The Judds File Suit Against Pro Tours

Naomi and Wynonna Judd filed a lawsuit August 9th against their former in-house agency, Pro Tours, and its prexy, Steve Pritchard. The Judds allege Pritchard ran the business for his personal economic gain rather than for the benefit of Naomi and Wynonna. The suit states that Pro Tours was formed solely for The Judds economic benefit and Pritchard agreed to run the company for a yearly salary of $100,000. The suit alleges Pro Tours was "intentionally managed and operated in a manner which was designed to ... maximize its own profits ... at the direct expense of and to the detriment of the Plaintiffs." The Judds also claim Pritchard paid himself "unfair 'bonus' payments" in 1992, which were greatly in excess of the bonuses Naomi and Wynonna received from the company. The suit specifically charges Pritchard and Pro Tours with fraud, breach of fiduciary duty, breach of contract, attachment, unjust enrichment and conversion of funds. The suit seeks unspecified damages and asks that all Pro Tours money held by Pritchard be released. In a statement made to the Tennessean, Pritchard said his feelings were hurt by the suit which was filed in Davidson County Circuit Court. He said the suit comes after seven months of fruitless negotiations in which he tried to buy out The Judds' share of Pro Tours and to collect money he claims Wynonna owes him. Pritchard said he thinks Wynonna has gotten bad information from her new advisors. She dropped Pro Tours as her agency last May and four months earlier, The Judds severed their relationship with longtime manager and Pro Tours partner, Ken Stilts. Stilts is not specifically named as a defendant in this suit.

Yes, A Legendary Stiff?

Legendary Concerts' Leas Campbell, a fixture on the Miami concert scene throughout the '60s and '70s, successfully made a comeback promoting a number of Moody Blues concerts around the country but he hit a huge pothole when he tried to do his first show in South Florida. Campbell apparently abandoned an August 10th Yes concert at the Miami Arena leaving a few upset people in his wake. According to a report by Deborah Wilker in Fort Lauderdale's Sun-Sentinel, Campbell bailed on the show and neglected to pay Yes after denying he was no longer involved in the show. The paper reported that Campbell was attending business meetings in L.A. the day of the concert. He told Wilker by phone he was still promoting the show and planned on honoring his contract. But come the night of the show, he and his company were nowhere to be found. According to Yes manager Tony Dimitriadis, Campbell informed the Miami Arena staff that he could not fulfill his role as a promoter of the show. Rather than cancel, Dimitriadis called in Cellar Door to run the show as a favor. Victor Cohen, GM of the Miami Arena, told POLLSTAR the venue didn't know there was a problem with Campbell until the day of the show. He said the band's agency, ICM, notified the arena that Campbell had not come through on some of his commitments to them. "From that point, the building went into a salvage mode along with the band because they wanted to satisfy the fans (about 3,000 tickets were sold in advance) that they had here," Cohen said. "And we, of course, wanted to help them with that as much as we could. So it ended up being a pretty good cooperative effort between ourselves, Pebbles Music Inc., (tour promoter Marcel Avram's company), and Cellar Door." Cohen said he hasn't spoken with Campbell yet but plans to. POLLSTAR was unable to reach Campbell for comment. The band has retained a Miami-area lawyer and plans to bring legal action against Campbell for walking away from Miami and two other Yes tour dates, Dimitriadis said.

Head First Into Trouble

The controversy surrounding moshing has been bubbling under for some time. But it was brought to a boiling point August 3rd when a 15-year-old boy suffered a broken neck while in the mosh pit at the Lollapalooza show in North Kingstown, R.I. Jeremy Libby, 15, of Maine was admitted in critical condition at Rhode Island Hospital. He has since been upgraded to satisfactory condition but his prospects for recovery remain uncertain. His injury reportedly occurred while bodysurfing atop the crowd. Meanwhile, North Kingstown town manager Rich Kerbel watched the concert at the Quonset State Airport from the control tower and did not like what he saw. Because the concert was held on a weekday, traffic started backing up at 9 a.m. The police asked for an emergency authorization to bring out National

REVEREND HORTON HEAT

The crazy, drunken, good time image of a psychobilly rocker is something the Reverend Horton Heat and his fans seem to revel in. But the Rev himself, Jim Heath, said even though his shows have to be fun, they also are art. And as far as he is concerned, the music remains the bottom line.

