Surveyed Facts Prove Dominance!

★ WXEX-TV is your best buy — by far — to cover the whole Richmond TV area.

A 35-county Grade B area survey made by ARB proved conclusively:

★ WXEX-TV leads any other Richmond area station in more quarter hours by 33½%.

★ WXEX-TV leads any other Richmond area station in total share of audience.

Don’t project urban ratings to the Grade B set count. You get faulty cost-per-thousand figures.

Use the facts in the ARB area study. Get them in full from Select, Forjoe or WXEX-TV.

KRLD-TV is the overwhelming favorite with the television viewers in Metropolitan Dallas (Dallas County). Here there are 207,200 television homes. (Metropolitan Telepulse Report, April, 1957.) This important market in 1956, had a Consumer Spendable Income of $1,724,146,000 and its retail sales amounted to a whopping $1,327,834,000. (Source: SRDS Estimates of Consumer Markets, January 1, 1957.)

NO OTHER TV STATION IN TEXAS GIVES YOU AS MUCH COVERAGE AS KRLD-TV

Channel 4 is the lowest frequency in Dallas or Fort Worth. This far-reaching signal is beamed with the maximum power allowed by FCC from the top of Texas' tallest tower. A strong, clear signal goes into 47 Texas and 5 Oklahoma counties — where there are 602,525 television homes...where there are more than one-fourth of Texas' population and one-third of Texas' television sets, plus those in Oklahoma — an area larger than covered by any other Texas television station. That's why KRLD-TV is the biggest buy in the biggest market in the biggest state.

KRLD-TV, Channel 4, telecasting with maximum power from atop Texas' tallest tower is the television service of The Dallas Times Herald, owners and operators of KRLD Radio, the only 50,000 watt full-time radio station in Dallas-Fort Worth. The Branham Company, national representatives.

JOHN W. RUNYON CLYDE W. REMBERT
Chairman of the Board President

In Dallas, where 4 stations compete, KRLD-TV HAS THE MOST VIEWERS IN ALL BUT ONE TIME SEGMENT throughout the entire week!

MONDAY TO FRIDAY

KRLD-TV's share of the audience in Metropolitan Dallas is greater than any other station's in all five time segments. 7 a.m. to 12 noon; 12 noon to 6 p.m.; 6 p.m. to 10 p.m.; 10 p.m. to 12 midnight; 6 p.m. to 12 midnight.

SATURDAY

Again, KRLD-TV has the greatest share of the audience and leads in all of the five time segments throughout Saturday's telecasting day.

SUNDAY

Sundays, KRLD-TV has the most viewers in four out of five of the time segments. For the period, 12 noon to 6 p.m., KRLD-TV's audience leadership is shared with another station.

ANTITRUST WOES • Now that it's over, some of criminally tagged Philadelphia radio stations who were fined $1,000 for fair trade policies (story page 31) are wishing they hadn't let court, government and their own lawyers talk them into abandoning right to jury trial. It's understood they agreed to throw themselves on mercy of court in belief they would receive suspended sentences or at least only fraction of fines suggested by Justice Dept. and accepted by Federal Judge Allan K. Grim. Only balm is fact that government attorney and judge emphasized that FCC and other agencies should not be influenced against defendants because of alleged technical violations of antitrust act.

GOADED by actions on Capitol Hill, such as Cellier Report and effusions by individual members (Rep. John Dingell, Mich.; Rep. Henry S. Reuss, Wis.; Rep. William Bray, Ind.) Antitrust Div. of Dept. of Justice is expediting its preparations for series of actions in communications field—primarily tv. It wouldn't surprise close observers to see antitrust actions, perhaps within month, dealing with such matters as option time, must buy and talent contracts involving major networks.

WHEN AND WHO? • With only two weeks to go before vacancy occurs on FCC with expiration of term of Chairman George C. McConnaughay on June 30, concern is being expressed not only on Capitol Hill but on FCC itself over White House lethargy. Unless there's another upturn, it's regarded as certain that Comr. John C. Doerfler will succeed Mr. McConnaughay as chairman, but it was still open race for commissioner.

ONLY new name heard in running is that of George R. Perrine, 49, chairman of Illinois Public Service Commission, who reportedly was under consideration months ago but did not press his candidacy. He's graduate of U. of Southern California and also attended Northwestern. He's athletic, has three children, background in banking, and is reported to be of independent means. But still very much in running, it's reported, are George S. Smith, president of Federal Communications Bar Assn.; Mary Jane Morris, secretary of FCC (with many women's groups working feverishly in her behalf) and FCC General Counsel Warren Beker.

FEWER MORNINGS AFTER • Reports circulated last week that CBS-TV was cutting out its purchase of Trendex ratings, but network sources called this "an apparent misunderstanding as a result of not ordering some special ratings during the summer" and said there's been "no change of policy." Even so, it's understood that as economy measures CBS-TV will no longer order season-long special overnight Trendexes on Ed Sullivan Show, Playhouse 90 and other regulars which in past it has measured in special ratings week in and week out. It'll continue as subscriber to Trendex monthly service, but probably will order special overnights only on first few of new season's shows and other exceptional cases when time is vital.

RUSS PAULSON, Kenyon & Eckhardt, Atlanta office, retiring to open new offices of Burke, Dowling & Adams Inc. in South Bend, Ind., to handle Studebaker-Packard account. Louis Corrigan, also of KD&E Atlanta, moving to BD&A in South Bend.

MUTUAL NEWS • Mutual officials are predicting that within four to seven weeks they'll have their hourly (on the half-hour) five-minute newscasts completely sold out, and that shortly they'll also have SRO sign on 28-second IDs which follow newscasts. They say only 33 of 114 weekly newscasts remain available, with Miles Labs, Kraft Foods, North American Accident Insurance Co., Quaker State Oil, and Hudson Vitamin Corp. already underwriting 81. Newscast rules are so good, in fact, that Mutual's owner, General Tire & Rubber Co., can't get time it wants for weekday General Sports Time With Harry Warner.

TOILET goods advertisers and agencies handling such accounts will be told to purge their television commercials of excessive claims and "little white lies." Stephen L. Mayham, executive vice president, Toilet Goods Assn., is to tell Los Angeles Ad Club tomorrow (Tuesday) that public soon will rebel against worst offenders if Federal Trade Commission doesn't get there first.

WESLEY BUIDLUP • Indicative of Shulton Inc.'s growing use of network and spot tv (see AT DEADLINE story, page 9) is expected announcement this week of reorganization of broadcast section of Wesley Assoc., Shulton agency. Named first radio-tv director in agency's 29-year history will be John L. (Jack) Zimmer, former executive tv producer at Cunningham & Walsh. Heretofore, all broadcast activities of Wesley were handled by Joseph D. Knap Jr., media director, who doubled as timebuyer and conducted radio-tv activities jointly with account executives. Mr. Knap continues in his present post. Mr. Zimmer is expected to build radio-tv department with first appointment to be Dorothy Friedman (formerly with C. J. Lachote & Co.) as creative radio-tv copywriter. Office is to be opened at 10 Rockefeller Plaza, New York.

SID MESIBOV, director of public relations for Television Bureau of Advertising, due to move shortly to ABC-TV in roll of director of special projects under Oliver Trey, vice president in charge of tv network. He'll be third TVb alumnus in ABC-TV hierarchy, along with Mr. Trey, former TVb president, and Eugene Accas, former TVb vice president and director of operations, now ABC-TV administrative vice president. Mr. Mesibov's TVb successor to be named shortly.

COX REPORT • Decision probably will be reached this week by Senate Commerce Committee on adoption of report of Majority Counsel Kenneth Cox on network operations, with prospects it will be favorable. Understood that such formidable members of committee as Chairman Magnuson (D-Wash.) and Sens. Bricker (R-Ohio), Pastore (D-R.I.) and Schoeppel (R-Kan.) already have endorsed report.

PLAN of DuMont Broadcasting Corp. to buy KTLA (TV) Los Angeles from Paramount Pictures Corp. [BT, April 29, et seq.] was reported last week to be snagged at least temporarily by failure of negotiators to reach agreement on price. But participants insisted call-off was "not final" and that negotiations were continuing. DuMont stockholders month ago approved management plan to acquire KTLA (along with interests in three music firms) through issuance of DuMont stock to Paramount, already largest single stockholder in DuMont (more than 20%).

FIFTH AND FINAL • Although CBS TV won't hang up SRO sign for public gaze yet on its Thursday night Playhouse 90, network has signed Allstate Insurance Co. through Leo Burnett Co., Chicago, as fifth and final sponsor for next season. Others announced earlier: Kimberly-Clark through Foote, Cone & Belding; Bristol-Myers, BBDO; American Gas, Lenner & Newell, and Marlboro cigarettes, Leo Burnett Co.

RKO Television Inc. expected to announce this week it has signed with A. C. Nielsen Co. as first commercial program package for full national tv service. Behind move is desire by RKO television for research material upon which it can base projected ratings and costs in selling to advertisers. RKO wants to talk to potential film sponsors in terms of audience composition, cumulative audience, tune-ins, costs per thousands and special survey data.

- Central Kansas Television Inc. received approval to operate satellite on ch. 11 Garden City, Kan., rebroadcasting ch. 2, NBC-affiliated KCKT (TV) Great Bend, Kan., with 53.7 kw power. E. C. Wedell and family are principal stockholders. FCC Commissioner Bartley abstained from voting.

Petry Opens Boston Office; Walsh Heads Radio, Howard TV

NEW office opened in Statler Office Bldg., Boston, today (Monday), by Edward Petry Co., national station representative, bringing total Petry offices to eight. Each office has completely separate TV and radio operation, according to Edward Petry, president of firm.

Bill Walsh, recently on WEEI Boston sales staff, heads tv department of Boston office and is office manager. Francis Howard, recently of WBZ-TV Boston sales staff, is in charge of Petry's New England radio sales.

Shulton, Lever CBS-TV Plans Complicated by Product Conflict

DOUBTFUL programming status of Tuesday, 8:30-9 p.m. slot on CBS-TV next fall reported settled Friday after prolonged discussions and screenings. Shulton Inc., Clifton, N. J., and Lever Bros. Co., New York, which last month rejected Sliezak and Son for that time, have agreed to sponsor new CBS film package Eve Arden Show.

Unsettled is what products Lever Bros. will advertise. Time period now is occupied by Private Secretary re-runs sponsored by Dover soap through Ogilvy, Benson & Mather. But vexing Lever (and Shulton) Inc., too, which cannot advertise its Old Spice shampoo is sponsorship by Procter & Gamble of preceding (8-8:30 p.m.) Phil Silvers Show. Lever and Shulton cannot advertise "competing products", e.g. Dover v. P&G's Zest, Old Spice shampoo v. P&G's Drene, etc.

Thus, agency responsibility for Lever passes from OB&M to J. Walter Thompson Co., which handles Lux and Rinso. Shulton's Agency is Wesley Assoc., New York.

NTA Reports Sharp Income Gain

Net income for third quarter of current fiscal year, ended April 30, was listed at $309,961, or 47 cents per share, as compared with $55,584, or 9 cents per share, for same period ended April 30, 1956. Exclusion contracts written in current nine-month period amounted to $12,346,041, as against $3,560,898 in corresponding period of previous fiscal year, NTA said. Film rentals for two periods were $7,680,763 and $2,259,013, respectively.

PALM BEACH, FLA., May 27) programming vice-president, has been named yet by network headquarters.

DIAMOND WANTS MORE

DIAMOND Match Co., New York, is finding that tv is tailor-made for demonstrating how its new "Neet-Heet" product actually works. It's reported that Diamond will expand its current limited spot tv campaign in 17 markets (also spot radio in three markets) to nationwide campaign come next spring. Product is self-starting briquets box designed for outdoor suburban use in barbeque grills. Campaign ends after Labor Day, with national drive opening up next April. Used in tv are 20-second and one-minute commercials. Doremus & Co., New York, is agency.

BROADCASTING • TELECASTING

THE MASCULINE APPROACH • Revlon Inc., N. Y., slowly moving into men's cosmetics line, this month began testing—through tv, radio and newspapers—advertising for Top Brass, men's hair cream. Cities in 13-week test run are Cincinnati, Atlanta and Denver. Emil Mogul Co. is agency placing test campaign. Mogul expected to gain other Revlon men's products as they come out.

MORE SCHWEPPE'S ON ORDER • Schweppe's (USA) Ltd., N. Y., bottler of quinine water and ginger ale, pleased with its two-week tv test campaign last year, reportedly will make extensive use of medium in limited number of top, metropolitan markets later this month. COLD WEATHER PLANNING • National Carbon Co. (Prestone antifreeze), N. Y., through William Esty, N. Y., planning radio and television spot schedule with same list of markets as last year. Schedule kicks off at varied dates coinciding with first "freeze" days in parts of country, starting early in September.

TO GO WITH THE PROS • CBS-TV's pro football games next fall (Sunday afternoons) nearing goal of complete sponsorship with following advertisers already in: Marlboro cigarettes, Ballantine beer, Pabst beer and Falstaff beer. Beer firms are taking parts of games in their distribution areas. Drug firm understood to be ready to sign for rest of available time.

Jump in Newspaper Space Rate
Cited as Radio-Tv Sales Aid

BIG increase in cost of newspaper space per million circulation provides broadcasters with good selling argument, John F. Meagher, NARTB radio vice president, told Maryland-District of Columbia Radio & TV Broadcasters Assn. Friday at Ocean City, Md., meeting (see story page 70). He cited Assn. of National Advertisers data showing cost of line per million circulation in 250,000-and-over group had risen from $1.52 in 1946 to $2.41 this year, rise of 57.8%. Circulation for same period in this group was down 0.4%.

Saturday session included panel on rating services, with Fred S. Houwink, WMAL-AM-TV Washington, as moderator, and James W. Seiler, American Research Bureau; George Blecha, A. C. Nielsen Co.; Lawrence Roslow, Pulse, and Frank Stisser, Hooper.

Tele Movie Files for Toll Tv Franchise in Oceanside, Calif.

Application for exclusive 25-year franchise for closed-circuit toll tv in Oceanside, Calif., filed with city council by Tele Movie Development Corp., Los Angeles. Company plans to accept between 1,000 and 1,500 homes with metered tv installations using Telemeter coin box system developed by International Telemeter Corp. (B&T, March 25).

Harrison W. Hertzberg, Tele Movie attorney, said that cost of installing equipment and connecting homes by cable to central studio is estimated at $100 per home, putting overall cost of pilot operation at $100,000 to $150,000. Whether installations will be made by Tele Movie or by Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. will depend on phone company bid, Mr. Hertzberg said.

Kaiser Film Plan Falters

ONE of most ambitious tv sponsorship projects for fall—Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp.'s plan to sponsor post-1948 films on ABC-TV Sundays 7:30-9 p.m. (B&T, May 6, 6 seq.—) reported Friday to have fallen through, because of inability to acquire movies of satisfactory quality. Kaiser, and agency, Young & Rubicam, New York, will consider new periods and programs.

RCA's Burns Sees C-C Tv
Fostering New Educational Era

NEW educational era in which top-flight teacher may lecture to students all over U. S. by closed-circuit television and command salary comparable to that of best paid businessman or entertainer was envisioned by John L. Burns, RCA president, in commencement address prepared for delivery Sunday at Northeastern U., Boston. Mr. Burns was to be awarded honorary degree of doctor of business administration by Northeastern, his alma mater.

Classroom tv, he said, could help overcome education's twin shortages of facilities and faculties and make it possible to "draw upon the greatest teachers in America.'

Mr. Cornberg is credited with design of studios for NBC-TV's Today, Home and Tonight shows and has served as consultant to tv stations and networks in various foreign countries.

BUSINESS BRIEFLY

Informed Opinion

EDITOR:
I am impressed by the depth of study that went into this article "How P&G Cleans up with Television"—B&T Business Profile, June 3.

It seems to me you’ve done a good job in sensing many of the factors at work in our marketing operation and have presented them in a most interesting fashion. . . .

Green Bay: A Top Market

EDITOR:
We were quite distressed upon seeing the listing of the top 125 tv markets [B&T, May 6] which did not include WFRV-TV and Green Bay. . . . There are 377,340 tv homes in the Green Bay tv market which makes it the 50th tv market in the nation.

W. C. Polson
Merchandising & Promotion Manager
WFRV-TV Green Bay, Wls.

[FILER’S NOTE—Due to an oversight, WFRV-TV was not included although both the CBS and the ABC lists submitted to the FCC in allocations proceedings, from which our May 6 list was compiled, did list Green Bay.]

Film Handling Defended

EDITOR:
I don’t agree with Mr. Nemec [Boyce Nemec, New York consultant, who said film costs may lead to tv tape use, B&T, June 3].

Tape may come, but not because tv prints are given "rough handling by inexperienced station personnel, inadequate inspection at the film exchange and failure to fix responsibility for film damage by the distributors."

. . . We send thousands of prints every week to stations and station people know how to handle film. Sure, there’s some damage, but the percentage is small.

As for inadequate inspection at the film exchange, Mr. Nemec is invited to look at our operations center to watch our film inspectors at work. They work fast, but every print that comes back is cleaned, checked for breaks, sprocket holes, etc.

Lastly, stations know they’re going to be billed for damage of any major size, so they’re careful with our prints.

I also heartily disagree with Mr. Nemec’s estimate of only “5 to 15” uses for a tv print. We’ve gotten over 50 uses from some. My estimate would indicate an average of 25-30 uses for a tv print.

All’s Well in Wellston

EDITOR:
Perhaps some of the radio stations that carry on a running battle with the hometown paper might be interested in this little [excerpted] story that appeared in the Wellston Sentinel:

We want, belatedly but sincerely to congratulate WKOV on its increase in power to 500 w and its change in frequency to 1330 kc . . . in many communities relations between a radio station and the newspaper become strained because of the competition for the advertisers’ dollar. But we feel that we, in Wellston, enjoy a harmonious relationship. We, at the Sentinel, eat three meals a day and we are certain that the WKOV personnel, especially Manager Parks Robinson, is equally privileged. A radio station is an asset to the community, and so, we modestly believe, is a newspaper.

QUESTION: WHERE DO MOST PEOPLE SPEND THEIR VACATION?

ANSWER: At Home!

Yes, it’s a fact, figures show that most people actually stay at home for their annual vacation, only a small percentage go "out of town." . . .

All of which means that winter or summer, there’s always a big audience tuned to WFMJ radio in Youngstown, Ohio.

Enjoy sales results by scheduling your summer spot campaign on WFMJ. Youngstown has up to 16 hours of daylight time, making it a terrific buy!

Ask Headley-Reed or call Mitch Stanley, station manager, for availability and rates. Sell Ohio’s 3rd market . . . Youngstown! Sell with radio . . . WFMJ Radio!

were invested in Spot TV advertising by leading drug manufacturers during 1956.

Invested because Spot TV brings drug advertisers so many more sales dollars returned for every dollar they spend. There’s no waste. You pin-point the audience you want . . . in the markets you want. And drug advertisers find this rate of return is even higher on Petry represented stations because they are the greatest buys in their areas.

There's more to Florida!

Imposing is the record $1,200,000,000 spent by Florida's sun-worshipping visitors last year. But bigger by far today is the ever-expanding spending power of Florida's year-round residents.

There's Jacksonville, for instance... mainspring of a dynamic $1,775,521,000 market where population has jumped 20%, food sales 86%, drug sales 102% since 1950. Total retail sales are up 90%... a rate of increase 78% above the national level!

and WMBR-TV provides advertisers a golden opportunity to grow with the market. For WMBR-TV's year-in, year-out dominance of the territory is unquestioned. Inside metropolitan Jacksonville, WMBR-TV delivers almost five times the audience of its competition, with the largest number of viewers in every quarter-hour of the week, from 8 a.m. to midnight. And that's only part of the picture. In all, powerful WMBR-TV covers a market totaling 67 northern Florida and southern Georgia counties... 291,000 television families who have made WMBR-TV an eleven-to-one favorite over any other station!

IN REVIEW

THE JERRY LEWIS SHOW
IT's long been the practice of fan magazines in search of "hot" copy to resurrect the Martin-Lewis split and repeatedly question their decision to go separate ways. But Jerry Lewis' solo stint June 8 is ample proof that the zany, frenetic performer stands out whether billed as single or alongside all the foils and fellow-clowns that can be mustered.

Aided by the dancing team of Dick Humphrey and Lou Spencer, his "reprise" against entertainer Sammy Davis Jr. with a spoof of the Will Mastin trio, was a gem of comedy and dancing ability. Routines with his 11-year-old son, Gary, and his father, Danny Lewis, as well as an old-time "Charlie Chin" revival were equally hilarious. The latter had 47-year-old Key E. Luke as the No. 1 son of 31-year-old "Charlie Chin" Lewis and equalled any effort of Sid Caesar.

Edyie Gorme, Nelson Riddle and a chorus line that ranked among the better made it an hour that merited many encorees. One other act involved was the comic team of Rowan & Martin, described as newcomers on the horizon of entertainment. Unfortunately for them, the surrounding talent was too much competition.

Production Costs: Approximately $200,000. Sponsored by RCA and Whirlpool Corp., through Kenyon & Eckhardt, and Oldsmobile Div. of General Motors, through D. P. Brother on NBC-TV; Colorcast Sat. June 8, 9-10 p.m. EDT.
Producer: Ernest Gluckman
Directors: Jack Shea, Jerry Lewis
Writers: Harry Crane, Arthur Phillips

BOOKS
ART DIRECTING: FOR VISUAL COMMUNICATION & SELLING, edited by Nathaniel Pousette-Dart for Art Directors Club of New York; 240 pp.; Hastings

FOR loyal readers of the A&P grocery stores' monthly magazine, Woman's Day, this slim volume containing the collected "indignant nonsense" of radio-tv columnist Jack Cluett comes as a special bonus. For Cluett is the supermarket version of John Crosby: irreverent, highly critical of hokum, giving no quarter to press-agentry. If much of this book escapes the station manager in St. Mary's-by-the-Pump, Idaho, the fault is hardly his; too many of Cluett's radio-ty columns deal with local New York phenomena, such as the insomniae's delight, Miss Nancy Berg. As regards the title, yes, Mr. Cluett has built his orange crate, and lovingly so. It's on exhibit in Greenwich, Conn.

FAITH

Inborn—a child’s faith.

But faith...in business...must be earned.

That’s why when we make a sale, we also try to make friends. Friends won through the sustained action of promises performed.

As we see it, that’s not only good business philosophy. It’s good business, too.

AVERY-KNODEL INCORPORATED
OUR RESPECTS

to John Lawrence Burns

JOHN LAWRENCE BURNS is one of the presumably few persons with a doctorate who ever voluntarily gave up a college professorship to take a job as a laborer in a steel mill.

"I'd have been happy to start in as president," he recalls, "but nobody asked me." Earlier this year, however, somebody did ask him, and on March 1 he took over as president of RCA.

At 48, John L. Burns is a robust, youthful and comfortably relaxed man who looks and talks more like the former college professor than the high-pressure executive that is the popular conception of today's industrialist.

Born Nov. 16, 1908, at Watertown, Mass., he attended Watertown schools and Northeastern U., where he received his B. S. degree in electrical engineering in 1930. He was employed by the Western Electric Co. between 1927-1930 while studying at Northeastern. In 1931 he earned his master's at Harvard, and three years later, also at Harvard, his doctorate in metallurgy. While working for the doctorate he taught metallurgy at Harvard for two years and at Lehigh for one, meanwhile working also at Dewey Almy Chemical Co.

In 1934 he chucked the assistant professorship he then held at Lehigh—even though the depression already had set in—and went job-hunting because he wanted practical experience.

He landed with Republic Steel and was put to work in a 10-inch rod mill, juggling 450-pound coils of white-hot metal. It was a back-breaker.

"Some nights I'd be so tired when I got to my room in the South Chicago YMCA that I'd have just enough strength left to get a shower and pile into bed—sleep before dinner time," he says. "I didn't have enough energy left to go out to eat."

After about a year—during which he did find enough reserve energy to do some research on electrical conductivity of special steels—he was transferred to the laboratories to work on special problems. By 1936 he was head of the laboratories.

Subsequently, he served as director of quality control, director of process engineering, superintendent of large ingot manufacture, manager of the Grand Crossing Works, and, finally, superintendent of the Wire Div., which included the Grand Crossing Works.

In 1941 he decided it was time to change again. He liked his work but he was about 15 years junior to Republic's other superintendents, and further progress, he decided, was apt to be necessarily slow. Also, he wanted to broaden his experience.

So he moved to the management consulting firm of Booz, Allen & Hamilton. Less than a year later he became a partner. He has worked closely with RCA, a B&H client, for the past 10 years, and was called in as president when Frank Folsom elected to give up the presidency in preparation for retirement two years hence.

Mr. Burns was married Aug. 29, 1937, to Beryl Spinney. They have two children, John Spinney (Joss), 13, and a daughter, Lara Lacey, 9, and live in Greenwich, Conn.

He is president of the Greenwich Community Chest & Council, member of the executive committees of the Boys' Clubs of America and the American Heritage Foundation, a director of the Common Cold Foundation Inc., a corporate member of the Crusade for Freedom, and a member of the Board of Visitors for the Air U., USAF.

His hobbies are golf, fishing, hunting, and reading, and his social memberships include the Round Hill and Indian Harbor Yacht Club at Greenwich; the University Club in New York; the Mid-Day Club in Chicago, and the Dutchess Valley Rod and Gun Club at Pawling, N. Y.

Mr. Burns looks upon his new job as being mainly "to see that we get the information we need in order to make the right decisions" and "working with people and getting them to do the work to implement the decisions that have been made."

That the job is somewhat more complicated than he makes it sound is indicated by his working habits, however: He is in his office before 8:30 a.m., works till 5:30 and often till 6:30 or 7, and puts in another hour or so on the train commuting—"plus the usual extra-curricular activities."

There's a timely story about his commutation. One morning early this year he sat for an hour and ten minutes in a commuter train stalled in the tunnel to Grand Central Terminal. In the RCA Bldg., an RCA board meeting was in progress. When Mr. Burns finally approached the chairman he apologized for his tardiness: "All I can say is, it's a helluva way to run a railroad—the New Haven Railroad, I mean."

Whereupon the board, accepting his apologies, got on with the business of electing him president.

WDRC Supports Summer Camp
A FUND DRIVE over WDRC Hartford for funds for Camp Courant, a summer children's camp operated by the Hartford Courant, reportedly hit the $1,200 mark. The drive, conducted on the 6:20 p.m. Jack Zaiman Background News Program, is an annual affair over WDRC.

Dead Men Speak for Autopsies
SINCE March 3, when KDKA-TV Pittsburgh presented a program on the importance of autopsies on its House Call series, the autopsy rate has risen from 38% to 60%. The rise is credited entirely to the effect of the program, “Dead Men Do Tell Tales.”

Disc Jockey Airs Program
WILSON HURST, disc jockey, WKY-AM-TV Oklahoma City, briefly changed altitude when he emceed his weekly show, Willy at Work, from “the air”—an Air Force Reserve C-45, property of the 69th Troop Carrier Squadron at Tinker Field, Midwest City, Okla. The special show was scheduled in connection with the Air Force's new six-month reserve enlistment program.

KTTN Aids Cancer Drive
WITH a goal of $1,608, and only $1,245 collected in the Grundy County Cancer Fund Drive, KTTN Trenton, Mo., initiated a radio marathon for the remaining two days of the drive. As people phoned in their contributions, the station put its “beeper” phone service into operation so contributors could announce their own names and addresses and the amount they wanted to contribute. Grundy was one of the first nine counties in the state to reach its goal.

Star Helps Send Boys to Camp
CLINT WALKER, star of ABC-TV’s Cheyenne series, came home to Alton, Ill., to make a personal appearance at a rodeo on June 2 sponsored by the Alton Police Department, with all proceeds going to the Alton Police Youth Camp. Although torrential rains forced a two-week postponement of the rodeo, they did not prevent Mr. Walker from making a special appearance on a 15-minute program on KTVI (TV) St. Louis, with Bruce Hayward doing the interview. The rodeo was reported a success, with Mr. Walker selling autographs for $1 and permitting all comeers to shoot his six-shooter for $.50.

