INXS "What You Need"

Down Under's hottest band is ready to go over the Top in America. Already exploding on Album radio. What You Need is satisfying the programming needs of Top 40 radio. Album sales approaching gold! Be sure to catch INXS on the 2nd leg of their SRO US tour in February and March. It's absolutely the hottest show on the road!

Marilyn Martin "Night Moves"

Following her #1 debut in '85 with Phil Collins on "Separate Lives" Marilyn moves to solo territory, with her first single "Night Moves" (co-written with John Parr) and forthcoming album Marilyn Martin.

Producers include Arif Mardin, Phil Ramon, John Astley, and Phil Chapman. A Stellar debut for 1986's brightest new face. One of this week's MOST ADDED records!

INSIDE TOP 40 WITH DAVE SHOLIN

Like many playlists at the start of the year, the ol' Top 40 has gone through some changes and the dust hasn't settled yet. DIONNE and STEVIE will fight it out for rights to number one next week. The holiday box office success of Rocky IV has helped SURVIVOR get into the top 5. Expect BILLY OCEAN to pull off a big top ten number.

DREAM ACADEMY scores a 29% Hit Factor, already in the top 20 in Toronto, Anchorage, Seattle, Dallas, Baltimore, Washington, etc. If SURVIVOR has been helped by Rocky IV, so has JAMES BROWN. By the way, for those of you coming to our Media Seminar next month, the Godfather himself will be headlining the Fairmont Hotel's Venetian Room that week. Big gains posted at WROQ-Charlotte debuting at #21, B-94-Pittsburgh 30-9, WHTT-Boston debut #24,

B-97-New Orleans 28-9, B-95-Kansas City 23-17, KUBE-Seattle 33-13. etc.

MIKE & THE MECHANICS now claims well over 200 reports and a Hit Factor of 18%. Kicking in at KATD-San Jose 30-9, KOZE-Lewiston 31-17, KKYS-Bryan 33-11, WKTI-Milwaukee 28-11, etc. SADE has her strongest effort since "Smooth Operator", climbing 29-19 at KIIS/FM, 27-12 KUAD, 25-8 KS103, debuts #9 WBEN, 19-10 KFYR, 29-7 WSPT, etc. Lots of growth left on this one.

MIAMI SOUND MACHINE has held on through the holidays and is now top ten in Phoenix at KZZP, San Angelo KIXY, Z104-Madison, Nashville Y107, Daytona Beach WNFI, Philly Z106, etc. STARSHIP debuts top 30 for PRO/FM-Providence, Q104-Gadsden, Q105-Tampa, WBCY-Charlotte, KPOP-Sacramento, etc. BALTIMORA has their best week so far, with 23 new believers. Top Ten at I-95-Miami, CFTR-Toronto, KWSS-San Jose, KMEL-San Francisco, WPFM-Panama City, etc. Adds at KIIS/FM, KFMY, KREO, KHTX, KHOP/FM, WSPK, WFLY, etc.

BARBRA STREISAND has a noteworthy 24% Hit Factor confirming the appeal of this record on the Top 40 side. Moves 25-9 WQCR, 34-24 Q104, 25-14 WKDQ, 14-7 KMAJ, KZZB 22-10, 17-6 KFYR, etc. Debuts inside the top 20 include WBBQ, KDZA, KIMN, etc. Doing very well.

Hit Factor is a percentage of stations playing a record which also have it Top 20.
ie: 100 stations playing the record—60 stations have it in their Top 20—Hit Factor = 60%.

Sheila E's earliest musical memories are of playing congas at the age of five in her father's band (her father is the legendary Pete Escovedo). Things happened quickly for Sheila once she started touring at an early age, and her introduction to Prince has since made history. Much of the groundwork for "The Glamorous Life" was unwittingly laid during a tour she did with the late Marvin Gaye. It was the last tour before his death and Sheila remembers his magnetism with what she describes as "... goose bumps." Her hardest hurdle, in her opinion, is breaking into a man's world by attempting to excel as a female percussionist, even to the point of featuring solos on timbale and congas. To enhance her group's act beyond the singing and percussion solos, Sheila added dance steps for the entire group to do while performing. She has been described as a committed Latin percussion user, working out on 14-inch and 15-inch Tito Puente timbales, a Go-Go bells, wood blocks and Petato model congas. She has been known, at the end of her show, to kick these congas into the crowd in a musical demolition derby, after which she is carried offstage! We spoke to Sheila soon after the release of her new LP and the release of her movie Krush Groove.

RF: We first heard about Sheila E when she played drums in her father's band at the young age of about what, five?

SE: Five, yes. He would call me up on the stage to play the drums. It was different to have a little girl up there, dressed in a little white dress and patent leather shoes and playing on a chair because the drums were even bigger than I was at the time.

RF: What is the significance of the last name "E"? You've dropped the last name and use "E" or "E."?

SE: Just E, that's easier than saying the last name. They would always pronounce it wrong, they would say "Essoveda" or "Eccoveedo" or always say it some other way that wasn't even close.

RF: You come from a family of musicians. Besides your father, Pete Escovedo, who are the other members of your family that you have played with or are playing with now?

SE: I played with my father and my uncle, Coke, when I was five in the Escovedo Brothers, and with their band, Azteca. My brother plays with my band now on the new album.

RF: You father Pete is one of the finest percussionists in the business. Did he encourage you to follow in his footsteps?

SE: Yes. He grew up in a poor neighborhood and he didn't want me to grow up like he did. There weren't any women playing percussion in those days. So he wanted me to take violin and I did, for two years, from the third grade to about the fifth. Then I had three scholarship offers to go to special music schools, but I turned them all down because I thought that it was pretty square. I ended up playing drums and was competing in sports in school, playing soccer for eight years. I really wanted to go into the Olympics if I wasn't going to be a musician. When I was in junior high school, the only parts I liked about school were sports and taking art classes. Everybody in my family liked art and played music and I wanted to be a musician. For a long time I wouldn't take money from people for playing. But when the time came and we needed the money, I quit school and went out on tour. I toured with my father's band. We played in a local club in San Francisco called "The Reunion" on Union Street. Billy Cobham heard us play one night and asked us to play on the album that he was going to start recording in three months. We didn't believe he would call us and when he did, I met George Duke. He was getting his own band together and asked me if I'd like to be part of that band and I said "Sure!" We went out on tour with George Duke, and during that time I recorded two albums with my father, Solo Tune and Happy Together on Fantasy Records. I flew back and forth from the tour while doing the albums. That's where I met a lot of the L.A. session players. I got a lot of work playing on other albums from my association with these people and went on tour with many of them.

RF: Who were some of these bands?

SE: George Duke, Billy Cobham, Herbie Hancock, Con Funk Shun, Spyro Gyra, Diana Ross and Michael Jackson ... Lee Ritenour, Harvey Mason, Marvin Gaye, Lionel Richie, and Jeffrey Osborne.

RF: Was your association with Lionel in the first two legs of his massive world tour the turning point of your career?

SE: It started actually with Marvin Gaye in 1983. I hadn't worked on a big tour in a while and I was at home playing with my father. When I joined Marvin's band, we were on tour for about five months and people really liked what we were doing. I brought my brother into the band and another friend so there were three percussion players. We weren't doing any choreography at the time, so I suggested to my brother that we add some, instead of just standing there and playing. So we started some of that and got everybody's attention. They really liked it and then the horn section started doing some of their own steps and it was great! When I got into Lionel's band, he hadn't heard of me and he just saw this girl up there and said, "Hi, how are you doing? Well, we'll just see what's happening here ..." So when we started playing, he was amazed! Lionel was such a nice person. He said whatever we wanted to do was fine with him. I started out on the gig playing percussion, and by the end of the tour I was doing a drum solo and then a conga solo and blowing up the stage! But as the tour went on, I wanted to play bass, keyboards, I wanted to get up in the front and do some break dancing, and sing

A/C ANALYSIS

The chart speaks for itself. The records that survived the holidays with underlines carry the torch for the new year. The exceptional performance of BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN, WHITNEY HOUSTON, WHAM!, BILLY OCEAN, DREAM ACADEMY and THE STARSHIP make them impossible to ignore.

Five debuts next week should include STARSHIP, ELTON JOHN and this week's RECORD TO WATCH MR.MISTER's Kyrie. Speaking of MR.MISTER, the song already has a 45% HIT FACTOR.

