EDITORIAL Sight Has Sound Promotion

As the traditional avenues of promotion for recording artists have narrowed over the course of the past decade, with radio playlists becoming increasingly tighter and label sales reps fighting for every inch of in-store merchandising space, the industry must now look for other means of exposure for both new and established acts.

Certainly the marriage between video and music holds a great deal of promise in giving birth to a feasible promotional tool for records, although the pairing has yet to be fully consummated. Both manufacturers and retailers have questioned the effectiveness of promotional videocassettes in generating either substantial interest or sales at this time. It is generally acknowledged, however, that the medium has yet to be fully understood and exploited.

Now, with the advent of the '80s, marketing plans for the videodisc will be expanded on a national level and the recent premiere of the first video-disc jukebox at the AMOA Exposition in Chicago underscores the growing importance of the fusion between the two mediums. Surely, the record industry stands to benefit from such a new means of exposure.

Atlantic Records Trims Its Staff

by Aaron Fuchs

NEW YORK — Atlantic Records became the latest major label to trim its staff when it reportedly cut approximately fifteen people from various departments last week. At the same time, it was learned that, in unrelated developments, three highly placed employees had left the firm.

Among those whose firings were confirmed were Ellin Guskind, product manager; Issy Sanchez, national disco promotion director/A&R coordinator; Phillip Van Pool, field display merchandiser; Roy Rosenberg, northeast regional promotion director; and Helene Barte, assistant east coast director of publicity.

In unrelated moves, Hank Caldwell, who had been director of merchandising for Cotillion, left the label to replace Oscar Fields as vice president of black music marketing for WEA. Jim Lewis, assistant to Dave Glew, senior vice president and general manager of Atlantic, has left for a highly placed position with Polygram. He departs for Europe this Monday for a two-month training period. Finally, Shelly Roth, assistant to Mark Schulman, the label's director of advertising, has left Atlantic for a position outside the music business.

Sources close to the company speculated that the decision for the firings had emanated from Warner Communications Inc., Atlantic's parent corporation. It was reported late last week that WEA executives were in conference to mandate similar cuts at Warners and Elektra, effective Monday, although at press time this could not be confirmed.

Infinity Ends 19 Month Tenure

LOS ANGELES — At press time it was learned that an announcement is expected Nov. 19 that Infinity Records will cease operations as an autonomous label and be absorbed by its parent company, MCA.

Prominent artists on the 19-month-old label also expected to be absorbed by MCA Records.

WEA To Post Returns Policy

NEW YORK — Cash Box has learned that WEA Corp. is in the process of mailing letters to its accounts about its new policy on returns. According to well-placed sources in the field, the program will include the institution of return ceilings. No further details were available at presstime.

A 'SPECIAL' TEAM — Singer and former member of The Four Seasons Frankie Valli (l) teamed up with Commodore Lionel Richie and the rest of the Motown recording group for a rendition of "Grease" on a recent taping of NBC/TV's "The Midnight Special."

STYX ROCK THE COLISEUM — A&M recording group Styx recently rocked a full house of fans at the Nassau Coliseum on Long Island, N.Y. Pictured backstage after the show are (l-r): John Panozzo and James Young, Styx; Rick Stone, A&M Records New York promotion director; Michael Leon, A&M Records vice president of east coast operations; Tommy Shaw and Dennis De Young, Styx; Gil Friesen, A&M Records president; and Chuck Panozzo, Styx.

CRI To Use Indie Distributors For Latin Product In U.S.

by Leo Sacks

NEW YORK — CBS Records International is in the process of terminating its distribution arrangement with Caytronics, a subsidiary of Cayre Industries, which has been handling distribution of CBS Latin product in the U.S. CRI will establish its own network of Spanish-speaking distributors in the U.S. when Discos CBS International ships its first release next month.

According to Ron Chaimowitz, vice president and general manager of Discos CBS, Caytronics will be allowed to sell off its existing inventory of CBS Latin product and will assume responsibility for all goods that are returned. Chaimowitz said the relationship between the two companies, in effect, ended July 1 of this year, when Caytronics was denied the right to release any new CBS Latin product.

At presstime, Joe Cayre, president of Cayre Industries, could not be reached for comment.

Up To 30 Distributors

According to Chaimowitz, CBS Records will manufacture product for Discos CBS at its domestic record plants and will drop-ship the LPs to the various Discos distributors in the U.S. and Puerto Rico. He said the total number of distributors could range from 25-30, and that it was likely the company would also use major rack jobbers who already have Spanish-speaking accounts, such as Pickwick, Handleman, and Lieberman.

Accounts Praise Polygram Distribution For Delaying Return Ceiling Program To March

by Charles Paikert

NEW YORK — Major retail and rack accounts across the country are generally applauding Polygram Distribution's recent decision to push back implementation of its 18-22% return ceiling program to March 1, 1970, with the exception of the RSO label (Cash Box, Nov. 17).

Rack jobber executives displayed the most enthusiastic reaction to the Polygram announcement, saying that it would give them time to clean up their pipeline and adjust to the new system.

Harold Okinow, president of Lieberman Enterprises, commented, "I think it's a good idea. It takes care of a lot of problems. Generally, in the racks, there are larger than normal returns in January and February, and once you get that cleaned out, you can live with certain restrictions."

John Kaplan, executive vice president of purchasing for Handleman, said that he had flown to New York to urge Polygram executives to push back the beginning of the return ceiling program. "For us to play it safe," he said, "we would have had to pull merchandise in November and December, at the peak of the buying season, and that doesn't make any sense."

Along with other rack executives surveyed by Cash Box, Jay Jacobs, president of Knox Record rack, said he hoped that CBS and RCA, which have also announced implementation of return ceiling programs, would follow Polygram's lead and push back their starting dates.

"I wonder how much business might be lost," Jacobs mused. "Manufacturers need tonnage from racks, and the rack jobber is not going to be crazy about 20% returns, no matter when it's done."

Jacobs went on to applaud Polygram's move, though, commenting, "I think they're very bright. Basically, they're giving us an extra three months to clean up."

House Hearing Tackles Cable And Copyright Issues

by Joanne Ostrow

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Two legislative dilemmas — performance rights in sound recordings and cable TV's use of copyrighted works — met head-to-head in hearings before the House Subcommittee on Courts, Civil Liberties and the Administration of Justice, chaired by Rep. Robert Kastenmeir. A second day of hearings is scheduled for Nov. 26.

Lawmakers are confronting specific copyright questions in proposals to change the Communications Act and FCC regulations regarding cable TV; namely, what effect will removal of cable's syndicated exclusivity rules and distant signal carriage restrictions have on its compulsory license? Is it already time to tinker with the recently overhauled copyright law? And if so, how?

At odds on these questions were the subcommittee's two key witnesses: Henry Geller, head of the National Telecommunications Information Administration, and Barbara Ringer, Register of Copyrights.

Geller: Less Gov't.

The NTIA believes the answer to defining cable's status lies in "contracts and bargaining among all parties with full copyright liability of all users, rather than a government administered pricing system for commercial cable in major urban areas." Get the government out of the business of refereeing, Geller said, and let the marketplace forces rule. The Copyright Royalty Tribunal, Geller believes, is one more layer of unnecessary bureaucracy to be trimmed.

Still, Geller favors "grandfathering" the existing cable industry, maintaining the

However, many retail executives said that the Polygram move would not make much of a practical difference to them. "It will have no effect on us," said Joe Bressi, vice president of marketing for the Stark/Camelot chain. "We've already geared our buying to the new policy, and

Video Music Show On Cable TV May Be Simulcast

by Leo Sacks

NEW YORK — Moogtown Productions, a Manhattan-based record and video production company, is considering the possibility of simulcasting its "Manhattan Alley" cable television program over WPIX-FM here next month, according to Moogy Klingman, president of the company. In addition, Klingman said that he was negotiating with the Columbia/U.A. and Cablevision systems to syndicate the half-hour program, which features videotaped performances and interviews with new and established recording artists, to Long Island, upstate New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut. He estimated that the syndication would bring the program into the homes of 500,000 people on the East Coast.

"Manhattan Alley," which premiered on cable in the New York area in June and is currently shown twice a week on both Manhattan Cable and Teleprompter, recently broadcast live footage of performances by the Police, Joe Jackson, M. Spyro Gyra, Graham Parker and the Rumour, Fashion (newly signed to A&M/I.R.S.), and Merle Miller and Krystal Kidd, who are signed to Moogtown. The majority of the concert footage seen on the show is provided by record companies, although Moogtown tapes the artist inter-

New Artists Promoted In Palladium Concerts

NEW YORK — Ron Delsener Productions will present the first in a series of concerts tentatively titled the Now Wave at the Palladium Theatre on Dec. 13. The show, featuring CBS artists 20/20, the Sinceros, The Beat, and Bruce Woolie, will be the prototype for shows that will feature four or five new rock bands who have a major label affiliation, with tickets priced at $5.00.

According to Delsener Productions, the five-dollar ticket price has been made possible by an agreement by stagehands to keep crews to a minimum, by groups to keep their sets short, and by managers to limit dressing room amenities.

While CBS and Ron Delsener Productions will each use separate advertising layouts for the upcoming concert, both will employ a unifying theme and logo. Extensive poster and print advertising, as well as over fifty 60-second radio spots on local stations, will be used to publicize the event. WNEW-FM will assist with the show's promotion, and the station's program director, Scott Muni, will serve as master of ceremonies.

Stockham Predicts Digital Will Dominate Pop Recording

by Ken Terry

NEW YORK — Dr. Thomas Stockham, founder and president of Soundstream, Inc., which has mastered approximately 50 digital recordings, believes that it is only a matter of time before the digital process dominates the pop recording field.

At this point, noted Dr. Stockham, while such artists as Fleetwood Mac, Giorgio Moroder and Ry Cooder have all used digital in at least part of the recording process, most of the commercially available digital albums feature classical music or jazz. But, as the public and recording artists begin to develop a better perception of digital, Dr. Stockham asserted, more and more recordings will be made this way.

Dr. Stockham argued that, as digital LPs become more common, they will have a sales edge over analog albums, which will be regarded as inferior in sound quality. Secondly, he said, the artists themselves are becoming more interested in digital recording. Even if they only use it in the final mixdown to the two-track master, he stated, there is a cleaner reproduction of the original analog tracks. And if a group like a Fleetwood Mac expects to sell millions of units per album, they would also be better off using a digital mix, since the master tape can always be replaced after it is worn out by repeated copyings. Even a smaller act can benefit from the fact that digital masters can be reproduced without any loss of sound quality, since analog tapes tend to dry out and crack in the vaults.

The true revolution in sound reproduction, Dr. Stockham pointed out, will be the advent of the home digital disc player. This will probably be on the market by the end of the '80s, said Dr. Stockham. Although a practical digital system has already been devised by Philips, he added, the company won't bring it out until there are international standards for digital home playback equipment.

Digital Pioneer

Although Dr. Stockham is one of the pioneers in the digital field, he was not the first to make commercial digital recordings. Back in 1949, he noted, Bell Labs discovered how to convert sounds into codes, which could be converted into electrical pulses. This system, developed for application to radio broadcasting, was known as pulse code modulation (PCM). Later on, in the early '70s, a Japanese label called Denon released the first commercial digital recordings, which became available in the U.S. around 1974.

Dr. Stockham's own involvement with digital recording dates back to 1962. At that time, he and another MIT professor, Dr. Amar Bose, founder of the Bose Corp., were doing acoustic research together. Using a digital computer, they tried to create a mathematical model of how sound waves

ITT's Valente Is New RCA Head

NEW YORK — Maurice R. Valente has been elected president, chief operating officer, and director of the RCA Corporation.

Valente will assume those offices on Jan. 1. Until then, he will remain in his present position as vice president of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Edgar H. Griffiths, who has been president of RCA since September, 1976, has been named RCA's chairman of the board, also effective Jan. 1, and will continue in his post as chief executive officer of the giant electronics and entertainment conglomerate.

In his new post, Valente will have day-to-day responsibility for all of RCA's major operating units, with the exception of the Hertz Corporation and NBC, which will continue to report directly to Griffiths.

It has indeed been a "Long Run" for the Eagles since the group first swooped onto the music scene in 1972 with its self-titled debut album and single, "Take It Easy." Since that period, the band has survived critical disdain, numerous personnel changes and total shifts in musical direction to become one of the most successful groups in the quarter century of rock 'n' roll history.

Texan Don Henley and Detroit native Glenn Frey, the band's co-founders and songwriting team, are the only original members to have survived the group's seven-year history. After two albums ("Eagles" and "Desperado") banjo player/guitarist Bernie Leadon left the band in 1975 during the making of "On The Border." The album marked a shift to a harder sound for the group, and it enlisted the help of a hard rocking guitarist from Gainesville, Fla. by the name of Don Felder. Two albums followed, "One Of These Nights," "Eagles: Their Greatest Hits 1971-1975."

In late 1975, the Eagles who had heard ex-James Gang leader Joe Walsh's ground breaking 1973 solo album, "The Smoker You Drink, The Player You Get", signed the slide guitarist as a permanent member. Walsh had jammed with the group on several occasions in concert, and the Eagles felt he would give a harder edge to the group's stage show. Walsh has fit in well with the group's style, and has since become the group's most flamboyant member.

After 1976's milestone "Hotel California" album (which sold almost 11 million units) and the subsequent tour, bass player Randy Meisner left the fold. He was replaced by ex-Poco bass player and high harmony ace Timothy B. Schmit. Schmit makes his debut with the band on "The Long Run."

The new LP contains nine songs that vary in style and statement from the commercial "Heartache Tonight" (It has already reached #1 on the Cash Box Top 100 singles chart), to the cynical, discofied "Disco Strangler" to the guitar heavy "Teenage Jail" and ultimately to the title tune, an anthem tale of contemporary survival. The album is an almost certain guarantee that the Eagles will be flying for a long time to come.

NEW FACES TO WATCH

Buggles

"Video Killed the Radio Star" by Island group Buggles has a highly cerebral appeal for its clever story line, which uses the past to suggest a foreboding future when man is at the mercy of technology. At the same time, it is stylized with a kind of Euro-disco-rock groove that is so musically appealing that it has transcended the cultishness of the rock dance club scene and is bulleting directly up the pop charts.

Considering the fact that "Video" is a paean to technology, it is not too surprising to learn that Buggles is the elaborately crafted studio concoction of just two men, Britishers Trevor Horn and Geoff Downes. Before forming Buggles, both Horn and Downes had experienced the live as well as the studio side of rock. By the time Horn had moved to London from Leicester several years ago, his experience had already included live work with local bands, as well as the building and selling of a part of London-based Drum Beat studios.

Down's background was similarly eclectic, alternating at various times between roadwork, music college and studio work. He met Horn three years ago at a rehearsal session for a rock band, and the two became friends.

Initially, the duo concentrated on outside production, with minimal success. According to Downes, "we formed Buggles because we felt that we weren't going to get anybody else a hit record as producers. We produced a disco album that didn't see the light of day. And we wanted to do something a bit out of the ordinary, especially in the face of the disco boom." The duo picked the name Buggles because, according to Horn, "first, it's such an unfashionable name that it won't quickly go in and out of style," and second, "because the name sounds plastic and disposable, which is our perception of the nature of so many of the things that exist in today's culture."

The theme for "Video," which deals with the obsolescence of a radio star on the brink of the television age, was picked, according to Downes, from a sci-fi story by J.G. Ballard called "The Sound Sweep," which is about a boy whose job it is to sweep sound in a future where music is played by machines.

Once completed, the single was brought to the attention of Lionel Conway, head of Island publishing, who in turn brought it to the attention of Chris Blackwell, president of the label, who was duly impressed.

"We found it a bit strange to be with Island, which we thought of as sort of home of the Rastas," explained Horn. "But Island has had its share of odd people like us in the past. Its' come down to what Chris Blackwell has liked, and in England, they've helped us give them their first number one record."

Before the group does the obligatory touring in support of a hit, they plan to put the finishing touches on their album in progress, tentatively titled "Living In the Plastic Age," which, Horn said, "will not be a concept album, but will have a unifying thread."

"It will be an extravagant affair," concludes Downes. "It will be music that will be appreciated not only by the average man on the street, but by the hi-fi buff as well. We like to think of it as 'techno-pop.'"

Motels

The Sunset Strip is an endless string of flashing billboards, pseudo-chic restaurants and boutiques and plasteque finished motels. The neon world plays an integral role in the music of Capitol recording group Motels. The band's penicive, driving sound is somewhat reminiscent of L.A. legend, The Doors, but the songs of Martha Davis (lead singer and chief songwriter for the band) are more concerned with the dramas that unfold in the bars, alley ways and behind the drawn drapes of the glittering urban area.

"I try to let my songs become little films to the point where the music becomes the backdrop to a scene," says Davis. "I focus on letting words take over the job of the music. So, words become sounds."

Although Motels has been a name that has been identified with L.A.'s local new wave scene since the mid-70s and the original Masque Theatre, it wasn't until January of 1979 that the present configuration surfaced on the Madame Wongs, Club 88, Whisky circuit. Martha Davis had been trying to put a band together for two years when lead guitarist Jeff Jourard, formerly of Tom Petty and the Heartbreakers, and Davis put together a makeshift band to play the Whisky in July of 1978.

"It was real frustrating for me," explains Davis. "I wanted a band with good musicians, but I was in no position to pay them. Finally it got down to the wire. The Motels were booked for a gig at The Whisky and I didn't have a band. But Jeff and I put together a rough sketch of the group."

In December of 1978, the band was complete except for a drummer. After interviewing 250 stick men and playing in the rehearsal room with 85, the group found the missing link in drummer John Glascock. The Motels were now totally renovated and comprised of Davis (lead vocalist and guitar), Jourard (lead guitar and vocals), Martin Life Jourard (keyboards and saxophone), Michael Godroe (bass) and Glascock.

The group returned to club circuit that January and shortly thereafter, the record companies became infatuated. "We were planning to record a demo and do showcases later that year," reflects Jeff Jourard. "But, about six weeks after we started gigging, the phone just started ringing all the time. I think we were talking with five record companies in one week. We walked off the stage at Madame Wongs one Friday night, signed the papers with Capitol on Saturday, and Monday night we were in the studio.

Jourard feels that the reason that the band's true sound came across so well on vinyl was because of Capitol producer John Carter's "oblique" production. "He was great for us," offers Jourard. "Everytime we'd go down a wrong alley musically or head into a dead end, all the fluorescent lights in the studio would go on or a lasagna would arrive."

Just back from a three week tour of Europe, the band is currently on the East coast swing of its first national tour. "I likened the European tour to breaking in a new engine," explains Jeff Jourard. "Its brand new but its all tied up, and it leaks and it doesn't rev right. We've taken it out for the first five hundred miles and now at least it idles."

PRODUCER'S PROFILE

Earle Mankey Producing Pure Pop For New Wave People

by Marc Cetner

LOS ANGELES — The burgeoning L.A. rock scene that has spawned such vital new arrivals as The Knack and Motels is also sprouting a crop of producers. The latest young board man to achieve notoriety on the cresting new wave is 32-year-old Earle Mankey. Mankey's recent projects have included producing and engineering duties on the latest albums by such high energy charges as The Pop, 20/20 and The Dickies, and he considers himself to be a man whose time has finally come.

"I was in limbo during the soft rock days, but that rebellious pop of the British invasion of the mid-60s is coming back with the new wave," says Mankey. "Music has gone through its psychological stages just as the people have. It went through a psychedelic stage a rebellious era and an intellectual blossoming. It's come back full circle to the sound I really like."

Although Mankey has been a part of the Los Angeles music circuit since the pre-new wave days of Sparks and The Runaways, his roots can be traced to the band that made Southern California famous — The Beach Boys. After receiving a degree in electrical engineering from UCLA and a stint with classmates Ron and Russell Mael as a guitarist in Half Nelson and Sparks, Mankey joined an electronics firm that was designing a console for The Beach Boys. After the firm folded he continued to design consoles for the group, and hooked on as an engineer at the band's Brother Studios in Santa Monica.

