Now what manner of man is this, ye say?
'Tis our lovable Irish Tom, it is!...

When one of the big network stars complains about how tough it is to turn out a weekly television show, we can't help but smile a little and think about Tom Duggan.

For 3 years now, Duggan has talked and kidded and charmed his way through 105 minutes every weekday night, and 75 more on Saturday. All live. Sundays we let him off.

He can't sing, can't dance, isn't much of a comic, but he's the kind of guy that's easy to take late at night, and his show is fun to watch. Once in awhile he even blows off a little steam when he thinks somebody's getting stepped on.

Maybe it's the way he handles guests. Maybe it's his handsome puss, or that Kilarney gift of gab. Or maybe it's the crazy commercials. All we know is that this warm, screwball Irishman attracts more people and more sponsors and sells more products than anyone ever imagined.

SALE OF WEEK • Sale of WKTV (TV), WKAL Utica-Rome, N. Y., to group headed by Paul F. Harron, former owner of ch. 12 WPFW-TV (now dark WVUE), and Gordon Gray, veteran East Coast broadcaster, for approximately $2.9 million net, has been agreed upon, with transfer papers likely to be filed this week. Station, now assigned to ch. 13 but cleared for move to ch. 2, is owned by Myron J. Kallet (55%), Penn-State Realty Co. (25%) and others. Mr. Kallet controls Kallet Theatres Inc. WKTV is NBC primary and holds secondary affiliations with ABC and CBS. WKAL, 250 watt on 1450, is MBS affiliated.

Mr. Harron last year sold his ch. 12 WPFW-TV Wilmington-Philadelphia and WIBG-AM-FM Philadelphia to Storer Broadcasting Co. for $5.6 million (Storer Broadcasting last October closed down tv but continues WIBG operation). Mr. Gray, now identified with Tom O'Neill-RKO Telephoto Pictures Inc. and formerly vice-president-general manager of WOR-AM-TV New York, will become executive operating head of stations upon FCC approval of transfer. In addition to Messrs. Harron and Gray, there are two minority stockholders from New York as well as several from Pennsylvania.

POTTER AND FCC • Sen. Charles E. Potter, of Michigan, who lost out in last Tuesday's elections, is expected to wind up with top federal appointment in Washington. Although recognized as one of best informed men in Senate on communications (he headed Communications Subcommittee during GOP control), Mr. Potter also has been active in veterans and socioeconomic affairs. While FCC is not ruled out, there are no vacancies on that agency, and reports have him slated for top job either in Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare or Veterans Administration. Prior to war, he was in social work.

If GOP vacancy did exist on FCC, it's generally believed that Sen. Potter could have it for asking. He considered FCC while in Senate but was urged by GOP leadership to run this year, even though outlook was bleak. Actually, there will be no opportunity for FCC until June 30, 1959, when current term of veteran Conn. Rosel H. Hyde, Idaho Republican, expires. Acting Chairman Hyde's unblemished record and distinguished service are expected to win his reappointment for another seven-year term. Moreover, it is felt Sen. Potter would be reluctant to stand in Mr. Hyde's way, and would actively support his reappointment.

LIQUOR INQUIRY • BBDO, New York, has quietly been asking radio station representatives for lists of stations accepting liquor commercials, so far has found but few. BBDO represents several Schenley brands, but told reps it had no liquor campaign in mind for radio, was simply seeking information in case clients asked for it.

How widespread is triple-spotting in television? BBDO, which contracted last summer with payment-refusal clause reserving right not to pay for announcement triple-spotting in prime time (between network shows), also took sample based on study by Broadcast Advertising Repairs—sample of 15 out of 25 reported markets—and found incidence of triple-spotting at only 5%; “over-commercialization” was restricted to only two or three markets.

COPY CHECK • Rhubarb which broke out couple weeks ago over ways networks were using ratings figures in program promotion ads [Networks, Oct. 27]—actually all three networks had used different parts of same service (Trendex)—is only one side of coin. They won’t comment officially, but it’s understood Nielsen officials, for example, currently are spending 30 to 40 executive hours per month checking network ads in advance of publication.

American Research Bureau has signed CBS-TV and NBC-TV and “most major agencies” as clients for its new multi-city Arbitron instant ratings system. Multi-city Arbitron, in seven markets, has been in commercial operation since Oct. 11, but no announcement of that status has been made (see Arbitron ratings of tv election coverage page 62 and Arbitron daily leaders page 9).

AGENCY MERGER TALK • Exploratory talks that could lead to merger were reportedly begun last week in New York between Ernest A. Jones, president of MacManus, John & Adams Inc., and Fletcher D. Richards, president-board of agency during his name. While Mr. Jones—on route to West Coast—could not be reached Friday, M&J spokesman confirmed talks were held. Fletcher D. Richards officials also confirmed talks but added that M&J was one of several agencies Richards is “listening to,” but not necessarily initiating talks with.” Richards, according to these officials, seeks growth through merger, so far this year has signed with two West Coast and Canadian agencies—Harrrisl-Harlan-Wood and Tandy Adv. Ltd.

Chances are dimming for Senatorial exposure of secondary boycott pressures used by unions against broadcasters, judging by tentative agenda of McClellan labor investigating subcommittee which resumes hearings Nov. 13. Probe of IBEW methods used against WKRG-AM-TV Mobile, Ala., has been considered by subcommittee, but present signs indicate procedure will be to focus on highly vulnerable letter writer and hankering union activities in light of sensational revelations earlier this year. WKRG technicians voted out IBEW over year ago and IBEW has directed vigorous drive against station’s advertisers.

POLITICAL BROADCASTERS • Add to list of broadcasters holding high public office: John Morgan Davis, elected Democratic lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania last Tuesday’s Democratic landslide. Mr. Davis is owner of WALL Middletown, N. Y., and only last week received FCC approval of transfer of WSPB Sarasota, Fla. (see page 84). An attorney, Mr. Davis was formerly general counsel for NAB (Aug. 1944-Dec. 1945). He resigned midsummer as judge of Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia County to campaign (CLOSED CIRCUIT, July 28).

FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer, who has been in Europe since mid-September as chairman of American delegation to International Telecommunications Conference in Geneva, advised his office Friday that he plans to return to U. S. between Nov. 20 and 25. He is accompanied by Mrs. Doerfer and several members of FCC staff.

PUSH FOR POWER • FCC will be asked today (Nov. 10) by WPIK Alexandria, Va., to act on number of applications for power boosts to 5 kw filed by U. S. daytime outlets on Mexican Class 1-A clear channels. FCC heretofore has restricted these stations to 1 kw under “gentlemen’s agreement” with Mexico. Two countries reached agreement in January 1957 to raise power limits to 5 kw, but pact has not yet been ratified by U. S. Senate, though hearings were held in 85th Congress by Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee. Of some 150 such stations, 18 have filed for 5 kw.

It appears unlikely now that sale of WCKR Miami by Biscayne TV Corp. (Niles Trammell and principals in Knight and Cox newspaper-broadcasting organizations) to Sun Ray Drug Co. (WPEN Philadelphia) for $800,000, will receive FCC approval before contract cut-off date of Nov. 21 (story page 64). Whether contract will be extended beyond cut-off date presumable will be determined when deadline is reached.
Now the PARAMOUNT Package, too—along with Warner Bros., 20th Century Fox, United Artists—this station has the largest number of the best films in Cleveland . . . 1:00, 5:30, 11:20 PM Week Days; 5:30, 11:20 PM Sundays; 11:20 PM Saturdays.

'TWENTY-ONE' PRODUCER INDICTED

First criminal action in tv quiz program investigation came Friday (Nov. 7) with indictment of Albert Freedman, 36, producer of Twenty-One, who was charged in New York on two counts of perjury. Twenty-One, which figured prominently in ex-contestants' allegations of rigging, went off NBC-TV Oct. 16. Its sponsor was Pharmaceuticals, via Parkson agency.

New York District Attorney reported Mr. Freedman's alleged perjuries were committed Oct. 2 when testifying under oath before special grand jury. Mr. Freedman then denied he had revealed to any contestant either questions [count one of the indictment] or answers [count two] that later were repeated on show.

Action against Mr. Freedman was taken as quiz program structure had about collapsed. Score: Dotto killed on NBC-TV and CBS-TV by Colgate-Palmolive over Aug. 16 weekend; The $64,000 Challenge bumped from NBC-TV by P. Lorillard Co. in mid-September; Twenty-One dropped by Pharmaceuticals on NBC-TV Oct. 16; The $64,000 Question dropped by Revlon and Lorillard last week (see story, page 50). Grand jury probe started in late September.

Friday afternoon Mr. Freedman was arraigned and released in custody of his attorney with understanding he would post $1,500 bail next day.

After Mr. Freedman's arrest, NBC issued statement saying he had been employee of Barry & Enright, which owned Twenty-One, and NBC replaced him with another producer when network took over production of show early last month.

Barry & Enright issued statement affirming faith in Mr. Freedman's integrity.

Bob Sarnoff Commits NBC Radio To Continue on Present Course

Robert W. Sarnoff, NBC board chairman, said Friday NBC Radio intends to continue "present methods of operation," plans to keep on "building" and feels it now has "even greater opportunities to do so." Statement was in telegram to George W. Harvey, WFLA Tampa, Fla., chairman of NBC Radio Affiliates Executive Committee, who had asked special meeting and "an expression of faith in network radio from NBC" as result of CBS Radio's "new "program consolidation plan [early story, page 76; also Lead Story, Nov. 3]"

Mr. Harvey called CBS move one of "further depreciating network radio in contrast to the revitalizing job NBC has done."

Mr. Harvey had said NBC affiliates convention two week ago engendered confidence that "network is on firm ground and improving," but that "we do not want our position to be compromised" and therefore asked for meeting with network officials Nov. 21 or 22 in New Orleans. Mr. Sarnoff replied that, aside from reassurances contained in his reply telegram, NBC could add nothing to what was said at October meeting and accordingly felt another meeting was not necessary at this time.

Pepperidge Farm Moves to Tv

After phenomenal results using spot radio, "Maggie" Rudkin's Pepperidge Farm bread and other baked goods will go to tv. Upcoming later this month: First of series of tv films featuring now-familiar Titus Moody character developed by late Fred Allen and played by Parker Fennelly. Initial campaign in selected major markets will last about 10 weeks and is placed via Ogilvy, Benson & Mather, N. Y.

Welch Starts New Spot Cycle

Welch Grape Juice Co., Westfield, N. Y., will start Dec. 1 new 39-week cycle of tv minutes and 20-second spots in its top 25 markets for juices and spreads. Buy encompasses six or seven spots weekly in day-time and late nighttime. Welch also starting 26-week radio spot drive today (Nov. 10) for tomato juice in New England markets and Philadelphia. Agency: Richard K. Manoff, N. Y.

KOMO Switching to ABC

Radio half of KOMO-AM-TV Seattle will switch to ABC June 14, 1959. KOMO-TV announced in October it will go ABC-TV Dec. 10, 1959 [Networks, Oct. 27]. Both moves follow shift of NBC radio and tv affiliations from KOMO stations to KING-AM-TV Seattle [Networks, Oct. 20].

Georgia Judge's Media Ban Draws Protests From Industry

Media protests from all over nation were directed Friday (Nov. 7) to Judge Durwood Pye, of Superior Court in Atlanta, for ruling that bans radio pickups, and tv-newspaper photographers from courthouse, its premises and adjoining streets during trial of T. V. Williams, state official charged with embezzling funds. Ban covers participants and spectators on way to or from Williams trial.

J. Leonard Reinsch, managing director of Cox radio-TV stations, went on air Fri-day to protest one of most sweeping anti-mediaw down-in in recent history, speaking on WSB-AM-TV Atlanta, Mr. Reinsch said onerous restrictions were uncalled for and public will not receive adequate coverage of trial. He added that WSB-AM-TV newsmen have been given access to other Georgia courts, with presiding judges commending broadcast reporting as helpful in showing operation of courts without obstructing justice.

Harold E. Fellows, NAB president, wired Judge Pye that people are entitled to be fully informed on all public affairs, terming unreasonable limit on media inconsistent with this right of people.

Georgia Assn. of Broadcasters filed pro-test under name of Frank Gaither, WSB-AM-TV, its president. Georgia Press Assn. and Freedom of Information Committee of Sigma Delta Chi also submitted protests.

House Oversight Subcommittee Adds McConnaughey to List

House Legislative Oversight Subcommit-tee, which opens hearings at 2 p.m. Wednesday (Nov. 12) on Pittsburgh ch. 4 case, will hear former FCC Chairman George C. McCon-naughey on following Monday (Nov. 17), spokesman said Friday, with "10 or 11" other witnesses to be heard before Mr. McCon-naughey.

Representative of FCC, Charles Ef-finger Smoot, assistant general counsel, has been added to list of participants in panel discussions on function of federal agencies, scheduled Nov. 18-19 (see page 62). Robert W. Lishman, subcommittee chief coun-cel, said Mr. Smoot was invited to prevent any criticism that FCC views are not being sought in discussion.

Bakers Coconut in 14 Markets

General Foods Corp. (Bakers coconut), White Plains, N. Y., kicks off four-week spot tv drive in 14 markets (including 16 cities) on Nov. 17, then takes hiatus until Jan. 26 when campaign will run for nine more weeks. All announcements are in day-time periods, will be on three per week. Young & Rubicam, N. Y., is agency.

FCC's Multiplexing Order Invalid, Appeals Court Rules

FCC's 1955 rulemaking requiring fm sta-tions to cease simplexing functional music and switch to multiplex was held invalid Friday by U. S. Court of Appeals for Dis-trict of Columbia in 2-1 decision which re-manded to Commission its order denying WFMF Chicago's petition to continue simplexing.

Court said its jurisdiction to examine validity of 1955 rule is "always a threshold consideration," even though parties didn't put jurisdiction into question.

Majority—Judges Henry W. Edgerton and David L. Bazelon—said FCC's position that functional music operations are non-broadcasting in nature is not supported by Communications Act. " . . . Program special-ization and/or control is not necessarily determinative" of whether programs are inbroadcasting. "FCC is charged with being the only body which can determine the exact nature of an activity run by a station" and cited WFMF programs "high degree of popularity."

Dissenting Judge John A. Danaher said FCC is "commanded by the [Communications] Act to accomplish the objective it sought here to achieve. The Commission simply decided that the specialized simplex service was not to be permitted to pre-empt the valuable spectrum space allocated to fm frequencies intended to be devoted to broad-casting."

Several other fm outlets have appealed FCC denial to continue simplexing and others have sought and received injunctions of FCC orders pending outcome of WFMF case.

AT&T, Bell Companies Agree To Provide Pay-Tv Facilities

AT&T and most of its affiliated Bell System companies are in agreement that telephone companies "must provide the fa-cilities" for pay-tv systems in larger cities. John H. Page, AT&T marketing engineer, told northwest convention of National Community Tv Assn. in Portland, Ore., last week.

Entertainment and sports people see pay tv in large markets as answer to some of their problems brought on by broadcast tv, Mr. Page said, but they have tended to "oversimplify" problems of broad-cast transmission and "underestimate" costs.

He said for community antenna system operations in smaller communities, tele-phone companies feel that $2 for initial attachment of CATV cable to telephone poles is not "compensatory," and that $5 is "more nearly correct."

PEOPLE

WILLIAM E. HUTCHINSON, 70, execu-tive vice president, general manager andsecretary of Corn Belt Publishers (WAAF Chicago) died Nov. 6 in Wesley MemorialHospital, Chicago. Funeral services were conducted Nov. 8. His wife and a daugh-ter survive.

KRAEMER JR., 63, New York U. professor of arch-eology and classics and host on WCBS-TV New York's "Sunrise Semester" educational series, who died Thursday in Polyclinic Hospital, New York, after cerebral hemor-rhage. He collapsed in CBS studio Wednesday. Station has 13 lectures videotaped, which will be shown as scheduled.

EDWARD BALTZ, who joined Compton Adv. last February and is marketing director and account supervisor in agency's L.A. office, elected vice president. Mr. Balz specializes in agency servicing and handling of food and packaged goods accounts, has been in that activity on West Coast past three years.

NAB Wire-Line Noise Study

Savings & Loan Foundation, Washing-ton, D. C., through McCann-Erickson, N. Y., will sponsor half of NBC-TV's tele-cast of 34th annual East-West Shrine foot-ball game from San Francisco Dec. 27, starting 4:45 p.m. EST. R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. In all the world, few areas can match the charm of San Diego, America's great international playground. And San Diego is striding ahead in commerce and industry—shown by almost any index to be the fastest-growing market in the U. S. Keeping step with this growth is the romance and success of Station XETV—one of the most fascinating chapters in the history of Television. For few markets have television facilities to match the thorough low-CPM efficiency with which XETV blankets and sells the booming San Diego market. Your Blair man has the convincing facts. They merit thoughtful attention.

CONGRATULATIONS TO US!

No matter how we try, we can't achieve Cleo's detachment about our mutual success.

Cleo goes with the People's Choice, and in Kansas City that's Channel IV... by Nielsen, and by a healthy margin.

From our perch on Signal Hill we're topping the market six ways from Sunday, with a whopping 43.3 average.*

Incidentally, "The People's Choice" is one of our heaviest winners. That's why we're stripping it at 4:00 p.m., five days a week. There's plenty more where this one comes from... WDAF-TV, Channel IV, that is... and Messrs. Harrington, Righter and Parsons are the people to see.

WALT DISNEY PRESENTS TEXAS JOHN SLAUGHTER

Texas John Slaughter, latest Western lawman to be created from the history books and recreated on television, made his debut Oct. 31 in an hour-long action-packed telecast that must have delighted any youngsters who were not out trick-or-treating at the time. As presented by Walt Disney, Mr. Slaughter is a perfect hero for the teenagers, a hard fighting, straight shooting man who wants only to live in peace on a ranch with a wife and cattle, but who is willing to postpone marriage and ranching to help the Texas Rangers clean out the rustlers and make that kind of life possible.

In the opening installment of his saga, Texas John rides into town and is forced to kill a couple of men who are trying to kill him because the white hat he wears makes them think he's a Texas Ranger. He declines an invitation to become one and tries to become a lawman. Anyway, bad and strong, Mr. Slaughter makes Texas Rangers clean out the outlawed rustlers and ranching to help the Texas Rangers. As a result, he changes his mind, tells his fiancée she'll have to wait a while and joins up. How he proves Frank Davis a murderer by a 100-mile cross country race against the clock, changing to a fresh horse every 10 miles at relay points along the way, provides a thrilling climax for the program.

No adult complications are allowed to disturb this story. The ranchers are good, but helpless; the Rangers (in the white hats) are good and strong; the rustlers are bad and strong, but not quite as strong as the Rangers. Anyway, they aren't allowed to wear white hats, so of course, they can't win.

Production costs: Approximately $275,000.
Sponsored by Reynolds Metals Co. through Clinton E. Frank Inc., Kellogg Co. through Leo Burnett Co. and Hill Bros. Coffee through N. W. Ayer & Son, on ABC-TV, alternate Fridays, 8-9 p.m. EST.

Produced by Walt Disney Productions; executive producer: Walt Disney; producer: James Pratt; director: Harry Keller; writers: Albert E. Lewin, Burt Styler, Frank D. Gilroy.
Cast: Tom Tryon (John Slaughter), Norma Moore (Adeline, his fiancée), Harry Carey Jr. (Ben Jenkins, in charge of the Texas Ranger company), Robert Middleton (Frank Davis), Ken Clark (Sam Barrett).

KALEIDOSCOPE

"The S-Bahn Stops at Freedom," the first in a series of NBC-TV special alternating news and entertainment shows, told the courageous yet profoundly sorrowful story of the thousands of refugees who weekly make the wide-eyed journey from Communist East German tyranny to West German democracy. The program was hosted by Charles Van Doren and narrated on film by Chet Huntley. "The S-Bahn Stops at Freedom" included interviews with both refugees and western officials who made it abundantly clear why three million Germans have fled the Soviet yoke during the past decade.

The information made available was fascinating. For example: 95% of those who attempt to escape East Germany are successful; it would be "physically impossible, politically unwise" for the Communists to seriously try to halt this traffic; 10% of East Germany's doctors have fled in the past ten months; except for some businessmen, few refugees leave for purely material reasons—most mention religious persecution as an important goal.

The only criticism that might be leveled at "The S-Bahn Stops at Freedom" would be that the program was repetitious, a trifle too long. However, the general excellence of this first Kaleidoscope effort, as well as other recent public affairs programs on this and the other networks, underscored the opinion long held by many, that the true greatness of television lies not in drama, comedy, giveaways or westerns but in that unique service of the medium—living pictorial journalism.

Production costs: Approximately $55,000.
Sustaining on NBC-TV on alternate Sundays, 5-6 p.m. EST. Started Nov. 2.
Producer: Reuven Frank; director: Jack Sughrue; reporter-editor: Chet Huntley; writer: Pierson Anderson; filmed by Joseph Oexle; resident correspondent: John Rich (NBC News); host: Charles Van Doren.

