Artie Shaw Fed Up With Music Racket

BY DAVE DEXTER, JR.

"I hate the music business," Artie Shaw last week, said 'and I'll tell you why. In a month and a half they haven't given me a minute to work out something with my band." worthwhile

'No Time to Breathe'
With his customary candor — which too many times has been misinterpreted by listeners and reporters as "anootiness," Artie in an interview given Michael Mok of the New York Post honestly gave forth his views on the dance music industry.

mdustry.

"I have been at the top, God belp me, only since last November," declared Shaw. "Before that, when we were not in demand, we had time to rehearse, prepare things, create nice effects. On the strength of that, we arrived. But they won't let you stay at the top. They won't give you a chance to breathe. That's why dance bands shoot up like rockets and plunk down again."

Shaw told Mok without nulling.

Irwin, whose real name is Alfred Beadman, was said to have been registered at a hostelry here with 19-year-old Ruth Smith, his fem chirper. The Child Welfare Department, New York City, requested authorities here to nab him. Police now are waiting for the Welfare people to send for Irwin.

Another Longhair Concert for B G

New York—Benny Goodman has signed to appear, with his band, in a swing concert January 10 in Town Hall here. The date is one in Town Hall's traditional series which includes Elizabeth Rethberg, Lawrence Tibbett, Esio Pinza and other longhairs. Chris Griffin, for three years an act tumprets with three years an ace trumpeter with Benny, left the band last week to CBS studios here.

Should Negro Musicians Play in White Bands?

"No! Definitely No!" said many leaders and side men.
"But why?" asked Down BEAT's reporters. "It's professional suicide" said one, "but don't quote me. It's not fair for Negroes to replace white mu-

Benny Should Be Congratulated For His Courage—Jimmy Dorsey

How do American band leaders and side men feel about Benny Goodman's adding Charlie Christian and Fletcher Henderson, Negro instrumentalists, to his band?

Henderson, Negro instrument.

That question aroused tremendous interest last month when Christian, following Henderson, was added. Goodman claims he wants to have the lest band possible to assemble, and he chose Christian and Henderson, he said, because "they are the best on their respective instruments." In addition, Lionel Hampton is an outstanding member of the Goodman company.

Jimmy Dorsey Favors It

Siding in with Benny was Jimmy Dorsey, among others. He said: "Frankly, I think Benny should be congratulated for his courage in adding Negro musicians to his orchestra.

"I have a very good idea of the criticism to which he'll be sub-bown Brat, starre column has long be peted, for it will be remembered that for nearly a year we had June Richmond as vocalist with my band. I also think it would be presumptuous for any leader to tell Benny he is jeopardizing his professional future, for offhand I can't think of any leader doing better than Benny. To my mind, the question resolves itself to one of style. I feel my present instrumentation, resolves itself to one of style. I feel my present instrumentation, without Negro talent, expresses my style best. If Goodman feels he can better express his band's style with colored artists, more power to him. If anyone can make a mixed band acceptable to the public—Benny Goodman can!"

But in spite of the tremendous debt we owe Negro musicians and composers for our style we would not consider that the addition of one or more Negroes would enhance that style, any more than the addition of a white musician would improve any more than the addition white musician would in Duke Ellington's orchestra We have too much respect for the vitality and imagination of Negro

Here's Why Louise Tobin Is With BG

BY HARRY JAMES

Right off the bat I'd like to answer the question that most every-body asks us constantly: "Why does your wife sing with Benny Goodman instead of you?"

"Saxes Are My Problem"

The answer's pretty simple. Louise can learn more from Benny, she can make more money, and naturally she can become better known. She is very happy right now with Benny.

now with Benny.

Our band now is about 10 months old. And when Dave Dexter asked me to review the outfit I was only too glad to jot down my ideas. In reading other leaders' reviews in Down Beat I have noticed that most of them swear they are satisfied with their band as it is. Well I'm not. And here's why:

Fair Orks On Notice

BY CHARLES W. ZERWECK

With the New York World's Fair scheduled to close on October 31, all bands on the grounds are working on notice. It is evident that many of the spots using live music will close before the actual deadline set by the fair.

"Build-Ups" Poop Out

Most leaders who took assignments at the fair admittedly did so for the publicity and "build-up" the fair date would give them. The tag line "direct from the New York World's Fair" probably was in the mind of all for use during the 1939 winter acason.

The real name bands who have played or will play have been given negligible publicity for their 1-week stands at the public band shell. Public came in flocks to hear a name band—that was sure. But they never were quite sure who would be on the stand from one week to the next.

Pay Checks Vary

Those who played or will play the major afternoon dates are: Guy Lombardo, Tommy Dorsey, Ben Bernie, Benny Goodman, Hal Kemp, Jack Teagarden, Eddie Duchin, Gene Krupa, Bob Crosby, Glen Gray, Wayne King, Artie Shaw and Kay Kyser.

Unlucky? Maybe Your Name Is Spelled Wrong

Wingy Mannone and George Brunies changed the spelling of their names upon my recommendation, and this and other varied advice, suggestions, and predictions I have given other musician friends has caused many of them to wonder just what line of thought lies behind it all.

thought lies behind it all.

Well, it is basically numerology, the acience of numbers. Few persons realize the significance of numbers, and fewer have any vague motion of their effect on the lives of humans; of what a meaningless jumble life would be without them; of how futile it would be to attempt to measure, gauge, or compute anything—distance, weight, space, even time itself—or how we could discuss anything relatively, if we had no numbers.

Pythagoras' Mathematical Harmony

paniosopher." He furnished Copernicus (1475-1543) the incentive to construct the true theory of the solar system.

Pythagoras taught that the universe was composed of four elements, earth, water, fire, and air, and that numbers, like human beings, had a real existence and were the essence in principle from which the four elements or the universe were constructed. He also taught musical and arithmetical proportions. He believed that the planets were spheres, equally spaced apart, like strings on musical instruments, and that they produced harmonious sounds as they revolved, sounds which gifted ones could hear.

The compound number 25 in the name George is a favorable one and indicates benefit through others although it means trials and tribulations in early life. It is good for friendship, for the future, etc. George Brunies' full name adds up to 13, which is considered an unlucky number. It consists of three planets. No. 1 is governed by the planet Sun, and No. 3 by the planet Jupiter. By adding the numbers we get 4, which is governed by the planet Uranus.

Sun and Jupiter are the two most powerful forces in the universe. These powerful planets rebel against each other, and the planet Uranus is a planet of uncertainty, erratic impulses, and governs the changes of places and things. This is why the numbers 1 and 3 should never be together in marriages and partnerships, etc. The number is sacred and to abide by it one must live a life of sacrifice, as Christ did.

an accident occurred, for which Brunis had to appear in court as a witness. Immediately thereafter he took my advice and joined Muggsy Spanier's hand in chicago, where he did very well.

One day last January I was aiting in Billy Shaw's office at CRA, and Charlle Barnet walked in. Shaw asked me to analyze Barnet's name. I told Barnet that according to numerology his name was perfect, that in the months of March and April, 1939, he would be at the height of his success. As we all know, Charlie did attain outstanding success at this time.

