Madison Square Garden honored Eric Clapton and company with a Gold Ticket award in recognition of selling more than 100,000 tickets from 1974-1994. SMG Seeks To Reopen Pacific Amphitheatre

Spectacor Management Group has made a bid to manage its first amphitheatre, the 18,500-capacity Pacific Amphitheatre at the Orange County Fairgrounds in Costa Mesa, Calif. The Orange County Fair selection committee was scheduled to recommend SMG to its board for final approval October 27th. But fair GM Becky Bailey-Findley told POLLSTAR Irvine Meadows Partners, which operates the competing Irvine Meadows Amphitheatre, filed a notice of plan to protest, which will stall the approval for months. The Pacific Amphitheatre was opened in 1982 by the Nederlander Organization but that company sold the venue back to the fairgrounds after nearly a decade of noise-related lawsuits from neighbors. Recently, the fair board had been operating the venue with only its 8,500-fixed-seat capacity and the large lawn section closed.

In Play At MCA

The longest-reigning management team in the entertainment business, MCA chairman Lew Wasserman and president Sidney Sheinberg, faced off with top execs from Japan's giant Matsushita Electric Industrial Co. over future control of the entertainment subsidiary. In a meeting October 18th in San Francisco, Matsushita executives and the MCA chiefs discussed the possibility of Sheinberg and Wasserman regaining control of MCA but no resolution was reached. Wasserman and Sheinberg, who helped sell MCA to Matsushita in 1990 for $6.6 billion, have reportedly been quite unhappy about the passivity of the

It Doesn't Sound Good For United Center

The initial reviews on the acoustics at the new United Center arena in Chicago are in and the building's management isn't going to like the sound of it. Billy Joel did the first concert in the new home of the Chicago Bulls on October 19th and he was apparently not that pleased either, judging by the comments he made on stage. Chicago Tribune critic Howard Reich wrote of the stadium's "grotesquely over-reverberant acoustics." He said Joel's lyrics were reduced to garble in parts of the arena and that, "compared to the United Center, the Rosemont Horizon is Carnegie Hall." Sound engineers will presumably work overtime to improve matters for the Eric Clapton and Frank Sinatra concerts to follow but it remains to be seen how much real consideration was given to the acoustics when the new sports arena was designed and what can be done about it now.

Orlando Probe Nearing Completion

The investigation of Orlando Centroplex director Joanne Cummings Grant has uncovered no criminal wrongdoing according to an October 19th report in the Orlando Sentinel. A police department spokesperson told POLLSTAR last week that the investigation was still open but it was expected to be finished and presented to the Mayor's office by October 21st. The probe was launched after the Mayor's office received an unsigned four-page letter outlining Grant's alleged wrongdoing, such as giving comp tickets to friends. Once the investigation is complete, the Coolio has been rapping since he was a teen but because of a series of bumps and bashes with the music business, he didn't achieve success until he was in his 30s. But when he did break, it was big. His single, "Fantastic Voyage," continues to smoke up the radio, video and retail charts as the Compton-based rapper tours the country as part of the Budweiser Superfest fall tour.

COOLIO

Coolio took some time out of his hectic schedule to chat with POLLSTAR about his views of the business in which he now makes a decent living. It is no secret that Coolio didn't know a lot about the music biz when he started rapping, something he claims is a prolific problem among artists and managers.

"I think most managers, when they first get into this business, they don't really know what the ... they're doing," Coolio said. "I know some managers that will sign you to a weak contract and do it on purpose just to make a little money. I don't think [all young managers] go in there with that intention but they just don't know what the hell they're doing either." So for Coolio, "The problem that it caused was poverty. We had an album out. The album was selling. They were playin' our stuff on the radio but we had no money."

Lack of experience on his part made Coolio realize his unfamiliarity with the business was hindering his quest for success so he changed his ways. "I started paying attention — listening — taking time to ask questions about, 'What does this mean?' In the early days, I would ask those kinds of questions, having the right idea, wanting to know what was going on. But the only thing about it was, I'd ask the question, they'd explain it to me and I still didn't know. And because I didn't want to sound like I was stupid, I wouldn't say anything. But now I don't care. I just say, 'What's this for?' And if I still don't understand, [I'll say] 'Break it down in more simple terms so I can understand it.'"