A ton of great new records for your consideration. Check out the following:

RECOMMENDED FOR A/C RADIO

STARSHIP - "Sara" (Grunt/RCA)
Mickey Thomas takes the ballad lead on a sure top five A/C track which is thirty seconds shorter than the LP version.

ELTON JOHN - "Nikita" (Geffen)
Trust me. He's singing to a girl... called Nikita. She's a border guard and he's trying to convince her to crossover.

ARETHA FRANKLIN - "Another Night" (Arista) The third great single from her first ever platinum LP. Lady Soul ain't lettin' up with a track that's solid as a rock and within the framework of good A/C music programming.

STING - "Russians" (A&M) A melody line from Sergio Prokofiev, a Russian composer set with thoughtful words about avoiding the ultimate holocaust.

THOMPSON TWINS - "King For A Day" (Arista) In the old Queen

For A Day TV show, starring Jack Bailey, a studio audience applauded for their favorite and the results were measured on an applause meter (aka a VU meter). Now Tom Bailey and mates are responding to audience reaction by releasing KING FOR A DAY. (Am I stretching it a bit too much?)

ROB TRO - "Thrill Of The Chase" (Jamex). His best effort to date.

The track has a pop practicality to it and will further his career as something other than just a soap star.

AND HOW WERE YOUR HOLIDAYS?

by Tony Richland

Did this year's holiday season seem to go on for eons or what? We for one (and that was the ultimate use of the editorial we) are sick and tired of holiday cheer, we're glad it's over and can't wait to get back to work ... if we can just remember what exactly work is.

Here at Richland Central it was indeed a warm and cozy hiatus. The family gathered around our polyester tree on Santa's big AM drive morning and we unwrapped our gifts as Husker Du and Fishbone albums played softly in the background.

Mysteriously assuming that we're hooked on the soaps, our wife Rosemary presented us with a Dynasty calendar, the bestselling Elvis And Me by Jenna Wade, a bottle of Carrington cologne actually autographed by Blake himself, and an anatomically correct J.R. Ewing wind-up doll.

As my wife is an unabashed Gavin Report fan, we stuck to THAT motif and she seemed overjoyed with her Collected Columns About Technical Stuff by Eric Norberg, her stuffed exclusively designed Betty Hollars doll, with Betty, when the string is pulled, accepting yet another luncheon date with Cecil Holmes. The pièce de resistance was a just published thesaurus/dictionary combo volume for handy on-the-spot referral when reading Ron's LP reviews.

My wife and daughters prepared a massive Yuletide feast and the family lingered for hours over fresh Turkey Helper and Mrs. Cubbison's Stuffing, both poured directly from their boxes in the interest of conserving gas.

Just as my brood and I settled in front of the TV for a Donahue re-run about transsexual mud wrestlers, we were interrupted by neighborhood carolers who gathered 'round my Bruce Bird shaped pool and serenaded us with "Grandma Got Run Over By A Reindeer." It was a misty moment for us all.

A vigorous family rap session then ensued, commencing with my wife's protestations about my usage of the 60's term Rap Session. Most of the argument centered around my insistence that there's nothing even mildly funny about the Cosby Show. The family wouldn't hear of it and wondered when I'd realize that there's more to life than Sgt. Bilko and Ralph Kramden.

At this point family friend and radio guy Bob Harlow arrived (bearing no gifts) and the conversation turned to radio and formats for '86. Harlow declared that he's going with a much tighter playlist, particularly in the oldie area and with that in mind had just added Dolly Parton's "Eight To Three," Rosie Clooney's "Nine-Derly," "Panky" by Tommy James and Tennessee Ernie's "14 Tons." I suggested that Question Mark's "93 Tears" and "I'm Henry The Fifth I Am" by The Hermits would also help tighten up the rotation.

New Year's resolutions were discussed and mine were applauded as being sensible and practical. This would seem to be an appropriate time to share these with you, our reader, and with our best wishes for a healthy and prosperous 1986 we hereby resolve to:

Never ever even THINK of ingesting a McDLT.

Find out from someone ... ANYONE ... what Harvey Mednick's column is about.

Take Scritti OR Politti to lunch at Le Dome.

Catch at least one Meat Puppets concert this year.

Try to enjoy the Super Bowl at least a third as much as the Lite Beer commercials which will mercifully interrupt it.

Put out a contract on the guy who hosts Lifestyles Of The Rich And Famous.

Find out from Elma Greer just who Razy Bailey is.

Make early reservations at the Mission Street YMCA in San Francisco for the upcoming Gavin Seminar for Media Professionals.

Ask the Gavin folks if Media Professionals means guys who make me take them to lunch.

Find out from Razy Bailey who Eddy Raven is.

Erase my tape of the John and Yoko Movie of the Week.

Get the recipe for the cheese puffs served at Hollywood's annual Chris Crist Christmas party.

Find out how the likes of Columbia's Bob Garland wangles an invite to that party.

Pray that my record player is broken when The Troggs reunion LP is released.

Cancel my subscription if any of the above is printed.

HAPPY NEW YEAR ... and you KNOW I mean that, babe! ■

GAVIN

SEMINAR FOR MEDIA PROFESSIONALS

February 21st and 22nd at
The Fairmont Hotel, San Francisco

The Gavin Seminar For Media Professionals is shaping up to be far from your standard music industry/radio get-together. The GAVIN REPORT draws from inside and outside our industry for new inspiration and motivation. Here's your chance to experience a new kind of national convention!

Friday February 21st—The Present

Keynote Address: CHARLES OSGOOD, CBS National News Anchor, Network Radio Personality, Poet-In-Residence, Creator of The Osgood File.

The GAVIN Awards Luncheon: The ballots will be counted and the GAVIN awards go out to the outstanding Radio and Music Industry high-achievers.

Motivation/Management Workshop: An afternoon of exploring effective management and how to foster on-the-job motivation and high morale. Speaker and host to be announced very soon!

The GAVIN Cocktail Party: To be held at The Fairmont, star of ABC-TV's "Hotel".

Saturday February 22nd—The Future

Format Meetings and Breakfast: A chance for informal meetings for different formats of radio.

Buffet Luncheon: A break from the action.

A Futurist Look at Compact Disc Application: An astounding presentation by STAN CORNYN, two time Grammy winner, Sr. VP Record Group, WCI author of the famous speech "The Day Radio Died." The event will be titled "Eat Or Be Eaten."

The GAVIN ALBUM/ALTERNATIVE Section presents: The Past, Present, and Future of Cutting Edge Music. Hosted by 415 Records' HOWIE KLEIN. Special guests to be announced.

PROMOTIONS

by Lisa Smith & Betty Hollars

In front of R.T. French's corporate headquarters (the mustard people) is French's Ernestine Smith and WDKX's Kevin Morrison.

DONUT DELIVERY

WDKX in Rochester is helping local offices start their morning off a little brighter with "KM in the AM." Morning air personality Kevin Morrison has been delivering hot coffee and donuts to selected offices with the "DKX Donut Delivery." Merchants and local offices are encouraged to write in and explain why they should be served coffee and donuts by Kevin Morrison in the 9:00 AM hour. Then Kevin, in full dress tuxedo, is taken to his destination in a six-door stretch limousine.

CHRISTMAS IS FOR CHILDREN

WSPD-Toledo sponsored a "Christmas Is For Children" promotion to make sure that needy children in the Toledo area received gifts for Christmas. Each hour of the day, WSPD spotlighted a child from a local service agency. They then took calls from listeners who agreed to purchase a gift, have it wrapped, and deliver it to a centrally located drop-off point at a Toledo shopping mall. Then, just before Christmas, the gifts were delivered to the children. Each child received just what they wanted for Christmas, and the listeners had the satisfaction of knowing that they helped make this Christmas memorable for a child. Steve Stewart, Operations Manager and Fred Heller, Programming Assistant, tell us that it was a very special promotion for WSPD, providing gifts for approximately 200 children.

TRIVIA FOR EASTER SEALS

WCLR-Chicago sponsored the Second Selchow and Righter National Trivial Pursuit Challenge for Easter Seals. For a minimum entry fee of $100, teams of up to four people played Trivial Pursuit along with WCLR's celebrity team of air personalities: Doctor Duncan, Dave Hilton, Peter Dean, and Rick O'Dell. All teams received Trivial Pursuit memorabilia and had a chance to win prizes, including a vacation to Walt Disney World.

