Heartbreak For Harry

Deborah Harry kicked off her tour at Lupo's Heartbreak Hotel in Providence, R.I., Friday the 13th. (L-R) are Lizzie Araujo of WBRU-FM, Jack Reich of Heartbreak Hits, club manager Karen Hill, Ira Lippy of Overland Management, Harry, club owner Rich Lupo and Harry's bassist, Greta Brinkman.

Lawyers Win As Tix Service Charge Suit Settled

A San Francisco judge formally approved the settlement of a class-action antitrust suit against BASS and Ticketmaster May 11th. The agreement requires BASS and TM to pay $750,000 to the lawyers who represented the "consumers" in the suit. The ticket companies also agreed to donate $1.5 million in tickets to charities — something they basically were doing already. No money will actually go to the ticket buyers who claimed the ticket companies were charging excessive service charges. The settlement also puts an end to any future litigation that may have been brought by consumers who did not ask to be excluded from the settlement. A handful of ticket buyers had opposed the settlement but Superior Court Judge Richard Figone said it was "fair, reasonable and adequate." In court hearings last week, the plaintiffs' attorneys reportedly said the settlement was dictated by weaknesses in their case. The attorneys also concluded that venues had the greatest control over ticket service fees. The settlement virtually gives the pricing practices of both TM and BASS a seal-of-approval and is yet another legal victory for the firms. Executives from both TM and BASS have argued that the suit was an unfair persecution by consumer activists and lawmakers who are seeking to regulate the industry. And in response to the racketeering lawsuit accusing TM of operating an illegal monopoly in New York, Fred Rosen said, "How do you take a lawsuit seriously when they're suing [based on teams] you don't sell tickets for." Rosen said the suit names the Giants and the Jets, yet TM does not handle any remote sales for either team. "When you become successful you become a target and then it has nothing to do with truth," Rosen said.

Pigs And Lead Were Flying

A police officer shot a man at the May 14th Pink Floyd concert at the Louisiana Superdome. Terry Tillman, 37, of Mobile, Ala., pulled a gun on officer Kevin Johnson as he was trying to arrest Tillman's wife for alleged drug use during the concert. Tillman was in guarded condition, suffering from a bullet wound to the abdomen, the day after the shooting. A police spokesman said Tillman will be booked on aggravated assault, illegal possession of a firearm and resisting arrest when he gets out of the hospital. For some unknown reason, Tillman's wife was not arrested. Superdome officials said this was the first shooting in the stadium since it opened in 1976.

Strange But True

Barry Manilow apparently didn't get the warmest reception from at least one member of the press when he arrived at the airport in Adelaide May 18th as part of his current Australian tour. When a TV reporter kept prodding him for his favorite Manilow joke, he made an obscene suggestion to the woman and said, "Don't you talk to me like that. Come on, welcome me. That's an insulting thing to say." When the reporter countered, "Are you sick of the ridicule you get?" Manilow rebutted, "Are you?" He went on, "That's a nice interview. Thanks for welcoming me like that, babe."..... A serious Doors fan and his nephew were arrested in Paris while trying to install a replication of the bronze bust that used to be attached to Jim Morrison's headstone. Todd Mitchell, 36, of Utah, discovered that the bust had been stolen when he and his wife visited the Pere Lachaise Cemetery last year. Mitchell's wife, Lori, said her husband was

You'd be hard pressed to find a new rock band that has been more probed and analyzed in the music press than Pavement over the last couple of years. Differing interpretations of Pavement's songs, sound and image inspire all sorts of conclusions about the band and, specifically, about Steven Malkmus, the band's singer, guitarist and principal songwriter. But Pavement's percussionist and self-professed cheerleader, Bob Nastanovich, insists the band is only out to make good music while avoiding the clichés of rock stardom.

"I think you've got to have some sort of sick drive to really go beyond that, or else have no choice about it — which happens to quite a few people," Nastanovich says. "There's not much mystery, really, in [Malkmus'] character; he's not really that difficult of a puzzle. It's just somebody that I don't think wants to be a huge star, but at the same time, wants to put out records and wants people to buy them. So it's a difficult line."

