KEVIN MARTIN: IN HIS OWN (AND OTHERS') WORDS

BY TONY SANDERS

A NATIVE OF NORTH CAROLINA, Kevin J. Martin grew up, as he says, "as the fourth child in a family of five." He did his undergraduate and graduate work in his home state, earning a B.A. from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and a master's degree in public policy from Duke.

Martin has said his experience as a child taught him an important lesson regarding free speech—and about the government's role in media regulation: "I quickly learned that unless I had something unique to say, competing voices would soon drown mine out." As a newly appointed commissioner at the Federal Communications Commission in 2001, he said in a speech to the Media Institute that this experience points to "the most important premise underlying all of the government's role in media regulation: While the First Amendment protects one's right to speak, it does not guarantee that you will be listened to, and competition among voices is ultimately the best method of ensuring that the most unique and important information is ultimately heard."

His parents still live in the house he grew up in but, as he likes to note, their media options have expanded considerably. It's a point Martin has made in discussing his support for the FCC's changes to media-ownership regulation in 2003. "Clearly, the media marketplace has changed significantly since our media-ownership rules were first adopted. Yet what has not changed is the importance of the three principles our original rules were intended to promote: competition, localism and diversity."

sioners. Until then, Pepper says, the FCC faces a different sort of backlog. "With Commissioner Kathleen Abernathy leaving, we've got a two-to-two stalemate" of Republican versus Democratic votes.

Pepper thinks getting the new Republicans through the Senate will be difficult, simply because key players in the White House and on the Senate Commerce Committee do not see eye to eye on several issues.

"Our industry isn't in the best graces with Congress right now," he says, pointing to the most recent messages sent by Sens. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, and Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii. Stevens blasted the media—both broadcast and subscription-based—on its record of self-regulating on indecency. And Inouye sent the message to broadcasters that they might share in the blame for airing video news releases without disclosing their original funding or source. Inouye effectively told the FCC to investigate the role broadcasters have played in passing off administration-created VNRs as legitimate news reports.

Add to this a disagreement over the proper course for future media-industry deregulation, Pepper says, and "getting two commissioners through Congress isn't going to be easy."

Emphasizing the point, he adds that "the final outcome [for the two new Republican commissioners] is under the control of those who don't agree with the White House's view of deregulation."

Another industry observer, who spoke to Monitor on condition of anonymity, was similarly concerned with the ability of the FCC to get things done: "Martin is going to have a lot of trouble building any consensus. He's not going to get it with [Democratic commis-

In a statement before the Senate Commerce Committee, two days after the FCC adopted its new ownership rules on June 2, 2003, Martin said: "The order we adopted on Monday was our best attempt to respond to the courts' admonitions and our congressional mandate."

On media concentration and TV programming: In a January 2003 speech to the Forum on Media Ownership at Columbia Law School in New York, Martin said, "Our media-ownership rules may even have an impact on some of the FCC's other responsibilities and obligations. For example, there seems to be an increasing concern about the rise of coarse television programming today. I wonder if this trend is related to some of the concerns about media concentration. Are executives more willing to put on questionable programming when they know they won't see you and your family at the local grocery store tonight, at the game on Saturday or at church on Sunday? Commissioner Copps, in particular, deserves credit for raising these questions and keeping us mindful of these concerns."

On newspaper/broadcast cross-ownership: Martin also addressed this topic in his June 2003 statement to the Senate Commerce Committee. "I am particularly pleased that, for the first time in 28 years, the order we adopt today finally concludes a review of the newspaper/broadcast cross-ownership rule, which has prohibited a company from owning a newspaper and broadcast station in the same market. Adopted in an era with little cable penetration, no local cable news channels, few broadcast stations and no Internet, the rule was

BEHIND THE DECISIONS OF THE NEW FCC CHAIRMAN

His career track seemed designed to lead him to the FCC. Martin moved to the Washington, D.C., area in the early '90s to join law firm Wiley, Rein & Fielding. ("Wiley" is former FCC commissioner Richard E. Wiley.)

From 1997 to 1999, he served as an adviser to then-FCC commissioner Harold Furchtgott-Roth. In 2000, Martin was deputy general counsel for the Bush campaign and served on the Bush-Cheney transition team. He became a commissioner in 2001 and succeeds Michael Powell as FCC chairman.

MARTIN A 'LOGICAL APPOINTMENT'

Vince Pepper of law firm Womble Carlyle tells Billboard Radio Monitor: "Martin was the logical appointment and that's critically important today." He says that with so many issues on the FCC's agenda, it will be better for the FCC to have an experienced person like Martin at the helm, "someone who knows the FCC staff, and whom the staff knows."

Erwin Krasnow, who on March 1 was named an owner at the law firm Garvey Schubert Barer, agrees. "The FCC will get off to a much smoother start because President Bush has appointed a sitting commissioner as chairman," says Krasnow, a former senior VP and general counsel for the National Assn. of Broadcasters.

"Martin knows the commission staff and the members of the bar, and they know him, so the FCC will work better administratively, in terms of getting rid of filing backlogs." Krasnow also says the FCC under Martin would be "a much sleeker, better-run agency" because the new chairman is "well aware of how the agency operates."

Still, with all that expertise, Krasnow says Martin will still have a tough job pushing through the bureaucracy that's inherent to the commission. "The FCC suffers under what [former FCC chairman] Al Sikes called 'undue process,'" he says. "Sikes lamented that it takes the FCC a long time to act on almost anything, and that there are lots of opportunities for delay." Krasnow says Martin's long history with the FCC should help eliminate much of that bureaucratic delay.

The FCC has other issues that may keep it moving slowly, including the still-pending appointment of two new Republican commissioners Michael Copps and Jonathan Adelstein]. And you've got Stevens working with Inouye. They're driven by the issue of indecency. And the proponents of stricter indecency rules are saying that indecency is driven by consolidation.

"The White House believes in more media deregulation. They like what the FCC put out in June 2003. But that's not relevant anymore. It's in the hands of Congress, and Congress is very split on the issue."

This same source felt that the Supreme Court was not likely to consider the petitions filed by various broadcast groups and the NAB. If that holds true, the source says, "the rewrite of the Communications Act is going to be a farce." The reason: "The FCC wants to have specific numbers that specify things like ownership limits. That's because, if there are no hard numbers, then every transaction is subject to a petition-to-deny, and an economic analysis," moves that would create delays rather than streamline operations at the commission. "I just hope we can get through our routine broadcast applications."

MARTIN ON THE ISSUES

Monitor combed through Martin's speeches and statements over the last four years to offer a synopsis of his positions on key radio industry issues.

