KRLD-TV IS FIRST

FIRST IN AUDIENCE: ARB's latest Dallas-Fort Worth report shows KRLD-TV dominating in audience share from sign-on to sign-off, with 27.2% more viewers than the second station, 48.1% more than the third, and 134% more than the fourth.

FIRST IN POPULARITY: 15 of the 18 top once-a-week shows in the latest Dallas Telepulse are on KRLD-TV, and seven of the top ten multi-weekly shows.

FIRST IN ITS AREA OF COVERAGE: Nielsen Coverage Service No. 3 shows KRLD-TV with its low channel, maximum power, and tremendous tower has an area of coverage larger than any other station in the southern United States.
TOTAL TRADING - It looks like complete changeover in Providence, R.I., television station ownership, if present purchase plans go through. In addition to Zeckendorf-Mullins purchase of Outlet Co. and its WJAR-AM-TV (see page 64), negotiations reportedly near completion for Capital Cities Television Corp. to acquire WPRO-AM-FM-TV from Cherry & Webb Broadcasting for estimated $6 million. Capital Cities owns WROW and WTEN (TV) Albany, N. Y., WCDC (TV) Adams, Mass., and WTVD (TV) Durham, N. C. William S. Cherry of Cherry & Webb is principal owner of WDBO-AM-TV Orlando, Fla. WPRO-TV (ch. 12) and WJAR-TV (ch. 10) are only tv stations on air in Providence. WPRO is on 630 kc with 5 kw, WJAR on 920 kc with 5 kw.

- Look for build-up of attack against certain FCC policy requiring stations that editorialize to "affirmatively" seek out expressions of opposing views. This requirement, leading broadcasters say, makes consistent editorializing almost impossible. At meeting of NAB editorializing committee in Washington this week, there'll be serious talk about how to get FCC to adopt more realistic policy.

OPTION TIME - FCC had another go-round Monday (Dec. 8) on option time, instructed staff to draft proposed findings saying option time necessary for efficient networking. First draft, which caused furore [GOVERNMENT, Dec. 1], had networking essential to tv, but option time not required. Staff was told to return with final document before end of year, probably last day. There is also move to have proposed findings issued publicly to permit rebuttal by networks, Justice Dept., and other interested parties.

- Because FCC majority (five of seven commissioners) maintains option time is "reasonably necessary" in proper conduct of networking, it can't be assumed present option hours are sacrosanct. There might very well be some changes proposed. Understood Commission told staff to reduce option hours from present three hours in each of four segments of broadcast day to not more than two and a half hours in each segment. Will half-hour reduction in option time meet Justice Dept. complaint that option time may be per se antitrust violation? That's good question. It's pointed out, FCC has responsibility for determining public interest, and can still approve principle of option hours even if Justice lawyers don't like it.

EMPIRE BUILDING - How big is big in film tv? Independent Television Corp., film house that Jack Weather built, reportedly has following in the works for next fall: syndication of some seven new film series, another two off network first run series (all of which represent minimum of $8.5 million investment); and as many as 8-10 pilots for network sale or syndication, representing $3 million-plus investment. It's known ITC aims to become collossus in tv, with film essential to plan.

- Members of President Eisenhower's recently appointed Special Advisory Committee on Telecommunications last Wednesday called on House Commerce Committee Chairman Oren Harris to get his views on overall spectrum problem. It's understood Mr. Harris advised group that sentiment on his committee favors creation of joint congressional committee on spectrum utilization and allocations, with consideration likely early in next session.

HILL ACTION - Although upcoming report of Legislative Oversight Subcommittee will recommend no changes in Communications Act, it will not go so far as to recommend drastic changes in FCC physical structure. However, "ripper" legislation may be forthcoming elsewhere. Senate Commerce Committee had measure drafted, but never introduced, last winter [GOVERNMENT, March 17] slated to receive serious consideration during 86th Congress. "We've just got to have some kind of bill on these commissions [FCC as well as others]," Senator Magnuson, Commerce Committee chairman who ordered bill drafted, has said privately.

- In addition, at least one other Demo- cratic senator re-elected in November reportedly is considering bill abolishing FCC, and member of Oversight Subcommittee stated he leans heavily toward idea of communications administrator and three-man court of appeals. Congressman said, however, he has not talked time to introduce legislation along this line. Legislation planned would eliminate loopholes on ex parte contacts with commissioners.

YES AND MAYBE - Tallying results to date, CBS Radio officials estimate that 130 of their 200 affiliates, representing 70% of network rate card, have signed they'll go along with new Program Consolidation Plan [LEAD STORY, Nov. 3], set to start Jan. 5. Minimum target: 85%. They say they've received only two cancellations thus far: WJR Detroit and WSAN Allen-town, Pa. (see page 71). In addition they report 30 requests for new affiliations, including bids by two 50 kw outlets, have come in since PCP was announced.

But critics of PCP take less rosy view. It's reported some affiliates (12 to 15, in some estimates) who don't like it plan "passive resistance"—that is, sit still and neither sign new PCP contract nor cancel current affiliation. This, they figure, will toss ball to CBS, giving it option of taking cancellation action itself or doing nothing and continuing station payments to them. Since current contracts are cancellable on six months' notice by either party, even cancellation presumably would require network to continue payments for that length of time—if stations held network to letter of contract—despite fact that PCP substitutes programs for money as basic means of compensation.

Meanwhile, back at CBS Radio, there's good news for staff people who've been wondering what PCP will mean to their jobs. Latest word, from authoritative sources, is that about 10 staffers will be affected—and most of them will be absorbed in television and other CBS divisions over period of few months after PCP starts Jan. 5. People being let go are virtually all in production and talent area, it's understood, and as free-lancers also have in's elsewhere. It's now practically certain, they say, that overall CBS Radio Div. will wind up with more employees than before, result of local program additions at CBS-owned radio stations.

SHORT HOLIDAYS - Because of workload, FCC won't recess this year over Christmas-New Year's weeks. Next regular Wednesday meeting will be held Tuesday, Dec. 23, with holiday to extend to Monday, Dec. 29. Pre-New Year's meeting will be held Tuesday, Dec. 30, but FCC will work last day of year and return on Friday, Jan. 2.

- Increasing demands by stations for telephone beeper feeds from outlets in area where major disaster story erupts is causing consternation. Local newsrooms want to cooperate but naturally are under pressure to handle their own news assignments. Most recent example was Chicago school fire past fortnight when most all stations there were besieged for beeper reports from scores of other midwest stations. (CBS' WBBM and WGN alone supplied feeds to 25-40 stations.) Many requests were pegged on network affiliation grounds. One solution: possible tape operation for feeding reports, felt not to be too prohibitive costwise.

SPORTING CHANCE - Colgate-Palmolive Co., New York, is reported ready for renewal of its two-five-minute, across-the-board sports programs with Bill Stern on Mutual during early-morning hours for Instant Shave, with C-P officials crediting Mutual sportscasts primarily for 20% increase in sales in 1958 for Instant Shave. Renewed campaign through John W. Shaw Adv., Chicago, to begin Jan. 4, 1959.

THE WEEK IN BRIEF

Radio Serves a City—Pittsburgh's United Fund feared worst in 1958 fund drive in view of bad slump this summer, but 13 Allegheny County radio stations join forces in defiance of bitter intra-media rivalry and help push campaign over top. Page 27.

