A CENTURY OF PROGRESS

A Year of Achievement

1933 will focus eyes of everybody engaged in the amusement business upon the gigantic World's Fair, opening in Chicago June 1. Many will take advantage of the opportunities offered by this event. Thousands of others will be unable to go to Chicago. All will watch with keen interest the happenings of this mammoth project.

The article below, reprinted from the January 14 issue of The Billboard, outlines our program to report each week what progress is being made in building the exposition; what amusement devices are being installed and by whom; concessions booked; policies to be followed by the fair in handling exhibits and amusements; general news notes of the personnel.

If you want to keep informed regarding the 1933 World's Fair read "Billyboy" EVERY WEEK. USE coupon below.

Keeping in Step With A Century of Progress

News and Notes of What Is Going on at Chicago's Second World's Fair in the Making

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—When Chicago's 1933 world's fair—A Century of Progress—opens next June 1 every feature contemplated in the program announced two years ago will be ready, according to officials of the exposition. Every building will be completed as scheduled and every major exhibit will be in place.

Approximately $6,000,000 has already been spent on the exposition's construction program. Exhibit space in exposition and special exhibit buildings costing a total of $4,755,324 are under contract, and contracts for entertainment and amusement of visitors representing an investment of an additional $4,300,000 have been signed.

This gives some idea of the magnitude of next summer's fair and also the remarkable progress that has been made in the face of conditions that might be expected to discourage the most optimistic.

Believing that thousands of show people in every branch of the amusement field throughout the country are deeply interested in the fair, The Billboard has laid plans to keep them informed from week to week as to what progress is being made in building the exposition; what amusement devices are being installed and by whom; concessions booked; policies to be followed by the fair in handling exhibits and amusements; general news notes of the personnel of the fair and its attractions; in short, everything that may be of interest to readers of The Billboard.

Within a few months hundreds of showfolks will be moving into the exposition grounds. It is they who will provide action, color, romance for the greatest fair that has ever been staged. For their chronicles watch these columns, which will be expanded as the growth of the fair progresses.

A Temple of Music, to cost $100,000, is being planned by the Friends of Music, a women's organization. Dollar memberships are being sold to finance the proposition.

Lew Dufour, well-known outdoor showman, has been a frequent visitor at the fair's grounds and offices during the holidays, and it looks as if he will be all rot to go when the fair opens.

John Drury has been commissioned to write the official Century of Progress guide book of Chicago.

Nat D. Rodgers, chief of amusements, has returned from a holiday trip to Florida. He found mountains of work awaiting him and has plunged into it with characteristic energy and enthusiasm.

Representatives of America's billion-dollar paper industry have contracted 2,100 square feet of exhibit space in which will be shown the 10,000 uses of paper, from napkins to car wheels.

An interesting exhibit will be a glass automobile, full size and constructed entirely of glass panels, with the exception of its blue vital parts. These parts will be described by means of electrical acoustics. The exhibit is being prepared by Martin Jester, of Jester Exhibits, Inc., who has been appointed director of exhibits attached to the office of the U. S. Commissioner in connection with Federal participation in the fair.

Plans are being worked out to extend the surface car lines to the fairgrounds. An elevated structure will carry the Roosevelt Road (13th street) car lines over Wabash avenue, Michigan avenue and Illinois Central tracks to a station between Soldier Field Stadium and Field Museum.

Officials of the fair have concluded arrangements with the Pal-Waukee Airport, Inc., for large 10-passenger twin-motor Sikorsky amphibian planes to carry sightseeing passengers up and down the lake front over a course of approximately 15 miles, and a shuttle service is planned to connect with incoming and outgoing air liners at Municipal Airport to carry visitors arriving by air direct to the fairgrounds.

Camel Ads Mark Magicians

Reynolds firm's exposure of illusions brings protests
—magic societies acting

CINCINNATI, Jan. 28. — America's magicians, of which there are, conservatively speaking, some 25,000, amateur and professional, are up in arms. No little irked as the result of the J. Reynolds Tobacco Company ads which appeared in the country's leading newspapers last week, advertising the Camel cigarettes, and, in the form of a lieup, exposing a major escape trick in a popular illusion.

The first of these exposes, the "Houdini Can Escape," appeared in the Reynolds company ad early last week and was followed later in the week by a copy of the popular levitation illusion, "Living Body," better known in magic parlance as "Rod Thru the Body," appears in the leading dailies today.

According to information reaching The Billboard, the Reynolds expose series consists of 12 layouts to be placed nationally. It is understood that the ads are being placed thru the W. Estes Advertising Corporation, New York.

A flood of communications has been received by The Billboard from magicians in all parts of the country condemning the use of the magical expose the Reynolds firm to foster its product. Carbon copies of wired letters sent by magicians to the J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C., asking the company to put a halt to what several described as the "illegitimate form of advertising," also were received. It was also urged that every magician in the country and those in sympathy with them in the matter send in their protests to the Reynolds company.

A Billboard wire to officers of the three major magic bodies—the Society of American Magicians, International Brotherhood of Magicians and the International Magic Circle—brought replies asserting that all three groups were taking action on the matter.

W. H. (Dom) Domzalski, chairman of the Council of Seven of the IMC, wired follows: "The International Magic Circle is emphatically opposed to the present system of exposure of magic and illusions by the Reynolds company."

A similar reply was received from W. Durbin, president of the International Brotherhood of Magicians, who

Jones Shows' Tour Officially Announced

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 23.—While attending the annual meeting of the South Carolina Association of Fairs here last week Mrs. Johnny J. Jones announced officially that the Johnny J. Jones Exposition Shows will be on tour the coming season. The announcement was corroborative of rumors that, because of a re-division of show properties and some individuals directly concerned in the operation of the company the last two years, the Jones show would not be on the road this year. Mrs. Jones addressed the fair men at their meeting, stating that the show will be kept up to the standard of her late husband in every possible respect.

Mrs. Jones told the local representative of The Billboard that the names of her executive staff members will be given for publication in the near future.

J. L. Murray, last year general manager of Johnny J. Jones Exposition, Inc., and William Jennings O'Brien, its general agent, both to be with the Sheesley show this year, attended the fair meeting, as did John M. Sheesley.

He Couldn't Take It

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23.—Shoe-stringing radio advertising agency operating in the Bay region recently accepted the resignation of an executive on rather unique grounds.

Employee had been quadrupling as production manager, continuity writer, announcer and publicity manager for coffee and cakes when the agency owner asked the "staff" to become radio advertising salesman in addition to the other duties. At that the employee blew up and tendered his resignation. Now the shoe-stringing seems about broke without the ambidexterous one.

A. F. Thaviu Lands Free-Act Contract for Class-A Fairs

Midway attractions for large Western Canada circuit to Castle-Ehrlich-Hirsch again—concessions to Goodman and Hock—Conklin gets midway for "B" Group

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Information has reached Chicago that A. F. Thaviu, who is well known in the outdoor show world for his band and presentation, has been awarded, for the first time, the contract for free acts for the Class A Canadian fairs this year. The award was made at the annual meeting of the Western Canada Association of Exhibitions at the Fort Garry Hotel, Winnipeg, last week.

The midway attractions at these fairs in 1932 were furnished by the Castle-Ehrlich-Hirsch Shows, and they were again given the contract for that department for this year.

The contract for concessions went to Max Goodman and Edward A. Hock.

The Class A Circuit consists of the fairs staged at Brandon, Man.; Calgary, Alta.; Edmonton, Alta.; Saskatoon, Sask., and Regina, Sask.

J. W. Conklin received the contract for Conklin's All-Canadian Shows to furnish both midway attractions and concessions at the 1933 fairs making up the Class B Circuit.

Representatives of attractions, concessions, etc., in attendance at the meeting included the following:

Attractions: Barne-Carruthers, Ed F. Carruthers; Taylor's Hollywood Personalities, Earl Taylor; Northwest Amusement Company, Julie Miller; Lew Rosenthal's Amusement Enterprises, Lew Rosenthal; Schooley's Musical Productions, Edgar I. Schooley; Miller's Jewels Revue, Leo Semh; Sloane's Auto Races, Alex. Sloane; De Waldo Attractions; Roundup Rangers, Charles C. Herald; World's Fair Show, A. F. Thaviu; John B. Rogers' Pagants, Theodore Fish; Ernie Young's Production, Ernie Young; special attraction, Stradbroke stables, Thomas Sumner.

Midways: Castle-Ehrlich-Hirsch Shows, Johnny Castle and R. L. Lohmar; Conklin's All-Canadian Shows, J. W. Conklin; Royal American Shows, C. J. Bellmayer.

Fairs: Miller's Exhibition Band, Lieut. Col. H. W. Arnold and T. H. Miller; 91st Highlanders Band, Captain Stares; F. C. L. I. Band, Capt. T. W. James.

Concessions: Goodman Concession Company, Max Goodman and E. A. Hock; (See A. F. THAVIU on page 55)

Stumbling Block To New Theaters

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—For the first time in 20 years a new city Building Code, including theaters, has been written, and an attempt is being made to rush its passage. It is, however, faced by the opposition of a voluntary committee of the theater, which deems the code's chapter on theaters to be too severe. The new code was written by Herbert J. Krapp, architect, while the opposition committee was formed at the instigation of Senator J. Henry Walters and Arthur J. Benline, of RKO.

Krapp wrote the code when the Merchants' Committee here believed that certain amendments could be made, due to changes in conditions over a period of 20 years. However, it was not the original intention to rewrite the entire code. The voluntary committee contends that Krapp has made his code too strict and concentrated the theater section too much on houses of 1,500 seats. Also claim that his requirements would increase cost of theater building by 50 per cent. Other objections voiced by the committee include the ruling that no theater can go over 2,500 seats with a 25-foot front and the relegation of power from the Superintendent of Buildings to what is called the Board of Appeals. The opposing group also objects to the clause which limits space over theaters to stores, apartments and offices, making no mention of

Advertisers Sound Warning Note On Radio Talent's "Padded Costs"

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—"Padded prices on radio talent" came in for a clam at the hands of Stuart Peabody, manager, sales and distribution analysis of the Boyden Company, and president of the Association of National Advertisers, Inc., during course of an address delivered last Wednesday at the Advertising Club of New York.

Peabody entitled his talk, "What the National Advertiser Is Thinking About" and twice mentioned specific points of interest to radio program sponsors. Going into many details on matters pertaining to lowering the cost of advertising and methods now used in obtaining real facts on all matters pertaining to the subject in general, Peabody revealed the fact that an example of co-operation in fact-finding is the Co-Operative Analysis of Broadcasting, a work which was started and put into effect by the ANA in order to obtain for its members vital facts on radio programs that the seller was unable to supply. More than $64,000 was expended out of individual pockets by advertising agents and to this sum has since been added $32,000. "Some day," said Peabody, "it is our hope that this research undertaking will have a third underwriter, in the collective personality of sellers of radio time."

Mentioning some of the added costs to advertisers, he indirectly likened the padded costs of radio to that of the padded circulation statement of a periodical or newspaper, and concluded this part of his address with "Padded prices on radio talent—money which talent does not receive but which is largely diverted to go-betweens—must end. Advertising cannot continue to support the parasites who inflate the cost of radio talent."

Toward the close of his talk, Peabody said advertisers in 1933 were going to save a lot of money by resisting rackets, but did not mention this in connection with radio.

Bitter Fight Is Waged To Retain Appropriations for Aid to Roads

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—One of the bitterest fights which has marked the present and the last session of this the 72d Congress has been over the question of federal aid to roads. The economy program has resulted in materially paring the amounts to be appropriated for this purpose. In the House agricultural appropriation bill, but proponents of federal aid are planning to seek a compromise in the Senate.

In an effort to retain the $100,000,000 of annual appropriations for federal aid to roads 14 governors, thru their highway commissions, joined recently in an appeal to Congress, but among those in strategic position, from a Congressional standpoint, to combat this plan was Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, floor leader for the majority in the House.

Motorized circus executives have a keen interest, naturally, in the extension of modern highways as a whole, but these interests in particular are interested not only in the main highway lines being maintained and the mileage increased, but also in the extension of the improvement programs to the secondary roads. One of the advantages to the circus owner of motorized transportation is that it enables him to reach many of the smaller but still important population centers from a circus point of view which could not be reached by rail line.

There is a disposition apparent upon the part of numerous States to give attention at this time to the extension of improved mileage on the secondary roads, and for two reasons: One is that (See BITTER FIGHT on page 55)

Leisure Study Courses Planned As Shorter Work Week Is Heard

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Hearings have been started by Chairman William Connery, of Massachusetts, of the House labor committee, on the question of the five-day-week and the six-hour-day proposal, with the possible object in view of initiating legislation for the bringing about of this change. Wrapped up in this question and in agitation of this or some like proposal is an angle of vast importance to the amusement industry. While the average man may not yet have a conception of the force which such a movement is taking on, that the question is one to be reckoned with there seems no ground for disputing. Evidences of this fact are many. An interesting example is furnished in a step taken by Butler University, on the outskirts of Indianapolis.

Dean Albert E. Bailey of this university is preparing to inaugurate a schedule of classes to give instruction in the "utilization of leisure." His view is that as shorter working hours arrive, and he seems to think this is inevitable, people will need to give some attention to the utilizing of their free time to prevent it becoming bodesome. Dean Bailey is quoted as saying that "the world is full of things to enjoy," and he concludes, therefore, that a study of spare-time disposal not only would be worth while, but that in the making of this study one may learn how better to take advantage of such spare hours as may already be had, whether it be in the improvement of the mind or in the making the most of recreation.

If experience may be relied upon in the reaching of conclusions as to how (See LEISURE STUDY on page 55)

IATSE Wins a Point in Court

Succeeds in getting Appellate Division to allow picketing—Kaplan thrown

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The IATSE's fight to oust the three receivers appointed by Justice Cotillo to watch over the affairs of Local 308 was carried to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court yesterday. Counsel for the IA demanded dismissal of the court appointments on the ground that the receivership placed the Supreme Court in the position of controlling strikes and posting pickets. However, Justice Francis Martin reserved decision on this point. Former United States District Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, who has been retained by the IA to plead for the removal of the receivership edict, declared that unless Justice Cotillo's decision were reversed it would be a drastic blow against all organized labor.

Counsel for Sam Kaplan, deposed president of the local, opposed Tuttle's request for removal of the receivers, asserting that the international union had removed Kaplan illegally and that the removal was not sanctioned either by the constitution of the local or the international body. The IA won one point in its plea before the Appellate Division, insofar as it was permitted to direct the receivers to do picketing.

It was pointed out by those interested in blocking the IA's attempt to remove the receivers that Justice Cotillo had decided that, regardless of the parent body's offer to post a $500,000 bond to guarantee proper handling of the local's funds, which amount to only about $300,000, he didn't consider them fit custodians of the properties.

Another court proceeding, which was brought by Kaplan while still president of Local 308, was an application for an injunction against the Empire State Motion Picture Operators' Union. The application was denied yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Mitchell May. The injunction suit was to restrain the Empire from illegal picketing.

Portland, Me., Looks Bad

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 21.—A survey of the local theatrical situation shows that it is none too encouraging.

Public's two first-run houses are finding it difficult to draw in patrons under any conditions, while the Keith house has posted a two weeks' notice, indicating vaudeville to be out after January 27.

A new stock company at the Jefferson is finding the going rather bad. Expenses were met the first week, but the second week opened poorly.

The second-run house operated by Public is apparently Portland's favorite theater. This week that house went back to a triple change and poked them the first two days with Grand Hotel.

As an example of how tough things are here, I'm a Fugitive opened at a local house the day Burns, the author, was arrested, and yet the picture failed to entice patrons.

"Blossom Time" Follows "Face the Music" in Chi

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Face the Music, despite the fact that it received excellent notices, has failed to click here and will close next Saturday, returning to New York for another run there.

It will be followed by Blossom Time Sunday, January 29. Show will be scaled at $1.50 top.

Woolams Out of FWC

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 20.—L. A. Woolams has resigned as vice-president in charge of finances for Fox West Coast, and plans to return to New York. He will be succeeded by Fred L. Metzler, recently appointed FWC treasurer. Metzler formerly held a finance post with Paramount and until recently was a member of the Balaban & Katz board.

Mason City in Again

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Mason City, Ia., again using vaude, which is being booked thru Nan Elliott, of the local William Morris office.

Sheriff Goes to Show

LAKE CHARLES, La., Jan. 21.—Two thrillers were enacted at the Arcade Theater here last night. While a good-sized audience, including Sheriff Henry Reid and District Attorney John J. Robbra, sat inside watching a crime play on the screen, two masked men held up the box office in the lobby. They went about their work in a business-like and quiet manner, one holding a gun at the side of Mrs. Tommy Starmer, cashier, as he scooped up the cash in the drawer, while the other, also flourishing a weapon, forced Eidney Tavener, ticket-taker, and several patrons to stand back until the box-office robbery had been completed. The pair, after taking the precaution of disconnecting the box-office phone, escaped thru a side door. The management estimated the loss at $150.

Sam Katz Out As B&K Exec.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Sam Katz, who recently resigned as president of Balaban & Katz, was not re-elected to the board of directors when the annual meeting of the corporation was held Monday. Charles A. McCullough and Walter Immermann, the latter vice-president and general manager of Balaban & Katz, were elected directors of the company, replacing Sam Katz and F. L. Metzler. This increases the Chicago representation on the board and makes Chicago the center of operations for the corporation. The directors will meet Monday to elect a president.

Retirement of Katz ends a business association between him and A. J. and Barney Balaban that began in 1917, when the trio purchased the Central Park Theater. This formed the first link in what has become a chain of 35 houses.

At the meeting Monday Barney Balaban, secretary and treasurer of the company, informed the stockholders that the firm operated at a loss in 1932. It was stated the corporation strengthened its financial position by writing off capital assets having a book value of $1,200,000.

Exhibitors Ask Butterfield To Lead in New Organization

DETROIT, Jan. 23.—W. S. Butterfield has been solicited by about 50 independent exhibitors in this State to organize a Motion Picture Theater Owners' unit to be "operated by exhibitors who own theaters, lease theaters and are actually operators of these theaters personally."

Butterfield says that "it will be an organization made for the benefit of exhibitors only and not for its officials. It will work in harmony with the Allied Association of the State, as they have already been approached to work in union. This new organization's aim will be to try to iron out difficulties of the independent exhibitors with the producers. Its motto will be one for all and all for one. Its officers will be made up of principal exhibitors of the State of Michigan, and its books will be open for inspection and its by-laws will be simple."

Indecent Show Operators Heavily Fined on Coast

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—Four women and six men were found guilty in Municipal Court this week of participating in indecent performances on Main street and were fined various amounts totaling $3,050. Arrests are first to be made under the new L. A. theater censor law. Harry Horowitz, proprietor of the girl shows at two different spots on Main street, was fined $500 and sentenced to 180 days in jail. Joe Horowitz, his brother and partner, was fined $400 and given 120 days. Fines of $250 each, with the alternative of 90 days in jail, were imposed on Oleona Hart, Helen Moore, Betty Harmon, Dollie Carman, James Allen, Edward Sweeney and Jack D'Arcy. Charlie Allen, who was "floor manager" at the dives, was fined $400 or 170 days.

Deputy City Prosecutor Wyman Reynolds, who obtained the convictions, characterized the evidence as "almost too filthy for the court records," and further declared: "We are going to keep right on making arrests until we drive these shows out of business."

Harry Horowitz is now serving terms of 90 and 60 days for previous convictions of operating indecent shows.

Hot Music New London Craze

Mrs. Jack Hylton forms own band — Mills buys two foreign hit tunes

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—London is going for hot music in no uncertain manner, according to Irving Mills, of Mills-Rockwell, Inc., who has just returned from an extended trip to European music centers. While English musicians have long been interested in the hot and impromptu choruses handed out by American musicians, whose photograph records have been intensively studied, recent spreading to England of the Brunswick company disks which have a wealth of race artists under contract has given new impetus to the desire for red-hot recordings. Brunswick artists include the Four Mills brothers, Duke Ellington, Cab Calloway, Don Redman and others. Sales of the Brunswick disks abroad are increasing in leaps and bounds, since the platters are offering a strong contrast to the style of the English bands.

On the other hand, in the opinion of Mills, England's own orchestras have developed a marvelous style of their own, with competent arrangers, most of the recordings and dance numbers being of the sweet and pretty variety with an occasional hot lyric as only the English can do them. Two American band leaders came to the front with huge success in London during the past two years, one being Jack Harris, doing considerable society dance engagements, and Roy Fox, who is now holding forth at the Kit Kat Club.

Mrs. Jack Hylton, wife of the w-k. maestro, has organized a band of her own, says Mills, and she threatens to start a new fem leader movement, somewhat along the lines of the women leaders here such as Blanche Calloway, sister of Cab, and many others. At present Mrs. Hylton, who has just completed organization of her outfit, is playing dance dates in the provinces and will soon come into London, and goes on record as being the first lady to lead a dance band in England.

Among the songs of which Mills purchased the American rights are the hit numbers of Berlin and London, both of which will be published in this country by Mills Music, Inc., in which he is interested with his brother, Jack. I Don't Know Who You Are, German fox-trot, is the same title as that of the picture which uses it as a recurrent theme, film being scheduled to open here at the Globe on February 8. Albert publishes the tune in Berlin. In London Mills acquired Let's All Sing Like the Birdies Sing—Tweet Tweet, a waltz gang song published abroad by the Cecil Lenox Music Company of London. Mills heard both tunes in the air and thought he was being kidded when told the American rights were available.

As stated in last week's Billboard, Jack Hylton will represent the Mills-Rockwell concern for all foreign bookings. Sailing date for Duke Ellington has not yet been arranged.

Karzas Keeps Trianon

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—The Trianon Ballroom, which has been in receivership for a year, is to remain in control of Andrew Karzas, who founded the ballroom in 1922 and has operated it continuously ever since. Judge Harry Fisher in Circuit Court yesterday instructed attorneys for the receivers to issue a new lease to Karzas. Several other bids were considered, one from Herbert and Ernest Byfield, Frank Bering and Horace Lindheimer, who operate the ballroom at White City.

Jan Garber and his orchestra open an engagement at the Trianon Tuesday to remain while Bernie Cummins and his band are on tour.

Musterole Adds Thursday To Its CBS Schedule

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Whispering Jack Smith, Arnold Johnson Orchestra and the Humming Birds, on CBS network for Musterole, will add a Thursday evening program to its weekly schedule, beginning February 2. Program will now be heard three times weekly, the Monday and Wednesday going on at 8 p.m. EST, and Thursday period will start at 8:15 p.m.

Modern Critic

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Scene: Metropolitan Opera House. Show: "Faust." Characters: Two young ladies in the audience. Script: One character to the other. "In the next scene Faust tries to make love to Marguerite. She holds back and won't have anything to do with him. You see, she's old-fashioned."

Scotti Sings Farewell To Admiring Crowd

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Antonio Scotti sang his farewell yesterday afternoon at the Metropolitan Opera House, and the huge house was packed to the proverbial rafters with his admirers. Every operatic star of this and the past decade was there to do him honor, and thousands sent messages. Scotti's reception when the curtain came up revealing him in the role made famous by him, Chim-Fan in L'Oracolo, was so tremendous that he was forced to stop up to the apron and make a thank-you gesture before the performance could proceed.

Yesterday's performance brings to an end almost 33 years of continuous service in behalf of the Met, and marks the end of an operatic career of almost half a century. In appreciation of this remarkable record the crowd recalled him countless times after the final curtain, and called upon their favorites to make a speech. Scotti is 87 years old, and he tends to sail for Naples soon and then to live in retirement.

Yale Puppeteers New Show

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The Yale Puppeteers presented Master Noah at their tiny auditorium here January 17 for an indefinite run. Noah is one of their trilogies, other plays being The Pie-Keeper and Uncle Tom's Hobb'n. Group consists of several young men who have been puppeteering for the last few years and who became a part of the scene in Hollywood for about two years. Recently they reached New York and set up their stringed dolls. Small house, a store tastefully decorated, seats about 100. Running time of the shows average about one hour.

Appeal is definitely aimed at adults rather than children. Puppets, conceived of a witty mind and well manipulated, furnish amusing, graciously satirical and rowdy entertainment. The Good Book, account of Noah and his Ark is used as a basis. Noah is a fanatic evangelist who preaches of the coming flood. He is ridiculed, told that he "has water on the brain," and is "all wet." But he clings to his belief and the downpour starts.

Forty days later Noah and his miniature zoo are still adrift. The do-do birds caused a major scandal when they announced that they had been forced to board over their protests. "We were not married," chanted these queer creatures, "we're both boys." But land was sighted so all was safe.

On Ellis Island immigration officers turned out to be a friendly lot, even when viewing Einstein, who turned up as a stowaway. Noah was informed that he had just missed Roxey, who had been down to look over the animal act. Wanted them to join his White Elephant up at Radio City. With a royal welcome to the city, Noah and his menagerie reached our shores and lived happily ever after.

$30,000 to Relief Fund Given by Radio-Music

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Radio and the allied musical industries contributed more than $30,000 toward the Emergency Unemployment Relief Fund, according to figures given out at the final report of the committee this week.

Columbia Broadcasting System and employees, who gave 10 per cent of their earnings, were represented with a tidy sum; also National Broadcasting Company, the employees of which found it optional as to their means in donating. Local radio broadcasting companies contributed a total of $18,402. Authors and composers gave $3,674 and music publishers $2,383.

Bands and orchestras were represented with $2,845 and whether or not the Rudy Vallee Band members' donation of $1,000 is included in this sum is not known. Music Industries other than mentioned above contributed a total of $9,338. Radio stations have donated considerable station facilities and time exclusive of money and aiding the big musician concerts.

FLOWERS FOR THE LIVING

THE average editor, particularly one who is unfortunate enough to have had himself chosen as one of the targets of the machine-gunning theoretical press agents, lets more refuse pass thru his hands a day than an over-ambitious ragpicker. But like the system man in a chophouse, it does happen sometimes that one's critical knife uncovers a gem to a pair of surprised eyes. We are wondering if any of the gentlemen of the paste pot and shears fraternely read any significance in a very ordinary carbon-copied press notice that was included in last week's slew of stuff. Maybe it's because we don't feel like telling our readers this week about the latest damfool move in RKO, or maybe because we are rather tired of showing slumbering cyclones where and how they can become ignited. . . . Anyway, we decided that the press notice, which we quote in part below, deserves thru its symbolization of a Cause to be offered to posterity thru the medium of this corner:

Wee & Leventhal, who have successfully revived many hits in the past, now ask the public to help them decide upon future second-presentations. Working on the theory that there are many people who may have missed a good show of former years or who would like to see once more a long-cherished performance, these revivalists welcome letters from interested theatergoers, etc.

Noel Meadow, who wrote the notice, will probably be greatly surprised to see it accorded special attention. That's what comes from trying to watch a football game from the scrubs' bench. In his routine grind of press stuff for the Wee & Leventhal menage Meadow failed probably to realize that a few words grouped to form a pattern on a sheet of sickly colored paper represent the triumph of a pair of real showmen in an era that has witnessed the gullitizing of the smartest heads in the show business. To put it bluntly, Wee & Leventhal, hardly conspicuous before, are clicking away with their second-presentations because they found that magic formula in (See SUGAR'S DOMINO on page 12)

Stockholder Sues To Halt RKO's Refinancing Plan

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Edward J. Hickey, an RKO stockholder, has filed suit in Circuit Court No. 2, Baltimore, claiming the RKO refinancing plans intended putting the Radio Corporation of America in control. He asks the court to declare the plans illegal and void and order all reclassified stock issued under them to be canceled.

Hickey claims RKO had agreed to pass stock control to RCA in return for the latter's supplying funds up to $2,000,000, with further possible advances up to $1,800,000. RKO has until February 28 to file answer.

Jessie Ralph Lands 7-Year Picture Bid

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 21.—Jessie Ralph secured a seven-year picture contract from Columbia last week, with the Curtis & Allen office acting as the agent. She was brought here by that office recently after appearing in New York in legit with the Theater Guild's Good Earth.

Jack Curtis is now looking after the Curtis & Allen Coast office, and with him are William Melkejohn, Arthur Eberg, Johnny Beck, Harry Masters and Gus Adams.

Colored Revue for Garrick, Chi

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—A colored revue, Disc on Parade, will open at the Garrick Theater January 28. The impresario of the troupe is Lee Dixon, white producer. In the company are Bud Harris, who recently played the Palace Theater here; Jennie Dancer, Bert Howell, Paul Harris, Jenkins and Jenkins, Eunice Wilson, the Brown Brothers and Ed Carey's Band.

Burly, Union Troubles End

Minsky-Weinstock to stick with IATSE — action of other houses problematical

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Latest development in the labor situation of local burlesque houses is that the Minsky-Weinstock organization has made a new deal with the International Alliance of Theatrical Stagehands and Motion Picture Operators, and the three burly houses operated by them will remain in the IATSE fold.

It is understood that other burlesque stands in New York were ready to hinge a possible switch to the Empire State Union, which is not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, upon the decision of the Minsky officials. January 20 was tentatively set as the time the Minsky houses would switch to the Empire State Union, unless a new understanding was reached with the IATSE.

The Empire Burlesque Association will do away with the necessity of carrying a carpenter, and the move will be completed. (See UNION TROUBLES on page 62)

Price Cutting Hits Denver

DENVER, Jan. 18.—With four theaters announcing price cuts in the past week, both exhibitors and film men are apprehensive that the situation will reach the levels reached in Kansas City during their disastrous price war. The State, long a straight 20-cent house, has gone to 10, 15 and 20 cents. The Isis, a Fox grind at 15 cents straight, now has a 10-cent matinee. The Federal and Oriental, North Denver neighborhoods, have dropped from 35 to 25 cents. Other price cuts are looked for soon.

Sistare Is Planning Repertoire for Chicago

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Horace Sistare, publicity director for Leonard Dayle's The Family Upstairs, current at the Cort Theater, has plans under way to establish a repertoire company in Chicago, he told The Billboard this week. It will be known as Randall Productions and will operate at popular prices, $1.50 top at nights and $1 top matinees. Negotiations are in progress to secure a Loop house.

A repertoire that will include both new plays and revivals is contemplated, plays to be changed every four weeks. The Banisher and two new plays have already been arranged for, Sistare states.

Red Terry will be the company's leading woman and Jimmie Billings leading man, according to present plans, and it is hoped to bring in some prominent guest stars.

Baltimore Biz Picks Up

BALTIMORE, Jan. 21.—In the face of the depression there are definite signs that the Baltimore public will spend if given the right incentive. Ford's, which has been dark for the last few weeks, reports a sellout for the first Newman travel talk, and the advance sale for Of Thee I Sing, which opens at that house Monday, is so great that a practical sellout for the entire week looks quite possible. The food for thought is that Baltimore is better off with dark houses and occasional draws than it is with mediocre attractions with the box office fighting the red.

Vernons at Havana Hotel

HAVANA, Jan. 21.—Irene and James Vernon, American dance team, opened an engagement at the Hotel Plaza here yesterday. They will remain here for the balance of the winter season. The races having opened here yesterday, the Havana winter season is now in full swing.

RKO's Huge Tax Savings

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—According to RKO's tax department, it has succeeded in effecting assessment reductions on its properties throughout the country amounting to $22,209,935 and accumulative cash tax savings of $640,797 up to December 1, 1932. The annual assessment reductions for the last three years amount to $13,916,615, and the savings figured as of December 1, 1932, total $609,852.

If Singin' Sam Moves—

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Best gag of the past week appearing hereabouts anent radio seems to be the willingness of "Singin' Sam" to move into the Barbizon Plaza Hotel provided they change the name to "Barbasol Plaza."

Auction Shubert Holdings Feb. 24

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—February 24 will mark the day when the Shubert Corporation goes under the hammer. Judge Caffey has designated that date as the one on which all available assets will be sold to the highest bidder to satisfy the creditors. However, it is still necessary to obtain the permission of the Philadelphia courts to permit the Shubert properties in that town to be included in the New York sale. Bids will be asked for the properties as a whole. If the amount offered does (See AUCTION SHUBERT on page 62)

Ziegfeld "Follies" For Chi Next Summer

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—A. C. Blumenthal, manager of the theatrical interests of the late Florenz Ziegfeld, is going to stage a big revue called the Ziegfeld Memorial Follies in Chicago during the period of the World's Fair next summer. It was announced this week.

Ned Wayburn, who was stage director for a number of the Follies, will organize and direct the show. Auditions are to be held at the Auditorium Theater to select members of the chorus, who will be passed upon by George Hirst, musical director, and Herbert Burns, stage director of Show Boat, now playing at the Auditorium.

Group Theater Ends Season

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—The Group Theater has folded for the season, and, as far as can be learned, may mark this to its career. Big Night, its second production this season, met with adverse criticism and lasted only seven performances. None of the Group's efforts since its inception were considered profitable, and they have mainly been subsidized by Lee Shubert.

Jewish Guild To Honor Morris

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Plans for perpetuating the memory of the late William Morris, founder and president of the Jewish Theatrical Guild, will be formulated at the guild's meeting at the Morosco Theater Sunday (January 29) at 2:30. Loney Haskell, secretary, has announced that an array of stage notables will address the membership.

Green Roomers 30th Revels

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The Green Roomers will have Conway Tearle as "Jest of Honor" at their 30th Annual Revel, which will be held at the NVA Club Sunday evening, February 5. Charles Judell will be "Roastmaster" and Herbert Rawlinson, master of ceremonies.

Poli May Take Back Houses; Wants Stuart for G. M. Post

Will probably operate his 17 theaters starting February 1, when interest charges are due—Arthur resigns because of heavy fixed charges—plans own circuit

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 21.—Indications are that Sylvester Z. Poli will once again operate his 17 theaters here in New England, probably getting them by default February 1 when the interest charges amounting to $460,000 become due. In this connection Poli has already approached Herschel Stuart, RKO's general manager of theaters, and acknowledged to be one of the leading theater operators in the country, to go with his circuit as general manager. The way for this has been paved by last week's resignation of Harry Arthur from the Fox-Poli chain as operator and once again the chain falls back to the Fox New England Circuit, subsidiary of Fox Theaters, and the banker interests.

That Poli may operate the chain himself comes as a surprise, for when Arthur resigned it was believed that a new operator would be appointed and the financial arrangements would be continued in the same way. However, the $460,000 interest charges become due February 1 and it is not the intention of Fox or the bankers to meet them, expecting Poli and the other bondholders to reduce the sum. Yet Poli himself does not intend to do so because of obligations he has with banks. His proposition to Stuart also indicates his stand.

Stuart holds a one-year contract with RKO, which expires May 1 of this year. He came into RKO after almost four years with Fox New England, taking in the Poli Time, which he operated successfully. A profit was realized, reported to be at $264,000 when he left. Since he has been with RKO he has been a foremost factor in whipping a much abused circuit into shape. He was general manager, film buyer and booker for the E. H. Hulse Circuit, and among his other connections were Paramount-Public, Loew and with Harold B. Franklin on the West Coast.

The 17 theaters involved are the Palace, Globe, Majestic and Lyric, Bridgeport; Palace, Bijou and College, New Haven; Palace and Poli, Meriden; Palace and Strand, Waterbury; Capitol and Palace, Hartford; Palace, Springfield, Mass., and the Palace, Elm Street and Plaza, Worcester. A number of these theaters are vaudefilms and with Poli getting them back they will use such policies, with vaude booked by Pete Alonzo.

Fox took the Poli houses over about four years ago, forming the Fox New England Circuit as a subsidiary for the group, and about a year ago Fox Theaters Corporation, which owns the stock in Fox New England 100 per cent, went into receivership. Less than a year ago the Poli theaters were leased to Harry Arthur. Of the $14,000,000 outstanding in bonds for these theaters ($4,000,000 already having been paid), $10,000,000 is held by Poli and the remainder by Halsey, Stuart & Company, bankers, and the general public.

Arthur's resignation, to take effect February 1, was prompted, he says, by the heavy fixed charges. He and Fox had attempted to effect a readjustment of fixed charges all last week. He is planning his own circuit in the New England territory and says he has already landed three theaters as the nucleus. Towns are Springfield, Mass., and New Haven, the house in the former city being the Fox-Nelson.

Midgets Want Protection

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Protection of American midgets against foreign competitors thru a tariff or some other form of "anti-dumping" legislation was urged last week by "Major" James D. Doyle, self-appointed spokesman for the domestic midgets, who is one of their number.

Doyle stated that he already made a plea to U. S. Senators Robert F. Wagner and Royal B. Copeland, both of New York, to see if something cannot be done to prevent stage appearances in this country of midgets born in foreign countries. He charged that a plan is under way to employ alien midgets for Midget City, a feature of Chicago's Century of Progress Exposition next summer.

Good Advice

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—A down-and-outer approached a Broadwayite in the lobby of the Hotel Astor and asked for a dime, the fee for the pay-as-you-enter washroom downstairs. Instead he got 15 cents and the advice to go over to the Hippodrome Theater, where he could see a vaude show besides.

"Prince" Out of Palace; He Cau't Play in Vaude

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Prince Mike Romanoff, whose real moniker is Harry F. Gersunov, was pulled from the Palace show Tuesday when he was indicted the day before by the Federal Grand Jury. While Mike faces a prison sentence, the judge intimated he would suspend sentence when he makes his decision Monday. However, he ruled that the "Prince" could not appear in vaude or otherwise capitalize on his notoriety.

RKO paid the "Prince" off in full for the week, which netted him $800, and at the same time had to shelve the nine-week contract it had with him. The circuit also went for a lot of dough handed out for the publicity grabber's expenses.

Norfolk Likes Shows

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 21.—Three days of Gene Austin's Broadway Rhapsody didn't suffice for local theatergoers. The show played here three days last week to packed houses. Then it went to Newport News for a day's stand, getting only a so-so house, but was recalled to Norfolk for an extra day at the Colonial, where it enjoyed another big day.

RKO Makes Move Into Radio City Without Hitch; 8 Floors in Use

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—After many weeks of talking and preparations for making RKO finally started trekking over last night to its new building in Radio City. All of the offices will be out of the Palace and Bond buildings by tonight, and tomorrow will be spent in setting up the new ones. There was a considerable hubbub over the very complicated job of moving, but it all went along with few hitches.

RKO and Radio Pictures will occupy eight floors in the 31-story RKO Building. They will take in from the eighth to the 16th floor, there being no 13th. The circuit's legal department will occupy the entire eighth floor. On the ninth floor is the vaude booking department, with a reception room, space for agents, private offices for Martin Beck and George Oodfrey, and with the bookers working in the open behind rails. Also on this floor is the Real Estate Department, headed by Louis Cohen, and the Photo and Press Bureau, headed by John Pollock.

The 10th floor is only half tenanted. This space is occupied by the circuit's construction department with private offices given to Dave Canavan, W. O. Fisher, A. S. Henry and Roxy Cox among

BLAINE CONWAY, versatile principal in the tabloid edition of "Earl Carroll Vanities," now playing a deluxe route after a big money week at the Paramount, New York. Conway was also in the cast of Galsworthy's "The Roof."

Staff Changes In RKO Houses

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Among a number of changes effected in house staffs by RKO's theater-operating department this week, L. Sternberger switched from the Palace here to the Mayfair, replacing Harold Marx as second treasurer and assistant manager. In Cleveland Howard Higley and Sam Shubout exchanged their assistant manager jobs at the Hippodrome and Palace, respectively. The same was done with Harvey Whitney and Nat Allentuck, of the 125th Street here and Capitol, Union City, respectively.

Jerome Baker, of Keith's, White Plains, was transferred to the 86th Street here, replacing John Appleton, and Bert Kennerston got Baker's job. Harry Lyons was switched from the Rex, Irvington, N. J., to managing the Capitol, Union City, replacing R. Kuehn. George E. Livingston got the Irvington post.

Fox, Milwaukee, Drops Ideas

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 21.—Fox's Wisconsin presented its last Fanchon & Marco Idea last week and the house is now operating on a straight photoplay policy at reduced admission prices. The theater has featured stage attractions for the last several years.

New Name for Friars Setup

Same group; same members — slice dues — but Bushel to sue for old dues

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The Friars started off with a freshly washed slate this week when it dropped its identity as the National Association of the Friars, as the club was officially known, and took over the name of the Friars Club, Inc., which was incorporated in this State a day before the original Friars went into receivership and three days before foreclosure action was started on the clubhouse by the mortgagee. Although a new corporation, it has the same officers as the original organization. The new group has leased the clubhouse for a few months, and to meet present conditions has reduced the dues.

William Degen Weinberger, acting as treasurer of the theoretically new club, met with Hyman Bushel, receiver both for the Friars and in the foreclosure action, early this week and told of the new club. At this meeting the pair closed a deal whereby the new Friars rented the clubhouse until March when the foreclosure sale will take place. A nominal rental was set.

The membership dues are now $68 annually for all. The old Friars got $82.50 and $110 yearly from theatrical folks and lay members, respectively. A letter was sent out to old Friars this week telling of all this, revealing that money coming in need not be applied to anything in the past and asking for the support of the old members.

With this turn of events, Bushel, the receiver for the old Friars, is as good as out of the club. However, he stated this week that he intended to sue all the members of the original Friars who were behind in their dues up to the time of the receivership. This is about the only revenue he can get to satisfy the judgments of the creditors. The mortgage on the clubhouse is held by the Bank for Savings.

The officers of the new Friars are George M. Cohan, abbot; George Jewel, dean; Emmett R. Callahan, prior; Harry Hershfeld, secretary; William Degen Weinberger, treasurer; Samuel J. Schwartzman, attorney, and Charles F. Pope, executive secretary. Board of governors comprises Jack Benny, William Brandell, Jay C. Milpen, Eugene Greenhut, Bert Lahr, Dan Michaelove, Ben Piermont, Ben Rocks, Damon Runyon and Ira Streusand.

Battle of the Maestros

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—With Paul Ash at the Palace Theater this week and Leo Bernie at the Chicago Theater, it is going to be a "battle of the maestros." Bernie's debut at the Chicago came about thru a last-minute change in Chicago Theater bookings. The tub Whoops was supposed to be set for the house, but a booking error jammed things up. Trailers and other advertising for Whoops had all been prepared when it was discovered the show was not coming in Friday. So Bernie and his lads were booked to fill in, and the battle of the maestros is furnishing an interesting spectacle to both the public and theatrical folks.

Dempsey Breaks Records

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Jan. 21.—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, broke all local records during this week in his vaudeville appearance at the Colonial here, a Wilmer & Vincent house, finishing the week yesterday. Next week he will go to the State, Easton, another Wilmer & Vincent house.

Gammett Gets Appointment

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Jan. 21.—Harry Gammett, veteran exhibitor, has been appointed district manager of A. R. Boyd Enterprises, with supervision over the Strand, Globe and Embassy theaters in this city.

New Operator For Old Roxy?

Cambria and staff out—nut slashed to 20 C's—may go straight pix

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The Old Roxy will probably either pass into the hands of a new operator within the next two weeks, depending on the approval of the receivers' court, or change to straight vaudeville. The bondholders' committee has been negotiating with several indie operators, the theater, in the meantime, having switched from presentation shows to a $1,300 vaude budget, and Frank Cambria and practically the entire production staff are out beginning this week.

Among those who have been dickering with the bondholders for the house are Harry Brandt, Chatkin and Feld, William Small and Harry G. Koch and Herbert Rubin. If no deal for a new operator is consummated, the theater will not be able to continue much longer without new money, as the last batch of the $200,000 in receivership certificates issued last May is reported practically spent. It is said, however, that the banks have made $50,000 more available. The house was in the red the last two weeks, reaching a new low last week with Second Hand Wife (Fox). This week the switch to a cheap vaude policy has cut the nut to below $20,000. The entire production staff is out except for Norman Schwartz and Dave Stamper, who will put on the vaude shows, and Harry Hollander, who is still booking the talent. Frank Cambria has quit as managing director and stage-show producer, and intends to go on a vacation before making a new connection. At his own request his name was omitted from all lobby and program billing this week. He says he did not want his name associated with the present vaude policy of the theater.

The costume department, headed by Elmer Elliott, is out. Mary Read, Tommy Dowd, James Moreom, Rene Todd, Bernard P. Arons, Leo A. Kempinski and Wayne Allen are also among those out due to the switch in fresh policy. Moreom has already joined Clark Robinson in Radio City. Robinson having quit the Old Roxy the week before. The orchestra has been cut to 19 men, and the Boyettes and Singing Ensemble dropped. The admission scale has been further trimmed, the entire balcony dropping to 25 cents week days.

Other changes include Marion Sanders, receiver Howard S. Cullman's personal publicity rep, and Almeta Kehr being appointed to handle publicity and Mark A. Luescher to handle advertising only. In the meantime pictures have been lined up for the next four weeks: The Death Kiss (Columbia), Savior Be Good (RKO-Radio), As the Devil Commands (Columbia), and Iron Master. Tho it is unlikely, it is reported that the house may go straight pictures at a 10, 15 and 20-cent scale. Another report is that the E. W. Strauss interests will urge the bondholders to tear the house down.

Bull Fighter Tosses RKO

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Sidney Franklin, Brooklyn bull fighter, quit playing RKO vaude after closing Tuesday night at the Prospect, Brooklyn. He refused to play more than one week at a showing salary and wanted the full pay of $2,500 a week. Did a 14-people flash.

Philly Agent's New Office

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—J. E. Rudow, Philadelphia agent, has opened a branch office here and will book vaude, clubs and concerts in addition to handling the French-Italian Opera Company, now touring the East. George De Feo is associated with the office.

Wynn's Loew Dates And Booking Angles

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Loew has definitely set the Capitol February 10 and the Metropolitan, Brooklyn, the week after for Ed Wynn and The Laugh Parade, with options on more time. The show will run 75 minutes, which is more than condensed musical shows usually run in de luxers, and will have a cast of around 50 people. Wynn will do his half-hour commercial broadcast Tuesday night from the stage of each theater.

Loew had made Wynn an offer to play the Capitol for $20,000 as a single last year, but Wynn was so busy with his show that he turned it down. Now Loew is getting Wynn and the show for the same price. Wynn's engagement is runner-up to Al Jolson's Capitol date years ago as far as salary goes. Jolson as a single got $20,000 and 50 per cent of the gross over $80,000, altho he barely made the $80,000 mark.

The Capitol seats 5,000 and the Met 3,500. At pop prices—the Capitol has a 35-cent low and the Met a 25-cent low—both houses will have to do pretty big business to cover the Wynn salary. Loew is counting on Wynn's radio popularity, on the fact that his last vaude appearance was a year and a half ago at the Palace and on the pop-price angle to draw them in. Wynn's radio popularity has reached the point where his old silent Paramount picture, which was a flop, is being reissued and doing fine business.

Can't Use RKO Name For Cheap Vaude Bill

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—RKO has no desire to be identified with cheap vaude, despite the fact that it books such shows in a number of houses. This was indicated this week when the circuit demanded that the Cosmopolitan Theater, indie house playing 10 RKO acts at $800 a week, refrain from advertising that it is playing RKO vaude.

The house came near to discontinuing the vaude as a result of this ruling, intending to drop it after Friday night, but it will stay and adhere to the circuit's demand.

Ellington for Palladium

LONDON, Jan. 7.—When in London recently Irving Mills, of Mills-Rockwell, Inc., signed an agreement with George Black for the early appearance of Duke Ellington and his band at the London Palladium. It is now arranged that Duke Ellington will appear at the Palladium for the last two weeks in March.

VAF to Americans' Rescue

LONDON, Jan. 14.—While appearing in London recently the Hazel Mangan Girls, American acrobatic and dance novelty, were the victims of a theft at the hotel at which they were residing. Hazel Mangan incurred a personal loss of more than $300. She asked the Variety Artists Federation to approach the management concerning the loss. This the VAF did, with the result that Miss Mangan was recompensed to her entire satisfaction.

F&M Loses Four More Weeks; Decentralization Plan Near

Juggling of shows paves way for entire wiping out of traveling units, with new plan set to go—sectional units—producer service also to be sold

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Fanchon & Marco has lost four weeks on its unit route, bringing down its total time to 22 houses. In the meantime, production of new traveling units in Hollywood has stopped and vaudeville is being booked into the Coast houses to tighten up the shrinking route. Spot-booked vaude and locally produced units are also going in many spots in the Midwest and the East where traveling units are not available, all this juggling of shows paving the way for the entire wiping out of traveling units and the installing of the new decentralized production plan. The four weeks lost by F&M are Seattle; Portland, Ore.; Milwaukee and New Haven. The Broadway, Portland, and the Paramount, Seattle, dropped off the route Thursday due to the going into receivership of the Pacific Northwest Theaters, Inc., a Fox West Coast subsidiary operating the theaters.

Loew, RKO, B-K Book "Show Boat"

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Ziegfeld's Show Boat, featuring Helen Morgan and slated to complete a run at the Auditorium Theater, Chicago, next Saturday, has been picked up for four weeks of vaude by the combined booking of Loew, RKO and Balaban & Katz. Marvin Schenck looked over the show when in Chicago the week before, but it was not until Friday that the Loew booking office, negotiating thru Lyons & Lyons, could line up two outside weeks to add to two of their own and thus make the vaude bookings possible.

The show, cut down in running time, of course, will open at the B&K Chicago Theater, Chicago, week of February 3, followed by a week at Loew's State, Cleveland; the Capitol here, and the RKO Albee, Brooklyn. The cast of 108 people will be retained and the show exploited as being "as presented at the Auditorium, Chicago," and the last effort of the late Ziegfeld. It is a revival, but Ziegfeld had given it his personal supervision.

The reported salary is $12,500 a week and brought down to this figure only because of the combined four weeks' time. This three-cornered booking follows the current trend of close co-operation by circuits. Loew worked in with RKO and other circuits when it lined up an advance route for Rio Rita last year, this deal setting a precedent for many current co-op negotiations.

Norman Books English Time

LONDON, Jan. 14.—Al Norman, American pantomimist and eccentric dancer, who concluded a highly successful two weeks' engagement at the London Palladium a week ago, has received a further string of English bookings. He will play the Leicester Square Theater, London Pavilion and Victoria Palace, in London, with a bunch of out-of-town dates to follow.

(First Show)

It may be that a freak attraction, which is thoroughly unavoy in character, will draw the customers into a house for the week that it plays—but the harm that it does to the theater is incalculable. Freak attractions are okeh as business stimulators—they were proven so in the distant past—but only under two conditions: First, if they are surrounded by a thoroughly good straight vaude show that can stand on its own feet without them, and second, if they do not alienate the conservative and really desirable regular vaude patrons. "Prince" Mike last week was a case in point; he was a good draw while he lasted, and the huge honk he pulled was more in the nature of a tremendous joke than anything else. This week it's different. Mrs. Peggy Rich, who was divorced from her hand-leading husband a few weeks ago under highly unavoy conditions, and Jack De Ruyter, who figured with her in the headlines, are booked in. Morbid curiosity seekers may be pulled to the house while they are there, but the conservative and old-fashioned element, which is the true backbone and support of vaude, will inevitably be driven away, perhaps permanently.

Excluding the above-mentioned couple, the Palace has a nice vaude layout, headed by Ray Bolger, who is billed as "Radio City's star," and who, incidentally, contributed the best line of the show. Fresh from the tremendous distance of the Music Hall, Mr. Bolger casually remarked to the customers, "Gee, this seems nice. I haven't been able to see an audience in three weeks."

Georges Campo, assisted by Euse Ray, opens with his hilarious and clever comedy pantomime, acrobatics and dancing. He received a strong and deserved hand from the early birds.

Annie, Judy and Zeke follow. Your reporter is a sucker for bill-billy stuff anyhow, and this trio is swell in that line. They gave 10 minutes of grand singing and playing and went off to an excellent hand.

Pete and Joe Michon were in troy spot with their fast-moving acro and comedy turn, that starts slowly and builds up to a sock and sure-fire climax. Their breezy style helps immensely, and the lads have the goods besides.

Ray Bolger follows with his familiar routines, which went over here like nobody's business. If anybody caught him at the big Music Hall and then came to catch him again at the Palace, they're bound to be convinced of the ridiculousness of offering vaude in carbarns. Bolger socked across and thoroughly deserved the huge hand that he drew.

Vaneel, assisted by the Biltmore Boys, is fifth with her lovely and beautifully performed dance turn, the same one that she had at the Palace last spring. The lads are thoroughly capable performers who lend valuable assist, and Vaneel, of course, is grand. The rainbow routine remains as one of the loveliest numbers now in vaude.

Collette Lyons, with George Snyder doing straight for her, is next-to-shut with her rapid-fire comedy patter and her really excellent delivery of a couple of pops. The Auburn-domed harum-scarum socks across her stuff, and wisely leaves the best for the last.

Mrs. Peggy Rich and Jack De Ruyter, with Mrs. Rich's Society Orchestra, are in the caboose frame, which is one frame ahead of where they belong. The 10-piece band really has the stuff, but their valiant efforts are wasted in a turn which seeks to do nothing but show off a pair of rank exhibitionists who seem to glory in publicly displaying what the ordinary mortal would hide. Mrs. Rich, who might do some reducing, leads the ork for a few numbers, occupying most of her time by turning around to grin coyly at the customers and De Ruyter cooizes stiffly with her once, and then returns to stand like an overgrown ventriloquist's dummy while a pair of the hand boys flank him and sing a song. What entertainment value the band manages to inject is thoroughly torn down by the complete ineptitude of the standard bearers—and in view of the story behind them, and the way they incessantly plug that story in the lobby and on the stage, it all grows more than faintly nauseating.

The orchestra floor was a scant two-thirds filled at the end of the first show. The picture is The Devil Is Driving, with Edmund Lowe and Wynne Gibson.

DAISY BERNIER has rejoined the Gloria Lee act, which is picking up the OKO Time canceled earlier this season when the Coast houses were dropped.

Albee, Cincinnati

(Reviewed Saturday Afternoon, Jan. 21)

A fairly entertaining layout this week, but, after all, just another vaude show. Gene and Glenn, radio names, pulled terrific business to the house last week, the box-office figures running around the $27,000 mark. Show this week is spattered with laughs, but moves a bit slowly, due to Bob Murphy's too lengthy emcee speling between the turns. On the screen, Hot Pepper. Business below par at today's first show.

