The Agency Group Grows

Steve Ferguson joined the New York office of The Agency Group May 20th. Ferguson told POLLSTAR he brought the vast majority of his clients with him from ICM, where he had worked since 1991. Some of the acts moving with Ferguson to The Agency Group are Warren Zevon, Helmet, London Suede, Catherine Wheel, and The Cramps. Ferguson, who was based at ICM's New York headquarters, is quite pleased about staying in the Big Apple. "I'm a New Yorker," Ferguson stated as fact.

Phishheads, Phishheads Everywhere

The recent New Orleans Jazz and Heritage Festival got a taste of Phish and apparently didn't like it since the band may not be invited back. Phish brought its freewheeling music to the first day of the annual festival and with it came several thousand Phishheads, bringing opening day attendance to more than 62,000, according to an article in the Los Angeles Times. Merchants said the Phishheads clogged sidewalks, panhandled, blocked pathways and access to food concessions, and overran the French Quarter. Festival executive producer, George Wein, told the Times the band won't be invited back. Chip Hooper, the band's agent at Monterey Peninsula, told POLLSTAR, "From our perspective, everything went great and the festival staff seemed pleased. We were very surprised to see the comment in the Times." Jason Colton, Phish's media representative, said this was the first time he's had any negative feedback about the Phishheads. He told the paper the situation may have been exacerbated by the fact that the festival was already packed and it was the band's only springtime show.

Let The Good Times Blow

Seven people who were injured during a thunderstorm at a 1993 festival in Shreveport, La., will be paid $188,600 in medical expenses from the event's organizers, a jury ruled. Thirteen people were injured at the "Let the Good Times Roll Festival" when storm winds of up to 70 mph blew over tents and scattered debris. Among those who suffered injuries were an 18-year-old man who lost an eye and a 7-year-old boy who sustained a brain injury. A state district court jury entered the verdict May 17th against the festival's organizers — the city of Shreveport, the Rho Omega chapter of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity and Downtown Shreveport Unlimited. The jury ruled the three groups must equally share the medical costs of seven of the victims. The plaintiffs' attorney said he would ask the judge to increase the award based upon pain and suffering. A fourth defendant, Bossier Tent Rentals, was found not to be at fault.

BONHA

When one asks, "Who is Tracy Bonham?" the single most descriptive answer would be, "She's the girl who sings that 'Mother Mother' song." A more detailed description would reveal that Bonham was born in Eugene, Ore., but moved to Boston via California; she's no relation to the Bonham drummers (she did however play in the orchestra on the Plant/Page tour); she wrote all the music on her Island debut, The Burdens of Being Upright; her real mom stars in the "Mother Mother" video; she is a classicallytrained violinist who's played music daily since she was 9 years old; she's only been performing rock music for a few years and most of all — she's a riveting performer.

Bonham had strategically planned to introduce herself and her music slowly, over a long period of time. Oh well. The single, "Mother Mother," not only tops the radio and video charts, it's inducing people to open their wallets at retail stores and concert halls as well. The album is going up the SoundScan chart weekly and was at No. 55 last week.

Bonham told POLLSTAR she spent many hours with her manager, Scott McGhee of McGhee Entertainment, chatting about how to avoid the risks of early overexposure. Bonham and McGhee encouraged the record company to hold back on a lot of promotion for the release. "We were not going to cram ["Mother Mother"] down your throat and I was psyched for that because I knew that it would go slow," Bonham said. "But then — boom it kinda went fast, out from under me."

Bonham, booked by Rick Roskin at CAA, has been on the road supporting The Burdens of Being Upright since April 1st. She and her band have opened for Spacehog and now, they're currently out with Tripping Daisy. They'll join the Everclear and Spacehog shed tour as soon as the Tripping Daisy dates wrap. So far, it's the longest amount of time Bonham has ever spent on the road.

The hectic world of touring almost took its toll on tenderfooted Bonham. She said she immediately did the "typical burn-out thing" at the beginning of the tour. "I hear a lot of people do this where being new to this, they don't pace themselves. I definitely was not pacing myself so I had to take some time off to kind of learn the ropes," Bonham said. "I had to take a crash course."