At the time Teddy Powell was working on the "Manhattan Merry Go Round" I advised him to resign and go to Miami, Florida. In spite of the ridiculing of certain reporters, Teddy followed my advice. Hereturned from Miami later, in excellent health, and had intentions of going to California. Again I interrered and suggested he organize a band of his own. Which he did and is now doing very well at the Famous Door in New York.

In closing I would like to call your attention to the variety of influences that govern harmonious vibrations with your stars. Namely your home address, the city in which you live, the colors you wear, the person you marry, the jewelry you wear, and a multitude of others which space does not permit me to discuss more freely.

Proud is bandleader Lawrence Welk of his daughter, Shirley Jean, who in turn thinks a lot of daddy's great Dane, who keeps his eye on the band boys.

'Les Young Wasn't Carved' -- Holiday

Chicago — Refuting statements made by members of Fata Waller's band and other colored musicians who were there, Billie Holiday last week branded reports that Coleman Hawkins "carved" Les Young in a tenor dual at Puss Johnson's tavern in Harlem as "unfair" to Les. "Young really cut the Hawk," said Billie, "and most everyone there who saw them tangle agreed on that."

Dippy Story

New York—Eddy Rogers has something new, he thinks, in dance music.
Playing the Hotel Belvedere, he calls his style "dip music." As he puts it, "you just go along on a bar and then you dip." He features Irene Janis as vocalist.

Herth Does Double Duty in Chicago

Chicago — Theatergoers thought they were seeing double last month when the Milt Herth trio greeted them at the Roosevelt theater the same week the trio was headlining the stage bill down the street at the Chicago theater. Simple explanation was that Herth was on celluloid in a short at the Roosevelt while he was appearing in person at the other house.

Among the white contestants are Eddie Miller, Bud Freeman, Tony Pastor, Babe Rusin, Charlie Barnet, Saxie Mansfield, Herb Haymer, Jerry Jerome, Tex Beneke, Stew McKay, Sam Donahue, George Auld Dave Harris, Pat Davis, Hub Lytle, John Van Eppa and Art Rollini. Freeman won last rear, but it's inconceivable that he can beat Hawkins in 1939. Miller, whose style is the antithesis of whose style is the antithesis of Freeman's bonky, chart-sets Chi-cago style, has improved immea-surably as have Jerome and Ben-eke, and should lead the white list-

Many In the Race

But let's not get excited. More than one Negro tenor must be considered ahead of Miller and the other ace palefaces. Hawkins isn't too far ahead of Lester Young, whose manner of "fogborn" playing is definitely unique and without equal; Leon (Chu) Berry, everimproving and one of the three brightspots of the Calloway band; Dick Wilson, vastly underrated star of Andy Kirk's band who, because the band hasn't had a network wire for more than 16 straight months, is virtually unknown to everyone except record straight months, is virtually un-known to everyone except record buyers, and Prince Robinson, fat former McKinney's Cotton Pickers soloist. Because they each play with amazing technique, feeling, sincerity and originality, at the same time proving themselves ex-cellent section men, they must be considered ahead of the white con-testants. testants.

Falling in line behind those already mentioned might be Ben Webster, Joe Thomas, Vido Musso, Bobby Jones, Buddy Tate, Tony Zimmers, and a young white tenor out in Chicago, Joe Masek, who has come closest to playing Hawkins' style of all white men.

'Carter Standout on Alte

Alto saxes are another problem, and that division of the 1939 competition will probably be toughest of all. A year ago Benny Carter had just returned from Europe, and many had forgotten his genius. Today he is clicking with his own band, and his alto is pretty well acknowledged to have no equal.

The alto race, incidentally, was certainly the biggest laugh of last year's contest. The winner, if you can recall, was one Jimmy Dorsey. Now with altos like Carter, Hodges, Mondello, Matthews and Boyce Brown kicking strong again this year, such inane, unfounded, uncalled-for balloting simply can't be repeated. Or do Down Beat's editors count jitterbugs' votes?

Will Pinetop's Sons Be Great Like Their Dad?

Clarence and Eugene Smith Today Play Boorie-Woorie With the Best of Them

DINETOP SMITH was paid $12.50 for each of the eight aides he recorded on the old Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company's Vocalion label in 1928.

"No One Equals Him"

"No One Equals Him"

Shortly after he arrived in Chicago in the summer of 1928 and began working various house parties and at the Forestville Tavern, 47th and Forestville, on Chicago's South side, Pinetop looked up Mayo Williams, director of colored talent for Brunswick. An audition convinced Williams that Smith, with his piano talent and vocal style, really had something. In the ensuing months Pinetop cut the eight sides which today are all that's left of his genius. One of them, Pinetop's Boegie-Woogie, remains the greatest boogie effort ever recorded. No one yet has shown the good taste, sincerity and originality of this truly musical masterpiece of jazz. It was paired with Pinetop's Blues on Vocalion 1246. He also made Jump Steady Blues and Now I Ain't Got Nothing At All, Vo. 1298; Big Boy They Can't Do That and Nobody Wants You When You're Down and Out, Vo. 1256, and I'm Sober Now and I Got More Sense Than That, Vo. 1266.

"A Sincere Philosopher"

piano playing is subordinated to his vocals—vocals which prove Pinetop to be an ace comedian, a sincere philosopher and an actor of exceptional talent. On the Sober record he fakes his voice and takes the part of three other persons, but his own nasal, friendly, distinctive voice is easily recognizable.

Pinetop called a jail a "crib of misery" and on Big Boy, telling of his troubles, he described a cell as the place where he saw a "louse as big as a mouse" and a piece of bread "so thin I could see the light of day."

"Than what I'm talkin' bout," Pinetop would say.

Never Realized Ambition

One night a few weeks ago some of us gathered at the home of George Hoefer in Chicago to hear a STYLE and artist and melody wents You When You're Down and Out. We were stricken while Pinetop, on a vocal chorus, ironically spoke out and said "Someday folks are goin' to pay to hear Pinetop play."

Pinetop cannot be given credit as the creator of the boogie-woogie style, for we know it has been played in the South as far back as the creator of the boogie-woogie of the boogie pianists and probably did more than any other individual to make the style practical and actually identify his mode of playing. No one called it "boogie-woogie until his record of the same title was issued. Will Ezell, Montana Taylor, Hersal Thomas, Cow Cow Davenport, Lemuel Fowler, Cripple Clarence Lofton, Jim Yancey, Russell, Jimmy Flowers, Blind LeRoy Garnett, Hound Head Henry, Roy Barrow and Charlie Spand all are recognized now as the best of the blues pianist of early jazz days. But none of them could touch Pinetop in the boogie department — Pinetop stood alone, and does today, even with the advent of Pete Johnson, Albert Ammons, Meade Lux Lewis, and dozen others of the 1939 crop who use the boogie style commercially now that it is accepted.

