MAGLIA HEADS UNNAMED BMG LABEL

BMG has tapped former Island Records President Lou Maglia to head up its new, as yet unnamed record company. The new label, the third for BMG (joining RCA and Arista) is to be based in Los Angeles.

"This will be a... spontaneous, lean and hungry music label without committees," said BMG Chairman and CEO Michael Dornemann. "We'll focus on a well-rounded roster of contemporary music that will include Black, street and metal as well as rock." He continued saying that he "looks forward to welcoming Maglia to the BMG family of entrepreneurs.

Before heading Island, Maglia was Executive Vice President of Elektra. The thing that impresses me most about BMG is its commitment to human capital," he said. "To the people like myself who are the builders of the music business."

MCA/NASHVILLE RESTRUCTURES

Three MCA staffers have landed new positions with the restructuring of the MCA/Nashville promotion department.

* Rick Hughes replaces Pat Surnegie as MCA/Nashville Director of Regional Promotion (Northeast).

* Rosey Fitchpatrick takes over Rick Hughes' position in Nashville. She has been upped from Promotion Coordinator for MCA/Nashville.

"I am always pleased when I can announce promotions within my department," said MCA Records/Nashville Vice President of Promotion Sheila Shipley. "These changes will make us the best team in Country music promotion."

The rest of MCA/Nashville's promotion staff remains unchanged.

NEW COLUMBIA LOCAL REPS NAMED

Newly-appointed Columbia Records Vice President, Promotion Burt Baumgartner has named Marc Kordelos as Columbia Local Promotion Manager in Denver, and John Michael Provenzano Local Promotion Manager in Houston.

Kordelos worked as Account Service Representative for CBS Records Mid-Atlantic Branch in Philadelphia from 1988-1989, and before that was Music Director and Air Personality at WBEC/FM-Pittsfield, MA. Baumgartner said, "His (Kordelo's) solid background in both the radio and retail areas, plus his love of music will make him a great addition to the Columbia promotion team."

A fifteen year promotion vet, Provenzano most recently worked for Atco and for a time worked in Houston for Elektra/Asylum. "His (Provenzano's) extensive background in promotion along with his long-standing relationships on the Houston scene will make him a valuable new addition to the Columbia promotion team."

BERNSTEIN WILL BZ-ING YOU

David Bernstein, currently Program Director at WTIC/AM-Hartford, CT, is leaving the station to join A/C powerhouse WBZ/AM-Boston as PD.

Bernstein leaves WTIC after four and a half successful years—the station is #1 in the market. "It's the toughest decision I've ever made," Bernstein told the Gavin Report. "This station (WTIC) has had the same morning man for half a century, and we now have a new morning show on the air—so we've managed to bridge the traditional with the future. I'm glad to have been a part of that, it's exciting."

Also steeped in tradition is WBZ/AM, 50,000 watt WLTD, that, on a clear night, can be heard across the country. "I had a great conversation with the General Manager, John Irwin," said Bernstein. "I wore a special tie. Over lunch, John said, 'nice tie!' and I knew then I had the job."

BASEBALL: PEOPLE WILL LISTEN
by Ron Fell

Spring came late this year, and though it's not nice to mess with Mother Nature, baseball is back and there's something comforting about that.

There's no other American pastime that so envelops the American mentality. More so than Chevrolets or apple pie, baseball is the American experience. It's not so much in the playing, but in the witnessing, the experiencing. Baseball is regional pride, bragging rights. It's a sport of rules, personalities, sideline and locker room human interest news. And in recent years baseball has become a micro/macrococsm of life with its headlines of labor/management, ethics/morality, dollars/sense, etc.

The lockout, coming as it did, at the beginning of the yearly cycle, didn't disrupt the true fan's psyche as much as it would have if it happened as a strike in the middle of the season. Home field grass had yet to turn its seasonal green when the lockout began; Fans had not yet grown accustomed to daily broadcasts. It was the fear that vanity and pride would prevent the resumption of play that fanned the patrons' outrage.

Fan resentment of the lockout and protracted contract negotiations is being reflected in futile and feeble protest scenes and microscopic gestures at early regular season games. The bottom line is that Americans dreaded the denial of their inalienable right to experience the nation's pastime. You can bet resentment will be short-lived if not already forgotten. Owners and players will finish the season with their fattest wallets ever. Fans will have had every opportunity to witness the games of their choices. More games than ever will be broadcast on television at both the national and local level, and radio will continue to be baseball's best friend. CBS Television and ESPN's four-year, $1.4 billion commitment is a tribute to major league baseball's strength.

The large dollars recently spent by national television only accomplishes to stoke the team's cash registers. The national exposure newly afforded these teams will mean little to their home ticket sales, nor will it increase affinity with hometown followers. It's radio's fate or fortune to promote and/or proliferate each team's goodwill.

Radio's baseball coverage is one of the few constants in broadcast history. Many legendary radio stations made and maintain their reputation as ratings winners as flagship stations for their markets' home team. Even where teams remain hopeless bridesmaids to league champions, stations benefit from the listenership that comes with 162 days or nights of broadcasts.

Consistency is not the only reason baseball broadcasts are so popular. The best play-by-play announcers and analysts epitomize a dying tradition—the ability to verbalize visuals. The great broadcasters of any sport, but baseball in particular, have special communication skills. They are responsible for calling activity clearly and quickly, and filling moments of doldrums and inactivity with streams of anecdotal color and analysis.

Truly great sports broadcasters have an uncanny knack for fusing statistical history (probability) with pending events (future). Great sports broadcasters know that every moment need not be consumed with words—that the crowd and the listeners' theatre of the mind have their place in the game. Some of broadcasting's best monologues and dialogues take place during games plagued by rain delays. And with the possible exception of talk show hosts, there may be no broadcasters capable of more or better spontaneous conversation.

Baseball on the radio is to my knowledge, an AM phenomenon. Certainly there is no better non-music ratings builder than baseball broadcasting. In recent years, rights fees paid to franchises have escalated in logarithmic proportions, as bidding among competing stations has reached historic proportions. It's not uncommon for major market broadcasters to double their cume in the Spring and Summer ratings sweeps. And such success has a profound effect on four-book averaging which is a critical gauge of station success.

But beyond the dollars, the Quarter hours and the egos, is The Game. For some of us it's fantasy time. For others it's familiar athletes playing a game made understandable by familiar, relatable, often glib, occasionally eloquent voices—groundskeepers for our fields of dreams.

LEE'S MAD AS HELL

Chrysler Chairman Lee Iacocca is mad as hell and he's not going to take it anymore! He thinks we Americans are being bamboozled into buying foreign goods (especially from those awful Japanese) because they ferment (especially those awful Japanese) have hoodwinked us into believing that American goods aren't as good. Am I the only one who suspects that much of his armwaving and bellowing is a bit self-serving? It bothers me when a chairman who earns $20 million a year while his company is seeing decreasing earnings accuses consumers of being dumb. Let's look at some of the facts, and since Lee's into cars, let's stick with cars.

First, it's true that American cars have improved in quality over the past few years. Unfortunately (for Chrysler, not for American car consumers), Japanese cars have also improved, and at a faster clip. Recently, Consumer Reports magazine concluded that 28 of the 31 best-rated models for quality were Japanese, while 32 of the 33 worst-rated models were American. The Wall St. Journal summarized research findings by awarding evaluations based on a 4.0 grading scale. Here's the scorecard:

- Honda: 3.83
- Toyota: 3.33
- Nissan: 2.80
- Chrysler: 1.30
- Ford: 1.15
- General Motors: 0.75

So much for quality. So much for American business? Well, let's talk about what happens before the sale. Japanese car manufacturers develop new products nearly as fast as their American competitors. This means that they get into the marketplace with new features, options, and models in half the time that Chrysler or GM does. Who's got the advantage, then, and not an unfair one?

And how user-friendly are the new products? It turns out that the Japanese spend a lot of time tailoring their products to American consumers' tastes. The Japanese don't just study marketing reports. They come here to the U.S. — engineers, marketers, production people, top managers — and spend a great deal of time talking to and observing Americans. In fact, when the Lexus and Infiniti were being developed, teams of Japanese came to the U.S. to live, sometimes with American families, so as to better understand American desires. Can you imagine the typical American engineer or manager saying, "I think I'll learn Japanese and then go live in Tokyo with a Japanese family for a couple of years so I can develop a better car for the Japanese export market?"

What about after-sale service? Nissan has made it a point to telephone-interview every single new-car buyer about the quality of the car (from his/her perception) and the service that he or she received. With the Infiniti, Nissan went even further. The Infiniti is meant to compete with high-performance luxury cars such as Cadillac, BMW, Mercedes, Saab and the like. I was recently talking to a new Infiniti owner. This man was precisely the person that Nissan targeted: a demanding car aficionado with a previous history of buying BMW and Porsche. Yet he loved his new Infiniti for two reasons. First, he said the features were so "right" that, in his words, "I felt those people had gotten into my mind" when they created the car. (Hmm, maybe it does pay off to live in the U.S. if you're trying to export to the U.S.) But he was also overwhelmed by the after-sale service he was receiving. Here are a few examples:

- Naturally, after buying the car he received a telephone call with numerous questions about his personal reaction to the car, its myriad of features, and the service he had received so far.
- He receives mail from Infiniti about twice a week. Each letter includes updates on the car as well as little stories about its short history, its features, its engineering, as well as tips and advice on driving and maintenance.
- He was recently invited to a buffet in a major hotel in Phoenix, where he lives, sponsored by Infiniti for all Infiniti owners in the area.
- For any maintenance, someone from Infiniti will pick up his car at his home or work, leave another car, and then return his Infiniti when the work is completed.
- For interested owners, Infiniti is arranging a trip to Japan to visit the factory — all expenses including flight will be about $1,000 — a remarkable figure if you've recently priced roundtrip air travel and cost of living in Japan.
- An owners club is being formed.

