Concert Industry Awards

POLLSTAR IS PLEASED TO announce that the legendary Firesign Theatre will host the 10th annual Concert Industry Awards on Saturday, February 13th at UCLA's Royce Hall.

Original members Phil Austin, Peter Bergman, David Ossman and Phil Proctor have regrouped and will share with us their full-frontal comedic view of pop culture and the concert business. These guys don't merely go for the cheap gag; they engage your cerebellum — and then go for the cheap gag. All of which adds up to a precarious position for the ego of anyone who comes near the stage.

Throughout its 30-year career, the Firesign Theatre has recorded 22 albums that have sold more than 4 million copies. Its latest release on Rhino Records, Give Me Immortality Or Give me Death, is up for a Grammy Award this year. In an era of corporate consolidation, it's hard to imagine a better host for this year's event.

POLLSTAR is also pleased to announce that a new honor has been added to this year's Concert Industry Awards program.

THE FIRESIGN THEATRE will host the 10th annual Concert Industry Awards on February 13th. L-R: David Ossman, Phil Austin, Peter Bergman and Phil Proctor.

The editorial staff of POLLSTAR, for the first time in its history, will present its own award.

The Masters Award is being presented to former CAA music division head Tom Ross in recognition of the exceptional leadership he selflessly provided as the concert industry struggled through enormous changes these past two years. Not everyone may have agreed with Ross' positions, but everyone has to appreciate the fact that his ideology was motivated by a love of his craft and the industry he helped build.

While the CIC is completely sold out, there are still a limited number of tickets available for the Concert Industry Awards.

SFX Buys Nederlander Assets

SFX ENTERTAINMENT HAS announced plans to acquire operating interests in seven Nederlander-controlled venues and other assets for $93.6 million in cash.

Under the deal announced January 31st, SFX will gain a 50 percent interest in the long-term leases, booking and management of the New World Music Theatre and the Alpine Valley Music Theatre, two major sheds serving the Chicago and Milwaukee markets.

Additionally, SFX has agreed to acquire the lease of the Merriweather Post Pavilion in Columbia, Md., the second major

Pros On The Move

After four years with ICM, agent Steve Kaul has joined The Agency Group in its New York office. Kaul brings all of his clients with him including Built To Spill, Edwin McCain, The Lemonheads, and Martin Sexton.

Neil Sulkes has been named president of the Manhattan Center in New York City. He hopes to increase and diversify the entertainment offered at the Hammerstein Ballroom and the Grand Ballroom. The Hammerstein was renovated and reopened in 1997 and the Manhattan Center will continue to upgrade with improvements over the next several months. Sulkes previously worked for SMG in various capacities and was the longtime manager of the Nassau Veterans Memorial Coliseum in Uniondale, N.Y.

Tommy Manzi has departed Gallin-Morey Associates and joined The Umbrella Group with Sharon Tapper in New York. Manzi brings to Umbrella former Gallin-Morey clients including Eagle-Eye Cherry, Neneh Cherry, Josh Clayton, Lisa Germano, and Lisa Stansfield.

In a move that expands his responsibilities well beyond booking the House of Blues in West Hollywood, Kevin Morrow has been named senior VP of entertainment for the HoB chain of venues. Morrow's new position involves overseeing all of the live entertainment at the HoB, including special events, tours, and other projects.

Kenny Rogers has formed a new multi-faceted entertainment company with former EMI/Capitol exec Jim Mazza. Based in Nashville, Dreamcatcher Entertainment comprises three separate operating divisions: records, artist management, and film and TV production. Dreamcatcher will co-manage Rogers and will announce additions to its artist roster in the coming weeks. Former Halsey Company VP Bob Burwell has also joined Dreamcatcher as VP creative.

Nearly 200 employees of Universal Music & Video Distribution were reportedly fired late last month. The new Universal Music Group will rely on PolyGram's distribution outlets. The most recent layoffs follow Universal's shedding of some 500 employees on January 21st, the first move in the company's effort to streamline operations. According to a Reuters report, between 10 and 20 employees of GRP and Verve Records were also expected to be fired.

shed the company will control in the Washington, D.C., and Baltimore markets pending the completion of the Cellar Door purchase.

The Nederlander deal also marks SFX's entry into the Cincinnati market. The company will acquire the booking and management agreements for the Riverbend Amphitheater and the Crown Arena. SFX will additionally purchase a one-third ownership stake in the Crown, officially making the company an arena owner. SFX will also hold leases for the Taft Theater and Bogart's Club.

As part of the deal, SFX will acquire the rights to construct and book the planned Mesa del Sol Centre for the Performing Arts in Albuquerque, N.M.

The announcement strengthens SFX's move into the Chicago market where it recently made a 10-year deal to provide booking and consultation to the Rosemont Horizon arena and the Rosemont Theatre.

At the same time, it means increased competition for local powerhouse promoter Jam Productions, which was responsible for initiating construction of the now-SFX-controlled New World shed during the '80s. Jam continues to hold a minority ownership stake in the shed.

Jam's Jerry Mickelson did not comment about the recent SFX developments.

Robert F.X. Sillerman, executive chairman of SFX Entertainment, said in a statement, "These theatres add music venues to our Chicago holdings as well as providing us an entree into the Cincinnati marketplace."

The Entertainment Group President Tim Orchard, who oversees SFX's recent Rosemont acquisitions, refused to comment about the company's Chicago-area plans.

SFX's presence in the Cincinnati market marks an end to Nederlander's foothold in the region, the only market in which the company had attempted to become the main promoter of shows.

Nederlander officials could not be reached for comment.

With the recent deal likely giving SFX control of two major sheds in the D.C.-Baltimore market as well as the Chicago region — effectively dominating the areas — it remains unclear how the concert giant will handle Nederlander's existing co-booking deals with Jam in Chicago and Seth Hurwitz in D.C.

SFX spokesperson Tim Klahs would not comment on the company's intentions in those markets.

Hurwitz of I.M.P., who has a contract to co-present shows at the Merriweather, remains optimistic in light of the recent SFX action.

"I'm told it's business as usual until I hear otherwise — and I haven't heard otherwise," he told POLLSTAR. "It's not like these people have a history of not honoring contracts."

As this latest deal continues to mark SFX as the dominant force in the concert business, the U.S. Justice Department is reportedly taking another look at the antitrust implications from the company's roll-up strategy. The New York Post reported late last month that SFX has received a preliminary inquiry of renewed interest from the Justice Department. The report follows an investigation conducted by antitrust officials last year that did not find any cause for action at the time.

A spokesperson for the Justice Department would not comment on the alleged investigation.

Woodstock '99 Flies Into Rome

WOODSTOCK VENTURES has signed a letter of intent with Rome, N.Y., city officials to hold the upcoming 30th anniversary festival at the abandoned Griffiss Air Force Base.

The announcement brings the promoters one step closer to securing a site for the July 23-25 event, which is expected to draw an attendance roughly equivalent to a medium-sized city. It also gives some relief to the concert's highly vocal opponents in Saugerties, N.Y., where the 1994 Woodstock gathering took place.

