WHO-TV is first in 52% of quarter hours surveyed.
Sign-on to Sign-off, Sunday through Saturday, according to the November 1957 ARB Metropolitan Survey of Des Moines’ 3-station market.

We are far from “Survey happy,” and despite our ARB leadership, we still say that NO survey can really describe the tremendous audience impact of WHO-TV.

Advertisers who have known the WHO operation over the years know that decades of highest integrity, public service and better programming all add up to RESULTS you can obtain only on WHO-TV.

Buyers and Users of Television Advertising In Iowa

File this page with your folder on Des Moines Television. This is information you must know in "shopping" this great market wisely.

KRNT-TV went on the air 2½ years ago as the third station in the market. In two weeks time Channel 8 had taken over audience leadership.
KRNT-TV is a basic affiliate of CBS Television. It went on the air with full power of 316,000 watts just 4 months after getting its FCC permit. The station serves Iowa's biggest, richest, heaviest-populated market.
KRNT-TV is important to people. It is manned by people who have important work to do. They know it and the public knows it.
KRNT-TV news rates probably as high or higher than that of any other station in the nation in a multi-station market. The new KRNT-TV high is a 50.8 rating in the November 1957 ARB Metropolitan Area Report.

The KRNT news operation is directed by a professional television-radio journalist. He directs a staff of nine professional newsmen. Four newscasts are presented daily. The people respect KRNT-TV newscasts for their accuracy and objectivity. They like their completeness, they like the heavy use of local stories and local film, they like the world news coverage afforded by the use of CBS newsmagazines, and they like the way the weather picture is integrated into the news presentations. KRNT-TV's 20-minute news program at 10:00 P.M. started out fully sponsored when the station went on the air and now 2½ years later has the same two alternate sponsors.
KRNT-TV's professional three-man sports team is headed by a former college and professional athlete known throughout the nation. KRNT-TV presents two highly-rated sports programs daily and each year does a number of remote telexcasts of sports events. All these programs are handled with great skill and fine technique, and get very high audience ratings.
KRNT-TV personalities are warm, friendly, alert, articulate, TV-wise emcees. They entertain. They inform. They serve the people. Their programs are well thought-out, intelligently presented. They believe in what they are doing, and the people believe in them. They are sincere, and they take great pride in the station's operation. The people know this and respect them and the station.
KRNT-TV takes very seriously its announced intention of operating in the public interest, convenience, and necessity. In 1957 the station devoted more than 451 hours of program time to public service. That figure includes more than 200 hours of local live public service programs. For one of those programs the station cleared a half-hour afternoon time and presented a daily 13-weeks series, "Know Your Schools". For this a complete grade school classroom was built in the studios, including a false ceiling. The hidden camera and microphone technique was used in showing viewers actual elementary school classes in operation. KRNT-TV was one of the first stations in the country to televise "live" an actual heart operation as performed on a small boy.

Because KRNT-TV stands for something, it amounts to something to people. The policies which govern KRNT-TV are well known by the people. The station is very careful to make sure all its presentations are in good taste. KRNT-TV won't advertise many products and services; for instance, beer and liquor advertising, and the people know the station turns down thousands of dollars from this classification each year. In the last city election, KRNT-TV did not sell political advertising. The station gave it away - equitably - to all candidates. In this particularly vital election KRNT-TV figured the public was best served that way. Not all the people agree with the policies which guide the operation but they respect the station because they know its principles are not for sale.

Character makes a medium believable. KRNT-TV is believable. To be acted upon advertising has to be believed by the people you want to sell. It makes all the difference in the world who represents your company. KRNT Radio and KRNT-TV have spent years building strong character in the community. They represent you well. Their reputation for dependability has been firmly established and is jealously guarded.

That's why KRNT-TV is famous for results for advertisers. KRNT-TV is believed in by most people. It has character. It stands for good things in the community. It has great acceptability among people in the age of acquisition. It amounts to something to people who amount to something. It is believed by people.
KRNT-TV is a successful commercial station. It carries more local advertising by far than any other station in this three-station market. Most of its business is repeat business. It has an excellent repeat national spot business.
KRNT-TV is a good television station - - has exceedingly high ratings, too.
KRNT-TV, Des Moines, Iowa, is a Cowles operation - represented by a good organization, the Katz Agency, and their office is as near as your telephone.

MERE FORMALITY • While FCC plans to meet next Wednesday to decide its posture on pay TV in light of House Committee "sense" resolution that no tests be conducted until Congress acts definitively on public policy, it's foregone conclusion that Commission, in one fashion or another, will honor House Committee mandate [LEAD STORY, page 31]. More than likely FCC will seek some deadline on postponement of tests from House Committee, but odds are that there won't be any TV tests in 1958 anyway.

Cleveland Plain Dealer's WHK on verge of being sold, although no deal signed at week's end. Prospective buyer said to be DuMont Broadcasting Corp. (WNEW-WABD [TV] New York, WTTG [TV] Washington). Price understood to be more than $1 million. WHK is 5 kw on 1400 kc with NBC affiliation. In addition to WHK, tale will include WHK-FM and grant for ch. 19.

SCHWARTZ'S FUTURE • Open antagoneism of perhaps majority of members of seven-man Moulder Committee toward Chief Counsel Bernard Schwartz has reached point where one or two things might happen: (1) dismissal of New York U. law professor or (2) retention of associate counsel to balance representation. There's ample precedent for latter in FCC investigations. In Senate Commerce Committee inquiry into network operations in 1954-55, former FCC Comr. Robert F. Jones represented Republican members of committee, and former FCC Asst. General Counsel Harry M. Plotkin represented Democratic members.

NBC's "put out the fire" appraisal of TV costs (substance of which is that TV is better buy than ever and that costs are neither unreasonable nor unjustified) is due for exposure to all row. Part of NBC's appraisal (see ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, page 34) has been smoothed out and bundled into presentation for agencies and advertisers (some showings to agencies by NBC-TV sales development unit have been reported). It's understood that originally NBC did not intend its research probing as formal pitch, but once figures were in, network turned them over to sales development.

TOGETHERNESS • It's probably only coincidence. But Bernard Schwartz, Moulder Committee chief counsel whose charges against FCC have repeatedly been "leaked" to New York Times, is New York Times contributor. In past year he's sold three pieces to Times Sunday magazine—one on Chief Justice Warren last June 30, one on Supreme Court last Aug. 25 and one on states rights last Nov. 17.

Preliminary agreement for acquisition of KOMA Oklahoma City by McLendon Corp., headed by Gordon McLendon, for $600,000 reached last Friday, subject to FCC approval. Station, operating on 1520 kc with 50 kw, was established in 1927 and is CBS affiliate. Sellers include Burton Levine, Myer Feldman, Arnold L. Lerner, Donald Rubin and Harold Thurman. Partnership group acquired station from John T. Griffin interests in 1956 for $300,000. McLendon Corp. stations are KLIF Dallas and KILT Houston. Through subsidiary, corporation owns KTSA San Antonio and KEEL Shreveport.

REPAIR JOB • Best Monday morning guess: NAB will act fast to pacify TV film companies, angered by association's failure to consult them before board voted to allow only heavy broadcast equipment exhibitors at annual convention starting in 1959. NAB headquarters mentioned detail—it's by-laws—in voting to confine film exhibitors to autumn regional conferences. Under terms of by-laws, associate members are entitled to exhibit at conventions and this right can only be removed by referendum vote of membership.

While NAB would miss dues of film members if they pulled out of association, there's even more serious side to problem. This centers around money received from film exhibitors who display at spring conventions. And film dues aren't only worry. There's also problem centering around loss of income from some large radio stations, not entirely offset by numerous new affiliations of smaller stations.

BRITISH AISLES • Great Britain will cope with its movie-TV problem through establishment of new central agency combining exhibition, importing and distribution tasks, already tentatively agreed to. Designed to control use of TV film in Britain, organization would purchase all of feature film, financing operation through levy of one-fourth of pence per seat; this to bring in equivalent of about $1 million per year. Super distribution agency would release feature films both for theatre exhibition and TV; would stipulate price and time of day for showing. Agreement would not apply to American feature film, already limited under Post Office Dept. control to about one hour per day. Because of cross-ownership by American and British interests, there would be no repercussions here on new film plan which awaits only formal ratification of four of five groups involved.

Latest British Gallup poll on commercial vs. state television programming in Great Britain (ITV vs. BBC) shows that 47% prefer commercial operation as against 22% for BBC; 28% saw no difference and 3% didn't know. On question whether there is "too much violence" on ITV in feature films, notably American product, 46% felt there was not; 41% thought there was and 13% didn't know. As to BBC, 43% felt there was too much; 39% that there was not, 18% didn't know.

RATE MAKING • FCC has now received all replies to its inquiries sent out last month about alleged network-station affiliate concaving on spot rates, time clearances, etc., as cited in Barrow Network Report [LEAD STORY, Jan. 6]. Staff now begins analysis, comparing network answers with affiliates'. Then report goes to commissioners for action. If action is taken, matter becomes public; if not correspondence remains in "not for publication" file. Note, however: that Commission sent out interrogatories to only 25 stations; about 90 stations are ostensibly involved. Remaining 65 will get letters of inquiry as their licenses come up for renewal.

Advance registration for first Pop Music Disc Jockey Convention and Programming Seminar in Kansas City, March 7-8-9, being conducted under auspices of Storz Sta- tions, has surpassed all expectations, according to President Todd Storz. Last week registrations had passed 1,200, with prospects that 1,800-2,000 will attend convention.

EPIC SHIFT • Insiders won't talk, but report persists that Lever's Pepsodent Div. is considering spot TV nationally for its Pepsodent toothpaste and may cut back part or drop all of its spot radio. Significance: Pepsodent scored outstanding success with its "where the yellow went" spot radio campaign starting in 1956, continuing since, and campaign generally is conceded to have had important role in post-1954 radio revival. Pepsodent last year put estimated 80% of its ad budget in spot radio, now runs schedules in as many as 200 markets. Pepsodent's spot TV tests understood to have included New York and few West Coast major markets with mixed results. To all queries, executives at Pepsodent and its agency, Foote, Cone & Belding, New York, come back with unqualified "no comment."

Plans for that series of regional meetings of ABN affiliates, indicated by network when it decided to cut back on its all-live programming policy [NETWORKS, Jan. 27], should be announced shortly. Schedule is tentatively set this way: San Francisco's Fairmont Hotel Feb. 17; Chicago's Drake Hotel Feb. 20; New York's Waldorf-Astoria Feb. 25, and New Orleans' St. Charles Feb. 28. President Robert E. Eastman will head ABN delegation.

MORE SERIOUS' CHARGES FACE FCC'S MACK

House Legislative Oversight Chairman Morgan M. Moulder (D-Mo.) Friday said FCC Comr. Richard A. Mack probably will face charges this week of "more serious" misconduct against agency. The charges are coming from FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer last week (see page 48). Moulder case, Rep. Moulder said, will involve Miami ch. 10 grant to National Airlines.

Rep. Moulder indicated seriousness of charges against Comr. Mack to newsmen following 3½-hour executive session of subcommittee Friday. He said staff "fully prepared" to present all evidence in Miami case at this time.

Also Friday, Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) announced plans to introduce bill prohibiting commissioners from accepting fees, expenses and honorariums from industries.

Hearings of Moulder committee will resume Tuesday and continue through Wednesday on FCC, Rep. Moulder stated. Each member of Commission, except chairman, will be called in order of seniority and "ordered and directed" to prepare within 30 days of testimony received or commissioners, including honorariums received and expenses paid by industry. Committee also adopted new resolution requiring that each commissioner be furnished three days in advance written notice of specific nature of questioning, "including approximate times and places.

This will mean commissioners who testify this week will not be subjected to type of questioning which Chairman Doerfer faced last week; he knew no particulars of charges being made against him.

Committee also scheduled another executive meeting today (Monday) at which Chief Counsel, Mr. Moulder will be directed to furnish members with information regarding "misconduct" charges to be made against commissioners and other plans of chief counsel.

When asked if this constituted a "reprimand" of Dr. Schwartz or criticism of tactics used against Comr. Doerfer, Rep. Moulder told newsmen to "draw your own conclusions."

In discussing Mack charges, which were not specified beyond fact they concerned Miami, Rep. Moulder said possibly testimony may be taken in secret sessions. He said this may be necessary, although he preferred open hearings, because of House rule calling for closed-door hearings if "evidence or testimony at any investigative hearing may tend to defame, degrade or incriminate any person."

When asked why this rule was not invoked during Comr. Doerfer's testimony, Rep. Moulder said it was "a matter of degree." He did not explain "degree."

Channel 10 Miami was granted to National Airlines last spring after long and bitter case. Airlines was favored over three competing applicants. Comr. Mack was appointed to FCC July 1955 after initial decision had been rendered favoring another applicant in case.

Also adopted at last Friday's meeting of Moulder committee was resolution extending scope of investigations to cover minimum of 10 years and also to include former commissioners. Rep. Moulder said individual misconduct charges against commissioners will continue to be pressed, although hearings probably will take "several months." He said matter of referring misconduct allegations against Comr. Doerfer to Justice Dept. had not been considered.

Sen. Proxmire's bill, to be introduced soon, would "prohibit the making of gifts to officials of government agencies by persons having business with such agencies, and to prohibit the acceptance of such gifts," Bill, in form of amendment to U. S. Code, provides for fines up to $5,000, imprisonment for not more than one year, or both.

Expressing "shock and disappointment" that President Eisenhower "apparently concedes and approves" the practice permitting commissioners to accept gifts and honorariums (see page 54), Sen. Proxmire said: "I will introduce a bill to close this extremely, unfortunate loophole."

McAndrew Becomes NBC V. P. Election of William R. McAndrew as vice president, NBC news, was being announced today (Mon.) by network President Robert W. Sarnoff. Mr. McAndrew joined NBC news in 1936, resigned 1940 to join Broadcasting Magazine in Washington as executive news director, rejoined NBC news in 1944. He became manager of WRC Washington in 1949. He was named manager of NBC news and special events in 1951.

ROUSING VOTE FOR TV Self-service store operators voted television most effective advertising medium to help them sell nationally-advertised brands, according to study released Friday by CBS-TV based on survey by Market Planning Corp. of 2,585 owner-managers of small, medium-sized and large self-service stores in 25 cities. Grocery, drug, hardware, variety stores and discount houses were covered. Study shows self-service stores now account for 90% of food sales and 50% of drug and cosmetic sales. TV received three-fourths of all dealer votes and three times as many as all other media combined.

Possible Ouster Irks Film Firms

Representatives of 12 leading tv film syndication companies decided at New York meeting Friday that individual distributors could proceed with plans to participate in 1958 NAB Convention this spring in Los Angeles. Distributors met Wednesday to decide if they should boycott 1958 convention. Friday's statement on behalf of 12 companies said that NAB had advised distributors that referendum of NAB membership will decide whether associate members of association—film distributors and station representatives—will be excluded from NAB conventions starting in 1959.
PARAMOUNT CAPITULATES FOR $50 MILLION

In $50 million sale revealed Friday, Paramount pictures is disposing of its pre-1948 feature library containing approximately 750 films to unidentified subsidiary of Management Corp. of America, Paramount. Vice holdout to tv among major motion picture studios, reaped top price in history of such transactions. Jules C. Stein, management Corp.'s chief executive officer, also is board chairman of Music Corp. of America that has extensive interests in entertainment field. (MCA-TV Ltd. is only distribution unit under MCA's aegis).

Paramount described sales terms—agreed upon but not signed as of late Friday—as $35 million ($10.5 million in cash and remainder guaranteed); another $15 million is to be paid out minimum 60% of gross receipts after initial $35 million is paid. MCA had no comment, noting that it and Paramount had decided to announce only "essentials" to "quiet rumors." MCA-TV film syndication now distributes syndicated series and more than 40 feature westerns (Roy Rogers and Gene Auty vehicles). MCA produces tv film series largely through its subsidiary, Revue Productions. MCA has extensive talent representation and program packaging activities as well.

Paramount library includes such stars as Mary Pickford, Gloria Swanson, Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Jane Russell, Barbara Stanwyck, Joan Fontaine, Marlene Dietrich, Gary Cooper, Jennifer Jones, Olivia De Havilland, Fred Astaire and many others, and such titles as "Lost Weekend," "Monsieur Beaucheau," Hope-Crosby-Lamour "road" series, and many others.

Amateur basketball games, ice shows, circus and other similar events not now shown on free tv will be included in experiment which Mr. Norris stated would not interfere with regular Wednesday and Friday IBC fights on free tv.

Dr. Hillier, formerly general manager of RCA Labs, was named vice president of that organization; Mr. Saxon, formerly director, regional operations, appointed vice president and general manager, RCA Victor Radio & Victor Div. Mr. Hertzberg, manager of defense marketing, Defense Electric Products, elected vice president of that unit.

Same day, appointment of James M. Toney as vice president and general manager of RCA Victor Div. was announced by Robert Seidel, executive vice president, consumer products. Mr. Toney has been vice president and general manager of RCA Victor Radio & Victor Div., which post Mr. Saxon assumes.

Zenith Charges 'High Pressure'

Call for FCC to investigate radio and tv station editorializing against subscription fee made Friday by Zenith President E. F. McDonald Jr. Zenith is proponent of pay tv. Comdr. McDonald said stations are using facilities "in a high pressure pitchman's campaign to induce the public to write congressmen and senators urging them to legislate the stillbirth of subscription television." He added that FCC and Justice Dept. should act against tv stations which have been engaged in such activities as violation of anti-trust laws. He added: "Some of their commercial copy . . . has been so flagrantly misleading, false and fraudulent that if it were used by any product advertiser he would be immediately stopped by the Federal Trade Commission."

12-Month Rate Protection Policy Set for Four Storer TV Stations

New 12-month rate protection policy for Storer Broadcasting Co.'s WJBK-TV Detroit, WJW-TV Cleveland, WSPD-TV Toledo and WAGA-TV Atlanta announced Friday by George B. Storer Jr., vice president for tv operation. "This 12-month rate protection policy is a complete departure from the six months' rate protection currently in general practice in the television industry," Mr. Storer noted, explaining change will permit advertisers to budget for station schedules without psychological and financial obstacle of potential rate increases before completion.

Mr. Storer felt new "hold-the-line" policy will do much to bring order to "chaotic situation prevailing within the industry." WJBK-TV has been using one-year protection plan since November, he explained, and "response from agencies and advertisers was both immediate and overwhelming." Mr. Storer's new WVUE (TV) Wilmington, Del., making strong bid for greater Philadelphia market, is not included because of "fluid and flexible situation" there, he said.

IN REVIEW

N. Y. PHILHARMONIC YOUNG PEOPLE'S SERIES

One should be thankful for the very few things Leonard Bernstein cannot do. As he told an interviewer: “It's impossible for me to say, 'Dear children, this is your Uncle Lennie speaking,' and then tell them about Brother Violin, Sister Viola, Cousin Bassoon, Uncle Contra-Bassoon and all that...”

Such talking-down-our-noses was conspicuously missing during Mr. Bernstein’s past two Saturday morning hour-long concerts to a Carnegie Hall-full of kids, "sponsored" by the New York Philharmonic Symphony Society and beamed via CBS-TV Jan. 25 and Feb. 1. (The remaining two telecast concerts are scheduled March 8 and April 19.)

During the first program, Mr. Bernstein tended to become overly infatuated with his own voice: the second time around, he let the orchestra do most of the "talking." The topic was in question form: “What makes American music sound American?” In the course of the hour that followed, Mr. Bernstein and friends ran through Gershwin, MacDowell, Gilbert, Schuman, Thomson, Sessions. Harris and Copland in hopes of providing an answer: in this they succeeded admirably if the occasional glimpses of the youthful and deeply engrossed audience was any gauge.

True to the prevalent style of “big time tv,” Mr. Bernstein trundled out a "special guest star"—balding, mild-mannered Aaron Copland, who seemed to have a fine time conducting the third movement of his own Third Symphony.

Since he accepted the post of permanent conductor of the New York Philharmonic last year from retiring Dmitri Mitropoulos, many people have charged that “Lennie is stretching himself too thin.” He not only conducts serious music, but writes it; he scores Broadway plays, Hollywood films, and as if this were not enough, he has slipped rather comfortably into the role of a tv pedagogue. His performance on Saturday mornings may lack the ease and smoothness and sophisticated wit of his frequent ABC-TV Omnibus stints, but why quibble? The fact is that CBS-TV and Mr. Bernstein are helping raise the nation’s musical standards by appealing to the most important level—children.

though this filmed "autobiography"—something akin to a tv exclusive—was designed for consumption after 1990, Murrow and Friendly felt that an hour-long "preview" might be warranted since "history may have already begun to reach some tentative conclusions concerning our 33rd President."

What followed the opening shot—of Mr. Murrow and Mr. Truman, in shadow, sitting on a pier jutting out into the ocean—was the kind of stuff historians dream of: unrehearsed, unvarnished commentary on an eight-year tenure in the White House, some undiplomatic talk about associates, both living and dead and footnotes to history by a man who shared in its making.

Mr. Truman was never one to pussyfoot. During the hour, he flatly denied ever having promised Dwight D. Eisenhower aid in seeking the Presidency, called the Missouri Waltz "as bad" a piece of music as The Star Spangled Banner, revealed that he had intended to return to the Senate after completing his term as Vice President, explained his falling-out with former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes by noting "that Jimmy had a superiority complex in reference to the junior Senator from Missouri," called Gen. Douglas MacArthur "the Pro-Consul in Asia which he considered himself" and quoted George C. Marshall as having told him at the time of the celebrated dismissal, "Mr. President, you ought to have fired him two years ago ..."

Mr. Truman—politically—may have been and may still be anathema to a great many Americans; but regardless of party loyalties, the fact remains that Mr. Truman came through very well in this hour-long electronic biography. He not only illustrated an astounding faculty for recounting history—ancient and modern—but revealed himself to be no slouch as a wit and dedicated man who regards the democratic system as something sacred. Describing a politician as "a public relations man who knows how to get along with people," HST termed the politico tag as "the most honorable title that can be given to a man," felt that statesmanship comes with death and not before.

As regards Mr. Murrow, he can truly be called a reporter's reporter. Not only did he know how to ask the right question, but also when to ask it, leading his subject ever so gracefully from one subject to the next.

"From Precinct to President" ought to be mandatory viewing for both budding journalists and politicians.

WRCA-TV's MOVIE 4
WITH "HIGH NOON"

DRAWS BIGGEST FEATURE FILM AUDIENCE IN NEW YORK TV HISTORY

Great Stars: Ingrid Bergman, Gary Cooper, Joseph Cotten, Bing Crosby, José Ferrer, Jean Fontaine, Cary Grant, Grace Kelly, Ray Milland, Robert Mitchum, Maureen O'Hara, Laurence Olivier, Gregory Peck, Vincent Price, Randolph Scott, John Wayne ...
WRCA-TV's Movie 4 showing of "High Noon" drew almost 4 million viewers — the largest audience in New York television history for a single showing of a feature film.

So great was its attraction that Movie 4's "High Noon" gathered a larger audience than any other show — network or local — on any other station all month.

Consistent scheduling on Movie 4 of new feature films like "High Noon," combined with creative live programming like the "Jack Paar Show," has enabled WRCA-TV to capture conclusively the late-night audiences in New York.

Look at a typical recent two-month period for added evidence of WRCA-TV's superiority: the major competition was showing post-’48 films only 24% of the time — while Movie 4 presented new product at the rate of 62%.

Now Movie 4 has insured continued dominance by signing up the post-’48 library of Republic Pictures — the only post-’48 movie package in New York, with many features which were released in 1956 and 1957.

Get your share of high ratings—at a low cost—with MOVIE 4. Price? Package of eight 1-minute participating announcements per week—just $5,000.

thin to sustain interest for a full hour. In the latest offering presented last Monday, "Barter Bout Fought in RTES Arena"

The battle of the filter trap has begun in earnest and may outdo in brashness the war of competitive speeds among the makers of aspirin, buffered aspirin and effervescent non-buffered aspirins. The newest Parliament TV spots prepared by Benton & Bowles claim Parliament cigarettes have 30,000—count 'em—30,000 nicotine and tar traps, giving this brand an advantage of 10,000 over Vice-roys, longtime filter trap champion with 20,000. (In contrast, Pall Mall's current copy theme claims "you can light 'em at either end."). The next obvious step is towards an all-filter cigarette with half-inch tobacco end pieces.

BOOKS

TECHNIQUES OF MAGNETIC RECORDING, by Joel Tall, MacMillan Co., 60 Fifth Ave., New York, 472 pp., $7.95.

Mr. Tall's book contains a description of magnetic tape uses and techniques, a history of the field since 1900 and a description of Valdemar Paulsen's invention of magnetic recording. Mr. Tall is a CBS engineer and specialist in tape recording techniques, but he manages to cover his territory in layman's language.

Individual chapters by recording experts are devoted to the use of the art in such areas as medicine, education, public entertainment and advertising. Techniques such as erasing, maintenance, editing, re-recording and copying are explained. A chapter on recording sound in nature was written by Dr. Peter Paul Kellogg of Cornell U.; the foreword by CBS's Edward R. Murrow.

James R. Adams, co-founder of MacManus, John & Adams, was an admirer of the late H. L. Mencken. The contents of this slim volume—a numbered collection of miscellaneous thoughts on advertising and media—bear a resemblance to Mencken's A Minority of One. With one exception, of course: Jim Adams never gets mad.

Mr. Adams died in the fall of 1956 before completing his book. However, he had sufficiently progressed in the writing to warrant completion of the anthology by his son, Charles F. Adams, vice president and MJ&A account supervisor on Cadillac. For those who like their advertising philosophy pithy, sweet and to the point, Jim Adams' observations and reflections on a lifetime of work are well worth reading.

For The Record

EDITOR:

I have read the article in the Jan. 27 issue of Broadcasting ("Barter Bout Fought in RTES Arena") with considerable interest. I must, however, ask for a correction on what is either your statement or Mr. Headley's statement concerning my previous remarks regarding barter TV spots for film. I have never made any such statement.

If you wish to set the record straight, what I did say in addressing the Television Film Council was: "Barter TV spots for film will be with us just as long as there is good film product available, and the station would rather barter time than pay cash. This applies just as well to network affiliated stations in big markets as it does to unaffiliated stations in smaller markets."

Story Completed

EDITOR:

The story [At Deadline, Jan. 20] concerning the proposed sale of WGGG to Harry R. Playford and Ed C. Wright is correct. However, some embarrassment has come to me since the story is not complete. You see, I'm retaining 25% of the common stock and will remain in Gainesville as president and general manager of WGGG.

All Questions Answered

EDITOR:

In your Jan. 13 issue you have a picture of an aircraft carrier that has apparently been hit and damaged. I wonder if you might identify the scene and the carrier for me.

Jerome I. Shestack
Schnader, Harrison, Segal & Lewis Philadelphia

[EDITOR'S NOTE: For reader Shestack and others interested in naval history, Broadcasting (above) depicts the U.S.S. Franklin in action off Okinawa in March 1945. The Franklin had just been bombed by a lone Japanese plane. Helmed crew members at left are aboard the cruiser U.S.S. Santa Fe, which had pulled alongside to render assistance. Although crippled, the Franklin did not sink. NBC Television Films, which supplied and identified the picture, further related that the ship was returned to the U.S. and eventually scrapped at Bayonne, N. J. Broadcasting ran the picture in connection with its story on the long-lived Victory at Sea series distributed by the NBC film arm.]
WNBC • 30 STARTS ANOTHER YEAR ON TOP

On February 13th, WNBC • 30 celebrates its fifth anniversary as Connecticut's leadership station—the second-oldest TV station in the state, and the first UHF in New England.

