NOTHING BUT THE TOOTH

and see if you could book a few guests.’”

Since then, it has been nothing but up. In November 1985, the show moved to Infinity classic rock WXRK (K-Rock) after WNBC canceled it. The following year, “The Howard Stern Show” was syndicated to Infinity active rock WYSP Philadelphia, setting the stage for syndication in other markets.

As Stern’s producer, Dell’Abate has held a unique vantage point to watch his boss infiltrate the media landscape. “Howard talked a certain way on the radio, and suddenly you’d start hearing it creep into more mainstream stuff,” he says. “He had an effect on the way a lot of people do their shows today, in every medium, not just radio. On radio, there’s almost nobody that does radio on [a] music station in the morning that isn’t somehow mimicking the show.”

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF BOOEY

For a larger-than-life character, Dell’Abate’s office at WXRK is kind of small. It is cluttered with pictures of his family, several gold and platinum records and various remnants of his career, each of which has a story behind it: a photo promoting his appearance (and a clown’s) at a Burger King, a drawing and photograph signed by “Survivor” host Jeff Probst of a challenge from the show called “bob on a buoy,” a framed photograph of Frances Bean Cobain, which Courtney Love gave him to remind the show that the singer has a daughter.

Dell’Abate wakes up every day around 4:20 a.m., showers and checks his e-mail. On his way to work, he listens to a CD of the previous night’s “Howard 100 News” segment on Sirius (“I can’t listen to it in front of my kids when it airs at six,” he says) and gets into work around 5:30 a.m. From there, he looks at the notes he printed out at home, checks his voice mail and gets ready for the day’s show.

Once Stern gets in, at about 5:55 a.m., Dell’Abate will brief him, letting him know about any tapes, articles or interviews he has come across that Stern may want to use. When Stern hits the air, Dell’Abate goes back to his office, where he stays unless needed.

“I’m in and out,” he says. “A lot of times, we’ll start doing something, I’ll give my contribution to it, then get up and walk out in the middle with Howard still doing his rap. My feeling is that I don’t want to overstay my welcome.”

Every time the show breaks, Dell’Abate, along with the show’s other producers, Will Murray and Jason Kaplan, and show writers Richard Christie and Sal the Stockbroker go back to the studio. They convene with Stern associates Norris, Artie Lange and Benji in the studio, where they kick ideas around.

Dell’Abate says the collaborative effort works well. “In the breaks [of] the last hour of the show, we pitch our guests,” he says. “Sometimes Howard will say, ‘I don’t think we want to have that person on,’ and Artie might go, ‘I remember I was working on the set of a movie, and she did this,’ or whatever. If we have an angle, then it works.”

After the show ends, Dell’Abate will start returning phone calls and answering e-mails from the day before. He will then start working on the next day’s show. He leaves the station between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m., getting home in the late afternoon. It is right to the computer when he gets home, then he will see his family and have dinner with them. After his kids are off to bed, he will prep for the next day, sometimes booking guests from the West Coast before turning in around 11 p.m.

To most Howard Stern fans, Gary Dell’Abate will forever be known as “Baba Boeey.” The nickname stuck after he mispronounced the name of cartoon character Baba Looey on the air. Now, even his kids call him Baba Boeey.

Until this mangling of Quick Draw McGraw’s sidekick’s name, he had been known as “Boy Gary.”

“They kept having me repeat it a bunch of times, and I thought it was the stupidest thing in the world,” he says. “That was 1992, and I was like, ‘Guys, this is getting old.’ That was the kiss of death.”

Dell’Abate’s partnership with Stern started in 1984, when he was hired for $150 per week at talk WNBC-AM New York. He took over for Lee Davis, now the GM of Infinity sports WFAN, who had left to produce Soupy Sales’ show.

“I waited for Howard to come in one day, and he was sick that day, so Fred [Norris] and this other writer on the show took me into this room and interviewed me for an hour, which was really just him torturing me and goofing on me,” he remembers. “But I guess he liked me, and they hired me at $150 per week, before taxes. My job was presented to me as, ‘Get my lunch every day,

BA BA BOTHERED? NOPE

In addition to being the best-known morning-show producer in radio, Dell'Abate is also one of the most put-upon. Countless song parodies about the size of his teeth and his alleged bad breath have been written, and when appearing in pictures with many female guests, he is sometimes forced to wear a beekeeper's mask that obscures his face. He does not let that bother him, though.

"I'm pretty thick-skinned about that," he says. "It's just like when you hang with the kids at school, if you say, 'Listen guys, stop teasing me about that, it's bothering me,' you'll get more . . . I've gone through stuff that's been tough to talk about on the air and stuff that's fun to talk about on the air, but it's what makes the show great."

There is still one thing that makes Dell'Abate cringe, though: an old videotape he made, with him pleading with an ex-girlfriend that had dumped him. The girl's new beau brought it to Stern's attention.

"I made that thing 20 years ago and never thought anyone would ever see it," he says. "Even to this day, when they play it back, I'll literally go to another office and turn the radio down and tell someone to call me when they're done. It's too hard to listen to, and too embarrassing."

Day Wednesday. It almost reminds me of the rebels versus the redcoats. He was always doing the same thing all the time. There were no surprises, and we were always doing something different."

The next big victory came in Los Angeles. Dell'Abate says the win over then-mainstream rock KLOS Los Angeles hosts Mark & Brian came quickly. "We went on in Philly, and people were telling us that when we were on WNBC, AM radio bled into Philly," he says. "Then we went on in [Washington] D.C., and that worked well. But when we went to L.A., I can't tell you how many people told me it was a big mistake and we were going to fail. 'L.A.'s different than New York.' I remember telling Howard that a lot of people were telling me that, and he said, 'Saturday Night Live' is on in L.A. and New York, and it's still funny. If something's funny, a time delay won't matter.' He was absolutely right."

As Stern's terrestrial radio days draw to a close, Dell'Abate points to the stations that made the most of being "the Howard Stern station." He immediately names WYSP. "Tim [Sabeau] down in Philly, and before him, Andy Bloom," he says. "Andy was our first program director at WYSP, and later at KLSX in Los Angeles. Oedipus and those guys at WBCN [Boston] always knew how to run the show. Bob Moore, and now Jack Silver out in Los campaign manager for a gubernatorial run, when Howard ran for governor. We hadn't planned that out, it just happened.

"Sometimes the best are the guests you have low expectations of that somehow come up big," he says. "I remember back when Corbin Bernsen was on 'L.A. Law,' and he came in and started telling all these great stories about the women he'd slept with. We had no idea he was so much fun."

Early on, there were some problems booking guests. Dell'Abate says that WNBC was a bigger draw than Stern was in the early days. "When we got [to Infinity], especially [for] a lot of West Coast-based people, the reputation became a pain in the neck," he says. "Once we went on the air in L.A., that changed a lot, and not long after that, the E! show started, and those two things together changed everything. Once people could actually hear us in the entertainment community on the West Coast and once they started seeing the show, they knew exactly what it was, and most people liked it."

When asked about dream guests, Dell'Abate says that the show has gone long enough without the people that consistently turn him down that the show can live without them. "I've always wanted to do things for Howard when we do his birthday show," he says. "I know he's a Neil Young fan, and I've always tried to get Neil on the show to come perform, but it's never worked out. My dream show is all the guests who would never do the show: Kathie Lee Gifford, Star Jones and Ellen DeGeneres all sitting on a couch." He would also love to get Dr. Phil, Oprah Winfrey and O.J. Simpson.

Dell'Abate does not foresee problems getting guests once they move to Sirius, even though Stern's audience will, at least initially, be much smaller there. The network "gets a lot of big guests over there now because it's absolutely the cool, hip thing," he says. "It's what FM was in the early '60s, and it's the coolest and newest. Also, we have a lot of people that have been with us for a while. I think the growth for us is going to be so rapid that it's not going to be an issue for long."

