The electrical industry of the country is picking up the tab. The television networks are about five years old, commercially speaking, and already they have worked themselves up to the million dollar show. They have devoted each of their five years to attempting to surpass the extravagances of the previous year. The chaos that will be needed to surpass 1964's spectaculars? The hundred million for talent, on 1.287 stations. What will be needed to surpass 1964's spectaculars? What will be needed to surpass 1964's spectaculars? Two hundred million for talent, on 1.287 stations. With a show lasting from 2 p.m. until 1:30 a.m.? Maybe we're unfair. After all, it was a spectacular that gave we mary Martin's history of fashion, on the Ford Show last winter. It wasn't very colossal—just one female with spectacular talent far being funny, and one piece of cloth. Hollywood--It's beginning to look like the easiest way for a singer to become a recording artist (if you'll pardon the expression) is to become a movie star. Since Jeff Chandler broke out on wax, we've had Buddy Baer, Jane Russell, Marilyn Monroe (doing solo disca follow-ups on soundtrack ex-erpts from Gentlemen Prefer Hondes) and now Kirk Douglas and Tony Curtis. Noi exactly in the same category is Dick Powell, a fugitive from harps and flats for almost 12 years and whose first release on the new Bell label is (Susan Slept Here/Hold My Hand). "Only if there is a demand," he said, laughing. "When Susan Slept Here, my version of the title num-ber, was previewed on Peter Pot-ter's Juke Box Jury, all of the judges, Margaret Whiting, Zsa Zsa Gabor, Ross Bagdasarian, and Carleton Carpenter, voted it a miss,' but the audience reversed their decision.

Carleton Carpenter, voted it a 'miss,' but the audience reversed their decision. "I would have voted with the judges. I didn't have time for proper preparation for the date, and the thing didn't come off well musically. But they tell me it's selling. So — we'll just see what happens. But at most I am not planning on doing more than an occasional record just to keep in practice."

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Dub-bing of phonograph records as background juke box music in cafe sequences is becoming more com-mon but rarely do they use mod-ern jazz items. You will hear one in Palo Alto Productions' forth-coming John Ireland-Dorothy Ma-lone starrer, Smash-up. Producer Roger Corman picked Chet Baker's Band Aid from the Pacific Jazz catalogue ... An informant who caught a sneak showing of Judy Garland's "comeback" picture, A Star Is Born, says it will be just that — a great picture in which Judy is great and to which the audience responded like her Palace Theater audience, with tears and cheers. The result would be a verbal war which would hurt jasz more than anything else, and look who we would have to thank for it—the "greatest jazz-man of them all." This record should have been judged on its contribution to jazz, as all jazz records should be judged. If it was, I'm sure it would have never rated one star. Personally I'd rather listen to real thunder. Music of this kind ought only to be played close to elephants. The other side, Science Fieldon, is a composition of the leaders of this band. It has all the intimacy of a death sentence..." Condon began his first column by pointing out: "I am not a record collector and never have been. Nor am I a jazz scholar. Therefore, the idea of my doing a record column is purely ridiculous. It is something like asking Leonard Feather or some other jazz scholar to sit in with our band, which is like asking the late John Dillinger to sit in with the supreme court."

Jam scholar Feather is also a professional pianist, and promptly called Condon, accepted his challenge, and at this writing was to sit in with the Condon band on a forthcoming Tuesday night. Pundit Condon, musing at this critical turn of events said, "Well, it'll be somewhat harder to get a gig for Dillinger."

New York—There's been many a name band leader who has obtained relief gigs for relatively unknown groups, but rarely has it worked the other way around. Most interesting recent example of this kind of switch is the case of successful local leader Al Lombardi who has gotten dates for the likes of Gene Krupa. Woody Herman, and the Dorsey Brothers. Lombardi is the regular leader in both the Hollywood Terrace in Brocklyn and the Sunnyside Garden ballroom in Queens, batonering at the former on Friday nights and the latter on Saturday nights. But there are a number of times when his band has other engagement and Lombardi books his own replacements. He recently convinced the management of both spots to try name bands for those relief assign-ments. As a result, Krupa took the busy Lombardi's place at the Hollywood Terrace July 23; Charlie Ventura played there July 30 and Sunnyside Garden July 31; Herman is scheduled for sometime in November, and Lombardi is presently negotiating with the Dorseys and Buddy Morrow, among others, for future dates. Sunnyside Garden has an alternate name band policy until five years are last four years. Hollywood Terrace opened last January and has always featured the Lombardi band.

