

I Like Way Band Sounds—Duke

By PAT HARRIS

Chicago—"I think discipline is a wonderful thing for anyone who can get it," Duke Ellington said here recently in reference to the recent Beat story on the Ellington band. "But my not getting it now is no different than my not getting it in 1939, or in 1929, for that matter."

The band is much better behaved today than it was 10 years ago. We're not that kind of band.

"Time and again musicians come up to me and say 'No wonder we don't play as well as your men do. We don't have that freedom. They're so relaxed!'"

No Disciplinarian

"I'm not a disciplinarian—never have been. Everybody seems to forget that music is an aural art. A man may have one chorus to play during a night. If I like the way he plays it, I'm willing to pay him for that. If he slouches on stage and looks bored, that's his personality and brute tendencies—not his musical personality."

"Naturally you couldn't have this many varied personalities without an equal number of conflicting personalities. If I didn't like what I'm doing I couldn't tolerate this many maniacs and psychos in one organization."

"I don't believe in telling people who are grownups to do things they should have learned when they were about six years old. To me it seems a waste of time."

Like It Here

"If I didn't like the way this band plays I wouldn't pay so much to listen to it and to write for it. Our band is operating at a loss now. We haven't cut salaries since the wartime high, but I can get everything played I want played with this band. If I take it to the Regal theater, a college prom, to Canada where all they hear are polkas, or to a room like the Empire in California I get a terrific reaction. What more can you do?"

"The other night Johnny Hodges started playing and the chick who was going to sing started crying. Ren Webster had them crying when he played Danny Boy. You don't get that if you're a manufacturer of music. There's a choice between doing with a minimum of distasteful or manufacturing it by imposing a tin soldier discipline. Manufacturing it makes a manufactured music."

"I saw where jazz started from. It came up with me. I know it very well, and I know the people who were in it. I don't think we're out of that stream."

Beaucoup Monotony

"Stage shows? How much can a band play on a stage show? There's a lot of monotony that goes on when you're playing a stage show. And records are only 10 per cent of a band. Records are killing music. A musician who plays what he has played on a record is playing an arrangement, not jazz. I can't go for that record business. The jazz scene is so commercial now. You can't play one chord all night long and keep yourself entertained. I can't be patient with poor musicianship and try to create something at the same time. When I write I want to give Billy Strayhorn a tickle and when he writes he writes with the same attitude toward me. If I started worrying about people who didn't understand..."

"We're always looking to the future. The past and now are over, it's the future that counts."

Down Beat covers the music news from coast to coast.

All-Set Anthony Fills Statler Bill; Keating's, Too

Wingy Case Waits: Arrestors On Trial

Hollywood—Wingy Manone, who hoped to have his courtroom scenes shot and canned so that he could continue his New Sound Dixieland project, has encountered a delay.

The professor's trial, in connection with a vice charge arrest, which was scheduled for July 8, had to be postponed to Aug. 9, as the arresting officers could not appear. They were on trial themselves in a nearby courtroom on brutality charges in another case.

The L.A. vice squad snappers who grabbed the musician and two girl friends in a Hollywood apartment claimed the three were all in bed without pajamas.

Pettiford Breaks Arm At Baseball

Hollywood—Oscar Pettiford, bass man with Woody Herman, broke his arm in four places during a ball game with other members of the band recently. Doctors say it will be at least six months before he will be able to play again.

Joe Mondragon, a former Hermandite, took over Pettiford's book and is expected to remain until Pettiford is able to work again.

'Beat' Gains!

Chicago—What's this talk about a general drop in circulation and sales of periodicals? The current report of the Audit Bureau of Circulations shows that the average sale of Down Beat for the first six months of 1949 represents an increase of 5,827 copies per issue above the average sale for the last six months of 1948!

Danny Polo, 49, Dies In Chicago

Chicago—Danny Polo, 49, clarinet and alto with Claude Thornhill, died in Illinois Masonic hospital here July 11. He had become ill the night before of a stomach ailment. His second wife, Suzanne, whom he married last spring, survives.

Danny, whose home was in Clinton, Ind., worked with Jean Goldkette in the late '20s before going to Europe, where he spent most of the next decade. Polo played with Ambrose in England for some time, during which he acquired a wife, Beryl, and a daughter, Diana.

Polo

First job upon his return to the States in 1940 was with Joe Sullivan's Cafe Society band. He joined Thornhill first in 1942 and worked with him, off and on, since that time. He also played with the bands of Leo Baxter, Ben Bernie, Lud Gluskin, and Jack Teagarden, as well as recording with all-star groups under the aegis of Leonard Feather in England, Coleman Hawkins, and George Wettling here.

A modest, friendly man, the silver-haired Danny combined a formidable musicianship with the sort of non-temperamental disposition which endeared him to his fellow bandmen. "He was a sweet guy, and a superlative musician," says Joe Sullivan. Members of the Thornhill band, working at the Edgewater hotel here, were too stunned to talk.

Tommy Tucker Set For Return To Biz

New York—Tommy Tucker, out of the music business since 1947, is re-forming. He goes into the Capitol theater in August and will follow with other dates.

Couple of months ago he made the first gesture of returning when he started doing a radio version of his old stage gimmick, Sing for Your Supper, on the Mutual network. Tucker spent the time when he was away from maestraing running his electrical appliance store in Asbury Park, N. J.

'What's The Word' To Give Away King Cole Combo!

Chicago—Nat (King) Cole and his pull winning combo, raised from a trio to a quartet by the addition of bongo man Jack Costanzo, will be the third prize in Down Beat's huge "What's the Word" contest. By arrangement with Nat and his manager, Carlo Castel, the unit will be delivered to the home town of the third prize winner, anywhere within continental United States, and will play gratis for one evening.

As stated in previous issues, the first prize will be $500 in cash, which will be raised to $1,000 if the winner was a subscriber to Down Beat at the time he submitted the entry. Second prize will be free services for one evening of Charlie Barnet and his 21-piece dance band.

No Profits

Winners of the Barnet band and the Cole combo will not be permitted to charge admission to whatever affair at which they plan to utilize the free music unless all proceeds are donated to a recognized charity. They may hold a free party, if they wish, and invite all their friends and neighbors.

Since the last issue went to press the RCA-Victor company has added another fine premium to the prize list. It consists of a complete 45 (Modulate to Page 19)

New Jazz Label

New York—Futura, new jazz label, has been launched by Arthur Bangel, owner of the Main Stem record shop. First sides, already out, are by a group of Hermandite men under the leadership of Serge Chaloff. Future releases will include sides cut at Carnegie hall bop concerts supervised by Leonard Feather. Discs sell at 79 cents.

Have A Hart

New York—Gloria Hart has been signed by Tower records to cut some sides with her own orchestra, the Hart Beats. Gloria, vocalist with Art Kassel for many years, is leaving him in September to go on her own as a single. Orchestra will just be used for recording dates.

him in 1941 while doing research for Jazzmen. This led to engagements on both coasts and widespread fame such as he had never known in his greatest days in New Orleans.

Bunk's musical reincarnation lasted through 1946 when he returned home in poor physical and financial condition. He laid down his horn for good in Jan., 1947, except for occasional exercises at his home to keep his lip in shape for the day that never came.

Bunk, born William Gary Johnson, played with most of the famous early New Orleans musicians and worked in numerous bands, including Buddy Bolden's and Frankie Dusen's Eagles.

Spike, Jimmy On The Cover

Spike Jones, the zany, and his mad crew were playing an engagement in San Francisco during the AFM convention there this year. So the musical depreciation expert and his men donned long underwear and went down to serenade proxy Jimmy Petrillo. The scene on the cover of this issue was the result. The raincoat worn by Petrillo was a gift from Spike, "in case he decided to visit Los Angeles later."

Club 47 Keeps Straight With Local Ditto As Place For Sitting In

Hollywood—Famous movie faces lose some of those self-conscious frowns at the Club 47 because no one makes a fuss over them and they can relax and have a good time. Operators, ex-Bob Cats Nappy Lamare, Noni Bernardi and Doc Rando, are shown in the first photo. Saxman Rando (a licensed M.D. who has never taken up practice in California), sax-playing Bernardi who can and does play piano, and guitarist Lamare work in the band. They pay employees' tax to the union so that, with drummer Zutty Singleton and pianist Lee Countryman, spot has a five-piece unit. This, under Local 47 rules, means that five guys can sit in for fun. Watching one of the sitters-in, Mesdames Phil Harris, Frank Remley, and Walter Scharf, are in the second photo. What they were watching was Phil Harris, third picture, who was and still is an excellent drummer—as well as being one of the most accessible "names" to former bandmates, a non-fluffer-off of old friends. Last pic shows former Crosby tenorist Eddie Miller, and trumpeter Irving Lewis as working guests; Rando's down front, while Lamare and bassist Artie Shapiro are standing in rear.

THE HOLLYWOOD BEAT

Ex-Bob Cats Doing Okay As Night Club Operators

By HAL HOLLY

Hollywood—All musicians at one time or another have dreamed of owning their own little nitery, a place where they could play the kind of music they liked, the way they liked, for the kind of people they liked. Many have tried it, singly or cooperatively, but rarely have their ventures lasted long enough to attract more than passing attention.

But Doc Rando, Nappy Lamare, and Noni Bernardi, former Bob Crosby Bob Cats who set up the Club 47 out in North Hollywood, are celebrating their second anniversary.

Won't Get Clipped

Not only have they apparently succeeded in a tough business, but they have established a solid little institution that proves again that the kind of place where musicians congregate to play and enjoy their kind of music doesn't have to be operated like a clip joint.

Some of Club 47's steadiest—and most welcome—customers are AAs in good standing, who may, if they wish, make a bottle of coke last for an hour.

Club 47 has two musicians on the pay roll, drummer Zutty Singleton and pianist Lee Countryman. Union regulations permit the three operators to work in the band providing they pay the established salary tax (1½ per cent of scale) to Local 47. Under this arrangement the union holds that, technically, Club 47 employs a five-piece band. This means that up to five visiting musicians may occupy the stand simultaneously.

Originally, Club 47's three co-owners took turns at everything from tending bar to mopping the floor, but they soon found it more economical to hire a bartender. Explained Doc: "It was too hard to remind an old pal he was about to walk out without paying his bill."

But, although they now also employ two waitresses, the boys still pitch in and work as well as play. Says Nappy:

Just About Quit

"It's kind of fun, when it's your own place and you want to keep everything just right. But man, I'll never forget the night I had to turn plumber and go in and fix that thing that got stopped up in the ladies' room. For a little while I thought to myself, 'this is where I sell out—and cheap!'"

DOTTED NOTES—Bob Laine, one of the great pianists of our

New Hit, 'Lush Life,' Is Not New Bud Scott, Ory Guitarist, Dies

Chicago—Nat Cole's recent recording of Billy Strayhorn's Lush Life, a tune with super-sophisticated lyrics and a plaintively pretty melody, has aroused some curiosity about the history of the song, especially since it was learned that it was written more than 10 years ago.

"Lush Life wasn't the first tune of mine Duke heard," Billy says. "In fact, he didn't hear it until just a little while ago. I wrote it in 1936 when I was clerking at the Pennfield drugstore on the corner of Washington and Penn in Pittsburgh."

"It's a song most persons have to listen to twice before they understand it, and then lots of them still don't know what it's about."

Song a Day

"I was writing a song a day then," Billy laughed. "And I've forgotten many of them myself. I was very shy when I first joined Duke," says the still-shrinking Swee'pea, "and would only play those things that somebody would ask for. The only ones who knew the old tunes were my friends in Pittsburgh."

"One night I remembered it and played it for Duke. He liked it, and we've used it occasionally, with Kay Davis singing and myself on piano. I made a record of it once for an album of modern arrangers' works Norman Granz was putting together, but it wasn't used."

"I called it Life Is Lonely, but when anyone wanted me to play it they'd ask for 'that thing about lush life.' I'm surprised it's doing so well, although Cole has a novelty tune on the other side—something rhyming Lillian and William. I don't know which is the A side."

"Cole happened to be cutting some instrumentals at Capitol the day we were recording for the Granz album. He asked me for the Hollywood—Another veteran musician who has been part of the jazz legend since the music was born hit the final bar recently, as Bud Scott died in a Los Angeles hospital July 2.

