LN Settles Shoreline Suit

IVE NATION WILL PAY THE city of Mountain View, Calif., a $10 million lump sum and enter into a renegotiated lease at Shoreline Amphitheatre as part of a settlement agreement that ends three years of bitter legal maneuvering between the two parties.

Mountain View's city council approved an amended lease agreement with Live Nation at its meeting May 9th, replacing the previous revenue-sharing plan with one that provides a flat $1.8 million annual rental rate for up to 40 shows at the venue.

The city also retains naming rights. Other complaints between the two parties - primarily over parking - are dismissed.

The amended lease is for 15 years, with a five-year option. Another five-year option can be exercised by the city only, should it choose to continue using the facility for live entertainment. Mountain View also regains control of its land on which Shoreline sits 10 years earlier than it would have under the old agreement, signed by Bill Graham 20 years ago. The city had been receiving an average of $733,000 annually for the last 10 years under the old formula, which depended on

concert revenue and other income, according to a Mountain View City Council report.

The $10 million payment covers legal fees, court costs and back rent, according to City Attorney Michael Martello.

An updated audit by Alix Partners of Los Angeles in September found the city was owed $15.6 million in back rent, and $58 million in penalties on unreported income going back to 1998.

FORMER GREAT WHITE TOUR MANAGER Dan Biechele finishes his statement in tears at Superior Court in Providence, R.I., May 10th with his attorney, Tom Briody. Biechele was then sentenced to four years in prison for The Station nightclub fire. See story on page 12.

> Despite the bitterness on display during three years of court filings - including Mountain View's attempt to charge the former Clear Channel Entertainment under racketeering statutes -Live Nation and Mountain View appear to have buried the hatchet.

Live Nation execs first sat down with Mountain View officials in early April to consider a settlement. Prior to that, Martello had told Pollstar that the chance to settle was slim, accusing the company of withholding financial information and being unwilling to seriously come to the table.

Considering some of those remarks came as recently as March, all seems to have been forgiven with the settlement agreement.

"There's a new team in place over there now, and that's made a tremendous difference," Martello told Pollstar after the city council approved the amended lease agreement.

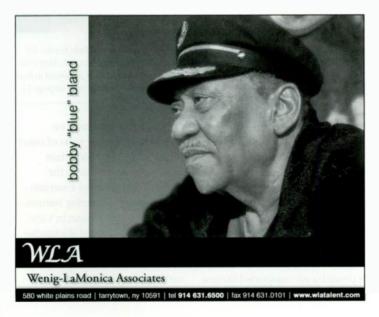

"We're happy to have these lawsuits, which we inherited, behind us so we can get back to doing what we do best, which is bringing great concerts to Shoreline Amphitheatre," LN global venues president Bruce Eskowitz told Pollstar.

In addition to the renegotiated lease and rental agreements, other deal points require Shoreline to implement new safety and security improvements, and upgrade the Resident Priority Ticket Program that allows ticket presales to Mountain View residents for many events.

Under that plan, 300 tickets are set aside for purchase at face value by Mountain View residents, including 200 in the reserved section with 100 of those located in the first 30 rows.

"The City of Mountain View is pleased to be able to come to agreement with Live Nation regarding the future of Shoreline Amphitheatre," Mayor Nick Galiott said. "The new lease and operating agreement paves the way for an improved and mutually beneficial relationship between the City and its Live Nation partners."

Launching BASE

CRMER CLEAR CHANNEL Entertainment execs Brian Becker and Scott Zeiger, along with a team of other former CCE personnel, have formed BASE Entertainment to produce, present and program live theatrical entertainment, the newly formed company announced May 5th.

When CCE spun Live Nation off as a stand-alone company, Becker and Zeiger went their own ways as well – though it has always been understood that the two would continue to work on projects with LN. Becker's non-compete with CCE/Live Nation expired at the end of April.

Since their departures, Becker and Zeiger have been putting together financing for acquisitions and development, including a purchase from Live Nation of half the $35 million production of Andrew Lloyd Webber's "Phantom – The Las Vegas Spectacular."

BASE also bought a partial interest in the highly successful Cirque du Soleil "Delirium" tour from Live Nation, as well as all of LN's interest in Planet Hollywood Las Vegas. BASE will construct, program and operate two Planet Hollywood theatres, including the 7,000-seat Theatre of the Performing Arts, at what is presently the Aladdin.

In addition, BASE is also a general partner of Martin Short's touring show "Fame Becomes Me," and is preparing to launch the Gordie Brown Comedy Show at the 700-seat performance space at The Venetian hotel/casino in Vegas.

Partnering with BASE Entertainment is Los Angeles-based private equity firm Clarity Partners, which focuses exclusively on investments in communications, media and business services. BASE also teams up with management

NEW ORLEANS Jazz & Heritage Festival producer Quint Davis meets backstage with Mayor Ray Nagin and his wife, Seletha, on the festival's closing day May 7th.

"We had a very, very amicable parting of the ways. But once we completed the transactions just before the end of the year, we had to go out and find the money."

They found the money, and a respected equity partner in Clarity, according to Zeiger.

"The obligations that we assumed – half of 'Phantom' is $17.5 million for our investment alone. It's a $35 million production. The creation, development and programming of the two theatres at Planet Hollywood are in the tens of millions. And the Martin Short musical that we're a general partner on is a $4.5 million investment, although we've syndicated that. Our investing in the Cirque du Soleil show, Delirium, is substantial," Zeiger said.

As for the Planet Hollywood project, Zeiger said it's a total commitment to both rooms.

"We are, literally and financially, obligated and are constructing the theatre," Zeiger said. "Once the construction is complete, on our nickel, we will program and operate it 52 weeks a year. Both those theatres will be our babies."

Zeiger added that BASE – not only an acronym from the principals' initials but an "homage to PACE, which is our origin" – will be making more announcements in coming weeks about international theatrical projects, including Asia, and initial bookings for the Las Vegas theatres.

BASE Entertainment currently has offices in New York City and Houston, and will open a fully staffed office in Las Vegas shortly. Deborah Speer

Jazzachella Fest

EG LIVE PRESIDENT/CEO Randy Phillips got a good lesson in the virtues of flexibility

THE INFIELD OF THE FAIR GROUNDS RACE TRACK is jammed with music fans for the New Orleans Jazz & Heritage Festival May 6th. Crowds exceeded all expectations during the emotional six-day event.

during the last few weeks, crisscrossing the country as two massive festivals overlapped the first weekend in May, and one continued the next.

And both came with challenges well beyond their usual scope.

The Coachella Valley Music & Arts Festival took on a couple of high-maintenance artists this year in Madonna and Kanye West. And the problems facing this year's New Orleans Jazz & Heritage Festival probably need no explanation.

Both were unqualified successes. Coachella sold out both days, believed to be a first, with Madonna performing a six-song set in the Sahara dance tent May 7th. In New Orleans the same weekend, a superstar lineup including Bob Dylan and Bruce Springsteen kicked off Jazzfest – an event few believed could even be pulled off just six months ago.

"We had to send one team to New Orleans and keep another in Los Angeles for Coachella," Phillips told Pollstar. "I was obligated to Madonna's manager to be at Coachella for her set, but what was happening the same day in New Orleans was such an emotional, amazing thing. Bruce was phenomenal; it was a crazy scene on the stage with more than 20 musicians up there at once."

While some fans and critics sniped that Coachella had somehow managed to "jump the shark" by booking such mainstream artists as Madonna and West for what many consider to be the premier showcase for cutting-edge emerging talent, Phillips brushed off the criticism.

"Coachella was such a dismal failure it sold out both days," Phillips said, laughing. "But what it proves is something different – that it's able to support a broad range of artists and fans."

While final attendance figures aren't in for Jazzfest, Phillips estimated the crowds over the event's six days at 400,000. The annual festival has averaged about 500,000 in recent years, but this time the Fair Grounds site was literally under five feet of water in September at the height of post-Katrina flooding.

AEG Live and the New Orleans Jazz & Heritage Foundation coproduce the event. They decided in January the show must go on despite the massive damage to the festival site and the uncertainties of the market after the August 29th hurricane devastated the region.

"If you had told me in January that Jazzfest would have been this successful, I wouldn't have believed it," Phillips said. "Even now, hotel rooms are down by a third in the city and a lot of people who turned out drove in from the surrounding areas. It's a real statement of the support of people for Jazzfest and New Orleans."

The festival wasn't without its disappointment – native son and icon Fats Domino was forced to cancel his show-closing appearance at the last minute and was taken to a local hospital after coming to the festival grounds and apologizing to fans from the Acura Stage. But again, flexibility was the keyword - and Lionel Richie added an additional 40 minutes to his set, bringing down the house to close out the festival.

"Lionel Richie was fantastic," Phillips raved. "He was donating his time as it was, and he didn't hesitate to add on that additional time with almost no notice - and he had 50,000 fans going wild by the time he was done."

Phillips added that most of the big names at Jazzfest had either donated their talent or played at greatly reduced fees to cover travel and other costs.

Foundation president Quint Davis, decked out the last day of the festival in blue and white tie-dye, was especially pleased with the Jazz & Heritage Festival.

"I'm shocked, personally," Davis said. "It was all an unknown - how New Orleans was going to respond, how the nation was going to respond. When it turned out to be big or bigger than the other festivals, it was astounding."

Davis said he was especially surprised at the turnout for the festival's second weekend.

"It really was a big open question as to what the second weekend would be like, whether it would be down, whether it would have the same excitement. same power as the first weekend," he said. "I didn't expect it at all. It was just incredible." Deborah Speer 4

High Hopes For Praise Fest

AVING ORGANIZED MOSTLY secular concerts during his career, promoter Donnie Frizzell has created Praise Fest, a contemporary Christian music festival he hopes will turn into a worldwide touring event within the next two years.

Praise Fest will debut at Oklahoma City's SMG-managed Ford Center July 21-22. It will feature headliners Steven Curtis Chapman and Michael W. Smith along with performances from Jars of Clay, Third Day, Element, Hyper Static Union, Stellar Kart and more.

