BGP Concert Employee Murdered

A Bill Graham Presents boxoffice employee was fatally stabbed by a concert goer at the December 16th Danzig concert at San Jose State University's Event Center. Victor Morita, 44, was rushed to San Jose Medical Center where he was pronounced dead, said school spokesperson Lori Stahl. The alleged perpetrator, Justin Gies of Aptos, was inside the facility and was trying to make his way backstage when Morita intervened. Stahl said, "Security men stopped him and he began fighting." She said Gies knocked Morita down and began stabbing him with a folding knife. The peer security held Gies until campus police arrived. He was taken into custody and faces a homicide charge.

CIC / CIA Update

The Concert Industry Consortium's February 3-5 Reinventing The Business conference has added three additional panelists to its already impressive list. Peter Grosslight of the William Morris Agency will add his insights while Kevin Wall of Radio Vision and John Rubey of Avalon will add their considerable expertise on the world of pay-per-view and the effects of new media. As we go to press, less than 100 registration spaces are still available for what promises to be an absolutely unprecedented gathering of major industry professionals. Meanwhile, the voting for the 1994 Concert Industry Awards has concluded and the results will be announced February 4th at the House Of Blues. We are pleased to announce that the awards party, which will again be hosted by Bobcat Goldthwait, is being sponsored by Ogden Entertainment Services.

Body Surfing For Dollars

A student who was allegedly dropped on his head at a January 28, 1993 Metallica concert at the Univ. Of Iowa's Carver-Hawkeye Arena is suing the band claiming negligence. In the lawsuit, Todd Miller says he was kicked in the head several times by crowd surfers and when he tried to move to a less rowdy area, the crowd lifted him, passed him to the front, and tossed him over the metal stage barrier onto his head. The incident caused injuries to Miller's head, back, shoulder, leg and permanently robbed him of his sense of smell, according to the lawsuit. He is asking an undisclosed amount for injuries. No comment has been released on behalf of Metallica.

Sharing The Wisdom

Prior to her November 30th concert at The Omni in Atlanta, Melissa Etheridge took the time to meet with local music students to discuss how she began her career. NARAS invited the students as part of its Grammy In Schools "Soundcheck" program. Bah Humbug For Ticketholders

Southern Methodist University cancelled an all-star production of "A Christmas Carol" a few days before the start date citing problems with the project's California-based producer. The show was to have featured Jon Voight as Scrooge, Shirley Jones as Mrs. Cratchit, Daniel J. Travanti as Bob Cratchit and Sir John Gielgud as the narrator. A spokesman for SMU's McFarlin Auditorium, Kim Campbell, said the producer, Kevin Von Feldt, didn't meet deposit and insurance deadlines. Campbell also said Von Feldt's ticket operations number shut down about two weeks prior to the start of the show. Campbell said, "Frankly, I don't think he ever had any intention of doing a show here." Von Feldt's history includes a bankruptcy, fines for concerts that were never staged and a conviction for selling space on an airline that

STONES TOUR

It's been 32 years since the Rolling Stones were formed and who would have guessed that they would be bigger today than at any time in their colorful history. Mick Jagger, Keith Richards, Charlie Watts and Ron Wood hit the road in 1994 for the biggest grossing tour in concert industry history — breaking their own record which they set in 1989 with the $98 million, 33 city, 60 show “Steel Wheels” tour.