During that time, Bonham realized just how important touring is to the long-term development of a career. "I'm actually even watching the stats, as they say, which I swore I'd never do because it's so far from the music," she said. "But it's really interesting to see; you play in a town and you see the next day how many records are sold in that area. That's interesting and [an increase in sales] proves to me that touring is very important."

Bonham believes touring provides the audience with an up-close look at the person on the stage and their music. "It gives people a taste of what you're all about," she said. "Right now, they've got a very limited view of what Tracy Bonham and the whole experience is about. And especially with a video that's out there a lot, people still don't know exactly what I'm all about. It's still new so I think it's good to actually get out there and let people know. And they feel closer to you [when they see you live]. It sets a good vibe."

Allowing fans to experience one of her live performances is vital to Bonham. In fact, if there was only one thing she'd like people to know, it would be that "we have a good live act." That, (in addition to the fact that she writes all her own music), is key. "I don't need to let everyone know my deepest darkest secrets."

Life, today, is good for Tracy Bonham. But there are some pitfalls and frustrations that come with success. For instance, like many talented artists today, she is getting compared to those coming before her, specifically Liz Phair and another singer that belts it out with conviction - Alanis Morissette. "I get a few comparisons to people I hadn't even heard of until last year and it has nothing to do with my music. That is very frustrating."

Bonham is also being labeled "the next angry young woman." "[They say] I'm following right behind Alanis's footsteps." Then, laughing at the irony she added, "And God that pisses me off. Now I'm angry! They're makin' me angry!" However, she understands where the comparisons come from. "I think nowadays, everyone is going to be considered ripping off Alanis because Alanis is so huge. It's like everyone has Alanis on the brain and since she is so huge, [people think] everyone else is ripping her off."

Bonham said part of the problem comes from being a woman who strongly expresses her feelings. She said the same happens to powerful women in any business. "They're automatically called a bitch if they know what they want and they express their feelings in a manner that's kind of stern. They're still being put into that category and it sucks. If we speak our mind ... if it's not soft and fluffy and furry and cute, then I think people don't know how to categorize it and they immediately say it's anger. And that's very simple of them to be doing that, isn't it? It's almost like denial. They don't want to hear it.'

Despite the obvious frustration, Bonham deals well with the minor pitfalls of making her living in the music business. Like she says in her single: "I'm hungry. I'm dirty. I'm losing my mind. EVERYTHING'S FINE! I'm freezing. I'm starving. I'm bleeding to death. EVERYTHING'S FINE!★

UK NEWS

- REGULAR MUSIC, the Scottish promoter of OASIS' Loch Lomond concerts, has dismissed stories of licensing problems for the August 3-4 gigs as a "storm in a teacup." Ever eager for more Oasis column inches, British newspapers have reported that local residents are opposed to the shows and are appealing to higher authorities to stop the concerts taking place. Locals are reported as saying that they do not want the picturesque site invaded by rowdy Oasis fans and certain individuals are turning the issue into a political hot potato. Although the West Dunbartonshire County Council has a ready given its approval in principal, the final decision may rest with Scottish Secretary, Michael Forsyth. He is faced with alienating his voters in the area, or 80,000 Scottish Oasis fans. Speaking to POLLSTAR, Mark Mackie at Regular said: "The whole thing is a storm in a teacup. Three different council meetings have passed the proposals and we have been talking to the council since last November. We have done everything by the book and the council thinks we have acted very honourably." Mackie is confident that the final decision will go in the promoter's favour.
- Meanwhile, down south, the BRIXTON ACADEMY in London ran into licensing problems less than a week before the anarchic alternative circus. ARCHAOS arrived for 12 shows, promoted by the venue itself. Lambeth Council turned down the show license, outraged, not by the potential health and safety dangers of motorbike stunts and flame throwing, but by the total nudity of some performers. Calling up the same piece of legislation used by Westminster Council when there were calls to ban Fem2Fem at the London Astoria last year, Lambeth told Simon Parkes at the Academy: "Any entertainment containing nudity would require the premises to be licensed as a sex establishment." Parkes had taken health and safety officers to Paris for a preview of the show before it came to Brixton, because he recognised there might be problems. But he told POLLSTAR that he was surprised that the council could not see beyond the nudity and appreciate that an estimated 40,000 people will bring business to Brixton while Archaos is on. A license has been granted with the proviso that nude performers will wear underbants - with genitalia painted onto them. In addition to this artistic modification, some changes also had to be made to the venue to meet licensing requirements. Parkes told POLLSTAR: "The add-on modifications to mee; the laws totalled £5,000 and this has cancelled out the profit on three out of the 12 nights. It's not a hugely profitable venture for us, but it's a quiet time for us because of the festivals and good in terms of publicity for the Academy."
- Promoter-manager MEL BUSH says he was inundated with enquiries from keen US agents after violinist VANESSA MAE was featured as POLLSTAR's hctstar of the week. Bush has since appointed Christopher Dalston at CAA as her agent for North America.
- Andrew Zweck has teamed up with Jeff Allen of Sensible Music and Dave Hodson of Classical Productions to form SENSIBLE EVENTS. The new company will handle event management and production services for music and corporate events, trade shows, conferences and exhibitions. Current projects include Michael Flateley's "Lord of The Dance" show, Levi's festival hospitality, an advertising awards event and a snowboarding exhibition. Zweck, who quit Harvey Goldsmith's to go solo back in February has been planning the new venture for some time. "Business is booming, he said. "To combine resources with Jeff Allen and Dave Hodson is a necessary and natural progression and will allow us to give first class expertise and service to an even wider range of clients." Sensible Events is part of the Sensible Music Group, which includes recording studios, video, PA and backline hire.
- The ROYAL ALBERT HALL has scooped £40 million of lottery funding which will contribute to a £58 million refurbishment programme over the next few years. The key areas targeted for improvement are the public and promoter facilities and the acoustics of the venue. Plans include an underground load-in area to make the turn-around time between shows faster and smoother and the acoustics, last refurbished in the '60s, will also be improved. It is hoped that the improvements will allow the venue to increase the number of rock and pop shows with the annual quota of event days due to go up to around 340 per year following the refurbishments.
- PATTI SMITH will tour Europe for the first time since the late 1970s following the release of her new album, Gone Again in June. The tour has been booked by Andy Woolliscroft at Primary Talent, who confesses that

- she is an all-time hero of his and he last saw her as a punter when she headlined the Reading Festival in 1978. The tour takes place in July and August and Smith will play a mixture of standard theatres and outdoor venues including some spectacular ancient Roman amphitheatres in Southern Europe and a couple of French castles. "Patti Smith is a rock icon and therefore I felt she should play venues and theatres that reflect that," Woolliscroft told POLLSTAR." Smith will be in London on June 3, for a showcase gig at The Serpentine Gallery, which plays host to modern art more regularly than it does modern music.... Woolliscroft has also recently signed the DEEP BLUE SOMETHING who make their UK debut at the Splash club on July 1. He has also taken on RON SEXSMITH.
- GLORIA ESTEFAN has announced her first UK tour in five years. The "Evolution" tour hits UK shores in November for seven arena shows promoted by Kennedy Street. Her Destiny album will be released here June 3.