Lee Iacocca would probably have you believe that his man has been brainwashed by those rocks-and-trees ads, but I have the feeling that that's not quite true. As a top manager in a large U.S. corporation, the gentleman I've described is probably a reasonably smart and demanding consumer, as most of us are.

As consumers, we've voted with our book and our pocketbooks. The plain fact of life is that in a variety of industries — automobiles, consumer electronics, computer chips, banking, you name it — American firms have lost ground because American consumers often get better quality and service from foreign competitors. It's not "unfair" competition to come live in the U.S. so as to design a top-quality tailor-made U.S. car and then follow it up with phone calls and buffets. That's just good, innovative business.

Lee Iacocca has every right to be mad as hell. I just wish that he'd stop blaming competitors and consumers instead focus his wrath where it belongs. who are tearing up my CD player. They’re The Almighty who’ve put out an album on Polydor called Blood, Fire & Love. All I know is they used producer John Williams and it was recorded in 1989 at Abbey Road in London...

Andrew Ridgeley, known for his work with George Michael in Wham!, is set to release his first solo album, Son Of Albert for Columbia Records in May. The first single and video will be “Shake,” and ready for your listening pleasure in late April. Ridgeley says he’s looking forward to hitting the concert trail. The band will be made up of bassist Deon Estus (a solo artist who played bass with Wham! and George Michael), guitarists Tony Barnard, Hugh Burns and Phil Palmer, drummer Paul Ridgeley. Former partner Michael lends background vocals on “Red Dress.”

EMI has released the first re-mastered classics from The Legendary Masters Series which included CD and cassette packages of Eddie Cochran, Gary Lewis and the Playboys, Ricky Nelson, Shirley and Lee and Bobby Vee. Each package features between 20-25 tracks, extensive histories of the artist, and collectible color artwork derived from the original materials. One highlight has to be the Gary Lewis and the Playboys’ commercially unreleased “Don’t The Flake,” initially made available through a Kellogg’s Corn Flakes box top mail-in, and their version of the Dick Tracy theme. Additional titles are due in May from Fats Domino, Cher and Slim Whitman...

Lou Reed and John Cale’s much-anticipated musical fiction, Songs For Drella, based on the life of Andy Warhol, will be released by Warner Bros. in several formats on April 24. For you collectors, a special limited edition compact disc of Drella will be available. The package, covered in black velvet, includes a 15-page booklet with extensive notes and several unpublished photos from Warhol’s Factory years...

P.D. NOTEBOOK
by Eric Norberg

IMPORTANT NEWS FOR AM

I’ve done the last six columns on sessions at the Fifth Annual Gavin Seminar For Media Professionals which I attended and found to be of particular interest.

I’d like to return to the first subject I dealt with—the AM radio panel on Thursday afternoon, February 15. Near the end of the session, Robert Heiblim, Executive Vice President of the highly-regarded recording and consumer stereo electronics company, Denon America, spelled out the difficulties in marketing AM stereo/high fidelity receiving equipment (a challenge he is now attempting to meet in his new line of equipment). “The retailer doesn’t know what they’re selling—but we also run into it on the electronics side; when we launched AM stereo tuners in the past, no one knew where to go for the longest time. We sent out lists of stations,” but retailers and customers were confused.

“It really is a joint effort here, if you want to promote this band generally, other than just the technical aspects of working on your own station, you really have to tie it all together. All I can tell you is that the vested interest on the hardware side is very strong...Frankly, the hardware manufacturers are making their money off your FM competitors, so they’re perfectly happy to use some of that profit to promote AM, because they can sell another tuner.”

An attendee asked about the competition between the mutually incompatible Kahn-Hazeltine and the Motorola C-Quam AM stereo systems; Heiblim responded, “there really isn’t (competition any more); C-Quam blankets the United States. It is the de facto standard. I testified to the FCC at the en banc hearing (on AM radio), and Chairman Sikes was waiting for broadcasters to say ‘please mandate AM stereo’. The receiver manufacturers naturally were saying ‘that’s fine, but please don’t make us make AM stereo receivers if you’re not going to make broadcasters be AM stereo.’ Meaning, ‘don’t make us spend money if we can’t charge extra for the investment because most AM stations aren’t in stereo.’ We don’t have any objection. If the FCC said tomorrow, ‘by June, everything’s got to be AM stereo,’ by June we’ll be making nothing but AM stereo receivers.”

Panelist Bill Wertz of Federal Broadcast said called on the FCC to mandate stereo for all AM stations; there is no format that wouldn’t benefit by turning on the stereo light, and even stations with nothing but mono studio equipment can take that mono signal and run it through an Orban Stereo Synthesizer before putting it into the stereo generation, that will turn on the light, deliver a dimensional signal to the stereo listener, and deliver a perfect mono signal to the mono listener.

Heiblim agreed, “Chrysler, Delco, Denon, Sony are not going to speak on behalf of the market, but you broadcasters can; you can speak on behalf of your listeners (to the FCC), and there’s not been much of a unified statement made, because too many broadcasters turn around and say ‘who cares,’ and ‘we’re simulcasting,’ and AM is dead, and ‘we’re not going to spend much time or money on AM.”

Interestingly, although the FCC has refused from selecting an AM stereo standard, fearing a promised lawsuit from Leonard Kahn for selecting the C-Quam system, Heiblim said that as a manufacturer, this sort of threat doesn’t faze him, “because being in the industries I’m in, we’re always engaged in about fifty lawsuits at any given time. So it doesn’t matter to us anymore. We got a letter already before we announced we went to C-Quam and they threatened us with suit.”

Heiblim offered that although Denon was the first manufacturer to announce that all new AM devices in their line will have the wideband, high fidelity NRSC-1 de-emphasis standard built in, he expects all others to join in: "It isn't mandated for receivers (just for broadcasters), but de facto will happen anyway. Sony will do it; Sony can make the market...Between Sony and us we’ll force it; we know that Yamaha and other majors—Mitsubishi, who we build product for anyway—they’ll join in too."

As I said, this is the clearest statement that I’m aware of from the manufacturing side as to the attitude and plans of consumer electronics companies’ reaction to, and plans concerning, both the NRSC curve and AM stereo in the 1990s, and I wanted to devote a column specifically to it. This is very important stuff if you’re in AM, and you ignore it at your peril!

Wertz also explained why he, as a broadcaster, wants stereo to be mandated by the FCC for all AM stations: "I want my competitors to be in AM stereo. I’m tired of going to Arbitron in Laurel, Maryland, and looking at comments from listeners” which demonstrate an awareness of AM stereo only among listeners who listen to a well-promoted stereo station. There must be more awareness of AM stereo, he said; “we take it one step further than many stations do. We go into every car dealer, we go into every audio seller, and we say ‘you have $25 credit on our AM station, just like co-op—they all know what co-op means—for every AM stereo radio invoice you produce to us, just like you do when you get co-op from the manufacturers you deal with: It’s $25 credit against $25 also purchased on our radio station. So if you’re buying a $500 schedule on our AM station, we match it with $250 you have in credits there. That’s the kind of thing you have to do. You have to get out to the retailers and educate them, because we’re not as important to them as FM stations are. Just moving product, that’s what’s important to them!”