"The whole intent of Praise Fest is that we want to make it a contemporary Christian music festival that basically aligns between adult contemporary and contemporary Christian," Frizzell told Pollstar. "They're crossing borders more and more every year."

Frizzell, who serves as president/CEO of Frizzell Management & Promotion International, plans

Center and two other major venues on the east and west coasts next year.

"My idea of this is that it can be a tour," he explained. "Let's go ahead and take the top combination of Christian artists in America, and let's make tours out of them instead of just going into the churches.

"You might not sell beer all day long, but you're going to sell a lot of Coca-Cola and do a lot of good for everything else."

The promoter is currently working with Ford Center GM Gary Desjardins to potentially expand Praise Fest to other SMG-managed venues next year.

"Right now, the relationship with SMG is a very strong and heartfelt relationship," Frizzell said. "SMG has opened up to explore the options of, 'Yes, let's take this to other SMG-related properties."

Desiardins said he is excited about the idea of Praise Fest becoming an annual event at the 20,817-seat Ford Center.

"There's some big ideas on where it might be able to go," the GM told Pollstar. "You kind of get goose bumps when you think if how big it can potentially be."

But it won't stop there. By 2008, with the help of Disney, Frizzell hopes to take Praise Fest to countries like Australia, England and lapan.

"We've got a really good vision and task here, and we feel this is something we can brand," he said. "It can be a product development brand that we can take to this country and internationally."

Chains Scam Stops Short

SCAM INVOLVING A BOGUS Alice In Chains concert was halted May 4th thanks to a

THEY'RE HERE. Pigeons swarm in front of Hollywood's Capitol Records building April 19th. A bird lady has been dropping off three 25-pound bags of seed twice a day equaling 112 tons a year - on Vine Street, and the hands of city officials are tied until they can expand an ordinance.

Vermont venue manager who followed her instincts when the offer sounded too good to be true.

Jordan Yousem of Core Entertainment, AIC's management company, said he was alerted to the ruse by aliceinchains.com site manager Quick Community.

Yousem said Liz Lagrow of Backstage Restaurant in Essex lunction e-mailed to check references on Michael Robertson, who claimed to be Alice In Chains' manager. Robertson had contacted her, saying the band was interested in performing at the small venue May 24th following a gig at The Bowery Ballroom in New York City.

He then faxed a detailed contract - listing a Florida address and toll-free number as contact information - and two memos outlining his plan to buy promotion spots from a Clear Channel radio station.

"I double-checked with [the band's] agent to make sure that this person, Michael Robertson, did not in fact work for Creative Artists Agency," Yousem told Pollstar."I just wanted to make sure that he wasn't with CAA before I burned this guy."

Alice In Chains is co-managed by Core Entertainment's Bill Siddons, so Yousem knew this was a scam.

"I asked her to contact her local F.B.I. and police department. There wasn't much interest from either one of those parties on her end, so I contacted the Los Angeles F.B.I. office," Yousem said. "They said unless there's something on the order of $25,000 in the scam, they wouldn't be able to do much."

A copy of the unsigned contract dated May 2nd and related correspondence obtained by Pollstar shows a standard contract template with pertinent info typed in. The "act of God," or force majeure, clause is tellingly misspelled "force manure."

An Internet search shows the 800 number provided is either an alternate phone line for the physical referral department at Hardin Memorial Hospital in Elizabethtown, Ky., or the contact number for a Garth Brooks impersonator. Either way, all circuits were busy.

The bargain-basement fee was also a definite giveaway. The contract calls for a $1,500 deposit with a balance of another $1,500 due the day of the show. Ticket prices were to be set at $25 for a two-anda-half hour set. Sound, lighting, stage requirements and other policies are covered followed by a statement guaranteeing "a soldout performance prior to delivery of the balance due on the show."

Yousem said the Backstage Restaurant was the only confirmed scam attempt he knows of. The F.B.I. agreed to log the incident into its national database in case similar complaints come in.

"As of right now, we don't know that there's actually been an exchange, that anyone has given him any money," he said. "I haven't contacted [Robertson] and I instructed Liz not to contact him."

A similar scam involving a Lafayette, La., nightclub was scuttled in April. In that case, a phony artist rep contacted officials at the 300-capacity 307 Downtown and pitched a May 26th booking for an Axl Rose solo concert.

The scam artist also supplied a contract that was worded to sound legitimate. Venue management sent a deposit check as requested but put a stop payment on it after Rose's camp got wind and alerted them.

Petty Fan Club Scalpers

Mom PETTY & THE HEARTbreakers fan club members who purchased pre-sale tickets to the group's concerts at St. Paul, Minn.'s Xcel Energy Center and New York City's Madison Square Garden might find themselves without seats.

In a move that could be a first in the industry, Tom Petty manager Tony Dimitriades and Ticketmaster have canceled about 460 seats in St. Paul and 800 at MSG that had been set aside for online fan club members. Canceled seat locations could be found at TomPetty.com at press time.

Scalpers apparently joined the fan club in order to purchase presale tickets and re-sell them for a higher price through secondary outlets – a clear violation of the club's condition of membership.

"When you join the Tom Petty fan club, you agree that you're not going to re-sell the tickets you buy at TomPetty.com," a representative told Pollstar.

Petty's reps were tipped following the St. Paul presale, when fan club members posted messages on the site complaining that all the good seats were taken, according to the spokesperson. Dimitriades and TM were soon able to locate the tickets bought by scalpers and void their seats.

"A lot of analyzing of data was done and they were able to find out what tickets were sold online during the pre-sale and match them to tickets that were available online [at a higher price]," the spokesperson explained.

In a posting on Petty's Web site, Dimitriades said tickets will be offered once again to fan club members under stricter guidelines. Those who buy tickets will have to show a photo ID to pick up the ducats on the night of the concert.

"We don't claim to have completely eliminated all re-selling activity on these of any other shows," Dimitriades said. "But this is definitely a step in the right direction and a major strike on behalf of the good guys." The manager also wrote that fans who purchased tickets through an unauthorized seller would have to deal with that seller in regards to getting a refund.

"These scalpers are in business, and I think if they want to stay in business ... they're going to want to contact the people they sold tickets to and say, 'Look, something just happened and I feel obligated to let you know about it," the spokesperson said.

A similar situation occurred during a March 26th fan club pre-sale for the group's June 20th show at Madison Square Garden. About 800 seats had been canceled for that concert, according to Dimitriades.

He said the canceled tickets would be re-sold to fan club members, who would again be

Live Nation Posts $72M Gain

IVE NATION REPORTED $516.6 million in revenues the first quarter of 2006 for an increase of $72.1 million, or 16 percent, over the same period last year, in a May 5th conference call. Included in revenue is a $9.1 million decline due to movements in foreign exchange.

Operating income for the quarter increased by $35.6 million to $8.1 million, including a $7.7 million gain from the sale of operating assets, according to a company statement. Net income also increased by $23.8 million to $1.1 million.

The 1Q results are also the first for the company as a free-standing corporation since its split from Clear Channel Communications in December. Stockholders responded by pushing LN's share price to $20.24 at day's close May 5th, an all-time high and the first time share prices spiked above the $20 mark.

Live Nation shares have almost doubled in value since being issued December 29th.

OIBDAN, defined by the company as net operating income before depreciation, amortization or net sale of operating assets and non-cash compensation expense was $16.2 million during the first quarter, compared to a loss of $12,1 million in the same period in 2005.

"We delivered strong revenue growth in the quarter led by healthy gains across the majority of our businesses," Live Nation CEO Michael Rapino said. "With the reorganization of our company complete and more efficient cost structure in place we are now focused on aggressively executive our multi-pronged growth strategy.

"Our position as a global leader in live entertainment, our streamlined management team and our strong balance sheet provide us with a solid foundation from which to build our business. We believe we have an extraordinary opportunity to maximize the value of our assets, including our artist relations, our network of venues and the millions of fans who attend our events annually."

So far, it's shaping up to be a strong summer season for Live Nation, with tours including Madonna, Nine Inch Nails, Tim McGraw and Faith Hill, Kelly Clarkson, Crosby Stills Nash & Young, Shakira, Fiona Apple and Damien Rice plus festival favorites Ozzfest and the return of the Family Values Tour headlined by Korn.

Other shed tours expected to do well include packages with Def Leppard and Journey, Chicago and Huey Lewis, and Poison with Cinderella.

"While it remains early in the implementation of our business plan, we are making progress across a wide spectrum of initiatives," Rapino said. "A culture of accountability is taking hold across our operations and we are actively pursuing higher margin and more profitable opportunities.

"As we enter our busiest season of the year, we are pleased with the overall trends we are seeing across our businesses. We are confident that we will demonstrate tangible progress in implementing our strategy as the year unfolds."

multimillion-dollar screen for Radio City Music Hall.

Alleged problems with the screen have left the venue with "persistent and embarrassing (display) malfunctions" and "damages of at least $6 million," according to the lawsuit.

Madison Square Garden Entertainment President Jay Marciano described the screen as "the largest indoor, high-definition LED screen in the country" and called the company's experience with Barco an unmitigated disaster. "The screen has not functioned properly, and despite five months of attempts to rectify its considerable problems, Barco was unable or unwilling to resolve the issues," Marciano said in a statement May 3rd.

Radio City is seeking a full refund of $4 million for the screen and $1.8 million for additional costs related to installation.

Barco says it "firmly states that it has taken full responsibility as a professional supplier and has offered the customer a full and final technical solution. ... The matter is now being referred to Barco's legal counsel for further advice and appropriate steps are being taken to counter the allegations by RCMH."

According to the lawsuit, the written agreement between Barco and Radio City regarding the design, supply and installation of the screen states Barco is to repair or replace defects free of charge as long as Radio City took necessary steps toward proper installation and identified the defects within an agreed time frame.

The screen hasn't worked right since it was installed in October and has also malfunctioned during performances at the hall, according to the suit.

Reliability issues with the screen forced the venue to modify events, the lawsuit claims. Radio City says it will face costs associated with removing and disposing of the screen, acquiring a replacement and attorneys' fees.