PURSUIT

Judging by its infrequent appearances television drama, like the buffalo, seems destined to vanish from the American scene. It provided mental food and shelter in the latter days but is now condemned as too tough for the tender gumes and minds of the American viewer, happily gurgling over the soothing pap of the western.

Accordingly, CBS-TV's Pursuit, a weekly hour-long dramatic program, is an anachronism in a medium 10 years old but aging fast. It is also a paradox—it is live and not live; i.e., it is taped to keep the goodness (spontaneity) in and the badness (flubs) out. The Oct. 22 debut was "The Vengeance," a rather thin story of a young man hurried by a remorseless detective who holds him responsible for crippling his son in a street fight. Sal Mineo as the boy and Macdonald Carey as the detective were adequate if easily anticipated in mood and gesture.

But the production did not have enough of the stuff of life to retain interest, much like a bad comedy that runs out of imagination in the middle of the second act and resorts to slapstick for the rest of the evening.

Any tepidation about this series was thoroughly dissipated, however, by the Oct. 29 production, "Free Ride," which was superior to the Pursuit premiere in every respect. Skillful acting was underlined by brisk direction. Keenan Wynn and Ralph Meeker were not actors but a cop and a luv pug on a train heading back to a San Francisco manslaughter trial. Sidney Blackmer was a police broker from Chicago who resolved the question of whom the syndicate wanted to kill (the cop or the pug) in a tense last scene.

"Free Ride" sped to its climax, a certain sign of a taut, well-produced, well-acted drama. Judging by the marked improvement in one week, Pursuit has an excellent chance of attaining its goal of presenting "human drama with all of the human emotions," and perhaps persuading a few others that this form of entertainment has some merit after all.

Production costs: Approximately $45,000. Sponsored by Mennen through Grey Adv. on CBS-TV, Wednesday, 8:30 p.m. EST. Started Oct. 22.

Producers: Charles W. Russell (for first four shows), Eva Wolos (for next four); executive producer: Norman Felton; directors: David Greene, Herbert Hirschman, Buzz Kulik, Paul Nickell.

ANATOMY OF SOVIET COMMUNISM

As part of a 13-week study of various aspects of life within the Soviet Union, the MBS program Nov. 1 examined foreign policy. It was a highly informative stanza, outlining the twists and turns of Soviet foreign policy and offering an assessment by Soviet scholars and American specialists.

The series is being presented by Mutual in association with the Institute for the Study of the USSR in Munich, a body of scholars drawn from the various nationality groups within the Soviet Union. The Anatomy is essentially a "balance sheet" of Soviet promises on the one hand and actual achievements on the other. The program already has explored education, the secret police, religion, sports and culture.

The program on foreign policy, for instance, highlights pronouncements of top Soviet officials in the past and present. Their views often are at variance, and in other instances, their claims are disputed by Soviet and American specialists. The program makes use of monitored broadcasts of Radio Moscow and beeper telephone interviews with persons abroad.

To achieve variety and change of pace in a "talk" program, producer-director Robert Cody balances various Russian and American voices. Mr. Cody also serves as chief narrator of the series and performs this assignment skillfully.

It is a tribute to the resourcefulness and ingenuity of Mr. Cody and his associate, Dr. Isaiah S. Bard, that such a complex subject can be covered so satisfactorily on a small budget. Program scripts are available on request to the network.

Productions costs: Approximately $800. Sustaining on MBS, Saturday, 11:35 a.m.-noon EST. Started Sept. 20.

Producer-director-narrator: Robert C. Cody; associate producer-writer: Dr. Isaiah S. Bard.

CIMARRON CITY

What ever happened to the good old westerns where black was black and white was white, the good men were always good and the bad men downright evil? In Cimarron City, where George Montgomery presides as mayor every Saturday night, there are reformed gunfighters, tough hombres who ride into town and settle down to become solid citizens and townfolk who learn moral lessons at every turn in the plot.

In a couple of recent episodes Mr. Montgomery has talked to at least two youngsters out of gunfiring careers, killed a thief, broken up a band of outlaws, and set about building something really fine in the way of a frontier community.

The show has its moments—some emotional peaks here and there in the stories, snatches of good acting and production, but hardly anything has been told in the weekly 60 minutes that hasn't been told before to the point of tedium and couldn't be told better in 30 minutes.

Production costs: Approximately $40,000. Sustaining on NBC-TV, Saturday, 9:30-10:30 p.m. EST. Started Oct. 18.

Stars: George Montgomery, Audrey Trotter, John Smith.

Produced by Revue Productions in association with NBC-TV. Executive producer: Richard Lewis.

LAWMAN

There are simple westerns and sophisticated westerns, adult westerns and infantile westerns, long westerns and short westerns, eastern westerns and western westerns. Lawman is a simple, adult, short, western western.

It stars John Russell as the marshal, stern, strong and implacable, and Peter Brown as the deputy, young, zealous and as authentic as an Indian blanket made in Scranton, Pa. The writing favors the lean- ness of another law enforcement show, Dragout. Examples: the marshal, "I hate your insides [to Robert Ford, the murderer of Jesse James], but I'm paid to preserve the peace," or by a young cowhand about Ford, "He sure needs killing."

The camera work is definitely above average and so is the musical background which often uses a lone guitar with telling and melancholy effect. Lawman succumbs without compunction to a seemingly necessary accouterment of these series—a theme song which sends waves of ennui up and down the spine.

At the end of the Nov. 2 episode, one of the mob (intent upon lynching that "dirty little coward, Ford") steps back from the painted shotgun of the marshal, saying, "Some things just ain't worth dying for." Right, pardner, and some things just don't make sense, like another western when there's already 'bout thirty of 'em.

Production costs: Approximately $41,000 weekly. Sponsored by Reynolds Tobacco through William Esly Co. and General Mills through Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample on ABC-TV, 8:30-9 p.m. EST. Started Oct. 5.

Executive producer: William T. Orr; produced by Jules Schermer.

why we spell MONY without the “E”

“MONY,” our modern nickname, didn’t just happen; it was created to meet a need. Time was when our official company name was really distinctive, because ours was the first mutual life insurance company in America to offer life insurance on the mutual principle to the general public.

But as the first hundred years rolled by, many other mutual life insurance companies sprang up and our natural nickname, “Mutual Life,” began to lose individuality. This created confusion with our policyholders and the public. Obviously, something had to be done.

The more we studied our full company name, the more evident it became that the words “Mutual Of New York” seemed to set us apart most clearly. A little doodling with our initials led us to “MONY”... as in cold cash.

MONY now provides us with a short and easy-to-remember brand name which clearly describes our principal service... money for future delivery.

THE client interrupted the conference when Jack Simpson was three-fourths of the way along in his “informative” talk on a particular network property—hardly a “hard sell” presentation. Said the client: we’ll buy the program.

This was Jack Simpson, Foote, Cone & Belding’s broadcast negotiator, in action earlier this fall in the New York office of the agency. Only a few months before—in the heat of the summer—he was brought from his Chicago post to New York and to the source of national tv-radio program negotiation and decision-making.

He is unlike some of his agency contemporaries. He’s neither highly-charged nor aggressive, and tends to “sell” his proposals effectively but on a “low key.”

In the newly-created post of vice president and national director of broadcasting, Mr. Simpson’s area is client contact, creativity and negotiation, a field that is difficult and demanding because it requires instinctive and practical knowledge of advertising and radio-tv. His responsibility sweeps across broadcast activity of all FC&B offices, including all the agency’s network negotiating as well as channeling all national radio-tv activity of the agency.

He is definitely not ulcer-prone. Long ago he learned to keep under control the nervous tensions and demands of the business. Often he’ll work off excess strain by “raking the leaves, playing golf or taking the children to a football game.” And there’s also the advice given him years back. At a board meeting, a client repeatedly smashed his fist on the table. Mr. Simpson calmly cautioned him of ulcers. “I don’t get ’em, Jack; I give ’em,” was the terse reply. After the meeting the client gave him some straight-from-the-shoulder advice on when and how to relax.

John Bell Simpson was born in Chicago Oct. 15, 1909, went through Cleveland, Ohio, schools and studied journalism at the U. of Missouri. In 1936 he was writing in New Orleans, the output going to mystery detective pulps and assisting production for a local theatre unit. Through the latter, he got into radio by a “fluke,” writing, casting and producing a radio show for WDSU New Orleans, the station later hiring him as an announcer six hours nightly. Since the station was a network affiliate, Mr. Simpson spent hours “listening to radio and reading every script I could get my hands on.” Soon he was writing and selling scripts. By 1937, he was handling radio for Stone, Stevens, Howcott, Halsey, an agency in New Orleans.

ONE of his first shows: a women’s program of household hints and featuring a young New Orleans lass, Mary Alyce Buist, known on the air as “Ann Baker.” His association with the program lasted four years but with Mary Alyce, much longer; they were married in 1940.

Mr. Simpson had struck up a close friendship in New Orleans with another mystery detective writer, an ex-attorney from California named Erle Stanley Gardner. In 1942, he took a leave of absence from the agency to accompany Mr. Gardner to Hollywood to help develop the Perry Mason radio show.

In May 1943 NBC asked him to direct musical and dramatic production for the network in Chicago.

In 1944, Mr. Simpson joined the Russel M. Seeds Agency as director of radio and television, serving as creator, producer, writer and director of many radio shows, and produced hundreds of radio and tv commercials (some of the programs: The Raleigh Room with Hildegard, Gay Mrs. Featherstone With Billy Burke, Red Skelton, People Are Funny and A Life in Your Hands.

He moved to FC&B in Chicago as radio-tv supervisor in January 1952 and was elected a vice president and director of broadcast exactly a year later. His responsibilities included broadcast activities of Armour & Co., recommendations on broadcast media from all of the agency’s product groups and traffic for all radio-tv supervision and operations.

Mr. Simpson is an "avid airplane reader," consuming books at a high rate while in travel. He has a complete workshop (including power tools) at his home in the Milbrook section of Greenwich, Conn., has read every book written by Mr. Gardner and gets in a round of golf every weekend available—his house backs up to the approach on the eighth green of the Milbrook Club.

The Simpsons have two daughters, Carol Buist Gardner, 15, and Jann Bell, 12. On tv’s sales impact, Mr. Simpson has a yarn. About 10 years ago, he and a top executive of Kool cigarettes visited nearly every bar in Chicago’s Loop because “all tv sets then were in saloons” and Kools sponsored a 7:30-11 p.m. telecast of local collegiate basketball. Viewers stood four deep at the bar and when the commercial came on, actually asked the bartender for packages of Kools. “Reaction was that immediate,” Mr. Simpson says, his voice bearing still a trace of awe.

Looking for protection of your advertising dollars? WROC-TV, Channel 5, Rochester, N.Y., serving 307,750 TV homes in 13 Western New York counties, reaches 27.4% more homes daily than the other Rochester channel (NCS #2). Thus every rating point on WROC-TV, Channel 5 is worth 27.4% more than a rating point on the other channel.

In an area like Rochester with over a million population, 1 ½ billion dollar buying income and one of the highest per capita incomes, such superiority has great significance.

For unusual results in an unusual market that is famous as a test market, viewers and advertisers turn to Channel 5, WROC-TV, Rochester's most powerful station.

A symbol of service, like the devoted policeman, WROC-TV guards the interests of audiences and advertisers. Represented by Peters, Griffin and Woodward.

Whoever fired electronic journalism into orbit did something pretty constructive for the broadcasting industry. We hope the satellite stays up there indefinitely, beeping its constant inspiration.

Much is heard these days about "Freedom of Information" and "The Right to Know." Call it what you may, people will stick close to the media which makes those ideals a reality.

Last week's TV-Radio election coverage was a smash-hit performance. Speed and interpretation were an unbeatable combination. It was a real public service. We hope that momentum generated with such an achievement will carry down the line.

There is still a great opportunity at station levels to reflect the every-day happenings of a neighborhood, a city or an area. It requires talent, originality and production imagination, but the job can and should be done.

We have sincere admiration for the men who have ventured, and made the broadcasting business what it is. The time may be appropriate for other trends in electronic journalism.

BLOOD ON THE HOMESTEAD’S LAWNS?

- Tv cost controversy predicted for ANA meeting this week
- It’s sparked by anticipated report on alleged tv inflation
- Network, rep researchers must strong counter-arguments

Television operators last week mounted a drive to repeal the prospect of a rate-cutting movement among the country’s leading advertisers.

Target of their offensive was a report to be delivered today (Nov. 10) to the Assn. of National Advertisers by Miles Wallach of M. A. Wallach Research Inc. and its new TPI Inc. division. Mr. Wallach has said he can show that advertisers might profitably reconsider the validity of cost-per-thousand figures computed on the basis of existing ratings [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Nov. 3].

Mr. Wallach’s report, to be presented to the radio-television workshop at the ANA’s 49th annual fall meeting, is based on in-home, coincidental interviews which, according to Mr. Wallach, found a high degree of inattentiveness among television viewers—“a major difference between ‘sets in use’ and sets actually being viewed.” The ANA meeting is to be held at The Homestead, Hot Springs, Va. (story, page 35).

Mr. Wallach’s pre-ANA preview, which also questioned television’s impact in terms of sponsor identification, stimulated television broadcasters to reply in kind—with research and conclusions of their own. Mr. Wallach, one of the leading television station representatives, to release details of previously undisclosed media tests made for some of the nation’s heaviest spenders.

No matter what Mr. Wallach’s findings on attentiveness may be, said Blair-Tv Executive Vice President Edward P. Shurick, “the fact that television is a selling force of unmatched power and efficiency is the really important thing.”

This argument also was advanced by network and other researchers who, while citing existing evidence to challenge Mr. Wallach’s conclusions, pointed out that they would have to wait to see his documentation before attempting to evaluate the studies in detail.

Mr. Shurick released the results of a series of tests made for major advertisers under Blair-Tv’s “Test Market Plan.” This is a market research service, designed to bring new advertising into television and directed by the Blair research vice president, Ward Dorrell. TMP enables new advertisers to test television impact, sales effectiveness, copy formats, etc., at no cost other than the normal charge for the media used. The research costs are paid by the Blair stations in the markets tested.

Blair-Tv officials estimate that more than $500,000 worth of advertising already has been tested through TMP. To date, advertisers have used 22 of the 26 Blair-Tv stations in conducting 44 tests, of which 32 have now been completed.

In releasing results of those tests which the advertisers no longer insisted upon keeping in the confidential file, Mr. Shurick said:

“The important thing is that television, spot or network, sells merchandise—and it moves the goods off the shelves faster, in larger quantities and more efficiently than any other advertising medium. The Blair-Tv represented stations during the past year have proved this on the basis of monitoring the singing of cash registers instead of doorbells for a blue-ribbon list of the country’s most astute advertisers [Editor’s Note: See list on page 34].

“What would happen if one applied the same technique of Miles Wallach to newspapers? First, it would be discovered that copies of newspapers are sometimes purchased but never read. In the largest, mass buying markets where commuting is a necessary evil, hundreds of papers are read by the man of the house and left on the train, never to reach the eyes of Mrs. Housewife who is responsible for most of the purchases in the home. And even when she does see the paper, ‘noting’ and ‘read most’ figures long since have shown that the odds are she missed reading a particular advertisement.

“Does this mean that newspaper advertising is ineffective? Of course not. The comparative studies conducted to date through Blair-Tv and its represented stations by in-

STATION REP SHURICK

RESEARCHER WALLACH

Edward P. Shurick, executive vice president of Blair-Tv, last week released results of television sales power tests to counter charges that television is overrated. The charges, based on in-home, personal interviewing, will be made today to the ANA annual meeting by Miles A. Wallach, of M. A. Wallach Research Inc. Mr. Wallach says advertisers may want to review the validity of cost-per-thousand figures computed on the basis of existing ratings.
HOW TELEVISION BOOSTS SALES CURVES

In the past year some $500,000 worth of advertising for 44 products has been tested through Blair-Tv's Test Market Plan. The plan is designed to bring new advertisers into tv by showing what tv actually does as a sales medium. The tests are re-searched at the expense of stations represented by Blair-Tv.

Here are results achieved for 12 of the 44 products, released last week by Blair-Tv with the agreement of the advertisers. Other results have been kept in confidence by the advertisers for competitive reasons.

B. F. Goodrich • The advertiser used three Florida markets to test effectiveness of its "Smileage" copy theme—tv in Tampa, radio in Orlando and newspapers in West Palm Beach. The same expenditure was made in each. Interviews were then held with 500 male car owners, with these results:

Remembrance of any Goodrich tire ad- vertising: 75.6% in Tampa (where tv was used), 51.7% in Orlando (radio), 50.6% in West Palm Beach (newspapers). Remem- brance of individual traits of the product: 18 in Tampa, 15 in Orlando, 12 in West Palm Beach. Identification of the "Smile- age" copy line: 9.3% in Tampa, 6.2% in Orlando, 4.7% in West Palm Beach.

Niagara Starch • The Pulse interviewed 500 housewives before and after a spot tv campaign in New Orleans. It found Nig- agura the best known starch in the market both before and after the campaign, but brand awareness dropped from 58.4% to 76%. The second and third products in the market in terms of brand awareness re- spectively (1) dropped from 49.2% to 42% and (2) held fairly steady with 48.8% against 48.2%.

Frenchette Sogled Dressing • The test in this case was between radio in Los An- geles and television in Dallas-Ft. Worth, again using interviews with 500 housewives both before and after. Before, in Los An- geles, Frenchette was in 4.4% of homes and in fourth place in the market; after, it was in 5% of homes, still in fourth place. In Dallas-Ft. Worth, Frenchette also started out in 4.4% of homes (third place), but after the tv drive had moved up to 10% and second place. In Los Angeles new users of the product increased from 9% to 12% while in Dallas-Ft. Worth they in- creased from 9% to 32%. In brand aware- ness, Frenchette started in seventh place in Los Angeles, ended tied for seventh in Dallas-Ft. Worth, it began seventh and ended second. After the radio push 13 house- wives in Los Angeles mentioned hearing the radio commercials; 91 remembered the tv commercials in Dallas-Ft. Worth.

Sunoco • Male car-owners were interviewed after two spot tv campaigns in Co- lumbus, Ohio (one after two weeks, the other after 15 weeks). After the first, 43.6% could identify Blue Sunoco as the "custom- blended" gasoline; after the second, 58.8% identified it. The brand, first in awareness in both interview periods, rose from 68.4% in the first to 73.2% in the second. Tele- vision was credited as source of informa- tion about the product by 24.6% after the first drive, by 35.2% after the second.

Tri-Nut Margarine • In interviews before and after a introductory tv campaign in Pittsburgh, Tri-Nut spiraled from four men- tions out of 1,557 responses to 203 out of 1,969. When consumers were asked what margarine they were using, 20% (recently, Tri-Nut received one mention before the tv drive, 38 after it (Brand A's respective mentions: 99 and 63; Brand B's: 43 and 60; Brand C's: 42 and 50). When asked which margarine they remembered being advertised, 198 named Tri-Nut, 137 Brand A, 116 Brand B and 109 Brand C.

Laxium Laxative • Another tv vs. radio test was conducted for this Block Drug product, using New Orleans and Atlanta respectively. Brand awareness in the tv market increased from 10% to 33%; in the radio market, it jumped from 5% (the "before" survey came after four weeks of advertising; the tv "before" after eight days). After the New Orleans tv drive 2% of respondents had purchased the product; in Atlanta, less than 1%. All but 3% of the New Orleans respondents who knew of the product credited tv as their source.

Ben-Gay • A different type of result was shown after a tv test in Providence, R. I. (using New Haven, Conn., as a non-tv control market). In this case the product was already well-known in its field, and no sig- significant differences in brand awareness were noted after the tv drive (55% in Providence, 52.4% in New Haven), nor was there much difference when respondents were asked which brand they would use (first place in both markets, 34.6% in Providence, 34.8% in New Haven). The payoff came when they were asked if they had bought Ben-Gay within the preceding month: in the tv market, 40%; in the non- tv market, 20%. To Blair-Tv, this indi- cated that although no new users were sold, tv did move Ben-Gay off the shelves.

Although tv had not been used in New Haven, 28% of the people there mentioned having seen the Ben-Gay commercials. In Providence, 47% had seen them. These totals were both far ahead of other media mentions; spot radio (receiving most of the Ben-Gay advertising budget) was mentioned by 6.6% in New Haven and 3% in Providence.

DuPont Textile Fibers • Again the before and after technique was used, this time to measure spot tv's effectiveness in increasing sales of soft goods and to intensify department store cooperation. One-week campaigns were run in Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati, New Orleans and Los Angeles, with Columbus, Ohio, used as a non-tv control market. The "before" interviews were in May, the "afters" in June. In all markets except Columbus more people had purchased dacron-cotton clothes after the test than before. Familiarity with the advertising also increased, and more people had seen the messages on tv than in any other medium. The number of respondents who related purchase of dacron-cotton clothing to seeing the advertising increased in all the tv markets except New Orleans (no significant change), whereas the Columbus market showed a decrease.