"We could care less about getting a big break," he said. "We could care less about doing anything except making sure that our music is getting a chance to be played and to get out there and play it." He said some industry people are missing the point. It's like walking across a desert, he said. "At one step at a time, it seems like you're going nowhere. But you are. If you just keep taking one step at a time, then eventually you'll get across the desert. Now, so many bands are waiting for a helicopter ride half way. And then they get out there half way across the desert and figure out, 'Wow, this is hard walking. Let's quit.'"

Heath said everybody in the music industry needs to realize "looking for a big break and looking for that band that's gonna go huge, mega platinum, is not really the goal if you're gonna stick to it." And The Reverend Horton Heat has been sticking to it for five years, playing as a regional act around Dallas to start off and then branching out all over the U.S. and abroad.

Heath first joined a 50's-style band when he was 14-years-old and went on to play everything from blues to punk rock with various bands. But not all was well in jumping from band to band. "I just kind of got fed up with having to be in bands and having to keep everybody together and so I started Reverend Horton Heat as a solo deal so I'd get to sing some of my songs that I was writing and maybe make some extra money. It ended up being a really good thing for me, right from the beginning."

The Rev is more selective about what he plays now than in the past. Even though the band was never concerned about great riches, they needed to eat. So they were able to mold themselves into whatever kind of band a paying customer wanted. Country music was one money making mold. Heath said the band played country gigs when they were really hungry. "Oh, you need a country band? Well, hell yeah we're a country band," he said comparing his band to the Blues Brothers. "Hell yea, we're a gospel band. How much are you paying? Oh yea, yea, we're gospel funk. That's what we'll do." Heath said the band has been known to do a barmitzvah or two in its time as well.

One of the band's most interesting features is the upright bass. Heath said bass player Jimbo plays the upright really fast making it like bass and rhythm at the same time. But the band has other interesting ways of using the bass as well. Heath said, "At different points in the show, we stand on the bass." And once, he said, "I went to jump off and my foot went right in it. Luckily, I jerked it out and landed somehow on my feet." Word has it that Jimbo didn't miss a lick playing the caved-in bass. "One of the other best times that the bass broke," Heath said, "was at the end of one of our sets and [Jimbo] was gonna throw it up in the air and catch it but his cord was a little too short. So it just went straight up and then straight back like a helicopter crash, humming down. And it was just in pieces, blam!"

There is no question that things have gotten wild at Reverend Horton Heat shows. At a recent gig, an audience member decided to grab a little action for himself. "He grabbed the mic stand, while I was singing, and hit me in the face with it," Heath said. "And he also shocked me and him at the same time that he did that. And so, I just grabbed one hand on my guitar and just dove out there [into the audience] and just grabbed his face and just started shocking him. He was going, 'ah! ah! ah! ah! ah!' I shocked the hell out of him."

Though Heath jokes about the shocking story now, he actually finds the issue no laughing matter. He said, "I've been shocked so bad it dazed me, knocked me back and dimmed the light show because I had so many volts cranking through my face. So in our contract, it says in bold letters, 'If the Rev gets shocked, the gig is over. Payment in full must be made within 20 minutes.' So, if I show up for sound check and I get shocked, they're gonna pay us our money for the gig and we're leaving...If you're cutting corners for a PA system or cutting corners with your electrical system, then it's just gonna come up and bite you on the butt."