From Winsted to Willimantic, from Springfield, Mass. to Long Island Sound, the people of the great Connecticut Valley know WNBC • 30 as their station....They like its programming leadership. WNBC • 30 is NBC-TV in Connecticut, featuring the complete lineup of great NBC network shows, plus an outstanding local schedule....They applaud its news leadership. The first station in the state with its own remote equipment. WNBC • 30 specializes in live local coverage, consistently schedules more local newsreel film than any other Connecticut station....They respond to its public service leadership. Among WNBC • 30's achievements: highly successful educational TV workshops, benefit telethons, public service spectaculars.

Looking ahead, WNBC • 30 pledges that it will continue to strive in the future, as it has in the past, to deserve its proud reputation as Connecticut's leadership station.
IT WAS NOTHING

We're a modest lot. But, we think, justifiably proud. You see, the November ARB in the Cedar Rapids-Waterloo area put KCRG-TV (that's us) in the lead. During TV watching time in Iowa, 4 to 10 pm daily:

- KCRG-TV 90 Quarter hour firsts
- Station B 67 Quarter hour firsts
- Station C 13 Quarter hour firsts

KCRG-TV has always been a good buy - substantial viewers at very low cost per thousand. But now, KCRG-TV is the buy in Eastern Iowa. Higher ratings than ever - still the same low rates.

IN PUBLIC INTEREST

SEAL APPEAL • The National Society for Crippled Children & Adults has over 12 big name shows in its 1958 Teleparade of Stars produced at CBS' TV City, Hollywood. The film was made for the society's Easter seal appeal and is available to stations for showing between March and April 6.

DISCS FOR DIMES • WSLB Ogdensburg, N. Y., set a goal of $1,400, the same number as its assigned frequency, to raise for the March of Dimes on Jan. 25-26. The "Discs for Dimes" marathon, with d.j.s Nick Charles, Dave Claxton and Phyllis Fuller setting the pace, ran from 7 p.m. Saturday to 8 p.m. Sunday. For the next five hours a live talent show, emceed by WSLB general manager Thomas Leighton, was held at a local hall. Listeners in the St. Lawrence Valley and nearby Canada contributed a total of $1,448.

DOZENS OF DONORS • WNOE New Orleans flashed a bulletin calling for blood donors to save a seven-year-old boy, a leukemia victim who had suffered a hemorrhage at Charity Hospital Jan. 23. When a marine private called from Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi, Miss., it was arranged for 12 in his squadron to be flown in by a Louisiana Air National Guard C-47 transport. WNOE News Director Bob Adams went with the plane to Biloxi and broadcast an emergency report from Keesler Operations Control Center before returning to New Orleans. At the hospital the airmen were met by 64 soldiers from Camp Johnson where they had heard the bulletins. The boy survived and the marines and soldiers made him an honorary member of their companies.

"MARCH-A-THON" • KHUZ and KBBB, both Borger, Tex., combined facilities Jan. 25 and collected $2,400 in 10 hours for the March of Dimes. Promotion for the event included a front page newspaper spread, a banner across Main Street and announcements on both stations. The program originated from the showroom of a local public service company, beginning with a proclamation of "March-a-Thon Day" by the mayor. Downtown crowds were entertained by stunts, including a peanut race between the mayor and a businessman. An afternoon talent show was highlighted by a call from recording artist Tommy Sands. Collections were made by the National Guard, motorcycle and "hot rod" clubs and the two station's mobile units.

AUCTION FOR POLIO • WPBN-TV Traverse City, Mich., held its fourth annual polio auction Jan. 29-30. During the four-hour telethon viewers purchased 78 items of merchandise for a total of $4,890. The reward for one donor was to throw a pie in the face of a brave volunteer for the stunt. One of the members of the WPBN staff auctioned half of his mustache for $50.

"DIMES" TELETHON • WISN-TV Milwaukee staged an 18½-hour telethon Jan. 19-20 that raised $77,000 in pledges for the March of Dimes. Serving as m.c.s for the parade of talent in the new WISN Broadcast Center were Fred Vant Hull, KMGM-TV Minneapolis; Herb Oscar Anderson, ABN; and Charlie Hanson, WISN.

OUR RESPECTS

to Mark Goodson
and William Seldon Todman

A mutual love for frenzy, profound respect for the dollar, shrewd salesmanship and unshakable faith in "mass viewership" have brought Mark Goodson and Bill Todman a long way from a night in June 1946, when they "invested" $15 in a radio network show audition for Winner Take All, their first joint package. The Goodson-Todman Productions' annual gross today is close to $2 million. Pessimistic, restless, Mr. Goodson, acknowledging he and partner Todman may have earned their share of "upper brown contempt" for exposing Americans to such rhyming works as The Name's the Same or Rate Your Mate, offers this moral justification: "We're not in the uplift business. . . . We're in tv to make money."

Lanky, quick talking and optimistic Bill Todman notes, "Our detractors keep telling us how amazingly easy it is to think of new gimmicks. Well then, how come networks or advertisers keep returning to us?"

They come because G-T has produced so many top-rated "mass audience" programs that both are hard-pressed to recall them all. Now on the air are: What's My Line?, I've Got a Secret, To Tell the Truth, The Price Is Right, and Beat the Clock; off the air: The Name's the Same, Two for the Money, It's News to Me, Winner Take All, Stop the Music, Hit the Jackpot and the flops, among them, By Popular Demand, Spin to Win, and the aforementioned Mate.

Though best known for tv panel or quiz shows, the G-T stamp also can be found on The Web, The Adventures of Philip Marlowe and The Quill and the Gun. The last two are as yet unsold but pilots are being shown to agencies.

A newer source of revenue for Messrs. Goodson and Todman is their joint 50% ownership of the Pawtucket (R. I.) Times—an investment made late last year that might "eventually be extended into station ownership."

Their Manhattan "workshop" occupies several floors of cluttered executive suites and cubicles. A Goodson-Todman associate—one of 90—declares, "This kind of work isn't for the same or sober."

Mark (no middle name) Goodson, born in Sacramento on Jan. 24, 1915, and graduated with Phi Beta Kappas honors from the U. of California (1937), gave up a possible legal career in favor of local radio. After "interning" at KFRC San Francisco, he arrived in New York in time to sell hot dogs at the 1939 World's Fair, met Ralph Edwards, and decided that success lay the way of the parlor game. Bill Todman, born in New York on July 31, 1916, finished Johns Hopkins U. in 1938 but felt a doctor's life was not for him; returning to New York, he joined Green & Brodie Adv. as head of that agency's nonexistent radio department at $30 a week.

The two met in late 1941 when Mr. Goodson had become a local free-lance announcer and Mr. Todman an agency radio director. The show was The Battle of the Boroughs on WABC New York (now WCBS), the advertiser Nozema Chemical Co. and the agency Ruthrauff & Ryan. While the proposition was simple—Mr. Todman would try to sell Mr. Goodson's ideas as fast as they could be turned out—the execution was harder. In 1942, for instance, when G-T attempted to sell CBS Radio on Winner Take All, their presentation was dismissed with the brusque note, "We might as well dramatize a poker game." Ironically, Winner opened the door to G-T's future when CBS bought the show four years later after hearing the $15 audition ($5 for the acetate, $5 for ham and eggs fed the "cast" of G-T friends who sat in as the contestants, and $5 for the engineer; the studio was "borrowed").

But until 1946 each went his own way. Mr. Goodson soon became a $15,000 a year announcer, while Mr. Todman shot up into the five-figure bracket as a writer-director. (Mr. Goodson during the war came down with a case of mite fright, made a beeline for the director's booth—and has been there ever since).

After selling Winner Take All to CBS (which later transferred the show to tv) Goodson and Todman teamed up with orchestra leader Harry Saltzer and Broow Adv. copywriter Howard Connell (now a Foote, Cone & Belding executive) and conceived, packaged and sold Stop the Music to ABC. The rest is history.

Perfectionists both, they won't allow a program to go on the air (or even be seen by an agency) until they have convinced themselves it "runs, rolls, swims, floats—what-have-you." For example, What's My Line? was held up eight hours until they decided it was a better title than What's Your Line?"

Mr. Goodson's only extra-curricular activity is the New York chapter of Academy of Tv Arts and Sciences, which he heads. He resides on Manhattan's Park Avenue with his second wife, the former Virginia McDavid, and his two children by a former marriage, 15-year-old Jill and 12-year-old Jonathan. Partner Todman recently moved to Scarsdale, N.Y., with his family, the former Frances Burson, whom he married in 1950, and their two children, Lisa Susan, 5, and William Seldon Jr., 20 months. Unlike his partner, Bill Todman can be found outdoors on weekends.

HILL ACTION SLAMS BRAKE ON TOLL TV

- Harris committee tells FCC to hold off on approving tests
- Guess on the freeze's duration: until late summer or fall

The House Commerce Committee put pay tv back on the shelf last week—at least temporarily.

The committee told the FCC in a “sense of the committee” resolution to stay any Commission action on pay tests until such time as Congress decides the agency has or should have the legal power to conduct such tests. Last Thursday’s resolution reflected the committee’s awareness of the FCC’s March 1 target date for accepting applications for three-year pay-tv trials. It would have been impossible to expect legislative action on pending toll-tv measures in the limited time remaining, according to Commerce Committee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.).

The resolution does not “close the door” permanently on subscription television. Rep. Harris emphasized, but merely requests a delay until the matter can be more thoroughly analyzed. The timetable on any further congressional look into pay tv points to late summer or early fall, it was stated.

FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer declined immediate comment following adoption of the resolution. Mr. Doerfer said that upon receipt of the resolution it will be submitted to the full Commission, which will then decide on how to proceed.

The resolution was dispatched immediately to the FCC with Rep. Harris anticipating an answer “within a reasonable time.” He said he expects the Commission to comply with the committee’s request, pointing out that the Commission previously had indicated willingness to honor Capitol Hill guidance. Asked about the possibility that the Commission might not accept the wish of the committee, Rep. Harris commented, “We will cross that bridge when we come to it.”

Commenting on the need for a closer committee look at pay tv, Rep. Harris stated that wire tv and the Bartlesville, Okla., Telemovie operation are among the many facets the committee plans to examine.

This method, which does not utilize broadcast channels, was much discussed during the two weeks of subscription television hearings before the Commerce Committee last month [GOVERNMENT, Feb. 3; LEAD STORY, Jan. 27].

In a related action last week on the other side of Congress, Senate Commerce Committee Chairman Warren D. Magnuson (D-Wash.) said that his committee on Feb. 19 would consider a pending resolution that the sense of the Senate be expressed as condemning toll tv trials. The resolution, introduced a fortnight ago by Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-S.C.) and six other senators, had been shunted to the subcommittee on communications under Sen. John O. Pastore (D-R.I.) with instructions that hearings be held. The subcommittee last week, however, returned the resolution to the parent committee without recommendation.

While the House Commerce Committee’s action was generally acclaimed by toll tv opponents, some observers speculated that the more staunch antagonists of pay tv on the committee suffered a setback at the closed-door sessions. It’s understood that this of the seven votes against the committee resolution came from those seeking stronger committee action, though against subscription tv per se.

Among those believed to have plumped hardest for a stronger committee action, though their ultimate Thursday voting was not known, were Reps. John V. Beamer (R-Ind.), William L. Springer (R-Ill.), Bruce Alger (R-Tex.), Peter F. Mack Jr. (D-Ill.) and John D. Dingell (D-Mich.).

Three or four amendments to the resolution were accepted during committee discussions before it was adopted in its final form.

Industry pay tv proponents last Thursday unhesitatingly announced that the House Executive vice president of Skiatron Electronics & Television Corp., declared,
Television networks and motion picture house owners, working through a powerful nationwide lobby in their efforts to prevent Americans from having the right to spend their own money on entertainment of their choosing in their own homes, made only a momentary and minor gain today.

He expressed "complete confidence" that when members of Congress "understand the full implications of the tv network-movie lobby on this issue . . . they will favor permitting the public to be the judge."

Mr. Levey pointed out that in the meantime Skiatron was moving forward with its "low-cost wire system." The Los Angeles city council has granted a 21-year franchise to Skiatron TtV Inc. and other communities are considering like applications for Skiatron wire systems, he said. The House Commerce Committee action has no application to this phase of Skiatron operations, he added.

The list of congressional bills against pay tv has grown from 12 to 19. Measures making it illegal to charge fees to view tv in private homes have been introduced by Rep. Robert W. Hemphill (D-S. C.), (HR 10386); by Sen. Edward J. Thye (R-Minn.), (S 3201), and by Rep. James H. Morrison (D-La.), (HR 10544).

Two bills came last Thursday from Rep. Dingell. One (HR 10536) seeks to amend the Communications Act specifically to prohibit authority to broadcast toll tv programs. The other (HR 10537) would clarify existing law by stipulating that the proposed trial pay tv operations could not continue beyond March 1, 1961; that after that date no license could engage in either trial or regular subscription tv operations unless prior to that date the Communications Act has been amended to give the FCC toll tv authorization powers.

The first Dingell bill is similar to a Jan. 30 measure (HR 10399) offered by Rep. Edward P. Radwan (R-N.Y.).

A different tack is employed by Rep. Mack in a bill (HR 10392) also introduced Jan. 30. Rep. Mack, while amending the Communications Act, would make it mandatory for the FCC to hold public hearings on any toll tv application for an area now served by free tv in order to determine that the quantity and quality of free tv would not be reduced by such an authorization.

John Q. Tells Hill How He Feels About Fee

Congress last week found its mailboxes and doorsteps deluged with pleas either for or against subscription television. And providing a stark comparison to the thousands upon thousands of letters from the public urging Capitol Hill to stop the proposed tests was the paucity of pro-toll sentiment.

Zenith Radio Corp. used a double-truck ad in the tabloid Washington Daily News and a full page in the Washington Post last Wednesday to address its denunciation of subscription tv opponents to the public. But it also made sure that its ads meet congressional eye. Up and down the corridors of the Senate and House Office Bldgs., newspapers were dropped, with large red labels affixed reading "Important Announcement. See Page 20-21."

Another pay tv proponent who wants to use the toll method for a "novel concept in large-scale education" saturated Congress with letters earlier this month. Solomon Sagall, president of Telekope Pay-TV Inc., stressed the "appalling shortages of classrooms, schools and teaching personnel" and said the strides by the Soviet Union in education requires equalizing action in this country. He proposed a subscription education plan as submitted to the House Commerce Committee [Lead Srorv, Jan. 27] would provide "hundreds of thousands, possibly millions of classrooms" and would permit better utilization of teaching personnel.

But neither Zenith nor Telekope-Globe can be blamed for the overworked condition of Capitol Hill mailmen who dumped sack after sack of anti-tv mail into the offices of the House Commerce Committee. One committee aide termed it the largest letter flood he had ever seen, conservatively estimated at over 50,000 pieces. Samplings of letters indicated that no more than one in a thousand supported pay tv.

The tenor of the letters ranged from outright denunciation of pay tv and castigation of Congress for not preserving free tv, to pleas from financially-strapped families. One midwestern proponent said that she was single, didn't go out much and relied on tv.

While much of the response has been engendered by the publicity accorded current congressional pay tv activity, the broadcasters themselves have played a major role in reminding the public of the issues involved.

WJBK-TV Detroit last week reported receipt of more than 10,000 pieces of mail on pay tv with only 51 voicing support of the system. Response followed a Jan. 24 program in which newscaster Jac LeGoff interrogated WJBK-TV Managing Director Bill Michaels on all the aspects of subscription television, including pros and cons advanced by both sides. Michaels argued for legislation and to Rep. John Dingell (D-Mich.) for forwarding to the Harris committee.

WSAZ-TV and WHTN-TV Huntington-Charleston, W. Va., presented a program in which editors of area newspapers discussed toll tv with Lawrence H. Rogers II, WSAZ-TV president and general manager, and Robert L. Luckner, WHTN-TV's general manager. Phone calls at the conclusion of the show and the first flood of mail to the outlets reflected heavy opposition to pay tv, according to the stations.

The upsurge in West Virginia sentiment for free tv last week prompted the House of Delegations to pass a resolution "memorializing the Congress of the United States not to allow passage of any legislation authorizing pay-as-you-see television."

Out on the west coast not a single one of the approximately 200 letters which KRKN-TV San Francisco had received early last week commenting on its Jan. 31 telecast debate on toll tv [PICTURES SERVICES: Jan. 27] favored the idea, according to the station.

This is a slight change from the response to a Jan. 7 program on the same subject. Then almost 500 letters on the subject included 20 in favor of pay tv.

The Jan. 31 telecast was fed to KSBW-TV Salinas and KSBY-TV San Luis Obispo, both in California, for simultaneous broadcast. Last year special lines were installed to handle phone calls from viewers, 378 calls getting through during the 50-minute program.

Paul McNamara, vice president, Internationa Teleometer Corp., and Alan Lane, vice president, Skiatron TtV Inc., both insisted franchising for closed circuit toll tv systems in San Francisco as well as Los Angeles, presented the case for pay television. John Cohan, president and general manager, KSBW-TV, and Arnold C. Childhouse, director of Northern California Theatre Owners Assn., opposed the idea. Tom Mulilhey, KRKN-TV director of public affairs, acted as moderator.

Even a radio station took up the cudgel. In Rexboro, Idaho, Gene Shumate, owner-operator of the local KRKK presented an air editorial charging pay tv would impose an unfair financial burden on the public while providing programs that would be no better than those now offered by free tv.

The case for and against pay tv was aired further last week on the networks as CBS Inc. Vice President Richard S. Salant scrambled his own tv image to drive home the argument that "pay tv does not add up to subtracts."

Mr. Salant appeared Feb. 2 on CBS-TV along with Robert Hall, a director of Skia-
Telemovies Sustains Big December Losses

The Bartlesville Telemovies project suffered a major reversal in the latter part of December, Henry S. Griffin, president of Video Independent Theatres Inc., promoter of the wired pay tv system—the only one of its kind in operation—has told major motion picture distributors.

"In the latter part of December...we seemed to have the 'rug pulled out from under us,'" Mr. Griffin wrote. "We do not know the cause. It may be the time of the year, and it may be an economy wave following expenditures in Christmas shopping. It may be the business slump. We haven't arrived at a conclusion," he continued.

The Telemovies' monthly report to movie distribution firms included a daily breakdown of connections added and cancellations which showed a total of 399 subscribers as of the last day of December 1957. This compared with a high of 531 on Dec. 4 and 5. Of the 146 cancellations in December, 106 occurred between Dec. 23 and Dec. 31. There were 15 new connections.

In November, Telemovies added seven new subscribers and lost 14.

On Dec. 31, 1957, Telemovies was realizing $4,652.84 from its 399 subscribers.

The Bartlesville closed-circuit Telemovies project began in September 1957 [Lead Story, Sept. 9; Special Report, Nov. 4, 1957]. There are 38 miles of coaxial cable which runs through the downtown and residential areas of the rich oil center city 60 miles north of Tulsa. Subscribers are charged $9.50 a month (although last month Telemovies began offering a metered package which cost $3.50 minimum, and 65 cents for each movie. Homes are fed 13 feature films and 13 reruns each month, from all major producers except 20th Century-Fox and MGM. The motion pictures are received on chs. 3 and 5, otherwise unused in Bartlesville, which is covered by the three Tulsa tv stations.

Telemovies needs 2,000 subscribers to break even, its officials have said. To be successful, the goal is 4,000 subscribers—half of the 8,000 tv homes in the city.

Excerpts from Mr. Griffin's letter follow: "...Our progress in November and December has not been as good as in previous months. We tried substituting some variety programs of shorts and newreels in lieu of feature following some requests [sic]. This met with immediate opposition from our subscribers as they felt cheated if they were not given the usual theatre program. We immediately reverted to the normal program."

"...Preceding this flood of cancellations, three television stations serving Bartlesville had increased their motion picture features from approximately 90 per month to a number in excess of 130. One station advertised a library of 2,000 motion picture features and increased its offering by adding a daily feature at 9 p.m. During this month of January, the three stations are offering a total of 136 free movies. Most subscribers have given 'too expensive' as the cause for cancellation. To be quite honest, we have not had time to make a careful survey and therefore we do not offer these causes as dependable conclusions," he continued.

"We are convinced that the most popular regular program offered by television is the motion picture feature. It is possible that Bartlesville is ahead of its time. When the present features in the hands of television are consumed, which should be in about two years, I am satisfied that the Telemovie theatre will come into its own . . . At the present time I think television has been tapping a lost market with the old motion picture features. These give as much satisfaction to the TV viewer as new features."

Mr. Griffing also stated that Video Independent has 10 community tv operations, and that it is field testing a music channel which will be added to these systems. "Later we hope movies can be added, but only after the pre-1948 features are consumed by television," he added.

The January letter concluded with these words: "Although we have suffered our greatest reverse, we are still ahead of our projections which were made before we started . . ."

Is tv at a point where it must be appraised agonizingly by the advertiser in terms of costs, audience delivered and values returned? Should the national advertiser consider blue-penciling his tv plans?

To these questions, NBC answers: No such evidence at hand. To the contrary, tv—specifically network television—is a better buy than ever before.

The NBC 'appraisal' of the medium was prompted by a delayed depth charge tossed out early in the year by Philip L. McHugh, tv-radio vice president of Campbell-Ewald, in an interview with the New York Herald-Tribune's Joseph Kaselow. Warned Mr. Mchugh, against a background chorus of agreement from top-placed agency buyers:

Tv may be pricing itself out of the marketplace; advertisers soon may resist tv costs; the medium is near saturation with audience at about its peak and now being fragmented [LEAD STORY, JAN. 13].

Neither panicked nor hurried, NBC's researchers culled audience measurement reports, sifted studies of other media and tabulated this mass of information.

First, "it was necessary to see on what basis each [agency] complaint was formed," notes Hugh M. Beville, NBC vice president for research and planning. "We felt we should analyze what the people were saying, because either existing facts are not known or they are being misinterpreted and receiving an emotional reaction. Nobody questioned tv's value as an advertising medium, only increasing costs."

The appraisal by Mr. Beville and his research staff:

- Of course tv costs are going up as they are in all advertising media. But tv's return is 'so much' better than other media in respect to the value received for the advertising money spent. Cost-per-thousand of network tv has shown a "consistent decline" in past years and each network's cost structure has acquired a new stability.

- Tv's circulation has not approached a saturation point; neither is there indication of audience leveling off. In fact, there are increases in the average tv audience delivered and in the average hours of viewing of evening shows.

- Tv's audience is rising at a faster rate than is the increase in cost—a movement that Mr. Beville underlines as of especial importance to the advertiser.

- An efficiency has been introduced in network tv that has eliminated much of the risk that existed in an advertiser's buy only three years ago. There is less uncertainty today as to what the advertiser can get for his money.

- The momentum of increased rates of stations in the network lineups has slowed substantially (he cited NBC, although, he says, other networks are seeing a similar pattern).

- Because tv circulation is still going up, it is reasonable to assume some further rate increases when they are justified. But the average monthly hike in station rates will be smaller in proportion to the increased circulation provided by stations.

- The charge of audience being fragmented by heightened competition from the "third network (ABC-TV) is open to question. Actually, NBC maintains, the competition appears to be increasing total set usage."

Complaint: Tv is approaching saturation, consequently there should not be any more cost increases. NBC asks, is tv approaching saturation? Its findings: 3 million tv homes were added last year and the outlook for 1958 is for another 2 million tv homes. A network tv show with a 25 rating already is assured of adding a half million new homes. The average network evening program on this basis will get an additional 1/4 million viewers.

A peak audience? Mr. Beville draws attention to December 1957 average evening ratings of all tv networks. These figures: 22.1 in 1954, 21.9 in 1955, 21.5 in 1956 and 22.1 in 1957. The audience in December 1957 was higher than in that month of the preceding two years and equal to the high level set in December 1954.

How about audience delivered? NBC emphasizes there has been an increase. For example, in 1954 the average evening network program reached 6,059,000 homes but in 1957 the number was 8,620,000, or a 43% increase over 1954. The network also points out that in one year alone (from December 1956 to December 1957), the number for the covering an average minute of every network commercial program increased 1.1 million, or a jump of 16% in a single year, reflecting larger lineups, increased ratings and more tv homes.

Coming to the question of a leveling off of the audience, Mr. Beville asserts that the figures do not support this belief. Looking at the average hours of viewing evening shows in homes (based on Nielsen data covering the 7:30-11 p.m. period), NBC researchers found the figure went from 2 hours 1 minute in 1954 to 2 hours 7 minutes in 1957.

Mr. Beville asserts that the delivered audience for tv network advertisers is going up faster than costs so that the cost per thousand actually has been going down consistently. For example, based on Nielsen December data the average evening cost (time and talent per thousand per commercial minute for all networks) was $3.99 in 1955, declined to $3.86 in 1956 and for December 1957 it slid to $3.54, an 11.3% reduction from 1955.

He also challenges the contention that the third network's emergence as a factor in programming and audience has been splitting the audience. To illustrate, Mr. Beville draws attention to the comparative figures for the coverage rating of NBC-TV and CBS-TV for December 1957 and the same month the previous year.
NBC discovered a runaway rating to Mr. Beville in 1956 to operating a sampling of NBC stations showed the average rate increased monthly at an average $546 for an average increase of 1.1% of the existing rate. This compilation was based on 38 stations in key markets. In the 11 months of March 1957 to February 1958, these same stations showed an average station rate increase of $177 per month, or 0.3% over the existing rate.

How about other advertising media? Mr. Beville refers to Gilbert P. Swanson, president of the Newspaper Advertising Executives Assn., who reported late last month that newspaper advertising revenue in the United States was at peak volume in 1957 but that advertising lineage had declined about 3%. An increase of 1% in revenue was attributed to higher line rates (or costs), continuing increase in ROP color and greater use of other premium space. Observes Mr. Beville: "Costs are going up but there has been no substantial rise in newspaper circulation."

In studying the circulation and rate changes of 11 leading newspapers in the cities of Chicago, New York and Philadelphia, NBC researchers found the line rate increased from a total of $17.90 in 1954 to $19.66 in 1957 for an increase of 9.9% in the rate over the three-year period. Circulation totaled 8,522,494 for the 11 papers in 1954, but in 1957, the change was only a 4% rise (8,867,265). Thus, circulation went up only 4% in three years but the line rate spiraled nearly 10%.

Have the magazines followed the network trend and reduced their cost per thousand circulation? Analyzing the 10 top national magazines, NBC finds the average C-F-M at $33.22 in 1954 but $40.04 in 1958, an increase of 22%. These figures include a high of 32% increase by Good Housekeeping to a low of 6% by U. S. News. Life's cost per thousand circulation rose 28% in the four years. Saturday Evening Post went up 20%, The New Yorker 20%. Look 19%. Better Homes & Gardens 24%. Ladies Home Journal 23%. Newsweek 21% and McCalls 16%.

