Everything is KING SIZED

in the rapidly expanding WHEELING MARKET

King-sized Industrial Growth ... that's what's happening in the Wheeling Upper Ohio Valley Market. New and expanded plants and facilities, new people, new buying power, all mean new king sized sales opportunities for you. This growth is so rapid that market data figures compiled six months ago are already obsolete. Let us show you the most recent statistics on the expanding king sized Wheeling Market and how WTRF-TV, dominating this area, can help you reach those king sized sales figures because of its king sized audience. Ask any Hollingbery representative; or call Wheeling—CEDar 2-7777 and let Bob Ferguson, VP and General Manager, or Needham Smith, Sales Manager, give you the entire story.

The MOUNTAINEER, world's largest shovel, is owned by the Hanna Coal Company and operated at Cadiz, Ohio, well within the coverage area of WTRF-TV. It is approximately 160 feet high, weighs 5,500,- 000 pounds, has a 150 foot boom, and a 92 foot dipper, making it possible to drop its overburden of 90 tons in an arc of 180 degrees, approximately 290 feet away, and return for another load in 45 seconds. Compare the MOUNTAINEER's size with the average bulldozer alongside it; almost like comparing WTRF-TV's audience with its next nearest competitor.

FEELING THE HEAT • There’s nothing official but next important step in litigation-marred broadcast copyright sphere might well be withdrawal of networks from ownership interests in Broadcast Music Inc. Continual Congressional sniping at networks plus frowns from Dept. of Justice would be responsible for their separation from industry-owned BMI music organization. BMI control would still repose in individual stock-owning station owners.

CONGRESSIONAL and legal pressures may lead to another shift in BMI activities—discontinuance or curtailment of yearly broadcast clinics under its auspices. While agendas of these meetings include wide range of operating workshops for station personnel, BMI is subject to charge that circuit-riding schedule is merely designed to promote use of BMI music as opposed to ASCAP.

BEYOND HORIZON • Look for early announcement of television’s first “over-the-horizon” service, linking U.S. and Cuban television on regular, commercial basis. Nobody was talking last week, but AT&T and Cuban company reportedly have completed installations which will employ tropospheric scatter propagation to bridge 185-mile, over-water haul from southern Florida to spot near Havana. System, estimated $3 million joint project of AT&T and Radio Corp. of Cuba, is expected to go into operation in fall, providing one tv channel in each direction and telephone conversations both ways.

ROBERT LEWINE, vice president and head of nighttime programming for NBC-TV, expected to be promoted to head both daytime and nighttime programming for network, reporting to Emanuel Sachs, vice president, tv network programs. Formal announcement will be made this week. Mort Werner, vice president in charge of daytime, recently resigned to join Kaiser Industries [BT, July 22] as vice president in charge of “all internal tv activities of the affiliated Kaiser companies.”

WASHINGTON BAPTISM • FCC Network study staff recently concluded that NTA film network must be included as important part of its tv network study and has called on newest of networks for full information. In fact, special Washington meeting has been held between NTA officials Raymond Nelson and Hyman Booker and Dean Roscoe Barrow, network study chief, and staff members. NTA is cooperating in submitting information.

NEW GIMMICK for improvement of programming and station relations at same time is being sharpened by officials of American Broadcasting Network as they proceed with plans for switchover to all-live personality programming. They hope to announce shortly new arrangement under which ABN affiliates will get advance notice of what musical selections network will play and at what times, so that stations may program their local music more compatibly. Plan also may include suggestions, for optional use, as to what sort of local music might best fit around network portions.

TOLL TECHNICALITIES • While AT&T is keeping its own counsel on closed-circuit tv, conflicting reports are heard on its technical appraisal of Skiatron’s so-called “open wire” method of multiplexing both video and audio service into tv homes. AT&T, from operating standpoint, reportedly contends that system isn’t feasible, while Bell Laboratories. AT&T research and development adjunct, is understood to feel that system has possibilities within established interference tolerances and, therefore, would work.

IF SKIATRON closed-circuit method works, new term will enter electronic lexicon. It is “Paraz,” name given by Skiatron to its open wire, which, it is claimed, can handle five circuits simultaneously including standard video band without undue interference. FCC engineers, it is said, also lift eyebrows as to feasibility and want to be shown. Even though projected wire systems might not be subject to FCC regulation at this stage, it is logically anticipated that demonstration for benefit of government engineers will be proposed sometime soon—probably before FCC considers “open circuit” or “on air” toll tv proposals Sept. 17.

IS A PUZZLEMENT • Closed-circuit toll tv was topic of high-level conference called by RCA Chairman David Sarnoff last Monday in New York. RCA-NBC’s position has been untenable opposition to on-air or “open circuit” toll tv, and it is opposed to any imposition upon free tv service to public. Participants in conference, in addition to General Sarnoff, were: Robert W. Sarnoff, NBC president; Robert E. Kintner, NBC executive vice president in charge of tv network programs and sales; Emanuel (Manie) Sachs, NBC tv vice president in charge of network programs, and Kenneth W. Bilby, vice president in charge of public relations.

HAL JAMES, for more than decade vice president in charge of television and radio for Ellington Co., New York, is expected to join Doherty, Clifford, Steers & Shenefield, effective Aug. 15, as vice president in charge of radio and television.

TEXT FOR TODAY • Radio business will lap over into halls of learning if one of Radio Advertising Bureau’s current projects works out. Figuring radio has been getting short shrift with rising generations of advertising and marketing executives because most textbooks on such subjects are written from newspaper standpoint, bureau has commissioned several professors to write texts from radio angle. RAB hopes they’ll be ready for classrooms by start of 1958-59 scholastic year.

SUCCESSOR to Ralph W. Hardy, CBS Washington vice president, who died suddenly last Monday of heart seizure while on vacation in Ogden, Utah (story page 54) tentatively has been selected by CBS Inc. President Frank Stanton. It is expected that appointment will be from within CBS organization. Meanwhile Earl H. Gamm, former CBS Washington vice president, now CBS consultant, is sitting in.

BREATHING EASIER • There is sequel to blessing of the Dept. of Justice on setup and operations of Television Allocations Study Organization, as exemplified in Justice’s July 15 letter to FCC Chairman John C. Doofer [BT, July 29]. It’s this: Representatives of RCA and GE—both of which brought up potential antitrust liability question originally—had been extremely cautious in attending TASO meetings. With publication of Asst. Attorney General Victor R. Hansen’s “all clear” letter, RCA and GE participants are attending and participating in TASO meetings with all wraps removed.

PLOUTH INC. stations are breaking all records on business, according to President Harold R. Krelstein. He reports that as of last July, all four stations showed increases, compared with 1936, as follows: WCOP Boston, up 77%; WCBO Baltimore, up 62.6%; WMPS Memphis, up 34%; WJJD Chicago, up 31%.

CURTIS SHOPPING • Helene Curtis Industries, Chicago, started informal hearings last week with agencies pitching for $4.5 million account ($3.3 million radio) which has left Earle Ludgin & Co. Gordon Best & Co. and Edward H. Weiss & Co., which handle other Curtis accounts, are strong contenders, it’s understood, but New York agencies with Chicago offices also are in running. Ludgin agency, incidentally, is in throes of reapproaching operation and personnel as result of losing Curtis (about one-quarter of its business) account.

Only 22 weekly quarter hours don't belong to WTIX.

The other 266 do!

The brand new Pulse gives WTIX a virtual clean-sweep of the New Orleans radio day. Of 288 quarter hours from Monday through Saturday . . . WTIX is first in 266. Thus a new dimension of dominance is added to WTIX's continuing—and widening leadership among New Orleans' 11 radio stations.

The most recent (June-July) Hooper shows WTIX with a decisive lead—claiming slightly over twice the audience of the runner-up station. WTIX's share: 23.2%; next station's share: 11.5%.

Storz Station round-the-clock excitement and ideas have created a new New Orleans listening habit, with new time-buying habits to match. Spare the Adam Young man a little time out of your day to tell you why you get nothing but good times out of WTIX's day. Or, talk to WTIX general manager Fred Berthelson.

NBC BUYS WJAS

PITTSBURGH

NBC, without regular radio affiliate in Pittsburgh since last year, has bought WJAS-AM-FM in that city, subject to customary FCC approval, according to announcement being released today (Monday). Price understood to be $725,000. WJAS is on 1320 kc with 5 kw and currently is affiliated with ABN. WJAS-FM duplicates am programs and is on 99.7 mc with 24 kw.

NBC president Robert W. Sarnoff said WJAS-AM-FM would return full schedule of NBC Radio programs to country's eighth largest market and expressed confidence NBC network's recent growth in audience and advertiser acceptance would be "greatly accelerated by the addition of these important stations." WJAS President H. Kenneth Brennen, whose father founded WJAS in 1921, said: "As pioneer broadcasters we are proud that WJAS is becoming part of NBC and of the oldest radio network in the country, particularly at this time of radio's resurgence."

NBC has not had regular radio affiliate in Pittsburgh since KDKA and other Westinghouse stations disaffiliated, although both KDKA and WWSW Pittsburgh have carried some NBC programs during interim. Acquisition of WJAS-AM-FM will bring NBC's radio station ownership to FCC maximum of seven.

Sale of WJAS stations was required under terms of merger agreement with Pittsburgh Post-Gazette (WWSW) whereby FCC granted Pittsburgh ch. 11 to WWSW, with option for 50% ownership held by Pittsburgh Radio Supply House Inc., WJAS licensee. Grant was conditioned on disposal of WJAS stations to conform to duopoly regulation. Pittsburgh ch. 11 station, WIC (TV), began operating July 15, is affiliated with NBC.

MONSANTO Chemical Co., St. Louis, will sponsor new series of 10-hour-long programs entitled Conquest on CBS-TV starting early in November and through spring of 1959 (four to be seen in 1957-58 season) "as part of its current campaign to increase public interest in scientific progress and in science as a career."

Red China News Plan Hits Snag in Canada

NEWS reports in Toronto Star and other papers last week concerning CBS-Canadian Broadcasting Corp. plan to work together forwards ferreting news from behind China's bamboo curtain (see earlier story, page 56) have "worried" Canadian broadcasters to point where they now wish to renegotiate entire contract proceedings with CBS, latter acknowledged Friday. With joint effort set to get under way shortly, CBC now is asking for different—and stiffer—terms, in effect is understood to be demanding complete control over news gathering and payment. According to CBS News Director John Day, "This changes the whole situation." CBS feels that it cannot agree to CBC's new terms, may cancel entire deal.

Two Heads Better?

NEW regime at Mutual (see story, page 56) understood to be establishing new station relations department set-up, encompassing two directors of unit instead of conventional one. Charles W. King is to continue as station relations director, headquartered in New York and concerning himself primarily with administrative duties. Counterpart of his job has been created, which will be exclusively field position, under which director will give affiliates guidance, examine their problems, etc. Mutual reportedly has hired for this post executive who owns two am and one fm station. Both directors will report directly to Paul Roberts, new Mutual president.

Senators Eulogize Hardy

THREE U. S. Senate leaders eulogized late Ralph W. Hardy, CBS Washington vice president, on floor of Senate last Thursday. Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.), majority leader, declared that "the future of America lies with young, able men like Ralph W. Hardy. We have lost a citizen who cannot be easily replaced." Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) declared that Mr. Hardy "made a great place for himself not only as a leader in his industry but as a leader in civic affairs, and as one who had a deep solicitude for the public interest." Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah) said that Mr. Hardy brought "honor" to his state, the Intermountain region and to his family. He also stated: "His was a service always ready at call, and freely given." Mr. Hardy suffered heart attack while on vacation in Utah early last week (see page 54).

AFM May Take Action Against Record Companies

AMERICAN Federation of Musicians Hollywood local put off until today (Monday) decision on how to proceed against recording companies which have not recognized boost in scale for arrangers and copyists instituted by local last month, but have continued to pay old scale. Local had planned effective last Friday to put companies on national AFM default list, which would make it impossible for them to hire AFM members, but at last minute postponed action over weekend. Local did not identify holdouts, said to include such companies as RCA Victor, MGM and Capitol. One statement by record makers was that of Capitol to effect that it has national agreement with AFM which specifies scale for arrangers and copyists, and Capitol is abiding by this agreement.

Editorial Support

EDITOR:

It certainly is a pleasure to see Broadcasting going to bat for industry standards. What I have in mind is the editorial, "Hot Spots" [B&T, July 29], about the General Foods-Bristol-Myers plan to control broadcast time. Another editorial of the same kind was your recent exposure of the evils of film-for-time barter deals.

For the Record

EDITOR:

In the July 15 B&T there was a story concerning Mutual which repeated what has been reported to be the circumstances of its founding. Over the years, I have seen similar reports and have always intended to write you and make the proper corrections.

The particular point that needs correction and which should be eliminated from Mutual's history is that it was an outgrowth of the former Radio Quality Group. Mutual's birth was never due to or was in any way concerned directly or indirectly with the Radio Quality Group, nor was it ever called the Radio Quality Group. The fact is that Radio Quality had a short life of a year or two prior to Mutual's founding. It had failed completely and this failure was psychologically something of a liability in organizing Mutual. Radio Quality had been dead, was buried and those of us who conceived and started the movement for Mutual had never been in any way associated with it. The fact that one member of Mutual (WOR) had at one time been a member of Radio Quality no doubt gave rise to the rumor.

No C-C in Pittsburgh

EDITOR:

In an article regarding our firm, Bryg Inc. [B&T, July 8], I would like to call your attention to the second paragraph which specifies that we have demonstrated our system on a still basis over a Pittsburgh-New York closed circuit. This is not true. The only closed circuit work performed was in New York and we have leased facilities at Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh, which have not been used for any closed circuit.

Samuel H. Depew

Any Earlier Man-on-Street?

EDITOR:

Our attention was called to the item reporting Parks Johnson, "credited as the man who originated the man-on-the-street program . . . in 1932" [B&T, June 17].

Karl Stefan, our former chief announcer, produced a daily Voice of the Street program by portable short-wave on WJAG.

starting Dec. 19, 1932. Mr. Stefan was elected to the U. S. House of Representatives, 1934, remaining there until his death [in] 1951. His Voice program continued on WJAG until wartime restrictions of 1941.

We wonder if there were any earlier, regular man-on-the-street programs.

Bob Thomas
Manager
WJAG Norfolk, Neb.

Radio While You Wait

EDITOR:

Your item entitled "Another Radio Service" [B&T, July 1], was timely for WKG. Shortly after that issue of B&T arrived, this station moved into new facilities with a situation developing that was similar to your article with the added feature that a telephone line does not have to be left open in order to feed the radio program to a caller who is waiting to be connected with his party.

We'll admit, however, that it was strictly an accident.

Robert W. Billman
Promotion Director
KWG Stockton, Calif.

[EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. Billman was inspired by B&T's story of an RAB telephone operator who left the switch open for calling callers so they could listen to the radio. When telephones were installed at KWG, it developed that the station's programs could be heard louder than the telephone conversation. This was corrected on the regular lines, but couldn't be eliminated on the 'hold' position. The station turned the handicap to an advantage by adopting RAB's technique.]

Students Have Chance

EDITOR:

In regard to a letter in Open Mike [B&T, July 22] implying that the broadcast industry is scared of college trained students or showing preference to radio school diplomas, I find . . . the broadcast industry willing, even anxious, to absorb young persons from all walks of life and varied educational backgrounds. If a preference exists, it would be in favor of the college or university trained man.

Many broadcasters devote valuable time as advisors to colleges. Professional or trade schools do not enjoy such distinction. Scholarships and financial aid for college men and women are standard operating procedures at many stations.

I will admit that announcers and production people holding first class radiotelephone operator licenses must, of necessity, be given some preference. Still, there is a vast absorption of unlicensed persons.

I hope that the letter merely referred to a somewhat presently dormant situation in an immediate area . . . The broadcasting field rates at the top for consideration of absorption of, and advancement of college trained people as well as any other talent that will enhance the field.

There's more to Florida!

For photography and pleasure, Florida's beaches are unsurpassed, but of greater significance to northern Florida is the commerce-laden port of Jacksonville, busy gateway between the world and a marketing area stretching deep into Florida and beyond.

There's Georgia, for instance

... much of which lies within the Jacksonville distribution area and relies on Jacksonville for its goods... and its television. WMBR-TV covers 34 counties in Georgia which contain 12.5% of all the television homes in the entire state, and account for 10.8% of Georgia's general merchandise sales. In fact, WMBR-TV's NCS area takes in 17.5% of all the tv homes in Florida and Georgia combined... and 16.6% of combined general merchandise sales!

and WMBR-TV, Jacksonville is strongly entrenched, through friendship and long habit, in the lives of the 300,000 television families* in this 67-county area. Throughout the "outside" area, WMBR-TV is the eleven-to-one favorite over its competition. Within the Jacksonville metropolitan area, the latest ARB gives WMBR-TV a five-to-one lead.

OUR RESPECTS

to Orville Wayne Rollins

THE world of broadcasting added, unknowingly, one of its most energetic enterprise ners and one of its most individualistic innovators in radio market specialization when O. Wayne Rollins was hospitalized in 1948 with a ruptured vertebral disc.

The man who today is president of Rollins Broadcasting Inc. (seven radio stations and one tv) was sentenced by the doctor to "a life of less strenuous work." For a man who ran his own construction and realty business and had been brought up working on his father's farm, this was a dismal outlook indeed.

During his long convalescence, Wayne Rollins' curiosity, if not his energy, turned to the companion of his bedside, radio; from there, his inquiring mind sorted over the things he didn't know about radio stations, and their operation. Then came an intensive and avid reading of trade magazines and research reports in the broadcasting field. By the time he got out of the hospital, he was following up his book-knowledge with visits to radio stations, where he looked and listened and asked questions, and, to himself, compared one operation with another. By 1950 he was ready, and with his younger brother, John, a former lieutenant governor of Delaware, he entered the radio broadcasting business.

From the start, every Rollins station has carried the singular stamp of this late-come!, among multi-outlet operators: programs for a specialized audience.

As an example of his company's "concerted emphasis in market specialization," Mr. Rollins cites his WGEE Indianapolis, which is, he says, "designed to serve a combined white and Negro audience in an agricultural setting [and] is the first Indianapolis station to offer specialized program segments to this vast Negro audience." And a clue to the Rollins technique: "But for the meticulous market research that goes into the planning of each Rollins station, painstaking surveys that take months to complete. Indianapolis might still be without Negro programming."

The Rollins spread began in 1950, when the new company built WRAD Radford, Va., largely to meet the requirements of the students and faculties of Radford State Teachers College and Virginia Polytechnic Institute. A year later WFAI Fayetteville, N. C., began programming to the people of that city and to nearby Fort Bragg, which, in the words of Rollsins' publicity department, had "more men between the impressionable ages of 19 and 21 than in the city of Philadelphia." These two stations, since sold, were the first two of nine radio outlets to undergo the Rollins touch.

IN 1952, the company, in with both feet, built two more stations for special audi-cences. WJWL Georgetown, Del., wooed in its area a "large and prosperous farm population," while WRAP Norfolk, Va., became Rollins' first all-Negro station.

In November 1953, Rollins acquired WJNJ Newark, N. J., and engaged "nationally-recognized personalities" to form the nucleus of the station which is beamed to America's largest Negro market—New York City.

In 1954, the company bought WAMS Wilmington, Del., of one of three network-affiliated stations in the community, and converted it to a full-time independent, offering personalities in music, news and sports.

After Rollins had built WBEE Harvey, Ill. (Chicago suburb), in 1955, the company's research found a "critical need for specialized programming to service an immense Negro audience" which had concentrated in the Chicago area. Rollins met this "need" by expanding programming and by acquiring the services of Mahalia Jackson, Columbia Records star, who "augmented an array of other well-known Negro talent." In June 1955, Rollsins added KATZ St. Louis.

Orville Wayne Rollins was born May 5, 1912, at Ringold, Ga. After attending the U. of Chattanooga, where he studied chemical engineering, the first (non-broadcast) phase of his business career included work as a dye supervisor in a Tennessee textile mill and five years as a supervisor in the manufacture of TNT at the Hercules Powder Co. plant at Chattanooga.

From Rollins Broadcasting Inc. headquarters in Wilmington, its president oversees a number of other activities, including two farms in Delaware; a ranch in Georgia, a 14,000-acre ranch and extensive real estate holdings in Florida, and with his brother, John, an automobile dealership business and a nationwide leasing firm. He logs 70,000 miles a year, using commercial airlines and two private planes.