THANKS, LONDON

CKSL in London, Ontario recently bought lunch for their entire city. They dished up 18,600 slices of pizza and a cold Coke to Londoners. It was their way of saying "Thanks London" for driving with extra special care and caution during the Thanksgiving weekend. Prior to Thanksgiving weekend, CKSL ran a promotion encouraging London to drive with care and caution. If there were no traffic fatalities within city limits, CKSL would treat London to a free lunch. They did just that.

AN EARLY THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving arrived early this year for a dedicated listener of WMET-Chicago. As part of this promotion, several times during the day, every day, the WMET air personalities made random calls trying to get a listener to guess the dollar figure of the "People's Choice Cash." When an incorrect guess was made, the figure increased. When $10,000.95 was reached, the air talent had to give the money away. That magic number was reached on the day before Thanksgiving, November 27, and the 27th caller was given the cash by the morning team of Stu Collins and Mike Kenneally.

SPRINGSTEEN MANIA

WAPP-New York had stacks and stacks of tickets for Bruce Springsteen's concerts at Giants Stadium. Springsteen mania got pretty intense, especially as concert time drew near and everyone was scrambling for tickets. Just when listeners thought that all the tickets were gone, WAPP came through with their last three pair ... for opening night. They asked listeners "what's the craziest thing you'd do for Bruce Springsteen tickets?" They performed their stunts at a local nightclub, and the winners were: Chris Miller, who drank a mixture of beer and goldfish that he blended in a blender; David Sidden, who dressed as a fish and ate five live worms and cat food; and Denise Daniels, who decorated her buns for Bruce.

BIO FEEDBACK

THE FIRM

Jimmy Page and the guys have a new single, album, and three videos completed for January '86 release.

JOHN FOGERTY

Rumors are he will be touring for the first time in several years in the late spring or late summer.

THE STARSHIP

Look for Risky Business star Rebecca DeMornay in the newest Starship video for "Sara."

PETE TOWNSHEND

The 65-minute video version of "White City" cost a mere half a million to produce.

THIN LIZZY

Former band leader Phil Lynott died last week of heart failure.

EVERLY BROTHERS

Their new LP contains a version of "Amanda Ruth" written by Alternative twangers Rank and File.

RAY CHARLES

His latest recording pal is Tony Bennett.

STEELY DAN

Not only are Walter Becker and Donald Fagen reforming as Steely Dan, but there's word they'll even tour!

LEE GREENWOOD

Lee and the Adolph Coors company have teamed up to present a series of concerts to help raise funds for the dependents of American veterans.

CHARLIE DANIELS

Charlie's annual Volunteer Jam, originally planned for February 1st, has been re-scheduled for July 12th in order to move the location to provide seating for an additional 5,000 people.

CONWAY TWITTY

After graduating from high school, he got an offer to play baseball with the Philadelphia Phillies, but got drafted into the army instead.

BOX OF FROGS

Former Yardbirds Chris Dreja and Jim McCarty are now joined by veteran singer Roger Chapman from the seventies British band, Family.

VINCE GILL

His wife Janis is one half of the duo "Sweethearts Of The Rodeo," who've recently been signed to CBS Records.

JAMES BROWN

Stevie Ray Vaughan is the special guest guitarist on "Living In America."

THE HIGHWAYMEN

Waylon Jennings, Willie Nelson, Johnny Cash, and Kris Kristofferson will co-star in a remake of the 1939 John Wayne western Stagecoach.

BARBRA STREISAND

On The Broadway Album, the song "Can't Help Lovin' That Man" features a soaring harmonica obligato by Stevie Wonder.

EDDY RAVEN

He wrote The Oak Ridge Boys' 1982 hit, "Thank God For Kids."

DIRE STRAITS

A recent stint at Wembley Stadium in London made them the first band to play the stadium for 13 consecutive nights.

ELVIS COSTELLO

The upcoming Elvis Costello LP will be titled King Of America produced by T. Bone Burnett.

MEL TILLIS

He is currently writing a television mini-series script based on Richard Powell's novel, I Take This Land.

Robert Palmer

Talks About His New Album And The Power Station.

