Goldmine

Issue 482 January 15, 1999 Vol. 25 No. 3

16 Unpublished Elvis Photos

26 Charlie Rich

Unsung hero of Sun Records during its heyday, Charlie Rich was beloved by fellow Sun Records' session musicians and stars alike. Songwriter, musician, producer, Rich's story provides plenty of insight on the inner workings of Sun, the birthplace of rock 'n' roll. ...by Hank Davis

Wanda Jackson

62 Martin Willis

Sun Records had a plethora of awesome session musicians, but none were as versatile as saxman Martin Willis, who provides Goldmine readers great insight into the action during his Sun recording sessions with Jerry Lee Lewis, Johnny Cash and others. ...by Hank Davis

They're ruining Elvis' reissues

With your Elvis January issue coming up {It's now in your hands! — Ed.}, I have several issues that never seem to get addressed. In one of your issues several years ago, it was reported that the "lost" Bill Randle movie of Elvis (and others) had been found. It was mislabeled but in perfect condition. You also said that it was being sold and that we should see it in the near future. What, where?

Ernst Jorgensen admitted that he had put the "wrong" take of "A Big Hunk O' Love on the '50s box, and it is now perpetuated through all new releases. The released hit single was a splice from two takes. He put out the non-spliced take. His response was, "Oh, well, I goofed. But the take I put out is better anyway. The single was out of time." What a terrible attitude to take for someone who is supposed to be on our side to straighten out the RCA catalog and release the right stuff! How self-serving!

Evidently now the only place to find "Big Hunk" is on the initial Gold Records Vol. 2, or on Elvis In Nashville. I guess this will continue just like "Doncha' Think It's Time" on Gold 2. It was the wrong take and we've had to live with that all these years, since 1959! Will anyone ever get it right?

This leads to "Come What May" and "Follow That Dream." These two songs are missing the stereo master, so they put out another take. This will now perpetuate also. Pretty soon, no one will remember the originals, which were better! This is called rewriting history!

Ernst also talks about "I'm Yours" being released by "accident" without Elvis' overdubs. Again, he's wrong. Elvis sings this song in Tickle Me. The single release is this version. It was a pretty good size hit, but is now being ignored by revisionist Ernst. He says the same about "Lover Doll" from King Creole. This song was released on the extended-play King Creole. This is also the way it was done in the movie. Since, in 1958, more kids bought 45s than LPs, more people have the undubbed version than the LP cut. But now with CDs we get the album version only, and we have to hunt for the other.

Some of this ignorance by Ernst might be because he did not live in the U.S. and understand about the releases here, plus he is young. But at least be willing to learn and accept!

When is RCA/BMG going to release a complete DVD/Laser/Video, unedited, of all the Elvis appearances in the '50s? Without talking over them, enhancing them with overdubs, or anything! We know they have them. Probably long after those of us that lived through the '50s are dead and gone!

Just a few things to get off my chest from someone that has to buy each new release because there is one new thing on it. I understand the business, but at least get it right!

Take a walk in my shoes

I received my latest Goldmine issue (#481, Jan. 1, 1999) in the mail today. It really looks better all the time, and the 25th anniversary logo looks great. As a writer, I am proud to be associated with this fine publication.

I couldn't help but notice the harsh letters from readers concerning the misplaced Buffy St. Marie page in the previous issue (#480, Dec. 18, 1998). As a former editor of an entertainment weekly, I know first-hand how hectic it can be when you come up against the deadline. The fact is, you have done an excellent job in limiting the number of mistakes in these issues, and anyone who wans to send out a lynch mob should do so only after they have walked a mile in your shoes.

Congratulations on 25 years of serving the collectors and the music fans alike.

{One of my favorite songs is "Walk On Hot Coals" by Rory Gallagher. That's about what it feels like during a Goldmine (or any publication's) deadline or after we realize we made a mistake in an issue. I remember reading a comment about mistakes made by a professional hockey goalie. He said: "How would you like it if every time you made a mistake (i.e. he didn't block the puck), a red light went on and 15,000 people booed." Well, we have more than 40,000 readers, and we hear you when we make a mistake! Michael, we appreciate the supportive note, but we also accept the blame for our mistakes and are making efforts to eliminate them. We are also excited about our 25th Anniversary! It's going to be a great year. — Ed.}

Liked 25 best rock DVDs

It was a pleasant surprise to see the article on the 25 best rock DVDs in the January 1 issue since I happen to own most of the DVDs that made the list. I laughed when I saw The Wizard of Oz on the list; I had also bought it for the Dark Side Of The Moon connection, although I could never get the CD and the DVD to play in sync. One correction: The various artists' Isle of Wight DVD mentioned in the article is entitled Message to Love: The Isle of Wight Festival and was issued by Sony, not Image. (Image did issue the laser disc version.)

Excellent Family

Your article on Family (Goldmine #480, Dec. 18, 1998) was an excellent example of why I subscribe to Goldmine. I love to read about the history of less-known bands, often overlooked in their day, that are not found in mainstream publications.

Like many, I had largely overlooked Family. Inspired by your article, I pulled out the lone Family album in my collection (Fearless) and rediscovered an excellent band. Can you tell us if a Family boxed set or retrospective CD is in the works?

— Robert James

{Family article writer Dave Thompson has this to say: "There's nothing planned that we know of, but as soon as we hear anything, we'll pass it on." — Ed.}

Genesis stuff for second box

Your issue #480 (Dec. 18, 1998) included a review of the excellent Genesis box set Archives. At the end of the review Andy Goldenberg wanted us to submit a list of songs we fans would like on the second box. My suggestion would be the entire Duke suite from the 1980 tour (songs: "Behind the Lines," "Duchess," "Guide Vocal, "Turn It On Again," "Duke's Travels," "Duke's End"). This song cycle represents the best of Genesis during the Phil (Collins) years, as it is an absolutely stunning performance that keeps us riveted to the stereo through the last note. Please pass this along to Hit n Run.

Jack Bonus mention appreciated

Thank you, Steve Roeser, for the fine interview with one of the best female vocalists to ever step up to a microphone! (Grace Slick, Goldmine #479, Dec. 4, 1998.) The most interesting part of the interview for me was the mentioning of Jack Bonus! His album on the Grunt label is, to me, one of the top albums ever made! This is the first time that I have ever seen him mentioned in print. Jack, if you are still around, many, many thanks for the untold hours of pleasure your album has brought to me!

Bring back rare finds column

One thing I really miss is a column Goldmine ran regularly years ago. It was a monthly column where readers could brag about their good fortune bargain-hunting at garage sales and thrift stores etc. I always looked forward to seeing what might turn up in the dust bin of the unsuspecting public. I would even be willing to write a small monthly column of this nature as such hunting has been my passion for years. Thank you for your consideration.

{We hope there are still rare finds out there. Would love to restart the column. Any cool finds recently to report from our readers? — Ed.}

LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

Elvis keeps on rockin'

The amazing resiliency of The King in record collecting circles has been underscored by the skyrocketing prices of his Sun Records' 45s, as reported in Tim Neely's Platter Chatter column in this, our annual Elvis tribute issue. In the mainstream marketplace, Elvis reissue sales continue to make a huge bulge in the revenues of RCA, more than 20 years after his death. While of course we'll never find out, it would be interesting to hear what Elvis would have to say about his continued fame and fortune today.

This issue's stories on Martin Willis, Wanda Jackson and Charlie Rich, among others, provide us with further insight on what this great entertainer was like and what Sun Records, the "father" label of rock 'n' roll, was like in those early days.

As we approach the New Millennium, we will soon be inundated by articles and television specials on the greats of the 20th century. (You'll probably see some in Goldmine too!). One thing you can be assured of is Elvis being on many of those lists, joining Frank Sinatra and The Beatles for sure among artists having the biggest impact on music in this century.

I grew up during The Beatles' invasion and didn't fully understand the impact Elvis had on music and society until many years later. What kid in the mid-60s was listening to Elvis? Not many. But over time, we dig back into the musical years before our adolescence and find out that many of the artists we may have scorned as youngsters suddenly don't sound so bad. The Sun Records legacy is what all subsequent rock acts were built on. And that is why we honor Elvis and the artists and people surrounding him every year with this special tribute issue. Long live The King!

— Greg Loescher

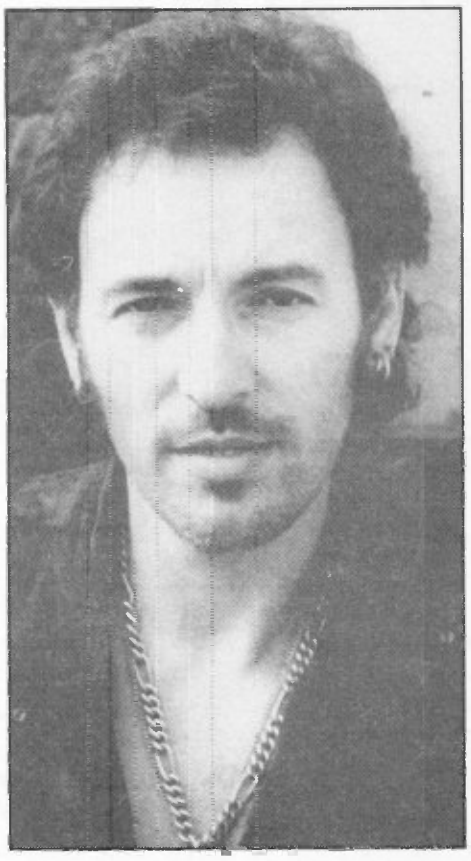
Springsteen wins court case; plans E Street Band 25th Anniversary tour



They don't call him The Boss for nothing. After 2 1/2 years of legal wrangling, Bruce Springsteen has won his case in British court to block the release of a 19-track album that would have featured songs he recorded 26 years ago. The material in question, which Springsteen's lawyer described to the court as not up to the singer's standards, consists of demos and outtakes that were never intended for public consumption.

In essence, the presiding judge ruled against Masquerade Records, an independent British label that had originally sought to issue the songs on an album prior to Christmas. In addition to providing an injunction, the decision enables Springsteen to pursue further legal remedy against the former head of a now-defunct company, called Flute International, which released two collections of pre-fame Springsteen material back in 1996. Asserting that neither Masquerade nor Flute had a right to license the songs, Springsteen's attorney told the court that the material was valuable to the singer due to his massive following throughout the world. He also maintained that Springsteen's former managers, Jim Cretecos and Mike Appel, had no authority to sell the material in the first place.

Besides protecting Springsteen's artistic interests, the British court ruling has the potential to generate considerable monetary damages for the singer. Future proceedings will determine how much Springsteen ultimately receives from both companies, but his suit against Flute International alone seeks more than $3 million. In addition, the judge immediately awarded Springsteen $800,000 in court costs. After listening to the courts decision, Springsteen told the BBC: "The music that you release is the way you shape your career. It's a big part of what you say and the way you say it. It's an artistic judgment and should be left up to the songwriter. I hope [today's decision] will be a deterrent. It took a long time, but I will not hesitate to do it again."

"The music that you release is the way you shape your career. It's a big part of what you say and the way you say it." — Bruce Springsteen

Moving on to less litigiously-oriented Boss news, Springsteen's current manager, Jon Landau, has announced that the singer and the E Street Band will reunite for a 25th anniversary world tour. Details remain sketchy, but if the reunion comes to pass it will mark the first time since 1989 that Springsteen has toured with his former mates. (In 1994, he gathered the band together briefly to record four new tracks for his Greatest Hits compilation album.)

Rumors about a reunion began circulating this past summer, while Springseen was putting the final touches on Tracks, his career-spanning four-CD box set. The current announcement fuels rampant speculation regarding the possibility that Springsteen might perform with the E Street Band at the Rock And Roll Hall of Fame ceremonies in March, at which time the singer will be inducted into the Hall (although, in a matter of some controversy, the band itself will not be an inductee).

In its various incarnations, the E Street Band has included such luminaries as Steve Van Zandt (guitar), Clarence Clemons (saxophone), Danny Federici (keyboards), Gary Tallent (bass), David Sancious (keyboards), Vini Lopez (drums), Roy Bittan (keyboards), Max Weinberg (drums), and Nils Lofgren (guitar). Many of the former members have moved on to forge solo careers, with varying degrees of success, and Weinberg, of course, leads the house band for Late Night With Conan O' Brien. At press time, it was unknown which players would be part of the upcoming reunion. Calls to Springsteen's publicist were not returned, but according to Ticketmaster, a complete tour schedule will be announced sometime in early 1999.

GRAPE·LEAVES

Upcoming New Releases. Indie label queen Ani Difranco will be releasing her 12th album, Up Up Up Up Up Up, on January 19... The Chieftains are teaming up with Bonnie Raitt, Joni Mitchell, Natalie Merchant, The Corrs, Mary Chapin-Carpenter, Joan Osborne, Loreena McKinnitt, Diana Krall, Sissell, The Rankins, Akiko Yano, Eileen Ivers, and Natalie MacMaster, among others (whew!) on their long-awaited follow-up to The Long Black Veil, also a star-studded album, called Tears of Stone, due in stores in February.

Upcoming Reissues: Capricorn Records is reissueing The Healer by John Lee Hooker. The album, which features Hooker on duets with Carlos Santana, Bonnie Raitt, Robert Cray, Los Lobos, George Thorogood and Charlie Musselwhite, went platinum and has been out-of-print for five years... In January, Capitol Records is releasing Divas Exotica, a compilation of 18 female pop singer pioneers from the past 60 years, including Ann-Margret, Marlene Dietrick, Eartha Kitt, Brigitte Bardot, Sophia Loren, Marilyn Monroe and Jayne Mansfield... Velvel is releasing The Kinks' Dave Davies 2-disc, Unfinished Business: The Kronikles: 1963-1998, which includes solo material as well as Kinks sides, such as a never-before-heard 1969 demo of "Climb Your Wall" and "I Believed You," a 1963 demo recorded by the Kinks when they were known as The Ravens... in January Vanguard is reissuing Sandy Bull, Re-Invention: The Best of the Vanguard Years and Odetta: Best of the Vanguard Years.

Valentine's Day Shopping Hint: Rhino Records is making Valentine's shopping easier (and no vases required) for 1999 with the January releases of Ray Charles: Love Songs and two new additions to their Heart Beats compilations: Now & Forever: The Timeless Wedding Songs (17 tracks) and Love Scene: Romantic Movie Music (16 tracks). Now & Forever features Chicago's "You're The Inspiration" and "Here And Now" by Luther Vandross while Love Scene features The Gin Blossoms' "Til I Hear It From You," and "For All We Know" by Johnny Hartman from The Bridges of Madison County.

Video Offerings: Beach Boys' legend Brian Wilson is releasing on January 15, Imagination, a Warner Reprise video companion to his 1998 solo album of the same name and a PBS television series that aired in early December. Guests on the video include Sean Lennon, Eric Clapton, Stevie Wonder, and Glen Campbell. Concert selections include "California Girls" and "Don't Worry Baby."

Book Offerings: For those who are interested in getting into the recording industry, check out How To Setup And Run A Successful Independent Label from Pwerful Enterprises. The book also contains radio station and music industry directories with thousands of listings. (P.O. Box 1365, Bronx, NY 10475. $49.95 plus $3 S&H).

On The Mend: Grateful Dead bassist Phil Lesh was reported in stable condition after undergoing a liver transplant Dec. 18th. Lesh had been hospitalized in September for several days for internal bleeding stemming from hepatitis C, which he was diagnosed with in 1992.

On The Road Again: R&B and gospel star Kirk Franklin is embarking on The Nu Nation Tour, a 56-city tour.

L.A.'s Whiskey A Go Go celebrates 35th Anniversary with big bash

Legendary West Coast rock 'n' roll hot spot the Whisky A Go Go, still operating today in its original location on the Sunset Strip in the West Hollywood section of Los Angeles, will celebrate 35 years of live music with a special week of performance nights in mid-January. Many of the bands and artists who put the Whisky on the map in the '60s and '70s will return to play at the famous club for the first time in decades.

During the week of January 16-23, according to Billy Hinsche (the one-time member of Dino, Desi and Billy who was brought in to help book the talent for the anniversary), the vintage acts will include Iron Butterfly, Sweetwater, Moby Grape, Big Brother and the Holding Company, Country Joe McDonald, Martha Reeves, Chico Hamilton, Randy Bachman, Delaney Bramlett, Terry Reid, Jan and Dean, Edgar Winter, Rick Derringer, Humble Pie, and Roger McGuinn, among others.

"There is one special exception to the rule of artists that have played here, insofar as the last night, Saturday the 23rd, the show will open with a group called In Bloom, a local L.A. kick-ass band," Hinsche said. "They are a trio, the sons of Carl Wilson and Dennis Wilson, and a fellow named Mario Tucker. Since Carl and Dennis both played here, we thought that, as an exception, they would be a part of the roster, representing their fathers," explained Hinsche.

Tickets to the anniversary shows will be $35 and will obviously have a limited availability, since the Whisky has the capacity to hold about 500 people. The first night will be a private party, a 75th birthday celebration for Whisky A Go Go owner Mario Maglierie (the club's manager in the early days), featuring music by Johnny Rivers and the Grass Roots.

Updated information is available online at whiskyagogo.com. Hinsche added that an internet broadcast and eventual CD compilation are also possibilities. Designer Dennis Loren, whose portfolio includes the original logo lettering for Goldmine, is at work on a series of limited-edition posters depicting some of the most significant acts that played the club.

One of the groups that got its start at the Whisky A Go Go was the Doors. In the early '90s the club was remodelled to look as it did in the '60s, and was used to shoot key scenes for the Oliver Stone movie The Doors.

Austin City Limits has plenty to offer in New Year

Featuring a slew of top-name artists, Austin City Limits kicks off its 24th year on February 6 with Deanna Carter, daughter of session-guitarist Fred Carter Jr., headlining a rare, one-hour performance. And if that doesn't whet your appetite for the best thing on PBS, and possibly any channel, the following weeks promise more of the same high-quality acts including country's hot new act, The Dixie Chicks and local Austin singer/songwriter Charlie Robison (Feb. 13), Lionel Hampton and Ruth Brown (Feb. 20), Lucinda Williams, featured in Goldmine's January 1, 1999, issue, and Billy Bragg (Feb. 27). Further on down the road, look for Vince Gill, Ray Price, Jimmy Vaughan and Junior Brown, to name a few of the country, folk, blues, rock and jazz acts to grace the stage. Check your local PBS listings for exact dates and times.

Austin City Limits junkies can also look forward to a 25th Anniversary book, called simply Austin City Limits. Due out next fall. Austin freelance writer John T. Davis is penning the tome, and the hundreds of black & white and color photos are coming from the archives of long-time Austin City Limits photographer Scott Newton. The book is a joint publishing venture of Billboard Books and KLRU, Austin's PBS station.

Mark Lindsay, The Pretty Things rip up Cavestomp '98

The three-day Cavestomp '98 festival at Coney Island High in New York City had many highlights — the reunion of the original Remains for the first time since the late '70s, The Litter's first New York appearance in 30 years and former Paul Revere & The Raiders lead singer Mark Lindsay's rip-roarin' cameo with the Chesterfield Kings.

But even Lindsay would have to tip his Revolutionary War hat to The Pretty Things, who induced enough audience screams at the November 22 performance to make up for a 22-year absence from these shores. They may not be raking in the dough of British Invasion contemporaries such as The Rolling Stones and they may not be not be the household names The Beatles are to the average American rock fan, but The Pretties can still tap into the bop that won't stop.

Concert Review

A tongue-lashing intro by manager Mark St. John was well indicative of what would follow. After St. John finished tracing The Pretty Things' drug busts, attempts at setting planes on fire, and "bloodied-but-unbowed" exploits, the suit-clad sextet took the stage and launched into a rendition of "Roadrunner" that sounded like 1965 all over again.

Real rock 'n' roll may be on life support these days, but The Pretties gave it a king-sized jolt of electro-shock therapy with the 14 songs that followed. Given who were belting out the songs, such results were to be expected. This wasn't some re-constituted, re-heated, warmed-over substitute. This was The Pretties as they were in 1966: Phil May on vocals, Dick Taylor on guitar, Wally Waller on bass, John Povey on keys, and Skip Alan on the skins — plus "new" (since 1988) second guitarist Frankie Holland. Better still, the set list contained not only favorites like "Don't Bring Me Down" and "Come See Me," but also left-field classics like "Cold Stone" and "Cries From The Midnight Circus."

Every note of The Pretties' unshackled intensity was a highlight, but a few stood out. In a four-song suite from 1968's S.F. Sorrow album (just reissued in its original mono mix on Snapper Music), the ghostly harmonies of "Balloon Burning" remained intact, and "Baron Saturday" was accented by a five-man percussion interlude where Povey banged on a bongo. Povey also stood out with his wailing blues harp on "Judgement Day" from The Pretties' eponymous 1965 debut (also out on Snapper). Not to be outdone, Taylor cranked out some fiery guitar on "L.S.D.," which segued into an ultra-distorted fuzz romp through "Old Man Going" where Taylor and Holland shared sizzling solos.

These "old men" (most in their late 50s and beyond) weren't going anywhere, however, as the inevitable exit after "Old Man Going" only inspired the loud crowd to scream for more. More was what they got, as The Pretties returned with for an encore of "Rosalyn" and "Route 66." The latter was particularly memorable, as Alan emerged from behind his drum kit (taken over by St. John, of all people) to sing with a sweat-soaked May, then grabbed his floor tom from St. John to do a little more pounding as his mates soloed.

The resulting roar of the crowd was deafening, but the message was clear: The Pretty Things can still give you a buzz. If an American tour does happen in 1999 (Povey told Goldmine that it is possible) — don't miss it!

Be sure to catch the aforementioned Lindsay in action if he does another guest spot with The Chesterfield Kings. Much like The Pretties' age-defying antics, rock's most famous ponytail betrayed his 56 years with a worship-worthy six-song set two nights earlier. Hitting the stage as the Kings churned out the rhythm from "Kicks," Lindsay was unstoppable in his moment in the Coney Island spotlight. The ex-Raider danced, pranced, did dual tambourine hits with Kings' vocalist Greg Prevost, put on the old patriotic garb for a moment, and even recited his famed ad-lib at the end of "Steppin' Out": "I ain't seen a woman in 69 years!" And just when the audience thought "I'm Not Your Stepping Stone" would be Lindsay's swan song, he surprised everyone by joining Sky Saxon (backed by The Mysterians) for a duet on the final set of the night.

It all made one wish that Lindsay and Paul Revere could smooth things over and reunite the classic Raiders lineup (also including Fang, Drake, and Smitty) in time for Cavestomp '99.

Obituaries

John Addison, Film Score Composer

John Addison, a renowned composer whose music for the 1963 film, Tom Jones, earned him an Academy Award, died on December 7 after suffering a stroke. He was 78. Addison began his career composing chamber music as a faculty member at the Royal College of Music in London. In the 1950s, he began writing scores for movies and television, and eventually composed the soundtracks for such films as Swashbuckler and A Bridge Too Far, for which he received a British Academy Award. He also won an Emmy for the theme to the TV series, Murder, She Wrote. Eight years ago, Addison relocated from California to Vermont, where he returned to composing chamber and symphonic pieces. His Bassoon Concertina premiered last summer in Manchester, England, and in recent weeks he had completed a commissioned chamber piece. He is survived by his wife, Pamela, and several children and grandchildren.

Lynn Strait, lead singer for Snot

Lynn Strait, lead singer of the punk rock band Snot, died in car crash on December 11 in Los Angeles. He was 30 years old. Snot had recently completed a stint on the OzzFest tour, and was currently working on demos for the follow-up to their 1997 Geffen release, Get Some. In a prepared statement, the band's co-manager, Sean Henning, said: "We're devastated. This is a tough one. [Strait's] family, friends and fans will miss him. Lynn had a lot of fans who grew to love him through his music, and hardcore music fans have lost a great frontman, singer, and songwriter." In an interview with MTV News, Snot's guitarist, Mikey Doling, said the group would not continue without Strait. In lieu of flowers, the singer's family has requested that fans make donations to the Sweet Relief fund for musicians in need of medical assistance. (Sweet Relief, In Memory of Lynn Strait, P.O. ELVIS' GIRLFRIEND WANDA JACKSON

by Bruce Sylvester

Twenty-year-old Elvis and 17-year-old Wanda Jackson had so much in common, it's no wonder they bonded when they first met at a Missouri radio station in 1955.

Each had grown up as an only child with indulgent parents they each adored. Both were ambitious, breaking from country music's artistic and sartorial molds. They had their own ideas no matter how the Grand Ole Opry treated them.

Born October 20, 1937, in tiny Maud, Oklahoma, Wanda Lavonne Jackson broke the country Top 10 at the tender age of 16, ducting with Billy Gray on "You Can't Have My Love." Her boyfriend Elvis later convinced her to turn her sexy growl to rock.

But the world wasn't ready for Wanda's sizzling — and funny — rockabilly sides, which probably sell better now than way back when. Not until 1960 did one of them click — a rave-up cover of "Let's Have A Party," an album track from Elvis that hadn't even been intended for a single.

By then Wanda was moving back to C&W, writing or co-authoring her hits "Right Or Wrong" (now the title of her earlier Bear Family box set) and "In The Middle Of A Heartache." Here, gracious Wanda relives happy days with EP.

Goldmine: How did you meet Elvis?

Wanda Jackson: After I graduated from high school, I was ready to go out on the road. My father was going to help me and travel with me. We were just ordinary people — we didn't know anybody in the business. My father saw Bob Neal's name in Billboard and called him in June or July 1955. Bob Neal said, "We could use a young girl on the program I'm booking with a young guy who's getting real popular. His name's Elvis Presley." Living in Oklahoma City, I'd never heard of him. I told my cousins in Odessa, Texas, I'd be touring with him, and they couldn't believe it. At that time he had pockets where he was popular: West Texas, places in Tennessee and Mississippi. Later on, in '56, he became known nationwide. Our first show was in Cape Girardeau, Missouri. I've still got the poster — it's the only one I have of us. It says, "Presenting Elvis Presley with Scotty and Bill, Wanda Jackson, Bud Deckelman, Johnny Duame and His Ozark Ridge Runners." Elvis and I actually met at a radio station in Cape Girardeau. Usually when the artists got into town, they would go to a local radio station, do an interview and invite everybody to come to the show.

What was your initial impression of Elvis?

Well, my heart kind of skipped a beat. I'd never seen a picture of him. He was a handsome guy to say the least. He was dressed kind of strange. I think it was a yellow coat. I'd never seen a guy wear yellow like that. When I saw his pink Cadillac, I thought, "My goodness, this guy is different." He had the long sideburns and everything. We struck it off right from the very beginning. I heard later that he hadn't heard of me either. Bob Neal had told him, "She's a country singer. She's had a couple of country hits." And Elvis said, "Oh boy, that oughta be great! The cowboy hats and boots, the whole works, huh!" He was making fun of it. So after he met me, he called Bob Neal and said, "Hey, I thought Wanda Jackson was just a country gal, but she's quite a dish!" Sure enough, I didn't wear boots and hats. I was already designing my own clothes. I was wearing high heels and long earrings and tight-fitting dresses with low necklines and fringe. Our dating was different from most people's because the only time we could date was when we were on tour. And we were busy then. We traveled every day. If we got into town early enough, we'd take in a matinee movie and maybe have supper together. And maybe go out after a show if it was a big enough city where word wouldn't get out where he was going to have a hamburger. If it was a little town, there'd be just one or two places open. They'd find his car and swamp the restaurant so we couldn't just be ourselves and have fun. But if the town was large enough, we'd go out and get hamburgers and cokes or maybe just drive around. He gave me a ring — not an engagement ring but like "wear my ring around your neck." In the '50s if you were going steady, you'd wear the guy's ring on a chain around your neck. He gave me his ring and asked me to be his girl. I don't know how many other girls he had at the time. I still have the ring. When I do Elvis birthday bashes or certain TV shows, I wear it and let everybody see it.

Did you ever duet on stage when you were touring together?

No.

Did he talk about acting ambitions?

Not to me. We were both excited about our music careers. We all knew he was taking off by the excitement he'd generate at a show. No one had ever seen anything like it. We knew he was going to be big. We didn't realize how big. The main thing in our lives was pursuing our careers. We weren't looking to fall in love with anybody. We weren't thinking about marriage, either one of us.

You were both quite independent-minded about how you wanted to look. Neither of you fit any stereotypes. Was it a common bond? Did you talk about it?

Maybe it was a common bond without our realizing it. I doubt that we talked about it. In those days at least, Elvis hardly had a serious bone in his body, at least outwardly. The only thing he was really serious about was his performance. He always got nervous before he went on stage. He always wondered if the people would like him, even after he got to be a superstar. But other than that, he was fun loving and joking around. He, Scotty, and Bill all were. My daddy was a big kidder so when we were together, it was a lot of laughs. I remember one time we were leaving a restaurant. I was walking in front of Elvis. I don't think he knew my ponytail was fake. He was hitting it and coughing — hack, hack — and saying, "You need to wash this" or something so I just reached back and unhooked it and handed it to him and said, "You wash it if you think it needs washing." It kind of embarrassed him, I think. I've tried through the years to remember things. I've read articles about Elvis so that maybe something would jog my memory, but I don't remember a lot — probably because it wasn't a big deal back then. It wasn't anything I'd try to remember for the rest of my life. Not long ago my mother recalled something I'd forgotten. I mentioned, "I don't even have a letter. Elvis never wrote me one. We were just friends, boyfriend and girlfriend. I never thought about getting his autograph." And Mother said, "No, he didn't ever write you, but don't you remember he'd call you every day at 4:30, and you'd break your neck from wherever you were around the neighborhood to get home and be there for that call."

What did your parents think of Elvis?

He was such a gentleman, they thought the world of him. It was important to me to have my folks' approval of anyone I dated. Daddy thought it was just terrible the way everybody was practically crucifying him for the way he dressed and the way he moved. Daddy said, "He's just a genius young man. He's one of a kind. Why don't they leave him alone?" Our Sunday school teacher told us Elvis caused juvenile delinquency, but I was so young, I though juvenile delinquency involved how you combed your hair.

How did Elvis take those accusations?

He just couldn't believe that people thought he was vulgar. One Tulsa newspaper critique was really hard on him. He was hurt, but it made him mad. He said, "If they're going to say stuff like that about me, they should come see the show tonight in Oklahoma City. I'll give them something to talk about." I don't remember if he did anything different that night, but he was pretty upset.

Neither you nor Elvis had very good experiences playing the Grand Ole Opry. What did Elvis think of it?

About what I did. They can have it. All I know about his experience is what I've read or seen in a movie, but the people just weren't ready for him. They didn't want this kid gyrating around. The audience was older people, adults. I understand it was disastrous for him. My experience was that Mother had made a special dress that I'd designed just to be on the Opry. I was to be on Ernest Tubb's portion. He looked at me and said, "You can't go on the stage at the Opry like that. You can't show your bare shoulders and your arms." So I went on with an old leather coat.

World Radio History

My heart was just broken. And then when I got out there, Minnie Pearl and Rob Brasfield and all those other people behind you were cutting up, and the audience was watching them. They were upstaging me or whoever was out front. That was the Opry's format. I said, "I've never been treated this way by anybody and I'll never do that show again." There's certain etiquette that goes with show business, with any job, and they weren't using any etiquette whatsoever. Last November I visited the Opry for the first time, and they still had all these people in the wings, behind the performers, milling and talking. I just can't believe they still do that.

Can you describe Elvis' home that you visited when he urged you to do rockabilly?

An ordinary little wood frame house. Maybe a little bigger than the one me and my folks lived in at the time, but not much. He had his own room, of course. He was an only child, I'm an only child. He was spoiled, I'm spoiled. We were in his room, playing records and singing. His mother came and asked what he wanted for supper. He thought and said, "I'd like some weenies and sauerkraut." She said, "OK, that's what we'll have." Whatever he wanted, that's what he got.

What songs did he use when he was encouraging your move?

It sounded like black blues. My daddy had black blues records, so the music wasn't that strange to me. I liked it too but didn't know the particular songs. He'd play one and say, "See, if you take that and then you... " and he'd start strumming, kind of changing the beat. I'd say, "Well, it sounds great when you do it, but I don't think I could." And he'd say, "Well, I think you can, and you need to try it." My father said the same thing, so later I got the nerve to try it. My first international hit, "Let's Have A Party," was from Elvis' movie Loving You. Elvis has been instrumental in my career because of that.

Your version knocks the socks off his. Did the two of you ever talk about it?

No.

How did he feel about all the adulation? Many people would have gotten a swelled head.

I don't know how it kept from going to his head, but it didn't seem to. He didn't ever change as far as I saw. He always loved his fans. He respected them. He knew where he had come from. That's one reason he was so generous. When he started making money, he started giving things away. He liked to see people happy. He was a people-oriented guy. It really hurt him when they had to stop him from giving autographs. He said, "I love talking with my fans, but the kids are swarming and pushing, and someone could get hurt so I'm not going to be able to give autographs anymore." By January '57, the last tour I did with him, there were so many people around him — guards, fans, everybody — that even I couldn't be near him much. I don't think he really liked needing the security guards, but he encouraged the situation up to a point. He knew how to tease and things like that to get the girls screaming and following him. He was a smart guy in that respect. He knew what he was doing, but I don't think he realized he was creating a monster that was going to completely rule his life so he could never live a normal life.

I hear you went to Graceland for the first time last fall.

Actually I'd been on the grounds a long time ago. I was working the fair in Memphis and after the show some musician took mother and me out to Graceland. I'd heard about the house and wanted to say hi to Elvis. The guard at the gate knew me and said, "Go on up." I rang the doorbell but he wasn't home. When we drove back down, we heard maybe Gladys or the grandmother, somebody living there at the time, chewing out the guard for letting someone come up and ring the doorbell so late. So anyway, I'd never gone through Graceland before. Certainly I enjoyed the tour, but for four or five days a depression settled on me. I didn't know what was causing it until I realized it was just like losing Elvis all over again, having gone through his home and knowing what a fun-loving guy he was. I could visualize all the parties and fun and laughing. And then to see the house just sitting there empty of laughter and people, it was just unsettling to me.

If you could tell Elvis one thing, what would it be?

Nothing too serious probably. Bet you never dreamed you'd be bigger in death than you were in life.

10 Questions For... Michael Martin Murphey

With his 22nd album, Cowboy Songs Four, Michael Martin Murphey continues to ensure that classic Western music — trail songs like "Utah Carroll" and "Little Joe The Wrangler" — get heard and appreciated by contemporary listeners. A gifted songwriter, he comes up with original material just as strong, with his four Cowboy albums, Murphey has become the leading performer of Western music.

The new set is the first on WestFest Records, Murphey's imprint label, named after the annual Western art and music festival he began in 1986.

A native of Austin, Texas, Murphey got his start in the '60s as a member of the Lewis & Clarke Expedition and scribe for Screen Gems Music. Michael Nesmith put his "What Am I Doin' Hangin' Round" on a Monkees album, and Murphey was hired to write the "country opera" The Ballad of Calico for Kenny Rogers & The First Edition.

Not long after his #3 pop hit "Wildfire" in 1975, he "became" a country artist, where he put more than a dozen songs in the Top 20.

His Western phase began in 1989 with Cowboy Songs. Today, Murphey lives 11,000 feet high in the Rocky Mountains, at the Rocking 3M Ranch near Taos, New Mexico.

This is pretty non-commercial music. Do you care any more?

I've always gone by what Van Gogh said: Do what you love and then try to sell it. And if you don't sell it, at least you'll still love it. I do think there's not enough artistic freedom in the world. And getting to do this now, on my own label, is in keeping with the Cowboy Code of being independent. I really love being independent. It's completely given me a whole new lease on life. Do I care? I care about communication. I do care about selling records, and I believe that if you do what you passionately love, you can construct a life around whatever you sell.

Many people know you as the singer/songwriter who did "Wildfire" and "Carolina in the Pines." How did you become this Western guy?

I've always been an artist who expresses himself about his own region, which happens to be the American West. "Geronimo's Cadillac" is about a Western subject; "Wildfire" is about a legend, a dream, that happens in Nebraska. My favorite writers are like Marquez, Steinbeck or Hemingway, who write about their lives and what they know in the region they live in. I decided in 1989 to make my first album of pure cowboy music. Both traditional and new. And that was a real hard sell in Nashville. I was dropped from my record label for a while, over it. Then they picked me back up. They wanted me to put some stuff on there that was more like mainstream country, and I said "No, you don't understand, this is a collection of music about a culture. It's not about trying to have a hit single." I haven't made a decision to only do this for the rest of my life, but so far, it's stuck for nearly 10 years. When it gets to be a formula, then I'll probably move on to something else for a while.

Each Cowboy Songs album has had its own theme.

Right. Cowboy Songs Four is about the contemporary challenge of maintaining this lifestyle and tradition, in a world where people put change in their mission statement, even though they don't even know why. Well, there's still something to be said for writing a handwritten note every once in a while.

"Old Horse," the poem that you recite, is about change, too, in a way.

That's about loyalty to something that serves you well. I'm not against change. I think change is wonderful when it changes to serve some of the basic needs of people. One of my favorite rancher sayings that everybody's picked up is "If it ain't broke, don't fix it." There are several things that determine this lifestyle and the logic behind it that are now a real challenge to keep going. And I wanted to confront that in this album. If you want to see open space, you're going to have to live with the fact that everything can't be a golf course and a resort. That's why "Rangeland Rebel" is the most important song on the album.

That song seems to be about keeping the past and the present in balance.

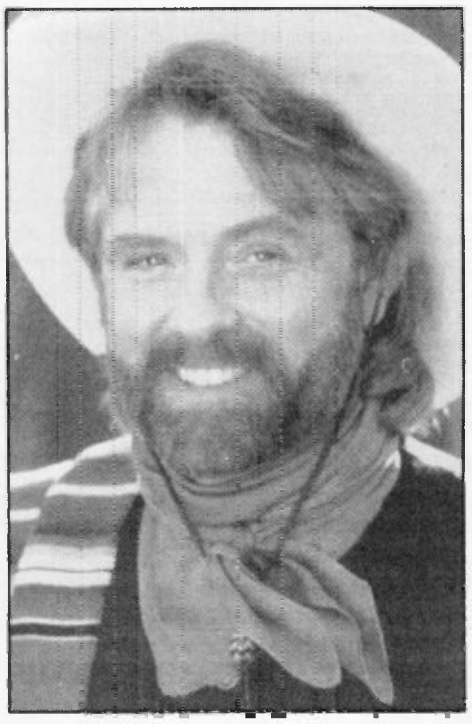
I almost called this album Rangeland Rebel, but I thought it sounded too political. It's not a political issue. It's more a moral, ethical lifestyle decision to go a certain path.

Why did you put Lyle Lovett's song "Farther Down the Line" on here?

It fits the theme; this cowboy has resignation. He gets bucked off, but you know he's coming back. I've always loved that song for a number of reasons. I've seen that in rodeos so many times: A guy gets bucked off, stands up, puts on his hat a certain way, and the crowd gives him as much applause as the guy who stayed on.

Is your WestFest event still doing well?

It's actually healthier than it's ever been.



We put one on in California this year, and it was a really great one for us. In 1999, we'll be in our 13th year in Colorado.

Do you find that people, wherever they are, respond to this evocation of the lifestyle?

You have to understand, "cowboy" isn't relegated to the West. There really is an identification with it all around the country, in Canada and all over the world. Because it's fun to live that way. It's fun to get up in the morning and ride the horses around. It doesn't have to be the Rocky Mountains or Nebraska, it can also be Massachusetts.

How close to that lifestyle today do you live?

I live it and breathe it, I tell ya. I am an outfitter — I have Rocking 3M Summit Adventures, where we take people out on trail rides. I lead these trips myself, I do some of the packing myself, I do some of the cooking myself. I play around the campfire — that's my main job. That's a little bit of Spin & Marty-type stuff, dude ranching-type stuff, but I also have cattle. And I'm about to start direct-marketing lowfat longhorn beef to the consumer, cut out all the middlemen. We also breed horses, breed them and sell them. Even if you're into it on a hobby basis you start to become a little bit of a horse trader.

You wrote The Ballad of Calico, the 1972 Kenny Rogers album about a California ghost town.

For one thing, whenever somebody says I "changed" into being a Western singer, I always use that as a calling card. As evidence that the theme of dealing with the West has been there since before I even became a recording artist.

NEWS & NOTES

The Cornfield: Country outlaw Johnny Paycheck is battling complications of a serious lung infection. At press-time, the 60-year-old singer was listed in critical but stable condition in a Georgia hospital... Kenny Rogers' 360-acre estate in Athens, Georgia, is on the market — for a mere $11 million! ... Looking for a memorable Millenium party? The Judds will reunite for a New Year's Eve concert in Phoenix, Arizona. Tickets go on sale January 16 — only 11 1/2 months early!... Reba McEntire plans on a busy 1999. New country and Christmas albums are in the works, along with a sequel to her autobiography Reba: My Story and a new Christmas movie... The January 15th-16th Grand Ole Opry shows returns to its original home, the Ryman Auditorium, to celebrate the 25th anniversary of its move from the historic building... Dolly Parton was the only country artist to be selected by Playboy as one of it's "sexiest stars of the century." Dolly came in at a lowly 97 (guess they didn't go by cup size)... Marty Stuart is working on the score for Billy Bob Thornton's latest film, Daddy And Them.

Awards: Country Nominations for the American Music Awards (January 11th on ABC). Favorite Album: Garth Brooks (Sevens), George Strait (One Step At A Time), and Shania Twain (Come On Over). Favorite Female Artist: Faith Hill, LeAnn Rimes, and Twain. Favorite Male Artist: Brooks, Tim McGraw, and Strait. Favorite Duo or Group: Alabama, Brooks & Dunn, and The Dixie Chicks. Favorite New Artist: The Dixie Chicks, The Kinleys, and The Wilkinsons.