Caesars Goes Montbleu

EVADA'S CAESARS TAHOE will soon vanish and be replaced with Montbleu Resort Casino & Spa, which will take on a Vegas-style image in hopes of attracting youthful visitors.

"The vibe inside is definitely an MTV and VH1 feel," PR Entertainment's Paul Reder told Pollstar. "You feel like you're walking into the Hard Rock."

Reder and his company will manage and operate the casino/ resort's 1,500-seat Montbleu Theatre and Blu Nightclub. He will also act as the theatre's primary talent buyer. All promotions will be done in-house.

The renamed 440-room Lake Tahoe resort is scheduled to open May 24th, the moment Caesars Tahoe shutters. But the doors will never actually close.

"The casino has been completely remodeled," Reder said. "It's something you would expect to see in a major metropolitan area."

The strategy behind Montbleu is to cater to 21- to 40-year-olds.

"Our feeder markets for Lake Tahoe are definitely Bay Areadriven: San Francisco (and) Sacramento," Reder explained. "Based on all of our market research, the product we're presenting here is something that has been needed in the Lake Tahoe basin for some time."

Acts confirmed for this summer include 3 Doors Down, Widespread Panic, Jason Mraz, Paul Oakenfold, Ice Cube, India.Arie, Staind, and Jamie Cullum.

Montbleu is also building a 4,000-seat open-air arena for various sports events including volleyball and boxing, Reder said.

The resort/casino, which is owned by Kentucky-based Columbia Sussex Corp., will offer seven different restaurants, four nightlife venues, a 40,000-square-foot casino, a new poker room and a spa.

Columbia Sussex and its affiliates operate 64 hotels, resorts and casinos in 28 states and overseas, including the Horizon Casino across the street from the Montbleu, the Lighthouse Point Casino in Greenville, Miss., and the Westin Casuarina property on Grand Cayman Island. Mitchell Peters

Twin Cities Venue Debate

ST. PAUL, MINN., CITY OFFICIALS are studying whether two taxpayer-financed developments will siphon business away from the area's established venues and are pondering what to do about it.

Plans to build a $1.5 billion stadium with convention facilities in nearby suburban Blaine for the Minnesota Vikings would compete with the $85 million RiverCentre convention hall downtown and the Minneapolis Convention Center. The market is also served by the Xcel Energy Center in St. Paul and the Target Center in Minnesota.

CHARLIE BARRECA wants to do sound for Twisted Sister one last time after nearly dying before a recent liver transplant. Barreca – the "sixth sister" – worked the soundboard for more than 3,000 of the band's gigs from 1975 to 1986. Guitarist Jay Jay French said he's open to the request.

5,500-capacity Roy Wilkins Auditorium, according to the Pioneer Press. Anschutz Entertainment Group is the company that would build the mall's PAC.

City leaders are reportedly concerned about the use of taxpayer money to finance venues in an already crowded market. A study commissioned by the city concluded the mall arena would significantly increase competition for concerts, the paper said.

"The regional discussion has to happen or we're going to cannibalize ourselves," Ann Mulholland, mayoral chief of staff, told the Press.

Both the Vikings and Mall of America projects could use property tax breaks and other subsidies to help pay the hefty price tags. Dana Warg, AEG senior VP of facilities, told the paper the arena would fill a niche in the Twin Cities area by offering comedy acts, children's shows and performers such as James Taylor at the reserve-seating facility.

Hillside Blues

The SOAP OPERA that is Freedom Hill Amphitheatre in Sterling Heights, Mich., continues even when the shed has its doors locked.

First, an attorney for the venue said it would reopen this summer in contrast to previous statements. Five days later, the amphitheatre's landlords slapped the operators with a lawsuit.

Freedom Hill closed operations in mid-April after a dispute with Macomb County, which owns the park where the amphitheatre is located. At stake was a negotiation with Palace Sports & Entertainment, which was in the process of a 90 percent purchase of Freedom Hill. Shed operators immediately filed a $250 million lawsuit, which is winding its way through the courts.

Meanwhile, spokesman for owners Hillside Productions Hank Riberas told Pollstar and other media that the season was canceled this year, but was hopeful the shed would rebound quickly and open next summer.

Then, Cindy Rhodes Victor, attorney for Hillside, contradicted Riberas.

"We are trying very hard to put on a season," Victor told The Detroit News May 5th. She did not say if any acts were booked.

Victor clarified Riberas' statements for the News, saying he meant that it would be "next to impossible" to assemble a concert season without PSE's help.

Then, Macomb County filed a countersuit May 9th, putting this summer season back in jeopardy. The suit, filed in federal court in Detroit, claims Hillside has shorted the county on revenues for parking, catering, advertising and ticket sales but does not give a dollar amount.

County officials and the Detroit attorney handling the case have been instructed not to comment on the countersuit by the county's legal department, according to The Macomb Daily, but Victor did comment.

"I find it amazing that we've been in this financial relationship for five years ... and they're now saying there are problems here, but they're not giving any amounts," she told the paper.

Victor added that the county has audited Hillside annually and said the process has provided accountability. The latest scuffle began when the county voted to keep 100 percent of parking revenue, changing a deal it had with Hillside to share the income.

The venue operators warned the sudden change would kill negotiations with PSE. When the commission refused to change its position, Hillside filed suit in federal court March 31st. PSE dropped out of the deal two weeks later.

Hot 97 Butt Of Eviction

EW YORK CITY HIP-HOP radio flagship Hot 97 announced the lineup for its "Summer Jam" festival April 28th – and within a week also got an eviction notice from its landlord after the latest in a series of highprofile violence outside the studio.

Adding insult to injury, the landlord slapped tough visitation rules on the three Emmis Communicationsowned stations inside the SoHo-area building – though a State Supreme Court judge overturned the most stringent of them within a week.

"They were warned in the past about the prevalence of unacceptable and unsafe behavior generated by their ill-conceived insistence on bringing dangerous people to the building," attorney Brian O'Dwyer – representing the NYC District Council of Carpenters that owns the building – told the New York Daily News.

"If we had Pavarotti's posse going against [Placido] Domingo's posse, I would do the same thing," he said.

The latest incident – and the last straw for the carpenters' union – occurred when "a third-rate local rapper went and got himself shot in the ass outside the station's studios" April 2nd, according to the Village Voice.

Some local media noted the similarities between the shooting of Jamal "Gravy" Woolard and a recent story arc in "The Sopranos" in which a rapper arranges to be shot "in the fleshy part of the thigh" for street cred. The hired gun is a tad high on his aim, hitting the rapper (played by Treach of Naughty by Nature) in the behind.

At any rate, Woolard's injuries were so sufficiently minor that he was able to conduct his interview inside Hot 97 before being treated and released at a nearby hospital. He reportedly is not cooperating with the investigation.

New York police, however, wasted little time installing 24/7 video surveillance cameras around the building, which is located in an otherwise quiet, trendy and relatively crime-free neighborhood. And the carpenters followed up by restricting visitors.

Emmis took the restrictions to court, and a week later State Supreme Court Justice Bernard Fried lifted the restrictions in what amounted to a ratification of an agreement between landlord and tenant.

On-air guests – recording artists – for Hot 97 must enter the building alone. The station must give the landlord four days notice for those guests and must hire an armed guard to patrol outside the station at least an hour before the guest shows up.

The station also agreed to install a telephone outside the building so the armed security guard can call police if there is a problem, and the guard must be licensed to pack heat.

Hot 97 has been the site of a series of highly publicized incidents dating to a February 2001 shootout between crews of Lil' Kim and Capone-N-Noreaga in which a 21-year-old was wounded. Lil' Kim is now serving jail time for lying to a grand jury about the shooting.

More recently, hangers-on of rappers 50 Cent and The Game were at the center of gunfire that wounded a 20-year-old associate of the latter.

Meanwhile, the Council of Carpenters agreed to the relaxed rules pending the outcome of the eviction lawsuit. "Ultimately, the only way to deal with this will be to have Hot 97 removed from the building," attorney O'Dwyer said.

Biechele Gets Four Years

manager Dan Biechele was sentenced to four years in prison May 4th. Biechele had pleaded guilty to 100 counts of manslaughter for his role in The Station nightclub fire.

Biechele admittedly lit pyro onstage at the West Warwick nightclub February 20, 2003, which ignited flammable acoustic foam that led to a blaze that killed 100 people. The former tour manager has maintained that he sought and was granted permission to launch the pyro by Station co-owner Michael Derderian.

Attorney General Patrick Lynch sought the maximum prison sentence allowed for Biechele after a plea bargain was reached and the tour manager pleaded guilty January 31st. The jury decision resulted in 15 years in prison, 11 years suspended.

"I know how this tragedy has devastated me but I can only begin to understand what the people who have lost loved ones have endured," Biechele said in his statement to the court May 10th, choking back tears. "I don't know that I'll ever forgive myself for what happened that night, so I can't expect anyone else to.

"I've never wanted anyone to be hurt in any way. I never imagined that anyone would be."

Prosecutor Randall White was emotional, too, when he spoke of the tragedy.

CAST MEMBERS OF THE MUSICAL "Love" rehearse in Las Vegas for the June 30th premiere at The Mirage Hotel-Casino. Cirque du Soleil and fifth Beatle George Martin are on board, as are tumblers, acrobats and bikers.

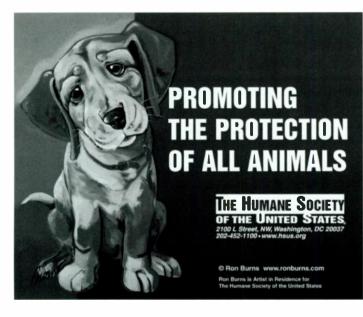

> "The devastation wrought by the conduct of the defendant is unparalleled in our state's history," White said, adding that the "suffering is endless, and the extent and depth of the pain is bottomless."

It seems as if nearly everyone in the small state of Rhode Island knew somebody who was in the club that night. Many family members gave impact statements at Biechele's trial, speaking of deep depression or of their longing for suicide so they could join their lost relatives.

Biechele cried when the father of the youngest victim said he often thought of the impact the fire has had on Biechele's own mother and said his son would want him to accept the tour manager's apology.

