Chicago, Ill.—No more records will be made in Chicago after February 1st!! So ruled President Petrillo and his board of directors, as they boildy moved to forfeit whatever employment, recording activities gave musicians in the Chicago jurisdiction, in an effort to take a troublesome situation into their own hands. Impatient with the ineffective policies of "watchful waiting" and burning with indignation at the growing use of recorded music by broadcasting stations, instead of flesh and blood talent, the Chicago board has chosen to fight the record companies openly.

Worth of Work

"The average recording unit receives in the neighborhood of $1500 for a recording. This amount pays for the services of the entire band. When its part of the bargain has been performed, in other words when the job is complete, the finished record is then distributed to theaters radio stations, and other places of amusement all over the country.

"By the time the record has worn itself out (mechanically and otherwise) and has been discarded, it has ruined and wiped out around $1,500,000 worth of business for living musicians.

"Son of a sewer gang foreman, James Petrillo, who likes to be called The Mussolini of Music' was born in 1892 on Chicago's slummy West Side. He spent a precarious childhood selling newspapers, running elevators up ond down Loop buildings, driving a horse and cart, peddling crackerjack and peanuts on a North Western railroad train.
Young Petrillo played the trumpet, but so badly that the only jobs he could get were at picnics. On this account he went into politics. He served three years as vice president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians before he became it's president in 1922. Highest priced labor leader who pay yearly dues of $16.

PRES. FIRST TIME IN 15 YEARS

Rosenberg Amasses 4,659 Votes

New York City-The members of local 802 voted the Blue ticket (those in office last term) two weeks ago and elected as their president, Jacob Rosenberg who amassed a vote of 4,659. It was the first time in 15 years that the members of that local elected their own president.

Richard McCann was elected vice-president, William Feinberg—Secrepresident, William Feinberg—Secretary, Harry Suber — treasurer, and Mario Falcone, Dave Freed, George Koukly, John H. Long, Robert Strene, Sam Suber, Sam Tabak, John Manuti, and William Laendner were elected to the executive board. Trial board has chairman Max Arons re-elected, with George Schector, Emil Balzer, Sidney Feldman, Frank Garisto, Edward Horn, C. J. McGibney, Albert Modiano, and Gino Tirelli.

Largest Vote Cast in History of Local

Histery of Lecal

The largest vote in the history of the local was cast totalling 7,346 almost half of the local's membership of over 16,000. The campaign was a bitterly fought one between three tickets: blue, fushion, and yellow, and was marked by excessive mud-slinging via the pamphlet way during the last two weeks before election.

The totals are as follows: For president — Rosenberg (blue) 4,659; Selig Liese (fushion), 888; Louis Weissman (yellow), 774, and John Miraglia (Independent) 746.

McCann Elected Vice-President With 4,684 Votes

For vice-president — McCann (blue) 4.684; John McCarroll (fusion), 1,052. For secretary—Feinberg (blue), 4,781; Basch (fusion), 1,005. For treasurer—Suber (blue) 5,108; Albert Cassidy (fusion) 1,158.

Local autonomy was granted local 802 by the AFM convention in 1934 with the proviso that all but the president be elected that year; Cana-van to remain as president for an-other 2 years.

N. Y. ELECTS OWN NORVO'S WOODPILE & BAILEY'S PIPES THRILL CATS

by Carl Cons
Chicago, III. — Society, musiciana, and the press jammed the Blackhawk cafe here to applaud Red Norvo, Mildred Bailey and Red's musicians in the first Rhythm Concert sponsored by the Chicago Rhythm Club this season. The concert was so well received that plans to hold only one concert this year were hastily scrapped and heads got together for at least two more.

Features of the concert were the terrific skill and beauty with which Red pelted the marimba, the excitingly amooth improvising by Hank Di Mico on clarinet and alto, a couple of fine choruses by Stu Pletcher and the exhilarating tenor played by Herbie Haymer. (He even sends the critical) ally, has been wide open to mistakes of inexperience. People like probably the man. Accourse, the Los Angeles Negro is someone out of a remote and legendary past, but the fact remains that 1936 has been his year of grace. Here again, a phonograph record—the Goodman Quartet's Victor of Dinsh and Moonglow—served to introduce a superb musician, and almost overnight, to spread his name from coast to coast. At last, Lione in definitely big-time and nightly in the Manhattan Room of New York's Pennsylvania Hotel crowds applaud his genius. What he accomplished is essentially at least, what Red Norvo accomplished before him: the proof that a man's talent transcends whatever limitations his medium might impose. Hampton is unquestionably the most exciting vibe artists yet to come our way, and out of an instrument that has hitherto been regarded largely as a necessary evil he fashioned a thing of extraordinary beauty and freshness. Adinher to been regarded largely as a necessary evil he fashioned a thing of extraordinary beauty and freshness. Adinher to been regarded largely as a necessary evil he fashioned a thing of extraordinary beauty and freshness. Adinar Rollini was a good vibs man, too, but not even in his most inspired moment did he play with anything of Lionel's amazingly poetic spirit. For Hampton is I think, one of the very, very few really great hot musicians of all time, and his discovery (coming ironically enough, so many years after he made Memorice of You with Louis) is, of itself, sufficient to have 1936 set down as a memorable single native art form.

And of course the incomparable Mildred "Rockin' Chair" Bailey singing in that inimitable style of hera, good old earthy swing tunes as only Mildred can sing them.

Hackett Comes Closest to Belderbecke

Hackett Comes Closest to Beiderbecke

There are others, too, for whom the past year marked a rise from obecurity By now, the readers of DOWN BEAT must be pretty damnweary of my lavish praise for Bobby Hackett, the young Boston cornetist. But. previewing the long series of encomia, I feel that I haven't been far wrong. Hackett is certainly one of the topnotchers around today, and if I erred, it was around today, and if I erred, it was in the sort of gymnastics he's been his more obvious defects. He has a decided lack of power, and that, a time to come, may prove his unboing. For one thing, he plays far too long and constantly (from 10:30 P. M. to 4:00 A. M.) and the strain inevitably will tell. Originally a guitarist, he's been playing cornet a little over two years, and quite naturpetent band musician to the lime-light of soloist on a CBS wire. There isn't much left to be said of Bunny. He's still a marvelous trumpet play-er, and, given the right surround-ings, topped by few white men. It was encouraging to view the response to his handsome job of Can't Get Started, which ranks as one of the year's recorded gems.

It was a genuine disappointment that Roy Eldridge failed so miserably to fulfill the rich promise evidenced during his first months with Fletcher. Here, I think, is a glaring example of a musician spoiled by too much flattery, among other things. Surely, something happened to transform him from a trumpeter of quite magical simplicity into a downright disgusting exhibitionist. Roy can be one of the greatest, but a persistance in the sort of gymnastics he's been following recently is bound to leave us all a little poorer.

Dallas and Fort Worth, Dec. 24—
The Baker Hotel in Dallas has taken the night club spotlight this month with the opening of its new first floor Mural Room scheduled for December 26 with Ted Fio-Rite signed to do the job. Ted will stop on his way to play the University of Texas Christmas dance in Austin, where he has played several times during past years and has drawn box office rushes almost as large as those Guy Lombardo and Wayne King chalked up. Collar-ad crooner, Mussy Marcellino, the Three Debs. Derothy Hill, Marjorie Briggs and Betty Noyes; and Stanly Hickman will accompany Ted on his Southern venture.

Pending completion of the new Mural Room, which is being built to rival the Adolphus Hotel's Century Room just across the street, the Baker Hotel has had its Peacock Terrace and Crystal Ballroom closed December 5. Genial Joe Reichman closed the Crystal Ballroom on that date.

IS MR. PETRILLO A FOOL?

