Petrillo Record Edict Puzzles

"How Can You Spot Cheating?" Asks Local 47 Official

Los Angeles — Jimmy Petrillo's edict that musicians would stop making records Aug. 1 "except for home use" drew mixed reactions here.

Particularly interested were the leaders and members of the Local 47 group, formed around the local's "sub-committee on records and transcriptions," which has been carrying on a vigorous drive here for some action to block the present unrestricted use of records for commercial purposes by radio stations and juke box onerstors. for commercial purposes by rad stations and juke box operators.

Caused Much Rejoicing

At first, Petrillo's statements, as At first, Petrillo's statements, as published in newspapers and trade magazines, caused much rejoicing by some members of the record-restriction bloc. However, after leaders of the group had studied the published reports more carefully they decided it was too early—much too early—for any rejoicing.

Ing.
Union officials here, who had received copies of the ruling, were frankly puzzled.

"As we understand it," said one, "musicians can not make records unless they are for home, or non-commercial use. What guarantee can we get that a record, once made and on the general market, will not be used commercially? Some musicians felt that the Petrillo edict was a "great step forward." Others took an opposite viewpoint, saying cynically: "Just the same old runaround we got several years ago. Petrillo knows he can't enforce this ruling. Strictly a grand-stand play."

Petrillo Resolved To Halt Recordings

August 1st Is Deadline: Small Radio Stations And Lesser Bands Suffer

by MIKE LEVIN

New York—The 47th convention of the American Feder ation of Musicians, held two weeks ago in Dallas, Texas, dumped four land-mines in the lap of the music business.

Prexy Petrillo knocked the delegates out of their chairs on the opening day with the announcement that as of August 1st, no further recordings or transcriptions by members of the Federation would be allowed in juke-boxes or on radio stations. Recording would continue to be allowed for home use, the armed services, and conditions, no one wants to make a pot of dough, and he intends to book only acts that give him "a boot to handle." He hopes to have a west coast band, several top cafe names, and one or two singers.

Dorso left the Morris agency on the best of terms, with an open invitation to return whenever he wanted to from Willard Alexander, nominal head of the band department. Dorso, noted for his sharp Princeton dressing, was the second man in the comparatively new Morris agency band department, joining right after Ed Fishman, veteran Morris exec.

Paul Short is Coordinator

Washington—As predicted in the last issue of the Beat, a coordinator of the Amusement Service Division of the War Production Board was appointed to gear night club, ball-room, motion picture, and theater operation into the national war picture. Paul Short, Southwestern film executive, was named to the post.

at the request of FDR. The convention barely had time to think this one over when resolutions calling for a 300 mile limit on one night jump, and making booking agencies 100% liable for all monies on all engagements were passed, to be followed by passage of the 802 resolution which has come up for the last three years: from now on, the commissions of the bookers are to be deducted from net, not the gross that a band receives—the net being the figure reached after transportation, stand-by, and all union taxes have been paid.

Petrillo has been preparing action on the recording and transcription question for some time. He was given the authority at the last convention to take the matter up with the executive board, and they voted him the power in October to take action as he saw fit.

All Licenses Expire

In January, therefore, Petrillo issued only six month licenses to the recording and transcription (Modulate to Page 2)

DOWN BEAT

Opens at Famous Door, Scene of Original Triumphs

New York-Jazz history repeated when Red Norvo returned to the septet-styled swing which made him famous, opening here four days ago at the Famous Door with six men including Dave Barbour on guitar, Jimmy Salko on trumpet, and Eddie Bert on trombone. Latter two are from Norvo's big band which he was forced break up two weeks ago, due transportation difficulties.

"Brought Me Down"

"Brought Me Down"

"It brought me way down to break up that band of mine," Norvo told the Beat in an exclusive interview. "It was a wonderful outfit, jumped fine, and played some arrangement styles that really even scared us sometimes. The guys were so swell and so cooperative that I hated to do it—but you can't beat the war, and the lack of one-nighters. So I figured I'd better cut down to my original septet and work things out from there."

Norvo plans to form the best possible band he can, saying that no one is going to make a million from now on, and he intends to play fine music and the devil take the percentages. He hasn't settled finally on exact style, checking on the possibilities of a mixed crew which will play the soft jump beat that put him in Swing's hall of fame, figuring to invade some of the more plush clubs and spots.

Started at Door

Started at Door

His first date in New York with his original septet was played at the Famous Door in 1936, while the initial records he made under his own name for Columbia listed Artie Shaw, Charlie Barnet, Teddy Wilson, Hank Wayland, Jack Jenny, and Bunny Berigan as sidemen.

Billy Butterfield With Les Brown

New York — Rumors that Billy Butterfield was joining Benny Goodman were dispelled here last week when Billy joined Les Brown's band. Butterfield played Goodman's recent Paramount theater date because Jimmy Maxwell, regular BG trumpeter, is not a local 802 member.

Johnny Phillips is temporarily filling the Vido Musso tenor chair, Musso having left to front the late Bunny Berigan's band. Benny may bring on a Pittsburgh sax man for the post.

Others feel that a sixty day period of complete stoppage of recording may follow, during which time the Federation and the juke-box transcription in-terests can make some kind of deal.

Tough Fight Looms

Tough Fight Looms
This much is definitely known. Petrillo can't force the record companies to sell to homes and not to juke-box operators. To do so, would be clear and illegal restraint of trade. He must either stop recording altogether, or attempt to bargain with that threat in mind.

If he dues stop recording, he will be faced by the toughest fight in the history of the Federation. All the networks along with the record companies and transcription firms plus the large juke-box operaturs have made plans to institute suit for conspiracy in restraint of trade, some of them going so far as already to have instructed their lawyers to prepare briefs.

There is no question in the minds of most lawyers consulted by the Beat that should Petrillo elect to go to court on the issue, he would be beaten decisively and quickly.

The last two laws not only drew howls of anguish from the bookers, it brought forth the comment from two of the biggest and smartest that the end effect would be to hurt the musicians themselves, rather than helping them.

They pointed out that in a question of assuming responsibility on every date for the entire amount, that henceforth bookers simply would book only those attractions that they felt sure would do good enough business to enable the promoter to pay off with ease—they wouldn't be able to take a chance on the smaller band. Hope of a $100 commission wouldn't look too good when backed up to the necessity of guaranteeing $750 to the band if anything should go wrong. And they added that 60 per cent of the promoters in business couldn't put up a 100 per cent guarantee, and neither they nor the booker could guarantee what sort of business was to be done.

Light Company Throws Dances For Public

New York—One of the foxiest breaks in some time for John Q. Jitterbug broke here last month when Consolidated Edison started a series of dances in New York City public parks.

The utility company, charging the costs off to good-will, hired GAC to book bands at a series of spots designated by the Department of Parks and free to all comers. The bands picked offered their services at price substantially below their usual tab.

The series of 54 concerts started on the June 16th of the Central Park Mall with Raymond Scott, while dates this month include Clyde Lucas, July 6th at Chelsea Park, 7th at St. Mary's Park, 8th at Victory Field, 9th at Central Park Mall, 10th at Prospect Park; Charlie Spivak, the 13th at Colonial Park, and Jimmy Dorsey at Central Park Mall on the 14th.

his commissions on net instead of gross. by the figures of 802 who introduced the new law, his commission would be cut 20 per cent. But he pointed out, that wouldn't mean his profit would be cut by one-fifth to 1.6 per cent. That would be all right. But since regardless of what commission he collects, his expenses of booking remain fairly constant, that drop of 20 per cent in the commission would just about put him in the red on most dates.

Leaders Favor Moves

Similar tales of woe could be heard from every agency in New York City. Leaders generally seemed to feel that while the laws might be too stiff, that they were a good thing, being especially elated about the bookers' being forced to assume full responsibility for collecting the dough due on dates. They seemed to feel that it was about time that they were taken out of the middle of being forced to pay the agencies commissions, and having the Federation on their neck for salaries to the men—all on dates which they would have no chance to check the financial responsibility of the promoter concerned.

BG's Victory Caravan Hits Some Snags

New York - Benny Goodman's plan for a Victory Caravan similar to the very successful Hollywood Caravan of Stars, struck some snags here when some leaders expressed a desire to play a joint tour with him, if Goodman could plan it so that it wouldn't interfere with their regular dates. Others honestly couldn't get previously signed contracts changed or broken to open up time for a tour.

BG is going to bide his time, and with a little government help, try to get things started. This is in line with what he told the Reat last month about playing only a

'Put Full McShann Ork on Wax!'

Decca Is Fooling the Public. Is Wail of Jazz Critic

Chicago-Somebody, and I think it's Dave Kapp of Decca Records, has been fooling the public!

I'm sore, and so are a gob of other critics. And for good cause, since there's no reason on earth why the Jay McShann band, yeah, all sixteen pieces of it, shouldn't be on wax instead of hiding it behind the skirts of a blues singer, Walter Brown by name, and a rhythm quartet. (By the way, Walter, that "skirts" is only a Walter, that "sk figure of speech.)

Why Fool the Public?

Why Fool the Public?

The McShann band played a one-nighter at the Savoy ballroom here last month. Did the patrons expect a full-sized powerhouse swing band, playing a wild, earthy gutbucket style of jazz much in the fashion of the rough Basie hand of a few years ago? No! They had heard McShann on records, playing a piano background on Confessin' the Bluss, which has turned out to be a massive hit on Decca's sepia series, and assumed he was a solo act, backed up by a pickup band. The reason was that sepia communities, and indeed many of ay communities, have been bilked too often in this fashion before. That they did get their money's worth this time is a point to be taken up later on. The point here is that it isn't good business to keep the entire band off of wax, and that it's not doing either Decca or McShann any good.

