Buck Williams Swings His Own Club With PGA

Veteran agent Buck Williams resigned from Monterey Artists earlier this month and on June 8th he opened the doors to his own company, the Progressive Global Agency. He brings with him the six acts he originally brought with him from F.B.I. to Monterey: R.E.M., Boingo, The Specials, The Connells, Hoodoo Gurus, Widespread Panic and Queen Sarah Saturday. Also joining the fledgling agency's staff are Brian Hill, who had been an assistant to Mike Piranian at CAA in Beverly Hills, and Scott Clayton, who worked in the D.C. area office of Cellar Door Entertainment. Clayton has brought two other groups into the agency: From Good Homes and Everything. All of these acts will be working in the fall except for R.E.M. which has announced no tour plans but is widely expected to tour in 1995. Williams' history with the members of R.E.M. actually dates back to the late '70s. When he was working at the Paragon Agency in Macon, Ga., Williams was always nice to the guys in the agency's mailroom and one of those bottom-of-the-totem-pole employees, Bill Berry, never forgot that. When asked about his decision to base his new agency in Nashville, Williams said, "There's a lot happening here. I've got no problem with booking rock n' roll out of this town. I've got a cool staff and we're ready to go." PGA is located at 1025 16th Ave. South, Suite 200, Nashville, TN, 37212. Telephone is (615) 327-4004 and fax is 321-0241.

More Shots At Ticketmaster

Three women from Seattle filed a lawsuit against Ticketmaster June 8th over the company's alleged antitrust law violations and monopolistic business practices. The plaintiffs also named the North American Concert Promoters Association in the action, alleging TM has entered into long-term exclusive contracts with NACPA members to fix service fees. While many NACPA members probably do have individual contracts with TM, the trade association itself has never made any kind of a deal with TM. The plaintiffs are seeking an injunction against TM and are asking that the case be declared a class action for all TM customers in the states of Washington and Oregon. The legal action was reportedly provoked by Pearl Jam's complaint to the Justice Department and the suit cites the complaint to support its claim. The Justice Department's antitrust division last week confirmed it is investigating "possible anti-competitive practices in the ticket distribution industry." But a department spokesperson declined to say whether TM was a target of its probe. A spokesperson for TM said the lawsuit is the latest of six filed recently around the country that are "meritless" and "frivolous."..... One of the hottest rumors floating around the industry is about a possible foray by Sony into the computerized ticket distribution business. The buzz is that Sony is thinking about setting up a distribution network using ATM machines and would seek to challenge TM's exclusive contracts in court. It took some effort to find anyone who could comment on the rumor but eventually a corporate spokesperson said Sony was definitely not getting into the event ticketing business.

Junior At The Shack

This week's cover artist, Junior Brown, made his Los Angeles debut May 20th at Jack's Sugar Shack. Pictured here, the Guit-arman celebrates his new management deal with steely-eyed Miles Copeland (R) of Firstars management and Curb Records exec Dennis Hannon (L).

JUNIOR BROWN

Even with all the forces working against him as a young boy, Junior Brown was still determined to learn how to play guitar. He found rock and country music especially attractive since his parents were opposed to those genres. And while all the other kids in junior high had electric guitars (Brown's parents thought the electric guitar was evil), he had to borrow equipment in order to learn to play his music. But hard times or not, the self taught guitarist wrote his first song at age 14 and dropped out of school in 1969, at about age 17, to start working in the honky-tonks, and he's been playing country music ever since.

This 42-year-old Texan is influenced by the deep down roots of country and throws in some bluegrass, Memphis-style blues, and rockabilly. And don't be surprised to hear a Hendrix riff or two. His is the kind of down home music that seems to be lost in much of today's country music — the kind written to put a smile on your face. He acknowledges one of his biggest influences in his song, "My Baby Don't Dance To Nothin' But Ernest Tubb." But Brown doesn't think of his music as totally traditional. "I do use a traditional base format but I expand that with my wild guitar playing. I try to think of it as being futuristic as well as traditional." And his instrument may look a bit futuristic on stage since it is one of a kind. Brown invented his own personal combination of steel and electric guitars. The 'Guit-Steel" allows him to switch back and forth between the two sounds very quickly. The idea actually came to him in a dream.

