LOS ANGELES—The number of Philadelphia retail record outlets joining in the boycott of $7.98 product has grown from 28 to 51, reports Bruce Webb, owner of Webb's department store, which is spearheading the action.

The boycott which started about two weeks ago (Billboard, March 19, 1977) was originally set up as a protest against the new Natalie Cole and George Benson LPs on Capitol and Warner Bros. Records, respectively. It has now spread to include all $7.98 single albums.

By NAT FREEDLAND

LOS ANGELES—In what is believed to be the first such drive against rock concert ticket counterfeiters, San Francisco impresario Bill Graham and the market's dominant Top 40 AM station, KFRC, have teamed to offer a $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of bogus ticket purveyors.

A radio spot by Graham, announcing the reward, is being broadcast 40 times weekly over RKO-owned KFRC and will continue to be aired for a month. (Continued on page 68)

Add Bootleggers To N. Dakota Piracy Act

New RCA European Net Near

NEW YORK—RCA International is well along in plans to implement its new Europe-wide marketing thrust announced last fall (Billboard, Oct. 2, 1976). Several major projects already have succeeded, and a number of other programs are underway—crossing many borders.

The recent London artist development and marketing meetings produced a solid progress report, and laid the groundwork for a more extensive May session involving all 17 European subsidiaries and licensees, following Billboard's IMIC '77 in Amsterdam.

Under the restructured RCA International operation, Robert Summer, division vice president, has in New York Joe Vias, director, international headquarters operations, and Jack Tessler, recently joined from Motown as manager, international marketing. Both Vias and Tessler were on hand for the London meeting chaired by Ralph Mace, director, European marketing coordination. It was attended by representatives of the "council of presidents"—the managing directors of RCA in Italy, Spain, France, Germany and the U.K.

"Europe is really one market," Vias points out. "It is no longer a group of small markets, and has to be treated as such, with obvious local emphasis."

"Our intent is to provide cross-

NEW YORK—North Dakota has become the first state to enact a law outlawing the manufacturing and sale of bootleg as well as pirated or counterfeit sound recordings.

The provision becomes effective July 1 when Senate bill 2366 goes into law. It makes North Dakota the 46th state to have enacted an anti-piracy statute.

Under the new law in North Dakota, the manufacture of pirated, counterfeit or bootleg sound recordings is listed as a felony punishable by imprisonment of up to five years and/or a fine of $5,000.

The distribution or sales of such recordings, or failure to list the name and address of the manufacturer or to have the name of the artist appear on the front cover of the recording is a class B misdemeanor punishable

PROPOSE ITA AS A/V AGENT

By STEPHEN TRAIMAN

NEW YORK—A proposal that the International Tape Assn. act as a clearing house for audio/visual rights has been made. It is aimed at reconciling conflicting claims and preventing chaos in the emerging home video industry.

Timeliness of the suggestion is underscored by the joint announcement last week that Matsushita will supply RCA with its two-hour VES-type videocassette recorder/players by late summer. Both companies also look to early availability of prerecorded videocassettes.

The proposal by Ernest Meyers, veteran music industry attorney, is on the agenda of the ITA board meeting at its seventh annual semi-

Platt Adds 11 Emporium Calif. Stores

LOS ANGELES—The oldest record/tape/accessories and audio concessionaire to a department store chain, Platt Music Corp., Torrance, Calif., is adding the 11 Emporium department stores in Northern California beginning May 1.

Herman Platt, president and chief executive officer, says a 30,000-square-foot San Jose warehouse and a Burlingame executive office will augment the move northward by the veteran firm. Platt began with the May Co. Southern California stores in 1924. Platt Music serves 24 May Co. stores in this area.

Gary Tobey, who joined Platt a year ago from Electrophonic, is buyer for records, radio and audio for the 35 departments working with Ken Platt, executive vice president.

Mike Randall, who was in charge of records and audio, is vice president of all stores and will be responsible for the remodeling programs as

AN END TO FEROCIOUS PRICE WARS?

Not All Boston Retailers Protesting LP Price Boost

By JIM McGLYNN

BOSTON—The $7.98 suggested list LP price hike has drawn mixed responses from major Boston area retailers. Although there are doubts about whether the increase is justifiable, at least some retailers are happy about the price hike because they believe it will give the market stability and end the ferocious price wars among high-volume outlets in this competitive, heavily youthful market.

One retailer who welcomes the price increase is Harry Saftner, general manager of Strawberries, which operates two active stores, one in the downtown Boston area and one in Harvard Square in Cambridge.

"I'm glad it's happened," Saftner says. "Discounting is okay, but stability is more important. At least now things will be under control. These price wars are a pain in the ass."

Saftner doesn't expect the price increase to have much effect on Strawberries' buying patterns. "You try to buy tighter," he says, "but you can't run a business un-

Ode Still Has Its For Sale Sign Hanging

LOS ANGELES—The sale sign remains up for Ode Records' catalog, with three U.S., one German and one Japanese firm having already talked with owner Lou Adler.

Adler, on the other hand, is still looking for the right terms with which to sell off his highly successful catalog and concentrate on motion pictures for the immediate future.

Adler has moved into new offices in the Robert Altman film complex in the Westwood section of the city after his distribution deal with A&M ran out three months ago and he closed shop on the A&M lot.

There are four unreleased LPs plus 26 which were previously issued in the seven-year-old label's catalog.

Within the Ode catalog is the entire Carol King repertoire including a recently completed new LP produced by Gerry Goffin.

King, Cheech & Chong, Tom Scott and Tufano & Giammarese are the artists with product yet to be released.

One stipulation Adler has been sidetracking is signing a personal service contract with any new Ode owner.

Ode and A&M were associated in a distribution tie-in from 1969 until it expired this winter. Ode maintained a small staff, with the brunt of its sales and promotion handled by A&M's staff plus its independent distributor network personnel.

One high point in the Ode catalog is the all-star version of "Tommy" done in London with backing by the London Symphony Orchestra.

Carole King's platinum LPs on Ode include "Tapestry," "Rhymes

MALAMUD RESIGNS POST

NARM Staff Will Meet, Set Strategy

LOS ANGELES—NARM will strive to immediately realign its present five-person executive staff to compensate temporarily for the resignation last week of president Jules Malamud, reports George Souvall, Alta Distributors, the organization's chairman of the board.

"We have an experienced and energetic board, which will pitch in to fill the gap temporarily," Souvall states. "Danny Heilicher is commissioned to find a replacement for Malamud. Within the next two weeks, we will hold a board meeting to restructure internally."

Both Malamud and Souvall indicate Malamud's resignation was mutually agreed upon. Malamud says his decision to leave his NARM leadership post after 16 years was one he pondered "at great length."

Originally, he says he intended to start his own company, in which he would incorporate working in the record industry and conference planning. But several offers from within the industry since he announced his severance have sidetracked that intention, Malamud adds. His severance takes effect April 22.

The split between Malamud and NARM came during the organization's recent convention in L.A. Faced with criticism over NARM's special centennial awards on the final evening, Malamud exploded and announced he was quitting. He later cooled off and said he was reconsidering this statement, but the word circulated quickly and NARM officials began to take their own action.

NARM was originally founded in 1959. Malamud joined NARM in March 1961 as its first executive sec-

Canada Cuts Import Duty For Deleted U.S. Albums

By MARTIN MELHUISH

OTTAWA—Canada has cut the import duty on deleted albums coming in from the U.S.

A ministerial prescription from Monique Begin, the minister of national revenue, has adjusted the tariff so that importers will only pay duty based on what they paid for the records in the U.S., which could range from 10 cents each and upwards.

Previously, importers of deletes had to pay duty on the original wholesale price of the record, which meant that on a $6.98 LP, they had to pay duty on $3.40, less a discount of 20% because the deleted records were considered obsolete.

The new provision basing duties on the fair-market value of the disks in the U.S. comes under Section 36 of the Tariff Act. Books have always been taxed according to the fair market price under the Tariff Act, and according to Don Goodwin, a customs appraiser in Ottawa, an investigation has been going on since

Japanese Firm Finds U.S. Gal For Tokyo Date

TOKYO—Japanese production firm Alfa & Associates thinks it has found what it was looking for in the U.S.—a soul-oriented singer with a feel for oriental music.

Linda Carriere, a young New Orleans vocalist now living in Los Angeles, will record in Tokyo next week for release in the U.S. Her signing follows an unprecedented talent hunt via radio spot solicitations in Los Angeles and Honolulu late last year (Billboard, Dec. 4, 1976).

Carriere's first album will feature what producer Haruomi Hosono calls "Tokyo sounds" and will contain 10 tunes penned by such Japanese singer/writers as Minako Yoshida, Tatsuro Yamashita, Akiko Yano, Hiroshi Satoh and Hosono.

"We are producing the album for the U.S. market," says Ikuo Nunoi, Alfa executive, "and we are looking for an American distributor." He claims negotiations are already underway "with a number of major record labels."

U.S. Supreme Court Decides To Rule On Nixon Tapes

Availability To Public The Issue

WASHINGTON—The Supreme Court has decided to hear arguments on whether the Nixon tapes from the Watergate trial can be made available to broadcasters, to record companies for sale in recordings and tapes, and to the public generally. The case will be argued before the justices next fall or winter.

Even if the Nixon attorneys ultimately lose their battle to suppress the tapes, the Supreme Court proceedings will delay use by Warner Communications, the networks and others who have been fighting in the lower courts here to have the 18 to 22 hours of Watergate trial tapes released for commercial use.

Appeals for public access to the tapes met their first setback in the U.S. Federal District Court in Washington, D.C., when Judge John Sirica decided it would be unfair to release them as long as some trial figures still had appeals pending.

The U.S. Appeals Court here overturned the lower court's ruling in October 1976, and ordered Judge Sirica to arrange for public distribution of the tapes.

The Appeals Court decision denied the Nixon attorneys' pleas that the tapes would embarrass the former President "by being played on phonograph records and cassettes at cocktail parties..." The court found nothing of an "intimate" nature in the Watergate tapes, which were reported fully to the public during the trial. The transcript was sold widely in paperback books.

Meanwhile, Nixon attorney Herbert J. Miller had won a Supreme Court consent to hear a suit for recovery of all the former President's White House tapes, numbering around 900, in January. This suit sought to overturn a 1974 law, passed by Congress, declaring that Presidential papers and materials belong to the government.

The Nixon lawyers later asked the high court to hear argument on the specific Appeals Court decision to release the 18 to 22 hours of Watergate trial tapes, and last week the Supreme Court agreed to do so, in a one-line ruling without comment.

CBS Kicks Off Second Country Boxlot Promotion

By GERRY WOOD

NASHVILLE—CBS Records plans to launch its second boxlot program this month after its first venture with the boxlot concept for country music soared a reported 150% beyond its target goal.

Gaining success in such metropolitan markets as Los Angeles and Chicago, the program is being refined to handle 10 pieces of product instead of the 15 included in the first thrust. The boxlot plan succeeded the CBS prepack program which label officials also called a success.

"We found that the boxlot concept is quite popular among rack-jobbers," says Rick Blackburn, local CBS vice president of marketing. "There are no invoice problems."

Each boxlot carton contains 30 copies of a specific LP. "It's a very clean sale," says Blackburn. "There's a discount available on the boxlot. Instead of buying in threes

Gay Discos Breaking Key Single Hits

By RADCLIFFE JOE

NEW YORK—Gay discotheques are being credited with breaking the vast majority of hit records which mushroom out of discos and spill onto the national music charts.

This opinion comes from Ray Caviano, national promotion director of TK Records, a company which, with no fewer than five hits on Billboard's Disco Top 40 charts, is considered one of the leading disco labels in the nation.

Caviano's opinion of the importance of gay discos to the success or failure of a disco disk is based on demographics fed to his company by 12,000 disco deejays, 24 disco pools, countless retail record shops and his own personal surveys of disco music trends.

The TK executive credits gay sensitivity, and commitment to disco for their role, not only in breaking records, but with ensuring that discos, unlike pet rocks and hula hoops, will not fade into oblivion with the coming of the next fad.

Caviano feels that although heterosexual clubs play some role in breaking records, they lack the clout of the gay clubs because hetero-

MAJOR WARNER PUSH

4 Different George Benson Concerts

NEW YORK—Warner Bros. Records plans to make "more of the most" in a George Benson exploitation. Benson is the last act anyone would think needs a push, but the label is pulling out all stops with a major four-day series of concerts here backed by a coast-to-coast publicity campaign.

Billed as "George Benson X Four" the Grammy winner will open with two shows May 6 at the Museum of Modern Art here with guests Les Paul, Earl Klugh and Bucky Pizzarelli.

Benson moves to the Palladium

Vote 'Evergreen' 1976 Oscar For Best Movie Song

LOS ANGELES—"Evergreen" won the Motion Picture Academy's 1976 Oscar for best song from the movie "A Star Is Born." Barbra Streisand, the tune's composer, performed the song on the internationally televised Oscar program Monday (28).

And although the music from a "A Star Is Born" was also nominated in the category for best adaptation score, that Oscar went to Leonard Rosenman for his work on "Bound For Glory," the movie profile of folk music hero Woody Guthrie. It was Rosenman's second consecutive victory in the category, winning last year for his work on "Barry Lyndon."

The Oscar for original score went to Jerry Goldsmith for his work on "The Omen." The film also yielded a nomination for "Ave Satani" in the best song category though its bid was unsuccessful.

The soundtrack for "A Star Is Born" as well as its love theme "Evergreen" have been successful both

COLLECTORS CLUB Illinois Dealer Caters To Consistent Patrons

By ALAN PENCHANSKY

CHICAGO—Should the dedicated, habitual record purchaser be forced to pay the same prices as those casual consumers whose interest extends not far beyond the top sellers category?

The question is raised here by Johnny B. Goode Records in suburban Wheaton, Ill., which answers that its four-year-old "Discount Club" was designed to advantage the collector-connoisseur.

"The basic philosophy behind the club is that the record buyer who is willing to take a chance on new artists, new releases and unjustly neglected catalog items deserves a price break," explains store owner Don McLeese, who says he originated the club following a round of industry price hikes.

For a $10 lifetime charge, McLeese's fraternity offers customers one free LP of their choice and a standing 10% discount below ticket price on all store merchandise. Club members receive "Rock 'N Roll, Rhythm & News," a product-oriented newsletter which McLeese writes, and are allowed to trade any five used albums (deemed by the store as resellable) for a new LP of their choice.

The used record section which this arrangement fosters has increased store traffic among collectors and bargain hunters, and the club has generated favorable word of mouth promotion for the outlet, according to McLeese.

Members also benefit from a twice-annual store-wide sale, to which they alone are invited. Merchandise is priced at, or near cost for these club "meetings," the last of which convened April 3.

McLeese says he has enrolled more than 400 club members, and that they account for 20% of the outlet's total sales. The club concept has evolved into an "entire marketing approach," says the retailer, one which allows the outlet "to sell a few copies each of a wide variety of titles, rather than truckloads of the Hot 100."

McLeese, who has promoted the club only by word of mouth for two years, again is circulating flyers about its existence. He says he is sponsoring membership again in response to the recent volley of industry price hikes.

"We decided that it was unfair that the real music lover should be forced to pay as much for records as the casual listener," says the retailer. "After all, it's the people who really know and love their music who keep the record business alive."

May 16 New Payola Hearing Date

WASHINGTON—The FCC's next payola hearing has been put over from March 30 to May 16, "in response to a request by FCC counsel," the Commission announced Monday (28).

No further reason was given for the delay in continuing the Washington-based hearings on the commission's payola inquiry into deejay activities at the leading black music station WOL-AM here, particularly concert promotion by its own company, DJ Productions.

It is generally believed that the FCC is doing some re-thinking on how it will conduct the rest of the payola hearings at its Washington headquarters, and in future hearings on alleged payola in other cities as well.

February and March hearings, with testimony by two major Washington rock concert promoters and by the WOL licensee and its five deejays, were extremely detailed and repetitious. The Commission is believed to want a less exhaustive approach.

Also, FCC attorney Keith Fagan, who conducted the hearings, is being replaced by FCC attorney Ted Kramer, who will need time to study the often confusing and contradictory testimony already on the record. Kramer has said that the legal staff is "reassessing" its position.

FCC Attorneys Postpone Probe Of WOL Staff

By MILDRED HALL

Rumors out of the FCC indicate that the Commission's higher-ups may be unhappy about the amount of time and effort given the detailed examination of witnesses, which has thus far produced less than spectacular results.

One FCC staffer admitted off the record that although the sworn testimony of the WOL deejays has been sometimes vague and contradictory, their offbeat dealings with competing Washington concert promoters "may not have been illegal."

The WOL deejays claim the two major concert promoters in the area, Cellar Door Productions and Dimensions Unlimited, are trying to monopolize the field in the D.C. area. The outside promoters claim that WOL deejays required payments to assure airplay for artists in concerts not produced by their own DJ Productions.

Major concert promotion witnesses heard thus far have been complainants Jack Boyle, head of Cellar Door Productions, and William Washington, president of Dimensions Unlimited and frequently a co-producer of concerts with Boyle.

Witnesses for WOL have been: Egmont Sonderling, of Sonderling Broadcasting, Inc., licensee of WOL and 10 other radio stations; WOL deejays Roger Bethel (air name Raymond St. James); Marshal Payne (Bobby Bennett); Charles Green (Chuck McCool); Gregory Hynes and Mel Edwards, former head of the now disbanded DJ Productions and no longer with WOL.

Witnesses in May are expected to include WOL general manager James Kelsey and program director Cortez Thompson.

ABC Records Trims Losses

By STEPHEN TRAIMAN

NEW YORK—The recorded music division of ABC Inc. trimmed its 1975 loss by 74% in 1976 to $7.4 million. Sales rose 19% to $187.6 million, according to the first figures just released in the annual report.

As previously noted in the year-end financial report (Billboard, March 12, 1976), virtually all the operating loss occurred in ABC Records, with ABC Record & Tape Sales at break-even, and Word Inc. making revenue gains and improving profits. No figures were given.

"ABC Records showed a considerably reduced loss in its first full year of operation following the major restructuring of 1975," noted chairman Leonard Goldenson and president Elton Rule in their shareholder statement to shareholders. "The improvement we have seen to date reaffirms our conviction that the recorded music business has real potential for ABC."

Overall, the recorded music group provided about 14% of corporate revenues in 1976, down slightly from 14.8% the prior year when sales hit $157.4 million. More important, the 1976 deficit of $7.4 million depressed the corporate bottom line less than 5%, compared with the severe impact of the $28 million loss in 1975 that dropped profits by nearly 58%.

The recap on recorded music notes that in 1975 the ABC Records artist roster was sharply cut back in size, obsolete or unsalable inventory was written off and internal controls were tightened. Through 1976 and into early 1977 the branch distribution system was streamlined from eight branches to four; a talent development office was added in New York, and the sales, promotion and creative service areas were restructured. As a result, the report states "division management believes the basic framework of a successful record operation is now in place."

Cited were the signings of Blood, Sweat & Tears, Levon Helm and Harold Melvin & the Blue Notes, and artist breakthroughs in 1976 for Marilyn McCoo and Billy Davis Jr.,

Steven Bishop, Rhythm Heritage, Tompall Glaser and the Amazing Rhythm Aces, among others.

Also noted were broadened classical activities with the acquisition of distribution rights for the Seon label from Germany and overseas marketing expansion with licensing agreements now in 60 countries.

As a footnote to more profitability this year, the report states: "ABC expects prices in the $7.98 range to become general throughout the industry by the end of 1977."

ABC Record & Tape Sales was held to a break-even performance on high revenues due to a writedown of 23-channel CB inventory by its Mid-State Distributing Co. division.

Pressure on rackjobber profits were counteracted by tightening product selection policies and placing more stress on non-record products in the marketing mix. The division also emphasized the development of new, larger-volume accounts, and introduced such special record projects as a personalized children's birthday disk and the Rod McKuen "friendship" greeting card/disk series. Other projects, including a Joan Rivers adult birthday record, are planned for 1977.

L. I. Gets 5 Woolcos

NEW YORK—The F.W. Woolworth Co. has opened five Woolco stores in Suffolk County on Long Island. Each houses a 1,000 square foot full line record department.

The stores occupy sites vacated by the defunct W.T. Grant Co. and are located in shopping centers at Riverhead, Bridgehampton, East Patchogue, Rocky Point and Lake Ronkonkoma.

Charles Staley, record buyer for Woolworth, says that each of the record department managers in the stores determines his own price strategy in response to the local price situation.

He says the chain plans no loss leader sales in the record departments to lure customers into the stores.

Woolworth's operates 1,503 stores in the U.S., and others in Britain and Canada. Staley says that in the New York area the record departments are serviced by Arovox, a rackjobber.

CBS Publishers Confab In N.Y.

NEW YORK—Organizational structure and division of responsibilities were the topics of three days of meetings ending Thursday (31) of staff members of April-Blackwood Music, the publishing arm of CBS Records.

The meetings, attended by the West Coast staff as well as producers, writers and artists, was a follow-up to meetings in Los Angeles in February.

The meetings here come as a result of expansion of the firm which has seen a reorganization of its staff and a move to new New York offices. The new offices are now located at 1350 Ave. of the Americas.

Among its expansion moves, April-Blackwood has recently taken over the administration of Frank Music and is planning to open offices in Nashville.

BOOST FOR 'STAR' LP

NEW YORK—Columbia Records is intensifying its promotion and advertising campaign for "Star Is Born" after the single "Evergreen" won an Oscar for best song last week.

The campaign includes local time buys and ad reproductions by CBS branches, a revised national ad campaign which includes information about the Oscar, and stickers on all the "Star Is Born" albums to call attention that they contain the Oscar-winning song.

On the same day Barbra Streisand won her Oscar (28), "Evergreen" went gold, reports CBS.

Licensees Eyed By Cream Team

LOS ANGELES—Cream Records will tie in a trip to IMIC '77 in Amsterdam in May with its search for licensees in Europe, Mexico, Central and South America.

Al Bennett, Cream's president and Bobby Weiss, newly hired vice president and director of international operations, will be in attendance at IMIC '77 May 15-18. They also plan to be in London May 9 for key discussions with record and music publishing firms.

Cream is already covered in Japan, Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines.

RCA Tapes Show

NEW YORK—RCA has recorded the off-Broadway hit, "Starting Here, Starting Now," with music and lyrics by David Shire and Richard Maltby. RCA's Red Seal a&r vice president Thomas Z. Shepard picked the show for the label. Jay Saks produced the LP.

Few Gripes On Records

WASHINGTON—Consumer gripes about the quality of records represent only 1% of the total of 803,500 complaints received nationwide last year by the Better Business Bureau. Complaints on tape quality accounted for .03% of the total.

Statistics for complaints concerning hardware averaged about .04%, a figure described as "astonishingly low" by a bureau spokesman. The bureau divides hardware into four categories. Herewith is a breakdown:

Hi fi components: .08%; tape recorders, .03%; phonographs, .03% and musical instruments, .03%.

A record number of seven million inquiries was made in 1976 to the 143 outlets of the bureau, it claims, but only 12%, or 803,500, of these represented gripes. The majority of the inquiries were for guidance and information on a product or a company's reliability.

Of all complaints received, the bureau notes, 25% of the total was directed to mail-ordered items. A breakdown was not available in this category.

OOPS! NO WEA 'EXTRA'

NEW YORK—Speak not in jest on sacred themes.

A facetious remark overheard at a recent dealer meeting in Long Island and reported in Billboard last week was not intended to give the impression that WEA actually gives extra discounts for advance cash payments on new product.

A WEA spokesman underscores this point. He stresses that this has never been the company's policy in the past, nor is it now.

Atlantic On West Coast Booming Office Under Greenberg Enjoying Complete Autonomy

By ED HARRISON

LOS ANGELES—The West Coast office of Atlantic Records has expanded its overall activities in the last three years culminating in the development of its own a&r department seven months ago.

The initial expansion move came three months ago when the West Coast office moved into larger quarters on Sunset Blvd. Within the past year the office staff was increased from 10 to 16 employees with fully staffed publicity, promotion, artist relations, sales and trade liaison departments. And last summer David Kolodner was transferred from New York to head up the a&r department.

"Our a&r department is a significant and extremely important facet of the West Coast operation," says Bob Greenberg, vice president and general manager of Atlantic West Coast.

"We now have the flexibility to put someone on a plane to see an act in San Francisco, Denver, etc. Previously I had to call on someone from the promotion staff if I was tied up."

Greenberg says that talent acquisitions have also increased here. "The England Dan & John Ford Coley deal with Big Tree Records was made here. It never would have happened without the West Coast office," he says.

With more artists and managers living in Los Angeles, Greenberg says the office has become a gathering place for day-to-day dealing with artists.

With the office inundated with tapes, Greenberg listens to the ones with potential after they are reviewed by Kolodner.

Greenberg adds that he has complete autonomy to sign new acts with many signings on the spot. However, the a&r and promotion departments usually voice an opinion. "It's a collective decision when it comes to acquiring new talent."

He singles out the recent signing of Exile, a new group produced by Mike Chapman and Nicky Chin, which was signed after Greenberg heard a record.

In addition, the West Coast office has been involved in assisting artists and producers book studio time. Currently Sarah Vaughan, Bette Midler and Johnny Bristol (another West Coast signing) are in the studio recording.

Greenberg himself is kept abreast of all new talent and album and single releases and is in constant contact with all information filtered from the grapevine.

Both the Los Angeles and corporate New York offices are in constant communication with each other as well as with the WEA branch office in Burbank. Greenberg frequents New York as often as it necessitates while chairman Ab-

CAPRICORN FROLIC SET

NASHVILLE—The popular annual Capricorn Records Barbecue and Summer Games will be held in Macon, Ga., in August. Phil Walden's lively event draws top music business names from Atlanta, Macon, Nashville, Muscle Shoals, Memphis, Los Angeles and New York, and points in between.

One invitation will go to Walden's friend in Washington, President Jimmy Carter, who has attended the last two barbecues. Carter first attended as an unknown presidential candidate, then as the Democratic nominee for president.

Herman Resting Following Crash

LOS ANGELES—Woody Herman was in the intensive care ward of St. Mary's Hospital, Manhattan, Kan., last week after being in a car accident March 27. The bandleader was en route to a concert at Kansas State Univ. when he was involved in a two-car, head-on collision on the nearby Ft. Riley military installation.

Herman, 63, was in "serious but stable condition" according to the hospital at midweek. He suffered a broken right femur bone in his leg and facial lacerations.

Bill Byrne, trumpeter and road manager, said Herman's spirits are "fine" and that his wife and daughter have been with him.

The band continues playing gigs and with tenorman Frank Tiberi leading, it played seven shows last week without Herman.

There was speculation Herman would have several more weeks in the hospital.

As a result of his face having hit the windshield, several stitches were administered to his mouth, making talking difficult last week. Herman was alone in the car at the time of the accident. The woman driving the other car was treated for cuts and released from the hospital.

Herman recently celebrated his 40th anniversary in show business with a reunion concert in Carnegie Hall which has just been released by RCA.

Diamond's Tour Begins April 24

LOS ANGELES—Neil Diamond is warming up for his first European tour in five years with 11 domestic spring dates thus far. He will be breaking in two new musicians to his seven-piece band, introducing new songs from his next LP and doing works by fellow composers.

The European dates have not yet been set, but the U.S. tour begins April 24 in Market Square in Indianapolis and runs through May 4.

Mail-Order Sales Top TV Spot Buys

By DICK NUSSER

NEW YORK—Although the use of television spot buys by record and tape manufacturers is increasing, recent statistics show the trend is tied mainly to mail-order offers designed to appeal to blacks, country music fans, nostalgia buyers and, of course, kids.

According to the 1976 Broadcast Advertisers Report, investments in spot buys by record companies and/or record merchandisers last year is estimated at $77.1 million, up from $60.2 million in 1975.

Firm's estimates can be misleading. Based as they are on book rates, rather than the hard-nosed negotiated rate, and the fact they're determined by monitoring one week's activity on a market-by-market basis and multiplied by four to arrive at a monthly figure, the totals often reflect an inflated sum. (Record advertisers, particularly, seldom buy consecutive weeks of time, preferring to shop around for the best buys.)

On account of the demographics of the tv audience (lots of over 50s and under 18s), considerable sums are spent on mail-order disks and tapes, mostly compilations or packages of greatest hits. These appeal to the home-bound, young and old.

Casablanca Records was one of the few companies to invest heavily in tv ads to push a currently popular act. It spent, according to report figures, an estimated $370,000 pushing two Kiss albums.

"We first saw what a tremendous response we had from a Kiss appearance on the Paul Lynde Halloween Special," explains Casablanca's Larry Harris, "especially among 10-year-olds and the age brackets you don't reach in concerts." This, plus Kiss' strong visual appeal, convinced Casablanca brass to jump into tv buys.

The Howard Marks agency in New York was retained to buy spots on late afternoon movies and, Harris says, "any kind of monster movie or something like 'Star Trek.'"

Elton John, Aerosmith, the Doobie Brothers, and even Island Records' Robert Palmer have also been advertised on tv with varying degrees of success.

But, if one can judge the success of a record push by the amount invested in time buys, the winner last year was a package entitled "Best Loved Melodies," a saccharine collection of light classical and pop tunes listed as a CBS product in the firm's report. A label spokesman claims, however, it's not an album marketed by them. In any case, someone spent an estimated $1.4 million trying to sell it.

In descending order, here are nine more of the top marketed disk and tape offers hawked on the tube:

"Mahalia Jackson"; "The Best Of Mon and Dad"; "Diana Ross & The Supremes"; "Truckin' On"; "Hit Machine"; "Convoy: 20 Hits"; "Connie Francis"; "Disco Hustle"; and "Roy Orbison."

K-Tel International, with $11.6 million in spot buys, leads the field of tv record/tape marketers. CBS Records, with its special product and record club divisions, accounted for $9.7 million. Ronco Teleproducts spent $8.9 million.

Other spot buyers for records, their investments and samplings of what they push, according to studies, include Warner Communications, $2.5 million ("America," "World's Greatest Marches"); HRB Marketing, $3.2 million ("Mahalia Jackson," "Theresa Brewer"); Brookville Marketing, $3.2 million ("Elvis Presley," "Liberace"); GRT Records, $2.3 million ("Everly Brothers," "Mom & Dad's Waltzes"); Westinghouse Electric, $2.2 million ("Four Seasons," "Ray Charles," "Longines"); Vista Marketing, $2.1 million ("The Hustle," "The Mormon Tabernacle Choir"); Long Island Broadcasting, $1.1 million ("Otis Redding," "Big Band Hits," "The Rascals"); Homestead Marketing, $2.7 million ("Convoy," "Disco Duck"); Capitol Records, $1.7 million ("Beatles," "Beach Boys"); Audio Research, $342,000 ("Sammy Davis," "40 Original Hits"); and Mad Bag Productions, $715,600 ("Boss Groups," "Songs For Lovers").

The Copyright Office wants prospective witnesses for the hearings on compulsory licensing for recording of music to send written requests to appear before Monday (11). Written comments can be in the Copyright Office by April 18. For further information contact Jon Baumgarten, General Counsel, Copyright Office, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. 20559 (703-557-8731).

The Copyright Office is looking for helpful comments on the form and content of the written notice of intent to record, which is required within 30 days after making and distributing the compulsory licensed recording.

Also on the form, content and Further, the Copyright Office asks at what point in time should recordings be considered "permanently distributed" as distinct from promotional or other records returned, and never sold, which do not incur the statutory royalty. (The royalty will be 2½ cents per tune or ½ cent per minute of play, effective Jan. 1, 1978).

Finally, what should be done about the compulsory licensed record producers who abuse the privilege of maintaining a "reserve fund" to cover mechanicals on promotional and other unsold recordings? The reserve fund is a standard practice and privately negotiated recording, and the Copyright Office would like to know the industry's experience with these funds.

The agency quotes the House Subcommittee report warning the Register of Copyrights to make strict rules against abuse of the reserve fund privilege by manipulation, or allowing its use by licensees habitually late with payment.

Comment on what forms jukebox rulemaking should take is requested by April 29, and replies by May 16, 1977. Address comments to the Office of the General Counsel, Copyright Office, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C., 20559.

Among other things the Copyright Office would like comment on is what information should be included in the required registry of jukeboxes to identify the operator and the box.

Should a single application be allowed to cover multiple boxes? What information should be on a certificate issued by the Copyright Office, and affixed to each box, as the law requires?

Also, what should be done about operators who submit bad checks with their applications, or send less than the required amount of royalty for their boxes?

The Copyright Office calendar for comments on proposed rules for library photocopying are due on or before May 6, and replies by May 23, 1977. (Under the law, library photocopying of nondramatic musical works is barred—but the fair use section virtually cancels the prohibition for teachers, students, researchers and many others.)

CHI IVANHOE 570-Seat Venue Is Acquired By Gumdrops Corp. After Fire

By ALAN PENCHANSKY

CHICAGO—The Ivanhoe Theatre, which has endured a tempestuous period of operation here since reopening in September, was acquired by new operators Thursday (24), following the collapse of Bob Briggs' management regime.

The 570-seat venue, which has emerged as the city's most viable talent showcase, was reopened in August by Briggs' Bobolar Corp. along with the huge adjoining restaurant complex.

Severe losses in the restaurant end, which, in the early morning hours of Feb. 1 was destroyed by fire, are said to have crippled Briggs' operation.

New operators, Gumdrops Corp., have only the theatre to deal with, and are promising major changes and renovations.

"Gumdrops is proposing to improve or replace the sound system, open up and utilize the garden area for intermissions, replace the carpeting and make some aesthetic improvements," says attorney Joel Carlin, one of the Gumdrops principals. Key backer of the operation is Jeffery Grossman, involved with DBM Music, a management firm here.

A grand opening under the new management is tentatively scheduled the second week in April, he says.

In the interim, the theatre continues to operate approximately five nights a week, with bookings being handled by Arnie Granat of Jam Productions here.

According to Carlin, Gumdrops will continue with the slate Granat had prepared for Bobolar, which stretches into late April. Included is an April 28 Dolly Parton concert, scheduled to be broadcast live over WMAQ.

"We'll try to honor as many contracts as we can and settle with

9.3 Cent Gas a 'Car Wash' Ploy

LOS ANGELES—MCA Records in coordination with the Oz record operation in Atlanta, radio station Z93, Hi-Speed Car Wash and Georgia Sound Systems conducted a promotion as part of the label's renewed merchandising campaign for the Grammy winning "Car Wash."

As part of the promotion cars were washed for 93 cents while gasoline was sold at 9.3 cents per gallon. Z93 aired 24 spots a day for four days providing live promos and a remote on the day of the promotion which ran for two hours Feb. 16.

Oz record store personnel, dressed in Wizard of Oz garb, distributed flyers promoting all MCA product on sale. Customers were entertained Bobolar for any advance deposits they may have an interest in," the attorney explains.

Carlin says Gumdrops will enter into a contract with Jam Productions, for Granat to continue booking the room. He says Briggs may be hired also, to continue as general manager of the operation.

A reported $100,000 is owed by Briggs Bobolar Corp. to Ivanhoe creditors. The company is in the process of liquidation in an attempt to meet these obligations, which do not affect Ratso's, a Lincoln Ave. club operated by Briggs.

'Rumours' Makes An Easy Sell For Fleetwood Mac

LOS ANGELES—Merchandising the followup album to an LP that was one of the biggest of 1976 and which contains a current top 10 single is not exactly a task that any record label would find burdensome.

Fleetwood Mac's "Rumours" which became No. 1 in its sixth week on the Billboard chart and was certified platinum some three weeks after shipment is just such a treat for Warner Bros.

"We went heavy on radio spots the weekend after release on the top-rated AM and FM stations in the 28 biggest U.S. markets just to let people know the album was out there," says Lou Dennis, WB vice president and sales director.

Major retail accounts jumped right in with heavy advertising for the long-anticipated release in order to attract heavy store traffic, says Dennis.

More than one million units were shipped to WEA branches on the first pressings, but Warner didn't seek RIAA platinum or gold certification until the required amount of units were actually ordered by accounts.

It is Warner Bros. policy never to get certification of gold or platinum records solely on the basis of shipments to in-house distribution branches, says Dennis.

Mercury And Lowery Pact year," Lowery says, "though we hope to do much more than that."

The final decision on which Lowery group will be the first release under the Mercury-Lowery agreement has not yet been made, Lowery says.

Two groups known to be under consideration are the Younguns, an Atlanta rock band, and Garfield Rough, a country-rock group out of Greenville, S.C.

"This is a joint production venture, but the final decisions will come out of Chicago (Mercury's base)," Lowery says.

Both Mercury and the Lowery organization will handle promotion, public relations and sales on the Mercury-Lowery releases which will be distributed by Mercury.

"The significance of this is that it makes Mercury the second label to be closely affiliated with Atlanta and to have offices here other than just distribution outlets," a Lowery spokesman adds. Bang Records is based in Atlanta.

The Lowery organization sees the deal serving as a springboard for Atlanta acts. "We will concentrate on Atlanta area acts because that's who we've worked with for 25 years," says Lowery, who handles the Atlanta Rhythm Section and Starbuck among others.

The agreement to be signed by Mercury and Lowery differs from a previous national deal Lowery had with MGM Records. "That was more of a label (MGM South) based here with all the final decisions coming out of Atlanta, whereas this is a production agreement with Mercury making the final decisions."

"We feel this deal will be good for the Atlanta recording industry because with at least three acts a year being produced, we will have that much more activity here," Lowery adds.

The banquet will feature a show by the first two groups to be produced.

In dismissing a suit filed by Gale Distributors, a firm charged with selling pirated tapes, the court followed the rule handed down by the U.S. Supreme Court in Goldstein versus California. It also rejected the argument that the Florida statute was vague and unconstitutionally ex post facto.

LOS ANGELES CAN'T BELIEVE IT

KRLA Whips KHJ In Arbitron

By CLAUDE HALL

LOS ANGELES—KRLA bested KHJ in the January/February Arbitron ratings. Yet, no one believes it and even though broadcasters coast-to-coast are aware of the fact, they're taking the whole matter with a casual wag of their heads as if it wasn't any great heroic feat.

In truth, it was a miracle such as you don't see too often in modern radio.

Art Laboe, an admittedly oldies record king rather than a radio man; Billy Pearl, one-time KHJ air personality; and Tom Greenleigh, a radio buff as much as an obscure professional, took an ancient water-cooled transmitter (one of the few operating anywhere in the world today), a homemade automation system that has to have an engineer standing constantly by to trigger the next cartridge, and one hell of a lot of guts and nothing else, and beat out the longterm Top 40 monster created about a dozen years ago by Ron Jacobs and programming consultant Bill Drake.

Pearl and Greenleigh, and the programming concepts of Art Laboe, whipped a radio station programmed by Charlie Van Dyke (with national program director of RKO Radio Paul Drew standing in the background to offer advice and assistance) and a staff of super professional air personalities, and an empty barrel of money for promotions.

One reason why many broadcasters are a little skeptical about the KRLA feat (4.1 share 6 a.m.-midnight Monday through Sunday, metro area, persons 12-plus, compared to KHJ's 4.0) is that KTNQ has just entered the market as a Top 40 operation (the old KGBS-AM, which was a day-time country station) and is now broadcasting 24 hours a day. So the attention was drawn to KTNQ.

Unfortunately, KTNQ had just put its format on the air as this Arbitron got underway, thus its 1.6 is hardly reflective of what it will probably do with the next survey book; some people, in fact, may speculate that KHJ's drop from 5.3 in the October/November Arbitron came at the expense of KTNQ.

But KRLA, quietly, has been on the march for about a year. The January/February 1976 book showed them with a 1.2. They went up to a 2.8 in the April/May book, then 3.4 in the July/August book and a 3.3 with the October/November book.

Pearl and Greenleigh had long been proud of their achievements... a 3.3 isn't bad under the limited budget circumstances of KRLA, which has officially been in limbo pending a decision of who gets the license for the past dozen-plus years. But no one listened. Oddly enough, many programming consultants today can't point to that kind of success.