The Chicago daily newspapers, in their editorial columns, have politely called Mr. Petrillo a fool and pictured him as a gentleman who sets himself up to stop the wheels of progress

We believe Mr. Petrillo is too intelligent to let the wheels of progress or any other wheels run over him, but that he wants to help run the machine!

he facts in the case are clean cut and well defined. Mr Petrillo decreed that Chicago musicians can not make any more

As the nominal head and dominating influence of the ago local, there is no doubt but that there will be NO RECORDS MADE HERE.

Musicians Should Investigate

However, the motives behind such a decision, and the various aspects of a situation that would seemingly inspire a leader to try to balk progress should challenge the interest and thought of every intelligent musician.

Charging that the indescriminate use of recordings is rapidly destroying the employment opportunities of musicians, Mr. Petrillo feels the boldest move he can possibly make against such a condition is the most effective.

So he goes to the source and says "They HAVE TO HAVE MUSIC TO MAKE RECORDS. WE CONTROL THE MUSIC. SO AS LONG AS RECORDS CONTINUE TO ROB US OF EMPLOYMENT. WE WILL NOT MAKE THEM." PLOYMENT . . . WE WILL NOT MAKE THEM!!!

Results Instantaneous If All Locals Co-operate

If all the locals co-operated, this would bring the record companies to a bargaining attitude in a hurry, and would enable the musician to dictate where and how each record they made should be played or sold. And they could very effectively cut in on the tremendous profits of re-broadcasting, etc.

However, as long as the decree is not national, and only one local should choose NOT TO CO-OPERATE - the recording companies can always transfer their studios and recording activities to another jurisdiction.

Mr. Petrillo is fully aware of this. of course

What Good Is It, Then?

As it is, the majority of the recording is done in New York and Hollywood and without those locals co-operating the only re-action from the record companies will be to cease activities or move their equipment and personnel to one of those cities.

The recording activities here, not being a tremendously important part of the income financially as in New York or California, the sacrifice of such a move is not great.

Because of this there is comparatively little danger of a rebellious feeling among the men who are directly affected or those whose opportunities of a livelihood might have been curbed or ruined, necessitating a great exodus of fine musicians to other locals.

And because of these very facts, this jurisdiction becomes an ideal testing ground or sounding board for re-actions among the different interests.

In a stragetic move, Petrillo has succeeded in dramatizing himself and the situation by boldly engaging the very live ghost of a "canned" menace. He has succeeded in calling the attention of the public and his fellow musicians to a situation that is inherently tragic if it is not regulated or controlled.

What He Is Striking At

The original use of records was for home consumption. They came before radio, and contributed a great deal in building a name for a band, and enhancing its reputation, both musically and commercially.

However, with the advent and growth of radio, many uses of those records have been made that unfortunately put them in direct competition with the musician himself.

Bands have been cheated out of commercials by their own recordings reproduced on transcription programs. Popular tunes recorded by them, and played to death on broadcasting stations, have hurt their popularity with the public and crushed their commercial value.

Huge libraries of tunes of every type and description, are being recorded and re-recorded, built up, and sold to sponsors and agencies for a fraction of what it would cost to have live musicians play for the program. Those libraries already are so complete that a sponsor can walk in and get any kind of theme he wants, ranging from symphonies to ragtime. He can and some constructive action.

How the Great Teagarden Was Discovered

This made it necessary to find a good trombone man and find him quick. Jam sessions had made a musical bum out of Miff Mole. We had a booking in Atlantic City, and time had rushed on to the afternoon of the day we were scheduled to leave—AND NO TROMBONE PLAYER IN SIGHT. Then sumebody mentioned a kid from Texas by the name of Jack Teagarden, who was staying out on the west side. I grabbed a cab and a few minutes later I walked into a dingy room where a trumpet player by the name of Johnny Byersdoffer was reading a paper under a gas jet.

I couldn't believe it, but I said,
"Hello. Johnny, I'm looking for some kid from Texas by the name of Teagarden that is supposed to play a lot of trombone." Johnny gestured to a small cot on the other side of the room and said "That's him." "Can he read?" I said. "He's the best," Johnny replied. "Well, I got a job for him," I said. Byerndoffer walked over to the cot and shook the prostrate form of the kid from Texas and raid, "Jack, you got a job in Atlantic City tonight, get up." But he only grumbled, "Man, I just got here. I don't want to go nowhere."
All shaking from then on was useless, and Johnny said to me—"Don't pay any attention to what he said, Benny, he's knocked out!" Disgusted, I started to go, when Byersdoffer said. "Well, there goes your job with Benny Pollack." At the mention of my name, the kid jumped up from the cot and said "Man, are you Benny Pollack? When do I leave?" I told him train time was at 5 P. M. and he would have to shuffle.

Sure enough, at 6 o'clock, there was Teagarden, but without his Sure enough, at 6 o'clock, there was Teagarden, but without his bag. "Where's your trunk?" I asked him. He pointed to a dirty shirt wrapped up in a newspaper. "That's my trunk." he replied. Under his other arm, he carried his trombone also wrapped in newspaper. "That's the way I brought it from Texas" he answered. I haven't got a case, and anyway it's handier that way!"

Benny Goodman was getting in

To say that the term "cats" stinks would be beside—yea even behind the point. It now has gone the way of such antiquated and obsolete terminologies as Jazz Hound, ride. go, Jazz boy, gavotte, etc., etc., ad infitum. Although it was not my pre-er-ambling intention to write a treatise on the word "cats", allow me to further suggest that it might help me in order to get off of the animal terminology for awhile and change to a more colorful, a more pleasant odoriferous expression, using the bower I say more. #### WOULD HAVE IGNORANCE IN LESS REPULSIVE WAY

If S. F. Pletcher of Syracuse, N. Y. would devote some of his time to improve his English before he blossoms out as critic (?) it would enable him to present his ignorance, effontery, and insolence in a less repulsive form.

Lombardo music is the sweetest, the purest, the most exquisitely beatiful of all art, exotic as the Edelwiess. I have not missed hearing one Lombardo entertainment during the past eight years and nothing could tempt me to do so.

How about your criticsm Floyd Zanr? ... warm—friendly and dignified? Paul Damai's column is to me the highlight of "Down-Beat." He gives his unbiased opinion, is impartial to all and his sparkling wit and capricious humor is indeed a welcome diversion, compared to the stereotypic monotony one finds daily on our literary rambles. welcome diversion, compared to the stereotypic monotony one finds daily on our literary rambles.

Chicago, Illinois December 22, 1936

Down Beat Editor:

In the hopes this will find a place in your "Letters" column I, too, dare you to print this. All I want to say is somebody in Sioux Falls is sadly lacking in the requisites that make this old world a happier place or does everyone in South Dakota lack a sense of humor?

To say that Paul Damai's columns are "stupid trash" and full of "sneery criticism" is certainly the limit. Why, of all your features Damai's alone contains clever wit and exhibits writing ability which compares with the best writers anywhere. I may not agree with all he writes but I know there's one feature in Down Beat I wouldn't miss for anything. and that's Air Angle.

Whoever thinks about Damai's stuff like this fellow from Sioux Falls must be of the material the traditional blue-nosed reformers are made of. Imagine calling the Air Angle "narrow"!. But even if Damai were narrow (and it takes some imagination to think that!) did the Sioux Falls fellow ever hear the story about people in glass houses?

Editors Sit on Curb - Then Dive for Paste Pot as New Year Blows In

Chicago, Ill.—Well it seems like the 'ole past-pot will catch the business after this short column is dashed off at the last minute.

Looks like the old berg will be blown inside out tonight and we newspaper owners have to stay on the job and get out the news—what a life! If you musicians think you have it tough on a night like this just come and follow us around for a few days and you'll be down in the gutter before long—we try never to get that far but I must admit that brother Cons and myself sit on the curb-stone quite often—if you know what I mean.