Mayo Williams, now head of

Sampled the Jug

Mayo Williams, now head of colored talent for Decca, recalls the days when Pinetop recorded for him. He says Pinetop occasionally liked to "sample the jug" before a session, and more than once he would arrive at the studio in a taxicab, broke, and in need of a "little folding money" to pay the driver. Williams recalls that Smith was easy to record, well liked by the studio crew, and that they liked to work with Pinetop because after the masters were made Pinetop would entertain them all with his songs and dances.

them Ferd (Jelly-Roll) Morton, Tampa Red and the now-famous Earl Hines.

Why did Mrs. Smith apparently "leave the earth" shortly after Pinetop met death?

That's a question that has gone unanswered for 10 years. In all the time I was doing research on Smith, I was told his wife had either died or had moved back to Alabama. No time I was doing research on Smith, I was told his wife had either died or had moved back to Alabama. No one seemed to know anything about her present whereabouts. But finally, after convincing her of my sincere interest in her late husband, she cordially told the story. She said that shortly after Pinetop's death it was not uncommon for her to encounter people who claimed they knew Pinetop well—people she had never seen or heard of before. One night, in fact, at a party she was attending with friends, one windy guest went into a lengthy discousing of his friendship with Pinetop, and how he knew Pinetop's wife and "little girl" very well.

Fire Catches Barnet's Boys In an Eatery

BY DAVID HYLTONE

Los Angeles—When Charlie Bar-net and the boys in his band first heard that the Palomar ballroom heard that the Palomar ballroom was ablaze, they were out on the long intermission. Most of them were across the street at an eatery called Smitty's.

Barnet was sitting in the Terrace and in the time it took him to run across the floor to the stand the flames had practically enveloped it and he couldn't get closer than 30 feet because of the intense heat.

Better Than Being Bomb

'Better Than Being Bombed, Anyway'
There wasn't a chance to save anything on the stand. The entire library, which Charlie valued at $10,000, was destroyed, as were all the instruments also valued at $10,000. Only three of the boys had any insurance on them. The next day Barnet took the whole band down to Lockies' Music store and ordered new instruments for the whole outfit.

"Hell! It's better than being in Poland with bombs dropping on your heads," Barnet was heard to philosophize over at Smitty's a while after the fire had burnt its course.

Barnet offered 50 bucks to any-one who could find his tenor mouth-piece undamaged. One of the Palo-mar employees found it unharmed except for the reed's being burned except for the reed's being burned off.

Paramount Takes Basie In A few days later, in spite of the destruction of the library of 300 tunes, the band cut six sides for Bluebird at the Victor studios.

Count Basie, who was supposed to have opened at the Palomar on Oct. 4, arrived in town and for a while was in a dilemma as to what to do, but the Paramount theater came to the rescue and snapped up the band for a week's date.

The Palomar was uninsured, companies having refused to risk it because of the old-fashioned building and lack of proper safety devices. Loss was estimated at anywhere from a half million to two million dollars.

Because of the loss of the library a month's booking for Barnet had to be cencelled with one brary a month's booking for Barnet had to be cancelled, with one charming ballroom operator in Oakland named Sweet threatening to sue unless Barnet played the date as per schedule.

Here's The Answer to

Chicago, October 15, 1939

Now music is frightfully aesthetic stuff, and I'm sure that George would have just as much trouble explaining exactly why trouble explaining exactly why King Oliver was greater than any other Joe Blow of his period as I have in explaining why I think Ellington and Basie are the best ever. What makes a soloist great, anyhow? Is it the notes he plays, the way he plays them, or, as I am almost led to believe from listening to Basie's piano, is it the notes he doesn't play? I'll admit frankly that I can't put my finger on that ethereal quality which is responsible, but I do know that the reputation of being good makes the notes blown by some performers sound greater than those of others without the name, to a lot of people.

Plenty of Good Boys Today

Plenty of Good Moys Today
In some respects Mr. Avakian is right in saying that King Oliver played jazz as well as it could be played, in 1922. It is essentially only the details which have been improved. Rhythm sections are fuller and more solid. Backgrounds are played with more finess and only the details which have been improved. Rhythm sections are fuller and more solid. Backgrounds are played with more finesse, and in many cases, with more regard for the musical effect. The solo is still the most important part of the music, and on the man who plays it lies the reaponsibility for the effect produced. It is questionable as to whether improved technical ability enables a man to express himself any better, but it's certainly no hindrance, and it does make jazz more listenable. And if it's a dearth of competent and artistic ad lib men that George deplores, I have already listed a few, but I'll mention Hank d'Amico, Fazola, Woody Herman, Lester Young, Joe Marsala, Joe Dixon, and Eddie Miller on clarinet without scratching the surface of possibilities. Mr. Avakian has already branded Bobby Hackett, at the tender age of 23, as a flash in the pan, but such a statement is obviously a play for sensationalism, so I'll merely note that Max Kaminsky does a fine job on cornet too.

It seems as if Mr. Avakian doesn't know his own mind himself, for he pans equally the clarinetists who play with a good tone, and the tenor sax men who don't.

Always Has Been Rubbish'.

and the tenor sax men who don't.

Always Has Been Rubbish!

I'll admit that there is a lot of junk being recorded today. Blasting is a favorite sport of the big timers. But there always has been a lot of commercial rubbish thrown at the public. The encouraging thing is that the people who still prefer to listen to Begin the Beguins rather than to Louis Armstrong's Two Deuces are the people who, a decade ago, when Louis was recording his great sides, were being sent by the Lombardo quaverings, compared to which, even the Shaws and the Millers have their good points. Public taste can not be improved over night, but it obviously is improving, though slowly. In another decade or so it may be that John Jitterbug will share the heights of appreciation the answer telling where late the court has a surective good afford to pay, we'd by their records too. What About Norvo? It's true that many of the best musicans of today don't get the attention they deserve, any more containing the greatest play acceptable music. It within that if he is sincere he will have to admit that he is guilty of understatement in this last. It seems to me that the Duke's band is playing the greatest jaze ever heard right now. We Want To See a Square Deal

Whether it is good or bad, in its final analysis, the editors of Down BEAT frankly do not know. They are trying to encourage musicians to think about it instead of feeling about it.

And if promoting honest discussions about debatable is sues can bring those issues into an atmophere of "give and take," reasonableness, and impartiality, DOWN BEAT will certainly open its columns.

One thing sure, we want to see a square deal. And any American, no matter what his race, his color, or his creed, is entitled to that.

Wichita, Kans. To the Editors:

In this hectic world of troubled times, it is up to the musicians to put their "all" into their work. The entertainment field is a world of influence. It abould be an influence to the happy side of life; the merry and cheery things. Right this day is the time the world needs this happy inspiration more than any other time, and it is up to the entertainer to give it.

Music has charms, and with the aid of a happy orchestra, can bring much happiness and cheerfulness. The last person who should "grumble" at the world situation is the musician. So be aware of this important mission of yours. In the proper way you can help the world a lot by making it forget its troubles. Always greet your patrons and everybody with a smile. Work a little harder to get a little happier job done. It's hard to accomplish, but with a little effort, musicians should do it!