Though a portion of his interest in country music comes from rebellion against his parents, their influence in raising a moral, upstanding man comes out in his music. Unlike much of traditional country music, he's not into songs about immorality and wrongdoing. "I just don't like to hear stuff about going out and cheating on the wife and getting drunk and kicking the dog." He feels lyrical content should not be taken lightly. "I think it's really important that people realize what they're doing and what they're saying with their music. I don't think a lot of people realize what comes out of their mouth. They don't think before they talk or before they sing or anything else. And what you say pretty much establishes what you are, the way you live and what people think of you."

Brown's less than faddish style leads to the question of what audience he's seeking. He said he's being marketed to all audiences. "I'll play the Grand Ole Opry one night and then I'll open up for Widespread Panic or [some alternative rock band] the next." He said different audiences basically have the same reaction to his performance. "Everybody seems to walk away from the show liking it."

Brown put out his first solo album on his own indie label and he released it as a cassette and sold it locally in Austin. One day British rocker Nick Lowe hitched a ride with someone who had the tape. Brown said, "I'd never met him at that time. He heard it on the way to the airport in somebody's pick-up truck and flipped out about it. And the next thing I knew I was getting a call from Demon Records over there in London and they wanted to put it out as a CD." So that was the second release of his first album, 12

Shades of Brown. Now a third release of that album has been put out by Curb Records. Curb double released it with Brown's latest album, Guit With It.

Brown said he made the right decision when he chose Curb. "They're very dedicated and they understand that I'm a unique artist and I can't just be put in this slot with other artists. It takes some sort of tailoring as a long term project [in order] to get to the audiences that will appreciate what I'm doing."

Curb has planned a long term, low key marketing strategy for Brown. That approach stems from Brown's good ole boy purity and honesty. Curb wants people to discover him from those qualities rather than creating hype around him. "We don't want to just ram it down people's throats," Brown said. "We like to take sort of a softer approach and build our fan base as we go."

In building that base of fans, Brown's agent, Bobby Cudd at Monterey Artists, keeps him out on the road quite a bit. Brown said touring is great. "We get new fans every time we play." Things really got started for Brown when he met Cudd at the South by Southwest convention a few years ago. It was Cudd who brought him to the attention of Curb.

Also as part of his business team, Brown has PR firm Myers Media and manager Miles Copeland working for him. He said Copeland, who also manages Sting, has helped a lot to improve his career. "He can open up all of the European markets which are very, very important and not so much what a country artist would be able to do. I mean, I'm going to have some opportunities that other people don't just having him as a manager." Copeland approached Brown when he saw him on a New Year's Eve TV special in London.

Also working on the business side of things is Brown's wife Tanya Rae. Not only does she help handle the business but Rae is also the rhythm guitarist and vocal partner in Brown's band. Brown said having his wife in the band makes things a lot easier but it also puts a certain amount of strain on the relationship at times. "There is some tension because we're together 24 hours a day. There's bound to be some minor tensions but we work them out."

Junior Brown will tour the East Coast through the end of June. He will then do some dates in Tennessee, Indiana and Ohio through the middle of July before taking off to Europe for dates in France and England. At the beginning of August, he'll return to crisscross the U.S. and already has dates booked in California and New York.

