A theory circulating in colleges and universities across the country (and the world) is that history repeats itself. Perhaps as man evolves, he repeats past actions. Certain Eastern religions teach a somewhat similar view of action. Perhaps life on campus is also somewhat circular. The same reasoning applies.

It appears to be getting down to this: colleges and universities across the country are feeling some type of money squeeze. A general belt tightening is taking place across the nation, not only on our campuses, but in business in general.

These two seemingly separate entities do fit together. In the 50's, campuses sponsored many inexpensive folk artists on campus. Artists practically sang for their supper. Joan Baez, Koerner, Ray and Glover, Pete Seeger, Gibson and Camp, Josh White, Peter, Paul and Mary, the Kingston Trio. The people (then) of the hard and quasi-hard road. The people of the consciousness of America. It was the folk sound, immediately coined the music of the Beat Generation. Long hair, beards, poetry in coffee houses. In actuality, it was the awakening of pop music on campus. The songs were "We Shall Overcome," "Little Boxes." Class consciousness. A revival of the age of Woody Guthrie and the awakening of the consciousness of the sons and daughters of Middle Class America. The beginning of the evolution from beatniks and flower children, to hippies, yuppies and other misleading, degrading terms. Generally politically, socially, musically conscious people.

SMOKEY ROBINSON and the Miracles have been a constant draw for campus audiences since the late 50's. They helped to open the campus entertainment field to Black performers of soul music singlehandedly. Robinson, a vice president at Motown Records, still finds time to tour the college circuit.

CAMPUS: A CIRCULAR WORLD

There was a constant then as well: Tony Bennett, Woody Herman and other big bands, Sammy Davis and the Vegas/Hollywood pre rock homecoming entertainers.

That is all in the past.

Or is it? In years past, as students gained more and more control of campus entertainment, the rockers entered the scene. High priced artists playing their big hits.

The Top 100 heavies with the Top 100 prices.

It was a matter of time before campuses woke up and saw that they could hardly get their money's worth from one high priced group of superstars. It is sad. Remorse that Led Zepelin does not play campuses. Perhaps campus towns, but not the campuses. Money being the root of all evils. Remorse that Creedence Clearwater Revival is in the high priced bracket.

And how many more groups with the Top 100 sound have that Top 100 price? Forget the fact that many of these artists are successful because a percentage of the eight million plus students across the nation have purchased their records. Rejoice at Chicago; Blood, Sweat and Tears; Dreams; Paul Butterfield Blues Band; James Cotton; James Brown; the Doors, sometimes; the Jefferson Airplane;

JOSH WHITE helped to bring a social consciousness to students throughout the country in the 50's, prior to his death. Today his son, Josh White Jr., still plays and sings for students throughout the U.S. and abroad. White's guitar style and easy beat blues rhythms opened the way to the popular guitar styles of today.

Country Joe and the Fish; the Grateful Dead; Traffic; Bonnie and Delaney; Smokey Robinson and the Miracles; the Isley Brothers; the Temptations; B. B. King and the rest. They represent an appendage of the campus entertainment industry. Some are high priced and play not for peanuts but for large audiences at large universities. Some play to keep their relevancy alive. There are other reasons.

The Experience

But then one gets back to the younger, perhaps less known more personal entertainers. The entertainers about whom the managers say "I want them to get the experience of the crowd. I want them to feel at home. The audience is the best there is, so alive and truthful, ad infinitum. Nothing could be more true—or more cliched.

The Seegers of the seventies. James Taylor and Livingston; Tony Joe White; David Rea; Josh White Jr.; Don McLean; Tom Rush, an anachronism rightfully revived; Janis the blues of her time; Pete Seeger, Melanie; Joni Mitchell; Jimi; Judy Collins; Joan Baez, still singing for peanuts and love; Junior Mance; Charlie Byrd; Roberta Flack; Al Kooper; Don Cooper.

And hopefully in the future, if not presently, Curtis Mayfield; Brewer and Shipley; Anne Murray; Van Morrison; Loudon Wainwright III; the Rascals once again; Neil Young, and on into infinity.

The bringers of the faith, sometime for a price, sometimes false profits (but of course that is left to the individual). Usually, the artist is a constant reinforcement to students who today, more than ever, have become and will continue to grow into the guiding force—the underlying collective consciousness and philosopher of the nation and society. One sees it everywhere, from clothing styles to "Okee From Muskogee."

The Homecoming

The homecoming attractions are still there. Tony Bennett, Woody Herman, Bob Hope and company have been joined by Lou Rawls; Doc Severinsen, the big bands of the 70's with excellent musicians of another era; perhaps even the Brooklyn Bridge and other campus attractions which not only play homecoming shows but the normal campus shows as well—the Top 40's and nightclub acts who are remembered for their hits during the ear of submarine races and parking lots. Cruisin' stars. And the revivals—Chuck Berry, Bo Diddley and friends—the people who helped to make the music scene happen by teaching the stars how to play. Constant reminders of memories and social amenities.

The Action

There are no trends to predict. Only the action that presents itself.

JOAN BAEZ has performed on campuses for as long as she has played the guitar and sung. On a recent tour she set a $2 price limit, a practice which she has almost always maintained.

THE BUTTERFIELD Blues Band helped lead the way to popularizing the blues on campus.

Campus attractions are more than plain music. There are 16 MM movies, multi-media presentations; light shows and other effects. Some accompany music. Some substitute. Some are considerably less expensive. All are important, for they represent the alternative to the higher priced entertainer/artist. Evolutionary in part. Sometimes no more than a throwback. Rarely irrelevant. One must not forget the fine arts. Certainly entertainment on a high note. At stake is the pleasure of professors, administrators and students alike.

Then the lecture series, providing further fact and theory on politics, society, business and the art of living. Thank you, Dick Gregory, William Kunstler, Al Capp, Melvin Laird and other prominent politicians and lecturers, who have taken their time to speak to the people and look for a pulse from the student population.

Evolution this. No one ever took time to speak or listen to students. Now it is beginning. It will grow further. And further still will grow College Radio.

Consider the fact that there are well over eight million students in colleges and universities in the U.S. One can add a few million more around the world. Consider the fact that most students buy records. Consider the fact that most of these students listen to campus radio to hear the sounds of today and tomorrow. Consider campus radio.

This is an introduction to a special issue. A special world if you will. A circular world which takes from the past and adds to the future. A world of womb and entertainment. Thank the parents for the womb so the children can create their entertainment and their feelings. ●

Campus Radio Experimenters

by Bob Glassenberg

In the last 12 months, approximately 20 records companies have added or assigned personnel to handle record service and related services to campus radio. There are now over 35 record companies who recognize campus radio as a viable force in selling product, especially album product.

This increase in service to campus radio tells a story of growth unparalleled in the music industry.

Not since the advent of rock 'n' roll has there been such an awareness of a market in the record industry. And the awareness is just beginning, for campus-radio while as old as colleges and universities and crystal sets themselves, is just beginning to blossom. Few record companies today can fail to recognize a market which has over eight million consumers. A debate centers upon whether the majority of album product today is bought by these consumers. But all surveys, mainly initiated by the campus stations or some part of the college or university community itself, point to the fact that the student consumer buys more album product, especially rock and related forms of music, than any other single market in the U.S. and possibly the world. These surveys also indicate that over half of the students in the U.S. (and probably Canada) from all indications, listens to campus radio.

The question of what type of music is heard on these stations is almost irrelevant, for most campus stations program for the entire student body of their particular school. Consequently, at any given time, there might be heard classical, rock, jazz, blues, country, easy listening—the entire spectrum of commercial radio—and more. This music is heard on one station, a practice which runs contrary to almost all commercial radio programming theory in existence. But one must remember that to the student, good music is good music, no matter what classification anyone else places upon it.

Because of the influx of rock or progressive music into the student market, a vast amount of radio programming is progressive music, sometimes termed underground by the industry. The context in which this music is heard is generally known as a free form or underground format. WREK-FM, Georgia Tech's campus radio station in Atlanta, has a playlist containing jazz, blues, soul, rock, classical, everything. All music coming into the station is listened to.

This station is not an exception, it is the rule.

The exception is the Top 40 campus station. But they are not frowned upon by fellow campus broadcasters. Different strokes, as the saying goes. At WREK-FM there is no hesitation at putting Santana between Pharoah Sanders or, perhaps, Dr. John. With the advent of music which combines gospel and rock, country and rock, jazz and rock, even classical and rock, the campus programmer has been able to take music from all parts of the spectrum, every genre, and place them together in one cohesive, coherent segment of music.

This concept is rarely seen in commercial radio, except perhaps at the few, true free form FM stations scattered throughout the country. The concept, incidentally, is called experimentation. It stands to reason that since the college programmer has his audience already and rarely competes with other stations, he can experiment more than a commercial station. Campus radio has more freedom, more music.

Where in commercial radio could a station play an entire day of RCA music? It happened at the University of Dubuque, Dubuque, Iowa. WGVU played RCA records all day as a promotion for the station. As a result RCA sales in record stores increased. The station plans similar days for other record companies. But a record company day at a station on campus is not the only way records are sold.