Biechele's attorney had attempted to get his client sentenced to community service.

"Daniel Biechele committed a misdemeanor," lawyer Thomas Briody wrote in a sentencing memorandum, according to The Providence Journal. "He set off pyrotechnics without the requisite permit. Albany, N.Y.'s Pepsi Arena has completed its search for a new naming sponsor and is expected to become the Times Union Center effective January 1st. The agreement is for 10 years and Albany's Times Union newspaper will pay the arena $350,000 annually and provide marketing and advertising. Pepsi held the naming rights to the 17,500-capacity, SMG-managed arena for the past decade but declined to renew its contract.

Live Nation and National CineMedia announced they have joined forces to bring more concerts into movie theaters. Concerts and other Live Nation events will be carried across National CineMedia's Digital Content Network, a digital satellite network that beams programming into 850 movie theaters and 11,000 screens in most of the Top 50 markets in the country. Making for a nice bit of corporate cooperation, Regal Entertainment Group – owned by Philip Anschutz and a sister company of Anschutz Entertainment Group – is one of three major movie theater chains that joined to create National CineMedia in March 2005.

Kentucky Derby winner Barbaro completely waxed his competition at Churchill Downs in Louisville May 6th, and that means cold hard cash for some in the concert industry. Freedom Hall held its 22nd Annual Derby Bet, with seven winners picking the colt on a $2 bet, netting $14.20. First off, there's Nat Burgess, who was listed in the announcement as an agent with APA when in fact his current job is woodworking and recording guitar solos for wolves in his Montana retirement home. Rounding out the list are AEG Live's Donna DiBenedetto, Beaver Productions' Barry Leff, Nederlander's Steve Liberatore (who won last year, too), the Farm Aid staff (w/Carolyn Mugar), Magic Arts & Entertainment's Mary Ann Porcaro and Venues Today's Linda Deckard.

Two people were shot late May 3rd in a parking lot near San Jose's HP Pavilion following the "Bomb 21" concert featuring rappers Bow Wow and E-40. The shooting occurred shortly after the sold-out concert let out, officer Gina Tepoorten told the San Jose Mercury News. The wounds aren't considered life-threatening. A man reportedly pulled out a gun and shot the two individuals after an argument broke out. Police were still searching for the suspect at press time.

Jay Black, leader of '60s band Jay & The Americans, might have to sell the band's name to pay off $500,000 in back taxes. Lawyers for the bankruptcy trustee recently recommended that Black auction off the name "Jay & The Americans." They also proposed stopping Black (real name: David Blatt) from performing as Jay Black or Jay Black & The Americans. The original members of the group want to reunite and have offered $100,000 for the use of the name Jay & The Americans, according to their attorney. Jay Traynor was the group's original frontman. Black said that gambling plunged him into debt, but that he has conquered the habit.

A pyrotechnician who once worked at the Louise Mandrell Theatre in Pigeon Forge, Tenn., pleaded guilty to stalking after sending a mysterious package to the country star's home. The package, sent by Kirk Easterwood on April 27th, had to be opened by a bomb squad because of his background with explosives. Police said he had a history of using a four-leaf clover as a calling card in his correspondence, and a clover was taped to the package. Inside was a pocketknife, Tarot cards, homemade greeting cards decorated with comic book characters, pyramids and crystal balls. Easterwood had harassed one of Mandrell's employees for three years after being fired from the theatre, according to police.

Heisman Trophy winner and former Oakland Raider Tim Brown was recently tapped to run the newly formed sports marketing division of AllGood Entertainment, based in Morristown, N.J. AllGood was a producer of this year's Plymouth Jazz Festival in the Caribbean, which included Sting, Diddy, Stevie Wonder, Patti LaBelle, Natalie Cole and Vanessa Williams. Brown will work with attorney and agent Charles Little to recruit talent to the division.

Insurance broker Robertson Taylor has opened a branch in Las Vegas. The address is 9005 South Pecos Ste. 200, Henderson, NV 89074. Telephone is 702-794-4450. Shari Violas will manage the office from Los Angeles. Robertson Taylor is planning further expansion this year and next.

A May 25th benefit concert will be held at Los Angeles' Key Club to raise money for the three children of manager John Gadberry (aka: Johnny G), who died in a car accident April 28th, agent Bobby Bessone told Pollstar. Gadberry was the manager and brother of rapper Tone Loc. The hip-hop benefit show will include performances from Digital Underground, Tone Loc, Coolio, Young MC and "other special guests." All proceeds of the show will be placed in a trust fund for Gadberry's children, Bessone said.

Columbian-American singer Soraya, 37, who won a Latin Grammy for best female album in 2004 and worked to educate Hispanic women about breast cancer, died in a Miami hospital May 10th after battling the disease. what he did. Not less; not more. His punishment should fit his crime, not the unforeseen consequences of his crime, however catastrophic."

Briody's memorandum included a report by fire risk engineer Robert Malanga that said the club's owners, Michael and Jeffrey Derderian, were more at fault.

"Initiation of the fire was directly caused by the use of pyrotechnical devices during a performance of the visiting band, Great White," Malanga reportedly wrote. However, "of considerably greater significance ... was the contribution of inherently dangerous polyurethane foam interior finish material, which was previously installed as soundproofing."

Malanga also faulted the Derderians for failing to get a permit to install the foam and a "history of noncompliance and defiance of the applicable codes including repeat and recurrent fire code violations."

Pyrotechnicians have told Pollstar that seeking permission of venue owners does not make pyro shows legal; state laws often require special certificates from local fire departments for each show involving pyro.

Briody said the court should take into account that Biechele's guilty plea has spared the victims' families of a trial, according to the Journal.

"More than three years after that terrible winter night in West Warwick, Dan Biechele is the only person to accept responsibility for his role in causing the fire. The club's owners, both separately indicted, profess their innocence and await trial. The fire marshal, the salesman and the company who sold the foam, the band leader and the management company that hired Dan have all gone on with their lives, free of any criminal prosecution."

Michael Derderian's trial is set for July 31st. Jeffrey Derderian's trial has not been set. Biechele and the Derderians are also among dozens of defendants named in a massive lawsuit in federal court.

Tacoma Plan Downsized

TACOMA, WASH., CITY OFFICIALS are scaling back plans to improve the 22,500-capacity Tacoma Dome after a $45 million bond measure failed to pass in February.

The current proposal is to borrow $2.6 million from city coffers for short-term improvements including curtains for a theatre configuration and new artificial turf.

About $1 million of those funds would go toward attaching a grid system to the ceiling that would enable a 5,000- to 8,000-seat theatre setting at the 23-year-old Dome, according to the city's Daily Index.

"We have to maximize revenues and become more flexible," Mike Combs, director of public facilities, told the paper. "The intent of this strategy is to keep the Tacoma Dome self-sufficient. If we do nothing, we will continue to drain our reserves, become a less viable option for promoters, agents and artists, and become a burden to the general fund."

Officials estimate that a smaller configuration could draw 12 extra concerts per year, bringing in more than $500,000 in additional revenue. There is also talk of shopping naming rights for the venue, the paper said.

The Dome is scheduled to host the "American Idol Tour" September 9th.

WMG Posts 2Q Loss

ARNER MUSIC GROUP posted a second-quarter loss May 5th but still beat Wall Street expectations.

WMG recorded losses from music publishing despite a rise in recorded music sales. The quarterly loss totaled $7 million versus a $4 million profit for the Insider News: Briefs second quarter a year ago. Revenue was $796 million, up from $767 million.

Net income included a $39 million unrealized gain on warrants issued to former parent company Time Warner, and music publishing revenue dropped 16 percent to $129 million.

Revenue from recorded music rose 9 percent to $676 million and digital music accounted for 13 percent of the total, almost tripling last year's second quarter figure.

Despite its recent rejection of a buyout offer from EMI for $4.2 billion, Warner is still dancing with its rival.

"EMI has worked hard to build its U.S. businesses without much success, and Warner has really cut back overseas, so there's an opportunity to combine those strengths and still reduce overhead," Pali Capital analyst Richard Greenfield told the Lost Angeles Times. "Getting bigger is better."

Wall Street was expecting a loss of 16 cents per share on revenue for WMG's second quarter. After the 2Q report was released, the company's shares rose 56 cents, or 2 percent, to $29.30 in morning trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Pitt Cop Kick Suit Settled

FIREFIGHTER HAS SETTLED a federal lawsuit with Hanover Township, Pa., for $180,000 stemming from an incident with a police officer at a Toby Keith concert at the Post-Gazette Pavilion in Burgettstown.

According to the lawsuit, Joseph Trone, an Aliquippa Fire Department captain, was at an autograph signing at the venue on September 26, 2003, along with his wife and 9-year-old son.

When a Hanover Township police officer told the family that the performers had left, Trone responded that the band's entourage was still there, the lawsuit said. The officer allegedly got angry, kicked Trone's legs out from under him and arrested the fireman for disorderly conduct.

The charge was later dismissed and Trone required surgery for a torn knee ligament, the lawsuit said.

Paul Krepps, the attorney representing the township, said settling the lawsuit was prudent.

"It was a number both sides could agree upon without having to go to trial," Krepps said. "The injuries made it a high risk for everybody."

Last January, a Pittsburgh homicide detective received a $50,000 settlement from Hanover Township after he claimed he was roughed up and falsely arrested by Hanover police after a Brooks & Dunn concert. Attorney Timothy O'Brien, who represented the Trones, was also the attorney for the detective.

Krepps said officers who work events at the 23,000-capacity Live Nation amphitheatre are certified as Hanover Township police officers, but only work concerts and do not patrol the municipality. Most of them are officers in other municipalities, he said.

UMG agreed to pay cash to charity along with $100,000 to cover the cost of the investigation and to adopt reforms, Spitzer said. The company didn't admit guilt, but acknowledged "various employees and independent promoters acting on behalf of the company" engaged in the illegal practices, Spitzer said.

"UMG has illegally provided stations with financial benefits to obtain airplay and boost the chart position of its songs," Spitzer said in papers filed in the state Supreme Court along with the settlement.