Mr. Rollins is vice president of Delaware Broadcasters Assn. He married the former Grace Crum in 1931. They are parents of Randall, 24, and Gary, 13.

market specialization methods into television. Rollins Broadcasting acquired its first tv station, WPTZ (TV) Plattsburgh, N. Y., "with an eye on the 1½ million population of Montreal, an expanded air base and the St. Lawrence Seaway Project."

IN REVIEW

AS OTHERS SEE US

VIEWERS were presented a sobering picture of the problems besetting international public relations in this collection of "man-in-the-street" interviews about America, gathered in eight foreign countries by NBC-TV reporter-cameraman team Joe Michaels and Sy Avnet. Samples: A Briton disliked the idea of his country taking a back seat to the U.S. in world affairs; a Frenchman was grateful for American aid to his country but noted that few Frenchmen would care to admit this; some Germans hit at the U.S. "lack of culture" but admitted to reading Hemingway and listening to jazz; some Indians thought U.S. atomic tests might be causing the Asian flu, and also criticized this country's military aid to Pakistan; a Japanese reiterated the old demand that American troops leave his homeland.

Mr. Michaels, who originally went on his world-wide interview assignment for the Today show, appeared between film shots to deliver background commentary.

AMERICAN BANDSTAND

ALTHOUGH an ABC-TV news release indicates its new daytime program, American Bandstand, appeals to both teen-agers and adults, this post-teen-age reviewer has definite reservations. It is conceivable the younger set finds the predominantly rock-'n'-roll selections "real cool" but most adults are likely to consider themselves a "lost generation" of viewers.

The program has been carried several years on the network's Philadelphia affiliate, WFIL-TV, and began its network exposure last Monday. Its format includes dancing by teen-agers in the studios of originating station WFIL-TV (music recorded) and interviews by m.c. Dick Clark with teen-agers and guest personalities. Mr. Clark is a personable, self-assured performer and blends in well with the youngsters, who undoubtedly consider him a hip older. On the initial show, guest performers were Billy Williams and The Chordettes. Even their selections were aimed at the teen-age audience, though Mr. Williams sang an old-time song which is enjoying a current revival, "I'm Gonna Sit Right Down and Write Myself a Letter." At appropriate pauses, Mr. Williams injected a comment ("oh, yeah"), which apparently is his trademark, and the visiting youngsters were "all shook up."

It is not likely many housewives (unless they're hip to "crazy," "oh, yeah," "I'm with you," and "ah, too much") will tune in these summer afternoons.

Production costs: $10,000 weekly.
Telecast on local co-op and participation basis on ABC-TV, Mon.-Fri., 3-4:30 p.m. EDT

CBS Radio has improved on movie producer Mike Todd by launching a Vacation Cruise to go "around the world in 20 (not 80) days." The series replaces Pat Buttram's Just Entertainment for four weeks (20 broadcasting days) and includes various ports of call.

In last Tuesday's program, Comdr. Jim Conway (U.S. Naval Reserve and CBS Chicago staffman) eemed the cruiser into Rio de Janeiro for songs by Len Dresslar, Connie Mitchell and the King's Jesters. Succeeding musical journeys will take listeners to Ireland, England and other countries.

Production costs: About $3,000.

On June 28 of this year, another Arkansas Governor —
Hon. Orval E. Faubus — gave KTHS the second award ever conferred for “Distinguished Public Service.”

Backbone of KTHS’s public service programming is the highly unusual weekly show, “Can You Use operation with the Employment Security Division of the State of Arkansas. Since its inception in 1953, job placements from this program have averaged a whopping 72%!

In 1956, KTHS also aired more than 500 hours of public service programming (not including news)

MILITARY TIPS HAND ON CHS. 2-6

- ODM's Gray cites 'critical' needs in reply to Magnuson inquiry

DEFINITE evidence that the military is casting covetous eyes toward tv chs. 2 through 6 and plans to put in a bid for them—if it has not done so already—was contained in a letter from Office of Defense Mobilization Director Gordon Gray to Sen. Warren Magnuson (D-Wash.), released last week.

This interpretation was made by Sen. Charles Potter (R-Mich.) and Rep. William Bray (R-Ind.), both of whom accused ODM of placing itself above Congress and the public. Messrs. Potter and Bray are authors of identical bills calling for a three-man commission, independent of all government connections, to be established to investigate present utilization of the spectrum [B&T, June 24].

The two lawmakers took special note of one passage of the letter, which stated: "The Department of Defense has indicated that [so] much technological progress has been made, which finds widespread application in defense planning, that the military services find it difficult to meet requirements with the limited spectrum space available, and that this situation will become more critical as new technology now under development reaches the operational stage."

This immediately raises the question as to whether or not the "new technology" (such as supersonic aircraft, radar networks, guided missiles, earth satellites, etc.) has not, in fact, already been developed to the point where such space presently is being sought by the military.

The ODM statement, Sen. Potter pointed out, is positive proof of the military's plans to seek more room in the spectrum. Rep. Bray's pointed comment: "While military vehemently denies it has such plans [to secure chs. 2-6], all its actions point the other way."

It is the lower portion of the vhf band (2-6) which recurring reports have insisted is most attractive to the military.

Mr. Gray's letter was in answer to a June request by Sen. Magnuson for ODM's comments on Sen. Potter's bill. Mr. Gray listed several reasons why such a study as called for by the bills should not be conducted. Queried on the validity of these objections, Sen. Potter said: "Each one is as phony as a $3 bill." ODM objections were, in essence:
- The objectives of such a study are "being adequately met under present law."
- It "would necessarily duplicate the continuing studies of the Executive Branch on the government use of radio frequencies."
- The study would be too big and too complicated.
- It would require the use of an "extensive long-range monitoring system" which the U. S. does not possess.
- Such a study would duplicate one already completed with the assistance of the FCC. [Mr. Gray evidently was referring to a study completed in April 1956 which concluded that the military could not release any of its presently allocated space for commercial use and that, in fact, more space may be needed in the future (B&T, April 16, 1956). This study was undertaken at the request of George C. McConnaughay, then chairman of the FCC, and was completed by Mr. McConnaughay, Maj. Gen. Jerry V. Matejka, USA (ret.), George T. Moore of the Commerce Dept. and George T. Larkin of the Defense Dept.]
- Present spectrum use by the government is necessary "to insure the conduct of essential government programs."
- Passage of the bill would be "unfortunate and unnecessary."
- "If the intent is to find out whether the federal government could release frequencies which might be useful for vhf television, the recently completed study referred to above led to the conclusion, which the FCC accepted, that national security requirements and the needs of far-flung air navigation and air communications of the U. S., . . . preclude the release of spectrum space now used by the federal government."

In answer to ODM, Sen. Potter reiterated his conviction that the government is "wasting" much of its presently allocated space, and, at the same time, wants more. "We still do not know how the government is using its space," he said.

He strongly attacked the previous study referred to by Mr. Gray as one conducted... by the military, as not being broad enough and as leaving the public with no recourse. The Michigan Republican stressed the fact that the "thorough and comprehensive study" proposed in his and Rep. Bray's bills would be made by three experts completely divorced from the government and commercial broadcasting.

The 1956 study could be used as a base to begin from, Sen. Potter felt, and there would be no duplication of efforts. He questioned whether or not his proposal would go into areas requiring such a radio monitor as claimed by the ODM director. If so, he said, "one should be acquired."

Sen. Potter again stressed that "no one wants to endanger national security but consideration must be given to civilian needs." Under the present system, he said, the "public is given no recourse."

Rep. Bray was even more outspoken in his criticism of Mr. Gray's stand. It is "unreasonable and bureaucratic to the extreme in that they [military arms] put themselves above a review by Congress," he stated. The only way to get an unbiased report is to set up a non-governmental commission such as he and Sen. Potter have proposed. "Each of the ODM objections are reasons why such a study should be conducted," he charged.

"If I were satisfied that the military did not want more spectrum space, I would not be taking this stand," Rep. Bray stated in making it clear he is convinced the military's plans are just the opposite.

Citing the nearness of the adjournment of Congress, both Rep. Bray and Sen. Potter said they plan to push for passage of their respective bills when Congress reconvenes next January. Rep. Bray plans activity during the interim in the form of letters to all TV stations operating on the endangered channels. He said that he would warn these stations of the common danger and urge their owners to write their respective congressmen urging action on the Potter and Bray bills.

Sen. Potter has a powerful ally in Sen. John O. Pastore (D-R.I.), chairman of the Communications Subcommittee of the Senate Commerce Committee, who favors the measure. Sen. Potter is a member of this committee while Rep. Bray is a member of the House Armed Services Committee, which

NETWORK TV TIMETABLE TAKES SHAPE

Nighttime bill alone, sans specials, will be minimum $5 million weekly

ADVERTISERS will put an average of close to $5 million a week into nighttime network television programming in the season that begins to unfold next month, a BT roundup showed last week.

This estimate, compiled from the most authoritative sources available (see charts pages 30-31 for estimates on individual programs), is virtually identical with results of a preliminary study made by BT more than three months ago when the 1957-58 selling season was getting underway [BT, April 29].

Rep. only those programs regularly scheduled between 7:30 p.m. and 10:30 or 11 p.m., the estimate does not include many of those millions in network time charges and does not take into account literally scores of special productions planned for evening presentation throughout the season, which will boost the nighttime production outlay by additional millions over the course of the 1957-58 year. Nor does it include expenditures for daytime programming and time.

The networks approach this high-budgeted season with better-than-ever positions in daytime sales and, at night, some spots yet to be filled but confidence that they will find buyers.

ABC-TV, which had the greatest distance to come, has made the greatest progress in terms of sponsored hours—compared to last year—but still has further to go than either of its rivals to reach nighttime sellout.

Officials of all three networks claimed to be "close" to sales that would cut the availabilities even further—and in some cases reported that additional sales already had been made but could not be divulged yet under agreements with the advertisers.

Although all three networks had some blank spots in their nighttime advertiser ranks, the special productions—those over and above the week-in and week-out staples—were reported as very near to sold-out status.

NBC-TV, which has scheduled at least 100 specials—including Omnibus and Wide, Wide World, but with others ranging over virtually all types of programming—reported that out of a total of 117 hours of these special programs, 101—all but 16 hours—had been sold. Those remaining to be sold include NBC Opera presentations, one-third of Omnibus, and the Emmy Awards broadcast.

CBS-TV, with 20 special programs definitely set, reported it has sponsors for all 20—ten 90-minute Show of the Month presentations by DuPont, starting on Sept. 28, and five hour-long Desilu productions to be sponsored by Ford, and five hour-long Lowell Thomas specials by Delco. Generally speaking, ABC-TV is not going into specials this season.

The daytime sales picture shaped up thus: NBC-TV authorities, who said their daytime programming was approximately 35% sold at the start of the 1956-57 season, estimated it's 75% sold this year and will reach at least 80-85% by the time the season opens. CBS-TV expected to be 85% sold out. ABC-TV, which programmed comparatively little during the daytime last year, was described as "definitely better off" this fall although percentage figures were not immediately available.

In terms of specific nighttime periods yet to be sold, data furnished by the networks showed this situation:

- CBS-TV—alternate week of Harbourmaster (Thursdays, 8-8:30 p.m.); alternate week of Leave It to Beaver (Fridays, 7:30-8 p.m.); alternate week half-hour of Perry Mason (Saturdays, 7:30-8 p.m.), and all of a half-hour program yet to be announced for Tuesdays at 10:30-11 p.m.

The three partially sold programs start Sept. 26, Oct. 4 and Sept. 21, respectively.

- NBC-TV—alternate week of Restless Gun (Mondays, 8-8:30 p.m.); alternate-week half-hour of Suspicion (Mondays, 10-11 p.m.); alternate week of The Californians (Tuesdays, 10-10:30 p.m.); alternate week of Tic Tac Dough (Thursdays, 7:30-8 p.m.); alternate week of Dropkick (Fridays, 8:30-9 p.m.), and all of Panic (Tuesdays, 7:30-8 p.m.) and Wagon Train (Wednesdays, 7:30-8:30 p.m.). The partially sold shows are set to start Sept. 23, Sept. 30, Sept. 24, Sept. 12 and Sept. 13, respectively, Panic is scheduled to start Sept. 10 and Wagon Train on Sept. 11. There have been recurrent reports that sale of Tic Tac Dough and Life of Riley had been completed, but these have not been confirmed officially.

- ABC-TV—half-hour of Sugarfoot (alternating Tuesdays, 7:30-8:30 p.m.); alternate week of Jim Bowie (Fridays, 8-8:30); alternate week of Colt .45 (Fridays, 10-10:30), and all of Mondays at 7:30-8, Tuesdays at 10-10:30, Saturdays at 7:30-9 p.m. and 10-10:30 p.m., and all of Sundays at 8:30-10 p.m. Programs for these wholly unsold periods were not set. Of the partially sold programs, Jim Bowie is on the air now and Sugarfoot is set to start Sept. 17 and Colt .45 Oct. 18.

Production costs generally were estimated to be at least 10% higher this year than last, in large measure because of stepped-up bidding—and consequent higher prices—for top-name talent.

Evening viewers will see a vast number of new shows, especially on NBC-TV and ABC-TV. CBS-TV, more than the others, is going along with its 1956-57 lineup, although it, too, has about 10 new entries for the new season. NBC-TV estimates approximately 55% of its regular evening schedule will consist of new programming [BT, Aug. 2].

BROADCASTING • TELECASTING
TV offered no statistical breakdown, but a glance at its roster shows such newcomers as Frank Sinatra, Pat Boone, Guy Mitchell, Maverick, Walter Winchell, The Real McCoys, Zorro, Patrice Munsel—to name some.

ABC-TV has 21 new nighttime shows, totaling 12½ hours and ranging from the hour-long Chevy Show (with Dinah Shore and others) to the new Eddie Fisher and George Gobel combination, the Suspicion melodrama produced by Alfred Hitchcock, Thin Man and Manhunt mysteries, evening versions of The Price Is Right and Tic Tac Toe panel and audience participation quiz shows, Sally and other situation comedies, and such westerns as "Restless Gun.

New additions to the CBS-TV lineup from between 7:30 and 11 include the 60-minute Big Record musical extravaganza, Perry Mason, an hour-long mystery, Have Gun Will Travel; Dick and the Duchess, The Eve Arden Show, Harbourmaster, Leave It to Beaver, Trackdown, Danny Thomas Show, and, if repeats of I Love Lucy perennial can be counted as new, then Lucy re-runs.

Although westerns have been generally accorded rights to the title of "trend of the year," examination of the schedules shows several fast rising categories. Westerns are there in good share, but musical programs are on the rise, too, as are mysteries and situation comedies. Overall, live straight dramatic shows and programs featuring stand-up comics seem fewer.

ABC-TV can claim credit for the most western offerings with Maverick, Cheyenne, Sugarfoot, Wyatt Earp, Broken Arrow, Tombstone Territory, Jim Bowie, and Colt .45 adding up to 4½ hours in the saddle every week.

NBC-TV has Restless Gun and Tales of Wells Fargo back to back for an hour on Monday nights, but feel its new Californians and Wagon Train should not be lumped arbitrarily into the western category.

Officials point out that, strictly speaking, Wagon Train, which will occupy a full hour on Wednesday nights, is a series of dramatic stories which happen to have western settings, and that the Californians, a half-hour Tuesday night entry, is really an historical recounting of the early days of California.

The NBC schedule promises a considerable rise in volume of suspense-adventure shows, with Suspicion, Panic, Meet McGraw, Alcoa-Goodyear Antithetical, Dragnet, Saber of London, Thin Man, and Manhunt falling into that category.

NBC-TV will also have more musical variety shows this year than last, with the Chevy Show joining Steve Allen to form two hours back-to-back, the hour-long Gobel and Fisher programs on alternate weeks, Rosemary Clooney, Gisele MacKenzie, Tom August, Tex Beneke, and others.

One reason NBC-TV appears to be adding more shows of most types, with no substantial changes in the network, is that the new year entry strip—which in the past has been devoted to news and music for the week July 28-Aug. 3. This is how they spent their time:

- 57.7% (71,034,000) spent 1,275.9 million hours watching television
- 58.8% (72,365,000) spent 1,127.9 million hours listening to radio
- 81.4% (100,212,000) spent 385.8 million hours reading newspapers
- 39.5% (36,317,000) spent 162.6 million hours reading magazines
- 23.8% (29,300,000) spent 351.7 million hours watching movies on TV
- 44.3% (54,581,000) spent 231.1 million hours attending movies

These totals, compiled by Sindingller & Co., analysts, Ridley Park, Pa., and published exclusively by BT every week, are based on a 48-state, random dispersion sample of 7,000 interviews (1,000 each day). Sindingller's monthly "Activity" report, from which these weekly figures are drawn, furnishes comprehensive breakdowns of these and numerous other categories, and shows the duplicated and unduplicated audience between each specific medium. Copyright 1957 Sindingller & Co.

* All figures are average daily tabulations for the week with exception of the "attending movies" category which is a cumulative total for the week. Sindingller tabulations are available within 2-7 days of the interviewing week.
HOW NETWORK TV LOOKS FROM HERE

WHAT the television networks’ 1957-58 night-time schedule will offer, what it will cost in terms of production, how well it has sold and what selling still remains to be done are all reflected in the accompanying tables. Periods partially or wholly unsold to date carry the notation “available.” Program times and sales information were supplied by the respective networks. Production costs, although not official, were estimated by B&T on the basis of the best information available from a number of sources. includes GE Theatre, Playhouse 90, Studio One, U.S. Steel Hour and Armstrong Circle Theatre, among others. The panel and quiz category will be represented by about half a dozen programs from the current schedule.

In daytime programming, relatively few major changes are in the works except at ABC-TV, which in the past has offered comparatively little programming in these periods.

ABC-TV is content to go with its current daytime lineup, which it claims has already overtaken CBS-TV in the ratings race. CBS-TV is making a few revisions: Hotel Cosmopolitan, as yet unsold, will replace Valiant Lady as the 12-12:15 p.m. strip starting Sept. 2; Beat the Clock will take over from Miss Brooks at 2-2:30 p.m. on Sept. 16, and The Verdict Is Yours will succeed the Bob Crosby Show at 3:30-4 p.m. on Sept. 2. Authorities say both Clock and Verdict have been partially sold but that by agreement with the advertisers they cannot disclose details yet.

Instead of the hour-long Mickey Mouse Club at 5-6 p.m. (local time), ABC-TV is putting "action" programs in at 5-5:30 and a shortened Mickey Mouse at 5:30-6 p.m. Between the two, officials report, a total of at least 16 out of 20 possible commercial positions have been sold for this fall, as against 12 out of 20 last fall.

ABC-TV already has substituted the live American Bandstand for Afternoon Film Festival from 3-4:30 p.m. across the board, and is considering Do You Trust Your Wife? for the 4:30-5 p.m. slot. Furthermore the company is slated for 5:30-6 p.m. with General Mills sponsoring half.

ADVERTISER WILLING, POCKETBOOK STRONG

TINTEX WANTS TO CONTINUE IN TV BUT, SO FAR, CAN'T MEET PRICE

IT FIRST SWITCHED ITS BUDGET FROM RADIO, MAY RETURN TO PRINT

PARK & TILFORD'S Tintex, which on March 4 launched a 13-week radio spot campaign in approximately 250 markets, last week cancelled the daytime campaign after only four weeks. The reason: Tintex has "discovered" the impact of television...

-BT, April 15, 1957

...and now it would appear that Park & Tilford Distillers Corp. has discovered TV's impact on the corporate pocketbook.

Though delighted with results of its short-term sponsorship-rolls past spring and summer, the nation's newsprint shortage forced it to look to non-print media (the division had advertised heavily in daily papers and Sunday supplements). Just prior to the arrival of the new management team this year, P&T had ordered an extensive radio schedule through its agency, Emil Mogul Co., New York. The spread, on staggered 13-week cycles, called for 740 radio stations in 250 markets (including four networks—three national, one regional) and was to run for a total of 55-60 days. Included were American Broadcasting Network's When a Girl Marries and Whispering Streets; CBS Radio's Wendy Warren, Second Mrs. Burton, and Our Gal Sunday; NBC Radio's Pepper Young, Hilltop House and Woman in My House, and an eight-station MBS Yankee Network daytime strip plus 15 local women's service shows.

The new management advised the agency to go ahead with this lineup as planned pending re-evaluation. Four weeks after the drive got underway in some of the 250 markets, Mr. Swackhamer cancelled the campaign. Reason: NBC-TV, which had received Masquerade Party, found it had a vacancy after the Beacon Co. (floor waxes) relinquished its alternate-week slot (with Associated Products' 5-Day deodorants). For Tintex, this was a golden opportunity, as the company found it could get an alternate-week sponsorship of a color program in which to sell its No. 1 product—color. Again through Mogul, P&T signed for a total of six weeks, fully sponsoring three programs and sharing cross-plugs the other three weeks. This was the company's first use of television.