Carrier Current

The carrier current station at a college of 800 students in the middle of nowhere, USA, probably sells more records than it is given credit for. Often, this station is the only radio around playing underground music or LP cuts of any type. Perhaps there is nowhere else the students can hear the music so when they do hear it and like it, they buy it. This is true throughout the Midwest and South especially, where the student programmer tends to be slightly more aware of the times and attitudes of young people and rarely has to answer to station management. Students hear the likes of Dick Gregory, Rev. Jesse Jackson, "A Night at Santa Rita," even tunes such as "Working Class Hero," all programmed according to the obscenity rules of the Supreme Court of the U.S. Students depend upon their campus station in this type of area. And the campus station depends upon the record company, as well as the distributor and assorted friends to get its music.

A general belief in the industry is that records sent to a campus station get lost or stolen. This seems to be the major reason for not servicing campus station. The same problem, that of loss or theft, also occurs at the small or medium market commercial station, as well as the major market station. However, most companies point to theft on campus, rarely mentioning the problem of theft at commercial radio station in the same context. It is the campus station, where few people, if any get paid for their services. The campus station with a budget usually lower than any other type of station in the country. While people at the major market stations sometimes ask for eight or 12 copies of a record and receive them. Are all of these copies used at the station?

Security Conscious

Tight security is rapidly becoming the key word at every campus radio station. Mail can usually be picked up only by a responsible member of the campus radio station. Logs are being kept of records received. Station libraries are under lock and key and records checked out of the libraries must be signed for. There is at least an understanding of the problem and a conscious effort to eradicate the difficulty. And this is being done out in the open. Not behind closed doors. No one in the campus radio is afraid to admit that they have a theft problem. And everyone within the campus entertainment industry offers suggestions. There is a free exchange of ideas between stations and the faults of the medium are openly admitted and discussed.

Sometimes the openness with which campus radio approaches its problems is a hinderance. Campus radio is often termed non-professional by many commercial broadcasters. Yet there are modified Drake formats and modified underground formats at practically every campus station. If the need arises, a carrier current AM station is set up beside the already existing FM educational station. The AM handles Top 40 or perhaps easy listening chores for a majority of the time. Is it non-professional to tell the truth bluntly? Is it non-professional to air as a community service both sides of the news or what the commercial broadcaster may feel is an obscene or politically oriented record? "Je T'aime" or "Ohio" reflect an opinion and according to FCC regulations, both sides of an event must receive equal time on the air. Who is breaking what law?

Campus radio will grow. Perhaps it will become the only alternative media in the society. Commercial management is difficult to deal with in many instances—not only on the issues of drug songs, politics, or social comment, but also concerning formats and deviation from the normal broadcasting procedures. When was the last time commercial radio banded together to form a news network and cover an event? Yes, each network in commercial radio has a news agency feeding all of the stations. But it seems the only time commercial radio can get together is to broadcast a show in quadrasonic stereo. At the time of Kent State and the various moratoriums, campus stations across the country exchanged information. When can an ABC affiliate in one city call a Sonderling affiliate in another city to find out about an event?

Record Service

But growth and experimentation in campus radio depend upon more than just an exchange of ideas between varying stations. It also depends upon record service, since music is the mainstay of a majority of campus radio stations. And it is not enough to hire a campus representative at a record company and send him on the road. The representative must be able to communicate with the stations. This does not mean he has to look a certain way or act according to some rules and regulations. It simply means that the representative must understand certain things. Things like radio stations, record stores, and distributors and one stops. A campus station cannot sell a record if the record is not in the store. The representative should know what the station plays and make sure the record stores are stocked with that music. He must make sure the distributor or one stop has that music. And he must be sure to tell the truth to all the students concerned with any aspect of promoting music on campus. A good contact at the campus newspaper can sometimes help. Most of all, coordination of all these aspects is necessary. Hiring some young person for "x" amount of dollars per week to go on the road and say "play my record, man," will not really take care of business. Only sincerity and belief in the market and the medium will allow success. And this is a hard path to follow.

Campus radio will continue to enjoy growth. It has begun to innovate rather than emulate. The amount and the path it takes is partially up to the people running the station. The rest is up to the people running the record industry. The key to album sales is the campus. The key to the campus is coordination with campus radio. Listen to the music. ●

Cartridge

TV

Consider the Alternative

By Eliot Tiegel

Cartridge television can become the "alternative" for commercial TV for college students. That's one precept being advocated by companies preparing programming for the educational market.

Cartridge television (CTV) will become the most economical new communications tool available to educators. That's one way in which audio visual executives see the burgeoning new electronic medium and its application in campus settings.

One thing seems certain. The CTV revolution—as it's been called—stands to generate emotional shock waves on campuses, through student unions and right down the line of classrooms all hooked up by cable to one central player on which some form of program is being presented.

The final, end form of presentation—be it one player per classroom, or TV sets in each classroom all playing the same program from one central originating player—is not of consequence at this early stage of the development of CTV on campus.

What matters in 1971 is that a new electronic tool—called the "fourth network" by some executives in the new field—will enable students to obtain material unavailable on commercial TV or in any other form of intimate contact.

CBS, with its Electronic Video Recording (EVR) system, has been the most aggressive in striving to launch its system on campuses. Motorola, which manufactures the EVR Teleplayer, estimates it will shortly be filling orders.

And companies like the American Program Bureau of Boston have already created a series of 10 50-minute black and white shows for students, available this September.

APB will sell its 10 show, one Teleplayer package to student union directors and student activity directors for $3,000. President Bob Walker sees the student union as the appropriate setting for the series of "issue oriented" shows which his six-year-old firm has created.

Among the shows which are available are programs on sex education, drugs, underground films, crime and the penal system, the draft and today's woman.

The concept behind APB's cartridge TV shows is to "get issues across to students to spark discussion and thought." In 50 minutes "you won't solve anything," Walker admits, but you can sure stir up a hell of a lot of commentary.

In the program titled "Do You Own Your Own Body," there is an eight-minute sequence showing an actual abortion. APB's own in-house production unit took portable video tape equipment into a doctor's office and shot an abortion. The girl is interviewed after the operation. The show is hosted by Bill Baird, a top crusader for legalized abortion. "We took our cameras into the doctor's office," Walker explains, "to show abortion can be done properly. Too many girls kill themselves each year with bent hangers."

Walker sees CTV as "retrievable television," where

THEY'VE CHANGED EVEN MORE THAN YOU!

1962 Eight years ago we all dressed neat in our striped short sleeve shirts. And we dreamed about riding the perfect wave or building the meanest car. And The Beach Boys led us with their songs. Fans from Sacramento to Atlantic City shrieked with delight when Brian hit those high high notes and Mike led out "Monster Mash."

Their record company dug it and reaped the rewards the next year. But one day Brian, Dennis, Carl, Mike, and Bruce said "enough" to all that icing on the cake, the plum trees and began getting into pretty far out music. The problem is that the record company wanted to stay fab and couldn't quite get with the new sound. Instead they started shoveling out the old tunes in new packages—"Greatest Hits," "Best Of's" and li

And sooner or later you started to change lifestyles, but didn't know they had. That The Beach Boys were into organic foods and ecology and said dedicating an album (Wild Honey) to both three years ago is something you never learned, since the record company dictated you should still think of The Beach Boys as surfing hodads. That The Beach Boys were the first to incorporate the Moog into music (1966) is something you probably didn't learn. The same goes for just about everything from wind chimes to meditation.

But by then you had grown out of baggies and crotch pants. You know.

THE BEACH BOYS

1971 Now it's 1971 and finally you're starting to learn what's really been happening with The Beach Boys. Maybe that's because the guys are now with Brother-Reprise records (the Warner Bros. people), who are proud to display what Fusion Magazine has recently called "the most dynamic vocal group rock has produced."

Few would have dreamed that The Beach Boys would have dared show up at a festival. But there they were this past Fall, with Baez and Country Joe and John Phillips and Kristofferson and all the guys at the Monterey Festival. And according to the music freaks and critics alike, The Beach Boys were the highlight of the concert, dazzling the crowd and bringing them to their feet with incredibly beautiful, progressive sounds.

Then their first Brother-Reprise album was released. "Sunflower" is already on the best album of the year listings of magazines like the Village Voice. Rock Magazine calls it "a delicate but almost perfect balance, like whipped cream and nuts."

Now, following a three year absence, The Beach Boys are taking to the American concert trail. About the time you're reading this they'll be finishing three important performances—at L.A.'s Santa Monica Civic; Boston's Symphony Hall; and New York's Carnegie Hall.

Call us at American Products to find out how those concerts fared, and about booking The Beach Boys, In Concert for your campus this year.

shows on an EVR player, for example, can be played back or stopped and advanced frame by frame.

APB's list of oft-times controversial figures like Abby Hoffman, Ralph Nader, Julian Bond, will all be utilized in programs. These people are among the 400 represented by APB in the college lecture circuit.

Unfiltered Method

CTV can become the most unfiltered method of communication for students because it will come into the college unsponsored, unsullied, without any federal restrictions and hopefully explosively honest and frank.

APB's Walker says his company committed itself to creating programs which probe the social and revolutionary situations in America. "We have a real belief in the freedom of expression and CTV will be an alternative to commercial TV."