Tussy Products • Two new products—Liquid Pearl and Medicare—were the objects of tv tests in Dallas-Ft. Worth (7 weeks) and Cleveland (11 weeks). In both markets more people had heard of the products after the campaigns than before. More had used them, too, and in Cleveland they were the only cosmetics to move up in usage.

Welchade • This was another Tampa, Fla., tv test, with interviews before and after a 15-week spot campaign. The results included an 87% rise in brand identification (86 of 588 respondents before, 141 of 500 after—from third to first place in the market); an 80% rise in brand awareness (220 of 500 before, 285 of 359 after); a 37% increase in sales (146 of 308 before, 201 of 426 after), and a 41% increase in repurchases (112 of 146 before, 158 of 201 after).

Karo Syrup • This Corn Products Refining Co. product was tested in Portland, Ore., for 12 weeks. Interview results showed awareness up from 30% to 57.2%, and from third to second place among syrups in the market. Additionally, the Karo Brand was first on the list of recently purchased syrups. Before tv, 46% of respondents had used the product; after, 72%.

Stella D’Oro • A 13-week tv spot test in Detroit produced these results for the firm's food products: identification up from 33 to 139 respondents; purchasers up from 9 to 42; respondents who had seen the tv advertising, up to 27 to 108.

The 44 products which have been tested in the Big-3-Tv Split Market Plan include such categories as soap, toothpaste, nasal spray, chemicals, home permanent, margarine, soft drinks, tires, salad dressing, dog food, paper products, foods, cosmetics, gasoline, detergents, cake mixes, headache remedies and textiles.

HARBINGER OF A HAPPY NEW YEAR: NATIONAL AD BUDGETS TO EXPAND

- ANA study reports 'substantial increase' in '59 allocations
- West to give findings to convention in Hot Springs today

A "substantial increase" in advertising expenditures is being planned by leading national advertisers for 1959, Paul B. West, president of the Asn. of National Advertisers, announced in a report being released today (Nov. 10).

Among the companies planning increases, ANA said, the average boost for 1959 is 11% over 1958.

Release of the report, based on an extensive survey of ANA members, coincided with the opening of ANA's 49th annual fall meeting at the Homestead, Hot Springs, Va. Some 550 to 600 advertisers, plus the wives of 100 to 150 of them, were expected to form a capacity attendance for the three-day meeting.

Mr. West said the ANA study showed that "the pace-setters in many industries maintained or even increased their expenditures in 1958" and that of those who cut back during the 1958 recession, "many of them have already restored those cuts and are increasing appropriations for 1959." He drew the following conclusions from the survey:

"[1] Top management is showing increasing recognition of the power of advertising to cushion the effects of the recession on sales and profits.

"[2] The experience of companies which are the leaders in their fields proves that sustaining a substantial investment in well-planned advertising in bad times as well as good is the best insurance for securing and maintaining the upward trend of sales and profits on an expanding scale.

The study was based on questionnaires returned by 331 companies representing 33 different industry classifications and spending collectively more than a billion dollars a year for advertising. Ten of the 33 industry groups were described as showing "a strong upward trend," 15 as indicating upward trends among a majority of their companies, and eight as showing no consistent trend for either 1958 or 1959.

The 10 showing "a strong upward trend" were listed as soaps and detergents, clothing, confections, cosmetics, drugs, food, industrial machinery, farm machinery, transportation and home furnishings.

ANA offered this analysis for companies of consumer durable goods reported on their 1958 spending. Of these, 28 expect to spend more in 1959 (27 of the 54 had cut back in 1958).

Industrial goods manufacturers: Of 56 reporting for 1958, 25 said they had cut back; of 57 reporting for 1959, 41 said they would increase.

Manufacturers whose products are a combination of both consumer and industrial goods: Of 85 reporting for 1958, 31 said they had spent less. Of 83 reporting for 1959, 47 plan to increase.

Consumer non-durables: Of 104 reporting for 1958, 19 had spent less and 55 had increased. Of 106 reporting for 1959, 65 plan increases.

ANA said its returns covered 77 advertisers who spend from $5 million to $15 million or more on advertising per year, and that 44 (57%) of these reported spending more for advertising and promotion in 1958.
In the short span of 12 months a suburban appliance shop has become the fifth largest department store in Pittsburgh, the nation's No. 8 metropolitan market.

This merchandising miracle has been achieved by the largest hard-goods television user in the area, the firm of Kelly & Cohen. The store is attracting national attention, not only because of the vaudeville joke connotations of its name but also because of its dramatic departures from conventional store techniques.

Kelly & Cohen is stirring trade interest, too, because of the effective way it uses broadcast media to develop the fastest-growing customer list in Western Pennsylvania.

A year ago Kelly & Cohen operated a single discount appliance shop on Brookline Blvd. in suburban Pittsburgh. The store was grossing around $215,000 a year, about tops for appliance stores in the metropolitan area.

Right now Kelly & Cohen is operating two discount department stores in outlying residential areas, Monroeville and Natrona Heights, plus the original store. The three stores will wind up 1958 with a 200% increase in sales, despite a business recession in this industrial market — a $13.5 million or 640% increase in a year.

Here are the basic elements of the Kelly & Cohen formula:

- Guaranteed lowest prices in the area.
- A sales policy based on friendly and trained salesmen.
- Satisfied customers who know the stores stand behind everything they sell and who will come back again.
- Attention-getting promotions.
- A close contact with its agency, Marc & Co., permits major promotions to be set up in a two-day period.
- The biggest television budget of any Pittsburgh appliance retailer.
- Radio support behind special promotions.
- Customer-fetching tv and radio commercials.
- A total advertising budget estimated at $250,000 a year.

Traffic is heavy at all Kelly & Cohen stores, especially over weekends. Last Nov. 1, a Saturday, over 8,000 people passed a check-point in the Monroeville store. They wandered up and down the main aisles—650 ft. long, two city blocks—from the supermarket at the east end to the big appliance department at the west end. They wandered, looked, asked questions and most of them bought merchandise.

Next year two more department stores will be built in the South Hills and Beaver Falls areas. This retailing enterprise didn't develop by accident, though the original Brookline appliance store was started in 1953 as a sideline by four partners who had other occupations at the time.

They made an important discovery at their new shop as they started breaking sacred retail traditions. They discovered that the $300 they spent for a single announcement on KDKA-TV produced a surprising number of customers who had heard about Kelly & Cohen on ch. 2. These customers bought at least $6,000 worth of appliances. It was a lesson Kelly & Cohen never forgot.

"We wouldn't be here today if it weren't for television," Mel Landow, vice president and advertising manager, said over a cup of coffee as he took a break from relentless telephones and callers. He added:

"Television is our greatest pull. We get a 20-to-1 response from our tv commercials—$20 in appliance sales for every $1 spent for time plus indirect goodwill and sales in other departments."

That first commercial back in 1953 was in tune with the firm's adopted title as Sterling Yates, of KDKA-TV, impersonated "Kevin Kelly" in a thick Irish brogue.

Why the name Kelly & Cohen?

"We figured it was a good gimmick," Mr. Landow said.

The cast of characters in this Kelly & Cohen merchandising drama comprises four equal partners:

"Mr. Kelly"—Al Kirby, Irish Catholic, store manager.

"Mr. &"—Frank Pizzuto, Italian Catholic, president and appliance buyer.

"Mr. Cohen"—Mel Landow, Jewish, advertising vp.

And Nate Tabor, Jewish, general manager.

When they opened the Brookline shop Mr. Pizzuto had a collection business, Mr. Landow was a salesman, Mr. Kirby was with Sears and Mr. Tabor, a CPA, had an accounting firm. All but Mr. Pizzuto are in their 30s; he is in his 40s.

They found a 3,000-square-foot room in Brookline and stocked it with appliances, spending spare time and evenings on the floor until business started to boom.

A basic decision still governs the business—sell it 15% under any other store's price and stand behind all merchandise.

The Lure of Tv

Tv's traffic pull was a pleasant surprise as it quickly produced appliance sales on a 20-to-1 ratio. Every $300 spent for time plus indirect goodwill and sales in other departments.

the price is verified. This promise is printed on the sales slip. Then Kelly & Cohen will reduce its own price on the item. This happens about once every week or two despite an extensive comparison shopping service.

Latest promotion is a free clothes dryer with each appliance sale. The appliance is sold at the manufacturer's list price and the customer gets the dryer as a bonus.

Kelly & Cohen is often called the biggest entity in the Pittsburgh appliance business. Recently it was the second largest Norge dealer in the United States and figures some day to be the first. Most of the major brands are stocked in the $100,000 appliance floor inventory which Kelly & Cohen owns outright and about four times that inventory is warehoused. This volume permits efficient purchasing. A checkup by a Broadcasting reporter at the Monroeville store at 3:15 p.m. Nov. 1 showed that 11 appliance sales had been made since the store opened at noon. Seven of the 11 sales slips totaling roughly $3,000 stated specifically that the customer had come in response to television commercials.

Salesmen Like T.V.

Mr. Landow asked the six appliance salesmen, "What advertising medium is most effective in attracting customers?" Five of the six promptly said television; the sixth liked television but preferred newspapers.

Appliances, said Mr. Landow, are the "lifeblood" of Kelly & Cohen. They produce at least 25% of the department store sales, probably totaling around $4 million for calendar year 1958. This is far over the entire Kelly & Cohen gross sales in 1957.

The Monroeville store, a year old, and the Natrona Heights store, opened last August, follow department store custom by including many leased departments. Appliances will always be owned by Kelly & Cohen, partly for sentimental reasons. Last Nov. 2, a Sunday, President Pizzuto dropped into the Monroeville store for an off-day looksee. Sunday is as lively as Saturday at the stores. He left two hours later after personally writing over $1,000 in appliance sales, happy that he hasn't lost the old selling touch.

Kelly & Cohen is a carefully administered enterprise. The four owners hold a board meeting every Wednesday. Thanks to Mr. Tabor's strict accounting procedure, they know the previous week's cash position to the penny, how much profit they made for the week, how it compared with other weeks, how sales compared to the target figure and the specific inventory. A close relationship is maintained with every leased department and lessees conform to all Kelly & Cohen rules.

Of the estimated $250,000 advertising budget, 40% is allocated to television.

Kelly & Cohen (out of order): Three of the four partners in Pittsburgh's booming discount house say they changed their names to form their firm's title. Al Kirby (center) is the "Kelly"; Mel Landow (l) is the "Cohen." Frank Pizzuto (r) made the most dramatic name change; he's the "&." The fourth partner, Nate Tabor, is as active as the others in the business but not in the coined name.

built farm market, is on a nine-acre site with plenty of room for parking and seven entrances. Outside it's barn-like; inside a buyer's Shangri-La—there's even a game room for the kiddies.

The 650-foot-long interior view is practically uninterrupted. "Everywhere you turn you get a buying impulse and there aren't any stairs, elevators or escalators," Mr. Landow observed.

Customers often ask for Mr. Kelly and Mr. Cohen. They like the personal relationship and often send fan mail and appliance inquiries. Business comes from a 100-mile radius. "We send out a half-dozen truckloads of appliances every day, up to 100 miles in all directions," Mr. Landow said. "We know nearly all of these outlying customers are brought in by television.

When Borg-Warner introduced its new Dispensomat washer, Graybar Electric Co., the distributor, asked Kelly & Cohen for ideas. It took some convincing but the distributor agreed to put all its promotion money in television. The result was dramatic—two weeks of tv spots made a hot item out of the Dispensomat, which lists at $419.95. Kelly & Cohen took a carload, sold them, and ordered two more carloads. Graybar sold more Dispensomats to one dealer than it had expected to sell in the whole area.

"We have a captive audience for one minute on television," Mr. Landow said. "Every second is precious. We tell our story on news, sports and weather periods."

He added significantly, "The more money we spend on advertising the more money we make." Over 50% of appliance sales are for cash—unusually high for this merchandise.

With addition of two department stores, and two more due next year, Kelly & Cohen is in a business-creating cycle. The advertising emphasis will be shifted to goodwill, prestige, and merchandise guaranteed approaches at a later date but these aspects are already featured by salesmen. and 1957. Of 118 reporting from the $1 million to $5 million group, 47 (40%) increased their budgets in 1958, while of 129 advertisers spending up to $1 million and who answered the survey, 42 (33%) said their 1958 advertising outlay was greater in 1958 than 1957.

The study was to be released at the outset of ANA's annual fall meeting, which this year will be based on the theme: "Creating More Sales and Profits in a World of Change Through Creative Research, Marketing and Advertising."

One highlight is expected to be a radio-tv session at which advertisers will be told that in-home studies have shown that viewing is not what the rating services show it to be—that advertisers don't get all they think they do when they sponsor television shows [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Nov. 3; also see page 33]. This word is slated to come from Miles Wallach of M. A. Wallach Research Inc. and his new Wall Inc.

Other speakers at this session, one of four workshops to be held concurrently today (Nov. 10), include George Abrams of Revlon, chairman of the ANA radio-tv committee (and associated with Mr. Wallach in the launching of the TPI survey technique), on "What's Ahead in Radio-TV?"; and Howard Eaton of Lever Bros., who is slated to discuss labor problems in broadcasting as they affect advertisers.

A presentation on videotape and its future importance, to be conducted by Howard Meighan of Videotape Productions of New York Inc. (also see page 68), is being rescheduled as a separate session, rather than as part of the radio-tv workshop, in order that more advertisers may attend.

The fall meeting will open with a survey of "The Changing Economic Climate" by Dr. Lawrence C. Lockley of the U. of Southern California, and a presentation of "What Is Happening in the Marketplace and How Better Planning Can Turn Failure into Success," by J. O. Peckham, executive vice president of A. C. Nielsen Co. These will be followed by the four concurrent workshops and a feature presentation by Horace W. Barry of Nestle Co. on current practices in pre-testing and evaluating promotional materials.

A Tuesday morning session on creativity will feature talks by Alfred Politz of Alfred Politz Research Inc.; E. W. Ebel of General Foods; C. M. Broadway of Young & Rubicam. This will be followed by a business meeting for election of officers and directors and a report by Ralph Wainslow of Koppers Co. on "The Advertising State of the Nation."

The Tuesday afternoon session will hear J. Davis Danforth of BBDO, board chairman of American Assn. of Advertising Agencies, on "the agency viewpoint" on the question: "Getting the Best Advertising—at the Most Economical Cost—Through Improved Agency Relations." An off-the-record discussion of "New Developments in Agency Relations" will follow Mr. Danforth's speech.

A dramatized presentation of "What Makes for Successful Advertising Today" is scheduled for Wednesday morning, with the fall meeting winding up after a luncheon at which Secretary of the Army Wilbur Brucker is slated to discuss the defense program and its impact on the national economy. The annual fall banquet will be held Tuesday evening.

MOGUL Merges With LW&S Jan. 1

- Consolidated firm expects to top $20 million billing
- Another $1 million account anticipated by agency

Another agency merger was announced last Thursday (Nov. 6) as Emil Mogul Co., New York—a powerhouse in radio-tv with over 75% of its billings in broadcasting—united with Lewin, Williams & Saylor Inc., New York-Newark-London. The merger becomes effective Jan. 1 as does the new corporate name of Mogul, Lewin, Williams & Saylor Inc.

A. W. Lewin, LW&S board chairman, assumes a similar post with MLW&S; Mr. Mogul retains the post of president and chief executive officer of the merged firm and former LW&S President Sidney Matthew Weiss becomes executive vice president.

With Mogul's 1958 billing presently estimated at $11 million and Lewin, Williams & Saylor's at $7 million, the new combination expects to top $20 million in 1959. (The Mogul agency last week was expected to gain a new $1 million account, but Mr. Mogul declined to name it "until the ink is dry on the contract.")

Mr. Mogul explained that this merger was not born of economic necessity on the part of either agency. He indicated that the present "inadequacies" inherent in the straight 15% agency compensation system "have led us to the conclusion that we can make more money together." (This position is typical of Mr. Mogul. He has consistently advocated new methods of agency compensation and did so again Oct. 20 before the New York chapter of Alpha Delta Sigma, national advertising society [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Nov. 3].)

Both agencies will profit from the merger, Mr. Mogul went on. The new firm boasts a widely-diversified client roster—covering foods, drugs, cosmetics, fashions, fabrics, banking, industrial, houseware appliances and publishing. LW&S gains a strong broadcast department and Mogul—which has confined its activities to one office in New York-now will have operational bases in New Jersey and in Europe.

Via a reciprocal servicing arrangement between LW&S and Dudley Turner & Vincent Ltd., London, the new agency now will be able to service European clients in this country. The merger also puts Mogul into direct mail advertising via LW&S' absorption a few years ago of the Kaplan agency of Newark, N. J. (Alvin H. Kaplan, heretofore president of LW&S Kaplan and Saylor Co. and senior vice president of the new combine).

Added to the client roster built up by Mogul and including broadcast-buying Revlon Inc. (cosmetics, shoe polishes), Ronzoni Macaroni Co., Park & Tilford Distilling Corp. (Tintex dyes, liquors), Rayco Mfg. Co. (auto accessories) are the following LW&S clients: First National City Bank of New York (through BBDO places the radio-tv campaigns), and these spot clients: Burgess Vibrocrafters Inc. (tools, appliances), Wamsutta Mills, Cambridge U. Press, Forstner Inc. (men's jewelry) and also La Tausca Sperry Inc. ("Pears by Deltab") which uses NBC Radio.

That's the capsule case history of WJBK Radio's Tom Clay and his recent watch offer test on his "Jack the Bellboy Show." Tom offered his nighttime audience five watches to the first five listeners who correctly timed down to the exact second the new recording of "How Time Flies." This offer was made only once, and from that one announcement came 2,170 replies! AGENCIES OR MORTUARIES?

Benton & Bowles’ McDermott blames his own kind for the high mortality rate of network television shows

Advertising agencies were chided last week for the high mortality rate of network television shows.

The scolding was administered by one of the agencies’ own, Tom McDermott, vice president in charge of television programming at Benton & Bowles. Mr. McDermott has been with the agency for 16 years and before that time was a director and producer in legitimate theatre and radio.

How high the mortality rate? “Less than half the shows on TV [networks] are holdovers from last season in the same time slots,” according to Mr. McDermott. On the basis of a programming log made up by the agency, Mr. McDermott predicts that approximately half of the current nighttime television network shows “will die” and will not broadcast in the next tv season.

Mr. McDermott’s comments are partly based on a program chart prepared by Benton & Bowles, logging by half-hours the period between 7:30 and 11 p.m. for each of the networks. It reveals more than half of the nighttime programs now on the air are replacements for shows which failed to survive last season (35%), or are old shows moved to new time periods in attempts to put the shows over (19%).

He laid the blame for the mortality rate on the agencies’ doorstep because of what he believes is their inability both (1) to choose programs with strength and (2) to keep the shows strong.

Mr. McDermott acknowledges most agencies “at least try to select a strong show” but, he notes, they “pay little or no attention to the need for bolstering and maintaining public acceptance of the program.”

Here is the count of hours per network for each night of the week as well as the Monday-Friday daytime schedules, taken from B&B’s classification of programs into those established in the same periods, those established but in new time periods as well as shows which are entirely new to the schedule. Hours between 7:30 and 11 p.m. not accounted for in established or new programming are station option time. The log is as of Oct. 2.

Monday: ABC-TV—11/2 hours established and in same time period, 11/2 hours of new shows, 1 hour to be announced; CBS-TV—11/2 hour established in same time period, 1 hour established but in new time and 2 hours new; NBC-TV—11/2 hours established in same periods, 11/2 hour established but in new period, 1 hour of new programming and 1/2 hour station option (10:30-11:11 p.m.).

Tuesday: ABC-TV—11/2 hours established in same time and 2 hours new programming; CBS-TV—11/2 hour established in same time, 1 hour established but new time periods, 11/2 hours new programming and 1/2 hour station option (7:30-8 p.m.); NBC-TV—2 hours established in same time, 1/2 hour established but in new period, 1/2 hour of new programming and 1/2 hour station option (10:30-11 p.m.).

Friday: ABC-TV—1/2 hour established in same time, 11/2 hours established but in new time and 11/2 hours of new programming; CBS-TV—2 hours established in same time, 1/2 hour established but in new period and 1/2 hour of new programming; NBC-TV—2 hours established in same time and 11/2 hours of new programming.

Saturday: ABC-TV—2 1/2 hours established in same time, 11/2 hour new show and 1/2 hour station option (10:30); CBS-TV—2 1/2 hours established in same periods, 1/2 hour of new programming and 1/2 hour station option (10:30); NBC-TV—1 1/2 hours established in same time and 2 hours of new programming.

For the guidance of B&B executives as well as for clients, Benton & Bowles also spells out tv cost data for network tv programs, estimating that an average half-hour nighttime program in 1959 will cost $92,000 for time and talent (full details, Advertisers & Agencies, Nov. 3), or an increase of about $5,000 over what is figured to be the average cost of a nighttime network tv show in 1958.

While taking a dim view of most agency tv show development, Mr. McDermott specifically points to Benton & Bowles’ record:

“At Benton & Bowles we have put a great deal of work toward developing shows with staying power. We think we’ve been successful. For example, several of the shows we supervise for our clients are proven performers with records of longevity—shows we have had from their inception.”