Final recording success depends upon the type of sound, the quality and positioning of the microphone, and the basic efficiency of the amplifing system. Example Of Mike Take the excellent Shure Model 333 studio microphone for an ex-ample. (I hasten to mention that this is not the only fine microphone manufactured in the United States either by Shure or others.) The 333's quality is undisputed, but I do not intend that this mi-crophone be assumed the correct one for all application. Its cost, a limiting factor, may resolve your choice into the less expensive but adequate Shure Sonodyne Model 51. (Each has been laboratory tested and found accurately advertised.) Definite portions of the sounds are carried through the air to the sensing element inside the micro-phone. In the case of the Shure 333, this element is a narrow, sus-pended strip of metal. As the sound waves strike this corrugated ribbon, it moves back and forth between two magnetic side pieces. Get Signal Voltage Get Signal Voltage in sound, remonding with con-stancy to a wide range of frequen-cies. The moving ribbon is but one type of element; another involvas a moving coil of wire wrapped around a broad thin ring of alumi-num. This ring is not much dif-ferent in size and position from a wedding ring on a finger. As the sound varies, this coil and flat ring move up and down on the magnetic pole picce (analogous to corresponding signal voltage. In the less expensive micro-phone, man made crystal elements are used. These crystal elements are used. These crystal elements are used. These crystal units are about the size of a postage stamp, though somewhat thicker and cov-ered with a moisture-proofing material giving the external ap-pearance of a costed candy wafer. Like the other elements the sound energy strikes this crystal, pro-ducing a quotient of signal volt-age. Retail Price Cited age.

Retail Price Cited

In all sensing elements the re-tail price is largely governed by the difficulties encountered in their manufacture. In these particular microphones manufactured by Shure Brothers, Inc.—the 333, the 300, and the 51—the price range is indicative of their quality require-ments.

mikes are of necessity circu, not intended to give professional results. Some tape machines and PA machines would give professional electronic results if better micro-phones were used. However, care must be taken to assure that the microphone you choose will pro-duce enough signal to function properly with your existing equip-ment.

The elements of signal voltage and electronic matching of impe-dance are not to be neglected. Even the best individual components — microphone, tape recorder, power amplifier, and speaker — when not correctly matched together, will produce results that are little bet-ter than the worst units. More in later columns about mi-crophone placement. (Ed. Note: Smad genetiens to Robert O. Jordan at 329 Marice Ave., Mighland Park. III. Enclose stamped mil-addressed anvideps for personal reply.)

Many audiophiles have connected their television sound circuit to one of their high fidelity amplifier inputs in order to realize a little more quality out of the sounds emanating from the television set. Athough this usually improves things, it is by no means the final or complete answer to the problem. Two important difficulties im-mediately are apparent in the TV in sound, responding with con-stancy to a wide range of frequen-type of element; another involves a moving coil of wire wrapped around a broad thin ring of alumi-num. This ring is not much dif-

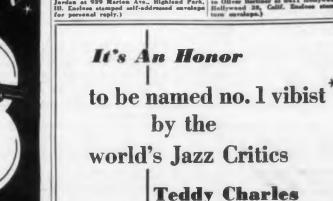

range. Circuit Design Cited Circuit Design Cited Design of the vacuum tube cir-cuits also limits the frequency response, for there is no need for high fidelity circuitry if low-grade speakers and transformers are used. These conditions exist for many obvious reasons: To keep the price down, to re-duce size and weight, and a gen-eral emphasis on video system de-sign at the expense of everything else. This is a deplorable situation that must, and will, be corrected in time.