Today, Coolio knows everything there is to know about his business dealings. "I know how to read the BDS sheets. I know how to read all the reports and how to figure out all the numbers.

"I actually have a manager now. His name is Paul Stewart. But I could manage myself if I wanted, which I'll probably do eventually," the rapper said. Coolio also decided to start his own management company to help others avoid the pitfalls he went through without a good manager to look out for him. Coolio states outright that most young black people "perpetrating to be managers" are just looking for somebody to cheat.

"It's gotten so serious for me that I don't really like dealing with a whole lot of people. So I keep my organization real small and real tight," Coolio said. "You know, it's hard to find someone you can trust with anything. So it's twice as hard to find somebody you can trust with your money," he said. "If you can't find somebody that you can trust, then find somebody that you can make afraid of you. Fear is a weapon. It is used every day. So what I do is, if there is a position where I need somebody to help me, I go check out some people and if I can't pick up a genuine feeling of trust, then I look for fear in their eyes," said Coolio who states he isn't inherently a violent person but he does understand the occasional need for it. "If they're afraid of me, then I'll work with them because if somebody's afraid of you, they won't cheat you."

After working with a couple of groups, Coolio decided it was time to pursue a solo deal because he had something individual to say. He took the time needed to put out what he felt was an excellent demo recording. "I had a dope-ass demo. I'm going to be honest, my demo was phat. And when [Tommy Boy] heard it, they couldn't deny it," Coolio said.

Despite the quality of the recording, Coolio said he was turned away by about six companies including Elektra, Jive and Chrysalis. He said he realized his tape wasn't getting to the right ears with him shopping it himself. "I knew that it had to be that they wasn't listening because if they were listening, there's no way that many people would turn me down cause my shit was dope," he said. "I worked really hard on my demo so I knew that I, at least, should have been getting a call back and a meeting. So I said, 'Damn, I need to meet somebody with some juice that can get somebody to listen to my shit.'

"So I hooked up with Paul Stewart and he had the juice," Coolio said. "He had just signed Pharcyde and he'd sent Tommy Boy the House of Pain even though he didn't manage them no more. So because he sent them the House of Pain, their ears were open for anything he sent." Coolio, with Stewart's help, turned an offer for a single and a development deal into a contract for a complete CD.

Schooling himself in the ways of the industry paid off for Coolio and today, poverty is no longer a problem. But he said he would rap for free if he couldn't make a living at it. And he never forgets where his financial success really comes from — his fans. "I've always got time to sign autographs. What the hell man, they bought my records," he said. "I don't know what's made me like that, but I'm humble as hell. I go out of my way for my fans. Like after the shows, I walk into the crowd, go and shake hands. That shit is dangerous [but] I don't want to be unreachable."

Coolio is hoping to tour with some acts from his management company, Crowbar, next year. He wants to package himself with a headliner and two Crowbar acts to support. But for now, Cara Lewis at William Morris is keeping him busy as he wraps up the Budweiser Superfest tour.

Japanese manufacturing giant in a highly competitive time of mega-acquisitions, mergers and new technologies. Wasserman and Sheinberg had hoped MCA could buy Virgin Records in '91 and had explored acquiring a stake in a broadcast network but in both cases, Matsushita was not interested in opening its checkbook. Sheinberg and Wasserman are reportedly looking at the possibility of buying back ownership of MCA but that issue was not addressed in last week's meeting. But Matsushita is considering selling MCA to the highest bidder, the Washington Post reported. Both Wasserman's and Sheinberg's contracts with MCA are due to expire in 1995. An MCA spokesperson confirmed October 19th that Wasserman, 81, has not renewed his contract with Matsushita which could indicate he is on the verge of resigning. But the spokesperson said such a conclusion is not accurate. There has also been wide speculation that the new power-team of David Geffen, Steven Spielberg and Jeffrey Katzenberg are considering making a bid for MCA since Spielberg and Geffen both have strong ties to the Matsushita subsidiary. The dream-trio hasn't confirmed any speculation but Jeffrey Katzenberg said plans for the new studio project will take months rather than weeks to emerge because "we're waiting to see how the situation with the Japanese resolves itself," he told USA Today. Katzenberg, Spielberg and Geffen have said they intend for their new venture to be allied with MCA. But Geffen has made it perfectly clear that if Wasserman and Sheinberg are no longer with the company, that alliance will not happen. A Matsushita exec said they will hold future meetings to decide if full control should be returned to Wasserman and Sheinberg but there are no meetings reportedly scheduled for the near future.