While Mr. Beville cautions that cost comparisons of competitive media are difficult and not always representative, he points to a study of delivered audience by various media made by Leo Burnett and D. B. Soss. In a talk to the Audit Bureau of Circulations last October, Dr. Seymour Banks, manager of media planning and research at Burnett, presented these cost per thousand advertising impressions (relative media cost efficiency data as of the spring of 1957): television—one-minute commercial for the average evening half-hour tv program delivered, $1.30; the one-minute commercial for the average daytime quarter-hour program, $1.21; 60-second daytime spot, $1.56; 20-second nighttime spot, $2.10; radio—the one-minute commercial in the average half-hour program, 97 cents; magazines—general weeklies, 4-color page, $4.84, and a black-and-white page, $5.69; women's service and home service, 4-color page, $5.10, and black-and-white page, $5.73; newspaper supplements—color page, $3.73, and black-and-white page, $3.11; newspapers—1,000-line, ROP black and white, $6.88, a page ROP black and white $10.31, and a page ROP four-color, $8.07.

Bristol-Myers Approved On 'Pocketbook News' Bristol-Myers Co., New York, tonight (Monday) will begin sponsoring NBC Radio's "Pocketbook News," a weekly 10-minute segment (Mon., 9:30-9:40 p.m.) of the network's Nightline evening series. B-M executives as well as products will be featured. The star of "Pocketbook News" is Mrs. Wilma Soss, founder and president of the Federation of Women Shareholders in American Business.

Mrs. Soss is unique in that she claims she is the only approved the advertiser, rather than vice versa. "I chose Bristol-Myers," she said last week, "because it's known for its good employee relations, good stockholder relations and good consumer relations..." Before agreeing to be sponsored by B-M, Mrs. Soss went on—and there she stopped Mr. H. Bristol Jr., B-M products public relations director who sat next to Mrs. Soss as she talked at a news conference—"I asked for editorial freedom of the air, to do my own commercials in my own way with the same freedom as Arthur Godfrey. I realized that people would think of me as a sort of 'Good Housekeeping' seal..."

Mrs. Soss will only "read" commercials whenever they "seem to fit into the text." They will not merely dwell on B-M products but on B-M as an institutional symbol.

Mr. Bristol, who will be the first Bristol-Myers executive to appear on the program, declared that B-M does not look upon "Pocketbook News" so much as a further extension of our consumer advertising program; we see it more particularly as a valuable complement to a public relations program aimed at...humanizing our corporate image...helping the public to associate more of our products with the Bristol-Myers name."
TVB'S CASH LISTS
TV SALES STORIES

- Answers 'Journal' inferences
- Successes accent tv 'hard sell'

A small catalog of tv sales successes was issued by Television Bureau of Advertising last week to point up the medium's hard-sell effectiveness.

President Norman E. Cash capped the success stories in a letter answering an article in the Wall Street Journal which "refers to television cutbacks and more than infers that hard sell can only be accomplished in newspapers."

Two of the companies he named (U. S. Steel and Burgermeister Brewing) were among those quoted in the WJ story. These quotations related to the growing trend toward "hard sell" campaigns and did not desist with specific media plans. But at another company, it was maintained that "in their greater emphasis on 'hard sell' some companies are trimming their outlays for tv time."

Success stories cited by Mr. Cash:

"American Gas Assn. — According to Thomas Lane, senior vice president, Lenken & Newell, 'For 10 years gas appliances were on a downward trend in percentage of sales of the appliance market. With the advent of television the 10-year trend has been completely reversed; television is the American Gas Assn.'s major effort to sell the public and by spending $600 a second, the gas industry is reaching customers and prospects at less than a cent apiece—with living flesh and blood demonstrations... that ordinarily would be impossible to duplicate in a living room."

"It is further known that the financial world has taken a new look at the rejuvenated gas industry and are strongly recommending the same to their investors."

"U. S. Steel—The bulk of their consumer advertising budget goes into television with no cutbacks in 1958. Results: 'Direct, hard-selling television has produced leads to such a degree that 500 high-calibre leads—15 of which can result in overall sales of $10 million in football stadia—show television's impact.'"

"Burgermeister Brewing Corp.—From the ad manager—which you quoted only in part—'I think everyone in the beer business will start selling harder this year. Our television budget up 15% because we can't get along without television. December 1957 sales were our best for that month in five years.' They have no plans for newspapers in 1958 and are relying on television to carry their highly visual story—to use television's peculiar advantages to sell with IDs and 20- and 60-second announcements. As of last available reports, 182 beers were using television and spending $9,833,000 quarterly."

"Chrysler Corp. and Ford Motor Co.—Increased their television budgets in 1957. Both showed increases in sales over 1956."

BUICK BID TO GO OUT TO AGENCY THIS WEEK

- GM choice remains mystery
- Client hears 'reprise' pitches

Rumor mills were working full blast last week, turning out more grist about the still unattached $23 million Buick car account.

The only clear indication to emerge from an otherwise confusing picture was that Buick Div. of General Motors will appoint a new agency, succeeding Kudner Inc., sometime this week. It heard "reprise" presentations from New York-based agencies the past week—reportedly those which requested second hearings. In the front-running as of Thursday were Young & Rubicam, Benton & Bowles, Cunningham & Walsh and Leo Burnett (Chicago-based), not necessarily in that order. Others: Compton Adv. and Ted Bates & Co.

It was evident, on the basis of checks by Broadcasting with several sources, that the decision is "imminent"—and equally that, despite a multitude of rumors, only Edward T. Ragsdale, general manager of Buick, knew who held the inside rail. He spent all week in New York and was not due back in Detroit until late Friday.

A corollary development of the GM Buick-agency picture involves the frequent report that General Motors plans to appoint a top-level executive to supervise tv activities for all its divisions. It was learned Thursday that, while the plan has been under study for several months, "no serious thought" has been given to the idea at present and "nothing is imminent." The reason: GM automotive divisions have traditionally maintained a large degree of autonomy and independence; this policy is likely to continue.

Reports were a dime a dozen last week, both along New York's Madison and Chicago's Michigan Avenues. Among them:

1) Leo Burnett, a "sentimental favorite," will get the Buick account, along with key Kudner personnel to service it;
2) Burnett would, in effect, merge with Kudner to handle it;
3) Mr. Ragsdale may be dismissed as Buick general manager, on the theory that his move in firing Kudner was premature and/or ill-advised at the time [advertisers & agencies, Dec. 22, 1957, p. 39].
4) Buick may be split among some present GM agencies.

Responsible top-level executives at Buick unequivocally scoffed at the first two reports, specifically denying any knowledge of a possible merger with Kudner.

Resignation of Edward T. Ragsdale was a watchword with respect to landing the account (though Burnett officials are expressly forbidden to discuss the Buick situation with anyone). Their impression was, however, that the new agency would be appointed momentarily.

The report of Mr. Ragsdale's imminent dismissal was based on alleged criticism...

of his handling of the Kudner affair, evolving from his move to fire the agency before Christmas and particularly before it apparently had any successor in mind, as well as the charges that he leaned too heavily on Buick dealers' recommendations.

Another version, revealed to Broadcasting last Thursday by usually reliable sources, was that despite divisional autonomy, the decision to fire Kudner at that time was dictated by GM President Harlow Curtice—apparently with a demurrrer by Mr. Ragsdale. It reportedly was based on a belief that a new agency should be appointed as soon as possible to pave the way for 1958 Buick fall planning. Richard N. Heath, Burnett president, told Broadcasting, "I imagine Buick would make an announcement soon. All I know is what I read in the trade papers."

He denied any knowledge of rumors involving Kudner, and declined to discuss the matter further.

Inquiries at Buick Div. and General Motors Corp. brought only the rejoinder that "any statement will have to come from Mr. Ragsdale" and that he was out of town and not expected to return to his office before Monday. Some GM spokesmen hinted, however, that an announcement might be forthcoming soon. It still was presumed that some Kudner personnel would join the new agency of Buick's choice, once it's named.

Some agency parties familiar with the picture also expressed doubt that Buick's business would be split among GM's present agencies, citing the competitive automobile factor involved. Young & Rubican's resignation of Ford's $3.5 million Lincoln account last month caused reports it hoped to land Buick [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Jan. 27]. Lincoln also has being hearing agency presentations and is expected to appoint a successor this month.

Three Stations Win Dromedary Contest

They're eating lots of Dromedary dates these days at WCCO Minneapolis, KING Seattle and WAAB Worcester, Mass. The reason: these three stations were singled out last week by National Biscuit Co.'s Dromedary Co. division as the most Dromedary date promotion-conscious radio stations in the country.

To formalize the salute, Dromedary and its agency, Lennen & Newell, last week sent checks ranging from $250 to $100 to WCCO's Clayton Kaufman, KING's Bill Parker and WAAB's Ken Burns—as the three promotion officials who knew how to turn a relatively small radio allocation into a big merchandising effort, thus increasing their stations' stature in the eyes of both advertiser and agency.

Like many food packers today who seek to cut costs by eliminating their sales field forces, Dromedary distributes its product nationally through food brokers who are paid on a basis of approximately 7% commission on sales. The savings by such a method are obvious; but just as obvious is the fact that with brokers handling 15-25 food manufacturers at a time, the single processor like, say Dromedary, is deprived of custom service and must seek other and more imaginative ways to reach the store manager.

In the fall, Dromedary placed its annual six-week radio spot campaign, but this time it picked those stations it felt were adequately equipped to compete with one another for the merchandising prize dollars. (Dromedary for its dates is strictly a seasonal advertiser, doing 80% of its saturation advertising between September and December and concentrating primarily on the Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday seasons.

According to L&N account supervisor Leo A. Kelmenson, Dromedary allocated roughly $300,000 to the seasonal push—broken down into two "flights" of spots, Nov. 7-27 and Dec. 4-24. Time came to roughly $250,000—the same as for 1956—but this time the advertiser allocated an extra $6,000 to handle the merchandising aspects of the drive. Apparently the money was well spent. Though declining—on specific advertiser request—to quote sales figures for Dromedary date's fall season, L&N officials point out that the drive's effectiveness can best be measured by the fact that considerable Dromedary stock was depleted ahead of time, necessitating reordering of dates.

How did Dromedary pick its stations? Agency and client executives began by studying a list of 400 stations used regularly by Dromedary, then began trimming down the list to—says account executive Oliver Toigo—"eliminate the possibility of a small station having to compete with a large station—one that would be far more eminently equipped to do a full-fledged promotion job for Dromedary." L&N trimmed by picking only those outlets on which the advertiser spent over $650 a season. "But," points out L&N Associate Merchandising Director Jack R. Thompson: "We gave equal opportunity for all stations to participate if they so chose." Many dropped out voluntarily. Dromedary finally ended up with 256 stations in 106 markets.

Why did the stations compete for such plebian sums? Declares Mr. Toigo: "Sure, they aren't as interested in the cash prizes as they are in showing us—and Dromedary—how effective their stations can be. They know far too well that their call letters will be on the tip of our timebuyers' pens this next time a campaign comes around."

And this sort of insurance for the future makes any promotion effort well worth a station's time.

Plaques of appreciation were presented to representatives of KTTV (TV), KTLA (TV), both Los Angeles stations for a simultaneous telecast. This was to show the company's appreciation for advertising's and local media's part in helping Riviera grow in four years from one small factory-showroom to the largest manufacturer of convertible sofas in the West, with 32 showrooms. In addition, Riviera received a plaque from KTLA in appreciation of the firm's excellence in advertising.

The exchange of plaques took place at the weekly luncheon of the Advertising Club of Los Angeles, at which David Seigel, advertising director of Riviera and one of the five brothers who own and operate the business, credited much of the firm's growth to the consistent use of advertising, including regular spot schedules on KTLA and KTTV and an occasional local spectacular, as described in this excerpt from his talk:

"As far as television is concerned, we feel our product is a natural for that medium. The Riviera Convertible sofa, with its movement and convertible appeal, interests viewers. We have had some great moments on television . . . experiences we'll never forget. The first of these was the City at Night telecast show [on KTLA (TV) Los Angeles], done in our factory Jan. 26, 1956. Through the cooperation of the late Klaus Landberg, we were invited to do the City at Night show and it gave us an opportunity to escort the people of Los Angeles through our factory.

"It was a memorable experience. For months after the show, people called us, wrote us, and reminded us of how much they liked seeing our factory, meeting our people and looking at demonstrations of our product.

"The next wonderful event was the Christmas Show. We were coming out with a new line. We wanted everybody to see our new products, if possible. We also wanted, in the spirit of Christmas, to do something for our community. So we put together a good talent show and invited the community fund people to participate. We thought it came off pretty good. It was no cinch to convince television station people to allow us to do this show. Station managers, directors, the union, network executives, practically everyone from the prop man to the parking lot attendants told us it could not be done. After 34 meetings, 118 phone calls and two months of battling with everyone and anyone, we were given the OK to buy all seven Los Angeles TV stations for a simultaneous telecast.

"Our next big project was to go out and get the stars for the show. That isn't as easy a job as it may sound. Approach any top name star and you'll pardon the expression, 'local show' and they turn green, become nauseated, and immediately remember a previous engagement. We didn't know the word 'local' would carry with it such a stigma. So we decided to do something about it. We thought we could perhaps localize the show—We thought we'd beam it all the way through to Bakersfield. This wasn't enough. We even bought Fresno and Santa Barbara.

"We came back to the stars, and it was still a tough project. Well, we finally found our people, and they were the top people in the business, and wonderful talent to work with. They included Paul Gilbert, the Wiere Bros., Chiquita and Johnson, Gene Nelson, Gogi Grant, David Rose and his orchestra, Art Linkletter as host, and our own Wally Sherwin. We did a show and every word and the community could be proud of. We bought full-page advertisements in every Los Angeles newspaper and all surrounding communities, we bought hundreds of television spots, giving the time and place of the show, and we went on the air. My brother, Jerry, introduced 21 new convertible sofa styles and had them made up in the most magnificent fabrics imaginable. Al Winston premiered his newest convertible, our bed chair.

"I know you are all wondering and asking the question, 'Did it pay us to do this show?' And of course, the regular questions came at us by our regular quizzers: 'I don't know anything about your advertising, but did it really pay to spend that much money for six minutes commercial time?' Other questions, such as, 'Do you mean to say that you were willing to spend $112,000 in institutional advertising?'

"Well, gentlemen, at the time we did the show, there were approximately 21 Riviera showrooms. Today, we have 32 and we are well on our way toward 50 Riviera showrooms. We feel the Christmas Show has helped establish us in our community."

KLM Finally Moves to EWR&R
As Hoyt Picks Up German Airline

Charles W. Hoyt Co., New York, last week resembled an airport as the $1 million KLM-Royal Dutch Airlines finally took off for Erwin, Wasey, Ruthrauff & Ryan, New York—the agency it originally named last August and then postponed in December. Landing at Hoyt was $250,000 Deutsche Lufthansa A. G. account of Cologne, Germany, whose domestic advertising had been placed since April 1955 by the Albert Woodley Co., New York. The transfers are effective April 1.

Radio-using KLM had asked Hoyt to stay on as its agency pending completion of EWR&R's internal reorganization. The latter had been shuffling accounts and personnel since the merger between Erwin, Wasey and Ruthrauff & Ryan earlier in the year. But the indefinite status proved to be somewhat of a handicap for Hoyt, which had freed by KLM's original resignation to solicit other accounts. Though the difference between both airline accounts is $750,000, the billing proved to be less a consideration to Hoyt than that of "permanency."

Last week, Winthrop Hoyt, Agency board chairman, asked KLM for "relief" as soon as that airline could find a new agency. Thus, in effect, Hoyt helped EWR&R land the account. For Hoyt, $250,000 is "just the beginning." It believes that Lufthansa—thrown into competition with S.A.S., KLM, Swissair, KLM France and other foreign carriers now using occasional broadcast media—will follow suit by enlarging its advertising allocations. E. T. Nettleton, Hoyt vice president and KLM account supervisor, will head the new Lufthansa activities.

W-L Ad Shifts Begin;
Bromo-Seltzer to W&L

Indications last week pointed to an intra-agency shuffle and company-wide realignment in advertising assignments at Warner-Lambert Pharmaceutical Co., Morris Plains, N. J. The company a fortnight ago began shuffling executives as a result of forming a new marketing division [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Jan. 27].

The first agency to be affected was Lenn Len nen & Newell, W-L agency for the Emerson Drug Div., Baltimore. Yanked from L&N was the $2.5 million Bromo-Seltzer account, which in turn was assigned to Warwick & Legler, a new W-L agency. The switchover becomes effective April 1.

Lennen & Newell will retain Fizzies, a seasonally advertised product also manufactured by Emerson, and Warner-Lambert officials noted that there was a possibility L&N would be assigned to service other products in its vast stable of toiletries and pharmaceuticals.

Other Warner-Lambert agencies that conceivably might be due for gains, losses or swaps are Sullivan, Stauffer, Colwell & Bayles; Ted Bates; Norman, Craig & Kummel and the firm's "house agency," Lambert & Fessley—all New York agencies.

Bromo-Seltzer has been a heavy broadcast advertiser for years. Over the past 20-odd years it has been handled by a number of radio-tv conscious agencies—BBDO, McCann-Erickson, Ruthrauff & Ryan and J. Walter Thompson Co. Lennen & Newell took over the account in December when it has placed Bromo-Seltzer (once synonymous on radio with "Adventures of Ellery Queen") on the old DuMont Television Network's "Chances of a Lifetime," ABC-TV's Masquerade Party, NBC-TV's Tic Tac Dough and this season, Restless Gun. Last year it participated in Warner-Lambert's portion of NBC-TV's Year Hit Parade and also signed as a charter sponsor of National Television Associates' "Premier Performance" station hookup of 20th Century-Fox feature films. On the syndication side, Bromo-Seltzer sponsored during the last four years each Ziv Television packages as Mr. D.A., I Led Three Lives and Science Fiction Theatre.
Movies Spend $900,000 On Radio-Tv Promotion

Approximately $900,000 of a total budget of $2.3 million has been allotted to radio and television as part of an all-industry advertising and promotion campaign by the motion picture business to lure the public back to the theaters.

Details of the project which encompasses the Theatre Owners of America, the Motion Picture Assn. of America and their members were outlined at a news conference in New York Tuesday by Roger Lewis, advertising director of United Artists Corp. and a member of the advertising-public relations committee for the campaign. Mr. Lewis revealed that the "opening gun" in the all-industry push will be television sponsorship of the Motion Picture Academy Awards presentation on NBC-TV March 26. The 90-minute broadcast and spot announcements in weeks preceding the show will cost more than $600,000, according to Mr. Lewis.

Approximately $300,000 is earmarked for a six-month campaign on radio, starting in April, Mr. Lewis revealed. The remainder of the budget, he said, will be spent on newspapers ($350,000) and spot radio ($150,000) and administrative expenditures ($250,000).

Six agencies will be used on the campaign, which will be tied to the slogan, "Get more out of life—go to a movie." Mr. Lewis stressed that copy on radio and in newspapers will not be institutional but will be "full of sell" to induce people to attend their local theatres. The agencies on the project are Donahue & Co., Buchanan & Co., Cunningham & Walsh, Blaine-Thompson Co., Charles Schlaifer & Co. and Monroe Greenhal Co.

The decision to use radio, Mr. Lewis reported, was prompted by a test campaign of the medium several months ago in Rochester and Denver. He said the results were "so satisfactory" that the committee was persuaded to use the medium for this all-industry campaign.

TOA and its members will contribute $1.15 million of the budget and MPAA and its members will match this figure. MPAA consists of producers and distributors and TOA of motion picture exhibitors.

McGannon Outlines WBC Policies As Radio Spokesman Before RTES

Westinghouse Broadcasting Corp. believes its radio philosophy of independent operation must stand the "test of time" by continuing "side by side" with programming of radio network affiliates for some years.

The speaker outlining Westinghouse's radio position last week was WBC President Donald H. McGannon who also appeared as spokesman for the radio industry at the Radio & Television Executives Society time-buying and selling session held in New York.

Mr. McGannon said radio in the past 2-3 years has risen from the "critical state" and is now the come-back story of the year.

He asserted that since WBC terminated its affiliation agreements with NBC Radio in July 1956, the company has not yet fully realized a dominant position in all markets but "though we are not No. 1 in every market, we are close enough to it to warrant the thought that we have the momentum to take us there."

On WBC's "behind-the-scenes" night programming concept, which the firm calls "interior programming" and bears the title Program PM, Mr. McGannon declared, "We are off the hook in money" and that it was "encouraging in the advertising" being received.

He said broadcasters expect from agencies more creativity in advertising messages, a diversification of the messages, "leaders in trends and not followers," the use of announcers who fit the products and the audience and beyond that he warned advertisers to "avoid blatancy," talking down to the audience, and extravagant product claims.

"Don't tax the audience, with overlong commercials," he pointed out, "or, worse yet, by trying to jam 70 seconds of copy into a 60-second commercial."

BC&G Tests Symbols for SP; Results Termed 'Inconclusive'

"Inconclusive at best" was the evaluation of subliminal projection after a controlled test administered to executives and staff members of Botsford, Constantine & Gardner, Seattle, at the annual agency meeting Feb. 1.

Fifty-six BC&G staffers from the company's four offices in Seattle, San Francisco, Portland, Ore., and New York, took part in the experiment.

The evaluation of "inconclusive" was made by the radio-tv director of the agency, John Heverly, who conducted the test. Other opinions ranged from "absolute humbug" to "not a fair test."

Ostensibly, the agency staffers were watching a screening of Target, a half-hour Ziv production to be launched soon in 39 markets by BC&G client Olympia Brewing Co., Olympia, Wash. Actually, the screening also was the vehicle for an experiment in subliminal projection.

Mr. Heverly had arranged for the Chevrolet logotype to be flashed subliminally on the screen during the Ziv program. Using a second film projector, he had inserted one frame bearing the symbol in a film loop of black leader. As the leader ran through, no image was projected, but every seven seconds the single frame bearing the symbol was superimposed on the Target film, a total 255 times during the showing.

The second projector had been re-wired with a rheostat in the lamp circuit, enabling the light to be dimmed until it was just below the level of visibility.

After the showing, Mr. Heverly explained what had been done and passed out ballots containing five well-known trademarks. Viewers were asked to pick which symbol he had seen; each was requested at least to hazard a guess. Final tabulation: Tuberculosis Assn. cross, 12; Coca-Cola, 10; Seven-Up, 5; Chevrolet (the correct answer), 5; Shell Oil, 4, and nothing, 4.

Mr. Heverly had studied the SP experiments at WTWZ (TV) Bangor, Me., and felt the "ineffectiveness" of the station's effort might have been due to the use of words rather than symbols. Hence the use of the Chevrolet symbol for the experiment.

Bon Ami Names Weiss & Geller As Agency in Surprise Move

The $1.6 million Bon Ami cleanser account—"at liberty" since late last year when it resigned Erwin Wasey, Ruthrauff & Ryan—has settled upon Weiss & Geller, New York, Bon Ami President V. D. Dardi announced Friday.

Mr. Dardi also announced that Bon Ami's entire marketing program is due for expansion and that the firm shortly would unveil a new product. The firm's last new product, Bon Ami Jet-Spray, was introduced in the fall of 1956, shortly after the account left Norman, Craig & Kummel for Ruthrauff & Ryan. Mr. Dardi also said that Bon Ami powder would come in for stepped-up advertising.

The expanded campaigns will include all media, with television and newspapers receiving the bulk of the allocations. The account last year was estimated at about $1.6 million, with approximately two-thirds in spot radio and spot television activity.

Census to Revise Definition Of Standard Metropolitan Area

Definitions of standard metropolitan areas are being revised by the U. S. Budget Bureau in anticipation of the 1958 manufacturing and distribution censuses, to be taken in 1959, and the 1960 decennial population census. The work is being done by the Federal Standard Metropolitan Area Committee, with Peyton Stapp as chairman.

The committee has been studying metropolitan area development nearly two years and expects to submit tentative definitions for each area within two or three months. These will be subject to review. In essence, the committee decides what counties should be included in each of about 200 metropolitan areas. The Census Bureau will follow these definitions in collecting its manufacturing-distribution and population data in 1959 and 1960. Data submitted by local business groups receives committee study in its redrawing of metropolitan area boundaries.

Tv's Changing 'Rate of Climb' No Cause for Crisis: McGannon

Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. is "unimpressed by today's talk of softness in television," its president, Donald H. McGannon, declared last week.

Mr. McGannon in a talk on radio before the Radio & Television Executives Society's timebuying and selling seminar in New York (see page 74) for a brief interval dwelled on television. WBC is the owner of six radio and five tv outlets in key markets.

Noting that radio—after pessimists had consigned it to the grave—"is now the comeback story of the year," Mr. McGannon asserted:

"And the sowers of doom are now talking about television and what they consider to be softness in industry.

"Just as we had some hopes for radio, we are similarly unimpressed by today's talk of softness in television. It is our opinion for what it is worth, that that talk is evidencing simply a change in 'rate of climb.'

"There isn't anyone... in any part of the television business who had a right to expect a continuation of television's phenomenal rate of growth. What you are seeing is a maturing process and it is to be expected that television's growth in the future will be slower, but steadier."

W. Va. Ad Tax Threat Expires

A threat to extend current consumer sales taxation to West Virginia advertising evaporated for the present, at least, last Thursday night. The measure, introduced in the State House of Delegates, had gone to the Senate. However, it was tabled in committee there and expired when the legislature adjourned Thursday night.

Unlike direct advertising taxation efforts in other areas [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Feb. 3], the West Virginia bill proposed to extend a 2% consumer sales tax to advertising by removing a current exemption on the products and services that retailers use in the conduct of business.

Tom Garten, assistant general manager of WSAT Inc. (WSAT-AM-TV Huntington-Charleston) and president of the West Virginia State Broadcasters Assn., however, pointed out Thursday that there are no assurances that the proposal might not be resurrected at next year's session.

Mathes Seen as VW Agency

Volkswagen G.M.B.H., Wolfsburg, Germany, which several weeks ago instructed its U. S. subsidiary, Volkswagen of America Inc., to go out and find an agency [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Jan. 20], is close to making a decision. At this moment, Heinz Nordhoff, president of the German parent firm, is being asked—by letter from its U. S. branch—to approve the latter's choice of an agency. All indications point to J. M. Mathes Co., New York, since it appears that Mathes is the only agency (out of four screened) that has not been told of its elimination. Among the others talked to: Anderson & Cairns and Roy S. Durstine Inc., both New York.

Ask Dr. Roslow

Ask Dr. Roslow of Pulse which radio station really enjoys the biggest Pulse in Omaha. The latest (December) report says: KOWH. But we had to go ask the Doctor again, because an ad on the front cover of this magazine last week said somebody else was first.

It was bad enough for Pulse to be interpreted incorrectly; but to print Dr. Roslow's photograph as if to remove all doubt—was just too much. So Dr. Roslow has (1) confirmed that KOWH, with an average Pulse of 7.3, is first*; and (2) wired an Omaha radio station asking for a public retraction.

Put your Omaha money ... where the biggest Pulse* is:

KOWH . . . for seven consecutive years at the top in daytime Omaha radio, thanks to programs and personalities that get through to people. Good coverage, too, on 660 kc. Become an Omaha success story. Talk to Adam Young or KOWH General Manager Virgil Sharpe.

A BITTER WEEK FOR THE CHAIRMAN

Doerfer, other FCC members on trial before Schwartz; more to come

Dr. Bernard Schwartz, chief counsel of the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee, spent three days in open hearings last week trying to prove that FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer is unfit to hold that office.

