Whats The Word Names Barnet Ork As Second Prize

Charlie Barnet will be the second prize in Down Chicago-Charlie Barnet will be the second prize in Down Beat's gigantic "What's the Word" contest! Through arrange-ments with the Mad Mab himself, and his manager, Eddie Green, Barnet and his 21-piece dance band will be delivered to the second prize winner in his or her home town anywhere with-in continental United States, and will play gratis for one evening. Can't Commercialize As previously stated in the rules, the winner of this band will not be permitted to commercialize on the tree engagement, may charge ad-mission only if the entire proceeds are donated to some recognized charity. The winner may hire or promote a hall and invite all his friends and neighbors to a free dancing party, or may hold a block party in front of his own home by making arrangements with the city authorities.

making arrangements with the city authorities. "What's the Word" contest is a competition set up for readers of Down Beat to select a new word to replace the term jazz, which musicians and writers regard as outmoded. The new word will be used to designate all of our music from Dixieland to be-bop. The first prize will be $500 in cash, but, if the winner is a subscriber to Down Beat, the amount will be doubled and he will receive $1,000. The same is true of five other, eash prizes in amounts of $100, $75, $50, $25, and $10. Each of these will be doubled in amount if the respective winners are Down Beat subscribers at the time they submit their entries. A subscrip-tion blank will be found on page 15 of this issue, for the conveni-ence of those readers who wish to subscribe at the time they enter the context. Everyone Eligible

'Square' Produces Condon TV Shot

By JOHN S. WILSON

New York—One of the earliest television shows to be hailed for its imaginative production was Eddie Condon's Jazz Concert, which bowed on WPIX last fall, moved to NBC dur-ing the winter. Since imaginative production still is a pretty rare quality in TV, general im-pression after the first few shows directing the Condon bashes. The man at the helm was Clark Jones. And, Lucely speaking, no jazziat he. He had never heard Eddie Condon before the first show was tossed at him as a routine ssignment. "I'd never heard any music like "I'd never heard any music like York-One of the earliest television shows to be Ford Leary Dies; New York—First setback for the Afro-Cuban influence since several leaders suffered a rush of bongos to the brain last winter came last month, when Charlie Barnet dropped his conga player, Carlos Vydal. At press time, Barnet was uncertain about a replacement but definite that it would not be an-other conga man. Probability is that he'll bring in a guitarist instead.

assignment. "I'd never heard any music like it before," he says now. "All I'd heard were big commercial bands, and I couldn't make head or tail of what Eddie was playing." Other changes in the Mab's crew brought Many Albam, who has done many of Charlie's ar-rangements, in on baritone in place of Danny Banks. Drummer Cliff Leeman is out, with Tiny Kahn (from Chubby Jackson) filing in and possibly staying on. Trombon-ist Bob Burgess has left to join Herbie Fields because his recently acquired wife, Connie Gonzales, went with Herbie as vocalist.

Bull Session

Bull Sessions At first, it was all he could do to get the camera on the right in-atrument at the right time. But after long bull sessions with Eddie and Ernie Anderson, Clark began to find out what was going on and began to develop the technique which has become the beat video presentation of jazz musicians at work turned up thus far. Clark found that the show was built around eight to 10 star mu-sicians from the 100 who, Eddie says, can play the stuff. "The stuff," according to Eddie, is not Dixie and it's not swing: it might be Chicago, but not positively. Having learned this much, Clark decided the thing to do was to study the men at work, to show what they do, how they do it, and what they feel while they do it. To get across what the musi-cians feel he uses a hig closeup of

To get across what the musi-cians feel, he uses a big closeup of a man's face when he seems to be hitting a high spot. He studied the various men during rehearsals to discover surface clues to their ex-pression pression.

Difference

Just a Slip "One thing about this 'slump' gives me a laugh. Government heads keep saying 'it's just a little slip to help get adjusted.' Man, that pole we're slipping on is greased." Herman also gets a laugh out of musicians who are complaining about present conditions and say-ing they can't get along. "In a lot of cases," he says, "it's their own fault. I've called count-less guys and offered them jobs at a good salary. So what happens? They say, 'Man, I-sure would like to work with your band, it's great. But, you know, I just can't travel. Can't leave town.' Differences "Each one has a different way of expressing himself," he says. "Sidney Bechet closes his eyes and you can see his eyeballs quiv-ering through his closed eyelids. Along about the third chorus, Pea-nuts Hucko leans way back and starts weaving around. Bobby Hackett usually holds a cigaret in his hand while he plays. I no-ticed this in rehearsal one time and told him to keep it in for the show.

and told him to keep it in for the show. "Jack Lesberg has a unique way of moving his feet, knees, and hipa. Buddy Rich leans forward into his drums and grimaces. Joe Bushkin has an unusual way of tapping his foot."