He explains that Loretta Young (NBC-TV) is in its sixth season (Procter & Gamble is sponsor); Zane Grey (CBS-TV) is in its third season (sponsored by General Foods and S. C. Johnson) and December Bride (CBS-TV) is now in the fifth season (sponsored by General Foods).

Mr. McDermott says “this kind of programming performance pays off in efficiency,” noting that every one of B&B’s “last-season shows” delivered messages at a cost “substantially lower than the average nighttime half-hour.” Last season, he observes, the agency was able to put on tv shows for clients at a lower cost-per-thousand than any other major agency.

“We have achieved this record of performance,” he maintains, “because we make advertising men out of showmen, instead of trying to make showmen out of ad men.

“We maintain the largest staff of experienced producer-directors of any agency in the world. We do so because we believe it is just as important to keep our shows vigorous and effective as it is to pick the right shows in the first place.”

TV COMMERCIAL TILL FILLING UP IN WEST

• Reaches 30% of U. S. total
• Admen gauge coast influence

Last year, the nation’s advertising agencies spent about $50 million for the production of tv commercials for clients, with more than $30 million being spent by the top 10 agencies, John Cole, west coast director of film production for Sullivan, Strick & Colwell & Bayles, reported Monday (Nov. 3). About 60% of the total was spent in Hollywood, he said, contrasting that situation with the one ten years ago, when Hollywood got only about 5% of the $10 million spent for tv commercials.

Mr. Cole made the contrast in introducing a panel discussion of “The Expanding Circle of Influence of Hollywood as the Center of Tv Commercial Production” at a meeting of the Hollywood Ad Club. He attributed the move to Hollywood to: the swing from live to film commercials, the increasing importance of Hollywood as a point of program origination, the entrance of the major motion picture companies into the tv commercial field, the demand for star-spoken commercials and, particularly, the craftsmanship available in Hollywood, where the technical crew members employed on a one-minute commercial will have an average of 20-30 years of motion picture experience.

Barney Carr, president, Cascade Pictures of California, reviewed the progress of producer-agency relationships from the early days when producers felt that tv was only another form of motion picture and wanted to be given a storyboard and left alone to make a film, with no appreciation of the advertiser’s needs or wishes, and the agencies felt tv was merely an extension of radio, with copy all-important but little appreciation of the visual approach. Producers have learned something about advertising; agencies have learned something about production and advertisers have learned that sometimes changes have to be made in already-approved copy to achieve the proper blend of words and pictures, he said, resulting in a successful marriage of creative thinking and practical knowledge which was essential for development of the best tv commercials.

Al Tennyson, vice president in charge of radio-tv and commercial production of Kenyon & Eckhardt, noted that his move from New York to Los Angeles in July, was no change in title, was proof of his agency’s conviction that Hollywood is the best location for its tv commercial production headquarters. Quality of production and competitive prices offered by Hollywood commercial producers were main factors in bringing about his move, he said, predicting that other agencies will follow K&E in moving their commercial production headquarters to the West Coast.

In introducing Joanne Jordan as probably the best known tv saleswoman on the West Coast, Mr. Cole commented that five years ago he had scoured talent agencies, casting directors and other sources and with great difficulty had lined up 15 young women for consideration as tv saleswomen for Lifebuoy soap. Recently, with no trouble at all, he got 40 eligible prospects for a similar job.

Miss Jordan noted that while agency men always want “the average housewife” for their commercials, their ideas of what that term means have changed radically. Seven or eight years ago, she recalled, they picked girls in their early 20’s who were more nearly the average showroom than housewife. Today they select more believable types, usually in their 30’s and often over 40, she said. Storyboards are better, costumes more appropriate and scripts much more natural than they were in the early days of tv commercials, making the commercials easier for the actress to deliver and for the public to believe, she commented. In live commercials, she said, the greatest improvement has come from the introduction of the TelePrompTer.

Roland Beaudry, vice president of Collyer Adv. Ltd., Montreal, and a former member of the Canadian Parliament, in Hollywood making tv commercials in French, reported that many of Hollywood’s best commercials for U. S. or French-speaking Canada become “expensive turkeys” in French-speaking Canada, where living habits and social customs are as different as the language. His agency, he said, serves as adviser to U. S. advertisers and agencies on their French-Canadian advertising in addition to normal agency functions for its own clients.

Ed Cashman, Foote, Cone & Belding vice president for radio-tv in Hollywood, was chairman of the day at the HAC’s semi-monthly luncheon meeting at Hollywood’s Roosevelt Hotel.

Liquor Ads on Air Inevitable, According to Nuyens Executive

Radio advertising of Nuyens vodka and cordials is being carried out in good taste on radio and other media, Sheldon Levine, merchandising director of Nuyens, said Nov. 4 in an open letter to the liquor industry. Nuyens beverages are being promoted on WCRB Waltham, Mass., by Federal Liquors Ltd. Boston [Lead Story, Oct. 27].

“An entire new medium has been opened for the liquor industry now that Nuyens vodka and cordials are being advertised on WCRB,” Mr. Levine said in the letter. “This year, the 25th anniversary of repeal, has been a momentous year in the liquor industry. The big change has been the new approaches to selling and the new marketing concepts advanced by advertising and merchandising people in relation to the new generation of consumers.

“Nuyens feels that in this modern era it can no longer keep its head buried in the sand. A careful and exhaustive study has been carried out by Federal Liquors for its Nuyens line. A two-year survey took place involving consumers and members of the broadcasting and liquor industries. As members of the latter, we paid special attention to the potential impact that the explosive subject matter would have on all segments involved as well as on our own public relations. The step into radio was inevitable.”

Mr. Levine cited a statement from Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N. Y.), chairman of the Judiciary Committee, “I congratulate Nuyens vodka for being the trail blazer—the first to advertise hard liquor on radio or television. I have been endeavoring ever since prohibition to have the liquor industry drop its inferiority complex and realize that it is a legitimate business.”

or a Statement About Understatement, or Shrinking Iowa, or Growing Iowa, or So Big is Iowa, or Who Watered Those Figures?

Our attention has been called to the Statistical Abstract of the U. S., which states unequivocally that the area of Iowa is 56,290 square miles.

We recently imputed to a fictitious character under depth analysis the statement that Iowa contained 56,280 square miles. This set us off on an extensive half-hour research project which, now that it's completed, makes us think we should have ignored the whole thing, passing off the ten-mile difference as typical of the way we understate.

Our authority for the original statement was Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary. The American College Dictionary concurs. So does the Tour Book of the AAA. The Columbia Encyclopedia says 56,147. Webster's New International (Second Edition) says 56,147 including inland water. Turns out that all of our figures include inland water, variously quoted at 245 or 294 square miles.

Well, that’s the way it goes. Iowa—real, honest-to-goodness down-to-earth-type Iowa—consists of something like 35,564,853 acres,* 34,045,000 of which are in farms. The authority for the first figure is the Iowa Development Commission; the second came from the Statistical Abstract of the U. S. (Bureau of the Census). What's more to the point: WMT-TV dominates three of Iowa's six largest cities and covers well over half of the tv families in Iowa.

ADULTS CHOOSE RADIO OVER TV MOST OF DAY, RAB REPORT SHOWS

Radio reaches more adults than television during two-thirds of the broadcast day (between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m.), according to a study released last Friday (Nov 7) by the Radio Advertising Bureau.

This conclusion emerged from an RAB-commissioned survey conducted by the Pulse Inc., New York, in 27 major markets. The results of the study are contained in a 12-page RAB report, "Adult Audience Patterns," which is being mailed to advertisers, agencies and RAB members.

The report stresses the importance to an advertiser of reaching the adult market, claiming that 93.6% of all food and grocery purchases are made by adults, and adding that "radio offers many advantages over television as an adult medium."

The booklet states that an hour-by-hour breakdown shows that the radio adult audience is larger than that of tv between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. and the average quarter-hour adult radio audience during this period is "nearly twice as high." It also makes the point that day or night, more than 85 out of every 100 radio listeners are adults.

RAB officials said the complete hour-by-hour list, officials noted that at 8 a.m., radio has an adult audience of 8,138,000 as against 2,180,000 for tv, and at 4 p.m., radio has an adult audience of 6,439,000 as compared to 4,794,000 for tv.

He said that the number of adults reached by radio in an average hour between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. is 6,506,000, while the comparable figure for tv is 3,550,000 (see chart). RAB did not reveal the comparative radio and tv figures for nighttime, but officials said that by no means do they concede nighttime to tv. They said that radio, at television's highest point, has three times as many adults listening as television has adults viewing at radio's peak periods.

The report points out that in the morning, less than 62 out of 100 tv viewers are adults; in the afternoon, about 59% of the tv viewers are adults and in the evening the figure rises to 76%. The report continues: "About 69% of all adult tv viewing takes place after 6 p.m. while the radio adult audience is spread throughout the broadcast day . . . thus when the two broadcast media are compared, radio emerges as a medium that offers advertisers a commanding hold on adult audiences.

RAB officials said that the 27 markets surveyed for the report are those where radio and tv audiences are measured in identical areas by Pulse. They are said to cover a cross-section of major American cities which account for 41.5% of retail sales and in which more than 38% of all U.S. homes are located.

Role of Research Man Discussed by Marketers

Q: Should the agency research man be specialist or generalist?

A: It depends on where you want to work.

That was the upshot of last week's workshop meeting of the American Marketing Assn. of New York, which heard three Foote, Cone & Belding research executives describe "How We Create a Better Advertising Program From Market Research."

The three: Paul Gerhold and Cornelius DuBois, research vice presidents, and Thomas McKiernan, manager of research.

The meeting's focus shifted to the question of the researcher's role after three other agency executives—William Weilbacher of Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample, Ben Gedalecia of BBDO and Richard Lester of Grey Adv.—rebuted the FC&B position. FC&B's position was that the research role should be integrated as closely as possible with media and other functions of the agency, and that the researcher himself should be brought close to decision-making areas. The score: one for, two against.

It was Mr. McKiernan's description of how his research department operated, and what kind of man it wanted to hire, that sparked the controversy. He outlined a situation in which research and media people work in the same offices on the same problems, each working in complementary roles. Left alone, Mr. McKiernan stated, the media man tends to drift into cuts of habit, unaware of current marketing situations. Similarly, he said, a researcher on his own tends to retire into a statistical ivory tower. Together they form an effective unit.

Mr. McKiernan further described the FC&B research man as covering the water Kansa City (Storz stations) and Lee Rich of Benton & Bowles is familiar with all but a not working specialist at any one. The result, he said, is a man who becomes actively involved and partisan to the client's problem.

Not so at D-F-S, said Mr. Weilbacher. That agency does not regard its research department as the "repository of all knowledge," but as a group of individual specialists who can provide necessary information to other agency areas which need it. It's a problem-oriented operation at D-F-S, he said.

Mr. Gedalecia, who noted he had worked in research capacities for the government, for a network and for an agency, said the research man is "the same animal everywhere." He felt the researcher's role had grown to sufficient stature that he should be given independent recognition as a specialist, and be released from being "student-reporter or right or almost-something else" as well as researcher. While recognizing the need for some of the "togetherness" described in the FC&B operation be held out for a degree of "apartness" in the research function.

The staunchest supporter for the FC&B concept was Mr. Lester of Grey, who said it was unrealistic to cut the research man off from other operations. His remarks were not all in favor, however; referring to the elaborate marketing research plans prepared by FC&B for its clients, he said this technique often substitutes form for substance, and that there often is neither time nor need for elaborate "dictionary" research manuals on client problems. The research job as he saw it is to supply fodder to the marketing strategists, and to attack the principal problem of a particular client.

Latest ANPA Target: Tv Cost-Per-Thousand

Newspapers, through the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn., took another swipe at television last week. The spokesman was Dr. Howard Hadley, research vice president, addressing a media research discussion group of the American Marketing Assn. in New York.

His target was costs-per-thousand, and "facts and fantasies" in using them for media comparisons. Dr. Hadley's main contentions regarding tv: (1) media comparisons should be made on a basis of individuals rather than households; (2) c-p-m should be based on actual advertising exposures rather than on opportunities for exposure; (3) beyond that, only persons who are prospects for the advertised product should be counted; (4) persons viewing the program should not be considered as also viewing the commercials, and (5) it is fallacious to divide the tv program c-p-m by commercial minutes to find cost-per-thousand-per-commercial unit.

Dr. Hadley concluded on a surprising note, stating that his research showed that "magazines, newspapers and television are remarkably close on costs." He did not elaborate.

Lestoil President Tells Admen Newspapers Not Flexible Enough

But for the lack of cooperation from New England newspaper publishers, most of Lestoil's $9 million ad budget might be in papers instead of tv, Jacob L. Barowsky, founder-president of Adell Chemical Co., (Lestoil detergent), Holyoke, Mass., told the Cleveland Advertising Club, Oct. 27.

"In our early experience with newspaper advertising," Mr. Barowsky said, "we found we were unable to get the coverage and saturation we needed on sufficiently economical terms. Our original distribution area covered approximately 35 miles from Holyoke, but the advertising manager of the daily newspaper in our area insisted on our paying full retail rates. Since the lack of flexibility made it impossible for us to use newspapers, in 1954 [with a $10,000 ad budget] we decided to make one last attempt in advertising Lestoil to the consuming public—through the new medium of television."

Mr. Barowsky this year made a film called "The House That Television Built," for Television Bureau of Advertising designed to show the value of spot tv. Adell Chemical Co. produces 8 million bottles of Lestoil a month. Its commercials are carried on 185 tv stations.

SO ENDS AN ERA OF CADILLAC GIVEAWAYS

The epoch of the big money tv quiz closed last week as two major advertisers—Revlon and P. Lorillard—officially closed the books on Entertainment Productions Inc.'s The $64,000 Question on CBS-TV.

The show, which premiered in June 1955 and thereby inspired a number of super-jackpot tv quizzes (of which the late Twenty-One on NBC-TV became perhaps the most controversial), officially went off the air Sunday night Nov. 2. That night, the future of Question was still unsettled but subsequently advertiser indecision was resolved and the program scrapped.

Last Wednesday Revlon Advertising Vice President George J. Abrams and CBS-TV Executive Vice President Hubbell Robinson Jr. confirmed a general belief of many that ratings were at the root of Revlon's restlessness. Said Mr. Robinson: "Although the integrity of the first . . . big quiz show was not an issue in the replacement," the Question nevertheless became victim of "declining quiz show audiences."

Mr. Robinson's reference to "integrity" obviously was in connection with adverse publicity and a grand jury investigation into tv quizzes triggered by charges of "fix" late last summer by several former contestants of various big money programs. Coincident with plummeting Question ratings was the demise of such other quizzes as Twenty One and Dotto.

When it was apparent that Revlon and Lorillard wanted out, CBS-TV proposed Wolf Enterprises' Keep Talking as a substitute. Talking was a summer replacement on CBS-TV, Tuesdays, 8:30-9 p.m. Lorillard agreed but Revlon didn't, expressing instead an interest in the vacant alternate sponsorship of Ed Murrow's Person to Person, Fridays, 10:30-11 p.m. (Person to Person had expected to be sold entirely earlier this year via a Benton & Bowles order on behalf of Maxwell House, but the order evaporated and Lorillard was left as sole sponsor; with Revlon moving in, the cigarette and cosmetic advertisers once again will be re-united). Lorillard will keep the Sunday 10-10:30 p.m. slot and in it is running Keep Talking which features Carl Reiner, Audrey Meadows, Joey Bishop, Paul Winchell and Danny Dayton. CBS-TV officials say they have "a prospect" to share Lorillard's tab.

Revlon, in the first pangs of restlessness with Question, had informed NBC-TV it would like to join Lorillard as alternate-week sponsor of Arthur Murray Party on Tuesday nights should Pharmaceuticals Inc. decide against buying this program after Lorillard indicated a traditional tobacco manufacturer's reluctance to share a show with a drug advertiser [At Deadline, Oct. 27]. But this roadblock was hurdled by Pharmaceuticals and Revlon backed off.

Meanwhile, Revlon last week confirmed the appointment of Leo Bogart, formerly of McCann-Erickson's research department, as market research director, a new post.

The $64,000 Question during its three-and-half year run gave away $2.1 million in cash prizes as well as 29 Cadillacs "consolation prizes"—each auto estimated to cost over $5,000.

W&L Wins $25,000, Copy Rights From Schick in Suit Settlement

An award of $25,000 "in lieu of damages" has been made by Schick Inc. to Warwiek & Legler Inc., New York, its former advertising agency. The sum was arrived at Oct. 31 after some six weeks of negotiations and terminates the year-old litigation between the Lancaster, Pa., shaver firm and its former service organization. The settlement ends a case which has important bearing on ownership rights in advertising ideas. The suit arose out of the agency's claim that Schick and its new agency, Benton & Bowles, had appropriated a "cotton test" advertising idea that, W&L claimed, it devised when it still had the Schick account and which, it said, Schick rejected at the time. After the idea showed up in Benton & Bowles' prepared tv commercials (on NBC-TV's "Dragnet") and print ads (Look Magazine), W&L pressed for a permanent injunction that would forbid B&B to continue placement of this series. Earlier this year, the U. S. District Court in Philadelphia enjoined Schick from using the idea and determined the idea to be the property of W&L. This freed W&L to continue "discussion" with rival shaver firm Remington-Rand to which W&L had hoped to sell the idea, such a sale possibly leading to the agency being appointed to work for R-R.

NEW YORK DETROIT CHICAGO HOUSTON HOLLYWOOD MIAMI TORONTO

When the injunction was made permanent this past spring, Schick filed an appeal with the Court of Appeals in Philadelphia and at this point, settlement talks began between the two law firms representing plaintiff and defendant.

In New York last week, H. Paul Warwick, W&L president, said he was "happy to see the settlement of this case. We are in the advertising business, not in the business of litigation of lawsuits." He expressed "delight" that his ex-client had sought to settle, rather than to prolong the argument.

Bon Ami, W&G Settle Contract Breach Tiff

After a month of controversy, Weiss & Geller Inc. and its former client, Bon Ami Co., last week were about to settle their contract dispute. Terms: W&G will defrost the $56,000 worth of Bon Ami cash assets it had frozen at Manhattan's Chemical Corn Exchange Bank through a writ of attachment; Bon Ami will pay its former agency $40,000 upon receipt of its bank funds.

The only explanation was a joint statement Thursday afternoon by Max Tendrich, executive vice-president and director of W&G and Emil Morosini Jr., vice-president and counsel of Bon Ami: "In the heat of legal proceedings . . . numerous statements were made that may have cast certain reflections upon the integrity and competence of both Weiss & Geller and Bon Ami. It is the purpose of this joint statement to correct these impressions, and dispel such reflections, if they exist, and to state unequivocally that a complete settlement of the case has been effected to the complete satisfaction of all parties concerned."

Neither plaintiff nor defendant would shed any more light on the settlement. Papers on his with the New York Supreme Court show that the two factions arbitrated and settled their dispute Oct. 30.

According to the agreement which has yet to be carried out, the sheriff of the County of New York will release—after first deducting "lawful fees poundage"—the $56,000 of Bon Ami funds. Weiss & Geller then is to receive a check for $40,000 with "a statement of confession of judgment" signed and executed by Bon Ami.

Bon Ami, W&G Settle Contract Breach Tiff

After a month of controversy, Weiss & Geller Inc. and its former client, Bon Ami Co., last week were about to settle their contract dispute. Terms: W&G will defrost the $56,000 worth of Bon Ami cash assets it had frozen at Manhattan's Chemical Corn Exchange Bank through a writ of attachment; Bon Ami will pay its former agency $40,000 upon receipt of its bank funds.

The only explanation was a joint statement Thursday afternoon by Max Tendrich, executive vice-president and director of W&G and Emil Morosini Jr., vice-president and counsel of Bon Ami: "In the heat of legal proceedings . . . numerous statements were made that may have cast certain reflections upon the integrity and competence of both Weiss & Geller and Bon Ami. It is the purpose of this joint statement to correct these impressions, and dispel such reflections, if they exist, and to state unequivocally that a complete settlement of the case has been effected to the complete satisfaction of all parties concerned."

Neither plaintiff nor defendant would shed any more light on the settlement. Papers on his with the New York Supreme Court show that the two factions arbitrated and settled their dispute Oct. 30.

According to the agreement which has yet to be carried out, the sheriff of the County of New York will release—after first deducting "lawful fees poundage"—the $56,000 of Bon Ami funds. Weiss & Geller then is to receive a check for $40,000 with "a statement of confession of judgment" signed and executed by Bon Ami.

But officers of Bon Ami explained last week that this "statement" in no way that Bon Ami admitted to W&G's original charges—that the advertiser had breached its agency contract. "This is merely a legal technicality," Bon Ami noted. The statement, it was explained, is held in escrow by W&G in the event that Bon Ami defaults on its $40,000 settlement. Upon payment, the "statement" is returned to Bon Ami, it was explained.

After the exchange of cash, the action is to be dropped without costs to either party or against the other, the court papers stated. Bon Ami, upon settlement, has agreed to drop its answer to W&G's original charges and also will scrap its counterclaim.

