digs in Montclair, N.J. MEG will develop what Scher calls "content," for lack of a better word, in the form of touring projects, television properties, Broadway theatre projects and home video. "When [I] left PolyGram, both Alain Levy and I simply had different visions for how to grow PDE and Metropolitan," Scher said. "And candidly, this Ogden joint venture fulfills my vision." MEG plans to operate as an entertainment company that is not hit-driven but based on the notion that long term careers can be better developed when the focus is on quality live performances. "I think that when you're in a hit-driven position that the only thing that really counts is hits, hits, hits, whether it be a hit television show, a hit record, whatever. You become a slave to radio or a slave to ratings," Scher said. "If you approach things from a career perspective and know that inevitably there are going to be hills and valleys in that career, you can plan for the long run. You can create properties and you can create projects for that particular artist or that particular entity that take into account that they might not always have hits but they may be a great live act or may have other [successful] aspects to their career. And [through that], you can build fan loyalty." Scher said MEG is going to expand its management division and will be looking at veteran acts as well as new artists and properties to work with. "There are a

The Rebirth Of Electric Factory

Electric Factory Concerts is opening a new live concert venue in Philadelphia hoping to recapture the fun, adventurous spirit that made the legendary Electric Factory club in the late '60s a successful force in breaking new acts. The old psychedelized Ben Franklin logo will even come out of retirement to grace the new Electric Factory venue when it opens October 11th. The original club, which was located about a mile away from the new site, operated from 1968 to 1970. Along with Don Law's Tea Party and Bill Graham's Fillmore, it was among the handful of venues that helped change the course of the concert business. Unable to describe the new venue as a club or ballroom, Electric Factory chief Larry Magid told POLLSTAR it would be more properly described as an experience. He said one goal is to recreate a situation where an audience is attracted to the venue, not just an act on the bill. And the three-act concerts on weekend nights (with the same line-up for both Friday and Saturday nights where possible) are expected to mix genres to expose people to music they might not otherwise see. "The whole thing goes back to putting the fun back in our business and being less regimented and less packaged," Magid said. The capacity of Electric Factory will vary from 1,000 to well over 3,000. The rolling stage built by Tait Towers allows the venue to adapt to those different situations. Magid said, "It's like a giant Lego set only it's on wheels and we can do anything we want with it." Among the acts booked so far are Rusted Root, Sonic Youth, The Radiators, Jethro Tull, and George Thorogood.

Ogden Buys Half Of Metropolitan

Ogden Corporation and Metropolitan Entertainment have entered into a multimillion dollar joint venture to create a full service, live entertainment group. Ogden will hold 50 percent of the new venture, Metropolitan Entertainment Group, by buying out PolyGram's 40 percent interest in Metropolitan and purchasing another 10 percent from principals John Scher and Jim Koplik. Ogden says it will invest up to $50 million, much of it in new shed development, to expand the businesses of MEG which will have six divisions. The management, theatre and television, and record and music publishing divisions will be based out of Ogden's offices at 2 Penn Plaza in NYC, and the concert division (including promotions and national tour development) and amphitheatre division will be based out of Metropolitan's current

U.K. News Report

(London) The music business has been dominated by the momentum of THE WAR CHILD album, Help! which was recorded and released in less than five days and went on to sell 75,000 copies on its first day in the shops. The project has managed to generate money and prime time publicity for the charity which supports child victims of the Bosnian conflict. Some of the classiest names in British pop from present and past generations have contributed to the effort. The album credits include Paul McCartney performing "Come Together" with Noel Gallagher of Oasis and Paul Weller. Also featured are Blur, Suede, Portishead, Sinéad O'Connor, the Boo Radleys, Stereo MC's (the first product they have released in three years) and even Johnny Depp showed up to play guitar on Oasis's track. The album has already been claimed by the Guinness Book of Records as the fastest album ever produced and the sales figures make it the fastest selling album of all time. However, because it has been officially classed as a compilation album, it does not qualify for the number one album chart spot — even though it sold four times as many copies as the runner-up. International release is in the pipeline, and many are asking if this is the first step towards a Live Aid style concert. But organisers say Help! is a one-off initiative for War Child and a concert is not part of the plan..... Projects like this have elbowed all talk of the BLUR vs. OASIS rivalry out of the media, but there may be a renewed clash which is being hyped. Both bands are due to play shows in Bournemouth on September 18. Blur will be doing a club gig as a precursor to their arena shows later this year, while Oasis play the nearby Bournemouth International Centre.....