Protection is No Worry for The Territory Bands!

BY GEORGE OVESON

Unlike the big names, who will be advertised over an area of 50, 75 or even 100 miles around the spot where they'll play, the "territory" band has no protection worries when it books dates because none of the promoters ever campaigns an area for one of these bands. A "territory" leader can accept dates as close to each other as 20 miles. That makes it easy for the kids to tag along for a few days.

Some Own Their Location!

Most of the booking is done on the spot, and often months in advance. At the end of a successful engagement the leader and employer haul out their route books, compare the open time, and usually set several repeat dates scattered out over the next three months. It's a good system, and possible only when a band is not interested in building itself—you can't do much about accepting a juicy hotel job with a coast-to-coast radio wire when you've got six or seven months of contracted one-nighters staring you in the face!

Early Birds . Although President Roosevelt has advanced the date when the nation will celebrate Thanksgiving day, Vincent Lopez and his jitterbug singer Betty Hutton are shown getting off to an early start in order to land a choice bird for Turkey Day doings. Lopez added Ann Barrett, of Layton Bailey's band, as an "extra attraction" last week and also came to the parting of the ways with Nick Pisani, vet fiddler with the Lopez crew.

While most of these bands are on While most of these bands are on the road 52 weeks out of the year, many of them have regular location spots to which they return at the same time each year for a short run. In a number of instances, these location spots are owned by the leaders themselves, along with the bus and the music racks. It's mainly just another item to help keep the boys satisfied.

Most of them, too, consider themselves jobholders rather than artists, and their work a job rather than a career. The occasional careerist who constantly devotes himself to perfecting his work is usually snapped up by one or another of the "names" that suur the territory at intervals. Most of the "name" leaders play their one-niter tours with an eye on the "territory" bands for that occasional outstand-

Leader Is "Father"

Leader Is "Father"

Being thrown together so much of the time—a prime requisite for a "territory" sideman is, of course, congeniality—he's got to be able to get along with the people that he has to work, eat, live, sleep, and play with. The very nature of the setup tends to bring an unusually large amount of paternalism into the leader-sidemen relations.

These leaders usually end up be-large amount of paternalism into the leader-sidemen relations.

These leaders usually end up being father, mother, and Uncle Joe to all their men—solving their personal problems — advancing doctor and hospital payments — mailing their paychecks home to their wives — seeing that they pay their insurance premiums — saving their money for them—paying their alimony—and keeping them out of the 101 varieties of troubles that only musicians know how to get into.

Paternalistic commercial organizations could take lessons from these "territory" band leaders who have developed the art to new highs. Besides all of the standard devices such as picnics, golf tournaments, parties, bowling tournaments, and baseball games with other bands, these boys have a whole new batch of tricks of their own.

to aliminate the necessity of their making outside contacts in order to find amusement, sport or relaxation. Because they CAN get almost anything they might want in the way of sport or amusement right in the band, they are much less likely to become dissatisfied with their nomadic existence, and much more likely to stay on with the band.

As a matter of fact there are a number of men playing with these "territory" bands who have refused offers from the "names" of 2 and 3 times their present salaries. They seem to like it.

A mixed blessing, these bands are invaluable in many ways while detrimental in others, and I still think someone ought to tell us all about them—I'd like to know what it's all about, myself.

It seems to me, although John Hammond doesn't pick his musicians for him, that Tommy has an all-white band that sometimes comes through in good fashion. . . Mr. George Avakian didn't seem to think much of the 35-cent Beiderbecke records either. I have a couple that sound pretty good to me. At the Jazz Band Ball and Jazz Me Blues still sound pretty good, even though they are on 35-cent records. And if memory serves, some of Bix's records with 35-cent records. DOWN BEAT

BY GEORGE M. AVAKIAN

The floor was moving up and down, on the beat, as we went into the Blue room of the Hotel Street. Kanasa City's pride and joy was knocking out a roomful of dark and eestatic 18th street boys and girls—t was Sunday night and the Harlan Leonard band was on the job.

Well, that night in Kanasa City stands out in retrospect as the unexpected kick of a 2-week tour across the United States. Marshall Stearns was taking his "Chevvy" to Los Angeles, on his way to Honolulu with new correspondent exting as a stating as "Chevvy" to Los Angeles, on his way to Honolulu can be a standard to the consists and the standard to the standard to stands out in retrospect as the unexpected kick of a 2-week tour across the United States. Marshall Stearns was taking his "Chevvy" to Los Angeles, on his way to Honolulu with your correspondent acting as relief driver, And there in K. C. we ran into the best swing band in the land. If this is treason, make the most of it. Ellington's in a class by himself—after the Duke, we'll turn to Leonard for big band kicks.

"Better Than Basie"

The Leonard ensemble is loud and sharp and clean, with a unity that smacks of the Basie band. Comparison is inevitable, as Leonard plays many of the Count's compositions and numerous originals to boot. But comparison doesn't hurt Harlan's hand? Imagine if you can a local band that could play the nationally known Basie group into the ground. What's the answer? Good musicianship plus that all-important fire—the spark and spirit that puts the extra comph into brass and rivets the rhythm section into one super-

How Boyce Brown Swings on "Blues in B-Flat"

Second to Ellington?

Here is the Harlan Leonard band of Kansas City, which George M. Avakian, Yale university critic of hot jazz, found last month to be "second only to Duke Ellington." Leonard plays lead alto, and first attracted attention playing with the late Bennie Moten's colored crew. Avakian's findings on his recent tour from New York to Los Angeles are told in his story in this issue which begins at left. Some of the best jazz artists in America are without work, Avakian finds.

mind. George Brunis is still a solid ensemble man, and has blossomed forth as a soloist as well!

Cless is No Bringdown!

It's hard to believe, but there are times when he sounds like Teagarden. And an even bigger kick was Rod Cless' clarinet. Here's a musician whose work until now has been dimmed by the better known Chicagoans. Having heard a great deal about Rod, I had high hopes and Rod didn't let me down. He is a remarkable musician; so much so, that his solos suffer by comparison to his playing ensemble! At that time Muggsy had another fine musician who has had no recognition, George Zack, who plays a fine blues piano and shows heretofore unsuspected vocal ability.

Fats Waller was also at the Panther Room, but played quite erratically. He and Gene Sedric on tenor were frequently terrific and sometimes merely good. The Three Deuces has a considerably better small combination spotlighting Baby Dodds playing some wonderful drums. Lambe Johnson on guitar, and Darnell Howard's clarinet. It was a keen disappointment to find out that Johnny Dodds had not recovered sufficiently to play and that it seemed probable that he will never play again. Dodds will always remain the greatest clarinetist of his race. And where might Teschmaker have been if Johnny hadn't preceded him?