UMG was also accused of "engaging in fraudulent calling campaigns to increase airplay."

The $12 million payment will be distributed through the Rockefeller Philanthropy Advisors to nonprofit groups in New York state to fund music education and appreciation programs.

Spitzer launched a nationwide investigation in 2004 into alleged wrongdoing by music and radio companies. Earlier this year, Spitzer sued Entercom Communications Corp., accusing its executives of running scams to trade cash for airplay of songs.

Entercom has denied the allegations.

Sony Corp.'s music arm has already agreed to pay $10 million to settle with Spitzer, and Warner Music Group agreed to a $5 million settlement. 4

Information Vibration

Are you looking for information? Do you need the lowdown, a heads-up or the latest skinny?

The concert industry runs on information. Ticket counts, Nielsen SoundScan numbers, even weather forecasts are all part of the mix when booking agents, managers and promoters come together to plot the groundwork for a tour. Strong CD sales in one market might indicate a potential for multiple dates for an artist, while demographics in another market might indicate an artist is too old, too young, or just too out there to play a certain locale. Intuition and gut feelings are still necessary requirements to win at the concert game, but information can turn losers into winners, and winners into champions.

Which is why eBay's Marketplace Research service is so exciting. After all, millions of transactions take place daily on the online auction powerhouse. What's more, millions of users are constantly searching for items on eBay. That's information just waiting to be cultivated. Data about buyers, sellers and what eBay users are searching for. Data that just might help you make that next big decision.

With a Marketplace Research subscription, you can analyze, among other things, thirdparty ticket sales taking place on eBay, including pricing information, unique search figures and volume. It gives you an overview as to how much people are willing to pay to see their favorite bands and artists. In short, it gives you insight as to how the public values concerts.

For instance, on May 10th, there were more unique searches for Tool tickets than for any other touring act. In fact, for several days leading up to May 10th Tool often led the list of ticket queries on the online auction site and was the subject of more unique searches than those conducted for Madonna, Radiohead, or Pearl Jam.

But the Marketplace Research service gives you more information than who's on top of the heap. A search of tickets for Madonna's show at L.A.'s Forum revealed that between April 27th through May 10th, eBay shoppers paid anywhere from $61 to $999 for Maddy tickets. The average Madonna start price for ticket auctions for the event was $426 and the average sold price was $360.94.

However, since most tickets are offered on eBay in groups of two or more, these figures don't necessarily represent single ticket sales. Still, it gives you an idea of what Madonna fans are willing to pay to see her in action.

EBay Marketplace Research representative Dean Jutilla told Pollstar that the ability to access transaction data has always been available. That is, if a person was willing to invest the time and energy to compile the figures and crunch the numbers.

"People have been able to do searches through completed listings and be able to spot-check various items that have closed," Jutilla said. "What eBay Marketplace Research does, is basically automate that for you. It gives you a chance to put in a particular keyword, then it goes into the data on the site and pulls things in real time and brings it back in graphical and table form for you."

While there's always data available on past events, such as how many CDs an artist or band has sold, or how many tickets have already sold for a tour, the Marketplace Research service gives you a picture of what people want. And, since eBay is an auction site, the service also gives you an indication of what people are willing to pay.

"You can definitely see a lot of themes," Marketplace Research spokesman Greg Bettinelli told Pollstar. You can compare Def Leppard versus Van Morrison."

EBay's Marketplace Research service is a subscription service with different pricing tiers depending on just how deep you wish to dive into the data. For $24.99 per month you can research data going back 90 days. For $9.99 per month you can access data going back 60 days, but you won't have as many search bells and whistles at your fingertips as with the full package. If you just want to get your feet wet, you can access the service for two days for $2.99.

Of course, the ability to search eBay's ticket sales data is going to be attractive to ticket re-sellers. However, being able to access information on which bands and artists people want to buy tickets for, as well as how much they're willing to pay for those tickets, should be of interest to anyone who works in the live event biz.

to use the apple trademark for its iTunes Music Store.

The Beatles' record company had sued Apple Computer, claiming that using the apple mark violated a 1991 agreement between the two companies in which both sides agreed not to dabble in the other's business.

This wasn't the first legal tiff between Apple and Apple over the famous fruity logo. Over the years, Apple founders Steve Jobs and Steve Wozniak have freely admitted naming their company "Apple" because of their great love for The Beatles. And since Jobs and Wozniak made computers while Apple Corps released Beatle music, there really wasn't much of a problem, although Apple Computer did promise Apple Corps it would stay out of the music business.

That promise was modified in 1991 when Apple Corps became concerned about Apple's position in the fledgling digital music biz. By the end of the 1980s, Apple Macintosh computers were popping up in recording studios, eventually leading the two Apple companies to a 1991 renegotiation of their original agreement. Although terms of that agreement were never released publicly, Apple Computer paid Apple Corps $26.5 million so it could retain, as well as expand upon, the use of the apple logo.

But Apple Corps did not feel that the 1991 agreement included selling songs on the Internet, and filed suit against the computer company last year. In that suit, Apple Corps claimed the iTunes Music Store represented Apple Computer's entry into the music business, thus violating the agreement.

But High Court Judge Anthony Mann disagreed, saying the computer company was using the apple mark for its store and not the music.

"I conclude that the use of the apple logo ... does not suggest a relevant connection with the creative work," Mann wrote in his judgement. "I think that the use of the apple logo is a fair and reasonable use of the mark in connection with the service, which does not go further and unfairly or unreasonably suggest an additional association with the creative works themselves."

But it isn't over until it's over, and Apple Corps manager Neil Aspinall has said his company will immediately take the case to Britain's Court Of Appeal.

"We felt that during the course of the trial we clearly demonstrated just how extensively Apple Computer has broken the agreement," Aspinall said.

Meanwhile, Apple's Steve Jobs said he was "glad to put this disagreement behind us."

"We have always loved The Beatles, and hopefully we can now work together to get them on the iTunes Music Store," Jobs said.

As Seen On TV

► The motion picture/television industry continued its love affair with the Web as two major studios announced deals to deliver TV programming over the Internet. Warner Bros. will allow local stations that purchased the rerun syndication package for "Two And A Half Men" to stream the shows on their Web sites.

Up until now, all television/Web deals have bypassed local TV stations by selling episodes directly to consumers or streaming programs from network Web sites.

There have been concerns that offering reruns of popular shows on the Web would cut into syndication profits as well as DVD sales. But Warner's gameplan may result in a higher price tag for rerun packages that include the Web option than what the studio charges for a basic, TV-only syndication run. Plus, local stations will sell advertising to go along with those streams, thus creating new revenue opportunities.

As to offering similar deals on other syndication packages, Warner Bros. is expected to consider streaming on a "case-by-case basis" according to The Wall Street Journal.

In another deal, Warner Bros. will also become the first major studio to distribute its films and TV using BitTorrent's peer-to-peer technology.

Unlike earlier P2Ps which provided simple host/client downloads, BitTorrent users receive smaller chunks of the same file from several computers, thus resulting in an overall faster download. A person using Gnutella, for example, might have to wait for a large file to drip out of a slow host computer one byte at a time, but a BitTorrent user will receive the beginning, middle and end of a file all at once from different computers.

Warner Bros. has yet to announce prices or even a launch date for its BitTorrent project. However, individual TV shows could cost as little as one dollar and movies might be priced about the same as DVDs. The studio will also sell copies that can be burned to DVD. However, those copies will only play on the computer that downloaded the original file and will not play on standard DVD players.

Meanwhile, Fox is taking the iTunes plunge. The studio plans to sell downloads of hit shows like "24" as well as classic TV fare such as "Lost In Space" for $1.99.

All in all, the Fox/iTunes deal, which will make 16 more shows available for download, represents the largest programming entry on iTunes by a single studio. Currently, Apple offers more than 90 shows from 20-plus networks.

Television's embracing of the Web marks one of the quickest paradigm shifts ever seen in any industry. It was only last October when Apple announced a deal with Disney to offer episodes of "Lost" and "Desperate Housewives" on iTunes one day after the programs aired on Disney-owned ABC.

Compare that to the recording industry spending almost all its energy shutting down P2P networks before it could develop its own Internet strategy and an argument could be made that one industry looked to the future while another desperately tried to hold on to the past.

AN EXPLOSIVE CANCELLATION

► A failure in an underground electrical line apparently caused a series of gas explosions that sent utility hole covers flying and forced cancellation of a Goo Goo Dolls concert in downtown Mt. Clemens, Mich., near Detroit

The blasts happened on the afternoon of May 3rd and forced evacuation of part of the downtown area for several hours. The explosions caused some property damage but no injuries, Macomb County Sheriff Mark Hackel said

In an untimely coincidence, concertgoers were lined up for a performance by the Goo Goo Dolls at the Emerald Theatre when something went awry under the street

Goo Goo Dolls drum technician Shawn Dealey of Winnipeg, Manitoba, was about 10 feet from one of the utility holes when it blew up.

"I felt it, and then I heard the big explosion," he told The Detroit News. "I then headed back to the theatre to get everyone out."

A DTE Energy Co. spokesman said the day's unusually warm weather led to a spike in demand for electricity as people turned on air conditioners.

"All of a sudden, we have a hot day and there was a surge in the load, which caused the explosion in the manhole," power company supervisor Bill Heinrich told The Macomb Daily

He said the cable failure apparently ignited gases that had built up underground. "We have to just be thankful that no one was hurt," Mayor Barb Dempsey said.

SIMON'S SURPRISE

▶ With a new album freshly released, Paul Simon is heading out on his first solo tour in five years.

The singer/songwriter, who recently showed off some of his new tunes at the New Orleans Jazz & Heritage Festival, will launch the trek July 1st in Milwaukee. Concerts are booked through the month, with stops at arenas, amphitheatres and casinos across the U.S. and Canada.

For Surprise, Simon's first album since 2000's You're The One, the pop-rocker enlisted the help of Brian Eno.

"Working with Brian Eno opens the door to a world of sonic possibilities; plus, he's just a great guy to hang with in the studio, or for that matter in life," Simon said. "I had a really good time."