by Keith/Kent Zimmerman

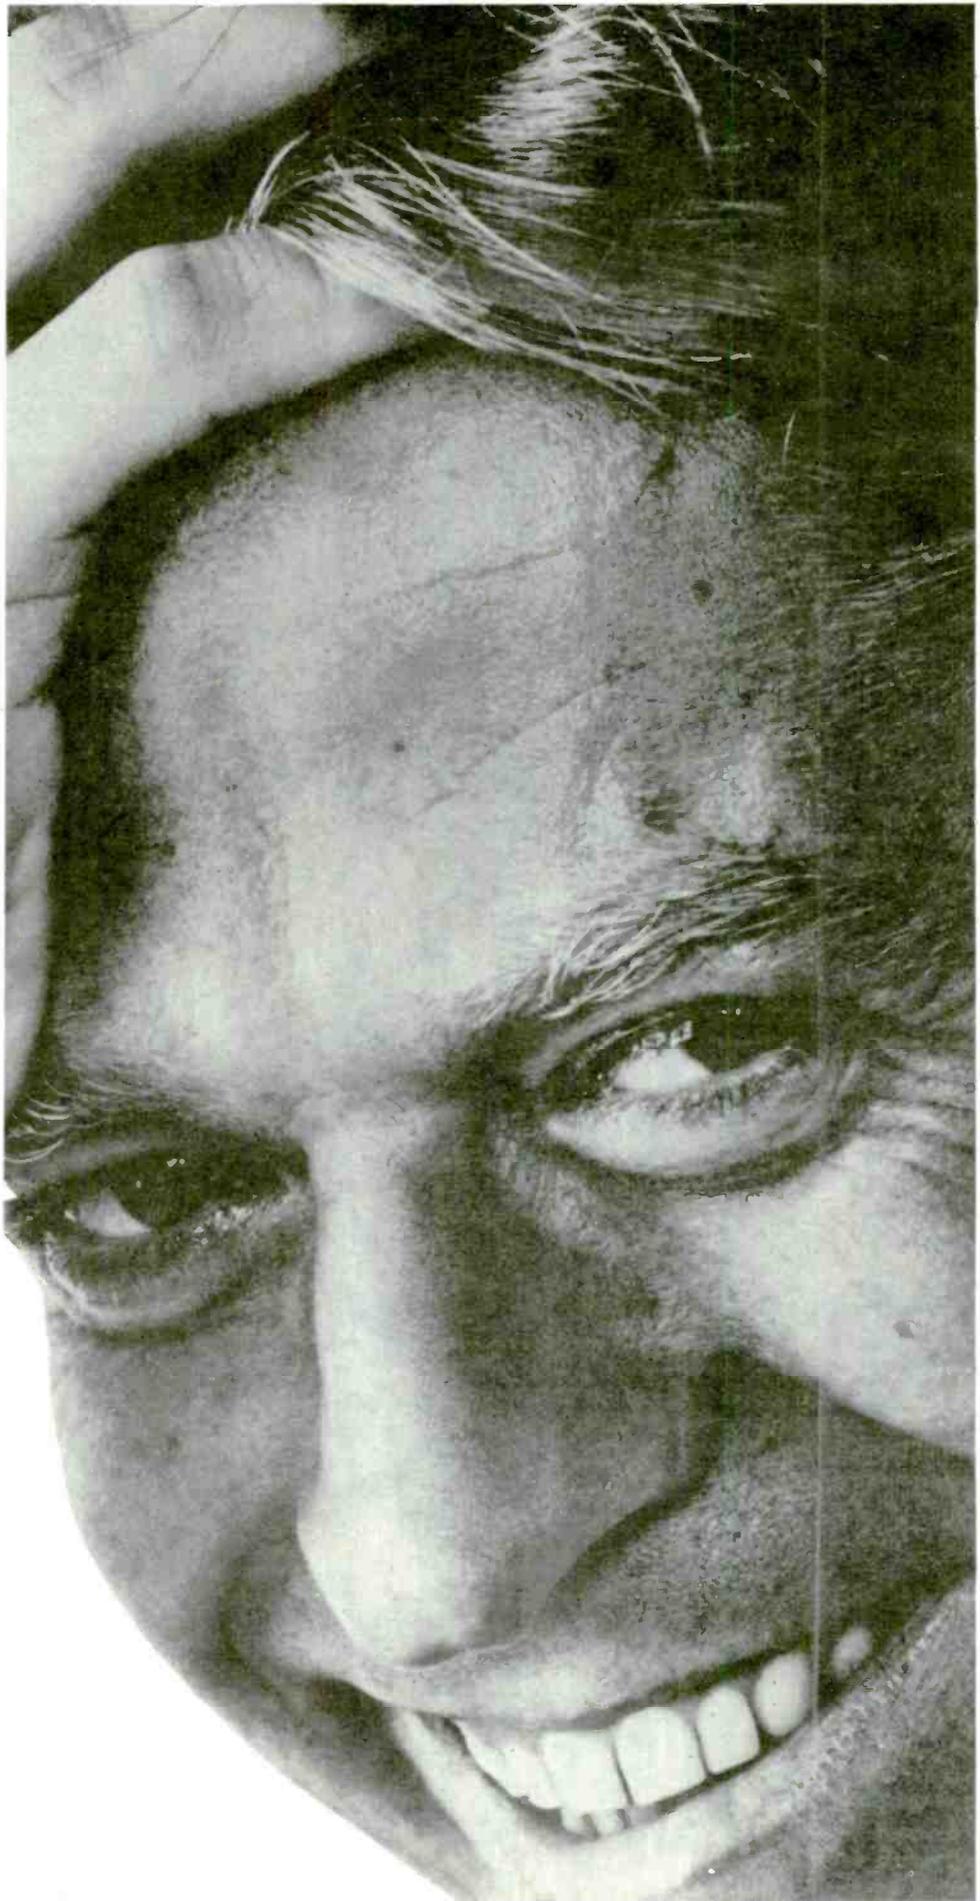

Behind Robert Palmer's impishly handsome demeanor is an erudite, worldly composure. The day before we spoke, he'd been chasing back and forth between British and American embassies in Tokyo trying to score additional pages for his passport. As a transplanted Brit in New York, Palmer finally established digs in the Bahamas over a decade ago. From 1975-1980, Palmer enjoyed formidable progressive Album Radio success with five LPs drenched with reggae and New Orleans backbeat leanings. The eighties propelled Palmer into the producer's chair (Desmond Dekker, Moon Martin, and Tangerine Dream's Peter Baumann) and his own LPs became more experimental culminating with a collaboration with synthesist Gary Numan. In 1980, his LP, Clues, helped steer Europe towards the synthesizer/dance movement that later went to challenge American radio under the guises of "new music" and "syntho-pop." Last year, Palmer mysteriously turned up as lead singer on John and Andy Taylor's Duran Duran spinoff, The Power Station. Palmer's new LP, Riptide, represents his first solo LP in two years.

KZ: In 1975, you moved to America from Britain. How did that affect your career?

RP: It was the whole point. I found the music scene in England at the time was not musical, essentially. The rhythm sections were happening here and "A Bad Case Of Loving You" did well for me. I thought that now that I have a platform, I'll stop being so tentative in my experimentation and really do it. I made the Clues album—which was regarded as inaccessible and avant garde here. But it took off in Europe for me. It kept me afloat in the meantime.

KZ: Soon after you moved to the Bahamas.

RP: Well, at first I moved to New York. The input was exciting, but I found that I had no discipline in the city at all. I didn't get much done. Just jamming, which is kind of useless. I went down to the Bahamas eleven years ago for a holiday and within ten days, I wrote five songs. So I just stayed there. It's only when I'm there that I feel in touch. The city festers with subjectivity and you don't get a clear picture. Down there I've got a satellite dish and I get 200 TV stations. I keep correspondence with people by cassettes all over the world. I get work done.

KZ: I noticed that the new LP, Riptide, credits yourself and Eric Thorngren with post production. What did that mean?

RP: I left the project with Bernard Edwards. I'd gone on holiday to avoid looking over his shoulder while it was being mixed. When I got back, nothing had been done. I had to take the whole thing over.

KZ: "Riptide" and "Get It Through Your Heart" have a Cole Porter feel. There's a polarity between those tunes and the rest of the album.

RP: Yeah. I had been experimenting with a 16 piece band in New York doing torch songs. The timing wasn't right and I didn't want to do another Doris Day. I researched some material and came up with "Riptide" and wrote "Get It Through Your Heart."

"Riptide" is an opening and a closing for the show and the ballad in the middle is a time to go and get your popcorn.

KZ: You rely heavily on a groove rhythm section.

RP: Except of late, I've been more and more intrigued with pure melody. "Get It Through Your Heart" has no drums on it.

KZ: One of my favorite songs on the new album is "Hyperactive."

RP: It was the worst demo I had ever heard. People send me stuff all the time. I rewrote the lyric. I just loved the tune. I was into the whole album feeling live—to rehearse the band and perform the tunes as a quartet. "Hyperactive" lent itself in particular to that. (Listening to the tape), it sounded too spare. (But) when Eric Thorngren and I remixed it, I was pleased that it was spare. That's why I wanted a producer. I couldn't be on both sides of the glass. My favorite on the album is "Addicted To Love."

KZ: What was Chaka Khan's role in that song?

RP: I was at a nightclub and I bumped into her. I'd never met her before. We spent the whole night singing. She said, "What are you doing the following night?" I said, "I'm in the studio." So she came by and we sang that tune. Sparks flying, the lot. It was great. Then I get some bullshit about conflict of interest with her being on the song. I was really cheesed off. It seemed like, gosh, is this 1960 or something? I ended up having to replace her part. Copy it.

KZ: Then you gave her credit for arranging the vocals.

RP: Yeah, I couldn't do much else. A real drag.

KZ: I hear that glassy sounding bass on "Discipline Of Love." Is that a sampled bass line off a computer?

RP: Yes. But it's all performed. A lot of it sounds like it does because the whole thing is digitally recorded. It meant that when we got around to mixing, you could really exaggerate. Some parts, even though they were performed, were replaced with triggered samples. (A triggered sample occurs when the EQ of the original recorded instrument provides a signal for which a computer replaces that instrument with another sound stored inside itself.—KZ)

KZ: You guys are changing the sound of music for us radio people with all this sampling technology.

RP: I'm finding that when it's an end in itself, it's really kind of pointless. But when (the technology) is used afterwards—so what you go for on the floor is performance—and then you assemble it in the mix, you (might) find you're not getting enough support out of the tone of an instrument. Then you can sample something else and replace it. Then the process becomes useful.

KZ: Essentially, you're replacing an original instrument with one stored inside a computer. You're taking the attitude that you're using the human potential but you're doing the substitution at the last minute.

RP: It's not that often that I end up doing it. For instance, if you've got a bass drum track and you're using the EQ on the bass drum more than the actual recorded sound, it's a lot simpler to record a bass drum you really do like and then come out of that module and trigger that with whatever the guy played. You get a great sounding bass drum. It takes about ten minutes. It means that when you're cutting the tune, you concentrate entirely on the performance you're going after. You're not fussing with the engineer over a perfect drum sound. It's more spontaneous to achieve the results. Doing something like replacing a bass tone becomes a lot more complicated, but sometimes it's worth it if the tune is so spare and there's little else on there. It's better to get a massive sound on the one instrument rather than decorate the track with the bits and pieces.

KZ: I think I'm understanding all this technology stuff.

RP: What would be ideal, of course, would be to get the perfect sound on the tape while you do it. But it's not often practical to do it, because you can't envision what the whole thing is going to be like when you sit down and put it together. Your best bet is to just concentrate on trying to get it feeling good when it's being performed. Afterwards, you can fiddle with it forever.

KZ: What is the frame of reference between Riptide and The Power Station?

RP: All the tunes for Riptide were finished about a year ago. I had demos and everything was ready. What I didn't have was a producer. It's not like sticking a pin in a map. Within five minutes of meeting Bernard Edwards, I thought the chemistry was right. As soon as The Power Station was finished, we started rehearsals. I got on as soon as The Power Station was finished.

KZ: What is your recollection of your involvement with The Power Station?

RP: I was sent a cassette of four minutes of groove. John (Taylor) asked me if I could make up a melody and some words for it—which became the song "Communication." They liked what I'd done on that so they said "Would I like to do another one?" The initial idea had been to have a different singer for each thing. They had six tracks, but no songs. So I tried another one and they liked that one. I heard another one of their things and asked "Could I have a go at that?" So that was three and eventually we had an album. That was about it. Then they felt a strong commitment to really bare down on doing as much media as was practical in the short space of time. At the time, they were supposed to get back together with their own group, Duran Duran, to make another record. Throughout the whole thing with the media it was "Oh, no, we'd never make another album. This is so spontaneous, it would be a contrivance. No, we wouldn't go on the road. How could we possibly try to do that? We've only got eight songs." When they called and said they were going on the road, I was kind of taken aback. Of course I was in the middle of doing my album. We got together and talked about it. The following day they called me back and said, "Look. We can tell that you're not really into it. Stick with your album." I thought, great. The next thing I heard, they were going out anyway.

KZ: Did The Power Station rub off on your own project? Or vice-versa?

RP: The things were hardly related at all. The tracks for The Power Station were already cut. I was simply handed yards of music which I had to insert tunes on. The only thing they have in common, I guess, is (drummer) Tony Thompson. I don't really know what the situation was with The Power Station because I came in when most of it was done.

KZ: What new sounds do you like?

RP: I love the new ZZ Top album. The CS Angels new album is great. Scritti Politti's Cupid and Psyche I like. The Family album is the best album this year. I like Kate Bush's single "Running Up That Hill."

KZ: Being a world traveler, where is the most interesting radio?

RP: Brussels, Vienna, and Berlin have the most inventive radio I've heard. They don't draw any distinction at all between style or time. There's this 24-hour English-speaking station in Vienna. I've got lots of tapes of it. They'll play a Frank Sinatra song and say, "Did you notice the lyric in the second verse? That's just like this Bryan Ferry song." Then they'll say, "Did you notice the high-hat pattern in that? That's just like this song by Wilson Pickett." For twenty-four hours non-stop. It's fascinating! ■

BIG AUDIO DYNAMITE

These records define the Album radio and Alternative radio formats this week.

Different Light—The Bangles (Columbia)

I expect THE BANGLES to be one of the next proud exports springing from the ALBUM/ALTERNATIVE pages into other sections of GAVIN. The opening single, "Manic Monday", written by PRINCE, features his usual oversexed, contagious sense of pure pop. Yet the chestnuts keep comin'. There's BIG STAR's "September Gurls", JULES SHEAR's "If She Knew What She Wants", as well as a host of worthy originals. THE BANGLES should mop up within the hip media (Musician Mag, Rolling Stone, MTV, Letterman, Alternative Radio), so pay extra attention. Their last LP was a GAVIN number one, so you shouldn't be shocked if they end up as repeat offenders. Also check out WALKING DOWN YOUR STREET/WALK LIKE AN EGYPTIAN. Six on a side, just like the old days. Triple thumbs up in the bunker.

"Lying"—Peter Frampton (Atlantic)

An old rock and roll adage: Sgt. Pepper giveth and Sgt. Pepper taketh away. So after spotting through the rest of the LP, the twelve inch, "Lying" is definitely the poppest entry on the platter. The opening synth and guitar lines go out of their way to be hooky. The remaining songs experiment with raunch and simplicity, much like the underrated '81 live studio LP, BREAKING ALL THE RULES. FRAMPTON's voice seems to be still pleading for respectability. This is his best shot in five years towards getting it back.

Easy Pieces—Lloyd Cole & Commotions (Geffen)

(Five?) EASY PIECES has been re-shuffled for American consumption. Those of us who felt considerable enthusiasm for their last release, RATTLESNAKES, will find this follow-up lyrically swirling in COLE's continued fixation with romantic American culture circa 50's, 60's, and 70's. The lyrics still sound written by someone who's smitten by JOAN DIDION's book, PLAY IT AS IT LAYS. Musically, you'll hear swatches of THE BAND, BYRDS, and the COMMOTIONS themselves. Production by LANGER and WINSTANLEY (COSTELLO/MADNESS) softened some of the impacted edge a few of us originally hoped for. Still, EASY PIECES is well worth spending time on, in order to take in the band's talents as tunesmiths and imagemakers. LOST WEEKEND/CUT ME DOWN/GRACE/BRAND NEW FRIEND.

"Rock Me Amadeus"—Falco (A & M)

FALCO is the Halley's Comet of dance-to-radio practitioners. His "Der Kommissar" far outclassed the preferred radio cover (where's ATF now, huh?). After "Der" came "One Night In Bangkok" by MURRAY HEAD, which hit our country by hurricane. "Rock Me Amadeus" will be a huge hit in the same tradition, mark your Stradivarius.

Stereotomy—Alan Parsons Project (Arista)

During the promotion of VULTURE CULTURE, ALAN PARSONS, under his breath, whispered an interesting aside, "actually the next one will be the one". Don't know if this is the first all digital PARSONS LP, but the characteristics are there. Not only are the songs unshamefully illuminated, but each song's skeletal ingredients are transparent as well. Like PARSONS' other offerings, STEREO-TOMY fits in well with the current amience of both traditional ALBUM RADIO, but the more QUIET adult ALTERNATIVE. You know, that "Beaujolais" has the same effect on me. Also taste the title track and "The Real World".

"Quicksilver Lightning"—Roger Daltrey (Atlantic)

As dynamic as anything that propelled DALTREY's last solo LP higher than any of his priors. Co-written by GIORGIO MORODER and DEAN "Footloose" PITCHFORD, look for big airplay on this soundtrack.

"Spirit of '76"—The Alarm (IRS)

Our original preference, "Spirit Of '76" is now being issued to ALBUM/ALTERNATIVE while TOP FORTY knows the remaining flesh off the carcass that was the title track single, "Strength". Take the 6:13 route on "Spirit", as the single edit eliminates much of the required buildup that is the song's original charm.

MY 2¢

No rest for the wicked, you weasels. The next thing you should do is turn to page 21 and check out the preliminary itinerary of our upcoming GAVIN NATIONAL CONVENTION. As you'll notice, this is a two day learning event. We've gone to great trouble and expense to bring in speakers and experts from inside and outside our industry. As the weeks progress, we'll be filling in the picture more and more. It's time to bug your superior for a trip to San Francisco...Partly because of the pace of this first week, getting into the NEW YEAR has been easier. As DANA JANG and KEN ANTHONY said, it's just 15 years until 2001. HAL?...I spent the greater part of vacation time listening to the BIOGRAPH collection chronicling the amazing career of BOB DYLAN. All five records have been distilled down to three CDs. The printed booklets are riveting. Whoever put together such a concept, did so with the utmost of taste and authority. A good story would be to track down these individuals. That might be an idea...Hey! We lost a few stations to the Sacrificial God of Format Change, but at least we picked up a few. Welcome this week to two new GAVIN ALBUM INDICATORS. One is KWIC in BEAUMONT, TEXAS. TED GARLAND is PD, DAVID PERRY is ASST. PD., and the MUSIC DIRECTOR is TIM KELLY. KWIC can be reached at 409-842-2210, 4945 FANNETT RD., BEAUMONT, 77705. The other is a familiar name, JON ERDAHL, who is now PD of a brand new station, WFXR-CHARLESTON, SC.

highs of our upcoming Convention will be STAN CORNYN's Multi-Media event, EAT OR BE EATEN, dealing with the application of Compact Disc Technology. For all you young pups out there, CORNYN is a legend in the biz, not only as a speaker, but as a marketing mind. His ad campaigns of the late 60's (am I dating myself now?) were unique and progressive. I remember the one for a new artist's record, VAN MORRISON's ASTRAL WEEKS. The copy read something like "this record will hit you like a quick whiff of a whore's underwear". I also remember his one cent sales for the first RANDY NEWMAN LP that wasn't selling one iota until curious readers of a young Rolling Stone sent in their pennies. Now that's a marketing mind!! See you, KZ.

ALTERNATIVE ACTION

THE CULT strike a number one with their debut album, a feat rarely accomplished. Their live tour probably helped push them past the HOODOO GURUS, who drop down a notch.

ECHO & BUNNYMEN continue their outstanding drive. It's an exceptionally successful record considering it only has one new track on it. It illustrates how starved the market is for new ECHO material. They continue to gain support and could very well make it to number one.

SIOUXSIE & BANSHEES have a similar profile as the B'MEN. Both groups are deeply established in the Alternative arena with an audience begging for more. Last we heard, her fans will have to wait until early March for more.