If you’re in AM, I suggest you retain this column for further reference, and if you’d like to reach either of these two gentlemen, here’s how: Robert Heiblim, Exec. VP, Denon America, 222 New Road, Parsippany, NJ 07054; (201) 882-7442. Bill Wertz, Exec. VP, Federal Broadcasting, 4200 W. Main Street, Kalama-zoo, MI 49007; (616) 385-5110. •

CHILLIN’

AFTER 7 has the points this week to skip up to number one (see profile story in this week’s Gavin), while gaining momentum in Top 40 and A/C. Speaking of stories, I’m interviewing ANGELA WINBUSH today (4/11) for a cover story next month, and her “No More Tears” goes to #13 on this week’s chart, while the song she produced for BODY, “Footsteps In The Dark” jumps to #16! Wonder how it feels to have your own project follow you up the chart? Walt Leonard, WUFOL-Buffalo, says “Body does such a good job on the remake, it makes you forget the original.” Most Added award goes to Maurice Starr-produced PERFECT GENTLEMEN’s “Ooh La La.” It’s also the fourth in line on Top 40’s Most Added list. Kenny Diamond, V103-Atlanta, makes Perfect Gentlemen his RTW, saying, “In five years they’ll make New Edition look like New Kids On The Block.” Greg Sampson, WQMG-Greensboro, makes it his RTW as well. He says, “Make no mistake. Everyone eight to eighty is going to be calling for this one. It’s a killer.” The reason we mention the JANE CHILD as our Record To Watch is because the majors that picked it up are impressive: WRK5-New York, WHUR-Washington, DC, WKYS-Washington, DC, WQQK-Nashville, WGCI-Chicago, KJZM-Dallas, KMJQ-Houston, KDKO-Denver, KKFX-Seattle, KRIZ-Seattle, OCS104-Ocean City, KQXL-Baton Rouge, WPEG-Charlottesville, and WWDM-Columbia. Carl Connor, WFXA-Augusta, mentions MICHEL’LE. “Great follow-up to last single, strong 12-34 response.” ASHFORD & SIMPSON are back and Ron Neal, KXZZ-Lake Charles is excited. “I’m happy this duo is back up front with their own song instead of behind the scenes.” Ron Lee, KBMS-Portland recommends MILIRA, saying, “This excellent Marvin Gaye remake is not just for Quiet Storm stations. All formats should get good phone response to this like we do.” Tony Richards, WOW1-Norfolk, likes LOUIE LOUIE’s “Sitting In The Lap Of Luxury,” and describes it as simply “Awesome.” Don Michaels, KWTDF-Little Rock (now KMZX) feels CURTIS MAYFIELD’s new single, “Do Be Down” will be “The one that will do a Tina Turner-type comeback for Curtis.” Jimmy Smith, WGCI-FM-Chicago, says to watch for something by SNAP. Chris Clay, KQXL-Baton Rouge, says of the SPUNKADELIC “It’s working.” Take care, Ciao for now, Betty.

Trying to get Keith Mitchell to talk about himself was like—as the saying goes—pulling teeth.

Keith and brothers Kevon and Melvin Edmonds who, as After 7, are enjoying success with the single “Ready Or Not” and their well-received debut album After 7, seem content, for the moment and on the surface anyway, to take a back seat to their production team.

What Keith seemed most comfortable talking about was his cousin, L.A. Reid, and Kevon and Melvin’s brother, Babyface. Indeed, trying to pull out of Keith a paragraph that didn’t mention those honored producers was nearly impossible. I was stymied at every turn.

Kevon Edmonds and Keith Mitchell met at Indiana University where they were business majors. “Kevon and I were part of a forty-piece Top Forty ensemble,” Keith said of their April 13, 1990.

musical beginnings. “During the summer we came home and we wanted to sing. We would get together—Melvin, Kevon and myself—and do gong shows and singing contests in Indianapolis.”

Meanwhile, L.A. and Babyface’s stars were rising. “In the Edmonds family, it was a known thing that whichever one of them came to any type of success would reach back and pull up the brothers,” Keith said. “It was a known but not spoken thing.”

The three took day jobs, seemingly content to wait for L.A. and Babyface to pull them up. Kevin worked in telecommunications for Eli Lilly; Melvin worked at Chrysler Motors and Keith was a financial planner for John Hancock. During that time they kept a hand in the music world. “We recorded with Face and L.A. over the years doing demo tapes,” Keith said. “A lot of the music that was presented to artists over the years had Kevon and Melvin’s voice on them, and mine on a couple.”

I asked if there was ever a time the three became frustrated waiting for L.A. and Babyface to say the time was right for them, or if, conversely, the producers thought After 7 was ready and the band thought they weren’t. “Never,” Keith said firmly, “Never.”

After 7’s patience and trust paid off handsomely. Last year, L.A. and Babyface to convinced Virgin Records to sign the band sight unseen and sound unheard. Who’s that ever happened to?? “Virgin leaped at the opportunity to have those songwriters and producers (L.A. and Babyface) writing for some potential artists,” Keith said. “It just so happened that we were one among several groups that Face and L.A. looked at before they decided to present us to Virgin Records as the first act.”

Was it because they were family that they were the first, I wondered. “Sometimes family members aren’t the best people to work with,” said Keith. A-ha, I thought, a chink in the armor—maybe he’s going to say something a little brother might say about a big brother who made him a little angry. No such luck. “But,” he continued, “both L.A. and Face knew the talent that lies among the three of us and that we would probably be mature enough to handle the responsible.”

What came of the family trust was After 7 a striking album that’s a pleasure to the ears. It has a strong set of songs, flows smoothly and, obviously, is perfectly produced. The material fits Keith, Kevon and Melvin so well that it could only be the result of a harmonious family affair.

The band was in England when we talked, and Keith said right now the band is hoping their current single, “Ready Or Not,” will “push its way into the Top Ten, and hopefully we’ll be on tour pretty soon.”

My quest to find a little sibling rivalry between After 7, L.A. and Babyface was shut down, but I can’t be too disappointed. In these crazy times it’s wonderful to talk to someone who has such faith in his family. “We know we are a mirror image of our family,” Keith said when I asked if expectations from people in the industry are higher because the band is related to L.A. and Babyface. “We put a hundred and ten percent into everything we do. So if you consider that extra pressure it’s there, but I think we’re ready to handle it. You can’t lose that. It’s like your shadow.”
Wayne Hussey: A Hero in a Vagabond's Clothes

By Linda Ryan

"I met Donny Osmond once when he was in London," recalls Wayne Hussey, frontman for one of Britain's most notorious bands, The Mission. "I walked up to him, a drink in one hand and a cigarette in the other, and said, 'Hey Donny—I'm Mormon, too!' He just looked at me and said, 'Yes, I've heard about you.' and walked away." Hussey isn't the world's most famous fallen Mormon for no reason. He and his band of merry men are first in line to take over the "Bad boys of Rock 'N Roll" crown if and when The Rolling Stones ever decide to retire.

It all began four years ago in Leeds, England when Hussey, former guitarist with The Sisters Of Mercy, and bassist Craig Adams hooked up with Red Lorry Yellow Lorry drummer Mick Brown and Simon Hinkler. The newly formed Mission honed their skills by touring with The Cult. The buzz grew louder as the two singles the band released independently, "Serpent's Kiss" and "Garden Of Delight" managed to debut in the Indie charts at number one. Their newfound popularity was reflected in Sounds Magazine's Year End Reader's Poll, where the band took top honors as "Best New Band," "Best British Band" and "Best Live Act." Subsequently, every Mission release has been met with overwhelming critical praise, letting the rest of the world know what their fans in Britain already believe: This is a band to be reckoned with.

Their debut album, God's...
Own Medicine, established a firm base for The Mission to build upon, and relentless touring helped to establish the band as a must-see live act. The initial groundwork having been laid, America eagerly anticipated their second release, Children. Produced by Led Zeppelin bassist John Paul Jones, Children found its way onto College and Commercial Alternative playlists all over the country. The link with the legendary bass player even opened a few doors to the ever-shrinking world of album radio.

The press The Mission garnered seemed to center on two topics: 1) Their drinking/drug habits and 2) what it was like working with Jones. Of the experience, Hussey recalls, "Led Zeppelin was one of the greatest bands in the world, but after the second day in the studio you kind of forget who he is. You just want to make your record, you know? It was a good experience for us." A learning experience? "Well, it's good to know that after all he's been through, he's a nice, stable fellow. Nothing about his enormous past seems to have changed him or phase him in anyway."

Enter the '90s and The Mission's third album, Carved In Sand. For this project, the band returned to Tim Palmer (their first producer) because, as Wayne explains, "We wanted to do this record fast and Tim knows us. We took a long time making Children and we didn't want to spend that much time again—we just wanted to go in and do it."

Although he feels this latest effort is their most cohesive, Hussey has no grandiose expectations. "In Britain, because it's so small, you can become a National thing quite quickly. In America things are more localized, so it takes longer." In this ultra-conservative age of Safe Sex and Just Say No, is it possible that The Mission's "boozing bad-boy" image could be working against them?

"We don't think about that." Hussey replies tartly. "We are who we are and do what we do, which is play music. Yes I drink, but that's only one side of me." And little by little we find out that he's right—there's more to The Mission than what is reported in the British music press. A sorely overlooked aspect of the band is their impressive relationship with their fans. When it comes to The Mission and their fans, genuine interest and respect is a two-way street.

"There was a time, shortly before Christmas, when the band had nothing to do," explains Hussey. "The record wasn't out yet so we weren't touring, and we just thought it'd be a good idea to do something for our fans." That something turned out to be a fan club "hotline," where interested fans could call up and talk with various members of the band.

"We sent a letter to our fan club members saying, 'If you want to call us, this is the number. We'll be there on this date between these times.' It was good fun and quite informative, really. A lot of kids rang to tell us they didn't like us drinking so much. They really care about us and are quite concerned."

That care and concern is reciprocated at every Mission

RICHARD MARX
Children Of The Night (EMI)
This full-bodied production makes its subject matter pretty hard to ignore. Written for and about the homeless runway children, it's sure to have considerable listener impact.

BARRY MANILOW
If You Remember Me (Arista)
From his "Live On Broadway" album, this is a Carole Bayer Sager/Marvin Hamlish composition, made popular by Chris Thompson and The Night in 1979. Barry makes it his own and it's already a MOST ADDED in our format with 35 first-nighters.