ONWARD AND UPWARD

Before Stern announced he was moving to satellite in October 2004, Dell'Abate says that the staff had an inkling he might make the jump. "I knew that he couldn't stay here the way things were going, so I thought one of two things was happening: either he was quitting, or he was going to satellite.

"When he came on and made the announcement, the day before, he'd told me there was something he was going to do on the air tomorrow and not to book anyone . . . When he started to talk, I was sitting in my office, and I really thought he was quitting. I was a little taken aback by the satellite move, but I really thought he was going to quit."

Once January comes, Dell'Abate hopes to become more involved in the Howard 100 channel, but lately, he and everyone involved are pulling double duty to make sure Stern's terrestrial radio run finishes smoothly. "When I get over there, I'll obviously be more involved, but this show is top priority," he says. "I've got to make sure that the show, here and over there, is the best show it can be, and with my spare time I'll work on other stuff . . . The worst-case scenario is I'll give [PD] Tim [Sabeau] my input and advice, but it could go all the way up to physically producing a couple of shows, which I want to do."

And with Stern as his boss for more than 20 years, would Dell'Abate stay for another 20? "I would like to stay with it as long as he's willing to keep me, because it's been very rewarding in a variety of different ways," he says. "It's still fun, and it's really fun. This is as excited as all of us have been in a really long time. How many people have worked at the same job for 21 years and still like it? And the fact that every day is different is why I like it, and now it's going to get really different, so I'm in it for the long haul."

'HOWARD TALKED A CERTAIN WAY ON THE RADIO, AND SUDDENLY YOU'D START HEARING IT CREEP INTO MORE MAINSTREAM STUFF'
—GARY DELL'ABATE

But it will continue to embarrass him after Stern's terrestrial radio run is done. It is expected to be made available as part of a video-on-demand cable package.

Dell'Abate calls Stern "great to work for," saying that while his boss expects a lot out of him, it is never more than anything he would do himself. "Howard might call me on a weekend and say, 'We've got to get something done,'" he says. "It's not like he calls me every weekend, but when something's got to get done, it's got to get done . . . [but] he's at home working twice as hard as he's asking me to work."

When asked if there is anything he hates about his employer, Dell'Abate does not have to think about it. "When I'm talking to him off the air about stuff for the show, pitching guests, he loses focus," he says. "I'll do a really long pitch on a guest, and he'll be looking me in the eye the whole time, and there will be this long pause, and he'll turn to someone and say, 'Did you see "Survivor" last night?'"

During the Stern show's rise to success, it beat a lot of entrenched morning programs. Perhaps the best-known victory was in Philadelphia, the first market where it was syndicated, against the then-No. 1 morning show, John DeBella's "Morning Zoo" on now-Greater Media mainstream rock WMMR. "That was the first person we beat that had a reputation and a career," Dell'Abate says. "The rap we used to get was, 'Howard doesn't even know who the mayor of Philadelphia is or the names of the streets.' We knew it didn't matter, as long as we were funny."

Dell'Abate says the formula of DeBella's show helped the Stern team beat it. "By the time [DeBella] got to Philly, his show was really rigid," he says. "Hawaiian-shirt gonzo Friday and Hump Angeles. The guys out in Vegas always did a great job and understood the show well. The stations that sort of embraced us—just because we were far away didn't mean we couldn't be part of the family—that's where I thought it always worked the best."

MEMORIES

As the show continues to draw closer to its end, Stern and his gang have been playing some of the most memorable bits from the 20 years it aired on Infinity. Dell'Abate remembers late comedian Sam Kinison as one of his favorite guests, recalling the time a friend came to meet him at the station for a noon lunch. "I was out in the lobby, and I was talking to her, and Sam came out with a bottle of champagne in one hand and a glass in the other, and said, 'Gary, I need some ice.' She thought we were kidding around and had no idea that's what it was really like."

Dell'Abate mentions meeting celebrities that he had been interested in, such as Mickey Mantle and John F. Kennedy Jr., as memories that stand out in his mind, but also brings up the time the hosts of "Queer Eye for the Straight Guy" were on the morning after they had been out with a drunken Lange.

"I had heard that Artie got out of control, but I didn't realize how bad it was," he says. "When they started playing [the tape], I was so mortified that I left the room. That was Artie's first drunken meltdown."

But Dell'Abate is most excited about the spontaneity of the show. "It's never the same every day," he says. "I always bring up the example that one day I came to work, and by 9:00 a.m. that day, I was sort of the assistant

A CATALOG OF FCC FINES: THE BIG CHILL OR HOWARD'S END

BY TONY SANDERS

When Howard Stern launched into syndication with his first affiliate on Aug. 18, 1986, it took only a few weeks for the indecency complaints to arrive at the Federal Communications Commission and for the FCC to take its first actions against him.

In his book, "Private Parts," Stern excerpts passages from complaint letters that date back to his days in the early 1980s, when he was on WWDC (DC 101) Washington, D.C., and WNBC-AM New York. As he points out, no action was taken by the FCC on any of those letters when he was serving just one market.

All of that changed when Stern began syndication.

In 1986, the first complaints against Stern were filed by the Rev. Donald Wildmon and his National Federation for Decency. Among the cited passages was a bit where Stern asked a caller: "Have you ever had sex with an animal?" After the caller said no, Stern continued, "Well, don't knock it. I was sodomized by Lamb Chop—you know, that puppet Sherri [sic] Lewis holds?"

The FCC let Infinity Broadcasting off with a warning, which came as an official memo about eight months later, on April 16, 1987.

However, bits on Stern's Dec. 16, 1988, "Christmas Party" show drew FCC fines of $2,000 each for the three Infinity stations that aired the program (WXRK New York, WYSP Philadelphia and WJFK Washington, D.C.). Among the cited passages was the description of "a guy who plays the piano with his penis."

Legal arguments by Infinity's lawyers, and subsequent letters to and from the FCC, helped create a two-year delay before the commission finally sent out its official Notice of Apparent Liability. That NAL and its $6,000 in fines came out Nov. 29, 1990.

By late 1991, Stern's network included Greater Media's KLSX Los Angeles, along with Infinity's three FM outlets. The show was on a roll. It was also headed toward a series of record-setting fines.

The FCC fined Greater Media $105,000 on Oct. 27, 1992, for a series of 12 separate broadcasts of Stern's show on different days from Oct. 30 to Dec. 6, 1991.

Not long after that, the FCC fined Infinity an unprecedented $600,000 for airing that same series of broadcasts. Then-FCC Commissioner Ervin Duggan described the fine as "the outer limit of what the commission is willing to do by way of a mere, although substantial, fine."

PUSHING THE ENVELOPE

Stern's show continued to push the envelope and to draw more indecency complaints and FCC notices. As an Aug. 12, 1993, letter from the FCC puts it, the commission was describing Infinity as having a "pattern of apparent misconduct" and said that "we would, without more [evidence], find it difficult to avoid the conclusion that Infinity has persisted in its indifference to existing indecency proscriptions and is either unwilling or unable to conform its conduct to the requirements of the law."

By this point, Infinity had implemented a series of procedures—broadcast delays, continuous monitoring of the show by management and "regular consultations" with Stern and his staff—to help "conform the show to the commission's contemporary view of indecency."

Those procedures apparently helped the FCC keep its decision from moving beyond imposing monetary fines into the realm of hearings on Infinity's fitness as a broadcast licensee. Those fines were substantial and, in total, added another $500,000 on top of Infinity's previously imposed $600,000 fine.

The stakes were getting higher, but Stern's show continued to test the outer limits of the FCC's tolerance for alleged indecency on the radio.