The embattled chief counsel also was hard-pressed to defend his tactics against repeated attacks by individual members of his own subcommittee and the FCC Commissioners. His success on both counts, if any, is dubious at the moment.

The hearings, presided over by Rep. Morgan Moulder (D-Mo.), also were featured by sharp and bitter exchanges between the accuser—Dr. Schwartz—and the accused—Comr. Doerfer and the other commissioners. And, at times, the witness was all but forgotten as the members of the committee exposed their strife-torn ranks to the public.

Furnishing reams of "sensational" copy for the many reporters covering the hearings were frequent, acid clashes among all principals involved. Brought forcibly to the forefront was the fact that Dr. Schwartz has been operating completely independent of the committee members (with possibly two exceptions), keeping them as much in the dark as those he is accusing of misconduct. During the hearings, all of the committee members except Chairman Moulder, Rep. John Moss (D-Calif.), a devout Schwartz follower, and Rep. Peter Mack (D-Ill.), who missed much of the testimony, at one time or another attacked their chief counsel's tactics and methods of questioning Comr. Doerfer.

The other commissioners were scheduled to testify last week also, but only Comr. Doerfer came face to face with his adversary. Comrs. Rosel H. Hyde and Robert T. Burley made repeated demands to face the charges against them, but with one exception, were turned back in every attempt. They will have to wait until this week.

Hearings are scheduled to resume today (Monday) with other commissioners and former commissioners scheduled as witnesses as Dr. Schwartz continues to put teeth into his charges all but two of the commissioners have been guilty of malfeasance, official misconduct, fraternization with industry figures, impropriety and fraud against the government. (The two commissioners not facing charges are T. A. M. Craven and Frederick W. Ford.)

However, the FCC also is scheduled to testify at 10 a.m. this morning (Monday) before the House Independent Offices Appropriation Subcommittee. The subcommittee was to hold an executive meeting last Friday morning [At Deadline, page 9] to decide definitely on next week's schedule and to air the rift within the committee. Other members of the subcommittee, in addition to those already mentioned, are Democrats: Rep. Oren Harris (Ark.), chairman of the parent Commerce Committee, and legislative assistant Joe Sitrick, spent three days in these seats last week as Counsel Bernard Schwartz grilled the chairman on his relations with the industry.

FAMILIAR TRIO: FCC Chairman Doerfer, flanked by General Counsel Warren Baker (l) and legislative assistant Joe Sitrick, spent three days in these seats last week as Counsel Bernard Schwartz grilled the chairman on his relations with the industry.

Essentially, here is the case Dr. Schwartz presented last week against Chairman Doerfer:

That he received industry reimbursement for an October 1954 trip to Oklahoma City and Spokane, Wash., totaling $1,081, plus $296 from the government for the same trip, constituting a "tripultur-ing up" of expenses.

That he collected reimbursement from both industry and government for an August 1954 speaking engagement to Georgia and West Virginia.

That he made several other trips for which he collected both from the government and from the industry.

That he was the guest of broadcaster George B. Storer for a week's vacation in Florida and flew in the multiple-station owner's private plane.

That he was the guest of an airline for a three-day golfing trip at Pinehurst, N. C.

That he had attempted to hide facts from the subcommittee and had refused to cooperate with its staff.

Comr. Doerfer readily admitted to all the trips Dr. Schwartz asked him about, but stoutly defended his actions as proper and becoming to a commissioner. He claimed that in no instance had the industry paid his entire expenses on any trip; that he always combined appearances at industry conventions and speaking trips with legitimate government business; that he had accepted honorariums on numerous occasions which are permitted under law. He stoutly and dramatically defended his honesty, integrity and conduct as a commissioner.

The expected fireworks, which failed to materialize during "general" hearings 10 days ago [Lead Story, Feb. 3], exploded at the start of hearings Monday. Comr. Doerfer, who had expected to be the first witness, immediately asked permission to answer attempts by Dr. Schwartz to "smear" his reputation with distortion and innuendo. After repeated requests to be allowed to make a statement, the FCC chairman was silenced so the chief counsel could call his first witness.

The first witness, Oliver Eastland, assistant chief investigator of the subcommittee, identified several exhibits concerning reimbursement to Comr. Doerfer for his October 1954 trip to Oklahoma City, Spokane, Wash., and back to Washington, D. C. They were:

(1) Government authorization for Comr. Doerfer's trips; (2) government travel voucher for the Oklahoma City to Spokane to Washington portion of trip for $240.65; (3) voucher claiming $55.50 government reimbursement for expenses; (4) voucher showing government indebtedness to American Airlines for, among others, Doerfer's trip; (5) government check for $792.80 to American Airlines paying exhibit No. 4 (above), and (6) government check for $55.50 to Mr. Doerfer paying for exhibit No. 3 (above).

Mr. Doerfer interrupted to give his version and was silenced. Some committee members objected because they had no copies of exhibits.

Attorney Frank Fletcher next appeared for his client, Edgar Bell, executive vice president of KWTW (TV) Oklahoma City. KWTW's records on the Doerfer trip to Oklahoma City for the dedication of the station's new tower had been subpoenaed by the committee.

Mr. Fletcher said he recommended that KWTW not furnish the data except under subpoena. Dr. Schwartz asked him to identify the following exhibits:

(7) KWTW authorization for purchase of Mr. & Mrs. Doerfer's airplane ticket to Washington, D.C.. $165.12; (8) ledger of Skirvin Hotel, Oklahoma City, showing the Doerfers spent two days there for $34.47; (9) hotel statement showing KWTW paid the $34.47; (10) copy of Oct. 22, 1954, letter from KWTW to Mr. Doerfer enclosing the Doerfers' return from Oklahoma City to Washington; (11) KWTW check to Mr. Doerfer for $165.12, covering return trip to Washington which was never made (Mr. Doerfer three weeks ago returned this check), and (12) letter from FCC chairman to KWTW concerning the trip.

The third witness called, in an attempt to show Comr. Doerfer collected "triple" expenses for his Oklahoma City-Spokane trip, was Robert K. Richards, administrative vice president of NAB at the time of the trip. He testified on money paid Mr. Doerfer by NAB from the Doerfer's return from Washington to Spokane, etc.

Mr. Richards, now a Washington public relations consultant, was asked to identify the following exhibits: (13) bill from Hotel Davenport, Spokane, for $141.16 representing the Doerfers' expenses; (14) voucher showing NAB paid this bill; (15) letter from Comr. Doerfer to Mr. Richards confirming $575 figure agreed as "reasonable" for Spokane appearance; (16) memo from Mr. Richards' office to the late C. E. Arney, Jr., former NAB secretary-treasurer, asking that $575 check be sent to R. M. Brown, district director of NAB Spokane district meeting, for forwarding to Comr. Doerfer; (17) invoice showing $575 check, and (18) NAB canceled check for $575 made out to Mr. Brown.

Dr. Schwartz then and later tried to show the Doerfers' was something "unsual" about the way the $575 payment was handled by NAB. He implied there was an attempt to cover up the payment. Mr. Richards denied this, stating the method was merely a bookkeeping matter between NAB and its district.

He stated Comr. Doerfer was reluctant to accept the Spokane engagement. Mr. Richards said he approved payment of it reasonable and would have approved much more. The figure was agreed on, the witness testified, after Comr. Doerfer returned to Washington.

How FCC replied to Moulder questions

Subcommittee Chairman Moulder asked the FCC to last fall to answer a number of questions that related to the communications industry. The commissioners at first demurred, asking for a meeting to clarify how detailed their replies must be. After the conference each FCC commissioner wrote an individual reply. The following are texts of those letters, read into the hearing record last week.

DOERFER LETTER Dec. 30, 1957

On behalf of the FCC, I wish to thank you for your conference clarifying the nature of the information requested in your letter of Oct. 15, 1957.

Typical gifts received during the holidays from firms and individuals in the communications field have consisted of a variety of articles ranging from fruit, candies,-smokes, ashtrays, bowI, flowers, dates, nuts, paper weights pencils, calendars, books, etc. None of these were ever solicited or suggested by me. At no time have I borrowed any money from any member of the industry, and no industry people—played some golf and tried some fishing with me.

I have had numerous luncheons with various individuals in the communications industry. I have undertaken no duties both as a commissioner and as chairman. I have attended conventions, conferences, dedications, and demonstrations. Occasionally I have accepted honorariums but not in any substantial amounts—and never from a licensee—only from organizations in appreciation of a discussion.

If I can be of further assistance to you, please advise.

HYDE LETTER Jan. 7, 1958

I refer you to your letter of Oct. 3, 1957, which was the subsequent letter which you accorded the members of the FCC.

I have been associated with the Communications Commission since it was organized in 1934, either as a staff employee or member. From 1939 until 1958, I served in various positions of the staff of the Federal Radio Commission. I was appointed to the office of commissioner in April of 1948 and was reappointed in 1952.

I have not at any time nor has any member of my family or any other individual whom I have ever had a close personal relationship with, nor have we received any gifts or favors from any individual or group, from any industry, or from any person or group, and the list is not, nor has it been, and the people interested in communications in the communications field. These gifts have been divided not only among my associates, but among others who have been equally interested in those matters.

With respect to any and all of the foregoing, it never occurred to me to either prepare a list or to undertake to attach any value to any such things. Moreover, I can state categorically that the receipt of these items has not in any way influenced my judgment, or as a commissioner.

Neither I nor members of my family have received any items or gifts from any person or group specified in paragraph one of your letter, any loans, fees or other

Comr. Doerfer again attempted to intervene and prompted the first of many heated exchanges among committee members. Rep. John W. Heselton (R-Mass.) then objected to the rules laid down by the chairman. Comr. Doerfer: "Do I understand I have no right to object to any—?" Cutting him off in mid-sentence, Rep. Moulder iterated: "The chairman will not permit any more vexatious delays or interruptions."

The battle of the behemoths over the vexatious—Rep. Bennett began. He, too, was cut off as Rep. Moulder snapped: "I think your position is clear."

This first open hostility within the committee, just before noon recess, was a forewarning of increasingly antagonistic exchanges to come.

Under questioning by committee members, Mr. Richards said he had been queried in his office by Baron Shacklette, the sub-payments of any kind, including but not limited to travel, vacations, hotel or other accommodations, etc.

My financial transactions have been limited to travel expenses, as well as periodic borrowing from the FCC Credit Union, mainly for the purpose of financing the purchase of new equipment. I might add that the only income other than my salary that I have received in the capacity of consultant to the commission for publication in Look magazine several years ago for which I received $500, is not included in my income tax return for 1956.

I might add that since my official travel expenses have been covered by the commission, I have reflected these factors in my income tax return. I have not received any honorarium. When Dr. Heselton, Rep. Doerfer and other members of the committee expressed a desire to examine the hotel or other accommodations, memberships, etc., I have attended these events but have not considered it necessary to keep a detailed record on the questions presented by them.

I might also add that I have not listed any hotel or other accommodations, memberships, etc., on any of my income tax returns.

With reference to your letter of Oct. 3, 1957, I answer to each of your specific questions is "NONE":

I assume that you did not intend to include within the category of miscellaneous expenses promotional material such as a desk paper weighed down with various products, or other obvious advertising material, or material received at the Christmas season which relates to the product of a state in the form of edibles.

I also assume that you did not intend to include within the category of entertainment such affairs as lunches of the FCC Bar Association, their annual dinner, other official functions such as the Gridiron dinner, and similar types of dinners or receptions given by various people connected with the communications industry.

I have made a few trips while I have been in office such as attendance at national conventions, meetings of associations, conferences with the government of Colorado and ex-Sen. Ed Johnson, and various allegedly illegal television "boosters," and similar trips. While these trips have been somewhat limited due to the shortness of my time, I may point out that in this rapidly changing dynamic art of communications, I feel that it is essential that I hold no memberships in any organization that is not connected with the commission or associated with the commission.

There have been instances when I have received items such as a box of celery, cheese, phonograph records, candy, cigars, preserves, books, apples, etc., in every instance. I have occasionally attended luncheons, dinners and receptions where my host was a licensee, a network representative, or an attorney who appears before the commission; also persons engaged in the production business. I have attended such occasions in private homes, restaurants, etc.

I hold no memberships in any organization that is not associated with the commission. Only on a few occasions, have I attended such occasions in private homes, restaurants, etc.

For your information, I should point out that I was nominated for the present position by the President of the U.S. on May 18, 1956, while a part time engineer for Craven Engineering Firm of Craven Lohrns & Culver.

On Monday, Dec. 18, 1956, and Tuesday, Dec. 19, 1956, I was present at hearings on radio and television operations at the expense of the commission. I have not received any honorarium or travel expenses for attending these hearings.

This is in reply to your letter of Oct. 3, 1957, as chairman of the Subcommitte on Legislative Oversight, in which you seek information, since my appointment in August. I or any member of my family have received any loans, fees, benefits, travel, etc., directly or indirectly, from or on behalf of any person or group having any direct or indirect interest in any matters subject at any time to the jurisdiction of the Commission.

Since becoming a member of the Commission, I have received numerous items of a promotional nature at the request of various newspapers, magazines, etc., which I have either given back to the sender, have read, and all of which had a nominal value. I have paid all of my travel expenses, including hotels, meals and dinners, on behalf of various organizations in the broadcast industry. These members of the commission have been valued companions in my office, etc., have been very valuable to me in becoming acquainted with various competing problems of which I did not obtain an immediate knowledge as a member of the commission's staff for a number of years, and to become acquainted with some of the people in the industry, whom I did not already know. I have also received a number of social gatherings given by telephone users who have been long time friends and neighbors, but it is my understanding that you are not interested in matters of that kind, nor in stock which may be owned by the church which I attend.

I have obtained two loans since returning to the commission, both from commercial banks. I have given the details of the arrangements I have made to pay these loans, either to the individuals or to the banks.

COUNSEL Bernard Schwartz (l) in conference with Rep. John Most, who with Chairman Moulder is one of the two members who consistently side with the counsel.

committee’s chief investigator. He said that at Mr. Shacklette’s suggestion, he detailed the circumstances of Comr. Doerfer’s trip in a letter to Dr. Schwartz.

Mr. Shacklette later returned the letter (counsel’s exhibit 19) as unacceptable because the words “expenses” and “reimbursement” had not been used. Mr. Richards said he then wrote a second letter he thought would be mutually acceptable, but refused to sign it when “expenses” and “reimbursement” were penciled in.

At this point, Mr. Richards told the committee, “I had been waltzed around the dance floor long enough and I would like to come up and meet the orchestra [Dr. Schwartz].” He said an offer to discuss the matter with the chief counsel never was accepted.

Mr. Richards told both Dr. Schwartz and later Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.) that he didn’t know exactly what the $575 payment was for but assumed it covered “expenses” not an honorarium.

Rep. Harris thought it was “unusual.” Mr. Richards did not know what the payment was for.

The next witness, NAB President Harold Fells, stated the association had never paid nor considered paying an honorarium to a commissioner. Dr. Schwartz then asked Mr. Fells if a letter had been drafted for his signature outlining expenses NAB would pay FCC members and specifically banning payment of honorariums to them. Mr. Fells replied he did not know of such a letter.

He said that although he had issued no instructions to Mr. Richards regarding the payment of a fee or expenses to Comr. Doerfer and his wife, the actual payment had been cleared with him.

The “propriety” of paying honorariums has not been considered by NAB since he has been president, Mr. Fells said, admitting payments “as high as $500” have been paid public officials in the past. Honorariums have not been an issue in any way, shape or manner,” the witness emphasized.

Chief Investigator Shacklette was asked to identify a letter (exhibit 20) from Mr. Arney to Mr. Brown explaining the $575 payment; a letter (exhibit 21) from Burl C. Hagadone (president of KNEW Spokane) to Mr. Brown on the same subject, and a personal check (exhibit 22) on the account by Mr. Hagadone payable to Comr. Doerfer. Mr. Hagadone was one of the directors of the Spokane meeting.

In his letter, Mr. Hagadone suggested the NAB check be deposited in his personal account and he then would “wait a few days” and send the money to Comr. Doerfer. “This is going a long way around but should achieve the desired results . . .” Mr. Hagadone said in the letter to Mr. Brown. Just what were the “desired results” was not explained.

Dr. Schwartz, asked that the 22 exhibits be made part of the official record, which brought a protest from Rep. O’Hara, who said an appropriate foundation had not been laid for inclusion of the chief counsel’s exhibits.

Rep. Moulder ruled the subcommittee would decide on the exhibits later.

Com. Doerfer, however, was called to testify. He first read a prepared statement, then spoke 10 minutes in an impassioned defense of his actions. He stated:

“We of the FCC are here today to discuss innuendoes that have been leveled against the integrity of the members of the Commission in the newspapers. . . . It is my right as a public official and as a citizen to object strongly to the process of smearings reputations by distortions and innuendo.

“I have now read the so-called confidential memorandum. It is the work of a man who either does not understand or does not wish to understand the responsibilities of the FCC. This memorandum makes it appear that the members of the FCC are judges and only judges. It implies that most of their time is spent in deciding cases between litigants. . . . In probably 90% of our work, we do not act as judges but as legislators and executives.

“Just as you [congressmen] do, we see people who are interested in legislation. Just as you do, we keep our doors open and discuss anything that can contribute to this type of legislation. It is naive to think that it is possible to legislate without conversations and conferences with people who know problems of the particular industry . . . .

“I do not know how a commission can handle its rule-making problems by consultation with industry without conflicting individual members of the industry . . . .

“Probably 10% of our work involves litigated matters. In such cases, we sit as judges. When I sit as judge, I act as judge. When I have matters for decision between litigants, I do not discuss these matters with either side or for that matter with anyone. But the time I am a legislator or an executive, I have no such restriction to solve some of the great problems confronting communications in this country, I will talk to anyone . . . in my office . . . on the steps of the Capitol or at lunch with him at any public restaurant . . . .

“Your counsel assumes that a public official like the FCC commissioner is not an independent person who is not subject to personal pressures. The FCC commissioner is a kind of venal sin. These industry conventions . . . consist of people who are competitors among themselves . . . who are striving in competition one against the other. When a commissioner attends one of these industry conventions, which has to do with his industry, who is he going to favor? Is it the man who sits at the left of the table, the right of the table or in the center?

“Your counsel is in error in his concern about color television sets. The color television set he seems to think of as a plaything for the FCC commissioner is in fact one of the tools of their trade. The Supreme Court has ruled that these sets were supplied secretly and for personal use of the commissioners. The facts are that television sets from industry have been used by com-

Another chairman says he was ‘smeared’

Rep. Morgan Moulder (D-Mo.) last week charged that opponents of his Legislative Oversight Subcommittee investigation of regulatory agencies are “trying to smear and discredit” me personally. The chairman of the subcommittee was referring to a Feb. 1 story in the Chicago Tribune stating his daughter was on his office payroll from 1952-56 and was paid $12,132 while she still was attending a Camdenton, Mo., high school [CLOSED CIRCUIT, Feb. 3].

Also last week, Rep. Claire Hoffman (R-Mich.) entered the Tribune article into the Congressional Record and made a statement under the heading “Glass Houses and Stones.” Rep. Hoffman himself has, in the past, been a target of columnist Drew Pearson, who in the past three weeks has devoted several articles to alleged attempts to“whitewash” the Moulder investigations.

Rep. Hoffman said he had no comment “as to whether the young lady who was employed by our colleague earned or did not earn the sums paid her.” He stated Rep. Moulder should have advised members of his committee “of the situation” before he spread “alleged shortcomings of individuals in the present executive department over the front pages of the newspapers.”

“`This is an attempt to smear and discredit me because of the work I am doing on the subcommittee,’ Rep. Moulder said of the Tribune story. He said his opponents, without naming them, had been circulating 1956 campaign charges. He said his daughter, Marcia, worked in his Washington office in the summers of 1952-54 and for two full years in his Missouri office.

The newspaper pointed out that Rep. Moulder’s daughter was only 15 years old when she was first placed on the payroll in December 1952. During 1953, she was paid $5,812 by the government, the Tribune quoted House records as showing.
Two heads that tell a surprising tale

Think the Washington Metropolitan Area is made up of Federal Govt. employees? You're 37.4% right. The other 62.6% of the area's wage earners are engaged in every business, profession or service you find in any other thriving metropolitan center. A grand total of 812,000 employed—diversified, well-paid, constantly growing—up 21%, in fact, during the last seven years.*

How to best reach this dual market? You need only one head to answer that one! WWDC Radio was first or a mighty close second in every PULSE survey of 1957. We have a simple formula—to be a listenable station to our 2,000,000-plus area audience, and a promotional station to our hundreds of national and local advertisers. The mutually happy result—ever-increasing listeners for us, ever-increasing sales for you.

SUFFICIENT FUNDS

The House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee last week turned up what was described as a "unique" act—that Comr. T. A. M. Craven returned a check to the Maryland-D. C. Broadcasters Assn. The check, for approximately $60, was sent to cover Comr. Craven's hotel expenses incurred during an appearance before the association's convention last spring at Ocean Beach, Md.

Comr. Craven said he was unable to get a payment by the broadcasters.

missioners to obtain information and observe practices in the industry. . . .

". . . we also must keep up with the development of studios and stations. We must observe towers and terrains. We must keep abreast of the industry of radio and television broadcasting so that we can make sensible decisions on new applications. We must try to learn why expected developments such as uhf failed to live up to expectations in providing a larger national competitive television system.

"Your counsel has picked upon a particular trip of mine where I delivered an address at a district meeting of the NARTB (NAB). For that address I received an honorarium which is a fee of a reasonable amount. The entire amount consisted of $375 of which about $275 went for my wife's fare and I retained the balance of $300.

Sec. 4(b) Unduly Overlooked

"Congress in 1952 enacted Section 4(b) of the Communications Act. That section reads in its relevant portion as follows:

'. . . Such commissioners shall not engage in any other business, vocation, profession, or employment; but this shall not apply to the presentation or delivery of publications or papers for which a reasonable honorarium or compensation may be accepted.'

"I charge that the counsel for this subcommittee has acted with questionable propriety in the following respects:

"1. Nowhere in the confidential memorandum was it brought to the attention of the members of this subcommittee that there is such a statute as Sec. 4(b). . . .

"2. Nowhere was it disclosed in the confidential memorandum by counsel that upon being asked about the Spokane trip, I stated that I have received an honorarium of $300. . . .

"3. The confidential memorandum was leaked to the press without any reference whatever to the rights of the members of the FCC granted by Congress to take such reasonable compensation and was never corrected.

"4. The Comptroller General of the U. S. was apparently asked for an opinion without being given all the facts. I believe that your counsel in drafting the letter to the Comptroller General, as well, failed to mention Sec. 4(b) . . . although that section must have been called to his attention by his staff.

"By this method of omission, he has sought to create doubts about my integrity. I resent his method and his inference. I know that I accepted these several hundred dollars as a reasonable honorarium for delivery of an address in Spokane as I accepted honorariums on other occasions. I know that the statute enacted by Congress permitted me to do so.

"I came to Washington a man of modest means. I am still a man of modest means. I followed my conscience in deciding every matter that came before me. I have done the best I know how and I am willing to subject my record to the sharpest scrutiny. I am here to answer questions about my official conduct over the past five years.

Comr. Doerfer then gave his version of the five-day Oklahoma City-Spokane trip. He said he also inspected TV facilities at Tulsa and Muskogee, both Oklahoma, Denver, Salt Lake City, and Boise, Idaho, which was government business and permitted the filing of per diem. Also he said, several hours were spent in Spokane on purely government business.

Comr. Doerfer told the subcommittee he was "here today to defend, not myself, but an action of Congress" in putting Sec. 4(b) into the Communications Act. "When Congress passed that law, it knew what it was doing. . . . If I did wrong, and I deny it, that is a mousetrap statute. . . . That is my case. You may proceed with the questions, Proposed Legislation.

(This statement by Comr. Doerfer brought a round of applause and laughter from the packed audience and the chair had to gavel for order. And, the "mousetrap" remark came back to haunt the Commissioner the next day when Dr. Schwartz asked several times, in cutting terms, if he had "mousetrapped" the witness.)

Dr. Schwartz did, indeed, proceed with the questions, keeping Comr. Doerfer on the witness stand, with only two interruptions, until Wednesday afternoon.

Comr. Doerfer explained that at no time was the amount NAB would pay him mentioned prior to the trip. Upon returning, he said, Mr. Richards called to ask, "How much do we owe you?" The witness related his wife's airplane ticket came to $275.

Comr. Doerfer accepted responsibility for first mentioning the $375 figure and said he was acting under a reasonable interpretation of Sec. 4(b). He said neither he nor Mr. Richards ever mentioned an honorarium, although he considered $300 of the total as such.

Dr. Schwartz asked Comr. Doerfer if he felt Sec. 4(b) permitted him to make a personal profit at government expense. "That's a nasty way to put it," the commissioner replied. He said if the association paid him for making a speech during a trip which also includes government business, that is perfectly proper.

Comr. Doerfer, after being accused of "doubling-up" on his expenses, was excused at 4 p.m. so Comptroller General Joseph Campbell could testify.

Mr. Campbell said the subcommittee solicited his views, in a letter dated Dec. 2, 1957, on the propriety of certain practices of commissioners. He stressed that no individual names were mentioned and the cases were hypothetical.
...AND FIRST IN LISTENER POPULARITY FOR THE LAST FOUR PULSE PERIODS

"Where an officer or employee of the government is furnished transportation without charge for all or any part of a particular trip he is entitled to claim transportation expenses as such only to the extent of the money he has expended out of his own pocket. . . . However, if only some of the subsistence expenses are paid by outside agencies and this situation is anticipated by the administrative officials, it would be incumbent upon such officials to take these circumstances into consideration in fixing the rate of per diem," the comptroller general stated.

He said a commissioner is prohibited from receiving per diem and traveling expenses from the government and in addition having any expenses paid by a group subject to the agency's regulatory authority.

On the acceptance of industry gifts, Mr. Campbell said the more expensive gifts and the payment of hotel bills and traveling expenses by outside agencies "gives rise to serious doubts as to their propriety. In my opinion, such practice is not in keeping with the conduct which the public demands of government officials and should not be condoned. . . ."

Mr. Campbell also said he felt the payment of travel expenses for government officials and their wives is prohibited by the U. S. Code. However, he called attention to Sec. 4 (b) of the Communications Act and cited an opposite view taken by the Attorney General. "Nevertheless, we do not believe that the Congress intended to authorize receipt of an honorarium or compensation in those instances where presentation or delivery of publications or papers is considered a part of the official duties of a commissioner and for which he would not be entitled to receive any compensation or reimbursement from the government."

On this point, Mr. Campbell thought Sec. 4 (b) would be applicable only when a commissioner performed a service not connected with the broadcasting industry. Sec. 4 (b) was not mentioned in the subcommittee's letter to the comptroller general, a contention made by Comr. Doerfer before the subcommittee's letter became public.

Mr. Campbell then was subjected to several "if" questions by members of the committee. He promised an answer as soon as his staff could supply them.

In the opinion of many of those present, including some committee members, Mr. Campbell contradicted statements he had made in at least two instances. One concerned the per diem a commissioner is permitted to accept. He also had difficulty citing a statute to back up his contention.

The comptroller general stated he disagreed with a 1922 opinion by the Attorney General which permits commissioners to travel at industry expense.