"Brown is Beat Alto"

The Liberty Inn had a pleasantly rowdy floor show but even more important was the presence of Boyce Brown in drummer Earl Wiley's trio. Boyce is possibly the Ellington of the alto sax—you can't say he's playing jazz and he doesn't always Here's a musician whose work until now has been dimmed by the better known Chicagoans. Having heard a great deal about Rod, I had high hopes and Rod didn't let me down. He is a remarkable musician; so much so, that his solos suffer by comparison to his playing ensemble! At that time Muggay had another fine musician who has had no recognition, George Zack, who plays a fine blues piano and shows heretofore unsuspected vocal ability.

Fats Waller was also at the Panther Room, but played quite erratically. He and Gene Sedric on tenor were frequently terrific and sometimes merely good. The Three Desuces has a considerably better.

McKinney's Cotton Pickers A Complete Discography From 1920 Until 1934

BY PAUL EDUARD MILLER

Part One

Part One

McKinney's Cotton Pickers were the most modern band in the history of jazz, prior to the swing era, only Ellington excepted. They were almost 10 years ahead of the times. As early as 1926 they were using the phrasing, the intonation, and the riffs which today are common property.

Their recording of To Whom It May Concers (circa 1930) offers convincing evidence. The first chorus, save only for the presence of abanjo and brass bass, might have geen waxed yesterday. The phrasing of the reeds and of the brass figures are the prototype of those used by practically all swing arrangers today, including famous names such as Fletcher and Horace Henderson, Glenn Miller, Will Hudson, James Mundy, and Larry Clinton.

52 Sides in All

52 Sides in All

52 Sides in All

But what is even more remarkable, the entire McKinney record output of some 52 sides is consistently good, very modern, and permanent and overwhelming evidence that a great swing band lived and died before the word "swing" became part of the American language. guage

Actually, the band in person was even better than its recordings. Those who may have been fortunate enough to hear the McKinney group in person will certainly remember its forceful attack, its unquestioned musicianship, its modern arrangements. Nevertheless, in its finest recordings, McKinney's approximated pretty closely the genuine feeling and drive experienced by personal audition.

Organized in 1920, in Springfield.

enced by personal audition.

Organized in 1920, in Springfield, Ohio, by William McKinney, the band had reached the beginning of its best period by 1926. At that time banjoist Dave Wilborn, drummer Cuba Austin, trumpeter John Nesbit, trombonist Claude Jones, tenorman Prince Robinson, altoman and scat singer George Thomas, and pianist Todd Rhodes were already members of the band: as, and planist fold knodes were already members of the band; Don Redman joined the following year. These men were associated with the best period, and some of them remained until the final disbanding in 1934.

McKinney a Circus Drummer

Who were the men who brought the McKinney band to its high level? William McKinney, John Nesbit, Don Redman, Claude Jones, Cuba Austin, and Prince Robinson were the mainsprings in its de-velopment.

velopment.

First of all, credit must go to McKinney himself. He was a drummer in a circus band prior to 1920, and he himself played drums with the band until 1923, when Austin joined. It was McKinney's fortitude, his ability as a showman and business promoter and talent scout which contributed much to the sustained success of a band which gained a national reputation without the help of network radio broadcasts.

John Nesbit was not only one radio broadcasts.

John Nesbit was not only one of the greatest instrumentalists in the history of jazz, but a crack arranger and a composer as well. He did not know a great deal about music; he had studied little. His talent was native, it was genuine, and above all, it flowed from an innate understanding of Negro jazz—of hot jazz. By those of his compatriots who knew him and knew his work. he was credited with having originated the modern swing approach to ensemble riffing, section riffing, and ensemble and section swing phrasing, especially in the brass.

Redman Added Polish

What musical knowledge Nesbit lacked, Don Redman supplied in full measure. Redman's talents are extraordinary. From childhood he studied music, learned to play all the instruments of the jazz orchestra, and studied assiduously the techniques of arranging, harmony,

Austin, Jones, Robinson, and Nesbit formed the bulwark of the solo sections. Drummerman Austin backed the band with a rhythm as solid as any you'll find today; he was an expert showman too. Jones really played hot in those days, brandishing a rapid, staccato atyle.
Robinson was, in that period, the only tenorman whose playing even approached the great Hawkins.

Later, in the very early 30's, other now famous soloists and instrumentalists were associated with McKinney's. Altoman Bennie Carter led the band for a time after Redman's departure (1931). Joe Smith and Rex Stewart played side by side in the band. First, altoman Jimmie Dudley and clarinetist Edward Inge added to the competency of the reed section.

In the next installment, Paul Eduard Miller tells of the band's first records—made while the band was playing the Greystene Ballroom in Detroit. Feetbates on each record are added by Miller. Don't miss the remainder of this earies.—EDS.

"Pro" Jealousy?

BY DON LANG

BY DON LANG
Minneapolis — Jack Christy, planist-leader who occasionally has been known to disport more temper than discretion, got hold of the library of a fellow pianist leader one night while under the influence of something which could hardly be described as water. With joyful abandon Christy strewed music (in manuscript form) gracefully but none the less disastrously along the shores of a local lake. The library was partially recovered, but the dew had taken A-flat and transposed it along with several other accidentals up to D-sharp, and so forth, as might be expected. The next day Christy could not be reached by the press.

The Clambake Seven is active again. And it's high time, for at least it gives Tommy a chance to unbuckle his belt and play like he feel for a change. Yank Lawson's trumpet stands out. The "A" side shows Yank to excellent advantage, and note how he pushes the rhythm section on his choruses—something along the Spanier tradition. Tommy's sliphorn is better here than it's been in a long time on records. John Mince, clarinet, and Babe Rusin, tenor, also appear revived. The Seven doesn't stack up with the earlier one which included Dava Tough and Bud Freeman, but at least it's a step in the right direction for the band—which for too many months has been in a lackadaisical groove that made most of its music pretty dull.

"Swell Morale in Band"
Vocalists? This young Frank Sinatra handles the ballads. We think he is doing a fine job. Jack Palmer, the trumpeter, steps down to handle the comedy and novelty stuff. We do not use a girl singer because everyone we've had yet has been unsatisfactory and until we can find one who stacks up as strong as the band, we won't worry. Sinatra and Palmer, with Kent helping occasionally, can carry the load okay in our opinion.

We have a wonderful morale; swell spirit, no cliques. The guys get along swell. We know we aren't the best in the business yet. But we think we can be. Our records (Columbia) are selling fast, we have had plenty of radio time, the fan mail is coming in, the bookings are good and we are all hustling. That's about all a leader can ask. The future will reveal just how far my gang of Texans is going to go.

Dear married folks and those contemplating same: It has been proved that a jockey, a baseball player, prizefighter and numerous other fellows engaged in the more vigorous professions have fallen down on the job after getting themselves married. Now drumming, as you all know, is a very tough job and includes both mental and physical exertion. But something you all might not know is that I am now a rearried man. Naturally when I think of the afore-mentioned gentry and what happened when some of them did aame, I must confess that I have misgivings or as the British statesman put it, I have reasonable doubt. What's New

Published by Wilmark, Arr. by Vic Schoen.

