Ten British Stars Form Co-Op Band

Form Co-Op Band

London—Dynamite exploded here last month when 10 of England's best musicians formed a cooperative band—a band which is likely to go places here with British jazz being in the state it is.

The lineup has George Chisholm on trombone, Tommy McQuater, trumpet; Tiny Winters, bass; Bert Barnes, pianc and arranger, and Archie Craig, trumpet, all of them highly regarded by hot jazz observers, and George Fierstone, drums; Sid Colin, guitar and vocals; Norman Maloney, alto; Benny Winestone, tenor, and Dave Shand, lead alto, all of whom add up 50 per cent Scotch and 50 per cent Jewish. Dand will be known as the "Heralds of Swing" and will broadcast and make records, the latter to be issued in the States. Leonard Feather, London jazz enthusiast and writer, who shortly will travel to America, is partially responsible for the unique organization—an organization which will play for the unique organization—an organization which will play "righteous jazz" only.

Hawk says he will return to Holland in October, after he has seen all he wants of Harlem and other spots he knocked around in before he croased the Atlantic to play tenor on foreign shores.

Jaffee Leaves Barnet

New York — Bill Miller of Red Norvo's old band succeeded Nat Jaffee as pianist with Charlie Bar-net's band the other day. Jaffee is free lancing around town.

More to Come

Under special conditions, agents may have their licenses returned, Henderson said. Max Arons was chairman of the AFM trial board which sifted the evidence. Unless the agents can get their licenses restored, it appears likely they will be forced out of the booking biz.

Jack Rosenberg, 802 prexy, said the cleanup was one of the promises he made when he was a candidate for reelection in December, and added that the drive soon would be extended to take in "all of Broadway." Already evidence is being assembled which soon may find a dozen or more other well known bookers without licenses.

"It involves the reputation of 10 young men who play in Repack's band."

The carnival refused to pay the $80 for Repack's band because "the band did not play real music, and in addition, did not have proper instrumentation for martial airs," the petition stated.

"All of Repack's men have testified they did their best and fulfilled their end of the contract," said Judge Seeber, who ordered that the Repack band come into the courtroom and demonstrate its ability. "New Orleans is the birth-place of jaxs and the court feels that this hand was in accord with the reputation New Orleans has for producing such nationally famous hot jaxs artists."

Johnny, a drummer, beat his traps for the judge. Harold Rovira played a hot clarinet. Anthony Castigliols tooted his trumpet and Tony Virciglio blew his own horn. The judge said he thought it was "plenty solid" and well worth upholding the name of New Orleans.

Then he ordered that Repack be paid $80. Everybody—except the earny crew—went home happy.

That the program has done more than its share to put righteous jass in a place where Americans could hear and enjoy it, no one is denying. Such "greats" as Mildred Bailey, Benny Goodman, Count Basie, Red Norvo, Bunny Berigan, Duke Ellington, the Dorseys, Red Nichols, Fats Waller, Jimmie Lunceford, Raymond Scott, Frank Trumbauer, Artie Shaw, Anly Kirk and dozens of others, along with their bands, have been guests on the abow. Fan mail consistently increased until last month it had reached a new high. Requests for tickets to the production, originally started by Phil Cohan and later taken over by Al Rinker, came in such volumes that only a small portion could be accommodated. Understanding here now is that Mutual may soon inaugurate a similar program to catch the militions of listeners who have bean "brought down" by CBS' action.

10 Niteries Closed In Kaycee Cleanup

Ransas City — A last minute move by the attorney-general herethrew about 50 musicians out of work when a temporary injunction was obtained from the circuit court, padlocking 10 night clubs and har. THE SITUATION which exists between the "swing critics" and the professional musician has reached proportions which have become laughable. Who Should Pass Judgment?
These situations have been of secondary importance. The most dominating attitude has been that of the musicians who question the right of musical amateurs to pass judgment upon their offorts.

The profession! The professioni claims that a "inan who does-

Claims that a "inan who does n't know how to play an instrument has no business telling the man who does, how to play." The pro also claims that the critic seldom maintains an objective viewpoint and that, accordingly, his opinion is often damaging where no foundation exists for averaging where no foundation exists for averaging the man is trying to do. If the musician hould be based most particularly upon the status of what a man is trying to do. If the musician in question is trying to earn his living by attempting to intrigus and win the approbation of the public, he feels that criticism of his work should not be based upon the degree of sincerity involved in the music which he is presenting, since he is obviously not directing his efforts with this particular goal in view.

Critica Must "Expose" Musicians He feels that if he is to be the object of fair criticism, it must be stated in front what he is trying to do, that the criticism to follow must be hasel upon the degree of success which he is achieving in that particular field he is attempting to conquer.

The critica, on the other hand, feel it is their duty to constantly "expose" all musicians attempting to earn their living in any other meanner than a strictly musical ene. It may be, and probably is justifiable, to accord the highest praise to the greatest standard of musicianship, but, on the other hand, it is unfair to condemn completely the lesser product whose aims are admittedly less exalted. The critics ignore all individual goals and judge musicians entirely by their own personal standards. The professional musician rightly objects to such thoughtless, unconsidered and easually personal criticism of his most serious and the so-called 'critic' to print his opinion of a man's work, when his knowledge is seldom based on anything other than personal predelictions or prejudice?"

He demands to know why the musician should be subjected to criticism of any kind, and he demands musical qualifications in any person entitled to offer criticism. Here we find the faulty judgment to be lying the direction of the musician. For it is an established fact that any art worthy of the name requires its own criticism, whose responsibility it is to "maintain and elevate standards," the same principle applying to any respected profession.

Give us those who may understand that they are responsible to us for maintaining certain high standards in the profession. Give us critics who by constructive criticism will help to elevate former standards, whose sympathetic and encouraging advice will inspire the artist to strike out for higher levels, with the assurance that his efforts will not go unappreciated, and with confidence that the critics will do their utmost to show the great paying public in what direction it should accord its appreciation and approbation.

Non-Musicians Best Critics respected profession.

Honesty Vital for Criticism
The musician is basing his thoughts upon false premises when he insists that there is no need for the critics, and demands that he no longer be subjected to their hysterical and prejudiced outpourings. These thoughts are the direct result of a prejudiced opinion of a situation which, growing up, as it did, out of nothing, has never been properly clarified, and has finally grown to achieve worrisome proportions. What the musician probably means, and what he is entirely entitled to demand, is:

announces

A NEW NAME • A NEW POLICY a new catalog

To the Drummers and Music Merchants of America

The New Name—Two years ago, in response to a definite demand, I decided to organize my own complete drum-manufacturing plant—modern facilities, manned by a fine organization, and dedicated to personal service of American drummers. Today, thanks to your confidence and good will, my company is firmly established among the leaders in its field. With increased business comes the danger of confusion with companies bearing a similar name....To avoid even the possibility of such confusion, the name of the Wm. F. Ludwig Drum Co. has been changed to the WFL DRUM COMPANY.

The New Policy

For your protection, I have adopted this keystone trademark to identify the products of my company. It is my personal and individual insignia—the one sure way to identify a product made under the personal supervision of Wm. F. Ludwig, according to principles of individual craftsmanship perfected through 30 years' manufacturing experience.