AUSTRALIAN NEWS

- JETHRO TULL were forced to cancel part of their Australian tour and the European leg that was to have followed. Vocalist-flautist Ian Anderson fell and hurt his leg while performing in Lima, Peru, about nine weeks ago, according to a spokesperson for promoter Paul Dainty and as of May 20 was in hospital in Sydney. Tull performed one show in Canberra and one at Sydnev's State Theatre but on that night Anderson was feeling "very unwell" and doctors treating him said "he never should have come" to Australia. All tickets are being refunded with no news of rescheduled dates.
- The Australian MUSIC MANAGERS' Forum (AMMF) is still extremely concerned about the aftermath of an agreement signed last September between themselves and the PROMOTERS' ASSOCIATION (the EIEA). The "Memorandum Of Understanding" had an essential intent: "To enhance the Australian contemporary music industry by encouraging the employment of Australian contemporary musical performers at each live performance by touring international contemporary musical performers and to allow them appropriate publicity, promotion and presentation opportunities." Among other things the statement said there was agreement that: (1) The name of the Australian performer/s to appear in all advertising, publicity and promotional material, media announcements and program information regarding the tour issued by the tour presenter. The tour presenter shall encourage co-presenting media to acknowledge and promote the Australian musical performer/s participating in the tour. (2) The Australian performer/s to be announced at the time that the primary promotional campaign for a tour is commenced. (3) Both parties will acknowledge and publicise this memorandum both within Australia and overseas. A release on May 16 from the AMMF states that "While we obviously agree to the principles involved here, many overseas acts are still appearing without a local support or are not naming the support until the advertising benefits have passed by."
- On May 15, TINA ARENA was once again honoured when she was named entertainer of the year at the 21st annual Variety Club Heart awards held at the Hilton Hotel in Sydney. In her absence the award was accepted by Peter Karpin, Sony Music's general manager, A&R.
- Two of Australia's most acclaimed indie labels rooART RECORDS and SHOCK MUSIC GROUP - announced a major deal at the recent MIDEM ASIA conference in Hong Kong which will see them form a strong team for the development and distribution of Australian artists on the home turf and throughout overseas territories. Both born eight years ago, their growth has been phenomenal, and now rooArt has left its major label distributor, Warner Music, to take advantage of Shock's national network & global exporting. "We're not just committed together to Australian music - we're obsessed with it," stated rooArt and MMA Music Chairman C.M. Murphy in Sydney on May 17. While rooArt has nurtured a 100% Australian roster of talent since starting with PolyGram almost a decade back, Shock has emerged as a major force in Australian music distribution as well as being the country's top music exporter.
- On May 17, representatives from the INDEPENDENT MUSIC Industry, including Gary Morris (manager of Midnight Oil), Sebastian Chase (Phantom Records/AIR), Sarah Longhurst (manager of Pollyana), Peter Chellew

Just In Case Elvis Wanted A Doobie

Lynyrd Skynyrd and The Doobie Brothers rocked the Tupelo Coliseum May 14th with the first indoor show on their "Otta the Hole" tour. Being in Tupelo brought out the Elvis in everyone. In fact, The Doobie Brothers left two tickets at the will call window for Elvis Presley (just in case.) Pictured sporting their Elvis shades are The Doobie Brothers and (at far right) the Coliseum's Betty Baxter and Michael Marion.

The Worm And His Merch Blues

Fanatix Apparel Inc., which markets T-shirts printed with full upper-body tattoos based on famous musicians, may have stepped over the line when it added Chicago Bulls' Dennis Rodman to its inventory line-up. Rodman said the New Jersey-based company is unfairly profiting by using his customized body art on a shirt. A federal judge has temporarily barred Fanatix from marketing the shirt. A hearing is set for May 28th. Fanatix President Mickey Goldschmidt said his shirts are only "loosely based" on images from the basketball star. Artists who have had their tattoos printed on Fanatix Apparel include Henry Rollins, Billy Joe Armstrong, Anthony Kiedis, Flea and the late Shannon Hoon.

Electric Endowments

Electric Factory Concerts raised more than $60,000 for Philadelphia charities from their 7th Annual Rock and Roll Auction and ticket sales. Among the organizations to benefit from EFC's generosity are the Philadelphia Zoo Renewal Fund, Music In Our Schools, Malvern Institute and the Variety Club. EFC also donated $12,000 last year to the Philadelphia public school system. Additionally, the promoter continues to donate 25 cents from every ticket sold to national and local charities including the Bobby Brooks Foundation, Kristen Ann Carr Fund, Settlement School and Nordiff Robbins Music Therapy. EFC's Larry Magid and Allen Spivak have a long philanthropic history. Of their charitable efforts, the highlight was 1985's Live Aid show, for which they served as the American producers.