Pavement took shape in the fall of 1989 at Louder Than You Think, "the cheapest recording studio in [Stockton, Calif.]," Nastanovich says. Malkmus and guitarist Scott Kannberg entered the studio intending on recording a single. After hearing the duo play without a rhythm section, Gary Young, a drummer and the owner of the studio, asked if he could join for the recording. The result was a self-produced EP, Slay Tracks.

The band soon became an occasional hobby for its members, who recorded some singles and EPs for Drag City, a small Chicago-based indie label. Pavement went on its first tour in August of 1990 with Nastanovich, who was one of Malkmus' buddies from the University of Virginia, basically serving as roadie, tour manager and driver. "They were your classic work/vacation tours where everybody took their vacation at the same time," Nastanovich says. "I was sort of in charge of the irritating, tedious side of touring, and I wasn't satisfied doing that kind of work. And I said, 'If I'm gonna do this, you've gotta give me something to do, even if it's percussion.'" Despite the fact that he had no musical experience other than being a serious fan, Nastanovich started playing percussion in the band.

Even before it was released in 1992, Slanted And Enchanted, Pavement's first full-length album on Matador, seemingly sealed the band's fate as a critical favorite. Work tapes of the album-in-progress landed in the hands of music writers, most of whom had nothing but praise for what they heard. In the meantime, the band was growing to near-mythical proportions on the indie music scene, partly because the members let so little be known about themselves. Malkmus was simply known as 'S.M.' and Kannberg was 'Spiral Stairs.' There weren't any publicity photos of the band and cryptic band 'bios' were issued. "It was just a fun part of doing it — to have fake names and have the little stories and the artwork be confusing," Nastanovich said. "And the first single, particularly, you can't even tell if the band is called 'Pavement' or 'Slay Tracks.'"

With the warm reception the album received, the band members decided to make Pavement more than just a hobby. Bassist Mark Ibold, who had been playing in a band called The Dustdevils, was added for Slanted's promotional tour and remains with the band.

"We decided that we should put down what we were doing for a period of time and give the band a chance to become a regular touring outfit," Nastanovich said. "And it worked out fine." The band also began to fill in the blanks about their past, granting many interviews with the press.

Faced with following up Slanted, Pavement decided to go in a new direction. First, the band released the Watery, Domestic EP, which Nastanovich describes as "sort of a bridge record." By that time, major labels had taken notice. Although there were other offers put before the band, Pavement decided to stay with Matador. "We're really comfortable on Matador," Nastanovich said. "They're old friends we knew before the band even existed and basically, they're in a better situation now that they're affiliated with Atlantic [which distributes the label]... We have the same deal we've always had with Matador, one record at a time and profit share, and we couldn't get anywhere near as good a deal as that on any major label."

In the meantime, drummer Young was replaced by Steven West, a longtime friend of Nastanovich who once worked with Malkmus in a New York museum. Then a new album, Crooked Rain, Crooked Rain, was released earlier this year on Matador. "We wanted to do something that was clearly different, pretty much for the challenge of not pumping out another record just like the last one," Nastanovich said. Crooked Rain immediately earned raves from reviewers, shot to the top of the alternative album charts, and stayed there for about a month.

The band began touring in support of Crooked Rain in Ireland in early February, took about a 40 hour break, then started a two month North American tour which recently concluded. "Definitely with our new drummer, Steven West, it's a more durable touring outfit," Nastanovich said. "He's pretty solid and consistent. And the rest of us are sort of veterans of the road at this point. We know how to behave better so we can last longer [on the road]." Pavement has plans to return to the road for a national tour in the fall.