The Kikutas, sensational Oriental troupe, comprised of five males and two fems, give the bill a bang-up start. The boys feature a corking brand of Riskey work and tumbling. Girls contribute intricate juggling, with one of the lads working in. More tumbling by the five men, after which two of the boys do a daring piece of Riskey for a swell finish. The Kikutas drew frequent applause thruout, and a good finish hand.

Bob Murphy comes on to introduce the California Collegians, seven-piece hokum band. The Collegians dispense hoke in big chunks, some of it funny and some not so good. Their best bet is The Day at the Circus feature, with the lads imitating a circus band, as well as the various freaks usually associated with a side show. They follow with more hokum of a familiar nature, and wind up in the usual manner—by busting into a few musical instruments. The lads tripped off to fair handclapping.

Edna Pollard, stage and screen comedienne, is back with the very same turn she did here about a year ago, which accounted in a large measure for her not clicking as soundly as on her last visit here. Opens with a song, and follows with another, What Have They Got That I Ain't? Closed with the song and skit, Looking for a Man. Latter brought the best results. She works her eccentric dance steps at intervals thruout the running. Bowed to a fair hand.

Bob Murphy, aided by his personable offsprings, Dick and Dorothy, drew the most laughs and the biggest getaway mitt of the afternoon. Opens with Dick and Dorothy harmonizing, with the former at the piano. Then follows some good laugh stuff, based on the feudism between Bob and his "fresh and hotcha" son. It was good for a bundle of guffaws. In the interim, Dorothy does several pop numbers in good voice. Bob pulled a sound hand with a parody on Fit as a Fiddle. The Murphys took numerous bows to a prolonged hand.

Dalton and Rose have a simple little turn, but one that served as a good closer. It opens with Dalton, on skates, twirling a blond looker in sensational fashion. Bob Murphy comes on and extends an invitation for anyone in the audience to make the twirls with Dalton. Several plants and volunteers make the trip with the skater, much to the amusement of those out front. The big laughs come, however, when Gypsy Rose, a 300-pounder, steps up from the audience for a ride. Horseplay between Murphy, Miss Rose and Dalton was good for numerous laughs. Bowed to a nice hand.

BILL SACHS.

Earle, Philadelphia

(Reviewed Friday Afternoon, Jan. 20)

Business at the Earle today started off with a real swing and a prosperous week is in prospect. The Boswell Sisters, of radio fame, seem to be a good draw and their act registered neatly, stopping the show and forcing three encores.

Program is a good one, not having any particular punch, except for the Boswells, but still standing up as high-grade, intelligent entertainment. Incidentally, the Earle promises to go in heavily for the big musical comedy productions, with Earl Carroll's Vanities booked next week and Rio Rita to follow later.

Opening this week's bill is Picard, with Mickey, his almost human seal. Entertaining number, with the seal performing an interesting routine of tricks. A prime number for the kids. In fact, the whole program, with the possible exception of Hal Sherman's broad but funny humor, is gaited for the family trade.

Deuce spot is the musical novelty of Reynolds and White, grotesque clowns, who add a final surprise to their act when near the end White doffs the makeup and is revealed as an attractive girl, who steps out of comedy character to render a good violin solo. Previous to this surprise the team works along eccentric lines, with Reynolds featuring an exploding violin and other nonsensical tricks.

Boswell Sisters hold the next and featured spot. Attractively gowned, the three misses got a hand at the opening of the curtain and quickly ran off their scheduled three numbers. Smiles, My Fault, sung as a solo by Martha Boswell, and Sentimental Gentleman. Won an ovation and responded with Minute the Moocher as an encore and followed with two more, Heebie-Heebie Blues and Ecnie Sherman, Jelly Beans.

Hal Sherman held the next spot with his lively array of gags, assisted by a good-looking brunet, Miss Miller, a torch singer, and a good one, Sherman kidded his partner, the orchestra and the audience, and pulled a line of fast cracks that had the wise customers chuckling. Nothing deeply offensive about his material, however, just adult. He finished with his scenic dance of the Cy Landry variety and then gagged an act with a musical saw for an encore.

Windup of the show is the dance act of Sylvia and Clemence, fast tap-dancing team of girls, who presented a comedy-horse number, and finished with a whirlwind tap to the strains of Poet and Peasant overture. With the dancers is a team of male banjo players with a fast assortment of tunes.

H. MURDOCK.

Mainstreet, Kansas City

(Reviewed Saturday Afternoon, Jan. 21)

Another five-act bill, running 70 minutes, with a screen player in the feature spot.

The "hello" position is given to the De Torgos, a neat dance flash. A mixed team offers three numbers, including an adagio and a waltz. The two skillfully and gracefully execute their numbers and win neat applause. A sister dance team fills in between changes, and an attractive girl offers several song numbers. The latter's voice had no appeal, which resulted in a weak hand. The closing Indian number provided a neat walkoff.

Al Verdi, with his familiar comedy and straight string music, scored the usual number of laughs. This time he has a blond assist who is pleasing to the eye and can play a violin. She sings a few numbers, but the voice is no asset. Verdi's straight cello offering was a treat to music lovers. Off to good returns.

Ray Stanton and George Weist followed with hoke comedy. The standard bearers are assisted by three women and a man. The hoke comedy is presented in two sketches, one a comedy on television and the other, the finale, is the St. James Infirmary skit, with the nurses, doctors and patients diagnosing cases with song dialect and dancing. It is their best and sent the company off to the best hand of the day.

Fifi D'Orsay skips on in next-to-closing to a neat reception. A picture in which she takes part is being shown on the screen here this week and helps the French miss immensely. Her song repertoire consisted of Sweet Nothings of Love, Take a Walk With Me and a number in her native tongue. Each rated big returns. She has an unbilled male assist at the piano.

Wing Wall Troupe, three men and two girls, closed. This Chinese novelty acrobatic turn gave the bill a neat closing. The girls are excellent contortionists. One of the boys tries to do a tap dance. It is a total flop and should be eliminated.

Just Had To Get Married is the photoplay.

Loew's State, New York

(Reviewed Friday Evening, January 20)

Better spotting of the two closing acts, which are similar, would have made this layout considerably more effective. Bill Robinson, who works in one without the usual stairs specialty, could easily have been moved ahead. The result would have balanced the show more evenly and aided Robinson's turn and that of Dick and Edith Barstow, who followed with a tap routine of their own. Flicker is No Man of Her Own, with Clark Gable.

The Great Yencaps pry open the festive box with their whirlwind teeterboard work. Setup consists of seven males and a fem who owes apologies to none of them. The octet deftly paces thru a sensational routine, their mid-air spins clicking heavily. The human-bridge feat and aerial somersault landing the standard bearer into an armchair perched on high drew the warmest mitting.

Andre Renaud, in the deuce spot, offers a group of class numbers on two pianos. Works against a colorful drop showing a large piano, which helps create something of an illusion and renders the turn more effective. Renaud exhibits a mastery of the keys, which counted for more than his dual piano playing.

Florence and Arthur Lake, familiar to flicker fans, take the stage after the showing of a few feet of specially prepared film. Gives them an okeh en-

Palace, Chicago

(Reviewed Saturday Afternoon, Jan. 21)

Here is a bill that's gilt edged and the best one in a long time. Paul Ash returns to the town which was the scene of his greatest triumph, a solid four-year run in a theater built especially for him. He has lost none of his box-office appeal, as is evidenced by the waiting lines outside.

Bee and Ray Goman opened with an interesting dance revue. After a musical comedy opening by the six girls and a man, Bee and Ray do a lap routine. Dolly Arden follows with some marvelous acrobatic control work that garnered a hand. Ray does another tap and hoke the Foursome is seen in a silhouette bit. A song by Bee and Ray, I'm Doing That Thing, included a soft-shoe novelty dance. The finale by the entire company was a study in modernistic rhythm. Heavy hand.

Lillian Miles and Al Siegel deuced it. Siegel's latest find, an attractive pianist blonde, started her offerings with It Don't Mean a Thing If It Ain't Got That Swing, done in ultra-modern harmonics. The Purgatory Song was next and was followed by some difficult fingering on the piano by Al, a medley of two numbers, Dancing in the Dark and I've Got Rhythm. Another song by Lillian, I've Got the Right To Sing the Blues, and they bowed off a hit.

Johnny Perkins, next-to-closing, had them in the palm of his hand. Johnny achieved his first success with Paul Ash here, and putting him on the same bill was a smart piece of booking. Johnny has some good comedy dialog and stories, and the crossfire patter between him and Ruth Petty got plenty of laughs. Ruth made quite a hit herself singing What Is It? After You've Gone and Somebody Loves, Somebody Wins. Johnny sang Two-Ton Tesste and introduced the little colored lad, Richard Montgomery, who put over Shanty Town and Two Hearts. A hit.

Paul Ash and his Band closed. Paul came on to a tremendous ovation and had to respond to a speech before he could go on with his program. He has a personable group of talented musicians and his arrangements are excellent. The first group of numbers included Fit as a Fiddle, Play, Fiddle, Play, and It Don't Mean a Thing. Lullaby of the Leaves featured Louis Rapp, one of the saxophonists, as a vocal soloist. Johnny Perkins came on and sang Where Is That Old Gang of Mine? The next number gave an opportunity to several of the boys to do specialties. A brilliant stair dance by Dave Platt was outstanding. A Radio Romance done over two microphones by Louis Rapp and Julie Brandon was very enjoyable. St. Louis Blues and Let's Put Out the Lights closed a delightful half hour of entertainment. Ash has mounted his presentation tastefully and it is chock-full of showmanship. The showing he is making "back in his own backyard" should be good for thought for some of the magnates who have theaters that need attendance in this burg. Anyhow, the customers at the Palace have caluses on their hands from applauding when the curtains close on Paul Ash and his orchestra. F. LANGDON MORGAN.

trance and they proceed with a spasm of hoking. Lake leaps into the pit and banter with the house ork. His sister joins him later and contributes some locomotive-paced chatter and a comedy song. They do nicely, their youthful buoyancy having much to do with it.

Nan Halperin follows with three character monologs, sold to good effect. Does smartly with her material as the little Southern girl who forgets and as the new cook. The third offering, in which she appears as Scarlet Sister Sadie, is a heavy "meller." It gives her wide latitude to emot and warble and she makes capital of the opportunity.

Bill Robinson strolls jauntily on stage and after warbling a bit goes into his footwork. He takes time out to grin and simulate music, his cane serving as the instrument. His taps continue to be a treat for weary eyes, but the customers sorely missed his famous stairs specialty.

Dick and Edith Barstow bridged the gap by doing their own stairs offering that was a hummer. The pair did a precision toe tap on the staircase and supplemented this presentation with other fancy individual and team step ping. Showed a deftness and veratility that stirred up a heavy din among the auditors. Assisted by a male baritone, who lamely warbles a pop number.

DE LUXE SHOWS

Radio City Music Hall, N. Y.

(Reviewed Thursday Afternoon, Jan. 19)

As a spectacle the new show at the Music Hall is the goods. For the first time here the management is making use of the mechanism that allows the orchestra car to be moved to one of the stage elevators, and in the second half of the layout—the spectacle part—Erno Rapee and his boys are upstage and elevated about half way to the flats. It's an extremely effective arrangement. Also, it allows the pit elevator to be brought to stage level (a trick that has been used before), but in a house this is the added intimacy so obtained is a boon to the customers.

Starting the second week of the vaudeville grind, the house was mobbed. It's capacity or near-capacity all the way. The picture, George Arliss in The King's Vacation, is largely responsible, along with the public desire to view the tremendous boob-barn, plus the low prices charged. The 35 cents in the mornings serves to bring them in in flocks as soon as the doors open.

Layout starts with the Orpheus overture finely done by the symphony. Later in the show the blaring tones of the brass section were hardly up to snuff, but the overture was excellently played. And it's still a relief in a de luxe house to see musicians dressed as musicians. Following the overture came Patricia Bowman and the ballet corps in an effective and well-executed number labeled Mood Moderne, which ended with a rotary-arm effect like that used by Von Grona in his mechanistic ballets. Walter Dare Wahl comes next with his truck comedy-acro act, and then the Tuskegee Choir, in an interlude tabbed Legend of the South, sings three of its splendidly delivered spirituals. The choristers are still in plantation costumes, which helped, and there were various scenic effects which didn't. The last is an engine (just a flat of the front of it) rushing almost to the footlights as the choir sings a number having a suggestion of choo-choo in it. Singers such as these can sing without any silly and ineffective stage monkey-business.

The Roxettes (this reporter doesn't have to say again how swell he thinks them) close the first half with a military drill called Spectacle of the Nation, done in their usual superlative style.

The second half is where the spectacle comes in—in huge gobs. While the news-reel is unwinding the singing chorus, dressed in colorful Chinese costumes, comes out on the ramps. The presentation, titled Geisha Land, starts off with a song by the ensemble, and then Felovis comes on with his clever balancing and juggling. The curtain rises, disclosing the ork high up on its elevator, the midsection of the stage, slightly raised, occupied by the ballet gals, and the Roxettes doing another number close up by the apron. The ballet goes off, the Roxettes retreat to the second level, and Harold Van Duzee sings a number to Patricia Bowman, who has come on in a rickshaw. A pagoda and Chinese bridge then rise on the pit elevator, and Miss Bowman does a parasol dance almost on the heads of the first-row customers. She is backed by the ballet, on once more in atrociously ugly costumes that are the only sour note, visually, in the show. Some phony thunder chases the Roxettes off-stage (just why it's hard to tell), and the Arnaut Brothers entertain with their bird calls. They're amusing, as ever, but completely out of place spotted here in the midst of this layout. Maria Sampson then stands on the bridge and sings a hunk of Madame Butterfly, backed by the ensemble; the pit elevator descends, the second level rises, and the curtains close. EUGENE BURR.

RKO Roxy, New York

(First Show)

With thousands of customers waiting outside for almost an hour after scheduled time, the RKO Roxy made its first program change today. It's hard to understand the reactions of the general public. They incessantly complain about the treatment they receive at legit theaters; they raise howls to the sky if the curtain is three minutes late or an intermission two minutes too long; but they come back for more when they are treated in the same general manner as the victims of the Black Hole of Calcutta in the resplendent movie palaces. A legit opening may occasionally be late—but at least the customers aren't kept out on the sidewalks while the show rehearses. These de luxers, which pride themselves in treating the occupants of 35-cent seats as tho they were Grand Lamas of Tibet, ought to watch their step.

The new stage show starts off with a medley of Spanish—and pseudo-Spanish—numbers: from the ork, led by Erno Rapee, doubling from the Music Hall. There follows a short bit of solo singing, and the curtains part to allow the singing ensemble to rise up out of the nether depths on the elevator of the stage's second section. They are dressed in what are supposed to be Spanish costumes—tho any Spaniard would have a right to howl—which are even uglier than the atrocities draped on the Music Hall ballet gals this week. They wander onto the side ramps, and the ballet comes out, dressed in really attractive black and gold loreador outfits, and goes thru a spirited and entertaining number. The singing ensemble returns to the stage, and the Garcia Marimba Band is discovered in the shade of a sheltering cactus. They play one excellent number on their own, and then accompany Veloz and Yolanda, who go thru one of their typically languorous and breath-taking routines.

The Roxettes follow with a bright and colorful sombrero number performed in the usual grand Roxette style, and then Borrah Minevitch and his Harmonica Rascals come on for over 20 minutes of tomfoolery and music. The complete mastery of the group in a musical sense is amazing when you consider that it's just harmonicas they have to work with. The mike didn't work at this showing, in spite of Minevitch's many exhortations to stagehands in the wings, who insisted that it did; but in spite of that the turns went over with colors flying. It's too good to let a mike stand in its way.

The cactus background, again revealed, swerves on a turntable to reveal a fountain spouting soapuds, with the ballet gals draped around its base. They do a number, and then Veloz and Yolanda go thru a second grand routine. The Roxettes, in blue and silver, perform a precision dance; the third elevator, with the singing ensemble on it, rises above stage level; the fountain—which had evidently run out of suds—spouts again, and the curtains close.

The house was mobbed, with the picture. Lowe and McLagien in Hot Pepper, accounting for the biz.

The stage show this week is undoubtedly the weakest this house has ever played. Under orders from the receiver, who is making a desperate effort to keep the house nut under the gross, the stage show beginning this week is composed of vaude acts dressed up a bit instead of the usual presentation policy featuring a large cast and a big pit orchestra. The 32 Roxettes and the mixed singing ensemble of 21, all in last week's show, arc out this week. In addition the large orchestra has been cut to 18 men, excluding David Ross, its leader. The result is a punchless vaude show, thoroly inconsistent with the beauty and former tradition of the theater, but at the same time inevitable, considering the terribly low budget of $1,300.

Frank Cambria's name is not billed this week and no producer is given credit for the show. Cambria refused to lend his name to the new stage policy here, since he has always been associated with de luxe presentations and considers the current show beneath his ability. The show has moments of production beauty, but the cast of 25 people could hardly be stretched to give the illusion of spectacle, and spectacle is the only type of show possible here. Obviously the new stage policy is a flop, and if the house budget cannot allow for better shows the theater may as well go straight pictures.

The show opens with the Moonlight Sonata number. Al Stobbi is at the piano, while Catherine Littlefield and Nicholas Daks, backed by eight girls, dance on a raised background. The beauty of the set was marred by faulty lighting and unimpressive dancing. Mary Miles followed with her acrobatic contortionists. She is pretty and lithe and does a good routine, but it was too long for a solo here.

Mangan's Internationals, seven of them, followed with their familiar routine of teeterboard stunts. Dressed in costumes of various nations, they worked up to a strong climax with a three-high and a two-man tandem and went over nicely. The Delivery Boys (Johnny Tucker and Joe Schuster), from radio, are given a fancy setting here and did very well at this show. Their satirical impressions of radio stars, topped by impersonations of Roosevelt and Smith, and closing with a hill-billy bit, drew quite a few laughs—incidentally the only ones in the show.

The next number has Miss Littlefield, Daks and Leen Livoff in a pantomime café flirtation bit, in which they strut about and attempt a bit of comedy while eight girls in blue make a brave attempt to provide a flashy background. Bob, Bob and Bobbie, two boys and a dog, followed and did nicely with their clowning and light comedy. Catherine Bessette, a light-footed brunet, is spotted for a short acrobatic tap dance. The finish has the eight girls, Bob, Bob and Bobbie and Mary Miles out for a brief moment.

The feature picture is Air Hostess (Columbia), and a newsreel, a Krazy Kat cartoon and an organolog by George J. Epstein complete the program. Neither the film nor the stage show has any draw names. Looks like another low gross. PAUL DENIS.

heavy on cornets. A trio then delivers some comedy variations on Fit as a Fiddle and another number, both to good effect. Olsen's familiar novelty of playing songs to any color suggested by the audience drew a sweet response.

Ethel Shutta closes the show, working in with the orchestra. Does four numbers and earns plenty of applause. Hill-billy song put over effectively with the aid of the orchestra, as is a new one called Low Down on the Harlem River. Miss Shutta's costume drew favorable comments from a number of gals seated near this reporter. JACK MEHLER.

Paramount, New York

(Reviewed Friday Evening, January 20)

"Hello, Everybody" Kate Smith is headlining the current stage show, a week in advance of the opening of her first starring feature picture, Hello, Everybody, here. She's heading the Swanee Revue, which was at the neighboring Palace a few months ago, with support given her by Cherry and June Preisler, Cookie Bowers, Nat Brusloff and his band and Jack Miller. Film portion of the bill is Noel Coward's Tonight Is Ours, starring Claudette Colbert and Frederic March. At the third "flesh" showing today the house was comfortably filled, which isn't bad for the supper hour.

The stage bill shapes up nicely, rounding out 46 minutes of fast and applause-compelling entertainment. In spite of the short running time the bunch still had to do some stretching. They all doubled in spots. From a glance at the names of the folks performing there doesn't seem to be any of that opposition bugaboo. Kate, Brusloff, Miller and the Preisler kids were all on the same Palace bill recently, while the Preislers were there again but two weeks ago. And Cookie Bowers came from the Palace right into here, closing at the former house yesterday a day ahead of time.

With all due respect for the good work of the folks and their spontaneous receptions, the one to walk away with the show at this performance was Bowers. This fellow certainly is clever at mimicry, and besides having this talent he's showman enough to include a powerful delivery. He can imitate almost anything, instruments, barnyard fowl and the like, and besides dishes pantomime that had them actually shrieking tonight.

Kate gets her stuff across in her usual clever and personable style, singing in her full and tuneful way and doing a pleasant mistress of ceremonies. She's a warbler of the first order and knows the art of selling, but tonight she didn't seem to put everything into her numbers as she usually does. Of her collection of songs the best was The Moon Song, from her picture, and It Don't Mean a Thing. The folks mitted her big, especially when she finished with the hotcha song-dancing of Dinah.

Cherry and June Preisler, those kids who have been climbing the success ladder plenty fast, mop up big as well. Can't miss with the adorable June, who's a natural on a stage and a glutton for work. This kid's an amusing, comediennes, a grand personality and, what's more, a surefire dancer. Her acrobatic tricks are bound to knock off rounds of heavy applause. Cherry, the older sister, works well also, contributing neat legging and some singing, but the play is all taken by June.

Nat Brusloff and his band, 16 men in all, supply capable accompaniment for the whole show, with the house's pit crew idle. They're spotted for but one solo, during which they give a nice account of themselves with an interpretation of Underneath the Harlem Moon. Jack Miller, who's at the piano with the orchestra, does well with his singing spot, offering Just a Home for the Old Folks.

Rubinfoff and the house orchestra precede the newsreel and stage show with another stirring overture—this time it's Primi Melodies. As ever, they pulled a tremendous applause ballot, a just reward for Rubinfoff's master showmanship in waving the baton and the response of the crew.

the crucible after mixing and mixing while certain of their colleagues couldn't be bothered fusing about laboratories. They'd rather join the mortuary quartet at the Lambs or snooze away, cherubic-like, on a hard bench at the Friars.

Wee & Leventhal are a phenomenon; their second-presentations, not thru being what they are (others have thought of this and tried it out before), but because of the way they are being handled, are a movement. Let's put it as a Movement with a capital "M." Wee & Leventhal are deserving of success in the academy of showmanship because they've had the courage to keep plodding in the face of ridicule; the kind of ridicule the fellow receives who has the nerve to pick up a dirty coin and have it washed while the fellow watching and sneering at him is dirtier than six feet under a grave, with no idea where his next meal is coming from. The team deserve success because they have shown in the way they are running the second-presentations that it is possible to try new things, experiment with new forms of ballyhoo, while chaos reigns. They are to be admired as much as the soldier in the trenches, waiting to be pushed over the top, whiling away his time contemplating serenely the micro-spectacle of a colony of ants building a city.

It's easy now for others to say that anybody could have succeeded in fostering the Wee & Leventhal presentations. But we would suggest to those who are inclined to detract from the credit deserved by Wee & Leventhal for being innovators that they should try the same thing themselves, even now after Wee & Leventhal have blazed the trail. And if they make good we'll buy them a new horn to blow. They'll need it.

—AND FOR THE DEAD

WE ARE determined—somehow we feel we are not alone in this determination—that the name of Bill Morris shall not slide down the toboggan of time and be forgotten ere the next-door's kid cuts his new set of teeth. It is sacrilegious in the real and original sense of the word to wax sentimental over Bill Morris and his works. The man was great; this realization precess in on us more and more as time passes . . . and as we realize more clearly that nobody from amongst the present crop of self-designated philanthropists in the show business is qualified even by the furthest stretch of tolerance to fill his boots.

We go down thru our private list (far be it from us to offend anybody in the same item paying tribute to Bill Morris) and take each aspirant apart—and how mercilessly! This young fellow has ego plastered all over him; it even protrudes from his nose. This prospect is as vain as Napoleon promising to behave himself during the first banishment. This young hopeful thinks of charity in terms of scrolled resolutions . . . and so on down the line. Bill Morris, unfortunately, was responsible for a false glamour (really the glamour of his own soul manifesting itself in personality) being given to charitable endeavor in the show business that many are trying to surround themselves with, little thinking that the cyclorama doesn't quite match their motley cloak of conceit, vanity and duplicity.

So that's the situation. Bill's departure has left a void that can be filled only by a fitting memorial—a lasting one to the man who will never be forgotten until the dying day of the thousands of persons whom he befriended, helped to regain their self-respect and reliance.

It was a mere incident in the volley ball game of the gods that Bill Morris was born a Jew. He belonged in respect, love and sentiment to every sect that embraces denizens of the show business. It is fitting and proper that something be done by all of the sectarian guilds to perpetuate Bill Morris' name.

A sound idea would be a fund to be known as the William Morris Memorial Fund, its moneys to be expended by a committee consisting of officers of the various guilds for assistance to show people along the lines exemplified by Bill Morris in his charitable endeavors. The working out of the idea is a mere detail. The principal thing is the incentive to start this movement. It needs somebody like Eddie Cantor; maybe Eddie Dowling or even, among the women, Selena Royle, Rachel Crothers, Belle Baker, Sophy Tucker, to start the wheels turning in the direction of concrete achievement. The first start can be made at the meeting of the Jewish Theatrical Guild the afternoon of January 29. It would be quite the thing for the first stones to be laid in the foundation of Bill Morris' monument by those whom it was decreed that Bill should have called his own.

No matter how it is done and by whom—there must and there will be a living memorial to Bill Morris. Let it not be said that the man who exemplified Charity in his every act and motive was forgotten sooner than many less worthy ones.

NEW ACTS

Reviewed in New York

Four Bronetts

Reviewed at the Prospect. Style—Pan-tomime comedy. Setting—Full stage. Time—Ten minutes.

This act, imported from the Continent by RKO, was intended for showing at the Radio City debut. Its presence did not materialize because its lack of artliness would have been out of keeping with the snooty air Roxy has sought to create. Rather than being arty, this vehicle is a bridge-ledge of slapstick and is a hum-dinger in its class.

It is interesting to speculate how the auditors at Radio City would have responded to this turn. Altogether possible that they would have warmed up to these loons more readily than they did to the fare dished out to them. Would they have had to be statues not to laugh at the delirious antics.

Clowning is largely shouldered by three males, who receive slight assistance from a fem. They keep up a whirlwind pace, going from one madhouse bit to the next. They all but ruin the stage, and they pile up the laughs in the process. Closed here and bowed out in a ditz.

Three French Misses

Reviewed at the Prospect. Style—Aerial novelty. Setting—Full stage. Time—Four minutes.

These Three French Misses are aerial acrobats, who have all the essentinks for doing well by the opening spots of regulation vaude bills. They are able performers, but best of all they're plenty smart in knowing how to get up an act right. It's unusually fast, with no stalling, and the routine of tricks is okeh. Only four minutes, but enough work is crammed into that time. Of further advantage to the act is the appearance of the three girls.

The rigging from which the girls work comprises two high-ladder uprights atop of which is a horizontal bar. Featured in the turn is iron-jaw work, with the girls doing dizzy spins while suspended by their teeth. Support is given by the teeth and also neck of the understander. They also do whirlwind turns on trapeze and rings. For the finish they use the flicker lights to give effect to their combo spins.

Opened here on a five-act bill and got things started nicely.

Aronson, Fayre and Lane

Reviewed at the Prospect. Style—Singing and comedy novelty. Setting—Full stage. Time—Sixteen minutes.

This versatile trio offers a series of radio impressions with drill station announcements interpolated. Act stands out as one of the better grade of its genre. Stage is completely darkened, the spot being turned on when each performer. Idea is quite effective and particularly adaptable to this turn, permitting auditors a chance to judge the merits of the impersonations as they would listening to the original performers via their radio at home.

Turn opens with stage ink-black, but with voices being heard. The imitations cover a wide range, among them Art Barrett, Singin' Sam, Bing Crosby, Street Singer, Burns and Allen, Ed Wynn and Amos 'n' Andy. By and large, they are handled creditably. Bulk of the warbling falls to the fem and one of the chatter, doing particularly well with the Amos 'n' Andy bit, in which he mimics three characters to good effect. Warmly received in the try spot here.

Sidney Franklin

Reviewed at the Prospect. Style—Novelty flash. Setting—Full stage (special). Time—Twelve minutes.

Sidney Franklin is the Brooklyn boy who won fame for himself in bull-fighting circles. Now he's capitalizing on it in vaude, his second attempt, with a dash vehicle in which he is assisted by 13 people. That's giving the circuits a run for their money, as "names" usually work alone to pocket all the dough. It's just a fair act, in which Franklin sticks to gab and gives a brief exhibition of how he bull-fights, while the rest of the turn consists of music, dancing and singing.

Franklin is no actor and he doesn't try to be one, but he's a showman anyway. Sporting a matador's outfit, he spends most of his time making brief visits to the rostrum to announce what's coming next. His longest stay on the stage, and one in which he appears at ease, is when he gives his exhibition of bull-fighting, using a cape and sword on a prop bull. Flickering lights give the action effect. He does this well, and it is interesting.

The music in the turn is furnished by an eight-male marimba orchestra, which serves strictly as accompaniment. Laughs are supplied by the prop bull, dubbed Max, worked by a male team. Besides working with Franklin on the bull-fighting exhibition, the bull does an amusing eccentric dance. They are also three dancers, two of them working as a team, while the other solos with purely Latin numbers. They are capable stop-pers.

Closed here and got by. S. H.

VAUDE NOTES

EDDIE RUTON and his Alley Dogs have just started on a six weeks' engagement at Grauman's Chinese Theater, Hollywood.

BOBBIE MOSS has joined the Marie and Antoinette act.

The vaude cycle has now spun around to the extensive playing of Frank Ayer with RKO doing most of it. The circuit has given dates to such publicity grabbers as Prince Mike Romanoff, Peggy Riel and Jack De Ruyter, Babe Dirlikson and Baron Soriani. Tom Noonan and his Bowery Mission bunch may be another soon.

ADELE GIRARD and a Hungarian orchestra have been added to the Chez Maurice, Montreal, floor show.

DOTTY OAKS has recovered from a prolonged illness and has rejoined Joe May's act.

Probably the answer to why most "name" acts lack suitable rehearsals for "flash" appearances can be seen in the recent booking of Joan Blondell of the movies. Less than a week was had to get up an act for her. Regular vaude acts rehearse and rehearse, play break-in houses and then show. What can you do in less than a week?

DAVID S. STERN says he is booking 40 one-night amateur vaude dates around New York and New Jersey, including a dozen for RKO.

DAVE STAMPER and Norman Schwartz are jointly handling Clark Robinson's old job at the Seventh avenue Roxy.

The few offices that have been making a few dollars casting vaude acts report the casting business at a standstill. Very few new acts are going out, and those few are not worth casting. New acts can hardly get bookings, considering the fact that standard turns can't even get work, and, if there is no work, the casting agencies cannot collect casting fees.

BOYLE WOOLFOLK, who produced Honeymoon Lane for the road and was booker and producer for the Butterfield Circuit for years, has come in from the Midwest to stage the shows at the New York Hippodrome. Abe Feinberg, who had been staging the shows, remains with the theater in another capacity.

LEW AYRES is being offered to vaude by the Curtis-Allen Office. He is now working for Universal on the Coast.

Plenty of temperament was viewed by the boys backstage at the Palace, New York, last week when Prince Mike Romanoff made his stage debut. He demanded special stage clothes, which took in a $23 pair of shoes from London, a full-dress suit at $105 and a dress shirt for $8. The circuit tried to chisel on the prices, but it was up against a tough customer.

R. E. McCABE, who had been with the Pantages booking office and with RKO years ago, is now managing the Gayety, New York, for the road-show run of Cavalcade.

PAUL DUKE has dropped his jewelry business to give all his time to developing his card and cigar illusion act. It started as a hobby, but he's serious about it now.

Two acts, practically of the same type, were playing opposition last week on Broadway. The Radio Rogues were at the Paramount, while Aronson, Fayre and Lane were at the Palace. There's plenty behind it, in that Nick Agnetta was the former owner of the Rogues, and the Palace act is his property now.

PROLOG—A Cafe in Paris. 4 o'clock. A Morning in September. ACT I—The Living Room in the Lingard Home, 10 Miles From DuBoque, Ia. Two Weeks Later, 5 o'clock in the Afternoon. ACT II—Scene 1, Five Weeks Later, 2 P. M. Same as Act I. Scene 2, A Corner in the Library of the Lingard Home, 3 o'clock the Following Evening. ACT III—Noon the Following Day. Same as Act I.

O. E. Wee and Jules J. Leventhal seem to be about the only producers in town who are making money. With their revivals and second presentations of recent successes, offered everywhere at cut rates, and presented with decent—if cheap—casts, they have been doing well for themselves. Their revival of Rachel Crothers' As Husbands Go (originally presented by John Golden early in 1931) won't let them down. They have provided an excellent, if obscure, cast, and the comedy goes gaily on its way, as enjoyable, almost, as it was in its first incarnation.

Of course, As Husbands Go practically plays itself. Miss Crothers writes so unfairly well of men—and always from the woman's point of view—that the you may damn her you are bound to find her irresistible. It is cruel of her to present her perniciously feminine views so intelligently, wisely and charmingly.

The present cast and Robert Burton, the director, play a bit more for obvious effects than did the previous crew, but they have done a nice job none the less. Sue Keller, as Emmie, gets her laughs with surety and skill; Joseph King, as Charley, is forthright and excellent, and Leslie Denton is a convincing and charming Ronnie. Ben MacQuarrie tends to overdo things a bit as Hippolitus. Marjorie Lytell, of the original cast, as Peggy, occupied herself in being determinedly cute—but she is cute anyhow, so there was no harm done. Norman Williams, as the kid, was, as he'd put it, swell.

Alice Frost, a comparative newcomer, was handed the role of Lucille. She was obviously miscast—she is years too young for the part—but she was so completely lovely to look at that nothing else mattered much. She carried the part well, too, so far as one dazzled reporter could tell.

If you missed the original production of the play, the present version is eminently worth seeing. EUGENE BURR.

TIME—Spring, 1933.

ACT I—The Beginning of the Party. ACT II—The End of the Party. ACT III—The Morning After.

For not much reason the Group Theater presented as its second production of the season Dawn Powell's Big Night, which has been making the rounds of the offices for years under the title of The Party. It is a sordid and unpleasant recital of the welcome given by an advertising agency's contact man to the boss of a business which spends a million a year in advertising and which has thus far given that business to another concern. In its review of the deeds and misdeeds of its vicious little people it never manages to rise above the commonplace, nor does it ever become anything but the repellent tale of uninteresting and mean events. Even the indignation which it wastes against folk who will fall to mind that indignation in the least is shallow, melodramatic and uninspired. Those who might enjoy the play—the same type as those included in its action—will be repelled by the indictment directed against themselves, and to those who go to the theater as an escape from the humdrum meanness of common life, to those who go to see a good play well presented, it will simply fail to matter. It seeks to be smart, sophisticated and indignant. It succeeds only in being rather dull and extremely cheap.

The tale is of Ed Bonney, who practically seeks to sell his wife to Schwartz, the representative of the concern whose business his own organization is seeking. It doesn't matter to him that Myra, when she was a model before her marriage, was pursued, heckled and flamboyantly wooed by this same man; what does matter is the business. A second act that picks the play up and remains as its only asset shows Myra forced into the arms of Schwartz.

In the cold gray dawn of the morning after, when Ed has seen all chances of getting the advertising contract slip thru his drink-numbed fingers, Myra tells him that she slept with Schwartz—and the latter, in order to stem Ed's flowing tide of invective, promises him the advertising contract. Immediately Ed is serene; Myra is to entertain Mr. Schwartz while the office is told the good news. Myra, however, fails to entertain Mr. Schwartz; at first she thinks of going with him to Chicago, but she realizes that there she will be merely the means of Schwartz breaking into exclusive clubs, just as in New York she has been the means of Ed landing contracts. So she goes off alone.

In the second act both acting and direction perked up considerably above the new Group Theater low at which they had stood during the first stanza. But that first act was bad. Even so nice a little actress as Phoebe Brand seemed like a burlesque of a cartoon comic, and the only two decent performances were turned in by a pair of poaches—neither of whom, of course, could be directed. It seemed as tho all effort had been expended on the second act, with nothing left to sweeten the rest of the play.

Stella Adler was cruelly miscast as Myra. As unmodel-looking an actress as you can well find, she floundered until she reached the meat of the play in the big scenes of the second and third acts. Then she came thru excellently—but even then she was undoubtedly wrong for the part. Lewis Leverett did fine work in the ungrateful part of Ed, and J. Edward Bromberg was perfect—as he usually is—in Schwartz. The minor characters went thru the same sort of Group Theater self-conscious burlesque as did the minor characters in Success Story.

The people who could carry away hangovers from their Big Night. EUGENE BURR.

SAM H. HARRIS

PIGEONS AND PEOPLE

"A comic state of mind in continuous action" by George M. Cohan. Directed by Sam Forrest. Scenery uncredited. Presented by Mr. Cohan.

Joseph Heath... Walter Gilbert
Parker... George M. Cohan
Tokem... Arvid Paulson
Miss Gills... Olive Keefer-Smith
Franklin Chicago... Paul McGrath
Elinore Payne... Eleanor Audley
Winnie Lloyd... Alney Alma Gilroy

The action, which is continuous, takes place in the home of Joseph Heath. The play is in one act.

Yankee Doodle came to town—riding, presumably, on a pigeon this time—and it looks as tho there's another Cohan hit in New York. George M.'s new play is unfortunately called Pigeons and People, but it manages to live down the title before the curtain is up five minutes, and thereafter it develops into an amusing, hilarious, witty and thoroughly enjoyable melange that keeps the customers in their seats for two solid hours without an intermission. It's no play—nobody ever claimed that it was—but it's the grandest example of theatrical virtuosity that has been seen hereabouts in years. Believe it or not, Mr. Cohan combines certain ideas of O'Neill's The Great God Brown with the intermissionless technique of Philip Barry's Hotel Universe and turns out a play that is Cohan thru and thru.

Pigeons and People is George M.'s tirade against curly minds and curly thinking and the masks that people wear as they go thru life, saying what they don't mean, doing what they don't want to do and making irresponsible and undesired gestures in the general direction of morality, respectability and the other virtues. He drives home his thesis by the simple expedient of introducing into the home of a respectable fellow a man who refuses to wear a mask. The resultant confusion is shrewd, witty, thoroughly enjoyable and one of the best stage tricks of the decade. There is no plot. The maskless Mr. Parker goes like a whirlwind thru the household of a madam, Joseph Heath, fronts a madam of hefted ideas, leaves the curly minds hanging at loose ends with all their curves spiraling out like so many diphtheric corkscrews, and then quits the house. No one on the stage or in the audience knows who or what he is except for the fact that he has told Heath in the park that he much prefers pigeons to people. That is a sentiment in which he is not entirely alone.

Of course, it is all Cohan. Parker allows him to do everything in his repertoire—nid, as we know, it's a repertoire unexcelled and unmatched by any other in the theater. The virtuosity of Mr. Cohan's playwriting is matched only by the tremendous knowledge of effects—ranging thru the entire lineup of hoke and up into the field of genuine sentiment—that he displays in his acting. The supporting cast has nothing much to do and does that well enough. Pigeons and People is a zealous, expansive stage trick. It's a good trick if it works—and it's working for Mr. Cohan. EUGENE BURR.

American Academy Students Present Philip Barry Play

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Yesterday afternoon's program of the seniors of the American Academy, their third of the season, included Walter Prichard Eaton's one-acter, Grandma—Old Style, and Philip Barry's grand comedy, Paris Bound. It was an entirely creditable performance, the youngsters' best so far, all things considered. Three of the kids stood out with really excellent jobs to their credit, and Lorna Volare, who played the lead in the Barry piece, lent sincerity, if not too much depth, to the part. It was hardly her fault that casting and direction were both against her.

The three outstanding performances were headed by the playing of John Bryard as the musically minded Richard Bryard, who came thru excellently in a bisterous comedy part in This Thing Called Love, proved yesterday afternoon that he is definitely an excellent young actor, far above anything you might expect in a dramatic school production. He lent a huge amount of quiet feeling to the role and got every effect possible thru a really fine sense of dramatic underplaying. This, coupled with his previous success in an entirely different role, shows that he'll beat watching. The boy's good.

Also outstanding were Gloria Gill, as Noel (the Hope Williams part), and Garson Kain, as Papa Hutton. Miss Gill, a lovely lass, did a Williams all over the place, but that's certainly nothing against her. It happens to be the only way in which the part can be played, and she did it effectively and excellently. Kain, cast as the father, a hard part for any youngster, came thru with colors flying. He has assurance, a good stage presence and an insight into his lines.

Edith Pritchard, Elizabeth Stillwell and Ronald Brogan all performed nicely enough in small parts. Nancy Dillon did badly as the mother, not getting even skin-deep into the character. Paul Ames, as Jim, would have been better as a musical comedy juvenile. Frances Sage ridiculously overplayed a bit. The director should have stopped her.

Nancy Burwell, Frances Sage, Joan Harding, Clyde Turner, Raymond Woither and Jane McLean were in the curtain raiser. EUGENE BURR.

"Sing" Versus Depression

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Jan. 21.—Earl Carroll's Vanities played to a small house at Shrine Auditorium here last week, but those who saw the show appeared well satisfied. Of The I Sing, which was here the week before, did a good business, but the $3 top, plus tax, seems to be somewhat prohibitive out here in the provinces, with commodity prices at unheard-of low levels. Roy Swan, local impresario, who books road attractions for Shrine Auditorium, has The Cat and the Fiddle for February 17. Of The I Sing hit Davenport just a few days after the Union Trust and Savings Bank, the second largest in Iowa, had been forced to close, consequently the box office also got quite a jolt.

"Design" Buy Almost Solid

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Max Gordon is understood to have made so many individual "buys" with the brokers that almost 80 per cent of the house has been sold for the 12 weeks Design for Living is scheduled to play at the Ethel Barrymore Theater. Show due to open there January 24.

Lauder Outdraws "Vanities"

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 21.—Harry Lauder drew a better crowd to the Shrine Auditorium here this week than did Earl Carroll's Vanities, the last road show to play here. Lauder and his company had about a two-thirds house and extensive press coverage. The Vanities pulled just a fair house.

Spokane's Only 'Flesh' Stand Gets Big Play on Its Opening

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 21.—Spokane's only stage show, at the Post Street, is the talk of the town. Ray A. Grombacher, formerly president of the Spokane Theaters, Inc. and operator of the Post Street, reopened the house to near-capacity business. He is using second and third-run pictures and a stage band under the direction of Dudley Wilson. Ten people make up the stage orchestra, which provides novelty numbers in conjunction with a round of dance and song bits. Next week a Fanchon & Marco unit show will be used in addition to the 10-piece band.

Grombacher is operating the theater at a 26-cent top, advertising the entertainment "to, at the purse." The Post Street formerly housed road attractions and is rated as a first-class theater, second only to the Fox.

THE EXHIBITOR

Jack Miller, representing Chicago Exhibitors' Association, and Aaron Saperstein, Allied president, still at variance with Tom Maloy, head of the operators' union, regarding 1933 wage scale.

John J. Enright, attorney for Operators' Local 182 and Stage Employees' Local 11, files suit in Suffolk Superior Court, Boston, against Knights of Labor Union, claiming damages of $5,000. Charges conspiracy to reduce wages by furnishing men to work at a lower scale.

Allied of Northwest elects officers for coming year and inaugurates new scale of dues. W. R. Frank, Minneapolis, becomes president, John Miller, Valley City, vice-president, Howard Dale, secretary, and A. A. Kaplan, treasurer. W. A. Steffen remains on the board.

House Judiciary Committee of State Legislature at Oklahoma City kills bill to prohibit Sunday movies. Measure aimed to tax Sunday shows out of existence still awaits committee action.

Hearings on at Fall River, Mass., in suit brought by seven "second operators" against IATSE local in that city. Charge is breach of a working agreement on grounds the union wants to put its regular members on the job.

ATO of Iowa-Nebraska, convening at Des Moines, strive for inauguration of new membership plan, whereby sufficient savings to exhibitors will be effected in the purchase of various materials to more than offset cost of membership.

Kansas Legislature this week expected to seek abolition of State censor board and repeal of Sunday blue laws, or at least their modification to permit Sabbath picture shows and other amusements.

Atlanta Theater Managers' Association elects Alpha Fowler 1933 president; Earl Holden, vice-president, and Louis S. Bach, secretary-treasurer. Retiring officers are E. E. Whitaker and Love B. Harrell.

Congressman Ed Crump, political boss of Shelby County, near Memphis, Tenn., gives virtual assurance that Tennessee Legislature, now in session, will sponsor a Sunday opening bill.

Clyde V. McKay running Rivoli, Baltimore, with operators from a new union. Lets out members of A. F. of L. Local 181, hiring members of Independent Operators' Union No. 1.

Indie exhibitors of Kansas City sign new contracts with Local 170, practically eliminating new Independent Motion Picture Operators' Union. Latter union offering one man in a booth and lower scales.

DISTRIBUTION

Milton Kussell, New York State district manager for Paramount, visiting Buffalo on short sales trip. Edward Golden, sales manager of Monogram, says sales in each of weeks of this year exceed corresponding weeks of 1932. Business this year expected to set a record for an independent company, he adds.

All of the 19 circuits in New York territory sign 100 per cent contracts for both Educational and World-Wide 1933-34 product. Excellent Film of Canada opens Winnipeg office from which Monarch product will be distributed. Douglas Cooper and I. J. Roher are partners in the enterprise.

Fox has release dates set on eight features due for general distribution up to April. Dates are: Dangerously Yours, January 29; The Infernal Machine, February 3; Broadway Bad, February 12; Canyon Walls, February 19; department-store story, as yet untitled, February 26; Bad Day, March 3; Trick for Trick, March 12, and Pleasure Cruise, March 19.

George R. Batcheller announces formation of Interworld Productions by J. C. Barnstyn and Budd Rogers. New company will supervise domestic sales and distribution of Chesterfield and Invincible productions in unsold territories.

HIGHLIGHTS

MICHIGAN EXHIBITORS forming a new organization, with W. S. Butterfield among the leading sponsors. Move is reported to have been undertaken at the request of about 50 independent theater owners. The new group will work in harmony with the MPTO units and also endeavor to co-operate with the Allied Association of the State.

NATIONAL APPEAL BOARD, in its future operations, may be recognized as the industry's supreme court of self-regulation. Hope for the fulfillment of this condition is expressed in the industry's program, final drafts of which are being circulated among exhibitor units for study and decision. The national board will hear and pass on such controversies as local arbitration has been unable to settle. The formal draft of the program has been approved by Paramount, Fox, MGM, Radio and Educational-World Wide. Universal still asks clarification of minor provisions of the proposal before formally approving it.

ALLIED BOARD OF DIRECTORS, meeting in New York this week, will air its objections to the industry program and final draft of the National Appeal Board. Abraham F. Myers, Allied's general counsel, cites three complaints against the Board. Firstly, that the Board is not a national board of arbitration and, furthermore, is advisory rather than mandatory. Secondly, that circuits and the type of protection they demand are not adequately covered. Finally, that the industry program is not that at all, since Warner-First National has not yet come in and probably will not.

UNITED ARTISTS begins work on the second half of its production schedule this week when shooting starts on "I Cover the Water-front." The film is the first of four and possibly five pictures to be made by Art-Cinema-Reliance Pictures, headed by Edward Small and Harry M. Goetz. United Artists will increase its current release schedule to about 18 features, three more than last season.

J. P. QUITTNER suit against Paramount establishing what is believed to be a record for trial days, entering its sixth week Monday in Federal Court, New York. Testimony of Sidney E. Samuelson, president of New Jersey Allied, that Paramount and other major companies in 1922 refused to sell him film is excluded. He will continue to testify this week, and it is expected that Quittner himself will also be called to the stand. Quittner is seeking damages of $5,000,000 because of alleged unfair competition by the major companies.

PRODUCTION

U. S. Labor Department planning Hollywood checkup of foreign movie folk who entered country irregularly or overstayed their time. Murray W. Garsson, special assistant secretary, in charge of inquiry.

Phil Goldstone abandons "quickies" and will henceforth finance Ben Pivar, former Columbia producer. Goldstone aims to concentrate on class product for major release, competing directly with output of major studios.

Max Marcin, director and writer, says compensation for directors and writers should be figured on the grossing abilities of their pictures.

Joe Plunkett, theater head of RKO during the Hiram S. Brown regime, heading toward production of his own.

Merton F. Leopold, in charge of film work of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, states production of industrial films is expanding, and demand for exhibition of such pictures is constantly growing. Greatly increased activity in this line is expected, he says, when general business hits its stride.

Fox will extend its short-subject activities this year. Program will be made up of Magic Carpets, song cartoons and a series compiled from library shots made years ago.

Al Christie planning a series of comedy satires on topical subjects. First, on technocracy, will be released by Educational in Vanity Series.

Columbia signs Louis Serecky to supervise several productions. Serecky was formerly with Paramount seven years and with RKO four.

George R. Batcheller says tentative plans for this year calls for nine Chesterfields and nine Invincibles, a total of six more than last year.

Arthur Loew, head of MGM's foreign department, withdraws resignations after differences on company policy are settled.

Earle Hammon conferring with bankers in New York regarding proposed mergers. Will return to Hollywood in two weeks.

Charles Sullivans resigns as studio manager for Radio, no successor being named as yet. Ned Depinet in Hollywood to confer with B. B. Kanane on future product.

Internal Revenue Department makes public tax adjustment of $100,071 in favor of Fox.

Warner-First National will maintain production activity thru the spring and summer, with at least one or two pictures at work in the months usually the slackest.

Universal cancels deal with Herbert Brenon in which he was to make On Her Turf. Monogram now free to make picture with I. E. Chadwick as producer.

Raymond Johnson announces six features for production this year. First picture, Skybound, slated for release next fall.

Return of E. A. Dupont, German director, to Universal marks end of five-year fight between director and producer. His first picture under "the new deal" will be The Invisible Man (Boris Karloff).

CHICAGO EXHIBS

Local film men are making preparations to aid those in the industry who are unemployed. A Film Relief Dinner-Dance is to be held in the Grand Ballroom of the Medinah Athletic Club Saturday night, March 4. Admission is to be $2.50 and the entire proceeds are to go to relief of the unemployed.

Several theaters have recently changed hands. George Lang has taken over the Bell; Lon Brecks the Lyric; Emma Wells the Adams, and William Mueller the Alamo. All of these except the Adams, a small Loop house, are neighborhood theaters.

The Chicago RKO Exchange won the national prize for being 100 per cent perfect in its fire prevention measures. The prize, a silver cup, is to be presented to the exchange shortly.

Irving Lipnick is now managing the Drexel Theater.

Julius Lamb, former theater owner here, is now manager of the Uptown, Cleveland.

N. S. Berger has subleased the Academy Theater, Halsted near Madison, to Harry Newpo, who will operate it on a straight film policy.

NEW FILMS

The King's Vacation (Warner). George Arliss, Florence Arliss, Dick Powell and O. P. Heggie. Arliss comes thru for this one and saves the picture with his suave and skillful acting. As is usual, he is the whole picture, and the Arliss fans will be pleased. For the others the film is a not-so-exciting tale about a romantic king who tries to recapture an old romance with his own wife. The supporting cast is not so good, and everything depends on Arliss so far as acting goes, while the story holds fair interest.

The Big Drive (A. L. Rule Production). This one is a chronological record of the events leading into and during the recent World War. It is really a new record of the war, the events given a chronological sequence and accompanying synchronized explanation and incidental music. The photography is naturally bad in many spots, but it will get by. It's a freak picture that will get the male patronage if exploited heavily. It has little, if any, appeal for women.

Employees' Entrance (First National). Warren William, Loretta Young, Alice White and Wallace Ford. The story revolves about the doings in a big department store and is interesting enough, although nothing extra. Warren William is excellent in the unsympathetic role of a romantic but unscrupulous boss, while Miss Young is lovely to look at as the model. Ford is okeh as her husband and Alice White is neat as a gold-digger. Good program picture.

Hot Pepper (Fox). Edmund Lowe, Victor McLaglen, Lupe Velez and El Brendel. The Cock-Eyed World stuff again, only this time Lowe and McLaglen are in civilian clothes, and Miss Velez is the hot-cha charmer. The story is ribald, rough and sock-and-tumble comedy in the good old style, and this should appeal to the Loew-McLaglen fans.

Tonight Is Ours (Paramount). Claudette Colbert, Frederic March, Paul Cavanaugh, Arthur Byron and Allison Skipworth. A light comedy romance, with March and Colbert handling the leading roles nicely. Miss Colbert is the beautiful queen and March the dashing young commoner who falls madly in love in the conventional Graustarkian manner. The story, based on Noel Coward's sentimental comedy, The Queen Was in the Parlor, is light stuff and by no means holds close attention.

Der Hauptmann Von Koepenick (Carl Zuckmayer Production). Max Adalbert and Will Schur. A picture version of the famous William Voigt hoax on the German army and government during the late World War. It is turned into a rollicking comedy in German dialog, but with English superimposed titles so that it is intelligible to non-Germans. The picture drags a bit, but in general it is good entertainment.

Nat Finston, musical director for Paramount, says more than 60 per cent of company's features to be made on the new season's schedule will contain a musical background.

Broadcasters Are Offered New Music License Deal by ASCAP

Serves notice to NAB and all stations that it will confer on new deal, and any broadcaster may cancel present license—won't deal with Schuette

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Developments in the National Association of Broadcasters-American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers differences on license fees for the broadcast of copyrighted music for profit took a sudden turn of astonishing events the past several days, the outstanding features being: Notice sent to NAB by E. C. Mills, general manager of ASCAP, that the Board of Directors had thoroughly and exhaustively considered the proposal that license fees agreement between ASCAP and broadcasters be revised and that they were just as discontented with the formula now in effect as were the broadcasters.

That the ASCAP will welcome conferences with any committee of representative broadcasters looking toward a revision of the present style of contract.

The Society will not, however, confer on this subject any further with Oswald F. Schuette, since on letterheads of the NAB, Schuette's typewritten signature was attached to a number of "scurrilous and misleading communications to broadcasting stations." "These letters," states the letter to NAB, "have referred to the Society and its activities in terms which we consider false, libelous and certain epithets which we strongly resent."