The engineering gig gave Mankey a chance to record and produce many of the obscure pop acts on the buzzing Hollywood scene of the early '70s. He ended up co-producing much of the material of the brainchildren (The Quick and The Runaways) of L.A. rock entrepreneur Kim Fowley. Fowley and Mankey also collaborated on a much overlooked solo single by the young producer, "Mau Mau." The chestnut is still part of the Bomp Records catalog.

"That song is pretty me," offers Mankey. "I like those dumb songs that are blown way out of proportion — very basic but over-produced. As far as my own taste is concerned, I think songs should have about eight words and 70,000 instruments."

While Mankey's own musical tastes run toward the obscure, his production and engineering credits are more than respectable. He was a principal engineer on "MIU" and "15 Big Ones" for the Beach Boys, "Blue Moves" by Elton John and "Boats

Earle Mankey

Against The Current" by Eric Carmen. Mankey has also given a commercial sheen to his production of the Dickies distorted frantic sound and the avant pop of 20/20 and The Pop.

"I hope to take something that has a raw, grainy edge, and keeping that edge turn it into a pop single," explains Mankey. "I've always liked an obscure arty sound, but in producing you can't push art or warp a band too much. You have to keep the group's feel. To me the hardest part of production is spending time with a band and finding out who they are."

Mankey has his own makeshift studio at home, and insists that his recording at home relates directly to his ability in working with a band in the studio, as far as parts blending together, arranging and generally what sounds best. "If I stay away from home recording then I get insecure and begin to feel like I don't know what I'm talking about," explains Mankey. "It's like a continuing education."

Mankey spends much of his time honing down his technical skills, as he likes to keep his background in electrical engineering in check. His newest friend is an Apple 2 computer. "I like to stay ahead of the technological game," says Mankey. "I've been into math and electronics since day one, and pretty much know what's going on internally. When a new gadget comes out, hopefully it's something I've already cooked up ahead of time. Digital recording happened a long time ago. It's just being mass marketed now."

Mankey lists the oblique strategies concept — mapping out the musical direction of a composition — of Brian Eno and Robert Fripp as major influences. He is also an admirer of neo-classical composer Steve Reich and his idea of taking a musical idea to its limits.

House Hearing Deals With Cable And Copyright Issues

present compulsory license, the CRT and the legislated fee schedule for existing cable systems.

Geller hopes to achieve these aims, either through FCC or Congressional action to make consent necessary for cable retransmission of distant broadcast signals, or through amendments to the Copyright Act to make cable fully liable for secondary retransmissions of non-network programs.

Ringer: More Power

Taking the opposite viewpoint, Barbara Ringer urged the Congressman to broaden the authority of the CRT by granting it subpoena power and possibly by removing constraints on the agency's authority to adjust rates. "The test of the Tribunal's effectiveness will come next year," she said, "and we believe it is unfair to make any negative judgements until that testing period has passed and the Tribunal's accomplishments can be evaluated."

Ringer registered her "unqualified support" for the companion bills now in the House and Senate Judiciary subcommittees, H.R. 997 and S. 1552, which would add a performance right to the existing copyright law.

But as to cable's emerging status, she

Herman Brood Goes Back To Holland

LOS ANGELES — Ariola group Herman Brood and Wild Romance returned to their native Holland recently after a 3½ month stay in the U.S. While here, the group made their debut tour and recorded the forthcoming LP, "Go Nutz."

On their way to Amsterdam for a sold-out concert, Brood and Wild Romance visited London where they stopped in at radio stations and met the press.

Songwriters Form Production Company

NEW YORK — Seth Productions, an entertainment company representing songwriters Charles and Barbara Perry and vocalist Le'Tell Charles, has been formed. The firm may be reached at the offices of Zynczak, Cristini and Smith at 65 West 55th St., New York, N.Y. 10019. Phone number is (212) 977-9340.

urged the subcommittee to consider any changes from both a copyright and a communications viewpoint. Rather than new legislation, Ringer supports increased CRI regulation.

By adding to the CRT's power, Congress could solve the problem without tinkering with the Copyright Act she suggested. Give the Tribunal subpoena power, she said, to aid it in the investigations it's supposed to make. Otherwise, the CRT is "groping in the dark . . . under unnecessary constraints."

Contrary to Geller's claims, Ringer says the substitution of retransmission consent for compulsory licensing of cable would result in "massive retransmission denials rather than consents." Retransmission consent should not be adopted in any form, she stated.

Noting the industry's rapid technological changes, Ringer took a wait-and-see approach. "Even if it were possible to reconcile a retransmission consent requirement with the compulsory licensing provisions of the copyright law, we doubt that the need for such a radical change in the legal framework of the cable industry can be shown at the present time," she said.

The emergence of "superstations," which beam programs to cable receivers throughout the country via satellite, and the growth of pay-cable will ultimately necessitate "fundamental revisions in the compulsory licensing provisions of the 1976 Copyright Act," Ringer testified. However, in her opinion, that time has not yet arrived; likewise, she said, any revisions in the rate schedule would be premature now.

Jukebox Troubles

The Copyright Office's continuing problem with jukebox operators' noncompliance with Section 116 requirements was also explained to the subcommittee by

Atlantic To Issue Six

NEW YORK — Atlantic Records will release six albums later this month. They include: "Abba's Greatest Hits Vol. 2;" "The Best of England Dan and John Ford Coley;" the soundtrack to "The Rose," which stars Bette Midler; "Les Plus Grands Succes De Chic" by Chic; "An Evening With Two Grand Pianos" by John Lewis and Hank Jones; and a re-release of Mike Oldfield's "Tubular Bells" (on Virgin Records).

THE WAVE AND THE BEAT — So where do things stand (or sit or dance) vis a vis new wave and disco music? Well, we all know this is a fickle business where image and perception mean more than they should. But that's the way things are, and we thought it might be illuminating to present some recent comments by Joel Webber, an independent promotion man who has specialized in new wave acts; Louis St. Louis, the musical director for both the stage and film versions of "Grease," who is about to embark on his own recording career; and Greg Geller, vice president of contemporary music A&R, east coast, for Columbia Records. Webber offers the following: "It's interesting to see the way radio people have changed their attitudes. Two years ago, it was 'get out of here,' with the implication of 'who are you to bring this crap up to me?' Now, it's 'what have you got for me?'" As it happens, Webber has had a lot for radio people — he's worked records by The Police, Joe Jackson, and Bram Tchaikovsky. Webber brands these acts as "middle of the wave" (a term he credits to Robin Sherwin, MD at WOUR-FM in Utica, N.Y.), and he feels they were crucial to new wave's acceptance because of their "more standard-sounding approach." But Webber also cites the "disco backlash" and the lack of superstar releases early in '79 as crucial factors in allowing new wave to gain airwave entree. Blondie, Webber believes, "proved that a new wave image wasn't a detriment to sales," after they had their hit with "Heart Of Glass." Perhaps most revealing is Webber's opinion that "a lot of MDs don't trust their ears as much when it comes to new wave. They're looking for creditable advice. And Webber is more than willing to offer some. Two new wave bands to watch for in 1980, he predicts, are The Undertones and The Jags. . . . Louis St. Louis' point of view is decidedly more pop-oriented. A sign of the times is his description of his debut album (and first LP project since "Grease") as "dance music with a strong R&B flavor. It's not really disco . . . You know that paranoia nowadays . . ." Does he think disco is dead? "Disco is getting the kinks out, but it will stay. There's always been a distinction between music you listen to and music you dance to. People will just call it something different every two or three years. Right now disco is taking a turn in its development where there is more white influence in the music." . . . From his office in Black Rock, Geller sees the new wave/disco developments as "a natural evolutionary process. Rock tends to assimilate other forms of music, it absorbs constantly, until it reaches a point where it can absorb no more. In the seventies you had groups like Emerson, Lake and Palmer who were considered rock, but if you can't dance to it, in my opinion, it's not rock and roll. Disco was a reaction to that. But disco itself became boring and tedious, and rock bands started to incorporate its better elements . . . New wave is really back to basics, and I prefer to call it rock and roll." And where does Geller see America's musical preference as we enter the '80s? "In the foreseeable future," he answers, "it's rock and roll." . . . And, as this is written, there comes a call from Technics, the high-fi people, who are launching a "Grand National Disco Dance Competition" in 21 major American cities. Looks like the jury's still out . . .

PLEASE PLEASE PLEASE — James Brown not only has himself a brand new disco bag, but he has himself a new lawyer — the irrepressible William Kunstler. The two men held a press conference last week, and one of the charges, reports the Village Voice, was that Polydor Records was "skimped on its royalty payments" to Brown. That accusation drew a tense reply from Dr. Ekke Schnabel, senior vice president of business affairs for Polydor. Any statement that Polydor did not pay Brown full royalties is "absolutely incorrect," said Schnabel. "Our books have always been open to James Brown, and they are open to James Brown. In fact, before his statements, he was asked to audit our books and he has never done so." Moreover, Schnabel said, Polydor is not involved in legal negotiations with Kunstler . . . Two other charges were leveled by Brown and Kunstler, that the three southern radio stations owned by Brown have been discriminated against by national advertisers; and that the entertainer has been unduly harassed by the FBI and the IRS, who claim Brown owes them $3.5 million. Kunstler's explanation for the alleged actions of Madison Ave. and the U.S. government? "They cannot permit a black messiah to arise."

MANAGER PROFILE

Keith Christianson: Thriving Management Firm in Midwest

by Frank Sanello

LOS ANGELES — Since most recording artists are based in either New York or Los Angeles, their managers are normally based in those two cities. However, one successful manager, Keith Christianson, has created a thriving management service out of offices located in the rather unlikely city of Minneapolis.

There is a simple explanation for Christianson's location. His artists, most notably Michael Johnson, Mark Gaddis and Chad Mitchell, also happen to live in the Midwestern city.

Natural Affinity

Christianson seems to have a natural affinity for the chilly Minnesota city, since he was born, raised and educated there. The artists he manages, however, arrived in Minneapolis by a more circuitous route.

Recalls the 40ish, bearded, ex-philosophy major, "Michael Johnson was doing 'Jacques Brel' in Chicago. When that show was over, he drove up to Minneapolis in a beat up VW and has been here ever since." Similarly, Gaddis packed up his bags in New York and moved to Minneapolis "but not at my behest," Christianson adds.

In Los Angeles briefly to promote Johnson's and Gaddis' current albums, Christianson recounts his management company's shoe string beginnings and its present full and successful roster of artists.

"I was paying $50 a month rent for an office above a drug store when I started my own firm in 1969. Before that I was associated with Harry Beacon and Associates from 1964 on."

Mini-Concerts

At Beacon, Christianson promoted what came to be known as "Mini-Concerts."

Avant Honored For Advancing Minorities

LOS ANGELES — The Legal Defense Fund will honor Clarence Avant, president of Tabu Records, at its annual dinner, Nov. 29. Congressman Augustus Hawkins and attorney Paul Ziffren will also be honored at the event. Avant will receive the "Equal Justice and the Arts" award from the Legal Defense Fund, in recognition of his commitment to advancing minorities in the record industry.

Keith Christianson

"Originally, they were actually called 'Cheap Concerts,' but the bookings, which consisted of college tours by unknown bands, became more and more expensive as we signed better known groups for the tours."

Many can recall artists' performance's at college concerts as being somewhat "looser" and more easy-going than those at public venues. A certain freedom seemed

Phonogram/Mercury Out With Six Albums

LOS ANGELES — Phonogram/Mercury Records has six LPs set for mid-November release: "The Gap Band II" will feature the single, "Steppin'." Frank Zappa bows with a two-record set, "Joe's Garage, Acts II & III." "Vital Signs" is the Faith Band's new album while Mylon LeFevre makes his Mercury debut with "Rock and Roll Resurrection." John Mayall's second DJM LP is entitled "No More Interviews." "E.S.P. — Extra Disco Perception" by Watsonian Institute rounds out the slated releases.

Money LP Platinum; Hernandez 45 Is Gold

NEW YORK — Columbia recording artist Eddie Money's self-titled label debut has been certified platinum by the RIAA. And Patrick Hernandez's "Born to be Alive" single for Columbia has been certified gold by the RIAA.

YIPES! AT THE PALLADIUM — Millennium recording artists Yipes! recently appeared at the Palladium in New York to promote their debut record for the label. The group's new single is called "East Side Kids." Shown kneeling (l-r) are: Andy Bartel of the group; Larry Palmacci, director of marketing for RCA Records Associated Labels; Randy Schwoerer, manager of the group; and Mike Hoffman of the band. Shown standing (l-r) are: Peter Strand of the group; Ken Franklin and Beverly Berman of Millennium; Pat McCurdy and Teddy Freese of Yipes!; Don Penner, vice president of promotion for the label; Shelly Petnov-Sherman of Millennium; Susan Wax, national promotion manager/secondary markets for RCA Records; Jack Hopke, field promotion representative for RCA; Bob Beranato, artists relations manager of pop music for RCA; and Mel Ilberman, division vice president of business affairs for RCA.

SHOOT OUT IN CHINATOWN — Trouble has been brewing in L.A.'s Chinatown ever since the Hong Kong Cafe opened its upstairs punk/new wave room across the plaza from Madame Wong's (considered by many to be one of the top places to view new wave acts in the city) last June 5. The latest in a series of competition inspired embroglios has resulted in a case of broken ribs for a member of the Plugz, a band known to be more of a Hong Kong Cafe-oriented act. It seems a rhubarb developed between Plugz drummer Charlie and Wong's employees during a recent Wong's gig. When the air had cleared the venue had sustained a broken window and the percussionist was suffering with cracked ribs. This marks one of the most violent occurrences in a relationship that has been marred by booking boycotts, brouhahas between the two venues in the middle of the plaza and newspaper ad altercations. Perhaps the most humorous exchange between the two clubs was initiated when prior to the Hong Kong Cafe's opening, Wong's took out an ad in a local newspaper touting the establishment as "The first and finest rock club in Chinatown." The Hong Kong countered the next week with an ad that read "The biggest and best in Chinatown." In continuing weeks Wong's retaliated with "Home of the Scoters, 20/20 and The Police." Finally, with the ball in their court, the fun loving Hong Kong owners (Barry Seidel, Kim Tuner and Casablanca A&R director Susie Frank) published a tongue in cheek ad that read "Home of Frank Sinatra, Bob Hope, Lawrence Welk and Ann-Margret."

THE POLITICS OF IT ALL — Detroit's own Bob Seger has joined presidential hopeful Joe Walsh's "Have A Party" ticket as he has announced that he will be running for vice president . . . Walsh has been giving campaign speeches all along the new Eagles tour, and has promised to replace fireside chats with live concerts . . . Another public office seeker, Jello Biafra of punkers The Dead Kennedys, ran a weak fourth in the San Francisco Mayoral election Nov. 5. Biafra did win nearly 7000 votes, accounting for about three percent of the total. He failed to carry one district, but received a lot of support from the City by the Bay's gay community . . . In yet another political item, Clarence Clemmons sax man for Bruce Springsteen's rowdy E Street Band, proclaimed his intent to run for Mayor in Seabright, New Jersey's 1984 election. The '84 campaign will be in full swing after he makes a study of Seabright's needs, and figures out how he can run the town while on tour with The Boss.

VISITORS TO CASH BOX — The lovely Carlene Carter, who recently released her "Two Sides To Every Woman" LP on Warner Bros. stopped by Cash Box last week and explained that her long distance love for husband Nick Lowe, has grown into an enormous phone bill. Lowe is currently in Holland and doing the final mix on Elvis Costello's new LP. "The last phone call cost about $300," she complained. The punkabilly artist went on to say that she and Nick have written several songs together (a few over the phone), and that they are quickly becoming the "Boudleau and Bryant of the new wave." . . . MCA/Songbird recording artist Dan Peek made a Cash Box appearance recently, and said he was gearing up for a tour with his new four piece band. The Christian-oriented songwriter and former leader of America said he would still be performing old classics like "Don't Cross The River," "I Need You" and "Lonely People" as well as his new more spiritually-oriented songs in concert. As far as an America reunion is concerned, Peek stated "All Things Are Possible" which happens to be the name of his first MCA LP . . . A&M recording artist Joe Jackson paid a visit to Cash Box not long ago, and the Portsmouth, England born crooner started talking about the agonies of touring. "After several weeks on the road gets to be a bit of a strain," said a somewhat fatigued Jackson. "My ultimate fantasy is to be able to finish the set and beam home like in Star Trek." After a nine week tour, Jackson is now home in his beloved London, probably soaking up the Guinness in a local pub.

BLACKBOARD JUNGLE — During a recent segment of the syndicated radio program interview Don Henley and Glenn Frey made a few scathing comments about high school which is the impetus behind "Teenage Jail" one of the more arresting songs on the new "Long Run" LP. "It's like elbow on the desk head on your fist," said Frey. "I hated it in high school. It was dead time for me." Henley agreed, "It is one aspect of American life we have let slip into the toilet. Rock 'n' Roll is a monument to the shortcomings of our educational system." Frey went on to say that they wrote "Teenage Jail" as sort of a "warped" heavy metal tune, and asked Don Felder for a guitar solo that sounded like fingernails screeching across the blackboard.

ONLY IN L.A. — Invitations to the Nov. 20 Police press conference at A&M's International Conference Room were sent out in bottles, ala "Message In A Bottle" the first single from the band's "Regatta De Blanc" LP. To please the Hollywood crowd the messages were stuffed in Perrier bottles . . . After performing to an SRO audience at the Santa Monica Civic, Joe Jackson hustled over to the Whisky to catch the Yachts who opened for Jackson on several dates of his American tour. Jackson, who made his L.A. debut at the Whisky last year, was feeling in a sentimental mood, and joined the boat boys for a heartfelt rendition of "24 Hours From Tulsa."

ON THE ROAD — Jethro Tull played a benefit concert for UNICEF's Year Of The Child campaign at the Santa Monica Civic on Nov. 16. All proceeds from the $25 a ticket concert went to the foundation, and it marked the first time a concert has been held for UNICEF in California . . . Gary Numan and Tubeway Army will tour America for the first time in February . . . Rick Danko, Paul Butterfield and friends will play the Stardust ballroom on Dec. 11 . . . England's Buzzcocks will make their second L.A. appearance within the past few months with a Dec. 13 gig at The Stardust ballroom.

ODDS & ENDS — Manager Fred Lewis and his act, the Cars, have parted ways . . . Barbra Streisand will make her directorial debut in a film based on Isaac Bashevis Singer's novel "Yentil" . . . While on the West Coast swing of the recent REO tour, Kevin Cronin saw the film "Starting Over" in a San Francisco movie house. Cronin identified with Burt Reynolds and immediately called Denise McColl, his live-in girlfriend of the past several years and mother of his two children, and proposed to her. The two were married the next week . . . Congratulations to ATV's Harry Shannon and EMI Records Suzanne Klee who were married at the Home of Sam Trust, president, ATV Music Group, on Nov. 17.

THE POLICE

The Police capturing the airwaves of America

The Police album...REGGATTA DE BLANC... SP 4792 The Police single...MESSAGE IN A BOTTLE... AM 2190

ON A&M RECORDS & TAPES.

Produced by The Police and Nigel Gray. Agency: Frontier Booking International. © 1979 A&M Records, Inc. All Rights Reserved.

PHOENIX — Dan Fogelberg — Full Moon/Epic FE 35634 — Producer: Dan Fogelberg — List: 8.98

The title cut to this album might be the most imaginative and exciting composition that this fine Colorado singer/songwriter has even penned. Other highlights on this fine follow-up to the outstanding "Netherlands" LP include "Wishing On The Moon," a bristling country rocker, and "Longer" and "Along The Road," two lilting ballads. His high floating vocals, which drift nicely into falsetto, are in peak form here. "Phoenix should please programmers in a variety of formats.

