Pearl Jam Vs. Ticketmaster

Pearl Jam sent a letter of complaint to the U.S. Justice Department last month alleging that Ticketmaster successfully pressured concert promoters into boycotting the group's summer tour because the band refused to charge more than $18 for a ticket and, more importantly, no more than $1.80 for a service charge. A spokesperson from TM said, "We're surprised [Pearl Jam filed a complaint] because they very publicly said they were not touring over the summer because of personal reasons." When announcing the decision not to tour, Eddie Vedder reportedly said he was not going on the road because of Kurt Cobain's death. But the rumor-mill claimed Pearl Jam was having difficulty finding promoters and venues to do business with. It is no secret that TM has exclusive ticketing contracts with many major buildings and concert promoters. Those promoters and venues are not in a position to alter existing contracts just to suit the band's needs. TM contends it is operating fully and squarely within the parameters of the law. But TM continues to face antitrust scrutiny despite the fact that in 1991 the Justice Department's antitrust division gave the go-ahead for it to buy assets from Ticketron, its only major competitor. Nevertheless, the Justice Department is following procedure and it sent three officials to Los Angeles last week to interview people in the music business, according to the L.A. Times. However, a TM spokesperson said the company has not been contacted by any officials regarding the complaint. A spokesperson for Pearl Jam said the group would have no further comment at this time.

Mosher Helps Jello Biafra Break A Leg

Jello Biafra had to cancel a spoken word tour of Canada after he suffered a broken leg, extensive knee ligament damage and head wounds in a gang assault at the 924 Gilman Street club in Berkeley, Calif., May 7th. Biafra was watching a punk show by a Los Angeles band called The Fixtures when a stage-diving mosher slammed into his leg and broke it. The assailant then derided Biafra saying he had no regrets about injuring him because he was a "rich rock star." Biafra was then thrown to the floor and kicked repeatedly in the head. Others joined the attacker in beating Biafra and yelling "Rock star. Sellout. Kick him some more." The club's security and most of the audience had been drawn outside by an unrelated fight and did not respond to the brawl. Berkeley police are looking for as many as seven people allegedly involved in the attack. Biafra will require extensive knee surgery and approximately one year of rehabilitation. Biafra's leg is still swollen and surgery hasn't been scheduled yet. His prognosis for full recovery is uncertain. However, he did keep a commitment to do a spoken word performance at the same club on May 28th.

Le Pink Floyd du Montreal

A Canadian concert business record was set when Pink Floyd's three day run at Olympic Stadium in Montreal grossed over C$7 million. Backstage celebrating are (L-R) David Gilmour, Nick Mason, Richard Wright, manager Steve O'Rourke and local promoter Donald Tariton of Donald K. Donald.

FRENTE!

Australia's Frente! has been receiving national attention for several years in its homeland but last month marked the beginning of its American invasion. Setting the stage for the U.S. assault, Frente! (Spanish for Front!) was named best new band by the readers of the Australian edition of Rolling Stone magazine a little more than a year after its first gig. The band also landed showcases at South By Southwest two years in a row. When Frente!'s second independent EP was released it went to the top of the indie charts in Australia and was there for 12 weeks. And its new Mammoth/Atlantic release, Marvin The Album, went straight to the #1 slot on SoundScan's New Artists and Alternative New Artists sales charts the week it debuted in the U.S.

Simon Austin, guitarist, vocalist and programmer for Frente!, told POLLSTAR the band's affiliation with the "best organization in Australia," Michael Gudinski's Mushroom Records and Premier Artists agency, was remarkably helpful in the beginning. Frente! was signed to White Label, the indie alternative arm of Mushroom. At White, Frente! developed a strong relationship with A&R rep Simon Baeyertz. That association eventually led to the Mammoth/ Atlantic deal because Baeyertz and Mammoth's prexy, Jay Faires, knew each other quite well (Mammoth and White Label release each other's product in their respective countries). Faires liked the band and Mammoth eventually signed them. Meanwhile, Frente! began discussing the possibility of Baeyertz becoming the band's manager, which ultimately became a reality. Baeyertz left Mushroom a little over a month ago, just in time for Frente!'s debut U.S. tour. Now, he is affilated with D.A.M. Management.