I don't know what Decca's idea is, but I imagine they figure that four musicians play for a cheaper price than sixteen and the profits are the same. But they're wrong, for the profits aren't the same in the long run. But enough of that. Here is a band which is the greatest unrecognized band in the country. In the Middle West, it is a sock box office attraction. It went East last winter and took the Savoy by storm. And that isn't easy to do. Harlan Leonard's Kansas City Rockets lasted two weeks in New York. And don't let anybody kid you that Count Basie's band didn't flop all over the joint when it opened at Chicago's old Terrace several years ago, even if it did pull out of the spin and make good later on.

A Kansas City Outfit

A Kanaas City Outfit

The band is mainly a Kansas City-grooved outfit, although Mc-Shann is an Oklahoma boy himself. McShann came to Kansas City about five years ago (Eds. Note—See Sharon Pease's column in June, 1939, Hourn Beat) and attracted attention with his gutty rhythmic piano playing, working for awhile with the orchestra of Prince Stewart. Then, he organized his own band, a seven piece combination, and moved into Martin's-on-the-Plaza where he stayed eighteen months.

The original band with an over-The original band with an over-sized rhythm section proved to be the jumpiest outfit Kansas City had ever seen. South Siders flocked to Martin's, which soon became a hub of jive. The boys in the band were young, enthusiastic, full of musical ideas.

Then, in December, 1939, John Tumino, general manager of Consolidated Orchestras, became manager of the band, I understand, and helped Jay build his outfit up to its present size. The going was tough; bookings were hard to get for a big band. But the band made it. They preemed at Kansas City's Century Room, went into Fairyland Park, moved to King's Baliroom, Lincoln, and soon were making the whole middle west circuit.
Today, the band is a nation's sensation. And for once, I quite agree with the taste of the nation.
Though, I still think you "ain't

McShann Is Outstanding

McShann, of course, is the out-standing instrumentalist. He plays with a solid, well-developed left standing instrumentalist. He prays with a solid, well-developed left hand, using mostly 10ths, and any variety of licks and Teddy Wilsonlike runs in the treble. His style is like runs in the treble. However, he

Old King Oliver Band Worked Heck Out of Us!'—Baby Dodds

Chicago—Why doesn't somebody do something about these great jazzmen, sepia and white both, who are lost from the public? To my mind particularly comes thought of such topnotchers as George E. Lee, who is now singing at a colored night club on Detroit's St. Antoine avenue; Monk flazel, who still plays drums in New Orleans' Vicus (Carre: Buster Moten and Julia Lee, topnotch pianists who are still struggling in minor Kansas City night spots; Sterling Bose, trumpeter, and Bill Dohler, clarinet, those fine Chicago style jazz artists, and most particularly Baby Dodds, that solid drummer left over from the old King Oliver days.

Baby, who is the younger brother of the late Johnny Dodds, New Orleans clarinetist, is still playing in a two piece band in Tin Pan
Alley, a small night club on North Rush Street here in Chicago.

It's not much of a combo for Warren (Baby) Dodds, just he and a girl piano player by the name of Byllye Williams playing as the mood hits them.

Frankly, Baby's heart isn't in his playing and his drumnastica aren't good jazz. He plays temple blocks and too much cymbals. But occasionally he does show flashes of good, tasty tubwork, the type that has made him famous on many records.

'Worked Heck Out of You'

'Worked Heck Out of You

"Worked Heck Out of You"

"I think a lot about the old King Oliver band these days," says Baby. "Man, there was a band that worked heck out of you whether you felt like it or not. Back in those days there were so many good musicians you just couldn't pick the best. There was my brother and Louis and Oliver and Dutray, especially."

Incidentally, there's the story of how Dodds came to be called "Baby." It was a name his mother called him to differentiate between him and his father, Warren Dodds, Sr. When Dodds grew older, the title "Baby" as applied by his friends would make him fighting mad, but now it's been used so long that he feels like a stranger when someone calls him Warren.

my brother, was one of the best, says old-time sepia drummer Baby Dodds in the accompanying story. Here is the late Dodds playing clarinet.

There will be 101 concerts, played by orchestras and bands consisting of 50 or 75 pieces each including conductor, Carl Bau-mann, vice president of the union, announced.

So I Mimic Kay Kyser, It's No Secret!'—Nagel

-"So I copy Kay Kyser. At least, I admit it and that's more than a lot of mimicking bandleaders are doing!

That's Freddy Nagel tulking, Nagel just brought his crew back in the Windy City's paluce of schunalts, the Trianon, for a six week stay.

"Take Kyser's band as it sounded before Kny became a personality boy, Remember, you thought it good. So did I. It was a darned pleasant sounding musical outfit, corny per-haps but still pleasing to the ears of the public.

"Felt Silly"

"Felt Silly"

"I think there's a market for another band like that old band of Kyser's, and I intend to crack it. But I don't intend to become another personality boy like Kyser, himself. I tried it once and believe me, I felt pretty darned silly. Nowadays, I just concentrate on leading the band and I feel like myself again."

Nagel's band isn't bad. The outfit's striving for a style and hasn't really hit a combination, yet. But it knows what it's after. It's a big band for its type, but it has to be to compete with the blitzkrieg organizations of today. Nagel's payroll is still topheavy but he feels it worth the dough if he can give the public what they come to hear. The orchestra carries four saxes, four brass, three rhythm, and two vocalists.

Try to Avoid Corn

Try to Avoid Corn

Try to Avoid Corn

"My arrangers and I are trying to stay away from corn when we can. None of that Lombardo wailing saxes or the Henry Busse-type muted horn malarky. While we use Kyser-type musical licks and go heavy on the style, we're still trying to cook up something of musical value.

"The draft has played havoc with the band. Since I played the Trianon here last February, I've lost half of my band by way of the army."

Nagel picked up two Chicago men while here. They are Allan Overand and Ken Jackson, tenor saxists. Both are also singing in a quartet, together with Barbara Carroll and Bob Locken, vocalists. Paul Wimbish, who also manages Jack Teagarden, is now Nagel's personal manager.

The band's personnel:

Russ Mass, Dais Julier, Allan Overand, Ken Jackson, saxes, Dick Schoors, Kon Burkland, trumpens, Jack Smith, Warren Alm, trumbenes; Art Beyer, planut, Frankle Miller, drume; Jimmy Sexius, bass and tuba; Barbara Carroll, Bub Locken, vocal-late.

Cooper Pup Sucker for a Rhumba

Chicago — Leo Cooper, windy city music dealer and repair man, has a black Scottie dog which is known to musicians in town as "Stuff Smith." Unlike his master and mistress, "Stuff" abhors swing but is passionately fond of rhumbas and congas. Whenever the solid strains of a Goodman or Dorsey emanate from the family radio he leaves the room—or tries to.

Last Saturday night when Leo and Loma were entertaining some hep cats the jazz got unbearably raucous for the particular ears of "Stuff," and when Leo opened the door to admit a bellboy carrying a jug "Stuff" got lost—but fast. The Coopers advertised for him, offering a $25.00 defense bond as reward, and finally the following day a cab driver called up.

"I think I've got your dog," he said. "He's been sitting outside of the Rhumba Casino for the last 24 hours."

At writing the Savitt band was playing dates in the northern part of California and details of his plans for the new band were not available here. It was understood that he was losing several men who were going into the service of Uncle Sam.

Martha Tilton and Connie Haines for the swi Martha Tilton and Connie Haines unquestionably have big followings with record buyers. Dennis Day, though new to the recording field, is almost a household word through the Jack Benny program, though his song in this case may hit the market just a little late. Mercer's novelty, Strip Polka, looks like a natural for the coin machine trade; in fact all the discs can be figured to do well in the machines, which is particularly important inasmuch as Capitol's distribution tie-up is with a big national operator of coin machines.

Johnny Mercer Backs Bobby Sherwood Ork

Los Angeles—Bobby Sherwood, the former studio guitarist and (for a period) musical director on the Eddie Cantor program, launched his new band here with a fill-in date of a week at the Casa Manana, prior to the opening of Ted Lewis.

Combo then went to Zuccas' at Hermosa Beach for three weeks and follows with a tour of Northwest spots. MCA is handling.

Sherwood has plenty of backing and lots of good connections. His chief backer is Songwriter Johnny Mercer, who has more than a personal interest in the band, and Bobby won't lose anything by being the brother-in-law of Judy Garland.

However, Sherwood, is, in fact

Garland.

However, Sherwood, is, in fact a talented musician who has made his way strictly on his own ability. He's using a big outfit that has five saxes, six brass, four rhythm (not including his own guitar). Bobby fronts, playing his own guitar (sometimes in duets with Basil Hutchinson) and also cornet, which he plays strictly hot. He also does much of the arranging.

tol 'Swing Dance' m Takes a New Meaning

Los Angeles - The term swing dance has taken on a new mean-ing in tune with the defense effort in sunny Southern California. No in sunny Southern California. No longer is the swing dance necessarily a product of a solid rhythm section, a blasting brass department or a torrid sax section. No longer does it lead the way for the district of litterpage. The swing flying feet of jitterbugs. The swing dance, like all the surrounding area, is now strictly defense.