that must, and will, be corrected in time. The telecasters have their diffi-culties, too. Basically, there are few, if any, really good live pickup program microphones for televi-sion. The studios still are using microphones designed for general AM/FM broadcasting although there are a handful of manufac-turers experimenting with a micro-phone capable of working under television conditions. What's The Problem?

phone capable of working under television conditiona. What's The Problem? What is the problem here? Prin-cipally, there is virtually no micro-phone readily available that is capable of maintaining smooth, wide-frequency response when picking up sounds at relatively long distance, unless these sounds are very intense, as with an or-chestra. So, when it comes to pick-ing up general action, the micro-phones let us down. Another important problem is that television studios have virtu-again subjugated to video. This condition really cannot be helptd. Sets are made in limited ways with limited materials, and every effort is made to enhance the vie-ual effect. What can be done about this?

which in made to enhance the vis-ual effect. What can be done about this? Experts are working on the pro-blems; we must wait and see. Un-fortunately, those at home can do very little about these conditions except the obvious-feed the tale-vision audio through the high fi-delity system . and hope for the best. Harry gets an entire 12" LP to work with here, and he has taken fullest advantage of it. It comes close to being his night club routine, as he gives spoken introductions to some of the tunes, does one 20-second one (Next Big River), and is completely absorbing throughout. This is a splendidly sung and packaged collection.

The tried-and-true Gleason formula works again in this collection of unassilable standards, played by lush strings and fea-turing the pensively melodic trumpet of Bobby Hackett. It's near-perfect back-ground music, with Hackett's horn pro-viding a handsome bonus.

Quasi-r&b album gives Ella Mae a chance to expound at length on the infidelities and peculiarities of men. And she does a good job of it, though the best selection of the lot is not either of the three B's indicated in the title, but a fourth—the ballad, I Love You, Yes I Do.

You have read a great deal about Frank on these pages in the last few months. Suf-fice it to say he's in superb form again on this grouping, and if you don't at least give it a listen, we can only feel a pang of pity for you and what you're missing. For us, it's a "must-own" item.

order, to the people of their home states." The singers are Bobby Grant, Boddy Boy Hawkins, King Solo-mon Hill, and one urban blues singer, Bill Johnson. The notes are valuable; the cover is striking; but I'm afraid the music is of more historical interest than it is "com-pelling, rhythmic music of tre-mendous emotional impact," as is claimed. For early folk blues that are both, listen to the blues in volume one of Negro Folk Music of Alabama (Ethnic Folkways LP 1417). Gathered together in one well-recorded 12° LP, the cum-ulative impact of this, the greatest big band in jazz, is too much! Here is that rare combination of section precision and relaxation, of functional simplicity and con-tinuous freshness of feeling. It's also about time someons gave cretinuous freshness of feeling. It's also about time someons gave cre-dit to the man largely responsible for the aforementioned precision— concert master Marshall Royal. At base, of course, this is a triumph belonging to everyone in this ex-ultant band and to the swingingest bandbuilder of them all, William Basie. This is called, by the way, Count Basie Dance Seesion and it's a powerful reminder of what jam began as in Storyville—music to dance and live with. This is one band you can't listen to as a detached observer; when you dig Basie, you become part of the beat. Basie, you become part of the beat. (Clef 12" MG C-626)

Rating: ***

Raing: ### Reissues of some of the tributes to Duke Ellington that Charlie Barnet recorded for Bluebird be-tween 1939 and 1941. Notes contain no dates or personnels, but a num-ber of the fine trumpet choruse ing rhythm section was propelled on several of the sides by drum-mer Cliff Leeman, pianist Bill Mil-ler and the late, great guitarist, Bus Etri. Most insistent soloist is Mr. Barnet, of course, and while Charlie has never been a particu-at his forceful but limited best when playing Duke a song (par-ticularly here on The Gal from Jorde). On three of the sides en-pocially, Barnet's band really did get some of the feel of the Elling-tos approach though the Barnet quality is much less durable. Those three are Lament, Joe's, and Bar-net's own composition—the ar-pole of the eight not by Ellington —Duke's Idea. Nice to have these available again, especially if you grew up in the era. (Victor LPT 3062)

