Walking In Memphis

Marilyn Manson walked off stage without warning after playing just 45 minutes at Mid-South Coliseum in Memphis April 8th, leaving the venue full of upset kids who wouldn't exit the building. Coliseum managing director Beth Wade told POLLSTAR the band was expected to play at least another 30 minutes when it stopped in the middle of a song and left the stage. The road crew immediately started to strike the band gear. She said the promoter had to pressure the band to turn the PA back on to announce that the show was over. "They started booing and throwing things, at that point," Wade said. After a second announcement, the audience still wouldn't leave. "They were so mad. They wanted their money back. They wanted an explanation," Wade said. But they, nor she, got an explanation of why Manson ended early. Afraid of a potential riot, Wade immediately called on venue security to lock open all lobby doors so angry fans wouldn't kick out the glass as they left. Then she and the building's event staff starting working the floor and talking to kids. "We gave out the agent's address and said, 'Contact him with your complaints,'" Wade said. "I don't think some of them would have left if we hadn't given them some resolution, which was to contact the agent. They had to have something that they could feel they could be proactive about." She said there was a crazy rumor that someone threw a T-shirt on stage that said something about God and it touched Manson's arm, draining him of all his energy and stopping the performance. Manson agent Alex Kochan of Artists & Audience told POLLSTAR the band cut its show short because of technical problems. "Some groups do as little as 30 minutes sometimes and it doesn't seem to make any newspapers. It doesn't register on anybody's map," Kochan said. "That it's Marilyn Manson, I think there's some other angle on this." He said the band actually had to cancel its April 11th show in Jackson, Miss., to sort out the technical problems. And as for the shortened Memphis concert, Kochan said there may have been some grumbling amongst audience members, but the kids left in an orderly manner without incident. "We have no irate fans calling this office," he said. Wade said she found it ironic that the facility spent much time and effort in advance of the show making sure police weren't going to pull the plug on Manson. "And the identical situation we were trying to prevent, which was the show being stopped, happened anyway, really putting us into a very difficult situation with a potential riot on our hands." Wade said she was surprised by her problems with the band because she has heard such positive things about Marilyn Manson from other building managers. For safety reasons, she said the band probably won't be welcomed back at Mid-South Coliseum. At press time, Wade was waiting for a call from the show's co-promoters, Cellar Door and Pace, to try and resolve the issue for Manson fans who feel they were short changed "even if it's an autograph I can send out or something to these kids that want something," she said.

Former Club Owner Charged With Tax Evasion

Larry Hurwitz, the former owner of the defunct Starry Night nightclub in Portland, Ore., was charged with tax evasion February 19th. The Oregonian newspaper reports that authorities are expected to watch the case closely to see whether it yields any information about the 1990 disappearance of one of Hurwitz's former employees, Tim Moreau. Portland police continue to consider Hurwitz a "person of interest" in Moreau's disappearance, which is being investigated as a homicide, the paper said. Moreau disappeared a few days after Hurwitz said he discovered Moreau was involved in a ticket counterfeiting scheme at the Starry Night. A prosecutor handling the Moreau case said the ticket scheme is connected to the homicide investigation and it might be involved in the tax case as well. Hurwitz is the last person known to have seen Moreau before he disappeared in January 1990. Hurwitz told police he confronted Moreau after employees discovered hundreds of counterfeit tickets for a John Lee Hooker concert. Hurwitz maintains that he and Moreau left the club January 23, 1990, at the same time in separate cars. Hurwitz told police he lost Moreau at a traffic light. Moreau's car was found February 2nd at Portland International Airport but police could find no evidence that Moreau had been a passenger on any departing flight. Moreau was never seen again. His parents, Michael and Penny Moreau, are trying to assist in the investigation of their son's disappearance. They hope the tax case against Hurwitz will spark some new information regarding their son. The Moreaus told POLLSTAR their son called them a few days before he disappeared and said there were some problems at the club and he might have to go to the police. Moreau indicated to his parents that he might have to quit his job, move home and return to college. That was the Moreaus' last communication with their son. The family is offering a $10,000 reward for information leading to an arrest in the homicide investigation. Detective Sgt. Steve Baumgarte told The Oregonian each time the disappearance has been publicized, Portland police receive new information in the Moreau case. Hurwitz is reportedly living in Vietnam and is still involved in the concert business. The federal charges against Hurwitz allege he failed to report income of more than $423,000 for the years 1987 to 1990. Hurwitz's attorney told the paper his client denies any involvement in Moreau's disappearance and also denies any wrongdoing in the tax indictment.

Short Items Of Note

German concert promoter Marcel Avram of Mama Concerts was arrested on suspicion of tax evasion. Avram is suspected of evading $4.8 million in taxes. For more details, see the International News on page 10..... Motley Crue took the stage for its first "reunion" concert, headlining Livestock 1997 in Zephyrhills, Fla. It's been more than five years since Vince Neil performed in concert with Nikki Sixx, Tommy Lee and Mick Mars. The band's set included early hits as well as brand new material that was reportedly well received. Dates for a full-scale Motley Crue tour have yet to be announced..... Drug possession charges against Screaming Trees singer Mark Lanegan have been dropped. Lanegan was arrested and released on bail March 28th in San Francisco..... Beach Boys guitarist Carl Wilson is undergoing chemotherapy and radiation treatment for cancer in his brain and a lung, his publicist said. Doctors believe they identified the cancer early and can get it under control in time for Wilson to perform this summer. The Beach Boys are planning to hit about 16 states during their summer tour with Chicago..... Comps For The Governor

Connecticut Governor John Rowland has been fined $3,919 for accepting comp tickets to shows and upgraded concert seats at the Meadows Music Theatre in Hartford. Connecticut state officials are not allowed to accept gifts worth more than $50 in a year from one individual or organization. Rowland and members of his staff obtained tickets to concerts by Jimmy Buffett, James Taylor, Celine Dion, the Eagles, Reba McEntire and Carly Simon through the venue's lobbyist, James Sandler. The governor's tickets were paid for by members of his staff and friends. The staffers have been ordered to pay $1,922 as reimbursement for the tickets. When attending shows at the Meadows, the governor and his staff were escorted to box seats even though they held tickets for cheaper seats. "I'm not in the habit of arguing with my security people about where to sit," Rowland said. "You've got 15,000 people drinking beer. Maybe there might be concerns about where I sit, especially with some of my budgets and some of my positions on issues." The fines came as part of an ongoing investigation by the state Ethics

Commission. According to the Hartford Courant newspaper, the commission is investigating 15 public officials who may have improperly accepted tickets to the Meadows. The commission earlier levied $250,000 in fines against the venue and Sandler in part for failing to record more than $100,000 in freebies given to public officials.