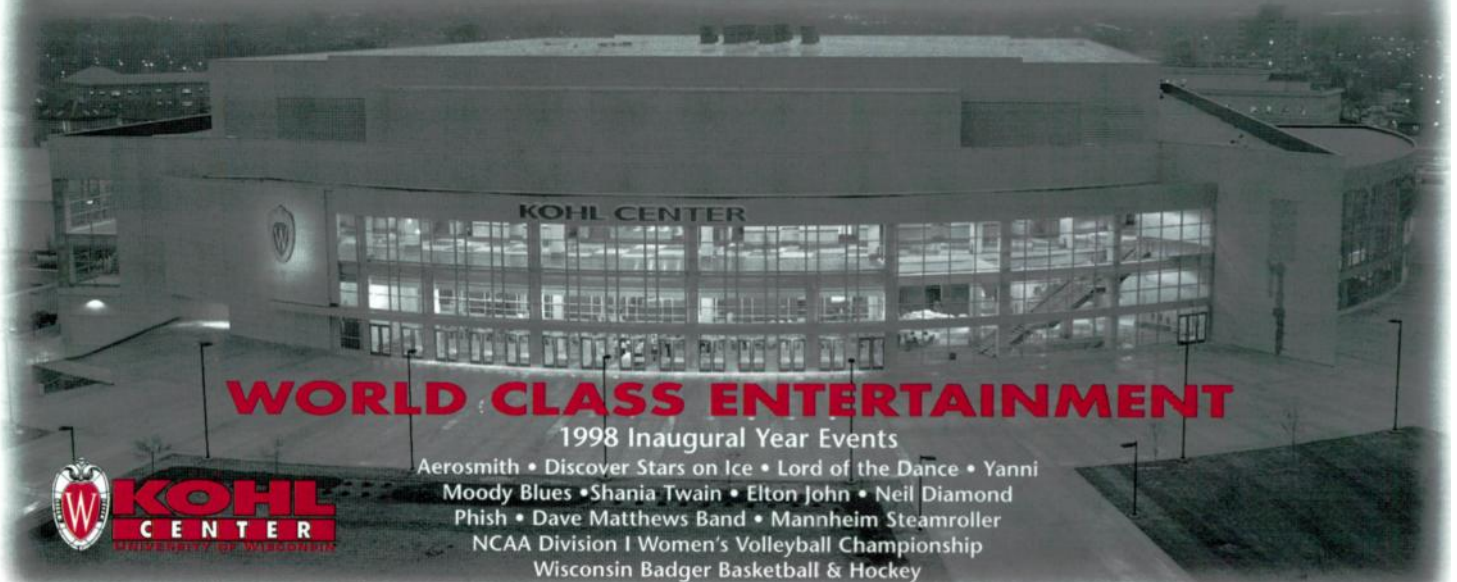

PORTRAYING BUDDY HOLLY, John Mueller rocks the Winter Dance Party February 2nd at the historic Surf Ballroom in Clear Lake, Iowa. The performance concluded an 11-city re-creation of the tour during which Holly died 40 years ago. Mueller also portrays Holly in the nationally touring play "Buddy: The Buddy Holly Story."

"We were seriously exploring the possibility of returning to Saugerties," Woodstock founder and producer Michael Lang said in a statement, "but because of certain time constraints and logistics, we've decided that Rome would be the ideal location."

CLOSET KISS FAN Martha Stewart poses with the band during the National Association of Television Executives convention in New Orleans. The rockers were on hand January 26th to promote their upcoming film, "Detroit Rock City." There was no word on whether this photo would make it into Gene Simmons' private collection.

The lineup for the July 23-25 event is expected to be announced in March.

The abandoned Air Force base, also called Griffiss Business & Technology Park, comprises about 4,300 acres at the foot of the Adirondack Mountains. And being a former military base, it should prove much easier for Lang and co-promoter John Scher to secure than the patches of farmland in Saugerties and Bethel where previous Woodstocks have been held.

Twin Cities Twin Sheds

THE RACE IS ON TO BUILD the first major amphitheatre in the Twin Cities, one of the largest metropolitan areas in North America without a shed.

Just two days after the Minnesota Orchestra won preliminary approval to build an amphitheatre in the Minneapolis/St. Paul market, artist management firm Q Prime announced its own plans for an outdoor venue in the same market.

Q Prime said it paid more than $1 million for more than 100 acres in suburban Scott County, in hope of building a 19,000-capacity amphitheatre. "We are going to start submitting all the necessary applications," Q Prime's Tony DiCioccio told POLLSTAR.

The company is expected to begin an environmental study of the property and hold its initial public meetings this month.

Already, the Brooklyn Park City Council has given preliminary approval to the Minnesota Orchestra's proposal to build a 19,000-capacity, $20 million amphitheatre that could open in that town as early as next year.

However, the organization is currently jumping hurdles to win over opponents who fear the venue would bring noise, traffic and unruly concert-goers to the quiet, slowly developing area.

While the Minnesota Orchestra would play possibly 18 to 50 seasonal concerts, other music filling the night air reportedly could range from Ray Charles to Metallica.

In Q Prime's opinion, there's room for only one amphitheatre in the Twin Cities. "It's going to be difficult to support two 19,000-seat sheds in this market," the company's Tim Morin said.

"We're hoping the legislature in Minnesota finds that our site is more amenable to an amphitheatre than the one that the Orchestra's looking at in Brooklyn Park," DiCioccio said.

"Our site is all private money, no public money needed. The Minnesota Orchestra is looking for public money. Minnesota Orchestra, I believe, is also looking to get some noise variances due to their location. We don't believe we're going to need a variance," he said.

At the Minnesota Orchestra, reaction to Q Prime's purchase was muted. "There had been rumblings for some time that there could be a potential development [by Q Prime]," orchestra spokesperson Karl Reichert said.

"We're just going to stay focused on our plans," he said. "We feel good about what we're doing."

Q Prime's announcement was also expected to impact a proposal by Ogden Entertainment to build a shed in Scott County. The Ogden site is reportedly within two miles of the Q Prime property.

Ogden officials said Q-Prime's announcement created more doubts about its project, according to the Star Tribune.

"I think we really have to evaluate where we are," Ogden's Sandy Sweetser told the paper. "We're going to regroup and see if there's anything we want to pursue or not."

Q Prime is also battling with the partnership of Paul Allen's Aegean Development Corp. and Universal Concerts to build an amphitheatre in the Portland, Ore., market.

Short Items Of Note

Warner/Avalon has changed its name to Warner/TBA. The change reflects TBA Entertainment Corporation's acquisition of Avalon's 50 percent interest in a joint venture with Warner Custom Music. As Warner/TBA, the company will continue to create, develop and produce integrated brand-based music marketing initiatives and special events for corporate clients worldwide.

The Rio Suite Hotel and Casino in Las Vegas has commenced construction of its $35 million entertainment complex. Scheduled for completion in the first quarter of next year, the facility will house a 1,500-seat, state-of-the-art theatre and a 102,000-square-foot showroom. The showroom will have a stage adaptable for a variety of events, ranging from one-person performances to full stage productions. The entertainment complex will be located adjacent to the Rio's 110,000-square-foot convention center, which opens next month.

This year's W.C. Handy Blues Awards will be joined by a two-day blues festival set to kick off May 28th in the clubs along Beale Street in Memphis. Organizers are planning to spotlight awards nominees during the festival and use all of Beale Street's venues, including Elvis Presley's Memphis, Blue City Cafe, Rum Boogie Cafe, New Daisy Theatre, and the Hard Rock Cafe. The Handy Awards ceremony is scheduled for May 27th at the Orpheum Theatre.

Moved by the sudden and tragic death of Jimmy Domengeaux, guitarist for Steve Riley & The Mamou Playboys, friends and associates of the Acadiana musician rallied together for a January 30th concert to benefit his nine-year-old daughter, Javen. The show, which raised some $2,000, featured a performance by Cajun/Creole band Filé at Skipper's Smokehouse in Tampa. Organizers included the venue's Tom White, Randy Wynne of Tampa station WMNF-FM and The Cajun Connection.

CAA & Ovitz

DIRECTOR MARTIN SCORSESE and actresses Marisa Tomei and Mimi Rogers have said so long to Creative Artists Agency after being told to choose between it and Michael Ovitz's new management firm.

CAA gave its artists the ultimatum after Ovitz's Artist Management Group lured away top agent Michael Menchel and his client Robin Williams.

Other clients jointly represented by CAA and AMG include Claire Danes, Minnie Driver and Lauren Holly. Their status was unclear at press time.

Also, rumor has it Ovitz is contemplating entering the music business, and is talking to Gary Gersh and John Silva about having their new management firm, GAS LLC, join AMG.

When Ovitz made his latest comeback, he wanted everyone to think he was a changed man, said Los Angeles Times columnist Claudia Eller. He reportedly told friends he was humbled by his firing at Walt Disney Co. and by being vilified by enemies who, for years, regarded him as the most feared and powerful man in Hollywood.

Those like the CAA execs who feel they've been stung by Ovitz have concluded that like the scorpion, it is in his nature.

That's why CAA toppers, who feel Ovitz is overstepping the boundaries between manager and agent, have declared they won't work with him, even if it means losing big-money clients.

Tejano Group Tragedy

TRAGEDY STRUCK TEJANO group Intocable when a

January 31st car accident killed two members and the band's road manager.

The musicians and associates were en route to Monterrey, Mexico, when their van blew a tire and skidded off the road. The band was scheduled to board a plane in Monterrey and play a concert that night in Mexico City.

Killed instantly in the crash were percussionist and master of ceremonies Jose Angel "Pepe" Farias, 23, bassist and singer Silvestre Rodriguez Jr., 28, and newly appointed road manager Jose Angel Gonzales, whose age was unavailable.

Four other band members were also injured in the accident. The driver of the van was listed in serious condition at a Monterrey hospital last week.

The EMI Latin recording act hit the Tejano music scene in 1994 and built a loyal following. The band's music helped to fuel the current Tejano music Norteno trend.

Intocable has recorded an album a year since 1994 and each has sold more than 1 million copies.

Grand Jury Clears ODB In Police Shootout

A NEW YORK GRAND JURY has concluded that rapper Ol' Dirty Bastard shouldn't face attempted murder charges for an encounter with police that ended in gunfire.