TV News: Barbara Mandrell is the focus of Lifetime's Intimate Portrait series on January 2nd and then stars in a NBC-TV movie, The Wrong Girl, on January 4th... Travis Tritt headlines Outlaw Justice, a CBS-TV movie, on January 24th. Co-starring are Willie Nelson and Kris Kristofferson... Vince Gill appears on A & E's Live By Request on January 30th and will take viewers' requests via an 888 number and the show's website... January specials on The Nashville Network (TNN) include Ladies Night At The Wildhorse Saloon, with host Terri Clark and guests Tanya Tucker and Jo Dee Messina (12th)... An Intimate Evening With Anne Murray finds Murray joined by fellow Canadian superstars Celine Dion and Bryan Adams (14th)... Tammy Wynette Remembered honors the First Lady Of Country Music, with remembrances by Wynonna, Bryan White, and others (26th)... Hello Darlin': A Tribute To Conway Twitty celebrates the legendary artist's career with performances by Vince Gill and Kathy Mattea (28th). Also noteworthy on TNN is the debut of the weekly George Jones Show (19th). The Possum's guests include Randy Travis, Neal McCoy, and Roy Clark. As always, check 'em out!

Goldmine readers' 1998 country poll results

Response to our first Goldmine Country Music Year-End Poll was a bit thin, but, hey, it was our first go-around! Thanks to all who participated. It is interesting to note that country's top-sellers — Garth Brooks, Shania Twain, and Leann Rimes — all came up empty in our poll, while Vince Gill, Alan Jackson, Clay Walker, and Dwight Yoakam were represented at the top in both singles and album categories.

Favorite Country Single Of 1998:

As at the Country Music Association Awards, the big winner was Steve Wariner's "Holes In The Floor Of Heaven."

Other notable vote getters (in alphabetical order):

Alabama — "How Do You Fall In Love"
Dixie Chicks — "Wide Open Spaces"
Vince Gill — "If You Ever Have Forever In Mind"
Vince Gill — "Kindly Keep It Country"
Faith Hill — "This Kiss"
Alan Jackson — "I'll Go On Loving You"
Patty Loveless — "To Have You Back Again"
Randy Travis — "Out Of My Bones"
Clay Walker — "Then What"
Trisha Yearwood — "There Goes My Baby"
Dwight Yoakam — "Things Change"

Favorite Country Album:

Two albums dominated the voting:
Vince Gill's The Key and Willie Nelson's Teatro.

The runners-up (in alphabetical order):

Alan Jackson — High Mileage
The Mavericks — Trampoline
Collin Raye — The Walls Came Down
Dwight Yoakam — A Long Way Home

Favorite Country Collection/Reissue:

Alabama's double-disc retrospective For The Record was the overwhelming winner.

Ray Charles — The Complete Country & Western Recordings (1959—1986)
Toby Keith — Greatest Hits, Volume 1
Various Artists: From Where I Stand: The Black Experience In Country Music
Clay Walker — Greatest Hits
Hank Williams — The Complete Hank Williams
Tammy Wynette — Christmas With Tammy Wynette

GARTH BROOKS
Double Live
Capitol (7243-4-97424-2-0)

When it comes to live country music performers, no one can match Garth Brooks in terms of sheer spectacle. The big question this double-disc live set raises is just how much excitement the human tornado can generate sans the rope-swinging, guitar-smashing visuals. The answer? At least enough to keep things interesting. Because these songs were recorded at various venues over a period of seven years, the record lacks a sense of continuity and Brooks' exchanges with the crowd are scarce. Still, the band is hot, turning out faithful but vibrant renditions of old favorites like "Standing Outside The Fire," "Callin' Baton Rouge," and "Ain't Goin' Down ('Til The Sun Comes Up)."

When Brooks partakes in obligatory audience participation, it unfortunately ruins some perfectly good songs. With "Unanswered Prayers," Brooks turns an otherwise earnest, emotionally affecting song into a silly campfire singalong. On the other hand, songs like "Two Pina Coladas" and the new "Tearin' It Up (And Burnin' It Down)" benefit greatly from the loose, jocular atmosphere of the stage. The latter number, as well as two other new songs, "It's Your Song" (a son's expression of gratitude for his mother) and "Wild As The Wind" (a wonderful duet with Trisha Yearwood), are far superior to their original studio counterparts and should help keep Brooks' star from dimming anytime soon.

CHARLIE RICH

The Silver Fox during his Sun years

By Hank Davis

If ever a musician has deserved attention for more than his hit records, it is Charlie Rich. To several generations of casual listeners, Charlie was nothing more than the Silver Fox: the guy who sang "Behind Closed Doors" and "The Most Beautiful Girl In The World." The tunnel vision of pop culture has done a profound disservice to Charlie Rich. He was much, much more than those records.

Even listeners who remember his earlier work like "Mohair Sam" and "Lonely Weekends" rarely see the full picture. Charlie Rich was a true original in a field that pays lip service to originality but doesn't know what to do with it. He was an irrepressible eclectic in a business that is enslaved to musical categories; a singer/songwriter/musician in a field that prefers you to be just one thing so everyone else can earn a living.

Worse yet, Charlie Rich was a profoundly shy man with virtually no desire for stardom. He was thrust into a spotlight he feared and distrusted; a quiet, intense man pushed nearly beyond the limits of his endurance to severe substance abuse; a performer so talented and good-looking that nobody could stand to leave him alone; a press agent's dream and a promoter's nightmare. Charlie was a gentle giant who would rather spend quiet time with his family and play anonymous gigs in smoky clubs than endure the scrutiny and demands of a hit record and a concert tour.

Charlie Rich began a career that spanned more than three decades at the legendary Sun label in Memphis, recording for Sam Phillips. Without question, Rich's earliest work is his most interesting. It is also the rawest, least disciplined and most revealing. Rich was never more prolific as a songwriter than during his five-year stay at Sun, beginning in 1958. There is nothing in his later career that wasn't foreshadowed in some manner at Sun. On the other hand, there is much of value in these earliest recordings that was lost or remained undeveloped in Rich's later career.

A recent boxed set issued by Bear Family (BCD 16152) examines Charlie Rich's Sun recordings in more depth than any previous anthology. Most reissues have taken a Greatest Hits approach — focusing on "Lonely Weekends" and half a dozen single releases and cuts from his lone Phillips International LP. In fact, Charlie's catalogue is much deeper. He recorded more than 125 titles for Sun. Many were carefully produced masters; others were rough publishing demos. Almost all were compelling in one way or another.

Many of these titles — both finished masters and rough demos — first surfaced only after Shelby Singleton bought the original Sun catalogue and began issuing LPs during the late 1960s and early 1970s. Other titles — so-called "deeper catalogue" — appeared during the peak period of Sun archaeology prompted by British and European record collectors in the 1970s. Many of Charlie's most obscure demos would probably have embarrassed him. During his earliest period Charlie was almost always searching musically. He was taking chances, playing in styles that were alien to him. Some of these experiments were surprisingly successful. Others were expendable failures. Some gave rise to patterns, songs, and even instrumental riffs that would surface later in his career.

The following story of Charlie's life has been pieced together from reminiscences by his wife, Margaret Ann, along with recollections by Charlie's fellow musicians at Sun Records: guitarist Roland Janes, drummer J. M. Van Eaton, saxman Martin Willis {Also featured elsewhere in this issue. — Ed.} and vocalist Barbara Pittman. Many of these words about Charlie have not been publicly shared before, and their speakers welcomed the opportunity to do so. Charlie Rich provoked deep reactions in those around him. Nearly 40 years after the fact, both Charlie's music and his personality stir indelible memories.

Despite his affinity for the blues, it would be sheer fantasy to claim that Charlie Rich grew up dirt poor in the rural south, scuffling for his next meal or a warm bed to sleep in. Such tales of rural poverty may not be far removed from the lives of Carl Perkins and Elvis Presley, but they bear little similarity to Rich's background. Rich was born on December 16, 1932, in Forrest City, Arkansas. There probably weren't many rich people living in Forrest City during the Great Depression, so the Rich family's economic circumstances were hardly exceptional. By the 1940s, the family's finances had stabilized and they settled in Colt, Arkansas (population 312).

Rich's early interest in music was nurtured by contact with C. J. Allen, a black tenant farmer on the Rich family's land. Unlike many bluesmen in the area, Allen made his music on the piano, rather than a guitar. It may be hard to overestimate the importance of this music on Charlie's development. Guitars were also present during Rich's formative years — both on the radio and in the music played by his family. The Rich family was very religious, and singing the Lord's praises was an important part of their lives.

"Charlie played some guitar when he was younger," Margaret Ann recalled. "It was actually his first instrument. He used to listen to his mother and father sing. They did music in their church, harmonizing with two other people, backed by a guitar. That music had a deep emotional effect on Charlie. He used to listen to it and then go into his room and cry. He and his sister did some singing with the guitar when Charlie was in high school as well."

While the guitar may have been his first instrument, playing it was not a fully satisfying experience for Charlie. That may have had to do with his lack of technical competence or, more likely, with his associating the guitar with the strong religious values of his family. In any case, Charlie searched beyond the guitar for musical expression. The piano was an obvious choice. The trouble was that Charlie took the piano in directions that were unacceptable in his strict Missionary Baptist household.

"I was an embarrassment to my mom and dad," Charlie recalled to journalist Alan Cackett. "I had been brought up to believe that dancing, R&B music and drinking were sinful. They had high hopes for me and were not happy with the direction I was taking."

The piano wasn't the only path away from the musical fold. When he was in high school, Charlie began to play saxophone and was sufficiently competent to perform with the band. It was there he developed his love of Stan Kenton and big band arrangements. But the sax, too, was not fully satisfying. It was not a solo instrument, and it did not allow for singing. And Charlie loved to sing. The piano was plainly the answer.

It is little known that while he was still in high school, Charlie spent a summer in Texas. During this time, he had his own radio show, a 15-minute broadcast during which he sang and played the piano. Margaret Ann recalled a favorable review of Charlie's show in which his style was compared to Mel Torme's. Charlie was barely 17 years old at the time.

The story of how Charlie and Margaret Ann met is sufficiently romantic to bear retelling. Most versions of the story have young Margaret Ann Greene and her father asking for permission to cut down a Christmas tree from the Rich's property. While doing so, Charlie rode up on horseback, with a guitar slung over his back cowboy-style. Plainly the December weather precluded carrying preferred instruments such as the sax and piano. Although Margaret Ann maintains that her first vision of the handsome Charlie (he was in the seventh grade) was indeed on horseback, she now confirms that the journey onto Rich property was quite illegal and the meeting with Charlie might have gone otherwise if the two adolescents with a shared passion for jazz hadn't made eye contact and sealed a bond that held them to each other, through good and bad, until Charlie's death in 1995. Margaret Ann observed. "We should not have been on their property, especially cutting down a tree, but Mr. Rich was so congenial that it was OK. And Charlie, he was like my knight in shining armor."

Charlie went off to Arkansas State College with help from two unlikely sources: a football scholarship (Charlie was built to be a linebacker) and a financial gift from a proverbial rich uncle. Jack Rich, the brother of Charlie's father, was a wealthy man, involved in property development and banking in eastern Arkansas. An injury resulted in the premature end to Charlie's football days, and to a greater concentration on music. Charlie transferred to the University of Arkansas as a music major. He lasted one semester. It may not be stretching the truth to say that a university education was not worth being away from the woman he loved. And the woman he loved was more than beautiful. She also shared Charlie's passion for music. Margaret Ann subscribed to Downbeat and loved singer June Christie as much as Charlie worshipped Stan Kenton.

Charlie quit school and joined the Air Force. In May 1952, he married Margaret Ann and they honeymooned in Memphis at the ritzy Peabody Hotel, courtesy of Uncle Jack. While they were in Memphis, they blew the $45 they had between them on records. Music was simply that important. Margaret Ann later recalled, "The first piece of furniture in our house was a tape recorder."

Air Force life took them to Enid, Oklahoma, where Charlie combined military duties, such as they were, with musical gigs. Charlie played piano and some sax with The Velvetones. The group featured solo vocals by Charlie as well as some hip duets by him and Margaret Ann. When he returned to Arkansas in 1955, he and Margaret Ann purchased a 500-acre farm near Forrest City. Although they had lived reasonably well on his Air Force salary and music income, the purchase price was largely subsidized by Uncle Jack. Even though a bumper cotton and soybean crop during the first year allowed Charlie to pay back much of the loan from his uncle, it was clear he was not cut out to be a farmer. It is no accident that most farmers are asleep by 10 p.m. and up at the crack of dawn. Charlie was barely getting into Memphis' jazz clubs by ten and sometimes got home just in time to see the dawn. He plainly was not going to be a poster boy for the Farmer's Union.

By 1957 Charlie and Margaret Ann were living in West Memphis, Arkansas, with their three children. Charlie was farming by day and hating every minute of it. Several nights a week he'd drive into Memphis and play a gig at a jazz lounge such as The Vapors. It was not just the money they needed; those gigs were mental health for Charlie. Margaret Ann realized something had to change.

"I knew that Elvis had gone to Sam Phillips, so I thought maybe Charlie could try his luck there also. I left our three children at home with a babysitter, crossed the river, and went to Sun. I brought a tape of Charlie that we had made at home. I can't remember which tunes were on it or whether they were even originals. Charlie wasn't doing much writing back then. That came later."

Fortunately, it was Bill Justis who greeted Margaret Ann. Both she and Charlie were familiar with Justis. They had met Justis at gigs as well as at parties sponsored by the musicians union. Had Margaret Ann run into Sam Phillips on that first visit, things might not have gone so well.

"Bill was very very hip. Truthfully, he was way too hip for Sun. I remember him saying right at the start, 'What do you need me for? You're Rich already.' Justis listened to the demos. He finally gave me some Jerry Lee Lewis records and sent me home with the message that Charlie should come in when he could play that bad.'

"Bill and Charlie got to know each other better after that. They did some gigs together around town. Bill really encouraged Charlie to start writing. Told him that's where the money was. When Sam finally met Charlie, he told him the same thing. Charlie was so sophisticated in his playing but Sam told him he needed material for his artists."

In recalling Charlie's initiation to Sun years later, Phillips was struck by the similarity between Rich and Elvis — not in their music or physical appearance, but in the fact that neither would come right in and ask to be recorded. In both cases, the path was indirect and somewhat tortuous.

Margaret Ann remains vaguely annoyed that Sun didn't want Charlie for what he could do at that point, but rather for how he could adapt his playing and writing to Sun's artist roster, which at that point included Johnny Cash, Jerry Lee Lewis and Ray Smith.

"They didn't know what to do with Charlie. They knew they had a very talented musician on their hands, but they had no idea how to use that talent."

Setting a pattern that would haunt him for much of his recording career, Charlie followed directions. He went home to "get bad." His first efforts were even worse than Bill Justis had envisioned. Songs like "Little By Little," "Rock & Roll Party," and "Donna Lee" are vivid reminders of Charlie's first flirtation with rock 'n' roll. It wasn't a pretty sight, and not simply because of the age barrier: artists like Carl Perkins and Chuck Berry were turning out credible tunes about teenage angst and hi-jinx. Charlie's efforts sounded like an aging uncle desperately trying to sound hip. Both Justis and Sam Phillips shook their heads. Bad is one thing. This was really awful.

Charlie continued to work at it. He also took some halting stabs at writing country music, a genre several eons removed from his beloved Stan Kenton. Again, the early efforts, many of which are preserved on self-conscious and mannered demos, fell short of the mark. But Charlie got better. In fact, he got a lot better. Within several months, Charlie's name began appearing as the composer on many Sun records. In April 1958, Charlie wrote both sides of Ray Smith's release ("Right Behind You Baby"/"So Young"). A month later his song "Ways Of A Woman In Love" (co-written with Bill Justis) appeared as one side of Johnny Cash's latest record. Three months later, Rich was responsible for both sides of Jerry Lee's latest outing ("Break-up"/"I'll Make It All Up To You"). Two months later, he had both sides of Smith's next single ("Why Why Why"/"You Made A Hit"). A month later it was "I Just Thought You'd Like To Know" for Cash.

Charlie Rich had finally arrived at Sun. He had gone from jazz musician to country and rockabilly composer in an amazingly short time.

"I think at first I was more impressed with Charlie's songwriting than anything else," recalled drummer Van Eaton "His stuff really stood out. I probably looked at him more as a piano-playing songwriter than anything else. I was surrounded by great singers and musicians at Sun. I didn't come to appreciate that side of Charlie until later on."

"Charlie's writing was different from most anybody else's," added Roland Janes. "Some of that stuff was just trying to be commercial — to write what would sell. But some of it was pure Charlie. It was what he felt. That probably happened a bit later on with his drinking songs. Stuff like 'Sitting And Thinking' and 'My Mountain Dew.' [Note: the latter title was only demoed at Sun. It wasn't released until Charlie's affiliation with RCA in 1963.]

The truth is, along with spreading out into uncharted commercial waters, Charlie also left enough vocal jazz at Sun to fill an entire set at The Sharecropper. Virtually all of it was recorded during his first two years, but these recordings made clear that old habits died hard, if at all. Most of it, like "Those Places Around Town," "How Blue Can You Be," "We Belong To Each Other" and "Unsuspecting Me" remained at the level of piano/vocal demo. But other tunes like "Come Back," "That's How Much I Love You" and "Jeannie With The Light Brown Hair" were given full studio treatment. The first two were issued on Charlie's Phillips International LP in 1960 which, to its credit, made no attempt to hide Charlie's musical versatility. To its discredit, the album overdubbed "Come Back" with a trite vocal chorus.

"Charlie was finding himself during those early years," Margaret Ann recalled. "Those Sinatra-type demos were part of it. Charlie loved Sinatra, Tony Bennett, Mel Torme. He loved Erroll Garner. It's no surprise Charlie would have recorded those things at Sun during the first year or two. He was making a living playing that music when he came to Sun."

Rich's ability to shift genres and create credible and saleable material did not escape Sam Phillips. In an unprecedented move, Phillips signed Charlie Rich to a songwriting contract, putting him on salary (a draw against composer royalties) in return for exclusive publishing rights to his material.

It wasn't just his songwriting that was beginning to raise eyebrows at Sun. Rich was becoming a useful studio musician. His distinctive piano licks were starting to show up on quite a few Sun sessions in early 1958. The picture was almost complete.

Charlie Rich might never have recorded for Sun were it not for two events, both beyond his control. First, Johnny Cash announced his imminent departure. That spelled the end of one of Rich's (and Sun's) meal tickets. Rich had placed his songs with Cash during the final month's of his tenure at Sun. Cash was plainly saving his newest and best material for when he began his career at Columbia. In his recent autobiography, Cash recalls being deeply impressed during his final months at Sun with Rich's ability as a songwriter. Ironically, Cash falsely identifies "You Tell Me" and "Story of a Broken Heart" as examples of Rich's excellent songwriting, when in fact they were penned by Roy Orbison and Tommy Blake, respectively.

Rich's second gold mine, Jerry Lee Lewis, had just returned from England in disgrace, and with radio plays drastically curtailed, was no longer a prime target for pitching original material. It was starting to appear that Rich would have to look elsewhere to find a recording artist worthy of his compositions.

The obvious candidate was staring Charlie Rich in the mirror. It was plain that his talent extended beyond the jazz tunes of his club dates. Everyone seemed enthusiastic about the idea except Rich himself. And his reluctance had little to do with the recording studio. The last thing on earth Charlie Rich wanted was to go on the road, appear on television, have to face hordes of screaming fans and sing his records over and over. He was simply terrified. He was also a grown man having to tell his wife, his colleagues and his "boss" (if that's what Sam Phillips was), that he harbored such childish fears. Put this in context: There was a lineup of rockabilly wannabees at Sun's doorstep, pleading for the opportunity that Charlie Rich was doing everything in his power to sidestep.

Finally, in August 1958, having squandered every excuse he could muster, Charlie Rich entered the studio to record his own debut single. What Rich lacked in ambition, Margaret Ann could more than provide. She co-wrote one side of his single ("Philadelphia Baby") as an investment in stardom.

"I wanted to get Charlie on Bandstand and I figured that song just might do it," she said. (Dick Clark's influential TV show American Bandstand was broadcast each afternoon from Philadelphia). "Charlie actually got the booking, and we were all quite excited about it. Charlie was very nervous but we kept telling him that all he had to do was lip synch the vocals. The day he was scheduled to appear there was some kind of tragedy and they cancelled the show. He ended up not going on. I can't remember what happened, but I do recall being very disappointed."

Rich recording in the RCA Nashville studio, 1963.

It is not clear which event might have taken Bandstand off the air. If Charlie's appearance was scheduled as late as February 1959, the most likely candidate would seem to be the February 3rd plane crash that killed Buddy Holly, Richie Valens and the Big Bopper. Ironically, almost a year later to the day of the crash, Charlie did make his way to Bandstand in support of "Lonely Weekends." That appearance was every bit as nerve-wracking as anticipated. Charlie's performance was flawless, thanks to the miracle of lip synching. But the brief interview between Charlie and Dick Clark that followed consisted mainly of the host asking painfully simple questions and Charlie perspiring profusely. Stan Kenton never suffered so much for his art.

By now Charlie and Margaret Ann had moved to Benton, Arkansas. Their upgraded facilities included a makeshift studio out in the garage.

"We didn't have a music room or anything. Just a piano and tape recorder in the garage," Margaret Ann recalled. "We used to go out there in the evenings and sing together. We'd write and harmonize and make tapes. They were pretty rough, but we were having fun."

The home sessions Margaret Ann described persisted at least until Charlie's final days at Sun. One of these tapes survives in the Sun vaults. It features surprisingly amateurish harmonizing to "My Mountain Dew" and "It Just Goes To Show You Don't Know About Love." Both songs, demoed at home during Rich's final months at Sun, appeared on his first RCA album released in 1963.

Charlie would often bring these rough demos into Sun and play them for Bill Justis, Jack Clement or Sam Phillips. If there was anything of promise, they would almost immediately recut it in the studio as a demo featuring Rich's vocal and piano, perhaps aided by whoever happened to be hanging around the studio at the moment.

"A lot of time we'd get to the session and while we were waiting for all the guys to show up or while the engineer was taking levels, we'd start jamming just to get loose," Van Eaton recalled. "Part of that was the way Sun operated. There was no clock. If a session took six hours, so be it. Nobody cared.

"A lot of that stuff, some of which you've probably discovered going through the tapes, was never intended to be released. With Jerry Lee, that was how we did 80 percent, maybe more of the sessions. You'd just start jamming and Sam has the tape running. That's why with Jerry Lee there were often no arrangements, no beginnings, no endings. Charlie's sessions were never that unstructured, but even with him we had that jamming at the start that could lead to anything."

The popular conception of the Sun house band as a big happy family has much truth to it. But there was also a glimmer of trouble in paradise. Some of it indirectly involved Charlie Rich. As Van Eaton recalled, "We had a special nucleus of musicians there: myself, Roland, Billy Riley, Jerry Lee. We were all about the same age. We really clicked. Charlie wasn't quite like that.

"First of all, he was shyer than any of us. But he was also a bit older, a different kind of musician. Maybe a little more mature, more educated than us. I was still in high school when I was doing a lot of this. Charlie probably put more thought into what he was doing than we did.

"Neither Charlie nor Bill Justis ever said anything to me, but I think both of them thought they were above what they were cutting. I know Justis did. He thought he had really lowered himself to record "Raunchy." But in fact, that's his claim to fame. If you can get fame in this world for anything legally, you ought to be glad to have it. Fame isn't easy to come by, so it's ironic that Justis didn't think much of what brought him fame. I don't know if Charlie felt exactly the same way. I do know he hung around more with Justis than he did with us. Sid Manker was part of that too. I know they wanted me to put that funky rock 'n' roll beat behind what they were doing, but they still wanted to be playing more uptown stuff whenever they could. Even today, jazz musicians look at pop musicians as being a notch or two below them. The jazz guys still think they're the coolest."

Regarding Charlie's less formal demo sessions, Roland Janes said, "The attitude at Sun at the time was that Charlie was under contract as a songwriter. Sam wanted to get everything that Charlie was working on down on tape. He didn't care how incomplete it might have been. It wasn't costing him anything to make those demos, so they'd use whoever happened to be standing around. It could be a guy just beating on a box or picking a guitar as he heard Charlie run through the changes. Nobody ever thought of these things as finished records. It was the last thought on anyone's mind that these tapes would ever be critiqued or

Sun Studios' atmosphere

"At Sun it was so loose. I guess that was really what was so attractive about being there. It was back in the super lenient days, when nobody had any money or was making any money. No clock was ticking, no union regulations or anything like that. It could be open 24 hours a day or it could be closed for two days. It was that lax.

— Charlie Rich

"Charlie wasn't a demonstrative type of guy in the studio. He wouldn't be able to get up and say "Look, I'm gonna throw your ass out of here if you don't play it right." But he just had a feel for music that he could communicate to the other players."

— Sam Phillips, owner of Sun Records

"There were obviously some differences between sessions with Charlie and Jerry Lee. A lot of that had to do with their personalities. With Jerry, it was just 'Go get 'em!' There was hardly any planning. All you had to do was fall in behind him and you were off to the races. You had to work to keep up! I mean, he was going to do his part and he was going to do it right. You had better hang in there and do yours! With Charlie, there was more rehearsal. Also, we used a few more instruments as we went along. We were always looking for a fuller sound and trying to find something different with Charlie. He gave you so many possibilities."

— Roland Janes, guitarist

"Everything was just so loose with Charlie. He was a songwriter so we always had material. That may sound funny, but with a lot of Sun artists we'd just book a session because a guy was in town. Nobody had any idea what we were going to record. That's how guys like Jack Clement got some of those terrible little songs recorded. There was just nothing else available at the moment. When Orbison came in... Man! He cried over some of that junk they made him record. "Chicken Hearted" — songs like that. Man, you'd almost have to put a gun to his head to make him do stuff like that.

We didn't appreciate how important writing was back then. Jerry Lee never wrote material. Billy Riley didn't really write either. Charlie was just about head and shoulders above everybody with the songs he wrote."

— J.M. Van Eaton, drummer

released. We didn't even think they'd survive!"

In February 1959, Charlie set his mind to recording a second single. Although Charlie's recording career was originally driven by a desire to place his own material, one side of the record somewhat surprisingly featured a non-Rich original.

"Sam hardly ever rented out his studio," Van Eaton said. "Most of the time it was just Sun artists in there. But for some reason he rented it out one day to a guy who had just written a gospel tune. It was called "Big Man." The guy [Dale Fox] was having an awful time trying to sing it. We did it over and over and he just couldn't get it right. Finally, Sam said to him 'Why don't you just let Charlie sing the thing so we can get a take on it.' Well Charlie went ahead and did it, and he just did a tremendous job. Everybody loved the way it came out. We really all got into it. I did this bass drum thing that we had never done before. Prior to that, we never featured the bass drum because we didn't have enough microphones in the studio. Sam used to run the bass drum through the same mike as the bass guitar or sting bass. For some reason, he miked them separately that day and we got a very different sound."

"Big Man," backed by Charlie's "Rebound," appeared as his second single on Phillips International. National sales were modest, but there was increasing attention to Charlie Rich the artist. Not everybody yet knew that the virile Presley-ish voice belonged to a good looking guy who was also the piano player and composer. It wouldn't be long before that message reached a national audience.

"After "Big Man" came out, Sam talked to Charlie and said 'I think we really got something here,' Van Eaton continued. "Trouble is, it was a gospel song, and Sam probably figured he was going to have trouble selling it. So he suggested to Charlie that he go home and work up a pop song with the same feel to it. That's how "Lonely Weekends" was born. Charlie wrote that and "Everything I Do Is Wrong," and when he came back into the studio we got that same bluesy feel. I used the same bass drum figure on both sides of the record that we had on "Big Man." It was very unusual at the time.

The other unusual thing about the "Lonely Weekends" session was that Martin Willis used a baritone sax.

"Willie usually used an alto or a tenor, but on that record he switched to the baritone," Janes recalled. "It gave the record a very unusual sound."

Martin Willis recounted the story behind the session. "When Charlie got ready to record "Lonely Weekends," he asked for me. We had already worked together in the studio a bit and done some club dates. Charlie told me he wanted something different — he wanted a baritone sax solo, which was very rare, maybe hadn't even been done on a rock 'n' roll record. He asked if I could get a baritone sax — I didn't even own one at the time. I borrowed the instrument from a friend and took it into the studio. Everyone gives me credit for the solo but the truth is before I played that solo, Charlie sat down with me and hummed what he thought the solo should sound like. So I listened and said, 'OK, I got it.'

"Sun wasn't real big about sax solos at that time. Everything was guitars at Sun. A solo usually meant a guitar break, so Sam kind of tolerated me. He barely had enough mikes in there as it was. I had to sit next to J. M. Van Eaton's drums. He had a separate mike on his bass drum. When it came time to solo, I had to lean over and play my horn into the bass drum mike. Very few people know that to this day."

Janes contends that of the literally thousands of sessions he's played on, the date producing "Lonely Weekends" continues to stand out in his mind. Ironically, few listeners in 1960 knew just how powerful the results of that memorable session were. The original tapes — released on Bear Family BCD 16152 for the first time in several alternate versions — were almost immediately overdubbed by Charles Underwood at the newly opened Phillips studio on Madison Avenue. A chorus was added, along with some echoey rimshots during Willis' sax break. Finally, the tight intensity of the original 706 Union tapes was utterly destroyed by an overlay of gratuitous echo. The results, released in January 1960, achieved national attention and gave Rich his first taste of fame and fortune. Despite tampering, the record was worthy of its reward. It was surely a good record, although it was just as surely very different from the one Rich, Van Eaton, Janes and Willis left on tape back in October 1959. With nearly 40 years hindsight, Roland Janes observes, "I thought both sides of that record were real good. I still think the overdubs had too much echo on them, but at the time that was part of the mystique. It probably helped sell them. Personally, I liked the cuts a lot better without those overdubs. Everything was a whole lot clearer."

Incredibly, Charlie was unable to capture commercial success again during his tenure at Sun. Charlie now had two reasons to fear a hit record. One was his well-documented discomfort with all the trappings associated with promotion and performance. But the second concern, which was newer but just as scary, was the feeling that financial success could appear and disappear arbitrarily. As he wrote in "Easy Money" — a song as autobiographical as any of his "drinking songs" — "One day you drive a Cadillac/The next day you're running and looking back." It's no fun to have your income quadruple, only to see it revert to near subsistence levels when the jocks and buying public look on your latest work with disfavor. There were five mouths to feed, and they were just as hungry whether Charlie was on the charts or not. There was always Uncle Jack waiting in the wings, but Charlie had been down that road before and wanted to believe he could support his own family in the style to which they had ever so briefly become accustomed.

In the months after "Lonely Weekends" was recorded, Charlie continued to seek a behind-the-scenes role in order to make money in the music business.

Barbara Pittman, a singer whose first sides appeared on Sun in 1956, recalled how Charlie wrote and produced one side of her latest single, released immediately after "Lonely Weekends."

Margaret Ann and Charlie Rich , circa 1973.

"Charlie always told me he thought I could sing jazz. That meant a lot to me because I was just a kid back then. He had heard me sing Peggy Lee's "Fever" at The Cotton Club That's why he wrote "Handsome Man" for me. The night we recorded it the session went on quite late. At one point we missed Charlie's voice and piano. He had been singing with the vocal group and we missed his 'oooh-ah's'. We looked and there he was, under the piano. We woke him up and went on with the session. That was my last session for Sun Records, and I remember the date quite well — February 3, 1960. That was the night my sister murdered her husband. J. M. Van Eaton was driving me home — it was about 3 in the morning — and we heard it on the radio. She and her husband had taken me to the studio. It happened about 30 minutes after they left me off."

Charlie did not easily give up the notion of session man/producer at Sun. Even as "Lonely Weekends" was building momentum, Charlie was in the studio playing piano on songs he had written for other artists. On March 14, 1960, vocalist Carl Mann entered the new Sun studios on Madison Avenue hoping to rekindle the success he had enjoyed barely a year earlier with "Mona Lisa." With Charlie at the keyboard, Mann was able to leave his rudimentary piano skills on the shelf and concentrate on singing a new tune Charlie had written for him called "I'm Coming Home." The performance ranked among Mann's finest work for Sun, and was doubly gratifying for Rich when the song ended up on one of Elvis' albums {Something For Everybody. — Ed.} within the year. Both Charlie and Margaret Ann were surprised by that turn of events since they had done nothing to promote the song or persuade Presley to record it. Their subsequent efforts to pitch their song "Gentle As A Lamb" to Presley fell on deaf ears, thus reinforcing their belief in the capriciousness of fame and fortune. Things only happen when you least expect them or have given up caring.

The success of "Lonely Weekends" placed some new stresses on Charlie's marriage. As Margaret Ann recalled, "We had our ups and downs and I'm sure the success of that record did nothing to help us. Success is harder to deal with than failure in my book. We were accustomed to failure. Neither of us was really expecting success, and what happened with "Lonely Weekends" shocked us both. It put a whole new perspective on everything."

At one point, Charlie moved out of the home they shared and checked into the YMCA in Memphis. Sitting alone in his spartan quarters, he must have wondered if this was the life stardom had to offer. In an episode Margaret Ann described as "the deepest darkest night," she recalled. "Charlie finally called me from the Y and said, 'I've got to get out of here and I don't have any money.' He was completely sober when he called. I just got in my car and drove down there. He was waiting for me by the back door with all his stuff. We just put it in the car and got out of there really quickly."

The success that had shocked them was only a fleeting visitor to the Rich home during the next few years. The reasons for Charlie's lack of sustained commercial success at Sun have little to do with the quality of his records. Perhaps the worst marketing decision was selecting "Gonna Be Waiting" as the follow-up to "Lonely Weekends" was simply an inferior clone. In truth, the decision wasn't hard to understand.

Paul Lichter

Paul Lichter , rock concert promoter and manager of the legendary 60s groups The Soul Survivors and The Vanilla Fudge, first met Elvis in Burbank, California when Elvis was filming his famous NBC 1968 TV Special. The two quickly became friends and remained so for the last decade of Elvis' life. Paul was with him at over 850 of his Vegas, Tahoe and concert tours and has often been called "The World's Greatest Elvis Fan". He founded the Elvis Unique Record Club in 1970, one of the largest mail order businesses in the world and the only such organization ever licensed by the Estate of Elvis Presley. For the past 28 years, through the Elvis Unique Record Club, Paul has supplied Elvis fans with everything from his first Sun records to his latest compact disc. Paul has also written fourteen best-selling books on The King which have sold millions of copies, making him the most read Elvis author in history.

Goldmine's award of excellence for 15 consecutive years

Sun 209 78rpm That's All Right
Mint $3,500
Your chance to own a piece of history – Sold out of the trunk of Scotty Moore's car in 1954 after a performance by Elvis, Scotty and Bill. Virtually flawless – Labels are perfect and the vinyl is like looking at a sheet of glass

Sun 209 78rpm That's All Right
VG+++ $2,000
A beautiful example of Elvis' first record – Gorgeous grooves and beautiful clean labels – Very difficult to find in this condition. A remarkable piece of rock 'n roll history in near flawless condition

Sun 209 78rpm That's All Right
$250
Perfect for framing – Labels are beautiful – That's All Right label mint (like new) with 'Blue Moon ' label strong VG+++ - Vinyl is shiny but unfortunately a piece of the vinyl, measuring 2 3/4" in length and about 1/2" including the lead-in wax is missing – If you mounted this baby on a black background it would look beautiful on your wall.

Sun 210 78rpm Good Rockin' Tonight
VG++ $1,500
A beautiful copy of Elvis' second and hardest to find Sun recording – Grooves are shiny and wax is almost flawless – Labels are very clean – Small DJ catalogue number on both sides of label

Sun 215 78rpm Milkcow Blues
Mint $3,500
The wax is like looking at a sheet of glass. The labels are perfection. This absolutely brand new mint condition example of rock 'n roll history is a once in a lifetime experience. This record was actually purchased out of the trunk of Scotty Moore's car from Elvis himself after a concert.

Sun 215 78rpm Milkcow Blues
VG $1,000
Labels show slight wear but are really still in very nice shape – Wax has dulled and has slight scuffs

Sun 217 78rpm Baby Let's Play House
Mint $2,000
Label on 'Baby' side is absolutely brand new – 'I'm Left' side shows the slightest hint of wear – Grooves and wax are shiny with a few light scratches. Overall this is a beautiful record.

Sun 223 78rpm Mystery Train
Mint $2,000
Labels are like brand new! Absolutely mint! Wax on both sides are virtually new – This is the most beautiful copy I've ever seen!

Sun 223 78rpm Mystery Train
VG+++ $1,500
Beautiful mint labels – Pretty shiny wax with a few light scratches

Sun 223 78rpm Mystery Train
VG+++ $1,500
Beautiful brand new mint labels – Virtually flawless wax – Wax has dulled

Sun 223 78rpm Mystery Train
VG++ $1,200
Beautiful mint perfect labels – Great shiny wax

Sun 223 78rpm Mystery Train
VG+ $1,000
Labels are mint, brand new – Record has some light scuffs but is very shiny

Sun 223 78rpm Mystery Train
VG $750
Labels are very nice and clean – Wax shows some dulling and scratches but a great record for the price

Sun 209 45rpm That's All Right
VG $800
Labels are very clean showing light wear – Wax still shiny showing some scratches – With original sleeve

Sun 209 45rpm That's All Right
VG $750
Both sides of label have the name 'Jane' written small but does not detract in any way from label's overall appearance – Nice wax with a few blemishes – Still in original Sun sleeve

Sun 210 45rpm Good Rockin' Tonight
VG++ $2,500
Super rare promo – Impossible to find DJ version with 'SAMPLE' stamped in red on both sides of the label – Label on the 'Good Rockin' side shows a little aging but overall has very little wear – Label on 'I Don't Care' side is beautiful but has the name 'Barbara' written off to the side of the label and does not affect Sun logo or titles below – Vinyl is shiny & extremely attractive but shows some wear – This rare collectors item has a double bonus of great condition and the rare 'SAMPLE' stamp! Complete in original sleeve

Sun 210 45rpm Good Rockin' Tonight
Mint $2,000
A copy of Elvis' rarest Sun recording – the labels are virtually flawless – Wax on "I Don't Care' side shiny and almost new – "Good Rockin' Side' features flawless wax but is not as shiny as "I Don't Care"

Sun 210 45rpm Good Rockin Tonight
VG+++ $1,000
Labels on both sides are beautiful, close to perfect! – The vinyl is extremely attractive, nice and shiny with just a hint of wear – Others would call this mint- - I'm calling this VG+++ - It would be hard to find a cleaner copy. Complete with original cover

Sun 210 45rpm Good Rockin' Tonight
VG+ $850
Beautiful labels! "Good Rockin' side virtually brand new – "I Don't Care" label shows a hint of wear on top edge, otherwise perfect – Wax is shiny and probably under graded at VG+ - With original sleeve

Sun 215 45rpm Milkcow Blues Boogie
VG++ $1,250
This record is impossible to find in any condition and this copy features absolutely brand new mint labels on both sides – Great shiny wax – Light scuffs and scratches – Definitely under graded – Original sleeve

Sun 217 45rpm Baby Let's Play House
Mint- $2,500
Labels are gorgeous perfection – Wax is virtually perfect – On a scale of 10 this is a 9 1/2 – This baby is in almost brand new condition – Original sleeve

Sun 217 45rpm Baby Let's Play House
VG+++ $1,500
Labels are clean and beautiful – Virtually brand new – Wax is shiny and beautiful with light wear – A beautiful example of this record complete with original sleeve

Sun 217 45rpm Baby Let's Play House
VG+ $1,200
Wax is shiny showing slight wear. Labels are mint – A super example of this highly collectible record complete with original cover

Sun 223 45rpm Mystery Train
Mint- $2,000
A beautiful copy featuring flawless labels & shiny wax – Never on a turntable – Light scuffs – Impossible to find in this condition – Original sleeve

Sun 223 45rpm Mystery Train
Mint- $1,500
Beautiful clean & flawless labels mint except for 'Charlie' written in tiny letters on the "Forget" side – Wax is shiny with very slight wear – Original sleeve

The Most Talked About New Personality
RCA-EPB-1254 Mint- $5000
This is it! The record & cover RCA released to introduce Elvis Presley. 2 disc set containing all 12 songs from LPM-1254. Beautiful clean labels, shiny was. Disc 1 showing next to no wear, disc 2 very minor surface scuff. Front cover looks almost new, back cover tiny hint of circle wear.

Elvis Presley
SPD-22 Mint $3500
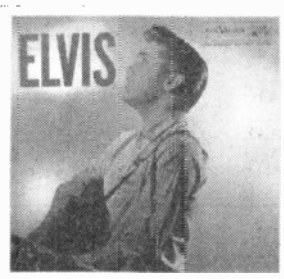
Rare EP given away with the Elvis RCA 45 record player. Discs & cover are brand new. This impossible to find record has never been offered in this magnificent condition. Special bonus: original 6x7 ad for SPD-22 featuring a photo of Elvis with the record player.



Elvis Presley's Personal Copy of That's When Your Heartaches Begin Acetate

Mint $35,000

Perhaps the most famous recording event in all of music's history. In 1953 when Elvis Presley made his historic decision to enter the Memphis Recording Service to record "My Happiness/That's When Your Heartaches Begin" he unknowingly began the greatest recording career of all time. These 2 private recordings would remain unreleased for almost 40 years. Incredibly this version of "Heartaches" is an alternate to the released version & has never been heard to this day. The beautiful white & red label features "Memphis Recording Service 706 Union-37-7197-Memphis Tenn." in red. Typed on 2 lines "That's When Your Heartaches Begin Elvis Pressley (misspelled)". Elvis' name is underlined in pen. On the second line it reads "For radio station only", under that written in ink "Humes", the name of Elvis' high school. This acetate is without a doubt the rarest record in the world!

Nobody had a clue what to do with Charlie from the very first. Having tasted success on only his third record, no one would tamper with the formula. And so, for all intents and purposes, they simply reissued his hit with slightly different lyrics. It couldn't have helped Charlie's confidence to watch the record sink without a trace. Charlie and Margaret Ann learned a lesson, and the first chance they had to apply it — which was approximately six years later — the results were no less disastrous. For the follow-up to Charlie's next hit record, "Mohair Sam," recorded for Smash in 1965, he switched gears completely and selected a beautiful ballad written by Margaret Ann called "Field of Yellow Daisies." Again, the record-buying public deserted him in droves, hammering home the message that fame is fleeting and fickle.