Radio Reunites Family
GILBERT M. HUTCHISON, general manager, WAAA Winston-Salem, N. C., reports that a brother and sister were reunited after a 29-year separation. The sister, Mrs. Lola McKinney of Atlanta, Ga., had tried to locate her missing brother, Clifford Palmer, since 1929. She wrote Larry Williams asking him to read her letter on the air. The letter was read once and was heard by one of Mr. Palmer’s co-workers who immediately passed the message on to Mr. Palmer who wired his sister at once.

- Eliminates mesh pattern and moiré effect without defocusing
- More than meets all technical requirements of 525-line TV system
- 750-mesh tube used with aperture-correction circuits can provide 100% response for 350-line information. 500-mesh tube without aperture-correction circuits produces only about 60% response for 350-line information. Although correction circuit can be used with 500-mesh tube, such use emphasizes moiré and beat-pattern problems
- Micro-Mesh minimizes beat pattern between color subcarrier and frequency generated by the beam scanning the mesh-screen pattern
- Improves detail of color pictures
On KTHV, they will!

With 316,000 watts on Channel 11 and with the tallest antenna in the Central South (1756' above average terrain!), KTHV gets regular viewing response from most of Arkansas — 62 counties to be exact!

NINE Philadelphia radio stations stand branded by a federal court as criminal antitrust law violators despite the expressed opinions of the Dept. of Justice and U. S. District Court that:

- There is doubt they violated any law and/or the public interest.
- If they did, it is technical and involves no moral turpitude.

The nine learned Thursday that they had been fined $1,000 each for attempting to adhere to fair trade practices and their local association had been fined $5,000.

These broadcasters, having spent an estimated $250,000 for lawyers in the last year, were persuaded to enter a technical nolo contendere (no defense) plea in the Dept. of Justice criminal antitrust indictment against them. They did this, B&T learned,
- On the advice of their lawyers, who had conferred with Dept. of Justice attorneys and Judge Allan K. Grim, of U. S. District Court, and
- To avoid legal jockeying that might have run the expense over a million dollars, and jury trial after a series of conferences with all parties involved. Westinghouse held out for several days, insisting it did not want to join the other eight defendants in the effort to avoid the heavy expense of a trial.

Both government counsel and Judge Grim made special reference to the Westinghouse position in their statements, noting that WBC apparently had not been involved in the original actions in question.

The year-long legal bickering began in May 1956 when U. S. marshals subpoenaed records of 10 Philadelphia radio stations at Dept. of Justice request. A federal grand jury in Philadelphia returned an indictment in June [B&T, July 2, 1956], charging 10 station members of the Philadelphia Radio & Television Broadcasters Assn. and eight of their officers with illegally fixing radio time charges, violating the Sherman Act.

Sales managers of nine of the 10 association member stations had wired Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample, Chicago, that they would stick to published rate cards and observe a fair-trade code. Convinced of the legality and charges against L. M. C. Smith, d/b Franklin Broadcasting Co., and Raymond S. Green, general manager of Franklin (WFLN [FM]).

In a statement issued after Judge Grim pronounced sentence, the defendant stations said the indictments involved charges that the Philadelphia association and its members had an agreement in restraint of trade because of the code of ethics. In this code the members subscribed to fair competitive practices and generally disapproved discrimination or secret rate deals with advertisers.

The government, it was explained, conceded there was no agreement that the rates published by a radio station would be uniform or that any station was prevented from independently changing its rates.

It was explained the defendants entered pleas of nolo contendere "in order to dispose of the matter without further litigation." The association pleaded guilty to the antitrust violations but the individuals named in the indictment threw themselves on the mercy of the court after a series of conferences last week in Washington.

THESE GOT OFF—BUT THEIR STATIONS DIDN'T

To keep from jamming a court that didn't want to clutter its calendar with litigation involving a fuzzy technical matter that could be settled if defendants would throw themselves on the court's mercy.

For the first time any broadcaster could recall, a routine radio business practice wound up in a juridical antitrust circus.

Special victim of the nebulous Dept. of Justice charges was Westinghouse Broadcasting Co., which wanted to go through a trial and seek to prove its innocence. WBC agreed, with "extreme reluctance," to foreign public interest involved in association actions, the members gave wide publicity to their policies.

That triggered Justice Dept. action and wound up Thursday when Judge Grim, at government suggestion,
- Fined the Philadelphia association $5,000 after it pleaded guilty,
- Fined nine radio stations $1,000 each after they pleaded no defense, and
- Dismissed charges against eight individual executives of the stations.

Earlier the court had dismissed antitrust charges against R. W. Smith, of Philadelphia, the radio station member who was named as WBC's attorney in its defense.
William B. Caskey, WPEN; Benedict Gimbel, WIP; Robert A. Klein, WDAS; John Maffett, WDCA; Donald W. Thornburgh, WCAU; and Robert Teter, KYW (now with Peters, Griffin, Woodward representative firm). No individual was mentioned in the case of WFIL.

While the charges against the stations were misdemeanors involving no moral turpitude, a panel of the government conceded that there was no agreement to have uniform rates or to prevent a station from operating as it sees fit, the court refused to accept a plea that sentence be suspended.

"Westinghouse was especially unhappy in view of its belief in the company's innocence and the trial. Having been persuaded, after lengthy argument, to give up its right to trial and plead no defense, WBC apparently hoped it would not be fined. This was especially noticeable after both the government attorney and Judge Grim made special reference to the Westinghouse position.

The Justice Dept. has pending two other antitrust actions involving the industry—one against NBC, which is charged with having coerced WBC into swapping its Philadelphia radio-television stations for Cleveland properties, the other charges block-booking by several film distributors.

As a result of the Thursday court action, the Justice Dept. has dropped its civil suits against the stations and their association.

Judge Grim, who had strongly recommended the settlement, said in imposing fines:

"I do think it is appropriate at this time to make the statement that I think no moral turpitude is involved or in fact has been shown in this case. I believe also that what was done by the men in this case was done in what they believe to be the best interests of their employers and the public. I hope that when that point is called to the attention of the government agencies, particularly the FCC, that these agencies will agree with me in my statement that no moral turpitude was involved in the case and also what was done here will not reflect on the defendants in any other case.

"As to some of the defendants, notably the management, I doubt seriously if these defendants are guilty. Nevertheless I shall accept the pleas which have been offered and the suggestions of the government as to sentence."

"A spokesman for one of the radio stations involved stated that the sales of radio time by a station to one customer at a published price and to another customer at a price less than the published price would constitute a violation of the law and is the type of thing which the Dept. of Justice and the Federal Trade Commission have endeavored to prevent in the past. He added that in a recent hearing before a Senatorial committee, representatives of the Dept. of Justice, when asked, had indicated that such a discriminatory practice with respect to radio time would probably constitute a violation of the law. He further stated that it was in order to prevent such unfair discrimination that the radio association had adopted its code of fair business practice.

William L. Maher, as chief government counsel, said Thursday in his summary to Judge Grim that the government recognizes the evidence in its possession indicates that "Westinghouse management directives to avoid antitrust involvements anedated the acts alleged in the indictment.

"I believe that it should be made clear," he said, "that this case was brought solely to enforce the Sherman Antitrust Act. It was not brought to impair, prejudice or reflect upon the qualifications of any of the corporate defendants as licensees of the FCC in the field of broadcasting. We have no evidence in this case that the defendants in this case have failed to program and conduct the broadcasting operations of their stations as they individually saw fit to do in the public interest.

"The violation alleged in the indictment is a misdemeanor and as such does not involve moral turpitude."

Mr. Maher told the court that for four years it has been the announced policy of the Dept. of Justice not to agree to nolo contendere pleas in antitrust cases except under unusual circumstances.

Addressing Judge Grim on behalf of the defendant broadcasters, Morris Wolf, WPEN counsel, said on behalf of all defendants:

"I doubt if your honor has ever had before him in a criminal case defendants who are as puzzled about what has happened to them as are the nine Philadelphia radio broadcast stations who have pleaded nolo contendere and are awaiting sentence."

"The main accusations against them are that their sales managers joined in sending a telegram to an advertising agency at Chicago [Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample] and that the association of which they are members...

ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES

1,000 ATTEND AFA CONVENTION

- They find industry growing, but get warning
- Media competition, 'imagery' among topics

ABOUT 1,000 delegates from advertising clubs throughout the U.S. met at Miami Beach last week for a quick reading of the advertising industry's pulse. At the 53rd annual convention June 9-13 of the Advertising Federation of America in Florida they heard:

- The industry is $500 million bigger than it was a year ago, and ought to be at least 30% more so by 1965—when the annual level of advertising media expenditures will rise to $13.5 billion, or more (see separate story).
- An agency executive—D'Arcy Board Chairman Robert M. Ganger—has concern over advertising expenditure claims getting out of hand. He warned that constant padding of figures, in campaigns and in talent contracts, if continued could boomerang and hurt the advertising business (see separate story).
- Another agency head, John P. Cunningham, president and board chairman of Cunningham & Walsh, assures advertising agencies that magazines ought to be able to live alongside other media, particularly competitor tv.
- The topic of an advertising "image" receiving more and more attention among advertising practitioners.
- A wealth of other topics and speeches, covering motivation research, public relations, copy techniques and research, problems of the medium-sized business in marketing and advertising, direct mail and retail advertising.

Highlights:

Mr. Cunningham, discussing "Magazines ... Up to Now ... and From Now On," rejected the view that television will have a harmful effect on magazines, and, on the contrary, felt that the media "will live happily side by side." He foresees mutual promotional endeavors by one medium on behalf of the other, with magazines-on-the-air and tv awards sponsored by magazines flourishing.

Mr. Cunningham acknowledged that television soon will be a "most important color medium." But he quoted from a recent Magazine Advertising Bureau pronouncement, which said, "tv's color won't be any more of a substitute for magazine color than a sky-rocket is for a painting," then added:

"I am sure advertisers will want both the skyrockets and the paintings of their products."

Motivation research was discussed by Dr. Ernest Dichter, president of the Institute for Motivational Research Inc., and Herta Herzog, director of research at McCann-Erickson Inc., New York.

Dr. Dichter presented a set of motivational factors—psychological for the most part—that help persuade the consumer to buy a particular product. These, he indicated, help the advertiser in determining who buys and who doesn't; who can be sold and who cannot; why they buy or don't buy; how customers can be reached effectively and economically, and what the trends are now and in the future.

Miss Herzog explained how motivation research can be applied in understanding the consumer.

The "image" theme was carried through by William D. Tyler, a vice president at Leo Burnett Inc., Chicago, who warned that impulsive buying has been replaced by fast, on-the-fly purchasing of "a lot of things very fast." The buyer knows a little about many products and brands rather than a lot about a few. Thus, advertisers must try to get one important thought about the product into the buyer "as he races by." This brings the emotional feeling about a product—an important factor in advertising today.

Since even "alert people" find it difficult to keep up with the increasing brand parade today, Mr. Tyler suggested: “Create an image that dins into the mind a simple, memorable, repetitive visual symbol” of the brand name often enough to become part of daily living. But don’t overshoot the wares, he warned.

A top executive in the advertising field, Ben R. Donaldson, director of institutional advertising for Ford Motor Co. and AFA's board chairman, in a welcoming speech to conventionists, stressed that advertising cannot stand still but is constantly in need of fresh ideas. Uniformity and conformity in advertising, he warned, generally are “deadly and destructive elements.”

Ward B. Stevenson, president of General Public Relations Inc., division of Benton & Bowles, spoke of the close relationship of public relations with advertising. People engaged in either endeavor respect public opinion, according to Mr. Stevenson, whose talk was read by Harry Carlson, vice president of Benton & Bowles. The difference in present-day public relations is that the former manipulates while the latter provides “a service to” public opinion, he said.

Robert B. Clarke Jr., manager of advertising and sales promotion, Strathmore Paper Co., West Springfield, Mass., spoke on a panel considering “Marketing and Advertising Problems of Small- and Medium-Sized Businesses — and Tips on How to Solve Them.” He said smaller companies can compete favorably with larger firms if they stress service to their clients, price their products reasonably and distribute them to the area that requires them. Mr. Clarke suggested that in selecting an advertising agency, the smaller company should consider geographical convenience, compatibility of ideas and agreement on marketing objectives.

As part of the same panel, Frank McCabe, president of Frank McCabe & Assoc., Providence, R. I., suggested ways for the smaller advertisers to meet the competition of the larger-budgeted advertiser. They included ingenuity, an intimate knowledge of sources of supply, full use of advertising materials, and re-evaluation of media.

GANGER RAPS CLAIMS OF BIG AD BUDGETS

In a knuckle-rapping talk at the Advertising Federation of America convention, Robert M. Ganger, chairman of the board, D’Arcy Adv. Co., New York —

- Called for an end to exaggerated claims by companies of how much money they spend for advertising.
- Warned advertisers that these claims, as well as talk about contracts with TV stars in figures padded by the millions of dollars, do not set well with inquisitive stockholders.
- Asserted, “It’s high time in our sales meetings that we start dramatizing how good a program is — rather than how much it costs.”
- Emphasized that advertising executives “must increase share with client management the full responsibility for major investments in advertising and take it as our personal responsibility to get more dollars of sales out of pennies invested in advertising.”

Mr. Ganger described hee-hee-up claims as “being in the sphere of advertising’s public relations” and “I think it’s about time someone brought it out into the open.”

He asserted: “We should all stop blowing the trumpets about how much we are spending in advertising.” Not only is this “downright braggarting” but in “poor taste” and much of it is “gross exaggeration — and we all know it.”

“How many times,” he asked, “have you read about a company spending a couple of millions dollars a year when you happen to know personally it isn’t half that? Or if it is, it includes everything in the kitchen sink — charged to the advertising department because there’s no other place to put it?”

“Or how many times have you read about a five or ten million dollar contract for a hot television star — when we all know there is a small little thing called ‘13-week cancellation clause’ that always seems to be overlooked?”

Emphasizing that in these claims neither those making them nor competitors are fooled, Mr. Ganger noted the chief victims are the public — “and in many cases it isn’t only the consumers of our products but the owners of our companies.”

Mr. Ganger said he thought the press would prefer — “the truth instead of exaggeration.” By guarding “zealously against excesses in publicizing a company’s advertising plans — its talent costs, its campaign costs — we would be going a long way in reversing the present trend that, in time, may be unhealthy for our business and all business.”

Warned Mr. Ganger: “... At more and more annual stockholders’ meetings — particularly those involving daily purchase items with high advertising investment — this question of ‘just how much money is our company spending in advertising?’ is coming from the floor. And I think we are partly responsible.”

- Stockholders, Mr. Ganger explained, have a primary interest in bigger dividends; most of them approve the use of advertising for their companies, but don’t understand or care much about improving the corporate image or product image (“although it’s evidently worked on them or they wouldn’t have bought stock in the first place”). They never heard of long-range investment spending or pay-out plans for new products and to gain a specific share of market objectives — and “there’s no reason they should — unless they are in this business.”

But, he reflected: “I can’t help but ask myself how I would feel, if I didn’t know something about this business, when the company in which I placed some of my precious savings reported its biggest sales volume in history — yet made about the same... or less money. Then about the same time I might have read that my company just announced it was sponsoring its biggest advertising program ever, involving 'X' millions of dollars or that they had just signed a great new show featuring a star whom I'd heard was making a million dollars a year."

Mr. Ganger advised that advertising agencies and managers ought to make it plain to companies—particularly those entering new products into a competitive field—not only what advertising can do but what it cannot do. "We must make certain to these people what can and what cannot be determined through scientific product testing, package testing, consumer and market testing."

Every year from "now on" competition for reader and viewer interest will increase in intensity, making the problem of getting more for the advertising dollar greater and more challenging, he said. He said he thought that "the day must soon disappear when mere expending of competition will do the trick." Mr. Ganger saw the solution in what he called "a general two-fold course of action": (1) Creation of a unique product image, and (2) merchandising the image continuously through to the final sale.

Mr. Ganger's suggested pattern for successful advertising in an accelerating competitive market: Consistency of the image in all facets of an advertising plan; origination and reworking of the image to keep ahead of imitation; devote less time to talking about how much is spent in advertising and more in thinking about how to yield a greater return; reduce failures by giving thorough and judicious advice on the introduction of new products and launching of new enterprises, and improve the working tools, research in particular.

AFA convention-goers gather informally in their Fontainebleau Hotel rooms to watch closed circuit tv (right), as Chuck Zink, WTVJ newscaster (seated closer to camera at left) interviews Paul R. Greenaway, president of the Miami Ad Club and convention chairman, in the hotel mezzanine which was used as the studio for the programs.

AN AFA CONVENTION HIT: THE 'TV EYE'

A SUCCESSFUL sidelight to the Advertising Federation of America June 9-13 convention in Miami was the origination by WTVJ (TV) there of a complete closed circuit television station within the Fontainebleau Hotel, convention head-quarters.

WTVJ set up the closed circuit on the vacant south Florida ch. 5 band within the hotel, dubbing the four-day series "AFA Tv Eye." The series was conceived by Burt Toppan, WTVJ promotion manager; Joe Kline, WTVJ director of engineering operations; and Harold Gardner, publicity director of the Fontainebleau Hotel.

The "Tv Eye" was launched at 6 p.m. the first day of the convention by Chuck Zink, WTVJ newscaster. After a roundup of convention news and a graphic explanation of the closed circuit, Mr. Zink turned the show over to Jack R. Caesar, first vice president of the Miami Ad Club, who emceed the four-day, eight-program series.

Mr. Caesar, account executive for Webster Outdoor Advertising Co., disseminated convention information, changes in plans and "teasers" on upcoming sessions during the early morning telecast.

Afternoon and evening sessions dealt greatly with tourist information and interviews into various aspects of advertising. A total of 2,000 feet of film was taken at meetings, luncheons and parties and was shown on each telecast. All film was candid, and proved to be one of the greatest assets of "AFA Tv Eye."

WTVJ operated with one vidicon camera from an improvised studio on the mezzanine of the hotel. Film was telecast by use of a shadow-box and standard projector. Station engineers ran their cables up the elevator shaft to the roof, and tied directly into the Fontainebleau's master antenna. The "Tv Eye" technically was a three-man operation, run by producer-director Ray Gaber and engineers Wayman Hutchison and Ken Litrell.

Each program ran from a half-hour to a full hour. To promote the series, WTVJ sponsored a drawing for a case of liquor on the first program. Delegates received an informational sheet and an entry blank upon registration. In addition, a program schedule "tent" was placed on each of the hotel's 560 television sets, and signs were posted in the lobby and cabana areas.

1965 AD SPENDING: $13.5 BILLION SEEN

BUSINESS will invest more in advertising than ever before. By 1965, the expanding U. S. economy should funnel at least another $3 billion per year into advertising expenditures for an annual total of $13.5 billion.

The total ad budget in the U. S. this year should reach approximately $10.5 billion to compare with nearly $10 billion of advertising investment last year.

The assessment of an ever-increasing business allocation to advertising was advanced by Commerce Under Secretary Walter Williams, who was the speaker featured at the Monday luncheon session of the Advertising Federation of America convention.

Mr. Williams based his figures on estimates made by the joint economic committee which had placed the gross national product this year at $435 billion. He intimated, however, that perhaps his 1965 projection was too conservative, noting that much of the future depended on the "efforts, ingenuity, the resourcefulness and the courage" with which people in the advertising field can meet its challenges.

The need for advertising and the role of advertising in stimulating sales will increase, he said, because of four factors:

1. A further expansion of the market in outlets or dollars.
2. A wider diversification of product lines or brands, whether complementary or competitive.
3. The continuing addition of new consumer services related to sales.
4. The growing intensity of competition.

Among the "many-by-product values of advertising" recounted by Mr. Williams is the support of advertising revenues "to the trade, technical and industrial press of America, to our newspapers and to the radio and television industry." These, he said, "represent a substantial contribution to their operations."

"As a result American industry benefits from a wide spread dissemination of information on current developments in science, engineering, manufacturing, improved methods of goods handling and sales and similar aspects of production and distribution."

"In the same manner, the American public enjoys a wide variety of news reporting, entertainment and other services at prices which could not exist without the contribution of advertising revenue."

Proud Elected AFA President; Winslow, Fox Get Positions

C. JAMES PROUD was elected president and general manager of the Advertising Federation of America during its convention in Miami Beach last week (see separate story) and will assume the post on July 12. Mr. Proud, who joined AFA in 1947 as a field representative, has been serving recently as assistant to Elon G. Borton whom he succeeds in his new position.

Other new officers, elected are Ralph Winslow, vice president and manager of the NARTB EYES CIRCULATION AUDITS

- Radio and TV Boards to act at meetings this week
- Studies provide data on radio-tv audiences

TWO major services for advertisers and agencies—national television and radio circulation audits—face action this week as the NARTB TV and Radio Boards meet in Washington.

Separate projects to provide much more information on the coverage available to buyers of time will be considered. The boards will decide the fate of services that would give current information on the number of sets, where they are located, how they are used, and, in the case of tv, what stations are tuned on an average day in every county in the nation.

Meeting Wednesday, the TV Board will have a report from a research committee headed by Hugh M. Beville Jr. [8* T, June 10]. This action has the approval of the full NARTB Research Committee, of which Campbell Arnoux, W TAR-TV Norfolk, Va., is chairman.

A radio circulation project will be considered Thursday by the Radio Board, based on a report from a research committee headed by E. K. Hartenbower, KC MO Kansas City.

As it stands now, the radio project is still in the preliminary stages. The Radio Board last February authorized spending of $10,000 to make a study of various radio measurement methods and to collect data showing the dimensions of radio. A research specialist would be hired to do the analysis of methods. A goal in the project is the development of measurement standards on an all-industry basis.

Set ownership figures are sought in the radio survey, along with information on location of sets in and out of the home. Special attention would be given auto set circulation and the use made of battery portables.

The idea of reviving some type of radio measurement service developed at the June 1956 meeting of the Radio Board when the radio research committee proposed a county-by-county audit circulation study as a continuing project. This was to cover both home and out-of-home listening. However, the Radio Board's February decision specified the evaluation of measurement procedures, adding the suggestion that the 1958 U.S. Census of Business include questions covering receivers in public places. In addition the radio directors asked the NARTB staff to work with the Census Bureau in an effort to obtain from the 1960 decennial census complete figures on radio homes and numbers and types of sets.

One of the nation's major media circulation enterprises is envisioned in the tv proposal. In essence, this would be a continuing service showing tv sets by counties and by types (uhf, vhf and color); what stations get into each county in the nation during an average day and week, and what stations are received.

If the TV Board approves the plan drawn up by the research committee, the whole project will be assigned to discussion at the eight NARTB regional meetings starting Sept. 16 in Schenectady, N.Y. Since the regional meetings will be open this year to both member and non-member stations, the series would supply a cross-section of industry sentiment. Should reaction be favorable, then the board would be prepared to make a final decision at its next meeting, to be held in mid-winter.

Next steps would be to start a pilot study

MILES away from the scene of 10th birthday festivities of WWJ-TV Detroit, groups of well-wishers in Chicago and New York joined the celebration at closed-circuit television luncheon shows staged by WWJ-TV during its anniversary week of June 3. At the New York party were (1 to r) Bud Holbrook, media director, Young & Rubicam Inc., Detroit; Edwin K. Wheeler, general manager of WWJ-TV; H. Preston Peters, president of Peters, Griffin, Woodward, national representative of the Detroit News station, and William E. Mathews, executive assistant to the vice president in charge of media, Young & Rubicam. Advertising executives in the three cities went on closed-circuit tours of WWJ-TV studios, seeing capsule versions of shows.
Summer Beverage Spots Geared for Housewife

The big push to influence the American housewife is on in both the tea and coffee industries, with tea leading so far in the purchase of radio time.

The Tea Council of the USA Inc. is spending an estimated $300,000 in a radio spot saturation campaign for its iced tea pitch, for the fourth successive year. The council's main strategy is to use the 3:30-6:30 p.m. period in about 29 markets.

The schedule started in 18 southern markets May 20 and will run until Aug. 18, with 65 spots per week in each market. The transcriptions started June 3 in 11 Northern markets and will run through Aug. 11, with 116 spots per week in each market. At least three or four stations are being used in all 29 markets. In addition to appealing to women in its campaign, the Tea Council is counting on a drive toward males which comprise 25% of its total audience at that time. Leo Burnett Co., Chicago, is agency for the Tea Council.

The Pan American Coffee Bureau will spend a little over $100,000 for a two-network spot radio campaign aimed at housewives' who take daily morning and afternoon coffee-breaks, Edward Van Horn, advertising director of the Coffee Bureau, an-

Gamble Sees National Economy Of $1 Trillion in 25 Years
AN ever-growing "economy of abundance" in this country with an annual production of goods and services surpassing one trillion dollars in the next 25 years was envisioned last week by Frederic R. Gamble, president of American Assn. of Advertising Agencies, in his commencement address at Knox College. Mr. Gamble received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

"Our production capacity is a great material accomplishment," Mr. Gamble said, "but production ends in the factory warehouse, when distribution takes over. Production depends on distribution. Without customers, production would soon have to stop." He continued.

"The great economic problem today is distribution—finding customers and education for more people to enjoy the goods and services we are able to produce; aiding the manufacturing side through our marketing activities, to produce the types of goods that people will want and use."

Mr. Gamble noted that in the United States the economy "has advanced with the advance of salesmanship."

Kellogg Closes $7 Million Deal For 6 ABC-TV Children’s Shows
KELLOGG Co., Battle Creek, Mich., through Leo Burnett Co., Chicago, has terminated its $7 million transaction for time and programming on ABC-TV [B'T, June 3], the network revealed last week.

The purchase involves five 30-minute children’s tv programs, all in the daytime (5:53 p.m.) and an alternate buy of Circus Boy (Thurs., 7:30 p.m.), which moves from NBC-TV to ABC-TV Sept. 19.

Included in Kellogg’s sponsorship, effective Sept. 30, are Woody Woodpecker on Saturdays every week, the four other in the daytime strip on alternate weeks (Superman on Mondays, Wild Bill Hickok Tuesdays, Steve Bancelor Wednesdays and Buckeye Fridays). Mars Inc. is alternate sponsor of Circus Boy.

James W. Beach, ABC-TV’s central division vice president, described the purchase as the network’s largest combination multiple daytime-nighttime program sale, and noted that Kellogg wanted to spread its broadcast schedule over a greater range of shows. The advertiser had been sponsoring Superman and Wild Bill Hickok on a spot basis.

ALL DIVISIONAL offices of Cunningham & Walsh Inc. have discontinued the use of individual names and assume identity with C&W. Affected are Brissacher Wheeler Div., San Francisco, and Mayers Div., Los Angeles, which had merged with C&W at the start of this year.

John P. Cunningham, president of C&W, said the decision to drop divisional names was made at a meeting of the agency’s National Management Committee in San Francisco at the request of the heads of the divisions (Franklin C. Wheeler and Henry Mayers). Initially, company names of the absorbed agencies were retained for “goodwill purposes.” C&W also has offices in New York, Chicago (where it has merged with Beaumont & Holman), Hollywood and Houston (mostly for servicing C&W’s Texaco account).

"There I was flying along like a bat out of heaven," said this sore angel. "There was a stack of nimbostratus stretching for miles right across my course and I was late. My flight plan called for two thousand feet but I figured what the hell and dropped down a bit to fly under the stuff when splat!"

"What happen?" asked the dispatcher.

"What happen? I fly smack into the WMT-TV tower my map says was blown over last winter."

"You been skipping Bulletins again. It was on the last All-Angel release—the tower's going up again and it'll be full of juice any minute. You lucky your wings weren't scorched. Get on the ball or He'll ground you again."
THIS WAY!
It's a changing world. Along with fashions, home appliances and the shifting sands of the desert, the American language never stays put. Hardly anyone says "Pardon my wet glove" any more. Or "23 Skiddoo!" Or even "The cat's pajamas."

The language of television, too, periodically gets itself turned upside down. Take the phrase "network quality," for instance. Years ago (like 1956), "network quality" was the expression everybody was using. It meant the best you could hope for—if you were a national advertiser with matching budget. Even TV film syndicators wistfully resorted to "network quality" when they wanted to make the biggest possible claim for their product.