SHAWN COLVIN
Diamonds In The Rough (Cypress)
An exotic musical twist from an excellent singer who made many fans in A/C radio with her first single, "Steady On." This new single is more energized than the former and is just as effective.

MICHAEL DAMIAN
Straight From My Heart (Cypress)
Michael picks up the tempo on his fourth release from his "Where Do We Go From Here" album. Credit Michael, along with his brothers Tom and Larry Wer, for lyric and music writing that will be accessible in our format-first-time around.

LINDA EDER
Someone Like You (RCA)
This tune can be found on the highlight CD of the Broadway-bound musical play "Jekyll & Hyde." Production and arrangement are very elaborate and Linda's vocal expression clear and strong. This unknown singer, who was a recent Star Search winner, will not remain so for long. Take a listen.

WHILE Steven Martin shows his latest hitting technique to Mark McGwire of the 1989 World Champion Oakland A's McGwire doesn't seem to be buying Martin's helpful hints.

K.T.Oslin returns to a familiar territory when she makes a guest appearance on the Saturday night TV program Paradise. She portrays a character named Lenore, an obsessed woman who is out to get revenge on an army deserter who murdered her son. K.T. is no stranger to acting, having participated in Broadway and stage productions as well as acting in TV commercials.

When Foster & Lloyd recently taped Nashville Network's American Music Shop, they invited some special friends to guest on the show. From left: Radney Foster, Steve Earle, Bill Lloyd and Joe Ely.

INSIDE COUNTRY

ACM AWARDS SHOW REMINDER...The Academy of Country Music's 25th Annual Award Show, being broadcast on Monday, April 25th will be hosted by Alabama, The Judds, George Strait and Tammy Wynette. It's looking like a show not to be missed.

STATION HAPPENINGS... Congratulations to KYAK-Anchorage MD Daryl Webster who became engaged this week to Claudia Schmidt, a ticket agent for Alaska Airlines. The wedding date is set for 9-9-90 at 9 PM Greenwich Time. Tom Sherry moves from KTRW-Spokane to crosstown KDRK as Program Director. Please note: KKAA-Aberdeen, SD is no longer a Gavin reporting station...Some changes are underway at KFMS-Las Vegas. Dale Tyson moves to evenings from the midnight shift, and former Operations Manager Doug Shane has been promoted to Station Manager.

PROGRAMMERS ARE TALKING ABOUT...Buddy Owens at KNIX-Phoenix says the Lionel Cartwright is doing great there. And should it be a smash. KROW-Reno's Joel Muller agrees, reporting he's getting good response on Cartwright's record and video. Johnny Randolph at KTDO-Toledo says the Foresters/Bellamy's song is #1 requested record by a mile.

NASHVILLE HAPPENINGS...The Music City Song Festival announces the availability of the fifth edition of SoundMakers, a free educational magazine for songwriters and performers. The 56-page publication features articles on copyright and song protection, songwriting contests, the Microphone, the finer aspects of the recording process, interviews and more. Directories of music organizations and recording studios are also included. To request a free copy of SoundMakers write to MCSF, P.O. Box 70999-222, Nashville, TN 37207 or call 615-834-0027 between 9 AM and 5 PM CST. Publicists Bonnie Rasmussen and Tammi Jackson announce the opening of Creative Media Services, a full line public relations firm located at 1106 16th Avenue South. Initial clients include Chet Atkins, George Fox and Susi Beauty. Prior to forming Creative Services, Rasmussen was Director of Creative Services for Capitol Records and Jackson was Capitol's Publicity Coordinator... Entertainment Artists Inc. has announced another major addition to its artist roster. The winners of the 1990 JUNO (Canadian Grammy) award for Country Male Vocalist of the Year, "Entertainment Tonight" recently featured Mary Chapin Carpenter on their weekend show, naming her "Country's '80s lady for the '90s".

Talk with you next week.

The Gavin Report/April 13, 1990
BILLY JOE ROYAL - Searchin’ For Some Kind Of Love (Atlantic)
That unmistakable sound combined with some smooth production and a good hook should add up to another Royal smash.

ALABAMA - Pass It On Down (RCA)
The guys from Ft. Payne kick off the 1990s with Country’s first environmentally conscious song. Pass It On Down is a simple message, a call to stop wasting the earth’s resources and should inspire listeners. It only makes sense that Country artists lead the way on this issue, and Alabama does it right—down to the single sleeve printed on recycled paper.

BECKY HOBBS - A Little Hunk Of Heaven (Curb)
The Beckaroos, after bouncing around a few labels, has found a home at Curb. This song has all the charm that made us fall for Hobbs in the first place from her spunky, honest voice to the rocking band. It’s also got a great set of fun, sexy lyrics co-written by Becky.

TIM MENSY - You Can’t Throw Dirt (Columbia)
Just in time for local elections comes You Can’t Throw Dirt, an indictment against gossip and loose talk. It’s a wonderful upbeat song that listeners will love for it’s melody and western swing touches, even if they don’t catch the clever lyrics.

LARRY BOONE - Too Blue To Be True (Mercury)
The lyrics are the record’s strength, with a new twist to the “Blue” country songs. Written by Boone and Paul Nelson, it clocks in at a neat 2:36.

GEORGE STRAIT - Love Without End, Amen (MCA)
Yeah, we know, the title sounds a lot like Travis’ “Forever And Ever Amen,” but that’s pretty much where the similarity ends. It is a sweet song about a father’s love, delivered with Strait’s impeccable vocal style. Fans (and who’s not one?) will love it.

JAZZ NEW RELEASES

NEW PANTS - FLIM AND THE BB’S (WARNER BROS.)
Besides being musicians, Flim & the BB’s have developed talents in film and animation. But when it’s time to do the BB’s tight and capes, these guys become super tight. All through their career on the digital DMP label, the band set the highest standards when it came to recording quality and startling clarity. New Pants is no exception. In fact, Flim and the band represent the rare case where the shift to major label doesn’t really effect the overall technical sound. Just in case, the band enlisted digital pioneer George Massenburg as co-producer. Look for Flim to evolve into a major Jazz/AA contender rivaling the likes of Spyro and the Jackets. The opening “Invention” has the necessary balance of civilized cool. The best part is that New Pants leaves lots of air and space between the instruments. Being stingy with the overdubs (especially the horn parts) gives the songs an uncluttered melodic feel. Other hot spots on Flim’s major label debut includes the snaky “Flakey Jake,” “Telegram” and “Pillow.”

HIDDEN TREASURE - LES SABLER (NEW VISTA RECORDS)
Using his mastery of electronic and synthesized hardware, Les Sabler shows his ability as a guitar soloist and his accompanying skills on a variety of keyboards. Hidden Treasure is unabashedly electric and Sabler uses personal technology to retain tight control of his music. Trax like “Imaginary Wings,” “Papameli” and “Skyflight” feature lots of single line leads while Sabler doubles up on twin harmonies on “Neptune’s Waltz.” Nice to see WHVE’s call letters listed first and foremost under the thank you column. Those interested in some spicy guitar can call Cliff at All That Jazz at—you know the number—213-390-2383.

LOVE IS GONNA GETCHA - PATTI AUSTIN (GRP)
Patti Austin moves from a West Coast feel to a New York state of mind with accompaniment most notably provided by the Pope of New York, Dave Grusin. Throughout Love Is Gonna Getcha, Grusin is generous with his keyboarding and arranging. In fact, LIGG marks the first time the pair has recorded together extensively since the 1977 CTI LP Havana Candy. Patti Austin is in strong voice when she’s singing with conviction on an urban flavored cut like the title track. Most of the tunes were selected for their pop crafted personalities. Yet a song like "Ooh-Whee (The Carnival)" could suit those who get good response when they broadcast Ms. Austin’s music. I think Jazz and AA radio will be listening for chord changes when it comes to selecting trax. Also included is the theme from the movie Shirley Valentine titled “The Girl Who Used To Be Me” — the only West Coast entry of the bunch. Deborah Henson-Conant guests on two trax, “In My Dream” and “First Time Love.”

CRUEL, CRAZY, BEAUTIFUL WORLD - JOHNNY CLEGG & SAVUKA (CAPITOL)
Since his work with Juluka, South African Johnny Clegg has been fusing pop and African with strong messages. Many of you may remember Juluka for their mini cult hit, “Scatterlings Of Africa,” recently re-recorded for the successful Rainman soundtrack. Though Clegg is on a pop course, his use of African language and catchy choruses is something AA could use to their advantage. Each song includes a written intro outlining the story behind it. Images of freedom and oppression soar as Clegg continues to pioneer the concept of racially mixed African pop. Though seemingly harmless to Western ears, Clegg’s music is considered dangerous by homeland standards. Still his high profile protects him from persecution, and he uses clever metaphors to describe the tumultuous human condition of his brethren. Like the title implies, this music is with many different and opposing personalities and viewpoints.