APB's programs, as well as those being created by Grove Press, which publishes Evergreen magazine, stand apart from the other companies which are planning to convert educational or industrial films into a CTV format. A growing number of companies have given their propaganda films to CBS for transfer into the EVR mode, including ATT, Popular Science Magazine, Shell Oil, Fleischmann's Yeast, BNA Films (executive training films), Field Enterprises (series of pre-school through adult education topics), NASA, Motorola (social issues, travel, sports, vocational education, science, public safety, management and personnel development topics), National Film Board of Canada, the Bureau of National Affairs, Miami Seaquarium, NFL Films, Pyramid Films, STP Corp., WGBH-TV, Boston (law enforcement topics), United States Information Service, BFA Educational Media (science films), Harvest Films (eye safety), United States Department of Agriculture, Ford Motor Co. (driver educational films), Gulf Oil, American Medical Assn., United States National Archives Center.

CBS speaks of 600 "curriculum oriented" films in its present EVR library.

APB's Walker has established its own sales force to sell software and machines. It already works with the top colleges in booking lecturers like Bernadette Devlin, the fiery Irish political figure, and Dick Gregory, who was being booked on campuses before "Black Was Beautiful."

APB will offer a school one CTV show every other week starting this September. At the end of the first 10 shows, a second 10-show sequence will begin. At the end of the 20 shows the school owns the Teleplayer.

And as the curriculum expands, other departments within the university will want to have their own players, Walker believes. Emmy award winning film documentarian Fred Wiseman ("Hospital," "High School" and "Ticituc Follies" will have his works transferred into EVR and sold by APB).

APB's London office is presently negotiating for concerts and other musical attractions for distribution in the U.S., since APB plans to cover a wide gamut of subjects.

Classroom Tool

Many educators look to EVR or other forms of pre-recorded video cartridges as helping fight the battle away from 16mm educational films which are costly and wear out. (The EVR system utilizes a 8.75mm wide film in an enclosed plastic case.)

Harold Layer, assistant director of the San Francisco State University's Audio Visual Center, sees EVR as providing a cheaper, more durable form of classroom tool than 16mm film. He anticipates building up a library for use throughout the school once a state freeze on buying new equipment is lifted. San Francisco State, like several other schools, have ordered Teleplayers from Motorola, but fund freezes in some instances have thinned out the number of schools which are still actively awaiting their machines. (What has further delayed the delivery of players was CBS establishment of color standards which Motorola had to comply with in its factory. This was the situation during January and February.

Layer wants to get a hold of avant-garde, experimental and educational films because his school has a good motion picture department. He sees EVR film as being one-fifth the cost of a 16mm print. EVR does not have any of the disadvantages associated with 16mm and 8mm film: projector noise, no rewind feature. "EVR is quiet and it can be electronically distributed over a cable to other sets on campus." Layer's center provides audio visual programming to the school's 60 departments. (It has 1,100 16mm films, 3,500 film strips and 1,000 audio tapes.) Layer says he wants to get out of 16mm because "we can't afford $200 to $400 for a half-hour color film. We're like a rare book library dealing in an expensive medium which wears out after 100 to 200 plays."

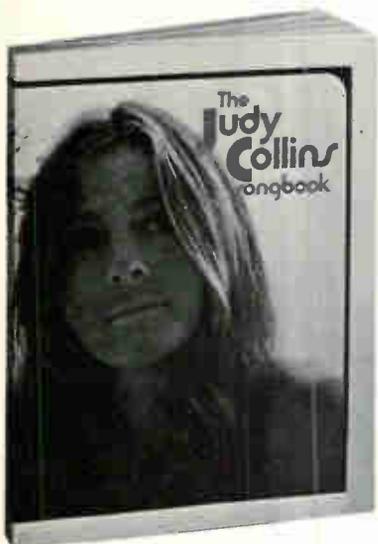

San Francisco State, like other schools around the country has been using video tape equipment for on-campus originations. It has four General Electric video tape units plus one Sony Portapack battery operated unit. All these video tape units are in constant use. In addition, the school's TV department uses broadcast quality Ampex VTR units for its own productions, so there is much activity within the campus of a taping-replay situation. EVR will only allow a playback situation like 16mm film.

Motorola's EVR sales chieftain Bill Gallinger says there are nearly 30 schools which have ordered Teleplayers. "Most have existing vestments in audio visual equipment and are doing some creation of their own." In addition, a number of Canadian schools have come in with EVR orders. Many of the orders are purely for evaluation purposes. But Georgetown University has ordered a number of players for medical education.

Besides CBS' EVR system, Avco's Cartrivision video tape system has been lining up pre-recorded programs which could have curriculum value.

So there is a new classroom helper ready to spring on campus this year. A lot of dollars are being invested in the development of this newest teaching aid. ●

Already audio magnetic tape is making tremendous inroads on college campuses across the nation, and indications are that cartridge TV, its more sophisticated counterpart, will go even further toward improving and solidifying the concept.

Although the concept of utilizing tape for more personalized teacher/student relationships has been around since the first reel-to-reel recorder was developed, the idea actually began to realize its potential with the introduction of cassette recorders.

Teachers discovered that the handy little gadget, with its portability and ease of use, not only gave them tremendous opportunity for creativity in expounding their theories, but also evoked a more positive response from frustratingly negative students.

Also, it began playing an increasingly important role in the reduction of crowded classrooms, as more and more students were able to tape their courses and study them in the convenience and less distracting atmosphere of their own homes.

Today it is being theorized that the only practical way to halt the on-campus population explosion and its related ills would be to put a tape recorder in the hands of every student and send him home to study. The classroom would then be maintained—on a smaller scale—as a place where students would meet once or twice a week—at staggered periods to avoid congestion—to have his exercises graded, and to be exposed to the ambience of the college setting which would continue to be vital as a stimulant for creativity.

Already many giant publishing houses are offering their texts books in cassette form, and, firm in their convictions that recorded learning will be the trend in education in the future, are either looking at, or are already deeply involved in, far reaching agreements with cartridge TV firms that will offer their text books in this new visual format.

Among the leaders in the field of this exciting new approach to education is the Videorecord Corp. of America. Located at Westport, Conn., this company, concentrating its efforts largely on the development of software for the medium, has adopted a scientific approach to its commitment by enlisting the aid of both a creative producer and a behavioral scientist to develop innovative programming.

In developing its concept toward educational programming, VRC is placing emphasis on what it calls interactive self-pacing learning.

TAPE— TEACHER'S PET

According to Dr. Stanley Hopwood, president of VRC, cartridge TV turns the passive television set into an interactive learning system through the use of visually stimulating on-line programming, and responsive off-line manipulative programming, and/or text material.

"It is," he said, "interactive in the sense that it can be combined with off-line ancillary materials in a programmed learning situation, and self-pacing in respect that the individual controls the pace of his visual experience.

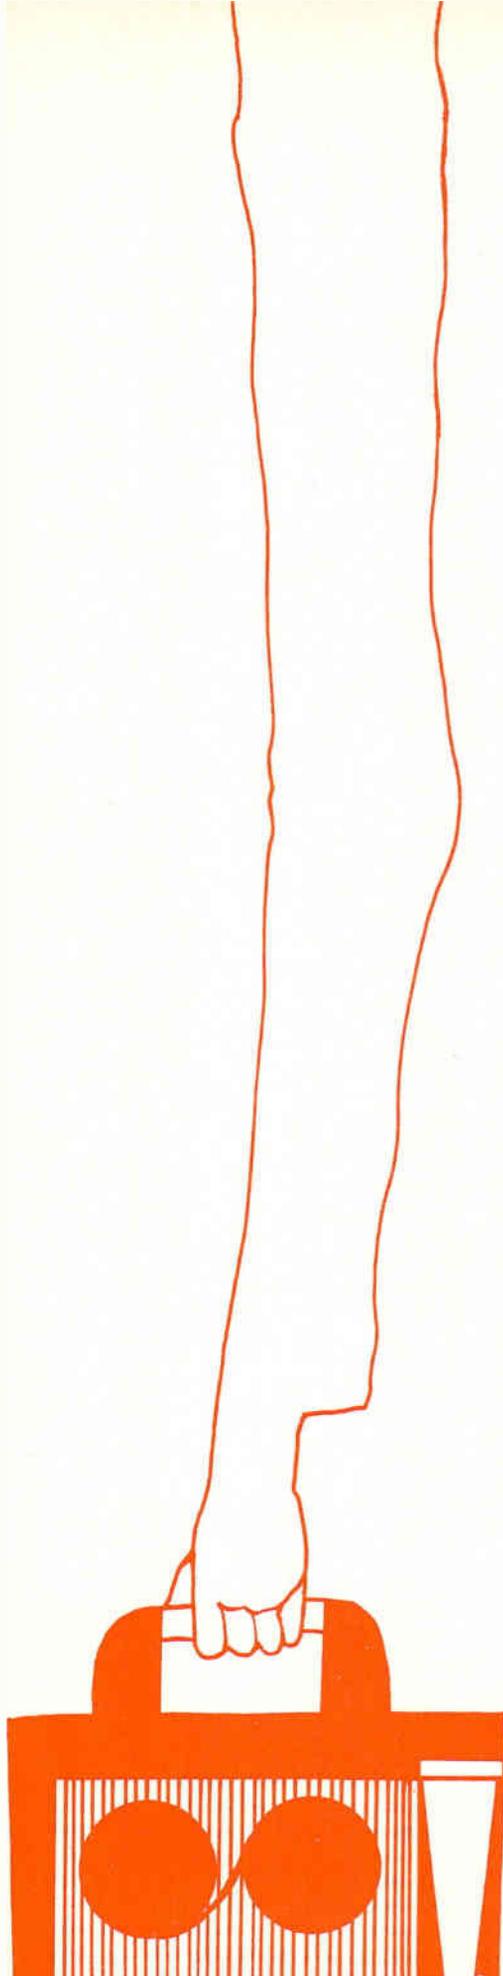

The VRC chief executive expanded, "With cartridge TV the user can choose his own program material and actively engage in learning within a format that will motivate him to want to learn."