When our syndicated submarine-adventure series, "The Silent Service," began, we kept in mind the fact that all TV-viewing is local. In any given time-period, the local, regional and spot-program advertiser has to be ready to compete with network shows, no matter how glittering their production values. We defined our market as those selfsame local, regional and spot advertisers exclusively. It was up to us to provide them with so prime a product, they could compete successfully for audience, whatever the competition might offer.

Well, "The Silent Service" is now happily under way the length and breadth of the land. In city after city, regardless of what the competing attractions are, the major audiences are going for the action, suspense and sheer believability of "The Silent Service." And coast to coast, the critics have written consistently complimentary reviews.

"Network quality?" That's one way of putting it. But today, there's a better way for non-network advertisers to describe television entertainment of the finest, most professional calibre. It's a way they can be proud of. Try saying it the modern, true-to-life, CNP way: "Syndication Quality!"
Universal, Columbia Said in 500-Film Deal

UNIVERSAL PICTURES Co., New York, which to date has been one of the two Hollywood studios holding back its product from tv syndication—the other being Paramount Pictures Corp.—last week was reported to have signed a 10-year pact with one of its rivals, Columbia Pictures Corp. The deal—the existence of which was hotly denied by Universal—reportedly would give distribution rights to cover 500 pre-1949 films to Columbia's tv subsidiary, Screen Gems Inc. The price tag was reported at $18-20 million.

Universal officials, who only seven weeks ago intimated that announcement of such a leasing contract was but a matter of weeks away [BET, May 6], this time preferred to say absolutely nothing. In fact, they claimed to "know nothing" of such a deal, and the company's president, Milton Rackmil, even went so far to say that published reports of U-SG talks were "false... and misleading."

Screen Gems officials merely said that "any comment" concerning such negotiations as were indicated to have transpired "would have to come from Mr. Rackmil's office."

A U-SG pact could bring the Columbia tv company's library to well over 1,500 features, thus making it the biggest—numerically—syndicator in the industry. Earlier this year, SG, which also produces its own pictures (for Playhouse 90 and such series as The 77th Bengal Lancers and Father Knows Best), purchased Hygo-Unity Tv and its 400 features. Currently, it distributes close to 200 Columbia theatrical releases and has 400 others as yet untouched.

Universal, which has declared itself to be unalterably opposed to outright sale of its film products, has in effect followed in the footsteps of 20th Century-Fox Film Corp., which last year licensed National Telefilm Assoc. to distribute various packages of its feature films, released at intervals. The other majors either have sold the backlog, i.e. Warner Bros. to Associated Artists Productions and RKO to Matty Fox' C&C Television Corp., or have set up their own distribution organizations, i.e. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Columbia, United Artists Corp.

Universal has been "studying" no less than 10 offers over the past three months. Reportedly, next to Columbia Screen Gems' offer, the most lucrative was the one proposed by Sy Weintraub's Flamingo Films, but this was negated after Mr. Weintraub sold his interest in Flamingo (see story, p. 46). For the time being, Universal will not enlarge its tv operations. It now produces tv commercials for advertisers and agencies through its tv subsidiary, Universal TV (formerly called United World Films).

Video Tape Won't Replace Movie Films Soon—Niles

VIDEO tape will prove to be the "spinning jenny" of the electronic revolution but is not likely to replace motion picture film for several years, Fred A. Niles, president of Fred A. Niles Productions, asserted last fortnight.

He also expressed belief that the "film specialist is as outdated as the iconoscope tv camera" and claimed more and more advertising agencies are permitting the film producer to use his knowledge and skill in working on tv commercials. Few agencies bring in a finished, complete and approved storyboard and many are allowing producers to create the film at the start.

Addressing a week-long film seminar conducted by his Chicago-Hollywood production firm, Mr. Niles stated: "Today's film producer, if he wants to stay in business, has to be an advertising man, a research man, an expert in the complex film business, and he should have knowledge of the entire national economic picture if he deals in industrial films, and should know distribution problems, marketing analysis and the myriad categories in the marketing field."

Mr. Niles asserted that, despite "several handicaps at the present time," video tape will cause "the biggest of all upheavals" in television and motion picture industries. An even greater revolution with heavier impact on advertising, he predicted, will be "widespread use of toll tv."

Citing video tape's "handicaps," Mr. Niles noted only one manufacturer (Ampex Corp.) has resolved certain problems and felt machines haven't been developed "with enough uniformity" yet for producing a tape in one city and shipping it to another for reproduction on a different machine by the same manufacturer. A third problem, he added, is that of editing, although this will be resolved.

"Motion pictures will flourish as never before via pay tv," Mr. Niles declared. "But most importantly, pay-as-you-go television will change the whole cost per thousand to such a degree that borrowing costs, money spent on commercial campaigns, listening habits, all will be so drastically altered that the whole medium of television will feel it's been hit by a tornado."

Some 500 film, agency and allied field representatives attended the film seminar at Niles's studios in Chicago, with sessions devoted to technical and creative work, animation special effects and opticals, photography and color and writing and direction [BET, June 3].

Glassley Among Appointments In All-Scope Expansion Move

CHESTER GLASSLEY, former president of Five-Star Productions, Hollywood producer of tv commercials, has joined All-Scope Pictures, commercial film division of TCF-TV, tv subsidiary of 20th Century-Fox Film Corp., as associate producer and assistant to Gordon S. Mitchell, All-Scope president.

Other additions to the All-Scope staff include Penrod Dennis, formerly with Young & Rubicam, who will serve as production coordinator; Joseph Orlando, formerly with Five Star, who will be Mr. Glassley's assistant, and Howard Finch, also from Five Star, who will be an editorial assistant.

In announcing the new personnel, Mr. Mitchell said they were brought in as part of an expansion program in commercial film production at All-Scope, which is reported to be "enjoying an unprecedented boom in business at a time when commercial film production is usually at a low ebb."

Commercial now in production by All-Scope include films for Kaiser Aluminum Hour through Young & Rubicam; Steve Allen Show for Greyhound Bus; Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp. (Kaiser Alumi-

THEATRE TV NEWS

A NEW "first" is reported with tv newfilm being shown theatrically in Los Angeles' newsreel movie house, called "The Newsrel Theater." Showings of CBS newfilm reportedly are made 8-10 times per day, with the theater supplied with full newfilm service. The film is projected by 16mm equipment. CBS Newsfilm reported it will sell film similarly to any other theatre that wants to order it. The obvious stumbling block, however, is the fact that theatres as a rule are equipped for 35mm film but not 16mm.

Continental Thrift Co. To Buy Flamingo Films

NEGOTIATIONS were being completed last week for the sale of the assets of Flamingo Films, New York tv film production-distribution company, to Continental Thrift Co., Los Angeles financing firm, for an estimated $3 million. The transaction calls for Continental's assumption of the negative rights and distribution rights of various Flamingo serials and feature films.

Sy Weintraub, executive vice president of Flamingo, confirmed he had already sold out his 30% interest in the company, but could not provide information on the disposition of the remainder of the company's stock. It was reported that Joseph Harris and his son, James, who each own 30%, and David Wolpert, who owns 10%, shortly would sign over their interest.

Mr. Weintraub already has established new offices in New York. Although he declined to discuss his future plans, it is understood he will associate himself with producer Bernard Schubert, with a new company to be formed. Under this projected alliance, Mr. Schubert will provide the film product which Mr. Weintraub and his staff will distribute. Mr. Weintraub has available to him many of the key staffers from Flamingo Films, it was said.

Among the Flamingo properties to be acquired by Continental Thrift are Superman, Stars of the Grand Ole Opry, Beulah, Top Secret, and a library of westerns, feature films, cartoons, and short subjects.

Joseph Harris is in England where film production is proceeding on O.S.S., a filmed series included in the transaction, which will be presented on ABC-TV in the fall with the Mennen Co. as sponsor. It is believed Continental Thrift will sub-contract the film for sales by various distributors.

Flamingo Films has had a varied career since it was formed by Joseph Harris and Sy Weintraub in 1949. In the intervening years, it merged originally with Associated Artists Productions and then was bought out by Motion Pictures for Television, headed by Matthew Fox. In 1953, it was associated from MPTV and was reorganized by Messrs. Weintraub and Harris. Although no reason was given for the breakup of the long association between Mr. Weintraub and Mr. Harris, it is reported Mr. Weintraub felt the expansion rate of the company had not kept pace with the growth of the industry as a whole.

Details of Mr. Weintraub's association with Bernard L. Schubert Inc. and the exact form the new corporation will assume are expected to be announced this week. The Schubert organization currently holds distribution rights to Tv Reader's Digest, Mr. & Mrs. North, Movie Quick Quiz, Cross Roads (on ABC-TV) and Topper (NBC-TV).

Mr. Weintraub is owner of WKIT Minneapolis, N. Y., and president and part owner of KMG-TV Minneapolis.

MCA-TV Signs to Syndicate 'Mickey Spillone' to Series

MCA-TV has signed a contract for the Mickey Spillone series, which will be its major entry in the tv syndication field, the firm announced last week. Thirty-nine half hours, now in production at Revue Productions, will be offered to stations and advertisers for regional and local sponsorship.

The MCA-Spillone deal climaxes many months of industry bidding for tv rights to the popular detective stories. Mr. Spillone will participate in the production of the series and will join with MCA and Revue in selecting the star of the series.

WOR-TV Signs Ziv Re-run Deal

In what was said to be the largest single contract to be drawn between Ziv's Economee TV and a major tv station, WOR-TV New York last week signed a contract for $500,000 for Ziv re-run films for multiple showings.

Pierre Weis, Ecotomee TV general manager, said seven programs will be turned over to WOR-TV to be programmed this fall in afternoon and evening time periods. The series and number of episodes included in the contract are Science Fiction Theatre (78), Favorite Story (78), Meet Corliss Archer (39), Eddie Cantor Show (39), Your Television Theatre (39), Boston Blackie (58) and Times Square Playhouse (39).

NBC Television Series Meet

THE sales force of NBC Television Films, division of California National Productions (NBC subsidiary) will meet July 12 for clinical sessions at the Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. During the two-day meeting, the salesmen will hear talks by Robert D. Levitt, president; Jack Keever, sales director; and CNP directors Robert A. Anderson, business affairs, Robert A. Cidner, programs, and Arthur Perles, promotion.

FILM PRODUCTION

Walt Disney Productions, Hollywood, announced production of six full-length programs under title of "The Saga of Andy Burnett" for ABC-TV's Disneyland series next season.

Dayton Productions announces new western series, Trackdown. Series, to be made in co-operation with Texas Rangers, will be filmed by Four Star Films and will start in September on CBS-TV as Friday, 8-8:30 p.m. program. It will be co-sponsored by American Tobacco Co. and Socony-Mobil Oil Co. Vincent M. Fennelly, formerly producer for Allied Artists, will be producer of new series.

International Telemeter Takes Bids From Firms on C-C Pay Tv

INTERNATIONAL Telemeter has submitted its closed-circuit toll tv system to manufacturers for bids, Barney Balaban, president of the parent Paramount Pictures Corp., told stockholders in New York last fortnight [B & T, June 10].

The "cable" or wire approach, Mr. Balaban said, has some favorable aspects that point to it as being the "most effective in getting pay tv off the ground quickly" [B & T, March 25]. The wired system, he said, would fit into its on-air pay tv. He said Paramount would have more to say about its plans in a filing with FCC (expected there July 8). Mr. Balaban also reaffirmed Paramount's faith in a "cash" system of subscription tv.

A Paramount Pictures Corp. shareholder asked Mr. Balaban if Telemeter had made any overtures to the well-counted Dodgers or to the New York Giants. Mr. Balaban said Telemeter was "keeping in close touch with the situation" but that "it is not a good policy to discuss publicly what we are deeply involved in."

Video Theatres Names Nemec

VIDEO Independent Theatres Inc., community tv antenna operator and theatre circuit in the southwest, last week announced that Boyce Nemec, New York film and television consultant, has been retained to plan studio operations and programming of it's city-wide television system now being installed in Bartlesville, Okla. [B & T, June 10].

C. O. Fulgham, video vice president of studio construction is expected to be completed in early July, equipment installation finished by July 25 and three wired program channels in operation by mid-August. Mr. Fulgham said the planned service will give home subscribers three channels of programs "unaffected by atmospheric disturbances, no commercial announcements on a regular daily basis."

Two of the channels, he reported, will deliver first-run and subsequent run feature films, while the third channel will provide continuous programming of news, weather, sports, time and high fidelity music.

BMI Advances Burton, Others

AS PART of a series of promotions at Broadcast Music Inc. last week, Robert J. Burton, vice president in charge of writer and publisher relations, was advanced to the newly-created post of vice president in charge of domestic performing rights administration. Herbert Sour, assistant vice president in charge of publisher relations, assumes the title and duties relinquished by Mr. Burton.

Other appointments: Mrs. Theodora Zavin to assistant vice president in charge of publisher relations; Richard L. Kirk to assistant vice president in charge of publisher and writer relations at BMI's Hollywood office; Edward J. Molinelli to comptroller and Robert J. Higgins to assistant secretary while continuing as assistant treasurer.

FROM the monthly audience surveys of American Research Bureau, B&W each month lists the 10 top selected to represent all parts of the country with rated syndicated film programs in 10 major markets, various degrees of competition. Despite all precautions, occasional errors will occur in these tables, due to use of the same program name for both a syndicated and a network series and the practice of some stations of substituting local titles (such as [advertiser] Theatre) for real program names.
So that we can continually line up business for our stations, all of us go out on the job and make calls; this means all of the partners who head up this firm as well as the members of our staff. We have been told that this is somewhat unusual in the "representative" business, but our stations like it that way. They are always sure that they are getting personal attention from the working partners who head up this firm. This, plus the fact that we have selected our staff on a basis of maturity, experience and selling background in this field, means that when there is a job to be done, "we always send a man to do it."

CLEAR BACK UNDER FCC STUDY

- FCC meets Friday to review 70-page staff report
- Twelve-year-old case involves fate of Class I stations

The FCC on Friday of this week takes its long-awaited, hard look at the decade-old clear channel case. The Commission will meet in special session on that day to review a 70-page staff report which will be used as a guide to a possible outcome which may affect the nature of standard broadcasting in the United States. Possibly the first major realignment of am broadcasting since the reallocation of 1941.

The Commission has two decisions to make. The first is whether to maintain the status quo (24 Class 1-A and 21 Class 1-B clear channel frequencies) or to change the use of these classifications.

The Class 1-A stations occupy a clear channel frequency at nighttime with no other outlet on their band. The Class 1-B stations occupy clear channel frequencies, but there are usually two on a single clear channel at night. There are 35 Class 1-B stations operating.

The clear channel case began in 1945. Hearing were held in 1946. Since then many corollary aspects have been added: daytime skywave, daytime broadcasters, KOB, among others.

Daytime skywave entered the picture when it was discovered that the nighttime skywave phenomenon (by which standard broadcast stations can cover large areas) actually began up to two hours before sunset and continued up to two hours after sunrise.

The daytime broadcasters' request is for permission to begin operating at 5 a.m. or sunrise whichever is earlier and to cease broadcasting at 7 p.m. or sunset, whichever is later. At present they are licensed to operate from local sunrise to sunset.

The KOB case began in 1940 when that Albuquerque station was assigned to 1180 kc. This was changed to 1030 kc when Mexico gave protection on 1180 kc. KOB has been operating temporarily on 770 kc since then. WABC New York is the Class 1-A station on 770 kc and has been fighting to remove KOB from that assignment. WBZ Boston is the Class 1-B station on 1030 kc. The FCC is officially under a court order to find a permanent home for KOB.

The document before the FCC makes no recommendations, it is understood, but does point up certain alternatives. It is certain that the staff has pointed out there is need for more adequate coverage in the large rural areas of the nation's mountain states and southwest area. Also, the staff report has said that there is a lack of primary signals in these areas, most particularly at night.

There are a number of ways to spread primary service—and which were at the heart of the clear channel case when it was first put out as a rule-making proposal by the FCC in February 1945.

The "white areas" can be given better service through the use of higher power. At present 50 kw is the maximum permitted any U. S. station. This is due to the 1938 Senate resolution expressing the sentiment that U. S. stations be limited to 50 kw. There has been talk of 500 kw or 750 kw power (and in 1945 under an experimental grant WLO Cincinnati on 700 kc transmitted with this power and blanketed virtually the entire country.

If clear channel stations were reassigned—nearer to the areas that needed more adequate coverage—that could accomplish one of the aims.

Or if some Class 1-A frequencies were to have two clear channel stations on them at night, instead of only one as now, that might serve to give coverage to so-called white areas.

The key points where additional clear channels might be located, it is understood, are in areas of Wyoming, Montana and New Mexico.

In many minds the present utilization of Class 1-A stations—at existing power limitations—is insufficient. If the Commission's policy will be to maintain this practice, it is the view of many close to the clear channel picture that the FCC must permit higher powers. This would accomplish a basic purpose; coverage of area now underserved.

Others see the solution only in the duplication of 1-A channels, or in a combination of higher powers and duplication.

An interesting sidelight is the international agreements—principally the North American Regional Broadcast Agreement—which classify the 1-A and 1-B channels in the region. It is felt in some quarters that although the FCC might permit duplication on the 1-A channels, it should not change their classification.

It is also felt in many quarters, it is understood, that additional information, principally engineering data, must be secured before a final determination can be made. This means, it is the view, that further rule-making notices must be issued.

There has been some sentiment, it is learned, to solve the KOB situation by itself, without regard to the rest of the clear channel case. This is opposed by many who argue that the whole clear channel case must be wrapped up in one package. The hearing on the KOB case has recently been concluded and an initial decision may be forthcoming soon.

Last year, following the court order in the KOB case, it was understood that there was strong sentiment at the Commission to close out the clear channel proceeding.

Also contributing to the FCC's wish to clear up the 12-year-old proceeding is the forthcoming 1959 International Telecommunications Conference in Geneva. November 1950 a new NARBA was agreed to by all North American countries except Mexico and Haiti. An agreement with Mexico was reached earlier this year. Both the NARBA convention and the Mexican treaty have still to be confirmed by the Senate.

Doerfer Denies Intent To Disparage Movies

IN A rapid exchange of letters last week, FCC Comr. John C. Doerfer told Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Assn. of America, that he [Doerfer] had "no intention to disparage the American movie industry" in statements made to a reporter for International News Service.

Mr. Johnston, in a letter dated June 8, to Doerfer with statements attributed to the FCC commissioner, stating that one "...is not only historically inaccurate, but it is a complete distortion of current facts."

The newspaper article quoted Mr. Doerfer as saying that "the much-maligned U. S. television industry is actually lifting American cultural standards and 'cleaning up' Hollywood movies." The article also stated that Mr. Doerfer said tv is lessening racial and religious prejudices by voluntarily banning snide references to minority groups, in sharp contrast to the movies of 10 or 20 years ago.

Mr. Doerfer was quoted as saying it is "remarkable" how clean and inoffensive radio-tv programs are compared with the movies to which parents used to send their children. "Because Hollywood film producers know that tv will not buy films which are offensively sexy or shady, movies are automatically being cleaned up for living room consumption."

It was this quote which Mr. Johnston claimed was a complete distortion of facts. The MPAA head said the NARTB Tv Code has "little or nothing to do with the program content of movies made especially for television viewing and nothing at all to do with the program content of feature films shown on television... "The fact is that the television code... is patterned after our own motion picture code. But whereas the motion picture code has effective enforcement machinery, there is no enforcement machinery so far as program content is concerned for television filmed material. It is a rare TV licensee who exercises any control over program content of filmed materials he broadcasts."
Time was when trail blazing was done in the wilderness. Today the men in the gray flannel suits are looking to New Haven, Connecticut (and other cities for that matter) where outstanding radio advertising results have been pioneered.

In New Haven all trails for advertising results lead to WAVZ. Local advertisers, who measure results in their cash registers, led the way. It didn't take the national advertisers and their agencies long to catch up with what was happening.

LET THE TECHNIQUES DEVELOPED BY WAVZ PRODUCE FOR YOU.

Mr. Johnston said that he does not believe there is any factual basis for a "contrast" between the roles played by television and movies in fighting racial and religious prejudices. "Certainly you [Doerfer] cannot mean to suggest that the movies, 10 or 20 years ago, fostered, promoted, or condoned bigotry. The fact is that movies were among the first mass cultural mediums, if not the first, to take active steps to promote and build up racial and religious understanding. Our industry is rightly proud of this magnificent record and can only resent unfounded slurs upon it," Mr. Johnston stated. Comr. Doerfer replied in a letter dated Tuesday that he did not intend to "disparage the American motion picture industry." However, he said, "many complaints about crime, violence, etc. on television were based upon the broadcasting of old movies." He also said that many old films have been rejected by TV while others have been edited and clipped before showing.

On Jan. 4, the commissioner said, the TV code was adopted by the Alliance of TV Film producers and the formal signing was accompanied by a statement indicating the "sincere desire of the producers to voluntarily conform their product with the code's recommendations." He said he regretted that his statements about deletions and editing of old film had been interpreted as an "unfounded slur" on the movie industry.

Mr. Johnston replied to Comr. Doerfer's letter on Wednesday, pointing out that one of the points of his letter had been "misread." It was the implication that movies have contributed to "racial and religious prejudices" that the film industry resented as an "unfounded slur," he said.

WIP Drops Protest to FCC

On WPFF (TV) Transmitter Move

WIP Philadelphia last week withdrew its protest against ch. 12 WPFF (TV) Wilming-ton's almost-completed transmitter move from downtown Wilmington to Pittman, N. J., some seven miles closer to the Philadelphia market, largely, WPFF said, because the issue has become academic.

The WIP request for FCC dismissal of its protest said WPFF's corporate parent, Storer Broadcasting Co., would reimburse it for "actual out-of-pocket expenses." The petition added that WIP "has no further interest in the proceeding." Last March, in addition to WPFF, Storer also bought WIBG-AM-FM Philadelphia for $5.6 million, a purchase subsequently protested by minority stockholders who unsuccessfully appealed to the courts.

THURMOND WOULD OUTLAW PAY TV

ANOTHER blow to advocates of pay TV was struck last week by Sen. Strom Thur-mond (D-S.C.) who introduced a bill ($2268) in the Senate which would prohib-it the charging of a fee to view tele-casts in the home.

Sen. Thurmond, a member of the Senate Commerce Committee and its communica-tions subcommittee, said that he had been considering the question of charg-ing home viewers for their TV pro-grams for some time. He felt that the result of "permitting pay television to be used generally would be the same as having the Congress impose a new tax on the people of this country."

The bill, identical to one introduced in the House (HR 586) by Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) last January, would amend the Communications Act to state that the FCC "shall not authorize or permit any television station to impose a toll, fee, subscription, or other charge, directly or indirectly, on the general public for the privilege of viewing television programs received over television sets located in the home." It would provide for a fine up to $10,000, imprisonment for not more than five years, or both.

Sen. Thurmond's office reported that he introduced the bill in view of the "prevailing situation," making reference to stories in the press on the role pay TV has played in the reportedly planned moves of the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants to the West Coast (B&T, June 10, 3).

"Several pay TV interests have been lobbying for the approval of their plans for several years. Their motive is 'profit,'" Sen. Thurmond said. "My interest is the public interest, and I believe that actions should be taken now to protect the public from having to pay for TV."

The South Carolina senator said that if the FCC is permitted to grant approval for experimental pay television, "then we [Con-gress] must face the fact that it would be most difficult later to tell the experimenters, who had spent millions of dollars, that pay television had been classified as against the public interest."

The one sure thing about pay TV is that it would cost the public more than the present system costs, Sen. Thurmond said, and that there is no proof the public would be provided with better programs if pay TV is authorized. There is no assurance, he stated, that pay TV would supplement, rather than replace, the present free system. He expressed the fear that programs now seen free would be bought up by the producers of pay TV who then would charge a fee to viewers.

WMIB Inc. Gets Setback

In Fight to Keep Peoria Ch. 8

THE FCC last week denied WMIB Inc.'s plea for rehearing or reconsideration in its attempt to keep ch. 8 in Peoria, Ill. Commission told WMIB to file engineering data within 30 days for use of ch. 31 in Peoria. Construction of the station cannot begin until "specific authorization" for ch. 31 is granted, the Commission said. Channel 8 was shifted to Davenport-Rock Island-Moline, Ill., in deintermixture proceedings. Comr. Craven abstained from voting.

In a corollary case KRNT-TV (operating on ch. 8 in Des Moines, Iowa) was denied reconsideration in its try to stop the shifting of ch. 8 to Davenport-Rock Island-Moline. Also denied was KRNT-TV's request that any applicant for ch. 8 (in Davenport-Rock Island-Moline) should locate its transmitter 190 miles from KRNT-TV's and at such a location that KRNT-TV could move its transmitter east far enough to allow a 1,000 ft. dish to be constructed. Comrs. Doerfer and Mack abstained from voting: Comr. Craven was absent.

Other allocations actions last week were:
- Association of Maximum Service Tele-casters Inc. was turned down in its petition for a 30-day extension of time to file reply comments to the modified "Craven plan," with FCC's last complete channel assignment table (excluding educational reservations, any reservation within 250 miles of the Canadian border or any vhf reservation within 250 miles of the Mexican border [B&T, June 10]). Reply comments are due tomorrow (Tuesday). Comrs. Hyde and Lee favored a two-week extension. Comr. Cofield was absent.
- The Commission has shifted ch. 12 from Coeur d'Alene to Moscow, Idaho, effective July 15.
- FCC asks comments by July 15, to WDAK-TV's (ch. 28, Columbus, Ga.) pro-posal to substitute ch. 62 for ch. 4 in Co-lumbus. Comrs. Doerfer and Craven dis-sented.

Senate, House Agree On FCC, FTC Fund Cuts

THE SENATE last week agreed with earlier House cuts on both the FCC and Federal Trade Commission 1958 appropriations and sent the over-all Independent Offices bill to joint conference without heeding White House pressure to restore the funds for which it had originally asked.

The Administration had sought $8,950,000 for the FCC but Congress decided on $8,300,000, a figure which nonetheless is $472,000 more than FCC got for fiscal 1957. However, an additional $472,000 will be all but erased by the $455,000 which the FCC must contribute to its employe retirement fund for the first time.

At the same time the Senate Appropriations Committee noted "that the report of the special network study being conducted by the FCC is to be submitted on or about June 30, 1957. In view of the fact that the special appropriation earmarked for this study expires [then], the committee expects the Commission to use the appropriation herein for completion of this study or any implementation thereof necessary."

The Senate approved $5,950,000 for the FTC, $2,625,000 sought by the White House. But this figure also exceeded the amount granted for fiscal 1957 by $400,000.

Meanwhile, a mangled U. S. Information Agency (parent of the Voice of America) budget was on President Eisenhower's desk after Senate and House negotiators trimmed the USA's fiscal 1958 budget by $96.2 million for its 1958 expenses, considerably less than the $144 million requested.

Four TV Firms Ordered To Court re FCC Subpoenas

FOUR television film companies last Monday were ordered by Federal Judge Richard H. Levit to appear in court in New York on June 25 to show cause why they should not be compelled to produce certain records requested by the Network Study Committee of the FCC.

The action followed a refusal by the four companies earlier that day to answer FCC subpoenas requiring the filing of information and records with the committee. Thereupon, FCC Chief Hearing Examiner James D. Cunningham, who presided at a hearing in New York in connection with the subpoenas, sought court action.

The four producer-distributors—Screen Gems, Ziv Television Programs, MCA-TV Ltd. and Revue Productions—were part of a group of seven companies that originally ignored the subpoenas and tried unsuccessfully to have them quashed. On May 27, Television Programs of America, Official Films Inc. and Entertainment Productions Inc. agreed to supply the information requested by FCC and were given time until last Thursday to file the data with the Commission's Network Study Committee. Proceedings on their subpoenas were adjourned until today (Monday).

The heads of the four recalcitrant film companies did not appear personally before Examiner Cunningham. Instead, their attorneys responded, replying that their clients would not appear on advice of counsel that the FCC lacked jurisdiction over the film companies.