LRB Entertainment, which comprises the business leaders who are proposing the venue, would have exclusive booking rights. Reyes said most of the people behind LRB are with the Tournament of Roses including Jack French, Patricia French and Mike Ward along with concert producer Robin Winters. MEDESKI MARTIN AND WOOD

There's quite a street buzz developing around instrumental jazz trio Medeski Martin and Wood. It's a scene that's being compared to the cult followings of the Grateful Dead and Phish. Fans are flocking to MMW shows, trading tapes of the live concerts, and discussing it all on the Internet. It's a word-of-mouth phenomenon that's been built solely on touring.

Keyboardist John Medeski, drummer Billy Martin and bassist/guitarist Chris Wood have developed a style of soulful funky jazz that's so unique, critics aren't sure what to call it. Some have ventured to label it as acid jazz, jazz pop, fusion, jam, or just plain groove. The band doesn't really care what its called.

"We don't address that subject. We just make the music," Medeski told POLLSTAR. He said if jazz is defined as certain styles that reference a certain time in American music history, "then we're not jazz. [But] if jazz is a spirit of music that is about improvising and relating to the music of your time, but trying to take it to a different place than the more commercial music, then I think we are playing jazz."

No matter what you call it, the consensus is that MMW is breaking new ground, both in musical style and the way the group approaches its career. From the beginning, the trio attacked its career more like a rock band than a jazz group.

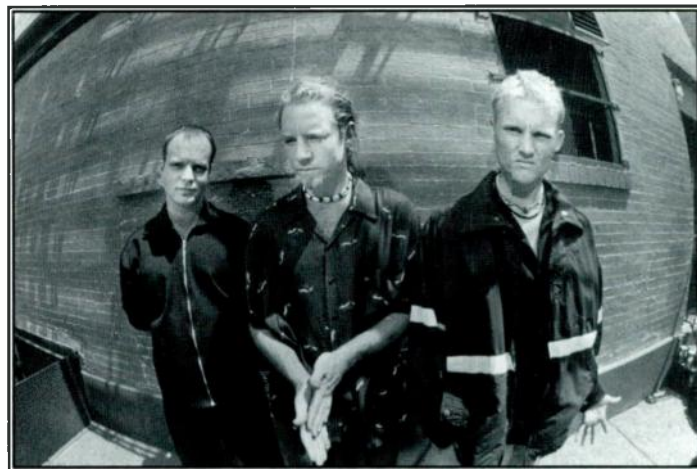

The three players, who have all been called virtuosos on their instruments, joined together in New York about six years ago. "We just got together to play music and we were trying to sort of combine a funkier, more dance groove oriented kind of rhythm section with a jazz aesthetic," Medeski said. MMW decided to record some of that material and put out its own CD.

"Then we just, on a whim, printed up some press kits and sent them out to some clubs," Medeski said. When venues started to respond, the band set out on its first tour. They lost their shirts on that outing but kept on going, building audiences with each return visit to a town. Eventually, the members moved out of their apartments and hit the road full time.

"Billy had a van so we first went out in the van and we ended up staying with people we'd meet at the gigs, staying on their floors. It was total vagabond, gypsy style and it was great," Medeski said. "We brought gas cookers and pots and cooked on the road so, we ate good. And we'd just go out for a couple weeks and we'd have three or four gigs a week so we'd have time off and we'd enjoy the places we were at." The group eventually bought a camper and lived on the road going from campsite to campsite and gig to gig, playing everything from coffeehouses to alternative rock clubs.

In its travels, MMW ended up drawing fans from just about every demographic. "I think we overlap a lot of different categories," Medeski said. "I think pretty much anybody ... who's looking for something a little bit different or stretching out a little bit more than your average commercial music, I think they can appreciate what we're doing. It's not totally inaccessible because we're exploring groove music."

Many are surprised by the band's younger fan base. Medeski said MMW has inspired kids to go out and buy albums by traditional jazz legends. "By hearing us, they took another step further into it. I think that's great. That really makes us happy."

The young, hip audience element has created a loyal cult following for MMW that is fueled by the Internet and tape trading. Though Medeski said tape trading is a strange thing from a business perspective, the band doesn't mind. "Personally, I like to go to a concert and just experience it. I don't want to be taping it," he said. "But if that's what people want to do, and then they take it and they turn on friends to our music, I think the word spreads really fast that way. It's like a whole community, a network of people that trade tapes. And it's their way of communicating and showing what's going on. It really helps spread the word. It helps bring people to the gigs." Medeski said he doesn't think tape trading affects record sales, which is good news for the group's record label, Gramavision/Rykodisc.

Another musician on Gramavision turned the label onto MMW and the company signed the group to a three-album deal. The group's latest release, Shack-man, is the last of those contracted albums. Now, the members must decide whether or not to sign with a major. "It's a big decision. It's not an easy decision, being the independent-minded people that we are," Medeski chuckled. "But there's also a lot of incredible benefits if it works right," he said. "We're gonna make a decision soon."

The making of Shack-man is a good example of the independence MMW requires to do its thing. The group recorded the album in a shack in the remote jungles of Hawaii without the luxuries of electricity, phones or water. But Medeski said they made due. "We'd catch rain water and there's plenty of rain. And we'd use solar power to power our stuff and brought in the generator to help boost our capacity a little bit, you know, to charge the batteries up because we didn't have enough solar cells to do it all that way." He said it took about eight days to record the album. "We couldn't record all day, every day so [we would] record in the morning, let the batteries charge, and then record at night."

The trio has used the Hawaiian jungle shack to practice every winter for the past four years and wanted to capture its magic. "The actual shack itself has an incredible sound to it and we also get into a certain mode when we're there," Medeski said. "There's a certain sound ... that's very raw."

The band just got back from its annual winter voyage to Hawaii and has hit the road for West Coast dates through April then will do East Coast dates opening for Maceo Parker.