On indecency: Martin's position is clear. He would impose fines on a "per utterance" basis rather than per broadcast. He has made this point in virtually every Notice of Apparent Liability the FCC has handed out. Martin made his point in a December 2003 letter to Brent Bozell III, founder and president of the ultra-conservative Parents Television Council: "We also may need to enforce our rules more stringently. For instance, I have been advocating counting each indecent utterance in a broadcast program as a separate violation, as the statute on its face appears to call for. Doing so could significantly increase the amount of fines that we could levy."

based on a market structure that bears almost no resemblance to the current environment."

During an October 2003 speech at the Media Institute, Martin made the point that newspaper/broadcast cross-ownership increases the amount of news generated in a local market: "In its recent media ownership order, the commission acknowledged that newspaper/broadcast combinations often result in a significant increase in the production of local news and current affairs, as well as an improvement in the quality of programming. With more and better news, citizens are more likely to become engaged in the issues of the day. And we all benefit from the more vibrant debate in the marketplace of ideas."

In a Feb. 11, 2004, statement before the Senate Commerce Committee, Martin laid out several points he felt were important to protect children from violent and indecent programming. One of those is his appeal to "reinstate the family hour" on broadcast TV: "Television today contains some of the coarsest and most violent programming ever aired—and more of it. Indeed, the networks appear to be designing programs to 'push the envelope' and the bounds of decency . . . For over a year, I have been urging broadcasters to devote the first hour of prime time to family-friendly programs that parents and children could enjoy together."

In his February 2004 statement before the Senate Commerce Committee, Martin also addressed the question of establishing a level playing field for broadcasters, cablecasters and satcasters. "Over a year ago, I urged cable and satellite operators to help us address this issue. Thus far, there has been no response. Something needs to be done . . . I am sympathetic to the many people calling for the same rules to apply to everyone, for a level playing field. If cable and satellite operators continue to refuse to offer parents more tools such as family-friendly programming packages, basic indecency and profanity restrictions may be a viable alternative that also should be considered." ■■■

THE JURY IS STILL OUT on Clear Channel's "less is more" initiative. CC reports positive response from advertisers, and a Navigage study says listeners also have responded positively. Yet an Edison Media Research report presented at the Country Radio Seminar indicates that more than half of country respondents were unaware of the change.

But one thing is clear: "Less is more" means more music.

From Albuquerque, N.M., to Washington, D.C., from active rock to adult R&B and from "Whistle" to "Kiss," CC music stations are playing, on average, more than 10% more music per day, according to an exclusive study by Billboard Radio Monitor, using data provided by sister company Nielsen Broadcast Data Systems.

The new airplay information comes from a survey of CC stations in 35 markets and across nine formats, comparing station logs from March 8, 2004, to March 7, 2005.

The survey results are no doubt eye-opening to many industry watchers.

Every station monitored, save one, increased the number of songs it played in the last year. Fourteen of the 35 stations surveyed increased the number of songs they played by 10% or more.

In fact, five stations showed increases of more than 20%: country KBQI Albuquerque (24.8%), rhythmic top 40 KGGI Riverside, Calif. (32.39%), R&B/hip-hop KMEL San Francisco (33.47%), modern rock WWDC (DC 101) Washington, D.C. (21.26%) and active rock WXTB Tampa, Fla. (36.13%).

Not all stations had such monumental increases. AC KKCW Portland, Ore., showed a 0.76% increase, and active rock KBPI Denver—which is touting "less BS, more BPI"—upped the amount of music it played in the survey period by only 0.85%.

That said, we realize there may be underlying factors, as there are at R&B/hip-hop WWPR (Power 105.1) New York, the only

What is interesting is that while most programmers we contacted were adamant that the initiative strictly means more music, two Beltway insiders have a slightly different take.

WWDC PD Joe Bevilacqua told Monitor in January that he was giving the extra time from lowered spotloads to the talent.

"There is an opportunity for more music," he said at the time, "but more than anything, this gives us the opportunity to entertain more and do better shows. With a less cluttered hour, the jocks have a little bit more of a berth to concentrate on really entertaining the audience and focusing on lifestyle events, like concerts by core artists and things happening locally."

Across the hall, country WMZQ PD George King has a similar view. "Less is more" has really given the radio station back to the programmers," he says. "We are making sure that what goes on in between the songs isn't overloaded with sales messages and that the content of what our jocks are talking about is

MORE MUSIC

A YEAR-ON-YEAR STUDY REVEALS BOOST TO SPINS ON CC STATIONS

When CC announced the initiative July 19, 2004, setting a Jan. 1, 2005, deadline for stations to reduce spotloads, it was not clear what listeners could expect in place of commercials—more jock talk, more promos, more music or a combination of the three.

CC regional VP of programming/Nashville director of programming Clay Hunnicutt rules out the concept of more promos, saying that station promos were also reduced. "What most people don't realize is that 'less is more' also applies to your promo time," he says. "We're only allowed to run two minutes of promo time an hour."

CC/Minneapolis OM Gregg Swedberg agrees. "For a music station [the initiative] means fewer commercials, shorter promos, more concise liners and positioning, and really wiping out a lot of the things that have made it tough for listeners to love us," he says.

station that went down in spins. The drop there can be linked to the January addition of morning team Star & Buc Wild, who rarely play music. Taking mornings out of the mix, the station is playing almost 9.5% more music than it did a year ago.

So, overall, spins are up at CC stations. Hunnicutt, who oversees stations in Tennessee and Georgia, points to country WSIX Nashville as an example. "Where it used to be that Big D & Bubba in afternoon drive were only playing nine to 10 songs an hour, they're probably averaging 11-12 songs an hour [now]," he says.

Our study supports Hunnicutt's claim and, in fact, shows that WSIX is playing 24 more songs per day.

CC regional VP of programming/Charlotte, N.C., OM Bruce Logan, who oversees parts of North and South Carolina and Georgia, confirms our findings. "At all of my music formats, every one of my guys have reported adding as much as a song an hour," he says. "Morning drive, everywhere."

interesting, entertaining and relevant to our audience.

"I also feel 'less is more' is more about the product," King adds, "and the better the product, the better the ratings and, ultimately, the better the revenue."

So if the concept means more music, that's good for the music industry, right? Maybe, maybe not.

Most CC programmers we talked to say it's not current music that they're adding to their clocks.

Top 40 KZZP Phoenix PD Mark Medina says his station is playing more gold and recurrenents, while country WCOL Columbus, Ohio, PD John Crenshaw enthusiastically reveals his choice as "power gold, baby!"

Other stations have a more positive message for those interested in more recent music.

"I added a recurrent and expanded my recurrent list," country WMIL Milwaukee PD Kerry Wolfe tells us.

2004 VS. 2005 CC SPINS COMPARISON

"I'd say that on all of our Minneapolis stations, we're filling with music, and it's really varied about what that extra song works out to be," Swedberg says. "Sometimes it's a current, sometimes a deeper gold track, and sometimes it's a power that might be rotating faster. There's no set formula."

King also mentions adding currents to the mix. "We've added an equal amount of gold, recurrenents and currents to stay within the percentages of what we believe our audience is asking for," he says.