He continued, "The video portion of the program on the television screen takes the place of the teacher, while student activities could be a programmed text, a manipulative action, a simulation or a game. He can use his books and tools to reinforce his learning and further stimulate his interests.

"And of course self-pacing allows the user to move through the program material as fast as his ability allows. He can repeat any segment of the program until he feels ready to move on."

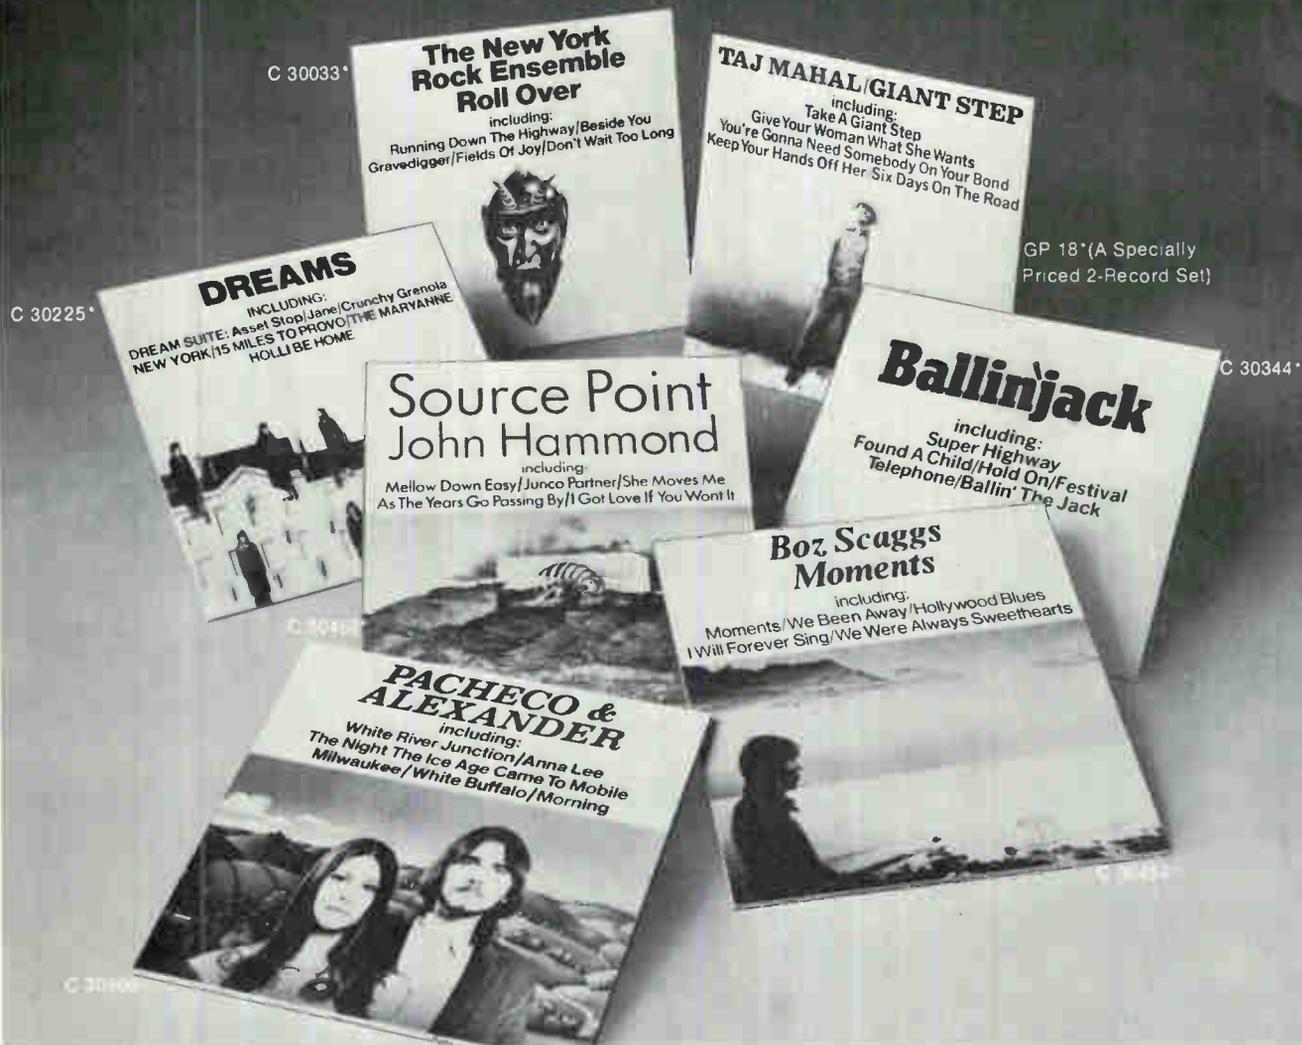

Also actively engaged in the development of programming for the CTV medium are the major contenders in the hardware race including CBS/EVR, RCA/Selectavision, Ampex/Instavision, Avco/Cartrivision and Retention Communications Systems, Inc.

Software developers include Motorola Teleprograms, and Optronics Libraries headed by Irv Stimler. This last company, in addition to developing text-book oriented educational material, is also working with a well-known underground video theatre to produce the first magazine in CTV form aimed at the college student. ●

BLOOD, SWEAT AND TEARS took a brief break from the campus entertainment scene but returned to the circuit during this spring term. They also played a date for the American Civil Liberties Union's "Operation Challenge," a legal fund which is battling for compensation for the parents of the students killed last year at Kent State University and at Jackson State.

By BOB GLASSENBERG

The rock scene has thrived on campus this year—artists who have risen on the charts have increased the number of campus dates played during the past year. There has been a steady stabilization of prices for groups appearing on campus. But most booking agencies agree that the tide is turning slowly towards the softer sound and the less expensive artists and entertainment packages.

Today the key to the college market is to build an act so they do not have to depend upon their last hit record for booking dates, according to Steve Leiber, head of the William Morris music department and campus entertainment department. "The Lettermen and the Association are two good examples of this," Leiber said. "While these two groups do not continually turn out hit records, they work constantly on the campus. I think this is for two reasons. First, they have been around for quite a while, building a reputation for good shows and reliability. I think also that credit must be given to our entire department and agency."

"As one of the larger agencies which not only books entertainment but also artists for commercials and the like, we are able to draw on all of our resources to find, promote and maintain good live entertainment."

Leiber also said that in his opinion, there were many acts that got their first boost on campuses. "Dionne Warwick's major source of income when she first became well known and before that was the college market. Her reputation has been built there and she will probably always play such dates."

The William Morris Agency books entertainment on campuses throughout the country through their campus department, which has grown from a three-man operation to a large-scale sectionalized separate department of the agency. "Each person within the department is responsible for one section of the country. He knows all of the campuses within his respective section. He knows the equipment available on each of these campuses and he also is in personal contact with the college concert managers, the social chairmen and the union managers on each of his campuses. This enables us to perform as specialists, both for the performer and for the college," Leiber said.

Better Equipped

Jay Jacobs, who also works in the college department of William Morris, said there had been numerous advancements on campuses this year. "I feel that they are far better equipped to handle any type of act now," Jacobs commented. "Now, when a new entertainment center or some other structure with a theater is built, lighting and sound are very much a part of the picture. There is almost a new professionalism awakening on campuses. Everyone involved in the entertainment field of campus activity is becoming more aware of the artist's needs. There is even some competition growing—promoters off campus versus the on-campus promoters, the students. Prices have leveled off, but colleges are offering a higher percent of the gate to the acts. This brings them in direct competition with the off-campus promoter in many cases, excluding the really high-priced groups. We even had the Rolling Stones play two campuses on their U.S. tour."

Larry Goldblatt, head of Blood, Sweat and Tears, Ltd., finds fault with many of the large agencies and many campuses. I think agencies such as ours, which handles four acts, has a distinct advantage over a large, departmentalized agency," Goldblatt said. "We not only have direct contact with the campuses across the entire country, which enables us to better coordinate a tour, but we have direct contact with all of our artists, and really understand their needs. This, I feel, is most important, for the artist must be happy with his schedule and of the finer points of the tour if he is going to give a good show continually, night after night."

Friends & Advisor

For Goldblatt, his artists come first and the business comes second. "We are friends with the artists," he said. "We only act on their behalf and as advisor. I think every agency does this to an extent, but I do not feel that agents at a large agency really know their artists on a personal basis. Furthermore, the larger agencies try to use their big acts to sell other acts with the bill. We do not do this since each of our acts can stand alone."

"When an act spends 10 or 15 percent of its gross on an agency and all it gets in return is bookings, it is getting short changed," said Goldblatt. "There is travel to take care of, roadwork, rehearsals, and most important, routing. A good agent does not want to send his artist from one end of the country to another overnight just to get good money. Many times we will sacrifice money for convenience. It makes more sense to keep the group rested and together by having them travel as little as possible between dates. It also saves money

DIONNE WARWICK was one of the stars who helped to build her reputation through campus appearances, according to William Morris Agency music department head Steve Leiber. Miss Warwick still plays campus dates regularly.