Three Working Shifts

Three Working Shifts
Since twenty-four hour production in defense industry demands here shifts in the average working day, there is the day shift, the light shift and, in addition, the p.m. to 12 midnight 'swing' shift. In tune with the p.m. to 12 midnight 'swing' shift. In tune with the times, Southern California ballrooms and other undry halls of terpsichore have dinces from 2 a.m. till 5 or 6 and again, another series of night shift tances from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Begin in Hollywood

Los Angeles-Series of jam sessions, scheduled to take place every Sunday afternoon from 4 to 7 p.m. if successful, were launched at Hollywood's Trouville Club last

Affairs differ from the many regular and impromptu sessions that take place here in various spots in that the musicians who perform are paid regular union scale ($9 for three hours) and patrons are charged admission.

Sponsor, and financial backer of the affairs, is Norman Granz, who works for a Beverly Hills brokerage company and hobbies at hot music.

Line-up for the opening session included Les Young, tenor sax; Nat Cole, piano; Oscar Moore, guitar; Wesley Prince, bass; Lee Young, drums; Red Mack, trumpet; Eddie Barefield, clarinet; Taft Jordan, trumpet; Joe Ewing, trombone.

Hollywood announced that a vaude-ville-styled revue would also open there.

Headliners—and also backers—of the El Capitan production are Ken Murray and Billy Gilbert. Others signed included Marie Wilson, the Nicholas Brothers, Gene Austin, Roy Davis, Betty Atkinson.

Rough Discs Make Critic Moarl

Needles Can't Burrow Under Surface Grit

I'm happy to announce that Victor will have a new needle out next week which need be changed only four times a record. Also that they have discovered why no records are available in the shops—the defense plants have been buying them up to sharpen tools with. Having noted that most of their bands are weak on the off-beat, company officials have instructed the shipping department to crack the records so that the speaker crunches only on the second and fourth beat of each measure. Breaks anywhere else are viewed as out of taste and old-hat. In an effort to make the discs look more attractive, each one is given a permanent wave before packing. This also enhances the tone, giving you a delightful seashell effect.

Flattened Ash Heans

Flattened Ash Heaps
In short, we're paying fifty cents for most of our wax these days, and not only isn't the playing worth much talkin', but the surfaces are ash heaps, flattened out. All the companies are guilty, with Columbia perhaps the least so.

All fibre needles are out—they won't last even one playing. The super-light pickups which a lot of sets have gotten in the last few years, don't have enough weight to burrow under the surface grit. The only set-up that will give you any tone at all is a heavy-pickup with one of these permanent point metal needles—which will ruin your old records!

Swing

Erskine Hawkins

Bounce is in that Tuxedo Junction groove with undistinguished solos by Paul Bascomb (tenor) and Hawkin's trumpet. Reverse has Ida James singing—she's a nice lookin' gal, but Erskine shouldn't let her sing. Bascomb is better on this one.

Harry James

The Male and Bat Not For Me (Columbia)

H.E.P. took some cracks at bands using strings last issue, claiming that they didn't use them effectively. Mole has not only some pretty string work, but very effective use of baritone sax. Good brass figures in the last chorus, though Corky Corcoran's tenor bit isn't what it might be. Me, an old Gershwin tune, has a typically good Helen Forrest vocal, backed by rich organ tone strings. The sawtooth in Harry's tone still bothers me, while the cading is a trifle on the dinner music side.

actly like Ziggy Elman with the cap on. Podge isn't the Johnny Hodges tune, but a Harold Mooney arrangement — and listen how much he makes the James' reeds sound like J. Dorsey's in the era of Parade of the Milk Bottle Caps. Times starts out like Hudson-DeLange, has the trams playing One Dozen Roses (!), and walks out a la J. Lunceford.

Count Basie

I'm Going to More Way Out On the Outskirts of Torm and Basic Blues (Culumbia)

Jimmy Rushing wails about various intruders muscling in on his chick and what he proposes to do about it. Should be a big seller, if Columbia can catch up to the hundreds of thousands of copies Louis Jordon's Decca version sold. Blues, outside of a pleasant trumpet trio opening, consists of Count sparingly stroking the ivories. Very nice, but twenty-five cents worth of wax should give you more.

Jimmy Dorsey

A long way better than most of Jimmy's recent ballad discs — but there is still something wrong with the band's up arrangements. Outside of some unusual sax section touches, nothing much happens. Rells to Nate Kazebier's trumpet bit and Jack Ryan's bassings. Helen O'Connell sounds all right, but she has the same trouble with her style that a solo man who insists on putting an eighth rest before every quarter note does; you get into a Diga Do groove that jumps like a grasshopper.

Bob Chester

Duke on Director Kick

Doc Wheeler

Sarghum Suitch and Ma and My Molinda (Bluehird)

This bunch, the former Royal Sunset Orchestra, sounds like Erskine Hawkins. Sarghum is one of the catchiest riff tunes out in a long while. One NYC record spinner has worn out two copies so far. It's a Jesse Stone score, he having turned out the IVPA ditty about which so much fuss was raised two years ago. Melinda is a bit rough, but at least moves along.

Ray Scott

Very little that can be said about these—you either like Scott's tonal pictures or you don't. Hot Spot has some good take-offs on Latin music.

Hot Jazz

Bob Crosby

This disc is marred by some heavy brass riffs and rhythm that don't add up to much. It's saved on both sides by some of the best piano playing Jesse Stacy has done recently. Fine octave stuff, with biting ideas make side 2 a standout. Floyd O'Brien's tram bit goes well, while Bob Haggert's 8 measures—whistled—must be intended for commercial purposes only.

Charlie Spivak and Brather Bill (Columbia)

Elegia and Bresher Bill (Columbia)
Beautiful open Spivak horn, and a fine job of leading the muted brass make this a must-lesson for aspiring trumpet lead men. Only trouble is that the background isn't rich enough to set off Charlie's horn properly. Backing is the old Louis Armstrong comedy tune which has sold plenty of copies already.

Ruth Berman

String Time (Liberty Music Shepe)

This gal is one of finest harpists in the business—and unlike most of her friends, who play fast scales and call it swing, she really tries to pick out some phrased ideas. Difficulty is not with the fingering so much as with the peddles that determine the string's pitch. Most interesting side in the album is Man I Love. Some of the others are messed up by the rock-crushing rhythms of the Hammond organ which was put on the date.

Disc Situation Still Wobbly

Record Biz Can Pull Through by Salvage Drive

New York—Situation on disc supplies is still uncertain. Usually reliable sources report the arrival in this country last week of a large shipment of shellac from India, which should aid the record companies to some extent.

Counter-balancing this was the Government's copper freezing order on all masters and stampers with an added 60 day extension. This means that not only will new records be curtailed through the lack of shellac, but reissuing of old ones may be hampered by destruction of the masters for salvage purposes.

ones may be hampered by destruction of the masters for salvage purposes.

While some companies claim there is no substitute for copper, Down Beat has learned that at least one major factory is substituting electrolytic iron with satisfactory results.

Another hurdle in the war time production of discs was solved this week when a New York wax company announced the substitute for Montan, a wax used in preparing the master cuttings.

All in all, it looks as though the record business will come through if present plans for record salvage and substitutions of new materials works out.

Jim Jimmies The Jive

President Petrillo has come out with the long-awaited move to collect royalties on phonograph records and transcriptions. No musician feels that the idea is bad. But every bandsman should feel that the method is wrong. However desirable the end of cutting musicians in on the waxed profits of their own making, you don't get it by "announcing" that it is going to happen or else. Prexy Petrillo is in no legal position to force what he wants. Not only will he run into court action if he tries, but very definitely the government is going to have something to say about shutting off a principal source of amusement for the 130,000,000 people that are on the way to losing their cars

Amusement will have to start in the home. And while not everyone owns a phonograph, they do have radios, and can listen to the all-recorded shows that have become so popular in the past five years. Or they can snag a coke and listen to Glenn Miller for an additional nickel down at the corner drug-store. Does Mr.

Petrillo honestly think he is going to put musicians in here? Of course he doesn't. He is too realistic a union man for also too realistic a union man to go ahead with this record ban.

As a matter of fact, we suspect Mr. Petrillo of playing a very smooth game of politics. It's been well-known for years that Federation conventions generally have a disproportionate representation of theater and brass band men over the dance men, mainly because the latter never have time for union activities and never get a look-see when the delegates are elected. As a result, the unspoken sentiment for years at the convention has been, soak the traveling band.

This record legislation, and other bills that passed with it, were eagerly accepted because they put a big crimp in the traveling bands and the young dance outfits that hope to follow in their footsteps. Many local heads don't even bother to conceal their hope that music can go back to the days of club dates and territory bands, when the older men in each local were the czars of rhythm in that district, and didn't get the best work lifted out of their hands by traveling upstarts.

There is probably much to be said for this point of view. But the whole attitude is bad, and bad for the music business.

Whether the old-line delegates realize

Mr. Petrillo is no fool. He is aware of these ideas, even if some of the old-line delegates weren't. But he is also too smart a politician to buck a strong trend. Instead he not only rode with the wave, he led it with his opening day address on

The public isn't aware of the Federation's internal politics. the public isn't aware of the Federation's internal politics. All it knows is that "man Petrillo is dictating to us again"—the quote from a South-Western newspaper after the June 8th address. If we aren't very careful, Mr. Petrillo and the Federation are going to find themselves aligned not only against the record companies and the networks, but also against John Q. Public.

By the way, Louis Armstrong is still alive. To get back to Charlie Fisk, who seems to have a smart, lively commercial aggregation—if he came to San Francisco, Lu Watters would blow him back to Missouri. ### Teagarden Plans To Use Art With Band, He Says

by TED HALLOCK

Portland, Ore.—"Man, Tatum is jazz!" That's what Big T had to say about the half-blind piano wizard, who is deemed a show-off by technique ignoring purists. Caught at an after job bash in the McPartland-Teagarden hote! suite, Jackson had much to say on all aspects of jazz, from Bix through Freeman, such remarks ending at 7:30 a.m.

from Bix through Freeman, such remarks ending at 7:30 a.m.