Charlie continued to record some powerful and memorable sides for Sun, but none of them dented the pop marketplace. Part of the problem was undoubtedly the fact that Charlie had never written teen-oriented material. He was, in every sense, an adult artist. His concerns and priorities just did not resonate with adolescents. "Lonely Weekends" had been a freak occurrence — one of those rare instances where kids and adults shared a problem: being alone on a weekend. But from then on, Charlie spoke to people with mortgages, drinking problems and ex-lovers.

And why should he apologize or disguise who he was? Charlie Rich had a wife, three kids, prematurely greying hair and a severe drinking problem. If he couldn't write from his own experience, what was the point? And so he produced some excellent music over the next three years, none of which sold particulary well. "Stay" and "On My Knees" dealt with relationship and abandonment issues. Both were beautiful songs, which continue to be recorded by other artists. Indeed, both were re-recorded by Rich during his later tenure at Epic Records. In fact, "On My Knees" finally achieved hit status when Charlie's duet version with Janie Fricke was released in 1978, more than 15 years after his first recording of the song had appeared.

Charlie's next single contrasted a rather light-hearted love triangle tune ("Caught In The Middle") with what has proved to be one of Rich's most enduring compositions. "Who Will The Next Fool Be" was almost immediately covered by Bobby Blue Bland, which should have convinced anyone that this song had a depth of bluesy soul that could be mined almost indefinitely. It is a fine statement to Rich's artistry that his version remains definitive. It is perhaps this single record, more than any other, that made it clear that Rich had an astonishing capacity to write and perform black music. In fact, if one factors out the seemingly endless middle-of-the-road dross of his latter career, Charlie Rich may have been the best white soul singer ever to record. What makes this doubly astounding is his considerable background performing Sinatra/Mel Torme/Tony Bennett songs, his penchant for big band jazz, and his utter facility writing and performing country music.

Other than his own bluesy compositions, Rich was obviously affected by the work of Chuck Willis. Two tunes associated with Willis ("C.C. Rider" and "Juanita") appeared on Rich's LP, issued in 1960. In addition, Willis' "It's Too Late" appeared as one side of Rich's next single in 1961.

Another bluesman whose work had long been part of Charlie's repertoire was Jimmy Reed. Martin Willis recalled "'Big Boss Man' was one of Charlie's favorite tunes. He'd do it over and over again at gigs. It's surprising he never did record it at Sun because he played the song constantly during those years. When he finally did record it for RCA they sent the tapes over to the Phillips studio and I overdubbed a sax solo on it. When the album came out, I was surprised to hear that they didn't use it. So I turned around and played the same sax break on Conway Twitty's version of the song when he recorded it on his album R&B '63, which Bill Justis produced."

Hardly anyone recording in the early 1960s wasn't affected by the pop-gospel style of Ray Charles. Whether the use of his vocal mannerisms or his churchy chord changes (1-6 minor or the 1-6-7-2-7-5-7 sequence). Of all his work, "Easy Money" is Rich's most explicit debt to Ray Charles. The flipside, "Midnite Blues," is another matter. Tightly recorded in Nashville at Sam Phillips new studio, Rich and his sidemen turn in a staggering performance here. For a change, the vocal chorus is an integral part of the arrangement, extending Rich's melody lines and echoing his lyrics. This impassioned performance remains one of Rich's finest recordings.

The Ray Charles influence was again palpable on "Finally Found Out," but it was the autobiographical "Sitting And Thinking" that has drawn listeners' attention over the years. It is hard to escape the poignancy of the lyrics, given Rich's well-documented lifestyle. Rich's final release for Sam Phillips is a curious combination. One side — "There's Another Place I Can't Go" — was a slickly crafted, almost jazzy treatment of a broken relationship. The sentiments were worded generally enough to appeal to teens. In fact, the tune was composed not by Rich, but by a team of New York specialists who were not about to give away the publishing rights to Sam Phillips. The flipside, "I Need Your Love," was undoubtedly a Rich original. Surprisingly, it was not one of his strongest efforts and had demo written all over it. If nothing else, this side directed the lion's share of DJ attention to the A-side.

The unissued recordings

On balance, Rich's single releases for the Phillips International label maintained a very high standard. It is worth remembering that for every title by Charlie Rich that was ever released by Sam Phillips, there are at least four others that sat behind in the vaults. Some of these were rough demos and never candidates for the marketplace. But many others weren't. They were finished masters into which a lot of thought and work were invested. Titles like "Gentle As A Lamb," "Lonely Hurt Within," "Stop Thief," "What's My Name," "Every Day" and "Goodbye Maryann," to name a few, could well have appeared above Charlie's name on a Phillips International label. Some of these efforts represented extensions of Rich's existing style. But others, like "Lonely Hurt Within," would have been a radical departure in directions that might have played havoc with his subsequent development.

Where did these titles come from? Roland recalled, "Charlie always recorded what he wanted to when he wanted to. It wasn't a real big expensive thing like it is today. Charlie was always experimenting. He and Justis would try stuff all the time. Especially when we got to the new studio, even though it didn't sound as good initially, it opened up a lot of possibilities that hadn't been there at 706 Union. Charlie also did a lot of stuff with Scotty Moore. I think I remember "Every Day" and "Lonely Hurt Within." Those were probably things that Scotty Moore did with him at the new studio. I remember hearing some of that and thinking ,'that doesn't sound like Charlie.' Charlie would listen to what was being played and try to write one of his own. There was a lot of searching for a direction with Charlie. The problem was he was so adaptable, so good at so many things."

"Charlie was very much an even-keel

(Please see Rich page 40)

Reflections on Charlie Rich

"I don't mean to take anything away from Elvis and Jerry Lee, but I don't think I ever recorded anybody who was better as a singer, writer or player than Charlie Rich.

— Sam Phillips

"Charlie and I really got to know each other when we did a TV show in Arkansas. I met his wife Margaret Ann for the first time there. Charlie used to come to The Cotton Club all the time and get incredibly drunk but he never came on to the women. He never cheated no matter how much he had to drink. And then I saw Margaret Ann and I understood why. She was very attractive. I was really impressed. I was just a teenager and here was this beautiful woman. So classy, dark-haired and slim. She looked like what Elvis would end up with at the end of the movie."

— Barbara Pittman, Sun recording artist

"Charlie had a unique voice. Of course he smoked too much and drank too much. But he had a wonderful way with a ballad. He was an original. One of a kind. His piano playing was amazing. The truth is, I don't even know if Charlie could read music. I know he followed chord charts and he had a wonderful ear, but if someone handed him a chart and said 'Read!' — I don't know. But it never mattered. His playing was spectacular."

— Harold Murchison, drummer, road manager

"I was very young when I first met Charlie. He was a studio musician back then. He was one of the best looking men I'd ever seen. Oh my God! Elvis was pretty, but Charlie was handsome. An incredible looking man. So soulful. And so nice. A gentle giant."

— Barbara Pittman

"I don't think I ever heard Charlie miss a note. He was one of those rare talents that comes along once in a lifetime. There was nothing Charlie couldn't do. You think he was versatile in the studio? You should have seen him at those live gigs we did around Memphis. There were just no limits. I used to look forward to getting on the bandstand with him. You never even knew what kind of material you were going to play that night. It all depended on what kind of mood Charlie was in. It could be old standards, blues, country or rock."

— Martin Willis, sax player

"Charlie may have been the best jazz piano player in Memphis. As a teenager I used to go to a club called The Sharecropper to hear him play jazz. He'd play solo or maybe with just a bass player. Then the next day I might see him over at Sun doing country songs."

— Barbara Pittman

"Charlie always seemed very shy to me, even when I was a kid in high school. Here was this big guy with incredible talent. But he always seemed to have a lack of confidence. His shyness really hurt him on stage. It was never a problem in the studio, but on stage — man! People just assumed he'd be another Jerry Lee. They expected a little fireball piano player and Charlie was a club performer. He would have been a thousand times happier if he could have just played nothing but small intimate clubs. He wasn't geared for putting on a show. Unfortunately, crowds had all kinds of expectations based on guys like Elvis and Jerry Lee. You can't just sit down at the piano when you're playing a country fair for 5,000 people and play like you're in a small smoky jazz club. You need to pound it out and that wasn't Charlie's way."

— J.M. Van Eaton

"Charlie never ever had intentions of being a front line performer. He would have been just as happy planting cotton over in Arkansas or playing weekend gigs at The Vapors. Or doing some studio gig. Or writing songs for someone else. If he didn't have someone pushing him — his wife, Sam Phillips, or [producer] Billy Sherrill — he would have just hung back and probably been under a lot less stress."

— J.M. Van Eaton

"If I could have had just one wish for Charlie, it would have been that he could have been straight. Off the booze. Just relaxed. Let him do the shows his way. No press. Nothing to rebel against. Then I think he would have been a superstar."

— Harold Murchison

"I think Charlie's best music probably came out of the Sun studio. This is Charlie at his best, his most natural. Sitting there late at night with his vodka and Kool Aid. It looked like he was just drinking a grape drink. Charlie always covered everything up, including his feelings. Thank God he had the music to express himself. I don't want to guess what would have happened to him if he hadn't had his music."

— Barbara Pittman

"I hated to find out that Charlie had died. I always hoped he'd be playing someplace and I'd just walk up to the stage after all these years with my horn in my hand and say, 'mind if I sit in?' I never got a chance to do that. I was always sorry more people didn't see Charlie in the best light. He's remembered by most people for stuff that is far from his best. They didn't get to hear the real Charlie Rich that I knew."

— Martin Willis

type of guy in the studio," recalled Van Eaton. "A pleasure to work with. Kind of the opposite of Jerry Lee, where it could get out of hand. We never struggled to get the sessions done, and we always seemed to be happy with what we put down. There was never any finger-pointing or problems like that. With Jerry it could get wild. If you didn't get it in three takes, forget it. You just moved on."

Van Eaton also had a slightly more cynical view of the creative process surrounding Charlie and at Sun in general.

"During the latter part of Charlie's stay at Sun there really wasn't anybody around. The creative people had left. Sam wasn't coming down anymore. Jack Clement had left, Justis was gone. When they lost these guys, they lost the heart of the label. When they brought in the Ernie Bartons and Charlie Underwoods — it made a real difference. Something big was lost. These new guys, they just weren't bringing anything to the table. It got to where we were just doing a job when we went in there."

Van Eaton's view of the creative downturn at Sun is shared by others. However, the question is whether an artist like Charlie — whose creative energies were overflowing — was as affected by the lack of external ideas as some of his less-talented labelmates.

Rich's final single was released in the throes of some serious intrigue between himself and Sam Phillips. In truth, by the time the record hit the stores, Rich was no longer a Sun artist. On March 15, 1963, Rich's recording contract with Sam Phillips expired. Rich's de facto manager, lawyer/trumpet player Sy Rosenberg, hadn't let any grass grow under his artist and promptly negotiated a one-year contract with RCA for a $10,000 advance on royalties. Both the royalty rate (5%) and the advance were things Phillips was not accustomed to paying.

Nevertheless, Phillips was furious. He felt betrayed (as he had when Johnny Cash and Carl Perkins had left earlier) and argued that a "verbal agreement" between him and Rich had at least granted him the opportunity to match any offer that Rich received elsewhere. (This was precisely the argument he had used in reacting to Johnny Cash's departure in 1958). Phillips went so far as to notify RCA in May 1963, that they were about to record an artist who was still under contract to him.

Sy Rosenberg a lawyer for good reason. In June 1963, Charlie sued Sam for $100,000 for interfering with his relationship with RCA. A day later, Sam and Charlie sat down and settled their differences. Sam recognized that Charlie Rich, the last of his major discoveries, was destined to leave the fold. Sam also recognized that his days as a record company owner were fast drawing to a close. (Only two more singles were issued on the Phillips International label after Rich's last release). Wisely, Phillips turned toward his publishing interests. Acknowledging Rich's talent as a songwriter, he formed a joint publishing venture with Charlie called Charlie Rich Music. Both men withdrew their lawsuits and Rich went on with his career.

The truth is, Sam Phillips didn't make a lot of money issuing most of Charlie Rich's music. With the exception of "Lonely Weekends," Charlie Rich was not a big seller. Van Eaton had an interesting perspective on what might have been during Charlie's Sun days.

"In my opinion, if television was as hot then as it is now, with music videos and all that slick packaging, Charlie might have been very successful. They could have edited Charlie into the kind of performances he could never give on his own. He could have been a major act, a good-looking, talented guy under tight control of a producer and an editor. And of course Charlie wouldn't have minded it since he could have been home with his family while they were doing it. A lot of guys are better on TV than live in person, and Charlie may have been one of them."

After leaving Sun, Rich went on to record for RCA, Hi, Smash, Epic, United Artists and Sire. The international fame he so richly deserved finally found him during the 1970s with a string of countrified middle-of-the-road hits on Epic including "Behind Closed Doors" and "The Most Beautiful Girl In The World." But it is his final album, recorded just three years before his death in 1995, that offers the deepest reflection of Charlie's mature talent. The face that appears on the cover of Pictures And Paintings (Sire 26730) is older and wiser — a long way from the dark-haired Elvis look of his Sun publicity pictures.

Sometime in 1983, during an inactive period in his recording career, Charlie flew to Toronto to tape a TV special for Ronnie Hawkins. Like Rich, Hawkins hailed from Arkansas and had tasted early success in the wake of Elvis and Sun Records. Rich was at home with the informality and theme of Hawkins' show; it dealt with the early years of rock 'n' roll. His sequence lasts barely three minutes but it is stunning. Rich is seated at a piano reminiscing about the early days at Sun. His speaking voice is usually startling to those who have never heard it. It has none of the full, rich Elvisy character one associates with his singing, especially his early work on Sun. Rich sounds more like a black hipster, circa 1945. His voice is so wheezy and asthmatic it is hard to imagine that his powerful singing voice could emerge from the same larynx. Rich is chain-smoking, and there seems to be mist everywhere, like the set of some gothic horror movie. The smoke drifts up from his ashtray and seems to rise off the piano from his clothes. It comes from his mouth as he speaks. Then he launches into a solo vocal/piano version of "Lonely Weekends" that is totally stark, spare, and intense. Its phrasing is more daring and jazz-like than the hit record from nearly a quarter of a century earlier. Rich was doing this one for himself — there was no product left to promote in 1983. The performance is honest, unencumbered and adventurous.

The unavoidable truth is that if Charlie Rich had won the Arkansas State Lottery (had such a thing existed back in 1957), he would probably never have written or recorded most of his finest music. It's not simply that at the best of times, Charlie would rather have been fishing or spending time with his wife and children than dealing with the music business. It's more that at Sun Charlie was struggling to come to terms with musical genres he was suddenly thrust into: rock 'n' roll, country, and rockabilly. Admittedly, blues wasn't much of a stretch for Charlie, and, with the exception of country music, the blues was a first cousin of everything Charlie attempted at Sun. Still, for a guy with Stan Kenton sensibilities, Charlie showed remarkable adaptability writing material for the likes of Johnny Cash, Jerry Lee Lewis and Ray Smith in 1958, just months after his baptism by fire. That hypothetical lottery prize could have saved him a lot of trouble.

On the other hand, Charlie's fans are richer for his trouble. In the process of trying to write commercial music, Charlie found a whole new way to give voice to his deepest feelings. We have Sam Phillips and his staff to thank for that. Fueled by crass commercialism, Charlie reached more deeply into himself. And for every expendable piece of dross like "Rock & Roll Party" and "Closed For Repair," we got creations like "Don't Put No Headstone On My Grave" or "Who Will The Next Fool Be." Not a bad trade. And while we're thanking Sam Phillips, there is one more thing to mention. That piano at 706 Union was always miked, and that mike was attached to a tape recorder that seemingly had no "off" button. Five years earlier, Sam was so strapped for funds he had found it necessary to recycle tape. Elvis sessions were recorded on top of blues tracks by Dr. Isiah Ross. God only knows who or what was recorded on top of priceless Elvis outtakes. By the time Charlie hit the scene, the gods of pop music had smiled on Sun Records and tape was in good supply, thanks to Charlie Rich.

Elvis and the '68 Comeback

The Rebirth of the Ultimate Superstar

by Eddie Hammer

Elvis in black leather. I can't think of anything else that better symbolizes his '68 comeback. Call it adoration, loyalty, worship or even love, but for me, this image is engraved in my mind: a god-like performer achieving the ultimate performance. He was beautiful that night and had never sounded better. His jet black hair seemed to fall over his forehead in the perfect way. I have read, many times, that Elvis was nervous about this show and whether he could pull it off. If this is apprehension, I want to be nervous like that forever. This was a very important gig, and he knew it, but right from the start, total confidence was Elvis' stage presence. Which brings to thought a question I have always had: How could anyone who looked like Elvis in '68 let himself go and end up as his '77 appearance? How he got to that stage at the end of his career is another story, but out of loyalty and love I've overlooked it.

This is the 30th anniversary of that special, heralded by RCA on its two new album issues, Tiger Man and Memories. The first CD deals with the sit-down show and the later two-disc album contains the entire show. The show was watched by 45 percent of all the TV viewers in the U.S. To add to this were the rave reviews the show received by every type of media. It was the rebirth of Elvis — the prodigal son returns. This show dispelled any belief that he had "lost it."

I've told you previously that I own a ticket to one of the four sit-down shows and only wish I could have used it, except I purchased it 20 years after the event. All four of these jam sessions were great. Remember when Elvis told this intimate audience he has to go? His comment to quell their disappointment was, "I only work here," which has always made me smile along with the audience's laughter. During this segment he was irresistible. Elvis was surrounded by his old crew, and they recalled the past, from Ed Sullivan's ban of showing him below the waist to other restrictions placed on his performances. I felt like I was looking in at a meeting of old friends reminiscing, and while I could not join in, I was enjoying myself as much as they were.

And the music? Pure Elvis — "One Night," "Jailhouse Rock," "Heartbreak Hotel," "Can't Help Falling In Love," "Lawdy Miss Claudy" (a request from one of his buddies), "Baby What You Want Me To Do" (The old Jimmy Reed tune and my favorite of the set), "Tiger Man" (an old Sun hit for Rufus), "Tryin' To Get To You" and a few others. Even though this was to be a sit-down session, when Elvis decided to stand up, it caused excitement. A good move! Then Elvis' commotion with his guitar strap added to the fun. Did you know that this famous suit was loaned to the Rock And Roll Museum in Cleveland for an all-Elvis display? If you ever see it, tell me if you felt the same way about its size — much smaller than I imagined.

The Singer Company had picked up the tab for that evening, advertising and promoting the event in several national magazines. In my collection, I have the original vinyl radio spots for the show. Singer even sold a vinyl LP, Singer Presents Elvis Singing Flaming Star And Others, which is collectable due to its mustard-colored label and its blurb on the back cover. It's an odd album with only the song "Tiger Man" noted as "recorded live at the NBC-TV studios in Burbank."

Now I'm going to tell you a secret — I own the original three-LP acetate set from the show. I dusted the albums off and replayed them last night, as it's been years since they saw any light. Disc one starts with "Nothingville" and that part of the road medley containing "Guitar Man," "Let Yourself Go," Big Boss Man," two versions of "It Hurts Me," (the best of this set for my money), Leiber and Stoller's Coasters hit "Little Egypt," "Trouble," and much dialogue, some of which did not make the final cut. The music was greatly expanded on this rarity piece. Disc two was very unusual, starting with Elvis saying "Trying to fake it but can't do it." I never did figure that one out. He then goes into another version of "Trouble." Expanded instrumental tracks follow and lead into the gospel section. Disc three leads off with two versions of "If I Can Dream" — the original show song that became a major hit and deserved its popularity and praise. "Memories" follows and then a long instrumental set which is actually the backgrounds of many songs. None of the sit-down performances were contained on these original acetates. The only time I heard all four of those sessions was on boot albums.

RCA released the album Elvis — NBC-TV Special a few months after the show aired nationally, and it was a commercial success (another venture I would have invested in — it couldn't miss). The LP was the first time an Elvis album was on an orange label in mono and with the new RCA logo. The cover is graced with a shot of Elvis in his white gospel attire and a red "Elvis" in lights as a background. The back cover has six pictures from the show, of which four come from the sit-down. The second pressing, in flex wax, was more difficult to find than the original harder vinyl. I collect every pressing (of every album! Crazy, I know.), so I have many different versions. I was very fortunate to get the rarest pressing of this title — on blue wax. You know that this one is locked up, as it is the only one in the world. I'm just lucky I guess. The album contains the show and hits all the highlights from each segment, ending with "If I Can Dream." The album sold well all over the world, even though it did delete certain songs.

I also collect foreign Elvis releases, so I went through my collection to look for variations. When I came to the Japanese version, I found one album with a gate-fold cover with lyrics and a fold-out picture of that "guitar man." I have two others, which were pressed later, with a '70s picture back cover of Elvis in a white jumpsuit. Another Japanese LP also has a gate-fold cover with a picture of our star in the nightclub scene. I also have two versions in boxes, one of which was a promo with a booklet, a lyric sheet, and a large "guitar man" shot. This is one of Japan's Golden Disc releases. How's that for coverage of an album?

France had a few pressings, all with the same familiar cover, yet one has a wide silver band across the top saying "Bande Originale du show TV." Argentina's version is a mirror job, only the titles are all in Spanish. An Israeli release is the same, except listed in big white letters are two song titles, "If I Can Dream" and "Memories." Korea has the same cover and big titles printed in Korean. Africa is one of the few that released the album on a black label. Australia's version does not differ, but they have an extended play titled '68 Special. Greece and New Zealand's entries were identical except the latter is on a black label. Spain's back cover had bold words "Grabado en Directo Programa Especial de TV." Thailand enters this scene with an extended play titled Trouble.

Enough? Remember that these LPs are not complete, as they delete some songs.

Now let's go to those bad boys across the pond — they even include alternates and outtakes, which you know I love if you are a regular reader of my Goldmine column. Memories of '68 contains all the rehearsals from late June, with six versions of "Trouble" and multiples of "Saved" and "If I Can Dream." Live NBC Burbank contains the first show (6/27) with a questionable cover of Elvis in his military gear. The TCB Company's vinyl release, If We Can Dream, has a very amusing claim on the cover — "149,999,950 TV watchers and 50 NBC executives can't be wrong!" Side one starts with "Nothingville," while side two has the gospel celebration and a great outtake of "If I Can Dream." Besides the additional non-'68 bonus cuts, the cover pics are indicative of the show's excitement. The set, The '68 Comeback Volume I and II, shows on the covers Elvis in his leather and the burgundy gospel suit respectively.

While we all know that the prostitution scene was cut from the final TV special, Volume One contains the whole production with "Let Yourself Go" and "It Hurts Me" (with an instrumental break) and a gospel medley with slight variations. Volume II centers on the studio rehearsals (6/28 and 6/30) with alternates from the nightclub scene and unheard versions of "Little Egypt," "Trouble" and "If I Can Dream." If you do not own this set, put it on your want list.

Another 2-LP set on 10" vinyl, The Live Sessions by the Memphis Star group, is a real fake-out with mostly '70s songs and nothing from the TV special, even though the covers depict the show. If I had to choose one set for my collection, the two-volume The Burbank Sessions would win, as these beauties have gate-fold covers with beautiful pics plus a bonus booklet and a pair of mock tickets to the event. Each album deals with different shows, all four total.

Stage Four in Burbank was the largest video sound stage in L.A., but it definitely was inadequate for all who hungered to attend. Here was Elvis, the greatest live performer in existence, who needed the special's challenge after being bored with movies for too many years. People arrived at daybreak for a 5 p.m. taping. Did you know that the original seating was much farther away and changed just before the taping? Actually there was no plan for this set — total freedom to jam — which resulted in a show that was not only as good as the old rockers, but better! While each of the four shows were different as to the order of songs, the shows improved as they rolled out.

The CD version for this album, here in the states and Australia, Japan (two types), Brazil, Germany and Canada, all use the original cover art (Germany's uses the original back cover pics also). Eight bonus tracks add to their appeal. The Sphinx Company has done a version of the sit-down, but it has a poor cover. However, due to this one's limited production, it is highly sought after by collectors. The CD versions to get are the trilogy set and The Complete Burbank Sessions, which uses Burbank and special scenes for their covers and contains all four shows and alternates on "Guitar Man" and "Trouble." Volume Three contains two versions of "Heartbreak Hotel."

His special was to be a Christmas show originally (the Colonel's preference), ending with "I'll Be Home For Christmas." Am I glad that was not used. "If I Can Dream" as a finale was much more dramatic and meaningful, due to the times of '68, with reference to the two political assassinations. Singer coughed up 400 big ones for this show and got its money's worth. Someday I'll report about some of the videos I have on the rehearsals, especially the one with the beautiful blond nibbling on Elvis' ear.

I knew Elvis was great, and now the world shared my opinion. Elvis was the total performer. I have never felt this way about any entertainer, and I've seen some of the best, such as Buddy Holly and Bobby Darin. Even though I saw Elvis at the Garden in N.Y., this show was his best. Hey, I really like this guy, if you haven't noticed.

Lot 14 Beatles
1963 45 RPM — Please Please Me
MT 9 — Vee-Jay 498 (promo)
MB: $1000

Among the rarest and most important of Beatles 45s. After Beatlemania kicked in with the 1964 release of "I Want To Hold You Hand," Vee-Jay re-issued "Please Please Me" as Vee-Jay 581. That version sold. This one (Vee-Jay 498), marketed almost a year before, did not. Killer Mint condition promo label with the double "t" Beattles.

Lot 143 Five Satins
1956 45RPM — In The Still Of The Nite
MT 9 fd — Standord 200 (promo)
MB: $600

Mint vinyl, label has only slight fade on both sides. This is the very rare initial release on a tiny New Haven label of this all-time classic that since has become known as the doo wop national anthem. It was reissued and a hit on Ember. This is one of the rarest and most desirable of all early Rock and Roll records.

Lot 224 Roy Orbison
1956 45 RPM — Ooby Dooby
NM 8 — Je-wel 101
MB: $2,500

One of the most important and rarest records ever made. It is Roy's first and one of the most coveted of the rockabilly genre. This original release on a tiny New Mexico label is a major rarity with only a few dozen known to exist in all grades. This spectacular copy is the finest we have seen and may be the only Near Mint specimen in existence.

Lot 227 Jimmy Page
1965 45 RPM — She Just Satisfies
EX 7 — Fontana 533 (UK)
MB: $700

Rave up style rocker with Them-style harmonica, cranking ensemble vocals. Flip is instrumental with some vocal vamps. This extraordinary item by one of Led Zeppelin's creators and a guitarist who brought the sound of the blues to the rock arena. Great example with original center still in place.

Lot 240 Elvis Presley
1954 45 RPM — Good Rockin' Tonight
EX 7 — Sun 210
MB: $1000

Sensational example of this release with another glowing Sun label. As above, this baby is glossy and in a great state of preservation. The song is a remake of the Wynonie Harris hit and is an outstanding example of the transition from the early styles to rock and roll. This is a Memphis pressing, right from the source.

Lot 261 ? And The Mysterians
1965 45RPM — 96 Tears
MT 9 lt — Pa-Go-Go 102
MB: $500

What more can we say about this garage classic that became a #1 hit - on the Cameo label of course. ? (Rudy Martinez) cut this manic performance (originally 69 Tears) for a less than small Texas based Pa-Go-Go label that pressed just a handful before it went national. Small label flaking on this Mint example.

Lot 273 Rolling Stones
1964 45 RPM — Stoned
MT 9 — London 9641 (promo)
MB: $1,000

The First and by far the rarest Rolling Stones record. The title connotation was considered too controversial at the time. The record was pulled before it had any distribution and re-released with "Not Fad Away" as the "B" side. There are only 3 known commercial copies. Promo copies are also very rare. This is a gorgeous "Stone" Mint example.

Lot 280 Rush
1973 45 RPM — You Can't Fight It
NM 8 wol — Moon 001 (Canadian Stereo Promo)
MB: $400

First release by this 1970s super power rock band out of Canada. This is their super-rare debut on the Canadian Moon label, released a good four years before their first hit. It's a good example of a new turn in rock. It's in Near Mint stereo with "not for sale" stamped on both sides. This is truly one unique record.

Lot 302 Surfaris
1962 45 RPM — Wipe Out
GD-VG 4 — DFS 11
MB: $800

The rarest and most important of all surf records that many experts have never even seen! We've only had this record once before in similar (GD-VD 4) condition. We also saw one in lower grade that was priced in the thousands. There may be only about six of these in existence and we've never heard of a higher grade survivor. A spectacular rarity.

Lot 338 Sonny West
1959 45 RPM — Rock-Ola Ruby
EX 7 — Nor Va Jak 1956
MB: $1200

Unbelievably great rockaibilly in the hands of the little known Sonny West. Recorded at Norman Petty's Clovis, New Mexico studios. With two guitar breaks and great vocals, it's got to be heard to be believed. In the fade, he refers to lyrics from "Shake Rattle & Roll" and "Be Bop A Lula" to make this one of the most intense rockabilly experiences ever.

Lot 402 Elvis Presley
1954 78 RPM — That's All Right
EX 7 — Sun 209
MB: $700

This is the record that turned rock and roll into a revolution. It's Presley's debut, a powerful rendition of the Big Boy Crudup blues. Label characteristics, glowing Sun rays logo, the crowing rooster, are all intact. The playing surface has no noticeable defects, making it a strong copy.

Lot 440 Beatles
1964 Compact 33 — The Second Album
VG EX 6/EX 7 — Capitol 2080 (promo)
MB: $1000

Super rare Compact 33 issued to promote the LP. Has the open end interview with the group and three tracks from the Album. Glossy white thick paper sleeve, which has the interview text on the back. The black label record with rainbow ring has "Especially prepared for Radio and TV programming use-Not for sale" on either side. Vinyl is glossy and has no significant defects. This lot is a very important piece in the early Beatles legacy.

Lot 505 Buddy Holly
1958 Mono EP — That'll Be The Day
NM 8/NM 8 — Decca 2575 (EP Back)
MB: $2000

Fabulous condition copy of the super-rare Buddy Holly Decca EP. This is a variety that has other Decca EPs listed on the back, and this is the first time we ever had this one to auction. This is the finest copy of this EP we have ever laid eyes on. Cover is crisp, bright and vividly colored. Fully glossed disc is only a couple of light lines from Mint consideration. An incredible opportunity to acquire a connoisseur condition copy of one of the most important Buddy Holly records ever made.

Lot 558 Rays
1958 Mono EP — The Rays
NM 8 soc/MT 9 — Chess 5120
MB: $750

Possibly the finest known copy of this very rare one shot EP. Orange 49 cent price sticker center right does not infringe upon photos or graphics. At some later point in time this EP was shrink wrapped and discounted to 29 cents with a white sticker. The lower left corner was dinged before the shrink was applied or we would have given this crisp, pristine, snow white backed piece a full Mint grade.

Lot 620 Beatles
1963 Stereo LP — Introducing The Beatles
EX 7 tpcr/VG 5 — Vee-Jay 1062 (Ad Back)
MB: $1500

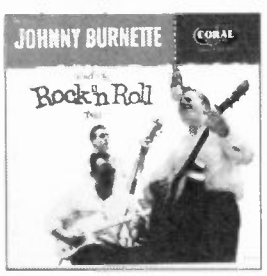
First, rarest and perhaps most highly prized version of the Beatles first LP-the STEREO AD BACK. All-important back slick displaying 25 other Vee-Jay LPs in color shows slight contact at top left but is otherwise sharp and vivid. Vinyl retains much gloss and is, perhaps, one light scratch from higher consideration. This package represents a good opportunity to acquire an incredible, early Beatles' stereorarity.

Lot 626 Beatles
1964 Mono LP The Beatles And Frank Ifield On Stage
EX 7/EX 7 — Vee-Jay 1085
MB: $1,750

This LP was born as a result of Capitol Records lawsuit and injunction against Vee-Jay. Feeling they were within their rights to put out their four original releases, Vee-Jay combined these with eight cuts by their other main artist—Frank Ifield—to complete a twelve song LP. Very poor sales make this one really rare. Finest mono copy we've seen.

Lot 637 Beatles
1965 Mono LP — Hottest Hits
VG EX6/EX 7 — Parlophone 306 (Denmark)
MB: $1000

Super rare original LP from Denmark. Fabulous cover shows the boys clad in Eskimo coats. Sharp fully colored cover is close to higher consideration. Vinyl displays most of its original gloss. Only the second time we've seen this one. A dream lot for the Beatles completist.



Lot 675 Johnny Burnette Trio
1956 Mono LP — Johnny Burnette & The Rock 'N' Roll Trio
NM 8/NM 8 — Coral 57080
MB: $3,000

This superb rockabilly LP is one of the rarest and most demanded of all albums in the rock and roll genre.

This is an extremely high grade copy of an LP that, when seen, is usually rather beat from being "played to death." The disc itself is absolutely fabulous. With virtually perfect, unspindlemarked, maroon and silver labels, this piece not only looks Mint, but also may be in fact, unplayed.

Lot 795 Ebon-Knights
1963 Mono LP — First Date With The Ebon-Knights
EX 7soc/MT 9 — Stepheny 4001
MB: $350

This is the only copy we've ever had of this super rare LP. Very good, smooth vocal group sound, but material is generally poppish. Cover of red and yellow drawing is in excellent condition. Interesting white label with yellow outer ring. Logo has a photo of a blonde woman's head (Stephanie?) mounted on a drawing of a bust. This is a great looking package and the rarity is almost off the map!

Lot 913 Rev. Columbus Mann
1962 Mono LP — They Shall Be Mine
NM 8 stb/NM 8 — Tamla 227
MB: $1000

Mann is "angelically" backed by the True Love Church Choir of Detroit. We thought the Gospel All-Stars was the rarest Motown LP, but with this one surfacing, we are not so sure now. The cover on this super rarity is really nice. The disc shows almost full, original gloss, and has virtually perfect, white Tamla labels. If you like gospel music at all, you will enjoy the get-down, earthy, songs presented here.

Lot 1061 Ike and Tine Turner
1966 Mono LP — River Deep Mountain High nc/EX 7 — Phillies 4011
MB: $1500

Until a few years ago there was only one reported copy of this Phillies LP. In 1995 a small find (reportedly from a Spector relative) in very good and better condition was dispersed. These sold quickly for big money. The piece offered here is a beauty. The vinyl displays full original gloss and is only some very light lines from choice Near Mint.

The songs are fabulous. The title cut is Phil's ultimate "wall of sound" creation.

Lot 1136 Beatles
1966 Stereo Album Slick — Yesterday...and Today
Butcher Cover (1st State) — NM 8
Capitol 2553 — MB: $1500

Fantastic Beatles "Butcher" rarity. An original unused first state STEREO LP slick measuring 12 1/2x 13."

Gorgeous full color Near Mint slick is about as nice a production Butcher as one could hope to get. And this is the much rarer STEREO version. If this slick were put on the cardboard cover with a back, you could add another zero onto the price. With the front slick being the "essence" of the Butcher cover this lot seems to have a super bargain minimum bid.

Lot 1274 Mello-Moods
1951 45 RPM — How Could You
EX 7 — Robin 105
MB: $1,000

Ultra rare, early vocal group 45. This is the only known Robin 45, as the label quickly became Red Robin. Only ten to fifteen of this great title are known on 45 rpm and this low-wear example has to be one of the best. Many long time collectors have never seen this record, much less had a chance to own it.

Lot 1451 Velveteers
1956 78 RPM — Tell Me You're Mine
MT 9 — Spitfire 15
MB: $1500

By far the finest copy of this ultra-rarity we've handled. This is certainly one of the ten rarest vocal group records in any speed, and that puts it in illustrious company. The performance is an example of the purest of harmony. Though it hardly sold when released - most copies were shipped to Hawaii - it's now a must-have by every group collector. A perfectly labeled, stone Mint example.

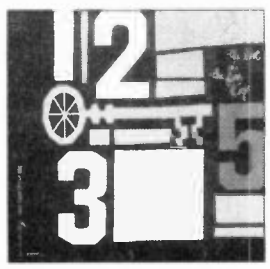
Lot 1476 Pharoahs
1958 Mono EP — The Pharoahs
EX 7stc/VG-EX 6 — Decca 6522 (UK)
MB: $1,000

The existence of this recording has been rumored and doubted for years. It is a four cut EP by "five coloured American soldiers" stationed in Germany. Three of the songs are originals along with "White Cliffs Of Dover." Issued on British Decca, it was sold only in the U.K. in very small quantities. With an original picture sleeve.



Lot 1514 Five Keys
1956 Mono LP — The Best Of The Five Keys
NM 8sp/MT 9 — Aladdin 806
MB: $1500

Original issue of first LP by legendary vocal group. Some say they were the best in rhythm and blues and many of these great songs provide evidence. All their best Aladdin singles from 1950 to '54 are here. The cover is very glossy with just minor splitting on the bottom corner. The reverse is near perfect with nearly no aging. The disc is Mint, amazing with this popular group and major collector's must-have.

Lot 1563 Little Esther Phillips
1959 Mono LP Down Memory Lane With Esther Phillips
VG EX 6 sp/NM 8 — King 622
MB: $1000

A killer item. Young Esther in a cameo design enhances this purple and yellow cover. Fourteen songs get the Little Esther treatment with her sensational pipes. Cover has minor splitting along the top, flecking along the bottom edge. Small King vinyl is an amazing Near Mint. One of r&b's rarest and most sought-after LPs.

Lot 1670 Little Walter
1953 45 RPM — Tell Me Mama
EX 7 cchp — Checker 770 (red vinyl)
MB: $1,000

An ultra-important blues rarity and a super rarity on red vinyl, with less than 20 known to exist. This is an attractive example with a few minor lines on the vinyl. The labels are nice and clean. There is a very small center hole chip. A true classic!

Lot 1870 Big Boy Spires
1953 78 RPM — About To Lose My Mind
EX 7 lt — Chance 1137
MB: $500

One of only two releases by Spires in the 1950s - he only had 3 sessions. Good rocking side with plenty going on. Slight damage to the edge ring on the A-side, otherwise very attractive blue and silver paper release. Super rare in any grade. Spires returned in the '60s, but that was it.

Lot 1938 Robert Johnson
1938 78 RPM — Stones In My Passway
EX 7 fv — Vocalion 3723
MB: $1500

One of the crucial Johnsons, the estimate of extant copies is in the range of up to twenty. This copy has all the crisp characteristics of the best of the Vocalions. Both songs are super-important in the tapestry of the blues. The only drawback is a flaw that dates back to when this was pressed. It has a cross ways section on the surface that requires extra cuing on both sides.

Lot 1939 Robert Johnson
1939 78 RPM — Love In Vain Blues
VG 5 — Vocalion 4630
MB: $3,000

This is the last and rarest Robert Johnson record. Experts estimate that only 6 to 8 survive in all grades. This example is an attractive VG-5 that plays with excellent fidelity. Long time collectors refer to this record by the "Preachin' Blues" side. But "Love In Vain" is now the most famous side because of the Rolling Stones version.

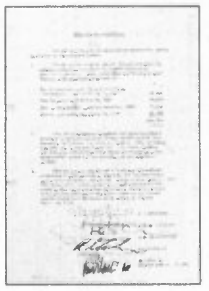
Lot 1945 Charlie Patton
1929 78 RPM — I'm Goin' Home
VG 5 — Herwin 92036
MB: $1,500

One of the best records by one of the all-time great pre-war blues artists. Note that label lists the artist under the pseudonym "Charley Peters." According to research published in 78 Quarterly Magazine, only 5 copies are known to exist. The average grade for many Pattons is only FR-2 to GD-3. So this attractive example is very clean for a Patton. A spectacular blues record that you may never see again.

Lot 2097 Eddie Cochran
1957 Picture Sleeve — Mean When I'm Mad
EX 7 — Liberty 55070
MB: $1,000

What have we here? Perhaps the rarest of all Eddie Cochran recording items. This charismatic rocker was taken from us way too soon. However, he left us a wonderful music legacy of rock and roll songs.

Unfortunately, he left us only one picture sleeve. This specimen is really nice, especially on the photo front which has no defects of note. We have seen only one other over the years.



Lot 2240 Beatles
1966 Signed Partnership Agreement
MB: $1500

In 1966, the Beatles got together to figure out their partnership contributions. This is the document that describes in pounds just how much money they needed to stay afloat for much of the remaining decade. It also discussed a Greek island they might acquire and sell. Real signatures by George, Ringo and John are all here. Though there's a space for Paul, he didn't sign, John's name is in his space. There's some scribbling on the reverse. A super unique, super important document.

Lot 2246 Beatles
1966 Concert Ticket — MT 9
MB: $1000

Super rare unused concert ticket for their Dodger Stadium performance. The show, sponsored by radio station KRLA, was a total sellout with Beatlemania at a fever pitch in the U.S. The place was packed and all tickets were used, with the exception of perhaps, a precious few, like this unused box copy.

This item is crisp and bright with a light gray front and snow white back. Even the used stubs are very rare. One expert has seen only two over the years. For the Beatles enthusiast, this may be the only chance to get a Mint unused ticket from this historic event. Nicely preserved in a screw type plexiglass holder.

Lot 2270 Rolling Stones
1989 Jacket — NM 8
MB: $1,000

Incredible Stones collectible—a leather jacket made for their 1989 Steel Wheels Tour. According to our sources, there were only six of these jackets made. The Stones themselves own five and the sixth, an extra large, was retained by the manufacturer-Brockum. This very heavy beaded leather item is pictured on the cover of the book "Images Of A World Tour."

25 Essential Southern Rock Albums

by Michael B. Smith

Southern rock — some bands love the title, others hate it, considering it too limiting. But whatever your stand is on the category name, there are always three names that come immediately to mind when someone says the words "Southern rock"— The Allman Brothers Band, The Marshall Tucker Band, and Lynyrd Skynyrd. While those three are indeed the dominating forces within the genre, there are are other standouts. The following is much more than just a personal opinion. It is a list culled from years of reading and writing about these bands and their continuing musical impact. Good ol' Southern rock 'n' roll — there ain't nothing like it.

1. Eat A Peach — The Allman Brothers Band (Capricorn) The definitive Southern rock album, from the definitive Southern band. A two-record set that changed the way many of us looked at rock 'n' roll. From the beautiful simplicity of Gregg Allman's "Melissa," to the sweet Southern strains of Dickey Betts' "Blue Sky," Eat A Peach is the pick of the crop. "Mountain Jam," taken from the same sessions that graced At Fillmore East, is pure magic, and a lasting testament to the guitar wizardry of Duane Allman and bass man Berry Oakley.