In spite of being ignored on the national level, Pearl and Greenleigh continued to work, refining the format and turning negatives into positives.

Contacted last week, Billy Pearl laughs and admits that "Lazarus walks again." Adds Greenleigh: "And just did the three-minute mile!"

Pearl and Greenleigh arrived at the station April Fool's Day a year ago. Sherman Cohen, now at KHS in Los Angeles, was the music director; now the music director is Guy Zapoleon. What does the music director do? He makes up the music sheet that tells the engineer at the transmitter in El Monte which carts to load into the six cart machines. The Pasadena offices and studios of the station are mostly used now for cart production only.

"Everything is on a separate cart—spots, psas, even the intro to the next record. At the end of every cart is a cue tone to trigger the next cart. The engineer merely has to load the carts in order," says Greenleigh.

The station has 3,000 different pieces of music on hand and last week was also playing 34 current records. About 45% of each hour features current music.

The only real announcer at the station—though Art Laboe intros some oldies and Pearl intros a few current records—is Johnny Hayes. The motif differs from that of a disk jockey approach in that not many records are introed at all.

"And it would be very easy," says Greenleigh, "to play 'Hundred Pounds of Clay' and just introduce it. But it's much better to tell the listener how you feel about the record and how it relates to listeners today."

Pearl: "We knew we didn't want to sound canned by introducing all of the records."

Greenleigh: "Fake live doesn't work."

To keep the station from sounding canned, Pearl and Greenleigh came upon the idea of having "KRLA Hitmen" interview upwards of 100 people a week on a cassette tape recorder. The KRLA Hitmen wander around carwashes, banks, anywhere and everywhere that people congregate. These taped comments about records are produced onto the carts in front of the songs, meaning that listeners are being used to intro most of the tunes.

"More than that, the comments are excellent sources of music research," Pearl says.

"We don't use all of them on the air," says Greenleigh.

"But these are primarily people who never take the trouble to call a radio station," Pearl says. "And we've been able to find a lot of records that are happening in the market and move them up the KRLA chart a long time before other radio stations in the market."

Greenleigh: "You find it kind of hard to tell about records that are only bubbling, but you can tell quickly about the records that are really happening like this." Greenleigh often becomes a KRLA Hitman himself, wandering hither and yon with a cassette unit.

The listeners' intros give the station an "intimate feeling," says Pearl.

The license for KRLA has been in doubt for years and is currently still tied up in legalities. If and when new owners are ever decided, it's more than likely they would bring in their own programming staff. In any case, they'd have to build a new station virtually from the ground up.

Pearl and Greenleigh have won against enormous odds, but under the circumstances it doesn't matter. Any profit the station might make goes to charity.

Their only hope is that there might be another station or two in the nation with audience or programming problems.

To date, the team has consulted a rocker to success and now KRLA.

PROBLEMS IN N.Y. & N.O.

Programming Radio Buzz Bennett's Way

EDITORS NOTE: This is the first of a two-part interview with Buzz Bennett, veteran radio programmer. The interview was conducted by Claude Hall, Billboard's radio-television editor, during the recent ninth annual Billboard International Radio Programming Conference in New Orleans. At the time of the discussion Bennett was program director of WNOE-AM. He has subsequently left that post.

HALL: WNOE-AM has in the past suffered some from signal problems.

BENNETT: We do not go into New Orleans east at night at all. I made the station non-directional daytime when I came in. So, we're non-directional 50,000 watts daytime, but we drop to 5,000 night, and the signal is... well, we go in very nicely into Texas, Arkansas and Miami, but New Orleans is a problem. Unfortunately, the Arbitron doesn't look at ratings that way. So we have a bit of a night-time problem. But so do the other stations.

H: What was it like when you were here before at WITX?

B: Well, when I was at WITX, the station pretty much controlled the people. And when I say the people, I mean black, white, everything. Now, when I came back this time, I noticed that WITX and WNOE controlled what I considered the vanilla market, period. The FMs have made a penetration also that wasn't here before.

Not progressively. They're not progressive radio formats to me. What they consider progressive here was what we considered rock FM in another market. So, stations such as a WRNO here is more like a KUPD, Phoenix, to me.

No, I didn't consider WRNO progressive at all. I think New Orleans lacks, totally, a progressive station. The black stations have assumed more dominance in this city than they've ever held. Not only have they taken the black audience, they've taken the white to a great degree. I believe that the figures broke at 35% to 40% for the black stations last time off the book.

H: You mean 35% of the blacks are listening to FM?

B: 35% to 40% of the people are listening to black stations.

H: Has New Orleans changed since you were here?

B: Not really.

H: What did you attempt to do when you first came in with WNOE?

B: I attempted to put it back in balance with what I considered an up-to-date radio station should be in New Orleans. So, not only did I have to come in and add what music I thought should be added to the city, but also add that which was never covered. So, we went to "Disco Lady." We went to the Manhattans. I recall the first week that we began to work on the AM playlist. We took full control, which was about 25 days out of an ARB ratings survey. I said to myself, "Do we add the 'Disco Lady'? Do we add the Manhattans? Do we add Jefferson Starship? Do we add Bozz Skaggs? Do we add all these records? Is there some familiarity to the people or are

Research: Both Sides Of Fence
Peterson's & Abrams' Views Differ At Country Seminar

NASHVILLE—Two opposite sides of the fence regarding research in programming were presented here as Gerry Peterson, program director of KCBQ in San Diego, tongue-in-cheek, said: "All I do as program director of contemporary radio is lie to myself, lie to the general manager, and, hopefully, somehow win an ARB."

"The term research was invented by program directors who wanted to play a record but were scared to say they liked it. So, they go to the general manager and say 'research' shows it should be played."

His music input is gained by "hanging out" in the city. This way he gets an overall feel for the city. "I may not find out what Jill and Tom really want to hear the next morning," but on the other hand he says he would never look at the charts in a trade magazine to find out what he should play on the air.

Lee Abrams, programming consultant in the team of Kent Burkhart/Lee Abrams & Assoc., Atlanta, long an advocate of in-depth research on music, dodged a direct confrontation with Peterson by stating that research was nothing more than "getting out" on the street, but "we control that getting out."

Speaking before the eighth annual Country Radio Seminar March 19 here, Abrams pointed out that research revealed the 16-17-year-old of today is into Aerosmith and Foghat, while Loggins & Messina, Jimi Hendrix, Cream are not happening. "The superstars of five-10 years ago aren't happening anymore."

He says that one form of research he does is to place cards in record stores for customers to fill out and mail to the station.

Then, if there's a question about a given record, he calls the customer up. This type of research uncovered the listener loyalty of the 16-17-year-old to Aerosmith.

"So, we play Aerosmith only when the 16-17-year-old is available to listen." The competition in one of his markets (he consults about 30 radio stations now via his "Superstars" format) played Aerosmith throughout the day, even when the 16-17-year-old wasn't available to listen, thus didn't fare as well in ratings.

Through the years, Abrams estimates he has received between 900,000 and one million of his card questionnaires back, thus is now able to make graphs of listener appeal by age groups on many records.

One thing he found was that "You Made Me So Very Happy" by Blood, Sweat and Tears drew 40,000 responses in 1967, only 3,000 responses in 1969, and only five last year, "thus the song is not too valid today."

On the other hand, "Good Vibrations" by the Beach Boys is actually growing stronger year by year.

Fast Reaction To Cole Show

LOS ANGELES—Eight one-hour radio programs which combine MOR music with exclusive interviews titled "Nat 'King' Cole: Biography In Song" have been sold to 11 major markets in the U.S. in 10 days by Concept Broadcast Services here.

Produced and directed by Pete Kline, the series features Cole's daughter Natalie Cole and more than 80 of Cole's recordings along with several rare collector's items.

Kline, who has previously marketed special series built around Frank Sinatra and Bing Crosby, says the new series includes comments and incidents told by Peggy Lee, Crosby, Ray Charles, Johnny Mathis, Woody Herman, Dave Dexter Jr., Frankie Laine, Steve Allen and Nat's long-time producer, Lee Gillette. The narrator is Bill Moran from a script by Richard Oliver.

Kline will ship a demonstration cassette to stations requesting one by phone or letter from Concept's offices in Sherman Oaks, Calif.

"The excitement reflected by Andy Adams is reminiscent of the early Elton years."

Ellie Dylan, the female 7-midnight deejay at WMAQ, Chicago, has moved into the 3-8 p.m. slot, which makes her one of the few females in drivetime anywhere. WMAQ program director Bob Pittman also points out that the afternoon drive show is now all-female, since news is by Steen King, Ellie's engineer is Charlene Miller, and the telephone coordinator is Joanne Calloway. ... Tom Quinn, 312-397-2054, has a first ticket and not much experience, but guarantees to work hard if some small market station will give him a job.

Barbara Brozdowski has been named music director of WCBS-FM, New York. She'd been secretary to general manager James McQuade. ... Bruce Collier Jr., Production and Programming Assoc., Irving, Tex., writes: "Papa will be recording a new series of IDs for KJR, Seattle, the week of 21 March with program director Steve West and general manager Shannon Sweate in for the session vocally on the 30 March. The series will be day-parted, thematic, with a strong theme that KJR has done well with, and yet, designed for functional compatibility."

George Buzz Guckenberg, managing director of Promocraft Productions Ltd., Cincinnati, asks about a mention I made two years ago about a book Tom Clay was writing about his life as a disk jockey. Well, Tom couldn't find a publisher, unfortunately, so he's now rewriting the book as a novel. So far as I know, Tom and I are the only people in the world who have copies of his original manuscript. ... Charlie O'Henry, H&HS (JPAO), KMCAS, FPO, San Francisco 96615, writes: "Obviously, for the address, I'm in the military. Around July of last year, after having worked at such San Jose, Calif., stations as KSJO and KEEN, I joined the Marines. Don't ask me why. I'm asking that myself. Right now, I'm stationed at the Marine Corps Air Station near Honolulu where I do public relations work during the week. On weekends, however, I'm back into the old business. I'm working at KLEI, an MOR station being programmed by Jocky Joe Kelly who used to be with WLW in Cincinnati."

Ken Sawyer, program director of WHPA, 330 Government Place, Williamsport, Pa. 17701, says his station suffered a fire Feb. 13 and he needs adult contemporary records, old and new, to help build up a new library. The lineup features Ken Sawyer 5:30-10 a.m., Gary Chrisman 10 a.m.-2 p.m., Vince Sweeney 2-7 p.m., Jack Frost 7-midnight. Daryl Willow and Ginnie Davis handle news with Jerry Lake doing weekends. In May the staff moves into a new facility created with the help of engineer Carl Steinbacher and general manager Bill Ott. ... Duke Anthony is the new music and program director of KXLR, country station in Little Rock, Ark. The morning man on the station for the past two years, he has revamped the format to feature some LP cuts and some progressive country tunes.

The young turks continue to amaze me and the latest magic trick has been turned in by Bob Pittman, program director of WMAQ and WKQX in Chicago. With a bit of hokus pokus, Pittman achieved a 12.2 share in women 18-24 years of age and 16.8 share in men 18-24. That's average quarterhour 6 a.m.-midnight Monday through Sunday and it tops WLS. In fact, WGCI was Number 2 in women 18-24 with an 11.9, though WLS was Number 2 in men 18-24 with 14. WKQX changed formats only six days before the book. In total person, total survey area, WGN is the No. 1 station in town and WLS is second. And in the metro area, the leadership of WGN is even more pronounced in persons 12-plus.

Moving along with this oddball critique of playlists in and out of the station, the WDAK list is simple, but interesting this week because "Ain't That A Bitch" by Johnny Guitar Watson is No. 1. Bob Elliot, program director, and Kelly McCann, music director, of the Columbus, Ga., station, have their names at the top. The internal list shows four weeks of activity for each of 27 listed records. ... The playlist of WMGW in Meadville, Pa., is printed for public consumption and lists 30 records, along with their chart position the previous week. It's 6 inches by 7 inches, folded in half and cover modestly proclaims: "1490 All American 30 Music Scene." And you might say the list is all-American, since it follows the national charts closely with the only surprise being a record called "Dazz" by Brick. The staff lineup is listed on back: Wayne Nosker 5-9 a.m., Tom London 9 a.m.-2 p.m., John Evans 2-6 p.m., Larry Weiss 6-midnight, Kevin James midnight-5 a.m. and John Blair weekends.

Industry People Compete On TV

LOS ANGELES—An all-star series of the wacky television contest-game show "Almost Anything Goes" is now in production stages by Bob Banner Associates and among the contestants will be CBS Records staff against A&M Records staff; MCA Records staff against ABC Records staff, and "Grand Ole Opry" members against "Hee Haw" members. Sam Riddle is producer, Phil Browning creative consultant.

Stephen Trivers has been named convention chairman of the 1977 annual meeting of the National Radio Broadcasters Assn., which will be Oct. 9-12 at the New Orleans Hilton, New Orleans. Trivers is president of WQLR in Kalamazoo, Mich., and currently serves on the NRBA board of directors. The NRBA is expecting one of the largest turnouts of radio people and manufacturers in history, with a huge equipment display, according to James Gabbert, NRBA president and owner of KIOI-FM-AM, San Francisco. Further details on the convention will be announced in the next couple of weeks.

KDKB, Mesa, Ariz., needs a production manager who can also do an airshift. Contact Eric Hauenstein, P.O. Box 4227.

these actual hit records that we can put in there?

"Can we put this many records in? Can they be valid?" And I said to myself, "Whether it is or it isn't I think it has to be done." Because if we're ever going to strike the market back to where it should be, we're going to have to put them back in. We're going to have to put the market back on a keel where we can catch the rest of the nation.

H: So that was your aim, to bring it up to where the rest of the nation was?

B: Yeah.

H: Was it harder to program WNOE than it was, say, KCBQ?

B: Oh, boy, that's a tough one. KCBQ was a battle of high calibre.

H: You had good people to compete against, didn't you?

B: We were going after the same demographics. In New Orleans if we were going after below 40, well the battle would be over in a few days. I spent a lot of years in WTX with an audience that ranged all the way up. So, those people change slowly. In a lot of markets you can come in and in a week devastate that market.

H: Tell me about your experience in New York at WMCA.

B: I was brought in as assistant program director to Terrell Metheny.

I went to New York and I studied for about three weeks in Queens and Brooklyn and throughout the areas and in the record shops. Throughout, I had literally multitudes of people working the phones, in and out calls, so on and so forth. Came up with a lot of these answers. And I recall that Terrell went into Peter Straus' office (the owner) and said, "Here are the things we'd like to do." And Peter said, "Well you just told me, Terrell, that you wanted to do things which are the opposite of things you are now showing me." He said, "Well, no. I want to do this now." And, of course, it was a result of answers we'd found in our research.

None of the things were executed. We utilized 33 minutes of talk per hour. The remainder was music. Of course, WABC at that time was not doing a whole lot of music either. They were doing a lot of talk, too. But we were taking the cake with talk.

We had a problem with disk jockey conflict. Frankie Crocker was there at the time. We had a conflict with the theories of Terrell, my theories, Peter Straus—who indeed played a heavy role there—and Joe Bogart. I felt rather strange being over Joe in the situation. I knew the playlist needed to be chopped and fashioned in a certain way.

At certain times we sounded black. At certain times we sounded white. At certain times it was talk. At certain times it was block programming. There was no alternative to me but to leave that operation. That's probably the freest I've ever felt in my life, resigning my position at WMCA. It is the first thing in my life that ever made me go see a psychiatrist.

I worked for 10 years to get to New York City. I finally made it to New York City and I said, "What the hell is this? Is this what I've been working for?"

It was a political situation down to the wire. It was not a programming situation. I was there for about 2½ months. I resigned and they said, "Well, would you like to come back?" And I said, "Well, no." And then at the end of the negotiations came George Wilson, who immediately said, "Look, we need help in San Diego. We need a program director to go in there and take care of KCBQ." Boom.

Then in came Bill Drake and said, "Oh, no, I'll give you KGB because we need the help at KGB and you can program KGB."

And I said, "I don't even want to go to San Diego. I'm just sittin' here feelin' kind of free because I just got out of the old ping pong match where I was the ball, not one of the paddles. So, I really don't know what I want to do."

So, what it came down to was Bill Drake did give me autonomy at KGB. That is what made my mind up to go ahead and do KGB. It needed the help.

Peterson & Abrams Views

Abrams also has a select group of people—butchers, carpenters, housewives, that he gives albums to. He found that 20% were correct when they said a particular song was good, then isolated these to give him a constant readout on records. "You have to find them. If they find you, they'll want to become music directors."

He also spoke of the need to be able to translate your research, of better training for program directors, of getting to know the ARB better.

Peterson says his station is day-parted. From 6-10 a.m., he aims at the 25-49-year-old male and tries to turn away teens. At 10 a.m., KCBQ immediately goes after females and about every other record is an oldie; the energy drops a touch. In the afternoon, he goes after both males and females 25-49 span. He puts in some younger records, but doesn't try to compete with the all-news stations. "We try to tapdance the news, try to convince the audience that if they listen to my station they won't miss anything."

From 7-midnight, KCBQ goes after the 13-year-old female. "I've been convinced that if you get a lot of them, you'll spread your demographics to include the 25-year-old."

In the question and answer session, Peterson said that he aims his promotions outside of an Arbitron ratings period at building cume audiences. During the survey, he concentrates on quarterhour promotions. Later, he said that if a station is burdened down with a lot of commercials, then the program director should try to turn a negative into a positive and concentrate on production.

Questioned about his research, Abrams said the music is 92% similar market-to-market. "In Louisville, we don't have much competition, so we can be loose. In Detroit at WWWW, because of competition, we have to be tight."

He said that his research had shown that many of the Waylon Jennings music fans were those who had become bored with Elton John and Peter Frampton.

Peterson, at this point, said there was one major flaw with the card questionnaires distributed by Lee Abrams. He said that in a highly-competitive situation, someone from the opposing station might sneak into a record store and "fill out those card questionnaires all wrong."

Elegant Gypsy

The Saga of An Elegant Gypsy—

Al DiMeola

There are some musicians whose careers are extraordinary. Al DiMeola is one of them. At 18, he was a student at the Berklee School of Music in Boston. A year and a half later he was the guitar mainstay of Chick Corea's Return to Forever. Last year, Al surprised everyone with "Land of the Midnight Sun," an album which excited jazz and rock audiences alike.

Now Al gives us "Elegant Gypsy" which has a Spanish flavor due in part to his collaborations with Paco de Lucia, one of Spain's premier flamenco guitarists. With "Elegant Gypsy," Al's fiery guitar improvisations are more powerful than ever.

See Al DiMeola on tour (with Weather Report). Coming soon.

Chi Opera In Radio Series

CHICAGO—A new radio syndication network to feature performances taped at Chicago's Lyric Opera is scheduled to debut April 23 over more than 200 stations.

Produced here by WFMT, the syndicated series will offer the seven opening night productions of the Lyric's 1976-77 season, in stereo and four channel sound. The season premiers were broadcast live here over WFMT.

Sponsorship of the programs, through which the Lyric becomes the second U.S. company to be heard nationally, has been undertaken by the Allstate Insurance Companies, the syndicator informs. Allstate is purchasing time on commercial stations, and will "underwrite" the broadcast on non-commercial outlets, according to WFMT.

The station says the broadcasts will be scheduled in most cities Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. Eastern time, the hour when the Metropolitan Opera broadcasts are heard. The Lyric syndication begins one week following the close of the Met season.

WFMT says these stations, among others, are slated to take the series: WQXR (N.Y.), KFAC (L.A.), WFLN (Philadelphia), KKHI (San Francisco), WGMS (Washington), WCRB (Boston), WRR-FM (Dallas), KLEF (Houston), WCLV (Cleveland), KFSD (San Diego), WTMI (Miami) and KVOD (Denver).

Operas to be heard in the series' first run are: "The Tales Of Hoff-

Classical Notes

John Browning appears as guest soloist with the St. Louis Symphony this week in a pair of concerts dedicated to the memory of the late Gina Bachauer. The Greek pianist had originally been scheduled for the dates. . . . Olga Koussévitsky, whose foundation in memory of her conductor husband has commissioned many new works, received an honorary doctorate of music from the Hartt College of Music in Hartford, Conn., last week.

Margarita Castro-Alberty was selected grand prize winner of the nineteenth annual WGN-Illinois Opera Guild "Auditions Of The Air" national vocal competition, held in Chicago in March. The 29-year old soprano receives $3,000 and a solo appearance in July at Chicago's Grant Park concert series. In addition, awards went to bass-baritone Stephen West and to tenor Steve Brakulich.

measured. Concerts at Severance Hall have been well-attended, with more than half the ticket buyers (at $3 per) estimated to come from the WMMS listener universe.

As for the station's motivation, a spokesman says, "We want to expand the musical horizons of our audience."

The upcoming Cleveland Orchestra concert will be devoted in part to a performance of Bartok's "Concerto For Orchestra." In common with a pattern established earlier, actors will also participate, in this case reading from Bartok letters written while working on the piece.

The concert will also feature an open rehearsal of Jacob Druckman's "Chiaroscuro," commissioned by the National Endowment For the Arts in connection with the bicentennial last year.

Dan Garfinkel of WMMS says the station's listening audience is heavily weighted in the 18 to 34 year age group. Many of these persons are interested in classical music and tune in occasionally to Cleveland's classical station WCLV, he adds.

While the latter station also plugs the concerts, heavy attendance by rock enthusiasts is felt to come almost entirely from the promotional efforts of WMMS.

WMMS has also given the Cleveland Orchestra use of its distinctive buzzard logo for print advertising. But the bird is dressed in tie and tails and sports a baton when used by the orchestra.

Past WMMS promoted concerts have combined readings from Nietzsche with a rendition of Richard Strauss' "Also Sprach Zarathustra," and the music of Charles Ives together with a specially written and acted script.

Although Cleveland Orchestra music director Lorin Maazel normally hosts the exploration concerts, the Tuesday (12) event will be directed by Matthias Damert, the orchestra's resident conductor.

Phila. Orchestra Seeks More $$ To Erase Deficit

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Orchestra has stepped up its fund-raising goal to $1.8 million to meet an anticipated budget deficit this year. Funds solicited last year came in some $200,000 under budget, with the campaign failing for the first time to cover operating costs.

Total budget of the orchestra this year is $5,837,700, according to John D. Healy, director of Development, less than half of which, or just under $2.9 million, earned from ticket sales. Each concert adds about $10,000 to operating losses despite near 100% attendance at the 2,900-seat Academy of Music, and the orchestra's home base here.

Healy notes that about $300,000 a year comes in from the orchestra's contract with RCA Records, and another $584,100 from hall rentals. The endowment fund of $10 million produces income of $600,000, and additional funds come from the activities of a women's committee, the Pennsylvania Arts Council and local corporate foundations.

'Boheme' Pledge Total At $1 Mil

NEW YORK—Viewers pledged almost $1 million to local Public Broadcasting Service television stations during the live Metopera telecast of "La Boheme" March 15.

The figure represents one of the largest responses in public television history, according to PBS officials.

In all, 91 stations across the country carried the three-hour program, made possible by a grant from Texaco Inc.

Stations reporting unusually high pledge totals included WNET New York ($146,345), WPBT Miami ($52,696), WTTW Chicago ($47,144), and KCET Los Angeles ($41,288).

Vox Disks Mark Anniversary Of Minnesota Orch.

NEW YORK—Vox Records will produce two LPs to be included in an elaborate illustrated "book" marking the 75th anniversary of the Minnesota Orchestra next fall.

One of the disks will contain new recordings of suites from Stravinsky's "Petrouchka" and Prokofiev's "Love for Three Oranges" conducted by Stanislaw Skrowaczewski.

The other will hold "historical" performances by the ensemble, then known as the Minneapolis Orchestra, led by past maestros such as Eugene Ormandy and Antal Dorati.

Vox will withhold general release of the new record for three months after publication of the orchestra book. Later is expected to find use as a fund-raising device for the orchestra.

$18 Mil Tulsa Center Bows With Fitzgerald

TULSA—Tulsa's new $18.5 million multi-purpose Performing Arts Center officially opened its doors March 19. Ella Fitzgerald headlined an appearance with the Tulsa Philharmonic Orchestra in the Center's Leta M. Chapman Music Hall.

Constructed to avoid prohibitive costs of supporting separate theatres for orchestral music, dance and drama, the facility contains four performance spaces ranging in size from 180 to 2,450 seats and will be a home for Tulsa's major cultural institutions.

The largest of the four theatres, the Leta M. Chapman Music Hall, services the needs of philharmonic concerts, opera—plus theatrical productions.

Acoustic control is provided by a canopy, sidewall banners, side stage towers and an orchestra shell.

To accommodate different staging requirements of varied art forms, multi-purpose materials, motorized, modular elements and moveable wall panels have been employed to convert the Music Hall from a theatre one night to a concert hall the next.

Below the Music Hall is the 430-seat John H. Williams Theatre. Two large multi-form theatres, Studio Theatre and Studio Theatre II, are suitable for both traditional and experimental theatre.

Financing for the complex, located in the midst of a large commercial development in downtown Tulsa known as the Williams Center, was accomplished through private and public partnership, with funding derived from private contributions by some 50 corporate, individual and foundation benefactors, $7 million from a bond issue and sales tax revenue sharing.

The inaugural performance by Ella Fitzgerald, broadcast live on KTUL-TV and KRAV-FM, played to an SRO house.

Daydream's Dividing

By MARTIN HINTZ

MILWAUKEE—Daydream Productions, a major promoter of popular music concerts in Milwaukee, will be split up to form the separate agencies at the end of June.

Alan Dulberger and Randy McElrath, co-owners, will begin working independently May 1, although the official break does not take place until July 1. All scheduled Daydream productions will be held. Dulberger, president of 1812 Overture Record Stores and Music Man, a record wholesale distributor, will be the president of a new entertainment company to be called Landmark Productions.

Dale Prochnow, owner of Rev's Flying Circus, a nightclub in Waukesha, Wis., will be vice president and operations manager. Steve Ewing, owner of Aftermath Advertising Agency, will serve as advertising and public relations director.

McElrath will form a separate agency called Stardate Productions to present shows featuring pop, rock and middle-of-the-road music.

Talent Talk is a new Billboard weekly column which will present short news items on the live entertainment industry and creative musical talents.

Cleo Laine makes Las Vegas debut co-billed with Bill Cosby at the Hilton for three weeks starting July 5.

Lee Michaels In Comeback Sans Aid From Disks

LOS ANGELES—Most of keyboardist-singer Lee Michaels' albums on A&M and Columbia were not outstanding sellers and "Do You Know What I Mean?" was his only hit single.

Still, Michaels had a large touring audience, regularly getting guarantees of more than $10,000 per night and grossing $93,000 in 1972 at the Forum here without a current hit.

Now after a layoff of nearly four years, spent mostly in Hawaii, Michaels has formed a trio with guitar and drums, rejoined his old manager Peter Rachman and begun reassembling his following by touring without a label deal.

Opening nightclub dates at the Golden Bear in nearby Huntington Beach and the Aquarius in Seattle were reported sellout successes. Michaels has now switched from organ and piano to the new Moog Polyphonic Synthesizer with its wide range of sounds.

Upcoming dates are at the Whisky here Friday to Sunday, (8-10); the Boarding House in San Francisco April 14-16 and the Santa Barbara Arlington Theatre.

TALENT FORUM PANELIST

Kinnear Learns A Lot In 5 Years

By NAT FREEDLAND

LOS ANGELES—Ken Kinnear admits he "knew zip" about the business of presenting live music when he got started five years ago.

But he has now established himself as one of the top promoters in the Pacific Northwest, promoting up to 120 shows annually across 11 states and grossing nearly $2 million a year since 1974.

Kinnear's Albatross Productions also manages Heart, the group whose debut single, "Magic Man," was a surprise national smash on the small Mushroom label.

Kinnear is part of a growing national trend towards successful regional promoters using their music business expertise to manage one or two record acts. He will be part of a 1977 Billboard Talent Forum panel of promoter-managers June 2 at the New York Hilton.

This "Wearing Two Hats" panel will be chaired by David Forest of L.A., who manages Elvin Bishop and Detective. The other participating promoter-managers are Irv Zuckerman of St. Louis, who manages Starcastle; Canada's Martin Onrot, who manages Chilliwack; John Scher of New Jersey who manages Renaissance, Cleveland's Mike Belkin who manages Wild Cherry plus the James Gang and also has his own Sweet City label distributed by Columbia; Joe Sullivan who promotes throughout the South besides managing the Charlie Daniels Band and the Winter Brothers Band.

The immediate recording future of Kinnear's Heart is somewhat hazy due to a legal dispute with Mushroom. But the group headed by Nancy and Ann Wilson is currently finishing a studio album on its own and will start an extensive national tour in May.

Incidentally, Kinnear's description of his place in Heart's lawsuits over attempting to leave Mushroom Records is as follows. "Heart's contract with Can Base Productions (a Mushroom company) gives it the option to withdraw if one of the two principals left. Michael Flicker did leave and the group felt it was no longer dealing with the same company it had signed with. I did not influence Heart's decision."

Kinnear feels that concert promoters getting into personal management is a "natural evolution." He says, "Concert promotion gives you better preparation for many key elements in managing rock acts. For instance, you know how to ensure that an act gets paid properly for each date."

The 100 U.S. dates that Heart played in support of its "Tugboat Annie" album are a "textbook illustration" of the ideas Kinnear developed for breaking new acts in his regional concert market, he says.

"The standard concert thinking is that a group shouldn't return to a market any sooner than eight months," he says. "But when a new act is happening, I'll book it into the same market every three months and attract growing audiences."

Kinnear also swears by booking his shows around the downtown areas, not playing only urban centers. "When you play the small markets around a district's main city, the act is building the most loyal audience base possible," he says. "There are a lot of small cities with fine venues."

As an engineering student at the Univ. of Washington, Kinnear successfully operated his own auto accessories manufacturing company. He decided he wanted to get into music and devoted a school year to taking business courses.

Then he bought an 800-seat club outside Tacoma and opened it as Judge Roy Bean's, booking at first mostly local talent. Next step was to lease the 1,500-seat Moore Theatre in Seattle.

Kinnear has since divested himself of both buildings because of his busy regional concert schedule. In fact, Kinnear's four-person office is deliberately located closer to Seattle Airport than to the city center.

At first, Kinnear had to spend a lot of time seeking out upcoming record talent not yet committed to other Northwest promoters. He started booking Bachman-Turner Overdrive heavily after spotting them at a club in Canada, even though many of the earlier dates lost money.

He also gambled heavily on Fleetwood Mac after the confusions caused by a bogus group touring under that name. Other acts broken as Northwest attractions by Kinnear include Supertramp, Maria Muldaur, Climax Blues Band and Neil Sedaka.

Kinnear books heavily into colleges as well as city facilities in Washington, Oregon, North and South Dakota, Idaho, Montana and occasionally goes to Denver and Salt Lake City.

He also promotes in Western Canada via a separate company run by Canadian associate Paul Mercs.

As a promoter-manager whose act, Heart, was booked with most major promoters around the U.S., Kinnear found the experience revealing though mostly positive.

"Conditions vary from city to city," he says. "But I was struck by how expensive it is to put on a concert in the Northeast. You are almost playing there only to sell records."

Hershey Ballroom In Pa. Razed; Once Major Venue

HERSHEY, Pa.—The Hershey Starlight Ballroom here, major spot for big names during the big band era, is being demolished because park management has no "beneficial use" for the 60-year-old dance hall in the future.

The ballroom, which held 5,000 dancers and was one of the largest in the East, closed in 1965. It was reopened briefly in 1969 in an unsuccessful attempt to revive ballroom dancing.

The ballroom's history is star-studded. Since the 1920s it has played Paul Whiteman, Rudy Vallee, Cab Calloway, George Olsen, Vincent Lopez, Benny Goodman, Glenn Miller, Vaughn Monroe and Duke Ellington.

Crowds of 5,000 or more were not uncommon for the Wednesday and Saturday night dances during the summer with admissions ranging from $1.65 to $3.65 over the years.

New On The Charts

KLAATU
"Sub-Rosa Subway"
"Calling Occupants"—★

When Klaatu's debut album was released last August, it was described as the work of "a new group that believes in interplanetary communication, space exploration and advancement towards the outer limits of music." That failed to generate much interest, but now the LP is suddenly scaling the charts (74 in its second week) due to the public's stubborn hope that these might be the Beatles reunited.

The group is managed by Frank Davies, who heads Daffodil Records in Canada. He brought a tape of Klaatu to Rupert Perry, now Capitol's vice president of a&r, who signed it in March 1976. This February, six months after its first LP was released to no response, a Providence, R.I., paper published an article concluding that Klaatu was more than likely either in part or in whole the Fab Four. Radio in the Northeast then latched onto the rumor, running "Is This The Beatles" promotions.

What has followed is perhaps the biggest Beatles-related speculation since the "Paul Is Dead" hoax in 1969. The group's influence is mainly in the psychedelic "Sgt. Pepper's"/"Strawberry Fields Forever" effects on "Calling Occupants." The A side of this single, which Capitol is pushing, recalls the fun, commercial handclap and harmony sound of the '60s. It is "Sub-Rosa Subway," which describes Alfred Beach's struggles to build America's first subway in New York City in 1870 while the public scoffed.

There is no agent, and won't be until six months after the release of the second Klaatu album this August (which will reportedly be along the lines of the Moody Blues' "Days Of Future Passed," with backing from the London Symphony Orchestra). And of course such facts as how many people are in the group, where and when it formed and where it's based must remain a mystery.

Oh yes, Klaatu in an old science fiction movie was a peace emissary from outer space who landed on earth in the mid-1900s.

STRIVES FOR IMAGE CHANGE

Ex-Porn Star Goes Vocal

LOS ANGELES—Former porn star Marilyn Chambers is attempting to change her image to one of a legitimate entertainer by turning her attention to singing.

Her first single, "Benihana," on Roulette Records, she says was the right song to launch her musical career. Chambers describes the disco flavored record as "sex-rock." It is heavy on erotic moaning.

"People are curious about my ability to perform," says Chambers. "They don't know what I'm capable of doing. I have to work harder and it's more of a challenge winning people over."

Although she says there will be no more hardcore films, she does plan on keeping her image "spicy" because the sexiness, she says, "is what I feel most comfortable with."

Her record, produced and written by Michael Zager, is specifically designed for dancing. "It's a record to which you close your eyes and fantasize," she says.

Chambers has been gearing up for her musical debut with a Las Vegas stage show which is comprised of 70% dancing and 30% singing. While she performs no original material, she says her singing falls into the tough Tina Turner rock image.

Marilyn Chambers: No X-rating for her vocalizing.

"My shows are based around an idea or theme," says Chambers. "Audiences range from men in raincoats to young girls. It covers the 13-75 age bracket. My costumes are sexy," she says. "I try to get away with as much as possible."

In addition, she has performed in a play entitled "Mind With the Dirty Man," which ran 11 months at the Union Plaza Hotel in Las Vegas. Her part, mostly standup comedy, gave her recognition as a legitimate actress.

"I'm trying to prove that I don't have to rely on nudity and sex to get by. I try to be diversified and reach a lot of people."

"I have no regrets about anything I've done in the past," says Chambers. She will be making television appearances on "Dinah," "Soul Train" and the "Tonight Show." An album is also in the works, depending on the reaction to "Benihana."

Talent

New On The Charts

ANSON WILLIAMS
"Deeply"—94

In less than nine months two television stars, John Travolta and David Soul, have brought soft ballad material into the singles top 10. Now also going that route is the actor who plays Patsy Weber on the nation's No. 1 tv show, "Happy Days." Williams' debut is a song co-written by Norman Gimbel and Charles Fox, who also wrote the show's theme song, a top five hit last year for Pratt & McClain.

Anson's chart bow follows by about four months the debut of fellow "Happy Days" cast member Donny Most with an uptempo pop rocker on UA.

Williams has been with the ABC series since its pilot aired on "Love, American Style" 3½ years ago. Already in daytime reruns, it will fold after the upcoming 1977-78 season. In recent years, Williams has done a number of singing spots on the show as Patsy, which already allowed him to preview this song.

It is a romantic ballad produced and arranged by Charlie Calello, whose latest top 10 credits include recent MOR hits by Engelbert Humperdinck and Kenny Nolan. This is, then, an entirely different sort of record from the played-for-laugh characterizations by Penny Marshall & Cindy Williams or Mary Kay Place.

Now 27, Anson was reared in Burbank, Calif., doing little theatre work, nightclubs, summer stock, industrial films and tv commercials before the "Happy Days" break. Now he's a regular on variety, game and talk shows, telethons and specials, and at state fairs and concert dates.

Williams was signed in January to Chelsea, joining such pop label acts as Disco Tex and Rick Springfield. He is managed by Sandy Polack, (213) 550-8206 and booked by Barbara Best, (213) 550-8025.

ALAN O'DAY "Undercover Angel"—★

Though this record marks O'Day's first appearance on the Hot 100 as an artist, he began charting as a songwriter six years ago with "The Drum," the last in Bobby Sherman's string of top 30 hits. In 1974 O'Day wrote two gold singles, the Righteous Brothers' comeback hit "Rock 'N' Roll Heaven" and Helen Reddy's most recent No. 1 "Angie Baby." That year he also saw chart action with "Flashback" for the Fifth Dimension and "Train Of Thought," a top 30 hit for Cher. In 1975 O'Day returned to the Hot 100 with Travis Wammack's "Easy Evil."

This single is the first release for Pacific Records, a new label on which the songwriters contracted to Warner Bros. Music can record their own material. Formed by WB Music principals Ed Silvers and Mel Bly, Pacific is distributed by Atlantic.

O'Day was the first act signed to the label six months ago. He previously had an album on WB and is now finishing an LP for Pacific. This single was co-produced by Steve Barri and Michael Omartian, the "SWAT"/"Happy Days" team that also handled former Union Gap member Kerry Chater's new-on-the-charts bow last week.

O'Day is managed by Brian Lane, who handles Yes. He can be reached in London at 01-727-2791. There is no agent yet.

CAST OF 5 PERSONS

Harry Chapin Songs Make For L.A. Cabaret Revue

LOS ANGELES—Harry Chapin has been creating songs for several years that comment on the contemporary scene and it is the minstrel-like storytelling format of his music which makes it uniquely adaptable to a cabaret presentation.

Actors For Themselves, a repertory company headed by William Devane, has imaginatively captured the flavor of Chapin's songs with a five-person cast that performs Chapin material, embellishing it with mime and minor choreography at the Improvisation Theatre.

The show, "Chapin," as performed March 26, is composed of two acts, each containing 10 Chapin songs. These are presented by the company with each of the performers taking a turn as soloist. Working on a small stage with a minimum of props, the cast carefully evokes the images which are present in Chapin stories.

The performers enter through the audience singing "Sunday Morning Sunshine," a cheery song that creates a pleasant atmosphere. The first act proceeds through such well-known Chapin songs as "W.O.L.D." (sung by Scott Jarvis), "Barefoot Boy" (sung by Jennifer Darling), "30,000 Pounds Of Bananas" (sung by George Ball), "The Mayor Of Candor Lied" and "Cats In The Cradle." An intermission followed "Sniper."

The second act opened with "Stop Singing Those Sad Songs," sung by Scott Jarvis and Barbara Iley, and was followed by an amusing rendition of "Six-String Orchestra" performed by Sam Weisman.

Included were such numbers as "Mr. Tanner," "Taxi" and "A Better Place To Be." The high point of the evening was Iley's solo performance of "Dog Town." She began the song in a voice that seemed almost frail, but as this story of New England "whaling widows" progressed she belted out the refrain, creating the plaintive and haunting mood the song was meant to convey.

Throughout the concert, the cast demonstrated good vocal ability as well as great skill at keeping the audience entertained, although some facial expressions were a bit overdone at times. The performers were backed by an adequate and versatile band.