Taxing Problems At Paisley Park

The Artist Formerly Known As Prince has filed a tax appeal claiming his Paisley Park studios have been valued too high for tax purposes. Paisley Park is valued at $5.02 million and pays about $330,000 a year in property taxes, which the Purple One contends is too much. His attorneys claim the property has been unfairly and unequally assessed. The singer wants the assessed value reduced by 20 percent, which would cost the city of Chanhassen, Minn., about $75,000 a year in lost income from property taxes, a television report said. The City Council voted to spend at least $40,000 to fight the revaluation.

Guitar Serenade At Irving Plaza

Thompson (in hat) kicks-off a tour with Joan Armatrading June 23rd in Philadelphia.

NARAS voted to recognize the increased importance of albums over singles at the Grammy Awards. The trustees also voted to acknowledge the growth of the worldwide Latin music market. To do so, the record of the year category will include album tracks as well as commercially released singles. The NARAS board voted to establish a Latin Recording Academy covering the Spanishspeaking world as well. Additionally, it will rename the Mexican American performance Grammy category to Mexican American/tejano, recognizing the growth in popularity of the Texas-originated sound dominating the Latin charts..... The Country Music Hall of Fame is scheduled to move from Music Row to the downtown Nashville area by the end of the decade. The Music City landmark will relocate near the new Nashville Arena and will be one of the anchors of the 17-acre Gateway Partnership development. Merchants on Music Row are worried the move will cost them millions in tourist revenue and may harken the end of Music Row. Country Music Foundation Director Bill Ivey said the existing Hall of Fame site will become a recording technology museum called Music Row Center..... The 9:30 Club is readying to promote concerts at Fletcher's nightclub in Baltimore. Fletcher's is the 9:30 Club offshoot that replaces Atlantis, the sidestage which did not move with the 9:30 Club to its plusher digs late last year. according to the lawsuit filed April 23rd in Los Angeles Superior Court. The suit alleges that Taylor made an oral agreement with David Crosby, Stephen Stills, Graham Nash and Neil Young in 1969. Taylor has received some royalty payments but claims the money stopped around the time his 1994 autobiography, Prisoner of Woodstock, was published. The suit alleges the CSN&Y members were unhappy with the way they were portrayed in the book. It also claims the band members took advantage of Taylor's bad health and financial woes to keep from making royalty payments. Taylor underwent a liver transplant in 1990 after CSN&Y took part in a show to raise funds for the operation.

Where's The Bonus?

The Walt Disney Co. has filed legal documents in response to former Disney Studios honcho Jeffrey Katzenberg's breach of contract lawsuit. Katzenberg claims Disney owes him a $250 million bonus based on a 2 percent share of the studio's profits from movies or TV shows produced or acquired during his tenure. After Katzenberg left Disney in 1993, the studio released "Pocahontas" and reaped big bucks from "The Lion King" and "Beauty And The Beast," which were made under his tenure. However, Disney has fired back, stating Katzenberg knows he is not entitled to the bonus money. Disney attorneys said May 18th that Katzenberg's renegotiated 1988 contract states the bonus would be revoked if he left before the contract ended in 1996..... MCA Inc. CEO Frank Biondi Jr., who was fired as chief executive of Viacom in January, will reportedly be paid $2.97 million in salary and as much as $10.7 in bonuses as part of his Viacom employment agreement. Biondi will get options for 1 million Class B Viacom shares and $1.8 million in deferred compensations, according to published reports. Viacom will also reimburse Biondi $4,325 for a security system at his home in Martha's Vineyard.