Scott had been playing guitar and singing with the Kid Ory band until forced to leave his chair by illness many months ago. Ory, who never made any effort to secure a replacement, said he now plans to add another trumpet to the band, which has been playing to a large and enthusiastic following at the Beverly Cavern for almost 10 months.

Other members of the unit are Joe Darensbourg, clarinet; Andrew Blakeney, trumpet; Ed Garland, bass; Minor Hall, drums, and Buster Wilson, piano.

Scott generally gave his age as 59, but was believed to be around 75. He is survived by his widow, his third wife. There were no children.

lead sheet, and cut the record in April."

Of course, what Capitol, Cole, Duke, and general Strayhorn fans ought to do is get a scouting party out for some of those Pittsburgh drugstore cowboys and get the word on some of the early Strayhorn tunes to ask for. This way, it'll take years. —pat

Jimmy's Doin' Okay, Too

Hollywood—An up-to-date photo of song writer Jimmy McHugh, with Metropolitan opera singer Patrice Munsel. Jimmy, who is a chipper chap with the chirps, took it on himself to entertain the whole Metopera company on its recent visit to the coast. Bash, at the Beverly Hills hotel, spotted such film stars as Joan Crawford, Irene Dunne, Elizabeth Taylor, Ann Miller, and Ginny Simms, and opera luminaries such as Licia Albanese, Bidu Sayo, Dorothy Kirsten.

Mills Bros., McHugh Back When

New York—The Mills brothers, publishers, not the singers, resurrected this old tintype of themselves with songwriter Jimmy McHugh when he was plugging their songs back in 1923. That was 26 years ago, four years after the publishing company was founded. Jack Mills is in the center, Irving Mills on the right. Celebration of their 30th anniversary included the promotion of Bernie Pollack to job of professional manager, and the issue of a new catalog containing some 5,000 salable items.

day and a fellow countryman of the late Stan Hasselgaard, is back in L.A. after his sojourn in Sweden. To Ben Pollack: Why don't you start plugging those Bob Laine you have on your Jewel label? . . . Ozzie Nelson's younger brother Don has joined the family circle on the Ozzie and Harriet CBS show. Along with Ozzie, Harriet, and their two youngsters, that makes five Nelsons on one program.

Banjoes are bustin' out all over. The afore-mentioned Nappy Lamare is using his banjo about half the time at the Club 47 sessions. And Eddie Skrivaneck (music director for C. P. MacGregor) plays his stringed skillet on those MacGregor transcriptions he cut with his Sextet from Hunger.

He has a great little band, by the way, containing Georgie Thow, trumpet; Charlie LaVere, piano; Joe Yuhl, trombone; Bob Conzelmann, drums; Country Washburn, tuba, and Blake Reynolds, clarinet.

Should Singers Set Style? Club Quits Cowboy Kick, Returns Jazz

By John Wilson

New York—Is it stylish to be a stylist or do you go farther, being a jack-of-all-tunes? That's a problem faced by every young singer trying to crash the gravy train. Both sides can point to alumni who made the grade and a check with two rising vocalists indicates that the question hasn't been settled yet.

Mindy Carson, currently at the Copacabana, who is Victor's big hope as a top girl singer, is anti-stylist.

Do All Types

"You have to be able to sing all types of songs," she says. "You limit yourself if you become a stylist. You have to be able to do different kinds of things for different audiences."

And she points to Dinah Shore, Jo Stafford, and Peggy Lee to indicate the heights that the jack (or jill)-of-all-tunes can reach.

But Sonny Howard, a recent Arthur Godfrey Talent Scout winner who has been drawing attention on theater dates, figures you have to have a definite style or you can't make it. Sonny had this opinion jammed down his throat. When he started out he was told he sounded too much like Dick Haymes. So he changed a little and found he sounded like somebody else. After this had been repeated a few times, he decided he might as well be an impressionist, so now he has impressions of more than 30 singing stylists in his repertoire.

Even Better

"If you've got a distinctive style so that people can imitate you," says Sonny, "you've got a road company working for you. I think

Mindy Carson

1½ years ago, she added blues, moody things, and special material with a little comedy. But no bop.

"I sing bop only for my own pleasure," she says. "I wouldn't do it in public. I don't believe people's ears are tuned to bop yet—that is, the people in Iowa and Kansas. And they're the ones you have to sell to. You can't base what you do on people in New York. I don't think the people in Iowa and Kansas will ever get tuned to bop."

The important thing, according to Mindy, is not stylizing but getting a good voice in a song.

Be in Tune

"You've got to be in tune," she says. "On a ballad, you have to have sincerity. You can use facial expressions and slight hand movements but I don't think you should move around too much. You have to stay simple and sincere to get across."

Sonny is willing to agree with Mindy to a slight degree.

"Mindy is right to this extent," he says. "Once you have established yourself by being a stylist, then you can switch to things that would normally be outside your style. Then people will listen to you."

Luck or Taste

A genuine, 14-carat stylist, according to Sonny, is a singer whose voice can be distinguished from all others. Getting a style, he says, is a matter of luck or individual taste.

"Like Rose Murphy," he suggests. "When you hear her voice, you know it's Rose Murphy. A stylist is a person with a voice which is so different it can always become the brunt of gags. Rose Murphy is an extreme. Perry

Cops Quell Hamp Mob

Oakland—A shoving, milling mob of 8,000 persons pushed past ticket clerks and rushed the doors of the auditorium here when Lionel Hampton played the spot recently. Cops sent a riot squad to break it up and, when the mess was cleared, it was found about 1,000 got in without paying, while 2,000 were turned away. Total paid admissions hit just under 6,900.

The big jam started at 9:15 p.m., when the A train from San Francisco unloaded some 1,000 persons in front of the building. Seeing the crowd already in front of the auditorium, train passengers rushed the gate, overran the special cop, and thus brought out the riot squad.

Alltime Mob

Observers termed this the all-time mob scene for this area. Hamp drew 7,100 paid admissions last summer at the same spot in a comparatively calm engagement. Had the Sepennaires, promoters of the affair, been able to snag admission from everyone who went through the door this time, a new record would easily have been set. Hamp took some $6,000 out of the total net gate of $11,000.

Band played a great date, with, as usual, several new faces in the crew. Chief among them is Johnny Board, whose fine alto playing makes him one of the big stars of the band.

New Thrush

Also added was girl vocalist Janet Franklin, just out of Wayne university and former staff singer on a Detroit radio station. She should develop into a topflight singer. Jackie Paris, whose trio caused some comment awhile back, also is with Lionel on vocal assignments.

One of the outstanding acts of the group, which is now a show band that cuts other such groups to ribbons, is Eddie Shu, young tenor man. Shu plays a bop harmonica, also has a ventriloquist act with a Chinese dummy that slays the crowd.

Other new men include Paul Lee, local trombonist; trumpeter Eddie Mullins, former Calloway man, and Earl Walker, drums. Walker was with the band once before.

Group Personnel

Personnel of the band is now: trumpets—Duke Garrette, Mullins, Wendell Culley, Walter Williams, and Leo Sheppard; trombones—James Warwick, Benny Powell, Al Gray, and Lee; saxes—Billy Williams, Shu, Board, Bobby Plater, Gene Morris, and Lonnie Shaw; rhythm—Doug Duke, piano and organ; John Montgomery, guitar;

Como is a more ordinary type of stylist."

Although he's earning his living with his impressions now, Sonny has worked out a style of his own which will make its debut as soon as a record deal can be arranged.

Tough Process

"I've been cooking my own style for a long time," he says. "I had to go through a process of elimination. It couldn't be a happy voice, because Jack Smith has that. It couldn't be a punchy, commercial, Calloway style because Frankie Laine has that. It couldn't be the subdued dreamy type because Mel Torme has that. It couldn't be the robust, appealing type because Tony Martin has that. I had to think up something unlike any of the others and I think I've got it. But it's still under wraps."

"Practically everybody coming up now has a definite style. The day of good voices is gone. You don't have to be able to sing. You have to have a gimmick to break through. Today the jack-of-all-tunes is good only for a revue."

Weird Changes

"Some of the stylists have a psychological block about people doing impressions of them. It worries them. One night when I was playing the College Inn, one of the top stylists was in the audience and I did my impression of him. A little later he was called up to do a number and it was amazing to watch him deliberately try to change his established style for that number."

"Well, when they start imitating me, I won't kick. I'll know I'm really in then."

Pied Piper Granz Calls Flock Again

New York—Even with the professional touch of the handkerchief, JATP impresario Norman Granz finds it tough going. Luckily, most of Norman's puffing goes on backstage and behind scenes. Members of his troupe, who will soon start on their fall biga, are tenorists Flip Phillips, Illinois Jacquet, and Coleman Hawkins—all appearing somewhat amused above. JATP albums, including the hard-to-get early volumes and the monumental new $25 job, are prizes in the Best's "What's the Word" search.

Milwaukee—The Stage Door, alias Shorty's Corral, is again the Stage Door. Newly remodeled, it was off to a good start with the Stuff Smith quartet, which opened July 7 for two weeks. Enthusiastic operator, Jerome Di Maggio, vows to stick to jazz.

Bob Palfaito of the Continental threw in his line and came up with a prize catch. Herbie Fields, his boy, opens at the club Aug. 25 for two weeks. Entering July 8, Doc Evans took over for one week. Billie Holiday, expected July 25, was cancelled out.

Low Norm

Not too happy over the outcome of the Armstrong dance which he booked at the Riverview, Norm Ebron blamed the 580 attendance on the hot weather and the high price of the unit. He declared grimly, "With employment being at a low ebb, prices for attractions are too high for the people. Band prices have got to come down to give the booker a chance."

Disbanding temporarily to embark for Sun Valley, Idaho, Jim Nichols opened at the Rancho Thunder Bird with a combo. Switching from trumpet to piano

Cuts Prices!

Jimmy Fazio, hoping to stimulate business at his Towne room, has cut food and drink prices. Stan Olsen, organist, opened July 18, continuing throughout the summer.

Buddy Waples and his orchestra opened at the Empire room of the Schroeder hotel for the entire month of July.

Foxall Five Waxes

Boston—Art Foxall quintet has waxed two sides for Barron records, operated by Ray Barron. Sides cut were Art Blows for Art and Last Night.

Sorry

In its last issue Down Beat reported the Club Continental in Milwaukee had been sold to a group of four businessmen. The story was in error. Owner Bob Palfaito did not sell the club.

Say Sinatra-Axel Partnership At End

New York—Axel Stordahl's long time tieup with Frank Sinatra appears to be at an end. The conductor-arranger, who has backed the Voice on practically all his radio and record work since his rise to fame, definitely is out as leader on Sinatra's new five-times-a-week radio show which starts in the fall.

Following that announcement, Sinatra cut some sides for Columbia at the end of July with Columbia's music director, Hugo Winterhalter, doing the arranging and conducting. No definite statement yet on whether Sinatra will continue to use Winterhalter on his waxing dates, but indications are that his years of collaboration with Stordahl are over.

Roy Johnson, bass, and Walker, drums.

Vocals are handled by Sonny Parker, Janet Franklin, Paris, Lorene Carter, and Herman McCoy. —Ralph J. Gleason

CHICAGO BAND BRIEFS

Fields Has A Hard Time Proving Band Plays, Too

By PAT HARRIS

Chicago—Herbie Field seems to have some sort of complex about proving his musicianship. Herbie is worried that he'll never be able to shake Dardanelia and that Flyin' Home will dog him the rest of his musical life. Anyone who heard Herbie at the Blue Note recently, or who goes out to the northside Silhouette to hear him now can only say "bosh" to Herbie's worries.

Fields is afraid he's gone so far overboard on the showmanship that no one listens anymore. At the Blue Note, you couldn't help listening, and admiring what he's trying to prove. Herbie's is the band that ought to have the Pop for the People tag.

No Weak Spots

And the band is good. Solidly good, without a weak spot. It jumps. The guys like to work together, they like to play, and they're not above showing it on the stand. Herbie, whose band two years ago was described as being a throwback to the powerhouse swing days and "without a trace of bop" is still not in the esoteric vacuum of pure bop and probably will never get there. But the influence has touched all his men, and they ride along with it to get what is perhaps a unique sound.

