NO, ladees and gents, the handsome young man above is not a Hollywood impersonation of a brilliant radio executive—he is Godfrey Richard Shafto, and really one of the top-flight radio men in America today. Beginning as a radio ham at the age of 16, then as "Sparks" on sea-going ships at 20, and finally as Manager of Station WIS, Dick Shafto has lived, breathed (but not slept) radio for more than twenty years. And every one of those years has made Dick a more and more important person in this industry.

Speaking of successful years in radio, we think perhaps you'll find a "selfish" interest in one of our own corporate records—the length of time we've served so many of the stations we represent. Because, after all, one of a representative's greatest assets to you is the intimacy with which he knows his stations, their policies and their markets. . . Therefore, we're proud to tell you that here at F&P we still represent the first four stations we started with, ten years ago—now represent nineteen stations with which we have been associated five years or more.

Good representation, it seems to us, is a matter not of divided loyalty, but of double obligation—to the station and to the advertiser. We think it's significant that after years of closest association, so much loyalty is returned to us from both sides of the fence. And this is the greatest kick we get out of our work, here in this pioneer group of radio-station representatives.

OWI to Funnel All Government Broadcasts

Davis Acts to End Confusion in Clearance

The Long-Heralded directive, requiring all Government agencies to channel their radio program plans, network or spot, through the Radio Bureau of the Office of War Information, effective Oct. 1, was issued last Thursday by Elmer Davis, OWI director.

Four Sections

Titled OWI Regulation No. 2, the order is divided into four parts:

1. New Radio Programs Proposed by Headquarters of Government Agencies;
2. Government Material Supplied by National Headquarters to Established Radio Programs;
3. Government Radio Programs Now on the Air, Produced by or for National Headquarters; and

While OWI has been funneling more and more Government program material, confusion has existed over the wether of material received direct from Federal agencies and bureaus. The regulations prescribe in detail the formula to be followed in clearance of all Government programs by stations and networks, eliminate overlapping and duplication, and disturbs a minimum extent normal program schedules.

In identical covering letters to sponsors and advertising agencies and station managers and networks on Sept. 9, Radio Chief Lewis said that the new regulation is established “because radio time is limited” and “to insure uniformity of Government war policy to the end that the public is not confused by overlapping and conflicting statements issued from several sources.” After outlining precise procedure to be followed in the clearing of all new or existing Government programs, whatever their nature, Mr. Davis’ regulations ordered that beginning Oct. 1 the Radio Bureau hold conferences with representatives of Federal departments and agencies now broadcasting programs to review their importance to the war effort.

The new regulation follows OWI General Order No. 1, Section 6, issued July 10 after Mr. Davis took over the operations, definitely designating OWI as the Government’s program clearance agency.

Locals’ Problem

With the spelling out of the radio functions of OWI by Mr. Davis, the work of that organization is vastly increased since it formally becomes the clearing house for all Government programming operations.

Elmer Davis Studies Proposal That He Be Government Voice

URGED by large segments of the public as well as his Government colleagues to return to the air as the Government war spokesman, Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, last Tuesday discussed with officials of all four networks and the trade associations proposals that he broadcast a weekly news analysis on regular schedule. No decision has been reached by Mr. Davis last Friday.

Public Demand

When the former CBS news analyst was drafted last June by President Roosevelt to head OWI, reports immediately cropped up that he would become the official voice of the war-time Government, scheduled weekly on a nationwide network or networks. This report constantly recurred but received no confirmation at OWI headquarters.

With public demand for such a series steadily mounting, and with conflicting arguments advanced concerning the advisability of such an innovation, Mr. Davis called in the network and industry executives for an informal discussion. With Mr. Davis at the Tuesday session were William B. Lewis, former CBS vice-president, now chief of the OWI Radio Bureau, and Douglas Meservey, former NBC program official, now assistant chief of the Radio Bureau.

Attending the conference for the industry were Paul W. Kesten, vice-president and general manager, and Earl H. Gammons, Washington director, for CBS; Frank E. Mullen, vice-president and general manager, and F. M. Russell, Washington vice-president, for NBC; Mark Woods, president, and Kenneth H. Berkeley, Washington director, for the BLUE; Fred Weber, general manager, for MBS; John Shepard 3d, Yankee Network, chairman, and James D. Shouse, WLW-WSAI, Cincinnati, for Broadcasters Victory Council; John E. Fetter, WKZO, Kalamazoo, chairman of the NAB War Committee; and Eugene C. Pulliam, WIRE, Indianapolis, president of Network Affiliates Inc.
Agencies with the networks or stations. In accordance with OWI regulations, No. 1 such speeches will continue to be cleared by the Chief of the Bureau of Publications & Graphics of the OWI.

6. The distribution of all radio scripts and transcriptions will be handled by the Radio Bureau of the OWI unless otherwise approved by the Chief of the Radio Bureau of OWI.

B. Government Material Supplied by National Headquarters to Established Radio Programs

1. Proposals by Government agencies for the inclusion of special material in established programs, commercial or sustaining, will be submitted to the Radio Bureau, OWI. At the discretion of the Radio Bureau this material will be channeled to the proper outlets. Producers of radio programs seeking specific information or assistance from a Federal Agency, will be referred directly to the information division of the proper agency; OWI shall be informed of the assistance or information supplied.

2. Proposals by private organizations, networks, or sponsors for Federal agency collaboration in developing programs or series of programs will be cleared with the Radio Bureau, OWI, by the agency concerned.

3. Allocation Plans (for placing Government messages on commercial and sustaining programs) will be continued by the Radio Bureau of OWI.

Conferences Planned

C. Government Radio Programs Now on the Air, Produced by or for National Headquarters.

1. All Federal Departments and agencies will submit scripts of all broadcasts to the Radio Bureau, OWI, for clearance.

2. Beginning Oct. 1, the Chief of the Radio Bureau, OWI, will hold conferences with representatives of Federal Departments and agencies now broadcasting programs to review the importance of such programs to the war effort.

D. Radio Activities of Government Field Offices

1. Government radio material placed on local stations by or for the field offices of the several agencies will be cleared by the field offices of OWI. However, all instructions sent by the national headquarters of the Government agencies to field offices regarding the use of radio will be submitted for clearance to the Radio Bureau, OWI.

2. Proposals originating with field offices for new regional or national networks or programs or proposals for the inclusion of official material in established regional or national network programs, commercial or sustaining, will be submitted to the information headquarters of the agency concerned for clearance with the Radio Bureau, OWI.

E. This regulation will become effective on Oct. 1, 1942.

DILL IS NOMINATED FOR SEAT IN HOUSE

FORMER SENATOR IS WINNER OF PRIMARY IN THE NORTHWEST

RETURN to Congress of Clarence C. Dill, Washington Senator and co-author of the Radio Act of 1927 and the Communications Act of 1934, was predicted following his victory last week in the Democratic primaries for the seat in House from the 5th District. This district normally is Democratic and Mr. Dill's great popularity is expected to win him the election.

Mr. Dill served in the House from the Spokane district during World War I. Subsequently, he served two terms in the Senate but returned in 1934 and has since been engaged in the practice of law both inSpokane and Washington, D. C.

Mr. Dill's Republican opponent in the primary contest was expected to be Walt Horan, fruit grower. He defeated State Senator Joseph Drumheller in the primaries.

Mr. Dill served as chair of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, in which radio legislation originates, for several years prior to his retirement from public life. He was active in all matters relating to his region.

Frank T. Bell, former secretary to Mr. Dill and former Commissioner of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, was defeated for the Democratic nomination in the Fourth Congressional District.

If elected he will be the second former Senator to serve in the new House. Rep. Wadsworth (R-N.Y.) formerly served as a Senator from New York.

AFM SEEKS RAISE

PHILADELPHIA Musicians' Union, Local 77, in entering negotiations for a new contract this month with the independent stations, indicated that it will ask for a $5 per man increase per week. Contracts expire this month with WPEN and WDAS and attempts will be made to set a new study rate band at WLIB for the first time. This station is to move to Philadelphia from Long Island, Pa., and is increasing its operations to 10,000 watts, fulltime.

BLUE TO MEET

FIRST BLUE business meeting since the network was organized in January will be held Monday, Sept. 14 at the Hotel Roosevelt, with Edgar Kobak, executive vice-president, presiding. Department heads, vice-presidents and division officials will attend to review BLUE operations of the past months and to discuss future plans.

BOARD of Governors of American Television Society, New York, is meeting Sept. 14 to decide future policies and activities of the organization.
Music Probe to Hear Davis, Arnold, Fly

DELAYED by President Roosevelt's mandate that Congressional action be taken promptly on new wartime farm price legislation, the preliminary inquiry into the life and conquests of James C. Petrillo, music czar, gets under way this Thursday (Sept. 17) before the Petrillo Probe Committee, headed by Senator D. Worth Clark (D-Idaho).

Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, who was practically jilted by Petrillo when he sought to have the AFM president call off his bans in the war interest, is scheduled as the first witness before the Senate Interstate Commerce Subcommittee.

Fly, Arnold Next

FCC Chairman James Lawrence Fly, likewise angered over Petrillo's refusal to call off his punitive bans, is scheduled tentatively as the second witness, to appear on Friday. There is also likelihood that Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, who personally is handling anti-trust proceedings against AFM, will appear as the third preliminary witness on Monday (Sept. 21).

This decision was reached by Senator Clark after it became necessary to postpone the preliminary proceedings which were scheduled for Aug. 14 because of Mr. Roosevelt's request for action on cost of living legislation, made in a special message to Congress last Monday and followed by a frank talk over combined networks the same evening. Senators Clark and Tobey (D-N.H.) both are members of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, which will hold hearings on the bill authored by Senator Brown (D-Mich.), dealing with such legislation.

Simultaneously, it was revealed that the hearing on the Dept. of Justice motion for an injunction against AFM and its members, scheduled for Sept. 16 before the Federal District Court in Chicago, had been postponed until Oct. 12.

AFM asked deferral because of the absence from the country of its general counsel, Joseph A. Padway, now in London attending a labor conference. Assistant Attorney General Arnold interposed no objection. It was also made clear, however, that the Government would not be disposed to concur in any further postponements on its motion to enjoin AFM from continuing its ban against use of union musicians in the making of recording and transcription for non-public use.

These actions came as Petrillo continued his relentless campaign against public performance of music. There were prompt repercussions to his surprise action of Sept. 3, banning the making of commercial transcriptions for one-time use on the air [BROADCASTING, Sept. 7]. Representatives of advertising agencies, national advertisers and transcription companies, called together by the NAB last week, deprecated the action and studied means by which they could best cooperate with the Dept. of Justice in combating AFM suppression of this type of advertising, in the face of previous commitments by Mr. Petrillo that such recordings would be exempt.

Cincinnati Episode

There came last Wednesday a parallel of the so-called Interlochen incident, which has aroused Congressional and public condemnation, with the announcement by the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music that it has been forced to abandon its regular series of broadcasts because of Petrillo's orders. The school was scheduled to begin its ninth season of concerts on Oct. 1 over CBS. The National Music Camp broadcasts of the high school orchestra from Interlochen were cancelled on NBC after a 12-year run, because of one of Petrillo's earlier decisions. He claims competition with union musicians, resulting in purported unemployment.

Senator Clark said all members of his subcommittee plan to be on hand for the sessions beginning Thursday. Other members in addition to Senators Tobey and Clark are A. Hill (D-Ala.), Senate majority whip, and Charles O. Andrews (D. Fla.) and Chan Gurney (R-S. D.), former operator of WNAX, Yankton.

Following the preliminary hearings designed to show the need for legislation to curb arbitrary labor union actions which deprive the public of enjoyment of building substance in wartime, the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee will be called upon to vote out the Clark Resolution (S-Res-256) introduced on Aug. 27. Favorable Senate action is regarded as certain—probably during the week of Sept. 21.

Strike Avoided

The probe committee will then have funds with which to retain experts and possibly a committee conference. As was witnessed of the Monday call will be Petrillo himself, it is understood, along with representatives of organizations and industries affected by the Petrillo summary actions.

Another musicians' strike threat was averted last week after AFM had ordered CBS to "pull the plug" on dance band remotes because WCAO, Baltimore, had declined to rehire a staff orchestra because of specific contract provisions guaranteeing "free flow of music."

Last Wednesday night, CBS fed a studio band to the network because of the AFM edict, but subsequently it developed that L. Waters Milbourne, general manager of WCAO, despite the ironclad terms of his contract, agreed to hire an orchestra which had been an increased stipend in order to avoid further retaliation upon the entire network. Thereafter Petrillo withdrew the ban and dance band remotes were picked up Thursday evening.

WCAO entered a contract three years ago containing a clause specifically providing that it could release its staff orchestra if AFM in any manner restricted the free flow of music to the station. With the transcription-record ban, Mr. Milbourne invoked the clause. The orchestra was to have returned Sept. 1 following its summer vacation. When WCAO refused to negotiate, in the light of the protective clause, action was taken through CBS.

NAB Session

Herefore, WCAO has paid approximately $9,000 annually for an eight-man studio orchestra. The new contract calls for an expenditure of approximately $13,300.

Acting immediately on the Petrillo edict against commercial transcriptions the NAB called together a group of about 24 representatives of transcription companies, advertising agencies and national advertisers last Tuesday afternoon in New York to discuss the effects of the AFM stoppage of sponsored transcribed programs for one-time use which had been effected Sept. 3 [BROADCASTING, Sept. 7].

Meeting was attended by executives of the Assn. of National Advertisers and the American Assn. of Advertising Agencies in addition to representatives of a half-dozen leading advertising agencies and of NBC's Radio-Recording Division, Columbia Recording Corp., Associated Music Publishers, World Broadcasting System and Lang-Worth Feature Programs, all associate members of the NAB. Russell P. Place, NAB counsel, and Sydney M. Kaye, special counsel for the NAB, headed the association's delegation to the session.

Question of how each group affected by the ban on transcribed programs could best cooperate with the Dept. of Justice in combating the AFM suppression of this type of advertising was discussed at length, but no official action was taken by the NAB. Thereafter adoption of a statement condemning the ruling against single-use transcriptions as "another act of aggression against wartime morale communications in the United States."