This is that fine Bobby Haggart tune which went under the title of "Free" when the Crosby band recorded it before Johnny Burke was called in to write the lyrics. Vic Schoen has emulated the Crosby arrangement in the first chorus in giving the lead and solo to trumpet open horn. Trombone also has a solo, the first 16 bars of the last chorus. Last chorus has a lot of guts. Very fine tune. When To Drink

John, that is a tough one, but it all depends on you and your ability, and whether you are the man your question to a big time drummer? In fact, why just drummers?

You will find that, to a man, musicians, big and small timers, never

Here are a few reasons why:

1. To stay awake.

2. Se they reas see a deep.

Whoever edited my last article Whoever edited my last article not only classed me as a psychologist but left out the most important part of my article, which was "Don't get it into your head that I am trying to fill you full of psychology or that I am telling you that all you have to do is take a breath and play, or that I might want you to read up on the working of the mind. No, none of that."

For more than two years I have been writing and preaching against just such tactics or those that use psychology to cover their short-psychology to cover their short-comings.

The Case of Mr. X.

Just to show you how silly and terrible this practice is, take the case of Mr. X. This man was playing a good job in Chicago and getting along very well. But, deciding to improve himself, he went to a Chicago teacher who told him to practice a group of exercises for an hour and a half each day. He followed the instructions and found on the first night at work that he didn't have endurance to get through the night—the same job he had been able to play through with ease.

When he explained this to his teacher, the answer was, "It's in your mind."

your mind."

Just think of it! That psychology hound had the nerve to tell him, "It's in your mind." Brassmen, you have to be half-witted to swallow a thing like that.

One of my pupils brought Mr. X to me and after asking a few questions I explained to him what had happened.

How Do Merry Macs Get Their Style?

By Will Hudson

Tex Carlson, of Bullalo, N. Y., says every time he gets a chance he listens in to the Merry Macs. Don't we all?
"I greatly admire their style of harmonizing," Tex writes, "and car you tell me just how their arrangements are written, and how they are able to get such a 'close' effect? They sound unlike any other combination I know and I am anxious to find out how they do it."

combination I know and I am anxious to find out how they do it."

Now I have received many letters regarding the vocal style of the Merry Macs, and I'll try to explain how it is written. Their style sounds very complicated from an arranging standpoint, but in reality it is very simple. The four voices are arranged exactly as you would write a 4-part sax chorus in close harmony. A female voice sings the melody and three male voices sing the three harmony parts below. The melody is written within a range of B-Flat below the staff to B-Flat on the staff. The biggest difficulty lies in the fact that the intervals which the three male voices must sing are sometimes very difficult to remember, due to the unnatural and awkward jumps involved. Take the third alto part of a complicated 4-way sax chorus and try to memorize so you can sing it. You'll see what I mean Naturally a vocalist in a combination of this kind must have a very keen musical ear, and the amount of tedious rehearsal required to memorize these parts is terrific.

Here is a sample of the Merry Macs' style:

Guitars and Guitarists

Clip The Strings And You'll Swing

By Charles Amberger

"I am a guitarist," writes T. T. of Chicago, "and I am interested to know just how some of the guitarists heard on the radio get that solid 4-beats to the measure drive. My chords seem jumbled together." Answer—I believe your trouble is your left hand. What we call "rhythm" is clipping the strings after each stroke of the pick. You release your left hand lightly to kill the overtone, before you strike the next chord. Try it.

Here we have an exercise in the key of C-Major using the dominant sevenths as the chord run. The circle shows which string the chord starts on.

Your questions on guitar playing should be sent to me in care of Down Beat, 608 South Dearborn, Chicago.

Goodman's Men Chased by Bull on 'Worst One-Nighter' of the Year

By EUNICE KAY

Cleveland—In spite of what was probably the world's worst single date, Benny Goodman and the guys made up for the Rodeo bring-down by having a private session in their dressing room before they went out to the kill.

Benny played sax—and beautifully—and Ziggy Elman was on bass, with Jerry Jerome on clarinet and Ted Vesely exhibiting some swell trombone.

But then they had to go out to the kill. It was the Wild West Rodeo, in the Stadium. The place was lousy with animals, wild and otherwise. At one point a young hull got out of its pen and menaced the band. It was cold. They played on an open plank platform with the sun in their eyes and a stiff lake breeze on their necks. The p.a. was so loud that the band couldn't hear itself. Louise Tobin

The long-needed guide for dance as complete a volume as one could hope for, written by Charles Henderson, vocal coach for Deanna Durbin and other luminaries.

Actually, a young gent named Charles Palmer "ghosted" the book for Henderson, and his job, as well as the informative material Henderson gave him to work with, is excellently done. There's a whole chapter on "swing singing" and other chapters are in the proper greove for dance band songstera, including mike technique, phrasing,
and the like.

The first of its kind ever written,
the book not only is instructive and informative, but is chocked full of humor and a what-the-hell attitude that makes reading fun.
One error, however, is on page 121 when the author, suggesting how a singer can alter a second chorus and improvise a la Bix Beiderbecke, tells the pupil to listen to "some of the old jazz band records of the period from 1916 to 1922, especially those on which Bix played."

Bix made his first record in 1923.

Those who come closest are those who have been under the influence of the negro's music for the longest period of time. They are the men who comprised the New Orleans. Memphis and Chicago schools. From these, although mostly from the better negro musicians themselves, comes our best swing music today.

Gals Not Singing Jazz

That has been the heritage of jazz. That has been the back-ground forced upon musicians with wills and souls of their own who wanted to learn and express this new art. So is it any wonder that, excluded (as of course she should have been) from this environment which is the only one which could have given the white girl the insight into what went into making good jazz music, she should be so barren of any appreciation of the finer points of playing jazz on an instrument, let alone trying to interoret it into vocal sounds?

These girls aren't singing jazz. Vecal jazz was originally sounded in the form of the blues, which was (and still is) a purely emotionally-inspired uncultured outpouring of words and vocal sounds expressing a mood. That's the way Bessie Smith sang, and the way Billie Holiday, Jack Teagarden, and a half dozen more are singing today.

Prostituting Good Voices

Prostituting Good Voices

Today's girl singers, poor kids, are the victims of an heritage of classic yodeling. Which is all right in its own back yard, the opera and the light classic. But when they try to produce a vocal job in the jazz idiom with that environmental equipment they're trying to mental equipment, they're trying to crossbreed the world's classic vocal mental equipment, they're trying to crossbreed the world's classic vocal background with the emotional blues shouting of the southern Negro, and if that doesn't give us a hell of a hybrid, I'll eat my record collection.

Some of our gals make no bones about prostituting a fairly well-cultured voice to the swing idiom. Gals like Kav Kyser's Ginny Sims and Artie Shaw's Helen Forrest have swell sets of pipes, but using them in front of a good jazz band is like drinking cream in your beer, they just don't jell.

Of course many of these band-leaders, if pinned right down to it, would admit that the reason they've got chirpies with them is that the gals arouse some instinct far from musical in the hearts of the gaping jerk out on the floor. They have the ability to appear as if they were seducing the microphone, a technique which naturally is going to appeal to the local yokel.