The two-hour show closed with "Someone Keeps Calling My Name," "Circles" and a reprise of "Sunday Morning Sunshine," completing the journey through the landscape of Chapin's stories.

TOM CECHE

Midtown, you're beautiful!

When you see a view you like, you build a hotel there, right?

That's what we did. Smack in the middle of old Manhattan. Called it the Roosevelt.

How about those walls of glass and steel! Union Carbide. Pan Am. Some view, eh?

Then the guests started to arrive. From all over. Because we're in the middle of the reason they came to New York. To the left, to the right, all around us—nothing but beautiful big business.

And they returned because we're easy in, easy out—super fast service from the best people in the business. Planning a New York work trip? Get a room with a view: The Roosevelt, Madison at 45th, New York City.

FLEETWOOD MAC FIREFALL

Nassau Coliseum,
Long Island, New York

A capacity crowd of approximately 15,000, mostly teens, turned out to see rock's success story of the year here March 24. And from the way Fleetwood Mac is progressing, it could be the success story of the 1970s. The concert was barely advertised, but strong FM support pulled fans immediately.

Stevie Nicks has moved squarely into the limelight, fronting Fleetwood Mac in concert with mesmerizing charm and graceful, haunting moves. She's a gypsy in black veils and boots, fluid and dreamy, undulating at times in silhouette as Mick Fleetwood, the quintet's founding father, hammers away on the drums, his gaze rarely straying from her path.

The group plays so well together, with the additional factor of each member being extremely talented and capable of fronting the group themselves. Christine McVie, for example, has a following of her own, but she seems perfectly content to play impeccable keyboards and step out only twice to sing a song of her own composition, which are classics from the two current Fleetwood Mac LPs on Warner Bros.

John McVie, her ex-husband, stays close to her, inventing imaginatively powerful bass lines. Lindsay Buckingham, once linked romantically to Nicks, has become one of rock's most admired guitarists, always inventive, always tasty.

The group offers the audience approximately 90 minutes of music drawn solely from these smash albums, with no reference to Mick Fleetwood's earlier bands. Everyone gets a turn up front during the 10 or 12 songs served, but it is Stevie Nicks who, on account of the number of contributions she has made to the band's repertoire, seems to dominate. If the others don't mind, and they don't seem to, this is fine. The audience deserves more of Christine McVie, however.

Opening act was Atlantic's Firefall, which offers a solid 45-minute set of recognizable tunes from its year-old gold LP, including "You Are The Woman" and "Livin' Ain't Livin'," about eight songs in all.

It was a well-done concert, with a little magic and a lot of melody, diligently applied.

DICK NUSSEN

BOB SEGER

Palladium, New York

Segar and his Silver Bullet Band opened an hour-long show March 17 with "Nutbush City Limits" setting the stage for the good basic hard rock that followed in the next 10 songs.

Segar took center stage, dressed in white, doing all the vocals and playing electric piano or guitar in only three of the songs. Though the sound mix seemed a little off as the set began, it improved during the evening when the Silver Bullet Band got more into its own groove.

Playing with a new drummer, Jamie Oldaker, since regular drummer Charlie Allen Martin is recovering from an automobile accident, the five-piece band did a solid rocking set highlighted by the saxophone playing of Alto Reed.

On the haunting "Turn The Page," the smokey "Down On Main Street," and especially on "Rock 'n' Roll Never Forgets" it was the playing of Reed, always there at the right time and with the right tone that made the songs.

Segar, meanwhile, though it has taken him a long time to hit the headline spot, showed he is clearly comfortable with the role. He has a good gruff, rock voice with good enunciation and looks as if he just came from a Midwestern college campus.

And beneath his rock'n'roll swagger, there seems to be a winning personality, as revealed in "Sunspot," a song full of good humor about a man being bilked by his runaway girlfriend.

Segar, who played both his old and new material, with the new stuff generally sounding a lot better, saved his best song, "Night Moves," for last. It was the perfect end. ROMAN KOZAK

SONNY & CHER

Sheraton-Waikiki Hotel, Honolulu

Sonny & Cher, television's dynamic divorced duo, were a big let-down here March 17-18. They gave a dated, tedious, boring performance, with Cher's far-out costumes providing the sole spark of interest. Sonny dwelled on the couple's divorce; the couple also exhibited "home movies" of daughter Chastity.

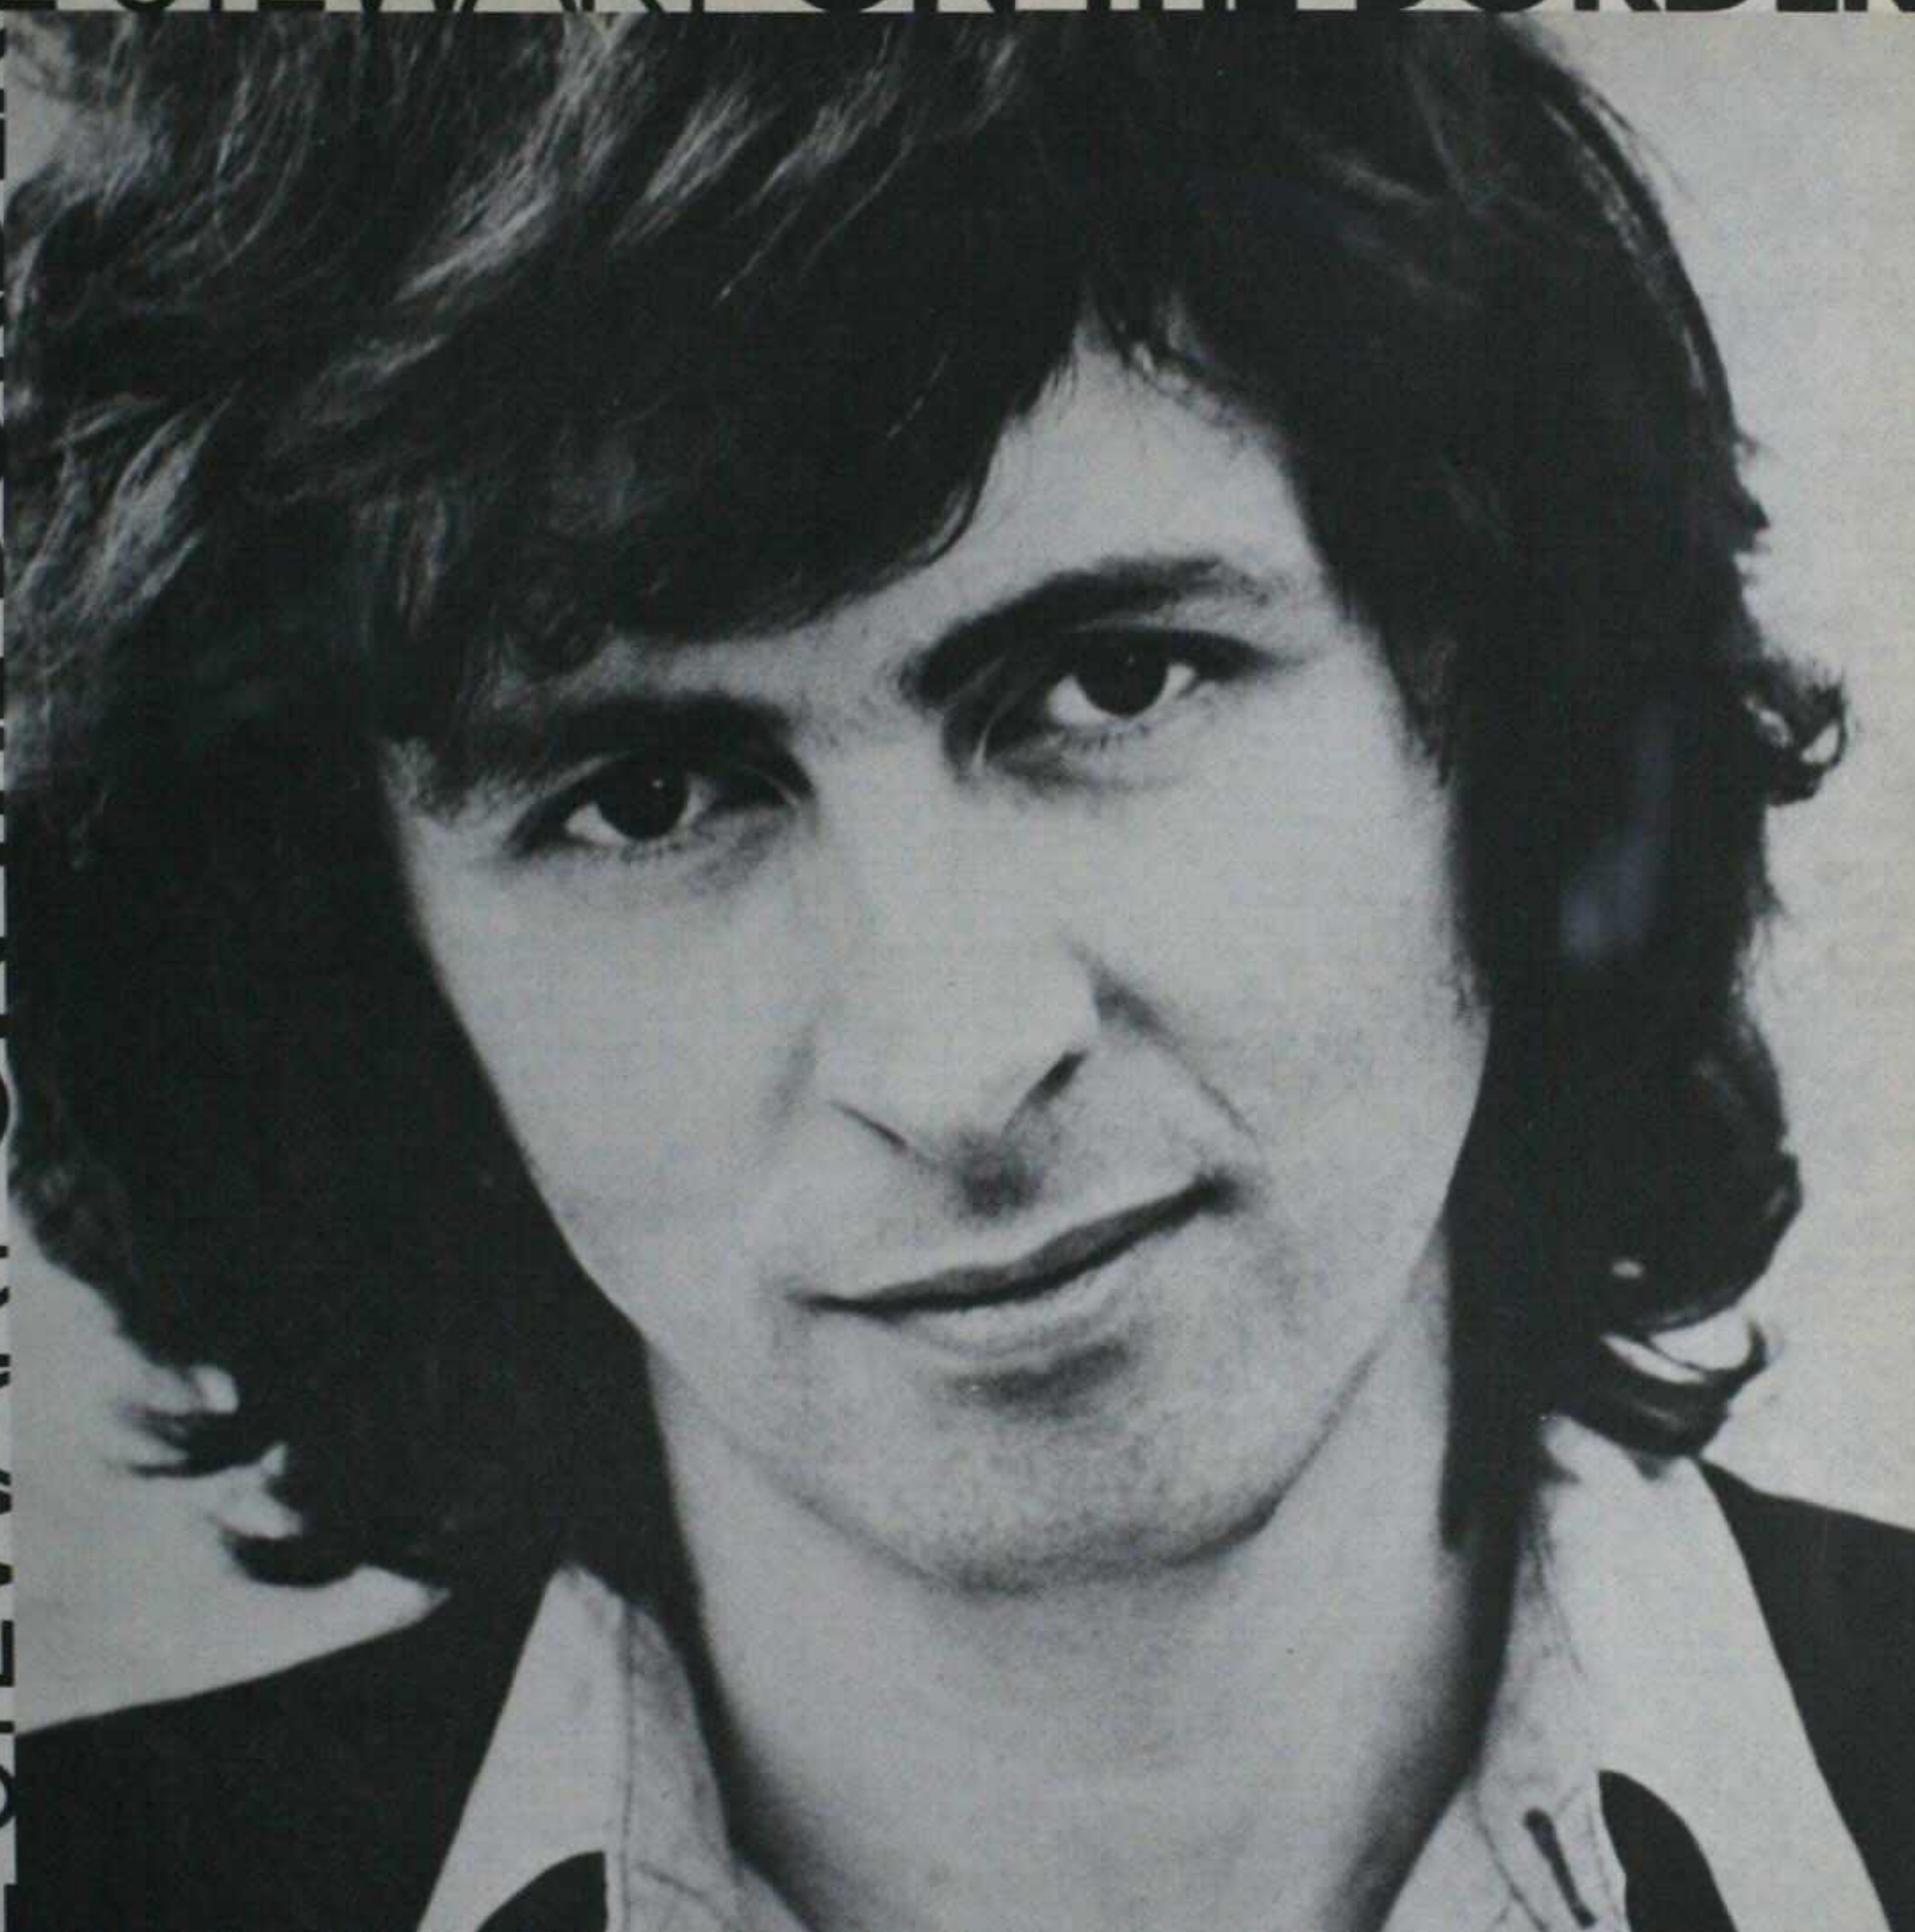

At best, Sonny & Cher made an appearance; the show certainly wasn't a performance. That 2,500 persons took in each of the four performances scheduled indicated the vast impact Sonny and Cher have made on the tv public.

The newest tune Cher performed was "Dark Lady"; it was sandwiched in between a lackluster medley. The show opened tv style, with the singing of "All I Ever Need Is You," and closed with "I've Got You Babe." Between the dull patter and costume changes were scores of old hits: "Baby Don't Go," "The Way Of Love," "Just You," "All I Really Want To Do," "Laugh At Me."

An alleged comic named Al Kaufman opened the show with a peculiar assortment of dull jokes, dialect humor and bad impressions. At

WAYNE HARADA

JOE ELY

Lone Star Cafe, New York

Joe Ely, while still a young man, looks and sounds like he has been around some. Playing at New York's new country music venue, Ely mixed country with a basic respect for rock 'n' roll into an entertaining 80-minute show.

Ely performed nearly 20 songs at his appearance on Feb. 15, backed by a five-piece band that consisted of accordion, pedal steel guitar, bass, drums and lead guitar, with Ely himself on amplified acoustic guitar.

Drawing most of his material from his MCA album, "Joe Ely," he did ballads, country blues with plenty of weepy steel, rockabilly songs and straight blues, with many of the songs centering around the theme of the lonely drifter.

The music that Ely and his band play is not too complicated, nor does it need to be, considering the country context, though after an hour, for some tastes it did get a little long.

Still Ely does put together some fine songs including "I Had My Hopes Up High," "She Never Spoke Spanish To Me," and "Suckin' A Big Bottle Of Gin."

BILL QUATEMAN

Ivanhoe Theatre, Chicago

The enlarged outfit that will tour to support Quateman's "Night After Night" LP was introduced before a hometown crowd March 26.

Despite the addition of Caleb Quaye on lead guitar and percussionist Lenny Castro, the Quateman group continues to provide one of the tightest, most economical sounds in all of pop-dom.

The high-calibre corps disdains jamming and all impromptu exercise, focusing its energy on lean, perfected renditions of Quateman originals. Thirteen were offered here, including the hit candidate, "You're The One," along with eight others off the new LP and a new tune, "Shot In The Dark," one of a group that featured Quateman at the piano.

The dark, handsome leader spent most of the 90 minutes center stage, providing lead vocals and rhythm guitar. Elton John alumnus Caleb Quaye, whose leads were clean and precise, now shares the spotlight with Quateman. Other members are Denny Seiwel, drums, Ira Kart, keyboards, and John Marsh, bass.

The group plays with a sense of camaraderie, an obvious pleasure in its superb professionalism and polished arrangements, and with a conviction in the strength of Quateman's lyric rock material.

Two encores were delivered, which made the set overly long, particularly as opener Larry Coryell was 20 minutes late arriving at the theatre.

Coryell's half-hour solo six-tune set was a total disaster. The guitarist had not a wit of an idea how to reach his audience. With frustration, he toyed aimlessly at the acoustic instrument and then overindulged himself in a long, electronically-augmented amplified number.

ALAN PENCHANSKY

CAROL WILLIAMS

Broady's, New York

Although she is just releasing her first album and has had only one moderately successful single, Williams packed this classy Upper West Side supper club for her Feb. 25 show. Apparently the SRO crowd was drawn by word of mouth about Williams' strong voice and showmanship because her overproduced disco-oriented album gives no indication of her true talents.

Williams has a powerful and distinctive voice with good range and excellent phrasing. She couples this with an entertaining and energetic stage presence that is complemented by an experienced and talented band. Williams' only real problem is a paucity of new material as her two eight-song, 50-minute sets were filled with songs made popular by other female vocalists.

Williams' unique style shone brightest on protracted versions of Curtis Mayfield's "Give Him Something He Can Feel" and the Gladys Knight hit "Neither One Of Us." Both songs were arranged to get the most out of Williams' fine voice and winning stage personality.

ANDREW GOLD

RONEE BLAKLEY

Roxy, Los Angeles

Music listeners around the country are familiar with the sound of Andrew Gold from his backup work with Linda Ronstadt, Carly Simon and Art Garfunkel and from his original songs performed by others, notably "Endless Flight" done by Leo Sayer.

The local audience got its chance to hear Gold live and up front on March 9 and he quickly established a rapport with the audience with his easygoing musical style somewhat reminiscent of the Eagles.

Gold filled his hour-long set with a mixture of his own numbers and those of other artists, including "Lonely Boy" which has just been released as his new single and a rendition of Manfred Mann's "Do Wah Diddy."

Gold provided a few anecdotes to lend insight into the creation of various numbers, explaining "I'm A Gambler" as evoked by a winning streak and followed shortly by a losing streak of greater dimensions.

Many of the numbers were from Gold's new Asylum LP "What's Wrong With This Picture." He included in his set "One Of Them Is Me," "Passing Thing" and "Angel Woman," displaying the same competence onstage as comes across on his LP. "Angel Woman" was a nice change of pace as Gold switched from guitar to solo piano for this ballad.

The high point of Gold's 12-number set was his performance of "Endless Flight," if only because it is a well-known number. He followed with "Go Back Home Again," a boogie number dedicated to the guy in every audience who keeps shouting "boogie!" and closed with a rendition of "Dr. Robert."

The show was opened by Ronee Blakley, who played an easygoing one hour country set. Best known for her performance in "Nashville," Blakley is building her act into a show that is well worth listening to. She displayed a strong, husky voice as she performed numbers such as "American Beauty," "Marksman" and "Looking For Somebody To Trust." Blakley plays good piano, opening numbers such as "Marksman" with a dash of rock'n'roll.

Blakley played "My Idaho Home" and "It Hurts So Bad" from "Nashville" and closed with the popular "He's Got A Tape Deck In His Tractor."

PETER LEMONGELLO

WALTER MURPHY

Felt Forum, New York

Lemongello is a good example of how far a man can go on just brains and good looks. After saturating television screens with commercials that put more emphasis on his handsome face than his thin voice, Lemongello follows up with a live act that does pretty much the same thing.

For this March 5 concert Lemongello marched around like a drum major, posed like a bodybuilder, shook hands and kissed children like a politician, and occasionally sang. All this seemed to please his female fans as they rushed the stage to give their idol kisses, flowers, poems, love letters and articles of intimate apparel.

Lemongello is smart enough to know the limits of his voice and he carefully stays within them. The one-hour, 20-song set was made up primarily of contemporary standards like "I Write The Songs" and "The Way We Were" that were not too hard to sing.

Lemongello got little support from his orchestra which played with the energy of intensive care patients. But the ladies in the audience did not come to hear a band, they came to see Peter Lemongello and they got their money's worth. While his voice is causing Sinatra no sleepless nights, Lemongello does manage to entertain his fans and that is all he really needs to do.

Keyboardist Walter Murphy and his orchestra delivered 45 minutes of pleasant though uninspired disco-rock. Murphy stuck pretty much to formula as his set was highlighted by disco arrangements of classical melodies. Since the success of his "Fifth Of Beethoven" Murphy's music has become predictable. Though his show is packaged in entertaining way Murphy can't go too much farther doing the same thing.

WILLIE BOBO
PHYLLIS ST. JAMES
Troubadour, Los Angeles

Willie Bobo, the veteran timbale player/bandleader demonstrated March 10 just how far a new recording contract can go to add vital spirit to a tired act.

Compared to a previous appearance at the Starwood about a year ago with essentially the same band members, Bobo's new show seemed vastly more confident and purposeful, staged with greater care, and performed with greater verve and control.

In his 75-minute, seven-number set, Bobo offered a mixture of older tunes for which he is well known ("Hurt So Bad" and "Evil Ways") and cuts from his new Blue Note LP.

Although the new material departed little from Bobo's eclectic Latin/funk/jazz style, the rejuvenated delivery is what mattered.

As a timbale player, Bobo is several cuts below masters such as Tito Puente or even young Nicky Marrero. Wisely then, Bobo relies heavily on his style, both graceful and flashy, to capture his audience. His affectionate, onstage interaction with long-time percussion associate Victor Pantoja is especially amusing.

As a performer, Bobo can be alternately comical or moving. His enthusiastic audience as usual delighted in his sexual one-liners and sight-gag clowning. But when Bobo's nagging sore throat frustrated his vocal on "A Little Tear" which he had dedicated to Ray Gilbert, the tune's deceased composer, he was moved to tears and his audience to spontaneous sympathetic applause.

Finally, Bobo's confident conducting of his band throughout the evening seemed to symbolize his new-found command, justifying his claim that "I'm not as beautiful as I used to be, but the fire's still there."

Opening the show was vocalist Phyllis St. James who has reportedly worked with Boz Scaggs. The dynamic, soulful singer launched a solo career amidst rumors that at least two major labels are vying to sign her. True or not, her highly energetic six tune, 40-minute, well-polished and well-received performance here makes the claim believable.

AGUSTIN GURZA

PETULA CLARK
SANDLER & YOUNG
Hotel Sahara, Las Vegas

Perky Petula Clark made her Congo show-room debut March 17, having moved from the Riviera Hotel down the strip. And the elegantly-gowned Clark caught the opening night full house by surprise with a snappy nine-song set which moved quickly in her hour-plus program. Backing the crystal-clear British singer's vocal style was the 32-piece Jack Splash orchestra, her three-dance troupe "Friends" and three female singers.

Right from the Elton John opener, "Your Song," Clark established early her ability to captivate with phrasing and control. She continued with early '60s hits "Don't Sleep In The Sub-way," "I Know A Place" and first breakthrough hit, "Downtown."

The show bogged down a bit with a Broadway medley, involving costume changes and extended dance routines from "Annie Get Your Gun," "Sweet Charity" and "Jesus Christ, Superstar!"

Clark's final four songs however again picked up the performance pace beginning with an a cappella solo on "Send In The Clowns." "I Got The Music In Me" was an average rocker, but Clark again reached artistic heights with Barry Manilow's classical-derived "This Must Be Magic."

Disco finale "Baby Face" culminated the total effort with excellent choreography, stage-side graphics and Miss Clark outfitted in pumps, pigtailed and hot pants.

Meanwhile, Tony Sandler and Ralph Young, also making their mainroom Sahara bow, executed a flawless, musical and comedy program of 10-songs featuring their blending, harmonic

The ballroom paid top dollar for the attractions and back in the '20s paid Rudy Vallee a $2,600 guarantee to appear. The record high attendances was attracted by Vaughn Monroe when 6,945 packed the 23,000-square-foot building Aug. 23, 1947 and were only able to stand and listen.

House rules called for coat and tie, dresses for women. The management even sold ties for 25 cents or 50 cents. According to 82-year-old Katherine Gordon, who sold tickets and checked coats at the ballroom, she remembers only one orchestra leader ever bombing. "He didn't do well at all; he wasn't known then." The maestro is much better known now as Lawrence Welk.

NASHVILLE OPERATION

Bradley Bullish On Potential Of Studio

By GERRY WOOD

NASHVILLE—Nashville's most prominent producer has purchased Nashville's most successful studio complex—and the combination should result in success.

Owen Bradley's purchase of the RCA Studios (Billboard, April 2, 1977) ends a three-month close-down of the studios. Negotiating with RCA officials in New York through his business manager, Bradley bought the equipment in studios A and B and worked out a sub-lease on the studio space. The two smaller studios were not involved in the transaction.

Though not revealing the purchase price, Bradley comments, "If you lump the whole thing together, you could make it sound spectacular. But if you want to be realistic, it sounds like it's maybe not such a big deal."

Re-named Master Sound Studios, the complex in the RCA building will be a subsidiary of Bradley's other studio, Bradley's Barn in nearby Mt. Juliet, Tenn.

Bradley, a member of the Country Music Hall of Fame, opened the original studio on what has become known as Music Row. That studio—a quonset hut—is still being used as part of the Columbia Recording Studios.

Bradley fired up the studio as soon as the papers were signed. Master Sounds Studios' first session was March 23 with Roy Dea producing Steve Young for RCA.

The mixture of RCA acts, those produced by Bradley, and other artists from other labels should keep the studios busy and in the black. Bradley believes if he can fill 40% of the studio time with RCA acts "we'll be healthy and successful."

Bradley has a precedent from the days when he headed the MCA Nashville operations and cut many of the MCA acts at Bradley's Barn. "The Barn is the only barometer I can go by. Contrary to what many people thought, MCA did 30%-40% of its sessions at the Barn. That same formula will probably hold true at Master Sound."

Though the successful Barn studio will continue to remain active, Bradley might be cutting some MCA acts at Master Sound. "There's no reason why we can't. At this point, it's all in the same family."

Two former RCA engineers, Bill Vandevort and Bill Harris, have been hired for the Master Sound operation, and Bradley hopes to hire back a few more of the laid-off engineers as business dictates.

Coming British Invasion?

By JOHN WORAM

NEW YORK—"We're looking for an American distributor" was a phrase heard again and again at the AES' 56th convention held March 1-4 at the Hotel Meridien in Paris. And despite the venue, the voices were in English, representing many of the almost 20 British recording studio hardware firms on hand for the show.

While a few British firms such as Neve, Allen and Heath, and Audio & Design are already well known here in the "colonies," the others are getting ready to become better acquainted with us.

Helios Electronics Ltd. director Dick Swettenham reports that the first American delivery of one of its consoles is set for Seals and Crofts' "Dawnbreaker" recording studio on the West Coast.

Although the console will be delivered just days before the AES convention in Los Angeles (May 10-13), Swettenham has been unable to persuade the proud new owners to divert the console for an additional week, so that exhibitgoers can have a look. Helios is now represented by Everything Audio in California which arranged the sale to Seals and Crofts.

Also in the Rolls-Royce category is Cadac. Sales manager Frank Woodington has recently established ties with Irv Joel and Associates for American sales and service.

Notable among the many Cadac features is a "check" facility, for previewing before recording. The check button mutes all other channels (as with the conventional preview function) but maintains the echo and reverb feeds (if any), allowing the engineer to get an accurate idea of the total effect of the channel being checked.

Monitor level and speaker assignment is unchanged in the check mode, unlike most conventional preview functions, which route the previewed signal to a pre-assigned speaker.

Cadac has also introduced CARE (Cadac Automated Recording/Remix Equipment). The system uses disk memory and two microprocessors.

NILS LOFGREN

Civic Auditorium, Santa Monica, Calif.

The epitome of the ultimate punk rocker in the persona of Lofgren blasted its way through an overpowering 12-song, 75-minute set of guitar-dominated rock March 18. Flash guitarist Lofgren riffed his way through the show playing his instrument in nearly every conceivable position.

Throughout the evening he gyrated back and forth, got down low on his knees, jumped upon the piano, kicked his legs out towards the crowd and basically showcased his guitar wizardry.

Lofgren, who received enthusiastic ovations and cheers before he set foot on the stage, performed songs culled mostly from his latest A&M album, "I Came To Dance" and his previous LP "Cry Tough."

Outfitted in black-embroidered pants and top, the diminutive Lofgren opened with a hot guitar solo. Most numbers were Lofgren showcases as the long instrumental jams gave him an opportunity to show his stuff and dazzle the crowd. Utilizing the guitar tremolo lever, Lofgren produced a whining wah-wah sound which made his guitar appear to be talking.

Yet throughout the loud and sometimes monotonous heavy rockers, Lofgren's vocals were muffled and partially inaudible. Still he continued to lay down the licks in all but one song in which he put aside his treasured instrument for a brief bit on piano.

Towards the finale Lofgren let go as he played guitar a la Jimi Hendrix with his teeth, which excited the roaring crowd to higher degrees. Following his last song he mentally braced himself and topped things off with a flying backflip that set the stage for his encore.

Lofgren is without a doubt one of contemporary rock's flashiest and most adept guitar virtuosos. Though his music is loud and often overpowering, it fits the Lofgren style. ED HARRISON

JESSE COLIN YOUNG DIRT BAND

Civic Auditorium, Santa Monica, Calif.

Young offers an untimely but galvanizing brand of rock and he was in ideal form March 23 before a near capacity house.

He took command immediately—reinforcing his already cult-like aura—by coming onstage alone, picking up his acoustic guitar and launching into a hauntingly melancholy version of "Your Lovin' Hobo," a ballad extracted from his recent "Love On The Wing" Warner Bros. album.

Joined onstage by backup members, Young's near 90-minute, 16 song set was comprised notably of tunes from that same LP—songs reflecting life on the road.

The music ranged from ballads and mid-tempo numbers to a few uptempo rockers that were spiced here and there by jazz, r&b, reggae, country, and even a little dixieland thanks to the excellent horn work of Jim Rothermel.

At various times Young was also joined onstage by his "lady" Suzi who contributed fine backup vocals and harmonies.

In the assortment of newer material was "Higher & Higher," "Love On The Wing," "Workin'," "Hey, Good Lookin'," "Fool," "Drift Away," "Do It Slow" and "California Cowboy."

Dipping backwards, he interspersed "Songbird" as well as a funky rendition of Marvin Gaye's "What's Going On?"

"Light Shine," and the classic Youngbloods' ode to brotherhood "Come Together" were saved for the two encores.

The Dirt Band opened with a tantalizing, momentum-building 45-minute set of electrified country and Cajon rock. John McEuen is as versatile a musician as there is and for the first phase of songs laid back on pedal steel guitar. Then, like a fuse igniting, he exploded with banjo and electric fiddle, dancing around the stage on such numbers as "Bayou Jubilee" and "Battle Of New Orleans" as the band reeled to a foot stomping finale.

Among the other Dirt Band standards offered were "Mr. Bojangles," "Cosmic Cowboy," "Here Comes Another Song About The Mountains," "Jaded Love," "Fish Song," "Honky Tonkin" and "Everyday Pays." JIM McCULLAUGH

Jukebox Chi Distrib Diversifies Into Soul

CHICAGO—Nationwide Sound Distributors, one of a handful of suppliers marketing primarily to jukebox operators, has diversified into soul music, Joe Gibson, company president reports.

The Nashville-based firm, which functions as a national distribution representative for very small labels, is handling soul product on the Boblo, House Of Orange and KT And Company labels, according to Gibson.

The company, which also offers a smattering of Latin titles, has dealt primarily in country product, and handles U.S. distribution of the Canadian Boot label.

Gibson says Allen Orange, former head of soul promotion for Monument Records, has been named to direct Nationwide's r&b promotion effort.

As part of the product diversification, Nationwide is refining its use of sample mailings to operators, the company informs.

Where previously it employed a homogenous mailing to a group of nearly 500 ops, Nationwide now is attempting to categorize operators according to the type of locations they program predominantly, Gibson says.

"We were using our mailings just as a means of acquainting the operator with our product, but it will become more of a test marketing situation now," he explains.

Gibson says a smaller number of operators will receive a greater number of singles under the new mailing format, and that one-stops will be alerted when operators in their area are being polled.

In addition to checking one-stops for record reactions, Nationwide directly contacts approximately 100 operators each month, Gibson says.

"We want to know not only about our own records but about what types of records in general are doing well for them," he says. "It helps us select product that we're going to handle."

Gibson says operators are serviced with virtually all of Nationwide's 16 or 20 new monthly releases.

Twenty-four independent distributors, augmented with direct sale to one-stops in certain locales, represents Nationwide's distribution network.

Sterling Mails Strip Promotion

CHICAGO—The use of Sterling color-coded tile strips increases box collections by up to 10%, according to a new promotional piece Sterling is mailing to 75 U.S. one-stops.

A 5% increase in collections results when coded color strips are employed whenever a record is placed, the mailing claims, and when records are grouped according to color columns, it says, the increase is 10%.

Dick Steinberg, company president, says the figures are based upon "operator reports" and "comments made from people met at the MOA expo."

Though an increase in gross has been claimed previously for the color-coded titles, exact percentages are not available, says Steinberg.

The 32-year-old Sterling system utilizes six colors, representing the categories: "pop-hot," "pop-easy listening," "soul," "country," "standards oldies," and "Latin."

PLENTY OF NAME ACTS

$100,000 Loan Big Aid To Floridians

By ED HARRISON

LOS ANGELES—While many campus concert bookers are struggling to bring top name entertainment to their schools, the Univ. of Florida at Gainesville has maintained a high standard of programming with a regular schedule of in-demand acts.

And to further entice its students, more than half the shows are free thanks to a $100,000 yearly loan from the student government. "With that kind of money we're starting off in good shape," says Steve Weiner, chairman of Student Government Productions.

Among the free shows presented in the past year are George Benson, Roger McGuinn, Commander Cody, Jesse Colin Young, Doctor Hook, Earl Scruggs, Dizzy Gillespie, George Duke/Billy Cobham, Pure Prairie League, Chick Corea and the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band.

Pay shows have included Chicago, Bob Dylan's Rolling Thunder Revue, James Taylor, America, Steve Stills, Beach Boys, Crosby & Nash, Bob Hope, Loggins & Messina, Harry Chapin, Yes, Leon Russell, Kansas, Styx, Billy Joel, Janis Ian and Tom Chapin.

Yet despite all the topnotch acts, Weiner says the 30,000 student enrollment is not fully appreciative. "Students don't realize how lucky they are," he says.

"They aren't aware that $100,000 is a lot of money nor do they know what comparative prices are. Students don't feel we've offered the kind of groups they really want to see like Pink Floyd, Jethro Tull and Led Zeppelin. They have no concept what booking is."

The school has its own technological services crew with student-run lighting, sound and equipment which further allows the university to give reduced rates.

With four or five free shows a quarter, ticket prices for the paying shows vary between $6-$4.50 with a $1 discount to students. Because the school is in such a healthy financial position it can afford to take risks on shows that might not be successful. "We did a Todd Rundgren show that we lost on," says Weiner. "But we'll continue to do those shows every now and then."

Because the Florida Legislature prohibits the use of student funds for concerts, claiming it would constitute double taxation if students pay for shows, a loan from the student administration has allowed financial backing for any show.

Weiner says the Student Government Productions department nego-

LOS ANGELES—California State Univ. at Northridge presents its first large scale jazz concert, entitled "California Jazz Festival '77" April 2. Scheduled to perform are Herbie Hancock, Ronnie Laws, Randy Crawford, Kharma and the Gerald Wilson band.

The show will take place at the campus' 9,000-seat Devonshire Downs Stadium with festival seating. Student ticket prices are $3.99, general public advance tickets are $6.50 and at the door tickets are $7.50. The show is being presented by the Associated Students Cultural Program department.

tiates with the student senate on a budget. The senate in turn assess a student activities fee. The money collected is then put into a general fund. The senate has the final say in all budget-related matters and utilizes the funds for the diverse programming schedule.

When an act is in town, Weiner says he is immediately on the phone to the record company requesting time buys, ads and occasional phone interviews with the artist. Album giveaways, he says, help spur student involvement. Legal complications have prohibited him from conducting other promotion gimmicks like wet T-shirt contests. "We push for every opportunity," he says.

At a recent Kansas concert, a computerized survey was taken to give the Productions department an analysis of student preferences. "We did it to gain a better understanding of student needs so we could better allocate our funding," Weiner says.

Two main venues are the scene for most concerts. The Florida Gymnasium seats 6,500 and Florida Stadium has a capacity of 23,000. All free shows are held outdoors in a lawn setting. Weiner says that on numerous occasions there have been complaints from the city with police often requesting a reduction in volume.

Within two years a $9 million domed Coliseum is expected to be completed. It will have a seating capacity of 10,000 complete with special lighting effects, terrace and pool. Weiner claims it will be the best facility in the Southeast.

Also planned this term is the annual jazz festival with Stanley Turrentine on April 24. Upcoming free shows will feature Jose Feliciano Sunday (3); Leon Redbone April 14; Michael Murphy April 8; pay shows are America/Burton Cummings April 11, Charlie Daniels/Roger McGuinn April 15 and Jimmy Buffett on April 24.

UCLA Viddapes Katakis Session

LOS ANGELES—In conjunction with A&M's campus department, the debut recording session of Michael Katakis at A&M studios was covered by a special UCLA videotape unit for showing on the 30,000-student campus.

The UCLA crew, headed by moderator Dennis Sullivan, Jane Reynolds and Mike Jones, taped an interview with the singer/writer, then recorded Katakis during one of his album songs, "New England Lullabye."