"When we get back to Los Angeles, I intend to put Art in the band. Several times he has asked to tour with us, and not for money, just kicks. Now I feel we can use him, purely on specialty stuff because of his inability to read. I would like to put my sister on one piano, and use the regular male pianist on another. Three pianos would be something."

The reason for the B3 shakeup lay with Ernie Hughes, who has been offered more money by Will Osborne. Currently, Jack was auditioning Rose City talent for the ivory slot, with Tom Todd, 19-year-old local sensation, the favorite.

"Charlie she has a feet to put the said to Jimmy, 'My brother plays good trans. too,' and McPartland is permanent too, as far as I'm concerned."

To have asked Tea what he thought of Jimmy's playing with the band would have been absurd.

Other recent addition was Dale Jones, bassist, who replaced Myron Shepler immediately on arrival in Portland, Shepler's home town. Of the Shepler-Danny Pololoss Tea said:
"Both of them had too much traveling. Polo got a chance for more location work with Thornhill, and besides, he and Claude were kids together. That's another reason Hughes is leaving. Too much road."
Teagarden defied the Lu Wathers craze when he heard the "Smokey Mokes" side of Dave Stuart's album.
"Man, if I couldn't copy no better than that, I'd throw my horn away. Too much precision, musicianship and pretense," said Jack. "Unoriginal, and Oliver wasn't that good."

Of the two, Charlie and Jimmy,

Jimmy has that fine tone and delicate style. Both are plenty fine."

But why should musicians object to being kidded by comedians? If the public thinks of musicians as "uneducated bums and lugs," a large part of the responsibility is due to the press agents and "hep guys" who created this illusion.

special albums," I got lost.

Perhaps I figure all wrong, but it seems to me that now with a shortage of shellac is the time when, more than ever, the disc companies should be knocking off a batch of really good wax, instead of wasting it on some of the abortions we get now.

Here's why. Recardless of how

Here's why. Regardless of how commercial a record may be, only a certain number of copies can be stamped out. No matter how much Victor would like another Chattaninga Choo Choo, it's doubtful if the company could spare the wax to press up enough discs for the demand.

There are stores that are still waiting for copies of Always in My Heart, the new Jimmy Dorsey hit, which is no jazz classic, even if it goes well with the dancing millions. Decca simply hasn't the wax to supply them with full orders. ders.

So instead of concentrating production on records like this which only last a few months at best, why doesn't Victor turn out Duke Ellington albums every month? Sure they wouldn't sell over twenty thousand copies, and Victor would make a very slim profit. So what? Under present conditions would make a very slim profit. So what? Under present conditions, all the company is interested in, is keeping the label alive and ready for post-war marketing. They stand a darn sight better chance of doing this by issuing hot jazz records which will sell in small quantities but steadily over long periods of time, than they do by issuing reams of Glenn Miller, which is played out at the end of several months.

They can't satisfy the Miller

several months.

They can't satisfy the Miller market fully anyway, so why not use what productive facilities they have left to turn out high-grade jazz that will build a durable catalogue? And perhaps some of the Kyser-King dance fans would survive the forced feeding and discover things they never knew before in the realm of jazz.

The Cannoneer's Post, the week-ly dirt sheet at Camp Roberts, a field artillery post, is frothing ly dirt sheet at Camp Roberts, a field artillery post, is frothing about the way swing bands have been performing The Caissons Go Rolling Along, famous artillery men's anthem.

"For over forty years, artillery men have sung the song with guts. Now big time dance bands have picked it up and transformed the artillery hymn into a weak-tea frilly dance tune."

And that have

And that, brethren, is a crack we've deserved. Here the so-called hep elements in dancedom go screaming around, tearing their hair, and boffing their best blondes, all because some band with four tenor saxes has made Sweet Loraine sound like a PTA dedication. Now the army rears up and hands us the same rap.

In short, a march isn't a dance

In short, a march isn't a dance tune. It's designed to snap a bunch of sweating, dog-tired, mud-caked men into a route march and keep them there. Caissons sung by the average band vocalist sounds more like the call of the daffodils.

If we're going to how! whenever somebody claims that pretty music is jazz, we'd better watch our own panties on that march angle.

That recent unpleasantness in Cleveland with some of the town's best musicians and entertainers locked up on some very smelly vice charges came out pretty well, all things considered. Bandsmen concerned came out with fines, while various of the ladies ended behind bars for up to six months.

Jack Ryan Loses Life As Pilot on Raid Across Channel

Toronto, Can.-Pilot-officer Jack Ryan of the Royal Canadian Air Force was recently shot down and killed over the English Channel by Nazis while on an air raid on German-occupied France.

Bassist is Solid

Key man is bassist Big Joe Niosi who sparks and pushes that outfit as only he knows how. Firman couldn't have a more solid bassist if Artie Bernstein himself was up there. . . In Bill Isbister, Paul has one of Canada's tor ranking pianists. Bill, however, tends to play too flowery, lacking the necessary drive and enthusiasm. . . Jimmy Reynolds plays knocked out trumpet, while Doug Kemp rates aces on hot tenor. . Al Friedman on drums, though inexperienced, is a hard worker and a comer. His solo work deserves mention.

Personnel is rounded out with Stan Luce, tenor; Vern Kahanen, alto; Ross Culley, Frankie Reynolds, trombones; George Beck, Lefty Haddock, trumpets. Unfortunately, Helen White and Jerry Travers in the vocal department are no credit whatsoever to the Firman fraternity. Paul fronts on alto and clary, also arranges along with Isbister, F. Reynolds, Kemp, and Horace Lapp's trumpeter Jimmy Trump Davidson.

When nite baseball broadcasts don't interfere Firman can be caught thrice weekly via CKCL, but to really appreciate this fine musicrew you have to dig 'em on the job.

Summarizing the Genius Of a Great Musician

by PAUL EDUARD MILLER

Some day--and I have a profound feeling about itrate Bunny Berigan above Bix Beiderbecke. If quality of tone means anything (and it means a great deal to musicians), then it can truthfully be said that Bunny's tone was the biggest, the meatiest, and the strongest of any white trumpet player, living or dead.

The day Bunny died I talked to Cy Baker, himself an experienced first-chair and solo trumpeter of great merit, with Bob Chester. Cy paid a tribute to Bunny which not only is a musically shrewd judgment, but one with which judgment, but one with which I am sure every musician in the country will agree.

"Bunny Berigan," Cy told me, "was the only trumpeter I ever knew who could play good spectacular jazz with a big, open tone. When he was at his best no one else could touch him. His recordings of Marie and I Can't Get Started will stand out as monuments to the beautiful guality. ments to the beautiful quality of his expressiveness, his meaty tone—and his genius."

of his expressiveness, his meaty tone—and his genius."

Dramatic Tone Force

There is the core of Bunny's greatness. He combined expressiveness with a vigorous and dramatic tone. Above everything else he had "heart"—that elusive quality which musicians call "feeling" or "soul." Other trumpeters have or have had this special quality, but usually together with some deficiency in tonal beauty. Not so with Bunny. That he was a great interpreter of Beiderbecke the composer (refer to the first five titles in the Discography under Berigan & His Men) cannot be doubted even for a moment. More than that, he played his instrument with a fullness of tone that Bix never achieved. Bunny knew how to punch out notes and phrases—just as did Bix—but in addition Bunny created a sound which struck the ear with more telling dramatic force than did Bix.

But this is a tribute to Bunny. Let's talk about him as a man and as a musician. Bunny played erratically. I doubt if there exists a musician or hot fan who would challenge that criticism. As John Bishop of Ft. Benning, Ga. (a Doun Beat reader) put it, "Yet, though Bunny played a clinker now and then, as do the best, he has always offered the public a very exciting grade of righteous trumpeting."

We know now that Bunny's health had a great deal to do with the way he played from night to night and from record to record. Yet, we cannot condemn the man for the way he lived. He felt music deeply. He lived the way he wanted to live, the only way he could live and still be true to his real self. Had he lived differently the would have played differently too. Bunny gave us the kind of music he did because that's the kind of musican he really was: expressing himself he really was: expressing himself completely with his trumpeting, with no punches pulled and with every ounce of feeling and energy that was in him.

No Discs in Maturity

that was in him.

No Discs in Maturity

His recordings prove it. Unfortunately, since no one saw fit to record him during the past two years, we'll have no recorded examples of his most mature work. Here is one case where the facts do not speak well for the record companies. I have always contended that they are far too commercial-minded when it comes to popular music. As an instrumental virtuoso, Bunny Berigan was to that kind of music what virtuosi of the calibre and approximate age, such as Vladimir Horowitz or Yehudi Menuhin, are to classical music. The latter gentlemen are not ignored because some of their records don't happen to sell well. Too long that attitude toward so-called popular music has been one that requires a large immediate sale. Classical records are not merchandised on that basis. The long-range selling power of jazz instrumentalists and organizations has hardly dised on that basis. The long-range selling power of jazz instrumentalists and organizations has hardly been tapped. Duke Ellington is a lone exception. Yet, I am confident that many instrumentalists and composers would prove themselves long-range sellers if they were given half a chance. Bunny Berigan, surely, was one such instrumentalist.