Herbie has toned down the honks and squeals that went with his antics for so long. He's still not the greatest saxist in captivity, but he's leagues closer than before. Things like his Ghost of a Chance and Talk of the Town leave little to be desired, in tone, ideas, phrasing, all the necessary components.

New Trumpet

Joe Wilder is Herbie's new trumpet man, a Philly boy who started with Les Hite's band when he was 19 and has since worked with Hampton, Lunceford, Lucky Millinder, Gillespie, Sam Donahue (where he played with Fields trombonist Bob Burgess) and with Cozy Cole during Cozy's abortive week at the Music Bowl here last winter. He has a smooth, limpid tone not too common among bop trumpeters, and a nice drive. Incidentally, Wilder is the author of the Ool Ya Koo riff, which he used on blues before he joined Gillespie.

Too Kool

Riff went into Oopapada and later, after he had left the Diz, Wilder heard a record that sounded very familiar. It turned out to be the old phrase expanded into Ool Ya Koo. A little miffed at first, incident now has taken its place in his store of anecdotes about the music biz—a collection to which many other musicians could add similar experiences.

Joe Gatto, piano, and Rudy Cafaro, guitar, have both been with Herbie for more than a decade. Another oldtimer with Fields, bassist Dante Martucci, was scheduled to leave the band to return home to the Bronx. New bassman is Red Keller. With drummer Gene Thaler, and of course Burgess on trombone, that's the unit. With some bookings out of the midwest, and some records (Victor's released none in eight months) Herbie can forget about the old Hampton standards and write his own ticket.

Raymond Scott's band skedded to be at the Blue Note now, and Slim Gaillard was expected to hold over opposite Scott. Doubt if Slim can continue the routine that broke the Note up regularly. Starting as an impromptu joke, the affair was a once-nightly jam of both the Gaillard and Fields units, with Slim taking up a tenor to join Herbie in a rocking duet.

Too Easy

Gaillard has a collection of skills and talents few musicians can equal. If he wanted to concentrate on any one of them, he could frighten writers, musicians, or comedians—depending on which bent he followed. As it is, guy is coasting along on his fair for showmanship. Definitely genius not at work.

Johnnie Pate, bassist, left Red Allen to join Stuff Smith at the Stage Door in Milwaukee. Claude Jones is on piano, and Wilbur Wynne, guitar. Both do vocals.

Former Max Miller bassist Buddy Nichols found a group he enjoys working with, but he had to build it from the basic chords up. Played a job once with one of the boys and suggested some chords. Guitarist Rod Lewis liked his help and when Rod and friends Bill Kelly, tenor, and Eddie Leukauf, piano, got out of school, persuaded Nichols to take over. Result is one of the most pleasing bopish quartets around, though it has taken countless rehearsals to get it that way.

McWilliams Back

Another unit hunting for a job at presstime was that of Skeets McWilliams, guitar; Reid Baker, bass, and Joe Petroselli, accordion. McWilliams, probably top man in Chicago on his instrument, is the ardent Django Reinhardt disciple who worked all too briefly at the Randolph Square here last winter. Skeets became ill and went home to Mississippi for a few months, but is now back and should be working again soon.

Nicky Bias, at what has been aptly described as Chicago's only downtown roadhouse, Ye Olde Cellar, had some shifts in personnel. Eddie Stapleton is in on bass, tenor and clarinet, while Tommy Reynolds took over for Steve Varela on drums. Pianist Ralph Hamre is with the band on weekends. Varela took a unit to Pine Point lodge, Elkhart, Wis., for the summer.

Still holding the stand at the Blackstone's Balinese room, Danny Cassella has Dick Boyell, piano, and Eddie Krochman, accordion, newcomers joining drummer Danny and tenorist Bernie Saber.

Eddie Wiggins, recently at the loop Preview, bought a grocery store and so trio, with him at the Preview, substituted Bob Bleznicki on bass for Eddie's needs when they moved out to the 111 club on Bryn Mawr. Other two are guitarist Fred Rundquist and accordionist Kelly DiCianni.

Replacement at the Preview, the Noteables, was described by the management as "just another piece of machinery," which shows the encouraging interest most such spots display towards their bands. Unit has Dave McFarlin, accordion; Harry Walker, bass, and Russ Stone, guitar.

Accordions No End

Chicago, as a steady reader of the Briefs knows by now, is swamped with accordions. Art Van Damme is the most widely known, though local cats generally put Old Hickoryite Leon Shash at the top for both technique and ideas. From the dozens of others we've heard, only Gene Dudd and Reno Tondelli seemed able to get a sufficiently mitigating amount of jazz feeling into their instruments. What we would like to know is why the current pox on piano? Oh for the time when "trio" brought to mind piano, bass, and guitar!

Dodo Marmarosa out of Scat Davis' Capitol crew and back home to Pittsburgh. Bob Davis from Minneapolis is replacement.

Dallasite Garner Clark on cornet helping the Jazz Ltd. band whoop it up. Sid Catlett, Joe Sullivan, Don Thompson, and Bill Reinhardt blowing the proverbial storm in their little sanctuary.

Shearing to Town

George Shearing at the Blue Note starting August 8, while Woody Herman opens there Sept. 9. Both Max Miller and Anita O'Day out of the Hi-Note, which had no replacing band set at pres-time to back the raft of singers filling the gap. Owner Marty Denenberg says Anita may be back this fall. During the last few weeks Max played there, Don Lundahl was in on bass.

Tut Soper a new face among the Dixielanders at Rupneck's. Doc Cenardo reportedly leaving Doc Evans, who has been working recently at the Continental in Milwaukee. Cenardo has long been eyeing a civil service job in California, and this is probably the time for it. Although Warren Thewis of Minneapolis is probably a fine drummer, we hereby shed a tear for the departing Doc Evans' pianist, Joyce Lacy (McDonald) still ill. Carroll Lee subbing.

Archia On and On

Tom Archia, who has been there seven or eight years, on and off, blowing his tenor at the Mocambo on the southside. Duke Groner's trio subbing for Leon Abbey's unit at Harry's on Wednesday nights. Lil Armstrong may be back at the Nob Hill on weekends by now. She was playing piano there last month.

Regal theater followed Toni Harper and Erskine Hawkins with Earl Bostic, Roy Brown, Herb Lance, Wini Brown, and Chubby Newsom, all there August 5 for a week. July 21 show at the Oriental theater had Penny Singleton, Buck and Bubbles, and Riders in the Sky composer Stan Jones kowtowing to Lassie, who got top billing. They close August 3, when George Jessel, Gene Shelton, and Dorothy Claire open for three weeks.

Andrews Sisters end their stint at the Chicago theater August 4, when the Dennis Day troupe comes in for a week. Vaughn Monroe leaving the Edgewater about the same time, making way for Eddy Howard, who will be there until Henry Brandon takes the band back indoors.

Windfall

Swarms of the innocuous but persistent dragon-fly-like Canadian Soldiers managed to drive both the band and the customers off the Edgewater's Beachwalk one night recently. Claude Thornhill's sax players heard little squishes as they pressed their instrument keys, the singers were afraid to open their mouths wide, and Thornhill had to stop to brush the insects from the keyboard from time to time before everybody decided to call it quits and go indoors. By that time, the drinks were being served with milk-bottle cap covers, and the dancers were sliding and squooshing over the pests.

Palmer House show of the Modernaires, Liberace, and Eddie O'Neal's band will be followed August 25 by Janet Blair, the Blackburn twins, Milton Berle's telephunk Sid Stone, a demanded return date for violinist Maria Neglia, and O'Neal held over.

Westside Graemere has the Eddie Fens four-piecer only in its Glass House. Shows return there in mid-September.

Argyle lounge has closed, after struggling along for months on almost no business. Southside Ritz lounge ditto.

McShane Takes Five

Dick Singler's band playing Fridays and Sundays at the Viking ballroom until September, when Jimmy McShane's popular crew returns.

Clarinetist Wally Wender recently commuted, six days a week, from his job in the art department of a Chicago newspaper to the Hotel Geneva, Lake Geneva, Wis. With him in this endurance test were Dale Nelson, guitar, George Baumann, drums, and Bob Itagland, piano.

Ellington Adds Girl For Rhythm Vocals

Chicago—Singer Lou Elliott has joined the Duke Ellington band on rhythm vocals. She formerly sang with Benny Carter. Guitarist Fred Guy has left Ellington and plans to stay in Chicago permanently. Other bandmen are taking staggered vacations, which may account for missing faces in the unit from time to time.

Dana label has grabbed baritone Hayes Gordon, currently at the Blue Angel (NYC) . . . Addamase Lang, who expects the stork in October, has been replaced by Lynn Burns as vocalist with the Warney Ruhl ork, now at the Flame in Duluth . . . Larry Fotine has inked with World transcriptions.

Illean Martin, who sang with Johnny Bothwell, took Karen Tedder's spot with Red Ingle . . . Art Hodes is playing Mondays through Fridays at the Riviera in Greenwich village . . . Nat (King) Cole and his wife adopted their niece, now expect a sister or brother for her in February . . . Buddy Basch, press agent, has turned columnist for a monthly publication, can plug his own clients, Johnny Long and Tex Beneke.

Capsule Comments

Chicago—Looking as smooth and suave as Ellington, smiling as broadly as ever, Billy Eckstine made his bow in the swank set when he opened at the Chez Paree here.

Probably because of talk that he'd gone as far as possible as a jazz singer, had to make a hit at the Chez or never go any higher, Eckstine was a bit nervous on the opening Everything I Have Is Yours. But on Again he came on strong, singing in great voice. Then, after a jump pop song, Johnny, Get Your Girl, he broke up the show with Old Man River. Caravan and Bewildered followed as encores.

The Chez audience, half of whom probably had never heard of Mr. B, gave him a polite, almost disinterested reception, saying, figuratively, "Allright, sing us a song." But they got off their hands in a hurry when Billy came on like gangbusters.

After opening night he dropped the backing band, using only pianist Richard Tucker for accompaniment. And the change was for the better. Billy needs only his voice to hold a crowd.

Rumors were that the B turned down an offer of 10 gees a week from Norman Granz to sing with JATP so that he might angle for bookings such as the one at the Chez. —jac

Chicago—Latest in the series of disc jockey shows at the Chicago theater found the jocks (Linn Burton, Dave Garraway, Eddie Hubbard, Ernie Simon) back at their painful and time-consuming gags and specialties. Professional entertainers on the bill included Evelyn Knight, Vic Damone, the Trenier Twins backed by Gene Gilbeaux' quartet, and Chicago cafe pianist-singer Al Morgan.

Morgan's appeal, mainly visual, depends on his windmill attack on the piano—with hands flopping to the keys from a height of about three feet above them. He opened show with Smiles and continued in that vein.

Evelyn Knight, with Jimmy Rowles on piano, was both lovely to look at and engaging to listen to. Powder Your Face with Sunshine was followed by "a medley of my Decca recordings" which seemed to indicate that Evelyn has been getting awfully corny under the Kapp guidance. Eileen and the inevitable Little Bird completed her stint.

Trenier Twins' routine includes singing, comedy, dancing, and a race through the aisles by brother Cliff. Hucklebuck and Buzz, Buzz, Buzz were the props around which they hung the act, with Claude doing most of the singing.

Damone sang I May Be Wrong, My Bolero, Again, and "an old Italian song my father taught me." Vic's new voice (see story this issue on nose remodeling which may be responsible) seems to come through less definitely than before, making him sound at times like Frankie Laine—a sonorosity which just doesn't fit.

Thing that knocked us out, in addition to the showmanly Knight, was jock Hubbard's uke-accompanied job on Down by the Railroad Track. A smooth square, that Hubbard. —pat

Vic Set With New Schnoz Shaw Sets New Crew

By JOHN S. WILSON

New York—Vic Damone, who was not doing badly for a kid during the past few years, figures he is now ready to really go places. His new schnozzola, he thinks, will conquer all. Not that the proboscis itself is one of the seven wonders of the world. It's just a plain, old, ordinary nose—which is why he likes it. Minus the jib he used to sport, he has lost his inferiority complex, gotten more resonance in his singing voice, and is ready and eager to try a movie career which he turned down earlier because of his cyranose.