"Who Is Injured?"

Statement released by Mr. Kaye following the meeting, goes on to point out that on July 31 Mr. Petrillo had written to Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, that: "Electrical transcriptions for radio, used as intended—once only—are not detrimental to the American Federation of Musicians if destroyed after such use."

Stating that after granting permission for the continued recording of these programs for a month, Mr. Petrillo suddenly notified all advertisers and transcription companies to whom such permission (Continued on page 44)

Atlantic Reverses Grid Policy, Arranging 53-Station Hookup

Gas Rationing Forces Cut in Schedule But Firm Will Air Eastern Contests for Seventh Year

REVERSING previous plans, Atlantic Refining Co., Philadelphia, has decided and announced for the seventh year broadcasts of football games of leading colleges in Jersey and eastern states and in Ohio, Joseph R. Rollins, spokesman for the company announced. Atlantic's schedule this year will be curtailed, Mr. Rollins explained, in line with marketing conditions in the gasoline jantion region. Instead of a net of 88 stations used last year, this year's program will include 53 stations covering upward of 13 states.

Early in August, Atlantic announced it had been compelled to drop the football broadcasts because of the gas shortage. The decision was revised, however, and the company has worked out a schedule, still incomplete, which covers a territory north from Saltimore, and east from Cleveland and Columbus.

Harvard Signs

Highlight of the 1942 program is the agreement to broadcast Harvard U games commercially for the first time. The agreement with Harvard means that all schools of the "Big Three" will be included in the Atlantic sports network. Yale and Princeton were broadcast last year; Princeton for the first time.

In metropolitan New York, WOR will handle a composite schedule of Princeton, Columbia and Dartmouth games. Upstate stations will broadcast Cornell, Syracuse and Colgate, the "Big Three" of New York State football.

Boston College, Holy Cross, Brown, Harvard and Yale will be heard in New England.

Plans for Eastern Pennsylvania and Southern New Jersey are incomplete. Use of 12 stations is contemplated, but contracts have not yet been completed with the colleges. So far a composite schedule of Temple and Villanova games on WIP, Philadelphia, has been approved. No other games or stations have been definitely decided on.

Pitt Included

Eight Western Pennsylvania stations will handle University of Pittsburgh and Penn State college games. Two-station hookup in Ohio will carry Ohio State's schedule and a three station Maryland net will air Princeton and Navy.

Atlantic's original decision to drop the broadcasts after six years had come as a blow to colleges, al-ready facing a loss in athletic revenues. Atlantic had paid each school from $5,000 to $50,000 for radio rights each season.

Last year's Atlantic schedule, on 83 stations in the company's利用 critical materials, stretched from New England to Florida on the Atlantic seaboard and as far west as Ohio, was the largest schedule ever placed by Atlantic. It included games of leading colleges, high schools and professional teams.

Humble Oil to Sponsor Southwest Grid Games

WBAP, Fort Worth, will be one of four Texas Quality Network stations scheduled to air ten or more Southwest Conference and post-season football games under the Humble Oil and Refining Company of Houston sponsorship banner beginning Sept. 26. Other TQN stations will be WFWA, Dallas; KPRC, Houston; and WOAI, San Antonio.

KGKO, Fort Worth-Dallas, will be one of the Lone Star Chain outlets for a dozen or more Southwest Conference and post-season football games for Humble, beginning September 26. Other LSC stations include: KFXV, Houston; KRIS, Corpus Christi; KTSO, San Antonio, and KRGV, Weslaco.

Franke - Wilkinson - Schiweats, Houston, is the Humble agency, and Kern Tips, KPRC manager will serve as schedule coordinator.

Authority to Operate 500-kw. Daytime By License Change Is Asked by WLW

IN an amendment to a pending application to increase its power, WLW, Cincinnati, last week filed with the FCC an application for authority to operate during daylight hours with 500,000 watts, continuing nighttime operation with 50,000 watts.

The previous application, which had been designated for hearing, requested authorization to operate with 650,000 watts fulltime, and to make changes in its transmitter and to install a directional antenna for night use. WLW now operates with 500,000 watts experimentally from midnight until 6 a.m., using the call letters W8XO.

No Conflict

The new application, the FCC was told, would not entail use of a directional antenna, since no interference element is involved during daytime. Moreover, no additional installation would have to be made, utilizing only existing facilities, since the transmitter already is capable of emitting 500,000 watts.

The request is for a modification of license, instead of a construction permit, which would authorize use of the W8XO transmitter during the 500-ke. Clear Matinee period when Durwood Kirby (holding mike), m. c. of the program supervised Ray Haag (left), the barber, scraping off half of Jack's carefully nursed mustache. The other half was left for the Army to remove because no agreement was reached during the broadcast as to who should pay.

WENR May Carry Two MBS Pro Grid Games

WENR, BLUE outlet in Chicago, will probably carry two of the eight football games between the Army All-Stars and teams of the National Professional League, being broadcast this month on Mutual sponsorship of Gillette Safety Razor Co., Boston, (BROADCASTING, Aug. 31).

Arrangements for WENR to carry the games have been okayed by Edgar Kobak, BLUE executive vice-president, if WGN, MBS affiliate in Chicago, is unable to broadcast them because of priority commitments. It was not stated which of the scheduled dates for the games were under discussion. Agency is Mazon Inc., New York.

Networks Arrange Football Openers

With the start of the collegiate football season on Sept. 26 the networks in most cases have scheduled the games they will broadcast that day. NBC will carry the Notre Dame-Wisconsin game, and with Bill Stern, NBC sports director, announcing. The BLUE will inaugurate its season with two games Fordham vs. Purdue and Minnesota vs. Pittsburgh. Harry Wismer and George Higgins will be at the microphones.

Succeeding weeks' games will be selected the Monday preceding the contest according to a policy worked out by Phillips Carlin, BLUE vice-president in charge of the Hubbell stations.

CBS will cover the Michigan-Great Lakes Training Station games, with Ted Husing and Jimmy D-lan chosen to report the various CBS football clashes during the season. It has not yet announced its first game as BROADCASTING went to press.

In addition the firm's network already in the air on Nov. 10 for 21 weeks adds KHJ KRFC KGB to the list. Agency is M. Kelson Adv. Agency, Los Angeles.

Yankee Promotes Travers, Bartley

Commercial Vehicle License Required Under ODT Decision

No Gasoline, Tires or Parts Can Be Purchased Without Certificate; Motorcycles Exempted

UNIVERSAL licensing of commercial vehicles excepting motorcycles to gain further conservation of such equipment was announced Sept. 9 under General Order ODT 21 by Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation. As a result of this far-reaching regulation, effective Nov. 15, every commercial vehicle used by broadcasters will be required to carry a Certificate of War Necessity.

ODT spokesmen explained the applications would be mailed to owners of all registered commercial vehicles which were registered Dec. 31, 1941. The plan now calls for mailing these applications by counties to rationed areas first and then to the local office.

When the national mailing is finished an announcement will be made and all those commercial vehicle owners who have not been supplied with applications or forms by the proper authority be instructed on the procedure in obtaining their forms.

Terms of Licenses

Certificates will not be transferable since each certificate will specify the name and address of the person to whom it was issued, the vehicle or vehicles covered by the purposes for which and the conditions under which the vehicles may be operated, and such other terms or conditions as ODT may direct from time to time.

Under the order, no operator subject to its terms will be able to obtain gasoline, tires or parts without a certificate. Furthermore, the certificates will govern the maximum mileage that may be operated or the minimum loads that may be carried, or both, by all vehicles to which they apply.

By definition the order applies to all types of trucks and other rubber-tired vehicles propelled or drawn by mechanical power and built or rebuilt primarily for the purposes of transporting property except motorcycles, and all motor vehicles used in the transportation of passengers or which are intended for private use and are available for public rental, including ambulances and hearses, but not including private passenger cars.

In making public this licensing program, Mr. Eastman said the country's present supply of commercial vehicles and tires "must be given the best possible care; they must be driven with careful economy, and every act of unnecessary travel must cease. The situation is not hopeless," he added, "but it calls for all possible precautions.

The certificates are intended to assure three things, ODT spokesmen said: Operations confined to those which are necessary to the war effort or to the domestic economy; maximum utilization of the equipment involved and to encourage provision of use of rubber or rubber substitutes and other critical materials used in the manufacture, maintenance and operation of all vehicles covered by the order.

When a certificate is issued to a specific vehicle it will have to be carried on the vehicle at all times. Where a certificate has been made for a fleet of vehicles (three or more owned or operated by one person), a fleet unit certificate must be carried on each vehicle.

Must Show Licenses

Unless authorized by rationing regulations of the Office of Price Administration or other rationing agency, no person may furnish gasoline, tires, parts or tubules to any operator affected by the order after Nov. 15 unless the operator or driver presents a certificate or signs a receipt, showing the number of the certificate covering purchase.

A holder of an arrangement between ODT and OPA, instruments authorizing purchase of fuel, tires and tubes will be issued only to operators presenting certificates. Gasoline or tires or parts of vehicles will be dispensed by OPA rationing boards in accordance with the terms of the certificates.

The order also provides that the tires of every vehicle affected by the order must be checked by inspection agencies designated by OPA every 5,000 miles or at the end of 30-day period, whichever occurs first.

The order also prohibits the continued use of any vehicle thus inspected unless the inspection agency designated by OPA has certified that all reasonable adjustments, repairs or replacements "necessary to conserve and providently utilize" the tires are available. The order further provides for exemption of operators unable, under rationing regulations, to make such repairs.

All owners and operators affected by the order must keep a record of all operations on a form prescribed on the back of ODT certificates and shall not keep any other records and render such reports as may be required by ODT.

PUBLISHING POST

MARK ETHRIDGE, former NAB president and since 1936 vice-president and general manager of Courant-Journal and Louisville Times, last week was named publisher of the two newspapers in Lexington to serve as executive head of WHAS.

Mr. Ethridge succeeds Lt. Barry Bingham, who has been editor of the publishing companies and the 50,000-watt station, who is now on active duty with the Army in London. Lt. Bingham has been in the service since the death of his father, the former ambassador to Great Britain, several years ago.

Mrs. Barry Bingham was named vice-president and director of the company. Mr. Ethridge, who in recent years has been active in radio as well as in the publishing field, was interim president of the NAB in 1935, serving until Neville Miller became the NAB’s first paid president. Before joining the Louisville organization in 1936, he was publisher of the Richmond Times-Dispatch. Prior to that he was with the Washington Post and Concluded Press Assn. In addition to his title as publisher, Mr. Ethridge remains as vice-president of the Louisville properties.

NAB Board Plans Unity Discussions

Chicago Meeting to Consider Industry Controversies

INDUSTRY unity and settlement of controversies which have caused a schism in broadcasters’ ranks will keynote the NAB board meeting tentatively called by President Neville Miller in Chicago Sept. 24-25, at the Palmer House.

The meeting may be postponed a week until Oct. 1-2, if it tends to interfere with hearings before the Senate Petriello Probe Committee on the resolution of Senator Clark (D-Iowa).

With many pressing problems confronting the industry’s wartime exigencies, a number of directors have been asked by their district constituents to seek restoration of harmony in industry circles and to sever rate trade groups organized because of dissatisfaction with the NAB, it is pointed out, have caused a number of stations to refrain from joining any trade group because of doubt about the future of such organizations.

Efforts will be made, it was indicated, by the group under the NAB aegis, possibly with the appointment of a strong committee, with broad powers, to handle all matters relating to the war in Washington.

Preparatory to the board session, President Miller called a meeting last Friday of the public relations committee, of which he is chairman. The group was considered by Mr. Ethridge as forming a national public relations policy for the industry.

Present were Frank King, WMBR, Jacksonville, chairman of the NAB Finance Committee; Richard H. Mason, WPTF, Raleigh; Gilmore N. Nunn, WLAP, Lexington, Ky.; Edgar H. Twamley, WBEN, Buffalo; Leola C. Key, KYW, Philadelphia, and Walter J. Brown, WSPD, Spartanburg, were not able to attend.

At a luncheon the committee met with Assistant District Director of censorship for radio; Lt. Col. E. M. Kirby, chief, Radio Branch, War Dept.; Gene Carr, Mr. Ryan’s assistant, and E. H. Gammons, Washington director for CBS.
The 6th Army Corps needed permits from Carolina farmers to conduct field maneuvers across the farmlands of 17 Carolina counties. They brought the problem to WBT and asked us to lend a hand. We didn't consider this request any more unusual than the scores of other chores WBT has been asked to do—from blowing bugle calls for scattered army units to finding weekend homes for visiting soldiers. So we scheduled announcements on the Grady Cole Alarm Clock...and got results!

Permits for the use of 24,385 individual farms—a total of 2,940,732 acres—came rolling in to Army headquarters...and Major F.W. Kels wrote WBT, expressing the Army's thanks. WBT helped accomplish one hundred percent of what the Army wanted.

Of course, patriotism was a big force behind this response. But—human nature being what it is—patriotism is sometimes a matter of intent rather than action. In the great Carolina market which revolves about Charlotte, WBT gets action—because for 20 years we have fostered one of the strongest station-listener relationships in the nation.

That's why so many advertisers stay so many years at WBT. We'd like to furnish details.

Vinylite Supply Hinges on Military

WPB Urges Salvage On Federal, Industry Users Alike

ALTHOUGH there were no allocations of Vinylite for use in the production of civilian transcription records, the WPB officials said this is not to be taken as indication of policy on all future allocations. All allocations of the substance are governed by the extent of military demands for the material which is vital in the production of synthetic rubber materials used in raincoats, life rafts and the like.

Government needs have been curtailed for a certain extent and the importance of various agencies' demands will govern the allocation of Vinylite to them. Thus far, the Treasury and the War and Navy Deps. have been assured of their needed supply. OWI will likely receive enough to maintain its operations but formal action has been withheld awaiting a full statement of its needs.