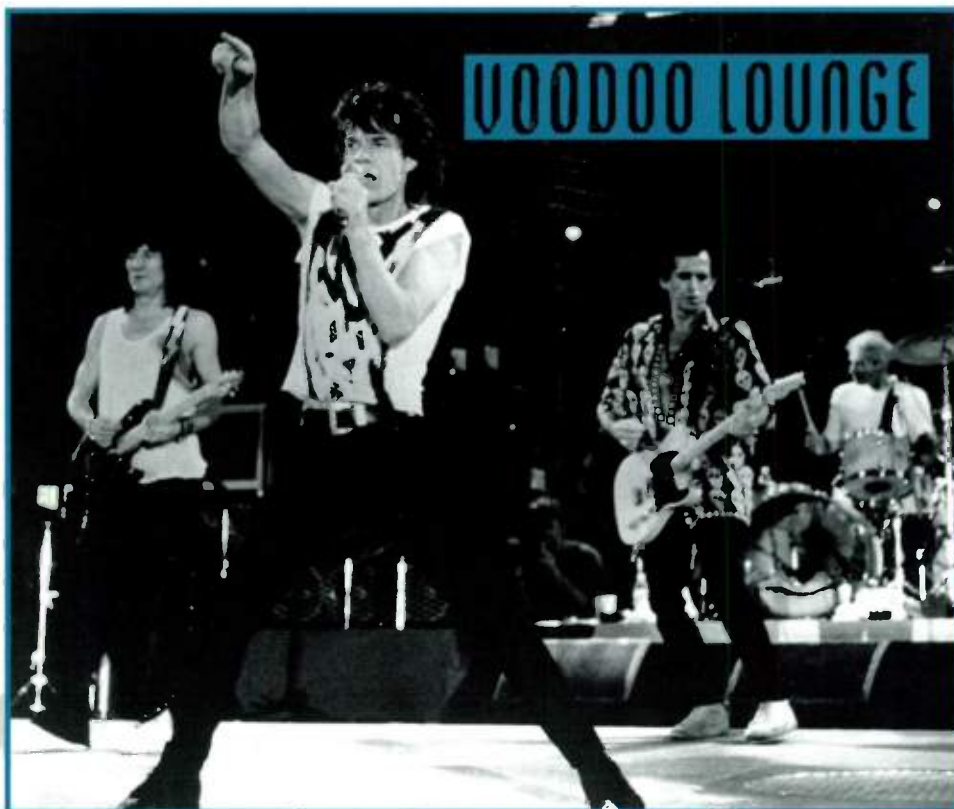

In 1994, the phrase “Voodoo Lounge” became part of the rock'n'roll lexicon as the Stones mounted a tour that stopped in 43 cities for 60 shows. More than 2½ million fans laid down their hard earned bucks to enter the “Voodoo Lounge” which grossed a record smashing $121.2 million in North America. And even jaded rock critics tended to say it was money well spent. Die-hard concert-goers said the Stones' “Voodoo Lounge” show was the best concert they have ever seen the Glimmer Twins and company turn out.

Thirty years ago, skeptical music historians may have predicted the Stones would be retired by now, or even worse, they might have lost their mass acceptance and appeal. But in 1994, the seasoned “fifty-something” crew proved that age is definitely not a deterrent when it comes to posting big numbers at the boxoffice.

In 1994, the Rolling Stones also proved that they have what it takes to gain new fans and keep the ones they've amassed through the years. Older fans brought their teenagers to the concerts and the teens brought their friends. A typical audience at a Stones' concert reflected the power of rock'n'roll to bring the generations together.

New Rolling Stones' fans were recruited in 1994 via media that was but a glimmer in the eyes of technology futurists thirty years ago — music videos and cyberspace interaction. The band's videos from its first Virgin release, which also carries the Voodoo Lounge moniker, were all over the MTV airwaves in 1994 — airwaves that are usually reserved for the eyes of the under-30 crowd. And Jagger talked directly with fans when he kicked off the tour with a trek through cyberspace on America On-Line.

With a strong record, an elaborate and extensive tour, the backing of tour promoters Concert Productions International, and the full support of the media, the Rolling Stones did more than make history by setting the all-time record for the highest grossing tour in North America — they proved that “It's only rock'n'roll, but we like it.”

A Record Year

This has been a watershed year for the concert business. Concert promoters were very optimistic going into 1994 but few would have predicted that the industry's overall ticket sales volume would increase so dramatically.

POLLSTAR estimates that the total gross volume from major concert ticket sales in North America is a record $1.4 billion. That is an enormous 55 percent increase over 1993's volume of $900 million. The previous industry record of $1.1 billion was attained in 1990.

The Top Tours

Achieving record numbers required the combination of several factors, not the least of which was the exceptional number of high profile superstar tours. The Top 50 tours alone accounted for $1.022 billion, which is substantially more than the entire industry achieved in 1993. A review of the Top 10 tours of all time finds that 60 percent of them were launched in 1994.

At $98 million for their 1989 "Steel Wheels" tour, the Rolling Stones had held the record for the biggest tour of North America for nearly five years. That is until last July when Pink Floyd finished their tour with an amazing record gross of $103.5 million. But Pink Floyd's record would stand for only a few months. By the time the "Voodoo Lounge" shut down its North American trek in December, the Stones had not only retaken the record, but their $121.2 million gross may well be a mark that stands for some time.

It's also worth noting that the Eagles did the fourth biggest tour of all time. Their $79.4 million gross was actually significantly less than what they would have achieved had Glenn Frey's illness not caused the cancellation of the tour's remaining dates. They almost certainly would have also broken the $100 million mark, which would have given the industry three tours in 1994 above that level.

The co-headline stadium tour mounted by Billy Joel and Elton John in the eastern half of the continent posted huge numbers. A five-night stand at Giants Stadium produced a gross of $14,889,127, which was the second biggest total in history.

And then of course, there was Barbra Streisand. She only visited six cities in North America but in each one, she achieved a record gross thanks to tickets which were scaled up to $350 - and that isn't counting those which were sold at $1,000 for charity. Babs' seven show run at Madison Square Garden produced the biggest gross in concert business history at $16,488,900.

Year in and year out, the Grateful Dead are among the top five concert attractions and 1994 was no exception. In 1993, the Dead produced the year's biggest tour with a gross of $45.6 million. This year, the band posted the biggest gross in its history but its $52.4 million in ticket sales was only good enough for fifth place among 1994's top tours.

New Blood

The big tour numbers are nearly all coming from acts that started in the '60s and '70s. Pearl Jam could have done impressive numbers but chose to work only a handful of dates. Perhaps the biggest breakthroughs belong to three very diverse acts: Melissa Etheridge, Phish, and Nine Inch Nails. Each of them proved they could headline larger facilities as their careers stepped it up a notch. Late in the year, Green Day also proved that their drawing power's not just Dookie and prospects for that band's future appear bright. The concert industry's biggest problem is that there aren't more of those kind of acts in the pipeline. We are fueled by Jurassic rockers and sooner or later, those acts will be physically unable to climb the stairs up to the stage. New blood has to be nurtured and more Offspring need to be developed.