The New Catalog

Never in my long experience have I offered a new catalog with such confidence as the one now rolling off the presses. Here is a line of drums and supplies that is not only in step with today but definitely alsead of the times. Drums . . . outfits . . . equipment embodying a degree of mechanical and physical perfection never before approached. But don't take my word for it. Write for your copy—today—and see for yourself!

Many More Like Leonard How many other bands there must be, in the States, and in Canada, which work up to razor-edge sharpness, then slowly disintegrate because the hand can't be booked often enough to provide "eatin' money" for its talented members? The number must run into the bandreds annually.

But back to Leonard, Choosing a high school band in preference to military training, Harlan studied a clarinet instead of a Springfield army rife under the late Maj. N. Clark Smith, who gained international fame for his work with Negroes in Kansas City. George Wilkerson was another of Harlan's teachers, as was E. Paul Tremaine. Tremaine later went East, swinging the old spirituals with his "Lonely Acres" orchestra in 1930 at Young's Chinese Restaurant on Broadway.

Davis' bands. She also worked over WNEW with Martin Block. Bernice sings most of the poptunes, while Jack Palmer, trumpeter, comes in for the rhythm ditties. On the whole, though, it's just one good instrumental solo after another.

Harry's amaxing band is another step in Harry's unorthodox lifetime. Born in a small hotel next to a jail cell in Albany, Ga., while his parents were trouping with the Mighty Harrice, he was playing drums in the circus band when he was 4 years old. Later, Harry did a contortion act under the big top, and helped trip. "It's minds. He had helped trip. "It's minds. He had helped trip." It's minds. He had helped trip. "It's minds. He had helped trip." It's minds. He had helped trip. "It's minds. He had helped trip. "It's minds. He had helped trip." It's minds. He had helped trip. "It's minds. He had helped trip." It's minds. He had helped trip. The head his own combination a few weeks ago. Benny has backed Harry all along, and right now is behind James' new hand with all the help he can give. Come to think of it, Harry doesn't need any help. The boys he has now are enough to make any other leader is the country jealous. With proper handling—and Willard Alexander of MCA is doing the job—you can put this down in the future book that this James' outfit will be among the 10 best when it comes "poll time" again next November.

'Public Doesn't Appreciate Rollini!!'

Probably America's Most Versatile Soloist, Adrian's Abilities Are Known Only to Musicians, Laments DiCarlo

By Charles M. DiCarlo New York - Over at the Belmont Plaza Hotel is a mustachioed young man who plays just about the finest brand of "vibes" possible. He works with a trio, under his name, and he's bringing in big business. But Adrian Rollini, outside of musicians and a small gathing of hot jazz exponents, isn't nearly as well known as he should be. Yet he has been banging around the country with the nation's best leaders and side men for more years than your correspondent can Briefly, Rollini is a classical planist, saxophonist, jaxx pianist, drummer, xylophonist, celeste virtuoso and vibraharpist extraordinary. But that's only the foundation—the house built on the foundation is more important—and far more interesting.

is more important—and far more interesting.

Adrian has organized dance bands and directed them. Remember the old California Ramblers, Blue Four and the Goofus Five? Records by those groups are prized items today. But Rollini also is a composer. His name is on the title page of many gems of jazz, woir, etc.

All that would be enough for an ordinary musician. But Adrian Rollini, let it be known, is definitely not ordinary. He has a horror of idleness, and keeps busy to avoid being shocked!

Then Opened Night Club

During a lull, he went into the night club business. What's more, the guy made it pay. It was called Adrian's Tap Room, and was located in the heart of Times Square. Opening cold in the middle of the hotel and restaurant belt, it looked like a quick way to the poorhouse. But Rollini had an idea—and what an idea it turned out to bel He advertised "dancing and entartainment," but there was no dance floor and no stage. Tables littered the floor. Then, suddenly, a walter would sak several persons to crowd together and clear space was none other than Fats Waller!

The Tap Room was original in every way. It introduced Harlem to Broadway, and it brought swing back to the attention of dance fans. Host Rollini, playing piano, sax or drums, would corner the "names" of the band business and before you could wink a session would be in full blast.

How the Trio Was Born
In running the nitery, Rollini found he had all day to himself. So he organized a band instrument company. While there he received a vibraharp for an order. Testing it, he found it was a novel experience, and that it required his knowledge of drums, xylophone and piano to play it well. Meeting Frank Victor one day, he suggested they try the vibes and guitar together. Thus was the Rollini trio born!

Rollini knew swing—and the trio caught on at once. He had his own idea how to play, and it clicked from the start. He's been on NBC four times a week for a long while now and he's set indefinitely.

But will Rollini stay nailed to the top of the mast? He's a restless guy—ask his friendly little wife Dixie Rollini for sure—and he won't be satisfied until he has discovered the latest idea to entertain. The public hasn't really "met" Adrian yet, but when it does, let it not be said you weren't warned.

Adrian Rollini is that kind of the guy.

The swing critic who perhaps has stirred up the greatest resentment, while at the same time was woman as she sang.

A few years ago, Arturo Toscanini watched a young oman as she sang.

"Magnificent," shouted the famous conductor as she conuded, "the girl has a voice such as one hears but once in the place—New York: East side. The time—October, 1911. 100 years."

The young singer went on to greater triumphs. All Europe acclaimed her. Later, she returned to her native land and performed in every state.

Last month, her manager scheduled a concert for her in Constitution Hall, Washington, capital of the nation—the most "democratic nation" in the world. But BECAUSE THE SINGER IS A NEGRO, the owners of the hall, members of the Daughters of the American Revolution, refused to permit Marian Anderson to appear as scheduled. Miss Anderson said nothing. "We'll just forget it, and go on with the tour," she graciously told her manager. But one woman would not forget. That woman was America's first lady. Mrs. Electron Description. first lady, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

the DAR, and it was such behavior that resulted in Miss Anderson's being allowed to perform in a Washington high achool auditorium on Easter Sunday—in contrast to the DAR's insulting action.

Marian Anderson

There are no color lines in music. America's first lady is hep on that point. Perhaps someday the DAR will be. In the light of its past behavior, it's almost too much to hope for. What was it we remember from our history books about the American Revolution, from which the DAR took its name? Something about a war that was fought to make Americans "free and appl?" free and equal?

The ladies of the DAR had better check up and make

The Swing Session Goes

We want to know why the Columbia Broadcasting System junked its best sustaining program—the Saturday Night wing Session.

From the very first, it was a natural. Phil Cohan, in those early days of 1936, had a tough job on his hands trying to sell the web the idea of the show. CBS officials said listeners would twist the dial the minute a hot trumpet took off. But Cohan thought differently. He was right. It turned out to be a terrific success.

That the program rated as CBS's most valuable, most dynamic unsponsored show is not denied by anyone, even CBS. Requests for tickets to the show, fan mail, and serious, constructive criticism reached a new peak last month. It was necessary for CBS to move the show to larger quarters in order to handle crowds which constantly became larger.