Who Will Build Branson West?

A competing Branson-style country music development for Northern California was publicly announced just two weeks after developers of Garlic Country USA in Gilroy, 20 miles south of San Jose, unveiled plans for a $500 million entertainment complex. Ohio developer Leo Urbanski is proposing to build Celebrity City, a $3 billion, 1,600 acre country music development to be located along I-5 more than 160 miles north of San Francisco between Reading and Red Bluff. When fully built, Celebrity City would be comprised of 20,000 motel rooms and 40 theatres with a combined capacity of 60,000 seats. Urbanski said he has some serious entertainment industry supporters, which would be essential for the success of such a venture. However, he didn't name names except for one — his only "official" partner, Nashville music entrepreneur Buddy Killen. The announcement of Celebrity City October 17th started with a tour of the site and culminated with a rally and concert featuring Aaron Tippin and Sammy Kershaw at the Tehama County Fairgrounds. It remains to be seen if either Garlic Country USA or Celebrity City will actually be built. And one has to wonder where the talent to headline all these proposed theatres is going to come from.

There Won't Be A Rematch

Aerosmith manager Tim Collins (L) and co-promoter John Scher held a 'peace-summit' earlier this month to douse the pyro-like eruption in their longtime relationship which happened backstage at Woodstock. Collins said he'll be ready to roll around in the mud again with Scher in another 25 years.

Pros On The Move

After 17 years in the agency business, Brad Gelfond has decided it's time for a change. Gelfond's contract as William Morris VP and head of the West Coast contemporary music department is up at the end of the year and he plans to work through Thanksgiving before taking some time off. Gelfond, who was RA for Bjork, Pet Shop Boys, Laurie Anderson, Lou Reed, Kate Bush, Rickie Lee Jones and Paul Westerberg, is in the process of exploring several situations in the record business. "For a long time now I've been ready for a change, for some new challenges," Gelfond said. "I want to be able to look at my computer screen and see something different. I want to look out my window and have a different view."..... Entertainment insurance agency Haas & Wilkerson will open an office on Music Row November 28th. Peter Tempkins will relocate from New York to staff the new Nashville operation..... Robert Rowland has joined the agency staff at TCI. He previously was an agent at American Talent Group..... Business management firm Fremer & Associates has moved its main office to Las Vegas.

The Los Angeles office will remain open in a support role. Owner Lisa Fremer said, "With the tremendous growth in Las Vegas in progressive entertainment, coupled with the addition of so many world-class venues, I felt the time was right to move the company's main office to Las Vegas."..... Paul Cooper has been named VP of Warner Music-U.S. Cooper moves over to Warner Music from Atlantic Records where he served as a senior VP and the label's West Coast GM. In his new role, Cooper will be involved with the activities of various Warner Music Group entities on the West Coast and will report to Mel LeWinter.

Elton Ducks Into The Pond

Moments before taking the stage to perform before a sold out crowd at the Arrowhead Pond of Anaheim September 17th, Elton John was presented with a personalized Mighty Ducks hockey jersey. Is He A Prince Or A Slave?

After signing a "$100 million" contract with Warner Bros. last year, Prince is trying to renegotiate the terms of his deal calling it "institutionalized slavery." The dispute leaves the fate of his yet to be released album, The Gold Experience, uncertain. In a video from the album, "Dolphin," Prince reportedly has the word "slave" written across his forehead. Symbol man still owes Warner Bros. four albums, which he claims to already have the material for. He is anxious to deliver that music to the record company in order to complete his obligations to Warner Bros., which a Prince-ly press release claimed was creating a situation that is "causing him considerable stress, both creatively and emotionally." But the Bunny's attorneys must have seen that move coming because the contract apparently stipulates that Prince can release only one album per year.