Every spot in town has crowded in extra tables for this evening's embellishments and it looks like there will be a few dis-cords before the night is over and believe me there will be plenty of blue notes floating through the ozone before the morning sun comes up.

Arnheim Is A Surprise
Gus and his boys will "Say It

Congress Hotel.
Following a band of the Casa Loma type was a hard job but Arnheim is putting out a brand of music that is surprising. He has dressed up his theme song with a new rhythm background that puts it in the swing class.
The band is entirely new and he has a nice balance over the air. One thing noticeable is the fact that there is no outstanding soloists "taking-off" here and there but a nice ensemble all the time. This may be the reason for the fine balance over the air.
The crowds have been holding up town. Good music will pull the crowds so it looks like Gus is in.

What Petrilio Is Striking At

What Petrillo Is Striking At
The particular objective of the musicians union seems to be against record libraries such as the World, Standard, and NBC's Thessurus.
These organizations have a vast stock of all varieties of record music that they can furnish an agency or sponsor for a program che per than they can obtain it by using live talent. They have mood music, dance, symphony, any part of the classics, and all waxed by fine studio bands composed of the best musicians. They can furnish a theme to arrangements, have already gone to court and obtained injunctions to restrain broadcasting stations from indescriminately using their records, which they maintained destroyed the commercial value of their band when they were played too often. They also argued that the money they had invested in special arrangements and in developing a style, made those interpretations their own property, and they were entitled to part of the profits accruing thereto. In some cases, band leaders found that the broadcasting, and the availability of their own records had cost them a commercial program.

"In such instances, however, the benefits were those of the leader and not his men," Petrillo said. "The leader only. The leader enters into a contract to make records for which he, as well as the side men, gets paid, then proceeds to dictate where and under what conditions such records may be played. This policy, while highly beneficial to the leaders, does not create more employment for the rank and file. On the contrary, it has the opposite effect. The one and only purpose actually accompliahed is to make more money for the leaders."

Other Groups Protect Their Interest Way Not Us?

"The great corporations with which we do business protect their property rights in a very thorough manner. If we were to open a motion picture theater or a radio station, you would soon hear all the great corporation lawyers making historic speeches to the radio commission, thunderously declaiming that musicians should be required to confine themselves to their own profession and should not be permitted to invade the theater or radio corporation field of operation.

"Take the case of the authors and composers. They have protected themselves to such an extent, with the aid of special legislation, that no musician or entertainer, from the greatest artist now before the public on down to the $15 a week pianist in a tavern, can make a living any more in the amusement field, unless standing band. They all lived neareach other in the suburbs of Chicago and developed their music together. The first organization was born in 1925, called the "Blue Friars" in imitation of the Friar's Inn Orchestra, and included the MacPartland brothera Richard and Jimmy on banjo and cornet respectively, Dave Tough on drums, Frank Teachmaker on violin, Bud Freeman on C-melody, and Jim Lannigan on piano. Dave Tough and the MacPartland boys were the leaders of this young orchestra and it was Tough who heard Bud Freeman, who could only play two notes at the time, but played them so well that Tough signed him up. Lannigan was older and gave up drumming to come back and play piano with the boys. He is now playing string-bass in a symphony orchestra.

Husk O'Hare Grabs The Band

Husk O'Hare Grabs The Band
The biggest date this band had was a high school dance, but they would call up friends and ask if they could come over and jam. It was enough to bring them to the attention of Husk O'Hare. The band was renamed "Husk O'Hare's Red Dragons," and soon had a wire over station WHT with the famous Pat Barnes announcing. A few changes were made. Milton Mesirow was added on saxophone, Floyd O'Brien on trombone, and Dave North played the piano while Lannigan switched to bass. It was not long before the band had a great reputation among those in the know.

Colored Musicians Inspired These Boys

Colored Musicians Inspired These Boys

It was at this time that these musicians who later achieved great fame absorbed the determining in fluence of negro music. The Friar's Inn band was before their time. A few of them heard it, but all of them knew the records by heart. The real thrill came when Dave Tough brought the boys over to hear Louis Armstrong playing with Joe Oliver. They found Earl Hines playing at a beat-up joint called the "Elite." At the Paradise they listened attentively to Bessie Smith who was their favorite. And Carol Dickerson at the Sunset Cafe held their attention whenever they had a moment to spare. Mesirow was the yeast in the awing brew. It was he who kept the boys on their toes by taking them to hear every good colored band within a hundred miles. He even brought Bix over to hear the Chicagoans. Bix's first remark was "where in the world did you guya learn to play like that?" They all knew about Bix but had never seen him before.

Charlie Dodds Jams the Becchwood Sticks

Probably the outstanding performance of the evening was the work done by the heavy artillery of Charlie Dodds, chief "skin-beater" when he jammed his new beechwood sticks into everything but the public address system. On the more saccharine side, the modern male chorus emptied saddles in the old corral with the commendable voice of Bill Bodley, c'40.

The jam session, however, did not have the spirit of the hang-out basement affairs, not reaching that certain mellowness with which all genuine improvising begins. This was probably due to the absence of one of the most important ingredients which loosens musicians' modesty and their inhibitions.

However, last night's concert was definitely a success, and an enthusiastic one, and proved that atudent musicians can be musicians and showmen as well. The swing concert which replaced the abandoned W. S. G. A. musical comedy may become a permanent institution on this campus. And the very unorthodox idea of dance musicians expressing themselves publicly in the spirit of a modern American type of musical expression may become an established custom.

HARMONIZE THE LEAD WITH NUMBER OF VOICES DESIRED

Modern Improvising by Norbert J. Beihoff, Mus. B. author of Course in Modern Arranging, Professional Saxophone Technic Simplified, Mod-ern Harmony, Course in Modern Em-bellishment, Orchestration Chart, etc.

by Norbert J. Beihoff Lesson 7

The most apparent value of the ability to write improvising and do so according to rules is when an arranger does this arranging for an entire section. To write the embellishing for several instruments as a section is rather simple after a study of the harmony and resolution of passing tones, as previously explained in these lessons.

The identical rules for improvising

The identical rules for improvising apply whether written for one or more instruments. It then becomes necessary to harmonize the lead with the number of voices desired. This can be easily done for one to three additional instruments.

To learn to harmonize the melody we will briefly review ordinary three part arranging which will illustrate the harmonization of melody notes that do not belong to the harmony of the measure.

There is considerable difference be-tween arranging for a group of three instruments and for a stock arrange-ment which must be playable with either two or three or even four in-struments in a section.

To simplify this we will first illustrate 3 part arranging which is primarily usable for just a section of 3 instruments. Inasmuch as readers of these articles understand harmony thoroughly it will be necessary to merely present the general rules for trio writing.

for trio writing.

Memorize: to harmonize a melody for a trio, complete the chord by adding the remaining two chord tones to the melody. When the melody is not a chord tone a special treatment is required which is explained later. The interval between any two voices should not be more than a minor 7th with but few exceptions. Ex. 1 in close harmony. Ex. 2 in open harmony. The two harmony voices should progress smoothly, avoiding wide jumps and progressing to the closest chord tone in the following chord. Wide jumps are permitted for special effects. Ex. 3 bad jumps and resolutions. Ex. 4 is o.k. Try to utilize the entire chord avoiding duplication of any note (exceptions and resolutions. Ex. 4 is o.k. Try to utilize the entire chord avoiding duplication of any note (exceptions will be explained later) omitting the root or 5th in 4 tone chords and both the root and 5th in 5 tone chords.

When optional, avoid crossing the harmony voices and always avoid crossing the melody with one of the harmony voices.

Passing tones in the melody can be arranged as follows:

If the passing tone is of short duration it can be ignored and the chord tones preceding and following harmonized with the harmony unchanged because of the passing tone. Ex. 5 and 6 show various examples of passing tones and harmonization. The passing tone can be harmonized with two iif the basic harmony tones that are consonant to the passing tone and which form a complete related harmony.