The Rev's latest record, Liquor In The Front, is jointly released by Interscope and Sub Pop. When the band signed with Interscope, it owed Sub Pop one more album. Heath said, "Basically, [Interscope] bought our contract from Sub Pop and worked out an independent deal with us and Sub Pop that made everybody happy." Sub Pop will print vinyl copies of the record.

In making the decision to sign with Interscope, Heath said, "It's a great label. They wanted us very badly and they came through with stuff that we really needed. It's a powerful label but it still has kind of that small label feel."

Al Jourgensen produced the new album. Heath said, "I just thought that at this point and time in our career, if we were gonna make a big record that was all dolled up for commercial airplay, I think it would destroy our career. I think it would destroy our reputation and I didn't want to do that. I wanted to make a wild, crazy record. And I figured having Al would give us a better chance of getting that than having somebody who was basically just a mainstay person or something."

The band is currently wrapping up a Soundgarden tour and will do some festival dates in Europe at the end of August. They will be back in the U.S. for a club/theatre tour in mid-September.

The Reverend Horton Heat is booked and managed by Scott Weiss at High Watt Ltd. and the Electric Artists agency.

Guardsmen to help break-up the traffic grid-lock into and out of the concert. The congestion halted all business activity for miles around the site. Kerbel said he got calls all day about the incompatibility of the concert and the site on a weekday. Kerbel isn't refusing to host another Lollapalooza but he said it would never happen on a weekday again. "I want it to be clear. We just want it run right," Kerbel said. Promoter Don Law Company agreed to pay for the extra police and fire crews which were hired for added security at the site..... And in Saratoga Springs, N.Y., several horses in stables near the Saratoga Raceway where Lollapalooza was held on August 2nd had to be tranquilized because of the loud music. "The horses got shook up from the get-go," said trainer Richard Schosberg. Two horses were scratched from a race the day after the concert because the high-strung animals were "bouncing off the walls" because of the sounds generated by the Smashing Pumpkins, Beastie Boys, et al.

Two Million Have Jumped In The Lake

The Spin Doctors show at the Star Lake Amphitheatre outside of Pittsburgh July 19th put the venue over the two million mark for total attendance in its first five years. Backstage party animals are (L-R) promoter Jack Tumpson of Next Big Thing Productions, the venue's Lance Jones, head Spin Doctor Chris Barron, and Star Lake's Tom Rooney and Josh Rooney.

BCL May Lose The L

John Labatt Ltd. is planning to sell its ownership stake in BCL Group, according to the Canadian brewski giant's annual report. The company said BCL's Concert Productions Int'l and Brockum merchandising units had produced disappointing earnings and are not a part of the firm's core business even though they support the marketing initiatives of the brewery. Toronto-based Labatt plans to overhaul the company by selling some of its sports and entertainment interests. The company is looking at moving toward new broadcast-related acquisitions. Labatt is also said to be probing a bid for Madison Square Garden along with Nike and Liberty Media. BCL stands for Ballard, Cohl and Labatt.

George Michael Continues Legal Battle With Sony

George Michael filed an appeal August 8th in an attempt to overturn England's High Court ruling that upheld the validity of his existing multi-year contract with Sony Music Entertainment. Michael had called the court's decision to tie him to Sony "professional slavery." Michael has already run up legal bills totalling more than $4 million. If the Court of Appeal decides against Michael, he could be responsible for both side's court costs and attorneys fees which could run in excess of $10 million. The appeal is based on British restraint of trade laws and Article 85 of the European Union Treaty concerning freedom of competition.

An Idol OD

Billy Idol spent the night at St. Joseph Medical Centre in Burbank August 5th after suffering an apparent drug overdose. Paramedics were called to his Hollywood Hills home and he was initially hospitalized in critical condition. Idol's health improved overnight and he was allowed to go home the following day. No one would confirm what kind of drugs the Idol one ODeD on but he has admitted using heroin in the past. Earlier this year, he also had to be hospitalized after going into convulsions outside the trendy Tatou club in Beverly Hills but that incident was attributed to "exhaustion."