New Year's Resolution—Geyer and Morey, Humm & Warwick together plan billing excess of $30 million in 1959, $9 million in broadcast media, as merger is announced. Page 29.

More on Midget Motorcars—Volkswagen's agency is cramped by size of car (account), gives it up, as Renault's agency steps on broadcast accelerator. Page 30.

McCa'n-Erickson Beckons Weaver—Former NBC Chairman Pat Weaver is near agreement with agency to act as television consultant. At the agency, he'd work with Clyne, McAvity and Haight. Page 31.

Fido's Freudian Frustrations—Rival Dog Foods is responsible for psyche going to the dogs. That is, advertiser offers humorous commercial on the plight of modern-day canines who become inhibited by lack of exercise and turn to the couch for a probe of the sub-conscious. Page 31.

They're Wild About Wilkins—Coffee firm, which has fractured funny-bones of Washington tv audience with 74-second commercials featuring a pair of "muppets" named Wilkins & Wantkins, now puts the two characters to work as premiums and off-the-air salesmen—by viewer demand. Page 32.

Faulty Use of Ratings—K&E's Sherak sounds alarm bell, gives advice and points up pitfalls; Adam Young criticizes buying by "emotion" rather than by statistics. Page 42.

If You Can't Lick 'Em, Etc.—20th Century-Fox reverses itself after seven months, stakes $15 million production bankroll on "most extensive tv production program" yet undertaken by major film company. Page 46.

ITC Rounds Out Sales Units—DuBois and Fribberg receive new executive posts; regional sales division created, and Blumberg, Russell promoted at film firm. Page 46.

CBS Films Split in Two—Production, headed by Harris, and business under Digges, are set up as separate units to spread workload under "broad expansion plans." Shakespeare succeeds Digges as manager of WCBS-TV New York. Page 50.

Tough Treatment Promised—Legislative Oversight report considered by committee. Definitely approved: stiff penalties for ex parte contacts, no more honorariums, criticism of FCC on patent-antitrust matters and other points, code of ethics, change in selection of chairman (although just how is undecided). Page 52.

FCC Sets Aside Seattle Ch. 7 Grant—Commission revokes ch. 7 grant to KIRO because Comr. T.A.M. Craven didn't hear oral argument—same reason appeals court remanded Indianapolis ch. 13 grant. Oral arguments set for Seattle case Jan. 30 and for Indianapolis case Jan. 23. Page 54.

Philadelphia-Cleveland Swap—U.S. Supreme Court hears arguments on Justice Dept.'s right to bring antitrust suit against RCA-NBC over 1955 exchange of stations. Solicitor General warns FCC not responsible for determining Sherman Act violations, whereas RCA-NBC contends FCC's approval bars government from suing on same matters. Page 58.

ASCAP Rates Head for Court—All-industry radio committee votes unanimously to ask court to fix reasonable fees as a result of break in negotiations for new contracts. Page 63.

Providence Puzzle—It deepens as Broadway producer Roger Stevens vanishes from combine buying Outlet Co. and William Zeckendorf's Webb & Knapp and broadcaster John C. Mullins are remaining principals. Confirmed: Zeckendorf-Mullins to expand broadcast investments. Page 64.

CBS-TV Goes to 'Minimum Buys'—Must-buy policy to be dropped March 1, replaced by new requirement that advertiser buy equivalent of 80% of network rate card at night, 75% in daytime, or be subject to bumping if another advertiser wants the time and does meet those minimum standards. Page 71.

It's a Good Radio Year—Audiences rising in many spots but there are plenty of operating problems, NAB Am Committee members indicate. Delay in filing of replies on revision of FCC license forms is urged; NAB ban on liquor advertising endorsed. Page 74.

Fair Trial Asked in Florida—Broadcasters want State Supreme Court to see demonstration of modern electronic reporting in courtrooms. Court upholds contempt convictions of two Miami tv cameramen who shot film in courthouse corridor. Page 75.

Cagey Quarry—You can't stalk the "Good Music" audience with a slide rule, Joe Gans found out. Nevertheless, the New York agency head, who deals only in broadcast media, has been making impressive catches with his "response advertising" campaigns. Mr. Gans sounds the call for a better-organized hunt in MONDAY MEMO. Page 93.

FCC SWITCHES STAND ON CLEARS

In its rulemaking last spring, FCC proposed following:

- Five Class 1-A channels would have second 50 kw station assigned at specified western areas.
- All 12 of Class 1-A channels would be opened for full-time Class II stations.
- Five clear channel frequencies were listed for 50 kw duplication as follows:
  - 660 kc (WRCA New York), in Montana.
  - 770 kc (WABC New York), at western state to be determined. This involves 17-year-old KOB Albuquerque, N.M., case.
  - 880 kc (WCBS New York), in Wyoming.
  - 1150 kc (KYW Cleveland), in Arizona.
  - 1180 kc (WHAM Rochester, N.Y.), in Idaho.

Specifically, staff was told to be ready in about month with plan whereby all 1-A's would be duplicated by stations plotted at specific locations to assure continued skywave service. Suppressing action came after FCC lawyers agreed there was merit to objection.

To Wilson Inc., applicant in Miami ch. 10 case, in filing with FCC Friday sharply criticized petition filed week before by Elzey Roberts, former stockholder in KXOK and KWK-AM-TV St. Louis, asking that new parties be permitted to file for ch. 10 if license held by National Airlines is revoked. [AT DEADLINE, Dec. 8.]

Wilson, Inc. called Roberts proposal "violation of rules" and "attempt to subvert the orderly administrative processes of the FCC." FCC is without power to act on Roberts request, Wilson said, because present applications are being considered by U.S. Court of Appeals for District of Columbia. Proceeding being held by FCC, Wilson said, is only on four "limited" issues, while basic issues are still before court. Wilson called Roberts proposal "radical," and said that to extend case is under "interference" would be "unwarranted diversion of court." Roberts proposal, Wilson said, is contrary to FCC's rules providing cutoff dates for applications. Wilson added that principal thing before court is whether court will announce principles of law to be used by FCC to set aside grant to National Airlines subsidiary. Wilson Inc. said it also "should be mentioned" that Roberts is "guilty of laches" (undue delay).

Publicity Men Being Recruited By SPG to Organize Labor Union

Screen Publicists Guild of AFL-CIO has announced it will make concerted effort to recruit publicity personnel in radio-tv networks, stations and advertising agencies.

SPG, with some 30,000 members in New York alone, wants to "organize unorganized," pointing out "it's high time the creative people in advertising and publicity had the benefits of a strong labor union."

Crafts involved include agency copywriters, artists, publicity writers, contact men and promotion specialists. SPG says that should its program win wide acceptance, it will be able to lend "stability" to a "shaky" business.

Wilson Says FCC Lacks Power To Accept New Ch. 10 Applicants

L. B. Tv Absolved of Harmful Effects On Children by British Study

Television viewing causes no harmful effects on children and provides "a certain gain in knowledge," according to two-year study by Nuffield Foundation in England, and published by Oxford U. Press. Study was based on 4,500 interviews with children 10-14 plus teachers and parents. Medium was found to have about same effect on children as books, radio, magazines and motion pictures.