Tony Scott's Quartet Cate Society Unit Spreads Itself Writer Salutes Displays Versatility

By JOHN S. WILSON

-Clarinetist Tony Scott has brought a versatile New York New Tark—Clarinetist Tony Scott has brought a versatile quartet into Cafe Society to replace the George Shearing quintet which moved uptown to Bop City. Scott is well known to frequenters of the Village cellar, since he was a sideman in Dave Martin's crew there for a long stretch before putting in three months with Claude Thornhill this interm

Main purpose of the Scott combo

Main purpose of the Scott combo is to get dancers out on the floor and keep them there. He's fulfil-ing the mission and putting out a variety of interesting and listen-able music at the same time. Group mixes up society stuff, rhumbas, Dixie, and bup. Except for the Dixie, his offerings are legitimate and topdrawer samples of each style.

Polished

Pelished Although Scott, a rood looking and very personable character, draws attention as the guy in front of the band, the spotlight is consistently played on his planist, 21-year-old Dick Hyman. Hyman is a wonderfully polished and flex-ible Scor, ideally suited to the mixtures which Scott is dishing out. His society plano is smooth and lilting, but full-bodied. He gives rhumbas a solid and hectic attack. And his bop reveals him as adept at the Shearing-styled approach. He moves around in all these as adept at the Succimp expression approach. He moves around in all these fields with apparent ease and gives the group an enormous amount of body and style. Although he doem't seem to have come up with any definite style of his own yet, Hy-man is a pianist who certainly is going to create a stir either as a jazzman or on commercial stuff. Given a little time, he could step into the company of Shearing and Tristano.

Tristano. Scott himself is one of a very limited supply of genuine and tal-ented bop clarinetists. His rough, excited tone fires the up-tempo numbers, which he varies with im-aginative lower register work on the slower pieces. The exception taken to his Dixieland a couple of paragraphs above is based on his rather weird approach to the style. Trade Tuesla

In one Dixie number, he'll play a fairly legitimate chorus, a hoked-up chorus, and one chorus that sounds like a tushk between Pee Wee Russell and the Bird. It's amoorin', Tarry legitimate chorus, a hoked-up chorus, and one chorus that sounds like a tussle between Pee Wee Russell and the Bird It's amoozin', confoozin', and interesting, so there are no complaints from this corner, but it isn't legitimate Dixie, Could be it's the Great New Hybrid. Rest of the quartet is Leonard Gaskins on base and Irv Kluger on drums. Gaskins lends a good, steady hand, but Kluger's work, hen gittle uncertain, with a tendency to drag. Gaskins to drag. Gaskins the could be it's the guartet is leonard steady hand, but Kluger's work, largest crowd in years ... Man-Jack Sheperd

Altogether, the Scott quartet is one of the most adept and capable groups around today. They can play anything anywhere and make the result sound like a lot more than four pieces. And Hyman, if he choosea, can give Shearing a rough run for his money or, if he choosea, be the greatest thing since Eddy Duchin.

But it did look—and sound—good for a Drummer Wally Piper, who owns the Pied Piper's, hired the following Miami talent for those Sundays at his spot: The Buddi Satan trio—a technically brilliant piano, guitar, bass group that con-cerns itself with startling velocity; the Mark Marks big, young, pro-gressive band—a flash outfit drawn mainly from New York musicians atudying at Miami U: and the Rollo Laylan two-beat combo, star-ring Tommy Justice on trumpet. General interest in the proceed-ings, as tabulated on the cash reg-ister, indicated apparently that the idea was good, but not good enough. Clyde Still Works

THE WORD JAZZ IS OUTDATED CAN YOU THINK OF A NEW TERM?

Yes, Down Beat will pay $1,000 in cash to the person who coins a new word to describe the music from Dixieland through Bop! And 25 other big prizes! nter this amazin Ragtime, Jazz, Boogie-Woogie, Dixieland, Swing, Be-Bop! Most of these musical terms have lost much of their original significance, to the distress of musicians and writers alike! We need a new term to describe our music—ALL of our music regardless of the school to which it belongs! What word do you suggest?

FOLLOW THESE SIMPLE RULES

THE WORD?

Think of a word which you believe could catch on as a substitute for jazz. It need not be newly coined (as bebop), might already be in our vocabulary (as swing was). Write it in the official entry blank below and mail it to: What's The Word?, c/o Down Beat, 203 North Wabash, Chicago I, III.

Each entry MUST be accompanied 2 by a latter of from 20 to 200 words, stating what you believe the term jazz means today and to what section of our music it should be applied, if it is to be retained at all. Our judges will base their decisions upon the excellence of these letters, as well as on the words.

You may submit as many word 3 suggestions as you please, but each must be written on a separate official blank and accompanied by a separate letter. In case of ties duplicate prizes will be awarded. This contest closes at midnight on August 31, 1949. Employes of Down Beat, Inc., and John Maher Printing Co. and their families are ineligible.

You need not be a subscriber to enter this contest. But if you ARE a subscriber and win the first prize of $500, it will be doubled and you receive $1,000. Same is true of five other cash prizes of $100, $75, $50, $25 and $10 to be awarded. Use the blank on page 15 to sand in your subscription with your entry. Charlie Barnet and his 21 piece dance band will play one evening FREE for the second prize winner. Third prize will be services of a name combo for one night. Dinner and dance dates with name vocalists in New York, Chicago and Hollywood will be included in the prize lists, with 15 valuable gifts of merchandise, such as television sets. Norman Granz' $25 The Jazz Scene albums, sets of 10 JATP albums worth $50, portable radios, record players and tickets to JATP jazz concerts. Read pages 1 and 16 in this issue of Down Beat for further details on rules and prizes.