Government Issues Truth In Ticketing Rules

The U.S. Transportation Department announced new Truth in Ticketing rules October 12th. Attention was drawn to the rules as a result of last year's Rose Bowl fiasco where 800 University of Wisconsin fans discovered that their tour packages did not include one key ingredient which had been promised — tickets to the game. Transportation Secretary Federico Pena said, "These regulations will require operators to tell the truth, or face the consequences." The new rules cover advertisements, payments, refunds and price changes for air tour packages where admission to an event is included as part of the package. The proposed rules, which are scheduled to be in place by the college bowl season in December, will force tour operators to have a substantial number of tickets on hand or under contract before advertising the package. If no ticket is available, payment must be refunded within three days. Although written with sports in mind, the rules apply to all special events including concerts.

Conway's Estate Auction Nets Over $1 Million

Conway Twitty's children somberly stood by while the late singer's belongings were auctioned off October 14-16 at Twitty City in Hendersonville, Tennessee. Twitty's ex-wife and mother to three of his children, Temple Maxine (Mickey) Jenkins, disrupted the auction when she tried to walk out with several items before bidding began. Jenkins was removed from the property but not arrested out of respect for the children, according to estate attorney Rose Palermo. The three day auction included more than 3,000 of Twitty's personal items including gold records, photographs, guitars, automobiles, performance outfits, furniture and guns. Thousands of people from all over the country poured into Twitty City and spent more than $1 million on memorabilia from the star's estate. Twitty's widow, Dee Henry Jenkins, spent nearly $80,000 to get back some of her husband's prized possessions. But three of Twitty's children, who went to the state Supreme Court in an unsuccessful attempt to stop the auction, refused to buy any of their father's personal belongings. Twitty's outdated will left all of his possessions to his four children but Tennessee state law stipulates that the widow is entitled to one-third of the estate's value before taxes. Since Twitty's widow and his children could not agree on how to split the estate, a probate judge ordered the auction.

Deals, Deals, Deals

Mirage Resorts CEO Steve Wynn is planning to build Beau Rivage, a new 3,000-room entertainment resort to be built on a man-made 17-acre island in the middle of a lake on the Las Vegas strip. The resort complex will include a 1,500-seat amphitheatre when it opens in late 1997. MGM Grand is also planning a new Glitter Gulch project. New York, New York will add another 1,500-room resort to a city which seems to sell out its hotel capacity on most weekends despite the institution of gambling in other states..... agreement in principle to acquire a 50 percent interest in Video Jukebox Network International. VJNI, a subsidiary of VJN, operates interactive music video network The Box in the United Kingdom. TM will purchase shares of VJNI for $2 million cash and will also loan the company approximately $1.4 million for working capital.... The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors voted October 18th to bar the use of county funds to build a new football stadium, effectively killing the idea floated by NFL commissioner Paul Tagliabue to create a partnership to build an 80,000-seat football stadium. Having just spent $60 million on earthquake repairs for the L.A. Memorial Coliseum, the local politicians didn't think the community could afford a new stadium.... The Seattle Seahawks say they've decided it will take $120 million to fix up the Kingdome the way they want it — a price tag almost double the $67 million it initially cost to build the facility. But the Seahawks' owners said they don't intend to finance the improvements for a revamped stadium that is being dubbed the New Kingdome. They are, however, open to the possibility of using some of the income they would receive from luxury club seating at the current stadium to help build the New Kingdome. HOK Sports Facilities Group prepared the plan that contains the improvements the NFL team seeks. The stadium, which has been closed since July when four acoustical ceiling tiles fell into empty seats, is scheduled to reopen for the Seahawks' fourth regular-season game November 6th.... Knott's Berry Farm has reportedly expressed an interest in building an amusement park near Branson. Marvin Motley, a Branson area landowner, said he has talked to Knott's officials but no agreement has been reached. A Knott's spokesperson reportedly couldn't confirm if any plans for a new amusement park in the Ozarks music mecca were in the works.