The Year's Biggest Shows

In evaluating the Top 200 concert grosses for 1994, it's not surprising to find the list dominated by a handful of acts. Pink Floyd placed all 39 of their North American dates in the Top 200. The Rolling Stones also had 39 grosses on the list and would have had all 43 of their cities represented if results from the four missing venues had been reported. Those dates, however, were not even close to being sell-outs and had to be estimated for our year end analysis. Even if they were disappointing, it's hard to consider a show that sells 30,000 tickets and grosses well over $1 million a stiff.

If those four missing Stones dates had been reported, it would have taken more than $1 million to have made the bottom of the Top 200 list. As it is, Sting's four show run at The Paramount in New York City proved to be the cut off point with a gross of $945,780.

The Eagles, who were grossing stadium level dollars while playing mostly arenas and amphitheatres, placed 29 grosses on the Top 200. The Grateful Dead had 27 grosses and the Billy Joel/Elton John tour had 14. That was followed by Lollapalooza (9), Phil Collins (8), Barbra Streisand (6), Jimmy Buffett (4), and Michael Bolton, Billy Joel (solo) and Bette Midler (3).

There were 197 grosses over $1 million in 1994. That compares to just 85 in 1993 when it only took a gross of $519,000 to make the Top 200. There were 17 grosses over $5 million and four of those were over $10 million. Last year there were only two grosses over $5 million. The Top 200 grosses added up to more than $521 million as compared to just $231 million in 1993. It was a top heavy kind of year for the concert business.

As tour promoters for both Pink Floyd and the Rolling Stones, it's not surprising to find Concert Productions International represented on the Top 200 with 80 grosses. The Cellar Door companies contributed 22 grosses, Pace Concerts had 21, and that was followed by Metropolitan Entertainment (16), Bill Graham Presents (15), Belkin Productions (12), and Delsener/Slater (10).

It was the year of the stadium tour and that is reflected by the fact that Giants Stadium, the Alamodome and RFK Stadium each produced five of the year's biggest grosses. Shoreline Amphitheatre also had five. Madison Square Garden and the Palace Of Auburn Hills each accounted for four while no one else had more than three.

Multiple pricing of the house has become the new standard.

Among the Top 200 grosses of 1994, only 35 used the single price system and most of those were from the Grateful Dead. Last year, there were 89 single priced shows among the Top 200 and that was a drop from the previous year.

The Rolling Stones used a three tier system for their tour with tickets generally priced from $25 to $50. When they last toured in 1989, they sold all their seats at one price which, although it varied a little from city-to-city, was around $28.50. While that means that in 1994, it was actually possible to buy a ticket to see the Stones for less than in 1989, the average price for a ticket to see the Stones this time around was over $45.

The Golden Circle pricing concept was widely accepted by many rock and contemporary acts. The Eagles proved that they could ask and get more than $100 for some of their best seats. Pink Floyd had no problem selling their $75 ducats and the Billy Joel/Elton John tour saw very little resistance to their $85 top price.

Acts that appealed to a largely younger, less affluent demographic, however, tended to keep their prices down. Pearl Jam made a big deal about wanting to keep their prices under $20. And with the older, classic rock acts raising eyebrows with their escalating pricing, bands like Green Day had a field day stepping up to arenas while keeping their prices at bargain basement levels of around $10. Price does matter for some people and woe to those who don't follow the proper course.

Looking Ahead To 1995

After such a record setting year, no one seems to expect an encore in 1995. Perhaps the most anticipated tours will come from R.E.M. and Page/Plant although both of those outings are projected for arenas.

Other than the Grateful Dead's usual handful of dates and the possible reprise of the Billy Joel/Elton John package, there appears to be very little action on the stadium level.

The continuation of the Eagles tour will bolster business in the first half of the year and Van Halen is widely expected to post strong numbers when they start up this spring. Tom Petty and Stevie Wonder are expected to hit the road and there is talk about Prince (yeah sure) and Madonna going out. The packaged festivals are here to stay. Lollapalooza has become a franchise and the H.O.R.D.E festival is building in the same direction.

One of the coming year's biggest tour newsmakers may well come from Pearl Jam. The boys from Seattle appear determined to win their war of wills with Ticketmaster and word now is that they will play non-traditional outdoor venues without Ticketmaster contracts and will utilize a new 800 number ticketing service to sell their ducats.

The summer will again be filled with hundreds of tours which will, again, oversaturate every market in the country. And, as they have in year's past, talent buyers will make their summer buying decisions in the spring and will then hope that their pre-season optimism isn't buried in the landslide of summer on-sales.

Ticket Pricing

The way concert tickets are being priced has changed dramatically. For contemporary music attractions, the norm used to be for all seats to be priced the same. Not anymore.

had no planes. Von Feldt said SMU is to blame because officials broke their contract fearing the show would fail. He said he is considering a lawsuit. But Campbell said Von Feldt doesn't have a legal leg to stand on. "We gave him every opportunity to fulfill what's necessary in our contract to actually have the facility and he never did that." Through his own ticketing operation, Von Feldt apparently sold over 4,000 tickets to the production which had also been scheduled to play Houston and Kansas City. The venue isn't holding the ticket money, therefore Campbell said he can only suggest that people dispute their credit card charges.

Mike Love's $5 Million Victory

The Beach Boy vs. Beach Boy suit came to a close December 20th as Brian Wilson agreed to pay his cousin Mike Love $5 million and split future royalties on 35 songs. A jury ruled earlier this month that Love was owed 30 percent of a $10 million settlement Wilson won when he gained back rights to 140 Beach Boys' songs which Wilson's father, Murray, acting as the group's manager, had signed away for peanuts many years ago. The court also approved a settlement payment of $2 million to Love for back royalties on the 35 co-authored songs.