New York Cracks Down On Ticket Brokers

A ticket broker from Connecticut was hit with a lawsuit for allegedly scalping Yankees tickets in New York. New York Attorney General G. Oliver Koppell brought the legal action against Greenwich Tickets on the heels of a judgement against a New Jersey ticket broker. New York state law permits an added charge of only 10 percent of the face value or $5, whichever is greater. Greenwich Tickets allegedly sold $14.50 tickets for $45. The action is just one of several lawsuits Koppell has initiated against out-of-state ticket brokers in the last few months. In one case, Justice Joan Lobis of the N.Y. state Supreme Court in Manhattan ordered the Ticket Box of Paramus, N.J., to offer

Australian News Report

(Sydney) It's not really surprising to hear that BILLY JOEL's December tour of Australia is selling extremely well. In Sydney a third show at the 11,000 capacity Entertainment Centre has just gone on sale. The Frontier Touring Company are the promoters..... Although her records have not been released in Australia by Virgin, the hit tip is that SAM PHILLIPS will be a special guest on the COUNTING CROWS tour here in October and November..... Co-promoter Ken West has confirmed that PRIMAL SCREAM will be one of the main international attractions at the BIG DAY OUT (Australia's equivalent to Lollapalooza) which will again be held towards the end of January. A surprise inclusion is Jeff Buckley, son of the late Tim, who to date has virtually no profile in this country. Negotiations continue with a number of other high profile acts..... Given Ted Hawkins' Years busking on Venice Beach, the promoters of his August/September tour have instigated a national busking competition. The prize in each state is the opening spot at one of Hawkins' shows..... The thirteenth edition of the local music industry bible, the AUSTRALIAN MUSIC INDUSTRY DIRECTORY, has just been published. To obtain a copy contact Immedia! at 61-2-212-6677 or fax 61-2-211-5938..... Rumours abound that Australia's high profile concert promoters, FRONTIER TOURING COMPANY, are in serious negotiation with a number of prominent international acts for a Lollapalooza-style extravaganza scheduled for Easter next year. The company's Michael Chugg is attending the Woodstock festival which, in the light of these rumours, might be more business than pleasure orientated..... Australia's most popular male singer, JOHN FARNHAM, held a concert telethon at the Melbourne Tennis Centre August 7th to raise money for Rwandan refugee children. The outcome was a staggering A$2.8 million in donations..... BECK, and special guests The Jon Spencer Blues Explosion, is currently mid-way through a successful Australian tour. Same goes for BAD BRAINS, whilst ALICE COOPER has just come through on a promotional visit. RONNY JORDAN has just completed a more successful than anticipated tour with a number of additional shows being added around the country..... RITA COOLIDGE dates at club level venues have been announced for September. Later that month sees ANGELIQUE KIDJO and her eight piece band touring for Big City Promotions..... Two of Australia's biggest bands of the 1970's, DADDY COOL and SKYHOOKS, are at it again. This week the media was presented with a double A side single - on one side was Daddy Cool's first new single in 20 years, and on the other a new Hooks track. The single's released commercially on August 15th. What are the odds on a double-billed national tour later this year?..... HOODOO GURUS management and record company have reacted angrily to a report in the Australian press that the band will breakup after their current American tour. Not true say all concerned..... The BIG BACKYARD radio show, distributed to 189 American college stations, is back in production following a three month lay off due to funding problems. The first five programs in the new series features music from the like of Ed Kuepper, Hunters & Collectors, Noise Addict, The Plums, The Church, Crow, Rip, You Am I, and Tumbleweed. In North America it's estimated that the program is heard by at least three million listeners..... DAVE STEEL recently became only the second Australian to perform at the Montreaux Jazz Festival in Switzerland. The other was trumpeter James Morrison. (Reported by Stuart Coupe)