Vic Damone

"I'd had an inferiority complex since I was a kid," he told us in Toots Shor's, running an experimental finger along his new smeller. "I was skinny and that made my nose look even bigger than it really was. Then when I started to sing, I couldn't concentrate on the song. I was worrying about what the people on my right and left were thinking."

Mind Over Matter

His friends told him that it was just in his mind, that he'd grow out of it. But Vic didn't notice anything growing out except his nose. So, four months ago, he called up Dr. Sam Scher on a Friday and had the operation the following Monday morning.

"I had ideas about telling the doc what kind of a nose I wanted," he said. "But the doc said just leave it in his hands. It meant a lot to his reputation because I'm in front of the public all the time. Usually the operation takes about three-quarters of an hour but he spent an hour and 35 minutes on me."

With a local anaesthetic, the doctor fractured Vic's nose, took some bones out, and filed down some others. Then he wrapped it up in bandages for two weeks.

Just the Tip

"While I was waiting, with the bandage on my nose, I could only feel the tip of it," Vic said. "The rest was still numb. I was wondering whether I'd be able to breathe right."

"When I finally saw it for the first time, I was stunned. How would you feel if after 21 years—or all your life—all of a sudden you look in a mirror and see a different face, a whole new personality look at you? I wondered if I ought to change my personality to go with the new face. I tried it for a while but it was a mistake. It didn't work. The first time someone saw me I was embarrassed and self-conscious. I was hoping they'd still see the old Vic, that they wouldn't change their attitude."

"At first I didn't like the new nose. The nostrils were so big. After a week they started to shrink and take form. But every time I passed a mirror or a store window all I could see was a big fat nose. It takes about six months to settle completely."

What Happened?

"Now I'm used to it and I guess I don't look quite as different as I thought I did at first. When I run into old friends who haven't heard about the operation, they say, 'You've changed. What happened? Put on weight?'"

His singing, he thinks, is much better now.

"The operation opened a new passage in my nose," he explained. "It gives me more power and resonance now. I had good resonance before, but this has added to it."

Different Attitude

"And when I work on a floor, I walk out with a different attitude. All my concentration is in singing that song. I know people aren't concentrating on my nose, so I can concentrate on singing. I was nervous the first time I appeared before a group of kids. It was a shock to them. They gasped and then they started applauding. That gave me more confidence. One of them told me, 'You look gorgeous now, but really, kid, we liked you before.'"

A couple of years ago he was offered a movie test by MGM, but he turned it down. The nose, he figured, was not properly styled

New York—Artie Shaw will put his new band into rehearsal in the middle of August to prepare for a 12-week tour starting Sept. 15. Despite previous reports that Shaw would stick to his longhair kick, this will be a strictly non-longhair outfit.

Tour will cover theaters and one-ners, with a few concerts possibly tossed in toward the end. Book will consist of Shaw's old standards with new stuff written in what Lenny Lewis, Shaw's contractor and road manager, terms "the modern groove." "We won't call it pop," he said.

Although only a few of the men are definitely set, tentative lineup of the band at presstime was: Don Palladino, Johnny Bello, and Charlie Pannely, trumpets; Chauncey Welsh, Freddie Zito, Porky Cohen, and Ange Callea, trombones; Tony Ragusa, Frank Socolow, altos; Joe Lagano and Al Cohn, tenors; Danny Banks, baritone; Gene DiNovi, piano; Dick Niveson, bass, and Mel Sokoloff, drums. Guitarist is still to be selected.

Deal being cooked early in July to have Sarah Vaughan travel with the band as vocalist fell through. Artie is still looking for a girl singer. Ambitious thrushes should get in touch with Lenny Lewis at 307 E. 44th street. New York, or call him at MU 9-3800.

for a movie lover. But another screen test is coming up Sept. 1 and, with the new schnoz, this time he's ready.

All Opens Up

"I'm glad I had the operation," he said. "It's been a great thing for me. If I hadn't done it, I would have reached a certain height and stuck there. Now everything's opening up for me."

"I'm not the best looking guy in the world now," he mused, "but at least I know I'm not the worst looking."

New Midwest Org For Leaders Has A Bright Idea

Fairmont, Minn.—This group of "ambitious, wide-awake territorial band leaders" (their own billing) met recently to form the Independent Orchestra Leaders association. Midwest bandmen elected Cliff Kyes, chairman; Jimmy Thomas, vice chairman, and Guy DeLeo, secretary-treasurer. One of the plans the group will try out will be interchanging of sidemen to get more cohesive units. Thus, if a tenor

New Chester Ork Makes Light Two-Beat Palatable

Reviewed at Arcadia, New York

Saxo—Eddie Scalzi, Jimmie Sands, altos; Buddy Arnold, tenor; Eddie Shomer, baritone. Trumpets—Alac Fila, Riley Norris, Gilbert Rapp. Trombone—Harry DiVito. Rhythm—Gene DiNovi, piano; Harry Jaeger, drums; Ted Prashina, bass. Vocals—Allen Foster. Arrangers—George Williams, Billy Marted. Bob Chester—Leader, tenor, and vocals.

New York—After a couple of years on the sidelines, Bob Chester has come back with a band which is on a light two-beat kick. This is no attempt to emulate the old Bob Crosby crew. Chester is not marching down South Rampart street.

One of his aims is to duck one-ners as much as possible, stick pretty closely to hotels and theaters. So what he's concocting is polite two-beat.

His decision to take to the two-beat stump came as the result of several months he put in as a disc jockey in Detroit. When he broke up his last band he became a record spinner because he figured that was one way to stay in the music business.

Two-Beat New

"I was amazed at the number of requests I got for two-beat numbers," he reports. "Once the kids heard a little of it they kept asking for more. Most of them had never heard it before. It was a new sound to them."

So, when he got fed up with platter whirling, he decided to reorganize with a slight Dixieland flavor. He built his new crew around some of his old sidemen—Alec Fila, Eddie Scalzi, Buddy Arnold, and Harry Jaeger—and held the band down to moderate size for a starter.

His book as it stands now consists principally of current numbers, with the ballads given a Glenn Miller clarinet lead treatment and the rest two-beaten in various degrees. So far, he is using none of the old Dixie standards, although he fakes one occasionally and eventually intends to have a few of them in the book.

Remarkably Relaxed

For a new band (two weeks old when caught), this Chester crew is remarkably relaxed. The reed section, in particular, is getting an easy, full-bodied sound out of the Billy Mated and George Williams arrangements. The brass is still a little rough, although Alec Fila, Riley Norris, and Harry DiVito get off some good solo work. The rhythm section hasn't yet achieved the punch that one would expect from two-beaters. However, this may be in line with Chester's intention to pattern himself for hotel work.

Pianist Gene DiNovi, fresh out of Chubby Jackson's bop crew, sneaks in an occasional bop figure, but that's all the obeisance to bop that will be made by this band. Chester is agin' it, calls it the worst thing that ever happened to the music business.

Like Perry

In vocalist Allen Foster, Chester has a road show version of Como. Has most of the Como vocal mannerisms down pretty well and gets them over pretty effectively.

As it stands now, the word for this band is pleasant. Given time, it could turn into one of the most palatable smooth crews around.

Rumors are— "KING HORNS ARE THE GREATEST!" That, we admit...

Adding color to the rumor . . . note the caliber of the musicians who are playing Kings.

HOLLYWOOD TELE-TOPICS

Complete TV Acceptance Not Just Around Corner

By CHARLES EMGE

Hollywood—When the first big wave of enthusiasm for television swept this sprawling collection of communities known as Los Angeles we, like most others, were more or less carried away on it. Now, we're beginning to wonder. We still believe that TV, sooner or later, will be the major entertainment medium. But we think the accent should be put on later instead of sooner.

This writer has seen most of the so-called major teleshows either on a screen or during production (the latter is always better entertainment). Herewith a few conclusions, opinions, and observations, advanced for what they're worth:

Won't Supplant Radio

Telecasting, in the foreseeable future, will not completely supplant soundcasting. Too many people like to listen to music while occupied with other tasks.

Now that the novelty is wearing off, a lot of video viewers are beginning to realize that the kind of stuff they've been getting under the label of "entertainment" is of a very poor quality.

More Study

Television production men are going to have to spend more time studying video's possibilities, will have to evolve entirely new methods instead of merely trying to fit the old patterns of radio and the stage to the new medium.

The fact that the tape-recorded radio show gradually is supplanting the live show indicates, in our opinion, that video's musical and dramatic shows ultimately will be 100 per cent filmed in advance. As we see it, the present kinescope process will be used solely for the presentation of some on-the-spot special event telecasts.

Despite Everything

Despite Jimmy Petrillo, despite everything, the bulk of all standard motion pictures, musical and otherwise, eventually will become available to telecasters. It will happen just as soon as the movie

Woody. Mab To Air A Battle Of Bands

Balboa Beach, Calif.—Excursion in Modern Music, 45-minute program of hip matter, is being aired from here each Saturday during the summer by the Mutual Broadcasting system. Program was inaugurated by Woody Herman and will be picked up by Charlie Barnett when the Mab's crew moves into the spot.

On July 30, however, both bands will be on the show and make with an old-fashioned battle of bands.

Baker Gets Post At L. A. College

Hollywood—Buddy Baker, former music director for Exclusive records and now free-lancing as a conductor-arranger, has been selected by L.A. City college to act as instructor for a special course in radio and recording musical technique to be inaugurated this fall.

Los Angeles Band Briefs

Firehouse Five (Down Beat, July 1) doing regular Monday night stint (off-night for Kid Ory's crew) at Beverly Cavern.

Roger Spiker unit back on stand at Mocambo, replacing Desi Arnaz and Twins.

Jimmy Witherspoon heading small combo at Melodee club, filling spot vacated by Gene Gilbeau's band, which went east with Trenier.

Woody Herman's weekend dates at Balboa Beach off to a slow start, with ops hoping for a box-office boost when Charlie Barnet takes over. (Beach business generally has been bad).

Ted Vesely's Dixielanders moved into a North Hollywood spot, Showtime.

Nellie Lutcher trio into Casbah starting Aug. 2.

Lionel Hampton at Million Dollar theater for a one-week stand starting July 27, his longest stop during current visit to the old home town.

Red Barn Round Up hoedown hops, impresarioed by ex-Artie

Shaw drummer, Ace Hudkins, drew more than 600 admissions on first of series of Sunday afternoon sessions at Tommy Dorsey's Casino Gardens. Among the sitters-in with Dusty Ellison's Saddle Busters were Harry James, Jamesmen Corcoran (tenor) and Hayden Causey (guitar). Said they figured they should practice up on a barnyard bounce.

Mary Kaye (guitar) trio, was set for first Hollywood nitery appearance at Bar of Music starting July 17. Other members are Norman Kaye, piano and Frankie Ross, bass.

Joins Mate

Hollywood—The gal Frank Sinatra almost made a career of losing in the movies has been signed by MGM records. Sweet-singing Kathrynn Grayson joins husband Johanne Johnston on the label's roster.

Maggie Nixes Date Due To Pic Switch

New York—Margaret Whiting cancelled out of a date at the Capitol theater here in July when the picture originally slated for the bill was switched. Date was to have been in fulfillment of a contract made in 1946 but postponed so she could appear on Eddie Cantor's radio show on the coast.

Picture slated to go with her was In the Good Old Summertime. When it was switched to the Music Hall and replaced by Scene of the Crime, Maggie nixed the date. She'll play the theater later.

Flying Discs

New York—Couple of major airlines are experimenting with disc jockeys on their planes. Pan-American World Airways has put a Victor 45 rpm machine in its New York to London Stratocruiser for a 30-day test, while Eastern airlines is trying a similar gimmick on its Newark to Atlanta run. Music is piped through the plane's p. a. system. Jockeying is done by stewardesses and pursers.

James To Record On YMWH Track

Hollywood—Pre-recording of music to be used in Warner Brothers screen version of the Dorothy Baker novel, Young Man with a Horn, got under way with Harry James soundtracking the trumpet solos for actor Kirk Douglas.