The lower end of the chart has finally eased up after months of

THE BOTTOM LINE IS ...

BAD is (left to right) Greg Roberts, Don Letts, Mick Jones, Leo 'E-Zee Kill' Williams.

By Kent/Keith Zimmerman

It was literally London calling. Checking in was Mick Jones, founding father of Big Audio Dynamite and former Clash man. Not surprisingly, Mick had the first question and the last word.

MJ: How's things in the Ku Klux Klan headquarters in San Francisco? You know, that big triangular building.

KZ: The TransAmerican pyramid building. What they're gonna do is when the big earthquake comes, they'll tie boats to the top of it.

MJ: Didn't the big one come eighty years ago?

KZ: 1906. Then there was a big one after The Clash played here during the London Calling tour.

MJ: We all fell into the San Andreas fault.

KZ: When was the nucleus of Big Audio Dynamite formed?

MJ: I was working on the project pretty soon after I left The Clash about two and a half years ago, incorporating different personnel all through that time. I've been devoting all my time to this one project, to put a good idea together.

KZ: Who were the core members?

MJ: It was me and the bass player (Leo Williams) first—the two of us. A week after I'd left the Clash, I was working with Leo. We got a drummer (Greg Roberts) out of an ad in the paper.

KZ: Had you and Leo Williams known each other long?

MJ: I'd known him from way back, ten years ago when punk rock had just started. He used to be the barman at the Roxy Club, which was the punk club here in London when it was all starting up. Also, Don Letts was making a film at the time and was a DJ at the club. We have a shared experience from that time.

KZ: Your bio is almost a cryptic poem.

MJ: Today we saw a Swedish translation of it and that was funny.

KZ: Zen mastering of Trivial Pursuits?

MJ: Some of us are very good on sports questions. I should imagine that the sports questions are different over there. It must be all baseball and pro NFL stuff. Over here it's who won the Cup in 1938.

KZ: Big Audio Dynamite sits around playing Trivial Pursuit.

MJ: All our lives are based on it. Doesn't it say that in the biography?

KZ: It also says here that you rehearsed for a year and that something was missing before Don Letts joined the band. What was missing?

MJ: I needed a good kick up the ass. I was getting a bit lazy and complacent and I thought I was going to be able to walk it to the finishing line. I needed someone like Don to keep me on my toes a bit. You need someone to bounce your ideas off of, to tell you if you're wack.

KZ: Letts comes from a completely different visual background.

MJ: Very much so. He's a filmmaker. You know, he's not really a musician. What I've done with this group is I've taken unknown musicians and non-musicians, putting them all together. You get different ideas from people who aren't too set in their ways. You get different ideas from people who aren't too set in their ways. You get more input, a bigger picture of things. An exciting way to work, actually.

KZ: That's what attracted me to BAD. Before the record, I got a blank tape with just song titles. Good quality tape, too. When I first heard it, it sounded like audio movies.

MJ: Yes. It's definitely a cinematic point of view, the way we'd written it. That's one of our aims, really, putting that idea onto sound.

KZ: I can hear all different odd bits of actual movies.

MJ: It's very difficult to be specific about something that's quite complex. It's not supposed to be easy listening. On the other hand, it's something people can get into and come up with something different everytime they listen to it.

KZ: That would be me. The bio mentions (film director) Nic Roeg. Are you a fan?

MJ: For influences, we pretty much have the same tastes as a lot of people. If we used them, it's as a compliment, really. If they don't like it, tough.

KZ: Do I hear a Clint Eastwood movie inside "Medicine Show"?

MJ: What about him? I like him on film. He looks good on film sometimes. I don't know about whether he's happening at the moment. He's had his day, hasn't he?

KZ: He's made some pathetic movies recently like Pale Rider and Tightrope, but Sudden Impact was big, which you used as a song title on your LP.

MJ: That's a song about angel dust murders.

KZ: What about "SONY"?

MJ: The Japs. They've got it good, right?

KZ: They're coming on strong.

MJ: Yes, it's really a great recovery story.

KZ: The Clash were always huge in Japan. How was Japan when you visited?

MJ: Fantastic. Over there, I know there's a work ethic, but the government really takes care of the people. They try to minimize suicide out of desperation. We could take one or two lessons from them. Once again, this is a subject we are most highly complimentary about. We are no way derogatory about Japan.

KZ: My favorite track is "E=MC<sup>2</sup>." What can you tell me about it?

MJ: It's like a mystery. Time. It's the song about Nic Roeg. It's still a mystery. It's like his film.

KZ: What were some of the things about The Clash that you liked that you wanted to carry over into BAD?

MJ: I used to like my sense of tunes and melody. Also, when they were really good was when you could dance to them.

That's what I'm into now. The rhythm. I've carried on the best of that stuff. I'm sure they're (The Clash) doing some of it, but that's cool.

KZ: Also on this press bio is a phrase, 'attack of the keep left signs'.

MJ: Have you ever heard that expression before? Well ... once again it's a mystery.

KZ: You won't elaborate.

MJ: I don't think I should.

KZ: Related to that, though, I was thinking that since The Clash was so politically leftist—

MJ: Oh no! We haven't gone right wing. No! No! Over here, everything is right wing anyway. It's a most conservative place. On one hand we have a very cosmopolitan mix. Here in London, it's all groovy poovy, but it's a very reactionary place at the same time. You have to understand, everything on the radio, everything on the television and in the paper fits in with the government, which is a very conservative government.

GAVIN ALBUM INDICATORS

from p. 32

KZ: We're going through that here, going from human rights to Rambo.
MJ: I don't think it's quite as brutal.
KZ: While being in The Clash, being so political, was that hard to live up to?
MJ: Yes. It's more difficult to live up to myths that other people have made up. Also, it was difficult to live up to anything that anybody had made up that was supposed to represent what we were. We didn't really used to see it (The Clash) as a political thing. It was a social thing, do you understand?
KZ: Explain.

MJ: As opposed to a political thing attached to a party line, we were talking about what was happening to people on a social level.
KZ: I once saw The Clash play with Lee Dorsey.

MJ: We did quite a few dates with Lee. And then we went back to New Orleans and played with him there, in his home town as well. That was to do with a lot of great people in America being forgotten by their own people. It took an English group to come over and hire him, to give him a job and show people that he was really great. You have a culture that's being ignored. They're playing in bars and things when they're actually the real thing. That was kind of a showing. I don't think I would do that now. People still have to be making relevant records to today to be relevant. We were talking on a cultural level at that time. That is past. Aren't we traveling backwards in time here a bit much?

KZ: You're saying that, at the time, The Clash's music would accommodate someone like Lee Dorsey, whose work is rooted in the past. Now with BAD, such an opening act would have to be more forward—
MJ: Happening. Actually, yes. I would really like to put on a fresh show. I would like to play with someone who is fresh like we are. That's correct (about The Clash) because back then we were talking on a cultural level with The Clash, and we were like a big deal group that was able to afford to do that. Know what I mean? Now I'm back to scratch.

KZ: How is BAD going to play live with all the effects?
MJ: It's gonna be wild. We're gonna do all the stuff you hear on the record, but it's gonna be wilder and rougher and tougher.

KZ: Is there a legal hassle over The Clash's name?
MJ: Not that I know.
KZ: What circumstance led to your leaving the band?
MJ: I got fired.

KZ: Did The Clash really have to take the Tidy Bowl man off the Combat Rock LP?
MJ: The toilet people. Yeah, it's true. The head of the company's daughter had the record and it was buggin' him.
KZ: Whose idea was it to title an album Sandanista?

MJ: It was a joint thing with the group. Had you heard of the Sandanistas before?
KZ: Yes. The Sandanistas took over after the fall of Somoza.

MJ: I think you were one of the few.
KZ: Are you keeping in touch with the situation in Nicaragua now?
MJ: I've heard that now they're (the Sandanistas) just as bad.

KZ: That's what I mean. Back then, there was hope that the Central American situation was going to be cool. Now it sounds like the same old boogie.
MJ: Sure does. We all make mistakes. We all back losing horses, don't we?

KZ: I noticed that the BAD record was made entirely in London "on location." I also noticed that your office is in Ladbroke Grove.

MJ: Yes, all West London. Same area. I know what you're saying. Yes! I haven't moved. I'm still there.