Before returning its findings, the jury heard testimony from witnesses including police officers and a forensic expert.

"The only individuals that fired shots were the police officers," ODB attorney Peter Frankel said. "There was no gun recovered and no ballistics evidence."

The rapper, whose real name is Russell Jones, and his cousin were driving away from United Kingdom Studios January 15th when they were pulled over allegedly because their vehicle's lights were not on.

Officers testified that when they approached the driver's window, two shots were fired and they returned fire. Jones pleaded innocent and was released on $150,000 bail.

He was expected to appear in court last week where charges were to be formally dismissed.

D.A.R.E. To Sue Stone

THE ANTI-DRUG PROGRAM D.A.R.E. has filed a $50 million lawsuit against Rolling Stone and a freelance writer, alleging it was libeled in a story.

The March 1998 feature by writer Stephen Glass said the campaign aimed at school children tried to "silence critics, suppress scientific research and punish nonbelievers."

The federal lawsuit filed February 2nd claims editor-publisher Jann Wenner is attempting to "discredit anti-drug organizations."

"We are taking action against Rolling Stone to defend our reputation and recoup the damages incurred by the libels," said D.A.R.E. President Glenn Levant.

Also named in the suit are Wenner and managing editor Robert Love, who said the lawsuit is "an attempt to intimidate and discourage legitimate debate on the viability of the D.A.R.E. program."

D.A.R.E. has also filed a separate $10 million libel complaint against Glass, who has allegedly admitted to fabricating portions of the story.

An EEOC lawsuit was filed in federal court on behalf of nine former employees — six Asians, one black, one Hispanic and one Caucasian. The suit claims minorities are denied employment opportunities at the Mondrian.

RAGE AGAINST THE MACHINE member Tom Morello (fourth from right) explains the reasons for holding a benefit concert for convicted cop killer Mumia Abu-Jamal. a concert to benefit convicted cop killer Mumia Abu-Jamal. In the end, the war over the show ended in a whimper.

Rage Against the Machine, Beastie Boys, Bad Religion, and Black Star headlined the $30-a-ticket show. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to the defense fund of Abu-Jamal, a black former radio reporter on death row for the 1981 killing of Pennsylvania officer Daniel Faulkner.

A letter written in January and signed by Rage Against the Machine Tours Inc. reportedly estimated the show would raise $95,000 for the defense fund. But as of last week, organizers had yet to report how much was actually raised.

Meanwhile, a bill introduced last month by New Jersey State Senator Richard Codey would earmark the state's portion of the show's proceeds (from facility fees) for families of slain police officers.

Abu-Jamal and his supporters have long held that he was unfairly convicted, saying evidence and witnesses had been withheld and claiming the prosecution acted wrongly.

"One of the main points about this is Mumia did not receive a fair trial and that's something everyone should be concerned about," Beastie Boy Mike Diamond said. "If that goes away, we're basically living in a police state."

With an upside-down American flag spraypainted with "Free Mumia" as a backdrop, Rage was the last to take the stage. The band sent the Continental Airlines Arena audience into a frenzy with fans moshing and crowd-surfing.

Police and prosecutors who say Abu-Jamal was fairly convicted based on physical evidence and testimony were outraged.

"The bottom line is this guy has been tried and convicted, and has been allowed numerous appeals. Where we're coming from is enough is enough," said Bob Scully, executive director of the National Association of Police Organizations.

"This is disgusting. This is really sickening. Everybody who buys a ticket should have blood on their hands," an unnamed trooper told the New York Post.

Though there was talk of stopping the show, Attorney General Peter Verniero said the state couldn't step in because the arena is a public venue. However, Gov. Christie Whitman urged fans of the bands to stay home.

While about 2,000 people returned tickets, the ducats were snatched back up just as fast, nearly selling out the 16,000-capacity concert.

A SECURITY OFFICER TALKS to concert goers trying to get into the controversial benefit concert at the Continental Airlines Arena January 28th.

At a news conference before the show, members of Rage said Whitman and Verniero were overreacting and creating an "atmosphere of fear."

"Tonight's benefit is not to support cop killers or any kind of killers," Rage's Zack De La Rocha said. "If there was no question of the guilt of Mumia Abu-Jamal, we would not be holding this benefit."

There were a few demonstrations by Abu-Jamal supporters at the concert but many said they were there just to see their favorite groups.

AS SEEN IN THIS PHOTO taken late last month, the University of South Alabama Mitchell Center arena is nearing completion. University officials say the 10,200-seat facility in Mobile will be ready for May graduation ceremonies.

There were reportedly no incidents and fewer than a dozen arrests by the end of the show.

Bring In 'da Complaint

CAST MEMBERS OF THE touring show "Bring in 'da Noise, Bring in 'da Funk" were planning to drop their complaint that they were kicked out of a nightclub because they are black.

Following an investigation by a Charlotte, N.C., city-county panel, which concluded no action is required, both the show's cast and the owner of Cosmos Cafe said they would drop the issue.

During a visit to Charlotte last month, cast members alleged they were mistreated at the nightclub and they subsequently sent a complaint letter to Mayor Pat McCrory.

Tyrone Henderson wrote the letter, stating that members of the tap dance show were refused admittance for inappropriate attire and then harassed when they returned in different clothes.

Henderson claimed a group of white men, similarly dressed in the allegedly inappropriate attire, were allowed to enter the nightclub.

The cast members were reportedly wearing baggy pants and jackets.

However, club owner Andy Kastanas said in a letter to the city that the problem stemmed from the cast members' rude behavior.

Kastanas claimed the two members who were refused admittance returned to the restaurant and slipped past the doorman while his back was turned. The doorman followed them and asked for identification; one produced an underage ID and the other did not provide the doorman with any ID.

The letter said the two members were asked to leave because of their dress and age.

A spokesperson for the show's cast said the members disagree with aspects of Kastanas' account but they don't want to announce a specific response.

John Denver Crash Dispute

JOHN DENVER'S FAMILY WANTS the National Transportation Safety Board to reconsider its conclusion that pilot error contributed to the plane crash that took the singer's life.

"They sort of missed a key point here, and it makes the conclusion wrong," said the family's Los Angeles attorney, Bill Wimsatt. "I think it's critical for people to understand that John had very little to do with causing this accident considering he was following the rules."

Denver was killed off the coast of Pacific Grove, Calif., in 1997 when his home-built Long E-Z aircraft ran out of fuel and fell into the ocean.

The NTSB investigation concluded the singer took off with too little fuel in one tank, had trouble switching to his backup tank and inadvertently put his plane into a roll while his attention was diverted.

Wimsatt said Denver was carrying the maximum amount of fuel allowed for the short flight he planned.

"He could be cited if he hadn't followed the rule," Wimsatt said. "In following the rule, John basically got into a situation where the valve killed him."

Plans for Denver's plane say the fuel selector handle should be located between the pilot's legs. However, the aircraft's builder told investigators he put the handle behind the pilot's left shoulder because he did not want fuel in the cockpit.

It is thought that the valve switch seized and Denver wasn't able to switch to the second tank.

Denver's family has filed a lawsuit charging the valve's manufacturer, Imperial Valve Co., and its parts supplier, Aircraft Spruce and Specialty Co., with making a faulty valve.

the legendary drummer has decided to take a leave of absence from his gig on the Conan O'Brien show.

However, if he had to choose, Mighty Max says he would not have quit the show. If NBC had said no, Springsteen would be looking for another drummer.

"I love Bruce, the guys in the band," Weinberg said. "But the last five-and-a-half years have really proved to me that I moved on."

Weinberg's gig as leader of the Max Weinberg 7 on the "Late Night" show has given him a second chance in life, he says. And his dedication shows it; the 48-year-old has not missed a single show — 1,048 in a row — since starting on the program.

As O'Brien and the show's producers cited rock history as reason to allow Weinberg's leave, the drummer said he's doing it for his kids.

"I really want my children to see me in this sort of mythical situation that I was in that was pretty much over by the time they came around," he said.

Goldenvoice Makes Vegas HoB Deal

GOLDENVOICE HAS TEAMED with the House of Blues to book the club's new Las Vegas location, scheduled to open in March at the Mandalay Bay Resort.

The deal gives Goldenvoice a 1,800-capacity, name-brand venue in Las Vegas, where the company is no stranger to the concert scene. It has promoted several shows in Glitter Gulch including the one-off Beck date at the Tropicana in May.

"The House of Blues gives us a great opportunity to use our relationships in Las Vegas," said Goldenvoice chief Paul Tollett.

West Hollywood HoB talent buyer Kevin Morrow, who was recently promoted to senior VP of entertainment for the chain of venues, has anticipated a working relationship with Tollett and Goldenvoice for some time. "This was the first opportunity for our two companies to work together," Morrow told POLLSTAR.

