, a local moving picture man. Due to the heavy rains it was impossible to open Monday night with all the attractions. However, those able to open did a good business. The caterpillar continues to get top money, due to some extent to the untiring efforts of its owner, Bert Cobb.

Week ending June 27 at Gallion, O., under the auspices of the Loyal Order of Moose, was the third time for the shows to play Gallion under the Moose. Business was far from what was expected, altho is was a very pleasant week, as the K. G. Barkoot Shows were showing in Crestline, only four miles away, and many visits were exchanged. New Castle, Ind., was the stand for the Fourth of July week, under the auspices of the Henry County Fair Association, the location being on the fairgrounds. What was expected to be the "red one" of the season so far turned out to be a week of rain and many windstorms. However, some business was done and no damage was done to the outfit. It is the intention of Manager Nigro to make this season a long one and General Representative Harry L. Small is now very busy lining up celebrations and fairs that will carry the show south. Mrs. Bond is this week visiting friends in Indianapolis.

H. A. (Happy) Holden joined here today from his home in Nashville, Tenn. Mr. Irwin, of Peru, was a visitor last evening. Special Agent George E. Snyder had the largest arch of the season last week in New Castle, measuring 18 feet in height and 120 feet in length, with two entrances. Manager Nigro has a well-balanced staff of talkers, oldtimers who know how to properly invite the public to their respective attractions. Among them are Johnny Wallace on the Monkey and Goat Circus, Harry Lee, Animal Show; Frank Kuhl, Side Show; George Tompkins, Crossword Puzzle; H. R. Atwell, Collins Show, and Billy Kontnick, Minstrel Show—these boys have many years' service to their credit.

Brown & Dyer Shows

Buffalo, N. Y., July 9.—This week the Brown & Dyer Shows are exhibiting at Louisiana and Elk streets for the Christmas Toy Fund. Last week at Black Rock the show had just a fair business. July 4 was lost, as it rained all day and night.

The Geo. L. Dobyns Shows are at Lackawanna this week and many visits have been exchanged. The show had another wedding. This time it was E. J. Kastner and Catherine Vanidesteln. Bennie Beckwith, manager the caterpillar, has gone to Winnipeg, Can., for a few weeks. Prof. Alexanderia, with his flea circus, has a wonderful show, something different than the usual order of such shows. Professor is from the "old world" and says that his fleas are different from the American flea and are much easier to train. Mrs. H. A. Smith, accompanied by Harry Adam Smith, Jr., arrived in Buffalo Saturday to spend a few weeks with her husband, who is general agent for the show. "Junior" is only four months old. Bryan Woods says he is thinking of adding a small elephant to his monkey circus. Victor Lee has added several figures to his wax show. Mrs. Dollie Cann with her Sahara Show is getting her share of the business. Curly Wilson met with a painful accident Saturday night when a rear wheel of a truck ran over his toes. Howard Parker, concessionaire, joined.

FRANK LABARR

Princess Olga Shows

Farmer City, Ill., July 9.—Last week at Newman, Ill., was the best one of the season for the Princess Olga Shows and the Fourth was the best one the show ever had. Mr. Wadsworth bought a chairplane and had a wonderful opening week with it. This week, at Farmer City, the show had been playing to a packed midway and the people are good spenders. Bill Perks, of Mound City, Ill., who had been working on the Big Bill and the chairplane, left today for home, everyone on the show regretfully missing him. Miss E. M. Garthwaite has announced that this is her last year on the road as she is engaged to be married next fall after the show closes. "Crip" Holliman bought a pop-corn machine Saturday. Mike Sanone and wife joined with a taffy candy stand. The show consists of 3 rides, 5 shows and 19 concessions.