Other Government agencies which use transcription are the Coordinators of Inter-American Affairs, Federal Security Agency, Dept. of Interior, Marine Corps, Maritime Commission, Office of Civilian Defense.

Reclamation through the salvage of all old records provides the keynote of continued operation for both private and Government needs alike, one WPB official observed. Although Vinylite reclamation has been variously estimated at 40% to 90% there is not yet any satisty factory figure available according to WPB.

 Rumors that the Government may severely curtail or perhaps cut off entirely the allocation of Vinylite for civilian use were current in New York last week, but they were received calmly by most production manufacturers. Admitting that it added to the already appreciable difficulties of operation, executives of such companies as Columbia Broadcasting System unanimously said that in times like these Government needs unquestionably come first and expressed complete confidence that they would subordinate their own needs to those of the Government.

K. R. Smith, vice-president and general manager of Muzak Transcriptions, which makes the pressings of programs recorded by Associated Music Publishers and other clients, in addition to its own programs, said if stations using transcriptions will cooperate with the pressing companies by returning all records as soon as they have been used, a critical shortage of phonograph plates may be postponed at least six or eight months and perhaps for considerably longer.

He said that these old discs can be repressed, with an approximately 90% of the original material. The chief loss, he explained, is the centers over which the labels are pasted, as it has proved extremely difficult to separate the paper from the record and more practicable to cut out the center and reproduce the rest of the record.

Returns Asked

Mr. Smith said his company is asking all of its clients to request every station on their lists to return all records to them. He added that this request is also being made by each recording company set up a file to show the response of each station and that they discontinue service to any station not giving complete cooperation.

World Broadcasting System has had such a plan in operation for years, that company stated, explaining that World holds title to all of its records which are labelled to that effect and that they pay return express charges on the records to facilitate this return they have the express company make periodic calls on the stations using their recordings to pick up used discs.

Columbia Recording Corp. is also requesting the return of its pressings, working through the advertising agencies placing the transcriptions campaigns. NBC Radio-Recording Division has as yet made no particular effort to get back old discs, but it will undoubtedly do so if they become an important source of supply.

University Test Reveals Speed Preferred By Audience

THE NEWSCASTER who wonders whether he speaks too fast or too slowly for maximum effectiveness may gain some useful information on the results of rate tests recently completed at Indiana University. An experiment conducted by Prof. Paul H. Wagner, of the staff of the Dept. of Journalism, with 600 students revealed that although there may be no perfect rate of newscasting, a newcomer can satisfy too fast or too slow for maximum results.

Recorded Voices

The experiment was part of a study concerned with the whole problem of newscasting and effectiveness in terms of the attributes of speech and their relation to retention. The students were carefully selected so as to represent an accurate cross section of the student body and as such could be said to represent the student body in the 18 to 22 years-of-age bracket.

Prof. Wagner has specialized in radio journalism for the past several years and teaches courses in radio at the University. He is the author of the textbook, Radio Journalism, which is used at Indiana and in several other colleges.

The 175 word test was administered to the students, and each student read the 175 words in a minute. The students lost more than one-fourth of the basic facts in the newscast used in the experiment. At the 140-word rate of repetition was approximately 90% and at the 200-word rate less than 65%.

The procedure of the test was simple. A news story of approximately 350 words was recorded with the announcer reading it at rates of 140, 174 and 200 words a minute. The newscast was then played to the selected groups of students and they were asked to answer 10 simple questions on the content of the newscast. The students heard the newscast only once at one rate only.

Average Rate

Results showed highest average score of 72.640 at the 175-word rate. The average score was 71.958 at the slow rate and only 64.989 at the fast rate.

Insured: The 175 word rate is approximately the average rate of speaking used by newscasters it is not surprising to find that to be the most effective rate. However, there are more newscasters today who read at a much faster rate than 175 words a minute, some as high as 200 words a minute.

The scores of the study were:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Rate</th>
<th>Combined Mean</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Slow</td>
<td>72.564</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Medium</td>
<td>72.588</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fast</td>
<td>72.440</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

Using only the medium rate as a basis, the study showed some interesting data, but the effectiveness of the newscast.

The students, on the average, got an average score of only 72.640 which means that more than one-fourth of the information contained in this simple newscast was not retained. And at the fast rate this efficiency rating drops to 64.898, a loss of not quite two-fifths of the information.

Women scored lower averages than the men students in all three rate categories, their medium average score being 76.739 as against 73.656 for the men, a difference of over three points.

Generally speaking, the scores were higher in the upper classes than in the lower. For instance, the senior men scored 74.335 and the senior women 71.388 as against 73.645 for the sophomore men and 68.76 for the sophomore women.

Averages by classes were:

- Freshmen, 69.821; sophomores, 71.687; seniors, 73.228.

Students who took the tests in the morning scored considerably higher average scores than those who took the tests in the afternoon. The averages were 74.09 in the morning and 69.64 in the afternoon.

"THERE'S NOT ANOTHER LIKE IT!"

According to the latest report by the Bureau of Census, 82.8% of the Nation's homes have radios. That's very interesting, of course, but within WTIC's primary area 95.7% of the homes are equipped with one or more radios. Figure it out for yourself. That means a radio ownership of 12.9% above national average.

Statistical item number two concerns the fact that the per family effective buying income—in the 17 counties in Connecticut, Massachusetts, New York, Vermont and New Hampshire covered by WTIC—is 90.8% higher than the figure for the whole United States.*

Lastly, but far from least, the listener loyalty and respect for WTIC evidenced by radio audience studies makes WTIC the best buy for your money.

Put WTIC to work for your product and you'll soon understand why wise national advertisers agree with us that

WPB Likely to Exert Control Over Electronic Devices Soon

Action on WPB War Proposals Expected Shortly With Chairman Fly's Return to Capital

RIGID CONTROL of the flow of electronic devices to essential uses is expected this week as the result of WPB action which will insure the continued operation in part of radio and communications including broadcasting, without curtailing production except as it affects the manufacture of such non-essential commodities as blackout devices.

When the new order takes effect it was indicated that electronic equipment will not be manufactured or sold except on rated orders of A-3 or higher. While the regulation will likely affect manufacturers immediately, distributors will probably be allowed to dispose of stocks on hand. In addition it appeared likely that manufacturers would be allowed to anticipate rated orders for 45 days to come and thus insure minimum production runs.

The order will be far-reaching, it was said, encompassing transmission as well as receiving equipment. Through this order the WPB will have complete control of the many critical materials essential to the manufacture of electronic devices.

Fly On Job

Since BWC-FCC Chairman James Lawrence Fly only returned to his desk last Friday from an extended business trip there was no word forthcoming on the BWC tube survey nor any indication of planted action on WPB's proposals for wartime operation. It did seem likely, however, that action would come in the near future since WPB is anxious to establish wartime standards of operation to conserve components and tubes.

Overall needs and simplification occupied the attention of the Receiver Type Vacuum Tube Industry Advisory Committee meeting in Washington Sept, 9 with Frank H. McIntosh, chief of the civilian radio section of the Radio and Radar Branch, as Government presiding officer.

Efficient ways of producing tubes were also discussed and new facilities weighed. Some progress was noted in the plan to divide production among available plants — some turning out only civilian tubes and the rest devoted to military orders. There still remains one obvious obstacle to progress in the OPA Maximum Price Regulations. Manufacturers contend they have experienced a rising curve of operating costs which would make it unprofitable to devote their total production capacities to civilian production. Unless the OPA regulations are changed this factor may remain a barrier, it was said. The difficulty, it was pointed out, exists in the fact that the radio receiving set tubes are categorized under Durable Goods regulations while the industrial types are under the control of Machinery regulations.

An effort is also being made, it was reported, to balance inventorries of distributors and individual dealers. Another aspect of the problem was viewed in the increasing need for simplification and standardization. Every effort is being made to have discarded tube types covered by interchangeable tubes.

Progress was reported by the industry representatives in their conservation of material by requiring an old tube for each new tube purchased. Although this practice has not yet become universal many manufacturers are requiring this measure. One report has it that many radio receiving sets would be out of use within 13 months unless provision is made for continued supply of materials. In answer to this, WPB officials maintain that every effort is being exerted to maintain the industry and the likelihood of such a statistical possibility is nil.

Furthermore, it was pointed out that no station's needs have been overlooked where the need was essential and complete stabilization for wartime operation only awaits action by the FCC.

Army Camps Produce 600 Local Shows

Weekly Output by Soldiers Helps War Effort

By LT. COL. E. M. KIRBY
Chief, Radio Branch, Bureau of Public Relations, War Dept.

LOCAL radio stations throughout the United States contribute more than 500 regularly scheduled Army camp broadcasts each week, a survey as of Aug. 31 has revealed.

Undertaken by the Radio Branch of the War Dept. Bureau of Public Relations, the survey further disclosed that Army news, variety and musical shows, respectively, were the type of broadcasts most often prepared by Army Public Relations Officers in cooperation with local broadcasting stations.

The full listing below of the number of shows and the time periods involved does not reveal the full story of these local camp Army radio programs. Nor is their contribution to the war effort readily apparent. But the important influence cannot be over emphasized.

A Counterbalance

During World War I, Army camps had only their own newspapers, press material which they furnished to newspapers, and speakers to reach nearby communities. The situation has changed in large part. But by 1940, radio already was tackling the new task with a great deal of energy and imagination to serve the Army and the citizens at home.

Today local Army radio programs are an accepted medium of establishing closer relationship between Army camps and the neighboring communities.

Usually, the local citizens see the soldier only when he is on weekend leave and pleasure bent. They see him free from the arduous routine of relentless drilling and rehearsal for the battles he faces in the near future against enemies who ask and grant no quarter. They see the soldier seeking to concentrate a great deal of pleasure in his few free moments away from camp. It is difficult, often, to believe that in the hands of these men we are entrusting our nation’s future.

Local radio broadcasts serve to counterbalance these casual impressions. Camp broadcasts remind the people in the surrounding communities that the soldiers they see wandering about their streets, crowding their lunchrooms, theatres and recreational centers, are serious students during their duty hours—students of warfare and the hundreds of essential military tasks—skills necessary in modern warfare.

Radio interviews have shown that the men of our Army are truly representative of the American people—tall and no worse; that our soldiers come from every sort of home—representing every race, color and creed, dreaming the same dreams, experiencing the same strains, adjustments to the war. These local radio broadcasts—unpretentiously in most instances—reveal the true pattern of our soldiers in training.

Above all, they show him as a patriotic lover of freedom, hoping for the best, mentally preparing himself for the worst, and confident and determined to win victory. Upon such things depends the morale of our people at home. Despite inconveniences—possibly because of them—citizen morale is generally higher in areas immediately surrounding training camps than in areas where no camps exist.

Local radio broadcasts have contributed much toward our Army and its purpose—and the increased desire of civilians to assure our troops of their full support.

The Army Story

Before we analyze the 600-odd Army radio programs, let us review the purpose of these various categories of local radio broadcasts:

Their purpose as a whole is to tell the story of the American Army in training, to reflect the spirit of our troops, and keep the American people informed of the Army’s progress.

Many arms have been able to accomplish this mission more than adequately with limited personnel. Many former radio writers, producers, announcers, engineers now in training have contributed to the effort in addition to their other duties—to assist the Public Relations Officers in preparing these broadcasts.

It is customary instances the PRO’s also serve in other capacities, such as the camp intelligence officer, special service officer, an instructor and so forth. Yet every known radio technique from straight narration and talks to the full variety and dramatic show has been developed.

In some few instances, local radio stations themselves can take full credit for the high quality of a local Army camp broadcast.

They have assisted public relations officers—often coming to them, proposing a specific type of show which might best serve their community and the Army, assisting him in the preparation of the script and, or, in the actual preparation for production from camp or studios.

In many cases, their specialized knowledge of the immediate community has been of immense aid to the public relations officer and the commanding officer in overcoming particular problems, whether they were direct public relations problems which cropped up or suggestions in avoiding future problems.

The many problems of Army health, food, entertainment facilities, the training regime and camp life have been presented to the community in full detail until the community has a clear-cut picture of life in the camp as it really is, and the caliber of the men. The picture in many instances has supplemented the meager information parents might have received from their own sons in distant camps.

Hearing the soldiers from nearby camps being interviewed over the local radio station has reassured many parents and satisfied them that their own sons are receiving the best possible training, under the most favorable conditions. This information, brought via the airwaves, has in no small measure helped to open up the heart and homes of the citizens of these camp communities to our troops.

Now to glance at more specific information from the survey:

Of the above shows, 77 were five minutes long, 366 quarter-hour broadcasts, 195 half-hour shows and nine full-hour broadcasts. A minimum of 250 radio stations are used for these regularly scheduled broadcasts. No count is included of the innumerable single-shot local broadcasts, or various events, nor the number of local broadcasts using camp or Army information or camp personalities.

Nor does the above count include transcriptions furnished irregularly to home town broadcasting stations or special Red, White and Blue Network type of broadcasts produced in the morning hours by the local broadcasting station for the men in nearby camps.

Many camps also furnish news items to hundreds of stations for use on established broadcasts. These news items deal with human interest material regarding soldiers who come from the state or city in which the radio station is located.

How They Serve

There is no estimate of the number of stations serviced with this special material. These broadcasts and the services provided by the Radio Branch and local PRO’s, it might be said that practically every radio station in the United States is making some contribution to Army public relations.

What the full extent of these contributions are can be answered only by the local stations. But certainly the above data amply reveals the seriousness with which these broadcasters are accepting their public service responsibility to their immediate community and the nation during this war.

For the record, it might be well to review exactly how each type of Army camp broadcast serves the Army.

Join Air Group

NEARLY 8,000 young people have joined the Junior Air Reserve in response to a call for membership made during Scramble, aviation series presented on BLUE in cooperation with the National Aeronautics Assn. Youngsters are taught the rudiments of aviation in preparation for the day when they will become full-fledged aviators.

Weekly Output by Soldiers Helps War Effort

By LT. COL. E. M. KIRBY
Chief, Radio Branch, Bureau of Public Relations, War Dept.