Jackson Family Lawsuits

Tito Jackson has filed a lawsuit against the boyfriend of his exwife, Delores Jackson, accusing him of drowning Ms Jackson in her swimming pool in 1994. Jackson is joined in the suit by his and his ex-wife's sons, Tariano, Taryll and Tito Joe. The suit seeks unspecified damages from Donald J. Bohana who, at the time of the death, told authorities he had been swimming with Ms Jackson on the night she died. He said he had briefly left the pool and when he returned, Ms Jackson's body was at the bottom. Ms Jackson died of "asphyxia due to drowning, alcohol intake and blunt force traumatic injuries" and the county coroner's office listed the death as suspicious. No one has been charged in her death. Ms Jackson's family contends Bohana killed her because she wouldn't bail him out of financial trouble. Bohana had recently filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection and owed creditors more than $800,000, according to court documents..... A trial date has been set for the lawsuit blaming the Jackson family for the failure of the "Jackson Family Honors" television special. The case will go to trial July 22nd to decide if the show's producer, Smith-Hemion Productions, should be paid $1.6 million in damages. Most of the related claims against the Jacksons were dropped last month and family attorney R. Brian Oxman said he plans to file a motion asking that the case be dismissed.

Johnny "Guitar" Watson, 61, died of a heart attack while performing in a Yokohama, Japan, nightclub May 17th. Watson's provocative R&B sound and his over-the-top performances influenced many artists, including Jimi Hendrix and Frank Zappa. Watson's career was benefiting from renewed interest by younger artists; rappers Ice Cube and Snoop Doggy Dogg used some of his recordings in their music. Watson had a string of funk-oriented hit albums in the '70s. In 1995, his album Bow Wow was nominated for a best contemporary blues collection Grammy. Watson received a Pioneer Award from the Rhythm & Blues Foundation last March. During his five-decade career, Watson toured with the Olympics, Little Richard, Sam Cooke, Herb Alpert and George Duke..... Kevin Gilbert, 29, who won acclaim for co-writing Sheryl Crow's "Leaving Las Vegas" and "All I Wanna Do," was found dead at his Eagle Rock, Calif., home May 18th. Cause of death was ruled accidental asphyxiation pending autopsy reports. Gilbert's band Toy Matinee released a CD on Reprise in 1990. He also contributed to work by Madonna, Michael Jackson and Eddie Money. Gilbert had been recording for PRA Records.

With deepest sorrow, we note the passing of Walter Hyatt, who was aboard ValuJet flight 592 which crashed in the Florida Everglades May 11th. Walter will be remembered as much for his warmth, gentleness and giving spirit as for his lovely, intelligent music. As an agency, we were privileged to represent Walter and even more privileged to have had him as a friend. Walter is survived by his wife Heidi, six-year-old son Taylor and daughters Rose Evelyn, nine months old, and Haley, 20. A memorial fund for Walter's family has been established. Contributions may be sent to: Walter Hyatt Fund, Second Presbyterian Church, 3511 Belmont Boulevard, Nashville, TN 37215.

