Glossary of Cable Television Terms

Derived in part from the National Cable & Telecommunications Association's Glossary

Access Channels—Channels set aside by the cable operator for use by the public, educational institutions, municipal government or for lease on a non-discriminatory basis.

ACE—See CableACE.

ADI (Area of Dominant Influence)—The Arbitron definition of a viewing market for ratings & sales purposes. An ADI market is composed of all counties in which the home market stations receive a majority of their viewing. Note: Arbitron stopped compiling TV station data after 1993.

Addressability—The capability of controlling the operation of individual cable subscriber terminals by sending commands from a central computer. See also Two-Way.

Aerial Plant—Cable that is suspended in the air generally on telephone or utility poles.

Affiliate—A TV station which carries, by contractual agreement, network programming. Also, the cable system to which a program service transmits its programming, usually by satellite.

Amplifier—A device that boosts the strength of an electronic signal. Amplifiers are spaced at regular intervals throughout a coaxial cable system to maintain the signal strength.

Analog—Transmission of audio and/or video signal by a continually variable waveform signal.

Arbitron—A rating service which provides statistical information on listening habits & demographics for radio stations.

Bandwidth—The portion of the radio spectrum needed to transmit pictures, sound or both. Analog U.S. TV stations use a bandwidth of six million cycles per second (6 MegaHertz).

Basic Cable—Usually the minimum amount of cable TV service available to a subscriber for a standard installation & monthly fee. It generally includes over-the-air broadcast signals & local originations.

Bi-directional—Two way cable communications.

Bird—Colloquial for communications satellite.

C-band—Frequencies in the 4 and 6 GHz regions used in satellite earth station feeds in many television station configurations.

CableACE (Award for Cablecasting Excellence)—The cable TV industry's highest award for original, made-for-cable programming both locally & nationally.

Cablecasting—The use of a cable system or a satellite programming service to provide certain types of programming.

Cable modem—A two-way device allowing the delivery and reception of broadband data to and from a subscriber's PC via cable.

Cable Penetration—The percentage of TV homes subscribing to cable TV.

Cable Television—A communications system that distributes broadcast TV signals plus satellite signals, original programming & other material by means of a coaxial and/or optical fiber cable.

Cable TV Households—An occupied dwelling unit with one or more television sets currently receiving cable television service.

Cash Flow—Cash flow is defined as operating income minus interest expense and it basically indicates the amount of cash available before taxes, capital expenditures and debt retirement.

CARS (Cable Television Relay Services)—A microwave system used to relay TV, FM radio, cablecasting & other signals to a terminal for distribution over cable.

CG (Character Generator)—A device which electronically displays letters & numbers on the TV screen.

Channel Capacity—The maximum number of channels that a system can carry simultaneously.

Churn—The percentage of cable TV subscribers that add or delete program services, or cable service entirely.

Class A Television Service—An FCC classification, created under a November 1999 Act of Congress, of certain qualifying low-power TV stations which have more protection from full service stations than most LPTV stations.

Coaxial Cable—An actual line of transmission for carrying TV signals. Its principal conductor is either a pure copper or copper coated wire, surrounded by insulation & then encased in aluminum or copper.

Common Carrier—The generic name for any medium which carries messages prepared by others for a fee and is required by law to offer its services on a non-discriminatory basis. Common carriers are regulated by federal and state agencies and exercise no control over message content.

Compression—The act of reducing the amount of bandwidth needed to carry audio and/or video signals. Either analog or digital compression is technically possible.

Converter—A device that, associated with a TV set, can increase the channel capacity of the TV set.

DBS (Direct Broadcast Satellite)—A system in which signals are transmitted directly from a satellite to a home receiving dish. DBS refers specifically to high-power transmissions in bands specified by the FCC, rather than C-band which home satellite dishes receive.

Descrambler—An electronic circuit that restores a scrambled video signal to its original form.

Demographics—The breakdown by age, sex, income levels, education, race, etc. of TV viewers.

Digital—Binary number method for signal and/or data transmission.

Digital Service (contour)—Satisfactory service expected at least 90% of the time for at least 50% of the receiving locations.

Digital transmission—A way of increasing channel capacity through digital compression rather than laying new cable. To receive the service, a subscriber needs a digital converter.

Dish—The installation, also called an earth station, for receiving and/or transmitting electronic signals between the earth and communications satellites.

Distant Signal—A TV channel from another market imported and carried by a cable TV system.

DMA (Designated Market Area)—The Nielsen definition of a viewing market for rating & sales purposes. A DMA market is composed of all counties in which commercial stations assigned to the market achieve the largest share of audience.

Downstream—The flow of signals from the cable system headend through the distribution network to the subscriber.

Drop Cable—The small-diameter cable feeding into the subscriber's home.