In spite of this recent neglect, the number of Berigan recordings is fairly large. But here we hit another snag. Many of his discs are cutouts. The greatest of all the Berigan recordings (the six sides by Berigan & Men) were withdrawn from the market hardly a year after they were released. All the Brunawicks and Vocalions are unavailable; in these groups Dixieland Shuffle stands out as another of his greatest. Swanee River is unobtainable, and yet it's Bunny at his best. For years the Columbia disc of Blues—Bughouse was a cutout; Honeysuckle—With All My Heart still is. On the brighter side. I can point to the Goodman and T. Dorsey platters, and to at least three of his own band's waxings (Prisoner, Started, Carson), all of which may be purchased through regular channels. The recent Decca re-issues of the English Parlaphone series (Blue Boys. Freeman, Bailey) will be of particular interest to those who missed the earlier Berigans. Now that Bunny is dead I suspect the record companies will make up for lost time, as indeed they should. I only hope that when the time for re-issues comes an intelligent effort will be made to collect his finest recordings, and not just what happens to strike the fancy of some un-hep executive. Musicians and hot fans deserve—and should demand—the best.

Played to the End

Played to the End
Of great significance is the fact that Bunny was playing wonderfully well even as little as three days before his death. From Norfolk, Virginia comes a report from Jack Pyle, a friend of Bunny's and a spectator at the Palomar Ballroom in Norfolk where Berigan played a three-night stand just prior to his death. Jack writes:
"I had gone out front to watch the band when, after about an hour or so, Bunny walked over to the microphone and beckoned for

Men of Music Lament Death Of Bunny

New York - Sentiments here about Bunny Berigan's death vary from extreme sorrow to a strange kind of irritation. Latter emotion was expressed by an office man who has been very close to Bunny for some years, pointing out that "it was a crime to have talent like that wasted for no reason at all. Bunny didn't have to die—I wish to God I'd been able to keep him from killing himself."

Benefit Plans Mulled

Benefit Plans Mulled
The fund, now up to the $1,500 mark, which has been started for his wife and two children, brought universally favorable comment, as did the action of Tommy Dorsey in placing him posthumously on the band's permanent pay-roll. Plans for a vast benefit here are still being mulled, by Andy Weinberger, Artie Shaw's manager, amongst others.

One Memorial Album

One Memorial Album

So far, the only plans for a Berigan memorial album are with Classical Records. Eli Oberstein, the general manager, announced that his company would put out a collection of Bunny's recent records for their special Firestone label

The Beat checked with Victor on the possibility of having them issue three records he made four years ago of six Bix Beiderbecke tunes (numbers 26121, 2, and 3). A company official stated that if, in the future, the shellac shortage straightened around, this album of these sides would definitely be on the schedule. Columbia and Decca have a few sides of Bunny's, the former cut with Red Norvo and Glenn Miller, and the latter with Adrian Rollini's all-star band and a special date done for English Parlaphone.

Now that Bunny has gone to join Chu Berry, Djengo Reinhardt. Joe Smith, Jimmy Harrison, Bix Beiderbecke, and all the other greats of a music inspired and cultivated by Americans, we all may well pause to consider hose many other top-notch instrumentalists are too little appreciated. Too often we are led astray by soloints who attain popularity merely because they are playing with a band having unusually strong box-office appeal. Let's not be fooled by a musician's economic struggles. The shot is pictorial proof that there have been some changes made in the Lunceford outfit. Web-ster is fresh from Earl Father Hines and taking Snookie Young's Interesting was the reaction of Lunceford and his road manager, Charles T. Williams, to the earlier Down Beat story on the "purge" of the "prima donnas."

Lunceford said there was "no foundation for the story," that the Beat "should make some effort to substantiate its stories"—and then went ahead and substantiated it himself in great part. The only error made was in mentioning Dan Grissom in the earlier story, for he is still very much with them. Dan was a great hit here.

Williams, who seemed a bit bitter toward this paper, nevertheless also substantiated the fact that five men have been replaced. The other three newcomers are: Benny Waters, alto, for Ted Buckner; Peewee Jackson, trumpet, for Jerry Wilson; and Edward Snead (fresh from Fisk University, Lunceford's alma mater), bass, for Moses Allen.

Bridgeport

Bridgeport, Conn.—Bobby Byrne and his crew did fine business at the Lyric theater, and proved to be one of the best attractions to play the house this year. Band sounded swell and Dorothy Claire registered with the patrons.

Ronny Rommel and his fine crew have returned to the new Lenny's Rainbow Room for an indefinite stay. Rommel's horn work is the feature while the sax work of Sal Volturno and piano stylings of Jerry Aiello are other features. Rommel, Roland Young, and newly added drummer Pete Henry handle the vocals. Band really sounds full although using but seven men, and an unorthodox instrumentation—three trumpets, one tenor, and three rhythm.

Mary Marshall and her Esquires drawing raves for their work at Milford's Seven Gables. Here is one tenor band that can really jump in a fine manner. A! Yost, local saxist, is playing lead tenor with the band and is featured on the hot work. Band due to go to Cleveland soon.

Outlook for the summer season rather dark with most of the summer resorts due not to open because of the dim-out restrictions.

Harry James Plays Memorial Dance for Bunny Berigan

Los Angeles-A short time ago they were rivals for the mythical position of No. 1 Trumpet Player of the day. Now one, Bunny Berigan, is gone, and the other, Harry James, is the first to rush to do something in honor of his late rival.

The Palladium's president and general manager, Maurice Cohen, turned over the entire box office receipts from the affair to Bunny's widow and two children.

ORCHESTRATION REVIEWS By TOM HERE

Pussy Cat Agony Five

A bright new novelty tune with a hep set of lyrics. Wagner gives most of his intro, four-way, to lead trumpet and 3 saxes with only a sock cymbal in the background. Then ensemble picks it up into the first chorus which is for brass with a sax organ. In the repeat chorus second trumpet gets eight bars of hot at the bridge. After the second ending comes the verse and then into the special chorus which splits the lead in eight bar phrases between trombone on top of saxes and another section made up of clarinet and trumpet. The last is a phrased swing chorus—but nice. Colonial, Arr. by Larry Wagn

Rockin' in Rhythm

Published by Mills, Arr. by Jim

A recent release from Mills' ex-cellent Orchette Series, written ex-pressly for small bands consisting of three rhythm, one trumpet, and three saxes, or less. Rockin' In Rhythm which was authored some Rhythm which was authored some time ago by the Duke and Harry Carney, goes right along by itself, you'll recall. Eight bars of getwith-it lead off into the first chorus, which is four-way, trumpet on top. The ensemble continues with the second phrase at B and then it's back to an eight-bar interlude like the intro. Tenor gets off for 16 after that and then trumpet has eight bars. Unison reeds with clarinets on top take the third strain at E. From then on through it's mostly ensemble. A good effort by Dale. Dale

Coming Out Party

Coming Out Party

Published by BVC. Arr. by James Mundy
Sharp stuff in this recent edition to the Basie Series, another which was inspired by Basie's Milton Ebbins. This is a medium slow jumper and starts out with an eight-bar intro, the last two of which are a bass solo. Trombones take the bass lead figure at A with occasional ensemble breaking through. They continue at B and are joined by the saxes in a sort of fugue. The jazz really gets under way at C with brass playing a simple figure against a sax riff. Then comes that nice change of pace so typical of most Basie stocks with eight bars of piano at the bridge. Saxes get eight bars at D and then continue with the established figure into the last chorus where first trumpet is continually around high C. It's right in there, Jack.

Estov Enamorado

Published by Robbins, Arr. by George Cole
More Cuban jazz from Robbins' new series. Estoy is a Cancion Bolero, actually just a slow rhumba and the only extra rhythm instruments which are needed are the maracas and claves. Saxes and the maracas and claves. Saxes and brass play against each other in the intro and then brass get an introductory eight-bar verse (or something) which leads into the repeat chorus—first saxes behind muffled brass and then brass in the repeat. Clarinet tops the saxes in the special with brass organ in the background.

You're Too Good for Good-for-Nothing Me

Published by Mutual Arr. by Charlie Hathay

A new ballad tune in a slow groove. After the braces which are split betwixt brass and saxes the reeds play a beautifully phrased ensemble in the special with muted brass backing them up. Second trumpet makes with the jazz in the middle eight and reeds continue in the last eight with clarinets topping them for a few measures before the last chorus.

Whisper That You Love Me

Published by Shapiro-Bern Arr. by Jack Mason

Are by Jack Mason

A new waitz that's getting a lot of air time of late. There's nothing very startling in the first two choruses, but after the second ending Mason does a nice job of orchestrating the special with tenor on the lead, muted brass in support, and a clarinet duo breaking in occasionally. In the last chorus brass gets the lead with independent sax figures.

'Too Little Dance Music'—Shep

Bounce of Lunceford Recommended for Style

of it," says Shep Fields, who expects to herd his ten saxes and four rhythm into Chicago shortly after a one-nighter tour from New York.

Shep, who is always in a tizzy about something, got this one off a short time ago, and added that he thought the biggest influence Benny Goodman had had on this country was not so much in swing, where he transportation is the reason.

had Fletcher Henderson and the Kansas City bands to copy, but in dance music, specifically the beat.

"I claim," says SF, "that for really good dancing, you need an easy, accented beat which bounces—that has a lift which even gramp can tall time by: can tell time by.

"Before Benny's smashing pow erhouse style with its flat four-four, there were bands like Hal Kemp, which were swell for danc-ing, because they played almost in two-four time, with the second and fourth on an upbeat—it was much easier to dance to because it indicated to the average guy when to go and when to stop.