Ed Rubin, of the International Famous Agency, agrees with Goldblatt on the lack of professionalism on campus. "Schools tend to sign any piece of paper we give them with the supposition that they really don't have to meet the requirements. For example, their feeling seems to be that the artist can't walk out of a sold-out house just because he has to use an upright piano instead of a baby grand as stipulated in the contract or rider."

Artists' Problems

There are also problems with the artists, according to Rubin. "Certain acts will not work certain parts of the country sometimes because of police or just plain harassment, sometimes because of transportation problems. Today as opposed to a few years back, a five-man group means eight to ten people traveling and perhaps one to four tons of equipment. The equipment is hard to move from location to location, especially 3,000 miles in one shot. Even the airlines are becoming increasingly difficult to deal with."

Rubin feels that the most interesting phenomenon in the college market is that popularity of an artist is generally based on the singles chart, but the students buy albums. "The market constantly changes," said Rubin. "Unquestionably, the trend today is towards the folk act. The campus seems to want an individual rather than a group, with a few exceptions of course. Next year, who knows? That is what really makes the market interesting."

George Stanton of the Theatrical Corp. of America sees other problems in the college market. "At present," Stanton said, "The Union coordinators are trying to get the students' interest away from the chart act that will cost a great deal of money and perhaps not entertain. This, I feel, is one of the reasons for the switch to the solo or soft, sounding artist. It is also one of the problems, for the students have definite ideas about artists appearing on campus."

Stanton said that his agency is in between the large and small outfit. "We act as consultants, offering personalized service in packaging shows. We talk to the union managers, analyze the problems they have and then suggest possible solutions to the union committee. I have found that the biggest problems the students and the other people involved in campus entertainment have is getting information on artists and understanding the specifics of contracts and rider terms.

"As far as I am concerned," Stan-high. The market might collapse on our own inflation. And this is all the fault of the artist. The students want chart acts and pay little attention, if any, to real block booking its advantages. I feel that block booking is the key to lowering prices."

Mixed Emotions

Stanton also had mixed emotions about the market. Aside from all problems, Stanton added that "the students are the most appreciative audience and I have the ultimate responsibility and reliability for student entertainment. The energy of the students varies from school to school, but I'll take energetic student promoter who will to learn and has an open mind and time."

Marty Klein of Creative Management said that many of the technical problems about which agents, promoters, groups and managers complain could be alleviated if the college concert manager and the road manager of the group double check technical aspects at a reasonable length of time prior to performance of the group. "There is difficulty with this of course, but we always try to take care of this aspect," said Klein.

As far as he was concerned, the trend for campus entertainment with the most popular groups on LP chart. "The student today is in the LP market and with increased exposure of artists, record sales will rise."

CMA also uses the sectional approach to bookings, with each agent taking care of one part of the country. "Then the agent knows the schools and the particular problems of each campus," said Klein. "Both the older groups and the newer, more established groups must continue to play on campuses. The exposure is more necessary and as the prices for concerts continue to stabilize the market will grow and artists will continue moving equipment and cuts down the odds of having something get lost or arrive late."

Goldblatt has changed his criteria for booking Blood, Sweat and Tears. He has waited to place them on the campuses this year because of the unstable administrations we've had this year with the students. I am concerned with safety. I also have started booking them in smaller places where the sound is better and they have a rapport with the audience. This year, both the group and the audience are satisfied," Goldblatt added.

"There is a definite process of learning by both the artist and the audience at concerts," Goldblatt said. "In forgetting the money, the campus is the most important market for a contemporary group. The students buy albums, literally setting nationwide records with their purchases. If they like the artist, they will continue to buy him after graduation. They will continue to buy the artist's product and go to concerts. Thus, we have a genuine audience."

Goldblatt did have a few constructive criticisms. "I really don't think there had been a great growth of professionalism on campuses. I do not really expect this, since the turnover of personnel is high. Therefore, our acts always bring their own engineers and lighting experts. It is an important part of the show. To entertain the audience today, there must be a certain amount of sophistication in terms of the technical aspects of the performance. We often cannot get what we want from an outside light-crew for instance. Often, the concert chairman tries to take charge of some aspect of the performance.

I guarantee a good show if we run the entire show. Unfortunately, this sometimes causes an ego problem for the concert chairman or the band manager. This is emotional and is mainly dangerous for both the artist and the audience. But the campus still provides the place to work, learn and prepare for today's artist," concluded

Canada only has one-tenth the population of the U.S.; the Canadian music industry is a very recent phenomenon; and there is a distinct "lack of ethics" among booking agencies in Canada. . . .

These are some of the reasons given for the slow growth of the campus market in this country.

Terry Filion, a partner in Concept 376 Ltd, which is one of the largest bookers in Canada, summed up the college attraction scene in one phrase: "Basically, it's confusion."

Canada's campus market is broken into two separate sections—colleges (of which there are about 70) and universities (there are 22 "good ones").

According to Filion, colleges book mainly Canadian acts, but their concert ceiling is only about $500. Universities are more interested in U.S. acts, says Filion, and they spend three times as much on imported acts as local.

Filion claims that one of the major obstacles preventing the growth of a virile campus scene is the lack of block booking. "For example, a guy at the University of Alabama in the U.S. is able to book 75 other universities. That way they get good service and good prices from U.S. agents.

"They're now trying to get block booking together in Canada, but it's going to take some time."

Local Content

Filion says that the recent CRTC local content ruling, forcing Canadian broadcasters to play locally produced records, has had some good effect on the college booking scene.

"Because of the records coming out, Canadian universities and colleges are showing more interest in booking local talent. But there's a long way to go. Maybe I'm too patriotic or something but I think that if the universities get grants from the Canadian Government, a lot of it should go back to Canadian talent.

Another of the problems on the campus, says Filion, is the general lack of acceptance of college radio. "You could put a saturation campaign on a college station for a campus concert and still hardly anybody would show up. On campus, they listen to the local rock stations, AM and FM."

Filion says that most agencies would rather not book U.S. acts into Canadian campuses. "We prefer to stick with Canadian groups. There's less hassles and you are completely responsible for your acts."

One of the key reasons why fewer

U.S. acts are being booked into the Canadian college market is high prices. "U.S. agents forget that Canada is one-tenth the size of the U.S. market. We can't afford the $20,000 tags each gig. When U.S. groups go to Europe, they work for much less. I don't know how long it's going to take them to realize that they must make substantial reductions for this market too. Canada is not, I repeat, not just an extension of the U.S. market. We may be geographically, but the college market is a world removed."

What the colleges need, Filion believes, is an unbiased representative not affiliated with an agency to fairly coordinate their dates. Block bookings would follow, and the Canadian college market could rapidly expand.

Filion thinks that the growing acceptance of Canadian-made records nationally will eventually mean nationwide campus tours by local acts. "The main problem is getting the colleges to run the dates together."

Canadian acts that are doing well on campus, Filion notes, are the Guess Who, Crowbar, Lighthouse, Mashmakhan, Chilliwack and Homestead.

Too many agencies are ripping off college bookers, Filion claims. "The agency scene in Canada is like a sandbox. It's complete bedlam. Most agencies will quote any band at any price at any time. The college booker gets screwed in the end.

"Far too few college bookers are really familiar with the scene. They only have the job for a year and there's a lot of difficulty establishing any kind of mutually beneficial relationship.

"The bookers are dismayed when they find four different agencies quoting four different prices (the difference being as much as $200) for most Canadian acts. There's no agency professionalism or ethics. And in the end, the campus market suffers."

Pointing out that colleges are not a major market for rock talent, or any talent for that matter, Filion notes that high school booking represents a much bigger outlet than colleges and universities combined.

Clearly, there is wide room for improvement in the Canadian campus market. But people are aware of the problems and the growing domestic importance of Canadian rock acts will eventually mean an efficient and ethical block booking procedure. ●

Country Joe MacDonald . . . one of the country's most famous performers is now doing a lot of new things — like acting, writing, teaching — and here are some of his recent projects.

"HOLD ON ITS COMING" (VSD-6559)

An album of original rock material recorded in London, New York, and San Francisco. Ranging from Joe's sweet side to his biting satire performed by some of the top musicians from England and the States.

"METAMORPHOSES" Joe composed the score for the new play, which opened at the Mark Taper Forum in L. A. in February of this year. A story theater transformation of Ovid, conceived and directed by Paul Sills, adopted and translated with lyrics by Arnold Weinstein.

"ZACHARIAH" The controversial film in which he appears as the leader of an outlaw band.

"QUE HACER" filmed in Chile, by Saul Landau, scored by and featuring Joe.

Solo Albums Release:

"TONIGHT I'M SINGING JUST FOR YOU" (VSD-6557)

Recorded in Nashville, a collection of Joe's favorite country and western standards. (Dedicated to Joe's wife, Robin)

"THINKING OF WOODY" (VSD-6546)

A tribute from Joe to Woody Guthrie. Marjorie Guthrie wrote to Joe about the album saying "I thank you for WANTING to do the album . . . and I love you for doing it so beautifully."

ALSO COMING, AN ALBUM OF JOE'S LIVE PERFORMANCES.

"The disc is a beauty. It's honest, attractive and unusual. Full of musical contradictions, fascinating rhythms and entertaining juxtapositions."