REMEMBRANCE LIVE AT THE GAVIN CONVENTION - THE HARPER BROTHERS (Veerve/PolyGram Promocassette)
A piece of Gavin Jazz history is etched on this special collectible, limited edition cassette sent out by Brian Bacchus, Michelle Taylor and the PolyGram Jazz Krew. Remembrance/Gavin is truly a cult release if there ever was one. We gave it the grand audition by slamming it into the car stereo while cruising at 85 with the top down, hair flying and the volume up full blast. It passed with vibrant colors. Drummer Winard swings his ass off. Philip attacks with diamond-tipped bullet notes and the rest of the band is equally as mean. While Remembrance/Gavin isn’t really meant to rival the fine top five charted Remembrance/Village Gate, it does include the famous Harper Brothers’/Joe Sample/Nestor Torres/Monte Croft Jam extravaganza on side two. Check out the historic “Green Dolphin Street” and “Bag’s Groove.” For those of you who attended the gig, cherish this souvenir. For those who couldn’t make it, this is a fantastic inkling of what you missed.

TAKE ANOTHER LOOK - GRANT GEISSMAN (BLUE MOON)
As many of you already know, it was Grant Geissman’s guitar that was prominently featured on Chuck Mangione’s biggest hit, “Feels So Good.” Geissman looks back with fondness at his days with Mangione and takes a little of the Mangione mainstream with him as he develops both his solo chops and career. Like Kevin Eubanks, Geissman has chosen to concentrate on classical/acoustic guitar, and the radio response has been positive. Geissman has solid back-up throughout, especially on the piano front with solos by David Benoit (“Take Another Look”), Gordon Goodwin (“Choices”) and Emil Palame (“Sun Fun” and “Cuba Libre”). The aforementioned trax are stunning and worthy of prime time play. “Attitudes” is the closest shot at edge on this fine disc. Take Another Look features an interesting and challenging recording process. All of Grant’s solos were first takes. For three days, rhythm guitars were added at each day’s end. Horns were added another day, strings yet another. Four more days mixing—vavoom, an instant Jazz/AA hit. Pop recording artists, eat your hearts out.

TIME ON MY HANDS - JOHN SCOFIELD (BLUE NOTE)
John Scofield’s Blue Note debut is a most notable one. His flangey tone is augmented by the more relatively traditional tones of Charlie Haden, Jack DeJohnette and saxo...

JAZZ NEW RELEASES

phonist Joe Lovano. A super tight quartet, this group comes out swinging on the opening “Bash III.” Now check out Scofield’s chord work underneath Lovano’s opening solo—it’s an effective electric-meets-acoustic paradox. With “time on his hands,” Scofield plays it bluesy and swinging. His interpretations are lucid and focused. Time On My Hands is also a project of options. Programmers will be able to go uptempo (“Bash III”), slow and melodic (“Since You Asked”), intense (“So Sue Me”) and more. Co-producers Scofield and Peter Erskine provide a rich sonic bed that allows the music’s diversity to breathe. Our favorite power bop offering is “Farmacology.” Again, Scofield’s soloing and sonic bedings will be able to take them to titans. The label is lucid paradox. With “time on his hands,” Scofield’s soloing and chord accompaniment is skillful and instigating.

NO BORDERS - KEIKO MATSUI (MCA)
Two minutes into “The White Corridor,” (with Robben Ford wailing on guitar) the band shifts into a matador march, a sort of anticipation of battle. That represents one extreme of Keiko Matsui’s latest ambitious venture. Utilizing the cream of Los Angeles Jazz talent, Keiko’s latest is her very best, linking power and emotion. Unfortunately for players like David Benoit, the melodic keyboard competition is getting to be fierce as the concept of instrumental radio expands. On the vocal side, “Mover” is a winning collaboration with vocalist Phil Perry contributing a moving mood. We’ve all been clamoring for more male vocals so check this out. Utilizing the skills of three different arrangers, Keiko Matsui risks her musical vision compromised, however, the results are dramatic as songs like “The Wind And The Wolf” show her cinematic side. Though she is far to the right of fellow countryman Ryuichi Sakamoto, Keiko shows that dealing with melody can still be a progressive experience. I like the landscapes Keiko seems to have stored inside her brain. On such beautiful pieces as “In The Midst,” we hear extremely moving and adventurous in her use of such instruments as recorder, English horn, oboe, french horn and more. Truly evocative and emotional.

TOKYO BLUE - NAJEE (EMI)
Najee and his bassist/guitarist/engineer Fareed (not to be confused with Mr. Flaque) serve up something hot. In fact the Najee crew state their case on the opening cut. They’ve got soul. Tokyo Blue is, to borrow a phrase from newcomer Kim Waters, sweet and sassy. First and foremost a sax record, Najee, while tripping on alto, soprano and flute, sounds more at home carrying the melodic verses on his Selmer tenor. I like how Najee and Fareed literally allow the sax lines to vocalize, occasionally giving them support with real emotional ground vocals from such prominent talent as Herbie Hancock and Vesta Williams. Tokyo Blue is unabashedly Urban-flavored Q-Storm offering. And while the sounds and tones are sweet, positive and feelgood, Najee is fully capable of supplying both supple and fierce note work when it comes time to put the hammer down as heard on the soprano-fueled “Cruise Control.” Both versions of “Nation’s Call” are an appeal to peace and international sanity.

PARALLEL REALITIES - JACK DEJOHNETTE (MCA)
First off, the title. Parallel Realities—something that’s easy to relate to in the nineties. Secondly, the super trio of Jack DeJohnette, Herbie Hancock and Pat Metheny. Who wouldn’t have wanted to be a fly on the wall during these sessions? In rock n roll, we call them power trios. Here we call it a power trio. PR opens cyberpunk-style with “Jack In.” And “Jack in” is what DeJohnette does, as does Metheny. On the opener Pat supplies both a rousing solo and the synclavier atmospherics. Considering DeJohnette’s potential power on the skins, PR is a relatively laid-back affair. The absence of a bass player encourages DeJohnette, Hancock and Metheny to reconsider their sonic presences and each player is careful not to rise above a pre-arranged groove. I like the way DeJohnette handles the complete rhythm picture by supplementing his drumming with minimal keyboard bass. Herbie is excellent on acoustic piano. Pat Metheny’s tone and style is identifiable. Your listeners will love it. Trax: “Jack In,” the nonreggae “Nine Over Reggae” and “Indigo Dreamscape” among others.

Behind The Mask - Fleetwood Mac (Warner Bros.)

Fleetwood Mac PLB. That's Post Lindsey Buckingham, who can take solace in the fact that it took two guys to replace him. What might secretly irk him is that the Mac is rolling along just fine without him, though they're not as experimental. Some of that experimentation got them in trouble (Tusk), but also resulted in their best work (Tango In The Night). As they start a new chapter—and believe it, Fleetwood Mac has survived at least six major radical personnel and direction shifts—the band sounds ready for the challenge of survival. The material on Behind The Mask is diverse. Radio will naturally gravitate toward the female frontline stuff created by Christine McVie (“Save Me,” “Sky’s The Limit” and the title track) and Stevie Nicks (“Love Is Dangerous,” “Affairs Of The Heart” and “Freedom”). Other tracks include the Cajun-spiced “When The Sun Goes Down.” The album's most progressive moment, “In The Back Of My Mind” has some nice Nicks background vocals (making it identifiable Mac fare) with a textural percussion intro. “Stand On The Rock” is the most obvious rock piece and is getting immediate programmer attention.

Representing The Mambo - Little Feat (Warner Bros.)

Little Feat with Lowell George at the helm ranks as one of the most influential bands of the last twenty-five years. Ironically, the band has never been bigger than right now, meaning that the survivors have taken the band's roots and with them have re-built and added on an audience fond of the Feat's sophisticated, cosmopolitan style. The band is no doubt bored with the LG comparisons (and I don't blame them), and it should be reiterated that El Feat's current following is due not entirely to George's vision, but the momentum that's been tirelessly built by Paul Barrere, Bill Payne, Kenny Gradney and Richie Hayward. Relative newcomers Craig “American Flyer” Fuller and Fred Tackett round out the cast. Little Feat was always about multiple singers, rhythms and guitarists bouncing off each other. It's easy to imagine success with tracks like “Representing The Mambo,” “Texas Twister,” “Daily Grind” and “The Ingenue.” “Rad Gumbo” puts in a official appearance after vigorous airplay off the Roadhouse Soundtrack.

Love Barge - Big Dipper (EPIC)

“Comin’ at ya, our love is so vast we need a barge to haul it.” Ironically this is a song about standing alone and adrift. It can't help but think that if Echo & The B-Men were born Yanks they would have sounded closer to this. The backbeat and guitar chords are chopped and clipped, pinning those EV needles. Fergawdsakes, turn this one up. A stellar Big Dipper performance.

Dare To Fall In Love - Brent Bourgeois (Charisma)

My admiration for Brent Bourgeois didn't start with his work as Bourgeois Tagg. Nor did it have anything to do with hearing radio folks stumble over his upper crust name. It started with his sacred love and deep knowledge of baseball. So with the season finally starting, Brent's music represents the first ball thrown into the arena by the upstairs at Charisma. “Dare To Fall In Love” borrows melodically from Todd Rundgren, who helped shape the last Tagg album. This is a wonder ballad with countermelodies and layers of vocals. I think it sounds very James Bond-ish. Close your eyes and imagine the elaborate opening titles.