Swing for Sharpies

Swing for Sharpies

"Technically speaking, the sort of beat a good awing band plays is better dance music, but only for a good dancer. He takes the unvarying accent, and dances against it, instead of just following along the way an ordinary dub does. He uses steps with triplets, and five against four, and lag-beats, and all the other tricks that go into sharp ballroom technique.

against four, and lag-beats, and all the other tricks that go into sharp ballroom technique.

"If you've ever really watched the dancing at the Suvoy up in Harlem, that's the essential difference between the dancing done there and by the average goon. Uptown they know what's happening, and can use counter, and cross beats. Downtown they just got to follow along—und when you play straight four-four, they don't know what to do with themselves—someone took the sign-poles down.

"That's where Benny came in. Almost every sweet band in this country today without realizing it, has tended towards the flat four-four beat, that's worthless for dancing or anything else unless it has the power of a really good swing band in back of it. And the ones that haven't copied him, usually have an umpcha style that sounds like a German street band at its worst. You can count on five fingers the sweet bands today that really play good dance tempos.

Lunceford Leads
"The real twist of the whole deal is that it's the swing bands, and really play good dance tempos.

Lunceford Leads

"The real twist of the whole deal is that it's the swing bands, and not the sweet bands, that are trying to do something about the situation. Everyone has noted the swing to Lunceford stylings; Tommy Dorsey, Les Brown, Sonny Dunham, Jimmy Dorsey, and many others have tried to emulate that fine stuff that Lunceford's boys shell out. Although it's swell jazz, there's another reason for the copying. Lunceford is one of the few bands that all through the smoke and fury of the powerhouse era, kept on using a two-four bounce rhythm.

"His Dream of You is not only top music, it's good for dancing.
"Of course, a lot of bands haten's succeeded in copying Lunceford well, but hate gotten a heavy, oterphrased style that lags instead of jumping lightly, politely but not alightly. The reason's simple: they thought that by having the rhythm play too beats unaccented and by overphrasing the sax licks, you'd get that terrific subtle kick that Immie's men do.

"That isn't the case. That light beat comes only with hours of rehearsal, lead men with Willie Smith's talent for phrasing, and constant work to keep the band from bogging down in its own phrases, if and when my band, or any other band gets a style like this, you'll not only have great dance music, but also basis for

Tight Rehearsals

Tight Rehearsals

That is the former keeper of the liquid sipper speaking, the guy who gambled a pot of dough on the sax appeal of ten men and won hands down. I'm not sure that Shep has reached the peak of dancetime that he speaks of, though he comes awful close in one ditty called Take It Slow; bus I've seldom heard a band that for sheer enthusiasm, showmanship, and good material could match this band.

Shep has the reputation of being a rehearsal man from the word go. The band certainly shows it. When they hit a phrase, it stays hit, During two long evenings, I heard only one fulf—after which the others practically did a snake dance in jeering around the character that had slipped.

Tone Precision

The most amazing thing about the band is its precision of tone. The average leader tears his hair out blending five saxes. Fields not only matches the ten saxes, but keeps them so much in tune that a full unison doubles in volume because of the matching instead of interfering overtones.

They get this by using a tun-

interfering overtones

cause of the matching instead of interfering overtones.

They get this by using a tuning fork instead of the piano. Every set or =0. Romeo Pengue, the lead clary man, wanders around the band with a tuning fork, tuning each instrument to his ear. As Shep says, even if his ear were bad, it would be bad the same unount in each case, and as a result the whole band would still sound in tune, even if slightly higher or lower than it should be. Romeo Pengue, besides playing a mess of hot, has perfect pitch, which is why the band sounds as mellow as it does. What happens if the piano is in semi-International pitch, or so low that it clashes with the fork? Shep just doesn't use a piano that night. Shep's Little Touches

Little touches that Fields watches for explain the band's performance. When they sing a unison chorus, it's not only rehearsed green, but Fields directs the phrasing and volume so that it comes out as words instead of that half-hearted gibberish most outfits use to sluff off their commercial lyrics. He also has planted small boxes in front of the flutes and

He also has planted small boxes in front of the flutes and clarinets so that when they play for a broadcast, or just into the room mike, the balance between the lighter wood-winds and heavier saxes is right on the head.

Arranging sounds much better than it did when the band started. Shep has given up trying to get his band to play more powerhouse than a band with six brass, "just to prove to the boys it can be done." Freedy Noble, his chief staff man, is playing around with all the possibilities offered by saxes, clarinets, futes, bass sax—while his paper on Nightingale is excellent, he still hasn't come up with a lot that could be done.

A band like this doesn't have to copy anybody, and doesn't have to copy anybody, and doesn't have to copy anybody, and doesn't have to worry about sounding like anybody else—therefore why stick to ordinary arranging grooves? There's still a tendency to divide the band off into sections as though it had brass, which fortunately on the new arrangements isn't so true. Some good ideas around, such as use of the bass sax to set the beat in Nursie, Nursie.

Do you mins the brass? I didn't — too much well-played dance music was floating around. This is definitely not a swing band, but is one of the most satisfactory compromises I've ever heard. It's always interesting, well-played, commercial as they come, and is fine for dancing. Records, radio, theaters, hotels ought to find this bunch of Shep's an even bigger click than they have been in the past.

Best thing about the band though, is Shep's own enthusiasm about it. It's a real kick to find a leader that not only wants to make dough, but is so proud and confident of his unit that he'll practically buttonhole strangers to tell them about it.

Inside Story About The Stock Arranger

(Editor's note: This is the third in the series of bingraphical sketches about well known stock orchestration arrangers. Others will appear in early issues of The Bent.)

HELMY KRESA

Almost a score of years ago Milwaukee musicians began to hear about a local gent who plied his trade as a milkman during the day but, come eventide, wrote one hell of an arrangement on the side as a sort of chasing the bovine fluid from our hero soon wound up by buying most of his manuscripts. In fact he was so impressed with the fellow's work he urged him to go to New York to peddling deal.

The name of the milk-route manuscripter was Helmy Kresa and his introductory letter to Irving Berlin's pub house must have been a good one because he started right in as a copyist and has been there ever since. Helmy, now one of the country's well known stock orchestration arrangers, has more hobbies than the Japanese had warshins. He's an experienced air-hobbies than the Japanese had warships. He's an experienced airplane pilot and has had over 500 hours solo in the air; he whips a 16 mm. camera around with the best of them and is a well known amateur magician and can pull rabbits out of a hat with the best of them. Helmy was born in Czechoslovakia...he's 37 years old but doesn't look it . . he lives in marital bliss in Bayside, Long Island, N' Yawk and has two children, a boy and a girl . . his instrument is piano but, according to no less an authority than himself, the best you can say about his ability is that he plays in tune . . . takes him from 6 to 12 hours to put the finishing touches on a stock depending on how late he was out the night before . . like most of the stock-orch boys he'd get his stabs arranging for either Jimmy, Tommy or Glenn . . his reading habits lean towards non-fiction but he's a sucker for the latest magic trick . . if he hadn't got into music he'd like to be an aviation instructor . . Tibor Serly was his teacher and he considers ABC's It's a Blue World his best effort to date . . . calls stock arranging an "eternal struggle" but his easy, stylized arrangements belie that cryptic statement.

stylized arrangements belie that cryptic statement.

Two Arranging Eras

Kresa, in addition to his stock arranging which is exclusively for Berlin, turns out a mass of sheet music for all the publishers. He prefers arranging ballad tunes, unlike most penmen, but he can come up with an on-the-beat last chorus that will satisfy the most hothappy horn man when the occasion demands. According to Helmy, there have been two eras in stock arranging—before Archie Bleyer and after Archie Bleyer.

"Before Bleyer." he says, "stocks were always dictated by the taste of the individual publishers. Bleyer was the lad who started to pattern them after the top bands and it has been going on ever since. And as long as no-called name bands are the big thing in music, stock arrangers will continue to imitate their atyle."

"I don't use any special formula in arranging," says Helmy, "except that my stocks can be played with one trumpet and three saxes from the top down and the sock chorus always has four part harmony

Hit Composer Leaves Small Estate

Los Angeles—That success in music doesn't always mean riches was noted again as the will of the late Frank Churchill, longtime musical director and songwriter for Walt Disney pictures, revealed that he left a modest estate of less than $3,000 and an unpretentious home in Hollywood.
Churchill, who died by his own hand as a result of despondency over ill health, turned out hit songs virtually by accident in the course of his job of scoring cartoon cumedies. He wrote the melody to Big Bad Walf (for Three Little Pigs) and didn't spend much more time on songs like Some Day My Prince Will Come, One Song and the others for Some White.

BOBBY BYRNE

(Reviewed in Green Room Hotel Edison, New York)

This is the best band Bobby has ever had. Not only that, but it's an excellent band for anybody's dough. Up until now, Byrne has used Don Redman's scores. While used Don Redman's scores. While Redman is of course m marvelous arranger, he never worked out right with this band. The band scuffled up the entrances and got so hog-tied in the phrasings that it would lose all semblance of a so hog-tied in the phrasings that it would lose all semblance of a beat.

Now, with most of the paper done by Syd Brantley, himself a trombonist, the band sounds more relaxed and the blend of the sections is much fuller.

Byrne is playing with far fewer clinkers than ever before, and his obligatoes behind the vocalists are something to hear. Bet Tommy wishes he could ad lib 'em like that. His fronting is far more pleasant, though he's still a little self-conscious about his youth. It's hard to judge Bobby's hot playing. Sometimes he plays really top-notch ideas, and at other times his phrases are jerky and disjointed, as though someone had lifted the middle hunk out. Also, the microphone used to pick him up is not the world's best.