In the example the passing tones.

In the example the passing tones are marked "p." Passing tones can also be harmonized with additional passing tones which complete a related chord, but the passing tones in the harmony must resolve according to the previously stated rules on resolution of passing tones.

the Tiger As He Goes Hollywood

New York, N. Y.—That classic of the early, but unlamented jazz era, "TIGER RAG," is breaking loose again. And this time he comes out swinging. Spud Murphy, has been putting the Tiger thru a few new tricks and the boys will have a grand time trying to "hold that tiger" when they start rehearsing Spud's new arrangement. Incidentally, the vogue for Murphy arrangements is on the upbeat, which has led Leo Feist, Inc. to publish a new Spud Murphy series. Numbers already issued are "TIGER RAG," "IA-DA," "WANG WANG BLUES," "WA-BASH BLUES," "CHANG," "CLARINET MARMALADE," "I'M A DING DONG DADDY" and "SUNDAY." These are to be followed shortly with "DAR K TO WN STRUTTERS BALL," "CHANGES," "AT SUNDOWN," "I'M SORRY! MADE YOU CRY," and "WHAT CAN I SAY AFTER I SAY I'M SORRY."

University Prof. Explains Overtones & How Tones Are Governed

TONE COLOR OR TIMBRE
This characteristic of timbre or color of tone is perhaps the hardest to grasp of any. Pitch and intensity, while perhaps not fully understood from the standpoint of exact causes, are nevertheless fairly obvious to anyone who produces any kind of music. And this obvioumeas la definite enough so that the reason behind all of it can be tacked on to it and appear at once as quite logical. Timbre is slightly more indirect in its connection to what we hear in tone, when it is explained.

So that we may all start even in the matter it is perhaps desirable to lead off with a definition of timbre. It is that characteristic of tone that gives tone its identity. For instance we can hear a tone from a saxaphone and a flute, each tone having the same pitch and degree of loudness. Yet there is something else in each tone that makes them enough unlike so that each can be instantly recognized for itself. This quality is also referred to as tone-color, quality, composition or material of the tone, as well as timbre of the tone.

Tone Governed by Vibrating Qualities

Tone Governed by Vibrating Qualities

Tone Governed by Vibrating Qualities

If a number of graph lines are made of different tone qualities, yet all having the same pitch and degree of intensity, it is at once obvious that each difference of timbre is shown in the oscillograph reading as a difference in the contour of the line. From what is known of the connection between the oscillograph tracing representing varying characteristics of the tone itself, and the vibration producing the tone, it is easy to deduce that timbre in tone is governed by the shape of the vibration pattern.

The accompanying graphs of tone are from various instruments that do not sound similar. The pitch and intensity are the same in every case, consequently the length and heighth or amplitude of the patterns are the same. But the shapes of the patterns vary greatly: to exactly the same extent, in fact, that the color or timbre of the various tones differ. Pattern (a) is from a tuning fork, (b) from a piano, (c) from a tuba, and (d) from a violin, each battern representing one complete vibration of the tone producing part of the instrument.

Tone Resembles a Ray of Sunlight strument.

Tone Resembles a Ray of Sunlight

Tone Resembles a Ray of Sunlight
When these vibration shapes peculiar to differing instruments are traced back to the instruments themselves some interesting things are brought to light. A musical instrument producing one tone of a certain pitch or frequency is usually producing in that tone more frequencies than are represented in the pitch of the tone. Tone is very much like a ray of sunlight in one respect. The sunlight seems to have but one color, that being what we know as white. Yet a glass prism will break this white ray up into the seven primary colors, proving that a mixture of these colors produces the one color white. If some of these primary colors are emitted from the mixture, the result is not white, but some other color. In the same way a tone that seems to have but one frequency and that accounting for the pitch of the tone, really contains many other frequencies blended with each other in various ways, and the result of this blending is what is called this blending is what is called timbre.

The basic reason for this is that the string or the air column in the instrument, by the way in which the instrument functions, is impelled to vibrate at faster rates than the lowest frequency possible to it. This causes the string or air column to vibrate in sections as well as a whole, for the sections being shorter than the whole, can vibrate faster. In order that these sections be accommodated within the complete string or air column they must bear a relation to the whole that can be expressed in whole numbers; that is the sections will be one-half the whole, one-third, one-fourth, etc., for as many sections as appear. This means that the frequencies of these smaller sections will be twice, three times, four times, etc., that of the frequency of the whole string or air column. Because of this whole number ratio of frequencies between sections the vibrations fit into each other so smoothly that the ear is not conscious of each one but receives all of them as one sensation.

Explaining the Overtones

Explaining the Overtones

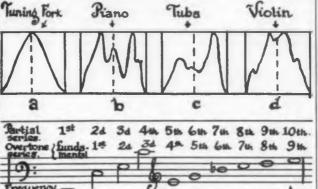

The lowest frequency is of course that of the whole structure that is the first cause of the tone, and also the one that gives it a certain pitch and place on the staff. The number of sections, their ratios to each other, and their proportionate intensities, determine the timbre of the tone.

Scientists call these parts of tone and their proportionate intensities, determine the timbre of the tone. Scientists call these parts of tone, partials, and identify them as 1st, 2d, 3d, etc. Most musicians call the first partial the fundamental, and the rest of the partials, 1st overtone, 2d overtone, etc. This is probably because the first partial determines the pitch of the tone and so seems more important, or at least different, from the others, thus deserving a different name. Scientists prefer the term partials because the numerical designation of the partial then also states its frequency ratio in the partial series. Thus the 9th partial has nine times the frequency of the 1st, 9 vibrations to 4 for the 4th, and so on.

The following diagram shows the partials possible to tone, up to the 10th partial. It also shows the name the series is as shown.

Tuning Fork Does Not Have Overtones

Referring again to the first illustration, it will be noticed that the tuning fork tone graph is a amooth and regular pattern. This is because it consists of only the 1st partial; or we can say it is all fundamental and has no overtones. This does not mean it has no timbre, it means it has a timbre characteristic of a tone that is all fundamental. Any tone that is all fundamental will sound the same; certain flute tones, also metal bar tones of some kinds, sounds like tuning fork tone, if we distegard the way in which these various tones may be started.

Toscanini Leads Exile Orch. In Jewish City

Tel Aviv, Palestine—Arturo Toscanini, former director of the New York Philharmonic is conducting as exile orchestra in a series of concert in the Jewish national state of Palestine. First concert in Tei Aviv was a sell-out numbering many no tables among the 3,000 persons whattended. More than 60 artists performed, most of them Jewish refugees from Germany.

Bronislaw Huberman, noted German violinist formed the orchestra with the aid of the Palestine Orch Ass'n. Huberman, whose invitation was responsible for Toscanini's acceptance to conduct the opening concerts, selected the musicians. Rehearsals began last November under the batons of Hans W. Steinburg formerly of the Frankfort orchestra Issay Dobrowen, formerly of the Safrancisco symphony, and the New York Philharmonic; and Michae Taube, the 3 permanent conductore Concerts will be conducted later in Jerusalam, Haifa, Cairo and Alexandria. Selections were from Rossini's "Scala de Feta," Von Weber' overture to the opera "Beron, Brahm's 2nd symphony, Mendels sohn's nocturne and scherzo of the music for "A Midnight Summer' Dream." and Schubert's "Unfinishe Symphony."

REED EXPERT TELLS BASIC TECHNIC OF THE CLARINET

by Clarence Warmelin

All artistry, no matter in what capacity, depends upon the skill with which ideas are set forth. The skill of a performer on a musical instrument is commonly called technique, and in this article I shall deal only with the basic or fundamental elements which are essential to the attainment and the support of this skill, as concerns the clarinet.