No broadcaster is under the slightest obligation to retain its present license from the ASCAP, and all broadcasters who do not send notice to the Society upon receipt of a copy of the letter to NAB, that it wishes to cancel its license, it shall be assumed that it is in accord with the sentiments expressed by the Society in reference to Schuette's activities against the ASCAP. Any station which believes it signed a contract under duress is at liberty to cancel its existing license.

More than 400 broadcasters are now licensed by ASCAP and in the opinion of Mills, it is unthinkable that so many would have entered into a contract with "racketeers" as Schuette has referred to the Society. (This is part of the Mills letter to NAB.)

Writers of the songs mentioned in last week's Billboard have served notice on Milton Weil, controlling the Randolph Music Publishers, that he had no right to assign their rights for public performance for profit without a license fee being paid and that these rights were assigned by them to ASCAP, which in itself nullifies any deal between himself and Schuette. The writers may bring suit because Weil turned over their song for the time being.

ASCAP sent a registered letter to Schuette asking him if the signatures on bulletins sent out by NAB over his name were forgeries or his own and whether he did or did not send out bulletins mimeographed and purporting to come from him. Apparently ASCAP believes it has grounds for criminal libel against Schuette and wants to know officially who sent them out as a matter of form. Bulletins number six and seven were issued last week, one touching on phonograph records on the air, requesting reports on the Shadow song, also not to accept free music if offered by publishers, especially that proffered by Emil Ascher, Inc.

Letter signed by E. C. Mills, g. m. of ASCAP, follows in full:

"More than 400 of the broadcasting stations have executed the new form of license. It is unthinkable that they would have done so or would have entered into any contractual arrangement with 'racketeers' of any nature, unless it is to be assumed that such a large number of stations were willing to become parties to any participants in such a 'racket.'

"However, assuming that there may be broadcasters who, for some unknown reason, may not have familiarized themselves with the situation, or some who feel that they entered into their present license arrangement with the Society under some form of duress, please be advised that we shall be very glad to accept from any broadcaster immediately (See BROADCASTERS on page 16)

NBC Sales Personnel Makes Two Switches

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Effective today, two changes will go into effect in the National Broadcasting Company sales department, which is headed by Roy C. Wittmer, vice-president in charge of sales, the changes being made on account of new highly concentrated, important sales efforts.

T. F. Allen will now devote his entire time to promoting and servicing four or five active accounts requiring unusual attention. T. G. Sablin will assume the duties and responsibilities of Eastern Sales Manager in sole charge of the New York branch and of Eastern sales.

Auditions Include Two Lucky Strike Programs

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Auditions held at NBC studios and other spots during the week intended for possible NBC outlets included two for American Tobacco Company for its Lucky Strike cigaret programs, supposedly for Saturday night fare. One was Edwin Frank Goldman's 55-piece orchestra plus 16 singers and a script which features a biographical sketch of a wife of a famous musician, etc. Other Lucky Strike possibility was an orchestra headed by William Merrigan Daly of 23 pieces, Willie and Eugene Howard, a chorus of eight and several actors.

Woodbury soap concern apparently wants to hear other announcers and has auditioned a few possibilities to sales conference only so far. Phil Baker and orchestra also had a hearing.

McLeod Resigns From NBC; Will Not Be Replaced

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Keith McLeod, musical supervisor of National Broadcasting Company local studios, has resigned, effective today. He will not be replaced, inasmuch as musical director of programs, Frank Black, intends to centralize the entire musical department of NBC.

McLeod was connected with radio for more than 10 years, having been a member of the WJZ staff when it was an RCA station before the organization of NBC, when it combined with WEAP and formed a nation-wide chain.

Reisenfeld NBC Period To Start February 4

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Hugo Reisenfeld will conduct a symphony orchestra half-hour period for NBC beginning Saturday night, February 4. Program will be called Blue Danube, which period will replace Golden Threads, now being done by Frank Black, although the name of the period in question may be changed to the new name before Reisenfeld actually takes up the baton for the weekly sustaining.

Amos 'n' Andy Back to Chi

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. — "Amos 'n' Andy" dashed back to Chicago today, although the duo planned to remain here for at least three weeks. Reason is said to be a benefit performance for unemployed on which they are to take an important part.

TOM KENNEDY, off the air since last spring, but still known as "The Voice of RKO." He is now a successful producer of radio acts, with six of his productions being heard over the ether at present.

NBC Claims $10,000,000 In New 1933 Business

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—National Broadcasting Company's sales department figures it has signed approximately $10,000,000 worth of new business since the first of the year, or at least business that may be considered strictly 1933 accounts. No allowance is made, of course, for possible four-week cancellations as per clauses in the contract.

New business signed within the past week takes in General Foods Corporation, thru Scott Howe Bowen, Inc., six broadcasts only over Station WJZ, which started Thursday. This is a series of "Temperature Reports" of few minutes' duration.

Identit Toothpaste Company, thru Scott Howe Bowen, Inc., WRC only, for 13 weeks, which started Monday, utilizing the electrical transcription "Detectives Black and Blue" series.

B&K Buy Air Names For Chicago Theaters

CHICAGO, Jan. 21. — John Balaban and Louis Lipstone, of Balaban & Katz, have just returned from a trip to New York, where they went in search of radio personalities to appear at their local houses. Several noted stage stars also were interviewed, and it is probable that negotiations for nearly a score of the best known entertainers on the stage and the air to appear in B&K houses will be made soon.

Among those whom it is practically certain will come here during the season are Kate Smith, Burns and Allen, the Mills Brothers, George Olsen and Ethel Shutta, Russa Colombo, Bing Crosby, the Boswell Sisters and Singin' Sam (Harry Frankel).

Morton Downey and Other Stars for New Brice Film

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—William Rowland-Monte Brice Productions have started work on a new feature in conjunction with Educational films which will star Morton Downey and seven other radio stars not yet selected. Original story by Robert Andrews is called Radio City.

Gale in New Offices

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Moe Gale has opened new offices in the Elves Building, the firm being known as Gale, Inc., specializing in radio productions. New offices include complete studios with sound equipment for auditions. Currently, Gale is handling the Don Hall Trio, Verna Burke, Paul Whiteman Rhythm Boys and other artists.

WAYNE KING and his band are back at the Aragon Ballroom, Chicago, after a successful personal-appearance tour.

West Coast Notes

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—A program series intended to sponsor the development of all that is fine in the arts, drama and life of the Negro people in America is being presented by Clarence Muse, prominent colored actor, movie star and composer, over KRKD. Feature will be on the air each Monday night at 7:30 for next 52 weeks.

Skippy Fleming has been replaced by Hy Moulton as director of the Happy-Go-Lucky Orchestra over the 12 stations of the Don Lee system daily.

Dick Aurandt, former organist at the Fox Theater, has been added to the studio staff of KFRC, San Francisco.

The Smallman a Capella choir of 35 voices, internationally known, will be featured on Raymond Falge's nationwide broadcast of California Melodies over the Columbia System January 24.

Grant Pollack has been named studio manager of KTAB, Oakland.

KHJ's Merrymakers comprise almost an entirely new cast since Union Oil Company has taken over the Coast sponsorship. New members are Ben Hard, m. c.; Red Stanley, Sterling Holloway, Gill and Demling, Yogi Yorgesson, Margit Hegedus and V. Thompson.

Dorothy Labelle, soprano from the New York Philharmonic; Peter Grasso, tenor, and the Dusky Stevadores, Negro quartet, have been added to the staff of KMTR, Hollywood.

Arthur J. Kemp, formerly in the advertising department of The Los Angeles Examiner, has been named commercial manager for KHJ.

Kay Thompson, blues singer, has been added to the artist staff of KHJ. Other additions include Ray Canfield and his Hawaiians, late with Stanley Smith and his orchestra at the Los Angeles Billmore.

Gerald J. Norton, of the Don Leo commercial department, has been elevated to chief of commercial service work for the network.

Langendorf United Bakeries started a series of 15-minute news periods January 17 over KFI, Los Angeles, and KGO, San Francisco, from the NBC studios in S. F. Period, conducted by Rush Hughes, is on the air five mornings a week.

San Francisco Examiner has started 15 minutes weekly on KPO, San Francisco, to promote the sale of its Sunday edition. Period consists of dramas based on stories appearing in the magazine section of the paper. Electrical transcription being used.

Sinclair Minstrels To Play Chi Palace

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—The Sinclair Minstrels, whose Monday night broadcasts over NBC attract hundreds to the studios, have been hooked to appear at the Palace Theater here for a week starting February 10. The cast will be headed by Gene Arnold, interlocutor, and will include Cliff Soubler, Mac McCloud, Chauncey Parsons, Joe Parsons, Bill Childs and Fritz Clark.

"The minstrels' broadcast is witnessed each Monday by some 400 people, which is the capacity of the studio, and there are thousands on the waiting list.

Coast Stations Offer Acts No Money, But 'Opportunity'

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21. — The smaller radio stations in and around Los Angeles are taking advantage of the tremendous number of unemployed vaudeville people on the Coast and are offering golden chances to "hit big" on the ether. Stations carry daily ads in the newspapers asking for acts to appear on their talent programs gratis with the understanding that if they "click" a lucrative connection awaits them.

There is almost a steady line of talent being used on these stations, but no reports are forthcoming of any acts being signed on the strength of their donated program. Stations in turn sell the program to sponsors, to whom they guarantee an ever-changing variety of talent. Setup results in 100 per cent profit for the stations as far as talent cost is concerned.

Air Briefs

By JOE HOFFMAN

Among the new accounts signed by NBC are: Thompson Products Company (automobile parts), which will go on WJZ April 12 for 12 weeks. Program will be called Service With a Song and will feature a male quartet with a humorous dramatic skit. On April 7 Manassasville, King Company (flower seeds) also takes to the WJZ network with a series of talks on flower gardening. Klein, Inc. (shoes), has contracted for WEAF only, commencing February 22 for 18 weeks. Will sponsor Dennis and Breece.

The National Biscuit Company, sponsoring The Wheatworth Program, renewed with NBC for an additional 21 weeks, beginning February 13. Dr. Lyons Toothpowder, sponsoring the Sunday Manhattan Merry-Go-Round broadcasts over WJZ, renewed for another 13 weeks, effective February 5.

Nell McDonald resigned from the commercial program division of CBS, with which she was connected for over a year, and her place was taken by John Jack Chasell. Jerome Kern will be the second guest artist on the CBS Inside Story program February 13. Morton Downey, now heard over CBS each Monday and Friday, will shift to Thursdays and Saturdays, beginning January 29. Frederick William Will Sr. came up from Washington last week just to ride back again in the Roosevelt Special. Bill Cook will be featured over WEAF January 28 for a one-hour radio circus in which he will, as usual, play all the parts. Jesse Crawford estimates that during the last 10 years he received more requests for the number Masquerade than for any other. Boswell Sisters intend to reach the Coast during their current vaudeville tour. The Don Hall Trio were given an additional NBC period last Sunday when they went on WEAF at 10 p.m. This instrumental and harmony trio are now heard each day during the week and will probably go commercial shortly. George Price is back in town with a new idea for radio, but needs the aid of an expert newspaperman to pound out the script. During 1932 Jack Denny sent more than 50 autographed batons to different firemen's benevolent associations throughout the country. The batons were then raffled off to the highest bidders. Amos 'n' Andy are currently in New York for what they call a "vacation," altho they are continuing with their broadcasts from the NBC's New York studios.

Duke Ellington's Orchestra is currently broadcasting over CBS from the Avalon Restaurant, St. Louis. The CBS Funnybones spent the past week-end at their homes in Boston and had to re-stage many of their broadcasts for the family gatherings. By authority of the Federal Radio Commission, WJZ has increased its operating power from 30,000 watts to 50,000. It now has a power equal to NBC's other chain outlet, WEAF. Ben Alley will take a week off shortly to visit his folks in West Virginia. Frank Black, NBC musical director, is looking for unpublished modern American music manuscripts, preferably from unknown composers. Verna Burke is making a big hit with Happy Felton's Orchestra at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Eddie Cantor during the week of January 28 will play a week of one-night stands and will come back to New York February 5 for his Sunday night Chase & Sanborn broadcasts. Then Cantor goes south for a series of one-nighters which will bring him into Florida for a two-week vacation. Will broadcast from Florida and then return to New York.

Al Jolson may go to Florida the last week of January and the first week of February. If he goes he will have to pay wire charges which amount to $1,200 per broadcast. Jolson told his sponsor that he is willing to pay the wire charges. Leo Reisman has four arrangers collaborating on his half-hour Friday night broadcast. Carson Robison has written more than 100 hill-billy songs. Irene Taylor insists that at heart she's really a home girl. And Jack Fulton, the other Paul Whiteman soloist, plans for the wide open spaces. Mildred Bailey's youngest brother, Charles, is in New York just to attend a few of Bing Crosby's broadcasts. Anson Weeks has just been made a member of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers. He has written a few good selling songs. Raymond Knight, whose "Billy Bachelor" series will continue on WEAF thru April, plans to sail for Europe in June.

PROGRAM REVIEWS

Gertrude Niesen

Reviewed Wednesday 10-10:15 p.m. Style—Comedienne and orchestra. Sustaining on WABC (CBS network).

Gertrude Niesen has been heard with the Roger Wolfe Kahn Band on stage and hotel engagements. Still in her teens, she is unquestionably a comer on the road to become a radio name. As a singer of torch songs she is plenty hot and has an excellent voice and delivery. As a mimic she also shines. Her imitation of Lupe Velez doing the number Hotcha was a pip, and she is doing one of these on each program. Movie stars seem to be her forte and she should stick to these in her mimicry, especially when accent or dialect can be worked in. On a subsequent broadcast, wherein she imitated some well-known singer, it was but fair. Coming in toward the close, or what corresponds to the climax of her programs, these imitations cannot afford to be let down. Her voice seems to be that of Belle Baker, Ethel Merman and Lyda Roberti rolled into one, yet it is distinctly her own style, nevertheless.

Future broadcasts have her spotted early in the evening, an indication that she is being groomed for a consistent buildup. Orchestra rendering accompaniments is oked in every respect, getting hot or sweet as the occasion may require. Not a poor bet for a 15-minute commercial on her own or as a decided lift to any period, short or long, utilizing additional talent. M. H. S.

"John Henry" Stories

Reviewed Sunday, 8-8:15 and 8:45-9 p.m. Style—Negro folk legend and music. Sustaining on WABC (CBS network).

If there were such a thing as a Pulitzer Prize for the best radio dramatization of the season this series of programs would have had a strangle hold on it from the very first broadcast. John Henry—Black River Giant is based upon stories by Rouk Bradford and follow the exploits of the fabulous Negro strong man of the Mississippi country in a series of episodes cleverly adapted and dramatized. Acting is as perfect as one would want it, while all members of the cast contribute their vocal efforts in incidental folk song and spirituals.

Don Becker Back at WLW CINCINNATI, Jan. 21. — Don Becker, ukulele virtuoso and material writer, has returned to the staff of Station WLW here. He will author the "Ken-Rad Unsolved Mysteries," new detective series which was inaugurated over WLW recently.

John Henry, legendary giant who is as kindly and wise as he is strong, weighed "44 pounds; when he born and straight-way talked and sang"; in fact, named himself immediately and the river ran upstream. "Sho 'nough, Uncle Slim?" queries the little nephew. "Sho 'nough," affirms the narrator between the dramatizations, and the yarn spins merrily on. Rafts of hog jowl and cabbage and enough rations to feed 50 men were also ordered by John Henry, and the terrified and amazed mother and relatives fear no good will come of it. Soon he announces to his parents that he is "go'in on down de line." Which ends the first episode as told by the narrator.

Second series of incidents presented a half hour later with suitable introduction again by the announcer finds John Henry coming down the road singing. He halts as he meets up with a lazy boy whipping a still lazier mule. John Henry takes the matter in hand in philosophical fashion, analyzes the situation, despite the admonition of the youth that he couldn't "sweet talk dat mule." However, the mule, Nebo, soon is going down the road hell bent for parts unknown. Following this miracle John Henry arrives at his grandma's house and by his talk they know he is full of "preachment" and granny naks for a "message." (See PROGRAM REVIEWS on page 16)

Price Cutting a Blow To Ohio Ballroom Men

CANTON, O., Jan. 21.—Standardization of admission prices and elimination of the free courtesy where not entitled is the only salvation for the dance business in Eastern Ohio, declared H. W. Perry, managing director of New Land O' Dance here, and for the last 15 years identified with major ballrooms in the Midwest, following a conference in Cleveland recently with a number of leading ballroom operators of Eastern Ohio.

Complaining that in many centers competitors have reduced admissions to where it is no longer possible to operate at profit, ballroom managers plan to cooperate in having admission prices returned to a level where they can meet expenses and make a fair profit for themselves.

Perry declared the current season to be one of the worst in many years, due to the fact that competing ballrooms have cut prices and that dancers now consider the admission rather than the band attraction. In years past it was just the opposite.

Few ballroom operators in Eastern Ohio are taking a gamble with "name" bands this winter — since several lost heavily on early season promotions when certain "names" failed to come up to expectations. Most ballrooms have been offering mediocre bands at 25 cents top, and even as low as 15 cents at the mid-week. Few are asking 50 cents, the same as last year.

In Akron one of the better-known ballrooms has been going along for several weeks for 10 cents admission to the entire evening session, using bands that will "play ball" with them, and splitting the gross 50-50.

Perry maintains that when admission prices return to their former level dance hall patrons will benefit by the reason that the operators will be able to offer a better class of band attractions at a still common-sense admission.

Weede-Meyer at Wardman

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The Weede-Meyer Orchestra, began an indefinite engagement at the Wardman Park Hotel here recently. Band is under the direction of Howard Russell, with Babe Pearson as featured vocalist. This marks the orchestra's third appearance at the Wardman Park. Combo is under the management of Bernard Barton, Washington.

Tom Sherman With Cole

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Tom Sherman, for the last four years with the Irving Berlin Music Publishing Company here, has affiliated himself with the M. M. Cole Publishing Company and is now manager of the firm's popular music department, with offices in the Woods Building. Sherman is well known and liked in the trade and he is getting splendid results with Cole's potential hit, Lonesome and Blue.

Night Clubs

JOE LEWIS is the new master of ceremonies at Suburban Gardens, New Orleans. Lewis, perhaps you'll remember, is the singing chap who a few years ago incurred the displeasure of some Chicago gangsters and just to show him that they were really peeved at him attacked him in the night club in which he was working and literally cut him to ribbons with knives. He spent several months in a hospital and finally won his way back to the spotlight.

JIMMY GRIER and his orchestra have opened an indefinite engagement at Club Forest, New Orleans, with a new floor show that includes Stadler and Rose, eccentric dancers; Vivial Janis, singer; Billy Gorber, male impersonator, and George McQueen, master of ceremonies.

RICE HOTEL, Houston, is featuring in its floor show Curtis Smith, Lindy Coonr, Ann Debrew, Eloise Thomas, Gene Walters, Mamie Morgan and others.

CLEO AND NORMAN, apache dancers; the Collum Sisters, singers, and Kitty Martin are recent additions to the floor show at the New Talmadge Inn, San Antonio. Davy Doss is emcee, with Steve Gardner and his University Boys furnishing the hot tunes.

THE BISMARCK, downtown resort in San Antonio, has closed down after a short season. It is learned that the Bismarck will reopen soon after a financial matter has been righted.

BAL TABERIN, Hollywood, is featuring Jack Dunn and his orchestra, as well as six new specialty acts and a line of 12 girls. Frank G. Sennes is managing.

Ballrooms

By BILL SACHS

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 21.—Bud Nash is directing a weekly dance in the ballroom of the Gunter Hotel. Troy Floyd's orchestra is still a feature at the Midway, downtown near San Antonio.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 21. — Len Fletcher and his band are being featured at Reid's Casino, on Barron Lake, nine miles north of here. Dancing is held on Saturday and Sunday nights, with admission at 10 cents, and dancing free. Merets Reid and Kenny are managers of the Casino.

DECATUR, Ind., Jan. 21. — Bernard Clark, proprietor of the Green Kettle confectionery here, has remodeled the upper floor of the building, turning it into a ballroom. It is known as Paradise Gardens, and Paul Weaver's Orchestra, of Fort Wayne, is furnishing the melodies. Dances are held on Saturday night, and Mr. Clark states that dancing may be held three times a week later on if conditions warrant.

ARMONK, N. Y.—Due to a sudden change in plans the Rhineland Gardens has closed for the winter. Business was fair, but the management wanted time to redecorate before the summer season. The reopening has been set for April 1. An entire change in entertainment policy is planned.

RACINE, Wis., Jan. 21. — Beachland Gardens here has been leased for the coming season by Line Tommy Sacco booking offices, of Chicago. The ballroom will be completely remodeled and will be opened about May 1 under the name of Kewaunee Beach. Mr. Sacco is operating 16 ballrooms in Wisconsin and Illinois.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan. 21.—The Brown Buddies Orchestra is now playing at the Palma Ballroom on West Main street. Dancing at this stand every night except Monday.

Orchestra Notes

By BILL SACHS

SID DICKLER and his orchestra are continuing their twice weekly broadcasts from KQV, Pittsburgh. For the last five months the orchestra has been sponsored by a musical supply house. The band was formerly featured on WWSW, WJAS and WMBJ. Dickler's unit comprises 13 men. Freda Lazear is sharing the vocal honors with Jess Best, Jerry Kahn and Ralph Canon, members of the band.

MARY WINE, featured vocalist with the Kay Kyser band, has rejoined the outfit at the Hotel Bellevue, Kansas City, Mo., after spending several weeks at her home in Columbus, O., due to illness. The Kyser combo will remain at the Bellevue at least another fortnight. It has proved one of the most popular bands to play the spot in many months.

MACK ROGERS is waving the haton over the orchestra at the Cave, located in the basement of the Gunter Hotel, San Antonio.

FLOYD WRIGHT is featured organist with Horace Held's Orchestra at the Golden Gate Theater, San Francisco.

MARY DOBBS is meeting with success with her organ solos at the Isis Theater, Denver. She has been at the house for the last nine years.

BILLY ADAMS and his colored combo have started an engagement at Peggy's Pantry, located on the Lincoln highway, west of Fort Wayne, Ind.

KATIE SMITH is the new soloist with the Ralph Webster Orchestra at the Hotel Plaza, San Antonio. Combo broadcasts daily over Station KTSA.

HOLLYWOOD RHYTHM GIRLS have opened an indefinite engagement at the Palatial Inn, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

BEN BERNIE and "all the lads" will go on tour for Publix the latter part of February. Several bands being considered to take Bernie's place at College Inn during the Old Maestro's absence.

BROADCASTERS

a cancellation of his existing license from us.

"No broadcaster is under the slightest obligation to retain his present license from this Society. As to any broadcaster (and a copy of this letter will be sent to all of them) who does not forthwith serve notice upon us of his desire to cancel the license, we shall assume he is not in accord with the comment regarding the formula explicit in this license which has been expressed in the mimeographed letters forwarded to—"All Co-Operating Broadcaster"—under dates of December 8, 14, 28 and 31, 1932, and January 9, 1933.

"In other words, as to such broadcasters who feel that their license from the Society has been taken under duress and who support the statements in toto as contained in the above communications, they may now forthwith by notice upon us cancel the license.

"As to any broadcasters not serving such notice upon us, we shall assume that they do not support the statements made in the said letters.

"This Society will be very glad at any time—and will welcome an opportunity—to confer with any individual broadcaster, or any committee consisting of broadcasters, which is reasonably representative of the broadcasting industry, with a view to revising the present form of license.

"This letter is in response to one received from your Association under date of December 1, 1932, over the signature of Oswald F. Schuette, requesting that there be called to the attention of our board of directors certain resolutions adopted by the National Association of Broadcasters at its convention in St. Louis and suggesting a proposal to revise the present form of license issued by this Society to broadcasters.

"As requested, this letter was presented to our board and has been fairly, thoroughly and exhaustively considered, discussed and deliberated upon, and I was directed to inform you that the members of our Society are quite as discontented with the formula expressed in the present license as the broadcasters can possibly be and the Society will welcome conferences with any committee of representative broadcasters looking toward a revision of the formula.

"The Society will not, however, confer on this subject any further with Mr. Schuette. On the letterhead of your Association, bearing the typewritten signature of Mr. Schuette, a number of scurrilous and misleading communications have been sent by mail to broadcasting stations.

"These letters have referred to the Society and its activities in terms which we consider libelous, false and misleading and contain opprobrious epithets which we strongly resent. The deliberate purpose of the propaganda expressed in them is obvious, and the hostility voiced indicates clearly to us that it would be hopeless to expect a constructive result from the viewpoint of either the broadcasters or the copyright owners from any conference in which Mr. Schuette might participate. The content of these circulars purporting to be distributed from the offices of your Association over the typed signature "Oswald F. Schuette" will be commented upon in a separate communication.

"The Society will not negotiate nor confer with nor recognize Oswald F. Schuette as a representative of the broadcasters or any of them or of the broadcasting industry for the reasons above stated.

"All broadcasting stations are advised that if and when, as a result of any negotiation had with a committee of representative broadcasters, a departure from the existing formula is agreed upon all will be afforded an opportunity to revise their licenses in accordance with such formula.

"We recognize that the matters at issue are of vital concern to the composers, authors and publishers of the world and no less to the users of music in public performances for profit, and we are quite as anxious as are the users or any group or individual of them that a truly constructive solution be found for any and all differences between the two interests.

"To the finding of such a solution we pledge our best possible co-operative endeavors, and with all good wishes, we remain."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. — Oswald Schuette, director of all copyright activities of the National Association of Broadcasters, when asked by a representative of The Billboard to comment upon a letter which had been forwarded to NAB by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, offering a revision of the contract of ASCAP with NAB, but based upon the reported condition that this revision would not be handled with Schuette himself, said he had no statement whatever to make on this subject.

Replying to a further suggestion that he express himself as to the reported communication, he said that the resolution adopted at the St. Louis convention of NAB would have to speak for him in this connection. This resolution, cited by him and incorporated in the text of "Copyright Motion" of NAB bulletin, under date of November 26, 1932, was presented by Isaac D. Levy, of Philadelphia (Station WCAM), and a director of Columbia, and adopted. Schuette also called attention to a motion made by him at St. Louis and incorporated in the same bulletin.

for he has been away gathering knowledge and conversing with bird and beast as well as mankind.

Throughout the program there is considerable chanting of spirituals and the singing of other songs by a mixed choir, also accompanied by a string instrument. This is an important part of the program and as well done as the dramaticizations. Juano Hernandez has the title role and as John Henry reveals an excellent singing as well as talking voice. Rose McClendon, also of the legitimate stage, plays opposite Hernandez. This talented Negro actress is probably foremost among her race in this country in her line. There is a supporting cast of eight players, all of whom sing as well as act. Geraldine Garrick and Hernandez did the radio adaptations of the Bradford book.

Columbia Broadcasting System believes it is bringing a new type of showmanship to radio by broadcasting two separate programs in one night, with a musical period of a regular feature during the half hour between. Each period, of course, is complete in itself, but whether the new departure is helpful to the program itself, the one in between or whether it is the CBS idea not to try to buck the Eddie Cantor hour completely is problematical. However, John Henry lore is swell entertainment and well suited to Sunday evening presentation.

Green Claims Fortune Behind Move To Restore Road Tours

New group expects to be ready in two weeks—25 weeks promised to shows—will finance indie producers—to bring back former road idols

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Morris Green declares that, altho his new organization, the Union Theater League, has not been sufficiently organized to permit it to make any definite statements of its plans, preliminary work has already been started. Financial backers of this new group are not show people, according to Green, but have decided to take a fling at the game because they believe that this is a propitious time to engage in it. No activity is planned for any New York productions, the group to concentrate its efforts strictly on out-of-town road shows. Revivals of shows which have had fairly successful New York runs will be given a showing in all of the 25 houses the League hopes to have booking arrangements with. Propositions will be made to those producers owning shows the League is interested in, and either the League will finance these plays as a whole or will angle the original producer to some extent.

Green also intends to produce shows, give them a short New York run and if they pan out well send them out on a tour of the circuit. He has several assistants now engaged in a survey of shows played in New York for the last three seasons, and those plays which achieved a fairly successful run and didn't for some reason or other go on tour will be revived for a showing on the newly organized chain.

The new group has also sent out a call to recognized indie producers to the effect that it is willing to finance, in whole or in part, productions which meet with the approval of a committee appointed by the organization. Also, a canvass of all available stars familiar to road-show audiences is being made, the group believing that a good many of these performers have dropped out of the limelight during recent seasons simply because most New York producers have concentrated their activities on Broadway.

Dramatic shows alone are scheduled for immediate production, the group feeling that the expenses entailed in sponsoring musical shows are too much in proportion to the gross intake. Green is now engaged in a definite program, making arrangements with a group of directors, scenic painters, playbrokers and other branches of the profession to devote their energies to the new group.

Canavan Defeated for Ex-Job

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 21.—William F. Canavan, former president of the IATSE, who resigned from that post last October after attempting to put thru a general wage cut, was defeated here in the election for business agent of Local 43, Moving Picture Operators' Union. Canavan was defeated by Oscar Kinetop, present holder of the office, who was elected to the post when Canavan left to become head of the international organization.

Henry Baron Readies Play

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Henry Baron expects to fix his dispute with Actors' Equity early next week and immediately afterwards hopes to place his play in rehearsal. Play is from the French and has been adapted by Baron himself. Present title is Bifi Breaks In. This will be his first production since he was forced to quit the business due to ill health.

Jolly Good "Felons"

DANMEMORA, N. Y., Jan. 21.—"Jail! Jail! the Gang's All Here," a revue written, staged and acted by the inmates of the Clinton Prison, drew a crowd of 1,600 people, while plenty were turned away. Show was such a hit that many in the crowd thought that "ringers" had been imported from the near-by NVA Lodge at Saranac Lake to help out.

Civic Rep Losing; "Alice" Goes Uptown

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Eva Le Gallienne's rep theater has been hit hard by the depression, which caused a sharp cut in the customary subsidies. Also the company has had rather hard luck with most of the regular bills, customers coming only to see the new productions. Latest venture, a production of Alice in Wonderland, has proved quite successful and the company hopes to make up the deficit by bringing the play uptown to the New Amsterdam Theater for an extended run. The entire rep company is used in this production, which also calls for a large working crew.

Meanwhile all other production work will be temporarily discontinued, and Miss Le Gallienne hopes to have the troupe back in the old stamping ground next season. Options on some of the new plays announced for this season will be renewed. Among them are Loyalties, by John Galsworthy, and a play by Gordon Bottomley called Gruach.

Alice has done S R O business at every performance in the old 14th street house and opens at the New Amsterdam January 30.

Selwyn Guarantees 3 Shows

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Arch Selwyn, whose production activities have been rather negligible of late, seems to have awakened with a vengeance. Besides standing sponsor to two productions of his own, the imported Erasmus and the Tallulah Bankhead show, Forsaking All Others, he has guaranteed the bond on the Brown-Henderson musical, Strike Me Pink. Musical has Jimmy Durante and Lupe Velez as costars.

No actual cash bond was necessary, Selwyn being a member of the Managers' Protective Association, which is still technically in existence, tho it is not active.

Billy Rose Rushing Revue

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Billy Rose is now busy readying a new revue. No title for the show as yet, tho he intends to troupe it under the same title as his last effort, Billy Rose's Revue. No one as yet set, but the expectations are that Fannie Brice will head what Rose expects will be an all-star cast. Out-of-town tryout probably in the middle of February.

"Bridal Wise" Set on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 21.—Tom Moore, Matt Moore and Lois Wilson in Bridal Wise is set to open tomorrow at Henry Duff's El Capitan Theater for an indefinite run. House has been dark for the last two weeks. Others in the cast are Blyth Daly, Grace Hampton, Jay Ward, Marlon Schockley, William Macaulay, Ben Erway, "Hambone Johnson," or Our Gang comedy fame; Cleo Desmond, John Ray and Walter Clyde. Russell Fillmore handled the directing.

SRF Has $15,401

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The Stage Relief Fund has received moneys amounting to $15,401 during the past week. This brings the total amount of the fund to $15,401. The latest contributions include: Gertrude Freeman, $100; Mary Naah, $100; James Forbes, $50; James Speyer, $50; Osgood Perkins, $20; Mrs. Irving Berlin, $10; Mary Servoss, $10; Louis Lowenstein, $10; Gregory Zilboorg, $10; Grace S. Batchelder, $10; Frank J. Shell, $10; Constance Collier, $10; Rita Gould, $10.

There will be a benefit performance of Autumn Crocus for the SRF January 22 at the Morosco Theater.

Shubert-Erskin To Do "Wax"

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The Shubert office intimates that it expects to have Chester Erskin stage Man of Wax immediately after Erskin finishes work on his own production, Two Living, One Dead. Wax is an adaptation from the German play by Walter Hasencloer called Napoleon Intervenes. Play is expected to be ready for a New York showing late in March.

Sam Harris To Be Gone

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Sam H. Harris will extend his vacation from the expected four weeks to about eight. Meanwhile expected early production on the Somerset Maugham play, For Services Rendered, will be postponed awaiting his return. Harris is visiting friends in Hollywood and also expects to spend some time in Miami.

Columbo in "Scandals" Tour?

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Russ Columbo may be spotted in George White's road edition of the late Scandals if present negotiations with the crooner are completed. White intends to send the show out February 20 for a tour of the one and two-night stands thru the South. Columbo will have the same material held down by Rudy Vallee, Willie and Eugene Howard head the cast.

Philly Theater Society Members Squawk at Price Drop; No Saving

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21.—General slash downward in theater scale to a $2 top has raised havoc here with the subscription group, the American Theater Society.

Squawks are being received by the Society on all sides from subscribers who find that the saving they were supposed to secure by buying all the attractions at once isn't really a saving at all, in view of the general price trend. Regular box-office rate for Society's plays is $2.50 top, which is dropped to $2 when the patron buys five plays at once. Subscribers are also dissatisfied because they can't get a lineup on the second half of the current season. So far There's Always Juliet has played as the second attraction, and those to follow have not yet been selected. Autumn Crocus is supposed to be next, but no date has been announced.

The $2 scale for a first-line attraction was inaugurated by The Green Pastures, which has been attracting good business at the Forrest and will play six weeks in all. Springtime for Henry is playing at the Garrick at $2 and has had a second week added to its engagement. Monday Peggy Fears is to open her new play, Elsie Schaeffer's A Story of Love, at $2 top, and Counselor-at-Law will also play here at that price. It seems likely that practically every other attraction except musicals will play at this figure, with the report that some $1.65 top bookings may be expected.

Situation has the film men worried on the road-show plan also. Faced already with a drop from 75 cents to 55 cents in the top of the first-run straight film houses, the $2 legit top will offer stern competition for the $1.65 pictures. However, Rasputin and the Empress is coming to the Aldine as a road show Friday night, while Fox will probably reopen the Fox-Locust on the two-a-day for Cavalcade.

Stage Whispers

By JACK MEHLER

Former successful producers who are now hard up are in a particularly tough spot as far as raising dough is concerned. In previous years they seldom, if ever, had to dig up production money, and now have either lost contact with possible angles or are too proud to let their plight be known to their personal friends, who might be inveigled into investing. Little if any help has come from the Shuberts or Erlangers, and practically no financing has been done by the picture companies. The brokers, who in former years could be depended upon for some backing, haven't had any real dough any time this season, so they had to be counted out. The financial problem has reached the stage where producers have been forced to look to each other for part of the financing. And good scripts being scarcer than the proverbial hen's tooth, any producer owning a good script can get one of his colleagues to take a piece of it. An advantage in this arrangement is that the two or three men in on the show can often do the opus much cheaper, due to the fact that collectively they may have in the storehouse enough lights and props to save a sizable piece of change.

Chester Erskin, who makes good copy for this column, is moving into Jed Harris' former headquarters atop the Morosco Theater. Which brings to mind a remark made here several weeks ago that Jed Harris had moved into Chester Erskin's former headquarters in the Empire Theater. But the important news is to the effect that Erskin is being angled by Lee Shubert in his first production since his return from Hollywood. The show is Two Living and One Dead, which will go into rehearsal this week.

The opening night of Cohan's Pigeons and People was a flop as far as the first-nighters were concerned. . . . None of the dames could high-hat each other, because there weren't any intermissions.

Cohan's entrance drew the greatest ovation heard this season. By actual timing, it lasted six minutes before he was able to go on with his lines. His admirers flooded the lobby and dressing rooms with flowers, and the only celebrity missing was Jimmy Walker.

Believe it or not, a 42d street broker paid 80 bucks for two opening-night seats for Design for Living. . . . And incidentally there is a solid "buy" on the opus extending back to the 11th row.

The Beaux Arts Ball at the Waldorf-Astoria put the flux on show business for Thursday and Friday nights. . . . All the loose change around being spent on the ball. . . . Dick Moon is averse to feature stories in the dailies about him. . . . Ever since a story appeared about how he gave a patron car fare after she had spent all her available cash for duca he has been besieged by panhandlers, who figure he has a kind heart. . . . Jewel Morse of White's Varieties is proud of the fact that she is a Texan. . . . Jeane Cohan, Erskin's aid-de-camp, now with Columbia Pictures, has become so invaluable to that company that they have nicknamed her Miss Columbia. . . . A real honest-to-goodness delicatessen store has opened on the Kintop. . . . Terry Halpburn is looking high and low for a script to produce independently of the Theater Guild.

With the legit season hardly over as yet, the countryside around New York is being combed by people anxious to operate summer stock companies. Last season's spots have mostly been already spoken for by their former operators, which lessens the prospects of newcomers in the field. But nothing seems to daunt these hopefuls, for if they can't get a regular theater they're willing to consider large barns and garages, and won't turn their noses up at remodeled dance halls as long as there is a patch of green and a tree or two in the vicinity.

Honor Gold Star Member

At the third lecture of the series for new members delivered by President Frank Gillmore at the Hotel Astor, New York, Monday afternoon, January 16, Mr. Gillmore, speaking on The Theater in America, referred to The Battle of the Century, a crucial contest which immediately preceded the great strike of 1919. And because of a very interesting occurrence which followed hard upon Mr. Gillmore's reference the story of that battle may be of interest to Equity members.

When early in May, 1919, the Producing Managers' Association severed all connections with the Actors' Equity Association, and refusing to recognize it as the representative of the actor, announced that it would do business with the actors only as individuals, the association was placed in a very precarious position.

Also the actors and managers were actually in a state of war and the fighting between them was daily growing more bitter, there was still the necessity for what the diplomats call an overt act—some definite, sharp action which would dramatize the break and call attention to the personal issues involved.

And that action would have to come from the actors. The managers were willing enough to let things drift. Delay and evasion were allies of whose aid they were only too willing to avail themselves. They were signing some actors on their own forms of contract and every signature was a clear gain.

The actors, on the other hand, could not afford to conform to these tactics and to allow them to be forced upon them. They had to take the offensive to stand any chance at all.

The first skirmish was fought on the stage of the Century Theater, New York.

since torn down and replaced by apartment houses; hence it was, to the actors, known as The Battle of the Century.

The stake was the cast of the Chu Chin Choo Company. The company had been in rehearsal for a couple of weeks and no contracts had been issued. There were only verbal agreements as to salaries between the players and Comstock & Gest, the producers. Working conditions, and especially the Equity working conditions, had not even been mentioned.

And yet it was not mere chance or untimely boldness which had dictated the choice of this company as a test case. The producers were both members of the Producing Managers' Association and of the United Managers' Protective Association as well. As such, they had been obligated to issue Equity contracts within 10 days of starting rehearsals. Two weeks had gone by and no contracts had been issued. Furthermore, Comstock & Gest were proclaiming that none would be issued.

Beyond that Chu Chin Choo was still in rehearsal, and if a shutdown had to come to demonstrate Equity's intention of insisting on observance of the basic conditions no salaries would be involved.

The Council determined, July 26, 1919, to call the company out, but no move was made for three days. July 29 Frank Gillmore, then executive secretary and Edwin Mordant, a member of the Council, set out for the theater.

Mr. Gillmore, who had played in the house when it was the New Theater, knew the place well and counted on going by the doorman as tho he were a member of the company, gaining the stage and giving his instructions to the company. But before he and Mr. Mordant had gotten well inside, the door to the manager's office, a little further along the corridor, opened and Morris Gest turned in from ahead of them. They went along and had almost reached the stage when the door again opened and Mr. Gest came out and started toward the stage.

The last thing the Equity emissaries wanted was a wordy conflict before a company of whose loyalty they were not assured, and so, their presence undiscovered, they retreated in good order and summoned the company to the Equity office in the Longacre Building at Broadway and 42d street.

Ten of the company came down that night and met the Council, but of them all only four, Richie Ling, Lucy Beaumont, Ida Mülle and Clara Verdora, stuck to their promises and refused to go back until Equity conditions were granted. By that action they became Equity's first Gold-Star Members. They were replaced, and the company opened without them, only to be closed during the strike by a walkout of stagehands and musicians.

The point of this reminiscence is that Richie Ling was present at the Equity lecture, and at the point in it at which Mr. Gillmore referred to The Battle of the Century he called on Mr. Ling to stand. And what an ovation he received from the new members and old members alike who were present!

Helpful Mr. Rice, Again

Elmer Rice's new play opened Saturday night, January 21, at the Empire Theater, New York. The next night, January 22, the helpful Mr. Rice turned his production over for a special performance for the benefit of the Actors' Fund of America.

It may have been done somewhere else before, but Equity doesn't know where.

Death of Original Lay Member

Equity learns with considerable regret of the death of Carlos French Stoddard at his home in New Haven January 16. Mr. Stoddard had been an honorary lay member of the Actors' Equity Association since January 28, 1921. The manner in which he became a lay member was this:

Mr. Stoddard was never on the stage himself, but his first wife, Sando Milliken, had been a well-known actress, and both the Stoddards had been greatly interested in the theater and in the Actors' Equity Association.

When the strike broke, in August, 1919, Equity's immediate need was for money and then for more money. Promptly with the declaration of war, Mr. Stoddard sent a check for $250 to the Equity War Chest, one of the first to be received and certainly one of the first from a nonprofessional. The gift was made thru Richie Ling, who was a close personal friend of the Stoddards.

Thereafter followed his election to an honorary lay life membership by the Council.

ACTORS' EQUITY ASSOCIATION.

Chorus Equity Assn.

DOROTHY BRYANT, Executive Secretary

Fourteen new members joined the Chorus Equity Association in the past week.

We are holding checks in settlement of claims for Iva Butenko, Charlotte Davis, Tonia Desatoff, Gladys Harris, Marge Hylan, Marion Hylan, Elizabeth Huyler, Fred Holmes, Nadia Pomocheff, Robert Rochford, Neida Snow, Hazel St. Amant, Alexis Vassiloff and Paula Vassiloff.

It is with deep regret that we report the death, January 10, of John Sciorlino. Sciorlino joined Chorus Equity while with Strike Up the Band in December, 1929. He had since been with Girl Crazy and the New York production of Of Thee I Sing.

Recently a complaint was received from a member which stated that he had been aware of what salary he was to receive he would not have wasted his time rehearsing, for, as he put it, he could not afford to live on the amount that he was going to be paid. While he did not put the blame upon the Association, he felt that there ought to be some rule that would provide protection for the chorus so that they would know in advance exactly what salary they were expected to receive. This is out of our control, but it is certainly the privilege of every person who is engaged for a production to inquire what salary is to be paid before rehearsals have started.

The Association has provided that there be an agreement entered into between the manager and the chorus starting with the date of the first rehearsal. Tentatively they are engaged, but the manager is not obligated to give and sign contracts before the end of the seven-day probationary period for rehearsals. If you have not inquired what your salary is to be before rehearsals begin or during rehearsals and the management exercises its privilege of not issuing contracts before the seventh day, then you may have wasted that much of your time, provided the salary specified in the contract is not acceptable to you.

January 31, 1933, all mail received in the Chorus Equity office prior to July 15, 1932, will be returned to the post office. A portion of the mail held here will be listed alphabetically each week. Mail is forwarded on the request of the member only. If you cannot call at the Chorus Equity office for your mail, write and ask that it be forwarded.

Saranac Lake

Henry Chesterfield, William Lee and Sam Scribner visited the NVA Lodge last week.

Fred Rith has returned to the Lodge after spending the holidays with his folks.

Fred Buck is in bed with a little setback. Fred is a fighter and will soon pull out of it.

Betty Blair has been put to bed for a few weeks.

Ruth Hatch is up for three meals and doing fine.

Olga Galar is up for meals and showing big improvement.

George Harmon, bed patient, is putting on weight and looking fine.

It is with deep regret that we write of the death of Elizabeth Fay, who has been at the Lodge only a short time. She was a very sick girl when admitted.

Betty Huntington, up patient, is doing great. She expects her discharge papers very shortly.

Guy Johnson has been visiting his wife, Elsie, at the Lodge for the past week.

Little Theaters

Communications to 251 West 42d Street, New York.

Samuel French, Inc., has just issued a supplement to the catalog which contains descriptions of all plays published or acquired since the fall of 1931. It may be obtained by application to the French offices, 25 West 45th street, New York, or 811 West Seventh street, Los Angeles.

The Paris Players, of New Paris, O., presented Tea Toper Tavern, by Lindsey Barbee, January 11 at the Jefferson School auditorium. The play was a success under the direction of Evelyn Northrop. The cast included Mabel Beasley, Nora Stowe, Eugenia Stowe, Evelyn Ayers, Ural Grooms, Ruth Alice Coblenz, Doris Irene Happer, John A. Diggs, Jim McNeill, Lorraine Penland, Carl Northrop, Byron Grooms and Beverly Northrop.

The Department of Drama of Carnegie Institute of Technology presented Rudolf Besier's The Virgin Goddess at the theater of the College of Fine Arts for six performances January 10 to 16. The play was staged by Chester Wallace.

The Garcon Players, one of the newest little theater groups in Arkansas, with headquarters at the Little Rock Boys' Club, Little Rock, Ark., are making their first appearance January 26, when they will present Safety First, by Sheldon Palmer, at a benefit performance in the auditorium of St. Edward's School. Ralph T. Cutter is director, while the cast includes Henry Jack Weiss, Lillian Sawyer, Earl Wiegand, Kathleen Lewis, Euloh Woods, Edress Dunn, David Knesal, Leon Weiss, Marie Igner and C. L. Cooper. The following offering will be The Doll Maker, arranged and compiled by Cutter, to be produced in the auditorium of the Boys' Club February 22.

The rehearsal class of University Extension at Columbia University will present Midnight at the Mermaid, an interlude by Edward Stashoff, with scenes from Hamlet, As You Like It, Much Ado About Nothing and The Merchant of Venice, January 28 at the Mobilin Academic Theater. Estelle Davis is director of the class.

Rotary Stock New Herk Plan

Wheel will drop out in favor of five houses scap-ping strong shows

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Net result of the conference that lasted most of Monday in the offices of I. H. Herk, head of the Empire Burlesque Association, and another on the following day, is that the Empire Wheel is to go out of existence shortly and rotary stock is to take its place, with five houses being linked in the deal. Stock company does not have to take a carpenter along when opening at another house, when scenery and costumes are rented and delivered to the house in question.

The Star, Brooklyn, will open the first show today, and each week will add another show at another house. Linup will be Star, Brooklyn; Irving Place, New York; Trocadero, Philadelphia; Empire, Newark, and Gayety, Brooklyn. Two Brooklyn houses are controlled by the Raymonds; Irving Place and Newark by Herk, and the Philadelphia spot by Issy Hirst. Wheel shows will continue for the time being, but each week one will be eliminated until the five houses in the rotary stock plan are going full swing with a stock show.

All shows will have no less than 12 recognized principals and 18 girls. Production will be under the direction of Freddy Clark and his assistant, Ida Rose. Cast opening at the Star comprises Steve Mills, Joe Lyons, George Murray, Eddie Lloyd, Herb Ferber and Inez Marvin, Three Cordova Sisters, Buster Phillips, Lillian Dixon and Herbert Leonard, colored musical specialty act. Mac Brown will be added attraction at the house.

All shows will be just as strong, according to those in on the deal, which resolves itself into a three-cornered proposition between the Raymonds, Issy Hirst and Herk.

Teeter, Tyree Launching One-Nighter in Southwest

HOUSTON, Jan. 21.—Tel Teeter announces plans for a motorized cartoon one-nighter to take to the road about March 1. Teeter, who with his wife owns and operates the Joy Theater, Oklahoma City, and the Rio, Dallas, was formerly a tent showman. Earl Tyree, outdoor showman, of Oakdale, Neb., will be associated with Teeter in the new venture.

Five trucks, four trailers and a bill car ahead will be used. A band and orchestra will be featured, and a calliope will be used for a bally, with plenty of paper to herald the show. A pit show and an educational exhibit suitable for drawing school children and teachers also will be carried. Top selected here yesterday by Teeter is a $5 by $0. Most of the people for the show have been selected, including Tyree's Family Band. Teeter will remain in Houston for several days fitting up equipment.

'Flesh' in East Liverpool, O.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Jan. 21.—First stage show at the Ceramic Theater here in many months brought Arthur Hauk's Sunshine Revue to the ace movie house this week. Ceramic is reported to have done well with the stage-film program, and William C. Dallman, owner and manager, plans to use more stage offerings within the near future.

Union stagehands and motion picture operators returned to the house recently after being locked out several months because of a wage dispute. Owners operated their own machines, and, unlike other theaters in the district, did not import non-union workers.

Oklahoma City Stock Set

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 21.—Opening of a stock company show at the Warner Theater, scheduled for last week, was postponed until January 24 by Nathan Sablosky, manager, who announced the delay was caused because the cast that had been contracted for failed to arrive. The opening is scheduled with a presentation of Noel Coward's Private Lives.

Address all Burlesque news items and communications to M. H. Shapiro, The Billboard, 251 West 42d street, New York City.

Burly Briefs

FREDDY CLARK is back in New York, and, in addition to putting on the new stock shows, which are to rotate, he will be producer for Max Rudnick at the Ellings.

DAVE GOULD is reported as being the newest number producer for the Minskys, holding forth at the Republic, New York.

BURLY CONFERENCE in New York wound up with everybody being good friends, altho it was originally planned that all would stick together in one kind of a bargain or another. Herk will remain good friends with Joe Weinstein, but will not be associated in business routine, which also goes for Max Rudnick. Whatever labor agreements were proposed between them probably were not needed once the Old Howard, Boston, was padlocked. House was the only one making money to speak of on the wheel, and when it went the Modern, Providence, had to be dropped, of course. This more or less spelled the finish of the wheel, or hastened the decision on adopting rotary stock.

THE RAYMONDS, of Brooklyn, who went on record as being against the centralized booking bureau recently proposed by the Minsky-Weinstocks, are said to be equally opposed to having their houses switch from the IATSE to the Empire State Union, an organization not affiliated with the AFM.

HARRY (KATZ) FIELDS has closed at the Parsons, Hartford, Conn., where business seems to have fallen off after an auspicious opening. House was planning to close also at this writing.

BROADWAY BURLY chances have grown slimmer now that the Minskys have closed the Central, where pictures were played of late but which was intended to do a burlesque comeback, barring labor troubles. The receivership sale ordered of all Shubert Theater Corporation assets automatically relieved the Minsky-Weinstocks of the lease.

LOUIS REDELSHEIMER, veteran burly booker, informs that he was never associated with Solly Shaw in booking burlesque, altho both occupied office space in the same general quarters.

MAE BAXTER, now at the Apollo, New York, writes that the Mae Baxter who opened recently at the Republic was really herself and not a case of her sister, Bea, changing her name. Sorry, Mae, but you know you even fooled the Minsky booker—who at least should have known better.

JACQUETTE, newcomer to the East, has opened at the Irving Place, New York, where local burly fans are getting their first view of the protegee.

WALTER BROWN (Shultz the Butcher) has hurled the hatchet with the Minskys and opened this week at the Apollo. Nat Mortan acted as the pacemaker.

BUBBLES YVONNE closed suddenly with the Minskys when a misunderstanding arose over difference of opinion on a costume.

McCardell "Night in Paris" Eu Tour in Texas Country

HOUSTON, Jan. 21.—A Night in Paris, a new tabloid revue owned and produced by Lillian McCardell, of Houston, is playing theaters in this territory under the management of W. H. Coffman. From Texas the company will jump into the Carolinas. Show is making the jumps by motor.

In the personnel are Lee Norton, Poppy Maarl, Gene Walters, Mary Ellen, Jerry Cardell, Alice Brock, Helen Alton, John Carroll, Christian Ross, Stanley Meehan, David Briggs, W. H. Coffman, and Roy Snyder, transportation and props.

A feature is Guy Lanham's Orchestra, comprising, besides Lanham, Bonnie Bell, Mat Naton, Jack O'Neal, "Chuck" Stanley and Jack Scott.

Stock for Court, Buffalo

BUFFALO, Jan. 23.—Dramatic stock opens at the Court Street Theater here in February under direction of Rupert Labelle. Jack Deaken will be manager and Charles Nicholas, technical director and designer. First show Unexpected Husband.

Lynn Overman Held Over; Worcester Business Is Off

WORCESTER, Mass., Jan. 21.—Lynn Overman, who has been appearing in The Queen's Husband at the Worcester Theater this week, has been re-engaged by the Civic Repertory Company to appear in Whistling in the Dark, starting Monday.

The continuance of the visiting-star stock at the Worcester Theater will depend on the volume of public patronage. The attendance during the first week was very poor, due to bad weather, a drop in the prices at the other local theaters and unfavorable reviews of the opening production, Paris Bound, with Madge Kennedy. On the other hand, The Queen's Husband received favorable reviews.

It was originally planned to present 12 weeks of stock, but this will be abandoned unless there is a decided increase in the patronage. Public subscriptions were sought a number of weeks ago to make stock possible here, and when about half of the set quota was received the productions got under way.

In the event that the stock is discontinued subscribers will be protected, the money to be returned pro rata. A sufficient amount of money has been placed in escrow to guarantee salaries as required by Equity.

Duluth Theatergoers May Get "Flesh" Shows Again

DULUTH, Minn., Jan. 21.—Without flesh attractions for more than three years, with the exception of occasional amateur talent shows or spot features, Duluth theatergoers may soon be treated to living talent.

While definite plans have not yet been completed, and those at the head of the project refuse permission to make use of their names, it is understood that the next 60 days will see the fulfillment of their plans. Definite assurance has been given that the Orpheum Theater, dark for several years, will not be considered, due to excessive rent demanded by Public, holder of the lease.