Pavement is booked by Dave Viecelli at The Billions Corp. "From the start of touring in the states he's been with us," Nastanovich said. "He's done a great job, and I can't imagine changing." The band has no manager. "We considered management in the last year and decided that Matador is extremely well staffed and really good. We trust them, so we don't really need a liaison between ourselves and them. We have an accountant and stuff like that, but pretty much every other detail we can handle ourselves."

nearly devastated when he saw the headstone without the bust. She said he "went off the deep end" and could think of little else after his return to the States. Mitchell dipped into his retirement fund and hired a sculptor to duplicate the bronze bust at a personal cost of $1,700. When the bust was completed, Mitchell and his nephew flew to Paris with the sculpture, three bags of tools and a bottle of whiskey to toast the late rock star. On May 6th, the men crawled into a tomb in the cemetery and waited until dark. When the coast seemed clear, they went to Morrison's tombstone and started to drill holes to mount the bust. After one bolt was secured, the police arrived. Mitchell tried to explain the altruism in what he was doing but the officers were not impressed. They handcuffed the pair and took them to the police station where they were strip-searched and later released. It isn't clear what the Paris police did with the bust.... Madonna managed to generate more national press simply by behaving herself. A Litigious Place In Cyberspace

MTV has filed suit against former video jockey Adam Curry. Curry operates a computer service on the Internet with the address mtv.com. MTV maintains that the use of that address is an infringement on its trademark and that people connecting with the Internet site would think they are connecting with a service of MTV. MTV also claims that, through mtv.com, Curry made available the MTV logo and transcripts of Beavis & Butt-head dialogue. Curry started mtv.com about one year ago with his own money and used it to distribute music news, charts, gossip, tips on new CDs, and information about MTV programs. There is no charge to connect with Curry's service. Curry claimed that, at first, he had the full support of MTV. Curry told POLLSTAR, "At one point I set a pop quiz at mtv.com where people could e-mail their submissions for trivia questions for the program "MTV's Most Wanted." And those were used on the air — the address was shown on the air. MTV's Valentine's Day promotion used an e-mail address, eluv@mtv.com, and that was promoted very heavily on the air." Curry also said the Beavis & Butt-head scripts in question were contained in a press release sent to him from MTV. "I was working for MTV and I didn't charge them anything for the e-mail addresses and just being a team player, I thought I would spread the gospel about Beavis & Butt-head." As far as mtv.com being mistaken for a product provided by MTV, the service carries a very clear disclaimer to everyone who signs on. In regards to the MTV logo, Curry said it was never on the service. Curry said for the first ten months he operated mtv.com, he got support from several executives at MTV and it wasn't until January that he started to run afoul of the company's lawyers. Curry was negotiating his contract with MTV when he abruptly resigned in April. The lawsuit was filed two days later. Carole Robinson, spokesperson for MTV, said at no time did MTV give any support to Curry and his Internet projects and the trouble started as soon as mtv.com came into existence. Robinson told POLLSTAR that people would misconstrue mtv.com as an MTV operation. Robinson also said if the e-mail address was shown on the screen, it was an action of the producer of the show and did not reflect any support from MTV. Perhaps the most interesting part of this case is the use of the letters M T V. Even though MTV maintains that this is a typical trademark infringement case, there is speculation that, whatever the results, the lawsuit could set a precedent. MTV wants Curry to stop using the domain name mtv.com but that is Curry's Internet address, which is properly registered with the interNIC, a governing body of the Internet. A person surfing the Internet will find various computer sites and Usenet News Groups (world-wide electronic bulletin boards where people post messages) that have the same name as existing companies, books, movies, and TV shows. Will alt.music.pearl-jam have to change its name? Ed Krol, author of "The Whole Internet User's Guide & Catalog" told POLLSTAR, "It is [a] really interesting case since it is obviously a conflict between existing law and a set of cultural rules. If Adam decided to create an MTV magazine, I think there would have been no question of copyright infringement. In this case, the culture/tradition is pick a name and if you pick it first, you got it. MTV had their chance. And they chose not to act." Krol added, "If I had to guess, I'd go 2 to 1 in favor of MTV in a lawsuit since I think the court will try to apply current law and a jury won't understand Internet tradition." MTV and Curry had a pre-trial conference on May 12th to try to come to an agreement. In an update, posted on (where else?) mtv.com, Curry reported that he is agreeable to removing any Beavis and Butt-head dialogue and moving his services to another Internet address, but is adamant about keeping ownership of the mtv.com address. Curry stated, "I informed them that I do not intend to give mtv.com to them or retract my registration of it." Meanwhile, Curry is keeping the cyberspace community updated on the lawsuit via mtv.com. All you need to do is ftp or point your gopher at mtv.com for Curry's latest adventure in the land of legalese.