Several other federal regulatory agencies have their general counsel investigating the matter and are taking issue with the testimony.

Comrs. Rosel H. Hyde and Robert T. Bartley both released statements Monday, but neither was permitted on the witness stand except to read letters addressed to Rep. Moulder.

"Comr. Hyde "emphatically" denied that "any of his acts as a government official warrant charges of official misconduct." He hit the committee for not furnishing specifications of charges. "However, grievous and continuing injury being caused by circulation in the press of vague charges, with all manner of implications, seeing from committee sources require me to reply as best I can without knowing that specifics may later be asserted," he said.

Comr. Hyde then listed the six broad specifications outlined by Dr. Schwartz and categorically denied any wrong doing under each. His statement continued:

"As might be expected, from my years of service I have acquired a wide acquaintance in the industry, and it is my opinion, such practice is not in keeping with the conduct which the public demands of government officials and should not be condoned. . . ."

"The type of charge and such background information as has been supplied carries the inference that I may have misused my office to favor some segments of the industry or that I may in some way have permitted my judgment to be influenced by matters outside the hearing record. . . ."

"I respectfully request in the interest of fairness that consideration be given to the position I have taken in every case of record for any evidence whatsoever of favoritism, inconsistency or judgment not supported by the record. . . ."

Comr. Doerfer said he had presented a strong denial of any charges made against him and included in his statement several documents to back up his record. Among them was a copy of his dissent to Commission decisions favoring multiple owners. Denying ex-parte relations with litigants, he said: "The facts are that I simply do not allow parties to discuss the merits of any pending hearing case with me."

He said the Commission "is not a court even though much of the staff memorandum . . . seems to be based on such a premise."

Comr. Doerfer returned Tuesday morning with a strongly-worded, emotional attack on the tactics of Dr. Schwartz. He charged the chief counsel had left the impression that he received $792 reimbursement from the government on the Oklahoma City-Spokane trip, when the actual figure was $240. Brandishing a pencil at Dr. Schwartz, Comr. Doerfer explained: "This is one of the reasons I charge the counsel with impropriety." He charged the counsel with failing to ask him, prior to the hearings, about the trip. "I have been seriously maligned in the eyes of the public," he said. Dr. Schwartz later took issue with Mr. Doerfer's willingness to cooperate and the following day (Wednesday) called Mr. Shacklette back as a rebuttal witness.

Under questioning, Comr. Doerfer said he had declared the $575 NAB payment on his income tax statement. The counsel then asked if the $165 check from KWTV was an honorarium and the witness said it was not and that, in fact, he had returned the check to the station about two weeks ago.

Comr. Doerfer said he had been under the impression he had paid for the Washington-Oklahoma City leg of the trip and had discovered KWTV actually paid for it only when he learned the trip was being investigated. The check had been accepted by "mistake," he said, because his secretary handles all such arrangements of this type.

He had signed a blank check to pay for airline tickets, he said, and turned it over to his secretary. Comr. Doerfer expressed doubt that he even read the covering letter with the check. "I did what any honest man would do," the witness stated in explaining the "mistake."

Dr. Schwartz accused Comr. Doerfer of "conjurin' up" the blank check idea and returning the $165 only when he discovered the subcommittee was investigating the matter. Accusing Comr. Doerfer of trip lining up on his expenses, the counsel asked: "Was it a mistake or a method of omission?"

Comr. Doerfer said the KWTV check was not discussed in his prepared statement because it had been returned, at which point counsel Schwartz asked if he "mousetrapped" the witness in preparing his statement. Dr. Schwartz asked Comr. Doerfer if he accused counsel of "creating misrepresentations." Comr. Doerfer's reply: "Yes. You at no time mentioned Sec. 4 (b) to the comptroller general or asked my interpretation. That is the least you could do."

After being asked "if you or your family" had taken trips at the expense of organizations regulated by the FCC, Comr. Doerfer replied: "I certainly have received and accepted transportation with groups we regulate."

Dr. Schwartz asked Comr. Doerfer to cite instances of such trips. It was brought out that Comr. Doerfer attended the dedication of WNDA (TV) South Bend, Ind., partly at the expense of licensee Notre Dame U. He charged the government 2 1/2 days per diem ($30) for the trip, stating he also had spent time inspecting facilities and in other government activities.

He emphatically denied the university paid all his expenses.

The counsel asked about other trips and Comr. Doerfer asked what trips Dr. Schwartz wanted to know about. This brought protests of "repetition" and "improper questions" from committee members.

At the insistence of the counsel, Comr. Doerfer started reading from a prepared list of trips he had taken:

To Pittsburgh with travel expenses paid by host, educational WQED (TV). To Lancaster, Pa., for a station dedication.

To Emporium, Pa. (guest of Sylvania), and

An 'honorarium' and a 'mistake'

These exhibits were among the big guns in Counsel Bernard Schwartz' attack on FCC Chairman John Doerfer last week. He used them to substantiate his charges that Chairman Doerfer had accepted favors and outright cash from industry organizations and individuals.

The principal charge: that Chairman Doerfer had accepted $575 from the NAB for expenses on a Spokane speaking trip in 1954, had accepted $165 from KWTV (TV) Oklahoma City for unused plane fare, and then had charged the government for the same trips. This, said Counsel Schwartz, was triple payment. That, said Chairman Doerfer, was humbug.

Mr. Doerfer explained that he considered the NAB payment an "honorarium or compensation" which under a 1952 amendment to the Communications Act was perfectly legal. The KWTV check, he explained, he thought at the time was reimbursement for air travel to Oklahoma City in 1954. Three weeks ago he discovered the "mistake" and returned the money.

Springfield, Mass. (guest of Committee for Competitive TV), to study operation of satellite stations.

To the Timken Roller Bearing Co., Canton, Ohio, to observe industrial uses of radio.

To Princeton, N. J. (guest of RCA), during the controversy on compatible color.

In August 1954, to St. Simons Island, Ga., and White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., to address state broadcasting association meetings. In both instances, Comr. Doerfer said, the associations paid "part of my expenses" plus $100 honorariums.

Objecting committee members finally prevailed over the chief counsel’s questioning tactics as Comr. Doerfer was attempting to recollect the past five years. Rep. Harris suggested the witness be permitted to file trips not mentioned in a later statement.

Rep. Moulder opened the Wednesday morning session (with Comr. Doerfer again on the stand) by announcing he had received a telegram from the American Civil Liberties Union asking that Comr. Doerfer be permitted the right of cross-examination. On the insistence of Rep. Williams, the telegram was read into the record.

Testimony was frequently interrupted by clashes among members of the subcommittee, between the congressmen and their chief counsel and by the attempts of Comrs. Hyde and Bartley to make statements on their behalf.

The first clash was precipitated when Dr. Schwartz began attacking the character and credibility of Comr. Doerfer. Dr. Schwartz claimed the FCC chairman had refused to discuss the Oct. 3, 1957, questionnaire with Mr. Shacklette.

Reps. O’Hara, Harris, Flynt, Williams, Heselton, Hale and Bennett at one time or another objected vigorously to the counsel’s line of questioning. Rep. Harris said the committee was not sitting to determine the credibility of the witness, while Dr. Schwartz contended the technique was necessary because of the nature of the charges.

The counsel protested that the FCC was trying to shift the “burden of furnishing information” from itself to the staff and that committee members were allowing it. The FCC was the only one of six agencies which failed to supply requested information, Dr. Schwartz stated.

Dr. Schwartz then sought to submit what he called documentary proof Comr. Doerfer had not cooperated. Rep. Flynt interrupted, saying argumentative statements between counsel and witness should not be permitted.

After several other heated exchanges between the congressmen and counsel Schwartz, Chairman Moulder temporarily restored order. Thereupon, for the fifth time, Dr. Schwartz asked Comr. Doerfer if he told Mr. Shacklette he would not answer the questionnaire.

Rep. Harris objected and asked for a point of order, but before Rep. Moulder could rule, Dr. Schwartz withdrew the question and asked: “Did you refuse Mr. Shacklette access to your files?”

“No, emphatically no,” Comr. Doerfer replied and asked that Mr. Shacklette be returned to the witness stand and that he have the privilege of cross-examination. A new battle among the committee members ensued.

Rep. Harris repeated his earlier stand that this would be against all rules and traditions.

Rep. Bennett repeated his charges of a “criminal indictment” and demanded the commissioners be furnished specific charges with the right to cross-examine.

Chairman Moulder, after considerable difficulty, restored order and questioning continued. Dr. Schwartz asked if the FCC chairman had told Mr. Shacklette he would answer questions only at a public hearing.

“That is not a fact,” Comr. Doerfer replied, and this time Dr. Schwartz asked that investigator Shacklette be returned to the stand. The committee refused and the interrogator again turned his questions to the Oklahoma City trip.

Rep. Flynt immediately asked Rep. Moulder if he were going to permit the same testimony already gone over several times before. “If so,” he said, “I’ve got other things to do.” In defense, Dr. Schwartz maintained the witness had changed his testimony of the previous day.

But Rep. Moulder shortly ruled enough questioning had been asked on the Oklahoma trip. Dr. Schwartz then returned to the Georgia-West Virginia speech-making trip by Comr. Doerfer. It was developed that Mr. and Mrs. Doerfer made the 9-day trip by private auto. The commissioner collected from the government (1) $33.75 in per diem payments (which, Mr. Doerfer said, amounted to just over $3 per day); (2) $18.40 for miscellaneous expenses, and (3) $115.99 for travel.

The commissioner said he also received $100 honorariums from both associations, that they paid hotel bills and that he spent considerable deal of time inspecting broadcasting facilities and gaining knowledge of the industry. Dr. Schwartz then touched off the next major battle by asking what expenses Comr. Doerfer possibly could have incurred not paid for by the associations.

Rep. Bennett released a strong objection to the question, and, as a point of order, saying “criminal” charges should be spelled-out, again asking what type of proceeding the subcommittee was holding, and again reading into the record Dr. Schwartz’s contentions of a criminal offense.

Rep. Williams asked his chief counsel what the line of questioning purported to prove. Dr. Schwartz replied he was attempting to show the “close relationship” between the commissioners and the industry they regulate.

The Constitution requires that “we give him [Comr. Doerfer] the same right as any other defendant in court.” Rep. Bennett contended in re-entering the controversy. He then asked Dr. Schwartz his opinion of letting Comr. Doerfer cross-examine, but Rep. Moulder ruled an answer was not required.

Rep. Moss, also a staunch ally of Dr. Schwartz and his tactics, then entered the “discussion” for the first time. He said the dispute actually was a “technical” one, a view disputed both publicly and privately by other committee members.

Rep. Bennett, who several times had demanded, “What kind of a proceeding is this?” finally got a partial answer from Rep. Moulder, who said Dr. Schwartz was attempting to bring out the individual conduct of the commissioner.

Rep. Williams asked: “Are you attempts- ing to prove Mr. Doerfer stole $33.17?”

In a long, legalistic presentation, Dr. Schwartz said the personal caliber of the commissioners must be determined and that if they are not of the proper moral stature, they are not qualified to serve as commissioners.

Rep. Williams retorted: “You have been...

Dr. Schwartz contended the facts speak for themselves and they do show "impropriety" on the part of Comr. Doerfer. He said all the commissioner's possible expenses had been paid by the broadcasters, yet he claimed and received $154.19 from the government. The Mississippi Democrat still felt his question had not been answered and asked for a simple "yes" or "no." Chairman Moulder ruled a "yes" or "no" answer was not required.

With tempers obviously reaching the breaking point, Rep. Wolverton discreetly reminded the chairman it was about time for a short recess, which immediately was ordered.

Upon returning, Rep. Moulder announced that the chief counsel was to stick to direct questions about specific matters. Dr. Schwartz then asked Comr. Doerfer about the following trips he had made and in most instances allegedly received "double" com-

1948 LAUNDRY TO BE AIRED AGAIN

This may come as a shock to Dr. Bernard Schwartz, embattled chief counsel of the Legislative Oversight Subcommittee, but Frank (Scoop) Russell, NBC Washington vice president, already has testified at great length before the Senate on RCA television sets loaned to the commissioners and placed in their homes. In May 1948, Mr. Russell was called before the Senate Interstate & Foreign Commerce Committee during hearings on "Progress of FM Radio and RCA Patent Policies." The only difference between then and now is that color was not available at that time.

Mr. Russell told the Senate the sets were first placed in commissioners' homes in November 1946—and they have been there ever since. He said they were a loan, not a gift, and were claimed by RCA when an individual left the Commission. Mr. Russell stated at that time—and reportedly will repeat at this hearing—

"The mere implication or the inference that men who have devoted so much time to public service are going to be swayed in our behalf [by the tv sets] ... is thoroughly unjustified. I do not believe that you can take men of that type and sway them with such a loan. It stands to reason, of course, that they are going to learn something about television, and that is in the interest of NBC and RCA and all manufacturers of sets."

committee could have avoided all of its current difficulty. He asked that all commissioners be directed to supply such an accounting, plus detailed answers to Rep.

Comr. Hyde interrupted the counsel-committee's argument from the audience with a scathing attack on the Schwartz tactics as "unreasonable and unconscionable." In a voice near the breaking point, he said:

"We have been charged with misconduct. Allegations have been circulated to the press. I request that counsel has no right to expect for such charges he should produce them and give us a chance to meet them. He should not be permitted to bring us here and try to exact basis for charges already made and publicized. It is my understanding that the committee directed the staff to give us specifications. This has not been done."

He said the committee had no right to expect the commissioners to take the witness stand and convict themselves of charges they know nothing about.

Dr. Schwartz countered with an attack on the commissioners, who, he said, comprise the only agency which had failed to furnish the requested information. A lengthy discussion among committee members followed, with nothing settled.

Comr. Bartley, also speaking up from the audience, demanded that he be sworn in and allowed to read his letter to Chairman Moulder answering the subcommittee's questionnaire. "Since Oct. 3, my character and integrity have been clouded, he said in pleading for the opportunity to speak. He took the oath and proceeded to read his letter (see text, page 50) just prior to the noon recess.

In a further attack on the credibility of Comr. Doerfer, Dr. Schwartz returned Mr. Shacklette to the stand at the start of Wednesday afternoon session. The investigator described a November meeting with Comr. Doerfer during which, he charged, the FCC chairman refused to discuss the questionnaire with any member of the staff. "I have a very definite recollection" of what was said, Mr. Shacklette testified.

He said Comr. Doerfer expressed a "led-up and exaggerated" attitude toward the actions of the staff. According to the testimony, Mr. Doerfer said if Dr. Schwartz had come to him with allegations, he would have been happy to discuss them. Now, however, he would not furnish any information except in an open hearing. The subcommittee had gone behind his back, the commissioner was quoted as saying.

In answering a question by Rep. Harris, Mr. Shacklette said Mr. Doerfer had never been antagonistic and always had been "friendly, certainly not uncooperative." He also admitted that Comr. Doerfer had not been asked to open his files, but that Comr. Mack had denied such a request by investigators.

Upon requests by the commissioners, and on a motion by Rep. Harris, the committee voted to have the letters, written in answer to Rep. Moulder's questionnaire, read into the record. By a vote of the subcommittee, the letters had been kept on a confidential basis, accessible only to Chairman Moulder. However, Comrs. Doerfer and Bartley previtiously had agreed to send their letters made a part of the record.

Each commissioner (with Mack's assisttant reading his) then made his letter a part of the record by reading it aloud. Each, on general terms, denied he was guilty of any wrongdoing as a commissioner. They defended the right and necessity of fraternizing with broadcasters, and were willing to answer the subcommittee's questions. In going to lecture on broadcasters' homes and vacations at the expense of others."

These incidents were developed by the questioning:

(1) Comr. Doerfer said he flew to Pine-

Big Guns File Support For Security Revision

The case of Russian documents—the translations of which are classified, but the originals of which are available to anyone who wants to see them—was cited as one of the absurdities of the present security classification system in the federal government. The illustration was made by Robert D. Swezey, WDSU-AM-TV New Orleans, chairman of the NAB Freedom of Information Committee, in a statement submitted last week to the House Government Information subcommittee.

Mr. Swezey called on the government to make available to the public and newsman all documents unless it can be affirmatively proved that the release of the information would be "detrimental to the public interest."

The committee held hearings last week on a bill (HR 2767) which would revise a 1789 statute which now permits government chiefs to withhold information from the public, it has been charged. The statute authorizes department chiefs to "prescribe regulations for the custody, use and preservation of records, papers and property."

The proposed amendment would add a sentence proscribing the use of the 169-year-old law to withhold information from the public. The subcommittee is headed by Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.), author of the bill.

Appearing in support of the bill were James S. Pope, executive editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times (WHAS-AM-TV Louisville), representing the Southern Newspaper Publishers Assn.; R. R. Mollenhoff, Washington correspondent of the Des Moines Register and Tribune and other Cowles publications (Cowles stations); for Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism fraternity; J. Russell Wiggins, executive editor, Washington Post & Time-Herald (WTOP-AM-FM); for the American Society of Newspaper Editors; Harold L. Cross, counsel for the Freedom of Information Committee of the ASNE, and John W. Cragun, for the American Bar Assn. federal procedure code committee.

All 10 federal departments filed objections to the bill in a congressional hearing conducted last July.

Hearings Set for Longer Bill

The Senate Commerce Committee begins open public hearings April 14 on Sen. William Langer's bill to bar the advertising of alcoholic beverages in all media—radio, tv, newspapers and magazines.

The bill (S 582) by the North Dakota Republican was introduced last year in the first session of the 85th Congress. It would prohibit "the advertising of alcoholic beverages in interstate commerce."

MEET THE MILLERS...
most popular exponents of the Culinary Arts in Western New York

Since 1948 Western New York Homemakers have received most of their happiest recipes and helpful kitchen hints from Bill and Mildred Miller on their popular WBEN-TV "Meet the Millers" Show.

And too, on their show they've met practically every celebrity who has visited the Buffalo area. Bill and Mildred have that kind of program—service and celebrities for their viewers to enjoy. This adds up to sales and profits for their sponsors.

Consistently the most popular food merchandising show in Buffalo, "Meet the Millers" sells everything from copperware to biscuits to a predominantly female audience every week day afternoon.

If you have a product for home, family or kitchen it would be wise to investigate the Millers and the selling impact they have among the 2,419,000 consumers in the WBEN-TV coverage zone. Ch. 2 Contestants Make Merger Pact

The battle for dropped-in ch. 2 at St. Louis subsided last week when the two contesting applicants decided to get together.

By the terms of an agreement, submitted to FCC Hearing Examiner Herbert Sharfman on Thursday, Louisiana Purchase Co. will become a 10% owner of Signal Hill Telecasting Corp., licensee of KTVI (TV). Louisiana Purchase principals will individually pay 10 cents a share for an aggregate 135,190 shares of KTVI stock.

KTVI has been operating on ch. 2 under a temporary FCC authorization since April 1957. The ABC-affiliated outlet originally operated on ch. 36. The FCC moved ch. 2 into the St. Louis area last year in its deintermixture decisions. KTVI is owned by Paul E. Peitison and Harry Tenenbaum and associates.

Last fall, KTVI made an agreement with the St. Louis Globe-Democrat which permits the newspaper to acquire 25% interest in the ch. 2 station, also at 10 cents a share. This opinion cannot be exercised until ch. 4 KWK-TV St. Louis is sold to CBS, since the Globe-Democrat has a 23% interest in the ch. 4 outlet and FCC rules prohibit one entity from having an interest in more than one station in the same market. CBS bought KWK-TV for $4 million. This was approved by the FCC last year. It is CBS' intention to turn over its ch. 11 St. Louis grant—which it won in competition with three others—to the unsuccessful applicants, but this was blocked when St. Louis Amuse- ment Co., a one-time ch. 11 applicant, secured a stay from the U. S. Court of Appeals. The court has been asked by the FCC to reconsider.

The agreement between Louisiana Purch- ease Co. and KTVI also provides that KTVI will repay Louisiana Purchase $41,000 for out-of-pocket expenses. KTVI retains the right to repurchase the 10% interest within a period of three years at $1.20 per share.

Examiner Sharfman closed the record Thursday, and will issue an initial decision in the near future. The full comparative hearing was scheduled to get underway in Washington Feb. 28.

Hearing to Test Switch By FCC of Vhf for Uhf

A hearing on one of the salient features of the FCC's deintermixture plan—its authority to make an operating station change from vhf to uhf—got under way in Washing- on last week.

Ch. 7 WTVW (TV) Evansville, Ind., is under show cause order to accept ch. 31 in lieu of ch. 7. The Commission proposes to move ch. 7 to Louisville, Ky.

The first week of hearing was given to the introduction of testimony by the Commission's Broadcast Bureau in favor of the move. Also participating in the hearing, all favoring the Commission's recommendations, are ch. 30 WEHT (TV) Evansville, ch. 21 WKLO-TV Louisville (now dark) and ABC.

Last summer [At Deadline, Aug. 12] WTVW asked the U. S. Court of Appeals to issue a stay against the FCC order moving ch. 9 from Hatfield, Ind., to Evansville as a non-commercial, educational channel and the serving of its show cause order to the Evansville station looking toward the channel shift from 7 to 31. This was de- nied. During the argument in court, WTVW's attorney pointed out that the station had spent $750,000 in construction and lost more than $450,000 since it began operating in August 1956.

The Evansville move is one of several in which the FCC has ordered single vhf channels already granted out of cities to make room for new uhf channels. Other channel shifts, ordered early last year, involved the moves of ch. 12 from Fresno (KFRE- TV) to Santa Barbara, Calif.; ch. 2 from Springfield, Ill. (WMAY-TV) to St. Louis, Mo., and ch. 8 from Peoria (WRL-TV) to Rock Island, III. In addition to these uhf deletions the FCC added vhf channels to a number of cities, such as New Orleans, Norfolk, Miami and Beaumont-Port Arthur, Tex.

The WTVW case is further complicated by a stockholder fight which came to a head last year [Government, Dec. 16]. At that time, the Commission was asked to approve the establishment of a voting trust for a group of WTVW stockholders over the protests of Rex Schepp, principal stockholder. An injunction had been obtained forbidding Mr. Schepp to exercise any official functions in the management of the station and it was agreed to relinquish voting rights in Class A stock, of which Mr. Schepp had been majority holder, to stockholder Fred- man Keyes. Mr. Keyes, formerly of Russell M. Seeds Co., is now senior member of the New York advertising agency, Keyes, Mad- den & Jones.

Convert 770 Kc to I-B, FCC Examiner Suggests

Another round in the nearly two-decade-old contest between KOB Albuquerque and WABC New York over the use of 770 kc was concluded last week with an initial decision by FCC Hearing Examiner Hugh B. Hutchison. He suggested that 770 kc be made a Class I-B frequency—thus permitting both KOB and WABC to operate.

Mr. Hutchison's decision, one of an almost endless list of official decisions and recommendations issued over the years in this case, was based on his arriving "at what the evidence irresistibly establishes would be the best possible solution in the public interest of the historically unique and extraordinarily complicated and vexatious problem of allocation involved in this proceeding."

According to the examiner's recommendation, the Commission should amend its rules to change the designation of clear channel 770 kc from Class I-A to Class I-B. At the same time the FCC would order Albuquerque Broadcasting Co. and AB-Pt to show cause why the authorizations of their respective stations should not be modified to operate as Class I-B clear channel stations on 770 kc, with 50 kw, unlimited time, and directional antenna at night to protect the service of each station.

KOB is licensed on 1030 kc, with 10 kw, has a cp for 1130 kc, with 50 kw, but has been operating under a special service authorization on 770 kc since 1941. For most of this time WABC, which is licensed on 770 kc, with 50 kw, has been attempting to force the station off its channel.

KOB, which commenced operation in 1922 and used several different frequencies and various powers in radio's early days, was assigned 1030 kc, with 10 kw in March 1941. In the indication that KOB's service area . . . would be more extensive" the Commission, on its own motion, modified the station's special service authorization to specify 770 kc in lieu of 1030 kc. Some months previously, KOB had received permission to boost its power to 50 kw day, 25 kw night.

Soon thereafter, WJZ New York, predecessor to WABC, began the opposition which has lasted through 17 years. In 1951 the U. S. Court of Appeals, acting upon WABC's appeal to keep KOB from continuing on 770 kc, upheld the authority of the FCC to issue special service authorizations for limited periods but held that the continuance of KOB's SSA "constituted a modification" of the New York station's license, without affording that party an opportunity for a hearing.

In 1952 the Commission granted a transfer of control of Albuquerque Broadcasting from T. M. Pepperday to Time Inc. and the late Wayne Coy, over the objections of WABC. Meanwhile, KOB's SSA was again continued. In 1955 the Commission decided to continue the operation of KOB on 770 kc pending the resolution of the 12-year-old clear channel proceeding. WABC again went to the Court of Appeals, which ruled that WABC must be protected. The FCC ordered KOB to directionalize at night. KOB has been operating on 770 kc with a nighttime directional array since April 26, 1957.

Also in 1957, KSTP-AM-TV Minneapolis bought KOB-AM-TV for $1.5 million.

Roosevelt Sets House Hearings On Complaints Against ASCAP

Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif.) announced last week that hearings on complaints against ASCAP will be held Feb. 25-28 in Washington by a special subcommittee of the House Small Business Committee.

The hearings are scheduled to look into charges that a clique of major music publishing firms control the copyright society (GOVERNMENT, Feb. 3).

Mr. Roosevelt has said that Assistant Attorney General Victor R. Hansen, chief of the Justice Dept.'s antitrust division, will be invited to appear as well as ASCAP and other groups. Information secured at the hearing will be turned over to the Dept. of Justice and the House Judiciary Committee, he has announced.

Senate Committee Would Classify Federal Agency "Leaks" as Crimes

The Investigations Subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Government Operations last week recommended making it a crime to "leak" decisions of federal regulatory agencies. In a report-titled "Leaks of CAB Decisions of Aug. 2, 1956, Affecting Northeast Airlines Stock," the committee tells how sales of Northeast stock leaped from an average daily sale of 300 shares to nearly 24,000, the day after a secret CAB vote to grant the New York-Florida route to that firm in August 1956. Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), in submitting the report, referred to two pending Senate bills (S. 2461 and S. 2462) introduced by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), Sen. Jackson and Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough (D-Tex.). The bills are in the Judiciary Committee.

Dellor Asks for Bakersfield Uhf

Lincoln Dellor, California broadcaster who recently sold the last of his station interests, applied last week to the FCC for ch. 17 in Bakersfield, Calif. Mr. Dellor had a 14% interest in KOVR (TV) Stockton, Calif., which was sold to the Gannett Co. for a total of $3.1 million. Mr. Dellor sold KXOA-AM-FM Sacramento, Calif., to Kalval Inc. for $500,000. He had a 50% interest in K1R Seattle, KNEW Anchorage, both Wash., and KXL Portland, Ore., which were sold to Frank Sinatra and associates for an overall figure of $2 million.

Commission Deletes KVTX (TV)

The FCC last week announced cancellation of KVTX (TV) San Angelo, Tex., and deletion of its call letters. Lowell Smith and Joe N. Weatherby, doing business as San Angelo TV Co., received their cp for ch. 17 in February 1957 but failed to act on it. The cp did not apply for extension when informed by the Commission of the permit's October expiration.

CNP Splits Syndication Set-Up; New Unit to Handle Re-run Sales

California National Productions, NBC's tv film subsidiary, is splitting its syndication operation into two distinct units.