KZ: The music sounds like that area.
MJ: Sure does! You only have to walk out of the studio to hear the record.

KZ: A West London street absolutely concurs with this finding.
MJ: Definitely. ■

Looking Back at 1985

Every year at this time, this column looks back over the past year to try to spot the trends. The most obvious one—towering above all others in our business—was AM operators falling victim to unreasoning fear. AM has been losing ground to FM for a decade and a half; in the 1960s it was the marginal AMs that made the ratings, and marginal FM's just weren't there. Nowadays it is the marginal AMs that don't show. That didn't mean that there weren't some major FM's that weren't very successful in those days; it doesn't mean that major AM's can't succeed now. But panic is an unhelpful emotion. This year we saw stations that were still successful pull the rip-cord and make a defensive change—generally, as usual, to their own detriment. We saw stations adopt game show features, and lose. We saw stations drop mass appeal formats and retreat into specialized cubby holes from which they may have difficulty escaping later on. We saw a once-famous AM station in a major market announce that its new strategy for success was to pull all interesting, visceral words from its newscasts, and make them boring. We saw another announce an all-weather format; the idea was that it would come everybody for tiny periods of time. I wondered as I heard of it whether they had stopped to consider that they would have to keep each listener listening for five consecutive minutes within a quarter hour in order to get any quarter-hour listening credit at all! Can weather alone do it? Time will tell. But was it necessary? Probably not.

Getting people to listen to the radio is a process of developing something that they'll want to listen to, presenting it in a reliable and pleasant fashion, and then making sure they know it's there and getting them to try it. There are some people, particularly younger ones, for whom FM is the band of choice, and many make a point of saying they don't listen to AM. Maybe they do, maybe they don't. At one time, FM was hip and AM was definitely the reverse. Nowadays, it's a new generation. They are accustomed to FM, accept it, may pay little attention to AM, but the knee-jerk prejudice is waning. AM still sounds much worse than FM on the home stereo everybody has nowadays; thus the major obvious cause of the "inferior AM" attitude is still there. Since AM can sound at least as good as FM in audio quality, if not better, the problem of the high fidelity receiver still needs to be addressed, and for that reason it is still necessary for AM stations to promote AM stereo, since it is only the AM stereo receiver that has the sophistication of design to deliver audio that is—in fidelity and dimension—competitive with FM. AM stereo will not turn bad programming into good programming, and it will not replace promotion or a good signal, but it can and will restore AM to a perceived audio parity with FM, and that's a major step towards restoring parity to the two services.

Programming is and always has been a process of finding a niche and filling it. If there is no "talk" station in the market, and an AM station can find an economic way of providing such service, it will succeed. But there are still more AM's than FM's in this country, and only 10-20% of the audience will ever listen to talk—in some markets, less than that. AM operators must look at this reality before deciding that "talk" is the cure-all.

Can music still make it on AM? You bet your banana. And not just big band music, either. Mass appeal music can make it if it's done right—and if it's showcased right. For the moment, AM still has the image even with young adults as being the band on which there is more energy and personality, and these are things that are cool again.

I personally have developed a pop music format that takes advantage of this perception and delivers big AM shares against even major market AM and FM competition in the 25-44 age group. Although I know of no other AM format doing this around the country, I suspect it is because of a lack of belief or proper conception . . . it can be done, and there are many ways. Consistency has been an AM virtue; a station that formats itself correctly and then has the guts and commitment to stick with it till it wins will succeed. FM's success has not prevented an almost amazing volatility in formats that can benefit the consistent AM.

The FCC is considering allowing limited duopoly again on AM—ownership of more than one AM station, separated by some distance, within the same marketing area. They are considering allowing networking of these stations from a single studio. Other potentially beneficial approaches are under study. AM's great strength is groundwave coverage, and the Commission seems committed at present to helping AM compete with FM by maximizing that advantage and reducing unnecessary costs.

On Wall Street, some of the most successful investors follow a "contrarian" philosophy—buy when the crowd sells, sell when the crowd buys; buy the unpopular or unfashionable issues, and sell for big profits when the tide turns and the stock issues become sought-after again, driving the price back up. When everybody perceives a trend, they say, it's about over! And history shows pendulums swing back again, except perhaps in the case of an outmoded approach or technology. Buggy whip makers have given up on the market returning. But AM is not outmoded; at worst it is simply perceived that way. Perceptions can be changed. It's a buyer's market in AM stations, and startime for the PD with the understanding of the medium and the audience to come up with a winning format when everyone says it cannot be done!

AM operators: Turn off the panic and get to work. There are more than a million AM stereo receivers in the hands of the public already (most in new cars) and more being sold every day. Those folks will listen if you give them what they want. ■

URBAN CONTEMPORARY SUMMARY

Our fastest moving chart, as well as your fastest moving chart, is undoubtedly this first one of every New Year...hope yours was happy! Due to the "out with the old, in with the new" mentality, BILLY OCEAN and Dec. 16th's "Certified" MELI'SA MORGAN take the biggest jumps into the top ten. New "Certified's" were almost embarrassingly obvious: "new" singing and movie sensation, JAMES BROWN, debuts at #18 and RENE & ANGELA "Your Smile" goes in at #19. More drastic movement of old entries out to be replaced by new ones makes room for five other debuts besides our two that were Certified. What looks like one of the strongest of these is 9.9. Something that looked strong in late November and early December that has held its own through the year-end break is the sweet ballad by FORCE MD'S, "Tender Love". It's #1 at WHUR-Washington and WJLB-Detroit, and top ten at KDAY-Los Angeles, WAMO-Pittsburgh, WJAX/FM-Jacksonville, and WDMT-Cleveland. Landing at the top of Chartbound is TA MARA & THE SEEN's "Affection" and watch the progress of the 12-inch flip side called "You Turn Me Up". It's already big in L.A. and Milwaukee. It was interesting to watch the "Most Added" race this week because it resembled a horse race.... SMOKEY ROBINSON would be ahead and then ARETHA would overtake him and then vice-versa. In the end, ARETHA wins by one in both total reports and new adds. SMOKEY gets major adds at WHUR, WXYV, WANM, KRNB, WBLX, WJAX, WCIN, WTLC, WZAK, WLUM, XHRM. Coming in close behind is ZAPP's "Computer Love", going up the charts at WAMO-Pittsburgh, WDMT-Cleveland, WCIN-Cincinnati, WZAK-Cleveland, WBMX/FM-Chicago, KKDA-Dallas, WJLB-Detroit and XHRM-San Diego. A glance at the new listings in Up & Coming shows the turnover in product that's expected this time of year when the newest things are being released while others have dropped totally off.

Gavin Media Seminar Update:

We will keep you informed each week about our upcoming National Seminar in February here in San Francisco. As we get details, you'll get details. See pages 21 and 22 of this week's issue for the latest news!

and have a good time!

RF: How then did you first hook up with Prince?

SE: I met him 7 or 8 years ago. I saw him at the Greek Theater at an Al Jarreau concert. I had heard about him from a lot of people and I was really impressed with what I'd heard about him. My father was working with Carlos Santana then and Tom Coster had told him about a really young kid that was going into the studio producing his own stuff, writing his own stuff and playing all the instruments himself. Then a few months later, he played at the Circle Star Theater in the Bay Area and I went to see him there. I went backstage and he came up to me. He knew who I was because he liked George Duke and he heard me play with him. He was amazed that a girl was playing percussion. We talked and exchanged numbers and have been friends ever since.

RF: You first hooked up with Prince in the studio for The Glamorous Life sessions or the Purple Rain sessions or was it prior to that?

SE: It was when I got off the Lionel Richie tour in February of '84. He called me and said he wanted me to sing with him on a song. So the day I got off the plane I went straight to the studio and we recorded "Erotic City" together.

RF: Did you think that it was unusual that he would ask for you as a singer rather than as a percussionist?

SE: Yes, it was really strange.

RF: Where had he heard you sing?

SE: He had tapes that I had done, and he had heard me sing background in Lionel's show. But it was really strange that he would ask me to do vocals with him. I was asked to come to the studio and when I got there he says he wants me to sing ... and I said "Sing?" And I was pretty shocked. But it turned out great and was a lot of fun. At first I was really scared to sing in front of him because I thought he was so good. After that I ended up doing some work on the Apollonia 6 album and that's when he suggested that I do a solo album. I said to him that I didn't really have anything to offer the people and he said "You're crazy. You have a lot to give to the people." So then I talked to his manager and signed with him, and he got the record gig with Warner Brothers right away. It all happened so fast ... in a matter of a month or two I was done with the album and went out on a short tour. I played some clubs and then went to Europe, and then in November I went out on tour with him and I haven't stopped since.