The next round of complaints were for three broadcasts that took place in 1993: Sept. 30, Oct. 6 and Oct. 12. The FCC issued an NAL against Americom's KFBI Las Vegas for these broadcasts, sending out that notice in January 1994.

The next month, the FCC fined each of four Infinity stations—this time including WJFK-AM Baltimore—$100,000 apiece for airing those same shows. That notice went out Feb. 1, 1994.

Two more broadcasts brought additional FCC fines. One was for a show broadcast on Dec. 6, 1993, the other on Jan. 19, 1994. Those FCC infractions drew a combined $200,000 in fines for Infinity.

According to The Hollywood Reporter, "On the Dec. 6 show, Stern, his sidekick Robin Quivers and a male caller [discussed] masturbation, a Dixie cup, a sock and vomiting during oral sex."

Many of the complaints against Stern that were logged during the early 1990s were filed by one man, Al Westcott of Las Vegas. By late 1993, his complaints resulted in more than $1.3 million in fines against stations that aired Stern's show.

Ultimately, by 1995, those fines totaled $1.7 million. The fines were paid, but the structure of that payment was as a "voluntary contribution" to the United States Treasury. In exchange, the FCC gave Infinity a clean record as a broadcast licensee—something vital to ensure Infinity's ability to embark on its merger-and-acquisition path.

In September 1995, Infinity announced that it was going to pay $275 million to buy Alliance Broadcasting's seven radio stations in four top markets (Dallas, Detroit, San Francisco and Seattle).

A month earlier, in August, Westinghouse and CBS had agreed to a $5.4 billion merger.

None of this stopped Stern. The next set of FCC fines involved broadcasts of the show that aired on Oct. 23, 1995, and June 3, 1996.

By June 1996, the newly agglomerated CBS was ready to make its next multi-billion-dollar acquisition: buying Infinity for $4.9 billion.

In October 1996, the FCC issued a $10,000 NAL to WYGO Richmond, Va., for airing the Oct. 23, 1995, and June 3, 1996, material.

ALL'S QUIET (BRIEFLY) ON THE STERN FRONT

According to Billboard Radio Monitor's research, it was not until 2001 that Stern's show would draw enough ire from the FCC to warrant a new fine. In July, when Stern and a guest talked about sexual practices, a listener in Detroit filed a complaint. The FCC issued an NAL for $27,500.

The next major fine against Stern came in 2004, when the FCC hit Clear Channel with notices for fines totaling $495,000—fines that were set at the FCC's new maxi-imum level of $27,500 each for 18 violations. The notice was issued April 8, 2004, and involved broadcasts from April 2003.

Shortly after news of the FCC fines broke, Clear Channel issued a statement saying it was permanently terminating its relationship with Stern; his show had already been suspended from Clear Channel airwaves since February of that year.

Later in 2004, the FCC and Clear Channel reached a record-setting settlement of about $1.75 million to clear all indecency complaints against the radio giant, including those involving Stern's show.

YEAR OF THE 'CONSENT DECREE'

With much of its radio franchise built around Stern, many expected Infinity to ultimately fight the good fight and mount a court challenge to indecency rules long derided as vague and possibly unconstitutional. But parent company Viacom signed a $3.5 million consent decree after Stern's blockbuster announcement of his move to Sirius Satellite Radio in October 2004.

Interviewed in December 2004, Democratic commissioner Jonathan Adelstein insisted that the FCC was not trying to drive Stern and others off the air; it was just enforcing the indecency law as Congress spelled it out.

"I don't think it's a necessary outcome that good content is driven away from the radio," Adelstein told Billboard Radio Monitor. "It's possible to be proactive and interesting and not cross the bounds of indecency."

PROGRAMMING GURU TIM SABEAN IS SHOOTING FOR THE SKY WITH HIS FAVORITE STAR

AS VP OF PROGRAMMING FOR Infinity's Philadelphia cluster, Tim Sabean looked after some of the market's strongest radio brands: news KYW, active rock WYSP, talk WPHT, oldies WOGL, and sports WIP. Sabean was also VP of active rock programming for Infinity, working with some of the company's prime rock real estate.

What convinced him to leave all that behind and join the fledgling satellite radio business?

Two words: Howard Stern.

"It was the opportunity to work with Howard and Sirius and join a new medium with an entrepreneurial kind of vibe to it," Sabean says. "To break new ground and do something different."

Sabean spent 15 years at WYSP, Stern's longest-running affiliate—the one where he has pulled his biggest ratings. He now works as PD for Stern's two Sirius channels.

While Stern's voice will not be heard on Sirius until Jan. 9, his imprint is all over channels 100 and 101. However, the programs that began airing in mid-October are "test shows just to stunt the channels, to try different things and to stretch a little bit," Sabean says. "He has an entire laundry list of new innovative ideas and development deals that he will unveil here sometime soon."

Until then, what is known is that Stern and former WXTB Tampa, Fla., morning man Todd "Bubba the Love Sponge" Clem will be major components of the channels. One channel will be programmed for the Eastern time zone, the other for the West. "Stay tuned" for other big names to join, Sabean says.

The Sirius channels will be programmed more like TV than radio. Expect "short-form programming and appointment listening with unique content," Sabean says. Howard 100 and Howard 101 will offer "different creative ideas that you could not do on terrestrial radio."

A 4,100-square-foot space that looks more like a TV studio than a radio room will serve as Stern's new playground. It comes equipped with a working bar, a remote-control rack of bikinis that drops from a ceiling and a corner with water resistant walls and floors. And of course, a stripper pole.

Free of Federal Communications Commission restrictions, Stern will use "more adult language," Sabean says. "It will be more real and more honest. At Sirius he'll be able to do everything and anything he wants. It will open him even more so creatively."

Sabean says the drama surrounding Stern's move to satellite is "more interesting than 'Seinfeld' or 'Everybody Loves Raymond.' People tune in every morning to hear what the next twist or turn will be.

"I look at this like [Viacom co-COO] Les Moonves does with the television network," Sabean says. "It's the same type of situation. We're looking at doing development deals, creating unique content and looking at other people to supply the content that would fill up some of the time slots on the channels.

"Unique content is what drove a lot of other technologies, like the VCR and the DVD, and content will drive his medium," Sabean continues. He and Stern are "creating unique content in a unique environment that is a lot broader than terrestrial radio," he says. "The technology is different, and it's an exciting place to be."

Sabean says the ideas Stern is kicking around are "so unique and so innovative that they haven't been done on terrestrial radio. People have not heard these kinds of things on the radio ever." The new concepts will create buzz and word-of-mouth and stimulate subscriptions, he adds.

Exploiting a seemingly insatiable appetite for Stern-centric information, Sabean, consultant Walter Sabo and Howard 100 news director Liz Aiello launched news reports in October that focus exclusively on the jock. "Howard 100 News" will continue after he starts in January.

Sabean calls Stern "an innovator and one of the most creative people I ever worked with. He has the ability to create content constantly and to reinvent himself on an ongoing basis. He has unique unduplicated programming that you cannot get anywhere else. He's put himself on the same level as Donald Trump, Oprah Winfrey and Martha Stewart."

Since joining Oct. 17, Sabean says his new gig has consumed "every waking moment" of his life. "It's been just an absolute buzz and an exciting time in my career. After doing what I was doing for 15 years in terrestrial radio, this was totally different and a unique opportunity. It's building, it's creating and it's entrepreneurial.

"Howard has more ideas than I've heard in my career," he adds.

(SUPER)HERO WORSHIP

RADIO HAS LONG LOVED STERN...AND HOWARD LOVES IT BACK

BY CHUCK TAYLOR ILLUSTRATION BY BRAD HAMANN

HOWARD STERN IS ANYTHING BUT a dead man, but eulogies honoring his service to terrestrial radio are the kind typically reserved for a departed saint.