To what extent, if any, Warners will use the James name in exploitation, is not determined. He'll probably get screen credit as "Music advisor."

On the early sessions, James was backed by a dance-band-styled group of Warner staff men, with Buddy Cole, at the piano, the only outside man called in for the picture. Camera work was started with scenes shot at Tommy Dorsey's Casino Gardens.

Heidt Show Ready For Hollywood

Hollywood—Horace Heidt will bring the stage review, The Kids Break In, which he has been ironing out while on tour, into the El Capitan theater about Sept. 1.

The show will feature winners and other promising youngsters who have clicked on Heidt's air-show.

The 14-piece ork used on the radio stint will play the show from the pit under the baton of Vic Valenti.

Haymes' Ex Sits Well Financially

Reno—Dick Haymes' ex-wife, Joanne Dru, is sitting pretty financially until she remarries. She divorced Haymes here in June on grounds of extreme mental cruelty. By terms of the settlement, Joanne gets 12½ per cent yearly of Haymes' first $50,000 gross income with the percentage boosted to 17½, 20, and 25 for each succeeding $50,000. She figured he made $200,000 in 1948.

The bite probably won't be on Dick for long, though. At the time of their divorce, Joanne said it was "a pretty good bet" she would marry actor John Ireland soon. Joanne and Dick have three children.

Portland, Oregon—Jantzen Beach plays Woody Herman Aug. 18-24, not with King Cole, who may concertize locally during that time. Also set for Jantzen are Frankie Carle, Aug. 25-31, and Les Brown, Sept. 3-5 and 7.

PRESENTING TWO

STARRING

GIBSON FAVORITES

Always in the spotlight . . . sharing the applause, these Gibson favorites merit sincere "artist approval". The ES-350 Cutaway Guitar offers a new double pickup, ideal for band or ensemble use; the GA-50 Amplifier, designed to meet the most exacting demands, has the added feature of a smooth even tremolo. These two stars are appearing at your local Gibson dealer—or write Dept. 549 for more information.

Warning!

Chicago—Down Beat readers are cautioned that there have appeared on the market records which bear a Down Beat trademark without the authority of Down Beat, Inc., the publishers of Down Beat magazine. The public is advised that in order for Down Beat to retain its position and reputation as an unbiased and truthful source of news, in order to treat all alike, Down Beat is independent of all recording firms. It is exclusively a publishing concern, sponsors no sales of records, instruments, or devices of any kind.

Not will Down Beat ever lend or sell its name to aid unscrupulous persons into tricking the public into buying in the belief the merchandise is vouched for or guaranteed by Down Beat.

MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

Where Are Cats Of Tomorrow?

"Where are the musicians of tomorrow?"

The chap who asked this question sat at our desk the other day and confided that he frankly is worried about the future, particularly about the future of jazz.

This chap is a leader who has been identified with modern music for years. We won't tell you his name because of the nature of the quotes we are going to use. But he has been noted for the tremendous energy which he puts into his performance, as well as into his music.

"I'm not a bop man, although I play some of it," he continued. "I just can't get with the type of bop in which a soloist blows two notes, lays out for three, comes back in with a couple more.

"These youngsters have me worried. They come on the stand directly from Cloud 48, intentionally dressed like the characters they want to be, and aren't interested in making music. What they are striving for is the sound, the Dizzy sound or the Bird sound.

"They fool around until they hit upon a note, or maybe a pair of notes that have the sound. Then they blow them—in the wrong spot and lying around the wrong way! They are not concerned about the audience. They're playing to what I call the o-o-oohs and a-a-aahs guys!

"These are the joes who sit down close in front, garbed like the craziest of cats with horn-rims and all, and act importantly bored. They freeze their faces, close their eyes, and listen. Then when a soloist succeeds in approximating the sound, they sigh, 'o-o-ooh.' When he makes it again, they go, 'a-a-aah.'

"The good jazz musicians left are getting old. Most of them won't be around much longer. Where among this motley crew are we going to find their successors? Who are the coming youngsters going to imitate? You have to imitate SOMEBODY for awhile, until you can develop your own style.

"And that's what has me completely worried. The youngsters are imitating the wrong guys, not just from a musical standpoint but from one of behavior. Most of them are convinced that you have to do certain things, not merely light up with weed, but even use the needle, in order to blow. What a crazy theory!

"An army doctor walked on the stand after a set we played at a club recently and asked if he could examine my eyes. I was salty at first, but thought fast and said, 'Certainly. In fact, I'll show you my arms with no holes in them, and you can give me a complete physical if you're interested.'

"I figured he thought I was charged because I jump around on the stand so much. I told him, 'Look, if you know anything about marijuana or stronger drugs, you'd know true addicts never show any energy, they just float. I could never keep up this physical pace if I were a user.'

"The boys could blow better with holes in their heads than with the stuff they are using. And if they don't get off this cool kick, jazz will again have the reputation it did before we picked it up out of the gutter and made it respectable! It's tough enough to sell it these days without having two strikes against you before you get on the stand!

"I think it is up to the leaders to clean up this business. Throw the goofs out before they louse up the racket entirely! They aren't content with ruining their own physical well-being and their music. They want you to string along with them and get real gone, too. And that's where they should be—real gone!

"Down Beat should warn, and keep warning, the young musicians that it's sheer insanity to ape these characters. It will make inmates out of them—not musicians!"

Bell Baby

Oklahoma City, Okla.—New vocalist and bass horn man with Fran McCarthy's ork in six-months-old son Michael Jon, here peering from the bell of the recording bass. Mom, Frankie, is also a singer with the band, now at the Silver lounge of the Hotel Black here.

CHORDS AND DISCORDS

Duke's Dud Sells

San Francisco

To the Editors: Though the pro-Ellington Barnett and the anti-Ellington Levin strongly disagree, both are in complete harmony regarding Duke's latest Columbia record, Singin' in the Rain, which both single out as a prime example of a horrible waxing.

This happens to be the best-selling instrumental record released by the Duke in the last two years. Pardon me, fellows, if I sound so commercial, but aren't we all in this business to make money?

Charles Allen
Manager, Rhythm Record Shop

No Word?

Allentown, Pa.

To the Editors: ...Hoped I might find a decent word for the band leader who has kept his musicians eating in style for 20 years, Guy Lombardo. Looking into the July 1 Beat, I see one of your melted modulation reviewers has taken it upon himself to mention Lombardo. Thanks! He wouldn't know a good dance band if he sat in with one!

Don Barry

(Ed. Note: Mr. Barry, who says he is annoyed by Louis, Dix, Winsy, Hawk, Orz, Duddis, runs the show Your Jazz Corner on WKAP.)

No Word!

Manchester, Iowa

To the Editors: Now I've heard it all! So you want a term to cover music from Dixie to bop. I was brought up to believe that was what jazz meant, that it was the one word covering all the different, and sometimes warring, trends and styles, with only pops and classics something from another planet. Only the veriest bigot would insist the term jazz means only the earliest Bunk Johnson-King Oliver groupings or the latest Parker squawks. The word jazz is in itself a tradition, and no new word could instantly stir up the complicated picture and personal meanings it does.

Have some other gripes, too. Mix's reviews are the most insipid things this side of Goldlocks and the three bears. Maybe Tom had a ripper, more productive time of year to pick his material from, but if he took all the gravy and then ran off leaving Mix to struggle through the arid wastes of summer vacation, then he is not the gentleman I think him. Or if the music world is turning out nothing better than the coy pops and allegedly off-color ditties Mix concerns himself with, why not start re-reviewing the great stuff which is kicking around but has been lost in the shuffle.

What is happening, anyway, that the new Cap releases are timidly acclaimed as the best bop ever turned out? A few are good, but several are laughable, and none can begin to compare to the sides put out previously by bop artists. Is bop simply beginning its downward trend now that the mickies are discovering it?

G. A. Dorman

Public No Judge

Norfolk, Va.

To the Editors: In the Levin rebuff to the Wolff article, he states that the "acid test" of Armstrong's merit as a trumpet player is the fact that "after decades of playing, (Armstrong) would . . . pull more votes than most trumpet players in the country for his tone, phrasing, and sincerity of expression." This is right, and has been proven several dozens of times.

However, it directly infers that the best critics of musical merit are the general public. . . . Personally, I have always found them tin-eared.

I am one of those strange persons who think that musicians and persons with some musical training and background are more able to judge musical merit than the average consumer of present-day music. I do not dispute the rights of the man who pays the bills to demand what he wants; however, this does not automatically confer artistic merit upon what he demands, regardless of its popularity.

Brew Squares It

New York

To the Editors: In your July 1 issue, in a story about me, you have quoted me as saying Tony D'Amore is a "real square cat." This is an erroneous quotation, due to a misunderstanding on John Wilson's part. The remark was made in reference to another person who had called Lester to my attention, a "real square cat" in Mississippi, where there is an alarming preponderance of said "squares." Apologies to Tony, and thanks to you and John Wilson for the article.

Brew Moore

Drops State Band Plan

Los Angeles

To the Editors: Apparently some one is very anxious to keep a feud going between Spike Wallace and myself. It is quite true that I introduced a bill in January which would have created a state band. The promoters of this bill seemed to be quite sincere and I introduced the measure (in the California senate) without reading or studying same.

In subsequent conversations with Spike I learned that such a band would inevitably come in conflict with working musicians and I assured Spike the bill would be dropped.

The bill has been dropped.

Jack B. Tenney

Ralph Misses Dixie

San Francisco

To the Editors: Swingin' the Golden Gate is a waste of time. Ralph misses most of the interesting things that go on in the bay area. I could cover it myself better than he does, and I don't like bop. He evidently doesn't like Dixie. His reports on Dixieland activities are extremely incomplete and very brief.

Has he never heard of the fine local jazz pianist Johnny Anderson; concerts by Alexander's jazz band (Bob Scobey, Pat "Hot" O'Casey, Jack Buck, Burt Bales, Bill Newman, Eino "Squire" Girsback, Bill Dart); the new lineup for Jack Sheedy's outfit, which includes a fine clarinetist who is a story in himself; King River Bottom Mud and his Original Good Time and Pleasure band; the Golden Gate jazz band, and so forth? Does Ralph know what Jimmie Buchanan's background is, and what that man is trying to do with his sax?

A Boone To Biz

New York—The Lester Boone trio is winding up its second straight year at the Lucky bar in Brooklyn. Trio has Lester on alto and clarinet, Bill Mason on drums, and Ben Robertson, piano. Lester has played and recorded with Louis Armstrong on Okeh, Albert Wynn on Vocalion, Harry Dial on Vocalion, Billie Holiday on Vocalion, and with Earl Hines on Victor, Brunswick, and Decca.

52nd Street On Way Back?

New York—The pendulum may be swinging back again on 52nd St. The Street, long the local hub of jazz and for a couple of years a rampant incubus of bop, has been almost without music since the end of 1947. Jimmy Ryan's two-beat emporium has been the only jazz spot to stay open right through the jazz drought.

The rest of the joints tossed out the tooters and brought in strippers. The bumpers, however, seem to have worn out their welcome and, after several hassels with the law, many have closed down completely.

Deuces Reopen

First indication that the Street may be on its way back was the re-opening of the Three Deuces on July 14, with Kai Winding's quintet and the Erroll Garner trio. Deuces, once a noted jazz spot, was one of the places which tried strippers unsuccessfully.

Winding's group includes Red Rodney, trumpet; Brew Moore, tenor; George Wallington, piano; Curley Russell, bass, and Roy Haynes, drums.

Reopening of the Deuces also provides a revival of bop which had almost died out on the local scene. For months the only spot in town where bop could be heard was Bop City, and even there it was not featured as extensively as the club's name might indicate. Since it moved down to the Street from Minton's in Harlem, bop has been pretty strictly a midtown affair.

Couple of attempts were made to introduce it to the Village, but without success, and the two-beat boys still hold solid sway there. Meanwhile, nothing much is stirring in Harlem, with most of the joints dying on their feet.

New York—Both Dorsey brothers, noted for going their separate ways, are now represented in New York by Leonard Vannerson. Vannerson is acting as Jimmy's personal manager here and is the local go-between for Arthur Michaud, Tommy's personal manager, and MCA, which books the band.