The last flesh attraction of any merit exhibited at the Head of the Lakes was Slade (Mike) Taylor's tab company at the Broadway Rialto in Superior a number of years ago. It is understood that Taylor will be asked to return to these parts with a company of players.

Public officials scoff at the project, pointing to their own sub-normal business as an indication of conditions. The facts are, however, that theatergoers are no longer anxious to pay upwards of 50 cents to see unusually ordinary screen fare, and, according to a private survey, would welcome stage attractions coupled with second-run movies or even a program of interesting short reels at a 35-cent top.

Okla City Venture Is Off

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 21.—The stock company at the Warner Theater, which was first scheduled to open January 10 and later announced to open January 24, will not get under way at all, despite the sale of $800 of tickets. Announcement came Wednesday that the option obtained on the house by Nathan Sablosky had expired and would not be renewed. According to persons employed by Sablosky, advance ticket sales amounted to $900. Demands for rebate when the original opening was postponed amounted to less than $25, it was said.

Duffy Turns Down Talkie Offers

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21.—Henry Duffy, according to reliable report, has received several offers from Hollywood producers to stage productions for the talkies. He is said to have been offered top money in at least one instance, but has turned down all propositions with the statement that he would rather struggle with the living theater than luxuriate on the Hollywood lots. Meanwhile he is preparing several new shows for presentation here and in Los Angeles.

Sam Micals' Burly Opens

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 23.—Stock burlesque under direction of Sam Micals, with guest stars and specialties supplementing resident organization, began a run at the State Theater here last week. Beauty Parade was opening attraction, with Evelyn Cushway and Dorothy Abearn feminine feature, and Artie Lloyd and Lew Powers the comics.

Rep Ripples

ED WARD, formerly of Princess Stock Company, later with the Neil Schaffner and Doug Morgan shows, is in Houston for a brief visit.

HOWARD HENDRICKS is again plotting the J. Doug Morgan Show thru Texas.

DUTCH AND ELOISE MAHAN and son, Jerry, are with the Doug Morgan Show.

JACQUELINE LARUE was seen in Houston recently.

TOL TEETER and party have been seen on the streets of Houston the past week.

JIMMIE RODGERS, radio and Victor recording artist, who has appeared with several of the larger tent shows, is currently playing independent vaudeville in the Texas country. He appeared for one night last week at the Joy Theater, Dallas, and is reported to have pulled big business.

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD RICTON are now in their 12th week of their winter's vacation, with approximately four more weeks ago go. They are currently jolling on the sands in Florida and were recent visitors on the Billroy show, the only tented attraction playing in that State. The Rictons will begin their new season under canvas April 3.

LEW HENDERSON PLAYERS are working a circle thru Iowa, taking in Milton, Bloomfield, What Cheer, Batavia, Otumwa and Stockport.

MAUDE FLEGER and her "musical exponent" are proving a popular entertaining feature with the Monroe Hopkins Players, playing stock under canvas in Houston.

Billroy Show Briefs

PAHOKEE, Fla., Jan. 21.—Down among the beans, sugar cane, sunflowers and what have you.

Played this section for three weeks last year, but doing it up in one week this time for reasons best known to "Mr. Billroy."

Mrs. Billy Wehle is under the weather with a case of neuritis. Expects to be back in harness in another week.

Fred Kilgore and Bob Fisher have become quite proficient hunters. "Kelly" is forever hunting something.

Billy Wehle and "Red" Jenks have gone in for rattlesnakes.

Bob Demorest Jr. and Johnny Finch threaten to get up in some new doubles. Norman Henkle (yes, he's a new one), banjo player, is quite a ladies' man, but after all he's teamed up with our Beau Brummell, Archo Farley.

Heading for Ravens on the East Coast from here, where I hope I will be getting plenty of fish as you read this.

TOM HUTCHISON.

Fall River Civic Group Quits After Three Weeks

FALL RIVER, Mass., Jan. 21.—The Civic Theater project launched by Howard W. Comstock, local resident and author of several Broadway shows, among them Stepping Sisters, has proved unsuccessful as far as this city is concerned.

The organization carried on for three weeks, going deeper into the red each week. Productions were given three days a week, splitting the week with New Bedford for the last half. Last week it was decided to "play the full week of New Bedford."

Hector I. Bellisle, president of the Civic Theater group, says a plan is now being worked out whereby it is hoped to satisfy subscribers who want plays in Fall River. "General support," he said, "fell below our expectations, the subscriptions not being sufficient to carry on as we had planned."

Allen Bros.' Season Ends

JONESBORO, Ark., Jan. 21.—Allen Bros.' Stock Company, owned and managed by Jack Vivian, closed its season here this week. The troupe has been working in houses for the last seven weeks, with business spotted. Jack Vivian expects to open under canvas in Southern Missouri as early as the weather will permit. He is quite optimistic over the forthcoming tent season.

Jane's Corner

DIARY of a Stage-Door Janey:

How ya doin', diary—
There's lots to tell today.
Mot heaps of people that we know
Down Rialto way.

There was this morning—we dropped in on Paul Ash, rehearsing with his boys over at the Palace—first time Paul has been in town for two years and he is a different Paul—smoother, more sophisticated, yea, even slick haired. Lillian Mills and Al Siegel are on the same bill and doing nicely, thank you. . . . Al is a suave pianist and Lillian Shadic, his former partner and lady of the Vanities, seemed to be missing him sadly in her act at the Palace last week.

Matinee time at the Auditorium, where Show Boat is holding forth. . . . Helen Morgan's stepfather and her Aunt Ella telling me about Helen's school days down in Danville, recalling a bit wistfully how thrilled they were when Helen won the beauty contest and "stopped being a stenographer." . . . Robert Raines trying vainly to identify the voice of some lady admirer calling him on the phone and after some 10 minutes of vain effort suddenly remembering, "Oh-h-h-h Leona, why I've been hunting all ovah Chicago for you, shub nuff!" . . . lovely little Negresses trouping in . . . everyone making a divc for the letter box. . . . Alice, Helen Morgan's maid, worrying back and forth because it was 2:20 o'clock and the lady had not yet arrived. . . . everyone beginning to worry vaguely. . . . Dad, the militant doorman, getting all burned up and wishing he were back living the quiet life of the fire department. . . . 2:21 o'clock, Bill Kent taking his last puff of a cigaret. . . . 2:22, 2:23 o'clock—Helen arrives very unlinksy in a great raccoon coat.

Tea dancing (no, we don't eat lunch any more) at the Cafe de Alex, where they have a brilliant classical floor show with the queerest conglomeration of nationalities you ever saw (or heard). . . . Dennis O'Neill, the little Irishman, singing Italian operatic numbers in the Spanish cafe. . . . Dinner at Chez Parce with Sophie Tucker, who looked indeed hi-de-hi in a black gown with large black and white sleeves. . . . Sophie has been held over for another week out there (until February 1) and then will make some theater appearances out west here. . . . She is vastly amused 'cause Ted Shapiro says Al Lackey lives by "the sweat of his frau."

And then—just a few moments with Ben Bernie, Esquire, Esquire and Esquire, College Innward. . . . don't you love "Bohemia"—volla.

HOP TALK

There seem to be anniversaries all over the place about now. . . . George Flint introduced a girl revue to the old town at the State Cafe. . . . Curly Ross was featured tap dancer in the show. . . . That was the same year that Texas Guinan made her stage debut at the Great Northern Hippodrome. . . . Scene, a saloon of the gold rush days. . . . Enter Tex on a horse shooting up the place, just as natonal. . . . About the same time Morris Silver was singing with illustrated slides over at the old American Theater. . . . and we didn't even get to see it. . . . Kate Smith adapted her When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain from an old hill-billy ballad, which chalks one up for the hill-billies. . . . Sam Branson flew to St. Louis to arrange bookings at the Ambassador. . . . Will Harris insists he is the most "barrired" of men and won't somebody please bring him his car. . . . Oh dear, oh dear, if Congress does vote back beer will the Rice Brothers dig up their pitcher skit again?

THAT'S D'OEUVRES (we like 'em)

Anne Greenway's black hair is the talk of the town. . . . A critic on a metropolitan daily thought that Guy Bates Post was more important than Cornelia Otis Skinner—e-magine. . . . Eddie Cantor's proposed Chicago booking is out. . . . The Accs moved into the Chicago Theater January 27. . . . St. Bartlett and Alice White are reported as about to drift their own ways. . . . Michael Bartlett plays squash—it's a game. . . . Ben Omar sails February 4 for an engagement at the UFA Theater, Hamburg. . . . Fritz Block's children were having a gay time at The Cat and the Fiddle. . . . Babe Didrikson makes her first stage appearance at the Palace next week, plus much gymnasium equipment, including a tread mill. . . . George Price didn't use a microphone even with that bad cold. . . . ditto Pat Kennedy. . . . Ran into Mrs. Burke up at B and Kay—she's going out west in a week or so to check up on Kathleen. . . . And that's all today.

Old Howard, Boston Gets a 30-Day Slam

BOSTON, Jan. 21.—Old Howard, local burly stand that was packing them in with a grind policy using Empire Wheel acts and pictures, was ordered closed for 30 days by the Boston Censor Board after hearing testimony of Watch and Ward Society agents. Agents said they had attended performances for six months and had gathered ample evidence that the shows were offensive. . . . John Slaymaker, agent who brought the charges before Mayor Curley, said Hinda Wassau had been particularly loud in that she displayed "particular offensive stinosity." Mayor Curley remarked that he had gone to the show on at least one occasion, and his friends were disappointed to see the girls in six-foot towels.

Chase-Lister Will Open 1933 Season in Theaters

NEWTON, Ia., Jan. 23.—The Chase-Lister Company will open a preliminary season in Iowa theaters March 1, prior to opening the tent season early in May. Glenn F. Chase, owner-manager, announces.

The company closed a season of 13 weeks in houses thru Nebraska, Wyoming and Colorado December 1 to an average good business. The Chase-Lister show will be prepared to fight the depression this coming season as it has the last two years, Manager Chase says.

Milt Hill Revue Set In Oklahoma Theaters

OKMULGEE, Okla., Jan. 21.—Milton Hill's revue, 1933 on Parade, which has just closed at the Topaz Night Club in the Now Hotel, Tulsa, has booked four theater engagements in Oklahoma, opening at the Orpheum Theater here Tuesday.

The principals are Milton Hill, Gary Gray, George Hood, Mabel Moore and Yvonne Doree. There is a line of 16 girls.

Edith Ambler Company at Jefferson, Birmingham, Ala.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 21.—The Edith Ambler Stock Company opened at the Jefferson Theater this week with an offering that indicated an extended run. City Wives and Country Relations, the premier vehicle, played to capacity houses. This will be followed by That's My Baby.

Writer and Edith Ambler, with Malcolm Miller, played the leads. Other members of the cast include Jack Haggerty, Anne Neilson and Clyde Waddell. Vaudeville acts with John Lampe's Orchestra fill the intermissions with a pleasing variety. The company is here for an indefinite engagement.

CHARLES ARGANBRIGHT, until recently leading man with the Edith Ambler Stock Company, is now handling the leads with the Eloise Jordan Players in Canton, O.

Boone, Ia., Turns Out For Bill Bruno "Flesh"

BOONE, Ia., Jan. 21.—This city, with a population of 12,000 and at one time of the best one-night-stand towns in the Midwest, is one of the smallest, if not the smallest town in the country supporting a "flesh and blood" attraction.

When Bill Bruno recently announced that he would open the Strand Theater here with stock with the intention of continuing until the summer, the consensus of opinion was that it couldn't be done. The Strand had been closed for two years—after being put on ice by some raw "girl shows"—and there were two picture houses in opposition. Besides barring one tent show Boone had seen no "in-the-flesh" drama in more than two years. Even vaudeville had been out for that time.

However, Mr. Bruno had faith in Boone, and that his faith was justified is evident by the following from one of the Boone papers: "The Strand Players, who opened at the Strand Theater New Year's night, have evidently done what was thought impossible—created an interest in the almost obsolete "flesh and blood" drama. Sunday night's audience packed the theater and some 300 were turned away."

The company is now in its fourth week after playing the first three weeks to satisfactory business. However, there is a reason for this, as this little town is booming in comparison with other small cities despite the fact that the large Northwestern railroad shops here are shut down and all the local banks are on a three-year moratorium. The theater was in bad repute, but the ladies are turning out in force and bringing the men and children with them.

In the company are Herbert Walters, Mickey McNutt, Bush Burrichter, Ross McKay, J. Bradley Alexander, Jack Bell, Helen Walters, Margaret McKay and Jeanne Dixon. A low scale of prices—10 and 20 cents—is the policy, and bills changed three times weekly, with matinee Sundays, Thursdays and Saturdays. Bruno searching for another location for a second company.

Hopkins Players Continue To Draw Well in Houston

HOUSTON, Jan. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Hopkins Players, who enlarged their seating capacity last week, enjoyed another turn-away crowd Sunday night, Friday and Saturday also were capacity houses, and other nights have been satisfactory. Donald Null, new leading man, has made many friends here. Maude Fleece has made some additions to her orchestra, Rex McCoon and Tommy Meyers, recently of the "Skeeter" Kell Show, joined last week. New acts booked as added features include Mae Clark, piano-acordionist; the Hawaiian Duo (Joe Kalpo and Johnny Kealoha) and Phil Rey, the "Aristocrat of Ventriloquists."

Cincy Music Hall Leased For Film-Tabloid Policy

CINCINNATI, Jan. 23.—Larry Subbrock, in the past engaged in various local theatrical pursuits, has leased the 3,700-seat Music Hall auditorium here for an indefinite period and will present second-run pictures and a 25-people miniature musical comedy revue. The show will operate nightly.

The new company gave its first performances yesterday, doing a matinee and one night show, and drew satisfactory houses. Company is playing at popular prices. In the Music Hall revue are the Marsh Sisters, specialty dancers; Jackie Green, soubrette; the Hokum Trio, comprising Willard Cole, Johnny Hannon and Jimmy Rich; Bobby Walker, comedian; Johnny Buckley, dancer, and Louis A. Warren Jr., juvenile and stage manager.

In the chorus are Alice Kellerman, Harriet Wentzel, Evelyn Felzer, Dolly Skidder, Naomi Stuart, Betty Corri, Billie Joier and Frances Joier. The company also features an eight-piece orchestra.

Jordan Players Succeed Gordiniers in Canton, O.

CANTON, O., Jan. 21.—Gordinier Players, who have been holding down the boards at the old Grand Opera House since last fall, terminated a four months' engagement there last night and have been succeeded by the Louise Jordan Players, who opened today.

Stock at the Grand is being sponsored by the local stagehands on the co-operative plan. Business has been spotty, with several good weeks, but nothing compared with the business done by the Edith Ambler Players, who held forth at the same theater for more than six months last year.

New company will continue to change bills on Saturdays and will offer vaudeville between the acts. An orchestra will be an added feature.

LAWRENCE DEMING and wife, Debornh, have just completed a 2,000-mile trip, which took them as far south as Miami, and are now back in Canton, O., where Mr. Deming is engaged as business manager of the Eloise Jordan Players, playing stock at the Grand Opera House there.

News of Magicians-Mentalists

(Cincinnati Office)

DR. HARLAN TARBELL appeared before a dinner meeting of the Dinner Club of Minneapolis Wednesday evening, January 18. Practically all formal speech-making was eliminated from the program and the entire evening was given over to magic.

GORDON THE MYSTIC played a successful engagement at the RKO Capitol, Dallas, last week.

TEN SPOKANE and Inland Empire magicians put on the program at the annual banquet of the Spokane Mystic Club. The session was presided over by Dr. O. A. Talbot, president of the club. Dr. Talbot was on the program with his duck trick; E. V. Klein, secretary, worked with candles; Walter A. Burk, eggs; Jack Spang, Chinese effects, while James Deakherge introduced ventriloquism. Shorter acts were presented by Howard Page, Dr. R. A. Gray, Frank Doike, Father Dosh and E. J. Warren.

MARINE AND FIRESTONE, who closed their road season late in December, are operating a store show in downtown Houston.

PRINCE ZOGI is enjoying a successful winter season in and around Houston.

GEORGE LAFOLLETTE has opened the Palace of Wonders, Baltimore, where eight circus side show and vaudeville acts are shown each week. LaFollette has put his big show in stores on account of existing conditions in show business.

THE LOVELYS have settled in Sapulpa, Okla., where they are operating a rooming house. Their daughter, Princess Zenda, is giving readings and has a class in numerology. The Lovelys also are playing occasional dates in the near-

Numerous communications have been received by the Magic Editor during the past week, calling attention to the exposé of major illusions and escapes being used by the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company to advertise their Camels cigarettes. These exposés are being used in the company's national advertising in the country's leading newspapers. After explaining the effect, a complete exposé is given as to how the illusion or escape is done. The first of these, the Houdini Milk Can Escape, appeared early last week and was followed later in the week by an exposé of the levitation.

The Reynolds firm, no doubt, is acting in good faith, not realizing the irreparable damage the exposing of these tricks will do to the country's magicians who make a living by performing them. It is urged, therefore, that all magicians write or wire to the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C., explaining the harm resulting from these exposés and asking that they discontinue this form of advertising.

Magic Merger Ballot

The Billboard believes that a merger of the three major magic groups—SAM, IBM, IMC—is practical and, if consummated, will be of great benefit to magic as well as to the individual members of the three societies. The Billboard has outlined four plans whereby the merger can be effected. In order that we may know which of the plans is favored by most magicians, kindly place a check opposite the plan approved by you and mail ballot immediately to WILLIAM J. SACHS, Magic Editor, The Billboard, 25 Opera Place, Cincinnati, O.

An out-and-out merger of the SAM, IBM and IMC, whereby each would lose its individual identity; the newly created body to be given a new title, with only one magic paper to serve the new combine.

The three organizations to retain their individual identities, and to continue publishing their own magazines; with a committee from each group meeting together (at least once a year) to act on all matters affecting magic, and to work towards a merger, at least for convention purposes.

The three societies to retain their individual identities, and to continue publishing own magazines, but to merge for convention purposes only. A four-day convention would be held, with a day given over to each group, the three bodies to meet together on the fourth day. Night shows to be arranged on same plan.

For an absolute merger, as in first plan, but with arrangement whereby the amateur magicians would be segregated from the professional; the latter to be graded by degrees bestowed upon them by the society. One magazine to serve the organization.

by towns. Ring No. 62, IBM, will hold a meeting at the Lovely house on the first Wednesday in February. Princess Zenda is getting along splendidly after her recent operation, Jack Lovely reports.

IN THE ROSTER of the San Diego Magicians' Club are C. W. Falt, president; Homer Comstock, vice-president; L. J. Wilson, secretary; E. D. Goodwin, sergeant at arms; Lawson Andrus, Georgina Andrus, Dorothy Comstock, Richard Coxeter, Ernest Dort, Ella M. Falt, Ruby Goodwin, Arthur L. Halsey, Cliff Lesta, Lyndel Lesta, R. B. Lathrop, Benjamin O. Lacy, James McCann, Edwin Parshall, H. E. Snider and Fay, "That Mystery Man."

KING AND THOMAS played the Civic Theater, Akron, O., for three days last week with their new act and were well received. They have been signed to return to the same theater in six weeks. King and Thomas open and close their act with the lamp productions.

FAY, "THAT MYSTERY MAN," has been rejoined by his wife, who has been vacationing with her folks in New Mexico. The pair are breaking in a new mental novelty to go with their magic routine. Mrs. Fay using the billing of Madame Hazel.

"AFTER A SHORTAGE of magicians we have had the Great Lester, Jud Cole and Evans Brown in the last two weeks." Infos Trebor, of Allentown, Pa., "Swastika Magicians' Club, of Allentown, is comprised of a lively bunch of boys, and they are always pleased to welcome visiting magi."

"THE RUSH SEASON is over in Boston as far as magicians are concerned," writes Herbert A. Taylor, clown magician and entertainer. "Talking about magicians, we have so many here in one hotel that all the agents have to do is call the hotel and just say 'send me a magician.' We have Mora, Jan Hoogart, Prevett, Dorane, Larry Grey and Marco all stopping at the same hotel. It looks like a convention. All were busy over the holidays. I had my one-ring circus at the Flens store here the month of December."

KNOXVILLE MAGICIANS entertained mysterious Howard at the Stratford Hotel, Knoxville, during his recent engagement in that city. Among those who attended the affair were Jewell Watson, Everett Lawson, Cludio, Claude (Slick) Eason, George Brown, George Graber and Freddie Lewis.

EDWIN J. JORDAN, magician and mentalist, formerly of Franklin, Tenn., is now associated with Jeanne DeBord in producing beauty shows at theaters thru Kentucky and Tennessee.

HARRY BLACKSTONE is current this week at the Princess, Nashville, and the local magi are making his stay a pleasant one with a round of after-theater parties.

DARWIN THE MAGICIAN closed five weeks of indie vaude dates at the Liberty Theater, Marlette, Mich., January 15 with his magic, Punch and vent act.

WINTON THE MAGICIAN opens this week at the Palace of Wonders, Baltimore, for a two weeks' engagement.

ROBERTA AND MARION, kiddie magicians and daughters of Robert J. Byron, Philadelphia attorney, presented their full show at the Oak Lane Review Club, North Philadelphia organization, January 11. Approximately 250 club women of Philadelphia and vicinity witnessed the girls' performance and termed it one of the best shows ever given at the club.

WILLIAM J. (BILL) HILLIAR, general representative for Thurston's Mysteries of India, shops from Owensboro, Ky., under date of January 19: "We are really and truly making money, which is the greatest magical stunt of all times with conditions as they are. Harry Thurston is really putting the thing over big. I have cut the show down to run within an hour and it is now 100 per cent perfect. At the Capitol Theater, Bowling Green, Ky., last Monday we actually turned 'em away and had to refuse money, which was a terrible blow. Our mutual friend, Joe Sibielt, who lives there, was invited on the stage by Harry and a 'great time was had by all.' We are booked up until January 31."

SIXTY-TWO MEMBERS of the Chicago Assembly, SAM, and their friends motored to Doners Grove, Ill., last week, to see the full-evening show of their past president, Eugene Laurant. Latter played the Doners Grove High School Auditorium with a show lasting one hour and a half. He featured The Doll House and The Drum That Can't Be Beaten, covering the stage at the finish with silks produced from the drum. Following the show, a dinner was given in honor of Laurant and his company at one of the local restaurants.

BEATRICE HUNTLEY, radio performer, has joined up with Frye & Company, magic act. She is furnishing the musical portion of the show.

INEZ BLACKSTONE has joined Henry the Great as booking representative on the Florida tour.

With the Mentalists

MYSTIC OHOMA is playing thru the Indiana territory with his company, and reports business as satisfactory. He has just added to his unit Leon Anderson, advertising manager; Wanda Hunly, specialties; Eddie Lisher, comedian; Harold Stanley, steel guitar; Paul Carmony, guitar. Ohoma's wife, Rilla, and young son are also with the show. Company played the New Broadway Theater, Fort Wayne, last week, booked thru the Calcutta Producing Company.

CHARLES NAGLE is playing a series of church and club entertainment dates thru Southwestern Connecticut.

PRINCESS ZELDA and Prof. Johnston opened an indefinite engagement at the

Curley Steed, wife of Billy Steed, comedian, is confined in Ward C-2, General Hospital, Cincinnati, where she has undergone a major operation. She'll be there at least two more weeks and friends are urged to drop her a cheery note. . . . They tell us that Chuck Morrison, tenor, has quit the Henry Frather show to join Fred Hurley at the Gayety, Louisville. . . . Bobby and Rex Wales opened Sunday at the Gayety, Baltimore. They jumped in there from Chicago, where Bobby had been working the Bohemian Club, and Rex, the Star & Garter. . . . Jack King, straight and comedian, after working for a time with the various oprys in Dayton, O., has pulled into Cincy. He'll be around the big town for at least a week. . . . In the east of Rube Fulkerson's O'Brien Sisters Revue, currently touring the Southland, are the O'Brien Sisters, Bernice Snyder, Pat Kelley, Baby Janice, Fulkerson and Wagner and the Aristocrats, stage band. . . . For those who have sent in news items and failed to see them in print—remember that The Billboard does not use any communications unless signed by the sender. . . . J. Y. Lewis, who was business manager of the Coast Theater, Honolulu, has given it up and has quit his partnership with Irene West. Miss West will continue the management of the colored revue playing that house. . . . Joy Theater, Oklahoma City, operated by Tol Teeter and managed by J. L. Greenwald, is clicking with its tab-talk policy. The Billboard representative there reports. In the east are Kenneth Cantrell, Les Dunn, B. Prester, Ruth Parks, Arthur Jackson, Red Johnson, Ralph and Marie Pullon. There are 14 girls in line and a five-piece ork on the stage. . . . The Hotel Korman, Baltimore, continues to operate with the same manager and personnel, contrary to a recent report that the place had been boarded up for good. . . . The Reno, Oklahoma City, is playing occasional stage shows to stimulate biz. . . . The Hippodrome and Melrose theaters, Dallas, are reported to be getting a good play with tabs at pop. prices. . . . Roy and Ricca Hughes, the old vets, are working their act in Oklahoma houses. . . . The Palace, Cedarhurst, Ga., is using shows in conjunction with its regular picture programs. . . . Jack Roof is finding it a tough task changing the policy of the Majestic, Fort Wayne, from a burly to tab. Saturday midnight and Sunday performance draw well, but the balance of the week is not so hot. The Roof cast includes Jack Roof, Dick Hulst, Charabelle Roof, Johnny O'Hara, Billy Crook, Marie Avalon, Kane and Harris and Percy and Covan. Chories are Thelma Terubush, Bobbie Terubush, Alvia DeGara, Jean Bennett, Maxine Joyce, Bert Menhling, Leona White, "Toots" Crook, Vic Garrett and Dorothy Warner. . . . MINSTRELSY

(Cincinnati Office)

HARRY C. SHUNK, veteran minstrel star, formerly for 18 years with the Al G. Field show, has vanished from his usual haunts in the State House in Columbus, O., due to the recent change of administrations. For the last six years Shunk has been clerk in the State's law offices under two attorneys-general. The result of the last election cost him his position. In addition to his trouping with the Field show, Shunk was for six years with the Dumonts in Philadelphia, and later was featured in vaudeville. He also spent a season with Shubert's Red Tupper, and doubled for Heath, of McEntire and Heath, when the latter was unable to play for six months. Shunk was the subject recently for Karl B. Pahl's Mostly About People column in the Ohio State Journal.

LEON LONG, whose Happy Days Colored Minstrels were cured to play in Long Beach, Calif., during the month of February, has canceled the stand, because, as Long explains, of the many free radio shows in that city. The company is currently playing out of Fresno, Calif., while the show's transportation equipment is being repainted and repaired. Recent additions to the company are Edick Inman, George W. Clay and Lewis McClain.

THOMAS H. NABB turned out a good job of directing the Black and White Minstrels presented January 11, 12 and 13 by the Men's Forum of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Fall River, Mass. William G. Marsden was interlocutor, and Albert Riley saw to it that the boys put on the burnt cork properly.

MACK & LONG'S New Idea Minstrels opened on the Butterfield Time at Benton Harbor, Mich., January 21 with a two-day engagement, with other Butterfield stands to follow. There has been some confusion as to just who are the owners of the New Idea Minstrels. In reply Jack Long says that he and Mr. Mack (Mack & Long) are the solo owners and producers.

"DO YOU REMEMBER," writes that old veteran, Buck Leahy, "when Bertrand Robinson was a bellhop at the Brown-Palace Hotel, Denver . . . when Howard Lindsay was with a rep company under Evans . . . when Harry Von Tilzer wrote It Ain't Going To Weep No More . . . when Tom Mix and Arthur Hursan stole a keg of beer on Tom Wiedeman's Kit Carson Wild West Show . . . when Al that first told the three-legged stool joke . . . when E. A. (Abe) Blatt was office boy for the optimistic and symphonic Channing Pollock . . . when Fred Daller and Ray Dion played Newport, N. Y., with Dan Fitch's Minstrels. . . when Ben Bernie and Phil Baker did a two-act in vaudeville . . . when Harry LaToy did nine shows a day at Austin & Stone's, Boston . . . when B. A. Rolfe played cornet in the Majestic Theatre Orchestra, Utica, N. Y. . . when Bill Hart sang illustrated songs at Duff's Globe Theater, Pawtucket, R. I. . . when Hugh Harry (Doc) Richard was with Gus Sun's Tom show . . . when Julian Mitchell was stage manager with Charles H. Wright's Texas Steer . . . when Enrico Baccelli was considered the premiere juggler of the 20th century . . . when Charles Doble trouped with the DeRue Bros' Minstrels . . . when George Price and Lila Lee were with Gus Edwards' Song Repus . . . when Herbert Swift had the band on the Welsh Bros' Circus . . . when Charlie Siegrist was with the Charles Lee London Circus . . . when Fred Daller was a barrel jumper . . . when Roy Leon Hart and Aug Kanvera did a comedy acrobatic act with the DeRue Bros' Minstrels and when Jess Bullock was with the Pawnee Bill Wild West?"

ST. MICHAEL'S BROTHERHOOD, of Bristol, R. I., presented its fourth annual minstrel show January 23 and 24. Fred G. Dietz was again the director this season, while Rev. Anthony A. Parshley served as interlocutor.

NMP&FA Notes

By Robert Reed, Secretary
1879 East 82d St., Cleveland, O.

Writing in from Louisville, former Vice-President "Hi-Brown" Bobby Burns advises that he has several home talent minstrel shows booked for the 1933 season. Just evidence that minstrel inter-tribe lives on, states Bobby. . . . Welcome into membership this week is extended to C. N. Laymon, of San Francisco, enrolled by Western States Vice-President Sam Griffin. With a revival of business and employment more new members will be enrolled from that area, writes Mr. Griffin. . . . Jimmy Daley, writing from his outpost at Bangor, Me., states that the rugged coast territory will be the real thing for minstrel presentations this coming season. Jimmy migrated from Kentucky more than a year ago and will be remembered as the distributor of souvenirs at our first annual convention at Cincinnati. Altho he is now operating a string of dance halls, he remains loyal to his first love, Minstrelsy. . . . Glad to hear from Cleveland Williams, of the General Staff Schools at Fort Leavenworth. Mr. Williams keeps the spirit of Minstrelsy alive in the Kansas area and is one of our earliest members, having become interested in our association thru the medium of his old-time pal and friend, Colonel C. C. Sturtevant, of Dallas. . . . Ned Cleveland is keeping the fires of Minstrelsy aflame at Fitchburg, Mass. Rattling the bones as in the days of yore, writes Mr. Cleveland. . . . Thank you, George R. Guy, for the photograph forwarded to headquarters some time ago. We are happy to note your kindly interest in the minstrel association. Likewise, we are pleased with the receipt of greetings from that hustling minstrel warrior, Byron Gush and his Seldom-Seen Minstrels. This boy is certainly spreading the gospel of Minstrelsy thruout the land. . . . Mack and Mack, those minstrel boys of yesteryear, are both recuperating from a long siege of illness and we are delighted to note an early and effective restoration of former good health. . . . Again a reminder to our members and friends: Why not write that letter to a sick friend today? "Happy" Bonway is back at the NVA Lodge, and a letter to him will help along mightily and speed along that recovery of good health. . . . Eastern States Vice-President Paul Don-levy, better known as Sharon's Singing Fireman, has been confined to his home for several weeks with an attack of the flu. This is the portly fireman's second dose this season.

The "weak sisters" among the Loop's plays keep slipping, as is the wont of weak sisters. Like their human counterparts, they have many admirable qualities: they're likable, sometimes clever and seemingly have the requisites of success, but somehow their weaknesses—financial, managerial and what not—will crop out, and it isn't long until they're on the toboggan. A quartet of this variety inhabits the Loop at the present moment unless one or more of them have had a sudden relapse and have expired without warning—a possibility not at all remote. There is Guy Bates Post in The Play's the Thing, for instance; and Helen Morgan in Show Boat; also Thomas W. Ross in The Family Upstairs. All three contain a lot of excellent entertainment, but all have organic weaknesses of one sort or another that has militated against them. Not one has been a financial success, and shows can't linger long unless the coin flows into the box office in a fairly liberal stream. Shoestring production probably is the chief cause of failure. Limited capital necessitates drastic economies and all too often the economies are exercised in the places where they can be least afforded. The courage of producers who attempt to bring back the drama on extremely limited bank-rolls is to be admired, but the mortalities among such ventures are discouraging. Of the three aforementioned, the first closed Saturday night, the second runs another week, and The Family Upstairs can't last long as business now is going. And over on the west side of the Loop the recently organized Chicago Opera Company is struggling along in the insular sepulcher of opera, giving acceptable performances, but having a difficult time attracting a sufficient number of people to pay the army of performers, musicians, stagehands and other employees. And with the "house" taking the first 40 per cent, the outlook for the sponsors of the venture is not so rosy.

New policies in keeping with the times are being inaugurated by some of the leading night life spots. Most of them long ago knocked off the cover charge except on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, but they relied on the sale of ginger ale at an exorbitant price to yield a nice profit. Now, however, we read: "8150 minimum, ginger ale free" or "All you can drink, including admission, $2.50." Maybe there's a catch in it somewhere, but it sounds inviting!

Horace Sletare, who is handling publicity for The Family Upstairs, must be credited with putting over a smart piece of exploitation. He has had cards placed in 3,180 street cars offering a free trip to the Cort Theater to any person presenting a street-car transfer at the box office and purchasing a full-rate ticket to the show. For every such transfer presented two street-car tokens are given in exchange. It's a good stunt!

Bonstelle Civic, Detroit, Will End Season March 15

DETROIT, Jan. 21.—Going to a Monday opening from Fridays, following the three-day extension of the run of Ticket-of-Leave Man, starring Fritzel Schoff, the Bonstelle Civic Theater is now scheduled to close about March 15. Elen Gray and Allyn Gillyn are co-starring in the current production of Bridal Wise, a play new to Detroit. Others in the current cast include Arthur Davison, Amy Loomis, Paul Stephenson, William Merrill, Ralph Mason, Alenworth Arnold, Francis Compton, Eugenie Chapel, Kinan Matus, Alan Handley and Helen Ray.

Blanche Yurka comes to the Civic Monday as guest artist in The Firebrand. Following this, Miss Yurka will take the lead in the revival of The Merchant of Venice, planned by Robert Henderson, managing director, as the principal production of the season.

The remaining season of the Civic will include the following productions: Whistling in the Dark, opening February 8; premiere of Alexander Franklin's Respectability by Knight, February 13; Shaw's Captain Brassbound's Conversion, February 20, and the John Van Druten comedy, There's Always Juliet, February 27. Two other productions of the Civic will include another Shaw play, the third of the season, Great Catherine, and the Insen revival of Hedda Gabler. Violet Kemble Cooper and Martha Graham have been booked for lead roles during the remainder of the season.

Murder Jury Is Selected

LIVINGSTON, Tex., Jan. 21.—Selection of a jury to try Durrell Kendall, Mississippi youth, for the alleged murder of Mrs. Martha Smith in the Lou Brownlee tent theater at New Caney, Tex., in December, 1931, was completed Monday, and the trial is now under way. Kendall has been tried for the Lou Brownlee murder and acquitted. The woman and Brownlee were found beaten to death in their tent and were discovered by citizens attracted by the cries of a starving parrot.

Newspapers Defend Showboat

MEMPHIS city officials came in for a neat lambasting in the form of editorials appearing in both The Memphis Evening Appeal and The Memphis Press-Scimitar last week, in which the press scored Mayor Watkins Overton and Commissioner Sam Jackson for their activities to prevent Capt. J. W. Menke's Hollywood Showboat to play longer than a week's engagement in the Memphis harbor.

Both officials were severely criticized by the newspapers for the lame excuses advanced by them to keep the floating theater from giving Memphis its only "fresh" entertainment. It seems that the pair couldn't get together on their excuses for barring the boat. Commissioner Jackson was satisfied to give as his alibi the crowded condition of the Memphis harbor, while Mayor Overton, altho a bit more frank, supported his actions by dragging forth again that inane and time-worn gag of the boat "taking money out of town, and that the local theaters must be protected."

He failed to mention, however, anything about the money which the showboat players spent during their three weeks' stay in Memphis preparatory to the opening. Neither did he mention what becomes of the money that is taken in at the local picture emporiums. From outward appearances the action against the showboat came as the result of pressure brought by the picture people, altho both officials deny that such is the case.

In commenting on the situation The Memphis Evening Appeal stated, in part: "It now develops, after a week of 'stalling' and inane excuses, that the real reason for refusing more than a week's permit to the Hollywood Showboat was Mayor Overton's desire to protect 'home industry.' . . . The Hollywood has been playing about a week. It has been here about a month. During that time crew and cast have spent considerable money in Memphis. . . . The boat's owner had to spend a neat sum meeting the demands of Memphis' many inspectors. The showboat will probably leave as much money here as it takes away—not forgetting the three months' license fee which the city got under false pretenses. . . . What the mayor and the city commission really ought to do is to attend a showboat performance. It is ventured that they would enjoy the first hearty laugh they've had since that fateful day of December 15, when somebody stuck a gluey hand into the city's cash till."

The Memphis Press-Scimitar touches upon still other good points in support of the showboat. It says, in part: "To begin with, no one will patronize the showboat that doesn't want to. So Mayor Overton's position is one of telling the people where they can spend their money. . . . As a matter of fact, the people who come down town have to come in one of three ways—by foot, street car or by automobile. If they walk they wear out shoe leather and help the merchants. If they ride street cars they help pay salaries to motormen and conductors. If they come in an automobile they use that much gas and wear out tires. Besides, they may do a little window shopping and buy something the next day. . . . The mayor is looking thru the small end of a telescope. What Memphis needs is amusement. It needs to have money spent by those who can afford it."

The Memphis officials have aroused the displeasure of the Memphis theatergoers by their action against the Menke boat. It is not too late for them to get out from behind the eight-ball. They can do this by doing their own thinking instead of letting somebody else do it for them and by rescinding their order against the Hollywood Showboat and giving it the same fair break they themselves would expect. Our hat is off to the two Memphis newspapers for their unbiased support in favor of the floating theater.

Radio Is Show Business

WEEK before last The Billboard carried an exclusive story regarding the situation on the Coast wherein thousands of patrons are lured to radio broadcasting studios to attend a free show. Since then other theatrical papers have also carried stories on the situation, which is a serious one for Hollywood and Los Angeles theaters, yet additional "free shows" at the expense of theater patronage continue to develop, with the theaters in question apparently being unable to do anything about it.

Paradoxically enough, at least one studio that produces motion pictures is also the scene of some of the free radio shows. Which gives further credence to the saying "radio IS show business." Warner Brothers' studio is the spot where two big broadcasts originate weekly, the studio being large enough to accommodate most any size crowd. On Sunday night Station KFWB, the Warner studio, presents "Hi-Jinks," and on Wednesday night the "Big Show." When the Warner theater, the Western, Hollywood, was dark between pictures broadcasts originated on the stage, and there was no admission charge.

Whether the situation be regarded as pathetic or beneficial, radio is seen to be definitely linked to the motion picture industry, not only in the use of radio stars for picture material, or on the stage as attractions, but even to the extent of being a component part of a routine not exactly concerned in either the making of or selling pictures to the public. Radio has angled itself into every form of the show business and made itself felt in ways exclusive of merely hurting the former strong patronage. It now remains for the rest of the show business to find as many ways and means to utilize radio for its own particular benefit. Apparently Warner Brothers find that radio is a help to them in one way or another.

When will the legit theaters awake to the fact that bathtub is the order of the day? Even sausage companies and cake manufacturers indulge in some sort of grandiose advertising, via the radio, but legitimate dramatic manufacturers persist in hiding their wares under the proverbial bushel basket. Anyone walking along streets lined by legit theaters cannot help realizing that the present method of advertising the attractions is insufficient. Lobbies are seldom, if ever, well lit, and the majority of theaters in the daytime look like so many morgues.

Making More From Less

AT LONG last, after many abortive attempts, legit managers are beginning to reduce admissions. Around New York of late there have been sweeping reductions. There are, of course, such tragedies as that of "Girls in Uniform," a fine production, which lowered immediately after opening to a $2 top and then folded the following Saturday anyhow; but the fact remains that the wholesale experiments with lower charges have proved that, in general, such lowering benefits the coffers of the managers concerned.

It is only natural that it should be so. The public has very little money to spend on amusements, and the amusement industry must face that fact squarely. It is hard, in the legitimate, to lower established scales, what with wages socked in by stagehands, and the prices of actors and productions. But an attempt must be made. It is the only way to avoid the rise of a generation unversed in the ways of the stage. The young folks of today have been educated to pictures, and the legitimate's only hope is to fix things so that they may again become educated to the stage. The only way to do that is to lower prices.

Those scattered Sunday benefits which have thus far been run at reduced prices for the Stage Relief Fund have also shown the way. The combination of Sunday shows and low prices has drawn in the patronage to a far greater degree than the same shows drew on regular nights. "Dangerous Corner," a case in point, drew more money on its Sunday benefit at $1.50 top than it did on its average regular performance when a $3.30 top was in force.

The Sunday show angle, of course, is another reason for the increased patronage. Sunday shows, incidentally, would be another and powerful way of winning the younger generation away from their habitual movies and allowing them to see once more what the inside of a legitimate theater looks like.

Movie exhibitors will doubtless find it profitable to take the cue from broadcasting stations in cutting down on allotted advertising talk. The use of trailers in announcing coming presentations is an excellent practice, but it can be and is being overdone. Foreing it down the throats of movie fans in gulps of five minutes and longer may have an adverse effect. Radio listeners—who object to overmuch advertising simply switch a dial. It is possible that patrons who refuse to be annoyed with much too lengthy trailers will switch their favorite movie house.

Defends Amateur Magicians

Editor The Billboard:

My ballot for the magic merger has been in for some time. Since sending in my ballot I have read with interest the comments in The Forum. Of special interest was one from a professional magician, who objects to associating with amateur magicians. There have been others who have been giving the amateurs a rub. Such comments coming from professionals who have never been heard of should have a lot of weight.

I remember of reading that Thurston said that we owed a great deal to the amateur, who invents a great many effects, while a professional is too busy to think about new tricks. When a magic merger does come about it is hoped that the amateur will be allowed to see the face of the great professionals so that the said professionals will be able to learn a few new tricks. It seems too bad that men like Domanski, Zola, Budd and others who are content to be called amateurs would have to be denied admission to the secret halls of the convention when in all probability they know as much, if not more, magic than a lot of so-called professionals.

As for exposing the professional as being as much as the amateur. There was a professional thru these parts recently who allowed the kids to come on the stage and inspect his stuff after the show. Every kid in town knows that the "billiard ball" trick is done with a shell. The above-mentioned professional is a man whom you all know and has the ability to present magic the way it should be presented, but even he doesn't do all he can to keep the secrets of magic. It is too bad that some people read a book on magic and then call themselves magicians. It is not our fault that they call themselves amateur magicians. Professionals, please lay off amateurs as a whole and work on people who call themselves magicians!

As for the merger, I'm strong for it. Even if it does cut some people out of office. If the present presidents should die we would still have as many societies and just as good. Give us one magazine, and make that a good one, and in that put John Moholland at the head of it. One magazine will serve better than seven or eight. If you don't believe it, consider the work that The Billboard is doing. JOHN G. MACKAY. Hersey, Mich.

Save the Side Show

Editor The Billboard:

I have been around a side show, boy and man, nearly 40 years. In that time I have been performer, lecturer, grinder and manager. But never in all side-show history has this particular department of the outdoor show business been on such thin ice as at present. It is high time for side-show men to wake up and do something to save this fine old ship from being destroyed by its own hand. The average circus or carnival manager will admit that the side show has not even paid its way for several years. It just fills space on the lot or midway. Very few close the season without costing the show office money, grief and worry.

There must be a reason for this, and the reason lies within the side-show manager himself. He has broken faith with his public. I spent most of last season trying to find out what is wrong with the side-show business. I paid visits to shows in 28 States and looked over all kinds of shows, the larger circuses, truck shows, standard carnivals and many of the smaller shows. The main things that have caused the public to boycott the side show are dead banners, cheap acts, junk equipment, old worn-out illusions improperly presented; dirty, sloppy personnel, and makeshift wardrobe.

Of 18 shows reviewed 10 had a sword box, sword ladder, electric chair and a cheap pit of snakes. A 100-foot side show in Michigan had 10 banners on the front. I found one man and one woman if it doing four haywire acts. That left six dead banners.

Can you wonder at the public being sore with this kind of deal? One show had a banner of big snakes. The talker claimed they were 12 to 18 feet long. Heide I found a pit of "worms" worth about $10. One show in New York State had six banners on the front and one of the best talkers in the business making openings. There were magic, mentalist, Punch, half-and-half, edited performing monkey, and four-legged girl alive banners. The magician (?) worked a sucker box and offered slum magic for sale. The mentalist (?) worked an alive bottle Buddha outfit at 5 cents. A workingman on the show was the half-and-half. A cage with one Rhesus monkey feeding with a piece of rope was the "educated monkeys." The Punch worker used three old figures and tried to peddle gum whistles. The four-legged-girl illusion was used as a 10-cent blowoff.

A man in Georgia claimed to have "dug up an Indian mummy and child in his yard" and placed them on exhibition as the real thing (?). A store showman opened a snake illusion in a downtown store in Tennessee and claimed in his advertising that this attraction was half woman and half snake, alive and born that way.

In Canada, Mexico and Cuba it means a heavy fine to put up a fake or dead banner. It would be a blessing to the side-show business if this were the law here. However, several well-known side-show men have proved that a show of good entertaining acts can be presented and still make a fair profit.

It's up to you, Mr. Side-Show Man. Here is the only remedy left for you. Hire some good acts. Don't use a banner unless you have the act. Out out that falsifying on your front. Don't tell them you have so-and-so unless you have it. Give them a little more than you promise them. If you go into a cafe and the sign says you get ham, eggs and potatoes for four bits and they give you only eggs and potatoes and no ham, you will squawk, too. Sure you will! Let's give a good show and see if it doesn't make a difference.

25-Cent Vaude Circuit

Editor The Billboard:

Looking over a recent issue of The Billboard I saw that Philadelphia will have a 25-cent vaudeville house. I have predicted that the opening of a 25-cent vaudeville circuit would be a success. It will be recalled that some years ago theaters ran vaude for 10 and 20 cents and made money. Put on good acts, five on a bill, and I can safely say that acts cost more in those days than at present. Many will say, "We are living in a different age." That may be true. We had the phonograph to entertain in homes. The radio takes its place today, but that doesn't satisfy those who want to SEE FLESH ACTS. People also get tired of the movies.

In almost any place the 25-cent vaudeville will go over big if the proper acts are put on to make a vaudeville show.

The trouble today is, in many places, high prices to see ordinary vaudeville performances; for instance, 86 cents to see four or five acts, and what are they?

Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Chicago and many other cities used to have vaudeville theaters operated at such prices that whole families could stand. Today the situation is different and the field is open for a family circuit of vaudeville. Probably what ruined the outlying small-time vaudeville was the big fellows in the downtown districts wanting to get rid of the outlying theaters in drive the business downtown. Encouraged unions to demand higher wages to a degree the "little fellows" couldn't afford it, and what happened? They had to cut out vaudeville and run pictures. When this happened the "big fellows" were set. Apparently used the unions to work out a scheme, and it worked "fine" and today we find thousands out of work. Does it pay to demand more for something than it is worth? Wouldn't it be far better to keep the small-time houses open than have actors and others laying off? CHAS. GATMORE.

Chicago.

New Trouping for Vaude

Editor The Billboard:

I have been wondering if this has been tried out as one remedy to help poor old vaudeville. The house to charge 10-20-30 cents, top 50 cents; line up a two-hour show and let the show move by autos, using a trailer for baggage. That would cut down train fare.

The big acts could buy themselves trucks, as cars and trucks are pretty cheap now. Where the acts wanted to and were not too high-browed they could fix their own meals at tourist camps. This would mean a big saving for them.

The managers of houses could get special rates at camps in the towns for the acts, as they would know a week in advance how many cars and people that would be on the hill the coming week. You see, tourist parks of today are much better than some of the hotels were in the old days, and since the depression I think that most of the ladies have learned to cook. By doing this they could cut the cost in half and still live like kings.

How many acts today would like to be working steadily and have a dollar or two in their pockets? Cars are easily bought and by everyone trying, believe me, that thing could be done in a big way. And by giving the public something for their money you could pack them in.

You see what the circus people have done. This merger business that was put across put thousands of circus acts out of business. What did they do? They got themselves trucks, joined a truck show and went right on eating their tree squares a day. No long walks to the cars at night, where you could not sleep for the heat. No worry about missing the flag in the morning and all that stuff.

On the other hand, when our day's work is done we go out to the lunch stand or, if the wife feels like it, fix our own lunch (you know, we have a regular kitchenette in our trucks), after which we go to bed. The night watchman calls us at 5:45. We eat breakfast at 6, then step on the starter and are off to the next town in the fresh morning air, arriving never later than 9 o'clock and ready for the day.

That is what the circus people did to help themselves. Now, why don't the vaudevillians try something along those lines? I honestly believe it would pay, or else frame up companies and do a little barnstorming like we used to do in the old days. JACK RIDDLE.

Poplar Bluff, Mo.

But He Never Came Back

Editor The Billboard:

This letter is written as a warning to theater managers and merchants. A person calling himself J. E. (Jack) O'Brien called on me and mapped out a window neon sign.

Within the border he was to furnish a theater card advertisement, giving me two passes weekly to the theater and collecting $1 week for 36 weeks. I gave him $5 down, which he kept. He never delivered the sign.

He got this idea from a firm here that is putting out an electric clock, but this firm is making good on its contracts. This man, O'Brien, sold several signs here, according to the theater, and never delivered any of them, but skipped town.

His contracts represent his office to be in the Pantheon Theater Building here and if caught he should be sent to jail. Toledo. R. R. SMITH.

Best Riders' Big Horses

Editor The Billboard:

Regarding the letters in The Forum of B. L. Hill and Fred Pitkin, I must say something on the subject of ring stock of celebrated riders of the '80s and early '90s.

They surely did not ride ponies or mustangs in those days, for such light-built equines could never stand the strain of the pounding from somersaults and jumps day after day.

How often do we see a graceful forward or back somersault on a running horse today outside of May Wirth's act? William Showles had to make a jump of over 5 feet to stick gracefully on his fast-running horse, "Lightning," and his finish horse, "Beauty," was even higher. "Billy," his somersault horse, was a big Percheron, way over 15 hands high.

Josie Ashton rode a big black A. Robins. Willie Demott had two large horses when he appeared at the Academy of Music for the long run of the Country Circus under O. B. Jefferson in the very early '90s, and that was in a curb ring on the stage. So where do all these small horses fit in that Fred Pitkin speaks about? ALFRED J. MEYER. Long Branch, N. J.

Editor The Billboard:

This magic merger business sure gives me a laugh each week. Altho I am in favor of the merger, I hardly see how it could be possible, because even after a so-called merger other groups and organizations would start.

A part that sure looks cheap is the desire of some magicians to rate the amateurs. Do these fellows forget when they themselves were starting? Do they feel that just because they have been a little successful that they should consider themselves so far ahead of the poor amateur? I think that the amateur should be encouraged providing he is not just a curiosity-seeker.

I know from experience that in the last 11 years I have helped at least a dozen of those so-called amateurs, and many of them are now working with their own road shows and doing fine. Again I repeat, give the amateur a break. It sure puts this art in a very queer light when we have to keep everything to ourselves. If one is not naturally egotistical he seems to be later on. So remember we were all amateurs once ourselves. "Servamus fidei." KENNY THE MAGICIAN. New York.

Income Tax Department

By M. L. SEIDMAN

Member Tax Committee of the New York Board of Trade

This is the fourth of a series of articles by M. L. Seidman on how to prepare income tax returns that will appear regularly in these columns. He will answer all income tax questions directed to him by our readers. Questions should be addressed: M. L. Seidman, care The Billboard, 231 W. 42d street, New York City. All communications must be signed by the inquirers, but no names will be disclosed in published answers.

In the preceding article we took up the matter of personal exemptions. We there found that every unmarried person is entitled to an exemption of at least $1,000. If he is the head of a family he gets a $2,500 exemption. We also noted that the exemption for every married couple is $2,500. We concluded by saying that besides these exemptions additional amounts were allowed for support of dependents, and we reserved the explanation of the latter phase for this article.

Exemption for Dependents

We can master the rules governing exemptions for dependents in one, two, three fashions. A person is allowed $400 for each dependent. The question then is what is meant by the word "dependent"? The definition is furnished by the law. Under it two requirements are laid down: First, that the dependent be either under the age of 18 or else incapable of self-support, and, second, that the one claiming the exemption must be the chief contributor towards the support of the dependent. Let us go into these requirements a little further.

Take the first one about the age of the dependent or the incapacity for self-support. A parent supporting a 19-year-old son thru college could not, under the rule, claim the $400 exemption for support of the son, because of the limitation that the dependent cannot be over 18. Likewise, a son would not be able to claim exemption for the support of his father if his father was able to earn a living, even tho he was not in fact doing so. However, if because of some mental or physical defect, the father was incapable of supporting himself, the son could get the $400 exemption.

The second requirement, that of being the chief support, arises where more than one person is a contributor. It is not uncommon, for instance, for several of the children of a family to contribute to the support of a parent. Where that is (See INCOME TAX on page 28)

Russell Wins Breach Suit

Existence of contract with F. K. Moulton not proved, Missouri court rules

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 21.—The case of Fred K. Moulton vs. the Russell Bros.' Circus, C. W. Webb and F. M. Harvey for a breach of contract was tried at Hermann, Mo., last Friday before Judge Brewer.

After Moulton had presented his side, and the defense attorneys, Blair & Blair, of Jefferson City, had answered, the court declared that the existence of a contract had not been proved and indicated he would instruct the jury to bring in a verdict for the defense. The Moulton lawyers then voluntarily dismissed their case. The defense did not introduce any witness or any evidence, as their attorneys convinced the court there was not any contract, therefore it could not be breached. The case cannot be appealed.