Ranks, Joe Cocker, The Cranberries, Crosby Stills and Nash, Cypress Hill, Bob Dylan, Melissa Etheridge, Peter Gabriel, Green Day, Metallica, The Neville Brothers, Nine Inch Nails, Porno For Pyros, Red Hot Chili Peppers, Rollins Band, Santana and Spin Doctors are the acts already secured for the August 13th and 14th concert. Organizers expect to announce more musical artists as well as comedians in the days ahead. Each act will reportedly perform a full set from one of the two main stages which will be going simultaneously from about noon to 2 a.m. each day. The festival has initiated an unusual ticketing plan to facilitate smooth access into and out of the venue site. The first block of tickets went on sale June 15th as part of either an air or bus travel package. Concertgoers who travel to the show directly on a bus or on a bus via a New York City flight will be the only people to have direct access to the Woodstock '94 site. For those not interested in mass transportation, tickets tentatively go on sale through Ticketmaster phone lines June 26th. The cost per ticket is $135 and they will only be sold in blocks of four with one parking pass per block. Auto parking will be at satellite lots with busses shuttling back and forth to the site. Costs of the travel packages will vary and all ticket buyers will have access to onsite camping facilities. And if a concertgoer needs medical attention while at the show, organizers are doing everything they can to assure the proper attention is available on-site. Organizers have put out a call for 900 volunteers needed to work at least two eight-hour shifts at medical facilities around the site. Two emergency mini-hospitals, each with 52 beds, will operate roundthe-clock at the site and 15 other small emergency facilities will be sprinkled throughout the 840-acres. Each of those 15 facilities will have a doctor, nurses and paramedics on hand. Fifteen ambulances and a medical evacuation helicopter will also be stationed on the grounds. All medical volunteers must be registered medical professionals in New York state. For their efforts, medical volunteers will receive a free ticket to the concert, a bed to sleep in, meals and an armful of Woodstock paraphernalia. For those people who don't want to join 250,000 others for a weekend of peace and music in a cow pasture, the concert will also likely be available on pay-per-view.

Up Periscope At Polaris

The grand opening of the Polaris Amphitheater in Columbus, Ohio, was postponed due to construction delays and heavy rain. The June 15th opening night show, featuring the Moody Blues and the Columbus Symphony Orchestra, was cancelled nine hours before its scheduled start. A June 16th Bette Midler concert also was postponed because the singer has bronchitis. Midler's show was not immediately rescheduled and the Moody Blues show was moved to June 20th. The new amphitheatre was rescheduled to open June 18th with a Billy Ray Cyrus concert.

Was It A Guaranteed Sell-Out?

Two fledgling concert promoters in Madison, Wis., who lost money booking a James Brown concert in Milwaukee, failed to persuade a judge to eliminate their liability for cancellation costs. Wanna-be promoters Gregory Stutzel and Steven Harle said ticket sales were extremely low for the September 1991 gig at the Marcus Amphitheater and they were forced to cancel the show. The men had asked a judge to rescind an order making them pay $31,750 to Universal Attractions, Brown's agency. The promoters had claimed they were "taken advantage of by a large organization" and had sued the agency for allegedly misrepresenting Brown's boxoffice potential. The promoters went to court seeking the return of their $15,000 deposit. Universal then filed a countersuit claiming the promoter's decision to cancel the concert had cost their client $31,750 and the judge agreed with the agency.

The Electric Godfather & One Of His Disciples

The House of Blues in No. Hollywood was the setting for a May 19th tribute to the "Godfather of the Electric Guitar," Les Paul. The evening included appearances by Jeff Healey (pictured with Paul), Slash, Steve Vai, Johnny Rivers, Dave Edmunds, Stephen Stills and Graham Nash. The festivities were filmed by Time Warner Television and will be included in a documentary series called "The History of Rock 'N' Roll," which will air next year.