Florida Vhf Decisions Upheld By FCC in Staff Instructions

The FCC last Thursday instructed its staff on the preparation of documents involving two Miami television stations, one in Jacksonville, Fla., and twodietintermixture decisions. The instructions would:
- Deny a petition for trusteeship operation of ch. 7 WCKT (TV) Miami, filed by losing applicant East Coast TV Corp., and deny a petition filed by ch. 17 WITV (TV) Fort Lauderdale (losing applicant) to force WCKT to suspend operations. Ch. 7 was granted to Biscayne TV Corp. and the Court of Appeals has ruled the Commission erred in not considering a contract between Niles Trammell, one of its principals, and NBC. Mr. Trammell also is a former president of NBC. The Commission currently is studying what action to take following the court decision, but last week's staff instructions would leave the grant to Biscayne in effect.
- Deny petitions for rehearing, reconsideration and reopening of the record in the Feb. 7 grant of ch. 10 (WPST-TV) Miami to Public Service TV Inc. (wholly-owned subsidiary). Petitions were filed by ch. 10 losing applications North Dade Video Inc., L. B. Wilson Inc. and WKAT Miami. Also to be denied would be a petition by WITV seeking similar relief as the other petitioners.
- Deny a petition filed by WPQQ Jackson- sonville (losing applicant) requesting reconsideration of the Commission's Aug. 31, 1956, grant of ch. 12 Jacksonville to Florida-Georgia TV Co. (WFGA-TV). WPQQ had charged that one of the WFGA-TV principals, 19% owner Harold Cohn, formerly associated with gambling interests.
- Deny various petitions seeking reconsideration of the Commission's decision in making Springfield, Ill., all uhf by shifting ch. 2 (WMAY-TV) to St. Louis and Terre Haute, Ind., and assigning ch. 36, formerly held by KTVI (TV) St. Louis, to Springfield. In shifting the channels [BWT, March 41], the Commission gave WMY-A ch. 36 and KTVI temporary use of ch. 2.
- Deny petitions for reconsideration of Commission action in shifting ch. 7 (WTVV (TV)) from Evansville, Ind., to Louisville and reassignment of ch. 9 Hatfield, Ind., to Evansville for educational use. WVJS-TV Hatfield currently holds an Initial decision for ch. 9.
- Institute rulemaking looking toward the shift of ch. 10 Terre Haute (WTHI-TV) to Lafayette, Ind. This move was requested by ch. 59 WFAM-TV Lafayette. With the assignment of ch. 2 to Terre Haute, WTHI-TV applied for Commission authorization to operate on that channel.

The FCC said that these staff instructions are merely preliminary steps and do not constitute a final action by the Commission in the various cases.

ALA Says Networks 'Censored' Celler Unit's Network Report

The Authors League of America Inc. last week charged the major radio and television networks with "censorship" in their alleged failure to cover as news the report of House Judiciary Antitrust Subcommittee (Celler report) [BWT, June 10]. The league sent telegrams to the networks stating in part:

The leading newspapers of the country gave this report front-page coverage. The broadcasting networks imposed a virtual blackout on this important news. . . . It [the league] deplores the blackout because it constitutes an act of censorship.

"The Judiciary Committee's conclusions related in part to practices of the broadcasters in connection with alleged discrimination against writers and composers of music, many of whom are members of our organization. But beyond protecting our members' rights, the Authors League believes that any censorship by the broadcasters is a threat to the freedom of all creative artists, and to the nation as a whole.

"The Songwriters Protective Assn. hailed the findings of the Celler report phase dealing with the practices of the broadcasting industry in the music field. The report corroborates SPA's long standing position that music on the air "is dominated by networks and stations through Broadcast Music Inc.," the association stated.

NBB issued a short statement on the Celler report last Monday [At DEADLINE, June 10], but both ABC and CBS have issued "no comment." "No comment" also came from Broadcast Music Inc. and American Society of Composers, Authors & Publishers, two other organizations covered in the report.

ABN Appeals FCC's Approval Of KOB-AM-TV Sale to KSTP

The American Broadcasting Company network last week filed an appeal in the U. S. Appeals Court, Washington, against the FCC's May 8 grant of the sale of KOB-AM-TV Albuquerque, N. M. from Time Inc. and Wayne Trammell to KSTP Inc. [BWT, May 13]. American claimed the Commission denied its protest of April 13 on the ground the network had no standing to object to the sale.

At issue is American's 16-year-long fight against the use of 770 kc by KOB. Before KOB's sale to KSTP was granted, American asked that three conditions be attached: That the grant is made subject to any ruling made in the KOB case; that the new owners pledge to carry out the Commission's order requiring directional operation at night to protect WABC New York (also on 770 kc). and that the new owners be enjoined from using a 1944 FCC application to break down 770 kc. The Commission, although denying American's protest, on its own motion revised the language of its sale grant to include the first two conditions, but failed to mention the third. It is from this omission that American has appealed.

The KOB stations were sold to the KSTP organization (Stanley Hubbard) for $1.5 million.

EDWARD O. LAMB, multiple broadcaster, industrialist and erstwhile newspaper publisher, was cleared last week of association and affiliation with Communists and Communist-dominated organizations.

After a three-year battle, the one-time Toledo labor lawyer and civil rights advocate—now a multi-millionaire owner of various manufacturing enterprises—stood vindicated by the FCC.

Lone dissenter to the Commission’s action was Comr. Robert E. Lee. Mr. Lee did not write a dissent. Comr. John O. Doerfer, who was no doubt the one who vigorously urged the investigation and subsequent hearings into the charges against Mr. Lamb, was absent in the voting on the final FCC decision.

Basic issue in the far-reaching case was whether Mr. Lamb lied in various pleadings and affidavits filed with the FCC prior to the 1953 hearings by claiming that he had not knowingly associated with Communists or Communist-dominated organizations.

To the charges brought—and vigorously prosecuted by the Commission's Broadcast Bureau—the FCC found that there were serious doubts Mr. Lamb was a member of some of the organizations, where there was no real knowledge of what he knew of their Red-tinged leadership, and that in essentially all such associations and affiliations Mr. Lamb's previous disclaimers could not be characterized as overt misrepresentations.

The Commission's view coincided with those of FCC Hearing Examiner Herbert Sharfman, who in his initial decision issued in December 1955, found that Mr. Lamb could not be found guilty of the charges preferred.

At issue in the case, which drew national attention at the time, was the application for renewal of the license of ch. 12 WICU (TV) Erie, Pa.

The FCC’s action last week absolved Mr. Lamb of “false” allegations, and renewed WICU’s license.

In a subsidiary issue—the charge by Mr. Lamb that Broadcast Bureau attorneys had offered bribes and tried to “induce” witnesses in Toledo to testify against him—the Commission found that Mr. Lamb was guilty of reckless accusations. It absolved him, however, on the ground that the heat of his trial warped his judgment.

Although the FCC final decision relieved Mr. Lamb of all charges against him, it suggested in “one” section that there were some questions regarding the candor of his testimony during the hearings.

The first inkling of the Commission’s renewed interest in Mr. Lamb’s associations in 1945 and up to 1944 came in December 1953 when these questions were raised in an application for tv filed by WHOO Orlando, Fla., also owned by Mr. Lamb. In March 1954 the Commission sent Mr. Lamb a McFarland letter regarding the license renewal application of WICU. Mr. Lamb answered this in April 1954, categorically denying membership in or affiliation with the Communist Party or organizations affiliated with it. He iterated previous denials of such associations.

In June 1954 a hearing was designated, beginning Sept. 15 of that year and running intermittently until May 24, 1955. The hearings—some of the stormiest in FCC annals—took up 7,000 printed pages and some two million words. During the hearings, 36 witnesses testified and one, Mrs. Marie Natvig, later was convicted on perjury. She was recently given a suspended sentence (see May 6).

In several instances Broadcast Bureau witnesses recanted their testimony. Opposing attorneys on occasions shouted at each other during examination and cross-examination during the hearing. At one point, Mrs. Natvig threatened to throw a pitcher at John Russell Brown, one of Mr. Lamb’s attorneys.

Alied on Mr. Lamb’s side in addition to Mr. Brown were J. Howard McGrath, former attorney general of the United States, and Sen. Eastes Kefauver (D-Tenn). Mr. McGrath is also a business associate of Mr. Lamb’s.

The FCC Broadcast Bureau’s legal phalanx included at one time or another the following: Walter R. Powell, Thomas B. Fitzpatrick, Edward J. Brown, Joseph M. Kittner, Ashbrook P. Bryant and Arthur J. Schissel.

Mr. Lamb even took his fight to Capitol Hill. In June 1954, appearing before the Senate Commerce Committee on the confirmation of Mr. Doerfer, Mr. Lamb charged that the Republican Mr. Doerfer was “out to get me.” Mr. Lamb averred that the FCC charges were brought about by political antipathy. Mr. Lamb has run for office in Ohio on both the Democratic and Republican tickets.

The Commission found that Mr. Lamb’s connection with the American Committee for the Protection of the Foreign Born was not germane because that organization has not been officially designated as subversive by the attorney general.

It found that Mr. Lamb was affiliated with the International Labor Defense, which was ruled to be Communist-dominated, but that he had no real knowledge of this fact. “Accordingly,” the FCC said, “it is concluded that insofar as Mr. Lamb’s affiliation with the I.L.D is concerned his statements denying association with organizations advocating un-American principles, Communism or violent overthrow of the Government of the United States were not proven to be knowingly false.”

The Commission also found that although Mr. Lamb was affiliated with the American League Against War & Fascism, and that it was Communist-dominated, he was not aware of this and did not intentionally conceal his relationship with this organization from the FCC.

The FCC also found that Mr. Lamb did not know of the Communist control of the National Federation for Constitutional Liberties.

The Commission here raised some doubts regarding Mr. Lamb’s testimony. “While a disturbing lack of candor, and in a sense misrepresentation as well, are discerned in these representations as they bear on this particular organization, these elements in isolation are not in issue; the issue includes informed association with Communist organizations. A conclusion adverse to the applicant will not be drawn due to insufficient evidence that he knew, or must have known, the underlying purposes of the organization in question as found on this record.

The Commission found that Mr. Lamb's book, The Planned Economy in Soviet Russia, published in 1934 following Mr. Lamb's trip to Russia the preceding year, did not advocate Communism or a violent change of government in the United States. The FCC found that "reasonable men" may differ as to where description and analysis leave off and advocacy begins. Accordingly, the FCC found, it could not rule that Mr. Lamb willfully offered false testimony in denying that the book constituted an advocacy of Communism or of violence in changing government.

Although the Commission found that Mr. Lamb appeared at and spoke at the 1944 convention of Lincoln House in New York, headquarters of the Communist Political Assn. (the Communist Party changed from a party to an association in that year) and that he contributed to that group's coffers, it did not find that this established "in a substantial sense" the falsity of Mr. Lamb's claim that he never knowingly associated with Communists or Communist-dominated organizations.

The Commission dismissed entirely the charges relating to Mr. Lamb's association with a CIO Political Action Committee "Bandwagon" production promoting the 1944 candidacy of President Roosevelt.

The FCC also turned down the Broadcast Bureau request that Mr. Lamb's accusation of subordination of perjury and bribery on the part of FCC attorneys be grounds for refusal of license renewal.

Although finding adversely for Mr. Lamb on this score, the Commission felt it would be too harsh to revoke Mr. Lamb's license for his "careless acceptance" of such "un-founded allegations."

The basis for this part of the case stemmed from Mr. Lamb's appeal to the U.S. District Court in Washington to enjoin the FCC from holding its hearing. This appeal was dismissed by the lower court and upheld on appeal to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, though not exhausted his administrative remedies.

In addition to WICU and WHOO-AM-FM, Mr. Lamb also owns WIKK Erie, Pa.; WTOP and WTRF (FM) Toledo, Ohio, and holds a grant for ch. 23 WMAC-TV Masillon, Ohio. He also owned the Erie (Pa.) Dispatch, selling it earlier this year to the Erie Times interests for $1.25 million plus a building lease. Among Mr. Lamb's industrial holdings are Air-Way Electric Appliance Corp. of Toledo (gas and electric hot water heaters, vacuum cleaners), real estate in Toledo, Washington (D.C.) and Florida, and investments in insurance companies, advertising agencies, Seiberling Rubber Co. and General Motors.

OPEN CURTAIN' TV PROPOSED

A MAJOR diplomatic move in East-West relations, designed to replace Soviet Russia's Iron Curtain with an "open curtain" based on a periodic television exchange between the U.S. and USSR may follow in the wake of Communist Party Boss Nikita S. Khrushchev's now-famous interview over CBS-TV, June 2, from his Kremlin office [B&T, June 10].

The FCC found that "reasonable men" may differ as to where description and analysis leave off and advocacy begins.

In a June 8 speech before the United Jewish Appeal Conference in New York, Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) called for an "open curtain" between the U.S. and Russia, starting with "weekly appearances during this year on Soviet radio and television," and with similar facilities made available to the Congressists here.

Sen. Johnson said he is not among those who would fear such an exchange. "Let truth flow... freely," he declared, "I am a Jeffersonian."

Reaction to the Johnson speech was immediate and overwhelmingly favorable. At his June 11 press conference, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles called this an 18-month-old U.S. proposal for radio-tv broadcast trades with Russia, possibly of 30-min., monthly programs, is still open. Leading figures of the two nations could participate in these monthly broadcasts, Mr. Dulles intimated, but the U.S. would not be interested in a one-shot reply to Khrushchev's appearance.

The Washington Post & Times-Herald editorialized "There will be a great deal of support for... Johnson's proposal that the United States ought to press for fuller opportunities to state its case on disarmament and other issues to the Russian people. And most Americans will share Sen. Johnson's confidence that this country would have nothing whatever to fear from offering the Russians continuing and equivalent opportunities in the United States."

From the New York Post: "Frozen minds cry that debate with Khrushchev is as worthless as debate with Adolph Hitler would have been. They miss the point that the Soviet thrust is increasingly being pressed in ideological terms, and that the nature of nuclear weapons has altered all the dimensions of international conflict. In vast uncommitted areas the Communist mystique is infinitely more powerful, complex, and subtle than nazism ever was, and it must be met with something more than strident military posturings."

Wrote the Kansas City Star: "... Johnson was talking about a sound American method for studying—and not just passing on—how the Russians would not go along they would have to take the onus for continuing the Iron Curtain. As for the idealism in this approach we only suggest that it will be a sad day for America if it ever loses its innate liberalism in the search for eventual world peace."

William H. Stringer writing in the Christian Science Monitor: "... Joseph... has sounded an eloquent plea for imagination in foreign policy... for boldness in a radio-tv exchange of ideas between the United States and the Soviet Union... It should stir American thinking. The administration should welcome it."

There was some criticism of Secretary Dulles' response to Sen. Johnson's proposal. Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.) called Mr. Dulles' reaction to Sen. Johnson's speech "one of the poorest and most disappointing performances I have seen in many years... If American representatives have been "pressing" the Soviet Union for the "open curtain" proposal for the past 18 months, it is the best kept secret since the first atomic bomb was made."

Despite all this interest in an "open curtain," founded on the use of broadcast media, the question of how to get regular time on American radio and tv to pay for it was as yet unanswered, State Dept. officials said. They expressed doubt the Soviets are eager to accept a proposal they have thus far refused to accept. Western observers said, however, that the Russians are unlikely to reject the exchange plan outright because of Russia's program of expanding cultural ties with the West. They felt the Soviets might prefer to plug for individual projects rather than for a long-term, regular arrangement.

Rep. Harry G. Haskell Jr. (R-Del.) wired CBS President Frank Stanton, urging that Mr. Joseph Koevago, described as the last free mayor of Budapest, Hungary, be granted time to answer the "outright lies... against Soviet Communist Party Boss." Dr. Stanton refused the request, stating that CBS had already carried adequate comment by a group of experts on its June 9 Comment on Khrushchev, which "dealt with Khrushchev's distortions."

FCC Ends Simplexing Grants to Fms, Sets Final Cutoff

THE FCC Thursday gave fm stations currently simplexing their programming a reprieve of six months and at the same time announced it would make no more grants for simplex operation.

This is the third extension the FCC has given stations for the switchover from simplex to multiplex operation, first ordered in March 1955. Originally, stations were given until July 1, 1956, to make the change. This was later extended to July 1, 1957, and the latest extension gives fm stations still operating by simplex until Jan. 1, 1958, to switch to multiplex operation.

Using multiplex, an fm station can transmit functional music to business houses simultaneously with its regular operation; under simplex only one program can be carried at a time.

RCA ALONE IN COLOR TV FIELD

- No competing manufacturer in sight for color sets
- Setmaker comments predominantly negative, reticent

If color TV gets off the ground next fall it may have to be with clipped wings. Unanswered last week was the question of who among the majors, besides RCA, is going to make and offer color TV sets for sale next fall.

A process of elimination seems to be in progress. One manufacturer, Allen B. DuMont Labs, in the words of its founderboard chairman—Allen B. DuMont—thinks the mass market for color TV still is "premature" and it won't make any color sets this year. That would appear to rule out the possibility of DuMont premiering in the fall with a set using the Lawrence single-gun color tube.

Other leading set manufacturers in various ways have been reticent to join in any color tool-up. This includes General Electric, Zenith Radio Corp. and Motorola; in Chicago a spokesman for Motorola said the company planned no special color production in the fall and that production was in the "handful stage."

Admiral and Philco reportedly are in the doubtful column, principally because it takes money to promote color TV and neither company has been paying quarterly dividends. Westinghouse Electric, which has had a 22-inch glass tube color set, did not announce any departure from its limited production in disclosing its new line in Chicago last week.

As the New York Times headed a story Thursday on color TV manufacture: "Well, There Is RCA..."

John L. Burns, president of RCA, told newsmen in Los Angeles Wednesday that several major manufacturers are planning to get into color on a large scale in the fall (see story this page). A week earlier, Robert A. Seidel, RCA executive vice president, consumer products, had specified five "major manufacturing competitors" to be ready for "big pushes" in color next fall (B&T, June 10).

Dr. DuMont spoke at a New York showing of the new DuMont radio-5-mi receiver line. He was critical of color's style and design, noting, too, that color tubes are round—"If we had a round tube in black-and-white today, we couldn't give the sets away." For some time, Dr. DuMont publicly has put the color TV mass market off for some years—"The state of the art in color today is about like that of black-and-white 10-15 years ago," he reiterated Wednesday.

Tuning is difficult and there are an excessive number of adjustments for color TV sets, Dr. DuMont continued, describing a massive array of controls on color sets—three more on the front than on regular monochrome receivers; 12 on the back of the set; 12 for color inside the back of the set and 15 magnets to adjust around the picture tube. For the price of a color set today, the consumer can buy a hi-fi and black-and-white console model, a portable TV set and a couple of radios—"furnish entertainment for the whole house," he said.

While he believes eventually color developments will bring the medium to the mass markets, Dr. DuMont emphasized that monochrome is available for about a third of color's price and until the ratio is reduced considerably, DuMont will continue to concentrate on black-and-white production. The DuMont line included 17 receivers in 26 finishes, two combination TV-radio-hi-fi consoles and four hi-fi phonographs. Combinations sell for a suggested list of $1,200; lowest priced is a 17-inch portable set at $169.95.

Color TV Now Ready For Next Stage—Burns

COLOR television has "passed through the incubation stage" and is ready for the next period of rapid growth, RCA President John L. Burns said Wednesday at a news conference in Los Angeles, during his first visit to the city since he became president of RCA last March.

Admitting the process of bringing color TV to full flower "has taken longer than we anticipated," Mr. Burns said that the fact that this fall "at least a half-dozen of the major manufacturers are planning to get into color in a big way" is "a heartening development." It's tough for one company, no matter how large, to put over a project as big as one is, he noted, adding that RCA has already spent $100 million on color and "we'll spend whatever additional amount is necessary."

Competition among color set builders "will be a healthy thing for this new art and industry, just as it was for black-and-white television," Mr. Burns stated, but he said he could foresee no reduction in the price of color receivers in the near future. "We're losing money on every set we sell today," he commented, expressing the hope that RCA will get some of it back by selling components to the other set makers, who won't be able to undercut RCA in the retail price of color sets as long as they are dependent on RCA for components.

The cost of color sets is not a major deterrent to their distribution. Mr. Burns opined. Rather, he said, the problem is one of exposure. Too few people have seen color television, he said, and when they do they want it in their homes. He reported that during the five-week "Carnival of Color" test promotion campaign in Milwaukee in May [B&T, June 10] "TV sales increased almost 800%, from an average of 12 sets a week before the test to 106 sets a week."

"Home demonstrations resulted in sales of two sets or three cases, as compared with an average for the home appliance field of one out of three. We feel that the Milwaukee test demonstrated conclusively that public interest in color is higher than ever before, and that the public will buy color TV when the sets are properly exposed, demonstrated and promoted."

Mr. Burns said that there will be plenty of color programs on the air for set salesmen to use in their demonstrations. "This fall, NBC plans to convert practically all of its national nighttime attractions to color, with heavy concentration on the most-viewed and most-talked-about shows will stimulate even greater interest in color."

He admitted that colorcasts originating in the East and broadcast coast-to-coast via film recordings using a lenticular base film have produced inferior results for both color and black-and-white reception. Recent improvements in the process have "substantially raised the level of performance," he said, commenting that both RCA and Eastman Kodak are "aggressively working" on further improvements and that they'll continue until the quality is as good as that of the original live telecast.

RCA is also working hard on its "compatible" magnetic tape recording process.

Mr. Burns said. He declined to hazard a guess as to when this will be ready for use, but promised that as soon as it is ready "we will move" rapidly to introduce its use on the West Coast." The two Ampex black-and-white tape recorders installed at NBC's Hollywood headquarters already are handling delayed broadcasts of a number of NBC-TV programs on the West Coast, he said, and also pre-record Truth and Consequences each weekday for transmission to the East. Eight more machines, to be delivered in December and January, will augment this service to the West Coast and also will help out in the Mountain Time Zone, he said.

Mr. Burns, in a discussion of the electronics industry, which before World War II meant radio only but in the last decade has mushroomed. It is an industry serving the American home, business and government in many diverse ways, reported that RCA today is doing more than 80% of its business in products which did not exist 10 years ago and predicted that 10 years hence "50% of our business will be in products not now in existence." Last year RCA's volume of $11.6 billion out of the electronics industry total of $11.6 billion, Mr. Burns said, adding the "confident expectation" that both totals will be nearly double 10 years from now.

Standard Coil Sues GE on Tuner

LITIGATION against General Electric Co. has been started in U. S. District Court, New York, by Standard Coil Products Co., charging infringement of a patent on Cascade TV tuners. Standard states it is the largest tuner manufacturer and that the Cascade tuner was developed after long and costly research. It is described as having a low signal-to-noise ratio and as having risen quickly to nationwide popularity. The U. S. Patent Office recently settled Standard-RCA litigation over the tuner in favor of Standard, it was stated. Other suits are planned, according to Standard.

New Tube Permits Battery TV

MULTI-TRON LAB., Chicago, announces development of a new cathode-ray tube permitting design of TV receivers operating on batteries. Based on a combination kit of transistors and tubes, the new tube applies the "pure-signal" tube principle, operating directly from diode or transistor output and eliminating the video amplifier in home receivers. Nicholas Glyptis, Multi-Tron president, said several manufacturers are expected to use the new tube design in home sets this autumn but he said complete circuit and component development for battery TV sets would not be ready before the first quarter of 1958.

PHILCO Corp., government and industrial division, has announced that clients now may lease equipment from one to five years rather than buy it outright. Products to be leased include television broadcasting and closed circuit equipment, electronic data processing system, microwave communications equipment and others.

RCA Counter Suit Against Philco Seeks $150 Million in Damages

TREBLE damages were sought from Philco Corp. in the U. S. District Court at Philadelphia last week by RCA in a counter suit that claimed Philco had "intentionally" infringed on RCA-owned patents on television receivers.

The action in response to a Philco treble-damage suit filed against certain RCA patent practices last January which Philco had charged were in violation of the anti-trust laws. Both suits involved $150 million.

Specifically, Philco had claimed RCA required patent licensees to take out "package" licenses covering all patents in the receiver, tube, and related fields.

But RCA replied that it was formed in 1918 as a GE subsidiary "at the urgent request of the U. S. government in order to free American communications from foreign domination and to create a new American radio company." Because of this, RCA said that various cross license arrangements were then necessary to resolve "intolerable" patent deadlocks.

RCA also pointed out that the industry could have hardly "increased and multiplied at such a dynamic pace" had it been restrained by the patent practices alleged by Philco.

Then the firm proceeded to ask the court for triple compensation from Philco for its alleged infringements, the details of which "are not at this time sufficiently known to RCA." In this connection, RCA asked the court's permission to amend its counter claim at a later date.

Kelley Warns of TV 'X-Rays'

USE of boosters for aging television picture tubes converts them into sources of "mild X-rays," Dr. James Kelley, industrial research consultant for the New York State Commerce Department, warned last week at a Radiological Safety Conference in Buffalo. Dr. Kelley said the best thing for viewers, and particularly children, would be to sit six feet away. Television receiver voltage, he explained, is outside any control except voluntary restraint by manufacturers and repairmen. A standard black-and-white receiver operates with a transformer using 15,000 volts, but a booster for an aging tube uses 30-40,000, causing more gamma radiation, he explained. Medical X-rays, he said, start at 50,000 volts.

Siragusa Hails New TV Tube As 'Longest Step Forward'

DEVELOPMENT of the new 110-degree deflection, wide angle picture tube is "the longest step forward" for television in recent history, Ross D. Siragusa, president of Admiral Corp., told its international distributors' convention in Miami Beach last fortnight.

He predicted the flat TV wall picture is becoming a greater reality every day and should be perfected within 10 years. Bulky sets are kept out of living rooms in many homes because they dominate the decor and protrude too far from the wall, he said.

Pointing out the new 110-degree tube permits a seven-inch reduction in depth of tv cabinets, Mr Siragusa recalled that in 1951 initial 21-inch tv sets with 70-degree tubes had cabinets more than 27 inches deep.

"Three years ago we were able to chop almost four inches from the front to back measurement of a receiver with a 90-degree tube. Today, our industry is moving ahead with Seven League Boots. The sets with the 110-degree picture come in slimline cabinets less than 16 inches deep."

Admiral is using the new tube in all models of its 1958 line, including portables. Other manufacturers also have announced incorporation of the new tube in receivers in recent weeks.

RCA's electron tube division is developing new one-inch vidicon camera tube that is similar to existing RCA types but said to have much higher effective sensitivity. New developmental tube—for color or black-and-white tv—can be operated at signal-electrode voltages higher than current RCA types and thus provide a "substantial" increase in effective sensitivity. Tube also is intended for industrial use and is being sampled to equipment manufacturers. Firm also announced new general-purpose, multi-unit tube of 9-pin type containing medium-muniode and a sharp-cutoff pentode in one envelope has been developed for use in black-and-white and color tv receivers. New tube is RCA-6CU8.

Table and console units feature 21- and 24-inch tubes. Company introduced two new 14- and two new 17-inch portable models in lightweight cabinets last April, ranging in price from $139.95-$149.95 to $169.95-$179.95. Cost runs $189.95-$249.95 for table units and $229.95 up on consoles.

Sarkes Tarzian Inc., Bloomington, Ind., announces sale of complete studio facilities to KXUJ-TV Helena, Mont. Equipment includes complete film equipment, vidicon camera equipment, switching equipment and accessory video equipment.

Columbia Records introduced "radically improved" 1957 model of original Columbia "360," packaged high fidelity table model phonograph. Original size and curved front design are being retained, but new "360" is equipped with detachable matching brass-tipped legs so it can be used as table unit or floor model. Crossover network links third external speaker. Set is priced at $175.

* General Precision Lab., Inc., Pleasantville, N.Y., announces new line of video monitors incorporating advanced features. Units provide bright, clear, high definition pictures for broadcast station or industrial and institutional tv picture presentation with GPL or other closed-circuit systems. Horizontal resolution of all models is in excess of 600 lines, while video bandwidth is flat to 8 mc ±2 db. Aluminized kinescope tubes in 14", 17" and 21" units have 70 degree deflection systems and 24" and 27", 90 degree systems. Covers or front panels of each unit can be removed for cleaning picture tube face and safety glass as well as for servicing.

FORGING THE SILVER LINK IN OUR CHAIN OF YEARS!