IN THE CITY organisers claim attendance for the 1995 music conference were up on previous years and the number of delegates was reportedly around 2,000. However, guestimates suggest that live music delegates were not out in force, nor were US delegates. This year, the Manchester-based conference changed its date to the first weekend in September, which clashed with the end of the summer holiday season over here and with both Labor Day and CMJ in the US. Although the conference has always had a record company bias, it seems the biggest emphasis on the live side of the business was the extensive number of gigs which took place in Manchester over the five days of the conference. The best unsigned band prize at In The City this year was shared between the much sought-after Placebo, Performance and Kula Shaker. The judging panel was made up of New Order's Peter Hook, Pete Dinklage, the Lightning Seeds' Ian Brodie and Phil Saxe (formerly head of A&R at Factory Records). The IMF reported around 150 delegates attended each of the three panels which it put together for In The City. The IMF, whose membership has gone up to 250, added another 20 managers to its "roster" at the conference. Apart from convening most of its members at In The City, the IMF will be holding its first official fundraiser on September 20. Let Loose and Jamiroquai will be performing at the "Roll of Honour" dinner where three members will be nominated as unsung heroes of the industry..... Following the success of Portishead's London gig a few months ago, the WILLESDEN EMPIRE has decided to throw open its doors to live music as a full-time occupation. Formerly a comedy venue, Portishead gave the Empire (no relation to the other one in Shepherd's Bush), its musical baptism. Jim Robertson, formerly booker and promoter at the Mean Fiddler's Forum venue, is now managing the 1,500 capacity Empire. It reopened on September 1 and Robertson has a mixed schedule of gigs over the next few months, including Fish, Ray Davies, Ruby Turner and a Celtic Swing Night with Luka Bloom which Harvey Goldsmith will be promoting. Robertson says other promoters are beginning to show an interest.....

GREEN DAY has added a second Brixton Academy date to their brief UK schedule at the end of this month. The popular demand for this additional show was no doubt swelled by the band's storming Reading performance. They are currently touring Europe and arrive back in the UK on September 20. FAITH NO MORE have however cancelled all UK dates due to exhaustion and the word from agent Derek Kemp's office at The Agency, is that dates are not being rescheduled at the moment..... Labatt's may be going back to brewing, but over here HOLSTEN PILS is putting money into an album and tour featuring top indie artists. After 10 years involvement with a football team, Holsten has turned its back on sports and teamed up with Solo-ITG to put together the Holsten Indie Party tour. This will take place next January at clubs around the country and will feature a changing line-up from a pool of around 15 indie bands. Artists confirmed so far include the Lightning Seeds, Molly Half Head, and Pop Will Eat Itself. Tickets will only be available by drinking promotional bottles of the Holsten brew.

SUBLIME

Sublime's punk-reggae-rap sound has taken the band from its position as the "below average garage punk band that every kid wants to play his party" to the rabble-rousing live act that fans flock to see. The members of Long Beach-based Sublime, Brad Nowell (guitar & vocals), Eric Wilson (bass) and Floyd "Bud" Gaugh (drums), mix thrash punk with ska and dub rhythms and have created an act that started the summer on the top of the radio charts and toured its way to oblivion — well, at least as far as mainstream radio is concerned.

Sublime's single "Date Rape" from the 1992 Skunk Records release 40oz. To Freedom (which sold in excess of 30,000 units without major distribution) shot to the top of radio request charts after seminal Los Angeles alternative station KROQ-FM added the song to its playlist. Modern rock stations across the country followed suit and after six years of plugging away on its own as an underground act, Sublime suddenly found itself thrust upon the mainstream. But it seems the mainstream wasn't quite ready for Sublime. The band's manager, Blaine Kaplan, told POLLSTAR he sees Sublime as the quintessential rock band, complete with bad boys pissing off the industry. "The mainstream isn't prepared to do what it takes to break Sublime," Kaplan said. "But promoters can't deny the band's fan base — it's unbelievable. And we're having no problem securing dates for the fall."