THE MUSIC BAND 2— War — MCA-3193 — Producers: Jerry Goldstein and Lonnie Jordan — List: 8.98

The funky' horn punctuated urban ghetto marches are sounding better than ever on "The Music Band 2." That unmistakable jazz/funk rhythm it at its most engaging on "Don't Take It Away," "Night People" and "the Music Band 2." However, the LP's cut de jour is a danceable reworking of "The World Is A Ghetto. Jordan and Goldstein's production is as clean as a whistle, and this LP should go high on the pop and R&B charts.

THE BEST OF HERBIE HANCOCK — Columbia JC 36309 — Producers: David Rubinson and Herbie Hancock — List: 7.98 — Bar Coded

This album should be retitled "The Best Vocals Of Herbie Hancock," as most of the cuts on this album feature Hancock's voice. Many people will complain that a Mwandishi hits collection should be a double album and others might disagree about the choice of cuts, but this superb keyboard player shines on all of the rhythmic fantasies on this record. "Chameleon," "Hancocks funk anthem, is the standout in this package. For R&B and jazz formats.

COME INTO OUR WORLD — The Emotions — ARC/Columbia JC 36149 — Producer: Maurice White — List: 7.98

This talented trio has a whispering vocal style that is irresistible on piano filled ballads like "On & On." However, the girls prove that their breathy style can generate just as much excitement on up tempo numbers like "The Movie" and "I Should Be Dancing." Maurice White's stellar production work, and the help of such studio wizards as David Foster and David Paich make "Come Into Our World" more than just another girl group album.

JUST A TOUCH OF LOVE — Slave — Cotillion SD 5217 — Producer: Jimmy Douglass — List: 7.98

This Dayton, Ohio-based group is shooting up the R&B chart with its "Touch Of Love" single. The band is adept at putting out full bodied R&B dance music, and the engaging male/female vocals work best on "Shine," "Roots" and "Are You Ready For Love." The effervescent "Funky Lady (Foxy lady)" and "Warning," one of the most extraterrestrial funk songs ever recorded, also make the album worth more than a few listens. A good add for R&B programmers.

THINGS AREN'T RIGHT — Wazmo Nariz — I.R.S./A&M SP 005 — Producer: Wazmo Nariz — List: 7.98

During the course of any kind of discussion concerning "new wave" there's always one individual who gets straight to the matter by simply dropping Wazmo's name. If you're into Wazmo Nariz you've become a genuine connoisseur of the genre. Wazmo gives us minimal, near anti-art ditties like "The Mind Is Willing, But The Flesh Is Weak," "Luncheonette Lovers," "Checking Out The Checkout Girl," "This Is Your Elbow" and "Germ Proof Cleaners."

STRANGE SPIRITS — Skatt Bros. — Casablanca NBLP 7192 — Producers: Ian Guenther and Willi Morrison — List: 7.98

This group of closet hard rockers has its tongue firmly planted in-cheek on its looney and tuneful debut for Casablanca. Most of the songs are sung in a cartoon-like fashion, and a majority of the tunes are given a rock/disco treatment. The top tracks on this novelty LP are "Fear Of Flying," "Life At The Outpost" and two lecherous romps, "Old Enough" and "Walk The Night."

THERFU — Turley Richards — Atlantic SD 192670 — Producer: Turley Richards — List: 7.98

Richards possess a soft, lilting vocal style that is reminiscent of Kenny Loggins and Jesse Colin Young, and it is sure to make him a favorite on the A/C air waves. The Fleetwood Mac-like musical arrangements (Bob Welch and Mick Fleetwood play on the album) are suited to the warm, light R&B and soft rock tunes. The high points on this album include the soulful "When I Lose My Way," the reflective "I'm Coming Back Home" and a sensitive reading of King, Stoller and Lieber's "Stand By Me."

VAN DUNSON — The Bicycle Music Company TBMC 2 — Producers: David Rosner and Margo Guryan — List: 7.98

Strong production work and a backing band that includes the likes of Ian Underwood, Dee Murray and Slick make the debut album by Van Dunson a success. Dunson's ambitious piano compositions alternate between progressive rock fantasia and the commercial world of A/C balladry. The top tracks on this nicely executed first album include "Human Error," "Frozen Flight" and the high flying "Satellite." For AOR, Pop and A/C formats.

NIGHT IN THE RUTS — Aerosmith — Columbia FC 36050 — Producer: Gary Lyons — List: 8.98 — Bar Coded

Aerosmith has been chipping away at the stone for a long time now and this album erases any doubt that the band was losing its sledgehammer-like edge. "Night In The Ruts" is as blissfully loud and raunchy as any album in the past. New cuts like "Chiquita" and the earth moving "Cheesecake" will guarantee that the stadiums will be full once again when these heavy metal kings decide to tour. A bluesy, ballsy package of "sweet emotion" for AOR."

SOMETIMES YOU WIN... — Dr. Hook — Capitol SW-12018 — Producer: Ron Haffkine — List: 7.98 — Bar Coded

Dr. Hook doesn't need its "medicine show" anymore because its apparently latched onto the one elixir that can cure a mass audience's listening ills. Dr. Hook used to perpetuate a unique brand of bozo/gonzo city and western that garnered more than its share of yuks. However, it really didn't become the commercially viable product it is now. Presently, we have a sound that incorporates the fashionably funky, yet one that still finds this seven piece in a state of top notch credibility.

FOREVER — Rex Smith — Columbia JC 36275 — Producer: Charlie Calello — List: 7.98 — Bar Coded

This pubescent heartthrob has a good emotional vocal style that is equally suited to driving rockers and lush ballads. The title song is a dreamy, love ballad that builds with strings and layered harmonies ala Barry Manilow, but Smith also puts some real bite into two torrid rockers, "Tonight" and "Saturday Night." Charlie Calello's thick production augments the breathy ballads nicely. For pop and A/C formats.

DRUMS AND WIRES — XTC — Virgin/Atlantic VA 13134 — Producer: Steve Lillywhite — List: 7.98

Virgin Records has apparently saved the best for last with this one. One of the more prolific new wave outfits knocking around the U.K. charts, XTC has that rare combination of lyrical depth and adroit, unpigeonholable instrumental arrangements. The (U.K.) single "Making Plans For Nigel" has already garnered a sizeable amount of FM airplay. XTC is simply rock 'n' roll with the compromise removed like a bad tooth.

BROKEN ENGLISH — Marianne Faithfull — Island ILPS 9570 — Producer: Mark Miller Mundy — List: 7.98

Back during the days of the infamous British Invasion Marianne Faithfull was England's fragile little thrush who was spirited away from her happy home and made to perform in The Rolling Stones Circus Of Horrors. Now, with a tight, near Velvet Underground band behind her, Marianne delivers crystal clear visions of reality that culminate themselves in the track "Why D'Ya Do It," which is probably the most sincere attempt at a "woman's song" this planet has ever heard.

BRASS CONSTRUCTION 5 — Brass Construction — United Artists LT-977 — Producer: Jeff Lane — List: 7.98

This jazz/funk configuration has been going strong for five albums and shows no sign of slowing this time around. A party spirit saturates this album, and the hot horn sound and spirited group chants really come alive on "Get Up To Get Down," "I Want Some Action" and "Music Makes You Feel Like Dancing." Wild synthesizer meanderings crop up constantly on the seven compositions here, and brass fans will revel in some superlative jazz breaks. For B/C lists.

THE BYRDS PLAY DYLAN — The Byrds — Columbia PC 36293 — Producers: Various — List: 5.98 — Bar Coded

This specially priced collection should be great news for both Dylan and Byrds aficionados. The California folk-rock giant has always been one of the premier interpreters of Dylan's material, and many of its first hits like "Tambourine Man" and "I'll Really Wanna Do" were written by the Sage from Hibbing, Minnesota. Other classics on this classic collection include "It's All Over Now Baby Blue" and "My Back Pages." For a variety of formats.

KOCKY — Windsong BXL1 — 3502 — Producer: Eddie N. Watkins Jr. — List: 7.98

Kocky's invigorating R&B dance sound is powered by noted session bassist Eddie N. Watkins Jr. His pulsating, bottom ridden compositions are perfectly tailored for Gregg Fields inventive percussion embellishments and B.J. Watkins silky vocalizations. The funky but slick unit comes into its own on "Can't Dance," "Just Keep On Dancing" and the LP's first single, "Remone." For R&B and dancing lists.

I WILL SURVIVE — Ray Conniff — Columbia PC 36255 — Producer: Ray Conniff — List: 7.98

This pillar of Beautiful Music society is back with another passle of treats for the elevator crowd. Conniff and his singers fare best on two Perren/Fekaris classics, "I Will Survive" and "Reunited." Other "light on the ear" notables are "I Want Your Love," "Little Music Box Dancer," "Love You Inside Out" and "Halleluya." For Beautiful Music stations and the lobbies of hotels and office buildings.

WHAT'S IN-STORE

COMPUTERIZED ORDERING — A new concept in store inventory procedures has been developed by L & J Management Consultants Inc. and Data Enterprises of the Northwest, Bellevue, Washington. The computer-related system, now being used by the Music Mart chain in Seattle and by Alta Distributors in Salt Lake City, operates in the following way: When albums are shipped from the warehouse to an individual store, tickets for each item are printed which identify the particular title, the store, the price and the category of music that it falls into. A portable ticket reading and recording wand is then used by the individual retailer to take quick updated inventories. This wand can be run across a bin to register sales, or can be used at the register for point-of-sales information. The device is then keyed in by phone to the computer which updates the inventory by printing a "suggested shipment" report, as well as storing the received information. The system's major goals are to reduce overstocking problems through closer monitoring of each item as well as to better take into account the particular needs of each store.

ATLANTIC PROMOTIONS — A year-end "Superstar" sales and marketing program has been announced by Atlantic Records for its five current best-selling LPs. The latest albums by Led Zeppelin, Foreigner, AC/DC and Chic will be featured, as will be the "Muppet Movie" soundtrack. The new program offers accounts a 5% discount on these records, as well as merchandising materials, posters and 2 X 2s. On the local level, the San Francisco WEA office has planned a major "Phase 2" push for the AC/DC album which it reports has sold over 50,000 copies in Northern California. A large AC/DC banner, proclaiming the group the "greatest rock 'n' roll band" will be strung across the entrance to the Tower, San Francisco store, with merchandising for the album planned for all the Tower stores and other retail accounts. Radio spots have also been planned, as well as a full page ad in the San Francisco Chronicle with comments about the group from local radio music and program directors.

DISNEY PACKAGE — Ovation Records has announced a fall marketing program for its Magical Music of Walt Disney four disc package. The push will involve newspaper ads, a retail display contest, radio and TV spots and numerous in-store merchandising materials. The display contest, which will be open to distributor sales personnel, will offer prizes ranging from trips to Disneyland and Disneyworld to such Disney-oriented merchandise as watches and phones. Winners will be selected on the basis of creative and effective store displays.

CONCERT SERIES — Everybody's Records and Double Tee Promotions have been sponsoring the "Everybody's Great Concert" series at the Euphoria Tavern, a local Portland night-club. Some of the performers to appear since the project began earlier this year have been Jules and the Polar Bears, Tom Scott, Pat Metheny, Tom Robinson, the Records, the Rockets and the Yachts. Most recently, Hall & Oates appeared, and the chain raffled off a pair of free tickets to the performance, complete with limo service and dinner for two. Scheduled next to appear: Ian Gomm and the Beat.

STORE ACTIVITY — Filpside Records, (Hoffman Estates) Chicago has just been selected winner in the ELO "Discovery Van" contest, while Lieberman Enterprises and Memorex have named Chuck Pappas, sales rep from Omaha, and Jim Slevin, sales rep from Bismarck, winners in their sales-display contest. Lieberman's sales reps, sales supervisors, branch sales managers and branch managers all competed to score the highest sales of Memorex tapes and accessories, while coming up with the most exciting and effective displays. . . . The Great American Music Store chain of Minneapolis has been utilizing a special ECM sampler which features the label's leading artists. Any customer purchasing a minimum of $15 worth of merchandise will receive the special LP free. . . . Some current give-a-ways: the Wherehouse chain of Washington, Texas, Nevada, Colorado and California, along with WEA, are holding drawings in each store for prizes of $50 grocery store gift certificates. . . . Cutler's, New Haven, raffling off five personally autographed Molly Hatchet LPs, while Peaches, Cincinnati is holding a Headboys' "Shape of Things to Come" contest with a year's membership to a local Vic Tanny's as the grand prize. . . . Finally, the Oasis stores of Pittsburgh, in conjunction with WYDD-FM, will be giving away pairs of tickets to the sold-out Who performance in the area, Dec. 2.

IN-STORE — Henry Paul Band at National Record Mart, (Westmoreland Mall), Pittsburgh, Nov. 16. . . Archle Bell and the Drells, Nov. 16 at Peaches, Indianapolis. . . Point Blank, Nov. 12, at Peaches, Cincinnati. . . large crowds for appearances by the Shoes, Nov. 3 at Peaches, Philadelphia, and the Scorpions, Nov. 8, at Sound Warehouse, San Antonio.

CUSTOMER QUOTE OF THE WEEK: "No, just browsing."
ENDS AND ODDS — The Everybodys' chain of Portland held a two-day conference with office staff and management at Long Beach, Wash., to plan for the holiday season and to discuss other store matters. . . . A new jazz-oriented outlet, Straight-Ahead and Jazz Records, has just opened its doors in Gardena, Calif. The store will specialize in hard-to-find albums, foreign imports and big-band recordings. . . . Wilcox, Oklahoma City holding its "Midnight Madness Sale," Nov. 17, with all LP prices reduced. . . . Congrats to Steve Campfield, who has become buyer and talent coordinator at V.I.P. Records, Los Angeles. Most recently he was R&B promo manager at Record Merchandising.

JUDAS PRIEST UNLEASHED IN THE MIDWEST — Columbia recording group Judas Priest made an in-store appearance last month at the Flip Side record outlet in Wheaton, Illinois, drawing some 500 fans. The store honored the group with a cake for the occasion and the boys responded by digging right in. . . . with a knife, of course.

'New On The Charts' Encounters Strong Response From A&R People

by Ken Terry

NEW YORK — Leonard Kalikow has done a little bit of everything in the music business. He has been a songwriter, a recording artist, a concert promoter, an artist manager and an entertainment director at a resort hotel. But his most important contribution to the industry is his three-year-old publication, New On The Charts.

The monthly magazine, sold only on a subscription basis for $75 a year, has a circulation of approximately 1,000 producers, managers, lawyers and A&R executives. It lists singles and albums that have broken into the Top 100 on the national trade charts each month, as well as the names, addresses and phone numbers of producers, managers, booking agencies, record companies and publishers associated with each record.

The purpose of New On The Charts, says Kalikow, is to enable people in various areas of the music industry to get in touch with each other. That's why he solicits subscribers only among professional record and publishing people. "It's supposed to be a tool for professionals in the business to reach others to make deals," he points out.

Varied Background

Kalikow conceived of New On The Charts by a rather roundabout route. After his graduation from the University of Indiana, he gigged around the Midwest as a solo performer and signed a publishing contract in Chicago. He planned to record an LP with Chess, but that deal fell through and he returned to New York.

After an abortive stab at finding a producer for a musical he had composed, Kalikow became a writer for Beechwood Music. He says he was on the verge of securing a recording deal with Capitol when the producer he was supposed to work with, Noel Sherman, lost his position at the label. Around this time, Beechwood went out of business, and Kalikow signed a production deal with Jerry Ragovoy of the Hit Factory. When this came to nothing, he was hired as head of entertainment at a borsht belt resort.

A year or so later, Kalikow returned to New York again, and, with a couple of partners, began booking concerts at some of the city's smaller venues. Meanwhile, he and his partners branched out into managing Larry Coryell. But Kalikow didn't greatly care for artist management, which he says was a series of headaches; and at the same time, the bottom fell out of concert promotion because of soaring talent costs.

So Kalikow became head of Don Elliott Productions, a commercial music firm. It was while trying to locate producers and publishers for his work with commercials that Kalikow recognized the need for a listing of people involved with hit records.

Full-Time

When he put out the first issue of New On The Charts in 1976, Kalikow had no idea that it would become a full-time occupation. That year, he became general manager of the print division of Big Three Music, and New On The Charts made $5,000. The second year, though, his gross sales were $25,000, and this year he expects to take in $75,000.

Of his 1,000 subscribers, Kalikow notes, about 20% are based overseas. And, in keeping with the international character of his publication, he has recently added a section on sub-publishing deals that are available abroad.

Kalikow says he is amazed by the rapidity with which people in this business change their addresses. Each month, when a record by a particular act hits the Top 100 on the charts, he re-checks the address and phone information on the people involved with the act, and he says that, in about 30% of the cases, that information has changed.

Hunter Signs Trio

LOS ANGELES — Peter, Paul and Mary have signed with Kevin Hunter of New Direction. The pact involves personal management in all fields. Currently, the trio is cutting a new LP for Warner Bros. with Peter Yarrow producing and composing some of the songs.

KUBLA KHAN'S DELIGHTS — Xanadu has issued a superb four-album recording made at the 1978 Montreux Jazz Festival. The entire Xanadu stable was flown to Switzerland by producer Don Schlitten with the express intention of recording them in concert, and the results are the next best thing to being there. If you missed being at the Pleasure Dome on Lac Leman that summer, or, like some of us, you missed Xanadu Nights because of a missed train from Geneva, these discs will supply ample solace for winter nights in front of the stereo. Featured in the set are Frank Butler, Al Cohn, Dolo Coker, Ronnie Cuber, Ted Dunbar, Barry Harris, Sam Jones, Billy Mitchell, Sam Most, and Sam Noto. All four albums bear the same front piece format, difficult to read if you didn't know what it is supposed to say. Amply featured are Cuber's baritone sax and Noto's trumpet on Volume One; tenor saxophonists Cohn and Mitchell on Volume Two; Most on flute, Dunbar's guitar and Harris's piano on Volume Three, and the whole group on the concluding volume. There is strong support throughout from Jones on bass, Coker on piano and Butler on drums . . . Also new from Xanadu is Joe Farrell's "Skateboard Park" featuring Chick Corea.

LACKING LITTLE — LAX Records — named not for something missing, but for the airline designation for Los Angeles International Airport — has some surprises in the jazz department. A Dave Grusin-produced album, "Love Light," featuring Japanese keyboardist Yutaka Yokokura, will have its first Stateside release by LAX; Blood, Sweat & Tears, featuring David Clayton-Thomas, is signed to LAX; a group named Pressure, produced by Ronnie Laws; and an album called "Giants" starring drummer Greg Errico with Carlos Santana, Herbie Hancock, Lee Oskar and Mike Garcia are also in the offing.

FROM THE AVANT-GARDE — New Music Distribution Service handles the little-known and private labels of musicians who have gotten their work on wax. NMDS offers exposure to those who can ill-afford their own promotion and distribution. Recent releases include "Hidden Voices" with the Anthony Davis and James Newton Quartet; "Alternate Spaces" by Cecil McBee and "Esoteric" from Phillip Wilson, all on India Navigation Records; and "30 Family" by David Murray and "Variation on a Blue Line: Round Midnight" by Joe McPhee, both from Hat Hut Records. Alacra Records offers "Digit," featuring Mario Pavone and "Close Opposites" by Don Rose, while John Clark's Hidden Meaning Records has released Clark's "Song of Light."