2. Where We All Belong — Marshall Tucker Band (Capricorn) Another double-album set — is there a pattern developing here? One studio LP and one live. The best of the best, including Toy Caldwell's "This Ol' Cowboy," and "In My Own Way." The live disc is red-hot. Doug Gray burns the candle at both ends on "Ramblin' On My Mind," "24 Hours At A Time," and smoking versions of "Everyday (I Have the Blues)" and "Take The Highway."

3. Fire On the Mountain — Charlie Daniels Band (Epic) One of the finest Southern albums of all time, primarily known for Top 40 hit "Long Haired Country Boy," the record also gave us the A.M. radio hit, "The South's Gonna Do It Again." Not released as a single, "Caballo Diablo" is one of the best tracks. Collectors — be on the lookout for a copy containing the Volunteer Jam EP featuring Dickey Betts, Artimus Pyle and Toy Caldwell.

4. One More From The Road — Lynyrd Skynyrd (MCA) The monumental live document from a band at its creative peak, the double-album includes the most requested classic rock radio hit of all time, (or at least a close second or tie with "Stairway to Heaven") "Free Bird," as well as scorching renditions of "Sweet Home Alabama," "Whiskey Rock-a-Roller" and a slew of others.

5. The Best Of The Outlaws: Green Grass and High Tides (Arista) Comprehensive 16-track overview of one of the '70s best southern rock bands, featuring all their hits: "There Goes Another Love Song," "Hurry Sundown" and "(Ghost) Riders in the Sky." Excellent liner notes penned by the band's founding members, Henry Paul and Hughie Thomasson.

6. At Fillmore East — The Allman Brothers Band (Capricorn) Some call this the greatest live album of all time. No small wonder. The band was burning extremely bright at the Fillmore during these recordings, and throughout this double-album collection, Duane Allman, Gregg Allman, Dickey Betts, Berry Oakley, Butch Trucks and Jaimoe all put their best foot forward, delivering a set that may never be duplicated. Essential may not even be a strong enough description.

7. Searchin' For A Rainbow — Marshall Tucker Band (Capricorn) Never a band to be called predictable, Marshall Tucker delivered a record filled with what was to become classic favorites, from the title track to George McCorkle's "Fire On The Mountain" and Toy Caldwell's "Bob Away My Blues." The set closes with a live version of "Can't You See," which ties Skynyrd's "Free Bird" as the unofficial Southern rock anthem.

8. Let It Flow — Elvin Bishop (Capricorn) When former Paul Butterfield Blues Band guitarist Elvin Bishop cut Let It Flow back in 1974, he must have been daydreaming about a Southern rock family reunion, because that's exactly what this record is. Actually, it's more than just Southern, it's a straight up rock 'n' roll reunion. Guest players include Dickey Betts, Toy Caldwell, Charlie Daniels, Johnny Sandlin, Paul Hornsby, Vassar Clements, Sly Stone (Yep! Sly and the Family "If You Want Me To Stay" Stone), and Steve "The Joker" Miller. An essential platter for the true Southern music connoisseur.

9. Wild Eyed Southern Boys — .38 Special (A&M) With three radio hits such as the title track, "Hold On Loosely" and "Fantasy Girl," .38 Special forged their own rock 'n' roll broadsword from the very beginning. With lead vocals by Donnie Van Zant (brother of Skynyrds Ronnie and Johnny), .38 brings home the bacon every single time.

10. Drippin' Wet!/Live — Wet Willie (Capricorn) Besides discovering The Marshall Tucker Band, Jimmy Hall and company have given the world truckloads of great music. While any Wet Willie album is a winner, Drippin' Wet!/Live is a winner twice over. First, there are just plain good songs on it; second, it's a well-crafted live recording. The recording was made at The Warehouse in New Orleans, in 1972, when Willie opened for The Allman Brothers Band's New Year's Eve spectacle. Jaimoe from The Allmans plays congas on "Red Hot Chicken;" Willie performs with sweat and vigor throughout the record. They always say, the wetter, the better, and this one is drenched.

11. Laid Back — Gregg Allman (Capricorn) Gregg's first solo album was as fine as any Allman Brothers record, with Allman kicking things off with the often-covered-by-Southern-bands "Will The Circle Be Unbroken." Features an alternate look at The Brothers' "Midnight Rider," plus cult favs "Multicolored Lady" and "Don't Mess Up a Good Thing."

12. Toy Caldwell (Cabin Fever) Marshall Tucker guitarist Toy Caldwell's 1992 solo debut comes complete with guest artists such as Charlie Daniels, Gregg Allman and Willie Nelson. Great songs, but we would expect no less from the man who penned the larger part of Tucker's catalog. "Midnight Promises" and "I Hear The South Calling Me" were both FM rock favorites, and still are. Red-hot thumb pickin' watermelon boogie.

13. Highway Call — Richard Betts (Capricorn) Brother Dickey's first solo outing was a country rocker's dream, with a lineup that included gospel singers, The Rambos, and a full deck of Nashville's finest. "Rain" is by far the standout.

14. Flirtin' With Disaster — Molly Hatchet (Epic) With its second album, Florida's Molly Hatchet dominated the Southern airwaves in 1979 with the title track. Danny Joe Brown, the working man's musical hero, sings his butt off, accompanied by some killer guitar work by Dave Hlubek.

15. Brothers And Sisters — The Allman Brothers Band (Capricorn) First, they lost Duane. Then, a year later, Berry Oakley passed away. Going into the studio was obvious therapy for the broken-hearted Allmans. Channeling their emotions, the band delivered an excellent record, containing hit single, "Ramblin' Man," and one of rock's all time favorite instrumentals, "Jessica." One of Southern rock's classic moments comes at the end of "Pony Boy," with some hand-boning fun.

16. Deguello — ZZ Top (Warner) Back before ZZ Top sold out to the MTV generation, they were quite the kick-ass little rock 'n' roll band. On this, their finest album, the band carries us through "I'm Bad, I'm Nationwide" and "Cheap Sunglasses,"as well as a host of other classic tunes, ending up the set with a brilliantly creative piece called "Manic Mechanic."

17. The Marshall Tucker Band (Capricorn) With fire in their eyes and a song in their heart's, Toy and Tommy Caldwell, Doug Gray, George McCorkle, Paul Riddle and Jerry Eubanks pumped out their debut album. Every song is a masterpiece, all written by Toy Caldwell. "Take the Highway," and "Can't You See" will forever be staples of classic rock radio, and "Ab's Song" is one of the sweetest little songs of all time.

18. Greatest Hits — Wet Willie (Capricorn) Wet Willie once again. Their biggest blockbuster, "Keep On Smilin" is here, along with a slew of gems like "Grits Ain't Groceries," and others that will make you want to "shout bamalam."

19. It's About Time — Marshall Chapman (Tall Girl) Recorded live at a women's prison, It's About Time showcases Marshall Chapman in all of her gutsy rock 'n' roll glory. A singer-songwriter from Spartanburg, South Carolina, Chapman now calls Nashville home. She rips through many of her best tunes, including "Betty's Bein' Bad," a self-penned song that became a smash chart-buster for Sawyer Brown. Chapman has the soul of a songwriter, and the spirit of Elvis himself.

20. Second Helping — Lynyrd Skynyrd (MCA) Follow-up to Skynyrd's debut release, includes their highest-charting hit, "Sweet Home Alabama." Unlike most albums where the Top 40 hit is the highlight, Second Helping is filled with other great tunes such as "Working for MCA," "Call Me the Breeze," "Don't Ask Me No Questions," and fan favorite, "Ballad of Curtis Loew."

21. Sea Level (Capricorn) Sea Level's debut album contains most of their best material, fusion-rock guitar, and keyboard-based instrumentals. Chuck Leavell (Allman Brothers, Rolling Stones, Eric Clapton, etc.) shines on his original music, while Jimmy Nalls plays perfectly complimentary guitar. Stand-out tunes include "Nothing Matters but the Fever," and "Shake a Leg."

22. Anytime, Anyplace, Anywhere — Rossington Collins Band (MCA) When Lynyrd Skynyrd's plane crashed in 1977 killing several band members, including singer Ronnie Van Zandt, it looked as though the group was finished. But in between then and now, with the "new" Skynyrd burning up the highway, there were several off-shoot bands. The most successful was this group, containing Gary Rossington, Allen Collins, Leon Wilkeson, Billy Powell and others, with Dale Krantz (who would later marry Gary Rossington) on lead vocals. On this debut, the hottest track is "Prime Time," although every track is quite good.

23. Champagne Jam — Atlanta Rhythm Section (MCA)

An impressive disc from the men who were studio musicians and backing pickers for Roy Orbison. Hits include, "I'm Not Gonna Let It Bother Me Tonight," "Imaginary Lover," and the title track.

24. Volunteer Jam — Various Artists (Capricorn) The Charlie Daniels Band burns white- hot on the first three numbers, before turning the show over to The Marshall Tucker Band for a blistering version of "The Thrill is Gone." The CDB backs Dickey Betts of The Allman Brothers Band on the J.J. Cale tune, "Sweet Mama." The stage fills for the finale, "Mountain Dew," with Betts, Mylon LeFevre, Jimmy Hall of Wet Willie, and Ronnie Stoneman on banjo. It's a down-home hoedown. This album serves as a landmark, the beginning of a Charlie Daniels' tradition (Volunteer Jam) that would continue on forward into the 21st century.

25. Second Set — The Allman Brothers Band (Epic) With Warren Haynes on guitar and Allen Woody on bass, The Allmans sounded the best they've sounded since the bygone days of Duane and Berry. This record, along with it's predecessor, An Evening With The Allman Brothers Band are a living documentation of the re-birth of the old Allman soul and spirit so evident in albums like Fillmore East. The band ends the set "In Memory Of Elizabeth Reed" on acoustic guitars. Music doesn't get much better than this.

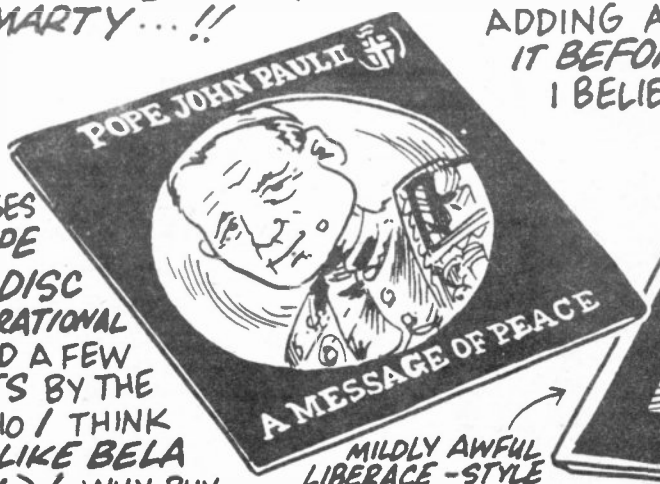
"WHAT WAS I THINK-ING?!" (PART ONE) EARTH TO MARTY... EARTH TO MARTY...!!

EVER FLIP THROUGH THOUSANDS OF LPS ONLY TO FIND THE SAME-OLE HUMDRUM STOCK?! OR MAYBE YOU OWN NEARLY EVERY LP EVER RECORDED AND CAN'T RESIST ADDING ANOTHER ONE JUST BECAUSE YOU'VE NEVER SEEN IT BEFORE ... I'M NOT SURE WHAT MY EXCUSE IS ... PERSONALLY I BELIEVE I'M COMPENSATING IN THIS UNHEALTHY WAY FOR SOME EMOTIONAL VOID IN MY LIFE! I GUESS IT REALLY DOESN'T MATTER - THEY'RE HERE AND I HAVE TO LIVE WITH MYSELF SO I MIGHT JUST AS WELL GET USED TO IT!!



NO SURPRISES HERE! POPE PICTURE DISC HAS INSPIRATIONAL MUSIC AND A FEW SPEECHES BY THE POPE (WHO I THINK SOUNDS LIKE BELA LUGOSI)! WHY BUY IT? SIMPLE. ONE DOLLAR PRICE TAG! (I'M NOT CATHOLIC; NOT POLISH!)

MILDLY AWFUL LIBERACE-STYLE PIANO INTERPRETATIONS OF FAMOUS SOUNDTRACK MUSIC! ALMOST SOUNDS LIKE JAZZ!

CHECK OUT THE LEISURE SUIT AND SIDEBURNS ON THIS GUY!! WHO WOULD'VE THOUGHT C&W MUSIC WOULD BE SO POPULAR BY 1976 THAT THIS GUY COULD GET A RECORD DEAL (WITH MCA, NO LESS)?!!

I GUESS I JUST HAD TO HEAR THIS ONE... I'D SEEN IT A FEW TIMES BUT WAITED FOR THE "MAGIC" BUCK PRICE! I ALWAYS WONDERED WHY ANYONE AT ANY TIME WOULD EVER BUY THIS NEW!! WORKS LIKE SLEEPING PILLS OR ALCOHOL WITH NO SIDE EFFECTS!!

AT 50¢, I OBVIOUSLY BOUGHT THIS ONE JUST FOR THE 'COVER! SILLY HONKY-TONK SONGS WRITTEN AND PERFORMED BY THE FAT GUY!! MY FAVORITE: "DISCO-TEX" FROM SIDE TWO!

REMEMBER WHEN MUSIC LIKE THIS WAS PLAYED AS BACK-GROUND FOR AN INTIMATE, ROMANTIC CANDLE-LIT DINNER? NEITHER DO I!! NICE, CLEAN AUDIO FIDELITY DISC COMPLETE WITH ORIGINAL TWO-COLOR PAMPHLET INSIDE THAT SHOWS A BUNCH OF LP COVERS - FROM BELLY-DANCING TO THE MIGHTY WURLITZER!

TOO BAD THIS ISN'T IN STEREO!!

I'M A SUCKER FOR UNKNOWN COMEDIAN RECORDINGS, AND BELIEVE IT OR NOT THIS ONE'S PRETTY FUNNY!! IT'S TUBBY'S WHOLE ACT LIVE FROM A MIAMI BEACH MOTEL!! HE SINGS AND TELLS PLENTY OF OFF-COLOR JOKES!! EXPLICIT LANGUAGE!! THE CLINCHER? IT'S AUTOGRAPHED!!!

DIGGING UP MORE OF THE PAST'S GOOD STUFF

by Jo-Ann Greene

One of the most eagerly anticipated punk reissue campaigns of recent months has finally come to pass with the simultaneous release of three remastered and bonus packed albums by the seminal Chelsea, plus a fourth package rounding up all the band's best 45s (all on Captain Oi!, U.K.).

Formed 1976 by vocalist Gene October, plus Billy Idol, Tony James and John Towe, the original line-up lasted a matter of months before October's bandmates went off to form their own group, Generation X. October promptly recruited a new line-up, and over the years since then, he has consistently revived/resuscitated Chelsea around a revolving door's worth of young musicians.

Of all Chelsea's manifold line-ups, however, the most fondly remembered remains that which cut the band's first two albums. With future Gene Loves Jezebel guitarist James Stevenson on scorching guitar, second guitarist Dave Martin, bassist Geoff Myles and drummer Chris Bashford, Chelsea were one of the hottest live bands around, as they proved on their first U.S. tour, in 1979. At a time when many Americans' conception of punk rock still revolved around the vitriol of the Sex Pistols and the vaudeville of The Damned, Chelsea proved that it was possible to be musical, melodic and relevant, all at the same time. They were phenomenal.

Chelsea, from 1979, and the majority of Alternative Hits (1980) are the legacy of this line-up, the first a bona fide LP, the second, a collection of recent singles and b-sides, compiled together just as this particular line-up of the group disintegrated. Reactivated by guitarist Stevenson and released through the ever-enterprising Captain Oi! punk specialist label, the two still sound amazing — all the more so since Stevenson unearthed four early demos to round out Alternative Hits (b-sides complete Chelsea).

Shaken by the latest wave of departures, October bounced back in early 1981, with yet another new-look Chelsea. Over the next 18 months, he released the album, Evacuate, and the string of singles which make up the third of these re-releases — indeed, eight bonus tracks, all taken from Chelsea's 45 repertoire, make this the weightiest of the three discs, although it still pales in comparison with the fourth. The Punk Singles Collection draws all Chelsea's singles and b-sides together, a staggering 23 tracks of undiluted passion, and one of the best compilations of its sort that you're going to find.

It seems incredible, but the T.Rex reissues keep a coming, as the British wing of A&M finally gets around to unleashing all four original Tyrannosaurus Rex albums (My People Were Fair..., Prophets, Seers And Sages..., Unicorn and Beard Of Stars), the transitional T.Rex album and the blockbusting Electric Warrior, plus the compilations Bolan Boogie and The Best Of T.Rex, a BBC sessions collection, Across The Airwaves, and a demo and rarities-heavy anthology, Words And Music.

No word on whether the music has been re-mastered — one suspects, from the absence of any sleeve notation, that it hasn't. Neither does anybody seem to have lost any sleep over the packaging, which is utilitarian to say the least. But close to a decade after the original CD reissues of these albums vanished off the shelves, it's great to see them back again. Even if it does mean that the conscientious Bolan collector will probably need to buy a new house just to keep all the CDs in.

Procol Harum fans have also had their work cut out for them in recent years. It cannot be easy, after all, keeping up with a stream of bonus track-packed reissues, most of which seem to simply recycle the band's first four albums, before wading into an ever growing pile of newly discovered out-takes and the like.

The latest addition to this veritable plethora is a remastered version of Shine On Brightly (Westside). Procol Harum's second album is presented with both its familiar U.S. cover, and the surreal cartoon which Procol Harum's then-label, A&M, apparently pronounced too offensive for use. But that's only the icing on the cake; the original album comes with eight out-takes, alternates and rarities appended, amongst them an Italian language version of "Shine On Brightly." While it cannot be said that Gary Brooker's command of the language would seem to give him a headstart over any other Anglo rocker commissioned to make similar concessions to the Italian market (David Bowie, Cliff Richard and Mary Hopkin amongst them), still it's an attractive curio.

The trio's hard rock pedigree is amply reflected in their music, with Long Road (Angel Air) filled with the kind of modern prog frills, thrills and riffs which one would expect, while the album's pterodactyl-infested artwork offers continuity with the original Quatermass.

Another band whose catalog and environs are coming in for their fair share of attention is Deep Purple, although unlike so many albums which stretch the "friends and relations" tag to the breaking point, the debut offering from Quatermass 2 is arguably the closest you can get to the real McCoy. The band was formed by original Purple bassist Nick Simper, together with former Gillan drummer Mick Underwood (a member of the original Quatermass in the early 1970s) and Rainbow keyboardist Don Airey. The trio's hard rock pedigree is amply reflected in their music, with Long Road (Angel Air) filled with the kind of modern prog frills, thrills and riffs which one would expect, while the album's pterodactyl-infested artwork offers continuity with the original Quatermass. Their sole album, incidentally, is currently available through Repertoire (Germany).

Angel Air has also revived the first solo album by former Bad Company/Mott The Hoople guitarist Mick Ralphs' 1984's Take This. Strangely overlooked at the time of release, the set was an excellent collection of solid rock, boasting some of Ralphs' best guitar work in years, and some great songs as well. This package, however, goes way beyond the call of duty by serving up what amounts to an alternate version of the album, as ten bonus tracks unearth alternate takes, working mixes and a couple of out-takes, while the liner notes document not only the creation of Take This but also the rest of Ralph's career. An excellent package.

Sensational Alex Harvey Band fans — beware. The Gospel According To Harvey (New Millennium) is a two-CD set purportedly serving up three crucial Harvey concerts, from 1972, 1973 and 1977. And maybe it does, but not necessarily in a way you're going to like. Disc one, five songs each from the 1972-73 shows, is simply a reissue of the 1991 BBC Radio 1 Live In Concert album (Windsong) — great news if you missed it the first time around, but not so hot if you've been starving for fresh SAHB ever since. Especially when disc two, capturing SAHB's 1977 Reading Festival performance, is quite possibly the single worst sounding official live album ever.

Famously, the Velvet Underground's Live At Max's album was recorded on a small portable cassette recorder, laying on a table in the club. Gospel was also recorded on a small portable cassette recorder. The difference is, its owner was apparently standing in a field with it, a few hundred yards from the stage and completely submerged within a sea of extraordinarily lusty-lunged young men. They sing, they hurrah, they shout and laugh — the band is a tinny blurge in the background. The whole thing screams "rip off" so loudly that it's a shame New Millennium didn't write it on the sleeve. At least that way, people would know what kind of blatant rubbish they were being sold before they got it home.

What makes this particular disc even more hateful is the fact that New Millennium has hitherto made it's name on genuinely classy releases — the Ronnie Lane catalog, sundry early Marc Bolan/T.Rex, Budgie and so forth. The Gospel According To Harvey, however, would shame the most unscrupulous tape trader. You have been warned.

But talking of Ronnie Lane, Tin And Tambourine, the third installment in New Millennium's ongoing reissue catalog, has just arrived, and it's a major treat. Compiled primarily from demos and out-takes (plus three more live cuts from the London show which provided Kuschty Rye's bonus tracks), it offers up further evidence of Lane's songwriting abilities, shot through with the ever-deepening suspicion that Lane was the closest England ever came to creating a genuine answer to country and western — not just an English performer who could play country, but one who actually formulated and realized a distinct new genre from within the same framework.

Further exhumations from the Lane vault are promised, beginning with a four-CD boxed set within the next few months. Only one disc's worth of new material seems to be on the cards, the remainder of the box simply repackaging the existing Lane titles. But if the quality remains this high, it should still be well worth hearing.

Finally this month, word on the long-awaited new (third) album by one of the best bands in Britain, Gene. Scheduled for release worldwide, import specialists are currently being offered the Japanese release, which promises two tracks more than either the British or American versions. Both tracks will, no doubt, at least appear on U.K. single at some point, but if anybody wants to get in ahead of the rest of the pack... now you can.

Best of the rest

ABC: Lexicon Of Love, How To Be A Zillionaire, Alphabet City (Mercury, U.K.) Between 1981 and 1987, Martin Fry's ABC released some of the most shimmering showbiz pop ever made. Here it all is.

Ian Dury and the Blockheads: New Boots And Panties (Hit, U.K.) Five bonus tracks round out the reactivation of one of punk's most crucial releases.

Hank Marvin & The Shadows: Very Best Of The First 40 Years (EMI, U.K.) Which presumably means there's another 40 to come?

Massive Attack: The Singles Box (Virgin, U.K.) Eleven disc collection rounding up all the trip-hop trio's CD singles to date. Lots of remixes.

Sex Pistols: Never Mind The Bollocks — 21st Anniversary Edition (Virgin, U.K.) Newly remastered from the analogue source tapes. But will it sound any better than a scratchy original vinyl copy?

Thin Lizzy: Whisky In The Jar (Spectrum, U.K.) Compilation of the Irish rockers' early (Decca/London) years.

Various artists: The Voice Of The People (Topic, U.K.): 480 tracks spread across twenty discs (all available separately) rounding up the history of British folk from the days before pop stars started electrifying everything. Think of a U.K. answer to the Smithsonian anthology of American Folk Music, triple it in size, and there you go.

ELVIS' SUNS ARE RISING... AND RISING...

by Tim Neely

When it comes to the first five Elvis Presley records, evidently the sky's the limit. This past October, a pristine copy of the King's first 45, "That's All Right" backed with "Blue Moon of Kentucky" on Sun 211 sold for an incredible $17,820 in a Good Rockin' Tonight auction.

"We were as surprised as everybody else," Gordon Wrubel, president of GRT, said after the dust had settled a bit. "Two guys got hooked up on it, and neither one wanted to back out. The buyer was knowledgeable; he knew what he was bidding on."

By far, this is the most ever paid for an Elvis record; it's also the highest known price for any commercially released 45 rpm record. And while it's definitely too early to tell whether this price is a one-shot deal or a trend, what it does reflect is the upward spiral in value of Elvis' five Sun records. It's been going on throughout the 1990s, and shows no signs of abating.

It's not only Sun 209 that has been going up. Nor is it an isolated phenomenon to the Good Rockin' Tonight auctions: "We have to keep on raising our buy prices to get those records," Wrubel said.

What are Elvis' Suns, anyway?

The first 10 songs released by Elvis Presley were on the Sun label out of Memphis, and were recorded and released in 1954 and 1955:

Sun 209 – "That's All Right"/ "Blue Moon Of Kentucky"
Sun 210 – "Good Rockin' Tonight"/ "I Don't Care If The Sun Don't Shine"
Sun 215 – "Milkcow Blues Boogie"/ "You're a Heart breaker"
Sun 223 – "Mystery Train"/ "I Forgot To Remember To Forget"

These 10 sides, quite simply, remain among the most exciting records ever released. While Elvis certainly made great records recording for RCA Victor, the sheer power of these records still stands out after 45 years. They are the not-so-missing link between rhythm & blues, country and pop, the last bridge to the past before rock 'n' roll became a worldwide phenomenon.

By the time the last of these was released, Elvis was breaking out nationally. "Baby Let's Play House" peaked at #5 on the Billboard country charts, based entirely on sales and airplay while on Sun. "I Forgot To Remember To Forget" first charted while on Sun, but spent five weeks at #1 on the Billboard country charts after its re-release on RCA Victor 20/47-6357 ("20" was the prefix on 78s, 47 on 45s).

Compared to most of the records that garner big sums when sold, Elvis' Sun records are actually common. Surviving copies of each of them probably number in the thousands. A good analogy from another field — baseball cards — is early Mickey Mantle cards. Compared to many equally valuable baseball cards, Mantle's "rookie card" is common. But it's rare in top condition, and a lot of people want it, thus the high prices paid for it. The same is true of Elvis' Sun singles: The number that survive in so-called "collectible condition" (Very Good Plus or better) is relatively few, and a lot of collectors want them. Thus the prices rise.

With Elvis Suns, this is not a new phenomenon. Throughout the 1990s, the value for those elusive copies in Near Mint condition has risen steadily. Using Goldmine price guides as a reference, here's the range for Sun 209 on 45:

1992: $1,000
1994: $1,400
1996: $2,000
1999: $4,000

(The 1999 figure is the one that will appear in the next edition of the Goldmine Price Guide To 45 RPM Records, scheduled for release this spring.)

It's really only in the past several years, though, that the phenomenon has spread to the more "common" Sun 223. Its recent increase has been stunning:

1992: $350
1994: $500
1999: $2,000

We've mostly talked about the 45 rpm versions of the Sun singles. Even on 78s, Elvis Suns in top-notch condition have cracked (pardon the pun) the $1,000 mark for any of the five. Roughly speaking, an Elvis Sun 78 is worth about half of the same pairing on a Sun 45.

Of course, these prices assume that the record is in near-mint condition, and there aren't many of them out there. Even so, copies of the five Suns in well-worn condition regularly fetch figures in the low hundreds. As I write this, an average-condition copy of "Baby Let's Play House" was bid up to more than $500 on one of the online auction sites, with five days to go before the sale closes!

By far, this is the most ever paid for an Elvis record; it's also the highest known price for any commercially released 45 rpm record.

Now, the bad news: counterfeits

Naturally, with such high prices for well-known records, counterfeits abound. Too many new collectors are easily fooled by counterfeits, because some of that fake wax has been in collections for 25 years or more by now! Fortunately, most of them are pretty easy to identify.

All of the following are counterfeit Elvis Suns:

✔ Colored vinyl versions, on 45 or 78.

✔ Any picture sleeve. No Elvis Sun record ever came with a picture sleeve, and neither did the RCA Victor reissues of the Sun titles.

✔ Any extended-play single. Sun did not release any EPs until a couple years after it no longer had the rights to release any Elvis recordings.

There are also some black-vinyl pressings that are counterfeits. Some of these have the year "Issued 1973" scrawled in the dead wax. Others have "Reissue" or "RE" in the dead wax. None of these is legitimate in any way!

And while not every legitimate Elvis Sun has this characteristic, one way to guarantee you have an original is to look for three "push marks" in a triangular shape visible under the label. These are small indents that were a by-product of one of the pressing plants where the originals were made.

Finally, there's intuition: If it "looks" too new, it probably is. It doesn't hurt to talk to someone reputable before buying or selling an Elvis Sun record.

Billboard*'s Brave New World

The first four weeks of Billboard's Hot 100 chart with "non-singles" eligible to chart have been interesting, to say the least.

The most notable change is all the country songs. Unless they cross over to some degree, such as "From This Moment On" by Shania Twain, they won't climb very high ont the charts, but many titles are making the Top 40. The newfangled Billboard charts have given Garth Brooks his first-ever Hot 100 entry — "It's Your Song," which peaked at #62 in the December 5 issue.

Courtesy of Good Rockin' Tonight

So far, no airplay-only song has peaked higher than #9. One of those, "Have You Ever?" by Brandy, is scheduled to be released on a 45 just after the first of the year. The other one, "Iris" by Goo Goo Dolls, is unlikely ever to see a 45 release in America, though stranger things have happened.

Now that record companies can't play the no-single game with the charts anymore, one of two things is likely to happen: More singles, or the eventual end of the single as we know it In the short term, the former is more likely as artists would like to see that extra "push" toward a possible #1 song. One thing I've definitely noticed in the short term is more pop 45s, and we'll talk about that next.

What's new

You thought the last column had a long list of new vinyl albums? Well, here's more that crossed our paths after that article went to press.

Marilyn Manson's Mechanical Animals was finally released on vinyl just before Thanksgiving. It has an unusual package – two records in two different sleeves, as opposed to a gatefold cover. It also includes some remixes and things to make it essential for Manson fans with a turntable.

Perhaps out by the time you read this is Whitney Houston's first non-movie album in almost a decade, My Love Is Your Love. Beck's Mutations is indeed scheduled for vinyl release on Bong Load Records; it's been delayed twice, with December 22nd the most recent date I've been given, so it may finally be out by the time you read this. Also delayed on vinyl was Metallica's Garage Inc.; it's still supposed to be out and may be again by the time you read this. According to at least one of my regular vinyl sources, the few U.S. pressing plants still used for records were running at absolute capacity in October and November, and isn't that a nice thing to hear?

And how about some unreleased Sinatra on vinyl to start the new year? DCC has made an agreement with the Frank Sinatra estate to release previously unheard recordings on a new label called Artanis. The first two, scheduled for release in January, are '57 In Concert and The Rat Pack: The Summit. Both will be on two-LP audiophile pressings.

Also, Classic Records is releasing an audiophile LP version of Buena Vista Social Club, the album of Ry Cooder with some of the greatest Cuban musicians who had never been heard outside their native land. This album was on some critics' best-of lists for 1997 and won a Grammy last winter.

Oh yes. Those 45s. On my desk as I write are "Lullaby" (also known as "Rockabye") by Shawn Mullins, a current top 10 single, is on a Columbia 7-inch, as is The Offspring's "Pretty Fly (For a White Guy)." A must for Tori Amos collectors is "Cruel" (Shady Feline Mix) backed with "Raspberry Swirl" (Lip Gloss Version), new mixes not on any album. Cher's "Believe," a No. 1 hit in the UK, is on an American 45. So is the current US chart-topper, R. Kelly and Celine Dion's "I'm Your Angel." And finally, Mark Chesnutt wraps his vocal cords around Aerosmith's recent chart-topper, "I Don't Want To Miss A Thing," on a new 45.

Martin Willis

Sun Records' sax man

by Hank Davis

Sun Records — the birthplace of rockabilly and launching pad for country superstars such as Johnny Cash and Jerry Lee Lewis — might seem an odd place to find a honking sax man. Yet, that is precisely where Martin Willis recorded his most famous and collectable work. Often overlooked in Sun's endless parade of stinging guitars, slapping basses and pounding pianos are a surprising number of solid sax breaks. More often than not, those growls and honks came from the horn of Martin Willis. And when he wasn't leaving his imprint on the Sun tape archives, Willis was across town at Hi Records, playing on some of the biggest hits by the Bill Black Combo.

Who was Martin Willis and how did he come to play on hundreds of Memphis recordings including classic Sun sides by Jerry Lee Lewis, Billy Riley and Charlie Rich, as well as recordings by Sun's lesser lights such as Vernon Taylor, Ernie Barton, Johnny Powers and Mack Self?

Martin Willis: I was born in Memphis in 1938. In high school, I started playing in nightclubs. No one questioned my age. I was playing a gig in Arkansas one night when Harold Jenkins (soon to be known as Conway Twitty) hired me to play sax with his band. About a year later, I graduated from Memphis Tech High School at the same time as (drummer) J. M. Van Eaton. In the late '50s, J.M. was playing drums with Billy Riley's group and I was still working with Conway Twitty's band. I went to Canada with Twitty's group in 1957. Right now, as I'm talking to you, I'm looking at some clippings I have here. One of them says "In Person: Harold Jenkins & the Rockhousers." On the very next page, it says "In Person: Conway Twitty and the Rockhousers." He must have changed his name right around this time. He was Jenkins in Arkansas but by the time we got to Canada, he had become Conway Twitty.

Goldmine: Isn't there some kind of connection between Twitty and Roy Orbison at this point? I know Roy's second single for Sun is Twitty's song "Rockhouse" (Sun 251).

When I was playing with Twitty, he was always performing a song he had written called "Rockhouse." It was a major part of his act, and his group was named after it. The next thing we knew, Roy's version of the tune was playing on the radio. I think the lyrics were slightly different, but it was still the same song. I recall that Conway was pretty upset, and he called Roy. They straightened things out and made some kind of settlement. I don't know if Conway ever intended to record the tune himself, but he didn't after Roy's record came out.

Roy's record wasn't much of a hit. He may have saved Conway some grief. Do you remember who was in Twitty's group back then?

Wow. Let's see. The guitar player was Jimmy Ray Paulman. The bass player was Jimmy Evans. The drummer was just a kid. In fact, he was still in high school, so he was too young to go to Canada with us. His name was Billy Weir.

Beatles Book of the Year

Goldmine Magazine

The Reviews Are In... Fabulous!

Deluxe FULL COLOR Hardbound edition with over 240 pages and 500 Full Color Illustrations of album covers, picture sleeves, record labels, trade journal ads, Vee-Jay corporate documents and lots of other cool stuff never before seen in print.

"The Beatles Records on Vee-Jay is a landmark book that will easily rate as a 'must have' addition to the library of any serious Beatles collector or music historian. Even casual fans of the group will no doubt find this book to be extremely entertaining, enjoyable and enlightening." (Goldmine, Issue 479, Dec. 4, 1998)

"... a stunning and masterful work – one of the most useful and informative books about The Beatles ever published. Lavishly appointed and extremely detailed, the book is an enormously satisfying volume of tremendous historical importance documenting this extremely complicated and often misunderstood chapter in the history of The Beatles in America. This is one book that is certainly of significant interest to every Beatlefan concerned – a souvenir of their appearances on Vee-Jay that is well worth the price of admission." (Beatlefan, Issue #112, May-June 1998)

"This photo-rich, exhaustively researched book offers the reader a comprehensive look at the Beatles' first releases in the U.S. It's a must-have for any serious Beatles fan or collector." (Billboard, May 16, '98)

"Wow! Bruce Spizer, a lawyer and CPA from New Orleans, has come up with an early candidate for Beatles book of the year. From the color photo reproductions to the fantastic layout, this is without a doubt the best presented Beatles book ever produced. It's so damned good, I wish I had written it." (The 910 Newsletter, Vol. 6, No. 6, May/June 1998)

Is that how Van Eaton got into the act?

Right. Conway had to call back down home and got J.M. to come up north and fill in. J.M. had just graduated from high school, so compared to Weir, he was an old man. When J.M. decided to come, Riley followed him up to Canada. We were playing these lounges in Hamilton and London, Ontario. One day, Riley and J.M. asked me if I'd like to join them. I felt real comfortable with that. I knew the material they were doing. It was a little different from what I was doing with Twitty, but I liked the idea just fine. So I left the Twitty band in '57 to go with Billy Riley.

Things sort of balanced out later, didn't they?

Yes. When Twitty got back to Arkansas, he raided Sonny Burgess's band, the Pacers. That's how he put his new group together. Nobody was safe in those days.

How did playing with Riley's group in Canada lead you to Sun Records?

When we came back to Memphis in '58, the Riley group basically became the nucleus of the Sun house band. We were in the studio all the time and recorded behind just about everybody.

What was a typical session like at Sun?

Just recently, a guy sent me a videotape he had transferred from one of those old 8 mm films. The film shows me and the Sun house band coming out of Taylor's Cafe next door and filing back into the studio to go back to work. There we all are. Riley, Roland (guitarist Roland Janes), J.M. and me — skinny as a weed. A lot of those sessions were all-day things. You'd start in the morning and come out in the dark. There was no multi-track equipment and often there was no arrangement. It all had to be done in the studio and it had to be done right. Over and over. Sometimes my chops gave out. I couldn't play anymore. Guitar players can go a lot longer than saxmen.

Although he never really had a major hit, Bill Riley made some fine records at Sun. He was more than just a sideman.

That's right. He did a lot of recording under his own name. Bill was quite amusing. I remember one time he went into the rest room in the engineer booth at 706 Union to get an echo effect. He even flushed the toilet to get a laugh from all of us.

I want to use this chance to tell you that your sax solos on Riley's "One More Time" (Sun 322) and "Wouldn't You Know" (Sun 289) are both superb. So melodic. That's a lot more than just basic honking sax.

Well, I always tried to be adaptable — to keep the flavor of the tune and play in different styles when it was necessary. A lot of what I played at Sun was a long way from the formal music background I had in symphony and jazz.

You and Riley seemed to be on the same wavelength.

We'd known each other for years. We'd spent hundreds, maybe thousands of hours playing together.

Riley is one of those artists who unquestionably did his best work for Sun. Were you with him when he became disenchanted with Sun around 1958 and went to Nashville to record that one single for Brunswick?

Yes. I played on "Rockin To The Moon" and "Mr. Hall." We recorded that at Owen Bradley's studio and it was supposed to bring us to individuality in the business. I did get to experience Owen's trick speed recording by boosting my solo up two octaves to sound like an alien's horn.

Most studio men I've talked to have trouble remembering the details.

I'm no different. A lot of what we did at Sun is just a blur now. It seems we were working night and day. We did a lot of "rehearsal sessions." We never knew if the tape was rolling or not. It turns out from what has been released by guys like you, that the tape was rolling a lot more than we realized!

Was that reflected in the paycheck?

(Laughs) Because they were considered rehearsals we didn't get paid what we might have. But we were all young, barely out of high school. We were playing with our friends and just learning the business. It's hard to have regrets about times like those.

Sax solos weren't exactly the mainstream at Sun Records when you started.

That's right. (Label owner) Sam Phillips kind of tolerated me. By 1959 and '60, though, the sound was really changing.

It sounds like you had done a fair bit of listening to King Curtis.

Oh yes! I was a big King Curtis fan and you can hear that in a lot of what I recorded at Sun.

Because you were a schooled musician, I assume you were in demand by more places than Sun.

That's right. In some ways, I was like Charlie Rich in the studio. I could play in a lot of styles. I could also play flute, clarinet and the saxes so I got quite a bit of session work. I went up to Chicago for a while around '59 to do some work for RCA. Then I went to Nashville. I was part of the original Nashville 7.

That's the famous studio group?

Right. We had myself, Chet Atkins, Grady Martin, Floyd Cramer, Bob Moore, Danny Day and I think Owen Bradley's brother also worked the sessions.

Where did Boots Randolph fit into that?

Boots replaced me when I left. They brought him in from Indiana. That was about 1962 or '63. I was living out of a suitcase for a while, traveling between Memphis, Chicago and Nashville to do sessions.

What was it like, playing with all those guitar players?

One of the reasons I got along so well in both Memphis and Nashville was that I could play in guitar keys — E, A and G. It was very natural for me. They loved me for that.

I'm sure. There's nothing sadder than telling a rockabilly musician he's got to play in Bb.

That's the truth!

Is tenor your natural instrument?

No. I'm really an alto player. I used the tenor because that was the rock 'n' roll sound people were used to.

You had a record on Dot around '59, didn't you?

Yes. Billy Riley and Roland Janes produced my first solo recording, "San Antonio Rock."

I guess your most famous non-Sun work was with the Bill Black Combo.

That's right. I was playing around Memphis with Scotty (Moore) and Bill at the time. We were just doing one-nighters at that point. Scotty and Bill had departed from Elvis, and we were just all trying to make a buck. We all had day jobs. Scotty was working in the studio for Sam Phillips, and Bill worked at Ace Appliances during the day. We were doing whatever studio work we could get. So the three of us played around town a bit. We also had a drummer and piano player. I think J.M. played with us and, as I recall, Smoochie Smith played piano. We were like a fraternity.

What kind of material were you playing?

Whatever was on the Top 40. Whatever was getting played by (Memphis DJs) George Klein or Wink Martindale. Sometimes we also did stuff we had recorded for Sun or labels we were involved with like Hi or Fernwood.

SERVING COLLECTORS WORLDWIDE SINCE 1980

World Radio History

This was obviously before "Smokie" became a hit.

Yeah. It's a little hard to recall the timeline. At some point in all of this, "Smokie" was recorded and started to sell. When it really became big, Bill had to direct his attention to the Combo.

Which Bill Black records did you play on?

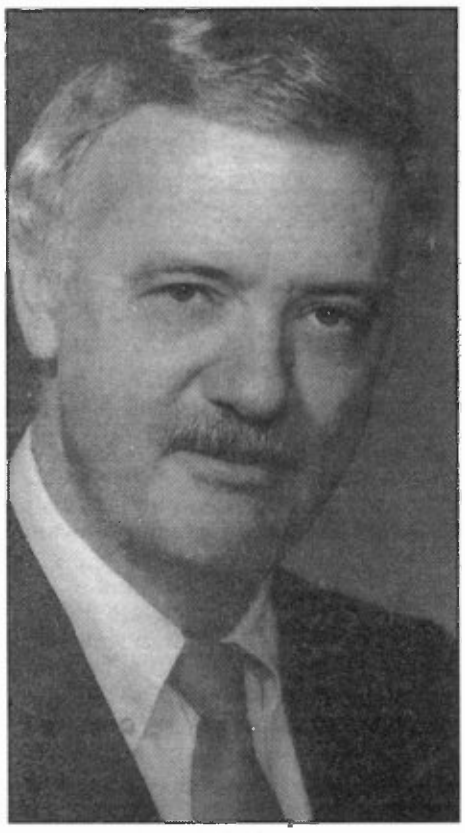
Bill hired me to play clarinet on "Smokie — Part I" and tenor sax on "Smokie — Part II." I also played sax on singles like "White Silver Sands," "Twister," "Josephine," "Yogi," "Hot Taco." I also played sax on a western album (Bill Black Goes West).