It made full use of it to solve one of its basic sales problems. Tintex's new management had found upon arrival that the product's low price structure (25 cents a box) had resulted in many small independent retailers re-labelling the Tintex boxes to "back of the store." Furthermore, the company sustained an extra-large sales force that didn't seem to be paying its way. The new management team felt that TV could sell as hard—if not harder—as the most personable salesman. So it trimmed its field staff by approximately 40%.

'Tintex Colorvision'

Coincidently with the April 17-May 22 sponsorship, Tintex introduced a new inventory control and reorder system along with a compact pre-pack, self-service merchandise rack, both of which were designed to help drug outlets solve their inventory problems. The revolving rack, in deference to the program, was dubbed "Tintex Colorvision" (which if ordered by the retailer would net him an average of 43% profit per rack's contents), and the inventory control was called "Tintex Order Motivators." Packages as "your great new colorvision deal," Tintex made ample use of Masquerade Party's personalities by having them make the colorvision pitch at druggists through direct mail pieces, trade magazine ads and window streamers. Mr. Swackhamer also contacted his streamlined sales force by mail and solicited their reactions after viewing only two programs.

Comments were universally favorable. Sample: "...The program was a great lift to all concerned and I am sure we will continue to feel the benefit from it for a long time." "The reaction from dealers and customers...has been most encouraging and heartwarming; many managers and independent store owners contacted us and say, 'I see you on tv now.'" "Just how many new accounts are directly attributable to tv is difficult to determine. ...However, I believe it's an important factor. Give us more tv." Other salesmen pointed out that some of their accounts who formerly "had been of the opinion that we did not think enough of our product to back it up with a decent ad campaign" now showed "a

In 1790, French engineer Claude Chappe, developed a successful system of signalling. On his first semaphore Chappe erected clock-like faces on which sets of numbers and letters were placed. This was later modified by substituting a movable crossbar, the angles of which determined the letter. Semaphore telegraphs were established in various parts of France and England. On clear days, the signal posts, eleven miles apart, could be read easily with the aid of a telescope.
marked increase of awareness and respect for Tintex as a product and P&T as a company.

Though Mr. Swackhamer won't divulge in fiscal terms how well the company did with Masquerade Party, he did report that over the month-and-a-half period this year, Tintex moved 500,000 more packages than it did for a similar period in 1956. This was in a year in which NBC is putoting the NBC-TV show and this is where the root to its present dilemma lies.

It would like to get back on the panel quiz perennial, but feels it cannot meet prevailing prices. It says it picked up the show for a short run last spring at bargain rates, but was unable to maintain the price tag. However, it is estimated that P&T paid roughly $40,000 per week for the program, time and talent, but neither agency nor client would comment on this. NBC, though it has not scheduled Masquerade Party, for next season (Wagon Train, a new 60-minute filmed adult Western show scheduled for Wednesday, 7:30-8:30 p.m.), now is understood to be offering the panel quiz at a regular fall season price tag of approximately $80,000 per week.

The network Thursday said it is not going to make any "deals" with any advertiser and that it has only one possible full vacancy open for the fall. It said it had been scheduled for Wednesday, 7:30-8:30 p.m., now occupied by Panic, vacated by both Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. and Max Factor Co. and as yet unsponsored.

NBC admitted that it and P&T were still "some distance apart" from reaching agreement, that no alternate sponsor was "standing by," and that a successful running of the minds and pocketbook occurred, it would be conceivable that Masquerade Party would be slotted with an alternate sponsor.

Tintex had asked NBC for a special discount on the grounds of promoting color tv, "Let us have nothing about it," Mr. P&T admitted, "but NBC declined last week. NBC limits that it still has partial sponsorships open for next season. We are hungry for one of these unsponsored periods, would grab it in a minute if the price were more adaptable to our budget. After all, a reduction would not so much be a concession on NBC's part as it would be an investment in the future of color tv. I'm not only sold on tv, but convinced that color tv is our best medium. NBC invests time and equipment—why not advertiser goodwill? We are, so far as I can tell, one of the few advertisers around today whose singular product is color."

Tintex's ad budget last year came roughly to $450,000, of which $325,000 was spent in radio. Effective next month (as P&T switches from calendar year to fiscal year budgeting in keeping with the established practice of parent Schenley Industries), the Tintex ad budget will be upped 35%. Still undecided: how much P&T will assign its newly-expanded toiletries division, serviced by Grant Adv. It is understood to have allocated $2 million to develop the new line, but only a part of this will cover advertising.

HOT BUYING IN COLD BUSINESS

- Remedies lining up schedules for winter season
- B&T check indicates 10% increase in budgets

ADVERTISING AGENCIES last week were engaged in their perennial hot weather task of lining up radio and television advertising for "cold remedies" for the winter.

Although precise totals on this year's business versus 1956 are not in, a check by B&T indicates a 10% increase in overall budget. A notable characteristic of this year's advertising pattern is increased use of networks, both radio and tv.

Mentholatum Co. (Mentholatum and Mentholatum Medicated Stick), Buffalo, N. Y., in the past season has been buying network radio-tv. Next season, starting in October, it will sponsor five quarter hours on NBC-TV, including Comedy Time, Bride and Groom, Price is Right and Queen for a Day. The advertiser will use network radio on a stepped-up basis, also beginning with the cold season. J. Walter Thomson Co. is the agency.

Vick Chemical Co., New York, already on CBS-TV and CBS Radio with weekly partercipation, will have it's coverage to Canada in late September with a 21-week radio spot campaign in 43 markets for VapoRub and 35 markets for cough syrup and drops. In October, Vick is slated to begin a spot radio campaign in more than 40 markets and a spot tv effort in 25 markets for 18 weeks. More International is the agency.

Bromo-Quinine (Grove Labs), through Gardiner Adv., St. Louis, will spend "slightly less than $1 million," all in radio. An extensive schedule of NBC Radio and local spot buys are on the schedule. Heavy saturation in key markets is planned.

Monticello Drug Co. ("666" cold preparation), Jacksonville, Fla., will touch off a mammoth saturation radio campaign Oct. 7 and continuing through the week of March 17, 1958. The company will use about 136 announcements a week in more than a 100 southern markets, using daytime disc jockey shows. Monticello also is contemplating a radio test this fall in Florida for a new product, Viracel, but plans are indefinite. Charles W. Hoyt Co., New York, handles the account.

Thomas Leeming & Co. (Ben-Gay), New York, will launch an extensive spot radio campaign in 200 markets over a six-month period, starting next month. Less than a year ago Leeming placed its entire advertising budget (about $1 million, covering Ben-Gay and Silk 'n Satin hand preparations) in spot radio. It is estimated that Leeming's budget for the three products next season will be about $2 million. William Esty Co., New York, is agency.

Seck & Kade (Pertussin), New York, expects to break a radio and television spot announcement campaign this fall through McCann-Erickson, New York. Details, such as starting date and number of markets, are still being decided.

American Home Products Co., subsidiary of American Home Products Corp., New York, is testing spot tv in an undisclosed number of markets for a new cold remedy, Nasal Spray. The product was introduced in newspapers about eight or nine months ago. The advertiser may go national in spot tv by the first of the year. Bryan Houston Inc., New York, is the agency.

Cocilina Div. (Cocilina medicated cough drops). Gold Medal Candy Corp., Brooklyn, will launch its biggest campaign to date, with close to 90% of its budget in air media. Starting in early October, Cocilina will launch a 13-week spot campaign (possibly 26 weeks with renewals) in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Providence, Buffalo and several other unbooked New England and Mid-Atlantic markets. Radio will take the form of newscasts and spot announcements; tv one-minute films. The budget was not disclosed by the agency, Emil Mogile, New York.

Block Drug Co., Jersey City, N. J., which bought out Rem products from Maryland Pharmaceutical Co. earlier this year, will kick off a radio-tv spot drive in 20-40 national markets the first week in October for 26 weeks. The budget was unspecified. Plans for Rem Jr., kiddies version of Rem, is only two months old. It includes Winx eye make-up, Stapat lipstic (both old P&T items, now repackaged); Stay-Set hair spray and seven fragrances in shampoos, powders, toilet waters and perfumes: Woody Glen, My Desire, High Heels, No. 3, Adventure, Vain and Wild Harvest. According to Mr. Mohr, this line will take the P&T brand name "out of the five-and-dime store and back on quality street" [B&T, April 15].

Tiflod Toiletries presents P&T with another problem—also involving tv. It has been shopping for a half-hour program on which to give "the broad brush treatment" to the new line, e. g., sharing it with Tintex.

The firm was understood to have been meeting with ABC-TV officials last week and was reported to be in the midst of negotiating an early Sunday evening variety- celebrity series, live from New York. However, there were some details yet to be ironed out concerning both the use of a certain personality and the locating of an alternate sponsor. The show would be in black-and-white.

Should P&T find itself stymied in network buys Tintex will take a determined walk away from broadcasting—and straight into print.

"But we would prefer not to," adds Mr. Swackhamer.
are unset, and the agency, Lawrence C. Gumbinner Adv, New York, appears to have no plans for Rel, a nasal jelly. 4-Way, Cold tablets (Grove Labs), St. Louis, can be expected to increase its spot radio and tv buying during the cold season above the normal annual placement. Cohen & Aleshire, New York, agency for 4-Way, is expected to release details this week or next. Grove's Citroid Compound, handled by Dowd, Redfield & Johnstone, has not solidified its media plans, but its budget reportedly has increased 25% over last year. Last year Citroid was advertised heavily on television and it is expected the product again will be exposed largely on tv, using weathercasts.

Charles Pfizer & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., through Dowd, Redfield & Johnstone, is planning a spot radio campaign for Candettes, a lozenge. No budget has been set. Pfizer is primarily (95%) an ethical drug house (selling directly to the trade) and Candettes is one of its very few consumer items.

Chattanooga Medicine Co. (medicinal syrups), Chattanooga, Tenn., will launch an extensive national spot radio campaign to run 12 weeks, starting in September, stop for five weeks and then resume for 20 weeks. Agency: Cohen & Aleshire, New York.

GF Sets $400,000 for tv To Introduce Instant 'Tang'

GENERAL FOODS Corp., White Plains, N. Y., in keeping with its plans to enlarge its consumer foods line [BT, July 29], will make considerable use of television to introduce a cold tablet, orange-flavored breakfast beverage called "Tang." Manufactured by the Post Div. of GF in Battle Creek, Mich., Tang is an instant-mix powder the company claims "contains more vitamin C and A than the same amount of fresh or frozen orange juice."

GF has appointed Young & Rubicam to service the new product. GF is understood to have allocated more than $400,000 for the tv phase of advertising alone. Starting on or about Oct. 5, Tang will enter nine test markets with a 26-week tv spot announcement campaign, featuring one spot a day for three days a week. The markets are Atlanta, Chattanooga, Macon, Columbus (Ga.), Omaha, Lincoln (Neb.), Indianapolis, Muncie and Terre Haute (Ind.). At the same time, Tang will be introduced nationally by cut-ins on GF's network programs CBS-TV's December Bride, Zane Grey Theatre and The Danny Thomas Show.

MJ&A Absorbs West Coast Firm

MacMANUS, JOHN & ADAMS Inc., Bloomfield Hills, Mich., has expanded its West Coast office with acquisition of the Ralph Yambert Organization, Los Angeles, effective Sept. 1. Ralph Yambert, founder of the absorbed firm, which bills more than $400,000 annually, becomes a member of the MJ&A executive staff. MJ&A offices at 6399 Wilshire Blvd. will be doubled to accommodate the augmented operation.

$1 MILLION IN SPOT PLANNED BY JERGENS

- C&W to replace Orr Dec. 1
- 75 tv markets, 15 with radio

THE Andrew Jergens Co., Cincinnati, Ohio, is preceding its switch in agencies with a change in media strategy. This fall an estimated $1 million spot radio-tv campaign will be launched on behalf of Jergens lotion. The firm expects to launch in approximately 75 tv markets with an extensive and national campaign in late September. Spots will vary in length (ranging from 15s to 60s) and frequency also will vary, actual market-by-market placement depending on availabilities.

In addition to this tv campaign, a supplementary radio spot campaign will be run in about 15 of the 75 markets on a selected basis.

The Jergens lotion advertising budget on a 12-months basis is estimated to be in excess of $2.5 million. Thus, other than magazines (still the heavy emphasis of Jergens lotion ad campaigns), spot tv will take a substantial amount of the advertising allocation.

The toiletries advertiser last Monday announced the appointment of Cunningham & Walsh, New York, to handle Jergens lotion, Woodbury's facial soap and shampoos and Jergens-Woodbury creams and makeup effective Dec. 1 of this year [BUSINESS BRIEFLY, Aug. 5]. The account is estimated to bill at least $4 million a year.

Jergens had been looking for a new agency since early June. Its current agency is Robert W. Orr & Assoc., New York, now a division of Fuller & Smith & Ross. Orr will handle the spot campaign until C&W takes over in the winter.

As explained by Jergens' officials last week, the company has decided to place its broadcast advertising dollars in spot because it is convinced of the medium's advantages—"chiefly flexibility. We are going in spot and we have no plans other than sticking with it."

Jergens, it was explained, always has wanted to remain in television: "Spot, we now feel, is the most satisfactory. We are not ruling out the possibility of further network participation. In fact, the various networks have contacted us from time to time on sponsorship."

The company has been associated with radio and tv network sponsorship for some time. Jergens for years sponsored Jergens Journal featuring Walter Winchell on radio. Early in network tv, Jergens was among the first sponsors to underwrite daytime shows, among them the Kate Smith daytime.

Its most recent network participation: the Steve Allen Show on NBC-TV, Sundays, 8-9 p.m., began in June 1956 and ended in April 1957. Actually, this was a renewal of its participation in the ill-fated Comedy Hour that preceded the Steve Allen vehicle in that time period.

In January-December of 1956, Jergens' time charges on NBC-TV at gross rates (one-time and without discounts) came to nearly $1.3 million, according to Publishers Information Bureau records. In the January-April period of this year, Jergens invested (again for time and at gross rates) nearly $500,000 for the Allen show.

During its record of network sponsorship, Jergens' use of spot (radio and tv) was light.

Although the upcoming fall campaign ostensibly will run through November 1957, Jergens apparently has geared its media plans to continue indefinitely with spot. By late this fall, Jergens will begin "indoctrinating" Cunningham & Walsh on its products and advertising (marketing) strategy.

Kraft Foods Promotes Green To Director of Marketing

PROMOTION of Chester P. Green from general sales manager to marketing director at Kraft Foods Co., with responsibility for directing all sales and advertising, was announced last week.

Mr. Green's appointment was the third top-level change at Kraft, a substantial network radio-tv buyer, in recent weeks. He succeeds John B. McLaughlin, who resigned as sales and advertising chief to become vice president in charge of sales for Purex Corp., South Gate, Calif., effective Oct. 15.

Other recent departures were Andrew C. Quale, formerly manager of new product advertising, to Campbell-Mithun Inc., Chicago, as account executive, and James E. McClellan, sales promotion chief, who joined Progressive Grocer publication. He was replaced by John J. Duffy, previously training manager.

Kraft also announced promotion of four product managers to general sales managers in the firm's respective product areas: C. F. Goetting, for cheese products; H. F. Mars-ton, confections; Kenneth Hart, margarines and salad products, and Robert S. Loch-ridge, institutional-industrial products.

Gourfain-Loeff Inc. Formed In Chicago Agency Merger

THE merger of R. M. Loeff Inc. with Gourfain-Cobb & Assoc. and creation of Gourfain-Loeff Inc., effective last Aug. 1, was announced by the principals last week.

A. S. Gourfain Jr. becomes chairman and Ralph M. Loeff president of the new Chicago agency, with new offices at 205 W. Wacker Drive. Their respective staffs remain intact.

Gourfain-Cobb was founded by Mr. Gourfain in 1931 with headquarters in the Wrigley Bldg. The agency has specialized in electronic and broadcasting accounts, including Keystone Broadcasting System and Magnecord Div. of Midwestern Instruments Co. (tape recorders). The Loeff agency has handled some radio accounts in the past.

SPOT television billings for the second quarter of 1957 climbed to at least $118,870,000, the Television Bureau of Advertising estimates in a report being released today (Monday).

Added to the $124,117,000 spent for network television time during the same period [B&T, Aug. 5], the spot outlay brings to at least $242,987,000 the total investment that national and regional advertisers put into television time—exclusive of talent and production costs—during the April-June period. All figures are gross.

For the first six months, network expenditures, compiled by Publishers Information Bureau, came to approximately $250,675,000 while TVB's spot estimates, which are prepared by N. C. Rorabaugh Co., totaled $235,805,000 for the two quarters. Thus spot and network tv expenditures for the first half of 1957 amounted to at least $486,462,000.

Last year's first half network-spot total was $440,303,312: $234,510,312 for networks, $205,793,000 for spot. That puts 1957, so far, $46,158,688 ahead of 1956.

TVB's estimate for the second quarter was based on reports from 320 stations and compared with $116,935,000 reported by 321 stations in the first quarter [B&T, May 27].

Reports from 279 stations which reported for both the second quarter of 1957 and the second quarter of 1956 indicated a 10% increase in gross dollars during this year's second quarter.

The second-quarter spot report showed 17 advertisers invested $1 million or more during the period, as against 23 during the first quarter. But many of the top 100 spot tv advertisers increased their outlays materially. Procter & Gamble, No. 1 in both quarters, went from $3,727 million in the first to $6,519 million in the second.

Compared to the second quarter of 1956, Continental Baking went from $1.103 million to $2.695 million this year; Lever Bros. from $1.264 million to $2.011 million; Schlitz Brewing from $168,000 to $394,000; Quaker Oats from $148,000 to $377,000; P. Lorillard from $461,000 to $1.311 million, and American Chicle from $301,000 to $1.3 million, among others increasing their spot spending substantially this year.

TVB President Norman E. Cash noted a number of newcomers to the top 100 listed during the second quarter. Among them: Scott Paper, Tidewater Associated Oils, Oakite Products, Byrmaid-Tintair, Interstate Bakers, Wilson & Co., and Helene Curtis. The top 100 ranged from P&G's $6.5 million down to $297,300 by Peter Paul Inc. For the first quarter the range was from P&G's $3.7 million to Burgermeister Brewing's $254,300.

Kudner, NBC-TV Deny Blame for Commercials

NBC-TV and Kudner Adv. tried to bury a dead horse last week.

The object of their concern was the "Battle of the Buick TV Commercials," which prompted Buick's general manager to issue an apology to the public for the "inert" handling of commercials during the July 29 telecast of the Floyd Patterson-Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson heavyweight championship fight. Viewers missed the official verdict of the fight when a group of Buick commercials were hastily inserted into the program.

After Edward T. Ragsdale, a vice president of General Motors and general manager of the Buick division, issued the public apology, executives of Kudner and of NBC-TV went into a huddle on Aug. 1 in an attempt to fix the blame. Spokesmen for each of the companies agreed the confusion in the ring contributed to the faux pas. They pointed out that after the bout was stopped, the challenger (Tommy Jackson) attempted to restate with the referee to be allowed to continue, and the producer-director (from NBC-TV) thought there would be time to insert a commercial before the verdict was announced. Order was restored, however, and a group of commercials were carried while the decision was given.

Although Kudner was reluctant to blame NBC-TV, an agency spokesman said the cue to put on the commercial was given by a network employee. He reported it had been agreed beforehand that in case of a knockout, the commercial would be carried immediately and in the event of a decision, the commercial would be inserted while the referee was collecting the slips. He said the contingency of a technical knockout had not been considered and that in other bouts involving this type of outcome, there had always been time to insert a commercial before the verdict was announced. He indicated that because of the confusion in the ring, the result was announced "a little earlier."

An NBC-TV executive said the network did not want to discuss the incident, pointing out it must work with both the agency and the sponsor on other telecasts. He said NBC-TV's position is that its producer-di-

TMI Set to Invade Radio With 'Barter'

THE delicate and often-controversial "art" of bartering station time, now in vogue in television, shortly may be practiced in the realm of radio. So say officials of Time Merchants Inc., New York.

But TMI is secretive about plans. It declines to admit it negotiated last month's $4 million Exquisite Form brasserie-National Telefilm Assoc. film package deal through Grey Ad. [B&T, July 1], although reports insist that it did. Nor will it name the other advertisers—many of them strangers to radio or TV—with whom it reportedly is talking, barter, but it's understood one of them is a large fabric mill heretofore exclusively in magazine advertising.