JAZZ IN TECHNICOLOR — Improvising Artists, Inc. (IAI) has revealed some further details about its new Video Jazz Series, which was mentioned in last week's "Sound Views" column. A sampler tape containing excerpts from seven IAI Video Jazz programs and entitled IAI Collection I is being featured in the inaugural Inovision catalog from EDS in Dallas. IAI is currently negotiating further non-exclusive sales and rental mail order deals with Fotomat and Vidamerica. They are negotiating licensing deals in Europe with Artel of Switzerland and JVC in the U.K. Available is a promotional trailer for dealers, which contains one-minute excerpts from the current catalog. The in-store promo package is being readied for the Peaches record store chain. The original release of IAI in August, 1978, featured four simultaneous record and tape issues: Jimmy Giuffre and Lee Konitz at the Great American Music Hall, San Francisco; Sun Ra at Axis, a now-defunct art gallery/club in SoHo; Marion Brown and Gunter Hampel in a studio setting and Perry Robinson's group, Kundalini. The latest four are in video tape form only. "The ideal is to have both tape and records," Carol Goss, producer of the series, said. "We use camera and synthesized video equipment to produce an integrated circuit of jazz musicians and visual artists to create an intimate, spontaneous Video Jazz program with a kind of integrity between musician and visual artist not possible from old time-delay, post-production film techniques." Goss was referring to the method by which the music is over-dubbed onto film after the filming is completed. She also noted that that mechanical licensing has been obtained for each composition on every program from music publishers. The latest releases include performances by the winners of the French Prix du Jazz Contemporain. Among them are two LPs led by Paul Bley and one featuring Sun Ra & Friends.

2300 HIP (NOT SQUARE) FEET OF JAZZ — The Jazz Record Mart and its fan/owner, Bob Koester, spoke to Cash Box about plans for enlarging the store at 11 West Grand Street,

JAZZ ALBUM PICKS

CIRCLE IN THE ROUND — Miles Davis — Columbia KC236278 — Producers: Jim Fishel and Joe McEwen — List: 11.98

Davis' first release since 1977, this two-record set is actually a collection of his unreleased recordings spanning the years 1955-1970. Cannonball Adderley, George Benson, Chick Corea, Herbie Hancock and a full roster of other jazz greats make guest appearances on this historical recreation of Davis' career. Cole Porter's "Love For Sale" side features a standout job by Adderley on alto sax.

LIVE AT SANDY'S — Arnett Cobb & the Muse All Stars — Muse MK 5191 — Producer: Bob Porter — List: 6.98

Big round tones from Cobb and fellow Texas tenor saxophonist Buddy Tate, Eddie 'Cleanhead' Vinson on alto, Ray Bryant, piano, Alan Dawson, drums, and the versatile Rock of Gibraltar on bass, George Duvivier, make this an exciting group to listen to and learn from. It's Cobb's cornering of the solos making it tough to pick a favorite. We'll vie for the New Orleans funeral-cum-blues rendition of the opening track, "Just A Closer Walk With Thee." It is superb; the rest, all standards, merely excellent.

PRANCIN' — Louis Smith Quintet — SteepleChase SCS 1121 — Producer: Nils Winther — List: 7.98

This is driving bebop, featuring former Horace Silver sidemen Smith on trumpet and Junior Cook on tenor sax. Excellent support comes from Roland Hanna on piano, Sam Jones on bass and Billy Hart on drums. All the tunes are Smith compositions, save the trumpet feature, "I Can't Get Started." It's a solid collaboration of artists and repertoire.

THE COMPREHENSIVE KENTON — Stan Kenton — Capitol STB-12016 — Producer: None listed — List: 7.98

A posthumous compilation of some of Kenton's most memorable big band flavored recordings. No surprise then that horns and swing singers dominate. Kenton was something of an iconoclast when he began recording in the '40s, and many of the tracks still seem fresh and innovative even after 30 years. Don't miss "Opus In Pastels." Despite its misleading title, this cut, with its rousing trumpet work is anything but bland or pastel.

OLD AND NEW DREAMS — Don Cherry, Dewey Redman, Charlie Haden, Ed Blackwell — ECM-1-1154 — Producer: Manfred Eicher — List: 8.98

Somber, brooding release with unique deployment of musette. "Lonely Woman" typifies the darker side of jazz as tenor sax picks out the melody and drums supply the rhythmic tension. "Togo" track gets an infusion of African themes, based on traditional Ghanaese melodic lines. "Song For The Whales" is a musical articulation of the plight of an endangered species and a call for international cooperation. Spartan embellishments make this LP a purist's delight.

DON'T ASK — SONNY ROLLINS — Milestone N-9090 — Producer: Orrin Keepnews — List: 7.98

Just a peek at Sonny is better than nothing, but this album is just a taste of what he can do. There are nice duets with guitarist Larry Coryell on "The File" and "My Ideal," and we even get a glimpse of Rollins on piano on the opening phrases of the amusingly titled "Disco Monk." However Rollins reveals a lot more fire in his live performances, although the same visceral attack pervades this collection.

FEATURE PICKS

CHIC (Atlantic 3638)

My Feet Keep Dancing (3:51) (Chic Music, Inc. — BMI) (B. Edwards, N. Rodgers)

Chic's "Risque" LP is a seemingly bottomless treasure trove of hit singles and the talented quintet has apparently come up with another one. This ear-catching dance concoction, with its rhythmic use of strings, initially received heavy radio play as an album cut and should garner a good deal more as a single. A multi-format crowd pleaser.

ATLANTA RHYTHM SECTION (BGO/Polydor PD 2039)

Back Up Against The Wall (3:11) (Low-Sal, Inc. — BMI) (Buie, Cobb)

The first single from the new live ARS LP "Are You Ready?" has a slightly harder southern rock feel than the band's previous two singles but that certainly won't inhibit pop programmers from giving it plenty of play. The consistently rolling boogie backbeat and smooth 'down home' vocals offer a good sampling of ARS onstage on its home turf.

LOBO (MCA MCA-41152)

Holdin' On For Dear Love (2:43) (House Of Gold Music, Inc. — BMI) (J. Slate, S. Pippin, L. Henley)

Lobo follows up his Top 20 "Where Were You When I Was Falling In Love" with this bouncy, up-beat pop tune which is undoubtedly easy enough for A/C, while the hook is strong enough for solid pop action. Bright, smooth electric piano work keeps the beat rolling while strings add a palatable sheen. A winner.

ARETHA FRANKLIN (Atlantic 3632)

Half A Love (3:29) (Zugrace Music — BMI) (Z. Cusseau)

Aretha pulls out all the vocal stops on this exhilarating, gospel-flavored number off of the "La Diva" LP. Franklin's vocals are pushed up front, while slick instrumentals, combining horns with strings, vibes and light drum work, back the joyous female chorus. The Queen of Soul still has it and this one is right for several formats.

WAR (MCA MCA-41158)

Don't Take It Away (3:59) (Far Out Music, Inc. — ASCAP) (Allen, Brown, Goldstein, Hammon, Jordan, Oskar, Rabb, Rizzo, Scott, Smith)

WAR is back with the first single from the new "The Music Band 2" LP and it's a jumpy, lively R&B treat, with a steady rhythm line and excellent vocal arrangements. As usual, the percussives are an inventive blend of Afro-Latin influences with the horns punctuating every nuance. A B/C radio smash.

SHOES (Elektra E-46571)

Tomorrow Night (2:58) (Shoetunes — BMI) (G. Klebe, J. Murphy)

Shoes come out of the gate for the second time with an intricately woven mixture of rhythm guitars, an insistent backbeat and sinewy vocals to create an ebullient and totally satisfying pop effort. A simple yet effective lead guitar line slices through the dense sound to emphasize the hook. Highly recommended for AOR and pop lists.

THE GAP BAND (Mercury 76021)

Steppin' (3:45) (Total Experience Music Pub. Co. — BMI) (C. Wilson, L. Simmons, R. Wilson)

From "The Gap Band II," this track features many of the same exciting rhythmic elements which made "Shake" such a big B/C number. Handclaps, cowbell and various percussives meld easily with a buzzing keyboard line and synthesizer effects to form a solid base for the repetitive vocal chant. An entrancing dance tune, look for this to garner heavy B/C and dance play.

FANDANGO (RCA PB-11761)

Blame It On The Night (3:39) (Life and Times Music — BMI) (D. LaRue, R. Blakemore)

Fandango comes on like a rock 'n' roll hurricane on this cooking track, which is without a doubt the most immediately accessible song the band has cut to date. Riveting synthesizer work and electric guitars drill through the cut like buzz saws. An incredible sleeper for AOR and pop.

SINGLES TO WATCH

RAYDIO (Arista AS 0441)

Hot Stuff (3:34) (Raydiola Music Co. — ASCAP) (R. Parker, Jr.)

Radio, ironically, picked this, the third single, off of Raydio's current LP, and the snakey, sensuous bass synthesizer effects create a heavy bottom for the many percussives which permeate the tune. Electric guitar cries in the background, with some tasty horn work. A solid B/C effort.

FUNKADELIC (Warner Bros. WBS 49117)

Uncle Jam (Part I) (4:15) (Rubber Band Music, Inc. — BMI) (G. Clinton, G. Shider, B. Worrell, W. Collins)

Funkadelic turns a U.S. Army theme inside out with its usual funky panache, as a collection of hurdy gurdy 'keyboard mutations whirl about the background vocals of those sirens, The Brides of Funkenstein. The singing vocals promise another B/C chart-topper for the group.

REN WOODS (ARC/Columbia 1-11146)

I'm In Love With You (3:16) (McNally Music Publishing — ASCAP) (L. J. McNally)

Woods serves up an invigorating R&B ballad here and establishes herself as an artist to watch with this new single off of the "Out Of The Woods" LP. While the tune does bear comparison to Aretha Franklin's work, Woods' multi-octave trillings will surprise B/C and pop programmers alike.

JON ENGLISH (Polydor PD 2035)

Get Your Love Right (3:28) (Heath-Levy Music Co., Inc./April Music, Inc. — ASCAP) (A. David, L. Martin)

English has a tough, gritty voice, in the mold of a Bob Seger, that lends solid conviction to this light pop outing. The hook here is sweet and bouncy, underscored by the airy flute work, and the track would fit into any A/C or pop list.

BOBBY VINTON (Tapestry TR 002)

Make Believe It's Your First Time (3:27) (Music City Music, Inc. — ASCAP) (Morrison, Wilson)

Vinton delivers yet another pleasant ballad here, utilizing a nice blend of acoustic and easy electric guitars, with an effectively building crescendo. A placid yet evocative tune, this will fit in perfectly on easy listening, A/C formats.

MARIANNE FAITHFULL (Island IS 49121)

Broken English (3:00) (Airstream Music Ltd.)

An edit of the title track off of Faithfull's new hard-edged, uncompromising rock LP, this track will make AOR programmers sit up and take notice. With Faithfull's eerie, gritty vocals and sweltering, industrial strength electronics, this is a real sleeper.

SNIFF 'N' THE TEARS (Atlantic 3626)

New Lines On Love (3:38) (Complacent Toonz Inc. — ASCAP) (P. Roberts)

Roberts and crew follow up their last surprise sleeper "Driver's Seat" with this eerie and subtly passionate tune from the "Fickle Heart" LP. Guitars wind their way around the hook while lead vocals and harmonies create an atmosphere of tension. For AOR and pop lists, this deserves a listen.

BILLY PRESTON & SYREETA (Motown M 1477F)

With You I'm Born Again (3:38) (Check Out Music — BMI) (D. Shire, C. Connors)

Preston and Syreeta team up once again for this soft, somber ballad from the "Late At Night" LP, turning out one of the most effective, uncluttered love songs in quite some time. Placid, symphonic instrumentals back the nice tradeoffs and harmonies. For A/C, B/C and pop formats.

CHER (Casablanca NB 2228)

Holdin' Out For Love (3:35) (ATV Music Corp./Mann and Weil Songs, Inc./Braintree Music/Snow Music — BMI) (C. Weil, T. Snow)

A steady, bubbly rhythm, held down by easy snare drum work and keyboard and synthesizers, back Cher's warblings on this cut off of the "Prisoner" LP. Unique and streamlined, this track is a step back from the polished disco which has marked Cher's most recent efforts. A choice pop add.

HOUNDS (Columbia 1-11159)

Under My Thumb (3:17) (Abkco Music, Inc. — BMI) (M. Jagger, K. Richard)

Chicago's Hounds use a tantalizing combination of spacey synthesizer and other electronic effects, including a talk box and syndrums, with wrenching guitar work on this re-make of the Rolling Stones classic. AOR will surely want to look into this.

THE O'JAYS (Philadelphia Int'l ZS9 3727)

Forever Mine (3:44) (Mighty Three Music — BMI) (K. Gamble, L. Huff)

This soulful ballad by The O'Jays has a smokey '60s feel to it yet the swelling, horn-flavored bridge finds the veteran trio at an emotionally intense peak. Muted organ and light drum, woodblock work offers the perfect backing for B/C, A/C formats.

SOUTHSIDE JOHNNY & THE ASBURY JUKES (Mercury 76023)

Living In The Real World (3:58) (War Music/Amundo Music — ASCAP) (B. Rush)

Jukes lead guitarist Billy Rush is quite a writing force in the group, as he provides the second single from "The Jukes" LP. Southside Johnny Lyon's vocal reading maintains a bluesy, soul-flavored edge on this flowing, horn-spiced song. Right for both pop and AOR play.

STORM (MCA MCA-41147)

I Want You (2:39) (Duchess Music Corp. (MCA/World Relay Publishing — BMI) (J. Chase, L. Stevens)

Storm crank out the hard rock with a slicing new wave edge here, as lead singer Jeanette Chase rips out the vocals with a snarl while Lear Stevens keeps the hectic backbeat moving. Ideally suited for AOR, this has pop crossover potential as well.

GOTHAM (Aurum S0003)

(I'm Your) AC/DC Man (3:29) (Don Kirshner Music/Blackwood Music Publishing — BMI/Kirshner Songs/April Music — ASCAP) (G. Allan, G. Knight)

No doubt this lushly produced disco tune will score big in the clubs, with its breezy, campy treatment of the AC/DC theme and Village People vocal chant. The arrangements are light and the male-female trade offs are right.

JOYCE COBB (Cream CRE 7939)

Dig The Gold (3:29) (Birdees Music/Fallin' Arches Publ. — ASCAP) (J. Cobb, L. C. Lewis)

This number by Cobb has an uptempo Calypso flavor, which is especially evident in the striking vocals and popping instrumentals, and memorable melody. A bit offbeat, this track is different enough to garner some pop, A/C action.

HOME TAPING ISSUE—Regarding RKO Radio president Dwight Case's open letter to the radio and record industries and the issue of home taping (Cash Box, Nov. 10), Mercury Records president Bob Sherwood has responded with an open letter of appreciation to Case and RKO national music co-ordinator Dave Sholin. In addition, Sherwood offered his philosophies on this matter. "Sales of blank tapes are skyrocketing, as is radio's practice of pre-promoting play of an album, complete and without interruption. Some programmers have even gone so far as to suggest 'getting your tape recorders ready.' Many of us in the music business (particularly former radio people) question the wisdom of that practice. Once someone has taped a complete album they'll probably be listening to it rather than the radio station. Tracking several cuts at a time, while changing the rotation of songs, would retain the programming feature and would still give a programmer input to determine the correct tracks while virtually eliminating the total taping of albums. The record industry has had a very difficult year. We've now effected many long-overdue changes in our business practices. One change we can't make alone is reduction of home-taping. Our artists deserve a fair return for their art. Record companies deserve a fair return on their investment. It must be remembered that the radio and record industries are in this together. A problem for us ultimately becomes a problem for that segment of broadcasting that plays music. Our profits are used to find and develop the new talent that is critical to success for both of us."

Stations Splice Takes Of 'Chiquitita' Single

NEW YORK — Programmers at several pop stations in the U.S. have begun to splice together the English and Spanish versions of the new Abba single, "Chiquitita," according to Vince Faraci, vice president of pop promotion for Atlantic Records.

The single, which is currently bulleted at #73 in its third week on the Cash Box pop singles chart, enjoyed considerable success in Latin America, where the song reached number one in eight nations and sold approximately 700,000 copies in Argentina alone.

Extra Avenue

"We would normally consider breaking the record on pop and MOR formats, but the release of the Spanish version is giving us an extra avenue of promotion," Faraci said. He noted that the stations in Buffalo (WKBW), Los Angeles (KRLA), and New Mexico (KQ93), that are splicing the record are contributing to increased sales of both versions in those areas. The Spanish version, he said, was initially geared for play in areas with large Hispanic populations, such as Arizona, California, New York, Miami, New Mexico, and Texas.

Two Versions Competing

"We never felt the two versions would compete against each other," he continued. On the contrary, he said, "We always knew we could break the English version in a big way. Whatever Spanish sales we get will just be extra." He said that most of the record's airplay thus far has been on the English version, but that "conceivably, Spanish stations could begin splicing the record too."

The English version of "Chiquitita" will be released as part of the "Abba Greatest Hits Vol. 2" album next month. In the meantime, Faraci said Atlantic has no plans at present to issue a spliced version of the song, as Columbia did in a similar case when they released the Neil Diamond/Streisand duet of "You Don't Bring Me Flowers."

He has also managed a number of top English recording artists, including David Bowie, Manfred Mann and Alan Price and was involved in record production, as well as film production and distribution. He moved to the U.S. to set up offices here in 1974.

Stockham Predicts Digital Will Dominate Pop Recording

from a perfect speaker (point source) would behave. Dr. Stockham's part of the project was to "digitize and undigitize sounds of high quality," lasting no more than 30 seconds each. According to Dr. Stockham, these were the first digital recordings.

At this point, the Federal government stepped in and sponsored the professor's research on the use of digital processing in the transmission of audio-visual information. This processing, he said, now plays an important role in advanced radar systems.

In 1969, Dr. Stockham assembled a 14-bit analog-to-digital converter, one of the key elements in today's digital recorders. Using replaceable magnetic disc packs, the inventor discovered that he could make "infinitely long recordings."

Still devoting himself to pure research, Dr. Stockham began studying the problem of removing frequency aberrations from recordings. As a test of his theories, he tried "cleaning up" very old recordings by digitizing them, correcting certain aberrations, and converting them back to analog. He was so successful at this that he was able to restore a number of old LPs, including several Caruso albums on RCA, to listenability.

By this time, Dr. Stockham realized that there was a commercial potential in what he was doing. In 1975, he founded Soundstream, Inc., and began developing digital recording and editing systems for commercial applications. He demonstrated his digital recorder at the AES convention in October of 1976, and the same year, he digitally recorded Virgil Thomson's "The Mother Of Us All" for New World Records.

Digital Editing

One of the major stumbling blocks in digital recording is the problem of editing. Dr. Stockham pointed out that the only two solutions are to cut and splice the tape with an electronic editor, which can result in a serious "thump" in the recording, or to make a copy of the tape and edit it in a computer, producing the editing version on a new tape. With the latter system, there is no "thump" and no generation-to-generation loss of sound quality. But a computer is not very portable, so editing must be done in a fixed location.

"Our present editing system is based in a computer which you can't carry around with you," said Dr. Stockham, adding, however, that Soundstream is working on a portable editing unit. At present, the company's only computer system is located in Salt Lake City, but Dr. Stockham plans to install a second system in L.A. in 1980.

Dr. Stockham defended his fixed-based system by noting that it is impossible to meet the sophisticated editing requirements of producers by another available method. He added that, while 3M has the only practical multi-tracking digital system on the market, Soundstream has edited, mixed and equalized multi-track digital recordings on an experimental basis. Eventually, he added, Soundstream will provide multi-track capability "when our customers need it."

Dr. Stockham pointed out that Soundstream has not been selling its recorders up to now because "selling digital tape recorders and making money is not possible at the same time right now." He explained that, since the recorders are so expensive to manufacture and so few companies can afford to buy them, selling them would not provide an adequate return on investment.

By offering a service rather than a product, however, Soundstream can spread its investment in new technology over all of its customers, while realizing a decent profit. In addition, Dr. Stockham noted, companies that may buy digital equipment at a later date won't be scared away from the technology by the fear that today's digital recording systems will be obsolete tomorrow.

"Our marketing emphasis," summarized Dr. Stockham, "has been to provide services, not equipment for sale, and to provide technology at a level that really works and can be used and can produce product that will be sold."

Evidently, Soundstream has convinced many others in the recording industry that their digital product is saleable. Among the companies that have used Soundstream's services are RCA, Telarc, Chalfont, Delos, Discwasher, Kadan, Inc., Nautilus Records, Orinda Recording Corp., Romar Productions, Tomato Music Co., 2000 B. C. and Varese Sarabande. And a total of 23 more Soundstream-mastered albums are scheduled for release by March, 1980 on such labels as Chalfont, Delos, Telarc, Discwasher, Varese Sarabande, RCA, Sine Qua Non and Nautilus.