U.K. News Report

(London) A partnership whose demise the concert industry will surely mourn, is that of British set designers, FISHER PARK. Jonathan Park and Mark Fisher, who just launched the Voodoo Lounge set on its tour with the Rolling Stones, are separating to pursue independent projects. Responsible for the designs of Pink Floyd's The Wall and the Stones' Steel Wheels tour, the company has been at the cutting edge of rock and roll set design for the past decade. Park will continue to trade under the company name while Fisher will work independently..... Another addition to the ICM / FAIR WARNING stable of agents is JIM MOREWOOD, who brings Baby Chaos and Collapsed Lung with him from MPI..... Another tour which is showing early signs of selling out well in advance of its start date is WET WET WET's 1995 arena schedule. The band has held its number one position in both album and single charts for the better part of the summer. Although only five dates went on sale at the end of July - a good 11 months before the first show, a second London date has already been added. In this band's case, when Wembley Arena sold out in a day, the additional date was not refunds to people who paid $350 for Barbra Streisand tickets with a face value of $125. Ticket Box was also ordered to stop selling overpriced tickets to N.Y. events. The judge said Ticket Box must pay $4,000 to the state and must advertise the availability of refunds in newspapers where it normally advertises. To get refunds, customers will need credit card receipts, other documentation of ticket purchases or a credible explanation of why they don't have any records, according to Timothy Gilles, a spokesperson for the attorney general's office. Gilles also said a criminal case against Ticket Box is not feasible because it is an out-of-state ticket broker. A spokesperson for Ticket Box said the company had not been aware of the N.Y. law and it intended to abide by the judge's order.

Time, But Not Money, Is On His Side

A New York songwriter who co-wrote "Time Is On My Side" in 1963 claims he's never received payment or royalties for the song that was a hit for the Rolling Stones. Jimmy Norman said his manager had power of attorney over his affairs when the song was written. Norman was on the road at the time and wrongly assumed the manager was taking care of everything. Norman told POLLSTAR he had trouble getting writer acknowledgement on the Stones' records much less royalties. He was credited on the original recording by Irma Thomas but various typographical errors kept his full name off future recordings. (Norman's former writing partner's first name is Norman, hence the confusion). Throughout the years, Norman has contacted several attorneys about taking his case but with no avail. He has obtained a lawyer who sent a letter to Warner-Chappell complaining the publishers negligently allowed the copyright to lapse into the public domain by failing to file a renewal under the provisions of the pre-1976 U.S. copyright law. Norman hopes to contact Mick Jagger for assistance in the matter. "He doesn't have that much to do with it other than just recording it himself," Norman said of Jagger. But with the Stones clout, Norman is hoping his case will be solidified and that he might be able to obtain back royalties.

2 Live Sex On Stage

An offshoot of 2 Live Crew — New 2 Live Crew — got the plug pulled on a July 30th performance for allegedly allowing a sex act to be performed on-stage during a concert at the Bayfront Center in St. Petersburg, Fla. During the show, the rap act called audience members on stage to join four female dancers. Jeff Foreman, assistant manager at the Bayfront Center, said the group's act contains many simulated sex acts. And at one point, a boy from the audience who looked about 14-years-old dropped his pants and a woman performed what Foreman thought was simulated oral sex. When Foreman realized the woman was not simulating, he and the show's production manager, Rege Showers, stopped the performance. The people on the stage scattered and lead rapper "Verb" kicked a speaker from the stage, according to the police. There were no arrests. However, a criminal investigation is underway. The concert continued with headliner Luther Campbell closing the show. Campbell performed with New 2 Live Crew on its album but does not perform with the group on stage. The following week, Campbell was served with a subpoena after a show at the Savannah Civic Center. Officials refused to say why the subpoena was served on Campbell but they did say it was issued by a federal grand jury in the Southern District of Georgia. And two members of New 2 Live Crew were arrested for on-stage public indecency and simple battery after their performance the same night. Altwan Clark, 22, was charged with public indecency for allegedly exposing a dancer's genitals to the audience. The dancer, Andrea Dawson, 27, was also charged with public indecency.