Bullet Proof Dress Rehearsals

Short Items Of Note

John Berry was released from Emory University Hospital in Atlanta just one week after undergoing five-and-a-half hours of brain surgery to drain fluid from a benign cyst. Berry will need several weeks for recuperation but plans to resume touring again in the coming months..... Kurt Cobain left no will which makes Courtney Love and 21-month-old Frances Bean Cobain the sole heirs to his estate. Love was appointed executor of the estate May 13th. An inventory of Cobain's assets and debts must be filed in court within four months. A preliminary tally to determine if the estate is solvent revealed that Cobain had at least $1.2 million in assets and debts of less than $740,000..... George Harrison's independent movie company, HandMade Films, has been acquired by Toronto-based Paragon Entertainment Corp. for $8.5 million. The film company, founded in 1979 by the ex-Beatle and Denis O'Brien, produced 23 movies including Monty Python's "The Life of Brian" and "Time Bandits."..... Frito-Lay and Bantam Books are teaming up to promote Reba McEntire's book, "Reba: My Story." Frito-Lay plans to distribute about 10 million specially marked bags of corn chips with a $3 rebate offer on sales of the book. The offer will be good through the end of August. Frito-Lay, a unit of Pepsico, is sponsoring dates on Reba's 1994 concert tour..... More tickets for Barbra Streisand's upcoming California shows have gone on sale through the Anaheim Arena box office and Ticketmaster. The $350 tickets were originally pulled and given to charity groups to sell for $1000 as fundraisers. But that high end market apparently has its limits, so the ducats were returned for public sale at their face value..... Star TV, which is 64 percent owned by Rupert Murdoch, reportedly sold half of its music channel to a consortium of major record companies. The Eastern Express newspaper reported that VIVA, a consortium comprised of Sony, PolyGram, EMI, Warner Music and BMG, bought the stake in Star TV's music channel. MTV Asia had been broadcasting on Star TV until a few weeks ago when it was dropped and replaced by essentially the same show sans the MTV name. MTV plans to launch its own Asian service later this year..... Volunteers rushed into a building in Macon, Ga., May 13th to save music memorabilia that was threatened by fire. Historic keepsakes from the Allman Brothers were salvaged from the Phoenix Sound Recording studio as fire destroyed a nearby 90-year-old brick building. The Phoenix is in the building that once housed Capricorn Records. Other memorabilia such as Capricorn's framed gold and platinum records were also saved from possible damage. The studio sustained only heavy water damage.

Assaulting Behavior

A woman is suing Hollywood's trendy Roxbury Nightclub because she was allegedly manhandled and thrown out by two burly bouncers. Christine Rocha's attorney, Donald Hartunian, said the bouncers went to throw her out because they thought she was involved in a pushing match, and when she wanted to get her coat, they literally tossed her out onto the street. He said Rocha needed stitches and suffered internal and external injuries and could no longer work as a secretary. The suit claims the club should have known the bouncers' inclination toward violence. In her Superior Court suit, Rocha is seeking an unspecified amount in damages from the club and its parent company, Westside Restaurant Venture Inc..... A free-lance photographer filed a $1 million federal lawsuit May 13th against Michael Jackson and two of his bodyguards. Alex Oliveira alleges that as he tried to photograph MJ in Manhattan's Central Park March 31st, two of MJ's bodyguards beat him up and took his film and camera. The photographer contends that one of the bodyguards said "give me the ... film or I will break your neck," and claims MJ just stood by and watched the altercation. Oliveira said he has suffered severe and permanent injuries including back, shoulder and neck pain, sleeplessness, anguish, and psychological and emotional distress. MJ is recording a new album in the Big Apple and plans to be based there for the next three months. He has rented a three-bedroom, 5,000-square-foot apartment on the 68th and 69th floors of Trump Tower.