Country WROO (the Rooster) Jacksonville, Fla., PD Casey Carter says she took a sister station into account when adding more music: "With the nature of WROO and how it works in tandem with our sister station, WQJK—which is very proven-hit-and-gold-based—it made sense for us to add an extra recurrent."

When music industry executives were made aware that CC stations are now playing more music, reactions were mixed.

BNA Records VP of promotion Tom Baldrice is not surprised that CC stations are playing older music. "When the whole conversation first got started about 'less is more,' he says, "that was the first question we asked: 'So what does that mean in terms of currents?'"

The answer wasn't what he had hoped. "We were hoping, obviously, that it was going to be more current-based, that it would open up another slot or two for some new records, but we realized very quickly that wasn't going to happen," Baldrice says.

Meanwhile, Roadrunner Records VP of promotion Mark Abramson, while saying more music is "absolutely" a good thing, had similar hopes for more currents.

"If they have more space to play around with," he offers, "what they need to do is play some more new music, which will allow them to develop more artists." Abramson feels rock radio has a tendency to fall back on established, tested material in tough times, which he feels is a short-term solution.

His solution "doesn't even mean necessarily playing more artists, but maybe just picking a few artists and playing more of them and sticking with them longer," Abramson says, "because it's taking longer to research records."

Nashville-based Broken Bow Records VP of promotion Jon Loba, who also wishes stations played more currents, is OK with the mix. "In my world, where recurrenents sell records, I have no problem with more recurrent airplay," he says.

Another VP of promotion, who asked not to be identified, told Monitor, "Anytime a radio station is playing more music, it's good for the listeners and for the music industry."

"The only thing that could be bad [for the music industry]," the exec continues, "is if they're playing more gold than they are currents because stations didn't adjust their current-to-gold ratio."

MCA Nashville VP of promotion Royce Risser says that on a personal level he thinks the concept is "great," but he's only aware of a few CC stations adding a current or two to the mix. More currents across the board would be more beneficial to his business, he says.

"We're trying to get play on current records," Risser notes. "Nothing really benefits us until [stations] open up their playlist to play more current records, or they run stuff through the mix quicker."

The initiative offers a benefit to the songwriting and music publishing community as well. With CC stations playing more songs, it would only make sense that songwriters and publishers have the potential to earn more money.

ASCAP senior VP Connie Bradley applauds the concept, which she says she heard about at a recent Country Music Assn. board meeting.

"It's great," Bradley says. "I think it's a brilliant idea."

"If, in fact, stations are playing more songs, we'll pick it up, and songwriters and publishers will be paid more royalties," she adds. "We're always for more airplay for our members." ■■■

ATTACKING

THERE'S A NEW GUARD and new thinking at radio's second-largest company. In January, Joel Hollander replaced John Sykes at the top of the Infinity food chain. Hollander's ascension was followed by the Feb. 14 appointment of Rob Barnett, who succeeded Steve Rivers as president of programming.

Barnett spent 15 years working in TV, including more than a decade at MTV and VH1, before returning to radio last year as Infinity senior VP of original programming. Less than a year into that gig, Hollander made him his highest-ranking programmer.

A former rock PD (WAAF Boston, KZEW Dallas), Barnett has spent as much time in other media as he has in radio—and that may turn out to be an asset at a time when radio needs fresh, original thinking to remain relevant in today's fast-changing mediascape.

"It's time for new ideas in radio," Barnett says, "and we have a great staff of people throughout the country who are continuing to pitch them, whether it's new shows or new kinds of talent or new formats. There's a lot of energy in the company to create beyond 'Two-fer Tuesday.'"

That energy is manifesting itself in multiple forms, including a "pilot program" of investment for nine Infinity stations. "The radio stations were starved" for attention, Viacom co-president/co-COO Les Moonves said recently, characterizing them as "stations that couldn't afford bumper stickers . . . We've picked out nine stations to invest in programming and marketing, with some moderate investment." Later, Hollander told the Bear Stearns Media Conference that six of those stations showed significant increases, including WZGC (Dave FM) Atlanta and KJKK (Jack) Dallas.

"We're working with every radio station, every format," Barnett says from Boston, where he has been on-site at classic rock WZLX, working with assistant PD/midday jock Carter Alan on a week's worth of broadcasts with David Lee Roth as morning man. "The station has kind of turned the town on its ear with cab drivers, waiters and waitresses and employees of Barnes & Noble talking about this amazing guy on the radio," Barnett says. "It's an example of just being able to surprise and entertain your listeners without necessarily giving them the exact same menu every day."

The Diamond Dave-as-morning-man idea actually sprung from an Infinity station 3,000 miles away. VP of FM talk Jack Silver put Roth on the air for three hours at talk KLSX Los

LIVE STREAMING OF ALL-NEWS OUTLETS

Until recently, Infinity staunchly refused to stream online. The only exceptions were WXRT Chicago, which streams from its own Web site, and a small group whose feeds are available only via America Online. WCBS-AM New York broke the Internet ice Dec. 13, 2004, when it debuted a streaming feed. Promoting itself as "News Radio 880 WCBS—on-air and online," the station saw its audience expand with an increase in at-work listening. Three months later, the company took the full plunge, announcing that some of the most legendary and listened to AM brands in the country, reaching an estimated 12 million listeners per week, would be available over the Internet.

When Mark McGwire and other sluggers were testifying on Capitol Hill about steroid use in baseball, WCBS-AM carried the hearings live, via a second audio stream on its Web site. Barnett sees more of this in the future.

Rather than worry about losing listeners to iPods and satellite radio, Infinity is moving toward embracing new media and allowing listeners to access its brands whenever and however they want.

"WCBS in New York or WBZ here in Boston are some of the most powerful brands in the city," Barnett says. "There's a great

THE FUTURE

MEET INFINITY'S PROGRAMMING VEEPS

INFINITY'S NATIONAL PROGRAMMING infrastructure relies on a network of two senior VPs of programming and 14 additional programming VPs who specialize in specific formats. Most of the programming VPs also program an individual station.

Senior VPs of programming:

Greg Strassell
Kevin Weatherly (PD, KROQ Los Angeles)

VP of rhythmic: Todd Cavanah (PD, WBBM-FM Chicago)

VP of sports: Mark Chernoff (OM, WFAN New York)

VP of country: Jeff Garrison (OM/PD, KILT Houston)

VP of smooth jazz: Paul Goldstein (PD, KTWV Los Angeles)

VP of news: Mark Mason (PD, WINS New York)

VP of alternative: Oedipus

VP of top 40: Mike Preston (PD, KBKS Seattle)

VP of AC: Smokey Rivers (PD, KVIL Dallas)

VP of hot AC: Kevin Robinson (PD, KYKY St. Louis)

VP of active rock: Tim Sabeau (VP of programming, WYSP Philadelphia)

VP of FM talk: Jack Silver (PD, KLSX Los Angeles; OM, KRTH Los Angeles)

VP of urban: Jay Stevens (VP of programming, WPGC Washington, D.C.)