Philadelphia—Top musical aggregation at Temple univer-sity here is the 16-piece crew of Bill Parson. This versatile group has been highlighting Temple social events for the last they were inked in—made the own-ers wish they had taken up the second week option. Garner Signs With New Booking Agency

Hollywood—A new booking firm has been set up here by Al Posner, Murray Albert, and Mack Lewis under the name of Variety Artista, Ltd.

Ltd. Chief music name on their roster is that of Erroll Garner, whose first date for the new firm will be an engagement at New York's Two Deuces, starting July 21.

By CHARLES EMGE Hollywood—The Barkleys of Broadsoay is a good example of the futility of spending much time trying to point out what's wrong with the movies in general and filmusicals in particular. We would have passed it up as not requiring any comment had it not been for the headlines in the trade press (some-time we wonder just what the movie trade press trades in) about the grosses it has been piling up in key theaters. Nevertheless, we wonder how it

Music Slump Isn't

All Patrons' Fault

(Ed. Note: The question, "What's happening to the music business, has in particular?" has been causing much scratching of heads and lementing the last several months. But few solutions have come up as to what can be done. In answer to, and adding to, Down Beat's recent aditorial on the problem, Phil Bernard, of Madison, Wis., submitted the following. We think it makes some good points.)

The general opinion seems to be that bad business is due to a national trend in buyer resistance, which is affecting every business. Sound logic is no doubt used in coming to conclusions of this kind, but I think it goes a little deeper

Night club ops are, almost without exception, cutting their wn throats, and they are doing it consistently in the follow-

Acoustics. Music just can't be heard with any semblance of balance in the typical night spot. A potentially steady cus-tomer who knows what he is missing won't come back. He would rather listen to records, which are cheaper and sound much better than the live talent. The ops should consult acoustics experts and get straightened out. Musicians have a great deal of the public apathy to blame on themselves. They don't seem to realize or care that the audience is aware of the musical snobbishness and the patron-izing attitudes so many of them harbor. Jazz musicians have the idea that if the public doesn't catch on it's just their tough luck

What musicians forget is that the public is raised on tripe and isn't aware there is anything wrong with it. They have to be educated. The only band leaders who spend any time or effort in developing a following seem to be the Kommercial

Believing myself to have been the source for that bit of informa-tion, since I raised the matter in the April issue of the Record Changer, it is perhaps unfortunate that I di not make it plainer that I regard compositions published before 1899 as distinctly pre-rag-time in character. The 1884, mentioned for what I believe was the first time, referred to Gunar's New Coon In Town, published by S. Brainard in that year. The composition was a syn-copated dance arrangement, along one-step lines, of an earlier song of little intrinsic merit. A more interesting number, as

A more interesting number, as R. J. Carew has pointed out, was Bamboula, Danse des Negres, written by Louis M. Gottschalk before the Civil war. Significantly, it was inspired by dances Gottschalk had observed as a boy in New Orleans' historic Congo square. Both Tom Turpin and William Krell are credited with having published ragtime compositions as early as 1897, but their efforts lacked the maturity of Scott Joplin's first compositions, published in 1899. These early compositions were, strictly speaking, transcriptions or collaborations, Joplin functioning largely as an arranger. However, within a year or two, Joplin came into his own as a writer of genu-ine force and originality. Kay C. Thompson

Besides singers, the club orchestra is confronted every two weeks with an array of co-medians, magicians, jugglers, dancers of all types, ending with an endurance contest between the line of girls and the band. Evolution Of Jazz

In addition to being the birthplace of auch publicized cornet and trumpet men as Buddy Bolden, Bunk Johnson, and Louis Armstrong, New Orleans claims an overwhelming number of pioneer horn men as native sons. A partial listing of the many Delta virtuosi includes Freddie Keppard. Tommy Iadnier, Natty Dominique, Joe (King) Oliver, Manuel Perez, Henry (Red) Allen, Kid Rena, Wooden Joe Nicholas, Lee Collins, Punch Miller, Kid Shots Madison, Emmett Hardy, Mutt Carey, Monk Hazel, Vahrkey Bonano, Paul Marea, Wingy Manone, and Niek LaRocca-all of whom were born in N.O. or neighboring towna. Many N.O. veterama surviving today have retired from music entirely, and the ranks of the few still active musically are rapidly becoming depleted.

• Keppard, one of the more powerful cornetists of all time, died of a lung ailment in 1932. King Oliver, whose accomplishments in the jazz field are legend, died penni-less and forgotten in Savannah, Ga., in 1938. Tommy Ladnier, who studied cornet with Bunk Johnswn and later gained fame with Lovie Austin's Blues Serenaders, Oliver, and Fletcher Henderson, died in obscurity in 1939. Mutt Carey, present on the sarliest Kid Orry recardings, suc-cumbed to a heart attack in September, 1948. Kid Rens, whose album of N.O. perennials, first released on the Delta label in 1940, became a must for collectors, pased away in New Orleans recently as did Kid Shots. Others, like La Rocca and Mares, retired from music years ago.