Soul Magic At The House Of Blues

Laughs filled the room when the press asked Magic Johnson to sing a duet with James Brown at the opening of the House of Blues in Los Angeles. Brown headlined the April 30th benefit which was for the Magic Johnson AIDS Foundation. Also performing were investors Isaac Hayes and Dan Aykroyd. Others who bought a piece of the $32 million private stock sale last August include Jim Belushi, Aerosmith and Harvard University. The stock will be offered to the public in May 1995. The size of that public offering will depend on expansion plans and the success of other House of Blues operations.

Legal Grievs

Nelson Riddle's widow is suing Elektra Entertainment saying it neglected to give her husband credit for arranging the version of Irving Gordon's song "Unforgettable" released by Natalie Cole in 1991. Naomi Riddle's $1 million law suit alleges that 87 percent of Cole's "Unforgettable" was taken from the version that her father, Nat King Cole, recorded for Capitol Records in 1953. Riddle arranged that version. The lawsuit claims that Johnny Mandel is the only arranger that received credit for the 1991 version. In fact, Mandel received a Grammy in 1992 for the arrangement of "Unforgettable." NARAS told Naomi Riddle that it relied on information provided by Elektra and in order to rectify the situation, Elektra would have to make a correction. The suit claims that Elektra has refused to do so..... Barney the Purple Dinosaur is in trouble again. This time he's being sued for $26 million for allegedly renegeing on a series of concerts. Compass Entertainment is actually suing Barney's corporate parent, the Lyons Group, alleging unfair and deceptive business practices. Compass, which was an early distributor of Barney videos and dolls, also claims Lyons broke contracts with the company to continue selling merchandise. The latest action is an extension of the original $5 million suit filed by Compass last winter. Also suing Barney's parent company are a Dallas children's book illustrator, for copyright infringement over the character, and an Indiana housewife who is claiming rights to the lyrics in Barney's theme song: "I love you, you love me..." The purple dinosaur, invented by a pair of Texas mothers, reportedly accounts for an estimated $500 million a year in sales..... Jimmy Jam and Terry Lewis disagreed with a property tax valuation of their recording studios and took the matter to the Minnesota Supreme Court May 13th. The partners challenged the Hennepin County assessor's determination that the building that houses their studios was worth $1.17 million in 1990. Lewis and Jam argued that the studios should be considered equipment rather than real estate. The high court rejected their claim.

Luther Campbell Can Still Get Arrested

Luther Campbell was arrested at his Miami Lakes, Fla., home and charged with aggravated assault for allegedly aiming a gun at a woman and threatening to kill her. Police responded to a May 17th call from Tina Barnett. Allegedly, Barnett, 22, and Campbell were having an argument over their relationship when Campbell pulled the gun and said, "I swear I will kill you and dump you in a lake somewhere," according to a police spokesperson. Campbell was released on $7,500 bond. Barnett had been identified as Campbell's wife by a police spokesperson, but an exec at Luke Records said Barnett was a girlfriend who used to live with Campbell.

Pros On The Move

Andrew Leary is the new VP of A&R and multimedia at Atlantic Records in Los Angeles. In the newly created position, Leary will oversee Atlantic's soundtrack activities and new forays into multimedia. Leary was most recently an agent with ICM..... Larry Updike was appointed interim managing director of the Greensboro Coliseum in North Carolina. Updike, a veteran facility exec, will oversee the operations of the complex while the

Reba Does It Again

To honor Reba McEntire for her sold-out concert and first appearance at the University of Illinois' Assembly Hall March 30th, the venue's Gary O'Brien and Xen Riggs present her with a commemorative plaque.

Unruly Weenie Roast Ticket Buyers

Police were called out to a West Covina, Calif., Tower Records store the morning of May 14th when approximately 2,000 people got rowdy waiting in line to buy tickets for KROQ-FM's annual "Weenie Roast and Sing-a-Long" concert at Irvine Meadows. The store had only 200 tickets for the June 11th concert featuring the Pretenders, Beck, Violent Femmes and others, so they planned to hand out wristbands to facilitate the sales. But when a Tower employee came out of the store to distribute the wristbands, someone jumped him to get the first one. The store's employees decided not to proceed and locked the doors. Police ordered the crowd, which had started assembling at 5 a.m., to leave at about 10:05 a.m. The crowd dispersed in about 15 minutes and there were no injuries or damages.

2Pac Taken To Court — Again

Tupac Shakur was sued for $10 million by one of the Atlanta police officers who was shot in the butt during a scuffle with the rapper October 31st. In the complaint, Officer Scott Whitwell claims Shakur caused him severe injury that left him with ongoing medical costs, mental and physical pain and suffering. Whitwell's attorney said, "The facts will show that our client, who was unarmed, and his sister-in-law, who was also unarmed, were running for their lives when Tupac Shakur opened fire at them from a considerable distance." Aggravated assault charges were filed against Shakur and the other officer involved, Whitwell's brother Mark. Both Shakur and Mark Whitwell allegedly fired shots in the dispute outside the Sheraton Colony Square Hotel in Atlanta. The criminal case has not yet gone to trial. Shakur has been in the Los Angeles County Jail where he was serving a 15 day sentence for misdemeanor assault and battery, but he will have to put up $45,000 bail on another felony gun charge and parole violation before he hits the streets.

Garth And Gibson In London

Visiting backstage at Wembley Arena in April, Garth Brooks and Debbie Gibson chat about his European tour and her recent performance in the London production of the musical "Grease."

It Wouldn't Be Such A Problem For Rockers

Michael English and the married woman he had an affair with, Marabeth Jordon, are expecting a child to be born out of their extramarital liaison. In a statement, English, who only a few weeks ago was named Gospel music's artist of the year, said, "I am a human being and I have failed. I ask your forgiveness." Earlier this month English's record company, Warner Alliance, said it would discontinue all sales and promotion of English's Christian music because of the affair. Also, Jordon was dropped from her group, First Call. Wynonna, who is not married but recently announced she was pregnant, got no flack for her circumstance and she said she supports English for standing up about his situation. "Michael and I are not preachers," the country singer said. "We're teachers." The future of English's career in the Christian music community is tenuous at best.

SIN FRONTERAS: David Gaar

We are pleased to welcome The Blazers. Their new Rounder LP, Short Fuse, produced by Los Lobos' Cesar Rosas, showcases their unique blend of traditional Cumbia's, C&W, Norteno, Latin-based blues, and straight ahead rock. They will tour the Midwest and East Coast in July, Europe in August, West Coast September. /// April and May was exciting — perhaps too exciting — for Zairian Soukous stars Tabu Ley Rochereau and Orchestre Afrisa International. Travel delays in leaving Africa (due the temporary closing of Brazaville's airport in order to aid Rwandan air-evac efforts) meant that one half of the orchestra arrived in the U.S. only hours before their first gig. If they were tired from the ordeal, it certainly didn't show. In addition to a string of dates in Texas and Florida, the 14 piece orchestra recorded two records for September release on Rounder. July brings them to the Midwest and East Coast, August to the West, September up North. /// Hightone Records has just released Big Sandy and His Fly-Rite Boys new Dave Alvin produced disc. They tour the Midwest and East Coast from June to mid-July. West Coast avails late July/August. /// Nathan & the Zydeco Chas will be East Coast and Midwest from late June to early July, and then again in August. /// Geno Delafosse & the Eunice Playboys will do a few select dates with his father, legendary zydeco accordionist John Delafosse. Geno's solo debut is due out on Rounder in June. There's a few Midwest avails in early June, West Coast late June, Midwest again early July, and East Coast mid-July. Their fourth European tour is in August. /// Beau Jocque & the Zydeco High Rollers, currently the hottest thing in Louisiana's dance halls, are available for festival events.

BEACON KENDALL: Scott Lazev

After a packed record release party in Boston recently, Sleepy LaBeef is set to bring his legendary rockabilly/blues show on the road in support of his Rounder release, Strange Things Happening. Sleepy tours in late May/early June and he is booking western U.S. dates for Aug./Sept. /// Tree will be hitting the road on June 6th as the band heads to the West Coast for its fourth tour in six months. Tree is still packing clubs in support of its debut release, A Lot to Fear, on Cherrydisc Records. Avails are June 26-29 in Southern California, July 6-9 in Oregon and Washington, July 14 in Utah, and July 15-16 in Colorado. /// The Blood Oranges tour in June/July in support of their East Side Digital release, The Crying Tree. Avails are June 15 in Alabama, June 16 in Louisiana, June 22 in Indiana, and July 14 in upstate New York or Pittsburgh. /// On July 8 the Heavy Metal Horns will be playing the Montreal Jazz Festival for the second time in three years. The Horns are also touring the West Coast in early August around festival dates in Seattle and Portland on August 12-13. /// Twisted Roots continues its tour in support of its Cherrydisc release, Turn to Stone. The band will tour New York in early July where they are receiving heavy airplay. /// Fourteen-year-old Monster Mike Welch jammed to a star-studded audience at the opening of the House of Blues in Los Angeles in April. He then returned to Massachusetts where he is finishing up the school year and playing all the New England blues rooms on the weekends. The Monster has avails for his first tour in late July in Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago.

After a three year hiatus, Chuck Mangione is back with a vengeance! After recording three new albums with Steve Gadd and Grant Geissman, Chuck blew through a springtime run of six shows in Florida (one of which was for the president and Mrs. Clinton) and just completed 14 successful shows at New York's legendary Blue Note. While he prepares for an upcoming sprint of South America, we're booking U.S. dates all over the map — see this weeks Route Book. /// Worl-A-Girl continues to garner airplay on Top 40 and Urban radio, while Chaos Records makes ready their second single. Track dates are available for East Coast clubs in late July and festival dates with their four female "World Power Band" are starting to fill-out the month of August. /// Fresh from a rousing set on the recent New Orleans Jazz & Heritage Festival, Atlantic Records' Baja Men are about to launch their second album with a guest appearance by Lenny Kravitz. They're also catching a buzz from their exposure in Gerard Depardieu's latest film "My Father, My Hero," with speaking roles, performance footage and five songs on the soundtrack. Straight off a Bahamian beach, these guys are pure fun in the sun and anxious to spread the Junkanoo news. /// Also on the festival trail is Elektra artist, Shinehead. There's scattered avails throughout the summer. /// Arrow lit up the stage again at Sunfest of Palm Beach, the only performer to be invited two years in a row.

POW: Michelle Whitney-Morrison

New additions to our roster include Willy DeVille whose label debut is just out on Rhino. Backstreets of Desire has gone gold in Europe. Willy will tour in August. /// Touring in late June/July will be John Cale with his release The Last Day on Earth with Bob Neuwirth. /// Another addition to our roster is Nocoy, an amazing guitarist who has played with the Gypsy Kings and Santana. His music is available now on his debut CD Beauty which blends his flamenco guitar with classical, European, samba, Brazilian and Middle Eastern flavors. /// The B-Sharp Jazz Quartet is an exciting acoustic ensemble that create their own unique style of jazz. /// Shoukichi Kina composed one of Japan's best-known hits while still in high school and helped introduce the unique sounds of Okinawan music to the world. His new album on Luaka Bop, Peppermint Tea House features Ry Cooder. Kina has attained folk-hero status, not only for his music, but his attitude and rebellious spirit. /// Kilauaea has released a new album on Brainchild Records Midnight on the Boulevard. /// Manu DiBango, supporting his upcoming release on Giant Wakafrika, with first remixes by Us3, will tour in July, August and September. /// Also on the road are Dan Siegel, David Wilcox's continuous tour and Zachary Richard with his summer outing. /// Coming back this summer are Hugh Masekela, Angelique Kidjo, Keiko Matsui and beginning in August, Bootsy Collins.

MSH UNLIMITED: Maxine Harvard

Right Turn On Blue, the new Telarc CD from The Jimmy McGriff-Hank Crawford Quartet has just shipped. It's a hot session from Jimmy and Hank, two of the masters of the "feel good" soul blues. Rounding out the quartet on the session — and on tour — are Rodney Jones on guitar and Jesse Hameen on drums. Jimmy and Hank will be on the European festival circuit during the month of July. There are some limited avails in September and October. We also have fall avails for Freddy Cole and Lou Donaldson.

HEADLINE TALENT: Glen Knight

We are proud to announce the signing of B.T. Express to our roster. That's right, the band that brought you "Do It (Til You're Satisfied)" and "Express" is back. They have East Coast and Southeast avails for July and August, and West Coast avails for September.

Between The Dates

David Letterman may have called it the "Grumpy Old Men" or "$140 Million-In-The-Bank-Isn't Enough" tour, but THE ROLLING STONES ("live plus Keith Richards") are still potent box office. The group quickly sold out two New York-area shows at Giants Stadium in E. Rutherford, N.J., so a third show was added, although it did not go clean immediately. Even though New Jersey has a strict anti-scalping law prohibiting mark-ups of more than $3 or 20 percent, several ticket brokers have seemingly found a way to skirt the law. Tickets USA of Providence, R.I., is advertising the $25 and $50 tickets for $65 and $80. They are telling their customers that the company can't mail tickets to New Jersey residents, but if the customers can provide the name and address of a friend outside the Garden State, the ticket brokers will send their tickets care of that friend. New Jersey officials said that the out-of-state mailings were a circumvention of New Jersey law. "Regardless of where the tickets are being mailed, if they're doing it on behalf of a New Jersey consumer, laws apply," said Bonnie James Sheppard, a spokeswoman for the Division of Consumer Affairs in Newark. She said N.J. officials are reviewing the situation.... The first major wave of LOLLAPALOOZA '94 ticket sales met with good success with sell-outs in the Chicago, Detroit, Dallas, and Atlanta markets. Jam sold out 28,500 tickets for the July 15th show at the World Music Theatre and that prompted a second date to go on sale May 22nd. Sales of 34,000 tickets for two Pine Knob shows meant show number three could go on sale May 21st. One show at Starplex Amphitheatre in Dallas sold out and a second was added which quickly sold another 10,000 tickets. Tickets went up for Las Vegas, Minneapolis, Columbus, and Cincinnati this past weekend.... As you're perusing this week's edition of the SUMMER AMPHITHEATRE GUIDE, check out World Cup Soccer Week at the Hollywood Bowl running July 11-17. Van Cliburn and the Moscow Philharmonic kick off the festivities. On July 12th it's Itzhak Perlman with John Williams conducting the Los Angeles Philharmonic with special guest Linda Ronstadt, and on July 14th it will be a rare acoustic performance by GARTH BROOKS, who will also perform with the Hollywood Bowl Orchestra. Also appearing at the Bowl for World Cup Week will be the Gipsy Kings and Jose Luis Rodriguez.... Security for WOODSTOCK '94 will be high-tech and focused on potential problems from weapons and troublemakers, and even though they will be watching for drugs and drug paraphernalia, they will likely overlook the occasional doobie. "A small amount of pot isn't going to cause the neighbors any problems," said Jack Ingersol, chief of security for the August 13-14 festival. "I'm not concerned about anything very much except things that hurt other people." About 800 T-shirted "peer-group" security guards will be frisking people as they board shuttle buses to the site. Security for the two-day festival will utilize the latest in communication equipment including a sophisticated telephone system, cellular phones, fax machines and computer e-mail networks. Word has it that the official Woodstock line-up could be announced at the end of the week. In any case, you can add Metallica to the list of acts that will be there.... For those of you bitchin' about the high prices of some concert tickets, consider this: Festival U.S.A.'s MEMORIAL DAYS PARTY, a three day classic rock extravaganza at Lake Havasu Raceway in Arizona. Featured will be BTO, Molly Hatchet, Mickey Thomas' Starship, Loverboy, Dave Mason, and Dr. Hook among the veterans, and newcomers Noisy Forest. The special $100 three day VIP pass might seem a bit pricey at first glance, but it includes all the BBQ and beer you can consume. Party hardy.