Study dismissed commonly heard charges against tv, finding: It doesn't make children do badly at school; doesn't make them captive viewers; doesn't cause listlessness, loss of sleep, bad dreams, lack of concentration or eye strain; doesn't make children either more passive or more aggressive; doesn't make them read less. "There is little truth in stereotyped image of the mesmerized, voracious child viewer," report found. Gain in knowledge from watching tv is very slight, being most marked in younger, duller children, it added.

Walker and Associates Buy WOSH for $144,500 From Johns

Application for sale of WOSH Oshkosh, Wis., by William F. Johns family to corporation headed by William E. Walker for $80,000 plus assumption of $64,500 in obligations was filed at FCC Friday. Proposed new owners are William E. Walker, 21.05%; William R. Walker, 21.05%; Charles R. Dickoff, 21.05%; Benedict F. Hovel, 15.79%; John D. Harvey, 10.53%; and Harold Holman, 10.53%. Johns group owns WOSH, WMIN-AM-FM St. Paul, Minn.; KRIB Mason City, Iowa, 49% of KIHO Sioux Falls, S. D., and minority in WSPD Stevens Point, Wis. Proposed purchase of remaining 51% of KIHO by William F. Johns Jr. has been designated for hearing by FCC (see story below).

William E. Walker and associates own WBEV Beaver Dam and WSHE Sheboygan, both Wisconsin; KCLN Clinton, Iowa, and their purchase of WSJW St. Joseph, Mich., was recently approved by FCC. WOSH is 1490 kc with 250 w.

KISD, KIHO Protest Decision

Protestant and object of his protest joined hands Friday in asking FCC to review ruling of Chief Hearing Examiner James D. Cunningham in refusing to permit protest to be withdrawn. KISD Sioux Falls, S.D., had protested FCC grant last summer of sale of 51% of KIHO Sioux Falls by James A. Saunders to William F. Johns Jr. for $9,000, giving Mr. Johns full ownership of station.

Protest set for hearing, but in September both parties settled out-of-court suits. Among provisions of settlement was that Mr. Johns pay KISD $10,000, and that KISD withdraw protest. Last month, Mr. Cunningham denied KISD's request to withdraw [At DEADLINE, Nov. 24; GOVERNMENT, Dec. 1]. All parties submitted petitions Friday asking FCC to reverse examiner's decision.

WIP's Pyle Heeds Male Plea; Forms Club for Salesmen

Jack Pyle, WIP Philadelphia daytime personality, in past has slanted his programming toward housewives, but announced Friday (Dec. 12) henceforth 15-minute daily segment would be devoted to "Salesmen's Corner." It all began when traveling salesman wrote Mr. Pyle complaining he ignored male segment of audience and suggested that club of salesmen-listeners be formed.

Mr. Pyle mentioned idea on air and WIP switchboard immediately was swamped, station reported. Result: Over 500 bona fide traveling salesmen attended Tuesday organizational meeting of "Traveling Salesmen of America" Club, featuring Philadelphia Phillie pitcher Robin Roberts. Salesmen immediately dubbed themselves "Pyle Drivers-A Club Without a Cause." Mr. Pyle, who received hundreds of letters from all over U.S., and salesmen plan to put their club on permanent basis.

Wolfson Joins Ratings Critics

New demand for abolishing rating weeks comes from Mitchell Wolfson, president of WTJY (TV) Miami, who so urges in speech being prepared for delivery tomorrow (Dec. 16) at Radio & Television Executives Society's timebuying and selling seminar in New York. He charges that rating week promotions distort ratings, making them unsuitable for the job intended. Gene Accas, associate media director, Grey Adv., will appear with Mr. Wolfson on topic of "Hyped Ratings" at Lexington Hotel luncheon.

FCC to Deny KSLM-TV Extension

FCC staff is preparing order to deny sixth extension of time to construct ch. 3 KSLM-TV Salem, Ore., and petition of WSAY Rochester, N. Y., for reconsideration of March 21 decision which affirmed 1953 grant of ch. 12 to share-time stations WHEC-TV and WVET-TV Rochester. N. Y. Commission ordered both actions in directions to review staff.

KSLM-TV was granted ch. 3 in 1953. After five extensions of construction dates, Commission ordered application for sixth to hearing. Hearing examiner recommended disapproval on ground grantee had not been diligent and fact that delay was not caused by conditions beyond his control.

CBS Expands Record Division

Expansion of CBS Inc.'s phonograph marketing and manufacturing operations is being announced today (Dec. 15) by President Dr. Frank Stanton. First step in that direction is to transfer Columbia Phonograph Dept. from Columbia Records Div. to CBS-Hytron, CBS manufacturing division at Danvers, Mass. Sales will be centered out of CBS headquarters at 485 Madison Ave., New York. Dr. Stanton explained decision to step up phonograph activities was based on the great popularity of the Columbia phonograph line, and the growth potential in both high fidelity and stereo reproducing equipment."

Should this come about, don't expect Revion billing yanked out of D&RJ follow, because Weiss handles Helene Curtis cosmetics account. Apparently Revion's got the word; it's set to distribute products (billing $1 million) among its present agency lineup.

Bemused but Bewildering
EDITOR:

Many thanks for your coverage of my address [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Nov. 24] at the Radio & Television Executives Society.

One line in your story, however, disturbs me somewhat only because I believe its interpretation by your readers may possibly run counter to the meaning I intended to convey. I refer to the line which states that I was "amused at the [Miles A.] Wallach contention that ever people are watching TV than is claimed."

Your readers may interpret that remark out of context as indicating that my bemusement means I dispute Mr. Wallach's contention. The fact is that I am amused only at the coincidence of having him say what I have said a number of times. Obviously I am in complete agreement with the specific conclusion drawn by Mr. Wallach.

OUR RESPECTS

to William Dean Pennington

"THERE's really no 'last voice' on what is right for a radio-tv commercial.
In fact, more than one winds up all wrong because somewhere along the line, the creative chain was broken and the end product was short of its goal."

The voice here is that of Dean Pennington, vice president in charge of radio-tv commercials at Gardner Advertising Co., St. Louis. He calls his concept "across the board creativity" and its implementation has won him high honors in an area susceptible to frequent criticism. His most recent awards: for Purina Dog Chow and Duncan Hines pancake spots in the fifth annual Venice Advertising Film Festival.

Actually, the Pennington touch is apparent in all commercials prepared by the Gardner agency for its blue-chip accounts—Anheuser-Busch (Busch Bavarian beer), Pet Milk, Procter & Gamble's Duncan Hines baking mixes, Monsanto Chemical.
Believability in commercial copy takes a front seat at Gardner, which bills in excess of $22 million annually, about half in broadcast media. And its creativity stems in large measure from Mr. Pennington, who rose through the ranks, touching all functional bases.

William Dean Pennington (born in St. Louis on June 11, 1914) wanted most to be an artist after being graduated from high school in 1930. He obtained a sound knowledge of layout, lithography and printing and became a freelance comcmercial artist. Young Mr. Pennington was finding it rough going in a field not yet fully developed, when he went into service in 1942. He served in aviation ordnance as a petty officer and was discharged in September 1945.

The opportunity to join Gardner Adv. Co. brought experience in production, account work, copywriting and copy contact. Little by little, Mr. Pennington started doing more writing for print advertising (Union Electric, First National Bank, other accounts) and also worked on Day-Brite Electric Co., Army Air Force recruiting and Southwestern Bell accounts in the late '40s. His first brush with radio (and some tv) came in copy contacts with account executive responsibility on Southwestern Bell.