VP of oldies: Todd Wallace (OM, KOOL/KZON/KMLE Phoenix)

VP of rock: Norm Winer (PD, WXRT Chicago)

Angeles, which Silver programs. "We were so taken by that performance that we created a stunt here in Boston to give classic rock listeners the opportunity to hear him all week long," Barnett says. "The best ideas move and the best ideas win."

NATIONAL PROGRAMMING INFRASTRUCTURE

At Infinity, the conduit for those new ideas is a programming infrastructure of 14 VPs of programming who specialize in specific formats—most of them also juggle hands-on programming of their own stations—and two senior VPs of programming (see story, left).

"I'm encouraging our program directors to share the best ideas through our organized format VP world," Barnett adds. "We're able to do a lot of very efficient communicating in our company that moves good ideas around very quickly."

While Barnett interacts one-on-one with each format VP, sparks really fly, he says, when the company puts "some of the smartest, best programming minds together. Just yesterday I had a call with everyone in the group, which produced about 14 action steps that we move on, either collectively or individually."

During the past month, the company has also begun to "create smaller teams, to address specific issues that I feel are the current priorities for the company," Barnett says. "It's a great resource to someone who sits in my chair to know that on a daily basis I can reach out and have a conversation that affects a great number of radio stations in one format and have those issues mass-communicated and action steps taken in a very efficient way."

Barnett says the reinvestments that Viacom has made in its radio properties have taken many forms, "everything from major station upgrades, including conversions to digital," to launching live streaming of every news radio station in the company "with more stations in other formats to come."

opportunity now to extend these brands with deeper content, giving listeners a lot more choice and control over the information and entertainment that they want."

Infinity stunned the rock world in January when it pulled the plug on longtime modern rock WHFS to bring "El Zol" to Washington, D.C.'s Hispanic community. But the death of 'HFS was also the birth of the company's first Internet-only station, offering new music, station archive programming and performances from past HFSival concerts. Available through the AOL Radio Network, WHFS is now one of AOL's top-rated stations. It ranked No. 4 in its first week online and has remained in the top 10 ever since. In an unusual move, Infinity opened up nights and weekends on talk WXYV Baltimore to modern rock fans, as "HFS on Live 105.7."

"Both the online version and the brand have great equity and we're doing everything we can to continue to be in that business and give people the opportunity to get the music they want in a variety of forms," Barnett says. "That was a big move and a big decision that we feel was the right one for the company. But we very quickly gave 'HFS fans an opportunity to continue to get music from Infinity."

Barnett says El Zol is getting "incredible, immediate response from advertisers and listeners." Infinity's Hispanic programming initiative, led by senior VP of programming Greg Strassell, is still in its early stages. "We believe there are additional opportunities in Hispanic programming," Barnett says.

REPLACING HOWARD

Barnett's biggest programming challenge is also one he's not ready to discuss at length—just yet. At the end of the year, the company will say adios to Howard Stern, ending a radio marriage that has helped the company transform stations in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco and other markets into some of its most powerful and lucrative brands. "We work on the topic every day and we're very focused on making the right decisions on a market-by-market basis," Barnett says of replacing Stern. (When the subject came up at the recent Bear Stearns conference, Hollander said: "One thing you should expect not to happen, however, is one person to be dropped in to replace him at 27 radio stations.")

Barnett's take on the matter is this: "We're looking at all options to create the best morning radio available. It's too early to make any kind of statement on the record because Howard is with us until Dec. 31."

At that same Bear Stearns conference, Hollander uttered a remark that made rock radio programmers even more concerned that the raft of recent format flips may not be over. "In New York City, there's a lot of revenue attributed to Howard on K-Rock [WXRK], but I also have a challenged radio station," Hollander said. "We could potentially change the format—who knows? That's an opportunity, with this going on, to do that."

Did those comments hurt morale at K Rock? "There will always be a great appetite for rock'n'roll," Barnett says. "There are a variety of ways to slice the pie, depending on who you're up against in each market. There's not a ton of rock'n'roll in New York, therefore there's room for a couple of great rock radio stations and we're out right now to do the best we can to compete with a great music mix."

"Every day we're focused on the health of our radio stations on a market-by-market basis," he continues. "Smart music programming with excellent research constantly asks any smart programmer to re-assess whether they've got the right mixture at the right time in their city. We are involved on a regular basis at making sure that the competitive landscape of each market doesn't leave any of our best radio stations behind. And there's no question that some of the alternative stations are finding the need to broaden their playlists."

BRAND EXTENSION THROUGH HD RADIO

Infinity has committed to convert approximately 100 of its stations to high-definition broadcasting during the next three years. In January, three of its stations, modern rock KROQ Los Angeles, top 40 KBKS Seattle and smooth jazz WJMV Detroit, were honored by iBiquity with HD radio "innovator awards."

"There's no question that future opportunities exist for smart programmers to extend their brands through HD and it's not a party you want to be late to," Barnett says. "So we're spending some time on attacking the future." He cites WCBS-AM offering a second stream of programming on its Web site as a "great" example of giving the listeners more of something they love.

"We are spending the appropriate amount of time on this issue while supporting the industry's move towards it . . . The topic really is making your brand as vital as it can be to fans that are interested. So one game is a game ruled by Arbitron and another game is to find new islands and countries to land your boat on, set up shop and see if you can build both a business that ultimately creates value and content and information and entertainment that is worthy of the amount of time you choose to spend on it."

Asked to summarize his programming philosophy, Barnett says: "The best combination of scientific research, risk taking, innovation and a constant flood of new ideas is the formula that gives listeners the chance to experience great radio. There are examples of great radio stations every day [that] know how to execute the nuts and bolts of a format and serve their market, while at the same time surprising people." ■■■

BREAKING STARS, BREAKING RECORDS,

RECORD LABEL REPS ARE OFTEN quick to complain that radio is not their partner in helping break new acts. But there are plenty of country programmers who do consider development of the next generation of country stars to be partly their responsibility.

KUSS San Diego, for example, hosts a live showcase series at its own Rest Stop venue (Billboard Radio Monitor, July 23, 2004). Others, like WXTU Philadelphia, air new-music specialty shows. And others are finding ways to introduce new music during the regular broadcast day.

In January, WXTU launched "The Triple Nickel Studio," a weekly show that shines an hourlong spotlight on a new act.

Named for the station's street address (555 City Line Ave.), "Triple Nickel" airs live every Wednesday at 9 a.m. during the Evans & Andie show. New artists—and occasionally even established stars—are interviewed and perform a few songs live during the hour. Six to eight morning show contest winners are brought in each week to see the performers, and as an additional perk are served coffee and doughnuts.