Columbia & Connick Go Clubin'

Record execs from Columbia and Sony Music join Harry Connick, Jr. and his wife to celebrate Connick's latest release, "She." The crooner performed at Tipitina's in New Orleans June 23rd to showcase the album. Connick last played the legendary club when he was in high school. Pictured at the after show reception are (L-R) Columbia's Jerry Lembo, Burt Baumgartner, and Diarmuid Quinn, Connick's wife Jill Goodacre, Connick, Columbia's Kevin Gore, Sony Music's Arnold Levine, and Columbia's Dr. George Butler.

Legal Grievs

Michael Jackson invoked his Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination when answering a lawsuit brought by five former bodyguards claiming they were fired because they knew too much about MJ's alleged nighttime visits with young boys. But MJ denies the men worked for him regularly and said they were hired only occasionally to provide security for his parents and their property. The suit, which seeks unspecified damages, is now scheduled for trial April 19, 1995. Meanwhile, a Los Angeles judge refused to dismiss a breach of contract lawsuit August 9th against MJ. That suit, which stemmed from the disaster known as the "Jackson Family Honors" last March, was brought by Smith-Hemion Productions and names the family's Jackson Communications Inc. and other Jackson family members. MJ's attorney, Howard Weitzman, argued that MJ's contract was with Jackson Communications and not with Smith-Hemion and that he lived up to his obligations. Weitzman also said MJ never contractually agreed to perform at the show.... PolyGram's

London-based Phonogram Ltd. replied to a $14 million breach of contract lawsuit brought by American Recordings in April by filing for an injunction to prevent American from seeking another distributor for its product outside the U.S. and Canada. American alleges Phonogram did not keep proper accounting records and also breached a separate licensing agreement covering the release of albums, payment of royalties and reimbursement of costs for making video clips. Phonogram's injunction request will be heard August 17th in London. Until the case is settled, American product is not being sold outside of North America. Meanwhile, a cellular hacker obtained a tape recording of an allegedly juicy conference call between Rick Rubin, heavyweight lawyer John Branca and various American executives. But the tape, which was obtained by Phonogram, cannot be entered as evidence and has been confiscated by the U.K. court.... Attorneys for David Ruffin's heirs accused officials at Motown Records August 10th of falsifying the late Temptation member's signature on documents in order to bilk him out of his royalties. The suit, filed in Detroit last October, seeks back royalties allegedly due Ruffin and also asks for the right to examine Motown's business records. But Motown claims Ruffin signed a release in 1977 waiving his right to all past, present and future royalties. However, a handwriting expert who examined the document claims the signature was traced, the attorneys said. Certified document examiner Richard Kokochak also determined that other documents produced by Motown attorneys were pasted together from documents prepared by at least two different typewriters. The suit against Motown will be amended to include fraud and other charges in light of that testimony. It will also seek to recover all master recordings Ruffin made for Motown as both a solo artist and a member of the Temptations. Motown officials could not be reached for comment.... Randy Bachman has brought a $2.25 million lawsuit against members of BTO and agent Robert Tustin of Toronto's The Music Group U.S./Canada agency, according to a report in The Record. Bachman claims Tustin faxed solicitations to Ontario clubs looking for bookings for "BTO with Randy Bauchman (sic)." Bachman acrimoniously left BTO in 1991 and is now requesting a court order preventing BTO from using "Randy Bauchman" or any similar name which may cause the public to believe the reference is to him. Bachman also sued BTO for trademark infringement last year.

In addition to her weekly shows at Opryland, she is performing at fairs coast-to-coast. She has a few Midwest avails left in October and November. Keep your ears open for her new album of duets with Elton John, Aaron Neville and Smokey Robinson.