He was named Gardner copy group supervisor in 1953 and copy chief the following year. In 1955 he was asked to turn his considerable creative talents to broadcast copy.

Creating broadcast advertising that rings true, particularly in television, is an exacting task, Mr. Pennington points out, because unlike in a printed ad, the original concept for sight, sound and motion can get out of line between the creative and production stages. Sustained creativity from story board to finished print is the criterion of a successfully produced commercial, he claims.

"There are a lot of obviously bad commercials," he muses. "They are done dcheaply with nothing to recommend them beyond getting on the air. But we do a whole lot better job in tv than we're credited with. People are bombarded with commercials—quantity more than quality. We must remember that our primary job is to sell a product or service."

He told a Gardner sales meeting last fortnight that the basis of a good commercial is "what we call the distinctive difference that sells—a straight product claim ... a strong 'reason why' demonstration approach ... an emotional feeling built around the product."

As vice president in charge of Gardner's radio-tv commercials department [AT DEADLINE, Aug. 18], Mr. Pennington was promoted from copy chief in an agency realignment designed to effect closer coordination of radio and television commercials in St. Louis, New York and Hollywood. During the past year he has been responsible for the copy approach in spots for Busch-Bavarian in select markets and on Cardinals regional network baseball broadcasts, for Pet Milk on NBC radio's
Grand Ole Opry, and for Monsanto on Conquest network specials. For Purina Dog
Chow [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Sept. 8], the "eager eaters" theme has won commendation in the U.S. and abroad.

Mr. Pennington, regarded by his colleagues as a studious perfectionist, takes an avid interest in sports and works actively for United Fund and other civic drives.
He is married to the former Kay Ellison. The Penningtons—including Dick, 12, Gary, 10 and Craig, 1, all boys, and a daughter Gail, 3—live in Harwood Hills in suburban St. Louis County.

Local in management...

The Corinthian stations are first and foremost local in character... for great stations must be responsive to the needs and tastes of their individual communities.

Each Corinthian station has its own independent local management team... experienced men at the helm and in the key operating areas of programming, sales, engineering and promotion. The strength of each of the Corinthian stations attests to the abilities of these men and the role they play in Tulsa, Houston, Fort Wayne and Indianapolis.
Interrelated in service

The Corinthian stations have more than this. They benefit from each other's experience. And have at their disposal the full-time staff services of specialists in the basic areas of broadcasting...each outstandingly qualified in his field...Corinthian's Director of Programming, Robert H. Salk; Director of Sales, Don L. Kearney; Director of Engineering, George G. Jacobs; Director of Research, Charles H. Smith; and Director of Promotion & Advertising, Robert J. Sullivan. These men provide facts, judgment and the exchange of ideas upon which local management can base sound decisions.

Clearly, you get something extra when you buy a Corinthian station.
THE GIFT OF THE MAGI

In the sentimental yet gently ironic world of O. Henry, a suffragette calls her fellow women, "cringing lackeys of the kitchen," a quartet of singing waiters entertains a salon with "My Sugar Is the Salt of the Earth" and two lovers settle their quarrel with a kiss.

It is a world little remembered and less cherished by modern writers, but its unpretentious charm was captured for a brief hour Tuesday, Dec. 9 on CBS-TV's musical version of "The Gift of the Magi." Richard Adler's music and lyrics surrounded the simple plot with an aura of warmth and tenderness. Gordon MacRae was particularly effective as the young husband, and Sally Ann Howes was as pretty as a picture of grandmother at 19. Tart contrasts were offered by John St. John and Bibi Osterwald, whose duet with Miss Howes in "Madame, Will You Buy My Hair," was wonderfully sharp and sly.

The final scene of the boy and girl exchanging their gifts caused some slight disappointment. Composer Adler had no soft duet and producer-director George Schaefer had no romance for the couple, and the odds are good that O. Henry would have asked for both if he could have been reached.

Production costs: Approximately $200,000. Sponsored by W. A. Schaefer Pen Co. through BDBO on CBS-TV, Dec. 9, 9-10 p.m.

Executive producer: Albert Selden for Talent Assoc. LC, adapted by Wilson Lehr; musical director: Hal Hastings; assoc. producer: Murray Susskind.

OMNIBUS

The reasons for Peter Ustinov's success and failure as a playwright are caped in the curtain line of his play, "The Empty Chair," presented on NBC-TV's Omnibus Sunday, Dec. 7. "Ideas," proclaims a character, "are greater than men."

Believing this, Mr. Ustinov is successful when he deals with ideas as in the first two acts of his drama, about the after-effects of the French Revolution. The contrast between Hebert, the atheistic fanatic, Danton, the hot-blooded man of emotion, and Robespierre, the man of logic and reason, is sharp and intriguing because they are not men but symbols. The dialogue is witty, eloquent, often poetic.

But Act Three begins unconviningly with lackluster speeches by Mme. Danton and Robespierre's mistress and never attains the intellectual excitement of the play's first two thirds. Ustinov the author attempts to humanize his symbols and fails, perhaps not so much because it is beyond his abilities but because he clearly believes it is not important.

Technically, the production was nearly flawless. Film clips and close-up street scenes were smoothly integrated. George C. Scott as Robespierre was chillingly statuesque as the man of reason while Mr. Ustinov conveyed warmth as Danton although a few of his tricks—the sudden bark like a seal and the fluttering gesture of the hands like an apologetic bankrupt—recalled earlier appearances on television and the stage.

If the play fell short of its goal, it was because its goal was so high. The difference between "The Empty Chair" and standard TV dramatic fare is the difference between a roman candle and a safety match.

Production costs: Approximately $90,000. Sponsored by Aluminium Ltd. through J. Walter Thompson Co. on NBC-TV, alternate Sundays, 5-6 p.m.

Produced by Robert Saudek Assoc. (Robert Saudek, George M. Benson, Mary V. Ahern, Walter Kerr, Alistair Cooke, Richard H. Thomas, Henry May); costume design: Saul Bolasni; co-directors: Mr. Ustinov and William A. Graham.

PLAYHOUSE 90

Tv dramatists who confuse canons of good taste in tv with "inhibitions" placed on them by networks, agencies and clients may someday discover that somewhere between these extremes are normal people with problems. And someday some writer might characterize rather than caricature them.

The black-or-white approach was typified in Playhouse 90's offering of "Free Weekend." The plot, designed to point up the competitive rivalries and conflicts of adults with children, came off as a superficial unrealistic indictment of mixed-up adults—high in drama but lacking in story substance. It depicts the efforts of several parents, including syndicate gambler Guy Cato (James Whitmore), to influence awards for their offspring at Camp Mojave. Mr. Cato's son's supposed desire to fame, it's hinted, is his appearance before a congressional committee on racketeering.

The show's other human ingredients: the mink-shrouded Mrs. Cato, a father who lies once too often to his son about his athletic prowess, old flames among visiting married couples who once again cross paths, a kindly priest (J. Donald C. Hoggins), a stern camp leader Marvin (Charles Bickford), who quite pertinently points out, "parents expect us to do in two months what they can't do in 10 months."

Celebrity Cato is chagrined to learn his son Richard has won the camp trophy despite not because of—his bribe to a counselor. By that time, despite some high histrionics, both parents and televiewers, put off by several separate and meaningless plots, couldn't have cared less.