The brass section is the nuts. Despite slight roughness, it rides like mad—even in the whisper mutes that a stand the size of the Green Room demands. Especially noteworthy is the tasty hot work of Jack Koven, who played trumpet with Bunny and shows it.

Reeds are good, except for a slight tendency by the second tenor, Bunny Bardach, to lip down too much when he first hits notes. Clarinet of Hal Tennyson fits, and Bobby's brother, Don, tears off some sensational flute on Begin the Beguine.

Rhythm is fine on all counts.

Vocalist Jerry Stone, formerly with Muggsy Spanier, was working under severe handicap, since he joined the band only a day before opening, replacing Jimmy Palmer. After he gets unlaxed a little, he ought to pan out well for airwork.

Dotty Claire, as usual, was the best salesman in the band, with that ear-to-ear grin, and an abil-ity to make Bobby work well with ity to make Bobby work well with her on novelty tunes.

Band lacks only one thing at present: a distinctive style. It sounds good and is easy to dance to, but other than the Byrne trombone, which has too many before it to serve as a really distinctive trademark, there is nothing which the customers can label as serictly BB and nothing else. Byrne is working on this, and hopes in the next few weeks to work out some arrangements using harp, which he and his brother Don both play, arrangements using harp, which he and his brother Don both play, to give the scores a needed "spe-cial" slant.

The band sounds good—it's definitely saleable music—so maybe that long murderous road tour Bobby had in the south, and the tough break he had in losing the New Yorker last year may pay off all to the good anyway.

Band Calls Casa Loman Pianist—'Joe the Horse'

by SHARON A. PEASE

by SHARON A. PEASE

JOE HALL has been playing piano with Glen Gray's Casa Loma Orchestra for the past 14 years. However, he is more than just the piano player—he is one of the ten fellows who jointly own Casa Loma, Inc., and has been with the group since it was first founded. In fact Joe's association with Gray goes back fifteen years, when both along with Pee Wee Hunt, were sidemen in one of Gene Goldkette's units called the Orange Blossoms. Hank Biagini was front man.

Uses Interesting Harmony

Studied Classics
That was in Detroit a couple years after Joe had journeyed there from his home town in Stratford, Ontario. In Stratford, Joe attended school and later worked in a drug store. He studied classical piano with Prof. Dalt Davidson and Madame Strathdee, and conscientiously dug the records of Art Schutt, Paul Mertz, and Irving Brodsky.

After playing a little dance work and finding that he liked it better

Uses Interesting Harmony
As a style example Joe has done to four-bar introduction and six teen-bar theme of an original which he calls Theme Impromptu. Featuring the clever use of chords it should be taken lazily and relaxed. Especially note the prominent use of ninths, minor ninths, and thirteenths. In measure two of the introduction he has used the minor ninth, D sharp, (E flat), as the top note in the treble on beat three, D harmony. He uses the same tone in the chord on beat

Sent to New York

After a strenuous schedule of rehearsals the group was sent to New York as the Casa Loma orchestra. Things didn't go too well, finally resulting in the boys pulling away from the Goldkette management and forming Casa Loma, Inc. Eventually they hooked up with Corky O'Keefe and the rest is history.

The Casa Loma boys are rated as one of the friendliest groups of regular fellows in the business, and in this respect Joe Hall is definitely one of the ringleaders. Husky and genial, the boys have hung on him the handle of Joe the Horse—partially due to his stat-

Omer Simeon is a member in good standing of the famous New Orleans clarinet coterie of Dodds, Noone, Bigard, Bechet, Nicholas and Hall. However, Omer's musical activity has centered around Chicago since 1914 whence he came as a boy. He has only played jazz in New Orleans as a member of the Jelly Roll Was Stymied!

The only time Omer ever saw the indomitable Jelly Roll stymied was early one morning at the Victor studios in Chicago when they were recording The Chant, Smoke House Blues and Black Bottom Stomp. It seems Walter Melrose, the music publisher, had contracted the date and it was his policy to always bring the boys a quart of Scotch. It was evidently Jelly's first repast of the day and in the middle of the session they had to stop and let Jelly go out for some air.

Along with the new feature policy discussed below it might be well here to again put on record an important Hot Discography correction. On page 352 in the Omer Simeon section the personnel of the Helen Savage-Dixie Syncopators record should read as follows: Omer Simeon, clarinet, and William Barbee, piano. Earl Hines did not play on this date. The two sides were made in Chicago in 1930 and Helen Savage was a white blues singer. The correct title of the second tune should be For Just a Little Love from You, not For You. Master numbers do not show on the wax.

There is not much to add to Omer's still very active career. He finally completely severed his connection with the "Earl" in late 1940. Since that time he has played with Walter Fuller's big band, Coleman Hawkins' Chicago hand at Dave's Cafe, and is no wagain with Walter Fuller in a five piecer where he gets a chance to solo an abundance of that fine New Orleans clarinet.

Nicollet Hand Wedding
The most hectic session of his band-leading career ended this month at the Nicollet Hotel for Tony DiPardo, young trumpetplaying leader under the MCA banner. Even though his draft board was set to induct him from his St. Louis home, DiPardo took the marriage vows on the Nicollet bandstand with all Minny members of local 73 free and invited guests.

Before these vows were spoken, another draft board had taken his drummer, and so DiPardo's honeymoon consisted of looking through the union directory seeking a replacement here. His last week at the hotel found Don Hallberg and Don Hixon sitting in the percussion seat. The day before he left, with possibilities of the band breaking up here, DiPardo was granted another stay by his board. DiPardo was former trumpet man in the band of Eddie Dunstedter, former Twin City organist and band leader, who now works out of St. Louis.

Concerning Armstrong Records

Walter Melrose is now in the saddle horse business at Santa Mariana Ranch in Tucson. Arizona. He writes that he has no idea where the Armstrong cylinder records made in his office are now. The music on them was taken down by Elmer Schoebel and published by Melrose in a book titled "Fifty Hot Choruses by Louis Armstrong." This book is still in the Melrose catalogue. The music was put on old Edison cylinders and Melrose recalls they were absolute cornet classics. Louis made them with both eyes shut and his horn pointing to the ceiling one moment and the floor the next.

Les Zacheis advises that the two tunes, Black and Whits Rag and Smokey Mokes, which gained such wide favor via the Lu Watters records were once before recorded by Prince's Band on the old Columbia label.

I would like to say a few words of praise on Bill Ludwig's new book, Swing Drumming, which has been on the market only a short time. It is really a fine book and very complete in every way. Bill is now in Uncle Sam's navy and doing a fine job there, too.

Think They Look Alike?

St. Louis—During the recent appearance of the Hollywood Victory Caravan here, Coast Guardsman Jon Paul Jones served as guard for Bob Hope, when Hope and Bing Crosby, who also appeared in the show, played an exhibition golf match at a local golf course. Crosby called attention to the resemblance of Jones and Hope and the pair willingly "mugged" for the camera, Before enlisting Jones sang with Nick Stuart's orchestra at the Jefferson hotel. (Photo by Ralph Rugh, St. Louis Globe-Democrat.)

A brass section is like a baseball team. Take many of the so-called big time brassmen. Sometimes I would swear that they are sucking on their horns instead of blowing them. The big time bands should have more like the James' and the Dorseys. When the leader says, "Get in there and pitch," what have you got? Just a lot of good intentions. That is not enoughit's what comes out of the bell that

Rochester, N. Y.— Ken Renick has added Mac McCarthy, former leader of his own combo; Pete Moyer and Irv Wiener as replacements in his saxophone section, and Norm Webb to the trumpet section. Al Reichert, one of the departing saxmen, had been with the unit for six years.

Billy Poinan's band has been booked for six weeks at the Sea Breeze Pier ballroom. Frank Skultety and his orchestra have replaced Jack Mayo in the Odenbach Peacock voom. Marty counts.

Good baseball players, golfers, vocalists, brassmen are just that, because of two words — perfect form. That's what I am trying to impress upon you—to get it, or else. The minute I see a brassman play or have a letter from him describing his difficulties, I know just what he has that is good and just what he has that is bad. What I am trying to get over to you is to keep your natural feel and way of playing, and the good things you have. Then use my ideas to take out the bad. Any one should know that you just pull the weeds and leave the flowers.

Only One Right Way
When I say my ideas, I don't mean that I am the guy who invented right. Right was right from the very beginning. But, as the old saying goes, "There are many wrong ways, but only ene right," and that's the reason why we have so few big time performers. That is no reason, however, why you can't be if you are barking up the right alley. Find that "right," and really start pitching.

Through my column I am trying to put over to you the ideas and the correct form exercises that will put you on the right track. When I ask you if you have an automatic blowing of the cheeks, or cheek, or upper lip, like Harry James, Ziggy Elman, you should check to see. If you haven't, you should do the exercise I gave in one of my recent columns for two minutes; then play natural for 5, 7, or 10 minutes, letting it come into your natural automatically. When I say you must have the correct base (which to all good men means playing correctly from and with their chops), you must have it, or find it, as I described to you in one of my columns. If you are trying to play with non-pressure you might as well forget the whole thing, because "there ain't no such animal." Perfect form, have you got it? If you haven't got it, get it!

Skinnay Ennis drew about 400 persons, including dead heads and the help, to Uline's Arena. . . . Woody Herman drew nearly 1,300 to this same spot. This poor showing in oreflection on Woody who is very popular in this town but on the very poor manner in which the promoter handles the advertising. The world's worst acoustics and a pathetic excuse for a floor all help no little in keeping people away.