"When we were looking at the Las Vegas market, obviously, there's going to be some stiff competition there," said Morrow, referring to the venue's main competitor, The Joint at the Hard Rock Casino. "And it seems like every promoter in the country has some type of thing happening in Vegas. So really, [Goldenvoice] was just a perfect fit for us."

Goldenvoice has already got things rolling at the new venue with Bob Dylan performing opening night. Other dates booked include Blondie, Chris Isaak, The Offspring, Sheryl Crow, B.B. King, and — of course — The Blues Brothers.

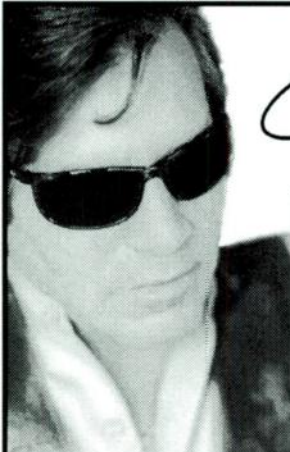

Big Papa's Boot Camp

THERE'S A NEW "BIG PAPA" on the scene but he's not an East Coast rapper — he's Louis Pearlman, the 44-year-old impresario behind pop-sensations Backstreet Boys and 'N Sync. Though he shares a nickname with the late Notorious B.I.G., Pearlman's musical empire has been built in a decidedly non-street manner.

The Wall Street Journal and Los Angeles Times recently examined this pop idol maker and the machine behind his magic.

Pearlman operates a "boot camp" in central Florida, where he "plucks beaming youths from Disney World and other theme parks, drills them in dance steps and molds them with assembly-line precision into heartthrobs for the nation's swelling ranks of teeny-boppers," according to the Journal.

The native New Yorker played guitar with a local rock band while attending Queens College. The band project didn't pan out but Pearlman's music dreams never died. After college, he started a commuter-helicopter business, shuttling corporate bigwigs around. Soon, he was leasing jets to Michael Jackson, the Rolling Stones and other rock stars.

He eventually moved to Orlando, where he dabbled in the entertainment world, buying the Chippendales troupe of male erotic dancers.

One day, New Kids on the Block leased one of his jets. Pearlman asked his cousin Art Garfunkel how a group of kids could afford the jet. Garfunkel told him the New Kids were selling millions of records, and at that point, Pearlman realized he was on the wrong side of the business.

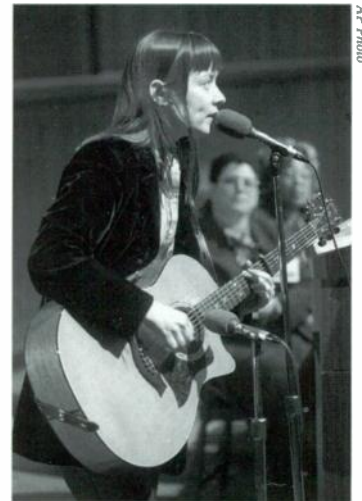

He started studying the New Kids phenomenon along with the operations of Berry Gordy's Motown empire.

One thing he learned still applies today: Acts can make three times as much money touring and selling T-shirts and lunch boxes as they can from selling albums. So, Pearlman started a company separate from his Trans Continental upstart music business to handle merchandising.

The second lesson he decided to embrace, just as Motown executives had done, was to control every step of both the business and the artistic process, the Journal said.

Pearlman's first project was Backstreet Boys. He discovered the five young men, who beat out 40 others in auditions, and groomed them, hiring a vocal coach and a dance instructor. The group rehearsed in Pearlman's blimp warehouse — which wasn't air-conditioned despite the central-Florida heat. "It was hot, like boot camp," Pearlman told the Journal.

Pearlman hired the former tour manager for New Kids, Johnny Wright, and his wife, Donna, to be the Boys' co-managers. The band headed to Europe, playing six days a week for nearly two years. By the time they returned to the U.S., Backstreet Boys had bankrolled their good looks and pretty harmonies into awards and climbing sales in Europe.

Last May, Backstreet Boys filed a lawsuit in federal court in Orlando against the Wrights, Pearlman, and several of his companies, the paper said. Referring to themselves as "indentured servants," the group accused the defendants of pocketing $10 million in recording and other revenues since 1992, while only paying $300,000 to the singers.

In October, the Boys reached settlements with Pearlman and Mr. Wright on undisclosed terms. Their suit against Mrs. Wright is pending.

People involved in the settlement talks told the Journal the Boys won more control over merchandising and recording decisions and significantly reduced Trans Continental's cut of the group's profits. The Wrights, however, are no longer the Boys' managers.

Pearlman, who called the litigation a "family disagreement," is still considered a sixth Backstreet

Why do so many superstars route Seattle? Because they get a great city, three million adoring fans, and an arena that's intimate and acoustically second to none. In just three years, KeyArena has sold over four million tickets and sold out hundreds of events. With a concert capacity of 15,500, it has featured major shows like Garth Brooks, Elton John, Eric Clapton, Celine Dion, Beastie Boys, Stars On Ice, Ringling Brothers and many more. It's also home to the Seattle Sonics and Thunderbirds. Located in the Seattle Center, with our 9 million annual visitors, KeyArena is the biggest and best thing going in Seattle. For smaller venues, try our Opera House, capacity 3,100 or Mercer Arena, capacity 6,000. So when you're routing the Northwest, be sure to call us at 206-684-7202, or fax 206-684-7366. And play Seattle in the right Key.

Boy of sorts, the Journal said. He is paid one-sixth of the Boys' profits.

The legal wrangling with the Boys has been settled, but Pearlman is still in court with the band's label, Zomba. He has accused the label of short-changing him and the Boys on royalties.

In the meantime, the idol-maker has repeated his success with 'N Sync, the country's hottest new teen sensation.

As the Times reported, no one has shown a better understanding of the powerful forces of teens than Pearlman. In 1991, he declared: "When girls scream and ask for CDs and posters, are their daddies going to say no? I don't think so. It works nice for us."

Some may call his Trans Continental Records "boy toy university" but for visitors who get a rare invitation to roam the immaculate hallways and offices of Pearlman's 80,000-square-foot complex, two terms are forbidden: "boy band" and "factory," the Times said.

But as the paper pointed out, even if Trans Continental is not a boy band factory, it clearly qualifies as a pop star academy.

In addition to dancing and singing, the band members are trained in interviewing techniques, and receive style and persona counseling.

Despite Pearlman's research into Motown, the rock magnate insists Trans Continental was developed as a one-act company. That changed only as the costs of establishing Backstreet Boys mounted, the paper said. "The studios, the training, the touring — all of it made the company too big for one group," the Times reported.

That lead to the development of 'N Sync and Pearlman's latest project, C-Note, a Latin harmony group created and crafted under his watchful eye.

Pearlman, who aspires to be the Berry Gordy of teen pop, is hurt by the prospect of being viewed by some as a Col. Tom Parker-type, a man who the Times called the "notorious exploiter of the greatest of all teen idols, Elvis Presley."

Pearlman says he loves his "kids," who view him as a father figure and pick on him like a favorite uncle.

Today, Pearlman's air fleet has 49 charter planes, from Lear jets to 747s, the Times said. The aviation business is the backbone of his empire, which he says is worth about $950 million. The varied companies under the Trans Continental banner

SCENES FROM ASPEN ARTIST DEVELOPMENT CONFERENCE

ONE AADC DELEGATE used a McDonald's analogy to paint a worst case scenario of where the music business is headed. Here, Concerts West's John Meglen responds, "One of the great things about consolidation is that when a McDonald's is built, a lot of people don't want to make a hamburger like McDonald's."

THE 1998 ASPEN ARTIST DEVELOPMENT CONFERENCE December 10-12 took a serious look at industry consolidation and new technology. Starting a rousing discussion are Danny Zausner of Ogden Entertainment, Little Feat keyboardist Billy Payne, Bill Graham Management's Jackson Haring, Cellar Door's Ted Mankin, Metropolitan Entertainment's Eric Herz, Concerts West's John Meglen and Dave Frey of Silent Partner Management.

CELLAR DOOR'S Ted Mankin tells AADC delegates about his experiences with consolidation.

AADC'S GUEST SPEAKER, Jim Griffin from One House, gives a compelling address about the role of technology in shaping the music industry.

LITTLE BIG MAN agent Marty Diamond says he doesn't think consolidation is so bad. "I think it creates opportunities and a smart entrepreneur will find his or her way through."

KID ROCK

There are two sides to Kid Rock. On the one hand, the 28-year-old rapper/rocker is a self-described “crazy pimp [and] whisky-drinkin’ fk” — what he refers to as his on-the-road personality.