As a result, "Free Weekend" emerges as a kind of controversial "Lifeboat" that somehow drifted ashore into a boys' camp. Far beyond the stage of doctoring, the storyline seemed more in need of a minister's last rites.

On January 1, 1959 these WOR radio newscasters will inaugurate another year as New York's most popular news team...

They were re-elected on ELECTION NIGHT 1958 when . . .

46% MORE LISTENERS TUNED TO WOR RADIO THAN TO ANY OTHER RADIO STATION IN NEW YORK

In reality these results reflected an overwhelming vote of confidence for the performance of WOR newscasters throughout 1958 . . . a performance that makes WOR radio the most popular news voice in New York, week after week and year after year. It is one of the important reasons why WOR radio is elected and re-elected by more advertisers than any other station in New York.

Ratings. Sales. Showmanship. A community's belief in a station. The people behind the mikes and the cameras. The people behind the desks. These are some of the reasons why Westinghouse Broadcasting Company stations are leaders in their markets. Beyond these, and basic to the operation of each station, is the WBC business creed; a point of view and a policy on:

LOCAL OPERATION ... to assure intimate knowledge of local tastes and problems so that programming can best serve local needs. GROUP ASSISTANCE ... to maintain high creative standards through the inter-change of ideas among the stations and the corporate staff of broadcasting specialists. COMMUNITY LEADERSHIP ... to participate actively and effectively in civic affairs. PUBLIC SERVICE ... to develop the same creative attention and showmanship to public service as required for all programming. FAIR COMPETITION ... to sell aggressively, offering fair and identical terms -- as published -- to everybody, guaranteeing the quality and integrity of our product to all advertisers.

In short ... a continued dedication by management, staff and talent to advancing the techniques and standards of broadcasting as dynamic instruments for educating, entertaining and selling. Broadcasting is most effective on stations that have earned the respect and confidence of the communities they serve.

IF ANYONE'S WONDERING ABOUT RADIO...

- Pittsburgh stations given major credit for United Fund success
- Against recession handicap, radio boosts campaign over quota
- Top industrial leaders (and advertisers) call it "magnificent"

Industrial Pittsburgh, fighting its way out of a tough recession, has discovered a powerful new source of energy.

The city and its business leaders are gazing with astonishment at the cumulative might of its 13 radio stations.

Working cooperatively, these stations have just accomplished a promotional miracle?

The 1958 United Fund campaign, with an optimistic near-$10 million goal, was pushed over the top by $50,000 despite economic troubles.

UF campaign officials, comprising the elite of the city's industrial leaders, give the joint radio push much of the credit.

- "Radio was magnificent," said Frank McGee, president of Aluminum Co. of America and chairman of the UF campaign.
- "There has never been anything like it before," added Bennett S. Chapple Jr., an administrative vice president of U. S. Steel and chairman of the UF public relations advisory committee.

It was a tough situation that faced officials of the United Fund of Allegheny County last summer as they met to set the goal for the 1958 fund raising campaign Oct. 6-Nov. 6.

Business activity, which had held at an index high of 110-120 from late 1956 to mid-1957, had slumped alarmingly. The U. of Pittsburgh index, using 1947-49 as 100, showed business activity at a nadir of less than 80 in March.

Unemployment was at a record high. In July 12% of greater Pittsburgh's working force was out of work. The idle numbered 117,700.

There was no question that people were not going to be in a giving mood. "Charity begins at home," would be the refrain.

Yet the United Fund decided to "go for broke." It set the money raising goal at $91,715,907—the same as the year before.

The campaign Oct. 6-Nov.6 actually not only attained this goal; there was about $50,000 to spare.

It was, everyone agreed, a miracle. How did it happen?

When the fund raisers had time to sit back and collect their thoughts, it was obvious there were two reasons:

- The economy had climbed back. Unemployment had declined. In October at the start of the UF drive it was back to a more normal 6.6%—6,120 people out of work. Business had improved. The U. of Pittsburgh's business index stood at 99.8 in November.
- The combined power of Pittsburgh's 13 radio stations had been thrown into the fight. Every am and fm radio outlet in the nation's eighth market had been enlisted and had delivered—in spades.

This was a unique experience for the radio stations as well as for the people of Pittsburgh.

Just a few months earlier an attempt had been made to coordinate all of Pittsburgh's radio stations for National Radio Week. It failed. Too few radio managers were willing to submerge their competitive individualism, even for the benefit of radio as a whole.

United Fund officials' eyes opened wide at the heft radio put into the drive. Burt Wallace, UF public relations director, observed recently that radio alone, he is convinced, accounted for at least half of the final $200,000 that put the campaign over the top.

This was the amount fund authorities estimated the campaign would fall short during the closing weeks.

How can Mr. Wallace be so sure? Simply this. In the final weeks of the drive, the only activities left were two radio-sponsored events: a talkathon and a jazz festival.

Pittsburgh bigwigs—many of whom control or administer national advertising accounts—got to know at first hand, personally, what radio can do. For the 1958 UF campaign was staffed by leaders of national and international corporations.

What they saw at first hand was radio

TWO TELLING TESTIMONIALS

Here's how Frank McGee, president of Aluminum Co. of America and chairman of Pittsburgh's UF campaign, and Bennett S. Chapple Jr., administrative vice president of U. S. Steel and chairman of the UF public relations advisory committee, described radio's importance in the UF drive:

Mr. McGee: "I was personally impressed with the way radio has come back. You know, my advertising people have told me this, and we have used radio for our Alcoa Wrap and we found it boosted sales. But now I know from first-hand experience... Radio was magnificent."

Mr. Chapple: "Couldn't beat it. This year we pulled out all stops on radio. We knew radio pulls. Now we know what happens when 13 stations got on one horse. They rode like Paul Revere."
WHAT TV DID IN PITTSBURGH

There’s something electric about the broadcast media—particularly when it’s necessary to arouse the whole populace. This is the attitude of Pittsburgh United Fund officials when discussing their 1958 money-raising drive last fall. Radio was used as an all-embracing medium. TV was used, as in past drives, for its emotional impact. “The impact of television cannot be underestimated,” Burt Wallace, UF staff public relations director, commented not long ago. He was echoed by Frank McGee, Alcoa president, and Bennett S. Chappelle Jr., U.S. Steel administrative vice president, who were campaign chairman and public relations chairman respectively of the drive completed so successfully this year.

Even before the UF drive got underway, a special advance promotion was instituted by the Westinghouse stations in Pittsburgh. For three days before the official opening of the campaign, KDKA-AM-FM-TV ran a spot announcement campaign on glaucoma. This was to publicize the UF agency dealing with the blind. Free glaucoma tests were offered in 23 hospitals in the area. More than 20,000 people lined up for these eye tests. Over 1,000 cases of potential glaucoma were found, plus almost 500 other eye diseases unknown to the people involved.

On Oct. 5, the eve of the 1958 campaign, the three TV stations (KDKA-TV, WTAE-TV, and WQED-TV) sponsored kick-off events as they have in the past—the hour-long kickoff show. This was an all-star show from the 4,000-seat Syria Mosque and using its immense, all-embracing power to push the campaign over.

Fund officials estimate that the final figure of $9,766,222 represents at least $1.5 million in new money.