Medeski Martin and Wood is booked by Kristin Wallace Booking and managed by Liz Penta of LP Management. ★

Director Ian Coles tells us that the roof system — on its first outing in North America — rose to the occasion. "An all around smooth and comfortable job..." said Coles. The entire roof system covered a 75' x 55' deep area and included eight towers, motors and weatherproof skin and fits in a standard 40' trailer. ● Irish American "artiste" Michael Flatley's "Lord of the Dance" has taken over as the craze of the PBS fund-raisers and the hot ticket to get for a Irish Folk Lore dancing, light and staging extravaganza. The "Lord of the Dance" production is continuing its run in the U.S. after a successful run in the U.K. and Australia with lighting design by Patrick Woodroffe and set design by Jonathan Park. "Dance," which is a little like Martha Graham on speed, has an extensive tour schedule including a stop in Chicago, which is Flatley's home town. The touring production has on board, 23 VL5s and 19 VL6s.

● The Icon has hit the Continent. Dave Keighley, managing director of LSD UK announces the establishment of a new Icon franchise in Switzerland. Powerlight, which is a conventional lighting supplier in Central Europe and is now licensed to provide and service Icons in Austria, Switzerland and Germany. Powerlight is strategically positioned to cater to customers in Italy and France. "The franchise system we are developing is there for two reasons: to support LSD's new and existing clients internationally and to develop into the domestic market, especially as we find a growing demand for Icon products from TV companies," said Keighley. For more information, contact Felix Riva at Powerlight at (41)-61-706-9449 or Chris Adamson, Icon Worldwide at 0121-766-6400.

● Postcards are still trickling in from road personnel who assisted on the Yanni dates at the Taj Mahal. Evidently, the farmers who threatened to torch themselves in protest were compensated; the whole thing was trumped up by local dissident rabble rousers... So there wasn't a crew barbecue but we did hear some interesting stories about road cases and animal transport. Do camels have to keep log books? We're sure Yanni will be fodder for more road tales on his next gig in China. Incidentally, we have a theory that Orca from LSD Nashville and Yanni are one and the same.... We've never seen them in the same room at the same time.

● Hey, sleep is for wimps! The guys over at ProMix provided an enormous sound package for the Christian Life Center's Easter Sunday Service at Nassau Coliseum complete with 1:00 a.m. load-in, 8:00 a.m. rehearsal and 11:00 a.m. six-camera shoot. ProMix designed a system that handled the large venue, covered 270 degrees of the arena and provided live feeds for the six cameras taping the event. ProMix brought in 14 EAW KF860 loudspeakers supplemented by four KF861's and 18 EAW KF850s. Six 850s were flown on each side and the other six were stacked on top of the 18 SB 1000 sub-woofers. The whole thing was powered by Crest amps and mixed on a Yamaha PM 4000. The service was powerful and crystal clear —Hallelujah!

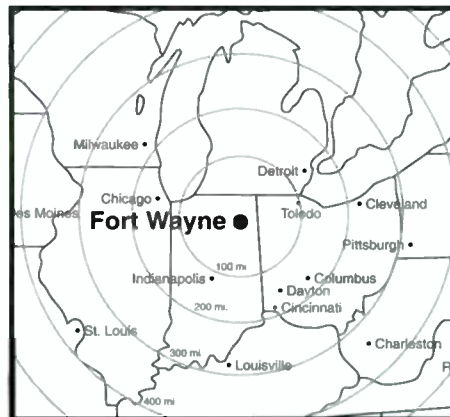

● Meanwhile, in a little Catholic church midway up the San Joaquin Valley, sleepy congregants were blown out of their Easter socks and Father Arnold almost dropped his holy water squirt gun when midway through the two hour Easter vigil, the Varli-Lites were engaged in a sunrise and strobe effect from the tabernacle. A coupla those old Italians thought it was the second coming and were patting themselves down looking for their digitalis. Nice job, Live Light. Mz. Tamra was happy, so the field marshal at Dallas headquarters should be happy, too.

● Newest to the tech support Web sites is audio pro Mackie Designs. You can surf through interesting blurbs, FAQs, product information, technical support and sales at www.mackie.com. So, is like the No. 1 frequently asked question, "What does FAQs stand for?"

● Quote Of The Week: You know you've been on the road too long when you find you're becoming emotionally attached to the electronic voice on your answering machine that says, "You have six new messages."

It's a different twist for music content on the Net as MTV (www.mtv.com) hooks up with INTEL (www.intel.com) to present a new interactive experience utilizing the chip manufacturer's InterCast technology. Last week MTV began InterCast programming two hours daily, while its sister service, M2 launched 24-hour-a-day InterCast programming. What it means is that fans can watch music videos on their computer, while at the same time read current news about the artist, get album release info, or interact with MTV Online, including live polls and chat rooms while receiving "InterCast Jam." "InterCast Jam' on MTV is music for the PC Generation," said Ron Whittier, senior VP and general manager of the Intel Content Group. "This is a compelling example of creative programming for the PC, the receiver of digital broadcasting (DTV) content in the future."

Thirty-two years ago JONI MITCHELL was an unmarried, struggling songwriter and performer when she chose to give her baby up for adoption. Now, thanks to the power of the Net, not only did Mitchell hook up with her daughter, but the famous songstress discovered that she's a grandmother as well. Kilauren Gibb, who learned she was adopted when she was 27, has been searching for her birth mother for years. Information from the Children's Aid Society described her mother as a "successful Canadian folk singer." Last February Gibb saw Joni's Web page, produced by Joni Mitchell mega-fan Wally Breese at www.well.com/user/wallyb/jonihome.html and found 14 points of comparison that led her to believe that she was Mitchell's daughter. Along with Mitchell's famous high cheekbones, Gibb shares her blue eyes, blond hair and an interest in music. Gibb eventually contacted the singer through Steve Macklam, who along with Sam Feldman of S.L. Feldman and Associates manage the singer. Mitchell, who has been contacted in the past by other women claiming to be her daughter, asked to see Gibb's baby pictures. The pics matched the ones Mitchell saved from 32 years ago. Gibb and her 3-year-old son Marlin just completed a 19-day reunion with Mitchell. Feldman told POLLSTAR, "I think it speaks volumes as to how deep the interest and respect for Joni is." Feldman also said that seven TV and film producers had contacted them wanting to do a TV movie-of-the-week or feature film. Feldman also said that there were three book people interested, "but we already have a book."