Despite never touring in the U.S., Frente! has spent a serious bit of time on the road. Last year before Marvin was released, Frente! supported Crowded House in Europe. And the four-year-old band has toured extensively in the pubs of Australia. "You can do that in Australia for years if you want to — every country town has a gig. I remember the first time we went out of our own state, we did 30 straight days of touring and that pattern really continued for a year-and-a-half."

Austin said the band had become quite jaded after extensively touring Australia but the American experience is injecting new lifeblood into Frente! "Coming oversees is like starting the band again. We're all pretty wide-eyed at the moment about it all. It's really amazing." With the help of agent Frank Riley at Monterey Peninsula Artists, Frente! landed a premium support slot for its debut in the States — 20-plus days opening for Counting Crows, with nearly every stop already sold out.

To kick it off, the band did a few gigs with They Might Be Giants, one of which was at the legendary Fillmore in San Francisco. Austin said playing a room that has so much rock 'n' roll history was a special occasion for the band. "Last night we did our third show in America. We played the Fillmore and we had an amazing reaction. It's completely mind blowing to me [and] it's hard for me to comprehend. I know that people like the band and that's fantastic, but it's just so amazing that we're playing in these legendary places.

"We actually don't have very many of those places in Australia because they change hands a lot." Austin said there are no midsize venues to play in Australia. Most performers get their start by playing in the pubs. And it was at one of those pubs that Austin met his songwriting partner, Frente!'s lead singer Angie Hart. One night when he was tending bar, he had to throw Hart out because she was not of legal drinking age. Shortly after that, they began working together and became romantically involved. But they have broken up since then which caused a bit of difficulty for the band. Austin said ending his romantic involvement with his songwriting partner was the hardest thing he ever had to do. "It's kind of like we went through every possible good and band thing we could go through." But they weathered the storm and their friendship is strong today, though they did consider abandoning Frente! when the romance ended. "We never got to the point where we were hating each other," Austin said. "It was just the remembrance of painful things." But Austin said if one wants to overcome an uncomfortable situation, it is possible.

Now that the band is in the States, its fan base is growing by the day with the help of massive MTV exposure. Their first single from Marvin The Album is an acoustic cover of the New Order hit, "Bizarre Love Triangle." Frente! recorded the cover tune during some down time in the studio but had not intended to include it on the album. But Atlantic and Mammoth were so surprised and thrilled over the reaction the song got when people heard it, they wanted to release it. However, Austin and the band questioned the validity of releasing a cover, especially as Frente!'s "first" single. "It's not us," Austin said. "But people have been saying, 'well it basically is Frente! It's just a completely different way of reading the song so it's not like you're really trading off the deck of New Order too much.' We [debated and] talked about it and thought, well if people like the song, it's going to be pretty insufferably snobby for us to say no. So we let it happen."

The decision was clearly a good one. "Bizarre Love Triangle" is bringing Frente!'s sound to North America's airwaves, while Austin, Hart and bandmates Tim O'Connor and Alistair Barden hit the highway to establish their credibility on the live scene.

Glenn Frey and MCA, since MCA owns Geffen. As with Henley, Frey would be free to pursue a new solo deal with other companies and litigation between all the parties will be dropped if the reported deal is cemented. Meanwhile, the Eagles kicked off their reunion tour by dazzling a sell-out crowd at Irvine Meadows Amphitheatre May 27th. They launched the show with "Hotel California" and did about a three hour show. The concert also featured some solo material such as Henley's "New York Minute" and Joe Walsh's "Ordinary Average Guy" as well as some new Eagles material.

This Road Starts In Mobile

Footage for the new country music television series "The Road" is already being shot for the show's September debut. The first live performance stop was in Alabama at the Mobile Civic Center. (L-R) producer Bud Schaetzle of High Five Productions; Faith Hill; new Mobile GM Jay Hagerman; Maverick's lead vocalist Raul Malo; and Don Hacker of Tribune Entertainment.

