Develop Popular Music, Shaw Asks

New York-The excited gurglings from Columbia records Artie Shaw is going to cut both pop and longhair sides Decca Loses Welk, for them may be mere wishful thinking. According to Shaw, such musical classifications are a matter of semantic confu-to as pop is still open to question. "If I can play a theme which will add to pop music, I'll do it," he mused. "But a pop theme has to be developed. Some of the tunes -by Gershwin and Kern, for in-stance — are as good as any art songs. But pop composers just put down the barest kind of leads. A Brahms lead. on the other hand, is carefully developed."

It's Got Word-

The trouble with pop music, he explained, is that it has words.

"The words are usually 'I love you' and 'You love me.' Pop music today is dominated' by the human voice. And the human voice is dom-inated by the words. And look at the words."

By his own official estimate, he got out of the pop music business in 1939 when he left his band and estensibly went to Mexico.

In a Trap

In a Trap "I quit because I realized l'd potten into a trap and there was no out," he said. "I didn't want to spend the rest of my life touring the country playing the same mu-sic over and over. And I never really went back. I just went out and made some money sometimes. But I never kidded myself that I was going back to the dance busi-ness."

After he got out of the Navy, he spent a couple of years mulling over his various problems and fin-ally found something that "I could do with music that I'd respect," viz., concert work.

Ancy. One point most boppers overlook, Nat feels, is that they have a so-cial problem to fight. "Parents get upset about the alleged immoral influence of bop," he says. "They read these stories about musicians getting arrested for one thing or another and the headlines always say, 'Bop musi-cian'. Well, musicians are just like anybody else—some are worse than others. There are classical men who have some of the worst morals in the world. But nowadays it's al-ways the bop musician who gets the rap.

ways the bop musician who gets the rap. "It's like Dizzy once told the kids: 'We're not trying to influ-ence your morals. We're trying to influence your ear.' "So many of the kids think that all you have to do to get hip to bop is to act weird—grow a goatee and wear a beret and those heavy hornrims. It helps when men they look up to, like Dizzy, take a stand and tell them that actions don't make music.

Europe Tour

EUROPE LOUR New York—Plans are being set for Benny Goodman's first Euro-pean tour this summer, high point of which will be his appearance with his band at Paris' Grand Prix, or jubilee, week. Invite was ten-dered to Benny by the city of Paris. He'll also do two benefit perfor-mances in Paris for the United Nations Appeal for Children. A month's concert tour through France, Belgium, Holland, and Scandinavia is being lined up for him by Joe Glaser, with whom Benny recently signed after break-ing with MCA. Godman will take all his 17 men with him on the trip, sched-uled for mid-June. "Kids would come up and ask, 'Have you got any bop?" he says. "I'd say, 'Yeah, South Rampart Street.' So we'd play it, and the kids would come back and say, "That's fine. Got any more bop." He also thinks that most people don't know what bop is, an idea which was illustrated for him when a small outfit he had was booked into a spot in the Pennsylvania mining country recently. When they reached the place, the manager came up to Lee and said, "Howard McGhee was here last week playing bop, and it was sensational. So I want you to bop all over the place." Lee's crew couldn't play any more bop than he could. But he decided to play cagey, and he just said, "Okay."

Joy, Decca Reunited

New York — Leonard Joy, who quit as Decca's west coast record-ing director a year ago, has re-turned to the firm as a general recording man and musical direc-tor.

• NO SOCIAL EVENT in New Orleans that called for a brass band could be considered a complete success with-out the mighty cornet of Bolden. Whenever he blew a few warning blasts on his horn, which "could be heard for miles—clear to Lake Pontchartrain," the dancer would come running to hear the "King" himself. In addition to his musical success—and although married and the father of two children—Bolden was considered quite a ladies' man. Often the bandstand would be surrounded by his female admirers, who always brought him gifts of coins and trinkets, and occasionally came to blows over who should win his personal favor.

• "KING" BOLDEN'S EXCESSES with women and with liquor may have helped to haaten the tragedy that was to end his reign over New Orleans; for years he had been working under conditions which might well have proved fatal to a lesser man. While marching during a Labor day parade in 1907, Buddy became mentally de-ranged and was later placed in a Louisiana asylum. There he died in 1931, forgoiten by all but a few. Whether the many stories of his musical provess can be taken today without the proverbial grain of salt is doubtful, but Buddy Bolden must be accredited, in any event, as the first great brassman of jazz.