Simon's last major solo outing was a lengthy North American trek with Brian Wilson in 2001. A two-leg Simon & Garfunkel reunion tour followed in late 2003 and summer 2004.

No To NE-Yo

► R&B singer/songwriter Ne-Yo knows how to make the girls swoon but he won't get to demonstrate his romantic stylings at Mercy High School in Farmington Hills, Mich

The Catholic girls school has canceled a Ne-Yo concert because of sexually explicit lyrics on his In My Own Words album.

Students at Mercy High School in suburban Detroit won the concert in a seatbelt use contest. The show was scheduled for May 10th.

"Everyone was really excited. Everybody was singing his songs in the hallway," said Siobahn Jones, a 15-year-old sophomore.

But Mercy High officials later reviewed the lyrics on Ne-Yo's debut CD and decided they were objectionable.

The bottom line is I have to make decisions based on what I think is going to be in line with what we are, what we teach, and how we've dialogued with students," principal Carolyn Witte said.

The contest was sponsored by WKQI-FM and Japanese seat belt and auto parts maker Takata Corp.

Takata executive Bob Kittle said arrangements were being made to reschedule the Ne-Yo concert with the contest's runner-up school, which he did not identify.

Maybe Ne-Yo will take the plight of the young women of Mercy High into consideration on his next tour. Along with some radio festival dates and an opening slot on a Mary J. Blige date, he is reportedly on the short list to join Chris Brown on the road this summer.

New Tours

► Dashboard Confessional has theatres and sheds during the hot months Donavon Frankenreiter does some globe trotting She Wants Revenge has a packed schedule Celebrated African duo Amadou & Mariam tours the States and Canada..... The Buzzcocks return to North America Tilly And The Wall have a lengthy club tour..... Xavier Rudd brings his unique sound to theatres ALO (Animal Liberation Orchestra) has scattered dates George Jones' itinerary runs into December.

That not everyone who drinks is an alcoholic and not everyone who dabbles with drugs becomes addicted. But for some, it takes just one time - one experiment following another, leading to a painful and often catastrophic end.

ROAD RECOVERY

MISSION STATEMENT Through mentoring, educational and live performance based-programs,

ROAD RECOVERY's goal is to help young people find their way towards a wealthy future. ROAD RECOVERY is comprised of entertainment industry professionals whose lives have been touched by addiction and other adversities and now wish to make a positive impact on the lives of others.

nyone who watches Comedy Central knows Jim Gaffigan. What many don't know is that he didn't even consider a career in stand-up and acting until fate opened the door.

The Indiana native said he was always interested in performing but, growing up in a small town, it wasn't something that was encouraged.

"There were generations of my family that had never gone to college. My father was the first one to go to college and get us into middle class or uppermiddle class," Gaffigan told Pollstar. "It wasn't one of those things where we were advised to throw it all away to go into show business. It wasn't discouraged but was just seen as impractical."

So Gaffigan took the practical route and earned a degree in finance. Then reality set in while he worked as a financial litigation consultant in Florida for a couple of years.

"When I studied finance in school, I kept thinking 'Once I'm paid for this, I'll enjoy it.' I didn't. I thought I was going to hang myself," he said. "I eventually got a job in advertising in New York and became a copywriter.

Along the way, I had gotten into improv just because I wanted to do it. Then somebody dared me to do stand-up."

The aspiring entertainer did his first comedy performance in 1991. He then spent four years writing commercials, going to acting classes and perfecting his stand-up skills whenever possible.

"I was trying to get stage time in New York and there was just not a chance in hell. I ended up doing the lower-East-Side kind of performances. I came up with tons of different characters and stuff that might explain the voices in my head. I just plodded away," Gaffigan explained.

"I was always the guy who would do six or seven spots a night on a weekend. I saw every audience as an opportunity to try new material and try to hone the universality of a joke."

Gaffigan went on to develop his routine that includes his take on food items – Hot Pockets, Cinnabons, cake, you name it – while inserting the "voice" of a supposed audience member commenting on his routine. That angle is attracting a broad range of fans.

"As a comedian, you want your jokes to obviously be very original and unique to your point of view," he said. "But I never aspired to be the guy that only made my four friends in the back laugh."

Manager Alex Murray said he was already a Gaffigan fan from seeing his appearances on late-night talk shows and Comedy Central. The former ICM agent was a partner at Nine Yards Entertainment when a mutual friend introduced them. Murray said Gaffigan's finance and advertising background is an added bonus.

"I was already a manager in comedy and he was asking a lot of questions, so we had a lot of stuff to talk about," Murray told Pollstar. "It's rare that you find a comic who's that talented and funny and also aware of how the business works. He knows what he's doing, he knows he's a product and he knows how to market himself.

"At the time, Jim wasn't earning that much money on the road but I did see the big future in front of him. He's very memorable," he added.

Gaffigan was impressed with Murray and his vision.

"Alex is one of these guys who's in his early 30s but looks like he's 21. He had a background at ICM and kept emphasizing there was this broad appeal that had a huge upside to it," he said. "I had always been kind of selective on how I did the road from a club standpoint. I knew my act could work in a theatre where, with some comedians, it's much more of a nightclub kind of thing."

Murray left Nine Yards to join John MacDonald, who manages comedian Ron White among others, and form their own company in 2005. From there, the strategy that has made Gaffigan a sought-after act was set in motion.

"A lot of people didn't know who he was and didn't know if he could draw or not – certainly, people underestimated him. At the time the one-hour special aired, we were able to broaden his audience," Murray explained. "It's a formula that worked for John MacDonald and Ron White. Clearly, it's worked for the Blue Collar guys. We were anxious to repeat the formula with Jim and so far, we're on track."

Gaffigan's days of fighting for stage time are long over. The airing of his first half-hour Comedy Central special led to the channel's highest ratings for standup specials. His one-hour special, "Beyond The Pale," has spawned brisk CD and DVD sales and sold-out shows in theatres, clubs, casinos and performing arts centers. Gaffigan's list of acting roles in television and film also keeps growing, so there's a lot less down time.

The versatile performer's current tour launched March 3rd and has him booked well into the summer. Murray said plans for a fall tour are also in the works.

"I think when it all comes together, you end up with something really special and I think that's what we have. We just started and he's on fire," Murray said. "He's created an entire new form of stand-up comedy with this 'inside voice' that he does.

"People do underestimate him, so for the last three years it's been fun telling people 'I told you so."

I never aspired to be the guy that only made my four friends in the back laugh.

Stones On Hold While Richards Recovers

Two DAYS AFTER KEITH RICHARDS underwent what was described as "a small" skull operation to heal injuries after he fell out of a tree, it was far from clear what effect it would have on the upcoming European leg of the Bigger Bang tour.

The only thing that could be said for certain was that Gay Mercader's shows in Barcelona and Madrid on May 27-28 would have to be shifted, according to a press release put out by the band's PR reps on both sides of the Atlantic that said the tour will be re-scheduled to start in June.

Taken literally, that could mean the June 1 show promoted by Live Nation's Herman Schueremans at Brussels Stade Roi Baudouin could still go ahead. But a more logical interpretation is that nobody will know what's happening until Richards' doctors can give the band's world tour producer, Michael Cohl from Live Nation's The Next Adventure, a better idea of Richards' recovery time.

Even that's better news than the stories in some of the U.K. papers May 9. The Independent, Daily Mail, Daily Express, Daily Mirror and The Star all speculated that the 62-year-old rocker's fall had caused brain damage, likely leading to a canceled tour. The seed for that story probably came from New Zealand Herald which, a day earlier, said the May 8 operation was in fact Richards' second and that doubts regarding his recovery persisted.

It claimed he had the first operation 12 days earlier at Auckland's Ascot Hospital, where he is currently recovering, and then had to return for another after passing out and complaining of "major headaches."

The May 9 press release put out by Rogers & Cowan in New York and London's LD Communications was clearly designed to cool those sorts of reports.

It said Richards is recovering well after surgery and was already "up and talking with his family."

The May 10 edition of the U.K.'s The Daily Telegraph quoted a "spokesman for The Rolling Stones" who categorically denied that the May 8 op was his second.

Richards is said to have sustained his injuries in late April while on holiday in Fiji. He's reported to have fallen out of a tree after shinning up it to collect coconuts.

At press time, John Giddings from Solo Agency in London – which produces the European leg of TNA tours – wasn't available for comment.

He wasn't expected back at his Fulham offices until late May 12, but there's been nothing to suggest any sort of announcement that soon.

The early June dates that follow Brussels in the route book are Paris June 3, Bergen June 6, Horsens June 8, Gothenburg June 9 and St. Petersburg June 13.

Festival Chiefs Win Police Appeal

MEAN FIDDLER Music Group on May 3 successfully appealed a £300,000 bill from West Yorkshire Police for the officers working the Leeds site of the 2003 Carling Weekend.

In what may be a groundbreaking ruling, Lord Justice Baker said that according to the law as it stands, the work the force did could not be described as "special police services" and therefore could not be recovered from the event promoter.

MFMG has run a Carling Weekend in Leeds since 1999, and requested and paid for police services until 2003.

That year, there were no police inside the music arena and Mean Fiddler argued that it shouldn't have to pay for the work the police did outside it.

Lord Justice Baker said the ruling had implications for major events and any large gatherings of the public.

He said the court was being asked to decide on the dividing line between services the police must provide as part of its public duty and special services provided at the request of promoters, for which promoters must pay.

"There is a strong argument that where promoters put on a function such as a music festival or sporting event which is attended by large numbers of the public, the police should be able to recover the additional cost they are put to for policing the event and the local community affected by it," Lord Baker said.

"This seems only just where the event is run for profit. That, however, is not the law," he ruled.

Allowing the appeal, he said it had not been established that a request had been made for "special police services" at the three-day event at Bramham Park near Leeds in 2003.

Mr Baker said it was for the promoter to decide, after negotiation, what special police services it wanted. Otherwise it would have no choice but to pay the police for whatever scale of operation they chose to mount.