Not a lot of people bought WEBTV (www.webtv.com), the box that connects to your television and allows you to surf the net via your TV. Estimates are that the company, which includes Microsoft co-founder Paul Allen as one of its original investors, sold about 50,000 boxes since WebTV's introduction late last year. No matter because last week MICROSOFT (www.microsoft.com) bought the entire company, for $425 million. The latest purchase by the 800 pound corporate gorilla from Redmond, Wash., is Microsoft's next step towards merging the computer with the family TV. "Through their efforts. . . we hope to dramatically accelerate the merger of the Internet and television," said Microsoft's senior VP, Craig Mundie, announcing the deal last week at the National Association of Broadcasters convention. Microsoft already had a $5 million stake in the company before last week's acquisition. The game plan is for WebTV to operate as a separate company. While Microsoft predicts that the computer and television will become one in some technical merging of chips and channels, the TV industry isn't quite so sure. Phillip Farmer, president of Harris Corp., one of the biggest makers of broadcasting equipment said, "I think TV is an entertainment medium and the TV in the home will continue to be a separate device."

It's official. Two months ago, the WALT DISNEY COMPANY signed a letter of intent to buy STARWAVE (www.starwave.com), the Seattle

EURO NEWS

United Kingdom

● Tribute Management has gone on sale with its first full-scale event in 18 months. The company will promote a cast of megastars in concert at Wembley Stadium on August 16. "SONGS AND VISIONS, THE CARLSBERG CONCERT" will feature Rod Stewart, Jon Bon Jovi, Seal, kd lang and Steve Winwood performing together and solo, with up to five more artists still to be announced. The event has been designed as a tribute to 40 years of pop music, with the set list starting in 1997 and working backwards to feature 30 songs ranging from Elvis to Oasis. There will be one band working with all the artists, made up of top sessions musicians and the musical director will be Stewart Levine. On the production side, Tribute is bringing together the A-team of Patrick Woodroffe, Mark Fisher and Robbie Williams. It is designed as a one-off musical spectacular, which will be filmed for international broadcast after the event. Tribute is a specialist in this type of event, with credits such as the Mandela shows at Wembley and The Wall to its name, and while it suffered a setback last year when funding for a major project fell through, the company is in full swing again. Carlsberg will have a tailor-made event, which sponsors are now so keen to develop and it fits the traditional slogan perfectly. As Niall O'Keefe, marketing controller for Carlsberg quipped, "... [a unique event with] probably the best artists and probably the best songs, brought to you by probably the best lager in the world."

● While Glastonbury awaits news of its increased capacity, PHOENIX '97 has unveiled its line-up and is now on sale. The Mean Fiddler Organisation has been quick to dispel any initial concerns about the traffic issue which blighted last year's Phoenix festival, stating that seven extra entrances have been added to the site, which should help to prevent the repeat of another gridlock situation. Now five years old, Phoenix is the only four-day camping festival in the UK, with weekend tickets costing £70. Headliners this year are Black Grape, The Charlatans, Jamiroquai and David Bowie, with the rest of the bill featuring Skunk Anansie, The Lightning Seeds, Orbital, Texas, Fun Lovin' Criminals, Warren G, Rollins Band, Republica, Gabrielle, Beth Orton, ABC, Spearhead, Shed Seven and De La Soul among others.

● The COUNTRY MUSIC ASSOCIATION has restructured its UK office following the appointment of DAVID BOWER as UK / Ireland director and the promotion of BOBBI BOYCE to European operations manager. Bower comes to the CMA from Columbia Records where he was marketing director and worked with Mary Chapin Carpenter, Mariah Carey, the Fugees and Kula Shaker, among others. The CMA London office was established in 1982 and the Nashville headquarters has increased its commitment to developing the international profile of the organisation and its artists. CMA executive director Ed Benson said, "Since establishing our UK office... we've watched country music grow significantly in the international marketplace, particularly in the UK and Ireland. To increase momentum, it was imperative that CMA recruit a top executive who can focus on opportunities in these key markets and help advance the careers of globally minded artists."

● BR5-49 have just completed their most extensive European tour to date, including eight dates in the UK and Ireland. Agent/promoter Paul Fenn at Asgard says the Anglo-Irish leg of the tour played clubs ranging from 300-1,000 capacity and was a complete sell-out. "They started over here last June and it's great progress for nine months," he said.

● FUN LOVIN CRIMINALS' drummer Steve Borovini was arrested last week in Leeds on suspicion of making obscene phone calls to a local gym. Borovini was arrested after the sell-out show at Leeds Metropolitan University. after police had traced the obscene phone calls back to his hotel room. He was held overnight and was released without charge, but he received a police caution. The six-week European tour was a complete sell-out and ended on April 10 at the Forum in London. Agent Paul Boswell at Free Trade said the incident won't affect the band's future tour plans in the UK. "He's a New Yorker," said Boswell. "He wanted a sauna at the gym, the woman got snotty and he started mouthing off at her..." The band return to Europe for a festival tour, starting with Glastonbury at the end of June.

● PRIMARY TALENT has added the following artists to its roster Cellophane, Reel Big Fish and Spacemaid.

Germany

● The German concert industry is reeling in shock following the arrest of top promoter MARCEL AVRAM of Mama Concerts on suspicion of TAX EVASION. German media reports say that Avram, who is being held without charge, stands accused of evading taxes totalling eight million Deutschmark ($4.8 million). There has been some speculation that this incident could jeopardise the MICHAEL JACKSON tour, but Mama Concerts has confirmed that all scheduled events will go ahead as planned. NEIL WARNOCK at The Agency has been working with Avram on some of the Jackson dates and has a Johnny Cash and a Kenny G tour of Germany starting this month, promoted through Mama Concerts. Warnock told POLLSTAR, "As I understand it, this is to do with a historic situation... it won't affect artists touring now and in the future. I hope Marcel will be able to resolve the situation as soon as possible." It is widely known that the German tax authorities have been investigating Mama Concerts during the past three years. The DPA news agency states that documents have been seized and that anonymous letters had informed the authorities that the company's taxes were not in order. Sources have revealed that some artists have been issued with retrospective tax bills in respect of the tax department's findings. Reactions in the German music industry have ranged from shock that the situation could not be resolved through negotiation and dismay that the music industry should be treated in this way. Rival promoter Marek Lieberberg Konzertagentur would not comment on the situation. HENNING TOEGEL at Moderne Welt said, "We have to realise that these investigations can happen to all of us." Toegel says the situation has arisen from the tax office waking up to how much money the entertainment business was generating. The investigations into Mama Concerts parallel the investigations into high profile figures of the sports and entertainment industries. Steffi Graf and Boris Becker have both come under the scrutiny of the authorities and the arrest of Avram comes several weeks after Three Tenors promoter, MATTHIAS HOFFMAN, was arrested for the same reason. Hoffman was subsequently released.