San Francisco Examiner

"The band... has two distinct features. First, two strikingly valid singers, Terry Garthwaite and Toni Brown. And second, a percussive drive injecting the quick, clean rhythms of congaist Ron Wilson, drummer Fritz Kasten and amplified bassist Jeff Neighbor."

Billboard

"But I think this might be one of the best albums to be released next year and I've just got to tell you that."

Berkeley Tribe

"When they get warmed up, they live up to their name, cooking up a storm of delicious music which hypnotizes the audience with its mellow complexity."

Record World

"Joy of Cooking's debut album is one of the freshest sets to come along in some time. The group... is ready to break out as a national hit. The program is joy from start to finish and really cooks."

CAMPUS INTERNATIONAL

Czech Student Taste Important

PRAGUE—It is rather difficult to speak of a separate college circuit in Czechoslovakia. Large auditoriums at campuses are practically nonexistent, or at least not used for commercial shows. In most university cities there are student clubs, but their financial means are limited so that they have to rely either on local talent or on young groups—consisting partly of students—who are willing to perform for their colleagues for moderate fees.

However, the influence of the student taste on record sales may be considered as quite important. Student audiences played an important part in the development of all minority trends in pop music such as jazz, rock, country or folk music.

Every year there is a national contest of student groups—"Student Unisersiada"—held at Ceske Budejovice; groups from abroad may participate as non-competing guests. For several years, the contest was organized in two categories—jazz and rock.

Wide Variety in Finland

HELSINKI—The Finnish college circuit consists of around 170,000 students but only one real campus area. This is situated at Otaniemi on the outskirts of Helsinki. It houses 1500 students of technology, which is, however, only 30 percent of students studying at the college of Technology. Other university and college campus (though very small ones) are suited in Helsinki, Turku, Tampere and Oulu.

Otaniemi Campus offers a wide variety of entertainment. It occupies highly popular "Aquarius" disco which is open to all people over 18 years of age. Otaniemi Campus also books top artists for their Saturday night balls. Recent attractions have included Tapani Kansa, Katri Helena, Pepe and the Paradise and M.A. Numminen, who like others have appeared for very reasonable fee of $200.

Students seem to like all sorts of music, but mainly popular one. This

'No Effect' in Vienna

VIENNA—In Austria here is hardly any college entertainment, except some performances at the universities, where young, unknown artists and groups have a chance to become popular. But these concerts have no connection with the record industry and, at this time hardly no effect upon the record sales.

The program consists mostly of protest-songs, progressive pop and country music.

is well noted from the programming of OTA-RADIO, which is on the air from 11:30 p.m. to 4 a.m. offering computerized record requests on mostly non-stop basis. OTA-RADIO has also four other channels for pure informational purposes.

If we are going to talk about typical Finnish Campus music, that must be the kind of brass music played by extremely popular Retuperan wbk, whose music is a kind of Dixie jazz and has made an album for PSO.

—KARI HELOPALTIO

Several groups which later reached a considerable commercial potential, began in student clubs. "Collegium Musicum," a rock group with adaptations of works by classical composers, won their audience in student clubs in Bratislava. By now they have successfully toured abroad (especially in Poland) and their first LP on Supranon is in preparation. The Rangers, Pantton's best selling artists, combining country and folk influences, originated among the students of Prague College of engineering and made their first impact upon the audience in clubs attended by students.

Students form a considerable section of the audiences of yearly jazz, rock and country festivals, arranged in Prague on professional and international basis. Generally one might say that student tastes are important as a counterbalance against the MOR, more traditionally oriented tastes of the general audience.

—LUBOMIR DORUZKA

All Quiet on Italian Campus

MILAN—Recently Italian colleges and high schools have been passing through a serious institutional crisis: debates on the educational reforms and political demonstrations are very frequent in every part of the country.

With such conditions no campus activity has been carried out and no musical or cultural student society is currently in action.

Obviously, among the audience for pop events and among the consumers of record and tape market, the student percentage is very high, but no special organization has been ever set up.

On the other hand, things being as they are, the Italian music industry has never taken into account any initiative or any promotional campaign with regard to campus activities.

—PEPPO DELCONTE

You booked them when.

Argent is already beginning to make it big in America. (They're a major group in England.) Their first album was highly acclaimed from all sources, and their new album is more powerful than the first. Rod Argent's hypnotic organ playing is more prominent than ever, both on record and in person.

E 30128

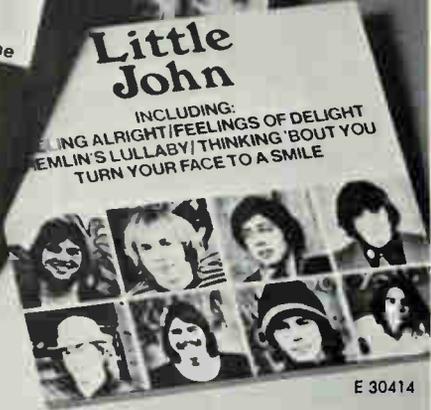

Tin House has been touring with Edgar and Johnny Winter. They're teenagers who capture the freshness of rock 'n' roll the way teenagers were meant to do. Their first album was produced by Rick Derringer of Johnny Winter And.

Chelsea Beige is a New York City group, all the way. They got their start at a Fillmore East talent night. And individual members have played with Cat Mother and the All Night Newsboys, Blood, Sweat & Tears... local groups like that.

E 30414

Little John is a brass-rock group, now being produced by Roy Halee (producer and engineer for Blood, Sweat & Tears, Simon & Garfunkel, Laura Nyro). Their first Epic album showed great promise. Their new album shows great fulfillment.

E 30470

Blackstone holed themselves away in a garage for six months and emerged with a whole album's worth of intense music. As a result, their album sound is their live sound. And an exciting sound it is.

Big acts of tomorrow, on Epic Records now.

Greek Students Entertain Themselves

ATHENS—Two of the country's four universities are located in the Greek capital, Athens, and in the second largest city, Thessaloniki.

Groups and artists in Greece are almost always booked to perform for the public of both cities and seldom is a concert set up for students only.

Concerts held in theaters or auditoriums especially for students of the two universities are mainly organized by the USIS and the Goethe Institutes. These events include appearances of jazz musicians or classical artists, none of them with a great following in the university circuit.

Thessaloniki's Aristotelian University brought Caterina Caselli (CBS) and Rocky Roberts (Durium) last year in one of the once-a-year concerts during the Student Week. The concert proved a tremendous success although the profits were not high because of the expenses and the government tax of 33 percent.

Students in Thessaloniki, which is the location of an 8,000 seater Palais Des Sports, are usually favored with low priced tickets in pop concerts staged in this city.

During the last four years the International Fair of Thessaloniki staged concerts by Johnny Hallyday, Sylvie Vartan, Rocky Roberts, Al Bano, Dalida, Vicky, Marie Laforet and local talent. The majority of the audience were students thus proving the great interest for pop artists in the university circuit.

The students of the Athens University have their own half-hour television and radio weekly programs, but these are mainly talk shows. Their colleagues in Thessaloniki have a daily half-hour program on the local Armed Forces Radio Station, called "Young People, The World and Facts," which plays Greek and international hits, reflecting students' choice. This program, broadcast every night from 10:30 to 11, is quite popular all over Greece.

Greek students are mostly after bouzouki flavored music and American or British hits while classical, jazz or country records have a less than 30 percent audience. Most popular international artists are the Beatles, Elvis Presley, Adamo, Al Bano, while Marinella, Dionyssi, Savopoulos, Kostas Hadjis, Gregoris Bithikotsis, Yiorgos Dallarás, Tolis Voskapoulos are some of the local favorites.

Students also entertain themselves in discotheques, bouzouki night spots and taverns.—LEFTY KONGALIDES

Over the past six years, in my former capacity as head of the college concert division of the William Morris Agency, Beverly Hills, California, I have worked closely with Deans, Activities Directors, Student Government officials, etc. at schools throughout the country with regard to concert programming. I have become familiar with your responsibilities and well aware of your problems in getting the right acts at the right money.

Working cooperatively on a non-exclusive basis with all the major agencies, ROB HELLER ENTERPRISES represents you, the individual campus, in reaching out for the acts of your choice within your budget.

We eagerly await the opportunity of serving your campus talent needs.

College Concert Check List

Ken Kragen and Ken Fritz, in their book, "A Guide: Successful College Concert Production," summarize the steps required for a successful college concert. These steps are listed below.

Eight weeks before the show and earlier:

- Check on available auditorium or gymnasium dates and put hold on one.
- Check on available acts, decide on one, negotiate deal and request an immediate exchange of wires of confirmation and a contract.
- Begin investigation of box office, publicist, etc.
- Set details of show such as time, etc.
- Establish budget.

Seven weeks before the show:

- Receive contract on artist, complete, return with deposit.
- Make arrangements for main box office.
- Set up publicity committee or hire outside professional.
- Set ticket prices and scale the house.
- Order Tickets.
- Order Posters, Flyers, other promotional materials.
- Meet with artist's record company to determine cooperative effort.
- Set radio deal, if any, and work out radio schedule.

Six weeks before the show:

- Meet with publicist and work out details of advertising schedule, announcement date for publicity, etc.
- Make out final budget.
- Meet with main box office to determine sale date, mail order, phone reservation and other policies.
- Determine complimentary ticket requirements and make arrangements to have them pulled from tickets when they arrive.