Sublime isn't having problems booking dates but the band has had trouble keeping its songs on the radio and making it to the stage. When the band did its first interview on KROQ, the guys fired up joints and chugged Tequila as the DJ, Jed the Fish, did a play-by-play for listeners. Needless to say, it didn't go over well with the brass at KROQ and "Date Rape" was pulled from the playlist. But the strength of the single got Sublime on the bill for a few summer radio festivals as well as on the bill for "The Warped Tour," which featured cutting edge punk bands combined with extreme sports. Sublime "didn't make any friends" when they played the radio fests and the band got booted from four dates on "The Warped Tour," despite fans' objections, Kaplan said.

"The Warped Tour," which recently wrapped in L.A., threw Sublime in with a bunch of punk bands, many of whom have a bad attitude towards reggae influenced music, Sublime's frontman Brad Nowell told POLLSTAR. Though many of the acts on the tour, which included No Use For A Name, Quicksand and L7 to name a few, became buddies with the guys from Sublime, Nowell and his crew managed to alienate some of the others. "We're kind of on the outs actually," he said of the bands Sublime shared a bill with. "No one likes reggae music too much anymore."

Kaplan said Sublime had some "dynamic" problems with some of the bands on "The Warped Tour," specifically Orange 9mm who they shared a bus with. And the band members trashed a hotel room (which they paid for), broke a table on the bus (which they paid for) showed up for a couple of shows stinking drunk (not unusual) and mooned the audience during one show. Plus, Nowell's dalmatian Louie, which traditionally tours with Sublime but wasn't supposed to be on "The Warped Tour," surprisingly showed up with two of the band's home boys and bit two audience members during one concert. Then Bud got arrested for possession of pot and Valiums (his non-prescribed broken rib treatment) and had to miss a show. So the band needed a bit of a talking to during the midst of the tour. Kaplan said Sublime had a meeting with the tour's primary investor, the production manager and tour manager and they came to some resolution. But only moments after that meeting, Bud tried to sneak a couple of people into the meal area and that was the proverbial straw.... Sublime was forced to sit on the bench for the tour's next four stops in Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit and Toronto.

When they do make it to the stage, the members of Sublime take a free-form approach to performing. They occasionally miss sound-checks and they rarely follow a set list so they can honor requests shouted from the audience. The band needs an agent that can deal with its bad boy rock'n'roll style so Rick Bonde at The Tahoe Agency was recently recruited to handle the booking.

Nowell said Sublime's audiences are made up partially of young surfer, skater type people. "Then we have out-of-control punker dudes that raise hell and give us a bad name, which we've enjoyed having. I love any kind of positive response to the music. Even if people hate us, isn't that much better than having people say, 'Ahh, they were alright.' You want people to either love you or hate you [then you know] you're doing something right."

Nowell said "The Warped Tour" was beneficial in that every time a band tours, it gathers new fans. "We've got a pretty hard core little following at every place," he said. "Not a following like the Dead or anything, but people dig our shit in every town. And every time you come through a town, you turn some people on and you sell some records. Then those people dub the records for their friends and [word] gets out. Otherwise, we wouldn't be here and we wouldn't have been [on tour] the last however many fucking times we've been across the country at our own expense."

For a band like Sublime that doesn't "fit" into the mainstream industry, touring is essential to its development. "That's pretty much the only way to do it for us," Nowell said. "And I'm not just talking about us. There's all kinds of other bands that people would just love. I just know it. And the only avenue they have is to get out there and work their asses off because the industry is inherently conservative and it always will be."

Just off "The Warped Tour," Sublime hits the road again at the end of October for a West Coast tour. And its five album deal with Gasoline Alley mean fans can expect a new album soon. But with Sublime, no one can really be sure. ★ surprising number of veteran artists who have significant followings that aren't signed to record companies right now. We've also found a surprising number of major record companies who are interested in doing cooperative projects with us, whether it be television, home video or touring projects," Scher said. With the strength of Ogden behind the new joint venture, Scher said MEG will be able to facilitate entrepreneurial ventures with others who have not been able to explore those options on their own. "For us, we're looking forward to getting everybody's ideas and working with as many people as we possibly can," Scher said. "For example, Cellar Door, Jam, Bill Graham Presents and Electric Factory are all investors in [the theatrical production] 'Victor Victoria.'... And PolyGram retains a $1.75 million investment. That's really ... how we want to do it." Scher said in addition to "Victor Victoria," MEG is working on the development of another Broadway property, "Funny Business." And the company is planning to aggressively expand its amphitheatre division. Scher said MEG is definitely planning to develop an amphitheatre in the greater Buffalo area. "That's one thing that we're sure that we'll be doing and clearly breaking ground right after the first of the year," he said. MEG has aligned executives from within and plans to announce additional appointments this week. Jim Koplik will remain president of the concert division and Rob Kos will still head the management division, both reporting to Scher. Reporting to Koplik will be Debra Rathwell, who is in charge of concert booking, and Keith Beccia, who will continue to run the amphitheatre development division. Amy Clark will head the division that works with the Grateful Dead and its solo members.