● IBD has confirmed the support act for Spooky Ruben's upcoming tour in May as KING COBB STEELIE.

Italy

KISS' only Italian show took place at the Milan Forum in December and promoter Claudio Trotta of Barley Arts (center) made the most of the occasion. Trotta wasn't the only one in a glam-metal mood. Thirty professional makeup artists provided free KISS make-overs for the audience as well.

Denmark

● MICHAEL JACKSON has broken yet another record in the fastest-selling-show stakes. The August 16 show at the 48,000 capacity Paarken

Stadium sold out completely in 92 minutes, reports promoter Erik Thomsen at ET Promotions. That makes it the fastest-selling show of all time in Denmark and the fastest-selling show on the HIStory tour so far. Thomsen is also coordinating Jackson dates in Norway, with Rune Lem at Gunnar Eide and in Estonia, with Lauri Laubre at the IS Music Group. The Oslo show on August 19 sold 18,000 tickets on the first day.

○ ROSILDE (June 26-29) has sold almost half of its 90,000 tickets since the remaining 75,000 went on sale on April 1. Some ticket agencies sold out their initial allocations by noon on the first day and the demand does not seem to be slowing down.

Sweden

○ The LOLLIPOP FESTIVAL goes on sale this week. Headliners are Davie Bowie, Johnny Cash and the Chemical Brothers, but booker Haakan Waxegard says more names will be announced later on. He says that because of the relatively limited number of good headliners this year, it has made the booking very difficult. He says that some agents have upped the artists fees by as much as 500 percent. "Lollipop is not that concerned about the headliners — they cost a lot of money and even with a sell-out crowd you can't make that kind of money back... we are trying to build up a reputation for the festival without relying solely on the headliners." The festival will stick to a 25,000 capacity and there will be a selection of themed club tents and a strong groundswell of talent from the roots, reggae and dance scenes. "I think a lot of festival organisers seem to forget about things like atmosphere, food and facilities," he added.

Norway

○ The ISLE OF CALF festival (June 28-29) went on sale on April 10, announcing David Bowie, Prodigy and Nick Cave as headliners. There will be three more international acts added to the bill, with a strong Norwegian turn-out making up the rest of the line-up, including Bel Canto and the Locomotives. The festival will keep its one-stage format and 25,000 capacity. There has been a festival on the Isle of Calf since 1971, with a break here and there, and promoter Paul Karlsen is probably the only festival organiser to own his own bridge. The temporary bridge remains submerged for most of the year and is set up just for the festival weekend to improve access to the island, which only has one permanent bridge-link to the mainland.

Estonia

○ MICHAEL JACKSON has announced that he will play the Talinn Song Festival ground on August 22. The show goes on sale on April 21, giving local promoter Lauri Laubre at the IS Music Group, a few more weeks to convince the fans that Jackson is actually coming to Estonia. When the show was announced, the level of disbelief was reportedly so high, that Jackson had to film a special promo video to broadcast the announcement. The location has a maximum capacity of 150,000, which will make this concert the biggest on the tour.

France

○ Sony Music Spectacles is currently working on new French pop act AUTOUR DE LUCIE. The band is just coming to the end of its second tour and has a busy live schedule continuing through the summer with another full-scale national tour in September. Jean Hugues Feugeas, head of this specialist Sony department, says he is taking the traditional build-up route through the club circuit, but "it's difficult to break the market with new acts unless you are a Spice Girl or a boy band..." Other national artists in development are Gilles Servat and Carole Laure, with plans for a Deep Forest tour in 1998.

Spain

○ Robert Grima reports that advance ticket sales for FESTIMAD (May 2-3) are up this year. With three weeks to go, Grima says that twice as many tickets have been sold for the 20,000 capacity festival as at the same point in 1996. Recent tours with Pavement, Kula Shaker, the Lemonheads, No Doubt, Ash and Offspring have all sold out.

AUSTRALIAN NEWS

○ The gag doing the rounds is that in the wake of Mushroom's move from Festival to Sony, a senior Festival staffer came up to Mushroom boss MICHAEL GUDINSKI and said, "thanks for stabbing me in the back." Quick as a flash, Gudinski allegedly replied "I didn't stab you in the back. I stabbed you in the front."

○ New Zealand-based Scorpion Entertainment International have announced April dates for American skate-core band NO FUN AT ALL who made their debut Australian tour last year..... Promoter Steve Pav has announced April/May dates for American band BIKINI KILL..... Eighteen months after their last Australian tour DUB WAR return to Australia in April/May for club shows in Melbourne, Brisbane and Perth to coincide with the release of their album.

○ Not only have Mushroom Records been involved with setting JIMMY BARNES up with clothing retailer Just Jeans via his cover version of "Higher And Higher," but they are also now involved with Levi Strauss. Levi's new commercial features a couple of mermaids attempting to remove the jeans off a drowning man. The music, which has been generating quite some interest and demand at retail, is by Jive act SMOKE CITY. The track is called "Underwater Love" and is due out on Mushroom in a couple of weeks with an album to follow late in April.

○ The boards of AMCOS (Australasian Mechanical Copyright Owners Society) and APRA (Australasian Performing Rights Association) have announced agreement on closer ties between the two copyright organisations. APRA is responsible for licensing the broadcast and performance right in musical works. AMCOS licenses the reproduction right. APRA's members are music publishers and composers while AMCOS is a publishers' organisation. The new arrangements, to come into effect in July, will introduce administrative efficiencies and a reduction in red tape. The decision on closer ties effectively takes up recommendations made in a Government sponsored study of copyright collection societies — and parallels similar developments in the United Kingdom. Both APRA and AMCOS remain independent organisations.