Changing Roles

Now that most of the major record companies are getting together to form their own music video broadcast network, MTV's parent company, Viacom, is considering starting its own record label. According to the Los Angeles Times, Viacom chairman Sumner Redstone told an international television marketing conference in France that the company is moving towards record distribution because of recent efforts by major labels to form a video broadcast channel to compete with MTV. Redstone reportedly said that Viacom used to believe it should not compete with its suppliers but now that the suppliers have changed the rules, he is set to consider playing the new game. Redstone said any Viacom record company would probably involve a distribution joint venture with another label.... Some record retailers are not too thrilled with a McDonald's promotion in which CDs were offered at the remarkably low price of $5.59 with $1 from each sale going to the Ronald McDonald Children's Charities. Three of the artists involved in the promotion, Garth Brooks, Elton John and Tina Turner, provided abbreviated CD's filled with previously released songs for the promotion. But one group, Roxette, instead offered a CD with songs from an album that hadn't yet been released in the U.S. The National Record Mart chain's 126 stores will not carry the new Roxette album because of the MickeyD promotion and other retailers are seriously reducing their orders. But for EMI Records and Roxette, the McDonald's promotion was a grand success. In three weeks, Roxette sold more than 750,000 copies of the CD without the benefit of any U.S. exposure. EMI's Charles Koppelman said more than 10 million CDs were sold by McDonald's during the promotion which ended last month.

No Panic Keeping Up With The Joneses

Branson Is Full Of Virgin Ideas

Richard Branson is once again expanding his Virgin group of companies as he takes a shot at the liquid refreshment business — soft drinks and hard drinks. His new Virgin Cola is scheduled to go on sale in British supermarkets by the end of November. Branson has teamed up with Canada's Cott Corp. to produce the cola which will reportedly be sold first in Britain and the U.S. followed by Japan and the rest of the world. Branson said Virgin Cola will undercut Coke and Pepsi by up to 15 percent. And Branson's latest announcement is his launch of Virgin Vodka which is scheduled to come out next month in London. William Grant & Sons will produce the spirit and a Russian distribution contract was recently signed in Moscow. Of his new business ventures, Branson said he likes to bring out products that take on companies that are very dominant in their field and give them a bit of competition. And Branson may expand his Virgin group even further. Apparently, he's looking into food products, financial services and even marijuana, if it's ever legalized.

Between The Dates

THE ROLLING STONES Voodoo Lounge tour expanded into the Southern hemisphere last week as tickets for two shows in Buenos Aires went on sale. Ticket sales were handled a bit differently in Argentina where they don't have Ticketmaster to use, abuse or complain about. All tickets were available only at the venue — River Plate Stadium. The scheduled sale time and date was supposed to be high noon on Saturday, October 15th. However, thousands of fans had started lining up as early as Tuesday. By Friday night, a 2-mile long line of over 10,000 fans had formed at the venue, forcing concert organizers to put the shows on sale at midnight, a full 12 hours earlier than expected. Sales were heavy throughout the weekend, and since the venue's boxoffice was the only outlet, the number of tickets sold was simply limited to how fast employees could exchange tickets for australs. It apparently wasn't fast enough for some fans who got into a brawl which Reuters said resulted in one person being stabbed to death. Come Monday morning the phone sales kicked in, and the few remaining tickets for the shows were sold. In all, 120,000 tickets were snapped up for the only South American tour dates announced so far. See this week's Route Book for the latest Stones schedule..... While the William Morris Agency scrambles to reschedule THE EAGLES Hell Freezes Over tour, what is known is that the band will play all 30 dates that were missed in 94, plus additional markets. The tour will re-boot itself on January 9th and 10th at the Tacoma Dome. The Rose Bowl has been rescheduled for January 21st. More dates will probably be announced within the next week. The tour came to a premature end last month when gastro-intestinal problems led to surgery for Glenn Frey..... Could there be a BOB SEGER tour being contemplated for next fall? The man is definitely due. The last tour for Detroit's favorite son was in 1987..... The PRINCE'S TRUST benefit concert scheduled for November 3rd at the Universal Amphitheatre, has been cancelled by the British Consulate. What? You say you haven't heard about the show? Not surprising. No lineup or any kind of official announcement was made concerning the show, and the only reference to the event appeared in a UK / LA Festival brochure. The show reportedly fell apart when organizers couldn't finalize a broadcast deal for the concert and the event's financial backers backed away..... No, the "Velvet Fog" hasn't switched agencies. Or for that matter, neither has DELLA REESE. Every year Columbia Artists Management books a block of dates for MEL TORMÉ, and this year the agency is also booking a special tour for Ms. Reese. The new Mel Tormé itinerary is called the "Sing Sing Sing" tour, while Della's tour is called, "Some Of My Best Friends Are The Blues." All other dates throughout the year, for both artists, are still handled by the William Morris Agency.