WITH CENTRAL LONDON in the background, the site of the 2012 main Olympic center in Stratford, east London, is shown as of April 20. The International Olympic Committee's Coordination Commission is visiting the city to receive the first reports on preparations for the Games.

Will EMI Buy Warner Or Vice Versa?

DESPITE EMI HAVING ITS OPENING US$28.50 per share bid turned down by Warner Music Group, the U.K. market watchers seem unanimous that the two companies will have another go at tying the knot pretty soon.

Most say that initial bid, which valued the American company at US$4.2 billion, might just have been EMI chairman Eric Nicoli sticking his toe in the water. They expect him to return with a raised offer.

The consensus of opinion is that EMI will return with something around US$30 per share, which would give a little more than five percent premium on the current Warner price. It's thought that this bid should be enough to bring the two major music companies together.

A few analysts are swimming against that tide of opinion. Since the US$28.50 offer was unanimously rejected by Edgar Bronfman Jr. and the Warner board, the raised offer still may not be enough, they said.

However, the two sides do want to join and there is a ceiling on how far EMI can go.

The Sunday Times reported May 7 that Schroeders investors, one of EMI's largest institutional shareholders, is already unhappy that any rights issue needed to raise cash to fund the deal would dilute its stock. But monopoly regs suggest that Warners can't attract another potential buyer from the recorded music industry.

Even an EMI/Warner tie-up would probably mean one of the company's huge and highly successful publishing wings would have to be sold off. Disposal wouldn't be a problem as Universal Music is currently cash rich and is already reported to have taken a look at both of them.

According to The Sunday Times, another possibility is that Bronfman may look to turn the tables and put in an offer for Warners to buy EMI.

The bait for both sides – whichever company bought the other – is an annual cost saving that is now estimated to be about US$400 million per year.

The American company's private equity group shareholders, which include Thomas H. Lee Partners, Bain Capital and Providence Equity Partners, didn't get into the recorded nusic business to hang around and listen to the tunes. It's unlikely they would turn down a great exit strategy over a couple of cents a share.

CROATIA Crnaric Dropped From Stones Show

DISGRACED CROATIAN PROMOTER Marijan Crnaric won't be involved with The Rolling Stones' July 5 show at Zagreb Dinamo's soccer stadium after European tour producer John Giddings decided it's time to get rid of him.

"It's bullshit," Giddings told Pollstar after hearing that Saša Britvic - head of the city-funded Koncer na Direkcija (Concert Directorate) - had defended Crnaric's involvement by telling journalists that the band's management wants him on board.

"I'm sure The Rolling Stones haven't a clue who Marijan Crnaric is and, as it's causing so much trouble, I've told Wolfgang Klinger to get rid of him," Giddings explained.

Klinger is head of the Viennabased Rock & More and is the show's main promoter. He would have been responsible for bringing in Crnaric.

Klinger confirmed that he took Crnaric "off the job" and that Rock & More will now be handling the local production, which appears to make nonsense of what Britvic told the press at the city's Hotel Sheraton April 26.

It could all prove an embarrassing episode for Mayor Milan Bandic and city authorities, who put up the reported US$2 million to bring the show to Zagreb.

As Britvic's department – which was charged with the task of organising the gig – only has experience in putting on such governmentsponsored classical events as the Polish Radio Symphony Orchestra and the Vienna Philharmonic, both Klinger and the city needed someone with big outdoor show experience to handle the local production.

Crnaric fit the bill since he was the local promoter for the Stones' 1998 show. But the problem was that he also went on sale with a 2003 show that hadn't been confirmed and didn't refund the ticket money when the date fell through.

He also said he was involved in '93, claiming he acted as a consultant with a promoting company called Kajda. It went bust – owing punters money – when the show was canceled because of growing political unrest.

Crnaric also looked to be in the frame for getting the 2006 date himself. The February 2 edition of the daily Jutarnji List named his Impresario company, Pula's Histria Festival and Britvic's public-funded Koncertna Direkcija as being the most likely bidders to try to bring The Rolling Stones to Zagreb.

The city government was boundlessly enthusiastic about the possibility of getting the show.

Duško Ljuština of the city's cultural department, who had confirmed that Zagreb was doing its best to get the act to return on what might well be its last tour, took the opportunity to tell Jutarnji List that he once managed a band called Black & White that played Stones songs even better than the Stones do.

Although Bandic urged caution and warned people, "Don't count your chickens before they are hatched," he did let it drop that he was at the '98 show at Zagreb Hippodrom and had the band "in his roots."

On April 19, Jutarnji List was able to reveal that "after long negotiations" the city's bid had triumphed.

Getting the show seems to have been a media coup for the local government. Britvic wasted no time pointing out that the department he now heads did the Stones' first show in '78 at an 18,000-capacity Sports Hall.

The European live music industry has known Klinger's Rock & More would promote this summer's Zagreb and Belgrade July 7 shows for at least five months. Bandic, Ljuština and Britvic must have known that the voters probably weren't informed.

A couple of major papers and at least one TV station don't appear to have been taken in by all this and were still querying Crnaric's role at that Hotel Sheraton press bash, a week after the three politicians had seemingly enjoyed some credit for landing the show.

On April 5, three Vecernji List writers combined on a piece that quoted "well informed sources" saying Crnaric was probably no more than a "mediator."

Their story also suggested that for Mayor Bandic, amusingly referred to as "Zagrebacki Serif"

("the Zagreb Sheriff"), the only important thing was to get The Stones to come to the city, whatever the cost.

Vedrana Pribacic from Nova TV, a major national satellite station that also has an audience in Bosnia, Macedonia and parts of Serbia, said she used the April 26 press launch to round off the piece she was doing for her "Red Carpet" magazine-style show, which would be about the outof-pocket punters from three years ago.

It aired four days later under a "Scandal With Rolling Stones Show" banner. Apart from the un-refunded 2003 tickets, it also focused on the 4,000 fans who lost their cash when Crnaric failed to refund for a canceled Metallica show in 2004.

He says he's since refunded all but 600 of them, but his figures are at odds with those coming from the local Zagreb ticket sellers.

After the Metallica cancellation, he told local media that ticket holders would have to wait until the act returned the deposit he sent, although any money Metallica received upfront had actually been paid by Richard Hoermann's Vienna-based Artist Marketing, his partner in the show.

"I hereby confirm and if necessary will prove at court that none of the ticket money for the Zagreb show has been taken away by me or my company to pay any deposits to the band," said Hoermann's official statement to Pollstar at the time.

Mindful that the Croatian media may still think he had received at least some of the box office take, he got an acknowledgment out of Crnaric that said, "Impresario hereby confirms that none of the ticket money of the canceled Metallica show in Zagreb has been forwarded to Artist Marketing Entertainment GmbH (Vienna) at any time.

"Artist Marketing is therefore not responsible in any way for refunding such ticket money to any of the outlets in Croatia or elsewhere."

In December, shortly after the Bigger Bang dates were announced, Giddings told Pollstar that Crnaric wasn't doing the Zagreb show and the contract would go to Klinger. He also said he tended not to get involved in business politics at a grassroots local level unless he felt something might be going wrong.

Things probably started going wrong in Zagreb when questions from the likes of the three Vecernji List journalists and the Nova TV journalist got Britvic to not only own up that Crnaric was on board but also try to say it was the band's decision.

Getting away with such a strategy heavily depended on nobody asking the act if it's true and also if it approves of Crnaric not refunding ticket money for canceled or "nonconfirmed" shows including its own in 2003

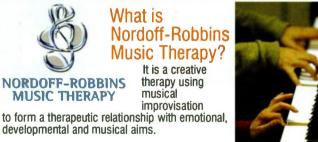

Despite Keith Richards recovering from surgery to his head following a holiday accident, the July 5 show at Zagreb currently looks to have a strong chance of happening on that date.

GERMANY

Zum Geburtstag Lieber Marek

MAYBE NOT ALL THE INTERNATIONAL live music industry was joining in with a rousing rendition of "Zum Geburtstag viel Glueck" - or "Happy Birthday To You" - in celebration of Marek Lieberberg's 60th, but the May issue of Musikmarkt LIVE! certainly pushed out the boat for the country's best-known and most outspoken promoter.

It used 30 of its 34 pages on a feature that included interviews with to form a therapeutic relationship with emotional, developmental and musical aims.

Music therapy is based on the understanding that all human beings are musical; that is, we are all able to respond to music. We believe music is an intrinsic part of life and a universal language.

CTS Eventim chief Klaus Peter Schulenberg and Marek's oldest son, Daniel Lieberberg. Daniel worked for his father's business from 1998 to 2002 and then left to become a marketing director for Universal Music.

When asked the most common complaint that he hears about his father, he told Musikmarkt, "He's arrogant. But, in my eyes, it's more a kind of healthy self-confidence. This can be a very useful strategy to protect yourself from silly babble.'

Schulenberg, who owns about half of Marek Lieberberg Konzertagentur through the ticketing giant's Medusa Group of promoters, said, "Without any exaggeration, Marek is by far the best promoter in Europe. He's managed like no other to combine art and commerce

"This was one of the premises he used to develop Germany into one of the biggest live entertainment markets of Europe. Marek's highly intelligent, concentrated and motivated."

Lieberberg declined all media requests for special birthday interviews. Not even the 30-page Musikmarkt feature had one - except for the one from his local regional Frankfurter Rundschau, a paper he regularly reads and very much admires.

Lieberberg spent the May 7 birthday in Vienna, mainly with family and friends, although he was joined by top performers including Herbert Gronemeyer, Xavier Nadoo, comedian Otto and Ray Garvey from Reamonn.

Among the piles of messages he received were greetings from Michael Stipe and Mike Mills of R.E.M., Celine Dion, Sting, Depeche Mode, Michael Bublé, and Bryan Adams.

Adams and his manager Bruce Allen gave him a broken computer mounted under a glass case, alluding to the legendary anecdote about Lieberberg once losing his temper so much that he threw his own computer at a wall.

Is it true? Who was he arguing with? Lieberberg says it is true, it only happened once and he's keeping quiet about who he was arguing with.

"So many people have said they were there and I was arguing with them when I did it. I couldn't possibly ruin all their stories for them," he explained.