Turkish Harry Lim

A jam session given at the Press Club and emceed by Neshui Ertegun, son of the Turkish ambassador to the U. S., was attended by 975 persons.

Teddy Wilson, Zutty Singleton and Maxie Kaminsky were the most impressive — Benny Morton played some sweet trombone; Tommy Potter, local colored cat, played good bass; Joe Marsala and Adele Girard played too.

Lead Belly, his 15 string guitar and his homey folk songs, should have stayed at hone; otherwise, it was a good session. But could have been much better.

Best Circus Band in World Out of Job

New York—The best circus band in the world is out of a job. Merle Evans and the Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey band lost out when they were ordered out on strike for a two dollar raise by the AFM and the circus found it could keep going with records and a calliope.

Glenn Miller's Kid Brother Gets Ork

Boston — Glenn Miller's brother Herb is set for some dates up here fronting an eleven piece band plus his own trumpet. Anothe trumpet leader, Cootie William is in at the Tic-Toc Club.

Super-Luck

The Korn Kobblers were burned out of the Flagship in New Jerney the other day but Chief MucElroy, the drummer, ain't kicking too much. His car was stolen the other night, turned up four days later with only a half gallon less gas, all the tires intact, and a brand new tire sitting quietly in the back seat. Claimants can jump in the river.

If Your Copy of Down Beat Is Late

Don't gripe! The country is winning the war. Conditions beyond our control, especially in sections of the country near army camps and navy bases, may cause your copy of Donen Beat to arrive late. In wartime, transportation of all kinds is uncertain, Donen Beat leaves Chicago on time.

Savannah, Ga. — When Count Basie appeared here recently, a Basie appeared here recently, a local girl who went up and sang a couple of numbers with the band brought the house down. She is Eloise Alma Little, a blind, crippled girl who sings at the Dunbar Theatre, and in the opinion of two Theatre, and in the opinion of two Decca and Columbia representatives she just about equals Fitzgerald. At Basie's Atlanta one-nighter, the show took in 6,000 paid admissions, and estimated another 3,000 were turned away. In Macon they had more than 1,000 white spectators.

Many Hutton (hanges

Ina Ray Hutton has made a number of patriotic contributions, in the forms of Paul Russell, pianist; Eddie Zande, trumpet; Bert Schaperow, alto; Jack Andrews, trombone; Billy Watt, drums. Frank Berardi, trumpet, and Phil Sobel, alto, have left the band also. At the University of S. C. dance where the band played a short time ago, Zande, one of the original members of the outfit, came up and sat in with them—much to their surprise and pleasure. Zande is now at Fort Jackson.

These changes leave the present line-up as: Gene Zanoni, Irving Braeberg (baritone), George Wimpy Furman, Danny Cappi, Irving Greenberg, George Paxton (arranger), saxes; Al Squeaky Stearn (from TDorsey), Harvey Streiner, Chuck Forsythe, trumpets; Bob Negron, Jay Kelliher (from Gene Krupa), Marshall Hawk, trombones; Jack Purcell, guitar; Rocky Colluccio (from Jan Savitt), piano; Phil Sillman, drums; Stuart Foster, vocals, and Ina Ray on vocals and lead-stick.

When Money Counts

Foster, vocals, and Ina Ray on vocals and lead-stick.

When Money Counts

At the Savannah Army Air Base, tenor saxist George Albrecht was just about at the bottom of low the other day. Not down to his last dime, but ten cents past it. Stretched out on the cot and bemoaning his situation, he suffered in the agony of his faded spirit, when someone brought him a letter—it was from Gray Gordon, and contained $8 cash refund of taxes paid in some time ago. George never had a bigger thrill from any amount of money.

Savannah Beach is still giving forth entertainment in spite of the automobile situation, with Danny Danford at the DeSoto Beach Club, and The Four Swingsters with Joe Medley at the Brass Rail. The beach is in a dim-out for the duration.

New York - For years Dolly Dawn refused to pose for cheesecake. Her discoverer and mentor. ### Not So Square

New York—it may be square-dancing, but it still cuts rugs. Recently, at a folk-dancing festival here on Sheep Meadow in Central Park, two hundred square dancers got rocking so lustily to the tunes of the hill-billy dance band that it's going to cost the Park Department 650 bucks to fix the turf.

Maestro Doubles

Dancers at the Romevelt Grill may notice a distinct sneer on the puss of Walter Perner, the new macatro in charge of the Relief Band. This is probably because he's general manager of Arthur Murray's famed dancing school, and works at night with his seven-piece band just as a lobby. He claims most dancers ain't nowhere. Plug Arthur Murray unplug.

Patriotism! Matty Malneck Back at Chase

All-Girl Orks Replace Male Bands in Some St. Louis Spots

St. Louis—For many years the expression "the Chase is the Place" has been a commercial slogan here, but now musicians are repeating it emphatically with a different meaning, because, topping the list of entertainment, as well as being on the top of the Chase Hotel in the Starlite Roof, is Matty Malneck. returning for his second time to open the roof spot.

Two Other Units

Malneck is one of the best violinists in the business and is highly popular here. One of his original compositions, Stairway to the Stars is getting a big play here, and all in all, Malneck is proving a wise choice by the management. Another violinist, Bobby Swain and his Noteables are taking over indefinitely in the Zodiac Rar and Joe Shirmer with his guitar and small combo are located in the Steeple-Chase. This triple-threat line-up offers variety that is packing the Chase from ground floor to the roof, and each unit enjoys two nites on the air.

A fellow to watch in the very near future is Milt Stirrat, now with Elmer Theiss' band. Milt handles the tenor sax, and his take off solos are outstanding in originality and execution. Nothing indefinite in his work. Each passage is clearly bitten through, yet in amanner so as to leave nothing desired in the way of tone.

Girls Get Break

Girls Get Break

Ernst Harzy, last noticed here at the Zodiac Bar with Caroline Francis, and very popular with the crowds there, is now with Russ Halveland at the Hotel Melbourne Picadilly Bar... Velma Wunch is back with her all-girl combo after a successful winter season down south. Many girl outfits are taking over here, due to increasing draft demands on our younger musicians... Forest Alcorn has made his first change in personnel in years. He has taken Harvey Maher on tenor in his combo at Roosevelt hotel's Wonder Bar.

Vaughn Monroe Opens New England News

Worcester, Mass.-Still a little early to gauge the extent to which gas rationing will hurt spots here employing name bands. What cf-employing name bands. What effect it might have did not change Cy Shribman's opening of his recently acquired Sun Valley (former Bal-a-lair) located on Worcester-Boston turnpike.

Shribman's newly remodeled spot, which was a popular name band stop for several years, is without benefit of aubways or elevateds and while it originally had been planned as a location stand, the spot did its opening strip with Vaughn Monroe pulling the zippers from around Sun Valley's beautiful layout, but for one night soil. Georgie Auld ork moved in after Vaughn, with Sam Donahue following.

Griff is Top Draw

after Vaughn, with Sam Donahue following.

Griff is Top Draw

Griff Williams' band recently knocked out the top draw of the season for Roy Gill's Totem Pole with 10,650 dine and dancers for about $7,700 in his first four day stop and came on in again for second four day wallop to bat out another 10,000 customers for better than $7,000.

M. Marguerite Morrison, committee chairman for $1,000 scholarship offer by the New England Conservatory of Music Club of Worcester County, announces Wayne Barrington as winner. Barrington plays the French horn in four different orchestras, his mother plays same instrument and his father gives out with the bassoon in the Worcester Philharmonic.

Dol Brissette, currently at Hotel Bassorft restures to sideace with Dol Brissette, currently at Hotel Bancroft, returns to airlanes with new 14 piece WTAG studio ork, replacing Bob Pooley, who goes out for string of summer dates through New England... Localad Augie Menard in sax section of Mal Hallett's ork is former Hughie Connor's sax section man. Hughie is current at The Eden... Frankie Masters and his men moved into the Plymouth for three good days followed by Shep Fields ork, with Tommy Tucker coming back again and the Andrews Sisters.

Monroe and Bradley

back again and the Andrews Sisters.

Monroe and Bradley

Vaughn Monroe was recalled for swell Sunday show at Worcester's beautiful Auditorium, featuring lovely Marylin Duke and impressive Ziggy Talent. Vaughn tripled with Will Bradley ork which featured Lynn Gardner and Terry Allen, plus Dol Brissette's new WTAG studio ork. The Sunday shows two performances rang the bell for good 4,700, despite bad weather. . . . Local trumpeter Iken Hurwitz, recently with Roy Hendrickson's Coronado hotel ork, went on to join Hob Allen outfit which played here recently.

Around New England: Mayor Toepfert has sworn to knock off Sunday permits over in Holyoke where name bands and other touring units are coming in for Sunday performances, unless the shows knock-out some of the flaming jokes from their routine. . . . Carlo Rovelli and Frank Lennchan over in Springfield spent around $75,000 in reopening the Boston Post road popular night spot, formerly known as Sam's Diner and Paddock. . . Al Cass, Milford musician and leader, quit his orchestra for defense work but this will not break up the band, as Ziggy Kelly will incorporate the Cass unit with his.

Johnny Wall and Angus Parker, name band bookers for Whitins dance spot, confide that their recent Mal Hallett and Sam Donahue bookings into their Town Hall spot will be their last for the summer months. . . . Tony (sax) lannitelli, currently at Wrentham Shady Nook, loses his pianobrother to Uncle Sammy.