LOCAL radio stations throughout the United States contribute more than 500 regularly scheduled Army camp broadcasts each week, a survey as of Aug. 31 has revealed.

Undertaken by the Radio Branch of the War Dept. Bureau of Public Relations, the survey further disclosed that Army news, variety and musical shows, respectively, were the type of broadcasts most often prepared by Army Public Relations Officers in cooperation with local broadcasting stations.

The full listing below of the number of shows and the time periods involved does not reveal the full story of these local camp Army radio programs. Nor is their contribution to the war effort readily apparent. But the important influence cannot be over emphasized.

A Counterbalance

During World War I, Army camps had only their own newspapers, press material which they furnished to newspapers, and speakers to reach nearby communities. The situation has changed in large part. But by 1940, radio already was tackling the new task with a great deal of energy and imagination to serve the Army and the citizens at home.

Today local Army radio programs are an accepted medium of establishing closer relationship between Army camps and the neighboring communities.

Usually, the local citizens see the soldier only when he is on weekend leave and pleasure bent. They see him free from the arduous routine
San Francisco signs up on the new KGO

...here are a few of the new signups since February

In May, Walter Guild, account ex., Sidney Garfinkel Agency, signed for a 1½ hour KGO live-talent show for the Remar Baking Co. Last month Remar had their biggest month in history... with much credit to their KGO show. This is just one of many new locally-produced KGO shows.

Vice-president Lou A. Humason signs up for the second 26 weeks of “Let there be Music”... a half hour local dramatic show produced for the Meyenberg Milk Products Co. This again indicates the high regard of local advertisers for the new KGO. Keep posted on the new KGO.

Actual sales results won a 13 week renewal of a 7 a.m. KGO newscast. Hassel Smith, account ex., Botsford, Constantine & Gardner signs the renewal for Foreman & Clark, men’s clothiers. (KGO still has several fine news availabilities. Compare them with other San Francisco stations.)

M. E. Silva of the Sonoma-Marín Dairy signs over his whole radio advertising budget to the new KGO. This is one of the largest spot campaigns ever placed on a San Francisco station. Already sales results are justifying this decision. Another local success on the new KGO.

Benjamin Zukor, president of Zukor’s Dress Shops was one of the first local advertisers to join the new KGO. Since then, Mr. Zukor has renewed his 15 minute, 5 day a week program every time. This is another locally-produced program. Results count... you get results on the new KGO.

Six weeks ago R. C. Tonkin, Pacific Coast Manager, P. Lorillard Co., makers of Sensation Cigarettes, signed a 13 week contract for KGO’s popular 11 p.m. newscast. Already Mr. Tonkin is renewing for an additional 13 weeks. You, too, will find the best news buys on the new KGO.

These sign-ups tell of a few local successes on the new KGO. May we suggest that you let your Blue Spot Representative bring you up to date on the new KGO?

medium or type of broadcast the local Army unit's broadcast presents a complete overall review of camp life and its relation to the local community.

Variety broadcasts (101) include the ever-popular post band, soldier talent, comedy skits and a talk by an officer or soldier using as Army theme. These broadcasts might be considered inspirational and entertaining. As a whole, camp broadcasts have felt no lack of talent. That soldiers enjoy putting something of themselves into these broadcasts is well known by those who have watched camp auditions. New York or Hollywood casting directors have never been deluged by more enthusiastic actors, singers, comedians, specialty men, musicians, announcers and other talented entertainers.

To many talented soldiers camp broadcasts have provided their first opportunity to club radio and gain an experience. Others, of course, are experienced radio talent. Still others provide the necessary just for fun. All these Army outlets have not only afforded a channel of reaching the public with pleasant entertainment and institutional camp information, but also have provided an excellent avenue for the Special Services Officer to direct excess energy of talented soldiers--there is plenty of it among our troops.

Value of Music

Musical programs (149) serve a purpose similar to that of the variety programs. Usually a simpler script is required and the program material is seldom censored. From the busy PRO's point of view and the broadcaster's side, these programs provide the finest broadcast material. Army policy problems are at a minimum, especially in programs broadcast from the camp grounds. Training can easily be furnished in advance and the background interview of the soldier-talent readily prepared.

Interview programs (75) provide the greatest amount of factual material about the camp and the troops stationed there. Many camps have shown an aggressive policy in illustrating the difficult situation some soldiers have had to make their adaptation to Army life—when they have prepared future soldiers not to expect a bed of roses. At the same time, the measured number of interviews reflect that situation is not too difficult and that our soldiers are anxious to receive the stiffest training necessary to assure success for their country.

Religious broadcasts (20) originating from the post chapel include a talk by the Army (50), organ music and hymns. These broadcasts reveal the religious side of our troops—men whom they are church-goers for the first time in their lives. They are trying to help the public understand and appreciate the importance of maintaining a good religious program in the camps—solidify the public's support for the service—and emphasize the importance of religion in the mind's account.

Dramatic programs (24) cover a wide field, dramatizing the experiences of soldiers in camp, presenting Army comedy sketches, inspirational Army and American history programs and stories emphasizing the purpose for which we are fighting the war or how to go about helping the war effort. As a whole, these local dramatic programs are prepared only where an audience has an abundance of scripts-writing and story writers to do so, but usually they compare favorably with professional radio productions.

Talk shows (9) basically provide entertainment to the soldiers, and are a major contribution of the local radio station. The station office file is open to the soldiers—sometimes a long-distance call is made to key people in far-off homes. Many others include war stamps and bonds. Military questions occasionally included in the mix will maintain the military flavor of the broadcast. All in all, propagation information about the Army in a pleasant way.

News broadcasts (8) are exclusively devoted to presenting our Negro soldiers to the public via radio. These programs usually originate where all Negro units exist. However, besides these broadcasts, Negroes also participate in camp programs wherever they are stationed.

Local Arrangements

It is significant to realize that in contrast to the totalitarian system of operation, the 600 old broadcasts prepared by camp public relations officers are not filtered through the local broadcaster. Instead, at no time has the War Dept. in Washington directed a request to a local broadcaster to grant a camp air time.

In all instances, arrangements were made by the public relations office and the local station, which could accept or reject the program suggestion without prejudice. However, in most instances, besides making specific requests of Army Public Relations Officers, local radio broadcasters have been more than glad to offer their facilities for camp use.

From the War Dept. point of view, the local PRO and his immediate commanding officer are responsible for the content and quality of the broadcast. Three-month weekly themes, together with background material to assist the PRO, are submitted to him, but he is under no compulsion to use this material. The themes cover general war effort subjects: celebrating holidays, aiding government campaigns (War Savings Stamps, scrap, conservation, etc.), supporting Army subjects which might be treated (health, officer candidate schools, soldiers' mail, family allowances, etc.). But the PRO is urged to tell the story from his own local and camp point of view.

The work of preparing these themes and of reviewing camp scripts is carried out under the guidance of Major Harold W. Kent, Director of the Editorial Section, by Joseph L. Brechner, chief script writer and Stanley Field. When PRO's submit their scripts to the Radio Branch after broadcast for review and information the scripts are checked carefully for information which might be of national interest and also for quality and Army policy.

Where scripts have been below par in technique, specific suggestions are made for the improvement of the broadcast and the PRO is advised to consult with the production manager of the local station. In every instance these production people have been more than willing to help the Army camp improve its broadcasts.

Valuable Aid

There is no question that local radio broadcasters have made important contributions to Army public relations. Much of the energy, time and money the individual broadcasters have spent voluntarily to present local camps shows unfortunately will remain unaided and unknown, but from reports of PRO's in the field, the constantly improving quality of their broadcasts and the increasing number of broadcasts on the air each week, every local broadcaster and Army Public Relations Officer in the field can take pride in their collective contributions in using radio intelligently to help the war effort.

Salvage Campaign

Salvage Drive of the American Industries Salvage Committee was promoted last week through Penny Money Men, syndicated programs produced by Allen A. Funk, New York production firm. Programs aired in 21 key cities purchased small pieces of scrap material throughout the week, and 46 stations carrying the series made a three-festival purchase of a large piece of scrap such as an old boiler or fire-escape on one day at the end of the week. $5,000 was appropriated to the stations for the project, with the amount appropriated to each station according to the size of the market.

Lever Bros. Story Promoted by CBS

Oversize Brochure Reviews Seven Programs on Network

IN AN OVERSIZE brochure—20 pages measuring 14x17 inches—CBS last week presented to its affiliated stations the story of the seven program series which Lever Bros. Co. is sponsoring on CBS this fall: four evening shows on the full 114-station CBS network and three daytime serials using 77 stations all.

"With this business," says CBS, "they present a friendly triple challenge to all of us: that radio brings more results than almost any medium; that CBS produces more results than all; and that each CBS station deliver more audience than any station in its territory..." Adding that the brochure is CBS's first step in meeting this challenge, explains that the material therein "will help each station to meet the challenge in its own way... the best way."

Stars and Plugs

A double-spread is devoted to each program, one page filled with a picture of the stars, the other containing an envelope with promotion material and pictures. The promotion material includes copy for pre-program announcements on the air, for newspaper ads and publicity, for display cards and posters, and for letters to Lever Bros. dealers in the station's coverage area.

Programs covered are: Luz Radio Theatre on Monday evenings; Burns and Allen, for Swan, on Tuesday evenings; Bob Burns, for Lifebuoy, Wednesday evenings; What Great Programs? (Complete details), for Lever Bros., Wednesday evenings; and the day-time serials, Big Sister, for Rinso; Aunt Jenny, for Spry; Bright Horizon, for Rinso.

Brochure produced under the direction of Thomas D. Connolly, CBS program promotion director, winds up with the plea for wholehearted cooperation for every station and the promise that if additional material is wanted, "we will pitch you whatever you want to catch."

NBC's Honor Roll

NBC now has 353 employees in the armed forces as of Sept. 1, an increase of 21 over the Aug. 1 figure. Seventeen of the 21 were from NBC's New York studio. Page staff personnel has been the hardest hit by enlistments and inductions.

THREE weddings are slated at KYW, Philadelphia, for September. Claire Keene of the Philadelphia Theatre office, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Smith, of the Westinghouse plant at Lester, Pa., were married Sept. 5. Eileen Reilly, of the program department, and George Metz, are to wed the 19th; Ruth Schroeder, secretary to James A. Aull, director of publicity, and Richard W. Martin, are to be married Sept. 21.

Top Radio Performers to Form ‘Committee of 25’ to Aid War

Kay Kyser Heads OWI Effort to Maintain Morale
By Working Through Local Committees

FORMATION of a “Committee of 25,” made up of top-ranking radio performers, to act as consultants to the Office of War Information in furthering the war effort on all fronts, was announced last week by OWI, with Kay Kyser as chairman.

Organized after consultation with various Washington war agencies vitally interested in maintaining public morale, the committee members become in effect staff members of OWI. Their functions will be to pledge more effective use of war messages on their programs under OWI Network Allocation Plan and to work through the same 1,300 labor-management committees set up by the war production drive throughout the country.

The talent will be used on a planned schedule of production incentive rallies, similar to the Bond Wagons rallied conducted by Kyser in Atlanta, Chicago, and Detroit.

Telegrams were sent by Chairman Kyser to the radio headliners Sept. 7, inviting them to serve on the committee. In the group are Abbott & Costello, Goodman Ace, Fred Allen, Amos 'n Andy, Jack Benny, Edgar Bergen, Maj. Bowes, Bob Burns, Burns & Allen, Eddie Cantor, Bing Crosby, Red Skelton, Fred Allen, Moshe Fadin, Jean Hersholt, Bob Hope, Irene Kastelanetz, Fibber McGee & Molly, Frank Morgan, Harold Joseph Peary, Edward G. Robinson, Larry Rosson, Kate Smith, Red Skelton, Fred Waring. Practically 100% acceptance was reported.

Three Meetings

OWI announced that the three-way plan was proposed by Mr. Kyser. The committee will meet for the first time at a series of conferences called by OWI with networks Advertising and Broadcasting, New York on Sept. 15, in Chicago on Sept. 21 and Hollywood on Sept. 24-25.

Some members of the group already are touring Army and Navy camps here and abroad and are performing valuable service through their programs by speaking to the country on such important war topics as salvage, bonds, recruiting and other activities, it was stated. The group is expected to donate considerable time and effort in personal appearances before war plan workers, carrying to them not only entertainment but information on the progress of the war.

The Committee of 25 will work in close cooperation with four other committees which have aided OWI in effective use of wartime information, OWI said. These include a network committee, a committee of Government radio chiefs, the Advertising Council, and representatives of stations working through industry trade groups.

The committee also will contact other radio talent in furthering the war effort. The committee, it is presumed, will function directly under W. B. Lewis, chief of the Radio Bureau of OWI, and Douglas Meservey, assistant chief.

The only top name absent from the committee listing was that of Rudy Vallee, who several months ago enlisted in the Coast Guard and became a Chief Petty Officer. He is continuing his NBC program for Sealtest, 10 p.m. Thursdays, however.

Following is Mr. Kyser's Sept. 7 telegram to the committee members:

"Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, has asked me to form a "Committee of 25" top radio performers anxious to serve their country in even more valuable capacities than at present. As the war reaches deeper into American lives, there is an increasing need for the Government to reach its armed forces, its labor forces, and its home front forces with information and inspiration.

"The Office of War Information is aware and deeply appreciative of the individual contributions already made, but Mr. Davis sincerely feels that a united group of radio performers can effectively advise and aid the OWI in the greater job ahead.

"After recent meetings in Washington, I am sure that all of us have an even greater role than we realize—and for the Office of War Information I earnestly ask that you become a member of this group to serve our Government."

OWI TO USE SPOTS ON FARM-HOME HOUR

SPECIAL three-minute spot announcements prepared by the Office of War Information and explaining the farmer's relation to the war effort will be broadcast three times weekly on Blue's daily National Farm and Home Hour.

Announcements will give factual information about the basic issues of the war, and will supplement material already being presented on the program. Though of special interest to farmers, the messages will be of general nature.