But it's all over now. A CBS official says the network is experimenting with a new type jazz which will find an equally large audience. Bunk! There's no "new type jazz" which can compare with America's only true music—hot jazz as championed by the Goodmans, Dorseys, Armstrongs, Bechets and Baileys of today. And there are millions of listeners who back us up—all wondering why the program suddenly was killed—just when it was doing its best job of educating America to all that's good in hot music.

Let's have the real story of the killing of the show! America's musicians want it back—and so do the patrons of hot swing. CBS is dropping a good thing—certainly one of its outstanding, most listenable and most popular programs. Why are they dropping it? The reasons given don't hold ago. Photo now is the proud propouter. We want the truth.

Goodman Be Praised!

Lawrence, Kan-

To the Editor: Where does P. Lorillard get that stuff, advertising Artie Shaw as "Swingmaster" in their ads in newspapers and magazines throughout the land? Benny Goodman used that term three years until he got tired of it. If Shaw's sponsor can't be original, it shouldn't try to publicize Shaw at all. Benny is still "Swingmaster" to everyone who knows a hoot about jazz anyway.

'Swing is a Poison'

Kansas City, Mo. To the Editor:

To the Editor:

I have more respect for a man who would steal from me in the night than for a person who pretended to offer something of value in the guise of "swing," if the price be that I merely listen. The dripping of water will drive a man crazy, and the dripping of water is rhythm; rhythm and swing are identical—monotony, to be exact. Swing, then, is a deadly poison which must be used in combination with various other ingredients to be of any benefit.

Goodman Be Damned!

Kansas City, Mo. To the Editor:

To the Editor:

Just for the sake of accuracy, if I may refer to Benny Goodman's article titled "Now Take the Jitterbug" in a recent issue of a national weekly magazine of class circulation, let it herewith be known that the "original jitterbug" Benny dreamed up—the one he said he saw in Kansaa City in 1934—could not have existed. The first appearance of the Goodman hand in Kansas City was in September, 1937, three years after his alleged encounter with the first jitterbug.

Jitterbugs made Benny, yet he three years after his alleged encounter with the first jitterbug.

Jitterbugs made Benny, yet he kicks them in the belly now that he doesn't need them anymore. That's all right, but why such falsehoods and fake experiences should be used by Goodman and his ghost, Ted Shane, is not explained. The check Shane received for that story is tainted, and as far as the half-million residents of this town are concerned, so is Goodman for allowing such stinking stuff to be published under his byline. Goodman had better stick to his clarinet and his band; his journalistic aspirations in this instance make him (and Shane) appear ludierous.

Recently, Craig reluctantly gave up half his brass section in the Garvin brothers, who joined Jack Teagarden's new band. Also first trumpeter, Malcome Crane, formerly with Art Shaw, Woody Herman and Isham Jones, deserted to go with Joe Sanders. With replacements, the band maintained a group of outstanding musicians with orchids going to drummer, Walter Link; tenor sax man Charlie Grant; and vocalist, "Snooky" Landman. Chief criticism has been with "corn" arrangements, a matter recently adjusted to some extent with the hiring of Jack Hoffman as chief arranger.

Haymes' Band—Without Haymes
A Carl "Deacon" Moore protege, Adrian McDowell, now holds forth in the Andrew Jackson Hotel. The band, considerably weak in every section, nevertheless provides a weekend rendezvous for hotel supper dancers, a feature sadly lacking here in the past.

Joe Haymes' new hand stopped over for one-night this month at a Vanderbilt University hop. Music from Haymes again was a treat for the ears of the "in the know" cats, but most pre-engagement interest was flat, the band being practically unknown to the majority of natives. Haymes did not appear with his ork, allowing Irvan Tonkin, manager, to front it here. Frank was speaking of his C-Melody sax—a self-styled "bastard horn" which gave Minneapolis music followers kicks aplenty at Hotel Nicollet last month.

The sax is so-called by Frank lecause various parts of it are not the product of one factory, but of several manufacturers in widely separated places. Many of the smaller parts are of unknown origin—so the title is appropriate. The horn has been Trombar's constant companion during more than a decade of big time playing and is heavily insured, Many will argue that Trombar—and not the horn—salted the quarter of a million away. At any rate, Frankie thinks the old C-Melody will outlike him.

Critic's in the Doghouse

"In giving the public the kind of music it wants," comments Dick Stabile, bandleader and alto saxo-phonist, "I try to strike a happy medium. By that I mean a band which definitely avoids the deroga-tory label of Mickey Mouse music, but also one which keeps out of the category of swing in the sense of loud, raucous music. I don't consider my band a swing band, but yet I feel that we have the ability to play in that style. In adopting the middle-of-the-road style I manage to maintain, I think, a road can overstility—at least that is what we strive for. Most of all, however, I want my organization to know as genuinely musical group — nothing corny. Rather, clean-cut performances through and through.

HISTORY OF JEADER AND BAND:
Dick Stabile was born in Newark, N. J., May 29, 1909. He acquired most of his musical education from his godfather, Gabriel Masseo, who taught him fingering on the saxophone, and other elementary technical aspects of the instruments. This continued for about a year and a half. Since then Dick has studied diligently, and today has one of the finest tones and most agile techniques of any alto saxophonist in the country.

In 1926, Dick joined the pit band of the Captais Jinks musical comedy show, which featured Joe E. Brown Then he played with the band of the Strike Up the Band show, after which he was a member of the George Olsen orchestra which played the musical comedy, Sonsy, This job lasted for well over a year. Then, in 1928, Dick Stabile joined the musical group of Ben Bernie, and he remained with the Old Maestro, as featured alto saxophonist and hot arranger, for nine years. In 1936 Dick formed his own band, and in the fall of that year the new organization was launched on a career which has been successful to a considerable degree. The Stabile orchestre has played at numerous hotels and ballrooms since that time.

THE BAND: THE BAND:

THE BAND:

Most notable characteristic of the Stabile organization is the peculiar use of five reeds—the Stabile aaxophone quintet. The quintet utilises a special kind of arranged phrasing which clearly distinguishes the Stabile trade mark. It's no freak manner of phrasing, for Dick doesn't believe in that sort of thing. Rather, it's a legitimate use of the combination of phrasing and harmony, and once you have become familiar with it, it's easily recognizable as typically Stabile.

abile Plenty Versatile

Stabile Plenty Versatile Stabile's sole work on both alto saxophone and clarinet is of the superior sort. Cartainly he is among the finest virtuosi of these instruments, and his own concept of versatility is well demonstrated in his own playing. He can perform in a sweet style that's not sugary, and in a hot style that swings with the best of them. Advian Tef shares honors with Stabile as clarinet soloist, while George Kaits handles the hot tenor work. In the braus section, Raymond Heath (trombone) and Joe Guastaferro (trumpet) are the featured hot soloists.
Vocals are ably sung by Evelyn

Music Plays Vital Role in Social Life of Prisoners at Joliet

Have Rhythm Sections Been Neglected?

Need for More Variety is Championed for granted. Star solous are becoming as common as dahlias in grandma's backyard. Yet the rhythm makers are supplying the accompaniment with the same deadly monotony that has always made classical music lovers see red with respect to all jazz.