The Booking Agencies Of The Future

The role that booking agencies will play in the wake of newmedia technologies was explored in a fascinating May 26th article by L.A. Times columnist Michael Schrage. The big question is: how will agencies, specifically CAA, ICM and William Morris, deal with the possibility of equity investment in new technologies? Today, agencies are forbidden from directly producing movies or network television shows because of the antitrust legacy of Jules Stein's MCA. But there are apparently no clear regulations preventing agencies from owning portions of a video game, a CD-ROM, an infomercial, computer software, an on-line network service or a multimedia operating system. Jerry Katzman, William Morris prexy, reportedly said WMA has taken an equity position in start-up companies ranging from digital production to infomercials. He said the new-media companies want WMA's ability to represent them but they're not in a position to pay commissions at start-up, so the equity stake is taken instead. Regardless, Katzman said WMA believes it can best represent its clients by avoiding becoming a principal in businesses that might compete against the studios or create conflicts of interest that potentially could undermine its advisory relationships with clients. And ICM's Jeffrey Berg said ICM has made a decision to not become principals in new-media technologies. Berg said ICM just did a licensing deal with Broderbund/Random House for an interactive Dr. Seuss product. ICM could have become an equity partner in the deal but felt it wasn't appropriate. However, Berg said that new forms of electronic publishing like CD-ROM may be dealt with differently. He said ICM is currently rethinking its business organization in terms of being a communications agency, not just a talent and literary agency. Michael Ovitz of CAA pointed out that there are no rules in this new-media world and the real opportunity is to be the connective tissue in the creative community and write the rules. CAA does have a few equity investments in new-media companies but Ovitz said they are mainly trade for service. So the question remains, will agencies solely represent their clients and ignore the opportunities offered by new technologies? Or will they take the risk and invest in equity deals which could ultimately put client relationships in jeopardy. Stay tuned folks — change is in the wind.

EastWest Is Not The Direction For Da Lench Mob

Terry E. Gray of Da Lench Mob will have to stand trial for murder and attempted murder for a shooting incident at a Southern California bowling alley February 18th. Gray, whose stage name is T-Bone, allegedly opened fire on the crowd during the incident in which Herbert Battle, 22, was killed. Gray's arraignment is set for June 10th. He is free on $1.5 million bail which was posted by fellow rapper Ice Cube. Gray's attorney claims his client wasn't even at the bowling alley when the shooting began. "They arrested the wrong man," the attorney said. Gray was arrested March 8th after two witnesses identified him as the gunman. Grey is the second member of Da Lench Mob to be charged with murder. DaSean Laron Cooper faces trial in the slaying of a man that occurred last June. Reportedly, Da Lench Mob's record company, EastWest Records, has severed its relationship with the West Coast rap group due to the legal troubles as well as creative differences.

Insider News Briefs

against the rapper claiming she was attacked by a security guard while on a tour bus in May 1992. Jennifer Warren was treated for a bruise on her head at a medical center in Portland, Maine but decided not to press charges against security guard Al Andrews. She was fired that same day. Warren said, though she was hired as Hammer's aerobics instructor, she ended up as a dancer on his "Too Legit to Quit" tour. The suit claims when she joined on as a dancer, she was harassed, beaten and ultimately fired. Defendants named in the suit are Hammer, his production companies and several members of his entourage..... The mayor of Belmar, N.J., Kenneth Pringle, ridiculed a lawsuit against himself, Belmar and the city's police department saying it was "frivolous." Richard Forlenza, who filed the suit May 23rd, claims the injuries he suffered after the MTV Sports Festival on the Belmar waterfront two years ago aren't frivolous. Forlenza said he was knocked off his bicycle and repeatedly kicked by people in the crowd. About 30 injuries and 30 arrests were made at the festival. The suit contends that the mayor and council should have known the festival's crowd would be larger than expected. Pringle said the borough's insurance company has rejected other such lawsuits because, as a government entity, the borough is immune from lawsuits regarding the amount of police protection it provides.

A Handy Night For The Blues

Cybill Shepherd and Isaac Hayes hosted the W.C. Handy Blues Awards May 5th at the Orpheum Theatre in Memphis. (L-R) Delbert McClinton, David Less of the sponsoring Blues Foundation, Shepherd, Hayes and Marcia Ball.