Why is this man smiling?

First of all, he's a road manager. And secondly, he is smiling.

It's just that years of experience as a road manager can turn almost anyone into a seen-it, done-it, never-surprised veteran. Until, of course, said veteran sees St. Louis' sparkling new Kiel Center.

Kiel Center was designed to please and impress Midwestern crowds of 21,000, but equally, to please and impress performers and crews of any size and type. With endless catwalks. Sixty-ton rigging. Flexible acoustics. And a relentless commitment to personal service.

If you haven't already booked the new Kiel Center, call us to find out why we've become such a major attraction for people on both sides of the spotlight.

But if you still think he isn't smiling enough, try watching the truly unhappy expression he wears when the bus won't start.

business, according to a report in the Wall Street Journal. Viacom chief Frank Biondi said the company has formed a task force to evaluate its possible entry into the industry. The paper reported that Viacom has already held talks with several well-known figures in the business including Tommy Boy Records founder Tom Silverman, whose Warner Bros. contract is reportedly up in March. Of course, all of this talk might just be warning shots directed at the major record labels which have been contemplating starting their own music video channel..... PolyGram has extended the length of its working agreement with Island Record's founder Chris Blackwell until the year 2000. Blackwell sold Island Records to PolyGram in 1989 for $270 million and agreed at the time to stay with the company through 1994. As part of the deal to keep Blackwell in the PolyGram fold, the company agreed to purchase Island Pictures for an undisclosed amount. Under the new deal, PolyGram has established the Island Entertainment Group which will function as an independent full service entertainment entity within the larger structure of PolyGram..... Columbia Records and Graphic Zone Inc., are expected to unveil a Bob Dylan CD-ROM, "Highway 61 Interactive" next month at the Consumer Electronics show in Las Vegas. In addition to the songs, videos, and interviews, a key feature will be the complete lyrics from all of Dylan's albums..... Paul Allen, who co-founded Microsoft with Bill Gates and owns the majority interest in Ticketmaster, is publicly and financially supporting the proposed Jimi Hendrix Museum in Seattle as well as spending $5 million to back Hendrix's father in legal battles over the rights to the late-guitarist's music. A spokesperson for Allen said the billionaire is a long-time Hendrix fan and he is funding the museum as a gift to the city of Seattle.

The Flexible Gorge

The Grant County Commission has lifted several restrictions on concerts at The Gorge in George, Wash., allowing MCA Concerts to schedule as many concerts there as it wishes. The county also lifted a cap that restricted the capacity on a certain number of shows. MCA Concerts Northwest exec Bill Parsons, who manages the 18,500-capacity venue, said the county's restrictions on the '94 season allowed local officials to judge the impact The Gorge would have on the area. He said, "The county just never had that many shows before and they wanted to make sure that our management was going to be able to work with the county." MCA had been limited to 20 shows but only a few of them were allowed to sell to full capacity.

BAD For Good

WBUR-FM's "Not Really" acoustic Christmas jam December 15th at Lupo's Heartbreak Hotel in Providence raised over $10,000 for local charities. Public Eye

The private investigator Courtney Love hired to find Kurt Cobain when he disappeared from a Southern California rehab center shortly before his death now claims the troubled singer was murdered. During an interview on CBS radio, investigator Tim Grant of Beverly Hills said he believes "someone held the shotgun in his mouth, put his finger on the trigger, pulled the trigger and dropped [the gun]." Grant did not say who he suspected of the alleged murder, only that it was "more than one person." But Seattle police and the King County medical examiner ruled out homicide after investigating Cobain's death. But Grant said he believes Cobain's "suicide note" was a message to fans that he was leaving the music business, not life, and that