Didn't that also feature steel player John Hughey?

Yes. I knew John from the old days when he was with Conway Twitty's band. He spent many years with Twitty — it was one of the best moves Conway ever made. John and I also played together in nightclubs. I can tell you without a doubt that John Hughey is one of the finest musicians I ever played with or saw. Just amazing. When we'd get together we used to play five-part harmonies. John would play four of the parts. He and Brad Suggs used to play together in the Slim Rhodes band. They were so tight. Those guys could think in harmony. I would rank John above any steel player I ever saw in Nashville. I think he and Charlie Rich are the two finest musicians I ever knew.

Did you tour with the Bill Black Combo?

Not originally. Ace Cannon went on the road with "Smokie." In fact, there's a video in the Memphis Music Hall of Fame showing the Bill Black Combo playing "Smokie." They used the original soundtrack with me playing, but the tape shows Ace Cannon on stage. Ace and the group were on the road but I stayed back in Memphis so I could continue to do studio work. There were some good studios in town then — Sun, Hi, Stax, Pepper — and I worked at all of them. Anything to make a dollar back then.



Willis today.

That arrangement changed, though, didn't it?

Yes. In 1961, the Bill Black Combo was voted #1 Instrumental Group and I joined them to tour the U.S. and Canada. That lasted until around 1963. By then we were pretty much sick of traveling and we came home to Memphis.

Did you continue to record with the group?

Yes. We recorded together at Hi, and Bill would send out various road groups under the name "The Bill Black Combo" to promote the singles we were cutting back home. The personnel was changing all the time.

I seem to recall that Carl McVoy, Jerry Lee's cousin, was on those first records. Did he go on the road with you?

No. Carl did play piano and organ on the first few dates, but he never did tour with us. On the road we used a very talented young man from Mississippi named Bobby Emmons. It was a ball traveling with Bill (bass), Hank Hankins (guitar), Bobby Emmons (piano) and Jerry Arnold (drums).

Wasn't Reggie Young part of the group at some point?

Yes. He did studio work with us on guitar. He wasn't part of the road group when I toured, though.

Do you recall how that distinctive Bill Black sound was created?

There was really nothing fancy going on. We played very simple, effective lyric melodies. One of the guitarists hit the strings with a pencil instead of his pick. That was the key. It produced that percussive sound people remember. Our sound was really quite simple. That's why it has endured — beginning musicians can imitate our recordings.

What about the selection of material? A lot of those original hits were covers of other people's songs.

That's right. Songs like "White Silver Sands" or "Josephine." There were others too. "Buttermilk Sky" and "Green Door." Either Bill, himself or (Hi record label owner) Joe Coughi liked or remembered those songs. The idea was always to keep it simple. Simple melodies. Simple backgrounds. We made sure our sound was very copyable.

Isn't there a movie somewhere in this tale?

Yes. The band was featured in the film Teenage Millionaire. It didn't win an Academy Award.

Billboard magazine ad.

It sounds like you and Bill had a good relationship.

We did. We really enjoyed working together, and I was his roommate on the road. We got along well. In 1963, Bill opened his own studio and record company, Julie Records, and recorded my second single. It was a clarinet solo with a vocal group backup. The title was "It Is No Secret."

Considering Bill's history, being on the road with Elvis during those early years, you probably heard your share of stories.

You can imagine! Add to that the fact that I roomed with Twitty and Roy Orbison at various times also.

Sad to think all those guys are gone now.

Sad indeed. I'm pleased that I was able to maintain contact with most of them. For example, Twitty flew me in to play sax on his album R&B '63. I played the solo on "Big Boss Man," a tune we used to do at Charlie Rich gigs all the time.

You, on the other hand, seem to be very much alive.

Yes, although a lot of the people I used to work with didn't think I was. They were sure I was dead. I went to the Memphis Music Hall of Fame recently and Willi Pittman, the Director, was amazed to see me. He must have told a few people. Then when you first interviewed me, I think you mentioned something about me to Roland Janes, and he called me. Said, "I can't believe I'm talking to you!" A few days later, Ace Cannon called. Ace was three years ahead of me in high school. He greeted me with "I can't believe you're alive!"

Maybe one of the reasons you're doing so well is that you've really been out of the music business for a lot of years now. What kind of work do you do today?

Sometime around 1965, the year Bill Black died, I was playing with a band at a club called Top of the 100 in Memphis. Kemmons Wilson, the founder of Holiday Inns, danced by the stand and said to me "I'd like to hire you. Come by and see me on Monday." Nobody said no to Mr. Wilson in those days, so I came by his office. He told me he knew about my work — I was involved not only in playing, but also in

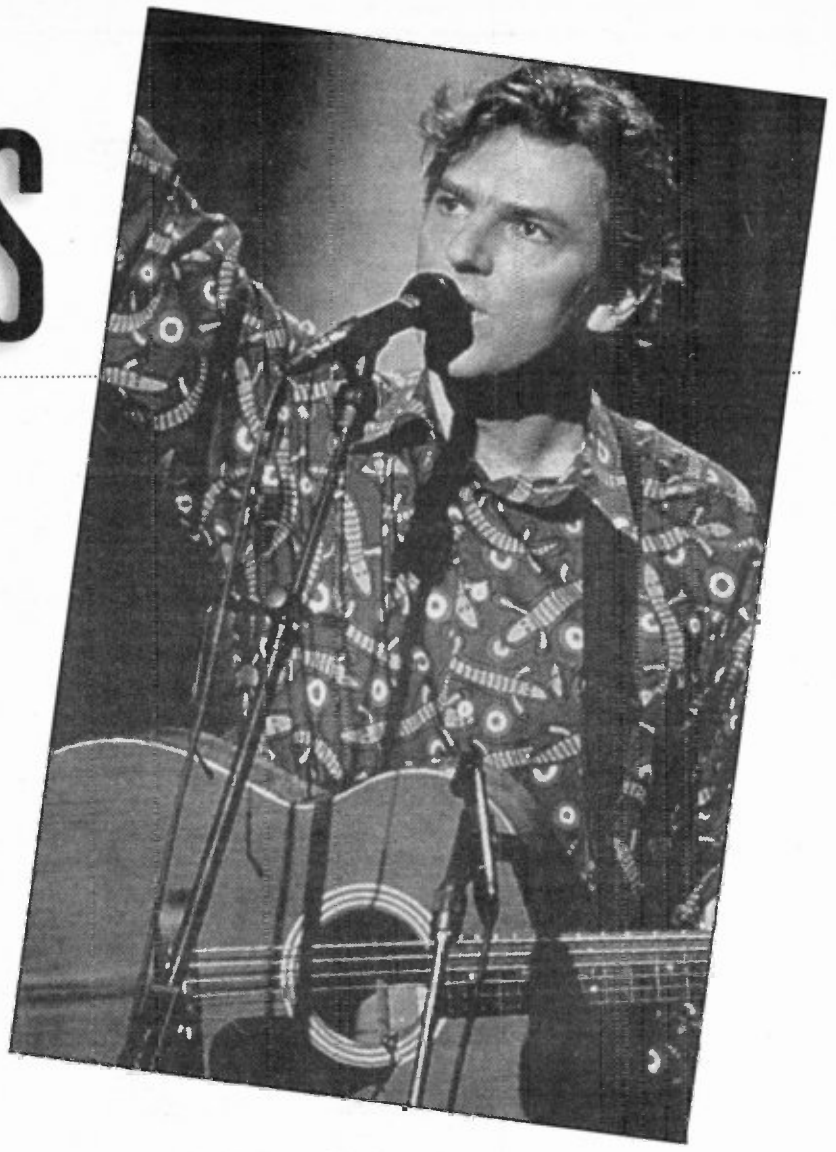
New Releases



Robyn Hitchcock

ROBYN HITCHCOCK
Storefront Hitchcock
Warner Bros. (9 46846-2)

This new offering from Robyn Hitchcock is actually the soundtrack to the film of the same title directed by Jonathan Demme (which was to premiere November 18th as of this writing). Filmed and recorded over two days and four shows in an abandoned warehouse with a small audience in attendance, this 64-minute disc contains 12 tunes, some old, some new. In between the music is the usual Hitchcock banter, though there's no ultra-long surreal ramblings. "This is Storefront Hitchcock, CD version. Hi, is my hair alright?" opens the set as he segues into "1974," an acoustic tune with references to David Crosby, Syd Barrett, Billy Idol and "a bloke with no hands." It's very funny with a pinch of melancholia. On "Freeze" (from Queen Elvis) he switches to a grinding electric guitar. On all but four tunes he plays solo, like so many of his recent concerts, and he's got it down to perfection since disbanding the Egyptians (at least for now).

Perhaps the most interesting undertaking here is his cover of Hendrix's "The Wind Cries Mary," with Hitchcock on acoustic guitar and harmonica (on which he plays a solo). Not to say this compares to the original, but he certainly reinvents the thing.

A limited-edition double-vinyl version is also available. There's a few songs on the vinyl album not on the CD and the spoken word introductions are all different. Just call it marketing to chasedown a few extra sales from the "Cult of Hitchcock." I can't wait to see the flick.

JAMES McMURTRY
Walk Between the Raindrops
Sugar Hill (1060)

One of the finest modern day troubadours recording today, James McMurtry, has been compared to fellow songwriters John Prine and Bob Dylan on more than one occasion — and with good reason. Just one listen to the collection of story-songs on his latest Sugar Hill release evokes visions of John Prine's early works.

Take, for example, "Fast as I Can," one of the many lyrical high points of the album: "She lost her mind and never missed it/Folks all said she'd never learn/She'd take the path of least resistance/Right to the point of no return."

Masterful storytelling reigns in songs like "Tired of Walking," "I Only Want to Talk to You," and "Walk Between the Rain Drops."

"Stay alive inside, Don't be a stranger/Keep a line open to the folks back home/Don't run and hide when everything changes/Walk between the rain drops dry as a bone."

The album contains 11 new McMurtry tracks, as well as an excellent cover of Townes Van Zandt's classic "Rex's Blues." The songs run the full scope from laid-back acoustic, to full tilt rock 'n' roll, as in "Racing to the Red Light," which could have easily been written by Bruce Springsteen.

Electric folk, country rock — whatever you want to classify it as — James McMurtry proves once again that he possesses an inexhaustible bag of lyrical vignettes and folk narratives that bring smiles enough to carry him and us well into the next millennium.

CYNDI LAUPER
Merry Christmas... Have A Nice Life!
Epic (EK 69611)

Upon hearing the opening number, "Home On Christmas Day," one wonders why Madonna became a huge megastar and peer Cyndi Lauper sunk like a stone after her second album. Boy, can this girl sing! This Christmas offering of 11 tunes (both covers and originals) is one of the better yuletide releases this year.

Though eclectic, Merry Christmas... Have A Nice Life! holds together nicely. Classics like "Silent Night" (done traditionally as an extra-slow ballad) and classic pop tune "Rocking Around The Christmas Tree" (done in a ska-tinged style) sit comfortably next to originals like "Feels Like Christmas" (zydeco-funk) and "December Child" (a starkly beautiful ballad).

On the traditional "Three Ships" (arranged by Lauper), Celtic instruments are heavily present, giving it a Chieftans feel and making it one of the most successful tracks. A similar treatment is given to the gentle lament "In The Bleak Midwinter," also a gem. For the most part, the campy Lauper is absent. Only on "Minnie And Santa" (a silly sing-a-long) does she approach her alter-ego Betty Boop persona ("She'd be laying in wait on a bear skin rug/where cookies and milk could be seen/Now Minnie was older and wiser/like a dear old Auntie to me/But the night she ran off with Santa/was a real epiphany"). Perhaps not for the kiddies, but it's funny and it works. So does this album.

MARY CUTRUFELLO
When The Night Is Through
Mercury (314 558 720-2)

Mary Cutrufello is a Houston-based singer and songwriter who brings a healthy dose of sheer gusto to her outstanding brand of heartland rock 'n' roll on When The Night Is Through, her debut recording. As a performer Cutrufello just naturally stands out — she's a smart, attractive black woman with a gritty, masculine sounding voice who enunciates like a male meat-and-potatoes-style rocker, sings of desperate lives and dreamers, plays some very catchy guitar riffs and composes well-crafted, hook filled concoctions that crackle with energy.

Her songs are populated with free spirited women defined by both their independence and their refusal to be defeated by life's unlucky circumstances.

On Sunny Day, the contagious rocker that kicks off this record, Cutrufello sings of leaving a miserable life behind and taking to the road with no destination in sight.

That same theme is echoed in the energetic rocker "Tonight's The Night" with its brave declaration, "I don't know where I'm headed but I'll know when I get there." Ditto the horn-pumped "Rollin' And Tumblin" (which sounds like a prime, long lost cut from the Stones' Exile On Main Street) where the song's protagonist is "Movin' along with the wind."

In Cutrufello's songs men are treated in a casual, one could say cavalier, fashion.

"It's an easy thing to kick a man out of your bed when the night is through" goes one line from the accordion-flavored "Sister Cecil." In fact, Cutrufello's plain spoken lyrics are almost as interesting as her music. The contemplative "Tired And Thirty" conveys a weary, plaintive tone: "I've squandered all my love upon too many men who never could be mine/Now I'm tired and thirty, fallin' when I wish I could be flyin'." So what does this dissatisfied dreamer do? (You got it — hit the road.)

Cutrufello doesn't hit the bull's-eye every time. "She Can't Let Go," for instance, sounds like generic hard rock, but the lyrics — about a woman who lives on memories of a lost love rather than face up to the lonely finality of her loss — are, as usual, affecting. All told, When The Night Is Through is an inspired collection of songs from a woman who clearly still believes in the redemptive power of rock 'n' roll and who's clearly got what it takes to make a believer out of the rest of us.

KATY MOFFATT
Angel Town
HMG (3004)

Katy Moffatt may not exactly be a household name, but she's been recording since the late 1970s, first for Columbia records, then moving on to a succession of smaller labels with a style that hasn't always been easy to market. Judging by Angel Town, her debut for HMG, the L.A.-based Moffatt could probably best be described as a folkie, and an earnest one at that. The record, a collection of the singer's personal favorites along with some Moffatt originals, is as low key as recordings get these days.

Characterized by a bare-bones approach, Angel Town eschews drums and keyboards in favor of an unobtrusive acoustic guitar backdrop which highlights Moffatt's expressive vocals. The result is songs so quiet they virtually command your attention.

With sensitivity and a fair amount of introspection, Moffatt sings of unsettled lives defined by a quiet torment. It's a world where desires remain unfulfilled. The main character of "I Just Keep Falling In Love" laments her own inclination towards easy emotional attachments ("How can one night be enough? I just keep falling in love") while a haunted restlessness pervades "A Man I Once Did Own" wherein Moffatt gives voice to a woman who, alone and bereft in the wake of her lover's departure, professes "It's seldom I can find a friend to break the spell that I am under." Moffatt brings an especially somber spirit to the Ray Charles hit "You Don't Know Me" where love that runs much deeper than friendship remains unspoken.

In the exquisite "Jigsaw Love Affair," one of a handful of songs Moffatt wrote with Tom Russell, the narrator ponders the aftermath of a broken relationship and comes to a bitter conclusion — "We were cut from the same fabric till it began to tear/Now I wonder if we ever had a prayer." Elsewhere the hushed

Bob Dylan

BOB DYLAN
Live 1966: The Royal Albert Hall Concert
Columbia (C2K 65759)

Most of the attention given to this often-bootlegged concert has been on the confrontations between Dylan and the audience. While they're certainly riveting to listen to, Live 1966: The Royal Albert Hall Concert earns its place in history for the plain and simple reason that it's a stunning work of art, captured on tape and finally officially released after 30-odd years of mythmaking and mystery.

By the time Dylan played this show (which actually took place at Manchester Free Hall; thank the bootleggers for the Albert Hall reference), he was nearing the end of his transition from earnest folk protest singer to self-conscious surrealistic hipster. He'd already sent shock waves through the U.S. folk community by playing an electric set at the 1965 Newport Folk Festival and with the snarling wordplay and sonic assault of "Like a Rolling Stone." Still, the folkies were sticklers for their version of acoustic authenticity, and a year later still viewed Dylan's rejection of "the people's music" for the glitzy, commercial sounds of rock 'n' roll as a downright betrayal.

The crowd is almost reverential in their silence during the acoustic portion of the show. It's easy to see why. This is as good as acoustic Dylan gets, a seven-song set that finds him in remarkable voice, deliberate yet fresh, and more tender than tough. On "Just Like a Woman," Dylan sounds more vulnerable than any time before or since. When his voice cracks on the phrase "I can't stay in here," it's enough to break your heart. It's also a reminder that, even when he was playing the ironic song-and-dance man, the emotional core of his work shone through.

You get a hint of what's to come, though, when he leaps into "Mr. Tambourine Man." The phrasing is more detached and playful; the way he sings "to" and "you" in the chorus confound the listener's expectations. But even if they thought they knew what they were in for after the intermission, the crowd could have hardly predicted just how furiously Dylan and the Hawks would rock. The sound on "Tell Me, Momma" and "I Don't Believe You (She Acts Like We Never Have Met)" is that of controlled chaos, of things falling apart and coming back together all at once.

After a vicious "Ballad of a Thin Man," the moment you've been waiting for finally arrives, when someone in the crowd yells "Judas!" and a good chunk of the audience applauds. "I don't believe you," Dylan sneers. "You're a liar!" After which the band, as encouraged by Dylan, plays "Like a Rolling Stone," and does it "fucking loud." Not to mention majestically, with Richard Manuel's piano, Robbie Robertson's guitar and Garth Hudson's organ pumping out intertwining, perfectly executed accompaniments.

If you take away the drama between Dylan and the audience, what you're left with is a mind-blowing set of rock 'n' roll, one that refuses the false boundaries between not only musical genres but also between thoughts and feelings. It's a cliché to say an artist was ahead of his time, but Dylan clearly was. And even if others have caught up with him, damn few have done it this well.

FATS DOMINO

Here Stands Fats Domino/This Is Fats
Collectables (COL-CD-2723)

The Fabulous "Mr. D"/Fats Domino
Swings
Collectables (COL-CD- 2724)

"They call me the fat man," Antoine Domino roared on his debut single, 1949 hit "The Fat Man," with his voice breaking into a hornlike wah-wah. A consistent teen hit maker through the early '60s, he was one of the first R&B acts to crack the pop charts with 1952's "Goin' Home." In 1955, "Ain't It A Shame" reached number 10. Sure, Pat Boone's cover went all the way to numero uno — frankly, Pat's melodramatic melismas made the line "my tears fell like rain" more believable than Fats' characteristically beguiling, smiling reading. With a few exceptions such as the gorgeously soulful "Valley Of Tears," Fats sang the blues without sounding like he was down enough to really have them — a comforting technique for lifting listeners from their own blues.

Collectables repackages his first seven Imperial LPs (1956-60) with his fifteenth (1962's Million Sellers By Fats) onto four CDs with two bonus hits on each. Since Imperial's policy seems to have been to grab a recent hit or two and fill out the platter with older minor hits, B-sides and single session outtakes, the sequencing garbles Mr. D's musical evolution. Yet one element stands out: his roots in New Orleans' French Quarter and boogie-woogie piano exemplified by Professor Longhair. Speaking French first as a child, Fats even sang "Hey La Bas" en francais in 1950.

Like Little Richard, he took a few years to find his trademark style, leaving behind Joe Turner-like jump blues shouting to create hits from standards (1956's "My Blue Heaven" and "Blueberry Hill") as Connie Francis would do a few years later. Neither Connie nor Fats fit any of their era's categories. While Little Richard, Elvis and Jerry Lee suggested sensuality or even teen rebellion, Fats' "The Big Beat" sound was never threatening, especially after he saw how well he could feed his eight bébés thanks to pleasant trifles like "I Want To Walk You Home." By the end of his Imperial years, he was — like Ray Charles — charting by covering country oldies (Hank Williams' "Jambalaya" and "You Win Again"). Looking back, we realize his final Top 10 song's title captures the heart of his sound: "Walking To New Orleans."

NEIL SEDAKA
Steppin' Out
Varese Vintage (VSD-5952)

In 1976, when Steppin' Out was originally released on Elton John's Rocket label, Neil Sedaka was enjoying a career renaissance. His "Love Will Keep Us Together" (which Sedaka co-wrote with lyricist Howard Greenfield) became the biggest hit of '75 as recorded by the Captain and Tennile. Sedaka wrote the kind of songs other artists loved to record and he was making the charts as singer of his own material — "Laughter In The Rain" and "Bad Blood" were hits the previous year.

Steppin' Out reveals the diversity that made Sedaka's songs so appealing to other performers, whether it was the funky ode to forbidden romance "Love In The Shadows," the smooth as silk ballad "Perfect Strangers" or the buoyant feel-good spirit of "Good Times, Good Music, Good Friends." What these songs all have in common is an unabashed tunefulness. "Sing Me" is so joyous you can almost imagine Sedaka smiling as he delivers it, while "You Gotta Make Your Own Sunshine" councils us to shake off those blues ("Don't stare at the ground, reach for the sky!"). The music, all unbridled exuberance, nicely keeps pace. It's the musical equivalent of the happy face. Sedaka reserves his liveliest numbers for the first half of the record, and that includes the jumpin' title track (with Elton John providing some animated backing vocals) which positively crackles with infectious energy.

Sedaka's ballads are characterized by a pronounced feel of melodrama. The iffy "Cardboard California" about shattered dreams in La La Land ("You lost your shot to some younger guy and you're running down a one way street/Nobody cares if you survive/Sometimes you beg or you don't eat/You got to fight to stay alive") has a maudlin, theatrical air while "#1 With A Heartache," a ballad with a country twang, concerns a singer who achieves big time success, sadly enough at the expense of his marriage.

Steppin' Out includes four bonus tracks that range from the bouncy '77 single "(Is This The Way To) Amarillo" which exudes the joyous spirit Sedaka is so good at, to his atrocious 1980 duet with then teenage daughter Dara on "Should've Never Let You Go."

Though Dara possesses a fine voice, the song, an especially virulent form of adult contemporary dross, is an uninspiring way to end an otherwise very listenable record.

MUD
The Singles '67-'78
Repertoire (REP 4657) (German import)

Mud were never going to be the hippest of the hip. Even at their riproaring best, critics sneered, "rock" fans laughed, their own fans treated the whole thing like some kind of disdainful joke. But between 1972 and 1976, Mud ran up hits like nobody's business, and although it is true — as their most annoying detractors used to snipe — they could never have written "Stairway To Heaven," Led Zep could never have come up with "Tiger Feet."

So, honors even? Not exactly — Mud didn't write many of their hits either, preferring to leave such onerous tasks to songwriters Nicky Chinn and Mike Chapman. But across the years, and across whichever memories still linger around "Rocket," "Crazy," "Hypnosis," "The Cat Crept In," on and on through two discs of such stuff, Mud's bubble-glam magic remains a potent brew.

The set-up is simplicity itself. Disc one runs through the band's hit singles repertoire, bang-bang-bang until it feels like you have a jukebox in your jeans, locked into the mid-

GOLDMINE UNIT SPACE ADS

WHAT ARE UNIT SPACE ADS?

Unit space ads are an affordable option for the small dealer or for the private collector who has a few items to sell. They are based on 8-1/2 x 11 sheets that you create. They are "camera ready," in other words, the ad will look in print exactly how it looks when you send it in, only smaller. We will reduce the sheets to fit the ad space. Optionally, at no extra charge we can create a heading for your ad. We will typeset your name, business name (if any), address and phone/fax numbers on your ad if you so request.

The two types of ads are:

1. Set Sale - Items are sold at the price listed.
2. Auction - Items are sold to the highest bidder.

FOR A BETTER UNIT SPACE AD . . .

1. Use white paper.
2. Have a new ribbon on your typewriter or printer; avoid low toner on a laser printer.
3. Make sure the paper is vertically oriented. We cannot publish a horizontal unit space ad unless you want the reader to turn the magazine sideways to look at it. Most readers won't bother to do that.
4. Mail it to us; don't fax it. Faxes can leave unwanted markings that make your ad hard to read.
5. Clearly identify whether your ad is a set sale or auction. Avoid mixing the two in the same ad; if you must, have separate sections for set-sale and auction items.
6. Include your name, address, and telephone/fax number (and when you will be available to take calls on the ad) and all ordering information, including postage and shipping fees.
7. Put your listings in a logical order. If you have several formats in the same ad (LP, CD, 45, etc.), group your items by format. You also may wish to group items by type of music. As for the listings themselves, alphabetically by artist usually works best.
8. If you have any questions on how to set up your ad, contact anyone from the GOLDMINE advertising staff.

SET SALE GUIDELINES FOR BUYERS

1. First, make sure you are replying to a set sale and not an auction. If an ad mentions minimum bids and deadlines, it's not a set sale.
2. Follow the advertiser's directions on how to reply. If the ad says to write first to reserve an item, do it. If the ad says that money orders only are accepted, don't write a personal check. And never send cash through the mail!
3. If you write or call to reserve an item and the advertiser still has it in stock, send your payment for the item promptly.
4. Set sale ads are "first-come, first-served," so the sooner you reply, the more likely you are to receive what you order.
5. If you receive the item and it is not as advertised, don't hesitate to complain. Reputable advertisers take complaints seriously and try to do right by the customer. But don't take advantage of this, either; complain only when you have a legitimate reason for doing so.

SET SALE GUIDELINES FOR SELLERS

1. Only advertise items you have. Because of ad deadlines, some dealers will assume they will have new material based on release dates given by record companies. In the long run, it's better to wait until you actually have an item to put it in your ad.
2. State all your policies in the ad. Examples include method of payment, whether (and at what times) you will accept telephone calls, and whether to reserve items or send money immediately.
3. Send the items promptly after they've been paid for. Federal Trade Commission regulations state that you must ship your items within 30 days.
4. Charge only what you pay to send the package. Or charge everyone the same amount, knowing you will lose money on large packages, but will make up for it on smaller ones. If your stated postage rates are unusually high, state why! (Insurance, special handling or packaging, etc.)
5. Take complaints seriously. An unresolved problem is usually a lost customer.

AUCTION GUIDELINES FOR BUYERS

1. First, make sure you are replying to an auction and not a set sale.
2. Note the minimum bid, and don't bid less than that. Also, don't say "I will top all bids" unless the auction allows it and, of course, you really mean it.
3. Mail in all bids unless the ad says phone-in bids are acceptable.
4. Remember the deadline. If none is stated, then the auction closes one month from the date on the cover. For example, if the auction is in the GOLDMINE dated October 15, the sale closes November 15.
5. If mailing bids, allow 1-2 weeks for your bids to arrive. And after an auction ends, allow 1-2 weeks for notification. If you haven't heard 14 days after the end of an auction, assume you won nothing unless the ad says that all bidders, win or lose, would be notified.
6. Honor all winning bids! If you are notified that your bid has won the item, send the money for your items within a week. Bidders reneging on their winning bids is the No. 1 complaint from those who run auction ads. If you can't honor your bid, at least have the courtesy to notify the advertiser.
7. Allow 2-4 weeks for your winnings to arrive.

AUCTION GUIDELINES FOR SELLERS

1. Set minimum bids on any item you won't sell for less. You also can set an auction-wide minimum; different minimums on different parts of the auction; or no minimums at all. Avoid "Ridiculous bids will be rejected" or similar phrases; you can't assume that everyone knows what a "ridiculous bid" is. Instead, take the time to set minimums.
2. Run an honest auction. Don't advertise items you don't have; don't artificially force bidders to bid more by claiming there's a counterbidder when there isn't one; don't overgrade your items; and sell all items that meet your published minimum and are the high bid, even if the bid is far below "book" value.
3. Notify winners within the first week after your deadline passes.
4. Send the winners their items promptly upon payment. (It's OK to wait for checks from unfamiliar customers to clear, which takes no more than a week. If it takes longer, get a new bank.) Federal Trade Commission regulations state that you must ship your items within 30 days.
5. Don't use your auction as a way to compile a mailing list unless you state that in your ad.
6. In sum: Treat your customers as you would want to be treated if you were the one bidding.

UNIT SPACE AD RATES

GOLDMINE has two sizes of unit space ads:

1. Regular - your ad is reduced to one-ninth of one of our pages.
2. Super - your ad is reduced to one-fourth of one of our pages.

	Regular	Super
Each unit	$54.00	$116.00
Full page	$414.00	$414.00
Each unit after full page	$46.00	$103.50

Contract rates are available, which earn advertisers lower rates. Call anyone on our GOLDMINE advertising staff for a complete rate card. 715/445-2214

Auction closes one month from cover date. Postage and insurance are extra. No minimums, but I do reserve the right to refuse any and all bids. Once again I am listing only L.P.'s, but some great ones, I think. Mono(M) and Stereo(S) are noted after the catalog number. All should be original unless noted, but specify label/cover variations if that's a concern--I may miss something now and then. Satisfaction is guaranteed. Phone bids are always welcome. Grading is cover/record.

The 11th Commandment -

Honor Thy Bids

When bidding on a recording through the mail, please note that your bid is an actual contract to purchase the item from the advertiser. When you receive notice from an advertiser that you have won the bid on an item or items, you MUST purchase the items from the advertiser.

If you do not have any intention of purchasing the item from the beginning, then please do not bid on items. It cost the advertiser time and postage to notify you. Plus the advertiser loses a sale.

So please honor your bids... and do so promptly.

tone of "Sister Angelina" tells the story of a man nursed back to health by a nun for whom he secretly harbors the kind of feelings that make him decide in anguish, "I'd be better off dead."

Moffatt makes just one departure from her understated folk style: "Love Me Like A Man" finds her transformed into a ballsy blues mama, but the song sounds somewhat out of place here. Instead Moffatt's at her best doing those languid ballads that vividly manifest what are ultimately some very painful and private human dramas.

PETE MAYES
For Pete's Sake
Antone's (10040)

ROY GAINES
Bluesman For Life
JSP (CD2110) (British import)

The ghost of Texas blues guitar pioneer T-Bone Walker haunts both of these excellent new albums, which boast a delightfully finetuned sense of swing that today's cash crop of zoot-suited and pomaded pseudo-swingsters can only dream of matching.

Like so many promising young Lone Star pickers during the 1950s, Pete Mayes and Roy Gaines each adopted Walker as their main stylistic influence and have drawn deeply from his bag of licks ever since. Mayes remained stationed in Houston, touring with Gatemouth Brown and Junior Parker; Gaines ventured out to Los Angeles in his teens, working with Roy Milton before hitting the road with Chuck Willis and cutting several legendary late '50s singles of his own for Deluxe and Groove.

It's criminal that Mayes has had to wait this long to wax a domestic album worthy of his talents, but late is undeniably better than never. Produced by Derek O'Brien in Austin and Houston, For Pete's Sake faithfully captures the horn-leavened drive inherent to Mayes's subtle approach. Mayes pays tribute to T-Bone and Parker three times apiece, his relaxed vocals and concise fretwork conjuring up vivid visions of Houston's blues heyday when giants such as Gatemouth, Albert Collins, and Johnny Copeland roamed the blues-fertile city.

Mayes delves into the repertoires of Chuck Willis (a tender "You're Still My Baby"), Albert King ("Can't You See What You're Doing To Me"), and Big Joe Turner ("Piney Brown Blues," where Mayes' vocal is backed only by Gene Taylor's rippling 88s), takes a detour into late '60s soul via a tasty cover of Lee Shot Williams's bouncy "I Like Your Style," and revives his own up-tempo 1969 debut single for Ovide, "Movin' Out." End result: an ultra-consistent showcase for an overlooked blues stalwart.

Gaines has been a more eclectic presence over the decades, but he re-addresses the blazing electric guitar attack of his Houston youth with gusto throughout Bluesman For Life. Boldly declaring his intentions on the brash title track, Gaines goes on the offensive from the first track to the last on a set produced in L.A. but pure Texas in stylistic scope.

"It's Midnight Baby" is T-Bone-derived all the way, a slow, languid blues laced with Gaines's stinging axe, while "Lulu Mae" and "Jump In My Cadillac" rock hot and wild, Gaines ladling his dynamic vocals and stinging guitar over hot twin saxes. "Roy Jumps The Gator" and "BWR" are rip-roaring instrumentals that swing (there's that term again) like mad, Gaines displaying his guitar mastery while allowing saxist Jonny Viau and boogie-fired pianist Tom Mahon to have their say too. The evocatively titled "Sweet Pig Poker" sports an ominous minor-key ambience, while a Guitar Slim-derived "You Went Back On Your Word" and the downbeat "You're Gonna Wish I Had Stayed" deviate from the basic T-Bone orientation to spotlight another facet of Gaines' sound.

Definitive statements by a pair of veteran guitarists of the highest order who carry the Lone Star blues torch with pride. (Antone's: 507 West Ave., Austin TX 78701; JSP: PO Box 1584, London N3 3NW, England)

REVEREND BILLY C. WIRTZ AND HIS POLYESTER PROPHETS
Unchained Maladies
HighTone (HCD 8093)

That dreaded middle age must be catching up with his holiness judging by the disc's opener, "Get Off My Lawn!" With a "Satisfaction" riff, he adjusts song lyrics of his youth to fit his advancing years: "I can see for miles and miles with my bifocals on."

From Ruby Ridge to outer space, piano riffs and paranoia run out of control on "Conspiracy Boogie," laced with lines from Billy Joe Royal's "Down In The Boondocks" and the Coasters' "Charlie Brown." Oldies lines can be strung together with amazing consequences.

Of course, the reverend and his prophets tap the lounge revival. "Nathan Lee" spoofs a '70s country story song as Wirtz clowns around with a wordy line that could sabotage a serious singer's meter. In a drag queen tale sounding like "Papa Was A Rolling Stone" meets "Walk On The Wild Side," deserted kids holler "copyright infringement!" amid old country music's shopworn cliches.

Covering classic satirist Tom Lehrer, Wirtz gives macabre "I'll Hold Your Hand In Mine" a maniacal vocal in contrast to Lehrer's deadpan original. Billy's own lines like "I asked my brother, 'Am I your patsy?' and he politely declined" show he's capable of subtlety too. Don't write the minister off as just a bawdy clown. As with Lenny Bruce, humanitarianism lurks within his decreasingly raunchy lunacy.

— Bruce Sylvester

RIDERS IN THE SKY
A Great Big Western Howdy!
Rounder (CD 0430)

Here's the romanticized cowboy music the Sons of the Pioneers once brought kids. Now it's fondly revived with comic twists. Cheek-popping Too Slim (aka Fred LaBour) plays both his bass and his face. "Paladin" spoof "Palindrome" replaces gunplay with wordplay — a palindrome being a term reading the same backward and forward (say, "draw, o coward").

Cowboy music evolved from the various ethnic groups migrating into the Great

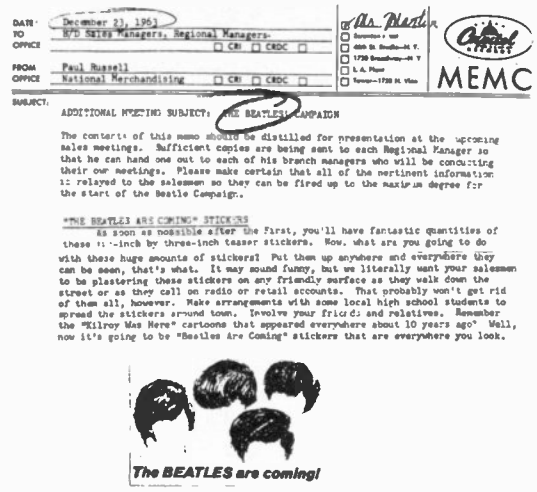
Beatles Promo Item



DATE: December 23, 1963
TO OFFICE: NFD Sales Managers, Regional Managers
FROM OFFICE: Paul Russell, National Merchandising
SUBJECT: ADDITIONAL MEETING SUBJECT: THE BEATLES CAMPAIGN

The contents of this memo should be distilled for presentation at the upcoming sales meetings. Sufficient copies are being sent to each Regional Manager so that he can hand one out to each of his branch managers who will be conducting their own meetings. Please make certain that all of the pertinent information is relayed to the salesmen so they can be fired up to the maximum degree for the start of the Beatle Campaign.

"THE BEATLES ARE COMING" STICKERS
As soon as possible after the first, you'll have fantastic quantities of these 1½-inch by three-inch teaser stickers. Now, what are you going to do with these huge amounts of stickers? Put them up anywhere and everywhere they can be seen, that's what. It may sound funny, but we literally want your salesmen to be plastering these stickers on any friendly surface as they walk down the street or as they call on radio or retail accounts. That probably won't get rid of them all, however. Make arrangements with some local high school students to spread the stickers around town. Involve your friends and relatives. Remember the "Kilroy Was Here" cartoons that appeared everywhere about 10 years ago? Well, now it's going to be "Beatles Are Coming" stickers that are everywhere you look.

THE BEATLES FIRST PROMOTIONAL ITEM GIVEN OUT TO THE PUBLIC TO ANNOUNCE THE ARRIVAL OF "BEATLEMANIA IN AMERICA". THESE 2"X3" ORANGE ON WHITE STICKERS ARE UNUSED AND INTACT ON THE ORIGINAL ROLL. WE HAVE BEEN FORTUNATE ENOUGH TO PURCHASE ONE ROLL OF 250 UNCUT PIECES. THE CONDITION IS MINT MINUS AND COMES WITH A COPY OF THE ORIGINAL CAPITOL AD CAMPAIGN DATED:DECEMBER 23,1963.

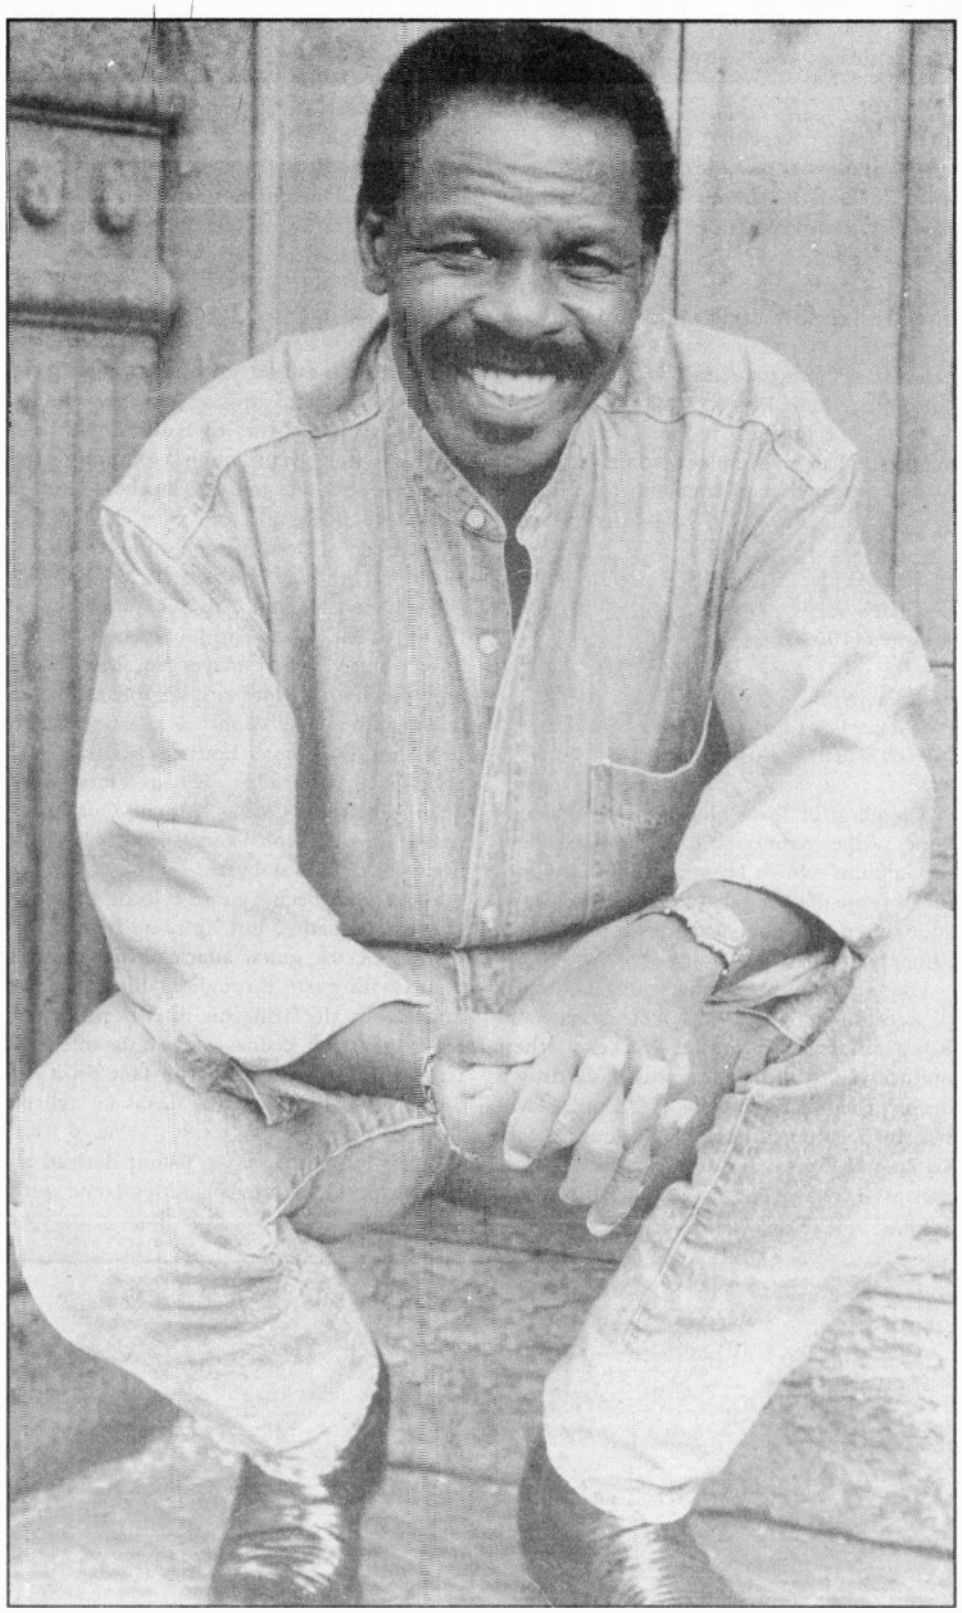
World Radio History

Lloyd Price

Mr. Personality

by Bruce Sylvester



Lloyd Price, "Mr. Personality," seems like a happy man. The sad stereotype of impoverished, exploited, forgotten R&B hero of yore doesn't fit him in the slightest. A recent Rock and Roll Hall of Fame inductee, he owns the rights to his hits like "Lawdy Miss Clawdy," "Personality," "Stagger Lee," "Where Were You On Our Wedding Day," "I'm Gonna Get Married" and "Lady Luck."