All This Means Major Changes At Ogden Presents

The MEG joint venture will allow Ogden to explore areas of the industry for which it previously didn't have the vehicle. And it also spells major changes for Ogden Presents, the company's in-house concert promotion operation. That part of Ogden Entertainment Services will continue to exist but it will now function more as a coordinator between MEG and Ogden-managed facilities. Ogden senior veep Loris Smith told POLLSTAR, "Ogden Presents is going to continue [but] not in the same way that it was perceived in the past. What the thrust will be is for Ogden Presents and Metropolitan to get to our managers, our facilities, all of the information available as to what's going on in the industry." Smith said they plan to make every effort to encourage the buildings and give them the ammunition necessary to deal with the local promoters to secure as many events and dates as possible based on the best available information. "Metropolitan and/or Ogden Presents, or the combination of the two, are not going to run around Ogden buildings promoting shows. That's not going to happen," Smith said. "This isn't to say that as things happen that Ogden Presents, Metropolitan and/or both together with a local promoter wouldn't end up co-promoting a date. For instance, a building that wants to do a show and a local promoter is a little concerned about that kind of exposure, we would offer, in some cases, to co-promote it with him or help him deal with the building on a co-promotion or whatever. But we don't intend to try to replace the local promoter. That's just not what we're up to. It's exactly 180 degrees the other way. And if local promoters are concerned or have a question or want to talk about it more, they should give me a call." As for staffing, Dan Zausner will continue at Ogden Presents, which remains at 2 Penn Plaza, but Bill FitzGerald is no longer with the company. And despite the fact that Ogden provides vending and management services to about 110 arenas and stadiums, Scher said MEG does not plan to exclude working with venues outside the Ogden network of buildings. "We will be producing national tours, everything from thematic tours [to superstar tours]. But we are not going to act as a local promoter anywhere outside of the traditional Northeastern markets that we have promoted. While we might mount a national tour ... we would always try to work with the local promoters," Scher said.

Blues In The Desert

Couch Potato Power

The Blockbuster Desert Sky Pavilion in Phoenix joined alternative radio station KEDJ to promote an August 30th Cranberries couch contest to collect furniture for local charities. The idea was to honor the Cranberries — who seem to have a thing about couches — by bringing in a couch and setting it up on the lawn. Admission was $25 per couch load, so long as everyone in the group could park both buns on the couch and still keep one foot on the ground. The shed expected to get about 30 groups with the promotion but ended up with 189 couches that became the resting spot for 2,148 cheeks.

Insurance Company Raises The Roof

The issue of who should accept financial responsibility for the caved-in roof of the 51-year-old Huntridge Theatre in Las Vegas was finally resolved September 11th when an insurance company agreed to foot most of the estimated $500,000 bill for the roof's reconstruction. The structural failure occurred only hours before a scheduled Circle Jerks show on July 28th when, with little warning, the roof to the historic venue collapsed. According to the insurance company, decades of heavy rain took its toll on the roof's wooden structure. A sparring match had initially ensued regarding who should accept responsibility for the accident, pitting the owners, Friends of the Huntridge, against the theatre's operator, Blu Sky Productions.

Taxing Times In Hartford

City officials in Hartford, Conn., are complaining that the new Meadows Music Theatre has not paid more than $184,000 in police bills. The shed is operated jointly by Nederlander and Metropolitan. Co-owner Jim Koplik has stated publicly that he felt the police were insisting on a "heavy" presence at the venue, but he was unavailable for further comment. Hartford police use advance ticket sales to estimate crowd size and staff levels needed for each concert. The Meadows' decision to withhold payment is reportedly based on a February ruling by a Hartford Superior Court judge. That ruling found a state law giving police authority to determine in advance how many officers are needed for security at a concert and then charging the organizers for that service was unconstitutional. The judge ruled that the law violated free-speech rights because it effectively gave police the power to bar appearances by controversial performers by determining the event organizer's security costs and thereby potentially making an event financially unfeasible. However, the state is appealing that ruling to the Connecticut Supreme Court.