Kay Thompson Cuts First Decca Sides

New York—Decca records has added four new artists, including Kay Thompson, to its roster. Others are Floyd Huddleston, Terry Gilkyson, and Carole Richards.

Miss Thompson, who last cut for Columbia with the Williams Brothers, will get solo billing on Decca. Her first sides are Where Are You? and an original, 'Bout You and Me, both done with Sonny Burke's orchestra.

Bond To Village Barn

New York—Johnny Bond's combo, which recently finished a run at the Green room of the Edison hotel, moves into the Village Barn Sept. 22 for six weeks. Group has Johnny on trumpet and vocals; Bernie Fox, tenor; Joe Bianco, bass; Buddy Lowell, drums; Ozzie Landez, piano and vocals; and Rosemary Calvin, vocals.

Only A Change In Owners Halts Hugo's 12-Year Job

Philadelphia—Victor Hugo, who was as much a fixture in the Little Rathskeller as the bar, finally ended his marathon run in the room. But it took a change in ownership of the room to make the bandstand change. It was more than a dozen years back, when the Little Rathskeller first opened with the repeal of the prohibition law, that Victor left the trumpet section of Paul Whiteman's band to bow as a bandleader in the basement boite.

And he's held on to the spot until now. New management brought in Arnoldo's Cubanaires, who started off by getting into a hassel with the local musicians union, which ruled that the band's bongo banger must hold a card.

Another Long Run

Long runs also seem to be the rule for the musical Klais family. Originally hooked for two weeks, Viola Klais stretched it out to nine months for her organ playing at the Tonymart, in Somers Point, N. J., and then moved on to the Little Hofbrau in Wildwood, N. J. Those other members of her family, the Klais Brothers, now are in their third year at the Cadillac Sho-Bar, where they alternate with Ronny Halstead, making his band bow in this town.

The Click, now operated by New York's Bill Levine, lining up a band parade for the coming season, with Tommy Dorsey, Spike Jones, and Vaughn Monroe already inked in.

Paul Favaro, formerly with Bobby Sherwood, joined Harry Ranch's Kernels of Korn here, replacing drummer Sid Bulkin. Other sectional changes saw Johnny Davis coming in from Cleveland to join the Cats and Fiddle combo at Lou's Moravian bar as drummer boy, with the unit also making a change in the piano-vocal department in getting Shirley Moore from John Kirby's combo. Elliot Lawrence continues to reach into his home town for sidemen changes, wooing Jimmy Padgett from the ranks of local trumpet tooters.

Keys, Bon Bon Back

Al Small switched from the Celebrity room to the Fort Side inn. The Keys, with Bon Bon, original vocalist for the late Jan Savitt, back from Nevada stands and located at the Fawn club. George Sommer gets the dance call at the Danatorium in nearby Clementon Lake park, Clementon, N. J. Chic Mec, who provided the Latin rhythms at the Latin Casino, filling in the summer stretch at the CR Club. The 421 club the only room re-

Sidemen Switches

Sam Donahue changes: Tom Kelley, bass, for Ted Prachina (to Bob Chester); Vince Ferrara, baritone, for Joe Reisman; Dean Dewberry, piano, for Ray Rossi (to Jerry Wald) . . . Ralph Muszillo, trumpet, replaced Al Muller with Frankie Carle.

Replacements in Gene Williams' band: Jerry Dorn, trombone, for Milt Gold; Tommy Allison, trumpet, for John Salmon; Mort Lewis, tenor, for Brew Moore (to Kai Winding); Tippy Morgan, alto, for Al Feldman . . . Trumpeter John Wilson, tramist Gene Stienman, and bassist Bob Carter replaced Howard Reich, Eddie Bert, and Clyde Lombardi with Benny Goodman.

Roy Campbell, bass, in for John Brown, and George Spotts, drums, for George Buji Ward with Sub Mosley . . . Drummer Walter Sals and trumpeter Gene Corber joined Frankie Schenck combo.

Kral, Cain Combo Set

Chicago—Slated to open at the Flame in St. Paul at preastime was the Jackie Cain-Roy Kral combo, which includes former Charlie Ventura bassist Kenny O'Brien, Jay Burkhardt guitarist Jimmy Gourley, and Elaine Leighton (Mrs. O'Brien), drums, and Marilyn Beabout, cello.

Kral said that Bill Turner guitarist Johnny Romano, originally chosen for the new unit, will join it as soon as his previous commitments will permit.

maining for jazz kicks during the hot summer spell, with Milt Buckner, Coleman Hawkins, and Tiny Grimes bringing in units this month. Grimes will have local lad Ray Bryant at the 88.

Local bands taking in the nearby seashore spots include Joe Frassetto at the 500 club, Joey Singer at the Ambassador hotel's 22 club in Atlantic City, Rocky Valentine at the Club Avalon, Billy Hays at the Inlet hotel cafe, and Jack Verna at the Hotel Manor Bamboo room, in Wildwood, N. J.

'Parenti Ragtime Wax Aid In Tracing Jazz Sources'

By GEORGE HOEFER

Chicago—Tony Parenti's Ragpickers have authenticated for posterity a style of music that had the country wild going the Grizzly Bear and the Bunny Hug back around 1914. It was ragtime that bred the "animal dances." As such, it was recorded by such stimulating organizations as the Victor Military band. The discs that were made back in the ragtime era usually showed very little relationship to jazz music. In their Ragpicker album, however, Parenti's trio musically illustrates a definite relationship.

The album includes six interesting rags arranged by Parenti and played by him, Ralph Sutton (piano), and George Wettling (drums). Tony lived and worked in New Orleans during the ragtime era. His contribution to the annals of American music in this album is of utmost importance to musicologists interested in piecing together the sources of jazz.

Authenticity, Facility

Along with authenticity, Parenti gives us music played with a fine technical facility. Young Sutton of St. Louis (the onetime home of ragtime pianists and composers) upholds the St. Louis piano legend with honor. George Wettling continues to adapt his work to whatever musical situation he finds himself in.

The Ragpicker repertoire is as follows, including composers: The Entertainer's Rag (Jay Roberts), Cataract Rag (Robert Hampton), Nonsense Rag (R. G. Brady), Red-head Rag (Franklin-Green), The Lily Rag (Charles Thompson), and Crawfish Crawl (Parenti). The album was produced by Circle Sound, Inc.

JAZZ MISCELLANY: R. J. Carraw, Washington, D. C., has posted notice on Edwin Morris, music publishers, that the Froggy Moore and Sweetheart O'Mine, listed for publication in their forthcoming folio of Jelly Roll Morton blues, stomps, and rags, are adaptations of Frog-i-more Rag by Morton, on which he (Carew) owns the copyright.

Unique Team

Gilbert (Stu) Watson and Helen Graff, Chicago's most unique song writing team (he's an investment broker by day) have readied a number entitled Alabammy, which will be recorded by Miff Mole soon. Universal Double Feature records have a Johnny (Scat) Davis version of the team's Sassafras Brown on the market now.

If any reader of this column has heard of or seen a copy of a monthly publication put out by Alex W. Christensen of Chicago around 1915 called Ragtime Review, please contact Don Athearn, Foster and Davies, Inc., Keith Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.

The Royal Society of Be-Bop, 131 W. Second street, Muscatine, Iowa, meets every Monday night at Granny's Grill. Some 100 persons meet to discuss musicians, records, and disc jockeys.

JAZZ ON THE RADIO: Al Starck presents Shellac-Kings over WNAM, Neenah, Wis., every Saturday from 4:30 to 5 p.m. Uses sides from his own personal collection of 1,800 records. Covers everything from blues to be-bop.

COLLECTOR'S CATALOGUE: R. Medford, 7 Alexander drive, Timperley, Cheshire, England. Wants to exchange English records for American bop and progressive jazz sides.

Dixie Collector

R. Brown, 92 Bridges road, New Lambton, N.S.W. Australia. Young musician and jazz fan wants correspondent. He leads a Dixieland combo and writes for the English Jazz Magazine. Especially goes for Bunk Johnson and Muggsy Spanier.

R. Baker, 33 North street, Crewkerne, Somerset, England. Wants to trade for Kenton, Herman, and be-bop discs.

Your next copy of Down Beat will be the issue of August 26 on the newsstands August 12.

Buddy And Boys Pre Bop City?

(Photo by Kay Sparks)

Chicago—Buddy De Franco's smooth quartet, which ended three weeks at the Blue Note here before returning to New York and possibly Bop City, has Harvey Leonard on piano; Tal Farlow, guitar, and Freddie Gruber, drums, in addition to the leader's clarinet. Reports filtering through from the big city said that the Broadway bophouse was advertising De Franco as a coming attraction, and Buddy was anxious to return and find out if he really had the job.

Closes After 13 Years

Bristol, Conn.—Lake Compounce, one of the best established New England one-nite summer spots for name bands, closed down in June after losing money for several weeks. Place had been in business steadily for 13 years.

Things To Come

These are jazz records cut recently and their personnels. Don't ask your dealer for them until you see by the Beat's review section that they've been released and are available.

KIRBY WALKER ORCHESTRA (Columbia, 6/28/49). Dick Vance, trumpet; Benny Morton, trombone; Sam Taylor, tenor; Al Hall, bass; Sid Catlett, drums, and Kirby Walker, piano and vocals. Eddie Barefield, arranger.

Juke Box Blues, Oh, I'm Evil, High Brow, and Shut Up—all Kirby Walker originals.

GEORGE SHEARING QUINTET (MGM, 6/28/49). Margie Hyams, vibes and piano; Chuck Wayne, guitar; John Levy, bass; Denzil Best, drums, and George Shearing, piano. Supervised by Leonard Feather.

The Continental, I Didn't Know What Time It Was, Denzil's Pen-cil, by Denzil Best, and Summertime, piano solo.

SERGE CHALOFF AND THE HERDSMEN (Futura, 3/10/49). Red Rodney, trumpet; Earl Swope, trombone; Al Cohn, tenor; Serge Chaloff, baritone; Terry Gibbs, vibes; Barbara Carroll, piano; Denzil Best, drums, and Oscar Pettiford, bass.

The Most, by Al Cohn, and Chasin' the Brass, by Leonard Feather.

LESTER YOUNG'S ORCHESTRA (Savoy, 6/28/49). Lester Young, tenor; Ray Haines, drums; Junior Nance, piano; Jerry Elliott, trombone, and Leroy Jackson, bass.

Crazy with J Z, Ping Dong, Blues 'n' Bells, and June Bug.

LEE KONITZ QUINTET (New Jazz, 6/28/49). Lee Konitz, alto; Warne Marsh, tenor; Salvatore Mosca, piano; Arnold Fishkin, bass, and Denzil Best, drums.

Marshmallow, by Marsh, Fishkin's Around, by Fishkin, and two untitled Konitz originals.

Here's 15 keyboards in one! Accordiana's silent Rocker-Action shifts are found on no other moderately-priced professional accordions. Just four shifts give you 15 different tonal effects. Model shown is priced at $695 with case. Other 120-bass models from $395. Write for catalog and name of nearest dealer.

Bop Gets Its Usual Press Going-Over

New York—To avoid the strain of thinking in hot weather, local newspaper columnists have been giving bop some unconsidered attention.

A recent suggestion by Jimmy Cannon in the Post Home News that most bands could be improved by firing the drummer elucidated a paean in praise of skin-beaters from drummer John Maloney, who concluded his philippic with the advice, "If you want to have your eyes opened, get to see some of the real fine drummers making fame in the be-bop circle."

Replied anti-drum man Cannon:

GAC Signs' Merian

New York—Leon Merian, trumpeter who recently formed a crew and signed up with King records, has been signed by GAC. Band is set for the summer at Hamilton Lake, Hamilton, Ind. Merian was formerly known as Leon Magerian when he played with Lucky Millinder and other bands.

"Be-bop sounds like a concert by musicians who were trying to get the leader fired. My eyes may be opened, Mr. Maloney, but my ears will be plugged if I listen to any be-bop."

Same day in the Daily News, Bob Sylvester saw fit to ask Eddie Condon to define the expression "real gone," which, pundited Sylvester, "bop addicts use as the highest accolade for their art."