Over the years he's also owned or co-owned a limo service, a Manhattan nightclub (Lloyd Price's Turntable) and several small record labels. Lloyd's Double-L label put out Wilson Pickett's first post-Falcons hit, "If You Need Me." He's also involved in elderly housing construction in New York City. He himself lives outside Gotham in comfortable Westchester County.

On his latest label, Kjac, his soft R&B disc ABWNB (A Body With No Body) brings in rapper Freddie Foxxx to update "Personality" and "Stagger Lee" for the '90s. Dangerous Stagger Lee is, of course, a character for all times.

The eighth of 11 children, Lloyd was born in Kenner, Louisiana, near New Orleans, on March 9, 1932, 1933 or 1934 — the sources vary. Lloyd says '33, but he also says he'd just turned 18 when "Lawdy Miss Clawdy" (recorded March 13, 1952) scored. (This shows the problems music historians run into in trying to get totally accurate accounts of the golden age.) One of the earliest R&B songs to break the white market, "Clawdy"'s been covered by Elvis Presley and Costello as well as John Lennon.

Leaving R&B pioneer Specialty Records, Price became one of ABC-Paramount's first artists. There he was one of the initial black singers to embrace white pop backup (like the Ray Charles Singers, who weren't associated with blind Ray) to boost his sales in white suburbia.

Friendly and enthusiastic off-stage as well as in front of the crowds, he lives up to his moniker, Mr. Personality.

Goldmine: Your new CD revises "Stagger Lee" to be gangsta rap. Is Stagger Lee an eternal bandito in our musical folklore?

Lloyd Price: Stagger Lee is going to be in a film sometime next summer. It'll be kind of like New Jack City. He's going to be a good guy though. He'll send out all positive messages. Of course, on the new CD, the producer was Freddie Foxxx. He's pretty hip with the hip-hoppers so he was introducing Stagger Lee to that community.

From where does the Stagger Lee legend come?

Actually there was a guy called Stacko Lee. It was an old folk legend I'd heard from my father and uncles while they'd be blowing on harmonica or whatever. When I was drafted into the army and they put me in Special Services, that old melody kept haunting me. I decided to make a story out of it. That's when I changed his name to Stagger Lee and tried to make the mini-story you hear in the song.

Did you really have to recut its original recording to satisfy American Bandstand?

Dick Clark thought the line "Stagger Lee shot Billy" was too violent so I had to go back and say Stagger Lee and Billy was friends and they got mad about their girlfriend, and that actually was not the original story at all. But he would not play it until I took out "Stagger Lee shot Billy." I'm wondering now, the music we hear today, what would he think about that being played on American Bandstand?

Who were your musical influences?

Louis Jordan and His Tympany Five: "Saturday Night Fish Fry," "Caledonia." I could dance to them. People would throw me nickels. Later Charles Brown, Roscoe Gordon. Just before I started recording, the Dominoes came out with "Sixty Minute Man." Nat Cole was always there. I was a great lover of music.

Your early-1950s records on Specialty had a real New Orleans groove.

"Lawdy Miss Clawdy" was one of the first big things out of New Orleans. The beat had been there for some time, but it was kind of a shuffle beat. When my little brother and I did "Lawdy Miss Clawdy," we slowed the beat. I guess that's why it's called rock and roll. It was the first song that all the kids — no matter what the color: black, white, whatever — was able to rock 'n' roll to that beat as we know it now. We call it the back beat or the big beat. "Lawdy Miss Clawdy" kind of started that, which gave New Orleans the cliché of the New Orleans sound, the saying that rock 'n' roll started there. And I'd say it's true because Dave Bartholomew, he's the one who's responsible for that beat. He's the one who found me when I was a kid and produced me. So I'd say rock 'n' roll originated in New Orleans.

Your first Specialty singles had all sorts of greats like Fats Domino and Lee Allen backing you up. Fats wasn't even famous then.

No, he wasn't. He was still known locally, around New Orleans, as the Fat Man. Earl Palmer was there on drums. Lee Allen — "Walking With Mr. Lee" — played sax. Frank Fields was on bass. All the great New Orleans musicians were on my first records.

What's Fats like?

Fats is just a wonderful guy. I'm not just saying that because we're both from New Orleans. His personality extends itself worldwide. He's a very nice guy and a shy guy. He never did tour that much.

I was surprised at how tiny he is.

Well, 225 pounds ain't that tiny. He's very short. He's lost weight because he's had some heart problems. All that rich food you eat in New Orleans clogs your arteries. But he's fine now. He's still the Fat Man.

From where did you get the song title "Lawdy Miss Clawdy"?

We had our first black disc jockey on the air full-time in New Orleans. He had one sponsor, Maxwell House coffee. He'd say, "Lawdy, Miss Clawdy, eat mother's home-

No More Mr. Nice Guy

"The Inside Story of the original ALICE COOPER Group"

Michael Bruce was guitarist and keyboard player with America's ghoulish rock vaudevillians – the Alice Cooper group. "No More Mr. Nice Guy" follows the group on a journey from Arizona band, through years of being "the band you love to hate", culminating in their eventual rise to worldwide stardom.

Michael Bruce finally opens the lid on his years with the group, revealing the truth behind the publicity stunts, the dead babies, the drinking, the executions and, of course, the rock 'n' roll.

FOR A LIMITED TIME ONLY, Torn Ticket Productions is proud to offer copies this fantastic UK import (softbound, 160pgs, unpublished photos) PERSONALLY SIGNED BY MICHAEL BRUCE for only $25.00 each.

Ever wonder what happened to Glen Buxton, Neal Smith and Dennis Dunaway? Ever wonder what the boys are up to these days? Find out by reading "No More Mr. Nice Guy" by Michael Bruce and checking out the Official Michael Bruce Website at www.michaelbruce.com !

made pies and drink Maxwell House coffee." We kids thought it was cool so I took "Lawdy, Miss Clawdy" and started writing about a girl: "Lawdy, lawdy, lawdy, Miss Clawdy. You sure look good to me... I'm gonna tell my mama what you've been doing to me." We were all just kids. It turned out to be one of rock 'n' roll's all-time classic songs. It revolutionized the music of that period. I was just goin' on my 18th birthday. It was wonderful. Every time I hear some record with that beat — just about every rock and roll record or whatever kind of music — I just smile because I know where it came from. A lot of people claims it, but "Lawdy Miss Clawdy" was the flag bearer for rock 'n' roll.

What made Specialty Records so hot back then? It was mighty small compared to its impact on future music.

Specialty had strong gospel acts: Sam Cooke and the Soul Stirrers, the Five Blind Boys of Alabama. That was black music back in the early '50s. And then they recorded Percy Mayfield's "Please Send Me Someone To Love." They had Roy Milton and Jimmy Liggins. Atlantic Records was just a little baby; Imperial was just nothin'. Specialty was the label, and you always saw it because of its colors: yellow, red and white. After I went into the service, I called up its president, Art Rupe, from Tokyo to tell him about a guy named Little Richard. Back in Macon, Georgia, I'd seen him jump up on my stage and start banging on my piano. I thought he was exciting. I asked Art Rupe to sign him to the label. Little Richard was the one who really pumped it up. I was kind of the carpenter of my own demise when I got Little Richard to sign up at Specialty. When I came out of the service, he was sweeping every town in America. And Art Rupe — the very guy I'd told about Little Richard — told me, "Lloyd, you don't have enough stuff in the can to do nothin' with." I made an agreement with him and he sold me my contract. So I started my own record company, KRC Records, and put out "Just Because." My cousin Larry Williams — before he had "Short Fat Fanny" and "Bony Maronie" — he was my valet and chauffeur. He knew that I was forming a record company and didn't know anything about doing it. So — and this is the truth — he asked me to loan him the money to go to California, which I did, and he went to Specialty Records and told them he had written "Just Because" and then he recorded it. I had the song out on KRC around Baltimore and Washington, D.C., where it was already a hit. But I knew a big company like Specialty could kill a little company like mine. I had to lease my master to a new label, ABC-Paramount. It didn't have many artists then. Later on it had Paul Anka, Edie Gorme and Steve Lawrence.

By 1959 when you did "Personality" on ABC, your sound was evolving to appeal to middle-class white teenagers.

My original music was the big beat. After I went into the army, Fats Domino, Little Richard, everybody started jumping on that bandwagon — even Pat Boone. I had to change my sound. I took that same New Orleans back beat and incorporated it with the Ray Charles Singers, that great choir in New York, and had them give it that nice white sound. I'd turn them into instruments along with three or four horns. After "Stagger Lee," I found out the hooks really work. "Go, Stagger Lee! Go, Stagger Lee!" You find them on my next records: "Personality," "Where Were You On Our Wedding Day," "Three Little Pigs," "I'm Gonna Get Married." I had Don Costa doing the arranging.

Besides you and Solomon Burke, are there any other real entrepreneurs among the old R&B greats?

Fats Domino got screwed up in the beginning, but he later was able to get all his stuff back. Chuck Berry's a real entrepreneur in terms of his publishing business. He owns all of his catalog, all of his songs. He's a very wealthy man for doing so.

Anything you want to talk about?

I hadn't put out a record in a while. I built a studio and said, "Let's just see if I can write some songs." I wasn't just doing it for myself. I was trying to start another generation of stuff and started having a great feeling about this music.

Southwest. Chicano guitar riffs and mariachi horns spark "A Border Romance." Texas' German immigrants brought in the music of guest accordionist Joey "the Cowpolka" King. Droll "Sidekick Jig" borrows the fiddling and nonsense refrains of Irish folk. (Lithe fiddler Woody Paul, the self-styled Idol of American Youth, obtained a degree in plasma physics from MIT before heading for the recording studio sagebrush.) Marty Stuart drops in to sing on "One More Ride," which he first heard by his ex-father-in-law, Johnny Cash.

Oh, those dreamy Sons of the Pioneer-style harmonies — not to mention the three-part yodeling beneath a cimarron moon. Sure, Riders music idealizes life on the range. For songs of the dust, dirt and blood of real cowboy life, check Skip Gorman's A Greener Prairie (Rounder). The Riders in the Sky offer Hollywood sagebrush nostalgia. But hey, isn't that what a lot of us grew up watching?

DAVID CASSIDY
Old Trick New Dog
Slamajama Records (811-2)

Old Trick New Dog is only the second record David Cassidy has made since this decade began (its predecessor was a self-titled rock oriented effort released on the Enigma label which, unfortunately for Cassidy, went bust shortly after the record's release). The former 1970s teen idol who once sang infectious bubblegum-style pop in his days with the Partridge Family has refashioned himself into a blue-eyed soul man for the latter half of the '90s.

This may take some getting used to but, oddly enough, Cassidy sounds very much at home in this funk lite setting. He even goes so far as to update a few of the Partridge Family's best known hits ("I Think I Love You," "I Can Feel Your Heartbeat," "I Woke Up In Love This Morning"). Like virtually all remakes these songs work better if you've never heard the originals — as it is, it's virtually impossible to hear them without instantly recalling their catchier predecessors. The zippy bubblegum spirit of "I Think I Love You" has been replaced by a denser, funkier feel (though if truth be told, the melody is so strong it can take the beating) and it's easily the best of the remakes.

The rest of the best include the good vibrations of "(Whatever Happened To) Peace, Love & Happiness," "Sheltered In Your Arms," a lovely ballad that Cassidy co-wrote and sings with an aching vocal that easily conveys the anguish of lost love, and a fine remake of the old Al Wilson hit "Show And Tell" which seems a natural choice for Cassidy's smooth, soulful style.

Too often, though, Cassidy is hampered by a faceless, rather synthetic musical backdrop that ruins otherwise salvageable material — he deserves better. It doesn't help that the record ends with a remake of "Ricky's Tune," a song that originally appeared on Cassidy's first solo record and the only number here free of any overt R&B influence.

The acoustic pop number also happens to be the best song on the record, offering as it does a glimpse of the Cassidy of yore and along with it the realization that this record would have been a whole lot better had this new dog included a few more of his old tricks.

MERCURY REV
Deserter's Songs
V2 (63881-27027-2)

Mercury Rev reaffirm their cult status as fearless prog warriors with this weird, mock epic of an album, a full-blown creative catharsis that's long on post-Romantic orchestration and short on the fractured guitar mess that made them one of the more interesting beneficiaries of alt-dom. The upstate New Yorkers always had more in common with Soft Machine and Pink Floyd than they did with any Seattle angst outfit, and these days they're camping out in Syd Barrett's back yard. We're talking highly crafted theremin passages, dinky keyboards trilling and rippling from ripped speaker cones, a chorus of female singers dialing in from a Luciano Berio aural construction.

Of course it all adds up to commercial suicide, but it's plain that Mercury Rev don't care about the temporary pay off that comes with popular success. They've traveled into that more rewarding — and far more treacherous — universe where music itself is the subject and the flexing of creative muscles is all that matters. Even apparently straightforward tunes like "Opus 40," the band's old-timey collaboration with Levon Helm and Garth Hudson of The Band, eventually challenge pop conventions, screwing up hooks with the unexpected harmony, upsetting the groove with contra-intuitive rhythms. And the expansive "Opus 40" keeps "classic" rock-obsessed fans at bay by siding with Bartok instead of Bowie.

To put it another way, nothing here is safe or genre-specific, and each measure of music is offered up as a challenge to the listeners. Instead of comforting hooks, Mercury Rev gives us new ideas. Maybe that's why Deserter's Songs — which, on one level, is really about deserting the world of art marketing and promotion — leaves such a strong impression.

— Tom Laskin

LIZ PHAIR
Whitechocolatespaceegg
Matador/Capitol (CDP 7243 8 53554 2 4)

Though Liz Phair's 1993 debut Exile In Guyville got her a lot of attention for its sexually frank tone, Phair herself has since dismissed it as so much fictional garbage and on Whitechocolatespaceegg, her third and most fully realized effort to date, she's on a whole other trip. In the time since her last outing, '94's Whipsmart, Phair has married, had a son and finally acquired the kind of sterling production treatment (the majority of these songs were recorded with R.E.M. producer Scott Litt) her music truly deserves.

The record's lusher, fleshed-out sound (guitars, organ, keyboards and drums are cranked way up) does justice to a batch of songs where the verses are as strong as the choruses, the hooks are unstoppable and there's not a single bum track within hearing distance to break the musical joyride. (Considering there are no less than 16 songs here, that's saying something.)

Throughout Phair veers between the intimate living-room feel of "Girls' Room" (catty chatter at a slumber party) and "Perfect World" (which finds the singer musing "I want to be cool, tall, vulnerable and luscious") to heady pop-rock songs characterized by jangling choruses, ringing guitars

(Please see New Releases page 110)

LINDA McCARTNEY
Wide Prairie
Capitol (CDP 7243 4 9791022)

The first thing to remember about Linda McCartney's first solo album is, if she hadn't died, we'd probably never have heard it. Indeed, even describing it as an album is probably over-generous. Rather, it's a collection of many of the Linda tracks aired as curiosities on Paul's Oobu Joobu radio series, shedding the joyous "Incredible Thing," the experimental "Glass Harmonica," and the baffling "Peacocks," but gaining both sides of her "Seaside Woman" 45, the "Oriental Nightfish" video soundtrack, and a couple of tracks recorded just months before her death.

None of which is to say Wide Prairie is somehow less worthy than if it had been created, or even scheduled, before she passed away; just that it's very important that we realize precisely what we're getting here. It is indeed a tribute to a very remarkable woman, but (and the photographer within her would appreciate this), it's also nothing more than a series of snapshots, freeze frames capturing isolated moments in her life, but never building up into the full picture she so richly deserves.

The world was never kind to Linda's musical ambitions (she herself frequently played them down), and it's true — her best known solo performance, "Cook In The House" from Wings' Speed Of Sound album, remains a low point in that band's illustrious career.

Wide Prairie, however, points up considerably grander visions, and had Crass, say, or Chrissie Hynde, come up with the pair of songs Linda wrote with fellow animal rights campaigner Carla Lane, the harrowing "Cow" and "The White Coated Man," there would be no question about their validity. The fact that several of the spoken passages on "Cow" evoke a certain other, better-feted, Beatle wife only compounds that particular injustice.

Elsewhere, a couple of songs recorded with reggae legend Lee Perry, skanking merrily through the '50s pop standard "Sugartime," and a lightly reggaefied "Mr Sandman," have the same kind of boisterous charm as the Susan Cadogan sessions which "Scratch" completed shortly before his date with Linda and Paul. Indeed, Cadogan's own "Hurts So Good" would have sounded great in Linda's hands, while Mrs. McCartney's other stab at a reggae vibe, the delightfully infectious "Seaside Woman," packs precisely the same unpretentious joie de vivre which is the hallmark of early '70s Jamaican pop at its finest. It's failure as a single on release in 1977 remains utterly baffling.

Half a dozen tracks cut with different incarnations of Wings between 1972-76, of course, occupy their own special place in every McCartney fan's heart — "New Orleans," taped during the *Venus And Mars sessions, "Wide Prairie" and "I Got Up" from the band's 1973 trip to Paris, and so on. But two of the most revealing tracks turn out to be a couple recorded when even Paul was elsewhere, "Endless Days And Lonely Nights," and the Coasters' "Poison Ivy."

Dating from a fall, 1987, session with guitarist/producer Ian Maidman and pianist Mick Bolton, "Endless Days" in particular seethes with an amateurish naivety which Paul, perhaps, would never have allowed — his liner notes to this album describe the vocal as "gentle... captur[ing] a special kind of innocence." Actually, she sounds hopelessly out of tune, and half out of mike range as well. Although, strangely, such faults don't detract from the performance. Or if they do, you probably have no business listening to this album in the first place.

Bluntly, Wide Prairie occupies the same kind of space as Princess Diana's punk T-shirt designs. You knew she dabbled, and maybe you were curious, but there was so much else going on in her life that it was no surprise she never released them to the public. Certainly the 16 songs here were never intended to be judged by the same standards as Linda's better publicized work — her photography, her cookbooks, her animal activism — and the fact that this album does exist should not be allowed to impact on her memory (or her achievements) in any way, shape or form.

Think of it, McCartney collectors, as the first installment of the oft-delayed Cold Cuts out-takes anthology, or else as a makeshift memorial, a stop-gap statuette before Paul unveils his own inevitable tribute. But whether you love it (and it is a tremendously enjoyable record) or hate it (there's a lot of horribly narrow-minded people out there), don't ever judge Linda on its contents. One album is far too short a career.

World Radio History

and a generally exuberant delivery. In the cheery girl-group sound of "Big Tall Man" Phair admits "I can be a complicated communicator," yet her lyrics are always interesting even when a fair bit of guesswork is required to figure them out. "Go On Ahead" could be a commentary on the ups and downs of domestic life ("One night is lovely, the next is brutal and you and I are in way over our heads with this one") while the rocker "Johnny Feelgood," supposedly inspired by Phair's admiration for take-charge men, centers on a guy who delights in manhandling his gal while she, obviously a masochist, announces "Johnny makes me feel strangely good about myself." On the opposite end of the sensitivity scale is the guilt stricken fellow of the untypically somber "Only Son" who castigates himself as "the worst kind of son, bringing shame to my family."

Subject matter aside, though, it's the music that really hangs together here, always straight on course, full speed ahead and miles above the competition.

— Tierney Smith

HOLE
Celebrity Skin
DGC (DGCD-25164)

Courtney Love may have received a lot of flak from grunge purists who take umbrage at her Hollywood aspirations (plastic surgery, couture fashions and all the rest) but Love has clearly been aiming for mainstream success for some time. The proof is in Hole's latest offering Celebrity Skin, which is really a logical extension of Love's more mainstream persona. The overall sound is softer, more melodious — acoustic guitars and strings even make appearances here. It's also packed with entrancing melodies, powerhouse hooks and punchy choruses. Hole have obviously honed their musical chops. Shimmering guitars far outnumber the sonic blasts of 1994's Live Through This and producer Michael Beinhorn (Soundgarden, Soul Asylum) provides a glossy power-pop sheen to even the hardest rockers. The title track is one of them — a look at a landscape littered with Hollywood hopefuls ("Look at my face/My name is might have been/My name is never was/My name's forgotten") it's a song that nevertheless conveys a touch of pride and defiance ("You want a part of me/Well I'm not selling cheap").

For her part Love still seems a bit in awe of her new glamour girl persona: "Miles and miles of perfect skin/I swear I do, I fit right in" she declares in "Reasons To Be Beautiful." The song otherwise takes a despairing look at a troubled soul — Kurt Cobain naturally springs to mind. The same goes for "Northern Star," a spare, haunting ballad with Love's voice right up front, looking back in deep sorrow ("I cry and cry for you/Ghosts that haunt you with their sorrow/I cried cause you were doomed").

(Incidentally guitarist Eric Erlandson, who wrote the music to that song, is also responsible for the jangly "Heaven Tonight," a song so wildly catchy you wish it would go on forever.)

Whether Love is looking askance at the cavalier attitude of rock musicians toward the girls who idolize them in the tuneful rocker "Awful" ("They know how to break all the girls like you and they rob the souls of the girls like you") or voicing outrage at the commercialization of the grunge movement in the shouter "Playing Your Song," Love is always interesting. Her music only proves that one doesn't necessarily have to sacrifice genuine quality in order to achieve a more radio-friendly sound and, along with it, the even wider audience her songs deserve.

THROWING MUSES
In A Doghouse
Rykodisc/Throwing Music (RCD 10377/78)

It's only appropriate that a band as frustratingly schizophrenic and chaotic as Throwing Muses would mark a career round-up with a drove of previously import-only stuff a decade old and recently recorded versions of some even older tunes. And it's also quite appropriate that In A Doghouse, the two-CD set that essentially fills in the Muses digital gap, works best when it's at its most maddening.

Comprised of the Muses' self-titled 1986 debut (being released here domestically for the same time), the 1987 Chains Changed EP, 1985's The Doghouse Cassette (a 10-song demo tape that serves as the blueprint for the following year's official debut) and five songs written in 1983 and recorded in 1996 (but never released), In A Doghouse is a fan's long-awaited treasure chest of lost gems (only the EP made it over here initially; this is its first appearance on CD, however), but it could leave the casual listener a bit perplexed.

Because leader Kristin Hersh wore her emotions on her sleeve — and because those emotions catapulted from one spectrum to the next in the shortest of breaths — and her lyrics often verged on modern poetry at its most pretentious and confusing, the Muses, from the start, were an uneasy listen. Toss in their brand of cow-punk, art-school jangly pop and you have the recipe for general mass bewilderment.

But as challenging and as unformatting as it is (the Muses were dangerously alt-rock years before it became fashionable), the Muses' music is a highly original bout of '80s college rock, simultaneously arty and anarchic. Their 10-song debut remains their most satisfying and representative work (the opening "Call Me" is one of their most uncomfortably thrilling moments). The rest of Doghouse plays exactly like what it is: leftover recordings, sketchy demo pieces and one last attempt at getting it right (they broke up last year). It's not a lasting document of the band, but one that details their formative years with admirable, and appropriate, demention.

RIDERS IN THE SKY
A Great Big Western Howdy!
Rounder (CD 0430)

Here's the romanticized cowboy music the Sons of the Pioneers once brought kids. Now it's fondly revived with comic twists. Cheek-popping Too Slim (aka Fred LaBour) plays both his bass and his face. "Paladin" spoof "Palindrome" replaces gunplay with word-play — a palindrome being a term reading the same backward and forward (say, "draw, o coward").

Cowboy music evolved from the various ethnic groups migrating into the Great Southwest. Chicano guitar riffs and mariachi horns spark "A Border Romance." Texas' German immigrants brought in the music of guest accordionist Joey "the Cowpolka" King. Droll "Sidekick Jig" borrows the fiddling and nonsense refrains of Irish folk. (Lithe fiddler Woody Paul, the self-styled Idol of American Youth, obtained a degree in plasma physics from MIT before heading for the recording studio sagebrush.) Marty Stuart drops in to sing on "One More Ride," which he first heard by his ex-father-in-law, Johnny Cash.

Oh, those dreamy Sons of the Pioneer-style harmonies — not to mention the three-part yodeling beneath a cimarron moon. Sure, Riders music idealizes life on the range. For songs of the dust, dirt and blood of real cowboy life, check Skip Gorman's A Greener Prairie (Rounder). The Riders in the Sky offer Hollywood sagebrush nostalgia. But hey, isn't that what a lot of us grew up watching?

ALVIN YOUNGBLOOD HART
Territory
Hannibal/Ryko (HNCD 1431)

GUY DAVIS
You Don't Know My Mind
Red House (RHRCD 11)

With these deft CDs black America reclaims its old country blues — the music of a downtrodden culture it has understandably wanted to leave behind.

While Alvin is introspective, gospel-tinged Davis knows how to project and entertain. After all, he's the son of actors Ossie Davis and Ruby Dee. Just try to imagine Pete Seeger as a middle-aged black guy. Even in the recording studio he sounds like he's reaching out to an audience.

Alvin sounds more like he's reaching into his own and his people's soul. More eclectic than Davis, he brings in Captain Beefheart's "Icy Rose." "Dancing With Tears In My Eyes" comes from Rudy Vallee by way of Alvin's main inspiration, Leadbelly, who obviously listened to quite a spectrum of music too.

Guy's "Home Cooked Meal" uses food as a sexual metaphor just as Bessie Smith back in 1931 needed "sugar in her bowl and a hot dog in her roll." History fills these discs. Rough but jubilant, Davis' "You Remembered My Name" refers to slaves' joy when they found themselves on an unwritten list of blacks to be helped to freedom on the Underground Railroad. Dripping sarcasm, Alvin's narrative "Countrycide" tells a bloody legend of his mother's hometown vigilantes. Multi-tracked on guitar and ironically carnival-like concertina (an instrument Leadbelly used too), Alvin sings "John Hardy," a 19th-century black outlaw tale, much like The Carter Family and Leadbelly did.

"I've been to the river and I've been baptized. Take me to my hanging ground," Hardy tells his captors. Guy's and especially Alvin's blues almost take us to these places too. No more are the country blues largely left preserve to whites like Roy Book Binder and Paul Geremia.

KING MISSILE III
Failure Shimmy
Disc/Knitting Factory (SHM-5090)

The multi-image CD case reflects the band. Tilt it one way to see happy children following a pied piper/kidnapper. Tilt it another way and they're hit by a missile. It matches John S. Hall's voice echoing childhood innocence while his weirdo lyrics delve into the darkness lurking beneath the innocent facade.

Up until recently genitalia were forbidden fruit in song lyrics — except, of course, for the blues' jelly rolls, sugar bowls and hot dogs. King Missile's "Detachable Penis" changed that in the band's 15 minutes of MTV fame. Failure ups the ante as Hall laughs at nitpicking questions of sexual preference and wallows in nerdiness.

Satirizing feel-good guru babble, the title track soothingly tells us to, "Give yourself over to the failure inside of you and let it envelop your soul." "Despair" spoofs hippy-dippy flower-power music. Naturally "The Boy Made Out Of Bone China" gets a pseudo-sino backup. LP surface noise becomes sound effects.

For skewed religiosity, "Jesus Was Way Cool" on Mystical Shit still takes the cake — or maybe just the wafer. Here on "Monks"

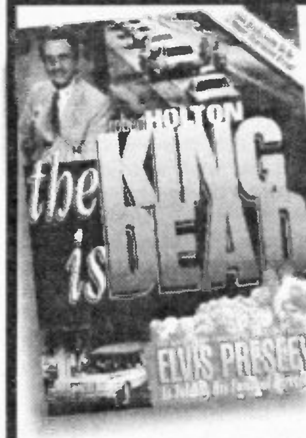
NEW ELVIS BOOK
SOON TO BE A MAJOR TELEVISION EVENT!



Go Behind the Legally Closed Doors Of The Embalming Suite With Funeral Director Robert Kendall....
The Last Man On Earth To See Elvis Presley.

Read the story that only Robert Kendall was qualified to tell. Robert Holton meticulously documents the three days leading up the to the funeral of Rock & Roll Legend Elvis Presley from the perspective of Robert Kendall, Elvis Funeral Director.

A new book from Katco Literary Group — A Publisher Of Fine Books

the KING is DEAD

- The pick-up of Elvis' body from Baptists Hospital in Memphis.
- The embalming of Elvis Presley.
- The funeral arrangements as ordered by Vernon Presley, the entertainer's father.
- Read about the $8,000 copper plated casket. Kendall has to launch a search to find this particular coffin, as it had been discontinued years earlier.
- Learn about how the coffin had to be smuggled into the funeral home to avoid detection of the press that was camped out around the funeral home.
- Learn about the massive security risks, and even an encounter by the Memphis SWAT team that nearly got Mr. Kendall shot.
- The book documents in detail the private and public viewings at Graceland. Read about the tender moments a very young Lisa Marie shared with her father at the coffin before Kendall closed and sealed the body inside.
- Find out why security risks led the eventual move of Elvis' body, and his mothers to the Meditiation Garden At Graceland.
- THE KING IS DEAD is not senationalsim, nor it is macabre. Instead, it is a factual, minute-by-minute account of a facet of the Elvis Presley story that has never been told. Order your copy today!

Above, a picture of the pillow taken from Elvis' coffin. Read all about how this souvenier came to exist in THE KING IS DEAD!

Hall wonders if he could make a monk break a vow of silence or spit chocolate milk out his nose. Sure, it's juvenile, but it's fun. His other foils include survivors' guilt, childhood inferiority complexes and the bulging bladder of a bedridden hospital patient (Hall himself) whose nurse couldn't care less. Nothing's sacred here. And that's good.

— Bruce Sylvester

THE PLIMSOULS
Kool Trash
Shaky City (SCCD 0002)

"This record could change your life," says a small, sarcastic blurb on the back cover of this, the Plimsouls' self-released third full-length CD, and first in nearly 15 years (a great example of time flying, ain't it?). While Kool Trash may not be life altering, it does prove that the Plimsouls still have plenty of what it takes to shake, rattle and roll.

Most of the ingredients of what made the Plimsouls one of the great pop-rock bands of the new wave/skinny tie era are still in place; Peter Case's solid songwriting and soulful shout of a voice, David Pahoa's steady-as-she-goes bass and — the kicker — Eddie Munoz's lacerating lead guitar. Munoz would definitely garner many votes for most underrated rock guitarist were there tabulations for such things. Just listen to the powerful riffs he tosses out there at every turn on Kool Trash, especially on the powerfully Creation-like "Playing With Jack" (a rather vicious swipe at Case's former bandmate in the Nerves, Jack Lee) and the swingin' title track. (Munoz is also the band's resident smartass, as evidenced by his hilarious notes in the disc's booklet and his rapier-like comments in the Plimsouls chat folder on America Online.) Replacing original Soul Lou Ramirez is Blondie's former drummer man Clem Burke, who receives numerous opportunities to perform some of his trademark thrashing away at his kit.

Since Case has a chance to get in touch with his mellower side on his folky solo recordings, Kool Trash provides him with the chance to rev it up and go, which he does on the jumpy "Feeling Strange" (nice bluesy harmonica on this one, too), "Pile Up" (which uses a chord progression similar to "Memphis, Tennessee") and "12 O' Clock Midnight." This last tune is vintage-sounding Plimsouls, with Munoz's moody-sounding guitar tones underscoring lyrics like "Time goes by so fast/I don't want to get stuck in the past." There's also a cute '60s pastiche called "Not of This World," which could easily have been titled "All Day and All of the Night '98," with Munoz hammering home some familiar-sounding riffs, then taking the band over a ska-like bridge and into a "Shout"-influenced, harmonica-driven (courtesy of Case) rave up at the close.

As of this writing, Kool Trash is available only through mail order, while the band — who sounds like they've never been away, quite frankly — awaits some genius A & R dude (or dudette) to snap 'em up and make 'em the huge stars they deserved to be 15 years ago. (P.O. Box 2173, Hollywood, CA 90078-2173, or www.lather.com/plimsouls)

BAP KENNEDY
Domestic Blues
E-Squared (1058-2)

With its rapid ascent in popularity, the synthesis of rock, country, and folk that's generally referred to as Americana music has become a popular watering hole for a number of emerging artists. Oddly enough, even the Brits are getting in on the act, proving that cultural differences aside, an appealing sound can transcend history and heritage. Take the case of Bap Kennedy, former lead singer of Britain's Energy Orchard. Kennedy's abandoned the urgency and angst of the Orchard's populist pop approach to team up with Steve Earle — widely renowned in the new Nashville for his edgy attitude and progressive posturing — and achieve a new standard for roots rock excellence. There may be a lot of competition in this genre at the moment, but Domestic Blues shows it has an international reach.

Let's start with the obvious — a wealth of great songs that get better and better with each repeated spin. Enlisting the talents of respected sidemen like Peter Rowen and Jerry Douglas, Kennedy and Earle take a rootsy, down-home turn that's far more folkie than frenzied. Dobro, mandolin and steel guitar guide the proceedings, creating a rich, warm ambiance that's naturally infectious in a sing-along sort of way. One need only listen to the lead-off track, "Long Time Comin'" to feel the sway of pure country comforts. The engaging earnestness of "Mostly Water" and "The Way I Love Her" conjure up memories of the Dead, circa American Beauty, and ex-Face Ronnie Lane's Slim Chance — a style that's tender, charming and innocent in a way rarely heard these days. Even songs that signal an otherwise darker mood, as in the apologetic "Unforgiven" or the obligatory warnings of wayward women, "Vampire" and "Angel is the Devil," maintain a bright, breezy feel that keeps the spirits soaring.

Earle's overriding influence may have steered him towards the American heartland, but Kennedy keeps his kinship with his old homestead as well.

"The Ghosts of Belfast," a traditional sounding serenade featuring the lovely backup vocals of Nanci Griffith, offers a moving testament to a city that's been forever scarred by strife. On the other hand, the uncredited finale, "Dirty Old Town," finds Kennedy and Earle in a raucous, rambunctious duet that gives this oft-covered standard some Pogues-like punch. Hoot or hootenanny, that easy, engaging aura endures to the end.

It remains to be seen whether an album that's as honest and unassuming as this can make it in the marketplace, especially in this age of poseurs and pretenders. But for those that tap into Bap, Domestic Blues will provide pure domestic bliss.

— Lee Zimmerman

THE KNACK
Zoom
Rhino (75290)

THE DICKIES
Dogs From The Hare That Bit Us
Triple X (51232)

Zoom, the first new album from the Knack since 1991's less-than-essential Serious Fun, finds the beleaguered power-poppers back at the top of their game. Furthermore, Zoom is quite possibly the best album of the Knack's career, perhaps even eclipsing the band's chart-topping debut album from 1979, Get The Knack.

Now, if you're the sort of long-time pop diehard for whom that proclamation borders on heresy, bear in mind that some of us weren't really all that thrilled with The Knack the first time around. While time has been kind to Get The Knack's virtues — this writer likes that record a lot more today than would have ever seemed likely in '79 — its unfortunate combination of record-biz hype, leering sexism and (seeming) cynicism made it a difficult record to fully embrace, both at the time of its release and for a long time thereafter.

But Zoom suffers from none of this, and stands instead as a proud and effervescent burst of pure pop power. And a refreshing burst it is, far exceeding reasonable expectations with a barrage of one great track after another.

The current-model Knack includes 3/4 of the original line-up, with singer/guitarist Doug Fieger, guitarist Berton Averre and bassist Prescott Niles joined by former Frank Zappa/Missing Persons drummer Terry Bozzio (replacing MIA original timekeeper Bruce Gary). With the same cheeky flair that once led the Rubinoos to open their debut LP with a rockin, tune called "Rock And Roll Is Dead," The Knack kick off Zoom with "Pop Is Dead," a defiantly exuberant number that belies its title and proves that pop does indeed live and thrive in the hands of The Knack.

"Pop Is Dead" is followed by the gorgeous "Can I Borrow A Kiss," which jangles in a winning way reminiscent of "Your Number Or Your Name" and "That's What The Little Girls Do" (the purest pop tracks on Get The Knack).

"Smilin'" and "Ambition" up the energy level and solidify Zoom's claim to instant-classic status. If these first four tracks don't set your heart to a-flutterin' and your body to boppin', then you just ain't a fan of the pop stuff, man.

For the pop faithful, though, Zoom is a full-throttle celebration, unburdened by even a single duff track. "Love Is All There Is" would sound particularly nice on the radio, and the ballads — never the Knack's strong point — acquit themselves nicely. The exhilarating "Tomorrow" offers up the Knack's best-ever rave-up, and the willfully Beatle-y "(All In The) All In All" closes the album with an agreeably ethereal vibe that, oddly enough, conjures an unexpected but welcome image of slow-tempo Cheap Trick.

In a perfect pop world, Zoom would rocket to the top of the pops just as quickly as Get The Knack once did. In this dumb ol' real world that we seem to be stuck with, it probably won't even chart. But it should, and it should be the harbinger of a return to prominence for a once-reviled act that we are now prepared to embrace without reservation. The Knack are back. And, incongruous as it may seem, all is now right with the world.

The Dickies, whose first album (The Incredible Shrinking Dickies) was also released in 1979, have already been back for a while now. Veterans of the late-70s L.A. punk scene — the same scene that openly spurned The Knack — The Dickies were goofier, zanier and just plain more fun than most of their contemporaries.

In addition to their own nutty catalog o' tunes, The Dickies made a name with their crazed, faster-than-a-speeding-bullethead covers of everything from "Nights In White Satin" and Black Sabbath's "Paranoid" to "The Sounds Of Silence" and the theme from The Banana Splits. The group always took great delight in bludgeonin' the hits in their own inimitable fashion, so it was perhaps inevitable that The Dickies would eventually record an all-covers album.

And here 'tis. Dogs From The Hare That Bit Us shows The Dickies rampagin' their way way through eight tunes made famous (or not) by the likes of The Beatles, Uriah Heep, The Weirdos, Donovan, Iron Butterfly, The Human Beinz, The Hollies and, um... The Knack. As always, The Dickies' versions succeed on more than a mere hard-fast-rules-OK aesthetic; if they were just another mob of mooks smugly slamming through a bunch of cover songs they hate, there'd be nothing to recommend here. But The Dickies have the pop chops to retain a song's original qualities even while speeding up the tempo. Thus, their takes on The Hollies' "Can't Let Go," The Beatles' "There's A Place" and The Knack's "Let Me Out" transcend amphetamine-punk novelty value and are simply engaging on their own terms.

"A HAPPY NEW YEAR TO ALL GOLDMINE READERS"

It's amazing how easily some of this stuff adapts to The Dickies' style. One might not think of Uriah Heep's classic rock (dead) warhorse "Easy Livin'" as an ideal Dickies cover, but The Dickies own it here; same goes for Iron Butterfly's "Unconscious Power," which turns out to be one of the best tracks on this record. The Dickies know when it's time to go for the throat and when it's time to ease up; the album-closing rendition of Donovan's "Epistle To Dippy" is practically delicate. (P.O. Box 862529, Los Angeles, CA 90086-2529)

— Carl Cafarelli

R.E.M.
Up
Warner Brothers (9 47112-2)

After the roaring commercial success of Monster and it's subsequently catastrophic tour on which all four members suffered maladies of some sort (the most serious being drummer Bill Berry's brain aneurysm), the band's next album, New Adventures In Hi-Fi, met with commercial indifference. This was a shame since it was an outstanding album, albeit one that lacked a sure-fire hit single. Now, minus drummer Bill Berry, who quit the band after 18 years as a major contriubutor, and longtime producer Scott Litt, who has been replaced by Pat McCarthy, R.E.M. returns with Up, recorded as a trio.

Despite the recent turmoil, R.E.M. have again come out on top relatively unscathed. Up is a singular album that somewhat recalls the somber mood of their masterful Automatic For The People. However, Up, which is clearly a transitional album, lacks the universal appeal and catchy choruses of that album, and probably will follow its predecessor as a commercial, if not artistic, disappointment.

There are few obvious choices for a hit single, as the album relies more on an overall mood than individual songs, and the album's title is meant to be taken ironically, given the slow, stately elegance of its songs. However, it must be said that at 64 minutes the album overstays its welcome, especially given the similarly sleepy tone of many of the songs. While many of the songs are superb, the album's overall unity makes it less than the sum of its parts. And despite the the overall loveliness of the album, it grows somewhat boring after hearing an hour's worth of material.

The band came up with a unique solution to replacing the dear departed Berry. The album is largely drumless, though Beck's drummer Joey Waronker makes occasional appearances, while the Screaming Trees' Barrett Martin adds some strange percussive elements as well. Mike Mills actually plays guitar and keyboards more often than his typical bass duties, which are more often than not handled by lead guitarist Peter Buck. Singer Michael Stipe even plays some guitar, ultimately making the album quite different from anything else in their catalogue.

This is immediately apparent from the lullabye-like ambiance of the first song, "Airport Man." The second song, "Lotus," is one of their more upbeat efforts, featuring some cool inflections within Stipe's multi-tracked vocals before "Suspicion" resumes the easy listening mode of most of the album. Some of the songs are quite wordy, though it's often difficult to discern exactly what Stipe is getting at. He does offer some directly romantic commentary on beautiful songs such as "At My Most Beautiful" and "Why Not Smile." Meanwhile, the edgy "The Apologist" is decidedly corny but is saved by Stipe's dramatic vocal. This is in contrast to the rest of the album, on which Stipe generally uses a subdued tone that is too often bereft of the requisite emotional impact. If this makes the album less gripping than it could've been, the band is still quite resourceful musically, using Buck's collection of old-fashioned rhythm machines and analog synthesizers to litter unusual effects throughout the album's fourteen songs."Daysleeper," a quiet acoustic anthem with a sing-a-long refrain, is probably the album's best chance to get the band back to the superstar status that ago they had a rock solid grip upon not long ago. It's certainly not because of a dropoff in quality that the band's sales have diminished, Instead, it can be traced to a fickle public that has grown to take the band's amazing consistency for granted. Up, while a notch below their best work, is another fine effort that is a worthwhile addition to a catalogue few artists in modern music can match. With or without Bill Berry, R.E.M. remain a creative force to be reckoned with.