CHICAGO BAND BRIEFS Anita, Jimmy and Max United After Decade

By PAT HARRIS

By FAT MARKIS Chicago—Three musicians who worked together at the Off Beat club here 10 years ago were back in Chicago recently, appearing together at another new club not a dozen blocks away. Max Miller's quartet opened then-Beat-co-publisher Carl Cons' Off Beat early in the spring of 1939. A 19-year-old Chi-cagoon named Anita O'Day anng with Miller, and with Jimmy Mc-Parland's hand when it opened at the spot. Chicago and the wordless singing in so many of Duke's mood pieces. Other the spot.

Oriental Showmanship

Oriental Showmanship Showmanship of the Ellington type appeared in a most unexpect-ed place recently — the Oriental theater, and in the person of Char-lie Ventura. Charlie does a very graceful job of introducing the members of his band during their appearance, and making the audi-ence feel that perhaps his music isn't as strange as they had thought. This homey touch helps tremendously, regardless of wheth-er it is motivated more by skillful-ness or sincerity.

later. Max, Anita, and Jimmy were at the Hi-Note on N. Clark street last month. Jimmy and Max were a little heavier; sophistication had replaced Anita's schoolgirl look, and their audience included a ma-jority of persons to whom the Deuces days appeared very much in the dim past. But the case still extend to the tremendously, regardless of wheth-er it is motivated more by skillful-ness or sincerity. Neither skill, sincerity, or just plain sense seemed to be guiding the previous Oriental abow, which featured Arthur Godfrey's talent scouts revue, whose seven acts suf-fered from the snail-like pacing of the program. All attributable, we think, to the deliberate and point-less inanities of Colonel Stoop-nagle, who emceed the affair. If this is the way vaudeville is going to return, we expect to see its fans in mourning for quite a while. But perhaps the future will be brighter. Dick Contino's talent show is at the Oriental from April 28 until Pearl Bailey comes in May 19. Gene Ammons leading the Jimmy Dale band at the Regal theater when Nat Cole opens April 15.

Chicago theater still mulling the possibility of televising their stage shows, which would eliminate more than one-week stands there.

Buttons, Bowa, and Ellington Nostalgia may have gripped the Biue Note's customers too, as they listened to Duke Ellington's full band playing its first Chicago club date in years. Ellington's bands-men, a playful lot, managed to take it easy and still blow enough to make listeners sure that there is rood reason for Ellington. Ike jazz itself, to go on forever. Sarah Ford, a singer we haven't Duke's band a couple of times by ally attractive girl, with wonder-ful ease and enthusiasm as well as a well-controlled voice, sile sang such things as Let It Roll, Buttons And Bores, and Set Em Up, Rack Em Back, with the Duke accom-panying on piano, and other bands-men filling in now and then. Very pleasant, thoug, quite a contrast

Grady Three Without Disguise

Chicago-In a quiet mood (sens putty noses, wild hata, and wacky moustaches) the Larry Grady trio opened recently at the No. 10 Theater bar on Chicago's west side. But they didn't keep the traps under wraps during their 14 months at the loop Preview, or 10 months at the Rush street Steak House, so patrons at the No. 10 probably won't recognize the boys in this photo. Athens, Ga.—George Doerner and his University of Georgia Bulldog band are gaining quite an area reputation for playing being dance jazz and swing music with a touch of bop nov added. They have been playing engagements for a number of added. They have been playing colleges' dances, not to mention's capacity crowds at hops all over Georgia and sections of South Car-olina, North Carolina, Tennessee, Florida, and Alabama. Last summer, the Hip-Dogs en-joyed a terrific tour. The goodwill and prestige gained is paying off today in requests for bands' return this year.