"We have told our clients that Howard leaving terrestrial radio is analogous to Michael Jordan retiring from the NBA," says Fred Jacobs, president of broadcast consultancy Jacobs Media. "It's a big deal, and it marks the end of an era."

Pollack Media VP of music programming Pat Welsh adds, "Howard almost single-handedly brought the concept of a networked/syndicated morning show to music radio in the late '80s. It's hard to remember the prevailing attitudes when Howard first started to be syndicated to Philadelphia in the '80s. Lots of people said, 'A New York act just won't fly in Philadelphia.' They said the same thing when he came to Chicago, L.A., Dallas and so on."

Quite universally, consultants queried by Billboard Radio Monitor lavish Stern with high praise on all fronts: as a business entity, as a radio entertainer, a valued friend to his audience and a good bet for continued marquee value, as he moves into the great beyond at Sirius Satellite Radio in January.

WHY HE COUNTS

The consultants credit Stern with forging his own path in previously unexplored broadcast territory.

"He wouldn't have been as much of a celebrity if he hadn't worked his ass off," says Sabo Media president/CEO Walter Sabo, who is also a consultant to Sirius Satellite Radio. "He is a star because he works harder than anybody in radio. He looked at every opportunity and grabbed it. He wrote the books. He starred in the movie. And he did it all while doing a daily five-hour radio show."

Welsh notes: "Besides the obvious firsts in the radio business, what I marvel at the most is that Howard has been able to avoid overexposure. How many other media icons or institutions have been able to continue to grow, rather than burning out or becoming perceived as yesterday's news? If you followed his career over the years, you see that he has continued to reinvent himself and the show to stay relevant."

Consultant Randy Lane, founder of the Randy

Lane Co., explains, "More than anyone before him, with the exception of Steve Dahl—who likely was a big influence on Stern—Howard says what everyone thinks but does not say. That's the core of what's made him work. He's an icon against corporate and bureaucratic thinking. He had the balls to stand up and do things differently. He has stayed true to his beliefs and didn't compromise the product."

Lane adds that Stern is "brilliant at stealth marketing. No one in radio or TV has ever been able to keep themselves in the news as much as this guy. Madonna is the only other one I can think of who even comes close in the area of being controversial, reinventing themselves and creating press."

INSIDE THE INDUSTRY

Within the industry, Sabo says that Stern raised the bar for the entertainment business as a whole. "He dragged morning radio to a new level of honesty and candor, which made it appealing to a new audience," he says. "And then he raised the level in all media, including Jay Leno's 'Tonight Show.' He knows exactly what he is doing and how he is doing it. He is a radio scientist. Pay attention to the master's work."

Jacobs notes that Stern had to fight for individuality, even within the broadcasting infrastructure. "Howard actually had to overcome a considerable amount of bias from within the radio business," he says. "To this day, he has never been properly appreciated by commercial broadcasters. It's a real disservice to a guy who has truly given a lot to this business."

Sabo agrees that Stern was sometimes vilified by his own. "His job is to get ratings. He did his job; the ratings speak for themselves, the people have voted," he says. "What other broadcasters think doesn't matter. They don't get an Arbitron diary."

Welsh suggests that plenty in the business may have held moral opposition to Stern's on-air persona, "but from a professional perspective, his track record is so impressive that I find it hard to believe that everyone won't—even if it's only grudgingly—acknowledge the fact that he was an important part of terrestrial radio's long history. It's possible that the biggest resentment against him will be the fact that he left terrestrial radio for satellite radio."

A FRIEND INDEED

It is his relationship with his audience, in fact, that continues to make Stern as bankable as ever.

"Howard has always been perceived as a fearless everyman who says whatever's on his mind," Jacobs says. "He speaks for a lot of nerdy guys who would love to be in his shoes. Howard is a rule breaker, a guy who isn't afraid to fight windmills. People admire those qualities."

Welsh says that another critical aspect of the Stern persona is that he always positioned himself as the underdog. The Federal Communications Commission "was breathing down his neck, certain organizations were trying to get him off the air, even the programmers at some affiliates were doing him wrong," he says. "The fact that he was fighting back was a powerful part of the attraction."

Contrary to the way some view Stern, his content comes in many flavors. "Some people listen specifically for Howard's sexual content, while others actually enjoy the political/social commentary more, but they all listen a lot," Welsh says. "In fact, one of the biggest mistakes that his detractors make is assuming that Howard's audience is made up of perverts or low-IQ people. Far from it—he draws a broad audience of people who appreciate the irreverence and the no-holds-barred approach to everything."

Lane adds that Stern's role as hero, little man, truth-seeker and loudmouth have all contributed to his mystique.

"His public persona, even beyond those who really listen to him, is that he's a bad boy. People tune in to hear what he's going to say next. People love to hate him, and that accounts for a chunk of his audience. He's also a master of self-deprecation, which helps balance out his arrogance. It humanizes him and makes him likable and relatable."

SIRIUS INTENT

As a result, Sabo sees little standing in the way between Stern and his audience, once he makes the transition to Sirius.

First, he says, listeners have found a reliable ally in the man.

"He is a hero, a comedian, a very honest friend," Sabo says. "Radio is an intimate and personal choice. Out of 40 or 50 stations, Stern fans chose him. That is very powerful."

Second, the road to satellite radio is just not that difficult, Sabo adds.

'WE HAVE TOLD OUR CLIENTS THAT HOWARD LEAVING TERRESTRIAL RADIO IS ANALOGOUS TO MICHAEL JORDAN RETIRING FROM THE NBA.' —FRED JACOBS

HOWARD STERN: TRAILBLAZER IN TRANSITION

"He has already driven subscribers; it's so easy to get a Sirius radio that it's just not a big deal to continue with a winning habit," he says. "Most people won't get a radio until the day he's off the air. Then, in January, there will be a big demand. People will realize that satellite radio is 150-plus brand-new radio stations—plus Howard Stern. Score!"

Jacobs says that the Stern experience has been so unique within the industry that his firm had to invent a special research question to understand how listeners perceived him.

"The statement 'I don't like Howard Stern but have to admit I listen to him anyway' was the best avenue to reach a big segment of his audience," Jacobs explains.

NEXT IN LINE

The consultants stop short of saying that radio is not capable of nurturing another personality with the potential of Stern.

"Could there be another Beatles or Nirvana? Absolutely. Even programmers, corporations and consultants can't stop a major talent from breaking through," Jacobs says. "And of course his absence at terrestrial also opens up new doors for local talent in many markets."

Sabo suggests, "Someone will work up to the standard that he has set, but I doubt they will sound anything like him. My bet is that it will be a woman."

'HE WOULDN'T HAVE BEEN AS MUCH OF A CELEBRITY IF HE HADN'T WORKED HIS ASS OFF!'
—WALTER SABO

But Lane thinks that looking for the next Stern will be more like searching out the next Elvis or Beatles.

"It could happen, but it's unlikely that anyone will have the impact that he's had in the same way," he says. "It will be a lot more difficult in the future, because there are so many more choices now that there's no one media that has the impact that it once had."

Because he was the first in his class, Welsh believes that Stern will remain the standard: "He will always be an outsized personality, difficult to duplicate, but I think there's a voracious appetite for unique content in all media. That appetite will drive the search for new stars. We still have a lot of issues to work out with respect to giving new talent the time to develop, but I believe it will happen."

Sabo believes Stern is destined to become an even bigger radio star once his on-air light turns green at Sirius. "The move to satellite and the freedom that terrestrial broadcasters refuse to fight for will energize Howard creatively. He'll just get better, and that will broaden his appeal."

Jacobs adds, "Howard has been an incredible boon to rock stations, and it's been challenging working for his stations—and competing against him, too. In some ways, his success has been a double-edged sword for many stations. Those that developed strong music images will live to fight another day. The rest will end up changing formats."