The taping was publicized in the school's newspaper, the Daily Bruin, and on the campus radio station, KLA. Katakis is a UCLA favorite, having performed in concert there numerous times.

The videotapes are seen by students via closed circuit in black and white. They consist of various subjects in the hour-long presentation.

Previously taped were Peter Asher, Linda Ronstadt's manager, Don Ellis and Von Thomas of Columbia Records, and Machine Gun Kelly KHJ disk jockey.

Katakis' first A&M album is scheduled for May release and is called "A Simpler Time."

Industry Grows Amid Tax Trouble, Import Threat

By HENRY KAHN

Over the past four years or so, the French record industry has expanded at the rate of some 20% annually. Though the use of the word "industry" may be unwelcome, since many key personalities involved prefer the word "profession," the fact is at least 200 companies are involved, though 51% are responsible for 90% of the market.

With almost 2,000 points of sale, it is estimated that in 1976 some 130 million records were sold. Under those circumstances, the word "industry" is clearly justified.

The past history of the industry has been full of glory. Reasons for success have been many. First, when the recession started gripping the western world, the public turned to disks as a form of relaxation from stress and strain of everyday life. Second, the record companies in France were shrewd enough not to jump in headlong just to make an easy dollar. They advanced with care and by keeping prices below the inflation rate gave themselves an attractive product to offer.

It is estimated that record prices have risen annually by less than 4% in a country where the rate of inflation has averaged 10%.

Disks and Porno

However there were disadvantages to be found in the industry's progress. The government, for instance, watched the development and decided to skim a lot of cream from the top of the milk. It slapped a Value Added Tax of 33% on records. That, as many concerned in the business constantly aver, places Beethoven, the Beatles, Tino Rossi and Charles Aznavour in the same category as hard pornography—for it is taxed at the same VAT rate as is added to porno movies.

Many feel it should be obvious to the Minister of Finance that such an aggressive tax imposition must, in the long run, put a brake on sales. It is argued that a more reasonable rate of tax—say between 17%-20%—would boost sales further and give the minister an increased income. Why, then, should he be so reticent?

There are many different opinions; one is that show business generally in France has a poor image; that there is altogether too much stress on the glamor, on the off-beat activities of top personalities, on the general extravagances associated with the entertainment world.

But it is doubtful if that is the real answer. The fact is the government seems happy enough to collect its high tax. True, a lower rate would lead to greater sales but it would also mean more money being spent, more in circulation and consequently a higher inflation rate. It is better, believes the government, to leave things as they are.

France Lags

Yet despite this VAT obstacle to expansion, all concerned are certain that expansion will still go on as we move into the 1980s.

Jacques Souplet, of CBS, likes to make the point in debate that France still lags behind the U.K. and Germany. He feels there is still plenty of elbow room so expansion will continue. He just feels there may be modifications in selling methods.

And Louis Hazan, of Phonogram, believes that France still has a long way to go in terms of industry development. He expresses a widely held view that over the next four years sales of cassettes will treble to the tremendous benefit of the record business.

Fierce Debate Over Nose Dive Of Singles

By MIKE HENNESSEY

After dominating the market for the last 10 years or more, the single in France took a disastrous nose-dive in the last quarter of 1976 and although it has rallied slightly since, there is a growing feeling in the industry that it is unlikely to regain its former glory.

There is a considerable difference of opinion as to the principal cause of this slump. Bernard de Bosson, managing director of WEA, considers price a major factor. "The single has passed the 10 franc barrier—it can now cost as much as 12 francs 50 ($2.50)—and this has created a psychological block among the public. As long as you could get a single with a 10-franc note the price was acceptable—but once it became necessary to add coins to the note, a negative reaction was created." De Bosson points out that it is possible to buy a budget album in France for not much more than a full-price single.

Another theory is that the quality of singles released in the last quarter of 1976 was not particularly high and the supporters of this idea point to the fact that the public is still buying singles in vast quantities if the product is right, an example being the runaway success of "Daddy Cool" by Boney M.

No TV

Yet another explanation of the single's fall from grace is that there are no longer any record promotion opportunities on French television. Since October 15 all tv pop shows were taken off the air by government decree on the grounds that the state television network did not exist to sell records. An important absentee from the small screen has been presenter Guy Lux whose weekly show gave vital exposure to new singles.

This theory, however, is discounted by Pathe Marconi managing director Michel Bonnet, who points out that even without the benefit of tv, an acknowledged hit singles specialist like Claude Carrere is still selling large quantities of disks.

It is ironic that for years the French industry has striven to boost the under-developed LP market and to end the dominance of singles, a legacy from the days when the EP in the four-color sleeve was king. In evolving from EPs to singles, the industry continued to use four-color sleeves and thus gave the single a certain glamor. Added to which the major native talent had never been particularly LP-oriented.

Says Bonnet: "Singles were selling strongly in 1970, then in 1972/73 there was a marked decline. After that sales dropped again, but now they are seriously down. The market situation is not good. Too many people are talking about the death of the single."

"I think one problem is the increasing competition for exposure. We have 55 million people in France and 3½ radio stations. In this respect we are in the middle ages. In Italy there are now a thousand or more radio stations and this late development has had a most favorable effect on the record market. There are many artists who were never heard on radio before who are now getting regular exposure."

"In France only France Inter, the state radio station, covers the whole country, and its listening audience contains the smallest proportion of record buyers. The peripheral commercial stations, Europe No. 1 and Radio

Expansion Paradox To Those Touting Price Hike

Lucien Ades, president of the Syndicat Nationale de l'Edition Phonographique and Audiovisuelle, SNEPA, believes that it will be impossible to avoid sharp price increases in the upcoming year.

He says: "1976 was an excellent year. We sold about 130 million disks and cassettes against only 60 million in 1970. The policy of the French companies has been, over the past five years, to keep prices down, accept lower profits and push up the volume of sales. This policy has succeeded, but we have to ask ourselves whether, today, it can continue."

In 1975, he explains as head of the French record industry association, the companies were able to keep their price increases down to a modest 3.83%. This is well under the national inflation rate which is running at the 10% mark or a shade more.

The government's economic policy is intended to reduce inflation. Having pegged prices between September and December 1976, Prime Minister Raymond Barre said that in the new year prices would be freed. This will give companies a chance to review the situation.

Profits at this time are low and if turnover has increased in the record industry there is no guarantee that it can continue, particularly with the Value Added Tax on records at just over the 33% mark.

Ades says that if this tax were reduced it would not be necessary to change the existing policy because sales would continue to rise. But on the other side is the fact the sheer prosperity of the industry is one of the main reasons why the government refuses to reduce the tax.

"The Prime Minister, who is also Minister of Finance, is very sympathetic but so long as we expand he will do nothing." So says Ades, who goes on: "It is almost like saying 'When you reach the brink of bankruptcy, we'll take another look.' The whole thing is absurd. If we could continue to expand thanks to a reduction in the tax then sales would soar. Bearing in mind growing costs this policy looks difficult to maintain."

Between 1970 and 1976, the fees paid in France to musicians for three hours of recording has increased from about $18 to around $40. If social security is

Mass Merchandisers, Traditional Shops In Scramble

By MICHAEL WAY

A small-town organist is currently bringing about a small revolution in France's record and tape retail and distribution sector, one of the slower moving areas in the industry.

The man is Christian Kiefer and his job is to teach people how to sell records in a fairly traditionally-minded country. Starting as an organist in Normandy, Northern France, Kiefer discovered how little the average sales person, especially in department stores, knew about the job.

He earned an economics degree in Paris and runs the country's only school for record retailers—l'Institut Français de Formation des Metiers de la Musique—which is gradually destroying the image of the small individual retailer as the only specialist in the music-tape selling area.

Already the "grands surfaces" (supermarkets, chain and department stores) have taken the lead over the small retailer in sales of budget albums though the latter—and there are 18,000 sales outlets in France—still dominate in top-price albums. Meanwhile in singles and 45s the "grands surfaces" have 35% of the market.

The legend of the small retailer being the specialist was knocked down by one industry watcher who says: "They may say they know all the trends and follow the market—but just look at the end-of-year stocks."

But the retailer has some horrendous problems to face, especially cut-throat competition among record companies, returns and stocks, plus the high cost of records and tapes in France, with a top price album at $9 and the Value Added Tax.

Overhead is enormous, too, preventing in some cases much needed expansion. It is calculated that on top of the monthly salary of $600 paid to a trained employee, the retailer has to fork out another $300 in social charges, one of the highest rates in the world. So, in many cases, the record retail outlet is small and its staff small.

As a result more retailers are moving in other directions. One says that making a living from selling disks and tapes is more difficult than in the past, mainly because of competition from the big stores where discounts are greater. He was forced to go into the household appliance business, noting that some of his colleagues had turned to books and magazines where profit margins are greater.

Nevertheless the retailer specializing solidly in lines like jazz, classical or foreign pop, which the "grands surfaces" treat as any other product, can do good business—with profit margins of 27%-30%, slightly less than the book trade.

In Grand Rue, France, the record retail field is considered good trade but the dealer has to buy well and carefully; moving stocks quickly and keeping costs to a minimum. Not all do this—end of year stocks last December were around 15 million units, from an estimated total sale of 125 million.

Another problem is VAT, still at the luxury level of 33.3%, along with perfume, haute couture and pornographic films. A drop of 2% was expected this year along with more other household items, but it did not come. Record industry VAT produced $125 million for the government last year, compared with total state outlay to aid music of $60 million. This is why France, in industry terms, comes in sixth place to the U.S., Japan, Russia, U.K. and West Germany—and why retailers have a hard time making a living. But successive governments have refused industry pleas for a reduction.

On the buying side the retailer has problems through the production excesses of the French industry. Known artists will always sell but the retailer has to cope with offers of masses of other material and unless he knows market trends he cannot know what will sell. Companies do give quite generous limits for returns, though, which is a glimmer of hope for the retailer who finds stocks cost a lot to manage, take up space and are expensive to insure.

A closely-related phenomenon is the continuing attempt by French record companies to promote young and new artists. Sometimes the first disk is a success and this is where the retailer gets in trouble. If the second is a flop, does the dealer order the third?

Two sets of statistics show the sales situation in France. In one, it is calculated that 49% of the public buys its disks and tapes in traditional retail outlets and department stores; 32% at supermarkets and chain stores; 11% by mail (dealers and record companies operating in this sector as well) and 8% from sources such as open-air markets.

In the second, an analysis of 830 sales outlets of various kinds showed that 63% were household appliance shops selling mainly budget line records in racks, 15% full-time record retailers, 10% bookshops (mainly religious records), 7% "various," as in Eastern France where jewelers by tradition sell records too, and 5% "grands surfaces."

The French sales and distribution sector is dominated by the COGEDEP, formed by a grouping of major French record companies (from which one of the founders, CBS, has withdrawn); the "Club of Seven" leading provincial wholesalers, plus two major companies in Paris.

Rack-jobbing and one-stop and two-stop sales systems have never really caught on in France, though some wholesalers give themselves of these "titles" while sticking to traditional methods.

Will Biting French Lyrics Launch French Songs Internationally?

by HENRY KAHN

Eddie Barclay

There are two problems, musically speaking, that France has lived with for years without finding a real solution. One is the tremendous influence Anglo-American music has on the French public and the other is the virtually non-existent influence French pop and its artists has on the world outside, excluding French-speaking countries.

These two problems combine, from time to time, to create storms of protest and anguish in France. For example, radio and television are accused of over-boosting British and U.S. pop and thus are blamed for the forlorn image French pop presents to the world while at the same time contributing to the U.S.-U.K. strength of image.

Recently, it all blew up again and most areas of the industry came in for a pounding. Yet despite all the accusations, counter-accusations and recriminations the scene is not really changing. As the editor of Rock And Folk, a quality music monthly, wrote: "French youth listen more and more to Anglo-American music."

Poor Showing

Many believe this all boils down to a simple formula that the customer is always right. If American and British music has a lion's share of the exposure and market then it is because the customer prefers that product.

At the international level the problem is somewhat different. With one or two exceptions, such as Charles Aznavour backed by the Herculean efforts of Eddie Barclay, French talent gets a poor showing beyond the frontiers of the French-language areas. It is easy to rattle off a list of names known to every French citizen and yet are virtually unknown in the U.K. and even less in the U.S. It raises the question: are the customers right in both areas and is it that the product is not what they want?

The lack of French interest is a comparatively recent development. Gaby Delys, Spinelli, Maurice Chevalier, Jean Sablon, Charles Trenet and others were certainly not unknown over the channel and across the Atlantic. There are hits, such as "Parlex Moi d'Amour," by J. Lenoir and sung by Lucienne Boyer, but despite this, since music developed into "show-biz" in the widest sense, France has not made the right sort of international impression.

A glance at the local chart shows names such as Michel Sardou, Gerard Lenorman, Sheila—all often in the top 5 and famed names in France—but barely known to the average fan in non-French territories. At the same time a number of imported hits share the top places . . . "Money Money Money," "Daddy Cool," "Happy Days" are recent examples.

Gifted Musicians

Recently the weekly paper Le Point selected 10 newcomers likely to break through and put French pop into some kind of perspective. Included was William Sheller, Philips artist, aged 30 and son of a musician. He has already appeared on the chart and as a gifted musician and writer is emphasizing the new line in French pop.

Then there is Nicolas Peyrac, who records for Pathe Marconi and who studied medicine before turning to music. He is a writer of sentimental songs and has appeared on the chart.

The others are less known though Marie Paul Belle, who records for Polydor, won the French Song prize of the Academie du Disque this year. She made a name through a witty and cynical parody of Offenbach's "Parisienne."

In fact, it is the biting kind of lyrics that will help this new wave of French pop to establish itself. But whether it will be enough to carry the talent across international areas remains to be seen. Certainly all sectors of the industry admit that language is a serious problem. If a French song is recorded in the vernacular then it can hardly expect high sales in countries where French is a school subject and not actually spoken.

If adapted there is no doubt that much of the quality is lost. The essence has to be in the music itself and according to many publishers the changes now taking place will prove that the French can write songs to which the public generally will want to listen.

The future, then, depends on musicianship and talent.

At any rate the search for talent continues. Eddie Barclay has an experienced eye on a 10-year-old named Dominique Le Gal, from Avignon. Reportedly the lad started singing Johnny Hallyday's songs when he was just four years old and a year later won a Radio Monte Carlo competition. He could prove a genuine new international find for France.

In addition to talent, though, there is a constant search for musical style. Currently if it is not nostalgia then it is folk, but whatever emerges it has to be real music.

Jazz Reissues Become Growing Industry

Two men who have proved that jazz repertoire, intelligently presented, properly annotated and sensibly marketed, can be a source of substantial profits, are Jean-Paul Guiter of RCA and Henri Renaud of CBS.

These two dedicated enthusiasts have made jazz reissues something of a growth industry in France having obtained free access to the sumptuously rich resources of the RCA and Columbia archives.

RCA's Black & White series, master-minded by Guiter, is unquestionably the most successful repackaging job ever undertaken in the history of recorded music. There have been a total of 175 releases since the series was launched in France in 1969 and world-wide sales are now well in excess of 1.5 million. The series includes 31 Fats Waller albums (which have sold more than 220,000) and 20 Duke Ellington LPs. The Ellington series will probably reach a total of 28 volumes, including a solo piano album recorded privately on professional equipment at Lyons in 1966.

Now Guiter has resurrected the Bluebird label and has released 11 albums by noted blues singers such as Memphis Slim, Sonny Boy Williamson, Big Maceo and Big Bill Broonzy.

A third series, Masters, covers more recently recorded jazz repertoire and the 26 albums so far released include two LPs containing the complete Canadian recordings of Oscar Peterson in chronological order, six albums by Gato Barbieri and recordings by Art Blakey, Bud Powell, Gary Burton, Paul Desmond & Gerry Mulligan, Duke Ellington, Lionel Hampton, Gil Evans, Shorty Rogers, Charlie Mingus and Earl Hines.

Ellington Recordings

Complementing the abundant RCA Ellington repertoire is that of the Columbia archives which has been devotedly repackaged at CBS France by Henri Renaud in association with Charles Clavier. Renaud recently released Volume 10 in the double album series which now covers all the Ellington recordings for Columbia up to 1938.

"Ultimately," says Renaud, "we shall issue all the 78 r.p.m. recordings up to 1950 and by then we shall probably have issued something like 30 double albums."

The Columbia reissues achieve remarkable sales figures in France by normal jazz standards. A Charlie Christian LP has sold 10,000, an Armstrong/Bechet album 11,000 and an Art Tatum release 8,000. Jazz anthology compilations can sell in excess of 15,000.

Inspired by the enthusiasm for the reissue program of CBS France president Jacques Souplet and director general Jean Queinnec, Renaud has achieved impressive results with the jazz reissues, not least of all in the export field.

Stations And Labels Continue War Over Payment

On the surface there is continuing war between France's major record companies and the radio stations—there are six main pop music on-air outlets—over the payment of neighboring rights.

The commercial stations, Europe No. 1, Radio Luxembourg (France), Radio Monte Carlo and Sud Radio (Andorra) have never paid a cent to record companies despite the long needletime hours. Radio Luxembourg, as an example, admits that 60 records are played between 6:30 p.m. and midnight each day.

But at the same time, the state-owned radio-tv network ORTF, until its dissolution into four corporations, also state-owned, at the end of 1975 paid out $3 million in one year on neighboring rights.

The fact that the ex-ORTF, as it is now colloquially known, ceased paying these rights at the end of 1975 led it and the record companies, under the banner of the SNEPA trade association, into a long legal battle which has yet to reach the courts. A decision could take up to two years and an appeal would be virtually a certainty, so the resumption of payments is now a long way off indeed.

Not that the commercial stations have any intention of paying anything anyway. They argue that without the radio no artist, unless extremely well-established, could score major sales on a new release. Some stations have detailed statistics to prove the point. So, the radio outlets consider, they are doing a service to the artist and his record company.

On the other hand the companies, officially at least, say that without records, the radios would have very thin programming and should therefore pay needle time just like any other radio performer.

The companies note that if the stations are virtually doing a commercial spot for a record, the label should be cited, which is rarely the case. By way of reply, the radio stations say that the public buys an artist or a song, not a company label.

The problem stems from the refusal of France and Luxembourg to sign the Rome International Convention of 1961. France is big on looking after its own interests: it has already pulled out of the military wing of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and failed to sign a number of other international treaties, particularly in the nuclear weapons and testing sectors.

But here there are considerable anomalies. Europe No. 1 station is based in the Saar, West Germany, and apparently escaped subscribing to the Rome Treaty as a result of post-war uncertainty over the Saar. Nevertheless the commercial stations, and Luxembourg and Europe No. 1 are at the top of the French listening charts, ahead of the state-owned France Inter, and are watching the results of the ex-ORTF versus SNEPA legal battle closely.

Neighboring Rights

Many industry observers believe that if SNEPA wins, the commercial stations will be forced to contribute neighboring rights. All broadcasting networks incidentally pay performing and mechanical rights in France.

But Roger Kreicher, director of variety for Radio Luxembourg (France) is uncompromising. He affirms that if the commercial stations were obliged under law to start paying neighboring rights, his station would consider two possibilities. One is to change to a spoken-word only formula, which exists in the U.S. but is unknown in Europe; and the other is to turn out "self-produced music" which is common on Britain's BBC networks but again virtually non-existent in France where virtually all music material is on record.

While the record producers are adopting a joint stand under SNEPA, it is known that at least one of the association's members has accepted the radio stations' line that needletime is the greatest promotion possible for a record. One industry specialist also says that whatever the record producers said in public, notably within SNEPA, many are likely to turn around and negotiate a private deal with the commercial stations.

Commercial TV

Roger Kreicher says that at Luxembourg turnover was 31% up over 1975, from $43 million to $56 million. Yet despite the popularity of commercial radio throughout the country, and the government has a stake in the holding company grouping all the stations, there is no prospect in sight of commercial television being authorized.

The present government, though carrying out inquiries, has intimated that it will not let go of its hold on television broadcasting and this covers program content and advertising revenue. The Leftist Alliance of Socialists and Communists, which has a strong chance of winning next year's legislative elections for the first time since the war, has in its manifesto, though stressing freedom of expression, not gone so far as to support commercial television.

The two biggest commercial radio stations operating in France, RTL and Europe No. 1, are nevertheless both ready to go on the air if such an authorization comes through.

RTL's French service, Kreicher says, would consider using a satellite to transmit its tv service, while Europe No. 1 has worked in closely with Radio Monte Carlo's small tv service in the south.

Rich Diversity Of Material And Marketing

French Companies

Francois Minchin, pictured above, president of Pathe Marconi EMI and president of the council of the IFPI (International Federation of Producers of Phonograms and Videograms) will receive the French Prime Minister Raymond Barre at the UNESCO headquarters in Paris on April 18 on the occasion of the international conference of IFPI to celebrate the centenary of the phonograph record.

French labels are proving they can crack markets around the world. Though certain industry-wide problems receive a lot of attention, the value added tax, the war between radio and record companies, individually the companies are achieving important breakthroughs.

The diversity includes such aspects as Scorpio operating from the U.S., where it's scored with disco hits. Sonodisc aims at the Middle East, Lebanon, Japan. Robin Song specializes in English language material. RCA's catalog is on computer. Pelgrims has opened a second pressing facility.

There is growth at every turn as the following report reveals.

Platinum 'Forever And Ever'

ATV Music in London now owns 50% of Allo Music of France and part of its affiliate Leros Music, which handles the Demis Roussos output. Max Amphoux, Allo president, says: "We have a platinum disk for more than $1.8 million sales of 'Forever And Ever' and in the U.K. the last four Roussos albums have achieved one platinum, one gold and two silver."

The ATV link involves a collection deal for Allo in the U.K. but the British company is not obliged to place songs. However, Allo gets all the ATV catalog.

Two recent big hits for Allo were through CBS and Annie Cordy and Dave. Others have come from Shuki and Aviva, Noam, Deke Rivers, Lee Hazlewood and Albert Hammond ("Mama N'Aime Pas La Musique"), "Seasons Of The Sun," by Terry Jacks, from the Jacques Brel song "Le Moribund," has been awarded a BMI plaque for one million broadcasts worldwide.

Amphoux estimates his company has won "17 or 18 gold disks" in the past two years.

Standards Build Publishing

Founded by Eddie Barclay 12 years ago, the Nouvelle Societe des Editions Eddie Barclay has in that time achieved a leading position among the more progressive publishing houses in France.

It has built its reputation on solid standards like "Comme D'Habitude" ("My Way"), "Laisse Moi Le Temps" ("Let Me Try Again"), "Non C'Est Rien" ("Free Again") and "On Ne Dit Jamais La Verite" ("Think Of Me Wherever You Are").

It was the Barclay company which published the early hits of Michel Sardou ("Les Bals Populaires," "Et Mourir De Plaisir"), Michel Fugain ("Je N'Aurai Pas Le Temps"—which became a hit in the U.K. for John Rowles as "If I Only Had Time") and Herve Vilard ("Capri C'Est Fini"). The company also sub-published some of the first hits by the Rubettes.

Some of the Barclay successes of 1976 were Afric Simone (with "Ramaya" among others), Pierre Pechin ("Le Cigale Et La Forme") and Two Man Sound ("Charlie Brown").

Provençal Songs

Among the young songwriters working regularly for the company are Pascal Auriat, who wrote "18 Ans" for Dalida; Andre Assayah; Henri Bratter and Alain Lacaux; Herve Cristiani; Michel Jouvaux; Claude Carmone; Bernard Lavilliers; Ian Loseth and Guy Bonnet, whose "Moun Mijou" threatens to start a vogue for Provençal songs comparable to that of the recent boom in Breton songs.

Editions Barclay administers such important catalogs as Piano Blanc (Veronique Sanson), Gwenaelle (Daniel Guichard), Colline (Michel Berger, France Gall, Mireille) and Plein Ciel. Foreign catalogs represented include Ricordi (Drupi), Dawnbreaker (Seals & Croft), Emp (Jimmy Webb) and Alaska (Flying Saucers).

Says general manager Patrick Villaret: "This year we are expecting great things from young talents like singer/songwriter Alain Berceville, Herve Cristiani, Bernard Lavilliers and a young Canadian, Gilles Valiquette, who is already well-known in his own country."

From Paris With Hits

One burning ambition for Alain Boubil, managing director of Baboo, a publishing house with its own Melba label for Abba, is to produce international hits in Paris. His view: "If the Germans and Swedes can make it worldwide, there's no reason why the French cannot, particularly since we have such good musicians and studios."

First Abba disk released by Boubil was "Fernando," which went to No. 1 and sold 850,000. He has the Swedish group for France and Belgium and points proudly to the fact all Abba singles have been No. 1 during the past two years.

He also has Claude Michel Schonberg, singer-songwriter and a record by La Bande a Basile, a medley of kids' songs in disco style called "Les Chansons Francaises." Boubil is taking outside masters to build up the Melba catalog, which is distributed by Vogue. He took "I Do I Do I Do" from Meisel in Germany by the group Safety First and "To Love Somebody," a disco item by Claudia Fields, and looks for more product to pick up in Germany.

Baboo is also subpublisher of Abba material. Boubil points to sales of 500,000 on "Money Money Money," to more than with new and recent box-sets offered at reduced prices. Says Killeen: "As radio promotion is still so limited compared to other markets, we have to find new ways of exposing acts to the public. For instance in May we'll test two markets in France utilizing telephone-bill envelopes which will be printed with a plug for current CBS hit singles. We're also testing a device for large supermarket accounts. It looks like a round television set and plays a continuous loop film of an artist's performance. It is surrounded with product by the artist and others in a similar musical field."

"Also important is the recording in English of Dave, a superstar in France but we feel with strong international appeal. This goes first in the U.K. and the next logical step is to attack the U.S. market."

1,500 Songs In Catalog

Continued expansion, with special emphasis on finding a big French artist, is looked for by Carabine Music, the recording and publishing organization. Company growth was stressed at MIDEM '77, a positive meeting place for Carabine when several major U.S. deals were clinched.

The Carabine label goes through Discodis and a new label Mustang, is distributed through Polydor with U.S. product included in the Mustang deal. Chief executive Charlie Ibgui says there are 160 Carabine albums and 30 double albums released by Discodis in addition to some singles. Early recordings of the Ritchie Family are on Carabine.

Two U.S. singles picked up at MIDEM were "Body English" by King Floyd and "No No No My Friend" by Devoshun. Says Ibgui: "I need good contacts in the U.K. and U.S. where we're on the lookout for product by new young producers. When I take a U.S. song I try to promote it through the world."

"We've some 1,500 songs in the catalog, including 'Welcome Home,' a French song which had an English version hit for Peters and Lee. And 'Caring' by American Emmett Sutton has gone well in France, Belgium and Italy."

Carabine sells many albums abroad, notably Belgium, Switzerland and Germany, and exports product to Japan, Australia and Canada. The range is wide, covering folk, disco, pop and instrumental. The company's budget line, Dynamic, goes through Sonodisc so that it can compete with major companies budget lines.

140,000 on the gold album "Arrival" and 130,000-plus for the double-LP of Abba hits. Through U.K. company Chinnichap he got "Don't Play Your Rock And Roll To Me," which Johnny Hallyday covered in France and sold 700,000.

Also represented by Baboo: RAK, Bit 7 Music (through Caradam) and Alain Chamfort, a singer in the Dave tradition, with his ACO Music Publishing which Boubil administers. The company also has two songs with Dave on his big-selling CBS album.

Boubil says: "We'll put out 12 singles and four albums a year and we have the necessary promotional and marketing services at the international level."

An album "La Revolution Française," a two-record set originally released in 1973, continues to sell with 4,000 sales from last Christmas and a total of more than 200,000 to date. This is one of the company's biggest sellers and Boubil is looking for U.S. and German productions of the set. A new musical is in preparation for 1980.

Petula Clark, Adamo Signed

CBS Disques recently signed two world names in Petula Clark and Adamo, both with new albums and Paris concerts scheduled. Another name, Alain Chamfort, has been enlisted and the success of his first CBS product is a strong indication of future promise.

Dennis Killeen, marketing director, says CBS has also launched the careers of two young singer-writers: Michel Gilberti, whose first album was on all the French charts and Anne-Marie Godart, who guests with Dave at the Olympia this month.

The company is involved in an ongoing program of dealer education and in May, with CBS Sony, takes a group of French retailers to Japan to see latest trends in this vast market. This follows a similar trek to the West Coast in America.

A major campaign for cassettes is under way featuring French artists, international acts and classical product. Killeen believes the cassette market is becoming important enough to warrant major marketing activity. It includes a four-color consumer catalog free for record stores and a second-phase drive is planned for June when, traditionally, in-car use of cassettes is at its greatest.

Other marketing schemes are set in June on behalf of hard rock and progressive rock. As with the 1976 program, this involves the issue of two mid-price sampler albums and cassettes with a wide range of artists. There will also be a major catalog push with stickered LPs in both categories.

For CBS, a discotheque campaign is traditionally part of summer. This year there is to be a special disk, with a contest involving disk jockeys, disco owners and substantial prizes. For the fall, it is a "back-to-school" campaign featuring pop, catalog and new major releases, with the emphasis on heavy in-store merchandising. This is followed by a campaign for Christmas, preceded by a major classical push

$400,000 Guarantee Impossible

One of the major success stories in the French music industry, particularly during the last five years, has been that of Disques Carrere. Claude Carrere, who began producing records as an independent 14 years ago, has carved a special niche for himself as a producer of hit singles meticulously tailored for the tastes of the teenage French record buyer.

He formed Disques Carrere ten years ago and for the last four has had his own distribution. From virtually a one-man operation in 1962, the Carrere company now has 40 people involved in production and 80—including 20 sales representatives—concerned with distribution. The company also has its own distribution in Belgium and Switzerland.

A major landmark in the company's growth last year was the acquisition of the ABC catalog for France. Says Carrere: "We were able to negotiate a mutually satisfactory deal because ABC asked for a guarantee which was substantial but not ludicrously inflated. There are some U.S. companies which ask for such guarantees as $400,000 a year for five years. It is impossible to work on that basis."

McCoo's "Star"

In the nine months that Carrere has represented ABC in France, the company has created a successful Golden Hits series of reissues from back catalog, has made a good impression on the jazz market with the Impulse line and has broken Marilyn McCoo in France, selling 100,000 copies of "You Don't Have To Be A Star" in the first three weeks of release.

"The results have been so good that more and more U.S. companies are approaching me to represent them in France," says Carrere. "But I am not prepared to pay wildly exaggerated guarantees, particularly now that there are more and more producers of international hit material emerging from Holland, Germany and Italy."

One of the major French stars in the Carrere firmament is Sheila whose "L'Amour Qui Brule En Moi" was a recent hit. Veteran French artist Sacha Distel has had one of the biggest successes of his career with "Le Pere De Sylvia" and "Des Nuits Entieres" has proved a major hit for Al Bano and Romina Power. Carrere has also notched a No. 1 with the Hansa-produced single, "Daddy Cool" by Boney M.

Disques Carrere today has a turnover of $14 million.

"My objective," says Carrere, "is to maintain production of good French product—we always have three or four singles in the top 10—to generate greater sales of my album catalog and to increase the production of records with international potential."

Brazil, U.S., Japan Deals

With an annual turnover of $13 million, Disc'AZ has roughly 30% international product. The company represents 20th Century-Fox, works with Victor in Japan and Continental in Brazil.

Paul de Senneville, president, says trumpeter Jean Claude Borelly has built a vast following with his disco-instrumental sound, particularly in Germany, and has released an album of classical themes. His "Dolannes Melodie," originally written by de Senneville and Olivier Toussaint for a Jean-Pierre Mocky film, sold more than two million, taking off first in Belgium, then Germany and later picked up in Italy, South America and Spain.

Disc'AZ also has Michele Torr, who has appeared in many galas and represented Monte Carlo in the Eurovision Song Contest with "Une Petite Francaise," by de Senneville, Toussaint and Jean Albertini.

Through 20th Century, Barry White and Love Unlimited are big in France and Tony Joe White's "Suzy Q" single was a good seller. Salsoul, says de Senneville, is beginning to show results. As Disc'AZ looks to "internationalize" itself, other names marked with success include Double Exposure, Carol Williams, C. Jerome (popular with teenagers), the catalog of Jacques Bedos, Mouloudji and Yves Dautin.

The affiliate Discodis is the distribution company and has old Glenn Miller and Xavier Cugat product, plus good quality material through the Victor Japan link.

Other successes include the Ibach catalog, consistent sales for Michel Raitner and the acquisition of the Charles Talar catalog. Talar is producer of the Stone and Charden duo and has also launched Francois Valery. Disc'AZ has also signed the group Anarchic System and pianist Richard Clayderman.

Though the company is more than 50% owned by Radio Europe 1, the station gives it no unfair advantage in terms of airplay.

Sees 25% Expansion

Dreyfus Musique, Labrador and Disque Motors is a French music industry complex looking for and expecting a 25% expansion in 1977. Dreyfus and Labrador publishers have a contractual link with Fuse Music in London.

Dreyfus places strong hope in a young and exceptional composer/writer Jean Michel Jarre whose first album "Oxygen" came out in December and has already sold 70,000 in France. Jarre writes for modern electronic instruments. He also writes for such artists as Patrik Givet, a Barclay artist, Françoise Hardy and Christophe and is working on a full-length stage show.

Behind Jarre and other artists represented by the French group is a plan to set up worldwide sales. France and French-speaking countries will form one group, the U.S. and Canada another and a third will take the rest of the world.

Being heavily promoted by Dreyfus is U.S. performer Al Jarreau, confidently expected to penetrate the French market.

Stanislas Witold, Dreyfus director, says: "In a sense we're putting most of our bets on Jean Michel Jarre. He is quite exceptional and we're sure that by 1980 he will be recognized worldwide. But Christophe is also selling well with his single ('Daisy'). In all, Dreyfus is in an optimistic mood about 1977—and the next decade as well."

The Radio Hang-Up

For Intersong director Jean-Jacques Tilche, a major music publishing obstacle in France is that of having too few options for radio promotion. The stations claim not to play more than 20% foreign music and Intersong material is roughly 50-50 in terms national and international catalog.

He says Intersong is getting covers in other countries as music becomes more international and "more similar in the sense of producing disks in English and in the same style." The French flavor, he feels, is being lost.

Tilche points out that continental European groups like Abba and Silver Convention follow the U.S.-U.K. pattern and that the answer just has to be "if you can't beat them, join them." The only groups "doing their own thing" in France are Magma and Ange. Tilche stresses that the French publisher has emphasized songs with melody—"melody must come first if you want to export."

At this year's MIDEM, Intersong signed Burlington/Palace, Big Secret and Rocket Music and also has Carlin for France. He says that the industry feeling generally is that there is a shortage of good French copyrights.

Bernstein Deal Set

The distinguished American conductor Leonard Bernstein has signed a contract with EMI to make three recordings of works by Berlioz and Darius Milhaud with the Orchestre National de Paris. Conductor Michel Plasson has recorded works by Chausson and Offenbach. The complete version of Offenbach's "La Vie Parisienne" features Regine Crespin, Mady Mesple and Jean-Christophe Benoit. Plasson's recording of Chausson's "Symphonie" received a Grand Prix from the Academie Charles Cros.

Following his tour of the U.S. in 1977, Aldo Ciccolini returns this year for a series of concerts and recitals under the title "In The Steps of Ravel." Two somewhat forgotten French operas "Zemire Et Azor," by Gretry and "Manon Lescaut" by Auber have been recorded by Pathe-Marconi. And for the first time a classical recording has received the triple honor of an Academie Charles Cros, an Academie du Disque and a Montreux award—it is the cello concerto "Tout Un Monde Lointain," by Henri Dutilleul, played by Rostropovitch with the Orchestre de Paris conducted by Serge Baudo.

For Diana Ross 1976 was the breakthrough year in France with her Tamla recording of "Love Hangover" and the success of her movie "Mahogany." Also successful on Motown has been Stevie Wonder, whose double album went gold. 1977 looks like Thelma Houston's year. Pink Floyd, whose new album "Animals" was premiered at MIDEM in January, has sold enough albums in France to qualify for two gold disks. There was big success too, for Kraftwerk (with the album "Trans-Europe Express") and Elton John ("Blue Moves").

As far as national product is concerned, the big names for Pathe Marconi currently are Julien Clerc, Nicolas Peyrac, Tino and Laurent Rossi and Charles Dumond. Also making a big impact are Jacques Higelin, Julien Clerc's group Beau Domage, Eve Brenner and Elisabeth Jerome. The group Il Etait Une Fois enjoyed great success at the Olympia in Paris in February. Pathe began 1977 by signing two major French acts—Pierre Grocolas and Francoise Hardy. On the occasion of the 20th anniversary of the death of Sacha Guitry, Pathe-Marconi produced a box set of three LPs containing all the recordings he made between 1921 and 1956.

On the tape front, 1976 saw technical improvements at Pathe-Marconi due to the use of Dolby and of FE 203 Emitape.

On the publishing front, EMI's two affiliated autonomous companies E.P.M.P.M. and Francis Day had their best year ever with hits by Peter Frampton, Tangerine Dream and covers by Claude Francois, Johnny Hallyday, Sylvie Vartan, Mireille Mathieu and others. Success, too, for Pathe-Marconi/Eco Music, the company EMI shares with Nicolas Peyrac whose "Et Mon Pere" sold more than half a million copies.

Pressing Plant Growth

The Pelgrims de Bigard industry group revolves around two activities: Sofrason, for 30 years distributor of Decca in France, and the pressing plant Areacem, which has a production capacity of 180,000 a day. Production was 35 million in 1976 and a total 38 million is projected for this year.

The present capacity was reached through a second factory opened and is split 50-50 between singles and albums. It presses for Carrere and other great singles specialists. Says de Bigard: "When Carrere launches a record with 300,000 units, he has them in three days. We've done 60,000 a day for one title and that explains why the big independents are with us. We press for all labels except EMI, Vogue and Philips. Sometimes an order is spread through our other factories in Belgium and Holland."

Summer concentration is on classical product. There is a printing plant to handle sleeve production. Including Sofrason and the studio, the de Bigard group employs more than 800.

Areacem produces the largest share of the company's total turnover but there was a 17% increase in Sofrason last year and it is particularly strong in the classics. One aim is to add strength to the French pop side; de Bigard says: "We've been a kind of extension of Decca, U.K., but we want more to start our own identity. One spectacular operation last year was launching 40 classical disks with a budget of around $40,000."

The company has sold 10,000 boxes, or 400,000 records, of a wide range of classical music from Bach to Ravel in this line, a basic classical library for non-experts needing guidance in music. Each box costs 1,260 French francs.

Another operation was a set of five Rolling Stone albums, plus a T-shirt, and sales topped the 40,000 mark. The company recently acquired the Pierre Perret repertoire.

Now the target is to go international, with Robert Oeges a Paris-based deputy to de Bigard handling this side. His role is to coordinate all services under the International Pelgrims Group. The company already has Fabel Sound in Greece and activity in Africa, with a factory and a studio in Zaire and with affiliates in Kenya and South Africa. A million disks a year come from the Kinshasha operation and it has become the cradle of African music.

Another international success is the recording of Julio Iglesias, who sells well in Canada, Belgium and Switzerland as well as France.

110,000 LPs In 15 Days

Plein Soleil publishes for French singer Serge Lama, whose last album sold 110,000 in just 15 days. His popularity was emphasized via a six-week sell-out season at the Palais des Congres, attracting 4,000 fans nightly.

The publishing house, founded five years ago by Bernard Ricci and whose partner now is Harry Auerhaan, started with the Lama catalog and now has around 200 songs. Half of Lama's songs were written by Ricci's wife, Alica Dona, who has had her debut album released with another coming soon. She has also written for Dalida, Claude Francois, Sheila and Gerard Lenorman and penned the melody for "Qu'attends Tu De Moi?" a new single for Mireille Mathieu with lyrics by Sylvain Lebel.