U.K. News Report

(London) Another year over and where does that leave the British music business? The general consensus in the UK is that it has been a pretty tough 12 months all round. PROMOTERS have been forced to tighten belts and batten down the hatches in order to weather the economic storm. VENUES struggled to keep the diaries full enough and agents found it harder to get promoters to take real risks. ARENAS were pretty busy, although STADIUMS stayed empty except for a few shows in Gateshead and Milton Keynes Bowl. It was hard to try and establish audience trends because sales were so patchy; but CAUTION was the name of the game in 1994. It has paid off though, as the major players have all made it through and the year ends on an optimistic note, with box office cash tills ringing merrily throughout December - Christmas shows have been selling well across the board. Of course, not everyone has come through unscathed. DEREK BLOCK's Bolshoi Ballet masterplan failed, dragging some unpaid debts behind him and collecting a lawsuit from Ticketmaster on the way.... GEORGE MICHAEL lost his battle against Sony and split with manager Rob Kahane. And to rub salt in his wounds, has just heard that the date for his appeal against the High Court ruling in Sony's favour, has been put back until FEBRUARY 1996. This may give him bittersweet inspiration for all the songwriting he'll be doing next year.... Restraint of trade was a recurring theme. U2 claimed the same against PRS, the rights collection society. The band put the legal boot in after PRS had suffered a catalogue of public relations disasters, and to add fuel to their fire, the society is now under investigation by the Monopolies and Merger's Commission.... Restricted view was the complaint lodged at HARVEY GOLDSMITH by an unhappy concert-goer. The case was defeated, but it may not be the last of its kind.... While the lawyers were making money, the ACCOUNTANTS seemed to be running off with it! Sting's moneyman Keith Moore was committed to trial for embezzlement of £3.3 million. The Association of Music Industry Accountants has also taken the step of suspending the firm of Casson Beckman, following recent disclosures about John Goldring's misappropriation of his clients' funds. And Rick Wright's accountant, Martin Stainton stands accused of doing the same.... The AGENCY WORLD has seen reshuffles aplenty. Never mind stealing bands, it was agents being wooed away. David Levy left Primary Talent for ITB; Russel Warby left ITB for The Agency; Paul Boswell left The Agency to become his own man at Free Trade; Bob Gold left Solo to go solo with GAA; Paul Bolton left Concorde to join the mighty ICM-Fair Warning. Wasted Talent may have been feeling left out, so into bed they climbed with the world of corporate international agents and became Fair Warning Wasted Talent.... Musically it has been a good year for British talent. There has been a renewed self-confidence about the music scene. A few acts have emerged from the froth of media hype to show promise of some longevity. Of course, there is still a tendency of too much too soon and too young. But a few strong contenders for going the distance in 1995 are newcomers OASIS and GENE, and second album contenders SUEDE and The STONE ROSES. They seem to be going beyond the confines of indie stardom.... The dance scene gathered momentum with M PEOPLE scooping the Mercury prize and selling out arenas around the UK, the triumphant return of MASSIVE ATTACK, who performed some live shows for the first time, and THE PRODIGY selling out an extensive tour. And it was a great year for British pop, with TAKE THAT selling out 36 UK arenas.... Despite belt-tightening, we did get some NEW VENUES. SMG expanded from Sheffield to London and the new arena at Docklands has already notched up a couple of major shows and its own basketball team. Meanwhile Ogden Entertainment consolidated its position over here on the one hand with the Manchester Arena and Concert Hall, but lost it Millwall flagship and is now battling through legal dispute with the stadium owners. As for Wembley Plc., the year ends with no decision on the refinancing package. Earl's Court had a record breaking run of 14 shows by Pink Floyd, marred however, by the collapse of a seating stand on the first night. The official investigation has still not published any results and we will have to wait until the new year to find out exactly what went wrong. The SECC had a reasonably good year, only to be marred by some dramatic floods last week. Shows by Meat Loaf and M People were cancelled when torrential rain put the venue three feet underwater. The shows have been rescheduled or refunded. The most successful new venue of the year has to be London's SHEPHERDS BUSH EMPIRE, which staked its claim in London, but has ended the year confirming all the rumours that it was up for sale. The new management is the Break For The Northridge earthquake..... The Sierra Club and four local residents filed a lawsuit December 19th to stop plans for the proposed Celebrity City complex which developer Leo Urbanski wants to construct near Red Bluff, Calif. The lawsuit alleges the proposal for up to 40 country music theatres, 20,000 hotel rooms and other facilities, fails to comply with California environmental laws and does not adequately deal with the impact on local water supplies, air quality or transportation needs..... WE Fest organizers in Detroit Lakes, Minn., are under scrutiny for a 480-foot dirt road they built across wetlands in 1992. DNR hydrologist Bob Merritt said the area where the road was built is important for wildlife habitat. He said WE Fest organizers never got a permit needed to build a new road. But WE Fest spokesman Jeffrey Krueger said the road was an existing one which was damaged by beavers. The DNR has ordered WE Fest to remove the road and Krueger has appealed. A hearing is set for April 12th.

Legal Grievs

George Michael will get his day in court but his attempt to speed up his appeal in his legal battle with Sony was thwarted December 12th. The UK Court Of Appeals said that Michael's lawyers had failed to come anywhere close to showing that his case had the urgency required to bump it up in front of other pending appeals. Michael's attorneys had told the judges the case was urgent and the singer was "horrified" by the prospect of long delays. The British courts earlier ruled Michael was contractually tied to Sony for six more albums and until at least 2003. Michael's legal bills have reached in excess of $4 million in his attempt to end his 15-year contract with Sony, for whom he has sworn to never record for again..... Huntington National Bank of West Virginia filed a lawsuit December 16th against the operators of the financially troubled Camden Park seeking to recover $174,186..... Canada's Federal Court of Appeal dismissed Country Music Television's appeal December 20th to continue on Canadian cable systems. CMT is being replaced by a Canadian owned country music channel as of January 1st. In a statement, CMT said, "If the Canadian courts will not protect our assets, then the court of international law or the United States courts will."..... A federal bankruptcy judge approved most of Wayne Newton's reorganization plan December 16th and that didn't make the singer's creditors real happy. Under the plan, unsecured creditors who are owed more than $22 million will receive from $2.3 million to $3 million over five years, starting five years from now. The creditors opposed the plan citing Newton's lavish spending habits. They also argued that Newton has failed to make previous court ordered payments and can't be relied upon to do so under this plan. The Midnight Idol will be allowed $66,000 monthly for personal expenses, as well as $132,000 a year for miscellaneous expenses.