"They mean," he said Eddie said, "that bop is here today and real gone tomorrow."

Whistle Bait

Williamsport, Pa. — New "voice with a smile" with whistler Fred Lowery is Evanstonian Karen Ford. Karen replaces singer Dorothy Rae, who left the longtime partnership to get married. You can hear Karen, without whistles, on some of the new Ken Griffin Rondo discs.

Ex-US Musicians To Tour Palestine

Paris—Group of American expatriates here is scheduled to tour Palestine starting Sept. 1. Headed by James Moody, crew has Moody, Hubert Fol, and Jay Cameron in the reed section, Lynn Thompson and Nat Peck, brasses, Richie Frost, drums, Jack Smalley, bass, and Jean Mongon, piano. Tadd Dameron is writing the book for the band. Before the Palestine date, the group will tour Spain, Switzerland, and Egypt.

Rex Stewart has left Europe to go to Australia.

SWINGIN' THE GOLDEN GATE

And Another Live Talent Theater Chews The Dust

By RALPH J. GLEASON

San Francisco—The Tivoli theater gave a low sigh and retired from the live talent field here late in June. The present curse of the music business, no customers, caused the downfall of the Tivoli, only local house to hire name bands and vocalists since the Golden Gate threw in the sponge last year. The Tivoli opened with a bang in the spring with Count Basic. Subsequently they presented Billie Holiday, while Ella Fitzgerald had been set for a week there in mid-July. Deals also were cooking for Nat Cole and other acts.

Ralph

Ellis Levy, who leased the house to present live talent, still operates the Edgewater ballroom. Tommy Dorsey played a three-day engagement there July 15-17, followed by a one-nighter in Oakland July 21.

Two spots in town that continue to do pretty good business are Ciro's and the Say When, Dutch Neiman's clubs. Dutch made a talent scouting trip to Hollywood early in July and planned to set up a week at Ciro's for the Nat Cole group, probably beginning August 17.

Dutch also is dickering with George Shearing's outfit for a week or two in the Bay city. Shearing's disc of I Only Have Eyes for You is a big seller in these parts and local deejays seem sold on the possibilities of the pianist's combo.

Jack Sheedy's Dixieland band continues to draw well at the Hangover club over the weekends, with Johnny Wittwer as solo pianist during the week. Ralph Sutton hit town with Albert Nicholas over the Fourth of July weekend. Played a night at the Hangover and an afternoon at Hambone Kelly's, causing local Dixie lovers to swoon.

Lu Watters' spot, incidentally, is now regularly featuring a Sunday afternoon bash with local Dixieland musicians other than the widely dispersed Watters mob. Paul Lingle, Pat Patton, Hots O'Casey, and Billy Newman were featured there recently.

Vernon Alley's fine hop group auditioned for a TV show which is set to hit the screen late this summer.

Vernon is featuring Pony Poindexter, local altoist who is really kicking up a storm on his horn. Maceo Williams, San Francisco lad who has just graduated from Juilliard, plays piano, Vernon the bass, and Warren Thompson, drums. The outfit has class, is a good bet for a local club.

Zito Shoves Off

Jimmy Zito's fine little band served its two weeks at the El Patio, then took off for the south. Patsy Guess, a San Diego lass last heard with Buddy Childers' crew in L.A., joined Zeet to handle the vocal chores, replacing Rethia Stevens, who is going out as a single. Paul Miller, local guitarist, worked the two weeks with the band and sounded great.

Freddy Greenwell, Zeet's tenor man, created a lot of respect for himself among the local cats. Despite the bad conditions of the job, for that type of band, their nightly broadcasts sounded fine.

BAY AREA FOG—Ruth Thompson now has a night record show on KNBC under the nomme d'air of Barbara Lee, making her the only fem platter spinner in the Bay area. . . . T-Bone Walker, whose new Capitol releases are going well in these parts, opened July 7 at the New Orleans Swing club for four weeks. . . . Seat Man Crothers did a 10-day stint at the New Orleans Swing club in July prior to starting on a nationwide tour with Rochester.

*LEEDY DRUMS ARE FINISHED INSIDE

Here's Why...

- ★ Filling the wood and spraying inside with lacquer makes shells stronger.
- ★ Finishing inside of drum prevents warping caused by atmospheric changes, assures even tension at every rod... saves heads... improves drum tone.

... just one of many hidden qualities found in Leedy Drums... one of the many reasons why top talents demands Leedy quality!

Are your drums finished inside? You can tell by looking in the vent hole.

and Shelly Manne (drums) as sidemen, this Shorty Rogers scoring of How High the Bop lacks Capitol's usual fine definition in that the rhythm section isn't as cleanly balanced as usual. Trumpet section still is impressive, and, as in the old Herman band, it functions as a second drummer. On this side at least, Manne's solo ideas are impressive, but his playing seems to lack the full "band tone" that Lamond had with this crew. This may, however, be balance. Cricklet is a ditty written by veldt singer Josef Marais, sung by Woody and Mary Ann McCall. It's scored primarily for drums and brass, is played crisply ala cheep. (Capitol 57-682.)

Gene Krupa
The Galloping Comedians
Swiss Lullaby
Comedians was adopted by Fox Williams from the Kabalevsky composition. In many senses it's 1949's

Mexican Hat Dance. Musicianship, well-played, yet completely derivative. These adaptations are fine ideas, however. They get many people who ordinarily would never listen to anything better than Al Goodman to note that modern classical is not so fearsome after all, as well as making the boys in the sections practice reading for fair. Much of the brass figures in this one sound like passages familiar to Eddie Sauter fans. You should be highly grateful to Krupa for taking Lullaby and converting it from just another horrible yodeling ballad into a novelty-band routine involving Roy Eldridge and trumpet. Tempo lags badly, however, during Dolores Hawkins' vocal. (Columbia 38520.)

George Hudson
Put It on the Cuff
It's Love
This band sounds like the Kenton band of some years ago when the hard-inflected reeds were the heart of the band. These sides were made with tubby bass, flattening out the arranger's harmonic ideas. These, however, are essentially simple chromatics, with occasional bop ideas or an arhythmic trombone unison tossed in. It's an interesting try which doesn't quite come off. Incidentally, King records has evidently been noting some of the research on labeling, since it now labels its sides A and AA instead of A and B. (King 4300.)

Sy Oliver
When My Sweetie Walks Down the Street
Nine O'Clock Girl
Sy wrote a score using the Aristotokats for a four-beat vocal. It's the kind of thing the big studio bands try for radio and usually flub so badly because they don't know how to get the beat, or handle it once they get it. (Decca 24662.)

DANCE

Paul Weston
Inham Jones
Johnny Mercer
Jimmy McHugh
Ray Noble
Livingston and Evans
Paul Weston

Album Rating-III
This is the album Capitol assembled for its song writing contest with six tunes by well-known song writers. The Mercer and McHugh tunes struck me as being quite ordinary, the Jones had light lyric possibilities, the Noble was very well put together for lyric construction, the Livingston and Evans was a good commercial tune, but nothing striking, while Weston's effort ranked with Noble and Jones as the best in the album. All things considered, these are better tunes than most of the Tin Pan Alley output seeing the bite of wax. (Capitol DGN 170.)

Pancho
Tiger Rag
Dardanelle
First shows up as a conga, second as a rhumba, fitting ends to the thousands of treatments these tunes have undergone at the hands of bands ranging from Ellington and Casa Loma to tired collegians in red jackets and white flannel pants. And, by the way, whatever happened to the thousands of college sophomores and juniors like Hoagy Carmichael who used to earn an occasional dishonest buck during summer dishwashing themselves off as musicians? If you want clearcut proof of the contraction of the music business, there it is. College and itinerant bands just don't exist now to the extent they did 15 years ago. (Coral 60084.)

Paul Weston
Reckon I'm in Love
Ooh If You Knew
Two vocals by Pauline Byrne, the girl who sang for awhile with Artie Shaw and before that with Six Hits and a Miss. Her voice sounds lighter here in front of the as usual workmanlike Mr. Weston. (Capitol 57-697.)

Russ Case
You're Breaking My Heart
One More Time
This is evidently an attempt to use a house band and house singer to cut tunes quickly that come up from left field, rather than waiting for an established name singer to get around to doing them. The Quintones warble Heart, a waltz, while Stuart Foster dallies with Time. Latter tries for some instrumental effects, including a long metre chorus plus doubled up reed-brass figures that don't snap as they should simply because the boys don't play together enough to get the "feel." Despite the sloppiness the musical attempt level is far higher than essayed by most house conductors at Victor and Columbia. (MGM 10478.)

Guy Lombardo
San
There's Something about Paris
Nice to know that there are more stable things in the world after all: Lombardo is completely predictable like US Steel, westerns, and cracker barrel philosophy. How Bix would love this version! (Decca 24661.)

Boston Jazz Spots Drop Off Rapidly

Boston—The air cooled Hi-Hat is about the only hot spot left in Beantown with the Savoy locking its doors for the summer and Wally's Paradise discontinuing music attractions. Hat has inked the Art Foxall quintet for the rest of the summer. Unit will share the bill with Frank Rues trio.

The recently renovated Louis cafe has booked Paul (Fat Man) Robinson's quintet. Fat Man will do four radio shows a week from the spot, with de-jay Art Tacker handling emcee chores.

Bruno Reorganizes

Trumpeter Frankie Bruno has once more reorganized for ball-room dates, with the majority of the sidemen from the Schillinger school of arranging and composing. Back with the band again is vocalist Mickey Long, who had originally cut out of the band for club dates. Leader Bruno will also use the former Lee Castle vocalist Dixie Dugan, who recently settled down in town with her husband.

AROUND TOWN: Bruce Sweetland will front his own combo at the Mardi Gras cafe on Washington street. . . . Tenorist Paul (Sleepy) Vignoli left Pete Chase to join the Ralph Gentile combo, pit band at a burlesque show. . . . Pianist Ronnie Graham has been recalled to the Darbury.

Vocalist Stella Dennis doing a single at the Red Roof. . . . Pianist Ray Griermer to organize a quintet for Sunday noon sessions at the Hi-Hat. . . . The shuttered Red Shutter will try music attractions in the fall. —Ray Barron

Hotel Statler Talent Card Set For Months

New York—Statler hotel has signed Jimmy Dorsey and Claude Thornhill for its Cafe Rouge to fill out bookings there until December. Dorsey follows Henry Busse, who opens there Aug. 1. Jimmy goes in Sept. 5 and will be followed by Thornhill on Sept. 26.

Vaughn Monroe comes in Oct. 17 for a month, marking his first engagement at the Statler. Then comes Sammy Kaye, also making his bow in the room.

Basie In Bop City

New York—For his stint at Bop City starting Aug 4, Count Basie is using the following lineup: trumpets—Emmett Berry, Harry Edison, Jim Nottingham, and Clark Terry; trombones—Dickie Wells, George Matthews, and Theodore Donnelly; saxes—Earl Warren and Charles Price, altos; Paul Gonsalves and Willie Parker, tenors; rhythm—Singieton Palmer, bass; Freddy Green, guitar; Butch Ballard, drums, and Jimmy Rushing on vocals.

Down Beat covers the music news from coast to coast.

Orchestration Reviews

By Phil Broyles

L'UNA
Published by American Academy of Music

Arr. by Van Alexander

L'una is one of the Chubby Jackson be-bop specials for small combos; a series of modern rhythmic and harmonic conceptions. However, this is partly misleading. The harmonic continuity is obviously directed by strong progressions (dominant-tonic), and few harmonic extensions occur except from a linear standpoint. However, the melodic rhythm and direction is both fresh and original. The rhythm section exhibits four measures of intro, and the front line, in unison, takes off for the first 16. Piano solos on the release, and the unison returns. Ad-lib choruses are available to every instrument except bass and drums. Unison returns for the finale.

SUSY

Published by Mills

Arr. by Johnny Warrington

Susy, a waltz, opens with a first trumpet solo, with saxes coming out and moving into the split choruses. Ensemble takes the first 16. Saxes soli at 3, supported by matted trombones, and ensemble returns for the last eight. Muted brass furnish background for saxes in the repeat, and later take the lead for eight, relinquishing it to saxes for the last. After an interlude, similar to the intro, reeds, with clarinet lead, take over the special. A muted trumpet solos the release, lightly supported by reeds. The last is for ensemble.