Abroad Plein Soleil is pushing its catalog, an early entry being "She's A Star" by Alica Dona and Lama. It was originally called "La Chanteuse A Vingt Ans" and Shirley MacLaine recorded the English version. "Je Suis Malade," by the Dona-Lama team had many covers, including Ornella Vanoni (170,000 LPs sold), Conny Van Bos (150,000) and Spanish artist Marie Trini.

Says Auerhaan: "We also have special children's productions by Bernard Golay and Sophie Darel, who do television and radio shows for kids."

"Basically we want to keep the number of songs down so we can give maximum effort to each. We are setting up a com-

Every year Plein Soleil hosts a dinner for all French accordionists to introduce new material with Serge Lama and to thank them for the vital aid they provide in getting songs known through dances and musettes.

The company is also into the jingles side of radio with initial clients including Stella Artois lager and Coca-Cola.

Catalog On Computer

Bob Socquet, RCA France sales director, reports a business upturn of 40% in 1976, compared with the previous year, and envisions around 43% increase this year. Local artists include Sylvie Vartan, Robert Charlebois, Yves Simon (who won a gold disk for his second album) and "Alain Souchon really exploded in 1976."

RCA maintains the Erato catalog and RCA classics are going well. Last year RCA gained the distribution of Michel Fugain and Guy Beart and the Trema catalog of Michel Sardou. International success came through Kudu artist Esther Phillips.

Says Socquet: "Everything is well with the company. We have a new warehouse and the catalog is on computer. We've been here six years and with Sardou we have some 8% of the market. Turnover in 1976 was around $21 million. We are putting the accent on local production. A tough one at the international level has been John Denver, but we're making a big effort on his behalf in France. The others, Elvis Presley, Tony Orlando and so on sell well. We try to follow U.S. and U.K. success. Waylon Jennings is spearheading a big campaign for country music and the CTI product does well."

Transit Express, the band which accompanies Yves Simon on stage, is being released in the U.S. and Souchon and Simon are being produced in English and Italian. Also involved in RCA planning is the Saravah catalog of Pierre Barouh and Juliet Greco.

Socquet talks of big album sales but a drop of some 40% in singles. Cassettes, 10-15% of album sales just two years ago, are up to 25%. In unit terms, 65% of sales are from singles, the rest albums and cassettes. There are albums in budget lines which are only a shade more expensive than a top price single.

The Presley double album sold 120,000 units in France, though it could only be advertised by K-tel on TV Monte Carlo. Socquet says: "Had we been able to network the promotion through France, the result would have been much different because a good third of all record sales are in the Paris region."

English Language Songs

When Robin Song Music started in business two years ago, chief executive Jack Robinson aimed at going for English language songs and becoming number one in that field in France. He thinks it has paid off handsomely and now his aim is to become established in the U.S.

Robin Song is owned 25% by ATV, 25% by Allo Music and 50% by itself. Robinson says the company has "rediscovered" David Christie, who also works as James Bolden but is in fact Jacques Pepino from Lyons. He writes the music and Robinson, former wire-service man, the lyrics. Christie, he says, is French by birth but American "in spirit" and uses the James Bolden name for performing purposes.

"He has a complete 8-track studio and we probably make the world's best demo disks, which is half the battle, spending up to $2,000 on one. We're really opening the floodgates on Christie songs this year and as Bolden he is recording in French for Polydor."

Robin Songs worked with Biddu in the U.K. Says Robinson: "France has been one of the least interesting of our territories. Now we're offering songs to local artists. For a while we were discouraged at having to pay to get on television and artists, even minor ones, were insisting on co-publishing deals."

Robin Song plans to sign with Ralph Siegel in Germany for the world, recording in Munich with a base in France. The ultimate idea is to get someone in to run the publishing side in France, but work out of London.

Ray Knehnetsky, a new U.S. composer and arranger, has been signed and among his recent string of hits have been: "Do It Yourself" (Gloria Gaynor); "I Love To Love" (Tina Charles, James Last and some 65 other artists); "Do The Funky Conga" (Jimmy James); "Midnight" (Morris Albert); and several others recorded by Tina Charles.

And coming up is a deluxe demo album of almost all-new Christie copyrights to introduce him in his singing guise of James Bolden.

Maintains U.S. Office

French independent Scorpio is perhaps the first French record company to operate from the U.S. and it has gained tremendous international success notably through its production of the Ritchie Family.

Henri Belolo, director, says the group's "Brazil" was top five on the U.S. pop charts and a disco No. 1 in 1975. Then last year "Best Disco In Town" was another U.S. disco topper, in the pop top 15, an international No. 1 in six countries and it went top five in 12.

Belolo runs Can't Stop Productions from New York where there is both apartment and office. "But we keep an office in France for our original publishing, spending some three months a year there because my partner, Jacques Morelli, is a SACEM member."

Scorpio manages artists and puts them out on tour. Says Belolo: "There's no question of the American market adopting a chauvinistic attitude towards us. If you can produce the goods, they'll buy. We felt we should join the American scene, not try to fight it. We didn't want to produce in France because French or Belgian artists singing in English are naturally rejected in the U.S."

"The Ritchie Family was a studio group of background singers, and Richard Rome was the arranger. The group name came about because the three girls from Philadelphia were, in a sense, his musical 'family'."

Now Scorpio has signed Bruce Gray, who has written for acts like Eddie Kendricks and the group Trammps, on a singer-songwriter deal and his first album is called "Dynamite." Also signed is a Philly group Pharaohs, which is along Brass Construction lines.

Says Belolo: "We'll go on expanding. People are coming to us now, because of our success—even big names. For instance Tony Orlando approached us to produce him. We're with Polydor in the U.K. We go for the best company in each individual territory."

Jacques Morelli is the artistic director, and coproduces and arranges with Richard Rome. Belolo is responsible for the business side of the company.

Music For Africa

Founded in 1970, Sonodisc specializes in music from the Antilles, the Middle East and Lebanon. It produces records for African countries along with French and international pop music and has a catalog of 1,200 recordings, releasing around 10 a month.

Sonodisc distributes Dynamic for Carabine and increasingly deals in albums as the company feels the 45 is declining. It is a particularly strong exporting company, some product going to the U.S. but most to French-speaking African territories. The Japanese are keenly interested in Michel Sardou, a fine jazz pianist from Martinique.

Om Kalsom is one of the biggest sellers in the Middle East and another major artist is Farid el Attrach. Miriam Makeba is making her own records in Guinea. Sonodisc also has a Jimi Hendrix record from PPX International License. Some 40% of the company product is exported and the biggest single catalog is from the Antilles. The group Exile One sold 60,000 albums in France without the benefit of radio promotion.

Sonodisc catalog sales for 1976 were up 44% over the previous year.

Individual Composers Click

It is a very busy 1977 for the grouping of the Trema record company and the publishing house Art Musique. The enterprise started by publishing the songs of Michel Sardou, producing his records six months later.

Then came success with singer-writer Groscolas, and most of his songs have been covered internationally, and by big names. Groscolas has his own co-publishing deal with Rideau Rouge. The company's world links are wide and foreign songs figure high in the planning. "Gabrielle," written as "The King Is Dead" by British writer Tony Cole, has been a No. 1 by Johnny Hallyday and "Danse La, Chante La" topped the chart by Sylvie Vartan.

The company prefers to work with individual foreign composers rather than take entire catalogs, and Regis Talar (co-president with Jacques Revaux) says: "We prefer creative subpublishing rather than just becoming a collection agency."

"Hamlet," the Johnny Hallyday album written by Groscolas and Gilles Thibault, was produced by Revaux. Then a record company was added. Talar was artistic director to Sardou, who left Barclay and did some recordings. Because of money problems the Trema company was created, but initially nobody wanted the Sardou product. Philips was eventually interested and a three-year deal was signed. The first release sold 35,000, which paid for the second.

Then "Les Bals Populaires" sold 700,000 copies. Now 500,000 is standard sales on each record. Other artists produced include Groscolas, from a Toulouse group, and he provided the first release on Trema logo. There is Marcel Amont and in 1975 all records were grouped with Sonopresse, including Richard Anthony, Drupi and Herve Vilard.

Now the aim is the international market. Trema is out on its own logo in Canada and Belgium. Since January, all Trema product went on distribution in France by RCA. And since September 1976, the group has an interest in Everblue Music in the U.K., for publishing and production, a company run by Alex Everitt, former professional manager of Leeds Music.

Company theory is that it is best to produce English groups in England. On a unit basis, around five million units are sold in France, or some 40 disks, LPs and singles, each year. The company runs Studio 92 with Charles Talar, with two studios in the same building and a third planned. Big name stars have recorded there, including Johnny Hallyday, Sylvie Vartan, Michel Sardou, Enrico Macias, Serge Gainsbourg, Lama and Stone and Charden.

Jacques Revaux was in the EMI Abbey Road Studios in London earlier this year recording some of Sardou's hits in symphonic arrangements. The first in this line was last year when Sardou recorded "La Marseillaise" at Strasbourg before 130,000 persons with a symphony orchestra. His second one is with the London Symphony and a 250-strong choir and is called "The Symphonic World Of Jacques Revaux and Michel Sardou."

Promo Man Per Catalog

A step-up in promotion intensity is a vital part of WEA activity in France. Now there is one promotion man for each major catalog, which includes Warner/Reprise, Atlantic, Elektra and so on. Sales successes have been many, including 150,000-plus of the Beach Boys' "Rock And Roll Music," and 180,000-plus of the Manhattan Transfer album "Chanson d'Amour."

According to Bernard de Bosson, managing director, a big surprise was the success of the "Barry Lyndon" soundtrack, which produced sales of 180,000 on albums and 130,000 on singles. The only single which has taken off in France recently has been Boney M.'s "Daddy Cool."

But Veronique Sanson has been a big success in France and has recently recorded an album in Los Angeles. Other WEA successes have included Ceronne's "Love In C Minor," both in single and LP format; Hugues Aufray and France Gall, the latter's first concept album, as opposed to mere collections of hits as singles, is selling more than 80,000.

As producer of Donna Summer, Giorgio Moroder has had great success. The company sold 500,000 albums in 11 months, featuring "Love Trilogy," "Love To Love You" and "Four Seasons Of Love," plus 750,000 singles, including 200,000 by Roberta Kelly. Moroder's own album "Knights In White Satin" has been big. Ariola is the biggest catalog handled by WEA, and sales have been substantial on Penny McLean and Adriano Celentano.

Turnover increase in 1976 was 23% up on 1975.

Expansion Paradox

taken into account, and this continually rises, the studio charges for a single disk now is something like $5,000 and around $50,000 for an album. That, Ades says, is apart from increases from other directions, though he admits that pressing costs have remained reasonable.

The French also face another problem. Piracy is not as yet widespread in France but the record companies are being hard hit by tape-recorders because, instead of buying a disk, the public can simply tape it. The suggestion that tape-recorders should be taxed is of no interest to the record companies. They ask instead for a 5% tax on tapes which would be divided. The government will have to ponder such a decision because the National Assembly has already voted against a tax levied on recorders.

HENRY KAHN

Tax, Import Threat

Luxembourg cover two-thirds of the territory and Radio Monte Carlo a quarter to a third. This is a major problem."

Allo Music's Max Amphoux endorses this view and asks, "How can an industry producing 150 records a month get adequate exposure of its product with so little available air-time?"

Louis Hazan, president of Phonogram, believes that the singles market will recover. "Certainly turnover growth will be hindered considerably if the decline continues, notwithstanding the growth in LP sales."

Profitability will also be affected, as Disc'AZ chief Paul de Senneville points out, because although the turnover from an LP is three times that of the single, the profit margin is only double.

Says Bernard de Bosson: "If you compared the sales of top 30 singles in the last quarter of 1976 with the figures for the last quarter of 1975, you will find that the decline in singles sales is something of the order of 52%. Fortunately WEA is primarily an LP company so the slump has not affected us too seriously. In contrast, album and cassette sales are substantially up. More and more young people are buying cassettes instead of singles. We sold 100,000 cassettes of the Donna Summer hit album "Love To Love You Baby." Cassette sales are 57% up on last year."

Says Michel Bonnet: "Last year was a major breakthrough for cassettes and it became abundantly evident that the cassette market was no longer just an in-car market. Home installations are increasing at a tremendous rate and sales of blank cassettes are approaching 25 million annually, compared with a figure of seven or eight million for prerecorded cassettes."

It is argued in some quarters that the single is in decline simply because the French, with increased buying power, are in a position to buy more albums and cassettes than before. And Bonnet points out that despite crippling added value tax on records—25% of the retail price—they have not gone up in price to the same extent as many other commodities.

"If you take the 1970 price index as 100, then the average increase in price of all commodities between 1970 and 1975 has been 54%. For records, however, it has been only 16%. The annual increase in record prices is between 3 and 5%, far below the inflation rate, which in France is between 10 and 12%."

"I have noticed that whereas three or four years ago people would buy a deluxe boxed set at 50 francs as a gift for a friend, today they consider that level of expenditure inadequate and they will readily buy a record set costing in the region of 100 francs ($20)."

Debate Over Singles

For Bernard de Bosson, director-general of WEA Filipacchi Music, there is a theory that there might be a fall in the sale of singles but a growth in album units registered.

Different means of promotion will certainly develop. In any case radio in France is tending towards a reduction in music broadcasting in favor of more talk and documentary programs. Whether this is due to the existing controversy between radio and the Disc Syndicate about royalty payments is difficult to say, but there can be no argument that alternative means of promotion will develop over the next few years.

CBS, for instance, is studying new marketing systems. Souplet says: "Records are no longer a kind of artisan occupation. We can no longer afford just to produce disks and then wait to see what happens. Further, we must learn to depend less on radio and television. Our promotion methods must be analyzed, certainly with more attention paid to jukeboxes and personal appearances of artists. Public taste will have to be studied with infinite care."

Leon Cabat, of Vogue, takes a similar view and believes that discotheques will play an important part. But he is against sales of records direct from vans following the personal appearance of an artist, as suggested in some quarters, because he believes this would not be fair to the retailer.

He is also opposed to budget lines and contends that as long as a disk sells well the fact it has been "amortized" should not necessarily mean it should be sold at a lower price. In any case, there is a theory that budget lines are not as important as some believe. Eddie Barclay, for instance, reckons they represent only 10% of his total turnover.

For Michel Bonnet of Pathe Marconi-EMI, the situation is that the state simply does not understand show business in general—and he does not believe the image is necessarily bad. He says the secret for the future lies in quality. "If quality receives the attention it should, then the state will appreciate its importance." He sees quality as a kind of education at state level which would finally lead to a reduction in the high rate of taxation.

And so there is a general unity of views about expansion. Polydor as a company may hold the view that a normal expansion rate annually is nearer 15% than 20%, but it does see cassettes taking up 30% of the market.

Francois Dacla, of RCA, is not entirely sure about expansion remaining at a high level and sees a possible slide to 12%, but adds that with the spread of hi fi equipment the public will want to buy more records and so lead into higher sales. Given that situation, prices should remain fairly stable.

Industry figures stress that it is impossible to overstate the importance of stable prices. That area takes on special significance when Eddie Barclay claims that 60% of disks are sold to the 8-21 year-old age group. This is by no means the most opulent section of the community and price for them is a vital matter. It could also mean that singles have not had their day as some believe.

While Bernard de Bosson has his theory that singles will fall as albums rise, he still agrees that singles have an important part to play. And that part is closely allied to the quality of the disk, the production and the interpretation.

For the single is, in its own way, the mother of the album. Eddie Barclay, convinced that new talent simply must be unearthed all the time, starts a launch with singles and is prepared to give an act three tries. If the product is not accepted—that is if none of the singles touches the 100,000 mark—then it is the end of the Barclay road for that particular act.

So where does the industry go from here? First, there is constant emphasis that quality must improve—a generally held opinion. Second, music tends to move in styles of fashions and new fashions must be created. There is a trend towards folk areas of music at this time. There is also a trend towards nostalgia. As long as these different "fashions" are kept alive in an interesting way, the market in France will remain flexible and bright. But whatever the style, the quality must always be good.

That is why all record companies in France keep constant lookout for the new creator-interpreter. As Francois Dacla says: "Creation is the key."

Another pointer for the next few years is that as far as pop music is concerned, youth is becoming more and more international in its outlook. Therefore the future for France as a market for imports has to be good. Certain groups are selling well even if the only French is on the label and the lyrics are all in English.

This has been found time and again in recent months. Manhattan Transfer's "Chanson d'Amour" is but one example. Donna Summer, Roberta Kelly and Penny McLean, all singing in English, have found a wide audience in France.

The record companies believe that imports, which take about 25% of the market, are harmful in so far as they take a large slice of the financial cake and spoil the chances of a French version making the grade.

As for French songs and export possibilities, this year's MIDEM showed that many of the small independent companies realize that music must be less French and more international. Further there is always the language problem. If French youth finds the English language acceptable these days, then the French language still has a hard time being accepted outside the French-speaking territories.

Eddie Barclay puts it succinctly: "The whole world speaks English."

Be that as it may, internationalization is having an affect on the French industry and if export prospects for the road through to the 1980s are not quite as bright for the industry as the home market, there are nevertheless signs of expansion abroad to savor.

CALIFORNIA CONCEPT

Fun Productions' Once a Month Plan

By ELIOT TIEGEL

LOS ANGELES—David Forest's Fun Production has set a goal of one jazz concert a month for the local area—playing initially in the 3,000-seat Santa Monica Civic Auditorium.

Bill Gerber, his 20-year-old market research director, says the concert promotion firm went into jazz—correct that to read jazz/rock—with concert capacity shows because there was an unfilled need for this kind of presentation.

"Nobody has been involved in concert capacity shows here; it's been reserved for club audiences," says the young Gerber whose father is the veteran agency executive, manager Roy Gerber, now with Motown.

"I know there are the fans, the young progressive rock listeners like myself who had no place to go after Emerson, Lake & Palmer but to Return to Forever and John Klemmer."

Fun Productions, which maintains an aggressive schedule of rock concerts here and in other Western cities, has thus far presented at the Santa Monica Civic Chuck Mangione, Stanley Clarke, Gil Scott-Heron, John Klemmer-Herbie Hancock, John Handy-Stanley Turrentine and George Benson (at the Music Center). Upcoming: Jean Luc-Ponty Saturday (16), Gato Barbieri and Lenny White May 22 and Roy Ayers Ubiquity and Lonnie Liston Smith and his Cosmic Echoes June 11.

Citing his own awareness of jazz from his father's record collection, Gerber emphasizes that the jazz buffs his firm ties itself to are those young people who are into crossover music, not the Dizzy Gillespie, Zoot Sims, Count Basie area of evergreen music.

Gerber claims KBCA, this city's leading jazz outlet, is moving toward playing more jazz/rock and that this area is developing into a good market for crossover jazz. Gerber predicts that the Hollywood Bowl will "one day" present Chick Corea as a "sellout artist."

Gerber says he "researches" all potential jazz concerts, using his own tastes, contacts with contemporaries his age, radio station program directors, distributors and contacts at labels. "I get into talking to the people who watch the jazz scene," he explains.

While L.A. is a good jazz crossover concert town, the same doesn't hold true for other cities in which the company presents rock like Fresno or Albuquerque, Gerber points out.

"You wouldn't be caught dead trying to bring Weather Report to Albuquerque," Gerber says, adding that San Diego, Tucson and Sacramento are cities where jazz can be presented concert-style because of colleges in the area.

San Diego will be the next city to open for jazz concerts after L.A., Gerber believes. There's a good civic facility downtown, the Music Center, which can accommodate the size crowds Fun seeks; there is also KPRI-FM which beams jazz from midnight to 6 a.m. each evening and that's helping familiarize the community with what's happening on a contemporary level, Gerber notes.

San Diego has also played George Wein's Kool jazz festival plus a touring CTI Records package.

Gerber says Fun likes to work with 3,000-seat facilities because "at a $7.50 top you have the potential for a $21,838 gross," he says, blurring out the figures 21, eight, three, eight. "At an $8.50 top you have a $25,000 potential gross, which means you can afford $6,000 for talent and $5,000 for advertising."

It costs $650 to rent the Santa Monica Civic. "Show costs"—stagehands, ushers, security, insurance, ASCAP, BMI fees, can all run upwards to $11,000 for one show, Gerber says.

Not all Fun's jazz shows have been sellouts. "You have to have an instinct for doing something special in the way of promotion," Gerber says, "when you see that tickets are moving slow. That might mean poster the streets to attract people who 'don't listen to the radio' or advertising in a community newspaper to lure a specific ethnic mix."

Fun's shows either top at $8.50 or $7.50 with a low of $6.50. The firm uses Hollywood Sound and Sundance Lighting.

Gerber says Fun plans steering away from huge arenas like the Forum, better suited to loud rock bands, but unsuitable for jazz. "It wouldn't work," says Gerber, "because it would be demeaning to the artist and the fan. We owe it to jazz listeners to give them as close to perfect sounding experience as possible. Jazz is a listening art."

Veteran vibist Red Norvo has been making pretty music at Walt Disney World in Florida. The gig ends Saturday (9). Peter Fenzel, saxman, who has worked with jazz and pop performers, awarded a jazz performance scholarship from the National Endowment for the Arts in Washington. There have been tributes to the late pianist Erroll Garner in Los Angeles, New York, Pennsylvania, Iowa and abroad following his death Jan. 2. Geoffrey Jacques' "Kaleidoscope" show on WDET-FM in Detroit honored Charlie Parker on his birthday March 12. Guests on the tribute to Bird's passing 22 years ago were drummer Roy Brooks, record distributor Leo Chisak and local music instructor Rudy Tusich.

A summer jazz workshop will again be presented in Houston by the Concerned Musicians of Houston, a non-profit organization. Students for the eight-week course, three days a week for four hours at the St. James Episcopal Church, are from junior and senior high school. The workshop tries for nationally known musicians as lecturers/performers.

The annual spring concert of the North Texas St. Univ. jazz lab band Tuesday (5) will be dedicated to the memory of Jerry Gray. Involved are the 1 O'Clock Lab Band and eight other bands who will be performing in the Coliseum in Denton, Tex. The concert marks the first time all nine of the school's jazz bands will wail at one event.

A ninth annual Easter jazz show in Houston Sunday (10) features Bubba Thomas & the Lightmen, the Sweet Rays, Roseanna & Strings.

SAN DIEGO SUCCESS

Mobile Disco Spans Gamut For Military

By ED HARRISON

LOS ANGELES—Art Spencer Mobile Disco Shows are providing San Diego's military establishment with diverse disco programming.

Because of a broad cross-section of officers and enlisted men, Spencer includes country, big band, rock, soul and MOR music in his repertoire of singles to ensure pleasing all tastes.

Spencer, a retired Naval officer, says the main difference in programming a military-oriented disco is the difficulty in getting people to move.

"They'll sit with their hands in their laps to Donna Summer," he says. "There are 6,000-7,000 people a week from all over the country who visit the clubs. The crowd varies from night-to-night and region-to-region so we have to carry all kinds of music. Our job is to get people to move as soon as possible."

"There might be a chief petty officer who wants to hear Benny Goodman while another will request Silver Convention. At the end of the evening if both are still there we've done a good job. We let the crowd command us," Spencer says.

Spencer says that on a typical night it is hard to distinguish a military club from a civilian one. Because the soldiers frequent the discos during off-hours they are in civilian clothes unless it is a military function which requires uniforms.

The only overt giveaway that the club is predominantly military is in the case of enlisted men's clubs where a shore patrol or MP is always in close proximity in case of disturbances.

Spencer says that although enlisted men are more vocal, they are easier to control because they are used to taking orders. He says the disco is a good place for them to let off steam and will program a song like "Sink The Bismarck" to coax them along.

However, it's different with officers because although they are more subdued you can't order them around. "If they request a song we don't play, they sometimes complain to the management," Spencer says.

He programs his shows based usually on a '30s to '70s theme which sets the pace of the evening. Spencer carries 4,000-6,000 selections at all times which are transported in vans along with $7,000 in equipment and lights.

In addition, Spencer has performed disco weddings, bar mitzvahs and other affairs. In the past four years he has done nearly 150 military and civilian weddings. And each one is highly personalized. Not only do the bride and groom select the music they want played, but a form is sent to the parents in which they list their preferences.

ATLANTA ATTRACTION

It's Junkyard, But New Club No Dump

By BILL KING

ATLANTA—You might think that disco music in this city has gone to the junkyard to hear Fred McGee tell it.

But McGee isn't talking about the city dump. He is the manager of Atlanta's newest, and perhaps most unique, disco and restaurant and it is called The Junkyard.

Featuring a genuine junkyard motif that includes a full size Diamond REO truck in the center of the dance floor, The Junkyard opened in an annex to the newly remodeled Save Atlanta Inn at 14th and Spring St. March 18.

McGee says he is playing "heavy disco" for the most part, "with some contemporary mixed in, and I'm not averse to throwing in some country or whatever the crowd wants."

"There's no regimented music program," he adds, "but the crowd mostly wants to hear disco."

Disk jockey Rick Fillingham sits in the cab of the Junkyard's truck, which is on a raised platform, and plays the music on a Technic turntable, with a Cerwin-Vega equalizer, speakers and amp and a JBC receiver. A light show flashes around him.

McGee says his decor is "the most exciting in Atlanta." The ceiling is exposed, he says, showing pipes and air conditioning ducts that "form a lattice effect."

The Junkyard also has an old school bus which is carpeted inside and has tables, chairs and a couch. It serves as part of the lounge.

"The bar has a stainless steel roof over it," McGee says, "and the lighting fixtures are upside down sinks. The place is decorated with hubcaps, mirrors, radiator grilles and two black and white photo murals of real junkyards that cost us $1,600."

The waitresses wear Junkyard T-shirts that glow in the dark and Levi shorts and suspenders, he adds.

McGee says the disco is drawing a "mid to upper class crowd between 22 and 35 years old." He says he has no dress requirements and does not see any need for them "because our crowd is pretty style conscious."

The restaurant opens at 6:30 a.m. for breakfast because it is associated with the hotel, which was formerly the Midtown Motor Inn. McGee says he uses taped music in the afternoon for diners, but "strictly records at night."

The disco hours are set 9 p.m. to 2 a.m., he adds, "but if things are really going, we stay open later."

Litelab To Light Up Floor For a Movie

NEW YORK—Litelab Corp. has been contracted to supply a 16-foot by 24-foot lighted dance floor for use in the upcoming disco movie "Saturday Night" starring John Travolta. The floor will feature four individual 8 foot by 12 foot light patterns, according to Paul Gregory, one of the principals of the company.

Litelab will also supply four-color wall treatments, to be controlled by the firm's model L-4000 color controller, a four-color ceiling treatment backlighting suspended fabric, high intensity pin spot mirror ball effects and some rotating four-color spots.

Digital Lighting Corp. and its president Larry Silverman have been retained as disco design and lighting consultants for the production and will also supply a number of lighting effect for the show.

Canary Isles Tour Offered By Assn.

NEW YORK—The International Discotheque Assn. has teamed with Atesa-Marsans, a Manhattan-based travel agency, to create the first known disco charter.

The package titled the "Disco Special" will take 208 disco lovers aboard a special Iberia Airlines flight to Las Palmas in the Canary Islands for seven full days of dancing at the Beach Club, said to be one of the island's top discotheques.

The trip, based on a suggestion made by Iberia Airlines officials to the association, will cost $329 per person double occupancy.

LASER TECHNICAL BREAKTHROUGH

Our prices remain the same but the weight of our new unit is 1/20th of the other laser systems now on the market.

David Infante, President of Laser Physics, released today the latest laser model which is now on the market from our company.

Laser Physics, Ltd. now, beyond a shadow of a doubt, can provide a laser display system that weighs less than 15 pounds, projects all four colors and has a physical size of 1 foot by 10 inches by 4 inches high.

This system can be hung in place of special effect stage lights, and delivers output powers from 1 to 10 watts. The system is equivalent to 200 pound units now being sold by other companies.

Power supply may be placed up to 300 feet away from the above described display system.

We have taken the weight from the display system and put it into the power supply which can be put in the cellar, your closet or concealed where it won't clutter the stage or discotheque.

This display system may be hung like normal lighting and take up less room than the fixtures it replaces but can deliver the power of a searchlight.

S.F.'s Chinatown Swinging With New Club For Elders

NEW YORK—An enterprising businessman in San Francisco's bustling Chinatown has turned a faltering club into a flourishing business by changing it into a Chinese discotheque for older patrons.

The Ricksha Bistro, owned and operated by Bob Chinn, offers the music of Lawrence Welk, Artie Shaw, Perez Prado, Glenn Miller, the Dorsey Bros and Bill Haley and Elvis Presley in an authentic Chinese setting.

And the results, according to Chinn, have exceeded his expectations.

Chinn originally started the club as a conventional style disco in 1967, and for a while it flourished as such, then apparently, it fell on hard times. Chinn decided that he would have to come up with an original idea if his investment was to be saved. The result was the new Ricksha Bistro.

The club, a membership establishment with some 3,000 members, offers special prizes to dancers who can best do the jitterbug, the bunny hop, the mambo, tango and cha cha cha, and snowball dances. For the adventurous he offers free bus stop and hustle lessons, and encourages patrons by reminding them that if they can remember the old "two step" they can learn to boogie.

According to Chinn, the club's deejay, a Filipino named Noelen, who works under the name, Dr. No, has one of the most comprehensive collections of nostalgia records at his disposal. These are spun on state-of-the-art equipment including Altec Lansing speakers and Dynaco amplifiers.

In addition to Chinese lanterns, there are conventional disco lights including strobes, mirror balls, color wheels and projection systems.

As if the uniqueness of having a nostalgia disco in a Chinese setting with Chinese food was not enough, Chinn offers his customers further incentives through "End-of-Month" parties at which special door prizes are offered, and at which two drinks can be bought for the price of one.

LIKE A CIRCUS

Ft. Lauderdale 'Big Top' To Cost $1½ Mil; Opens In Fall

NEW YORK—A Florida entrepreneur is sinking an estimated $1.5 million into a Ft. Lauderdale disco which he feels will stand out as an industry showcase when it is completed in the early fall.

The club called Circus is being designed by Bob Lobi and Design Circuits of New York in conjunction with architect Carl Eigsti. It will recreate a circus environment complete with stuffed animals and three-dimensional neon images of trapeze artists, tightrope walkers, clowns, jugglers and other personalities associated with the circus.

According to Lobi, patrons to the club will enter through an elaborate water tunnel where pressurized switches, activated by the traffic flow, will supply the tunnel with a myriad of lights ever changing in colors and design.

The tunnel will lead to a street-level balcony from which audiences will look down at the sunken dance floor, in the center of which will be four massive bass speakers surmounted by a like-size stuffed elephant from whose trunk lasers will shoot into specially designed prisms for unusual lighting effects.

Much emphasis is being placed on lighting in the club. Lobi explains that there will also be laser chandeliers in which the laser beams will be locked into the crystals and prisms of the lamps to create additional special effects without creating hazards for the customers.

Another laser beam will be used to create the effect of a circus animal's cage surrounding the dancers on the oversized stainless steel dance floor.

Suspended over the floor will be a three-tiered, custom-built rotating light platform. The bottom tier will feature 12 multi-colored lights spinning clockwise, the 12-lights of the second tier will create a gyroscope pattern, while those of the upper tier will rotate in a counter-clockwise pattern.

There will be four bars in the room. Over the main bar will be a suspended platform with more stuffed animals, and from which more special lighting effects will be projected.

The walls of the balcony overlooking the dance floor will be hung with pictures, posters and other memorabilia dating back to the earliest days of the American circus.

There will be an elaborate projection system utilizing 10 projectors on a main programmer to provide the audience with special movies and slide shows. Broadcast cartridges similar to those used by radio stations will be used for special sound effects.

The club's three-way state-of-the-art sound system will be custom-built by Design Circuits. The club's deejay, still to be named, will operate the main light and sound controls, with the bartenders and the maitre d' working the sub-controls.

Circus' roof and ceiling are also being designed of special materials to create the feeling of being actually under the roof of "a big top." The club will be visible from miles around through rotating searchlights mounted on the roof.

The million dollar extravaganza is owned by Bill Taylor. It will be a general admission establishment and will seat close to 1,000 people. Dress codes, prices of admission and other operating policies are still to be established.

Gays' Influence On Charts

sexual patrons lack the totality of commitment of their gay counterparts.

He is convinced that without the gay involvement many of today's big disco hits would have been hard-pressed to find a place of honor on the music charts. He adds that the discotheques of the 1960s amounted to little more than a flash-in-the-pan because of the absence of gay involvement.

As Caviano explains it, discos to gays are much more than just a place where they can get down and boogie for a few hours. "They are," he says,

"a sort of community center where they can meet other people who share their sensitivities."

"To the gays their discos are places where they can make and establish lasting relationships; a sort of home away from home where they are not constantly under the spotlight of attention. For these reasons they support discos now and will continue to support them for a long time to come."

Explaining the successes that small, independent record labels like his own company are enjoying with disco product, Caviano says they are succeeding where the majors are not because they are less bureaucratically structured, less bureaucratic and more in tune with industry trends than are the larger conglomerates.

The TK executive explains that in his own case he maintains a direct communications link with record pools, disco deejays and retail shops on one hand and with the president of his company on the other.

"In this way my company is assured of a constant finger on the pulse of the industry, and can respond to its needs with an immediacy that is seldom enjoyed by bureaucratic combines," he says.

Citing the sluggish growth of the 12-inch disco disk as one area of the industry that has suffered because of lack of major label commitment, Caviano says, "The 12-inchers have a great deal of potential as a viable commercial product, but there is need for education, especially among record retailers. Major label involvement could help expedite this educational process."

Caviano laments the fact that radio continues to see disco as a threat. However, he is confident that there will eventually be a turnaround in this negative attitude. "There are already signs of change," he says, citing New York's WBLS and Atlanta's WVEE as being among stations which have discovered the commercial viability of disco; and stations WXLO, and WRKO as Top 40 stations with "disco sensitivity."

PROGRAMMED IN ADVANCE

Computer Pairs Lighting To Specific Club Records

By ALAN PENCHANSKY

CHICAGO—A computer system is being used here to create prerecorded disco light shows that are programmed in advance for specific tunes.

The system, which requires discos to spin from recorded tapes, is believed to allow for the first time the exact synchronization of specific lighting effects to individual recorded selections.

Lighting programs for more than 1,500 recorded titles already have been created through the computer device, developed here by CDM Productions for its Light Fantastic mobile disco. The system is being used by CDM at various local gigs.

Principal creator of the light-sound link is CDM president Chuck Miller, a 28-year-old former radio announcer and college activities director, who began work on the device one year ago.

The system, which employs a Southwest Technical Products 6800 computer, a computer keyboard terminal and a video read-out, took eight months to build, according to Miller.

All of this computer componentry travels with Miller to disco gigs, along with a 13-component lighting display and the Light Fantastic sound equipment, including two Cerwin Vega 218P speaker systems, Heathkit preamp and AA-1640 power amp, and two Teac A-2340 4-channel reel to reel tape decks.

The use of tape as a sound source is the key to Miller's unique pre-programmable system, which utilizes one of the tape audio channels for encoding signals to the light system.

The computer-assisted spinner says he has more than 3,000 songs on tape, of which half have been encoded with lighting system signals.

Miller says the encoding process, which is controlled through the keyboard terminal, takes approximately a half hour for a single three-minute song, not counting the time involved in dubbing from records.

The first step in the encoding procedure, which Miller demonstrated here in the near-Loop apartment devoted entirely to storing and maintaining the system, is to plan a written format of visual effects while listening to the music. This scheme is organized according to readout of the tape deck's digital counter.

Utilizing a numerical code which corresponds to the system's catalog of visual effects, Miller then feeds his light commands into the computer's memory. Along with the effects themselves and their sequencing, the speed of the effect is determined at this stage. As it is fed into the system, this numerical information appears on a video screen that sits behind a Teac model 2 audio mixer.

In the final stage of encoding, the original audio tape is re-run, and the stored program of visual effects is synchronized to the music on an unused track.

Thus, while other deejays lug records to their gigs, Miller carries hundreds of seven-inch reel tapes, and a file system that allows each song to be located by artist or title. Also included on the cards is an index of each selection's tempo, which Miller refers to as a programming aid.

The entire system requires a setup time of two hours.

The Light Fantastic battery of visual fixtures includes two five by five foot star panels, a five by four foot center light panel containing chaser lights and 4-channel light organ, two police dome lights, six spot lights, a mirror ball, a strobe and a light organ.

ABC Boost On Tracs For Audio Magnetics

By STEPHEN TRAIMAN

NEW YORK—Confirmation by ABC Record & Tape Sales that all nine of the giant rackjobber's branches will handle the Audio Magnetics Tracs blank tape line underscores the firm's continuing turnaround (Billboard, Feb. 19, 1977).

Following tests of the Audio Magnetics-branded line introduced at the 1975 NARM expo in three markets by ABC over the last year, marketing vice president Steve Kugel notes the more recent switch to the Tracs line was "dynamite."

Marts involved were Indianapolis, Seattle and Portland, Ore., through the Fred Meyer chain, now going with its own branded OEM line.

The confidence of ABC in the blank tape manufacturer, in the final stages of setting up a new marketing operation and expanded manufacturing and distribution facilities, is appreciated by Audio's Dom Saccacio, who took over as president last September.

"We've got a good feeling about the music industry and the record/tape sales distribution pipeline will play a more vital role in our future," he maintains.

"This will supplement—not supplant—our existing rep involvement, as the rackjobber will be reaching a basically different market for us."

The Tracs line obviously will be getting added support now that ABC is taking on national distribution, with extensive marketing plans and programs now being finalized, Saccacio notes. A very heavy consumer and trade ad schedule will buttress the line in late spring through summer.

The expanded Irvine, Calif., headquarters will be operational earlier than the anticipated June completion date, with manufacturing, warehousing and distribution facilities well along toward completion.

At the same time, Saccacio is building a franchise in Europe, where he spent a number of years heading the firm's operations. Emphasis is on an Audio Magnetics-branded line with good (Standard), better (Super) and best (XHE) formulations.

A special promotional line of "AM Extra" tape offers 10% more time—66 minutes in a C-60 and 99 minutes in a C-90. All are iron oxide formulations, with a small chrome business also noted.

Audio Magnetics introduced a mini-cassette in Canada last June where it has done very well. The firm's Mexican facility is being converted for U.S. production, with pro-

Custom Cartridge In Business With Avsco/Lear Jet 8-Track Molds

NASHVILLE—Custom Cartridge Inc. has acquired all the 8-track cartridge molds from the Avsco Inc./Lear Jet Stereo division of Gates Rubber Co. and is already supplying blanks to the industry.

The new firm is headed by Cliff Tant, who has been one of the major Avsco distributors since 1970 through his locally based C. T. Distributing Co. which handles a number of duplicating equipment and supply lines.

After the deal was signed in mid-February, Avsco continued to supply custom cartridge with an inventory of its new shell. Tant reports two major corporate tape labels have just approved purchases, as have several large custom duplicators.

The new company is supplying a new lightweight one-piece molded shell of polystyrene in any color, said to weigh about 30% less—165 pounds per 1,000 units compared with 230 pounds/1,000 units in the old formulation.

Tant also notes that the shell incorporates a one-piece tape hub that virtually eliminates "coning"—the bowing up of tape around the center core which causes most jamming problems.

The entire mold is specially compounded and pre-lubricated to reduce internal drag and increase the life expectancy of the cartridge, he claims.

Custom Cartridge is maintaining existing Avsco prices and intends to remain "competitive in the market," according to Tant. "We won't be the highest or the lowest." It is the newest member of ITA.

Tant is shooting for 30 million annual unit capacity when two plants are on-line later this spring. Equip-nar which opened Sunday (3) at Hilton Head Island, S.C.

Meyers, participating in the ITA copyright panel discussion Monday (4), is expected to touch on the historic Universal/Disney versus Sony suit that strikes at the heart of home recording rights versus copyright owner protection.