One war message each week will deal with problems of the home front: rationing, control of the price of living, labor and other subjects. A second deals with the United Nations, telling the story of America's relations with her allies, and countering all enemy propaganda. The third is devoted to special events.

William B. Lewis, chief of the radio division of the OWI will introduce the series with a brief talk on the first broadcast. Spots are scheduled for Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Army Not to Halt Air Control Units

Public Relations Personnel To Be Provided Centers

BROADCASTERS who have collaborated with Fighter Commands in setting up cooperative radio control units for Air Forces overseas need not have qualms about reduction of Army public relations personnel to a degree that would impede public relations. This was learned on good authority at the War Dept. last week, where the whole matter of reorganization of the public relations branch is under advisement.

Following issuance of the order by Secretary of War Stimson Aug. 15, reorganizing the entire public relations organization and reducing personnel in the field, a number of the Defense Commands and Service Commands contacted the Bureau specifying minimum requirements, indicating collaboration with radio groups maintaining alert organizations.

Exceptions Expected

This order, it was pointed out, stated that public relations staffs at the various commands and bases would be reestablished to the numbers specified, with the proviso that exceptions would be made when certified by the chief of the Bureau of Public Relations, Maj. Gen. A. D. Surles and approved by the Secretary of War. All of these applications are under advisement with action to be taken prior to Oct. 1, when the field reorganization becomes effective.

In the New York area, where an elaborate alert system had been created by the Radio Central Committee, it was held that reduction of the public relations staff to two officers and four men would make it impossible for the Army to furnish adequate information to the radio groups and the cooperative plan "completely useless." This was brought to the attention of the Army and other Washington officials by Lt. William Bradley, public relations director of WHN, New York, and chairman of the New York committee [Broadcasting, Aug. 31].

Pursuant to the provision in the Aug. 14 order, such groups as the Western Defense Command, as well as the Eastern Defense Command and a number of Service Command physical areas, petitioned Gen. Surles for exceptions from the minimum personnel classification in their public relations to make available adequate personnel. These exceptions, if granted, it was said, are under advisement with action to be taken soon. All vital areas will have adequate personnel for their protection, it was stated authoritatively.

MARY LOU CARPENTER, daughter of H. K. Carpenter, member of the Broadcasting Advertising Council and vice-president of WHK, Cleveland, designed the new reception rooms, now nearing completion in Mutual's New York office.

Mr. Amplistat's Girls

By MAURICE CONDON

Another of the current series wherein that modern Don Quixote, Mr. K. W. Amplistat tilts against the windmills of trite expression common to some branch of broadcasting. The clichés he now good-naturedly searches out are part of the vocabulary of the women's directors of the broadcasting stations.

Q. You are in charge of the programs relating to women's activities?
A. I am the women's director.
Q. That is your title?
A. When it has to do with food or the thing that, I'm home economics director.
Q. How do you address your listeners?
A. "The girls."
Q. You mean your audience is entirely female?
A. Oh, there are some men listen, I guess.
Q. Do you ever make reference to the men in your broadcasts?
A. When I'm talking to the girls, I refer to them very lightly.
Q. As what?
A. "The men, poor darlings."
Q. Indeed.
A. "You can't live with them, you can't live without them," I tell the girls, and I laugh.
Q. What kind of laugh do you utilize?
A. A tinkle laugh. It goes well with my manner.
Q. Which is?
A. Girlish, confiding, over-the-backfenceish.
Q. Good God!
A. What is that, Mr. Amplistat?
Q. I beg your pardon—I cleared my throat.
A. Oh, you men!
Q. Precisely. What is the nature of your home economics program?
A. Recipes, hints on home making, little suggestions on how to make home more liveable, "Brighten each corner," I tell the girls.
Q. Commendable advice.
A. "Remember, girls," I say, "be it ever so humble and all that sort of thing..."
Q. Not precisely the quotation but I'm sure the... er... girls understand.
A. They know my little ways by now, I guess.
Q. I'm sure they do.
A. I enjoy reading recipes to the girls.
Q. You feel it extends their culinary experience?
A. Yes. Fills in time when I run short, too.
Q. How do you go about your recipe readings?
A. "Get out your pencils and paper, girls," I call. "Recipe morning, you know."
Q. And you give them a suitable amount of time to procure these necessary objects?
A. I hum in a neighborly way.
Q. You hum.
A. Then I read the ingredients, a pinch of this, a dash of that, a smidgin of the other.
Q. A smidgin?
A. You men, poor darlings, how could you know about that.
Q. Of course.
A. "I've baked this myself in my own little kitchen, girls,"—that's how I encourage them.
Q. Do you promise satisfactory results?
A. "Follow my directions and you'll have divine results," I assure them. "The whole family will love it."
Q. But you warn them of the possibilities of failure?
A. "Don't be discouraged if it doesn't turn out just right," I tell them. "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."
Q. Heartening.
A. "But listen carefully to my directions," I warn. "A stitch in time saves nine, you know."
Q. Nine?
A. It's an expression I use often.
Q. Oh. Do you point out the desirability of pleasing the husband with these delicacies?
A. Pleading hubbies, you mean.
Q. I am corrected.
A. Oh yes, I always bring in the hubbies. "A well fed hubby is a happy hubby," I remind the girls. "The very soul of a man's heart is through—"
Q. The stomach?
A. The tummy, Mr. Amplistat.
Q. We girls don't like to come right out with such words.
Q. I understand and commend your discretion. Do you advertise products on your program?
A. Oh, certainly. Dresses and things.
Q. How do you describe the dresses?
A. They are always "darling and charming." The girls will engage this creation on you, I say. "I just know you will wear this beautifully."
Q. What are the lines of the creation?
A. Slimming and sparkingly new. Something really different. Very, very smart.
Q. Is it a coat you are advertising?
A. A flattering silhouette is yours, girls.
Q. Is the coat trimmed with fur?
A. Lavishly trimmed with darling hubbies.
Q. Undoubtedly you advertise beauty aids, Mr. Amplistat.
A. "Girls," I say, "loveliness is every woman's birthright."
Q. How can we be sure you are right.
A. "Awaken your sleeping beauty with Lilli's Lipstick—blends with your lovely complexion."
Q. How does it spread on?
A. Easily.
Q. Its colors are—
A. Exciting. Vivid.
Q. Into what does it transform the housewife?
A. A new woman, thrillingly beautiful, hauntingly lovely, utterly feminine.
Q. Have you tried it yourself?
A. I wear it all the time. As I tell the girls, I personally vouch for each and every product I advertise. It must have my personal endorsement.
Q. Comforting assurance. What is your mail reaction?
A. The girls write me all the time—and I never get tired of hearing from them.
Q. Do you solicit mail?
A. Not actually. Sometimes I mention, "I'm always happy to hear from you girls out there. Sit down and drop me a line. A penny postcard will do."
Q. A thrifty admonishment. Are you always so happy on your program?
A. Always, Mr. Amplistat, I just bubble over. Life's too short, you know.
Q. You're right, madam. Thank you for running two programs.
A. You men! There you go!
Q. Precisely, with alacrity, here I go.

Exhibit by Government Shows Ad Achievements

GOVERNMENT recognition of the part advertisers are playing in promoting the war effort is evidenced by an exhibition of display advertising recently opened in the main lobby of the Dept. of Commerce building, Washington. Arranged by Florence M. Dart, advertising specialist of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, cooperating with 389 advertising agencies, the display is designed to show how "business keeps the nation informed on ways to help win the war."

Advertising samples illustrate how industry is contributing toward the sale of War Bonds and Stamps, promoting wage drives, and urging efficient production and conservation of health and materials.

Commenting on the exhibit, Wayne C. Taylor, Under Secretary of Commerce said, "The exhibit is tangible affirmation of the Department's staunch belief in a strong, vigorous, and informative industry advertising program. As you have read," he said, "the Treasury Department estimates it has received free publicity on War Stamp and Bond promotion which would have cost $65,000,000 if purchased. It is safe to say the sum total of such donations in all advertising media has already reached many more millions of dollars. The good effect of such advertising is inestimable."

War Worker Talent

TALENT among war workers in the Chicago area is the personnel of The Will to Win, weekly half-hour heard over WIND, Gary. Male chorus fronted by Carnegie Illinois Steel Corp. appeared on the first program and Standard Oil workers are scheduled to appear on the second program. Along with the war workers representing a different war plant each week guest speakers are presented.
What are these other Buttons for?

You get some screwy things in this business, like the other day a guy comes in, says his radio set hisses at him. This he don’t like on account of he used to be in vaudeville. The middle button on his set works fine, in comes Don Lee clear and loud. But when he presses the other buttons he gets only hisses—he is sure mad. I tell him that the other buttons are set for other network stations but he can’t hear them on account of they are so far away and the Pacific Coast is a big place (325,000 square miles, as a matter of fact). He gets Don Lee because they have a station within 25 miles of more than 9 out of every 10 Pacific Coast radio homes so naturally Don Lee comes in good everywhere.

He goes away happy though when I offer to connect his other buttons with things like the electric toaster, his badminton lights, etc. . . . Say, that gives me an idea . . . there must be plenty of people on the Pacific Coast whose other buttons don’t work. I bet I could make money connecting them to different appliances around the house.*

*You could make a fortune, brother, because there is a market of a million radio homes (in addition to the Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland and Seattle areas) that is covered completely only by Don Lee.

the trend's the thing!

Tomorrow is what happens when today becomes yesterday—and in radio, as in any progressive business, you can get a pretty good idea of what tomorrow is going to look like by studying today and yesterday, both old tomorrows themselves.

Yesterday, NBC was "The Network Most People Listen to Most"—a fact demonstrated by the first all-county survey of listening habits ever made.

That was yesterday—what's happening today?

The chart at the left gives graphic reply. NBC ratings are even ahead of last year—indicating greater popularity still.

As for tomorrow—a trend like NBC's pretty much takes care of that. We invite you to keep an eye on it—and, of course, NBC.

A Radio Corporation of America Service
Let's Get Together

BECAUSE everyone has been so preoccupied with the job of keeping things perking during these trying times, broadcasters have had little inclination to concern themselves with overall trade affairs.

Yet, there was never a time when industry unity was so important. And if broadcasters would reflect a bit on events of the last six months they would realize that much that could have been done has gone by the boards.

There have been delays, procrastination and inaction.

We have in mind particularly the manpower situation and equipment conservation. Failure to get relief promptly in either field will result in critical injury to an industry already adjudged “essential” in the war effort.

There are a half-dozen trade groups in radio, launched largely because of dissatisfaction with the NAB. What motivated formation of these groups, what influences outside the industry played a part in their creation aren't important now.

There’s a big job to be done—and promptly. The drain on station personnel through selective service has reached an appalling stage. The equipment situation gets more critical daily. The industry must be in a position to walk into the war agencies in Washington as a phalanx and tackle these problems.

The NAB board meets in Chicago, under present plans, on Sept. 24-25. Why isn’t that the time to bury past grievances and discord? Why shouldn’t the industry be brought together—NAB, BVC, NIB, NAJ, networks, clear channels, locals and regionals? Let’s forget about domination by this or that group and pitch into the only real job that confronts radio— that of helping win this war.

Personality conflicts should be brushed aside. Give the NAB management a strong war committee and added personnel. Unite all of the industry trade functions under the NAB, and let that committee, representative of all segments of radio, have plenary powers.

At this late date it seems to us the only way the job can be done. Some six months have been lost. Little if anything has been accomplished to allay the personnel and equipment problems, except for the paper work. We hope that when NAB President Neville Miller convenes the board later this month, such a plan will be uppermost in the mind of every board member.

The Shortwave Plan

MUCH TOO LONG delayed, the plan for an expanded American shortwave broadcasting system, approved by Government operating agencies involved, looks like the answer not only to the wartime problem of getting America properly represented on the international wavelengths but also to the industry’s fears.

Unless radically altered by the military chiefs and the WFB, who must make the necessary equipment available, it definitely scotches Government ownership. It is basically sound—the concept of Government-license “partnership” in shortwave broadcasting (Broadcasting, Aug. 24, 31)—and it looks as though it will go through.

It seems a pity that so simple a plan should have taken so long to evolve. It will probably take at least six months to get the projected 22 new shortwave transmitters on the air.

Meanwhile, the Axis powers, with their own and their seized stations, numbering at least 100, are scattering their propaganda far and wide to the corners of the earth. Democracies are slow in starting but, once started, they can do the tasks assigned them with vim and vigor.

The OWI’s Robert Sherwood and the Rockefeller Committee’s Don Francisco the country and the broadcasting industry owe a debt of gratitude for working out a “combat plan” for the war of the wavelengths that should work and that at the same time preserves the integrity of the American system of broadcasting.

Command Performance

PERHAPS the greatest radio “success story” born of the war is one that is even heard in this country, and isn’t a commercial. It’s the story of Command Performance, weekly transmitted program on the air 32 times each week—over the shortwave transmitters, rushed to Australia by bomber, and performed over all British Broadcasting Corp. beams. It’s the favorite of our expeditionary forces.

Command Performance was a spontaneous outgrowth of the war. Wherever our forces have gone they have carried with them memories of their favorite programs— as symbols of the life back home, and as the promise of the life to which they would return. So it was only natural that the War Dept. Radio Branch should evolve the idea of carrying to

The RADIO BOOK SHELF

TO AID in the instruction of radio personnel in the armed forces Fundamentals of Radio (Prentice-Hall—$5.50), was written by Lynne C. Smeby, former NAB director of engineering and now a civilian consultant of the Army Signal Corps, along with Edward C. Jordan, Paul H. Nelson and Fred H. Pumphrey. W. Everitt, professor of electric engineering at Ohio State U., served as editor. Essentially the book intends to acquaint the reader with the underlying principles of radio as simply and directly as possible. Its acceptance by many schools and colleges in teaching radio is an ample vote of confidence.

ALTHOUGH titled Tune In for Education, Eleven Years of Education by Radio, the appellation is somewhat of a misnomer for it is simply the radio branch of the War Dept. work performed in the field by the National Committee on Education by Radio, New York. The contributions are valuable but the book is not a complete chronicle of radio in education.