Ghost Nation - Hunters & Collectors (Atlantic)

I had a guitar-playing co-hort who once proclaimed, “Music comes from three places—the head, the heart and the gut.” (I used to add “genital region.”) According to the Gonz (his nickname), any one of those first three sources creates good music. Multiples of each are rare. All three could be downright earthstopping. Maybe that explains why, when I was blasting this, all the clocks stopped. Time stood still. The earth stood still. Mark Seymour has taken this band from almost aboriginal (so to speak) rock roots to something mainstream yet definitely potent. The results are still rough and tough. Ghost Nation is Hunters & Collectors at their very best, and that's saying a lot if you pour over the power and glory of their last few efforts. They're set to tour the world with the Oils (can our collective hearts stand it?), and this will be Hunters & Collectors' year. Here's a sample list of trax for the new renegade nation. "When The River Runs Dry," "Blind Eye," "Crime Of Passion" and "You Stole My Thunder." There's "Ghost Nation" and "Gut Feeling," which pretty much sums up how this album was written and performed.

McIntosh / Look Out - Chickasaw Mudd Puppies (Wing/Polygram)

Something totally unique. Yes, really. Chickasaw Mudd Puppies are a combination of white trash country blues singers and Alternative edge cases. The vocals are muffled, the instruments acoustic and the Americana interpretation a bit obscure and twisted. Co-produced—of course, this all makes sense now—by the equally obscure Michael Stipe of REM

Please welcome WRLT/FM100-Nashville to the Gavin Album fold. Lee Stevens is PD/MD while some of you may recognize Rockin' Ned Horton from Rebel 100. From what we hear, WRLT is embracing lots of Nashville music listeners (both starving eccentrics and musicians) in a dramatic way. Address is 251 Centerview Drive, #351, Brentwood, TN, 37027. The direction is adult-oriented. But don't let that bug you. These guys are an open-minded bunch. We're glad to have them starting this week. Their list will be researched for our Album chart.

Also, when I got the birth announcement from Robyn Kravitz and Bill Bennett on the birth of their new daughter, I was taken aback by the little one's first name, Scout. Then I remembered that was the name of the narrator/main character of the book, To Kill A Mockingbird. I guess that leaves Atticus and Boo Radley still open. Oh I forgot. Doesn't Natalie Merchant of 10,000 Maniacs have a cat named Boo Radley? KZ

Twenty Five Years Since Frank Zappa’s Hungry Freaks Daddy

I’m a big believer in the concept that small and seemingly insignificant human interactions can change your life as much as monumental personal, national and worldwide events. That is, that instant you decided to walk left instead of right, thus meeting your wife, a future employer or artistic cohort changes your life as much as a war in Southeast Asia. The more insignificant the occurrence, the more fascinated I become.

Example.

I’m thinking right now about the middle-aged woman behind the record store counter—the manager, the matriarch with authority to push the button. I can see her clearly in my mind’s eye. She was respectable, megastraight by 1966 standards. Maybe it was the fact that we were twins, which still opens a lot of doors. There we were, my brother and I, poised to make an LP purchase with money gleaned from a week’s worth of lawn mowing. The choice was critical. A mono pressing would set us back only about $1.99. A new stereo-full-radial-sound release—$2.99. What we really wanted seemed well out of reach—Freak Out by the Mothers Of Invention. We’d heard “Motherly Love” on the nightly portion of KPLS—our local Top Forty station. Back then they let the “hippest” jock “go underground” after six. Motherly love. What was that strange guitar tone? (It turned out to be a kazoo.) There was something sinister, something, well, freaky about this band.

So anyway, the bad news was that Freak Out by the Mothers Of Invention was the world’s first rock n roll double LP. And it cost $3.99, galaxies out of our budget. Then it happened. The manager offered us last week’s sale price—$3.49. Still out of our range, we jumped anyway. We’d skip out on that afternoon’s frosty cone or caramel corn. This seemed much more important.

Oh, the hell this woman unleashed on our peaceful household. Heaven and hell, actually. You must understand one thing. Frank Zappa and the Mothers were a complete deviation of what was happening on both sides of the Atlantic. Aside from an unheard-of freak—as opposed to hippie—image, Freak Out paid homage to Zappa’s passion for street corner greaseball dowop, a music form that, in Zappa’s eyes, is every bit as important as dead composer classical. Freak Out was brilliant because Zappa turned around the concept of studio musician and record company interference rather than letting the regular music union clockwatchers ruin his music, he devised his own orchestrations and put them to work. He was the first rocker to go monstrously overbudget. He was the first to rail against plastic middle class values in a glib, satirical fashion. He was the first to form his own “label” when MGM Records accidentally let his contract lapse. In order to keep him, MGM (a fiercely reactionary label that ironically had two of the most radical signings, the Mothers and the Velvet Underground) was forced to let Zappa form his own Bizarre Productions. Frank Zappa was counter counterculture. His self-conferred disdain for love songs wasn’t completely true since beautiful songs like “How Could I Be Such A Fool?” and “I Ain’t Got No Heart” leaked through anyway.

Then there were the acid-based (acid as in harsh rather than psychedelic) social statements like “Brain Police,” “Help I’m A Rock,” “Motherly Love,” “Hungry Freaks, Daddy” and most importantly, “Trouble Every Day” with its spoken declaration in the midst of a guitar solo—

“You know, people, I’m not black but there’s a whole lot of times I wish I could say I’m not white.”

That was the kind of stuff that shook Lyndon Johnson’s Great Society to its foundations.

In his biography, The Real Frank Zappa Book (possibly an attack on a previous biography entitled No Commercial Potential), Zappa elaborates on the oppressive atmosphere of the lower Southern California desert community. Striking out on his own, moving from his poor Italian household, Zappa assumed the debts of an art/recording/movie “studio” where he worked on a variety of destined-for-failure art survival projects.

“The Ontario Daily Report ran a feature story on me and my project in its Sunday centerfold—about how a weird guy in Cucamonga was trying to make a science fiction movie called Captain Beefheart vs. the Grunt People. It was probably that story which caused the San Bernardino County vice squad to take an interest in me. This was in 1962—my hair was short then, but the local folks thought I had long hair. The unspoken dress code for a Cucamongan male of that period, for all occasions, was a white, short-sleeved sport shirt with a bow tie (Pee -Wee Herman would have been a fashion plate). T-shirts were considered avant-garde.”

Frank Zappa taught me a lot. Things like drugs don’t necessarily make you freaky. The classic rebelliousness that questions the state, the government, parents, schools, even your own hip peers is all a state of mind.

At first Zappa viewed his position on the outside with a mixture of acrid sarcasm and self-pity (as heard on “I’m Not Satisfied”). After all, Frank was literally starving at the time Freak Out was being written and recorded. There are stories about living on a steady diet of baloney and cigarettes. Eventually the rest of the world came to the Freak Out as Zappa became world famous, although they still misunderstood the basic premise of Freakdom. Still, Frank remained a sort of demented casual observer on the outside, or as he sings on “You’re Probably Wondering Why I’m Here”

“Just as much as you wonder about me being in this place/That’s just how much I marvel at the lameness on your face/You rise each day the same old way/And join your friends out on the street/Spray your hair and think you’re neat/I think your life is incomplete/But maybe that’s not for me to say/They only pay me here to play”

Frank Zappa, the watcher of the world from both the bandstand and the studio workshop. What I love about him was that you could never tell if he was roasting the straights or the hips. In actual fact, both camps had a lot in common in terms of conformity, whether it be tie-dye or polyester. Then came a period when Freak Out was out-of-print. Was it really a

Gavin Alternative #1 Most Added

World Tour with Midnight Oil

Direction: Michael Roberts

On Atlantic Records, Cassettes and Compact Discs
© 1990 Atlantic Recording Corp. & Warner Communications Co.
I'd like to start by welcoming the new members of the Gavin Alternative reporting family: Tim Barazza from KTOW—Tulsa, OK (918-446-1903), George Giamarc—KDGE (The EDGE) Dallas, TX (214-580-9400), Matt Shane—WTXK in Pensacola, FL (904-438-7543), Al Mitchell—WQFM Chesapeake, VA (804-421-7111), and Rodney Holley—WUMS University, MS (601-232-5395).

Due to Spring Break (frozen reports) and the live new reporters, there's not much change in the chart this week. Many records are starting to peak, and should be reflected in next week's chart.

The BLUE AEROPLANES are the only new entry into the Top Ten this week. Out of the 38 stations playing The Aeronauts, 21 report HEAVY activity.

An excellent week for LLOYD COLE who moves from 19. HEAVY action reported at WRSI, WRAS, KCRW, KTW, WMDK, KTAO, KJON, KOTR, WXOY, WXYY, WHFS, 91X, WVU and WTSR.

That PETROL EMOTION make a whopping debut on the chart at #20! HEAVY action at WBER, WDCR, WVU, WRAS, KUSF, LIVE 105, and WOFM certainly helped the Chemi-Crazy cause, while ADDS at KCMU, WKKL, KTW, KCRW, WRVU, WKRR, KSF, WXOY and WTSR ensure more future movement.

POIDOG PONDERER make a nice move from 40-33, as WXCI, WPRB, WRFL, WXR, WAPS, WHFS, WRVU, WRSI, WUOG, and WUSB pound out HEAVY rotations.