he's there. Month two... the same thing happens, only you will have to type in metaverse.com, and then click." Curry added that after the two months, mtv.com will not have a forwarding link, just the notice that the service has moved to a new address. Among the original charges was that Beavis & Butt-head transcripts had been on the mtv.com computers along with the MTV logo. Last month, Curry said the Beavis & Butt-head dialogue came from an MTV press release and he just passed the information along to the users of his service. Curry also claims that the MTV logo was a scanned image of one of the early MTV logos and was uploaded from a user. Once it was noticed, he removed it. Curry says, that as part of the interim agreement, all references to MTV have been removed from the service. It remains to be seen what will happen to the address mtv.com. Even though Curry has agreed to move his operations to the new metaverse.com address, he is still defiant when it comes to giving up mtv.com. Internet tradition says that once you've registered an address with the InterNIC, it's your's - forever. Over the last month, several questions have been raised by the citizens of the dyberspace community. Can an Internet address constitute a trademark violation? Would the InterNIC, which overseas the database of Internet addresses, be charged with researching every address request to insure that it doesn't conflict with any already existing corporation name or product trademark? Curry says he still has to be careful with his new name. "When our new metaverse address appeared in New York Magazine, their [MTV] attorneys immediately sent a letter saying that in any way, shape or form, if you enhance the letters M, T, and V in metaverse.com, we'll sue you again."

WOMAD Falls Victim To Arab-Israeli Tension

Peter Gabriel was forced to reschedule a planned concert on the border between Israel and Egypt after Egyptian officials called off the show because of security concerns. The concert was to be presented by Gabriel's World of Music, Arts and Dance (WOMAD) organization as a sign of support for the Arab-Israeli peace process. The show was originally scheduled for June 18th at the Egyptian Red Sea resort of Taba, one of the border sites where Israeli and PLO negotiators hammered out the peace agreement. The concert was planned to bring together Arab and Israeli fans to see Gabriel, Lou Reed, and acts from Britain, Africa and the Middle East. The rescheduled show is to be held in the Israeli port of Eilat at a 1,200-car-capacity parking lot. Transportation will be provided from the Egyptian border for those coming from Egypt to attend the concert. Tickets have been sold in Saudi Arabia, Egypt, Jordan and Israel. Gabriel and musicians from Israel and Egypt were scheduled to hold a small party June 17th at Tabu to make up for the canceled concert.

1,300-seat Ozark Theatre was about 400 people. Also, his show on the Mutual-Westwood One radio network was scheduled to debut June 13th from Branson. According to Brenner's agent, Ben Carizzo, it originated from New York instead..... The Minnesota Timberwolves won't be moving to New Orleans for the 1994-95 season, after all. The $152.5 million offer from Top Rank Of Louisiana was rejected by the NBA's relocation committee. Commissioner David Stern said Top Rank failed to furnish enough data with its offer. Stern also said he expects Top Rank to now sue the franchise. But a Top Rank spokesperson said the group hasn't decided if it will go to court to try and enforce the validity of its multi-million contract with Timberwolves owners Marv Wolfenson and Harvey Ratner. Figuring it would strike the first blow, the NBA filed a lawsuit in federal district court in Minneapolis to reaffirm the league's right to control the location of its franchises..... The historic Ryman Auditorium in Nashville celebrated its $8.2 million renovation and officially reopened its doors June 6th. During the evening, Vince Gill surprised a national radio audience with a duet with his 12-year-old daughter, Jennifer. The family duo sang a song Gill wrote for Jenny called, "Jenny Dreamed of Trains." The radio show was broadcast live from the 102-yearold Gothic-style brick building that was the home of the Grand Ole Opry from 1943 to 1974. The charm of the facility remains intact but it now has some basic comforts like air conditioning and real dressing rooms..... The Nammies is the name of the new local music awards which will debut January 18th at the Ryman Auditorium in Nashville. The Nashville Music Awards are based on similar awards programs in other cities such as the Bammies in San Francisco. Awards will honor albums, artists, writers and musicians in all genres of music. Additional awards will be given to outstanding radio station, music writer or critic, music video and music venue..... Benson Music Group, the largest independent Christian record company and music publisher, has signed an exclusive distribution deal with Liberty Records. Executives from the companies see the union as a step toward the growth of gospel music in mainstream pop culture..... Prince has opened his fourth Glam Slam nightclub. The new Miami Beach, Fla., club joins the ones in L.A., Minneapolis and Tokyo.