Although it has dealt exclusively with TV stations and film properties over the past 12 months since its founding, Time Merchants Inc. later this month hopes to effect its first barter deal involving a hoped-for 300 radio stations. It is understood to have talked already with three separate agencies, servicing, respectively, a cigarette advertiser, an oil company and a toiletries account. The property is said to be a live syndicated sports show.

TMI is the "brainchild" of 31-year-old Richard D. Rosenblatt, a West Point graduate who, in 1956-57, was a radio test pilot with an Air Force test pilot and a financial specialist who effected a South American barter deal involving the supplying of airplanes in exchange for cattle. His associates include Richard M. Firestone, 27-year-old ex-advertising manager of Flav-R-Straws Inc.; Edward Jacobi, a former executive of Wal- ter Thompson Co. and MacFadden Publications; Peirce Romaine, former Ruthrauff & Ryan Inc. vice president, and Bernard Zisser, a former Hearst executive who was associated with possibly the first "barter deal" in newspaper history in the "land-leasing" in 1928 of KXV. Features were given to newspapers in exchange for advertising space which then was sold to Henry Ford.

Time Merchants Inc. claims to have revamped the "traditional" system of bartering time. Instead of picking up whatever time a station has available, then finding an advertiser to fill it—a process that many months—TMI has in effect reversed this procedure. It deals exclusively with agencies, solicits definite orders to supply their needs, then informs the TV syndicator or program package of what the agency wants. In turn, the syndicator then approaches the stations and says, "XYZ agency is interested in a large account in the following time slots. Can you oblige?" (TMI does not approach stations with either properties or time orders, but leaves this in the hands of the syndicator; nor will it negotiate directly with the advertiser, its officials say.) Mr. Rosenblatt explains: "By getting a firm commitment from the agency, we can assure stations that their spots aren't being bid on about like junk; what's more, in most cases, our advertisers are totally new to broadcasting. . . ."

TMI also feels it has done some "missionary work" in "educating" large agencies "who had felt barter was something 'dirty.'"

Who pays Time Merchants Inc.? The syndicator. TMI collects nothing from the agency and this is one of its most telling "sales pitches." It assures agency executives (TMI says it approaches only high echelon agency officials) that its "advice" is gratis and that TMI, unlike individual syndicators with vested interests, is able to provide an unprejudiced, "broad picture" of the TV market. Presently, however, it insists the agency what markets are "open," what syndicators have, what properties are available at what cost.

HOW DO YOU GET ATTENTION FOR YOURSELF?

This method might work—at least temporarily. But if yours is a quality television station, proud of a distinguished local record... if it has developed an individuality respected in your market—this isn't recommended.

Establishing a clearcut identity for yourself in advertisers' minds is becoming increasingly harder. (Since 1952, the nation's total of TV stations has increased from 108 to almost 500.) Interpreting your local stature, selling your local identity against such competition—demands specialized representation.

Representation burdened with over-long station lists, forced to use mass-produced methods, simply can't do the best job. That's why Harrington, Righter and Parsons concentrates full manpower and skill on a limited number of quality stations... restricts itself to television only... and tailor-makes a plan of specialized representation for each. Delivering the most to a few brings outstanding rewards. The stations listed here know (and are known).

The top hit show at the regular box-office price? Or some thin.

When people really want something, they’re willing to pay for it. When they don’t—well, you may have to give it away to get rid of it.

Elementary. It happens among radio- & television business publications, for instance. The leader—BROADCASTING-TELECASTING—gets the paid circulation. Twice as much of it as any other magazine claiming to serve the field!

The rest have to fill their theatres of distribution with lavish giveaway of copies—particularly in the important agency-advertiser areas of their audience.

Today, B-T has more paid distribution than the other three radio and TV publications combined. . . .

popularity you’ll find documented down to the last decimal by the Audit Bureau of Circulations. Nothing shines such a glaringly precise spotlight as an ABC statement does upon what—and how many—people actually pay for a publication. Small wonder that B-T alone of all the journals in the radio-TV field has voluntarily sought (and qualified for) membership in the Audit Bureau of Circulations.
RATHER HAVE?

Jammed to the veritable balconies with paying customers, the B-T audience — according to the very latest ABC statement — tallies thusly:

1) a “full house” averaging 18,938 paid-for copies during the first six months of 1957 more paid distribution than all other radio-TV business publications combined!

2) a box-seat group of 5,087 paid agency-advertiser subscribers who look upon B-T as a vital partner of each week’s work.*

When you invest your money in a new play, you never can be quite sure how it’s going to pay off. But when you invest your advertising money in BROADCASTING-TELECASTING, you know that a guaranteed audience is always waiting . . . counted, classified, and receptive.

This is likely to be at least one of the many reasons why radio-TV advertisers ran 4,063 pages in B-T during 1956 — more than they did in the next three publications combined. There’s always something about a hit that just naturally packs ‘em in!

* Among these, not so incidentally, are some 1,000 big-decision-makers at America’s 40 largest radio-TV agencies. Last year they sized the spending of about $1,000,000,000 (yep, Billion) in the two electronic media! It’s enough to make a station manager drool . . .
etc. For its effort in bringing the station, agency and syndicator together, TMI receives anywhere from 10%-15% of the syndicator’s earnings after deduction by the agency of its 15% commission.

Who profits by Time Merchants Inc’s operations? Least of all the station representatives, who are “cut out,” but Messrs. Rosenblatt and Firestone stoutly maintain they are aiding the lot of the rep, who, they claim, sells only the top one-third of a station’s availabilities. They feel that by making available to a station new and better program products, they are strengthening the station’s rating position and, since “the basic commodity” of a representative is ratings, bartering strengthens the representative’s sales platform with agencies. In effect, while losing out initially on the barter commission, a representative can more than recoup his losses by eventually placing more business on the station, according to TMI’s argument.

Mr. Rosenblatt predicts a “rosy” future for barter and maintains that within six months bartering will be an established and “accepted practice.” “We are not breaking any laws, nor are we doing anything that could be construed as unethical. You can liken us to real estate brokers,” he concluded.

Morgens Mentioned Most Often As McElroy Successor at P&G

Neil H. McElroy, whose Procter & Gamble advertising budget includes over $60 million in broadcast funds—mostly tv (B+T, June 3)—will tackle the world’s biggest appropriation when he becomes Secretary of Defense. Senate confirmation of his Wednesday nomination to succeed Charles E. Wilson in the defense post is considered merely a matter of routine.

His training experience included work in food and drug client service. He subsequently became assistant to the president, administrative vice president in charge of all domestic staff operations and executive vice president of the Food-Drug (largest) division.

THE WORLD'S QUICKEST DRAW

TULSA

KAKC

THERE HAVE BEEN SOME EXAGGERATED CLAIMS MADE!

On page 13 of the July first issue of Broadcasting-Telecasting, a small operation in Houston with the call letters KILT (and they should be), claimed a world's record by going from last to first place in Houston in 30 days. While it is true they went from last to first place in 30 days, this world's record stuff is a lot of hot Texas Air.

THE TRUE WORLD'S RECORD was made in Tulsa way back in October, 1956 by KAKC. This fast drawing station, ramrodded by the Public Radio Corporation, went from last to first in ONLY 21 DAYS. (Pulse...October, 1956 and Hooper...October, 1956) And KAKC is still the biggest audience draw in the Tulsa area, leading the closest competitor by more than 2 to 1 (Hooper, May-June, 1957).

ANOTHER RECORD SMASHING DRAW...KIOA in Des Moines. Now the top gun in Des Moines...the big audience draw is KIOA. This station, also run by the Public Radio Corporation, went from fifth place in a six station market, to first place in the same record time of 21 days with over 41% of the audience (Hooper...May, 1957). KIOA now has over 51% of the daily audience in Des Moines (Hooper...June-July, 1957).

CBS Radio May Add Youth Night Block

- Seeks three sponsors
- 12 hours weekly planned

A SPECIAL sales effort now is underway along New York's ad row to find three big-name advertisers to underwrite a new program concept at CBS Radio. If the network meets with success, the sales would help:

- to sell blue chip advertisers on the effectiveness of network radio's nighttime hours, and

- to plunge CBS Radio forward in a bold attempt to attract and capture the attentiveness of a wide segment of the U. S. population, precisely, that radio audience group between 14 and 24 years of age.

According to CBS Radio's current canvassing, each of the three advertisers would be a leader in its individual product category and keenly aware of the youth buying potential (for example, a cigarette advertiser, soft drink firm or a cosmetics concern).

The potential CBS Radio is counting on for sale of the program package would involve 12 hours of programming weekly for 52 weeks and conceivably could be $5-6 million at gross rates for both time and talent. The network is prepared to start programming the youth program block so long as it can obtain satisfactory commitments from at least two top advertisers.

The program series would consist of a solid programming block 8-10 p.m. Monday-Saturday, using music of particular interest to young people from 14 through 24. Mitch Miller would be assigned to develop the format. It envisions remote pickups of a jazz festival and various special bands around the country. All programming would be 8-10 p.m., according to stations' local time standards.

CBS Radio, it's understood, is convinced radio holds tremendous appeal for the youth market and people in those age groups do not concentrate on any one medium except radio. This conviction is based on research factors which claim: people in this group as a rule do not watch tv to any extent; readership of magazines designed for them is limited, but they do listen to radio.

The network thinks it will get nighttime network radio off the ground by (1) permitting big advertisers to become closely identified with their own program, (2) allowing the network to program a radio show with great appeal, yet different from the usual disc jockey fare and (3) limiting sponsorship to just a few advertisers, thus obviating the practice of selling too many segments to too many and varied advertisers.

As a network official phrased it last week: "We think this is an important time in radio history for such a move."

The move, if effected, would entail preemption of some segmented periods now sold in those time periods and shifts of certain programs into other parts of the network schedule.

KBS Names Rhys Exec. V. P.,
Boosts Peterson, Hammarstrom

THREE executive promotions, described as the forerunner of a "major expansion at Keystone Broadcasting System," were announced by President Sidney J. Wolf Wednesday following a board meeting.

Executives elevated were Noel Rhys, from vice president in charge of the New York office and eastern sales operations, to executive vice president; Edwin R. (Pete) Peterson, from vice president to senior vice president, with continued responsibility for midwestern sales operations in Chicago and Charles A. Hammarstrom, from account executive to vice president in Keystone's New York office.

In announcing the appointments, Mr. Wolf alluded to expansion plans [BT, Aug. 5] and claimed 971 affiliates now in the KBS fold. He added that in the first six months of 1957 Keystone has "handled the greatest volume of business and acquired more new accounts than in any similar period in our history." He pointed out nearly one-third of all commercial am stations today are KBS affiliates.

Mr. Rhys joined KBS in 1941 as an account executive and was elected a vice president in charge of New York and all eastern sales operations in 1949. Mr. Peterson came to Keystone in 1949 as account executive after serving as central division manager of MBS and account executive with ABC. Mr. Hammarstrom had been account executive with KBS in New York since 1952 and previously served in similar capacity with Paul H. Raymer & Co., station representative, and Kenyon & Eckhardt Inc.

Mr. Wolf cited BROADCASTING YEARBOOK-MARKETBOOK figures showing 1956 as radio's peak year with total time sales of $486,889,000 and only one year when they reflected a cutback—1954—with a drop from $477,206,000 in 1953 to $451,330,000 that year. He ascribed this decrease to advertisers dropping radio for tv.

KBS simultaneously reported signing of 18 new stations as follows: KRLW Walnut Ridge, Ark.; KOLR Sterling, Colo.; KLFT Golden Meadow, KDBC Mansfield and KEVL White Castle, all La.; KATE Albert City, S.C.; WAIB Ashland, Ohio; WHYL Carlisle, Pa.; WABV Abbeville and WYMB Manning, both S. C.; WMCH Church Hill, Tenn.; KALT Atlanta, KFYN Bonham, KVLE Cleveland and KSWA Graham, all Tex.; WDOR Sturgeon Bay, Wis., and KASL New Mexico. Wyo.

Goldenson Buys 3,000 AB-PT Shares
Quarter-hour after quarter-hour, with clock-like regularity, WGBI is tops in the latest Pulse of Scranton-Wilkes-Barre.

In fact, in all but four of the 68 quarter-hours between 7:00 a.m. and midnight, Monday through Friday, WGBI tops the ratings in both markets.
it was reported last week in filings with the New York Stock Exchange under the Securities Exchange Act. The last quotation on the exchange for AB-PT that day was $19.50 per share. The warrants were issued to Mr. Goldenson, who is president of AB-PT and of its ABC-TV Division, at the price of $16.63 per share. Also reported: Mr. Goldenson earlier that month (July 9) had sold 1,700 shares of his AB-PT holdings, at which time the last quotation per share was listed at approximately $21.91. After these transactions were consummated he held a balance of $5,000 shares of AB-PT common.

Ralph Hardy, CBS V. P. In Washington, Dies

FINAL tribute to Ralph W. Hardy, 41, CBS Washington vice president, was paid Friday by broadcasters and persons prominent in public and religious life at funeral service held in Salt Lake City. Burial was at nearby Ogden.

Mr. Hardy suffered a heart attack last Monday after water skiing at Pine View Reservoir, Ogden, while on his vacation. He complained of pain and fatigue after leaving the water, then collapsed on the dock. He died a few minutes later in a hospital. An autopsy showed he once had suffered an earlier heart attack.

Surviving are his wife, the former Maren Eccles, and five children, Ralph Jr., Clare, Alison, Maren and David E. The family lives at 3330 Stuyvesant Place, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Among industry figures at the funeral were Frank Stanton, CBS president, and Richard S. Salant, vice president, both representing the network, and Vincent T. Walszewski, NARTB government relations manager, representing the association.

Widely known in broadcast circles, Mr. Hardy had been a speaker at numerous industry meetings during a six-year term at NARTB. He was prominent in religious circles and presided for a seven-year period over the East Ensign Ward congregation, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormon), in Salt Lake City, attaining the rank of Bishop.

Mr. Hardy’s radio career grew out of youthful tinkering with electronic gear. At the U. of Utah he was active in speech and drama. After graduation he became a Mormon missionary, serving the church in Great Britain. He joined KSL, Salt Lake City on his return to the United States. His service on committees of the old NAB caught the eye of Judge Justin Miller, then president, and in 1949 he was named head of the association’s new Radio Division. This led to his assignment as NARTB government relations director and vice president.

His work on Capitol Hill frequently attracted favorable comment from legislators. The late Rep. Percy Priest (D-Tenn.), while chairman of the House Commerce Committee, once said of Mr. Hardy, “I know of no man who has a higher respect of members of Congress. He has been very helpful to the committee.”

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett (R-Utah) paid tribute to Mr. Hardy, saying that while only 41, “he had already carved out an illustrious career for himself.”

When Earl H. Gammons retired as CBS Washington vice president in 1955, after 13 years, Mr. Hardy was the natural choice of CBS Inc. to fill this key Washington assignment. He had held the Washington vice presidency just five days short of two years.

At NARTB he had represented the association as a member of the Advertising Council board of directors and had been a member of the Better Business Bureau’s board of governors. During the regime of Charles Sawyer as Secretary of Commerce he served on the first advertising advisory committee. He was a member of the U. S. National Commission for UNESCO and later its vice chairman. He was a member of the American delegation to the Eighth World UNESCO Conference held in 1954 at Montevideo, Uruguay.

Mr. Hardy’s renown as a public speaker stemmed from his missionary post in England, where he took part in the famed Hyde Park oratorical melee. He was much in demand as a public speaker.

NBC Radio Will Go Along With Nielsen Radio Index

NBC RADIO has decided to go along with the Nielsen Radio Index, now that that service has been expanded (B&T. Aug. 5), but still feels it falls short by neglecting out-of-home audience. The new NBC-Nielsen contract is understood to run 18 months, with a “slight” increase in rates.

Both NBC Radio and American Broadcasting Network have been weighing question of renewing NRI, largely on grounds it treats vast out-of-home audience as a “bonus.” ABN, which originally gave notice it would drop NRI when the present contract runs out some months hence, was reported to be still in negotiation with Nielsen.

ABN also has been discussing with Pulse Inc. the possibility of developing a national service that would include out-of-home.

In subscribing to the revised NRI, NBC officials reportedly take the position that it is the best available comprehensive measure of “fixed-location” radio usage. While acknowledging that efforts to develop a satisfactory, practical means of measuring out-of-home listening have not been successful thus far, NBC authorities regard continued efforts as essential and say they will continue to work toward development of a service that won’t short-change radio.

Griffiths Goes to Networks

Even though Shakespeare anticipated PGW by several centuries, he was right about Nighttime Radio, 1957 style. Whatever small differences exist between morning and nighttime radio are actually in favor of nighttime!

PGW recently completed a study of every PGW-represented station with a complete Pulse report (23 of them, representing over 31% of all U.S. homes). This research shows that you can reach

9.6% MORE RADIO HOMES BETWEEN 6 AND 10 PM THAN BETWEEN 6:30 AND 9 AM, AT THE SAME COST

Or, to put it another way, you may reach

1000 HOMES (6 to 10 PM) FOR .........73 CENTS
1000 HOMES (6:30 to 9 AM) FOR .......80 CENTS

These challenging facts are worthy of your intense interest. Want a copy of the report?

The request was made in letters to ABC, CBS, Mutual and NBC. Earlier, Rep. Griffiths had asked the Commission to authorize time on all networks, both radio and tv, but was rebuffed on grounds the FCC has no power to require broadcasters to carry—or refrain from carrying—certain programs [BT, Aug. 5].

Hamiton, Hines Named To Direct ABN Programs

APPOINTMENTS of William D. Hamilton and Drex Hines to the newly-created posts of national program director and assistant national program director, respectively, of the American Broadcasting Network were announced last week by Stephen B. Labunski, ABN vice president in charge of programming. The posts were created, Mr. Labunski said, to "expedite production of new live personality radio programs planned for this fall."

Mr. Hamilton has been eastern program manager of ABN since January 1954. Earlier, he had served as a radio director, senior director and eastern production manager. Mr. Hines joined ABN as a producer-director in 1953. Previously he had been a freelance producer, serving Mutual and National Assn. of Mfrs.

CBS Joins CBC to Circumvent Ban on Travel in China

CBS NEWS is taking the slow boat to Red China. Denied access behind the Bamboo Curtain by official U. S. State Dept. policy, the network last week confirmed that it has teamed up with Canada's state-owned Canadian Broadcasting Co. in a move to gather news from the Chinese mainland.

CBS News Director John Day said the network had been in negotiation with Canadian officials since June and that neither was to have made public the arrangement until the matter of visas (for Canadian reporters) has been completed. The Toronto Star, however, tipped both broadcasting chains' hands in an exclusive story published last week.

The arrangement would work as follows: CBS would dispatch to China a crew consisting of political commentator Charles Lynch, news photographer Robert Crone and newscaster Larry Henderson, with the Canadians paying these men's salaries and CBS picking up the out-of-pocket tab, such as travel expenses, sustenance, etc. CBS would retain supervisory control over its crew with assignments being made by both CBC and CBS.

Boiled down to startling simplicity, the system was described by Mr. Day as "ABC having the manpower, we having the funds."

Both Washington and Ottawa have refused to recognize the Mao-Chou regime, but Canada, unlike the U. S., has never issued an official ukase prohibiting travel by newsmen in Red China.

Although Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has made clear his position on this matter, he admitted during a news conference May 14 that it would not be counter to U. S. policy for domestic newsgathering services to employ foreign sources.

CBS, while officially abiding by the Dulles ban, privately is understood to have been opposed to it even though it has had to chastise two of its star correspondents, Edward R. Murrow and Eric Sevareid, for stating their opposition to the ban on the air. The network carried dispatches recorded in Red China earlier this year by William Worthington, correspondent of the Baltimore Afro-American, who entered Red China along with a reporter-photographer team from Look magazine in open violation of the Dulles edict.

NBC Radio to Carry Bout

NBC RADIO will broadcast the middleweight championship bout between Ray Robinson and Carmen Basilio Sept. 23, starting at 10 p.m., under the sponsorship of the Gillette Safety Razor Co. Maxon Inc. is the agency. The contest will not be carried on home television but Theatre Network Television Inc. is arranging a closed circuit tv presentation to theatres.