The segment is interspersed with hit records from other acts to keep the familiarity level high and avoid tune-out. "We couch it around familiar material," PD Bob McKay says. "It's not like an hourlong talk show by any means."

The station provides professional audio engineering for the artists and also features that week's act on wxtu.com, which has links to the artist's or label's own site, or to a retailer. WXTU has

That caveat hasn't dimmed Nashville's enthusiasm for the program, which is already booked solid through the middle of June. This is not surprising, given the opportunity for exposure via WXTU's cumed of 400,000, according to McKay.

While he notes that it's too soon to have seen any ratings on the show yet, McKay is optimistic that it will score high with listeners.

MEANWHILE, BACK AT THE RANCH

McKay is not alone in his desire to expose new acts. KZBR (the Bear) San Francisco airs a five-hour show called "Fresh Bear Tracks" every Saturday night. PD Ray Massie says it focuses primarily on songs not in regular rotation, including at least five new songs per week getting airplay for the first time on the show.

"A total of 20 songs that are not in regular rotation show up in the program," Massie says.

"We've highlighted new artists by having them help host the show as well," he adds. "Carolina Rain has been a guest by phone on the show. We've had appearances by Big & Rich and others."

WIVK Knoxville, Tenn., also makes a serious commitment to new artists, according to OM Mike Hammond. "We are bullish on new artists," he says. "When they come to our station we put them on the air to let people know who they are and their

The acts were Bentley, Emerson Drive, Pat Green and Phil Vassar. A quarter of the tickets were given away on the air, and all of the shows sold out, Boesen reports.

In February, WPOC teamed with BNA Records to present Larsen at a local mall. He played for about 400 people, did a question-and-answer interview with WPOC morning host Laurie DeYoung, then signed autographs for two hours. Boesen says the local music store sold out of Larsen's CD, despite having stocked up in advance. He calls the event "a home run."

"We all know every listener is busier than ever now, and I think we have to be reasonable in our expectations of how many new songs they can learn at once," Boesen says. "More than ever, it's important for programmers to carefully select the artist or single that will have the greatest impact on their audience today.

"When we've determined an artist or single that we think fits what WPOC is all about and that we think will positively impact our audience over the long run, it's our opportunity to champion that project, maybe even over several singles," Boesen continues. "I think we have somewhere between two and six opportunities to do this every year. For the record, Clear Channel Radio has encouraged us to do this."

BREAKING TRADITION

BY PHYLLIS STARK

even created a special logo just for the "Triple Nickel" series.

Originally intended to run biweekly, McKay says "Triple Nickel" was quickly stepped up to weekly because of strong response from the Nashville labels. The series kicked off Jan. 19 with George Canyon. Other performers have included Rebecca Lynn Howard, Aaron Lines, Blue County, Hanna-McEuen, Billy Dean, Dierks Bentley, Jon Randall, Blaine Larsen and Van Zant. Among the acts scheduled to perform soon are Bobby Pinson, Jeff Bates and Hot Apple Pie.

The only real requirement for booking is that the act has to have at least one single out or coming soon.

McKay says the idea grew out of a conversation among the WXTU staff about the potential threat of satellite radio.

"One of the things we hear a lot about is that radio needs to be local. That's a given," he says. But McKay also believes that "we need to be relevant. Satellite radio is here. It's not going to destroy our radio [stations], but it's not going to help. All we can do is be relevant to people, and relevance means proprietary programming."

"Triple Nickel," he says, makes an "event" out of what would otherwise be a routine artist visit in a conference room.

Once the idea was hatched, the station's engineers set about doing some audio renovations to make the live performances feasible. In December, McKay put the word out to the record promotion community that this opportunity was available. He also made it clear that a booking on the show "does not come with an add."

background. We will play a couple of their songs so the audience can get a feel for what they are about. We take a chance on new artists' music to give the listeners a chance to form an opinion."

He adds, "It is our philosophy to make sure the on-air talent knows about the new artists so they can talk about them when the record is played."

KILT Houston PD Jeff Garrison, who is also VP of country programming for Infinity, has a similar take. "We are excited about new country," he says. "For us to grow as a format we must embrace the very essence of our radio station, the music."

Among the ways KILT does this is by airing "new country stars" promos throughout the day, giving some extra attention to new artists when their song is played.

On Saturday nights, there is the "KILT Texas Roadhouse" show, which Garrison says highlights new country music from the state, 60% of which is not in regular rotation.

A HOME RUN FOR WPOC

Even some stations known for their conservatism still believe in supporting new artists.

"We are not generally known for jumping on a large number of new artists' projects early," WPOC Baltimore PD Ken Boesen says. But last fall the station hosted an "Up Close'n'Personal" concert series with some developing acts in what Boesen calls an "intimate venue" holding just 800 people.

INVESTING IN SONGS

Another Clear Channel programmer, KEEY (K102) Minneapolis PD Gregg Swedberg, agrees. "Our new-music philosophy is basically this: Every song you add to your station is like an investment," he says. "You hope that they all make their way into power and recurrent rotation, so you do what you can to help that along.

"We also think that country is the one adult format where the listener expects and demands new music," Swedberg adds, "so instead of hiding it, we try and feature it . . . whenever we play it."

K102 MD Travis Moon runs "Travis Moon's Test Tune" every day during his show and solicits the audience's opinion on new music. In addition, "during a record's early life, it frequently gets a front and back announce," Swedberg says.

Like KZBR and KILT, K102 airs a Saturday-night specialty show, "K102 Roadhouse With Donna Valentine and Chris Carr," during which, Swedberg says, "we play some rocking country, some alt-country and some new music."

K102 also showcases up-and-coming acts through a new-artist series at local clubs, as well as featuring them during its annual block party event and its listener appreciation shows.

"You have to dedicate yourself to making it important," Swedberg says of showcasing new talent. "While nobody advocates playing 50 currents, you just have to do your best to sell the music when you can . . . If you take the time, you can actually create a demand for new music, especially if you're smart about what you add and how you expose it." ■■■

'WE GOT A GREAT BIG CONVOY TRUCKIN' THROUGH THE NIGHT'

BY CHUCK TAYLOR

After most of us have been tucked away into dreamland, an entire cultural niche is just getting its engines revved. These night crawlers run on 18 wheels and caffeine by the quart. But aside from the light of the moon, there isn't a lot of stimulation to light their way.

That is where the Midnight Trucking Radio Network comes in. For nearly 3 million truckers motoring down life's highway from midnight to 5 a.m., the syndicated news/talk network is their only touchstone not only to the world at Harvey and Bob Kingsley. In its category, it is by far the most-listened-to channel.

The show's 16 AM affiliates—including 50,000-watt clear-channel non-directional legends like home base WBAP Dallas (which itself reaches 38 states), WJR Detroit and KRVN Lexington, Neb.—give the network coverage that blankets the entire United States, as well as reaching deep into Canada and Mexico.