Politics And Country Music Strange But Cozy Bedfellows

by Don Cusic

NASHVILLE — Two major political events in Nashville last week brought to light the growing involvement and interaction between country music and politics.

First, Sen. Edward Kennedy came to Nashville to speak at Vanderbilt University and toured the Country Music Hall of Fame the following day, meeting some high level executives and dignitaries in country music while causing major traffic jams from police escorts wherever he went.

Secondly, the ambassador from China, Chai Zemin, visited Nashville for the weekend along with his wife, Li Youfeng, the cultural counselor Xie Qimei, the second secretary for the embassy, Bien Qingzu and two interpreters. The visit was coordinated by Joe Talbot, Irving Waugh and Frances Preston through the Country Music Assn.'s planning and development committee. While here, the ambassador was presented a guitar from Johnny Cash, a reception at BMI, a tour of the Hall of Fame, a visit to Tom T. Hall's home and a visit and 'appearance' on the Grand Ole Opry.

Not Isolated Incidents

These two events are not isolated incidents of the involvement with country music and politics, which includes entertainers and politicians of both national and local scope.

Country music has been to the White House a number of times, with the Country Music Assn. presenting two different concerts at the White House as well as a number of other performers visiting there for concerts and for other special events. These events have included state dinners, as well as a luncheon sponsored by the Carters when the gala fund raising event was held for Ford's Theatre in October.

Besides entertainers, some executives have been involved in the political arena, most notably Frances Preston, vice president of BMI's Nashville office. Preston served on a special Panama Canal study committee as well as currently serving on a five member committee that is working with Rosalynn Carter to solicit and select a record library for the White House.

Although President John Kennedy was known as a chief executive who attracted celebrities to the White House, country music was virtually ignored — primarily because his image and interest was elsewhere. Nixon introduced country music to the White House with a special concert by Johnny Cash, and later received a special commendation from the Country Music Assn. for designating October as country music month. However, it has been Jimmy Carter who has really opened the White House to the country music industry. This has stemmed from his honest love of the music and performers, in addition to the fact that country acts, especially Charlie Daniels, helped raise money for his campaign.

This alliance between the entertainment industry has drawn attention, as well as some criticism from the political side of the media. For example, Time in its Nov. 12 edition discussed this issue in an essay, stating, "Given the American tendency to worship stars, one may wonder whether eventually show business might be too casually accepted as an appropriate training ground for political leadership." It continued, "The capacity to achieve effects by glitter and glamour is not likely to inspire politics toward greater integrity. Nor are theatrical atmospherics apt to move the public to examine more soberly issues that too few Americans take seriously even now."

Trend Continues

Still, the show biz/political alliance is alive and well — and this campaign may see it go even further in aligning the two factions as Jerry Brown, another announced presidential candidate, has already gotten mileage out of his association with Linda Ronstadt among other rock stars who have staged benefits in California to raise money

Parton, Wagoner Settle $3 Million Lawsuit

NASHVILLE — The $3 million lawsuit brought against Dolly Parton by Porter Wagoner has been settled out of court by Parton and Wagoner with their lawyers. The settlement basically involves dividing the businesses they have jointly owned for the past 12 years.

Parton's attorney, Stanley Chernau, and Wagoner's attorney, also issued a joint statement saying that the settlement also provides for the duo to release an album, possibly within the next year. Discussions are currently underway to determine whether the album will involve the two going in to work on a new project or whether they will work to improve material they already have recorded, but never released.

Dolly Parton owns 51% of Owepar Publishing Co. and Wagoner owns 49%. The publishing company owns Fireside Studio. These are the assets that will be divided equitably by Parton and Wagoner for the settlement.

REVIEWS

CRYSTAL GAYLE (United Artists UA-X1329-Y)

Your Old Cold Shoulder (2:17) (United Artists, ASCAP) (R. Leigh)

This song is a lot more "country" than Crystal's last few releases and country programmers and listeners should love that. It's a solid, hit song all the way and Crystal is hot.

THE OAK RIDGE BOYS (MCA-41154)

Leaving Louisiana In The Broad Daylight (2:57) (Jolly Cheeks/Drunk Monkey — BMI/ASCAP) (R. Crowell-D. Cowart)

The Oaks have come on like gangbusters these past few years and this up tempo, fun filled song should add to that streak. A solid beat and a full chorus line make it great for radio.

MARGO SMITH (Warner Bros. WBS 49109)

The Shuffle Song (3:29) (Galamar/Dusty Roads — BMI/Marck David — ASCAP) (M. Smith-N. Wilson-M. David)

If the jukeboxes don't play this record, they won't play anything. A country shuffle with a walking bass, it's perfect for the juke audience as well as country radio fans.

GEORGE HAMILTON IV (MCA 41149)

Forever Young (3:28) (Warner Bros. — ASCAP) (B. Dylan)

This great Bob Dylan tune will be a standard some day, and this version by George IV will go a long way toward making it go. A super song sung perfectly by George with his smooth voice.

T.G. SHEPPARD (Warner/Curb WBS 49110)

I'll Be Coming Back For More (2:52) (Tree, BMI) (C. Putman-S. Whipple)

T.G. comes off a #1 song with this solid number that begins with him talking, before launching into a ballad with a beat about coming back to a love.

ZELLA LEHR (RCA JH-11754)

Love Has Taken Its Time (2:47) (Tree — BMI/Cross Keys — ASCAP) (D. Keen-J. Pritchard-R. Brooks)

Zella has shown a lot of promise with each release and this one takes her a step further in her career. Beginning with a strong chorus and into the up tempo positive lyrics, it's got hit stamped on it.

Politics And Music A Cozy Mix

In Nashville, the country music capital, the decision in this presidential election may not boil down to the issues of national leadership but rather, who in the White House treats them best. Many will remember that it was Jimmy Carter who sent them their first White House invitation and wonder if they'll receive another invitation to visit the White House if someone else were in the office. This could lead many to decide to cast their vote for Carter in support of their own self interest.

Carter's intimate relationship with the country music industry was made note of by Sen. Kennedy during his Vanderbilt speech, when he admitted not knowing as much about country music as Jimmy Carter and then went on to quote a line from a Charlie Rich song. Kennedy did make a mild overture to the country music industry by having George Hamilton IV perform before his speech, and the next day Hamilton was seated at the head table with Kennedy during a breakfast the senator hosted for local politicians and supporters.

Although candidates can benefit financially from performers — a campaign financing law permits concert proceeds to be counted as contributions from the audience rather than from the performer — it is the association with well-known entertainers that benefits the politicians most. Time magazine noted, "The politician, with a little luck, gets more than a crowd out of the star. There is also a hope of inheriting the excitement the star stirs up, of having some popular sympathy and prestige rub off as a result of a supporting star's popularity. In turn, the star, on top of perhaps serving personal philosophical interests, enjoys a chance to bask in the presence of power. That may seem little reward, yet it may be of considerable importance to a king-size theatrical ego."

It appears, at this stage of the game, that country music will continue to be involved in politics and that Jimmy Carter, by courting this contingent, may have a strong base of support here that the popularity polls do not reflect.

HEART OF THE MATTER — The Kendalls — Ovation OV-1746 — Producer: Brien Fisher — List: 7.98

An incredibly fine album from one of the premier duets in country music — and one with perhaps the most distinguishable and unique sound of all. The Kendalls concern themselves with cutting great songs — the cream of the crop, and that continues to insure their success. Best cuts include "You'd Make An Angel Want To Cheat," "I'm Already Blue" "Put It Off Until Tomorrow" and the classic "I Take The Chance."

SPECIAL DELIVERY — Dottie West — United Artists LT-1000 — Producers: Brent Maher and Randy Goodrum — List: 7.98

Dottie is heard branching out here on more pop oriented songs. She has chosen as producers two songwriters who recorded six of their own tunes on this album. The result is a very listenable album with best cuts including "All He Did Was Tell Me Lies," "You Pick Me Up (And Put Me Down)" "We've Got Tonight," and "Blue As I Want To."

GOOD HEARTED WOMAN — Tina Turner — Wagner AW 14108 — Producer: Bob Scherl — List: 7.98

Most people don't think of Tina Turner as a country artist, which is understandable because she isn't. However, on this album she records a collection of country songs in her own unique style and the result is an album many country programmers and listeners will enjoy. Best cuts include "If This Is Our Last Time," "We Had It All," "Soul Deep" and "Freedom To Stay."

NOBODY BUT YOU — Charlie Rich — UA-LT-998 — Producer: Larry Butler — List: 7.98

This is Rich's most pop influenced effort to date. MOR and progressive country stations should have a field-day with this appealing package of 10 songs. Rich's vocals are delectably smooth, his piano and lush strings the perfect compliments. He does a particularly good job on cuts "Love Is A Cold Wind," "Nobody But You," and he tips his hat to earlier hit "Behind Closed Doors" on the cut "Let Me Touch Where She's Been."

A CHRISTMAS TOGETHER — John Denver and the Muppets — RCA AFL-1-3451 — Producer: Milton Okun — List: 7.98

An unbeatable combination — the Muppets are hot as baked potatoes right now — and Denver — well, he's got a force of fans that instantly insures a good selling LP. Programmers can't go wrong with any of these cuts — each will add a bit of Christmas cheer to any play list. Cuts include "Twelve Days Of Christmas," which allows Miss Piggy and the whole crew to get in on the act in typical Muppet fashion. "The Peace Carol" and a fun version of the Beach Boys "Little Saint Nick."

PRETTY PAPER — Willie Nelson — Columbia-JC-36189 — Producer: Booker T. Jones — List: 7.98

What could be more fun than spending Christmas with Willie Nelson? His Christmas release allows you to do just that. The LP is a 12-song collection of some very traditional Christmas carols, including "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer," "Here Comes Santa Claus," "Silent Night, Holy Night," and "Christmas Blues," all crafted in beautiful Nelson fashion.

CMA WELCOMES AMBASSADOR — Chinese Ambassador Chai Zemin recently visited Nashville and was greeted at the airport by representatives of the Country Music Assn. The ambassador's wife, Li Youfeng, was presented by the group with a bouquet of flowers at

THE COUNTRY COLUMN

A LITTLE BIT COUNTRY? — When Elton John played the Opry House last Nov. 7, a passle of fans showed up to see the inimitable piano player, including fellow MCA artists Brenda Lee, Don Williams, John Wesley Ryles and Bill Golden of the Oak Ridge Boys. Could it be that Elton is leaning a bit toward the country sound? He rendered a great version of the late Jim Reeves classic, "He'll Have To Go," a song Elton did a lot back in the younger days of his career. While chatting after the concert, lyricist Gary Osborne ("Single Man" LP) hinted that John might be doing a couple of new country songs on his next album, which he described as a very "Elton John" undertaking.

Why not give those songs the total Nashville influence and utilize one of the local studios, and maybe even one of the local producers (calm down Chancey). Of course, to reach the die-hard country fans, Elton might have to change his name, say maybe to Elvin Johnny, and get rid of the vinyl suit for a nice little something in denim.

CIRCULATING ROUND . . . The Exit/In has changed managerial hands once again, and rumors are flying about Music Row that the city's premier showcase club will become a restaurant. Egad! Not so says the Exit's Steve Grover. There may be something new in the offing (like expansion, etc.) but the musical format will remain the same.

The Oak Ridge Boys have been signed to star in a two-hour NBC special, "Salute To The Jukebox Years." The special, set to air in mid-January will be produced and directed by Stan Harris, while Bob Stivers is executive producer.

After such an illustrious career, what does Ronnie Milsap say he'd still like to do? In a recent interview, Milsap stated that he wants "to try and help some unknown artist make the big break in his or her career." There are probably several struggling artists out there who would take you up on that offer, Ronnie.

Janie Fricke has completed work on her upcoming album, "From the Heart."

Cristy Lane recently made her debut appearance at the Grand Ole Opry, performing two songs. The singer will also be returning to Germany for the second time in little more than a year on March 27, 1980 to perform at the German Festival in Frankfurt. Following that performance, Lane will make her debut appearance at the Wembley Festival.

The Bellamy Brothers will leave Nov. 26 for a seven-day New Zealand tour.

Big Al Downing and John Anderson will each take part in WPOR/Portland's "Our Country Music Awards Show."

Kenny Dale has signed with Jim Halsey's Thunderbird Agency.

Singer Mary K. James has signed with Gusto Records. Her first release, "The Last Days of Our Love," is scheduled to ship this week.

AND YOU THINK YOU GET JUNK MAIL? — We don't know who sent this press release (but we've got a pretty darn good idea), and we just know it ain't so . . . but here goes. According to unconfirmed and totally unreliable sources, Don Schlitz is the newly elected president of ASCAP, while Paul Adler assumes the post of public relations director. Adler noted that the movement is being bolstered with the naming of Gerald Marks as operations director and Irving Berlin as head of the Progress Committee . . . Some people will do anything to get their name in print.

STILL HAPPILY ON THE ROAD are Moe Bandy and Joe Stampley, pursuing a series of dates throughout the midwest during November.

Jimmy C. Newman and Floyd Cramer were busy taping the syndicated Air Force Radio Show last week.

Charley Pride will soon be recording a tribute to one of his earliest influences, Hank Williams. Titled "I Got A Lot Of Hank In Me," the material on the LP will be Hank Williams' songs, with the exception of the title cut, which Pride has specially written.

Tom T. Hall's new book, The Storyteller's Nashville, is receiving some rather good reviews, particularly from the New York Times. Says the Times of the book "has none of the saccharine piety that often mars country music. The stories he tells about his early years in Nashville as a songwriter are often raunchy and hilarious . . . etc."

Congrats to Buck Trent and Fay Watson, married in Las Vegas Nov. 13.

Songwriters Rick Kiang and Paul Craft recently participated as guest lecturers in the Survey of the Recording Industry class at Middle Tennessee State University, where they collaborated on a discussion about the business of songwriting.

Ronnie Prophet has been tapped to do a four-part mini-series for the BBC-TV in England next month titled "Ronnie Prophet Entertains." That, he does.

Chip Brooks of the Berry Hill Group isn't letting any cat out of the bag, but he's certainly hinting that there's something new happening with Freddy Weller. Is Weller perhaps trying to shed the ingenue image? Brooks isn't talking. But he does say that Freddy's music is taking on a new appearance — "he's incorporating synthesizers into his sound. It's still jukebox country, except it's more electrifying, power country." Buzz Cason has a big hand in the new LP, which should be released sometime in January.

Nashville Community Plays Host To Visiting Chinese Ambassador Zemin

NASHVILLE — The Chinese Ambassador to the United States visited Nashville Nov. 9-11 as the guest of the Country Music Assn. Chai Zemin, his wife Li Youfeng and their party were guests at a number of functions hosted by Nashville music industry figures and politicians.

Members of the CMA's planning and development committee — Joe Talbot, Irving Waugh and chairperson Frances Preston — were instrumental in coordinating the ambassador's trip to Nashville. The event was part of the organization's overall development of a plan to take country music to China.

Ambassador Zemin and his party arrived in Nashville on Friday, Nov. 9 to attend a dinner and reception that evening, hosted by Broadcast Music, Inc. (BMI) executives Frances Preston and Ed Cramer. The dinner concluded with a special performance by one of the ambassador's favorite country artists, Barbara Mandrell, a CMA board member, and recently named 1979 Female Vocalist of the Year.

The following morning, the Ambassador attended a brunch at the Tennessee governor's mansion. In absence of Governor Lamar Alexander, Lt. Governor John Wilder acted as host. Larry Gatlin and the Gatlin Brothers and Mark Bennett provided the entertainment. Later the Chinese entourage toured the Country Music Hall of Fame and Museum, where the Ambassador was presented a written account of the history of country music that had been translated into Chinese.

New Country Christmas Albums Will Number Only Two For This Season

by Jennifer Bohler

NASHVILLE — The market will be anything but over saturated as the flurry of new country Christmas album releases totals only two — RCA's "A Christmas Together," by John Denver and the Muppets, and CBS's "Pretty Paper," by Willie Nelson. Six of the nine labels queried by Cash Box plan to reissue old product, which will bring the number of Christmas LPs on the market to 17.

The ratio of new Christmas singles to reissues is much the same — one new single, United Artist's "First Christmas," by Sandra Steele (which will be released across the board) out of the nine singles reported as released.

All of the Christmas product is out and on the streets now, with the possible exception of the Steele single, which is scheduled to be released this week.

RCA is leading the way with Christmas releases with 11 albums and six singles. Besides the new Denver product, RCA has reissued the following albums: John Denver's "Rocky Mountain Christmas," "Christmas With Eddie Arnold," Jim Reeves' "Twelve Songs of Christmas," "Christmas With Danny Davis and the Nashville Brass," Charley Pride's "Christmas In My Home Town," "Christmas With Chet Atkins," "Elvis Sings Wonderful

Play On William's Life Opens In United States

NASHVILLE — After a successful run in Canada, the musical play "Hank Williams: The Show He Never Gave" is set to open in the United States. The star of the show is Canadian musician Sneezy Waters.

The show is produced by Wesley Rose, head of Acuff-Rose, (Williams' publishing company), Robin McNeil and Dawn Harwood-Jones. It is directed by Peter Froehlich and was written by Maynard Collins.

Acuff-Rose, under the direction of Wesley Rose, has established a new firm, Later, the entire party visited the Hermitage, home of U.S. President Andrew Jackson, and toured CBS recording studios.

One of the highlights of the group's visit was attending a performance of the Grand Ole Opry. Upon introduction, Ambassador Zemin received a standing ovation, and commented, "It is a great honor for me to be at the Grand Ole Opry, the home of country music. I feel immersed in the warmth of your friendship." Roy Acuff presented the ambassador with a book about the Opry, while the ambassador gave Acuff a handpainted bamboo scroll. At a dinner held in honor of the delegation later that night, comedienne Minnie Pearl invited the ambassador to join her in an old fashioned country square dance.

Hall Brunch

On Sunday, the ambassador was the guest of honor at a brunch hosted by Tom T. Hall, who presented the dignitary with a recording of his band's country and western version of "The East Is Red," a Chinese national song. Johnny Cash, who was also a guest, presented Ambassador Zemin with his own guitar as a memento of the trip to Nashville. Country artists Jim and Jesse, Jimmy C. Newman as well as Hall and Cash performed at the brunch.

"I came to Nashville to find out more about America's culture," Zemin said. "Country music is not only famous here, but internationally as well. It reflects the lives of American people and is also the music of the working class of the world."

World of Christmas," Floyd Cramer's "We Wish You A Merry Christmas," and two various artists collections.

RCA's single releases include Elvis' "Blue Christmas" and "If Every Day Was Like Christmas," Jim Reeves' "Blue Christmas," Chet Atkins' "Jingle Bell Rock," Charley Pride's "Christmas In My Home Town," and Willie Nelson's "Pretty Paper," which CBS has released on the Willie Nelson album.

The lucky keyed persons walked away with all the prizes in the treasure chest in which the key fit. Over 30,000 people viewed the haunted house and contributed over $45,000 to the March of Dimes, according to WEEP MD Barry Mardit.

Watson Boasts First #1; Rogers Has Third Highest Debut In History

NASHVILLE — Gene Watson reached a career milestone this week as his single "Should I Come Home (Or Should I Go Crazy)" went to #1 bullet on the Cash Box Top 100 Country Chart. It is his first #1 record.

3rd Highest

Also, Kenny Rogers' new single, "Coward of the County," this week is the third highest debuter in the history of the Cash Box chart, entering at #24 bullet. Rogers is topped only by Jim Ed Brown and Helen Cornelius' single, "Lying In Love With You," which debuted at #20 bullet on March 31, 1979, and the Johnny Cash and Waylon Jennings single "There Ain't No Good Chain Gang," which debuted at #22 bullet on May 27, 1978.

Roger's single was added by 75% of the country tracking stations.

Webster Corp., and one of the principle figures involved in developing the syndication.