For Squirrels Stricken With Tragedy

For Squirrels' trip home from an extended four-week tour and a highlighted performance at C.B.G.B.'s during CMJ in NYC took a tragic turn September 8th on a Georgia highway some 50 miles south of Savannah. The band's van overturned three times killing vocalist Jack Vigliatura, 21, bassist Bill White, 23, and tour manager Tim Bender, 23. Guitarist Travis Michael Tooke was released from the hospital with minor injuries and drummer Jack Greigo successfully underwent surgery to repair broken vertebrae, among other injuries. A tire on the van apparently blew at some point during the accident but investigators have yet to definitively determine if it actually caused the mishap. For Squirrels was considered to be one of Florida's best exponents of alternative guitar-based rock; the young band, which was booked by Marty Diamond at Little Big Man, was gearing up for the October release of its major label debut, Example, on Sony's 550 Music label. The company still plans to release the album on October 3rd. The family of Tim Bender has established a memorial fund in his memory.

Legal Grievs

Steve Earle has pleaded guilty to drug charges — his second drug case in a year. Police arrested the singer/guitarist in the parking lot of a Nashville apartment complex in July for possession of crack cocaine and drug paraphernalia. Last fall, Earle spent four weeks in jail and four weeks in drug rehab for another case involving heroin charges. On the current charge, he faces a maximum 11 months and 29 days in jail, according to the singer's lawyer, Lionel Barrett. Barrett said he will ask for probation at Earle's scheduled November 1st sentencing. Earle is already on probation as a result of the heroin charge..... INXS lead singer Michael Hutchence admitted in court to losing his temper when he attacked a tabloid photographer last March. He was ordered to pay approximately $3,000 in fines, court costs and compensation. Hutchence was spending time near Kent, England with girlfriend Paula Yates, the estranged wife of Bob Geldof. Apparently, the paparazzi had been particularly relentless during the couple's stay at the Chilston Park Hotel. Hutchence was leaving the hotel when he was accosted by the press and flipped out, punching Sun photographer Jim Bennett in the face. Bennett wasn't seriously injured but his expensive camera equipment was. In a London court room, Hutchence's lawyer said the singer "knows he achieved absolutely nothing by venting his anger." Hutchence later released a statement saying, "I am very pleased this matter has been resolved. I believe the modest level of the fine reflected the magistrate's disquiet at the press intrusion into the privacy of people."..... The lawsuit brought against ETM Entertainment Network principals Gene Heckerman and Peter Schniedermeier and the defunct Winpoint Interactive Multimedia Systems by Vista Management Systems was dismissed without prejudice August 15th. Vista had claimed Heckerman and Schniedermeier used Vista developed software to launch a ticketing business (not ETM) and excluded them from the deal.

The Pay-Per-View Rap

The national hip-hop magazine Rap Sheet is producing the first live rap concert to be broadcast exclusively via pay-per-view television. The October 13th concert, "Free Expression In The '90s," will feature some of the genre's hottest acts including Cypress Hill, Naughty By Nature, Wu-Tang Clan, Redman, Erick Sermon and others. The idea for the ambitious project came about after Rap Sheet hosted a successful, violence-free, two-year anniversary show in Los Angeles last year. "Nothing happened," said Rap Sheet co-founder Darryl James. "We work in partnership with the artists. We understand them and they have a relationship with us, not with a promoter or a building or whatever." James said the pay-per-view show will not be dominated by any of the controversial rap topics. "The artists are going to tone it down. It's not going to be about misogyny or cop killing. It's going to be about fun, which is what has made this music so popular," he said. The concert is being produced in conjunction with Spring Communications and is being organized to be a safe, viewer-friendly show. "There will be no hard tickets for this show," said Spring owner John Rubey. "It's going to be an invited audience, mostly contest winners." A location for the concert has not been determined. Rubey said they are negotiating with a number of NYC venues. "We're looking at a theatre-size audience," he said. "The location of the venue probably won't be announced until after the show has aired." Getting the show on the air in some markets is proving to be a challenge, especially in areas where the local cable system is operated by Time Warner. "The Time Warner systems are looking for corporate approval because of all the rap music controversy," said Rubey. "Nobody wants to give that approval." James said, "Time Warner is trying to back away from this. They're hoping it will go away." Considering the huge appeal of the artists on the bill and the potential number of households the show could reach, TW could have some really upset cable systems on its hands. "The [cable systems] stand to make a lot of money from this and we don't expect this to be our last venture of this type," said James. "This is Time Warner's opportunity to get in the middle of something good relating to rap music instead of getting in the middle of negative issues." George Jones A Deadbeat Dad?