Variety Is Needed

There are those who insist that certain soloists require the "drive" inspired by the hoof-fa hoof-fa pattern of the percussion instruments. If this is true, I suppose there is nothing we can do but let them have it, just as we must give a Paderewski an audience so respectful that you can hear a pin drop.

Aside from such eccentricities, however, there are plenty of instances where variety of treatment instilled in the rhythm could make a recording far more desirable. This month I have listened to a remarkably large number of discs in which the rhythm sections literally wept for inspiration from the soloists. A notable exception is Ellington. Another is John Kirby's recording of Dawn on the Desert. Ellington rhythms are always interesting. His use of the piano, for example, is unique, and clearly distinguishes his orchestra from competitors. I have heard bandleaders of every description say that what they reaved most was a style which would identify them in the public mind. Most orchestras have soloists with styles easily recognizable, thus distinguishing the band, but their rhythm sections are for the most part in a rut. I do not mean to imply that we have no brilliant percussionists. There is no grass growing under many a drummer's or string bassist's foot. Still, when it comes to supporting solos or ensembles the very rhythm sections which show themselves to such brilliant advantage, per se, lapse into a monotony, which, if you were forced to listen to it consciously for a couple of hours, would make your head split.

COOTIE WILLIAMS (Vocalion)

A-1 Mobile Blass (Ellington)

This blues furnishes an exceptionally fine example of a varied rhythmic pattern. Behind the trumyt solo a combination of drums, fano, and reed organ background may be heard, and its effectiveness may be judged by the contrast it affords with the more conventional rhythms in other current records.

Like Delta Mood (reviewed last month), this blues is a concerto for the potent growl trumpet of Charles (Cootie) Williams. B

C-1 Body and Soul (Green)
These four sides show off to advantage what is common knowledge—the technical virtuosity of Leon (Choo) Berry and Roy Eldridge. The ad lib piece attains noteworthy freedom of expression on the part of the two soloists. The lake your-turn solo method precludes a situation where one instrumentalist gets hopelessly entangled with another in ensemble jamming. Berry's composition is similar in character, but not quite as relaxed. The other two titles, recorded on a 12-inch disc. can UNIVERSALLY acknowledged to be the number one swing trombonist of the age... Winner of Metronome and Down Beat polls... For years swing trombone with Paul Whiteman and picked by him on his "all star band"—Jackson Teagarden now rounds out his amazing career by launching a band of his own that the critics say is destined to go places in a big way.

"Jack's" own hot trombone and his almost equally famous vocalizing get the spotlight in the new band, ably supported by a fine cast of talented musicians. Every artist was carefully selected for individual talent and harmonious blending into a smooth-playing ensemble worthy of the new maestro's name and fame.

Throughout "Jack's" climb to fame, he has been a loyal and enthusiastic Conn user. For many years he has used a Conn trombone exclusively in all his radio and dance work and for his numerous and highly popular recordings. He is now using a Conn Artist Special trombone and five of his picked artists also play lare model Conns.

In new bands or old, wherever fine artists are grouped under great leadership, Conn instruments are invariably the outstanding choice. Why not give yourself this proved advantage for greater musical success? Ask your Conn dealer to let you try one of the easy-playing new Conns. Or write us for free book; please mention instrument.

This group has recently been refassed by the United Hot Clubs of America. All the platters are of comparatively recent origin; the Dandies' disc, for example, has been a cut out for two years or less.
But no matter, the policy of refassing is a sound one. My only regret is that some of the rarer flowns were not chosen in preference to these.

thems were not chosen in preference to these.

The Dandies' two sides are the best of the lot. In the take-your-turn style the various instrumentalizate cut loose on a series of praiseworthy solos (see best solos column). On the whole, the two Bius Blowers sides are medicore, the performance is spotty, and their major interest lies in Coleman Hawkins' tenoring, and Maggay Spanier's muted trumpet accompaniment for the vocals.

The importance of Bessie Smith has been over-stimated. She sings well enough, but possesses no satient characteristics which set her apart from other blues vocalists. The timbre of her voice is merely average and her phrasing is similar to that of many another blues warbler. Her emotional expressivement is no better, no worse than some of her contemporaries. However, let it be said that her numerous recordings entitle her to some recognition historically as an influential personage.

Bud Freeman one must first accustom himself to a rough tone and excessive vibrato. Judged by academic standards that sort of playing is unacceptable. But it's a typical jaxs style and tone, used by many virtuosi. In certain instances, that kind of playing supplies effective orchestration, but there is a limit to its legitimate use, even in jaxs. There's an overdose of such playing on these four

Mr. Wilder's neurotic goldfish aren't half as neurotic as the titles for his compositions. That Mr.
Wilder's hould dismiss his serious attempts at something new in swing with such frivolous titles is somewhat unfortunate. Somehow the words neurotic goldfish are incompatible with the celestial instrumentation of this octet, and produce the same effect upon the listener that would follow an announcement by Toecanini that a special guest artist on the NBC broadcast was to play Brahm's Lullaby on an open trumpet. I have no objections to surrealist titles when they are in keeping with the mood of the piece, but Mr. Wilder's music is not nearly so modern as these titles try to make it out to be.

The music itself has an 18th century charm, with an occasional promise of synopation. It makes for pleasant listening in spite of the somewhat similar patterns of all four pieces.

Regardless of reasons and excuses, it still seems silly as hell for sponsors to spend the kind of money that they do, and then go on ignoring such obvious means of increasing the value received for each dollar spent. Radio Sponsors of Dance Bands Are Wasting Money Overlooking Tie-Ups!!

National Campaigns Offer Wide and Virtually Untried Fields for New Sales; Shaw-Old Gold Cited as Poor Example By George Oveson

Most of the people who sponsor dance bands on radio programs waste a tremendous amount of money—waste it through ignoring countless opportunities to tie-in on the promotional campaigns that are constantly being put on by the promoters and operators who buy the bands for engagements.

We do frequently hear about aggressive promoters and operators who buy the bands for engagements.

We do frequently hear about aggressive promoters and managers arranging local and regional teaps on band dates, and there have even been a few attempts to live of the poon of the poon of the poon of the promoters and managers.

But no matter what kind of ways in which to cooperate with the buyers.

Gold, there are literally hundreds of ways in which to cooperate with the buyers.

On one-niters, for example, every old Gold distribution outlet within the territory of each engagement could be handling the advance-sale tickets—perhaps giving a special tickets—or as arcticity and promoters also buys a package of Old Golds with every ticket at full price-to-prace and programs are asked to the very too buyer a full carton—or as straight with every ticket at full price-to-prace asked to the very too buyer a full carton—or as atraight with every ticket at full price-to-prace asked to the very too buyer a full carton—or as atraight with every ticket at full price-to-prace asked tickets—perhaps giving a special tickets—perhaps gi managers.

But no matter what kind of an engagement might be played, someone should see to it that every person in that territory knows that the engagement is being played, and that the band playing it is the same band that sells Old Gold cigarets on the radio.