MBS Says 14 Independents Have Asked for Affiliation

MUTUAL'S new president, Paul Roberts, a Los Angeles broadcaster, in officially taking over command of the network last week announced that 14 independent radio stations have applied for network affiliation. The stations currently are being "processed." One new affiliate was KLLL Lubbock, Tex., which MBS started to service Thursday.

The ownership of the network officially changed hands Wednesday. The network was purchased by the new owners from RKO Teleradio Pictures Inc., a subsidiary of General Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, for $550,000-plus [BT, Aug. 5, July 29].

New officers of the network are Armand Hammar, board chairman; Mr. Roberts, president; H. Roy Roberts, treasurer; Frank P. Barton, secretary; Bertram J. Hauser, executive vice president. They were named to Mutual's board, along with Arthur Brown of New York and L. M. Halper of Los Angeles.

Mr. Hammar is president of Occidental Petroleum Corp., Los Angeles. H. Roy Roberts is a California realtor and oil operator. Mr. Brown is president of Starrett Corp., New York, and Mr. Halper is president of Halper Construction Co., Los Angeles. Mr. Barton is a Los Angeles attorney.

Mr. Roberts, operating head of Mutual, is president of FM Corp., Los Angeles, and vice president of Audio Sales Inc. Before he entered radio, he founded and published three trade publications.

Mr. Hauser was vice president of Mutual for nine years, resigning in 1955 to become a broadcasting consultant. Earlier, he had been with NBC 14 years, serving in executive capacities in advertising, promotion and sales.

CBS Radio Makes 3 Big Sales

THREE major sales were charted by CBS Radio late last week. Chesebrough-Pond's through McCann-Erickson, New York, has signed a 12-week contract, effective Sept. 14, for The Vaseline Hair Tonic Football Scoreboard, a Saturday afternoon roundup of gridiron scores by regions.

Also through M-E, Chrysler Corp., gearing its institutional sell for the 1958 line of models due in showrooms the first week of October, has ordered 11 weekly participations for a four-week period starting Oct. 3.

Hot Point Co. (General Electric Co.), through Maxon Inc., Chicago, will sponsor eight 7½-minute units of daytime serials for a six-a-week period starting Aug. 26 on alternate week basis. Additionally Hot Point, for its new line of 1958 ranges and refrigerators, has ordered a six-week long Saturday segment of the Robert Q. Lewis Show.
Some mathematician, Bugs Bunny. In recent months the brash little star of Warner Bros. Cartoons increased the late-afternoon audience on KROD-TV, El Paso, Texas, six-fold—jumping from a last-place 4.8 to a first-place 28.1 (ARB, May). Warner Bros’. Popeye the Sailor gets Texas-size ratings in El Paso, too, pulling a 26.2 ARB for May—nearly three times greater than the combined total of the two other stations. The El Paso story alone is conclusive proof of the drawing power of A.A.P. Cartoons... a success story that is being duplicated from coast to coast.

To see how Bugs Bunny, Popeye the Sailor and other Warner Bros. Cartoons can multiply audiences in your area, write or phone:

Linkletter Sues ’Truth’ Parties
CHARGING that To Tell the Truth on CBS-TV is a copy of a format originated on People Are Funny on NBC-TV some years ago, People Are Funny Productions, owned by Art Linkletter, its conductor, and John Guedel, producer, last week filed a $1,100,000 plagiarism suit in Santa Monica (Calif.) Superior Court against Goodson-Todman Enterprises, packagers of To Tell the Truth; Pharmaceuticals Inc., the program’s sponsor; CBS Inc. and KNXT (TV), CBS o&o tv station which broadcasts the program in Los Angeles.

SG DISTRIBUTION PLANS REVEALED FOR 600 PRE-'48 UNIVERSAL FILMS

- Set for immediate release: 'Shock Package'; others to come
- Rumors revived on possibility of SG 'spinoff' from Columbia

SCREEN GEMS Inc., Columbia Pictures Corp.'s TV subsidiary, is wasting little time setting up distribution plans following last week-end's signing of a contract with Universal Pictures Corp. [At Deadline, Aug. 5].

The contract, culminating months of negotiations for 600 pre-1948 Universal films at a minimum guarantee (to Universal) of $20 million over a seven-year period and possibly going as high as $30 million over the next 10 years [B+T, July 15], provides for SG to receive a graduated scale of distribution fees and leaves Paramount Pictures Corp. as the lone major studio "hold-out" from TV. (It is expected Universal will reap about $3 million in TV income without losing rights to story material or other benefits, for example, remake, theatrical reissue or overseas rights.)

SG already has prepared for immediate release a group of 52 Universal films dubbed "Shock Package." Consisting of Universal's money-making spine tinglers such as "Frankenstein," "Dracula," "The Invisible Man," "House of Horrors," "Werewolf of London," "The Mummy," "The Cat Creeps" and "Hill of Horrors," the Shock Package will be only the first of many "packets" to be syndicated by SG. Others planned for the future are understood to be westerns (example, Randolph Scott), musicals (example, Deanna Durbin, Donald O'Connor) and comedy classics (example, Abbott & Costello, W. C. Fields).

According to Ralph M. Cohn, vice president and general manager of Screen Gems, "We decided to make these thrillers our first release because the grouping of feature films with a common mood provides advertisers and broadcasters with solid and continuous programming themes. This is best demonstrated by the success of our "Hollywood Mystery Parade," which went on the air for the first time only last fall and has become extremely popular with audiences all over the country."

This bonanza for SG has revived Wall Street speculation—rampant in past months—that Screen Gems will be spun off from Columbia Pictures Corp. as a wholly-separate entity. One faction of the speculators claims SG is so self-sufficient that it would do better on its own, that is, not plow back monies into the parent company. They also are of the feeling that such a spinoff would work as a tax-gain move and be greeted favorably by Columbia shareholders. Conversely, other Wall Streeters feel it is just SG's extremely healthy position that would make such a spinoff unlikely. They point to SG's $20 million gross income from TV for fiscal 1957 (ended last June 30)—a major portion of it stemming from pre-1948 feature film distribution as opposed to SG's film production work, such as Father Knows Best—and add that SG has been the only moneymaker in Columbia President Harry Cohen's stable, and that a spinoff of SG would be akin to "killing the goose that continues to lay golden eggs." Vogel Proposes 19 Nominees For Loew's Board Membership

IN THE continuing battle for control of Loew's Inc., parent company of MGM-TV, Loew's President John R. Vogel last week proposed a slate of 19 nominees for the board.

Included are Francis W. Hatch, vice president and director of BBDO (Boston office); Robert H. O'Brien, formerly an AB-PT executive and newly-appointed financial vice president of Loew's; actress Helen Hayes; Bennett Cerf, president of Random House Inc. and a TV personality, and General of the Army Omar N. Bradley, board chairman of the Bulova Research & Development Labs.

Mr. Vogel has called a special stockholders' meeting held Sept. 12 in New York to elect a new and expanded board and to consider the removal from the board of two directors, Joseph Tomlinson, a Canadian contractor, and Stanley Meyer, former motion picture and TV executive.

A series of court proceedings is being instituted to decide the legality of a rump meeting held two weeks ago by the Tomlinson faction [BT, Aug. 5, July 29].

PROLIFIC PROFITS FROM POPEYE
AAP, stations, manufacturers all win in series’ merchandising plan

A FILM SERIES distributed by Associated Artists Productions Inc. to tv stations for the viewing pleasure of moppets is in the cleanup spot in AAP's fast-expanding merchandising operation.

AAP's merchandising arm is new. For now all its activities center on one property—the Popeye cartoons, to which AAP acquired tv rights from Paramount more than a year ago.

But it is in the intertwined arrangements and contracts that AAP has made with stations, manufacturers and department stores that the distributor appears to have few peers in a field confined in large part to a network or individual advertiser operation.

The plan as worked out by AAP—and in force with a substantial number of stations now programming the Popeye series—is one that was conceived to profit not only the distributor but also the stations and the Popeye-licensed manufacturers of sundry toys, games and clothes for children.

Tailoring of the plan is cut to such a precise measure that AAP says it is conceivable for just about any of the stations which participate in the “overall” promotion to recoup a substantial part of the investment made for the film by the time its AAP contract runs out. Thus, AAP feels, a station can pay off all expenses of the film and chalk up proceeds from local sponsorship as gravy.

As AAP points out, Popeye licensed merchandise has been offered for sale in the past. But TV—and the popularity of the cartoons in various markets around the country—have brought a virtual boom to the Popeye character toy market.

AAP has sold the series in about 80 markets. As of last week, slightly more than half of the stations already were programming the cartoons.

When AAP first approached the idea of merchandising its Popeye shorts, there were some doubts. To begin with, experts in the film field advised that merchandising a syndicated show (market by market) was not only unusual but difficult. Among the obstacles: cartoons were being distributed in different markets and not every purchase was the same; different local sponsors selling unrelated wares were associated with cartoon programs; stations purchasing the series were of different size and strength and many were without a merchandising or promotion department. In addition, some stations were stand-offish to any promotion that smacked of merchandising and most of the cartoon shows were sold out fully to sponsors leaving no room for promotion messages in the program.

But AAP also was aware that in network merchandising activities stations for the most part had no control over the promotion program nor did the station as a rule derive revenue from the merchandising activity.

For several months AAP studied the situation and last April at the NARTB convention announced that it had a new profit-sharing plan that would give stations part of the income from royalty payments on Popeye character products.

This is the sequence of events: AAP in July 1956 acquired the tv rights to Popeye cartoons from Paramount Pictures Corp. and King Features for $2,700,000. In this agreement, AAP received the tv proprietary rights from Paramount while from King it obtained an exclusive arrangement for certain tv uses of the character which is a star in the syndicated comic strip stable of King Features.

The merchandising plan encompasses three types of participation or merchandising “packages.” In the “overall” plan: Stations air 15- or 20-second promotional spots within the Popeye program or, if there is a sponsor conflict, in some other time periods. AAP arranges department store tie-ins to promote both the merchandise and the program that is on the station. If the program has a live children's audience, the merchandise is plugged via giveaways.

At present AAP has about 22 stations participating in this “overall” plan. Among them: WPIX (TV) New York (the first, started April 29); WEAR-TV Pensacola, Fla.; KTLA (TV) Los Angeles; WBZ-TV Boston; CKLW - TV Windsor - Detroit; WFL-TV Philadelphia; WNBF-TV Binghamton, N. Y.; WNHC-TV New Haven, Conn.; WFBG-TV Altoona, Pa.; KTVO (TV) Salt Lake City and KFDA-TV Amarillo, Tex.

A second version of this merchandising plan (some of the 22 stations also take part in this as well as a third part) used by AAP is what is referred to as a “direct sell” promotion. In this, the station in its Popeye program or in other time promotes specific Popeye licensed merchandise. The third version features a new toy that AAP helped design and called “Colorforms,” a game that has cut-out patterns. The local personality emceeing the Popeye program asks viewers to send to the station.

The manufacturer pays a license fee to King Features to use the Popeye character in the particular merchandise to be offered. He also pays AAP a royalty commission—varying from 2.5% to about 7%—based on his gross sales, for the tv promotion of the merchandise. Of this amount, 50% is retained by AAP to defray its expenses and 50% goes to the participating station, a formula worked out according to set count in the market. For the “direct sell,” the station pockets 50% of the profit (for example, a two-third Popeye record album was developed and is being distributed nationally by Cabot Records. Income from the on-the-air sale of the discs are shared with tv stations which feature the album on their Popeye shows and other spots).

Among the manufacturers licensed are some of the top companies in the toys, games and novelties field, including such names as Transogram Co., New York, M. & H. Mfg. Co., New York, and Mattel Inc., Los Angeles. But AAP's Paul Kwartin, director of merchandising, notes that none of these manufacturers is a heavy national user of radio or tv and thus is not using funds which otherwise would be used for broadcast media budgets.

The list of merchandise is staggering. Nearly 50 items appear on a list of Popeye-licensed articles. They vary from pocket flashlights, puppets and jacks-in-the-boxes to wood block puzzles, metal-craft tattoo sets, dinnerware, belts and suspenders, T-shirts and trousers, to masquerade costumes, dolls, jigsaw puzzles, pencils, pajamas, popcorn, lollipops and comic books.

Latest introduced (Aug. 1) was a Popeye “ge-tar,” a musical toy especially designed by Mattel, which claims to be the largest maker of musical toys in the world and itself has used tv successfully.

AAP's department store tie-ins have been going great guns. In New York, repeat performances have been held at Macy's, both in its downtown store and in suburban Garden City. Bamberger's in Newark, N. J., has had a Popeye Day, as has Jordan Marsh in Miami. Wanamaker's in Philadelphia is set for Aug. 17 and a tie-in with the Food Fair supermarkets is set for the Lebanon, Pa., and Philadelphia areas (was to start last Friday and continue through today). This phase of the promotion brings the local TV personality on the Popeye programs to the store to see the young viewer and in the process Popeye merchandise is on display and for sale.

Will AAP stay with Popeye? Indications are this is only the beginning. Once the organizational phase is over in the Popeye merchandising, AAP can be expected to move similar plans for Bugs Bunny and other Looney Tune characters (the company distributes those cartoon films acquired from Warner Bros.).

United National Begins Filming of ‘Indemnity’

FILMING of United National Film Corp.’s first TV film series, Indemnity, was to start today (Monday) in Dallas. To be shot are 39 half-hour episodes in the series that will star Richard Kiley, Al Gilkes, Academy Award winner for his work on “American in Paris,” is cinematographer, and Frank Telford (Kraft Theatre, Robert Montgomery Presents and Halls of Ivy) is director.

United National is the new corporate name for Dallas Film Industries Inc., formed recently by a group of Dallas businessmen. A. Pollard Simons is chairman, Roy R. McKee, treasurer, and James N. Landrum and P. B. Garrett, vice presidents.

Byrna Productions Enters TV

BRYNA Productions, independent film company whose principal stockholder is Kirk Douglas, is entering the TV film field with an action-adventure color series, King of the Vikings. Edward Lewis, who will write and produce the series, has completed the first five scripts and negotiations for sponsorship have been started by the Steiner Agency, handling the package.

The TV series will utilize the sets, costumes, ships props and armor now being used for the theatrical motion picture, “The Vikings” a Kirk Douglas production to be released by United Artists, with Mr. Douglas starring. Plans are for the video programs to be released for broadcast in the fall of 1958, six months after the movie has begun its theatrical run.

Four Star Announces Expansion

FOUR STAR FILMS INC., owned by Dick Powell, David Niven, Charles Boyer and William Cruikshank, has announced a $6.4 million “overall production program,” involving 160 half-hour telefilms, with $1 million to be spent on 21 films on which production begins in the next few weeks.

Tv Now Prominent In Movie Finances

TV ACTIVITY—in the production of TV film (programs, commercials, etc.) and in leasing of feature libraries—has become an integral part of the motion picture industry. Thus, TV stands out in Wall Street evaluation reports of the movie colony’s financial strength.

In the latest Value Line investment survey by Arnold Bernhard & Co., New York, investment adviser, Hollywood is seen as entering a period of “more favorable business climate” with theatre attendance for the first six months of 1957 showing a 4% gain, the greater portion of an expanded output yet to be released and the industry no longer depending on the production and exhibition of conventional pictures but diversifying its interests into enterprises unrelated to the movies.

Tv angles in the company-by-company study include:

- American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres. Degree of success ABC-TV has in selling prime-time hours in next fall’s schedule to advertisers “may well go far toward determining how profitable the 1957-58 season [for ABC-TV] will turn out to be.”

Should the bulk of this unsold time be underwritten by sponsors, a trend toward improvement in earnings should set in the second half of this year and extend well into next year. “Over the next few years. ABC’s revenues will probably assume a healthy growth trend.”

- Columbia Pictures Corp. Screen Gems is “sparkling a rise in sales which may bring Columbia’s gross income up to the $100 million mark for the 1957 fiscal year (ended June 30).” Screen Gems, which is Columbia’s TV subsidiary, has grown “remarkably” in the last three years, increasing gross revenues from about $3 million in fiscal 1954 to about $11 million in fiscal 1956. Predicted is a gross income of $20 million in fiscal 1957. The parent company’s gross income in 1958 “should be further enhanced by sales growth of the TV subsidiary.”

(Also see Screen Gems story, page 60.)

- Twentieth Century-Fox. Since the company is releasing most of its “big” pictures this year during the second half and because TV income and dividends from foreign theatre subsidiaries also ought to be larger in the final six months, Value Line predicts $3.50 a share in full year earnings (compared to $2.34 last year).

- Warner Bros. The company “will probably develop into a major supplier of new film products for the television industry.” Evidence supporting this prediction: a $15 million production schedule of new entertainment and commercial films for TV during the coming year; plans to spend $1 million to remodel three motion picture sound stages for TV film use and for a new building specially designed to TV requirements.

Small's TPA Interest Purchased by Gordon

MILTON A. GORDON, president of Television Programs of America Inc., New York, announced Wednesday he has purchased the interest held in the company by co-partner Edward Small and that Mr. Small has resigned as board chairman of TPA. Price is estimated at $2 million.

At the same time Mr. Gordon announced a new plan whereby in the future both stars and producers of new series for the first time will have the opportunity to share in not only the profits of the programs in which each already participates but in TPA's over-all profits as well. This will be accomplished by setting aside a certain number of the shares in TPA previously held by Mr. Small to be acquired by talent, according to Mr. Gordon. This commonwealth plan never before has been applied in either television or feature film production, nor in any branch of theatrical production, Mr. Gordon claimed.

The profit participation plan is intended for future productions and as an incentive for outstanding talent, according to Mr. Gordon.

Mr. Small's departure from TPA was entirely amicable, Mr. Gordon declared, and was occasioned solely by his other business activities. Mr. Gordon expressed regret in losing Mr. Small as a partner. "We started this company just four years ago—without programs and without an organization. The fact that we now are a world-wide organization, with 500 people on our staff and 14 shows on the air can be attributed in great measure to him," Mr. Gordon said.

TPA's first network program was CBS-TV's Lassie. It now has on the air Furs, Captain Gallant of the Foreign Legion, both on NBC-TV, and Private Secretary on CBS-TV.

Programs on the air in syndication are: Hawkeye and the Last of the Mohicans, Count of Monte Cristo, Mystery Is My Business, Stage 7, Your Star Showcase, Halls of Ivy, Ramar of the Jungle, Foreign Legionnaire, Sue, Science in Action and The Edward Small Features. These and Lassie and The Lone Ranger, both Jack Wrather properties, are distributed abroad by TPA. In addition to current American production, Adventures of Tugboat Annie is being produced in Canada and New Adventures of Charlie Chan in England and on the Continent.

Mr. Gordon stated that no executive changes whatever are contemplated at this time.

Appeals Court Gets First Deintermixture

THE first court test of the FCC's deintermixture rulings involving a station already on the air was submitted last week to a three-judge appeals court in Washington.

Asking that Commission action be stayed—pending full-scale court litigation on the merits—was ch. 7 WTVW (TV) Evansville, Ind. It asked the court to halt the FCC's order deleting ch. 9 from Hatfield, Ind., and the show cause order proposing to modify WTVW's license from ch. 7 to ch. 31 and move ch. 7 from Evansville to Louis ville, Ky.

The argument was heard by Circuit Judges Henry W. Edgerton, David L. Bazelon and Charles Fahy. Arguing in behalf of WTVW was Edward P. Morgan; for the FCC, Douglas McCarter, and for now-dark WKLO-TV Louisville, J. Roger Wollenberg.

Mr. Morgan stressed that the FCC had never specifically proposed in rulemaking that ch. 9 be moved from Hatfield to Evansville and specified as a reserved, educational, non-commercial channel. He said if that move was permitted, it would prejudice the show cause adjudicatory hearing on whether or not WTVW should move from ch. 7 to ch. 31. He said WTVW has spent $750,000 in construction and lost more than $450,000 since it began operating in August 1956. WTVW is an ABC affiliate.

Mr. McCarter opposed the grant of a stay on the ground WTVW is asking for court relief prematurely—since the final action on the WTVW show cause order was still to be issued after the hearing, if then.

The Evansville move is one of several in which the FCC has ordered single vhf channels out of cities to make them predominate uhf. Others also ordered early this year, involve the moves of ch. 12 from Fresno to Santa Barbara, Calif.; ch. 2 from Springfield, Ill., to St. Louis, Mo.; and ch. 8 from Peoria to Rock Island, Ill. These are all in various stages of litigation, before the FCC and the courts. In addition to these vhf deletions, the FCC added vhf channels to a number of cities, such as New Orleans, Norfolk, Miami and Beaumont-Port Arthur, Tex.