Yesterday the properties of our existence were essentially the same as they had been for over a decade. The microphone, the transmitter, the talent, the programming... everything was there as always before. Only their size and shapes and scope had been changed over the years. And yet, at the stroke of an hour, all of this passed into a new era at CKLW. The silver year of our first quarter century of broadcasting service to this region arrived this month. We greet this milestone with the mixed emotions of youth, yet with a solemn pledge for the continuation of the causes, the virtues that have been responsible for this station's growth. Our great pride in fashioning this man-made chain of business events in such a successful manner is best exemplified by the blacksmith who hand-fashioned; determined always to create a finer product. Today, we pledge again to stay eternally young, and search always for new and modern ways to be of advantage to your promotion program.

Craven Warns Radio-Tv On Self-Inflicted Iills

BROADCASTERS who run to the government to bail them out of conviction crises due to their own bad business judgment are the industry's worst enemies, FCC Commr. T. A. M. Craven said Friday in an address to the Maryland-District of Columbia Radio & Tv Broadcasters Assn., meeting at meeting City, Md.

Taking the position that broadcast free-domers are threatened, he cited the "Blue Book" program standards of a decade ago, the FCC's full-scale probe of broadcast business aspects and the investigations by committees of Congress. All these, he said, are aggravated "by certain elements of the broadcast industry itself."

Commr. Craven called for a realistic approach to the pay-tv problem, proposing field demonstrations to find out if the public wants the service [CLOSED CIRCUIT, June 10]. He reminded he is enjoined by the Communications Act "to study new uses for radio, provide for experimental uses of frequencies and generally encourage the larger and more effective use of radio in the public interest." The FCC already has agreed a trial demonstration is necessary. "We need only to determine the parameters of that trial," he said in explaining that the principle has been established and only details remain to be worked out.

Those who figure the public will reject pay-tv, he said, should reflect on the impact of community antenna systems and the fact that over 200 applications for closed-circuit tv franchises have been filed in recent months.

Laurence A. Roslow, associate director of The Pulse Inc., described the firm's interview technique and explained the value of results obtained from a probability sample.

George E. Blecha, vice president of A. C. Nielsen Co., predicted the electron will some day provide the key to instantaneous measurement of broadcasting audiences. He suggested that the station manager even-tually "see himself in his office in a studio that provides a second-by-second index of the size of the audience, just as decibel meters measure audio loads.

AAW Convention June 23-28

To Be Held in Honolulu

THE 1957 Advertising Assn. of the West convention will be held in Honolulu from June 23-28.

The opening session will include welcoming speeches by "King Kamehameha," Honolulu Ad Club President Gordon Chadwick and Neal S. Blaisdell, mayor of Honolulu. This convention day, Tuesday, June 25, also will include an address by Samuel Wilder King, governor of the Territory of Hawaii, on "Hawaii's Importance to Pacific Commerce."

Highlights of the convention, which will mix business and pleasure, are the June 26 panel discussion on "Advertising at Work Among the Nations of the Pacific," with selected speakers from various Pacific nations and moderated by Harry A. Lee, vice president of J. Walter Thompson Co.; the discussion on "New Developments in Advertising Media," to be held June 27 with speakers selected from various media and moderated by Robert E. Mangan, vice president of BBDO; and the June 27 closing luncheon address by an as yet unannounced "internationally famous" speaker.

On Friday, June 28, the convention golf tournament will be held at Oahu Country Club.

Tvb Boosts Tv 'Mat' Service For Modest-Budgeted Retailers

AS PART of its continuing campaign to garner for television a larger percentage of the retail advertiser's dollar, Television Bureau of Advertising's retail sales unit is concentrating its efforts on a new television "mat" service method it has devised.

Lisa Gentry, head of the co-op department for Tvb, reported the bureau has instituted the service at the suggestion of several tv station operators who feel that manufacturers of goods sold in retail stores, dealers and the outlets themselves shy away from using tv because they consider film too expensive. It was suggested that a simplified, inexpensive mat service be conceived, patterned after the one that manu-facturers send to local dealers for print advertisements.

Miss Gentry and Howard Abrahams, Tvb director of retail sales, hit upon the idea of a "video-audio" card. This is a card which firms can prepare from their regular print media art work and convert into a "proof" which stores can use. Instructions to the tv stations are provided at the top of the card, covering use of the material as a studio card, a teleop or a slide.

For the past month, Miss Gentry has been promoting the "video-audio" card to manufacturers, suggesting that they incorporate it into their mat service to dealers. At the same time, Mr. Abrahams has been extolling its merits in talks with owners of retail establishments and in speeches before trade associations, suggesting that they recommend to manufacturers that such a service be extended to them.

Although it's still too early to give an indication of the efficacy of the service, Miss Gentry said Tvb is confident about its soundness. The initial move, she said, is an educational job to the manufacturers, local dealers and stores to persuade them that television can be used at a reasonable cost and with simplified production.

Tv Academy May Urge Tvc City for New York

PLANS for creation of a Tvc City in New York—more or less dormant the past few months—popped back into the spotlight last fortnight as an otherwise routine membership meeting of the New York chapter, Academy of Tv Arts & Sciences, erupted into a verbal free-for-all debate on the present status of tv in New York.

The matter first came up after Tex Mc-Crarry Jr., NBC and WRCA-AM-TV New York personality and New York public relations man, called for stepped-up member-ship recruitment to give the tv industry "muscle." Mr. McCrarry is a member of the ATAS board and chairman of the membership committee.

But others felt "muscle" or physical strength could not be gathered at a time when there was a noticeable shift of tv creative personnel from New York to Hol-lywood. Heated debate ensued, in which such varied items as next season's "deplorable" program lineup, program "censor-ship" and the lack of physical equipment came up for discussion. At its conclusion, a member of ATAS pointed out that the "angry resolution"—to quote an ATAS spokesman—calling upon television to resist the blandishments of Hollywood and stay in New York. This was tempered to read "to keep the tv industry vital and growing in New York."

Specifically, ATAS as an organization was challenged by its own members to back a move to build a Tvc City in metropolitan New York, thus scotching Hollywood's proposition that only the West Coast can provide suitable physical facilities for a burgeoning tv industry. (Privately, the members fear the death of live tv.)

Mr. McCrarry told the group that he wanted to make it perfectly clear that himself was "financially involved with" just such a tv city construction plan, thus felt it "inappropriate" to "instigate or en-courage" the drafting and submission to the ATAS board of such a formal resolution as that called for. (Mr. McCrarry re-f towered to his 10-year old effort to "discover and develop" a site for the construction of a Tvc City. He was appointed chairman of a special committee to look into this matter by former New York Mayor William O'Dwyer. Presently, his PR firm represents Webb & Knapp, headed by William Zeckendorf who, together with showman Billy Rose, is "seriously" working on plans to build just such a "city" in midtown Man-hattan.)

However, this "financial involvement" did not prevent Mr. McCrarry from making known where he stood. He said that the Academy should pursue this matter of get-ting municipal support for such a project from the present mayor, Robert F. Wag-ner Jr., and his colleagues at City Hall. He reminded ATAS members that the spot was no better time to call the mayor than in an election year." Mr. Wagner is up for re-election this fall.

How far will ATAS go at the present...
June 3, 1957

Gentlemen:

This not-too-tired, retired director of the NARTB would like to submit some thoughts for your consideration that may help strengthen our association and improve the service to the membership and to the broadcasting business, primarily, in the best interest of the listening and viewing public. There is a need for open minds to review where we have been—where we are—and how to get where we are going to be sure we serve the public in the best manner possible. We must live up to our responsibilities as licensees. Here they are in topical form:

1. Separate associations for radio and television.
2. Set up strong program divisions for each association to assist members in program planning and program services. Programs are our number one responsibility.
3. Relocate the main office outside of Washington.
4. Review the work of committees—add new committees—disband those not needed should any have outlived their usefulness.
5. Review financial structure and dues. Do away with discounts for multiple ownership.
6. Review the Code Committee’s operation and strengthen where necessary. Self-regulation can and must succeed or we will be subject to regulation by default.
7. Hold separate conventions for radio and television.
8. Review public relations activities.
10. Elect chairman for each association from Board membership as at present. Chairmen should not be paid association executives.
11. Be prepared to fight Toll-Radio if this is the will of the members. Toll-Radio will come if Toll-TV gets a test approval.
12. Get out our own Blue Books (select your own color) for radio and television as a challenge to licensees.
13. Review whether conventions should feature a Federal Communications Commission panel.
14. Set up an advisory council for radio and for television.
15. Review the work of relations with government, state and city agencies.
16. Arrange for media research committees to meet with the Advertising Research Foundation to avoid duplication, waste of time and money and association-controlled research. There is danger of setting up research controlled by media without working with advertisers and advertising agencies. Help underwrite this important work through the ARF.
18. Give leadership to broadcasters on the subject of editorializing.
19. Set up awards for excellence in key fields of endeavor to inspire people in the business to do better work.
20. Use advertising by the associations to tell our story—to back up publicity and public relations. Help members in this endeavor. We believe in advertising—let’s show it as an association by spending money for advertising.
21. Have financial information secured from stations handled by outside audit firm to secure greater response—better facts.
22. Some members resign when they are not happy. They should stick and fight for improvements. When a member is on the outside he can do little to help strengthen the important work to be done.

The foregoing points are only a starter. Ask for more ideas and suggestions to do a better job. Appoint one or more committees to analyze the problems using Board members and non-Board members. Much good work is being done but it has to be better. There is no better time to start than right now to take a close look and to take action. We must raise standards and improve quality. The business ethics of our industry are slipping. We live in a goldfish bowl—let’s make it the cleanest and best-looking bowl there is. There is gold in that bowl and to earn it we must do right. And the greatest reward is in serving others well. Let’s do a better job.

Sincerely,

Edgar Kobak
Director, WTWA Thomson, Georgia

Oh yes—a P. S. to BROADCASTING • TELECASTING—Congratulations on joining the Audit Bureau of Circulations and the Associated Business Publications.
time in supporting such a plan? Bearing in mind that it may risk offending the West Coast chapter, ATAS will move cautiously. Spokesmen for the organization told B+T late Thursday that the matter would first have to be fully discussed by the executive board when it meets later this month.

Oklahoma Libel Relief Passed

LEGISLATION relieving broadcasters from liability for slanderous statements made by political candidates, who cannot be censored, has been signed by Gov. Raymond Gary, of Oklahoma. Gov. Gary said he felt it unfair to hold stations responsible when they are forced to let a candidate use their facilities. Oklahoma Assn. of Broadcasters was active in promoting consideration of the bill when it was before the legislature. Leo Morris, WBBZ Ponca City, OAB president, conferred with legislators and Gov. Gary on the problem.

New Mexicans Name Kendrick

C. O. (KEN) KENDRICK, general manager and co-owner of KVBC Farmington, N. M., was elected president of the New Mexico Broadcasters Assn. at its spring meeting in Deming, N. M. Other officers elected: Jim Duncan of KSIL Silver City, Wayne Phelps, KALG Alamogordo; John Burroughs, KENM Portales; Dave Button, KSVP Artesia; Gar Packard, KTRC Santa Fe, and Bill Mickel, KOB Albuquerque.

California State Broadcasters

Plan to Demonstrate Courtroom TV

PLANS to demonstrate to the California Bar Assn. how radio and television can operate in a courtroom by coverage of an actual trial have been approved by the board of the California State Radio & Television Broadcasters Assn., as part of a campaign to win for the broadcast media access into the state court on an equal basis with newspaper reporters.

A bill to that effect lost any chance of passage during the present session of the state legislature when the State Senate referred it to an interim committee for further study. The measure was opposed by the state bar association, which like the national lawyers' organization has held steadfastly to the belief that the introduction of microphone and camera into the courtroom would be a threat to courtroom decorum and judicial dignity.

The midyear meeting of the CSRTBA board, held June 6 in Sacramento, named Robert J. McAndrews, KBIG Avalon, and Loyd Sigmon, KMPC Los Angeles, as co-chairmen of the group's annual convention, to be held in Los Angeles in November. The meeting is planned as a two-day affair, the first day to be devoted to business sessions and the second to social activities.

SCBA Re-elects Incumbents

A STRONG vote of confidence in the past year's conduct of Southern California Broadcasters Assn. affairs was registered by SCBA members, who re-elected every incumbent candidate for another term, returning three officers and five board members to office for the 1957-58 season. The sole newcomer in the organization's official line-up is Treasurer Robert J. McAndrews, KBIG Avalon, elected to fill a post left vacant by the resignation in the spring of Thelma Kirchner, KGFJ Los Angeles.

Re-elected were Loyd Sigmon, KMPC Los Angeles, chairman; Howard Gray, KGIL San Fernando, vice chairman; John Hansen, KABC Los Angeles, secretary; and board members Herb Comstock, KAVL Lancaster; Norman Ostby, Don Lee-MBS; Fred Ruegg, KNX Los Angeles; Calvin J. Smith, KFAC Los Angeles, and Ernest O. Spencer, KWIZ Santa Ana.

Virginians Elect Lindberg

CARL L. LINDBERG, WPIK Alexandria, was elected president of Virginia Assn. of Broadcasters at its closing session June 7, in Richmond [B+T, June 10]. He succeeds Emerson J. Pryor, WDVA Danville. Other officers elected by VAB were Milton B. Henson, WREL Lexington, vice president; Thomas P. Chisman, WVTC-AM-VT Hampton; secretary-treasurer. Elected directors were C. T. Lucy, WRVA-AM-TV Richmond; Hamilton Shee, WSVA-AM-TV Harrisonburg; Robert H. Smith, WCYB-AM-TV Bristol; Charles P. Blackley, WTON Staunton; Richard F. Lewis Jr., WNC Winchester, and Mr. Pryor.

NARTB Boards Face Full Agenda This Week

LEGISLATIVE and regulatory threats to broadcast operations and efforts to obtain greater access to broadcast coverage of public events will be included in a long list of topics to be discussed Wednesday-Friday by the joint NARTB Radio and TV Boards, meeting at the Mayflower Hotel, Washington.

Wide interest has been shown in proposals to develop standard circulation audit machinery for television and radio (see story, page 35). The coverage projects will be discussed by the Television Board Wednesday and the Radio Board Thursday. The boards will meet jointly Friday.

The joint board will review plans for the eight regional conferences Sept. 16-Oct. 25. Preliminary plans for the 1958 industry convention in Los Angeles, April 27-May 1, will be reviewed. Donald N. Martin, public relations assistant to President Harold E. Fellows, will outline steps taken to tell the industry's story to the nation.

At the Radio Board meeting the chairman and vice chairman of the board will be elected for the year, to succeed John M. Outler Jr., WSB Atlanta, and Herbert L. Krueger, WTAG Worcester, Mass., respectively. The board will go over progress made in the FCC's consideration of a petition for remote operation of all stations, regardless of size or power. George C. Hatch, KALL Salt Lake City, will report on work of the Radio Transmission Tariffs Committee.

Worth Kramer, WJR Detroit, will report to the Radio Board as chairman of a special committee to implement the Radio Standards of Good Practice. The board will be told of NARTB efforts to gain relief for small market broadcasters from overtime provisions of the Wage-Hour Act. Success of last month's National Radio Week and plans for next year's observance will be reviewed.

Coming before the TV Board will be an outline of work done to carry out the board's policy on behalf of preservation of existing channels for free programming. The staff will give its estimate of the social implications and other factors involved in pay tv. William B. Quarton, WMT-TV Cedar Rapids, Iowa, will report as TV Code Review Board chairman on increased monitoring activity. The code group meets today (Monday).

NARTB's Bell Asks Speed-up Of Fight for Radio-TV Access

BROADCASTERS must speed up their efforts to break down the barriers against electronic coverage of public proceedings. Howard H. Bell, assistant to the NARTB president, told the Florida Assn. of Broadcasters Friday at its Miami Beach meeting.

"We must educate public officials and demonstrate our ability to cover court trials and other proceedings in a proper and dignified manner," Mr. Bell said. He cited progress gained in the Florida House of Representatives, which permits radio-TV coverage of sessions, but pointed that Canon 35 of the American Bar Assn. still works against broadcast coverage of court trials.

"The public is entitled to hear and see the actions of its elected and appointed officials on vital issues which are, in fact, the public's business," he said. He referred to growing recognition that electronics apparatus can provide coverage which does not obtrude on district proceedings.
Around some station areas, a spot franchiser's saturation campaign never had it so good! For example, WICU... loaded with neat network and local originations programmed to the territory, keyed to reach every segment around the vital Erie market area.

Out here things are booming and bulging at the seams. New beach facilities... industrial expansion... thru-way building... heaps of contracts bubbling, boiling and basting into the millions of dollars... and just the place for your account!

Ideally situated in this hub of activity, WICU is the only VHF station within 100 miles (covering 3 states and 2 counties) with several prize ratings worthy of an exhibition. (See trophy case).

Now's the time to call your Petry man or Ben McLaughlin, WICU’s General Manager, and suggest luncheon. While he's checking his Diners' Club card, have him run over some facts and get you through the door where "a packed house is mighty like a home!"

JAMES B. CONKLING, former president of the Record Industry Assn. of America, and of Columbia Records, has announced steps are being taken to form a non-profit industry "academy" along lines of those in the television and motion picture industries. Acting on requests by representatives of the industry, Mr. Conkling reports meetings have been held on both coasts by vocalists, conductors, art directors, engineers, arrangers, composers, producers, directors and instrumentalists.

Working with Mr. Conkling on the National Academy of Recording Arts & Sciences founding committee are Sonny Burke of Decca; Doris Day, Columbia; Lloyd W. Dunn, Capitol; Dennis Farnon, RCA Victor; Milton Gabler, Decca; Richard Jones, Capitol; Jesse Kaye, MGM Records; Axel Stordahl, arranger-conductor and Paul Weston, Columbia. Mr. Conkling is working in a temporary capacity until prospective members elect officers and executives.

NARTB to Ask Tax Changes

PROPOSED changes in the Internal Revenue Service's formulas for depreciation of broadcast equipment will be submitted to the service by NARTB this month. The association will propose ways of bringing the 15-year-old Bulletin F rates into line with industry progress. The service has asked for industry views.

A dozen representatives of networks and stations met last Tuesday at NARTB Washington headquarters with Robert L. Heald, chief attorney. They reviewed the present 10-year basic depreciation formula, which includes a four-year plan for tv equipment. The NARTB presentation will show the high rate of obsolescence for broadcast equipment along with competitive angles, life span of various equipment items, low salvage values and continuous development of the art.

HARRISON, LABUNSKI NEW ABN VPS

ELECTION of Thomas C. Harrison as vice president in charge of sales for American Broadcasting Co. Radio Network Inc. and of Stephen B. Labunski as a vice president assigned at the outset to programming are being announced today (Monday) by President Robert E. Eastman.

Mr. Harrison was head of the St. Louis office of John Blair & Co., station representatives, before resigning to take the new post, effective immediately. He succeeds George Comois, who was reported to have resigned.

Mr. Labunski has been vice president and general manager of WDGY Minneapolis, one of the Todd Storz group. Mr. Eastman said, “His principal efforts at the outset, as is the case with all of us, will be directed primarily toward the end of developing our program product.” Thus in principal effect if not in title he will be taking over the duties which would have been handled by William S. Morgan Jr. of KLIF Dallas if Mr. Morgan's appointment as programming vice president had not undergone a “change of plans.”

The Harrison and Labunski appointments were two of several new developments in the radio revitalization program undertaken by Mr. Eastman since he assumed the presidency of the American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres radio subsidiary on May 1—also, like Mr. Harrison, from the Blair organization. Others:

- Mr. Eastman revealed that American is developing a plan which will give its affiliates one-minute breaks for local sale on the quarter-hour, with the network personality handling the program involved also being made available to transcribe the local commercials for the stations—at no charge to the stations. American affiliates now get 30-second breaks on all commercial shows, and on sustained ones may increase this to 70 seconds by breaking away from the 40-second promotional hitchhikes which the network airs between sustaining. The 60-second quarter-hourly breaks are expected to become effective next fall.

- He confirmed that “with considerable regret” there had been a “change of plans” and that Mr. Morgan, announced a few weeks ago as American's new programming vice president, would not assume that post and, instead, had returned to the McLendon Investment Corp. [CLOSED CIRCUIT, June 10].

Mr. Morgan, vice president and general manager of the McLendon Corp.'s KLIF Dallas before the announcement that he would move to American, reportedly has returned to the McLendon group as assistant to President Gordon R. McLendon. American authorities said the change resulted from “certain unforeseen developments” that made the original plan “impractical from the point of view of both parties, and it was deemed best to recognize this at the outset. ... Our very best wishes are with [Mr. Morgan].”

- Mr. Eastman indicated that in its desire to disassociate itself from television, American not only would not hire personalities who are regularly identified with TV [BT, June 3], but that he hoped eventually to have American’s personnel housed in separate quarters from those now shared with ABC-TV.

Announcing the election of Mr. Harrison to the sales vice presidency, Mr. Eastman noted that American is planning “many new live personality programs” that will be of tremendous advertising value. Both in programming and in selling, American Broadcasting will adapt itself to the important work being done by our affiliates.

“Our selling will be done on a creative basis, recognizing the feeling and needs of the local station. American Broadcasting will avoid expediency in order to develop long-range strength. Tom Harrison's experience in local and national sales and programming makes him ideally qualified to carry out our goals."

“Head of the St. Louis office of John Blair & Co., Tom Harrison has worked with both radio and television. During his two and one-half years in this capacity, the office has more than doubled its billings. With men of his caliber American Broadcasting can achieve its aim of being No. 1 radio network.”

Mr. Harrison was named head of Blair's St. Louis office in January 1955, after serving as national sales manager of WSM Nashville from April 1952. After wartime service from which he was released in October 1945 as a major, he was in the sales department of Ralston-Purina Co., then served as assistant football coach at Vanderbilt U. starting in 1947 and at UCLA starting in 1949 before moving to Brown Radio Productions, Nashville, in February 1951 as sales manager for transcribed shows.

Mr. Labunski has been general manager of WDGY since January 1956 and vice president since January of this year. Under his direction the station has won a reputation for spectacular promotion ventures as well as for programming. Before moving to WDGY he was an account executive with WHB Kansas City, also a Storz station, from July 1954 to January 1956, and before that with KCMI Kansas City and commercial manager of KUDL, also Kansas City. During World War II he served after V-E Day as a Russian translator with the Allied Control Council in Berlin.

Will New TV Services
Make Circuits Scarce?

The prospect of a rationing of AT&T's network television circuits faces tv broadcasters this fall—but whether the prospect will become a harsh fact or a relatively small problem will not be known for sure until mid-summer.

The answer will depend almost entirely on the final requirements of such "new" services as Sylvester L. (Pat) Weaver's "baby network" of major-market stations. Sports Network Inc. and any toll-tv operators who may be seriously in the picture by then.

This at least seemed to be the view of AT&T and network authorities last week. They appeared to be in general agreement that the intercity-circuit demands of the three traditional networks—ABC-TV, CBS-TV, and NBC-TV—can be met as well next fall as they were last, provided there are no substantial new demands from the more recently developed television services.

Just what these new demands will be remains largely moot. But it is known
Sports Network Inc. has developed rapidly to the point where, except for the three tv broadcasting networks, it now is AT&T's largest customer for intercity facilities. SN1's biggest usage of AT&T facilities is in spring and summer, but its officials are hopeful that by next fall it will have need for twice as much as in the fall of 1956. And certainly SN1's fall and winter demands can be expected to grow substantially if it succeeds in negotiating a working arrangement with the Weaver network [BT, June 10].

AT&T's position is that it cannot possibly know whether or how much "rationing" may be necessary until it receives orders from the users. These are due about July 29. Then, after studying the various "requirements," AT&T will follow the usual procedure—there are always some conflicts—of calling the users in for a quarterly allocations conference, at which time conflicting orders for scarce-facility areas are worked out by compromise.

AT&T authorities emphasize that in these quarterly sessions the decisions as to who gets the use of specific contested facilities and at what time are made by the users themselves. AT&T presides over the sessions.

One network official pointed out that while AT&T "hasn't said it won't be able to supply all users," it has cautioned that the situation is getting tighter and tighter.

NTA Film Network to Offer Three New Half-Hour Series

NTA Film Network last week announced plans to add three new half-hour series a week to its current offering of a one and a half hour feature film presentation and to sell the new programming under a "triple exposure plan."

The programs are How to Marry a Millionaire, produced by 20th Century-Fox, and This Is Alice and The Last Marshal, both Desilu Productions' series. It is planned to schedule the programs on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at times no earlier than 7 p.m. and no later than 11 p.m., local times.

William H. Koblenzer, sales manager of the NTA Film Network, described the "triple exposure plan" as "a new concept of network programming." It offers three advertisers representation on the three different half-hour programs weekly on the film network, he said. Each advertiser, he said, will receive a one-minute commercial and opening and closing billboard on each of the three shows weekly, so that each of the three sponsors is represented on the network by nine commercial impressions each week. Mr. Koblenzer claimed that by delivering three different audiences through three different programs each week, the film network will provide a tripling of the exposure and the impact of the advertisers' messages. He said presentations on the new plan will be made to advertising agencies, starting this week.

The NTA Film Network presently is servicing 134 stations with Premiere Performance, which consists of a weekly feature film program from the Fox library.

NBC, CBS Make Public Overseas News Shifts

REALIGNMENT of overseas news bureaus for NBC and CBS was made public last week. The shift in CBS' rank of correspondents is a part of that network's recently-implemented "rotation plan," while that of NBC's was made to broaden its European base of operations.

Next month, Robert Pierpoint, who three years ago succeeded Bill Costello in Tokyo, moves stateside to CBS News in Washington. His replacement will be Peter Kalischer, former Collier's magazine Tokyo bureau chief, of late with CBS in the Capital. In September, Howard K. Smith, since the end of World War II chief European correspondent and head of the London bureaus, returns home, switching places with Charles Collingwood. Mr. Smith will present a nightly Washington Report on Doug Ed- ward's weeknight 7:15-7:30 CBS-TV program as well as a quarter-hour CBS Radio
Hayes Asks Affiliate Opinions

ANSWERING criticism of CBS Radio's sales and programming policies, President Arthur Hull Hayes last week called on his affiliates to tell him "frankly and fully" what they think.

The request was made in a confidential letter in which Mr. Hayes made known his reaction to a message in which John M. Rivers of WCSC Charleston, S. C., chairman of the board of the CBS Radio Affiliates Assn., told affiliates that "your board is not happy about the present network sales and program policies" [B&T, May 27].

Although the Hayes letter was not made public, it was learned that it is the CBS Radio chief told affiliates that if a "substantial number" of them disagreed with the network's programming and sales philosophies and its plans for the future, "a complete reappraisal of our network operations and policies must be faced." In that case, he said, a meeting with all affiliates might be necessary "much earlier" than the affiliates convention scheduled for Nov. 7-8.

Mr. Hayes said last week that first replies from the stations were "most encouraging." Although some stations did not receive his letter till early in the week, he said, about 25 replies had reached him by Thursday and were preponderantly favorable to CBS Radio's policies and operations. If the proportion of enthusiastic letters continues at the current pace, he said, there definitely would not seem to be a need for any emergency meeting with affiliates.

Some stations felt Mr. Hayes' letter was motivated primarily by affiliate reaction to CBS Radio's $5.5 million package sale to Ford [B&T, May 13], which itself was a motivating factor behind the affiliates meeting that culminated in the letter from Chairman Rivers. But Mr. Hayes asserted that his sole purpose was to give his views on the Rivers message and to solicit affiliate-wide reaction to the network's plans and policies, and that actually he mentioned the Ford deal only in passing.

He said station clearances on the Ford package—which involves sponsorship of some four and a half hours of morning, afternoon and evening programming each week, starting Sept. 2—were arriving at a better than "normal" pace, considering that the starting date is more than two months away and that stations in those circumstances often delay their replies to orders. In his letter, it was understood, Mr. Hayes told affiliates he was surprised at the tone of Mr. Rivers' report on the affiliates board's meeting with CBS Radio officials. He was confident, he said, that the Rivers letter did not reflect the views of all members of the affiliates board.