There’s another element in the success of Pittsburgh’s 1958 UF drive. It goes by the name of Pittsburgh renaissance. This is a spirit, also a material thing, pervading the city that sits at the confluence of the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers.

Pittsburgh is different these days. The smoke is gone. The office buildings are ungrimed. The narrow, sooty streets are being remade.

There is a plaza now in downtown Pittsburgh. The new Mt. Washington tunnel and the Fort Pitt Bridge are almost complete. A network of freeways stands ready to carry jammed traffic smoothly through Golden Triangle Park.

Even the fiercely-competitive radio stations in Pittsburgh must have felt that new spirit. For the first time in the memory of the oldest account executive the 13 am and fm radio outlets joined forces. The radio stations did was quite simple. In a coordinated effort, they sponsored three major promotional events during the month-long drive. They also maintained their joint approach in programs and spot announcements—driving home to all of the 2.5 million people in the greater Pittsburgh area the need for funds.

Truly radio was everywhere. And it was good that there is such a medium, Mr. McGee said the other day.

Publicity was a top requirement for the campaign this year, observed Alcoa’s president, whose gentle demeanor belies the giant corporation’s executive. Aside from the fact that the UF campaign could not be allowed to fail—everything else in Pittsburgh has been a success in recent years—there had to be a greater push this year than in previous years to overcome effects of the recession.

“I was personally impressed with the way radio has come back,” Mr. McGee said. “You know, my advertising people have told me this, and we have used radio for our Alcoa Wrap and we found it boosted sales. But now I know from first hand experience. Not only did radio do a grand job overall, but what impressed me is how it can be used.”

Mr. McGee discussed the method by which radio’s messages were tailored for different audiences during the day. He also told how radio was used extensively to get the man in the factory to sign up in the “hour’s pay per month” plan. And he agreed that radio’s influence helped greatly to open doors to the vast army of house-to-house canvassers.

Mr. McGee also ventured a belief that the publicity on radio events garnered in newspapers was “unusual to say the least” in Pittsburgh. But, he explained, every bit of publicity helped, and the cumulative effect of radio, tv and newspapers was overwhelming.

Mr. Chappelle’s reaction to radio’s role in the 1958 UF campaign was summed up in one exclamation, “Couldn’t beat it!" The bluff and hearty Mr. Chappelle has background for this observation. He is the originator of U. S. Steel’s “Snowflake” operation, the institutional campaign in all media plugging white goods made with steel for Christmas giving.

In his estimation, Mr. Chappelle said, radio broke all records in its exploitation of the campaign—and on a sounder basis than ever before.”

Burt Wallace, who was public relations staff director for the fund, made these comments:

“Radio was a major, if not the dominant, force in the campaign. Radio means personalities. Listeners believe personalities, and while radio personalities delivered fund messages it established a credibility hard to find elsewhere. And radio found it good in its own self-interest to back up the campaign this way. It did such an outstanding job that radio as a medium gained stature among people—vast audiences of people and, perhaps, more significantly, among business leaders.”

The radio-tv participation in the 1958 fund campaign was channeled through the Radio-Television Club of Pittsburgh. The chain of command ran this way: J. Paul Scurlock, AT&T special accounts manager, president of the club; Jerome (Tad) Reeves, KDKA-TV manager, radio-television activities; H. W. (Hank) Shepard, WQED manager, radio activities. Mr. Reeves handled the tv chores himself.

Mr. Shepard, formerly spot sales director at NBC, is a newcomer to the area. He arrived earlier in the year to take the helm at WAMP when NBC bought the former WJAS late in 1957.

The quiet-spoken Mr. Shepard got the radio managers together and promised them three things: Anything that was done would be good for radio. They would have no work. And no troubles.

They agreed to swing radio as a team.

This was great. In the business rivalry that prevailed among Pittsburgh’s broadcasters, where station managers wouldn’t talk to one another, this was even astounding.

The first event sponsored by the combined radio stations of the Allegheny County area was the Oct. 6 ceremony which kicked off the 1958 UF campaign. Every one of the 475,000 homes in the metropolitan area which had its radio on around noon of that day heard only one program—the festivities at the lighting of the symbolic UF torch at Mellon Plaza. This climaxed a two-hour parade through downtown Pittsburgh, among whose participants were, of course, all the radio stations. Each had an automobile loaded with its “names” in the line of parade.

The second radio-sponsored occasion was Oct. 23. This was a 12-hour talkathon, set up in the street-level window of Pittsburgh’s giant Kaufmann’s department store. It was handled on an hourly rotating basis by 12 of the area’s 13 stations (one fm outlet was unable to spring loose from its functional music commitments).

The talkathon was anchored by local songtress Jeanne Baxter. Each radio outlet sent down a full crew of personalities, d.j.’s, newsmen, etc. For one full hour each station, in turn, carried on all its activities in the department store window.

The third event—which everyone who was involved feels certain was a first in some way or other—was a jazz festival. But the jazz show had a gimmick. It was all in stereophonic sound.

This took place Nov. 3, three days before the completion of the UF drive and while the campaign was still $1 million short of its goal. It was held in a downtown movie theatre. More than 4,000 jampacked the movie house.

All eight of Pittsburgh’s nighttime radio stations carried the “blast” which featured two local combos plus vocalists and instrumentalists. Skitch Henderson, NBC musical director, emceed.

The stereophonic effect was accomplished by having all am stations carry the “A” channel and the fm stations the “B” channel. The stereo-jazz show was suggested by one of the radio station operators, Ben Muros, WWSW.

Throughout the campaign, radio’s part caused UF officials to rub their hands gleefully. Not only were the three radio specials given a promotional buildup on the air (on both radio and tv), but they sparked columns of newspaper publicity.

UF staffers repeatedly expressed delight at the way broadcast events were puffed in newspapers.

Beyond the three major exploitations, the united radio stations carried—as they always have—UF campaign material in spots and in programs.

This year the all-radio combine did a better job than ever before. All stations devoted at least 75% of their spot availability to the UF drive; some devoted up to 90% of unsold spot time to this effort.

Individual radio stations did their part too. One outstanding single radio promotion was performed by KQV which offered its facilities for the whole working day—8 a.m.—6:30 p.m.—on Oct. 13. The ABC-owned station set up in an “on the street” studio. All day long the fish-bowl installation was staffed by 13 full UF officials, civic leaders and other VIPs.

Pittsburghers still talk about features of the KQV stunt. A Campbell Soup Co. commercial was read on air by J. J. Heinz II, president of the competitive 57-varieties company, and Morton Smith, Pennsylvania R.R. vice president, read several commercials—voice instructions and all.

For the UF drive, radio in Pittsburgh devoted 36 hours of air time. This does not include the public service spots which inundated the airwaves during the campaign.

The 13 radiomen who participated in this show of radio strength are Ralph Boudin, KQV; Leonard Walk, WSMO; Ed Hirshberg, WEDO; Leonard Kapner, WCAE; Bill Matta, WLOA; Sam Vidnovic, WMCK; B. K. Crane, WDUQ (FM), Don Joset, WPTP; Les Rawlins, KDKA; Ben Muros, WWSW; Tom Daugherty, WKJF (FM) and Mr. Shepard.

The 1958 UF campaign will be long remembered by all who had a part in it. Radio’s participation, particularly, will always remain the high spot. As one Pittsburgh official stated at the completion of the drive: “From the campaign kickoff to the final stereo-music concert, the United Fund cause was constantly kept before the community every hour of the day during the campaign.”

ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES

NEW COMBINE BILLS $30 MILLION

- Geyer will merge with Morey, Humm & Warwick
- KM&J’s Madden expected to bring accounts, personnel

With Christmas not yet here, two New York-based agencies have already made their New Year’s resolutions. They will merge Jan. 1, thereby planning to bill (at the outset) $30 million, $9 million in radio and tv.

The two agencies are Geyer Adv. and Morey, Humm & Warwick Inc., which today (Dec. 15) are announcing their merger into Geyer, Morey, Madden & Ballard Inc., with offices in New York, Dayton and Detroit.

At the same time, Edward D. Madden announced his resignation from Keyes, Madden & Jones Inc., Chicago-New York, to join GMM&B as vice chairman of the board. Mr. Madden is expected to take with him several accounts now being handled out of KM&J’s New York office and with them, their principal account men.

The newly-merged combine will operate out of Geyer headquarters at 395 Madison Ave., probably adding to the four floors now occupied by that agency. The MH&W offices at 350 Fifth Ave. (Empire State Bldg.) will be vacated “sometime in January.” Under the new set-up, Sam M. Ballard, Geyer president, assumes the presidency of the new agency; Mr. Geyer, board chairman of the agency bearing his name, becomes chairman of the executive committee, and Sylvester M. Morey, MH&W president, moves up to board chairman.

Complete staffs of the two agencies will be retained intact, and will total 300 people. The marriage, brokered by ex-Kenyon & Eckhardt executive Robert Durham, has been in the making for close to a year. Noted Mr. Ballard last week: “Both agencies are convinced that there can be a meshing of experienced personnel and facilities.”

Geyer Adv., established in 1911 in Dayton by Mr. Geyer and his father, C. J. Geyer, maintains offices in Detroit to service its largest account, American Motors Corp. (Rambler, Kelvinator, Leonard and other divisions). It also is Geyer’s largest radio client, accounting for most of its 1959 radio billing of $1.5 million. Geyer’s second biggest client (and largest broadcast user) is American Home Products Corp. (Boyle-Midway and American Home Foods Divs.), which played a large part in increasing Geyer’s share of total billing in broadcast ($5.85 million) to 30% [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Nov. 24].

MH&W, the outgrowth of an agency organized in 1941 by Mr. Morey, is heaviest in industrial advertising, but a hefty part of its $10 million billing is accredited to bluechip client Sinclair Oil Corp., a heavy radio advertiser, and Richfield Oil Corp. of New York Inc., sponsor of radio’s famed Richfield Reporter program.

Broadcast billings at GMM&B are expected to get a substantial shot in the arm next year, according to reliable trade sources. Mr. Madden reportedly will bring with him John T. McHugh, former president of Joseph Katz Co. until he joined KM&J earlier this year. Mr. McHugh, while at Katz, was top account man on American Oil Co. (as Mr. Madden was top man on Esso during his tenure at McCann-Erickson years ago) and is understood slated for the Sinclair account post. Also slated to move with Mr. Madden: David Halpern, KM&J senior vice president and New York general manager, who also left Katz, bringing with him Bond Clothes Inc.—a heavy radio-tv advertiser—and other smaller accounts and who also is account head on Jenkins Distillers, Manchester, N. H. The third KM&J executive said to follow Messrs. Madden, McHugh and Halpert is Oliver M. Presbrey, vice president and account executive on the $1.5 million Oral Roberts account which C. L. Miller Co. lost to KM&J this year. All told, the move by Mr. Madden and associates should "cost" KM&J about $2 million—a considerable portion of it in broadcasting.

Mr. Madden explained that he had originally been brought into KM&J (from International Latex Corp.) to effect "some sort" of merger for the former Russell M. Seeds Co., which is strong in Chicago, weak in New York. Morey, Humm & Warwick, he said, was one of the agencies I talked with. Shortly before KM&J worked out its association with Donahue & Co Inc. [AT DEADLINE, Dec. 1], Mr. Madden was asked to join the M&H-Weyer combine which had been making after KM&J and M&H broke off their negotiations. It's been no secret that Geyer has been seeking a merger [CLOSED CIRCUIT, May 19] following its abortive talks with Erwin, Wasey & Co. last year.

It is expected that Freeman Keyes, former president of Seeds, now board chairman of KM&J, will once again assume the presidency of the agency, and that "within a reasonable time" (Mr. Madden's words) the "M' in KM&J will be dropped.

Commented Mr. Ballard last week: "This is one agency merger where economic considerations have played a very minor role in our thinking, since both agencies are in solid financial positions with good profit records in the year now ending." His sentiments were echoed by a M&H-Weyer executive: "This is a happy merger—just think, we'll all drive Rambler's that run on Sinclair products.

RENAULT REFUELS AS VW ADS STALL

- French car adding radio-tv
- Mathes resigning Volkswagen

Two foreign automakers were on the move last week—one, deeper into broadcast media, the other possibly out of any nationally-planned and agency-administered advertising. As the Renault "Dauphine" was looking for a new network parking place (it surrenders its alternate-week berth on CBS-TV's Small World to Olm-Partizian Chemical Co., which picks up the whole weekly tab effective Dec. 28), Volkswagen hit the open road after being resigned by J.M. Mathes Inc., its agency since last March 31.

Renault Inc., U.S. subsidiary of the French state-owned Renault works, on Dec. 21 terminates its six-show full sponsorship of the new Ed Murrow-Fred Friendly Sunday night tv hookup—a run that cost it $168,000 gross [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Sept. 22]. It then picks up one-quarter sponsorship of CBS-TV's Gator Bowl coverage Dec. 27 (cost: $47,446 gross).

Beyond that, Renault has no plans other than to connect with another network show "fairly soon." Reason: it is "simply delighted" with tv as is its agency. Needham, Louis & Brorby, which for the past few months has been helping persuade Renault distributors to spend more in the broadcast media. But what's good for NL&B may not necessarily be good for Mathes, which last Monday (Dec. 8) dropped the Volkswagen account effective next March 31. Agency President W.T. (Ted) Olek wasn't talking (other than to issue the generally-accepted "resigned-by-mutual-consent" statement) nor was the client. A terse, inter-office memo at Mathes said the agency had quit the $750,000 account after "total disagreement" on ad strategy.

Officials at Englewood Cliffs, N.J., U.S. headquarters for the German manufacturer, were "unavailable" for comment, but it was learned that the split resulted from Volkswagen's reluctance to spend nationally or accept agency recommendations—on grounds that it really didn't "need" advertising. With or without advertising, Volkswagen's unit sales have risen from 46,000 to 76,000 over the past year.

So have Renault's—from 3,500 monthly to capacity 5,600—but U.S. advertising manager Ethel Norling is the first to admit that advertising, radio-tv promotion in particular, has had a lot to do with the fact that "we've practically run out of cars." Renault expects sales for the current year to hit 48,000 units for a gross volume of $81.6 million.

Miss Norling has worked with a budget "in excess of $1 million," excluding co-op and dealer expenditures, formidable in themselves. They'll become larger should the Renault field force heed her suggestions. Renault is particularly concerned about getting dealer-distributors in the Middle West to beef up broadcast spending.