NITZER EBB bounce from 33-27 with the help HEAVY airplay at WUNH, WTSR, WDET, KUNV, WBER, WFIT, WDCR, WBNY, and WXCI.

THE SUNDAYS move from 44-34 this week, but the story doesn't end there. ADDS at WRAS, WKKL, WXCI, WNSC, WXOY, WRFL, and WUSB are enough to ensure a few more chapters!

CD! CDs! CD! Both Frank Zappa's and The Ramones' catalogue will be available for the first time on Compact Disc. Zappa, who will be celebrating 25 years in the muzik biz, will have 8 of his most sought after titles available in time for Mother's Day. The Ramones, celebrating 16 years in the muzik biz, will have their 'The Ramones...All Their Stuff Plus More' series out by mid-June—just in time for Summer Solstice.

When our super star-spotter from Mercury (get it?) Tim Hyde got back to his hotel after the Farm Aid concert he found none other than W. Axl Rose at the piano entertaining the lucky folks in the lobby of the The Canterbury Hotel.

When Warner Bros' Paul V. isn't on the phone talking about The Chills or Jane's Addiction, he's doing a Thursday night nightclub-type thang called Mystery Date (Remember that game? Call me crazy, but I used to like the dud!). As the name implies, party themes center around Pop-culture from the past—mostly '60s and '70s TV shows. On April 12th, we celebrated David Cassidy's birthday. Although David couldn't be there in person, (he had party plans of his own) Paul V videotaped a message from him to all his well-wishers at Mystery Date. Personally, I enjoyed playing "Plant A Kiss On David," although WRAS' Kim Saade insists that "Throw The Love Beads On David" was more challenging.

Expect new wax soon from 4-AD's Ultra Vivid Scene who have just inked a licensing agreement with Columbia. The CD will be in stores in early May and vinyl in early June.

UVS is currently on tour in America with Ian McCulloch.

Billy Bragg will have a new album out in June. Aside from a tune entitled "Phil Oches," the album is reported to have a more "international flavor."

Congratulations to KFJC who pulled off a most interesting Easter promotion—"Resurrecting The Grateful Dead, Live." The station played 20 hours of non-repetitive—yes, you guessed it—live Grateful Dead.

FYI radio and record company executives. There are a number of talented and experienced soon-to-be college graduates looking for positions within the industry. Many of this year's graduates include Gavin nominees and winners, including (WRAS) Kim Saade, (WXYY) Glen Booth, (KUSF) Tim Ziegler and (WCDB) Jim McNeil. A talented group to be sure, and an excellent place to start looking for an addition to your team! Watch this space for more names in the coming weeks.

Every time I pass by Kent Zimmerman's office, I hear the new Hunters And Collectors album. It's out and on your desk now, but you probably know that since it was this week's #1 Most Added. Check it out—it's one of their best yet! Ta ta for now! LINDA RYAN

NEW RELEASES

THE SUNDAYS - READING, WRITING AND ARITHMETIC (DCG)

The Sundays literally exploded onto the English indie scene in 1988 with their Rough Trade single "Can't Be Sure," which went as high as 45 on the British Top 40 charts. The band spent just about all of 1989 in a studio recording Reading (as in the town), Writing and Arithmetic, their debut album. The first thing you notice is the way Harriet Wheeler's little-girl-lost voice caresses you from the very first tremble. Those violin-like vocals and the minimal, well-spaced music make a nostalgic, almost melancholy marriage that's pleasing to the ear. Tracks: "Skin And Bones," "Hidingous Town," "My Finest Hour," "I Kicked A Boy," "Joy" and the single, "Here's Where The Story Ends." LINDA RYAN

URBAN DANCE SQUAD - MENTAL FLOSS FOR THE GLOBE (ARISTA)

Holland's Urban Dance Squad uses today's technology to bust a hardcore groove. Groovy? Yep. "No Kid" and "Deeper Shade Of Soul" hit a trippy, psychedelic vibe that brings to mind De La Soul. Other tracks such as "Brainstorm On The U.D.S." and "Famous When You're Dead" hit a harder, metal-core edge not unlike 24-7 Spyz. It's always exciting to find a band that can deliver more than one style of music—Urban Dance Squad is certainly one such band. Other tracks to check out are "Fast Lane" and "Prayer For My Demo." I'd love to hear the story behind that one. I guess their prayers have been answered. Turn this one up! LR

CHICKASAW MUD PUPPIES - WHITE DIRT (POLYGRAM)

"Well, what do you think?" I muse to myself. "Johnny Cash on acid at a Captain Beefheart show?" Maybe. The Chickasaw Mud Puppies is one weird band who make knee slapping, good time, infectious music. Although this effort was produced by fellow Athens, GA resident Micheal Stipe, don't expect a jangly-guitared, R.E.M. clone. 'cuz the clone just ain't home! We're already seeing solid action in the East and Southeast (WUOG, WRFL, WRVU, WOFM, WDCR, WUSB, WTSR and others) the first week out. Tracks to check out include "McIntosh," "Lon Chaney," "Frogmore" and "Ponky Knot." Consider yourselves officially invited to this spaghetti western, but hold the mushrooms! LR

THE HUMMINGBIRDS - "ALIMONY" (rooART/MERCURY)

Australia's Hummingbirds are a playful power-pop band with a penchant for writing great songs that take things to illogical extremes. Case in point is the band's latest offering "Alimony" which, turns the classic theme "You broke my heart when you left me" into "You broke my heart when you left me and now you want alimony, too?" There's always a new twist with The Hummingbirds, which is what makes them not only fun, but in a class all of their own. LR

A TRIBE CALLED QUEST - PEOPLE'S INSTINCTIVE TREVELS AND THE PATH OF RHYTHM (RCA)

Funky with lots of soul, A Tribe Called Quest take rap another step toward its continuing evolution. Instruments, polyrhythms and a sampling of "Walk On The Wild Side," makes for an expansion of ideas not normally used in rap, opening up new possibilities. Incorporate poignant no-nonsense rhyme that deals with drugs, love, health, the planet and violence, and you have a band that is not afraid to experiment. Tracks: "Push It Along," "Lucky Of Lucien," "After Hours," "Footprints," "Public Enemy," "Bonita Applebum," "Can I Kick It?", "Rhythm (Devoted To The Art Of Moving Butts)," "Ham 'N Eggs" and "Description Of A Fool." TWO NICE GIRLS - LIKE A VERSION (ROUGH TRADE)
These Two Nice Girls were undoubtedly irresistible pranksters who masqueraded as teachers' pets in grade school—they're most adept at deceptive sincerity. Many of the tunes here are performed in a simple Countryish fashion, and although Two Nice Girls probably have their tongues in their cheeks, some cuts, especially the Carpenters' "Top Of The World!," come off as surprisingly legitimate and personalized re-workings of old material rather than as cash-ins on currently hip retro music mania. Or maybe I'm just a sucker. Either way, Like A Version proves a most enjoyable effort from this ensemble, and the true classic amidst this wide range of covers (from Sonic Youth to Donna Summer) may prove to be the Two Nice Girls' original (reappearing here—it was included on their earlier album) "I Spent My Last 10.00 (On Birth Control And Beer)." SB

URGE OVERKILL - "TICKET TO L.A." b/w "I'M ON A DRUNK (TOUCH AND GO)
This 7" showcases two distinct sides of Chicago/New York's Urge Overkill. "Ticket To L.A." features a meaty, fuzzed-out, Detroit-fired guitar riff and the aggressive percussion to give this drinkin' and travelin' track enough backbone to stand up next to "Highway To Hell." Form mirrors content with ("I'm On A") Drunk, which is more repetition than structured song, more noise than playing. Urge moans and grinds their way through this B-side with the same single-minded and painful determination that someone heavily inebriated might exhibit while searching for the bathroom. SB

HIGH CIRCLE - HIGH CIRCLE (CONTAGIO RECORDS)
I'm always drawn to Italian hard-core/punk. I can barely understand a word, but the music on this EP is frenetic and intense, with vocals that get your blood going. High Circle, the name of the band and the only English track on this 7" is about musical prostitution. High Circle are loud, noisy and not the least bit fashionable—but they are hot. RB

BIG SANDY AND THE FLY RITE TRIO - FLY RIGHT (DIONYUS)
Two guitars, one snare drum and a bass make for a quartet that's put out one entertaining album. Big Sandy and The Fly-Rite Trio's clean and distinct danceable sound is recorded in "Wallyphonic High Fidelity." Not only can they rock, but they're romantics as well. Tracks: "Hot Water," "Moonshine Rhythm," "Rock Rock," "Big Fat Trouble," "Let Me Love You Right," "Kiss-A-Me Baby" and "Baby You Done Gone." This album is refreshing acoustic fun. ROBERT BARONE

MAROON TOWN - HIGH AND DRY (STACCATO LINK RECORDS AND MUSIC LTD.)
Once again England offers the world another great SKA band. High and Dry, Maroon Town's debut recording, is filled with topical social and political statements. Lead vocalist Stevie B. is all too convincing with the hard-hitting lyrics. "Pound To The Dollar" is about money and it's unjust distribution; "Woman Say No" concerns male domination and violence; "Nostalgia" is a roller coaster into the past. Other tracks: "Thatcher's Children," "Fire," "Man In The Street," "Travelling Light" and "Average Man." Lyrics coupled with an upbeat dance rhythm and performed by a band that pulls out all the stops, makes this an excellent LP. RB

JET BLACK FACTORY - HOUSE BLESSING (391 RECORDS)
I never would’ve guessed Jet Black Factory call Memphis, Tennessee home! If you're already thinking the band is some kind of mutant country band, think again! These guys have more in common with Thievery Corporation than they do with say, Randy Travis. Lyricist Dave Willie has a wry sense of humor and a succinct way with words, which he sets to music that leans on pop's darker side. Melancholic and haunting, the guitar melodies weave an ethereal blanket of sound for your aural pleasure. Check out "Shut UP," "Uncrossing" and "Vinegar Works," the latter having started out according to Chopper, "As a staff favorite. The listeners picked up on it and now it's Top Five phones." You can't beat that! LR concert where, in England at least, the band videotapes the stage security in an effort to prevent fans from being manhandled.