LITTLE FISH IN A BIG POND

Published by Irving Berlin

Arr. by Larry Wagner

This is a novelty tune, and another from Irving Berlin's Miss Liberty. Cup muted brass and clarinets play up most of the first chorus. Brass open up and soli for the last, and saxes come out front for most of the repeat. Melodic and harmonic support is furnished by hatted and muted brass. Tenor has the lead at D, and reeds soli at E for eight, with muted brass interrupting at F. First tenor solos through G, and the rest is for ensemble.

ARRANGERS' CORNER

By SY OLIVER and DICK JACOBS

New York—As promised, this issue will be devoted to your questions. D. C. of Alhambra, Cal., wants to know if the first or second trombone part can cross the bottom trumpet part or parts; assuming, of course, that eight brass are used. Well, even if eight brass aren't used, it is okay to cross parts. We don't recommend it as a steady diet, but it always sounds pretty good and produces a fairly smooth voice leading.

F. S. G. has a couple to ask. We'll try to answer them without giving the question first. In writing for three tenors and bary in mickey style, use three-part harmony and let the bary double the melody on the bottom. In writing vocal backgrounds, where the chord changes on every beat of the measure, it becomes necessary to follow that chord progression in the background. However, this trouble can be eliminated if you can find a suitable chord that will fit through the whole measure.

J. M., of Zanesville, Ohio, wants to know whether bop passages should be harmonized. That depends on the passage. We think ensemble. A catchy tune and arrangement.

SONG OF SURRENDER

Published by Paramount

Arr. by Johnny Warrington

Surrender is from the new Paramount release, Song of Surrender. Ensemble takes the first 16, with saxes in lead at the bridge. Hatted brass fill in. Brass takes the lead, while saxes melodiously fill in. Saxes soli 16 on the repeated chorus, with brass taking the release. The melody alternates between trombones and saxes for 16. Tenor gets a short solo at E, and saxes pick up the lead in unison, supported harmonically by brass. The finale is nicely orchestrated.

SWISS LULLABY

Published by Southern

Arr. by Jack Mason

This is another waltz, arranged as an instrumental, but may also be used as a male vocal background. Mason utilizes the verse before going into the repeated choruses. The first chorus is mostly for ensemble and brass. The repeat, if no vocal is available, is taken up by saxes. Cued notes are present for vocal support. Clarinet and saxes lead on the special, with brass interrupting. The full chorus is monopolized in this manner. An eight-bar tutti brings the arrangement to a close.

lem for your ear, as there are no rules to go by in harmonizing a bop passage.

S. C., of Newark, N. J., wants some info on tone clusters. Space is running short, so next issue will be devoted to that subject of clusters which so many of you are interested in.

Our parting thought: As a wonderful exercise, take 16 bars of a song and arrange them as you think they should be to fit the following styles: Dorsey, Goodman, Lombardo, Kirby, Kenton, Gillespie, and Cugat. It's a swell gimmick to test your versatility.

(Ed. Note: Send your questions to Sy Oliver and Dick Jacobs, 1619 Broadway, New York, 19. Enclose self-addressed, envelope for personal reply.)

ACHIEVEMENT IN MUSIC EDUCATION

We are indeed proud that 90% of the Conservatory's student body has already re-enrolled for the coming year to continue to receive the type of music education offered only at the New York Conservatory of Modern Music.

These young musicians come from all parts of the country, many of them having attended other music schools. They all have one desire in common . . . to make a career of music. The Conservatory faculty of outstanding instrumentalists and musicians is helping them achieve this goal.

The Conservatory offers a complete curriculum . . . comprehensive academic studies, and thorough instrumental training. Courses include: Private Instruction; Rehearsals with complete Band; Periodic Recording of Student's Work; Section Rehearsals with Instructors; Full Orchestra Rehearsals with Arranger and Director; Orchestration, Arranging, Theory, Harmony, Counterpoint; Sight Singing and Ear Training.

Dancery Stays Open

Detroit — Eastwood Gardens, scheduled to close down for the summer after it got off to a poor start early in the season, has decided to stay open. Spot has cut down on name bands and is sticking to low-budget crews to keep going during the steamy season.

Diggin' Discs

favorably here before. Ricky Jordan sings Lover, has something of the same quality Buddy Hughes showed when with Thornhill. The reed and brass voicings are full and well-placed. Sooner, a novelty by Jordan, is sung by Arnold Haber, scored to sound much like the Krupa-Brown bands of several years ago. Haber's vocal sounds like Charlie Shavers, is helped by good clear recording given the background. Shame the east coast doesn't pick up a few more technicians of the kind that seem to be roosting out there. (Supreme 1526.)

VOCAL

Buddy Clark
I Wonder What's Become of Sally
Just One More Chance
Girl of My Dreams
Stay as Sweet as You Are
It Was So Beautiful
Linger Achile
I Wanna Be Loved
If You Were Only Mine
Album Rating—SS
The simplicity and sincerity that were once earmarks of the Clark style don't show here. The phrasing is often tricky and involved without much purpose, while his lower tones seem thinner than several years ago. The backgrounds by Mitch Ayres are recorded shallowly and the arranging ideas are ordinary. (Columbia C-187.)

Billy Eckstine
I Love You
Goodbye
Temptation
Crying
A tune from the Berlin Miss Liberty sung as well by Eckstine as the song's limitations will allow. Flipover was for many years Benny Goodman's signoff radio theme, was fitted with lyrics some time ago but only now is getting a plugging. It certainly writes fins to the '30s, when the country's hottest singer records what once was the theme song of the country's hottest bard. Eckstine's control and shading continue to improve.

Hugo Winterhalter conducts Temptation, Buddy Baker (who did such good work with Herb Jeffries on Exclusive) Crying. Temptation finds Eckstine in not such good voice with his old devil, wobble, in there fighting. (MGM 10472, 10458.)

Sarah Vaughan
Tonight I Shall Sleep
While You Are Gone
Sleep is the tune by Duke and Mercer Ellington which was recorded some years ago when Victor worked a trick stunt of having Duke record with T Dorsey and that worthy trombone played this piece with Ellington. It sounded then and now a little like Prelude to a Kiss. La Vaughan's vocal acrobatics continue to amaze me—you might sample her wandering on the first syllable of the song. There are times when her tone thins out a bit—this is a comparatively new twist—but she certainly ranks right under Ella as the best singer in the country. Certainly no other singers have turned out wax on a par with these two. Gone is Lucky Thompson's tune, is sung plaintively by Sarah. (Columbia 38512.)

Nat Cole
The Trouble with Me Is You
Who Do You Know in Heaven
The greatest song plugger in the country off on another one. Greatest because while he may not be the stylist a Crosby is, he still can make a completely new tune sound more palatable to John Q. Public than anyone I've ever heard. Marvin Fischer and Roy Alfred's Trouble gets an apt going over, should do well despite the business slump. The trio plays with more life than it has on records lately. (Capitol 57-680.)

Doris Day
Blame My Absentminded Heart
Now That I Need You
Much as I regret to report it, Doris Day is beginning to sound a little more like a singer. Heart has a little of it for a change, as well as some good phrasing. Hollywood is evidently where you learn these virtues. (Columbia 38507.)

Dorothy Carless and Dick Haymes
My One and Only Highland Fling
I'll Keep the Lovelight Burning
Dorothy Carless, a capable piano player with perfect pitch and an excellent repertoire, is an English singer who, in the furor cooked up over Beryl Davis, has been commercially overlooked. On her Decca side here with Haymes, though the song doesn't permit too much display, you can sample her good tone and restraint in phrasing. Haymes sings Burning, a banal tune from the standpoint of harmonic construction, easily. (Decca 24654.)

NOVELTY

Ray Noble
Happy Holidays
Album Rating—SSS
A sequel to Noble's successful Happy Anniversary album, this is another packaging of eight tunes with Elliot and Cathy Lewis doing the narration. It's slick stuff, but as long as Noble is making use of the "grand rights" to these tunes, some of the dialogue might have been more smoothly put together. Ideas such as these are going to be essential to television but the halting mistakes and some of the writing crudities could have been ironed out for the comparative leisure of a recording session. (Columbia CL 6053.)

Jimmy Durante
Fugitive from Esquire
It's My Nose's Birthday
You likes him or you don't. These are new routines, in the sense that they are old ones re-written (the first is Durante, the Well-Dressed Man) delivered with what seems to me less zest than Monsieur Schnoz displays in person. (MGM 30207.)

Dorothy Shay
Pappa's Predicament
Another Notch on Father's Shotgun
La Shay sings a punnin' state song. Strictly funnin', that is. This stuff went well the first time around on records. I wonder how it's going to do now. (Columbia 38508.)

Here are two albums 20th-Century-Fox musical director Alfred Newman originally did for Majestic, issued here on LP. They are lush studio treatments of well-known music, extremely well recorded technically. You quarrel with some of the tempos and phrases, but if so, most movie music will make you unhappy, since this is some of its best. The last side of course is Alfred Newman's own tune, written in the late '20s, for which he seems to have an especial fondness. It was a hit two years ago under the name of Sentimental Rhapsody. (Mercury MC 20000.)

 rpm record player and the winner's choice of $10 worth of new 45 rpm records from Victor's extensive catalog, which includes all types of music, classical as well as popular. There's a prize worth shooting for!

Stars on Wax
 And Norman Granz is tossing a hatful of prizes into the kitty. Besides six pairs of passes to JATP concerts he's including four sets of 10 JATP albums, featuring stars like Illinois Jacquet, Flip, Coleman, Lester Young, Charlie Parker, Bill Harris, J. J. Johnson, Buck Clayton, Howard McGhee, Buddy Rich, Jo Jones, Hank Jones, Irving Ashby, and countless others.
 Granz also has added four of his yet-unreleased Mercury Jazz Scene albums, which will retail at $25 each. They contain eight 12-inch sides on vinylite (including sides by Duke Ellington, Bird Parker, playing with a string section, and Lester Young) and never-before-published pictures of all the stars in jazz. The pics and discs cover the jazz world completely, hence Jazz Scene. Only 5,000 of these albums will be issued.

There will be a total of 28 cash and merchandise prizes awarded in this amazing contest to discover a word, new or old, which might be used as a substitute for jazz. Besides the first prize of cash described above, there will be five other cash prizes of $100, $75, $50, $25, and $10.

Cash Is Doubled
 As in the case of the first prize, each of these will be doubled if the winner is a Down Beat subscriber. Many of the hundreds of readers who are submitting word suggestions are protecting themselves on this possible cash gain in filling out a subscription blank (you will find one on page 17) and sending it in with their entries.

 But you don't have to be a subscriber to win in this contest. Any reader anywhere in the world is eligible, with exception of employees, contributors to, and correspondents of Down Beat and their families, and employees of the John Maher Printing Co. and their families.
 You may submit as many word suggestions as you please, but each must be written on a separate entry blank, similar to the one you will find on page 16 of this issue, and each must be accompanied by a letter of from 20 to 200 words, telling what you think the word jazz means today, and to what portion of our music it should be applied.

Dates with Names
 Three of the prize winners, one each in the east, middle west, and western sections of the country, will be transported to New York, Chicago, or Hollywood for free dinner-dance dates with name vocalists, girl or male, depending upon the sex of the winner. They will dine at a famous cafe with their companion for the evening, will be guests of the management of some well-known hot spot later, such as Bop City on Broadway, where Ralph Watkins will play host to one of the couples.
 In Chicago, Ernest Byfield, operator of the Ambassador and Sherman hotels, a gracious host with an international reputation for hospitality, will entertain the winner and his or her vocalist companion with dinner at the fabulous Pump Room, a spot regularly visited by celebrities from all over the world.
 This contest will close at midnight August 31, 1949, and in case of tie duplicate prizes will be awarded. Get your entry in early, don't forget to write a letter with it, and if you are not a subscriber, you may assure yourself of a double payoff on one of the cash prizes by filling out the subscription blank on page 17 and sending it along with your coupon and letter.