ITT

• New Orleans traditionalist, Lee Collins, has long been overlooked by music patrons due to an almost negligible output of recordings, rather than any lack of ability. Lee, who at times sounds as much like Armstrong as Satch himself, has been a fixture at Chicago's Victory club for the last several years, except for a short stimt with Kid Ory in 1948. The Victory, which attracts as fine a collection of characters as ever stumbled up North Clark Street, has played host in recent months to many jazz lovers and visiting musicians who find the musical satisfaction gained in braving the surroundings well worth the effort. Mix Hits Hysterical High—Wolff

By D. LEON WOLFF

DOWN BEAT

Chicago—I never thought I would sink to a counter-re-buttal, but Mike Levin's article (Down Beat, July 1) goes too far. He has hit a new high in hysteria; his venomous, slanted. Peglerian counter-criticism makes no sense whatsoever, and only succeeds in throwing light & his own prejudices, which, the sound of his deathless , are somewhat more violent than most. I can really conceive of an ex-cellent, mature reply to my article being written by one who listens to jazz with different emotions than I do. The violent Mr. Levin, however, is clearly incapable of such writing.

Written Sincerely

Written Sincerely Let's dispose of one thing first. I don't expect Levin to believe this, but my stuff has never been writ-ten to "cause comment," to "get a rise out of (Levin) or any other Beat reader," to "clamor for at-tention," etc. I've never given a dama what anybody thought of my articles. They have been writ-ten in absolute sincerity. I'm desolated that Levin dis-approves of my style, which seems to have given him false impres-sions. Each thing has been written with one thought in mind: to make a point which I hometly be-lieved mesded making, regardless of majority or unanimous opinion to the contrary. With one exception (Dizzy wasn't with Lunceford; so sorry) verything I asid in that leat ar-ticles still goes.

ticle still goes. Using gutter invective that must stir the envy of every high-school sophomore planning to write anonymously to his Latin teacher, brandishing $100 bets with the in-difference of a Wall Street plung-er. Levin has created an argument which adds up to this: Wolff says bop amells, but he can't prove it.

What Do You Want?

Levin knows everything I've maid in every article has been opinion, pure and simple-not ar-opinion, pure and simple—not ar-rogrant gospel. The idea of trying to "prove" a critical point in music, which means all things to all men, is utterly fantastic. By demanding this of me, when he most assured-ly knows better. Levin classifies his argument as nothing but in-fantile hypocrisy. With perfect clarity we see a lad trying not to be honest, but to win an argument.

What la Logic?

What ls Logic? Levin talks of logic. What is logic, Mr. Levin? What is logical musical criticism? Prove that Arm-strong's greatness is a "measur-able fact." Prove that current bop contains more "ease" than it did three years ago. Suppose I believe, and I do, that today's bop is more pretentious and shallow than it ever was. Prove me wrong, Mr. Levin. Levin ever was. Frove me wrong, Mr. Levin. Prove that my opinions, which I hold quite earnestly, are "inde-fensible." And what is an "idea analysis." Michael? What are good, bad, old, and new ideas? Prove that Eager hat a better score than Goodmar. And what are their scores...to three decimal places? I leave proofs to Levin who, as one can plainly see, has a steel cab-inetful of proofs to demolish the "emotional," "fallacious," "unjust-ifiable," "tawdry," " in su lting," "misin formed," "uncorroborated" "buck hungry" (this one killed me --check up on the terrific rates I way? No Ivory Tower The Master, a logician. has a cretinish device for refuting flat cretinish device for refuting flat of the simply makes a flat counter-statement of his own. In effect, his entire argument fol-lows this ineffably childish pat-tern. Yet, the Master talks to me of "emotional, logically fallacious, esthetically unjustfable criticism." of "fair, decent, informed criti-dism." Surely I will be excused my doubts that this hysteric belongs in such an ivory tower. I caimed the tone of most bop musicians is bad, their taste du-biotos, their ideas repetitive, and so often deliberately gauche, and so ne lots of bad musicians." But, Master, I didn't mean that bop-pists were alone in their faults. This is terribly elementary, Levin, but I implied that more bop is in but I implied that more bop drum-many of my friends and musical sasociates). Levin says, in effect. "No, it isn't!" Period.

Who Brought It Up?