The program is available to stations on a barter basis. National sponsors to date include Anheuser-Busch, Nissan Motor Company (Datsun) and the Lee Company.

CRI To Use Indie Distributions For Latin Product In U.S.

Chaimowitz explained that Discos was bypassing the CBS branch system primarily because "we're marketing ethnic product, for which you need specialists who speak Spanish and have a feel for the merchandise." He said these needs, at present, could not be met within the branch system at CBS, due in part to the fact that "this will mark the first time the CBS international division is selling in the U.S."

Growth Potential

The label's roster, Chaimowitz said, would consist of "those artists we have developed in our Latin America or Spanish subsidiaries that have the potential for growth in the domestic market." For example, he cited such artists as Julio Iglesias, Roberto Carlos, Vicente Fernandez, Miguel Bose, Victor Manuel, and Claudio de Colombia. Initially, he said, the label will market only CRI Latin product; but, he added, it is conceivable that the company could record its major Latin artists, such as Iglesias, in other languages (specifically French and Italian). He noted that CRI has negotiated the rights to the new Iglesias album from Alhambra, and that the artist's 12 catalog LPs on the label will revert to CRI, effective Jan. 1.

Discos CBS International's logo is now being designed, and the label is planning to ship new LPs by Roberto Carlos and Albert Hammond next month. Ultimately, Chaimowitz said, the company would implement a worldwide release schedule, possibly by the third quarter of next year.

"We are entering the U.S. Latin American market in a way that has not been done in the past," he emphasized. "We are prepared to make a full commitment to our artists at the radio, print, and television levels, and to support their releases with a broad range of merchandising materials." He said the company would launch its initial marketing and promotional campaign to promote its first release in January.

Marketing Structure

Chaimowitz, who will oversee a staff of between 30-34 people, has devised a marketing structure that revolves around eastern and western sales/promotion managers. The eastern manager will assume responsibility for major markets east of the Mississippi, such as New York, Chicago, Miami, and Puerto Rico, while the western manager will concentrate on markets west of the Mississippi, with a particular emphasis on territories in Arizona, California, Colorado, New Mexico, and Texas. Reporting to these executives will be eight to ten local representatives who will service both radio stations and retail accounts. Chaimowitz said that dual functions of this sort are prevalent in most Latin American markets.

In addition to a financial and administrative staff, the label will also retain personnel for a small warehouse in Miami. Other product will be stored at CBS' Santa Maria, Calif. and Pittman, N.J. plants.

The announcement of key label executives was not disclosed. However, as previously reported, Steve Diener, executive vice president of creative operations, Latin American Operations for CBS Records International, will oversee the marketing of Discos product.

Tubb Gets First Gold

LOS ANGELES — Ernest Tubb received the first gold record of his 50-year performing career recently, when "Ernest Tubb: The Legend and The Legacy" achieved gold status in Canada. The LP is on the Cachet Records label.

Country Music Calendar Available From CMF

It includes the birth and death dates for many country music performers and businessmen, a chronology of historical events, facts about country music songs, and much more information that will interest country music fans and scholars alike.

Subcommittee Tackles Cable, C'right Issues

Ringer. Apparently, she said, the "very simple procedural requirements and a very modest royalty fee" of $8 per box per year, which the industry accepted in a compromise, are not being observed.

While Ringer stated, "I have no argument with the AMOA," the rest of the coin machine industry is a target of her criticism. "Less than half and perhaps as few as one-fourth of the jukeboxes in the U.S. have been licensed in accordance with the copyright law," she said. This lack of compliance indicates criminal, willful infringement of copyright, she observed, and "this is a matter that should be of concern not only to law enforcement officials but to the subcommittee responsible for the legislation."

Subcommittee, for the most part, showed minimal enthusiasm for the hearing, asked the obligatory questions and admitted ignorance on the more technical aspects of the cable issue. Rep. George Danielson (D.-Calif.), author of H.R. 997, listened politely to the testimony but indicated there is no rush to make legislative changes. The CRT seems to be sufficient although it may need broader powers, he agreed, but "perhaps we ought to resist the temptation to tinker with the Copyright Act."

THE RHYTHM SECTION

RUMOR HAS IT — Kenny Gamble and producer Jeff Lane have been discussing doing some business together. Maybe we will now have "The Mighty Four."

MUSIC DIRECTOR PROFILE — David Lombard, music director at WVOL in Nashville went to Nashville to attend school, with the general idea in his head that he would be working towards a career as an attorney. Once he got to Nashville, he became influenced by two radio announcers at WVOL, Clarence Kilcrease, (who called himself "Gilly Baby," and is now that station's general manager) and Steve Crumbley (who called himself "Seventh Son," and now programs WILD in Boston). He made no effort to get into radio at that time until a friend who was putting together a station at Fisk University, WRFN, approached him. That friend, Bobby Bass explained that he could get involved with the station, and still attend school for graduate courses. "Bobby approached me just at the time I was all set to go into law school. I started to work with him, and decided to stay in radio," Lombard explained. "The 2½ years that I worked at WRFN, I also worked with Carol Carper, and we developed a type of camaraderie that develops when people are new at something," explained Lombard. Realizing that he seriously wanted to make broadcasting his career, Lombard finally decided to get into the real world of radio, and applied to several stations in the Nashville area. He was hired at WVOL. He has been at that station for 4½ years, and feels that during that time he has grown even stronger in programming under the auspices of his present PD, Fred Harvey, who he lauds for giving him the knowledge that he has gained about programming research and formats.

ARTISTS ACTIVITY — Barry White's teenage son is already carving a slot for himself in the industry. It seems that the senior White was recently unable to make a recording session appointment and the contractor had already booked all of the musicians. So he told Barry Jr. who had been working with his father to some degree, to see what he could do. In the end, Barry Jr. has produced three songs on his father's upcoming album that is scheduled to be released in January. Look for the album entitled "Ray, Goodman and Brown," which is being shipped next week, and is by Harry Ray, Al Goodman and Billy Brown (formerly the Moments). The threesome have included some interesting dance-oriented songs, but also devote an entire side of their album to the soft ballads that have been popular for over ten years. The trio is presently making arrangements for their performing tour which should commence in January. Talks that are now in progress may put the trio on the road with Peaches and Herb, who they ironically worked with when they got involved in the business ten years ago. Along with their new single, "Hot Fun," The Sweet Inspiration's also have a new addition to the trio, replacing Gloria Brown. Pat Terry, who was previously with the trio, has re-joined the group, and will be appearing with them on all upcoming tours. Terry recorded several songs with them on their present album, so she is simply back in the family. She is a very talented singer and dancer, who performed with Ann Margret's back-up group in her absence from the Sweet Inspiration.

SOME NEW ADDITIONS TO THE FUNK CREW — George Clinton's well publicized retirement from the Parliament/Funkadelic clan only includes him getting away from road duties. Clinton has been quoted as saying that he has so many studio obligations that he

DISCO BREAKS

NEXT, IT WILL BE A 78 — ZE Records' "Deputy Of Love," the new 12" by Don Armando's 2nd Avenue Rhumba Band, seems to be an endless generator of interesting if not earth-shattering news in the industry. It all started when Disco Breaks unknowingly reviewed the 45 RPM 12" at 33 1/3 speed and described the song as an extremely slow, mini-BPM dance number. That generated a good deal of amused phone calls, including one from ZE's Brad Mason LeBeau. LeBeau, the label's director of dance music promotion, said that jocks in Philly were playing "Deputy Of Love" at 33 1/3 because they liked the song slow. Philly DJ Bill Kennedy of the Second Story disco was reputedly the first to break the disc at 33 1/3 and the speed caught on so well that "Deputy" is currently #6 on regional charts there. Meanwhile, Arista's Audrey Joseph called to say she wanted to personally thank Chicago

Melba Moore

DJ Paul Drake for alerting her to the fact that the B side, which happens to be "Deputy Of Love," was the superior cut. When this bit of gratitude was printed in Disco Breaks two weeks ago, Chicago area DJs were furious because they too had urged the label and its distributor to go with the B side. For the record, some of the other Chicago jocks responsible for breaking "Deputy Of Love" in addition to Drake are Frank Lipomi, Frank Knuckles, Michael Graber, Peter Lewicki, Stu Kahn, Michael Hearn and Paul Weisberg, president of the I.R.S. pool.

SPLASHES IN THE POOLS — Cosmo Wyatt, president of the New England Disco DJs Association, headquartered in Boston, reports that there is now a "healthy atmosphere" between his pool and the rival (and larger) Boston Record Pool. The New England pool is planning a series of parties the first week of December at various area clubs to celebrate the organization's first anniversary. Disco artists scheduled to perform at the parties have not been announced. . . . Stuart Kahn of the Independent Record Service pool in Chicago seems to be an unofficial promoter for at least one piece of RCA product. On his own, Stuart has been taking the new Hall & Oates album around to area jocks and asking them to play the "Running From Paradise" track off the LP. Since then, such favorable reports on dance floor response have gotten back to RCA, that the label has decided to release a 12" disco-fied version of the track on Nov. 27.

PARTYTIME — First there were roller discos, then rock discos and now . . . bowling discos? Apparently, Thanksgiving is being celebrated a day late at Todds Bowling disco in Detroit. More information next week on the joys and dangers of boogieing with a bowling ball. The Thanksgiving event will also double as a birthday party for the club DJ, Duane Bradley. . . . Unlike the rest of the country, which seems to have all but shut down for the holiday, Chicago area clubs have a full roster of parties scheduled. Hotter Than Hell Productions is throwing a party entitled "Savage" Nov. 21 at Carol's Speakeasy with regular DJ Mike Graber spinning. That same night Gilda Radner's opening at the Arie Crown Theater will be celebrated with a cast party at George's Place, a near north disco, with Peter Lewicki as host and DJ for the event. The following day, the energetic Lewicki will throw a private party for 15 area DJs. After the party, his guests will attend Radner's "Live From New York" show. The Radner-related festivities are being coordinated by DJ Dennis Lopez, who is also the comedienne's promoter. The date is not definite yet, but some time in December, Carol's Speakeasy will host a party to benefit the Christmas gift-giving organization, Toys For Tots.

NEW CLUBS — Formerly Rumors and before that Wilbur's, Club Max has opened in Boston's Park Square with DJ Zino Amato spinning regularly. . . . More information later on a Boston disco called The Banyon. . . . Live disco and rock acts will perform at the Long Beach, Calif. disco, Noah's Ark. The teen disco has five dance floors and over 10,000 square feet. Club promoter Michael Del Rey is describing the disco as a Studio 54 for those under 21.

DISH — Charter members of L.A.'s private disco, Probe, have until Dec. 31 to renew their memberships. An interesting feature at the club is the Wednesday night buffet and film classics screenings. Studio One's regular DJ, Mike Lewis, who recently became a Cash Box reporter, has been guest dishing at Probe for the month of November along with regular DJ Frank Collins. . . . The Zanzibar disco in New Jersey was recently the "on-location" site for filming "Broadway," scheduled for an Easter release. . . . Jack Witherby, formerly of Ariola, has replaced Wes Bradley at Warner/RFC. Jack will be west coast representative for the NYC-based label. . . . Chuck Rush has moved over from Midsong to R.P.M., where he will be doing AOR and pop promotion. . . . Rock concert promoter Bill Graham has finally gotten into disco as part owner of The Roxy, a roller disco in NYC. . . . Yet

SYLVESTER — Can't Stop Dancing — Fantasy — 12"

The title is an accurate prediction of this tune's effect on dance enthusiasts. The complex, full arrangements which typify all Sylvester's releases are in evidence here. His signature falsetto also showcased. Sylvester's "mammoth" backup chorus, Two Tons of Fun, deliver their usual strong support. Touches of gospel no surprise, since Sylvester grew up singing in church. Time: 6:22

CLAUDJA BARRY — You Make Me Feel The Fire — Chrysalis CBS 2389 — 12"

Claudja holds on to her title as queen of the BPMs with this one. Her earlier "Boogie Woogie Dancin' Shoes" spearheaded the fast beat movement, and "You Make Me Feel The Fire" is a perfect follow up. Barry's opera-trained voice comes out pure and clear, something which can't always be said of other disco divas. Revival meeting flavor of music a nice, ironic contrast to the erotic, practically orgasmic, content of the lyrics. Off the forthcoming, much-anticipated LP. Not enough at 3:58

INNER LIFE — "I'm Caught Up" — Prelude PRLD 519 — 12"

Sweet, lilting melody highlights this mellow R&B/dance number. Spirited female vocalists get down with infectious hand-clapping backed by funky bass. Kick drum intro guaranteed to get them out on the dance floor. Time: 7:54.

THP — Good To Me — Atlantic SD 19257 — LP

Synthesizer and horns team to turn out an instant classic in the eurodisco style. Title track will be good to disco DJs also, as this multi-BPM dance offering fills the hall. Leadsinger's chatty vocal stylings distinctive and satisfying. Best bet on album is "Two Hearts, One Love," which despite its ballad sounding title is spirited, up-tempo and unadulterated disco.

Christianson Thriving

to be tacitly granted, at least in the late '60s and early 70s, to the performers by their often adoring college fans.

Christianson has a collection of such anecdotes from his college concert career, but the most outrageous memory has to do with what happened off-stage.

Michael Johnson, who began his association with Christianson when the latter was with Beacon, had just finished several concert dates in Illinois and was on his way to another performance 400 miles away in Wisconsin. It was the dead of winter and Johnson's car broke down right at the state border.

He put in a call to his manager, Christianson, and was told to take a cab in order to make the concert date. "That was a $1500 cab ride," Christianson remembers with a laugh.

Longevity typifies Christianson's relationship with his artists. "I don't sign five-year contracts. On the average, I manage the same artist for about 10 to 11 years. We think of it as true career development. It's not primarily a money relationship, but a belief in the artist."

Sanskrit Label

More recently, manager Christianson has become record producer and label president. His Pickwick distributed Sanskrit label has Michael Johnson as its first artist.

Asked about his ultimate career plans, he seems to downplay his role as a producer and emphasize his longer career as a manager. "I'm not a cocktail waitress looking to be a star. I enjoy management. I'm interested in the business of management. I've never been particularly business-oriented."

NEWS CRUISE — Hank LeConti will open two new Agora rock clubs, in Ft. Lauderdale and Tampa, Florida, before the end of the year. That will make seven clubs for the fast-growing chain. . . . Well, it's her statement: In the December issue of Ladies Home Journal Dolly Parton says, "I look like a fifties hooker." If she saw someone dressed like herself, claims the busy Ms. P., she'd think "Good Lord, look at that gaudy, awful lookin' person." . . . Humble Pie will have an album out on Atco early next year. No, Peter Frampton is not rejoining the group. . . . Also on Atco, the debut album by Garrison And Van Dyke is shipping this week. Rlnua Garrison was the bass player for Golden Earring. . . . James Chance, the New York underground rock singer who beats up people in his audiences, meets George Clinton, the space man who brought the Funkadelic

Motherhood from Newark to Nebraska, in the November issue of New York Rocker. . . . Pink Floyd's new album, due by Thanksgiving, will be a double record set called "The Wall," produced by Bob Ezrin. . . . One of the strategies used by Columbia to break J.D. Souther, according to Arram Andon, the label's vice president of artist development, was to have his club act broadcast on local stations in nearly every city on his recent tour. . . . Not to be outdone, Polydor has substituted the name of 50 different local landmarks and cities on copies of "Dirty Water" by the Inmates. . . . John Phillips, former member of the Mamas & Papas, is collaborating with his daughter, TV star Mackenzie Phillips, on material for her debut album. Showcase

"The show not only gives us a chance to showcase our artists, but also serves as a great vehicle for the labels to promote their own acts," noted Klingman, who has recorded solo albums for Capitol and EMI/Bovema and is a former member of Todd Rundgren's Utopia. "The majors are obviously aware of the exposure cable can provide them." He added that the potential marriage between "quality cable programming and stereo simulcasting will open up a new avenue for breaking artists on a continuing basis." Ultimately, Klingman said he foresees marketing "The Best of Manhattan Alley" in videocassette form.

Future Programs

"Manhattan Alley" is shown Tuesdays at 10:30 p.m. on Channel 10 and Wednesdays at 10:30 p.m. and Fridays at 1:00 a.m. on Channel J. Future programs include: Rick Derringer, Orleans, and Merle Miller (Nov. 20 and 23); Joe Jackson, the Police, and Fashion (Nov. 27 and 30); New England, Krystal Kidd, and Ellen Foley (Dec. 4 and 7); Spyro Gyra, Miller, and Moogy Klingman we're going ahead as planned, ceiling or no ceiling."

Evan Lasky, president of the Budget Record and Tape chain, commented. "It won't affect me at all. I can live with those percentages." Ben Karol, head of the New York-based King Karol chain, took the same view as Lasky, and predicted that Polygram's move would be "prophetic" and would be followed by other distributors.

David Crockett, head of the Father's and Sun's retail chains said. "I'm not sure the move is that significant, but it's nice to know they're listening and responding to the needs of their accounts. The fact is, unless you get cleaned up, it's not going to work."

simply must stop touring. Clinton's plan is to not only record the Parliament and Funkadelic, but also other artists that they will have on his own label, Uncle Jam Records that he is currently organizing. And in case you have been wondering, yes, that was former Spinner Phillipe Wynne on "Knee Deep" and you also may have noticed the sound of former E, W&F lead vocalist Jessica Cleaves on that same tune. Both these veteran artists will be performing with Parliament/Funkadelic, and there are also plans of them doing individual efforts for the new label.

CORRECTION — Last week's column incorrectly indicated that the new album by War, "War, The Music Band 2" included a compilation song of three titles. "Don't Take It Away," "The World Is A Ghetto" and "Night People." In reality, these are three different songs and "Don't Take It Away" is the first single.

Ozawa Claims Union Rules Limit Recording Repertoire

by Ken Terry

NEW YORK — Seiji Ozawa, music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has a problem. He would like to conduct more 18th Century works by composers like Mozart and Haydn, but, unfortunately, he must synchronize his programming with the requirements of the record companies (DG, Philips and Columbia) for which the Boston Symphony records, and, under American union agreements, works that require less than the full orchestra — including most 18th Century music — may only be recorded by special arrangement.

Interviewed before a recent Carnegie Hall engagement with the BSO, Ozawa commented, "If I want to make this record, I have to go to Europe, because all the Mozart and Haydn recordings are done there. When we do it here, it's very tricky, because we have to do it on overtime. We do a big symphony in three hours, and the fourth hour, we only call half the orchestra and do the Mozart. We have done things like the Mozart Clarinet Concerto with Buddy Wright, our clarinet soloist, and the Mozart Bassoon Concerto with our great bassoon player, Sherman Walt. We did record it, but kind of at the end of a session — so the recording company doesn't lose big money, and doing this in America is impossible.

"I hope some clever man in the union or the recording company can find a way so we can hear Boston Symphony Mozart Symphony recordings, or Chicago Symphony Mozart and Haydn. There is none in the last 15 years. If there is one, perhaps that recording is very special, and they made a very clear arrangement so they could make the recording at the end of a recording session.

Ozawa admits that he has not programmed much Mozart and Haydn with the Boston Symphony. But with such orchestras as the Toronto Symphony, the San Francisco Symphony, and the NHK Orchestra in Japan, Ozawa says, he conducted plenty of 18th century works.

"The Boston Symphony is only six years of my career," he points out. "And I'm more busy with recording now. If I'm conducting twelve programs, and six go for recording purpose, there's no room for 18th Century works... I used to do about five or six new Haydn symphonies in the San Francisco season. To do that in Boston, you have to really push on this issue, and say, 'We have to do Haydn,' or, 'Is it really true that we care to do Mozart?' Isn't it terrible? There was a movement a few years ago to try to change it, but they don't change it, and so we suffer, and all those recordings! How many recordings do American orchestras lose because of that? And you know who's getting nice work? London orchestras get it, and the German orchestras get it."