Promoters Would Benefit

That's the least that should be done! With the proper set-up and a little extra effort on someone's part, every engagement could be turned into a concentrated local merchandising campaign that would sell cigareta, as well as increase the take at the box-office.
And if you don't think the promoters would pay more for a band that could throw in a few readymade commercial promotion tieups—just ask them!

GUTBUCKET DRIPPINGS

Into Which Riled, Relentless, or Rabid Readers Drip Their Dissonances of Opinion

Edited by Ted Toll

The drip with the loudest splash this month seems to have come from a couple of concurring opin-ions about Coleman Hawkins sent in by a Dartmouth sophomore and a cat in East Hartford, Connecti-eut.

Howard Slason, the Connecticut cat, asks: "What is so wonderful about Charlie Barnet," Just be-

about Charlie
Barnet' Just because a guy displays the arranging talent of Ellington, Henderson and Lasie, is he asensation? (Editor's note: Ian't he?) Listen to Barnet's tenor on Talk of the Town, and then jick up Henderson's Columbia ing Coleman Hawkins on the same job. Barnet, the mug, is obviously trying to slide into Swing's Hall of Fame by the back door, but why push him?"

Oliver A. Quayle III, Dartmouth '42, concurs on "Hawk": "Chu Berry has wonderful technique; everyone appreciates Bud Freeman; nobody can help but extol Eddie Miller's excellent work; George Auld has taken some terrific solos... but there is one man immortal to the tenor saxophone. That man is Coleman Hawkins...

Just listen to his second chorus on Netche's Draum (Decca) and you with mouth and fingers, but with his soul... The greatest tenor saxist in the world, Coleman Hawkins!

Frank Aisbitt and Ralph Lockhart of West View, Pa., collaborated on this: "Your writer said that Jimmy Dorsey's band was underrated and that he needed time on the air and lots of it. Well, when he played the Hotal New Yorker he had plenty of time on the air. We ourselves heard him every Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights for three weeks but he has yet to send us solid. ORCHESTRATION REVIEW

By Tom Herrick

THE SKATZES WALTZ, Bregman, Vocco & Conn. Arr. by Bob Haggert. This orchestration has really "got it." It is very simply orchestrated and yet it kicks plenty in the lazy Crosby two-beat style. It is one of the most practical swingaros yet arranged by Bassman Bobby Haggart. The muted brass chorus at A can be made extremely effective by backing it up with a swishy beat on the crash cymbal. The several instrumental solos are backed up with well-voiced organ. One for the books.

BEGIN THE BEGUINE, Harms,

backed up with well-voiced organ. One for the books.

BEGIN THE BEGUINE, Harms, Arr. by Jerry Gray. "Artic Shaw" bands. of which there probably are untold hundreds throughout the country, will get a tremendous kick out of the new Shaw series recently published by Harms. Beguine, one of Artie's most popular records, furnishes the basis for this fine stock arrangement. As a matter of fact, it is practically the same as Artie's original arrangement, except that it is scored in the key of C, whereas the original, I believe, was in E flat. The clarinet solos are written into the third alto saxophone part instead of the first alto part. A fine example of the Shaw style of swing.

instead of the first alto part. A fine example of the Shaw style of swing.

'TAIN'T WHAT YOU DO (It's the Way That Cha Do It), Leeds Music, Arr. by Vie Schoen. The newly formed publishing company. Leeds Music, seems to have picked a hit with this tune. Jimmy Lunceford's version of it is probably the best known and is the one around which this stock arrangement was built. 'Tain't What You Do is the type of tune which a band can build a novelty around. Parodies can be made up to fit in with the original idea. The first two choruses are vocal and may be sung by the whole band. Between C and D there is a second trumpet solo with a sax background. D and E should be carefully rehearsed by the brass in order that the section may achieve that doowah effect featured by Lunceford which is put into use here.

I'M DIZZY, I'M DAFFY, I'M GOOFY OVER YOU, Philip L. Haims of Cleveland, Ohio, which sounds like it were specially written for Eddie Cantor. It will provide an excellent feature number for bands that specialize in novelties, for it has an extremely catchy melody and good lyrics. The arranger, Bill Scott, has left the first two instrumental choruses open for vocal work. The interlude between A and D may be omitted, B supplying the modulation into the ride trumpet chorus for the first stixteen measures of the third chorus. The last chorus is simply but swingily orchestrated.

BACK BAY SHUFFER, Robbins, Arr, by Spad Murphy. This is another Artie Shaw record arrange-but swingily orchestrated.

BACK BAY SHUPPLE, Robbins, Arr. by Spud Murphy. This is another Artie Shaw record arrangement on Bluebird, which was penned by Artie and Teddy McKae. After a four-measure drum intro, saxes have the melody with brass figures. The second trumpet takes an entire chorus at C with a typically screwy Shaw background in the sax section. The tenor sax and trombones share the chorus at D, while F and G are ensemble choruses with the brass working against the saxes in a riff effect that will put joy in the heart of Shaw's admirers.

I GET ALONG WITHOUT YOU

Shaw's admirers.
I Ger Alono Without You Very Well, Famous Music, Arr. by Gordon Jenkins. Hoagy Carmichael's new tune of 62 barscount 'en! Gordon Jenkins has built up an entire orchestration with only two choruses, which is just about enough, for this is just twice as long as the average tune. A simple but effective arrangement of a pop tune which you are going to need.

Joseph Carpenter of Hartford, Conn.. is evidently recently converted to collecting, so the "Yearbook" ought to be of special help to him. Specifically, Mr. Carpenter wants to know the value of such bands as the Mobile Melody Makers on the Globe label and Joseph Samuels' Band on the Okeh label. Both are practically worthless. As for the Harlem Hot Chocolates on the Hit of the Week label, about which he also inquires, the name is a pseudonym for Duke Ellington. Much of the recent mail addressed to this column has been concerned with inquiries regarding value of old records. This question seems to crop up regularly in the minds of collectors, so, for a beginning, I'd like to suggest that much of the information contained in the "Year-book of Swing," published by Down Beat, concerns valuation and personnel of old records. It might land personnel of old records.

checks up on Artie Shaw with a PRESTO recorder

Here is Artie Shaw, Swing's newest King, now featured on the Old Gold program and making dance history on his current one-nighter and theatre tour. He knows what people expect of a name band—flawless programs every time. So Artie Shaw makes Presto recordings during rehearsals, then lets his men hear themselves as they play new numbers and arrangements. Presto recordings help him explain faults . . . save time training new men . . . speed up rehearsals.

If you owned a Presto Recorder, you could give your band the same opportunity for self-criticism— and save rehearsal time now lost by argument and explanation. You could make records of your own music whenever you wished, at trifling cost.

Would you like a free trial recording? Just mail the coupon for the name of your nearest dealer. He'll be glad to make one for you without charge or obligation.

RECORDER is designed especially for band leaders and entertainers. It makes and plays records up to the 12" size at either 78 or 331/4 RPM. Records a complete 15 minute radio program on two sides of a 12" disc. Having a ten-watt amplifier and two full size ten-inch loud-speakers it is also an excellent public address system for audiences up to 1000 persons. Recorder unit weighs only 40 lbs.; twin speaker unit weighs 27 lbs. Easy to carry, easy to set up and operate anywhere.