— Scott Floman

R.E.M.

MARE WINNINGHAM
Lonesomers
Razor and Tie Records (82837-2)

For listeners whose sole experience with Mare Winningham's philosophies consists of the observation by her character in the film St. Elmo's Fire — the best peanut butter and jelly sandwich the world has to offer is the first one a person makes in one's own apartment — an album of somber musings on human emotions is more than might be expected of the actress. In that case, her second album, Lonesomers, ought to come as a pleasant surprise.

Winningham's shimmering vocals brighten the collection's sparsely adorned folk, the gentle ease of which is almost insidious considering its prevailing themes. Some numbers, like the title track about how one might go about joining up with a group of loners, wear their caustic wits on their sleeves, while tunes like "Are You Smiling" register as idyllic at first sampling but leave a definite aftertaste of remorse. The whole is neither despondent nor pessimistic, but it is unabashedly pragmatic.

While squarely in the folk tradition, Winningham's guitar work draws from country and western, and she even gets into some very reserved rock with a cover of the Rolling Stones' "The Last Time." More than anything it sounds authentic, accomplished and intelligent enough to overcome the sort of skepticism usually invited when a star of one medium tries to cross over into another.

— Thomas Kintner

KATE & ANNA McGARRIGLE
The McGarrigle Hour
Hannibal (HNCD 1417)

The McGarrigle Sisters' eighth album represents a homecoming in every sense of the word. It finds the two siblings joined by an extended family that includes Kate's ex-husband Loudon and their two children Martha and Rufus (a burgeoning artist in his own right), Anna's husband Dane Laren and their children Lily and Sylvan. For good measure, the family is joined by friends Linda Rondstadt (whose recording of "Heart Like a Wheel" gave the duo their first taste of stardom), Emmylou Harris and various Canadian comrades in song.

Tacking a hearty repertoire of nearly two dozen songs ranging from traditional tunes to contemporary compositions, The McGarrigle Hour rekindles the memory of a traveling vaudeville show where every performer is given an opportunity to shine, but it's the ensemble that keeps the music flowing.

This sense of nostalgia and old-time harmony is driven home by the set list itself, which draws more than a third of its selection from either standard folk songs or popular standards by the such revered composers as Stephen Foster, Irving Berlin, Charlie Poole and Cole Porter. And even though the McGarrigles and their kin are responsible for the bulk of what remains, the quaint, old-fashioned flavor remains. Those listeners more accustomed to driving rhythms and electric instrumentation may find the sweet melancholia of Foster's "Gentle Annie" or the classic croon of Berlin's "What'll I Do" a throwback to an earlier era, but the tender performances prove captivating all the same. The delight of hearing Kate and Anna joined by Emmylou Harris and singing in French on the Cajun classic "Porte En Arriere" exudes a charm that's an all too rare commodity these days. The same can be said for "Dig My Grave," a traditional gospel song given a rousing acapella reading. In fact, given the pure, whole-hearted sentimentality that flows from tune to tune, there's no shortage of riches throughout. From the wistful ("Schooldays," "Cool River") to the whimsical ("NaCl Sodium Chloride"), from lilting laments ("Skip Rope Song," "Forever and the Same," "Bon Voyage") to pleasant period pieces ("Allez"Vous"En," "Baltimore Fire," "Good Night Sweetheart"), The McGarrigle Hour is a pure delight.

With its sweet harmonies and graceful arrangements, The McGarrigle Hour may have difficulty in finding a following with anyone other than McGarrigle fans, traditional folk aficionados and pop musicologists. However, given the cynicism, anger and irreverence that we've come to expect from many of musical idols of late, this a gentle reminder that one of music's main purposes, after all, is simply to soothe the soul. And even if judged on that alone, this album succeeds admirably.

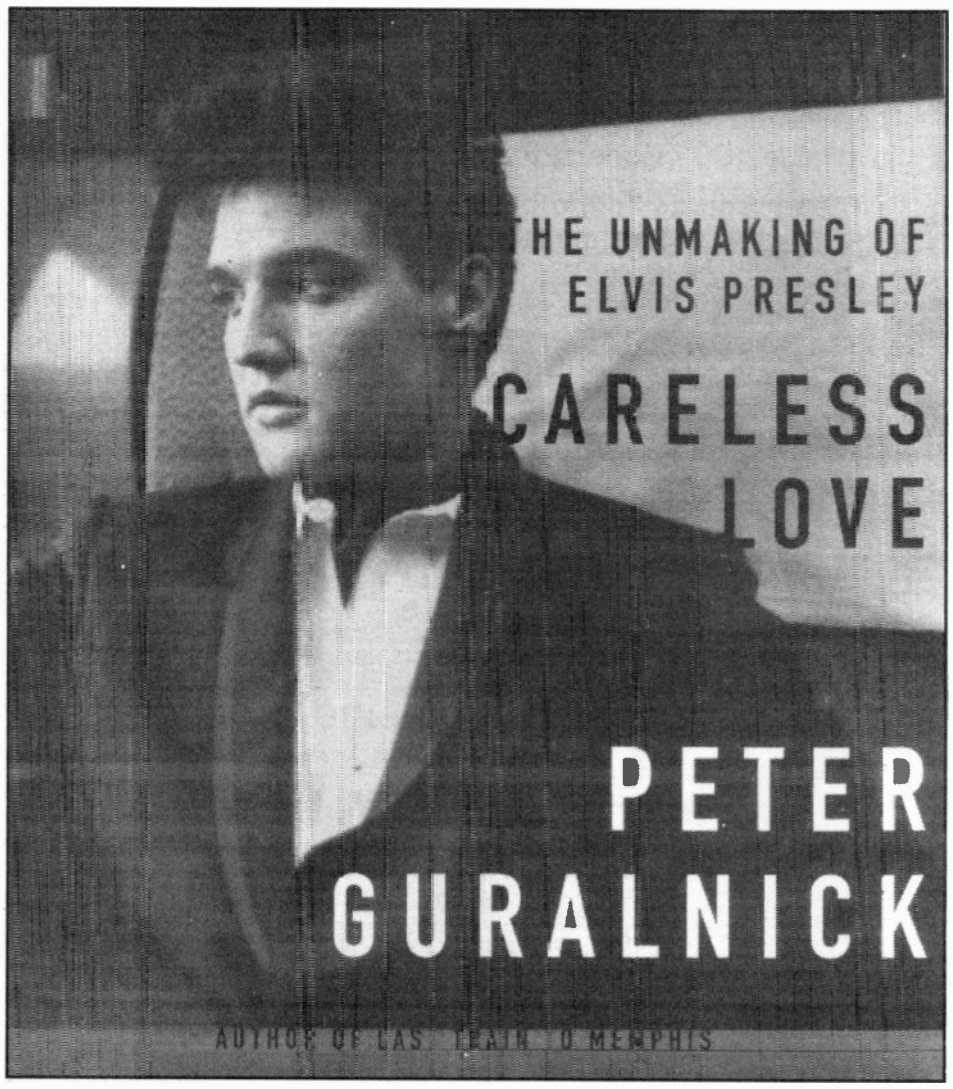
Author Peter Guralnick explores the making and Unmaking of Elvis

by Gillian Gaar



Since Elvis Presley's death on August 16, 1977, he's been transformed from performer to icon, a figure that inspires messianic worship on the part of his fans and smug derision from his detractors. And ultimately, both viewpoints overlook the reason why Elvis Presley really matters — his music.

In the late 1980s, Peter Guralnick (Lost Highway, Sweet Soul Music) set out to re-examine Presley's life and reclaim his artistic accomplishments. Last Train To Memphis: The Rise of Elvis Presley, published in 1994, was heralded as a biography that told Presley's story with a level-headedness and clear-eyed vision that was neither exploitative nor a whitewash. Rock scribe Nick Tosches was one of many who called the biography "definitive."

But Last Train told only half the story, ending when Presley enters the army in March 1958. Now, nearly five years later, comes the sobering conclusion, Careless Love: The Unmaking of Elvis Presley, which picks up the story during Presley's army stint and continues to his death. Fans of Last Train will be equally pleased with Careless Love, a far more difficult story to tell in comparison with Presley's first glorious years as a performer. Yet even when Guralnick addresses the more lurid aspects of Presley's final years, he does so in a straight-forward, matter-of-fact way that neither excuses Presley's behavior nor condemns him for it.

It's a refreshing stand to take in today's tabloid-driven culture. But as Guralnick explained, one of his primary goals in telling Presley's story was to re-establish Presley's humanity.

"My idea in both books was to treat Elvis as a human being, as a real person," he said. "You didn't have to approach Elvis as an icon, you could approach his music as the work of a creative artist. It was the first time I ever thought of approaching the subject from the inside out. Because I'd always been writing from the outside, just my observations, my theories. And I wanted to write from the inside out as much as possible. I'm not interested in telling the reader what I think of Elvis. I'd rather point the reader towards the music and why I think it's so great."

Guralnick originally had planned to tell Presley's story in one book, but after he began writing, he saw that Presley's life neatly split into two parts.

"I realized that these were two different stories," he explains. "It was as if a curtain came down at Elvis' mother's death [in 1958]; this is the end of act one. And the other story was entirely different. And I felt that it was an important enough story that it ought to be told at sufficient length."

Guralnick's interest in Presley dates back to Presley's breakthrough as a mainstream artist in the 1950s.

"I was 12 when 'Heartbreak Hotel,' 'Hound Dog,' 'Don't Be Cruel,' and all of that stuff came out," he said. "You couldn't escape it. And it wasn't that I didn't like those songs, but that wasn't what sold me. It was when I heard the albums RCA put out while Elvis was in the army, For LP Fans Only and A Date With Elvis. They had most of the Sun sides on them, and when I heard them, I just woke up and said, 'Oh my God, Elvis is a blues singer! He's a great blues singer!' That was what knocked me out."

In the 1960s, Guralnick began his writing career, taking full advantage of the opportunity to share his musical interests.

"When I started writing about music, the only reason I did it was to tell people about music that I thought was so great," he said. "One of the most exciting things was to be able to put the name 'Muddy Waters' in print. It didn't even matter what I said about him! Just the idea of writing about Muddy Waters was thrilling to me. So I was writing about Muddy Waters, Skip James, Howlin' Wolf, James Brown, Jerry Lee Lewis and Elvis Presley, because that's the music I loved. And of all the music I loved I would say that Elvis Presley [by then] was considered the least cool!"

That changed when the Elvis television special aired in December 1968, resurrecting Presley's stagnating career.

"I wrote in Careless Love about getting the album several days ahead of the show," Guralnick said, "and sitting there, fingering the album, looking at the titles, knowing that he sang 'Up Above My Head,' trying to imagine what it would sound like, but not putting it on the record player because I didn't want to spoil the moment. I wanted to be fresh when I saw the show. But meanwhile, I'm just imagining, looking at the pictures, he's wearing black leather, everything about it appeared to be a validation of what I wanted Elvis to do. So I thought, 'Great, he took my advice!' And I quoted from the review I wrote at the time, just to give a sense of how exciting the special was, and how nutty I was too! It was really thrilling. It's just the pure joy; there's something about it I can't really describe. And of course today I see it differently. As I wrote in the book, you can't ever recapture that."

By the time Guralnick started writing what would become two Presley biographies in the late '80s, hundreds of books about the King had been published, covering seemingly every possible detail of Presley's life.

How did Guralnick plan to find fresh territory to explore?

"I feel that any writer has to trust that his or her own vision is unique," he said. "You want to have an arrogance, but you also want to have a humility to serve the subject. And at some point you have to make a leap of faith that you have your own perspective, you have a point of view, and if you communicate that point of view honestly, it will have its own resonance. I think the biggest thing, though, is to have respect for your subject. If you have respect for your subject, you may make mistakes, but you won't trample all over the truth."

As someone who had written extensively about the roots of rock 'n' roll, Guralnick had already interviewed a number of key players in Presley's story, such as Sun Records founder Sam Phillips, and Scotty Moore, Presley's first guitarist, developing long-standing relationships with people who willingly granted further interviews. But what made Last Train so different from other Presley bios was not just the interviews, but how Guralnick was able to communicate the feel of the period, making the era seem alive again.

The acclaim the book generated also made it easier to secure interviews for Careless Love.

"Last Train was a very good form of introduction," said Guralnick. But he added that "the greatest stamp of approval" he received came even before Last Train was published, from an unexpected source — Presley's controversial manager, Colonel Tom Parker.

Guralnick first met the Colonel at a dinner commemorating Presley's birthday in January 1988.

"The Colonel was advertised as speaking at this celebration," Guralnick said, "and I figured, 'This'll probably be my only chance to see him, so I might as well absorb the vibe.' I was sitting with Sam Phillips and his family. And Sam went over to say hello to the Colonel, and I went over with him and I met the Colonel. Subsequent to that, I wrote the Colonel and said, 'It was nice meeting you,' thinking what the heck, you might as well take advantage of a chance meeting. I got a reply immediately. And we began this correspondance; I would send something out, and he would just volley it back to me. I always knew that whatever I put out there, he was gonna send back to me more or less unanswered, yet in a sense answering it by not answering it. I knew he was 12 steps ahead of me. And it sort of amused me; I amused myself by my transparent efforts to get him to respond in a direct fashion."

The following year, Guralnick received an invitation to the Colonel's 80th birthday party, held at the Las Vegas Hilton. "So I flew out to Las Vegas," he said. "I had to go back that night. I was leaving around 9 o'clock and I went up to the Colonel, who was debating Sam Phillips about the events that had taken place on November 11, 1955 (the period when the Colonel was negotiating with RCA to buy out Sun Records' contract with Presley). They were just hurling back and forth, not in an angry way, there was no hostility. They were just trying to get the facts straight. Each of them was in sole possession of a set of facts which were extremely precise, which weren't totally in contradiction of each other, but the interpretation of them was considerably in contradiction of each other.

"Then Sam said, 'Why don't you come to breakfast with us tomorrow morning?' And I just about died! I said, 'I can't, I've got to go catch my plane. I just wanted to thank you for inviting me to this.' The Colonel was sitting in a throne-like red chair, with elephants behind it, because he loved elephants. And he taps me on the shoulder, pulls my coattail, and pulls me towards him. And he said, 'Peter, I put you on the list.' And I said, 'I know you did, and I appreciate it.' And he said, 'No, I put you on the list.' And he did! That's certainly what he did. I didn't talk to anybody about the fact that I was writing a book at the party, because I thought it would be inappropriate. But I wrote a good many of the people that I met afterwards, saying, 'It was great to meet you at Colonel Parker's 80th birthday,' and I would say that the response I got as a result would never have come without being put 'on the list.' I'm not sure exactly what he meant. I knew he was the one who had invited me, obviously. But he put me 'on the list.' And whether he meant it that other way or not, that is how it worked out. And that opened many doors for me."

Guralnick kept in contact with Parker, and sent him a copy of Last Train when it was published.

"He called me as soon as he got the book," Guralnick said. "And he took issue with a number of things. But he said, 'It's very different, this book is very different than the others.' I said, 'Gee, thanks Colonel, I really appreciate it.' 'No,' he said, 'it's really different.' I said, 'Well, you know, I didn't write it for money, I wrote it for love.' And he said, 'There's nothing wrong with money!'

"But he definitely took issue with a couple of things in the first volume," Guralnick continued. "And I'm sure he would take issue with some things in the second. My comeback to him was that I had to rely on what other people said, given his refusal to go on the record. And if he were to tell me what he felt, then I could better represent his views. But he didn't bite!"

Last Train also captured the attention of another person in the upper echelons of the Presley world; Jack Soden, CEO of Elvis Presley Enterprises, the man responsible for helping Priscilla Presley, Elvis' ex-wife, rebuild the Elvis empire after his death. Soden was impressed with Guralnick's work and allowed him access to Graceland's archives when he began researching Careless Love.

"It really was a matter of Jack's responding to a renewed suit on my part to have the opportunity to look through the archives, so I could tell the story as honestly as I could," Guralnick explained. "I'd never had much luck gaining access to the archives before. But Jack read Last Train, and he was convinced of my sincerity. I felt very lucky, and I was very grateful for the opportunity."

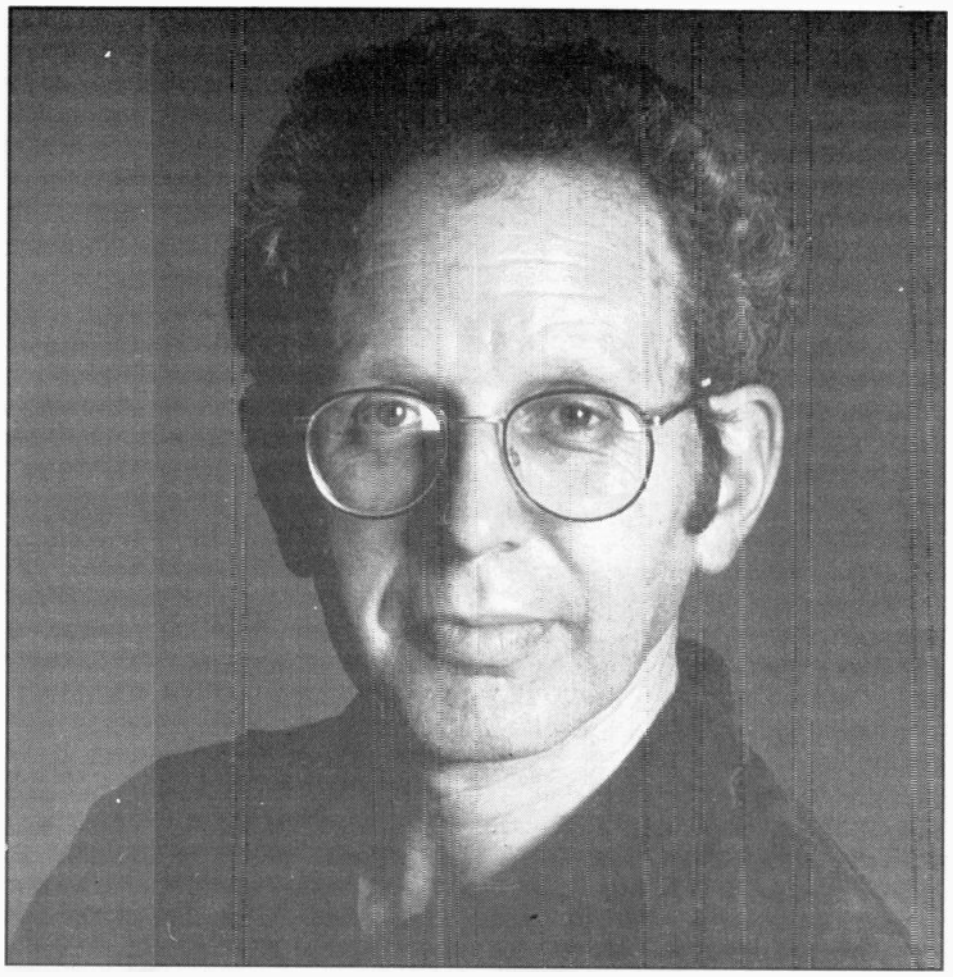
Guralnick's search also turned up an unexpected find.

"In '67, '68, I sent Elvis a review I had written," he said. "And I got a Christmas card back. It was very exciting. I was totally thrilled. But here's what's funny. In the course of doing my research in the archives at Graceland I came across my letter! We were in there with Ernst Jorgenson (co-producer of many Presley box sets, and author of the sessionography Elvis Presley: A Life In Music), and we found home recording tapes, all kinds of stuff, letters, and things like that. But the funniest thing I found was my own letter."

In stark contrast to Last Train, a story of expansion, Careless Love is a story of diminution. Ironically, as Presley changes from Hillbilly Cat to the King, his domain shrinks, and instead of finding freedom in his success, Presley retreats to a curious twilight world of his own making — sleeping through the day, staying up all night, relying on an increasing flow of prescription drugs, remaining in his bedroom for days on end with whoever was his current girlfriend.

"It's a sad story," Guralnick admited. "There's no way of getting around that. And if I could've changed the story I would have! But one of the things I tried to do, when writing about a period where there was something good happening — let's say when Elvis recorded "How Great Thou Art" in '66 — was to create a condition of suspense. You want the reader to be able to get into that and say, 'Yes, yes, don't go back to the life you were leading Elvis! You can do it, you can do it!' It's like re-reading a book, when the protagonist is making that wrong choice that's inexorably, inevitably going to lead to doom and destruction, and you say, 'No, no, don't do it, don't do it! Maybe it'll turn out different this time.' So I kept hoping it would turn out different. But in the end I guess it didn't."

Guralnick's aim to create that "condition of suspense" is remarkably successful in Careless Love. The story remains compelling from the first to last page, despite the fact that anyone reading the book already knows how it will end. But instead of telling the story with the benefit of hindsight, Guralnick places the reader in the center of the action as the story unfolds, when the participants themselves have no idea what the outcome will be.



"It's almost as if he had lost his way. I think it would be over-simplifying to say that his mother's death alone created that feeling, but I think it certainly contributed to that feeling. Because he saw his success as being, in a way, for his mother. Everything he had ever dreamt of had come true. And then the very reason for dreaming it was taken away. I think that caused a real crisis of faith."
—Peter Guralnick

"A simple example would be, Elvis comes out of the army," Guralnick explained. "If you look at the sum total of his years in Hollywood, you think, 'Oh my God, he was forced to do this terrible movie, G.I. Blues — it must've been sheer hell!' Well, I don't think it was a movie about which he was totally excited, but look at it in the context of what was happening at the time. He gets out of the army, he makes a movie with Hal Wallis, who was a serious filmmaker, who wants to market Elvis as the Bing Crosby of the '60s, which is something that Elvis aspired to. In addition, Elvis is about to make two serious pictures, Flaming Star and Wild in the Country, which offer roles also very much in line with what he has aspired to. I'm trying to portray what's going on at the time. Not to look at it with hindsight and say, 'Oh, Wild in the Country turned out to be a really lousy picture.' It would be easy to portray that moment, with portendous thunder-rolls in the background, as, 'Elvis is about to enter into Hollywood Hell!' But that isn't really the way it was."

One of the most frustrating aspects of Presley's post-army career is watching his talent being wasted on projects that provided him with little, if any, creative satisfaction. As Careless Love dramatically illustrates, the first few years after Presley's army stint were highly successful, a period filled with hit movies, singles, and albums. Then film work took over, and Presley's career, and his own enthusiasm, sank into a rut. Things looked up again during the "comeback" period, from the airing of the Elvis television special through his Las Vegas engagements in 1969 and 1970. But Presley was unable to maintain the momentum and again sank into a rut, which this time ended in his death.

Guralnick feels that part of the reason Presley couldn't build on the success of his "up" periods is because "Elvis did not have the greatest attention span. He ran through things very quickly. In a lot of the early interviews I did, people like Lamar Fike {one of Presley's "Memphis Mafia"} talked about how quickly Elvis got burned out on Vegas. And I'd thought they meant over a period of five years. But I think by the time he came back to Vegas for the second time, he was no longer as interested. He had proved that he could do it; he had conquered Las Vegas, he had been restored on the pop charts. And it wasn't that he ever lost his love for performing, because I think the connection with the audience was one of the most important things in his life. But as far as engaging on the level that he had at the first Las Vegas shows, I don't think it ever happened again."

The latter half of Careless Love is particularly difficult to get through, as it deals with the demise of Elvis. Presley's return to touring in the 1970s quickly becomes as monotonous as his '60s film career. And the man who was once outraged if someone so much as opened a beer in his home, can't get through a day without ingesting a cornucopia of drugs. Yet even as Careless Love details this painful decline, you still can't point to a clear answer to the question: Elvis — what happened?

"If I could've said that in a sentence, I wouldn't have written a book, probably!" said Guralnick. "There is really no pat answer. I think it was an accumulative process. It's clear that as time goes on, there's just a sense of aimlessness. It's almost as if he had lost his way. I think it would be oversimplifying to say that his mother's death alone created that feeling, but I think it certainly contributed to that feeling. Because he saw his success as being, in a way, for his mother. Everything he had ever dreamt of had come true. And then the very reason for dreaming it was taken away. I think that caused a real crisis of faith. And I think he spent the rest of his life trying to figure out what it meant, why he was put on earth to be Elvis Presley, what he was meant to do with his success.

"At the end, you see someone who has lost his faith in himself and has become almost totally dysfunctional," Guralnick continued. "And he keeps seeking to renew his strength through what amounts to an impersonal contact with his audiences. I'm sure this is what was so disturbing to the people around him who cared about him. Much of the time there was no longer a real connection. And yet enough of the time he could break out of it, except at the very end. And so they would delude themselves, thinking, 'Maybe he's going to change, maybe things are going to get better.' But I think in the last two or three years it became evident that they weren't."

Guralnick ends Careless Love at Presley's death; "I was never interested in what followed," he said. But interest in Presley has remained strong, with RCA continually seeking out still more previously unreleased material to satisfy the demand, Presley's home, Graceland, becoming one of the top tourist attractions in the country, and a fan base that seems to be, if anything, growing.

"I think one reason for the continuing loyalty of Elvis fans is that he never left them, he never left his class," said Guralnick of Presley's posthumous "career." "As much as he may have been a star, as much as he may have led a life that was very different from the lives his fans led, I think he maintained a commitment to his working class origins. And I think that's something which has continued to appeal to the fan base that he started out with."

But Guralnick's own feelings about Presley's importance remain fixed on his music.

"Elvis created a body of work that continues to live," he said. "It's electric, it's alive. Elvis created something original and inspired a generation of singers who flocked to the doors of Sun Records. People like Jerry Lee Lewis, Carl Perkins, Charlie Rich — they all came to Sun because of Elvis. He inspired them. It's that inspiration that has continued to prevail. And I think that's the reason you go back and listen to Elvis Presley."

And anyone looking for a serious critique of Presley's work need look no further than Last Train to Memphis and Careless Love.

1970s; disc two serves up the b-sides, then tacks on eight more cuts which trace the group's history back to pre-Chinnichap days, when Mud were going nowhere fast with a string of appallingly obscure 45s. Never previously available on CD; rarely seen even on vinyl since the day they reached the shops, all eight offer a delightful snapshot of their era, and a band which was so straight that they couldn't even sing the words "flower power" without sounding a touch disgusted by the entire sordid concept.

Chinnichap remodelled Mud; re-dressed them as well, in an array of shocking limes and yellows, and the hits began rolling. "Crazy" and "Hypnosis," neither of which offered any clue to the eccentric firestorm which was to follow, debuted the band in the chart: "Dynamite" consolidated their reputation — "Tiger Feet" did the rest.

Even vocalist Les Gray, reminiscing over the whole thing in the accompanying booklet, admits that after that one, the notion of quality control went out of the window a little — "Moonshine Sally," originally held back "because it wasn't thought to be good enough"; "Nite On The Tiles" — "I wasn't mad about this one". But the kids were, oh yes, and the monsters kept mounting. When Mud were really, truly, on, nobody came up with dafter, punchier, dancier, rockier, singles ("Rocket" still reaches the sky), and the great thing was, when you flipped their 45s over, the party just got better. It's not so easy to dot hat with CDs, of course, but the principle remains the same — Mud might never look good in posterity's eyes, but if you like belts the size of beltways, trousers wider than walruses, and records that leave you grinning like a bagful of badgers, The Singles will keep you going steady forever. That's right, that's right, that's right, that's right....

HANK WILLIAMS
The Complete Hank Williams
Mercury (314-536 077-2)

"Like Charlie Parker, Billie Holiday, Robert Johnson and a small handful of others, Williams, alone and in absentia, has had to absorb America's need to localize psychic demolition, even as his music has fostered a cultural legacy that continues to grow," Daniel Cooper's notes muse. It was New Year's Day 1953 when the hillbilly Shakespeare — age 29 — was pronounced dead en route to a comeback show. A combination of pills and alcohol had felled Hank himself rather than kill his pain from a congenital degenerative spinal ailment, his own hell-bent self-destructiveness and his tormented love for the infamous Miss Audrey that had lasted beyond two divorces and a new marriage to a feisty red-haired teenager.

With over 225 tracks, this deluxe 10-CD box does his memory proud. Different discs spotlight his 1946-52 studio sessions plus demos and radio, TV and stage performances. We hear a taped plug for his songbook plus concerned parent Hank's testimonial about polio. There's comedy with Cousin Minnie Pearl, who staunchly took his side when much of Nashville washed their hands of him. Though it was his own fault, he died, to borrow his words, "alone and forsaken by fate and by man."

ELVIS PRESLEY
Tiger Man
RCA (07863 67611-2)

Memories: The '68 Comeback Special
RCA (07863 67612-2)

Just in time for the 30th anniversary of Elvis Presley's 1968 television special Elvis (now more commonly referred to as "The Comeback Special"), come two more releases drawn from that historic show.

Over the years, songs from the recording sessions for the show have appeared on at least nine albums, trickling out over the years. All told, there were 10 sessions: studio sessions June 20-23, 1968; informal dressing room rehearsals June 24-25; two performances before audiences on June 27; and two more live performances on June 29, meaning there's been a lot of material to draw on.

Tiger Man presents the complete 8 p.m. show of June 27, and while most of that show's performances do appear on other releases, this marks the first time that any of the live shows have been released in their entirity. The two performances on June 27 (including an earlier 6 pm show) were also Presley's first live performances since 1961. Perhaps this accounts for Presley's nervousness, even during the second show; he falters over introductions, even while reading the cue sheet, and forgets the lyrics of his songs, struggling through "Blue Christmas" while cheerfully admitting, "I wish I knew the words!"

But the clearly thrilled audience could care less about the occasional mistake. Year after painful year, Presley's fans had watched their idol sleepwalk his way through an increasingly lackluster parade of movies (and the accompanying dreary songs). Now he was back, showing off his newly slimmed-down body in a skin tight leather outfit, casually hanging out with his backing band (including two familiar faces from his '50s group, guitarist Scotty Moore and drummer DJ Fontana) performing songs with an element that had been noticeably lacking for the past few years — passion. He might not get remember the all words to "One Night" or even "Heartbreak Hotel," but the pure emotion and drive in his delivery more than makes up for the lyrical inaccuracy.

Memories: The '68 Comeback Special goes one step further, including numbers from every session — studio and live performance — held for the show. The first CD features most of the songs from the 6 p.m. live show held on June 29 (which had Elvis performing in the small "boxing ring" stage on his own). In contrast to the shows on the 27th, Presley sounds full of confidence, as happy to be performing live again as the audience is to see him.

The second CD features the entire 6 p.m. July 27th performance (to complement Tiger Man's presentation of the 8 p.m. show). There are also a few more songs from the dressing room rehearsals of June 24-26, captured by Presley aide-de-camp Joe Esposito's tape recorder, "When It Rains, It Really Pours," "Lawdy Miss Clawdy," and "Baby What You Want Me to Do," the latter used a vamp in most of the live performances. Best of all, Memories also includes the only song that remained unreleased from the Comeback Special's studio sessions, "A Little Less Conversation," cowritten by Billy Strange and Mac Davis (originally recorded for the film Live A Little, Love A Little).

But while it's great that RCA continues to find yet another previously unreleased track from the sessions to release, it begs the question as to why they don't take the most obvious approach — releasing the complete sessions in a box set. This seems to be the direction they're heading anyway, and out of all Presley's post-army sessions, the "Comeback Special" clearly deserves a box set of its own.

ELVIS PRESLEY
Rhythm and Country: Essential Elvis Volume 5
RCA (07863 67672-2)

Though Memphis, Tennessee, had long been a hotbed of diverse musical styles throughout the 20th century, few would argue that it was Elvis Presley's success on the Memphis-based Sun Records label in the 1950s that was responsible for firmly putting the city on the musical map. By the end of the '60s, Memphis was home to other equally notable studios: Chips Moman's American Studios (where artists like The Box Tops, Dionne Warwick, and Dusty Springfield had recorded) and the legendary Stax Studios. Presley recorded some of his most popular songs during sessions at American Studios in 1969 (including "In The Ghetto" and "Suspicious Minds"), and perhaps it was with this previous success in mind that he chose in 1973 to record in Memphis again at Stax Studios.

Sessions were held in both July and December of 1973, with most of the songs appearing on the albums Raised On Rock (which featured material from the July sessions), Good Times and Promised Land (the December sessions). Rhythm and Country, the fifth release in the Essential Elvis series, features alternate takes of songs from both sessions, primarily focusing on the second round in December.

The July sessions had been marred by a number of problems. Stax's staff was barred from the sessions, the studio was not set up to handle recording in the "live" style Presley preferred, and Presley's lack of interest in the sessions was clearly evident in his habit of showing up hours after the scheduled starting time. On the first night he didn't show up at all, and on the fourth night, when he learned that his personal microphone had been stolen, he promptly returned to Graceland, ending the sessions on a sour note.

Nonetheless, there are strong performances to be found, even among the so-called "outtakes." Both "I've Got a Thing About You Baby" and "For Ol' Times Sake" (written by Tony Joe White, who also wrote "Polk Salad Annie," already a favorite in Presley's live shows) hit the light country groove that was Presley's trademark sound in the '70s. He also reached back into his past, recording two numbers by Jerry Leiber and Mike Stoller (responsible for such Presley hits as "Jailhouse Rock" and "Hound Dog"), "If You Don't Come Back" and "Three Corn Patches," though even the songwriters would have to admit they were not among the best songs in their catalogue.

The December sessions proved to be far more satisfactory. The element that really made the difference was the fact that instead of working on material controlled by Presley's publishing companies, he was free to record songs he actually liked. The good vibes are apparent straight away in the first song recorded during the December sessions, "I Got a Feeling in My Body," take one bumping and jumping along in fine funky form. Take one of "There's a Honky Tonk Angel" and take eight of "Good Time Charlie's Got the Blues" further mine the country vein, and take three of "Talk About the Good Times" (written by Jerry Reed, who also wrote "Guitar Man," which Presley had recorded in 1967) is flavored with the lively gospel sound Presley always loved. Chuck Berry's "Promised Land" fuses country and blues with a confidence that's clear even in take four; the final version would go on to hit the Top 20 in the singles charts.

But in spite of the success songs from the sessions found on the singles charts, the accompanying albums wouldn't even scrape the Top 40; most of Presley's hit albums in the '70s were live recordings. But Rhythm and Country offers another look at what was destined to be Presley's last truly productive time in the studio. And they reveal an artist who, when he had the right material, could become a wonderfully engaging performer.

From the primitive-folk-art postcard portraits of Hank to the detailed song-and-session notes, the authoritative compilation is everything a box should be even if — despite its title — it's only "almost" complete. Small matter. For example, we get but five of the 49 selections from his eight intriguing Health & Happiness radio shows syndicated in 1949 since the entire set is already in print for anyone who wants it.

Scratchy previously unissued tapes where 17-year-old Hank pretended to be doing a radio show reveal how early his white blues singing style matured. He didn't call himself a country singer. Heartbreak being his dominant tone — even with happy lyrics — no one ever sang "let's lollygag and smooch and love" as sorrowfully as he. In the studio his romantic songs rarely sounded sexy, but in front of a cheering audience he gives "Honky Tonkin'" a drawn-out growl like a pole cat in heat.

The rarities and newly unearthed treasures include teenaged Anita Carter dueting on "I Can't Help It" on The Kate Smith Show and a "Kaw-Liga" demo where he hadn't yet mastered the melody. "Dear Brother" is a trio with Kitty Wells and her husband Johnny Wright of Johnnie and Jack. From 1949, spellbinding cover "Rockin' Chair Money" seethes with what hadn't yet been named rock and roll. "One can hear Hank's long-gone lonesome blues as sounding the penultimate death-knell of Southern romanticism, his poor boy's vision of Armageddon as a worried man's repudiation of the old ways," say Cooper's notes. Two photo-filled books show skinny, bespectacled young Hank amid his stocky relatives. Did many other 12-year-olds wear glasses in Depression-era Alabama? His original hand-written lyrics ("Praise the loard, I saw the light") reveal how little some songs were revised after the initial effort. A page headlined "Letters" offers four to and from him, but the two business letters signed "Hank" obviously aren't his writing. It's a woman's hand. One's on Audrey's letterhead, raising the question of whether she handled his business correspondence.

While ambitious Audrey pushed him to the spotlight, her myriad cruelties led to despairing songs like "You Win Again" recorded the day after their second venomous divorce. Once, returning from a tour, he found she'd had an abortion in their house during his absence. Devastated as a devoted father, he still visited her in the hospital when complications arose, only to have her hurl his presents at him. Returning home, he dealt with his grief by writing "Cold, Cold Heart." Theirs was a marriage made in Hell. Now and forever the bitter fruits of Hank's torment — simple but timelessly eloquent — are the Bible of American roots music.

JAN AND DEAN
Raven RVCD-78 (Aust. import)

There is an apocryphal story about how much music a CD can hold — when the CD was first invented, one Japanese technician suggested that there should be enough room on a CD to play, uninterrupted, Beethoven's entire Ninth Symphony.

With that 60-80 minute capacity, some CDs have become outlets for "twofers" — two 30-minute albums that are squeezed onto one CD and sold at a bargain price. This latest Jan and Dean re-release goes one step further — it takes three of the California surf duo's albums and packs them into one compact disc — with enough room left over for a minute-long bonus Coca-Cola jingle.

Taken as a single unit, the three albums in this CD — Popsicle, The Little Old Lady From Pasadena and Drag City — give the listeners a good overview of Jan Berry and Dean Torrance's mixture of surfing songs, hot rod music and novelty tracks. The album's 34 tracks show Berry's meticulous production techniques on tracks like "When It's Over" and "Dead Man's Curve" (in the liner notes, P.F. Sloan remembers how Berry would go through hundreds of experiments with limiters just to get the right sound from his drums).

Also featured on this CD compilation are Brian Wilson and disc jockey/songwriter Roger Christian (who collaborated with Berry on such tracks as "Dead Man's Curve," "Move Out Little Mustang" and "Schlock Rod [Pts. 1 and 2]"). And Berry's girlfriend, Jill Gibson, sings on such tracks as "Surf Route 101" and "I Gotta Drive," — by adding a female vocalist to his surf mix, Berry may have been re-interpreting the male-dominated surf music vocal genre. One can only speculate on what direction Berry could have taken surf music had a 1966 car accident not derailed his recording career.

The Popsicle album, originally a quickie LP created by Jan & Dean's Liberty label from old tracks and previous releases, gives listeners to the CD a surf-influenced version of the Beatles' "Norwegian Wood (This Bird Has Flown)" and the 1962 doo-woppish "Tennessee," backed by the Buddy Holly-less Crickets. Those tracks were, respectively, the last and first recordings by Berry and Torrance before the car accident on Dead Man's Curve, and were used by Liberty to capitalize on the sudden Top 20 post-crash success of the "Popsicle" single.

Although the albums in this "three-fer" CD contain many of Jan & Dean's biggest hits -- "Little Old Lady From Pasadena," "Dead Man's Curve," "Drag City" — it unfortunately leaves their biggest hit, "Surf City" off the disc. While the attempt to squeeze three albums into one CD has some merit, one wishes someone had jettisoned some of the instrumentals like "Sting Ray" or "Skateboarding Part II" to make a little more room for Jan & Dean's #1 hit. And by including the entire "Little Old Lady From Pasadena" album, we get not one, not two, but four different "hot rod grandmas" songs (the title track, "One Piece Topless Bathing Suit," the instrumental "Old Ladies Seldom Power Shift" and "The Anaheim Azusa & Cucamonga Sewing Circle, Book Review And Timing Association").

Still, As Easy As 1-2-3 does have some solid moments, and does make for a nice retrospective of Jan & Dean as album artists. And with the increasing technology in CD recording, now that the 3-LP barrier has been broken, one wonders if a record company might attempt to create a "four-fer" CD.

MARC BOLAN
Hard On Love
Retroactive (RECD 9001)

This may, as a sticker on the sleeve proclaims, mark the first time these tracks have been available in America, but it is not their first time around by any means. Recorded between 1966-67, both before and after Bolan's departure from John's Children, and on into the early dawning of Tyrannosaurus Rex, the 21 demos and out-takes which comprise Hard On Love are amongst the most ubiquitous of early Bolan recordings, despite the decidedly fraught circumstances surrounding their initial release.

Originally scheduled for release by Track Records in 1972, again under the title Hard On Love, the album was pulled at the superstar's insistence. It reappeared two years later as Beginning Of Doves, and since that time; disappeared again when Track went under; and has been floating in and out of view ever since, usually within nasty, cheap repackaging jobs which offer little more information than they have to.

The original sleeves to both Hard On Love and Beginning Of Doves are reproduced, and while we still don't get the crucial recording info, there is a bonus track, a period version of "Perfumed Garden Of Gulliver Smith" which turned up on 45 in 1972.

In terms of Bolanic legend, Hard On Love is a key release. Produced by Simon Napier Bell, Bolan's manager at the time, it is predominantly acoustic, although several of the songs will be familiar from later, fuller, re-recordings: "Lunacy's Back," "Beyond The Rising Sun," "Rings of Fortune," "Beginning Of Doves," "One Inch Rock" and "Misty Mist" are all demos for the first Tyrannosaurus Rex album; "Sara Crazy Child" and "Hot Rod Momma" have both surfaced in more manic form on various John's Children releases; while there's also a 50-second fragment of J.C. themselves, appended to Rex's longer, demo version of "Sally Was An Angel."

Equally noteworthy is the fact that Hard On Love features the original, untouched versions of several of the tracks which were "augmented" by other musicians following Bolan's death, and have since appeared on countless compilations of their own. And enjoyable enough though those revamps were, one listen to the same songs in their raw state swiftly reveals them for the frauds they were. Even with just an acoustic guitar for company, Bolan had a sound, and a personality, all his own. Dilute that, and you dilute everything.