That suit is one stimulant for his proposal to have the ITA act in the same way that a Harry Fox Agency now functions for music publishers.

He feels the "clash of giants" involved on both sides of the suit could lead to the same chaos and protracted litigation that pre-dated the establishment of ASCAP and BMI here and Gramex in Germany to issue licenses and distribute collected fees to owners of copyrighted musical compositions.

Meyers, also general counsel to the RIAA, points out that a clearinghouse system is virtually mandated by the difficulties authors already are encountering in widespread unauthorized duplication of their works on copying machines. As in the case of musical performances, there is no time and no reasonable means of negotiating a separate license for home use.

He also notes that the new Copyright Act makes no mention of any home recording rights for the individual. While the old law did not have such a provision either, a House report on the 1971 sound recording amendment to the act indicated that it would not expose the home user to copyright infringement.

Virtually all parties to the suit, or their parent companies and/or affiliates and licensees, are members of inexpensive mixers have been sold on an individual basis to American customers, and the firm is now seeking a U.S. representative. The line is currently being used by the BBC, Radio Italiana and the Canadian Broadcasting Co.

Raindick Limited is also thinking about a U.S. distributor, and may attend the fall 1977 convention here. The company makes a full line of consoles, from mini-mixers to 40-in./32-out super-boards.

Amek Systems showed its "X" series of budget-priced mixing consoles, with at least one prominent West Coast distributor reportedly interested in featuring the line. The new Amek 2016 features 20 inputs and 16 outputs, with a "guessed" local price tag of about $12,000.

Notable among tape recorders, though still unknown on these shores, is the Leavers-Rich pro line series of quarter-inch machines. Director Tony Costello points out that the series 2000TC features a servo-controlled dual capstan system, with varispeed operation over a 6:1 range.

As in the well-known 3M series 79 machines, and Technics by Panasonic's new RS-1500 deck, the dual capstan design mechanically protects the tape from the rest of the transport system for the critical journey past the head stack. Spooling motors are servo-controlled, providing constant tape tension at all reel diameters.

The less expensive series 1000 is rack-mountable and is aimed at the broadcast industry. Costello is studying the U.S. market, and may introduce the machines here within the next year.

At Calrec's stand, managing director J. Howard Smith showed modules from the L series of high density control consoles. In addition, the company markets an extensive line of condenser microphones in both budget and professional price ranges. Like the others, Smith says he would like eventually to introduce Calrec products into the American market.

How much of an impact will these firms have on the American marketplace? Only time and the next few AES conventions will tell.

KANSAS DEALER SEES MORE $$

Autosound Installation a Profit Booster

By GRIER LOWRY

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. Lenge Morgan at Audio Electronics, one of the leading independents in the Greater Kansas City market, says he finally has the message:

An installation and repair service is a must for doing a high-volume car stereo business. It's a losing cause, he is now convinced, to strive for big sales without installations.

"We've been stuck on a $50,000 annual gross sales plateau for the past couple of years—about 10% of overall volume—and it's out of proportion to the amount of home stereo business we do, and the traffic count," says Morgan.

"We're paying a severe penalty for not doing our own installations. I'm convinced we'd be doing five times more car stereo business if we offered installations, to say nothing of the much higher profit margin."

"The only reason we haven't had an installation facility was lack of space," he explains. "Now we have a three-bay facility on the drawing boards, and that should really move us off that $50,000 hang-up."

In the past, the veteran dealer says he figured there were enough do-it-yourself car stereo buyers to keep sales moving upward. But it proved to be a false premise as he found too systems installed where they buy them.

Morgan believes he has the "best factory-designed car stereo demonstration setup ever built." The Pioneer fixture is elaborate, large and impressive. It shows 32 units and is flanked on the sides with a selection of Jensen speakers.

The dealer recently added the Sony line of radios in a move designed to beef up high-end sales. He points out that the potential in the area for selling systems to owners of $18,000 Audi automobiles, and their like, is growing. This means business in the $200 and up systems.

"We're also getting more business from people who buy new cars with systems and decide the radio is good enough but want to upgrade their

Cassette 'Singles' Aim At Non-Record Outlets

By PETER JONES

LONDON—A dramatic new plan to build the volume of hit 45s by retailing single-play cassette versions costing roughly $1.20, mainly through untapped non-record outlets, is near to being finalized.

The plan is being developed by Simurg, a London company, which plans the launch of the Mystic Bird cassette label at the end of May. An initial release of 10 titles is planned and though no major companies have yet made a repertoire commitment, Matt Royds, managing director, says he looks for a first deal shortly, probably with Phonogram.

Simurg was set up 18 months ago and has been involved in marketing a tape language course and promotional disks. It also operates as a talent agency.

Arrangements for duplication have been made with a London firm, and the major incentive for record companies to take part is felt to be that Royds has a deal with Imperial Distribution, part of the Imperial Tobacco Group, to service some 50,000 outlets. These cover news agents, gas stations, pubs, liquor stores, hotels, railway stations, gas stations and airport terminals.

Royds stresses that Simurg is concentrating solely on developing sales through non-record outlets, leaving record companies to supply the cassettes to their regular retail customers.

Simurg intends to offer a 40% dealer margin, and within the planned retail price is an amount payable to the record companies which will remain responsible for all royalty payments. Royds feels the possibility of major companies seeking to compete with Mystic Bird is slight, since he considers it unlikely they could match his prices.

He says: "Even if the companies are not too enthusiastic about supplying repertoire and I think that at first they will suggest suitable titles, the scheme will prove attractive to artists and their managers once they realize that repertoire will be available to more than 10 times as many retail outlets as there are record shops."

totypes of the new minis to be introduced at the Summer CES in Chicago this June, Saccacio reports.

The industrial market also is getting attention, with a new $300,000 coater for lube bulk tape on line in April. It is now less than 50% of overall volume but growing, with limitations on product availability to be improved once the expanded Irvine plant is operational.

Dom Saccacio, Audio Magnetics president, turns over new shovel—and symbolic new leaf for company—at last month's groundbreaking ceremony for expanded Irvine, Calif., manufacturing plant.

Akai Active On Two Continents

NEW YORK—Akai is making news on two continents, with the Japanese manufacturer's first line of separates introduced in the U.S. market and its first European plant under consideration for France or Germany.

The first separates since 1972 were announced by Jay Menduke, Akai America marketing director, who notes that the products "are becoming more affordable and more accessible to the average stereo buyer."

Top of the line is the AM-2800 integrated stereo amp with 80 watts/channel RMS and a separate mid-range control, at suggested $400 list.

The companion AM-2600 power amp and AT-2600 AM/FM stereo tuner, each have a $300 suggested list.

The power amp offers 60 watts/channel RMS, with left and right channel power indicator meters and a two-position audio mute switch (-15 and -30 dB). The tuner offers a switchable signal strength/deviation meter to measure broadcast signals and carrier deviation.

Rounding out the new separates are the paired AM-2400 amplifier and AT-2400 AM/FM tuner, each at $200 suggested list. The amp delivers a reported 40 watts/channel RMS and has one audio mute function (-20 dB), with two tape and two speaker system inputs. The tuner offers phase-locked loop (PLL) multiplex circuitry with a variable FM mute and a "high blend" switch to improve reception.

In Europe, Akai is known to be considering its first manufacturing facility, and according to Christian Paillot, who distributes the line in France, a Normandy site is a strong bet over an alternative in Germany. It would be the first Japanese facility in France.

Permission has to be obtained from the French government, and there is no doubt that the present poor state of the French hi fi industry will be closely considered.

Akai of Japan holds only 25% of AKAI-France, which distributes hi fi equipment, with Paillot owning the remainder of the shares. But if permission is granted, the factory would be entirely Japanese-owned, Paillot says.

AUDIO & VIDEO

Fuji Combines Tape Arms

NEW YORK—Fuji Photo Film U.S.A. has formed a new magnetic tape division, combining the former audio and videotape groups in the new marketing unit under John Dale, who had been video marketing manager.

George Saddler, audio tape marketing manager who joined Fuji under a two-year management contract in 1975 to launch the Japanese firm's cassettes in the U.S. market, will remain as a consultant to the audio tape group through the end of the company's fiscal year this fall.

The veteran tape executive, who also was instrumental in setting up the TDK line of audio tape in the U.S., established the Fuji marketing network which now includes 18 independent sales reps across the country.

The Fuji cassettes had been aimed at the high-end market, and is just starting to expand distribution, while the open reel line is still in limited distribution.

The restructuring was announced by Fred Nakamura, executive vice president and head of U.S. operations for Fuji film and tape. He emphasizes that the decision was made to provide one unified marketing division rather than enlarge two parallel groups for both audio and video, with Fuji recognizing that a larger organization was necessary to handle future expansion.

As general manager of the division, Dale notes that both an audio and videotape group will be created to provide marketing separation "at field level," with operations closely coordinated in terms of policies, distribution facilities, sales and advertising.

In addition to Saddler's services as consultant, the division will have Steve Yoneda continuing to serve as product manager for both audio and video lines.

Tape Duplicator

Memorex introduced several new video-tape lines at the NAB exposition in Washington, March 27-30, according to Dave Berry, video marketing manager.

Included is MRX-714, a new 2-inch helical scan tape for the IVC-9000 series of video recorders, and a new 1-inch tape for the BCN family of recorders, available in 34, 66 and 96 minute lengths using the MRX-716 Quantum formulation. A 500-oersted tape recently introduced. Also new is a flame retardant plastic shipper for 2-inch reels.

The improved Memorex 1/4-inch U-Matic video-cassette, bowed late last year, will now be sold in 12-unit cartons instead of 10 as previously, he notes.

A 35% price increase for purchase and rental of videocassettes for direct viewing was announced effective April 1 by the Public Television Library's Video Program Service.

The first such increase since the service was established two years ago is due to the rise in operating costs, notes Alan Lewis, recently promoted to manager from supervisor of acquisitions.

A 30-minute program for purchase is now $175, up from $130, and a two-week rental is now $68, from $58. Information on other fees for various lengths, and a free catalog of 2,500-plus titles for non-commercial use, is available from PTL, 475 L'Enfant Plaza, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20024, phone (202) 488-5220.

Teletronics International has available a sophisticated computerized video/sound system for multi-track mixing to film or tape picture recently used in post-production work on the CBS-TV special "Henry Winkler Meets William Shakespeare."

The new system, claimed as the first on the East Coast at the New York Teletronics Video Center, reportedly can accommodate any audio mode, including 35 or 16 mag stripe, with a substantial time saving in mixing and sweetening, according to Vince Gizzi, senior sound mixer.

Orrox Corp. held continuous demonstrations of its CMX 340X computer-assisted videotape editing system at the recent NAB exposition in Washington. Operating the system were Alfred Muller of New York and Bob Best of Los Angeles, in a display of the versatile flexibility offered for various VTR formats.

3M has expanded its video line with a new 10-minute Scotch mini-U-Matic videocassette and a head-cleaning cassette, for the new tape. The UTA-10S features a high energy oxide formulation, claimed to be less abrasive with better RF output and signal-to-noise ratio, and fewer dropouts. List is $22.40, with both a compact book-style container or high impact shipping/storage case available.

The UCS-HC head cleaner has a prerecorded color bar signal indicating when the tape has completing the cleaning, and should be effective longer than two years. It lists at $29, packaged in a shipping/storage case.

Both were introduced at the recent NAB expo in Washington.

Custom Cartridge is expanding its rep force to augment Tant's three-person headquarters sales staff here. Already on the job is Audio Industries of Ridgely, N.J., which is covering the important metro New York area. A West Coast rep will be named soon, and others will be added over the next few months.

Divide and conquer.

Conquer distortion, defeat clipping, clean up your mix.

Bi-amplification or tri-amplification with Yamaha's F-1030 frequency-dividing network can take you a long way down the road to audio perfection.

By separating high, mid and low frequencies before amplification, the F-1030 increases efficiency and headroom to the point where you need fewer amplifiers and speakers to produce the same sound level. What's more, by dividing the sound for several amplifiers and many sets of speakers, the F-1030 eliminates the cost of individual passive crossovers.

Control your own! Unlike other dividing networks, Yamaha's F-1030 offers dB-calibrated detented controls on both inputs and outputs, as well as transformer-coupled XLR and standard phone jack connectors. Twelve selectable crossover frequencies range from 250Hz to 8kHz, with your choice of 12dB/octave or 18dB/octave slopes, plus a switchable 40Hz 12dB/octave high-pass filter.

Use with confidence! Noise and distortion are virtually extinct. The Yamaha F-1030 will drive a full +24dBm (12.3 volt) output into a 600 ohm load. It will also accept input levels to +30dB.

There's just not enough room in one ad to give you the whole story. But send three dollars to Yamaha, Musical Instruments/Combo Division, P.O. Box 6600, Buena Park, CA 90622. We'll rush you the F-1030 operation manual. Or better yet, see your Yamaha dealer.

ITA Proposed As A/V Rights Agent; RCA Adopts VHS

ITA, another reason for the still-growing association to take the initiative for such an agency.

The historic suit has Universal/Disney on one side and Sony on the other.

Supporting the Universal viewpoint are parent MCA and Philips, its partner in the videodisk system. Supporting Sony's views are Sanyo and Toshiba, its partners in the new Beta format, and Zenith, a major licensee. Also, Matsushita and its 51% JVC which developed the two-hour VHS system and RCA.

Major blank software suppliers also have a stake in such an accommodation, Meyers points out. The Whitford Report on copyright revision in the U.K. calls not only for a one-time levy on home tape recording equipment similar to Germany but also the possibility of a continuing tax on blank tapes, with all proceeds to be shared by copyright owners (Billboard, March 19, 26, 1977).

3M, another major ITA member whose Dan Denham is current chairman, recently announced a new formulation that made a four-hour videocassette possible with half the actual tape, or a two-hour for just above the current one-hour cassette cost.

This would significantly narrow the videodisk versus videotape material cost, bringing the prerecorded market that much closer (Billboard, March 26, 1977).

Matsushita also has demonstrated a prototype of the VHS machine adopted by RCA which gets four hours of recording on a current two-hour cassette by playing at half speed with a noise reduction system similar to the new Sony/Sanyo/Toshiba Beta Format.

Panasonic's Irwin Tarr was expected to provide more information on the new unit at the Monday (4) ITA consumer video panel which also is featuring Sony's Harvey Schein, MCA Disco-Vision's Norman Glenn and Philips' Bob Cavanaugh. Panasonic is expected to market its own version of the VHS system in the U.S. later this year.

According to Roy Pollock, RCA consumer electronics vice president-general manager, prices will be "fully competitive, in the price range that the company's comprehensive market research had revealed for substantial sales in the consumer market." (This would be under $1,000, compared to an anticipated $1,300 for the new two-hour Beta Format just introduced in Japan at about $950.)

Included on the initial RCA model built to its specs by Matsushita under the five-year agreement will be VHF and WHF tuners and an electronic timer for unattended recording, plus a mode switch for either two or four-hour recording, when such a longer-play cassette is available.

This impending market expansion for the home videocassette recorders, as well as the anticipated bow of the MCA/Philips videodisk player in limited test market areas by year-end, re-emphasizes the need for an audio/visual rights clearinghouse, Meyers says.

Under his proposal:

• ITA would be authorized by copyright owners in the movie and television programming fields to grant blanket licenses for a fee to hardware manufacturers. They, in turn, would convey an express or implied license to the consumer to use the equipment in the home for personal use.

Cost of the initial license to the hardware manufacturer would be passed along to the consumer in the retail price. Provision could be made for an annual payment by the user thereafter, or a continuing payment through a tax on each blank tape sold, as suggested by the British Whitford Report.

• The license or royalty rate would be initially established by negotiation or arbitration, with provision made for periodic review of the reasonableness of the rate and establishment of criteria to measure the factor.

Antitrust immunity for establishing the license fee or royalty rate could be obtained by vesting rate making in the Copyright Royalty Tribunal established by the new Copyright Law.

• The amount of royalty to be distributed to each copyright owner would be based on a formula that includes samples, surveys and logs reflecting the works programmed and copied. It would be weighted with separate values assigned to different types of programming, with the system subject to periodic review or a petition by any copyright owner on the share assigned.

Whether the ITA acts on the proposal or not, the introduction of such an idea should provide plenty of discussion. And, perhaps, an accommodation of a situation that could stifle the potential of the emerging home video industry.

Dealer Sees More Profit

speakers and select units costing $75 to $140 per pair," says the dealer.

Lenge believes the trend in car stereo is definitely from 8-track to cassette systems, as many buyers hold the opinion that fidelity is better in the cassettes.

Eight months ago Audio Electronics relocated in new quarters in a high-traffic shopping center. The location is still in high-income Johnson County and only 10 blocks distant from the old location. Because of more traffic and the convenience of the new location, the dealer says he anticipates a volume of $1 million the first year compared with the $500,000 annual volume in the other store.

"Vastly increased traffic and more and improved display will be the strong influence in pushing us to high sales," says Morgan.

In the past, the veteran dealer says he figured there were enough do-it-yourself car stereo buyers to keep sales moving upward. But it proved to be a false premise as he found too high a percentage of buyers want systems installed where they buy them.

The new building measures 20 by 140 feet (2,800 square feet) and is lined with between 400 and 500 home stereo components. The selection covers receivers, tuners, amplifiers, etc., priced from $150 to $1,000. The display format has lower-priced goods at the extreme front with the higher-end products at the extreme back where buyers have less interference from traffic.

Morgan is one of the outstanding independent stereo marketers in Greater Kansas City. He looks hard for bargains—closeouts, discontinued goods, etc.—when he buys and when he gets a hot buy he promotes it like crazy on FM radio and in newspapers.

And he stacks the goods at the front, hangs "Half Price" signs on them so they can't be overlooked by incoming traffic.

A typical Audio Electronics promotion: He recently got a good buy on a 40-watt receiver, list-priced at $290, for $92. He bought a slew of them, priced them at $128, pushed the deal heavy in advertising, and had traffic flocking in. He estimates six out of 10 of those individuals bought higher-markup components.

Pioneer, Marantz and Kenwood are among the brands on the roster here. "But we key to our market and this is big Pioneer country," says Morgan.

Country Boxlot Promotion

the old things that we thought country music to be logowise—but we're finding this is a turnoff to the country consumer. He doesn't like that. He likes artists."

Consequently, the label has gone with artists sketches for promotion. Blackburn cites research information from Northern markets such as Cleveland and New York, indicating that customers who claimed they didn't like country music were buying such artists as Willie Nelson and Waylon Jennings. "We're crazy to merchandise from a country music standpoint. Why not merchandise artists? Take it where the music is."

The first boxlot program unexpectedly yielded a big album for Tom Jones. CBS plans to maintain the same advertising concept—a media mix of radio and print. Some 80 markets received radio ad dollars.

Though it's too early to judge returns, they should be "quite minimal" according to Blackburn who adds, "The sell-off is excellent."

The prepack concept didn't catch on in Chicago, but the boxlot stimulated action. Chicago did twice the business with the boxlot than the prepack, while Los Angeles garnered three times as much sales action, the label claims. "We found WMAQ in Chicago quite willing to work with us," reports Blackburn. "We even went to television in that market."

Prepacks successfully landed new artists into record stores because their albums were included in the overall shipments.

With the boxlot, that's not possible—the dealer knows exactly what product he's getting in the box. How does CBS tackle this problem?

Explains Blackburn: "If you do have an unknown act in a prepack, you can oversell the marketplace and then, in three months time, you've got returns. You haven't really proven anything because the name of the game is sell through."

"What we found is that through advertising and merchandising, we can take the unknown act and get sales."

Unshutter New Business School

NASHVILLE—The formation of a Nashville Record and Music Business School, designed to provide the basic workings of the music business, has been announced by Ray Warren, creator of the school.

According to Warren, the course will include a full two-week schedule of classroom workshop and field activity which will scan the scope of the music industry down the line from songwriters, publishing, musicians and record company structure to the related fields of public relations, artist management, booking agencies and marketing.

Because of the exhibited interest in the songwriter segment, Warren states that a "Songwriter Special" has been designed which would be of a one-week duration with the option to continue the balance of the course if desired.

IS JAMES LP 1st OF KIND?

NASHVILLE—Sonny James' forthcoming Columbia LP release entitled "Sonny James In Prison In Person" may set a recording industry first.

Recorded within the walls of the Tennessee State Prison last week, the album's session musicians are exclusively inmates of the prison. James will be the only non-inmate musician appearing on the album.

The project was conceived during one of James' visits to the prison. Through Warden Vinson Thompson, the artist discovered numerous inmates who had musical abilities. James agreed to perform at the prison if a group of the inmates would join him as musicians in that appearance.

European Guests Visit In Nashville

NASHVILLE—An international contingent of country music leaders makes a six-day trip to Nashville, ending Wednesday (6).

The group, from Germany, Austria, Switzerland and Luxembourg, includes Hauke Strubing, Mangred Vogel and Kurt Rokitta, editors of Country Corner magazine, and Peter Anderl of Hillbilly magazine.

Besides leading country deejays in the German speaking countries, the group also includes officials from RCA Records in Hamburg and CBS Records in Frankfurt.

Playboy Revs Up Recording Activity

NASHVILLE—With the recent distribution pact inked by Playboy Records and CBS Records, Playboy has stepped up its recording activities here.

Eddie Kilroy, Playboy's operations director for Nashville, has directed several sessions at the Fireside Studios including the session that will yield the first single to be released under the new agreement: "Ishabilly" by newly signed Playboy artist Mack Vickery.

"First Class"—the seventh Playboy LP by Mickey Gilley—is also being readied for release, along with the new Bobby Borchers single, "Cheap Perfume And Candlelight."

At CBS, wheels are turning toward a campaign with the Gilley product pegged on the new LP. "We want to get into a Mickey Gilley program, going back to the catalog and timing it with the release of the new album," comments Rick Blackburn, CBS vice president, marketing.

"We're taking steps to completely mesh Playboy into the total distribution system which will be my responsibility from the country standpoint," says Blackburn. "We'll do this in all levels—publicity, promotion, sales, merchandising, and artist development. Playboy will grow and keep its identity."

Bradley Sees a Bright Future

"It's sad to see a place like that not open," commented Bradley when he took over the studio. "I think we can build the business back up. Maybe we can get people into the habit of coming back around."

Similar to Bradley's Barn, Bradley plans to make the major decisions regarding the studio's future. "The engineers run it at the Barn. Hopefully, here the engineers will run it. Cecile Light, who handles the bookings at the Barn, will also book the new studio. When she has a problem, she tells me."

Bradley plans no immediate changes. "If customers tell you they want something, you try to give it to them. These studios have a fantastic reputation, and I'd be foolish to try to do anything different. I'll just leave it alone. As time goes on, if the engineers feel they need something, they'll tell us and we'll see if we can get it for them. That's the way the Barn works."

The rise of the RCA Nashville studios closely paralleled the rise of the "Nashville sound." The label became the first major record firm with its own Nashville studio in 1954 when it opened a studio with the Methodist Radio and Television Foundation.

Contrary to popular opinion, Elvis Presley's first major hits—"Heartbreak Hotel" and "I Was The One"—were recorded at the downtown Nashville studio and not at the 17th Ave. facilities opened in 1957 under the guidance of Chet Atkins.

As Atkins produced a string of hits with such artists as Sonny James, Jim Reeves and Roy Orbison, the RCA roster and custom recording business increased and a larger facility was needed.

In 1960 the plant was doubled in size and, five years later, the present three-story office building and giant studio A was opened. Soon came Studio B, and later the facilities grew with two additional studios, new lacquer channels and tape mastering rooms.

Ironically, even as the studios prospered and drew a new manager in the '70s, rumors persisted that the operation was a borderline business.

Custom clients were added, but apparently not enough to garner sufficient business for the operation to slide from red to black ink because of union restrictions. The Nashville studio had to abide by the same contract that required two engineers for each session that the New York and Los Angeles RCA studios demanded. RCA ended up with nine engineers.

When RCA reached the end of the rope with its studios in New York, Los Angeles and Nashville, the union refused to budge on the question of the contract provisions.

Nashville closed. Los Angeles closed. But a deal was worked out to salvage the New York studio operation, causing many officials in Nashville to wonder why the same deal couldn't have been worked out in Nashville and Los Angeles.

Studio A, which started out as the largest studio room in Nashville, was cut down in size to provide a more intimate atmosphere. RCA officials indicated the move boosted the studio's popularity.

Studio A contains the latest model MCI-114 24-track tape machine complete with Auto Locator II and Flux-Track. The MCI unit complements the 32-input, 24-track custom designed Neve console.

Now with Nashville's most legendary producer at the helm of Nashville's legendary ex-RCA, now Master Sound, studios, it looks as though victory might have been snatched from the jaws of the RCA dog.

Tom T. Hall Busy With Songs, Books

CORPUS CHRISTI—Tom T. Hall begins a full tour schedule this month having bought his own recording studio, cut a new LP there and written a second music oriented book.

The LP contains 10 love songs, he says and is appropriately titled "About Love." The tunes were cut in his own Toy Box studio outside Nashville in Brentwood, Tenn., 10 minutes from Nashville's Music Row.

The studio has also been used for some gospel sessions as well as for producing commercials.

Hall's first book, "How To Write A Song—And How You Can," is already on the market. The second, tentatively titled "They Wouldn't Let Me Sing In Church," "is about Nashville as I have seen it," Hall says.

"It is a story that begins Jan. 1, 1964, a time when Roger Miller was about to step into the limelight, Kris Kristofferson was tending bar, Jeanne C. Riley was a secretary, Dallas Frazier was an unknown and the best story of all, Tanya Tucker was one-year old."

Hall was here recently to participate in a telethon with Johnny Rodriguez which raised $100,000 for Cerebral Palsy.

See Expansion For Con Brio Records

NASHVILLE—The Con Brio Records complex is expanding on several fronts.

The label's first LP by Dale McBride—"The Ordinary Man Album"—has been released at a list price of $5.98. Con Brio's Don King has signed an exclusive booking agreement with Buddy Lee Attractions.

The roster continues to grow with the addition of Jan Howard who is now touring with the Johnny Cash road show. The "Grand Ole Opry" member will make a guest appearance on the "Country Hit Parade" show slated for NBC, Saturday (16).

And publishing operations are also being intensified. Rex Peer is being appointed publishing director for the label's three affiliated companies—Con Brio Music, BMI; Wil-jex Publishing, ASCAP; and Con-corde Publishing, SESAC.

Nashville Scene

By PAT NELSON

Loretta Lynn will appear on the CBS-TV special, "Viewer's Choice," Thursday (7), before embarking on a European tour that begins in London. Hosted by George Burns, the show is the result of a CBS viewer survey which indicated performers the audience would most like to see. Lynn taped her portion of the show at a regular concert appearance in Knoxville, Tenn.

Bill Green, MCA sales manager from Cleveland, Ohio, will accompany Lynn on her tour in Europe which includes performances at the Wembley Festival and the Gutenberg Festival in Sweden. Green was chosen for the trip by the MCA artist as a way of saying "thank you" to a member of the MCA sales force.

KLAC in Los Angeles has come up with a fund-raiser, a six-day radiothon which netted $22,115 for the National Asthma Center in Denver. Creation and execution of the marathon project were worked out jointly by Harold Samuels, development director of the Los Angeles chapter, and Don Langford, program manager at KLAC. The radiothon took place nightly on the Chuck Sullivan show from midnight until 5:30 a.m. beginning March 21.

Station personalities supporting Sullivan included Dick Haynes, Harry Newman, Art Nelson, Jay Lawrence and Sammy Jackson who promoted the show daily during their programs. Guesting in person with Sullivan were Claude Atkins, Walter Matthau and Steve Allen. Donna Fargo and Buck Owens, honorary co-chairpersons of the radiothon, called in nightly.

Randy Barlow, whose Gazelle Records single, "Kentucky Woman," moves to a starred 54 in Billboard's Hot Country singles chart this week, taped an appearance on the syndicated tv show, "Pop Goes The Country," March 22. Songs And Slides Help Teach Kids

By JEAN WILLIAMS

LOS ANGELES—Gary Byrd has developed Disco-Edu-Tech, a multimedia educational motivation system, using popular songs with slides of well-known recording acts to motivate New York youngsters to read. The system is set to go into operation April 15.

Byrd is a WWRL, New York, radio announcer, poet and co-author with Stevie Wonder of the tunes "Village Ghetto Land" and "Black Man" on Wonder's LP "Songs In The Key Of Life."

The idea, says Byrd, is to motivate kids through systems they seem to grasp easiest: records, pictures and song titles.

The lessons have such tags as "Superstition," "Fight The Power," "The Hustle," and others.

"I will use the theme 'The Hustle' to show the kids how it relates to the hustle of going to school and getting their homework done in order to get themselves together," says Byrd.

"Take the song 'Superstition,'" he continues, "I will apply this word to reading, while talking about how superstition can prevent them from being able to get into reading. The idea being that superstitious ideas tell them that they can't read."

The package is presented to kids in poetic form, much like youngsters learn their ABCs by singing them.

"I have the kids spell the word while singing it in a chant. Then I will use the word in a sentence while making it rhyme. This is climaxed by playing the record 'Superstition.' As the record is playing, I show a sequence of slide information, which shows Stevie Wonder doing different things," says Byrd.

"Our theory on this project," he continues, "is that young people are exposed to so much information via records and television they are able to digest more information than is actually put to them in a classroom."

The Disco-Edu-Tech system is being sponsored by the Washington, D.C.-based organization Reading Is Fundamental in conjunction with the New York Board of Education, says Byrd.

The program is designed for grades one through six but plans are on the drawing board to take it through high school, using music to deal with career oriented subjects.

The Gap Band on Tattoo Records began a three-month concert and promotional tour last week in support of its first LP "The Gap Band."

J. J. Johnson, new program director replacing Jim Maddox at KDAY, Los Angeles, was Billboard's 1976 radio personality of the year.

Maddox, who moves onto KLYX-FM in Houston as vice president-general manager, is a Billboard two-time winner as program director.

Shalamar, the new disco act with a 12-inch and 7-inch 45 "Uptown Festival" on the Soul Train label, is a trio comprised of two former "Soul Train" dancers Jody Watley and Jeffrey Daniel plus Gary Mumford. The group's first Soul Train LP is being readied for release.

Philly $7.98 LP Boycott Spreads

discuss this problem," Webb says. "We have also drawn up petitions to be circulated to the general public including local schools," says Webb.

The petition says in part, "Due to the rise in price of single LPs to $7.98, we the consumers of America regret to inform you that we will not purchase these records from our local record stores until the old price of $6.98 is restored. We support our stores in their move to boycott these $7.98 albums."

Webb notes that another petition is being distributed to retail record outlets. This petition states: "We the undersigned record dealers of the Philadelphia area wish to voice our grievances against the manufacturers who have raised their prices from $6.98 to $7.98 for single LPs. We have not been protected against throat-cutting tactics of some stores in the area which are selling $6.98 LPs for $3.38 and $7.98 albums for from $4.39 to $4.99. We must pay $4.50 to $4.60 for these same LPs."

Webb claims that for the past two weeks, (he believes) the stores listed have ceased purchasing $7.98 LPs, and feels that the effect is being felt even more by manufacturers now that Philadelphia's public transportation system is on strike.

"People who want to buy these records from us and can't will usually go downtown using public transportation to get there. Now that they can't get there, I feel that, at least in this market, the manufacturers should be feeling the effects of non-sales. One of the manufacturers has already called me for a meeting."

The members representing the boycotting group for this meeting with the manufacturer are Record Bar, Pat's Music Store, P&L Records and Webb's.

"I am getting calls from other states asking how they can become a part of this boycott. We welcome their participation because the more reputable dealers we get involved, the stronger our position will be."

An East Coast regional promotion representative from one of the major labels without $7.98 product but who admits that one will be released shortly, says, "I'll be damned if I want my company to release any $7.98 product now. I don't know how far this group will get with this boycott but everybody's talking about it."

"If it spreads to other states, these guys just might get the prices lowered or something. I would hate to have to walk into one of these shops with a $7.98 record. They're so mad now, they might throw me out."

Webb explains that 25 years ago there was a retailers organization in Philadelphia but it was disbanded. "We're sending out letters to all retailers in the city asking them to attend a meeting next week to reorganize the retailers organization.

"We're pointing out to the retailers that if all of the shops get together in an organization, we will be able to plan our methods of conducting business and make a sizable profit, while policing the industry at the same time."

The 51 shops participating in Philadelphia and New Jersey, says Webb, are: Pat's Music, Broadway, Record Bar, Marvin's, Milt's Records, Mel's House Of Sounds, Treegoob's Records, Ricky's Records, Joe Dorsey, Sonny's Records, 3rd Street Jazz, Smith's Records, P&L Records, Paramount, Riser's Records, Petrella's Records, Record Rendezvous, Martin's, Al's Record Hut, Big Tom's Records, Blair's Discount Records, Chew's Records, Economy Records, Evans Records, Fairview Records, Gold Records, Goodman's Records, Hasan's Records, Jolley's Records, Lincoln's Music, Nu Sound Records, Oak Lane Records, Sam Rymer's, Ryan's Records, King James Records, Changes Records, C&B Records, Popic's Records, Opposum Records, Bargain Garden Records, Zodiac Sound Center, Super Sound, Soundville, Jam's Records, Moonbeam Records, Bill Scott Records, Our-Spot Records, Majestic Gift Shop, Herman's Records, Ray's Records and Clinky's Family World.

BIRTHRIGHT & RANWOOD ALLIANCE

Rackers Stocking Black Gospel

LOS ANGELES—Black gospel product is now being handled by national rackjobbers such as J.L. Marsh, ABC Records & Tape Sales and Handleman, states Larry Welk, general manager of Ranwood Records, now in this field.

Ranwood, a predominately MOR label housing acts like Lawrence Welk, the Mills Brothers, Jim Nabors and others, has entered into a distribution agreement with Birthright Records, a black gospel outlet, with plans to distribute the product through rack chains.

Says Welk: "In talking to the racks, which have always been our merchandising outlets, I feel that they have not exploited any of this product properly."

Dr. Byron Spears, owner of the six-month-old Birthright label and of seven-year-old BeeGee Records, once distributed by Chelsea Records, explains that this is a broadening move for gospel. "Racks are only a part of the total sales picture. The product will also continue to be merchandised through regular gospel channels," he says.

"I have found that one of the racks, which controls 70% of the outlets where records are sold in Northern California, doesn't carry black gospel," claims Welk. "And that's a heavy black gospel area."

"The racks tell me that they are open to this product, realizing there is a market for it and they're missing this business," he adds.

Welk feels that with product, particularly specialized product, racks are more approachable and cooperative than chain retailers.

"With the chain retailer," he says, "we go to the central buying office, arrange to set up a promotion advising them of how we will support the promotion."

"After that," he continues, "It's up to the individual store manager as to what he wants to do. If he says black gospel doesn't sell and wants it out of the store, it's up to him."

"On the other hand, going to J.L. Marsh with the same promotion, the merchandise is tagged for automatic replacement. It's not up to the store manager as to what display he wants to put up."

Ranwood and Birthright are budgeting to advertise in black national publications such as Ebony and Jet magazines and in local gospel papers.

Says James Bullard, executive vice president, general manager of Birthright: "We will also buy radio time tying in both black-oriented outlets and rack accounts."

In support of the product, the two firms are purchasing radio time in major markets for 10 weeks beginning Friday (15). Spots will air for one month, with a packaged concert of Birthright acts coming in during the second month. This is followed by more spots, says Bullard. The label has both contemporary and traditional music acts.

Birthright, whose most popular act is Edwin Hawkins, has eight LPs in its catalog with plans to release four new LPs on Friday (15) and four on June 15.

Catalog LPs are by the Stan Lee Ensemble, the group which has backed Lou Rawls; the Caravans; Voices of Watts; Rodena Preston, sister of Billy Preston, and Hawkins.

April 15th releases are by the East St. Louis Gosspelettes, the Pattersons, the Matthews Sisters and Voices of Faith with Rodena Preston.

Birthright will continue to operate (Continued on page 59)

WBFO Live Airings Hypo Jazz Audience In Buffalo

By ED HARRISON

LOS ANGELES—Public radio station WBFO in Buffalo is boosting the city's jazz scene with a series of live three hour stereo broadcasts from the Statler Hilton Hotel.

The station broadcasts two complete sets on opening night with interviews conducted between sets. David Benders, program director, says the series is not intended to be a profit maker but to present quality jazz and help rejuvenate the downtown Buffalo area.

The series has met with such favorable response that the 180-station National Public Radio network will condense the broadcasts into a series of 13 weekly hour airings to be beamed over subscribing stations this summer.

Bill Hassett, who owns the Statler, plans to record each broadcast for release on Improv Records. Hassett is co-partner of the label with Tony Bennett.

Among the acts that have appeared on broadcasts are the John Lewis Trio, Monty Alexander, Phil Woods, Charlie Byrd, Dizzy Gillespie, Helen Humes, Zoot Sims, Clark Terry, Marian MacPartland, Grady Tate, the Hank Jones Trio and Glen Covington.

"Recording live music that listeners like and think is unique helps identify the station and increases subscribers," says Benders. "Jazz has been improving in Buffalo after being dead for many years."

"In 1975 when the broadcasts began, the jazz scene was positive and we responded to that by programming more hours of jazz."

The station, owned and supported by the State Univ. at Buffalo, also programs classical, folk and blues in addition to 72 hours of jazz each week.

Benders says the university was instrumental in the city's revitalized jazz scene. The school presented Keith Jarrett, Chick Corea and Pat Martino who all did well and proved that jazz concerts could be successful.

John Hunt is jazz coordinator and host of the series and Mark Fruehauf is producer.

FUTURE STILL IN DOUBT

Eurovision Fuss Throws Damper On Label Release & Promo Plans

By JOHN HAYWARD

LONDON—Problems galore have arisen for British record companies licensing foreign entries chosen for the Eurovision Song Contest now that the event has been indefinitely postponed, with uncertainty and doubt about its future.

Companies are having to decide whether to cut their losses and withdraw singles until a firm date has been set for the contest, or go ahead with normal promotion and release schedules.

At one stage, at the 11th hour, it seemed possible that an attempt by the record industry itself to keep the contest alive could save Britain's face and the industry promotion budgets.

In less than an hour, Rod Buckle, of Sonet Records U.K., raised around $20,000 towards a target of $34,000 for charity if the BBC television outside broadcast cameramen guaranteed not to pull the plugs out on the show at Wembley, April 2.

Says Buckle: "I was prepared to put in a tenth of the amount to save the contest, as were RCA, Polydor and several other companies. The offer would have allowed the cameramen to save face and even gain a lot of valuable publicity for their cause. But the offer was rejected. It is a pity the British record industry didn't wade into the idea in a big way and make a fuss. We could have got the contest off the ground so that all had benefit."

Sonet has the Netherlands and Monaco disk entries, both already out (release of competing singles is permitted a month before the actual contest). But press advertising has been cancelled and the songs will be repromoted if and when the contest is rescheduled. Says Buckle: "Both could be hits in their own right, but we'll keep something in reserve for the contest."

Of the industry plan to save the show, a spokesman for the cameramen's union says: "With regret, we just had to refuse the offer for charity. We are talking about an industrial dispute which will be argued out between ourselves and the BBC and no one else."

Few record companies have been hit as hard as Power Exchange. Paul Robinson, chairman, says: "I feel sick about it. We have the Greek and Swedish entries as well as joint publishing of the U.K. entry, 'Rock Bottom.' We're going ahead with the records in the hope they will be hits. We'd have picked up the Greek and Swedish records anyway as they are good songs. But I pressed 20,000 copies of each in advance, whereas the usual initial order is more like 4,000."

Total investment for Power Exchange in the contest is around $50,000 on production and promotion alone, but the company plans to bring the Greek and Swedish groups in for concerts to help build support for them.