Wollaston, Mass.—"Berigan's going to join Goodman."
That's what the crowd was saying two mounts ago when Bunny let several of his mem go. Others claim Bunny was planning to organize a "chamber group" and try something new in the way of swing trumpeting.

But Bunny fooled us all. He went out and got new men, and a new girl singer in the person of Kathleen Lane, and now he's back on the stand with a new band which in a few more weeks, Bunny and his men are convinced, will be the best Berigan has ever assembled.

He's young, but he is constantly improving and he plays good, solid drums. Don Lodice, on tenor, is about as good as Georgie Auld but doesn't have Georgie's bite. Bivona's clarineting is exciting, and his alto work excellent. "I'm tired of just making a living," Bunny said here recently, "and I want the best band in the country."

thinks this is some kind of a record.

Playing drums on "Nagasaki" the other night at Club Continental, with Prince Stewar's sepia ork, Price rapped out 211 consecutive solo choruses, stopping only when the head of his mare caved in under the besting. During his "solo" the boys in the band walked off the standwent out, took a smoke, and gut back in time to tune up again before hitting a chord and ending what Price believes to be the longest skin solo on record.

Previous mark was 208, set by Price last summers, He expects to make it 300 if the management will allow him the time it takes to turn the trick.

Blind Alec Templeton Has Rare Talent; Ability to Swing Surprises Musicians

By Sharon A. Pease

- Alec Templeton Chicago is one of those rare individ-uals capable of playing both the classics and swing—and with equal aptitude.

Asked how this came about,
Alec explains "simply because I have studied each with

I have studied each with equal care and sincerity."
Templeton's admission that he has made a serious study of swing would probably surprise the thousands who attended his Carnegie Hall (New York) concert last month. Those privileged to hear him, however, in the atmosphere of a swing session would vouch for Alec that the youth's ability came only after long years of study. Alec not only rlays the sophisticated type of swing, which he sometimes includes in his concerts, but he can beat out "chunks" of boogie-woogie, or the blues that really jump.

Blind Since Birth

Alec was born 28 years ago in Cardiff, England. Blind since birth, he has displayed a remarkable sense of touch and sound. When he was two years old, he was melodies of a chime clock in his home. At five, he was making public appearances, and at 12 he was taking part in a contest sponsored by the British Broadcasting Corp., in which he won first prize.

Following studies with a local teacher, Alec spent four years at the Royal College of Music in London; then came his formal debut at Aeolian Hall.

Came Here With Hyton

Alec came to the United States in 1935 with Jack Hylton, Since that time, he has become a top favorite through the medium of concerts, the radio, nitery appearances and phono discs. One of his most talked-of achievements is his most talked-of achievements is most talked-of achievements of the audience at random, then improvise on it in the manner of Beethoven, Brahms, Mendelasohn or any of the old masters. He does the same thing with five pop songs. This accomplishment is demonstrated on a record called "Information" which is part of his album number one: "Musical Impressions, Satires and Improvisations. Satires and Improvisations. Satires and Improvisations as selections, as well as many more by Alec, are published by Work. It's called his "Topsy Turvy" suite.

Al Valenti Back in the East: Student Has His TroublesWith Strings

By Charles Amberger

Answering the inquiry of V. V., of Baltimore, and in response to other requests for information about Al Valenti, I am glad to be able to inform you that he is back in the East again, having been brought here to make transcriptions and records, and for radio work. For more than five years Valenti was guitarist and soloist with Joe Reichman's orchestra. Because of Al's ability, he was featured and established a national reputation as one of the outstanding players of the instrument. You will hear more about Valenti, and so doubt enjoy his renditions of such compositions as Fritz Kreisler's Caprics Viennois, J. S. Bach's Prelude, Rube Bloom's Song of the Bayou, Lou Alter's Manhattan Serenade and other classical and modern masterpieces, as transcribed for guitar.

Trouble With Strings

Trouble With Strings

J. T. Elmhurst, N.Y., is having difficulty with his strings, saying he gets "a lot of noise and squeaks" when he alides from one chord to another. Now I personally use the polished strings, which eliminate fager noises, not only because they eliminate noise, but also because they produce a clear, brilliant tone. If you try a set of polished strings, I am sure your troubles will be over.

Now we shall continue with the first dominant seventh chord and run built from the first of the seventh chord on top. This is played in the manner illustrated. I have given the chord diagram to readily show next column will concern a dominant seventh chord and also the correct fingering and picking. My

From Hopewell, Va., a letter comes from Speck Hodges. He says he as written a passage for three brass, which we reproduce below. "Will on please show me two ways of writing harmony parts for three saxes accompany this brass phrase?" Hodges asks. "One method I wish on would abow in for the saxes to play sustained notes wherever outsible against the brass. Also, will you show me how the chords ould appear for plane accompaniment?"

ANSWER—When voicing ensemble passages for three brass and three saxes there are a great many different methods that can be used. One of the most simple is to write the brass and saxes in trio form with the tenor doubling melody an octave lower, as in figure 1 below. In figure 2 a method is employed whereby the saxes are used as an accompaniment to the brass by playing sustained harmony and fill-ins wherever possible. If you wish to use 4-part harmony, a correct method is shown in figure 3, in which the fourth part harmony is distributed to different instruments. In figure 4, a much more full and broad effect is obtained by writing the brass in open harmony. In figure 5, a method is employed in which the melody is not doubled by tenor and which employs 4-part harmony.

Moving down to the figure 6, a method is shown whereby the saxes play a counter melody in unison against the brass. In using this method it is unnecessary to use a counter melody throughout the entire duration of a phrase. When a passage occurs in which a counter melody is not practiced, the brass may play that particular passage alone, or the saxes may be scored as a trio for that passage in which no counter melody is used. See the third bar of figure 6. You will find that this method will produce a pleasing and interesting effect, especially when used on broadly played legato passages.

These are only a few of the many different methods used in scoring for three brass and three saxes, some of which I am sure you will discover for yourself by experimenting. Meanwhile, I hope these few axamples will be of some help to you.

In figure 7, I have written the piano accompaniment to your problem. When writing the piano part for an arrangement, any inversion of the correct chord may be used. Do NOT write the chords too high on the tall—a good range is from A on the staff to E-flat below. The mellow sound of chords written within this range will blend nicely with full orchestra.

Proper Way to Write the Harmony Parts for Saxes

Doubling in Brass

Concluding the 'Open Letter' To Harry James Which Was Begun by Author Last Month

By John O'Donnell

Pardon the 30-day interruption. But I shall conclude this open letter herewith.

Check back, Harry, and you will remember I said that you were playing correctly low on lower teeth, so having a correct position on lower teeth, it was easy for you to pick up your perfect background or lower chop, and at same time hold your new high position on lower lip, which you picked up when you changed from two-thirds below to one-third below. Your new position of upper chop, teeth, and lip helped, but it was your new perfect balance on lower lip, mouthpiece rim, and old position on teeth and chop, that allowed your cheek to blow. The minute you hit your firm seat on lower, everything relaxed—cheek and all. No man can or would relax on a wobbly chair, but on a firm chair, they relax everything.