To this year. In the fall of 1945, amidst the glory-studded Trippi & Co. foot-ball team, there emerged a seed of a university band. Starting from a three-sax, two-brass and rhythm outfit, which at that time with a touch of bop now being g engagements for a number of sounded great to the music hungry students, this small band was the beginning of a long trek upward. The improvement wasn't rapid for this mediocre-sounding bunch who rocked along slowly. So the student-musicians decided to do something about building a good band. They gathered the best available swingsters on campus and rehearsed until the music was so good that it received respect and praise from every student. Today the band, composed of five sakes, four trombones, four trumpets, three rhythm, and two vocalists, is one of the sharpest outfits in the south. Four Dogs and a Cat, a vocal group, is the newset addition, and when maestro Doerner speaks of them, his eyes sparkle. He says few group-chirpers can cut them. Tenorist Johnny Buckner and tromboniat Charlie Devon, whose work resembles that of Bill Harris, could hold down chairs in almost any name band-not to mention trumpet player Red Andrews who returned from the armed forces with an amazing touch of bop.

Cornell Club Presents 'Musical Portrait'

By AI Friedman

Ithaca, N. Y. - During the week of Feb. 20, the Ithaca week of Feb. 20, the Itnaca Art association sponsored an Ithaca Art week entitled Self-Portrait of a Commánity. Wishing to make music as well as art a part of the Portrait, the Cornell Univer-sity Rhythm club undertook the presentation of a music program which would incorporate campus and local talent. The club presented on American and local talent. The club presented an American music concert which climaxed its etivities during its two years of existence. In the Memorial audito-rium of Ithaca high school, Ithaca residents received a two-hour edu-cation in harmony from folk music u Dixieland and from Sergei Pro-hofteff to be-bop.

Classical Selection

The program included a selection from the music of Prokofieff, the first movement of his Second String Quartet, played by the Cherry String quartet from Ithaca college.

Even the sedate Cornell law school was represented in the con-cert when one of its professors, Arthur Larson, demonstrated an artful ballad style of singing.

Accompanying himself on a gui-tar, the professor sang of The Fingerlakes Disaster, a tale of a flood in the Ithaca area in 1935. His other folk song offerings in-cluded The Eddystone Light and The Ballad of Peter Gray.

The Ballad of Peter Gray. The Ballad of Peter Gray. The program was dominated by three types of American jazz-Dixieland, swing, and be-bop. Bob Marsden and his Ithaca Dixieland-ers offered examples of the ensem-ble style of this jazz with Tiger Rag, Ja-Da, and Jazz Me Blues. Bob Pearson and his band took the stage next to represent recent American jazz. Their offerings in-cluded such numbers as Stormy Weather, The Man I Love, and Somebody Loves Me. The five hoppers of a Wally Thirl aggregation completed the program with How High the Moon. Step Forward didn't realize was that this is the moust highly competitive field in the country. In this territory there are more jobs, good and bad, to fill them the field in the country. For dance municians, the situation here, as elsewhere, is further complicated by the fact that the musical form with which they work has passed through three major atages as it moved from what the "authorities" would probably call "jazz, swing, and bop." Never were musical pioneers so far anusical comprehension. One development we've noted here, particularly in the neighborhood ballrooms, is that older people are just catching up with the so-called "jazz" and "awing" forma as dance music. They have evolved a kind of formalized version of the jitterbug dance and know just what kind of music they want for it. We have a hunch that someone is going to put a good Dixieland we don't mean a cocktail lounge—and we don't mean a cacktail lounge and we don

EDITORIAL

Chicago, April 22, 1949

Funny What We Think Is Funny

Larry Wolters, radio editor of the Chicago Tribune, stated in a recent Sunday column that Jack Benny says the following gag evoked the biggest laugh in the history of his radio show: Ronald Colman: "Benita, have you ever seen Phil Harris' musician ?

Mrs. Colman: "Please, Ronnie—I'm eating!"

This is a laugh? We don't blame the Colmans. They didn't write the script. But the distasteful insult to a group of fellow performers hardly is in keeping with the couple's fine reputation for genreeding and suave good taste. teel

This is what is known as a Lindy Laugh, since it probably was there that Milton Berle originally stole this alleged gag from some other comedian. It has been around since. This twist has all the subtlety and kind good humor of the just-as-familiar-gesture of sticking your finger down your throat and gagging when an individual or subject is mentioned in your pres ICE.

We admit that the Waukegan Wonder, gentle Jack, holds still on his own program for plenty of merciless kidding. We concede that he makes himself the butt of many jokes, many of them as bad as this one. Most of them are built around the legend that Benny is close fisted. But his publicity staff loses no opportunity to convince the public that this parsimony stuff is strictly a gag, that Jack personally is a fast man with a buck and that he frequently plays the role of generous benefactor with relish. Does anybody bother to counteract the notion planted in the minds of millions of radio listeners by the Colman routine that musicians are a filthy, repulsive lot, calculated to spoil anyone's appetite if merely mentioned? They do not!