A spokesman for Polydor, which has "Rock Bottom," says: "Sales are not as good as if the contest had gone ahead. But we've sold out the initial pressing and now order according to demand. We'll work the record as a normal chart hit."

Polydor also has the French entry, due for release the Friday following the scheduled contest date, but this has now been withdrawn until a new date may be fixed.

EMI, where the Belgian and Swiss entries are involved, has released the product and if the contest is rescheduled, further marketing and promotion may be planned.

CBS has high hopes for the Italian entry "Libera," by Mia Martini, and it will be out, contest or no, in a few weeks.

CBS view is: "There are two ways of looking at the televising of the event. It is great promotion to have so many millions of people tuned in for the show, but you can be actually worse off if the song is not among the winners."

The European Broadcasting Union still hopes to make an announcement about a possible new venue and date for the contest.

WEA Servicing Retailers Via Own U.K. Distribution

LONDON—WEA Distribution, nine months in the planning, has swung into action in the U.K., with 800 of the company's major accounts being serviced out of the new depot in Alpertown, Middlesex.

By the time the move to distribution is complete in June, WEA's investment in the U.K. will be complete, assuming it does not become involved in manufacturing, and the company should be ready to fulfill its true potential.

Since Neshui Ertegun took over as caretaker managing director and reunited the Warner-Reprise, Atlantic and Elektra/Asylum labels under one roof, the coordinated repertoire power has begun to produce impressive results. This was particularly noted in 1977's first quarter when, under new managing director John Fruin, the company scored a number one hit with "Chanson d'Amour," by Manhattan Transfer and a chart-topping album with the tv-promoted "Portrait Of Frank Sinatra."

The WEA distribution is being

Screen Gems-EMI Alters Network Of Intl Licensees

NEW YORK—Screen Gems/Colgems-EMI Music has substantially altered its foreign licensing web, a process begun last August when EMI acquired the publishing enterprise from Columbia Pictures Inc. for about $23.5 million.

In all but two cases, EMI affiliates in Europe and other parts of the world have been packed.

Polish 'Uncle Tom'

WARSAW—Outstanding German composer Michael Jary, who now lives in Switzerland, has decided to stage his new musical "Alabama" at the theater in Szczecin, in the northern part of Poland.

This will be the world premiere of a show based on the novel by Harriet Beecher-Stowe, "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The libretto is by Polish author Andrzej Tycinski and German Andreas Bauer. Choreography is by Sam Venta, from the U.S.

"This will give us the advantage of the integrated relationship that exists between EMI affiliates," says Edwin Z. Robinson, Screen Gems vice president and general manager.

He sees these ties as permitting coordinated exploitation of copyrights across national boundaries while yet retaining elements of competitive effort.

"Even though we are all sister companies, says Robinson, for us they are licensees and must meet negotiated performance and money monetary guarantees."

Those newly signed by Screen Gems/Colgems-EMI are Castle Music (Australia), Ardmore & Beechwood (Belgium), Les Editions et Productions Musicales Pathe-Marconi (France), Edizione La Voce del Padrone (Italy), Ego Musical (Spain), and Imudico (Sweden).

Among older Screen Gems licensees retained in the restructuring are Beechwood (Mexico), Alfa Music (Japan), and Laetec Music (South Africa). The last two firms are the only non-EMI affiliates in the string.

In Britain, new offices have been opened by Screen Gems/Colgems-EMI Music at 21 Denmark St., London. Brian Hopkins heads the operation there, with Brian Freshwater as professional manager. A recent addition to the staff is Paul Barbe assigned promotion duties.

'Top 40' Chart Is Lifted From Dutch Magazine

AMSTERDAM—New Dutch music weekly Hitkrant has been banned from using the Top 40, Holland's most prestigious best-seller chart. That was the outcome of a lawsuit against the magazine's publisher by the foundation which handles the chart.

Since the first week of January Hitkrant has printed the chart without permission of the copyright owners. The chart is compiled by telephone inquiries to about 1,000 Dutch record dealers.

The President of the Amsterdam Court of Justice agreed with the foundation that this constituted a breach of copyright and ordered the publisher to pay the costs of the hearing.

Copyright agency STEMBRA/BUMA, which compiles the alternative Top 30, also an important chart, has decided that it will no longer send the charts to Dutch newspapers. Previously, both daily and weekly papers were allowed to print the chart free, but now the agency is demanding payment.

Dutch news agency ANP has already decided against paying, which means it can no longer put out the chart on telex to the news media. If an individual newspaper wants to publish the Top 30, it has to make a payment arrangement with the agency.

ZZ Top Japan Push

NEW YORK—ZZ Top, "that little ole band from Texas," may be making a big splash in Japan if the King Record Company Ltd., its distributors there, is successful in its promotion campaign.

King has prepared pendants, vinyl record bags, posters and brochures in conjunction with the release of "Tejas." The firm has also mounted a press campaign which has resulted in numerous articles about the band.

Good Earth Acts Find New Homes

LONDON—The closing of the Good Earth Agency offices here has led to widespread moves around the London agency business.

Just prior to the closure, it was announced the agency had been acquired by John Sherry's NEMS Agency, which has rapidly grown into the largest rock roster in Europe. It is believed that NEMS will take over representation of Average White Band and Dirty Tricks from the old Good Earth organization.

Bob England, former Good Earth co-director, says he will work on promotion in the future, following his work on the first European tours in five years by James Brown and Jerry Lee Lewis. He also manages new London band Darts and is visiting the U.S. to conclude a record deal for the group.

He says: "There has been a deliberate running down of the agency in recent months. The company's time had been increasingly used on presenting Brown and Lewis and I'm retaining European representation of these major acts. Our other Good Earth acts have found new agencies."

Paul King, from Good Earth, is to be associated with heavy rock trio Strife, with a record deal imminent. David Whitely, booker for Good Earth, is uncertain of future plans.

EMI-Bovema Signs New License Deals

AMSTERDAM—EMI-Bovema has signed a contract with Chelsea Records to represent the U.S. firm in Holland. Pact runs for three years.

The Dutch company has also acquired license rights to the U.K. Spiral label, a division of President Records.

Czech Disk Club Attracts Record Number Of Subs

PRAGUE—The 17th release schedule of the Czechoslovak Record Club, which now sells the product of all three local companies (Supraphon, Panton and Opus) hit a subscription high of 85,000, of whom 28,000 were people joining the club for the first time.

They ordered a total 730,000 titles, comprising more than 850,000 LPs as some are two or three-record sets. Fourteen further titles are prepared by Supraphon for the special edition of the Young World Weekly, to add to the company's record club 61 titles. Opus had 15 titles and Panton six.

Classical music was represented by 53 titles, pop by 19, spoken word recordings had 14, jazz totaled eight and ethnic folk produced two records.

Orders on albums by Deep Purple and Neil Diamond approached the 50,000 mark; Bob Dylan, Janis Joplin and Pink Floyd were in the 30,000-40,000 mark, and a reissue of old Billie Holiday items reached the 33,000 mark.

In the classical field, a four-album set of Czech and Moravian baroque organ recordings brought orders for 28,000, and Bach's "French Suites," Mozart's "Violin Sonatas" and the Dvorak opera "The Jacobine," all by local artists, ranked among classical best-sellers.

There is no antagonism between the record club and record retailers as most of the club members receive ordered records through specialist retailers in their own towns. The club helps bring customers into the stores.

Members do not receive any discount but are entitled to a bonus album if they order more than five disks. Club titles may be introduced on the open market only after a gap of six months after release under the club banner.

RIGHTS HASSLE

Brunswick 'Shuffle' Pulled

LONDON—Decca has withdrawn its Brunswick single of "The Ali Shuffle" by Alvin Cash pending legal clarification of the issues raised by Contempo's claim that it holds exclusive rights to the record. Contempo's version stays on sale, through distribution by Pye.

The withdrawal follows injunction proceedings by Contempo against Decca and is under the advice of counsel, though the company maintains title to the record through its licensing deal with Brunswick U.S.

Meanwhile, a legal battle here also appears to be brewing between two other companies regarding the official follow-up to Barry Biggs' recent Top 10 hit "Side Show." Trojan Records has issued "Why Must You Cry" and described it as the follow-up. At the same time Dynamic Sounds Production, which goes through Creole, claims "You Are My Life," on Dynamic as was "Side Show," as the official follow-up.

Creole claims the Trojan disk should not be considered in follow-up light and at one point pondered an injunction against "Why Must You Cry." But Trojan chairman Marcel Rodd says no injunction has been received. Instead, Trojan lawyers have advised that proceedings be taken against Dynamic Sounds of Jamaica claiming that though Biggs is no longer with Trojan, the original recording of "Side Show," along with "Why Must You Cry" still belong to Rodd's company.

EMI Introduces Kid Disk Series

LONDON — EMI here has launched a new series of children's records "Talking Tales," backed by commercial radio advertising and retailing at around $1.65.

The series comprises record-cum-book packs, each with a 7-inch disk (average playing time 13 minutes) sleeved into the back of the printed story. Each record involves a single narrator, plus music, sound effects and a cast of actors playing various parts.

Titles include "Jack And The Beanstalk," "Tom Thumb," "Beauty And The Beast," since market research shows that traditional stories such as these offer the best sales prospects, rather than some of the recent more unconventional children's tales.

U.S. Classic Jazz Pushed By Bovema

AMSTERDAM — EMI - Bovema here is mounting a big push for Blue Note, the U.S. jazz label set up in 1939 by German immigrants Alfred Lion and Francis Wolff.

Campaign highlights a set of 10 re-released special-price albums, with classic recordings of former label artists like Art Blakey and the Jazz Messengers, Horace Silver, Herbie Hancock, Clifford Brown and Cannonball Adderley. Blakey's "Blues March" has been re-released as a single.

International

Intl Song Contest Ups Prize Payoff

DUBLIN—The Castlebar International Song Contest has trebled its first prize to roughly $5,100 for the 12th annual contest to be held in the first week of October. In addition there is an increase to $800 for the winner of the instrumental section, which was introduced last year for the first time.

The organizers now claim the prize fund makes Castlebar the richest songwriting competition of its kind in the world. It is to be sponsored by Berger Paints and, as well as cash prizes, trophies will be awarded to composers and singers from Ireland and abroad.

Castlebar is a contest open to all composers, amateur and professional, throughout the world. Closing date for entries is June 11. Composers chosen to contest the closing stages of the event will be announced in July.

Rules and entry forms can be obtained from Gisela O'Connor, international relations officer, 10, St. Helen's Road, Booterstown, County Dublin, Ireland (phone Dublin 881008). The contest is to be staged in the Travellers Friend Hotel, Castlebar (Oct. 3-8), under the auspices of Castlebar Chamber of Commerce.

Indie Dealers In U.K. Mull New Trade Group Launch

By PETER JONES

LONDON—First steps have been taken towards forming a new organization to represent Britain's independent record dealers.

At Coventry, in the Midlands, there was a small turnout in particularly bad weather, but messages of support and interest were received from dealers round the country and the meeting engendered enough interest for a committee to be formed and for another meeting to be arranged.

The get-together stemmed from Leicester Derek Watson and Melton Mowbray retailer Dave Allwood, who say they will try to recruit 600 dealers willing to pay a membership fee of £50 each to provide the organization with sufficient operating funds.

The committee, including these two, will be under the chairmanship of former Phonodisc commercial manager Fred Exon, now a dealer. Allwood says it is intended to form a professionally staffed organization with full-time officials.

Principal aim of the group is to establish direct contact with manufacturers to resolve problems and seek consultation on future trading policies. He says: "I am sure the manufacturers would welcome such an association to which they could talk as a truly representative body. I see 1977 as a disaster year when many independent dealers will go to the wall. There is still time, but only just, to put things on a proper footing."

Allwood adds: "The GRRC—Gramophone Record Retailers Committee—has done a reasonably good job in the past with limited resources but has no direct contact with the retail trade generally and does not have its support."

There is, he says, further criticism of the GRRC, called "the side kick of the Music Trades Assn.," for failing to organize its own regional meetings, recruit effectively or let dealers know about its activities.

One dealer new to the trade said at the meeting he was still waiting for GRRC membership details after first seeking them in January this year. Another member of 15 years standing said: "The only way I am aware of what the GRRC has done is by reading the trade press. I don't know how it is elected and at no time have I ever received a news sheet. It is, for me, a completely useless organization."

Attending as an independent dealer, Harry Tipple, secretary of the GRRC, said: "As a retailer, I don't see you doing anything that is not already happening. Before parting with my £50, I would want to hear you doing something which is not being done."

David Soul Is Tough On T-Shirt Pirates

LONDON—Companies using either the name or likeness of David Soul to sell merchandise, including T-shirts, scarves and posters, risk prosecution following the singer starting his own merchandising company.

Soul, alias Hutch of tv series "Starsky and Hutch," who recently finished a series of sellout U.K. concerts, has been a tough opponent of illegal merchandise and his action follows a case involving Abba, due to be heard in court here soon.

The new company is the David Soul Foundation, a charitable concern, which will assign merchandising rights to various licensees. All royalties will be used to assist young folk, including the relief of poverty and for educational aids. Legal action will be brought against any manufacturer who seeks to sell goods not authorized by the foundation.

Car Accident Stalls Tumbleweeds Dates

AMSTERDAM—There will be no shows by the Tumbleweeds before the end of May at the earliest because two members of the group, bassist Micky de Boer and drummer Ad Masseurs, were injured in a car accident.

In the same accident Herman Guns, 53, president of the group's Dutch fan-club, received fatal injuries. The party, which also included road manager Fritz van Hooy, was returning home after a concert. The car went into a skid and hit a tree.

The group's new album, scheduled for April release, is to be held back.

RCA 'Euro Network' Advances continent support in marketing and promotion for our owned companies and licensing operations, a departure from strict market-by-market administration."

Tessler notes the problem is not unique to RCA. "Trying to get the companies together to launch an act with a central continent-wide thrust takes a lot of coordinating on releases, tours, promoters and many other factors," he points out.

The reorganization comes on the heels of the best year ever for the RCA International division, which provided more than 50% of sales for RCA Records for the first time, Summer observes.

Vias ticks off a number of specific projects discussed at the London meeting that will get further attention in May:

- Launch of the TK label in the U.K. with its important repertoire, completing the worldwide marketing arrangement between the two companies.

- Recap of the successful Hall & Oates European tour with much television exposure, the first involving the new "network" arrangement. Sales are just beginning to be traced to the duo's dates in the U.K., France, Germany, Holland, Belgium and Sweden.

- Debut of Iggy Pop, protege of David Bowie, with the meeting timed to coincide with the group's London concert.

- Launch of Helen Schneider, new Windsong artist, with a coordinated European release this month.

- Coordination of RCA Italy star Lucio Battisti's new English-language version LP release in the U.S. and Europe this month, following the highly successful reception to the Italian version in his home country in March. Both were cut in Los Angeles.

- Review of RCA's first-ever U.K. television merchandising campaign, with 175,000 pounds budgeted for a Glenn Miller package. Total concept from market research on demographics to sales aids was covered at the meeting.

- RCA participation in the Eurovision finals with five country entries as RCA affiliates, either distributor or publisher. Contingency marketing plans are on tap to promote the winning entry, if it's tied to RCA.

Summer, Vias and Tessler emphasize that the new "network" concept is meant only to supplement the individual affiliate efforts in the local markets, and that progress to date is most encouraging.

Duty Slashed On Cutout Imports

July 1974 into this aspect of the record business.

Manny Wells, co-owner of Surplus Records and Tape Distributors in New Jersey, a major exporter of cutouts, says that he expects the duty cuts "to affect us significantly." He says that the duty change comes after "a long hassle" and frequent correspondence with the Canadian government to lower the duties.

response with the Canadian government to lower the duties.

Ivor Liss, the president of Caravan Records, a Montreal-based importer of deletes, indicates that this is a major victory for his company and other delete houses in Canada.

"Canadian record companies have considered a number of actions to put us out of business," states Liss.

Calgary Bistro Finds $$ Booking Recording Acts

CALGARY—A flexible booking policy leaning towards recording acts has proven to be a successful formula for Lou Blair, former record man turned managing director of the Refinery, one of Canada's top showcase venues.

A booking concept which Blair refers to as "the eight-day week" has certain acts, on special occasions, begin their week on Sunday night. Blair also points out that close to 80% of the acts booked into the Refinery are Canadian.

Blair started out in the business as a promotion representative for WEA and then joined Capitol Records handling promotion in western Canada for the company. On July 4, 1974, the same day that he joined Capitol Records, the Refinery opened in Calgary, a partnership between Gayle Liben, Myrna Stevenson and Merle Durocher.

When Blair joined the company in September of 1974, the club was booking lounge acts almost exclusively at $1,450 a week.

"I wanted to go with a formula house policy," says Blair. "Discotheque music went over very well so we brought in that type of act. Musically, they were all the same. We just changed the faces each week."

The turning point for the club came in April of 1975. The Downchild Blues Band was in the middle of a cross-Canada tour and had a week off. It was brought into the Refinery by Blair. "There was a line around the block," remembers Blair. "I made close to $10,000 that week. That made me take another look at my booking policies. We were in competition with another club in town called Lucifer's which was running with a total disco policy, so I had to move cautiously."

CBS Honors Artists With Gold, Platinum

TORONTO—Burton Cummings, Murray McLauchlan, Lou Rawls and Harmonium are recipients of gold and platinum awards handed out by CBS Records Canada Ltd. in the last month.

At a reception at the Hotel Toronto on March 16, following the Juno Awards, Burton Cummings, who walked away with Junos as best new male vocalist and best male vocalist, was presented with a gold single for "Stand Tall" and a platinum album for his first LP on the Portrait label.

A day earlier, following his concert appearance at Massey Hall, Lou Rawls was presented with a gold LP. On March 14, Murray McLauchlan was presented a gold LP for his album "Boulevard."

In Montreal, Quebecois group Harmonium was presented with a gold record for the album "L'Heptade." The award was presented by Terry Lynd, president of CBS Records Canada Ltd. following Harmonium's week of sold-out concert appearances at the Outremont Theatre in Montreal.

Every six weeks, Blair would bring in an act like Downchild or King Biscuit Boy, and the increase in attendance during those weeks was significant. "I was getting bored with just booking in disco bands anyway so I decided to take the plunge and go with name recording acts," says Blair.

He booked acts like Myles and Lenny, Shooter, Brutus, Long John Baldry, Liverpool, Sweet Blindness, Johnny Rivers, Mary Wells, Duane Eddy, Crack of Dawn and Michel Pagliaro. The size of crowds at the Refinery each week indicate that the club has found its booking niche. Blair also says that there has been significant promotional support from Canadian record companies.

Currently the club is in a period of expansion with a new 150-seat lounge to be known as My Apartment. One of its features will be a bar suspended over a moat.

As a division of the club there is a record company, Tuxedo Junction Records, as well as a management and publishing company, handled by another former record man, Don Boas.

Griff Catalog To Morning Music

TORONTO — Morning Music Ltd. has entered into a sub-publishing agreement with Nashville-based Canadian songwriter Ray Griff for his three catalogs—Blue Echo Music, Blue Band Music and Blue Melody Music.

Morning Music will administer the three catalogs for the world outside of North America and Great Britain.

Morning Music, which also administers the foreign affairs of Jack Music Inc., the Aunt Polly's Group and the Terrace Music group, has been concentrating on creating a wider outlet for the product of those publishers it represents, according to Mark Altman and Jury Krytiuk of the company.

In the past year, they have come up with over a dozen European chart singles and 200 foreign covers of the songs they represent, they say.

Columbia House May Close Club

TORONTO—Columbia House has reduced its operations in Canada, and may close down its Canadian record club if an advertising blitz that ran through the month of March fails to attract a significant number of new members, according to Terry Lynd, president of CBS Records Canada, Ltd.

Richard Gurien, vice president and general manager of Columbia House, says that membership in the club has been allowed to trail off to 85,000 from 120,000. About 22,000 members are in bad standing with the club because they owe money.

"Originally they took a close look at the provisions of the anti-dumping laws, but obviously they didn't apply to us. Then they tried to take action under the Copyright Act, but that didn't hold up. Finally they found an obscure law that pertained to the fashion industry, which basically stated that if goods were one prime goods, importers would have to pay duty on the basis of the original wholesale price. That provision was then applied to the record industry."

"After a thorough investigation, the Customs Dept. ascertained that records should be in the same classification as books on which duty is paid based on their fair market value in the U.S."

Set Stones' Court Date In Film Tiff

HALIFAX—The Rolling Stones continues to make news in this country, this time with a court appearance planned for May 6 to claim ownership of a film that Mick Jagger has alleged holds the group up to "scorn and ridicule."

In 1972, Robert Frank, an American now residing in Mabou Mines, Nova Scotia, was reportedly given a contract by Promotour, a booking agency with head offices in Amsterdam, to act as cinematographer for a film which would document the band's 1972 Canada and U.S. tour.

The allegation, in an affidavit signed by Jagger, indicates that on completion of the film, Frank held showings in Berkeley, New York and Los Angeles. The band claims that Frank had no right to possession of the film.

Jagger also alleges that Frank "distorted events through selective editing, and has included in the film footage events which are private to the individual members of the Rolling Stones which should never be exhibited without our consent."

Reportedly, a film was seized at Frank's home following a court injunction issued March 7 and an injunction has also been served in London preventing the News Of the World from publishing a report on the film.

Also expected to appear at the May 6 hearing is Prince Rupert Loewenstein of the Netherlands, the managing director of Promotour.

Quebecois Rack Set In Montreal

MONTREAL—A totally Quebecois owned rack operation is opening under the name Multidisc Inc., a division of Alta Music, a Quebec record distributor.

The manager of the new one-stop operation is Robert Corbin, the former manager of Trans Canada Musique, another Quebec-based record and tape distributor. Buyer for the new operation will be Richard Vincent, formerly with Opus Distributors.

Alta Music, owned by Danny and Jack Lazare along with Alain Guillemette, distributes Motown, Mushroom, Pickwick, Memorex tapes and their own Gamma and Aquarius labels in Quebec.

Alta Music and Gamma Records are currently moving to new office headquarters that has 18,000 square feet in North Montreal. A company spokesman indicates that Multidisc will carry close to 6,000 selections.

Latin Scene

LOS ANGELES

Several sources report that the recent CBS Latin affiliate convention ended up in the Antilles island of Curacao not by choice but by the requirements of survival.

Apparently threats of bombings and kidnappings made against CBS executives were sufficiently unnerving to compel at least two changes of schedule and location. Though business executives throughout Latin America live with political turmoil as a way of life in many nations, CBS found the political heat particularly broiling this time.

With many executives converging on Caracas March 14, the meeting was abruptly changed to the admittedly less central, and less exciting, location in Curacao.

CBS International president Richard Asher was safely back in New York Monday (28) and apparently his colleagues survived in equally good health. Once the CBS tactical maneuvers foiled the anti-capitalist plots, the meetings in Curacao proved beneficial for the firm's business, according to Asher.

Jose Manuel Villareal, CBS/Mexico president who has long been head of OLA, the CBS umbrella organization for all its Latin affiliates, has left that post after many years at the helm. Sources say Villareal has decided to spend less time on business travels and more time with his grandchildren. However, this personnel shift may be an indication of major changes in the structure of OLA coming in the near future.

Back in the U.S., Caytronics vice president Lee Schapiro reports his firm attended parts of the CBS Curacao meeting, mostly to take in the presentations of new products from the affiliates. Unruffled by the political intrigue (quipping that if he had been kidnapped, terrorists may have received a good sum to keep him) Schapiro reports he was particularly impressed with the CBS/Mexico presentations of new product by Leo Dan, Vicente Fernandez and others with elaborate rear-projection screenings.

On the West Coast, Caytronics is preparing for its Easter Sunday concert featuring Camilo Sesto, Lindomar Castilho (Brazil) and Los Hermanos Diablos (Ecuador). A new singer/songwriter from Mexico named Emmanuel is also slated for the show. With strong backing in Mexico from RCA, Emmanuel stands to emerge as an important new international talent. Thus the exposure in the upcoming show here, to be televised on the popular "Siempre En Domingo," will be crucial. Meanwhile, Schapiro says he will rush out a single on the new artist with an album following shortly.

Caytronics' West Coast director Joe Ramirez has viewed the "Siempre En Domingo" program, broadcast to all of Mexico, the U.S. and Puerto Rico, as an exceptionally powerful vehicle for artist exposure. But Ramirez expresses regrets that ad time on the show is prohibitively expensive. He had hoped to run spots for Sesto LPs on prime time during the six-hour weekly musical marathon.

"From a national standpoint," Ramirez says, "my management said it was out of the question. So I did the next best thing and will run a one-minute spot for the L.A. area on the show's first segment."

Word reaches here from New York that a U.S. tour for Julio Iglesias may be capped by two firsts: his first L.A. appearance and the first appearance by a Latin artist at the famed Greek Theatre. Although there is little question that Iglesias could draw capacity crowds here, some observers still wonder whether this city's predominantly Mexican population would attend a concert at an unfamiliar location.

That nagging preconception about the Latin audience here was faced 20 years ago by '50s salsa dance promoter Chico Sesma who fought the reigning notion that Latinos were too fearful or ignorant to emerge from East side ghettos to attend a salsa show at the Hollywood Palladium. Since Sesma's first shows there, of course, the Palladium has been a salsa dance tradition. The lesson, then, is that first steps are always risky but can prove historical.

The alternative for Latin concerts in this city is narrow, continuing to place Latin acts of great stature in uncomfortable or inadequate facilities.

Like anywhere throughout the Latin world, Iglesias has had top record sales in this market. To handle the steady demand, Tony Estevez and his wife Rebecca have leased new offices here at 2720 W. Pico, coming out of hiding from the corner space they had been renting at Latin International's facility on Vermont. Estevez reports that Enrique Garza, international and/or manager for Casa Columbia, Alhambra's parent label in Madrid, was in town for the NARM convention and went off to New York to meet with CBS executives.

Apparently a contract between Iglesias and CBS is close to signing. Although Columbia Records International is unable to reveal details, a spokesman for the firm does confirm the contract is in negotiation. Estevez here believes the arrangement with CBS would be only for English language recordings.

Several executives at Musimex here, an independent label formerly strong in ranchera/northern music, have left the label. Tony Fernandez is out, but continuing his private concert promotion with the upcoming El Gran Combo/Orchestra Harlow show. Stan Steinhaus has left for Germany to take a job with Polydor there, he reports. Luis Conte has also left the firm, which has not produced new product for some time.

While the firm is down to a skeleton staff, attempts to contact remaining employees on the label's status have been unsuccessful.

Lupi Rodriguez, who was handling national promotion for Latin International, has left that label, reportedly on a leave of absence. She says she may take up concert promotion in the meantime, considering a possible show here for Miguel Gallardo. Latin International's manager Oscar Bolivar says Fernando Gonzalez will assume the promotion post as he had before Rodriguez joined the label. Bolivar also says that Pepe Garcia Jr., left last week to follow up the firm's business in Puerto Rico and Miami.

NEW YORK

"It's better late than never" best expresses the attitude of American clubs here as they incorporate Latin music nights into their weekly repertoire. The latest club employing Latin night is the Copacabana in midtown Manhattan which had long been a place where the elite met to see some of the world's most popular entertainers. Incongruous as it may seem, the club has also been a symbol to many of Latin tropical elegance. One can hardly think of the Copa without envisioning Carmen Miranda's famous Copa hats and theme song.

Known mainly as a discotheque today, the club starts presenting "live" Latin shows April 11 and every Monday night thereafter that will include comedy and dance acts as well as Latin bands. Abe Narvaez and Humphrey Castillo of Mi Cante Productions, who will inaugurate the Monday night shows, have decided that it is time to start showcasing Latin entertainers in a club atmosphere believing that a lot of talented Latinos are not getting the exposure they deserve in music clubs.

Willie Colon and Ruben Blades open April 11. The two have been performing together since the release last month of their Fania LP, "Mejorando Mano." Also appearing will be Vidal Y Sus Bailorines de Fuego (Vidal and His Fire Dancers) and comedy entertainment by Chavetito Y Pierigon and M.C. Izzy Sanabria.

Another American disco opening its doors to Latin music is the Decameron in Levittown, L.I., on Thursday nights beginning April 28 with Tito Puente and his orchestra hosted by Ralph Lew.

Easter Sunday (10) promises to be a gala salsa night at Columbia Univ.'s Ferris Booth Hall when radio station WKCR will present its third annual benefit show in order to raise money for the non-commercial station. Coordinated by the station's three Latin disk jockeys, Carlos de Jesus (also heard over WBLS on Sundays), Jose "Cheo" Diaz, and Carlos de Leon, their entertainment roster consists of Ricardo Marrero and the Group of "Babylonia" fame, Conjunto Libre, Pete "El Conde" Rodriguez, Bobby Rodriguez and his Compania who currently have the single "Wha' Happen," Tipica Ideal and Graciela and Mario Bauza of "La Botanical" fame. Beginning at 6 p.m. the show will be recorded and aired at a later date over WKCR. Cooperation from the Latin music industry was well received for this event as the acts are contributing their services free of charge. It'll be a "Sunday Kinda Love" for salsa fans.

Lamp Records' president Pat Laino, and Sam Goff, general managing partner of Coco Records, announce a long-term distribution arrangement whereby Lamp Records will be distributed by Coco. Goff states that Lamp will maintain its foreign license agreements and will be licensed separately from Coco. Lamp Records features groups such as Corporacion Latina, Graciela and Mario Bauza and Orquesta Cimarron. Goff and Harvey Averde, president of Coco, plan to release one album by each of these artists within the next 30 days.

News from Ralph Mercado Management says it has been keeping its bands busy with dates.

Hector LaVoe will appear at Hunter College here on April 22. ... Flutist Jose Fajardo returns to N.Y. Saturday (9) where he will be doing East Coast dates until May 22 when he returns to Miami. ... Argentinian singer Sandro, one of Latin America's biggest stars, will be presented in concert by International Records (distributed by Fania) at the Felt Forum at Madison Square Garden April 24. The concert will be a Charlie Tarab and Alberto Dircie production in association with Ralph Mercado and Ray Aviles. Special attraction will be Hector LaVoe and his orchestra. Emceeing will be Paquito Navarro for both 3 p.m. and 7 p.m.

"El Baquino De Angelitos Negros," a television drama featuring the music of Willie Colon, will be the subject of a WNET Realidades Latin production over the PBS network. Produced by Lou de Lemos and Livia Perez and directed by Mike Cuesta, it's being done in cooperation with Fania Records. Juan Anduze is choreographing the show, which centers around the religious ceremony for dead children. Air date isn't fixed.

Fania has signed vocalist Ismael Rivera to a long contract. Rivera, known as "El Sonero Mayor," is considered one of the most popular players on the salsa scene with three gold disks to his credit. Upon completion of his forthcoming LP on the Tico label, he'll tour 17 cities with a new orchestra and new compositions.

Final touches are being placed on the Fania All-Star's latest LP being produced and distributed by Columbia Records entitled, "The Rhythm Machine." Work is being done at Media Sound Studios. ... Vicentico Valdez finished his latest LP for Tico recorded in Argentina and produced by Fabian Ross. ... As stated last week in this column, Caracas, Venezuela is a territory that has broken wide open as far as salsa is concerned. Mon Rivera is touring there March 23-27, Pete "El Conde" played one-nighters there March 9-13 and Celia Cruz will be appearing there from April 29 to May 8. Harlow has been booked for some dates in Caracas from March 13-17.

Hector Castro's Conjunto Candela finished its second LP for Combo label featuring a tune called "Negro Cimarron." Conjunto Candela was also the group which backed vocalist Celia Cruz on her recent trip to Panama. ... Armand Hug Dies; Jazz At Funeral

NEW ORLEANS—A New Orleans jazz band performed at services for Armand Hug, long-time jazz pianist, who died here last month of a heart attack.

Hug, most renowned of Crescent

City jazz pianists who for a time recorded for Capitol Records, also was a songwriter. Among his survivors is a nephew, Stephen Lord, a television writer who resides in Los Angeles.

ington. Tests at WTOP will concern the high-end band; tests at WGMS will concern the low-end band. Sky-wave propagation will be tested at WBZ.

Al Chismark of the Meredith Corp., Syracuse, N.Y., predicted that a rulemaking by the FCC might be handed down within 18 months. He also predicted that a decision by the FCC on quadrasonic FM radio might be handed down this summer.

In a joint engineering and radio management workshop, Al Kelsch of Magnavox, Ft. Wayne, Ind., said the impact of stereo AM radio on the marketplace would be "dramatic and extensive" and that manufacturers "dare not ignore" it.

He also said that six months after the FCC rules on a particular system, Magnavox would have consoles in the distribution pipeline "that will compare very closely to FM in quality."

Belar Electronics, Motorola and Kahn Communications currently have AM stereo systems before the FCC. RCA, Sansui and Comm Associates originally had systems before the FCC, but they have been withdrawn, according to Harold Kassens, an engineer with A.D. Ring & Assoc., Washington, who was on the workshop panel. Kassens said that "hopefully" a decision on stereo AM might be made before the next NAB convention.

Though the panel on "ASCAP Audits And What Your Rights Are" was slow in getting warmed up, sparks were flying furiously before the end of the hour session moderated by Bob Hilker of the Suburban Radio Group, Belmont, N.C.

Participating on the panel were Dr. Paul Fagan and Louis Weber of ASCAP, Gerald Carrus of Metro-media Radio, New York, and Andy Murtha, a broadcast consultant based out of Maplewood, N.J.

Murtha spoke of a "monumental mismatch" between ASCAP and radio. He pointed out that ASCAP has a battery of lawyers constantly involved with the situation, but every time the contract came up for renewal, the radio industry had to hurriedly assemble a committee to negotiate with them.

In the hour session, one of the problem areas seemed to be radio station tradeouts. One broadcaster in the audience mentioned that he traded "for the use of a car" for a year on a three-for-one situation. He was hung for the total time at rate-card prices by ASCAP. He refused to pay, but ASCAP threatened him with a lawsuit.

A Tulsa broadcaster with a country music station said he was audited and ASCAP hit him not only for the equivalent rates on spots promoting a country music concert, but part of the ticket prices.

Fagan quickly pointed out that this involved two separate licenses—one for broadcast and one for live talent shows. The broadcaster argued that the spots promoting the show were promotional only, not tradeouts.

Metro-media's Carrus said the radio industry has been fooling around with ASCAP for 20-30 years and has been "whipsawed." What radio needs is a force to police ASCAP situations where problems arise, especially in contract interpretations, he said. And he was quick to add a moment later that he thought most problem areas could be negotiated.

Contacted later, Don Thurston, president of WMNB-AM-FM in North Adams, Mass., and a member of the All-Industry Music Licensing Committee, said he expects ASCAP negotiations "to be the longest, toughest battle" radio has had since 1958.

A 10-person committee met Tuesday (29) at the convention to shape up battle plans against ASCAP. Thurston pointed out that the last negotiations with ASCAP on contract lasted only about a year in 1972. The 1958 agreement required several years of negotiations.

Radio has more battles than that, he said, since BMI contracts are to expire in the next several months, along with ASCAP's TV contracts.

And he pointed out that broadcasters are beginning to wonder what they've created with BMI, since BMI has been growing tougher and tougher on music licensing rates.

gees. "We have both coasts well covered," he says.

Contained in the Atlantic office is Big Tree Records, one of its distributed labels. Little David Records, another of its distributed labels, has moved into the same building and its newest sister label, Pacific, is across the street under the auspices of Warner Bros. Music president Ed Silvers.

Recent additions to the Atlantic West Coast staff are Barry Freeman, regional pop promotion director; Ron Granger, director of r&b promotion; Jess Levitt, trade liaison, and Steve Rosenthal, publicity director.

"Atlantic now has established a West Coast identity," says Greenberg, "with the expansion of our offices and the addition of an a&r department. We have all facets covered."

Nixon Tapes

Warner Communications had planned to make an album containing some 20 hours of the tapes and a full set of all the tapes for library use. The Appeals Court agreed with the Warner view that hearing the actual tapes is importantly different from just reading a transcript.

Warner Communications and the networks had also proposed to Judge Sirica that the National Archives sell one-hour tape cassettes for $3.75 to $5.75 (depending on the tape speed). At that price a full set could cost more than $100.

LP Price Rise In Boston

run a business when you're not even breaking even on the cost of an album."

The current standard price for $7.98 product at The Coop is $6.35, but Basmajian thinks that price is "a little high" and wants to bring the standard shelf price down to $5.99 for popular albums while still charging $6.35 for classical albums.

$7.98 product on sale will be ticketed at $4.89, $1 more than the current sale price on albums listed at $6.98.

At New England Music City, which operates a total of nine stores in the metropolitan Boston area and in suburban malls, general manager Lew Garfinkel is unhappy about the increase.

"It's a rip-off to the consumer," Garfinkel says. "The labels haven't given a valid explanation for it. The hike seems totally unwarranted."

Garfinkel claims that, again with the exception of the new Fleetwood Mac, the higher-priced albums aren't selling at his biggest store in Boston, located just down the street from mammoth Boston Univ.

"The new George Benson is a dud, Pink Floyd's 'Animals' is moving slowly, and if I move five pieces of the new Queen in a week it's a lot," Garfinkel says.

Rich Marcus, manager of Music City's Harvard Square store, put "A Star Is Born" and Queen's "A Day At The Races" side-by-side with a poster informing customers of the price hike and suggesting that purchase of the albums would only encourage further increases.

"I just got sick of explaining to customers that the money wasn't going into our pockets," Marcus explains. Music City is planning a standard markdown to $6.49 on $7.98 product with special sale prices of either $4.89 or $4.99.

Billboard's Top Album Picks

Number of LPs reviewed this week 64 Last week 86

ENGLAND DAN & JOHN FORD COLEY—Dowdy Ferry Road, Big Tree, BT76000 (Atlantic). A strong followup to their "Nights Are Forever" LP with tighter harmonies and more engaging orchestrations. The duo have found its commercial AM niche and work hard at compounding catchy rhythms with lyrics based around love themes. The ballads and folk flavored tunes are sincere in content and instrumentalization much due to the effectiveness of the duo's acoustic guitars which blend well with the electric and horn support. Kyle Lehning's sound production brings together the pair's country-tinged urban sound.

Best cuts: "Dowdy Ferry Road," "It's Sad To Belong," "Don't Feel That Way No More," "Soldier In The Rain," "Holoacast."

Dealers: Duo is coming off two top 10 singles.

LOU RAWLS—Unmistakably Lou, Philadelphia International PZ34488 (CBS). Rawls' rich baritone cascades along with the lolling disco tempos by arrangers Bobby Martin and Jack Faith in this Gamble-Huff production. Full orchestral backing sparks the singer's enthusiasm for the new tunes which speak significantly about easy-to-understand values: spring, one's home environment, faithfulness. Rawls' blues-tinged inflections color his pop interpretations, his phrasing is precise, his breath control extending the significance of the notes. The program wisely does not hinge totally on thin disco moods (catch "Early Morning Love" for a good example of timeless material).

Best cuts: "See You When I Get There," "Early Morning Love," "Some Folks Never Learn," "We Understand Each Other."

Dealers: This is a well-rounded musical trip, but the emphasis will be on the newer, more contemporary rhythmic works, so stock in pop and soul.

BRYAN FERRY—In Your Mind, Atlantic SD18216. As opposed to his group efforts with Roxy Music, Ferry's solo albums appear guided upon a more straight and narrow course. Following in the footsteps of last year's "Let's Stick Together" LP, Britain's successful cult figure, backed by members of Roxy Music and notable English session musicians, has continued down the same path without sacrificing vitality or freshness. Flirting occasionally with grandeur, Ferry blends aggressive and vibrant uptempo rock, that rarely changes throughout the album, with his usual breathy, staccato and almost haunting vocal style keeping the music alive with his subtle melodies and introspective romanticism.

Best cuts: "The Pride," "Footsteps In The Dark," "Climbin' Up The Ladder," "Voyage To Atlantis."