His occasionally foul-mouthed lyrics convey his wild and sometimes foul-mouthed mentality, as displayed on his latest release, Devil Without a Cause, on Lava/Atlantic Records.

With classic Kid Rock lines such as “Watch a girl get frisky and then wash it down with a shot of whisky,” referring to oral love, the rapper doesn’t attempt — nor does he want — to bask in an image of innocence.

However, when Kid Rock, aka Bob Ritchie, isn’t hitting clubs and theatres across the country in support of his Atlantic debut, the Kid is a responsible father, raising his young child.

“I’ve got custody of my son, who is five now,” said a serious Kid Rock. “I go to parent-teacher conferences, I wash his ass, I pack his lunch.”

Kid Rock displayed his multifaceted yet genuine personality with POLLSTAR. At times, the Kid seemed bitter, undoubtedly reflecting his more than 10 years as a recording artist in the music industry.

At other times, humor as well as monotone sadness surfaced; Kid, who was suffering from a bout with the flu, revealed his grandparents were killed in a car accident just days earlier.

It is evident that throughout the past decade, sour deals and experiences have molded Kid Rock into a wiser and much more confident person. He is admittedly chock-full of attitude while discussing subjects ranging from touring to recording contracts to his business team.

“I think it’s important for people to know that all this shit doesn’t happen just from being a crazy-ass motherfker,” Kid Rock said. “There’s a lot of hard work that goes into it.” Indeed.

Hailing from the Detroit, Mich., suburb of Romeo, Kid Rock began developing his synthesis of “classic-styled breakbeats and liquored-up Lynyrd Skynyrd rock ‘n’ roll” during high school.

Jive Records noticed his talent and signed him in his late teens. Yet, the inexperienced artist soon found himself lost in the workings of the music industry.

“I got like a $100,000 deal and saw six grand out of it,” he said.

Kid Rock managed two positive results from his deal with Jive: the release of his debut album, Grit Sandwiches for Breakfast, and the opening spot on tour with Ice Cube, Too $hort, and D-Nice.

“The Ice Cube/Too $hort tour was, to me, one of the last great rap tours since the Def Jam tour,” Kid Rock said. “Too $hort came out of a dog house through a hydraulic lift, Ice Cube came out on a spinning electric chair to ‘Papa was a Rolling Stone,’ and I had tear-away pants and I did my turntable set.”

Despite his 10 years in the business, that 20-some-date arena tour turned out to be Kid Rock’s last major outing until last year’s Vans Warped Tour.

“The big misconception that most people have about me being in this game for 10 years is that I didn’t tour for 10 years because I always thought it was a waste of time — financially it was,” he said.

“[Touring] didn’t seem like the right way for me. The right way for me was to make records and keep building a story.”

Following his sour deal with Jive, Kid Rock spent the next several years recording a series of albums for the now-defunct indie label Continuum and targeting the Midwest market with a handful of shows.

While scraping to make ends meet, which included supporting his son, Kid Rock found out his manager was allegedly stealing show deposits. “So we had a show up in Big Rapids, Mich., one night and after the show, I pulled him out of the van, smacked the shit out of him and left him there on the highway.”

The rapper immediately hooked up with Stephen Hutton, who continues to manage Kid Rock today. “I believe if you work with somebody from the beginning and they’re honest with you and they work hard at their job, there’s no reason ever to get rid of them,” the Kid said.

It wasn’t until after the recording of his 1996 indie, Early Mornin’ Stoned Pimp, that Kid Rock decided to jump back into the major-label arena.

“It was just sitting around and watching everything going on around you, and I was just thinking, ‘I’m way better than all these [others],’” he said. “I could write better songs than all these people in my sleep.”

Kid Rock subsequently signed to Atlantic because of one reason: money. “Let’s be honest, it always is. Bands that say it’s not are lying or they’re not getting that much money to start with.”

With the help of agent John Dittmar at Pinnacle Entertainment, Kid Rock has developed a taste for touring. His opening slot on the Monster Magnet tour wraps up February 13th and a headline tour starts next month.

“I’m gonna pick-pocket the world, I guess you could say,” hinted Kid Rock of his future plans.

“But in the end, after I steal everything from them, they’re gonna realize they got something very valuable for what I pocketed them for.” ✦

“I could write better songs than all these people in my sleep.”

United Kingdom: LONDON-BASED Metropolis is putting together the bill for a major outdoor show in Wales' Margam Park for May 29. Catatonia will headline the show. Metropolis is also promoting a two-day festival in the Brighton area at the end of July.

The company's Paul Hutton told POLLSTAR, "Margam Park, near Park Talbot, is a gorgeous site and pretty well connected. We're in the process of putting a bill of probably six acts on one day on one stage with a capacity of between 30,000 and 35,000." He added, "It's really big news in South Wales - in fact, we think it's the biggest green field, e.g. non-stadium event, which has ever been held in Wales. The band wanted to headline an outdoor show and, like anybody, they wanted to do it in their own backyard."

Metropolis is also promoting about half of Catatonia's March tour plus two shows with the band in North Wales at Royal International Pavilion in Llangollen. The current flotilla of Welsh bands has revived the market there and Hutton said, "Before, Cardiff International Area wasn't used that much - maybe one show a month in each field of music—but in the past six months, there's been absolutely loads of gigs there and it's changed the accent on things. And a Welsh band will sell better than a non-Welsh act."

In Brighton, the promoters are using Stanmer Park, the site - until two years ago - of the Essential Music Festival. Essential had grown to a 15,000-capacity event and pulled out when the local council limited the capacity to 8,500. Brighton '99 takes place July 31 - August 1. Hutton said, "We haven't decided on music policy. We're waiting to see what's available in the budget to see what artists we can book. It's a fairly localised event and it's got a great catchment area. I think there is room for a few localised events in geographically underused areas."

The problems for Essential, he believes, were caused mainly by the traffic generated by the event. "Essential had pretty bad traffic problems and it was also during the exam period so the University buildings down the road wouldn't allow their car parks to be used. We envisage far fewer problems if we can arrange good off-site parking."

• ESSENTIAL, WHICH FOLDED ITS festival operation in 1997 after overstretching itself with a less than sold-out double event in London's Finsbury Park, is considering a number of possible outdoor promotions this year. Promoter Ish Ali told POLLSTAR they are looking at a millennium show and events in Cornwall to coincide with the solar eclipse. The eclipse is due to happen in August, and Cornwall is where eclipse watchers want to be.

However, the area does not have a suitable infrastructure for putting on major events and industry figures say the local council is unlikely to respond favourably to the many license applications being put forward.

Meanwhile, Essential continues to promote in the region, including regular shows at Brighton's Pressure Point club. March sees Boom Boom Satellite, (March 6), Younger Younger (7), Symposium (15) and Alex Reese (20). DJ Krush & Jazz Fudge do Brighton's Zap Club February 16, Josh Wink is at the Honey Club (25) and author Irvine Welsh is DJing with Kris Needs and K-Roka at the Honey Club March 11. On March 9, drum & bass label V Recordings bring Legends of The Dark Black to the Zap.

• IN SCOTLAND, THE TRIAL OVER the death of driver Jim Hunter in 1996, the day before an Oasis concert in Balloch Country Park, Dunbartonshire, resumed January 26. On trial is one of Scotland's major promoters, Regular Music's Barry Wright, along with site manager Alex Prasher and William Murray, the driver of the forklift truck involved in the accident. The various charges relate to breaches of the Health & Safety Act, and include failing to ensure the working area was safe and driving a forklift when not trained to do so.

Hunter, 25, died after being crushed between the lorry he had been driving - which had become stuck in the mud - and a forklift which was trying to free it. Regular's Barry Wright has said the death "was absolutely tragic." However, he added, "We are vigorously defending ourselves against the charges." The case, coming as it does as the U.K.'s Pop Code is being revised, is likely to raise questions about the implementation of health and safety regulations at large music events, the role of local authorities and the issue of promoters' liability for any incident occurring under their jurisdiction.

• HOMELANDS, THE FOLLOW-UP to Creamfields, last year's Mean Fiddler dance co-promotion, has announced the first main festival bill of the summer. Following the internal split within Cream - last year's partners - Darren Hughes of Cream joins with the Mean Fiddler under his new company home.

A mixture of live acts and DJs, including Chemical Brothers, Faithless, Asian Dub Foundation, Fat Boy Slim, DJ Shadow, Paul Oakenfold, Underworld, Monkey Mafia, Red Snapper, Carl Cox, Gilles Peterson, Pete Tong, and The End with Mr C and Slinky, will appear at the Matterley Bowl near Winchester in a total of nine different arenas from 1 p.m. May 29 until 6 a.m. on May 30. Radio 1 will broadcast the festival live and MTV is covering the event as part of its dance programming.