THE DEALMAKER

THE SHREWD 'SUPER AGENT' BEHIND EVERY STERN DEAL FOR THE PAST TWO DECADES

BY PAUL HEINE PHOTOGRAPH BY JOE FORNABAIO / RETNA LTD.

ASK DON BUCHWALD WHAT HIS FIRST MEETING with Howard Stern was like, and the otherwise genteel dealmaker lets out a loud scream.

It was 1984. Buchwald was the veteran talent agent, Stern the relative newcomer to the New York airwaves, working at talk WNBC and in need of an agent. Amused by his humor and impressed with his intellect, Buchwald thought Stern had potential and took him on, adding the controversial personality to a client list that already included Gotham radio heavies Dan Ingram, Ted Brown, Gene Klavan, Bob Fitzsimmons and Larry Kenny.

The career cycle was usually the same. "People would do well, get famous in the market and then lose some of their luster" to whatever hot new talent came down the pike, Buchwald says. Confined to just one market and one medium, their growth opportunities were limited.

Things would be different with Stern.

markets," Buchwald says. "Philadelphia was one thing; it was a couple of hours away. But Los Angeles is a different place. It was a big gamble."

Hungry for L.A., Buchwald turned it into a negotiating ploy with then-Infinity chief Mel Karmazin. For Stern to re-up, Karmazin would have to grant him the right to sign a non-Infinity affiliate there. Without it, Buchwald had convinced Stern that he would have to quit Infinity, leave his New York comfort zone behind, move to L.A. and start over.

"That became a significant part of our negotiation," Buchwald says. Despite concerns about handing over his morning star to a competitor in radio's richest revenue market, Karmazin agreed.

Since then, Buchwald has negotiated every deal Stern has done, writing "ironclad" contracts that have become something of radio industry lore. He also became the syndicator of the Stern show, representing the host and Infinity in negotiations with affiliates.

Columbus, Ohio. Carriage fees went up each year, and affiliates paid Stern handsome performance bonuses when he met certain ratings thresholds.

"I've never sold Howard to anybody," Buchwald says of the processes that ultimately lead to "The Howard Stern Show" airing in around 60 markets. "I've never tried to convince a broadcast company, 'You must buy Howard Stern, because he has all these wonderful virtues.' That's never been the system. The system has been that, 'You've heard of this guy, he's dangerous, he's exciting, and if you're interested, we'll talk to you about it. And this is the basis by which we'll create an understanding with you.'"

Buchwald estimates he told roughly 100 different radio companies during the past 20 years the same thing: "You've got to make sure you understand what this show is all about. There's controversy connected with this show. The [Federal Communications Commission] has an interest in Howard Stern."

'I'VE NEVER SOLD HOWARD TO ANYBODY. I'VE NEVER TRIED TO CONVINCING A BROADCAST COMPANY, "YOU MUST BUY HOWARD STERN, BECAUSE HE HAS ALL THESE WONDERFUL VIRTUES." THAT'S NEVER BEEN THE SYSTEM.' -DON BUCHWALD

In 1986, after Stern boosted ratings at Infinity Broadcasting WXRK (K-Rock) New York (which was a classic rock station at the time), the small but growing company made a bold move to simulcast him into Philadelphia on ratings-challenged rocker WYSP. Industry pundits dismissed the move as foolhardy.

Within four years, Stern dethroned mainstream rock WMMR's John DeBella, then the highest-paid media personality in town, to become the market's top-rated morning host. A triumphant Stern staged a mock funeral for DeBella outside WMMR's Rittenhouse Square studios, attracting thousands of rabid fans and stoking media coverage. It was riveting radio history, soon to be repeated in other markets.

With clients in film, TV and theater, Buchwald understood that a radio talent seeking bona fide celebrity status would need Hollywood on his side. "That's where the sparkle seemed to be," Buchwald says. For Stern to sustain and grow, a Los Angeles radio affiliate became de rigeur.

But preconsolidation Infinity was not ready to hand over crown jewel modern rock KROQ, its only L.A. outlet, to Stern. "It was a strange concept to take a New York person with a New York vibration and have him broadcast from New York to other

10 MONTHS OF NEGOTIATIONS

"I got lucky. I picked up the phone and made one telephone call, and I got a call back from [KLSX Los Angeles manager] Bob Moore," Buchwald recalls. "And he knew of Howard."

While Moore and then-KLSX owner Greater Media wanted to simulcast Stern on mornings via tape delay, negotiations turned into an arduous 10-month melodrama. It took so long for Stern, Infinity and Greater Media to come to terms that the talks are immortalized in a commemorative mug that sits in Buchwald's midtown Manhattan office.

"There were lots of quirks and lots of rights and obligations that everybody had," Buchwald says. "We didn't want to do any harm to anybody, but we wanted the right to grow."

With Infinity granting Buchwald the right to syndicate Stern, the KLSX contract became the model for future affiliate signings. Recognizing that national advertisers like McDonald's were not looking for linkage with Lesbian Dial-a-Date, Buchwald gave the show's entire commercial inventory to the affiliate to sell—in stark contrast to prevailing barter deals. Stations would pay cash based on their local market radio revenue. That made carrying Stern a far costlier proposition in L.A. than in

You've got to be prepared to defend this program against anything—against lawsuits, the FCC, whatever. You're going to have to be a partner in this relationship."

In the contract's most unusual twist, affiliates were required to indemnify Stern and Infinity from any damages related to the broadcast of the show. Before signing, Buchwald would have the new affiliate's FCC counsel call his attorney, Richard Basch, who would explain the finer details of the contract. "We'd sign 'em and seal 'em, and Howard would go to work."

Buchwald insists everything was out on the table. "We didn't say the FCC would never fine you or the woman who owns the sandwich shop on the corner is never going to sue for defamation. It was the other way around," he says. "It was, 'If you want him, you've got to indemnify us. It's nuts, but you've got to indemnify us. You've got to be aware that all of these things might very well happen.' At which point, we're always home free."

Turning down operators he perceived as skittish, Buchwald tried to avoid the damage caused by a station signing, then dropping Stern because it could not take the heat. Still, stations in Norfolk, Va.; Chicago; and other markets did exactly that.

"Howard is such a lightning rod for news that if his ratings drop one-tenth of a point, there are massive headlines in the paper," Buchwald says. "Howard is the guy people love to hate. Any bad news becomes good news for them."

At its syndication peak, "The Howard Stern Show" was heard in markets that included New York, Los Angeles, Chicago, San Francisco, Dallas, Philadelphia, Boston, Detroit, Miami, Seattle, San Diego, Pittsburgh and Washington, D.C. Toppling leading shows in many, but not all markets, he fueled a morning-show tsunami, spawned scores of imitators and drew the syndication blueprint later used by Bob & Tom, Mancow, John Boy & Billy, Lex & Terry and other morning shows.

In market after market, the scenario was predictable: Media reports that radio's bad boy is coming to town. Stern saying something to incite his new market. When adding Dallas, he promised to "unbuckle the Bible Belt." New to Montreal, he called the French "pecker heads." Protests and more press usually ensued. Advertisers canceled time buys. An initial ratings dip was generally followed by an increase, sometimes quickly, sometimes not.

"You don't have to worry about advertisements, you don't have to worry about billboards," Buchwald would tell the stations. "The money I'm charging you that you think is onerous you're saving in terms of promotion and advertising."

"We were signing up a couple a week" at one point, Buchwald says. "Then there were some negative sanctions from the FCC, and that chilled it. And Howard's being of a controversial nature. There were some moments in our history when his performance was not politically correct."

Clear Channel dealt Stern a major blow in February 2004 when it dropped him in six markets: Miami; San Diego; Pittsburgh; Orlando, Fla.; Rochester, N.Y.; and Louisville, Ky.