"No, it isn't?" Feriod. Who Brought It Up? I said lonpists are deficient in playing the blues. The Master says blues aren't sufficiently "harmoni-cally complex" for bop... "and if bop does not turn out good jues, it may turn out good jazz else-where." But who brought that up? What kind of silly answers are these? I still ask, where is the classic bop blues to match the classic blues of jazz and swing? I said third-raters and un-knowns of yesterday are today's geniuses of bop. The Master re-plies characteristicnly that this is "obvious stupidity," but fails to meet the implied challenge. It's incredible that a so-called critic should lay himself open with the bald statement that young boppists of today are "more ad-vanced technically" than erstwhile swing geniuses like Goodman and Hodges. I'll state dogmatically that this is pure baloney. Let's Face It Let's Face It this is pure paroney. Let's Face It Let's face it: There are no pre-mises in jazz, other than those so obvious mechanically that they needn't bear discussion. Who are you, Levin, to enunciate the rules by which my opinions become, as you so delicately phrase it, "gar-bage" and "sputum?" My reactions are based on sub-jective criteria which I'm not puer-ile enough to try to foist upon others. Whether or not I rubber-stamp every sentence with an "I believe," the inference is there for all to understand who care to un-derstand, provided they have the rudimentary sense to understand. Bearing the above in mind, one must absolutely concede that my article was ethically justifiable.

up to the minute BULLETIN" $1.00

My musical tastes? They'll stand or fall on my collection of some 600 carefully selected discs from the Hot five to bop, inclusive. The fact I have always dis-agreed with Levin's major jazz premises is of little importance, since they are open to the usual tiresome controversy. But there cannot be much controversy about his literary aptitudes. I doubt if his literary aptitudes. I doubt if it can be denied that the Master has earned the dubious honor of having written the most irrational article ever to appear in the Beat.

New York—Since the war, this column, in various hands, has screamed at the bop musicians that they must learn to play with greater ease and more sense of re-laxation. It has been maintained steadily here that, in addition to the tonal deficiencies and lacks in techniques such as reading, the younger musicians have had no comprehension of reatraint or taste in execution. This has often been difficult to maintain, since when the musi-cisns cited quite properly ask for samples of who is doing it correct-ly, it is extremely hard to find same. Jazz since the war has too often been a hard-pressed, strident affair, either making noise for money or else striving to cover up musical deficiency by tonal brag-gadocio.

gadocio. It is therefore pleasing to re-port that this is no longer the case. Not only have most of the younger musicians started to learn them-selves, but last week I heard a unit which offers a fine example of what to do and how to do it.

of what to do and now to do it. George Shearing has been highly touted by this writer several times before. But his new band, which has just appeared on re-cordings and currently is stealing the show at Bop City here, is a pleasure to hear and a joy to re-view.

First of all, this is a happy band. These people enjoy playing together. Secondly, they have a sense of humor about what they are doing, do it with ease and no tension. Thirdly, the rhythm sec-tion of Denzil Best (drums), John Levy (bass), and Chuck Wayne (guitar), swings, bops and, most important of all, stays out of the way of the soloists.

as important to music as any other art. For wax samples you might try three different companies: the old-eat is a nice version of So Rare by Shearing on Savoy, with another, out more recently on London, Poinciana, using band. His most recent, September In The Rain (MGM), while lacking the warm presence it has in a room (a prob-lem primarily of choice of micro-phones), will give you an idea of the present tendencies of this group and how it is developing. It is to be most fervently hoped that its booker, Billy Shaw, will get up off his rusty-dusty and do some-thing about this crew. They are one of the few good things in the country at present musically that has good commercial possibilities as well. The music is blues, with a curious mixture of riffs 11 Journey to Brasil Ecuador will unfailingly remind you of Ellington's Caravan. It's an old Kenton side, since both Kai Winding and Vido Musso appear on it. Brazil is a Pete Rugolo score, with some very pretty gui-tar by Laurindo Almeida included. Just once, couldn't Kenton brass ever make an entrance at less than a scream? I still say Rugolo is a good musician, too given to con-stant striving for climax with this band, and too little attention to writing which would let that cli-max come naturally. The record was reissued recently in Decca's Lunceford me-morial album. Get it and compare it with this. Dorsey's band does an excellent job, but the feel just ain't there. Willow is another of these Bill Finnegan tight, clipped phrase affairs like the recent Con-tinental, achieving its drive from its tightness rather than its relax-ation. It certainly is a credit to the Dorsey band they can turn out a record with two sides so com-pletely dissimilar in feeling and nave them both come off. Cool Blues Album Rating—JJJ This is Dial records' first LP side, with 13 tracks by Bird (3 of Relaxing, two each of the others). All of these records have been pre-viously issued, and, while with the additional takes it is interesting stuff for students of Parker, it still is an expensive buy for the music involved. Then, too, Ross Russell has annoyingly coupled these so that there is no complete previous record on the LP platter. Thus, you can't replace present records in your collection with the LP, and if you want the other side of a disc with one dubbed on this platter, you have to shell out a buck for a record, one side of which you already have. This may Wayne's guitar work, always good, is even better now. Commercially he has enhanced things by starting to sing in a very tasty fashion, bearing some resemblance to Sin-atra, but with more power and less breathing.

Margie Hyams (vibes) has im-proved astonishingly. Her tone and flow of ideas are more continuous less strained. She says this is pri-marily due to the rhythm section, that for the first time she is play-ing in front of men who play to help her, rather than star them-selves.