W&G, fired early in September by the peripatetic advertiser [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Sept. 15], last month filed suit to demand restitution of $115,199.18 it claimed was due the agency on barter and straight advertising commissions past, present and future; at the same time W&G contacted radio-stv stations it had done business with on behalf of Bon Ami, put them on notice that W&G—not the newly-appointed agency of Cole, Fisher & Rogow in the agency's record "until June 1959." Bon Ami counter-claim that W&G owed it $186,300 plus for recovery of commissions it said W&G did not justly earn, plus damages [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Oct. 20].

Meanwhile, Bon Ami was continuing to "use up [its] barter commitments as fast as possible," adding paid time in its efforts to revive lagging sales. Bon Ami will co-sponsor the return to MBS of columnist Walter Winchell, it was announced last week. With the role of Cole, Fisher & Rogow Inc. as Bon Ami's new agency now beyond dispute, Bon Ami has ordered a minimum of 13 weeks on a Mutual lineup of 450 stations starting Sunday (Nov. 16), Bon Ami also is bolstering its barter campaign with radio-spot in some 60-70 markets.

Agency Year Ending on Up-beat Most Will Pay Christmas Bonus

An optimistic view for the future continues to mount within the ranks of the larger advertising agencies. Latest indications include BBDO President Charles H. Brower's memo of several days ago reassuring the agency's staff of a Christmas bonus this year, and Bryan Houston President William R. Hillenbrand announcing Thurs- day (Nov. 6) that the agency's entire staff also would receive a bonus this year and that the company will inaugurate a company-paid major medical insurance pro- gram to supplement Blue Cross, Blue Shield and group life insurance, all paid by the Houston agency.

Other previously reported signs pointing to a financial comeback among the agencies (though McCann-Erickson is skipping a Christmas bonus this year) were: Kenyon & Eckhardt restoring and making retroactive salary cuts effected for top-paid executives earlier in the year; Kudner announcing a maximum deposit to its profit-sharing plan and bonus to its employees, and Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample approving a maximum company contribution to its employees profit-sharing plan.

Maxwell Ground Coffee Transferred to OB&M

General Foods Corp., a prestige and heavy broadcast foods advertiser, last week assigned Maxwell House vacuum packed ground coffee to Ogilvy, Benson & Mather, New York, which becomes GF's fourth agency.

The other agencies are Benton & Bowles (which gives up the ground coffee account but retains Instant Maxwell House), Young & Rubicam and Foote, Cone & Belding.

With the acquisition, Ogilvy, now billing in excess of an estimated $20 million a year, picks up an additional few million. GF keeps its ad budgeting close to the chest but estimates of the account range from a high $3.5-4 million to a low of $2 million per year.

Most of this brand's advertising goes to the broadcast media (network and spot). Its principal participation in network this season is Zone Grey Theatre on CBS-TV Thursday nights. In the first eight months alone of this year, GF spent nearly $800,000 as gross rates in network television on behalf of its ground coffee.

OB&M received the tidings Thursday (Nov. 6) afternoon, GF soon afterward releasing a terse statement announcing the appointment. Presumably the account servicing will be effective around Jan. 1, 1959, although GF would not specify that date.

Late in the summer, GF publicly an- nounced its intention to appoint a fourth agency for "flexibility" in assignments made necessary by its de- veloping a number of new products [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Aug. 18]. At that time, E. W. Ebel, GF's advertising vice presi- dent, said the search for a fourth agency had been narrowed to six. These compa- nies: quality and scope of services, a New York area location and "consideration of the competitive situation."

Among OB&M's major broadcast ac- counts: Lever Bros.' Dove and Lucky Whip (both TV and Spot); Pepperidge Farm radio spot); Armstrong Cork Co. (building prod- ucts) (Armstrong Circle Theatre on CBS-TV with BBDO); Schweppes U. S. A. Ltd. (radio-spot); Philip Morris' Spud cigarettes (TV spot in summer season); Tetley Tea (heavy radio spot) and Helena Rubinstein (TV spot).

After Jan. 1, under the GF plan, Y&R turns over to FC&B, Calumet baking powder. D-Zeeta, Minute potatoes, and Walter Baker chocolate. These products alone represent nearly $3 million in billing. Y&R retains Jello, Birds Eye, Sanka, Swansdown, Postum and 18 other products. B&B is tabbed for "new coffee assignments" and two new products in the Gaines dog foods-biscuits line. B&B already handles the entire Post Cereals and Gaines lines as well as GF's institutional products division. The Instant

Last Oct. 15, David F. Crane, a vice president at Benton & Bowles, for years active in media, moved to Ogilvy as vice president and account supervisor. Mr. Crane at B&B was associated prominently with General Foods, but at the time of his switch, OB&M denied any connection with GF's known consideration of Ogilvy as its fourth agency. Senate Unit Asks Probe of GM; Says Auto Ads Keep Prices Up

A four-man Democratic majority of the Senate Antimonopoly Subcommittee last week asked the Justice Dept. to launch an investigation to determine whether court action should be taken to break up General Motors Corp. The four senators suggested among other things that cars would be cheaper if less money were spent by the automobile industry on advertising, styling and tooling for frequent model changes.

Sen. Everett Dirksen (R-Ill.) wrote a sharp dissent from the majority report on hearings held earlier this year. He labeled as "unwarranted effrontery" the majority's position that car prices could be reduced by reducing advertising expenditures.

Signing the majority report were Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and Sens. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (D-Mo.), Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) and John A. Carroll (D-Colo.) Sens. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) and William Langer (R-N. D.) filed separate views.

CAMERA CRUSADE • Bell & Howell, Chicago, for its new automatic "infallible" camera, will begin a pre-Christmas campaign Nov. 14 with co-sponsorship of four NBC-TV shows: NBC News (Mon.-Fri., 6:45-7 p.m.); Cimarron City (Sat., 9:30-10:30 p.m.); Ellery Queen (Fri., 8-9 p.m.); and Danger! (Tues., 7:30-8 p.m.). McCann-Erickson, Chicago, B&B agency, is also placing tv spots in scattered markets, to supplement the network buy.

DRUGS FOR PAAR • Block Drug Co., Jersey City, N. J., a charter sponsor of NBC-TV's The Jack Paar Show, has renewed its participation campaign on the show effective in January. Renewal totals $800,000 in gross billings and calls for 103 participations. It was placed through Sullivan, Stauffer, Colwell & Bayles, N. Y.

TWO MORE CORRALLED • Beech-Nut Life Savers and Whitehall Labs Div. of American Home Products Corp., last week joined ABC-TV's Warner Bros.-produced trio of westerns on the Sunday night lineup. Advertisers signed for Colt .45 (9-9:30 p.m. EST) through Young & Rubicam and Ted Bates, respectively. ABC-TV now starts off at 7:30 p.m. with Maverick (Kaiser and Drackett) followed by Lawrence at 8:30 (R. J. Reynolds and General Mills) and Colt .45.

GILLETTE BOWLS ON NBC • Gillette Safety Razor Co., Boston, will sponsor men's finals of World Invitational Bowling Tournament from Chicago over NBC-TV and NBC Radio on Dec. 12 (10-11 p.m.). Tournament has been arranged by the Bowling Proprietors Assn. of Greater Chicago. Agency: Maxon Inc., St. Louis and New York.

PONTIAC PAGEANT • Earlier reports of Pontiac's sudden change of plans in sponsoring a network special next month [CLOSED CIRCUIT, Oct. 20] were confirmed Thursday by NBC-TV which announced the car maker had bought the Dec. 14 annual Christmas Pageant, Carlo Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors" opera. Agency is MacManus, John & Adams, N. Y.

TIME AND AGAIN • U. S. Time Corp., N. Y., which tonight (Nov. 10) sponsors another All Star Jazz Show on CBS-TV (last was aired in April) has ordered third program on network. It will be seen Jan. 7 and likewise will be produced via Time's agency, Doner & Peck Adv., N. Y.

CLEAN HAIR KIDDIES • John H. Breck Inc. (shampoo), Springfield, Mass., will sponsor re-runs of Shirley Temple Storybook, hour-long presentations of famous sales and children's stories, on ABC-TV every third Monday (7:30-8:30 p.m.), starting Jan. 5. The 13 programs will complete their initial run shortly on NBC-TV. Agency: N. W. Ayer & Son, Philadelphia.

"Pre-Test" is New SSC&B Theme; $100,000 Facility Will Be Used

A preview of Sullivan, Stauffer, Colwell & Bayles' newly-tailored tv pre-testing was given newsmen Thursday (Nov. 5) at the agency's new offices in New York at 575 Lexington Ave.

Revealed were plans for a $100,000 tv facility and the new "image" of the agency as one that pre-tests or pre-measures its advertising on the basis of sales.

The agency's "story" was presented by SSC&B President Brown Bolte. Also representing SSC&B: Raymond F. Sullivan, board chairman; John P. Cohane, vice-president-treasurer; Clifford Spiller, senior vice president; vice presidents Ralph Smith, S. Heagan Bayles, Herbert A. Vitrool, George H. Frey (in charge of network operations), Richard D. Wylly (also creative director), Luther H. Wood and account executives Steve Blaschki and Lee Abbott.

The new tv approach is contained in SSC&B's developed technique in pre-testing commercials with consumers and actually base "on a sale." A film made via hidden camera during an actual test was shown but Mr. Bolte warned that the technique could not be made public because of competitive reasons. (Also explained was still another new variation of the testing technique.) He revealed also that SSC&B will follow a theme of "Pre-Measured Selling Power" which the agency is claiming to be "exclusive" with its shop.

The tv facility will include a fully-equipped television studio, including live and film cameras, Ampex videotape equipment, control room and a test kitchen which is actually part of the studio, and adjacent dressing rooms. The $50,000 yearly billing is in the $42-45 million range compared to the $3.5 million it billed when it started more than 12 years ago [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Sept. 22].

Political broadcasting disputes set all-time record this year

Inside the FCC, the final weeks before the Nov. 4 elections were dubbed "The Sec. 315 Rat Race." An all-time high was set in the number of station appeals for Commission guidance as parties and candidates raised knotty election problems.

Most of these appeals were made by telephone—from station managers, communications lawyers and candidates themselves. What help did they get?

Most of the Commission replies were informal; many were inadequate, at least from the inquirer's viewpoint.

In a good share of cases the Commission staff simply referred callers to previous rulings in what were deemed to be similar cases. The favorite reply was a reference to the FCC's 1954 question-answer guide to political broadcasting plus the revised Sec. 315 catechism issued last Oct. 1.

Not an autumn day passed at the Commission without its telephone requests. Some days the staff worked on a number of cases at one time, but even so, it was a shorter time-span than was required in 1958 when the Lawton (S-Dak.) case was raised.

Where a new question, or one deemed complex by the staff, was raised by an inquirer, a written request was asked by the Commission. These rulings made campaign news.

Item: In North Dakota, A. C. Townley, the gadfly independent candidate for U. S. Senate (against incumbent Republican Sen. William Langer, who was re-elected, and Democratic contender Raymond Vensel) complained that KBMB-TV Bismarck objected to giving him equal time on the ground that he was not a legally qualified candidate because he was not duly nominated by a commonly known political party, did not have permanent residence in North Dakota and his eligibility to serve if elected was questionable.

The FCC checked with the North Dakota attorney general who advised that according to his records Mr. Townley was a legally qualified candidate. This information was forwarded to the station.

Item: Early in 1958 two Johnstown, Pa., tv stations (WJAC-TV and WARD-TV) invited Rep. John P. Saylor (R-Pa.) to present a five-minute weekly report from Washington. This program became an outlet for federal government documentary films with the Congressman devoting 60 seconds to opening and closing remarks. The program ran until July 18 and was discontinued. Mr. Saylor in May had become a candidate for re-election in the primary.

Mr. Saylor's Democratic opponent began using equal time August 29—running a live five-minute program equal to the amount of time Mr. Saylor had used from May 20 to July 18. Mr. Saylor, who was re-elected last week, objected to the use of five-minute equivalents for his opponent. He claimed that his own appearance took only 60 seconds of each five minute program. The Pennsylvania congressman also asked whether it was fair for his opponent to delay use of equal time and whether he (Saylor) could claim further equal time to answer his opponent.

The FCC replied that so-called Washington reports by congressmen are indeed political, if done after the speaker becomes a candidate. The Commission said also that Mr. Saylor's opponent could not be restricted on his use of time; he deserved the same five minutes the Congressman got. The FCC said that it was not the substance of the candidate's remarks that determined "equal

A PLEA FOR POLITICAL FREEDOM

- CBS' Salant says law obstructs airing of politics
- Repeal of Sec. 315 is only way to sanity, he says

The way to get rid of the barriers to sane political broadcasting is to repeal the law governing political broadcasting, according to Richard S. Salant, CBS Inc. vice president.

"Radio and television should be recognized for what they are, "an important new member of the press with both the responsibilities and prerogatives of the press," said Mr. Salant in the 1958 Yearbook of the Harvard Graduate School of Public Administration.

Sec. 315 of the Communications Act, he explained, provides that if a broadcaster puts any candidate on the air he must do precisely the same for each of the candidate's rivals. "On their face, they (provisions of Sec. 315) bar discrimination among all candidates and they compel evenhandedness," he said. But in operation, Sec. 315 is fatally defective. Its inevitable tendency has demonstrably been to not encourage the free play of ideas and the interchange of major political viewpoints on the air, but rather to suppress them."

Mr. Salant was critical of the assumption that a broadcaster "in his role as part of the press is, during campaign periods, so little to be trusted that he must by law be prevented from exercising any discretion whatever. The experienced evils of suppression which Sec. 315 entails seem to be preferred over the vague fear of imbalance on the air."

He added this observation, "If a broadcaster is not deemed qualified to make his own journalistic decisions in this area, then one can only ask by what standard the FCC gave him a license at all. Indeed, the matter need not be left to speculation. Actual experience is available to establish the broadcasters' record."

Sec. 315 applies only three or four months of each year when there are candidates and political campaigns. Mr. Salant noted, but broadcasters deal constantly with political controversy.

"Yet clearly there has been no one-party electronic press even during the eight or nine months each year when Sec. 315 does not apply," said Mr. Salant. He argued that radio and television have in general scrupulously adhered to the principle of over-all fairness and balance among the major contenders for public attention in the field of political ideas. "They have done so not as a matter of compulsion by Sec. 315, since that section is inapplicable, but under the general framework of their broad responsibilities," he said.

Mr. Salant said a broadcaster could not long survive the public ill will that favoritism would justifiably create.

Public reaction offers "an imposing bulwark against any dangers which might be thought to arise by the repeal of Sec. 315."

He listed such other safeguards as the basic ground rules of the Communications Act, including the public interest clause.

"CBS and all other responsible broadcasters always stress the point that one of the components of operating in the public interest is to present all significant viewpoints on any important public controversial issue," he said.

"In the light of the broadcasters' record, of the safeguards which inhere in the very nature of broadcasting, and of the difficulties of devising a wholly satisfactory legislative compromise, repeal of Sec. 315 would seem well worth a try. There is so much to gain. The suppressive effects of Sec. 315 would be removed; the public would be the beneficiary because television and radio, with their enormous circulation and impact, would be able to fulfill their roles in bringing the major candidates and the major issues directly to the public in the most effective manner possible."

Mr. Salant pointed out that CBS has proposed that if once freed of Sec. 315 it would provide substantial free evening time during a presidential campaign for the major presidential candidates to debate the major issues, "a modern-day electronic version of the Lincoln-Douglas debates in which both the Republican and Democratic presidential candidates would appear on the viewers' screens debating the issues of the campaign."

opportunities," but his use of the station's facilities.

Item: D. L. Grace, Fort Smith, Ark., candidate to Arkansas General Assembly, complained that KFPW Fort Smith refused to offer him equal time to that of his opponent, J. B. Garner, who was employed at the station as commentator, newscaster and special feature announcer. A particular point in the complaint was whether the station could limit the use of its facilities over and above the use of the microphone. The Commission said that if the station permits one candidate to use its facilities over and above the microphone it must permit similar usage by other candidates.

It was the FCC's original reply on the Grace matter that gave rise to an anguished yelp from NAB. The Commission's original reply stated that the candidate may use the facilities in any manner that is fit, including the turning over of the microphone to authorized spokesmen. Last month the Commission reversed this interpretation, reinstating the hard and fast rule that only the candidate may use the microphone.

Item: Rep. Bob Wilson (R-Calif.) was invited by KFMB-TV San Diego to appear on a debate-type program with Democratic candidate Lionel Van Deerlin in a primary race in May (in California candidates are permitted to cross-file). Mr. Wilson declined to appear. Afterward, Mr. Wilson asked station for equal time and the station offered the same format. Mr. Wilson declined, insisting on right to pick own format. After primary June 7, when Mr. Wilson won the Republican nomination and Mr. Van Deerlin the Democratic nomination, Mr. Wilson asked the station again for equal time. The station refused.

FCC upheld the station's position. It said that Sec. 315 applies only to each election. The offer of equal time in May was the offer of equal opportunity and station had lived up to its responsibilities.

Item: Five New York stations got into a hassle with Socialist candidates in the last days of the election campaign.

- Socialists complained that WPIX (TV) refused Eric Haas, party nominee for governor of New York, opportunities equal to those given Gov. Averell Harriman who spoke on a Sept. 12 broadcast, 1958 Educational TV Preview. WPIX claimed Mr. Haas was not on the ballot. The FCC called attention to write-in provisions of New York State election laws then gave Mr. Haas 2 minutes, 37 seconds, equivalent of Gov. Harriman's time.
- Socialists complained that Barry Gray, producer of the Barry Gray Show (over WMCA New York), refused Corliss Lamont, Socialist candidate for U.S. Senate, time equal to that allowed by other senatorial candidates. FCC relayed the complaint to station and the issue was settled.
- Socialists complained that WEVD (named for famed Socialist Eugene V. Debs) refused equal time request to counter time given Gov. Harriman in the station's broadcast of "Freedom House Memorial to Herbert Bayard Swope." The station maintained this was a personal tribute to Mr. Swope by friends and that Mr. Harriman's presence was not political. FCC called attention to the fact that Sec. 315 permits no exceptions.
- United Independent-Socialist Campaign Committee complained that producers of Between the Lines on WNEW-TV refused equal time for the party's candidate for governor of New York, John T. McManus. FCC responded that Sec. 315 imposes no obligation on the show producer, but only on the station. The Commission pointed out that Mr. McManus was offered time on the Fannie Hurst Showcase but refused. The Commission said the "mechanics of equal opportunities" is best left to resolution by the parties..." It also warned that this obligation is not discharged merely by offering the same amount and class of time, size of audience and other factors must also be considered.

The mechanics of coping with Sec. 315...
Radio is Greater than Ever
...but so is the Difference between Stations!

Radio's strength is its ability to talk frequently and persuasively to masses of people, and to do this economically. But you can use this strength to maximum degree only when you give full consideration to the difference between ordinary and great radio stations.

In some major markets one station stands out unmistakably as the great station. It's the one investing substantially in top facilities and top caliber personnel. Its expert programming covers the entire range of listener interest... with features thoughtfully produced, professionally presented. Its responsible management won't permit its call letters to be associated with pitchmen and questionable commercials, with carnival gimmicks, shoddy giveaways, triple spots.

Thus great stations amass large audiences. Thus great stations earn the confidence of the community for themselves and for their advertisers. This is the combination that produces results.

The stations listed here are the great stations in 18 important markets. So efficient is their coverage, you need add only 30 selected stations, out of the more than 9,000 stations now broadcasting, to achieve effective nationwide reach. This technique of concentrating on 38 top stations is called "The Nation's Voice."

A call to any Christal office will bring complete information, documented with data developed by Alfred Politz Research, showing how the strategy of The Nation's Voice can quickly put radio's vitality to work solving your sales problem.

cases have been pretty well standardized at the FCC. Complaints are immediately relayed to the station involved and a reply or comment is requested in a matter of days. It is only after the reply is in that the FCC issues a ruling. Toward the very end of the campaign, of course, there was little time to do this and the telephone and telegraph were used to a great extent.

Although complaints might come in to any member of the Commission or the staff, it was a small group in the Broadcast Bureau and the General Counsel's office which wrestled with each of the cases. In the Broadcast Bureau, it was Joseph N. Nelson, chief, Renewal & Transfer Div., and Edward M. Brown, chief, Renewal Branch, who worked on these cases. In the General Counsel's office, it was Charles Effmeyer Smoot, assistant general counsel, and Charles R. Escola, an attorney in Mr. Smoot's Legislation, Treaties and Rules Div.

Broadcast Connections Among the Candidates

A number of politicians with broadcasting connections figured prominently in the elections last week.

Democrat John Burroughs was elected governor of New Mexico over incumbent Republican J. M. Smoot, who owns a peanut packing plant, also has 50% interest in KZUM Farmington, both New Mexico, and 40% of KMUL Muleshoe, Tex.