Born In China

Ozawa, who was born in Shenyang, China in 1935 to Japanese parents, studied both Western and Oriental music as a child. He later graduated from Tokyo's Toho School of Music with first prizes in com-

Jethro Tull

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK — The stage and costumes for Jethro Tull's performance at MSG were designed as lavishly as the production and arrangements of the group's latest Chrysalis album, "Stormwatch." At a time when new artists are characterized by pop at its most elemental, Tull's uniqueness lies in the group's highly developed, almost classical sense of modes and harmonies.

After 11 years of performing, the group proved it could still pack Madison Square Garden with what appeared to be a new generation of enthusiastic fans. But the enthusiasm, which manifested itself with raised flutes, banners and portraits of group leader Ian Anderson, has its consequences. During the course of a new song, "Dark Ages," a rose was thrown at Anderson, and as was later reported its thorn scarred his eye. But Anderson demonstrated his professionalism by finishing the show without further mention, though the next night's performance had to be cancelled.

The show was an ingratiating blend of old and new. The lyrics to "Something's On The Move" evoked the Cream's "Tales Of Brave Ulysses" with its surreal images of a dazzling woman, while the group's classic "Aqualung" featured a blistering drum solo by Barriemore Barlow. For "Bouree" and "Fat Man," Anderson used tape loops to set up tasteful harmonies with himself. With full audience participation, the group closed with "Thick As A Brick."

The group encored with "Too Old To Rock And Roll," followed by "Crossed-Eyed Mary," which was highlighted by a fiery exchange of riffs between Anderson and longtime Tull guitarist Martin Barre.

For the group's second encore, Barre delivered "Minstrel In The Gallery," which included a highly percussive guitar solo. Meanwhile, Anderson, who had been hiding behind stage monitors, suddenly reappeared and hurled two giant balloons into the audience which burst upon contact, leaving befuddled onlookers showered with white talc. It was a finale that offered ample evidence of why the group recently won an award as one of Madison Square Garden's top attractions.

Supertramp

WEMBLEY ARENA, LONDON — As part of their current "Breakfast In Europe" tour, the Supertramp machine pulled into London for five nights recently. Billed "Breakfast In London" they performed to capacity audiences on each night and came away confirming the massive appeal that this superb band continues to hold over many ardent rock fans.

The Supertramp show deftly presented a lush musical package with precision and clean efficiency, which to some major London rock critics appeared sterile, came across to the majority of exhilarated fans as a bout of pure unadulterated pleasure. With brilliant lighting and a simple stage set revealing a garden table and chairs as a 3D logo tributing their "Crisis What Crisis" LP, the band worked through their musical autobiography spanning six LPs and a decade.

Very soon after their opening they launched into some prime pieces from their latest record offering, "Breakfast In America." Highlights included the title track, "The Logical Song" and "Just Another Nervous Wreck." The main impetus of the five-star musicians' appeal seems to lie in their ability to deliver a high synthesis containing the best kind of American technique and expertise along with some of the very best English musical imagination. This cross-pollination of Anglo-America resulted in the sort of machine-like gloss and technical polish always associated with English musicians who take up residence in the States and who become capable of gleaning the best from two cultures.

They performed pieces from each major LP released on A&M through the seventies, including songs from "Crime Of The Century," "Crisis What Crisis," "Even In The Quietest Moments" and "Breakfast In America." Highlights which particularly lifted the audience into ecstasy included the symphonic "Fool's Overture" from "Even In The Quietest Moments," which played along to an art-collage movie projected onto a screen behind the band. The title track from the same album also peaked audience excitement, as each member of the band, who were all in fine form, gave vent to the sort of symphonic art rock which through its cleverly structured balance of classical and contemporary music forms, never grows old.

Bonnie Raitt

PALLADIUM, NYC — Bonnie Raitt's recent show here proved that she is among the finest concert performers currently pounding the boards. The Warner Bros. artist had everything going her way. She was in fine voice, her slide guitar work showed finesse and emotion, and her back-up band was tight and versatile. During the regular set, the ensemble didn't miss a cue.

Pacing and between-song banter matters far more than many performers realize. Bonnie Raitt immediately established a friendly, sincere rapport with the capacity audience. Musically, she chose her material wisely. The first few tunes were up-tempo gutbucket boppers, highlighted by the Sam and Dave classic, "I Thank You." The song also appears on her new LP, "The Glow."

Some mellower songs followed, with the new title tune a stand-out. Overall, the concert changed emotional directions at just the right moments.

Bonnie's five-piece back-up band was superb: they were among the tightest groups I've ever heard. Guitarist Will McFarlane, bassist (and Catfish Hodge producer) Freebo, and drummer Dennis Whitted were particularly notable. They can cook or soothe with equal aplomb. On the rousers, McFarlane played with a passion that belied his laid-back L.A. image.

The single most remarkable characteristic of the show was Bonnie Raitt's voice. She possesses a range and breath control seldom heard in rock. Succinctly, the lady can sing! This was especially apparent on the slower, more melancholy numbers.

The tweedy, non-safety-pinned audience reacted passionately to Bonnie and crew. I've rarely seen people so genuinely enthusiastic. Their ecstatic reaction to the three encores proved that their expectations had been more than satisfied.

For the second encore, Bonnie was joined by Orleans founder and M.U.S.E. mover John Hall. Later, she was also joined by members of the impressive opening act, Lamont Cranston.

All in all, a very impressive concert.

Sonny Rollins

BOTTOM LINE, N.Y. — Gasp! That's the reaction of a hard-nosed jazz journalist after experiencing an evening with the premier tenor saxophonist of his age. Sonny Rollins has been doing it for decades when more than a relative few — all the jazz fans in the world — enjoyed his offerings. His concert appearances were few, his retirements legendary, and his hair style erratic. But his musicianship was never in doubt, and after a bout with disco, he's back playing fierce, driving, intense jazz music.

He ate ground glass for breakfast, as they say. His opening number was vicious in attack. His rhythm section, especially drummer Al Foster, poured it on as he did the entire evening. Pianist Mark Soskin soloed with the same concentration that his leader demonstrated. Jerome Harris rounded out the rhythm section on electric bass guitar.

It was raw energy, and we were told he did it this way for four shows on two nights. The intensity continued with the first of two calypso numbers, "Little Lu." The second, "Don't Stop The Carnival," completed the regular portion of the show. The milestone recording artist showed his taste for electronics when he played the first chorus of Ellington's "In A Sentimental Mood" on Lyricon. Later, he took long a cappella choruses on tenor, calling up more invention than most musicians ever learn. It was guts-laden and bowel-growling and it didn't stop there. With the first of many sustained ovations, he virtually threw away the title cut from his latest album, "Don't Ask" only to barrel into the classic "Tenor Madness" from his own pen, featuring yet another unaccompanied solo of longer and stronger duration. Then came the encores, at first to "get rid" of the audience and their penchant for standing applause, and then building the heat and flame of his previous numbers. By the time it was over, Sonny Rollins had left no doubt that his is indeed the musician's musician.

Melba Moore

STUDIO ONE, L.A. — Although Melba Moore's recent recording career has been centered around disco, her live performance at Studio One's cabaret, The Backlot, demonstrates that she can handle a variety of musical formats, including Broadway, pop and R&B.

The diminutive singer with the powerhouse voice frequently exhibited her four-octave-plus vocal range on such covers of Bill Withers' "Lean On Me," The Beatles' "Long And Winding Road," and Streisand's "Funny Girl."

The latter show tune from "Funny Girl" underlined Melba's Broadway roots, as did a medley of songs which she herself originated in "Purlie," "Hair," and "Timbuktu."

Her command of the audience was another matter. Usually a master of audience rapport, Moore this time practically had to beg her listeners to whistle, clap and sing along. Her patter between songs was overlong and approached garbality. It was not very funny either.

However, Melba Moore never claimed to be a stage comedienne. And when you have her pure soprano and mile-long vocal range, it doesn't really matter what you say — just how you sing it.

Robert Guillaume, former star of TV's "Soap" and currently playing the title role on "Benson," introduced the performer with a series of left-handed compliments which fit perfectly if somewhat uncomfortably his TV persona.

Moe Bandy and Joe Stampley

EXIT/IN, NASHVILLE — It was an inevitable matching. Moe Bandy and Joe Stampley complement each other like beer and pretzels, like a couple of good ol' boys.

For years these two artists have been enjoying separate successful careers and singing basically the same kind of cryin' in your beer, hard country music. Finally, someone recognized the obvious coupling and got the boys to record a duet, "Just Good Ol' Boys," which promptly bulleted up the charts. Based on the success of that single, Bandy and Stampley have recorded a duet album, which takes its name from the single. The set consisted of cuts from this album, plus several of their solo hits that the boys offered a capacity crowd.

Moe and Joe, backed by various members of their respective bands, opened the show together, and from the first moment, one had a very good idea what the evening had to offer — not only a sampling of solid country music, but a double dose of good-natured humor as well. The pair perform the antics of a straight man and his sidekick — Bandy is the soft-spoken Wally Cleaver while Stampley neatly assumes the persona of the silver-tongued Eddie Haskell.

The humorous asides are carried over into the music. Such Bandy/Stampley tunes as "Partners In Rhyme," "Tell Ole 1 Ain't Here, He Better Get On Home," and "Holding The Bag" were genuine jewels of the evening.

Doc Watson

ROYCE HALL, U.C.L.A. — Doc Watson, his son Merle and Michael Coleman recently performed at Royce Hall. There was the smooth polish of years of experience shining on Watson and company's presentation, evident in the tight vocal harmonies, easy guitar work and the relaxed stage manner that is the earmark of professionals.

There was also a superb choice of material. Doc Watson tells jokes and anecdotes relating to the songs, but it's his marvelous delivery that makes them so funny. The Doc talks about the old bluegrass numbers that they have adapted to their two-guitar and electric bass style, while endeavoring to preserve the original feel of the music.

But the consistency of the performance was only the foundation for the evocative powers of the music itself. The sound of those two guitars in harmony has an effect something like the sound of the wind fluttering through aspen leaves or the conversation between rocks and water of a mountain stream. Doc Watson, Merle Watson and Michael Coleman provided an opportunity for a musical vacation.

Bonnie Tyler Wins Grand Prix Title at Song Festival

TOKYO — The 1979 World Popular Song Festival here climaxed Nov. 11 with the 23-member international jury announcing the award-winning entries.

The grand prize for foreign entries was given to Bonnie Tyler of the United Kingdom. She sang "Sitting On The Edge Of The Ocean," which was composed by Ronnie Scott and Steve Wolfe. Recording group Crystal King won the grand prize for Japanese entries with a song by Michio Yamashita called "In The City Of Strangers."

More than 30,000 music fans attended the event at Nippon Budokan Hall.

The Most Outstanding Performance Award was given to Cissy Houston of the U.S. for her rendition of "You're The Fire," written by Phil Vear and Victor Davis.

Stage effects and decorations were installed to highlight this year's 10th anniversary of the festival. The show began Nov. 9 with an exhibition of state of the art laser technology.

Genichi Kawakami, president of the Yamaha Music Foundation, which sponsors the annual song festival, delivered a brief opening speech. He stressed the role of music as an international means of communication knowing no barrier of nation or race.

After the speech, the contending artists were introduced.

The first two days of the three-day event were spent on semi-finals as entries came from 20 countries representing 31 songs.

Musical styles reflected their countries of origin, from Cissy Houston's "You're The Fire" to Mal's "Solamente Tu" to Yoichi Shibata's "Bring Me More Sake."

Pop Flamenco

Stage presentations rounded out the festivities. Spain's Maria Jimenez demonstrated pop flamenco, Japan's Takato Oyanagi acted the role of a thirsty layabout and Magic did a series of acrobatic feats.

Guest artist Eric Carmen performed a selection of rock and ballad numbers.

The 1979 World Popular Song Festival was co-sponsored by Japan's Foreign Ministry and the Tokyo Metropolitan Government. The Festival's main sponsor and organizer was the Yamaha Music Foundation.

Motown Inks Deal With Quality Label

by Kirk LaPointe

TORONTO — Coinciding nearly to the day of the label's most potentially lucrative album release in three years, Motown Records Inc. has signed a manufacturing-distribution-licensing deal with Quality Records of Canada, thus ending several months of speculation.

The deal was finalized only a handful of days after the Canadian release of Stevie Wonder's "The Secret Life Of Plants" album. While some observers are saying the Wonder disc may be put on the backburner by Quality, thus creating a void in the market once initial pressings have been scooped up by consumers, insiders at the company say a "re-prioritization" will insure adequate fill of second orders for the Wonder album.

The pact brings the Motown operations to Quality, after aborted attempts to secure deals with RCA, the now-defunct GRT, and other Canadian labels. The licensing arrangement with Motown makes two companies to fold in Canada in the last two months. GRT's demise was reported in Cash Box last month.

Charisma To PolyGram

A confirmation of an earlier speculative report has come this week with the news of Charisma Records signing a licensing agreement with PolyGram. Although GRT had held the label until it folded, PolyGram had announced the forthcoming release of the Tony Banks album, "A Curious Feeling," through their operations in late August. No word has yet come as to the status of Magnum Records, GRT's domestic label. It had been rumored the

INTERNATIONAL DATELINE

Argentina

BUENOS AIRES — Brazilian singer Elis Regina, who records for WEA International, is presently in Buenos Aires. Opening at the Bauen Hotel, she will tour the interior, then end the trip with three appearances at the Astral Theater. EMI recently released her first recording for WEA in Rio, titled "Essa Mulher."

CBS hosted still one more evening at the Bauen, this time introducing the second LP by Melodisc chanteuse Maria Martha Serra Lima, in whom the label has strong faith. Maria Martha performed for the gathering of news people, composers, other artists and special guests; and the company released a promotional EP with the main songs from the new LP for the radio stations. CBS is also working strongly on the new LP by Trio San Javier, a group with very good potential.

The first symposium for the promotion of Argentine music and against piracy, held Oct. 31, was termed "a strong success" by Ms. Nelida Lopez French, president of the Chamber of Music Publishers. Various points of view regarding better promotion of local product and the need for stringent measures against piracy were raised at the symposium, and although Argentina appears in the 10-25% branch in the IFPI (the international anti-piracy federation) charts, some of the participants at the symposium expressed the belief that the percentage is actually higher.

Microfon is releasing its summer LP, which, curiously, is tagged "Spring Hits." It happens that the sales results of these albums last longer than a season, but Mario Kaminsky, head of Microfon, decided not to skip a title. Kaminsky reported to Cash Box that October had been a "terrific" month, with sales much higher than the sluggish pace of August and September.

Phonogram has released an album of Eduardo Falu's biggest hits. Falu is one of the best known Argentinian folk artists. Chany Inchausti, in charge of Phonogram's folk A&R, recently resumed his post with the company after an illness, and is also back with his own group, Los Arroyenos, who are enjoying increasing popularity here.

Sicamericana's Sazam label has just released the new album by Charly Garcia and his rock group Seru Giran. In the last 14 months, Sazam has released 14 albums, which makes it one of the leading local rock labels, and one of the most active at the recording level. Producer Oscar Lopez told Cash Box that he spends nearly 200 hours a month in the studio.

TORONTO — Bruce Cockburn has signed to Millenium Records in the U.S. His latest disc on True North here, "Dancing In The Dragon's Jaws," has gone gold in Canada. Cockburn will also record one album for ECM, which won't affect either the Canadian or American deals. Cockburn starts an Italian tour this week, after a recent jaunt to Japan. His work has always been utterly superb. PolyGram has issued "The Bruford Tapes," a pressing of the recent Long Island Bruford Band recording by WLIR-FM. His recent tour in these parts drew high praise. A $5.98 suggested list accompanies the live disc ... The Battered Wives, the target last year of angst from Women Against Violence Against Women (WAVAW) has now officially changed its name to the Wives (we think) for the second time. A December tour to coincide with a second album release (produced by Craig Leon) on CBS is slated imminently. New disc is titled, "Cigarettes" ... "Between The Lines" is the latest consumer publication to take a stab at sticking in the troubled Toronto market. Its looks are quite credible, and its philosophy is even better. Perhaps a winner has at last arrived ... RCA execs were up from the U.S. to take in the Minglewood Band at the El Mocambo here recently, eyeing a possible NY American release of the band's first RCA Canada issuance. They'd be crazy to turn the group down. If there's a comparison to be drawn, it might be to George Thorogood. They're hot stuff here.

United Kingdom

LONDON — Wings are set to embark on their first UK tour in almost three years. The tour, 16 dates around Britain, starts in McCartney's home town of Liverpool Nov. 25 and marks the public debut of newly acquired Steve Holly on drums and Laurence Juber on guitar ... Virgin Records' dynamic new wave band XTC, whose single "Making Plans For Nigel" is proving to be their best chart success to date, started a pre-Christmas tour that concentrates on Britain's educational establishments ... And WEA's AC/DC recently announced the start of their second-half tour on Dec. 17, including a special date at the Hammersmith Odeon, London. Capitol Records' Moon Martin is set to play two dates at London's Marquee club Nov. 23 and 24 ... A star jam occurred recently when Todd Rundgren and Utopia played a benefit show at the Las Vegas convention for muscular dystrophy. At the end of their set Todd and band were joined on stage by renowned fellow artists Dave Mason, Ringo Starr, Bill Wyman, Doug Kershaw and Kiki Dee. They all jammed through various classics, including such numbers as "Jumpin' Jack Flash," and created a first in that it was apparently the first time that a Beatle and a Rolling Stone had ever performed on stage together in public ... Top league disco troupers Amii Stewart and Boney M have been invited to appear at this year's Royal Command Performance Nov. 26 at London's Drury Lane Theatre for a show which will be transmitted on National UK TV and attended by such top names as Yul Brynner, Marti Caine, Bill Haley, Hinge & Bracket and Elaine Stritch.

A new name to watch — Jane Ayre & The Belvedere's recently supported Stiff Records' Lena Lovich at a gig in London and caused as much stir as La Lovich.

Atlantic's Yes guitarist Steve Howe has been voted best overall guitarist for the third consecutive year in the Guitar Player magazine's 10th Worldwide readers poll. Atlantic has released his new solo LP titled "The Steve Howe Album," while Howe is currently in Paris recording with Yes ... The Sports, recently signed to Sire Records in the UK, are set to play two special dates in London, prior to leaving for their first American tour.

Executive moves this week see Bob Hart, EMI Music's London based director of publicity, appointed to coordinate audio visual matters for EMI Music — Europe and international ... While Des Brown, director of international affairs at Chrysalis Records, has been appointed to the board of the company. Brown has been with Chrysalis for the past four years.

label would go to WEA Music of Canada, but initial attempts to land a deal have apparently fallen through.

Motown has been plagued perennially by proportionately low sales levels, when compared to its American parent company, primarily because of its emphasis on black music, which has little radio support in Canada.

CAN'T STOP THOSE VILLAGE PEOPLE — Casablanca's Village People and the group's managers, Jacques Morali and Henri Belolo, recently held a party to honor Alan Carr on completion of his new film, "Can't Stop The Music," a fictitious film about the origin of the position and conducting. In 1959, he won first prize at the International Competition of Orchestra Conductors in Besancon, France. Charles Munch, then music director of the Boston Symphony and a judge at the competition, invited him to Tanglewood, where he won the Koussevitsky prize for outstanding student conductor.

Ozawa Criticizes Union Rules

Ozawa accompanied Leonard Bernstein on the New York Philharmonic's 1961 tour of Japan. In 1962, he made his North American conducting debut with the San Francisco Symphony. After serving as music director of the Toronto Symphony for four seasons, he guest-conducted various orchestras for a couple of years. Then, in 1970, he became music director of the San Francisco Orchestra. The directorship of the Boston Symphony followed in 1973, and Ozawa resigned his West Coast position in 1976.

Ozawa has helped build the reputation of the BSO through numerous recordings, television appearances and tours outside the U.S. The Bostonians' 1978 tour of Japan was enthusiastically received, and their week-long series of concerts and master classes in China last year focused worldwide attention on the orchestra.