Five weeks before the show:

- Place ads for first Sunday's advertising in off campus papers.
- See that first releases are sent out with photos, etc.
- Make sure that tickets have or will arrive shortly.
- Check on city, ASCAP and BMI licenses.
- Discuss staging requirements with auditorium personnel. Order any special equipment and request stage hands and others needed (ushers, etc.).
- Do direct mailing, if any.

Four weeks before the show:

- Be sure tickets have arrived.
- Begin to fill mail orders.
- Distribute posters, flyers, other promotion material.
- Place remainder of advertising schedule, particularly on campus ads.
- Get material to artist's record distributor.

Three weeks before the show:

- See that second round of publicity releases are sent to the media.
- Continue to get publicity and promotion materials out as necessary.
- Check on box office sales.
- Check on advertising schedule to see that it is being carried out properly.

Two weeks before the show:

- Start radio campaign.
- Check sales two or three times during the week.
- Begin to distribute complimentary tickets (at least to invite people if tickets are to be held at the box office window on night of the show).
- Make sure of good advertising program and publicity coverage for last week.
- Cut back ad expenditures if show is selling out or put on extra push if things are slow.
- Get reviewers to cover the show.

The week of the show:

- Check sales daily.
- Ask for extra push from media, if necessary.
- Carry out artist promotion if he is in town and available.
- Continue to invite comp list.
- Discontinue filling of mail orders and hold any received at the box office for pick up.
- Check to see that all staging requirements discussed earlier with auditorium personnel have been taken care of.
- Push for last minute publicity.

The day of the performance:

- Check out all box offices into central one and then into auditorium or gymnasium box office.
- Discuss lighting, sound and other requirements with the stage crew and set them when act arrives.
- Meet with ushers if you need to give them any special instructions.
- Make sure coffee, food, etc. is in dressing room.
- Open auditorium doors to public 45 minutes to one hour before the show.
- Discuss any special instructions with the MC.
- Start show being sure to give act adequate warning calls.
- Check with the act and/or company manager at intermission for any change in lighting and sound handling.
- Check out Box Office during second half of show.
- Pay artists any additional money owed them that night. (Give it to company manager if there is one.)
- Thank everyone involved.

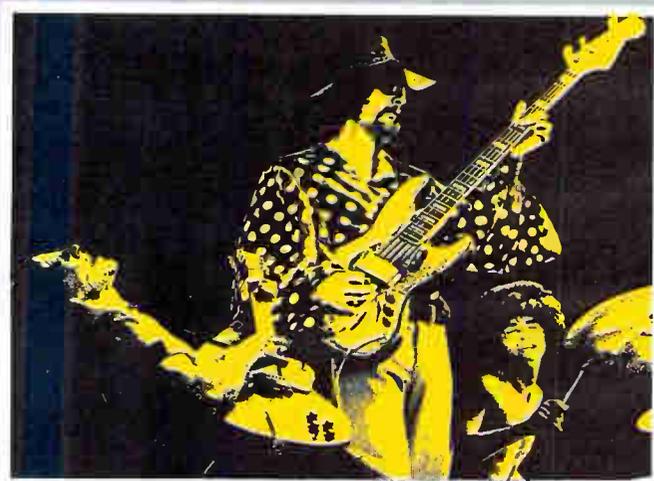

Follow up after the show:

- Write to thank everyone involved.
- Clip and send reviews to artist, etc.
- Make up final accounting, pay bills still due.
- Draw up report on show to help future programs.
- Take ten days in Tahiti to recover.

1970-1971 TOP SELLING ALBUM ARTISTS ON CAMPUS

The Top Selling Album Artists On Campus were compiled by Billboard's Music Popularity Charts Department and is based on Best Selling Album reports from college bookstores and record shops around the leading college campuses in the U.S. The period covered is from March, 1970 to February, 1971. These charts reflect LP sales reports only, and do not reflect personal appearance popularity.

The "FIFTH" carries sound insurance.

The fabulous 5th Dimension really gets around. And wherever they go, they carry sound insurance — an ultra-reliable portable sound system that gets things together so perfectly that the "Fifth" uses it in preference to costly, built-in house P.A. set-ups! The system they rely upon is the out-of-sight Shure Vocal Master — it's made to order for performers on the move. The Vocal Master shrugs off the jolts of packing and unpacking . . . then puts 300 watts of peak penetrating power behind a control console that gives them recording studio control in live performances. All that and feedback control too! Write for all the facts: Shure Brothers Inc., 222 Hartrey Avenue, Evanston, Ill. 60204.

COLORTRON STAGE LIGHTING

Conventional stage lighting will illuminate your stage. Nothing more, often less. Now! ROCKTRONICS gives you:

World's first true lighting instrument!

As with a musical instrument COLORTRON lets you compose & perform a symphony in color light, in creative harmony with the musicians. Lighting is an artform, not merely illumination.

Your next rock concert, musical, dance, party . . . can be a visual revolution for your campus: be it a RENTAL or staffed full LIGHTSHOW.

Mark reader card for world's largest catalog of home and professional psychedelic lighting: COLORTRON strobe, color organs, ultra-violet, beacons, liquid shows, slides, kaleidoscopes, dimmer boards, spots, headsels . . . or call: 617-EL 4-4444 (24 hours/day)

“...for thousands of years, man has battled his environment. Finally, in the 1970's, he has succeeded in beating it to a pulp.”

—PAT PAULSEN

“I have managed our entertainment programs at Marshall for 33 years and I can in all honesty say that we have never presented a better artist and one who created more excitement than Pat Paulsen. This is a superior program that is bound to storm the country and I am glad that Marshall could be among those universities fortunate enough to offer students the great personality,”

—Curtis Baxter

MARSHALL UNIVERSITY

“Regarding Pat Paulsen's Lecture at Northeast, I have to say it was absolutely fantastic. One of our distinguished faculty members, and resident hockey pucks pointed out that anytime you have to turn college students away from a show, it has to be good. It was.

“Most of all, and beyond any messages or moral statements that Pat Paulsen makes, the man is the funniest comedian we can think of, and that includes Spiro Agnew.”

—Paul Taylor

NORTHEAST LOUISIANA UNIVERSITY

“As you know, Pat Paulsen was here October 14. He was a smash! The kids couldn't get enough of him! He played to SRO and our auditorium seats 1400! We have never had such an audience before.

—Rick Griffith

lyricist fit to be called a poet, and that's JOHN HARTFORD.