This book does tell the early efforts of the group in promoting radio, its accomplishments and the future possibilities of the medium.

BROUGHT up to date, Principles of Radio by Keith Henney (John Wiley & Sons—Price $4.50), is now in its fourth edition designed to aid military personnel engaged in radio activity and prepare civilians who will soon find themselves in similar capacities within the armed forces. Set forth in text-book style this volume covers the scientific knowledge essential to an understanding as well as the theory and mechanics of radio.

A DIALECT book for actors has been compiled by Lou Herman, Chicago radio script writer, and his wife Marguerite Shalett, radio actress. More than 31 dialects are included in the book. An effort was made to avoid the phonetic approach and to explain each pronunciation. Titled Foreign Dialects For Radio, Stage and Screen, it will be published by Alliance Book Corp., New York, in October.

The boys precisely what they wanted. It’s now in its 33rd week.

The technique is simple. A hundred boys in Ireland want to hear Jack Benny and Jascha Heifetz in a duet, or the banter of Bing Crosby and Bob Hope. They get it. The artists and the bands and personnel contribute their services. A couple of weeks ago a special performance of Command Performance was put on in Washington, in connection with the War Bond Drive. On hand were such figures as Crosby, Cagney, Dinah Shore, Connie Boswell, Ginny Simms, Abbott & Costello, Dr. Frank Black, Hedy Lamarr and others.

It was all gratis.

There isn’t enough sponsor money to put on a Command Performance domestically. Yet there is so much feeling, sentiment and goodwill in the program that it shouldn’t be lost to 130 million listeners at home. We suggest that this Christmas one rousing Command Performance, all done up in holly and ribbons, be given universally. Let’s have it on all the stations, all the networks, as well as the short waves, for an hour. Let’s have it for the Army, the Navy, the Marine Corps, and the merchant marine, as well as the home front. It’s radio at its best.
NE OF A GENUS rare among radio advertising men is Cecil Parks Underwood, West Coast manager and producer of Needham, Louis & Brobry. As producer of a top Cross-Border program like the NBC Fibber McGee & Molly Show, and the Great Gildersleeve, on that network, he should be in a "hot seat". But Underwood's success is felt so well deserved by Hollywood that nobody "sharp-shoots" at him. One of radio's highest paid executives, he dialed his own telephone numbers and corrects his own scripts—really something in Hollywood. He's had only one vacation in five years but never groused about "over work".

Cecil, as intimates call him, is a contented fellow doing a job he likes—an anachronism in a town which has a reputation for "polite", feuds and chronic indigestion. Underwood has not always been in radio, just 18 years. Born in Vienna, Mo., Jan. 3, 1900, he is the son of Charles T. and Alice Lea Underwood.

Shortly after Cecil's birth, his father gave up school teaching and moved his family to Belle, Mo., establishing a general store. In 1905 they migrated to Mullan, Ida., and a year later to Spokane, where Cecil received his education. Graduating from Lewis & Clark High School in 1917 young Underwood attended Spokane Business College. A year later he joined Standard Oil Co. and until 1923 was progressively an office boy, service station inspector and sales supervisor for that organization. Then he resigned for a position with Texas Co. at Colfax, Wash.

Baseball had been Underwood's hobby up to then and he was catcher and outfielder on the Standard Oil, Upstate-Price and American Legion teams. He also barnstormed with the City League All-Stars in 1922. On moving to Colfax in 1925 he discovered a new interest—radio. Huddled over one of the first Atwater-Kent earphone sets, Ceece kept long vigils, tuning and twisting the dial, upsetting the household in general. Learning that Stewart-Warner Co. had begun to make receiving sets and excited about the new industry, he approached the management for a position. In Sept. 1924 he went to work as Spokane territory sales manager. In early 1925 Stewart-Warner Co. bought a weekly hour on KHQ, Spokane, and, since he was radio salesman, the time was his to utilize.

Anyone who could sing, play the piano, or tell jokes was recruited for that program. One night Underwood substituted for the announcer who read road reports. The station manager complimented Ceece on his radio voice. He backed up his statement on March 15, 1925 by hiring the young fellow. Mornings, Ceece was a salesman. From noon until midnight he was an announcer. Dubbing as program director and chief announcer, he continued with KHQ for four years. On May 1, 1929 Don E. Gilman, then NBC Western division vice-president, brought young Underwood to San Francisco as network staff announcer.

Cecile became m.c. of the weekly NBC Associated Spotlight Review when Associated Oil Co. took over sponsorship of that West Coast program in 1929. He announced and assisted in production of Camel Pleasure Hour, sponsored by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., on that network in 1930. He also handled the first network commercial from San Francisco in April of 1931 with the start of the weekly NBC Del Monte Coffee Time, under sponsorship of California Packing Corp.

Network circulation manager of NBC Western division in Oct., 1932, Underwood became assistant program director two years later. When NBC expanded its Hollywood operation, he was transferred to that city in May 1934 to assist John W. Swallow, Western division program manager, and while there produced many of the big-time sponsored network programs. In Aug. 1936, Ceece was in New York as Ruthrauff & Ryan, producer of the weekly CBS Ken Murray Show, sponsored by Lever Bros. Co. (Rinso, Lifebuoy). Five months later he returned to Hollywood and started the CBS Al Jolson Show for that same sponsor.

Marilyn Jordan, stars of the weekly NBC Fibber McGee & Molly Show, sponsored by S. C. Johnson & Son, moved from Chicago to California in the spring of 1937. Underwood was signed by Needham, Louis & Brobry as program producer during the West Coast origin. With return to Chicago Ceece went along. He has served as a part of that "happy family".

When the Jordans established residence in Southern California in January 1939, Needham, Louis & Brobry opened offices. Underwood was made manager-producer with regular assignment later also including the weekly NBC Great Gildersleeve, sponsored by Reynolds Tobacco Co. Ceece also helped formulate and produce Fibber McGee & Molly summer replacements which include Attorney-at-Law in 1938; Alie Templeton "in 1939; America Sings with Meredith Wilson's orchestra in 1942; Hap Hazard with Ransom Sherman in 1941; and the combined Meredith Wilson-John Nesbitt program of 1942.

Away from radio Underwood is a 14-handicap golfer. He's also a badminton enthusiast and reads adventure stories for relaxation. He enjoys the San Diego to Chicago route which has 200,000 miles to his credit. Quick-witted, and soft spoken, Ceece is 5 foot, 11¼ inches tall and carries his 170 lbs. well.

Married to Harriet Killmarten of Spokane on June 5, 1922, they have three sons: a sophomore at UCLA; Jack in his second year at Hollywood High School and Don, a junior high school student.

By every standard of comparison—power, frequency and clear channel—KMPC is now in the "first group"* of stations offering complete, intensive coverage of Southern California. Yet KMPC is only fifth in cost! This new combination of unexcelled coverage and low rates gives advertisers an excellent opportunity to establish or maintain their position in this market at minimum cost.

A "Good Buy" Before... Now Better Than Ever

Advertisers found that even with KMPC's former 5000 watts, they could do a fast, thorough selling job in Southern California for less money. KMPC's new "first group" position makes it more than ever first in value! It will pay you to thoroughly consider KMPC as a supplementary station to your present radio schedule, or for giving you thorough coverage by itself. Write today for full information.

However, since some stations found it difficult to allot 10 daily announcements to the United Nations in addition to other Government announcements Mr. Lewis advised them that these spots might be reduced from 10 to 6 per day.

“I know our relations will continue on their present pleasant basis.”

DONALD A. BREYER

ONCE A CAMPAIGNER in a political sense, Donald A Breyer, vice-president, radio director and timewriter of Hillman-Shane-Breyer, Los Angeles, today directs advertising campaigns for many a choice account carried by that organization.

Don's brief “soapboxing” career began and ended shortly after his graduation from the U. of California in 1934 with the gubernatorial campaign of George Creel. Don was placed in charge of the Young People’s division. Following that, he joined the Sidney Garfinkel Adv. Agency, San Francisco, as an account executive and remained until 1936.

His early radio experience dates back to that period when for more than two years, he was also writercumponentator of the quarter-hour chatter program, Hollywood Reporter, sponsored by Joseph Magnin Co., San Francisco (department store) on KPO, that city, and later released via transcriptions on seven other stations. After a tour as sales promotion and advertising manager of the C. H. Baker Co. (California shoe chain), in San Francisco, he again joined the advertising agency. Armed with a new point of view and an appreciation of the problems of the field, he renewed his former affiliation in late 1939, this time as a managing partner of the agency in charge of the Los An-geles office, then being established. He continued until the agency’s Southern California office merged with Hillman-Shane Adv. Agency in August, 1941. In December of that year he was elected vice-president of the firm and his name was added to that of the firm. Don then took over the radio department in addition to his other executive duties.

Married to Miriam Lubin Aug. 19, 1936, Don makes his home in Beverly Hills close to his Los Angeles office. His relaxation usually consists of a little friendly gin and tummy game. Don’s sense of humor is adequate to cover any situation. Sibbied stuffed with wild rice is his favorite dish—and he can prepare it.

FTC ORDERS CHANGE IN DIATHERMY ADS

GEORGE S. MOGILNER and James Walker, trading as Merit Health Appliance Co., 707 South Hill St., Los Angeles, selling and distributing a therapeutic device called “Merit Short Wave Diathermy” have been ordered by the FTC to cease and desist certain advertising claims.

Respondents represented that unsupervised use of their device by the public for self-diagnosed conditions through self-application constituted an effective means for the treatment of numerous ailments, including rheumatism, arthritis and others, according to the Commission.

The Commission found that such diathermy machines are used by physicians with caution, after thorough diagnosis, under careful supervision. Respondents were ordered to cease and desist advertising representing their device safe and harmless, or as a competent or effective treatment unless such advertisement is limited to cases where the condition is chronic rather than acute, and unless competent medical authority has determined diathermy is indicated, and the user has been adequately instructed.

MISTER...we’ve got Denver by the ears...and how!

Here are a few miscellaneous facts gathered from the latest Hooper survey covering 55,854 homes within the Denver 5-cent telephone area:

- 73% of the time, KOA has more evening listeners than all other stations in Denver.
- The 10 top-rated daytime serial 5-a-week strips...the 50 shows with the highest Denver Hooper ratings...are all on KOA!
- The 10 top-rated evening programs...the shows with the highest Denver Hooper ratings...also are all on KOA!
- Morning, noon, and night...KOAs more listeners in Denver than the second and third-ranking stations combined.

And, when you consider that KOA has 10 times the power of any other Denver station...it’s easy to see why KOA delivers not only the greatest Denver audience...but also a vast majority of listeners in the rich Rocky Mountain and Plains States region.

Nebraska's Salvage Campaign Succeeds With Help of Radio

WOW Awarded Creighton Plaque For Its Part in Promoting Drive That Drew Nelson's Praise

WHOLEHEARTED support of all the stations in the State contributed to the successful scrap drive conducted by the Omaha World-Herald, which was cited by WPB Director Donald Nelson as a model campaign, according to the Nebraska Assn. of Broadcasters.

In a letter to Editor & Publisher, trade journal in the newspaper field, Art Thomas, secretary of the Nebraska association and manager of WJAG, Norfolk, said that "unfortunately your article did not tell the whole story." Mr. Nelson, following the success of the Nebraska campaign, had invited leading newspaper publishers to Washington to spur the scrap drive.

Radio Support

"You should tell the publishers who were influenced by your article," Mr. Thomas advised the trade journal, "that they cannot duplicate the Nebraska plan unless they have the same wholehearted support of all the radio stations in their States that the World-Herald had in Nebraska."

Bustressing the contention of Mr. Thomas was the action Sept. 5 of Creighton University in Omaha, awarding its School of Journalism plaque to WOW as the station which performed "the most outstanding work in promoting the recently successful scrap metal drive." Rev. Thomas S. Bowdern, S. J., regent of the school, advised John J. Gillin Jr., WOW general manager, of the award by the faculty members of the school and congratulated him on "a patriotic service well done."

Mr. Gillin in commenting on the award said that Nebraska did a "grand job" in collecting the scrap, but that it was the people who did it. "The part radio played in the campaign, however, should be told to the nation. The Omaha World-Herald did an outstanding job, but Art Thomas is right in the fact that radio did its share and did wholeheartedly support the campaign."

"There should be some way in which a better relationship could be worked out between the broadcasters and the publications—newspapers as well as magazines," Mr. Gillin commented.

Mr. Thomas, in his letter to Editor & Publisher, continued:

"Ask the World-Herald if they did not solicit and get the help of all the radio stations of Nebraska. Your article gave stations no credit for the success of the scrap campaign and they are entitled to a great deal.

"Radio is used to this sort of treatment at your hands and I would say nothing about the matter were it not for the fact that I mentioned the article in which you said they get the newspapers of the United States behind a campaign which cannot succeed as it did in Nebraska."

"We believe you should give your readers the full facts. If you feel I am prejudiced, make an investigation of your own."

The full text of Father Bowdern's letter to Mr. Gillin follows:

"It is a distinct pleasure to notify you that the plaque offered by the Creighton University School of Journalism to radio stations is to be awarded WOW. A faculty member of the University, Mr. Bryan Wasserman, judge of the entries submitted in this campaign, has asked me to convey to you their congratulations on a patriotic service well done."

Presentation of the plaque will be made in the near future with a fitting ceremony. We shall release a story to your news department at the earliest possible date.

For your information, in the competition for a three-day radio saloon to the national judges awarded the first-place plaque to the Holdrege Daily Citizen, a first honorary mention to the Plattsburgh Evening Journal, and a second honorary mention to the Nebraska City News-Press. The Omaha World-Herald, which did an outstanding job in sponsoring the recent drive, eliminated itself voluntarily from the competition for this plaque.

In the weekly field the first-place plaque went to the Blue Pilot-Tribune. Honorable mention citations were given in this order: the Medina Star-Mail, the Rutland Times-Enterprise, the Davenport Journal, and the Omaha Star.