And so it goes, bandleaders

AFM Locals Nix Block and Hayton Plans

(Jumped from Page 10)
The second clamp was applied by the board of local 77 on a plan of radio station WCAU and bandleader Lennie Hayton. Under a contemplated setup similar to the one Jan Savitt had several months back, when he led the station's house band, built up a reputation, and took it out jobbing on the side, Hayton's manager, Art Michaud, had concluded a deal with WCAU which would have found Hayton in a similar position, heading the station's house band, and being allowed to take it out on two onenighters per week.

Hayton Had Rehearsed
Since Hayton is not a member of the Philly local, however, the board prohibited the contemplated connection on the basis of Hayton's one-nighters taking jobs from members of the home local.

They aren't listening—only gawking. Then they want autographs. Nothing doing! I'm too busy with my job. Sometimes I let my valet sign my name and they're just as satisfied.

"My friends, my advisers tell me, say I'm a damned fool. 'Look here,' they shout at me, 'you can't do that—those people MADE you!' Want to know my answer? I tell them that if I was made by a bunch of morons, that's just too bad. And besides, if they made me, what do they want my autograph for? You don't worship your own creation, do you?"

"Playing Trumpet is well and good," said Corky Cornelius last menth, "but I'd much rather just travel around on my own hook." Se he left Benny Goodman's band and went to Mexico to tour the country on a burro—one-nighter style. Corky's place was taken by Jimmy Maxwelt.

In Tussle With Kid Bandit

New York-Fred Waring's face New York—Fred Waring's face was cut and he suffered bruises last week when a young bandit leaped onto his car as Waring drove into his garage. After a short tussle, while Waring's wife and two friends looked on, the bandit took a shot at the leader and watched the bullet go wild. Captured, the punk was taken to a hospital in Stroudsburg, Pa., where he was treated for injuries suffered when Waring smacked him on the nose with a hard right.

Waring fluffed off the incident and despite his wounds, which were minor, conducted his ork on the smoke show on NBC. The bandit wore a mask.

that they don't make one listen to Ickey Lombardo instead. The current crop of musicians are as good

GUTBUCKET DRIPPIN'S

Caught by Ted Toll

The bucket was deluged with produced and constant from readers after a letter signed by Sally Sears appeared in the Chords and Discords dept. of the August issue. The jist of her communication was that there should be more Negro jazz critics, since the Negro is so much horse fundamental part of jazz fundamental a part of jazz eritics, since the Negro is so much more fundamental a part of jazz than is the white man.

Most of the mail received was in support of Miss Sears' suggestions. Gerry Wing, a DeKalb, Ill., bandleader, brings up an interesting point regarding her statement, "colored critics, who can sense true jazz far better than us whites."

Wing says, "I would like Miss Sears to give her definition of true jazz." Which is certainly pertinent when a discussion of the value of criticism and who makes the better jazz critic is brought up. But Wing says in another part of his letter. "I have found truth in many of her comments regarding Negro jazs critics. In my band I have been using a Negro arranger. I find his criticism on music very valuable, yet I feel that if he were given free reign his music would revert to a very radical style in a very short time. His brass tends to be loud and blary, and his rhythm tends toward those erratic tempi which the Negro loves but which a white man doesn't comprehend."

White's Cultural Inhibition

Charles Edward Smith, one of the collaborators on the forthcoming book, Jazzmen, writes: "It's admirable of Sally Sears to be opposed to the color prejudice but it seems to me she's moving in the wrong direction. Her direction, no doubt unintentional on her part, wrong direction. Her direction, no doubt unintentional on her part, leads to the thesis that Negro jazz is primitive and this in turn leads all too often to the thesis that Negroes are essentially primitive. If we cannot get close to Negro music because we are white that is certainly an admission of our own cultural inhibition.

"I don't imagine most of us have cultural inhibition.

"I don't imagine most of us have any more difficulty in assimilating the music of Johnny Dodds than of Frank Teschmaker, and if we can listen with obvious enjoyment to the Baliness gamelon then we should have no difficulty in listening to Meade Lux Lewis, even if he chooses to play a celeste. . . . To some earn Tesch is merely off the diatonic scale, but to those (like mose fans) who refuse to accept the western musical conventions as the western musical conventions as ultima thule, Tesch's tonal values

Elizabeth Tilton, Ray Noble's vocalist who had been ill in a hospital here, was able to catch a plane for California to join the band in San Diego. Frank Leightner, pianist with the Noble band, has a pair of handsome gold and apphire culf links, a gift from 13-year-old Leni Lynn in gratitude for his fine accompaniment. Carroll Faucett, a local lad, replaced Bill Harty on drums during the closing week at the Casa when Harty flew suddenly to California on business.

Ernie Palmquist is operating his wor club, labeled the Coo-Coo. It was formerly the Ringside. Ernie's drummer, Jack Baroni, about three foot two, is billed as the world's smallest drummer. . . Tommy Peters is week-ending at Lake Worth Casino.

Columbus, O.—The only ballroom left in this territory, Valley Dale, is expected to re-open shortly as a night club. Now closed "for re-pairs," the spot has featured all of the name and semi-name bands in the country, and more than one band can remember having worked a date for peanuts at the Dale when they were struggling to the top, and then later come back as a name band and for a huge stipend. According to manager Lou Peppe plans are yet indefinite, but if the policy is decided upon the Dale will be equipped to handle liquor and food business in a night club atmosphere seven nights a week. It has run only two nights a week heretofore.

Bob Millar opened the Century Room of the Neil House a few weeks ago and has been packing the crowds in. Six weeks earlier the lights had been doused because of poor business. Full credit is given the Millar band by manager Tom Sabrey, who imported the west coast outfit after their successful 16 weeks' run at the Hollenden in Cleveland.

Immortals of Jazz

Few know it, but Red McKenzie's real name is William.
Born in 1903 in St. Louis, he went to Washington upon the death of his mother in 1909 to live with a sister. His first job was as a jockey for the J. S.
Tyree stables. His ability to boot bangtails home was excellent until one day in 1918 in H a v a n a.
Cu ba, when he was toused
from a mount.
From Cuba
Red went to St. Louis, then back to New Orleans,
where he beca me fascinated by jazz
as played by Negroes there. Then he returned to St. Louis and organized the Mound City Blue Blowers. Mc-Kenzie played a comb wrapped in tissum paper, Dick Slevia played kazoo and Jack Bland, banjo, Later Eddie Lang joined on guitar and all four went panjo, Later Eddie Lang joined on guitar and all four went to Europe, Red's early Brunswick record of Arksussus Blussmade his M. C. B. B. group famous. The lineup of the Mound City group was changed from time to time, but probably the most noted is the one which included Pee-Wee Russell, Coleman Hawkins and Glenn Miller included Pee-Wee Russell, Coleman Hawkins and Glenn Miller which waxed Hello Lola and One Hour. Red also sang with the Charleston Chasers, the Chicago Rhythm Kings and the N. O. Rhythm Kings; another name for his Mound City group was "McKenzie's Celestial Beings." Red also waxed with Eddie Condon, the McKenzie-Condon platters today rating as ace examters today rating as ace exam-ples of early Chicago style. Red in 1932 worked with Whiteman, but has been content more re-cently to work with various "righteous" musicians in New York niteries. Because Red Mc-York niteries. Decause Assa has few other whites, and because he is an artist as well as organizer of unique hot groups, Down Best chooses him as the second in our "Immortals of Jazz" sevice.

musicians to ask any one of them to sacrifice his integrity."
Woody, in making the statement, gathered his band around him and they drafted his quotation together. All felt the same way.