When asked if hitting 60 means he may be thinking of retirement, he told Pollstar, "The retirement age here is being elevated to 67 and so it's not possible yet.

"Apart from that, us Jews are said to live to a biblical age of 120 and so I'm only a little over halfway there now.

"So, a lot of people have much longer to wait before they will have their wishes come true."

Jahnke's First Time In Reeperbahn

HAMBURG PROMOTER KARTSEN Jahnke was scheduled to unveil the lineup for the first Reeperbahn Festival at a May 17 press conference at the city's Schmidt Theater on Spielbudenplatz.

He was due to be joined by Alexander Schulz from Inferno Events, the festival's co-producer, Hamburg culture senator Karin v. Welck, Hamburg Marketing GmbH director Dr. Hariolf Wenzler and Mario Stresow from the Molotov Music Club.

Reflecting the help and enthusiasm the major record labels have shown toward the project, they'll be joined by Benedikt Lökes, director of corporate communications for Warner Music Group Germany.

The three-day event September 21-23 will present about a couple hundred acts in the square mile around the city's docks, using the facilities of regular music venues including Grosse Freiheit 36, Docks, Gruenspan, Mandarin Kasino, Indra, Knust, Molotow as well as theatres including the St. Pauli, the Schmidt, the Imperial and Fliegende Bauten.

Jahnke's upcoming tours include The Strokes, Arctic Monkeys, Editors, Belle & Sebastian, Ed Harcourt, Babyshambles, Rodrigo y Gabriela, and Maximo Park.

Horsen Around With Tax Laws

IF THE PROMOTERS OF MADONNA'S August 24 show at Horsens Ny Theatre have to pay VAT on the tickets, they'll drop US$680,000 on an 85,000-capacity sellout.

The Danish revenue is expected to come through with a ruling that says Eigils Musikforening - the local Horsens music society that has VAT exemption - is no longer entitled to that status. But Ny Theatre chief Frank Panduro is furious and says making the local organisation pay the tax on that show is "backdating the law."

The row over Horsens tax status flared up in December, when the local music society beat Copenhagen

PUERTO RICAN-BORN Ricky Martin treats the Spanish crowd at the Pabellon Olimpic in Badalona, Spain, with a festive set May 9.

Parken – the national stadium and former Midtfyn promoter Knud Bjerre in what turned out to be a bidding war for a date on The Rolling Stones' Bigger Bang Tour.

Both complained to the media, with Parken chief Flemming Østergaard telling Politiken that bidding against an opponent with a charitable VAT-exempt status hardly constitutes doing business on a level playing field.

Bjørre estimated the saving on the VAT (25 percent in Denmark) was putting something close to an extra 11.2 million Danish kroner (US$1.79 million) in the Horsens pot.

An article in with Herning Folkeblad pitched the saving as high as 16 million kroner (US$2.6 million).

Politiken questioned whether it was fair that a "loophole" in the law meant a provincial music club should beat the national stadium – which is based in the capital – for the likes of R.E.M., David Bowie, Elton John, Madonna, Bob Dylan, Robbie Williams, José Carreras, Mark Knopfler, Anastacia, Westlife, Bryan Adams, Joe Cocker, and Paul McCartney.

The big glitch in the Danish tax law governing the charitable status of local sport and cultural clubs is that it's being interpreted in different ways by the numerous tax districts that are spread across mainland Jutland, Zealand, Funen and the country's 75 smaller inhabited islands.

Also, Danish governments are most often minority administrations and can only rule with the support of at least one of the other parties.

This means the country's politics is characterised by inter-party compromising. Since 1909, no single party has had the majority of parliamentary seats. Many policy matters are decided locally. Regional administrations have a lot of autonomy.

The upshot was that tax minister Kristian Jensen announced he was going to unify the law by throwing a blanket over it and saying that future exemptions will only be granted if the profit goes to charity immediately, and there's to be no more "carrying over" or "storing up" income from gig to gig.

He also set up an independent review of the Horsens situation and appointed the tax auditors from the Danish island of Bornholm to make a feasibility study to consider whether it was time for an overhaul of all the national and local laws regarding charity status.

Panduro agreed any money from the Stones show would be paid to charity immediately and admitted to expecting major changes in the tax law in the future, but he was still stunned when he got a note from the revenue saying the local Eigils Musikforening would have to pay VAT on the Madonna show.

"I'm sure this can't be done and the lawyers here say we should take the tax authority to court if it tries," Panduro told Pollstar.

His claim that the revenue department's lawyers are trying to backdate legislation is based on the fact that he submitted the VAT exemption forms for Madonna before he put in the ones for the Stones.

"They have accepted the form for the Stones show, although we will have to hand over our intended donation to cancer research immediately, and then turned us down on one that we'd submitted before that on the grounds that the law is changing," he explained.

He said the extra VAT burden is no danger to the show because the large local companies that comprise the Friends of Ny Theatre – and they include BG Bank, Damstahl steel foundry, Hattering Bageri (which exports sausage rolls worldwide) and mortgage provider Nykredi – will meet the extra cost. He also expects they would probably fund any court appeal that the local music club may have to launch.

Media Tune In To Radiohead

A COUPLE OF DAYS AFTER Radiohead's KB Halle sellouts, Mads Sorensen from Beatbox Booking said, "Never in my life as a promoter have I put on a band that's got such brilliant reviews."

When the two 3,000-capacity shows May 6-7 went on sale at the back end of March, both went clean in less than 20 minutes.

Three of the first five reviews published by the major papers gave the show 6/6, while Berlingske Tidende and Gaffa were a little cooler toward them and wouldn't go higher than 5.

"Magic," said Ekstra Bladet. Politiken waxed lyrical and said, "Radiohead has rediscovered the rhythm of life."

The dates were the first of a handful of small shows the act played to introduce its new material in a more intimate atmosphere.

So far, the act's August plans include Hungary's Sziget Festival, the U.K.'s V Festivals, and dates in Scotland, Ireland and then France's Rock En Seine.

Cullen Quits SHB

STEVE CULLEN HAS QUIT THE Esbjerg-based Søren Højberg Booking (SHB) after almost 13 years of being the company's leading promoter for international acts.

He's saying the main reasons he left the Danish pop and middle-ofthe-road focused company are that he's done the same job in the same place for longer than a decade. He said the industry has changed a lot in that time and he was fed up because he was beginning to enjoy it less.

"I've decided to take a break and a fresh look at things, while I've got my batteries on re-charge," he explained.

During his time at SHB, he primarily booked packages of U.K.-based acts – mainly from the '70s and '80s – and toured them around Denmark

He's much better known to London's more contemporary music agents as the booker of the country's Esbjerg and Rock Under The Bridge summer outdoor festivals.

SERBIA Basketballs-Ups Irk Live Nation

LIVE NATION'S EXPANSION INTO Serbia has slowed because basketball is a higher priority than live music in this emerging Central European market.

Having opened up a new company in Belgrade and announced its first three shows, Lazlo Hegedus from the U.S. company's Hungarian office has been forced to change his plans.

Within a couple of weeks of telling a mid-April press conference at Belgrade's Media Centre that Multimedia Serbia would be promoting June shows with Massive Attack and Sting, he's been forced to move the first to Skopje and give up the second to Live Nation's main regional competitor.

Hegedus and Srdjan Stojanovic, who will head the new Serbian operation, were given a firm June 11 booking for Massive Attack at the 7,000-capacity Belgrade Pionir Sport Hall. But they had to shift it to Macedonia to make way for the Serbia and Montenegro basketball playoffs.

Despite Belgrade mayor Nenad Bogdanovic announcing the refurbished 25,000-capacity Zenum Stadium – named after the soccer team that plays there – would be reopening at the beginning of April, Multimedia-Live Nation's June 19 Sting show has been lost because the building work is being overseen by the national basketball association and it won't be finished in time. The Sting show would have been the venue's first since the improvements.

A major part of the delay was caused by the basketball authorities building the referees' changing rooms in front of fire exits and a loading bay that would be needed to meet safety requirements at a music event.

The Massive Attack show will now be co-promoted with Skopje Jazz Festival chief Oliver Belopeta at the city's 5,000-capacity Skopje Fair.

But with no alternative available, Live Nation lost the Sting show to major competitor Wolfgang Klinger's Vienna-based Rock & More, which is said to hold June 19 at the open-air Petrovaradin Fortress in Novi Sad, the Exit Festival site.

"He said all the right things – he's a good politician," Hegedus told Pollstar a couple of days after his May 3 meeting with Mayor Bogdanovic, who's close to the top of Serbian president Boris Tadic's Demokratska Stranka party. "He's keen for the stadium to be used for live music but says he'd rather not give another starting date until he has the keys to the building in his hand," Hegedus explained.

With his announcement of an April 1 reopening now looking wildly optimistic, Bogdanovic will still need to see – apart from the moving of the referees' rooms – the completion of a sprinkler system in the roof space.

Multimedia Serbia's diary is currently down to an August 31 Simply Red show in Pionir.

Rival promoter Rock & More's July Rolling Stones show at the Belgrade Hippodrom horse-racing track – with Maksa Katovic's Komuna as local promoter – hadn't gone on sale at the time of going to press.

MELBOURNE'S CHERRY BAR IS situated on ACDC Lane. So it wasn't surprising that its two owners – former Cosmic Psychos drummer Bill Walsh and AC/DC fan James Young – were present when former AC/DC singer Bon Scott's possessions were auctioned by his former wife Irene.

The pair bought 70 never-beforeseen photos (circa 1972) and 16 letters, postcards, cards, marriage and divorce certificates.

"Our accountant wants to kill us," Walsh said, adding that the items will be featured on the club's walls. However, a hairbrush that was given to the late singer by his mother was picked up by a fan for $12,540. Meantime, U.K. and Australian police are investigating a con artist who is claiming to be record producer George Young. He's ripping off thousands of dollars from gullible fans by promising them record sessions, concert tickets and music industry seminars.

Young, one-time guitarist with the 1960s hit-makers The Easybeats ("Friday On My Mind") is the elder brother of AC/DC's Angus and Malcolm Young.