The old vaudeville curse: "May all your children become acrobats," isn't in use any more. Now it's: "May all your daughters grow up—and marry musicians!" Phil Harris doesn't insult his musicians on his own radio show. He does poke a lot of fun at Frankie, his pal and guitar player. But this is directed at an individual, and because he is playing the role of a comic stooge. The fact that he is a yer is purely coincidental. pl

Ridiculing an entire group of professional artists, even in so-called jest, as was done in the script handed to the Colmans, is another matter. If it requires this type of material to evoke the biggest laugh in the history of Benny's show, we say he

Portland, Ore.—By and large, the so-called "renaissance" of New Orleans or Dixieland jazz—or the younger element thereof, anyhow—has brought little that is new and a lot that is imitation of the time-worn. Lu Watters, Bob Wilber, Frisco Jaa 90

two-heat cliches extant. Admittedly, not too much can be done to inject variance into Dixie ensemble playing. But solos can be freshened, imaginations kept alive and taut, and the harmonic origins of jazz music re-examined constantly for stimulus. And if this trouble is taken with solos, some of the same spirit easily can be injected into the ensemble work, too.

A series (steindy Maker, Nov. 17, 1945.) George Avakian said: "There's momething about that west coast! Here's another fine jazz band made up of young white musicians who got their stuff off records. Tech-mically competent, these men suc-esed in playing over their heads because of a unity of purpose which enables them to work as a team—with the result that their individual abilities are multiplied into a neatly effective ensemble. This is Dirieland jazz at its beet, with a fresh sound because fresh musicians are involved. Not much else is new, but it's right— both sides swing and certainly sound fine." In 1940 the Castle Jazz band began playing a steady job at Portland's Hi-Hat club. The unit played to literally nobody. Local jazz record collector-guitarist Monte Ballou, interested in the ex-periment, eat in occasionally with the combination.

A trumpeter, Dick Sheurman, had had an idea that Dixieland could pay. He built a jazz band, using George Phillips, trombone; Willie Pavia, clarinet; Axel Tyle, druma, and Al Puderbaugh, piano.

Ballow and basist Myron Shep-ler, though not regulars at the time, completed the rhythm section. Sheurman knew the lead to old tunes, having played around Des Moines and Davenport, and having known and played with the late clarinetist Rod Cless.

Guitarist Ballou, carried away with the idea of a real jazz band, injected fellow sidemen at the spot where he worked (the Clover club) with equal fervor. One night a lo-cal trumpeter, Dick Dinham, hypothe some arrangements to the brought some arrangements to the Clover club for Monte to try.

Dizzy Gillespie S Lover, Come Back to Me S Guarachi Guaro

11 Loser, Come Back to Me 11 Construction Guardon Dizzy's postban wax is disap-pointing to these ears. Lover is an Afro-Cuban version of the Rom-berg tune with Diz playing a fair-ly straight out-of-meter chorus for a good deal longer than he should. The background is interesting but not enough so to sustain interest until he finally breaks it un toward the end which, incidentally, drags out interminably. Guaro is more of the same only with an altered guaracha beat something on the order of a slow-er Manteca. Here again the rhythm and orchestration are fairly inter-esting, but Diz does little of any shouting midway are tame. And while we're on the subject, a repetive bop lick such as the one gradually built up in volume through the last third of the rec-ord can get just as leadly and mo-notnous as an old Case Jomar iffer. trombonist on the jazz side of the ledger. The balance is McKinley vocal, as is the Willard Robison Preacher novelty which Ray does in a manner that shows he's really enjoying this stuff. (Victor 20-3377.)

Claude Thornhill

SSSSNowfall SSI/ I Forget You Thornhill's mody, beauteous theme, Snowfall, is well worth re-issuing. Forget is a fair tune with an Art Brown vocal, a tinkling Thornhill, an organlike band, and the usual routine. (Victor 20-3376.)

Tonimy Dorsey J She's a Home Girl J Enjoy Yourself

Tenjoy Yourself Home is an agreeable dance side with an intro and background to the Sonny Calello vocal that is full of clarinets voiced wide open in the old TD style that used to zet so well—and still would. Enjoy, with an all-star cast including Charlie Shavers, Lucy Ann Polk, Sonny Calello, and the Vee Tones is a production number with all the stops pulled out where everything is supposed to happen and nothing does. (Victor 20-3375.)