He also cited as support the findings of a B&T survey of all affiliates last fall, part of an examination of the future of network radio, which showed 73% of CBS Radio affiliates preferred the network's present service as against 20% who would rather have a "press association" type of network service and 7% who said they would go independent [B&T, Nov. 26, 1956].

Doesn't Mean Policy Support

Among stations opposing the Ford deal, however, some were reported last week to be contending that although they voted for the network in B&T's poll, and would do so again, this should not be construed as support of network policies—particularly as those policies are reflected in the Ford deal. The objections of the Ford sale critics are based primarily on the contention that the Ford network programming would eat heavily into early-morning and late-afternoon time periods that are most lucrative for the stations in terms of local and national spot sales.

On this point Mr. Hayes was reported to have told the affiliates that "neither CBS nor its affiliates have ever treated network option time and station time as two hard-and-fast entities separated by an iron curtain. It has always been a give-and-take relationship on the part of the network and its affiliates."

With respect to sales policies, he was said to have pointed out also that CBS Radio does not sell 30-second, 10-second and six-second participations, as NBC does.

He also was reported to have dealt at length with the value of the CBS Radio affiliation to the stations, the investments which the network makes in programming, and the importance of this network programming to the stations in terms of local prestige, the sale of adjacencies, etc.

CBS TV Affiliates Group Elects 3 District Directors

RESULTS of elections for Districts 4, 5 and 6 of the CBS Television Affiliates Assn. were announced last week by Clyde Rembert, chairman of the nominating committee and president of KRLD-TV Dallas.

Cohen Broadcast Inapplicable

To N. Y. Libel Laws, Says Official

EFFORTS by Los Angeles police to prosecute Mickey Cohen under New York State libel laws for his remarks about two sportscasters, Phil Donahue and Ernie DiGregorio, in his "Mike Wallace Interview" program May 19 have come to naught [B&T, May 27].

The district attorney's office found—a after a study of state statutes—that oral defamatory remarks do not fall under New York criminal libel laws, that the fact that remarks were made on tv does not alter the situation and that therefore, Mr. Cohen was "held safe." The office said that had the program been filmed ahead of time or had a kinescope been made in New York for rebroadcast at a later time, the finding would have been reversed. As things turned out, ABC-TV did make a kinescope, but not in New York state proper, for rebroadcast to the West Coast.

Stern, Wheeler to Head NBC-TV Canadian Unit

FORMATION of a wholly owned Canadian subsidiary corporation to conduct NBC's expanding TV operations abroad was announced Friday by NBC President Robert W. Sarnoff.

The move was seen in some quarters—unofficially—as a forerunner to possible entry by NBC into ownership of foreign TV stations.

Albert R. Stern, NBC director of international operations, will be chairman of the new corporation, and Romney Wheeler, director of European operations, will be president. It will be called NBC International Ltd., and will open headquarters in Montreal in July.

NBC officials said the Montreal headquarters will be headed by a secretary-treasurer of the corporation who will be selected in the near future. Chairman Stern will continue to have his offices in New York and President Wheeler will continue in London. Two other veterans of the NBC International division, Gerald Adler and J. Robert Myers, also will have headquarters in London.

In addition, Mr. Sarnoff said, NBC International plans to open an office in Mexico City by the end of this year to conduct the company's business affairs in Latin America and one in a key site in the Far East during 1958.

The new corporation will conduct all of the NBC station management services, station investments and program sales outside of the U.S. and Canada. The program sales will include those of California National Productions, another wholly owned NBC subsidiary, as well as those of NBC-TV.

"NBC's association with the broadcasting services of foreign countries dates back to the first days of radio," Mr. Sarnoff asserted. "Through NBC International Ltd. we plan to take an even more important place in the field of international television operations. By the end of this year it is anticipated that personnel of NBC International Ltd. will have completed on-the-scene surveys of television in every country on the globe where the medium now exists or will soon exist."

It is known that NBC has been offered an ownership interest in the British Commercial TV operation at Cardiff, Wales. It has not yet accepted, however, although it is furnishing certain management services to the Cardiff station.

NBC-TV's affiliates outside the continental U. S. include KEX-TV Mexico City; CMQ-TV Havana; WAPA-TV San Juan, P. R.; KONA-TV Honolulu; KUAM-TV Agana, Guam; KENI-TV Anchorage and KFAR-TV Fairbanks, Alaska; KMVI-TV Wallulu, Hawaii, and YVKS-TV Caracas, Venezuela.

CBS News Helps Argentina

In Expediting Serum Shipments

CBS newsmen were called Tuesday to help avert tragedy in Argentina when the Argentine government appealed to CBS Radio to trace a shipment of botulism antitoxin, delayed en route to the stricken La Plata area to combat the nation's outbreak of food poisoning.

Peter Hahn, CBS News special correspondent in Buenos Aires, served as liaison between Argentine officials and the CBS newsroom in New York. After extensive checking in the U. S., CBS discovered the crate of serum had not been marked with the emergency—"Medicine, Rush."

The shipment had been unloaded from an aircraft in Miami and transferred to a delayed flight. CBS immediately arranged for shipment of another load direct.

NBC-TV's NCAA Schedule

Three-Fourths Sold Out

NBC-TV's schedule of NCAA football games to be telecast nationally on nine dates next fall is three-quarters sold out, it was announced last week by William R. Goodheart Jr., vice president, television network sales, for NBC.

Sponsoring one-quarter of each telecast will be Bristol-Myers Co., Sunbeam Corp. and Zenith Radio Corp. These advertisers also sponsored the national Game of the Week series on NBC-TV last year.

Eight of the nine dates on the national schedule are Saturdays. The ninth is Thanksgiving Day, when three games in different parts of the country will be presented on a split-network basis. In addition, NBC-TV will present regional contests on four other Saturdays in the eastern, Big Ten and Pacific Coast areas. Sunbeam and American Machine & Foundry Co. each will sponsor one quarter of the four eastern telecasts. Perrin-Paus Co. is agency for Sunbeam and Fletcher D. Richards Inc. represents American Machine & Foundry. Doheerty, Clifford, Steers & Shenfield is agency for Bristol-Myers and Earle Ludgin & Co. for Zenith.

ABC-TV Billings Up 30% for Next Fall

ABC-TV is booking gross billing for next fall at an annual rate of $100 million, or 30% better than this season, Oliver Treyz, vice president in charge of the network, disclosed last week.

ABC-TV is basing this figure on a projection of about $8.2 to $8.4 million per monthly gross billing next season compared to this season's approximate $6.6 million monthly level [B&T, June 3].

Mr. Treyz spoke Wednesday in St. Louis in a cellophane presentation to more than 300 advertising and agency executives, newsmen and special guests as a salute to affiliate KTVI (TV) and which was co-hosted by Joseph Bernard, the station's vice president and general manager. The event was held at the Chase Hotel.

Also disclosed was the Kellogg multiple-program purchase, a contract that is estimated at $7 million (see story, page 39), and live daytime program plans.

ABC-TV Monday-Friday daytime plans already announced include the filmed Mickey Mouse Club (5:30-6 p.m.) and a filmed adventure strip (5:30-6 p.m.). The network, Mr. Treyz said, is offering a group of audience participation live shows: Lucky Lady, featuring Keeffe Brasselle and Virginia Graham; What's The Name of The Song with Robert Alda; What Makes You Tick with Dennis James and Parlay with Jack Narz. These shows would precede the adventure strip in the 3-5 p.m. period.

Mr. Treyz asserted that the network is "much ahead of the selling pace of last year." In nighttime billing, Mr. Treyz continued, ABC-TV is up 24.9% while NBC-TV was 0.8% and CBS-TV 8.3% ahead, adding:

"If we don't add one advertiser in our new daytime schedule, ABC-TV will still, in our best estimates, be rolling at a $100 million annual rate of billings. That is more than 30% better than the 1956 level." According to ABC-TV's total coverage—live and delayed—will be 95 out of every 100 U. S. tv homes next season with the network able to deliver live, 85% of all tv homes.

Stressing ABC-TV's sales pace, Mr. Treyz listed these new advertisers to be on the network for next season: Philip Morris (started in April with Mike Wallace Show);
RAISton (recently added), General Foods, Reynolds aluminum, Bristol-Myers, Revlon, Kellogg, Mars, Seven-Up, AC spark plugs, Sylvania, Buick Div. of General Motors, Chicagofield and Campbell soups.

Jackson Tells How NBC Sees Client Gets Money's Worth

ADMINISTRATIVE procedures used by NBC to make sure its advertisers "get what they buy" and receive proper credit for program or commercial interruptions were spelled out last fortnight by John W. Jackson, manager of advertising and sales promotion administration for RCA.

Mr. Jackson spoke at the Assn. of National Advertisers' Fourth National Workshop on Advertising Budget and Cost Control, held June 6 at Chicago's Drake Hotel.

Other speakers at the closed session included James E. Weber, executive vice president of Leo Burnett Co., who advocated "a creative approach to budget planning and control," and Richard K. Jewett, supervisor of advertising administration for Pitney-Bowes Inc., who discussed "Evaluating Advertising Effectiveness Through Analysis and Control of Inquiries."

Mr. Jackson detailed the system of checks and cross-checks by which RCA's NBC keeps tabs, at both network and affiliate levels, in order to know that each advertiser's programs and commercials are broadcast in full by every station he has ordered.

In cases where interruptions do occur, he said, the advertiser's billings are credited as follows:

1. If program material (but not the commercial) is interrupted for one minute or more, time charge credit is based on a proportion of the length of interruption to length of program.

2. If commercial is interrupted, credit is based on proportion of length of interruption to length of total commercial time allowance in program.

3. If both program and commercial material are interrupted, larger of two foregoing credits is allowed.

4. If only audio or only video is interrupted, credit is reduced by 25%. But if this partial interruption occurs in the commercial and renders uninterrupted audio or video commercially valueless, full credit is allowed.

Graham to CBS-TV Program Dept.

Harold Graham Jr., for 12 years radio producer-director and tv account executive with McCann-Erickson, has been appointed program executive, CBS-TV program department, Hollywood. It was announced last week by Alfred J. Scalpone, CBS-TV vice president in charge of network programs, Hollywood. In the newly-created post, Mr. Graham will serve primarily in liaison with advertisers, coordinating program and talent matters with all advertisers or network programs originating in Hollywood, Mr. Scalpone said.

Green Named to Manage ABC-TV Program Department

APPOINTMENT of John B. Green as manager of the ABC-TV program department, succeeding J. English Smith, was announced last week by James T. Aubrey Jr., vice president in charge of programming and talent for the network.

Mr. Green formerly was an associate producer on the executive staff of NBC-TV's Wide World. His appointment is effective immediately.

Mr. Smith, whom he succeeds, is resigning to return to Hollywood. He has been with ABC since 1954.

Mr. Green, in addition to his work on WWW, also is a former associate producer of NBC-TV's Home show, business manager of Saturday Night Revue and producer-director for The Black Robe. With Newell-Emmett Co. from August 1947 to May 1949, he was agency producer on America Speaks, the Mary Margaret McBride Show and Suspense, and was writer and agency producer for Coast Guard Cuties on Parade.

Murrow to Interview Tito

EDWARD R. MURROW, his office insists, is “on hiatus” for the remainder of the summer but this week he flies to Belgrade for an interview with Yugoslavia’s Marshall Tito. Officially, CBS would neither confirm or deny Mr. Murrow’s trip, but a spokesman for See It Now said Mr. Murrow would join cameraman Bill McClure in the Balkans. Still undecided is whether See It Now will program a documentary on Yugoslavia today or an exclusive interview with Tito in the manner of Mr. Murrow’s past talks with E. M. David Ben-Gurion, Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser and Chou En-Lai.

Fladell Gets NBC-TV Sales Post

ERNEST FLADELL has been named manager, sales promotion, NBC-TV Network. Sales, it was announced Thursday by Don Durgin, vice president, sales planning, NBC television network sales. Mr. Fladell has served as manager of special promotions for NBC-TV’s participating programs since January 1956. He joined NBC in October 1953, as a sales presentation writer in the television network’s advertising and promotion department and in February 1955 was named a sales coordinator for NBC-TV sales.

Three Producers Set for ‘Crisis’

THREE producers are set for Crisis, NBC-TV series of mystery-suspense dramas to start Sept. 30 as a Monday, 10-11 p.m., program. Alfred Hitchcock will personally produce 10 filmed dramas through his Shamley Productions in Hollywood; Alan Miller, head of all production at Revue Productions, will produce another 10 on film, and S. Mark Smith, formerly producer of the General Electric Theatre live programs, will be executive producer of the 22 Crisis shows to be produced live in New York.

ALL ABOARD!

Oldtime Ohio River steamboat whistles let passengers know it was time to get under way. The more forceful the whistle, the bigger the boat ... the more passengers it could carry ... the faster it took them further.

Similarly, the latest Nielsen figures sound a forceful blast for WSAZ-TV in today’s busy Ohio River market. With an audience of over half a million TV homes in 69 counties, WSAZ-TV reaches (says Nielsen) 100,580 more homes on weekday nights than the next-best station. And it’s the consistent leader around the clock!

This is impressive traveling — and to very prosperous ports of call where income has never been so high. Get aboard this prime mover of goods and let WSAZ-TV blow your own whistle where it will be heard — and heeded — most. The gangway is down at any Katz office.

Starting June 23, NBC-TV’s Steve Allen Show (Sunday, 8-9 p.m. EDT) will be partially sponsored by Pharma-Craft Co.’s Fresh deodorant. Discussing the $4 million deal with NBC to cover the Allen Show over a 65-week period are (l to r) L. J. Thompson, Pharma-Craft vice president in charge of sales; Pharma-Craft President Frank F. Bell; Mr. Allen, and W. Kedize Teller, executive vice president of Pharma-Craft. The firm will sponsor a third of the June 23-30 shows and, beginning July 14, will underwrite one-half on alternate weeks.
You've probably noticed big telephone cable reels like the ones shown above at the curb-side of streets and highways around your town. They are there to meet a date with the Bell telephone construction crews who will pull the cable up on poles or into conduits so telephone service may grow with your community.

These particular reels are about to be delivered to the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, and Eugene Midkiff, a warehouseman in our Seattle Distribution Center, is giving them a final check.

Telephone cable, of course, is just one of the many products we keep on tap to meet the needs of Bell telephone companies. In all, there are 30 Western Electric Distribution Centers across the nation, and they stock an average of 8,000 different things for both day-to-day and emergency use by the telephone companies.

This is another important part of our job as the manufacturing and supply unit of the Bell System.
MUSICIANS’ RADIO EARNINGS DOWN

A SHARP decline in gross earnings of musicians from radio in 1956 versus 1955—from $15,161,000 to $9,835,000—emerged from a B*T comparison of figures in the American Federation of Musicians' annual report submitted to its 60th annual convention in Denver last week with that released by the federation for 1955.

Although the federation made no comment of the decline in its report to members, B*T asked a spokesman for the union in attendance at the convention for an explanation. He consulted with the federation research department and later supplied the following information: (1) there is a continuous loss of staff employment of musicians on stations in cities other than New York, Los Angeles and Chicago; (2) there is a marked trend away from live music programs on radio; (3) there is a growth in the so-called “radio spot announcement programs,” which rely on canned music to the detriment of live music.

AFM’s report covers musicians employed in the U. S., Canada, Puerto Rico and Hawaii.

The substantial decrease in earnings on radio was accompanied by a moderate increase in income from tv, which rose in 1956 to $10,552,00 from $9,544,00 in 1955. For the first time in many years, television edged out radio last year as the number one source of income for musicians, but radio still led phonograph records, theatrical engagements and theatrical films as a revenue-provider.

The 1956 report shows that steady staff employment in radio accounted for $7,234,000 in salaries in the U. S. and $1.1 million in Canada; local commercial employment, $625,000, and single engagements, $850,000.

In television, steady staff employment aggregated slightly more than $3.5 million in the U. S. and $639,000 in Canada; local commercial employment, almost $1.9 million and single engagements, $2.85 million. Gross earnings of more than $1.5 million were reported for employment in tv films.

The grand total of gross income received by musicians from radio-tv dipped to $20,388,000 in 1956 from $24,705,000 in 1955, reflecting the sharp decline in revenue from radio.

Theatrical employment in 1956 brought in slightly more than $6 million (about the same as 1955); major Hollywood film producers, $2,782,000 ($2,768,000 in 1955); non-contact major Hollywood film producers, $810,339 ($1,117,000 in 1955); independent Hollywood producers, $718,500 ($635,313 in 1955) and New York film producers $126,883 ($114,052 in 1955). From phonograph records musicians grossed $4,940,000 in 1956 ($3,820,000 in 1955).

The convention represented another personal triumph for James C. Petrillo who was re-elected president for the 17th time and begins his 18th term. Above and beyond that, Mr. Petrillo was given a resounding vote of confidence when delegates almost unanimously voted down a resolution that would have stripped him of “broad, dictatorial power,” even though Mr. Petrillo himself urged the convention to adopt the resolution.

The union’s bylaws give the president “absolute" power to make decisions and issue orders in cases where, in his opinion, an emergency exists. A faction of Los Angeles Local 47, which has been embroiled in a dispute with Mr. Petrillo over royalties and other payments for tv films and recorded music, offered a resolution to delete from the by laws the provision giving the president this “dictatorial" power. (This faction is suing the federation for $18 million over payments which go to trust funds.)

The resolution was soundly beaten by a voice vote when Mr. Petrillo, in a surprise move, rose to urge the delegates to reconsider their action. He thanked the delegates for their confidence in him but said removal of the power also would eliminate a “political football" for persons who wanted to criticize the union. He claimed he rarely had invoked the authority, and with “a good president,” he considered it “a good law" for the union. But he expressed the view that the deletion of the “dictatorial power" provision would prevent critics from raising it in the future and “clouding other issues.” At Mr. Petrillo’s insistence, Al Manuti, president of New York Local 802, made a motion to reconsider the resolution, but delegates voted it down almost unanimously.

Federation officials later pointed out that the controversial clause in the bylaws was voted prior to Mr. Petrillo’s incumbency in 1940.

Re-elected with Mr. Petrillo were Charles WHERE ANGELS FEAR

JAMES C. PETRILLO, president of the American Federation of Musicians, has a known reputation for word imagery and salty characterization. He demonstrated this skill when he urged delegates to the union’s convention in Denver last week (adjacent story) to rescind the controversial “dictatorial power" section in the union’s bylaws. At one point, he said the section “has been thrown in my face so often that I sleep on it. I recommend that we get rid of this section and at least make our enemies happy.” At another, he was discussing the “few occasions he made use of this section and mentioned negotiations to unionize the Boston Symphony Orchestra. The convention roared in gleee as Mr. Petrillo recounted his meeting with the orchestra sponsors—“The Cabots and the Lodges who talk only to God—and then I walk in.”

Agency Executive Sold on Audit Bureau of Circulations

NEWMAN F. McEVOY
Vice President
Director of Media
Cunningham & Walsh, Inc.
New York

“The Audit Bureau of Circulations Reports are almost invaluable in helping us to appraise printed media. It is most encouraging to have this data available on Broadcasting * Telecasting and you may be sure that it will be referred to regularly by our buyers.”

B*T is the only paper in the vertical radio-tv field with A.B.C. membership . . . your further guarantee of integrity in reporting circulation facts. B*T, with the largest paid circulation in its field, is basic for subscribers and advertisers alike.
L. Bagley, vice president; Leo Cluesman, secretary, and George Clancy, treasurer. Members of the board of directors elected were: Lee Repp, William J. Harris, Herman D. Kein, Stanley Ballard and William M. Murdoch.

Delegates also approved a proposal from the federation's board of directors to prohibit members from working on recordings produced abroad. Violations of the proposal were made punishable by fines and possible expulsion. This action is designed to prevent sound tracks composed in the U. S. from being recorded abroad and later returned to this country for use. Such a procedure, according to AFM officials, has provided a means for TV film producers and others to avoid paying royalties to the trust funds.

Hollywood AFL Film Council Supports Tests of Toll TV

AN APPEAL to the FCC to authorize widespread public tests of toll TV "at the earliest possible moment," Tuesday was announced by the Hollywood AFL Film Council, comprising unions and guilds representing more than 24,000 employees of the motion picture production industry.

After hearing the report of a special council committee which has been studying subscription television for some months, the council, unanimously adopted a resolution urging that tests be held without delay to confirm or deny what now "appears probable"—that pay TV would cause a great increase in employment in the motion picture industry.

The resolution declares that "opponents of subscription television service are unwilling to give the public the opportunity to test and decide the merits of subscription service."

It further states that "subscription television service would greatly increase the number of new motion pictures in this country by an estimated employment of 100,000 new jobs." Therefore "widespread public tests of subscription television (should) be authorized by the FCC at the earliest possible moment, in order that the merits of pay television service without advertising may be analyzed and compared with television controlled by advertisers and networks and that decisions may be intelligently reached as to the effect on the national economy, and on employment in the entertainment industry, of a combination of both types of television services."

Move Against Union Postponed

MOTION for a temporary injunction against Local 1212 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, New York, by the National Labor Relations Board, scheduled for hearing in U. S. District Court, New York, June 4, has been postponed [B&T, June 3]. IBEW asked for postponement on grounds its legal counsel was ill. The motion or show-cause order was initiated by NLRB following IBEW's "concerted refusal" to air a WCBS-TV New York telecast April 21 [B&T, April 29, et seq.].

L. A. Radio Indies Sign 30-Month Pact With IBEW

LOS ANGELES area independent radio stations, negotiating as a group, have reached an agreement with Local 45 of International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers for a 30-month contract covering technical employees of the stations.

The terms, retroactive to May 1, call for a $10 increase a week for the first 18 months and another increase of $7.50 a week for the final 12 months. Under the new agreement five days each six months may be added to cumulative sick leave above the former 30-day maximum, so that in the 2½ years an employee could accumulate up to 55 days of sick leave.

The stations also agreed to contribute 1% of wages to the IBEW pension and welfare fund. The terms have been ratified by the membership of Local 45 and station agreements are expected to be signed within the week.

Also anticipated this week is the conclusion of negotiations between the independent stations and AFTRA, which have been continued on an individual station basis following the breakdown of group dealing for a new contract for announcers to succeed the one which, like that of IBEW, expired April 30.

WGAW Sets Up Pay Tv Committee

IMPLEMENTING the stand taken last month by the national council of Writers Guild of America that toll tv is to be considered a separate field by writers, with full separation of all rights [B&T, May 13], the council of WGA. West, meeting last Monday, appointed Karl Tunberg chairman of a special pay tv committee to be made up of members of both screen branch and tv-radio branch of WGAW.

The WGAW committee will expand residually into tv by forming a screen branch committee and an overall guild committee in addition to the present tv-radio branch committee headed by Erma Lazarus.

N. Y. RTDG Elects Donovan

THOMAS DONOVAN, CBS-TV, was elected president of the New York local of Radio & Television Directors Guild last fortnight, succeeding John J. Dillon, of NBC-TV. Others elected were: Martin Houde, NBC-TV, vice president; Lee Jones, NBC Radio, secretary, and Marshall Diskin, ABC-TV, treasurer. All are network program directors.

AFTRA Agrees on Disc Rises

THE American Federation of Television & Radio Artists reported last week that tentative agreement has been reached on a new contract with phonograph recording companies, providing for increases ranging from 10-12 1/2% for scale performers. The federation is awaiting reaction from the Chicago and Los Angeles locals to the proposals, expected this week, before making a final decision.

Scottish TV Ltd. Reports Audience Ready for Debut

A READY-MADE audience awaits the planned Aug. 31 debut of Scottish television, according to Roy Thomson, chairman of Scottish Television Ltd., programming contractor for the commercial Independent Television Authority.

Since tv did not come to Scotland until 1952, most sets there are newer models that are either multi-channel or easily convertible, according to the STV head. This contrasts with the situation in England where the advent of commercial television 21 months ago necessitated wholesale conversion of receivers to receive the new ITA along with with BBC's long-established non-commercial service.

Mr. Thomson anticipates that STV will start with 200,000 converted sets and, judging by the present rate of conversions, there should be 400,000 receivers for commercial tv by the end of the first year's operations. With this set circulation, Mr. Thomson expects STV to cover almost 80% of Scotland's 5.1 million population.

Scottish Television headquarters will be set up in the Theatre Royal in Glasgow, which has been undergoing refurbishing to become one of the best modern tv studios in Britain. The main studio will accommodate an audience of 755.

Programming will follow the London pattern with about 50 hours per week. Mr. Thomson expects that 10 or 11 live hours per week during the first five months. STV has conducted 20 weekly exhibitions in every sizeable city and town within its expected range to instruct Scots on the aims of commercial tv.

Reiner Sees Red Propaganda In East Germany Tv Buildup

MANNY REINER, foreign sales manager for Television Programs of America Inc., who recently returned from a five-week trip to Europe [B&T, June 10], declared that one of the most interesting developments in the foreign tv industry is current construction of new television transmitters in Eastern Germany.

"These new transmitters are being built for only one purpose," says Mr. Reiner, "and as you might expect, it's strictly political." Mr. Reiner feels the Reds in East Germany could not possibly be building the transmitters for their own estimated 55,000 sets, but rather are going to use them to broadcast propaganda for West German consumption. "That this is indisputably true is easily demonstrated," states Mr. Reiner. "Western Germany now has nearly a million sets. By the end of this year, the total may reach 1,400,000."

Mr. Reiner reported further on the immense growth of commercial tv in West Germany. Besides the popularity of tv with the German people as shown by the rising number of home receivers, he said, there is the fact that West Germany now has eight tv stations, joined together in its own network, Deutches Fernsehen.

"The Munich station was first to air commercials,” says Mr. Reiner, “with Western Berlin following. Reaction was highly favorable and commercial patterns should spread by the fall.” Mr. Reiner definitely feels that in the near future West Germany “will be a prime foreign market for U. S. television films.”

Soviet Can Equal or Surpass U. S. in Electronics—Dyer

ALTHOUGH the Soviet Union lags behind the U. S. in the production of electronics equipment, the country has the potential to equal or surpass the output here within the next 10 years.

This was the opinion last fortnight of John N. Dyer, vice president in charge of engineering and research for Airborne Instrument Labs, M. D. I., upon his return to New York from a two-week trip to Russia. Mr. Dyer was one of four U. S. specialists who visited technical institutes, radio and television manufacturing plants and other facilities at the invitation of the Soviet Union. A report on their findings will be sent to the State Dept.

Mr. Dyer said Russia will produce about 2.5 million television sets this year but added that although this figure is comparatively low in relationship to the U. S, the output is significant in view of the “small total volume of experience” Russia has had in the field.

He said Soviet production of miniature resistors, vacuum tubes, television camera tubes and transmission equipment is “comparable in quality to the U. S. but transistor equipment is inferior. Mr. Dyer reported that laboratory equipment was better and “in greater quantity” than in any laboratory he had seen in the U. S.

“I have no doubt that their scientists and physicists are every bit as competent as ours,” Mr. Dyer declared. “However, the missing element lies in the fact that they simply do not have the long years of background and history of experience that we have here.”

Mr. Dyer warned that Russia might well surpass the U. S. in technical developments because the Soviet Union can train more scientists and engineers from its huge population and because of its preferential treatment of scientists and engineers.

Cuban Outlet Suspended 24 Hours

ALTHOUGH there is no “legal” censorship in Cuba, broadcasting by Radio Reloj in Havana, the news and time station of the CMQ network, was suspended for 24 hours June 10 by Ramon Vasconcelos, minister of communications. Mr. Vasconcelos ordered the suspension because of a broadcast the previous week reporting a clash between Government troops and the forces of Fidel Castro, rebel leader, at Cana Brava in Oriente Province.

CBC Rules on Deodorants

DEODORANT advertising is to be allowed on CBC radio and television networks, provided positive advertising methods are used, Walter E. Powell, CBC commercial manager, has announced at Toronto commercial headquarters. Advertising copy has to be approved by the CBC commercial acceptance division. Until now deodorant advertising on Canadian networks has been limited to household deodorants. Personal deodorants may now be advertised with certain copy limitations, including that of “social acceptability,” and demonstrations that do not become too personal.

It is expected that as a result of the lifting of the ban against such advertising, a number of deodorant makers will use radio and TV network shows this summer.