Midnight Trucking Radio also has an exclusive partnership with Sirius Satellite Radio for a 24/7 trucking channel (138), and it can be streamed at midnighttrucking.com.

BREAKER, BREAKER 411

Network GM Mindy Baker says the show's primary audience is,

"Fuel prices are a big story right now with diesel prices skyrocketing," Baker says. "We offer truck maintenance tips, homeland security [advice] and what to look out for to avoid terrorism and a business report to help owner/operators maximize their time and efforts while on the road. We're like an overnight CNN with trucking information incorporated."

An important element of Midnight Trucking Radio, she adds, is one-on-one interaction with the audience: "We have an 800 number and truckers call in and participate in topics and issues they're dealing with in their companies, like why drivers hop from one company to another, hours of service is a big issue, log books, truckers have special issues at tax time; we help them with preventive maintenance in different seasons, since the hotter it is, the more money it costs to run your truck."

WITH APOLOGIES TO C.W. McCALL, large, but often to another human voice.

"We serve an audience that does their business at night," show host/producer Eric Harley says. "We provide something that keeps them awake, alert and tuned in to the radio. Music has a certain cadence and it can become boring. With talk, we can discuss trucking, politics, entertainment and it feels like we're having a conversation. These guys and gals may talk to only two or three people in an entire day; we like to think we make an impact where they feel like part of our show."

Midnight Trucking Radio may reach a specifically targeted group of listeners, but the show is hardly an obscure entity on the airwaves. Owned by ABC Radio Networks, it is joined by such potent syndicated sister show hosts as Tom Joyner, Paul logically, men 25-54, but listeners comprise more than just those logging hours behind the wheel.

"Interestingly enough, while the trucking industry is our biggest audience, we also get a lot of overnight workers, security guards, nurses, doctors and cops," she says. "We have a lot of Detroit automotive assembly line workers, people traveling in RVs, really whoever is up."

The show airs live Monday through Friday, with a best-of on weekends. Topics are all over the map: in addition to essential driving information, such as weather and road conditions, the show delves into politics, entertainment, family matters and sports. The show takes listener calls, holds contests and airs interviews with industry leaders.

Giveaways add to the fun, with such prizes as a month's payment on a truck (which Baker likens to a mortgage payment on a house), free tires and seats, cash and phone cards.

"When we started the show, of course, the only time we would hear from listeners is when they would call from a truck stop or they'd write," Harley says. "Now that there are cell phones and e-mail, we are perfectly primed for a talk show."

He adds that while majority opinion may place truckers in a less-than-scholarly light, "these guys are actually very well-educated. I'm shocked by how many of them have four-year degrees, who came from other fields. It really makes for interesting topics and debate. Most of them may be blue-collar Americans, but you'd be surprised just how outspoken they are.

Mindy Baker

MEET MIDNIGHT TRUCKING RADIO

They have definite opinions and they stand their ground. They are always brutally honest."

One radio staple Midnight Trucking Radio does not feature during the midnight-5 a.m. shift is music. According to Baker, "It can be hard for the trucking industry to get updated news and information. Most of their resources are publications, and they're monthly. We are up-to-the-minute with information that directly affects them. All of these elements make up something more interactive for them than listening to a CD or cassette or having us play music."

START YOUR ENGINES

The network's roots date back to 1964, when jock Bill Mack spun country music overnights at the far-reaching WBAP and started noticing that a lot of his calls and requests were coming from truckers, Baker says. "These guys loved classical country music."

Over time, truckers as a whole got younger and their musical tastes began to expand to include jazz and classic rock. As a result, "we just couldn't fulfill all of their musical tastes," Baker adds. "Besides, that's not really what AM stations are set up for. So over a five-year period, we put the emphasis on news and talk and played less music. Then when 9-11 happened, we were delivering news all day and we took all music off—and never went back."

ABC purchased and began syndicating the show in 1990, bringing in Harley—whose father-in-law is a fleet owner and brother-in-law owns a trucking company—and then news host Joe Kelley, a radio veteran and native Texan.

Research shows that the genre remains a consistent commodity to its audience. A truck stop survey conducted by Crump & Associates showed that the program dominates among all radio and print products aimed at truckers. The American Trucking Assn. also found that Midnight Trucking Radio was an ace, with exposure eight times greater than any trucking publication's monthly readership.

That's no surprise to Harley. "We may target a real niche market, but we sure get a lot of average Joes that love listening to the show," he says. "A lot has changed in the past several years and we give them information they can't get anywhere else, and that gives us a lot of room for debate. For me, it's gratifying to be able to give something back. It's sure a lot more satisfying than throwing on a record and saying, 'Here's Merle Haggard.'" ● ● ●

COW MEETS WORLD!

WHEN THE TALK RADIO NETWORK signed a deal to syndicate modern WKQX (Q101) Chicago morning man Erich “Mancow” Muller, it knew modesty wouldn’t be part of the deal.

“My plan is to get on every station in America, in every market,” Muller says, tongue planted firmly in cheek. “Immediately, stations could improve. In entire cities, radio could be helped by putting me on every station. You go to the country station, I’m there. You go to the talk station, I’m there. You go to the modern, the rock and the classical, and I’m there. And when I’m tired, they should play old tapes. I should be on 24 hours a day on every station in America.”

While that scenario is, of course, impossible, the outspoken Muller’s profile will be increasing outside of Chicago, thanks to the syndication deal with TRN, signed last year. He has already been heard at stations in several other markets—including WWCT Peoria, Ill.; WNFZ Knoxville, Tenn.; and KAZR Des Moines, Iowa—since before the deal.

But Muller claims he wasn’t aggressively seeking syndication.

“I’m on the Fox News Channel every day, I was super-serving Chicago, and I was fine with that,” he says. “I had met with other syndicators, and it really was meeting with [TRN CEO] Mark Masters that convinced me that it was time. Mark is the smartest man I’ve ever met in radio. He [has] organically grown talent, come completely out of left field, onto hundreds of stations.” Some of that talent includes Laura Ingraham and Michael Savage.

Although Muller has stated in interviews that he would be happy to replace Howard Stern in any of the 38 markets Infinity currently carries him in, he says that Stern’s decision to leave terrestrial radio for Sirius wasn’t what led him to syndicate.

“We had this idea done before some of the shakeups we’ve seen happen,” he says. “We’ve really been blessed with the way the industry’s headed right now. We’re still working under the guise that Howard’s going to be there forever. Our business plan isn’t based on what he does; it’s based on what we do. I think there’s room for all of us, but I’ll certainly take his stations. I think you’ll be seeing that happen on a very interesting scale.”

That said, Muller stresses that his show is different than Stern’s. “His is long-form, mine is not,” he says. “His is voyeuristic FM talk, and mine is not. We have cracked the FM code, and we are doing a show that focuses on pop culture and is all over the place. It’s the fastest-paced show in radio, and I think it’s the future.”