Short Items Of Note

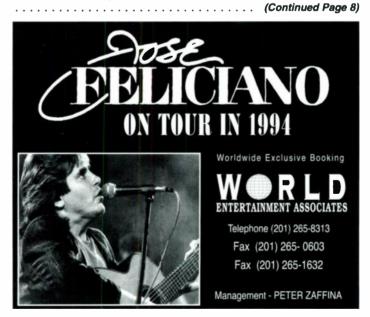

Diamond Rio's Jimmy Olander got a shock to the system when an 80-pound lead plated window frame fell off of a truss and crashed into him. The incident happened during a concert rehearsal in Richmond, Va., May 25th. Olander was treated for minor injuries. Diamond Rio manager Ted Hacker, said Olander was out-of-it for a while but he sucked it up and was still able to perform that night..... Jimmy Buffett told Larry King last week that he and acclaimed author Herman Wouk are working on a Broadway musical based on Wouk's book, "Don't Start the Carnival." "We started a year and a half ago, and we're getting serious about it now," Buffett said..... Canada's MuchMusic is coming to America July 1st. The 10-year-old, 24-hour Canadian music video channel will generally be offered as an extended basic cable service. The channel will debut with about 3 million subscribers and will also be available to U.S. viewers via satellite service through DirecTv. Except for segments licensed from U.S. companies, MuchMusic's programming in the U.S. will be identical to its programming in Canada..... In addition to Madison Square Garden, Viacom is reportedly also exploring the possible sale of Famous Music. The huge music publishing operation controls more than 100,000 songs and should sell for several hundred million dollars..... Def Jam and the rest of Russell Simmons' Rush Artists Labels operation is said to be on the verge of moving its affiliation from Sony to PolyGram.

Twin Cities Fight To Keep Wolves From Straying

One of the Minnesota Timberwolves' co-owners, Harvey Ratner, indicated May 31st that the agreement to sell the franchise and move it out of Minneapolis is not a done deal. Apparently, a Minnesota group led by Gov. Arne Carlson has been trying to put together a package to keep the team in Minneapolis, according to a report in the L.A. Times. Carlson's group has a tentative June 15th deadline to convince NBA Commissioner David Stern to keep the team in Minnesota. And because Carlson and the NBA are both considering ways to keep the team from relocating, other interested parties have not thrown in the towel on their offers. Jimmy "Jam" Harris and Terry Lewis are reportedly still trying to make a $115 million offer to buy the team. Harris and Lewis also plan to keep the franchise in Minneapolis. However, Ratner and his partner, Marv Wolfenson, contend they are obligated to honor the deal they recently made with Top Rank of Louisiana. But before the sale to Top Rank can go through, it needs approval by the NBA's relocation committee.

Legal Griefs

Cincinnati police have charged Michael Farris, the lead singer of the Screamin' Cheetah Wheelies, with public indecency. Farris allegedly dropped his pants and bared his butt onstage May 30th during the annual Taste of Cincinnati festival..... Primal Scream guitarist Robert "Throb" Young and four members of the group's entourage were arrested in the early morning hours of May 31st after getting naked and jumping in the San Antonio River. All four spent the rest of the night in the San Antonio P.D. drunk tank and were then fined and released.... Members of the Jackson family and an associate were ordered July 1st to pay

$4 million to a South Korean newspaper that was involved in trying to sponsor a 1989 Michael Jackson concert, attorney Edwin Bradley said. Bradley, who represents the Segye Times, said the concert was supposed to feature members of the Jackson family including Michael. The Segye Times reportedly paid $5.5 million to Joseph, Katherine and Jermaine Jackson along with associates to sponsor the show. But for unknown reasons, the plans fell through. Bradley said about $3.5 million was returned to the newspaper but $2 million was never repaid or accounted for. A Contra Costa County Superior Court Judge awarded the Segye Times $2 million in special damages and another $2 million in punitive damages. The judge made the ruling in March but kept it under seal until the 60-day deadline for appeal was reached. No appeal was made. In fact, Bradley said the Jackson family members didn't defend themselves during the trial..... Charges were dismissed last week against two Chicago men who were accused in the 1992 murder of Boys II Men's road manager, Roderick Rountree. Christopher Foley and Kenneth Copeland had been charged with murder, attempted murder and aggravated battery in the incident which occurred in a hotel where the group was staying after a concert. A criminal court judge said there was not enough evidence to continue the Another man involved in the slaying, Christopher Babbington, told police he shot Rountree in self-defense after the victim pistol-whipped him in an elevator. Babbington's trial was to resume late last week.

Not Much Beats A Strait In Vegas

Officials from the Thomas & Mack Center in Las Vegas present George Strait with a commemorative 1993 National Finals Rodeo belt buckle before his May 16th concert. And don't scoff at the NFR. It's a big enough deal to help motivate Vegas officials into exploring the idea of building a domed stadium to keep the event in Glitter Gulch. (L-R) Phil Reynolds, Strait and Ron Drake.