Technique of the clarinet may be considered under three main headings; the technique of the embouchure, the technique of the tongue and the technique of the hands. Each of these, while of great importance individually, is supplementary to the other two, and a fine player must possess the results of all three, tone, staccato, and dexterity. Many players have developed one or two of these fundamentals to a great degree but lack a consistency in the third. This accounts for the fact that many clarinetists feel that they have come to a more or less 'static' stage in their playing and begin to cast around for some suggestions as to improvement. If I can in any way aid these earnest and sincere men in their search for a means to an end, the purpose of this article has been worthwhile.

their search for a means to an end, the purpose of this article has been worthwhile.

As the first thing one does in commencing to play a clarinet is to blow it, the embouchure, or technique of the mouth should be considered at ance. I am quite conversant with the various embouchures which the players and teachers all over the country use and recommend. The fact that such variances and differences of opinion on this matter exist, suggests that some effort has been made to find an embouchure suitable to a wide range of requirements. I have found that the embouchure most suitable for all purposes, for a good, healthy quality of tone, for ease and flexibility of performance consists of the following points. The flexibility of the lip plays an important part in technique, as it enables an easy performance of intervals. This facility depends on the amount of lower lip to cover the lower teeth. About the middle of the red part of the lower lip. The upper teeth should be placed on the mouth-piece, about three-eights of an inch from the tip. The lips should be held firmly around the mouthpiece, not too tensely, and with a light pressure, or bite, with the lower lip. The same pressure should prevail in all registers. Most beneficial results can be obtained along this line by playing sustained tones in intervals. There is an old fallacy still existant which is prevalent among many players of the old school, namely, the covering of both upper and the lower teeth with the lips in somewhat the manner of the embouchure used in the playing of a double-reed instrument. It is positively wrong to use the upper lip to cover the objections to this unnatural position are obvious to anyone who has tried it but I will mention a few of them as examples.

In the first place the lower lip is the stronger lip as it is used more extensively, as in talking or in eating. The upper lip is a weak member, and as embouchure is nothing more than a muscular development it is obviously wrong to handicap one's self in such a way.

Also, the man who covers his

Also, the man who covers his upper teeth with his lip will not hear the effect of his tone nearly so well as when the teeth are placed on the mouthpiece, for the very simple reason that the bones of the head act as a conductor for the sound, from the teeth to the eardrums. These are only two of the difficulties presented by this type of embouchure but there are many more. ure, but there are many more.

Now as to the second of our technical triumvirate, the technique of the tongue or the staccato. Nothing could be more important than the beginning of the sound. Finger Technique

After a player has established his tone and has attained enough facility of tongue to permit him to produce notes when he wants them, he begins to be interested in moving his fingers in correlation with his first two attainments, in the triumph of a tune. This will lead him to a consideration of hand position. Form in athletics, streamlining in modern progress as well as finger technique on an instrument are wholly concerned with producing as much possible speed, accuracy, beauty and rejuvenate it?—B. F., Cedar Rapids, Ia.

ANS.: I think your main difficulty will lie in the fact that the slides are sticking; that is, not opening sufficiently, or else your reed blocks are loose. Either one of these faults costs you air pressure and are very distressing. The first is caused by either weather or mechanical difficulties and will ultimately need a repair man. The second fault may be corrected by either tightening the reed block screws or placing leather padding beneath the block bushing.

QUES: The accordion seems to be very hard on my clothes, especially on my tux in which I play every night. Wish you could help me with a suggestion.—E. M., St. Paul, Minn. ### "Forget About Your Belly & Diaphragm and Breathe With Your Lungs"

by John O'Donnell

My parting words in last month's issue of Down Beat.

Can You Imagine That!!! Never Heard of Such A Thing!!! What's The World Coming To!!! So What???

Heard of Such A Thing!!! What's The World Coming To!!! So What???

For years I was told to stand up while practicing. Like a nut, I stood up until I was exhausted. It's wonder I'm not as flat-footed as a "copper." I can see now why I could not breathe correctly when I sat down. The funny part of it is, we all play 90% of the time sitting down. It's all right to stand up now and then and take a chorus while aracticing but devote most of your me to trying to breathe correctly while sitting down. Save your energy and pep for your embouchure. Develop endurance in your lips, not in your feet.

Learn to breathe with your lungs which are in your back just about under the shoulder blades. "Surprise!" You thought they were in your chest. Well, you are just about 35% correct. 55% of lungs extend in the back. Don't let anyone teach you belly or diaphragm breathing. You can't fill up a belly or diaphragm with air any more than you can fill up the running board of a car with gas. The car has a gas tank and you have your lungs so learn to breathe correctly with your lungs. Forget all about your belly, diaphragm, or oblique muscles because any conscious effort trying to use belly, diaphragm, or oblique muscles will make your breathing fall down and go boom. Running is the finest of all exercises for lung expansion.

A roll in its worst stages drops mouthpiece too low on lower lip and makes it impossible for you to bring mouthpiece back to its perfect high spot as long as the roll exists. So you see the roll, deadliest of all killers, acts like a nozzle of a hose. It keeps on turning back until it completely closes the opening, choking the tone and causing the air column to back-fire which will irritate the throat, strain the eyes, and its a darn funny thing it doesn't break your ear drums. For example, if you close the nozzle of a hose, which in comparison is your lips, the water, which in comparison is your lips, the water, which in comparison is your throat. When you open the closed nozzle of the hose, the water flows freely, which eliminates the swelling of the hose. Thus it is with closed lips caused by a roll. When you open closed lips, the air once again flows freely and relieves the choked feeling in your throat.

THE AIR ANGLE

By Paul K. Damai

by Paul K. Damai

Hal Kemp certainly should find the Chesterfield show, which he took over from Kostelanets the first of the year, more satisfying (like his sponsor's product) in many ways than his previous spell for Gulf on Columbia. For one, the Gulf show reached only the Atlantic seaboard stations of the net. And it had Phil Baker as co-star with attendant ecliptic effects.

On this new hour (Fridays, 8:30 C. S.), the assisting talent, while good, is more complemental than contrasting. Kay Thompson and her choral society are the nuts with their maigue arrangements but we think Kemp will shine through more prominently than when sandwiching Baker, Bottle, Beetle, et al.

After all Hal is still the leader in a certain brand of dance music. There is a sophisticate polish about him that wreedles the smart set and there's the crack musicianship which enchants the Brown Berbies who know something about music, thank God.

Kemp, in a manner of speaking.

was one of the first bands to point his arrangements and orchestration towards the mike with an even of the rocking chair addictry and more musicianly effects than merely adapting a winy washy style for style's Rock & Public

Not particularly styled for dancing, Kemp's music is fine for the ethereal medium. Skinny Ennis would never lay claim to a singer's degree, but his interpretations of pops have found much favor. Maxine Grey, while lacking the fire of Deane Janis, former Kemp torcher, gives pleasing renditions in a businesslike manner. Beb Allen is better than most orch vocalists of the type.

LET'S HOPE HAL SELLS LOTS OF CIGGIES TO BALANCE ON BEER BOTTLES.

So Little Jack Little and orehestra have gone separate way. The parting was friendly as it should've been. Little built the band into comething fine and the band gave Little the best of musicianship with which to build. The premise upon which Little worked was a strict "oneness" in the ensemble work and also thrilling expression in soft and loud passages where the band would swell and whisper in eloquent musical emphasis.

Jack himself is going to start anew with a band built around his piano, which the paying public seems to want. If Duchin can do it why not Little? But we'll be watching with interest the fortunes of the decapitated ex-Little band which plans to run on a co-op basis. Co-op bands are rare, and this indicates they are rather difficult to maintain. We shall see. The band that Jack built deserves and should get the best of breaks. . . .

Gargantuan is a good word to describe the sound of the flop made by Louie Prima at Chi's Biackhawk as the old year drew to a close. A hit with five men at the cat sections in the Famous Door in NY and a failure with twelve is a piece of history which only hears out the truth of Counio Mack's philosophy: Never change a winning line-up.

Red Norvo, who followed Prima into the midwest's premier polka palace seems to be doing oke. Judging from the prominent place given Mildred Bailey's vocals on the air programs, it seemeth that the band is leaning heavily on Miss Bailey's broad...shoulders.

Now this should not be. But is. So what? Millie never impressed us as anything more than bluesshouter of fair ability. Yet her ninnees-in-indigo seem to attract far above the really good moonik of the Norvo band. Red's good, but if the pooblie wom't see it and they choose to adore Mildred instead of the rightful deity, we should worry. Mamma goes where Pappa goes and vice versa.

What we should have deemed a perfect Christmas present would have been a regular net spot for Fats Waller. Instead we must be content with harking to Fats on records which pop up in all-too-infrequent and strange dial notches On short-wave from Havana the other day, and from a one-lunger on the broadcast band we've heard spasmodic tinkles of Waller's canned piano and voice.

There may be a few better pianists
. . like Tatum possibly. But for mbined singing and playing Fats the complete artist and a gratifyg one too.

Some idea of what is going to what is going to be carried out is indicated with indicated with the announcement that Paul White and twenty-five artists ensemble, Bob Crosby, Jesse Hawkins and Chie Scoggins will play one night engagements in January. Scoggins, it will be remembered, was regarded over

was regarded ove

Scogna, it will be remembered, was regarded over a period of three years as Kanaas City's finest band attraction. Incidentally, Ray Langhlin and his orchestra. (Ray was with Scognins a number of years), a 12 piece combo, will take over the bandstand on the 9th using at least four fiddles and featuring ultra smart dance music. Local radio station WHB went Mutual on the 29th of December. Electrical transcriptions of eastern orchestra broadcasts made on the previous night's airing will be played on the following any's program This due to the fact that WHB is as yet a day time station and cannot use the full 18 hour service given to them by Mutual.

The owner of a new dine and dance spot, The Jockey Club, evidently had his eyes closed when he picked the location at 10th and Paseo. About the only redeeming feature, as we see it, is the music of Carlos Shaw and his orchestra and that is redeeming. Shaw apent part of last summer at the Chex Maurice in Dallas.

Buster Smith with Count Basie's band has made a fine swing arrangement of "Better Get Gabriel's Horn," a dandy tune from the pen of a couple of local song writers, Harry Gerehman and Beanie Lane.

Collector's Column

By Paul Edonard Miller

The early Victor and Columbia records of the Original Dixieland Band have been highly publicized, and as a result they are much sought after. But the early Okeh discs waxed by W. C. Handy's orchestra are not only as important (if not more so) than the Dixieland's, but what is significant for the collector, they are much more difficult to obtain, no doubit due to the probability that Dixieland records sold in greater numbers than did Handy's. The latter's discs are even better than Dixielands in respect to musical quality, since orchestral balance and harmony is more effectively used, and also in respect to emotional quality, since the performances are given with greater feeling, with more "souls." Too many Dixieland records sound like demonstrations of mere technique, but in the Handy platters one gets the impression that the noted blues composer did not seek after sensational instrumentation but rather the creation of a definite feeling or mood. Of course, Dixieland records are indispensable to the collector of historical records of value, and also for the one who collects examples of various jazz styles, but no more indispensable for these reasons than are numerous other discs which have so far been entirely overlooked.

The earliest Handy record I have more "souls." Too many Dixieland records sound like demonstrations of mere technique, but in the Handy platters one gets the impression that the noted blues composer did not seek after sensational instrumentation but rather the creation of a slightly later date. In the latter are found alto, tenor, and trumpet solos, and the clarinet can be clearly heard in spots. The former features of value, and also for the one who collects examples of various jazz styles, but no more indispensable for these reasons than are numerous other diacs which have so far been entirely overlooked.

The earliest Handy record I have seen is that of St. Louis Blues and Memphis Blues (Okeh 4986). Both numbers are among the finest blues ever written, thus adding to the musical value of the platter. The first chorus of St. Louis Blues is played in what is now called the Dixieland style (but which might with more accuracy be labelled the New Orleans Negro style), the trombone, clarinet, and trumpet all being prominent. Trumpet (perhaps by Handy) takes most of the next chorus, but the trombone slides in some breaks. A strange and weird piano solo takes two choruses, and final two are jammed, with trumpet and trombone dominating. Memphis Blues is no less interesting. In spots the piano can be heard, and again the trumpet, trombone, and clarinet, as well as a hot violin solo, are featured.

DISCUSSION

By EDGAR GREENTREE

One of our New Year's resolutions was to not list what in our opinion were the outstanding records of 1936. We felt that it was only slightly more practical than picking an all-American football team.

Goodman Outsells Other Victor Bands
It may be interesting to note that Benny Goodman outsold every other band on Victor records. The next three in order under the Victor label were Fatz Waller, Eddy Duchin and Guy Lombardo. Skipping to the Bluebird catalogue, we find that Shep Fields was the best seller. His rise to fame baseen truly remarkable, and though his is the type of fame which is short lived, the record sales of Fields' records haven't started to slip.

Toscanini Tops Red Seal Releases
The Toscanini sets—one the Beethoven Seventh Symphony and the other Wagnerian excerpts—naturally outsold all other Red Seal releases.
As a matter of fact, these sets proved more popular than any other in years. Though the actual percentage of classical discs compared to the total field (which has been estimates at from 28 to 30 million for this country, which would make the volume seven times that of 1932) is not particularly large, it is encouring to note that the "comeback" in the longhaired class has easily kept pace with the rest of the field.

Hal Kemp Best on Brunswick

pace with the rest of the field.

Hal Kemp Best on Brunswick
Hal Kemp was the best seller for Brunswick. In the middle west, at least, Teddy Wilson ran him a close second, and with a surprisingly fast closing sprint at the finish almost outdistanced the tall southerner.
Russ Morgan ended up in the show spot with a free for all for the fourth position. On Vocalion, Mildred Bailey is ahead for the closing weeks of '36, but Bob Wills gets the rod for the entire year, due, no doubt to Mildred's inactivity prior weeks of '36, but Bob Wills gets the rod for the entire year, due, no doubt to Mildred's inactivity prior to a few months ago.

Decca, by having Riley and Farley, produced the one record that outsold everything else during 1936: "The Music Goes Round and Around." Though there were over a dozen kound and Rounds recorded, the Riley-Farley platter was the first on the market and really cleaned up. Jan Garber's "Beautiful Lady in Blue" was runnerup in popularity, with Bing Crosby's "I'm an Old Cowhand" copping third honors. Garber was the most popular of the Decca orchestras.

A new orchestra was formed in was the most popular of the Decca orchestras.

A new orchestra was formed in 1936 which has lived up to the great things that were expected of it—Red Norvo's. None of the band's work on wax does the group justice, though constant improvement has been evident. Now with a new man on paino (Bill Miller), a new man on guitar (Red McGarvie) and in all likelihood a replacement in the brass section (one of the country's finest may be with the Norvo band by the time this appears) there seems to be no reason why Red Norvo and his orchestra won't keep going up and up. We almost forgot to mention Mildred Bailey, but it goes without saying that a large portion of the band's popularity is due to Mildred's incomparable vocals.

The band is scheduled to go to the incomparable vocals.

The band is scheduled to go to the Brunswick studios in Chicago shortly after the first of the year for a recording date. Eddie Sauter, extrumpeter who is now concentrating on arranging, is at the moment working on three arrangements for the session, all pops. They are "A Thousand Dreams of You," "Slumming on Park Avenue" and "Smoke Dreams." Too bad they won't let them make more standards.