KEEPING THINGS MOVING

Muller’s show is decidedly different than most other morning offerings. It is very listener-intensive, and while guests stop by or call in, the pace remains fast-moving.

“I have a short attention span,” he says. “With iPods and computers, and the ‘give it to me now’ culture, this slow-paced, one idea for an entire show and hammering it over and over, it’s just excruciating. It bores me, and it’s insulting.

“I’m a little too close to it, so I can’t say, but I think my show might be a tough nut to crack,” Muller continues. “It’s a unique listening experience. One hour of my show is like a month of the shows I compete against. But once you can handle the newness of it and the pace of it—I’ve always said that if we can just get people to listen for three months, five hours a day, they’ll be hooked!”

Music doesn’t play a huge part in Muller’s show. While it is constantly used as beds underneath, more than a minute of a complete song is rarely used, and artists aren’t generally named.

“We use music only to illustrate and enhance,” he explains. “Music is a commodity you can get anywhere, and radio stations are going to learn that being a jukebox is going to cost all of them their jobs. When you’re a jukebox, the guy across the street can be the same jukebox. ‘More music, less talk’ is probably the stupidest thing—it’s like inviting cancer into your body. Radio is going to make money through their personalities, and people who are investing in the latest one-hit-wonder band will . . . be eating Alpo on the corner, because they’re betting on the wrong horse.

“I play whole songs only when they’re live,” Muller continues. “In the past six months, we’ve had a lot of the hottest, most cutting-edge music come through here.” Green Day, the Killers, the Zutons, Kings of Leon, My Morning Jacket and My Chemical Romance are among the bands that have visited the show in recent months.

NO SATELLITE PLANS

Mancow has considered satellite radio, but decided against it.

"At one point, I was offered half a million dollars more than what I'm making now, and it went up from there," he says. "I had a moment where I soul-searched, and I realized I have more listeners in a small town like Joliet, Ill., than I would on one of the satellite providers in a best-case scenario. If radio was indeed about money, as it is for some, then satellite would have been a good choice for me. But if it is about art, if it's about communicating and if it's about an audience, satellite's not a place to go to. I think, as a guy that champions free speech and tries to provide a voice for hard-working, tax-paying Americans, to now say, 'You love me?

OK, it's going to be $15 per month,' is just sinister to me.

"I heard in the dusty old books that FM was going to be the death of AM, and I'm old enough to remember that MTV was going to destroy radio," Muller continues. "Then cable radio was going to destroy us. When the smoke clears and the hype's over, Sirius and XM will simply be a very specialized form of broadcasting. They'll have a station for chiropractors, they'll have a station for truckers, it will not be mainstream and it will not be successful. There's new technology all the time. It's already an outdated model. It's all hype, and it will fail."

Muller stops short of saying he would never go to satellite, though. "Right now, we're worried about syndicating," he says. "What is the incentive for New York to take my show if I'm on satellite? My first love, and my true love, is radio."

He also questions whether being on satellite radio is really freeing.

"What Opie & Anthony did in New York, they're just vile human beings," he says, referring to the incident in which a couple was encouraged and caught having sex in St. Patrick's Cathedral during one of their broadcasts. "And now they have all this freedom to be degenerates on satellite radio. Can they come back from that? No, they're failing. Part of the thrill of these shows is that there are rules. When that's removed, what's the fun of wallowing? If we didn't have laws, you could go rape and kill and pillage. It's fun in 'Grand Theft Auto: San Andreas,' but is that the world you want to live in? I don't think so."

As for the Federal Communications Commission putting indecency in the spotlight following last year's Super Bowl, Muller questions the vagueness of the FCC.

"I never understood how Janet Jackson related to radio," he says. "I never understood how urban stations playing the most violent and vile material gets a free pass. I don't understand why the Latino station I'm up against in Chicago curses frequently in Spanish. I guess they just get a pass because no one on the commission speaks Spanish. There's a lot of things that are very confusing for everyone in radio. Just look at the shows they targeted. I think they're afraid of the shows that give voice to a lot of people. I think that was the real motive—the shows that give voice to a lot of regular people."

Muller says that it would be a "huge misconception" to think that his show has changed as a result of the renewed indecency hunt. Instead, he chalks it up to the changes that have occurred in his life, such as getting married, that are reflected in the show.

The closest Muller has come to creating a public outcry was in 1993, when he tied up traffic on San Francisco's Bay Bridge while getting a haircut.

"It wasn't an outrageous stunt," Muller says. "It was a political statement against Bill Clinton in a very liberal city. I talked with a listener that was trying to get home to be with his dying father, and because of Bill Clinton getting a haircut on the tarmac, that shut down LAX. This listener called crying, saying he would have gotten home to see his father die in San Francisco, but couldn't. So I got a haircut. It wasn't a stunt or a shock-radio vignette, it was a political statement."

"I don't think America needs another angry white guy talking about the right," Muller continues. "I'm a Libertarian, I'm a live-and-let-live kind of guy, and I think there's a big hole for that right now. I love how all the liberals are complaining that radio is dominated with right-wingers, but how long was it dominated by liberals? Now more than ever, we need someone that's about free speech and liberty. I'm more of a Jeffersonian guy than I am a George Bush kind of guy. There are political elements, but on the show, you'll also hear religion, politics, pop culture, music."

Muller says the local angle of his show won't be changed by syndication.

"It's always been a topic-driven, male-oriented, mainstream show, and it continues to be that," he says. "So what we're talking about in Chicago is interesting—Oprah's in Chicago, and she plays everywhere. We're talking about universal topics. I have sections of the show that are local, as do the affiliates, and that's when we hit the local angle. But I'm already doing a national show."

THIS WEEK IN DATA. For complete charts, there's always more at www.BillboardRadioMonitor.com

LEGEND TO CHARTS

Charts are ranked by detections except for Latin, Christian and Country charts which are based on audience impressions, computed by cross-referencing exact times of airplay with Arbitron listener data.

● Songs showing an increase in detections (audience for Latin, Christian and Country) over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections (audience for Latin, Christian and Country) does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. Exempting the Country chart, a song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections (audience for Latin, Christian and Country). Country titles which decline in audience but increase in detections will also receive a bullet if the total audience erosion for the week does not exceed 3%.

◎ AIRPOWER: awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Airpower awards do not appear on the Latin and Christian charts.

↑ GREATEST GAINER: awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections (audience for Latin, Christian and Country).

+ MOST AIRPLAY ADDS: awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week.

TIES: A song with a gain in detections (audience for Latin, Christian and Country) over the previous week is placed first if tied with a song with a decline over the same period. When tied songs are each gaining detections (audience for Latin, Christian and Country) or each losing detections (audience for Latin, Christian and Country), the song being played on more stations is placed first.

RECURRENT RULE: Songs below the top 20 (top 15 for adult top 40, AC, modern AC, adult R&B, heritage rock and dance) become recurrences and are removed from the chart after 26 weeks. Country titles move to recurrent after 20 weeks if they rank below No. 15 and are losing audience.