BMG Ends Imago Partnership

BMG said it would officially pull out of its partnership with Imago Records and Chrysalis Records co-founder Terry Ellis on January 1st. Reports say BMG lost almost $50 million in the four years that it tried to get the label off the ground. According to a statement, Ellis will seek another partner. This may give him bittersweet inspiration for all the songwriting he'll be doing next year..... Restraint of trade was a recurring theme. U2 claimed the same against PRS, the rights collection society. The band put the legal boot in after PRS had suffered a catalogue of public relations disasters, and to add fuel to their fire, the society is now under investigation by the Monopolies and Merger's Commission..... Restricted view was the complaint lodged at HARVEY GOLDSMITH by an unhappy concert-goer. The case was defeated, but it may not be the last of its kind..... While the lawyers were making money, the ACCOUNTANTS seemed to be running off with it! Sting's moneymen Keith Moore was committed to trial for embezzlement of £3.3 million. The Association of Music Industry Accountants has also taken the step of suspending the firm of Casson Beckman, following recent disclosures about John Goldring's misappropriation of his clients' funds. And Rick Wright's accountant, Martin Stainton stands accused of doing the same..... The AGENCY WORLD has seen reshuffles aplenty. Never mind stealing bands, it was agents being wooed away. David Levy left Primary Talent for ITB; Russel Warby left ITB for The Agency; Paul Boswell left The Agency to become his own man at Free Trade; Bob Gold left Solo to go solo with GAA; Paul Bolton left Concorde to join the mighty ICM-Fair Warning. Wasted Talent may have been feeling left out, so into bed they climbed with the world of corporate international agents and became Fair Warning Wasted Talent..... Musically it has been a good year for British talent. There has been a renewed self-confidence about the music scene. A few acts have emerged from the froth of media hype to show promise of some longevity. Of course, there is still a tendency of too much too soon and too young. But a few strong contenders for going the distance in 1995 are newcomers OASIS and GENE, and second album contenders SUEDE and The STONE ROSES. They seem to be going beyond the confines of indie stardom..... The dance scene gathered momentum with M PEOPLE scooping the Mercury prize and selling out arenas around the UK, the triumphant return of MASSIVE ATTACK, who performed some live shows for the first time, and THE PRODIGY selling out an extensive tour. And it was a great year for British pop, with TAKE THAT selling out 36 UK arenas..... Despite belt-tightening, we did get some NEW VENUES. SMG expanded from Sheffield to London and the new arena at Docklands has already notched up a couple of major shows and its own basketball team. Meanwhile Ogden Entertainment consolidated its position over here on the one hand with the Manchester Arena and Concert Hall, but lost it Millwall flagship and is now battling through legal dispute with the stadium owners. As for Wembley Plc., the year ends with no decision on the refinancing package. Earl's Court had a record breaking run of 14 shows by Pink Floyd, marred however, by the collapse of a seating stand on the first night. The official investigation has still not published any results and we will have to wait until the new year to find out exactly what went wrong. The SECC had a reasonably good year, only to be marred by some dramatic floods last week. Shows by Meat Loaf and M People were cancelled when torrential rain put the venue three feet underwater. The shows have been rescheduled or refunded. The most successful new venue of the year has to be London's SHEPHERDS BUSH EMPIRE, which staked its claim in London, but has ended the year confirming all the rumours that it was up for sale. The new management is the Break For The a line at the bottom of the note was written by someone else. Love dismissed Grant's theory as did Cobain's mother who said, "Grant is trying to get his 15 minutes of fame. He is a sleaze bag. For months we tried to get him to sign a confidentiality form, to no avail." The private eye was an L.A. County sheriff's deputy for seven years before resigning in 1975.

Betting On The Garden

ITT Corp.'s bid for Caesars World Inc., last week has added a new wrinkle to the conglomerate's pending $1.08 billion purchase of Madison Square Garden, according to the Wall Street Journal. Purchasing Caesars would put ITT in the gaming business which includes sports betting. The Garden deal would make ITT the owner of the New York Knicks and New York Rangers and both the NBA and NHL have strict rules against team owners also owning sports betting businesses. According to the Journal, an ITT spokesperson said the gambling issue is "not a deal-breaker" and the company is willing to make changes in its betting operations to comply with league policies. ITT and Cablevision were the high bidders for the Garden and its sports teams with a $1.7 billion offer.

Opryland Scales Back '95 Concert Series

After overestimating the potential ticket sales for its "Nashville on Stage" concert series in the past year, the Opryland USA theme park is reducing the series in 1995. After an $8 million loss, park officials have decided to run daily concerts from June through August rather than May through October as they did in 1994. Also, prices for the 1995 concert series will be $14.95 to $21.95, up from this year's $12.95 to $19.95. The Nashville theme park's concert series is separate from Grand Ole Opry performances which are presented every weekend year-round.

A Legal Basket Case

A small town Georgia lawyer filed a $24 million suit against four retailers claiming they sell tapes to children that include obscene material and "contribute to the delinquency of a minor." Robert A. Hendricks said Blockbuster Music, Backstage Discount Music, a Kmart store and a Wal-Mart sold tapes to his 10-year-old son that include references to sexual activity, drug use and gang violence. Hendricks said, "This is no different than selling Hustler to a 10-year-old." He requested a temporary order in Superior Court December 19th to prevent the four stores from "further display and sales" of six recordings including tapes by Dr. Dre, Ice-T and Green Day. A judge refused to issue a restraining order against the retailers who face both a criminal complaint and a civil suit.