U.K. News Report

(London) The industry is still reeling after the disastrous accident at PINK FLOYD's opening night at EARLS COURT. The general feeling among promoters and production personnel is one of shock and regret that such a serious accident could have happened in the UK, when safety regulations have been re-examined and tightened up considerably in recent years. Less than 12 months ago, new government guidelines for safety at concerts were issued by the Health and Safety Executive. The POP CODE, as it is known, was updated after lengthy consultations with key people in the industry. The seating, which was supplied by Arena, the best-known contractor in the country, had been used on countless occasions and had been through all the required safety checks. The subsequent Floyd shows have taken place without incident and the investigation into what caused the seating stand to collapse is underway. The cancelled show was rescheduled for October 17th and ticketholders were either re-accommodated or refunded. During the show, Dave Gilmour allegedly said, "I should sue somebody if I were you," but he was met with a somewhat bitter silence. The lawsuits have not started piling up yet, but it is only a matter of time..... Following the disagreements that led to the termination of OGDEN ENTERTAINMENT SERVICES' contract with MILLWALL FOOTBALL CLUB, the ill-fated relationship is now heading for the courts. Millwall Holdings is suing Ogden for non-performance of contract and has lodged a claim for damages in the region of £1 million. A writ has been filed alleging that Millwall was promised 45 non-soccer events per year in its contract with Ogden. Reg Burr, chairman of Millwall Football Club, says events were promised and nothing happened. Noel Penrose, managing director of Ogden's UK division has described Millwall's action as a "smokescreen tactic" to cover up the football club's own financial difficulties. He says that Ogden fully refutes the allegations and will put in a counter claim for loss of income. "Millwall has restricted our ability to perform," says Penrose, explaining that when an event was contracted earlier this year, the club did not even apply for an entertainment licence and so it could not go ahead. "We've done everything we were asked to do and if we have to clear up the allegations in the public arena, then we will..... The new stadium at Kirkstiles, near Huddersfield, which was also formerly under contract to Ogden, has announced its first concert date and a £2 million title sponsorship deal. Now known as the ALFRED MCALPINE STADIUM, the 35,000 capacity football ground is one of the venues chosen for R.E.M.'s tour next summer..... R.E.M.'s UK tour goes on sale October 22nd with tickets priced at £23. The four dates at the end of July are the first outdoor shows to be announced so far. Sony-Pace's National Bowl at Milton Keynes won the deal for the southern half of the country. Other shows will take place at Cardiff Arms Park and the Scottish venue is still to be announced. Support acts being mooted include The Cranberries, PJ Harvey and Grant Lee Buffalo..... WEMBLEY is in the news again with new contracts for the international division in Malaysia and Sydney. Wembley Int'l will be acting as consultants to Australian construction company Barclay/Mowlem who are pitching for the design, build and management of the SYDNEY OLYMPIC STADIUM, due for completion in the year 2000. The company is also providing its knowledge and experience to the management team at the new SHAG ALAM STADIUM in Selangor, Malaysia. Richard Knight from the Hong Kong office will be based in Selangor as operations director..... Meanwhile, the refinancing of Wembley PLC back in London, has still not been resolved and speculation as to who might win out and close a deal continues. One recent report added Australian businessman KERRY PACKER's name to the list of contenders, which includes HARVEY GOLDSMITH. The £38 million question has to be resolved by Christmas if Wembley is to stay within the terms of a two-year banking deal..... ERIC CLAPTON has gone on sale with his usual winter blues season. With 105 dates notched up at the ROYAL ALBERT HALL to date, Clapton has 12 more planned for next February and March, as well as dates in Glasgow, Sheffield and Birmingham. He will also play a charity show on February 21st in aid of the Chemical Dependency Centre's 10th Anniversary..... The BLACK CROWES have announced an arena tour for early next year but there are rumours that the band may be in town this month for one of those not-so-secret gigs... Agent Mike Dewdney wasn't giving much away, except he had heard of some mystery band called Blessed Chloroform playing the Mean Fiddler on October 31st..... MPI has a new agent. NICK SHEPHERD has joined the agency to take special responsibility for the university and college circuit.