Art Blakey Split Kick; Once in a While; Quicksilver

Rating: ****

Quicksilver Raing: #### The first of a series of three LPs based on a session recorded at Birdland on Feb. 21 of this year. Art Blakey was working there at the time with Clifford Brown, Lou Donaldson, Horace Silver, and Curly Russell. The set is very well recorded by Rudy Van Gelder, and is one of the better caught-in-a-club sessions on record. Here you even get an introduction by reso-nant Pee Wee Marquette, the Bert Parks of Birdland, and a few words from Art. Silver, Rlakey, and Rus-sell are excellent in the section work, and Horace solos well. Don-aldson plays with more inclsive-nees than on any of his previous records: the increased vigor affects his tone a little adversely, but Lou's authority indicates a young altoist of increasing importance. The brilliant Clifford Brown amply justifies his new star victory in this year's Down Beat Critics' Poll except for one thing, and that's why this isn't five-starred. Once in a While is Clifford's concerto and it doesn't quite come off. Reasons: the approach to the tune is interestingly different but Once in a while is Chinord's concerto and it doesn't quite come off. Reasons: the approach to the tune is interestingly different but there apparently wasn't enough preparation, because the tempo al-terations come out awkwardly (in the accompaniment, too), and there is therefore the feeling of clut-tured rather than flowing struc-ture. Clifford also does not sustain his longer notes well; and he has one main trouble on all the tunes —he often plays too many notes. Clifford will be a great trumpeter, not just a very good one, when he finds out the expressive value of economy. But this set is highly recommended, and I'm looking for-ward to the next two. By the way, notice how this Blue Note LP has much more presence than the other labels producing jars reviewed in this isne. (Blue Note 19 5037)

The main trouble is a stiffness, lack of spontaneity, a seeming con-centration on playing the right notes at the right time—playing them just the way they used to be played. London is an example of this. Hence, a mostly pedestrian performance, even though Sweetie does generate some steam. Of the lot, clarinetist Jim Camp-bell is the most competent. Carl Halen's trumpet lacks a spark, and his technique falters. All tradi-tional-jazz Ohio trombonists evi-dently try to play like Turk Murphy. George Stell conforms, or rather overconforms. DOWN BEAT He is solidly backed by Walter Page, Freddie Greene, Jo Jones, and, on two numbers, by trumpeter Ruby Braff. Sellers is a powerful singer of great warmth and is ca-pable of searing intensity (Dorotha Boogie) as well as dramatic under-playing (Boll Weevil). Listen to Greene's emphatic chording on the latter. By Leonard Feather Pete Rugolo recently returned to New York after four years around the sound tracks in California. Although much of his time on the coast was dedicated to movie hackground work, Pete refreshed his friendship with the band busi-nease by returning to records, a few months ago, on Columbia. To test his familiarity with the secent records by big bands for his Bitdold Test. Pete was given no information whatever, either before or during the sitting, regarding anything on the labels of the records.

I don't known who the alto man is; it im't Mariano, and I'm sure it im't Lee Kon int; it must have been made after he left. I loved that little swing part in there, and there's some very interesting brass voicing ... Same type of thing that was used in Fascinating Rhythm . . . I loved the introduction, too, with the con-trapural effects. Actually, the only thing I didnt little warmer sound. Bill, if it was bill, played it very legitimate, and it probably was meant to be played that it wasn't well played, but I'd hittle warmer sound. 10-four stars.
3. Dem Terry. Terry's Tase (Csimmbia). Comp. & err. Gene Reland. Is that the whole arrangement? Seems short, doesn't it? I can't recognize this either. It's not the type of thing I like; it jumps, swings, I guess, but the arrangement's kind of dull. Perhaps because of the rhythm-and-blues surge, this band was making an attempt on those lines, but to me it's worth two stars at most.

it's worth two stars at most. 4. Willis Conver's Hease of Seends. The Seeg 1s Yes (Breaswich). Arr. Johany Mandel. Earl Swope. frombess: Charle Walp, trumper. I think that's the beet thing I've heard so far today. A wonder-ful, really interesting arrangement. Great contrapuntal writing and tone colors. I don't recognize the band. Reminds me of some of the sounds George Handy used to write . . .Did Johnny Mandel write it?