BENNY GOODMAN

BENNY GOODMAN WAXES A FEW MORE "GOODIES"

Goodman's latest couples "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," (Mundy arrangement) with "When You and I Were Young, Maggie." The week before this came two Goodman commercials: "Smoke Dreams" and "Gee! But You're Swell." Both of these have Helen Ward vocals. (Victor 25486.)

TOMMY DORSEY'S NEW RECORD RELEASES

There were two Tommy Dorsey discs about the same time. The most recent pairs "May I Have the Next Romance with You" and the title song from "Head Over Heels in Love." Swing devotees can skip the former side completely. but the former side completely, but might find something of interest in the last chorus on the reverse, expecially Bud Freeman's solo on tenor. Both of these tunes were written for the Gaumont-British film by Mack

Gordon and Harry Revel. (Victor 25487.) Tommy's band also recorded "There's Frost on the Moon" (which is a steal from "You Can't Pull the Wool Over My Eyes") which has been released with the standard, "Keepin' Out of Mischief Now." The former turns out to be not a frost at all, due chiefly to a first rate arrangement (probably Paul Wettstein) well played. Notice especially Dave Tough's magnificent drumming. (Victor 25482.)

MIDGE WILLIAMS

MIDGE WILLIAMS RECORDS WITH TEDDY WILSON

TEDDY WILSON
Midge Williams, who also sings on the Studebaker show, made some records recently with Teddy Wilson.
Titles are "Where the Lazy River Goes By" and "Right or Wrong."
The band is better than the singer.
(Brunswick 7797.)

BENNY CARTER'S RECORDING PERSONNEL

RECORDING PERSONNEL

Though mention was made last month of the Benny Carter importations ("When Day Is Done" and "Big Ren Blues") we neglected to list the personnel. The former side includes Andy McDevitt and Buddy Featherstonaugh, reeds; Duncan Whyte, and Tommy McQuater, trumpets; George Eliot, guitar; Ronnie Gubertini, drums; Pat Dodd, piano, and Al Burke, bass. Four men were added for "Big Ben Blues," these being E. O. Pogson in the reed section, and Ted Heath and Bill Mulraney, trombones, and Max Goldberg, the famous trumpeter, in the brass section. (Brunswick 7786.) Incidentally, if we recommend these two sides it is only with numerous reservations.)

MEROFF BLOWS THEM OUT OF THEIR SEATS AS WLW DIR. BURNS

DOWN BEAT

Cincinnati, O.—It is rumored that Bill Scoess, the cigar smoking general musical director of W.L.W., will have his "Famous Flying Dutchman" on the air soon. Let's hope soon because that outfit was as fine as they come. How about it Stoess.

Benny Meroff is blowing 'em out of their seats at the Plazs with a band that can play louder than Sousa. The guests leave with indigestion and two broken ear drums. Phil Davis, W.L.W. leader, is burned up because Jack Egam made the statement that Ray Robinson was the first leader to use four euphoniums. It so happens that Davis used the idea months ago and he has a right to burn. Phil is the idea guy at W.L.W. Incidentally, he has some d——fine ones.

* (Ed. Note—Robinson used four euphoniums four years ago for transcription work. The record is in Down Beat's office.)

Jimmy Brink, the Lookout House boss, continues to bite on the bookers line like a catfish on liver. He has been taking it on the chin with some foul bands. It is hard to figure out why he keeps on biting when he has a No. 1 band in the Trask outfit.

foul bands. It is hard to figure out why he keeps on biting when he has a No. 1 band in the Trask outfit.

Bob Rainer and his smooth band of locals have put the Mariemont Inn on a paying basis again. It is a hangout for Cinry's 400 and as they refuse to bite on any bad bands, we must, therefore, give Rainer the credit.

they refuse to bite on any bad bands, we must, therefore, give Rainer the credit.

Earl Wendaleken, the 6 ft. 5 drummer with Clyde Trank, will go the way of all flesh sometime in February when he will middle aisle it with Cincinnati's prettiest—the lovely Ethel Haisley.

The Parisian Melodians, a swing band of 13 girls, played the Shubert Theatre in December, and a nice band it was. The features in the band are Naomi Lates (sax) Marion Elaca (trumpet) and Olga Gaven (trombone). Dorothy Woolf does a great job of conducting.

The Nine Mile House had to enlarge their place because of the big biz, the fag show is drawing. The Revue is known as "The Gay Boy Revue" and what a swell bunch of fairies they are. It's the real thing (whoops, my dear).

Billy Saider, the old Kentucky Colonel, has his band in the 4444 Club and there has been a big pickup in business. They are good until January in this spot.

Austin Wylie, the Cleveland leader, her been playing the Dirigible New Year's Eve. It is hard to figure how a leader can get so high then come down the ladder to play dance halls. I'll bet that hurts.

Mel Sayder has been hitting the road playing through indians, Kentucky, and Ohio.

Ted Travers is doing very good at old Vienna and he has proven him.

road playing through the tucky, and Ohio.

Ted Travers is doing very good at old Vienna and he has proven himself a good B.O. draw here in Cincy.

Looks like he will stay on although I wouldn't bet on it.

JOE VENUTI'S SWELL ORCHESTRA NEEDS SHOWMANSHIP

Kansas City, Mo.—Helen Heath who was around this way not so long ago is handling the vocals for Jimmy Joy and his orchestra at the Rice Hotel in Houston.

Tommy Douglas and his orchestra once more in the good graces of Colored Local 627 are scheduled to move into the Harlem Night Club succeeding Peto Johnson. Harlam Loonard and His Rockets are at the Cotton Club in Chicago.

We forgot to mention last month that it was Red Fox who gave that 'lift' to Dutch Holland's band.

Being that Joe Venuti has such a swell outfit, wouldn't it be just still better if the old boy had that bit of personality, that showmanship that is so characteristic of other big name leaders?

We've heard some mighty complimentary remarks about Claude Demy and his strolling combination now doing their turn at The Grill in the Hotel Muchlebach.

Jimmy Lunceford plays at Pasco Hall on the 5th. Bobby Mecker plays the Sophomore Hop at the University of Kansas on the 8th. Dusty Rhodes goes into the Jefferson Hotel in St. Louis on the 7th.

After "importing" name bands all the past summer and fall seasons, it has developed that the local night spot citizenry still goes wherever the favorite maestros are playing, turning out, it's true, for the name bands not regularly playing here season after season, but not in such large numbers as for the local favorites.

YE OLDE GOODE MUSIC Drummer Rides 5 AT DANCEABLE TEMPOS!

by Frank Sidney Art Barnett, now appearing with his orchestra at the Detroit Athletic Club, used to do a single act in show business and appeared in many prominent night clubs and theatres. His first experience in music came as an entertaining drummer with a half dozen or more "name" band in New York city.

"Good Music At Danceable Tempos" is the slogan of the band and it has worked so well that the boys have been offered a long term contract at their present spot with a C.B.S. pick-up.

Art has no intention of following the current craze for swing and wisely plays sweet and novelty arrangements of old and new favorites in demand by the club patrons.

The instrumetation follows: Saxophones—Harry Sacks (vocals, alto, flute, clarinet), Walter Littlewood (tenor, bass clarinet, flute), Ronsld Ross (vocals, alto, oboe, English horn, clarinet), Lionel Kennedy (baritone, bass clarinet). Trumpet—Tommy Gott (formerly with Whiteman). Violins—Ist violin, Max Goodwin; 2nd violin, Vincent Mignola; 3rd violin, Buddy Falco. First piano—Lewis Goodwin; 2nd piano—Lewis Goodwin; Drums—Phil Subin. Bass—Joseph Feinbloom.