Change Of Venue

The Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum's repair costs have soared to a projected $92.7 million, according to the Los Angeles Times. That amount is a 50 percent increase over the $60 million figure used by Coliseum officials when the stadium reopened in September and more than 2½ times the original estimate which was made in February. With that price tag, the city of L.A. could have practically built a new state-of-the-art stadium rather than repair the aging historical monument that was damaged in the Northridge earthquake..... The Sierra Club and four local residents filed a lawsuit December 19th to stop plans for the proposed Celebrity City complex which developer Leo Urbanski wants to construct near Red Bluff, Calif. The lawsuit alleges the proposal for up to 40 country music theatres, 20,000 hotel rooms and other facilities, fails to comply with California environmental laws and does not adequately deal with the impact on local water supplies, air quality or transportation needs..... WE Fest organizers in Detroit Lakes, Minn., are under scrutiny for a 480-foot dirt road they built across wetlands in 1992. DNR hydrologist Bob Merritt said the area where the road was built is important for wildlife habitat. He said WE Fest organizers never got a permit needed to build a new road. But WE Fest spokesman Jeffrey Krueger said the road was an existing one which was damaged by beavers. The DNR has ordered WE Fest to remove the road and Krueger has appealed. A hearing is set for April 12th.

Legal Grievs

George Michael will get his day in court but his attempt to speed up his appeal in his legal battle with Sony was thwarted December 12th. The UK Court Of Appeals said that Michael's lawyers had failed to come anywhere close to showing that his case had the urgency required to bump it up in front of other pending appeals. Michael's attorneys had told the judges the case was urgent and the singer was "horrified" by the prospect of long delays. The British courts earlier ruled Michael was contractually tied to Sony for six more albums and until at least 2003. Michael's legal bills have reached in excess of $4 million in his attempt to end his 15-year contract with Sony, for whom he has sworn to never record for again..... Huntington National Bank of West Virginia filed a lawsuit December 16th against the operators of the financially troubled Camden Park seeking to recover $174,186..... Canada's Federal Court of Appeal dismissed Country Music Television's appeal December 20th to continue on Canadian cable systems. CMT is being replaced by a Canadian owned country music channel as of January 1st. In a statement, CMT said, "If the Canadian courts will not protect our assets, then the court of international law or the United States courts will."..... A federal bankruptcy judge approved most of Wayne Newton's reorganization plan December 16th and that didn't make the singer's creditors real happy. Under the plan, unsecured creditors who are owed more than $22 million will receive from $2.3 million to $3 million over five years, starting five years from now. The creditors opposed the plan citing Newton's lavish spending habits. They also argued that Newton has failed to make previous court ordered payments and can't be relied upon to do so under this plan. The Midnight Idol will be allowed $66,000 monthly for personal expenses, as well as $132,000 a year for miscellaneous expenses.

BMG Ends Imago Partnership

BMG said it would officially pull out of its partnership with Imago Records and Chrysalis Records co-founder Terry Ellis on January 1st. Reports say BMG lost almost $50 million in the four years that it tried to get the label off the ground. According to a statement, Ellis will seek another partner. A spokeswoman said he'll keep Imago's roster, which includes Henry Rollins and

Tupac's Bicoastal Legal Problems

A New York judge may have stayed an arrest warrant for Tupac Shakur because of a doctor's note but a judge in Los Angeles said December 16th he wasn't impressed. Superior Court Judge Paul Flynn extended an arrest warrant and ruled that the rapper must be in court on January 25th. The note from Dr. Barbara Justice said Shakur was in no shape to travel cross-country after being wounded in a robbery outside a New York recording studio. Judge Flynn said he wouldn't press it but, "We'll keep the warrant outstanding. [If] Shakur feels it appropriate to turn himself in, we'll deal with it then." Shakur was arrested in Los Angeles in April on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and carrying a loaded gun. He is awaiting sentencing in New York on a sexual abuse conviction. His co-defendant in that case, road manager Charles Fuller, was jailed without bail pending sentencing earlier this month but an appeals judge ruled that Fuller was entitled to bail which he posted December 21st.

Domestic Stuff

Celine Dion and manager Rene Angelil didn't have to allow uninvited reporters and photographers into their wedding, a judge ruled December 17th in Montreal. The couple granted exclusive photo rights to Sept Jours, a Quebec weekly magazine. Quebecor, which owns two competing publications, asked the court to allow its staff entry into the wedding ceremony but Quebec Superior Court Justice Jean-Louis Leger turned the request down. The judge's ruling came about six hours before the start of the wedding..... Heather Locklear and Richie Sambora recently exchange vows — twice. A spokesperson said the couple was first married in a civil ceremony December 15th in Red Bank, N.J., followed by a ceremony attended by a small group of family and friends in Paris. The pair had been engaged since September..... Locklear's former husband, Motley Crue drummer Tommy Lee, was arrested for investigation of abusing his current girlfriend. Bobbie Brown flagged down a police car December 21st and told a Los Angeles County sheriff's deputy that she had been beaten by Lee..... James Brown's wife of 10 years, Adrienne, was ordered to leave the couple's South Carolina home by December 24th. The Godfather of Soul filed for divorce from Adrienne, his third wife, December 9th, one day after being charged with misdemeanor domestic assault for allegedly knocking Adrienne to the floor during an argument. Brown was released on $279.20 bail and denies even being in South Carolina at the time of the alleged attack.