○ Over 50 Australian participants have already signed-up for MIDEM ASIA in Hong Kong May 20-23 with over 100 projected to take part from this country. For those wanting to attend the major music marketplace and trade fair event, the deadline for advance registrants to be listed in the Midem Asia Guide is April 18. Submissions for showcase concerts have closed and it looks like at least four Australian bands will be performing. Over 10 key seminars are on tap with a range of speakers and over 200 company and national stands are filling.

Sunset For Pro-Ticket Broker Law In Jersey

The New Jersey law that allowed unlimited surcharges for concert and sports tickets expired April 4th after Governor Christie Whitman opted not to make it permanent. Whitman had signed the law in 1995 suspending surcharge caps for 18 months because ticket brokers claimed profits were too low to make it worth getting into the New Jersey marketplace. The law drew fire from promoter John Scher, Bruce Springsteen and others in the New Jersey music community. The number of ticket brokers in the state soared from four to 60 under the law and the price of tickets sold through brokers reportedly skyrocketed. Whitman could have extended the law but chose not to since a report on the law's performance was not yet available. The old surcharge limit of 20 percent of a ticket's face value or $3 on a ticket costing $15 or less is now back in effect.

Deals, Moves & Changes

Soundgarden broke up last week. In a brief statement, A&M Records said, "After 12 years, the members of Soundgarden (Chris Cornell, Kim Thayil, Ben Shepherd and Matt Cameron) have amicably and mutually decided to disband to pursue other interests. There is no word at this time on any of the members' future plans." Soundgarden released five albums, selling more than 20 million copies worldwide.... Epic Records has entered into a new five-year agreement with Happy Walters' Immortal Entertainment, the home of Korn and Cypress Hill.... The security firm of Anthony Davis & Associates has reorganized, downsized and changed its name to A.D. Entertainment. The company's staff of 500 was cut to approximately 150 employees to focus on a select client base. A.D. Entertainment also has new offices, the main one located in Los Angeles.... After four years as an agency, Lovely Booking has closed its doors. Lovely's Joel Mark accepted a position as director of A&R at Wind-Up Records in New York. Lovely client House of Large Sizes signed with Bull Productions. The rest of Lovely's acts are still Rapke had been a CAA agent for 17 years and handled several top film makers including Robert Zemeckis, Ron Howard, Jerry Bruckheimer, Chris Columbus and Joel Schumacher. The announcement of his departure April 7th sent competing agencies scurrying to strategize on how to steal his clients away from CAA. Rumors have Rapke going into the film business, possibly with Zemeckis and DreamWorks.... Laura Engel has joined the Kraft-Benjamin Agency as a film music agent. Engel most recently managed Oingo Boingo, Danny Elfman, Craig Chaquico, Katey Sagal and others. She will continue to manage Chaquico.

Comedy Accounting Magic

An employee at a Hermosa Beach, Calif., club is under suspicion of stealing $175,000 from the club during a two-year period. The owners of the Hermosa Beach Comedy & Magic Club said Margaret Wood was arrested for the theft and released on bail. The district attorney's office had not filed charges against her, and Wood had not been suspected of embezzling until she came forward when her employers told her they were hiring an auditor. The stolen revenue has meant rough times for the club and its employees. Several top comedians, including Robin Williams, Jay Leno, Jerry Seinfeld, Gary Shandling and Jeff Foxworthy, have performed for free at the club to help keep it open.

A Sexual Spin

Spin magazine and its publisher, Bob Guccione Jr., were ordered to pay $110,000 to a former Spin employee for allowing a sexually hostile work environment to flourish. Staci Bonner was awarded $90,000 for having to work in a hostile environment, $10,000 for Spin's "willful violation" of equal pay laws, and an additional $10,000 in estimated back pay because of the violation. However, the jury rejected Bonner's other claim that Guccione promoted women he was sexually involved with while discriminating against others. The jury also rejected Bonner's claim of intentional infliction of emotional distress and working conditions that forced her to resign.

MONTEREY ARTISTS: Bobby Cudd

With a new album out April 15th and their hot single, "Six Days on the Road," cruising up the charts, Sawyer Brown is back out on the road after a well deserved break from touring. // Toby Keith will be delivering his fifth album, a project he is co-producing with James Stroud, later this summer. Expect his first single to hit radio in June. Keith is currently at home in Oklahoma where he is anxiously awaiting the delivery of his third child due around April 14th. // Just returning from a tour of the UK and Ireland, Gretchen Peters played several shows in support of her critically acclaimed Secret of Life album. The album was recently released in Europe on the U.K.'s Curb/Hit label. Her London show was particularly exciting as the capacity crowd at the Borderline Club was treated to a surprise appearance by Bryan Adams, who sat in with Gretchen performing a few of the songs they have co-written together. // Chris LeDoux will be rockin' through Texas for six dates of what has become an annual spring trip for him and his crew. LeDoux is also finishing up his eighth Capitol album with his first live project, Loud, set for a June release. May promises to be a busy month for LeDoux as he sees his third son graduate from high school. He will also walk his mother down the aisle as she marries a man she dated 54 years ago. // It's cross-country and overseas for Kim Richey, who will make an East Coast run before flying to her next stop in Europe. While overseas, she will perform a few dates with Wilco. Shortly after returning to the U.S., Kim will then hit the road for a West Coast run. // The Delevantes have inked a record deal with Capitol and are currently in the process of completing their debut album, scheduled to be released July 15th. The group just returned from a six-and-a-half week European tour encompassing over 30 cities, and they recently played to a sold-out crowd at Irving Plaza in NYC. A tour is coming together for dates beginning in late summer and running throughout the fall and winter. // After almost three years of no touring, The Sweethearts of the Rodeo are back and ready to embark on a 30-plus-date tour with the Statler Brothers in support of their new album, Beautiful Lies. The duo will also play the Big Valley Jamboree on August 1st.