Above-890-Mc Resumption To See Only Few Witnesses

A MERE handful of witnesses are expected to testify at the FCC hearing on use of the spectrum above 890 mc when the proceedings resume Sept. 30.

FCC members have been listening to a wide variety of testimony as to what needs what part of the spectrum most since last June, but the hearings are suspended during the customary August recess. Next month, the Electronic Industries Assn. (formerly RETMA) will make its case. So will another representative from Raytheon Manufacturing Co., and perhaps one or two others.

The last testimony regarding broadcasting came from consulting engineer A. Earl Cul lum, Jr., who two weeks ago described microwave needs for an educational tv network that would involve 16 southern states and cover "more than 300 accredited colleges and universities."

The closed circuit arrangement would take instructional programs from approximately 32 schools, require "a minimum of five program circuits," and operate for at least six hours a day.

Dr. Robert C. Anderson, director of the Southern Regional Educational Board, told the commissioners such a network might cost $22,500,000, "which will be only about 6% of the region's operating expenditures for instruction."

Senate Confirms Ford For Membership on FCC

THE nomination of Frederick W. Ford to become a member of the FCC was confirmed by the Senate last Monday during a brief respite in the civil rights debate. Mr. Ford had been appointed by President Eisenhower early last month [B+B, July 8] to fill the vacancy created with the expiration of then Chairman George C. McCon naughy's term.

Mr. Ford, 47-year-old attorney from West Virginia, will come to the Commission from the post of Assistant Deputy General at the Dept. of Justice. His nomination was highly praised by members of Congress and the broadcast industry.

Standing between the new commissioner and the start of official FCC duties is the swearing-in ceremony, which will be held "in about two weeks." He formerly was a member of the Commission staff (from 1947-53) and was the first chief of the Broadcast Bureau's hearing division. Returning to the Commission with Mr. Ford will be his secretary, Emma C. Burke, who has held that post since 1951 at both the FCC and Justice.

Comr. John H. Doerfer was named chairman of the Commission late in June [B+B, July 1] when Mr. McConnaughy left June 30 to enter private law practice. Barring a resignation, the next FCC vacancy will be created June 30, 1958, when the term of Democrat Robert T. Bartley expires.

Radio Assoc. Wins Biloxi V

RADIO ASSOC. Inc., Biloxi, Miss. (WVMI), has been granted ch. 13 there because of its "integration of ownership with (fulltime) management," and the broadcasting experience of its principals. The FCC action, taken Aug. 1, was announced last week.

Two initial decisions had already favored Radio Assoc. over WLOX Biloxi. The first was issued in July 1954, but the hearing was reopened for further information. The second was released in June 1956.

Radio Assoc. is controlled by Odes E. Robinson, 62.8%; and James H. McKee, 30.4%. WLOX is owned by J. S. Love Jr., 44.6%; Mrs. Joe Ellis Buie Love, 44.6%; and others.

Reducing Ads Under FTC Probe—Anderson

THE Federal Trade Commission's Comr. Sigurd Anderson served notice on reducing aid advertisers last week that their ads are under FTC surveillance.

Testifying before a subcommittee of the House Committee on Government Operations investigating advertising, Mr. Anderson named products which, he said, have agreed to discontinue use of mails for advertising and now have entered over-the-counter business, thus coming under FTC jurisdiction. One such, he said, is Wonder Drug Corp. (Regimen). Regimen recently announced an expanded radio TV-spot program through its agency, Kaston, Farrell, Chesley & Clifford, New York [15T, July 15, 2]. The FTC has not filed a complaint on reducing aids for four years.

Other witnesses called in for the reducing aid probe represented the medical profession, National Better Business Bureau, Post Office Dept. and Food & Drug Administration. The session's first witness, Dr. S. William Kalb, Newark, N. J., nutritionist, was asked about "RDX" tablets, which last year spent $170,350 on television spot. He took one of the pills himself and passed a box around to committee members, remarking that it tastes "very good" and is harmless but won't kill appetite. He said the government should "clamp down" on misleading claims. Dr. Kalb and succeeding witnesses testified that the only way to lose weight is by dieting. Other witnesses repeated a charge by the subcommittee chairman, Rep. John A. Blatnik (D-Minn.), that most reducing aids are worthless, and added that some are dangerous.

A staff spokesman for the Blatnik subcommittee said last week that he hopes to have two interim reports ready before Congress adjourns (possibly the end of this month). One will deal with reducing aids and another with the probe of cigarette advertising conducted in July. At the cigarette inquiry FTC Comr. Robert T. Secrest promised a "fresh approach" by his agency to cigarette ad policing, to be led off by a survey to find what ad terminology means to consumers.

Other subjects the Blatnik subcommittee intends to go into include tranquilizers, health and accident insurance, and administration of the FTC. These are all in preliminary investigation stage. Hearing dates will be announced later.

Schick, FTC Sign Consent Prohibiting Contested Ads

SCHICK Inc. (razors), Lancaster, Pa., and the Federal Trade Commission have signed a consent order prohibiting misrepresentation of a free home trial of the firm's electric razor and from selling used razors as new. The order grew out of an FTC complaint issued April 30.

The complaint cited commercials on network telecasts and other media and alleged that Schick was reconditioning returned razors and selling them as new. According to the FTC, some Schick dealers were unwilling to provide free home trial of the razor, as advertisements promised, nor had Schick required that all do so.

The order does not constitute an admission of any violation of the law.

Magnuson Asks FCC Intention On Fm Switch to Multiplex

SEN. Warren Magnuson (D-Wash.), chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, last week asked the FCC what it plans to do about the current fm simplex-multiplex situation. He noted the Commission has extended the deadline for fm stations to switch from simplex to multiplex operation because equipment for the latter system has not been available.

The current extension expires Jan. 1, 1957 [15T, June 17], and is the third such reprieve given fm outlets. First ordered to switch to multiplex operation in March 1955, they were given until July 1, 1956, to comply. This deadline later was extended one year and the latest ruling added another six months for simplex operation.

Using multiplex, an fm station can transmit functional music to business houses simultaneously with its regular programming; under simplex only one program can be carried at a time.
Comments Back Plan For Uhf Boosters

FURTHER favorable comments have arrived at the FCC praising the Commission's proposals to permit boosters in remote areas for uhf stations [B+T, Aug. 5].

FCC officials have endorsed their use under certain restrictions such as the requirement that they stay on the same channels with mother stations where signals are merely amplified or retransmitted.

ABC approved. So did NBC, which said, "There is a real need for co-channel boosters." But CBS went along with modifications, one of which called for a "less severe burden" on station management than being required to make official identification booster breaks during actual programs.

Electronic Industries Assn. (formerly RETMA) wanted the Commission to go ahead with its would-be authorizations. It commented "the accomplishments of the Commission in its continued efforts to help the uhf tv broadcaster."

Another such was the Joint Council On Educational Television, which said the proposals were justified for "severely handicapped" uhfs. But it questioned the merits of locating boosters within 68-mile ranges which it said "may cause objectionable interference." Because of this, JCET inquired whether other spacing requirements might be considered.

A handful of uhf stations were all for the idea: WTVI (TV) Decatur, Ill.; WSEE (TV) Erie, Pa.; WNAO-TV Raleigh, N. C.; and KCOR-TV San Antonio, Tex. They told the FCC it would improve uhf coverage by filling in shadow areas, encourage greater use of uhf channels, and "in some instances, provide a broader financial base for operating uhf stations."

WBRE-TV Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and WANE-TV Fort Wayne said they were "in full accord," but asked for less stringent monitoring regulations to cut costs.

The Washington State Reflector Assn. wanted the boosters, but demanded similar rulemaking for vhf's, and said they would work out in the Northwest with proper controls.

In this connection, the FCC two weeks ago decided to let vhf booster supporters at least try to show they are feasible, and written proof is due by Oct. 1.

House Passes Bill to Reduce 'Cabaret' Tax From 20% to 10%

THE House last week passed, by an overwhelming voice vote, a bill (HR 17) which would reduce the "cabaret" tax, levied against eating and drinking establishments which provide entertainment or live music, from 20 to 10%.

Proponents of the bill argued the 20% tax is curtailing the employment of musicians and entertainers. Increased employment, they said, would help make up the estimated $21 million in taxes which would be lost annually by the Treasury Dept. if the measure is made a law.

James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, praised the House action as "gratifying." The bill was sent to the Senate and referred to the Finance Committee. There reportedly is little chance of Senate action on the bill during the present session of Congress.

Chelf, Sikes Introduce Bills To Save the Songs Dixie Loves

CONGRESSIONAL activity on the summer's big musical issue, whether network censorship of certain allegedly offensive words in Stephen Foster and other songs is proper [B&T, Aug. 5], blossomed forth last week with traditional Dixie fervor.

- Rep. Frank Chelf (D-Ky.) and Rep. Robert Sikes (D-Fla.) introduced identical bills in the House "to prevent the unauthorized censorship by broadcasting, television, telephone, telegraph, and all similar companies, or networks, of songs, tunes, words, lyrics, and other material and things . . . ." In seeking support for his measure, Congressman Chelf wrote letters to all the members of the House Commerce Committee, to which the bills were referred (asking): "Have we become so mercenary in America that in order for a sponsor to sell Upchuck's Burp Pills or Doblows Anti-Smell Underarm Gue that we have to rewrite or destroy the songs that your father and mother and their parents loved and cherished?"

- Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.) House Commerce Committee chairman, sent a letter to the networks and the NARTB in which he reportedly pointed out that his committee has been asked to investigate these alleged "censorship" practices.

Although not publicly released, Rep. Harris is understood to have told the networks that if this allegation is true, it raises serious questions and such "censorship" is an arbitrary action of the networks not supported by the licensees. He reportedly asked for any assistance and comments they might care to make.

Reps. Chelf and Sikes, along with three other southern congressmen, called for such investigation three weeks ago [B&T, July 29].

Meanwhile, the networks still appeared surprised that all this apparant heat has been generated of late over a song-editing practice they have followed for more than 20 years.

Newsmen at Atomic Tests To Get On-scene TV Coverage

NEWSMEN miles from the blast site at next Monday's atomic tests in Nevada will be able to view the event fully and immediately through the use of tv cameras strategically placed about the operation, according to an announcement from the Pentagon last week.

Army Signal Corps personnel will set up the first tv monitoring system ever used for representatives of the news media at Camp Desert Rock. Previously, newsmen had to be content with "blind" trench-sitting 15 miles from the A-Bomb blast.

It was reported remote telecasts will be handled from three positions during the exercises. There will be pictures from trenches where participating troops will be stationed, and a pickup from the helicopter landing area from which the soldiers later will be flown to the blast site. Spectators also will view pictures taken from a plane which, when safety permits, will hover over the target area.

The entire tv operation will be narrated by Master Sergeant Stuart Queen. It is expected information will be gained through the use of tv to provide further insight into the effect of such explosions on various types of television equipment.

Oberfelder Co. Pays $167,926 For WKIX-AM-FM Raleigh, N. C.

TED OBERFELDER Broadcasting Co., New York, last week filed an application with the FCC to buy WKIX-AM-FM Raleigh, N. C., for $167,926 from J. W. English, G. J. Mead, J. J. Boland Jr. and J. P. McBrier, each owning 14.8%, and others.

The four sellers, who also have interests in WSEE (TV) Erie, Pa., told the Commission they wanted to sell out to concentrate more on the operation of their remaining station interests, WNAO-TV Raleigh.

Oberfelder, a new corporation, includes Theodore J. Oberfelder, who before committing himself to 25% was vice-president of WABC-TV New York. He joined Burke-Stuart as president May 1, 1956, and left June 15 this year.

His partners are L. B. Frutkin, 12½%; B. N. Rippe, 12½%; L. P. Randell, 25%; and N. R. Glenna, 25%. WKIX (850 kc, 10 kw) lost $5,267.63 in June, and almost as much in the two previous months, according to a balance sheet it filed with the FCC.

Sandstrom Tells Congressman What Action FCC Should Take

NOTICE to the FCC: Thad M. Sandstrom, general manager of WIBW-AM-TV Topeka, Kan., has three suggested improvements "from the standpoint of the radio-tv industry." They are:

1. Lessening of the Commission's paperwork load. He said this has shown considerable improvement in the past 10 years, but he feels the Commission at times calls for information "that is really none of its business."

2. Extension of the broadcast licensing period from three to five years.

3. Remote control operation for directional stations. He said the smaller stations using directional antennas "certainly have been burdened by the Commission's slowness in acting on this regulation" and that remote control operation of such stations is a "must."

Mr. Sandstrom's proposals, all of which have been sought by broadcasters for sometime, were made in a letter to Rep. William H. Avery (R-Kan.). In making his recommendations, Mr. Sandstrom praised the FCC's progress during the administration of former Chairman George C. McConnaughey.

"While many of us in the radio and tele-

For I have also been Chedo Chuckovich, man without a country.

"I was born in Belgrade, Yugoslavia. My father was co-owner of the Serbian-American National Bank. I had been educated in schools in France and Switzerland, and planned on a career in diplomacy.

"When I was 17, the Germans invaded my country. I fled with my family into the hills, and joined the guerillas. My father was killed. My brother was killed. I was wounded and taken prisoner, and starved for five years in a Nazi concentration camp.

"Two weeks before the war's end, the Canadians freed me. My family was dead or scattered. Our property had been confiscated. The Communists had taken over Yugoslavia. I was a man without a country.

"But I was one of the lucky displaced persons. Unlike so many of the others, I got to America, and a new start.

"Today I am in business for myself, a Union Oil dealer in Pacific Palisades, California. I have money in the bank, a home, a car. I have the respect of my neighbors. I have friends and a future again. I will soon be an American citizen.

"I know, because I'm one of the few who got a second chance at freedom."

Chedo's life underlines a basic truth, we believe: Wherever men would remain free, they must remain alert.

For any concentration of power in the hands of a few—whether they be businessmen, financiers, industrialists, government officials or labor leaders—is, inevitably, at the expense of the majority.

'Welk' Telecast Canceled
In ABC-TV, NABET Dispute
DISPUTE between ABC-TV and the National Assn. of Broadcast Employees and Technicians last Monday resulted in the cancellation of the Lawrence Welk Show and in interruptions of various other programs that day from 3:30 to 5 p.m. when a settlement was reached.

Technicians in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco were ordered to stop work by NABET in what it called "grievance writing sessions." The dispute stemmed from a program begun by ABC-TV last Monday, American Bandstand (see In Review), which originates from WFLD-TV Philadelphia, manned by members of the International Alliance of Theatrical & Stage Employees.

A NABET spokesman said the union's main concern was that for "the first time in tv," a network had transferred a "sizeable" portion of its afternoon programming (seven and one-half hours per week) from a major production center (New York) to an affiliate. If this started a precedent, he continued, and networks shifted more of their programming service from the so-called major centers to smaller cities "to lower production costs" members in unions such as NABET might lose jobs. The settlement reached was that no lay-offs will result because of origination of American Bandstand from WFLD-TV and in the future, ABC-TV will consult with NABET before it moves "a strip program" out of a major center for an affiliate origination.

Daylight Saving Ban Would Cut Hours of Many Stations—Elliot
PASSAGE of legislation providing uniform time zones would cut the operating time of some daytime stations as much as 150 hours a year, Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) of the House Interstate & Foreign Commerce Committee was told by Tim Elliot, president of WICE Providence, R. I., and WCUE Akron, Ohio.

The bill limiting or banning Daylight Saving Time (HR 369, 370, 5771) would deny local communities the chance to decide whether they want daylight time, Mr. Elliot wrote. He sent Chairman Harris a copy of an editorial broadcast on WCUE in which his reasons for the stand were outlined.

NABET has been touring the country, trying to get the anti-Sunset Boulevard people to agree to new time zones. Nearly a third of U. S. stations are daytime-only outlets signing off at local sunset, Mr. Elliot reminded. Daylight time gives them an extra evening hour, he said. He wrote NABET President Harold E. Fellows saying association support for the legislation would react against many broadcasters.
L.A. TOLL TV PLANS HIT SNAGS

- City Council postpones action on Skiatron franchise
- ITC-Fox bid delayed on question of antitrust violation

CLOSED-CIRCUIT toll tv ran into official tape in Los Angeles last week as the City Council canceled its proposal to advertise Skiatron's franchise [BT, July 22] for bids, returnable Aug. 21.

The council postponed all action on toll tv until Sept. 18. The action was a sequel to a ruling handed down the day before by the city's Board of Public Utilities & Transportation. The board had refused to recommend to the council the joint application of International Telemeter Corp. and Fox West Coast Theaters for a second closed-circuit tv franchise.

The board in addition had asked International Telecast Inc. to submit a proposal to the city's Board of Public Utilities & Transportation. The board had refused to recommend to the council the joint application of International Telecast Inc. and Fox West Coast Theatres Corp. for a second closed-circuit tv franchise.

The issue was raised in a telegram sent to the five members of the board by Skiatron Electronics & Tv Corp. reading in part: "We are advised that International Telecast Inc. is substantially a wholly-owned subsidiary of Paramount Pictures Inc.; that Fox West Coast Theatres Corp. is a wholly-owned subsidiary of National Theatres Corp.; and that both Paramount Pictures Inc. and National Theatres Corp. presently are operating their business under decrees of the United States District Court based upon violations of the federal antitrust laws. We are further advised that these court decrees prohibit National Theatres Corp. from in any way engaging in the distribution of motion pictures . . . and in general that said decrees restrain both companies from separately or jointly expanding in the field of motion picture exhibition.

"It would appear therefore that serious legal and economic problems may arise as to the right of Paramount Pictures Inc. or National Theatres Corp. to participate in the distribution of motion pictures."

Reading of the Skiatron telegram followed a presentation by Lawrence A. Peters, attorney for Fox West Coast Theatres, in support of the joint application, in which Mr. Peters said that motion pictures will comprise the major part of the program fare if the franchise is granted. He protested that the consent decrees dealt solely with the exhibition of motion pictures in theaters, a contention denied by Skiatron attorney Harry B. Swerdlow. Mr. Swerdlow argued that if Fox West Coast Theatres had to get the city's permission to build new theaters with relatively small seating capacity, such permission would certainly be needed for a plan to take motion pictures into millions of homes.

Answering a question from board member Ned Redding as to how the board should proceed, Mr. Swerdlow suggested the U.S. Attorney General be asked whether the proposed franchise would or would not violate the consent decrees. This suggestion brought immediate reactions from Alan Campbell of the Los Angeles city attorney's office as well as from representatives of Telemeter and Fox West Coast, who felt that months, possibly years, would elapse before an answer could be obtained. Mr. Campbell gave his opinion that the city need not consider whether a franchise to the joint applicants would violate the consent decrees they had signed or not, stating that if the courts should subsequently rule that it was a violation there would be no blame on the city.

When the four board members present split two to two on recommending that a franchise be granted to Telemeter-Fox West Coast by the city council, protests that this in effect was granting an exclusive franchise to Skiatron won the joint applicants the chance for a reappearance before the board in three weeks' time.

In postponing its plans to advertise the Skiatron franchise for sale [BT, July 29], the City Council members clearly expressed their surprise at the failure of the Board of Public Utilities & Transportation to recommend that Telemeter-Fox West Coast also be given a franchise for a closed-circuit tv system. Resentment also was expressed at Skiatron for a move that several council members described as an attempt to gain a monopoly by turning the non-exclusive franchise approved by the council into an exclusive one.

The council approved an amendment offered by the city attorney in the wording of the time of performance section (2.4) of the franchise to read as follows: "If the installation of a closed-circuit system shall not be commenced within two years after the effective date of this franchise, and extensions and service pursued with due diligence thereafter, failure to so commence and offer service shall be grounds for termination of the rights and privilege of this franchise."

Allows for FCC Action

Approval followed the explanation that the amendment was designed to clarify the language of the section which would relieve the franchisee of responsibility for proceeding with the installation of a closed-circuit system if in the meantime the FCC approves the broadcast transmission of pay tv program service and so renders a wired service impractical and uneconomic. In such event, the franchisee would be allowed to terminate his franchise without forfeiting the $100,000 faithful performance bond the city requires him to post.

In his report to stockholders of National Theatres Inc., E.C. Rhoden, president, included a paragraph of subscription television: "Much publicity is being given currently to proposed television systems in which viewers may view programs through coin boxes or other arrangements. There are many problems involved in so-called pay-tv and its economic feasibility is yet to be demonstrated. However, we are keeping in close touch with developments in this field and are prepared to take definite steps if it appears desirable."