PRODUCTIONS UNLTD: Mike Marucci

In September, Nils Lofgren begins his tour of the Southeast in Virginia. Nils will be touring as a duo with keyboard and guitar. There are avails for the Carolina/Georgia area between September 20th and 24th.

ROSEBUD AGENCY: Mike Kappus

Loudon Wainwright III won't be at Woodstock but his send up of the festival, "Talking Woodstock '94" has aired on NPR radio nationwide as well as on national TV via ABC's Turning Point and the CBS syndicated stations. He plays U.S. dates this fall before and after an October tour of Australia. // J.J. Cale joined The Band for a version of his hit "Crazy Mama" when they played together in Seattle recently. The Band's Garth Hudson plays on Cale's new CD out August 23rd. Watch for major features in the U.S. in all media surrounding the release. Cale's European theatre tour in September/October will also include television shows in Germany, France, England and Holland. // Los Lobos had a turnaway crowd at Davies Symphony Hall in San Francisco last week, an advance sellout in Minneapolis and a full house at Chicago's Ravinia this week. Select dates are still available for the group through the fall. // We are still booking select dates on a very full schedule for BeauSoleil whose new CD is due in October on Forward/Rhino. // Ben Harper also has U.S. avails and we're looking to package or support before and after a late fall return to Europe. // Duke Robillard's new Virgin/Pointblank CD is out September 6th and we're looking for a package or support position for him before and after two fall trips to Europe with his band.

Between The Dates

A glimmer of big things to come? R.E.M. is set to play Saturday Night Live November 12th..... This week's Route Book lists the first dates of what may turn out to be a small tour of the west coast for ELTON JOHN with his long-time percussionist RAY COOPER. The four dates at Los Angeles' Greek Theatre will benefit the Elton John AIDS Foundation. By the way — contrary to earlier reports, Elton will not perform at the October 8th tribute to Elvis Presley in Memphis..... Drop the I and add a Y. Christian music artist SANDI PATTI has switched back to the original spelling of her last name, Patty..... FARM AID VII will be held at the Louisiana Superdome in New Orleans September 18th. This year's format has been altered in hopes of attracting a sell out crowd. Despite having some great talent line-ups, previous Farm Aid shows haven't always done capacity business. The past short falls may have been because the public wanted to see full sets from the major acts on the bill and not the abbreviated shows or one song contributions that having a zillion acts on the bill required. This year, the four founding members of Farm Aid: Willie Nelson, John Mellencamp, John Conlee, and Neil Young (who, incidently, is not planning to tour in support of his new record this year) will each do a full set. In addition, each of the four will invite a special guest to perform with them. Governor Edwin Edwards and Jefferson Parish Sheriff Harry Lee are leading a state-wide fund raising effort to underwrite the production costs of the show so that all the ticket revenues can go to Farm Aid..... Not quite off the beaten path, but when you think of places to start a world tour, Israel isn't usually at the top of the list — unless you're STING. The former Police-man will kick off his next tour leg September 18th in Jerusalem at Sultan's Pool, an amphitheatre that faces the walls of the Old City..... They say most accidents happen near the home, and country artist JOHN MICHAEL MONTGOMERY is living proof. A mishap while tooling around in a four-wheel vehicle at his home in Nicholasville, Kentucky, resulted in a back injury and caused the cancellation of two shows — August 11 at the Jay County Fair in Indiana, and August 13th at the Wisconsin State Fair. He resumes his tour August 19th at the State Fair of West Virginia..... Charlotte's BLOCKBUSTER PAVILION would have to be destroyed by an asteroid in order to not set a new record attendance this season. As of last week, the shed was only about 20,000 clicks of the turnstile away from besting last season's total. The existing season record of about 300,000 should fall after the shows yet to play, including the Eagles, Metallica, Lollapalooza, Aerosmith and James Taylor are added in. This is the first season the venue has been booked by Pace Concerts on behalf of its partners, Sony Music Entertainment and Blockbuster Entertainment Corp. Among the new patron services initiated this year are free shuttle service to remote parking lots for capacity shows and free use of cellular phones for local calls..... Following the death of his mother, VAN CLIBURN postponed several concerts. As we went to press, he was expected to resume his tour schedule August 12th in Detroit..... Now that WOODSTOCK '94 is in the past, it's time to immortalize one of the true fans of the festival — Bruce Maloney, who wanted to go to the event so bad, he ate a pint of worms, and according to Scranton, Penn., rock radio promotion director Tony Policare, "Licked the cup clean." It was all a part of Rock 107's "WEIRDSTOCK" contest. For performing the strangest or most unusual stunt, Maloney won two tickets, transportation to the event, and camping gear.