• Ireland: DUBLIN'S LANDSDOWNE Road rugby grounds is once again open for concerts, after judges in the Supreme Court overturned an earlier ruling and decided planning permission was not needed for music events at the site. Promoter Oliver Barry planned two years ago to bring a major U2 concert to the grounds but the local authority Dublin Corporation said it would be an unauthorised use of the land.

While the Irish Rugby Football Union was challenging the decision, local residents were successful in bringing a restraining order barring it from holding concerts in the meantime. The January 22 judgement by the three Supreme Court judges overturns the High Court's ruling last year, which ruled in favour of the Corporation. However, the ruling also made clear promoters should be sensitive to the rights of people living in the area by checking noise levels. Indeed, Irish promoters fear local authority restrictions likely to be put on events there, on noise and traffic, for example, could prove prohibitive.

• Austria: THE FIRST CONFIRMED artists for the European Woodstock bill were announced in Vienna on January 28. Iggy Pop, Zucchero and Skunk Anansie are some of the 100 acts playing the event. It is an unique cross-border collaboration between promoters Coco Tours (Germany), Dr Music (Spain), Mojo Concerts (Holland) and Rock Production, along with Michael Lang - one of the original Woodstock founders - who are bringing Woodstock to Europe this summer for the first time.

The massive festival, which is set to attract 250,000 people to Wiener-Neustadt (40 kms from Vienna) on July 16 - 18, will be followed a week later by Woodstock in the U.S. Lang, who also brought the 1994 Woodstock to Saugerties, said, "I have been determined to get Woodstock to Europe for many years and we are overjoyed it is going ahead."

The bill aims to bring together audience and artists, not just from within the European Union, but throughout Europe - East and West, Steph Pegg of LD Publicity said. Other names announced included Anouk, Herbert Gronemeyer, Vasco Rossi and Die Fantastischen Vier. There are many more high profile names to be confirmed but Pegg said, "agreements had to be made for both the American and European events and there's the Woodstock video, the TV tie-ups - so it's all taking a bit longer than we'd hoped."

Tickets are available at named outlets in Austria, Belgium, Switzerland, Germany, Hungary, Croatia, Holland, Slovenia, Italy, Czech Republic and Spain with more announced shortly. There will be a limit to the amount of tickets available in each country. The production design, by internationally renowned Mark Fisher, is said to incorporate a mammoth landmark structure as well as "portals" into the different worlds on the site. Apart from two main and five other stages, there will be a 24-hour Global Village encompassing a market area, street performers, a communication area, a Woodstock art and film retrospective and an extreme sports park.

The building of the infrastructure starts in March on the site, which will entail 5 km of new roads, 50 km of scaffolding, approximately 500 speakers, 200 microphones and will directly employ around 5,000 personnel.

France: IN CANNES, THE ANNUAL music industry meeting place, Midem 99 was in progress January 23 - 28. Valerie Duthey at Midem press said that although final figures hadn't been collated, there were more than 10,000 participants. The live programme, organised by Dominique Leguern, featured more than 1,100 artists from all over the globe and from different disciplines, including Boyzone, Cher, Steps, The Cardigans, Squeeze, Brilliant Trees, Sack, Ron Sexsmith, Michelle White and The Committed.

There was a focus on Irish, new British, Swedish and new Brazilian acts, while African and Afro-Caribbean music was represented by Toots & The Maytals, Mungali Patasar & Pantar and singers under a Voices of African Women banner. Midem, which saw around 3,900 members from music societies from all over the world, had a seminar programme which included two organised by the International Association of Entertainment Lawyers on music business and the law and music in TV, film and advertising.

Other topics included the potential and pitfalls of the Internet for the distribution of music; music copyright; the record market in Eastern and Central Europe, and CIS countries; the issue of "Bowie Bonds"; and live act versus DJ - does electronic music have to be on a stage to be heard?

Other events under Midem's banner included press conferences from MCY Music on digital distribution, UFPI (French independent labels) announcing a new generation of French independents and Media Tag with "say no to piracy with audio watermarking." And on the 26th, a dinner was held in honour of Person of the Year Frances W. Preston, who is president and CEO of BMI.

Germany: THE RAPIDLY EXPANDING German-based Deutsche Entertainment group announced on January 27 a cooperative agreement with Encore International, an American company which organises live events and merchandising as well as the marketing of TV and film licenses. The news of the deal with Encore means a European entertainment group has a foothold in the almost exclusively U.S.-run North American promoter market.

Encore has agreed to book its acts touring in Germany and the rest of Europe exclusively with Deutsche Entertainment, which includes core music promoter Concert Concept. Deutsche Entertainment said in a statement, the relationship with Encore enables the company to break into the American market and there are plans to take acts such as Modern Talking and Sarah Brightman on tour in the U.S.

Sweden: SINCE COMBINING FORCES with EMA Telstar last year, Swedish promoter Motor, with offices in Sweden, Denmark and Norway, is having a busy spring. There are shows going through both EMA and Motor separately as well as some co-promotions. Petri Lunden told POLLSTAR, "I've never had a spring like it. We have, for instance, Garbage, Robbie Williams, Blur, Manic Street Preachers, Beastie Boys and Boyzone."

Other shows through EMA include Sheryl Crow, The Corrs, Backstreet Boys, Chippendales, Celine Dion and tours with Swedish artists Bo Kaspers Orkester, Jonas Gardell, Louise Hoffsten and Eva Dahlgren.

Lunden also manages The Cardigans, who have been selling out increasingly bigger capacities in Europe. In Finland, a Helsinki venue sold out its 1,500 tickets in two hours. Motor, with EMA, is also promoting what is believed to be Blur's sole continental European concert this year on February 11 at the 1,500-capacity Munchen Brewery in Stockholm. The band is, however, to do a one-off in home town Oxford in February and is looking at selected festival appearances. Lunden says, "Sweden is a good market for Blur and the gig with EMI Sweden is effectively the launch of the new album."

• IN CANADA, NO DOMESTIC signings will be dropped as a result of the consolidation of Seagram Co's Universal Music Group and PolyGram Music Group, according to Ross Reynolds, chairman of Universal Music Group Canada. The acts' performance will continue to be reviewed as a matter of course.

Universal Music Group Canada's combined domestic roster includes such acts as The Tragically Hip, Jann Arden, The Matthew Good Band, Big Sugar, Headstones, Johnny Favourite Swing Orchestra, Limblifter, Ashley MacIsaac, Jason McCoy, Zuckerbaby, and The Kerns Brothers. The fate of Canadian acts Bryan Adams, Ron Sexsmith and Cowboy Junkies - all signed to affiliated labels Stateside - is unknown.

"Fortunately, in contrast to what I'm hearing in the U.S. - and I don't have specific information there - both of the rosters of the previous companies (in Canada) have been fairly lean and fairly focused and financially successful overall, so that we're not cutting any artists specifically as a result of the integration," Reynolds confirmed.

Nearly 50 staff members out of 400 across Canada were laid off in the integration. "With those departments that have been affected, that's it," Reynolds said. "The important thing is that the new organisation is approximately 50-50 from both staffs. We have been working on making it a true merger but ironically, that's how it worked out. Interview everybody, talk to everybody, try to assess where people would fit in the best in terms of their capabilities and that's what we ended up with, which is terrific. It really does reflect what we're trying to do."

- THE 28TH ANNUAL JUNO AWARDS, to be held March 7 at Copps Coliseum in Hamilton, Ontario, will feature performances by Celine Dion, Colin James & The Little Big Band, soulful pop group the Philosopher Kings, pop darlings Sloan, boy band The Moffatts and rap posse Northern Touch. The awards will be hosted by national talk show host/comic Mike Bullard.

Not surprisingly, Titanic chanteuse Dion tops the list of nominees with six, plus a special International Achievement Award. Dion is Canada's only four-time recipient of a Diamond certification (representing one million units sold) and has sold 80 million units worldwide.

Earning four nominations a piece are Kevin Parent, Barenaked Ladies, and the Matthew Good Band. Up for three awards each are Shania Twain, The Tragically Hip, Philosopher Kings, and Jann Arden. Double shots go to Bryan Adams, Love Inc., Hayden, The Moffatts, and Deborah Cox, among others.

Also recognised are Sarah McLachlan, Loreena McKennitt, Holly Cole, The Wilkinsons, Johnny Favourite Swing Orchestra, Emm Gryner, Tamia, Terri Clark, Sloan, Maestro, Paul Brandt, Leahy, Jason McCoy, Robbie Robertson, and more.