Shearing, himself, continues to make the most astonishing im-provement I have ever heard. Two years ago he was playing mediocre imitations of Tatum. He is now a still-developing pianist, with ele-ments of Tatum, Garner, bop, and many other things in his playing. Most impressive of all is his en-thusiasm and drive while playing. It is this factor that makes him both a more commercial and en-joyable musician than Lennie Tris-tano. Tristano, while a fine pian-ist with subtle and interesting ideas, lacks this feeling of commu-nicative enthusiasm which is just

J.J.A., I will Tell You, Mother —Variations This is the same tune to which you learned your ABCs and Doh-nanyi used for his wonderful Va-riations on a Nursery Theme. This particular set was written by Mo-zart, and is sung with most metallic and unsympathetic tone by Lily Pons, with hubby Andre Kostela-netz batoning. The second side is a bit better. though her vibrato is out of hand occasionally. Being a coloratura is a demanding art. The section marked A Little Bit of Sin, done a læ Golliwog's Cake Walk, will show you how complete-ly Gould has missed the spirit of the revival meeting and its Freu-dian release. Shortin' Bread could hardly be called an apt soli line for this. The Protest is obvious and almost banal. The Jubiles is, again, a tasteless mess, using a boogie ground bass carried out and estended into the treble by trumpets. New York — According to the chronicles of the time, Vienna, in the 19th century, was a gay place of whipped cream and three-hour a sense of well-being almost ex-clusively the city's own. Granting the exaggeration of passing time, how is it that Eugene Ormandy, a former student of the Budapest Conservatory and now conductor of the Philadelphia or-chestra, never learned these things? My 1 offer as a sample Orman-dy's LP release of Strauss Over-tures and Waltzes (Columbia ML 2041). Unlike the deathlike threnodies purveyed by such sturdy American chuggers as Wayne King, the Vien-nese waltz is supposed to be light, airy, to have an impish infectious-nese waltz is supposed to be light, airy, to have an impish infectious-nese waltz is supposed to be light, airy, to have an impish infectious-nese waltz is supposed to be light, airy, to have an impish infectious-nese waltz is supposed to be light, airy, to have an impish infectious-nese waltz is supposed to be light, airy, to have an impish infectious-nese the steps to the music, double timing, three against two, or half the scountry, a steady tempo is maintained, while the dancer va-ries his steps to the music, double timing, three against two, or half the scountry as teady tempo is maintained, while the phras-nidicated by the music. (Jumped from Page 1) to show who the pianist is by mos-ing in on him: finally, to show his technique with a closeup of the keyboard. Televising musicians, he feels, presents special problems not found in other types of programs.

Stands Still

Stands Still "In a dramatic show, people are moving around," he says. "In a comedy show, there is broad busi-ness. But a musician depends on his musical performance. He's standing still. All his vitality cen-ters around his face or hands." Because of this, and because of the limitations of current small TV screens, the Condon show has featured innumerable enormous closeups of fingers at work. As screens become larger. Jones fig-ures this technique will automat-ically change, since, for living room consumption a hand shouldn't be shown more than life-size. Larger screens will simply mean that you'll see more of the mu-sician. sician

So far, Clark thinks he has just acratched the surface of what can be done in televising musicians. The hand and face closeup has been repeated so often now that it has practically become a cliche. "About all there is left to do with Sidney Bechet," says Jones, "is to look up his left nostril."

Some Color Involved Now that he has done a pretty thorough study of the men at work, he thinks the next step would be to delve into the colorful past of the music. This thought came to him after reading Con-don's book, We Called It Musie, where he learned for the first time that the music had a colorful past. "We could stage one incident from the book on each program," he suggests. "And we could do a lot more in staging vocal and dance numbers except that we lack the budget and rehearsal time now." He thinks big bands should be

Has Doubts He doubts if any half hour seg-ment would be turned over to a band alone. Comics and dancers will be tossed in with them, he thinks, and all the band will have to do will be play music. "A show with a big band will be pretty much like a variety show," he says. Otherwise, you'd just be looking at musicians." Heaven forfend!

Camera concentration in this case, Camera concentration in this case, however, would be on sections rather than individuals. According to Jones, all the big band leaders who have been buying funny hats and working up skits to make themselves video-worthy are wasting their time.

With various alloss of angeom fellow-traveling and Communist leanings. Inasmuch as the general feeling here (especially among those who know onetime pianist Tenney of old) is that Tenney is in the habit of labeling everyone a Communist sympathizer who doesn't support his particular crowd in all poli-ical matters, the report did not cause any real excitement. But there seemed to be a chance that Sinatra, a good Roman Cath-olic and no shrinking violet him-self, might find a way of making Tenney wish he had left Sinatra's name out of it.

Are. by Jack Mason This is a standard-form instru-mental arrangement, and, in addi-tion, contains an optional male vocal background chorus. Lora is a catchy little tune, and the ar-rangement is well suited to it. Brass take off the first 16 and are supported by tasty sax figures. Saxes take the release and are fol-lowed by a tutti. Saxes soli on the repeat, or play cued-in vocal back-ground. Hatted figures from brass also furnish good background ma-terial for the vocal, or saxes. First trumpet plays a written-in solo, voiced with a clarinet above and two saxes below. Glissandos from the trombones supply lower regis-ter support. This moves into a tutti for the last of the special.