'THINKING ABOUT HANGING THEM UP'

Stern's on-air proclamations that he was thinking about calling it quits were nothing new. They generally signaled contract renewal negotiations were under way, and each time, he resigned with Infinity. But last year was different.

"He was tired. He felt that his job wasn't as much fun as it used to be because of the FCC's concerns about him," Buchwald says. "And that worked its way down to broadcast companies, who then became concerned with their licenses and troubles they may have had if they bucked the system. He was doing this a long time, has a lovely, wonderful girlfriend and a new lifestyle. And he said, 'Maybe the worst thing in the world would not be to hang them up and have a good time.' He told me he was really serious about this."

Conversations about Stern crossing to satellite radio actually began four years earlier, before he re-upped with Infinity for the last time. Buchwald talked to XM and Sirius in 2000, but a combination of factors prevented either party from making a deal.

Both satellite broadcasters expressed interest in Stern again last year. "I told them, 'Howard's thinking about hanging them up. But if you guys want to entice him with some sort of future that's going to be attractive, then entice him.' I would just say to Howard, 'I'm talking to these people, I have no idea what's going to come out of it.' And he would say to me, 'Listen, you can talk to them all you want. I'm telling you, I think I've had it. I don't want you to waste your time.'"

Buchwald continued to speak often and meet periodically with both companies. He insists there was no auction, no bidding war and that he did not negotiate with the two simultaneously.

Sirius desperately needed an audience magnet like Stern to goose subscriptions; it has less than half the subscribers of market leader XM. Sirius inked Stern to a five-year, $500 million deal, announced on the opening day of the National Assn. of Broadcasters Radio Show in October 2004.

As he says goodbye to his 6.5 million weekly listeners and hello to the 3 million subscribers Sirius expects to have at year's end, Stern has boasted that he will make radio more important than TV.

"His little brain is bursting forth with ideas. He almost can't control his thought pattern," Buchwald says. "He thinks it when he's awake, he thinks it when he's sleeping, he thinks it when he's eating, he thinks it when he's showering and whatever else he does. He's an idea person, a true creator. He's coming up with wonderful schemes."

Buchwald says Stern and Sirius programmers will weed their way through mountains of programming ideas for the two Sirius channels that carry his name. He envisions a "glorious future" for his client and predicts "people will be jarred" by what Stern does on satellite radio, beginning Jan. 9.

Whether it was the FCC or a competing morning show, Stern thrived on identifying and attacking an enemy. How will he adapt to radio life outside the FCC's cross hairs? "Oh, he'll find an enemy," Buchwald says with a laugh. "There's no question. He'll create the enemy. And the enemy will be real and dangerous, and he'll have to battle it, whatever it is, whoever it is."

In other words, the conflict, the tension, the controversy that has always been a vital ingredient in Stern's radio formula is not going away.

"Oh, don't think he's at a loss for a new attack," Buchwald says with a laugh.

THE THRILLS AND CHILLS OF PUTTING HOWARD ON YOUR AIR

BY KEN TUCKER

ANDY BLOOM KNOWS AS WELL AS ANYONE about the early days of Howard Stern's empire. He was OM at Infinity WYSP Philadelphia when Stern debuted there in 1986 and five years later held a similar position at Greater Media KLSX Los Angeles when Stern took his show to the West Coast. The L.A. deal was an important one for Stern, because KLSX was the first non-Infinity station to carry him.

Being involved with the show in Philly prepared Bloom for the City of Angels. "Putting him on in Los Angeles was a lot of fun," he says. In Philadelphia, "no one knew what was going to happen, it had never been done before, but they told us why it wasn't going to work."

"It wasn't going to work because [it] was New York humor," Bloom recalls being told. "People in Philadelphia didn't like New Yorkers, and it was a different kind of humor, and radio had to be local." In 1991, when Stern was put on in Los Angeles Bloom heard similar objections on the West Coast.

While in L.A., Bloom consulted other stations that picked up the show, and the strong results were the same. "In most of the rollouts, that was what happened," he says of the initial resistance and resulting success. "It was exactly the same. It wasn't until the latter half of the '90s that people caught on that it was going to play out a certain way, and it was very predictable when things rolled out."

At the time, syndication—other than weekend countdown shows and specialty programs like "The King Biscuit Flower Hour"—was largely limited to nights and overnights. "There were no successful syndicated shows in daylight hours," Bloom says. "Larry King was in overnights, and Bruce Williams was in nights," and that was about it.

When Stern came into a market, everything changed. "It was literally like dropping a nuclear bomb on the radio landscape of a market," he says. "Nothing was the same from that day forward. The standards by which everything was measured changed."

Of course, that is not to say the transition was always easy. "For six to eight weeks, my full-time job was crisis management," Bloom says, "and in Los Angeles it was even worse."

Stern quickly made his presence known in L.A., and the results brought something Bloom had not previously known as a programmer: fear. "Shortly after Howard went on the air in Los Angeles, Magic Johnson revealed that he had HIV, and Howard's comments were something to the effect that 'he deserved it,'" Bloom recalls.

"Out of all the things that I experienced with Howard—and I experienced a lot after launching him in 1986 in Philadelphia—I had never experienced what we were experiencing in Los Angeles," Bloom says.

Stern's comments put KLSX firmly in the middle of a firestorm. Bloom was accustomed to negative calls, but this was far different.

"I did something that I had never done before," he remembers. "I called Howard and said, 'I think you're going too far. I think you need to stop. You're not going to believe the calls we're getting.'"

When Stern asked what the callers were saying, Bloom says, "I stammered a little bit. Howard writes about this in [his book "Private Parts"]. He writes that I couldn't tell him what they were saying. It wasn't that I couldn't, it's that I didn't want to.

"What I didn't tell him was that death threats were involved," Bloom says. "There were people saying, 'We'll bomb the radio station,' but there were also people that were saying, 'We'll find him, and we'll kill him.' I hadn't had threats like that ever before in my career.

"These weren't people who were saying this because they were mad," Bloom says. "These were people that I wasn't used to . . . calling [the station]. I believe I was talking to gang members. I was scared."

While Stern did not relent—he even talked about his conversation with Bloom on the air—he eventually moved on to something else, and the furor died down.

A few years later, during the L.A. riots, Stern gave Bloom cause to get nervous again by playing a parody song about the unrest. Bloom was also overseeing Greater Media classic rock sister WCSX Detroit at the time and was not in Los Angeles during the riots, but knows what happened.

Station manager Jim Freedman called Stern asking that he stop playing the song. "You gotta stop it. You can't do this. There are riots going on," Bloom says Freedman told Stern.

Since the show aired live from 3 a.m. to 6 a.m. and was rebroadcast from 6 a.m. to 10 a.m., the decision was made to edit Stern continued. "We're going to be writing, and Jackie [Martling] likes Jack Daniel's in his room and Fred [Norris] likes Heineken beer and I like this. Can you make sure you have those in my room?" Bloom recounts. "He just kept pushing it along and making it progressively more ridiculous. He said he needed a stair stepper in his room, and finally he said he needed to have Kleenex on every table top.

"No matter what he asked for, I didn't react," Bloom says. "I just said, 'Mhmm, OK, got it, sure, sure, sure.'"

Despite his willingness to be accommodating, Bloom was starting to wonder what was going on. "At some point, I remember just looking at the phone and thinking, 'What is he doing?' Finally, he just cracked up and, of course, I was being recorded and he used it on the air.

"But I learned if he's asking for it, don't question it, just get it done," Bloom says. It is probably a learning experience that serves him well. He is currently communications director for Congressman Mike Turner, R-Ohio.

the song out of the recorded portion of the show. "I don't think Howard knows this to this day, but the song parody played only in overnight," Bloom says.