Country music legend George Jones has been targeted in a royalty spat with the artillery coming from his two sons by his now deceased second wife, Shirley Ann Jones Arnold. Jeffrey Glenn Jones and Brian Dailey Jones have asked their attorney to sue their father and BMI for unpaid royalties amassed since their mother's death. George Jones' lawyer Ralph Gordon estimates the requested royalties amount to between $200,000 and $400,000 annually. As per their 1968 divorce agreement, Jones agreed to give his ex-wife half of his songwriters' rights to every piece of music he'd written before 1968 which was administered or published by BMI, including "Why, Baby, Why" and "You Done Me Wrong." Shirley Ann Jones Arnold's will divided her share of the royalties evenly between her two sons but the payments terminated after her death in 1991. According to an attorney representing BMI, Jones has been under the impression that in the event of his ex-wife's death, the royalties would cease to be paid to her estate and would revert back to him.

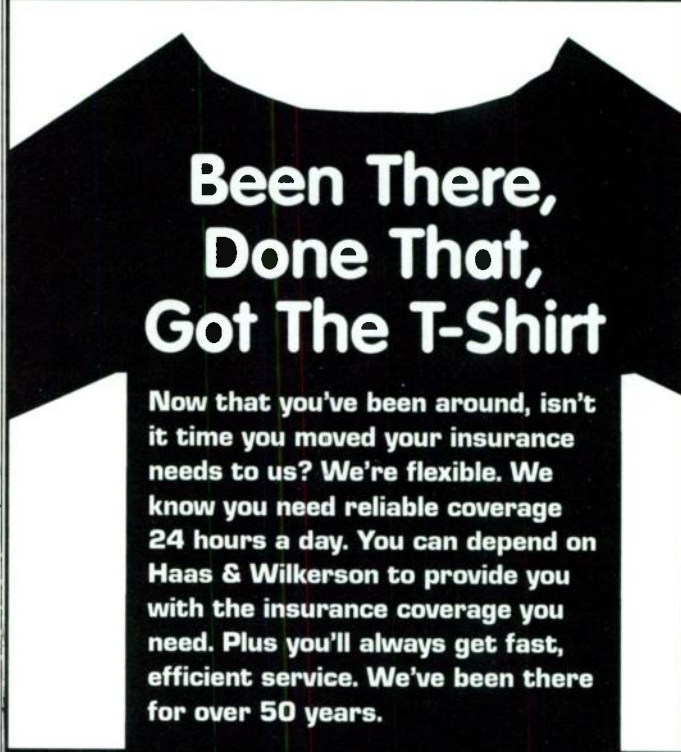

Obituaries

Highly respected marketing and event production executive Stephen Greenberg, 48, died September 13th in Huntingdon Valley, Pa., from complications of a stroke. At the time of his death, Greenberg, dubbed a "creative genius" by his peers, was a full-time consultant for the new Blockbuster-Sony Music Entertainment Centre in Camden, N.J. He began his industry career in 1967 joining The Spectrum prior to its opening. Known for treating underprivileged children to Spectrum shows at his own expense, Greenberg remained there until 1984 holding numerous executive positions including director of marketing and VP of event productions. He was one of the Spectacor execs instrumental in launching Spectacor Management Inc., the forerunner of SMG. Greenberg left the Spectacor organization in the early '80s but in 1988, he rejoined SMG as VP of productions and later took on consultant roles for Pennsylvania companies Myriad Associates and Music Fair Group..... Chuck Greenberg, 45, died from an apparent heart attack September 4th while vacationing with his family on Santa Cruz Island off the Southern California coast. The Chicago native founded Shadowfax, a Grammy-winning new age ensemble, and took synthesized woodwind instruments to new heights within the genre. Shadowfax's career spanned 20 years and 10 albums with material heavily influenced by jazz, classical and world beat.