Sounds Orige Handy Used to write ... Did Johnny Mandel write it?
The arrangement got kinda long, and I'd have liked to hear some more solo work in there someplace, but outside of that it was fine. Maybe I should save five for something that completely knocks me out, so I'll make this one 4%.
Meward Rumsy's Lighthesse All Sters. Still Life (Cestemporary). Comp. Seb Cooper. Bad Shahh, fiste, elte flute: Cooper, Bud Shank, and the Lighthouse gang. Claude Williamson on piano. These boys never stop amazing me. They all worked for me too on the coast, and record for me, and they're such serious student, it's wonderful to see it. They work all day and they write and study. They've come a long way on their instruments, and it's great to hear Bud play flute like that, and Coop improving every day on obce.
I think Bob wrote this one. It's just wonderful: I liked everything about it. At least four stars.

Sounds like one of the Gerry Mulligan school. Sounds like one of the arrangements Gerry wrote for Stan; it doesn't sound like Stan's band, only it must be be-cause of the soloist.—I recognized Frank Rosolino on trombone. Out-side of that, it could have been Shorty's band or some other. But I liked it. It swings. It's very sim-ple, tasty. I'd say about four stars. 7. Most of the boys in this band also record for me . . . Jimmy Giuffre, Shelly . . This has a little humor and is a cute, wonderful arrangement, and you can't mistake Shorty's trumpet. Jimmy playing clarinet gets a very unusual sound, too. I like the whole thing; four stars.

June (Capitel). Arr. Back Clay-fee. Boy! A very confusing record. It can't be Basie. A fellow tried to imitate him on piano. Hard to tell who the soloists were; the trumpet player was in between schools; the whole band doesn't seem to have any definite style. It could be a foreign band copying an Ameri-can band. It can't be James... I'm trying to think who could have made a new record of this. I like the original best. Hearing Count play it in person makes a big difference. I don't like this record—at all. In spots it's well played, but, boy, right after the piano chorus at the beginning, the band comes in, and you can hardly tell what key they're in. Not more than two stars for that.

Enjoys Work

Enjoys Work When I say that, I don't mean I'll retire in the very near future. With me, it's a case of my enjoy-ing the work I do now with the group and enjoying being with them outside of work. So it's not my own group that bothers me; it's what I see around me.

Respect For Digg

Respect For Diary One man I do respect very much is Dizzy Gillespie. As much as he's leen called a trend starter and the head of various cults, Dis is one of the straightest thinking musicians I've come in contact with. He's one of the most leval-headed men I've met. I know Dizzy has been one of the greatest inapirations in my the greatest inspirations in my life, speaking of modernists. And I life, speaking of modernists. And I know anyone who gets to know him will feel as I do. In Diszy there's a happiness pro-jected in his music, a vibrant per-sonality. I have seen him in front of a band, and that was one of the great moments in my life. He is one of the greatest bandleaders of them all, a man who can fire a whole orchestra. But he's one of the few in jazz today with that kind of fire. If you stop to realize the great jazz things that preceded the period we're in now, this is a nightmare era. As a result, so much of the stuff today is way out of less a lot of it is reissues. Can't See It As for the future of the jam scene, people say things are getting better. But honestly and truthfully, from what I see, the way it's go-ing, any real change seems to be far off. I don't think you can any longer help the condition in the mass, but individuals can be helped, and that in time may bear on the mass. the mas on heiped, and that in the may bear on the mass. I hate to say this, but the ma-jority seems to be on another tan-gent. The only way you can help bring them back in is by helping and encouraging the younger ma-nicians who are straight and who are trying to do something. The young musician today won-ders where he's going from here, and sees no helping hand. It is these men who should be encour-ared.

aged. I know, for example, one fellow in Toronto who has one of the greatest groups l've ever heard-Phil Nimmona, a young arranger and clarinet player and composer. He's organized a unit and is in the process of building it so success-fully that I believe it will end up on proceed and create quite a stir on records and create quite a stir in music circles in the States. He has a new approach, and you can feel the belief in his work and in the way he plays his work.

Horace Silver is another young musician who could stand a whole lot of encouragement because he

In an encouragement because he has something to say. I have five children who have, I hope, been brought up right, and I must admit that I have an in-side fear that one of them might become a musician and become gr-posed thereby to the sort of thing I've been discussing. I wouldn't discourage any of them who did want to go into music-my oldest daughter has al-ready started studying-but I'll certainly try to instill enough self-confidence into them so that as long as their life span in music-lasts, they won't fall into the de-structive attitude which is so prev-alent today. The jazz scene as it stands to-don if it continues the way it's go what I see around me. I have never been so appaled with conditions in my life. And especially in New York which is why I hate to play that city. It's unbelievable. I'll probably be asked why I single out New York as be-ing so particularly bad. I think the reason is the city is so over-crowded with musicians. It's the bard of them are all on the scene at once, and so many of thing almost as well or as well as and another the next night. The way you play music is a tonal bi-ography of yourself — your thoughts and feelings. The other night Gerry Mulligan was telling me that our trio is the happiest group he's heard or seen for some time. Well, I don't see how you can predict happings in them can do the same kind of thing almost as well or as well as many other musicians. New York, therefore, is a frustrating place for the young musician who goes there with great aspirations. how you can project happiness in music unless you're happin your-self and happy with what you're doing, as we are.

doing, as we are. Happiness Cone I honestly believe that a lot of the happiness that used to be so much a part of it has left jars. Bands like Duke Ellington and Count Basie and the Benny Good-man quartet and sextet had an honesty and genuine fire you rare-ly hear in jars today. And one reason modern music is so hard to sell for a lot of groups is that very coldness. Some musicians give the listeners the feeling: "Be glad you're here, that you've been al-lowed in." They a signment into the kind of scene. If, God forbid, I should lose a man, it would be very hard to replace him. I'd have to find out whether a possible replacement was personally straight. I'd actual-ly have to acreen him. It wasn't like that years ago. There were always plenty of good musicians you could use, and you didn't have to go around and alk. "Is he straight?" I don't enjoy discussing this, and straight?" I don't enjoy discussing this, and I've always avoided talking about it in radio or magazine interviewa, but I've come to realize that you can't just look the other way and hope it'll go away. These recople have created a monster they'll never destroy.

Encouraged By Imbeciles And I should add that a lot of guys who have gone that way have been encouraged by the imbecilic cultists. I mean the ones who say that if one of their favorites blows well, he's always the greatest all the time. That's the biggest false-hood ever told. That mistaken attitude leads to the fact that Gotham Overnated I think, too, that New York has been highly everated as being a jazs mecca. In the last year or half year, I've heard so many new things and so many good things coming from the west coast. A lot of musicians in New York have loat their feeling for experimenta-tion or the cultivation of anything in the way of good sound or mod-ern sound. man quartet and sextet had an tion or the cultivation of anything honesty and genuine fire you rare-ly hear in jaxs today. Some musicians give the to build a group, you don't just listeners the feeling: "Be glad sasemble all-stars and have some-bowed in." They've situmped into the kind of ike you would a boby. They've situmped into the kind of ike you would a boby. That was the way big bands today is that attitude to a stand, but also in the attitude on stand, but also in the attitude to missing work. and off stand personally. Can't Understand Them I can't Understand Them I can't Understand other groups I've seen where each man comes in and leaves individually, and you don't see them together at inter-missions. It ends up in the way they play—they very seldom do anything well together. In fact, smong present day musicians, there is so little conception left of how to live with one another. All of us in the trio have other interests besides music. I'm a firm believer in diversified interests. I love music, believe me, but I could-n't apend 23 or 24 hours consecu-tively just in music. That's why I've gotten so much out of travel-ing.—like with Norman Granz-and out of photography and other things. When I first came down to the United States from Canada, I came with stars in my eyes. When you hear great artists, as I did on records, you inevitably build up a certain amount of personal re-spect for them. But when you see some of them, it's apt to be another thing altogether. Your dream is shattered and your respect washed away. How can you build respect for someone who doesn't hold re-apeet for himself? "To sing or play really out of tune," continued Canby, "to fast or sharp by mistake rather than intention, is an unforgiveable ain in any music, but especially in follin any music, but especially in folk music. The listener who can't dif-ferentiate, after awhile, needs some ear-training on his own."