"It's a drag you know, when they start beating up little girls right in front of you," complains Hussey. "Lots of security guards at those shows feel they have the right to abuse the fans—it's awful. We've hired a guy specifically to be in charge of security. He can tell a security guard 'That's it—you're out!' if he has to, but the camera works really well—it intimidates them."

"I'll tell you what else you can expect when coming to a Mission show this time around," he continues, excited about his upcoming tour of America. "This past New Year I was in San Francisco with my girlfriend, and we went to see The Grateful Dead. One thing I liked and incorporated into the shows in Britain, is the idea of people bringing in their tape recorders to tape the show. I think that's brilliant. They can go home with a tape in their pocket of the show they paid good money to see." Never one to stay serious for long, he jokes, "That way they'll know any heckling on that tape is their own. And really, the quality is probably better than any bootleg they'd actually go and buy." Before you Mission fans go out and buy new batteries for your Walkman, Wayne is doubtful about the success of pulling that off in America. "I don't know if it's going to work, but we want it to happen and we're looking into it."

Shortly before the release of the Mission's aptly titled second single, "A Wheel," the very beautiful song from Carved In Sand is making its way onto radio playlists across the United States, and should garner The Mission a whole new set of believers—making the trek across America that much more enjoyable. The romance of the song is so strong that I asked Wayne about the circumstances surrounding it. He explains:

"I happened across the phrase 'Butterfly on a wheel' in a Rolling Stones biography and I thought it was brilliant. I did some research and found out it was actually taken from one of Alexander Pope's poems. I went out and bought a book of his and I really enjoyed it. I have someone in my life right now and she's wonderful. I guess I had her in mind while I was writing."

Before too long, the "old" Wayne rears his non-committal head. Trying to get him to express any hopes or goals for the future is a fruitless task.

"It sounds ludicrous," Hussey begins, "but I think as a band we've done everything we wanted to. We just want to keep at the music, so I'm glad people like it." A very eloquent Hussey continues, "We don't like looking too far into the future because once you do you define it, and once you define it you change the very nature of it. We'll leave that to you journalists."

"We don't like looking too far into the future and can't remember too much of the past, so we have to concentrate on right now," he laughs easily. He certainly has a good sense of humor about himself.

"Well you have to really, 'cos when you think about it, it's a joke. I mean, I'm in London and you're in San Francisco and you're asking questions about me! Isn't that weird to you?"

I never thought about it that way. Touche.

April 19 marks the first date of The Mission's jaunt through the States. I was Mission fanatics The Wonderstuff. "They're good friends of ours," says Hussey fondly. "We did a one-off thing last Christmas when they asked us if we wanted to play with them. We did the show as The Metal Gurus and did cover versions from some of our heroes."

Sadly, The Metal Gurus have broken up, but never fear Mission maniacs! The shows were taped for posterity and some of the tracks are turning up as B-sides on singles in Britain.

In an interview for Rolling Stone Magazine Wayne Hussey joked, "We're very much like Spinal Tap." And while he's probably not too far off the mark, one thing is for certain: as long as there are fans who keep coming to their shows, there will always be The Mission. These bad boys of rock and roll have hearts of gold.●
PERSONAL PICKS

SINGLES by Dave Sholin

Dave Sholin is on vacation this week. Some picks are written by Annette M. Lai.

LOUIE LOUIE - Sittin' In The Lap Of Luxury
(WTG)
I'm sure the first time some folks see the artist's name they're gonna think this is a remake of the old Rock classic. Not even close. Here's a sensational, uptempo Dance track featuring some hot horn playin' and a familiar, yet distinctive groove. Got the feeling, we'll be hearing more about this talented newcomer. DS

RICHARD MARX - Children Of The Night
(EMI)
A consciousness raiser that reminds us of the sad and unacceptable problem of teen prostitution and the plight of the young homeless. Marx's sincerity and concern is demonstrated by his words, music and delivery. In addition, he's donating all proceeds of this song to the organization of the same name. DS

BILLY JOEL - The Downeaster "Alexa"
(Columbia)
Dedicating this song to the fishing community, especially those who make their living from the sea, Billy Joel weaves a story about their struggle to survive. In his December '89 Gavin cover story Billy said, "I'm concerned about the general state of the planet...What I can try to do is change my corner of it, out here on Long Island." Remember folks, Earth Day is just around the corner. AML

PHIL COLLINS - Do You Remember?
(Atlantic)
With two #1s under his belt, Phil, in his own familiar and inimitable style, brings us this sentimental and sensitive ballad about a relationship gone awry—proving that sometimes love isn't enough. For this one to follow in the path of its two...BUT SERIOUSLY predecessors. Already on at KBQ St. Louis. AML decade of no Freak Out? Zappa had withdrawn his work. When he regained financial control over his art, he inked a deal with Ryko to release the catalogue on CD, which ironically was a perfect fit for many of Zappa's extended concepts.

Things haven't really changed all that much. We are reentering a cycle of repressive moralizing and censorship. Lately Zappa has been active in fighting the blue-haired matrons who have taken it upon themselves to protect us from our own First Amendment liberties. He continues to rally against industry standards in rock n roll, classical, new classical and electronic censorship. His reputation as a libertarian, a composer, guitarist, satirist, freak chronicler and cultural is assured. Seeing him in a three piece suit testifying in front of the Senate with short hair hardly surprised me. He still had that mad scientist look (like composer Edgar Varese), controlling the situation like he does onstage with his band, using a variety of sly body language, signals and droll and dry witticisms.

Things haven't changed much in twenty-five years. In essence people are still saying "it can't happen here" when it comes to freedom and extremist groups and corporate sponsors dictating what gets seen and heard in America. Think about it. They're freaking out in Cincinnati over a bunch of black and white photographs in an art museum, threatening the curator with Jail. Who could imagine? Suzy Creamcheese, are you where you are now that we need you? Help, I'm a rock.

Note: Ryko is celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of Freak Out by setting up a series of promotions. Spread the Zappa gospel to those listeners who may have been in a pre-embryonic state when all this original foolishness went down. Call Jim Neill at Rykodisc. He has some good ideas and is willing to listen to yours—the freakier the better. Dial 508-744-7678 and tell him Gavinsent you.

FLEETWOOD MAC - Behind The Mask
(Warner Bros.)
This "Team thing," as George Bush might say, has its shortcomings. Too much democracy can water down a group's potential. As with every change in the group's makeup, the departure of Lindsey Buckingham and the recruitment of Billy Burnette and Rick Vito severely altered the composite Mac sound. And rather than load up on songs from stalwarts Christine Mcvie and Stevie Nicks, the portion normally allotted to Lindsey is filled by Vito and Burnette with mixed results. The alterations preserve the overall vitality of the group sound, even though the ensemble shuffle takes some getting used to. I'm most comfortable with the middle of the set. There we find the first single, SAVE ME (a traditional McVitue style) AFFAIRS OF THE HEART (a traditional Nicks track) and the most intriguing of the Vito/Burnette contributions, WHEN THE SUN GOES DOWN. The title track, BEHIND THE MASK, is another excellent McVie song and liner note freaks will notice that the erstwhile Mr. Buckingham contributes a little acoustic guitar to the track. What does it all mean?

BILLY JOEL STORMS ACROSS U.S. AND EUROPE WITH SRO ARENA TOUR
All that I know in my life, I have learned on the street
No magic carpet, no genie, no shoes on my feet
Will I wake up from this nightmare?
A fear that chills me to the bone
Though I may be one of many
I feel so all alone

We are the children of the night
We won't go down without a fight
Our voice is strong, our future's bright
And thanks to what we've learned from you
We've grown into the children of the night

Left by my father with only this scar on my face
Told by my mother that, "No, you were just a mistake"
I have tasted my own hunger
Sold my body to survive
Some have paid to scratch the surface
But they can't touch what's inside

We are the children of the night
We won't go down without a fight
Our voice is strong, our future's bright
And thanks to what we've learned from you
We've grown into the children of the night

How I long for something better
Than this life I know too well
Lord, I know I'm bound for heaven
Cause I've done my time in hell

We are the children of the night
We won't go down without a fight
Our voice is strong, our future's bright
And thanks to what we've learned from you
We've grown into the children of the night