So there's nothing here which the confirmed Bolan addict won't already have, but a lot which deserves to be heard by a far wider audience than that. The most gifted songwriter of the early 1970s, after all, did not simply appear out of nowhere; he had, in fact, already spent six years honing his art in readiness for his breakthrough. And even this early into the process, he knew exactly what he was doing.

EDDY ARNOLD
The Tennessee Plowboy And His Guitar
Bear Family (15726 EI)

Eddy Arnold was the first postwar country music star to break into mainstream pop stardom. Beginning in the early 1950s, when he got his own primetime network show — the country performer ever so honored by national television — Arnold was nearly as popular a figure as his RCA-Victor label-mate Perry Como. So it may amaze listeners to learn that most of the 120 tracks on this five-CD box will be unfamiliar to anyone under the age of 50. Fewer than a dozen have ever appeared on LP, much less CD.

All were recorded between 1944 and 1950, during the period in which Arnold rose to country stardom, but had not yet found pop stardom. Interestingly, they also capture the evolution of country music in the immediate postwar period, transformed from what was initially a sound close to hillbilly music — "Mommy Please Stay Home With Me" b/w "Mother's Prayer" — and running up through "I'm Writing A Letter To The Lord," done in the earliest manifestation of the smoother, more sophisticated "Nashville sound" that Arnold helped to popularize. Arnold's music on the early sides (which include his first version his signature tune, "Cattle Call"), was heavily influenced by Gene Autry, but was much closer to hillbilly music, dominated by a thin, twangy guitar and fiddle sound.

Those songs are valuable not only for the glimpse they give us of Arnold's voice at the outset of his career, but also for affording us an opportunity to hear his own band, the Tennessee Plowboys. Arnold had intended to hire the more experienced members of Pee Wee King's Golden State Cowboys (with whom he'd also worked) for his first session — they were unavailable, however, so his own band played back-up, without a producer. Despite an obvious lack of polish, that first single sold 85,000 copies, a healthy number in the shellac-rationed days of World

RETAILER PROFILE

Seattle's Soundwaves — A Musical Experience

By Amy Hanson

It was 1987 when Scott Turner opened the doors of Soundwaves, beginning the tradition of excellent service and superior stock the store is best known for. And ignoring the ups and downs of small business, it's been pretty steady all the way through. Soundwaves has never had a zero day — the only nail-biting slump occurred when the store moved to a new location just as the Gulf War began. But once people pulled themselves off their television screens, it was back to business as usual.

"[1987] was good timing for us," Turner admited. "We got in early on the CD market, and realized that there were these import companies out there, and America was so far behind. There was so much people wanted on CD, and at the time there were only two pressing plants. We knew our niche was going to be bringing in imports and hard-to-find stuff you wouldn't find at the chain stores. We've been the leading carrier of import items in this area since we started."

And it's true. Looking for a German Gruppo Sportivo reissue? Soundwaves is the only place in the northwest where you're going to find it. An outlet for import CDs is easy to understand now, in the '90s. But the question remains how hard was it to flog CDs in the late-80s, before the average Joe had a player or even really cared? But, of course, the average Soundwaves customer is often not your average Joe.

Turner says that it was difficult at first, primarily because for any new release, three formats (vinyl, cassette, CD) needed to be ordered. And that can be tough on a fledgling business budget.

"We realized there was a real need for imports, catering almost really to the collectors rather than the mainstream. You'd find something like [the import-only] Queen's Greatest Hits and bring it in. We were selling 10-12 of those a week at the time. For years, it was that and The Cult Love CD. Jim was bringing in Deep Purple and all that stuff, and people would come in and freak out to the tune of $400 because of the stuff we had."

Although it did take time to build a customer base, mostly through word of mouth, his customers remain the most enduring and probably the strongest in the city. Scott has what he calls a mental list of "Soundwaves Gold Club" members — customers who started with the store in '87 and still shop there today.

And although excellent service is key, and music knowledge is cascading out the door, Turner readily admited that "when I started, I had no business opening a record store. You think you know something, but the only thing you know is what you like. You get in there, and you're so inundated with the amount of product out there, and the diversity of what people are into... it's been a learning process that continues to this day. There isn't a day that goes by where I don't learn something."

That willingness and openness to learn is one of the nicest aspects of this store. There is no "cooler than you" attitude at Soundwaves. Ask a stupid question, get one hell of an answer back. Obviously, the diverse amount of stock crammed into a relatively small space is what brings people in, but it's the knowledge that means almost as much to the store's customers. Scott, Jim and Eric have been collecting for a combined 85 years, and each has his own specialty.

But despite Scott's penchant for Brit-pop and '60s stuff, Jim's oasis of Deep Purple facts and Kinks kronicles, and Eric's love for punk and new wave, the best-selling artist in the store in the fall of 1998 was — Tori Amos.

"We couldn't keep enough Tori Amos singles in the store." But Turner has a pretty good idea of what sells. "We went through the Radiohead thing and then The Verve. It goes in waves. It depends really on what's current. We're doing really well with Brit-pop right now, especially because no one else really stocks all the singles. Trip-hop is really big on singles right now. We try to bring in all those rarities."

But don't expect much flavor-of-the-month here. Soundwaves keeps up on current trends but also makes sure much of the store's racks allow space for hard-to-find stuff as well. It's one of the only stores in the area where you can pop in, buy the new Morcheeba album, pick up T. Rex and Pretty Things reissues, check out audiophile vinyl, and special order Klaus Nomi all with one stop.

Special orders make up a large part of Soundwaves' business and Turner can proudly claim an 80 percent success rate on special orders, and countless happy customers. Drawing from a unique and vast assortment of contacts, the store has ordering capabilities that cover the globe. And even better, customers are not required to leave a deposit for special orders, something Turner feels strongly about.

"I want customers to leave wholly satisfied and happy with their purchase. If we special order an item and the customer doesn't want it for whatever reason, we'll put it into the rack. And a year later someone else will come in, see it, and jump up and down because they've found something they've spent years looking for."

What are some of those oddities and rarities that Soundwaves has at the moment? Turner said, "tons of old singles. I just got in an original pressing of Question Mark & The Mysterians' "96 Tears" that's still in the shrinkwrap! And out of Japan, a 30-CD Madonna box set. It's every one of her 7-inch singles on a three-inch CD. But, really, our collectable stock changes so much.

"Older stuff is selling well now. Metallica stuff is selling well. The deleted Mother Lovebone CDs sell well, early Nirvana stuff — radio promos. I try to price things fairly, so I don't sit on collectibles very long."

Judging by some of the serious collectors whom Soundwaves counts as customers, it's amazing that collectable items stay in the store for any time at all. From the indie singles buyer who has some 18,000 CDs to the pair of 7-inch buyers who pick up 30 to 40 new 7-inch releases a week, to those who buy every available release from a genre, regardless of how many copies they already have at home. Turner has seen it all.

"Sometimes" he chuckled, "you don't want to show stuff to certain customers, because you know they'll take it all and they really can't afford to. We've had people in who buy stuff at the beginning of the month and resell it at the end so they can pay their rent. It's kind of upsetting."

But aside from a handful of record junkies, the overall experience has been incredibly positive for Turner. He has shrugged off suggestions that he move his store into downtown Seattle, because he loves being part of a smaller community — the store is actually based in Burien, 20 minutes south of the city. Community service is part of what makes having the store worthwhile for him. He has informally mentored many kids over the years, lending a non-judgmental ear, turning them on to good sounds and also sharing his love of music with them. For Turner, it's about passing on tradition, relaying the folklore of music to a new generation. When he says it's not about money, the statement is honest and utterly believable. Although, of course, bringing home a paycheck is nice, too!

And what indie record store would be complete without its drop-in famous musicians? Soundwaves, Turner insisted, doesn't have a huge coterie of heavy hitters. However, "Bill Rieflin [ex-Ministry] shops at our store. Jeff Buckley used to stop in every time he was in town, Sky Saxon from The Seeds has been in, Sasha from KMFDM, Andrew Wood and all the Mother Lovebone guys used to come in. We're so close to the airport that sometimes when you have a rep with an artist, they'll swing by the store. But, really, there's not a whole lot."

It's that easy-going spirit which makes Soundwaves an enjoyable store to shop. The vibe is good and the music on the turntable is almost always a pleasure. Scott, Eric and Jim are just the three guys behind the counter. If the store were a bar, it would be Cheers, and if the store were not earthbound, it would have to be record collectors' heaven.

WE'RE LUCKY THAT TYSON NEVER BOXED WITH JOHN BOBBITT!!!

At the hearing to determine whether or not Mike Tyson's boxing license would be reinstated, Bobby Czyz explained his opinion as to why Mike Tyson had bitten off Evander Holyfield's ear: "If I hit an opponent, he said, and his eye fell out.... I would eat it before he could put it back in!!!" (Paraphrased from TV Guide)

AUTHENTIC RADIO SHOWS ONLY. We prefer credit cards or money orders. Checks must clear before shipment. Priority mail charges of $ for first item and $2 each additional item also apply. NO RESERVES!! We have thousands of radio shows by hundreds of artists. If you don't see the show you are looking for in this ad — give us a call — we may surprise you.
Mailing/insurance on some memorabilia items will exceed our normal "per item" cost.
NO BOOTLEGS OR SHOWS TAPED FROM THE AIR!!!
ATTENTION FOREIGN BUYERS: HERE'S HOW TO BUY FROM "THE OLD HIPPIE." Please use fax only, mail takes too long. We accept credit cards, wire transfers, International Money Orders in U.S. dollars, and cash by registered mail. We do not reserve, nor do we ship by "surface" mail. Your fax must contain your name (as it appears on credit card), your address, the items purchased, your credit card number and expiration date, and your return fax number. We will add exact cost of "Express Mail" to your credit card.

24 HOUR FAX - NON BUSINESS HOURS ANSWERING MACHINE

The Monthly CD Newsletter

Comprehensive and cutting-edge compact disc news for consumers and collectors.

ICE provides collectors and enthusiasts with a monthly dose of unrivaled CD coverage. Each issue is crammed with exhaustive release schedules and the first word on new albums, upcoming box sets, reissues and industry news. Add to that coverage of special collector's issues, promotional discs, imports, European live discs, and the CD Watchdog column — which allows readers a dialogue with record label executives, who scramble to explain mistakes — and you have ICE covering CDs like no other publication.

• "ICE is probably the best source for CD news in the world . . ." — New Musical Express

• "When ICE arrives . . . every month, there's always a fight to see who reads it first, and there are few higher recommendations than that." — Billboard

• "ICE isn't afraid to name names of poor-value discs, or single out the praiseworthy ones." — Musician

• "ICE digs up scoops and raises issues . . . and is passionate, opinionated, frisky and fun." — Los Angeles Times

For a complimentary copy of ICE and no obligation trial subscription, just drop us a line; overseas customers please remit two IRCs. First class subscriptions are $39/one year or $69/two years in North America; for overseas airmail, $52/one year or $95/two years.(U.S. funds only please). THE MAKING OF PEPPER

"The most original and exciting Beatles collectible I've seen in years!"
—Lou O'Neil, Jr., of CREEM Magazine

From the photographer's archives, the ORIGINAL unretouched, uncropped and unedited photograph used for the cover of "Sgt. Peppers Lonely Hearts Club Band". This large 18"x24" full color lithograph is extremely rare. It shows props, backdrops, lights, and even faces removed prior to album cover production, and it's more vivid and vibrant than the store bought album. It's a magnificent wall hanging! This piece is an absolute must for any Beatles fan or collector!

Order now and receive FREE "THE MAKING OF PEPPER." This original pamphlet tells the story of this all-time classic album cover. It details the conception and production of the cover and each song on the album with dates, orchestrations and the complete key to the photo.

Quantities are limited — ORDER TODAY! Send $34.95 US plus $4.00 s+h in continental U.S.; $8.00 s+h outside continental U.S., to:

ELVIS WORLD
P.O. BOX 388, BOUND BROOK, NJ 08805

We specialize in finding Original 50s Rhythm & Blues/Rock & Roll 45s and LPs.

Lots of original 60s material also available. Call/fax us with your wants, or send us your wish list. Send all correspondence (and PLEASE INCLUDE YOUR PHONE NUMBER) to our address below.
We also carry cool, alternative compact discs covering the 60s to 90s. Many titles available to satisfy every R & R taste.

Although it's been a long, confusing (not to mention out-of-sequence) wait for the fourth installment of the legendary "G.B. Series" by BOB DYLAN, Zimmyphites the world over may now sigh with relief as the long-awaited and grossly misrepresented (by OTHER dealers, of course) TAKE 3 should finally be arriving just as you read these words. It's got a boatload of NEVER-HEARD tracks, gang. Call for confirmation, as well as info on the already-in "Folk Rogue" and "Tonight I'll Be Playing Here For You". Also ask us about new ones by DWIGHT TWILLEY (rare & unrlsd. studio/live), ELVIS COSTELLO W/BURT BACHARACH (live SB's from their limited tour), BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN (you got it... the two newest E - Streets packed with perfect-quality, never-before-heard studio outs & alts, along w/C-Cat's "Winterland Night"), THE WHO (yes, those three new breakthrough titles that you just read about in ICE), CREAM (a prev. unrlsd. SB follow-up to "Ricky Tick" from 5/67), NEIL YOUNG (the definitive Neil collection from '76 via the "Rolling Zuma Revue" just mentioned in ICE), THE ROLLING STONES (a surprising NEW - and far more authentic - release of their legendary Hyde Park, '69 gig, plus their great, recent Stockholm gig from C-Cat), GRAM PARSONS (an astounding 2CD studio/live anthology covering '63-'73, with virtually all tracks prev. unrlsd. and deluxe packaging), and new Punk Vault titles from UNCLE TUPELO (their final gig - and a SB), and BIG STAR (absolutely incredible studio & live from '75-'77). AND AN IMPORTANT NOTE TO YOU BEACH BOYS FANS who have been patiently waiting for the newest (i.e. FOURTH) batch from SEA OF TUNES, as well as restocks of older volumes: They're finally in, so get on the phone and reserve yours now... supplies ARE limited. Why? Because, as always (unlike those OTHER dealers), the ones WE carry are REAL - NO CDR'S). There's lots more, too, so FOR ALL THE DETAILS, CALL/FAX US NOW.

RIP IT UP! P.O. Box 142, Bloomfield, NJ 07003 • Phone (973) 743-0878 • FAX (973) 743-6316 (24 hours)
Best times to call are mornings 8:30-NOON, or you can give us a try at nights 10:00-11:30 (EST). Monday thru Friday only. Fast, reliable service.

ALWAYS ELVIS

Tel: 734-454-1499 (between 10 a.m. - 10 p.m. EST please)

Happy Holidays to all and Happy Birthday Elvis!! We are working on a new catalog to be completed early in the new year. If you are a regular customer and on our mailing list, you will get one. For everyone else who would like a copy, please send a large self-addressed stamped envelope (or send $1 in U.S. or $2 please for foreign delivery). We specialize in vintage classic Elvis collectibles such as original Humes H.S. Yearbooks, Sun Records, Autographs, early E.P. Ent. items, RCA records and tapes from 1950's to present, paper items and other memorabilia. Some rare, some not so rare, but anything and everything, and "always Elvis." We try to have something of interest for everyone interested in the life and career of Elvis Presley. Your satisfaction is 100% guaranteed. Please write or call; you'll be glad you did and we would love to hear from you!! We ourselves have been life-long collectors and we are in our twelfth year as a dealer. Quality stuff, fair prices, good service. We also buy and pay good prices. One piece or whole collections.

War II, and more sessions followed, the group augmented with more experienced studio musicians and producer Steve Sholes managing his sessions. Arnold's music achieved a fine, lean sound that was a compromise between hillbilly authenticity and commercial country music.

You can hear country music starting to change, beginning to reach out to a wider, less rural audience in the 12 songs he cut over a one-year period after World War II. With "All Alone In This World Without You" and "Can't Win, Can't Place, Can't Show," however, Arnold's music makes a huge leap forward. Played by a band of Sholes' chosen personnel, these songs show a sophistication similar the most smoothly commercial work of western swing performers like Tex Williams and Hank Thompson.

Additionally, his singing loses the twanginess of his earlier work and becomes more expressive. Arnold becomes a sophisticated country crooner, outdoing Gene Autry at his best on numbers like "That's How Much I Love You." This is not backwoods music anymore — it's smoother, with a swinging element that a lot of country music (other than western swing) was still trying to achieve. The second disc, covering the year 1947-48, includes seven previously unissued songs, and shows Arnold consolidating his earlier success, and acquiring a greater range in the process — the sentimental numbers are still present, but he does more with them, milking them for far more emotion and also a richer sound. The third CD shows Arnold's voice mellowing into a fine instrument — his low range is richer, and he reaches the high notes more easily, and he sounds more comfortable doing it. The previously unissued tracks include one diamond, "Till The End of the World," a sweet, bracing piece of country pop.

Disc Five has a number of religious songs that come off well due to Arnold's sincerity, and also his first sessions with Chet Atkins. By this time, Arnold's voice evolved into a wonderfully polished baritone, turning him into almost a countrified Bing Crosby (he even covers "White Christmas"). The sound is excellent, and the notes are informative, although there is little about the recording sessions.

VARIOUS ARTISTS
Generations Of Folk, Volume Four: The Troubadours
Vanguard (78005-2)

This CD is the fourth in a series of folk compilations. Though immensely enjoyable, Vanguard has stretched the word "folk" pretty thin. On Volume Three, we had The Turtles, The Hollies, and The Association ("Cherish") alongside Joan Baez, Mimi and Richard Farina and the likes of Hamilton, Joe Frank and Reynolds (is "Don't Pull Your Love" anything close to folk?).

Generations Of Folk, Volume Four: The Troubadours is much nearer to folk (OK, Stephen Bishop's pop classic "On And On" isn't even close, nor is Michael Johnson's weepy ballad "Bluer Than Blue"). Don't expect "pure folk" here. This is the type of collection you pick up if you're missing some classic songs. The twelve tracks spread over 48 minutes range from lesser-known contemporary artists (compared with the classic "hitmakers") like Joshua Kadison, Paul Kelly and John Jennings (Mary Chapin Carpenter's producer-guitarist). The great ex-Plimsoul, folk-blues artist Peter Case, is probably the truest practitioner of the word troubadour except for Richie Havens (he does his well known cover of the Beatles' "Here Comes The Sun").

The disc opens with the full length (8:30) version of Don McLean's "American Pie." Next up is Yusuf Islam (better known as Cat Stevens) on the mesmerizing "Wild World." "Garden Party" isn't really folk, but Rick Nelson & Company were melding folk-rock with country. Some give him credit as the first. Some say Gram Parsons {Especially with his work as a Byrd on 1968's Sweetheart of the Rodeo LP. — Ed.}. Some swear it was ex-Monkee Mike Nesmith. Who knows .. . it was all around the same time frame. This track finally got the modern rock-pop audience to take him seriously again after his "Bobby Soxer/Teen Idol" days had long since faded. The last well-known track here is actor/singer Keith Carradine's "I'm Easy," a true folk piece that garnered him an Oscar for song of the year in 1976 (for the brilliant Nashville in which he also co-starred). Tim Buckley is represented with the folk-cum-jazz ballad "Sing A Song For You" from 1969's Happy Sad.

There are no unreleased tracks or alternate versions on Troubadours, but if you're missing two or three classics and don't want to fork over the green for separate discs, this is quite a worthwhile compilation to stick in your archives.

SHEB WOOLEY
That's My Pa
Bear Family (BCD 15902 DI)

Sheb Wooley has had four careers, which is three more than most of us ever get — as an actor in western movies (including High Noon) and on television (Rawhide); singer/writer of "Purple People Eater"; as country-comic personality "Ben Colder" ("Don't Go Near The Eskimos"); and as a country musician, ranging across everything from western swing to ballads and the modern Nashville sound. This four-CD set focuses on his music career, which is Wooley's longest — 113 songs cut between 1945 and 1972 — yet his least well-known. Most were never on LP, and few have been in print in decades.

Wooley was a singer, guitarist, and songwriter before he ever got near a Hollywood soundstage. The first 10 cuts on this box, dating from 1945 and 1947 for the Bullet and Bluebonnet labels, reveal him as a talented ocalist, composer, and bandleader — a mooth Gene Autry-type singer with more epth and range with a good western swing and behind him. On the MGM sides, beginning in 1948, the music is more polished, nd also more sentimental, and loses some of he snap of the earlier sides. "Spanish Darling" is a Gene Autry single that never was, while "Freight Train Cinders In My Eyes" has elements of a novelty song in its se of musical sound effects; it also has startling room ambience, giving the feel of a live recording. The rollicking, bracing "Indian Maiden Romance" shows off Wooley's way with a story-song as well as the western swing sound that he still specialized in — listening to it, one gets the feeling that, in a different reality, Sheb Wooley and not Johnny Bond would've come up with "Hot Rod Lincoln."

This set shows us a fascinating set of might've-beens — toward the beginning of the 1950s, Wooley was making records with a band that almost always included Speedy West on pedal steel, and usually had Jimmy Bryant on lead electric guitar, giving his work a smooth virtuosity and a crisp electric sound. Numbers like "Hoot Owl Boogie" and "Boogie Woogie Waltz" show him moving in a direction that merged western swing with components of R&B. His music from this period could easily have moved toward rock 'n' roll — it even plunged in, briefly, years early, on the instrumental "Backroom Boogie" — but Wooley never made that jump. Perhaps it was just that Wooley, prolific as he was, was splitting his time a little too successfully between the recording studio and the movie studio, acting in pictures like High Noon and Little Big Horn, and on Rawhide.

This set reveals a talent that might've been too prodigious for Wooley's good. He was cutting cowboy songs, western swing numbers — some with flashy guitars and a beat that might've made them a bit accessible to rock 'n' rollers — and sentimental country songs (plus, of course, "Purple People Eater"). In the midst of all that, it was never possible for the public to draw a bead on his music. This set veers sharply in mood and style from song to song — almost all of it is good, although Wooley's Nashville-style romantic numbers are a weak link — but beyond the early western swing years, it's too inconsistent. It is a good partial overview, however, of a man whose careers in music (but not the music this set focuses on), movies, and television has put him into our pop culture consciousness three times over. The accompanying booklet and notes are a finely detailed account of the man's career.

DAVID RUFFIN
The Ultimate Collection
Motown (314530959-2)

EDDIE KENDRICKS
The Ultimate Collection
Motown (314530958-2)

EDWIN STARR
The Very Best Of Edwin Starr
Motown (314530940-2)

David Ruffin was one of the greatest voices at Motown, yet you would never know it from looking at his solo career after leaving the Temptations. He had only two big hits: the aching "My Whole World Ended (The Moment You Left Me)" and the silky smooth Van McCoy production "Walk Away From Love." After hearing his ear-opening Ultimate Collection, the lack of success has to be blamed on inadequate promotion (rather than the material or Ruffin's singing, which is first-rate throughout).

Motown did a pretty good job of assembling Ruffin's best recordings for this twenty-track set. Aside from the two big hits, we get all of Ruffin's minor solo chart efforts like the desperate "I've Lost Everything I Ever Loved" (too similar to "My Whole World Ended..."?) the inspirationally upbeat "I'm So Glad I Fell For You," and the pretty "Everything's Coming Up Love." There are also some dynamite album tracks, including the reflective "Who I Am" and a scorching "I Miss You" which is the equal of Teddy Pendergrass' hit version with The Blue Notes.

Most noteworthy is the haunting "Statue Of A Fool," which continues to be a favorite on oldies and adult contemporary stations everywhere. (An odd sidenote to this recording. It is listed in the booklet's track lineup as a Ruffin composition, with lyrics quoted and attributed to Ruffin by annotator David Ritz — who should know better — in his accompanying essay. In actuality, this gorgeous ballad was a number one country hit by Jack Greene in 1968 and was penned by noted Nashville songwriter Jan Crutchfield).

The only conspicuous omission on this set is Ruffin's charting duet with brother Jimmy on the Ben E. King classic "Stand By Me." Maybe they are saving it for a long overdue Jimmy Ruffin collection (we could only hope). Or perhaps it was left off since this "buddy" version doesn't fit in thematically with the rest of the songs, which all deal in various stages of romantic relationships. Whatever the reason, one oversight isn't too bad — particularly for Motown.

Like Ruffin, Eddie Kendricks had two monster pop hits: the early disco classic "Keep On Trucking" and its similar follow-up "Boogie Down." Unlike Ruffin, he maintained a steady stream of R&B chart hits during his seven-year solo tenure at Motown, with nine singles reaching the soul Top Ten. In hindsight, this is not surprising as Kendricks left the Temptations on good terms and remained a reliable employee at Motown during his solo years (unlike, on both counts, the volatile Ruffin).

The enclosed R&B hits — like the cheerful "He's A Friend," the shuffling "Shoeshine Boy" and the angst-filled "Tell Her Long Has Felt The Need" — are pleasant though never compelling or memorable. Kendricks' falsetto is great when used to offset the harmonies of an awesome group like the Temptations, yet on his own it becomes painfully obvious that he lacks the depth and range of a Ruffin or Marvin Gaye. Instead of lucidly driving the message of a song home, his voice tends to serve as one more instrument in the mix of this collection's primarily dance-oriented tunes.

Surprisingly left off the Kendricks' set were such R&B Top Tenners as "Son Of Sagitarius," "One Tear" and "Happy." At their expense, we get an eight-minute "Keep On Trucking" and a seven-minute "Boogie Down," both of which are long on repetition and short on substance (the single edits would have been far more satisfactory). There are some choice album cuts found though in "This Used To Be The Home Of Johnnie Mae" (with Kendricks abandoning his falsetto and sounding somewhat like Jermaine Jackson) and the exhilarating oldies staple (on rainy days) "Date With The Rain."

Ultimately, this sixteen-track set isn't quite The Ultimate Collection it purports to be. Still, it does provide a good look at Kendricks' steady — if unexciting — solo career.

Motown never gave the fiery-voiced Edwin Starr anything resembling a decent retrospective — until now. Even though they have owned Starr's '65-66 Ric Tic label hits ("Agent Double-O-Soul," "Stop Her On Sight," "Headline News," "Back Street") since his contract was acquired in 1967, these soul classics weren't included on the only previous Starr best of (Superstar Series, Volume 3). This collection includes them all, along with a nice surprise: the 1966 R&B Top Tenner "I'll Love You Forever." Credited to The Holidays (a studio group), this recording anonymously featured Starr at his most mellow.

All of Starr's biggest Motown hits are here as well (of course). The ultra-funky "Twenty-Five Miles" was his first hit at the label and probably his best recording ever. It'll have you "ah-ah-ah-ah-ing" for days. The number one hit (pop and R & B) "War" carries a simple, classic message, made all the more urgent by Starr's frenetic delivery. "Stop The War Now" was its less-than-clever follow-up while "Funky Music Sho Nuff Turns Me On" (along with the Temptations' "Psychedelic Shack") is — '70s Motown at its most dated. Still, since both singles were Top 10 R&B hits, they do merit inclusion.

The most significant recording missing here is Starr's 1969 charting duet with Blinky on his composition "Oh How Happy" (a bigger hit initially in 1966 by The Shades Of Blue). Other minor favorites left off include Starr's original version of "You've Got My Soul On Fire" from 1973 (made into a Top 10 R&B hit by The Temptations the following year) and the theme song to the 1974 Blaxpoitation film Hell Up In Harlem. At fourteen tracks and less than 42 minutes in length, Starr's is easily the skimpiest of these three new releases. Maybe we'll finally get that Blinky duet on disc when they give her the "best of" treatment (expect hell to freeze over before that happens).

Three more Motown greats have been somewhat adequately anthologized on CD. Maybe Motown will now turn its attention to Jimmy Ruffin and those long neglected Velvelettes!

Takoma Blues
Takoma (TAKCD-8907-2)

In a culture that has developed its information storage methods to such a profound level that the desire to save everything has reached the point of obsession, it is good to know that some of what is being saved really does warrant the effort. Filed under that heading is the reissue volume Takoma Blues, as it reclaims for the future moments of history in the form of performances of many of the legendary traditional blues musicians.

Takoma Blues saw its original release on vinyl as two separate collections on the Takoma label, Chicago Breakdown and Rare Blues, both of which were comprised of recordings made by Norman Dayron in Chicago in the early to mid-1960s. Recorded for the most part in informal surroundings such as bars, coffeehouses and the living rooms of the principals, the music preserved hardly sounds pristine, but remains of reasonably good fidelity.

Among the noteworthy renditions on the 22-track set is a 1963 recording of Eddie Boyd performing his 1952 standard "Five Long Years." Boyd's reading of the number was practiced yet hardly rutted, and still worked so well even after a decade of performances that it is small wonder that it is still played today by the likes of Buddy Guy. The classic "Good Morning Little Schoolgirl" shows up twice on the set, once as played on guitar by John Lee Granderson and once by Dr. Isaiah Ross in a haunting solo harmonica performance in the University of Chicago concert hall.

Great names abound on the collection, among whom is the seminal Delta bluesman Son House in a performance of "Preachin' Blues" on a National Resonator guitar. Big Joe Williams contributes four songs to the set, including a showcase of his trademark 9-string guitar on "I Ain't Got Nobody." He is joined by the legendary harmonica of Paul Butterfield for "Stack O' Dollars" and "Whistling Pines."

Dayron's recordings could hardly have been meant as an archive of an era when they were recorded, but now they are precisely that. Many among its songs, like James Cotton's "Ford V-8 Blues," are informal and raw, but polish was never what the blues were about. As a storehouse of performances given by great practitioners of the blues in intimate settings for fellow lovers of their music, Takoma Blues restores irreplaceable moments of a period long since passed into legend.

TOMORROW
The Fifty Minute Technicolour Dream
RPM (184) (U.K. import)

They are one of the legends of British psych. Two successive singles, "Revolution" and "My White Bicycle," rank amongst the greatest singles never to take the charts by storm; guitarist Steve Howe and drummer Twink rate amongst the most inventively individual musicians of the entire late 1960s; Hendrix and Zappa were both avowed fans of the ban, and Tomorrow's entire legend rests upon an album which witnesses insist never captured an iota of their true magnificence.

It's still a lot better than this, though. The Fifty Minute Technicolour Dream offers two sides of the band: the clutch of demos, outtakes and BBC sessions which devour the first half oft he disc, and the live performance which swallows the rest. But neither offers much more than a glimpse of even the album's imagination.

Previously released on vocalist Keith West's own, infinitely superior, RPM compilation, two demos intended for the soundtrack to the cult movie Blow Up prove only the wisdom of giving the gig to the Yardbirds instead. Two unissued out-takes prove that the band used their best stuff on the album. And an alternate version of "Revolution" shows that they used the best of the best stuff as well. Oh, and the BBC tracks — the best thing in sight by far — are also on the West collection.

Fascinating historically, and enjoyable enough as a collection of curios, "the first album of new Tomorrow materialsince their debut in 1968," as the liner notes put it, is halfway over and it's already a non-event.

And it gets worse. The second half of the album regurgitates an admittedly rare, and doubtless magnificent, recording of the band in full live flight, opening for Hendrix and the Move at the Christmas On Earth festival at London's Olympia in December, 1967. But the sound is sub-bootleg, the distortion swamps everything, and by the time the band reaches the closing "Strawberry Fields," forever is a particularly unpleasant concept. One more minute of this noise would be too many.

Neither Tomorrow nor the RPM label can be faulted for any of this, of course. The liner notes are stupendous, the details and illustrations are priceless, and the fact remains, Tomorrow were an incredibly important, and highly influential, band — so much so that if this is the only archive material in existence, then history needs to hear it. But listeners lured in by the band's reputation (or even memories of Nazareth's hit version of "Bicycle") are going to have a hard time of things, casual fans should stick with their first album, and even dedicated archaeologists won't play it more than twice. Approach with extreme caution!

— Dave Thompson

GANG OF FOUR
100 Flowers In Bloom
Rhino (RS 75479)

Of all the Angry Young Bands who arose in Britain in the late '70s to rail against the status quo, Gang of Four was one of the smartest and most subversive. Unlike their punk compatriots the Clash and the Sex Pistols, these former Leeds art students steered clear of blatantly stirring up the powers-that-be, preferring instead to contemplate the de-humanizing effects of capitalism and consumer greed. Naming themselves after the leaders of the Chinese Cultural Revolution, Gang of Four also forsook punk's spit-froth ferocity in favor of a minimalist musical approach.

Constructing brittle, angular funk out of abrasive metal-guitar riffs (think Robert Fripp-meets-James Brown), the band relied heavily on repetition to evoke a hypnotic sense of treadmill corporate life and Stepford wife complacency. Underneath the near-disco rhythms and disaffected vocals, however, lied a portentousness that was inescapable.

This two-CD retrospective spans Gang of Four's entire 18-year career, beginning with the 1978 EP, Damaged Goods, and concluding with 1995's Shrinkwrapped. Generous to a fault, the collection includes 40 songs (including eight unreleased tracks) and boasts a total playing time of two hours and forty minutes. In keeping with Rhino's solid reputation for informative liner notes and attention to detail, the accompanying booklet features a lengthy historical overview (courtesy of author Jon Savage) and a healthy sampling of photographs. Among the annotations are the U.K. and U.S. release dates of each of the band's ten official albums, and easy-to-follow data regarding the group's many changes in personnel.

Listening to the compilation from start to finish, one can't help marveling at Gang of Four's consistency in regard to both its lyrical themes and its musical vision. Although the songs seem to be presented in random order (or at least with little attention to chronology), the collection coheres like the jagged pieces of an intricate puzzle. At the center of it all is Andy Gill's incendiary guitar work. Though lots of guitarists in the late '70s and early '80s were known for creating painterly textures by use of atonal riffs and unusual time signatures (former PIL axman Keith Levene springs to mind, and of course U2's The Edge softened and patented this style), Gill was more adept than most at carving endless permutations out of seemingly simple ideas. Most importantly, he continued to work within these narrow stylistic parameters right up until the group disbanded in 1995, thereby establishing an ingredient that unifies Gang of Four's entire body of work.

Of course, the other main arsenal in the group's attack was its knack for conveying the spiritual erosion fostered by capitalist economies. As Savage points out in his fine essay, Gang of Four viewed life as a 'market of the senses in which decades of advertising and consumerism had penetrated the collective subconscious to the extent that individuals felt paralyzed, their souls stolen.' Though the group was careful not to proselytize, songs such as "Contract," "Return the Gift," and "Capital (It Fails Us Now)" left little doubt as to the band's stance regarding the insidious harm done by free market societies. Interestingly, the group never really offered an alternative — a fact that's perhaps even more unsettling than its pessimistic take on life in the modern world.

Vast as Gang of Four's impact has been on groups such as Rage Against the Machine, Fugazi, the Red Hot Chili Peppers, and even the Indigo Girls (who in recent years have enlisted the musical services of former Gang of Four bassist Sara Lee), the band deserves a demerit or two for sometimes falling prey to the New Romantic excess of the '80s. On occasion, the group's mid-period work succumbs to a synthetic danceability more befitting crowd-pleasers such as INXS or Tears For Fears. Still, unlike many of its contemporaries, Gang of Four managed for the most part to create vibrant songs that resist being confined to a particular time and place. Bottom line is, this retrospective portends well for the group's influence surviving far into the future.

Peter Green

For many Fleetwood Mac fans, the Peter Green-era of that band was the best. As a founding member back in 1967, Green's blues background with John Mayall's Bluesbreakers formed the early Mac's blues sound prior to its more poppy – yet hugely popular – Buckingham-Nicks-McVie sound of the mid-70s. Green left the band abruptly in 1970 and stayed out of music for a few years before releasing several solo albums. He's now back with another new effort – and his story to tell.

booking some bands at that time. He gave me a job managing his club La Ronde. I became the Director of Entertainment and Manager, then went on to do the same work at the Sheraton/Peabody. I've been in the hotel business ever since. I'm involved in management; it's very far from the life I used to have.

Do your colleagues and workers today know who you used to be?

(Laughs) I showed a video of Teenage Millionaire to my staff last Christmas (1997), and now they're waiting for me to take out my sax and play this Christmas. Don't think I'm not tempted! I even took my sax down to the shop. So far, I'm the only one that's going to hear me play! I won't go public until I think I sound good again. I have all these old records to compare myself to.

How about a larger audience?

Ace Cannon called and talked about getting on stage together. He's still playing, and I've been out of it all these years. I told him, "I'm spotting you over 30 years and I can still blow you off the stage." We both had a pretty good laugh over that. There's actually somebody in Memphis who is trying to set things up — sort of a cutting contest — but I'm not quite ready yet.

There's one way in particular you're quite different from most of the musicians I've interviewed. You're about the only guy I can think of who seems to save things: clippings, photographs. It's like you were documenting your own career even as it was happening. How did that come about?

My collection of memorabilia began in early childhood because my mother took pictures of our family with her old Kodak and kept them in scrapbooks for us to browse through. I continued the tradition and used to ask her to take photos of me during my early school days. So I have pictures of me with my first band, the "Jivin' Five," back around 1950 at a bank opening in Memphis. I've got later pictures when I was in high school and college that include Conway Twitty, Billy Riley, J.M. Van Eaton, and many of the guys we've talked about. Each time we performed, there would usually be somebody there with a camera to record the event, and when I received copies, they would go into a special "box of memories," which I kept because I wanted something for my children and grandchildren. I want them to know how I evolved into a '50s performer. Those photos and old records will help them understand when they grow up.

Note: A cross section of Martin Willis' sax work for the Sun Record label is available on Volumes 3 and 4 of The Complete Sun Singles, a series of boxed sets issued by Bear Family Records.

Jr. pg	7 1/16"x10"	477.00	453.00	429.00	405.50	382.00

COLOR:

A. One color and black $175.00
B. Full color (4-color) $500.00
(Plus color separation costs)
C. Based on availability.
D. Color is possible on any size ad.

UNIT SPACE ADVERTISING:

Units space ads are the easiest way for you to sell records, tapes, compact discs, books, memorabilia, and any other collectibles you have for sale. Units also work well for want lists, announcements, etc. The better your unit looks when you put it together, the better it will look in GOLDMINE.

You may use any bidding deadline you wish in your advertisement. If no deadline is noted, it will be understood that the deadline will be one month from the cover date of the issue in which your ad appears.

One unit space equals one 8½" x 11" typed sheet. This applies to both regular and super unit space ads.

Type your copy legibly onto 8½" x 11" white sheets. We'll reduce it as is to 38% of its original size for regular units and 59% of its original size for super units. A regular unit space is one ninth of a page; a super unit space is a quarter of a page. Remember to include your ordering information, postage rates, grades, deadlines, name & address, etc. on your first unit. Do not send any partial units. There is a $10.00 charge per photo for unit ads which contain photographs.

We will typeset your name, address and phone number at the bottom of your unit space ad for you, and a heading at the top, if you specify one. There is no extra charge for this. If you ask us not to typeset anything on your ad, we'll do nothing. Otherwise the typesetting will appear.

Do not reduce your copy before putting in on 8½" x 11" format. Avoid all caps in your copy, except for headlines. Keep the copy clean. Dot matrix printers do not work well for unit ads, but if you must use one print it as dark as possible. Faxing unit space advertisement is not recommended.

Regular Unit Space Advertising Rates:

(Cost per unit, per issue; ads must run in consecutive issues. Contract required to earn consecutive issue discounts)

1 ISSUE	3 ISSUES	6 ISSUES	13 ISSUES	26 ISSUES
$55.00	$52.50	$49.50	$47.00	$44.00

Full page of 9 - $423.00 • Each additional after 9 - $47.00

Super Unit Space Advertising Rates:

(Cost per super unit, per issue; ads must run in consecutive issues. Contract required to earn consecutive issue discounts)

1 ISSUE	3 ISSUES	6 ISSUES	13 ISSUES	26 ISSUES
$115.00	$109.50	$103.50	$98.00	$92.00

Full page of 4 - $423.00 • Each additional after 4 - $104.50

COLLECTOR'S SHOWCASE

The Collector's Showcase is a widely read advertising section in GOLDMINE. Each ad is in its own box, consisting of a space 3¼" wide and 1 11/16" high, or a multiple of that size. All typesetting is included in the price. We recommend no more than 14 to 15 typed or written lines per showcase box.

There are two Collector's Showcase sections available to advertisers - the Compact Disc Showcase, for those specializing in CDs; and the regular Collectors Showcase.

Showcase Advertising Rates:

(Cost per showcase box per issue; ads must run consecutively. Contract required to earn consecutive issue discounts)

1 ISSUE	3 ISSUES	6 ISSUES	13 ISSUES	26 ISSUES
$35.00	$33.50	$31.50	$30.00	$28.00

RETAILER DIRECTORY ..... $8.00 per issue

This section features listings for retail record stores around the world. Traveling record collectors of all types search for new stores to dig through on their vacations, business trips, etc. Advertise your establishment here, including ten words of miscellaneous description, for only $8.00 an issue. You can buy this space in increments of 13 or 26 issues, for $104 or $208, respectively. Send in your store name, address, phone number, and ten words of description, along with your payment. If you stock GOLDMINE, we'll put your listing in boldface type.

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

BOOTLEG POLICY

The advertiser is responsible for ensuring that advertised product conforms with national and international copyright laws. GOLDMINE magazine screens advertisements for bootleg merchandise. GOLDMINE magazine accepts no responsibility for transactions involving unauthorized product.

REFUNDS:

If delivery will take longer than 30 days from the date the seller received the order, the seller must inform the buyer and offer the buyer the option of a refund or delayed delivery.

Unless otherwise stated in the ad, the buyer has a 10-day return privilege from the time he/she receives an item from an advertiser. The buyer does not have to give a reason for a return and can demand a refund less postage costs. Advertisers must allow buyers to obtain authenticity judgements as the basis for retention provided they notify the advertiser of their intent within the applicable return privilege period.

All advertisers must provide a permanent address and telephone number before an advertisement will be run. If a post office box is used in an advertisement the advertiser must still provide a permanent address for our confidential files.

A completed reference form must be in our confidential files before any buy, sell or trade ad can be placed. See below. Minors are required to furnish a certificate of responsibility from their parents or guardian before their advertising can be accepted.

Payment must accompany an advertisement and must be in the form of a personal check drawn on a U.S., Canadian or Mexican bank; money orders; international money orders; cashier's checks; or with your VISA, MasterCard or AccessCard credit card. Send your credit card number, expiration date, and the name on the card, along with permission to charge the card for your ad, with your advertising copy.