— Gene Lees in High Fidelity Magazine

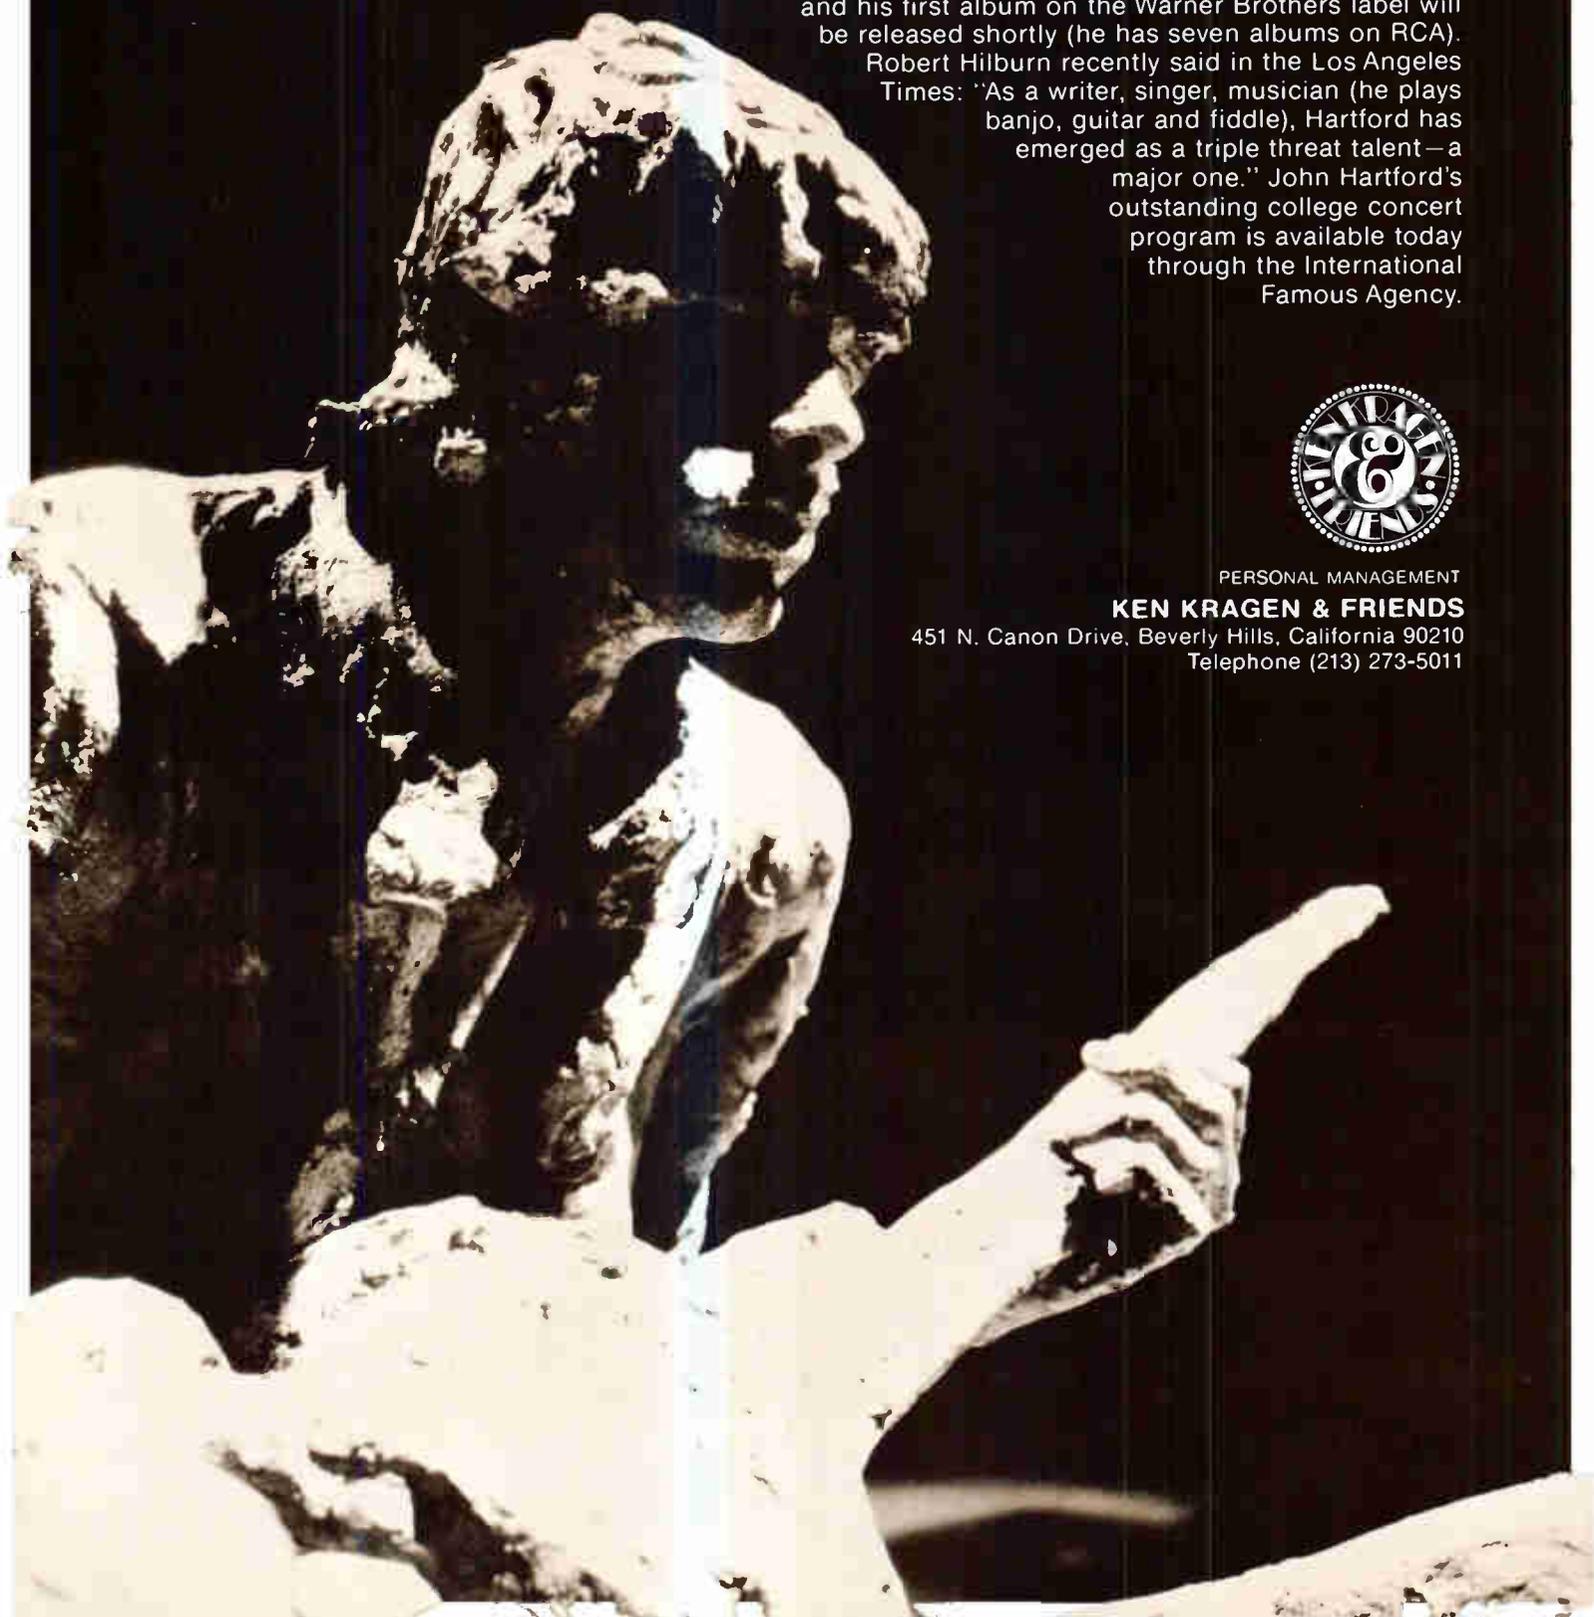

John Hartford is perhaps best known for composing "Gentle On My Mind," the song which won him two Grammy Awards. It has been recorded by over two-hundred artists and led to John's appearance as regular on the Glen Campbell Show. Now the host of his own syndicated series "Something Else," John's first book has just been published by Doubleday, and his first album on the Warner Brothers label will be released shortly (he has seven albums on RCA). Robert Hilburn recently said in the Los Angeles Times: "As a writer, singer, musician (he plays banjo, guitar and fiddle), Hartford has emerged as a triple threat talent—a major one." John Hartford's outstanding college concert program is available today through the International Famous Agency.

KENNY ROGERS & THE FIRST EDITION

PROFILES OF A WINNER

It all started in 1968 with "Just Dropped In To See What Condition My Condition Was In." Since that time Kenny Rogers and The First Edition have had seven consecutive hit records: "Ruby, Don't Take Your Love To Town," "But You Know I Love You." "Ruben James," "Something's Burning," "Tell It All Brother," and "Heed The Call." They've also appeared on more network television than any other pop group, and this fall will begin their own one-hour Variety Series. Most importantly, The First Edition present one of the finest, most exciting and entertaining concert programs available anywhere. Ask any of the over 300 colleges who have played them.

CHAUTAUQUA 1971

An exciting, self-contained two-hour concert program starring:

JOHN STEWART

JENNIFER

"The music and lyrics of John Stewart are a part and parcel of rural Americana... it's... the Sherwood Anderson/Woody Guthrie type of fondness that Stewart evokes so expertly."

— Gary Van Tersch, ROLLING STONE

"Multi-talented performers with Stewart's ease, class and taste have never been easy to find."

— Philip Elwood, SAN FRANCISCO EXAMINER

"John Stewart is a major artist."

— Robert Hilburn, LOS ANGELES TIMES

"What she's got, and what she generates is beautiful."

— William Tusher, THE HOLLYWOOD REPORTER

"Jennifer's performance was lovely and unpretentious, well paced and varied — an exemplification of the contemporary sound and the contemporary soul at its revealed best. Her repertoire affectionately bridges generations and genre."

— William Tusher, THE HOLLYWOOD REPORTER

"Jennifer Warren: The next super-star among female singers."

— John Huddy, COLUMBUS DISPATCH

In an effort to accommodate tightening school budgets, we have revived the old Chautauqua concept of self-contained touring shows. We'll bring the sound, lighting and musical equipment; and two outstanding performers plus their supporting musicians. We'll also provide you with complete publicity and promotion materials and even send an advance man along to help you promote the show. Just give us a place to put the concert on, charge your students $1.50 each to attend and let us do the rest. You'll get 10% off the top for your school — a guaranteed profit.

Of course, to make this tour successful, proper routing is essential. Here's when we'll be in your area:

THE ENTIRE WORLD IS TALKING ABOUT LEON THOMAS

"Leon Thomas is one of those originals who defy category or comparison. He has created his own idiom and made it an unusual and exciting experience."

—John S. Wilson, New York Times

"Leon Thomas is a very special singer, because he is also a musician . . . Leon Thomas is a kind of one-man music machine . . . Leon Thomas' intelligence and controlled fire seem to know no musical boundaries. He's going to raise a lot of hell in the music world before long."

—Carman Moore, the Village Voice

"Leon Thomas is undoubtedly one of the most innovative figures in music today . . . The overall effect defies classification if only because no one else even approximates the sounds Thomas makes . . . He should not be missed."

—Mike Sigman, Record World

" . . . Apparently there are no limits to what he can do with the voice . . . He is among those handful of artists who must be seen to be believed."

—Jeff Samuels, Variety

"The unique vocal sound and style of composer-performer Leon Thomas spans the musical fields of jazz, soul and rock with ease."

—Ian Dove, Billboard

"Leon Thomas, without question, is the most interesting, exciting and innovative singer to come on the scene in many a year."—Pauline Rivelli, JAZZ & POP Magazine

STOP THE RAPE OF THE ROCK INDUSTRY

Drastic measures must be taken to halt the gross over-pricing of rock groups to the extent that they're running out of promoters and places to appear.

Don't buy a show just because the price is high.