Short Items Of Note

Gary Morris has formed In House, Inc. to exclusively oversee his bookings. In addition to his country music career, Morris recently conquered the Broadway musical stage with lead roles in both "Les Miserables" and "La Boheme." The new Nashville agency can be reached at (615) 383-3365..... The House of Blues blows into the Windy City September 14th. "Dan Akyroyd, the Blues Brothers Band and Jim Belushi come back to Sweet Home Chicago" is the billing for the groundbreaking ceremony, featuring music and tasty Southern dishes for bluesy appetites. Arena opened to a live entertainment-hungry public September 10th to rave reviews. The 12,500-capacity arena was to be musically christened by John Michael Montgomery, The Mavericks and The Tractors September 16th..... The new $260 million home of the St. Louis Rams is scheduled to open in time for the NFL team's home game October 22nd. The 70,000-capacity Trans World Dome, named after sponsor Trans World Airlines, will be dedicated and opened for viewing October 14th..... MCA Concerts has named Daniel Segal director of corporate sponsorship. Among his duties, Segal will establish strategic entertainment sponsorship alliances for MCA's amphitheatres and concert promotion companies in the U.S. and Canada. He previously worked for Eric/Chandler Ltd. and SMG..... Michael Gaiman and his Mission Control agency has branched out into cyberspace. The company is now representing Cybernautics, a Sausalito, Calif.-based company specializing in Internet marketing strategies and website design..... The barking of the Family Dog can be heard again in San Francisco. The rock promotion company that actually predated Bill Graham in San Francisco has been relaunched and has taken a longterm lease on city's Maritime Hall. Chet Helms, who ran the company in its heyday, is involved as a consultant. A Family Dog 30th anniversary party will take place October 27th and is scheduled to feature Greg Allman, Zero, Iron Butterfly and a light show.

Reba Works On Labor Day

Execs at the Great Allentown Fair were all smiles September 4th as they honored Reba McEntire for selling out the fair's end-of-summer gig for two years in a row. Technically, McEntire entertained even more people this year than last, as the venue has since increased its seating capacity from 9,844 to 10,420. Flanking the redheaded money machine are fair marketing director and talent buyer Bonnie Brosious and general manager Ed Charles.

Clint Black's Paternity Problem

The mother of Clint Black's 5-year-old love child has violated a 1991 legal promise to refrain from telling-all on tabloid television shows and in gossip publications. Renee Lynn Bain has gone public with her story and filed a paternity complaint because she wants Black to pay more child support and admit to fathering the little girl on the child's birth certificate. Bain lives in Arizona and feels the state's courts should follow California's lead in establishing separate laws pertaining to child support when "parents earning extraordinarily high incomes" are involved. Black's attorney, Robert Schwartz, claims the singer has accepted responsibility for the child, paying child support and health benefits as well as contributing funds for higher education. Bain's lawyer says Black can clearly afford to pay increased child support and Black has never legally acknowledged the child in document form. Bain also wishes to have Black's personal relationship with the child clarified in terms of visitations, saying Black's visits were "abruptly cut off" in 1991. Schwartz explained that Black is suing Renee Lynn Bain for breach of contract because she went to the "rag media" with the idea of scaring Black — now married to actress Lisa Hartman — into paying her "an outlandish amount" of support money. Schwartz added that Bain is gold-digging for herself and has exaggerated Black's personal relationship with the child.

MTV Music Video Awards

This year's MTV Video Music Awards September 7th at Radio City Music Hall served up everything we've come to expect from the oh-so-hip cable network including politics, racy language and animated live performances. Aside from all the fun, the big winners included TLC, whose socially conscious commentary "Waterfalls" won video of the year, viewer's choice, best group video and best R&B video. Weezer also took home four statuettes for its innovative "Buddy Holly" clip winning breakthrough video, best alternative video, best direction and best editing. Michael and Janet Jackson, who had 11 nominations — the most of any artist — took home only three awards for their "Scream" video. And the audience got more than a taste of Jackson talent when MJ opened the show with a 15-minute greatest hits medley. He was joined at times on stage by guitarist Slash and a children's choir — a move some found a bit risque. Janet, who seemed to be Michael's biggest supporter throughout the night, wore a shirt with "Pervert 2" printed on the back. Featured live performances included video vanguard award winner R.E.M.; new artist video winner Hootie & The Blowfish; Bon Jovi, which performed "Helter Skelter" live from Times Square; Green Day performed via satellite and lead singer Billie Joe advised the audience to spit on the cameramen; and the Red Hot Chili Peppers, which got a surprise introduction by Mike Tyson. The show was reportedly seen in 300 million households in 70 countries around the globe.