Dealers: This album is a strong followup to Ferry's last good selling LP.

ISLEY BROTHERS—Go For Your Guns, T-Neck PZ34432 (CBS). This LP continues in the tradition the group has created for itself, where electronic instruments are as much a part of the LP as vocals. Material ranges from ballads to mid-tempo to highly disco. Gutsy, strong vocals are impressive when coupled with mellow material. This LP was written, produced and arranged by the group.

Best cuts: "The Pride," "Footsteps In The Dark," "Climbin' Up The Ladder," "Voyage To Atlantis"

Dealers: Display in prominent position as this group has large following.

SOUL CHILDREN—Where Is Your Woman Tonight, Epic PE34455. This LP starts in high gear, slows to ballads and back up like a roller coaster. This trio, two males and a female, exhibits tight harmony and excellent, clear vocals to good material. Individual members are spotlighted but the raunchy, gutsy, vocal style of the lead male vocalist is outstanding.

Best cuts: "Head On Collision," "If You Want A Woman This Time," "Where Is Your Woman Tonight," "Merry-Go-Round."

Dealers: Display with r&b vocal groups.

GARY STEWART—Your Place Or Mine, RCA, APL12199. One of music's brightest new talents has an excellent LP merging country, blues and rock. Stewart's remarkable voice, capable of soaring from a whisper to a shout while maintaining a sensuous vibrato, reaches new heights in this high energy package. The artist receives vocal backup from such helpers as Emmylou Harris, Sue Richards, Jerry Wallace and Lea Jane Berinati. Bass, electric guitar, steel guitar, drums and keyboard surround Stewart with occasional flashes of mandolin, fiddle, banjo, dobro and harmonica. Stewart also lends a lively hand to the piano. His zesty, creative performance enlivens all 11 numbers.

Best cuts: "Your Place Or Mine," "Rachel," "Drinking Again," "The Blue Ribbon Blues," "Pretend I Never Happened," "I Had To Get Drunk Last Night," "I Ain't Living Long Like This," "Broken Hearted People (Take Me To A Barroom)," "Ten Years Of This."

Dealers: Stewart is hot and this is his best product yet. Stock it deep.

CHARLEY PRIDE—She's Just An Old Love Turned Memory, RCA APL12261. The title song, which hit No. 1, gives a mellow mood to Pride's latest LP. Produced by Pride and Jerry Bradley, the release highlights the smooth Pride vocals backed by the normal complement of soft guitar background and vocal accompaniment by the Jordanaires on some cuts and the Nashville Edition on others. Though Pride renders good performances on such uptempo songs as "Rhinstone Cowboy," his strength is in the powerful ballads like the title tune and "The Hunger." Pride also scores with a strong new John Schweser song, "The Rose Is For Today."

Best cuts: "She's Just An Old Love Turned Memory," "The Hunger," "I Feel The Country Callin' Me," "I'll Be Leaving Alone," "Country Music," "The Rose Is For Today."

Dealers: Pride's loyal fans will make this another successful release.

FRANKIE CROCKER & THE HEART AND SOUL ORCHESTRA—Low In C Minor, Casablanca NBLP7050. Once again this group has elected to perform predominantly standards, but this time with vocals. Instruments are haunting, constant, well blended and impressively produced and arranged. This disco LP is of superior quality as it easily falls into several categories from disco to soft soul to pop. Unidentified vocalists are excellent. The male lead is backed by mellow female voices.

Best cuts: "Love In C Minor," "September In The Rain," "Midnight Lady," "Prisoner Of Love."

Dealers: This LP has mass appeal and a hit single in the title cut.

Billboard LPs

MARIE OSMONO—Marie, Polydor PD16099. Marie's voice, presence and delivery get better each time out and she's in superb form here, backed with classy charts and production. Something for every MOR taste, with plenty of disco cuts, too. Best cuts: "Where Did Our Love Go," "You're My Superman," "All He Did Was Tell Me Lies."

WASHINGTON HILLBILLIES—Casablanca NBLP7052. This pokes fun at Jimmy Carter. Satire is not only hilarious but tastefully done. Writer/producer Jeff Altman gives an astounding performance as Carter with vocal intonations down pat. The cast touches upon topics ranging from phone calls to the president to a meeting with Bob Dylan and a slew of peanut jokes. Carter smoking pot and stabs at Billy Carter. But most of all the skits present Carter in human situations and not a distant bureaucrat. Best cuts: "Getting Off," "T.V. Offer," "Bobby And The Prez," "Peanutol," "Bedtime Story."

MICHAEL STANLEY BAND—Stagepass, Epic PEG34661. A two-disk live set recorded last October at Cleveland's Agora Ballroom and co-produced by Bill Szymczyk. The high level is evident from the beginning with plenty of straight ahead rock that sustains itself throughout. Guitarist/songwriter Stanley along with another fifth of the group, Jonah Koslen, turn in some pretty earthy lyrics a la Bob Seger or Bruce Springsteen. Best cuts: "Midwest Midnight," "Real Good Time," "Will You Love Me Tomorrow," "Waste A Little Time On Me," "Wild Sanctuary," "Shake Up The Band."

B.J. THOMAS—Home Where I Belong, Myrrh MS86574. Thomas' new album is a celebration of life dealing with the theme of clearing up muddled visions and getting back in touch with oneself. A feeling of refreshed and realistic optimism prevails throughout the 10 easygoing selections. Light-hearted arrangements back Thomas' powerfully expressive but gentle voice as he sings in a sincere and convincing manner. Best cuts: "You Were There To Catch Me," "Home Where I Belong."

STEVE HUNTER—Swept Away, Alco SD36148 (Atlantic). Good straight ahead rock 'n' roll from an accomplished guitarist with Midwest roots. Hunter offers something for everyone with certain cuts leaning towards heavy metal thunder, others with jazzy and orchestral feelings. On a few selections he contributes bluesy vocals. Co-produced by Bob Ezrin and Brian Christian. Best cuts: "Eight Miles High," "Eldorado Street," "Sail On Sailor," "Jasper St. Viaduct Guitar Rag," "Swept Away."

JOE BECK—Watch The Time, Polydor PD16092. Beck, an electric and acoustic studio guitarist who has backed a galaxy of stars including Frank Sinatra and Burt Bacharach, offers a highly diversified album here. He ranges through r&b, rock, pop, and jazzy tunes with accomplished dexterity. The supporting cast is also inspiring, particularly Michael Brecker's sax, Alan Mansfield's keyboards, and Rudy "Bongo" Romero on percussion. Tom Flynn contributes strong lead vocals. Good FM possibilities. Best cuts: "L.O.V.E., Love," "Stand Up," "Watch The Time," "Polaris."

NEAL FOX—A Painting, RCA APL12190. Fox is a Brooklyn writer-singer who keeps bread on the table by creating advertising jingles. In his own music, he's a rufel Randy Newman eccentric who tells semi-surrealistic little stories in clean, spare melody lines and lyrics within matchingly uncluttered orchestral productions. Best cuts: "Living Like A King," "I Want You Now."

SEDAKA—The '50s & '60s, RCA, APL12254(e). Many of Sedaka's earliest works including four unreleased singles are brought together in this collector's reissue package. Each song is authentic early Sedaka, sounding nothing like his contemporary sound. The 12 songs can withstand the test of time and serve as a commemorative of pop's adolescent years. Best cuts: "Let's Go Steady Again," "Walk With Me," "You Gotta Learn Your Rhythm And Blues," "Forty Winks Away."

ELVIS—Welcome To My World, RCA APL12274. A reissue of perhaps the best of Elvis' more contemporary MOR cover versions. Six of the 10 songs were recorded live at Madison Square Garden in 1972 including a previously unreleased live version of "I Can't Stop Loving You." Best cuts: "Welcome To My World," "Make The World Go Away," "Release Me (And Let Me Love Again)," "I Can't Stop Loving You."

PHILIP GLASS—North Star, Virgin PZ34669 (CBS). A cornucopia of organs, arp synthesizer, Fender Rhodes, flute, sax, and angelic background voices contribute to what is avant-garde electronic music throughout with all selections composed and arranged by Glass. Sounds a little like Gregorian Chants meeting 2001. Best cuts: "Etoile Polaire," "Victor's Lament," "Lady Day," "Ange Des Orages."

GONG—Expresso, Virgin PZ34428 (CBS). Seven talented musicians offer a very intriguing instrumental work. The music has a jazzy, bouncy African feel that really percolates. The interplay between such instruments as vibraphone, marimba, glock, toms, congas, African bell gong and maracas is at times remarkable. The more standard bass, acoustic and electric guitar and piano are also integrated for a wider musical effect. Best cuts: "Expresso," "Night Illusion," "Shadows Of."

GOOD SEED, Village VR7602. Pleasant, countryish, soft rock by quintet on new Indiana label. The music is in a variety of styles with crisp picking and accurate vocal harmonies. Best cuts: "High Horse," "Cool Breezes."

LES DUDEK—Say No More, Columbia PC34397. This is a tasty rock and blues guitar album. Dudek, who recalls both Jeff Beck and Greg Allman, also provides the vocals. A rock band and the Nightingales singing trio provide the backup while Dudek waxes alternately mellow and funky on his Les Paul. Best cuts: "Jailbambazoo," "Avatar," "Zorro Rides Again."

YARDBIRDS—Great Hits, Epic PE34491. This is a collector's item of 10 highly charged cuts from the progressive English band's five-year existence. Centered around the piercing guitar riffs of Eric Clapton, Jimmy Page and Jeff Beck, the Yardbirds best exemplify high energy rock streaked with distinct shades of r&b. Best cuts: "For Your Love," "Heart Full Of Soul," "The Train Kept A-Rollin'," "I'm A Man."

KEITH SYKES—The Way That I Feel, Midland International BKL12246. (RCA). Quietly throaty-voiced singer-writer delivers songs in a variety of easy midtempo stylings with influences ranging from country-rock to soul-rock. Neat Memphis rhythm section lays down patterns with occasional string fills. Best cuts: "What's Different About Her," "Sooner Or Later."

MALLARD—In A Different Climate, Virgin PZ34489 (CBS). This five-piece band offers a solid collection of rock 'n' roll with a little Southern boogie and California country flavoring. Sam Galpin's vocals are raspy but convincing. Best cuts: "Green Coyote," "Your Face On Someone Else," "Heartstrings," "Harvest."

ORIGINAL SOUNDTRACK—Raggedy Ann & Andy, Columbia 34686. This soundtrack for the full-length animated musical film released by 20th Century-Fox in 200 key markets April 1 is strictly for kids and you can bet the promotion is going to be heavy. Award winning team led by "Sesame Street" composer Joe Raposo has put together a very attractive disk. Best cuts: "Rag Dolly."

DORIAN, Amarama A10001. Dorian wears lots of makeup and his stage show could sell this album. It's sophisticated, with a sleazy but slick and subtle rock instrumental backing. He sings and writes wierd lyrics that demand attention. Strictly FM programming. Best cuts: "Men's Room," "Outside Looking In."

FRED WESLEY AND THE HORNY HORNS—A Blow For Me, A Tool For You, Atlantic SD18214. Collectively known as the Horny Horns, trombonist Fred Wesley, Maces Parker on 3 and the trumpets of Rick Gardner and Richard Griffith have provided horn arrangements, both on and off the road, for James Brown, Parliament, Bootsy Collins and various George Clinton projects. Distinguished by a floating quality, sneaking in and out of full sounding arrangements and occasional fragmentary solos, the horns are featured alongside heavy background vocals, supported by the usual funk inspired rhythmic vamps produced under the direction of Clinton's usual Parliament/Funkadelic gang. Not as cute commercially as Bootsy, frantic as Funkadelic, or well defined as Parliament, the Horny Horns, aside from the delicate and ethereal "Peace Fugue," offer plenty of funk but not enough variety.

Best cuts: "Up For The Down Stroke," "Peace Fugue."

Dealers: A new pop/soul/disco addition to the Parliament/Funkadelic/Bootsy family.

PAUL BOGUSH JR.—Expect To Hear From Me Again, Private Stock PS2025. Guitar ace Larry Carlton produced and arranged the debut album for this ingratiating writer-singer and also leads the cooking rhythm track playing with some of his former cohorts from the Crusaders. Bogush sings with surprising expression in a small, adonoidal voice a bit like Paul Williams. He is a mainstream pop writer whose songs explore various approaches to the more controlled styles of rock. Catchiness is the main quality of the songs and this is well reflected in the perky, imaginative instrumental patterns.

Best cuts: "You Can't Cry For Help," "Ain't It Wonderful," "Expect To Hear From Me Again."

Dealers: Top studio names like Dean Parks, Wilton Felder, Joe Sample and Michael Omartian are featured on the sessions.

EGG CREAM—Egg Cream Featuring Andy Adams, Pyramid PY9008 (Roulette). The first offering of this group is a song-oriented album with basic rock instrumentation and women backup singers on some of the cuts. All the songs are written by Andy Adams, but members of the group are not identified. The LP has a New York street feel that is closer in spirit and arrangement to the Lovin' Spoonful than the Ramones. The vocal tracks on the LP are mixed up front.

Best cuts: "Can I Stay?" "Dark Nite, Blue Lite Ladies," "Until The End."

Dealers: It all depends on how the lead singer's voice sounds on a small transistor radio.

GRACIE FIELDS—The Amazing, ... Monmouth Evergreen MES 7079. A spectacular star in the U.K. who in the '30s was billed as "the highest paid entertainer in the world," Fields recorded prolifically for many years. These are the original 78 r.p.m. masters from England with acceptable but dated sound. The 12 cuts range from outright comedy to Bach-Gounod's "Ave Maria." For all her success, Gracie requires a lot of listening to appreciate on this side of the Atlantic. Best cuts: "The Biggest Aspidochelone In The World," "Sally," "Wish Me Luck."

FATBACK BAND—NYC NYUSA, Spring SP16714 (Polydor). Fatback, which is more popular abroad than on its own turf, comes up with a new dance, "The Double Dutch," on this effort. With funky percussion and horn section, this LP sounds harder edged than most disco product. With interesting songs about spankings, New York City, and other related subjects, this LP is fun to listen to. Best cuts: "Double Dutch," "NYC NYUSA."

FACTS OF LIFE—Sometimes, Kayvette 302 (TK). Formerly known as the Gospel Truth, this singing trio was formed, produced and managed by Milkie Jackson. The three singers trade off on the vocals and sing about adult loves and infidelities. The production is sparse, with the strings and horns well in the background. The single "Sometimes" is enjoying pop and soul chart success. Best cuts: "Sometimes," "Caught In The Act," "That Kind Of Love."

PLEASURE—Joyous, Fantasy F9526. The third entry from a group making a substantial sales track is an offering of eclectic music—from the frenzied jazz horns on "Joyous" to the light, Brazilian-based work on "Sassafra" to the pulsating, funky rhythms on "Let Me Be The One." The high-pitched lead vocals of Sherman Davis are effective as are the sweetening string touches. Best Cuts: "Only You," "Sassafra Girl."

Closeup

WOODY HERMAN—40th Anniversary Carnegie Hall Concert, RCA BGL2-2203.

Taped live last Nov. 20 onstage at the hallowed venue in midtown Manhattan, this two-LP set generously combines Herman's current New Thundering Herd of youngsters with a covey of veteran sidemen identified with Woody's bands of the '40s and '50s.

Excluding his "Blue Flame" theme, the Herman anniversary program serves up 17 exuberantly performed charts over four sides.

"Apple Honey" kicks off the program. It's an even more frenetic, uninhibited performance than the Herd's original Columbia 1945 version as Flip Phillips, Pete Condoli, Nat Pierce, Billy Bauer, Chubby Jackson and Don Lamond—all Herman alumni—share the stage with an extraordinary young trombonist, Jimmy Pugh, who has since departed the Herd for Chick Corea's combo.

And then Phillips' tenor saxophone solos through "Sweet And Lovely," a pleasant balladic blow, leading into a superb version of "Four Brothers" with Jimmy Giuffre, Stan Getz, Al Cohn and Zoot Sims and their tenor pipes reunited felicitously. This may be the most moving and musical track in the package.

Pete and Conte Condoli, billed years ago as "supermen" of the vaunted Herman brass section with their boppish, nervous trumpets, dominate "Brotherhood Of Man." Then it's another exceptionally pretty ballad, "Early Autumn" with Getz' soulful, moody tenor featured along with Ralph Burns' palatable pianistics.

"Wrap Your Troubles In Dreams" revolves around the husky, hard-edged voice of Mary Ann McCall, one of more than a dozen female vocalists employed by Woody through the decades. Phillips, whose saxophone in a Webster groove is ever-pleasing but at least slightly old-fashioned, offers a short solo to complement McCall's efforts.

Pugh pops up as soloist throughout the late Bill Harris' "Everywhere," his burnished trombone reminding—but in no way imitating—Harris' glorious, well-remembered sound of the '40s. Another slidehorn sequence follows as Phil Wilson gracefully re-creates Harris' classic "Bijou" disk on 78 r.p.m. shellac. One can't fault a single bar of Wilson's work; like Pugh, he is a superior musician.

Cohn, Giuffre, Getz and pianist Jimmy Rowles are the soloists through "Cousins" and on "Penny Arcade" Woody gets off on soprano saxophone, sharing the chart with his current sidemen Gary Anderson (tenor) and Dennis Dotson (trumpet). On Freddy Hubbard's "Crisis" it is Dotson soloing again, along with Pugh and Joe Lovano's tenor.

Herman, who announces each number and is careful to credit soloists and arrangers, again showcases Pugh's trombone on Chuck Mangione's "She's Gone." And then Aaron Copland's "Fanfare For The Common Man" wraps up side three with Woody's soprano and Lovano's tenor highlighting.

If there is a weak spot in the lengthy but never dullish program it is Herman's treatment (via Alan Broadbent's chart) of "Blues In The Night," an arguably pretentious, overly complex version which includes tempo changes, a Bach-like fugue, solos by Dotson and Lovano and an effective but overlong vocal by the maestro, Woody's more

Graham

The message urges ticket buyers to check with bona fide ticket agencies before buying any tickets from unknown individuals and to phone Graham's office with tips on any suspected counterfeiters.

Graham says that significant information has already been reported by reward seekers. Police are investigating these leads.

Larry Dundon, KFRC promotion director, says, "Concert ticket counterfeiting takes money out of the pockets of music fans and leaves them resenting the legitimate concert promoter and the radio station that advertised the show, when they find that their fake tickets won't get them into a soldout date. That's why we're campaigning to stop these rip-off artists."

According to Graham, counterfeit tickets had been a consistent but minor-scale problem throughout his decade of promoting concerts in the Bay Area.

But at a mid-March Boston concert in the Cow Palace, several hundred professionally faked tickets showed up at the door.

A long-experienced ticket-taker spotted two different types of fakes shortly after the doors opened and reported it to the Graham staff. All the ticket-takers were then alerted and extra-careful scrutiny was made of each ducat. This more than doubled the time required to pass the crowd of 14,500 through the doors.

Ticket stubs from the Boston concert are now being double-checked at the Graham office and so far only three or four fakes seem to have gotten through.

Festival seating with general admission tickets is a common practice at Bay Area concerts even in arenas, because local audiences have a long tradition of standing up and dancing to the sets of high-energy rockers like the Rolling Stones or ZZ Top. This unreserved seating policy is an added temptation to ticket counterfeiters. (Continued on page 78) simple 1942 original version for Decca was far better.

"Caldonia" serves as an ideal closer, ripped along at sizzling tempo as the older Herman guests fall in with the contemporary musicians comfortably.

Visually, it must have been the most spectacular offering of the night. On vinyl, "Caldonia" comes off almost as spectacularly. Woody contributes a shouting throwaway vocal and the curtain drops.

There's an abundance of good music on these four sides, music which for the most part remains timeless and inordinately moving. Planning the project entailed hundreds of hours of labor, much of it centering around Herman's manager Hermie Dressel. Producing the album is the achievement of Norman Schwartz in collaboration with Nat Shapiro and Arlene Chapman of Gryphon Productions, New York.

Annotation by Leonard Feather and attractive graphics from Dick Smith, Dwayne Dalrymple and Geri M. Willingham merit kudos along with Herman's music. This is an epochal package from every standpoint, eminently deserving of international exposure. And oddly, for all this 40 years as a leader, it is Herman's first recording for RCA.

Billboard SPECIAL SURVEY For Week Ending 4/9/77

CHICAGO—You Are On My Mind (2:51); producer: James William Guercio; writer: J. Pankow; publishers: Big Elk/Make Me Smile, ASCAP, Columbia 310523. After one of its biggest all-around years, Chicago starts off its 1977 singles effort with a cheerfully fast moving tune that contains a slightly rueful lyric about missing one's lady while on the road. The roaring horn fills and rapid tempo make this one of the veteran hit group's most jazz-influenced singles.

AL STEWART—On The Border (3:14); producer: Alan Parsons; writer: Al Stewart; publisher: Dick James, BMI. Janus J267 (GRT). Another lush, poetic and mysterious outing from the man who won Janus its first million-seller with "Year Of The Cat." The song is about smuggling arms during the Spanish Civil War, but its flamenco-style guitar figures and floating string backing make this folk-rock at its most universally appealing.

SYLVERS—High School Dance (3:48); producer: Freddie Perren; writers: L. Sylvers III, R. Sylvers, J. Sylvers, E. Sylvers; publisher: Rosy, ASCAP, Capitol P4405. The ringing of a bell leads to a rhythmic handclapping intro, creating a mood that's carried throughout this bouncy, nostalgic type, summertime number. The harmony is light and constant on this disco oriented tune by the hot-selling teen soul crossover kings.

MARY MACGREGOR—This Girl (Has Turned Into A Woman) (3:25); producers: Peter Yarrow, Barry Beckett; writers: P. Yarrow, M. Macgregor; publisher: Silver Dawn, ASCAP, Ariola America 7662. If at first you do succeed, do it again. MacGregor's wispy, sweetly innocent vocal style proved immensely commercial on her first Yarrow-inspired tune. But the sexual theme here, a woman's first venture beyond virginity, should have preceded the first hit that had the singer in a more advanced position.

BRASS CONSTRUCTION—What's On Your Mind (Expression) (2:52); producer: Jeff Lane; writers: R. Muller, J. Wong, W. Williamston, W. Parris, L. Payton; publishers: Desert Moon/Jeffmar, BMI, United Artists UAXW957Y. This tune, written by the group, is lively while uncluttered. The listener is able to distinguish the different instruments. Vocals are scattered throughout this jazz flavored disco oriented number. But it's primarily an instrumental composition.

STREET CORNER SYMPHONY—Funk Machine (3:36); producer: Willie Hutch; writer: Willie Hutch; publisher: Stone Diamond, BMI, ABC AB12263.

BENNY TROY—Ecstasy, Passion & Pain (3:37); producer: Billy Terrell; writer: Billy Terrell; publisher: Delightful, BMI, De-Lite DE1587.

TANYA TUCKER—It's A Cowboy Lovin' Night (2:31); producer: Jerry Crutchfield; writer: Ronnie Rogers; publisher: Newkeys, BMI, MCA MCA40708. Tucker sings a unique number that's a lot country than some of her recent outings. Packed with fiddles and a Texas dance beat, the song also is enhanced by the lady's convincing delivery.

EDDIE FLOYD—Experience, Malaco 6352 (T.K.). A strong, vibrant soul baritone most comfortable in traditional ballad or lounge-jazz styles, Floyd finds himself in a few too many post-Funkadelic spacey productions here. His richly intense singing is best suited to the more uncluttered orchestrations on the LP. Best cuts: "Making Love," "You're Gonna Walk Out On Me."

GEO. BROOKS—"Play It Again Sam," Amerama A1002. Brooks is a singer from Georgia who covers a range of material from Irving Berlin to Otis Redding to the Beatles. With only a rock band behind him there is a primacy missing in much of the overproduced soul releases. Brooks himself is blessed with a warm and intimate voice. Best cuts: "Play It Again Sam," "Dock Of The Bay."

JOHNNY GUITAR WATSON—A Real Mother For Ya, DJM DJLPA7 (Amherst). Watson has written all the songs, does the vocals, plays an array of instruments as well as guitar, produced and arranged this LP. The result is a fusion of jazz, rock and soul influences with a solid beat throughout. Use of sound effects, a voice box and the cover art contribute to the LP's slightly zany feel. Best cuts: "Lover Jones," "Your Love Is My Love."

RUBY ANDREWS—Genuine Ruby, ABC AB1002. This vocalist offers a variety of material ranging from disco to ballads. She excels when performing ballads, with uptempo numbers she loses the clearness and strength of her voice to overproduction. Impressive string and horn sections are supplied by the Detroit Symphony under the direction of Felix Reznick. Best cuts: "A Change Is Gonna Come," "My Imaginary Eye," "A Little Fixin' Up," "Queen Of The Disco."

CARRIE LUCAS—Simply Carrie, Soul Train BVL12220 (RCA). The lady's clear, expressive voice is heard alternately in crackling disco arrangements and lush soul ballads on this disk. She is equally in command of both styles and gets solid production support from a plethora of L.A. studio stars. The disco burners are probably the most immediately commercial cuts. Best cuts: "I Gotta Keep Dancin'," "I Gotta Get Away From Your Love," "Me For You."

RAY GRIFF—A Passing Thing (3:27); producer: Ray Griff; writer: Ray Griff; publisher: Blue Echo, ASCAP, Capitol P4415. A strong ballad rendered in Griff's melodramatic style. Beautiful use of steel guitar and piano helps the song build to an effective finale. Programmers should also check the uptempo B-side, "Piano Man" (same credits). Griff's last single was a two-sided hit—and this one has power on both A & B sides.

TOM T. HALL—Your Man Loves You, Honey (2:16); producer: Jerry Kennedy; writer: Tom T. Hall; publisher: Hall note, BMI, Mercury DJ484. A simple, direct love song with a lesson in the lyrics. Production is also simple and uncluttered, providing a focus on Hall's mellow voice and words.

BOBBY WRIGHT—In Our Room (3:01); producer: Larry Butler; writers: T. Seals-M. Barnes; publisher: Danor, BMI, United Artists UAXW963Y.

MAX D. BARNES—Rain All Over You (3:08); producer: Marlin Greene; writer: Max D. Barnes; publishers: Screen Gems-EMI/Danor, BMI, Polydor PD14386.

LEROY VAN DYKE—Texas Tea (2:35); producer: Shelby S. Singleton, Jr.; writer: Ben Peters; publisher: Shelby Singleton, BMI, ABC/Dot D017691.

CON HUNLEY—I'll Always Remember That Song (3:18); producer: Larry Morton; writer: Charlie Daniels; publishers: Rada Dara/Kama Sutra, BMI, Prairie Dust PD7614A.

T.K. HULIN & SMOKE—I'll Still Be Your Friend (2:41); producer: V.J. Boulet; writer: Eddy Raven; publisher: Milene, ASCAP, Hooray 451005.

BOONES—Hasta Manana (3:12); producer: Mike Curb; writers: Benny Andersson, Stig Anderson, Bjorn Ulvaeus; publisher: Countless, BMI, Warner Bros. PRO668.

JACK JONES—With One More Look At You (3:38); producer: Rick Jarrard; writers: Paul Williams, Kenny Ascher; publishers: First Artists/Emanuel/20th Century/WB, ASCAP, RCA JH10955.

Billboard LPs

WOOD, BRASS & STEEL—Turbo 7016 (All Platinum). An impressive jazz/r&b oriented LP. Instruments are jazz while vocals are r&b. This self-contained group has selected material ranging from ballads to uptempo. Instrumentals and vocals are evenly distributed throughout this album. All but one tune was written by group members. Best cuts: "Funkanova," "My Darling Baby," "Say What You Want To Say," "Without You," "Always There."

country

RED STEAGALL—For All Our Cowboy Friends, ABC/Dot D02078. Steagall offers his salute to the rodeo performers in an album about "rodeos, cowboys, bluejeans, boots and saddles." It's a compilation of songs about great rodeo events and personalities—most of the numbers written by Steagall. Dubbing his six musicians the Coleman County Cowboys, Steagall's voice is surrounded by strong guitar and fiddle accompaniment. ABC/Dot plans some intensive marketing efforts for this release, including tie-ins with the rodeo circuit. Best cuts: "Dawson Legate," "My America," "Freckles Brown," "My Adobe Hacienda."

DAVID ROGERS—I'm Gonna Love You Right Out Of This World, Republic IRDA LPNR5907598. Backed by dobro, steel, electrical and acoustic guitars, piano, drums, strings and background vocals, Rogers pulls off a good LP effort that contains two previously charted singles for the singer. Sharp production by Dave Burgess on tunes ranging from gutsy and uptempo to softer love ballads with some nice dobro and fiddle backups gives Rogers vocal range a work out. Best cuts: "I'm Gonna Love You Right Out Of This World," "I Love What My Woman Does To Me," "We Did It Together."

IASO—Another Star—(3:58); producer: Joe Bataan; writer: Stevie Wonder; publishers: Jobete/Black Bull, ASCAP, MCA, MCA40707.

EL COCO—Just Be You (3:16); producers: Michael Lewis, Laurin Rinder; writer: Meria Ross; publisher: Equinox, BMI, A.V.I. AVIS133A.

RICE & BEANS—Disco Dancing (3:30); producers: Pepe Luis, Tato Rossi; writer: Pepe Luis Soto; publisher: Peer, BMI, Dash 5034 (T.K.).

HARPO—Horoscope (3:13); producer: Ben Palmers; writer: Harpo; publisher: Buddah, ASCAP, EMI P4413 (Capitol). A fun sounding rocker, perfect for driving in a car as this Swedish group with an Abba sound hooks the listener with an infectious uptempo beat. Guitars and a piercing cymbal add a funky zest to the instrumentals.

BLUE—Capture Your Heart (3:20); producers: Elton John, Clive Franks; writer: Hugh Nicholson; publisher: Rocket, ASCAP, Rocket PIG40706 (MCA). A pleasant sounding upbeat ballad that builds in intensity. Harmonies blend well with the unobtrusive guitar riffs. Produced by Elton John and Clive Franks, the lead vocals come across as melodically vibrant as lead guitarist and vocalist Hugh Nicholson brings across the love theme within a commercial pop vein.

SHAUN CASSIDY—Da Doo Ron Ron (2:46); producer: Michael Lloyd; writers: J. Barry, P. Spector, E. Greenwich; publishers: Trio/Mother Bertha, BMI, Warner Bros. WBS8365. A bouncy remake of the old Phil Spector hit with production values that, while modernized, still evoke the original. Vocals are smoother and more homogenized, leaving some yearning for the raw-edged power of before. But a swinging sax in one break and happy hand-clapping in another capture the vibrant spirit of early rockers.

Picks—a top 30 chart tune in the opinion of the review panel which voted for the selections released this week; recommended—a tune predicted to land on the Hot 100 between 31 and 100. Review editor—Nat Freedland.

GLOSTER WILLIAMS & THE KING JAMES VERSION—Together, Gospel Roots 5005 (TK). Are you ready for gospel disco? While you can't hustle to every cut, "praise the Lord" takes the back seat to the music which is modern all the way, with contemporary arrangements of the vocals, and an electric band pushing it all along. Best cuts: "What Good Is A Song?" "There's Not A Friend."

CELI BEE & THE BUZZY BUNCH—APA Records 77001 (TK). Pepe Luis Soto wrote the songs and produced this LP. The Buzzy Bunch provides the female vocals. The beat is as precise as a clock, provided by a five-man group with strings added on. Best cuts: "It's Sad," "Hurt Me, Hurt Me."

LOUIS VAN DYKE—Round Midnight, Columbia M34511. Columbia says right on the front cover that Van Dyke is the best jazz pianist in Europe. Be that as it may this is a quiet LP of nice restful music with only bass and drum accompaniment. Van Dyke rearranges everything from Bach to Beatles to create his own sound. Best cuts: "Round Midnight," "What The World Needs Now Is Love."

DEXTER GORDON—Homecoming: Live At The Village Vanguard, Columbia BL34651. Gordon and his virile tenor saxing are undergoing a major renaissance since his return from a long residence in Europe. Trumpeter Woody Shaw, pianist Ronnie Mathews, bassist Stafford James and drummer Lou Hayes provide competent backup to Dex's visceral and at times moving horn but the long cuts—only eight selections spread over four LP sides—sound less captivating on vinyl than in a nightclub. Still, it's an emotional program and one that confirms Gordon's abundant talent. Best cuts: "Gingerbread Boy," "Fenja."

EDDIE HARRIS—How Can You Live Like That?, Atlantic SD1698. Nine tracks, eight originals. Any LP without a single recognizable title has an uphill fight and the versatile Harris might have enjoyed a stronger commercial entry with a couple of contemporary tunes on the menu. He has a congenial big band behind him singing, his piano, his tenor saxophone and a studio jammed with electronic gimmicks including a guitorgan, an esophagusphone and electric drums. Best cuts: "How Can You Live Like That?" "Bird Of Stone."

Black U.S. Acts Perform For Liberians In W. Africa

By ALAN PENCHANSKY

CHICAGO—A rare series of performances by major American acts in the West African nation of Liberia has been arranged by Don King Management of New York.

The firm, which has scheduled the Dells to open the series Wednesday (6) at the Intercontinental Hotel in Monrovia, capital of Liberia, says it is the first time in a decade that American groups have played the African state.

The Mighty Clouds Of Joy, the Impressions and Millie Jackson are slated to follow the six-day Dells engagement, according to Ruth Bowen of Don King, who arranged the bookings.

"The people there are starved for entertainment," explains Bowen, who recently returned from a visit to the African nation.

Bowen says the last American act to play Liberia, a booking that she also arranged, was Erma Franklin, sister of Aretha.

"Ten years ago I sent a couple of small acts over there and they really did great," recalls the former head of New York's Queen Booking Agency.

Bowen says the current deal is for at least one American act a month to visit the Liberian capital. The acts will perform at a 250 seat venue in the Continental Hotel and at a theatre of equal size, where ticket prices are lower, she informs.

"They're building an art center that will be completed next year," Bowen says. "Once complete the facility will be suitable for Aretha Franklin and other entertainers of that calibre. Right now there is no facility large enough to warrant bringing in the larger names."

Bowen says other acts she eventually would like to bring to the nation, founded by former American slaves, include the Four Tops, the Impressions and Jerry Butler.

will have one of the latest Betamax models to be shown in Europe for the first time.

Also confirmed for the panel that will explore the consumer video market is Donald MacLean, managing director, EMI audio/visual services in London. He spearheads video program research for the giant EMI combine coordinating multi-national pilot projects.

Jack Findlater, vice president of MCA Inc. and president of MCA Disco-Vision, will demonstrate how the videodisk works. Findlater introduced the product at last year's IMIC in Hawaii.

The video update and demonstrations of two leading home disk and tape systems are the most recent industry innovations for IMIC. Palma de Mallorca in 1970 had the first Philips 1/2-inch videocassette recorder (VCR); at Montreux in 1971 CBS bowed the SQ matrix quadraphonic system; and RCA followed in 1972 at Acapulco with the premiere of the CD-4 discrete quadraphonic system.

Confirmed for Nesuhi Ertegun's "International Marketplace Today" panel is Piet Schellevis of Phonogram, Baarn.

Other confirmations for the Coen Solleveld-chaired presidents panel are Irwin Steinberg, Polygram, and Ken Glancy, RCA.

Joel Friedman, WEA, and Al Coury, RSO, are confirmed as panelists on Bruce Lundvall's panel "The U.S. Record Business—A Changing Scene."

Jeff Wald is the first confirmation for a panel chaired by United Artists Records president Artie Mogull entitled "The Career-Building Battle: Label Versus Artist Manager."

Frederic N. Gaines, entertainment attorney with Bushkin, Kopelson, Gaime & Gaines, will head a panel, "Lawyers: Makers Or Breakers Of Deals?" Panelists will be divulged shortly.

The registration fee is $400 per participant which includes all sessions, meals, workbook materials and special events. In addition to the business sessions, special activities are planned for wives. Spouse registration is $150.

IMIC Conference headquarters will be at the Okura Hotel. All correspondence regarding registration fees and hotel accommodations should be directed to Diane Kirkland, conference coordinator, Billboard, 9000 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90069.

Famous Music Into Agenting

NEW YORK—Famous Music will now represent and serve agents for independent producers. The new move for the music publishing firm comes with the signing of Bunny Sigler and follows months of preparations (Billboard Jan. 1, 1977).

Sigler, a noted Philadelphia producer, has been signed to separate and exclusive writing and producing contracts. The worldwide deal will mean that Famous will not only sell Sigler's songs, but also his services as a producer.

Among his credits, Sigler wrote and produced many of the hits by the O'Jays, including "Ship Ahoy," as well as "Free Man" for the South Shore Commission, and "From Now On" and "Need You Forever" for Lou Rawls' "All Things In Time" LP.

Resistance To Higher Capitol Prices

made by the label's chief marketing brass to subdistributor-type accounts in rack, one-stop and retail shortly before the start of the NARM convention. A simple letter informed independent dealers.

Under the new wholesale price shift, which affects only $7.98 suggested list product, independent dealers pay $4.23, chains pay $3.97 and racks and one-stops are invoiced at $3.84.

Capitol works on the premise that the account will help to determine its own price. Accounts have been told to provide their Capitol salesperson with documentation, indicating what WEA and CBS Records are charging them. With this data, Capitol then offers a "competitive price."

Most accounts have received their first invoice, carrying the adjusted price. One of the nation's largest retailers, who asked to remain anonymous, said it is now studying a proposal, wherein some of its stores, farthest from its central warehouse, would be shipped directly from Capitol warehouses instead of its present procedure of buying all inventory for shipment to a central warehouse in the Midwest from where it's repacked to its individual stores.

"Capitol's policy makes it impossible for us to carry huge inventories in a central warehouse" the dealer says. "We are better off to have our most distant stores shipped directly for the 26-cent price differential," the buying chief of the major chain retailer says.

Another huge chain's president says he and his entire staff are "most displeased" by the big difference between chain and rack/one-stop price and it has affected their buying.

Both point out that on most of their first $7.98 LPs from all labels, the early sales history comparisons of prior $6.98 and current $7.98 LPs by "selected artists" indicates a sales falloff unitwise of up to 60%.

Dave Lieberman, Lieberman Enterprises, Minneapolis, first brought the Capitol $7.98 wholesale change to light the first day of the NARM convention during the rackjobbing session when he lauded the recognition provided racks and one-stops by Capitol.

Lieberman noted that the 13-cent break provided leverage for racks to eke out a fair profit margin over chain retailer competition. To insure proper equity, Lieberman noted that Capitol, in devising a fair price for wholesale entities which deal in more than one category, asks that firm to supply it with an accounting history showing what percentage of its business is done, for example, in retailing, rack and/or one-stop, so a proper price can be assessed.

Capitol sales executives and Don Zimmerman, label president, have dodged comment on the price change, explaining that it's premature for them to comment. It's known that a large part of the person-to-person discussion at NARM dwelt upon the label's explanation of the policy to its major accounts in attendance.

Capitol's competitive pricing is the first major price innovation since MCA's staggered discount (Billboard, March 20, 1976).

Graham, KFRC War Ticket Fakers

One of the Boston counterfeit ticket styles was typed on genuine ticket blanks stolen from the BASS computer ticket service. It could be spotted visually because all the ticket lettering was the same size, says Graham.

The other counterfeit widely distributed at the concert was a professionally printed copy of the legitimate ticket. But its paper was not as thick as the genuine ducat and it could be foiled by feel.

Graham concert advertising in both print and radio regularly warns ticket buyers not to make purchases from strangers on the street, which is how most Bay Area counterfeits are sold.

"What happened at the Boston sellout was a large-scale operation, not just the old routine of a kid photocopying his buddy's ticket to try and get into a show," notes Graham. "I will do everything in my power to drive out these counterfeiting rings before the start of our summer Day On The Green series at Oakland Stadium."