Earnings of National Theatres for the 39 weeks ended June 25 were almost exactly the same as for the like period of 1956, this year's net income of $1,365,820 amounting to 51 cents a share of outstanding stock, the same per share income derived from the $1,378,974 net for the first 39 weeks of 1956. Theatre gross income for the 39 weeks ended June 25, 1957, was $40,909,966 compared with $40,020,250 for the same period of the year before.

Move to S.F. Would Help Giants, Stoneham Tells Stockholders

INDICATIONS that the New York Giants are highly disposed toward transferring the club's franchise to San Francisco were given at a stockholders meeting in Jersey City last week when Horace Stoneham, president, reported that closed-circuit tv guarantees alone "will double our radio and television income."

Although Mr. Stoneham told newsmen after the closed meeting that "nothing definite" has been set on moving to San Francisco, he was reported to have been "very enthusiastic" during the stockholder's session about relocating in the West. One observer said Mr. Stoneham referred to an agreement with Skiatron TV, providing for closed-circuit telecasting of the Giants games. Mr. Stoneham was said to have repeated what he told the Celler Committee on Capitol Hill several weeks ago [BT, July 22]—the Giants will receive about double the radio-tv income from closed-circuit tv in San Francisco. He told the Celler Committee the Giants received $730,593 from radio-tv in 1956.

Mr. Stoneham expects to receive "a letter of intent" from San Francisco city officials within a week, he told stockholders. He added that a meeting of the board of directors of the club would be held later this week to decide on any possible transfer.

CTS Sets Up N. Y. Coaxial Cable

A PERMANENT land coaxial cable has been installed between Closedcircuit Telecasting System's New York studios and the New York telephone company's offices, making it possible for agencies and others to arrange big-screen tv tests on short notice, CTS President Fanshawe Lindsay announced last week.

He said the new facilities, installed by CTS at a cost of more than $40,000, permit CTS to take feeds from any of the three tv networks or from remote originations and present a big-screen projection picture in either color or black-and-white in its studio, which seats up to 80 persons.

Capitol Records Sales Up 37%

CAPITOL RECORDS had an all-time high sales figure of $35,108,401 during the fiscal year ended June 30, up 37% over the previous year's sales, the company reported to stockholders last week. Net income, after $3,533,000 Federal and Canadian income taxes, was $3,239,362, or $6.80 per share of common stock, compared to $3.35 per share for the 1955-56 year.

EDUCATION

Parents Restrict Tv Viewing In Evanston, Ill., Study Shows

In Evanston, Ill., parents apparently are spending more time watching tv but at the same time are supervising viewing by their children more closely, according to findings in the eighth annual television survey conducted by Paul Witty, professor of education at Northwestern U. Parents and teachers can realize tremendous educational possibilities from tv if they learn to utilize it discriminatingly and wisely, he said.

Among his findings:

(1) Evanston parents average about 20 weekly viewing hours in 1957 compared to 17 last year;
(2) Grade school pupils watch 20 hours per week as against 21 in 1956;
(3) Teen-age students average 12 a week (and some even prefer radio and out-of-home listening);
(4) Teachers view tv about 9 hours each week, as against an average of 12 from 1953-56.

Professor Witty indicated children's viewing hours are below those of other communities because of greater parental control.

Other figures: 96% of children in Evanston and Kenosha County have access to at least one tv set; 95% of teachers there have receivers (compared to 25% in 1951).

Earlier fears of tv's alleged detrimental effects on children have evaporated, Prof. Witty claimed, because in Evanston they read more, (save comic books), get as much sleep and outdoor recreation, and their grades don't suffer because of too much tv. Evanston children still rate Disneyland their favorite program; parents prefer I Love Lucy as in past years, and teachers like What's My Line. As to grades, some children managed better in the classroom because of being stimulated by tv programs, Prof. Witty found.

N.Y.U. Sets Radio-Tv Course

A NEW college course on the operation of a present-day radio station will be offered by the division of general education of New York U. this fall with Sam J. Slate, general manager of WCBS New York, as lecturer. Registration for the course opens Sept. 9 and classwork begins Sept. 30. Mr. Slate will discuss the changing role of the local radio station, covering such areas as programming, management, sales, publicity, promotion and merchandising. He will explore such topics as the FCC, station organization, talent and labor contracts, rate cards and discounts.

Atomic power in Caesar’s day?

Certainly!

It was there, in the ground, in the air and water. It always had been. There are no more “raw materials” today than there were when Rome ruled the world.

The only thing new is knowledge... knowledge of how to get at and rearrange raw materials. Every invention of modern times was “available” to Rameses, Caesar, Charlemagne.

In this sense, then, we have available today in existing raw materials the inventions that can make our lives longer, happier, and inconceivably easier. We need only knowledge to bring them into reality.

Could there possibly be a better argument for the strengthening of our sources of knowledge—our colleges and universities? Can we possibly deny that the welfare, progress—indeed the very fate—of our nation depends on the quality of knowledge generated and transmitted by these institutions of higher learning?

Yet this is the case

The crisis that confronts our colleges today threatens to weaken seriously their ability to produce the kind of graduates who can assimilate and carry forward our rich heritage of learning.

The crisis is composed of several elements: a salary scale that is driving away from teaching the kind of mind most qualified to teach; overcrowded classrooms; and a mounting pressure for enrollment that will double by 1967.

In a very real sense our personal and national progress depends on our colleges. They must have our aid.

Help the colleges or universities of your choice. Help them plan for stronger faculties and expansion. The returns will be greater than you think.

GE Sets New Checks Of Portable TV Sets

GENERAL Electric Co. is “proceeding in a positive fashion to eliminate any possibility” of recurring defective portable TV sets, the set manufacturer announced Tuesday.

The statement was issued following a Cook County jury’s findings that improper factory assembly led to the accidental electrocution of a six-year-old suburban Chicago boy. It recommended strengthening of safety standards for TV and appliance manufacturers.

The 12-man jury, appointed by Coroner Walter E. McCarron for inquest proceedings, found the receiver “defective in such manner that lethal voltages exist between its cabinet and ground.” The youth, Howard Erenstein, of Skokie, Ill., probably died “of electric shock from simultaneous contact with the television set and the grounded metal trim on the kitchen counter top,” the jury stated. It continued:

“Since many kinds of portable electrical appliances are being used in the American home in ever increasing numbers, it is highly desirable that safety codes and practices used by the industry be strengthened.”

Specifically, there was speculation that “during factory assembly the 135-volt direct current line was accidentally pinched and wedged between the mounting bracket and the vertical holding control.”

The GE statement was issued by Herbert Riegelman, general manager of its television receiver department, Syracuse, N. Y., and read:

“General Electric has manufactured more than a million portable television receivers and this tragic and regrettable accident is the first of its kind involving one of our sets. . . . We have been unable to determine how this (pinched wire) could have escaped our rigid factory tests. . . . It also announced its distributors and dealers are prepared to offer free electrical checks to portable TV set owners and urge them to take the opportunity “to assure themselves of the safety of their sets.” TV set usage has increased from a few hundred in 1946 to 46 million in 1957 without any increase in deaths from electrocution in American homes, a GE representative also pointed out.

An Underwriters Labs representative, Louis M. Kline, was questioned closely about the feasibility of “plastic type insulation,” methods. He promised Underwriters Labs would “act to consider” any such recommendations by the jurors.

Radio Production, Sales Up But TV Down in ’57—EIA

PRODUCTION and sales of radio receivers in the first half of 1957 ran well ahead of 1956 but TV production and sales figures are under last year, according to Electronic Industries Assn. (formerly RETMA).

Factory output of radios totaled 7,187,294 sets for the first six months of the year.

Smartest move in Texas is to use the only facility covering the Beaumont-Port Arthur-Orange area of over 1,000,000 prosperous people.

Sylvania Doubles Tv Dealers In Seven Months of 1957

SYLVANIA Electric Products Inc. has doubled its television dealer roster in the past seven months, Robert L. Shaw, general sales manager of the radio-tv division, told a sales management workshop seminar in New York last week. The workshop was sponsored by the Research Institute of America. Mr. Shaw credits the enlarged dealer interest to product development and marketing and sales promotion methods.

“Briefly,” he said, “our methods call for less emphasis on prestige and institutional type advertising and more emphasis on a ‘buy now’ approach to the consumer. The retailer is the key man in that approach.”

RCA Victor to Use C-C Color In Pitch to Dealers Sept. 4

FOURTH quarter sales, advertising and promotion plans, as well as a new supplemental line of deluxe color tv receivers, will be unveiled by RCA Victor television division Sept. 4 via a color closed circuit presentation to dealers in more than 80 cities, it was announced Thursday by Charles P. Baxter, vice president and general manager, RCA Victor television division. The new deluxe color sets will be in addition to RCA Victor's current line of 11 receivers starting at $445, he said.

RCA Victor distributors throughout the U.S. are arranging for special dealer viewings of the color closed circuit, to be scheduled 5:30-6:30 p.m. Following this, Mr. Baxter said, NBC-TV will preview its color programming plans for the fall season in the period 6:30-7:30 p.m. This portion of the closed circuit also will be received by NBC-TV affiliates, he said.

Motorola Sales, Earnings Up, Except for TV, Report Says

SALES and earnings for Motorola Inc. during the first half of 1957 measured up to expectations in all fields except television, but the new TV line unveiled July 18 should be reflected in sales from July through September, the company reported in a financial statement released last Monday.

Total sales for the first six months reached $105,666,759 compared to $101,801,234 the same period last year, while earnings after taxes totaled $3,409,778 as against $3,066,207 in 1956—boosts of 11.2% and 3.8%, respectively. Second quarter figures showed sales of $53,384,964 against $48,603,693 and earnings of $1,272,191 compared to $1,053,331.

Merger Ratification Reported
By Nems-Clarke, Vitro Corp.

NEMS-CLARKE Inc., Silver Spring, Md., will become an operating division of the Vitro Corp. of America at the end of this month, according to an announcement made last week by Nems-Clarke President Allen S. Clarke and Vitro President J. Carlton Ward Jr. saying stockholders of Nems-Clarke had ratified the merger. The stockholders' ratification had been expected for some weeks (B&T, July 22). Vitro Corp. is engaged especially in extractive metallurgy, weapon systems and atoms. The company's new Nems-Clarke division will continue its work in the fields of electronics, communications, television and related mechanics.

GE Unveils Camera Attachment
To Double Image Orthicon Life

AN electronic device about the size of a cigar box, which hooks on the outside of a television camera, is expected to double the life of costly picture originating tubes according to an announcement last week by the General Electric Co.'s technical products department.

The device is as yet unnamed, but is described by GE as an image-orthicon life extender, preventing "burn-in and sticking of images" on image orthicon tubes. Principle of the new electronic "tube saver" is an electronic deflecting system used to move or "wobble" the tv image inside the image...
orthicon tube. Thus, "burn-in" or "stocking" is avoided, GE said. To offset the wobble, a scanning beam inside the tube follows and automatically compensates the wobble, causing the transmitted picture to appear as a normal stationary image on home tv receivers.

The new device will be marketed immediately for about $1,200, according to Paul L. Chamberlain, manager of marketing for the department's broadcast equipment. At present, he said, the new "tube saver" can be used in seven out of eight tv cameras now in service throughout the broadcast industry. Mr. Chamberlain estimates about 1,600 cameras are in service in the nation's more than 500 tv stations.

GE's Sweeney Sees $1 Billion Transistor Volume in 10 Years

ANNUAL sales of transistors and other semiconductors could reach $1 billion in the next 10 years, James H. Sweeney, manager of marketing for GE's semiconductor products department, predicted last week. He said sales of transistors and other electronic components made from semiconductor materials are expected to exceed $140 million this year, or an increase of 82% over 1956.

"The demand of the military for reliable, long life and small electronic components with low power consumption has spurred the industry to great achievements," he explained. He said all devices resulting from these technical achievements are being adapted rapidly to consumer and industrial equipment like portable radios, portable phonographs, computers and control equipment where they are replacing electron tubes.

He pointed out, however, that he did not feel semiconductors would completely replace electron tubes. "We believe that over the long haul, better than 50% of the uses of transistors and other semiconductors will be in equipment not practical or even possible with electron tubes," the executive explained. Mr. Sweeney spoke to a meeting of the Air Force Reserve Officers Assn. in Detroit.

DuMont Reports Loss

ALLEN B. DuMONT Labs showed $997,000 operating loss and $19,850,000 in sales for the first half of this year, the firm has reported. Data compares to last year's corresponding period loss of $1,092,000 (reduced to net loss of $484,000 after tax carry-back credit of $608,000) and sales of $22,471,000.

Hollis Buys Rixon Electronics

RIXON ELECTRONICS Inc., Silver Spring, Md., research and development company, now is owned by James L. Hollis. He is executive vice president and general manager of the firm, and has bought all of the common stock previously held by officers of Page Communications Engineers Inc. (Esterly C. Page, Joseph A. Waldschmitt and John Creutz). Mr. Hollis, in return, disposed of his stock in PCE and resigned as an officer and a director. The sales price was not disclosed.

Motorola Transistorizes Switches

TRANSISTORIZATION of switching circuits in two-way radios, described as "the most important advance in power supply design" since its introduction of fm two-way units in 1942, was claimed as a major development by Motorola Inc. last week.

Use of transistors eliminates the conventional dual vibrator assembly, herefore the most frequently replaced component, according to the company's communications-industrial electronics div. Power supply is one of a three-part basic chassis comprising the complete two-way radio unit, the others being the transmitter and receiver. In the new radios two transistors make up a single switching circuit. New models have 20 and 25 w power output.

Would you call this fair play?

Number 5 has to take the high hurdles—number 3 gets by with the low. Would you call this a fair race?

Hardly—but you and most people face that same kind of unfairness every day as far as your taxes are concerned. Here's how:

Part of every dollar you pay for electricity goes for taxes. But a strange twist in federal laws exempts several million American families and businesses from paying all the taxes in their electric bills that you pay in yours. These are the people who get their electricity from federal government electric systems. Like runner number 3, they enjoy lower tax hurdles while you strain over the high ones.

This kind of tax favoritism is a far cry from American standards of fair play. That's why we believe it should be made widely known and given critical study.

Ray to Retire From Blair & Co.; Barborka Appointed Chicago Head

RETIREMENT of Paul Ray as Chicago manager of John Blair & Co., station representative, and appointment of Clifford J. Barborka Jr., now Chicago sales manager, to succeed Mr. Ray, are being announced today (Monday) by President John Blair.

Mr. Ray's retirement is effective Sept. 1 under the Blair employees' retirement trust. For more than 40 years, Mr. Ray has been in the advertising field, starting in 1916 with the Kansas City Star. He was transferred from Kansas City to the Star's Chicago office and in 1923 joined the Associated Farm Paper Group, going three years later with the Katz Agency with which he was associated 14 years, first as Detroit manager and then for five years as Chicago manager. He moved to Blair in 1940.

Mr. Barborka, with Blair since 1952, also will become a vice president of the firm Sept. 1. His other associations include Chicago office of NBC Spot Sales; B. F. Bills Co., where he directed a community development program, and several years with Lever Bros.' Pepsodent Division, first as a salesman and later as director of field tests for Pepsodent's merchandising plans.

In announcing the change at Chicago, Mr. Blair noted that the men have "operated as a highly effective battery—and their teamwork has produced substantial increases in our Chicago volume." He said the office's volume is up over 200% since 1955, and that in "creative selling of spot radio, Cliff Barborka has a track record emulated by few." He recounted how "men like Paul Ray" of the space selling fraternity "of a generation ago...accurately evaluated the selling power of the new medium, radio."

House Party Buys Into KTKT

HOUSE Party Productions Inc., owned jointly by Art Linkletter, star of the daytime House Party program on CBS-TV, and producer John Guedel, has acquired a half-interest in KTKT Tucson, 10 kw daytime station, and KTKT-FM, from Thomas J. Wallace, subject to FCC approval. The price might be put at $90,000 plus other considerations. Mr. Guedel said, adding that it had not yet been figured out exactly, but would be before the application was filed with the FCC. The deal was made directly with Mr. Wallace, who will stay on as general manager of the Tucson stations.

Storer Quarterly Earnings Hit $3.1 Million, $1.27 Per Share

SECOND quarter earnings after taxes for Storer Broadcasting Co. amounted to $3,143,038.69 compared to $1,395,202.92 for the same period in 1956, Storer announced last week. Earnings per share for the second quarter amounted to $1.27 compared to 56 cents last year.

Earnings for the second quarter reflected non-recurring capital gains of $2,621,969.84 before taxes, or $1,966,477.38 after taxes, amounting to 79 cents per share after taxes. These capital gains resulted from the sale of WBRC-AM-TV Birmingham, after deduction of the capital loss on the sale of the company's uhf stations KPTV (TV) Portland, Ore., and WGIBS-TV Miami, the company said.

Six-month earnings after taxes amounted to $4,429,484.09 compared to $2,845,445.11 for 1956. Per share earnings for the six-month period amounted to $1.15 compared to $1.15 in 1956. Per share earnings are based on the combined total number of common and class "B" shares outstanding at the end of the period.

NEWS GETS TOP PRIORITY AT WBBM

ONE DAY not long ago CBS Chicago News Director William Garry was leafing through a new directory of city government offices. His eyes did an abrupt double-take when he came across a seemingly innocuous listing—but one that would prickle the curiosity of a trained reporter.

Taking the cue from Mr. Garry, WBBM newsman John Callaway injected the situation methodically, almost apologistically, at Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's news conference. The mayor's first reaction was surprise and an unbelieving look. Then came a chorus of laughter from the mayor and reporters.

The question: "How's your Billiards Committee, Mr. Mayor?"

"The what?"

"The Billiards Committee."

Mayor Daley smiled and professed ignorance.

That started reporter Callaway digging into old records. While neither the mayor nor oldtimers around City Hall knew what it was, research proved the commission did exist and, what's more, was headed by Mr. Daley. The commission was still on the books, to review any license applications, though billiards long had ceased to be a thriving business at Chicago recreation centers.

The incident in the Mayor's office and the story of Chicago's disappearing billiard parlors were reported to CBS Chicago audiences. They typify the community approach to news by one of the largest combined radio and tv news gathering operations among stations today—WBBM and WBBM-TV Chicago. They rank foremost among CBS o & o outlets (WCBS and WCBS-TV New York use network facilities). CBS Chicago facilities are housed in its new near-northside $6 million building, a converted skating arena, to which it moved a few months ago.

Among CBS Chicago's more impressive claims:

* A combined radio and tv staff of 34 reporters, rewrite men, leg men and administrative personnel and including three full camera crews, all under the managerial hand of Mr. Garry, exclusive of "contract" performers, such as newscasters.

* A firm policy whereby all local and national news is written or rewritten in the CBS Chicago newsroom after being developed by its staff.

* A full complement of news programs on both WBBM and WBBM-TV (including weather and sports), all sponsored and commanding highly-favorable ratings.

* Considerable use of film on WBBM-TV (exclusive of that provided by CBS News Film), with on-the-spot interviews of people in the local news.

* This aggressive spot news and special events coverage by Hugh Hill, special events director, with film and tape excerpts used a few hours after a story is covered, and programs providing treatment "in depth."

One significant aspect of CBS Chicago's hold on the local news picture may be the fact its newsroom operates more like that of a newspaper than a radio or tv station; or that it now develops stories along the departmental indexing lines of national news magazines.

Supplementing this setup are the conventional facilities of AP, UP and INS wires, plus the Chicago City News Bureau. CBS Chicago also claims to be the only radio-tv operation, aside from WCBS-AM-TV New York, to have installed the UP's "business and financial" wire.

As the indexing plan progresses, Mr. Garry is assigning newsmen to special beats in addition to their general duties. Specialists are being trained in labor, science, business, education, human relations, sports, local government and other fields.

All WBBM-AM-TV's news corps had intense training in covering Chicago news beats before joining the station; contacts made in covering the courts, City Hall, the various commissions, police and other beats have paid off in the CBS Chicago newsroom. Each newsman has become established in his own right.

NEWS DIRECTOR WILLIAM GARRY

"As a result," Bill Garry points out, "our newsmen have become regular members of the Chicago press corps and are accepted on the same basis as pencil-and-paper reporters." It's a rare day when a CBS Chicago newswoman is ejected from a court or commission meeting (the Chicago City Council excepted) or denied access to government officials or news wherever it breaks.

The WBBM-AM-TV table of organization is less complex than it may sound. Working under Mr. Garry are the radio and tv news editors, special events director and tv assignment editor. All work through a three-man news bureau including Mike Niegoff, bureau chief, John Callaway and Les Crystal, responsible for overall assignments. Aside from a group of news writers—editors under the chief radio and tv news editors—there's the tv assignment editor (Lu Bartlow) under whom fall the three camera crews. Film editor and film courier work through the tv news editor (Hal Fisher). Radio writers under Bill Wolfan, radio news editor, sometimes are used interchangeably for tv, especially on weekend tv newscasts.