Between The Dates

- LOLLAPALOOZA '96 is introducing a special guest slot for the main stage this year. The position will be used to feature artists as diverse as Waylon Jennings is from Wu Tang Clan. Each special guest artist will join the tour for only a few dates. Other special guest artists include the Cocteau Twins, Devo, Rage Against The Machine and Cheap Trick.
- The spirit of THE GRATEFUL DEAD will be evident at the upcoming 1996 Olympics in Atlantic City. Drummer Mickey Hart, along with composer Philip Glass, percussionist Zakir Hussain and Giovanni Hidalgo, has created a percussion piece to be performed during the opening ceremony. The production will feature 100 Atlanta-area percussionists. "Mass drums joined together create a glorious sound of victory and triumph and character," said Hart, who will not be performing at the ceremony, but will be touring as a member of "The Furthur Festival" along with fellow former Grateful Dead member Bob Weir. In other Dead/Olympic News: The LITHUANIAN OLYMPIC BASKETBALL TEAM last week unveiled tie-dyed uniforms complete with the Dead's signature skull dotting the i's in the nation's name on the front, and on the upper right shoulder is Jerry Garcia's handprint, with the middle finger missing representing the finger Garcia used to play the guitar. The Dead - Lithuania connection started in 1992 when Donn Nelson, assistant coach of both the Lithuanian team and the NBA's Phoenix Suns, and Lithuanian team member Sarunas Marciulionis, who was playing with the Golden State Warriors at the time, met the band when their paths crossed in Detroit. The team from Lithuania, which had just become an independent country, wasn't sure it could come up with the funds to go to the Barcelona 1992 Olympics. After their appeal to the Dead's charity arm, the Rex Foundation, the band responded by donating not only money, but tie-dyed warmups and T-shirts. After the '92 Olympics, the Warriors marketed the warmups, raising nearly $250,000 for a Lithuanian children's charity.
- You can scratch Madison, Wisconsin's PARAMOUNT MUSIC HALL from future routings. A press release issued by club owner/managers Gunton / Taylor Management, stated that the city cut the capacity of the Paramount by 200 and "put into effect a security plan that was intimidating to the patrons and financially unbearable to the club." Throughout the years the club had hosted such acts as Cheap Trick, Das EFX, The Fugees, Young Dubliners and Tracy Bonham.
- YOKO ONO can still stir up a controversy. During a performance at New York's Irving Plaza, John Lennon's 63-yearold widow was playing with her son Sean and his band IMA. While playing the Beatles song "Julia," Ono tore pages from a Bible and scattered them into the crowd. Joseph Zwilling, spokesperson for the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York, called the action "inappropriate." "I am sorry. I did not mean to offend them by distributing the words of God," Ono said.
- No, you're not having a flashback. There are definitely a lot of acts from the 1970's on the road this season. From the fullmakeup KISS reunion to packages featuring Black Oak Arkansas and Foghat, one might wonder if there are any bands left from two decades back that haven't yet hit the reunion/comeback road. The latest entry for "Boomer Summer" is GRAND FUNK RAILROAD. Though the Mark Farner, Mel Schacher and Don Brewer reunion may have been overshadowed by the guys wearing the makeup, GFR was definitely one of the hottest acts in the early 70's, selling over 20 million albums and breaking box office records from 1970 to 1976. Plus in 1971 the band broke the Beatles record for selling out Shea Stadium - two shows in 48 hours. You'll find the first set of dates for GFR in this week's Route Book.
- Before IVAN NEVILLE goes on tour later this summer, he will enjoy a working vacation as keyboardist for the SPIN DOCTORS summer tour. It's not the first time that Aaron Neville's son has played in someone else's band. At one time he was a member of Keith Richards' X-Pensive Winos.

(FBi radio) and Richard Vidler (Troy Horse Records) met at the offices of AUSMUSIC NSW to comment on a draft discussion paper that is being prepared by AUSMUSIC which outlined the most important areas of need for the Australian Independent Music Industry. This report, being prepared by Sue Gillard, general manager for AUSMUSIC, in collaboration with the industry, will be presented in late May to the Federal Government as a basis to build strategies designed to assist in the growth of small businesses within the domestic music industry.

It has been announced that TESSA MORRIS has left her position as national promotions manager at EMI to take up the role of director of media, Northern Region at BMG..... Former Sony Music promotions/ publicity person PENNY ROWLANDS has moved to Virgin Records to take up the position of national publicity director. This was formerly Wendy Aldridge's gig, but became vacant when she moved up the corporate ladder..... Senior PolyGram entertainment executive TIM PRESCOTT will be joining BMG as managing director, labels group, responsible for all front-line marketing, A&R and label staff for BMG's international and local music repertoire - including the RCA and Arista labels..... ROLAND McADAM has been appointed to the position of national promotions and publicity manager for RooArt while MARYANN SULIC joins the company as national retail marketing manager.