- UNIVERSAL CONCERTS Canada's senior VP of Central Canadian Operations Riley O'Connor reported that Shania Twain is "breaking box office records. It's absolutely gonzo." Only shows in Moncton, Quebec City, Montreal, Ottawa, Hamilton, Toronto have gone on sale but "every date is sold out." O'Connor added that 'N Sync's only Canadian date at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens, March 9 sold out in 15 minutes.

- TOM COCHRANE IS SET TO LAUNCH his first national tour behind his new EMI Music Canada album, Xray Sierra. Universal Concerts Canada is promoting the majority of the dates (some 15), the first of which is February 17 at Winnipeg's 1,400-seat Walker Theatre. The last is March 6 at Toronto's 1,000-capacity Phoenix Concert Theatre. Other dates in smaller markets will be promoted by the venues themselves.

- MIC CHECK MAGAZINE AND Dent Entertainment are filing a lawsuit against the owners of Toronto world/urban club the Bamboo for breach of contract.

Publisher/promoter Denton Mitchell says his company had a signed agreement with the Bamboo for one show a month for a period of 12 months. Denton says he discovered the Bamboo had booked a private party. December 17, the same night he had booked and started advertising his R&B show, featuring In Essence and Kaybe.

Mitchell says he is following through with the suit because this is the second time the venue has breached its contract. Mitchell filed a suit, for breach of contract and assault, in February 1997, after the club double-booked a show there. He had a verbal contract with the Bamboo and eventually settled out of court, accepting an offer of one show a month for a year.

- MUSIC CHANNEL MTV NETWORKS Asia is claiming to have boosted its distribution to more than 100 million homes in 1998. MTV Mandarin, MTV India and MTV Southeast Asia reach some 77 million homes via cable and satellite distribution, while terrestrial deals reach an additional 24 million homes.

The network's key markets are China, with more than 37 million homes, Indonesia with 16 million and India with 10 million. The distribution boost follows last month's deal with South Korean conglomerate CJ Entertainment's cable music channel, n.net. MTV will co-produce programming for the channel.

- IN LESS PLEASANT NEWS for the channel, the 1999 MTV Music Honours have been postponed just days before the February 4th event. Problems with the event – due to be held in Beijing – were first reported several weeks ago. An official statement had not yet been released, but the show has apparently been held up so details with co-producer CCTV, China's state-owned television station, can be ironed out. A new date has not yet been announced.

He said he was unaware that one of his traditional chants had been lifted by Enigma. Difang's album of indigenous chants garnered him commercial and critical success in Taiwan. Other members of the community to have achieved success on the local music front include dance diva Chang Hui-Mei and rockers Chang Chen-Yueh and Power Station.

- AUTHORITIES IN THE CHINESE province of Hubei are reportedly searching for a legislator allegedly responsible for organising a fake concert by a prominent Hong Kong star. Local reports indicate that between 30,000 and 40,000 people bought tickets for a phony November 16 concert by Canto-pop star Andy Lau Tak-wah.

The organisers had schemed to have a lookalike stand in. That plan failed and the resulting melee led to the destruction of some of the stadium's facilities and sound equipment. Seven people have been arrested but police are still looking for suspected ring-leader Yang Xiaobo, a member of the city's legislature.

- INDIA'S MOST WELL-KNOWN musical export, Ravi Shankar, will receive that country's highest civilian honour. President K.R. Narayanan will present Shankar with the Bharat Ratna (Jewel of India), India's highest award for national service. The 78-year-old California resident came to international prominence thanks to collaborations with former Beatles member George Harrison. The sitar player has worked with, amongst others, Indian Nobel Laureate Rabindranath Tagore and American jazz great John Coltrane.

• MARILYN MANSON ENJOYED AN interview with journalist Murray Engleheart so much he invited him backstage to the Sydney Big Day Out. He later spied the non-inhaling scribe during his set and yelled out to the audience, "That's the guy who sold me my drugs, he's a drug dealer."

He was in no laughing mood when the Big Day Out tour wound up in Perth on the weekend. The crowd seemingly turned on Manson, pelting him with sneakers and plastic bottles. Angered after he got a bruise on his head, Manson jumped off stage and threatened to kill his attackers before becoming involved in a scuffle with an audience member who was later arrested. Manson cut his hour-long set 20 minutes. Early the next morning, he caught a plane back to L.A.

• THERE WAS NO LOVE AND brotherhood vibes between Fun Lovin' Criminals and Underworld after Republica's Saffron ended her relationship with Underworld's Karl Hyde and started chilling out with FLC's Fast. A fracas began between the two acts at the Sydney Big Day Out show after Underworld's set, and flared up when they arrived at their Melbourne hotel to check in at the same time. Words were exchanged, and Underworld stomped off to book into another hotel.

The Dirty Three played a shortened 20-minute set, wearing arm bands. Their sound engineer, Norm Fagg, had died a few days before of a heroin overdose. He had just organised a tribute show to musician Andrew Entsch, who died from heroin.

• SOME WALLS OF THE SYDNEY Hordern Pavilion, scene of thousands of rock concerts, were to be knocked down as part of the refurbishment of Fox Studio. But someone remembered that the wall near the switchboard contained a multitude of signatures, including those by Eric Clapton, Fleetwood Mac, Sherbet, Skyhooks, Hush, Village People and Cold Chisel, as well as tennis players and boxers. The wall was preserved and will be exhibited at the studio reception area.

• FOLLOWING LAST WEEK'S ITEM that Run-DMC's Adelaide and Melbourne shows were canceled due to poor ticket sales, the rap act pulled a no-show on promoter Adrian Camilleri. He was waiting for them at Auckland airport – and kept a-waiting.

• THE OFFSHORE FESTIVAL returns this Easter at a massive farm near the surf resort of Torquay in Victoria, where about 100 of the world's best surfers strut their stuff. Californian punk act link 182 will make it their only Australian show, with Ben Harper and Jon Spencer Blues Explosion already confirmed.

• JAZZ/BLUES SINGER GRACE Knight played a special concert for the Princess of Thailand and 350 other dignitaries last week and will do two more shows in Bangkok. She returns for further shows in Thailand next month.

• OLYMPIC GOLDEN SWIMMER Kieren Perkins has upset some people by registering his nickname Superfish. One was a Queensland sports club with that name. Sydney funk band Superfish say they've been using that name for four years and are lodging a protest. The band has a CD coming in a few months, and doesn't want that, or its merchandising run of hats, T-shirts and g-strings, affected.

GIGS & BYTES

► In the ongoing controversy surrounding MP3 files — the technology that allows for music to be reproduced at a fraction of the file size of other music file formats, making it easy to send across the Net — it might be best to borrow a line from the pro gun folks: MP3 doesn't cause music piracy, people cause music piracy.

Cary Sherman, senior executive VP & general counsel for the Recording Industry Association Of America (www.riaa.com), recently described the RIAA's efforts to eliminate music piracy on the Net. Sherman said that, in addition to tracking down Web sites that post illegal MP3 files, the RIAA is also working on educating the public in regards to copyright laws.

In his speech at Midem in Cannes, France, Sherman mentioned conducting focus groups on college campuses to determine what would discourage students from posting illegal music files. Surprisingly, according to Sherman, "The threat of criminal prosecution was largely irrelevant." What the students were really concerned about was "suspension or dismissal from their university, or even worse, much worse, losing their Internet privileges."

Sherman also mentioned that the RIAA will be "launching a campaign to work with search engines." One search engine that has already entered the MP3 controversy in a big way is Lycos (www.lycos.com), which has created an entire section dedicated to searching for MP3 files. This, understandably, caught the attention of the RIAA, which immediately contacted Lycos. In a press release, the RIAA stated, "They (Lycos) have committed to work with us to develop procedures to eliminate infringing sites from their directory."

This doesn't mean that Lycos will actually investigate every link returned in an MP3 search. Instead, whenever Lycos learns of a site containing unauthorized MP3 files, it will eliminate it from its database. "People just assumed that because we said we had an MP3 search engine, that we somehow endorsed piracy. This is not the case," said Lycos spokesperson Brian Payea. "We always said we will do whatever we're required to by the applicable statutes. When things are pointed out to us when someone does the investigation, we will take the appropriate actions as required."

Lycos calls its MP3 site the "world's largest MP3 Internet Music Directory." The directory was created through a joint effort between Lycos and Fast Search & Transfer ASA, owners of the world's largest FTP site. A press release heralding the new site stated, "The new MP3 search site contains searchable Web links to over half a million MP3 files — 10 times larger than any other MP3 file resource."

► Lycos isn't the only major Net entity that has gotten behind MP3. Diamond Multimedia (www.diamondmm.com), which earned the RIAA's wrath last year when it announced the Diamond Rio, a small personal MP3 player, has launched its own portal dedicated to MP3.