another one in the same location. The LONDON DOCKLANDS ARENA, in the south of the city, was the new addition to the tour itinerary and this date is being promoted by Andrew Miller. This is the first confirmed concert date for the SMG-owned venue which is due to reopen next month. The first event to be held there under the new management will be an exhibition basketball game featuring Magic Johnson in September. There have been no announcements regarding an official grand opening for the refurbished arena.... Meanwhile, sister venue, SHEFFIELD ARENA has a busy season of concerts in the months until Christmas, including Shirley Bassey, Phil Collins, Harry Connick, Jr., Diana Ross, Barry Manilow, Roxette and Meat Loaf, to name but a few.... The August calendar got off to a thriving start with The Mean Fiddler Organisation's 'MADSTOCK '94' exceeding expectations on the first festival weekend of the month. The one-day Madness event was in fact a complete sell-out. This proved the cynics wrong - the British pop heroes can still pull in 30,000 concert-goers at £22.50 a head, with a medley of hits from their eighties heyday. As with all reunion gigs, the immediate mood appears to be that this was indeed the last time the band would play together. But then they said the same thing in '92.... British teen-sensations TAKE THAT are having no trouble repeating the success of their previous arena tours of the U.K. Although virtually unknown in the U.S., this will be their third large tour here since July 1993. The group has now sold out 34 arena dates around the country and two in Dublin with tickets priced at £16.50 and 14.50. The new tour kicks off on August 25th at the SECC in Glasgow and the run of shows includes an amazing nine Wembley Arenas (12,000 capacity), seven Birmingham NEC's (12,500) and five Sheffield Arenas (12,000). The tour promoter is Kennedy Street, which has successfully handled the band's previous tours. Earlier this year, Take That toured Europe for the first time and have worked hard at building on the success of that outing. The band continues to defy expectations and recently recorded a single in Spanish which made number one in the national hit parade there. It is certainly unusual for an English band to work in another language -- usually it is vice versa. However, there is no doubt that the marketing strategy and hard work behind the band have made them one of the most successful acts to have emerged in Britain so far this decade. Many might not give them credit musically, but business-wise, even merchandise sales for Take That exceed the figures notched up by New Kids On The Block a few years back. And that is saying something.... DEREK BLOCK INTERNATIONAL CONCERTS (the company which was to have promoted the Bolshoi Ballet on an open-air tour of the U.K.) has been declared insolvent. The company has now folded, following the cancellation of all the shows and is being sued by Ticketmaster over ticket refund monies. Block was unable to comment due to pending legal action.... Perhaps one of the best places to check out next year's new talent will be at IN THE CITY, the industry conference taking place in Manchester, September 17-21. The live schedule is being billed as the biggest 'festival' in Europe, in terms of the number of acts (over 250) being presented. Among last year's noteworthy In The City successes were Oasis and Transglobal Underground, who have since gone on to fulfill the promise displayed at that early, unsigned stage in their careers.... Please note: Final figures announced for the T IN THE PARK festival ran to around 45,000 over two days - the 20,000 figure quoted in last week's column was the approximate figure for one day.