RF: 1984 had to be the ultimate for you in many respects. Were you indeed leading the Glamorous Life?

SE: In a way, yes, but I was scared at first, opening for Prince. I asked myself how I was going to do this ... people were going to boo me off the stage because they were there to see Prince. I was really nervous about it, but I wanted to play and it was a challenge for me to go out and do this solo thing for the first time. For a while it was really rough because we were playing almost six nights a week. But the way everyone in the audience responded, they were really enjoying the show and walking away happy. That really pleased me, and was really important. Later on it got kind of tough because I did the album Romance 1600 while we were out on tour. After I performed, I'd go back to the hotel around one o'clock in the morning, take a shower, eat, go to the studio at three in the morning and record until about five the next day. At six I had to be at the sound check, and get dressed by seven to play at eight.

"When they first saw me they whispered to each other and asked, 'What's this girl doing here?' I wouldn't say anything."

---

RF: So, not exactly the "Glamorous Life" at that point?

SE: I had so much fun it was glamorous to me because it was my first time doing anything like this!

RF: You are quoted as saying that you have to shock people so that they don't get bored, and the product that you have been associated with has been on the bold side, dealing with the sexual innuendos. There's a lot of heat coming down now on the recording industry, artists and radio to be more sensitive to the music that is exposed to a lot of young, impressionable people. Even on the new album there are some rather erotic allusions, to say the least.

SE: On my album, you mean?

RF: Yes, like on "Yellow" and on "Toy Box."

SE: Somebody said that about "Yellow" and I don't get it.

RF: Do you think there is a line that has to be drawn somewhere in lyric content?

SE: It's hard to say. I really don't think so. So many songs out now have double meanings and I think if everybody knew what half these people were singing about we probably wouldn't have ANY music on the radio.

RF: You talked about being asked by your father at the age of five to come up to bang on drums that were even bigger than you, and that it was a cute visual addition to a show. When do you think you got over the point of being a novelty?

SE: Not until I was about 18. When I first came out playing they didn't believe that I could play. Then a lot of people believed in me and gave me the chance to go in the studio and record with other people. George Duke and Billy Cobham were some of these people who took me in and knew that I could play. Billy Cobham is one of the best drummers in the world and to even get a chance to play with him was great. When they first saw me they whispered to each other and asked, 'What's this girl doing here?' I wouldn't say anything ... I knew that I could play and I wasn't worried about it. But I got put down a lot even by other drummers. They didn't want me to play their drums or even touch their stuff ... they thought I was in the session because I knew this person, or because I was a girl I was getting attention.

RF: I noticed on the new album, Romance 1600, that there is a jazz fusionist, a polyrhythmic Latin funkster that's trying and succeeding at doing something in the pop-funk vein, but I also sense that there's a great desire on your part to expose even further your talents as percussionist. Are we likely to hear stuff that's more jazz-oriented in the future?

SE: Oh yes. I'll probably be adding more and more stuff in each album. I didn't want to do it in the beginning because I didn't think anybody would really accept it. In Glamorous Life I did a timbale solo and nobody had really ever done that before, and it was a hit. Now, on this new album, I do a drum solo on "Merci For The Speed Of A Mad Clown In Summer," and that's something different. Probably on every album I'm going to add something different. On the next album I'm going to add a Latin song.

RF: Now, what's this about you being a movie star? Tell us a little bit about Krush Groove.

SE: I did that right after the Purple Rain tour. It's a rapper's movie, with a bunch of rappers from New York in it, like Kurtis Blow, Run DMC, Fatboys, and the New Edition. It was a lot of fun. I meet two rappers who are Run and DMC. They live in the Bronx and teach me how to rap. Then we do two concerts in the movie ... one song I do is "A Love Bizarre" which is a rap song on the album. I co-wrote that with Prince ... and then we did another song called "Holly Rock" which is in the movie. There are a lot of songs in the movie. It's about Run DMC struggling to make it to the top.

RF: It's based on the career of Run DMC up to this point?

SE: Yes. ■

DAVE SHOLIN'S Personal Picks — SINGLES

STARSHIP - Sara (Grunt/RCA)

Released during our holiday break, the majority of stations are already on it. Just wanted to add my vote for this spectacular ballad.

BANGLES - Manic Monday (Columbia)

First surprise of the New Year. Lyrics with adult appeal, a track with teen appeal equals mass appeal. Another programming plus for this hot side is that although writer credit goes to "Christopher", it's really Prince. Check it out.

THOMPSON TWINS - King For A Day (Arista)

In talking with programmers, many believe this is the Twins' finest effort to date. I wholeheartedly agree!!

ARETHA FRANKLIN - Another Night (Arista)

One of the few albums released last year that could be tracked start to finish without a loser in the bunch. Another winner from Lady Soul.

ELTON JOHN - Nikita (Geffen)

Unusual lyric set to a melody that is classic Elton through and through. Always great to hear John, Taupin, and Dudgeon on target.

ZZ TOP - Stages (Warner Brothers)

Expectations of a string of hits from "Afterburner" are sure to be met. Kicking into stage two with this hot rocker is a perfect way to begin the New Year.

HEART - These Dreams (Capitol)

Bernie Taupin shows up again as co-writer of this week's "Most Added" record. Beautiful song made even sweeter with plenty of Heart.

INXS - What You Need (Atlantic)

Still find it hard to believe this band from down under hasn't had a major hit up on the Top 40. It will happen. This time please?

STING - Russians (A&M)

Though the message is a bit simplistic and idealistic, it expresses the wishes and dreams of many people frustrated by reality. Sting continues to break new ground and defy rock's detractors who argue the music is mindless.

DAN SEALS - Bop (EMI America)

It's been a while since a country smash has crossed pop. This Paul Davis composition is still the top request item on the country side and building A/C. Sounds like a winner for certain markets and stations targeting adult.

ROGER DALTRY - Quicksilver Lightning (Atlantic)

As if all the above isn't enough, here's a late arrival from a soon to be released film titled "Quicksilver" which stars Mr. Footloose, Kevin Bacon. Giorgio Moroder and Dean Pitchford have given Daltrey just what he needs to generate that electric magic.

RON FELL'S Personal Picks — ALBUMS

Alan Parsons Project "Stereotomy" (Arista)

Parson's roots in engineering of rock music, back to Pink Floyd and the Beatles, give him a special perspective when it comes to getting a sound down on tape. Some of the fidelity on this vinyl is exceptionally rich. It can make even a mediocre set of components sound expensive. He's now completely committed to digital recording and he's using Gary Brooker (ex-Procol Harum) and an obscure Gavin Report favorite, John Miles, for most of the vocals. In his interview with The Gavin Report last spring, AP promised new direction, some fresh players and confided to me (off the record) that this LP would be even more satisfying than his recent LP's. THE REAL WORLD, STEREOTOMY, and LIMELIGHT are my favorite vocals, but I can't wait to hear a CD version of the instrumental WHERE'S THE WALRUS.

WE REMEMBER.....

Amidst the celebrations and festive atmosphere of New Year's Eve came the shocking news that Rick Nelson, his fiancée and band perished in a tragic plane crash while on their way to a performance in Dallas. Rick was a rock pioneer in the truest sense. His performance at the close of the weekly "Ozzie and Harriet" TV show was the MTV of my childhood. In fact, many rock critics maintain that the episode featuring "Travelin' Man" may well be the very first rock video. Those shows also were the first to demonstrate the power of video to sell records. Rick's very first hit, "A Teenager's Romance", backed by Fats Domino's "I'm Walkin'" began a string of gold records that ranks him as one of the top five selling artists of all time. He paved the way for rockabilly, churning out hit after hit by Johnny and Dorsey Burnette, Gene Pitney and others. I was proud to call Rick Nelson a friend. He had a unique sensitivity and sharp wit rarely seen by the public. I'll always cherish one special evening we shared moving into the wee hours singing Elvis songs at his home in L.A. Though raised on television, music was his first love...rock 'n' roll music. He loved it and he gave us some of the best. He will be missed.