Religious Radio-Tv Workshop Opens on July 29 in New York

U. S., Canadian and other foreign religious leaders will meet in New York again this summer for a two-week International Religious Radio-TV Workshop, it was announced last week by the sponsoring National Council of Churches of Christ (USA). The annual conference begins July 29.

Included in the seminar are tours of network studios and talks by religious and commercial broadcasters. These include Pamela Ilott, CBS director of religious broadcasts; Gordon Alderman, program director at WTEN-TV, Syracuse; Rev. Dana Kennedy, executive director of radio and television for the Protestant Episcopal National Council, and Rev. Charles H. Schmitz, broadcast training director for NCCC.

Purpose of the 14-day study of broadcasting is to familiarize the clergy with what NCCC calls “the best way to reach most people with the gospel”—through television.

CBC Outlets Not Exempt

CBC radio and television stations are not exempt from prosecution under the Lord's Day Act, Ontario Chief Justice J. C. McRuer ruled at Toronto on June 7. The CBC, CKY Torono, and three Toronto newspapers are charged with violating the Lord's Day Act on March 17. With the ruling against the CBC, trial of the stations and newspapers is to be held at Toronto in June 19.

The charges under the Lord's Day Act were laid by the Ontario Attorney-General on the issuance of a Sunday newspaper by the Toronto Telegram on March 17. The charge under the Lord's Day Act is for gathering and disseminating news and advertising on Sundays, work not considered "a work of mercy or necessity," which types of work are allowed under the 50-year old legislation.

CBC Establishes Export Unit

CBC has established an export department to handle sales of Canadian-produced television programs. The department was made necessary by the continuing demand for Canadian tv programs in Great Britain. The new export department is part of the CBC commercial division. Gunnar Rugheimer, has been appointed manager of the new export department.

In the past year CBC has sold 20 film recordings of its tv dramas to the British Broadcasting Corp.

DOMINANCE

There are all kinds, but KTTV created an unprecedented kind of dominance by walking off with four 1st Place Awards in the annual station competition sponsored by The Billboard:

For the best job of promoting a syndicated film series (Code 3)
For the best job of promoting a feature film series (Colgate Theatre)
For the most effective job of programming TV film shows
For the most outstanding job of selling national and regional advertisers

Any one of 480 television stations selling time today could have won these awards, but only one did... KTTV.

These awards are negotiable. Ask your Blair man how KTTV can convert this dominance into money...

Progress Is Our Most Important Product

GENERAL ELECTRIC
YOUNG QUESTIONS ‘POWER’ RADIO

ADAM YOUNG Inc., New York station representative whose list includes several radio outlets with high power, last week said in effect that a so-called "powerhouse" radio station is not necessarily powerful as an advertising medium in today's market. It did so by releasing the second in a series of three critical surveys on the status of radio in the U. S. today [B&T, May 13; CLOSED CIRCUIT, June 3).

The study states that "implied effectiveness, based upon facilities alone, e. g., power, coverage, cannot measure a station's true advertiser value. It also implies that a good deal of the power boasted by "powerhouse" station managers is purely physical and that this is not the sort of "power" today's advertiser needs. Rather, the power that sells is programming popularity, the report concludes.

The report wastes little time getting to specifics. In fact, it signals its punch on the cover page, by quoting the Roman statesman-poet Cicero: "Power ... is so far from being desirable in itself that it sometimes ought to be refused. and sometimes to be resigned."

Things have changed, the report says. "A few years ago," it states, the "powerhouse stations" offered dominance of market, coverage of other adjacent markets, and penetration of vast rural areas. Furthermore, their rates--at that time--were "in reasonable alignment with delivered audiences."

But no more do these conditions hold true, the report claims. With the growth of tv and the decline of radio networks, local stations have proven beyond a doubt that it's the popular acceptance of its programming, not the power, that has accounted for their "spectacular audience gains." (To back this up, the Young study cites a comparison look at Pulse share of audience data between November 1952 and November 1956. Clear channel stations [FCC Classes I and II] have gained, but regional and local stations [Class III and IV] have bypassed them in audience.)

The report goes on: "Often a powerful station will encompass several markets within its signal area (exclusive of its local market). It would appear, therefore, that the advertiser using such a station eliminates the need for employing local radio in each of these markets. While such reasoning was applicable a few years ago, audience measurements do not substantiate this theory today. There are few major markets which are not served effectively by local independent stations. Consequently, listeners need not rely upon stations many miles distant from their own market for entertainment and information." Again, Pulse is cited as proof.

But, said the Young study, this does not mean that "powerhouse stations" no longer serve advertisers' needs. In the case of Tampa-St. Petersburg, where the "outside area" constitutes a sizeable percentage of the twin-city market, the effective buying income of the non-metropolitan area (76% of the metropolitan EBI) is "virtually as important as the metropolitan market area itself to national advertisers," thus, power is required. On the other hand, in Phoenix, Ariz., the outside area's effective buying income is but 39% of metropolitan Phoenix' EBI, thus, that area's importance is considerably reduced so far as national advertisers are concerned.

Another argument of the powerhouse stations is that they reach America on the move, the car audience. But, asks Young, how many drivers are aware of the station's existence, e. g., call letters, frequency, if these stations do not promote themselves via highway billboards? "Furthermore," the study says, "programming must be adaptable to the desire of the traveler (i.e., road bulletins, weather reports, news, and non-distracting entertainment). This format is usually characteristic of the independent station...

"It is seldom that this 'auto-plus' audience is of sufficient value to the advertiser by itself to justify paying the higher rates associated with the more powerful stations (again, the exception would hold true in tourist-heavy areas such as Florida)."

In discussing this latest report, Mr. Young and his radio research vice president, Bill Crumley, pointed out that they had "no axe to grind," but that the survey merely reflected the Young firm's credo: "Local programming on the grass roots' level." Mr. Young said that he felt network programming was more a liability than an asset to a station's standing. Asked whether this report could possibly injure the rep firm's standing with its own client roster, or at least a segment of it, Mr. Crumley said: "It's a chance we have to take. . . . What's good for radio is good for us."

Night Radio 'Prime,'
Reports PGW’s Teter
AN answer to current attempts to get radio stations to make substantial cuts in their nighttime rates is being released today (Monday) by Peters, Griffin, Woodward Inc.
Robert H. Teter, PGW vice president and radio director, said studies conducted by his firm over a period of 10 months show that, dollar for dollar, nighttime is already “prime time” in terms of audience opportunity for radio advertisers.
Nighttime spot radio rates now in effect, his said, enable an advertiser to buy 9.6% more radio families at night (between 6 and 10 p.m.) than in the most-sought-after morning times (6:30-9 a.m.). Under current rates the advertiser can get that much more at night for the same expenditure and with essentially the same audience composition,
Mr. Teter asserted.
The PGW study made no reference to the current move, spearheaded by the representation firm of Edward Petry &
Co., to encourage radio stations to cut nighttime prices to approximately one-half of daytime charges in order to entice more advertisers into evening periods [87].
But there seemed little doubt that, although the origin of the PGW study predated the Petry move by several months, the release of the data was intended at least in part to offset rate-cut drives.
Mr. Teter said, "Broadcasters and advertisers should examine their position and attitudes toward nighttime spot radio broadcasting to make sure they are not overlooking one of the most powerful selling opportunities in advertising."
The PGW study covered client stations in 23 markets of all sizes, embracing more than 30% of all U. S. radio homes, officials explained.
It also showed, they said, that the composition of audiences is substantially the same day and night. For instance, they pointed out, it was found that there is a slightly larger percentage of men listeners at night (42%) than in the morning (39%).

installments will be paid through this past May 21. It has paid $622,750 to Cowles Magazines, Curtis Pub. Co. and McCall Corp. for assuming unfilled magazine subscriptions and will pay another $1.8 million in installments running into 1958.

- It has arrived at a settlement with its former employees regarding severance pay by adding $645,000 to the $500,000 it has paid out already. Settlement will be made in installments between now and the second half of 1958. This was the result of legal action taken by the employees against the parent company. But still pending is a $300,000 suit launched last year by former KFWB General Sales Manager Morton Sidley.

Despite these and other liabilities plaguing the company, its new board chairman, Wilton D. Cole, predicted a brighter future for Crowell-Collier. Optimism is based on the continuing sales gain of its book-publishing subsidiary, its record clubs and KFWB. “This station,” Mr. Cole said, “is located in one of the best and most rapidly growing radio broadcasting markets in the U.S. and your management believes that the outlook for the growth of this subsidiary is good.”

Attorneys See No Legal Bar To Giving L. A. Revenue Data

THERE is no legal objection to supplying the city clerk of the city of Los Angeles with information concerning the sources of revenue of radio and tv stations, the location of offices, studios and transmitters and the division of audience inside and outside of city limits, in the opinion of a committee of broadcast attorneys who met last Wednesday to discuss the proper legal approaches to the request of the city for this information (WT, June 3).

The goal is to determine a formula for applying the city’s sales and use tax to broadcast operations if they are determined to be taxable.

While the final decision is of course up to the management of the individual broadcast stations and networks, their lawyers agreed that providing the city with this sort of information would in no way constitute a concession as to taxability, Richard Jenks of CBS, chairman of the committee, said. The group stressed, however, that in providing this information the broadcasters should show clearly how much of their business comes from advertisers and agencies from outside the city, how much of their physical plant (studios, transmitters, offices) is located outside city limits and what percent of their total audience listens or views from outside.

On the last point, Mr. Jenks said that several stations have estimated that only about 30% of their audience is located inside the city of Los Angeles.

The committee, organized at the suggestion of Southern California Broadcasters Assn., but including attorneys from tv as well as radio stations and networks, will hold another meeting this week. Mr. Jenks said. Attending last week’s meeting were Harry Warner of KTMA (TV), Bruce Baumestein of KTTV (TV) and William Whitsett of Don Lee Broadcasting System. Robert P. Myers, ABC, and Richard H. Graham, NBC, were unable to be present last week, but are expected at future meetings.

Oberfelder Quits Burke-Stuart; Kerr Temporary Replacement

THE 13-month association by Theodore I. Oberfelder with Burke-Stuart Co., New York, station representative, ended Thursday with the announcement by B-S Board Chairman John M. Keating that Mr. Oberfelder and he had agreed upon a termination of services. Mr. Oberfelder, former sales vice president of WABC New York, had served as president of the firm since May 1956.

No successor has been designated, but Mr. Keating temporarily has appointed Allan Kerr, general manager, to be in charge of the representation company.

Mr. Keating’s statement read in part: "The agreement provides that Oberfelder is relieved of his duties immediately and he has resigned," Mr. Oberfelder said that the parting was “amicable," that he had asked to be relieved, but that he had nothing but the highest regard for Burke-Stuart. He said he intends to go into station ownership and that he has “two or three” properties lined up which look promising.

MOSCOW—Premier Bulganin made them laugh when he told Bea Johnson's group of pioneering U. S. broadcasters that he knew they would not be allowed to tell the truth about the Soviet Union when they got home.

PLYMOUTH—Radio and television ran ahead of the crowds gathered at Plymouth Rock, Mass., to start coverage of the arrival of the Mayflower II days before it was an accomplished fact.

WEEI Boston dispatched a cabin cruiser and an airplane Sunday, June 9, to start the story 200 miles at sea. As interest mounted in the days following, WEEI broadcast ship-to-shore reports from its cruiser, which carried, in addition to station and CBS staffers, Mrs. Joseph Meany, mother of the Mayflower II cabin boy, and the Plymouth Plantation Committee, headed by Henry Hornblower II. WEEI newsman broadcast the landing Thursday from two booths at the reception center in Plymouth, where ceremonies took place.

WBZ-TV Boston welcomed the latter day pilgrims with four cameras to chronicle their progress from the bay to shore. Posted on land, sea and in the air, WBZ-TV crews handled extensive local and NBC-TV coverage slotted throughout the day Wednesday and Thursday. Highlight of Thursday coverage of the landing was an hour telecast of the colorful welcoming, sponsored on WBZ, where ceremonies took place.

The plane sent out by WNAC-TV Boston and the Yankee Network sighted the famous bark Sunday. From that point WNAC and WNAC-TV followed the Mayflower II into harbor, detailing its course in live pick ups and newfilm. Boston stations installed special lines at Plymouth and Provincetown to handle the event.

WCRB Boston added another dimension to its spot interviews and reports of the landing by programming a salute using music of the Mayflower I era. WORL Boston chartered a private plane to see the squrrerigger to shore. Its tapes were on the air within one hour of the event.

Reports by WHDH Boston during the week of the ship's arrival were fed to WWDC Washington and WFRB Baltimore. They began Sunday when a special Northeast Airlines radio-tv flight sighted the little vessel, continuing from a charter boat via ship-to-shore reports Monday night off Nantucket Light, going on to Provincetown, and climaxing at Plymouth Thursday. There the hometown station, WPLM Plymouth concluded the story it had begun nearly eight weeks ago at Plymouth, England. At that time WPLM covered the embarkation by trans-Atlantic telephone (B+T, May 6).

MOSCOW—May Day tapes collected here by Bea Johnson of KMBC-AM-TV Kansas City and the group of colleagues she organized for a precedent-breaking tour are being heard currently on stations across the United States. Miss Johnson and her group (photo facing page) were said to be the first group of Americans ever admitted to Moscow on May Day, the first group of American women ever to visit the U.S.S.R., and the first news group in the world to record interviews with Premier Bulganin and Marshal Zhukov.

At the time the photograph was taken, Premier Bulganin had just spoken the first news story. "I do not want to make one of you a communist. No! I want only one thing. When you are back home you'll tell your people truthfully about us... But it will be very difficult for you... You will not be allowed to tell all these things—and if you start to do it—you will be fired from your job."

However, Miss Johnson reports the touring broadcasters are back on the job in the U.S. and are running a series of broadcasts based on a wealth of taped material they gathered, and supplementing the story of what they heard with what they saw.

The May Day tour was the fruit of two years' effort on the part of Miss Johnson. She had taken a group of broadcasters to the Big Four conference in Geneva in 1955. There Pravda newsmen suggested bringing a similar group to Russia and suggested May Day as the time to see the most people and get the biggest story. But, they added, Americans could never be received that day because May Day was a family affair.

Miss Johnson came home and contacted all the officials, experts, and travel agents she could find. She talked to foreign correspondents who had tried repeatedly to get recorded interviews with top Soviet brass. "Impossible," was the answer on all sides, both to the question of a May Day tour and to recording interviews. She wrote twice to Ambassador Georgi Zaroubin. No reply. She wrote Intourist, Russia's official tourist bureau. No luck. Her children started posting signs at home, "Bears Ban Bea." For days Miss Johnson and her secretary got up before dawn to telephone Russia. In the midst of this effort a travel agency received a cable that the Soviet Union had granted visas for a May Day visit. The next day telephone service improved, and Miss Johnson got a good connection with Moscow. Through an interpreter she heard that all her wishes would be granted.

Many of them were, when the women got to the Kremlin. Twenty-three officials Miss Johnson had asked to interview on tape were on hand at conferences, luncheons and receptions arranged for them. Miss Johnson and her group got their unprecedented recorded interviews and left the next day for Czechoslovakia and Hungary. But there the red carpet ran out. Official interviews Miss Johnson had tried to arrange in those Iron Curtain countries were canceled.

RCA to Install C-C TV System in Georgia Elementary School

WHAT is said to be the nation's first state-sponsored educational closed-circuit television system will be installed this summer by RCA for the Georgia Department of Education, it was announced last week by Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, and E. C. Tracy, manager, RCA broadcast and tv equipment department.

The system will be installed in the Conley Hills Elementary School, Fulton County, and will go into classroom operation in September. It will serve primarily as a "laboratory" installation for Georgia educators who are studying the practicability of state-wide teaching-by-television. The project was authorized by the state board of education.

Mrs. Mary Grubbs is the tv coordinator for the state department of education.

"The installation will mark the first time to our knowledge that a state department of education has established a pilot school to explore the applications and potential of educational television," Dr. Collins said. "It is one of the first permanent installations of educational tv facilities at the grade school level."

Mr. Tracy said that the Conley Hills tv system will be a multi-channel installation, embracing four RCA tv camera chains linked by closed-circuit with twenty-six RCA Victor tv receivers installed in classrooms throughout the school. Film and live educational tv programs will be originated from a centralized tv studio now under construction within the school.

Two RCA "tv eye" cameras will be used with individual 16 mm sound-film projectors for school-wide transmission of educational motion picture films. Two RCA ITV-6 camera chains also will be installed in the tv studio for direct pick-up of lectures, demonstrations, and other live programs. Signals from the four camera chains will be fed to a multi-channel transmitter, for amplification and distribution throughout the school. The multi-channel installation will enable each classroom to tune in any one of the four school-originated film or studio programs, or any program broadcast by local or network tv stations in the area.

Willis Dials Lucky Number
In Contest by KDAL-AM-TV

HERBERT A. WILLIS, president of Herbert Willis & Assoc., Minneapolis advertising agency, dialed the lucky number in the telephone contest recently conducted by KDAL-AM-TV Duluth, Minn., and for his trouble collected a two-week free vacation at Burntside Lodge near Ely, Minn.

To acquaint agencies with the KDAL-AM-TV market story, the stations installed special telephones in Minneapolis, Chicago and New York offices. John Grandy, sales manager of KDAL-TV, recorded a sales message, and agencymen were invited to call his number. KDAL-TV Commercial Manager Odin Ramsland estimates that 75% of agency people invited to make the telephone call responded, and 30% took the trouble to write KDAL-AM-TV, thereby becoming eligible to win the vacation prize. Mayor Eugene Lambert of Duluth, after drawing Mr. Willis' name from entries, wrote all contestants acknowledging entries.

Now in Force in 4,000 Markets

"CHAIN LIGHTNING," NBC Spot Radio's plan for merchandising by point-of-sale display, is now in operation in more than 4,000 chain and independent supermarkets in metropolitan areas of six major cities, according to Jack Reber, director of NBC Spot Sales. Mr. Reber made the announcement in connection with the mailing to agency prospects this week of a brochure explaining the plan's operation by radio stations represented by NBC Spot Sales, namely: WRCA New York, WRCV Philadelphia, WRC Washington, WMAQ Chicago, KNBC San Francisco and KGU Honolulu.

Under the plan, the stations have contracted with markets in their areas to provide special display space for advertisers. Sponsors qualify for these displays by scheduling a spot radio campaign on one or more of the "Chain Lightning" stations.

WVNJ HEEDS ITS OWN ADVICE, EARNs ADVERTISING'S REWARDS

WVNJ Newark, N. J., believes strongly in the old catch phrases: "It Pays to Advertise" and "Practice What You Preach." In fact, the station is spending $400,000 to promote itself this year (50% in trade agreements)—and with good reason. This is why:

- Last January, WVNJ was considered "low man" among the three major stations in the northern New Jersey market (which also penetrates the New York area). For some time the station had been mulling the idea of scrapping its "disc jockey music-news plus 'hard sell'" format. It decided then to institute a format stressing "Great Albums of Music." But even with a product it considered superior and likely to please, the station realized it had an educational missionary job to perform on listeners—and in a hurry.

- Then and there, General Manager Ivon B. Newman and his associates handed over this project to Jay Victor & Assoc., Newark. The advertising agency and public relations organization conceived the plan of selling the station as a whole rather than specific programming under the theme: "Make It Part of Your Day" (referring to listening to WVNJ). After more than four months of building up so-called "product identity" through vigorous on-the-air promotion, newspaper advertising and various merchandising moves, the station today points to these accomplishments:
  - WVNJ is 100% sold out in commercial availabilities and is turning away clients, as compared with 45% sold out last January.
  - Today 40% of the station's business comes from national sponsors whereas last January only 10% was national.
  - WVNJ's format, consisting of record albums of music (show tunes, motion picture songs, standard tunes etc.) designed for relaxed listening, plus five-minute news segments broadcast every hour on the hour. Announcers, as distinguished from disc jockeys, deliver the commercials and announce the musical titles without any personal comment. Mr. Newman, Stephen Van Gluck, the program di- rector, and the station's music librarians control the programming. There are no disk jockey "spils" about records.
  - To sell this package, Jay Victor & Assoc. created the "Make It Part of Your Day" motif, linking listening to WVNJ to such customary and satisfying daily activities as feeding the baby, eating a hearty breakfast, playing with the family dog. An advertisement that was broadcast on the station and appeared in newspapers on Good Friday (April 19) ap- proached the station's theme in this way: "Make It Part of Your Day. During this holiday season—whatever your belief—seek the spirit that has given you faith and make prayer a part of your day. Even the desert has flowers and the dryest throat can sing a hymn. WVNJ plays great albums of music. But the greatest albums of all are in the voice of man reaching for the ear of God."

- At the outset, the advertisements ran regularly in the Newark Evening News, which owns the station, and the New York Daily Mirror, which carried the space on a trade deal. These advertise- ments were aimed exclusively at the listening audience. After two months, the station decided to impress advertisers with the growth in the station's listener- ship and slanted advertisements in the New York Times and the Newark News to prospective sponsors. As further evi- dence that it believes in the value of ad- vertising, the station is earmarking $400,- 000 for a one-year advertising campaign, including newspapers as well as trade publications.

- One important facet of the station's overall effort to acquaint listeners and advertisers with WVNJ's new "face-lift- ing" was a free monthly program booklet listing all "Great Albums of Music" selec- tions to be played during the period. Starting with about 10,000 requests for the booklet in January, Mr. Newman said, the figure jumped to 30,000 in two months and continues to mount.

- With the Victor agency, the station has used another approach to reach New York and New Jersey agencies. It has reprinted 1,200 copies of each display ad for distribution to time buyers and also has sent them free programming booklets.

- The station recently raised its rates from $9.50 to $12.50 for one-minute spot announcements but business continues to increase, according to Mr. New- man. He sees the foreseeable future as "very bright" with an extension of the formula that has paid off handsomely to date: "Give the public a good product—and advertise it and merchandise it as any other product that is up for sale."
CBS-TV's Friendly Unfriendly As Charges, NBC Helicopter Fly

NETWORK rivalry took to the air and sea last week when CBS-TV charged NBC-TV with using a helicopter Monday to buzz the early-morning Jimmy Dean Show which was emanating from the deck of the USS Iowa at the International Naval Review in Norfolk, Va. NBC-TV production personnel on the scene explained the incident was "a pure coincidence."

Edwin Friendly Jr., CBS daytime program director, claimed the helicopter was in contact with the NBC control tower for the full half-hour the Dean troupe was telecasting and remained "noisily stationary," Semaphore signals, he said, were used to "direct the broadcast sound receiving helicopter away," but these were not successful. Mr. Friendly said NBC’s explanation about "coincidence" was "unconvincing" and hinted that the action might be connected with the Jimmy Dean Show "nosing out the NBC-Garrowsay slot in the Nielsen war."

But NBC reiterated later in the week that the event was a "pure coincidence." A spokesman said the helicopter was up in the air on a rehearsal run for the Home show and the pilot was not aware of the inconvenience he was causing the CBS-TV program. The NBC spokesman said that a few minutes after a U. S. Navy officer, serving as liaison, apprised the network of the incident, NBC ordered the helicopter pilot down. Producers of the Home show, he said, were "distressed" about the episode.

Puerto Rico Likes U. S. TV Shows

ABC Film Syndication has sent advertisers and agencies a research bulletin designed to show that in the Puerto Rican market U. S. syndicated tv film shows dubbed in Spanish have high audience appeal. Compiling figures from the March Telepulse, ABC Film calculated that four of the top 15 shows in Puerto Rico (28.6%) are Spanish-dubbed U. S. films, even though less than 11% of all programs on the country are syndicated films. The bulletin includes a list of ABC Film Spanish-dubbed series, consisting of Passport to Danger, Rocket Squad, The Three Musketeers, Code Three and Sheena, Queen of the Jungle.

Announcing Mid-Year 1956 Radio News

Radio Advertising in the 1956-57 season will have a new look, according to the Broadcast Market Research Co. of Chicago, which forecasts a 10% increase in radio station budgets this year. The agency said that a major reason for this increase is the growing interest in TV advertising, which is expected to reach $500 million in the current year.

WTMJ-TV Feature Offers Aid To Meet Problems of Aging

LAST September Milwaukee’s attention was drawn to the growing problems of old age by a weekly segment on Beulah Donahue’s daily Woman’s World show on WTMJ-TV Milwaukee.

The feature is called “The Vintage Years” and presents discussions with experts on the subject. Last month it flowered into a five-day conference co-sponsored by WTMJ-TV and the city recreation-adult education department, and the weeks following are seeing the birth of a community-wide effort to help senior citizens with their problems on a continuing basis.

Miss Donahue’s idea for a conference on pre-retirement planning evolved after an appearance on one of her shows by D. B. Dyer, director of the Dept. of Municipal Recreation & Adult Education of the Milwaukee Public Schools. The two collaborated on the project that eventually drew more than 600 private citizens, educators, government and industry representatives to WTMJ-TV’s Radio City for the meetings May 21-25.

Daily sessions, held from 1:30-4 p.m., featured doctors, clergymen, sociologists, educators, jurists and other leading citizens. After speeches and panel sessions, Miss Donahue each day led an audience brainstorm session. At the conference’s conclusion a committee took the ideas generated in five days and went to work. One of its projects is assisting the Municipal Recreation Dept. in setting up courses on pre-retirement planning. Another is developing a permanent advisory service to work on old age questions. WTMJ-TV will stay in the front ranks of the movement by presenting a special tv series to augment the Recreation Dept. courses.

Gallo Winery, sponsor of the program) and two glasses.

WNBQ (TV) Holds ‘Fish Festival’
WNBQ (TV) Chicago is co-operating with the Illinois Dept. of Conservation in a Fish Festival contest for lucky anglers who watch its Crunch and Des Show each Saturday evening. A fish worth $25,000 in cash is released in one of 12 local area fishing spots each week. A variation each week. A variety including bass, yellow perch, crappies, bluegills and bullheads bear numbered tags good for the top award or one of 450 merchandise prizes. Among them are outdoor cooking units, camping tents, fishing kits, sleeping bags, picnic chests, suitcases and badminton sets. Details and contest rules are explained on each program, aired by WNBQ at 10:30 p.m., with festival running June 1-Sept. 15. The rules: When the fish is caught, it must be brought to WNBQ studios with name, address, age and telephone number of angler and two witnesses, plus data on the fish itself.

‘Show-a-Thon’ Promotes KTLA Star
TO introduce Mae Williams—singer who has started her own weekly half-hour program on KTLA (TV) Los Angeles—to the viewing public, KTLA put her on a special “Show-A-Thon.” Miss Williams made 13 appearances on as many programs and in as many costumes during the afternoon and evening of one broadcast day. She later was introduced to advertiser and agency executives at a champagne party.

NBC Adds ‘Nightline From Moscow’

Levine, NBC’s Moscow correspondent, will broadcast on the three days, starting at 8:30 p.m., with news of nightlife in Moscow, human interest stories and general information.

Phila. Stations Plan Radio Month
PHILADELPHIA stations will hold an annual Radio Month, following a successful promotion conducted during May. Believing that National Radio Week (May 5-11) was much too short, the city’s broadcasters used the entire month to exploit the medium. Ralf Brent, of WIP, acting chairman of the promotion committee, said a permanent committee will be formed Aug. 12 by the city’s 10 stations.

“We intend to recommend that our program be adopted throughout Pennsylvania and nationally in 1958,” Mr. Brent said. Each station broadcast a theme 100 times a week during May, using a jingle based on the sentence, “All through your home and on the go, you get much more from radio.” Each radio distributor in the city contributed $600 worth of used display materials. Miss Philadelphia promotion received extensive newspaper coverage and provided retail tie-ins. A two-hour motorcade also was staged.

Electro-Voice Model 667 Cardioid Microphone Gives You a Choice of 40 Response Curves! and Presence Control*

THERE'S NOTHING MORE VERSATILE ON THE MARKET!

Model 667 does everything well! This new E-V Variable "D" cardioid incorporates an in-line transistor preamplifier which can be located near the microphone or in control room. Individual Bass, Treble and Presence controls select any one of 40 frequency response characteristics for exacting operations.

*Unique new Presence Control (see response curves on preamplifier) provides 6.5 db boost, at 3500 cps. Switch is located on back of preamplifier.