Moulton, who hails from Okmulgee, Okla., exchanged wires and letters with Harvey early last spring relative to a place on the Russell advance. He did not report, the defense said, when notified and Harvey obtained the services of Harry V. Winslow, who remained the entire season.

Moulton thought the wires and letters constituted a contract and was so sure of it that he attached the Russell Circus when it exhibited in Hermann, Mo., April 28, 1932, claiming $2,800. The case could easily have been compromised then, but Webb and Harvey after a conference decided that for the good of the circus business it was best to fight the case, so they speedily arranged a bond and thereupon Moulton was required to put up a $4,700 bond to guarantee the court costs and to make good any loss and expense his suit caused the Russell Circus in case he did not make good his claim.

To Operate Under New Title, Wheeler-Almond

SALEM, Mass., Jan. 21.—Al F. Wheeler, attending meeting here Wednesday and Thursday of the Massachusetts Agricultural Fairs' Association, told The Billboard that the Wheeler & Sautelle Circus would operate as the Wheeler & Almond Circus the coming season. Jehro Almond is assistant manager and a stockholder.

Mr. Wheeler anticipates New England fair bookings for the show on par with last year. Aside from his circus interests, he said he is looking independent acts. He was the only circus man at the meeting.

Truck Show for Knisely

AERON, Jan. 21.—Russell G. Knisely, formerly of Knisely Bros.' Shows and last season agent for the Lewis Bros.' Circus, is planning to put out a one-ring truck circus next spring, to play Ohio and adjacent territory. It was learned here this week. Knisely expects to start about April 1.

Jennier Again With Dill

DALLAS, Jan. 21.—Walter Jennier and "Buddy," wonder seal, have been re-engaged with the Sam B. Dill Circus, making their third season with that show. Jennier will play the Zenobia Shrine Circus, Toledo, O., for two weeks, starting February 13. "Buddy" was a big bit at the Galveston Shrine Circus and has played a few other dates in Texas.

Baker Signs With Reed

SEBRELL, Va., Jan. 21.—Col. M. L. Baker, wife and daughter have signed with Reed's European Shows and will present aerial, contortion, wire, juggling and other numbers. Baker will have the pit show privilege. Manager A. H. Reed will have a one-ring show and will offer a number of old-time acts.

ORRIN DAVENPORT, riding comedian, who will again produce the Al Sira Grotto Circus in Cleveland. He is a member of that Grotto. Mr. Davenport also will produce the DeMalay Circus at Milwaukee, assisted by Fred Bradna, and the Shrine Circus at Detroit.

Circus Is Assured For Coliseum, Chi

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—At the present time it looks as if there might be two circuses playing in Chicago day and date next spring, although such a situation is, as yet, merely a possibility.

H. C. Ingraham has already announced that there will be a circus at the Chicago Stadium April 15 to 30. Charles Hall, manager of the Coliseum, this week let it be known that a circus also will be staged at the Coliseum. No date has yet been announced. It is understood the Coliseum show will be one of exceptional merit.

Meighan Back at Desk

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—George F. Meighan, representative of the Ringling interests, is back at his desk in the offices on Institute place after a siege of the flu.

C. T. Hunt Asks Co-Operation In Battling Tax Legislation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Charles T. Hunt, president of the Motorized Circus Owners and Agents' Association, in Washington this week, stated: "We can gain a perfect understanding of the general problem affecting motorized circuses by a study of three specific problems."

"In gaining such understanding we have only to consider three States," continued Mr. Hunt. "Take first Pennsylvania. In this State one motorized circus last year paid a State tax of $750. Motorized shows are limited to 15 days, although the State license is issued for one year. In that State each truck is classified as a railroad car, and, therefore, a small circus of 20 trucks has to pay the same license charged a railroad circus of 20 cars. The State of Vermont figures five trucks the equivalent of one railroad car. This splendid circus territory is practically closed to us because we could not possibly, in 15 days, earn enough to pay the excessive license demanded."

"Now turn to Florida. In that State, city and county licenses are $25 per day each, and the State license is $50 per day. That means a license of $100 per day in the State of Florida, which owes so much to the circus. The State of Florida, because of the generosity of a great circus owner, has probably the finest art gallery in the world, and yet, to satisfy the demands of an alien moving picture industry, they are attempting to bar clean circuses by means of excessive licenses."

"Then, let us consider the State of California. In that State it is proposed

Dill Show To Open At Dallas April 1

DALLAS, Jan. 21.—The Sam B. Dill Circus will open here under auspices of the Good Sinners Club, a local charitable organization. The engagement is for a nine-day run at the State Fairgrounds April 1-9.

Work at quarters is well under way. A number of horse acts are being broken and some stock has been added since the show has been in quarters.

Rodney Harris Re-Engaged To Direct Downie Band

MACON, Ga., Jan. 21.—Rodney Harris has again been engaged as band director of the Downie Bros.' Circus and will also act as The Billboard agent. During the winter months he conducts a circus farm at his home in Longwood, Fla.

Allen Hauser, new equestrian director of the show, arrived in quarters January 11 and has started to break in a number of new menage horses and other domestic animal acts. He spent a number of years as equestrian director of the Sparks Circus and feels quite at home in Macon.

Beatty Back East

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Clyde Beatty, animal trainer, has completed his picture work on the Coast and is on his way back to Peru, Ind., to prepare for his winter circus dates.

Evansville, Ind., Items

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Jan. 21.—Frank Kenopke, of Ringling-Barnum Circus, whose home is here and who has presented his bar act for the Christmas Fund, also for Community Benefit Show, will leave in a few days to play several indoor dates in the East.

Tierney Family passed thru here en route to Linton, Ind. Playing theaters and report business very good.

Sam Head, tuba player, with Hagenbeck-Wallace the past season, is at home here.

Cambren and Albright are putting in several hours a day, working on a new comedy acrobatic act.

Huston Rhodes, on advance of Sella-Floto last season, is a visitor. His home is in Mt. Vernon, Ind.

81st Tour for Orton Outfit

W. J. Smith in charge of quarters at Minneapolis—breaking animal acts

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 21.—The Orton Bros.' Circus, which is at the quarters of Herbert E. Sailer in this city, will start its 81st annual tour this year. It never having missed a season since its inception.

Capt. Walter J. Smith, formerly with Sella-Floto and other shows and for a number of years head trainer at the Longfellow Gardens Zoo here, is in charge of quarters. With a crew he is working on trucks and will soon break a new puma act for Mr. Sailer. Smith also will break four Russian wolfhounds. The light plants are in the shop for overhauling. New equipment has been purchased, including a new wire outfit from Ed Van Wyck. Alice Marinato is having new wardrobe made for her acts, as is Grace Orton.

When the show closed in Nebraska last October, Lawrence, Grace and Nellie Orton came here; Bayard Orton went to Kansas City to play in a band for the winter; Florence and Lester Orton returned to Ortonville, Ia.; Dolly Ford went to Denver; Babe Orton (now Mrs. William Woodcock) to Hot Springs, Ark. for the winter; Miles Orton and family returned to Ortonville, Ia.; Grace Orton has a child (she was married two years ago to Vernon Liedtke); Chuck Rouke returned to Denver, Kenneth Lord and Lawrence Yule joined an orchestra for the winter; Clair Burehfield, advance agent, went to Yale, Ia.; Alice Marinato, Japanese girl, is here with the Ortons. There are 26 Ortons in the family. Maru Tokay trained all of the family.

On Christmas Day all were at the Sailer residence for dinner and received presents. Florence Orton spent a week here during the holidays, coming from Dallas Center, Ia. She is teaching school there for the winter, her second year.

The Four Ortons and their mother were here, playing the RKO house for a week and a fine time was had. They are cousins of the Ortons, of the Orton show.

Lewis Has Six Trucks, Four Semi-Trailers

SHELLMAN, Ga., Jan. 21.—Texas Ted Lewis' Wild West opened for the winter season at Sparta, Ga., after closing with Wheeler & Sautelle Circus, where Lewis had the concert for the last two years. Snow has six trucks, four semi-trailers, and is carrying 20 people and 10 head of stock.

The outfit has been playing two and three-night stands to fair business. It is the fourth winter that it has played this territory. Texas Slim Williams has the side show and Joe Rossi the band. Red Williams joined at Vienna, Ga., after closing with the Lamar Wild West on the Castle-Frlier-Hirsch Shows and is operating the cookhouse.

Riders include Buck Lee, Tom Jacoby and Al Endron. Walt Kohn is clowning and riding steers; T. F. and Dorothy Lewis are doing trick and fancy roping; Evalina Rossi is dancing and singing in spec., and Harold Long is handling the advance.

A new light plant was received at Decoto, show now having two light units. An 18-foot trailer was recently built.

Manager Lewis states that the outfit will continue to play in the South until the middle of March, when he plans to head north. It is planned to enlarge the show prior to going north.

Buffalo Bill Surrey Destroyed

With the Circus Fans

By THE RINGMASTER

CFA

President, HARPER JOY, 425 Riverside Ave., Spokane, Wash.
Secretary, W. M. BOCKINGHAM, Thomas Bank, Newish, Conn.
Editor, E. KNECHT, Box 278, Evansville, Ind.

Programs of the Berlin, Germany, Wintergarten play up the Codonas. A number of CFA receiving the programs value them.

We might suggest to the James E. Cooper District of Columbia CFA Top that its band, the first CFA Top or tent to have a band, play The CFA March, written by Merle Evans and dedicated to the CFA.

The CFA has lost another good member in Hagerstown, Md., in the death of William W. Barr, CFA No. 229, aged 51, after a brief illness of pneumonia following an attack of grippe. He was always a great friend of the circus and a real CFA. Harry Bester, another old-timer CFA, passed away there a few months ago. His mother and one sister survive.

Clint Beery, 4349 North Ashland Avenue, Chicago, former CFA president, has issued a neat 16-page booklet of some of his poems that pertain to the circus. It is titled Circus Chapter in Verse. The booklets will appeal to all.

We have heard that John Wells, movie actor and a member of the CFA, has passed away, but have no details at this time.

We regret very much to announce that K. Wells, of Divinity road, Oxford, England, has passed away. He was a real circus fan and was more interested in our circuses than those of his country. He read The Billboard and White Tops faithfully and often contributed notes or English circuses. He corresponded with many fans and circus folk. He died January 7.

Louis Latta, a charter CFA member, has resigned as manager of the Green Day Lumber Company at Indianola, Ia., a position he has held for 17 years. He plans to go with his wife and son, Bobby, to California some time after February 1. Louis will be missed in Indianola by citizens and visiting circus folk alike. Many a good deed he has staged for circuses. He staged local circuses on several occasions. Louis is a great judge of horse flesh.

Members of the James E. Cooper Top, CFA, are delighted that circus executives visiting Washington, D. C., are availing themselves of the offices that have been set aside for them to use while transacting business in the nation's capital. Recently William J. Conway, contracting agent of the Ringling Show, was there and was in conference with the various people who supply lot, feed, groceries, etc., for the Big Show. This room is well equipped to transact all business and a stenographer and typist are available.

Circus people visiting Washington will be welcome at Suite 713, Evans Building. Recent visitors included Charles T. Hunt Sr., with his sons, Charles T. Jr. and Harry; Al Butler, of the Ringling Show; Jimmy Gallagher, batsman of Downie Bros. Circus, and Jerome T. Hartman, general agent of same show. The Top is in receipt of a letter from James W. Davidson, of Vancouver, B. C., requesting photos of the interior of the clubrooms, same to be used as a model for the decorations of the Jerry Mugivan Top of Vancouver. John Landes has completed an artistic job in decorating the walls of the rooms with circus posters and photos of circuses, performers and executives. Melvin D. Hildreth, Harry A. Allen, Col. Jack Beck, John Landes and Rex M. Ingham are on hand daily to meet visitors and help them transact business. The Cooper Top Band is coming along nicely. Ted Smith is drilling the band in true military style. Recent additions to the roster include Dr. William M. Mann, glockenspiel, and Charles Mander, bassoon.

Lucky Boys to Europe

KENDALLVILLE, Ind., Jan. 21.—The Lucky Boys, acrobats, returned here this week from a Western trip. They announced that they will sail soon for Europe, being under contract for a nine-week tour. They will open in Glasgow, Scotland, following with several cities in England and then a three-week engagement in Paris.

Law, Dot Nelson in Vaude

MEMPHIS, Jan. 21.—Law and Dot Nelson, formerly with circuses, move recently on RKO Time, played last week at the Suzore Theater No. 2. On the bill with them were the Aerial Blacks and the Harrison Sisters. Nelson did several of his best strong-man stunts outside the theater each night.

Peru Gleanings

PERU, Ind., Jan. 21.—The Rotary Club here was entertained by Ray Folts, former circus man, of Bloomington. Was guest of Jess Adkins. Topic of banquet speech was "The Circus in South America." G. H. Tarkington, CFA, of Kokomo, also a guest.

Fire at midnight in bunkhouse at circus quarters caused roof to be badly damaged.

Aerial Solts will play the Shrinie Circus at Denver. Are also contracted two weeks at Los Angeles Indoors. Aerial Youngs will also play same dates.

The Riding Hodgkins (Joe and family), moving in two finely equipped house and stock trucks, left for Grand Rapids, Mich., where troupe will be featured in an indoor circus.

An experiment to increase the emu family at circus farm is being conducted by Jess Adkins and farm attaches. Female bird resembling ostrich, lacking tail plumes, laid egg past week. Owing to scarcity of birds in United States, local hatchery with electrical incubation has been enlisted in effort to hatch same. The emu lays only four eggs at 10-day intervals, weighing one and one-quarter pounds, and about the size of a man's double fists.

Helen Adkins, daughter of Jess Adkins, returned to St. Mary's College, South Bend, Ind., after visiting parents.

Van's Dog and Pony Show gave an exhibition in Wabash (Ind.) downtown streets January 14 under auspices Wabash Business Men's Association.

Paul M. Lewis Returns From Booking Trip

TOLEDO, Jan. 21.—Paul M. Lewis has returned from a booking trip and has lined up three weeks starting the middle of February, auspices of Knights of Columbus. This will finish his indoor schedule until the middle of April, as the show cannot play under Catholic organizations until after the Lenten period.

Mrs. Lewis has returned from Havana and advises that conditions there are not so hot.

Harry LaPearl and wife, also Shorty Seydel, will again join the show after playing the Shrine engagement in Toledo for Ben Groenewold. Finky and Bessie Hollis will remain, also Billy Winters and Sammy Waterfield in clown alley. Mike and Marge Garner will play engagements with the indoor show, as will the Four Harters.

The Flying LeRoys are practicing a number two act. Will play the indoor engagements and will also be with the canvas show. Miss Rittenhouse has recovered from a broken arm and will again present single traps and iron-jaw numbers. Capt. Victor Cody will join, doing a Western novelty turn.

Jack Slight, the Napoleon, O., strong boy, will remain with show. Red Munroe has everything in quarters in tip-top shape. Aimee Allaire is practicing his feature juggling act. Willie Bailey is training the stock at the barns. He will work the Liberty horses at all dates. Alex Hopkins has recovered from his recent illness and is daily exercising the stock. Sammy Rhinehart is in Peru, Ind., for a brief visit and will return to the show next week.

North Little Rock Briefs

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 21.—The business manager of the Veterans Administration Hospital here is George H. H. Pratt, who in his time held several responsible executive positions with the big tops. He is known to the show world as "Doc" Pratt and made his start as a candy butcher with the original Barnum Show.

Jack Orlsby, who has been a patient at the V. A. Hospital, is bidding his time until the opening of the season. He has signed to take charge of the dining car with the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus.

Hi Tom Long received his discharge from the V. A. Hospital January 14 and is now back at the Spa Hotel, Hot Springs.

Capt. Arthur Gurley, animal trainer of the cat species, who has been a patient at the V. A. Hospital for several months, is looking forward to his discharge soon. His last engagement was with the John Francis Shows, where he was owner of the animal show.

Belgian Show May Close

BRUSSELS, Jan. 18.—In spite of excellent and varied programs offered at the Cirque Royal this big indoor circus is playing to such meager houses that the management is considering closing or changing entirely its present policy of bills featuring high-grade circus and menagerie acts.

Concerning Ringling And Other Showfolk

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—Bill Roddy and brother George blew in last week from the Middle West. Bill entertained the Nagle family, the writer and Chester Pietras with a box party at the Holly-wood Fox Theater, and in turn Ed Nagle gave a Bill Roddy night at the Nagle Mansion here.

On January 15 Ed Nagle gave a swimming party at Venice to several of the visiting showmen and after the party was over they ran into Nels Lawsten.

The writer and Sam Meyers were recent guests of Ben Piazza at a luncheon given on the lot at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios.

Col. Richard Eddy gave a circus muligan party at his home here January 16. Clyde Beatty was to be the guest of honor, but at the last moment he was detained on the lot with the picture he is making. Party was composed of Peter Ermatinger, Mr. Tait (no relation to Whittie), Ed Nagle, Chester Pietras and the writer.

The writer hears that there is soon to be a "Mabel Day"; that is, all the Mabels who ever were in show business are to be assembled and Mabel Stark and Mabel Crammons are to lead the grand march.

Ed Nagle, retired showman, is busy these days in making life worth while for dumb animals. On his large real estate holdings he is building a modern dog kennel and an elaborate cattery. Mark Kirkendall, Charley McMahon and Jerry Mugivan's brother, Charley, are daily visitors at the Nagle home, and Donald Gordon paid him a visit last week.

The Hart Brothers and McStay are soon to go east. John Ager is in the East on business. The other day the writer met Charley Smith, former boss animal man, and he asked relative to John Patterson, so if John sees this write to Charley at the Selig Zoo in Los Angeles.

Met Mrs. Bert Eulica. Since Bert passed on she has managed and carried on the many interests in which he was active. STANLEY F. DAWSON.

Here and There

CLARENDON, Va., Jan. 21.—Chet Morris, magician, is again working schools in the South after a layoff, visiting his wife's people at Round Mountain, Ala. Chet is presenting a two-hour program.

Chief Running Elk and family will be with the Hunt Circus, presenting their tribal songs and dances.

Jack Shelley, aerialist, is superintendent of construction at Joyland, Philadelphia.

Billy Gee, former Wild West performer with King Bros.' Rodeo and other shows, is now a member of the Washington (D. C.) Fire Department. Is also drum major of Vincent Costello Post Drum and Bugle Corps of the American Legion.

Hunt's Circus furnished a number of acts for California Frank's Rodeo at Carlin Park, Baltimore. They included Charles T. Hunt Jr., with his single traps; Five Riding Hunts, featuring Welby Cooke, and Sydney, the Australian wonder horse.

Willy Carr, 24-hour man with the Ringling Show, is vacationing at Miami, Fla., with Mrs. Carr. Will again be with the Big One.

John Landes, bass player, has opened a novelty business in Washington, D. C. William Macy, superintendent of the Hunt Circus, has returned to Joyland, Philadelphia, after a visit with his folks in Massachusetts.

Ralph Luna, formerly with the Allen Bros.' Wild West, Sells-Fieto and other circuses, is playing trombone with the VFV Band, Washington, D. C.

New license laws of Alexandria, Va., are $50 a day or $250 a week for circuses, carnivals and menageries; small truck shows, $25 a day.

Texas Joo, roper and whip cracker, last season with the Walter L. Main Show, is in charge of building operations at the quarters of the Hunt Circus, Pikesville, Md. Has just completed a beautiful new cage for "Big Bob," featured member of Hunt's performing lions. REX M. INGHAM.

Circus Saints and Sinners

Recent members taken into the Dexter Fellows Tent are Clarence Chamberlin, world-renowned flyer, and James G. Ströbridge, whose grandfather and father were known throught the world as great circus lithographers. In handing in his application and check, Mr. Ströbridge said: "I consider it a great privilege to join your organization. I have attended several of your luncheons and while I belong to many clubs I know of none to equal the good fellowship, the clean fun and the serious purpose which your club fosters."

The W. W. Workman Tent held a business meeting last Friday night on the State fairgrounds in Richmond, Va. Local President Charles A. Somma presided and among matters discussed were the new constitution and by-laws being drafted by Senator J. J. Wicker and the report of the building committee. A cookhouse meal was served and entertainment provided by local talent. National President Charley Moss spoke feelingly about 1933 plans, outstanding among them being the Home for Old Troupers.

Frank V. Baldwin Jr. sent us the following notes: Hester Weems' cousin, Ted Weems, has his band at the Pennsylvania Hotel in New York. All CSSCA in Wheeling were guests at the New Year's dance at the Belmont Country Club, St. Charlesville, O. The old Annie Oakley Tent is not quite ready to announce the opening of its new clubrooms. We thank Arthur Dufort for the billiard table and Winifred Money for the Frigidaire. V. L. Redford, CSSCA of Virginia, of the Rappahannock River country district, expected in New York this spring. F. P. FITZER, Natl. Secy.

West Coast Jottings

VENICE, Calif., Jan. 21.—W. A. (Curly) Phillips, clown with the Al G. Barnes Circus for a number of years, was called home January 12 to Ipava, Ill., on account of the death of his mother. He will return to the Coast.

Arthur and Marie Henry Duo, Roman rings, perch and contortion, are playing vaude dates in and around Los Angeles. They will again troupe with a truck show.

Toby Welle, manager of the Three Kirbies, is busy these days lining up fair dates. Toby's partner of a few years back, Napoleon Montamba, was a recent visitor at the club.

Jimmie DeVoe, custodian, thinks it will be soft for him if the indoor dates hold out for a long period of time. His one big wish is that all members get a route that will keep them busy until the close of 1933.

Charles Deliven is very anxious to learn the date of the party to be held (See Peeping In on opposite page)

A NUMBER of cities of the West could have winter indoor rodeos.

STILL IN DOUBT: Whether there will be a big one-night-stand Wild West this year.

THE LUNSFORDS, Pee Wee, Red and Irena, are still working vaude dates in and out of Cincinnati.

BUCK WIEGAND is spending the winter at Corpus Christi, Tex., where he is training some high-school horses and taking the kinks out of some bronks.

HANK FARRIS has been working theater dates in Oklahoma and Texas during the fall and early winter, last week at Beaumont. Stated he was leaving for Florida for remainder of the cold months.

FANS OF "Cow Town" (Fort Worth) are looking forward expectantly to there being another thrilling show and heavy attendance at this year's Rodeo in connection with the Pat-Stock Show in March.

TEN YEARS AGO this winter Bee Ho Gray and the missus, Ada, and daughter, Dorothy, and "Onion," their beautiful white horse, were prominent with the Shubert McIntyre & Heath Red Pepper show. By the way, same winter Charlie Aldridge was with the Fred Stone Top show.

MANY RODEO FOLKS having been at the Calgary (Alta.) Fair met Chief Hector Crawler, 82-year-old Indian, who was a regular attendant at the show, was also one of the organizers of the Indian Days Celebration at Banff, Alta. Chief Crawler was recently gored to death by a cow on the Indian reserve west of Morley, Alta.

THE RODEO in connection with National Western Horse Show at Denver, Colo., got under way (January 14) to a gratifying start, was the report. Names of contestant winners, etc., later. Denver, one of the most widely known cities of the West, has come into its own as a scene of a big annual cowboys' sports event.

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (Jan. 23)—Tex McDaniel and his long-horn steer visited here last week, en route to Washington via New York. After parading thru the streets, Tex was off at a mile-an-hour gait astride his big mount. He started from Barker, Tex., on a long and slow trek to the East last Easter. Later, he plans to make a tour of Europe with his mount.

MABEL MACK'S Wild West and Mule Circus (Mr. and Mrs. Lyman H. Dunn) is slated to be featured with Famous Pullie Shows the coming season, with special paper in the advance billing and a crackerjack outfit. Mr. and Mrs. Dunn and several of their personnel are still winter hibernating in Wilmington, O. They motored to Cincinnati last week on a visiting and shopping trip.

WICKENBURG, Ariz.—Cowboys from the rangelands of the West are pouring into this little city to prepare for the annual "Out Wickenburg Way" Rodeo, which will be staged February 3-5. The Wickenburg organization comprises Jack Burden, president; H. A. Altich, arena director; R. H. Parsons, accountant in charge of records; J. R. Williams, R. Farrington Elwell and Berkeley Wheeler, timers; L. C. White, L. Chapman, H. Warbase, W. Lockie and A. O'Brien, parade committee; Perry Henderson, in charge of bucking horses; Leonard Bloodworth, in charge of cattle.

SAN JOSE, Calif., "Pickups"—Tex (Gene) Howard, rodeo performer and contestant, is with the Beverly Hillbillies, of Station KTAB, Oakland, which act was here at California Theater, January 8-10. Tex did some neat roping and whip-cracking in addition to his singing. Jack Knapp, rodeo clown, was here January 9 in the role of "Sheriff" with Arizona Wranglers, of Station KNX, Hollywood. Frank Deun has returned from a two months' job as caretaker of a duck club in the San Joaquin Valley and has started to work out some new riding and roping stunts. Marco Borello, trick rider, with Al G. Barnes Circus last year, is now at his home in Madrone, Calif., breaking colts and teaching his 10-year-old son new trick-riding tricks. Agnew Shea, steer and calf roper, is among "those present" here. Art Hill and his family are back in the city, having come from Colorado Springs, Colo., where Art, bronk rider and bulldozer, was training polo ponies between shows. Left here for Colorado three years ago.

AT A RECENT meeting of directors of Calgary (Alta.) Exhibition and Stampede, James B. Cross, one of the directors, was unanimously elected chairman of the Stampede committee and director in charge of the cowboy sports portion of the exhibition (fair). Mr. Cross is a son of the late A. E. Cross, who was one of the sponsors of the Stampede when it was originally staged at Calgary in 1912 and who was a very prominent ranch owner and cattle man. J. B. Cross was born in Alberta and was associated with the various business enterprises of his father and since the death of the senior Cross has taken his place in the various activities his father was identified with. Mr. Richardson further informs that a very attractive prize list will be provided for the forthcoming event in July at Calgary.

TUCSON.—With Johnnie Mullins, director, and Frank Marshall, publicity manager, on the scene preparations are fast going forward for Tucson's eighth rodeo, February 18-20. The organization effected, of which most of the members are rodeo followers or old-time cowboys, includes the following: Events, J. C. Kinney, Ed Echols, Bud Parker, Art Schaffer, Howell Manning, E. J. Jinks, Jim Converse, Roland Curran and Leslie McBride; Judges, Bud Parker, Ed Echols and Johnnie Rhodes; timers, Charles V. Fowler, Lester Kinney and Eugene Shepherd. The contest events will include: Team Tying, Bronk Riding, Calf Roping, Bulldogging, Bareback Bronk Riding, Wild-Horse Race, Pony Express and Ladies' Relay Race. Pinky Gist will clown the show.

FROM JACK CASE Rodeo Attractions in Florida.—The management has experienced some strong business opposition on the part of a coterie of motion picture houses in this State, which seemed to put forth almost every unfair effort to keep the show "out of town," including at Lakeland and Ocala. The next date is at Pensacola, where prospects are very promising. Everett Hlevens, all-round hand, joined; also Stack Lee, with his shooting act, and Tommy Horner and wife, Mildred Mix—Horner as assistant arena director. Other cowboys and cowgirls with the show include Vic Blackstone, Shorty Rutledge, Speck Jones, Hudson Parker, George Arnold, Betty Case, Christine Bowman, Frances Lee, Earline Cobb, Buck Baker (and his comedy acts), Bill Freeman, George Davis, Ray Larkin, Carlton Deuber, Billy Luske. The show is moving by rail, two baggage cars. Jack Case is purchasing 40 acres of land in Central Florida, where he will establish winter quarters and exhibition park.

NOTICE RODEO CONTESTANTS

All entries for the TUCSON RODEO, scheduled for February 18, 19, 20, 1933, will post their close at 5 P.M., Friday Afternoon, February 17.

No checks will be accepted. Entries made by mail or wire will not be accepted unless accompanied by money order. No charges will be made against contestant, employee or committee man.

Payment of prizes, contracts and labor will be made at the Rodeo Grounds the following day they are due, between 8 A.M. and 11 A.M. This show pays off 100 per cent. It is underwritten by the leading business men and ranchers of the community.

ACTION OF Canadian Amateur Hockey Association in barring the Atlantic City Sea Gulls from play with teams affiliated with the Dominion League was severely criticized in Atlantic City last week by General Manager Lincoln Dickey of the Auditorium, where the Sea Gulls hold forth, and prominent hotel and amusement men. The general opinion that the Canadians are overstepping international sportsmanship boundaries seems to be prevalent.

The Canadian action was in this statement of President Frank Oreenloaf: "All branches of Canadian Amateur Hockey Association are hereby notified that no permission is to be granted to any club to play the Sea Gulls, of Atlantic City. The AAU of the United States has reported that as far as it knows the Sea Gulls are in good standing, but this is not sufficient. This takes effect immediately."

However, the USAAU, thru Secretary Dan Ferris, last week openly announced that the Sea Gulls have proper credentials and the USAAU will not interfere. The Canadian action, however, upsets Auditorium schedules, which must be rearranged. Last year the most colorful games of the season were the international, with feature acts, band playing, etc.

Mr. Dickey stated: "Action is unjust and unwarranted. Three years ago for hockey or skating in general was unknown in A. C. We have fostered junior leagues for development of players. The Sea Gulls have acted as coaches to these boys, who will some day replace them. You cannot teach a boy to skate and play hockey all within a year. We therefore chose our Sea Gulls from the best players available both in the United States and Canada. Several of the boys have made their homes here. Nearly all are working in hotels. We have built up a new attraction for winter. This is bringing visitors here. All amusements and hotels therefore share in what we started.

"I believe the entire action was inaugurated by Ontario Hockey Association, with which we have had no contact. It either does not understand what we are trying to do or has adopted a narrow-minded policy, which can only injure this game in the United States. A broader consideration of the situation, I believe, would tend to reverse this decision."

Ontario Hockey Association claims that several members jumped tracks and are now playing with the Sea Gulls. The score sheet of the Sea Gulls giving info on each player shows that Vern Tupling, Toronto, formerly played with the Marlboro Seniors, of the OHA, while "Short" Ewens and Bruce McKillop, also of the Dominion, were one time members of OHA teams. All are making first appearance with Sea Gulls.

ED NICKERSON, manager of Chateau Rink, Bangor, Me., is featuring roller racing as a means of developing public interest not only in races, but in roller skating, as an exercise and recreation. Prior to the yuletide season Mr. Nickerson introduced several minor races, but since Christmas he has mapped out a program which calls for appearances in races against local talent particularly,

He has booked Mary Graffam, Portland, favorite champion of Maine in roller speeding, for a series of races during January, February and March against both male and female opponents hailing from Eastern Maine, chiefly Bangor and suburbs. Races are to be from 1 to 15 miles. Last winter Miss Graffam was brought to the Chateau for a series against Bangor skaters of both sexes and she won all of the events. However, roller skating has caught on more in the Bangor section during the last 12 months and Manager Nickerson looks for the local love to give the State champ far stronger opposition this winter. Wally Miller, Bangor, who holds the Maine roller speed title, is to be pitted against the best in the State of his sex for distances from 1 to 25 miles in the Chateau during the winter. Mr. Nickerson reports increased interest in roller skating over last winter and he attributes much of this to activity of speed skaters and the exciting races they are offering. The only opposition from ice skating in the Bangor section is from outdoor rinks, and there is very little interest in either ice skating or hockey. There are three roller rinks in the Bangor zone, two of them featuring summer skating.

ROLLER HOCKEY, once the favorite winter sport in New England when it was known as "Roller Polo," has staged a real comeback this winter. At Infantry Hall, where "Jigger" Higgins and his Providence team play their home games, a crowd of more than 1,500 fans turned out for the opening match December 20. In the other cities having teams in the American Roller Hockey League big gates at all games have been chalked up. Providence topped the league until January 18, when Lowell took a 10-9 victory over them in an overtime session. This put Providence and New Bedford tied for first place, with Lowell, Salem and Fall River following in that order.

PERMISSION was given Canadian skaters to enter the Western Open Speed-Skating Tournament and Ice Carnival in Chicago in February by President W. E. Raughton of the Canadian organization.

WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP for ladies and pairs in figure skating will be decided in Stockholm, Sweden, on February 11-13. Efforts are to be made to secure a program of events similar to the one used by the Amateur Skating Association of Canada in its world's championship in Montreal last year.

WORD HAS BEEN received that world's speed-skating championship will be staged in Trondheim, Norway, on February 18-19, and five Americans are scheduled to compete. Present champion is Ivar Ballangrud, Norway. No Canadians entered in this contest, announced Secretary Champlain Provancher. It is announced that the European speed-skating championship will be held at Viborg, Finland, on February 4-5.

ROLLER SKATING may be restored to Wollaston Beach, Mass., for this summer.

THURSTON ALLEN, of East St. John, N. B., fancy, trick and figure skater on ice and rollers, is giving exhibitions on the ice of indoor and outdoor rinks in the eastern provinces. He is also giving instructions and coaching to pupils.

THE 7,000 square meters ice-skating rink, adjoining the Palace Hotel at Gstaad, Switzerland, is open and drawing big crowds.

SCRANTON, Pa.—Scranton and Binghamton roller-skating hockey teams may clash in home-and-home series. Fred L. Smith, manager Scranton team, negotiating with Doc K. F. Peterson, manager Paramounts, Binghamton, for matches. Paramounts may enter proposed roller-skating hockey league being pushed by Dave Gould, coach Scranton puck chasers. Women's skate events started on Scranton rink. Helen Roscoe, Scranton, claiming woman's mile championship of Northeastern Pennsylvania after defeating Ruth Smith, Scranton, January 12 in sensational finish. Two feet separated pair at tape. The three minutes, 24 seconds for mile. Arrangements under way for Scranton roller hockey crew to stage exhibition on Carbondale, Pa., rink. Harry O'Neil, State representative, who controls Scranton armory rink, also has lease arrangement at Carbondale armory. Capt. Robert Peterman is manager Carbondale rink. Crowd at Scranton rink during women's races largest of season.

NSAA Notations

in February. He likes to drive along actors' row in Chicago's Loop and tell 'em all about it. Well, Charles, tell them it is February 18.

Ernie Eckenstein is a busy man when in the club, holding the mechanic rope for various acts and debating technocracy with Willis Patrick, of Rita and Patrick.

Lawrence Lester, of the Three Kirbles, in company with Gabe Maxine, of the Four Cards act, can be seen most any time off in a corner with hot feet. Both boys shake a mean hoof.

Dr. Max Thorek, of the American Hospital, advised Alex Emery, of the Four Cards, to give himself a little rest. He did—little as possible. Alex loves his teeter board quite as well as Joe Kosher, of the Oslo Troupe, loves his pie and cake.

Recent visitors at the club: Roy Barrett, Ed Leady, Mrs. Arthur Mann, Paul Aremanto and Hazel Cotto.

Keep at it, Arthur Mann Jr. You are making good the way you hand out the cats on Tuesday evenings!

Pearle and Griffin must have a date in view. See them in the clubroom daily spinning around on the pin wheel. Would some one please suggest they have Louis Plamondon, of revolving-ladder fame, look them over. He has a heap of good tricks up his sleeve.

Members on the road, get The Billboard and read this column for news of your club. It is your column. Write your news care of Griffoco to the club. The address is 640 North Wells street, Chicago, Ill. The skeptics say it can't be done; let's show 'em with our column.

Alfred Seror with his working dummy is playing the Colonial Theater in Detroit.

Mrs. Johanna Muller, mother of Charles Muller, says she won't be outdone by her son, so she is throwing an impromptu party for members and their families at the clubroom January 24.

The president of the club, George Geddis (manager and covekork of the Geddis Trio), writes from Detroit that they have enjoyed no small amount of work in and around the automotive city. As you read this column the Geddis Trio will be in Boston.

Harry Sykes, the cycling kid, is on a steady job.

At this writing the members are happy because 'tis a fact the clubroom will be redecorated in plenty of time for the Midwinter Frolic to be held February 18.

The Four Cards are seen at the gym daily bustin' bottoms out of barrels and straining teeter boards. Sure signs of coming activities under the big tops and on platforms.

On January 3 the Brown Sisters, of Three Brown Sisters and Buddy, entertained with "Matty" Mattson, of Jimmie Green's Orchestra, as guest of honor. That was Matty's night away from the band and the folks kept him yodeling up to a late hour.

The lady member selling the greatest number of tickets for the Midwinter Frolic February 18 will receive a beautiful pair of American-made kid gloves donated by Dex Cameron. The male member selling the greatest number of tickets will receive a beautiful hand-made tie donated by Harry Sykes, treasurer of the club.

Another new and novel rigging completed and all set to knock the people off their seats by two versatile gymnasts, McLean and Rogers.

Paul Lorenzo, popular gymnast of high-art fame, is having his riggings whitened up in preparation for the spring and summer rush. Some optimist, this boy Paul.

Another optimist, Emille Cameron, who has been off the road since 1927, is rebarbering daily. You can't keep 'em away from it. She will be accompanied by her daughter in a return to the road the coming season.

In the case, only the one who is the chief contributor is entitled to claim the exemption. If they all contribute equally, none of them can avail themselves of the allowance.

It is not necessary for the dependent in any way to be legally related to the person who claims the exemption. An individual supporting his friend is entitled to the $400 exemption.

Another point worthy of emphasis is that the $400 applies for each dependent. If a son supports a dependent mother and father, he is entitled to $800. If there are five dependents, he is entitled to $2,000, and so on.

Husband and Wife

The way the exemption for dependents works out in the case of the returns of husband and wife is rather interesting. In the first place, neither one is regarded as dependent upon the other. (This is looking ahead to Utopian days.) Therefore, the husband cannot take the $400 allowance for supporting his wife, or vice versa. The $2,500 exemption is supposed to cover that part. However, they can take the exemption for other persons that are their dependents.

When we spoke about the $2,500 allowance, we said that it could be divided between the husband and wife as they deemed best. In the case of the exemption for dependents, however, no such division can be made. The allowance can be deducted only in the return of the one who is the real supporter. Thus, if it is the husband who supports the children, only he is entitled to the exemption. Of course, if he files a joint return with his wife, this point makes no difference. But if separate returns are filed, the exemption cannot be taken by the wife.

Head of Family

In the case of the head of a family, if the individuals being supported come under the definition of dependents, the head of the family is not only entitled to the $2,500 allowance, but also to the exemption for dependents. For example, if a son lives with and supports his parents and his parents are incapable of self-support, his exemption is $2,600 for being head of the family, and $800 for two dependents, or a total of $3,400.

Prorating Exemptions

Suppose there is a change in the situation during the year, and a person who was a dependent at one time no longer is such at another, or vice versa. That situation arises frequently. For instance, a dependent may become 18 during the year, or a child may be born during the year. Under the old law it was the status at the end of the year that controlled. This is now changed, and the new rule is that the exemption is computed on a pro-rata basis, just as in the case of the personal exemptions of a single or married man.

Thus far in the series we have covered who must file a return and what exemptions persons are allowed. If the income is greater than the exemption, then a tax is due. We are now ready, therefore, to go into the subject of the tax rates and the method of computing the tax to find out how much is due.

The next article will be devoted to that subject.

Woodcliff Sold To Harry Katz

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., park under hammer for $37,000 to satisfy mortgage claim

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Jan. 21.—Woodcliff Pleasure Park has been sold at public auction to Harry Katz, Greenwich, Conn., for $37,000. The sale was held to satisfy a mortgage claim for more than $27,000 held by Wesley Ruthkowiak, of this city. A spirited legal tilt to prevent the park from going under the hammer preceded the sale. At a sale previous to that of the park proper the rides were purchased by Abe Kantziessen. This sale was on a foreclosure on a chattel procedure.

The park, which has been operated for a number of years by Fred H. Ponty, was recently improved to the extent of $200,000, and a swimming pool costing $100,000 was installed.

After the sale Mr. Katz refused to announce his plans for the future of the park.

Coney Island, Cincinnati, Executives Are Announced

CINCINNATI, Jan. 21.—Following a recent meeting held at the office of George F. Schott, president and general manager of the Coney Island Company, which company operates Coney Island Park, the executive staff was announced.

Two changes were made in the staff from last year, otherwise it is almost the same as the last several years. Robert F. Stayman, formerly advertising publicity director, was announced as promotion director, and he is succeeded in the publicity department by Rudolph Benson, formerly in the publicity department of Cincinnati Zoo.

Among others who will again be in charge of park departments are the following: Edward L. Schott, park manager and assistant general manager; Capt. F. P. Noel, marine traffic manager; H. E. Quigley, steward and purchasing agent; A. W. Hutchinson, manager swimming pool; Shirley Watkins, superintendent maintenance; Al Behrman, chief electrician; Arnold Fox, grounds superintendent; George W. Wurst, stockkeeper; Leo F. Schott, comptroller; J. P. Brandewie, auditor, and Amy L. Baushausen, secretary to general manager.

Carl A. Sinclair at Work On New Type Electric Boat

CANTON, O., Jan. 21.—Carl A. Sinclair, manager Meyer Lake Park here, president of the Eastern Ohio Park Managers' Association, with a group of others, is experimenting in a new type electric boat, for use in amusement parks, city parks and private lakes.

Experimental work, now almost completed, has been going forward in buildings at the local amusement park all winter and soon the first model of the new boat will be ready for its initial test. J. D. East is in charge of the experimental work.

Summit Beach Equipment To Go at Receiver's Sale

AKRON, O., Jan. 21.—Future of Summit Beach Park, Akron's largest amusement center, will be determined within the month. Buildings, rides, concessions and other property of the defunct Summit Beach Park Company will be offered at receiver's sale shortly, according to C. A. Sarchet, manager for the last several years and also receiver.

The park was thrown into receivership shortly before the close of the 1932 season by owners of the land on which the buildings are located and other creditors who held notes against the park company. Several individual concessioners stand to lose their holdings unless satisfactory arrangements can be made for reopening next May.

Seashore Breezes

By WILLIAM H. McMAHON

ATLANTIC CITY, Jan. 21.—There will be several conferences during the remainder of this month which will have effect upon coming amusement season.

Announcement was made yesterday by Hugh Riddle, owner of the Steeplechase Pier property, that the Tilyou interests would not renew their lease on the ground when it expires in the fall of this year. The Steeplechase, one of the early landmarks of Atlantic City, destroyed by fire February 14, 1932, is not being rebuilt. This summer will see no change in the present temporary structure with kiddie rides and managed by William H. Fenman. Beer garden will be operated on one side of pier and stores rented on other.

In the event there is no bidder for the lease of the ground, the Riddle interests will take over operation of property and possibly launch big amusement enterprise for 1934.

Altho no definite plans of policy have been decided by Million-Dollar Pier, a meeting shortly will fix a program which, if rumors are to be believed, will attempt to rival Steel Pier for variety. No great alteration job anticipated. Egyptian Ballroom to be run week-ends until summer. Local bands.

Gateway Casino conference within two weeks will bring details, altho 1932 schedule will again be carried out; that is, "name" bands and big floor show. Bally will be doubled. New Casino to be built on Virginia avenue may prove rival with same sort of program.

Sol Kendis, well-known local orchestra leader, is forming unit show for road tryout locally. minstrel unit also in process of formation.

What's become of Joe Lombardi? Mary (blues) Harris kept engagement at Auditorium this week in spite of broken arm suffered in accident a few days before. The Auditorium ice-hockey fans offered special treat in Philly game when Sea Gill star, "Moose" Adams, played in every position, including goal also clowning.

Frankle Re-Elected President

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 21.—Abe Frankle has been re-elected president of the Riverview Amusement Company for 1933, with W. F. Kooker, secretary-treasurer. These directors were elected: M. H. Cohen, J. Leitch, W. L. Stewart, Harry Bonkey, W. E. Kooker. Abe Frankle and Harry Frankle. The company plans to operate Riverview amusement park next season, altho the past year was not a financial success.

Duluth Coaster Toboggan

DULUTH, Minn., Jan. 21.—The new mile and a half coaster toboggan begun two weeks ago by Bert E. Onsgard, curator of the Duluth Zoo, has been opened to the public. The slide is fast and full of curves. It has been well banked at sharp turns to prevent serious spills. A truck is to be put into operation shortly which, for a small fee, will haul sleds and sleds to the top of the hill.

New England NAAP Section Committees Are Appointed

LAWRENCE, Mass., Jan. 21.—Standing committees for New England section of the National Association of Amusement Parks for this year were recently announced as follows: Convention and summer meeting place, C. F. Chisholm (chairman), E. R. Enegren, H. D. Gilmore, George Hamid and David Stone. Publicity, Sylvan Hoffman (chairman), D. E. Bauer and T. L. Gill. Adjustment, George P. Smith Jr. (chairman), James A. Donovan and W. St. C. Jones. Insurance, George H. Laurin (chairman), John Legun Campbell and Fred Fansher. Membership, L. K. Christman (chairman), A. E. Clair, Hubert Standeven, L. D. Pellister, D. H. Barnes and Leon J. Zipp. Music royalty, Leonard P. Schloss (chairman) and Harry C. Baker. Legislation, James A. Donovan (chairman), H. D. Gilmore, Frank Terrell, John T. Benson, Charles Ugen and D. E. Bauer. Nominations, Fred Fansher (chairman), James A. Donovan and George P. Smith Jr. Program, H. D. Gilmore (chairman), D. E. Bauer, Silvin Williams, Fred Fansher and Paul Haney. Reception and entertainment, Stuart Kollins (chairman), Norman E. Campbell and John Martinelli. Jury of awards, Thomas Cusker (chairman), August Rosasco and D. E. Bauer. Safety, George P. Smith Jr. (chairman), W. St. C. Jones, E. R. Enegren, T. L. Gill, Robert Lusse and Major P. F. Hedley. Code of ethics, Frank Darling (chairman), Hon. Andrew A. Casassa and Harry Baker. Finance, A. E. Clair (chairman), Frank Terrell and D. H. Barnes. Special committees: Dance circuit, Barney J. Williams, Fred L. Markey, George Hamid, E. R. Enegren and Charles Ugen. Special Massachusetts Legislature, James A. Donovan, Andrew A. Casassa and Fred L. Markey.

Pool Bill Up In New Jersey

Measure before legislature calls for State regulation—license fee $10 a year

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 21.—State regulation of public swimming pools and baths was proposed in a bill presented to the Legislature on January 16 by the State Department of Health. The measure is the result of months of study by the engineering bureau of the Health Department.

It provides that no swimming pool or bath be operated without a license obtained from the department and as a condition to the issuance of a permit compliance with prescribed rules as to construction and maintenance would be required.

The annual fee would be $10. Pools conducted by municipal, school, religious or charitable organizations would not be called to pay the license fee.

Representatives of the department would have access at all times for the purpose of inspection, and interference would constitute a violation for which the penalty would be the revocation of license and a fine of $100. Power would be conferred for the bringing of an injunctive action to close any pool not complying with approved health standards.

Privileges to Feinstone

BRIDGETPORT, Conn., Jan. 21.—Louis Feinstone, of Norwalk, was the highest bidder for the concession privileges at Compo Beach, Westport, Conn., for the coming summer season, it was announced this week by the selectmen of Westport, who have charge of the municipally owned beach, and will be given the contract. He has been in charge of the concessions there for the last four years. It is understood that the lease will be with the understanding that local labor must be employed.

Capt. Curley Wilson Proposes Circus at Zoo

CLEVELAND, Jan. 21.—Capt. Curley Wilson, for several years manager of Brookside Zoo, has suggested operation of a circus at the Zoo where admission would be charged. The suggestion brought considerable opposition from West Side business men and school teachers, especially with reference to an admission fee which would keep many people away. The issue has not yet been settled.

Curley himself is an old circus man, and many associates of the big tops drop in on him every year.

Long Island Patter

By ALFRED FRIEDMAN

JAMAICA, L. I., Jan. 21.—More than 6,000,000 persons visited Long Island State parks during 1932, according to figures revealed during the week by the Long Island State Park Commission. Jones Beach, New Island resort place, topped other localities by far with a total of 3,350,000 visitors. Valley Stream handled 350,000; Wildwood, 125,000; Sunken Meadow, 350,000; Hither Hills, 120,000; Belmont Lake, 150,000; Fire Island, 25,000; Heckacher, 300,000; Hempstead Lake, 150,000, and Montauk Point, 150,000.

Park Commissioner Al Benninger, of Queens, is determined to make Ritz Park, Neponset, one of the most important of Long Island play spots the coming summer. . . . Ben Friedman off for Florida to join John Hogan and Ed Feeney at Miami, where a Long Island colony is located. . . . Harry Kingsbury, erstwhile beach resort press agent, now a reporter on The Long Island Daily Press. . . . Dance marathons banned in most sectors. "Gentleman" Jim Corbett has cast aside the managerial reins of the Jamaica Arona. Poor health the reason. Sunnyside Pool, Long Island City, being propped for an early opening. Broad Channel Bathing Park will put season tickets for next spring and summer on sale shortly, management reporting that an early sellout is foreseen. On clear nights Coney Island's lights are visible across Jamaica Bay.

LONG BEACH—Mayor Frankel trying to convince outsiders that Long Beach is a desirable place for conventions. Charley Duggan sends regards to friends from East St. Louis. Eddie Quinlan spending the winter in White Plains, N. Y., with his sister. Police Chief Roddy finished with plans for handling of concessions next summer. For the first time in years fire has not damaged property in the Boardwalk territory.

ROCKAWAY BEACH—Phil Addison, concession electrician, reports a spurt of activity already. Jim Claire, one of the busiest local persons. Joe Geist, Playland Park's big boss, making speeches before community center gatherings. Joe, an attorney, has been discussing matters of legal importance. Gang is wondering whether the expensive Jack and Jill ride, idle the last two years, will be put into operation next summer. Fred Marshall, owner of extensive amusement property, inducted as president of the Rockaway Board of Trade. This pillar is in receipt of letters from Ed Weill, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Myron (Byron) Hegeman, Los Angeles; Phil and Babe Warner, Miami Beach, and Terry Gould, Chicago. All will be around with the advent of July 4, they announce.

Warwick Co. Incorporated

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 21.—Incorporation papers for the Warwick Amusement Company, with capital stock of $50,000, divided into 500 shares $100 par common stock, was filed recently in the office of the Secretary of State. Paul and Alfred M. Castiglioni, proprietors of Rocky Point Park, and Charles Klosson, of this city, are the incorporators. The new concern is empowered to "operate shore resorts and places of amusements."

HONOLULU—Fifty-one events will be featured at the Hawaiian AAU annual meet in Punahou tank on February 23-25. It is the largest indoor pool in Hawaii. With War Memorial pool, outdoor pool, the two combine to make for perfect swimming for those who prefer it to the ocean.

The Pool Whirl

By Nat A. Tor

All Communications to Nat A. Tor, care of New York Office, The Billboard

Word was received here last week of how the operators of the Seigniorio outdoor pool, Lucerne-in-Quebec, Canada, solved their "what to do with the pool in the wintertime" problem. And as that subject has long been a pet of this department it is indeed a pleasure to present their experiences to you.

It seems that those in charge of that Northern tank couldn't sit back and let their investment stand idle eight months of the year, as most American outdoor pool men do, despite the fact that it's plenty cold up there in winter and that there's snow on the ground nearly every day, making winter sports very popular and stiff opposition to any pool which might try to operate.

The pool men in this case were courageous, tho, and I wish I knew their names to give them due credit, but the item I received lacked that information. They had a glass top and glass sides constructed, enclosing the bathstair, and with the installation of an oil-burning system made it possible to offer swimming all year round. The glass slides are convertible, of course, and will be removed next summer whence outdoor aquatics will be resumed.

With regard to that new professional swimmers' club, Ann Benoit, treasurer, writes: "We have been organized one month and now have 90 members. Our plan is to promote more swims and fairly good prize money. We feel that one swim a year is not enough and know that there are many places such as pools and beaches, etc., that would be glad to put on swimming races if someone pushed the idea. We intend to do just that."

Norman Cox, the swim instructor at the Crystal Pool, Vancouver, B. C., has written a book entitled Natural Laws of Speed. He recently sent out a rather amusing New Year's card, stating "Wishing you the best in health, strength, speed, resistance and endurance." And then the second line read, "If you lack any of these do not hesitate to call on me." That's what is known as mixing business with greetings.

Babe Didrickson, the versatile Olympic champion, who is declared by experts as the greatest all-round woman athlete of all times, was in New York for the last few weeks, as you may have read. But what you didn't read is that, tho the female Babeino made her professional debut playing basket ball and pocket billiards, the majority of her time was spent swimming and diving at the Park Central indoor pool. She is best known for her track accomplishments, but Miss Didrickson confides to friends that of all sports she likes swimming the best and that her one ambition is to swim around Manhattan Island. Oh, yeah!

The American Red Cross aquatic school for the development of swimming instructors for pools and beaches is holding regular classes in the Hecksher Foundation indoor pool, New York City. Ethel McGarry, former local amateur star and more recent marathon swimmer, is in charge of the women's classes this season. In addition to regular practical swim lessons a course of what is called "theory classes" is given at the New York chapter of the American Red Cross. This is about the only school I know of which specializes in tutoring men except, of course, the Nicholas Fern School for Swimming Instructors in the Midwest. It's fine work and there should be more institutions thruout the country catering to those interested in the swimming business.

Did you ever stop to think how many families are interested in the pool industry? I mean to say, look at all the brothers who are partners in the operation of tanks and others who are swimmers. There are the Pincus freers at the Cascades in New York City and the Birchcliffe brothers at the Wal-cliff pool, Jamaica, and then there are the three famous Spences, Walter, Leonard and Wallace, noted swimmers. But there must be many more. And that's why I wrote this item. I want you to send me the names of the different families you may know of who are interested in aquatics.

DOTS AND DASHES—Charlie Norclius, father of the famous Martha, Olympic and marathon champ, writes that he's back at the Breakers outdoor pool, Palm Beach, Fla., and that he hopes business will be better than last year, as who doesn't.

What's all this hubbub of an exclusive item in The New York Herald Tribune last week about a pool being built in the White House when the news first appeared here issues ago—The name of the Clay Hole Pond, Harvey, Ill., was recently changed to the Green Lake tank because the local women no like former appellation.

What happened with the plan to build a mammoth outdoor pool in the Jacob Rills Park, Rockaway, Long Island?—George Kujac, the former Olympic champ, writes me that he's going to tour the various Japan pools next summer.