⊕ Nielsen BDS certification for airplay of 100,000 detections on all monitored stations, including satellite and national networks, across the U.S. and Canada. Numeral following symbol indicates multiple level of 100,000 detections.

★ Indicates title earned Hit-Predictor status in research data provided by Promosquad.

Playlists are listed in order of TSA weekly cume, beginning with the highest-cuming station. Cumes are updated twice yearly following the release of the spring and fall Arbitron surveys.

A+ AIRPLAY ADDS denotes songs with 6 or more detections at station for first time this week.

IMPACT! Songs at Airpower level and below with a gain in detections or with a percentage loss in detections equal to or better than the monitored downtime in the format.

★ INITIAL IMPACT: Indicates song's first appearance on the Impact! page.

AUDIOSLAVE TOPS MODERN AND ACTIVE

Audioslave's "Be Yourself" (Interscope) moves to No. 1 at modern rock and active rock, earning 10% spin increases at both formats. It is the group's third active rock chart-topper, following "Cochise" and "Like a Stone," which was its only previous modern No. 1.

One week after landing three top five songs at modern, Interscope goes one better and becomes the first label to score four of the top five tracks at the format. Beck's "E-Pro" and Queens of the Stone Age's "Little Sister" are pushed back one place (to No. 2 and No. 4, respectively) but retain bullets with modest detection gains, while Nine Inch Nails' "The Hand That Feeds" jumps 8-5 to round out the label's top five tally.

MODERN DEBUTS COMING FAST & FURIOUS

Following Nine Inch Nails' entry at No. 8 last issue, the modern chart sees a top 15 debut for the second consecutive week as Weezer lands the highest entry of its career at No. 13 with "Beverly Hills" (Geffen). This is the first time in more than 10 years that there has been a top 15 debut in back-to-back weeks at the format. In the Nov. 11, 1994, issue, Pearl Jam's "Spin the Black Circle" opened at No. 11, and the following week, R.E.M.'s "Bang & Blame" bowed at No. 8.

Fantasia's 'Truth' Sets Adult R&B Detection Mark

Fantasia sets a new spin record on the adult R&B chart as "Truth ls" (RMG) jumps 67 plays to 1,539 spins. "Truth" bests the prior mark held by "If I Ain't Got You" by Alicia Keys, which posted 1,478 detections in the April 30, 2004, issue. Further down the list, Fantasia's latest, "Free Yourself," re-enters at No. 36.

At R&B/hip-hop, Destiny's Child has a pair of simultaneous debuts as "Girl" enters at No. 34 and "Cater 2 U" comes in at No. 40. It is the first time a non-featured act has bowed two singles in the same week since the June 14, 2002, issue, when Ashanti debuted with "Happy" and "Down 4 U." She shared equal billing with Ja Rule, Charli Baltimore and Vita on the latter track, from the "Irv Gotti Presents the Inc" album.

THE SPIN

STRAIT SETS CAREER-HIGH DEBUT WITH HIS LATEST

Nearly 24 years after he made his first Billboard chart appearance, George Strait sets a career-high chart debut with "You'll Be There" (MCA Nashville), which arrives at No. 30. The start tops his prior opening-week benchmark, set when "Run" opened at No. 36 in the Oct. 5, 2001, issue.

With little more than five full days of airplay, Strait's new track begins its chart run with 6.2 million audience impressions; it is the highest debut on this chart since Toby Keith's "Honky Tonk U" (DreamWorks) started at No. 30 in the Feb. 4 issue. In fact, Universal Music Group Nashville claims the last five of the eight titles that have debuted in the top 30 since the dawn of the decade.

Prior to Strait, Shania Twain bowed at No. 24 with "I'm Gonna Getcha Good!" (Oct. 11, 2002), and Keith started at No. 30 with "I Love This Bar" (Aug. 22, 2003) and at No. 27 with "Stays in Mexico" (Aug. 6, 2004). Other artists that have achieved top 30 debuts since Jan. 1, 2000, are Tim McGraw, Garth Brooks and Alan Jackson. During that frame, Jackson's "Where Were You (When the World Stopped Turning)" posted the highest debut to date, opening at No. 22.

DMB MAKES IT AN EVEN DOZEN AT ADULT; WARNER MAKES TOP 10 RETURN AT RHYTHMIC

Dave Matthews Band returns to the adult top 40 chart as "American Baby" (RMG) debuts at No. 30 with Greatest Gainer and Most Airplay Adds honors. The track is the band's 12th appearance on the list, tying it with Matchbox Twenty as the group with the most charted singles at the format.

At rhythmic top 40, 50 Cent bows at No. 36 with "Just a Lil Bit," his sixth appearance this year at the format. "Bit" is one of five tracks 50 has on this week's survey, with four of those appearing in the top 10. He is the only artist to place four songs in the top 10 during the same week.

Elsewhere at rhythmic, Warner Bros. Records scores its first top 10 at the format since 2000, as Trillville Featuring Cutty's "Some Cut" rises 12-7. The last Warner Bros. title to crack that portion of the chart was Madonna's "Music" in September 2000.

Songs are blind tested online by PromoSquad using multiple listens and a nationwide sample of carefully profiled music consumers. Songs are rated on a 1-5 scale; final results are based on weighted positives. Songs with a score of 65 or more are judged to have Hit Potential, although that benchmark number can fluctuate per format based on the strength of available music. HitPREDICTOR column

KELLY CLARKSON is poised for a third hit from her sophomore release, "Breakaway." This time, the "American Idol" victor scores with "Behind These Hazel Eyes." It is her fourth HitPredictor title at mainstream top 40. All three previous top 40 HitPredictor picks from Clarkson ("Breakaway," "Since U Been Gone" and "Miss Independent") went top five.

Also at mainstream top 40, the Game takes previous R&B/hip-hop HitPredictor pick "Hate It or Love It" to another format. The song is already a top five title at R&B/hip-hop. Meanwhile, Gwen Stefani wants you to "Hollaback Girl." The now solo singer pegs that song to the board at top 40 and rhythmic top 40. This is

Clarkson Eyes Another Hit

Inaugural 'Idol' Victor Lands Third HP Title From Second Set 'Breakaway'

Stefani's second solo appearance on both charts.

At rhythmic top 40 and R&B/hip-hop, 50 Cent continues to dominate with his third in a quick succession of songs from his new album to join the HitPredictor ranks. And once again he does so in two formats with "Just A Lil Bit." It is his fifth title to land on the HitPredictor charts. Not to be outdone, Pretty Rickie joins 50 Cent at both formats with his new track, "Grind With Me." It is the artist's first appearance on both tallies.

At modern rock, Mudvayne asks listeners if they are "Happy?" The band should be, considering the track is its first HitPredictor title, notching a score of 68.4.