American critics have been generally well-disposed toward Ozawa's elegant, yet passionate style of conducting. Nevertheless, there has also been some criticism of the conductor, especially in the programming area. Detractors, both inside and outside the orchestra, have taken him to task for not programming more of the standard romantic works.

"It's really unfortunate that there's a misunderstanding about this," remarks Ozawa. "When I grew up, my teacher (Hideo Saito) was a student of Emanuel Feuermann — you know Feuermann, the cellist who died early? So when my teacher became a conductor, he conducted Schumann, and I learned all the Schumann when I was quite young, along with all the Beethoven, Brahms, and Mendelssohn. He never taught me any Bruckner or Mahler or Ravel or Berlioz, which I am doing a lot of now."

"So my old repertoire — my real repertoire — is Beethoven, Brahms, Schumann, Mendelssohn, Haydn. But, just because of little things like recordings — DG wanted to use the Boston Symphony's capacity for things like Berlioz and Ravel — it came out that way. It's kind of sad, because life shouldn't be dependent on these commercial things. But now I'm doing a lot of (standard) repertoire. The last three years, I did all the Brahms symphonies, and within three more years, I'll have all the Beethoven symphonies done and start Schumann."

More Bruckner

Ozawa has also begun to concentrate on Bruckner lately. Within the past two years, the BSO has performed Bruckner's Fifth and Ninth Symphonies, and this year, the orchestra's concert schedule includes the Symphony No. 3. "Within about four or five years," says Ozawa, "all of Bruckner will be done by me and the Boston Symphony. And when we do it, we do it very heavily, like Bruckner's Third — I think we're performing it at least six or seven times during the season. Doing this really becomes repertoire. And the last time this was performed in Boston was 1901!"

Since Ozawa took over as the orchestra's director, the Boston Symphony has been performing a good deal of Berlioz. But he attributes this to the influence of his famous predecessor, Charles Munch. "I think I got the Berlioz through Munch," says Ozawa. "And this is Munch's orchestra. It's the world's best orchestra to play Berlioz. So with Boston, I wanted to do Berlioz and I wanted to do Ravel and Debussy, which is in their blood, too."

Quite High

After six years with the orchestra, Ozawa says he feels "very close" to the Boston Symphony. "But again," he adds, "to know each other takes more time . . . Maestro von Karajan says he took 25 years to really build his relation with the Berlin Philharmonic. Now he doesn't have to even move his hand — they just understand. That kind of relation takes time . . . I love to sit down to make that music performance creation. It's understanding — like chamber music. I think that's a goal. I know the Boston Symphony can do it. This orchestra's ability is quite high."

CLASSICAL ALBUM REVIEWS

SCHOENBERG: Gurrelieder. Jessye Norman, Tatiana Troyanos, James McCracken, Werner Klemperer, Kim Scown, David Arnold, Boston Symphony Orchestra, Tanglewood Festival Chorus, Seiji Ozawa, conductor. Philips 6769 038. List: $19.96.

Ozawa's version of the Gurrelieder scored a big success when it was performed at Carnegie Hall last year, and the warm, expansive, lyrical qualities of the live rendition are well preserved on this two-record set. The orchestral climaxes sound gorgeous, and the singing is first-rate. Standouts include McCracken as Waldemar (he can be heard better on disc than in concert with the BSO), Jessye Norman's dark-hued, majestic Tove, and the wonderfully satiric performance of Kim Scown as Klaus the Jester.

Chicago. In Feb. 1979, he moved from 600 to 750 square feet containing nothing but blues and jazz LP. Now Koester is looking forward to adding another 2300 square feet in an adjoining building to his operation. "We do not envision expanding into anything beyond blues and jazz." Koester said. "We opened this store in a blizzard, but we did not let up on our advertising. Even in a blizzard they knew to come by. Sales increased 20%." The new store will have expanded facilities to show movies which had been shown in cramped quarters in the old store. "We already sell magazines and newspapers," Koester went on, but we want to expand to T-shirts, belt buckles, etc., so long as it pertains to jazz." The store carries 78 rpm discs in large quantity. Koester plans to enlarge that department as well. The store's lowest prices for 78's are five for $1.00, with collectors' items ranging up to $75 apiece. Koester also owns Delmark Records and a new label, Pearl, which specializes in New Orleans jazz. Koester wants to reinstate live music, which he had in the older shop, and he wishes to invite artists who are playing Chicago for the first time into the store in a "Welcome to Chicago" campaign. Meanwhile, the sheer size of his specialty store has attracted nationwide attention. "We believe the new Jazz Record Mart will be the largest jazz-only record shop in the world." arnold jay smith

Mankey, who is currently producing The Elevator's new album for Arista at Sound City Studios in Van Nuys, has high production values but feels the essence of his studio work is its novelty. "I hate to hear a sound or style that happened last week on somebody else's record, and I steer clear of letting that creep into my work."

State Association Conference And Mini Seminars Attract Big Crowds

CHICAGO — Three new educational programs that drew overwhelming response from operators at the recent AMOA Expo here will definitely be included in next year's convention.

That's the assessment of AMOA executive vice president Fred Granger in the wake of the association's most successful convention ever.

According to Granger, attendance exceeded projections for the state association conference and two mini seminars, all of which were introduced at this year's meeting. The first mini seminar, on the subject of "Vehicles and Gas Saving Techniques," was attended by 300 operators and had to be relocated to a larger meeting room. The second mini seminar covering the topic "Delegating Authority," attracted 275 operators. The seminars were held on Saturday and Sunday mornings, Nov. 10

AMOA Expo Turns Attention To State Of The Economy

by Alan Sutton

CHICAGO — The nation's coin-operated amusement and vending industry, already hard hit by the energy shortage, rising costs and increased government regulation, faces a broad demographic shift away from its primary market.

In the coming decade, the industry's traditional audience — teens and young adults in their twenties — will be getting smaller, while the 30 and above age group is growing.

This disconcerting population trend was presented by Dr. William C. Freund, senior vice president and chief economist of the New York Stock Exchange, in his keynote address before the recent Amusement and Music Operators Assn. (AMOA) annual expo here.

"Your industry has been hard hit by cost-push inflation," Freund told operators from around the country, who packed the Grand Ballroom of the Conrad Hilton Hotel Nov. 9 for the association's two-part industry seminar on the economy and future of American Business. "But the element that will have a profound impact on your business in the 1980s is the changing age composition of the population."

Long-Term Problem

According to Freund, the industry's biggest long-term problem is the age limit of its customers, which he pegged as the 15-to-19 and 20-to-29 age brackets. While those age-groups increased on a percentage basis during the decade from 1970 through 1980, he said they will both decline as a percentage of the total American population in the years from 1980 to 1990.

In Freund's opinion, the challenge facing the industry is to "extend the age of your market by developing games that appeal to older players." He also suggested that operators consider placing equipment in shopping malls and other locations where there is the highest concentration of adult traffic.

The second part of the seminar was a question and answer discussion featuring a panel made up of Dr. Freund and two veteran operators — Russell Mawdsley and John R. Trucano, both past presidents of AMOA. The first speaker was Trucano, whose remarks focused on cost cutting techniques for operators.

Cutting Expenses

Faced with a drop in gross receipts of 40% after 1979's first quarter, Trucano related that he assembled all his managers and assistant managers together for a meeting on how to cut costs. "We decided that we were doing a lot of things right as far as money coming in," he recalled, "so we

Rock-Ola Unveils 'Techna'

KEY BISCAIYNE, Fla. — Not only does Rock-Ola's new "Techna 480" usher in a new era in jukebox design, according to company president Donald C. Rockola, but also its ultra-slim shape and illuminated graphics provide the ideal cabinet for the unique merchandising features introduced in last year's "Mystic."

"Techna is more than just another pretty face," he told an estimated 100 distributors at the company's 1980 Product Presentation. "It is easy to operate and easy to service."

In his opening remarks, delivered Nov. 1 at the Royal Biscayne Hotel here, Rockola pointed out that Techna incorporates all of the factory's advanced microprocessor technology and play-stimulating features, including Top 3 Location Hits, Bonus Play, Random Complimentary Play, Hit Tracker and Profit Setter.

'Making Music Profitable'

He added that the engineering and marketing support behind Techna un-

PRESIDENT'S WELCOME — Rock-Ola president Donald Rockola is shown during his address before distributors on hand for the introduction of the factory's 1980 product line. The meeting was keyed to the theme "Making Music Profitable." An estimated 100 Rock-Ola distributors from around the country attended the event.

TOURING THE EXHIBITS — Despite the importance of the many meetings and seminars that are an integral part of the annual AMOA Expo, the heart of the convention is the introduction of new games and equipment. This year there were 131 exhibitors, who took out 318 booths — both AMOA records. Shown above are (l-r): pinballs on display at the Bally exhibit; Williams president Michael Stroll; Gremlin's Jack Gordon (c) with Texas distributors Bill O'Connor (l) and Hoddy Franz; and Namco executives Hideyuki Nakajima and Masaya Nakamura. The exhibit booths were housed in three rooms at Chicago's Conrad Hilton Hotel.

Mike Von Kennel, Jo Anne Krall and Larry Berke; Irving Kaye Company's Bill Currier and friend; and Bally's Tony Brocato and Bernie Powers at the factory's service booth.

had to find ways to cut expenses."

Trucano went on to enumerate cost cutting measures instituted by his company, including: setting a limit on employee expenses, transferring low earning equipment to different locations, installing WATS lines for long distance calls to factories and suppliers, switching the company's service fleet over to compact cars and trucks, reorganizing work schedules to eliminate unnecessary overtime, cutting down on the frequency of after hour service calls and requiring cost estimates prior to authorizing outside services.

The net result of these steps, according to Trucano, was a $27,000 reduction in company expenses over a nine-month period. "If we hadn't implemented the cost cutting measures," he concluded, "we would have been forced to layoff employees."

Increase Income

Ways to increase operator income was the subject of Mawdsley's talk. "One of the most important ways to keep revenues up," he said, "is to chart the earnings of each machine on a weekly basis. Then change the location of a piece as soon as possible when you see earnings start to dip."

Regular cleaning and maintenance is another way to keep up the earning power of games, according to Mawdsley. "It's been proven that you can increase revenues by keeping all machines clean, well lit and in good working order," he said.

On the subject of pricing, Mawdsley insisted that all new games should be put on one play for a quarter, two for fifty cents, five for a dollar. But the best revenue booster of all, he said, is the new Susan B. Anthony dollar coin.

"Don't sell Susie short; supply the location with coins when you install a machine with the new dollar chute. It will take a selling job, but promoting the Susie B. coin will definitely increase revenues," said Mawdsley.

Outgoing AMOA president Wayne Hesch, speaking at the Nov. 11 membership brunch, reviewed the association's activities during his term of office. While noting that the Copyright Tribunal's location list requirement could "change the business as we know it today," he said the association will continue to litigate the issue all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary.

He also praised the association for adding two mini-seminars to the convention program, convening the first ever state association conference and for securing television coverage of the annual juke box awards banquet.

Executive vice president Fred Granger, in his annual address, said that Expo '79 had shattered all previous records, making it the most successful show in association history.

Final attendance figures released at the close of the convention supported Granger's comments. Registration for the three-day meeting was 7,130, an increase of 11% over last year's 6,407. This year's total included more than 1,000 foreign registrants representing 33 countries.

The number of companies exhibiting increased to 131 from 126 last year. This year there were 318 exhibit booths compared to 308 a year ago.

In conclusion, Granger said the AMOA Expo will relocate in 1982 to Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas.

and 11.

Although exact attendance figures are not yet in for the state association conference, held the Thursday preceding the start of the convention, Granger said he has received good response to the program, which was designed to show local groups how to organize and run their associations more effectively.

"Many operators arrived for the conven-

The final order of business was the introduction of AMOA officers for the coming year. They are: Robert E. Nims, president; James I. Mullins, first vice president; Leoma Ballard, secretary; and Clayton L. Norberg, treasurer. The three newly elected vice presidents, who will serve until 1982, are Al Marsh, Ed Schultz and Richard Silla.

Board Of Directors

Elected to serve on the board of directors for the coming term were Clyde Knupp, Curtis Hudson, Jack Kerner, Bill Stone, Raymond Schroth, Alan Bershad, Melvin Pearlman, Robert Kline, Kem Thom, John Stocksdale and James Watkins, who will serve the unexpired term of Clayton Norberg.

'Getting The Message'

Summing up AMOA's evaluation of the new programs, Granger said, "Right now there seem to be an upswing in desire for more educational programs, and we at AMOA are getting the message."

derscore Rock-Ola's "positive commitment to making music profitable."

The introduction of Techna kicked off a full weekend of activities in connection with Rock-Ola's annual distributor meeting. Other highlights included an audiovisual presentation, one-on-one sessions with factory executives and numerous social functions.

But the star attraction was Techna. With its sleek, upright cabinet, eye-catching contours and illuminated graphics that extend around all three sides, it represents a dramatic departure from conventional jukebox styling. According to Dr. David Rockola, vice president of vending sales, Techna's design is the perfect marriage of form and function.

"Today you witnessed the combination of great technology and cabinet design," he said. "I can think of no better way to start the profitable and exciting decade of the '80s."

Two-Year Project

While noting that the new model is the culmination of a two-year design project, he said the goal was to "create maximum visual impact for maximum earnings." He added that Techna's upright styling provides location patrons "full-view programming without having to squat to make their favorite selection," while it also eliminates all flat surfaces for resting drinks or bodies.

From a serviceman's standpoint, Dr. Rockola pointed out that Techna's dome raises in two positions for easy accessibility. He noted further that serviceability is also enhanced by the control module door, lower door and rear access panel.

Finally, he said Techna's 200-watt amplifier and high frequency speakers provide "maximum stereo presence." Other features include a 160-selection record changer, multiple coin acceptor and digital microcomputer.

Rock-Ola is mounting an extensive marketing-merchandising campaign in support of the new phonograph, which was outlined by advertising and promotion manager Joe Senesac. Key promotional items include brochures, display banners, T-shirts, pens, ID tags and business cards, as well as a factory-produced audiovisual service training program on microprocessor technology.

Among the other Rock-Ola executives on hand for the meeting were executive vice president Ed Doris and Les Rieck, domestic sales manager.

Xcor Opens New Gaming Subsidiary; Gaming Devices Inc. Bows At AMOA

CHICAGO — Xcor International, Inc. announced in connection with the opening of the Amusement and Music Operators Assn. (AMOA) trade show at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago, the formation of Gaming Devices, Inc., a new subsidiary of its Williams Electronics, Inc. subsidiary. In the future, Xcor will manufacture and market its line of slot machines through this new subsidiary.

Gaming Devices, Inc. will begin immediately moving into newly leased facilities in Chicago. In addition, the new subsidiary announced that it is currently manufacturing 546 slot machines, which will generate revenues in excess of $1 million for the Jockey Club Casino in Las Vegas, Nev. These machines will be delivered in December, prior to the Jockey Club opening.

Largest Order

This order represents the largest single order to date for the company's slot machines. Upon completion of this order, deliveries of slot machines in 1979 will be at the highest level in the company's history.

Previously, slot machines were produced by Williams Electronics, Inc., which is also a leading manufacturer of pinball games.

"Although there are some overlaps in technology in the production of pinball games and slot machines, we decided to establish a separate business for the production and marketing of slot machines since there are entirely different marketing channels," explained James J. Hughes, president of Xcor.

"The company has more than 600 slot machines in operation at the Resorts International Casino in Atlantic City. When our machines are installed in the Jockey Club, we will have gained a showcase for our product in the two major markets for gaming devices in the country," he added.

Talking Pin

Hughes also reported that Williams Electronics, Inc., displayed at the AMOA Show production models of a new "talking" pinball game called "Gorgar."

"This is an example of last year's promise becoming this year's reality," Hughes said. "At the AMOA show last year we had a prototype model of a talking pinball machine on display. This year, we are showing production models which we are shipping all over the world."

"These machines use the latest microprocessor technology to achieve the effect of a human voice speaking to the player."

Williams Electronics, Inc. expects that in 1980, field acceptance of Gorgar will be the same as experienced by Williams' 1979 game of the year, "Flash."

Headquartered in Oak Brook, Illinois, Xcor International, Inc. is a diversified manufacturing and service company.

ALSO ON DISPLAY — Shown above are (l-r): Loewen's Bert Davidson, operator Bud Patton and Loewen's Peer von Oertzen; American Shuttleboard's Nick Melon, Sol Lipkin and

CHICAGO CHATTER

AMOA Expo gets bigger and better each year — no doubt about that. At the '78 show we saw gaming equipment exhibited for the first time. This year, a talking pinball machine - Williams' "Gorgar," which completely captivated the Expo crowd. This reporter never did get a chance to play the machine, the lines were too long . . . A video disc jukebox was another unique attraction this year . . . "Dolly Parton," the latest celebrity themed pin from Bally, and the upcoming "Future Spa" were among the many exciting machines in the Bally exhibit . . . Stern featured "Galaxy" and the factory's first wide-body pin "Big Game," to name a few of the attractions in this exhibit. Latter is not of the traditional wide-body dimensions . . . People waited in line at the Gottlieb exhibit to be photographed with The Incredible Hulk, a sight to behold, who was on hand to promote his namesake machine. Buck Rogers was also a big draw at this exhibit . . . In addition to "Space Invaders," the industry's all time best seller, Midway had quite an array of equipment on display including "Super Speed Race," "Phantom II," "18 Wheeler," "Bowling Alley," "Tunnel," "Submarine," and "Galaxian" (hope we didn't miss any). Even after 14 months, Space Invaders was still a big attraction . . . J.F. Frantz displayed his traditional U.S. Marshall which has been very successful in shopping malls and similar locations, plus the new "Space Shot" which was premiered at AMOA . . . The sleek Rock-Ola "Techna" was a crowd pleaser at the Rock-Ola exhibit . . . World Wide Dist. expanded its booth space this year to show a lineup of reconditioned pins for export and this drew heavy Expo traffic and lots of favorable comments — even from the competition . . . "Phoenix" was the star attraction in the Seeburg display . . . The Game Plan exhibit, more elaborate in decor this year, featured such upcoming product as the "Coney Island" upright and "Vegas" cocktail pinball game, among others; and also spotlighted the factory's soon to be launched Professional Pinball Players Assn. . . Empire Dist. had quite an array of pieces and we noticed visitors of all ages waiting in line to try the Zaccaria "Moto-cross," for one . . . Also noticeable this year was the number of service booths sponsored by various factories and this is something operators seemed to appreciate very much . . . Veteran Al Trace was an Expo visitor this year to promote his new jukebox single "Play It Again Ben" b/w "Li'l Wally Story" on Nostalgia Records . . . In the course of touring the convention floor visitors received their share of giveaway items like posters, key chains, T-shirt, bags, even straw hats; and there were drawings for gifts and some very useful service tools . . . After hours, the hospitality suites beckoned and, as in previous years, the lavish exhibitor hosted cocktail parties and dinners . . . As further evidence of the show's impetus, the Chicago Sun-Times ran a feature article on AMOA Expo '79.

CALIFORNIA CLIPPINGS

Oscar Robins of Portale Automatic Sales reports that William's "Gorgar," one of the highlights of the AMOA, will start a whole new trend in the business. "Everybody will be doing the sound bit soon," says Robins, who went on to say that Atari's new "Asteroids" and Gremlin's new sit-down driver, "Monaco," made impressive debuts at the AMOA. Robins also mentions that Stern had some good wide-body and regular pins on display, and that if the convention was any indication, it would be a great year for pins.

WEST COAST manufacturers were well represented at this year's AMOA. Some of the companies that had exhibits at the show were Gremlin, Tournament Soccer, Vectorbeam, Exidy, Cinematronics and Atari.

SPEAKING OF EXHIBITS, C.A. Robinson Co. in Los Angeles will host its 6th annual Western Amusement Game Exhibit Nov. 30. The purpose of the show, according to distrib president Al Bettelman, is "to present to the local operator those machines soon to be in production by the factories we represent." The distrib feels that by giving operators a glimpse into the future, it can help them make effective business decisions.