Again, congratulations to you and to all the Nebraska radio stations, and newspaper editors and publishers, who showed a fine nation-spirit, why Nebraska is properly called "The White Spot of the Nation."

RUNOFF IN PRIMARY FACED BY SANDERS

A RUN-OFF in the Democratic primaries for the 6th Louisiana district, involving Rep. Jared Y. Sanders Jr., Baton Rouge, author of the bill to reorganize the FCC, will be held next month because of the failure of the incumbent to get a clear majority in the primaries last week.

Mr. Sanders was opposed for the Democratic nomination by James H. Morrison, Hammond, La., attorney. Under the state rules, the run-off will be held prior to the November elections. The nomination is tantamount to election in Louisiana.

Mr. Sanders, who has served in the 75th, 74th and the present (77th) Congresses, introduced his bill (HR-5497) for sweeping revision of the Communications Act and reorganization of the FCC on Aug. 5, 1941. Hearings were held on the measure several months ago, with a subcommittee to be appointed shorty to rewrite the measure.

A Furniture Store's Extra Punch

Portion of Net Used To Buy Bonds in Norfolk Plan

BY SOL LADERBERG

Advertising Manager,
A. J. Legum Furniture Co., Norfolk

The booming city of Norfolk, Va., presents many problems to advertising and merchandising men in the various retail stores. The choice of advertising media must be considered carefully. Where this could be done with a foot-rule a year ago, it takes a yardstick today.

The population of the community has doubled, and the effective metropolitan area has expanded to take in a good part of the adjoining counties. It is estimated that more than 50,000 new homes or housing units have been built in the last two years. In spite of this growth, it has not been adequate to care properly for the influx of war-workers to this market.

It is my opinion that many of these new residents do not have the same interest in our newspapers that they had in their own home-town publications. Also, I question whether or not the newspapers have been able to get circulation into all the war-infested communities.

Sold On Radio

I am convinced that most of these new-comers own radios. On the basis of this reasoning, we negotiated a contract with WGH, BLUE and MBS outlet for this Norfolk-Portsmouth-Newport News market.

A. J. Legum, the proprietor of the store, had always been a firm believer in advertising, promotion, and merchandising in an "all-out" manner. Evidence of the success of this policy is that for a number of years now this store has done the largest dollar-volume of any furniture store in the market.

We approached radio with the same thinking. We wanted to dominate the air. To promote a special sales event we signed for eight 100-word announcements daily, and bolstered this spot campaign by sponsoring the MBS Fulton Lewis program locally on WGH five nights weekly.

This event needs a word or two of explanation. Mr. Legum had invested $50,000 in War Bonds, and planned to buy more. He conceived the original idea of offering to buy War Bonds with all the money that was spent with him for furniture. That, simply, is the story.

We went through the store and reduced our floor stock, which inventoried at approximately $200,000, by $50,000. This represented an average reduction of 25%.

Swift Action

That is the story we had to tell over the radio. We based the advertising on price and patriotic appeal, pointing out that purchasers could get needed furniture, and the money they paid down would be used to buy War Bonds. One or two featured specials were advertised on each announcement. The program copy was used simply as an introductory idea.

We planned to run a two-week event. At the end of the first week we were four or five days behind on deliveries, and our floor was practically cleaned off. We were forced to end the event after seven days of selling.

The results speak for themselves. We are principally a credit store, and most of our sales are handled on a budget payment plan. This was also true of the sales made during the event. However, at the end of the seven days, Mr. Legum found that $30,750 had been paid in cash.

This money was invested the following week in War Bonds. We now plan to hold a special-event each month, with all money received being used to buy bonds at WGH. However, we feel in the future that we will be forced to limit this event to a one-day sale.

Edward E. Bishop, general manager of WGH, has arranged to sell Mr. Legum the War Bonds on a special broadcast, as a means of promoting the station's sale of Bonds. We have signed a yearly contract with WGH, providing for the use of 1,500 announcements, and a daily fifteen-minute program.

MONTHLY BONDS, are bought from WGH, Norfolk, by the A. J. Legum Furniture Co. there. Net profits derived from a special sale each month are used to purchase at least $5,000 in bonds every 30 days. A. J. Legum (left) is receiving bond from Edward E. Edgar, commercial manager of the station.

Sessions on Shortwave Programming Are Launched by International Group

WITH PROPOSED revision of American shortwave radio programming as the main consideration, conferences were started in Washington to coordinate the informational activities of the Office of War Information and the Inter-Allied Information Committee.

Reports from Allied Governments critical of the conduct of American shortwave policies it is understood, were thoroughly discussed at the meeting conducted by Elmer Davis, director of OWI, members of his executive staff identified with foreign informational activities, and a large number of representatives of the Inter-Allied group, created two years ago with headquarters in New York. The latter committee was financed by governments of the United Nations and served by an international staff.

French Film

The tenor of the meeting, first of a series to be held, was to work in closer harmony with all the United Nations in the handling of war information and propaganda. In addition to the regular delegation, the Fighting French also had a representative at the session.

Complaints from abroad apropos shortwave operations, it is understood, have centered around purported lack of understanding of the psychology of listeners abroad, notably those in German-occupied Europe.

Among those who sat in on the meeting for this country were Robert E. Sherwood, chief of the Overseas Branch of OWI, in charge of shortwave programming; Archibald MacLeish, assistant director of OWI; Paul C. Smith, head of the OWI News Bureau; and Charles Siepman, representing William B. Lewis, director of OWI's Radio Bureau.

Speculation over revision of American shortwave programming, frequently under consideration since the war's advent, developed following the session. Further meetings, probably through subcommittees, are planned on this phase.

It was stated following the session that the committee will continue to perform the following services: maintain in New York a clearing house for research and reference with respect to documentary material obtained from information services of the United Nations; publish a monthly periodical comprising transcripts of speeches, statements and other documents of the United Nations; and coordinate, prepare, and make available material from United Nations sources for radio, films, photographs, exhibits, press, and other information media. It is understood that the policy and program of the Inter-Allied Information Center shall be consistent with those of the Office of War Information and that the OWI will be represented in connection with all of the committee's activities.

Unity Needed

The keynote of the session, from the information standpoint, was sounded by Harold Butler, British representative and supervisor of British publications in the United States. He said:

"On no front is unity more necessary than on the information front. For years Hitler has poured out hundreds of millions of dollars to sow distrust and hatred among us, to breed disension and confusion on the front line of every nation whose downfall he plotted.

"Our business then is to fight back to nullify every lie as soon as it appears, to warn our peoples of the time against being fooled by the enemy. Every slander spread against an ally is a trick won by Hitler. Every doubt raised as to the resolution or integrity of an ally plays into his hands. These things begin with weakening morale at home and from there it is bound to spread to the man in the field. I believe that this Inter-Allied Information Committee can do a lot to catch the German flyer. By telling the facts about each other we can go far towards nullifying his power to harm.

"We all have records as nations of which we may be justly proud. Let us tell them to each other. In that way we shall not only foil the plans of the enemy but also add to the strength of our own land. We shall show the world the common ideals, which will not merely paralyze the machinations of our foes, but will drive us with high hearts along the path to victory."

Tube Rebuilders To Expand Plant
New Orleans Firm Salvages Equipment to Ease Shortage

FREELAND & OLSCNHER Inc., a New Orleans company which has been engaged the last several years in rebuilding vacuum transmitting tubes, has announced plans to consolidate and expand its facilities in New Orleans. In a move which may play a critical part in keeping American radio stations on the air for the duration, the firm’s plant expansion has been encouraged by engineering and other assistance from CBS. With the added facilities, the corporation expects to be able to serve a much greater sector of the radio broadcasting industry.

William T. Freeland, Jr., company president, indicated that some time would be necessary to put the expansion facilities on a smooth operation, since the firm’s employees will require a breaking-in period and, before that, the new facilities will take some time for installation.

Ask Cooperation

Mr. Freeland hoped the nation’s broadcasters would be with the company during this period. He also emphasized that, with the rapidly decreasing availability of new tubes and the critical nature of the rebuilt tubes will play in keeping stations on the air, the country’s broadcasters would hold their used tubes for reconstruction instead of disposing of them.

Mr. Freeland pointed out that it is not possible to rehabilitate every type of tube at the present time—particularly those in the smaller classifications. He hoped, however, with the new facilities at the company’s disposal, that future developments would permit the rehabilitation of a constantly increasing variety and number of tubes.

Dec. 11 Fixed by Judge
To Hear Monopoly Suits
FEDERAL Judge John P. Barnes, of Chicago, last Friday set Dec. 11 as trial date for the Government anti-trust suits against RCA-NBC and CBS, alleging monopoly in broadcast operation.

Also set for trial on the same date was the $30,000,000 triple-damage suit of MBS against NBC.

Since the Government suits against CBS and NBC were filed before the MBS complaint, these suits will come to trial first and a subsequent trial probably will be set for the MBS litigation. NBC has until Oct. 28 to file a reply brief to the MBS complaint. The Government's suit was filed on Dec. 31, while the MBS suit was filed Jan. 10.

Columbia Outfitting Co. Likes Radio
And It's Very Easy To Understand Just Why

By BERNARD SIEROTY
President and General Manager, Columbia Outfitting Co.
San Francisco

A 2,000% CASH return on an original investment! Yes, radio has done that for us! Not once, but time and time again!

The Columbia Outfitting Co. is situated in the heart of San Francisco's largest and most thickly populated neighborhood area, the Mission District. It maintains 21 different departments. Since its very beginning this firm has been advertising-minded. We knew that if we wanted to get people to come into our store, if we wanted to move goods on a fast turnover, we had to advertise and advertise heavily. The big downtown San Francisco department stores offer plenty of competition.

Convincing a City

It is our job not only to sell the more than 60,000 families residing in the Mission District on the idea of shopping in their own neighborhood department store, but to convince the entire buying population of the city that Columbia can supply their needs.

Columbia really hit the jack-pot when we let radio do our selling job for us! We started using radio commercially 12 years ago. At the beginning of the early years of our experience with radio, we experimented a great deal. We weren't in any hurry, and could afford to speculate in a hit-and-miss fashion, hoping to hit the jackpot with a trick program idea.

So I decided to buy radio the same way I buy newspapers: Let the station provide the audience and I would put the advertising on the programs which had built the audience. I decided not to experiment but to profit by the experience of others and buy the kind of radio advertising that others had proven.

In 1937 Columbia Outfitting Co. started using KJBS, a independent San Francisco station. We began with a 15-minute newscast six days weekly. Recently we increased our radio budget and in addition started using three quarter-hour popular musical programs, Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

As to results—when you are only using one radio station you can check results to the last penny. And we check consistently.

However, we find that our advertising dollar goes twice as far and is twice as effective if we coordinate all of our media behind one promotion or item. By that I mean back up promotions with all of our facilities—radio, newspaper, direct mail and windows. We've proven time and time again that it doesn't pay to advertise one item or promotion in radio, another in newspapers, another in direct mail, and so on—that is, it doesn't pay dividends the way the other method does.

Some Evidence

Let me point out some of the concrete examples why Columbia Outfitting Co. is so thoroughly sold on radio:

KJBS sold (directly traceable) $2,700 worth of radios in three weeks at a cost to us of $135.

It sold (directly traceable) $600 worth of towels and linens in ten days at a cost to us of $70.

It sold (directly traceable) $600 worth of blankets in eight days at a cost to us of $15.

We'll keep radio in our advertising budget as a MUST.

Only a crazy man would kick out his best salesman and producer.

POLICE AID PLAN REJECTED BY FCC

INDICATIONS that the FCC would move cautiously despite the prospect of bringing a halt to the police before modifying its ban on police broadcasts by standard transmitters appeared last week when the Commission denied the application of Roland Hughes, operator of WJZM, Clarksville, Tenn., for permission to transmit messages to police patrol cars.

The Commission, in denying Mr. Hughes' application, suggested that city officials might apply for a police communication system if they cared to pursue the matter further. Though the Commission recognized that some equipment might be saved by using standard transmitters now in operation, it is understood that other factors guided the decision. A recent poll of unlicensed shortwave transmitters has provided a pool from which essential new police systems could be equipped.

If Clarksville police should apply for a system and prove a necessary need for it, the Commission would then allot one of these transmitters, or, if a nearby police system were in operation, the Clarksville police could install receiving sets and share the transmitter.

ROCK ISLAND - DAVENPORT - MOLINE

In this market no "Outside Voice" can compete with the "Inside Pull" of WHB+.

$696.50 worth of portable radios in five days at a cost to us of $35.

We find that KJBS is responsible for 60% (directly traceable) of the new accounts opened each month and the startling thing about this is that roughly only 25% of Columbia's total advertising budget is spent on KJBS.

Further evidence that radio is really paying off for Columbia is obtained in the firm's files. This report was made up when we had been on KJBS for approximately one year.

Increase, January through June, 1939, over the corresponding period in 1938: Increase in new accounts, 15.0%; increase in reopened accounts, 14.0%.

These gains were obtained with a lower advertising budget in 1930 than in 1930 for the period indicated.

While the majority of San Francisco department stores have been playing around with radio, using a little spot campaign here and there, or experimenting with various types of expensive productions, we at Columbia have been pounding away for years with a constant, set radio formula that has given us almost unheard of returns for every dollar invested.

We'll keep radio in our advertising budget as a MUST.

Only a crazy man would kick out his best salesman and producer.

INDICATIONS that the FCC would move cautiously despite the prospect of bringing a halt to the police before modifying its ban on police broadcasts by standard transmitters appeared last week when the Commission denied the application of Roland Hughes, operator of WJZM, Clarksville, Tenn., for permission to transmit messages to police patrol cars.

The Commission, in denying Mr. Hughes' application, suggested that city officials might apply for a police communication system if they cared to pursue the matter further. Though the Commission recognized that some equipment might be saved by using standard transmitters now in operation, it is understood that other factors guided the decision. A recent poll of unlicensed shortwave transmitters has provided a pool from which essential new police systems could be equipped.

If Clarksville police should apply for a system and prove a necessary need for it, the Commission would then allot one of these transmitters, or, if a nearby police system were in operation, the Clarksville police could install receiving sets and share the transmitter.

N. Y. RAID ALARM SILENCES STATIONS

NEW YORK’s surprise air raid alarm early Labor Day, set into motion by an unidentified plane and called off almost immediately when it was found to be a friendly plane, caused a five-minute interrup- tion in the all-night operation of four New York radio stations, which went off the air upon receipt of the signal from the Army Intercep- tor Command.

W2Z was off from 2:31:30 until 2:37:30: WABC from 2:32:17 to 2:34:32; WOR from 2:33:40 to 2:35:20, and WNEW from 2:32:10 to 2:37:10. Although effect on three stations is keys for the BLUE, CBS and MBS networks, respectively, all of the broadcast stations are locally at that time of the morning and the networks were not affected.

An explanation of the alarm was broadcast by Mayor Fiorello La Guardia on WNYC, New York’s municipally owned station, at 1-11 that afternoon. His talk was carried simultaneously on WOR and WNEW and was recorded and broadcast at a later date by WHN, New York, and WHOM, Jersey City.

ANPA War Record

TO KEEP up-to-date the record of wartime advertising in America, the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. has issued the first in a series of supplements to its book “Advertising Goes to War”, pub- lished last July. The first supplement reproduces 40 representative wartime newspaper ads, both talk and retail keyed to war and straight product ads. It also contains the statement made by the AFA at the AFA 1942 convention by President Roosevelt.

Senate Music Probe Plans

had been granted that their permits were revoked and that no new one should be issued, the statement asks: "If transcriptions are not detrimental to the AFM, who is injured by them and why does Mr. Petrillo act against them?"

Confusion Arises

In its concluding paragraph the statement declares: "Since Mr. Petrillo has admitted that these electric transcriptions do not adversely affect union members who get the highest prevailing scale of wages for making them, the conclusion seems inescapable that Mr. Petrillo's action is motivated only by the desire to make his dictatorship over the field of music all-inclusive."

All-inclusive wording on the Petrillo edict, that his union "will not renew permits . . . to make transcriptions" and that "previously granted permits are terminated," gave rise to some confusion as to exactly how far the new prohibition extends. Mr. Petrillo could not be reached for comment, nor would any one else at AFM headquarters discuss the question.

Understanding of transcription company and broadcasting executives, however, is that off-the-line recordings of network programs for delayed or repeat broadcasts will not be permitted provided these later-than-network broadcasts of network programs are made by stations affiliated with the networks carrying the original programs. It was pointed out that such broadcasts have always been considered as part of the network broadcast by everyone concerned and that the stations received compensation on the basis of their agreements with their networks and not on their card rates for transcriptions.

Patrician Programs

Transcriptions of network programs for supplementary programs, however, are understood to be forbidden by the new rule, as they are placed with stations on the same basis as recordings of programs which are not network shows.

Purely patrician programs, it is understood, will be permitted to continue, provided they are entirely or chiefly non-commercial. The General Motors Victory In Our Business series, which limits its commercial to a phrase about the broadcast describing part of the company's contribution to the war effort, is an example of this exempt type of transcribed program.

Also included would be all government transcriptions as prepared under the direction of the OWI or the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs as a part of the nation's war propaganda program.

Applications for permission to make recordings should be made to the union by the organization which is to do the actual recording. In the case of a delayed broadcast this would probably be the station. In the case of new recordings for advertising agencies or of patriotic programs, application should be made by the recording company and not by the agency.

Among the transcribed programs affected by the ban are the Coca-Cola Singin' Sam quarter-hour series, currently broadcast on about 125 stations; recordings of the Moylan Sisters' network program, sponsored throughout Midwest and on the West Coast for Swansdown Flour; the Carnation Bouquet twice-weekly quarter-hour records, on some 70 stations for Carnation Milk; Hearts In Harmony, serial sponsored by Kroger Grocery & Baking Co.; a five-minute musical series for the Southern New England Telephone Co.; sponsored by America, for Hanover Cigars, and recorded versions of numerous network programs, including Amos 'n Andy, the Storm and Truth or Consequences for Procter & Gamble and General Foods' Aldrich Family.

Fate in Doubt

It is too early to say definitely what the fate of these transcription campaigns will be according to the agencies in charge. A soloist like Singin' Sam, for example, might continue to record a cavetla or against a chorral instead of an instrumental background. Dramatic programs may be recorded, as many already are being, without theme and bridge music, which is either filled in locally by staff musicians of the stations carrying the transcriptions or omitted entirely.

In most cases, there are enough transcribed programs on hand to continue the programs for several weeks or more, so that no immediate action is necessary on the part of the sponsor or his agency. The consensus seemed to be that nothing would be done until after Oct. 12, when the Government's petition for a temporary restraining order against Mr. Petrillo and the AFM is scheduled to be heard in the Federal Court in Chicago.

Sound Effects Used

Spokesmen for the AAAA and the ANA, when queried as to possible action by these organizations, agreed that for the time being at least their course will be to sit tight and observe carefully whatever happens. The problem, they stated, is primarily that of the broadcasters and the transcription companies and the advertiser and agency associations are not planning to become involved at this time.

When the making of one-minute musical transcribed announcements was halted by the union on Aug. 1, there was little if any loss in business for broadcasters, as most users of these recorded spots replaced the music with sound effects. In many cases this will also be true for transcribed programs, it is thought, but there is no doubt that this latest Petrillo prohibition will definitely result in the loss of some business for some stations. A program Against the Storm, for example, uses organ music throughout its entirety to set the mood and supply a background for the dialogue and it would be impossible to record the program as it is broadcast for the network and to separate the words and music. For the present the stations which formerly recorded the transcriptions of this series are not getting them. Whether they will subsequently receive the advertising in another type of program has not yet been determined.

Similarly, all-musical programs, whose replacement requires the adoption of a new program plan, may be dropped entirely in favor of true for transcribed advertising. The plan may be shifted to a network. The advertiser may decide to use newspapers or magazines and to drop radio at this time. "Any continuing cooperation," an executive pointed out: It is impossible to say how much business has already been lost by stations because advertisers in making their fall plans have shied away from the transcription field because of the difficulties in its use set up by the AFM.

Loss of Incentive

The Cincinnati incident, which evoked a renewed outburst against "Petrilloism", developed after the AFM, through its Cincinnati local, had told the conservatory, one of the country's oldest musical educational institutions, that the national policy of AFM is to permit only union musicians to broadcast. This was identical with the statement given by Petrillo in ordering cancellation of the Interlochen broadcasts. The action was immediately denounced by school leaders as a threat to the country's musical education.

George H. Kulsmeeyer, manager of the conservatory, said the broadcasters had "materially contributed" to the education of students and that he thought the union's activities would cause students to lose the incentive of playing for millions instead of before a few thousand.

A petition developed over whether this second student orchestra ban was a move to eliminate all non-union programs over the air. Heretofore, it was pointed out, the union has allowed such broadcasts if a standby band of union musicians was hired.

The New York Times on Sept. 10 renewed its editorial attack upon Petriello, which began with his initial transcription-recording ban. It said that "Mr. Petriello's conquests, like those of every dictator, only whet his appetite for future conquests."

Attacking as it has in the past the sweeping immunities from the anti-trust acts and even from the "Federal Anti-Racketeering Act" given unions by the Supreme Court, the Times states that personal indignation against Petriello is "as futile as it is foolish."

"He is, in a sense, performing a public service. He is showing just what can be done by a labor union leader under the present state of the law. His dictatorial powers are merely the logical end-product of the Administration's labor policy to date. It is that policy which has placed these powers in his hands."

"No one would wish to prejudice the Dept. of Justice's legal case against him. The Supreme Court, notwithstanding its previous decisions, may interpret some existing law to mean that at least some of Mr. Petriello's activities are out of legal bounds. But the law and its interpretation will have to be radically revised from that of the recent past if the irresponsible private dictator ship of the Petrillos is to be brought to an end."

Yet another ban from Petriello headquarters was reported from Providence last Thursday where Frank Weston, publicity director of the United War Fund Campaign there, disclosed that union musicians have been forbidden to make a recording of a song written for the campaign. The drive is scheduled in November to finance state-wide civilian welfare and community service to men in the armed forces. The plan was to have the recordings played at rallies.

Universal Manpower Measure Is Considered by Government

Summary of Radio Labor Shortages to Be Ready In Few Weeks; Navy to Check Enlistments

NO PRECISE form for manpower regulations affecting radio and communications is yet recognizable as a result of developments during the past week. At BWC it was indicated that a summary of radio labor shortages would likely be taken over by the Defense Broadcasting Committee about Oct. 1 along with comparable data for communications to its respective committee. WMC could not foresee its essential occupational lists before Oct. 15.

The only concrete development was the Navy Dept. decision of Sept. 10 to check every voluntary enlistment of men between 20 and 45 with local draft boards to ascertain whether they have been classified in II-A, assigned to those engaged in communications (including communications) essential to public health, safety and welfare, II-B or III-B. The latter two classifications embrace men employed in war industries.

Universal Plan

It is also understood that the War and Navy Depts. have approved the principles of the projected universal manpower legislation. Such a law would enable the Government to compel workers to enter service in war industries where labor shortages have developed.

Last week WMC acted to assert itself when 12 northwestern States were declared a "critical area" where workers engaged in the production of essential food and other nonferrous metals and lumber were frozen in their present jobs unless they can obtain a certificate of separation from their United States Employment Service. This voluntary order was likewise imposed upon employers as well, preventing them from granting a release to any worker without a Certificate from USES.

AMERICAN CIGARETTE & Cigar Co., New York, launched a campaign of spot announcements on five New York stations Aug. 17, and is currently using participations on stations in 27 other cities throughout the country for Pall Mall cigarettes. Agency is Ruthrauff & Ryan, New York.

Army Lauds Radio Industry for Drive Designed to Boost V-Mail

HIGH PRAISE for U. S. broadcasters came from the War Dept. last week for their work in popularizing the use of V-Mail. Volume of V-Mail was boosted almost 100% during the two-week campaign, it was stated.

Lt. Col. E. M. Kirby, Chief of the Radio Branch of the Bureau of Public Relations of the War Dept., revealed last Sept. 10, Thursday, that the two-week radio promotion for V-Mail brought an increase in volume of 95.2% over a period ending just before the radio campaign started.

Indicative of the success of the radio campaign is the comment of Major H. F. Ambrose, of the Army Postal Service:

"A compilation of V-Mail statistics for the period immediately preceding and following Sunday, August 23, 1942, the day on which The Army Hour dramatized V-Mail, reveals a sharp upswing in the use of V-Mail in all parts of the country."

WSYR's Bovines

IN THIS precise spot in the last issue of Broadcasting, appeared an item about 64 head of cattle which graze at the base of the towers of a Syracuse station. We made a serious “bull” about the ownerships and identity of those bovines. This story should have read: “Cattle, 64 head, graze at the base of the towers of WSYR, Syrac- use, and inside the city limits, too. The stock is 100% owned by the station, which explains their double purpose of keeping the grass trimmed in the rich creek bottom land where the WSYR transmitter is located as well as to utilize the grazing land to produce food for victory.”

"Gentlemen, Please! Mr. Ryan Says You're Violating the Code!"

FDR Talk Repeated

BECAUSE of the international importance of President Roosevelt's address to the International Student Assembly Sept. 3, WRUL, Boston, a branch of the World Wide Broadcasting Foundation, is rebroadcasting the student gestures of his talk in 23 languages. The rebroadcasts supplement the world-wide average given the speech the day it was made.

Talent Case Arbitrated

ARBITRATION decision in the case of Kenyon Kersey, radio and film singer-comedian, and William Morris Agency Inc., Hollywood talent service, was awarded the former on Sept. 5. Ruling frees Baker from contract ties with the talent agency.

Army Lauds Radio Industry for Drive Designed to Boost V-Mail

For the week ended August 23, 1942, there was a total of 111,196 V-Mail letters dispatched on microfilm system. For the week ended September 6, 1942, there was a total of 219,972 V-Mail letters, which represents an increase of 100% over the week immediately preceding the August 23 broadcast.

"Inasmuch as the full effect of the broadcast on the public would not be reflected in the writing of letters and the arrival of the same at points of embarkation on both coasts, it is believed that the latter period offers the best comparison. In other words, as a result of The Army Hour and the subse- quent spot announcements, there has been almost a 100% increase in the use of V-Mail facilities. Prior to The Army Hour broadcast, the per cent of increase from week to week was pretty much stabilized between 5% and 10%—the figure of 111,196 for the week ended August 23 amounting to 14,748 more than the previous week ended August 16, the total for which was 96,348."
"During ordinary times, a consumer may be willing to experiment with a cheaper or unknown brand. But when future availability of merchandise is doubtful, consumers take no chances and insist on products which are familiar and whose quality is known through experience to be dependable.

"Our experience in over 1,100 stores proves that right now when a consumer stocks up, she is buying the brands she knows. She is buying merchandise of known high quality.

"Yes, in times like these, quality products move first. The poorer quality and less known brands move last. Consumers now have more spending power, and the manufacturer who continues to advertise is sure to hold the market, even in the face of shortages.

"Speaking of shortages, we’ve had our share of headaches in keeping stocks up. Continued advertising by a number of manufacturers has helped our dealers keep customer good will despite our inability to supply some items of consumer goods.

"If for no other reason, this invaluable help should be continued for the sake of retail dealers who will have increasingly tough problems to solve as war cuts deeper and deeper into supplies of vital consumer goods."
Electrons—infinitesimal bits of electricity—are grains of sand in the hour-glass of science.

Today, radio's hour-glass—the electron tube—is turned so that the electron stream flows day and night to help win the war. Unlimited, it will run on and on until Victory is measured out on land, at sea, and in the air.

Only Time and Peace can tip this glass and reverse the flow of magic into new products and services for civilian use. Then, in the hour-glass of progress, will flow television and other new miracles of radio as the electronic sands of science flow again in new directions.