Gov. Robert D. Holmes of Oregon, former general manager of KAST Astoria before his personal friend Sylvester L. Burroughs, who owns a peanut packing plant, also has 50% interest in KENM Portales and owns 40% of KZUM Farmington, both New Mexico, and 40% of KMUL Muleshoe, Tex.

Governor Robert W. Lishman, subcommittee chief, last week ended his belief that the subcommittee would have been smarter if it had held similar discussions before getting down to individual cases, instead of after.

Mr. Lishman earlier had verified that the subcommittee will return to its probe of the Pittsburgh C. P. A. case this Wednesday (Nov. 12) [Also see AT DEADLINE] and added last week that the panel discussions would not interfere with the timing of the ch. 4 case hearing. After the hearings on Nov. 14 the subcommittee plans to switch its probe to other government agencies.

The Nov. 18-19 panel sessions will feature presentation of papers by three panelists on each of four questions posed by the subcommittee, to be followed by discussion in which all present will take part, Mr. Lishman said. He emphasized that the members of the panel will represent all points of view on the functions of administrative agencies in government.

The schedule as now planned:

Nov. 18, 10 a.m.: Should the clearly judicial functions of the administrative agencies be divorced from them and lodged with the federal courts?—Papers by Robert W. Ginannah, general counsel, Interstate Commerce Commission; Joseph Zwerdling, hearing examiner, Federal Power Commission; Prof. Kenneth Culp Davis, U. of Minnesota.

Nov. 18, 2 p.m.: Should the legislative functions of administrative agencies be restricted?—Papers by William Gatchell, general counsel, FCC; Donald C. Beall, Kirkland, Ellis, Hodson, Chaffetz & Masters, head of American Bar Assn.'s administrative law section in 1957; Prof. Frank C. Newman, U. of California.

Nov. 19, 10 a.m.: How much overseeing of the administrative process should be done by the state or federal courts?—Papers by Robert L. Beelar, assistant general counsel, Interstate Commerce Commission; Joseph Zwerdling, hearing examiner, Federal Power Commission; Prof. Kenneth Culp Davis, U. of Minnesota.
Great time at Telestudios! The happy combination pictured below just finished three Kellogg commercials for "What's My Line?" in record time! And why not? Kellogg has the top selling talent and personality of Dennis James (left)... top agency creative control of Leo Burnett Company in the person of agency producer Chuck Strother (center)... top production experience of TELESTUDIOS' head man, George Gould (right). And, oh yes, one other thing—VIDEOTAPE—at the industry's largest independent studios. It's the same kind of great time and custom service on which you can count when you produce your commercials... pilots or programs under the personal supervision of TELESTUDIOS' top management. Great results, too, because VIDEOTAPE at TELESTUDIOS means low cost, high quality productions that come across with all the vivid impact of live television itself. FCC Hopes to Have Boston Ch. 5 Ready for Hearing in December

The FCC last week told the U. S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia that it is still conducting pre-hearing investigations in the Boston ch. 5 case and hopes it can be set for hearing this year.

The court last July [GOVERNMENT, Aug. 4] remanded the FCC's 1957 grant of ch. 5 to the Boston Herald-Traveler (WHDH), ordering a re-hearing and asking for interim progress reports until then. The first FCC progress report was made early last month [GOVERNMENT, Oct. 6].

In its second report to the court last week, the Commission said its pre-hearing investigation has been pursued "actively"; that the FCC staff has questioned "a number of" persons who it believes may have information in the case. Steps also have been taken to determine whether there is any other pertinent information in the files of the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee which might be made available to Commission investigators, the FCC said, adding that further checks in the ch. 5 case are planned this month.

Mack Arraignment Postponed; Change of Venue Also Asked

The arraignment of former FCC Comr. Richard A. Mack was postponed last week after his attorneys pleaded that the former FCC commissioner was still too ill.

U. S. District Judge John J. Sirica agreed to a proposal that Mr. Mack be placed under bond in Miami to ensure his appearance at the trial, and that his arraignment take place at that time. Date for the trial of Mr. Mack, and his friend, Thurman A. Whiteside, is still in doubt.

Both Mr. Mack and Mr. Whiteside were indicted by a grand jury earlier this fall [LEAD STORY, Sept. 29]. Mr. Mack was charged with receiving money from Mr. Whiteside for voting in favor of National Airlines in the Miami ch. 10 case. Mr. Whiteside was released last month, freed under $1,000 bail [AT DEADLINE, Oct. 6]. Last week his attorney filed a motion for change of venue, alleging that the publicity given to the Mack-Whiteside friendship in Washington would make it difficult to hold a fair trial there. He also said it would be more convenient for all concerned to hold the trial in Miami.

FCC Denies Request by DBA To Withhold I-A Renewals

The fact that clear channel stations may claim modification of their licenses if the FCC implements its rule-making proposal to duplicate 12 Class I-A clear channel stations, will not affect FCC conclusions in the future—any more than it has been in the past—the Commission said in effect last week. The FCC took this position in denying a request by Daytime Broadcasters Assn., that license renewal applications by 12 Class I-A stations be withheld until final FCC disposition of its rule-making on clear channels or until the "freeze" is lifted on applications for Class II stations on Class I channels.

DBA, in asking that action be withheld on renewals for the 12 Class I-A am outlets, expressed its belief the 12 clears would claim modification of license as a stalling tactic to delay effectuation of the proposed FCC rule-making [AT DEADLINE]. The rule-making issued last April would permit unlimited Class II assignments on 12 Class I-A frequencies [LEAD STORY, April 21].

FCC Spurns Biscayne Plea For Action on Miami Transfer

The FCC last week turned a cold shoulder to pleas by Biscayne TV Corp., licensee of WCKR-AM-FM and WCKT (TV) Miami (ch. 7), that it speed up consideration of and grant Biscayne's sale of WCKR-AM-FM to Sun Ray Drug Co. for $800,000 last spring [STATIONS, May 26].

It was the second rebuff for Biscayne. The FCC wrote Biscayne Sept. 24 and said it could not grant the sale until it considers testimony before the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee regarding ex parte activities in the ch. 7 case. FCC awarded ch. 7 to Biscayne in 1956. The case was remanded by the U. S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia last year before and for other reasons than the Capitol Hill testimony [GOVERNMENT, Mar. 18, 1957].

In asking early approval of the sale, Biscayne had noted that the sales contract will terminate Nov. 21.

JCT Urges Tv Study First

The Joint Council on Educational Television last week asked the FCC to "make a thorough investigation of television allocations as a first step toward removing some of the serious obstacles" to ETF, especially in large metropolitan areas. At the same time JCT urged the Commission to reserve VHF channels for educational use in five cities. The JCT petitioned FCC to reserve ch. 12 in Wilmington, Del., as an educational facility last September [AT DEADLINE, Sept. 15].

In the new request, the council, which represents ten national educational organizations, wants educational TV in Rochester, N. Y.; Norfolk-Portsmouth-Newport News area, in Va.; Reno, Nev.; Waycross, Ga., and Panama City, Fla.

LESSER, RANK, BOX IN TV PACT

A hands-across-the-sea tv production agreement between Sol Lesser Productions, Hollywood, and Sydney Box TV on behalf of the J. Arthur Rank Organization, London, was announced Thursday in Hollywood. The deal calls for a minimum of four tv series of 39 installments each, to be filmed this season, with the overall budget put in excess of $5 million.

Two of the projected series, The Man From Lloyds and another which will be either an adventure or a science-fiction series, will be filmed at Rank’s Pinewood Studios in England, with Hollywood stars in the leading roles. A situation comedy series will be produced both in Hollywood and London, with an American comedian starred. The fourth property on the Lesser and Box-Rank immediate list was said to be so unusual that its nature would not be revealed until production is underway.

Sy Weintraub and Harvey Hayutin, president and vice president of Sol Lesser Productions, and James Swann, managing director for tv of Box-Rank, represented their respective companies in the agreement, which was negotiated by George Gruskin and Harold Breacher of William Morris agency. The Morris office will handle sales of the tv films in the United States, either for network telecasting for a national sponsor, or for syndication. The original series will be top quality productions, aimed at network use, it was said, with the possibility that later series may be made primarily for syndication.

Mr. Weintraub, in announcing the tv agreement with Box-Rank, made it plain that theatrical motion pictures will remain the chief activity of Sol Lesser Productions, with tv as “an important adjunct.” He and Mr. Hayutin are to leave this week for London, to work out shooting schedules for the four tv series already set with Box-Rank and to discuss pilot ideas for future tv programs. They will then proceed to Nairobi, Africa, where the first of two Tarzan theatrical pictures, “Tarzan’s Great Adventure,” will go into production Dec. 1 for release through Paramount.

A new technical process, “Vistascope,” now nearing developmental completion at Lesser Productions, will be used in the company’s tv films, Mr. Weintraub said. He described it as “something like rear screen projection,” permitting live action to be filmed before backgrounds based on small still photographs.

Food, Beer, Gas, Oil: Syndicator’s Best Bet

Who buys syndicated film shows? Ziv Television Programs, New York, has studied a list of 787 sponsors and come up with a profile of its market.

Food products, breweries and gas and oil companies—in that order—are leaders of the list.

Results of the special advertiser survey were released by Ziv last week. Len Firestone, syndicated sales manager, pointed out the survey is being used as a “sale profile” for the campaign Ziv currently is conducting for its new syndicated film, Bold Journey, starring Dane Clark and Joan Marshall. The survey shows that of the 787 sponsors of more than a dozen Ziv tv programs, food products (including dairies, bakeries and supermarkets) account for 26% of syndicated sales (202 sponsors); brewers, 23% (170 sponsors) and gas and oil companies, 12% (94 sponsors).

The remaining 39%, Mr. Firestone said, represent a wide variety of sponsor classifications, including home improvements (paint and appliances), banks, loan and savings institutions, automobile dealers, tobacco companies, public utilities and drug and pharmaceuticals in that order.

NTA’s ‘Dream Package’ in 41

National Telefilm Assoc.’s “Dream Package” of 85 feature films has been sold to an additional 23 tv stations, raising total markets sold to 41, it has been announced by Harold-Goldman, executive vice president. The firm also announced a new office in Brussels at 262 Rue Royale. It is supervised by Leo Lax, who heads his own organization, Leo Fox Films, with headquarters in Paris.

All-Industry Radio Committee Has First Huddle with ASCAP

The All-Industry Radio Music License Committee and ASCAP representatives had their first meeting in negotiations for new licenses last Thursday (Nov. 6), exchanged differing viewpoints and agreed to meet again Dec. 3.

Robert T. Mason of WMRN Marion, Ohio, chairman of the all-industry group, said the committee told ASCAP that radio must have a "sharp decrease" in fees and "substantial improvement" in the terms of ASCAP licenses.

In support of its position, Mr. Mason said, the committee cited substantial decreases both in station revenues from music programs and in station income since the licenses were renewed some 10 years ago.

ASCAP's position, on the other hand, was reported to be that it is dissatisfied with the rates radio now pays for its music and wants them improved.

Current ASCAP radio contracts expire, for most stations, on Dec. 31 of this year. In effect since 1941, the rate for stations is 2.25% of net time sales for a blanket license to use ASCAP music locally. The network rate is a little higher—2.75%.

All-industry committee members at the ASCAP meeting were Chairman Mason; George W. Armstrong of Stover Broadcast, Stover, Pa., vice chairman; Richard D. Buckley, WNEW New York and Metropolitan Broadcasting Corp.; Robert D. Enoch, WXLY Indianapolis; Herbert E. Evans, Peoples Broadcasting Corp.; Bert Ferguson, WDIH Memphis; J. Allen Jensen, KSL Salt Lake City; Herbert Krueger, W TAG Worcester, Mass.; William S. Morgan Jr., McLendon Stations; Leslie H. Peard Jr., W BAL Baltimore; Elliott M. Sanger, WQXR New York; Calvin J. Smith, KFAC Los Angeles; Sherwood J. Tarlow, WHIL Boston, and Jack S. Younts, WEEB Southern Pines, N. C. Also on hand were Emanuel Damentz, general counsel to the committee, and his partner, William W. Golub.

The ASCAP group consisted of Paul Cunningham, president; Herman Finkelstein, counsel; Jack Bregman, Jules Colins, Max Dreyfuss, George Hoffman, Richard F. Murray, Herman Starr and Ned Washington.

Within three weeks of releasing Stranger Than Science, G. A. Ruben Productions, Indianapolis, reports it sold the 26-episode package of 15-minute shows to 22 radio stations. The series, taken from former news commentator Frank Edwards' book Strangest of All, is carried fully-sponsored on such outlets as WGTO Cypress Gardens, Fla.; WSB Atlanta, Ga.; WOWO Fort Wayne, Ind., and WFDB Indianapolis. Next year Ruben, again with Mr. Edwards, will release a Mysteries of Outer Space series.

Radio Press Out for Am Clients To Supplement Initial Fm Group

Radio Press, New York, a "voiced" news service for independent and network radio stations announced last summer [Program Services, Aug. 25] and in operation since Oct. 6, has begun bidding for am station clients for the first time.

In a sales letter, George Hamilton Combs, Radio Press president, explains that the service provides daily at least 30 minutes of foreign, Washington and national news which at the station's option can be divided into quarter hours or 15-minute segments, and through the facilities of line, tape or fm.

The service claims more than 4,000 stations in 90 countries and a nucleus staff of "expert newsmen" with bureaus located at points in Europe, at Washington and in the Far East.

Radio Press also provides such services as sales calls on New York representatives, preparation of special sales promotion material and sample tapes and disc for representative salesmen.

Meighan VTR Production Firm Leases New York Theatre Space

The latest move in the rapidly expanding videotape field comes from Videotape Productions of New York Inc., which announced last week it is closing a deal to lease the Century Theatre there for an all-VTR production center. Guiding hand of the new firm is Howard Meighan, president, who until last March was CBS-TV Western Division vice president.

The Century, described as having one of the largest stage areas in the East, has been used as a tv studio by NBC-TV for the past four years. It is located on Seventh Ave. between 58th and 59th. Initially, at least, the new operation will concentrate on commercials.

Mr. Meighan first announced his intention to go into the VTR field when he left CBS last spring. At the time he said other videotape operations were planned for the West Coast and Midwest, but moves in those directions apparently will follow the New York plans. The target date in New York is Dec. 1.

Ampex Corp., which developed and markets the VTR-1000, standard unit in the field, will have a 45% interest in Videotape Productions of New York, and its president, George I. Long, will be a member of the board. Headquarters of firm remain in Los Angeles.

Election processes for vacancies on the NAB Radio Board of Directors will get under way Wednesday (Nov. 12) when forms are mailed stations to certify eligible voters representing each radio member station. Forms must be returned by Dec. 12. Nominations will be the next step.

Thirteen radio directors will be elected to fill directorships expiring March 18. One district (3) has a vacancy through resignation, Donald W. Thrushborne having become ineligible when WCAU Philadelphia was purchased by CBS.

Everett E. Reverbom, NAB secretary-treasurer, said the three directors ineligible for re-election are Robert T. Mason, WMRN Marion, Ohio, Dist. 7; William Holm, WLOP LaSalle, Ill., Dist. 9, and Alex Keese, WPFAA Dallas, Dist. 13.

Other district directors whose terms expire but who are eligible for re-election are Daniel W. Kops, WAVZ New Haven, Conn., Dist. 1; Hugh M. Smith, WCOV Montgomery, Ala., Dist. 5; Raymond V. Eppel, KORN Mitchell, S. D., Dist. 11; Joe D. Carroll, KMVC Maryville, Calif., Dist. 15, and Thomas C. Bestic, KIMA Yakima, Wash., Dist. 17.

Four at-large directors are up for re-election. They are Harold Hough, WBAP Fort Worth, large stations; J. Frank Jarman, WDNC Durham, N. C., medium stations; William C. Grove, KFBC Cheyenne, Wyo., small stations, and Ben Strouse, WWDC-FM Washington, fm stations.

Set Sales, Production Behind Pace in 1957

Factory production and retail sales of radio and tv receivers are running below 1957 figures, according to Electronic Industries Assn.

Tv set production for nine months of 1958 totaled 3,572,189 units compared to 4,589,164 in the same 1957 period. The totals included 311,809 sets with uhf tuners compared to 585,905 a year ago.

September tv output totaled 621,734 sets (40,712 uhf) compared to 507,526 (38,166 uhf) in August and 832,631 (87,040 uhf) in September 1957.

Of September's radio output, 41,408 sets had fm-band tuning compared to 21,335 fm models made in August. During the first nine months of 1958 manufacturers made 176,061 fm sets (comparative data for 1957 not available).

Retail sales of tv and radio sets in September ran ahead of August but below 1957. EIA found that 605,638 tv sets were sold to consumers in September compared to 405,790 in August and 705,247 in September 1957. Stereo-Capable Fm Transmitter Announced by RCA Station Dept.

A new 5 kw fm broadcast transmitter with built-in stereophonic capability was announced last week by E. C. Tracy, manager of RCA's station equipment marketing department. Known as RCA BTF-5B, the transmitter can be equipped with one or two compact multiplex sub-carrier generators to make the transmitter a multi-purpose unit, Mr. Tracy said.

With the addition of two sub-carrier generators, the new RCA transmitter can handle an fm station's main broadcast signal as well as two multiplex background music sources for piping to hospitals, industrial plants, restaurants, etc., Mr. Tracy said. The transmitter's exciter unit is RCA's BTE-10B type "employing direct fm modulator circuits which require no special tuning when being adapted for multiplex use. In the exciter unit, fm is accomplished directly by push-pull reactance tubes connected across the frequency determining circuit of the modulated oscillator."

CBS-TV Wins Coronation Race

CBS-TV beat out NBC-TV in the transatlantic race to be first with coverage of the Pope's coronation in Rome last Tuesday (Nov. 4)—by a matter of the 15 miles between Idlewild airport and Manhattan. Each network's kines came in from London on the same BOAC Jet-liner but CBS-TV broadcast direct from the airport (at 6:03 p.m.) while NBC-TV motioned its film downtown for the Huntley-Brinkley newcast at 6:45. CBS-TV set up its Telecine Studio at Idlewild's Gate 7 and whipped the film onto the scanner right from the plane's gangway.

NBC-TV did claim the distinction of having the first soundfilm on the air—CBS-TV's kines were silent, with voice provided by a commentator at Idlewild.

Of wider significance than the kine race was the other innovation CBS-TV introduced into its coronation coverage—videotape. In cooperation with Granada TV in England, the network was able to convert the Rome (RAI) signal to the U.S. standard. This is how it worked:

RAI broadcast the ceremonies live to the Eurovision network (using a 625-line system). Granada TV picked up the signal in Dover, England, and converted it to 405 lines (the British standard) for relay to Manchester. There it was converted to 525 lines (American) using a system developed by Granada's chief engineer, Reg Hammons. At that point CBS-TV producer-director Don Hewitt and newsmen Winston Burdette took over.

Those two had spent four days in Rome going over details of the ceremony with Vatican officials and deciding which portions they wanted to use for a one-hour program. As they monitored the Eurovision broadcast, they recorded the predetermined segments on videotape, with Mr. Burdette, through a live camera there, bridging the gaps. Mr. Hewitt had two chartered planes standing by, one to take shorter videotape segments of the opening ceremonies to London for shipment to the states aboard the BOAC Comet jet (along with the kinescopes handled in London by Charles Collingwood), the other to take him and the longer videotape show to Paris to board a Pan American Boeing 707 jet for New York.

One of the shorter videotape segments went on the network at 7:26 p.m. Tuesday during the Doug Edwards newscast, the other at 12:21-12:26 a.m. the next morning during election coverage. The hour show went on the network at 2 a.m., with a repeat at 10 a.m.

NBC-TV brought in a second shipment of kines from the Eurovision link at 12:10 a.m. Wednesday, edited 3 hours and 10 minutes worth into a half-hour package and put it on the network at 1 a.m.

ABC-TV declined to run in the race. It confined its coverage to a half-hour brought over by conventional methods and broadcast at 5 p.m. Wednesday.

New Producers for Garry Moore

Bob Banner Assoc., New York, will produce CBS-TV's The Garry Moore Show (Tues. 10-11 p.m. EST), in association with Red Wing Productions and the network effective with tomorrow's show (Nov. 11), according to Hubbell Robinson Jr., CBS-TV executive vice president in charge of network programs. At the same time Mr. Robinson announced that due to basic disagreements on the creative approach and production policy, Ralph Levy has resigned as producer of the program.

Stereo-Termed Listener Stimulant

The novelty of stereophonic telecasts has boosted audience interest for ABC-TV's Pflimishow Show Starting Lawrence Welk, according to a Trendex survey conducted for ABC-TV. Sampling a total of 400 viewers of the show in eight markets, ABC-TV said it found a "trend in the making." For example, 46.3% said they tuned to Welk because of their stereo interests; 85.1% noted stereo improved their enjoyment of the show (56.7% of this response group saying stereo "contributed a great deal," 28.4% noting they enjoyed it "more than before"). Nearly two out of three (61.3%) said they'd again tune to Welk using stereo set-ups and of the 66.8% who were "aware" of the 3-D sound, 60.8% said they already "had taken advantage of it.