Teeth Didn't Matter

Teeth Didn't Matter

Teeth Didn't Matter

Having teeth pulled had absolutely nothing to do with it. You notice I said "cheek" to you, and that is correct. Only one in a thousand would have automatic blowing of both cheeks, because only one in thousands play in direct center.

No one should blow cheeks.

All good men, the world over, have an automatic blowing of cheek or a gentle puffing of upper lip. This is nature's way of allowing a genius or an artist to use only one set of muscles, which should be the lower muscles.

Some Are Simply Ignorant

Some Are Simply Ignorant Muscles up above are not necessary because of the stationary jaw, but are vital down below because of the moveable jaw. Two sets of muscles would be fatal, the same as two fielders going after one ball (crash!).

Again I say, "No man should blow his cheeks," but all good men the world over automatically—and naturally—have a puffing or blowing around upper muscles. Super range and endurance calls for a heavier blowing of upper lip or cheek, all automatic of course.

Dear Harry:
Pardon the 30-day interruption.
But I shall conclude this open letter herewith.

Lots of them are so natural that way that they are ignorant of the fact until the condition is pointed to them or they are reminded out to them or they are reminded of it.

Smiling Muscles Gripped
Tommy Dorsey, Bunny Berigan,
Louis Armstrong, Roy Eldridge,
Benny Goodman, Manny Klein, Artie Shaw, Jack Jenny and Sonny Dunham, all good men, have an automatic blowing of cheeks, maybe just a blowing of upper lip or just a puffing of cheeks. But to the genius or artist, one condition is a little more correct and not quite as extreme as the other.
That brings us back to my article in Down Belly, March '38, in which I said, "James couldn't blow his nose if he didn't blow his cheeks." That still stands good.

Chicago Drummer Wants to Know If Tom-Toms Should Be Tuned

By George Wettling

Ft. Worth, Tex.—It is with no little apprehension that I tell myself, as well as the folk who apparently read this column, anything I might think about. This much I am sure—people have odd and varied ideas of how to carry on a plain conversation in English, as we in America handle it. In any event, if I unwittingly cross someone in Boston and at the name time score an agreement in Frisco, my effort is not misspent.

Dick Flaherty of good old Chieago is puzzzled as to whether he should tune his tom-toms according to the piece he is playing or keep them at one pitch for all tunes. My advice (as tom-toms are of Oriental origin) is that they should be kept at one pitch—acording to what you would want your ear to hear. If you think they should be tuned, however, I would suggest the 12 by 14 be tuned to a low G and the 9 by 13 to a C.

He has fine taste and would be worth your listening to. Jesse Price is another Kaycee tub man to watch. (Address communications to George whether the property of the Down Baar, 608 S. Dearborn. Chicago.)

tuned to a low G and the 9 by 13 to a C.

R. Frizzell, Muncie, Ind., wants me to straighten out the answer I gave the boy in my first column in the February issue. To begin with, I DID NOT advise the lad to quit taking lessons, but to quit paying a dollar a lesson. Of course I know that reading drum music is most essential in becoming a successful drummer, but in his letter the boy stated he was very good, and could use the buckaroo to other advantages. Hence my answer.

Young Girl Writes In

Here's one from Gloria Bryant in Belmont, Mass. She has been taking drum lessons for about five months, but her mother seems to think a girl drummer has about as much future as a cake of ice. Gloria would like to have her own girl band some day, too. So by all means, keep studying and absorbing all the knowledge you can about drums. And don't forget that mother doen't always know best George Petty, New York City, was to know the difference between a jazz drummer and a swing drummer. Well, it's about the same difference between a crocodile and an alligator.

Minneapolis — "Campus Scale," the $5 rate for a three-hour (before midnight) job on the University campus, will be "out for good" this fall, according to Stan Ballard, local 73 prexy.

The scale came into effect about two years ago when University organizations pleaded that the regular 3-hour tate was too high for the undergrad's pocketbook.

Since then union officials here have discovered that University and high school organizations are

Boston Sends Woody Herman To Famous Door

DOWN BEAT

By Bob Doucette
Boston — The Woody Herman band is definitely on its way. With the acquisition of Mary Ann McCall, everything has begun to break the right way—for a change. The band moved into the Famous Door in late March for a -week ngagement, where it replaced the Barnet crew.

The Hermans will get the same apots on the networks that Barnet had, which should really start them on their way. Many rumors have been flying around as to just who is going to open the Ritz Roof. As yet, there has been no definite announcement, but Larry Clinton and his band lave positively been signed to put in an appearance at the Roof the coming season, along with Crosby, Goodman, and James. The Bradford Penthouse has closed. When it reopens, it will be under the hotel's personal management. Tom Maren severed connections with the hotel when he closed the room.

Contractural obligations required that he keep the room open the year around, and his failure to do to resulted in a breach of contract on his part, with the result that the hotel steps into control of the room once again.

Newark 'Het Up' Over Big Names

Harrisburg, Pa.—We'll have a night of real "kicks" around here if Gene Otto, manager of the Madrid Ballroom, keeps his promise to import Duke Ellington late this spring.

By Freddie Gold

Newark, N. J.—Mai Hallett and Red Nichols dished out the jive last month from the stage of the Paramount Theater, where both bands were pitted against one another. Their date came on the heels of the "feud" between Benny Goodman and Artie Shaw, who earlier had played a week at the Shubert and Paramount houses, respectively.

this spring.

But except for that anticipation, things are quiet along the Susquehanna, with local jive suffering from a winter hangover. However, the William Penn Hotel has just opened a new grill room. Red McCarthy was well liked as the opening band. He was followed by the Arkanass Revelers, a novelty trio which had just finished 15 weeks in New York's Village Barn. Benny's house claimed a techni-cal victory, inasmuch as his show was adjudged the better, the Shu-bert had a higher (99-cent) top to Benny's 75-cent ante, and the bugs bounced in the aisles more. Philly Gets Big Dose of Swing With James Topping All

By Curly Losben
Philadelphia—Bill Penn's town was really sent last month with such bands as Harry James, Artie Shaw, Red Norvo and Ted Weems on tap. Lanky Harry, billed as "the nation's number one trumpeter," did terrific biz at the Ben Franklin Hotel following Reggie Childs' date. His band stacks up amazingly well, for the short time it's been organized, and in addition to sporting a swell array of soloists, Harry has an eyeful (who really sings) in Bernice Byres. Artie Shaw caused an uproar in local circles when he granted the locals an interview. He said "swing will not last," and "there's no style in swing," statements which knocked some of us for a row. It also is alleged that Artie refused to appear on a local station featuring recordings. Every band leader who's played Philly has appeared on the program—but Artie saw things differently.

Larry Kent, composer of Hold Tight, has another even more whacky. . . The National Swing Association will hold its third annual dance here, and a monkey will be a guest. He'll be there for a purpose, however, inasmuch as Dr. H. C. Kutzel, eminent psychologist, will observe swing's effects on the simian. . A Philly youngster who bears watching is Rob Golden, musical director of WCAU.