In first major decision by Arts Minister, Senator Richard Alston, the Commonwealth funding of $1.2 million to AUSMUSIC, the industry body set up in 1988 to promote the contemporary music industry, has been cut. On May 17 Alston's office confirmed that a letter had gone to AUSMUSIC's chair, John Brown, advising that funding would not be renewed for the 1996-97 financial year and saying that the current budgetary climate required measures to reduce Government expenditure. AUSMUSIC's executive director, Pete Steedman denied the cut would force AUSMUSIC to close, but said a board meeting would be held immediately to work out "a strategy for survival. It might mean letting the seven AUSMUSIC State offices go, so we wouldn't have a national network," Steedman said. The move would hurt three areas targeted by the Coalition Government: youth, small business and the regions.

- Alright, alright already...several people have left messages, e-mail, facsimiles and transcendental thought waves about my reference a couple of weeks ago to the "VLHISS" by Gersh at VARI*LITE. Down boys... honest, it isn't a top secret unit in R&D at Vari*lite. ROBERT GERSHENFELD at Vari*lite in Dallas wrote an article several years ago outlining the "steam leko." Hey, I thought it was clever but then again I tend to be obtuse.
- O BRITANNIA ROW is out with M-PEOPLE in the UK with FOH RAY FURZE and monitor man BILLY ELLISON. They also have sound out on THE CURE through the end of the year with FOH JON LEMON and monitor man BRYAN OLSON.
- GREG CLASSEN is LD for GIN BLOSSOMS, and Bits is that "Bits" or "Mr. Bits"— alter ego RUSSELL LYONS is all around lighting guy. JOHN LOBEL (an artsy kind of guy) says, "It is a great show... an asymmetrical ground-supported rig that is just right for the band."
- O LIGHT AND SOUND DESIGN is out with the Velvet Fog of rock 'n' roll, BRYAN ADAMS. The set was designed by WILLIE WILLIAMS. Production manager is VALDIS DAUKSTS, board op is DALE DOUCETTE, Icon op is MARK CUNIFFE and crew chief is IAN DOBSON.
- JASON KELLEY has recently been appointed general manager of BANDIT LITES' Film & Video department which is keeping rather busy with a number of projects including BEN WILDMAN as LD on both "WWF Wrestlemania XII" and the "Slammies Live TV Awards." They also have LD JASON ROBINSON doing some GMC truck commercials and producer MEL STUART on "Jesse's Girl." Mr. Kelley has an extensive background in television and should do very well.
- Bandit also has a nice little roster of tours out right now including GARTH BROOKS with LD Dave "GIG" BUTZLER. They're doing BILLY RAY CYRUS with LD JESPER LUTH and those not one-hit wonders HOOTIE & THE BLOWFISH with LD JEFF CRANFILL. Oh yeah, and HAN HENZE is still out with WYNONNA.
- MARTIN CONNOLLY reports in from the other side of the pond at CAPITAL SOUND HIRE LTD. They are "Gearing" up for "The Festival of the Sea" this week, celebrating all things of a maritime nature... 1,000 different vessels and a vast variety of acts with everything from reggae to classical to pop according to Mr. Connolly. Sounds like a blast, makes you want to pack your dinghy and head for the Thames.
- Also related to Capital, it seems that the coaches of the Scottish Claymores who play American football for the U.K.'s version of the NFL asked for the sound system to be turned down because the players couldn't hear their instructions..." I said 'Punt!' not 'Punk!"
- Soo-o... who's going to handle production for TIMOTHY LEARY's cyber-suicide live on the Internet? Sound by Jack Kervorkian? Lights by LSD? Whadayathink? Dr. Tim's home page at www.leary.com shows a list of his daily intake of legal, prescription, and illicit drugs. Interestingly enough, he hasn't cut back on the pot or cocaine or funny pills but he has limited himself to half a cup of coffee; it seems he is sensitive to caffeine.
- Okay you guys, my OLYMPIC NOTES are trickling in keep them coming. My impression so far is that any band with thoughts of starting a tour in July is probably going to end up having to rent bull horns and questionable spares. You should see the list of stuff going to Atlanta. My suggestion, wait until after the closing ceremonies, take a hiatus and watch the tube.
- QUOTE OF THE WEEK: You know that you've been on the road too long when the production manager is booking everyone's flights for home but your "home" is listed as TBA.