Lisa "Left Eye" Lopes, of the group TLC, was accused of setting fire to the two-story mansion that belongs to her boyfriend, Atlanta Falcons wide receiver Andre Rison. Rison's home, north of Atlanta, was destroyed in the June 9th blaze. Police issued an arrest warrant for Lopes the day of the fire and the singer turned herself in the following day. In addition to felony arson charges, Lopes faces charges of criminal damage to property for allegedly smashing three of Rison's vehicles, a Mercedes-Benz sedan, a Mercedes-Benz roadster and a Toyota 4-runner. Lopes reportedly was at Rison's home when he returned at 6:30 a.m. from a night out on the town. Police said the singer was enraged and she set fire to cardboard in a whirlpool tub. The couple exchanged hostile words and Rison said Lopes started hitting him on the head. Rison said he had to slap Lopes to get her to stop. In an interview with WAGA-TV, the football player said he then went for a walk, "before it went any further." All of Rison's possessions were destroyed in the fire but he said he still loves Lopes and he plans on going to bat for her. Lopes' bond was set at $500,000 for the arson charge and $10,000 for the criminal damage to property charge. The bond was later reduced to $82,000, which Lopes posted. Police said they were also going to charge Lopes with a misdemeanor drug charge because a small amount of marijuana was found in Rison's charred home. This isn't the first time Rison and Lopes' relationship put them in the line of the law. Last September, they both were arrested after an altercation in a grocery store parking lot. Rison allegedly hit Lopes and fired a handgun. And Lopes was arrested for fighting with police. Lopes was arrested later that month for fighting with police again, this time at the Georgia Dome. She had to be removed from the facility and she was charged with disorderly conduct while intoxicated, criminal trespass and simple battery against an officer. All those charges were dismissed except the criminal trespass charge, to which she pleaded no contest and was forced to pay a $200 fine. She also was given a 12-month suspended sentence and was ordered to undergo counseling.

A New Island Venue

The $28 million Maui Arts & Cultural Center celebrated its grand opening last month with a sold out Santana concert at the center's new amphitheatre. The 12-acre arts and culture center is Maui's most comprehensive performance venue. It has an open-air 4,000-capacity amphitheatre, a tri-level 1,200-seat state-of-the-art theatre and a 300-seat theatre. Pictured, MACC executive director Mark Nerenhausen presents Carlos Santana and his daughter Angelica a Hawaiian koa-wood box to commemorate the venue's debut event.

Legal Griefs

A lawsuit that former manager Steve Fargnoli brought against Prince has been settled out of court. Fargnoli claimed the track "Jughead" from Prince's Diamonds & Pearls album was about him. The $5 million dispute was reportedly settled for an undisclosed amount just days before an L.A. court hearing..... Jefferson Airplane filed a lawsuit in San Francisco last week claiming a computer software company stole the band's 1973 Thirty Seconds Over Winterland album cover for a "flying toaster" design that is used as a screen-saver computer program. Berkeley Systems, Inc. denied the claims saying the "After Dark" screen-saver program with the "flying toaster" design was independently created. Berkeley Systems' "flying toaster" design has been used since 1989 but the suit claims the Airplane first became aware of the program last year. The lawsuit filed June 14th says Berkeley Systems copied the toasters consciously or unconsciously creating the false impression that Jefferson Airplane was associated with the program..... Rick Rubin's