Increased front-to-back ratio means better discrimination against unwanted sounds. There is no boominess from close talking. Performers can work 2 to 3 times further from the 667 than from conventional microphones—there is no loss of presence. Simplifies boom operation, saves time, eliminates crowding performer. Microphone is small—7 ⅞ inches long, ⅞ inches in diameter at maximum—and weighs just 11 ounces. Helps correct for studio acoustic deficiencies, minimizes the problem of flate, performs exceptionally well on location and open-air remotes.

See your authorized E-V Distributor. Get all the facts on Electro-Voice professional microphones. Write for Bulletin 120-8776.

The Taxpayer

Are high taxes reducing your incentive to work harder and earn more?

If you’re one of the more than 65 million Americans who hold down a job, you probably work about 40 hours a week.

But did you ever stop to consider that taxes are so high today you work for yourself only 27 of those 40 hours? The other 13 go to pay your share of the cost of government.

No one expects to live without taxes, obviously. But when they take more than $110 billion, or about one dollar out of every three earned, something’s wrong.

You pay these taxes in more ways than you know, too.

If you lived in California, for instance, made $7,500 last year, and listed a wife and two children as dependents, you were taxed these ways to start with: Federal income $875, Social Security $95, State income $25, Property tax $325, Auto license tax $40, State and Local sales tax $75 and Telephone tax $10.

This adds up to $1445 and it’s only the beginning.

Did you buy a car? Figure another $175 tax. The tax on the gasoline to run your car was at least $65. You also paid a 10% tax every time you bought a plane or train ticket or spent a dollar at the movies.

And you’re still not through. Because every company that made anything you bought had to pay taxes on practically everything that went into the product.

These thousands of indirect taxes were eventually passed on to you as part of the cost of your purchases.

The result? At least one-third of what you earned went to pay taxes in one form or another.

The real danger is obvious: taxes this high may be so discouraging that you have less incentive to work harder, earn more money and produce more.

TV SPELLS OPPORTUNITY FOR THE ART DIRECTOR

COMMERCIAL television has placed a new importance on the agency art director, writes William C. Duffy, one of the 70 contributors to the new book Art Directing: For Visual Communications and Selling [Hastings House, 41 E. 50th St., New York City, 240 pp. $15]. A native New Yorker, Mr. Duffy [pictured] is senior television-motion picture art director for McCann-Erickson. He pioneered in early experimental live and film tv shows and is said to be the first accredited tv art director. Mr. Duffy's chapter, from the television portion of the book, is presented herewith.

TELEVISION is, first and foremost, a visual medium. It is similar to and yet dissimilar to any other advertising, entertainment or communication medium. It presents a new field to the art director in which his job is huge, his scope wide—his potential unlimited.

The basic function of the television art director is a creative one. He is an idea man with a practical working knowledge of his medium and the overall techniques of advertising, psychology and research. He must know thoroughly and abreast of rapidly changing advertising, psychology and allied subjects and varied. They are the blueprints of the finished project. They act as a pattern for the producer and director in cost estimating, scene composition, animation execution, visual color and pacing. In short, they are the blueprints by which the original idea is guided to completion.

The functions of storyboards are many and varied. They show the client what he may expect from his commercial as a finished project. They act as a pattern for the producer and director in cost estimating, scene composition, animation execution, visual color and pacing. In short, they are the blueprints by which the original idea is guided to completion.

The television art director designs layouts for lettering, artwork, displays, packages, settings, lighting, costumes, makeup, animation, props and product photography. He is responsible for the construction of artwork and scenery used in commercials, selects the source of finished work and handles the cost estimating and final purchasing. He must follow through and supervise the work in all stages and, on its completion, give it his final stamp of approval. Thus, in television the art director may truly be called the "tastemaker of tomorrow."

Television is a complex medium that calls for a wide range of activities not generally required in other mediums. The budgets and deadlines are usually much tighter, further complicated by the absence of hard and fast rules of procedure.

Teamwork is an essential factor in the successful solution of any given problem. A good tv art director learns to work closely with the writers, producers and others concerned. While the personal contribution may be great, the personal recognition is relatively small—tv is not a one-man medium.

In television, the AD is not confined to his drawing board as much as are most art directors in other fields. His time is roughly divided between creative and client meetings, film screenings, on location and at studios (live, animation and film), in control rooms, at display and construction companies, and at prop and costume warehouses, or general window shopping. But this, too, varies between agencies.

Some AD's handle many more of the parts of a commercial than do others. It has been said, as a matter of fact, that the ideal commercial-creator would be an art director who could write advertising copy, then turn his cap around and go out and produce it.

The television art director should have, ideally, a background in the fine arts, advertising art, display, typography and lettering, illustration, architectural drafting, cartooning, design (set, package, industrial and general) and decoration. He must have an understanding of construction and dimensional artwork, and should be sufficiently flexible to meet the varied, changing requirements of the medium. In addition, knowledge of and interest in allied subjects such as the theatre, music, the dance, radio, photography, films, advertising and marketing, engineering, research, psychology, writing, salesmanship, business administration and public speaking will prove to be valuable assets.

The future possibilities of television art direction are unlimited. With the growth of tv as a sales, entertainment and educational force, the role of the AD is becoming more and more definite and important. The advent of color tv will only serve to increase both his work and his potential. When the cost of color tv sets reaches the level necessary to insure a large audience for advertisers, the art direction needed on color alone will call for specialization and concentration on color harmonies, color psychology and color as a sales impetus.

Color shouldn't have happened to television for at least three years—but it did, and the opportunities are boundless. Who else can handle the task but people who have been trained in just these specialties—the art directors?

There is a choice of futures in any one of a number of directions within the tv field—in advertising agencies both large and small, the major networks or in the smaller stations here and abroad, with art services, producers of live shows or film and animation, in scenic and display studios, with the advertising staffs of leading companies, with editorial and news services, or as a freelance with any of all of them. In other words, the tv art director can go as far as he chooses by working hard—as a pioneer, a salesman, a producer, a businessman and as an artist.

TWENTY QUESTIONS . . . AND ANSWERS

Q: If 50% of the client's money is in tv why are there so few tv art directors compared to print art directors?

A: The work done by print art directors has many outlets—magazine, newspaper, billboard, merchandising, editorial, and so forth. More art directors are needed to produce these varied media. But many agencies have added tv art directly to the print art directors who were capable of handling both. Remember, the tv industry is comparatively
Strange new “tools” of atomic-electric power

These are some of the strange new “tools” used to produce, test, or experiment with atomic-electric power. They are among the things that will help bring electricity from the atom.

“Tools” like these are being used in developing several atomic-electric plants now under way. A number of electric light and power companies from many parts of the country are working with each other and with equipment manufacturers and the Atomic Energy Commission to develop the plants.

For more than 75 years, America’s independent electric light and power companies have produced more electricity than any other nation in the world. And they have helped develop ways to produce it more efficiently year after year. That’s why you can expect electric companies to continue to do their part to advance the new science of producing electricity from the atom.

young. The number of tv art directors will grow fast.

Q: Do you need any additional art training for storyboards?
A: An art director trained to work quickly on newspaper and magazine roughs can adapt his style readily to storyboard roughs. However, he must learn to think in continuity, not picture by picture.

Q: Why do some advertisers use animation while others prefer “live action”?
A: That is a question many advertisers are asking their agencies. Generally, the animated commercial makes a pleasant impression, is good for name identification and stands up under repeated showings better than live action. On the other hand, the live action commercial has conviction to offer the viewer—he is more apt to be swayed by honest argument and a live demonstration. They both have their merits. That’s why you see so many commercial that employ both techniques in one commercial.

Q: Does one need a basic photographic—graphic arts—film production background?
A: It will help to understand the limitations and advantages of all three. A practical working knowledge is necessary. While actual experience in any of these is a distinct plus, it is not essential.

Q: Does one need a knowledge of timing in interpreting his storyboard?
A: One certainly does. For instance, it wouldn’t do to show an announcer walking from the library through a door to the patio if the action was covered by only one line or dialogue. Give him something else to do.

Q: Do you feel tv advertising will replace print advertising?
A: No. The advertiser cannot afford to dispense with any of the basic media. How and when he will use which depends on his budget, his product and public response.

Q: Are the opportunities in tv art direction greater than in print art direction?
A: That’s like asking whether the opportunities are greater for an illustrator or an art director. It depends on the man. There are great opportunities in both tv and print.

Q: Do you feel the trend in commercials on tv is to the “Buckeye”?
A: If you mean honest, logical, reason-why selling, the answer is yes. However, there is plenty of room for imagination in this field as long as you don’t violate the prime rule of ad making—selling the customer on your product.

Q: Are the monetary dividends as great in tv art direction as they are in print?
A: As in print, the salary varies with the man. A layout man gets less than an advertising art director. An able television art director or producer usually does as well financially as his opposite number in print.

Q: Do you have to have good color sense?
A: It’s becoming more important every day. A good color sense and the ability to put it down on paper will be an essential when color reaches its expectation. Color will convince many a housewife or husband that your product is the one for him. The realism of color needs careful handling on tv and, just as in the cinema, it will set the mood and set up the sale.

Q: Do you have a variety of art techniques or is drawing more important?
A: The most important thing is conveying the idea to the client. Drawing and variety of techniques are tools and naturally you’ll want to present your idea in the best form. Good draftsmanship will be needed to do this simply.

Q: Do you have to have a knowledge of interior decoration?
A: Whether you do planning of storyboards or actual production work, interior decoration and set dressing are a big part of the commercial picture. A badly decorated set can detract from the selling message—make it look cheap, create the wrong impression.

Q: What art medium is best and fastest to work in?
A: No limitation on this. Carbon pencil and smudge are popular. Pen and wash, pencil and pastel work out well. The objective is a snappy storyboard that can be photostated without losing the separation of tones in your original.

Q: How important is the tv art director in the all-over planning of a campaign?
A: If the campaign originates for use on tv, the tv art director is very important. To date, the actual campaign themes have been created largely by the copy chief and writers. The design and format of a tv campaign depend largely on the art director.

Q: Is the opportunity limited only to large agencies?
A: This depends on an agency’s tv billing. An art director in a smaller agency who can double in brass (tv and print) can usually make his own opportunity.

Q: Can a tv art director plan his commercial on an experimental basis and strive for something new in techniques or does he have to adhere to the old methods?
A: There is no ceiling on tv methods of planning a commercial. If the experimental technique can be indicated on a storyboard with a competent analysis of the reason why it will work, any client will be happy to have something new. But experiment on film is costly, and is apt to lose out to a proved technique on a dollar-and-cents basis alone.

Q: Do you feel the restrictions placed on a tv art director are greater than those of a print art director?
A: Yes. Less is known about tv art direction, about potential techniques. Many factors, such as the number of people involved in producing a commercial, the unions necessary to tv, the mechanical limitations of time, and the overall need for educating both the advertiser and the listener all contribute to limiting the commercial. This in itself is a great challenge and, as the industry grows and grows, the responsibility for good tv advertising will rest with the people who are best fitted for the job—the creative staff.

Q: How important are the restrictions placed on you in relation to what the client has requested?
A: About the same as in any medium. If you feel your client is restricting you, do two storyboards. Do one to his specifications (to the best of your ability) and then do a better one if you can. You can’t miss. Good commercials have a way of selling themselves.

Q: Isn’t it true the art director’s knowledge of advertising will be limited by working only in this medium?
A: No. Advertising has the same basic structure and appeals. Tv work will tend to narrow your expression. But it is a big field and your advertising knowledge will grow.

Q: What are the art director’s chances of becoming the executive art director?
A: If he has executive ability and overall knowledge of other media—why not? Remember, it took over 30 years to get the print art director to his present level. Tv needs time. The future and the men who make it will decide who will be the head man.
Only STEEL can do so many jobs so well

For A Tough Grind. This mill is used to grind the highly abrasives, low-grade iron ore called Taconite. Rolled Steel Plate Lining, bolted to the inside surface of the large revolving cylinder, lifts and tumbles the load and also protects the shell from the grinding action of the steel rods and the ore. This lining, especially made for such service, processed 1,100,000 tons of Taconite—another outstanding performance of USS Lorain-Rolled Plate Linings.

Homemade Bread, In A "Tin" Steel Pan. Commercial bakers, who can afford and demand the finest, say that "tin" bread pans give them a bigger, better loaf of bread. These "tin" pans are actually made from steel sheets, coated with a thin layer of pure tin. USS Tinplate, we call it. You can buy pans of this type at any department or variety store.

Steel Spider Web. If you ever needed it, here's proof that amazing things can be done with steel. This is an 83-foot-high dome for a potash storage building that will be covered with steel sheets. This complicated structure was prefabricated and erected by American Bridge Division of U.S. Steel.

SQUARE HOLES FOR SQUARE PEGS
APPLIES TO PROGRAMS, TOO

THE finest syndicated film show doesn't stand much of a chance for survival unless it is properly mated with the right sponsor's product and slotted in time that commands the proper audience. That's the conclusion of Herbert B. Leonard, producer of Screen Gem's Rin Tin Tin and 77th Bengal Lancers as well as co-producer with Norman Blackburn of Circus Boy. He cites the role of this compatibility factor in connection with the varying successes of these three programs. Mr. Leonard states his case this way:

I DON'T understand it. Why is it always the program that's at fault when the sponsor doesn't get the sales results he expected? Isn't it possible that the commercials weren't right? Or that the kind of people who watch that kind of program aren't the kind of people who buy the sponsor's products? Why does a program that has proved its ability to draw a good audience week after week get dropped for a new program whose audience pulling power has not been tested?

Let's get specific. Last fall, two new series started on NBC-TV as Sunday evening programs. One, The 77th Bengal Lancers, is a romantic, sophisticated adventure series dealing with a British regiment in India in the latter part of the 19th century. The second is Circus Boy, whose title tells the story.

Now look at the network's schedule. Roy Rogers, with proved juvenile appeal, is on at 6:30-7 p.m. Bengal Lancers, whose appeal is definitely to an adult audience, is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Circus Boy, again appealing primarily to the youngsters, follows at 7:30-8 p.m. If you were deliberately trying to lose your audience, you couldn't arrange things much better than by this switching from kids to adults and back again.

But that's not all. Bengal Lancers advertises one of General Foods' breakfast cereals and the commercials are aimed directly at the kids, although the program is not. Circus Boy's sponsor, Reynolds Metals, uses its commercial time to present an institutional message that to me appears miles over the heads of the juvenile viewers most likely to make up the program's regular audience.

How can such a formula work? The answer is that it can't. Both programs are leaving NBC this season. Bengal Lancers is going into syndication and Circus Boy is switching to ABC-TV with (finally) the right kind of sponsor, Mars Candy Co. Now, if the times and sponsors had only been reversed during their first year, both might well have been renewed for another season on NBC-TV.

Take one more example, Rin-Tin-Tin. Here's a series aimed at children, put on at 7:30-8 p.m., Fridays, a time when youngsters can watch without a family row about their staying up beyond bedtime on a school night, and sponsored by National Biscuit Co., whose products are consumed in great quantities by the youngsters who watch the adventures of the boy and his dog each week. This series has been on tv for three years and has just been renewed for two years more.

Do I sound vehement? If so, it may be because I produced all three of the programs I've been talking about. I'm not vain enough to think they're perfect just because I produced them. But I do wonder if it's not more than coincidence that the program which fits its time and product is the one which remains on the same network season after season.

In Hollywood, we take casting very seriously. If we don't get the right actors to portray the key roles in our pilot film, we'll never sell the series. It seems to me that the agencies on Madison Avenue should take their casting problem, that of getting the right show and the right time to reach the prospects for their client's products, just as seriously.

OVERSEAS DEMAND

PHILIP N. KRASNE, Gross-Krasne Inc., explains film distribution potential overseas, co-incident with company's establishment of international distribution subsidiary May. 28.

TODAY the status of television in Japan, France, Germany and Latin America is on a par with what we had in the U. S. in 1951. If you will recall the fantastic growth of our whole industry that took place within a few short months that year, you will see that it does not require unusual foresight to anticipate what tomorrow promises in the field of foreign tv distribution.

American distributors haven't even scratched the surface of one international market that already has an enormous potential for revenue. A recent experience of ours is an example of what can happen in this market, the United Kingdom. We were fortunate to sell our O, Henry Playhouse to the BBC for two complete runs and to get top dollar for our product. But I know that this is only a fraction of what we could have received if we distributed a product created from the point of universal acceptance from all markets. A proper sale in England alone can possibly bring an additional $250,000 on each series over and above what we get in national sales in the U. S.

That product with global appeal will receive global attention and achieve global sales.

IN CHOOSING RESEARCH

DONALD H. McCOLLUM, vice president, Schwerin Research Corp., speaking at last month's ANA meeting in Arrowhead Springs, Calif., lists six requirements for good research.

PROPER sample: Do you have enough people and are they the right people?

Applicability: Is the method really designed to measure what it claims to?

Reliability: If the same study is repeated, will it give the same result?

Validity: Does independent evidence support the results?

Reproduceability: Could any qualified persons use the method and get the same results?

Inspectability: Are the method and its operation an "open book"?

SHE BUYS MUCH MORE

WILLIAM D. TYLER, vice president, Leo Burnett Co., speaking last month at the Chicago Tribune forum on distribution and advertising, gives a picture of the housewife's increased buying power and attendant problems for advertising in selling her.

WHEN today's housewife goes to a food store she makes 20 purchases instead of the 10 she did 10 years ago. She has 25% more real income to spend and she has, on the average, half a mouth more to feed than 10 years ago. The store she shops in carries 6,000 items instead of the 3,000 it did in 1947. Besides, there are now 15,000 new food items being introduced each year instead of the 2,500 that were introduced annually then.
"We got better picture and sound by changing to Du Pont 931 Film"

... says Charles P. Pharris, newsreel cameraman at KPRC-TV, Houston, Texas. Chuck Pharris continues:

"By changing to Du Pont 931 Rapid Reversal Film, we found we could get better rendition in shadow areas. The Du Pont film has an extremely wide latitude which allows us to shoot in dark hallways and entrances to courts where much of our news takes place. Virtually all our work is done with available light, and the fact that we can rate 931 at very high ASA numbers without seriously impairing contrast or increasing graininess makes this film ideal for newsreel work.

"Sound reproduction, too, is superior to that given by any other film we have used—the sound track never blocks up."

Du Pont Rapid Reversal Film can be processed fast. Chuck Pharris has found that he can shoot film as late as 4 p.m., send it to the outside processing lab, and have it at the studio for the 6 p.m. news program.

Pharris also appreciates Du Pont service. "Although we rarely have a problem as such," he says, "Bill Gatlin, the Du Pont Technical Representative, is always available and can be relied upon to give us the assistance we need."

WHY CAN'T NETWORKS LEARN TO PLAN?

TO PARAPHRASE Rex Harrison's song in "My Fair Lady" ... "Why can't the networks learn to plan?"

Certainly, to us in the advertising business, this is just as important a problem as the one Henry Higgins faced in teaching the English to speak their native tongue. However, the networks' problem is not merely one of communication. Their problem is in planning ahead so they know what to communicate to their prospects and clients about plans for the coming season.

Planning ahead is the cornerstone of any successful advertising campaign. At Cunningham & Walsh, our entire operation is built around a plan, custom tailored for each client, outlining the entire course of action for a year. Each detail of our overall plan in terms of the marketing objective, copy, platform, media, programming, merchandising and research is carefully spelled out.

As far as I'm concerned, there's a basic difference in planning at the network management level. In the stratospheric level at the various three letter headquarters, the prime concern seems to be with the problems of tomorrow, the day after tomorrow or, at best, next week. In some rare cases, it's next month.

I'm sure that many of my good friends in network management will quickly rise with some good-natured heat to deny this charge. All I can say is that if such planning for next season does in fact exist, there has been a great deal of success in keeping this information under wraps. If, by some quirk of fate, information about future plans is ferreted out (by means of intelligence plans which would rival some of the great successes of the OSS) the plans are couched in such vague and nebulous terms that it takes an agency man with the imagination of Lewis Carroll to spell these plans out to a client. And a lot of courage would be needed, too!

THE CLOAK OF SECRECY IS EVERYWHERE

Not only are network leaders most successful in keeping their plans out of the agencies' lairs, but, with more than routine skill, they also keep whatever plans might be hatched away from their sales departments. The reason is obvious. If the sales executives were to be thoroughly filled in, they might wend their way to the agencies and clients (who are most desirous of setting plans far in advance to tie in with the overall marketing strategy). As a consequence, an order might result which would be somewhat embarrassing to management since they would have to reject the order as their plans had by now most certainly changed from the original premise.

This lack of proper planning in the broad overall sense seems to follow right through to the lack of detailed planning in specific program situations. How many of us have bought a show on the basis of a firm offer (and how many firm offers have you had recently) only to find out later that many of the program elements were not precisely what they seemed to be? It turns out far too often that the director had another commitment, that the character lead was merely quoted by name as an example of the type they hoped to sign and that the writer on the pilot planned to spend the next year in a monastery in Tibet but they had another fellow to take his place who would do just fine.

Planning on the program side, however, is mere child's play compared to the machinations that exist when it gets down to time periods. The steps involved in this sequence might easily confuse a champion chess player in the first moves.

The furtive dealings on network time are predicated on one basic premise. Never, no never, under any circumstances, make a firm offer on a time period. This might result in an order and then the Halls of Hades would be filled with those who had the temerity to sell a period which top management had later reserved for an idea they heard at dinner the night before.

With the rapid growth of the advertising agency's function in counseling their clients on sales and merchandising problems, it becomes increasingly important to tie in every element of the campaign to the overall sales objective. Many of our clients are intrigued with the possibility of using a major program on a one-time basis to spearhead a merchandising drive. To get maximum return from such an investment, the program must be merchandised and promoted well in advance to the client's sales organization and to his customers.

NEXT FALL IS SOONER THAN YOU THINK

We all know that this cannot be done overnight. In order to make such an operation successful, planning is paramount. But, it's a herculean job to do the very best work when requests to the network for future plans are met with replies that lead one to believe that next fall is a long way off. However, answer the networks, we have a great spectacular (or special, depending on whose Roger's you use) available next month.

I think that the spectacular next month could have been sold last fall, been properly promoted and merchandised and sold carloads of some client's product if the network had had more than a vague idea last fall of the show they are going to do next month.

Certainly, there is no sin in planning ahead on a firm basis. I strongly feel that this action would benefit all concerned: the networks, the advertisers and their agencies, and finally, but by no means last in importance, the viewer, who makes ratings jump and the sponsors' sales curves bend upward.

Good—But Not Enough

LAST year broadcasting got 18.3% of the $10 billion spent in advertising media to promote the sale of $412 billion in national product. In other words $1 was spent in media—18.3 cents in broadcasting—to sell each $41 worth of product.

It's going to take more advertising from year to year to keep the American business and industrial machine moving, according to Under Secretary of Commerce Walter Williams. Addressing the Advertising Federation of America convention in Miami last Monday, Mr. Williams put it this way, “Greater proportionate selling effort is required as the volume of total sales moves upward.”

How much greater? Using Joint Economic Committee figures, Mr. Williams projects total advertising expenditures in 1965 to $13.5 billion, an increase of one-third, assuming prices stay at the 1956 level and advertising holds its position in the economy. That would mean $1.7 billion for television and $769 million for radio in 1965, assuming each maintained the same percentage of total advertising it claimed in 1956 (as computed by McCann-Erickson for Printer's Ink). We predict the figures for radio and tv will be higher, for the percentages which they take from total advertising will, indeed must, increase.

If the general economy is to be built upon dynamic selling, which means dynamic advertising, radio and tv are the logical vehicles to carry the load. The dynamic growth of tv is indispensable to the growth of the radio, although slowed three years ago, is resuming. If Mr. Williams’ predictions hold up, 1965 should be a good year for broadcasting.

Inflation Note

THE cause of advertising would be advanced if the advertising fraternity would heed a warning sounded last week by Robert M. Ganger, chairman of D'Arcy Adv.

Speaking at the same convention of the Advertising Federation of America, Mr. Ganger called upon clients and colleagues alike to stop spouting exaggerated claims about how much they’re paying their tv stars or, for that matter, about how much they’re spending in advertising generally.

Records of advertiser investment in media are valuable and vital, but their usefulness can be rendered questionable by the massively inflated figures often put out by representatives of companies who know they’re spending nowhere near as much as they claim. This also applies—perhaps it applies particularly—to those zillion-dollar talent contracts in which, as Mr. Ganger points out, “there is a slight little thing called ‘13-week cancellation clause’ that always seems to be overlooked” in the publicity.

These unbridled exaggerations are a nagging annoyance. They can do great harm. They can create a grossly misleading conception of the cost of advertising.

Advertising’s facts are dramatic enough—without exaggeration.

Who, When & How, Mr. President?

WHETHER it’s the tempo of the times or the tampering of the politicians, there’s confusion over the vacancy on the FCC to be left with the return to private life two weeks hence of Chairman George C. McConnaughey. Or should we say two vacancies: the new commissioner and the new chairman who could, but probably won’t, be the same man.

It has been known for months to readers of this journal that Mr. McConnaughey would not seek another term. While no official word has come from the White House, at least a half-dozen prospective appointees have been investigated by the FBI—a prerequisite for all presidential appointments. At least two candidates had been told they were in. One withdrew when he found he couldn't have the chairmanship. The other got the coup de grace from the Senate in the informal “check prior to White House action.”

Weeks ago, the word was around that the White House (principally in the person of Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams) was seeking an outstanding figure, not necessarily with experience in the broadcast field, to succeed Mr. McConnaughey and become chairman. The logic of selecting an incumbent commissioner for the chairmanship, rather than a newcomer who would have to start from scratch, seems to have prevailed, and it is now reported that Comr. John C. Doerfer is slated for the chairmanship.

But what about the seventh member—the vote needed to break 3-3 ties which are not uncommon on a commission as sharply divided as the FCC? There are several known candidates, and probably a dozen others whose names have not gotten around. The FCC needs its full strength if it is to get things done.

Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson already has complained about “lagging” in the submission of nominations requiring Senate confirmation. He cited last week the case of a reappointment on the Securities & Exchange Commission wherein the term was to expire June 5 and the nomination did not reach the Senate until May 27.

Even if President Eisenhower sent the nomination of the new FCC commissioner to the Senate this week, there wouldn’t be enough time prior to the June 30 expiration to give the nomination “adequate consideration” as things go in the Senate. It’s our guess that the FCC will function for a while without its full strength.

Tilting With Antennas

NO MAN of good will will quarrel with the proposal of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles for an exchange of radio-tv programs with Russia. The distribution in Russia of true reports about America and American aims is certainly to be desired.

Realists, however, will recognize the improbability of Soviet cooperation. If the Russian government were to approve the uncensored broadcast of American programs throughout Russia, it would mean the most significant change in Soviet policy since the rise of Stalin. There is no evidence to suggest that communist policy is about to deviate 180 degrees from its course of the past 25 years.

Neither Sen. Johnson nor Mr. Dulles is naive about the U.S.S.R. It must therefore be supposed that their proposal was made for the sake of its own propaganda value. It is a proposal which can be made in the knowledge it will not be accepted. It is also a proposal which the U. S. is obviously willing to carry out, and hence the Russians cannot ignore or reject it without suffering some loss of prestige.

There is, of course, a risk involved in the proposal. If by remarkable chance the Kremlin acted to an exchange, it would be at an advantage over the U. S. The Russian programs broadcast in America would have a potential audience of more than 79% of U. S. homes and a potential radio audience consisting of virtually all Americans. The American programs broadcast in Russia, by contrast, would have a potential tv audience of insignificant size and a potential radio audience proportionately smaller than the American.

The risk, we suggest, may be taken with confidence.
The show — Wide, Wide World, the engineering and production facility — KPRC-TV, the assignment — live camera coverage of the 70-mile Houston ship channel from sea, air and land in a 20-minute period. A 48-man KPRC-TV staff with supplementary personnel and equipment delivered coverage for the network, using nine cameras located on a shrimp boat, helicopter, battleship, moving truck and atop a grain elevator. The art of knowing how in Houston belongs to KPRC-TV . . . the most potent advertising force in the Houston market!