ERA: Elizabeth Rush

Roger McGuinn is touring in support of Live From Mars, his new CD for Hollywood Records. We are looking to fill dates in the Midwest between July 21-27, far Midwest August 11-12, Southwest and Southern California August 18-26 and Northwest through Labor Day. // Leon Redbone is available in the Midwest May 20th or 25th and July 24th or 27th. September 23-26 is available for more Southeast shows. // Courtney Pine is on tour with new product on Verve mid-September through mid-October in the U.S. beginning in the Southeast and ending in the Northwest. Shortly thereafter, he will be touring in Japan and Australia with dates still available in the Pacific Rim territories. // Frances Black still has an available date in the Midwest June 8th or 9th and 9th or 12th available for another East Coast play. The Sky Road will be released in North America on Celtic Heartbeat prior to this tour. // Richard Thompson has July 3rd available for the Midwest or East Coast. // Sonny Landreth and Bill Miller are both available this summer individually or as a package for festivals and clubs. // Billy Connolly has a few early July avails East Coast or Midwest. // Father Guido Sarducci is available for fly-in dates and specifically in the Midwest in mid-July as well as Canada. He is a great MC or host for festivals and corporate situations.

MADISON HOUSE: Michael Luba

Congrats to The Backsliders for maintaining the No. 1 spot on the Gavin Americana chart for the third week in a row. The boys tour the Midwest with Buick MacKane in April before they head out on a headline tour of the Southeast. // Big Ass Truck, which made its MTV debut this week, is looking to package for a West Coast tour in July. // The Cigar Store Indians are finishing up their tour with Squirrel Nut Zippers before they head into the studio. Many thanks to Eric Selz at Red Ryder Agency for all his support. // Congrats to Galactic for its Big Easy music awards nomination as best emerging artist. The band tours up the East Coast until the end of June when it will look for summer packages. // Guster wraps up dates with the Samples before touring non-stop on the East Coast in May. // The Jazz Mandolin Project continues to astound audiences with its incredibly powerful live performance. The band will tour the Northeast in May and June before leaving for Europe in July. // Congrats to Muscadine on its recent signing with QED/Sire. We are looking to package during the summer. // The String Cheese Incident, which kicked off its 1997 spring tour with a sold-out show at the Great American Music Hall, will play a grand total of 43 shows in 50 days and travel completely across the country before returning home to play the Telluride Bluegrass Festival in mid-June.

She Takes The Cake Again

Celine Dion gets some help celebrating her 29th birthday before her March 29th show at the Rose Garden in Portland, Ore. Wishing they too were millionaires before the age of 30 are arena exec Jim McCue, promoter Jeff Trisler of Universal Concerts, and venue operations GM Ron Woodbridge.

Death Metal Lawsuit Settled

The $11 million lawsuit that claimed death metal music drove four young men to bludgeon two convenience store clerks during a robbery was settled last week. The lawsuit, filed by beating survivor Donna Ream, claimed music producers should have known the malevolent lyrics of their songs would influence violent youth. The suit claimed the men who attacked Ream and murdered store clerk Fran Wall had listened to the music of Deicide and Cannibal Corpse just before entering the Dari-Mart in Eugene, Ore., in 1994. The suit named the two bands, the Eugene store where some of the music was purchased and nine recording and distribution companies. Ream's attorney would not disclose the settlement figure or say which defendants paid to end the case. The attorney who defended Sony said he didn't think any of the record companies paid to settle.

The Long Tentacles Of The Law

Indie record label Alternative Tentacles has been ordered to pay $2.2 million in damages to the Philadelphia Fraternal Order of Police and a police officer. U.S. Magistrate James Melinson ordered the label to pay both the union and officer John Whalen $100,000 in compensatory damages and $1 million in punitive damages. The FOP and Whalen had sued the label for using a photograph on a 1992 Crucifucks album without permission. The photo was used in a 1985 FOP publicity campaign and depicted a bloodied officer (Whalen in makeup) lying face down next to a squad car. For the Crucifucks' Our Will Be Done album, the photo was altered and the Philadelphia Police name and shield was removed. The union said it plans to donate the money to a fund for the children of slain police officers. However, it's very doubtful Alternative Tentacles has $2.2 million to fork over. Calls to the label had not been returned at press time.

Dr. Dre's First Round Knockout

Rapper/producer Dr. Dre and Interscope Records have filed suit against Lonzo Williams, his Missing Link Entertainment company and distributor Triple X Entertainment for releasing an album of early Dre material. In West Coast rap circles, Williams is considered a pioneer of the South Central rap scene. In the early '80s, he ran the Eve After Dark club where rap DJs — including Dre — developed the Compton style. Last year, Williams released Dr. Dre First Round Knockout through Missing Link and was sued by Dre and Interscope for false designation of origin and false description, trade dress infringement, federal trademark dilution, and other charges. Williams said he had the legal right to release the project. He also contends he spoke with Dre about his plans in 1993 and was given verbal permission. Williams had released an album containing Dre's music in 1994 and said he encountered no legal backlash. He said he paid Dre for the first project and was ready to do the same for the second when the lawsuit interrupted his plans. Interscope declined to comment on the suit.

Obituaries

Laura Nyro, 49, died April 8th at her home in Danbury, Conn., from ovarian cancer. Nyro was only 17 years old when Peter, Paul and Mary landed a hit with her song "And When I Die." In the late '60s and early '70s, the Bronx native was considered one of folk rock's leading female artists. She wrote numerous hit songs including "Stoney End" for Barbra Streisand, "Wedding Bell Blues" and "Stoned Soul Picnic" for The Fifth Dimension, and "Eli's Coming" for Three Dog Night. A retrospective of Nyro's career is being produced by Profile Records..... Theatrical producer and concert promoter Moe Septee, 71, died of pancreatic cancer in Philadelphia April 1st. In 1979, he founded one of the nation's most prosperous pop orchestras, the Philly Pops. Septee was also one of the driving forces behind the Avenue of the Arts, a performing arts district in South Philadelphia..... Saxophonist turned talent agent and manager Vince Carbone, 74, died March 31st in Woodland Hills, Calif. Carbone performed with the Glenn Miller Band during World War II and then joined the Dorsey Brothers Orchestra. He helped book the band's tours for several years and became Tommy Dorsey's personal manager. Later, he settled in L.A. and went to work for Gerard Purcell Associates, where he helped manage Eddy Arnold, Al Hirt, Bob Newhart and Bobby Vinton.

Between The Dates

■ MARCUS MILLER wanted to record an album with jazz greats David Sanborn, Joe Sample and Steve Gadd. Then he decided to approach ERIC CLAPTON to complete the band for a few summer concerts. Miller dubbed the band THE LEGENDS and a few shows turned into a 10 city European tour, kicking off July 4th at Switzerland's legendary Montreaux Jazz Festival.