Announcement was made last week of the national YMCA swim champs to be staged April 21 and 22 in Orange, N. J.—Aquatic circles buzzed last week over the charges made by Matt Mann, collegiate swim coach, that dope was administered to the Jap swimmers during the last Olympics in the form of oxygen, but it was one of those "don't quote me" affairs.

They say Al Bach is doing all right with the Paris indoor pool, New York City, which was pretty nearly all washed up last season after that fatal accident.—And good of Professor Jackson started his 24th season at the Lurline Pool, San Francisco, January 5, which, if you ask me, is going some.

their own right of way, pay tax on it and are regulated by the Commerce Commission. If the Coney Island program sponsored by Morris Goldberg succeeds, many beaches will be glad to know the method of procedure. Not only Coast resorts, but also many lake resorts are confronted with the same menace to what was once a profitable business. Most of the Atlantic Coast resorts have had a heavy pounding by the wind and waves, which will call for much repairing and some rebuilding, while the Pacific Coast has had its most disastrous storm in years. This all adds to the cost of doing business and intensifies the desire for helpful legislation than cannot be termed class legislation.

Schloss Very Active

Leonard Schloss expects to make this coming season better than the last one. His actions speak louder than his words in the new ballroom now under construction and a new front on his Coaster. This man has the courage that wins success. It is recalled that he built a fine swimming pool just at the time that some parks decided to let the spiders have free rein. Schloss has the confidence of the best park patrons in the Federal City and understands his business too well to forfeit that deserved patronage. Leonard has to pay taxes and consider capital invested, and is not despairing, thanks to his background of experience. He is not a showman, but an amusement park executive, or should we say he has "showmanship plus sound business principles"?

A. H. Slean Resigns From A. C. Convention Bureau

ATLANTIC CITY, Jan. 21.—Announcement was made Monday that Albert H. Slean, director of the Atlantic City Convention Bureau since its organization, has handed in his resignation to President Ezra Bell of that organization. Slean is leaving to accept a similar appointment in Cleveland.

Thomas Huselton, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, will combine this post with his present duties. He has also had experience with convention work. Slean came here nine years ago and organized beachfront hotel owners into a convention body and has since traveled to all parts of the country to secure these gatherings.

DETROIT—Prospect of a pay gate at the Detroit Zoo for the first time next year appeared probable as the result of recommendations of the commission controlling the Zoo. The budget for the entire park has been cut about $20,000 by voluntary act of the commission without the enforcement of the ax from above as was done in the case of many other city departments. A strong stand has been made by the commission for free gates on Saturdays and Sundays and holidays, however, with children's admission free at all times. Cutting these days would seriously reduce the income from the pay gate, but the free principle of the park, according to the officials, must be maintained. Following the annual election of officers, the zoological park commission consists of Gilbert E. Miller, president; William T. Barbour, vice-president; James S. Holden, secretary, and Walter O. Briggs, commissioner.

Nothing pleases us more than to see the old-timers able to take time off to travel and rest. Keep us posted Altman, and may you enjoy every minute of the trip.

Barton on Stump

De Arv. G. Barton is now going out on the stump, as it were, to tell them about us and our business. We know he will do it well, but we hope he will not neglect the bankers. No other class needs educating along our line so much as these men do. They have always looked upon the amusement park men as an inferior lot. Bart, tell them that in every State penitentiary you can find a politicians' and a bankers' row, but no amusement park men's row. Just politely ask them to become respectable and associate with us. They should learn to discriminate more accurately and avoid Ivan Krugers, but they should not avoid us. We can show a large industry, wholesome and constructive, public service in its nature and one that never takes a deposit from the people and then refuses to produce the show or a refund. Go to it Bart, you are our friend.

The sponsors and builders of Radio City Music Hall failed to use our museum for the useful purpose which it serves so well. By a consultation they easily could have learned that the Hippodrome never paid and was sold at a forced sale. It was too large for profitable operation and would now be the site of another office building but for the depression. Why build larger than the Hippodrome when it failed in far better times than these? You would hardly expect such men as backed Radio City Music Hall to jump before they looked. Until recently this was the order of the day.

Combatting Free Competition

Coney Island, New York, the playground of the world, always has something of interest for us. They are working now to prevent the use of automobiles as bathhouses or rooms and to prevent disrobing on the beach. This gives "Old Coney" the front page again and commands nationwide interest. It is no small expense to maintain and clean a beach or pay either taxes or rent on bathhouse and meet such free competition. This is comparable to the busses and trucks using public-maintained roads free of charge to them and competing against the railroads which maintain

Few Upsets, But Optimism Marks Nebraska Convention

Most of county fairs to operate this year, but on more conservative basis—to stress educational side—resolution urges continuance of Lincoln exposition

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 21.—A few upsets, but in general an optimistic feeling over the outlook for the 1933 county fairs and a host of recommendations for the Nebraska State Fair, including slashing of premiums and salaries and a cut in the gate admission, were voiced at the annual meeting of the Nebraska Association of Fair Managers and the State Board of Agriculture at the Hotel Lincoln here, January 16-18. Altho plans are going ahead for the holding of the State fair next September, fair officials are forced to await the action of the Legislature for a needed appropriation to cover the deficit of over $100,000 accumulated the last two years due to a decline in revenue.

An uncertainty of feeling has been aroused by Governor Charles Bryan's refusal to recommend money for the State fair. A sum was allotted for the agriculture board's activities, most of which include projects other than the exposition. Both the county fair managers and the board of agriculture representatives voted a resolution urging the continuance of the State fair, declaring that Nebraska is chiefly an agricultural State and that both the county and State fairs are the show windows of the State's industries and that a discontinuance would be a backward step. Supplementing this appeal, members of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce passed a resolution asking the Legislature to appropriate sufficient money to carry on the fair. Former Secretary Jackson, of the State fair, pointed out that if the State exposition were dropped even for a year it would jeopardize a million-dollar investment at the grounds and that Nebraska would lose its excellent dates, which include Labor Day.

Vote Cut in Salaries

To meet the financial crisis facing the exposition, members of the board of agriculture voted to cut salaries as follows: Secretary (full-time job), from $4,000 to $2,400; president, $400 to $300; vice-president, $300 to $200; treasurer, $350 to $250, and board members: from $300 to $200. Premiums will be cut 25 to 40 per cent down the entire list, duplicating the reduction made a year ago. Mr. Jackson recommended cutting gate admission to 25 or 35 cents. He advocated legislative appropriation in the present emergency and the establishing of the State fair on a legal basis so that money might be borrowed to operate it.

One of the upsets of the convention was the refusal of George Jackson to be

Form New Auto Race Unit

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Jan. 21.—A new auto-racing unit has been formed, known as the Eastern Auto Racing Association, headed by G. M. C. Lucas. Associated with Lucas is Malcolm Fox, well-known dirt-track driver, Westville, N. J. Lucas is formerly of Buffalo and now located in Gloversville, where he holds a five-year lease on Fulton-Hamilton Fairgrounds. Off to a late start last season Lucas staged two successful auto races in Gloversville, adding extra revenue to Fulton-Hamilton Fair Association. Fox and Lucas contemplate staging auto-racing events for Eastern fair associations on a new co-operative plan.

E. H. Westbrook Elected For 15th Consecutive Year

LIVONIA, N. Y., Jan. 21.—Dean of fair executives in the East, Edward H. Westbrook, of Hemlock, was re-elected president of the Hemlock Union Fair Society for his 50th consecutive year this week. Annual reports said the 1932 fair would break even if State aid were forthcoming. The fair, it was said, will hold in 1933 despite the rigors of the depression.

Other officers elected were G. C. McNich, Conesus, secretary; J. M. Huff and N. G. Westbrook, superintendent and secretary of Granges, respectively. No dates were set for 1933.

Salaries of Staff At Fredericton Reduced

FREDERICTON, N. B., Jan. 21.—At the annual meeting of the Fredericton Exhibition, Ltd., sponsoring a yearly September seven days' Fair here, D. W. Oils, who had been vice-president, was elected president, succeeding H. A. Smith, who had served three years as president. P. H. Currier was elected vice-president; C. L. Sypher, secretary; C. D. Holder, treasurer; D. W. Griffiths, racing secretary. These with T. V. Monahan, H. A. Smith, C. H. Forbes, G. H. Clark, R. W. Smith, F. L. Cooper, J. A. Cain and A. C. Fleming are to form the directorate. Lewis Smith was elected honorary president.

One of the vital subjects before the annual meeting was that of whether or not salaries of the staff should be reduced. The annual meeting went on record as favoring the cut, and slicing the salaries from 20 to 33 1-3 per cent for full and part time help, with the reductions going into effect immediately.

Another feature of the meeting was the agreement entered into with the chairman of the building and grounds committee, the treasurer and the racing secretary to serve for 1933 without pay. By the reductions and eliminations in payments, this fair organization expects to cut the overhead tangibly for the 1933 fair.

International Fairs

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Information touching international fairs and expositions to be held throughout the world during the present year is reaching the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce daily. A recent list reported that Germany will hold an International Sample Fair and a Technical and Building Trades Fair at Leipzig in March; Great Britain, the 17th Ideal Homes Exposition, the sixth Chocolate and Confectionery Machinery and Accessories' Exhibition, the 37th International Confectioners and Bakers' Exhibition, the 37th International Grocers, Provision Dealers and Allied Trades Exhibition, the 78th International Exhibition of Photography, and the 33rd International Shoe and Leather Fair at London, from March to October.

Seventeen Suits Filed To Recover Fire Insurance

RAVENNA, O., Jan. 21.—Seventeen suits, asking $30,000 from insurance companies, are on file in Portage County Common Pleas Court as the aftermath of a fire which destroyed 13 buildings at the fairgrounds here last year. The suits were filed by the Portage County Fair and Exhibition Company and the First Savings and Trust Company, of Ravenna. The bank has a mortgage on the property of the Exhibition Company. The largest amount sought is from the Aetna Insurance Company.

The Portage County Fairgrounds buildings were destroyed by fire at the close of a horse meet sponsored by a group of Ravenna men also interested in the Brimfield dog track, where a few days ago the grand stand and other buildings were razed by fire.

HARVEY AND DALE, portraying Uncle Harvey and Aunt Lou back in the '90s, are again playing the winter fairs in Florida, also Sparks and Publix theaters.

J. V. BAILEY, of Newport, Minn., elected president of the Minnesota State Agricultural Society for 1933. Mr. Bailey has been identified with the Minnesota State Fair for 27 years. He is a member of the fair board from the third congressional district. Previous to that he was for 10 years superintendent of the horticultural building of the fair. He also is president of the Washington County Fair and vice-president of the State Horticultural Society.

Midland Empire's Balance Due to Heavily Cut Costs

BILLINGS, Mont., Jan. 21.—Drastic cuts in all departments of the 1932 Midland Empire Fair in Billings last September 5-9 were an important factor in bringing the exposition thru with a small balance. Where the 1931 fair had been held at a cost of $93,000 the 1932 show was staged for $83,000 and receipts from all sources will leave a balance of about $2,000.

A change in management plans was made at the beginning of 1932 and the entire board of fair commissioners took over active management. Entertainment features included Wortham's Shows, Ernie Young's Revue and Theatre-Duffield fireworks.

Plans for 1933 indicate that costs will be pared even further. No amusement contracts have been signed and none probably will be until the annual meeting of the Montana Fair Men's Association in Great Falls in February.

Would Reduce State Aid

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 21.—To raise $75,000 for Wisconsin's participation in the World's Fair at Chicago, Wisconsin's Legislature will be asked to reduce the State appropriation for county fairs from $300,000 to $125,000. After using $75,000 for the State's exhibit at Chicago, the Legislature would chalk the balance in savings to State economy, according to the bill now being prepared. The Wisconsin World's Fair committee has presented the plan to Governor A. G. Schmedeman and he approved it, the committee reported.

Will Again Hold Night Show at Naples, N. Y.

AUBURN, N. Y., Jan. 21.—Naples Fair Association has elected officers for 1933. They are: President, Fred D. Delbridge; secretary, Leon H. Cornish; treasurer, George L. Tobey.

The 1933 exhibition was set for September 7, 8 and 9. The night fair, a new experiment with the society, which proved successful, will be held again and will include Saturday night.

Report of the treasurer, Mr. Tobey, and the secretary, Mr. Cornish, showed a satisfactory financial standing and a substantial balance in the treasury. From an agricultural standpoint the 1932 fair was one of the most successful in years.

Trenton Cuts Gate to 25c

Trim event to four days, with dates set back to last week in Sept.—same heads

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 21.—A radical reduction in gate admissions, a shift in dates from Labor Day week to the last week in September and a decision to conduct the event for four days instead of five were the major developments at the annual meeting of stockholders and directors of the Trenton Fair last Saturday.

General admission for the four days, September 26-29, will be 25 cents and like amount for autos. Event will open with a Children's Day. Grand-stand admission for the run has been reduced to 75 cents, against $1 hitherto, with clubhouse chairs going for $1.50 instead of previous $2 tag.

September 30 will be given over exclusively to auto races at a flat admission to stands of $1, including tax and auto. Admission will include bleacher or paddock accommodation, with reserves to go for $1 and clubhouse chairs for $1.50.

Meeting brought out much enthusiasm and best attendance in 10 years. No decision was rendered on nature of flesh attractions and name of carnival organization, but understood that a title company will again grace midway.

Change of dates was voted because of intense heat during Labor Day week the last three years. Body unambiguously passed a motion to prohibit complimentary tickets, each ticket to have an admission price assessment. Traditional comps to important officials, exhibitors, the press and the like will undoubtedly be absorbed by the fair unless some other system is worked out.

All officers were re-elected as follows: Samuel T. Atchley, president; F. W. Roebling Jr. and Col. Arthur F. Moran, vice-presidents; Col. M. R. Margerum, secretary-treasurer; Helen G. Laffan, assistant; J. Fred Margerum, general manager.

Elected to the board of directors were Miss Laffan, Mr. Roebling, R. V. Kuser Jr., M. R. Margerum, General C. Edward Murray, Charles H. Baker, D. William Scammell, Edward D. Boyd and Col. Stephen H. Barlow.

Executive committee: Mr. Atchley, Colonel Moran, former Gov. E. C. Stokes, Mr. Scammell, Col. Edward C. Rose, J. L. Kuser Jr. and Colonel Margerum. Charles Quinn was named to succeed Justice Harry Heber, who resigned as a member of the board of directors. Justice Heber could not continue the post account his holding office of Supreme Court justice.

Fine Cattle Exhibit At Ogden Stock Show

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 21.—Utah's 14th annual Stock Show came to a close after a week's run at Ogden Coliseum January 11, with one of the finest exhibits of cattle ever displayed. As a grand finale a banquet was held at the Hotel Ben Lomond in Ogden with Governor Henry H. Blood as speaker. J. Francis Fowles was also heard from as speaker of the Senate and I. A. Smoot as speaker of the House.

While the attendance was not as large as formerly, Reed Warnock, press agent for the show, told The Billboard correspondent the show was one of the largest in point of exhibitors. The usual stock sale saved many a stock man from financial embarrassment and brought a fair market.

The massive new Coliseum, which housed the show, was decorated in the national colors and a separate building to house the hog exhibit was necessary.

THE 1933 FAIR at Charlotetown, P. E. I., will open August 21 and close August 25. Announcement has been made that the deficit from the 1932 fair has been substantially lowered.

Bay Staters Stand Neutral on Mutuels; Haigis Evokes Ideas

Recommend resolution steering clear of controversial matters—Kingman and Cahill, Brockton, talk on budgets, programs—gate fees dwelled on—H. A. Ford new prez

SALEM, Mass., Jan. 21.—Taking an emphatically neutral position on part-mutuel bills up for disposition in the State Legislature, members of the Massachusetts Agricultural Fairs' Association met here in 13th annual convention Wednesday and Thursday at the Hotel Hawthorne to deliberate on other important questions and problems affecting their institutions. The questions and problems included budgets, gate admissions and other matters pronouncedly related to the depression, the ill-effects it has caused and the radical changes it has brought about.

The pending bills on betting, while not frowned on, became a subject of policy rather than advocacy or opposition, and brought two resolutions from Milton Danziger, chairman resolutions committee, who is assistant general manager of the Eastern States Exposition, Springfield. Both resolutions were couched in indirect terms, but they were regarded as reflecting the body's viewpoint in connection with the Field-Tuckerman Bill and one sponsored by a horsemen's association. The resolutions read:

"Resolved, That it is stated again as the policy of this association that the members shall not be committed by vote, resolution or other procedure in any controversial matter, legislative or otherwise. We believe by further adherence to this policy the rights of individual members will be maintained." The second draft was more specific. It read:

"Resolved, That our legislative committee be instructed to protest the adoption of any legislation which would be inimical to the successful operation of our agricultural fairs."

Vigorous Keynote Speech

A vigorous keynote speech opened the Wednesday afternoon stanza. Keynoter was John W. Haigis, of Greenfield, former State treasurer, who offered a program for fairs for the coming season. He cited the conditions in New England and the West and felt there is a general attitude of "watchful waiting" relative to drafting of budgets. Charles A. Nash, general manager Eastern States Exposition, put in a word, saying that New England is in a better economic position than any other section.

Mr. Haigis warned that it is obligatory "to keep in mind the conditions with which we are confronted." He brushed over briefly on operating costs, suggesting means of cutting and methods for distribution of work: live stock and horticulture, urging that premium lists be revised; Boys' and Girls' exhibits, with educational factor not to be lost sight of in favor of monetary considerations; home department, special and industrial exhibits and racing. He told the body that in the concession division there was a decline in receipts in 1932, and it is "safe to assume" this year will find no improvement. He also advanced the suggestion that the midway be engaged longer before events commence than is the present practice. Advocating lower gate admissions, he declared that they can be reduced as much as 50 per cent, and advised that comp tickets be kept down to a minimum. As to budgets, Mr. Haigis favored the setting up of a tribunal for the studying of costs, with individual responsibility to be eliminated in favor of a committee plan. His address was greeted by long and loud applause and became the subject for comment later in the session and on Thursday morning.

Tackles Budget Problem

Frank H. Kingman, newly appointed secretary Brockton Fair, tackled the budget problem with his usual fluency and directness. He posed a policy of "four little men" in the throes working out of a plan. These "four little men" he called Why, Who, When and How Much. The "why" is necessary, he said, for a proper control of operations. In consideration of the "when" he suggested that budget drafting should not begin too near to fair time, but was aware that last-minute expenditures are sometimes necessary and justify budget revision. In the "how much" class, "figure your disbursements on potential receipts and strike a balance, in clear-cut statements, between educational and amusement features." His "who" referred to a full-time paid secretary. In laying out a budget, he said, consideration should be given to "name" personalities in a program, rain insurance, days of fair, competition, industrial conditions, estimated ticket sales and records of past performances. In seeking to determine the number of fairs which made budgets hand-raising was in order, with but one official raising his paw in the affirmative.

An uncommonly interesting address on attractions was made by J. Joseph Cahill, Brockton. He spoke pointedly on the physical setup of the grand stand, calling attention to beauty and arrangement, comfort, safety measures, stenches from the outside, condition of race track, the stage, uniforms and the like. In the budget bracket he called for a "substantial" amount and said that it is "good business to build up a weak day with features of pulling power." Well-rounded entertainment, he said, required novelties, races, music and fireworks, lively features, balanced running time, proper schedule and stage managing, coordination of stage and track events and appeal for every type of patron. He gave as the essentials for good grand-stand production 12 points, as follows: Music, speed and action, animals, thrills, color, light, "sex appeal" (revue, etc.), comedy, fireworks, pageantry, sound (loud speakers, etc.), and stagehands.

Racing as a lively grand-stand product was put forward by Allan J. Wilson, Boston, who was of the opinion that the scoring system needs changing and who voiced himself in favor of part-mutuels for fairs. He delivered a verbal spanking by saying that grand-stand waits "are your fault, and let's do something also about starting, scoring and enforcing rules."

Favors Barrier System

"Let's stick to the rules, have paid racing officials and eliminate slipshod stuff," urged William H. Gocher, grand old man of trotting races, who is secretary of the National Trotting Association. Continuing the horse subject, Thomas Ashworth, Charlton City, vet of the sport of kings, said that fairs are the right place for experimenting with the barrier system. It was then that Bayard Tuckerman, wealthy horse fancier, who is one of the sponsors of the Field-Tuckerman Bill, precipitated an extended discussion of betting with a talk on the nature of the bill now pending in the Legislature. He cited the successful operation of the system in Maryland and said that, should the bill go thru, a commission of three, appointed by the governor, would supervise part-mutuel betting in the State. Similarities and differences in a second proposed betting code were also cited.

Sumner R. Parker, of Massachusetts State College, Amherst, spoke on live stock, with emphasis on the value and advantages of high production and backing up eligibility by "some evidence of milk production." In the case of cows, and offering suggestions for gathering the evidence. He also advocated a class for proven sire and was not in favor of a class for culves. Other speakers in the Wednesday afternoon inning were Ellery Metcalf, Topsfield, who discussed horticulture; George L. Farley, State College, on junior department displays; Earle S. Carpenter, State College, special exhibits; George A. Richardson, Acton, industrial exhibits; Maldea P. Polleys, Essex, who spoke on home departments, favoring community branches and a subsidiary system, and Andy F. Jackman, Topsfield, who went on record as being strongly in favor of oldtime concession operators rather than local talent.

Substituting for Samuel T. Sheard, of Strubridge, in a talk on operating costs, Fred Dole, new president Greenfield Fair, dwelled on budgets and premiums and urged that officers and directors meet more regularly and more often.

safety, and Edith R. Donah and Leonard Traub, Boston and New York offices, respectively, of The Billboard.

Opening session was on Wednesday morning, with Secretary A. W. Lombard, State agricultural department, Boston, submitting his 1932 report and offering the new mechanical cow on display in the hotel lobby as a popular attraction for this year as a companion to his mechanical hen. President Ralph H. Gaskill, Topsfield, brushed over the highlights of last season and noted that the first known Massachusetts fair was held by the Essex Agricultural Society, Salem, in 1818. In his address he declared "we should have explicit faith in the future of our country and its institutions."

Mr. Danziger, as chairman, then discussed a program for next year's convention, declaring that Pittsfield will be the meeting scene, with program to be built around the life of Ekanah Watson, "the Father of Agriculture," from whom lessons from the past could be drawn "to serve as a guide post for the future." Mr. Danziger said he is gathering documentary material on Ekanah Watson's life.

Officers Elected

Harry A. Ford, of Dalton, was elected president, succeeding Mr. Gaskill. The newly elected vice-presidents are: George H. Bean, Northampton; Fred B. Dole, Greenfield, and Frank A. Merriam. The new executive committee is: Mr. Gaskill, chairman; Thomas Ashworth, Charlton City; John W. Haigis, Greenfield; Joseph H. Maloney, Great Barrington; Charles A. Nash, Springfield; Josiah W. Parsons, Northampton; Milton Danziger, Springfield, and Henry L. Rapp, Brockton. Mr. Lombard was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Banquet was held in the ballroom Wednesday evening. Honor guests and speakers on the date were Timothy Fitzgerald, president local city council; Michael Reardon, president local chamber of commerce; Edward Wigglesworth, president Topsfield Fair; Dr. Arthur W. Gilbert, State commissioner of agriculture; Lieutenant-General Alfred F. Foote, State commissioner of public safety; Henry N. Janks, master of the State grange; William H. Gocher; Joseph W. Hiccox, chief of office of exhibits, department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.; President Harry A. Ford. A lengthy talk, punctuated by rollicking anecdotes, was given by Rev. John Nicol Mark, pastor of the First Parish Unitarian Church, Arlington. Reverend Mark concluded with an inspirational discourse.

Acts, supplied by Stuart Kollins, including the Prestons, acrobatic dance team; Three Moran Sisters, singing and violin; Los Castillos, musicians and balancers, and Fauntleroy and Van, rube comics. Music, also thru Wirth-Hamid, was by George Ventry's Band.

Few amusement interests attended and but a sole carnival representative, in the person of L. H. (Doc) Cann, here in the interests of West's World's Wonder Shows. American Fireworks Company was represented by Henry L. Rapp, Fred C. Murray and A. Striano. N. H. Maddy, of King Bros' Rodeo, came from Columbus, scene of the Ohio fair men's meeting, and was being represented by Mr. Kollins on bookings. Al F. Wheeler set up headquarters in a room of the hotel. The above constituted the amusement

Toronto Made Tilt in Profit

CNE shows operating surplus over 1931, despite a drop in total revenues

TORONTO, Jan. 21.—The year 1932 gave the Canadian National Exhibition an increase in operating profit. The gross surplus shows an amount of $15,000 above 1931, when the net surplus for the city of Toronto was $50,818 in against $56,301 for 1932 to the city.

The decrease, however, in total revenue for the year was $164,500. In face of this decrease in total revenue in comparison with 1931 receipts, the 1932 CNE achieved an increase of nearly $15,000 in gross operating profit, according to the annual financial statement.

Increase in net surplus was accomplished despite an increase from $54,500 to $82,050 of the annual payment for retirement of the debt charges on the Automotive Building. At the same time, however, the $12,000 item for Collectors' rental, included in the 1931 items deductible from the gross operative profit figure for debt charges, is omitted from 1932 charges. There is also a decrease from $10,022 to $4,732 in expenditures deductible from the gross operative profit figure on account of improvements of the grounds, plant and equipment.

After deduction of the grounds and plant expenditures the total paid to the city was $208,556, of which $20,055 was earmarked for debt charges on the Pure Food Building charges and $2,000 for water rates, leaving $58,301 to be handed over as a surplus.

Gross revenue was $863,945 compared with $989,832 in 1931. Operating expenses totaled $650,656 in contrast to the $790,076 expended in 1931. The directors' statement mentioned that while revenue from gate admissions was off, in line with the decrease in attendance of 218,000, the revenue from entertainment admissions within the grounds showed a very sharp decline from the previous year, an evidence of the further restricted spending power of the public.

Exhibit space presented many problems, resulting in considerably reduced revenue from this source. Under existing conditions the directors are well satisfied with financial results and feel confident that the 1932 exhibition succeeded in giving a stimulus to business not only locally but throughout the continent, as well as having made a valuable contribution to advancement of agriculture.

Lobbyists Active

On R. I. Racing Bill

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 21.—That attempts will be made to push a horse-racing bill thru the General Assembly this session seems a foregone conclusion, with lobbyists already active.

General Herbert Bliss, of Newport, and Senator William H. Vanderbilt, of Portsmouth (where a track has already been selected), are moving forces in the latest effort to make racing and part-mutuel betting legal in the State. Finance Commissioner Frederick S. Peck has on previous occasions disapproved of racing, but proponents of the sport now are pointing to it as a "new source of revenue," something Peck in his annual message declared necessary if the State hopes to meet necessary expenditures.

Altho opposition from Republican quarters is anticipated, there is better outlook of the measure going thru this year than ever before, say political wiseacres. A racing bill passed the House in 1924, but died in the Senate.

fraternity's representation, quite a decline over last year's meeting in Springfield. No signed contracts were reported.

17 Fairs Represented

Secretary Lombard announced that 17 out of a possible 23 fairs attended, in addition to three extra granges and three fair officials outside Massachusetts. He also said that the spring meeting will be held next April in Worcester, with the day to be either the 18th or 20th. One hundred and six registered for the banquet, which is slightly less than last year. The sessions averaged 100 attendees.

A report of the other activities during the meeting will appear in the fair department of the next issue.

WITH THE Trotters

By EDWIN T. KELLER

About the biggest news in trotting circles is the announcement from Will Mahagan, secretary of the Hambletonian Society, of Goshen, N. Y., that the January payment on eligibles to this year's $50,000 stake, blue-ribbon event of the trotting turf, drew a total of 40 three-year-olds, six more than were paid up on year ago, which is encouraging news indeed.

The fact that $60,000 is a mighty big sum to race for in any one afternoon during these times, coupled with the fact that the 1932 group of two-year-old trotters was not quite up to the top-notch groups that have appeared during the last four or five seasons, accounts for the big entry.

At this time the stake appears to be the most open one that has been decided to date. But one colt can be spoken of as standing out, he being Spencer McElwyn, 2, 2:04 1/2, owned by W. H. L. McCurtick, of Dallas, Tex., and in the Ben White stable. Sponsor would unquestionably will rank as favorite in the future book that will soon appear on the event. But the history of the stake generally has been that early-season favorites have fared badly on race day, this fact too tending to induce more owners to send in their $250 payment checks.

All the leading colts of the 1932 season were kept eligible, with the exception of Calumet Delco, 2, 2:07 1/2, the champion over the half-mile tracks, and Dorothy, 2, 2:10, leading race-winning filly of 1932. Both these colts were not kept eligible to this stake, which fact is at all disappointing to the owners of those that are in. Included in the list are Sir Raleigh, 2, 2:04 1/2, owned by Alan J. Wilson, of Boston; Mary Reynolds, 2, 2:05 1/2, owned by W. N. Reynolds, of Winston-Salem, N. C., and in the Ben White Stable; Senator Boga, 2, 2:08 1/2, the property of Dr. E. P. Clement, of Elgin, O., and a chance prospect; Brown Perry, 2, 2:07 1/2, Challenger, 2, 2:07 1/2, owned by Trainer Ed Kirby, of Goshen, N. Y.; Meulien, 2, 2:07 1/2, property of William Hughes, of Cleveland; Senator Boga, 2, 2:08 1/2, from the John Dagler Stable, of Allentown, Pa.; Hollywood Fortune, 2, 2:09, from the Hollywood Farm of J. C. Dodge, of Lexington, King Ben, 2, 2:09 1/2, from the Good Time Stable of W. H. Cane, Goshen, N. Y.; American Hanover, 2, 2:09 1/2, from the Hanover Farms Stable of Hanover, Pa., and others. Hanover Show Farms was the biggest nominator, having kept five colts eligible. It is not known as yet at what track the rich stake will be decided, but most likely it will again be run and staged over the Good Time Park course of W. H. Cane, at Goshen, where last season it was successful in bringing out an attendance of 25,000 in a town boasting of but 2,500 population.

Caton Has Group of Six

As is his customary rule, Will Caton, of Syracuse, N. Y., trainer, again furnishes the first interesting speed work of the northern winter training season. Word comes from that point that the popular trainer has a well-thought-of colt in the new two-year-old Prince Dean, full brother of Hollywood Jenny, 3, 2:10. A week ago he let him move a mile in 2:30 with a quarter in 37 seconds, which was very simple for the Hollywood Prince youngster. Another of his colts, Benrice Richards, was easy in a mile in 2:42, quarter in 38 seconds, which is by far the most interesting work that has been on tap in any of the northern points. Six two-year-olds are included in the group that Caton is giving his attention to this spring at Syracuse. Vic Fleming is also again located at the track with his imposing stable, but as yet has not exhibited anything of his stable members.

The word is that everyone is highly pleased with Syracuse's policy of dropping the running horse program that it carried out for the last two years at her State Fair, which, incidentally, proved highly costly to her, and is again this year to resume her Grand Circuit meetings which were always so highly popular with patrons of that great exposition. While plans have not been made public for her race program, it can be taken for granted that it will be most ambitious one, and we can also say that it will include the running of one of the most important and sought-after colt futurities of the trotting turf. Due announce-of game which will be given out in the course of the coming weeks.

In the East horsemen are preparing for their annual New England Horsemen's Day and dinner, one of the really big public affairs of that section, which is to be held at the Bond Hotel, Hartford, Conn., February 28, with the well-known trotting enthusiast, John A. Pilgard, of that city, in charge. In the Central States horsemen are looking forward to annual Buckeye Horsemen's banquet and meeting of the Ohio Short Ship Circuit, which is to be held at the Hollenden Hotel, Cleveland, February 8. Both these affairs are the high points of the dull winter season in trotting circles.

Western New York Meet

Word comes from Western New York that officials and members of the Western New York Fair Circuit, one of the leaders in present-day fair and trotting circles, are to meet this coming month and announce plans for the 1933 season. Secretary A. D. Toomey, of the circuit, the popular and efficient member of the Chautauque County Fair at Dunkirk, N. Y., has announced that programs and all departments of the various circuit meetings this year will again be up to the usual high standard of their meetings. The Dunkirk meeting last year was one of its very best, and that at Hamburg, N. Y., guided by the veteran horseman and fair secretary, J. C. Newton, who has been at the head of that mammoth county fair for more than three decades, was the best in its history, and he is out to make 1933 exposition an even greater success. Both points will be popular training spots during the spring months, and indications are that more than 100 head will be in training at each place. Harry Benedict, the well-known East Aurora, N. Y., owner-trainer, is already stationed at the Hamburg track with a stable of 12 head. Two of the leaders in this stable are a pair of colts by Mr. McElwyn, 1:59 1/2, that are personally bred and are said to be two of the best colts ever seen in Western New York. Trainer Pete Belber has five head owned by George Herold & Sons, of Buffalo, which include Tommy Chenuit, 2:07 1/2, and Dr. H. V. Baker, the popular vet, of Hamburg, has two real colts, one of which, Colonel Beatty, 2, 2:18, is looked upon as having an especially bright future before him this season.

H. P. Krimendahl, Celina, O., owner, has just recently received two cablegrams from European countries asking for a price on his great filly, Dorothy, 2, 2:10, undefeated the past season, with seven consecutive victories to her credit. A fancy price has been placed on the filly, and if she is not sold to foreign interests she will be campaigned thru the Grand Circuit, where she is being kept eligible to all the important stake and futurity events of the year. Had she been kept eligible to the Hambletonian stake by being paid up on January 1, 1932, she could have been sold for a big figure to interests in this country.

Fair Elections

DANBURY, Conn.—The Danbury Agricultural Society, sponsor of the Danbury Fair, has elected the following officers: G. Mortimer Rundle, president; Herbert H. Vreeland and O. Stuart McLean, vice-presidents; G. Mortimer Rundle, secretary; George E. Nevius, assistant secretary; John R. Bacon, treasurer; Joseph E. Platt, assistant treasurer. Directors: G. Mortimer Rundle, H. H. Vreeland, George M. Nevius, C. E. Mason, J. R. Bacon, Eber A. Hodge, C. Stuart McLean, Joseph E. Platt and Merritt W. Rundle. Executive committee: C. M. Rundle, John R. Bacon and George M. Nevius.

GREAT FALLS, Mont.—Cascade County commissioners have reappointed Frank McPheter, farmer, as one of the five commissioners of the North Montana Fair, which established a new State attendance record of 131,063 with its second annual exhibit last fall, and named Bruce I. Steinmetz, projectionist at the Liberty Theater here, to succeed Clarke Bumgarner, a farmer, on the fair board. Both appointments are for two-year terms. L. F. Rutherford is chairman of the board; O. S. Warden, vice-chairman, and G. T. Boyd, secretary. Harold F. DePue is fair manager. The last audit placed the value of the fair plant at $290,000 and other assets bring the total to $334,322.

BILLINGS, Mont.—Two new members of the board of fair commissioners of Midland Empire Fair of Yellowstone County are Emmitt Vaughn, Laurel, and J. A. Pickens, Huntley. They succeed Charles A. Stout, Huntley, and B. L. Frice, Laurel. Hold-over members are W. C. Renwick, president; Harry A. Snyder, vice-president, and Paul C. Vornholt, secretary. At a meeting of the board in February officers will be elected and plans laid for 1933. Two advisory members will be appointed to succeed B. L. Brockway, who recently moved away, and W. J. Mulvaney, who died recently.

LOCKPORT, N. Y.—Fayette E. Pease, J. W. Thompson and S. A. Perry have been elected directors of Niagara County Fair. Directors will elect officers soon.

NASSAU, N. Y.—Agricultural and Liberal Arts Society of Rensselaer County, sponsoring Nassau Fair, elected: President, John P. Williams; vice-presidents, Fred M. Neilson and David L. Lynd; treasurer, Edgar Rowe; secretary, Charles C. Poynner. Directors: Ira G. Payne, T. R. VanHosen, Edward W. Moray, Jesse F. Snow, Robert M. Dean, Esther Howe, Merrill Zweig, Henry Bull. Fair dates are August 22-25.

HIBBING, Minn.—L. W. Emery, of this city, was elected president of the Minnesota Federation of County Fairs at the annual meeting in Minneapolis. Other officers include Edward Zimmerhaki, of Caledonia, vice-president; R. S. Thornton, treasurer; R. F. Hall, Minneapolis, re-elected secretary. Directors elected for a three-year term: Ben Campbell, Utica, first district; Lewis Scofield, Zumbrota, third district; George Stermann, Minneapolis, fifth district; Harry Steele, Appleton, seventh district, and Robert Lund, Thief River Falls, ninth district.

STONEBORO, Pa.—William D. McIntyre has been elected president of the Mercer County Agricultural Society, which sponsors the annual Stoneboro Fair. W. A. Boyd was named vice-president; W. B. Parker, secretary, and George H. McIntyre, treasurer. The fair this year will be held September 1-4.

LEHIGHTON, Pa.—The following officers were elected for 1933 at the annual meeting of the Carbon County Agricultural Association, operator of the Allentown Fair: George H. Enzian, president; George Kresge, vice-president; Frank R. Diehl, secretary; E. A. Boyer, treasurer; Harvey Arner, William J. Zahn, George E. Frechy, Ed Leinhard, Lester Wert, Henry Wert, Adam Diehl, Alvin Flexor, Charles Langkamer, Harry Warner, A. F. Straup, George Gilbert and Burt McLean, directors. A surprise of the meeting was the refusal of William J. Zahn, secretary for the last 16 years, to refuse re-election.

DOYLESTOWN, Pa.—The following officers of the Doylestown Fair were elected for 1933: President, Dr. H. W. Turner, of New Hope; vice-presidents, Horace B. Wilgus, Philadelphia, and Burroughs Michener, Doylestown; treasurer, Robert H. Ensert, Doylestown; secretary, J. Allen Gandy, Doylestown. The date for the 1933 fair were fixed for September 26-30. The financial report showed that a slight loss was suffered in 1932, but it was stated that the Doylestown fair was in a sound financial condition.

HARLAN, Ia.—The Shelby County Fair Association has elected new officers. J. H. Frederickson is the new president, succeeding D. J. Booth, and William J. Lewis has been renamed treasurer. Henry Larson and Hal Campbell were elected directors. The fair deficit is now $5,000.

WASHINGTON, Conn.—Horace P. Deming, Riverton, was elected president of Litchfield County Fair Association. Others elected were: Vice-president, Louis Cronan, Harwinton; secretary, Mrs. Marion Mattoon, Plymouth; treasurer, Donald Peck, Litchfield; executive committee, Judge Charles F. Mason, Washington; Samuel Blakelee, Goshen; Walter Wood, Terryville; R. G. Bentley, Harwinton; George R. Bailey II, Litchfield.

FEW UPSETS

a candidate for re-election as secretary of the State fair. For the last seven years Mr. Jackson has served in this capacity. He is 74. Perry Reed, of Henderson, Neb., former president of the State Board of Agriculture, succeeds Mr. Jackson as secretary, while A. H. Miller, of Blair, second vice-president, was unanimously named president. Another unexpected move was Dr. Tolen's decision to step out of active fair participation. Mr. Tolen, who was first vice-president, and who, according to tradition, was to have assumed the presidency, was too occupied with outside work to allow him to do this. R. R. Vance, of Hastings, and Senator William Banning, of Union, were named first and second vice-presidents, respectively, and T. H. Waite, Eward, treasurer. President Miller appointed the following on the board of managers of the State fair: H. W. White, Genoa; Frank Shubert, Shubert, Neb.; Gates Lilley, Papillion, and J. A. Boyd, Kearney. Members of the State board elected by ballot follow: T. H. Wake, Frank Shubert, A. W. Lamb, Charles Graff, R. E. Vance, Fred Kelly, C. S. Hawk, Charles Dobry, S. A. Sanderson, E. P. Noyes, H. F. Kuhl, Charles Newcomer, E. Sinner, E. J. Mitchell and Irl Tolen.

See Good Prospects

As a whole, the prospects for 1933 county fairs are good, managers from most of the 54 county expositions represented declared. E. R. Davis, for six years secretary of the County Fair Managers' Association, said most managers were optimistic, altho attitudes have changed in regard to running fairs. This year the educational side will be stressed, whereas in former years entertainment and the program have been advertised as the features. County fair managers advocate using more local talent along with the outside shows in an effort to not only reduce expenses, but help build more of a community spirit and interest in the local fair.

Mr. Davis, of Hastings, secretary of the Adams County Fair, said there was an uncertainty of feeling due to a pending law in the Legislature which, if passed, might cut State aid. At present the State law requires each county to contribute $2,000 to the support of the county exposition. If the county board is inclined, it may donate a similar sum in addition. Mr. Davis feels that the latter part, the additional giving on the part of the county, might be discontinued, but not the entire designated donation. If the law were passed it would become effective in time to hinder the work of many county fairs.

It is because of this fear that showmen were unable to contract many fairs this year. Bookings were slow, as many of the county managers were not sure of their revenue. L. B. Clough, of Kansas City, representing Radio-Kelth-Orpheum (fair and special entertainment department), told The Billboard representative that bookings were late this year. He described the convention as good for contact purposes only.

To Be More Conservative

C. G. Marshall, Arlington, new secretary-treasurer of the Association of County Fair Managers, said most of the county expositions will be held this year, but all of them on a more conservative basis. He said that there will be few 50-cent gate admissions, most of the county expositions reducing to 25 cents. The following resolutions by the county group show the policy to be followed in the 1933 fairs:

"We recommend the use of home talent as a part of the program before the grand stand, thereby encouraging more of a cooperative spirit in outlying towns and communities. We therefore recommend the continued support of 4-H Clubs and other allied educational work by county and State fairs. We endorse the greatest efforts for continued higher type of exhibits and the best premiums possible under present conditions. We insist on the elimination of all gambling and questionable shows on all Nebraska fairs-ground."

Otto Pfeiffer, Elkhorn, was elected president of the Association of County Fair Managers; R. C. Johnson, Mead, vice-president, and Chester Marshall, Arlington, secretary-treasurer.

Bookings Light

Many showmen and representatives of attraction companies were on hand. Among the companies were the following: Barnes-Carruthers Fair Booking Association, represented by W. H. Merceles and M. H. Barnes; Theoris-Duffell Fireworks Company, by Ray W. Anderson; National Sound Equipment Company; Radio-Kelth-Orpheum, Western vaudeville exchange (fair and special entertainment department), by L. B. Clough; Williams & Lee Attractions; Lyck Fireworks Company, Chris Lyck, manager; Harper's Attractions; Hartzler Public Address System, by W. L. Hartzler; Wizard Novelty Circus, by Jack O. Wiziard; Crawford Public Address System; Lew Rosenthal's Amusement Enterprises, by Babe La Neal and Ernie Forrest; Miller's Society Horses; F. G. Staats & Company, by Russell Green.

Following are fair bookings that were announced: Arlington, Waterloo and Oakland, booked by Crawford Public Address System; Beatrice, Trenton and Pierce, by the Lyck Fireworks Company; Belleville, Kan., by Theoris-Duffell Fireworks Company, and Barnes-Carruthers; Sidney, Ia., by Miller's Society Horses and Hartzler Public Address System; Burwell, by Hartzler Public Address System.

PCSA Chalks Up Another Successful Banquet-Ball

11th annual function of West Coast showfolks' organization—attendance, 311—Chairman George Tipton and his aids praised—Shanley clicks as master of ceremonies

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—The 11th annual Charity Banquet and Ball of Pacific Coast Showmen's Association at Alexandria Hotel Wednesday of last week was recorded as gratifying from all angles. This year, because of the prevailing general conditions, the function was approached with considerable misgivings as to the amount of success to be obtained. It was another grand affair. The ticket price was reduced from the last year charge of $6 to $2.50 and everyone went to the task with a will and worked, knowing that the affair would pay out in about proportion to the zeal of the workers. For George Tipton, chairman; President Eddie Brown, Past President Harry Fink, Louis Bissinger, Steve Henry and Mark Kirkendall, who comprised the committee, there is a great measure of praise, and to all the PCSA members, who did a fine job in face of what seemed to be unsurmountable difficulties.

Three hundred and eleven were served at the banquet table and many bought tickets who were unable to attend. The program booklet, handled by Joe Glacey, also showed a neat profit. Orville Crafts, Archie Clarke, Mel Vaught, Harry Seber and Walt Hunsaker sent equipment from their shows for lobby and ballroom displays. On the spacious hotel lobby Prince Elmer, clown, and associates met the guests. Also in lobby were displayed miniature rides, mechanical devices and carnival fronts. The ballroom was beautifully decorated in the club colors, orange and red, with the famous PCSA streamer, a life-size cutout of "Tusko," with the late Al G. Barnes in the howdah; calliope, a jungle effect with cutouts of lions and tigers hidden among palms, etc. The banquet, scheduled for 8:30 p.m., was only a few minutes late. A most delectable menu was served. At speakers' table were President Eddie Brown, Past President Harry Fink, the inimitable Francis Patrick Shanley (emcee), Burr McIntosh, W. J. (Bill) Pickens, Sylvester L. Cronin, Frank Downie, Duke Pohl, J. C. Furness, Dick Ferris, Ross Davis (at time of taking of picture some not in the gathering). There were some disappointments at speakers' table—Othman Stevens, of Los Angeles Examiner; Harry Carr, feature writer Los Angeles Times; Paul D. Howse, police commissioner, who was unable to attend because of illness, and Charles Murray, screen star, not able to get away from location. When Toastmaster Shanley got the affair under way it was rapid fire. He was at his best and, candidly, it was a riot of entertainment.

During the banquet many persons were (See PCSA CHALKS on page 35)

Vic Levitt Convalescent; In Hospital at Seattle

SEATTLE, Jan. 21.—Victor D. (Vic) Levitt, beloved by hundreds of his associates thruout the Pacific Northwest, also in the East, after a long siege in Providence Hospital, where he underwent four operations, is convalescent. The Billboard is glad to announce, and is receiving a limited number of callers. Steps are being taken to liquidate the assets of Levitt-Brown-Huggins Shows, Inc., which recently made an assignment to the Seattle Credit Association, Mr. Weber, to satisfy creditors, and it is earnestly hoped by many showfolks and people in other lines of business that reconstruction work may be done and the show again take to the road in the spring.

Tannas Mitchell, Notice!

CINCINNATI, Jan. 21.—The following telegram was received yesterday from Ruby Costello, 2110 Third avenue, New York: "Please try to get in touch with Tannas Mitchell at once. Miller Costello died last night." Mr. Mitchell's address is unknown to The Billboard at this time, and the wire was answered accordingly.

Philadelphia "Pickups"

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20.—Weather this week has been very favorable to the museums, consequently business picked up.

Max Gruberg's World's Museum has an almost entirely new show this week. The attractions consist of Mysterious Pencil, Iron-tongue man; La Goldie, lady sword swallower; Chief Ullon, African pygmy; Simmons' Washboard Band; Homer Makower, magician; Cleve. Seal Boy; electric chair and Mme. Kelly, mentalist. Leah-Lee continues as the added attraction.

South Street Museum put on one of the best lines of features of the season. Attractions consist of Eko and Iko, mysterious people; Habu, iron-tongue man; Happy Jack Decker, fat man; Lorcello, man with revolving head; Prof. Herbert, magician; Lady Betty, mentalist and Chinese sword box. Ossified Harry continues as the added feature.

Sam Weintaub, well-known concessioner, was a visitor here this week. Has been operating stores in Virginia since closing last outdoor season. Returned to Norfolk, Va.

A. D. Alliger, fireworks man, came in from Newark to visit some relatives.

The wife of M. R. (Goldie) Goldberg, manager the Windsor Hotel, was taken to hospital and operated on for appendicitis. At last report was recovering nicely.

Lot Owners Are Not Now "Uppish"

ST. JOHN, N. B., Jan. 21.—No longer are lots for circuses and carnivals scarce in this section. It seems that in nearly every community, of varying sizes, competition is growing keen to see who can offer the best inducements for the tent shows. This contrasts with the efforts of tent-show agents some years ago to find lots without giving the gross receipts of the engagement for rental of ground. The prices have been cut sharply, and are going still further, apparently.

For instance, in St. John tent-show agents used to have an arduous task to get suitable grounds on which to set up a circus or carnival at a reasonable fee. Now, there are numerous lots available at comparatively low prices. In this category are: South End Improvement League grounds, operated by that neighborhood organization; North End Improvement League grounds, controlled by that neighborhood organization; East End Improvement League grounds, operated by that neighborhood organization. Once the leagues holding these grounds announced themselves as opposed to renting them for tent shows at any price—which meant a stiff fee when assigned to circuses and carnivals—which was seldom. A new lot is the Shamrock Park, which has been set for back taxes by the city. The site is in the North End, adjoining the North End Improvement League grounds. The local exhibition grounds are also available, but are too far from the center of the city, altho usually one or two tent shows play there each season. For small tent shows a foundry site in the East End is available, this being owned by the Turnbull Real Estate Company. A lot in the rear of the Strand Theater, a movie house, is also available and is owned by F. G. Spencer, operator of the theater. In many instances the rentals asked for tent-show lots here have been cut in two since several years ago, when the lot owners were uppish.

Wilson Under Treatment

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Jan. 21.—Among showfolks here this winter are Tom and Madam Ana Wilson, well-known concessioners, last season with Noble C. Filly Shows. Mr. Wilson is under a doctor's care for infection of both hands, which he has been suffering the last three months. He is receiving an electrical treatment. Is carrying both hands in a "sling." His physician visits him daily. Mrs. Wilson is his competent nurse. The Wilsons are residing at 417½ Ouachita avenue.

The Last "Word" in Your Letter to Advertisers, "Billboard".

MIDWAY CONFAB
 By DEBONAIRE DAB

THIS WILL BE a new year, in outdoor show circles.

CARNIVALS will yet come into their own. The "flickers" knockers are already dodging "boomcrangs."

MEMBERS OF PCSA, Los Angeles, are elated over the success of their association's annual affair.

DOC WADDELL is still residing at Chillicothe, O., and still has the welfare of outdoor show business at heart.

ACCORDING to recent announcements quite a number of fine circus performers may be available for free acts this year.

HI NICHOLS recently returned to "Uncle Sam's" domain from Canada, with Royal Hawaiians.

ACCORDING to a letter from Mile, Saida LaMarr she had disposed of rooming house at Tampa, Fla., and was en route to California.

FOR THE WINTER months, Johnnie Paine is working in an A. & P. store at Thomasville, Ga., so he postcarded last week.

WORLD OF MIRTH SHOWS is an attractive title. So was World at Home Shows and Herbert A. Kline's Garden of Rides.

DORAL DINA, appearing at Gorman's Museum, Philadelphia, advises of having again booked with Fred Thomas' Side

LEO GRANDY intoned that he will again be with O. J. Buch Shows, his 13th season with that caravan; a majority of that time salesman The Billboard. Quite a one-show record. Like most of the boys from the Hoosier State, Leo sticks to a satisfactory berth.

MR. AND MRS. W. L. (Cannon Ball) Bell are back in Phoenix, Ariz., after a month's vacation in "M. K. & T."—that is, Missouri, Kansas and Texas—and "Cannon" is about ready to start the "ball" rolling, getting his concessions ready for the new season.

RECOVERING: Frank E. Hank, known as Prof. Artima, after surgery treatment for hernia, is at Veterans' Administration Hospital, Los Angeles, and would appreciate receiving letters. Coming season will again be with Lisle Greater Shows.

HENRY T. BERGAN, electrician, last season with Claude Bremer Shows, and the missus and baby, "Junior," are spending the winter all-comfy in their "home on wheels" up Wisconsin way. Henry has been building a 25-kw power unit for the coming season.

THE TROUTS (Ollie and Aggie) will not spring that big, flashy concession at the Florida winter fairs. Have the outfit and motor truck stored, and plan not opening until April. In the meantime they are good-timing—fishing, etc., and visiting with acquaintances in the "Peninsula State."

in New York and visiting acquaintances. Princess Zelda, mentalist, and her manager, Andrew Johnson, were also in the Big City recently and visited friends, among them Miss Richards, while en route to work at McCaslin's Museum, Baltimore.

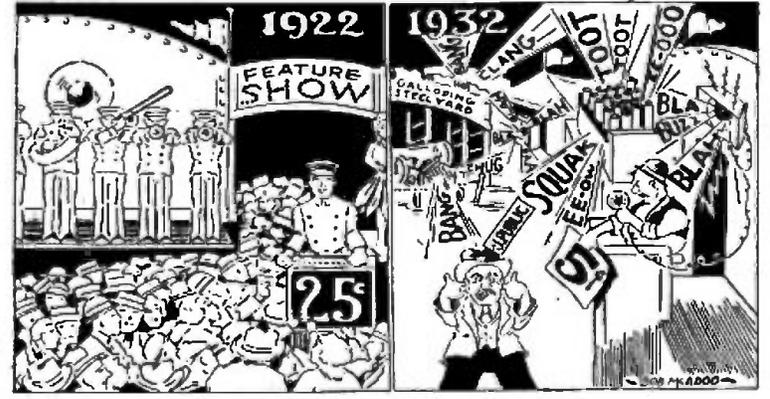

FROM HONOLULU, T. H., dated Jan. 8.—H. W. Fowler's whale, "Moby Dick," is getting good play. Both he and Mike Golden, publicity man, have been featured in a local newspaper column, "Shore-Side Sports." Location near center of Honolulu's business district and adjacent to aid a part of the midway of E. K. Fernandez Shows. All shows and rides that played the Edks' Carnival are being used, with about 15 concessions.

LAVERN LUTHER postcards from Southern Texas that he is spending the winter in the "Land of No dinero" and "No savvy." Was a guest during the holidays aboard the nifty 36-foot "home on wheels" of Willard the Wizard, who had just completed a tour over a wide circuit. At New Year's party of Willard met a number of showfolks, among them Mrs. Roy Gray and daughter, Ruth, and Harry Long.

WINTER QUARTERS
 Hammers hammering,
 Sawblades ringing;
 Some are curving
 And others slinging.
 Paints are flying,
 And no time losing;
 Most folks trying,
 A few but snoozing.
 Spring's a-coming,
 Th' end of drooping;
 So keep a-hustling,
 Soon again, trouping!