American Recordings filed a breach of contract suit April 21st against Phonogram Ltd., which distributes the label outside the U.S. and Canada. American claims that Phonogram failed to fulfill its end of a joint venture agreement and is claiming damages in excess of $10 million..... Simon Le Bon was awarded substantial libel damages from two London newspapers over false allegations that the singer cheated on his wife. The Daily Mail and Today falsely reported Le Bon had an affair with a woman in Rome while his wife was home looking after their two daughters. For the distress and embarrassment caused to Le Bon, his wife, Yasmin, and the woman who was named in the stories, the two papers apologized in London's High Court. The amount of damages the two papers have to pay was not disclosed..... Da Lench Mob rapper Terry Gray, otherwise known as T-Bone, pleaded innocent June 10th to murder and attempted murder in a bowling alley shooting. Gray is accused of killing one man, attempting to kill another, and wounding a woman. Gray also pleaded innocent to one count of assault with a deadly weapon in the February shooting. Deputy DA Gregory Jennings said there is a gang connection that is being investigated. Gray is currently free on $1.5 million bail posted by fellow rapper Ice Cube.

Fan Fair Autograph Frenzy

Twenty-four thousand fans turned out at the Tennessee State Fairgrounds for the 23rd annual International Country Music Fan Fair. When the dust settled, the fans went home leaving $9 million behind for tickets, travel costs, lodging and the ultra necessity — souvenirs. Pictured here are two fans as they get autographs from fast rising Polydor star Toby Keith.

Updates, Changes & Corrections

Veteran business manager Lisa Fremer of Fremer & Associates, issued the following statement concerning an item in last week's issue. "As far as I know, the Moody Blues are presently not managed by Rob Kahane and definitely were not managed by him when a member of the Moody Blues camp came to me for advice concerning possible management candidates for the band. Furthermore, I am not aware, at present, of any legal actions taking place and for the record, I am not the business manager for the Moody Blues." POLLSTAR incorrectly identified Fremer as the Moody's business manager and Kahane's office said they are negotiating with the band but as of last week, had not signed them..... Aerosmith Hits The Information Highway

Geffen Records will be the first major label to debut a neverbefore-released song via computer. Aerosmith's "Head First" will be available via the CompuServe computer network starting June 27th. Two-million CompuServe members can type GO AEROSMITH to download the song. The 4.3 megabyte file will take approximately 60 to 90 minutes to retrieve. Because of the groundbreaking nature of the event, CompuServe will waive connect-time charges for a limited period of time. Aerosmith also will be waiving all their royalties for "Head First."

We've Only Just Begun....To Fight

Need to cheer up a friend who is going through a painful divorce? Well Warner Bros. has just the thing for you. Great Divorce Songs for Her and Great Divorce Songs for Him are the titles of two new country albums just released by the Bunny. Some of the cuts for her are "Good Goodbye" by Dawn Sears, "Someone Else's Trouble Now" by Highway 101, and "You Can Have Him" by Holly Dunn. For the men, "Here's a Quarter (Call Someone Who Cares)" by Travis Tritt, "Have a Nice Rest of Your Life" by Randy Travis and "It's All Over Now" by John Anderson. The light-hearted liner notes give special thanks to: Lorena and John Wayne Bobbit, Woody and Mia, Burt and Loni, Fergie and Prince Andrew and other famous, former couples.

Henry Mancini

Four-time Oscar winning composer Henry Mancini, 70, died June 14th at his Los Angeles home from complications of liver and pancreatic cancer. His career spanned nearly half a century during which time he earned 4 Oscars and 20 Grammy awards. Many stars gathered to pay tribute to Mancini at his 70th birthday party last spring. The salute featured performances by Luciano Pavarotti, Dudley Moore, Julie Andrews and Quincy Jones.

ROSEBUD AGENCY: Mike Kappus

Thanks to the Eagles and Irving Azoff for Los Lobos' support slots this weekend in Las Vegas and Phoenix. The band just headlined the Greek Theatre in Los Angeles and we are filling limited avails throughout the fall. /// Charlie Musselwhite, who recently earned yet another W.C. Handy award as blues instrumentalist of the year for his harmonica playing, is also featured on the cover of Blues Review Quarterly. We are finalizing limited avails for him this summer and fall. /// Ben Harper continues to build an audience live, on AAA and alternative radio and in the press. We're looking to package Ben in late summer and fall. /// The Blind Boys of Alabama and The Dirty Dozen Brass Band each have avails in late August and early September and are open to support, as well, as packages or their own dates. /// Duke Robillard's new PointBlank/Virgin CD is due in early September. It's a powerful rock oriented record from the founder of Roomful of Blues and later replacement for Jimmie Vaughan in The Fabulous Thunderbirds. We're looking for a support slot or to package in the fall.