Between The Dates

It was going to be one of the biggest Southern California entertainment events of the decade. BARBRA STREISAND's Anaheim Arena concerts originally scheduled for May 25, 27, 29 & 31. Then Babs took ill with a throat infection that initially caused postponement of the May 25th show, and then 24 hours later, the call was made to also blow out the next three shows in her six night run at Anaheim. She was to resume her existing schedule with the June 2nd show in Anaheim. The four canceled dates were rescheduled for July meaning the tour ends at home in LaLa rather than in the Big Apple. Fans had spent months prepping for this event, and since the shows were in So-Cal, you can imagine the heavy hitters that would have made up the audience for opening night. Agents, managers, politicos, movie stars, and the rest, all making the Streisand concerts a place to see - and be seen. So what happens when a series of performances the magnitude of the Streisand shows are abruptly pushed back over a month? Aside from the disappointed concert goers, many people not directly involved with the show ended up losing money. First, you have to get there. One does not just hop into the Yugo and drive to a Streisand show. "limo" to the performance. "It's a major headache. It killed us," said Andy Wagner, owner of Ultimate Limousine. "It really hurt us because Barbra draws an older crowd with money. We were picking up VIPs from everywhere. We had a Rolls Royce going out. We had a Jacuzzi limo." Wagner estimates the company lost $15,000 in business. Anaheim restaurants also experienced similar heartbreak. Jim Maresca. manager of Charley Brown's estimated that his eatery lost between $5,000 to $6,000 in business. Another restaurant, Mr. Stox, even drilled their waiters to insure that they could serve 250 people and get them out the door and on to the show in time. Even baby sitters suffered. Shirley Roth of Around The Clock Sitters Agency reported that her company lost ten jobs over the postponements. It may have been a let down for the various restaurants and transportation services, but one person, Richard Trevett, manager of CLS Transportation in Los Angeles was looking ahead to the weekend, and opening night for a another long-awaited concert event. "Thank God for the Eagles," exclaimed Trevett..... It had to happen eventually. All those boomers that grew up listening to THE ROLLING STONES. Some of them went to college, graduated, and achieved financial success, all the while still playing air guitar and doing their best Keith Richards imitations in front of the mirror. Like Herb Montalbano, president of a New Orleans advertising and public relations firm. The 36-year-old Montalbano has offered $50,000 to charity for a chance to play bass with the Stones. "I'm regressing a good bit to a teen-age fantasy, but it's a dream I have a burning desire to fulfill." Original Stones bassist, Bill Wyman left the band last year and the position is currently being filled by hired gun Darryl Jones. "I'm sure the touring bass player wouldn't mind me playing bass for one song with the band. Two would be nice. Ideally the song would be 'Jumpin' Jack Flash'," Meanwhile, expect some changes in the Stones tour itinerary. So far, the August 8th date in Birmingham is still on, but may be rescheduled. Reports are that simple tour logistics are going to cause some date switches, however, dates that are already on sale will remain firm.... MTV has connected with computer subscription service America On-Line to provide cyberspace reports from "LOLLAPALOOZA '94." MTV VJ's will be reporting from the concert sites via Apple Powerbooks. Subscribers to America On-Line will be able to read these reports almost immediately in a special Lollapalooza section..... The second annual TICKETMASTER MUSIC SHOWCASE "tour" kicks off at Axis in Boston on July 27th, and will travel to over 35 cities, presenting the best in local talent. The events provide an opportunity for local musicians to perform in front of industry professionals. Selected from demo tapes, each act perform a 20 minutes set in front of Ticketmaster's panel of A&R reps. There will be 36 local showcases; three regionals; and one national. Ticketmaster stresses that this is not a "battle of the bands," but rather an opportunity for local musicians to gain national attention. The winner of the national showcase will receive a one week recording session at Seattle's Bad Animals Recording Studio..... Country performer JOHN BERRY is back on the road after surgery to remove a non-malignant brain cyst. Last month it was reported that Berry would be resting easy until August. However, trooper that he is, Berry will resume touring June 16th at West Hollywood's House Of Blues.

Protecting your hearing may not be something that you're too concerned about now, but after a few more years of exposing your ears to excessive decibels, you might be very concerned about protecting what's left of it.

Once your hearing is gone, it doesn't come back. Have it checked now. For an information packet, send $10.00 to H.E.A.R - P.O. Box 460847 San Francisco, CA 94146 or call the H.E.A.R.24-hour hotline:
