HENRY OUTLAND, Illinois-born, Harvard-educated journalist, knew the European countries and their people from actual experience during 25 years residence there. Mr. Outland's broadcasts, developed on KLZ with the cooperation of the Rocky Mountain Radio Council, first were heard as a once-weekly sustaining feature. Their acceptance by listeners was immediate and the program is now commercially sponsored five times a week.

WNEW vs. Soap Operas

Some people say daytime serials upset people’s nerves and things. Maybe so, but we don’t believe it.

But we do know there are more people in New York who don’t listen to soap operas than there are people who do. It’s not so much their nerves—they just like music.

From 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. when soap opera heroines are coming to grips with life on the two big networks, here’s what’s happening on the other New York stations:*

- WNEW has a 23% larger total audience than the next nearest network station.
- WNEW has a 31% larger total audience than the second nearest network station.
- WNEW has an 80% larger total audience than the next nearest independent station.

And with the others, there’s no contest.

When you’re buying New York, buy the biggest audience for the least amount of money—buy WNEW.

Spot Sales Boom; May Top 1942 Record

Some Stations Sold Out on Minute Schedules
By DORIS HILLMAN
New York Bureau

ALTHOUGH no one in the radio or advertising agency field was willing to hazard a guess last January as to the 1943 outlook for spot radio, even the blackest pessimist at that time will have to admit now that spot is more than holding its own this summer, with prospects of bettering last year’s all-time high.

Active Categories
The general consensus among agency executives contacted by Broadcasting is that spot is definitely “good” this year—and getting better as fall budgets enter the consideration stage. Several agencies reported their spot business at a peak, complaining only that availabilities for one-minute announcements are poor.

Some larger network affiliated stations are sold out on such schedules, although they have open an ample amount of five-minute and quarter-hour strips, timebuyers report, adding that this situation seems to be reversed at smaller non-network outlets.

The only agencies reporting a curtailment or “dropping off” of spot schedules seem to be those with an abundance of accounts whose products have been seriously affected by the war—whether through shortages, transportation difficulties, rationing, or complete conversion to war work, as in the automotive field.

However, even these agencies can usually cite new advertisers entering the spot picture for the first time, or regular spot users who have expanded past schedules or are breaking precedent by continuing last winter’s campaigns through the warm months.

Classifying generally the various types of spot advertising, the most active as well as “new to radio” groups this summer seem to be proprietaries, especially vitamins and other health products; cereals and breads; beverages; cosmetics, with particular emphasis on the new liquid makeups to replace hosieries; amusements, including most of the large motion picture companies, and publishers of inexpensive guides for self-treatment, war-time interests as home nursing and victory gardening.

The boom in vitamin concentrate sales, which last year reached an all-time high of $120,896,000, according to a survey by Drug Topics, has brought new business to spot as well as to network radio. Outstanding advertisers in this classification are leading radio advertisers in the food, soap and pharmaceutical field, who have added new vitamin products to their lines within the last year and a half. Most recent newcomer in the vitamin field is Standard Brands, which recently expanded the campaign area for Stamm to 26 Mid-Central states.

S-B introduced another vitamin, Stan-B on 29 West Coast stations in May. Bexel, a McKesson & Robbins product, is currently promoted on about 80 stations. Others active in the field include Lever Bros. (Vimms); Grove Labs; and Block Drug Co. In many cases advertisers are summering the networks and buying products supplement spot with cutins and trailers for their vitamins.

Vitamin Market
Expanding the market for vitamins are such factors as food rationing, the highly publicized government nutrition program, with its emphasis on vitamin values, and increasing consciousness of health in relation to the war effort. Awareness of vitamin appeal to the consumer is apparent in the trade field, as new beverages and products with vitamin content. Two potential spot advertisers in this field are Nutri-Cola Co., for its Vitamin B-1 beverage, and Sweets Co., for a new milk fortifier, Tootsie V-M.

Elway Food Products’ Vitamalt, introduced earlier this year, recently expanded its original campaign to 120 stations.

Aside from companies promoting vitamin products as a means of keeping health in these trying war days, many manufacturers of cold remedies are foregoing their usual summer hiatus periods, as for instance the makers of Luden’s Cough Drops, who for the first time in years of winter spot radio advertising, are continuing on about 31 outlets in major markets, aiming copy at hayfever and summer cold sufferers. Other such advertisers who are active this summer are Grove Laboratories and Vick Chemical (for its nose drops). At the same time plans for the fall campaigns for Musterole and Persussin cough medicine are already well under way. Also abandoning

Spot Activity at High Level in Midwest

New, Renewal Business Both Running Heavy, Survey Shows
By JAMES J. MCGUINN
Chicago Bureau

MIDWEST Spot advertising expenditures for the coming fall and winter are likely to show gains of 20 to 30% over the same period last year, with old accounts holding or increasing previous expenditures, and heavy renewal and new business expected. A roundup of opinions gathered from leading station representatives, advertising agency executives and station managers, revealed last week.

The optimism was due in large part to advertisers having adjusted themselves to the price and priority difficulties experienced last year. Station managers in general see an increase of business, with practically every old advertiser returning to the air and with the previously occasional radio advertisers buying up what little available time is left. In some cases station men feel that many new radio advertisers will break into the medium and that there will be a pioneering of new accounts using new avenues in commercials.

Sponsors of everything from watches and tobacco to soap, shoes, bread, wine and insurance, are expected to spend a large amount of their increasing incomes for radio.

News Shows Sought
Station representatives queried say the old standbys are returning in great strength and that, as well, many who stayed on the air during the summer order to keep their time, will expand in the fall. More household supplies and food accounts are predicted by the representatives from their reports. Expressing their belief in a definite increase in all types of programs, they say that news shows will gain greater popularity, with a likelihood of less transcribed music due to the Petrillo ban. One instance was quoted which showed an increase in spot time in May of 26% over last May, in June of 30% over last June, and an anticipated 40% increase this July over July, 1942.

Advertising agencies see a heavy increase in news shows and specially built programs to meet growing competition, with quarter-hour spot programs leading the field, and many new accounts going network. Another trend, one agency points out, is toward the use of 1,000 and 5,000-watt stations. Rationing effects have now been stabilized and the advertiser sees the need to offset greatly increased competition for his fewer products, it is pointed out. In many cases there will be switchovers, such as those by automobile firms advertising to buy used cars instead of trying to sell their stock on hand. In the case of furniture, for example, dealers will offer to reupholster suites they once sold new, and in some instances, the change will require turning from direct selling to institutional copy. That this will continue is evident from trends now apparent, wherein industries using radio as “classified ads” meet their manpower quota and carry out the balance of the contract with the industry.

The opinions expressed revealed most optimistic possibilities for the coming fall and winter, in which new highs in business and advertising should be reached.
New War Ad Drive Gets Under Way

Leaders Ask Advertisers For Half-Billion of Time and Space

THOUSANDS of the nation's leading businessmen gathered be- fore radios in studios, conference rooms and at special banquets in hundreds of communities throughout the country July 14 to hear a special War Advertising Council broadcast in which Government leaders of all three branches, appealed for $500,000,000 in advertising to help the war information job, twice the amount contributed by industry last year.

The broadcast, heard nationwide over NBC, sparked the campaign of the WAC to get "A War Message in Every Ad." It included talks by Elmer Davis, director of OWI; Judge Fred M. Vinson, director of Economic Stabilization; Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the WPB; Judge Marvin Jones, War Food Administrator, and Chester J. LaRoche, chairman of the WAC.

Davis Opens Appeal

Mr. Davis opened the broadcast by appealing for a performance on the home front to match the achievements of the fighting fronts. Asserting that the people will respond "if they know what is expected of them, and why, and believe it makes sense," the OWI chief said the stimulus of advertising is needed.

Mr. Davis explained that the Government had decided to rely on privately controlled advertising because American advertising men were specialists in its use, and because any Government advertising scheme, regardless of tremendous cost, couldn't do the job as well. He praised advertisers in general for their cooperation, particularly radio, which he said "has made a tremendous contribution." He also praised the work of WAC, commenting that it had functioned "unselfishly almost since the day of Pearl Harbor."

After an introduction by Mr. Davis each of the other Government leaders explained specific problems of their organizations, and told businessmen how war advertising could make the job easier.

LaRoche Explains Need

Mr. LaRoche explained WAC's plan of "A War Message in Every Ad." Emphasizing that the Council "has no grail and that "it represents no political party and no pressure group" he asked that $500,000,000 in advertising, one third of all advertising exp- ended for the government, be spent for the total contribution of the entire advertising field in the past 12 months was at least $250,000,000," he said. "And now twice that amount, or $500-

Nelson, chairman of WPB; Fred M. Vinson, director of Economic Stabilization; and Chester J. LaRoche, chairman of War Advertising Council. The group gathered at the NBC studios in Washington, D. C., where the broadcast originated.

000,000 worth of space and time is needed. Twice as much because the job is twice as big." Mr. LaRoche described a two-fold beat-one-third of all advertising space devoted exclusively to war; and a war message in every ad. "As an advertiser," he told the businessmen listening in, "this space should be devoted entirely to war messages, and all of your space should contain a war message. Because your ad devotes most of its space to a product, the reason why a war message cannot also be included," he declared.

The WAC chairman urged media and local businessmen to arrange pools of space or money to do the job on the local level. Citing experiments in Houston, Cleveland, Louis- ville, Portland and Hartford, he asked that the pools cover advertising needs for the next six months. "No community in this country can fairly say that it is doing its war job until it is similarly organized," he said.

Must Arouse Public

Mr. LaRoche said war advertising involved more than a picture of a plane or tank or gun, and that it told more than the story of how a company's product was helping win the war.

MBS Volume Discount Plan
Revises Rates, Shifts Markets

A REVISION of the Mutual volume discount plan, embodying reductions in maximum discounts on stations in "B" and "C" markets and a shift from the present frequency system to a dollar volume plan, was announced by Miller McClintock, President of MBS, following a meeting of the network's board and shareholders in New York last week. Mr. McClintock also announced a change in the net- work's option time schedule, making 5 1/2 hours of network time on weekdays and 5 hours on Sundays available to MBS advertisers. On the basis of current network sales, he predicted gross billings of $14,000,000 for MBS in 1943.

The new volume discount plan goes into effect Nov. 1, 1943, with current advertisers not affected until Nov. 1, 1944, and those signing Mutual contracts before November of this year also receiving a year's protection. Maximum discounts for "A" markets remain at 50%, under the new plan. For "B" market sta- tions the maximum discounts drop from 60% to 50% and for "C" market stations from 75% to 60%.

The new plan, Mr. McClintock explained, "reducing as it does the discounts on our stations in home-town markets, is in line with several Mutual research studies con- ducted in the past six months for individual Mutual shows which have uncovered increases of from 100% to 379% in audiences com- pared to the more regularly sur- veyed centers." He added that 14 MBS clients are now using the full network plan and that in 1943 six clients have increased their Mutual hook-up's "to take advantage of Mutual's growing audiences in the important home-town markets of America."

In Line With Others

Switch from a frequency to a dollar volume discount system will put MBS in line with the current practices of the other major net- works. Under the present set-up an advertiser taking 13 quarter- hour daytime periods receives the same rate of discount as another client taking 12 full evening hours, (Continued on page 54)
In an open letter, the President called attention to a previous letter of Aug. 21, 1942 in which he stated that it is in my own interests, as to fact or policy should not be publicly aired, and are to be submitted to me by the appropriate heads of the conflicting agencies. Notwithstanding these positive instructions, he added that disagreements between agencies have been publicly aired on several occasions. He realized the nervous strain under which Government officials was written in the paper, but not to overlook any further violations of my instructions, the President said. “By this letter I do not place any restrictions upon your furnishing information to Congressional inquiries. But if you have a disagreement with another agency as to fact or policy, instead of submitting it to me or submitting it to the Committee on Confidential Mobilization for settlement under the terms of the (Executive) Order creating that office, you feel you should submit it to the press, I ask that, when you release the statement for publication, you send to me a letter of resignation."

Durr Petition

“If any subordinate of yours violates my instructions in this regard, I shall expect you to ask for your immediate resignation.”

All as possible affected by the President’s warning is the effort of Commissioner C. J. Durr to have Chairman E. E. Cox, of the investigating committee, removed. If petition Speaker Ray-Butler on May 13 have Judge Duggan disqualified on grounds of bias. The petition is pending before the House Judiciary Committee, which failed to act prior to the recess a few weeks ago.

Meanwhile, the House Committee has adopted the new strategy of withholding names of witnesses until they appear, evidently because of past experiences. Hearings resume today (July 19), to run the entire week.

The Committee, it is understood, will pursue the military phase of its inquiry, which was unconditionally blocked last week, with the disclosure that President Roosevelt himself had stepped in to prevent delivery of files relating to the recommended transfer of the Radio Intelligence Division and the Foreign Broadcast Monitoring Service of the FCC to the Army. Other evidence developed by Committee General Counsel Eugene L. Garey and William R. Dyer, whose testimony will be offered in evidence, with a number of witnesses to be subpoenaed.

The running fight of FCC Chairman Fly with the Committee and its counsel continued unabated last week, with Mr. Fly challenging the Committee every inch of the way. His refusal at the July 9 session, during a two-hour grilling by Mr. Garey, to testify on the “secret” trial of Neville Miller, NAB president, and other possible disclosures of the communications of Mr. Fly also is chairman, led to speculation about possible contempt of Congress proceedings against the FCC-BWC chairman.

Under Investigation

Mr. Fly declined to discuss the Miller trial (which resulted in the NAB President’s exoneration on the assignation of a five-month period during the ground that he was under instruction by the five-man BWC not to release any information because it might ‘adversely affect the national interest or injure its national prestige’. Mr. Garey held that no secret information was sought and recited that the charges were brought in an effort by Mr. Fly to escalate an argument because of his opposition to FCC policies. The allegations, Mr. Garey brought out, were that Mr. Miller, chairman of the Domestic Broadcasting Committee of BWC, had been released to the industry “confidential” data relating to the critical employment situation in the broadcasting industry as essential to the war effort and evolution of plans for the creation of a broadcast equipment pool, which would have been administrated by the FCC.

Contempt of Congress proceedings, a rare but not unprecedented action, have not been formally considered by the Committee, but the matter has been discussed. Mr. Garey has asserted that while he was preparing a report on the statutes covering refusal of witnesses to testify before Congressional committees, but that the decision lay with the Committee. It was presumed that no action would be taken until Congress reconvenes Sept. 14. The maximum penalty for contempt, under the United States code, is not more than $1,000 nor less than $100 and imprisonment in a common jail for not less than one month nor more than 12 months.

Whether any action would be taken by the Committee in the light of the refusal of the President to permit the Army, Navy or Budget Bureau to present files relating to the FCC activities was not disclosed. Chairman Cox said following the July 9 hearing that the Committee would not press this matter for the present but that if Mr. Miller was “capped”, it would feel called upon to refer the matter back to the House for action. As to all other witnesses and testimony, however, Mr. Cox said that the Committee would insist upon testimony and production of requested documents.

Plan for Week

Acting Secretary of War Patterson and Acting Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Doolittle, among others, and both the views of the President, refused to permit some two dozen officers to testify before the Committee in connection with the recommendation of the Joint Chiefs of Staff that the FCC’s so-called war activities be transferred to the Army.

Presumably this week’s testimony will be given almost entirely to the work of the Army and to the development of data procured by the Committee in five months of preliminary investigation of the FCC. The recital of more than 50 charges against the FCC and Chairman Fly pertaining to national defense activities, it is expected, will be covered.

The New Miller matter, it is assumed, will be covered in other ways. While no word came from the Committee, it would not surprise observers to see Mr. Miller himself and Mr. Russell, NBC (Continued on page 58)
NAB Sales Managers Advocate Continuing Discount Principle

Executive Committee Condemns Cow-Catcher and Hitch-Hike Spots, Votes Announcement Survey

THE PRINCIPLE of continuing discount—that is, if a commercial order is placed and not withdrawn within the discount period, that discount shall remain—was unanimously approved by the NAB Sales Managers Executive Committee at a meeting held last Wednesday at the Hotel Roosevelt, New York. Meeting was called under the chairmanship of Dietrich Dirks, KTRI, Sioux City, Ia., recently appointed as chairman of both this group and of the NAB Sales Managers Committee.

Group also approved a resolution introduced by John M. Outler, WRB, Kansas City, Mo., condemning the practice of cow-catcher and hitch-hike announcements on both network and spot programs, which was referred to the NAB board of directors for action.

Praise for Promotion

A proposal that an arbitration clause be included in the standard contract form, calling for the settlement of controversies over any part of the contract through the machinery of the American Arbitration Assn., was voted down.

The committee reviewed imminent releases of the NAB Dept. of Broadcast Advertising and commended Lewis H. Avery, director of that department, for the creation and production of these industrial promotion pieces. Committee also instructed Mr. Avery to prepare a sales manual on local radio accounts, to be used as a sort of prayer book on the use of radio by department stores. This latter work is already under way under Mr. Avery’s supervision and the two books will probably be issued simultaneously early in the fall, for station use in conjunction with the Industry Retail Promotion Plan.

Group discussed and condemned the practice of certain advertisers and advertising agencies in releasing to the trade press stories of new radio campaigns together with lists of stations supposedly carrying the business when in fact it has been rejected by many stations on the list as being unacceptable.

Committee also condemned a number of five-minute commercial programs now on the air which, in the opinion of the committee, are practically and commercially a case in direct violation of the NAB Code which limits the amount of commercial copy on five-minute programs to two minutes in the daytime and one minute 45 seconds at night.

Although the Code does not impose any set limitations of commercial time for participating programs, the committee discussed the practice of many stations in overlooking such programs when announcements to the point where the entertainment value is lost, and agreed to notify broadcasters that such practice is harmful both to the best interests of the individual stations as well as of the entire industry.

Survey Approved

Group approved a suggestion that an industry survey be conducted to determine standards for live announcements, for the guidance of advertisers and agencies which use this type of advertising. It was pointed out that a one-minute announcement may vary from less than 100 to nearly 200 words and that some sort of standard is necessary.

Following the luncheon session, at which the committee listened to program of the War Advertising the NBC broadcast of the special Council, Mr. Dirks proposed a resolution condemning and endorsing the WAC move to promote the contribution of more space and time by advertisers to Government wartime messages, and urging all broadcasters to contribute to the fight against false propaganda.

Mr. Outler, chairman of the meeting, Mrs. Helen Miller of the Retail Advertising Bureau, was named chairman of the Executive Committee to the radio advisory committee of the WAC.

Meeting was attended by Mr. Dirks; Mr. Outler; C. K. Beaver, KARK, Little Rock; Sam H. Benneff, KMBC, Kansas City; Arthur Hull Hayes, CO., Jr., WOR, New York; John E. Connell, NBC; John E. Surrick, WFIL, Philadelphia; Mr. Avery, who acted as secretary for the meeting. Only absent member of the committee was W. B. KOMO-KJR, Seattle. Lineea Nelson, J. Walter Thompson Co.; Charles Ayers, Ruthrauff & Ryan, and William A. Fricke, American Assn. of Advertising Agencies, were luncheon guests.

Group completed its business meetings on Wednesday, but reconvened on Thursday for a preview of the Retail Promotion Plan and a joint luncheon session with the Retail Promotion Committee.

Lincoln Dellar

LINCOLN DELLA has resigned as chairman of the radio division of the Overseas Branch of the Office of War Information in San Francisco to return to A. S. C. I. A. to头 Broadcasters Inc., as vice-president. His resignation was announced by Owen Lattimore, chief of the Division of Pacific Operations of the OWI. Dellar will continue as a member of the OWI’s technical staff in London and will continue to work with OWI radio in the Secretariat, OWI.

Mr. Dellar will continue as a member of the OWI’s technical staff in London and will continue to work with OWI radio in the Secretariat, OWI.

E. P. Hoyt

To Name Nine Broadcasters To Advise OWI on Handling of News

FORMATION of a nine-man radio-news and policy committee of OWI, to consult on matters pertaining to war news coverage and handling, was disclosed last Friday by E. Palmer Hoyt, recently appointed director of OWI’s Domestic Branch. Mr. Hoyt is on leave from his post as editor and publisher of the Portland Oregonian (KGW-KEX).

Mr. Hoyt discussed the matter with NAB President Neville Miller and Mr. Avery, who is to be assistant in charge of radio public relations, last week. The new committee will parallel the newspaper committee of nine which met with him earlier in the week.

Membership of the membership of the new radio group, Mr. Hoyt asserted, will be made shortly. It will comprise nine broadcast executives, of whom four will represent individual stations. One member will be non-NAB and one will represent a newspaper-owned station. Each of the four networks will be asked to designate an executive (presumably the president or general manager) to serve on the committee. Mr. Miller, as NAB head, will be the ninth member. The station membership will be selected geographically.

The committee, Mr. Hoyt said, will be an active one and will be called to consult with him on war news matters at intervals of two months or so. A committee representing the magazine field also is expected to be named shortly.

Study Field Needs

Mr. Hoyt’s nine-man advisory committee of outstanding newspaper editors met in Washington last week, and issued a statement calling for recommissioning of the ban on OWI field operations. In addition to proposing a study of the need for field services, the committee suggested that radio and press reporters, now members of the OWI news corps be called in by OWI for conferences.

The committee, which was formed while Congress was debating the (Continued on page 52)

Now comes another similar Survey—made among Iowa FEED DEALERS.

Among those feed dealers who answered the questionnaire, the vote for various types of media was as follows:

- Prefer Billboards          0.0%
- Prefer Newspapers          6.7%
- Prefer Farm Papers          10.8%
- Prefer Radio               82.4%

Among the 82.4% who named Radio, WHO was preferred by 68.6% of the voters. No other single medium, in any category, was mentioned by more than 9.8% of the voters. Collins-Baylor U Get 50 kw. Station

Corpus Christi Outlet Goes to 1010 kc.; O'Daniels In

WHAT WAS viewed as a modification of the FCC's freeze order of the FCC against licensing of new stations where expenditures for equipment or manpower are involved, developed last week with the FCC's grant of a broadcast license to the University and Carr P. Collins, head of the Crazy Water Crystals Co., Mineral Wells, Tex., a new 50,000-watt daytime station at Corpus Christi, Tex. The application has been pending since early this year [Broadcasting, Feb. 1]. Commissioner C. J. Durr dissented.

The Commission announced it had granted the construction permit to the University and Collins, with directional antenna operation specified on 1010 kc. The station would operate daytime to sunset at Little Rock, Ark., and KLRA is assigned to the same frequency with 10,000 watts day and 5,000 watts night. KLRA has been operating regularly on the frequency since last March.

Two Recent Grants

While the FCC has made no formal announcement regarding renewal of the freeze order, two grants late last month authorizing station removals were viewed as indicating a new policy in that direction. WGRG, NBC, New Albany, Ind., on June 29 was authorized to remove its main studio and transmitter from New Albany to Louisville, Ky. On the same day the FCC authorized WDSU, New Orleans, La., to remove its transmitter and studio to Columbus, Ga.—some 30 miles distant.

The 1010 kc. channel is a Canadian-I.A. Cuba has a secondary outlet on it. The new transmitter, call letters for which have not yet been assigned, would be located northeast of Gregory, Tex.

FCC action came after drastic modification of the original plan for the station. Baylor, under the transaction, will acquire 50% of the capital stock of a new $150,000 corporation to be created, with the remaining 50% assigned to Mr. Collins. Two sons of W. Lee O'Daniel, Texas Senator, each will acquire 150 shares of the 1,500 shares issued. Crazy Water Co. also will hold a substantial interest.

The original application, which provided for Baylor as the licensee with a 25-year license arrangement to Collins, did not conform to the Commission's policy against management contracts. The subsequent amendments, however, in the judgment of the Commission, made the application conform. Moreover, while no formal statement was made, it is understood the Commission felt the grant would aid Mexican-U. S. relations, since XEAW, which was in the "border station" category and served listeners in the United States, under the grant will perform that job from United States territory.

The most recent amendment released about a month after the freeze grant provided for the creation of a corporation without side contracts or understandings. Under this arrangement, 750 shares would go to Baylor for $75,000, with the sum advanced by Collins as a loan to the university. He is a former member of its board. Directors of the corporation will be Pat M. Neff, first vice-president and general manager of WACO; and R. H. H. Collins, president, treasurer and general manager of WACO.

Stock Distribution

The distribution of the stock, aside from the 750 shares to the university, will be: Pat O'Daniel, 130 shares; Mike O'Daniel, 130 shares; Crazy Water Co., 250 shares (half of the stock of this company is owned by Pat M. Neff and his brother, H. H. Collins); Fidelity Union Life Insurance Co., 140 shares (Carr Collins and the widow of Earl B. Smythe own 45% of this company)—a total of 750 shares.

Owners of the other 50% of the Crazy Water Co. are A. J. Pondrom, Texarkana; J. A. Simmons, of Texas; and J. L. Lancaster, president, Texas & Pacific Railroad Co.

The agreement also provides that Baylor shall reimburse Carr Collins for the $75,000 loan out of earnings of the station, but with the stock to be voted by Baylor. The stock may not be foreclosed within 10 years, whether or not payments are made. Interest is fixed at 5%.

While no mention was made of the April 27 freeze order, it was pointed out that the stock pile of equipment used will not come from this country but from Mexico, where XEAW is located. Claim was made that adequate equipment is available for the installation, but critical manpower would have to be used. The FCC may feel there is sufficient latitude in the freeze order to warrant the grant in view of the circumstances, and the "good neighbor" factor involved.

Mr. Collins also is understood to have notified the FCC of his intention to move all of his radio equipment from Mexico and to terminate any interests he may have in stations outside this country. Under the original transaction, Mr. Collins was to move the XEAW equipment to Corpus Christi and pay all expenses. He then planned to make the facilities a "gift" to the university in return for a contract to manage and operate the station for 25 years. He was to buy the land and pay the university $25,000 a year rental. This was later revised to $5,000 a year. As approved by the FCC, however, all these aspects were eliminated and a straightforward business deal covering the 50% licensee interests substituted. Mr. Collins, whose operation at Reynolds in the past has caused interference complaints in this country, long has sought a high-powered station. The original application for 1010 kc. at Corpus Christi required fulltime, but was subsequently modified to daytime. Last fall, following protest by this Government, the Mexican government ordered the XEAW transmitter, with claimed output of 100,000 watts, to cease operating on 1010 kc. It then went back to its regular assignment on 1570 kc., but subsequently was authorized temporarily to operate on 1050 kc., a Mexican A channel. This frequency, however, afterward was reassigned to XEG at Monterrey, where it is being used with 50,000 watts by a Mexican corporation, with James A. Savage, of San Antonio, as its director.

The Collins application stated the proposed station would be the only one serving the entire Texas, Louisiana and Gulf Coast area with a primary signal. It was stated the station would not accept advertising of intoxicants, including beer. The controversy between removal of the facilities of XEAW would be in conformance with the Havana Treaty.

Formal Plea Is Filed for Sale Of WDSU; Weber Will Manage

FORMAL application for the sale of WDSU, New Orleans, by Joseph H. Uhalt to a new company in which Fred Weber, general manager of Mutual, will be a partner, was filed last week with the FCC. Mr. Weber, upon Commission approval of the transaction, would become general manager of the BLUE Network outlet.

Confirming in every detail the previously published account [Broadcasting, June 21], the application set forth that the transaction is for $28,000. At the same time, Mr. Weber resigned from his sales directorship with the Stephens B. O'Donnell Co. in New Orleans and a recent candidate for the Democratic nomination to the Senate, would acquire 50% of the station for $100,000. H. G. (Bud) Wall, president of WIBC, Indianapolis, would acquire three-eighths for $75,000 and Mr. Weber one-eighth for $25,000. An option agreement whereby Mr. Weber can acquire an additional interest, up to one-third, is embodied in the contract.

WDSU, according to the application, had a gross of $70,000 for the first five months of 1942. The net profit was $28,000.

It is expected Mr. Weber will resign his Mutual post after the FCC approves the transfer and immediately take over his new duties. Mr. Uhalt is the founder of the Mutual network. The station has been inactive in its management because of his health. The station operates on 1280 kc. with 1,000 watts. A new transmitting plant was installed recently.

WDSU has been under a six-month probationary license, which expires Oct. 21, because of purported violation of technical regulations. If no further violations reported after renewal license will be issued 'this fall.'

Mr. Weber has been general manager of MBS since 1936, joining it originally in 1934 as coordinator. Last January Murray McClintock became Mutual's first president.

New Air Raid Provision Put in Censorship Code

NEW clause covering mention of air raids on the air has been adopted by the Office of Censorship. Paragraph 3 of Clause (F), Section I (page 8) of the Code of War Time Practices is amended to read as follows:

"Mention of any raid in the continental United States during its course, except on appropriate authority of the designated representatives of the Defense Commander in whose area the raid occurs or the War Department in Washington."

J. Harold Ryan, Assistant Director of Censorship for broadcasting, has informed broadcasters of War Dept. objection to "pen programs" during which listeners are urged to write to American soldiers overseas or in prison camps.

Grade Label Dies: Maxon Quits Post, Bowles Appointed
Agency Official to Serve as General Manager of OPA

AN END to OPA grade labeling activity was promised by Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown last week at a news conference called to counter Lou R. Maxon’s charges against the agency. At the same session, Mr. Brown announced that Chester Bowles, of Benton & Bowles, was expected to accept a job as OPA general manager.

Mr. Bowles, working at OPA as a dollar-a-year man less than a year from his Detroit agency, quit his Government post after asserting that OPA was so hopelessly tied up in red tape and legalistic snarls that it was no longer worth his while. Specifically, he claimed that a strong clique was using the war to further its private economic theories.

Label Restrictions

Particularly, Mr. Maxon cited grade labeling regulations as an example of “radical and dangerous concepts.” He said “grade labeling, in my sincere estimation, presents the greatest threat to American industry and our way of life that ever existed, because it is without question the spearhead in a trend to eliminate brands, trade marks and eventually free enterprise.”

Although Mr. Brown failed to answer most the charges, he said Mr. Maxon and his opponents on grade labeling seemed to think the future of America depended on the policy OPA adopted on that subject. Commenting that Canada, “generally a more conservative country than this one” gets along all right under it, Mr. Brown added “I think we’ll get along all right without it.” He said at any rate, grade labeling had been abolished by order of Congress and that he intended to obey the letter and spirit of the Congressional order.

In announcing that Chester Bowles had been offered the general manager slot, Mr. Brown said Mr. Bowles “would have all the power the title implies.” Mr. Bowles had been OPA administrator in Connecticut and was vacationing at the time the announcement was made.

At their home, Mrs. Bowles said he would not be notified of the appointment until his vacation ended, about July 28. Friends said that when the offer was made some time ago, Mr. Bowles stipulated that he have full authority over all field offices and branches of OPA, and

Canada Independents Ask Clear Statement on Nationalization

Their Efforts to Expand Service Discouraged by Constant Threat of Government Ownership

CONSTANT threat of nationalization of broadcasting in Canada discourages expansion of service to the public by private broadcasting stations, Jos. Sedgwick, counsel to the Canadian Association of Broadcasters told the Parliamentary Committee on Broadcasting at Ottawa on July 13.

Private broadcasters were “dis- tressed” about the OPA’s failure to secure Parliamentary Committee supporting general nationalization of radio in Canada, he told the Committee members. If the Committee were to secure nationalization of radio it should say so flatly. If it does not, radio should be freed of a constant threat of nationalization. The present policy does not create an atmosphere of encouragement to private stations in expanding services to the public, Mr. Sedgwick said.

An impartial survey made recently by a commercial firm (Elliot-Haynes Ltd., Toronto and Montreal) to determine which type of radio control the Canadian people prefer showed that 16% favor government ownership, 32.5% favor some government and some private stations, and 23.5% favor all private stations, Mr. Sedgwick told the Committee. The survey showed 12.9% supporting private stations under government supervision and 18.3% expressing no opinion.

Referring to the report of last year’s Committee he said it was a restatement for the nationalization of radio originally proposed in the report of the Aird Commission (1929), particularly in the recommendation that there should be no hesitation to cancel, in the public interest, the license of any private station, and a further recommendation that consideration should be given to the wisdom of continuing to the unions of industrially-owned stations as outlets for United States chains. The sense of security of the private broadcasters had been weakened by the report and by this and other threats, but “hinted at”, he pointed out.

Mr. Sedgwick said that nationalized radio in Europe had been used for propaganda purposes to the benefit of the BBC and it did not have a monopoly in Britain because of continental commercial broadcasting stations operating exclusively.

Commercial programs, he reported from commercial surveys, lead in Canadian listeners.

Lost Channels

Appealing as a committee of the CAB at Ottawa with Jos. Sedgwick were George Chandler, CJOE, Vancouver; N. Thivierge, CHRC, Quebec; Paul Scholes, CCM, Montreal; Jack Cooke, CKGB, Timmins, Ont.; Senator Rupert Davies, CKWS, Kingston, Ont.; Harold Garner, CHEX, Peterborough, Ont.; G. R. Rice, OPG, Edmonton, Alta.; A. A. Murphy, CFQC, Saskatoon; B. de B. Bailey, technical specialist, University of Toronto; Glen Bannerman, CAB president and general manager, Toronto.

Canada has already lost “perhaps permanently” much of the radio coverage given under the Havana agreement, and stands to lose further coverage unless advantage is taken of channels to which the Dominion now is entitled, B. de B. Bailey, University of Toronto radio technical expert, told the committee in the afternoon session. To retain channels which have been made available to Canada it will be necessary to use them before expiration of the agreement in 1946. Action to occupy these channels will require some time. “We should use the channels to which we are entitled and should not be content with the status quo," Mr. Bailey declared. Questioned by a committee member, he stated that he was not expressing any opinion on who should occupy these rights. Bailey was one of the CAB during the Havana agreement technical discussions at Washington.

AFM Forces MBS To Cut Off WSAY

Petrillo Threatened to Pull Music From All Network

AT 4:05 THURSDAY afternoon, MBS discontinued musical program service to WSAY, Rochester, as the only practical alternative’ to an official order from the American Federation of Musicians forbidding all members from performing on Mutual programs.

Dispute between WSAY and the Rochester local of the AFM has been going on since last fall, according to James C. Petrillo, AFM president, who said the station had at that time rejected the union’s demand that it increase its musical programs. On July 1 the national union ordered remote dance band pickups dropped from MBS, after the network had declined to secure its musical service to the station at the union’s request [BROADCASTING, July 5]. When this action failed to produce a settlement, the AFM last Thursday again asked the network management to submit to an order of the Rochester local of the AFM. A protest was filed, AFM threatened to stop supplying MBS with music, and MBS canceled any program service with the Rochester local of the AFM.

When the action continued and MBS failed to respond, AFM threatened to pull its musical programs. According to Petrillo, it was under this order from the Rochester local of the AFM that WSAY decided to drop the extra programs on Saturday night.

When Petrillo was asked if MBS had been constitutionally justified in canceling the musical programs, he said the union had no way of knowing whether MBS was justified in its action. It had not been possible to discuss the matter with the network.

MCCLELLAN COMMENTS

In response to inquiries concerning the action, Miller McClellan, MBS president, issued the following statement:

"In view of the refusal of the American Federation of Musicians to permit the broadcast of any network sustaining or commercial programs containing live to a station which is offering a contract to a local union of the American Federation of Musicians, we have today discontinued any musical program service to WSAY.

"This action will continue so long as the AFM institutes its ban on network musical programs. It should be understood that MBS is not a party to the dispute between WSAY and AFM and has no power or authority to intervene in any manner in the issues involved. The action which we have taken is the only practical alternative under the circumstances."

CBS Testing New Program Analyzer

“What Makes Listeners Listen?” Subject Of Research

EFFECTIVENESS of a radio program depends, first, on being heard and, second, on evoking some kind of listener response. To measure the first, or quantitative factor, techniques have been established for sampling the radio audience at any given time and for determining local, regional or national program ratings, which show the relative audiences of different programs.

To determine the qualitative factor of listener reaction to different programs or to different portions of the same program, CBS for the past year or so has been conducting experiments with the Lazarsfeld-Stanton program analyzer, an instrument developed by Dr. Paul S. Lazarsfeld, director of the Office of Radio Research, Columbia U., and Dr. Frank N. Stanton, CBS vice-president.

Reactions Recorded

Announcements broadcast over WABC, CBS key station in New York, invite listeners to write in if they are interested in helping to test a radio program. Respondents are sent questionnaire postcards asking for name, address, sex, age, education and times at which they can participate in a program test. From these cards, typical audience groups, averaging 10 persons, are brought into a small studio which is equipped with a conference table, around which the subjects are seated; a turntable, for playing the test program, and the program analyzer.

Each subject finds at his place at the table two push-button units mounted so that one may be held easily in either hand with the thumb operating the button. The subjects are instructed—via a re- cord—so that all persons receive the instructions in exactly the same manner—that when they think a part of the program is good they are to push the green button held in the right hand, and when they think a part is poor, they are to push the red button, held in the left hand. When they are indifferent, they are not to push either button.

Each button is connected by wire with the analyzer, a box about two feet cube, containing a tape marked with 20 horizontal lines on which rest 20 styli, 10 green and 10 red, and with vertical lines marking each second of the program. Tape is started simultaneously with the recording and as the subjects press the green and red buttons the styli record their reaction upon the tape. The conductor of the session, a trained psychologist, watches the tape during the program presentation, making notes on which to question the listeners following the completion of the program.

Playing of the test program is followed by an open discussion period, usually lasting approximately an hour, during which the participants are encouraged to explain their reactions and changes in reaction to the various parts of the program. A full stenographic record of the discussion is taken. At the end of the discussion period, the listeners are given a small gift, such as a leather billfold, in appreciation of their participation.

Reactions Combined

For each program being studied, a minimum of six group sessions are held, so that the psychologist has at least 60 individual reaction curves and the reports on at least six group interviews on which to base his report. Approximately a month is devoted to analyzing each test program and in compiling the report, which is then submitted to the program’s writers and producers. CBS has three psychologists assigned to this work: Dr. Edrita Fried, Tore Hallonquist and Dr. G. D. Wiebe.

The report combines the individual listener reactions into a general audience reaction picture, which is described in detail and also illustrated by a “listener reaction profile” showing the average percentage of listeners expressing approval or disapproval during each unit of the program, bar charts showing “average attitude scores” for each part of the program, and a “listener reaction trend” line made up of the average attitude scores with connecting lines, superimposed on a program chart.

While the pattern of the listener response naturally varies with the type and structure of the program, the following signs are generally favorable and their absence unfavorable for the program:

(a) A quick rise of approval and a low per cent of indifference and disapproval during the first few minutes of the show.
(b) A step-by-step build-up of approval to a climax at the very end of the show and an essentially upward trend throughout the program.
(c) An upward trend within each major episode or portion of the program.

Interest Problems

For example, that a basic mood was established and maintained throughout the program.

Hesitant about discussing reports on specific programs at this stage of development of the experimental technique, Oscar Katz, assistant research director of CBS, has said, “It is not possible to tell for certain what general conclusions may be drawn from this material. It is to be expected that any listener will react in his own way and that the reactions of different people will vary. However, the trend of reactions may be expected to reflect the general public audience reaction to a program.”

In dramatic programs, listener disapproval frequently results from shifts in the locale of the action, flashbacks, or other dramatic devices which tend to break up the action. Foreign language, used to establish character, is also apt to be resented unless the quota is brief and followed by an immediate translation.

Of course, these devices may be used with great success by unusually skillful writers and producers, but no general rule as the cause of listener approval rises higher and maintains its steady increase if the dramatic sequence itself rises steadily and uninterrupted to its climax, Mr. Katz explained.

Music also presents problems not always foreseen in advance. Musical bridges, for example, when used to separate dramatic sequences, must set the stage for the new action as well as conclude the old. If it is merely conclusive, interest falls off and several valuable minutes may be spent in bringing listener reaction back to its former level. Musical pieces, often fail to make their point, as many listeners are not as familiar with the titles of popular songs as the script writers suppose them to be and may be disapproving to the decision to use a particular piece.

In newspaper programs, listener interest definitely declines from the first quarter to the fourth quarter of the program. Even though the effectiveness of the final commercial, Mr. Katz said.

Documentary programs, frequently used in presenting wartime messages, also present difficulties to dramatic program builders. Voice montages, frequently used to inject interest into a list of statistics, are often found to produce confusion—and disapproval—rather than to aid understanding. Use of real people in such programs often places them at a disadvantage in contrast to the more perfect dictation of the professional radio actor or announcer to whom listeners are accustomed. This can be overcome by skilful handling, but the script writer and the program producer should be aware of it.

In fact, Mr. Katz concluded, that is the chief purpose of the whole testing laboratory, to enable writers and producers to see how their attempts to set a scene, produce a mood or develop a story succeeded or failed with a group of average listeners.

TABLES WERE TURNED ON announce Harvey Twyman of KOI, Omaha (left), when he reported for induction at Fort Crook, Neb., and reported in the position of being interviewed on his own program, The Coffee Club. Plying him with questions was Capt. Vic Rogh, ex-newscaster (right). Program Director Had Hughes, temporarily subbing on the program, after informing radio listeners that Twyman was about to become a soldier, switched to the mobile unit at Fort Crook for the surprise interview.

Programs Tested

In variety programs, to definite conclusions to individual skits or tunes are apt to produce the feeling that the whole program has ended, again resulting in a loss of attention and a waste of time necessary to rebuild interest on the part of the listener. When a program winds up with a series of conclusions, listener interest definitely declines from the first quarter to the fourth quarter of the program. Even though the effectiveness of the final commercial, Mr. Katz said.

WOR STARTED its hour-long series of experimental television last week at the Du Mont Laboratories, using Du Mont station WXXV. The series is an initial step in post-war planning, enabling the staff to familiarize itself with demands and techniques of television. Executives attending the inaugural event were (seated, 1 to r): Theodore C. Streibert, vice-president and general manager; Alfred J. McCosker, president; Julius F. Seebach, vice-president in charge of programs. Standing (1 to r): Robert A. Simon, director of continuity; Roy Bower, producer; Ray Nelson, assistant program manager; J. R. Popple, chief engineer.

Some V-mail dropped on our desk the other day. It had winged its way across the wide, wet Pacific to tell us how a familiar voice had warmed the hearts of a handful of American soldiers 'way out there. Coming off duty in the tropical evening, one of them had, quite by accident, tuned-in a Westinghouse station from a magic place called Home. In a mood to meditate ... lonesome in a crowd ... it had cheered him greatly, and he sat down and wrote us about it. It might not happen again in a month ... what with weather and other conditions. That station and its sister stations in the Westinghouse group were not meant to reach so far on the regular bands. But each of them is a power in its own territory. No finer programs float through the air anywhere ... no finer opportunities for firms with things to sell. When that soldier and his buddies come back, they will hear even better programs; for improvement is a Westinghouse watchword, if not a fetish.

OWI to Open Local Clearance Offices

New Regional Facilities Under Radio Bureau To Serve Stations

TWINBLE new station relations regional offices will be opened by the OWI Radio Bureau to handle program clearance on the local level, Don Stauffer, chief of the Radio Bureau, announced last week. The memorandum outlining the revised plans of his organization under the extensively reduced domestic branch budget, Congress allowed only $2,756,000 of OWI's $8,866,906 request for domestic operations.

These new offices, Mr. Stauffer explained, will take over work formerly performed by the new liquidated OWI correspondents. Government agencies served by OWI and the sending to local stations of regional spot announcements supplementing the national spot announcements.

With the Radio Bureau's budget cut by one-third so other OWI branches can make ends meet, Mr. Stauffer said his agency will need even more cooperation from the radio industry. He said regional voluntary committees of broadcasters like the Southern California Broadcasters Assn. of Los Angeles, can be strengthened to intelligent use of radio facilities.

How They Operate

Mr. Stauffer warned that the new regional offices, operating under John Hymes, station relations chief, and Elaine Ewing, assis tant station relations chief, would not be able to fill the same roles that formerly they offered. They will, however, clear all new programs supplied by government field offices; they will be a central clearing point for requests from various government agencies, and will service requests from local stations for information and guidance.

The memorandum, mailed to OWI consultants, station officials, and members of various committees working with the Radio Bureau, Mr. Stauffer renewed his assurance that the Network Allocation Plan would continue (Broad casting June 25). Therefore, he said, "there will be no need for advertisers or networks to consider requests direct from various Government agencies." He added that no change had been made in the organization or staff of the special assignment division.

Most urgent among the budget cuts according to Mr. Stauffer, will be OWI transcription activities. Plans for a new Uncle Sam series, to run on a sustaining basis, have already been abandoned and future transmissions will deal only with specific local or regional problems. Mr. Stauffer said "We shall rely, as we have in the past, on the radio industry to prepare and broadcast material in behalf of the Government."

"Our function essentially will be to furnish the most complete and accurate information that we can assemble and distribute to the radio industry either directly or through the Station Relations Division," the memorandum explained. Speeches by Government officials and all special events will be handled by the Station Relations Division, and requests for radio time by Government Liaison Division and the OWI Station Relations staff.

The Radio Bureau will continue to operate its three offices, in New York, Hollywood and Chicago, Mr. Stauffer said, in addition to the station relations posts in those cities.

Stauffer Memorandum

The following is the full text of the memorandum from Mr. Stauffer to station relations chiefs, regional consultants and members of the Station Advisory Committee, the Radio Committee of the War Advertising Council, the Government to Radio Industry, either Washington, and the four network committees.

As a result of the over-all cut in the OWI Domestic Branch, the budget of the Radio Bureau has been cut by one-third. This, in addition to the abolition by the Congress of the field service, necessitates a change in the Domestic Radio Bureau's operations. I think it might be helpful to you if we enumerate those services which we plan to continue operating on the same basis: that is, they will have been modified, and those which have been abolished.

Network Allocation Plan—Within our present budget we shall be able to continue this plan on exactly the same basis as we have in the past. Therefore there will be no need for advertisers or networks to consider requests direct from various government agencies. As in the past, we shall be able to function as the central clearing point for all requests for station time on network commercial and sustaining programs.

Station Announcement Plan—There are sufficient funds in the budget to continue the Station Announcement Plan, insofar as the Washington end of the operation is concerned. One set of transcribed announcements will continue to be sent regularly from OWI to all stations. The announcements formerly sent from OWI (1) will be sent from the extended station relations operation described below.

Special Assignment Division—Those network commercial and sustaining programs which have offered to do work in behalf of the Government over and above the regular Allocation Plan will continue to be serviced by the Special Assignment Division. No changes have been made in the organization or activities of this division.

Station Relations—As you know, the field offices of the OWI Domestic Bureau will continue to furnish service in the field that the Washington office of the Domestic Radio Bureau furnished nationally. This included the clearance of all material put on local stations by the field offices of government agencies and the sending to local stations of regional station announcements to supplement announcements sent by the Washington Domestic Radio Bureau.

Since the field service has been abolished, the Station Relations Division will add twelve members to its staff. The job of these new men will be to service the Station Relations Division by making all the necessary preparations to service local stations for information and guidance ifsoas this operation can be carried on with limited personnel.

Production Activities—As most of you know, we have cancelled the Victory Parade series which was to have replaced the old Uncle Sam series. With the exception of the Network Allocation Plan, the only transcription activities that will be carried on by the Bureau in the future will be in those cases where a specific local or regional problem has to be met by the use of transcribed programs and other facilities are not available for the purpose of eliminating this information. Generally speaking, we shall be able to prepare this material in the past, on the radio industry to prepare and transmit, in behalf of the government. Our function essentially will be to furnish the most complete and accurate information that we can assemble and distribute to the radio industry either directly or through the Station Relations Division.

Speeches and Time Clearance—Under the supervision of the Station Relations Chief, all special events will continue to be serviced by the Time Clearance Section. The four major networks have requested that time for speeches of all government officials be cleared through OWI. As in the past, requests for radio time by government agencies to present special events should be made to the Chief of the Government Liaison Division, who in turn will transmit the request to the Station Relations Division.

We urge you to continue your reduced budget and operating staff, as of course, have to ask for even more cooperation from the radio industry than we have heretofore. In some regions voluntary committees of broadcasters have already been set up and that is the type of service we recommend.

The Radio Bureau's consultant offices have been reduced, and they will usually strengthen the already available use of available space.

With your help there is no reason why the Radio Bureau should not continue to serve you as it has in the past. Much of the help in coding Government information to the radio industry. We shall, as has been agreed upon, continue to provide necessary duplication of effort on the Government's side and unnecessary burden on the radio industry. You have your time and time again exhibited your willingness in the past to give the help needed to the Government. Our function essentially will be to furnish the most complete and accurate information that we can assemble and distribute to the radio industry either directly or through the Station Relations Division.

The new lineup of station relations regional offices follows:

Far from home a boy in uniform listens to "Songs My Mother Taught Me." On a USO sofa before the radio he sits motionless until the music ends. Abruptly he speaks to a lad near-by...

"Pop and Mom are hearing this. Maybe they're thinking of me."

The service rendered by broadcasting stations today is more important than ever before. Not only because it brings music, entertainment and inspiration to homes and training camps—and by short-wave to many places more distant, on land and sea. But because today broadcasting performs a special, added service—subtle, yet poignantly real—by forming an intangible link between men and women who are far away and those they love who are left behind.

RCA is proud of its part in creating that precious link, and is glad to help maintain it. Glad to furnish engineering service and equipment—subject to war's inexorable priority—to assist broadcasting stations with technical aid, supplies and replacements.

RCA Victor Division — Radio Corporation of America — Camden, N. J.
Eight years ago this month of July, WOR dug up, wrote, released one of its first comprehensive success stories.

Today one of the things we're proudest of is a file of 101 sponsor-approved histories of extraordinary jobs WOR has done.

Scattered across the following pages is a representative list of them. They tell, better than anything we might say, how powerfully, how penetratingly, how successfully WOR has built—one of the most impressive records in radio.
WO learns that it has increased the sale of one of the first vitamin concentrates 100% each year for 5 years. That WOR, and WOR alone, created such a demand for the product that complete distribution was obtained by the sponsor in the entire northeastern area.

Using WOR only, the manufacturer of an automobile accessory jumped his always-below-par New York sales 25%; put the product on the shelves of leading eastern automobile accessory shops, department stores, chain stores.

Using WOR only, the maker of a new and highly reputable drug product zoomed his sales from nothing to 2600 dozen tubes per month in approximately 8 months. In addition, established such a strong Philadelphia demand that sales soon totalled 25% of the phenomenal New York record.
Two days after a long-established New York restaurant chain began using WOR, its store traffic increased 6.1%. And, mind you, not in New York only, but in that chain's branch restaurants in New Haven, Philadelphia, Newark, Paterson, Trenton. Menu items mentioned on the WOR show jumped 4.3%.

A sponsor—still on WOR—writes voluntarily, "Our company has made effective use of WOR for the last 14 years. We are always glad to speak well of a station which has done so well for us."

The maker of a household polish gives WOR complete credit for putting the product in the hands of 33 new wholesalers and approximately 800 dealers. Finally, he reported that WOR increased the sales of the product 200% in the New York metropolitan area.
WOR now tackles the new task of establishing markets and sales for substitute products during a time of war. Reports the advertiser of a mending tape: "We thought our distribution was excellent, but you've put us in 43 great department stores. You've established us in such great war markets as Albany, Philadelphia, Baltimore, New Haven, etc."

The sale of an ice cream was limited because of war priorities. But the maker's quota permitted him to expand 25%. All other media used had not helped him reach that total. In four months WOR closed the 25% gap, and where the supply could not meet the demand, the WOR broadcasts built an enthusiastic post-war acceptance among wholesalers and dealers. In addition, taught thousands of listeners that this was the ice cream to ask for—now and after the war.
PARAMOUNT BUYING WLS BARN DANCE

PARAMOUNT PICTURES, New York, has reportedly paid $75,000 for an eight-week option effective July 7 to make a movie of The National Barn Dance program, heard for the past 10 years on WLS, Chicago, and on NBC. $10,000 was said to have been paid WLS for use of the title. The program’s sponsor, Miles Labs, Elk hart, Ind. (Alka-Seltzer), and its agency, Wade Adv. Co., Chicago, retain right to approve movie scenes with Pete Lund, radio di rector of the Wade agency, acting as story editor in cooperation with Paramount writers. Barn Dance stars who will appear in the movie through negotiations with Vic Brown, Chicago manager, National Advertising & Artists Corp., are: Lulu Belle & Scotty, Joe Kelly, Arkie, Pat Buttram, the Dinning Sisters and the Hoosier Hot Shots. Paramount actors also will be in the cast. Service camp visits are planned for the Barn Dance group at Camps Grayling and Muskegon, Mich., either preceding or following shooting of the movie, scheduled for late September or early October.

Public Service Exchange

To Increase, Says Fisher

INCREASED exchange of radio public service programs in the post war period is being promoted by Sterling Fisher, NBC assistant public service counsel and director of the NBC Inte-Americanit y of the Air in a talk before the Washington chapter of the Association for Education by Radio.

Pointing out that machinery for the exchange of public service programs among the United Nations had been developed as part of war machinery, Mr. Fisher told AER "it would be a great pity if these essentially valuable codes were not employed, with interchange of scripts and recordings and by rebroadcasts of shortwave programs by local medium-wave stations."

‘Time’ News on Blue

IN COOPERATION with the Radio Program Division of Time Inc., New York, the BLUE is starting a new series of five-weekly news summaries titled Time Views the News. Starting Aug. 2 the 4:30 a.m.-4:45 p.m. program will feature Westbrook Van Voorhis. The news will be prepared by a staff of 15 writers and editors headed by Frank Norris, managing editor of the March of Time since 1941.

Win Ad Awards

TWO KDKA shows have won advertising awards for their sponsors. One, A. & P., the Light of Pittsburgh, has won the silver award of the Affiliated Advertising Agencies Network for selecting the best 1942-3 radio program, with the KDKA show, Sunday at the Smits, 15-minute sketch of fantasy shows once a week. Second recent winner is Duquesne Light of Pittsburgh, with the same award of the Public Utilities Adv. Assn. for the second consecutive year. The program: Bernies Bronwendx Presents, half-hour musical variety with band, tenor and soprano.

IRONYING OUT WHAS WRINKLES, the WHAS new operations advisory committee, composed of department representatives, meets in formal session. Standing (1 to r): Jack Koch, traffic; Dick Wade, technician; Buddy Brock, announcer, and Jack Brooks, continuity. Seated (1 to r): Dudley Musson, production; James Sheehy, sales, and W. Lee Coulson, general manager. The plan is proving quite a success.

EMPLOYES SOLVE WHAS PROBLEMS

Through Operations Advisory Committee

-Started Two Months Ago

UPLIFT for personnel relations at WHAS, Louisville, is the new formal operations advisory committee which replaces the old procedure of periodic staff meetings for informal discussion of ideas. Station workers selected by fellow employees of each department, one representing each activity, the committee works out station problems, and according to W. Lee Coulson, general manager, the plan has put new zest into the WHAS organization.

Mr. Coulson sits in as umpire, taking little part in deliberations and letting rank-and-file representatives of the departments bat out problems of the day. Instead of competition for improvement suggestions, the meeting is a thorough-going discussion of day-to-day questions of station and industry operation. Ideas crack and sparkle at the sessions, Mr. Coulson reports.

Holds Office for Year

Permanent chairman is elected and holds office for a year. Employees not on the committee have the right to walk into any session and listen in, state grievances or offer suggestions. In operation for two months, the plan has resulted in improvement all down the line.

Minutes of a recent meeting give an interesting sidelight on the new group’s functioning. At this meeting, Mark Ethridge, publisher and general manager of the Courier-Journal and the Louisville Times, which owns and operates WHAS as a basic CBS outlet, sat in as observer. Noting that he was extremely interested in the plan, which looked like something he could apply to his organization, he advised that the group deal strictly with operational problems and avoid personalities.

JORDANS TO STAR IN TWO RKO FILMS

MARIAN and Jim Jordan, stars of NBC Film, have been signed by RKO for two starring films. Jack Whiteham, BLUE musical director, and Oscar Levant, pianist featured on NBC Information Please, will portray themselves in the Warner Bros. film, “Rhapsody in Blue.” Jack Halpy, recently added as co-star to the NBC Staff Program, has been signed as lead in Paramount’s musical extravaganza, “Rhythm Ranch.” Al Pearse will be starred in the Republic film, “Here Comes Elmer,” now in production.

Gracie Fields has been signed to co-star with Jack Benny in the Century-Fox film, “Two-Faced Quilligan.” Production on that picture as well as Warner Bros. film, “Midnight,” starring Jack Benny, has been postponed until after the comedian’s scheduling overseas camp tour. Title of the upcoming new RKO release has changed to “So This Is Washington.”

The World of Oboler’s dramatic story, “This Precious Freedom” and will make it into a two-reeler with Claude Rains starring. Original, from which the film version was adapted, was listed as the best radio drama of 1941.

Treasury Dept. Adopts New War Bond Slogan

OFFICIAL slogan adopted for the Third War Loan campaign, to begin Sept. 10, will continue for the next three weeks, will be “Back the Attack With War Bonds,” it was announced last week by the War Finance Division of the Treasury Dept.

Plans were being formulated last week for radio’s part in the drive, which will begin July 15 with networks and OWI for arranging of broadcasts on Radio Day and the coming days of the drive [BROADCASTING, July 12].

‘Dead Set’ Warning

ALARMED over the diminishing supply of radio tubes for home sets, the Philadelphia Radio Service men’s Assn. has made an appeal to the listeners to write to their Congressman against the use of such parts in newspapers calling attention to their dead radio sets. The plea was voiced during the Sunday night broadcast sponsored on WFIL, Philadelphia, by the association.

WEMP Basic Blue

Two Join CBS

WHOP, Hopkinsville, Ky., and WPAD, Paducah, on July 18 joined CBS as special basic supplementary stations. Both outlets operate fulltime on 550 watts, with WHOP operating on 1320 kc. and WPAD on 1450 kc. Both are owned by the Paducah Broadcasting Co.

Canada Prepares Post-War Finance

Reserve of $150,000 Started
For Improved Equipment

CANADIAN Broadcasting Corp. has started a reserve fund of $150,000 for the purchase of new equipment which heavy expenditures will be necessary to take advantage of improved equipment, Dr. Augustin Frigon, CBC chairman, reported to the Parliamentary Committee on Broadcasting at Ottawa.

Marked changes in the transmission of broadcast programs may be expected after the war, Dr. Frigon told the committee in explaining technical developments, especially FM. He expected that an international conference would be necessary to allot wavelengths and take up matters of interference among international borders.

Reporting on finances, the Dept. of Transport told the committee that the CBC had received during the fiscal year ending March 31, 1943, the sum of $3,667,340 from the sale of $3,725,850 during last year, an increase of $215,158 over the last fiscal year. The CBC also received $34,350 in fees from private commercial broadcasting stations, bringing the CBC financial licenses up to $3,701,090 as compared to $3,485,332 in 1941-42.

Licensed Stations

The number of broadcasting stations licensed this year in Canada is: CBC, 27 (including five short-wave licenses and 12 repeater licenses); university (educational) station licenses at a fee of $50, two; and privately owned commercial stations, 85 (including eight short-wave licenses).

Information was filed with the committee by the CBC showing that the corporation paid $787,000 to private stations last year for commercial advertising programs which were carried in Canadian stations owned by individual stations ranged from $2,000 to $1,400.

In granting an outlet to the Mutual Broadcasting Company in Toronto last August, Dr. Frigon said he did not think the CBC had given Mutual any "vested interests" because it did not own the station and the competition it obtained could be terminated by the CBC on 30 days notice.

W75C on Full Time

FM STATION W75C, operated by the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, has received its provisional license and is now on the air from 11 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Its present Sunday schedule is from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m., and Monday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m., transmit at 1,000 watts. The station is on frequencies that are not allocated to any other station and is expected to become a 50,000-watt station after the war. Despite its low power, however, it claims a good record for long-range reception, based upon a report from a listener in Greenville, R. I., who writes that he receives the station's programs with considerable regularity.

Little Miss Loucks

JUVENILE public relations for the Blue Network, it became known last week, is being handled by Mark Woods, the proxy himself. When a little girl, daughter of Philip G. Loucks, Washington attorney and former National Management director, wrote the network about the summer vacation of Captain Midnight, following an appearance by her 15-year-old brother Mike (who aspires to the fearless Captain's role), Mr. Woods last Monday wrote to June: "If you are somewhat concerned that Captain Midnight is off for the summer, as you know, a number of radio shows do close for the summer, and come back again in the fall. I want to assure you that this will also be the case with the program. The network associates Captain Midnight. It starts again on the same station, same time, on Sept. 8, 8:45 p.m. I am glad that you like this program and I hope that you also listen to some of the other programs of the Blue Network." Then this P. S.: "I know your Daddy very well, and I think he is a grand chap."

With Microphone Plugs Damaged by Wear and Shell Replacements Unobtainable, Freddy Friedenthal, chief of audio transmissions for WJR, Detroit, has developed a repair tool which smooths out the dents and returns a battered plug to service. It is unnecessary to remove the plug from the cord, he says, and the repair job can be done in a few minutes.

SATEVPOST On Free Radio

EDITOR'S NOTE: The "Saturday Evening Post" 5½ million readers were acquainted with the broadcasting industry's regulatory problem as a result of the historic Frankfurter opinion of the Supreme Court in the FCC v. W. J. Sangster case available last Wednesday. The editorial, third to be published on radio in three successive issues, carries the unvarnished head "Do We Want Government-Controlled Radio?"

The question of the "freedom of the air"—what it is, who is to protect it and how it is to be regulated to fit the limitations of radio as a medium of communication—has been passed back to Congress. According to the majority of the Supreme Court, in an opinion written by Justice Frankfurter, the Federal Communications Commission derives from the Communications Act of 1934 powers broad enough to include regulation of financial and contractual practices of radio stations, the conditions upon which programs are determined by networks and, in Justice Frankfurter's interesting phrase, "the composition of the traffic over the airwaves."

Justice Murphy, in a memorable dissent, did not agree. He wrote: "If Congress had intended to cover the subject of network contracts and affiliations, it would not have left it to dubious implications from general clauses lifted out of their context." But for the moment the Communications Commission is free to exercise the "not negligible but expansive powers" conferred on it by the majority's interpretation of the statute.

At a time like the present, there is always the risk that debates on these matters will generate more heat than light. The debate in Congress sometimes exceeded the bounds of reason. Never before has it seemed to us reasonable to say that before any Government commission is given the right to determine the "composition of the traffic" over the ether of news, entertainment and opinion, Congress should make its own declaration on the issue. Justice Murphy and Justice Roberts agree that the Supreme Court has exceeded its competence and that we are unfortunately left upon an agency power which the Congress has not granted. But the majority agrees with Justice Frankfurter, although the Communications Act "does not explicitly say that the commission shall have power to deal with network practice and conditions for the public interest," nevertheless, the commission must ignore any "cramping construction" of the Act.

Since it is the intent of Congress which is being debated, there can be no question of asking Congress whether it agrees with Commissioner Fly and the Supreme Court majority or with the radio industry, a considerable portion of the listening public—this thinks that radio broadcasting is perfectly good and the court's minority.

The alternative to a new determination by Congress upon its actual intentions is to hand over the regulation of network operators who seriously threaten freedom of expression on the air. The issue is not whether a broadcast station should continue to have a paid-for free time at the disposal of a network or whether a network should withdraw from competing stations programs which have been rejected by a network station.

There are various opinions as to whether or not this or that of the commission's regulations would improve broadcasting or wreck it. The primary issue is not the merit of the right of the commission to promulgate and enforce regulations which make fundamental changes in radio. What Congress means to do becomes of free broadcasting if a Government commission has power to dictate the composition of the traffic."

In less critical times, we might be accused of taking an alarmist attitude toward radio corporate power. But there is too little to dispel alarm on the subject of free communication. The President's frequent gibes at the "cardinal sin" again against the Associated Press, the continual preoccupation of Government spokesmen with the supposedly venal and powerful interests of such media: all this conspires to build up in the public mind a new fear, one which we supposed had been dispelled for all time—namely, that the heavy and unimaginative hand of bureaucracy is groping for control of all the information in the United States.

The social and economic views of many policy makers in the administration do not dissipate this fear. There is in the administrative agencies too much agreement with the opinion expressed by Mr. Freeman, assistant solicitor for the Securities & Exchange Commission, who said in response to a question by Rep. Boren, of the House Committee on Interstate Commerce, "I believe any law of Congress or any rule of the Federal Trade Commission is one which conflicts with a law of a state, supersedes that law."

According to the Constitution and a lot of judicial decisions, the situation is not quite so cut and dried. But if Mr. Freeman represents the legal philosophy of the FCC, the revolt in Congress is not surprising. Precision in the delegation of powers to agencies is the minimum found in the preservation of our system of government. As applied to radio, we predict that Congress will take the matter into its own hands, and if the agency is qualified to decide what shall be the "composition of the traffic," in so far as that means control over the ideas and information which Americans shall be permitted to hear.
Obviously the 6th largest city in the country will be in your plans. And that's why you should know about WFBR's ability to cut down sales costs. WFBR is one station that gives you facts to justify its selection in any budget ... not just power alone.

WFBR doesn't try to cover Virginia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware or West Virginia. Our job is Baltimore. We use the electrical power that does just that. WFBR believes that those scattered states have radio stations right in their own backyards with their own loyal listeners.

In Baltimore ... it all adds up to this: In Baltimore ... WFBR gives a magnificently clear signal DAY and NIGHT. Baltimore people enjoy the station. Advertisers save money by buying coverage ... and not just power that's costlier and too often wasteful.
Sicily News Aired in 33 Seconds
After Africa Flashes ‘Stand By’

Networks Prepared For Invasion News, With CBS First to Carry, NBC Close Second

FULLY PREPARED weeks in advance for flash news of each invasion step made by the Allies in the Mediterranean area, the shortwave departments of the major networks were ready at 12:05 a.m. (EWT) for the invasion of July 10 when the Sicilian invasion was sent around the world by Allied Force Headquarters in Africa.

Exactly 33 seconds after the signal came through from Africa to “stand by for special announcement”, CBS put the news on the air, giving America the first word of the major step towards actual invasion of the Italian mainland. At 12:18, CBS brought in Bill Henry, CBS correspondent in Washington, for a summary of what the War Dept. had to say on the invasion, after which the network interrupted and put on the air here a broadcast by Robert Dunnett from Algiers to the BBC. Winston Burdett, CBS correspondent in North Africa, broadcast from Algiers at 12:27 and until 12:43 CBS presented Bill Henry again as well as Major George Fielding Elliot. Further news of the battlefronts was then relayed on the CBS early morning news programs and continued at close intervals during the day and into early Sunday morning.

One Minute

NBC flashed the news about Sicily at 12:06 a.m. July 10 one minute after Radio Algiers gave the news. George Putnam read the bulletins, which after which NBC switched to Washington for the War Dept. reaction; to Algiers for highlights from Ralph Howard, NBC correspondent in Algeria; to New York for further background, and back to Washington for reports from Richard Hoxton and Robert McCormick.

Mutual carried the news from its overseas reporter in Algiers, Seymour Korman, at 12:15 a.m., and since then Korman has been presenting Korman on a twice-daily basis at 10:30 a.m. and at 6:30 p.m. on the Overseas News Report. Jack Thompson, Mutual’s “parachuting reporter”, who read his first invasion story for newspapers, blyned “with American Parachute Troops Bound For Sicily,” is planning to broadcast his own participation in the invasion as soon as he can find broadcasting facilities.

First bulletin on the BLUE came at 1 a.m. with George Hayes giving the news just as the BLUE’s all-night program Say It With Music was resuming. Regular news bulletins on that program every hour on the hour highlighted the invasion, and at 8:30 a.m. on the United Nations News Review program, the BLUE gave its listeners a complete roundup from its correspondents at different points around the globe.

Under an emergency agreement set up between the OWI and the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs, news of the invasion was broadcast in this country via shortwave broadcasters in this country to Spanish broadcasts to South and Central America, and Portuguese news reports to Brazil from invasion reports throughout the day. During the newly allocated daytime hour schedule, the CIAA, in cooperation with United States shortwave broadcasters including NBC and CBS, presented various Latin American commentators speaking on all phases of the invasion July 10.

OWI Airlands

OWI’s Overseas Branch put the news on the air at 12:08, concentrating on France and Italy, but broadcasting continually on Italian and Spanish languages. For the first few hours, OWI broadcast the announcement of the landings, and the text of Gen. Eisenhower’s first communique.

The invasion announcement was aided by OWI on seven shortwave and medium wave transmitters in North Africa, on all BBC units, and all shortwave transmitters in this country, on both the east and west coasts. Officials reported that the Axis resorted to the most determined jamming that it has used in the propaganda war. As a result, the news was read slowly, and listened to in Sicily reported reception was good.

Radio Rome announced the invasion at 1:20 in a broadcast for foreign consumption. The Axis in general did not learn the news from its own sources for 24 hours.

After the first announcement of the invasion, OWI stations advised the people of France to be calm, and to listen to the United Nations radio for further instructions.

WOW, one of New York’s leading foreign language stations, which claims to reach 2,000,000 Italians in America, began special coverage of the Allied invasion of Sicily on Saturday, July 10. Keying their broadcasts to the loyalty and patriotism of Americans of Italian extraction, WOW newscaster stressed the fact that “The invasion of 10th from Fascist-Nazi yoke has begun...” From 7 a.m. on through the day, news bulletins and special features were presented, including three well known Sicilian anti-Fascists who made an appeal to the Italian community here for complete unity behind America and her allies.

WOMEN TO ADVISE WOR WAR ACTIVITY
AS A RESULT of recent surveys conducted in New York, the local station most helpful to women in their household work during wartime, Alfred J. McCooker, president of WOR, last week called a special luncheon meeting at the Waldorf-Astoria to discuss with prominent women in various fields further means of aiding women listeners at home and in the war effort.

Guests invited to become permanent members of the WOR Women’s Advisory Panel, to advise WOR in future war projects about women, were asked: "How can WOR increase its aid to women in the war effort?" What type of information does WOR want? What is the group’s opinion of the “soap opera”?

Continuing Study

WOR was found to be the leading women’s station in New York, according to WOR marketing. Only women of Crossley Inc. in the WOR-Crossley Continuing Study of the listening habits of New York. WOR led on the question "What New York station has programs that you feel give you the most help in your work?"—while the second station mentioned was 1.7% behind WOR. The third station trailed by 4.8% and the fourth by 11.7%.

Third NBC Project Goes To Affiliates in August

THIRD in the series of program promotion projects generally titled “Parade of Stars” by NBC will be released to affiliated stations early in August, with the triple objective of creating interest in network programs, strengthening the position of NBC affiliates in the communities they serve, and building audiences for sponsored broadcast programs.

The new "Parade", contrary to its predecessors—the NBC “Fall Parade of Stars” in August 1942, and the NBC "Parade of Stars" in January 1943—supplies the stations with material usable throughout the year rather than for specific periods. Recordings, specially made by more than 30 of NBC’s top-ranking features, are accompanied by scripts, announcements, promotional material, photography and new ideas. Two models, the original recordings, now a 25x14-inch portfolio holds the promotional material, and a series of 16-page pamphlets accompanying the recordings give stations a chance to combine the special transcriptions for broadcasts with a "real" program. The package allows a time to a half hour or longer.

Labor Recruited

EFFECTIVENESS of radio announcements in recruiting manpower to a war area has prompted National Tool & Mfg. Co., Kenilworth, N.J., to renew its contract on WAT, Jersey City. In August, WAT, a W&HAT national sales director, the company stated that radio announcements have resulted in 100% fill of employment requests to our plant seeking employment than the combined number attracted by advertising in five leading newspapers in this area."
All of America's 100-kw. transmitters have been built by G. E.

Forceful Allied propaganda is today beamed to all the Axis world by G-E international short-wave transmitters.

G-E, pioneering in international short-wave, begun in 1923, led to the development of nine American international stations of varying outputs up to 75 kw. Recently, G.E. added four more, two of them 100 kw, the highest signal output of any American-built stations of that type. G.E. is now building three more giant 100-kw transmitters for the expanding American war needs.

General Electric is the only American manufacturer ever to have successfully designed and built international transmitters of such great power.

The G-E 100-kw and 50-kw transmitters for Station WGEW-WGEA, shown in the insert above, have their programs beamed by special panel-type antennae backed by ingenious dipole reflectors that step up the radiation efficiency.

In the main illustration is another G-E development, adding greatly to the flexibility and efficiency of international equipment. This antenna-feeder hook-up gives quick manual switching from one directional beam to another—from one overseas work area to another. Day and night, this powerful station is working for a shorter war, a better peace.

What G-E Leadership Means to You
Informed thinking today points to changes in post-war broadcasting. It looks for a big increase in local FM stations. It foresees fewer but more powerful AM stations, and that television will grow, becoming an important factor in consumer markets.

General Electric offers any broadcaster a complete service in all three fields of FM, AM, television!

1. G.E.'s unmatched achievements in international transmitters are ample evidence of G-E ability to build new high-power AM transmitters and improved receivers after the war.

2. The fact that G.E. has built over a third of all FM broadcast transmitters and a large percentage of FM receivers is positive evidence of its continued leadership in the post-war FM field.

3. And four years of live-talent programming experiment in its own non-commercial television station, WRGB, plus its full line of television transmitters, relay transmitters, studio apparatus, and receivers provide a sum total of television equipment and experience that will be of immense value to the post-war broadcasting industry.

Four luxury cars—G-E's unmatched achievements in automobilist equipment and service since 1923.

Time to "THE WORLD TODAY" and hear the news direct from the man who sees it happen, every evening except Sunday at 6:45 E. W. T. over CBS. On Sunday listen to "The Hour of Charm" at 10:00 P. M. E. W. T. on NBC.

42,000 hours of international service and still going strong! At WGEW, a G-E mercury-vapor rectifier tube—Type 857-B—has given faultless service since 1934.
AN IDEA that nails
551,000 families to their chairs!

A year ago an idea was born. A new program started in the West.

A low, sinister whistle pierced the blackness. Eerie music blended with the whistle...then a man's voice, low, apprehensive. For a half-hour listeners sat spell-bound.

The Whistler was on the air over Columbia Pacific!

Now, a year later, listeners still sit spell-bound, every Friday night at nine. 39.7% of all available radio families now listen to this program. That means a Hooper rating of 11.2. That means 551,000 families actively listening.

The story of The Whistler is the story of all Columbia Pacific origins. It's a story of ideas. Ideas are the power-force in radio. Ideas are the starting point of every Columbia Pacific campaign.

Ideas—projected by superlative execution—make programs on Columbia Pacific strikingly successful. The Whistler, for example: It was written by top Hollywood writers. Then it was cast with top Hollywood talent, and produced by the sure-footed staff of Columbia in the West...the staff responsible for so many of the great coast-to-coast CBS shows!

Columbia Pacific serves some five million Western families—five million families who have the will to buy and the cash to pay. Through Columbia Pacific you can reach these families—reach them with ideas...attention-arresting, action-impelling ideas—translated into radio programs that build West Coast audiences into a buying army for you.

Such programs as The Whistler are now available for sale on Columbia Pacific. Ask us or Radio Sales for details. Or ask us to create an idea for you...an idea planned to tell your story more dramatically than it's ever been told before.

End the Double-Talk

THERE’S lots of double-talk and confusion about the House Committee investigation of the FCC. For practically every piece of evidence put in by the Committee, Chairman Fly issues a press release, and talks about the Committee’s “bid for publicity” or the falsity of the allegations, or the unfairness of the proceedings.

Last Friday, Mr. Fly appeared before the Committee. For two hours he parried every question propounded by Committee Counsel Eugene L. Garey. It was a great exhibition of shadow-boxing.

Mr. Fly refused to divulge any information on the investigation of NAB President Neville Miller by the Law Committee of the Board of War Communications on grounds of alleged “breach of trust” in connection with activities of the Domestic Broadcasting Committee of BWC. Mr. Miller was exonerated. Mr. Fly said he was under instructions from the BWC not to release any data relating to the Miller “trial” because it would “adversely affect the national security or injure the national prestige”.

The Miller matter has been a sort of open secret in Washington for months. Mr. Fly’s dislike of the NAB head is practically historic. It goes back to the NAB convention in St. Louis in 1941 when the FCC Chairman alluded to the NAB as akin to a “dead mackerel in the moonlight—it both shines and stinks”.

Unlicensed by FCC

Mr. Miller is in the unique position of being the only broadcaster unlicensed by the FCC. He has no station affiliation. He has opposed Mr. Fly’s policies and activities. Mr. Fly, almost from the start of his tenure in 1938, has tried to destroy that opposition and effect an NAB reorganization—one that would be more pliable and perhaps “cooperative”.

The House Committee is under mandate from a branch of Congress to investigate the FCC. It has that duty. Mr. Fly doesn’t like the inquiry, and has sought from the start to block it. But Congress makes the laws.

The war interest is paramount. Under the war pressure we must accept at face value the judgment of the Commander-in-Chief. The President, as Commander-in-Chief, for reasons he deems adequate, has refused the Cox Committee certain files and data relating to the FCC’s war functions. The Army and Navy have disallowed testimony from their officers or officials for that reason.

The Committee is continuing its inquiry. It will get into many matters, we assume, which have no bearing on military operations. Nothing is to be gained by these violent outbursts and smoke-screens. An investigation has been overdue. The rising tide of Congressional complaint is answer enough. New legislation is needed—that’s admitted everywhere except by the FCC majority.

So let’s have a thorough-going, lawyer-like investigation, without the carping and bickering and begging of issues at every turn.

Jimmy Emotes

JIMMY PETRILLO loves to talk. He talked for a couple of days before the Senate Interstate Commerce Subcommittee investigating his recording strike last January. Then he talked for a couple of hours before the War Labor Board sitting in on that same controversy 10 days ago.

But the stories didn’t jibe. Last January he wanted “more work” for unemployed musicians, a myth that was exploded shortly thereafter. Now, his musicians have simply “quit” because the transcription business is “peanuts”—a paltry $4,000,000 a year gross.

Jimmy insists until he appeared before the Labor Board—that he had no quarrel with the broadcasters, and that he was being “smearred”. Now, it develops, he wants to force all stations—Independents and networks alike—to hire fixed quotas of staff musicians. He wants the transcription companies to refuse to deliver recordings to stations declared “unfair”. He wants the record companies to pay part of the “squeeze” he uses on networks when an affiliate doesn’t fall in line with an adequate staff orchestra (whether it performs or not).

That was evident last January—before negotiations ever got under way. We said so in these columns. But he didn’t make the demand until May 11. And when that was rejected, he turned to his invention that his men simply had “quit” their jobs.

Jimmy has a monopoly. He draws a salary of $49,000 a year, aside from “allowances and contingent funds”, and along with a car and chauffeur in Chicago and another in New York. He told the Senate Committee he paid his income tax out of his Chicago Federation “fund”. AFM has a reserve fund of “about $2,500,000”. And Jimmy talks about “unemployment relief”.

Jimmy has gotten away with it so far because of all the cushy legislative benefits voted by Congress to protect the right of the honest working man. But Jimmy is a czar with a punch. Thanks to his inflated ego, he told the WLB his real purpose. He wants to bleed the broadcasting industry for every possible dollar, and he wants to use the transcription companies as the device for getting at the non-network stations, many of which are already in red ink.

The WLB was told by Garrulous Jimmy in about so many words that he wants to create jobs to build his union. It had 148,000 members last January, and he claims 160,000 now. After the war he looks for a 200,000 membership. An NAB test survey last year revealed that only 35% of AFM’s members list themselves as musicians—the balance being engaged in other occupations, trades or businesses. But AFM gets the dues.

Mr. Petrillo runs a business, apparently on the “public trust” or “public” philosophy. The public can be deprived of the technological improvements and pay the added costs. His tactics wouldn’t be countenanced in any other form of business. But he functions under the guise of a labor union.

It’s up to the WLB now. If it doesn’t give Jimmy the jolt he’s been inviting these many years, just watch an indigent public express its will through Congress next September. By that time, however, the transcription industry may be as dead as a dodo—if Jimmy gets away with it again.

CAPT. WILBUR EICKELBERG

OFF TO THE WARS again might informally describe, in these days, the activities of Capt. Wilbur Eickelberg, U. S. Marines, who until some ten months ago was general sales manager of Don Lee Broadcasting System, Hollywood. For during the war, he joined the Marines as a private and finished as a first lieutenant.

When the United States entered the present war, he dusted off his uniform and notified his business associates, joined up with the Marines as a private and finished as a first lieutenant.

Then on Oct. 7, 1942, he again reported for Marine Corps duty, but this time with rank of captain. Stationed at Camp Elliott, San Diego, Cal., he is Public Relations Officer in the Intelligence Section, Headquarters, Amphibious Corps, Pacific Fleet. His responsibilities were recently expanded to embrace the entire Fleet Marine Force in the San Diego area.

Born in Oak Park, Ill., March 14, 1897, Wib received his early education in the schools of that community. Lessons learned from hard knocks and a sturdy give and take, developed his critical acumen. More important, they laid the foundation for his characteristically sound judgments of human nature.

It was in the Spring of 1915 he joined the western advertising office of Collier’s Weekly in Chicago. Wib remained with Collier’s until April 1919, when President Woodrow Wilson called for volunteers for World War I. Joining the 6th Marines as a private, Wib sailed for France September, 1917. He participated in the engagements at Belleau Woods, Soissons, St. Mihel, Blanc Mont Ridge and the Meuse-Argonne, and won the Silver Star with Oak Leaf Cluster. Young Eickelberg advanced through the non-commissioned ranks, and in September, 1918, was commissioned a second lieutenant. Honorably discharged a first lieutenant in August, 1919, upon return to the United States from the Army of Occupation in Germany, he renewed his former business affiliation as an advertising solicitor. Two years later, he became representative for the American Legion Weekly, and was named western manager in June, 1926.

Next move, in May, 1927, was to the Chicago advertising offices of True Story Magazine. He became western manager of Smart Set Magazine in August, 1928, and retained that post until its discontinuance in 1930. Thereafter Wib went to California and opened the San (Continued on page 86)
A Needle...and the Washington Market

What has the Washington Market to do with a needle and thread? The answer is easy.

The American people know that a needle and thread are essential...or it might be back to leopard skin for all of us.

And American business men know that advertising in the right markets is essential, particularly today...or back they might go to swap and barter.

Washington is one of these right markets...and WRC is the essential station...because WRC, in Washington, the nation’s listening post, covers a market where the population has doubled in two years...where retail sales have tripled—where the average family income is highest in the country...where morning, afternoon and night, more people listen to WRC than any other station in Washington.

Francisco offices of Scott Howe Bowen Inc., one of the pioneer organizations in selling spot broadcasting. During this time he became acquainted with Lewis Allen Weiss, general manager of Don Lee Broadcasting System, then affiliated with CBS. This acquaintanceship deepened into friendship which kept the two in close touch during 1935-37, when Wib left Scott Howe Bowen Inc. to join the New York offices of Edward Petry & Co., station representatives. Meanwhile L. E. Allen Weiss had joined WJR, Detroit, as general manager, thus becoming one of Petry's clients.

When Mr. Weiss returned to Los Angeles in January 1937 to assume his present position, he invited Wib to go along with him as general manager of KFRC, San Francisco. Wib accepted the invitation and two years later, during July 1939, settled in Los Angeles to become general sales manager of the Don Lee. He remained in that post until his recent re-commission in the Marine Corps.

Marrried to Sibyl Hitt Leonard on Oct. 1, 1937, their Brentwood district home became a hobby, along with golf. However, both those pleasures have been on leave-of-absence since the sandy-haired, grey-eyed general sales manager closed down his desk last October and dusted off that Marine Corps uniform again.

Magnetic Wire Recorder Used by Paper In 1935

Editor, Broadcasting:

In your issue of May 12, page 30, there is an item titled "Naval Finds Magnetic Wire Recorder Useful in Ship and Shore Operations". The last paragraph of the article states the Bell Laboratories experimented with a magnetic recorder about ten years ago but dropped the experiment.

It may be of interest to you to know that I induced the Bell Laboratories to develop these machines for use by the press and about the year 1935 four of them were installed in my office. These machines are still functioning daily and operating with 100% efficiency.

IN RECOGNITION OF THE INDUSTRY'S CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE WAR EFFORT

MILITARY-CIVILIAN UNDERSTANDING HELPED IN MANY WAYS BY WRVA

What's NEW with YOU?

If your station has done a war job you are proud of, send your story to Radio War Gram Editor, Western Electric Co., Room 928, 196 Broadway, New York, N. Y. If suitable, we will use it in one of this series of War-Grans.

Jap submarine helps Uncle Sam
When the Jap suicide submarine, captured at Pearl Harbor, went to Worcester, Mass., on its Treasury Department tour, WTAG put on a real barrage of publicity. About 20% of Worcester's 200,000 people turned out to see the submarine craft—turned in $430,000 for War Bonds and Stamps for a view of the interior. That should help to sink some more Japs.

WKY helps to pay for new cruiser
Oklahoma City is a long way from salt water, but her people want to be well represented on the sea. So there was quite a celebration over a four-station program, originating at WKY, when Oklahoma City topped $40,000,000 to underwrite construction of the new cruiser U.S.S. Oklahoma City.

Bonds for Bombers sold by WBIG
During the final week of the Second War Loan Drive, WBIG, Greensboro, N. C., played a leading role in the campaign to pay for a squadron of bombers for Guilford County and 28 fighter planes to escort the bombers. To assist in bond selling, WBIG sent its Bond Wagon and members of its staff to Greensboro schools—met with such an enthusiastic response that this service will be continued for the duration.

On the occasion of Hitler's birthday, a number of stations staged special bond selling celebrations.

WBOW, Terre Haute, Ind., held a party with "Most miserable returns of the day" as its theme.

KWFC, Hot Springs, Ark., sent Hitler a "bouquet of bombs" in the form of War Bond sales.

WCOV, Montgomery, Ala., raised $463,364 as a special token of dislike for Adolf on his birthday—then staged another successful party a few days later on Hirohito's natal day.

Everyone should be happy except the birthday boys themselves.

WINX gets truck drivers
Facing a manpower shortage, the American Trucking Association sponsored a call for drivers, broadcast seven times daily on WINX, Washington. Pointing out that driving trucks is an essential war job, these messages brought in so many men that the appeal was broadened to include freight checkers and truck helpers.

The principal objective of WRVA, Richmond, Va., is to contribute to military-civilian understanding in a state which today is host to thousands and thousands of service men. Naturally this objective takes in so much territory that it has been necessary for WRVA to develop many special series of programs.

Twice each week, casts of 30 entertainers are sent to camps in Virginia, where they stage non-broadcast entertainments. Following these shows, servicemen go on the air for 30 minutes.

From Camp Pickett comes "A Letter to Dad," in which soldiers dramatize a letter home about Army life. "Fort Eustis Open House" takes listeners into camp with music and interviews. "Conquer We Must" originates at Camp Lee, with a skilled dramatic cast to inspire civilians to greater effort in support of our armed forces. "Boots to Builders," from Camp Peary, gives WRVA listeners a clear picture of the Seabees—the Navy's Construction Battalions. For helping to enlist recruits in the Seabees, WRVA Program Service Manager Irvin Abeloff received an Award of Merit from the Navy.

"Navy Smoker" is a 30 minute radio visit to look in on a spectacular 3 hour show at the Norfolk Naval Training Station. "Victory Mothers" features the reading of real letters from boys in service. Mothers read letters in reply.

At the start of the Second War Loan Drive, WRVA staged a 2½ hour show in the 5000-seat Civic Center at which a capacity audience bought more than a quarter of a million dollars' worth of bonds.

And all this is just a sample of the splendid job being done by WRVA. Certainly, congratulations are in order.

Defense Day at WINS
On Civilian Defense Day, WINS, New York, turned over its entire broadcasting time to the local Civilian Defense Volunteer Office. While commercials were retained, all sponsored and sustaining programs were either devoted entirely to Civilian Defense appeals or carried spot announcements of the agency's needs for volunteers.

Voices and Ears for our fighters
Commanders of the Navy's deadly PT boats and sub-chasers give and receive orders over sturdy, sea-going radio telephone equipment. In fighting planes and tanks, radio is essential for coordination of attack and defense. Much of this equipment is being supplied today by Western Electric.

NEW IDEAS FOR

MEDIA SELLING

"We never wait for prepared lists. We sell advertising with ideas."

"You mean copy themes from Printers' Ink?"

"Well, Printers' Ink is right, but the copy themes are only half the story. We use a lot more of the book than that. First of all, P. I.'s budget information tells us how much an account is spending, or should spend in relation to its competition, and how much with us in relation to other media."

"Oh, I get it! You probably compare the analysis with the P. I. Industry Reports to find the weak spots and then . . ."

"Then, the rest is simple. Printers' Ink campaign articles indicate the trend and stimulate our thinking. We develop similar copy themes tailored to fit the need. When our P. I. files fail to reveal the right material, we simply write to their Readers' Service Department ... it hasn't failed yet."

"What happens when the prospect reads the same articles? Most important advertisers do, you know!"

"That's what makes it easy to present. The average account has been pre-sold on the idea first. We make it a point to suggest these programs to the prospects developed through our own advertising in Printers' Ink. Boy, that book never lets us down."

Most advertising, management and sales-minded people read Printers' Ink to get this usage, the wealth of ideas and information that P. I. builds into all its articles. This interpretive editorial policy delivering the "know-how" and "know-why" of advertising, marketing, merchandising and selling provides the vital "difference" that makes Printers' Ink the most quoted voice in the industry.

Lt. William D. Shaw, Army Air Forces, and former account executive of CBS San Francisco, and Jacqueline Kelleher, widow of Gerald Kelleher, were married in Sacramento, Calif., July 6.

J. Frank Burke Jr., manager of KFVD, Los Angeles, is the father of a boy.

Edward Tomlinson, advisor of the Blue on inter-American affairs, has been awarded the National Order of Merit, First Class, by the government of Ecuador "in recognition of his broadcasts and writings on inter-American affairs."

Com. A. J. Bolton, formerly in charge of radio, press and pictures for 11th Naval District, has been appointed liaison officer with Lt. Com. Eugene Zukor, for the Navy on radio and pictures.

George Harshberger, former head of the statistical department of CBS Hollywood, has been appointed an account executive.

WLW CHICAGO POST

DEWEY LONG has resigned as manager of the Chicago office of WLW, Cincinnati, it was announced July 13 by R. E. Dunville, vice-president of the Crosley Corp. and assistant general manager of WLW-WSAI. Disagreement over policy matters was given as the reason for resignation.

Mr. Long came to the Crosley stations five years ago to manage WSAI and was placed in charge of the WLW Chicago office shortly after WLW took over its own sales representation. Before joining Crosley, he was sales manager of WBT and Radio Sales Inc. representative at Charlotte, N. C. Mr. Long has made no announcement of plans for the immediate future but stated he plans to continue in the broadcasting industry.

War Bond Tour

SUMMER War Bond tour of six cities by the H. J. Heinz Co. program Information Please has resulted in the sale of $275,178,700 worth of bonds, according to figures released by NBC. Originating in Boston, Hartford, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Chicago and San Francisco, the quiz program also accounted for additional dollars through the sale of blocks of admission tickets to large business organizations. The program is now off the air for the summer, returning to its Monday 10:10-10:30 p.m. spot on NBC Sept. 13.

FCC figures show that about one-third of the nation—in small town and rich rural "Beyond-Metropolitan" areas—receives unsatisfactory coverage, or none at all, from major wired network stations. Therefore, these millions of listeners were lost to national advertisers—"national" in theory but not in fact. Then came KBS.
National advertisers now reach these lost millions via the Keystone transcription network. For Hooper surveys prove that the vast majority of people in the significant "Beyond-Metropolitan" areas surveyed listen predominantly to their own local Keystone stations. KBS delivers this huge NEW mass of audience at the lowest cost per actual listener in history. Join the leading national advertisers now extending their network programs to KBS markets.

Clipp Outlines Philadelphia FM Plan

Cooperative Broadcast System Saves Men, Materials

By ROGER W. CLIPP
Vice-President, General Manager

WFL, Philadelphia

BECAUSE the Philadelphia FM plan of cooperative broadcasting has been a success, our city is suffering no blackout of dependable, high standard service to its FM listeners.

The wartime problems of replacement parts and personnel are too well known to broadcasting readers to be detailed, and to FM operators they have seemed well-nigh insurmountable. But more interesting and important is what has been done to overcome these difficulties. Hence the significance of the Philadelphia plan.

Around the Table

First and most essential is the fact that the broadcasters decided to meet each other around the conference table. Eventually they evolved a program which they felt would serve to ease operating problems for each, for the duration.

Four of our five Philadelphia FM outlets agreed to cooperate -- W49PH (WIP), W53PH (WFIL), W69PH (WCAU), W73PH (WPEN). The Federal Communications Commission approved the plan for a 90-day period, after which the fifth station, W57PH (KYW), joined the group. FCC has now endorsed this addition and extended its approval for another 90 days.

Through the first three months the mechanics of the plan have been refined and it now operates as follows:

Mechanics of Plan

(1) Time. Only one station is on the air on any one day, for a minimum of 6 hours. Previously the minimum was 12 hours.

(2) Schedule. The broadcast month is 30 days, with each station operating seven days per month on a pre-arranged schedule. In practice, stations do not operate consecutive days.

(3) Program Content. Each station has one representative on a Committee of Coordinators, one of whom assumes direction of the plan each month. Each of the other four receive a priority number for the month--1, 2, 3 or 4. They make up their program schedules and circulate this material (indexed on cards) to stations having next lower priority. Through this device, duplication is avoided -- no selection being repeated during the broadcast month. Each station rates No. 1 priority once every five months. The coordinators also handle war service features so as to include a maximum number without duplication.

(4) Listeners Advised. All stations thought it important to advise listeners of the new plan and the reasons for its adoption. Each of the original group therefore sent letters to listeners, setting forth the method of operation, the schedule for the first month and an explanation of the advantages, such as longer hours of operation and avoidance of duplications. Listeners were asked for their suggestions and comments.

(5) Advertising and Publicity. Each station runs a newspaper advertisement each day it is on the air, in one morning and one evening paper. Uniform in format, these ads give the day's program under the heading: "Today's FM Stations". Trade journals were notified of the plan by each station, and the programs are sent weekly to the press.

Listener reaction to the Philadelphia plan has been very favorable. Many have written to express appreciation for the stations' efforts to maintain high quality program material for the duration.

Here is what the plan has accomplished in saving of rationed materials and manpower:

Savings

1. The four combined stations saved approximately 6 tubes per month, 4,000 tubes in power consumption each month.

2. Nearly 500 manpower hours were saved per four-week period.

3. One station found it unnecessary to replace two technicians--one of whom is now serving with the Army Signal Corps, and the other working with radio equipment for the Navy.

4. At other stations, at least one first-class commercial radio operator was relieved for other duties.

5. Notable savings were effected in transcription material, filing, and clerical personnel and materials.

6. A spirit of mutual helpfulness has developed among the cooperating stations. When W53PH was unable to operate because of damage to a final amplifier transmitter tube, W69PH stepped forward and supplied W53PH with the necessary tube. These tubes are impossible to replace. On another occasion, W73PH found itself unable, a few hours before broadcast time, to get its equipment functioning well enough to go on the air. The coordinator was notified, and, in a few minutes time, two other stations were willing and able to "pinch-hit". Fortunately, W3PH repaired the difficulty in time to operate on schedule, but the others were ready.

In short, the Philadelphia plan of cooperative FM broadcasting has successfully met the threats of war stringency. By means of the plan, the great advantages and promise of FM will be kept very much alive.

TELL ADS PERFORM SERVICE, FCC TOLD

CLAIMING a valuable public service in pointing out to the public in its advertisements the harmful effects of some tooth pastes and powders which are too abrasive, Procter & Gamble Co., Cincinnati, denies a Federal Trade Commission complaint alleging disparagement of competing products and false claims for the effectiveness of its liquid dentifrice Teel [BROADCASTING, April 26].

Several leading manufacturers have indicated the unsoundness of their products as a result of P&G's advertising publicising the harmful effects of certain products on the teeth, says the FCC answer.

While the company admits publishing the advertisements objected to in the FTC complaint, it asserts that the statements made are "within the proper description of trade puffing which is not unfair or deceptive in connection with normal competition." The company has never represented that Teel cleans teeth "miraculously", as alleged in the complaint, but has called it a complete and satisfactory tooth cleaning agent.

Scientific investigation has demonstrated, according to the answer, that the harmful results claimed by P&G are not due to the use of certain abrasive cleansing agents, and the further assumption is made that the Teel competitor's claim to an abrasive, such as is contained in most tooth pastes and powders, is desirable and necessary.

BIG POPULATION
SHIFTS REPORTED

A GROWTH in metropolitan markets of nearly 2,600,000 people since the 1940 census has resulted from the migration of workers to war production centers, despite the loss of population from these cities to the armed forces, according to a population study made by J. Walter Thompson Co. and announced by Arno H. Johnson, director of media and research.

Report shows that outside of metropolitan areas, all small cities, rural areas and farms have lost more than 6,500,000 people, due to the migration to the cities and the draft.

Based on registrations for Radio Station No. 2, the study shows a gain of 19,000,000 in total U. S. population; a 2,000,000 decrease in total civilian population, a 2,400,000 increase in 138 metropolitan markets of over 50,000, and a 5,000,000 decrease for the rest of the country since the 1940 census.

Increases are not divided equally among metropolitan centers, the report shows, with Mobile, Norfolk, Portsmouth and Newport News showing increases of 50% or more and Detroit and San Francisco leading in numerical increase, while New York and Boston have had substantial population losses.

GENERAL ELECTRIC Co. orders during the first six months of 1943 totaled $901,320,000, an increase of 9% over the same period of last year, President Gerald Swan announced last week. Orders during the first quarter were $422,047,000, a gain of 41%, and during the second quarter $415,482,000, a decrease of 9%.

With this material, copy was prepared telling factory workers, women and high school youngsters how they can aid, and farmers are urged to make their labor needs known.

WarEntertainment Council Is Formed
Radio, Theatre, Film Groups Set Up Clearing House
DRAWN together by a common desire to do a top-notch job of entertainment and inspiration on the military and the home front, the nation's entertainment industry united July 14 under the name of the National Entertainment Industry Council.

Representatives of radio, theatrical and motion picture groups approved a resolution and declaration of principles setting up a consultative and advisory body to "function as a clearing house for increasing the effectiveness of the various member organizations in their war entertainment programs whether for the armed forces, the civilian or the production front."

Officers Named
As the Council held its first meetings at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria, New York, July 14-15, 43 of the 60 groups invited to participate as members of the Council had pledged their support, with others signifying their intention of joining as soon as proper approval could be obtained.

George J. Schaeser, chairman, War Activities Committee of the Motion Picture Industry, who served as chairman of the meeting, was elected national chairman of the Council. Other officers elected were: Paul Dulzell, Associated Actors & Artists of America, vice-chairman; Harry Brandt, Independent Theatre Owners Assn., treasurer; William Feinberg, Associated Musicians of Greater New York, Local 802, secretary. James E. Sauter, United Theatrical War Activities Committee; Kenneth Thomson, Hollywood Victory Committee, and Virginia Payne, American Federation of Radio Artists, were elected chairman for New York, Los Angeles, and Chicago, respectively. George Heller, AFRA, was named to head a Continuations Committee, which includes Walt Dennis, NAB, and Leonard Callahan, SESAC, and which is to carry out the work of the Council in the interim between meetings.

A Chance to Serve
"With the OWI's domestic operations curtailed by recent Congressional action, the National Entertainment Industry Council emerges at an opportune time to take on much of the heavy load of morale work which the Government must now pass back to the industry," council members were told by Elmer Davis, OWI chief, speaking at the afternoon session July 15.

The second day of the conference was given over largely to a discussion of specific projects which were referred to the Continuations Committee. Included is a "War Service Pledge" to be signed by individual members, leading to the creation of an industry pool of resources, facilities and services. Report prepared by a radio committee proposed that the council might serve to coordinate more closely the war work of performers, advertising agencies, stations and writers.

In a telegram to President Roosevelt, the council, speaking on behalf of 44 member organizations representing more than 600,000 persons, pledged its whole-hearted support in the prosecution of the war.

The council program will be put into motion at a meeting of the Continuations Committee July 20.

"KRNT* Pushes Conkey Feed Sales Up 50 Percent"

...reports W. C. Fuller, Des Moines Distributor

"Last year, our sales of Conkey Feeds were good. This year, thanks to KRNT, our Conkey business is up 50 percent."

So reports W. C. Fuller, general manager of the Des Moines Elevator, regional distributor for Conkey Feeds. The report continues:

"Last October, Conkey's took over the KRNT Sunday Noon Farm News, plus a series of daily announcements.

"From the first week, we noticed an increase in Conkey sales, in the 25 counties we serve. Today, despite delivery problems, our records show a virtual sell-out every month.

"We know this increase is largely due to KRNT, as this one station has carried the load for Conkey advertising in our area."

*Conkey also used Cowles Stations WMT and WJAX.

Railroad Official Denies Discrimination Against Radio in Travel Advertising

EDITOR BROADCASTING:

The June 14 issue of BROADCASTING carries an item summarizing a letter from W. L. Gleeson, president of KPRO, Riverside, to BROADCASTING and to Neville Miller of NAB, stating that railroads and bus companies are spending money for newspaper and billboard space to discourage travel, but get the radio job done free of charge through the efforts of the OWI.

While my railroad, the Southern Pacific, was not mentioned, no doubt Mr. Gleeson had us in mind because we are major advertisers in the West. We have not been using radio to any great extent at the present time, and we are using billboards and newspaper space for "Don't Travel" messages and other advertising.

Factors Govern Media

We buy our advertising on an advertising basis and choose the media which seem best suited to our purpose at any time, based on the usual factors of locale of problem, area to be reached, circulation, cost, availability, suitability of media to the particular problem and type of message. We do not buy space in papers because of editorial support, nor do we discontinue advertising in a newspaper because editors are unfavorable.

At the present time our major advertising effort is in publications because we have felt that publication space suited our problem best.

We have used considerable radio in the past, and no doubt will again in the future. In 1940 and 1941 we spent approximately $50,000 a year in radio. And I might add that at that time radio efforts in behalf of the railroads were infrequent. We did not and will not use all radio stations, just as we are not able to place advertising in every publication.

I would point out that newspapers as well as radio have been cooperating wholeheartedly with the government in the "Don't Travel" theme.

I don't know who the unnamed "railroad spokesman" quoted by Mr. Gleeson is, but I doubt if any responsible railroad official having advertising jurisdiction, would make the statements quoted.

Billboards Effective

For example, the statement by this "spokesman" that the railroads are using billboards because they have always used them and don't want the billboard companies to go out of business, seems absurd to me. We have used billboards and have found them effective. Our highway boards used for our pre-war "Next Time Try the Train" campaign, which attracted wide attention over the country, were built for us at locations selected by us, under a long-term contract, and we are continuing to use them but are changing the messages either to the "Don't Travel" theme or to support of the sale of War Bonds. We believe we are getting good value for our money and there should be no basis of criticism here.

While some publications in the past have solicited railroads on the basis that they deserved advertising because it was given other publications, or have solicited on the basis that they had a right to or deserved railroad advertising, we have been favorably impressed by the fact that radio solicitation in the past has been progressive and on the basis of the merits of the station or chain.

We appreciate the support given by radio stations to the "Don't Travel" idea, and we hope that our future expenditures in radio will benefit some of the radio stations who are assisting at the present time.

Propaganda Report

MATTHEW GORDON, CBS news editor now on leave with OWI, will appear weekly on This Is the Enemy, war information show on Mutual, 8:30-9 p.m. Thursdays for a three-minute report on enemy propaganda activities, the OWI Radio Bureau announced last week. Under the new This Is the Enemy format, Mr. Gordon will tie the dramatized stories in the program to the week's news, in a feature "Behind the Enemy Lines," telling what the Axis is currently saying to people at home, contrasted with what it tells abroad. Mr. Gordon is chief of the OWI Foreign Service Division which selects and distributes reports on enemy propaganda activity.

SPECIALTY SALES, WLW, Cincinnati, has added the Cleveland district to its market service territory, with Jack V. Donner as representative there.

"WFDF Flint Michigan shore is powerful, Hezekiah, but I can't see nary a one o' them 1000 watts."
original plans for summer hiatus periods are Pierce's Proprietaries, promoting Gold Medal remedy on 92 stations, and Favorite Prescription on 69; Miles Laboratories, for Nervine and Anti-pain pills, continuing announcements on 124 Keystone Broadcasting System affiliates, and Omega Chemical Oil Co., promoting their liniment for tired muscles, in special markets.

The bumper crop of babies during this wartime summer has brought two manufacturers of baby powder into spot radio—Centaur Co., for ZBT baby powder, in the New York market, and Johnson & Johnson's baby powder on 93 stations.

Cereals & Bread
Agency executives offered several reasons for this intense activity of proprietary advertising—the fact that the shortage of doctors in many communities is making housewives and mothers more-conscious of the need for home nursing, a general abandonment of the old-fashioned idea that winter is the chief time of year for head colds and coughs; and a possibility, suggested by some timebuyers, that companies are holding on to choice spot schedules all summer to assure good positions on their selected stations in the fall.

Always high up on the list of regular spot radio users, the cereal companies are taking advantage of a real boom in business, their products being unaffected by the war, as well as being essential substitutes for rationed foods. General Foods has consistently expanded its promotion for 40% Bran Flakes, Raisin Bran and Post Toasties, the present total being some 287 stations. Kellogg is using considerable spot in addition to network programs for Pep and All-Bran, and National Biscuit Co. is using about 40 stations for Shredded Wheat, and 50 for Shreddies. Another food which can make up for the current meat shortage is bread, also getting its full share of spot promotion this summer. National Biscuit is staying on the air this summer for the first time to promote Premium Crackers on 14 stations, and General Baking and Ward Baking are both active for their bread products.

Coffee & Cosmetics
Likewise in the bread category, Quality Bakers of America is using live and transcribed announcements on a cooperative basis to promote bread and Flavo-Range baking through 94 member bakers. The campaign urges housewives and some 75,000 grocers to support the Government nutrition program. As summarized in the July 5th issue of Broadcasting, the coffee industry, a consistent user of radio, both spot and network, until drastic coffee rationing went into effect, is returning to the air now that supplies are reaching this country and the individual ration has been eased. So interested in giving the consumer and the trade the truth about the availability of coffee is the Pan American Coffee Bureau that in conjunction with the Natl. Coffee Ass'n. It has begun a special drive in various media, including its current campaign of participations in women's programs on 20 stations. Copy urges coffee lovers to take full advantage of the increased ration, as well as promoting iced coffee as a refreshing summer drink.

Dr. Pepper Bottling Co. for its soft drink of the same name uses spots on 144 stations throughout the country, and Canada Dry is using spot this summer to promote Spur.

A newcomer to the cosmetic industry and still in the test stage for radio, is liquid hosiery. Biggest radio advertiser of the leg makeup is Elizabeth Arden, which started spots early this spring and by the end of June was using 75-100 stations. Others in the ever-growing list testing radio spots are Gold Medal Products' Scheer liquid hosiery; Harry D. Koenig's Trique liquid hose and R. T. Reiser's Venida makeup.

Amusements
In the amusement field, the group using the largest amount of spot advertising this summer seems to be the motion picture industry, which in the past two years has been experimenting with radio as a supplementary medium to newspapers in promoting the premieres, and local showings of various films. Early this spring RKO announced its arrangement with a group of key stations and regional networks extending from coast to coast, whereby three RKO pictures a year are being promoted on an exclusive sponsorship basis in the areas involved.

Publicity Pictures, rather than promoting specific films is experimenting with special spots giving facts about one of their featured players—at the present time Roy Rodgers. Herefore a sporadic user of radio, Republic is now definitely testing the medium with an eye to regular use of radio. Paramount Pictures, 20th Century Fox Films, Columbia Pictures, United Artists, Warner Bros., M-G-M, all have begun using spot radio for their current pictures, although this summer finds most of them more or less inactive in comparison with larger schedules used last winter.

To mention a few of the publishing companies which have increased their radio in the past year on a large scale, Wm. H. Wine & Co. is using some 100 stations with transcribed announcements for the Modern Encyclopedia and the Modern Home Physician; Arco Publishing Co., 56 stations for Practice For Army Tests; Bitmore Publishing Co., New York station testing for I Was Hitler's Doctor; Austin Technical Publishing Co., 100 stations for Guide to Intimate Letter Writing; Book League of America, 250 stations for various books, and Simon & Schuster, testing 12 stations for Arthur Murray's book on dancing.

PACIFIC COAST
By DAVID G LICKMAN

A CHECK of Pacific Coast broadcasters, agencies and television producers representatives revealed bright prospects for spot radio this fall and winter season. Estimates are that the 1943 total will equal and possibly exceed 1942 despite a slow-up during the first quarter in comparison with that period last year.

Although spot business bogged down during the last three months of 1942 and didn't fully recover in the first quarter of 1943, the past 90 days have made much for that loss. Sales managers in the major markets are confident that business will continue at a stimulated pace for the next six months at least. Many a station manager in the secondary markets is also of that opinion. A few, of course, refuse to hazard a prediction.

The rose-colored prophecy is based on short-term new business
Reverse Order
REVERSING the usual order of things, KGKO, Fort Worth, has obtained an engineer from the armed services. He is Charles (Red) Lucas who has been given a medical discharge by the Navy after 20 months of service and who was at Pearl Harbor at the outbreak of war. Lucas was in charge of radio equipment for five years at the Baker Hotel in Dallas before entering the service.

REPLENISHING its news staff with personnel from the journalistic field, NBC has taken on three additional news writers and two shortwave monitors. Writers in-clude Daniel O’Flaherty, Richmond News Leader; Robert Brown, assistant city editor of The Wash ington Daily News; Marshall Smith, of the Providence Journal. A former INS man, Arthur Wake lee, and Charlotte Huber, of Vogue, have been added to the shortwave division.

CBC Board to Meet
BOARD of Governors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. will hold its next meeting in Vancouver and Victoria, B. C., Aug. 16-18, spending one day in each city. It is understood that some of the board will then go to Prince Rupert, B. C., to visit CFPR, leased to the CBC for the duration, to supply service to this Pacific Coast defense zone. It is expected the board members will look into the necessity for more stations or repeater stations in this area.

JAY C. FLIPPEN, nightclub m.c. and former vaudeville star, will replace Walter O’Keefe as m.c. of Battle of the Bees on NBC effective July 27. Sponsor is Mole Co., Railway, N. J. Young & Rubicam, New York, handles the account.

problems still not solved, and other wartime factors involved, it is too early to discuss clients’ advertising plans. Indications were that if and when campaigns are set, they will be short-termed and concentrated in selected areas.

NEW YORK STATIONS
DRAW COOP AD PLAN

A FOUR-MONTH trade paper campaign promoting the New York market, comprising 18 full-page advertisements with each of nine stations contributing two pages, was tentatively agreed upon at a meeting of New York station promotion men held at WOR last Friday afternoon. Idea of the campaign had been discussed at a previous meeting the week before !Broadcasting, July 12 following a meeting of station managers at which the campaign had been first proposed.

Representatives of six stations attending the meeting on Friday each agreed to donate two pages of trade paper advertising to the joint drive, subject to the approval of their station managers, and Joseph Creamer, WOR, was authorized to contact the three stations not present. It was decided that the ads should be run over individual station signatures and not repeated, although the whole group would work together in their preparation. A proposal that an advertising agency be appointed to handle the campaign was discussed, but no action was taken. It was reported that the New York Times and New York Herald Tribune were planning newspaper campaigns promoting the New York markets and the radio group agreed to work with these newspapers in Soe as is feasible in exchanging research data, etc.

Meeting was attended by Miriam Adelson and Mr. Creamer, WOR; Lucy Teole, WMCA; Robert Hutton, WJZ; Herb Chason, WHN; Jules Dunide, WABC, and Harlley Samuels, WOV.

HIRE A BUSKER

It was a very astute theatre manager who first hired a sidewalk musician to entertain the crowd lined up outside his doors. The busker shortened the hours of waiting, made people forget their boredom and their aching feet, kept them from giving up and going elsewhere.

The business manager who must keep people waiting until he can deliver the goods would do well to hire a busker. Radio entertainment gives people something to remember you by... while they're waiting.

Radio Sales Using Uniform Discounts

A UNIFORM discount structure for all stations represented by the Radio Sales division of CBS will become effective Aug. 15, according to new rate cards issued last week for the eight stations owned by CBS — WABC, New York, WBML, Chicago, WEUI, Boston, WCCO, Minneapolis-St. Paul, KNX, Los Angeles, KMOX, St. Louis, WWII, Washington, WBT, Charlotte—and for WAPI, Birmingham, and the Columbia Network.

Only difference between the discounts offered by CBS-owned stations and by WAPI is that the former now offer no discounts for contracts of less than 26 weeks duration, giving 5 percent for from 26 to 52 weeks and 10 percent for 52 weeks, whereas WAPI offers 6 percent discounts for contracts of 13 to 25 weeks, 7.1/2 percent for 26 to 51 and 10 percent for 52 weeks.

New cards also apply to announcement time the discount structure formerly applicable only to program time, giving the purchasers of announcements the same weekly frequency discounts, weekly dollar-volume discounts and discounts for consecutive weeks of broadcasting which previously were available only to buyers of program periods. Program-time and announcement-time purchases may now be combined for discount purposes, but announcements of all types may be combined in figuring discounts.

A cash discount identical to that offered by the nationwide CBS network is now available to Columbia Pacific advertisers. Pacific network card also includes the 10-10:30 p.m. period daily, with noon to 6 p.m. Sunday as transitional time, billed at two-thirds of night rates. Base evening rate of WCCO has been raised from $25 to $600, and that of WAPI reduced from $175 to $160.

Current advertisers on the stations may use either the new or the old rate and discount structure until Aug. 14, 1944, provided their schedules continue without interruption. New rate and discount structure applies to all new business signed after Aug. 14, 1943, and all business after Aug. 14, 1944.

GUILD CONFERENCE

RADIO WRITERS in every phase of the industry met in Chicago July 15 for the national conference of the Radio Writers' Guild, a branch of the Authors' League of America, to discuss organizational plans and contract negotiations with radio networks, stations and advertising agencies. Delegates at the meeting included Paul Franklin, national president of the Guild, Columbia Studios writer and present author of the serial, Red Ryder; Don Quinn, Fibber McGee & Molly scripter; Pauline Hopkins, president of the midwest region of the Guild and writer of That Brewster Boy; and Hector Chevigny, radio and screen writer.
Fred W. Swanson

Serving as Peruvian Consul for the Midwest is just one of the duties of Fred W. Swanson, time buyer of J. L. Stewart Agency, Chicago. A jaunt down to Lima, Peru, during college days at Northwestern U., acquainted him with personalities who later rose high in Peruvian diplomacy, and gave him an enduring enthusiasm for things Latin-American. He has been active in Peruvian promotion for more than a decade.

After attending Northwestern, where he made his spare time worthwhile working on student publications, Mr. Swanson opened his own publishers' representative organization in Chicago, which he continued from 1927 to 1933. In 1933 he took over sales duties in the Ahrens Publications offices, Chicago, where he remained for the next four years.

In 1937 he became sales manager of the American Wine Co., St. Louis, but resigned at the end of a year to return to Chicago. Advertising pulled him back into its own field, and he later became an account executive in the Vanden Adv. Agency, Chicago, which handled practically no radio. In 1939 he joined the J. L. Stewart Agency. Little radio had been used by the Stewart company until Mr. Swanson organized the radio department for the agency. He built the department on the theory that since radio itself has emotional appeal, it can be utilized to advertise in tangibles, such as insurance, as well as tangibles. The radio department of J. L. Stewart now handles about a dozen different insurance accounts, some of which are competitors. Mr. Swanson forestalls the obvious query about the difficulty of keeping various accounts in one kind of business equally well spotlighted by saying, "It is better for these companies to have us handle their radio advertising than for them to go to a competitor-agency. Our clients know that we feel our responsibility toward each of these individually even more strongly perhaps than we might if we had only one or two such accounts, and that we will give each in turn the same break." The Stewart Agency has had many mail order accounts for years, but it has been only since the beginning of the Swanson era that radio has been extensively used as an advertising medium. Rural radio is used almost exclusively, and a careful eye is kept on wishes of farm folks. Hill-billy and western shows have the best drawing power, according to Mr. Swanson, and of course the use of local talent popularizes the programs.

"We are probably the world's worst time buyers," Mr. Swanson said, laughing. "We do not always buy time on the basis of coverage maps or surveys. We buy largely on the station's ability to pull mail. The only sure way of measuring our audience." Mr. Swanson is married, has a high school-age son, John, and lives in Park Ridge, Ill. Hobbies, when his work gives him time to follow them, are, besides Latin American relations, gardening and fishing.

IRE, RMA Agree

AGREEMENT on details of an industry technical planning association appears likely when IRE and RMA representatives meet in New York shortly to work out detailed plans for the organization. The two organizations agreed on general plans at a meeting in Washington several weeks ago, and committees have been formed in details. The New York meeting may be held this week.
the war. "By war advertising," he said, "we mean that which induces the people through information, understanding or persuasion, to take certain actions necessary to the speedy winning of the war."

Mr. LaRoche promised that the WAC and OWI were ready and eager to assist advertisers in developing war theme advertising. "War advertising follows agreed-on themes," he explained. "As every advertising man knows, best results are achieved when all advertising on a given subject adopts the same approach, tells more or less the same story, makes more or less the same appeals."

"The official campaigns are all things that virtually anyone would agree need doing. They have nothing to do with politics; they have a lot to do with winning the war."

In a large measure, he said, it is up to advertising to explain to the people why they must buy bonds; why they must pay higher taxes, abolish black markets, buy only at ceiling prices, and not demand higher prices, higher wages or greater profits. "Advertising is not a charitable institution," he pointed out, "it is the handmaiden of business. And there is no business in this nation so strongly that inflation will not work havoc and ruin upon it."

"I am making a special plea that you businessmen everywhere work with the WAC and OWI to inform every individual in America how he can help fight inflation," Judge Vinson said. "As advertisers, each of you can, like Paul Revere, warn that inflation is coming unless the American people take up arms against it."

Mr. Nelson declared that although production is now "at a very high level," we fell a half billion behind our goal last month and are not currently meeting our goals from month to month. He said manpower, absenteeism, strikes and a dangerous feeling that the "war is in the bag" is responsible for this falling off and that "in order to tap our reserves of power we need to have a clear understanding by every American of his personal responsibility in war production."

Advertising has always been an inspirational force for the nation at war, Mr. Nelson said, but this is no longer enough. "More than inspiration is needed," he declared. "The American home front needs detailed and continuing information and instruction on every phase of its responsibilities."

Hailing "a great opportunity under guidance of the WAC to convert industry's advertising to the common cause, and use more fully in the war effort the ingenuity and skilled craftsmanship for which American advertising is justly famed," Mr. Nelson predicted that a war message in every ad "can do much to bring about another great upsurge of energy in this country—a surge that will enable us to turn out more of the stuff that our fighting men need to battle the Axis into early surrender."

Judge Marvin Jones, making his first radio appearance since taking over the Food Administrator s job, promised the public would be kept fully informed on the food situation. Explaining that an informed public was essential to his program, he said "asking citizens to adopt the wartime food code is a job on which every one's assistance will be needed. We have asked the assistance of business; they have been asked through their advertising to put a war message in every ad."

"By working together," he said, "it is not too much to say we will be shortening the war."

The July 14 broadcast was preceded by a closed circuit talk over NBC July 6, in which Mr. LaRoche and Frank E. Mullen, NBC vice-president and general manager out-

Greek Relief Drive
Greek War Relief Assn., Chicago, is presenting the quarter-hour weekly dramatic program Voice of the Underground over 175 stations. Recordings are furnished gratis to interested stations, the majority of which donate the time to the cause of Greek relief. The programs, based on documented accounts of Greek underground activity, are recorded by World Broadcasting System, Chicago, and financed by the Pan-Hellenic Federation of America. Carl E. Rilett Jr. is writer-producer and Mel Gallant director.

VICK KNIGHT, Hollywood vice-president in charge of radio for Foote, Cone & Belding, and Johnny Richards, musical director, are collaborators on "The Moment We Meet", theme song of the weekly CBS New Jack Carson Show. Tune was purchased for publication by Robbins Music Corp.

PRESIDENT SCORES DISMISSAL RIDER
THE FATE of two employees of the FCC whose tenure was limited by the Urgent Deficiency Appropriation Bill, took on an air of mystery last week as President Roosevelt signed the legislation, but at the same time denounced the measure as "unconstitutional, unwise and discriminatory".

In an unusual procedure before his news conference Tuesday, Mr. Roosevelt summarized a message he was to send to the Congress when it reconvenes in September, notifying the legislators he would have vetoed the objectionable rider if he could have done so without delaying vital war operations. The Urgent Deficiencies Bill, containing the President's $89 million contingency fund, and overtime pay for government workers, carried a rider calling for dismissal of Dr. Goodwin Watson and William E. Dodd, both of the FCC's Foreign Broadcast Intelligence Service, and Dr. Robert Morris Lovett, government secretary of the Virgin Islands, on Dies Committee charges of subversive activity.

As finally approved by the Senate, after being rejected five times, the rider provides that the men shall leave the Government by Nov. 15, unless nominated for office by the President and approved by the Senate. Mr. Roosevelt in his message commented that there was no suggestion that the men had not performed their duties. Then, refusing to reveal whether he would nominate them for office, he said he did not believe the rider was binding on either the judiciary or the executive, thus giving rise to the belief that the men might be continued in office for a subsequent legal test of the provision. The rider originated in the House, and was accepted on insistence of that body.

Standard Profits Drop
STANDARD RADIO Ltd., Toronto (affiliated company of CPB, Toronto, and CKLW, Windsor, Ont.), in a financial statement for 1942-43 ending March 31, showed a net profit of $88,904, equal to 41 cents a share on the combined 215,000 shares of class "A" and "B" stock outstanding. This compares with a net of $106,828 or 49 cents a combined share in the previous year. Auditors state that only the proportion of profits of subsidiary companies which have actually been received as dividends have been taken into the accounts of Standard Radio. Balance sheet shows current assets of $92,502 and current liabilities of $25,969, leaving net working capital of $66,535 compared with $63,475 at the previous-year end.

Heads Agency Board
JOHN E. WILEY, a vice-president and manager of the New York office of Fuller & Smith & Ross Inc., has been elected to the newly created position of chairman of the board, it was announced last week by Allen L. Billingsley, president. Edwin L. Andrew, a vice-president, and manager of the firm's Cleveland organization, has been named executive vice-president.

AFM Sets Class A Rate On Video Performance
UNION musicians appearing on television programs must be paid union scale for Class A stations, according to the New York Local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians, which for several weeks has been investigating conditions prevailing at W2XWV, Du Mont television station in New York. This scale is $12 an hour per man, with $3 for each additional quarter-hour and $4 an hour for rehearsal time.

Sam Cuff, radio and television news commentator who has charge of the Wednesday evening experimental teletcasts produced by W2XWV in cooperation with New York advertising agencies, said musicians, like other artists, have been glad of a chance to gain experience in the new medium and have not generally asked for union scale. APRA has not established a scale for television.

CP Claims Scoop
A SCOOP on the news of the invasion of Sicily is claimed by Canadian Press and Press News Ltd., radio subsidiary. According to CP, its correspondent, Ross Munro, was the first reporter to get out his story, scoring a 7 1/2-hour world beat over 53 other war correspondents. Munro's own source is one of the first landings near Cape Passero was broadcast throughout the world by the BBC and given fast relay to stations served by Press News Ltd. in Canada and Press Assn. in the U.S.
vice-president in charge of Washington activities, called in connection with this incident. Mr. Garey had sought to substantiate the report that Mr. Russell, as a member of the Domestic Broadcasting Committee, had originally complained against Mr. Miller to BWC.

Thus far, the Committee's public hearings have covered only the R.D. and FBIS activities, which entail some 6 million dollars of the FCC's 8 million dollar appropriation. In documents originally placed in the record over the protest of Mr. Fly on grounds of being "secret" matter, the combined Chiefs of Staff recommended that the President execute an Executive Order transferring these activities to the Army. Accompanying documents cited these activities by the FCC as a hindrance to the war effort [Broadcasting, July 5-12].

Two Revelations

Mr. Fly's initial appearance before the Committee, which he protested as unfair, covered only the Neville Miller phase. It was indicated he will be called as often as may be necessary in connection with other FCC and BWC matters. Other members of the FCC also will be called. Expected to be a key witness, because of his consistent opposition to Mr. Fly's policies, is T. A. M. Craven, veteran engineer and a former Naval officer.

In continuing his battle of words with the committee, Mr. Fly declared at his regular press conference last Monday that he had abandoned hope of getting a hearing before the committee and that he felt "they've done their worst." He asserted "the most startling questions that could be put have already been published as seemingly the conclusions of the Committee. A hearing for me to prove the charges would be too anti-climatic to interest the Committee."

The sessions thus far held, according to observers, reveal two things—(1) that the FCC through Chairman Fly had intruded upon military communications activities against the will and judgment of the Army and Navy; and (2) that the executive branch, for reasons of its own, was seeking to impede the Cox Committee inquiry through refusal to produce records which the Committee contended had no bearing on secret military operations.

Mr. Fly lost no time in meeting the last Cox committee threat—release of the memorandum of Rear Adm. S. C. Hooper, retired Naval communications expert, to the Secretary of the Navy, opposing Mr. Fly's chairmanship of the BWC as against the best war interests, along with an Army memorandum picking up most of Admiral Hooper's contentions [Broadcasting, July 12].

The FCC chairman, in a press release for Sunday morning papers, at which time the Cox Committee data also was released, contended the documents "are but irresponsible charges which the Cox committee has handed out in a bid for publicity."

"We are still waiting for a public hearing," he continued. "Meanwhile, as to the charge that I oppose using the war as an excuse for monopolies to extend their hold on the country, I plead guilty. I also plead guilty to the charge of believing that the CIO, along with the AFL and the other unions of this country are not disloyal, but are composed of patriotic a group of citizens as can be found anywhere and that their counsel and advice is a valuable contribution to our war effort."

Calls It Punitive

"As to the remainder of the charges collected by the Committee's staff in star chamber sessions, the public should know that they've been critically reviewed and found to be "unfair, "irresponsible, "and "not disloyal."

Mr. Fly told his well-attended conference that the investigation was "punitive and irresponsible in its origin" and that the procedures and processes have "tarnished the pattern of the original attitudes."

Everybody, he thought, "must be shocked by the conduct, methods and processes of the Committee. At the same time, I don't see how any of us can assert that we are surprised."

Mr. Fly said he was not going to answer Adm. Hooper's charges in detail, but that if the Committee were to "give me a hearing I would take up each and every one of those statements and deal with them in turn. I do not expect that opportunity, however."

Declaring he did not want to direct any criticism at Adm. Hooper, he said the retired Naval officer "has rendered some valuable service" but that he now is "retired for reasons of health and I can only express my sincere regard for him and my sympathetic interest in his welfare."

Asked whether the admiral was retired for "reasons of health" when he prepared the memorandum, Mr. Fly said he did not know the precise date. "What do you think of Mr. Garey as a lawyer?", asked a reporter. "I think he serves the purpose of this Committee very well," the chairman replied.

In his final statement of the week, Chairman Fly last Thursday issued a press release again attacking the committee, this time in connection with a report published in the Drew Pearson syndicated column of the same day. The Pearson column, which has consistently attacked the Cox inquiry, quoted a memorandum Mr. Garey outlined to the committee, said to have been prepared by Robert Humphreys, of International News Service, "acting as advisor to the Cox committee."

The alleged Humphreys memo, said to cover suggestions as to procedure from the publicity standpoint, was appended to Mr. Fly's two-page statement in text.

"No Results"

Without mentioning the Pearson column, Mr. Fly said the "published reports" of the committee's plan for the conduct of the hearing in relation to newspaper publicity revealed "the real character of the 'impartial and wholly constructive' investigation which Chairman Cox at the opening hearing publicly assured the Commission, the Congress and the people."

Alluding again to Mr. Garey as the "Wall Street counsel," Mr. Fly said the memo to the committee "merely confirms and formalizes the plan adopted by the committee in assembled meeting on July 6."

The "principles," he said, are designed to accomplish two results—
CONVERTED from telegraph operating to a radio engineer—that's the story of Margaret Lowe, one of the nation's few women engineers, now at WWVA, Wheeling. Miss Lowe got her engineering lessons from members of the WWVA staff. It's an idea for stations seeking operators.

"the seizure of the headlines" and effectuation of the principle that "by adroit use of the gavel, the committee may proceed as it pleases; the committee must keep the Commission's side of the case from reaching the public."

Mr. Fly expressed doubt that the House ever intended to authorize its committee to follow the procedures outlined in the purported memo. He quoted copiously from the "memorandum" to buttress his contention that there is "nothing new in the procedures for creating publicity with scandalous and unsupportable charges and then promptly shutting off any possible opportunity for the Commission to be heard on those charges, or even to present its case to the press."

Ultimately, he said, the greater injury must be to the committee itself "when Congressman Cox and his Wall Street counsel have the temerity to adopt procedures which abuse the great Congressional power of investigation by a calculated bid for headlines and by a deliberate plan to avoid any hearing on the charges until after a startling publicity has taken its toll."

Citing the "unhappy auspices under which this so-called investigation was given birth," Mr. Fly said he "cannot believe that the House ever fully understood what its committee is doing in star chamber proceedings, in secret eliciting of 'testimony' in the downtown hotels of Washington and in the press, publicly confused unfair procedures; governing its conduct of public hearings."

Attached to the Fly statement were the "suggestions" together with a memorandum entitled "E. L. G." stating that the "suggestions" were written by Mr. Humphreys. The "suggestions" were quoted by Mr. Fly as follows:

1. Decide what you want the newspapers to do, and then shape the headlines so that the main point becomes the vortex of the testimony. Once that vortex is reached, adjourn.

2. Handing out press releases, first put a release date on them, reading something like this: "For release at 11 A.M., EWT July 6th, etc. If you do this, you can give the public as much as 24 hours in advance, thus enabling reporters to study them and write better stories.

3. Limit the number of people summoned to agents for the committee, to give out press releases or to provide the press with information to the fewest number possible. It plugs leaks and helps preserve the concentration of purpose.

4. Do not permit distractions to occur, such as exogenous fuses with witnesses, which might provide news which would bury the testimony which you want featured.

5. Do not permit hearings more than 24 hours or 48 hours apart when you claim you are presenting a continuing case. This gives the opposition too much opportunity to make all kinds of counter-charges and to issue press statements to the newspapers.

6. Don't ever be afraid to reassemble again after five minutes, so that you keep the proceedings completely in control so far as creating news is concerned.

7. And this is most important: don't let the hearings or the evidence ever descend to the plane of personal attack between the Committee Chairman and the President of the agency being investigated. The high plane of a duly authorized Committee of the House of Representatives examining the operations of an Agency of the Executive Branch for constructive purposes should be maintained at all costs.

Two Courses Open

If the Cox committee should decide to pursue contempt of Congress proceedings against Chairman Fly or any other recalcitrant witnesses, it could do so, according to Committee spokesmen, by following either of two courses. One would be to ask the House and Senate to vote proceedings, under the United States Code. The second would be for the Speaker to certify the case to the United States attorney. Neither the Speaker nor the district attorney, in the latter instance, has any discretion to delay proceedings. The President could not make it mandatory for them to expedite the case to the grand jury.

There was little likelihood of action until Congress convenes. And whether the Committee proceeds to act at that time will depend upon the status of the inquiry, it is expected.

Both Chairman Fly and Harold Date of WNYC Hearing Transferred to Sept. 13

HEARING on the application of WNYC, New York, for a special service authorization, which would be in effect give it fulltime, set for last Monday, has been postponed to Sept. 13 by agreement of WNYC and the FCC. The Commission acting in accord with a Supreme Court mandate in the WGN and CBS case, had granted a petition by Columbia-owned WCCO, Minneapolis, for a rehearing against grant of the special service authorization to WNYC [BROADCASTING, June 7].

At a pre-trial conference before Commissioner Durflinger, June 28 between the parties concerned, it was agreed that CBS should make certain airplane measurements to determine the vertical patterns of the proposed WNYC operation and report the Commission within 60 days, or sooner if the measurements are completed or CBS reports it cannot make them. It was further stipulated that CBS would consent to any request WNYC may file for a special temporary authorization, pursuant to FCC rules, to operate till 10 p.m. (EWT), the authorization to end 30 days after the hearing.

Republic Pix Will Buy Half-Hour Show on Net

REPUBLIC PICTURES, New York, will purchase a half-hour network period for a studio-talent show, it was announced last week, at the conclusion of a negotiating in New York. Decision on the network to be used, and starting date is expected to be made within 10 days. With a number of its stars already familiar with radio through past performances, Republic will build the program around talent from current or prospective series such as "In Old Oklahoma," "The Fighting Seabees," "Man From Frisco," "Atlantic City," "Gay Blades," and "The Old Wagon." The firm has been diomed only within the last month or so, engaging in extensive personal driving of "Screenwriter members," and for Roy Rogers, singing cowboy [BROADCASTING, June 14, p. 3]. Agency is Donahue & Co., New York.

Red Myers Honored

REDD MYERS, time salesman of WGN, Chicago, credited with bringing $3,000,000 worth of local billing to the station, was honored at a luncheon July 10 given by co-workers and agency executives at the Kingbridge Yacht Club, on completion of his 15th year with WGN.

D. Smith, director of the Bureau of the Budget, who declined at the July 9 hearing to give evidence regarding matters which they held to be secret, may be liable for contempt proceedings. In the case of Mr. Smith, the Committee authorized him to discuss with counsel the advisability of providing the evidence sought for by the special committee. Mr. Fly, however, felt that he was bound by the instructions of BWC not to divulge the information in connection with the Neville Miller case in the House. It is assumed that these factors will be considered by the committee in determining whether or not contempt proceedings will be instituted.
WKY Sales Stunt Features Fashions
Marjorie Howard to Assist Oklahoma City Promotion

IN AN intensive retail promotion WKY, Oklahoma City, is bringing Marjorie Howard, well-known New York fashion specialist and former Paris fashion editor of Vogue and Harper's Bazaar, to Oklahoma City for a series of broadcasts on fashion to start Aug. 4.

Miss Howard, a well-known authority in her field and fashion counselor to the New York School of Applied Design, will broadcast a quarter-hour program three times a day Monday through Friday; a morning fashion commentary, a late evening fashion program for employed women, and a women's news program in the late afternoon.

Although the programs will not be offered for sale, the promotion is intended to familiarize Oklahoma City retailers with use of radio as a medium for advertising their merchandise.

As part of the general promotion, Miss Howard will conduct a fashion clinic in the WKY studios once a week which will not be broadcast. She is also scheduled to make personal appearances before women's groups and to make guest appearances on department store radio programs. Miss Howard will be introduced to the merchants of Oklahoma City at a special luncheon on Aug. 8 arranged by J. I. Meyerson, WKY promotion manager.

Richard Connor, MBS station relations executive, will shortly leave on a tour of MBS stations, at which time the details of the new plan will be fully explained to the network's affiliates. No Convention' Plea

ODT DIRECTOR Joseph B. East- man last week renewed his plea for cancellation of conventions and similar group meetings in 1943 in order to relieve the strain on the nation's railroads. Unless such meetings contribute in an important way to the winning of the war, Mr. Eastman said, officers and members of organizations scheduling conventions must ask themselves whether they are justified in going ahead with their plans.

WATR, Waterbury, Conn., is now carrying the weekly Catholic program, The Angelus Hour, a program which originated as a feature on WSHR, Stamford, and is now heard also on WNBW, Bridgeport, WELI, New Haven, WYIK, Hartford, WNLX, Norwalk, six outlets comprising the Connecticut Broadcasting System.

WELI, Boston, has added the Associated Press radio news service, bringing to the station all the special features of the PA wire.

FACTS and figures showing radio's outstanding contributions to the war on the home front are strikingly presented in a brochure issued last week by the NAB in collaboration with the CBS, NBC, and Mutual networks. Titled "This Is an Army Hitler Forgot", the brochure tells how $100,000,000 worth of talent and time were employed by stations and advertisers to reach the public.

The radio army is fighting on many fronts, employing its medium so effectively, according to NAB, that every listener in the country hears at least four vital war messages a week. Under the network allocation plan alone, it is stated, 202 coast-to-coast programs, sponsored by 120 advertisers, reach 300,000,000 listeners a week. Under the station announcement plan, 891 stations broadcast over 8,000 messages a day; under the feature series plan, 40,000,000 listeners per week are reached through network war shows and Mutual inaugurate guidance, according to the brochure.

Gross, Taylor Buy KFMB, San Diego

SALE of KFMB, San Diego, to Jack O. Gross, general manager of the station, and O. L. (Ted) Taylor, president and general manager of KGNC, Amarillo, Tex., and president of the Taylor-Howe-Snowden group, subject to FCC approval, was reported last week. Amount involved was said to be about $95,000, depending upon terms of the contract not yet fixed.

The FCC last week approved an amended application of the Worcestershire Broadcasting Corp., licensee of KFMB, for voluntary transfer of control to First National Trust & Savings Bank of San Diego as trustee. The grant included renewal of license and limited to one year the tenure of the trust company as licensee, instead of the indefinite period requested in the original application. This change, the amended application stated, was to facilitate the effort of the trust company to find a satisfactory purchaser for the corporation.

Mr. Gross and Mr. Taylor would own the station on a 50-50 basis. Mr. Taylor is head of KTSA, San Antonio, KRKV, Wallis, and KFXE, New Braunfels, as well as KGNC, and a director of the Globe-News Publishing Co., Amarillo. Mr. Gross has become general manager of KFMB last January with option to buy, subject to FCC approval, once identified with the former company. KGNC, and KTFB, Shreveport, La., has been in radio more than 20 years as announcer, producer, sales executive and manager.

AN INCREASE in the number of radio receiving licenses issued in Canada, at $2.50 each, was revealed in a report of the Dept. of Trans- port at Ottawa before the Parlia- mentary Committee on Broadcasting, from 1,629,489 in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1942, to 1,728,880 in the year ending March 31, 1943. Gross revenue from licenses in the 1942-43 fiscal year was $4,187,667, and after deducting commissions of 17.18 cents per license (down from 17.22 cents the year before), and administration costs, the balance of $3,667,340 was handed to the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. 33 Sponsors Take Discount Plan By Using Full Network

WITH celebration last week of the first anniversary of CBS' full network discount plan, the network announced there are now 33 CBS advertisers using 49 different shows, or 95 separate program periods weekly, taking advantage of the plan. On July 15, 1943, when the discount went into effect, nine CBS advertisers using 19 separate program periods weekly increased their contracts to the full CBS program.

To adopt the full network facilities, 36 CBS programs, representing 68 individual program periods weekly, increased their stations. Thirteen clients scheduled the full network with the beginning of broadcast of their programs and are not included in that breakdown.

Recent Increases

The most recent advertisers to schedule the full CBS are Campbell's Soup Co., increasing the station lineup by 50 for Radio Reader's Digest, effective July 18; and Ironized Yeast Co., which on July 20 will take the full net for Lights Out, as will Bayer Co. for American Melody Hour.

Following is the complete list of 33 advertisers and their 49 programs now on the full CBS network, or scheduled to go on the network in the near future. The 13 starred programs are those taking the full CBS network when they were launched.

Dell Screen Show Plans Snagged by AFRA Rule

PLANS by Lennen & Mitchell, New York, for a half-hour program featuring stars to go on the BLUE in August for Dell Publishing Co., New York, have run into a snag on the West Coast through the invocation of "Rule 15" by the national board of the American Federation of Radio Artists.

This rule in the AFRA by-laws prevents AFRA members from appearing on a commercial radio program for less than their regular salaries. Lennen & Mitchell had planned to pay the performers the AFRA minimum when they appeared on the series in an exploitation tie-up between Modern Screen magazine and its writeups of the stars' latest films.

With the AFRA objection to the plan, the appropriation for the program will now have to be reapportioned. James Andrews, L&M radio director, is on the West Coast straightening out the matter with AFRA, probably returning to New York the beginning of next week.

Hosiey Test

\[ \text{Type of Test} \]

\[ \text{May Determine 'Results' Of Radio Advertising} \]

\[ \text{Importance of station participation in tests conducted by clients to determine results of radio advertising has been brought to light in an experience related to Broadcasting last week by T. J. McMahon, account executive for WAGE, Syracuse.} \]

When a local plant recently reported that its radio announcements for war workers had failed to bring results, Mr. McMahon was prompted to investigate the matter, in view of the fact that on previous occasions excellent results in this field had been secured. He learned that applicants interviewed at the plant's personnel office were asked the following question:

"Did you read our ad in the newspaper?"

If the applicant answered in the affirmative, he was asked "what paper?" If he answered in the negative, he was asked: "then how did you happen to come in?"

Following this discovery of the "test" used in his plant to measure results of radio advertising, the client decided to reconsider his previously announced decision to discontinue announcements on the air. Mr. McMahon points out that station executives handling accounts must anticipate the weakness of tests employed by local firms and make sure that some accepted system of measurement reaches the hands of the client before a test is made.