Between The Dates

An obscure Canadian band managed to live up to its name when it played T-BIRDS in Portland, Maine. MISERY — who has fashioned a career out of spoofing Metallica — managed to literally bring the house down with its September 7th show. Two 16 inch tall, 1 1/2 inch diameter metal cannisters were loaded with too powerful of a charge and when they went off it was like two pipe bombs according to police. The explosion blew apart the stage and knocked a hole in the roof. At least a dozen people were injured by the metal and glass debris from the blast, including one 21-year-old man who suffered serious neck injuries. Police are studying an amateur videotape of the show to help determine what happened. According to Portland police Sgt. Vernon Malloch, the mishap seemed accidental. Maine does not legally restrict the use of pyrotechnical devices.... Because of concerns over liability when it comes to mosh pits and bodysurfing, an increasing number of venues are trying to establish "NO MOSHING" policies. It was just such a policy that forced the University Of Florida to pull out of hosting an upcoming SOUL ASYLUM show. Lionel Dubay, Director of the Stephen C. O'Connell Center, told POLLSTAR that university officials looked into some of the shows the band had played in August. According to Dubay, "it was evident that moshing does take place." Ron Opaleski, chairman of Student Government Productions at the school told POLLSTAR that, although the Soul Asylum date didn't raise any concerns in his mind, the university's decision may affect other acts that are not usually associated with moshing. "It is an obvious problem we have to deal with, and we're trying to correct by educating them (UF officials), and get some leeway instead of one blanket decision." Venue managers that have enacted, or are considering enacting similar policies may have their work cut out for them. Though not all acts are attracting tattooed armies of stage divers, reports of mosh pits forming at shows that could hardly be described as hard-core, are becoming more frequent.... Spitting, not moshing, seemed to be the thing to do at the opening of the MONSTERS OF ROCK tour in South America. According to UPI, 4,000 fans attended a concert at the Monumental Theatre in Santiago, Chile and showed their enthusiasm for THERAPY? by spitting on the stage. Lead singer Andy Cairns received most of the attention, and reportedly accepted the praise with outreached arms and open mouth. Good Irishman that he is, Cairns dropped his pants and showed the crowd a bit of the ole blamey too.... Suffering from a variety of medical problems, WAYLON JENNINGS cancelled his remaining tour schedule for September and entered a hospital for tests. At press time, the results were inconclusive, but Jennings does plan on resuming his schedule October 6th in Clear Lake, Iowa at the Surf Ballroom. It will be the first time in 36 years that Jennings has played the Surf. The last time he played the venue was with Buddy Holly, Ritchie Valens, and The Big Bopper. After the show, Holly, Valens, and The Bopper took the plane, while Jennings rode the bus.... RANDY NEWMAN, who's already taken on Short People, Southern Good Ole Boys, and proclaimed his love for L.A. has taken on a brand new role — that of the supreme badness himself, the Devil. Newman is currently preparing his musical comedy version of Faust, which is set to premier at the La Jolla Playhouse September 24th. In Newman's version, God and Lucifer dicker over the soul of a Notre Dame student. Newman also plans a concept album based on the show, reportedly featuring James Taylor as God, Don Henley as Faust, Linda Ronstadt as Faust's girl, and Bonnie Raitt as the Devil's babe.... Advertised as "Now you can hum along to the sound of necks snapping," it's a day of rugby and rock at San Francisco's Balboa Stadium September 30th. Called SCRUMFEST '95, it features two rugby games including USA vs. Australia on the field, and Eek-A-Mugge, Undercover Ska, and The Alley Boys on the stage. And if that isn't enough, there's a Polynesian dance show too. Promoter Rennie O'Brien said, "It's dismemberment in D Minor.".... LaTOYA JACKSON flew to the Ukraine for a September 9th charity concert for the children of CHERNOBYL nuclear plant workers. LJ traveled to the town of Slavutych, a community constructed to house people who were forced to leave their irradiated homes after the infamous nuclear accident in 1986. Jackson is the second Western act to perform there. Last spring, French singer Patricia Kaas played the "hottest" spot in the Ukraine.