Another Misconception

Another area of misconception has to do with these singers whi make art music out of folk songs. This is a very difficult thing to do without being cheap or condescend-ing. It requires in this kind of singer as much musical education and training as a lieder vocable singer as much musical education and training as a lieder vocalist must have, but it requires, furthar, a rare empathy with many differ-ont national cultures and musical languages. It is also not enough to be able to transcribe folk song and understand their written notes, but the singer who makes art songs of folk songs must be able to feel the "nuances of rhythm and intonation" between the notes that are neculiar to each folk trathat are peculiar to each folk tradition.

I think, however, that once any-one with a musical ear listens to Martha Schlamme, for example, he cannot help but be impressed and moved by what a brilliam and moved by what a brilliant artist can convey with powerful honesty in transferring folk ma-terial into art songs without lo-ing the essential background flavor of each song. ing the of each Miss another St. Louis boy. Gets The Credit If the Basie band ignites the smoldering fires of big bands-its one week in the Downbeat here in June was a tremendous succeas with more than 4,000 admissions in six nights—it is guys like Ernie who can take the credit. That and the fact that Basie is making the blues into music again. "What I call the Kansas City blues are coming back," Ernie says. "We notice it on the one-niters. I was raised up around the blues. My mother had all the old blues records, Bessie Smith and all of them. The blues is basic to jazz but all blues isn't jazz. You have to give it a jazz feeling. "I try to write Basie style, hap-py, free-swinging style, and I look for something freah, new figures, and avoid things that are trite. It's not hard to write for this band, though—the guys have such won-derful spirit. "Can Hardly Wait"

'Can Hardly Wait'

"You know, I can hardly wait" "You know, I can hardly wait for rehearsal when I write some-thing. It's really a kick to hear your music played when you hear it with this band."

your music played when you hear it with this band." Everyone on the band not only looks enthusiastic but is enthusias-tic. They don't mind telling you how good the band is or how fine it sounds. What's the use of deny-ing the obvious? That's a refreab-ing attitude. "Many times in the last few years, Basie would get discouraged, and we'd go to him and tell him to keep on," Ernie says. "It's wonder-ful to be with a band like this." If history remembers Ernie, as it should, for one particular num-ber, it will be for the wonderful, awinging tune whose title seems to epitomize all this group is atriv-ing for: The Blues Done Come Back. And they have.

Frisco Area Leaps With Jazz Groups

San Francisco — The Bay Area leaped with jazz during July and August as Nat Cole, Jerry Field-ing, Duke Ellington, Brew Moore, Ralph Sutton, Kid Ory, Billie Hol-iday, Woody Herman, and Erroll Garner came to town. In addition, the Bob Scobey band at the Tin Angel continued to do the best business the club has ever had, and Turk Murphy at the Italian Village continued to hold his own after more than two years at the spot.

Boston Symphony On NBC Starting Oct. 9

New York—NBC's fall and win-ter symphonic coverage will be based on 26 radio concerts by the Boston Symphony orchestra begin-ning Oct. 9 and continuing until May. There will be aix Saturdays when the Boston Symphony will be on tour, however, performing matinees instead of evenings. For those oc-casions, NBC will fill with Satur-day night remotes by other re-nowned orchestras.