Obituaries

Contemporary jazz violinist Noel Pointer, 40, died December 20th in Brooklyn of cardiopulmonary arrest which was caused by a stroke. Pointer recorded seven albums and was nominated twice for a Grammy award..... Music publisher and talent scout E.E. "Si" Siman, 73, died December 16th after battling cancer for several years. Siman helped promote the careers of Brenda Lee and Chet Atkins and he and partner John Mahaffey published many hit songs through their company, Earl Barton Music.

Between The Dates

PEARL JAM has found one way to play an exclusive Ticketmaster venue without dealing with the computerized ticket service. The Seattle band will be playing at Washington, DC's Constitution Hall January 14 - 15 in a benefit for Voters For Choice, a pro-abortion political group. Tickets will be sold via a mail-order lottery, and will not carry a service charge. Constitution Hall is an exclusive Ticketmaster venue, but a clause in their contract allows charity events to sell their own tickets. This may be only the first of several different ways that Pearl Jam plays in '95. Rumor has it that the band may play non-traditional outdoor venues this summer — locations that may never have hosted a live music event, and are not Ticketmaster venues..... Pot was the case when SNOOP DOGGY DOGG was arrested in Lake Charles, Louisiana last week for alleged possession of marijuana. Snoop was arrested at the Players Casino Hotel, and was held for about an hour. He later cancelled his concert at Lake Charles Civic Center. Deputies were serving legal papers on Snoop when they allegedly smelled the drug. The Lake Charles date was the only cancellation of a short end-of-year tour before the rapper goes back to Los Angeles to be tried for murder..... AEROSMITH ended its current tour with gratitude in its attitude. The band presented manager TIM COLLINS with an $80,000 black Mercedes 500 SL during its final tour stop December 15th at the Centrum outside Boston. "We knew he wanted one but he wouldn't spend the money to buy it for himself," said Karen Whitford, wife of guitarist Brad Whitford, who was in charge of buying the car..... A GALLAGHER show in Huntsville, Ala., December 16th became no laughing matter when a 15-year-old boy who was helping the comedian with his Sledge-O-Matic finale slipped and broke his arm. Gallagher helped the teenager off stage and then returned to tell the audience that the show was over because, "I don't feel very funny anymore." The comic said nothing like that had ever happened in his 20 years of smashing and mashing on stage. He visited the boy in the hospital the day after the incident..... You can bet ALAN JACKSON's mama always told him to wear clean underwear whenever he went out. Jackson's next tour will be sponsored by Fruit Of The Loom. To promote the "Fruit Of The Loom Country Comfort Tour, the underwear company will be utilizing newspaper inserts, in-store displays, point-of-sales signs, and music-related contests and prizes..... This week's Route Book lists the first three shows of 1995 for THE GRATEFUL DEAD. You can expect the listing of the spring Dead tour to appear in about two weeks. The band's tour plans aren't going to be much different than in previous years. No European dates are planned, and though there had been rumors of playing Japan, it looks like the band is staying in North America for '95. For many years the Dead had been a New Year's Eve tradition in the Bay Area, but that ended with the 1991 death of Bill Graham. The legendary promoter, dress as Father Time, would make a grand entrance at the stroke of midnight. How does the Dead like not performing on the last night of the year? Spokesperson Dennis McNally told POLLSTAR, "I think the band likes it a lot. It wasn't New Year's Eve without Bill." McNally also said that it was the most stressful night of the year, with everyone wanting tickets. "Everyone's relatives came out of the ground on that night," said McNally..... The ORLEANS tour listed in this week's Route Book is an acoustic tour featuring three original members; John Hall on guitar, lead vocalist Larry Hoppen on guitar and keyboards, and Lance Hoppen on bass..... Last week we mentioned that the SAVE OUR COUNTY concert for bankrupt Orange County would be held at the House Of Blues. Our mistake. The show is being booked by John Pantle who works at House Of Blues, but the show itself is taking place at the Ice House in Fullerton. At press time Orange County was still bankrupt..... It's been a "spare parts" kind of year for performers. David Crosby had to get a new liver, and now LIZA MINNELLI is beginning rehabilitation following hip replacement surgery. The actress/singer/dancer underwent surgery in a Los Angeles area hospital last week..... PAUL REVERE, of Paul Revere & The Raiders fame, is late on paying taxes on some land he owns near Boise, Idaho, and Ada County wants it now. Revere will forfeit the land if he doesn't cough up the $9.91 in delinquent taxes, plus a 20 cent penalty, $3.63 interest, and $450 in late fees. Revere owns .08 of an acre valued at $1000 along with his first wife and former Raider's singer Mark Lindsay.

Border Group who operate the Borderline club, although Andrew Marler, director of Turner Page who developed the venue, will be retained as a consultant.... FESTIVALS had a mixed year, with Glastonbury's trademark Pyramid stage burning down a week before the event. The Phoenix had a lacklustre bill and punters were thin on the ground. But Glasgow had "T in The Park," which may not have made a lot of money for DF Concerts, but a good time was had by all and they will be back for more in 1995.... Ultimately, a year which started amid gloom and uncertainty has ended on an up-note. Never before have so many shows gone on sale so far in advance - and sold out. According to Ray Edwards at Marshall Arts, it's a trend that is here to stay - it's a promoter safety net, a way of monitoring the market. So, those who have made it to the other side of the recession may start taking risks again.