Dealing with the morning man on a regular basis meant that Bloom learned how particular Stern could be. "When he wants something done for the show, he wants it done and he expects it done."

When Stern was getting ready to come to Los Angeles for one of his famous victory parties, he contacted Bloom. "We would have periodic conversations about what he wanted to do or what he was thinking, and I would just say, 'OK,' and go and get it done," he says.

One day Stern called with an exceptionally long list. "I'm thinking about some things that I'm gonna need," Bloom remembers Stern saying, "and he starts going through a list. 'I want kung fu movies. Can we make sure there's kung fu movies in my room?'"

EVEN EARLIER DAYS

Frank Holler has the distinction of being the PD at WWWW (W4) Detroit when the station flipped from rock to country. His most famous charge was Stern, who was hired before Holler made the scene. To this day, Holler is not sure if Stern remembers him.

"When I saw Howard's movie, 'Private Parts,' I noticed that the only program director Howard didn't take a shot at was me," he says. "I'd like to think it's because our relationship was far more positive than what he experienced with others. Of course, it's also possible that I made no impression on him at all."

Imagine airchecking Howard Stern. Holler did just that. "A few days a week, Howard and I would sit down and go over tapes of his [as well as] his competition's work," Holler remembers. "The difference between Howard Stern at W4 and the personality that emerged in New York in the mid-'80s was his reliance on always pushing the envelope. That was essential to being noticed at WNBC.

HOWARD STERN: TRAILBLAZER IN TRANSITION

"Penis and vagina; it all seems so simple now," Holler says. "Not that Howard wasn't outrageous at WWWW," he notes, citing his S&M-flavored Leather Weather Lady and Lesbian Dial-a-Date. "The difference was that he exhibited other facets of his personality as well."

"I still have a tape of Howard on a conference call with representatives of both Iraq and Iran," Holler says. "By the end of the conversation, Howard had them so confused that they agreed to end the war."

Holler took over at the Roy Disney-owned station in early 1980, moving from WKLS (96 Rock) Atlanta. W4 was one of four adult rock stations in the market, and something had to be done. "In an effort to carve a profitable niche, we developed the original 'classic rock' format," Holler says. "Relying on a catalog of 1960s and '70s rock, spiced with then-contemporary acts like the Police, Bruce Springsteen and Bob Seger, the initial response was quite favorable."

"I knew we had hit on a winning formula: Howard Stern mornings, classic rock all day," Holler says. "Unfortunately, it was too little, too late. Within weeks of the format adjustment to classic rock, [VP of radio] Bruce Johnson pulled the plug and flipped to country. Howard and the rest of the airstaff were initially retained to save money, while bowing to any possible union pressure."

Stern eventually moved to WDCB (DC 101) Washington, D.C., and Holler was across town at WRQX (Q107).

KINGSTON ON HOWARD

Interestingly, veteran programmer Steve Kingston says he had the opportunity to hire Stern after he was fired at DC 101. At the time, Kingston was PD at top 40 WPGC, which was also in D.C. "I thought I would take a shot at hiring him for mornings at 'PGC, since [the team of] Elliott & Woodside had just crossed the street for ABC's Mix 107-3, then Q107," Kingston recalls. "There was one major stumbling block. Besides the format incompatibility, the station was owned by First Media and the Marriott family, devout Mormons [who] 'most likely' would not support such a decision."

Still, Kingston says he and Stern talked about it. "Howard and I spent a couple of hours brainstorming the 'what ifs.' His decision not to consider a longer stay in Washington obviously was the right one. This story earned me a page in Howard's book."

Kingston did get his chance to work with Stern, but it took a few years. Stern had since become a fixture at Infinity WXRK, and Kingston was programming then-Chancellor-owned top 40 WFITZ (Z100). "After almost a decade of working with a tremendous staff and helping build the dynasty that is Z100, I would leave to join Howard in 1996 for one reason only... to work with the King of All Media."

"The defining moment in my indoctrination into the Stern camp came after my first week of employment at WXRK," Kingston says. "The station's move to its current location at 40 West 57th St. in midtown [Manhattan] turned out to be a branding exercise as well. As the centerpiece of christening the move and the new building, a decision was made to name it either the Howard Stern Building, or, if he rejected it, the Duane Reade Building, after the drug store located on the first floor."

"As the new guy, it was decided that I was to deliver the request in person," Kingston remembers. "He was not only flattered by the request, but designed a plaque that is permanently attached to the entrance of his studio. He also proclaimed it the perfect way to brand a station as both the home of Howard and as a rock music station. He was right."

POST-HOWARD

STERN'S LEGACY ON THE LINE

Other than Guglielmo Marconi and Alan Freed, there may not be a person who made more of an impact in the history of the radio medium than Howard Stern.

I have been fortunate enough to have listened to him in New York since his WNBC days. I find myself with myriad thoughts regarding his impending jump to Sirius Satellite Radio, from a fan perspective, a shareholder perspective and a marketing executive perspective.

My first thought is of hypocrisy on Stern's part—actually, greed. If he so desperately wants satellite radio to succeed and kill the terrestrial format, why would he practically bankrupt a company to sign there and create a bidding war between it and XM Satellite Radio? If he truly believed in the medium, he could have signed a performance-based deal with both companies to broadcast his show and get paid as new people signed on, maybe a dollar or two per subscriber. Stern not only would have put the medium on the map, he would have put his money where his mouth is. He would have been a true pioneer and not somebody flying with a multimillion-dollar net. He could have cashed out bigger after he established the medium, instead of paralyzing it financially beforehand. He and XM held Sirius over a barrel: XM by driving up the price, knowing that Sirius had to get him, and Stern by allowing that to happen.

The other question is the show itself. How will Stern do without an authority figure to pick on and complain about? He will not be able to bust on management anymore or how cheap they are, nor can he complain about content restrictions. Everybody is sick of his rap about the Federal Communications Commission, so he cannot go off on that either. Also, will he curse and be more graphic without limits? Will people who invest in the plug-and-play units actually be allowed to listen to the show at their desks if he spews obscenities?

There is nobody better at walking the line and creating theater of the mind than Stern, but how will he adjust when there is neither a line nor conflict? It will be interesting to watch this unfold.

He is in a true Catch-22. If he is not graphic and obscene, people will wonder what he was complaining about all these years. If he is too over the top, he may turn people off.

Since Mel Karmazin is involved (as CEO of Sirius), will he be running 24 spots in a row like he did on terrestrial radio, since Stern breaks when he wants? How will Sirius handle that? More important, how will Sirius put an advertiser next to content that may be even more questionable than now?

My company has always been a backer of and believer in Stern, whether it was using him to launch Snapple or promoting mainstream clients like the Food Network. He is the greatest salesman in the history of radio, but through the years he let down his guard by doing live reads for anything. Stern used to personally meet each client before running a live spot for them, and his on-air delivery showed it; sometimes the spots would run for minutes. Now they are canned and have limited impact when buried in the pod.

I hope when he gets to Sirius he will start meeting with clients and putting his heart into the reads again. He should also limit them. You would have to wonder if he can, since Sirius invested so much in him that it will need to squeeze him for every ounce of revenue.

Speaking of penny pinching, the fact that Infinity in New York cut back the commission structures for Stern's last months for the local sellers is incomprehensible. Its rationale is, Why should the salespeople cash in on the windfall of his last days? This is probably as morally corrupt as anything in the history of sales. Think about it. You have salespeople that have sold Stern for years, despite the objections and hit lists that some clients have.

COMMENTARY BY RICH RUSSO

For 20 years they have never given the sellers anything else to sell after him because of their myopic and horrendous post-Stern programming. And let's not forget the hole these sellers are in next year without him. Yet for the last three months, Infinity has cut off these people. It is bad karma, and it will come back around.