Hits The Spot

Newport, R. I.—At the New-port Jam festival, Ella Fitagen-ald was waiting patiently in the wings while the narrator went on at length about her abilities as a singer. "Yeah?" Ella was heard to comment. "If all that's true, why doean't somebody get me a com-mercial — Pepsi-Colu or some thing?"

NEW! BUESCHER Custom Built ARISTOCRATS

Great things have happened for you at Buescher. Ever since the war brought new precision tools to the Buescher plant, everyone has concentrated on creat-ing a new family of brasses - whose rich tone and easy playing would bring new pleasure and new heights of accomplishment to musicians everywhere.

These Custom Built Aristocrats are the result. They were designed with the help of symphony musicians, top flight radio and TV men, bandmasters, teachers, and players from leading universities.

Their "sound," or tone, will amaze you. It's big, res-onant, full of vibrant life. And it maintains its beauty in extreme fortissimo, or whispering softness.

Only you can experience the thrill of playing these marvelous new instruments. Try one - today - at your Buescher dealers.

Rhythm & Blue Notes

Frank Schiffman, owner of New York City's Apollo Frank Schiffman, owner of New York City's Apollo theater, has a practical answer to why the theater was shut-tered for four weeks—"No talent." The palace of r&b on Harlem's 125th St. has featured most top names—many of them more than once. But, apparently, the time comes when customers forgo even the air conditioning in search of something new. Seems the big reason is big names. Once you've supotlighted the Once you've spotlighted the handful of top exponents of the blues with a beat technique, back-grounded by the second stringers, then what? There are lots and and lots of names hanging on labels in the local record shops, but only a few of them know their way around a stage as well as a recording studio.

How many, say, Ruth Browns, are there?

Here's a gal who, since a day almost six years ago when she moved from a hospital bed into record session, has liner. The often-told an Atlantic been a headliner. The often-told story of the near-tragedy which paid off in success is reflected in Ruth's wax efforts.

In Blues Tradition

She gets high on the jukebox lists with tunes which are osten-sibly raucous and lighthearted. Yet even a Mama, where the mood is playful, is in the tradition of blues, which demands an honest feeling.

Blanche Calloway, Cab's sister, discovered Ruth in Washington alsovered kun in washingon when the youngster was stranded. She had parted with the Lucky Millinder band and was trying to decide whether it wouldn't be a good idea to go back to Ports-mouth, Va., and her father's church abair. choir.

Blanche got her a date for the Apollo in New York and a session with Atlantic. The five-hour drive from D.C. to keep those dates in N.Y. took Ruth Brown 10 months. An automobile crash hospitalized her with broken legs.

Atlantic Waited

Even though the Apollo had made other plans in that 10-month period, Atlantic still was waiting, and So Long was the tune Ruth recorded when she finally reached New York.

Ruth since has developed into a top stylist. Her tunes were among the first to creep across that mythi-cal r&b/pop boundary. Letroit, 9/10-12 Tune Toppers (Surf) Wildwood, N. Meanwhile, her personal appear-ances are pretty much confined to those limited areas which are "ap-proved" for råb exponents. Even so, her weekly pay check runs into four figures.

Come September, Charles Brown and his band will accompany Ruth

through the south for a number of weeks. Chuck Willis, too, has got him-self a band and will make the rounds with Joe Turner. (Chuck authored Oh, What a Dream, which Ruth Brown and Patti Page have put on wax)... Fats Domino and the Clovers also will make dates through the south in September. Perhaps the biggest surprise in the merger department is the news of Faye Adams linking talents with Faye Adams linking talents with Bill Doggett for a swing thru the southland come October.

Duke Draws Record 1.100 To Downbeat

San Francisco--Duke Ellington, in his second two-week engage-ment at the Downbeat Club in four montha, set a new Saturday night record at the spot with more than 1,100 admissions (Sarah Vaughan and Count Basie held the house record jointly at 1,100). Ellington's second week at the spot began with a Tuesday night that was $500 over the opening night, and it was estimated by club op Johnny Noga that Elling ton would set a new two-week rec-ord in the club.