TEDDY WILSON—"I believe the hiring of colored musicians to play in white bands is an excellent idea. I think, musically speaking, it is of mutual benefit to both. The colored musician is the gainer where quality is concerned, and the white musicians are often further inspired by the this cort of mixing is conducive to the production of a higher type of awing band. Charile Christian is the finest guitar soloist I have ever heard and his addition to Benny's band must be musically effective. It is easy to understand that the arrangements of Fletcher Henderson must prove to be of great advantage to any musical organization."

SHEP FIELDS: "Have always regretted prejudice that forbids mixed bands. Hope to see it lived down in my generation."

CASPER REARDON—"Good for Benny! I'm for him. His ideas are like mine. If a Negro is a better performer use him. One cannot hope to draw a color line in music or any other art."

VIDO MUSSO: "I think it's a terrific idea and I give Benny a lot of credit, but whether it's going to go over depends on the public's reaction. What do you suppose will happen if he ever goes down into Texas with the band? I not only admire Benny's musical taste in adding these men. I shothink his using Negroes is a smart promosod swins about are coming along to crowd him out of the limelight. More power to Benny."

Asked for opinions, several other "big name" leaders and side mereased to be quoted. Interviews with the majority, however, indicate that great progress has been made in the last five years in regard to equality of races in fact, said they believed that "within two more years, use of colored artists in white bands will be accepted everywhere in the States."

All gave credit to Goodman for effecting the change.

Theater Bands Boom Minny Employment

BY DON LANG

Minneapolis—Theater musicians are having their day once again. Jack Malerich is leading the band at the Minnesota theater and may even face a shortage, as six of his 18 men return to the symphony shortly. The Gayety burlesque reopened with seven men under Fred Oldre. The Lyceum also will reopen and the Orpheum will bring in ace road shows.

The "go" combo of the month here is Oscar Bellman, piano; with Toby Michalson, Don Henneman and Chuck Singerman at Curly's—where the pay is good. Art Swalin really knocks himself out with Sammy Sway at the Bowery.

Dean Holmes still holds forth with three pieces at the Gold Bubble. A recent story in Down Beat which referred to the Gold Bubble management as "penny pinching proprietors" because they kept the money in the kitty brought fast results. The props caught the story, knocked, the kitty all to hell and told the boys to put up their own kitty. Now Holmes and his boys can keep the money the patrons pay them.

Mr. Dave Dester,
Davo Best,
Chicage, Ill.
Dess Mr. Dester:
At the request of a friend of mine, Mr.
Nichelas Davice of London, England, I ran the full-wing ad in the July 1939 issue of Davon Best!

"Ted Lewis records wanted. Any date. Write stating price, Matriz numbers." Mr. Davies being an ardent admirer of Ted Lowly desired to complete his rather exten-sive collection comprising some 200 sides or titles by this hand.

Frankly, I was just a hit dubious about the merits of apending even the very modest $1.50, which was all the ad cost, in such a concare; but to say that I understod both the respe and character of your was sufficient would tudood be sutting it mildly, for I received more than 30 replies from California to Mains, and so far, two from Landon.

Sincerply.

Sincerely, (Sgd) W. H. Ward.

Cincinnati—For the first time in the history of the spot, they had to turn away 1,800 customers when Henry Busse played Beverly Hills Country Club here last month. Deke Moffett moved into the Shubert theater from Beverly Hills. Burt Farber went into the Netherland Plaza replacing Morton Franklin and his all-girl band who moved to Louisville. Billy Snyderstay extended at the Gibson Rathskeller. Dave Piates back in the Gayety theater for the winter with Herman Kapp, former Rapp drummer.

Traveling bands are expected to move in for the winter on a big scale, with the Gibson, Plaza, Beverly Hills, Lookout House, and Old Vienna leading the way. Virginia Gibson scored heavily on a recent one-niter. Musicians at WLW are pretty fed up with Cherniavsky. Look out for the big explosion.

But the evening was a big success for the dancers.

YEARBOOK OF SWING

Written by Paul Miller, Down Beat's "ace" columnist, this is the first book ever written to cover swing music in all its phases. It gives dates, names ... puts prices on rare records. It's practically a necessity for the record collector and swing fan. Duke Ellington says, "Miller's thorough knowledge of the subject makes his book doubly interesting." 52.00 per copy

Some of the People Who Crossed Our Photog's Paths Last Month

ur Rudoluh shot Gates Are Gourmands, especially when it comes to ribe, and these guys are no exceptions. And judging by the way Ralph Hawkinn at the left is beating his teeth, they peddle some tasty ribe at Chicago's Off Beat Club. Ralph is on drums with Harry James, seated at his left. Others in the shot are Jack Palmer, Frank Sinetra, and Truett Jones, James jumpers all when not sucking ribe.

Who's This Guy, Dali? Surrealism is all right but it doesn't delve deep enough into the 'out-of-thisworld,' according to these cats of Dean Hudson's Florida Clubmen. Jimmy Pratt, behind the tie, and arranger George Barden say this pantomine depicts a surrealistic explanation of surrealism, or the eternal insanity, pointlemness and futility of all stuff, especially red not jive.

The Pretty Teeth,

the gardenia, pearls and two very good cats surround Billie Holiday in this shot snapped at the Off Beat Club. Dave Matthews, Harry James' alto man, grins over the head of Vido Musso, now in New York organizing a band.

Just Canned on blue-bird disks with the Bob Chester outfit, Kitty Lane, at right, was also just canned from the Chester combo in favor of Dodie O'Neil, former Jack Teagarden yipper. Miss Lane did not state whether that sob in her eye was occasioned by the canning or the canning.

Down to the Sect in G went Vincent Lopes and all of his heat-weary cohorts the other day; they decided that rehearsing is all right in its place, but a close pavilion on a steaming day is not the place. This business-like pose did not feel the Daw Bost photog, who knew very well that the minute the shot was snapped the boys would drop their horm and imp in to play Tll-duck you-then you duck me' with that individual ting behind the trombons many right abouter. A mid-ocean rehearsal this is all right for horns, but Spangler says it's hell on drum-heads.

'Ugh! Heap Tough.' rim-shot export, as Gene Krupa slapped out a riff for him at the World's Fair. "Ne. the name is Krups, not Tough," corrected Gene. The band played a week in the Fair bandshell, goes into Chicago next month.