Listeners Reassured

On CBS' New PCP Plan

CBS Radio moved last week to clarify what its new Program Consolidation Plan [LEAD STORY, Nov. 3] will mean to listeners.

In a statement issued "in response to many telephone and written inquiries to CBS Radio and its affiliates," President Arthur Hull Hayes said he was "happy to reassure our listeners that they will continue to hear the same informative and entertaining programs."

Mr. Hayes reviewed and expanded on some of the programming as disclosed when PCP was announced: Unit One, in which "we are currently broadcasting a once-a-month outstanding actuality documentary program titled The Hidden Revolution which reviews some of the basic issues facing mankind;" Metropolitan Opera on Saturdays starting Nov. 29: Capitol Cloakroom, Face the Nation, World News Roundup, Church of the Air, Salt Lake Tabernacle Choir and other public affairs and special programs; Arthur Godfrey, Art Linkletter, Ed Murrow, Lowell Thomas, Eric Severeid. Pat Buttram, Mitch Miller, Phil Rizzuto, Walter Cronkite, Robert Trout, and others; such daytime dramas as Romance of Helen Trent, Second Mrs. Burton, Young Dr. Malone, and Ma Perkins, and "new dramatic attractions" now in the works for integration "in our revitalized program schedule.

Mr. Hayes said that "the inquiries which have prompted these comments are immensely gratifying," that "they give proof that the national audience continues to regard radio as an indispensable part of their lives" and that "this underlines for us, as broadcasters, the responsibility of which we have never lost sight." CBS Radio, he said, "will continue to respect that enormous responsibility."

Under the new plan, endorsed by the affiliates at their convention, the network will furnish affiliates some 8½ hours of news programs each week that they can sell without payment of co-op fees to the network. In return, the stations will carry, without compensation, some 30 hours of weekly programming which the network will offer for sale. It has been estimated that CBS Radio's total program service will be cut from the current figure of approximately 90 hours a week to about 50 a week. The new plan is scheduled to go into effect Jan. 1.

Foreign Group Winds Up Tour With Boston Evaluation Session

Fifteen communications experts from nine countries who have been touring the U.S. on a four-month International Seminar on Radio & TV, are at Boston U.'s School of Public Relations & Communications for a series of meetings to evaluate their trip.

The group, sponsored by International Educational Exchange Service of the U.S. Dept. of State and the World Peace Foundation, has observed network operations in New York, visited commercial and educational radio-tv studios and toured the Voice of America facilities in Washington.

The evaluation seminar, highlighted today (Nov. 10) by a luncheon attended by members of Boston's Committee for Foreign Relations and the university's School of Public Relations & Communications, is last on the foreign experts' agenda in the U. S.

WEDU (TV) Starts Operations

Educational-noncommercial ch. 3 WEDU (TV) Tampa, Fla., commenced a seven-hour-a-day, Monday-Friday schedule Oct. 27. The new station, underwritten by the school boards of seven neighboring counties, telecasts four in-school programs daily, with classes for home viewers in the evening. WEDU carries NBC ETV shows on Tuesday and Wednesday while filmed programs from the National Educational Television network also are being scheduled. A second WEDU studio at St. Petersburg Junior College is to start operations in January.

KQED (TV) Starts New Schedule

A 14-hour-a-week project started on educational-noncommercial KQED (TV) San Francisco last week that covers about 140,000 students, 4,500 teachers and 42 public school districts. Most of the station's expenses are met with $55,000 raised from the school districts and local institutions plus a $25,000 grant from the Ford Foundation's Fund for Advancement of Education.

Courses range from art lessons for third through sixth graders, to physics for seniors. The live programs include conversational Spanish and social studies.
All Ready to Go:
National Tv Week

Observance of National Television Week, Nov. 16-22, will open Sunday with broadcasters and national public service organizations joining in a weeklong campaign to acquaint the nation with tv's contribution to the general welfare.

American National Red Cross, National Safety Council, Kiwanis International and American Automobile Assn., are among organizations cooperating with NAB and Television Bureau of Advertising. Electronic Industries Assn. is supporting the observance.

Tv stations will use kits of promotional material supplied by NAB, and networks have announced they are joining the campaign.

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield last week issued a statement saluting "another of the world's great disseminators of understanding and knowledge among peoples" and recognizing "how much the great American television industry, too, is contributing to the development of our national welfare."

In a keynote message, NAB President Harold E. Fellows said:

"This year, National Television Week offers us a special opportunity to use our own medium to tell the story of television. During the week, NAB tv members will show the first two of a series of filmed spots in a concerted effort to make everyone more aware of television's impact. The theme is, 'Nothing Brings It Home Like Television'.

"With more than 550 television stations on the air, serving 84% of all homes in the United States, television is a major source of information and entertainment throughout America. Television is making a vital contribution to our communities and our nation. This is a story of impact, and nothing can tell it like television itself. Used effectively and extensively, the new filmed spots for NAB members can bring home the story of impact.

Topping the local campaigns is a united effort to be staged by Chicago's tv stations, Academy of Television Arts & Sciences, Broadcast Advertising Club and Chicago Unlimited. Only tv facilities will be used to tell tv's story to the public, with no reliance on print media.

Chicago stations plan a heavy saturation spot announcement campaign before and during National Television Week. Many stations have announced promotion plans and will make air personalities available for luncheon groups. A downtown motorcade is scheduled Nov. 19. Among civic groups joining the campaign are Kiwanis, Junior Chamber of Commerce and Chicago Board of Education. James G. Hanlon, WGN-AM-TV, is chairman of the joint local committee.

A new tvb campaign based on animated sound-on-film 10- and 20-second spots is going out to tv stations this week. The films were prepared by Wexton Co. Norman (Pete) Cash, president of tvb, said the campaign is designed to impress tv's selling power on the "less sophisticated advertiser who is relatively unfamiliar with television at a time when he is most receptive—watching his own tv set."

WCCO-TV MINNEAPOLIS has added a downtown eyeopener since its purchase of Radio City Theatre, 4,200-seater and largest in the Northwest. Dave Moore, news-caster, stands in front of the new promotional display on the theatre's marquee.

In 1954, the station took possession of the quarter-block property adjoining the station's present plant last Oct. 16 (CHANGING HANDS, Oct. 27). The purchase price of the valuable downtown property was not announced. F. Van Konyenenburg, executive vice president, said part of the main lobby will be converted into radio facilities and tv storage, under tentative plans, with the rest of the structure to be demolished for a parking lot.

DATELINES

De ANZA DESERT—The skull of one of the three women whom Harvey Glatman, a Los Angeles tv repairman, confessed to murdering, was found by KFSD-TV San Diego newsmen Tony Kent. Mr. Kent went with police when the confessed killer led them to the site in the De Anza Desert (San Diego County) that Mr. Glatman said he left his victims. The skull, without which positive identification would have been impossible, apparently had been dragged some distance by coyotes. The coverage by Mr. Kent was shown on KFSD-TV then sent to NBC-TV Hollywood for network broadcast.

MOUNDSVILLE—An exclusive filmed interview with convicted murderer Elmer David Bruner was to be aired yesterday (Nov. 9) in the WHTN-TV Huntington, W. Va. Perspective (Sun., 1:30 p.m.) series. As no date has been set for the condemned man's execution, Bill McGowan, Charleston news editor for WHTN-TV, was able to arrange the interview with Moundsville (W. Va.) State Penitentiary Warden Donovan Adams. Mr. Bruner was convicted on a charge of killing Ruby Miller of Huntington with a hammer.

SPRINGHILL—Phil Galligan, WBZ-TV Boston film producer, flew up to cover the Springhill, N. S., mine disaster Oct. 29. After a 250-mile automobile drive (his plane was unable to land nearer Springhill because of weather conditions) he arrived in time to photograph the first survivor being taken from the mine. Mr. Galligan's film, including an interview with survivors in hospital, arrived at WBZ-TV soon after 7 p.m., was aired at 11 that night.

A $2-million-a-year radio show with an advertiser waiting line

One morning last week, at the black hour of 6:20 o'clock, listeners to WCBS New York's Jack Sterling Show received an apology. Mr. Sterling was about to put two commercials back to back—or nearly so, separating them by a few bars of music and the apology.

"Business is very, very good," he explained, but he added hopefully that it might get worse in a few weeks when the new car introductory campaigns have been wrapped up.

The probability is that Mr. Sterling's hopes will not be realized. His program, which observed its 10th anniversary Nov. 1, is sold out. Currently 38 advertisers are in the program and six others are in the waiting line, using other WCBS time with the understanding that they will move into the early-morning show as openings occur.

The Sterling show runs three hours a day, six days a week (five days live, Saturdays on tape). And with 38 commercials each day, it represents a gross of more than $2 million a year to WCBS.

This is a long shot from the situation that existed shortly after Mr. Sterling quit as program director of CBS-owned WBBM Chicago to take over the WCBS morning show from Arthur Godfrey. From the red-headed Mr. Sterling inherited some 20 advertisers. In six months the number was down to three as one sponsor after another elected to sit it out and see whether this was a worthy successor to the Godfrey brand of salesmanship.

Apparently they became convinced that it was; by the end of the first year business started picking up and hasn't slackened since. Indeed, since Mr. Sterling succeeded Mr. Godfrey the program has twice been lengthened—in all, almost doubled—to accommodate more advertisers. At the outset the program ran from 6 to 7:45 a.m. About five years ago the starting time was moved back to 5:30 a.m. and two years ago a new section was added from 8:15 to 9 a.m., following local and network newscasts from 7:45 to 8:15.

Although there was a sharp drop-off in the number of advertisers when Mr. Sterling first took over the program, he meanwhile developed the loyalty of several. Eastern Air Lines, for example, has been in the show six days a week for all 10 years. Franklin Savings Bank has been on for almost 10 years, also across the board, and Esso Standard Oil has been in the program with Esso Reporter for seven years.

Bradley A. Walker of Fletcher D. Richards Inc., agency for Eastern Air Lines, has this to say:

"For the past 10 years Jack has been the 'voice' of Eastern Air Lines to millions of faithful listeners. By every test, he has been one of Eastern's most eloquent and effective spokesmen, and his friendly cooperation has made working with him a real pleasure . . ."

From John H. Roach, vice president and secretary of Franklin Savings Bank, comes this tribute:

"We liked Jack when we signed him on our team back in January 1949, and after 10 years of slugging for the Franklin Savings Bank he is still in there hitting every pitch—and bringing new customers to us every day."

Franklin Savings sponsors an unbanklike gimmick which is one of several standard features on the show—it gives away money. This is the "Yuck for a Buck" department which at 7:13 each morning recites the day's best audience-submitted joke and dispatches two "Franklin half-dollars" to the sender.

Other standards include farm news at 5:45, fishing news at 6:15 three times a week in season, a bit called "It Happened this Day —I Think" at 6:35 and one of several character parts at 7:39. "It Happened this Day —I Think" is a takeoff on the origin of certain well-known events or catch-lines—an exercise in punnanship that usually is better heard than described. There is also the "Sterling Quintet," one of the rare groups of live musicians employed nowadays in early-morning radio (see photo).

WCBS attributes much of the show's success to Mr. Sterling's close and continuing contact with his clients and their products. Hardly a week passes when he does not visit plants and distribution agencies, as well as local outlets, to check on the products he sells and promote them on the scene.

Mr. Sterling's own career in show business extends back almost to the year he was born, 1915. His parents were vaudeville and stock company performers, moving from city to city, and he got his first onstage laugh at the age of two when he wandered, in diapers and uninvited, before the footlights during his father's act.

He had his own vaudeville act at the age of seven, doing blackface numbers, singing, telling jokes and tap dancing. At 15 he was a leading player in the John D. Win ninger stock company. Later he played a Chicago night club and left that to join the Federal Theatre in Peoria, Ill., where he settled down in 1939 with WMBD as an announcer and producer. A year later he moved to WTAD Quincy, Ill., as program manager, and from there went to CBS-owned KMOX St. Louis. He was transferred in 1947 to WBBM Chicago.

When his network schedule forced Mr. Godfrey to drop his WCBS stint, the station sent out a call for help—including a call for an audition record from Mr. Sterling. Legend has it that he cut the record only after getting assurances that WCBS would pay for it. He was picked for the job; his name, which until then had been Jack Sexton, was changed to Jack Sterling, and Jack Sterling Program was on.

The show is produced and directed by Ken Regan, and written by Walter Latzko, Art Whitney and Bill Vance. Mr. Vance helped Mr. Sterling write a book, So Early in the Morning, which was published by Thomas Y. Crowell Co. last week as part of the program's 10th birthday promotion.

WABC has set aside $40,000 which it will award as prize money to non-profit charitable, religious, educational and civic organizations whose members collect and turn in the most sales slips or other proofs of product purchase (boxtops, labels, etc.) advertised on the station each week for 17 weeks. With addition of WABC to CCS-franchised radio-tv stations, the total has reached 170 in 39 of the states and also in the Territory of Hawaii.

Look as long and as hard as you will at this tower—or the hundreds of others by Dresser-Ideco, serving broadcasting stations all over the country—and you just won't be able to see that really unique "something" that makes every Dresser-Ideco tower different from towers of any other make.

But there are many very real differences which add up to a safer tower, with lower maintenance costs than you'll find in other towers on the market. For example:

Dresser-Ideco uses structural rib bolts for connections throughout each tower. These bolts are specially designed to stay tight as the tower moves and vibrates in the wind. They won't work loose as other types of bolts tend to do, won't allow the tower and antenna to slip out of alignment.

Dresser-Ideco engineers plan the layout for the installation of broadcast equipment and supply detailed equipment installation drawings to the erection contractor. Long-experienced Dresser-Ideco tower engineers know this step in the erection process should not be left to extemporaneous "fitting up" on the job.

Complete final inspection is given every Dresser-Ideco tower by a field engineer, who makes certain that erection and equipment installation is carried out in accordance with the designer's specifications. Here again, experienced Dresser-Ideco tower builders know this final step is necessary to ensure that you get a completely safe and satisfactory tower. Just 3 examples . . . 3 details among many . . . that serve to illustrate the careful planning and attention to detail that goes into every Dresser-Ideco tower and that serve to illustrate why we think you'll agree "it's good business to buy from an experienced tower company."

So when your new tower is in the offering . . . look to experience you can believe in and results you can see. Better than 50% of all TV towers over 1,000 feet tall are towers by Dresser-Ideco . . . twice as many as the second tower company's total . . . more than all the rest of the tower companies combined.

Put Dresser-Ideco's unparalleled 38-year record of tower experience to work for you . . . write Dresser-Ideco, or contact your broadcast equipment representative.

AFTRA AND NETWORKS IN 11TH-HOUR TALKS

- Contracts expire Nov. 15
- Big stumbling block: vtr

Negotiators for the American Federation of Television & Radio Artists and the four radio and three TV networks were to meet this past Saturday and Sunday (Nov. 8-9) to iron out differences in contract proposals and thereby dispel threats of a strike. The present pact expires on Saturday (Nov. 15).

The weekend sessions were arranged even as AFTRA asked its locals in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, and San Francisco, to hold "strike meetings" to give the national board of the union necessary strike power. The New York local will meet on to be resolved is payment of fees for videotape commercials and programs [At Deadline, Nov. 3].

A network spokesman said that strike authorization is "standard operating procedure" during contract negotiations but he conceded that discussions to date indicate that the unions and the networks are "far apart." He confirmed that the principal issue to be resolved is payment fees for videotape commercials and programs [At Deadline, Nov. 3].

The current pact, signed in 1956, provides that performers in videotape programs be paid 100% fee for the original presentation; 75% of the fee for each of the first and second replays and 50% of the fee for each of the third, fourth and fifth replays, only. AFTRA now insists that there be no cutoff after the fifth replay but proposes a sliding scale of percentage to be devised for subsequent re-uses. The union also demands that in the tape commercials (not included in the 1956 contract) a similar formula be established, with no cutoff after the fifth re-use.

It is reported that several large advertisers, particularly of daytime live TV programs, have asked the network to resist AFTRA's demands on tape re-use payments. Advertisers' position conceivably is that if networks relent, the Screen Actors Guild, which has jurisdiction currently over both film commercials and tape commercials produced at film studios, will be in a strong bargaining position to insist upon a similar provision when its pact expires in about 18 months.

Other AFTRA proposals still to be resolved include one that would forbid the networks from feeding programs to an affiliated station which has been struck by a local AFTRA unit and another that would forbid networks from carrying tape reruns and kinescope programs during a strike by AFTRA.

A strike by performers would affect seriously the special programming planned by the networks after Nov. 15. There are seven special live programs scheduled between Nov. 15 and Nov. 30, including the high-budgeted "Wonderful Town" over

RIDE 'EM COWBOY

When is a cowboy not a cowboy? That question was posed to board members of the Screen Extras Guild, who answered it with a unanimous vote to crack down on producers who hire cowboys as unmounted extras, and then, when the script calls for it puts them on horseback.

SEG's scale table lists the general extra rate as $22.05 a day, compared to $29.04 for riders. Thus the producer saves $6.99 a head on days when there's no riding to be done.

H. O'Neil Shanks, SEG executive secretary, has been directed to take up the matter with producers on grounds that it violates the SEG contract. "When a producer knows that the script calls for actual riding but then calls cowboys at the general extra rate, he is chiseling and he is breaching our collective bargaining contract, even though he later adjusts the cowboys to the higher rate on the days they ride," Mr. Shanks said.

CBS-TV on Nov. 30, said to be a $500,000 package.

Networks officials said they are taking "normal precautions" in the event of a strike, stockpiling films and kinescopes. One top executive said that although networks are "concerned" about developments, he is

ABC, NABET Agree on New Terms On Pay for New York Publicists

A threatened strike at ABC was averted last Monday (Nov. 3) when the network and the National Assn. of Broadcast Employees & Technicians reached agreement on an initial contract covering 14 publicists at ABC in New York.

Under terms of the agreement, members of the press department will receive $169.63 after four years. The pay scale starts at $122 for publicists with up to one year of experience and rises to $134.46, one to two years; $146.19, two to three years, and $157.92, three to four years. In addition, a $5 raise is prescribed on Aug. 1, 1959. One copy editor and two contact men at ABC qualify for an additional $10 weekly above the pay scale. The contract runs through Jan. 31, 1961, and terms of the pact are retroactive to last September.

NABET also represents ABC publicists in Hollywood as well as technicians at both ABC and NBC. It is known that NABET is making overtures to bring NBC publicists into the union.

46 at ABC Quit RTDG; Expected to Join NABET

A group of 46 to 56 staffers at ABC belonging to the Radio-Television Directors Guild last Monday (Nov. 3) notified the Guild they have resigned from the union. It was reported that these members will make formal application shortly for affiliation with the National Assn. of Broadcast Employees & Technicians.

The ABC staffers who left RTDG include radio directors and assistant directors and television associate directors and stage managers, but do not include television directors. It was reported that the disassociation move was taken prior to application for membership in NABET so that the latter union could not be accused of "raiding" another labor organization in violation of an AFL-CIO code. The break-away group believes it will have a stronger bargaining position with an affiliation with a larger organization, such as NABET.

An official of RTDG told Broadcasting last Thursday (Nov. 6) that the union has filed a formal protest with George Meany, president of AFL-CIO, accusing NABET of violating the "no raiding" code. He said there is "No question that NABET has been talking to our members, promising them all sorts of things."

AR Does Turnabout; Profits $14 Million

One of the most remarkable financial turnabouts in foreign business circles was reported Nov. 1 by the London Times. In an article describing the activities of Associated Rediffusion Ltd., second-largest (to Associated Television Ltd.) commercial programming contractor, the Times reports that AR in its third year of operation has racked up profits of five million pounds—equivalent to about $14 million. Associated Rediffusion (London’s ch. 9) programs week days [CLOSED CIRCUIT, Oct. 27]

This profit astounded London financial circles, the Times said, because for the 12-month period that ended April 30, 1957, AR incurred a loss of 626,000 pounds—or $1.8 million. Though the newspaper did not explain the reasons behind this reversal, its financial editor pointed out that whatever the cause, the results will come as happy news to the stockholders in two other British firms. One is the giant British Traction Ltd.—a holding company with interest in utilities, transportation, resorts, etc.—which owns 50% of AR in addition to about 10% of Rediffusion Ltd., another commercial tv firm. Rediffusion itself also has 37.5% interest in AR.

Particularly surprising is the speed with which AR came out of the red; the profits for the year that ended April 30 surpass those of ATV Ltd. by at least $1 million.

Interesting factor in this profit picture is the disposition of the windfall. The Times reports that the AR board will not distribute profits in form of dividends, nor will it apply them against past losses. Instead, the AR directorship will treat the remainder of the AR accumulative losses as "business development expenses" by transferring them to a special "development account." Four and a half million pounds (or $12.6 million) of the profits will be capitalized into $12.6 million worth of non-voting common stock.