Australian News Report

(Sydney) Michael Coppel has announced that TORI AMOS will be bringing her Under The Pink tour to Australia in December. It'll be her first tour here since 1992. Warner Music is releasing a special tour souvenir pack - More Pink - The B Sides featuring new tracks, covers and B sides, to coincide with the tour..... Some Australian media is hinting at a possible MICHAEL JACKSON tour here in February..... The first acts confirmed for late January's BIG DAY OUT national concert tour are Primal Scream, Ministry, the Cult and Oasis. Promoter Ken West has announced that Greenpeace will have a strong presence at the concerts..... It's not totally confirmed but reliable sources suggest that JOE HENRY will be making his first visit to Australia for a club tour in December..... HARRY CONNICK, JR. hit Sydney last week for a promotional blitz. He performed one invite-only show at the Basement club (capacity 500) which attracted just about every mover'n'shaker in town. Apparently this is a forerunner to a full scale tour next year. Promoter PAUL DAINY was in the crowd which may give some clues to the likely promoter of that tour..... NEIL BRADBURY, one of Australia's best known A&R figures, has announced that after four years he is leaving his position as A&R director of EMI Records, effective October 28. Also leaving the company is Linda Geddes who has been Bradbury's personal assistant for the past two years. Why are they both leaving? 'Cause they're getting married on November 5th with Mushroom's Michael Gudinski serving as best man. The couple intend to honeymoon overseas before contemplating re-entering the business. Apparently, a number of calls being made to, and coming from New York, combined with the fact that Bradbury's Paddington house is on the market, would suggest that he and Geddes' departure for overseas can't be too far away. Bradbury has, after all, done a long stint in New York working for Freddy DeMann and acting as Billy Idol's personal manager..... Virgin Records' Director MICHAEL MANOS will, for the time being at least, be also taking on the role of acting director for Australian A&R at EMI. Leah Warwick will assist Manos as local A&R coordinator..... JOHN WOODRUFF, the new manager of GF4 (formerly Girlfriend), was on the phone last week spluttering about the technological breakthrough developed by an Australian company and utilised for the first time on the gals new single, "Sooner Or Later." The CD can be played on both CD players and CD-ROM computers. In Woodruff's opinion (and he's not alone) these discs are a global first. Peter Gabriel and Prince have released interactive CD-ROMs, but the big problem is that they're unable to hide the CD-ROM information from the audio CD player, which results in a long loud buzz preceding the first track. The interactive audio CD was developed by Pacific Advanced Media Studios for Ariola Records..... With PolyGram set to release a 4 CD box set from the Swedish pop superstars, our very own Abba tribute band, BJORN AGAIN are set to start their first American tour on November 10th in Los Angeles. The tour's being booked by Wayne Forte's new Entourage agency..... You may have read about BOB DYLAN taking legal action against APPLE COMPUTERS for alleged misuse of his name. The Australian edition of MacNews reports that Bob's really lost the plot this time. Apparently, the program uses the names of famous people like Sir Isaac Newton, Mozart, Dylan and others. But as the Mac mag explains "Of course, Dylan, Apple's object-orientated cross-platform programming language, is named after the famous dead Welsh poet Dylan Thomas, not the rock'n'roll has-been. This is something even the most butthead astronomer could tell you."..... There was a little consternation from some quarters about this column's early announcement that the ultra-hip HALF A COW label was moving from Regular to Phonogram. According to Regular's MD, Martin Fabinyi: "We have had a great relationship with Half A Cow and their artists, and we will continue to be involved. They will, I am sure, have great success in the future." Nic Dalton, owner of HAC, added: "Regular and Festival have been totally supportive of the label and I know we will miss the support. Without their faith in us we would not have grown."..... Look, I'd like to get really excited about this but...anyway, "Love Is All Around" has sold in excess of 210,000 copies in Australia. The WET WET WET single is apparently the only single to achieve triple platinum status in Australia in 1994, mainly 'cause Bryan Adams and Ace Of Base sales stopped at double platinum..... Australian indie Foghorn Records are excited that their artists ONCE UPON A TIME have signed a license deal with Rob Kahane's new Trauma Records label. Trauma's roster also includes expatriate band Driver and The Lightning Seeds. Once Upon A Time will be heading to the States for a college tour early next year.