Mr. Garry is convinced broadcast media never need take a back seat to newspapers in covering news: "We believe that radio and tv can develop their own stories to inform and entertain listeners and viewers. Radio, in particular, to compete with newspapers, must develop stories like a newspaper would. And reporting news is just as important as writing it. In fact, we stress hard-hitting news gathering instead of just news writing. Too much local news today tends to border on the police blotter. Stories must be developed in depth on the beats and approached from many angles for perspective. That's why contacts are so valuable. Our men know their way around Chicago." As a result, Mary's lamb, Chicago's microscope and tv cameras are sure to be where there's news.

Because of contacts and aggressive leg-work, WBBM (and WBBM-TV, too) has claimed its share of exclusives, not only over other stations but the local dailies as well. Among outstanding examples of top coverage were stories involving the slaying of three boys in Robinson Woods in October 1955 and of the two teen-age Grimes sisters last year; Chicago Transit Authority, Chicago, Aurora & Elgin; Chicago School Board hearings, and the local sessions of the Senate Banking & Currency Committee touching on the case of former State Auditor Orville Hodge, convicted for theft of state funds.

A recent example of depth-in-coverage was provided in the case of Nathan Leopold, a state penitentiary convict who sought a pardon after 33 years imprisonment. WBBM radio claimed a scoop on the announcement of Gov. William Stratton's denial in Springfield; WBBM-TV aired interviews with Mr. Leopold, and WBBM followed through with a wrapup (introduction of the case, Mr. Leopold's prepared statement and a tape interview) on its weekend For the Record series.

CBS Chicago's news operation has been as profitable in terms of clients and audience loyalty as it has been commendable—despite the expense. H. Leslie Atlass, CBS vice president in charge of the Central Div., explains: "We have always given news No. 1 priority in radio, and when WBBM-TV began operation, we adopted the same approach. While it's expensive, there are indications our extensive coverage has been successful ratingswise, which may serve as the primary basis for determining the value of this effort."

"In the case of television, film is a true distinctive factor involved. Without film, a tv news program looks like a radio show. Other local stations likewise have been conscious of its value."

Still, WBBM-TV has increased its use of celluloid footage, despite the expense. Although CBS Chicago officials decline to reveal figures, the combined news operation costs are substantial. One estimate runs roughly $6,000 per week, exclusive of contract help, with about $3,500 of that for film and lab expenses.

The CBC o & o outlets would not be able to sustain this cost were it not for client acceptance of its radio-tv sports, weather and general news programs from several satisfied sponsors. This is particularly true in the case of television where, as one official put it, "we have to sell it out and where we don't have the spread in commercial time as in radio." Actually, there are a few five-minute sustaining available for purchase, but four daily quarter-hours are sold out, or 60 of the 70 minutes.

In radio WBBM programs seven locally-produced 15-minute newscasts daily, plus three 5-minute newscasts, three 15-minute sports shows, two weather programs and six additional five-minute newscasts during American Airlines' Music 'Til Dawn (Mon.-Sat., 11:30 p.m.-5:30 p.m.), exclusive of its weekend "Monitor" type service schedule where news is aired five minutes before every hour and half-hour.

Of the present crop, Clark Oil & Refining Co. is probably the heaviest saturation user, with its spread on WBBM radio's Saturday and Sunday afternoon Mal Bellairs Show.

With the evolution of the weekend music-news-sports format, news has become increasingly important to WBBM radio, particularly the five-minute segments, although it remains no less invaluable on television. For that reason, CBS Chicago feels that such commentators as John Harrington, Fahey Flynn, Julian Bentley, Joe Foss, Maury Magill, Jerry Dunphy, Frank Reynolds, Russ Binsley and others command a priceless listener and viewer loyalty that helps sell the news and the shows.

Says Bill Garry:

"We want people to believe in our news—anybody can buy wire services. Our newsmen build confidence in our news. The importance of leg men is measured in their first-hand, on-the-scene reports. Their thinking and judgment thus become a part of the news reporting."

CBS Chicago officials agree "the turning point" in raising its news operation's competitive level was the formation of a WBBM radio special events department in 1953 with Hugh Hill as director. A bustling, seasoned reporter with a penchant for asking disarming but crisp questions, Mr. Hill is CBS Chicago's news and special events mobile man. He has been especially effective with the tape recorder and is used for film interviews, too. His greatest asset, however, is his mobility and flexibility.

WRC-TV OffersAdvertisers
New Special Effects System

WRC-TV Washington last week unveiled for local agency people a new special effects system developed by the station's engineering department for local advertisers. Developed over two years by Keith Price of the WRC-TV engineering staff, and labeled "Magic Lens" for presentation purposes, the device is a video effects generator, using a system of movable baffles and a flying spot scanner. Effects offered include vertical, horizontal and diagonal wipes as well as the notch wipe, which inserts one live picture into another on any portion of the screen, iris spotlight, moving neon-like designs for pointing out portions of the picture, moving-pattern backgrounds for cut-out designs and random insert shapes, which offer sharper, more mobile images than superimposition.

The system is controlled from the studio board, and so far 35 effects combinations have been worked out, using studio or remote cameras, film chain, slides or telopicon. Potentialities of the video effects generator still are being explored. Up to now, the system has been used to silhouette product logotype shapes on live pictures, other special commercial effects and for programs.

Advertisers and agencies are being assisted in use of the video effects generator by the WRC-TV commercial production service, directed by William E. Coyle, director of public relations, promotion and advertising.

A MIAMI nursery operator was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment last week for the slaying of his wife and two children after news film shot by WTJV (TV) Miami cameraman Fred Moore was introduced in the trial proceedings as direct evidence.

The prosecution reportedly had sought to prove that nursery operator Leslie McClure was calm and composed immediately after the triple-slaying by attempting to introduce still shots of him taken at the scene of the crime. The defense had objected. But Dade County Circuit Judge Ray H. Pearson authorized showing the films, taken on Christmas Day 1956, and screen and projector were set up in the courtroom. The one-minute news film of Mr. McClure being escorted from the death scene by police was projected for judge and jury.

Philco Contests to Promote Its Sponsorship of 'Miss America'

IN connection with its sponsorship of the Miss America Pageant on CBS-TV Sept. 7, the Philco Corp., Philadelphia, is going to hold a "Guess Who Will Be Miss America" contest. The company reports that plans include the participation of more than 1,500 dealers throughout the country. The contest is scheduled to run from Aug. 19-Sept. 6.

The dealers will feature pictures of all the contestants in this year's pageant and the public will be invited to guess who will win the title, as well as the first and second runners-up. They also will be asked to tell in 25 words why they would like to own a "Miss America" television set. Each dealer will hold his own contest and will award five individual prizes: a Philco transistor radio as first prize and four official "Miss America" dolls.

Window displays will be used to inform viewers about the telecast and will name the channel and time it can be seen locally. Philco also will sponsor a contest for all CBS stations. Prizes will be awarded to four stations for the best local promotions of the telecast. The stations will be divided into large and small categories and two stations from each group will receive television prizes for their outstanding promotions of the show. "Big City" winners will be given Philco "Miss America" 24-inch consoles and "Small City" winners will receive "Miss America" 21-inch consoles.

KTIV (TV) Adds Summer Audience

UP to 500 people a night, both children and adults, are reportedly watching cartoon films lent to the Sioux City Parks & Recreation Department by KTIV (TV) Sioux City. Two projectors are kept busy five nights a week at the city's 20 playgrounds. The films will be shown throughout seven weeks of the summer season.

Offer Foreign Programs to U.S.

Other programs and series are being offered by the non-profit foundation from France, Italy, India, Greece, Turkey, Korea, Japan, Israel and Norway. A small service charge is involved. Stations will receive the programs on an exclusive basis in their respective markets but will be expected to carry them on a continuing basis.

WRCA-TV 'Delinquency Report'

WRCA-TV New York cancelled its regular programming Aug. 4 when several major crimes erupted in New York involving juveniles and substituted a program titled Special Report on Juvenile Delinquency (11:15 p.m.). Gabe Pressman, WRCA-AM-TV newscaster, interviewed Walter Arm, director of community relations for the New York Police Dept., and gained from Mr. Arm the admission that the Police Dept. is "virtually helpless" in fighting juvenile delinquency. This comment was spotlighted in many New York newspapers the next day, some using the information revealed on the program for front page articles.

KJOY Stockton Sponsors $25,000 Treasure Hunt

TO promote its $25,000 treasure hunt last month, KJOY Stockton, Calif., broadcast clues every hour from 7 a.m. until 9:30 p.m. The prize, a check made payable to the finder, had dwindled to $500 when it was found because it hadn't been discovered within 10 days after the contest started.

The station reports that the California Highway Patrol estimated at one point that 5,000 persons were in the area at the same time and that 2,500 cars were counted within one hour.

The Stockton Record carried a story of the treasure hunt and reported that local farmers complained because the "hunters" were destroying their property and picking their fruit crops. Local police were called upon by the residents to keep the treasure seekers off their property. One farmer was quoted as saying that people had climbed his fruit trees and that some had set fire to grass in a lot. Other residents reportedly complained because cars were parked throughout their orchards.

Mr. Gentile drew sketches of the general courtroom scene and of the people playing major parts in the trial. The drawings also were used on the front page of the local Sunday paper, the Morning Advocate.

Some British TV Ads Objectionable—Gaunt

BRITISH restrictions on commercial television, particularly insistence that the advertising and entertainment portions of the telecast be completely divorced, have led to advertising practices that would be considered objectionable by both advertiser and public in this country, according to John Gaunt, radio-tv vice president of the Los Angeles office of Grant Advertising Inc.

Just returned from a short visit to the agency’s London office to brief the staff on American techniques of tv commercial production, Mr. Gaunt said that in England advertisers are unable to sponsor programs but must confine their tv advertising to spots of 1-minute, 30-second or 15-second duration, broadcast in bunches of five or six between programs or at breaks during the program.

"So many spots, with no connection either with the program or each other, make it difficult for the advertiser to make a very strong or a very lasting impression on the viewers at home," Mr. Gaunt said. "The producer, under those circumstances does his best to create an attention-getting gimmick for his commercial. The result is a lot of screaming on the audio side and a lot of animated cartoon commercials on the video."

"Of course, it’s hardly fair to compare what the English advertisers and agencies are doing after less than two years of commercial tv experience with the situation in the U. S., where we’ve had 10 years or more to learn what to do and what not to do. It would be unfair to compare British commercial tv with the way it was here in, say, 1947 or 1948. When you recall some of the things we did then, what they’re doing now doesn’t seem too bad."

Not only the agencies but the film producers are finding difficulties in turning out tv commercials, Mr. Gaunt commented. "They haven’t learned yet how to work for the small tv screen—and in England the average set has a smaller screen than in the U. S. The low, mood lighting that is so effective in the British mystery movies all too often reduces the people in tv commercials to muddy blurs and then when the product is shown under bright lights the contrast is too much. However, their animation is as good as ours and they use a lot of it."

"Tv films are a problem for the film processors as well as for the producers he noted, with too many perfect projection prints that are too grainy for tv. And the lower standards, with too many lines to the picture compared to the U. S. image of 525 lines, means that inherently the British tv picture has much less resolution and clarity than ours."

Experience will correct most of the faults there as they have here, Mr. Gaunt predicted, and the process will be expedited by an exchange of personnel between the American and British offices of advertising agencies which is rapidly becoming standard procedure, he said. He also believes that the technical picture standards may be raised in the near future, probably to the European standard of 625 lines, provided that this can be done without too great expense to present set-owners.

On his recommendation, two of Grant’s British accounts—Jensen & Nicholson (Rohalac Colorizer paints) and Clayton’s Orange Crush—have increased the length of their tv spots from 15 to 30 seconds, Mr. Gaunt reported. "Most British advertisers use the 15-second spots," he said, "but it seemed to me that the longer commercials would be more than twice as effective and that they could do a more effective job by providing greater impact, even at the sacrifice of frequency."

Swedes Reject Commercial Tv For Second Time in Two Years

THE Swedish government has turned down a proposal to introduce tv advertising on the Swedish Broadcasting Service, citing what legislators feel is the "obtrusive character" of television advertising, which "the Swedish people don’t want," they say.

This is the second time commercial tv has been rejected by Sweden since a bill to set up a separate, free enterprise system was offered in 1956. This year’s report proposed the alternative of integrating commercial shows into the government’s regular sustaining schedule. This plan is in use in West Germany and Italy, and observers report it may be adopted by other countries. Sweden’s television service may operate at a deficit for eight to ten years as presently constituted, some experts fear. A $20 annual set license fee supports the tv system.

ALL THAT HURRAH AND RAZZLE-DAZZLE WON'T GET YOUR TV MESSAGE ACROSS

There used to be a theatre in New York called the Hippodrome. It produced no ordinary attractions. Not this theatre. Everything was gigantic, stupendous and colossal. There were regiments of chorus girls. Battalions of elephants. Phalanxes of diving horses. Oceans of water in plate glass tanks with schools of shimmering mermaids that appeared and disappeared at the command of a stoogey Father Neptune, complete with beard and trident. Bands blared. Incense arose. Gongs clashed and screamed and thundered with their garish intensity. The idea was to make everything gargantuan, and thus coax dollars from the safety-pinned pockets of gawking yokels.

Fortunately the Hippodrome idea has passed from the theatre. But unfortunately it has entered the portals of television. And it's a damn shame!

Imagine a medium so personal, so human as to be the invited guest each day in countless homes where people sit to view. And you think you've got to dazzle them. Well, you're crazy. You think you've got to "hippodrome" your way across the hearthstones into human hearts. Well, you don't. You think that by flashing dollars you can finagle diaries, and thereby coins will be traded for your cans. Never! Well, hardly ever. You think that by scrambling a cornucopia of entertainment tops, you'll be tops in sales. Well, you're wrong.

Your competitor hires a theatre from which to broadcast third rate vaudeville. All right. You hire the Yale Bowl and clutter up the ether with first rate hoofsers, plus a big band leader, plus a sister act, plus somebody bigger than Kate Smith, funnier than Red Skelton, with a couple of movie stars and an amateur act or two thrown in. God knows, such a program ought to steal the air. And if you stay, Cecil B. DeMille will probably be offering you his "12 Commandments" for a blackout.

Well, if you want to hippodrome, hop to it. But remember, nobody steals the air—nobody. And remember, there's nothing human about a hippodrome. And human beings make up your audience and your customers. Human beings who had to learn how to read, but who were born with the ability to see and hear. You don't have to stage a Florida hurricane, San Francisco earthquake and St. Mihiel bombardment to make them look or listen. Maybe these humans would even think more about your product if you weren't so noisy. And that's what you want them to think about—your product—isn't it? And people, though they may be dull, dumb, drab and dirty, don't dazzle worth a damn.

You go ahead and put the big acts on the big networks. I'll take my chances on pumping big ideas into Birmingham, Bellingham and Binghamton. And Boston, Biloxi, Butte, Bryn Mawr and Bridgeport. You take the high road of the Hippodrome. Dazzle 'em. Knock 'em cold. Then, with songs she used to sing and with drama he and she can fit into the simple patterns of their minds. I'll come along. And with these simple, homely, unobtrusive things, I'll spin a halo of love and affection around my product that will last as long as life itself. Because it is life itself. See?
Out of Focus

WITH radio regaining face as one of the dominant advertising media—a restoration whose progress has been well document ed in this journal—there is a growing danger that both radio and television may succumb to the short-sighted expedient of selling perniciously against each other.

We have come across no better example of this than a "news" release put out last week by the Television Bureau of Advertising, based on an analysis of A. C. Nielsen Co. figures. It "shows," in the words of its own headline, that while tv is gaining, "radio [is] still losing audience." And the figures relied upon do indeed bear out that shoddy claim.

The only thing wrong with the comparison is that TvB failed to take into account approximately 35 million automobile radio sets that are being heard day and night throughout the land. That's 35 million locations that even television hasn't penetrated yet. So, even discounting other out-of-home listening, TvB was measuring radio with a yardstick that was at least 25% longer than it ought to be.

This is the sort of "research" that both radio and television can do without.

It is not enough that TvB's report dealt explicitly with "home" listening and viewing, one month in 1957 against the same month in 1956. The non-initiate will interpret this as total listening versus total viewing. It is too much to believe that TvB did not know this.

Coming from the American Newspaper Publishers Assn., or even from less biased sources unacquainted with the complexities of radio-tv research, such an "analysis" would not have been unexpected. Coming from an organization where radio-tv research is a basic commodity, it is something else again. Television—and radio—are both too big to have to resort to such tactics.

We do not wish to create the impression that TvB is the only culprit. For one, its radio counterpart, Radio Advertising Bureau, has been heard to mutter publicly about shortcomings in "visual advertising." There have been others, and we fear—this is the whole point of these paragraphs—that there will be more as radio's share of the advertising dollar increases.

The broadcast media are competitors, certainly, and as such they cannot avoid selling against each other as well as against all other advertising forms, from print to skywriting. But it would be folly for them not to keep it clean, or to become so engrossed in intra-family squabbling that they lose sight of their other targets. Selling can be done positively and constructively—when you have the medium for it. ANPA please copy.

THE IMPLICATION that radio's in-home audience constitutes its total audience (see above) points up a research need that becomes more evident every day. The simple fact is that nowhere in existence is there an adequate measurement of radio's nationwide out-of-home audience.

With radio sets becoming virtually standard equipment in automobiles and with portables being carried around like handbags, out-of-home listening obviously is high and going higher. Most experts seem agreed that pin pointing it at a reasonable cost will be difficult. But there should be no let-up in efforts to devise a means. Until this vast, literally unseen audience can be counted adequately, radio will be lacking an important sales tool and advertisers a guide to better use of the medium.

Of Cabarets & Taxes

UHF operators ought to be cheered by the House vote last week to reduce the cabaret tax by 50%.

This is not to suggest that uhf operators are inveterate night-clubbers. Indeed many of them haven't had the price of a cabaret meal since they went into the uhf business.

But there is hope that if the House can be persuaded to pass tax relief for cabarets it can also be persuaded to make a tax adjustment that would be of significant help to uhf television. Approximately the same arguments that moved the House to cut the cabaret tax from 20% to 10% can be used in support of the proposal to eliminate the 10% excise tax on uhf receivers.

Advocates of the cabaret tax reduction argued that it was needed to help an ailing business. The 20% tax, they said, was keeping patrons out of cabarets. To cut the tax would be to assure the stimulation of cabaret business and the expansion of employment. Resulting increases in corporate and personal income taxes would offset the loss of $21 million a year in cabaret tax revenue.

The case for elimination of the 10% excise tax on uhf receivers is even stronger. If that tax were killed, the price of taxed vhf-only sets and untaxed all-band receivers would be equalized. The incentive for manufacturers to make all-band sets would be powerful.

If, as anticipated, it became as cheap to buy an all-band set as a vhf-only set, the stimulation to uhf broadcasting would also be powerful. At the very least, the equalization of prices on vhf-only and all-band sets is a necessary first step in the resuscitation of uhf television.

The Treasury Dept., in arguing against the uhf tax cut, has depleted the potential loss of all excise taxes on television sets, its theory being that if manufacturers make nothing but all-band sets, there will be no excise revenue. What the Treasury forgets is that past history of the tv set tax yield is based upon a fantastically expanding industry which now is in the transition toward stability.

There is now just about all the television there is going to be—unless something comes along to assist the development of uhf television. The current market for television sets is a replacement and a second-set market. That is not a market that promises the volume of past years.

The Treasury would be more realistic if it based its estimates of revenue loss only on revenues it had received in the past from taxes on sets capable of tuning uhf channels. No figures are available, but it is safe to say that the tax yield on uhf receivers has been inconsequential.

Assuming that uhf were revitalized, the government would be in a position to collect greatly increased revenues from corporate income taxes of uhf broadcasters. There are few uhf operators today who pay Uncle Sam anything in that category.

There would also be an increase in employment if the number of stations increased, and with that would come an increase in personal income taxes.

On a strictly monetary basis the government stands to gain more tax yield than it would lose if the excise tax on all-band sets were eliminated. Beyond that, the tax relief would result in giving the U. S. public a wider program choice than it now receives.

All in all, the arguments for uhf tax relief add up to a project for both economic and cultural progress. As such they certainly should carry more weight than the plea for a reduction in the tax on nightclub checks.