The new alignment: NBC Television Films, a division, remains intact but will handle only distribution of new products. A new sales division—as yet untitled—will be responsible for syndication renewals and ex-network program series placed in syndication.

The Weller Keeve, vice president and general manager of CNP and NBC Television Films, appointed Jacques Liebenguth as manager of the new sales unit. Mr. Liebenguth has been a nucleus of salesmen. While no details were disclosed, it is known that CNP already has added "several" salesmen.

CNP's new syndication product includes The Silent Service, Boots and Saddles—The Story of the Fifth Cavalry and Union Pacific. These series now come under NBC Television Films. The new unit will handle a total of 17 renewals or former network program series such as Medic, It's A Great Life, Victory at Steel Frontier, Hopalong Cassidy, The Good, The Glum, The Levee, Dangerous Assignment, Crucify and Des and His Honor, Homer Bell.

The newly-formed sales force, according to Earl Rettig, CNP president, will specialize in local business, making use of "expert knowledge of local viewing habits and business conditions."

Two of the series—Medic and It's A Great Life—are CNP's latest first-run, off-the-network programs to be put into syndication.

Tv Spots inc. to Produce New 'Crusader Rabbit' Series

A new Crusader Rabbit animated tv series, designed to appeal directly to adult as well as juvenile viewers, is being produced at the Hollywood studios of Tv Spots Inc. and will be offered to stations and sponsors by Regis Films. Both companies are owned by California industrialist Shull Bonsall, onetime associate of Jerry Fairbanks, from whom the rights to Crusader Rabbit were acquired. Tv Spots also is active in producing filmed commercials, such as the "Mr. Moo" spots for American Dairy Assn.

The new series is being filmed in 35 mm Eastman color film, from which 16 mm prints are available in both color and black and white under the supervision of Mr. Bonsall as executive producer. Two units now are turning out 1,400 feet a week of completed animated cartoon film, said by Mr. Bonsall to be the highest output of any company in the country. By March 15 a third unit will be on the job at Tv Spots, a total of 60 artists, painters and animators turning out an unprecedented total of 2,400 feet of complete animation or six five-minute episodes, per week.

A total of 260 episodes will be produced, William H. Buman, vice president and general manager of Tv Spots, said. Each story sequence will comprise 20 five-minute epis-

Tv Nets’ ’57 Gross $516.2 Million—PIB

Tv network gross time charges last year reached a record high of over $516.2 million, an increase of 5.7% over 1956, according to computations released last week by Publishers Information Bureau.

PIB’s tabulation also revealed that December was the top month in gross time charges for the whole year: a total of $49,741,736 for all three networks, or an 11.1% increase over December 1956. The only other month in the year approaching this mark was October’s total that topped $49.2 million.

December was the highest billing month in 1957 for ABC-TV which showed a 28.6% rise over its December 1956 total, and for NBC-TV which was up 8.4%. CBS-TV, up 7.8%, enjoyed in December its second highest month in 1957—October was tops. 7.1

CBS-TV led the networks in gross time charges billed individually last year. The network totaled $239.2 million-plus for the year, representing about 46% of the total time gross of all network billing in 1957, and for CBS-TV a gain of 7.1% above 1956.

NBC-TV billed $193.7 million-plus, an increase of 3.2% over 1956; and ABC-TV totaled $83.0 million-plus, up 8.3%. Compared to the top-biller CBS-TV, ABC-TV in January 1957 was out-grossed three times by Columbia, but in December that year CBS-TV’s margin over American was less than 2½ times.

Following are network gross time charge comparisons in 1956 and 1957 for December and for the full year:

WTVC (TV), WLOF-TV Join ABC-TV For Total of 83 Primary Affiliates

WTVC (TV) Chattanooga, Tenn., and WLOF-WTVL Orlando, Fla., have signed as primary affiliates of ABC-TV, bringing the network’s primary affiliate total to 83, according to Alfred R. Beckman, ABC-TV vice president in charge of station relations; Reeve Owen, general manager of WTVC, and Donn R. Colee, general manager of WLOF-TV. The network now has a total of 215 affiliates in all categories.

An unidentified primary affiliate in Pittsburgh is expected to join the network in fall, to make ABC’s network an equal work with primary vhf affiliates in each of the top 30 markets of the nation,” Mr. Beckman said. These additions, he said, offer nearly 85% live coverage of U. S. homes for the network. The network anticipates live primary coverage to jump to nearly 90% next season, Mr. Beckman said.

WTVC, whose affiliation becomes effective tomorrow (Tuesday) when it goes on the air, operates on ch. 9 with 316 kw. WLOF-TV, affiliation of which is effective immediately, is on ch. 9 with 103 kw.

‘Sally’ Undergoing Face-Lift

Though Chemstrand Corp. has definitely decided to drop the Joan Caulfield-Marion Lorne “Sally” series on NBC-TV effective this April [At Deadline, Feb. 3], producer Frank Ross (Miss Caulfield’s husband) is giving the series a fast “face-lifting” in hopes of persuading present alternate sponsor Royal McBe to stay with “Sally” in the Sunday 7:30-8 p.m. slot. Effective with the Feb. 16 program, Sally will cease flitting from country-to-country and settle down in her home town as a secretary. Mr. Ross noted last week he had seven new Most men and women would have no earthly use for an ingot of steel. So you may not have the remotest idea of what steel costs.

Actually, for all of the steels that it ships, United States Steel gets an average of 7\(\frac{3}{4}\) cents a pound. Less than a dime still buys a commodity whose manufacture requires billions of dollars worth of equipment, the skills of hundreds of thousands of men, and mountains of raw materials gathered from many parts of the world!

Since steel in some form touches your life every day, we think you'll be interested in what U. S. Steel is doing to keep steel the cheapest of all common metals.

To hold costs and prices at the lowest possible level through increased operating efficiency, U. S. Steel is continually improving its facilities. For example, shown above is one of U. S. Steel's new sintering plants scheduled to start operation in the Fall of 1958. Upon completion, the plant will produce 15,000 tons of sintered ore daily for U. S. Steel blast furnaces in the Monongahela Valley. In the face of mounting costs of new equipment and inadequate depreciation allowances, we have spent three and one-half billion dollars on improved facilities since 1945. Modernization programs in the Pittsburgh and Chicago districts, and in the West, will soon increase capacity over two million ingot tons.

Watch the United States Steel Hour on television. See your local newspapers for time and station.

Industrial Miracle:
7\(\frac{3}{4}\)-cent steel

In laboratories at U. S. Steel's new research center at Monroeville, Pa., we are making today's steel a better value. There, too, we are developing steel to withstand heat from atmospheric friction as no other metal can, for supersonic flights of the future. A long-range program is aimed at developing a metal twice as strong as any now existing. Here, research men are working on new high temperature alloys.

To make steel cheaper to use, U. S. Steel supplies it in hundreds of convenient forms, to thousands of individual plants which process, fabricate and assemble steel products for sale. However, even in a product that is mostly steel, the cost of the steel is one of the smallest factors. An unusual order for steel was this plate mill roll, the world's largest, forged and machined at a U. S. Steel plant.

United States Steel
Sally episodes in the can—enough to carry him through March 30. Apparently Mr. and Mrs. Ross are hoping that NBC-TV won't be able to offer P. Lorillard Co. and Royal a suitable replacement for Sally and that the revitalized series might show sufficient rating recovery to warrant further sponsorship.

Eastman Names Moudy Assistant In Realignment of ABN Offices

Realignment of several American Broadcasting Network executives was announced last week by ABN President Robert E. Eastman.

Dale L. Moudy, director of special station services since last September, has been named to the new—and additional—position of assistant to the ABN president. Before joining the network last year, Mr. Moudy was a vice president of Mid-Continent Broadcasting Co., having served originally with KOWH Omaha, moving up in the Todd Storz station family after Mr. Storz purchased KOWH in 1949.

The post formerly held by Raymond Eichmann, ABN director of sales development and research who left the company for NBC, will be split three ways, it was announced. Irv Lichtenstein, heretofore promotion-exploitation director, ABN special stations services department, will take over all promotional assignments formerly handled by Mr. Eichmann. His new title is ABN director of exploitation and promotion.

Mr. Eichmann's sales development post will be taken over by Henry W. Levinson, while the research phase of the post now will be handled by Lawrence J. Pollock.

Mr. Levinson joined ABN as a sales development trainee, moving up to writer last April. Earlier he had been copy chief of the Granite State Broadcasting Co. (WKBR Manchester, WTSV Claremont, WTLS Hanover, WTSN Dover, all New Hampshire). Mr. Pollock joined ABN in April 1956 from Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample, New York, where he was project director in charge of creative media research. Mr. Lichtenstein joined ABN last year from WWDC Washington where he was vice president in charge of publicity and promotion.

Services Held in New York For Salomon, NBC-TV Producer

Funeral services for Henry W. Salomon Jr., 40, NBC-TV director of special projects, were held in New York Tuesday. Mr. Salomon died Feb. 1 of a cerebral hemorrhage at his home in New York. Honorary pallbearers included Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff, NBC board chairman, and Robert W. Sarnoff, NBC president.

Mr. Salomon was credited with conceiving and producing television programs cited for their cultural and sociological importance. Most successful of these was the Victory at Sea series which he was commissioned by NBC in 1950 to produce and which he had researched and planned since being made an active duty as a lieutenant commander in the U. S. Navy in 1948. The series went on the air in the fall of 1952 and its ensuing success brought Mr. Salomon the U. S. Navy distinguished public service award, considered that service's highest decoration to be awarded civilians.

At the time of his death Mr. Salomon was in the midst of preparing a history of musical comedy from 1900 to the present for presentation on Project XX, a series which he created in 1954 and produced until the time of his death. His most recent special projects plan for the network, announced Jan. 29, was for a new series of tv programs dealing with the conflict between democracy and communism in the mid-20th century, to be prepared in partnership with the Rockefeller Brothers Fund.

Mr. Salomon had been with the network since 1950 and was made director of NBC's special projects unit in May 1957. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Lucia Angell Salomon; a sister, Mrs. Wilson Graham, and a brother, Roger.

BPA Board Appoints Chairman For Fall St. Louis Convention

Appointments of program and arrangements chairman for this fall’s Broadcasters’ Promotion Assn. seminar were made in closing hours of the BPA board meeting in Chicago (TR) St. Louis, arrangements for the St. Louis convention Nov. 16-19.

Among other late actions during the all-day session, the board approved (1) amendments to the BPA constitution and bylaws clarifying terms of tenure for officers and directors; (2) a plan to permit advance seminar registration to paid-up members; (3) another plan to raise BPA membership to 600; (4) proposals that the BPA board take part in state broadcaster meetings to explain BPA purposes and aims.

The board rejected, after “considerable debate,” a suggestion that promotion managers of station representative firms be permitted to join BPA as voting members. The membership plan was submitted by James Kiss, WPEN Philadelphia, on behalf of Howard W. Magie, WVWA Wheeling, W. Va., who is membership committee chairman.

The board plans to meet again June 14 at the Chase Hotel in St. Louis, 1958 BPA convention site. Fourteen of BPA’s 17 officers and directors were present at the Jan. 31 session. Officers attending, besides Mr. Henry, were Charles A. Wilson, WGN-AM-TV Chicago, first vice president; Montez Jacen, KWTV (TV) Oklahoma City, second vice president, and William E. Pierson, WBKB (TV) Chicago, secretary-treasurer.

Pittsburgh Judge Would Relax Canon 35’s Bans on Radio-TV

Relaxation of Canon 35 of the American Bar Assn., with its bans against camera and tape coverage of court trials, is favored by Judge John G. Brosky, of the Allegheny County Court (Pittsburgh) in Pennsylvania.

Speaking on the For the Record program of KDKA Pittsburgh, Judge Brosky spoke of visual-aural coverage this way: “I think the real test should be as to whether or not any of these devices or means or the manner in which it is done in the courtroom causes a disturbance, interferes with the orderliness of a court trial, brings about such a commotion to an extent that it would distract the jury, the witness who is testifying and the judge from giving their fullest concentrated powers to the matters at hand," Judge Brosky observed that the official court reporter often keeps a tape recorder handy for the sake of accuracy. "This isn't disturbing," he contended.

At the same time Judge Brosky commented that a steady flow of persons entering and leaving a courtroom is highly distracting. He said that before allowing pictures or recordings he would clear the matter with the president judge of the court, who sets courtroom procedure.

Brockway Praises Broadcasters For Aid in Ad Council Efforts

Broadcasters' participation in the public service advertising campaigns of the Advertising Council was praised last week by Louis N. Brockway, executive vice president of Young & Rubicam and chairman of the Ad Council.

Speaking at a Radio & Television Executives Society luncheon in New York Wednesday, he said 1957 contributions to these campaigns by media, advertisers and agencies were the greatest in council history — and "the bulk of that support came from radio and television broadcasters and their advertisers." Year-end figures, he reported, show that the circulation given to Council campaigns in 1957 through network commercial programs alone rose 50% over 1956, climbing from 10 billion to more than 18 billion home impressions. Further expansion is planned this year, he added.

Mr. Brockway urged broadcasters to take a personal part in the upcoming 1958 Red Cross drive.

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, president of the American Red Cross, stressed the psychological phases of the struggle between Russia and the free world. The Soviet Union and its satellite countries, he said, are currently broadcasting a total of about 294 hours in English each week.

The RTES luncheon honored the Advertising Council and the Red Cross.

Keep Sponsorship Open, Evangelicals Exhorted

Evangelical clergymen are confronted by spreading efforts to close broadcasting channels to sponsored religious programming, members of National Religious Broadcasters were told at their Wednesday-Thursday convention in Washington.

Members were urged by Dr. Eugene R. Bertermann, NRB president and active in The Lutheran Hour series, to make every effort to obtain cooperation of local radio and TV stations in keeping facilities open for sponsored religious programs. "At the national plane," he said, "the radio and television industries have been fair and generous in their attitude." He regretted "a dangerous hiatus" in some areas between national broadcasters and local-regional broadcasters.

Evangelicals are opposing what they call an attempt by the National Council of Churches to halt sponsored religious broadcasting through control over state and local church councils.

Frederick S. Houwink, general manager of WMAL-AM-FM-TV Washington, explained why the stations are gradually discontinuing commercial religious broadcasts. He explained the policy this way: "We simply think that it is wrong to charge money for religious broadcasts. We feel that it is our duty and our privilege to bring religious broadcast service to the public. Please do not infer that we have any question as to your right to buy time from stations who will not clear on any other basis."

Mr. Houwink added, "We feel that our refusal to sell time for religious broadcasts enables us to refuse certain types of programs. When we sell time, we have to sell to any and all comers. When we give our time, we can allocate on the basis of the needs of our local community."

"We try to serve all of the religious faiths in keeping with our time availability and our overall program demands." Lionell Baxter, manager of WIBG Philadelphia, explained how radio stations have been going through a self-diagnosis process because of television's impact. He said his station would listen to this program?" Radio has gone through the transition from an entertainment to a communications-entertainment medium, he said, with news and informational programs receiving more attention as show business has largely moved to television.

Harold E. Fellows, NAB president, said members of NRB and their clerical colleagues are in a position to exert leadership in revitalizing America's historical freedom as well as in spiritual matters. He continued, "I believe you can contribute as richly to the strength of America, through reasserting our allegiance to her ideals, as can the scientists who are building missiles and the political leaders who are enacting and enforcing laws and the teachers who are inculcating our youth with the formulas of the new scientific world."

Robert Hurleigh, MBS Washington vice president, urged religious broadcasters to meet the growing problem of personal tension by helping individuals live with the growing tensions of the era. He said broadcasters are anxious to participate in religious programming as part of their public service.

Four VOD Contest Winners To Receive Awards at Luncheon

Fifty-two high school students, who won state and territorial Voice of Democracy contests, will be guests at the VOD awards luncheon Tuesday at the Willard Hotel, Washington. Four of the students will be named co-winners of the national contest, receiving $500 scholarships and gold recordings of their winning speeches.

The luncheon will climax a four-day all-expense tour of the Nation's Capital by the 52 winners, picked from 750,000 entrants. FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer will present the scholarships. Dr. L. G. Derthick, U. S. Commissioner of Education, will present all the winners with state-territorial certificates.

Sen. Frank Church, (D-Idaho), 33-year-old legislator who once won a national high school speaking contest, will deliver the principal address at the awards luncheon. The contest, now in its 11th year, is sponsored by NAB, Electronic Industries Assn. and U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce. It is endorsed by the U. S. Office of Education.

RTNDA Brief to Protest Arrests Of Cameramen in Florida

The Radio and Television News Directors Assn. is putting its money where its convictions lie and will fight a circuit court action involving the arrest of two Miami tv station cameramen last fall.

The association's board paved the way for action this March by appropriating enough funds for an attorney to draw up a brief. RTNDA as an amicus curiae will challenge Dade County Judge Vincent Giblin's arrest of Ben Silver, WCKT (TV), and Robert Brumfield, WTVJ (TV). He found them guilty of contempt of court and fined each $25 for photographing a defendant outside the courtroom [TRADE Assns., Nov. 11, 1957].

Both WTVJ and WCKT consider it a test case and have appealed to the Florida Supreme Court. Judge Giblin ordered the station photographers not to take pictures within 30 feet of the room or of the defendant while leaving the county jail in the same building.

Radio and Television News Directors Assn. holding its annual convention in Miami Beach that same week, deplored the incident as evidence of court bias against visual reporting. It expressed hope, but unfruitfully, that Judge Giblin would release the cameramen.

Ike: Farmers Rely on Radio-Tv

Farmers of the nation "are much dependent upon the services of the radio and television industry" for immediate and complete information on weather, markets and other factors affecting agriculture, President Eisenhower said Feb. 1 in a statement for observance of Farm Broadcasting Day. In a message to Robert Miller, WLW-WLWT (TV) Cincinnati, head of National Assn. of Television & Radio Farm Directors, he added, "The responsible manner in which their needs are met merits high praise."

The appointment of Miles David as director of promotion for Radio Advertising Bureau was announced last week by RAB President Kevin B. Sweeney. Mr. David has been executive editor of Sponsor magazine. He will take up his new duties March 1 when Sherrill W. Taylor, vice president and promotion director, assumes the new post of vice president and director of sales administration [TRADE Assns., Feb. 3].

CADE CANAVERAL—As the U. S. launched its Explorer satellite the night of Jan. 31, radio and television stations found themselves in the middle of a media scramble touched off in Florida at 10:45 p.m. Here's how some of them got the news on the air:

KGO San Francisco, tipped that the launching was at hand, enlisted a former employee now at Cape Canaveral, Fla., as correspondent. The correspondent stood by an open telephone line for nearly a day waiting to speak the name, "Charles Atlas." When at last he flashed the signal, the KGO newsroom was ready with the bulletin. The long preparation resulted in a claimed three-minute exclusive. From there on KGO filled in with eye-witness reports and subsequent developments.

Frank Doyle, correspondent for WCAU Philadelphia, alerted that station 18 minutes before the Jupiter firing and gave the bulletin. It was on the air in two seconds, supplemented later by telephone developments.

Ed Ryan and Bill Grove, news directors, respectively, of WTOP-AM-TV Washington and WMBR-AM-TV Jacksonville, Fla., handled the Cape Canaveral assignment for their stations. At least one of 10 priority telephones at the launching site was gained by Mr. Ryan, who arranged to use the CBS telephone after that network's correspondent. Audiences in Jacksonville and Washington got his two-minute direct report nine minutes after the firing.

WFIL Philadelphia reports broadcasting Explorer's signal within a half hour of its launching. The live signal was picked up by telephone from the RCA Empire Studios.

WINZ Miami, Fla., got its tape of the satellite signal from John Petrillo, operator of a radio-tv service, who stood by five days and nights to record the Explorer sound.

The news flash of the Florida firing touched off a scramble at studios of KFMB-TV San Diego as staffers located a German scientist just back from a tour of missile centers and persuaded him to appear on a hastily documented satellite program. Next, George Stantis, program supervisor, found interviewer Harold Keen in a movie theater. By 10:45 p.m. PST, Mr. Keen was on the air with Kraft Ehrlich, who is a technical specialist for Convair Astronautics, and Ray Wilson, station newsman who broadcast the original satellite bulletin. The scientist, just back from Huntsville, Ala., where the Jupiter C was born, explained and diagrammed the system in the half-hour program, The U. S. Satellite—Its Significance.

KMPC Los Angeles in the 24 hours following the Explorer's first flight tracked the story around the U. S. to London, Moscow and Canberra, Australia.

KTV (TV) Los Angeles dispatched remote trucks to Temple City, Calif., satellite tracking site, after the firing. Meanwhile lines were opened to Washington and viewers got direct reports from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Cut-ins from Temple City featured newscaster George Putnam in interviews with scientists who illustrated the story with models of the rocket and satellite. Remote units of KTLA (TV) Los Angeles also were stationed at Temple City.

Ron Oppen, newsfilm reporter on permanent assignment at the cape for WTVJ (TV) Miami, Fla., flew his sound-film story 200 miles back to WTVJ after the launching. The telecast climaxd continuous missile coverage by WTVJ at Cape Canaveral since May 1956. Roger Reese assisted Mr. Oppen during the week leading up to the Explorer firing.

KDKA Pittsburgh two minutes after the Friday newscast had an AP newsmen on the telephone from Cape Canaveral with details of the Army feat.

FRANKLIN—Carl Ide of KDKA-TV Pittsburgh spent days in Franklin, Pa., with KDKA colleagues covering the murder trial of Mrs. Lydia Dean. A few days before the verdict was returned Mr. Ide got the judge to modify his rule against newswire coverage in the courtroom and allow filmed interviews in the lawyers' conference room. Filmed interviews followed with attorneys of both sides, officials and witnesses. When the not-guilty verdict came last Tuesday, the KDKA stations had it in one minute. On the story with Mr. Ide were newsmen Mike Levine of KDKA, with radio newscaster Paul Long and cameraman Charles Boyle, both of whom piloted planes in the course of the six-day commuting job.

DOUGLAS—A 36-hour alert in the newsroom of WHB Kansas City during the search for killer Charles Starkweather produced 37 bulletins and seven direct reports from authorities as the manhunt intensified, culminating in the Douglas, Wyo., capture. WHB climaxd an intensive job by reporting the capture less than half an hour after it occurred.

Across the country in Pittsburgh, WAMP newsmen Herb Morrison taped a spot report right after the Starkweather arrest. Ken Prather of KATI Casper, Wyo., gave WAMP early confirmation and details, and later Keith Reider, editor of the Douglas Budget, described the capture again for easterners.

KMTV (TV) Omaha facilities were at the hub of the news wheel when the Starkweather capture was made. News Director Floyd Kalber received urgent calls from all three networks for coverage. NBC-TV requested a feed for NBC News from KMTV, basic NBC affiliate there, and while Mr. Kalber was still talking, CBS News also called for film coverage. As CBS held the line, he completed arrangements with NBC-TV, Telenews telephoned for a... feed for ABC-TV news the same evening.

As the Starkweather chase swirled around Lincoln, Neb., KFOR there was able to handle developments, it reports, by hard work and with the help of a three-way monitoring system connecting the KFOR newsroom with police, sheriff and state highway patrol. As corpses were discovered successively in North Lincoln and South Lincoln, KFOR added dimensions to the story with remote pickups and interviews. After the capture KFOR newsmen guessed they had handled, in addition to KFOR work, calls from 29 stations in this country and Canada, provided feeds to two networks and Storz stations and answered countless queries by visiting newsmen and telephone callers. So many listeners came to the station General Manager Richard Chapin had to order the doors locked.

HOLLYWOOD—KNX here provided almost instant coverage of the Feb. 1 Norwalk, Calif., air crash, in a report made possible because a staffer, en route to his home, saw the accident. George Gardner of the KNX-CBS Radio engineering maintenance department telephoned from a filling station next to wreckage of one of the planes, giving KNX its first phono-tape report, with details filled in by the filling station operator. The KNX shortwave mobile unit took over from there and worked on the story throughout the evening.

KTLA (TV) Hollywood had live pictures of the crash—bulletined at 7:29 p.m.—on the air at 8:15 p.m., beamed from station mobile units. At 9:21 KTLA General Manager Lew Arnold ordered regular programs pre-empted and remote coverage of the crash continued uninterrupted until 11:20. Gil Martyn, director of public service and public affairs, supervised coverage.

KTTV (TV) Los Angeles also had two remote units at the separate crash sites, pre-empting some 2 1/2 hours of programming.

BOSTON—F. D. (Dinny) Whitmarsh, news supervisor of WBZ-TV here, worked out a way to telex to 8 mm film on a news show an hour and 45 minutes after receiving the problem reel. The rare footage showed an airman's parachute descent after the collision of two jets near Boston last month [DATELINES, Jan. 27]. Leo F. Gill of New- port, R. I., a passenger in a private plane, shot the plummeting pilot and his subsequent rescue by helicopter and rushed the film to Mr. Whitmarsh at WBZ-TV. The WBZ-TV team went to work on the 8 mm problem and shortly worked out a system of projecting the film on a rear screen with the tv camera picking up the picture from there. The film was processed and went on a regular 6:45 p.m. newscast.

KOMO-TV Newsfilm Subpoenaed

A filmed interview with a confessed murderer was subpoenaed for a trial in King County, Wash., Superior Court and news staffers of KOMO-TV Seattle were called in to testify. Newscaster Herb Robinson and KOMO-TV cameraman Howard Ramaley confirmed for the court their part in getting footage in which the defendant told why he killed his wife.
CHANGING HANDS

ANNOUNCED The following sales of station interests were announced last week. All are subject to FCC approval.

WWEZ NEW ORLEANS, La. * Sold to Mid-Continent Broadcasting Co. (Todd Steele, president) with $150,000 to fund $490,000. This sale is part of the deal whereby Mid-Continent donates its old New Orleans facilities on WTXL to the local school board (see story, page 86). Mid-Continent will retain its WTXL call letters on the WWEZ frequency. WWEZ operates on 65 kW with 5 kW. Other Storz stations are WHB Kansas City, WDGY Minneapolis-St. Paul, and WQAM Miami.

Labunski Joins Crowell-Collier To Head Radio Operations

Stephen B. Labunski, former programming vice president at American Broadcasting Network, last week joined Crowell-Collier Pub. Co. as director of radio operations, a new post. According to C-C President Sumner Blossom, Mr. Labunski will take charge of KFWB Broadcasting Co., wholly-owned subsidiary of Crowell-Collier, Robert Purcent (president and general manager of KFWB Los Angeles, which Crowell-Collier purchased in October 1956.

Mr. Labunski will operate out of New York. Before joining ABN last year, he was vice president and general manager of WDOG Minneapolis-St. Paul. He also has served with KCRO, KUDL and WHB, all Kansas City.

Non-Commercial City Orders KPEN (FM) to Get Out of Town

Things have gone well for KPEN (FM) Atherton, Calif., for its first three months in business. The only trouble is that it’s licensed to a community that doesn’t like businesses.

The City Council of Atherton—located in the San Francisco Bay Area—has served a cease and desist order on owner John Wickett, forbidding the station to broadcast its business address as 330 El Camino Real, Atherton. This leaves KPEN in the middle, caught between the FCC, which granted the facility as an Atherton station and wants it so identified, and the city fathers, who want no taint of commerce in residential Atherton.