■ George Clinton & the P-Funk All Stars, Cypress Hill, Erykah Badu, The Roots and Foxy Brown appear on the 1997 "HOUSE OF BLUES SMOKIN' GROOVES" tour. The outing also features Outkast, The Pharcyde and The Brand New Heavies on select dates. The tour kicks off June 30th at Great Woods outside Boston and stops in more than 35 North American cities. Last year's tour, which featured Cypress Hill, The Fugees, A Tribe Called Quest, Ziggy Marley, Busta Rhymes and Spearhead, was the most successful rap/hip-hop outing of the summer.

■ Jewel, Shawn Colvin, Fiona Apple and Lisa Loeb were added to the LILITH FAIR line-up. The all-woman tour is scheduled to kick off July 5th at The Gorge in Washington state. Joining tour co-creator Sarah McLachlan will be The Cardigans, Mary Chapin Carpenter, Paula Cole, Indigo Girls and Suzanne Vega. Lilith Fair will make significant contributions to LIFEbeat and select women's oriented charities in each market.

■ University of Oregon officials caught some heat when ROLLING STONES fans learned the school had rejected a request for a September concert date at Autzen Stadium in order to avoid conflicts with football practice. A steady stream of complaints didn't make any impact on the powers that be in Eugene, however.

■ MARILYN MANSON continues to generate enormous amounts of negative publicity in advance of concert dates. Efforts to ban Marilyn Manson concerts seem to have been largely unsuccessful and building managers hosting tour dates are taking a bit of heat for defending the First Amendment. In Saginaw, Mich., frustrated protesters are trying to get officials to limit attendance for the band's April 26th show to adults. In Columbia, S.C., Marilyn Manson's April 20th show became a heated topic in the state Senate. And in Mississippi, where the group had shows scheduled for Biloxi and Jackson, area churches organized alternative events to try and save the souls of band members and their ticket-buying followers.

■ THE FUGEES were in Haiti last week to do two charity concerts. Two of the group members, Wyclef Jean and Pras Michel, were born in Hati but raised in America. The group will raise most of its money by doing a show for tourists at the Club Med resort where tickets will be priced at around $100. The Fugees are also doing an outdoor show for the locals in Port-Au-Prince where tickets cost only $3.10.

■ The Hot New Tours in this week's database include a popular Christian act, a couple of great classic rock acts, some blues, jazz, soul and a bit of good ol' rock'n'roll. Christian rockers NEWSBOYS launch an extensive outing April 17th in Texas..... Blues guitar great ERIC JOHNSON heads out on a club tour..... B.B. King launches his annual BLUES MUSIC FESTIVAL in June on the East Coast; the '97 festival includes Robert Cray & The Memphis Horns on most dates..... INCOGNITO takes its jazz styling to clubs starting with the House of Blues in Chicago May 30th..... JAMES BROWN does some U.S. dates in May and heads to Europe in July..... CROSBY, STILLS & NASH are going to Fargo to kick off their U.S. tour April 23rd..... THE WHO starts its tour April 23rd in Europe and then spends the summer in North America..... DAN FOGELBERG takes his guitar on the road starting June 20th..... DAVE MATTHEWS BAND returns to the road June 3rd in Virginia..... SUPERGRASS hits the road for a tour of major markets beginning May 28th in Toronto..... THE PRETENDERS play sheds in August with SINEAD O'CONNOR..... THE PRODIGY released a short itenerary of club dates for May and June..... And Billy Bob Thornton's favorite band, ZZ TOP, has announced a marathon tour of North America which starts May 2nd in Atlanta.

company founded by, you guessed it, Paul Allen and responsible for such popular Web sites as ESPNet-SportsZone (espnet.sportszone.com) and Ticketmaster (www.ticketmaster.com). Along with buying Starwave, Disney is launching ABCNEWS.COM, a 24 hour online news service that will compete with the Microsoft and NBC venture, MSNBC (www.msnbc.com).

● The DEMO DERBY (www.demoderby.com) opened for business last week, accepting submissions for the first interactive music competition held on the Net. The online event, to be held on former MTV VJ Adam Curry's Metaverse site (www.metaverse.com), will feature 102 musical acts from around the world. Prizes include an offer of an independent record deal made by Callner Music. Finalists will be selected by a voting process that will allow surfers to sample and vote on one song from each artist via The Delivery Room, a weekly RealAudio (www.real.com) program on Metaverse. The finalists will perform on a live video and audio cybercast this August at Billboard Live (www.billboardlive.com). Ticketmaster will give away prizes to net surfers casting their on-line votes. Included in the prize cache will be certificates for concert tickets and shopping sprees for rock memorabilia.

● ONLINE EVENTS: BT is the guest on the Warner/Reprise interactive talk show, Cyber-Talk on April 14th at 9:30 p.m. on America Online (www.aol.com). Warner's superstar Daffy Duck will be the guest on April 16th at 8:00 p.m.. Chat with silverchair, April 15th, 9 p.m. on both Ticketmaster (www.ticketmaster.com) and at the group's own Web page, www.silverchair.net. Catch comedian Arthur Montmorency live online show at club NEC (www.clubnec.com) on April 18th at 8:00 p.m. Howie Mandel will be on Prodigy (www.prodigy.com) April 14th at 9:00 p.m. Son Volt's Jay Farrar will be on AOL April 21st at 9:30 p.m. MuCoMo's CoffeeBreak (www.mucomomo.com) has Darlahood, April 16th and Redd Kross April, 30th. LiveConcerts (www.liveconcerts.com) has Marianne Faithfull, April 16th at 9:30 p.m., The Lemonheads and Matchbox, April 20th, 6:30 p.m., Jeremy Enigk and Sky Cries Mary, April 23rd, 9:30 p.m., Sammy Kershaw and Charlie Musselwhite, April 27th, 6:30 p.m., and Cheap Trick April 30th at 9:30 p.m. SonicNet (www.sonicnet.com) has Funk Master Flex April 14th at 8:00 p.m. The following SonicNet shows all start at 7:00 p.m.: Tha Truth, April 15th, Bloodhound Gang, April 17th, Powerman 5000, April 21st, Last Poets, April 22nd, and Supersuckers, April 24th.