Located at www.rioport.com, it includes links to authorized MP3 files. Last year, the RIAA unsuccessfully tried to obtain a permanent injunction preventing Diamond from marketing the Rio. In the court proceedings that followed, Diamond argued that the Rio could only play back files transferred to it from a computer and that the Rio could not transfer files to another machine.

Hackers, however, have reportedly been successful in creating software that thwarts Diamond's efforts to prevent files from being transferred from the Rio to another device and have posted it for free on the Net. A Diamond spokesperson indicated the company wasn't really pleased with the hackers' software but it wasn't going to do anything about it.

► It's been in testing for months and now Ticketmaster Online's My Ticketmaster (www.ticketmaster.com) is open for business. My Ticketmaster allows for users to customize their own version of TM, including notification of on-sales as well as directions to venues, parking and more.

My Ticketmaster also includes the Ticketmaster Event Ticker, a ticker program the user can customize that runs along the bottom of the computer screen listing the latest in on-sale info. Other features include IPIX 360-degree photographic images and 3-D virtual reality images of more than 75 venues including Radio City Music Hall, the Great Western Forum and Chicago's Comiskey Park. The customer can check out the sight lines, see where his/her seats are and even take a tour of the venue.

"We're extremely excited about the launch of My Ticketmaster," said TM prexy Terry Barnes. "The Internet is a wonderful vehicle for expanding our core ticketing business and provides another easy, convenient way for consumers to acquire tickets to their favorite events." ◀

WHERE FAMILY ENTERTAINMENT LIVES!

Dave Williams: An Appreciation

Each of us can point to someone who, early on in our careers, exerted a powerful influence. These larger-than-life figures continue to cast their shadow over our hearts and minds long after circumstance and intimacies have changed. For a number of us in the concert community, Dave Williams was such a person.

Though Dave's appetites were large, one soon realized there were more modest - and intensely private - needs at work, needs which were rooted in a desire for respect and friendship, acceptance and admiration. He was a man of extremes; complex yet uncomplicated, combative yet surprisingly sensitive. He shunned the harsh glare of our industry's spotlight yet loved holding forth on various controversies.

Even on the phone, you could not help but be struck by his enormous presence. Dave's deceptively simple conversational style transformed incidents into incisive observations. He would pepper his insights with a famous blue streak - not to cause upset but to colorfully drive home his unique point of view.

He was what the French call a raconteur - chattering with amazing energy and hilarity about what he was up to, where he had been and what he had seen, offering an opinion on every subject. Because Dave was a terrific narrator - and, we must add, a gifted mimic - one listened with relish and delight.

After the last dollar had been accounted for at show settlement, Dave wound down with late night television. Dave was particularly fond of quirky gangster flicks portraying larger-than-life men struggling to come to terms with two conflicting worlds: one, a vividly imagined past now quickly disappearing; the other, a rapidly changing arena where brand new rules of etiquette and position obtain.

It was that sense of colliding worlds with which Dave starkly saw people generally and our business specifically: sacrifice versus selfishness, reality versus humbuggery, loyalty versus those who would casually renege on their commitments. With Dave, his gruff exterior confused some as it belied a shrewd intelligence and far more tender man than one might at first imagine.

This was a basic truth over which Dave exerted no control: people either loved or shunned him with equal intensity and he, in turn, embraced others the same way. He was as enthusiastic and fierce in his relationships as he was in everything he tackled. Once you were enlisted as a true friend, Dave never wavered in his genuine affection for you. He became the Big Brother of which books are written - full of humor and zest, roguish charm, an unerring instinct to nail your weaknesses, exasperatingly protective and always, always at the ready to offer refuge from gathering storms.

Dave devoted his career to Cellar Door and the Cellar Door organization today is a testament to his and Jack's joint handiwork. It was Dave who gave Cellar Door its irreverence, practical bent and devotion to consistency. Indeed, the very soul of Cellar Door is Dave's lasting legacy.

But, to our way of thinking, the most important point about Dave is that he lived as he truly believed. As the sun began to set on his life, Dave accepted his difficult fate on his own terms with great courage and tremendous dignity, an inspiration to his family, friends and even hardened doctors.

Reminiscing with him these past months, a deeper sense of purpose and calm crept into our conversations. Perhaps such undercurrents were rustlings of spiritual feelings, perhaps it was Dave contemplating his destiny. Whatever the source, we are truly thankful Dave had the opportunity to resolve so many things on his own terms in ways he felt most appropriate.

Dave was a wonderful friend, a man full of wonders and wonderment. Long after the notice of his passing fades into the fog of memory, he will have earned a special status in the concert industry. For more than a few of us, the long shadow cast by Dave's formidable presence will remain alive in our hearts for the rest of our lives.

"30 Years And Still Burning"

BETWEEN THE DATES

THE NO IMMUNITY TOUR

► The Rolling Stones were a mere two nights into their No Security tour when Mick Jagger was felled by the flu. The January 29th and 30th shows in San Jose were canceled and have not yet been rescheduled.

According to various news reports, Mick protested the Friday cancellation and wanted to go ahead with the Saturday performance, but his doctor and the tour's insurance people disagreed.

Fortunately, he was good to go for the February 2nd show in Denver. It had been 27 years since the Stones last played the mile-high city.

The San Francisco doctor who had been looking after Jagger for several weeks said the 55-year-old singer's screaming during the tour's opening night may have contributed to the illness.

"He's not a youngster," Dr. Steven Sloan said in the San Francisco Chronicle. "The physical and mental demands placed on him are outrageous."

CSN & MAYBE Y

► Michael Cohl — the man behind the Rolling Stones' three recent international tours and U2's Pop Mart outing, among other huge projects — has reportedly issued a proposal for a Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young road trip this summer.

An article in the January 31st Los Angeles Times said Cohl has made an offer guaranteeing the middle-aged folk rockers more than $500,000 per show.

While David Crosby, Stephen Stills and Graham Nash have performed together regularly over the years, Neil Young hasn't toured with them since 1974. And it seems doubtful that the fiercely iconoclastic Young could be enticed by money alone.

CSN manager Gary Tolman said the group has no summer tour plans right now and declined to comment further. The Neil Young camp had not commented on the reunion tour as of press time but Young does have plans for a solo acoustic tour beginning March 2nd. Dates have been confirmed through March 26th and this is apparently just the first leg of that road trip.

PHISHING FOR A NEW SITE

► Phish and Bill Graham Presents have withdrawn their application to hold a millennium concert in Oahu, Hawaii. According to the joint statement posted February 1st on Phish's official Web site, the plans were scratched because the time line just didn't pan out. The band feared that by the time the permits would be in order and the show officially announced, fans would have a difficult time finding seats on flights from the mainland to Hawaii.

BGP had hoped to have tickets on sale by the end of January but "the permit process... has taken considerably longer than expected."

Rumor mongers claimed the Kualoa Ranch owners had approved the gathering and things seemed to be moving right along when the deal was called off.

A replacement site for Phish's end-of-the-century bash hasn't been selected but the band is intent on making it happen.

HOT NEW TOURS

► Lyle Lovett tours in March as do The Roots.... Goo Goo Dolls are on their way to tour Japan and Australia then return for a few dates with the Stones before embarking on a headline tour March 30th.... America has tour dates stretching from February through July.... Death metalheads Sepultura tour the States this month and next.... Sugar Hill Gang and Grand Master Melle Mel are co-headlining a few dates....

Medeski Martin and Wood have April tour dates.... Cibo Matto's tour starts at Carnegie Hall February 22nd.... Less Than Jake hits the road later this month.... Rufus Wainwright and V.A.S.T. each have month-long tours in March....

Wayne Kramer plays Europe in April and May.... Deana Carter has isolated dates on the books.... KISS has added some shows in South America....

The Creatures return to the U.S. for an April club tour.... Also watch for JGB, King Konga, Aaron Carter, Berlin, The Damnations, My Friend Steve, Dropkick Murphy's, Beth Wood, Freddie McGregor, and Maestro. ✕

It's what's new and exciting in music

In today's world there are thousands of artists competing to be heard. This creates an environment that limits exposure for many great artists. As a result too many emerging artists never get heard. It doesn't have to be that way.

On a weekly basis millions of music fans come to Best Buy looking for what's new and exciting in music. Best Buy is introducing a campaign called Find 'Em First to spotlight the best of the new emerging artists. We are stepping forward to work directly with artists, managers, labels, distribution channels, and media partners to create the ultimate connection to the fan. Find 'Em First utilizes the marketing and media strengths of Best Buy to focus consumers' attention on new artists. Best Buy's Find 'Em First campaign is about taking a bold step forward in our ongoing commitment to artist development.

If you'd like to find out more about the Find 'Em First campaign, send your inquiries to FindEmFirst@bestbuy.com

Now that's a great idea!