Arr. by Carl Brandt The moon, be it over Manhattan, Carolina, or, as in this case. New England, never seems to be un-employed. It is again called upon by the lyricist in this waltz. Cup muted brass and clarinets are the major interest through the first of the repeated choruses. Trombone solos at C, and reeds and muted trumpets furnish color. Reeds take the soli at D. A third ending, after the split choruses, is at-tached for an optional cut to E, so C and D can be omitted. E is for full ensemble.

who just closed at the Ambassador West's Buttery. Jack Salenger, owner of Breezy Point lodge, Brainerd, Minn., found he couldn't get the rhumba maestro in time for his spot'a opening, so Monchito's office, Bill-board Attractions, sold him Kiki Garcia for the summer. Monchito went to Nippersink resort, near Burlington, Wis., and Brown'a Lake, also in Wisconsin, also after Monchito, settled for Anita De-Castro's rhumba band. Billboarders Milo Stelt and Sid Morse followed it up by arranging for various acts to hit the three resorts on weekends, an arrange-ment the operators felt demanded this year by the increasingly fran-tic scramble for business. Career Choice Unlimited

Choice of careers in the music busi-ess is almost unlimited. Excluding the Choice of careers in the much means in almost unlimited. Excluding the job of actually playing an instrument and knocking oneself out on one-miters, or in ballrooms and theaten, this profession offers the wide eyed youngster some of the greatest oppor-tunities he can hope to find anywhere. But he's going to have to work for whatever he gets—at least in the begin-whatever we are a personal management There's the personal management spot for instance. An education in law will help here, though it's far from essential. In some cases even an edu-cation isn't necessary, rather a good solid supply of common sense and oblid supply of common sense and cation isn't necessary, rather a good solid supply of common sense and keen appreciation of the value of a dollar. Personal managers come from all corners. A few were band boys in their earlier days, input their eyes, ears and a few other things open and event-ually acquired the necessary polish and importance to become "indispensable" to some band leader.

to some band leader. Contacts A Necessity One of the most important factors in building a career in this field is contacts. The more professional people the neophyte know-music publishers, newspapermen, disc jockeys, program directors, hotel managers. Itavel agents, printers, et al-the better spot he's in to get places. And contacts are made through in-person endeavor. Unless you're something of a genius, chances are you won't start your career in music as a personal manager, least-ways not for a top name attraction. The Aspirin Aspect

The Aspirin Aspect Another phase of management, which, if you are on your toes at all, will lead to a p.m. deal, is the job of band manager, often called road manager. Young men have been known to the ferm callent directly into this and step from college directly into this spot. provided they've had a background of some band work, booking, promoting some cand work, booking, promoting attractions, and keeping up on things in the music world in general during their pre-professional days. A road managers chore is one of headaches— plenty of 'em--so don't get too many ideas about glamor and grandeur. The guy in charge of the band has his hands full of practically nothing but trouble

To illustrate this point, let's go over a few of the band manager's duties. He has to be at the beck and call of ds, focuses attention on the tre-the leader, cater to his temperament--make sure he keeps all appointments and is on the stand at the proper time. If the leader likes to indulge a little the manager might find his job even tougher than it's supposed to be. In addition to this, be has to herd sidemen together whenever they're sup-posed to be on the bandstand, the bus, the rehearsal stand or any place else. He has to clock the gate when the band plays one-nitera. After intermis-sion, he settles up with the operator, collecting the balance due. Being vice president in charge of road finances, he has to keep a set of books, send in bank deposits, keep in touch with the personal manager and home office y and usually make up the band's pay-roll. He also has a few (dds and ends like arranging for transportation, mak-ing hotel reservations, deciding when the band should make its jump (either after the job or the next morning), and listening to the trials and tribulations of married couples and lovers among those under his care. All in all, it's a thankless job, but almost a necessary experience if you expect to know what the business is all about. The Underdog The band boy, already mentioned.

experience if you aspect to know what the business is all about. The Underdog The band boy, already mentioned, serves under the road manager and just about everybody else. He's the underdog of the organization hut, as happens only in the band business, if he's amart, can make himself as much as the sidemen, since those same horn tooters tip very well if "the kid" gives them good service. The band boy packs the instruments, sets up the bandstand, runs errads, helps the road manager and, if he can find a nice secluded spot where nobody can possibly find him, aleeps. Not many band boys have better jobs in this business than some lads with degrees. Most bands have secretaries, some of the burden off the shoulders of the road manager and are in equally as good spots to graduate to personal management deals or jobs in booking offices. Agents a Unique Clan Booking offices open a whole new management deals or jobs in booking offices. Booking offices open a whole new field of opportunities for those annious to crack the Ulcer Curtain. Places like MCA, GAC, William Morris, Associ-ated, etc., employ hundreds of men and women who are willing to swear away their lives in the interest of good dance music, popular singing, and more money. Again, a college education is not a "must," though it does help more here, perhaps, than in any other phase of the profession except the personal management post. Jobs in booking offices are tougher to get than those with an independent tance band. Contacts mean more in a booker's setup than anyplace else-contacts and a foundation of experience