Minutes As Terp Hounds Stop

by Harry Knotts

by Harry Knotts

Baltimore, Md.—It was the third chorus of Big Chief DeSota and Eddie Provosts boys were swinging in the groove, playing wide open. Then it came, the bestest piece of drumming heard in Balto since Krupa played the Town Party here with Goodman. Otto Petrosino rode for five minutes while the terp hounds forgot their dancing and crowded around the band-stand. Penthouse crowd like their rhythms hot, and believe you me that's what Eddie and the boys are giving them. Nice band and fine bunch of fellas, including Dottie Conlogue who pushes the temperature up a few more degrees with her scorch songs.

Johnny Johnson pulled out of the Lila Rose who has just finished two years with Mal Hallett's outfit, went across in a big way at the Penthouse. Lila has a tremendous lift in her voice. Darn nice gal too! Helen Bentley followed Rose into this spot. Helen is quite a favorite in Balto. Formerly sang with Husk O'Hare and Art Kassel.

favorite in Balto. Formerly sang with Husk O'Hare and Art Kassel. Harry and Rosalie Carter will soon be heard over WBAL as well as WCBM ... Danny Logan brings a fine band to the Club Astoria, replacing Tiny Bradshaw. Harold Mason deserves plenty of credit for the fine brand of orks he features at his popular nitery. Fletcher Henderson (minus Eldridge) and Jimmie Lunceford did fine at the Royal Theatre ... Local musicians up in arms against Local 40. Local 40 have been giving the boys a pretty raw deal lately it's raising plenty of stinkaroo. It's getting so a guy can't move without breaking some crazy restriction. Local musicians aren't even allowed to advertise anymore, and how the officials are rumored to be cooking up some law to keep out-of-town orks from playing in town, 'cept on one-niters.

Was Ushered Out The Back Door!

Wendell Merritt

Scarsdale, N. Y.—Ten years ago, a young chap by the name of Wendell Merritt brought his aggregation of nervous, youthful musicians to a certain Chinese Restaurant in Stanford, Conn. After a few hours of playing, he and his band were ushered gently but firmly out the door—the back door.

Today ton years leter Wendell the back door.

Today, ten years later, Wendell has one of the most promising young swing bands in the country and was recently offered a much more lucrative contract from the same proprietor in Stanford at a very swanky new restaurant. At the moment, the versatile Connecticut maestro and his band are holding forth at the unique Schmidt's Farm in Scarsdale, New York.

FORMER TEST PILOT "TAKES - OFF!" BEAUTIFULLY

by Bob Harris

Boston, Mass.—The old year has gone, and the new year has come, but beest thouest not saddest as the new yearest is going to be a hell of a year as atated by that great philosopher, Robert S. Harris.

All right, you don't believe me, huh? Well by this time Ruby Newman is playing at the Rainbow Grill in New York where he started January 7th; Bob Hackett has signed a contract with Victor to make records. (That's news to youse guys); Frankie Ward is in the Bradford Penthouse now; and it looks like there is going to be more commercials sent out through our local stations. Walter Smith, Jr. is conducting his dad's hand, and doing a very successful job at that. Using the top dance men, and the top legitimate men in Boston, he puts on a commercial that is very entertaining.

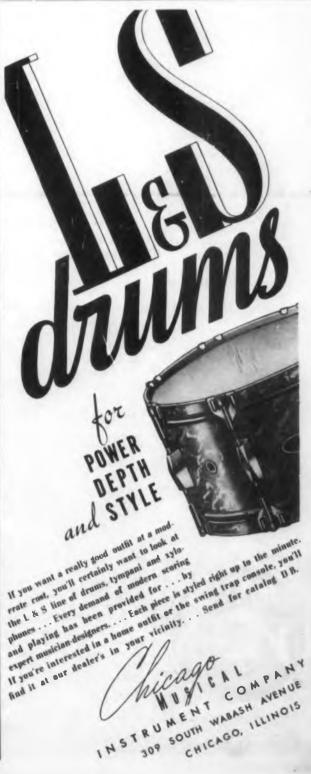

Bob Mayhew, Nye's brother, takesoff beautifully. It comes to him rightfully as he was a test pilot for a large concern in New York, and has also flown in a couple of revolutions down in Mexico. It was a case of selfishness with the Boston local when they wouldn't let Mayhew's band play on the Phil Baker commercial when he was in town. I have a challenge for anyone who says they can beat Barney Gould who, very bashfully, claims that he is the beat Kosatzki player in Bonton. If enough applications are received, a contest will be held at Symphony Hall at a date which will be posted later, and which will be broadcasted from coast to coast.

broadcasted from coast to coast.

One of the finest little four-piece combos in Boston can be found down stairs at the Brown Derby with Al Scaff playing mass; Tony Jordan on the guitar; Don Ricco bowing the fiddle; and Al Pacini at the accordian. Mr. Wurlitzer's son, Eraie, goes in big for dear-hunting. He caught a dear that was very petite, and blonde, but when it comes to venison, there just doean't seem to be any. Stan Harris is nightly seen in Boston, seeing if the boys are playing Conny instruments.

is still selling out on swift vocals like, "Here Comes Your Pappy With The Wrong Kind of Load" and the whole crazy Crosby crew continues its policy of screwy floor shows.
Sample of the enthusiasm they engendered: one woman fan who signed herself "Fifi" sent the boys a wire every night, but they had to get Pierre of the dancing team of Pierre and Temple to read them,
'cause they were all written in French.

cause they were all written in French.

Fort Worth's biggest music news for some time is the Goodfellows' midnight Christman frolic to be held December 21 at that city's Worth Theatre headlined by Carol Lofner's ork. Carol's 12-piece "Singing Violins" organization includes Don McClain, Ray Carroll, Max Vaughan, Harry Wiese, Jack Warren, Marvin Landfield, Frank Sabettelia, Carl Allen, Jack Williams, Dale Cornell, Daymon Runmon, and the maestro. Currently featured at the Venetian Ballroom in the Blackstone Hotel, the Lofner aggregation is another example of an ork where swing and sweet don't mix. Their piano and violins are too prominent to give them any variety, the same trouble Joe Reichman had, only Joe caught wise and changed while Lofner hasn't.

Jack Crawford, the Clown Prince of Rhythm, is at Fort Worth's Ringside Club with Bill Thompson on the vocals. Crawford's group succeeded Jimmy Garrigan at the nitery. Garrigan, with Harvey Crawford to sing for him, has a pretty nice ork with some smooth, hot fiddling that registered with this columnist. He and his band found time to drop down to the U. of T. in Austin and play a formal for the largest girls' dormitory at that institution.

Lots of steel guitar used by Jack Amlung in his music at the Crazy Water Hotel in Mineral Wells. Francis Quinn, Dale Woodward, and the maestro all vocalize.

Chick Scorgia is still at El Tivoli

Chick Scoggin is still at El Tivoli on the Fort Worth-Dallas pike. He introduced supper clubbers to a new torch singer, Evelya Beeson, on Dec. A throaty voice, but not hard to take. Chick gets off on some of the vocals, and Les Hale takes what are left over. There's a good doghouse man with the ork, too, whoever he is.

Ride 'em, Cowboy!

Look at this "sport model" of 1905—compare it with a sleek, smart 1937 model—and you'll have some idea of the difference between an ordinary Marimba and the streamlined Deagan IMPERIAL.

The IMPERIAL Marimba is a darb from every angle . . . as svelte of line as a new car . . . as smartly finished as a handsome piece of furniture . . . more glorious in rich, liquid tones than Marimba makers had hoped to achieve. And it has more handy, worthwhile features than you've ever seen in one Marimba. Its freedom from bolts, nuts and screws enables you to assemble or disassemble it in one minute flat!

We're ready to shoot literature you immediately, when you say the word. We'll miss our bet if you don't find the IMPERIAL the most irresistible instrument you've ever laid your eyes