Actually, Mr. Wickett left the city proper before KPEN ever went on the air. He transported a historic adobe building from nearby Menlo Park to use for the new station, but it failed to meet Atherton building standards. So Mr. Wickett hauled his building 2,400 feet up Kings Mountain and set up broadcasting on the mountain top. But he still has to use the Atherton address for mail, because the postal service falls short of the KPEN studio.

Occupying the Camino Real address used by KPEN is Mr. Wickett’s real estate business.

KMG- TV MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL, MINN. * Sold remaining 25% interest to National Telefilm Assoc., New York, which now owns 100%, by Loew’s Inc. for $130,000 (see story, this page). KMG-TV is on ch. 9.

KXLK GREAT FALLS, MONT. * Sold to Pat M. Goodover, president and general manager of KXLL Missoula, Mont., by Z-Bar-Net for $60,000. Seller is negotiating purchase of part of the stock of KFBF-AM-TV Great Falls; present sale is thus required under FCC duopoly rules. Other Z-Net stations: KXLF Butte, KXLL Helena, KXLQ Bozeman and KXLL Missoula, all in Montana.

KSM-TX EVANSTON, Ill. * Sold to Midwest-AM-FM-TV Network, Ill. for $650,000. The sale is subject to FCC approval. "Daytime" syndicated radio programming is to be the basis of the new station.

KUHR-CF DULUTH, Minn. * Acquired by Ken Mar and Leonard Mar for $100,000. The two brothers are president and board chairman and chief operating officer, respectively, of Kentwood, Inc.

H-R Booklet Reveals There's Gold in Those Daytime Spots

Nearly seven million women (6,902,751) watch television in the average daytime quarter hour, it was revealed last week in a brochure "Pellman's Daytime" released by H-R Television Inc. This is more than the total circulation of any weekly magazine or any woman-appeal publication, the station representative firm claimed.

The 20-page booklet published by H-R to promote the sale of daytime spot TV on an industry-wide basis discovered several other research findings: "Daytime television schedules deliver a sales message with 67% greater cost efficiency—since daytime is priced on a ten-plan basis at about one fifth of prime time, and sets-in-use are estimated at one-third." Another fact the brochure shows is that "American housewife... influences or makes 85% of all store purchases." It also points out how advertisers have increased their sales by switching to daytime spot TV and that daytime commercials have the same high impact on women as those presented in the evening.

"We have watched the value of daytime TV advertising mount steadily... so we thought we could make a constructive contribution to the TV industry and to advertising in general if we published this booklet," Frank E. Pellegrin, vice president and partner of H-R Television, said.

Fetzer Heads League Radio-TV Unit

John E. Fetzer, president of Fetzer stations (WKZO-AM-TV Kalamazoo; KOLN-TV Lincoln; WJEF-AM-FM Grand Rapids and 33% of WMAB-AM-FM-TV Peoria) and chairman of the Detroit Tigers, American League club, has been named chairman of the tv-radio committee of the league. The principal problem of the committee has to do with broadcasts of major league games, notably on weekends, and the vigorous protest to Congress made by minor league clubs on invasion of their territory.

WNBF-TV Increases Schedule To 24-Hour, 7-Day Service

Tv service, 24 hours a day, seven days a week, was begun by ch. 12 WNBF-TV Binghamton, N. Y., this morning (Monday). The Triangle Publications channel 12 runs 168 hours weekly in telecasting to the 2 million people in the upstate New York area (500,000 families) because, according to John D. Scheur Jr., director of public relations and programming, most of the major industry companies in the area are running three shifts. The all-day and all-night programming, he pointed out, will permit late shift workers to see prime-time programs.

Among the "blue-ribbon" industries located in the Binghamton station's market area, Mr. Scheur noted: L. C. Smith Co. (typewriters), Crucible Steel, International Business Machines, Corner Glass, Endicott-Johnson (shoes), Anso (photographic supplies), and plants of General Electric and Bendix Aviation.

WNBF-TV is affiliated with CBS, ABC and NBC, and operates with 166 kw from a 1,200-foot antenna above average terrain (785 feet above ground). The ch. 12 outlet began operating in 1949. It was bought, with its sister am and fm stations, in 1955 by Triangle Publications for $3 million from the Clark Advertising Co. interests. Triangle also owns stations in Philadelphia (WFIL-AM-FM-TV) and in New Haven, Conn., and Altoona and Lebanon, both Pennsylvania.

Some years ago, KDKA-TV, Pittsburgh, instituted a 24-hour-a-day operation, which was continued for some months.

NTA Becomes Owner of KMG- TV After 25% Purchase From Loew's

National Telefilm Assoc., New York, has bought the 25% stock interest held by Loew's Inc. in KMG-TV Minneapolis-St. Paul for $130,000, thereby acquiring 100% interest in the station, according to an announcement today (Monday) by Oliver Unger, NTA president.

Included in the transaction was cancellation of the station's contract for the MGM film library, entered into 14 months ago at $1,650,000. (NTA distributes a substantial portion of the 20th Century-Fox feature library.) The transaction does not require FCC approval since control is not involved.

NTA bought 75% interest in KMG-TV last November for $650,000 (Government, Nov. 25, 1957) from United Television Inc. Loew's Inc. obtained 25% interest in the station in 1956 in exchange for making its MGM library of feature films available for telecasting.

Mr. Unger said an application has been filed with the Commission for a change in the station's call letters to KMSF-TV. These call letters, according to Mr. Unger, "will dramatize the station's community broadcasting position with the letters representing Minneapolis and St. Paul."

Donald Swartz is general manager of KMGM-TV. Ted Cott is vice president in charge of owned and operated stations for NTA. The company also has bought WAAT-AM-FM and WATV (TV) New-ark, N. J., for $3.5 million, and the transaction is awaiting FCC approval.

WAVE-TV Rejects Offer To Share WHAS-TV Tower

The offer of WHAS-TV Louisville to share its proposed 1,859-foot antenna tower with competitor WAVE-TV Louisville has been declined—and, in fact, WAVE-TV has invited WHAS-TV to put its tower in the same area where WAVE-TV and WKLO-TV antennas are located, in Indiana.

On Feb. 11, WHAS-TV appeared before the Washington Airspace Panel to seek approval of its proposed tower, near Brownsboro, about 17 miles northeast of Louisville. The New York Regional Airspace Panel turned down the WHAS-TV request last year.

The WHAS-TV offer to WAVE-TV was made Jan. 25 by Victor A. Sholis, vice president and director. WAVE-TV's response, on Jan. 27, was by Nathan Lord, manager.

KFSB Buys Weekly Newspaper, Will Staff With Station People

The management of KFSB Joplin, Mo. (Four State Broadcasters Inc.) last week announced the purchase of a weekly newspaper (The South-Western) and plans for manning it with the station's executive personnel. It will be operated as a subsidiary of KFSB.

Announcing the purchase of the weekly from Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bruce for an undisclosed sum, Harry Easley, president of Four State Broadcasters Inc., announced the following appointments:

WTAG (TV) Settles Suit for $4,500

A suit for breach of contract, filed against WTAG (TV) Washington (DuMont Broadcasting Corp.) by evangelist Dale Crowley, has been settled out of court for $4,500. The suit grew out of what the evangelist termed cancellation of the Hour of Inspiration in March 1956.

The program was heard Fridays at 7:30 p.m. on WTAG. According to the evangelist, "pretext for the cancellation was that we had quoted scriptures on the subject of Christian giving, and had thus violated their alleged "policy" of no solicitation of funds by a religious broadcast."
NEARLY 300 Madison Avenue timebuyers last Tuesday heard about the new impact of Storer Broadcasting Co.'s WVUE (TV) Wilmington, Del., on the greater Philadelphia market as George Storer Jr., SBC vice president in charge of tv, and other SBC and WVUE executives tendered a luncheon presentation at the Hotel Roosevelt in New York. Under SBC ownership, WVUE recently constructed new transmission facilities at Pitman, N. J., moving from the Talleyville section of Wilmington. Arthur Schofield, SBC vice president in charge of advertising and promotion, gave the highlights of WVUE's impact on the market with three Ps, “Power, Programs and Promotion.” Also present were Maurice Macmurray, national sales manager, and the following from WVUE: J. Robert Kerns, vice president and managing director; Lewis Johnson, general sales manager; Ted Weber, director of sales development; Roy Schwartz, program and promotion manager, and Bill Kelley and Jack Kelley, both New York sales managers.

NEA Plans National Promotion For 'Satellites, Schools' Film

The National Education Assn. has completed production on a half-hour TV show, Satellites, Schools and Survival and is planning a nationwide promotion, according to Richard Krolik, NEA radio-tv representative who produced, wrote and directed the film.

Stars are NBC's Charles Van Doren, narrator and anchor man; Vice President Richard M. Nixon; Sen. Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.); H. Rowan Gaither Jr., board chairman of the Ford Foundation and head of the Gaither Report Committee; Dr. William G. Carr, executive secretary of the NEA, and Dr. James R. Killian Jr., president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and science adviser to the White House. In the program they comment on the film's 30-year survey of U.S. education.

Satellites, Schools and Survival is being offered through state education associations for premiere throughout the country on the weekend of March 1, with NBC affiliates getting first refusal. Recorded promotion spots with ad mats, press releases and pictures are being provided stations beforehand. Theatre previews are being staged in Washington Feb. 18 and New York Feb. 17.

After the station showings, S&S prints will go back to state education groups for showing on the school-PTA-teachers' meeting circuit. The NEA film was shot by Telenews in 35 mm, black-and-white, and 200 prints are being furnished.

RAB Success Stories Describe Radio Use by Furniture Firms

Radio Advertising Bureau has announced three radio success stories on furniture companies will be among the components of a comprehensive furniture package mailing to be distributed shortly to RAB members.

The first of the success stories describes activities of the Snow Furniture Co., Denver, which used radio as a primary advertising tool to increase its annual sales from $84,000 to $2 million in five years. Snow uses a heavy saturation of spot announcements, particularly during the last three days of the week, supported by a two-hour Saturday program broadcast from the store.

The second story details the profitable use of radio by Ernie Williamson, a furniture and appliance dealer in Enid, Okla. Mr. Williamson found he could attract a large volume of sales by using radio to establish him as a “colorful” personality—“The Mad Merchant of Market Street.”

KNX Airs ‘Frontier Gentleman’

A new series of live dramatic programs based on life in western America during post-Civil War days as seen through the eyes of a British Army veteran titled Frontier Gentleman (CBS Sunday, 2:30-2:55 p.m. PST) premiered Feb. 2. The series is written and produced by Antony Ellis and originates at KNX Los Angeles.

'Put It in Writing' on WABD (TV)

A new panel quiz show devoted to graphology titled Put It in Writing debuts on WABD (TV) New York Feb. 25. It brings to the camera several noted handwriting experts attempting to decipher a handwriting sample—and, in turn, guess the owner. The noted personality whose handwriting is studied will be waiting off stage for the panel's conclusion and brought on camera at end of the game. Participants include WABD (TV)'s Sandy Becker and Virginia Graham, plus Dan Anthony and Dr. Kenneth Wade Thompson, graphologists.

WBC Gives Calendars to Admen

Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. last week mailed to agency personnel the first in a series of pocket appointment calendars similar to the ones WBC executives have been using for themselves. The calendar covers two months at a time, has space in which to jot important dates and phone numbers with sufficient information that the bearer may also be reminded that “in eight major markets no selling campaign is complete without the WBC stations.”

ABC-TV Plugs ABN's 'Bandstand'

"Pity This Poor Working Girl!" is the title of a new ABC-TV promotion brochure on behalf of ABN's American Bandstand The "unusual wrinkle" of this presentation is that each folder contains an actual letter from a viewer complimenting host Dick Clark and ABC-TV on the program and making specific tune requests. ABC-TV sales presentation writer Jack Singer feels that the network sales pitch is complemented by the ultimate consumer—the viewer. Topic of the brochure is the "tremendous mail pull" of American Bandstand.

AN IDEA netted William E. Stauber (l) of Harvey-Massengale Co., Durham, N. C., $2,500 from KGNC Amarillo, Tex. The station asked ad men via trade publications and direct mail, for suggestions for a campaign "to make national advertisers and agencies aware of the market delivered by KGNC." The best idea was submitted by Mr. Stauber who is pictured here receiving the prize-money from the station's manager, Jack Liston. son, instituted the "good news" policy after coming to the conclusion that, "there's too much gloomy news in the papers... negative attitudes toward the future result from this kind of news." A sign in the institution reads: "KWJJ will broadcast from here daily until the brevity diminishes and prosperity returns." The station invites unemployed listeners to send in their job qualifications which KWJJ forwards to employ-place organizations in the area. Senators Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) and Richard Neuberger (D-Ore.) have been asked to tape ID's commenting on the station's news format. KWJJ reports three Happy News segments already have been sold.

Y&R Media Director Takes Prize In 'Name Our WBOY' Contest

First prize in the WBOY-TV Clarksburg, W. Va., station promotion contest was awarded last week to Raymond E. Jones, media director at Young & Rubicam, New York. Mr. Jones' entry of a name for the new station's trademark, a freckle-faced boy, was "Clark Fairmore," suggesting the three cities covered by WBOY-TV, namely Clarksburg, Fairmont and Morgantown, all West Virginia. His prize is a week's vacation for two at the Greenbrier Hotel, White Sulphur Springs, WV. Second prize, a Bell & Howell "Electric Eye" movie camera was awarded Walter I. Teitz, timebuyer, Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample, New York. Phil Archer, Campbell-Mithun, Minneapolis, received a Polaroid land camera as third prize.

McElroy, the defense secretary's wife.

‘Newer’ KTLN’s Many Promotions

A campaign promoting an "even newer" KTLN Denver, Colo., was launched Feb. 1. It began with a Kopy Kat contest wherein listeners were asked to send in reasons "why KTLN is the most copied station in Denver." The contest's dual purposes were arousing interest in the station and forestalling other outlets from copying its new promotions. Unusual prizes were given contestants phoning in answers to questions the station aired about itself in a Surprise-an-Hour contest. A "secret sound" also was broadcast. Starting with $100 jackpot, $5 was added each day until a listener identified the sound and won the money. Ted Foreman, KTLN’s new morning man, was featured in a Walking Man contest. He visited the area’s shopping centers while the station aired clues regarding the mystery man’s whereabouts. The person identifying him received 1,280 quarters. (1280 kc is KTLN’s frequency.) A hi-fi set was awarded the listener who correctly counted the number of times Mr. Foreman’s name was mentioned on the air Feb. 1. Also on that day, the station loosed 500 balloons printed with its call letters, which were redeemable for prizes when presented at KTLN.

A “SKYCASTLE” studio, operated by WLAP Lexington, Ky., in one of the city’s shopping centers during December, was incidental in bringing the heaviest Christmas sales increase since the center opened in 1950. Rog Lambert, WLAP’s program director-disc jockey, interviewed many of the sponsoring merchants during his show from the skycastle (Mon.-Fri., 3-5 p.m.). Traffic to the center was stimulated by license number games played several times each afternoon. Listeners were asked to pick up a sticker from one of the stores and place it in the rear window of their car. With the help of binoculars, Mr. Lambert read off the license numbers of cars displaying stickers and, if the owner came up to the studio within ten minutes, awarded him a five dollar bill.

‘Phony Express’ Rides for KIMN
The historical pony express run from Denver to Cheyenne, Wyo., was re-enacted by KIMN Denver in its “Phony Express” promotion. Disc jockey Gene Price manned a Vespa scooter-wagon and set out on the trip that originally involved nine horses. The d.j. called in reports to the station along the way describing the journey to its listeners. On arriving at Cheyenne, Mr. Price visited the governor of Wyoming, presented him with an advance copy of KIMN’s “Top Fifty” music list and invited him to tune into the station if ever he is in Denver. The governor telephoned KIMN and, in an on-air interview, expressed his appreciation.

Crosley Cartoon Prods Rate Cards

Dawn Patrol on WRGB For Russian
Basic Russian is being taught by WRGB (TV) Schenectady, N. Y. (6:30-7 a.m. Tuesday and Thursday). Jointly sponsored by WRGB, Mohawk-Hudson Council on Educational TV and the northeastern branch of the American Chemical Society, the course is designed at speeding up the distribution of Russian technical literature for American Scientists and engineers. The program’s host, Dr. Irving S. Bengelsdof of GE’s research laboratory, remarked that Russian technologists are taught English in school and thus are able to keep up with America’s technical developments, “there is no reason why information should continue to flow in one direction,” he said. While primarily aimed at the concentration of scientific personnel in the area, the program also is designed for the general public. The course was preceded by a series of six shows on Russia’s cultural and historical background.

WBNS-TV Calculator Reissued
WBNS-TV Columbus, Ohio, has reissued its Cost-per-Thousand Calculator—first distributed to advertising agencies in 1956—with added refinements. The back of the circular slide rule now lists tv homes in the country’s top market in addition to a reproduction of WBNS-TV’s coverage map. The face of calculator, printed on plastic and heavy board, is described by WBNS-TV Sales Director Robert D. Thomas as a circle within a circle. The plastic inner circle gives rating points and program costs, to be lined up with number of tv homes and cost-per-thousand figures on the outside.

Tv Editors Bewitched by WBZ-TV
For four days preceding WBZ-TV Boston’s feature “Wake of the Red Witch,” the station gave the city’s tv editors a gift in keeping with the theme of the movie. The flavor of the film’s pearl hunt sequence was conjured-up with the half-dozen oysters the editors received. The Red Witch ship carried a fortune in bullion and, the day after the oyster gift, bags of gold-foil covered candy were delivered. Cans of octopus meat arrived the third day—John Wayne, star of the movie, has a battle with a giant octopus. Finally, the editors received a model of the Red Witch in a bottle.

Stereo Jazz on WBUR, WGBH-FM
Stereophonic jazz was broadcast last Thursday by WBUR (FM) Boston U. and WGBH-FM Cambridge. Jazz authority Rev. Norman J. O’Connor introduced Jaki Byard’s modern-style band in an hour-long concert from the auditorium of Boston U.’s School of Public Relations & Communications. Success of another joint stereophonic effort, Dimensions in Sound, simulcast by the educational stations since last November, encouraged production of the jazz show.

Extra Hi-Fi Facilities for WBAI (FM)
WBAI (FM) New York reported a high-fidelity “music coup” last week when it began broadcasting the Chicago Symphony Orchestra concert live from Chicago each Thursday (9:15-11:15 p.m.) over a newly-installed 15,000 cycle telephone line. The extra-high fidelity facilities ordered by the station, WBAI stated, are unmatched by any station in the country.

ABC-NBC, NABET AGREE TENTATIVELY

- IBEW unit gets last CBS offer
- Union members must ratify

The threat of a television strike by engineers and technicians at ABC-TV and NBC-TV was averted Feb. 1 when a tentative agreement on a new two-year contract was reached with the National Assn. of Broadcast Employees & Technicians. Almost simultaneously, CBS-TV made its final offer on the evening of Jan. 31 to the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 1212, for CBS-TV technical employees.

The agreements are subject to ratification by the memberships of the unions, expected to be completed sometime this week. Approximately 3,600 employees at the three networks are involved in the settlements.

NABET and IBEW had strike authorization from their membership and the networks had formulated plans to maintain operations with supervisory and technically trained personnel before the settlement was accomplished. The proposed contract grants 1,600 workers at NBC and 800 at ABC a 6% wage increase on all levels of employment. This brings the maximum pay of technicians to about $180 a week from the previous high of $170 weekly. Under the old contract, the salary of technicians for the first year of service started at $91.15 and rose to $170 after four years, but the new pact provides a reduction in the escalator clause to three years to reach maximum pay.

NABET did not press its demand for the four-day, 32-hour week. The agreement calls for the retention of the five-day, 40-hour week. But it gained several concessions, including the strengthening of its jurisdiction over video tape. The old contract granted NABET jurisdiction over tape on studio-produced shows but the new contract gives the union jurisdiction over taped remote TV programs within a radius of 200 miles of any NBC or ABC owned station. NABET also obtained group insurance and paid hospitalization at NBC and ABC.

Partial gains also were made by IBEW in the areas of automation and a pension system at ABC (NABET already has one). Though it failed to set up a pension program at ABC, NABET obtained a pledge from ABC that the network will pay a week's salary for each year of work a man has had at the network at the retirement age of 65. The union also exacted a stipulation from the networks that any layoffs caused by automation must be on six-month notice and members will receive at least three months' pay (members may receive more than three months' salary depending on the amount of severance to which they are entitled).

IBEW held discussions in Washington with CBS negotiators for two weeks on a new contract covering about 1,200 employees. The network made its final offer on Jan. 31, when the old pact expired. The union is taking the proposals to members.

It was reported that CBS offered IBEW a pay rise that would lift the salary maximum of technicians to about $180 a week—the same as at ABC and NBC—and with the ceiling reached after three years instead of four years as under the old contract. The proposal sets the first year salary at $107, progressing to $120 weekly after three years. Though no confirmation could be obtained, estimates were that CBS offered an overall wage increase approximating 5%.

The network also proposed to grant an additional week vacation for service after 15 years, raising the total to five weeks. A pension system was not a problem at CBS because IBEW employees there are covered under terms of an overall company plan. IBEW, under terms of its 1956 pact with CBS, was given jurisdiction over video tape for both remote and studio telecasts.

CBS 'Trip' Rerouted After Union Dispute

CBS-TV's Let's Take a Trip—due to be snapped next month [Networks, Feb. 3]—last Sunday found itself with no place to go. Reason: it fell victim to the long-standing jurisdictional disputes in New York between Local 1212, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and Local 1, International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees. Caught in the middle was CBS-TV, which last Thursday took the matter before the National Labor Relations Board in hopes of winning an injunction against IATSE. This time the shoe was on the other foot. Where for some 10 months CBS labor relations executives have been waging a legal battle with IBEW officials over a similar episode, last Sunday's difficulties were started by Local 1, IATSE, the network's unofficial "ally." It was the $100,000 damage suit filed by Local 1212 [Personnel Relations, May 13, 1957]. The issue this time: whether Local 1212 or Local 1 had the right to handle remote lighting aboard a ship. CBS had assigned the work to Local 1212, but the IATSE local maintains "all lighting belongs to us," charging CBS with using the Local 1212 engineers "as both engineers and lighting specialists—a dishonest way of economizing."

The Trip was to have been made to United States Lines' S. S. United, the world's largest ocean-going liner. When CBS electricians arrived at pier 86 Feb. 1 to set up lights, they found an IATSE picket line. The network had planned to go with the telecast anyway, but U. S. Lines officials, seeing that stewards of the International Longshoremen's Assn. refused to cross the picketline, asked CBS to cancel the remote. Consequently, Let's Take a Trip rerouted—by kinescope—the New York Police Against Local 1212 show seen earlier this season.

This is not the first time IATSE has claimed lighting jurisdiction aboard ocean-going vessels. Several years ago, it struck CBS-TV's former Morning Show when that program intended to do a remote from aboard the Italian Line's Cristoforo Colombo, and earlier struck NBC-TV's former Tonight show, then with Steve Allen, when that program had planned a remote from the Panama. Local 1 claims jurisdiction in Manhattan and the Bronx, and its sister local, No. 4, covers Brooklyn. Network labor relations officials last week said they were to talk with CBS about a show seen earlier this season. Radio Set Sales Hit 10-Year High in '57

Radio's popularity is at a 10-year peak, matching that of the late '40s when tv was just on its way to a national circulation, according to factory production and retail sales for 1957.

The public's interest in aural broadcasting is reflected in 1957 output of radio sets—15.4 million compared to 13.9 million in 1956, and the best factory year since 1948. Retail sales of radios reached 9.7 million sets in 1957 compared to 8.3 million in 1956. Retail sales do not include auto models, which move direct to auto factories.

With tv's present circulation, the factory production of tv receivers is heavily in the replacement and second-set field. Last year's tv output totaled 6.4 million sets compared to 7.4 million in 1956.

In announcing 1957 production and sales figures, Electronic Industries Assn. pointed out that radio sales were up 12% over 1956 and represented the sixth highest retail sales level in radio history.

Of the 1957 radios, 1.6 million were transistorized portables. Auto set production totaled 5.5 million, of which 2.9 million were transistor models. The figures show that 49% of all portable radio sets were transistorized and 51% of all auto sets were similarly equipped.

December 1957 radio production totaled 1,793,336 sets compared to 1,715,209 in the same 1956 month. Retail set sales totaled 2,031,444 in December compared to 1,651,950 in the same 1956 month.

EIA observed in announcing the radio figures: "Some industry marketing men believe that the phenomenal growth of radio in recent years, and particularly in 1957, is due to the increasing interest and popularity of records, since radio listening is the only means by which one can become familiar with the latest releases."

While tv production dropped from 7.4 million in 1956 to 6.4 million in 1957, EIA noted that retail sales remained at a relatively high level—6.8 million sets in 1956 and 6.6 million in 1957. Manufacturers achieved substantial cuts in inventories. Retailers, too, kept inventories at a low point—810,000 sets at the start of 1958, compared to 1,085,000 the year before.

One out of eight tv sets, or 779,800, had uhf tuners in 1957 compared to 1,035,236 all wave sets made in 1956. December tv output totaled 573,546 sets compared to 626,984 in December 1956. Retail tv sales totaled 923,339 sets in December compared to 957,193 sold in the same 1956 month.

Factory sales of tv picture tubes totaled 9.7 million units in 1957 compared to the record of 10.9 million in 1956. Receiving tube sales totaled 456 million units last year compared to 464 million in 1956.

Transistor sales by factories amounted to 28.7 million units in 1957 compared to 12.8 million in 1956.

Raytheon Earns $4.8 Million

Raytheon Mfg. Co., Waltham, Mass., earned an estimated $4.8 million after taxes in 1957 ($1.70 per share) from sales of $250 million, it has been announced by President Charles F. Adams. About 80% of the business was government contracts. In addition, Raytheon realized a net non-recurring gain of $2,030,000 from liquidation of the cathode ray tube division to boost total profit for the year to more than $6.8 million ($2.41 per share). No comparison with 1956 was made because of a change in fiscal years, but the 1957 income was described as an increase. Further gain is predicted for 1958.

Westinghouse Sales Set Record

Record sales in 1957 and for the fourth quarter of that year have been reported by Westinghouse Electric Corp. Volume for the year was $2,009,043,000, according to Gwilym A. Price, chairman, who added the earnings were second only to those of 1954. Mr. Price reported the net income for 1957 at $72,652,000, equal to $4.18 a share on the 16,943,337 common shares outstanding at year end. Last January Mr. Price predicted 1957 earnings would amount to $3.50 to $4 a share. Peak earnings of 1954 amounted to $79,921,000 or $4.78 a share, with sales for that year at $1,636,184,000.

Executives Shift at Austin Co.

'Patron' Plan for ETV Underway on WTTW (TV)

What may be the first instance of a non-commercial station encroaching upon the no-sponsor concept of the FCC in educational television, in terms of production costs if not time purchases, has come to light in Chicago, along with plans to attract advertising support on a national scale.

WTTW (TV), licensed to the Chicago Educational Television Assn., concluded the first of a series of film programs produced under a grant from the Schering Corp. (proprietary, pharmaceutical firm), Bloomfield, N. J. The 13-part, half-hour series has been distributed to other ETV stations throughout the country.