Earth Station—A structure, referred to as a dish, used for receiving and/or transmitting signals to or from a satellite.

Exclusivity—The contractual right to be the sole exhibitor of a program in a particular area during a particular time.

Expanded Basic—Additional cable service or services offered to the subscriber at a charge in addition to the basic cable service.

Fiber optic cable—Very thin & pliable cylinders of glass or plastic in a weather resistant sheathing which carry data as light waves in wide bands of frequencies. Can be used to replace or supplement coaxial cable.

Franchise—The contractual agreement between a cable operator and a governmental body which defines the rights and responsibilities of each in the construction and operation of a cable TV system.

Franchising Authority—The governmental body responsible for specifying the terms of a franchise, awarding it and regulating its operation. While the franchising authority is usually a local city or county body, some areas are regulated on the state level.

Governmental Cablecasting—An opportunity for federal, state and local officials to disseminate information to their constituents via cable TV. This can be achieved by periodically submitting videocassettes to the cable operator, sending abridged newsletters for display on a system's alphanumeric channel or participating in interview programs on access channels.

Grade A Service (Contour)—Satisfactory broadcast television service expected at least 90% of the time for at least 70% of the receiving locations.

Grade B Service (Contour)—Satisfactory broadcast television service expected at least 90% of the time for at least 50% of the receiving locations within the contour, in the absence of interfering co-channel and adjacent-channel signals.

Grandfathering—The situation that exists when a law is passed after a distribution system has begun operating, and the system may be exempt from that law.

Headend—The electronic control center of the cable system. This is the site of the receiving antenna and the signal processing equipment.

Homes passed—The total number of homes passed by a cable system, thus having the potential of being served promptly.

Hubs—Local distribution centers where signals are taken from a master feed and transmitted over cable to subscribers.

Impulse Pay-Per-View—PPV programming which can be ordered instantly through a remote control or similar device.

Independent—A cable TV system individually owned and operated, not affiliated with a multiple-system operator. Also, a TV station not affiliated with a major network.

Institutional Loop—The upstream transmission of signals from schools, libraries, etc., to the cable headend where the signals are added to the downstream distribution to subscribers. It also can be a separate, closed system interconnecting governmental agencies for sending and receiving voice and data.

Interactive—A sophisticated two-way system which has the capability of connecting more than two points.

Interconnect—The transmission of cable signals or advertising from one cable system to another so that programming and information may be shared.