Stern's legacy is on the line here. Is he Joe Namath, putting the upstart AFL on the map and changing football forever? Or will he be Herschel Walker with the USFL—a lot of hype, but in the end, a failed experiment?

THE CHARTS

THIS WEEK IN DATA. For complete charts, there's always more at www.BillboardRadioMonitor.com

LEGEND TO CHARTS

Charts are ranked by detections except for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country charts which are based on audience impressions, computed by cross-referencing exact times of airplay with Arbitron listener data.

● Songs showing an increase in detections (audience for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country) over the previous week, regardless of chart movement. A song will also receive a bullet if its percentage loss in detections (audience for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country) does not exceed the percentage of monitored station downtime for the format. Exempting the Country chart, a song that has been on the chart for more than 20 weeks will generally not receive a bullet, even if it registers an increase in detections (audience for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country). Country titles which decline in audience but increase in detections will also receive a bullet if the total audience erosion for the week does not exceed 3%.

AUDIENCE TOTALS on the charts are derived, in part, using certain Arbitron Inc. copyrighted. Persons 12+ audience estimates, under license.

◎ AIRPOWER: awarded to songs appearing in the top 20 on both the Airplay and Audience charts for the first time with increases in both detections and audience. Airpower awards do not appear on the Latin and Christian, gospel charts.

↑ GREATEST GAINER: awarded to the song with the largest increase in detections (audience for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country).

+ MOST AIRPLAY ADDS: awarded to the song registering six or more detections at the most stations for the first time this week.

TIES: A song with the best detection differential (audience differential for Jazz, Latin, Christian, Gospel and Country) over the previous week is ranked first if tied with another song on the chart. If the songs are still tied at this point, the title that is being played on the most stations at that format will be ranked first.

RECURRENT RULE: Songs below the top 20 (top 15 for Adult Top 40, AC, adult R&B, Heritage Rock, Dance, Christian and Gospel) become recurrences and are removed from the chart after 20 weeks. In addition, songs that have been on the chart for more than 52 weeks and rank below No. 10 will become recurrences and will be removed from the chart. Descending country titles move to recurrent after 20 weeks if they rank below No. 15 in either audience or detections.

◆ Nielsen BDS certification for airplay of 100,000 detections on all monitored stations, including satellite and national networks, across the U.S. and Canada. Numerical following symbol indicates multiple level of 100,000 detections.

★ Indicates title earned Hit-Predictor status in research data provided by Promosquad.

Playlists are listed in order of TSA weekly come, beginning with the highest-cumming station. Comes are updated twice yearly following the release of the spring and fall Arbitron surveys.

A+ AIRPLAY ADDS denotes songs with 6 or more detections at station for first time this week.

IMPACT! Songs at Airpower level and below with a gain in detections or with a percentage loss in detections equal to or better than the monitored control in the format.

★ INITIAL IMPACT: Indicates song's first appearance on the Impact! page.

THE SPIN

NEW CHART YEAR, NEW CHART RULES

As we start the 2006 chart year, we have tweaked the recurrent rules for most of our charts and have adjusted the method in which we break ties.

Effective this issue, songs that fall below the top 20 (top 15 for Adult Top 40, Adult Contemporary, Adult R&B, Heritage Rock, Dance, Christian and Gospel) become recurrences and are removed from the chart after 20 weeks. Exceptions will be made for any titles past 20 weeks that have shown recent and continued upward chart movement. In addition, songs that have been on the chart for more than 52 weeks and rank below No. 10 will become recurrences and will be removed from the chart. Country chart rules are unaffected.

In a change to how ties are determined on the chart, the victor will now be determined by best spin differential from the prior chart week. If the songs are still tied at this point, the title that is being played on the most stations at that format will be ranked first.

BENTLEY DRIVES TO TOP OF CHART

Fresh off a Horizon Award win (for career development) at the annual Country Music Assn. Awards, Dierks Bentley gets his second Billboard Radio Monitor No. 1 with "Come a Little Closer" (Capitol). Bentley's debut single, "What Was I Thinkin,'" became his first chart-topper in September 2003. Since then, Bentley has had two other top five songs and another that peaked inside the top 20.

BON JOVI MAKES PAIR OF RARE CHART ACHIEVEMENTS

Bon Jovi earns its first top 10 at Adult Top 40 as "I Have a Nice Day" (IDJMG) jumps 12-8. With most of the band's hits predating the 1996 launch of the Adult Top 40 chart, Bon Jovi's highest-charting single at the format was "It's My Life," which topped out at No. 11 in October 2000.

Also noteworthy is a Country chart debut by Bon Jovi at No. 48 with "Who Says You Can't Go Home." The track is a duet with Sugarland's Jennifer Nettles, which they performed Nov. 15 on CBS' telecast of the Country Music Assn. Awards. This is Jon Bon Jovi's second appearance on the Country chart, having previously collaborated with Chris LeDoux on "Bang a Drum," which peaked at No. 68 in October 1998, on what was then a 75-position list.

Santana, Stapp Hit Heritage Marks

Santana's collaboration with Aerosmith's Steven Tyler, "Just Feel Better" (RMG), lands a No. 15 debut at Heritage Rock. It has been nearly six years since Santana last reached this portion of the chart with "Put Your Lights On." That track featured Everlast and peaked at No. 5 in January 2000.

Meanwhile, Scott Stapp scores his first solo top 10 as "The Great Divide" (Wind-up) moves 11-9. Stapp's former band Creed had 11 top 10s to its credit and is tied with Aerosmith and 3 Doors Down for most top 10s at the format. Aerosmith holds the record for most No. 1s with five.

HOLIDAY CHART GREETINGS

As a sure sign that the holiday season is here, Billboard Radio Monitor launches the 2005 edition of the Holiday chart, which will run in the place of the Adult Contemporary recurrent chart through the end of the year. Based on airplay from the AC panel, this chart will rank all holiday titles regardless of year of release. Holiday songs released for the first time this year will be eligible to appear on any of our current chart rankings.

Last year's Christmas week chart champion, Burl Ives' "A Holly Jolly Christmas," starts this season right where it left off. It is the fourth week that the seasonal chestnut has topped the Holiday chart since its launch in 2001.

Huge Move For Euge Groove; Blige Builds Adult R&B Lead

Steven Eugene Grove, better-known as Euge Groove, moves to the top of the Contemporary Jazz chart with "Get 'Em Goin'." The song, which displaces Brian Culbertson's "Hookin' Up," is the second song to top the chart since the list premiered three weeks ago.

Elsewhere, Mary J. Blige extends her lead as the artist with the most charted singles at Adult R&B as the No. 27 debut of "Be Without You" (Interscope) marks her 30th appearance at the format. The track is also her best bow since "I'm Goin' Down" opened at No. 24 in the Jan. 20, 1995, issue. Next in line behind Blige are Gerald Levert and R. Kelly, who are tied with 28 charted tracks.

Songs are blind tested online by PromoSquad using multiple listens and a nationwide sample of carefully profiled music consumers. Songs are rated on a 1-5 scale; final results are based on weighted positives. Songs with a score of 65 or more are judged to have Hit Potential, although that benchmark number can fluctuate per format based on the strength of available music. For a complete and updated list of current songs with Hit Potential, commentary, polls and more, please visit www.hitpredictor.com. © 2005. india.arie is back with her new single

“i am not my hair”

Critically acclaimed by the press
India has sold over 6 million albums worldwide!

The new India.Arie is a SMASH!!! It is an uplifting and motivating song for all women. The lyrics are deep and the track gets you right away.

Eileen Collier
PD KJMS/Memphis

I love this song... it's so different and the words are so true. It's wonderful to play a song with a message.

Tiffany Green
Asst. PD/MD WGCI/Chicago

'I Am Not My Hair' is an empowering song