Again, it's your contacts that count. The best way to make good counts in this field is to have a top notch name attraction as your main client. How to get the client? More contacts. Just to point out how easy handling press relations is, it might be well to mention a few necessary qualifications for a good, thoroughbred publicist in the ork field. First comes a background in newspaper work, with some exper-ience in sports and theatrical reporting. Then a knowledge of all general and specialized media in the U.S.—and a few in Canada won't hurt—both news-papers and magazines. A little experi-ence in an ad agency wouldn't hurt here. Of course, the publicist should know all about priming production processes, typeseting, the making of line and halftone cuts, etc. Ad agency, newspaper, radio station. ballroom, hotel, and theater operation procedure is a must unless the p.a. aims to talk like a dunce when discussing his client in conjunction with working for any of the above. Then comes the inevi-table—contacts. A good publicist must know magazine writers, newspapermen. radio station program directors and disc jockeys throughout the country. Roughly, it will take about five years of road work, going out a few weeks in advance of your attraction. followed by constant correspondence, to estab-lish this goal. There are publicists who are making the goal without such a foundation as was mentioned. But a good foundation will stand you in good stead for a long time—and pave the way for many better spots in this "facinating" music business. Ever Writing Jobs Then there's the journalistic side of the whirt. samples acceptable. A slim chance-but it is a chance, and now and then it works. Equally as tough to crack, unless the aspirant has good inside contacts and knows an unusually large number of top ranking band leaders and singers, is the music publishing field. This is a very large division of the music world, but one of the moat irregular. Best entry is through the stock room with hopes of eventually becoming a con-tact man, usually referred to as a song plugger. The plugger's job is to spend all his waking hours contacting leaders and singers. Selling them reasons why they should play or sing the tune he is currently pushing. This poor guy gets it from all sides—brushed off by the leaders, bawled out by his hoss. foresaken by his left-at-home wife, given up as a bad risk by his in-surance company, denounced by his doctor who is trying to preserve the poor soul's health. One trouble is, of course, that people such as Simon, Ulanov, Dexter, and this writer won't move over. The sources open to a young musician who has had newspaper training, and wants to report on the things he sees around him are very limited. By and large they are dominated by a group which seems reasonably tired in its view-points, no matter how correct their views may or may not be. Accordingly, this writer suggests to the Down Beast editor that he responsibility and the discipline which must motivate a critic's wri-ing as well as the enthusiasm which should epark it. tag is not justified. The criticism for trade papers other than Down Beat, such as Variety and Billboard, is too often tired and inaccurate. The elder baitsmen, such as Frazier, Ham-mond, Avakian, and the rest write very infrequently. And when they do, their writing is largely con-cerned with the glories of the past and dire forebodings for the fu-ture. Bob Bach very aptly summed up ture. Bob Bach very aptly summed up the attitude of the latter group when, remarking about a new El-lington album, he said, "You know, I can remember the day when I would have been down at a record store every day for a week before an Ellington album came out. Now I just can't get with it anymore. Duke's had this batch out for three weeks and I haven't even listened to it yet." George Simon, who continues to weeks and I haven't even listened to it yet." George Simon, who continues to write in his gentle, sentimental fashion, remembers the glorious '30s, admits the skill of present young jazz musicians, worries more about his publishing house and his new business of writing singing commercials than he does tracking down a new trumpet find. Barry Ulanov, who, by the exer-cise of a quite remarkable brand of personal logic, has locked him-self up in a small ivory tower with those young musicians he feels to be the asant gards, has lost a great deal of his effectiveness in that his public is a little bewildered by his shifting bouts of mysticism and icy dogmatism. Ulanov celdom is seen in the rather hack neyed clubs which the New York music seene offers, has been quoted as asying he feels there is little to see or hear. Dave Dexter has said over and offers, has been quoted as saying he feels there is little to see or hear. Dave Dexter has said over and over again that bop is a useleas movement musically, has no future, and that he would like to see a re-turn to the old days of good musi-cianship. In so doing, he too has cut himself off from the body of young musicians who make up the enthusiastic core of jazz followers in this country. Rightly or wrong-ly, many musicians feel Dexter's views reflect a complete lack of interest in today's jazz, say that, after all, they can't eat old Beri-gan records.

after all, they can't eat old Beri-gan records. Bill Gottlieb is happily ambling along taking pictures, Bob Bach producing radio programs, and Rudi Blesh creating polemics to prove that no music has been de-vised since the Congo square dances were abandoned. Of the whole group, only Leon-ard Feather has made a conscien-tious effort to stay up with the changes in jazz and jazz musi-cians. Some may question some of his motives for doing this, but the fact still stands that Feather has espoused the cause of new jazzmen enthusiastically, rightly or wrong-ly.

It is this very lack of enthusiasm on the part of the writers which is such a handicap to the musician-and the field as a whole. The critics sit and say sagely, "No enthusiasm,

Form Jazz Club Washington, D. C.—The Wash-ington Hot Jazz society was formed here last month by 22 of the city's most important jazz col-lectors and fans. The original 22 are listed as charter members but some 200 more are requesting membership. The organization is maintaining strict membership policies and only those who expect to take an active part in promoting jazz ac-tivities in this area will be ad-mitted. The first open meeting is expected to feature three groups of local Dixieland musicians.