Between The Dates

Claiming a need for more prep time, the opening date on the LOLLAPALOOZA '94 tour has been pushed back a day. The festival/tour will now debut on July 7th at the Sam Boyd Stadium in Las Vegas instead of July 6th. The Weber County Fairgrounds date in Ogden, Utah, originally scheduled for the 7th has now been cancelled, but may be rescheduled for a later date West coast dates, all two of them, for W.O.M.A.D. USA '94 are cancelled due to "scheduling problems." The dates, which were the only two on the tour not headlining Peter Gabriel, were to feature Midnight Oil, Primus, Arrested Development and Live..... JOHN MELLENCAMP is expected to announce his tour shortly with a national ad campaign financed in part by a six-figure sum from Mercury Records that will lead up to a uniform on-sale date for all shows..... You've heard about those high-priced "gold circle seats" for the Eagles concerts, and Barbra Streisand's high end $350 ticket price was a sure-fire conversation piece, but what about $25,000 for a ticket? The event was a special PAUL SIMON performance in Dallas at the Morton Meyerson Symphony Center benefiting The American Foundation for AIDS Research where tickets ranged from $25 to $25,000. What does a $25,000 ticket provide? Preferential seating and a small reception. The June 10th show, which also included Ladysmith Black Mambazo, raised over $900,000 which went to AmFAR and other Dallas-area AIDS organizations. The only other 1994 performance on Simon's agenda, another charity benefit, is planned for Montauk, N.Y., later this year. No word yet on prices for that show..... BARBRA STREISAND is reportedly still considering adding an additional date to her upcoming five-night stand at Madison Square Garden. Even if Babs agrees, she is determined to end her tour July 24th in Anaheim. Two films, "The Normal Heart", and "The Mirror Has Two Faces," plus a TV commitment have Streisand booked solid through the end of this year..... Expect the EAGLES to head up to the Pacific Northwest after the October 8th Rose Bowl concert. In November the boys play Australia, New Zealand, Japan, and the Far East..... Critically acclaimed San Francisco Bay area band The Call are back. This time the act is being billed as MICHAEL BEEN & THE CALL. Look for the dates in this week's Route Book DAVE EDMUNDS has a new album, Plugged In, and plans for a September tour are in the works. Edmunds played all the instruments on the new release STEVE PERRY has a new album, For The Love Of Strange Medicine, his first solo effort since 1984's Street Talk. Look for a tour in the fall..... Speaking of fall, that looks like it may well be a great time period for acts to tour. While it seems like everyone is touring this summer, there appear to be very few major acts planning to work during the last quarter of this year. Artist managers might want to think about whether their acts would have just a bit more impact in the marketplace if they toured during a time period when there weren't 100 other headliners competing for the public's financial adoration. Just a thought For the last few months the rumor mill has been crankin' overtime listing acts that might play WOODSTOCK '94. Now that the initial list has been released, it's time to cross off a few of the acts that will definitely not, we repeat, not play at the 25th anniversary of the festival. R.E.M. will not play Woodstock, as rumored last spring, and original Woodstock participants The Grateful Dead will also not be appearing. For the Dead, Woodstock is not a very happy memory. Although it's a lot of dead brain cells ago, bandmembers apparently still recall playing their set during a rain storm, receiving electrical shocks from their equipment and hearing people in the wings yelling, "The stage is falling, the stage is falling!" Ah, memories. Where would we be without them?