Baltimore—Town is being treated to some ultrafine dance music them days, what with Artie Shaw filling an engagement at the Alexar Ballroom for Johns Hopkins University and Larry Clinton slated to take over the same bandstand for the Loyola College Prom May 12th.

On top of that, Vincent Lopes completed a week's run at the Hippodrome March 9th, followed two weeks later by Ozzie Nelson and Harriet Hilliard. But it seems that the more they come, the better they gret, for Ted Routson has those "Sentimental Gentlemen of Swing" with Tommy Dorsey at the helm, setting up on his Hippodrome stage on April 28th, for a 7-day stand.

Ferde Grofe played a one-night date at the Lord Baltimore Hotel for a local organization. . . Credit goes to Lewis, who interrupted his successful date at the Shea; to Marchelli, Shea's guest leader, who brought along a fine small group; to Johnny Long, the portaide fiddler and his swell Hotel Statler ork, and to all the others for making a lot of less fortunate musicians hearts feel lighter—and for giving Buffalonians a night long to be remembered.

Narry acties to ican Records, makers of Brunswick, Vocalion and Columbia dises, other companies became worried over losing ace Negro artists to Hammond's firm. Count Basie jumped from Decta to Vocalion, Meade Lewis and Albert Ammons, boogie - woogie apecialists, also jumped, and a host of others, including Jimmie Lunceford, were having platters released under Vocalion's label after long stretches with other waxwork firms. Apparently American Records intends to build the strongest "hot jaxx" library of any company active today. Difficulties experienced by Decca and Victor with the American Federation of Musicians over the making of race records by non-union artists were smoothed out to everyone's satisfaction when the waxworks paid for stand-by bands. Decca and Victor, as a result, are in solid again with the union. Steadily increasing sales of both popular and classical discs is responsible for the dog-eat-dog fight among the big companies. Phono record machines remain the largest outlet for 35-cent platters, but the amazing increase in sales of "hot" records, "righteous jaxx" discs and others not formerly found profitable proves that America's musicians are consistently buying more sides for private collections.

name, and they knew who the best ones were, so they'd get together the ten they wanted, not just any ten. And all the colored folks would follow the white band and parade around town. And the white folks would follow a black band down the street.

street.

When they got to the dance there was no jitter-bugging. They still don't understand what that means down there. They want the orchestra to play blues mostly, and always slow. And don't dance much. Mostly they just listen to the band, and if they dance it's slowly, and no fancy steps. If they don't like a tune, or don't like the band, they yell—they'll even stop the dance if they don't get the kind of music they want to hear.

Rich Tourists Helmed

Rich Tourists Helped

Rich Tourists Helped

When I was just a kid, I got my first job playing trumpet with a five-piece band in Martin's, a cabaret in Bucktown, just across the parish line. Across that line everything was wide open. Wine, women and song was a mild name for it. They never paid us more than two bucks a night, but the tips were heavy, and we lived high. And sometimes the rich tourists who came to the cabaret would take us away with them when the club closed at four or five in the morning. We'd drive away with them in their Cadillacs and Pierce-Arrows, and play for them till the sun rose.

Those men—many of them were millionaires — would take a five-piece band with them on their fishing trips. They'd put us in a big, flat-bottomed boat (with a string-bass substituting for piano) and we'd tear out chorus after chorus for them while they fished laxily. We'd come back to town just in time to get on the bandstand to play a dance, and everybody in the ballroom would know we'd been out playing all day on a fishing trip. That coudn't happen anywhere in the world except New Orleans.

Made Early Morning Rounds

over and watch.

One night, I remember, we got into the wrong part of town and when we were half-way thru our early morning serenade, a cop came up and nabbed us. He put us all in the Black Maria and we played in it till we got to the jailhouse. It was 5 a. m. when we got into the jailhouse, and we kept on playing there till it was 9 a. m. and the judge came. Then we played for him—and he thanked us for the concert and let us go.

No sir, there just isn't any town Made Early Morning Rounds
There were great musicians down there in those days—from 1915 to 1925. The New Orleans Rhythm Kings, King Oliver, Louis Armstrong, the Old Dixieland Band, Emmet Hardy and his band, Merritt Brunies' and Pinky's Mississippi Mudbugs.

When we were through playing our cabaret or dance jobs, we used to stroll down into the neighborhoods at two or three in the morning and park on some musician's doorstep. Then we'd play the New Orleans "Early Morning Serenade" until that musician would wake up and come down and join us in playing on someone else's doorstep. All

DOWN BEAT

The "Hit Parade of Swing"— Three priceless books for the Library of Every Musician

YEARBOOK OF SWING

Written by Paul Miller, Down Beat's record columnist, this is the first book ever written to cover swing music in all its phases. It gives dates, names . . . puts prices on rare records. It's practically a necessity for the record collector and swing fan. Duke Ellington says, "Miller's thorough knowledge of the subject makes his book doubly interesting." $2.00 per copy.

"Destiny"

A book of eight colorful sketches suitable for framing by the well-known artist, George Von Physter. "Destiny" contains studies from the life of the professional musician executed with a feeling that could be portrayed only by one who has lived the life of the professional musician. $1.00

"ABOUT THE PIANO"

A yearbook of Down Beat's featured piano column by Sharon Pease, Contains pictures, biographies, and 12 complete piano choruses as played by the most famous swing stars of today-Bob Zurke, Teddy Wilson, Jess Stacey, Joe Sullivan, Albert Ammons, Meade Lux Lewis, Fred Slack, and others. A 'must' for every pianist. $1.00 per copy.

Union Trouble In Los Angeles

By Dave Hylmen

Los Angeles — Central Labor Council ordered Local 47 to pull Freddie Martin's band out of the Council ordered Local 47 to pull Freddie Martin's band out of the Ambassador Hotel's Cocoanut Grove in sympathy with the striking of the Culinary Worker's Union, last month, the council claiming strike was called only after the Grove management had refused to negotiate. MCA argued as best it could against pulling the band, claiming that no strike had been called. But Prexy Weber OK'd the musicians' walking out.

Baron Long, Biltmore Hotel proprietor, later made public a statement to the effect that if the bands in the Biltmore are taken out in sympathy, he will close both the Biltmore Bowl and the Rendezvous Room for the summer. After a conference with AFL representatives, Long said he would leave the rooms open for two weeks while negotiations were completed. The Union had agreed to a lower wage scale after Long had complained that wage demands were based on what he termed 'the flush prosperity' of a decade ago. Up to time of writing the Grove was still dark and the Biltmore Rooms were still open.

Martin, meanwhile, went to Chicago's Aragon Ballroom.

New Union Structure

New Union Structure
Local 47 Officials are mulling over plans for a new building to be located in Hollywood, probably close to Radio City. A committee comprised of the Board of Directors and the Musicians' Clubmen has been appointed to soout around for a suitable spot. The downtown building is old and is difficult to reach for most members as parking is scarce and the traffic is dense. The majority of musicians work in or around Hollywood, making that the logical location.