Jo Stafford and the Starlighters

SSSOn the Alemo SSSOn the Beguine

JJ Begin the Beguines Jo and the Starlighters are be-ginning to achieve team status on records as well as on the air, and it becomes both of them. Both Alamo and Beguine are fine tunes, the Weston scores are pretty, and performance follows quite natu-rally. (Capitol 15410.)

then intimate, vocal style can get hold of, and he does a slick job. Comme Ci is on the syrupy side as a tune but he makes it sound twice as good as it is by alternately snuggling up to the mike and ang-ing it out and turns the side into a potential big seller as well as an artistic success. (MGM 10377.)

RECORD REVIEWS

Kay Starr

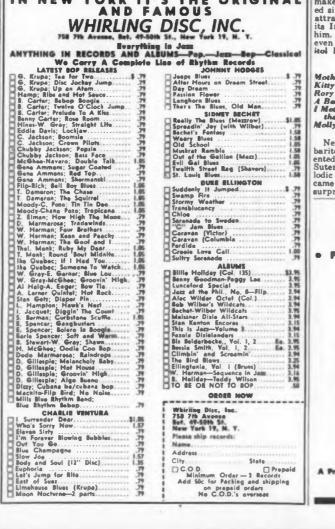

SSS You Broke Your Promise SSS Second-Hand Love

Kay sings the rhythmic Promise in her best Kansas City style only with the overtones of 1949 sophis-tication that make her such a unique stylist. Love is a Benny Carter tune with Paul Vance lyrics that shows off the blues side of la belle Starr's personality. (Cap-itol 15380.)

Johnny Bradford

SJI Get Up Every Morning SJ Jalousie

I J Jalousie We've got nothing against Vic-tor's Johnny Bradford, but his pleasant voice lacks the impact of a positive style and it's hard to see where much will happen until he finds a way to stop sounding like every other singer on the air. (Victor 20-3378.)

This is a well-thought-out al-bum, with the happy combination of a singer that understands the Irish way and an arranger who has fashioned backgrounds that are at once realistic and modern

Derry Falligant

SS Wind in My Seile SS Be Mine

Derry, the intense troubadour, warbles both the sweet ballad Sails and the Italiano flavored Mine in his most urgent style, and though he does have a pleasant voice, does he have to whistle? Hugo Winter-halter accompanies. (MGM 10375.)

In Stafford Gordon McRae

55"A" You're Adorable 55 Nord You

I I Nead You The team of Stafford and Mc-Rae is beginning to profess an overly cute format with tunes like Adorable, but the affectation makes for painful listening for those who like Miss Stafford as a singer along more conventional lines. And there's a sort of elbow-in-the-rib, knee slapping atmosphere emanating from these grooves that, unhap-pily, could be appealing to John Q. Nsed is slower and a real bundle of schmalts for the duo. (Capitol 15393.)

Tony Martin

J The Bells in Her Earrings J Comme Ci, Comme Ca

J i Comme Ci, Comme Ca The combination of the earrings that went "ting-a-ling" a most re-volting song, and a T. Martin who soars, dipa, and slides from note to note makes the topside of this re-lease overstylized and pretty moldy. The other side is a shade better, but the characteristically odd intervals of the tune suffer from Martin's poor marksmanship. The Jud Conlon singers help out on the latter. (Victor 20-3367.)

Clark Dennis

III Galway Bay II O'Leary Is Leery of Fallin' in Love

I i Charry is Levery of Fallin' in Love Clark Dennis probably would find it more profitable to be a bari-tone if he had anything to say about it, but he is probably the most acceptable tenor in the pop field. There's no stress and strain and no throaty high ones in his vocal makeup-just good, tasty, unaffect-ed singing and by an exceptionally attractive set of chords. Bay with its Irish flavor is a good tune for him. Levery is a little too obvious even as an admitted novelty. (Cap-ieol 15403.)