RAY A. HARTER, tattooist and kullie thrower, known on midways as Hatter Ray, has been off the road the past year and has a studio in Detroit. Incidentally, he is now known as "Diamond Ray," having four sparklers in his upper front teeth.

SEVERAL carnivals have announced officially (in ads) increased activity for this year in the way of augmenting interest in advance of engagements thru local-atmosphere promotions. Incidentally, such promotional work, aided by auspicious (floral) parades, "Queen" and other contests, public weddings, etc., probably was the origin of the term "special agent"—agents specially schooled in the work—many years ago—two or

IN A HUMOROUS MOOD, Bob McAdoo, show painter, formerly with S. W. Brundage Shows, sketched an idea of how "Mr. Technocracy" has affected midways during the last 10 years.

Show for the fourth consecutive season, and again with Greater Sheesley Shows.

HAVING RECOVERED from an attack of the flu, Bennie Smith postcarded that he was leaving Kinston, N. C., to visit J. J. Fontana at Atlanta, Ga., who plans launching a 10-car caravan.

FRANK ZORDA recently opened a museum on Peachtree street, Atlanta, Ga. Being an ex-soldier, his reader freq. Reported admissions over 1,500 the first day.

"BRADEN HOLLER," in Tennessee, would be sort of lonesome this winter without Jim Braden and the missus. 'Tis said Jim is hibernating in "Gawje" this winter.

F. W. PAULI still "enjoying the sunshine" at Tampa, Fla., was last season electrician with Drew's World Standard Shows, formerly seven seasons with Krause Greater Shows.

A PROMINENT show woman remarked to this editor some weeks ago: "If Johnny J. Jones were still alive!" She has been heart-and-soul for the future of the Johnny J. Jones Shows.

THE MUSEUM on Houston street, San Antonio, was sponsored by Booby Obadal and Jack Dillon, instead of it being a Beckmann & Gerety show as was reported for the January 14 issue.

ONE OF THE NIPPIEST and most complete coin-machines arcades that travels is that of P. VanAult—in the opinion of Poe Woo Lunaford, who has been in and around Cinoy this winter.

JIM HOWARD'S store show, with Fred Webster in advance, has been playing to a satisfactory average business in Texas. Burkburnett the best spot, Wichita Falls the worst—at latter city members of Greenburg Amusement Company were visitors, among them Mrs. Greenburg and Mrs. Stevenson.

MANY OUTDOOR showfolks, among them attaches of Johnny J. Jones Exposition, are acquainted with Gypsy Myers Davidson, who some time ago returned to vaudeville and is now a feature with the Dalton and Rose roller-skating act on the REKO Time. This week at the Albee in Cincinnati, she was a caller at The Billboard and held a reminiscence gabfest with this scribe.

F. L. STEBBINS' Venetian Glass Palace—exhibition glass blowing, spinning and weaving—has been meeting success thru Georgia and Alabama, playing schools and in store rooms; January 11-17 at Gadsden, Ala., auspices Parents-Teachers' Association. Happy Stewart is in advance. Show headed to the East Coast for the spring and summer season.

CLYDE LINVILLE ("Whiskers") to train crew and other acquaintances in show business) passed thru Cinoy last week, en route from the Southeast to visit circus winter quarters at Peru, Ind.; later to Greater Sheesley Shows, with which he has trouped the last four seasons and formerly. "Whiskers" says he would rather try to exist on "snowballs" than "warm climate."

RAY RICHARDS, a featured lady high diver with Billie Ritchie's Water Circus, has been spending a few weeks' vacation

Owner J. R. EDWARDS says:

"Rides may come, and rides may go, but the BIG ELI will go on forever." Mr. Edwards is manager of his own attractions and knows the popularity of a BIG ELI Wheel. His De Luxe Model No. 5 has been a profit earner for him. Many other owners are just as enthusiastic boosters. There must be reasons. Ask about the BIG ELI Wheel today.

Looking Back Thru The Billboard

(Issue of January 25, 1908)

Fred Beckmann will be general agent Miller Bros.' 101 Ranch Wild West coming season, with offices in New York. Born to Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Schultz, last season with Kempf's Model City, a seven-pound boy. Al Pierce is preparing to open a "Creation" show at Hot Springs, Ark. C. S. Jametson is disposing of some coin machines at Cedar Falls, Ia. Personnel of Milc. Venier's Bon Ton Girls with Hokus Exposition Shows will include Flossie Perkins, Jane Hurt, Patti Morton and Agnes Terry. Art Gardner, Wilkesburg, Pa., has some used motion picture films for sale. Robinson Amusement Company (Dan R. Robinson) wants several more shows, but "must be new." Johnny J. Jones Exposition wintering at Ostrich Farm, Jacksonville, Fla.

10 Years Ago

(Issue of January 27, 1923)

Charles F. Watnuff to Greater Patterson Shows as general agent. J. F. Murphy Shows to have pay-gate policy. Fred Beckmann, George E. Robinson and B. S. Gerety secure Clarence A. Wortham Shows title. W. X. MacCollin to Con T. Kennedy Shows. R. C. (Doc) Allen promoting indoor events in Ohio cities. Ed C. Brown, former carnival owner and concessioner, now in concessions supply business. Frank W. Babcock is building a new apartment hotel in Los Angeles. Smith's Museum, Los Angeles, destroyed by fire—George Donovan had place jammed with decorative attractions. Berney Smuckler and Milt Holland operating Smuckler-Holland Bazaar Company. Ben Krause returns to the carnival field. "Bill" Floto promoting wrestling matches at Tulsa, Okla.

to a company and staying in towns some to several weeks in advance of show. It is really a specialty.

HEADED BY Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Wiedemann and Mrs. E. C. McDonald, of Houston, a party of Houstonians paid a visit to Pacific Whaling Company's unit No. 2 at Liberty, Tex. This is one of the most attractive of the Whaling Company's units. Harold Anfenger is manager; Capt. Lew Nichols, lecturer; M. C. Patton, in charge of advance, assisted by Joe Moen and Thomas (Skinny) Dawson. An added attraction is a giant sea elephant exhibit.

DON MOORE recently closed his museum on the Pike at Long Beach and is back in winter quarters at North Hollywood, Calif. Ada Mae, wife of Manager Moore, has been exhibiting her large snakes at the Act Center School and is slated to work in a "circus" picture soon to be filmed. The Moores have been planning a trip to Dan's home in Redding, Calif. Lee Teller, with his magic and Punch figures, is back at the museum quarters after concluding a five weeks' engagement at Sacramento.

Comparisons!

'Twas last summer. The midway veritably packed with amusement seekers. Minstrel show entertainers out front waiting to bally. Looking at fat-man painting on a side-show banner, opener said to comedian: "That reminds me of the BIG crowd here tonight!" Comedian: "Yeh, an' yu'see that little midget standin' in his hand? That reminds me uv the spendin' change these folks has in theh pockets!"

SEATTLE "PICKUPS"—Ted Levitt is in charge with a 12-people freak act playing the towns in Washington and Oregon. Sam Brown, erstwhile Levitt-Brown-Huggins showman, is among "those present" here; also Spike Huggins and Perry Glette. Johnnie Walsh and the Browns arrived here for a winter rest period. Harry Meyers has opened a hamburger lunch with Bill Meyers as his partner—were formerly with Levitt-Brown-Huggins Shows. Mr. and Mrs. Pennington returned from Los Angeles where they played lots with concessions. Bennie the Turk has closed with Hildebrand Shows. L. Meyers, wholesale novelty man, was in city for a few days' visit. Mr. and Mrs. Allen are scheduled to arrive from San Diego for a month's visit.

"PICKUPS" FROM LARGO, Fla.—On Model Shows of America midway; Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Madigan among the prominent showfolks present. Dave Morris and wife joined from New Orleans. Bob and Dorothy Barclay, of Motocrome note, arrived at Tampa from Chicago in time to leave with the winter show. Meyer Hamburg and Al Calky motored from New York and are handling prize-package candy in the various shows. A staff photographer of Tampa Times has been assigned to cover all events in the State played by Model Shows. On Sunday before leaving Tampa a ladies' swimming party at St. Petersburg, consisting of Maude Montgomery and Cleo Hoffman (instructors), Mrs. Dell Lamkin, Mrs. Dave Morris, Mrs. Harry Melville, Mrs. Carl Lautner, Mrs. Murray Shpard, Mrs. Cliff Wilson, Mrs. Ed Latham and Mrs. Milt Morris—incidentally, a bridge club has been formed with the foregoing as members, also Charlie Miles, Nate Miller, Gus Woodall, Frank Hooper and Mr. and Mrs. C. Martin.

Friendly City Shows

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 19.—Things still humming around winter quarters. The next thing to be built, a new entrance to the park. Manager John Geocoma and Assistant Manager Harry H. Winters are leaving to attend fair meetings. Lloyd Bess was a visitor, also B. VanDyne, of Pineville, O., who will be with the show this year. Harry H. Kinesy, who runs the El Wheel, on a motor trip to Kentucky and Indiana, and had a fine show. Buddy Cleary has contracted her showman. Show with this caravan for coming season. Capt. Floyd Worley, who will have one of the free acts, is spending the winter in Paterson, N. J. — Also has a ball game booked. B. F. Jackson, of Wheeling, W. Va., will be night watchman on the lot. He is playing some vaude dates in and around Wheeling. Jackson and Manager Geocoma did black-face double in vaudeville years ago. MRS. HARRY H. WINTERS.

Isler Greater Shows

ADA, Okla., Jan. 19.—Inclement weather the past week, but workers kept busy indoors on wagons and fronts. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Graham arrived from Harlingen, Tex., and Graham is giving his equipment complete overhauling. "Dolly" Burns has shipped in his side-show equipment—he will be here in about 10 days. Jim Naylor of Wild West note, who has a large ranch at Colgate, visits quarters frequently, also Jack Edwards, another thorough trouper, who operates a poolroom here. Flo Roberts left to visit homefolks—expected back in about 10 days. Johnny Ellis getting along nicely promoting wrestling at Ottawa, Kan. Business Manager Dick O'Brien has his office at Broadway Hotel and many showfolks gather there. Charles Zorn, owner, and Mrs. Harris, manager, are regular folks and the boys are made to feel at home. Mrs. Rose Lee arrived home, New Orleans, okeh and is taking her much-needed rest — had the Illusion Show on the outfit last season. Norman Smith and Capt. Dan Cherry working on a new sensational free act for coming season. Jim Lingo, master mechanic, building a fine new shop wagon. MARK DRYAN.

Coleman Bros.' Shows

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Jan. 19.—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Coleman and Richard Coleman have returned from the Maine fairs convention, held at Bangor. Among contracts secured were the Farmington (Me.) Fair. The Rochester (N. H.) Fair was also contracted while the brothers were on the trip. A stop was made at Rochester, N. H., from which city Dr. J. A. Stevens, of Rochester Fair, accompanied them on the trip to Maine. A previous trip had been made to New York on business. Buddy Farley, while en route from Asheville, N. C., to the Veterans' Hospital at Tupper Lake, Sunmount, N. Y., stopped off here for a couple of days. Tom, Dick and Mrs. Coleman accompanied Mr. Farley as far as New York. Maurice Girtov was a visitor here recently. All of which is from an executive of the show.

(Continued from page 35) called upon to rise and give the guests a "flash." Stanley F. Dawson, Ringling-Barnum Circus, responded in a neat little speech, as did Col. Ed Nagle, Bill Pickens, Steve Henry, Mabel Stark, Past President Harry Pink and President Brown. Minnie Fisher, well-known aerialist, who received injuries several years ago that caused her retirement from the arena, was also introduced. Burr McIntosh paid a beautiful tribute to showfolk, in part as follows: "I have reached life's 70th milestone; have been actor, author, writer, government photographer and war correspondent. For 43 years I have known folks of the stage and it has been reserved for me at this late time in life to know the real folk of the amusement field. You! Warm hearted, regular ones of the great outdoor show world." From 9:15 until 2 o'clock there was a great diversion of entertainment. After the floor was cleared there was dancing, interspersed with acts. Blossom Robinson sang As Long as the World Rolls On, In the Garden of My Heart, and a special-request number, My Wild Irish Rose.

The acts for floor show were provided by Charley Hatch and included: The RKO's Acrobatic Waltz and Whirlwind Tango. Larry DeBarr; Ito Uyeno, Japanese dance; Anita Rose, acrobatic dance; M. Escalante, Spanish adagio dance; Harmony Four and members of the Alexandria Hotel Lady Orchestra and entertainers. This orchestra was greatly enjoyed. It introduced "community singing," and how the crowd did tear into the songs of other days. Dick Ferris, on being introduced by Toastmaster Shanley and in response to inquiry as to his age, replied: "Just past 38. I have been anebored there for some time and don't intend to change numbers." An engraved gold life-membership card was presented to Past President Harry Pink. Presentation being introduced by President Brown, who thanked Harry in behalf of PCSA for his much-appreciated efforts during his term as president. Many letters were received from friends of PCSA and wires were read from Governor James Ralph Jr. (member of PCSA), John Ringling, O. O. McIntyre, John R. Castle, Othman Stevens and Paul D. Howse. O. N. Crafts and friends carried out a happy thought in presenting for the gathering—"The Ousia."

Ziv and Mrs. Herbert Zeiger. A special table that seated friends of Past President Harry Pink added much to the occasion. The delegation carried a streamer: "San Fernando Lodge BPOE, No. 1539"—Laird Johnson and wife, William A. Robinson and wife, Claude Hayes and wife and A. E. Eldredge and wife.

Sidelights

Manager S. L. Cronin of Al G. Barnes Circus did much to make the affair a success—his boosting and the large number of tickets purchased by him were of considerable help. . . . Orville Crafts, of Crafts 20 Big Shows; Archie Clarke, of Clarke's Greater Shows; Mel Vaught, of State Fair Shows; C. F. (Doc) Zeiger, Zeiger Shows, and Walter Hunsaker did fine work to make the banquet and ball successful. . . . The carnival contingent did themselves proud. . . . Some of the regulars were absent, much sickness being the cause. . . . It was regretted that Othman Stevens, of Los Angeles Examiner, and Harry Carr, of Los Angeles Times, were prevented by illness from being present. . . . All the press of Los Angeles did their bits in boosting the big doings, and this despite the fact that they had been "worked over" a lot for many affairs. . . . The photo of the banquet unfortunately did not do full justice to the occasion. Several tables of guests, the stage and animal outfits were not shown. . . . George Engesser, owner Scholl Bros. Circus, who had reservations, was ill, but sent a representative. . . . It was noted that the business people of Los Angeles and vicinity who do business with showfolk responded nicely in either taking tickets or ads in the program with but a few exceptions. . . . The affair was broadcast as "informal," but there were a lot of "tixes" noted and the ladies wore stunning gowns. . . . The grand march was again staged, with F. Pat Shanley the gallant leader and John Miller as grand master. . . . Everyone looks forward to the next annual Charity Banquet and Ball of PCSA.

Pitchmen I Have Met

By SID SIDENBERG

Incapacitated by wounds received in the World War didn't keep Claud (Brownie) Oghalton from becoming one of the best automobile polish workers in the business.

Brownie, who is 37 years old, was pitching tire patches before this nation entered the war. He volunteered and was badly wounded across the pond.

Brownie is married and has a 9-year-old daughter, Clorine, who attends school in Memphis, Tenn.

You most. You say you 'cannot take part in family matters.' Oh, Bill, I need you right now. My 'sweetheart' has eloped or galloped away.

THE BALLYHOO the boys are shooting has brought several steel rule boys into Columbus, O., only to find that conditions here are about the same as in any other town.

THIS IS THE BEST town in the State," cards D. F. McFarland, Cedar Rapids, Ia. "Whoever said it's closed is off center.

BOYS OF THE LEAF who knew Al Andrews will be sorry to read thru F. B. Yaeger, Thomas, Pa., of his death, as noted in the Final Curtain.

JAKE THE HARBOR says it from Chicago: "The boys here are still working theater lobbies. Two stores are going now. Department stores are full of pitchmen.

RECENTLY the Mack Murray Players played near Chicago and "Bill" was invited over to see Ten Nights in a Barroom. After the performance (which by the way played to a packed house) laugh. 'I am aware,' said Si to me, 'that we are only dubs; that if they keep on making laws, we'll soon be in the jug, where we'll be forced to toil for them and live on grits and beans. And this is why I now contend that life's put phony dreams.'

"I HAVE BEEN A READER of The Billboard for many years and it is certainly improving with age," writes H. Ralph Ux from Mohnton, Pa. "It always has been a good 'bible,' but it seems the older it gets the better—like that old musty keg in the cellar. The Christmas Special and the Holiday Greetings Number certainly were great, and here is more power to you."

DOC GEORGE M. REED cards from Columbus: "Where is Herb Hall, Heber Becker? Pipe up, old scouts. Say, George Silver, have you broken your arm? Bert Clayton, tell us all about Florida. And Dick Garrison, do you remember the doorway at Broad and High streets, Columbus, when you and Joe Kennard split time with gummy? Pipe up, Dick, and tell us about Chicago."

FROM HOT SPRINGS National Park, Jerry Russell picture cards: "Down here for the course. Saw some of the boys. All doing fairly good. So tell the boys to step on it and we might reach 'that corner' yet."

CHARLIE GAMMARATA AND Otto Guck are holding forth at the St. Louis Hotel, St. Louis. The boys are creating an air of prosperity in that neck of the woods. Among the other boys and girls of the profesh at that hostelry are Mr. and Mrs. Floyd R. Johnstone, Master Gale (the Cyclone Kid), Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Adkins, Mr. and Mrs. George Earle, Doc and Mrs. Kellest, Joe Wahl, Bill Ruiz, Bill Foote, Albert Burke, Prof. Abad and last but not least, Doc Gordon Sage.

COMES A LETTER from Tom Sigourney, Long Beach, Calif.: "This place is great for climate but not so hot for business. On the Pike here are some of the best workers in the country, but money is as tight as it is at other places. Mary Ragan, Doc McKay and Paul Hunt are with Jack Malone. Suk-Hat Harry Downing and Sid Hirsch also on the Pike. Sid has his own place. I am now working in Los Angeles, but may open my show here soon. In Los Angeles we find just a few workers. Bob Posey, with gummy; Williams, with ginseng; Fido Kerr, in a department store; Pat Costigan now and then is seen with that grand oldtimer, Jack Lonsdale. Madeline Ragan just got in from San Francisco and reports business there as not so good. We will all be headed for that 'dear old New York' soon."

"MY OPENING STAND was very good for nine days," pipes Doc Krots, Elmhurst, Pa. "My present town is even better than the first. I have had several interesting visitors during the past week, including the eminent Doc Ed White and party (of Syracuse), Doc George Hughes and W. P. Pordon. There were several strong pipes smoked and a number of jackpots cut up. I have recently joined out a new mascot—a pure-Bred English bull pup. If I secure the lecturer I want to take over my show, I will leave on my 'round-the-world cruise on the 30th of this month. I will send in pipes to the 'column' from the different points of call, and no holonay either. The roster of my show at present includes George (Musical) Sims (comedy and specialties), Besale Mac Smith (piano, specialty acts, advance agent, number producer) and Helen Rex (acts, piano and right-hand bower). "Dock," my police dog, and "Stub," the bull pup, are general factotums, trouble makers and sleepy heads."

FRED N. BEYER shoots: "Cannot afford to be without The Billboard and Pipes. Would sooner miss a meal."

IT ISN'T THE FELLOW who makes the most pitches who takes in the real get. It's the fellow who makes those pitches intelligently.

WEATHER LIKE SPRING in Cincy last week, giving the outside workers a real break.

SOME "JOHNNY" Come Lateys" think they may know it all. But in the end they will be glad to listen to an "old head."

ONE OF THE WORST habits a pitchman can fall into is to take in too much territory in statements made during his spiel. First thing he knows the tip loses confidence in what he is saying. Then he wonders why the passout was n. g.

First Pipe in 16 Years
 "This is my first pipe in 16 years at the profession," writes M. H. O'Keefe from San Diego, Calif. "But I read Pipes each week and enjoy hearing of the boys and girls of pitchdom. "Have been in San Diego since last November. Until recently I haven't seen many of the boys working, and I understood the streets are closed. I work stores only. "Had a fair Christmas biz. Following the holidays I layed off two weeks and then opened again on the ninth of this month, with darners. "I was led to write this pipe by the fact that I walked around today and met 12 of the boys and girls at work. All came down here from Los Angeles this week. The result is that this town looks like the county fair. They tell me that Los Angeles was crowded. (It must have overflowed.) "Let's read a pipe from Doc Young."

EARLE B. WILSON has spent close to 30 years in the cleaner end of the biz, including wallpaper cleaner, auto polish and several others. Earle is now in Columbus, O., working up a new line for spring.

REAL ENERGY and enterprise can't be stopped. Refuse to understand the meaning of the word "no" for an answer—and you'll get along.

BY CLOSELY OBSERVING an "old head" at work, some of our "late arrivals," you will quickly learn why he makes a good passout where you would have failed. If you've got the stuff, in time you can often heat him at his own game.

Playland Opens With Combined Amusements

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 21.—Located on a 14-story building in the heart of a business center, Playland, billed as America's largest indoor pleasure resort, opened its doors last Saturday. The establishment is operated by E. & E., with Frank Elms as manager. On opening day but four floors were in operation, but within a short time, says, the entire building will have been altered and put into use.

At present the first floor contains an arcade with 150 machines, soda fountain and kiddie rides. A mezzanine has a merry track and kiddies' sand pile. The second contains shooting gallery and machine-pitching courts.

On the second floor are a slide show and bowling alleys. Herman Singer has the show, and in his company are Francisco Lintini, three-legged man; Big Bertha and Slim Jim; Howard, the Water Boy; Major Dalbert, midget; Lady Dorothea and Company, mentalist; Fred Krisis, magic, Punch and Judy inside lecturer, and Singer doing his reading turn.

On the third floor, twice daily, a free ice-cream and circus entertainment is presented.

The fourth floor will soon be opened as a roller-skating rink.

Other installations yet to be made include archery field, shuffle board, marbles, rings for boys, flea circus, etc. Admission to the building is free, and on the opening day several thousand people passed thru the doors, with all concessions getting a good play.

Elms is an old-time stage employe, member of Providence Local IATSE and has operated amusement concessions for years at Newport (R. I.) Beach.

Old-Time Dixie Show at Memphis Auditorium

MEMPHIS, Jan. 21.—Under the title of the Old-Time Dixie Circus, H. C. Ingraham this week presented a fine array of talent. Show staged at the Ellis Auditorium. Among the acts were Harriett Edgill, Cyse O'Dell and Ullaine Malloy, singing Bertons, Arthur Nelson and family, Conley, and Duval's Animals, and Ticker. Great Usarda, Otto Kribling and Billy Lorette.

Mrs. Arthur Nelson was slightly injured in an automobile accident near Ripley, Tenn., while en route to Memphis from St. Louis with other members of her family. She was brought here to the Baptist hospital. Lorette Tucker did her hair and dress at a downtown corner before a crowd estimated at 10,000.

The town was plastered with thousands of tickets which admitted holders at a dime a head, and this helped considerably. Regular admission was 40 cents.

Headline Attractions Set for Grotto Circus

CLEVELAND, Jan. 21.—Orrin Davenport, who is winding up arrangements for the Grotto Circus at Public Auditorium, reports one of the best balanced bills ever scheduled. Included in the headline attractions already booked are Clyde Beatty and his animal act, who are now in Hollywood working in a Universal picture. Other leading attractions: The Davenport, Hobson and Walter Guice riding acts; Wallenda Troupe, high wire; Australian Wood Choppers; Harry Rittley, comedy table drop; Mickey King; Danwill Troupe, Hungarian acrobats; Albert Powell, trapeze contortionist; Ira Millette, head balancing on trapeze; Beadie Hollis, novelty trapeze; Connelio Troupe, flying trapeze; Flying Harolds; Dorothy Herbert, equestrienne. Fifteen Hagenbeck-Wallace elephants will be on the job with their trainer, Cheerful Gardner, and many clowns. Scheduled running time will be about 2 1/2 hours.

Larry E. Bach is general chairman the circus and Davenport is producer. The Grotto Circus played to 20,000 people last year, and advance indications are that attendance will be heavier in 1933.

Indoor Circus Postponed

ENONCE, La., Jan. 21.—The Tri-Parish Indoor Circus, which was to have been held here this month under the auspices of Robert Turner Post, American Legion, has been indefinitely postponed, according to its commander, A. L. Fruge.

McFarland Stages Show

DALLAS, Jan. 21.—Ed McFarland recently staged a successful indoor circus at Ennis under the auspices of American Legion. The show was given a large building, which housed 20 concessions. A number of circus acts were presented on a large stage in the center. McFarland, assisted by his wife, has a number of dates of this kind lined up in towns near Dallas.

CHARDON, O.—The annual Maple Festival will be held here March 30-April 1. Plans are being made by a committee of which State Representative Philip E. Ward is chairman. Arthur B. Carlson, founder of the festival, is vice-chairman.

Miller Show Gets Permit To Exhibit in Boston

CINCINNATI, Jan. 21.—Advice was received yesterday from Ray Brydon, general agent Cash Miller's Modern Museum, that he had just been granted permit by Mayor Curley of Boston for the Miller show to exhibit in that city at 33 Tremont street, starting January 23.

The general agent also advised that this was the first permit granted and would be the first museum of acts, attractions, etc., in Boston since 1906, when Diamond Lew Walker had his old Hanover Street Museum in the city.

McCaslin's, Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Jan. 21.—John T. McCaslin, owner of this museum, now in its fifth year at the same location, announces a fair week last week and new attractions including Baby Lillian, Baltimore's Own Beautiful Fat Girl, and Woo Foo, immune man. Last week of Princess Reta and Hawaiian Joe, Mr. and Mrs. Goldie Fitts still holding down management, ticket box and torture cabinet. This week Larry Brenner, Corcy, Victor Victoria and Prince Penegelli. Jack Leiper and Duke Jounette handling the front. Dancing girls and the "Unreiled" show in basement with Bernard's Circus Review. Carlin's 25 monkeys and those ever-entertaining glass blowers, the Morris Troupe. Sailor Bill, tattooed tattooer, making one of the strongest shows here for a long time. Among the visitors this week: Jack L. Murray, Capt. John Shooley and son and daughter-in-law, Red Hicks, William Glick and many other noted showmen.
HARRY J. BOWEN.

Gear Staging Show At Sapulpa, Okla.

SAPULPA, Okla., Jan. 21.—The Billy Gear Circus Promotions, headed by Billy Gear, is producing an indoor circus here, auspices a newly organized post of Veterans of Foreign Wars, February 6-11. The location is in a 200x160-foot building in the center of the business district.

The advance sale of tickets is already very promising. In this Mr. Gear is introducing a novelty that is of worthy caliber, unemployed of the city working on the sales and receiving a commission. Another feature of the advance sale is six admissions for only 25 cents. There are 24 strips to a book, which in all brings in $6, and the party selling the book keeps $1 and turns $5 over to the committee. This is putting into effect an idea that Mr. Gear has had for some time.

Ping Pong Palace Opens

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan. 21.—The new Ping Pong Palace, Fort Wayne's latest acquisition in the way of public amusements, opened last Saturday and thruout the day visitors entered the new amusement center. Many played the game and many were being taught by instructors. It promises to be one of Fort Wayne's popular spots among the amusement-seeking public. The location is below the El Patio Ballroom, at the corner of Harrison street and Washington boulevard, in the heart of the theatrical district. It opens at 11 a.m. and closes at midnight. The price per game is 10 cents, or 35 cents each half hour or 60 cents per hour.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 21.—Marathon dance contest at Joyland Park was permitted to resume after a brief interruption by Mayor Dwight R. Winter, who revoked license on some complaints. License was restored by the mayor on ground that testimony was conflicting and complaints not substantiated. Contest, which started October 26 with 47 couples, has been a marked success financially. Following the mayor's announcement that the closing order had been revoked, District Attorney Thomas F. Moriarty announced that his office had the marathon contest under investigation.

Palace of Wonders, Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Jan. 20.—McCaslin and Reuschling are the owners, George P. Reuschling manager. Business second week doubled that of the first week. This week, playing as feature, Johnny Elk, the Half Boy. Others are Princess Reta, midget, musical specialty; Washboard Jones, novelty entertainer; Chief Running Elk and troupe; Prof. Edwards, marionettes; Linton, magician; Flea Circus; Billie Williams, sword box, and the Johnsons, mentalists.
HARRY BOWEN.

Cash Miller's Modern

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 20.—Miller's Modern Museum is in its third and last week here and the business has been great. Wonderful weather the major part of the time and all near neighbors the best of friends, even to the extent of taking the show's end when certain interests headed by newspaper wanted to close it. The second attempt to close it was made by the District Attorney's office and prosecutors. But altho the papers had blasted away with front-page attacks, permit was granted for the third week.
RAY MARSH BRYDON.

Joe Erber's, St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 20.—Joe Erber's Show of Living Wonders is in its second week of an indefinite run at 815 Washington avenue. Additions to bill include Garfield's "Unnam'd," presented by Doc Joe Stone, Garfield's act in the pit, and Princess Maja, mentalist, as a new feature. Since first day enthusiastic audiences have given hearty applause to every attraction. Bluey-Bluey, Wee Jean and Gentle Weeks became immediate favorites with St. Louis patrons. New attractions are included weekly to afford variety and to prevent monotony. Among visitors since the opening: Sam Golden, Eddie Vaughn, Vic Landau, Helen and Johnny Hodges, Captain Bell, D. D. Murphy, Doc Aldridge, Jimmy Simpson, Art Daly, White the magician, Pat Brophy, Walter Devine, Harold Barlow, Dick O'Brien, Tom Klenny, Curtis Velere and C. J. Sedlmayr, Joe Erber, the owner, is proud of his new amusement enterprise.

FORBES HENDRY.

Pete Kortez', Traveling

HIGH POINT, N. C., Jan. 20.—Pete Kortez' Museum is in its second week here to fair business. The weather has been chilly, but not too bad for people to be out and around. The location is one of the best in town, which has materially aided the engagement. There have been quite a number of showfolk visitors, among them Travis and his assistant, and Great Karma, mentalist. The museum roster remains the same as given in the January 7 issue.
DR. BEN PARDO.

Willse's in North Carolina

ASHEBORO, N. C., Jan. 20.—Willse's Historical and Marine Museum has been exhibiting in North Carolina all winter, in halls and store rooms, and at Ramseur was given a court room in City Hall. At Franklinville the basketball court was provided gratis, except lighting charges. Because of the educational features the museum has been granted a State permit, releasing it from taxes. The company includes Princess Mite, midget; Long Wolf, Mr. and Mrs. Doc Willse, Ernie Cameron and J. N. Van De Watter. The exhibits include historical relics, Indian war relics, specimens of deep sea and tropical land animals, birds, etc.

Dodson's World's Fair Shows

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Jan. 19.—Work has started on a small scale in winter quarters. Just five men at work, but as the season comes closer more will be added. Soon as George Roy gets back from Chester, Pa., he will start on wagon repair and building new ones. Doc Ward, wintering at Kansas City, says he will be back to hear the band play. Manager C. G. Dodson, wintering in Chicago, says he will be back and on the job here around February 15. Assistant Manager Mel Dodson returned from a fair-booking trip south. "Uncle" Harry Sanford looking after the mail and enjoying the movie shows. Al Thurman is painting and getting things in shape for Mrs. Mel Dodson's custard stand to play some dates, starting first of February, and play the Battle of Flowers at San Antonio, returning in time for the Dodson opening, last of April. Dillon (Peanuts) Hurt has booked his cookhouse with Royal American Shows, wintering at St. Louis. Pat McCaulley drove his big truck over from here. Henry King is helping the writer with the painting. Billy Kinsey is running the truck, going after supplies. "Ho, Sho!" Old Plantation Minstrels doing nicely, giving two shows a week, Monday and Friday. Mrs. Lucille Dodson Osborn returned to her home after spending two weeks here. Paul Osborn has returned to McAlester with his Little "D" Ranch Wild West Show. Bad business and weather made him close. Mr. Glen's Riding School is doing nicely at the fairgrounds. Every Saturday he gives exhibits of Wild West riding that draw the crowd. P. VAN AULT.

Capt. Latlip Attraction

CHARLESTON, S. C., Jan. 19. — Capt. Latlip will feature his outfit this coming season as the Capt. Latlip Park Attractions, and will play only good-size towns. Five rides will be carried—Merry-Go-Round, Twin Ferris Wheel, Merry Mixup and a new Allan Herschell Kiddie Auto Ride, will be added. The Latlip free acts, all girls, will be presented on a big, specially constructed stage in the center of the midway, and special scenery will be carried, with electric-light effects. When playing parks Capt. Latlip will add his miniature railroad train, making six rides in all. Work has started in earnest in all parts of winter quarters. ROY REK.

In an effort to be of service to our advertisers and readers we print below a partial list of items for which we have received inquiries during the past week. It is, however, not the purpose of this department to assume the duties of correspondence between readers and advertisers. It is not practical for us to handle requests for various catalogs. These should be sent direct to the advertisers. Requests for information on merchandise which is advertised more or less regularly in The Billboard should also be sent direct to the advertisers:

- Artificial Flowers and Mountain Laurel.
Billposting Brushes.
Blank Phonograph Records.
Cake Decorators.
Captive Balloons.
Circus Wagons.
Electric Warning Sign Machines.
Luminous Crucifixes.
Marbles.
Monkeys.
Neon Ad Clocks.
Pants Presser.
Pencils (Solid 1/4" Graphite).
Pennants.
Pour Top Milk Bottle Caps.
Soft Drink Powders.

All information requested has been given, but if any of our advertisers want the names of the inquirers we will be glad to furnish them upon request addressed to the Cincinnati office of The Billboard.

Notice to Inquiring Parties—Self-addressed envelopes should accompany all requests for information. Inquiries are answered promptly, but because we frequently receive additional information which might be of interest to those inquiring, it is advisable to furnish us with a permanent address whenever possible.

PILGRIM WATCH COMPANY, operated by Ben and Sam Finkelstein, has moved into its new quarters at 155 Canal street, New York City. During the last few years Ben, who started the business, has been building up steadily. Last year Sam joined his brother and thru keen ability and a good deal of hustle their business grew to such a degree that larger space was needed.

A STORY by Sherman R. Duffy in a recent issue of The Chicago American said that the Sky Ride, the two 625-foot towers which will dominate the skyline of a Century of Progress Exposition, is believed by its promoters to point the way to a new type of bridge construction. "This $1,350,000 amusement project," continues Mr. Duffy "is being constructed by five big companies which have not hitherto ventured into the amusement field. These are the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock Company, the Otis Elevator Company, the Inland Steel Company, the John A. Roebling Sons & Company and the Mississippi Valley Structural Steel Company. The ride is to span the lagoon at the exposition."

REYNOLDS ELECTRIC COMPANY is bringing out a new product in the form of a combination grinder, slicer and grater. The machine is motor driven and finished in battleship gray baked-on enamel. The dimensions are 12x21x18 inches. The machine grinds meat, slices and shreds vegetables and fruits, shaves ice, grates dry bread, crackers or any dry material. The item should appeal to owners of kitchens, lunchrooms, roadside stands, sandwich shops, tearooms, cafes, restaurants, fountain lunches, dining cars, delicatessens, butcher shops, grocery stores or any food shops.

HENRY J. EDWARDS, vice-president and treasurer of the Baker-Lockwood Tent Company, is on a tour of Texas cities, visiting Southern showmen in the interest of his company. He was recently in Gainesville, conferring with officials of the Gainesville Community Circus.

HENRY J. EDWARDS, doing business as the Whippet Blade Company, recently brought suit in the Suffolk Superior Court at Boston seeking to enjoin the Gillette Safety Razor Company from interfering with its business of selling razor blades. It is alleged the Gillette Company made a secret investigation of the private affairs of the Whippet Company and called upon its customers and by threats and coercion and intimidation interfered with its business. When the question of a preliminary injunction came up January 18 the court took the case under advisement.

For Your Approval, the Ballyhoos of Yore, as Presented by Ringmaster Clive Hart—Tidbits By LEONARD TRAUBE (New York Office)

BALLYHOOS, past and present, by Clive Hart, one of the contemporaries, who's working in one of Gotham's burlesque citadels: "D'jever stop to think of the stars who were once ballyhoos? Well, 'Ripley' it or not, Ray Hughes, the 'Fall Guy,' recently with Earl Carroll, started in Boston as a novelty street advertiser. Came to Luna Park, Coney Island, and did an imitation of Charlie Chaplin the same season that your humble servant was doing the same imitation at a picture theater 18 years ago. Another Charlie Chaplin mimic was Charlie Cheerio, Hungarian acrobat, who started as a ballyhoos at the Sea Beach Palace, leaped up by ground and lofty ballyhoosing to clown in Ringling Bros.' Circus. I got Charlie Cheerio his first job in Coney Island. The greatest of all Chaplin imitators, Billy West, started just around the corner from Muller's Theater, where I was doing 'Chaplin' the same season. West working in Perry's Cabaret. Add that never-to-be-forgotten Mad Magician, Frank VanHovan (you remember him?), with his cake of ice? He started as a ballyhoos and gave 'Rube' Wyant, another well-known bally artist, all his ideas on hokum on the sidewalks. Wyant is now an attendant in an insane asylum. "Joe Barton, whose name has been up in lights for these many moons, was a unicycle trick rider in Brooklyn 30 years ago with the Glasgow Woolen Mills, while this scribe was doing an English chippie act for another clothing store in that borough. Jack (Tiny) Fuller, current burly comic, also put on his first grease paint as a clown ballyhoos and mechanical doll in Coney Island 15 or 16 years ago, and we worked together in Polo Park. He wasn't fat then, but now fills a whole stage. Then there's little Haha Haba, or Whistling Rufus, the New Orleans boy who made good as a black-face ballyhoos at Coney Island, suddenly jumping up to the heights of vaudeville, joining Pepto's big clown act. Haha Haba was really the second, as Haha Haba Blitz was the original hottentot from whom Whistling Rufus got his act. "These are some of the better known names in the show business who started as ballyhoos and rose to the apron behind the footlights. Do I forget Bluch Landorf, the big 'hip' clown? Pardon, but he was a ballyhoos at Luna Park's Crazy Village nearly 20 years back, while Jocko the Monkey, another of the eight clowns, was, well, who else but your humble servant?" With all this info supplied by Hart, the "Ballyhoos Boy," there should be supplements from the other waxos, the mechanics and human dolls of the nation. Let's hear from you.

NONE of the dailies caught this one. It's about an actual pilgrimage by a woman who played a metropolitan theater with her elephant act in a circus unit. Somehow or other—and not much guessing is needed—she wasn't paid her salary and discovered that her jeans were quite devoid of lucre. So she and her bull companion had to walk 40 miles, including a trip over the ferry thru the generosity of the captain, and thence reached her abode. So one wag remarks that it's lucky she didn't have a troupe of gentle simians.

SYLVESTER SULLIVAN'S new book, Poise, is a gemful. And that goes for the printing job, too. W. E. (Red) Delroye sends a holiday greeting from Honolulu that's written in Chinese. Was en route to Manila with Fowler's whale exhibit. And Gene and Mary Enos, of Downie Bros.' Circus, have been attending the opera and theaters in Prague, Czechoslovakia. Beverly Kelley, Ringling-Barnum radio oracle, is hard at typewriter work for Morris Green, the legit producer. Jack Curley's marathon troubles will be aired in court February 6. That was Morris Levy, concessioner of the Lynch Shows, who was visiting relatives here. Liked that flying trapeze painting at the Whitney Museum.

Sol's Liberty Shows CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo., Jan. 19. — A beautiful new living truck for Manager and Mrs. Sam Solomon is nearing completion—has oak-paneled walls, hardwood floors, concealed electric wiring and other modern features. There are now 21 people connected with the show wintering here, including Billie Owens, secretary-treasurer; Tom Berry, assistant manager; the writer; Leonard Whitman, superintendent rides and transportation; William Solomon, unassigned, and Tony (Kid) Stevens, concessioner. Elton Rogers, concessioner, was a visitor last week. John and Mrs. Starkey, managers the Ten-in-One, left for Newport, Ark., where Mr. Starkey has accepted a position to last until the show opens in April. Joe Pesano cannot become accustomed to wearing a hat. Manager Solomon recently left to attend the Illinois fair men's meeting. Madam Mozele, with Edith Stanley as assistant, doing well with palmistry establishment, and recently gave a party for the executive staff and other friends at their apartment. Word received that Eddie and Mrs. Moore and Al and Mrs. Wallace will arrive about February 1. Eddie had "Gangster Car" and Al concessions on the midway last season. The full personnel of the advance has not yet been announced; however, the writer will be special agent and Iva LaPage contest promoter. LOUIS LA PAGE.

Rubin & Cherry Shows MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 19.—Rubin Gruberg has left for New York on a booking trip. Will be gone for about 10 days, after which he will return here. Tommy Allen, who has been spending a few days here, has been out to quarters every day, renewing old acquaintances. He returns to Birmingham, where he is managing a theater. Jim Eskew is expecting to leave shortly. Has some winter booking for his entire troupe of cowboys, and will play some indoor tudes in the North as soon as the bookings are completed. Roy Sheperd, who recently returned from Florida, left for Shreveport, La., accompanied by N. D. Sheg and Bozo Snyder. Mrs. Betty Sheperd remained here with friends—will join Roy later. Mickey O'Neil, who was accidentally shot and died an hour later in Macon, Ga., recently, was on route to his wife at Battle Creek, Mich., and was riding in an empty box car of a freight train. At Macon he was ordered out of the car and in jumping out he accidentally jumped on a railroad yards policeman, and in the fall the policeman drew his gun and shot Mickey—these particulars were furnished by his wife, Mrs. Pat O'Neil. Billy Breese informs that he is working on the advance of "Pete," the movie dog of the comedies, making a few weeks' "personal" tour. James K. (Tiny) Over informs he is at Veterans Administration Home, Virginia, where he is being treated for inflammatory rheumatism and would appreciate hearing from friends. J. A. PEARL.

Dr. W. J. Shields Very Ill SARASOTA, Fla., Jan. 23.—Dr. W. J. Shields, physician with the Ringling-Barnum Circus and connected with the Ringling shows for nearly two decades, considered the dean of doctor trouper, is in a critical condition at Joseph Halton Hospital here suffering from Bright's disease and with less than an even chance for recovery. It was learned today. Doc Shields, as he is known to thousands of circus people, entered the hospital 10 days ago. His home is in New York, where he was graduated from the Physicians and Surgeons' Hospital. Several many years ago, but for the last few winters he has been maintaining a cold-weather residence here. Dr. Joseph Halton, attending physician, said today that he did not believe Dr. Shields would be able to take the road with the show in the spring if he recovered.

Strotz, Hummel Appointed Receivers of Chi Stadium CHICAGO, Jan. 21. — Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson has placed the Chicago Stadium Corporation, owner of the big indoor sports arena here, in equity receivership. The huge building, however, will operate with no radical change in policy. Sidney N. Strotz, president of the corporation, and Fred E. Hummel were named receivers. Their bonds were set at $25,000 each. Judge Wilkerson's action, regarded as entirely friendly, was taken on a petition of Charles E. Perry, of Milwaukee, who holds $4,000 worth of the corporation's bonds. Perry's petition set forth that the bonds of the corporation defaulted January 1, 1932. Outstanding was $1,679,000 in first mortgage bond notes and $183,000 in second mortgages, the petition recited.

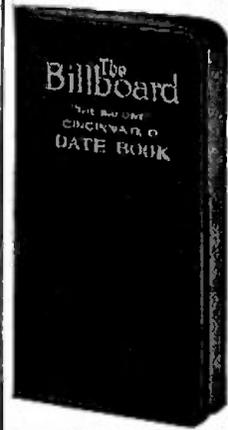

Railroad Men Meet in New York on Truck Regulations NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Important developments concerning highway traffic hinging on the truck angle are expected from a meeting here this week, in which reports were prepared by the Joint Committee of Railways and Highway Users for study by the National Transportation Committee formed by the late Calvin Coolidge. With sessions in semi-secrecy, it is believed there were two reports in two categories: first, outline of points on which railways and vehicular representatives agree; second, explanation of points on which they disagree. Point on disagreement appears to be in connection with limiting length of trucks and trailers, with truck interests known to be readying a plan which would recommend a limit of 45 feet for highway vehicles. Railroads, however, made no announcement of their stand. New York State railroads were said to be preparing to sponsor a bill in the State Legislature for regulating commercial highway traffic without reference to the findings of the joint committee.

Roland's Exposition Shows WARSAW, N. C., Jan. 19. — Work at winter quarters, which started January 8, is coming along nicely. Manager Roland states he will have about the same staff as last year, but a larger show. J. J. Steblar will again have his rides with this organization. The opening date has not yet been decided. Manager Roland is attending fair meetings. WHITEY DAVIS.

IT'S A SHAME that the State budget commissioner of Minnesota, Mrs. Jean W. Wittich, does not appreciate the true value of State and county fairs in the promotion of agriculture, and it is no less a shame that she cannot see the wisdom of having amusements operated in conjunction with fairs.

"The State Fair," she told the State Legislature the other day, in a recommendation that the State drop its $500,000 allowance for such events for the next biennium ($340,000 for the county fairs and $100,000 for the State Fair and $40,000 for poultry shows), "has traveled a long distance from its original purpose of serving agriculture by bringing together the cream of their produce and live stock to create competition in finer production and to provide opportunity to discuss with each other better methods."

The fair has taken on the attitude and appearance of a carnival, advertising the amount of money it intends to spend for bringing such attractions as polo, side shows and special amusements in an appeal for attendance.

"What I would like to see is a gathering of people from all over the State with a major incentive—a solution of our present agricultural difficulties."

She is also quoted as saying that county fairs, too, have departed from their original purpose, modern transportation removing "the need for this type of gathering." Deficits and difficulties mark the path of county fairs, she said, and poultry shows "manifest the same tendency for vaudeville features hardly in keeping with the objects of the shows."

Of course, it is only natural that Mrs. Wittich should belittle the type of amusement offered, as the thing she seems to be interested in mostly is cutting off the appropriations for fairs and poultry shows. Minnesota fairs, State and county, get just as good amusements as the fairs in any other State. It would be interesting to know how many fairs Mrs. Wittich has seen in her life.

Fairs never were more needed than they are today. We must have them, both State and county, to help pull us out of this business depression. And if Mrs. Wittich thinks that amusements are not necessary to make a fair complete she has only to ask the secretary of any county fair.

The ordinance governing transients in Savannah, Ga., for 1933 is the same as in previous years. Every business or profession by a transient is covered by license so heavy as to be prohibitive, but, as in former years, there no doubt are many of fixing. This, by the way, is the 13th year of the $1,000 per day circus license in Savannah, and the city comptroller's records will show that no circus license payment has been made to the city treasurer in the last 12 years.

Here's a story of a dog that should interest readers of The Billboard, especially those who were with the Sellas Circus season of 1931 when the little canine named Boston, owned by Louise Griebel (known in vaudeville as Belle Louise), worked a clown number with Walter Goodenough. Boston was lost on the road last season and Miss Griebel has been asked many times where he was.

Anyway, a few days ago Boston's face began to swell. Upon investigation it was found that he had an ulcerated tooth. On advice from a veterinary in Amherst, N. Y., Boston was taken to the Cornell College of Veterinary at Ithaca, N. Y. Here the dog's case was explained by the two head professors, Drs. Milks and Stevenson, and Boston was entered in the clinic at 2 p.m. after his history card was filled out. At 2:45 p.m. Boston was put under ether and before a class of 31 students was operated on and the tooth extracted. He was on the table 27 minutes. Dr. Milks performing the operation himself. It was 6:30 the next morning before Boston came out of the ether. He is now fully recovered. The operation was said to be an unusual one on a dog.

National Auto Show Well Attended; Exhibits Varied

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Thirty-third annual National Auto Show, January 7-14, at Grand Central Palace, was reported to have attracted record gate the last two days of its run, with total attendance declining over last year's event. Friday gate was all-time record breaker.

There were fewer exhibits, but those on display seemed to be more varied in nature and replete with general appeal.

No figures were revealed on sales and potential prospects, but reports have it that consumer buying was encouraging. Much interest was evidenced in several large sections on the lower floor, with the three other floors housing cheaper makes, accessories, commercial vehicles and general products. There was record dealer representation, according to Alfred Reeves, show manager and vice-president National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. A number of innovations in the industry were on view and attracted great public attention.

people in the future may use such spare time as is placed at their disposal, and it certainly should be, as most everything one does is predicated upon what has gone before, then the conclusion may almost irrevocably be reached that the shorter work day or the shorter work week, or both, will be seized upon by many millions of people for indulgence in indoor and outdoor recreation.

With the hearings being conducted by Representative Connery, therefore, to the end the short work day and the short work week become more the vogue, and with the action of Dean Bailey of Butler University in establishing a course for the purpose of teaching people how to enjoy leisure this latter action may reasonably be expected to be followed by other institutions of learning in establishing courses in leisure study. The amusement park, the circus and the carnival should profit measurably from fewer hours of work upon the part of a majority of the people. The State and county fair likewise should have a greater appeal than before in that they offer entertainment combined with instruction, and all out in the open. In fact, almost any institution which caters to the promotion of pleasure, in a word, should feel the beneficial effects of more people with time to spend and, as conditions grow better, with more money to spend.

FWC officials are awaiting Marco's return here from New York to offer him operation of the Pantages Theater as a showing house for his units.

The impressive thing is, in connection with prospects for reduction, materiality of the federal aid for highways, that support of the good roads movement itself is not being lessened, but that such parings as are necessary are due entirely to the cramped financial situation in which the federal government finds itself. Once things begin to look up in a real way highway building for both main and secondary lines will get back to the extent known in happier days.

'Make Location Your Partner' Proposed as Slogan for Year

Better relations with locations to improve operating conditions—coin men consider suggestions for working program and organized effort may be made for co-operation

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—It is expected that one result of the growth of organizations among operators of coin machines will be a greater effort to promote co-operation between operators and locations during 1933. The organizations of operators all over the country have found many problems to engage their attention, but eventually the matter of locations arises in one form or another in all of them. The past year was marked for a time by a widespread feeling of antagonism of operators toward locations, but consideration of this problem in some of the associations started a new sentiment for co-operation with the location owners, and some leaders among the operators feel that the most important work of the organizations during 1933 will be to promote better relations with the locations.

"Why not convince the location owner that he is your partner? The closer the harmony the better the music of the profits," is the suggestion of David S. Bond, New England jobber, in his house organ sent to operators this month. "Make the Location Owner Your Partner" might well become the trade slogan for 1933. Is the opinion of this well-known jobber and experienced coin man in organization work. Other leaders in the trade confirm the same opinion, that successful operators must have good locations and the proper co-operation between operator and location owner will always be an essential to the successful operation of machines, regardless of what other problems may confront the trade.

Work Already Started

Some of the operators' organizations are already undertaking to promote right relations with the locations. One association originated a strict contract agreement, which would impress the location with the need of sticking to one operator or at least to operators who were following the best principles of machine operation. Another organization went so far as to organize the store owners into a kind of group to confer with the operators' organization and also to offer assistance in protecting the machines against legal opposition. In Canada and in a number of cities in the United States unfortunate situations have developed where legal opposition to pin games has not only discouraged the operators, but has also discouraged the locations.

"There is a prevalent condition of interference with games," says D. M. Steinberg, president of the New Jersey oper-

Organization

"Your reports on the work of the associations for operators in other places is of great interest to me. I operate over 200 machines, but there are probably not enough operators here to be organized. But the reports which come to your paper show what is going on in the trade and must be of great help to organizations all over the country. I can get help for my own worries by reading what the organizations are doing where competition is greater. I am interested in the new machines but it seems to me that what the operators are doing in different places, as they organize, is the best service you can give to us."—(A Montana reader).

ators, "and it is having an unfortunate reaction on locations. They are exercising their police powers in this direction and a great deal of damage is being done. We cite a recent example in the city of Orange, N. J., where, by a statement in the local newspapers, the police chief, with threats of confiscation, has frightened the locations. Any situation where locations become frightened is a serious one.

Mr. Steinberg thinks that the remedy is a strong publicity program carried on (MAKE LOCATION on opposite page)

Automatic Games Said To Be Entertaining To State Wards

YANKTON, S. D., Jan. 21.—Coin machines, minus the coin chute, of course, have entered a new field, according to reports from the Yankton State Hospital here. G. S. Adams is superintendent, and he says the amusement features of the machines have proved very attractive for the patients. According to coin men, it is an important recommendation for the strictly amusement features in the machines when they can be used for the entertainment of mental patients in hospitals.

"Thru Mr. Arthur Warring, we purchased two coin-operated machines for the amusement of our patients," Superintendent Adams states. "These machines, one a Whiz Bang and the other a Gold Crown, were arranged so that they could be operated without the use of a coin.

"Entertainment, recreation and employment are large factors in the care and treatment of mental cases and we are always on the lookout for something new. Billiards, checkers, cards, chess,

Offers Help To Organize

Jobber suggests problems N. E. operators could attack if well organized

BOSTON, Jan. 21.—The Trimount Plank house organ of the Trimount Coin Machine Company, David S. Bond, editor, was sent out this week to customers of the firm. The new machines, Jockey Club and Coco-Nuts, are featured in the issue. An editorial also stresses the value of organization among the operators.

"Thruout the country the coin-machine business is developing so rapidly," says Editor Bond, "that operators are organizing into groups and associations for the purpose of combating unfair legislation, learning new uses for machines and promoting the general welfare of the industry.

"This, we feel, is a great step forward. Take New England, for example. An organized group of operators in this territory could accomplish much to benefit themselves. They could hold meetings to compare notes and discuss plans for improving existing conditions. If any unfair legislation were passed, they could go as a body to fight it. They could study methods for obtaining new locations and make the location owner feel that he was doing business with a powerful organization rather than an individual.

"In other words, the same plan could be used for operators as big business uses to protect its interests even to the supplying of legal aid. Such an organization would have untold advantages. We are interested in knowing what you think. Write us and if we get enough letters, we'll start the ball a-rolling."

Mr. Bond has had wide experience in organization work among operators. He was president of the CMOA, took a very active part in the efforts to unite the two national groups of operators into one organization called the Automatic Merchandisers' Association, and was elected the first president of the merged group.

dominoes and the like are in general use thruout the institution; radios, phonographs and electric pianos are in many of our wards.

