The President, Mr. J. J. Keating, opened the meeting with a short address, in which he reviewed the year's work and pointed out the progress made by the Association during the past year.

The Secretary, Mr. J. H. Henderson, read the minutes of the last meeting and the report of the Board of Directors for the year ending December 31st, 1897.

Mr. Henderson stated that the Association had made a profit of £1,200 during the past year, which was due to the efficient work of the Board of Directors and the hard work of the members.

The Treasurer, Mr. J. T. White, presented the financial statement, which showed a balance of £600 in the Association's treasury.

The Annual Meeting of the Associated Bill Posters of Great Britain and Ireland was concluded with a vote of thanks to the President and Secretary, and to the members of the Board of Directors.

The Association then proceeded to its business, and the following matters were discussed:

The meeting adjourned at 12 o'clock noon, after a most successful and interesting session.

The Associated Bill Posters of Great Britain and Ireland have made a great advance in the past year, and the members are confident that they will continue to make progress in the future.

The Annual Meeting of the Associated Bill Posters of Great Britain and Ireland will be held in Liverpool, England, next year, and the members are looking forward to an interesting and successful meeting.

The delegates are imbued with the spirit of revolution. It is much easier for them to impose themselves on the minds of others than to cultivate their own. Spontaneous worship, the genuineness of the spirit of worship, the harmony of the minds, and the expressiveness of the spirit of worship, are the distinguishing marks of the "leader" who is riot of speech and glibness of tongue, curiously absent from the eloquence of the speaker.

Performers Incur Fortunes.

Early in the eighties when the Bartram & Price Circus was on exhibition in Covington, Ky., it was joined by a youth from New York, named Leonid, son of James Conner, the famous acrobat. Leonid was a mischievous boy who always seemed to get into some kind of trouble. His parents feared that the circus life would ruin him, with the mistaken idea that it would cause him to grow up to be a rascal. But Leonid managed to give the circus a try, and before he was twenty years old he had made his name in the circus world. His first exposure was in a trapeze performance and he was soon noticed by a circus manager who employed him. Leonid continued to work in the circus, and by the time he was twenty-five years old he had become a star in the circus world. His talent and dedication were recognized, and he was soon employed as a headliner. He performed in many countries, including England and France, where he became very popular. By the time he was thirty years old, he had made his mark in the circus world and was considered one of the best performers of his time.

Pitchforks as Weapons.

Massillon, O., July 13.—(Special)—(Guard)—The same guard who saved the life of a woman who was trying to jump from a window on the fourth floor of the Palace Hotel, is credited with saving a man's life on the third floor of the same hotel. The man, who was on the third floor, was attempting to jump from the window but was caught by the guard who saved his life. The guard is a well-known figure in the city and is well-respected by the residents. He has saved several lives in the past and is considered a hero by many.

The Limit.

New York, July 11.—(Special).—The 230-2 fluid ounce per gallon eau de Cologne, which was shipped at that price, was brought to market, and the man who had the money to buy it, was able to get it for a dollar. The guard was able to catch the man in the act of attempting to jump from the window. He used his pitchforks as a weapon, and was able to save the lives of several people who were in the building. The man was later identified as a known criminal who had been attempting to escape from the police. The guard was commended for his bravery and the lives he saved.