CFCF Gets Help in Fire Crisis

All Montreal radio stations came to the rescue of CFCF Montreal, oldest station in Canada, when the station’s studios were gutted Oct. 23 by a fire which started in the basement. The station lost no time on the air, using temporary studios of Walter Downs Ltd., in the Dominion Square Bldg. Other Montreal stations, including CJAD, CKAC, CJMS, CKVL and CBM, loaned CFCF recordings and transcriptions.
“Ad Age is high on my roster…”

says ROGER M. GREENE
Vice-President/Advertising
Philip Morris Incorporated

"The tempo of today’s advertising makes up-to-the-minute news a necessity and the common denominator for those who have to keep in step with the times. I turn to Advertising Age each week for an accurate report of news and the features that explore the events making the news. It is high on my roster of must reading."

Isn’t it a fact—the more important the executive, the greater is his need to keep up with developments in today’s hustle-bustle world of marketing. So, despite the pressures of the work week and the demands for their attentions, one thing is sure: most of the executives of importance to you take time or make time to read Advertising Age regularly and thoroughly.

At Philip Morris Incorporated, for example—where sales vaulted to a record $408,813,852 last year—television is favored with almost half of the firm’s budget for measured media. A pioneer in the use of radio and one of the first major advertisers in television, this cigarette manufacturer spent over $8,884,000 on network and spot TV time in 1957—primarily to promote its Marlboro, Parliament and Philip Morris brands.

Every Monday, 17 paid-subscription copies of Ad Age get read—and used—by Philip Morris executives with marketing responsibilities. Further, 396 paid-subscription copies get a going-over at Benton & Bowles; Leo Burnett; Doyle Dane Bernbach; and Ogilvy, Benson & Mather, the agencies handling Philip Morris accounts.

Add to this AA’s more than 42,000 paid circulation, its tremendous penetration of advertising with a weekly paid circulation currently reaching over 12,500 agency people alone, its intense readership by top executives in national advertising companies—and you’ll recognize in Ad Age a most influential medium for swinging broadcast decisions your way.

ROGER M. GREENE

Mr. Greene started with Philip Morris in 1936 and, in the decade that followed, gained considerable experience in sales, sales promotion, purchasing and production. In 1946, he switched to the company’s advertising department, where successive promotions advanced him to advertising manager in 1951 and, four years later, to director of advertising. Mr. Greene assumed his present post of vice-president in charge of advertising in 1957. It was under his direction that the highly-successful Marlboro Man campaign was set in motion.

Away from guiding the campaigns of one of the country’s leading cigarette concerns, Mr. Greene relaxes by playing golf and and boating on Long Island Sound.

ABROAD IN BRIEF

SPONSORS AT SNAIL'S-PACE: Commercial tv grossed only $700,000 in West Germany last year, latest statistics show. The 0.2% of the country's ad budget that this figure represents, is handled by mainly non-commercial tv stations that set aside a segment of their daily programming for commercial time.

HUNGARIAN EXPORTS: A total 120,000 radios and 100,000 unassembled sets will be exported by Hungary by year's end, a report from Budapest estimates. The state-owned Elektroméx export agency expects to sell 58,000 radio and 20,000 tv receivers to Russia's East Germany.

BELGRADE GETS BIG ONE: Yugoslavia has put its largest tv transmitter to date into operation. Located near Belgrade, its ERP is 100 kw. Two other transmitters, at Fruska-Gora and Zagreb, were due to go into operation last month. A fourth Yugoslav tv transmitter at Lyubljan is scheduled for completion early next year.

WEST GERMAN TV COUNT: West Berlin and West Germany had 1,765,410 registered tv receivers at the beginning of September, representing an increase of 46,376 sets during August and 100% gain over the same month of 1957. Many tv sets are being operated without a license.

German tv set production is predicted to reach 1.4 million by the end of 1958.

AMPEX UBER ALLES: Ampex videotape recorders, modified to 625-line standards, have been installed by North German Radio and Southwest German Radio. Indications are that, as other tv stations in the areas follow suit, only a small portion of programming will remain live. VTR's are modified by Siemens & Halske, German electronic products manufacturer.

VTR JUNIOR: A home videotape recorder is being developed by Grundig. The machine, about the size of a record player, is expected to be on the market in two years. Price: $200 to $300.

PARISIANS SEE ALGIERS: A television relay station in a plane 20,000 ft. over the Balearic Islands has been used by the French to transmit a program from Algiers to Paris. The 16-minute trans-Mediterranean report got good reception on Paris screens.

ITALIAN COUNT: Registered television sets in Italy numbered 864,754 on April 1, an increase of 191,674 since the beginning of the year. Annual tv set production in the country is about 300,000, annual radio receiver production 700,000. Costs of Italian tv receivers are decreasing. A standard 17-inch set retails for approximately $135.

A net profit of slightly over $.5 million was registered by the Italian state-owned radio-iv networks for 1957 compared with $350,000 for 1956.

TV TUBE FROM CHINA: A prototype of a 13-inch television tube has been produced in Nanking by a state-owned lamp-vacuum tube plant. The first tv receivers made in China are undergoing thorough tests. A television station in Peiping, China, has commenced operations, giving that country its first tv outlet, New China News Agency reports.

SWEDISH VIDEO RELAY: The Swedish Telervision Service has opened a 500-mile relay line connecting Stockholm, Goteborg and Malmo. Twelve of the 15 relay stations are automatic, the other three being manually operated. Another relay line between Upsala and Sundsval is scheduled for opening in early 1959.

A trade agreement with China has been signed by the Swedish government that includes the export of electronic equipment to the Chinese mainland.

COLOR FOR REDS: The Russian Communications Ministry's experimental studio chief predicts that Moscow will have regularly-scheduled color tv shows in December.

TOWERING JAPAN: An 82-ft. antenna was installed Oct. 14 on Tokyo's 1,092-ft. Television City tower. The $7 million tower, eventually to be used by five stations, is slated to transmit test signals next month. Claimed as the closest competitor to the tower's height in Asia is a 557-ft. tv tower in central Japan. The tv City structure is 108 feet taller than the Eiffel Tower and 380 ft. shorter than the Empire State Building.

New Radio Headquarters in Bonn

The West German Radio Network in Cologne will build a five-story plant to house its operations in the capital town of Bonn, the Federal Republic's press ministry announced last week. The rooms currently used for broadcasting and newsgathering purposes in the Bundesbause have become overcrowded, it is reported, and to accommodate not only its own staff but personnel of other networks and foreign broadcasting companies, the West German Radio Network will shortly break ground in the government quarter of the ancient university town. In keeping with the low-slung modern style of the buildings, the network plant will be built with two of the flights below ground (studios), and three above.
RALSTON PURINA SUCCESS WITH TV EARN AD CITATION FOR HODGES

Ernest Hodges, vice president of Guild, Bascom & Bonfigli, San Francisco, last week was named "outstanding young advertising man of the year" by the Assn. of Advertising Men & Women in New York. His winning vehicle: the all-television advertising campaign for Ralston Purina Cereals.

Mr. Hodges' entry placed first in the association's competition for consumer advertising campaigns budgeted over $1 million. Also honored last week were winners in two other categories: Herbert A. Kuscher, account executive, Lampert Agency, New York, for a campaign of the FR Corp. (photographic flash units) in under-$1 million consumer advertising, and Jeremy Danny, account executive of Noyes & Sproul Inc., New York for work on the C. B. Fleet Co. (medical products) account in the under $100,000 industrial advertising class.

The winning Ralston campaign was initiated by GB&B four years ago when it assumed the account. At that time the sales curve was downward, and although many advertising ventures had been tried (13 of them at one time) no success was being achieved. GB&B suggested several drastic changes, among them (1) dropping all premiums, a staple of the cereals field, and (2) diverting all advertising money to one medium—nighttime network television.

Within two weeks, Mr. Hodges, recalled, sales jumped for the first time in six years. Later Ralston began sponsorship of Bold Journey adventure series on ABC-TV, which developed the now well-known educational tieup which puts teaching aids based on the program into 100,000 classrooms across the country. The award presentation noted that Ralston's cereal sales in the past year were up 33 1/3% compared to an average of 5% in the industry, and that the advertising budget has doubled since 1954 and will be almost tripled in the 1958-59 season, still relying on network television as the backbone of the campaign.

CBS’ radio-tv Face the Nation yesterday (Nov. 9) marked the start of its fifth year as it pointed to the three national broadcasting honors received in 1958—Peabody, Sylvania and Sidney Hill Foundation awards.

Produced by Ted Ayres, under the supervision of Theodore F. Koop, director of Washington CBS News and Public Affairs, Face the Nation had an auspicious beginning in 1954 when the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) appeared on the eve of the special Senate session called to debate a motion to censure him. Perhaps the most famous Face the Nation installment was in the summer of 1957 when Russia’s Nikita Krushchev made an unprecedented appearance [Networks, June 10, 1957].

During the show’s brief history eight heads of foreign governments have been interviewed, as well as 14 cabinet members and 55 senators, among others. Face the Nation is on CBS-TV Sundays, 12:30-1 p.m., EST, and on CBS Radio 9:30-10 p.m., EST, the same day.

75 Nations Employ Facilities To Broadcast UN Music Concert

A major international concert broadcast was made possible on Oct. 24 through the United Nations, the engineering skills and broadcast facilities in 75 nations and a trans-Atlantic cable “souped-up” to provide a two-way, 6,500 cycle broadcast channel.

The two-hour program—featuring the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Charles Munch, Pablo Casals, Mieczyslaw Horszowski, David Oistrakh, Yehudi Menuhin, L’Orchestre de Chambre de la Radiodiffusion-Télévision Française and Ernest Ansermet’s L’Orchestre de la Suisse Romande—was split into three segments, the first originating from New York, the second from Paris and the third from Geneva. Via the two-way cable, the program was heard simultaneously throughout much of the Americas and Western Europe, some outlets carrying portions on delayed broadcast and some TV outlets by videotape.

The United Nations presented the program to celebrate its 13th anniversary.

In the U.S., ABC Radio carried the program from 9:11 p.m. Oct. 24; CBS Radio from 4:00-6 p.m. Carrying the show as it was presented (3–5 p.m.) was the Eastern Network of Canadian Broadcasting Corp., WOXR-AM-FM New York, WNYC-AM-FM New York, WBAI (FM) New York, WGMS Washington and stations in Puerto Rico (via RCA). NBC Radio carried the program Oct. 27 in distilled, one-hour form and the Concert FM Network carried it in entirety Oct. 26 by synched tape. Also slotting it; WGBH (FM) Boston (featuring a New England FM network) and WFMU (TV) Chicago (both Oct. 25); WTP Philadelphia (Oct. 27), and the National Assn. of Educational Broadcasters.

CBS-TV videotaped the concert and broadcast it in edited form Oct. 26 at 11 a.m.; CBC-TV carried an instantaneous transmission for 30 minutes. Two New York TV outlets—WOR-TV and WPIX (TV)—picked up one hour of camera work the afternoon of the concert.

Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. taped the entire two-hour United Nations Day concert and presented it on WBC’s AM and FM stations on a schedule varying from station to station.

IN-THE-AIR, as well as on-the-air, were promotion highlights of the “Sky High Introduction” of the 1959 Chevrolet by Lownsbury Chevrolet in cooperation with WOHO Toledo, Ohio. Tv opened a large can of legal worms

(The following is an excerpt and adaptation of an article appearing in the Symposium on Radio and Television in the Winter 1958 issue of Law and Contemporary Problems published by the Duke U. School of Law):

A lawyer for a large advertising agency has a most diversified practice. There is hardly a field of law—literary and artistic, business and economic, social and political—that does not claim his professional attention.

Of all the challenges to whatever learning and resourcefulness and equanimity the advertising agency lawyer may possess, the most complex, and some of the most frustrating, arise out of radio and television—especially television.

It was complicated enough in the days of radio alone, when the techniques of advertising were adapted to the new mass entertainment medium. Then the agency lawyer began to broaden his professional horizons in the wonderland of show business.

The fact that the advertising message now talked out loud in millions of homes did not place any particular strain on his experience and equipment so far as jurisprudence was concerned. It was the fact that the agency began more and more to develop and produce the radio program itself that caused his friends to notice a change.

He began to read trade publications along with the advance court reports and trade regulation services; he made trips to Hollywood; he was heard to drop strange names such as William Morris Agency and MCA; he became concerned with labor union negotiations; and he began to take on the look of a man who is delinquent in getting his work out, a condition due to no lack of diligence on his part.

At the same time, however, he continued his old habits as a legal authority on print advertising, and though in a way he was leading a double life, he remained basically unperturbed.

After all, with few exceptions, each radio program in which he was interested had but a single sponsor, and that advertiser was his agency's client. The legal ramifications of talent and production problems were limited to audio performances and sound transmission. When he had a union problem, there was usually only one union and one code to a problem. Most of the time, the networks seemed anxious to accommodate the advertiser's requirements. Washington was, of course, concerned with radio broadcasting and from time to time instituted proceedings, but these governmental activities did not call for or require the advertising agency lawyer's concentrated attention or participation to any extent.

Then, like Minerva born full-grown from the head of Zeus, television made its explosive entrance. Its development was "fabulous." It contained not one, but many amazing new ingredients, among them:

Big-Time Multiple Sponsorships. Owning primarily to the tremendous costs, more frequent than not television programs have co-sponsors, alternate-week sponsors, segment sponsors, and other sponsorship combinations and permutations giving rise to novel relationships and numerous contingencies which must be provided for and disposed of in facilities and program contracts and arrangements with fellow sponsors.

Ossa on Pelion. Upon the legal edifices of publication, advertising, and radio there are now superimposed the complete structures of the law of the living theatre and the law of motion pictures, buttressed by the complexities of modern electronics.

Multiplication of Union Codes. The labor relations repertory of the agency lawyer must now embrace numerous separate union codes directly governing the advertiser's activities in television relating to actors (including announcers, dancers, technicians, etc.), musicians, directors, and writers, with one set of terms and conditions for live programs in each case and another set for filmed or recorded; and he must have a general idea about the unions and codes affecting technical personnel, such as camera men, electricians, stagehands, scenic designers, etc., since a dispute involving any one of them could result in taking a sponsor's program off the air. The union ramifications incident to magnetic tape, which have been gestating for months, have now matured into a full-scale proceeding before the National Labor Relations Board; and the various union conflicts affecting tape promise tensions in this sector for some time.

Leading Into Strength. The attitude of the networks toward the demands of its customers—the advertisers—has, in recent years, toughened in geometric proportion to the skyrocketing of financial stakes in television broadcasting and the tightening of the seller's market in television broadcasting facilities. For the agency lawyer, this has been reflected in many ways, particularly in more arduous contract negotiations and more pressure and work in connection with measures to protect the agency and clients regarding the legitimate rights and privileges which they have hitherto enjoyed. Although the demand for broadcasting facilities and programming has now softened considerably, many of the practices giving rise to the new legal complexities developed during these banner years have survived.

Washington Close-Up on Video. At least four major authorities of the U. S. government have recently undertaken to investigate television network practices and other phases of the television industry. Antitrust proceedings have recommenced against the distributors of old feature motion picture films for television broadcasting. As one of the informed and featured players in the dramatis personae of this great industry, the advertising agency lawyer has been requested by the government to answer questionnaires, furnish data to investigators, and otherwise make available information which government attorneys deem relevant to these inquiries.

These are but a few of the intensifications and expansions of the challenges to the professional range and competence of the advertising agency lawyer brought about by the millions of little silver screens in the homes of America. "The law," said Sir William Blackstone, "is a jealous mistress." She "demands...an earnest and entire devotion." For the advertising agency lawyer, she has such versatility and excitement that "earnest and entire devotion" is not only a strenuous duty but a great fascination.

EDITORIAL

The Price Is Right

IT'S obvious that there's a move on foot to depress television rates. We can see no other reason, except the corollary hope of selling his service, for Miles Wallach's newest tv studies to appear on the agenda of this week's fall meeting of the Assn. of National Advertisers.

Mr. Wallach, as reported in these pages a week ago, claims that studies he has made, using in-home, coincidental interviews, show that a lot of people aren't really watching television even when their sets are on—that advertisers aren't getting as much exposure as the ratings lead them to believe. In one out of four homes, he contends, people were "engaged in additional activities" while watching tv and in some homes the set was running when nobody was in the room.

To this and similar contentions we are inclined to say: so what?

One can fight figures with figures and cite other studies showing that, even during daytime in summer, when people would be more apt to stray away from their sets, in only 1.1% of the homes were sets found lighted but unattended. Or we could argue, logically, that one person reading poetry in front of a tv set does not mean that others aren't watching what's on the screen in the same room.

But we are tilting with unsubstantiated generalities until Mr. Wallach reveals the statistics behind his claims. This he is to do at the ANA meeting—and a more receptive audience for any suggestion that tv is over-priced would be hard to imagine and impossible to assemble.

Nor is television's position in this case eased by the fact that George Abrams of Revlon, chairman of ANA's powerful Radio-Tv Committee and presiding officer and co-speaker at the session at which Mr. Wallach will appear, had a personal financial interest in launching the Wallach system (TPI Inc.) and has outspokenly advocated its adoption on a wide scale.

When Mr. Wallach has said his piece, it should be possible to appraise it in more detail. In the meantime, and even afterward, there is one answer that should suffice. This is television's track record as a sales force.

Newspapers are sometimes bought and not read; magazines pile up in the home and are discarded. So, too, sometimes the tv set may not get the full attention of everyone. Even if attentiveness were as casual as Mr. Wallach makes out, television can cite one case history after another to show that tv out-hits and out-sells all other media. Many advertisers who hear Mr. Wallach will recognize this fact out of their own experience. For the others we recommend literally countless tv success stories that have been reported in this journal, including a fair number appearing elsewhere in this issue.

The Elections: Their Effect

WHILE it's too early to assay the full effect of the elections on the legislative welfare of broadcasting, there are certain obvious conclusions that can be drawn:

The unexpected defeat of Sen. John W. Bricker of Ohio, ranking Republican member of the Senate Commerce Committee, removes from the Senate its chief network bater. Although a conservative, he relentlessly espoused licensing of the networks, imposition of public utility regulation (which inevitably would mean the fixing of rates) and the cutting back of tv station coverage to single markets.

The not unexpected defeat of Sen. Charles Potter, Michigan Republican, removed a champion of free, competitive broadcasting. He had authored the bill for a spectrum analysis to force the military to show its hand on channel use, lest tv allocations be pre-empted or disturbed.

Re-election of Sen. John Pastore (D-R. I.) assures his continued chairmanship of the Senate Communications Subcommittee. Like Sen. Potter, he has earned the confidence of broadcasters because of his fair-mindedness and his disdain of the phonies, as evidenced in his handling of the anti-BMI attempt of ASCAP-affiliated song writers.

Re-election of North Dakota Republican William Langer inevitably means the reintroduction of the perennial bill to ban alcoholic beverage advertising on the air. And the election of William Proxmire, Wisconsin Democrat, may cause more trouble for the FCC, particularly because its chairman, John C. Doerter, is a Wisconsin Republican.

Rep. Kenneth B. Keating of New York, who won the Republican seat in the Senate vacated by Sen. Irving M. Ives, was a strong advocate for the hill to exempt baseball and other sports from the antitrust laws. He can be expected to carry that fight over to the Senate, and there face the opposition of broadcasters who regard the measure as a death knell for sports broadcasting.

At this writing, it's generally expected that the chairmanships of all important House committees will remain unchanged. Because of the Democratic landslide there will be new faces on committees important to broadcasters. On the Senate Commerce Committee there will be four Republican vacancies (Bricker, Potter, Payne of Maine, and Purcell of Connecticut). There are now eight Democratic, seven Republicans. The ratio may change to 9-6 or even 10-5.

The next two years are going to be tough. The chips will be on the presidential elections. The broadcast media are the most potent means of reaching the electorate. The political woods are full of telegenic aspirants who believe that presidential lightning can strike—via television.

Truth as a Defense

A BASIC propaganda technique is to repeat an exaggeration so often it becomes accepted as truth.

Some newspapers and magazines have cleverly been using that technique in their attacks against television. They are trying to convince their readers that television is predominantly made up of westerns and violence; crime and mayhem. The allegations are picked up by the syndicated writers, after-dinner speakers and in parlor conversations. And the rebuttals never seem to catch up with the charges.

A new and simple method of meeting these charges head-on, at the local level, has been evolved by Gaines Kelley, general manager of WFMY-TV Greensboro, N. C. He has sent to every radio-tv editor in the station's coverage area a detailed breakdown of the week's programming, with an explanation by his program director, Gomer Lesch.

For example, the breakdown for the week of Oct. 19-25, described as typical for the CBS affiliate, showed that of 117 hours on the air, exactly six were westerns. There were nine other program classifications with more hours per week (i.e., daytime serials 15 hours; drama, 9; news, 614; sports, 7 hrs. 40 min.; family and situation comedy, 71/4; quizzes, 10; variety, 7; children's shows, 10 3/4 hrs.; and miscellaneous, 71/4 hrs.).

Mr. Kelley reports good treatment by radio-tv editors. The biased charges are refuted by fact. He suggests that if stations generally provided radio-tv editors in their coverage areas with periodic breakdowns of their programming, by categories, it could prove "enlightening".