"These coin machines or games have been enthusiastically received by our patients and are in almost constant use during the day. It is a fascinating form of amusement and we expect to add more of them from time to time."

Booth Idea For Arcades

Arcade atmosphere goes when concession booth idea adds modern touch

HONOLULU, Jan. 21. — Counter machines are coming into prominence. The largest operator here has just received a big shipment and says they are getting a good play. E. K. Fernandez has found that pin games and diggers pay when used as a concession on his shows. The display is different from that ordinarily seen. The arcade idea has been entirely eliminated and the machines now occupy concession booths.

One merchant who has room for only one machine expresses the opinion that the machine should be changed at least every two weeks. "Variety is what the public wants and a machine left over two weeks is dead," he said. "With frequent changes the machines are given a good play. I don't believe in penny stuff. It sounds good in these unsettled times, but a nickel machine will gross more."

Four men who have recently arrested and charged with the possession of coin-operated machines were discharged in court on motion of the public prosecutor. It is thought that mint-vending devices on the machines were the reason, since one operator was freed recently when a jury found they received a package of dinks for every nickel played.

Nutty Title for Game

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 21.—Incorporating principles heretofore new to amusement machines and hence bringing a needed tonic to the operation of machines is the idea claimed by the Amusement Coin Machine Manufacturing Company in introducing its new machine, Coco-Nuts. This machine is said to have had wide tests throughout the country and to have proved a very consistent money maker. Everywhere, the makers say, the public has been lavish in its acclaim of this new machine as a sensational thrill. The psychology of its appeal is said to be in the fact that it produces just the right amount of suspense without delaying its speedy action. The manufacturers offer it as a skill game.

Coco-Nuts was designed to occupy a minimum of space, with an eye toward lessening the resistance which operators would meet from the storekeepers and other locations. It is an upright cabinet machine measuring 31 inches high, but is only 16½ inches wide. It can be used for penny or nickel play. Eleven jobbers had already arranged to handle the machine before the first public announcement was made.

New Clue to Patience

BALTIMORE, Jan. 21.—E. V. Ross, of the Oriole Coin Machine Corporation, makes exception to a news item published in The Billboard, January 7 issue, in which it was reported that Howard Hoffman, of Atlantic City, owned or controlled practically all of the Patience coin machines in the country.

The Patience machine, so it is understood, was formerly manufactured by the Boyce Coin Machine Company at Elizabeth, N. Y., but this firm is reported to be out of business. An effort was made by this publication to locate the present manufacturer of these machines, but any, for the information of a reader who made inquiry.

"We really resent the statement in your January 7 issue," Mr. Ross states, "as for sometime we have been buying up the Patience machines and believe that at this time we control the big majority of them now on the market. Further, we have sold to your inquirer many months ago quite a number of these machines. We have them in stock now, in nickel and quarter play."

Pay-Off Counter Game

PEORIA, Ill., Jan. 21.—Play the Field is the new automatic pay-off horse-racing machine that will be ready for release January 25 by the Field Manufacturing Corporation here. It is a counter-size machine and its makers say that they have always been strong for the counter-type machines.

"Whoever heard of a horse race in which there was no betting," said G. M. Beck, as he explained the features of the machine. "I admit that there are

For Confidential Price

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. — The Irving Bromberg Company, prominent jobber of coin machines, has announced a definite confidential price policy to operators, which will be in effect at all five of the offices of this concern.

"The gravest condition that confronts the operator," states Irving Bromberg, president of the company, "is the ability of storekeepers to secure knowledge as to the cost of games. That condition must and should be corrected to protect the operator. I don't know another business where a similar condition exists and we jobbers owe it to the operators to give them this same protection.

"With that in mind, I have decided to issue a confidential price list, which will be restricted in circulation to legitimate operators only. It is possible that I may lose some small sales thereby, but I am willing to suffer this temporary loss in my campaign along these lines. Hereafter my organization will send prices and trade information to this group only. I hope that my fellow jobbers, locally and nationally, will see the justice of this policy and institute a similar one for themselves. It is my belief that this is one way jobbers can add to the stability of the entire industry and protect the operator."

MAKE LOCATION

by the associations whereby the locations are kept advised of the true facts and also given constructive suggestions for working with the operators to the better advantage of both. The New Jersey organization developed a very progressive plan of approach to the locations, with a central clearing house for promoting better co-operation with the locations, but the movement has been handicapped for lack of funds.

Other leaders also suggest the need of protecting the locations from scares of one kind and another. All seem to agree that constructive work in promoting better relations with locations is a job for the organized groups of operators and one that should be given prompt attention. One operator suggests that the organizations can do much by proper education of the locations to prevent the locations from buying their own machines. The majority of locations will not buy their machines when the facts are presented to them, he thinks.

Cites Causes of Trouble

A Chicago manufacturer who entered the trade as an operator says that the common troubles are due to locations buying their own machines, locations asking for too high commissions and locations sometimes rob the cash box. An aggressive policy by the associations in trying to promote better relations between operator and locations will help, he thinks, but more important than all is the business ability of the individual operator in dealing with locations. The operator must sell himself, his methods and his machines to the location owner. If the location owner is convinced of the ability of the operator, he is likely to take the advice of the operator on most issues. The individual operator must first do his duty toward maintaining friendly business relations with all locations. Then the associations can add their influence to promoting co-operation and whenever necessary by protecting them against frights of any kind.

Fred Mann, secretary of the Chicago independent operators, says that the operators should adopt a progressive and optimistic outlook toward the locations. There will always be discouragements, he thinks, but the proper way to meet things is to see the location's viewpoint and also help him to see the viewpoint of the operator. It is by getting together and reaching a common understanding that friendly business relations can be had.

The consensus of opinion among coin men seems to be that 1933 will find the operators appreciating good locations more and more, and also that greater effort will be made to work together with the locations in making more money with coin machines.

territories where the mere picture of a horse running would bar a machine just as there are localities where pin games cannot operate because someone once gave 10 cents in trade for a high score. But many of the locations depend on the play from those customers who do a bit of wagering on the final result. We have made a self-loading and self-paying horse-race machine so that there will be no arguing about rules. On this machine the player either wins or he doesn't. A concealed jackpot is used to make rewards for winning plays."

Coin Machine Progress in 1932

By Walter W. Hurd

THE outstanding historic developments in the coin-machine trade during 1932 include the pin-game boom and the nationalization of the amusement machine business. A concerted drive to reach the summer-resort territory, the effects of a national election on amusement machines, the promotion of a new type of arcade, a liberalizing of public sentiment, the rise to prominence of the coin-machine jobber and a wave of organization effort among the operators of the country. These are some of the principal factors in the progress of the trade thru 1932.

The year dawned with the pin-game boom already in progress. The coming of the annual trade show and exhibit in February served to accelerate the publicity and advertising of the games and to bring the boom to its highest pitch early in the year. The reputation of the pin games for earnings had already spread over the country during the latter part of 1931 and it was felt that here was a new idea in amusement machines that had caught the imagination and fun-loving disposition of the public. Generally accepted as a legal machine, its earnings were exceptionally high in comparison with the average run of legal coin machines. The coin-operated pool games had already proved the utility of tables in housing games for public use, and the pin-game idea seemed admirably adapted to table use.

The contribution of the pin-game idea to coin-machine progress was that it suddenly nationalized the amusement machine idea. To get a share of the market boom manufacturers advertised liberally, and newspapers even published stories of the wave of pin-game amusement. The effect was to let the country know about the coin-machine industry. The industry was able to gain national recognition, with the advantages and disadvantages which such recognition brings. The market for amusement machines immediately became national in scope and manufacturers began to appeal to a nation-wide trade. One manufacturer tried a half-page advertisement in Collier's Weekly magazine.

The sweep of the pin-game parade brought many recruits into the industry, including manufacturers, jobbers and operators. The new manufacturers mostly came from cabinet and furniture plants in need of new business on account of the prolonged business depression. Some of them contributed excellent cabinet work to the trade and taught the value of high quality in cabinets. The entrance of these firms into the business was no doubt responsible for the development of the high-grade deluxe big table games that have remained to be a credit to the industry for hotel and club use, etc. Some of the old-established firms in the coin-machine business were slow to recognize the pin-game movement, hence the new amusement idea was picked up and carried to its high pitch by the newer firms in the trade. This big new market enabled some of these newer firms to establish themselves firmly among the leaders in the industry, altho some of the new manufacturers dropped by the wayside when the pin-game boom declined during the summer.

The ranks of coin-machine jobbers were also greatly increased during the pin-game era. There had been some agitation going on for a year previous to the pin-game era for a greater recognition of the jobber. But it was the rise of the pin games that enabled the jobber to establish himself as a commercial factor and necessity on a large scale. Many of these jobbers had been in the business previously, but the pin games enabled them to come to the front and advertise their business nationally. Other jobbers were recruited from established operators, and still others, of course, came from other types of business. The jobber movement was strongest in the East, and by the close of 1932 the jobbing division of the trade had become an important part of the industry, at least partly organized, and indications are that the jobber will be a big factor for a long time to come. The jobber can thank the pin games for giving him an established footing in the trade.

Operators were recruited in great numbers also by the pin-game movement. Reports of earnings spread, many men were out of work and some of them had money to invest, and pin games promised a job with very favorable earnings. There are no statistics available to indicate the increase in the number of operators, but soon complaints were being heard in many cities that there were too many operators. The experienced operators and those who had invested in large numbers of machines complained loudly against a great host of men who had only a few machines. There was serious competition on locations, with the various troubles that come from such competition. In the wave of enthusiasm about the pin games it was to be expected that locations would sometimes buy their own games, a still further cause of complaint among the established operators. It was these evils that came along with the pin-game boom that started the desire for some kind of organization to bring, but the organization movement did not get into full swing until the second half of the year.

There is no known way of planning and controlling a boom period; apparently it must take its course with whatever results that may follow. It can now be said that the coin-machine industry came out of the pin-game boom without any serious decline or setback within the trade. The summer slump gave a very natural denouement to the boom and left the trade washed clean of manufacturers, jobbers and operators who could not stick. The advantages gained from the pin-game boom certainly outnumber the evils by far. While no one in the trade seems to wish for another boom, still it made history and established many of the present members of the trade firmly on their feet.

The Annual Trade Show

Coming along with the pin-game boom was the annual trade show and exhibit at Chicago in February of 1932. The show benefited immensely from the boom and it also helped to get the boom into full swing in short order. For a number of years previously the annual show had been conducted under the auspices of a national organization of operators. But there were at least two groups among the operators claiming to represent the operators nationally, so that the summer of 1931 was marked by a general weakening of the amalgamated organization formed to unite the two groups. Division among the operators was the reason for a movement starting in the fall of 1931 to organize the manufacturers and also conduct the show each year under the auspices of the manufacturers. The 1932 show and exhibit was the first important evidence of the newly organized Coin Machine Manufacturers' Association. The show was immediately acclaimed the greatest exhibit of coin machines in the history of the industry. Experienced members of the trade were themselves surprised, for here on exhibition was plenty of evidence of the pin-game boom.

This 1932 show had some very important results. One not so pleasant was that a scare started among the manufacturers which resulted in a wave of price cutting. Price cutting hurts both the manufacturers and the operators. But the success of the 1932 show seemed to win the unanimous approval that the manufacturers' organization should manage the annual trade show. The 1932 show also indicated to everybody that the coin-machine industry had suddenly become amusement machine-minded. Vending machines were very much in evidence at the 1931 show in Cleveland, but there was a big decline in vending-machine exhibits at the 1932 show. The prolonged business depression had cramped the expansion programs of the vending-machine firms, and this same depression had helped to put the pin-game boom in motion. So the 1932 show was an amusement machine show, with the manufacturers of this type of machine leading in the organization work. The amusement trend was so evident that The Billboard, long recognized as the first publication in the United States to carry coin-machine advertising, gave coin machines a place among the other important amusement fields and inaugurated a weekly coin-machine news service for the trade. The success of the 1932 show also enabled the newly organized Coin Machine Manufacturers' Association to establish itself and hence continue its work.

Following the show selling competition among the manufacturers and growing tenaciousness among the operators were noticeable. Soon machines were being announced here and there that were "not pin games." Some remembered the miniature pool tables and miniature golf itself and argued that pin games would be a passing fad with the public just as those amusements had been. On the other hand, there were staunch supporters of the pin-game principle who argued that it was a basic amusement idea and that machines with some adaptation of the pin-game idea would be with us as long as coin machines were used. Inventors and manufacturers began to improve the pin games by many variations in the playing board, usually with the idea of providing greater skill or a greater semblance of skill for the player. Some remarkably attractive machines were produced in this movement to improve the pin games, and the movement continued thru the entire year.

The summer slump is an annual occurrence in the coin-machine trade and its effect in 1932 was to allow a graceful decline to the pin-game boom; when the trade opened for the fall season the boom was over. A rather concerted effort was made in the summer of 1932 to cover the summer-resort territories with coin machines. The trade press encouraged this movement with widespread publicity and considerable progress was made in developing a new market for machines. Ordinarily the fall trade is supposed to reopen about September 1, but 1932, as in 1931, was marked by continued warm weather well up to October 1. However, many manufacturers had their new machines for the fall trade ready by September 1.

Election Effects Felt

The occurrence of a national election marked the fall of 1932 with discouragement for amusement machines. Some complaints were heard among the trade anyway that business was not like the boom days of the past spring. The effects of the national election were felt in many cities, with a discouraging effect upon operators and locations, and sales of machines were cut down somewhat. This pre-election disturbance served to accentuate the contention in many quarters that pin games and other skill devices were gambling machines. At the 1932 show there was a committee representing a national reform organization present to gather evidence of the use of coin machines for gambling purposes and opposition to the pin games slowly gathered thru the year. The coin-machine trade developed the use of prizes for high scores and then for various scores, and this led to still further charges against the machines and widespread legal opposition. Award cards were developed as an aid to giving prizes for certain scores and these brought on still more opposition. A number of cases in various cities were carried into court, and while these cases form an important part of the trade history of 1932, it is not possible to recount them in this article. The year closed without a clear-cut court decision on the legality of giving prizes on pin games. However, most of the court decisions were considered favorable toward the machines.

This opposition to amusement machines had its reaction in the trade. The effect was to start a national wave of organization among the operators. The organization for organization began earlier in the year when the evils resulting from the boom became apparent, but it increased the gathering storm of police interference to bring the operators together. There were many operators' organizations already in existence, but in most cases they had ceased to function. Most of them had been formed when tax discrimination was threatening the vending machines, and when the tax breaks subsided the organizations drifted apart. When the organization move of 1932 got under way the policy followed was to organize by States, when previous practice was to organize nationally and then the national management organizations. Present indications are that the plan of organizing by States respects the situation more satisfactorily. Whether a new national organization of operators will be the natural outgrowth is not yet indicated.

The newly organized groups of operators immediately found themselves facing some very serious problems. Court battles in many cases had to be carried on, with consequent heavy expense and general discouragement. Some of the organizations started out on constructive programs also, tackling the problems of competition among operators, what to do with the nonmember competition, children playing the machines, co-operation with locations and many other problems. This organization work grew rapidly to the close of the year and must be recorded as one of the important events of the year. While these State organizations were getting into action leaders were also being developed and some of them may be heard from later. The business understanding and ability of the operators were being improved also by taking part in the organization work. Here and there indications of certain abuses of the power of organization were about to appear, but nothing of a serious nature had arisen by the close of the year. To add to the deep of organization in coin-machine circles, the Automatic Jobbers' Association was formed among the jobbers of New York and vicinity to promote the better of the jobber.

Better Feelings Prevail

The year had its wave of ill-will within the trade, as is common to most years. At one time there was a feeling of antagonism of operators toward manufacturers quite apparent. This feeling soon gave way to the recognition that the operator needs the manufacturer and the manufacturer needs the operator. In Chicago the operators and the manufacturers were able to get together and discuss the question frankly, the result was a better feeling of understanding. A feeling of antagonism toward locations was widespread for a time also, due to the fact that too many locations were buying machines. But the feeling gave way in most cases to the understanding that good locations are of supreme importance to the operator and that locations in general should not be antagonized because a few locations buy their machines. Generous publicity on these issues made it possible for better feelings to prevail.

Mechanically, the chief progress during the year has been in the line of improving the perfection and play appeal of table and pin games. New ideas in elevators came into being thru the year and added to the perfection of the new styles and material in balls for pin games were developed; chutes with triple dogs and other improvements were developed to meet the demand for better coin chutes on the pin games. Improved chutes came as a result of the battle against toothpicks, paper slugs and other devices used to cheat the machines. It would be almost impossible to mention the gadgets and arrangements that have been developed to see on the playing boards of the games in order to provide more skill, or at least greater semblance of skill, in the games. There seems to be no end to the ingenuity that can be applied in the field of developing greater play appeal in the table and pin games.

There were also many efforts to break away from the pin games, and some very clever table machines and playing boards were developed to provide some type of amusement without the use of classic pins. Many complaints came during the year also about the locations buying the cash boxes of the machines and that the operators did not get their share of the intake. Thus began the mechanical effort to solve this problem. Cash dividers were developed in connection with the coin chutes which would divide the coins as they were played into separate compartments on a percentage basis. New conveniences were also developed for removing the cash drawer, coin chute, etc., from the machine with as little trouble as possible. Pin games with jackpot attachments appeared during the year and were given a lot of publicity for about two months. Before the close of the year these games were only mentioned infrequently. Various devices to prevent cheating by the players were developed during the year, such as the anti-tipping device.

New Types of Machines

Efforts to produce new types of amusement machines were quite numerous during the year and resulted in a rising wave of popularity for the small, upright type of counter game as the year drew near to a close. The square-circle type of table game came in for a lot of publicity in the latter part of the first half of the year and many felt that this type of game might take the lead in amusement machines. One of the earliest and very popular makes of pin games had been of the square-circle style. But the revival of this type of machine in 1932 was seriously handicapped when some of the machines in this group proved to be mechanically imperfect. The square-circle games were given a black eye as it were, still a few manufacturers with good machines of this type have continued to market them with success. The upright counter machines, including the machines of the type of the Dandy baby vender, had a rising popularity during the last half of the year and were a decided stimulation to the trade. One or two of these new games were well protected by patents and served to emphasize the importance of protecting machines against copying.

Other developments in the direction of finding something new included a number of machines embodying the racing principle. The latter half of the year found a number of developments in this field, including small counter machines and some very elaborate de luxe table cabinet machines. Horse racing was the chief idea. Some attractive and creditable developments were made also in constructing games with baseball principle. Some of these were pin games with many of the principles of baseball; very creditable machines appeared in this line. Perhaps the most permanent single contribution to the improvement of play in the pin games was the development of the figure 8 board, which greatly increased the travel of the balls. Modifications of this principle soon appeared in playing boards with an outside circular channel or ring. Many ideas were also developed for giving the player a secondary chance at skill after the ball is once put in play.

As a probable result of general business conditions there was a swing to the penny-play machines during the second half of 1932. Manufacturers reported a decided pickup in the sales of the machines of the baby bell and vender type using penny chutes, and some of them stated specifically in their publicity that the penny-play machines were the kind suited to the times. A coin chute which permitted two plays for a nickel appeared also as a compromise between the penny and the nickel machines. The shifting difficulties for the operators. One operators' association established a rule that no member will change to penny play on a location where another member had a nickel-play machine until all operators concerned in the location had agreed to the penny-play idea. Another association started a publicity campaign to maintain the nickel-play machines.

Rise of Modern Arcade

The rise of the modern arcade idea in the second half of the year helped to maintain a market for nickel-play machines and for the big de luxe games. These new arcades were placed in hotel buildings and also rented vacant store-rooms on prominent streets and installed the very latest type of amusement machines. The big de luxe table games were usually made the center of these places and they took such modern names as Amusement Parlors, Studio Rooms, Playgrounds, Sportlands, Mechanical Wonderlands, etc. These places of amusement were a decided advance over the conventional type of penny arcade and much is expected of them in the future in creating a market for the de luxe type of amusement machines. Hotels and locations next to theaters were proving to be good spots for the modern arcades.

When all of the improved ideas of 1932 in amusement machines are considered in retrospect, one wonders if 1933 can possibly produce as many new ideas. The 1933 show, coming early in the year, will no doubt be a forecast of the possible lines of development and will also indicate the channels which new ideas are taking.

Progress in merchandising machines during 1932 consisted largely in conservative promotion in restricted territory; little national advertising and promotion was done by vending-machine firms during the year. One manufacturer of cigaret vending machines conducted a very creditable campaign during the year. The vending-machine section of the trade also suggested the use of vending machines to fill the gap for operators when it appeared that amusement machines might be dying out with the public. The use of vending and service machines for modernizing restrooms, etc., received a decided impetus by the entrance of three or four new firms into the field of supplying specialty machines for this use. Still no national promotional campaign was launched during the year. It is generally agreed that vending machines proved their conservative earning power during the business depression. They earn steadily, but not so spectacularly as the amusement machines.

Developments in other fields that may be appropriated for use in the coin-machine field include the invention of a movie film in the form of a phonograph disk, which may make possible the long-sought coin-operated movie machines with films that will not break. Considerable progress was made during the year in cold control, so that it may soon be possible to construct more perfect refrigerated vending machines. The great increase in the sale of merchandise items in dime packages is very suggestive of the use of merchandising machines to sell the 10-cent sizes. There will be many differences of opinion as to the greatest single progressive step in 1932. In the face of a prolonged business depression, the coin-machine industry began to be recognized as a depression-proof business. The pin-game boom, with its varied effects, stands out as the most important trade factor during the year. On the whole, it can be said that the coin-machine industry made decided progress in organization and in the perfection of amusement machines during 1932.

The Coin Chute

By SILVER SAM

A machine for repainting golf balls was placed on the market in the spring of 1931. A specially patented paint was said to be used in the machine, made from waste film obtained from the movie mills in Hollywood. The paint was white but said to have remarkable staying qualities for the purpose. Deposit a dime and a golfer could get his golf balls refinished in the right shade of whiteness.

Guests are frequently amusing. In April, 1931, I hatched a slogan like this: "Amusement machines, the rising sun to prosperity." The pin-game boom started in the fall of that year. Even at that time it was evident that amusement machines were proving their worth in depression times. The whirlwind type of counter games had been money makers for several weeks.

There were nickelodeons in pre-movie days. I suggest that the first successful coin-operated movie machine be called the Nick-O-Movie. The machine introduced in Chicago about a year ago was called the Colma Cinema.

What has become of the Robo vending machines, launched in Portland, with the slogan, "The only mechanical man doing business?" These venders made use of a manikin to attract attention and please the customers, as manikins were in vogue then for amusement and vending machines. Vending machines that have made long use of moving figures are the Yellow Kid venders, made by the Pulver Gum Company.

In response to an inquiry from a Florida reader asking about coin-operated pool tables we have a letter from E. A. Portney, of the Coin Machine Syndicate, Minneapolis, saying that he sold these tables in the Florida territory about two years ago. He still is in contact with sources for the pool tables, he says.

The Oriole Coin Machine Corporation, Baltimore, also forwarded information for the Florida inquirer about its Ball-Ette pool tables. The miniature pool tables preceded the modern pin games and taught the value of high-grade table cabinets for the display of amusement games to the public. With Babe Didrikson giving publicity to pool and billiards, it ought to help the play of coin-operated pool tables by getting the women interested in the game.

A Pennsylvania reader informs us that there is a firm at Sand Springs, Okla., which manufactures machines for vending candy and cigars. We appreciate the tip and have written the Chamber of Commerce there to get the correct address of the firm, since we do not happen to have it on our list. Meanwhile, if any reader can put us in touch with the manufacturer the information will be appreciated.

A Miami, Fla., reader is very much interested in machines that sell groceries and similar items. The National Sales Machine Company is probably the leading pioneer in developing a system of merchandising machines to sell grocery and bakery items. The Robert Harvey Systems, Inc., announced an elaborate system of automatic grocery stores more than a year ago, but we have no late information on this project. The automat restaurants are well known, also the automatic stores at Playland, Rye, N. Y., received considerable publicity some time ago.

Who remembers an idea for a halitosis machine, suggested by a news story that appeared in The Literary Digest about two years ago? The story described an invention for detecting the alcoholic breath of a person that had been drinking, to be used by police departments in their war on drunken drivers. Some operator then suggested a coin-operated halitosis machine.

Emergency shopping and convenience buying are two expressions that have been used to explain the advantages of modern merchandising machines. Now that automatic grocery stores are being talked again, coin men might brush up on their vocabulary. We now have automats, sedamats, delamats and grocerierias as merchandising machines that sell food and drink.

That story from South Dakota that amusement machines are being used to entertain patients in the State mental hospital is interesting. It does suggest that there are amusement principles in some of the games, even after the coin chute and the offer of prizes are removed. The next time a case against the pin games gets into court the defendant will have to send for some of the patients from the South Dakota hospital.

Stories of the modern arcade movement in Paris suggest the idea of using plenty of room. Two floors of a building are being used by one reported in this issue. Now that rents are being readjusted in keeping with the times it will give operators and managers of arcades and amusement parlors a chance to consider larger space. Frankly, most of the arcades and amusement parlors I have seen have been cramped for room. My own reactions are that I want plenty of room when I go into a place for amusement.

The advance of the modern arcade movement is also indicating the possibilities for using coin machines in conjunction with other forms of amusement. Ping-pong tables and other forms of indoor games have been suggested for use in establishing amusement places, along with a variety of coin machines. There are many arrangements that have been worked out in practical experience by which coin machines either combine with other layouts, or other types of amusement devices are used in conjunction with coin machines. Operators of amusement machines will find it advantageous to read up on the various amusement fields considered in the pages of The Billboard for ideas and suggestions.

Men who are interested in promoting the modern arcades should study the movement in rents carefully. Roominess in places of amusement is an important feature, and the matter of having a first and a second floor seems to have a favorable effect on the patrons. With the shifting in rents due to modern conditions it will often be possible to obtain valuable concessions and leases on space for amusement centers in which coin machines can be used, either as the main feature or in conjunction with other types of amusement devices.

Names for the modern arcades are an important matter. In Ohio another suggestion originates to designate these places. The new term is Sport Center. So the list now reads: Sportlands, Playgrounds, Mechanical Wonderlands, Studio Rooms, Amusement Parlors, Sport Centers, etc. What will be the next term used for the modern arcade? Since the modern arcades are trying to avoid some of the ways of the penny arcade of the past they are also avoiding the name. Altho Pennyland was a catchy title for the arcades of former days, it might still be used where penny machines predominate.

An idea for modern arcades comes from Honolulu, and we will probably have more details about this later. The news report says that the arcade atmosphere has been entirely eliminated and the machines now occupy concession booths. That is a suggestive description and may mean new power to the deluxe coin machines.

Our cabinet firm alone reports making cabinets for 100,000 amusement machines in 1932. But that is a long way from an accurate census of the total number of devices made in 1932. The manufacturers' tax of 10 per cent on "games and parts of games" is not likely to reveal statistics either of how many games were made unless the Department of Commerce is interested enough in amusement machines to dig up the information. On the tax statistics coin machines are lumped in under the general heading of "Games and Toys."

Competition among manufacturers prevents them from making accurate reports to the manufacturers' association or to us. The tax records should indicate a conservative total for the second half of 1932, however.

LOS ANGELES NOTES
Richard Talbert, well-known operator in the Fresno territory, has recovered from a recent electrical shock and is reported to be hitting the ball harder than ever.

Art Tanguay, head of the Western Vending Machine Company, has placed a large banner sign across the front of his jobbing headquarters to let the world know he handles the Gottlieb machines.

G. Curtis, operator in Wonatche, Wash., has been in Los Angeles the last two weeks looking over machines for his territory.

Gordon Mills, of the Mills Sales Company, Oakland, is on a six-week cruise of the South Seas, but expects to be back in time to go east for the national convention.

The Protective Association of Coin Machine Operators of Los Angeles County held a stag party at the regular meeting place January 17. A $35 marble machine was awarded in a competitive drawing.

Sol Gottlieb, Los Angeles manager for D. Gottlieb & Company, Chicago, is enthusiastic over the cordial reception being given their home games by the movie stars. Majority of the stars have a recreation room in their homes where, in the games are placed. Several dozen have already been sold in the movie colony and more are being placed daily.

Dave Robbins has just come back from a vacation in Miami with Mrs. Robbins and little Miss Robbins. While down in Florida Dave called on some of the better known Southern men and met the word that has reached us since most desirable connections. Bill Shayne, of the Dixie Music Company, Miami, told us that he spent some enjoyable hour with Dave.

their locations. It is a proven fact that a new machine will always recapture the play and the big money.

The Flash, made by Richard Manufacturing Company, of Winoski, Vt., is going strong here and is gradually entering the Middle West and Far West. This machine claims the speediest pin-game play in existence.

Over in Newark, N. J., George Posner and his Supreme of New Jersey Company are selling the new Handicap every day. George is enthusiastic over this machine and believes that it is a winner from all angles. He tells us that the principle of the game itself was bound to click, for it had incorporated all the play of the pin game, plus the horse-racing features, and invited competitive attempt. George is probably New Jersey's largest distributor and his show-rooms are one of the attractions of that State.

Edward Fish, of Star Machine Manufacturers, Inc., says he will soon present his new motor-driven miniature digger to the field. The last dies are being completed and production should be started when you read this.

Department stores, sporting-goods stores and many other outlets are now featuring home games—Jockeyball, Five Star Final, Baffle Ball and many others. The Sunday as well as the daily papers are carrying ads showing prices, and it would surprise many operators to learn that these home-game machines with their attractive cabinets are being sold for only a few dollars less than the coin-operated models. There is no doubt that this will help the play of the coin-operated machines by whetting the public's appetite for pin games in general. Just watch Johnny, who has practiced all day, try to show his boy friends how he can score on that same machine in the corner candy store.

Some new cigar machines will soon be appearing on the market. Stewart & McGuire inform us that they will have one which they claim is the last word.

In the last issue we started to discuss the tendency of some distributors to specialize in certain machines. This week again we came upon one of our better known men who told us he was moving his offices downtown and that he would specialize in only two or three different types of machines. It seems that the coin-machine industry will also soon have specialists of varied character. There is no doubt that such action will result in greater efficiency and better distribution.

For all those who qualify will receive free samples of the new merchandise as Eric imports it. This club is for Iron Claw, Crane and Digger operators and will keep them in touch with all the new and popular merchandise for their equipment.

We have noted that after much operating experience the men usually take on some digger type machines. The immense profits from this type of equipment have been thoroughly proved, and the these machines have been on the market for some time, there has never been a selling furor created for the simple reason that it takes real money and also merchandising sense.

The larger distributors are becoming more noticeable every day. Their advertising and merchandising plans carry right along. Many will fall by the wayside during any type of a lull, but the man who has already made an outstanding success will always continue right thru any period.

Claire Grant, America's second woman jobber, of the Roxy Vending Company here, has a new Puritan which she has just begun to advertise to the operators. She tells us that it has all the features necessary for long life on location.

To sell machines or merchandise at ridiculously low prices is not salesmanship or good ethics.

Once again we feel it worth while to remind all operators that the location is still the most important cog in the wheel. In fact, it is the hub about which all else is centered. Therefore keep your locations going red hot with new machines. Don't neglect your locations for anything in the world if you wish to be a successful operator.

And pretty soon the first book written on the coin-machine industry will be going to press.

A. R. Tigerman, of the United Profit Sales Company, Chicago, was a visitor at the New York office of The Billboard recently. He was here, he said, drumming up business on their counter game, the Kentucky Derby, and also the new game, Bank-a-Ball. After calling on jobbers here he left for Philadelphia. He spoke very enthusiastically about the future of coin machines.

Rumor has it that a certain Eastern representative of one of Chicago's leading manufacturers had to do a lot of alibing because of his prolonged visit in Chicago recently.

Looks Over Machines CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—B. D. Lazar, of the B. D. Lazar Company, Pittsburgh branch of the D. Gottlieb & Company and Standard Manufacturing Company, was here this week to see the newest machines made by the factories which he represents and to get plans made for the spring drive. He expressed himself as highly pleased with the Jockey Club and the Big Broadcast. He counts on a big business in his territory during the next few months and says that he is doubly encouraged when the factories are turning out machines with new ideas and principles, as seen in the two games he will feature next.

Failure in Prospect For New Tax Measure

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21.—Various women's clubs of this city are proposing an ordinance that would tax all coin machines at fees ranging from $10 to $200 per year. The tax is to apply on all machines now considered legal and would levy minimum rates on those dispensing nuts, candies, gum, etc. The number of machines operating in San Francisco is estimated at 13,000 and it is expected that the tax would net a yearly revenue of a considerable sum.

Club women are apparently opposed to all types of machines, considering them a menace to school children. Particularly are they opposed to the pin games and crane devices. Andrew Gallagher, supervisor and chairman of the charter installation committee, has expressed himself as in favor of excluding all types of coin machines from an area within 1,000 feet of school grounds so that they will be out of reach of the children. However, the club women are battling to have them eliminated altogether, but it is far from likely that they will succeed.

Action on the proposed ordinance is scheduled to take place soon, but meanwhile the number of all kinds of coin machines is increasing weekly.

Homemade Games Are Disturbing on Coast

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—Thru visiting operators, local jobbers here have learned of an unsatisfactory condition existing in Oregon when new machines make their debut on the market. Operators from Oregon claim that they feel they must enter the manufacturing field each time a new machine appears, since their territory is usually flooded with homemade models of the manufactured machines.

A recent case was cited when the Five Star Final made its appearance. Within 30 days' time operators who had bought them found competition in a machine which was identical in design and construction. Several months later another machine made in Chicago was introduced and it was soon duplicated. The Oregon operators feel that they cannot buy machines from the manufacturer and then face the competition of these machines made locally.

Among the local jobbers who are planning to attend the national convention and show in Chicago are Sol Gottlieb, Art Tanguy, Irving Rubin, Jack Olson and William Nathanson. It is also reported here that Louis Wolcher and Edward Mapes, of San Francisco, will attend, likewise Gordon Mills, of Oakland.

Bally's New Game

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Announcing the new "twin field" game, Jack and Jill, Ray Moloney, president of Bally Manufacturing Company, stated that "this machine was developed to meet present conditions." By this, he explained, he meant that the public has been educated up to the point of demanding games that afford a real opportunity to develop and demonstrate skill. The new machine, therefore, is built with special attention to the mechanical features.

The long light-weight plunger is designed to eliminate resistance, jerkiness and side-wobbling, thus permitting the players to gauge every shot with a degree of accuracy. A new type of push-button ball elevator is used on Jack and Jill, by means of which the ball is brought into position thru a very slight pressure of the finger on a small, smooth-acting button.

Jack and Jill is a departure from the usual flashy type of game in that the cabinet is an ebony black, with strongly contrasting polished metal fittings in a specially designed modernistic pattern.

Parents Complain About Machines Near Schools

DULUTH, Minn., Jan. 21.—Contemplated test cases in local courts to ascertain what control Duluth police can exercise over pin games and other coin-operated machines have, for the time being, been shelved.

A number of parental kicks to local authorities about coin machines being maintained by operators in candy stores close to a number of schools brought a flurry of action, with operators being warned to remove the offending machines.
It is reported however that the machines were soon back again in the same locations.

The Montauk, a boat used for excursions up the St. Louis River to Fond du Lac and for moonlight trips around the Horn in the Duluth-Superior harbor, has had a number of machines for some time.
When the spring season opens up again it is anticipated that more room will be given to coin machines, including modern pin games. There are about 200 pin games located in various spots in Duluth and Superior, a majority of them in hotel lobbies, drug stores and restaurants, where winning totals are paid out in trade. Local operators never use trade checks, insisting that winners take their merchandise immediately.

An ugly feeling has developed here in certain quarters, where players have begun to buck machines, where the operators or locations have gimmicked the pin games. Games in which certain pins have been deliberately bent to toss a ball out of the natural course, magnetized sidewalls which cause the metal balls to hug the rim until they drop into a dead pocket, unbalanced balls, etc., have appeared in a few locations. One operator found himself on the losing end when players "ganged" on him and made use of magnets and other devices to get the ball where they wanted it to go.

Offices in Two Cities

BROOKLYN, Jan. 21.—D. Robbins & Company became very aggressive this week in extending the services of this firm by means of branch offices. Benjamin Mann will manage the newly opened office at 60 North Washington street, Boston. William Gross will manage the new office at 431 West Lehigh avenue, Philadelphia.

In addition to carrying the standard machines these branches will feature the Empire vending machines made by D.
Robbins & Company. The two new offices mark the second expansion of this well-known firm outside of New York and environs; other offices are in Newark and San Francisco.

Fine Becomes Manager

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Another link has been added to the growing chain of Empire branches. The newest branch has been opened at 201 East Mt. Royal avenue, Baltimore. B. J. Fine, formerly part owner of the Royal Novelty Company, will manage the new office.

Mr. Fine is said to be one of the oldest operators in this business and has had a varied experience as operator and manufacturer of coin machines. This experience is expected to help him in his contacts as a jobber. The Empire firm also has branches in Philadelphia and New Haven.

Capsule Replaces Balls

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—A. M. Walzer, of Minneapolis, was in town this week showing a new machine, which he offers as something on an entirely new principle. Instead of using balls, this machine has a capsule which acts exactly like the Mexican Jumping bean.

The idea is housed in a regular cabinet model and is fastened by a strong spring to a well designed stand. The machine is operated by hand, tilting it to any position the player may desire, once he brings up a capsule in his attempt to get it into a high score pocket.

There are many principles back of this game, Mr. Walzer says, which have already been proved in the regular pin game. The player naturally grasps a machine in his effort to help the ball travel. Therefore, this very human feature has been incorporated in the new machine which Mr. Walzer calls the Tipsy Tumbler. That the game plays quickly will be of interest to operators. The machine is being tested on locations here in the city.

More Jobs, More Play

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan. 21.—How unemployment may affect the play of machines is shown here in one of the best spots on West Main street, a restaurant in which the management is very much in favor of coin machines for his patrons. The lunchroom caters to workers in the industrial plants, and the manager is hoping the plants will begin to employ more men.

A penny-play Daisy machine is found here and 25 cents is given as the prize for a daily high score. The place also has a penny gum machine and a new nickel candy vender.

Arcades Try Ping-Pong

PARIS, Jan. 21.—Ping-pong has gained a strong foothold in France and its popularity seems to be increasing.
In Paris ping-pong tables form part of the equipment in several coin-machine arcades, as well as in cafes, dance halls and other gathering places. Not only is one of the leading Paris newspapers backing a ping-pong championship contest, but an illustrated magazine, Ping-Pong, has recently been launched. Ping-pong outside of Paris is equally popular in one important city, Rouen, boasting no less than 12 ping-pong clubs, one of which has a hundred members.

Opposition Doesn't Hurt

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 21.—Coin machines appear to be flourishing, in spite of the fact that frequent raids have been made on many types of these devices.
This is particularly true of the pin-game type of machines so popular with the cigar stores and counters. A leading pool parlor finds such machines as the grip tester, baseball and the Buster Ball, at 1 cent, and the Pin-O-Cie, at 5 cents, to be popular.

The Pike Billiard Parlor, of which R. T.
Beyers is the enterprising manager, is proving a good location for Whoopee and Double Shuffle, both nickel play. Tom Mack's Rifle Range finds the Five Star
Final, Scram and Screw all popular with the patrons. Patrick, the tattoo man, is working with Tom.

Thousands of Cabinets

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Anton Clemetson & Company, cabinet maker, report making over 100,000 cabinets for various coin-machine manufacturers during the year 1932. This report indicates something of the magnitude of the coin-machine business, they suggest. Other estimates place the number of pin games now on location in the United States at 250,000, not including other types of amusement machines. In order to take care of an already increasing demand for 1933 the Clemetson firm has recently added a number of new automatic machines in order to step up production rate.

New Photographic Idea

CLEVELAND, Jan. 21.—W. E. Leisy, president of the Photrait Company here, says that his firm is interested in the coming national coin machine show and exhibit to be held at Chicago February 20-23. The firm which Mr. Leisy heads
graphic studio.

These machines are on location in the McCrosky 5 and 10-cent stores in Cleveland and one machine has recently been placed on location in New York. The standard machine is said to be semiautomatic in operation and produces strip photos measuring 1 1/2 by 2 inches in size on waterproof, direct positive paper in from six to eight minutes.

Interchangeable in the same cabinet with the standard camera is another soon to be produced which will take pictures 2 1/2 by 3 1/2 and which will bear enlarging, and these will compare favorably with the photo sizes now so popular in department stores, and the machine offers the advantage of almost immediate delivery (20 minutes), according to Mr. Leisy.

pleted in a few weeks. Thus there is no special reason for the Empire Wheel to further dispute with the IATSE. What the other houses around town will do is still problematical, but there is little chance that the Irving Place, operated by Max Wilmer, or that the Eitingue, controlled by Max Rudnick, will now switch to the Empire State Union, as was possible a few days ago.

New understanding between the Minsky-Weinstocks and the IATSE is said to be to the effect that the union will be more lenient on its overtime charges and payment for the midnight shows.

However, this will nowhere near compensate for the difference that would have resulted in savings on salary if the burly houses switched to the Empire State Union. Other burlesque officials not meet with the tentative price set by the court the properties will be offered in single lots.

As far as can be learned there has been no inclination on the part of any legit managers to offer bids on any of the theaters. Most of the managers
the houses are already prohibitive.

Meanwhile the many indie producers are waiting developments on the premise that the only logical man to take over the defunct corporation is Lee Shubert.
In this event he will of a necessity be forced to go into production on a huge scale to provide attractions for 150 houses, and the indies feel that they will be called in and financed in their production activities. There is still talk of Martin Beck playing along with Lee
Shubert in the reorganization plan.

Bills on Price Control Introduced in Senate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Senator R. S. Bradley of New York has introduced in the Senate at the present session of Congress two bills against unfair price-cutting practices in interstate commerce which may have their reactions in the machine trade as well as all lines of business if they should become a law.

The first bill, known as S. 5050, seeks to amend the Clayton Act so as to apply to the buyer as well as the seller in outlawing price discrimination. The proposed amendment would declare it unlawful "to offer or make or solicit or accept any direct or indirect price discrimination." An attorney for a trade association in commenting on the amendment said:

"It is clear that a buyer who induces the prohibited price discrimination is as guilty as the seller who makes it and it is clear that a buyer who is able to compel price discrimination by a seller and does so is more guilty than the latter. Yet, under the law now stands, the buyer can induce or compel or participate in its violation to any extent and always with impunity."

The second bill, known as S. 5051, seeks to amend the Federal Trade Commission Act by the following provisions:

"Unfair price competition is an unfair method of competition within the meaning of this section. Unfair price competition means any direct or indirect price representation or price cutting in the sale or offer for sale of a commodity in commerce which deceives or misleads the purchaser or which is effective or tends to lessen competition or to create a monopoly in any line or part of commerce."

Looking Toward Coast

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—William Blatt, president of the Supreme Vending Organization, is reported to be rapidly completing plans for extending the Supreme chain of branches from Coast to Coast. It is understood that a branch will soon be opened in Chicago, and from there the expansion will be continued on to the Pacific Coast, establishing offices in Los Angeles.

At present there are Supreme offices in eight cities, covering the East, South and the Middle West. The present plans of the organization anticipate 20 to 25 branch offices well located over the country. General manager for the system is George Ponsler, of the Newark (N. J.) office, and it is understood that when the chain is complete Mr. Ponsler will move to the headquarters in Brooklyn. Mr. Ponsler will then devote his full time to traveling among the branches of the system.

Reports say that the Supreme organization is doing an unusual volume of business for the manufacturers whose machines they handle. Mr. Blatt states that his organization is also planning to surprise the trade by the amount and quality of advertising placed by it during the period of the national trade convention.

Vending Machine Men Incorporate Association

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 21.—To generally protect the interests of those engaged in the automatic vending machine business among the purposes of the Amalgamated Vending Machine Operators' Association, a new membership corporation which was granted a charter of incorporation here this week by the secretary of state.

The organization also proposes to advance the personal relations and eliminate existing abuses and to keep its members informed concerning progressive innovations and promote harmony. The directors and incorporators are Charles Lichtman, Alfred Lipschay, Joseph M. Davinger, Theodore Seidel and Joseph Fishman, all of New York City. The principal office of the association will be located in New York City. The attorneys for the organization are Hasbald & Goldberg, 305 Broadway, New York City.

Injunction Opens Home Market to Bally Game

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Judge William J. Conroy in the Superior Court here has granted an injunction restraining police from molesting locations in which operators have installed the new Bally game. It is reported that news of the injunction traveled fast and that within 24 hours local operators were flocking to the Bally headquarters to place orders for the machine. Local operators are said to have been anxious to place the machines, but the recent attitude of city officials had deterred them. Now that the injunction assures operators of getting a return on their investment, they are expected to use the Bally games in quantities.

Bally officials report that their present production plans are based on the expectation of distributing 5,000 of the small counter machines in Chicago alone. They also report the machine making steady headway in other cities all over the country.

Springs Bounce Balls

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Jan. 21.—The Royal Manufacturing Company, a division of the Royal Scale Company, has started heavy production on the new game Bouncing Ball, according to reports. This is the first amusement machine to be marketed by the Royal firm. A number of Eastern jobbers are reported to have visited the firm and after seeing the game were pleased enough to place orders for quantities.

The Bouncing Ball is described as an upright counter device, with cabinet front in polished aluminum and the rest of the cabinet finished in black. The machine offers the player a chance at skill by long practice. It also invites competitive play, and a score card comes with each machine. Easy counting of the score is said to be one of the features of the machine. High scoring is possible so that prizes may be offered on this point.

The machine uses five balls, the player releasing the balls upward by a supple spring action and the balls then gradually bounce down on small plates of copper until they come to rest in the scoring pockets. The balls may be released by either penny, nickel, dime or quarter.

Cigaret Venders Unite To Protect Interests

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—A new protective association, calling itself the Cigaret Venders' Machine Association of Southern California, was formed the past week. Starting off with a membership of 28 owners and operators of cigaret machines, it is hoped to enlarge the association so as to take in the entire State. Moves toward this goal are now being made in various sections. W. E. Weymouth, R. L. Steur and A. S. Goldstein were elected members of the executive committee to prepare the by-laws, etc., of the association. The first meeting was held in the offices of the Rowe Vending Machine Company, and plans are being made to obtain permanent headquarters for the new organization.

C. O. Johnson, Pacific Coast distributor for the National Sales Machine Company, is spending the week in San Francisco in conference with a group of prominent financiers who are interested in the new automatic commissary vending machines. He hopes to work out details whereby an organization will be formed to spot the new machines in every city up and down the Coast. Such an organization is now working locally and is placing machines in dozens of apartment buildings weekly.

Officials Make Check

MEMPHIS, Jan. 21.—Police are conducting a city-wide inventory of vending machines, including pin games and other devices operating with a coin, in preparation for the arrest of those operating without a city privilege license on February 1.

Patrolmen are checking vending machines on their beats and all machines will be expected to have tags by February 1. Merchants owning their machines are exempt from the license tax. City license is $3.75 annually for penny machines and $5.25 for nickel machines. State and county also collect the same tax, making a total privilege fee on each nickel machine of $18.75, including the registration fee.

Studies Bigger Market

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 21.—G. Cormier, of the Cola Machine Specialties Company, has announced that his firm is contemplating the placing of its cigar vending machine on the national market. The machine has been used locally and a number of operators have reported a gratifying business with the merchandising machine. The local success has led the makers to consider the national market.

According to Mr. Cormier, the firm is awaiting final patent papers, but pro-

New Interests Purchase Control of Pioneer Firm

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Rumors have been current here for some time that a corporation had taken over the Caille Brothers Company, Detroit manufacturers of coin machines and motor boats. Confirmation of the change has been received from W. F. Kuehneman, an official of the firm.

"It is true that new interests have purchased a majority of the stock in the Caille Brothers Company," Mr. Kuehneman states, "but this in no way has any effect on the personnel. T. L. Smith and S. Kaplan, as well as the other executives, are still with the company."

"I might add that the Caille Brothers Company plans are looking forward to a larger sales volume for 1933 than the company enjoyed in 1932. The sales so far this year, compared with the same period last year, are running approximately 300 per cent better. The same condition was true for December of 1932."

The Caille firm is well known to readers of The Billboard, having been advertising in this publication for many years.

Roomy Places Prove Success

The modern arcade move grows rapidly in Paris with variety in games

PARIS, Jan. 21.—Brown & Provaglio completed the installation of their new Kermesse Wagram, a modern type of arcade, in time to benefit from the holiday crowds. The new "kermesse" occupies two floors of a large building on the Avenue Wagram in a section occupied almost exclusively by theaters, picture houses, dance halls, restaurants and cafes.

On the ground floor are located an elaborate shooting gallery, Japanese billiards, an automatic photo-weighing scale booth, Panama Digger, several coin-operated football games and various coin strength-testing devices, as well as a group of motion picture machines. On the upper floor are located several coin-operated games, such as Billiard Golf, Ski-Ball, Football, Zanzit Billiard and a variety of small slot machines. A novel rifle gallery in which baskets of champagne are held at the top of chutes by paper ribbons which the marksman endeavors to split is another attraction. There is also a photo-rifle gallery and a bicycle riding device.

Business has been exceedingly good since the opening day. There is still space for more machines and as soon as novel types of coin machines can be secured they will replace some of the larger space-consuming attractions.

Awaits Vender Patents

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—W. H. Block, inventor of a penny cigaret vender and former operator of picture houses in Chicago and La Fayette, Ind., was here this week, attending to matters of getting his machine on the market.

Mr. Block states that a corporation is now being organized in Kenosha, Wis., to promote the manufacture and sale of the vender. Patent papers on the mechanism are expected by February 1 and the machines will not be offered for sale until patents are duly granted. Dies for the manufacture are practically completed now, he states. Patent on an individual holder is already held by Mr. Block, and this idea will be offered to operators of the machine. Mr. Block states that many think the holder idea will increase the patronage of women customers considerably. He says that his machine will vend single cigarets with a patented holder for a penny each.

Mr. Block was at one time connected with the Louis Gumbiner enterprises and has been in and out of the show business for 18 years, he says. He attended the College of Engineering at the University of Illinois and was at one time chief designer for a large machine corporation. Due to his mechanical education and experience, he became interested in the coin machine field about four years ago and the penny cigaret vender is the result.

Bill Would Withdraw License Privileges

CARSON CITY, Nev., Jan. 21.—An initiative petition filed by Frank Williams, member of the University of Nevada board of regents and a veteran foe of gambling in any form, calls for the banishment of most of Nevada's coin machines. The petition may be considered by the State Legislature within a few days or it may be ignored, as some think, in which case it will be voted upon by the people of the State in the 1934 elections.

Even before the legalization of all forms of gambling in Nevada in 1931 coin machines were legal, but the Williams petition would put the machines with chance features into the discard along with roulette, chuck-a-luck, etc. The present statute places a State tax of $10 a month per handle on all coin machines which return money to the player. Of this amount 25 per cent goes to the State, 25 per cent to the county and 50 per cent to the city. Prior to 1931 each county and city placed its own tax upon the machines.

Coin machines that do not return money to the player are not taxed in Nevada, nor by any of its counties, it is understood. The Williams petition does

THE FIELD MANUFACTURING CORP.,
PEORIA, ILLINOIS

Not mention the machines which are commonly regarded as legal. There are not many merchandising machines up to the present in the State except a few match, cigaret and gum-vending machines. The modern pin games and other popular types of amusement machine are not found very often, except in Reno. This might be considered as virgin territory for the more modern types of machines.

In This Issue

Suggestions from Paris and Honolulu on new ideas for the modern arcade movement; an amusing story of how mental patients in State hospitals discover there is real amusement in automatic games; how a new tax move starts on the Pacific Coast; more news about the problem of school children playing the coin machines; a jobber announces that he will observe confidential price-list policy; a move against the licensing of chance machines in Nevada; another clue on that Patience machine; organization urged for New England operators; a story on the evil of home-made games; operators of cigaret vending machines begin to organize, and other organization news; a consideration of the importance of locations to the operator; reports from manufacturers and jobbers about the newest machines, and other ideas, making this weekly news service of unusual value to coin men.

IT'S A SECRET!

NO, SIREE! We're printing no pictures of the THREE new "Prosperity" models for the "sharpshooters" to pirate!

But if you're a legitimate jobber or operator, send us your name and we'll send you reproductions in full colors. And in the meantime—here's a rough idea of what's in store for you:

ARISTOCRAT—(46x22) the Rolls Royce of all coin machines; beautiful in finish, mechanically perfect. No pins, visible ball count and 17 other new and distinctive features. Sample price—$42.50 (tax included). THE OUTSTANDING SPORTLAND GAME.

NEW PROSPERITY SENIOR—(46x22) Novel, beautiful and thrilling to play. A dozen distinctive features—and a feature price. Sample—$37.50 (tax included).

PICCADILLY JUNIOR—(35x17) the pinless wonder—and the most amazing value in the field. Sample—$19.50. Wooden stand $3 extra (tax included).

OPERATORS get in touch with your Jobber for details!

Get the jump on the other fellow—send today for your copy of the full colored reproduction.

P. S. It just occurred to us that the first jobber or operator to show a sample of these new models is going to make a killing. If you are willing to gamble on our reputation, sight unseen, wire in your sample order NOW!

YES!

Reader Interest Is Greater — for News! — for Advertising!

There's no question about it—readers of The Billboard want to know what is going on—now, more than ever before. Times like these always add to the importance of The Billboard. Why? Because everything that happens in the amusement industry might be of value to the readers.

The advertising, too, is watched with increased interest. They look for suggestions, ideas and products with which they can improve their own business conditions.

Yes!—reader interest, as it applies to The Billboard, is greater today than heretofore. Thousands of letters tell us so. A product or service used in any branch of the vast amusement industry or sold thru agents and salesmen will find a ready market thru The Billboard.

Theaters, movies, radio, rinks, circuses, fairs, carnivals, parks and pools are all covered by The Billboard's large circulation. Individuals, too, such as concessioners, pitchmen, streetmen, demonstrators, agents, salesmen, distributors, coin-machine operators and performers, can be sold with the same medium, for The Billboard is their trade paper.