- IPTV (Internet Protocol Television)—Digital television service delivered via a broadband internet connection.
- ITFS (Instructional Television Fixed Service)—Channels used to provide educational instruction and cultural & professional development in schools & other institutions, as well as other wireless services. The channels are often used for wireless communications.
- Ku-band—Frequencies in the 12 GHz band used for business and video satellite services.
- Leased Channels—Any channel made available by the operator for a fee.
- LMDS (Local Multipoint Distribution Service)—An MDS service which may be used to supplement capacity of wireless cable systems or for non-video data or other purposes.
- Local Franchising Authority—Entity granted authority to regulate cable rates in a specified service area according to provisions in the FCC cable rules.
- Local Origination Programming (LO)—Programming developed, leased or purchased by a cable TV system for the community it serves.
- Local Signals—Over-the-air broadcast signals available within the community, usually carried on a cable system's minimum service level of programming.
- Low Power TV (LPTV)—A secondary broadcast television service licensed at a low power. Some LPTV stations provide original programming; some are affiliates of national or regional networks; others operate as translators for full-power TV stations. See also Class A Television Service.
- MDS (Multipoint Distribution Service)—A private service utilizing a very high frequency to transmit one TV signal or other services. It is commonly used to broadcast pay TV or as part of a wireless phone system.
- Microwave—A transmitting system that relays signals from one tower to another, linking cable systems or other services.
- Miles of Plant—The total miles, to the nearest tenth, of coaxial and/or fiber optic cable in use to provide cable in each system's service area.
- Minimum Channel Capacity—The minimum number of 6 MHz channels that can be carried on a particular cable system simultaneously.
- MMDS (Multichannel Multipoint Distribution Service)—An MDS service with the capability of transmitting more than one TV signal. Also known as wireless cable.
- MSO (Multiple System Operator)—A company that owns and operates more than one cable system. Also called group operator.
- Multiplexing—Practice of cable programmers such as HBO and Showtime of providing multiple channels of different programming simultaneously.
- Must Carry—Provision in the Cable Act of 1992 by which a broadcast station is entitled to carriage of its signal by a cable system.
- Narrowcasting—The delivery of specialized programming to a specific audience.
- NCTA (National Cable Telecommunications Association)—The major trade association for the cable TV industry. See index for complete listing.
- Network—An entity that offers programming on a regular basis for 15 hours or more per week to either regional or national affiliates under contract. A network may be either broadcast or cable TV oriented; both are usually delivered via satellite.
- Nielsen—A rating service which provides statistical information on viewing habits and demographics.
- Non-duplication Rules—Restrictions placed on cable TV systems prohibiting them from importing distant programming which is simultaneously available from local TV stations.
- North American Datum of 1927 (NAD-27)—A system of latitude and longitude points established in 1927 which is the standard used by the FCC.
- Off-air—Programming received at the cable system headend from over-the-air broadcast signals.
- Open Cable—Interoperable digital set-top boxes which will provide greater access to interactive services.
- Operating Income—Operating income is the difference between the revenues and direct operating expenses, before interest, depreciation and income taxes.
- Ordinance—Enabling legislation passed by a local government to establish guidelines for the franchising process.
- Pay-Per-View—Cable programming for which subscribers pay on a one-time basis for individual programs, such as prize fights, Broadway and movie premieres.
- Pay Programming—Movies, sports and other programs available to the cable subscriber for a charge in addition to the basic fee.
- Pay Units—A total count of the number of individual pay subscriptions sold by a cable operator for one (1) or more pay programming services.
- Penetration—The ratio of the number of cable subscribers (or pay TV subscribers) to the total number of households passed by the system (or basic subscribers).
- Pole Attachments—The cable TV hookups to telephone or utility poles.
- Retransmission Consent—Negotiated agreement under terms specified in the Cable Act of 1992 by which a broadcast station may be entitled to some consideration in exchange for carriage of its signal by a cable system.
- RFP (Request for Proposals)—The document issued by the franchising authority for the applicant's use. It usually states proposed guidelines, outlines minimum requirements for each applicant and specifies application deadlines.
- Satellite—A device in orbit that receives and transmits signals.
- Security System—The capability of providing interactive services such as emergency rescue, burglar and fire alarm protection.
- Shop-at-Home—Programs allowing subscribers to view products and order them by cable or telephone, including catalogs, shopping, shows, etc.
- Significantly Viewed—Television stations achieving a 3% share of weekly viewing hours (2% for independent stations), and a net weekly circulation of 25% (5% for independent stations) in a given community.
- Submarine Installation—The laying of cable underwater, as opposed to aerial suspension on poles.
- Subscriber—A person who pays cable system or DBS operators for the reception of programs and other electronic services.
- Syndicated Exclusivity—An FCC rule requiring cable systems to black out portions of distant signals in order to protect syndicated programming which local TV broadcasters have under an exclusive contract.
- Teletext—A system of storing and displaying graphic material on the TV screen.
- Television Households—An occupied dwelling unit with one or more television sets.
- Tiered Programming—More than one cable service offered to the subscriber at a charge in addition to the basic cable service.
- Total Households—All occupied dwelling units in a given area.
- Translator—A small transmitter that picks up a distant TV signal, converts it to another channel to avoid interference and retransmits it into areas the original TV station could not reach.
- Transponder—The part of the satellite that receives and re-transmits a signal.
- TV Market Ranking—The 35-mile radius zone surrounding a community with an operating commercial station found in the markets listed in Sections 76.51 & 76.53 of the FCC cable rules.
- Two-Way—A term used to describe a cable system that enables signals to pass in both directions between the headend and the subscriber.
- Underground Installation—The burying of cable underground, as opposed to aerial suspension on poles.
- Upstream—The flow of signals from the subscriber or remote origination point to the headend.
- VCR (Videocassette Recorder)—A device used to record and playback images on magnetic tape, packaged in a cassette.
- Video On-Demand (VOD)—Allows VCR-type control of video or movies offered on PPV basis.

Cable Community Index

This is an index of all communities served by cable systems in the Icarus database. The following symbols indicate the type of service. A delta (▲) indicates an operating cable system. An asterisk(*) indicates a cable franchise awarded but not yet operating. A dagger (†) indicates a cable system application has been made. Cross references in all capital letters (e.g. LAWSON) indicate communities served by an operating cable system. Cross references with an initial capital letter (e.g. Williams) indicate planned service by operating cable systems.

They're setting the rules for the Internet.

We're watching.

www.warren-news.com

Internet copyright and intellectual property; taxation, fraud and e-commerce regulation; privacy, pornography and the First Amendment; antitrust and domain name administration...

Like it or not, rules are being set right now involving these and dozens of other crucial Internet issues. Some may be resolved by industry self-regulation, but others are proving just too attractive for lawmakers and regulators at all levels -- federal, state, and even local.

Washington Internet Daily covers and uncovers the rulemaking process as it's happening, wherever it happens -- on Capitol Hill; at the Justice Department or in the courts; at the SEC, the Federal Communications Commission or the Federal Trade Commission.

Get It First
Get It Right

Everywhere. Every day.