It represented the initial effort by the newly-formed Organization for National Support of Educational Television (ONSET) for developing specialized programs and inviting segments of industry to serve as "patrons." The basic requisite: no control over program content.

The first series, World of Medicine, completed its run on WTTW (ch. 11) Dec. 16 and both CETA and ONSET plan to extend the "patron" approach to "many projects in many different fields of interests.*

The World of Medicine opens and closes with a reminder that "This program has been made possible by a grant from the Schering Corp." The film also includes credits identifying the doctors or other protagonists in the telecast (viz., "The dermatologist, played by so and so," etc.).

Dr. John W. Taylor, executive director of the Chicago Educational Television Assn., noted that FCC regulations require that the source of the program, and of its funds, be clearly stated, "which we do in the case of institutional patrons." He felt this type of program might be likened to industrial films which don't include a direct commercial for the viewer, but do "help the viewers utilize the service or product type in the program."

He told Broadcasting CETA and ONSET have three or four similar series under study, including one on life insurance.

A brochure on World of Medicine expresses the gratification of Francis C. Brown, Schering president, in being "patron" for the series and the hope that "our support has helped pioneer the use of educational television in its efforts to present the achievements of science in an interesting and informative manner to the American people."

Dr. John W. Taylor, executive director of the Chicago Educational Television Assn., feels the concept places ETV "on the threshold of new adventures in creative programming" and adds: "Schering Corp. cheerfully accepted the condition that as patron it would have no influence over program content. It did so because it believes that any responsible project to help the American people better understand medicine deserves the support not only of educators but of business as well."

Edward L. Ryerson, former board chairman of Inland Steel Co., serves as president of both CETA and ONSET. He claims ONSET has "established rigid standards to enforce the purely educational independence of the program. Patrons are accepted only by invitation."

Mr. Ryerson describes ONSET as "the outgrowth of experience in production of educational programs financed through industrial grants and was formed in recognition of the fact that there should be an organization devoted to developing educational programs and to matching such programs with appropriate patrons."

Sherman H. Dryer, head of a tv production firm bearing his name and ONSET board member, claims ONSET "patrons" and commercial tv sponsors differ because the former are accepted by invitation only and "exercise no influence over program content."

"By financing on a national basis with patrons from the business world, through the facilities of educational television ONSET hopes to advance significantly the quality and status of educational television programming both on educational stations and as a public service on commercial stations."

The filmed World of Medicine series utilizes no actors, scripts or dramatized sequences and features doctors, pharmacists, nurses and other medical personnel. It covers a variety of subjects from pediatrics to geriatrics.

Schering manufactures endocrine, X-ray diagnostic, chemotherapeutic and pharmaceutical products, including cosmetics, and is active in radio and tv.

Capitol Fellowships Announced

The American Political Science Assn., Washington, D.C., has opened competition for nine-month fellowships in Congress from November 1958-August 1959 to be granted to political scientists and political journalists between the ages of 25 and 32. Fellows will be granted a stipend of $4,500, mostly tax-free, and the opportunity to work on Capitol Hill in Washington. Application blanks and information are available from the association at 1726 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., Washington 6.

Funds for the fellowships come from grants by the Ford Foundation, the Edgar Stern Family Fund, the Courier-Journal and Louisville Times Foundation, the New York Times, the John Randolph and Dora Haynes Foundation, the Shinner Foundation, the Revlon Foundation and Cyrus Eaton.

WTTW Donates Its Old Facilities To School Board, Also Buys WWEZ

The facilities of WTTW New Orleans will be operated by the Orleans Parish school board as a donation from the station's licensee, Mid-Continent Broadcasting Co., which in turn has purchased the license and property of WWEZ New Orleans for $490,000 (see page 78), it was announced last week. Mid-Continent will retain the call letters WTTW when it assumes the 690 kc, 5 kw facilities of WWEZ. Mid-Continent will also maintain its old studios at 624 Canal St.

The station donation to the school board is a one-year trial basis. The board may keep or sell the station after the year is up and retain any profit made. If the board is not satisfied with the station at the end of the year, Mid-Continent will pay the operating expenses up to a maximum of $35,000. Otherwise, the expenses are to be paid by the board.

Ted Storz, president of Mid-Continent, attributed the donation of the station for educational purposes to his firm's "interest in the cultural development of the community." Emile A. Wagner Jr., president of the school board, stated that the station will "be operated in furtherance of not only the education of children but for the community at large."

U. of Texas to Try for Tv

A new organization to put an educational station on ch. 9 San Antonio, Tex., has been formed by the U. of Texas, Austin, and the San Antonio Council on Educational Television. According to an announcement by the university, the new group anticipates amending an application now on file with the FCC to specify studios and transmission in Austin as well as San Antonio. The university will seek operation funds for the station from private sources, it says, estimating a total capital investment of $300,000 and annual operating costs of $50,000.

WTTW (TV)'Gifts' Top $125,000

WTTW (TV), Chicago, non-commercial, educational station, has raised $125,000 in "special gifts" and over $2,000 from viewers in its campaign to raise $340,000 for the station's 1958 operation, it has been announced. The financial report was given by John L. Clarkson, chairman of the special gifts drive, at a luncheon in the Chicago Club. No specific amount has been set as a goal for special gifts, but WTTW hopes to raise the bulk of this year's operating monies in this way.

Co. for new fm station on 1570 kc 250 w D. in Gate City, Va.

By order of Jan. 30, Commission made effective immediately Dec. 31 initial decision, as modified by Commission, and granted application of Roe-Dee Radio Bestg. Co. Inc., to change facilities of WAWK Randellville, Ind., from operation with DA to directional (1570 kc) s w b condition.

By memorandum opinion and order of Jan. 30, Commission denied petition by McClatchy Newspapers for enlargement of issue in proceeding on application of Sacramento Telecasters Inc., for mod. of cp to change trans. and studio site of KBBF-TV (ch. 10) Sacramento, Calif., change type ant. and make other equipment changes; denied motion of KBBF-TV to strike that petition; and granted petition of McClatchy Newspapers to substitute it as party to proceeding in lieu of McClatchy Bestg. Co.

By memorandum opinion and order of Jan. 30, Commission acted upon petitions in proceeding on application of Western Neb. Neb. TV Inc. for new tv station to operate on ch. 13 in Alliance, Neb., as follows: (1) dismissed as moot motion by Frontier Bestg. Co. to enlarge issues; (2) denied that portion of motion to enlarge issues by Western Neb. which sought that financial issue be stricken, and dismissed as moot remainder of motion; (3) denied petitions by Frontier for reversal of rulings denying intervention and status as party to proceeding; and (4) denied Western Neb.'s request for reconsideration of Oct. 9 grant of Frontier application for mod. of cp of station KSTF (ch. 10) Scottsbluff, Neb., to change transmitting equipment and increase erp.

By order of Jan. 30, Commission allowed amendment of Miss. Bestg. Co., Carthage, Miss., to opposition to petitions to enlarge issues in am proceeding on its application and that of Horace Ims Jr. (WMOK), Meridian, Miss., involving 1010 kc.

INITIAL DECISIONS

Hearing Examiner Hugh R. Hutchinson issued initial decision recommending that Commission amend Sec. 3.26 of rules to change designation of clear ch. 770 kc from Class 1-A to Class 1-B, and order Albuquerque Bestg. Co. and American Broadcasting Paramount Theatres Inc., to show cause why the authorizations of their respective stations—KOB at Albuquerque, N. Mex., and WABC New York City—Should not be mod. to operate as Class 1-B rather than Class 1-A stations, 770 kc, 50 kw, unlimited time, with directional ant. at night to protect the service of each station. (KABC is licensed on 770 kc, 50 kw, unl.; KOX is licensed on 1630 kc, 10 kw, unl.; has cp for 1320 kc, 50 kw, unl., and is operating under SCA on 770 kc, 50 kw-LS, 25 kw-N.) The initial decision granted motion of KOB to correct the transcript record. Announced Feb. 5.

Number of Quiz Shows Decreases In Face of Threatened New Rule

Quiz shows on Canadian radio stations are undergoing a definite change in view of the possibility that CBC board of governors may announce regulations limiting quiz shows at its Feb. 14 meeting. CBC has announced that it plans to require all entries to be judged on merit, contestants to be in the studio and programs to have an element of skill. A number of radio stations have dropped all quiz shows; others are considering dropping some of the shows, and advertisers also are dropping some of the quiz programs.

Canada Packers Ltd. (food products), Toronto, will discontinue its two radio quiz shows, Who Am I? on 54 stations, and It's My Living on 17 stations, as soon as current contests are over. They consider the programs "not in the company's best interest." Two other food product advertisers, using quiz shows on a large number of radio stations, Canadian Canners Ltd., Hamilton, Ont., and Swift Canadian Co., Toronto, have not dropped their quiz shows. Fifty a Day and Swift Money Man, and do not plan to do so as long as the programs can be placed on radio stations, it has been said.

70% of Canadian Homes Have TV

Fully 70% of Canadian households had television receivers at the end of 1957, according to a survey by the Bureau of Broadcast Measurement, Toronto. The survey, made Nov. 1, 1957, shows Canada population at that time was 16,799,900 with 4,102,100 households. Of these homes, 2,866,600 were equipped with television sets last year.

The highest concentration of TV homes is shown in the Quebec City metropolitan area with 86% of all households equipped with TV sets. The Montreal metropolitan area shows 90% of its 425,600 households as TV homes with surrounding counties showing from 87% to 90% of all households as TV homes. In Ontario the Toronto metropolitan area shows 86% of all households as TV homes, and most other metropolitan areas in the province show a similar high percentage of television-equipped homes.

For Canada's ten provinces, from Atlantic to Pacific, the BBM survey shows that there were 24,500 TV homes, 30% of a total 82,100 households in Newfoundland; 10,500 or 46% of the 23,000 households in Prince Edward Island; 10,000 or 65% of the 167,000 households in Nova Scotia were TV homes; 68,600 or 55% of the 124,500 households in New Brunswick were TV homes; 132,100 or 80% of the 1,044,600 households in Quebec were equipped with TV sets; 1,186,900 or 81% of the 1,469,300 households in Ontario had TV sets; 127,300 or 57% of the 223,700 households in Manitoba had TV sets; 93,400 or 39% of the 236,700 households in Saskatchewan were equipped with TV receivers; 174,300 or 57% of the 308,000 households in Alberta were TV homes; and 240,000 or 57% of the 423,200 homes in British Columbia had TV sets.

Radio-TV Nets Over $6 Million

Canada's radio and television broadcasting industry, covering both government-owned CBC and privately owned stations, showed a net income in 1956 of $6,913,000, it has been reported. This is the first time such an industry figure has been compiled by the government's Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The 1956 figure was released late in January and the 1957 figure will not be available till late this year. Net income from radio was $7,234,000, while there was a deficit of $321,000 for TV station operations, DBS statistics showed.

Korean TV Falls Under Censor

The Ministry of Education of Korea at Seoul soon will expand its censorship activities to include television programs, it was reported last week by UP. The ministry already censors movie films and the government's Office of Public Information censors newsreels for theatres. Seoul has an operating TV station, the only one in Korea except for the low power station on the U.S. Army, not affected by the censorship provisons.

REMAC Reports on All-Channel Set

A total of 10% of all television receivers sold in Canada in the last four months of 1957 were equipped for all channel reception, the Radio-Electronics-Television Manufacturers Assn. of Canada has told the Canadian Assn. of Radio & TV Broadcasters in urging CARTB members to apply for uhf channels now allotted to Canada. The manufacturers group also reported that substantial quantities of uhf converters have been sold in Canada for tuning in American uhf stations near the international border. In urging CARTB members to apply for uhf channels, the manufacturers said they have the capacity to make all the necessary uhf receivers which would be required.

'Liberty' Honors Bochner, Blake For Canadian TV Acting in 1957

Lloyd Bochner and Katherine Blake, both of Toronto, have been selected as the best actor and actress in Canadian television during 1957 in the third annual Liberty magazine, all-Canada tv talent awards. ('Liberty' is owned by Jack Cooke, owner of CKEY Toronto.) Presentations of gold statues were made on Canadian General Electric Showtime tv national network program on Jan. 26. The best character actor and actress named were Paul Kligman and Winnifred Dennis.

Toronto writer Arthur Halley won the award as top Canadian tv playwright. Robert Allen of CBC was selected as the best television producer. The top variety show award went to CBC's Music Makers '58, with Front Page Challenge as the best new show on Canadian tv.

Three Showtime performers took awards, Bob Goulet as best male singer, Joyce Sullivan as best female singer, and the Carlu Carter dance trio as best dancers. Sylvia Murphy was chosen as best new performer to appear on Canadian tv in the year. The Hi-Lites, featured on Music Makers '58, were judged the best group singers, and best m.c. award went to Fred Davis of Front Page Challenge. The top comedian award went to Johnny Wayne and Frank Shuster, perennial favorites. CBC's Junior Magazine was judged the best children's program and Joel Aird was chosen as the best tv announcer of the year.

The winners were chosen as the result of a poll of 200 newspapers and tv stations.

Meeting Postponed for Election

Dates of the annual meeting of the Canadian Assn. of Radio and Tv Broadcasters have been changed from March 30-April 2 at the Mount Royal Hotel, Montreal, to May 11-14 at the Queen Elizabeth Hotel, Montreal. The sudden calling of a Canadian federal election for March 31 is the reason for the change, since many broadcasters will be busy with election coverage, and will be unable to attend the sessions.
ABROAD IN BRIEF

TV TAKE-OFF: Television receiver sales leaped 25% ahead of the overall world gain in 1957, according to one year-end survey. Eighteen countries west of the Soviet bloc gained 2.5 million sets during the year, for a total now close to 12 million, it is reported. The survey lists 300 TV transmitters in the western countries and 53 east of the Iron Curtain, broadcasting to 3.3 million transmitters. Current set totals given for leading TV countries: Great Britain, close to 8 million; West Germany, more than 1.2 million; France, almost 1 million (55% of the total population is in reach of a signal, but development is reported slowing down because of budget-cutting); Italy, nearly 1 million; Belgium, 300,000; Holland, 250,000; Denmark, more than 100,000; Sweden, 60,000, and Austria, more than 30,000. All these have government-operated broadcasting systems. Two of them, Germany and Italy, have inserted commercial segments in schedules, and Belgium and Holland are discussing such a plan. Switzerland has ruled out commercial TV for the next ten years. Luxembourg's commercial TV station is reported reaching into France and Belgium.

OVER ALL DEUTSCHLAND: Limited commercial television will be virtually nationwide in West Germany next fall, when South German Radio, Stuttgart, joins five other government stations carrying a sponsored half-hour daily. The Stuttgart station has announced it would start its commercial show in October, leaving only one (Radio Bremen, which has limited coverage) holding out against the trend to commercial subsidy [INTERNATIONAL, Jan. 20].

AMSTERDAM ISSUE: The Dutch government is expected to deal shortly with introducing commercial TV in some form, according to reports from Amsterdam. Two factions are promoting separate commercial systems, one favoring private broadcasting and the other for selling time on the country's public monopoly stations. The former, Independent National Television Assn. (ONTV) has been working since 1955 without results for a Dutch version of Great Britain's Independent Television Authority. The other, Assn. for Development of Television Broadcasting (TEM) was formed in 1956 by industrial interests, publishers and banks to persuade the government to sell time on its own stations.

TV TEASE: When London's commercial television station broadcast a girlie show Wednesday, reaction was reported favorable, with only a few telephone complaints about the nude cast. The program—telecast when "all the kiddies" were in bed—featured a fan dancer and an Indonesian Ballet.成本umed in transparent drapes, on the stage of The Windmill, Britain's famous girlie theatre.

On being a ‘pioneer’ or ‘settler’ as television expands its frontier

Television has no equal as a stimulant to management. Despite its rapid growth, the medium is still advertising’s frontier, and like any frontier it lies between the already-known and the still-to-be-discovered. Also like any frontier it is both challenging and dangerous.

One of the big dangers and real challenges to the management of both advertiser and agency is the constant risk of losing touch with this fast moving medium. Losing touch in this case means running the risk of letting those directly responsible for tv settle for “average good” instead of striving for “great.” It is the risk of having your section of the frontier populated with “settlers” rather than with “pioneers.”

Pioneering, of course, has to be kept in perspective. There can be no question about an agency’s responsibility to its clients—the responsibility to invest advertising dollars wisely, carefully, where they will bring the biggest possible return in profitable sales. But there is always a question about just where that “biggest possible return” will be found. Does opportunity lie on the settlers’ side of the frontier where everything is tried and tested and safe? Or does it lie on the pioneers’ side?

The answer is probably “both.” Sometimes it is best to play it safe. Other times boldness pays off. But often the pressure for safety is so strong that the imporance of pioneering is forgotten.

WHEN Y&R BROKE TRAIL

Our pioneering really began in 1945, a year when Y&R’s total television billing was a whopping $16,000. In the rough and tumble years since then, in company with our friends and fellow agents, we have seen TV’s volume climb upward to more than a billion dollars a year and have introduced most of our clients into this dynamic selling medium.

Across the years, like other agencies, we have witnessed (and participated in) the rise and fall of the comedians, the picturization of daytime radio soap operas, the emergence of spectaculars, of morning shows and late night shows, the rise and indicated decline of the money quizzes, the growth of Hollywood network production, the decline of agency production, the rise of the independent film producer, the rise of the independent station, the maturing of a third network, the liberalization of the comedy, and finally, the growth of an audience of 41,200,000 homes.

In short, the frontier has been rolled back a long way. But let’s face it: it is still a frontier—and always will be.

In other words, we learn only by doing. Even though the process is sometimes painful. Between 1945 and 1958 lie the bones of many an experiment that it was hoped would contribute to the medium and to the common goal of building audiences. One of our own early experiments was based on a belief that comedians would build an audience faster than other performers. We refer back to the year 1948 and the show in which we introduced Phil Silvers to television. The mistake: wrong format, lack of experience, a case of too little too soon. But nobody bats a thousand, and the lessons were of real value when the day of the comedians dawned.

Not all ventures bring scars. Take Alfred Hitchcock’s show, for instance. There was a time when the highly original impact of this offbeat approach both commercially and in show content seemed far from ideal by conservative standards. Was a program that introduced the commercials with gentle mockery and featured bizarre stories with frequent sad endings a wise choice? In a joint action client and agency decision to give it a try—this is that freshness and originality certainly offered some promise of success. Together we ventured across the frontier—and the pioneering paid off.

When Robin Hood first appeared, comforting precedents again were as scarce as bicycles in Sherwood Forest. This was “kid stuff” made in England. Why take the chance? Again it seemed that freshness and originality deserved a run for the money.

Our client agreed and bow and arrow almost replaced the atomic pistol in the playgrounds of America.

Other examples come to mind on a broader scale. When Pat Weaver at NBC started today he was pioneering so far across the frontier you couldn’t see him with a telescope. And so he was again with Home and Wide, Wide World. When CBS made the management decision to break the pattern and launch Playhouse 90, it took the same risk and the face of television was changed. When ABC put Maverick on at 7:30 Sunday night to compete (a half hour later) with Ed Sullivan and Steve Allen, Kaiser’s sponsorship represented a willingness on the part of management to take a calculated risk—and the high ratings are proving the rightness of the decision.

Pioneering has proved itself in the field of tv commercials, too. It would have been so easy to rest on the oars and let television selling develop into radio-with-pictures, instead of attempting to evolve television’s own way of demonstrating products and starting the impulse to buy.

Surely a good orthodox way to sell an electric shaver is to show a man shaving with it. But is a good way good enough? Pioneering for a better way, we came up with now famous commercials where peaches were shaved instead of faces. Off beat? Perhaps—but also a dramatic demonstration of product performance.

PIONEERING ISN’T GAMBLING

Now, with all this talk of pioneering, there is one point well worth extra emphasis: There’s a big difference between being a pioneer and being a gambler.

In the early days of television it didn’t cost much to take a chance. But today if you gamble it is with millions of dollars. And that is just bad business. That’s why today’s tv pioneers do their best to take out the gambling element.

Research, experience, judgment, every bit of fact and every piece of available knowledge—all are used to reduce the element of chance, to help make sure the venture will succeed. But in television there can be no guarantees of success. Sooner or later the moment of decision always comes: Play it safe or play it bold? An agency should know how to do both. More important, it should know when to do which.

Certainly sticking with the tried and true is the right course in many cases. It sells lots of products. But a decade of experience shows that remarkably often the path of progress isn’t the well-traveled road—it is the pioneer’s trail.
EDITORIALS

The Main Street Miracle

An amazing transformation has occurred in broadcasting in the past few weeks. It has taken place on Main Street, in dozens of cities—the grass roots.

It all started at the CBS-TV affiliates conference in Washington last month. Affiliates of that network learned at first hand about the threat of pay television and of the Barrow Report on network operations.

Back home, stations which had never editorialized before took to the air. They importuned their listeners and viewers to write their Congressmen and Senators in opposition to the pay tv tests which the FCC proposes to authorize next month.

Members of Congress have been deluged with telegrams, letters and petitions. More than a dozen anti-pay tv bills have been introduced. Dozens of articles opposing the FCC plan have been inserted in the Congressional Record. Almost overnight a tidal wave has inundated a hitherto relatively placid Congress, offsetting if not overtaking the years of massive lobbying of Zenith and other toll-tv proponents.

Congress hasn't yet acted to curb the FCC's plan for toll-tv tests—a plan that the FCC itself probably would like to have superseded by Congressional expression. But the House Commerce Committee last Thursday voted to instruct the FCC to hold everything. This was accomplished because the elected heard from their electors, their own people.

Main Street already has done in a few weeks what Madison Avenue and Pennsylvania Avenue have not been able to achieve in many months. The weapons are the facts given wing over microphones and cameras from home folks to home folks in the language they understand.

The Moulder Mess

If one would attempt to combine into a single Congressional hearing all of the unsavory elements of such proceedings over the years, he would find them in the performance of the Moulder Committee last week in its tortured effort to prove official misconduct charges against members of the FCC.

During three weird days last week the committee heard testimony on the conduct of FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer. As it emerged from the evidence that was introduced, Mr. Doerfer's conduct may not have been exemplary, but it certainly has not been criminal. Yet Mr. Doerfer was subjected to a type of prosecution that not even the most incorrigible thug would receive in a court of law.

The tactics of Chief Counsel Bernard Schwartz outdid McCarthyism in its heyday. The frequent flareups on the committee made it evident that the Congressmen had lost control and that Prosecutor Schwartz could do pretty much as he pleased with the acquiescence only of Chairman Morgan Moulder (D-Mo.), and the less outspoken support of Rep. J. E. Moss (D-Calif.). There are nine other members. The others were sharply critical of the procedure but apparently wouldn't stop the travesty for fear of being accused of a whitewash.

Mr. Schwartz and/or his committee followers have used the leak technique to cow the committee majority. Again last week, the New York Times and the Drew Pearson column ran advance stories on "confidential" memoranda before Chairman Doerfer appeared. Members of the committee had less information than that which appeared in the planted stories.

The subcommittee already has spent a considerable portion of its record $250,000 budget, largely for the FCC fishing expedition.

So far, the inquiry has produced information about $9 or $10 per diem items and the propriety of a commissioner accepting honorariums probably totalling no more than $2,000 in five years. There is no question about the legality of such honorariums, because there is a specific provision of law allowing them. attested to last Wednesday by President Eisenhower himself.

Meanwhile, hardly a wheel has turned at the FCC during the past month. Morale is at a low ebb. It will take weeks for the FCC to recover its equilibrium, whatever the outcome of the Moulder-Schwartz persecution. Important decisions are backing up.

The subcommittee hasn't ventured into the less sensational but infinitely more important task of seeking to ascertain whether the FCC or other administrative agencies are carrying out their legislative mandates; whether the FCC is consistent in the application of criteria in determining comparative hearing cases and its allocation procedures.

Since we're not on the leak-team, we do not know what Schwartz & Co. will produce in the hearings involving other commissioners who already have been brutally maligned by the distribution of unsubstantiated charges of criminal violation of the law.

Enough has been seen, we think, to warrant forthwith withdrawal of the absurd criminal charges against Chairman Doerfer. The committee should no longer condone the recklessness and the subordination of Bernard Schwartz.

Hurt by Headlines

Let's face it. Television is in danger of being hurt by headlines.

Headlines, of course, are a newspaper province, and newspapers cannot be expected to play up television's values. To newspapers, television news is good only when it's bad.

A case in point is a front-page story in the Wall Street Journal a few days ago. By its selection of items to feature in the headlines this generally excellent paper left the impression—wittingly or otherwise—that advertisers can get more hard-sell in newspapers than in television.

Broadcasting has as much trouble writing headlines as any other publication. Headlines have to fit, and we would agree with the Wall Street Journal or anyone else that it isn't always easy. We do wonder what sense of news urgency propelled the Wall Street Journal to feature in its headlines on Jan. 29, 1958, the fact that General Electric had diverted some of its budget from tv to newspapers, an event that occurred in the fall of 1957—if it occurred at all (GCE authorities say they can't tell yet whether the cut money actually is going to newspapers).

No matter. The point here is that newspapers will go on doing this sort of thing.

The unfortunate fact is that some advertisers, taking a closer look at their spending in today's uncertain economy, may themselves be influenced by headlines about economies that somebody else has made—even when that somebody else did it months ago.

For tv broadcasters it's imperative that the television story be told—in every way possible, including especially on-the-air telling. If advertising is switching to the hard-sell—and there's no doubt about it—what medium outside of radio can come close to television as a hard-sell vehicle? None can, and there's no doubt about that, either. But, unless tv speaks up, the newspapers will confuse the issue and make it appear that they're the hard-sell medium.

Procter & Gamble moves a billion dollars worth of products every year. Three fourths of its advertising is in tv. In television broadcasters themselves have a billion-dollar product. Now more than ever they should take a lesson from their No. 1 user and employ their own medium to spread the word about its reach, its impact and its sales effectiveness.

"It was bound to happen sooner or later!"

G. WASHINGTON COULDN'T HAVE MADE IT ACROSS THE OHIO!

The truth of the matter is that most people can't... that is all but those who use WSAZ-TV as their sales pitching arm. Though the Ohio River is a lot wider than George's Potomac, WSAZ-TV advertisers know their dollars travel a magnificent distance across — and up and down — our prosperous Ohio River Valley. They go much further than dollars spent on all other Huntington-Charleston TV stations.

Like George we can't tell lies. We don't have to. Look at our pitching record.

ARB's NEW TOTAL TV AREA REPORT PROVES KCRA-TV FIRST IN 27 NORTHERN CALIFORNIA COUNTIES

KCRA-TV has been the unchallenged leader in every Metropolitan Sacramento ARB report since November, 1955...now the first ARB Total TV Area Report offers proof positive that this viewer preference for KCRA-TV extends over the full 27-county area served by the Sacramento stations.

ARB's new rating technique provides three important features:

1. Measures the entire Sacramento television market area...not just one station's coverage...providing an accurate yardstick for all competitive stations.
2. Reports total homes reached for each program instead of an area rating.
3. Provides program ratings for the Sacramento metropolitan area based on a simultaneously conducted survey.

Your Edward Petry and Co. representative will be pleased to show you ARB's new Total TV Area Report, giving the first complete picture of the total Sacramento television market. See this report and place your client's message on KCRA-TV, first in metropolitan Sacramento and first in the total 27-county Sacramento television market.