Dinah Shore J I Pos Been Hit J I Porever and Ever Hit is a light novelty that was waxed fairly early in 1947 and held over for release until now for some reason or other, while the hearts-and-flowers waltz, Forever, is of more resent vintage. Dineh Shore

Alfred Drake 111 So in Love 111 Wen Thins That Special Pers Alfred Drake, of the original cast of Kiss Me, Kate sings Love, and Thine in a rich baritone voice with all the Victor technicians and music department behind him de-termined that this shall be at least equal to the Columbia version-which it is. (Victor 20-3352.)

Helen Forrest J Why Is It? J Why Is It? J J I Don't See Me in Your Eyes Anymore The usually consistent Mias For-rest occasionally sings a trille flat in front of a woodwind background that might easily cause it on Why but does a thoroughly competent and sympathetic job on Anymore. (MCM 10373.)

(MCM 103/3.) Johnny Mercer J f My Heart: in the Middle of July J The New Ashmoleum In spite of a bright, interesting zeore, Mercer sings July in a som-ber, almost preoccupied mood. Ashmolean, the Frank Loesser novelty from Where's Charley? makes no attempt at anything but nickel grabbing with its march tempo etory about the marching society and students' conservatory band. Columbus—The many drumming styles show that rhythm is not lagging in keeping abreast of new musical trends. How-ever, many drummers lag in their comprehension of new drumming techniques. Assuming that all are familiar with and practice the rudiments of drum-ming, we'll turn to the subject of Vaides Newest ming, we work. Many drummers complain about a lack of ideas when soloing. A se-rious hindrance to a flow of ideas is a fear of playing an unsteady solo, and the fear of all fears; playing more or less than the num-ber of measures allowed for the New York—Latest leader to turn to platter spinning is Miguelito Valdes. Valdes is doing an hour-long jockey show in Spanish six days a week on WLIB. When he goes on the road in about five months, he'll transcribe his between-disc chatter.

ber of measures allowed for the solo. Playing 32 bars in a relaxed fashion, without fears of running over or under, is a feat that must be learned by steps. First, pend a week playing two and four-bar breaks at various tempos, count-ing the measures out loud. After getting the feel of the four-meas-ure unit, drop the counting. Perfect this four-measure unit until you know without a doubt that you played four measures and four measures only. Then take up the same slow proceas with eight measures until it is possible to play an eight-har solo entirely free of the thought of the number of measures in-volved ... yet, unconsciously, you know it is eight on the nose. Getting into a 16-bar break is marely a mental repart of the sight-bar sequence. Take another repeat for 24 and still another for 32. The final 82 will come about ago, attracted a lot of interest. One ago, attracted a lot of interest. One drummer suggested the notation might be confusing. He referred to our using an eighth note pattern similar to measure two in example I rather than the eighth note pat-tern in measure eight of example I.

I. However, one notation is as good as another. It is up to the individ-ual drummer to learn all the varia-tions in musical notation. He should be able to grasp the many different ways drum scores can be written be written.

be written. Example I is a test to see how steady you maintain your rhythm. Example II shows a few exercises for better stick control. Start slow-ly, increase speed gradually, hold at top speed and then reduce speed back to the starting point. (Ed. Note: Sand questions to Alem Abel, 32 Isth arease, Columbus, Obio. working upwards? Considering ments (excluding accordion, vibes, w etc.) here is our idea on the sub-ject: You must start out with a basic, fundamental rhythm section, and we consider the bass fiddle to be of prime importance here. For the next instrument, of course, either a piano or guitar, depending upon the availability of musicians. Then we'd add drums and then the missing guitar or piano. If the band is larger than six men, we'd prefer having the piano before the guitar. Now to the melody instruments. The first one we'd use would be a tenor sax. Producing a soft, mel-low sound, it is definitely prefer-able where only one melody instru-ment can be carried. Next addition is a trumpet. Also a good melody instrument, it can be used in duets or obbligato with the tenor. We'd then add an alto sax, dou-bling clarinet. This would be the start of our three-part voicing. Again, another alto men doubles on baritone sax, you can get a simu-lated tenor lead band sound. Next, a trombone. Interesting duets can be written between trum-pet and trombone, and the latter adda to the general ensemble line. Naturally, the trombone is a very effective melody instrument. Our next suggestion is another trum-pet. This will give three-part harmony is available in the ensemble effect. We'll continue this subject next issue, and when we've finished, we'll discuss actual score examples on each possible instrumentation as well as different other combina-tione. And remember: If a brass pas-sage takes the trombones to high.