Outside of a few special eastern markets, Renault has been relying on its key distributors to place broadcast campaigns—partly with factory support. The area that apparently is ripe for some hot radio-tv salesmanship is the Middle West where Renault recently assigned its distribution to Chicago's Lake States Inc. To date, there's been "little" radio-tv spot for Renault in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Wisconsin. Another area recommended for more spot is the widely-scattered Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, North and South Dakota territory administered by Wichita's Shidlar Motors.

Why is Renault so revved up about radio-tv? Says Miss Norling: "it's an economical way to advertise an economical car.

KADY Listeners' Noys Have It In Station's Liquor Ad Survey

A heavy majority of listeners responding to a liquor poll conducted by KADY St. Charles, Mo., are opposed to advertising of whiskey on radio and TV, according to a summary issued by the station.

Of 170 replies, 149 opposed and 21 favored whiskey advertising on the air. The station ran six announcements from Nov. 19 through Dec. 5 inviting comment from listeners.

"We're convinced that the vast radio and TV audience is not ready for whiskey advertising, at least not during the day," said William R. Cady Jr., KADY president. "Most of the replies against such advertising mentioned the fact that too many children would hear the commercials."

The station poll was inspired by a BBDO request asking if the station would take hard liquor advertising. The request was made through Broadcast Time Sales of New York, its representative.

Mr. Cady added, "In reviewing the answers we received, we find that those who wrote in favor of accepting liquor advertising wrote only a few lines, made only a short reply, while those against it answered at length. There were no 'crank' answers and only one writer, found fault with the station for asking its listeners about the subject."
WEAVER MAY RETURN TO MADISON AVENUE

• M-E talks to ex-NBC head
• Negotiating tv consultancy

McCann-Erickson is ready to launch Sylvester L. (Pat) Weaver Jr. on a new leg of his career: that of tv consultant at the agency. The Weaver talents may be signed by McCann-Erickson as early as this week.

Negotiating for the past several weeks with Mr. Weaver has been C. Terence Clyne, McCann-Erickson's senior vice president for corporate tv-radio services, who has been in close contact with the former NBC chairman for more than a year.

If the pact is closed—and apparently the agency thinks it will be—Mr. Weaver will work side-by-side at McCann-Erickson with a former NBC associate, Thomas A. McAvity, vice president in charge of tv-radio programming (New York), and with George Haight, vice president in charge of tv-radio programming (Los Angeles). Mr. McAvity was an NBC executive vice president for tv network programs until the time Mr. Weaver left NBC in 1956.

Association of Mr. Weaver with McCann-Erickson, No. 2 broadcasting agency this year, will mark his return to active agency participation after nine years (he stepped out of Young & Rubicam as radio manager to take charge of Lucky Strike advertising about 20 years ago, returned to Y&R as a top radio-tv executive in 1947 and left in the summer of 1949 to join NBC-TV).

There is no doubt that M-E wants Mr. Weaver for the aid he can render in the planning and supervising of television programming handled through the agency. In his consultancy post, Mr. Weaver would act autonomously and make his services available to Messrs. McAvity and Haight but under Mr. Clyne's general supervision.

Unaffected would be Mr. Weaver's current affiliation as consultant to Kaiser Industries and his other program production activities. Mr. Weaver recently entered the McCann orbit indirectly as the tv adviser to New York Gov.-elect Nelson A. Rockefeller (Marschalk & Pratt Div. of M-E handled the New York GOP in the November election).

Just where Mr. Weaver would apply his creative know-how is difficult to ascertain but there are 14 network shows at M-E. The agency has an overall billing of more than $200 million, approximately half in the broadcast media, with $61 million in network tv alone.

Among M-E's top network tv advertisers: Liggett & Myers (Chesterfield and Oasis cigarettes), Westinghouse Electric, Buick Div. of General Motors, Bulova Watch, National Biscuit, Helene Curtis, Bell & Howell and Colgate-Palmoive.

McCann-Erickson meantime put into motion a structural reorganization, setting up its executive responsibility along regional lines. The agency's 10 domestic offices were grouped into three regions: Eastern—New York, Atlanta, Boston and Detroit. Robert E. Healey, executive vice president, will supervise, and Paul Foley, senior vice president, becomes manager of the home office in New York.

Midwestern—Chicago, Cleveland and Houston. Emerson Foote, senior vice president, is in charge.

Pacific—Los Angeles, San Francisco and Portland. Phipps L. Rasmussen, vice president, supervises the region and continues to manage San Francisco.

Pepsi Tv Spectacular, Series On Agenda at Goodson-Todman

Plans for the Pepsi-Cola Co.'s heavy investment in television in 1959 were revealed last week when Goodson-Todman Productions, New York, announced that Pepsi-Cola will sponsor a live 90-minute network spectacular in April as well as a half-hour dramatic tv anthology in a combination network and spot buy for Pepsi bottlers throughout the country.

Though no figures could be ascertained, it was reported that the spectacular, which will be produced with the cooperation of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences, will run into more than $400,000. The filmed drama series, tentatively titled Pepsi-Cola Theatre, is expected to run to several million dollars for production and time costs. Networks have not been selected either for the spectacular or the series.

G-T, which disclosed the Pepsi transactions as part of a rash of new business at the company, also announced it has signed a contract with NBC-TV to produce 39 episodes of the Philip Marlowe detective series for showing on NBC-TV starting either in April or the fall. G-T added that the company will begin production shortly on the pilot film of Heave Ho Harrigan, a situation comedy.

Burnett Integrates Marketing Under Greeley, Promotes Wright

Leo Burnett Co., Chicago, has integrated marketing, media and research functions into a single marketing services division under Joseph M. Greeley, vice president.

In the new setup announced last week, Leonard S. Matthews, vice president in charge of media, will be in charge of both media and research departments. John Coulson continues as head of research and Thomas A. Wright Jr. in charge of media.

Mr. Wright, who has been manager of the media department, also was elected a vice president.

Broadcasting operations under William McIvain, vice president in charge of radio-tv, are not directly involved.

Mr. Matthews joined Burnett from A. C. Nielsen Co. in 1947 and has been a vice president since 1956. Mr. Coulson, research manager since 1954, was elected a vice president this past March. Mr. Wright joined the agency in 1955 after service with NBC and became media manager last year.

LIGHT TOUCH CAN BRING HEAVY SALES

Puppet stars of Wilkins Coffee spots are turned into a hot premium

The Wilkins Coffee Co. of Washington, and its agency, M. Belmont Ver Standig Inc., are really not greedy. They would have been fairly content just to continue to have the "best coffee" television commercials ever rated by AAR in the Washington market—or any other market—with the steady increase in sales that goes along with it to give Wilkins a third of total coffee sales in the area.

But a company must look out for the goodwill of its customers. And most if not all these customers are the impassioned fans of a pair of puppets named Wilkins & Wontkins, who indulge in some of the most slapstick antics since the Keystone Kops to wheedle TV watchers into buying Wilkins coffee and tea.

Accordingly, company and agency—after 13 months of successful use of its puppet commercials—yielded to the obvious and inevitable late last month: Viewers were offered vinyl replicas of Wilkins & Wontkins—suitable for do-it-yourself puppetry—at the $1 cost of producing the toys, plus part of the opening strip from a can of Wilkins coffee, the label from a jar of Wilkins Instant or Decaffeinated coffee or the top from a box of Wilkins tea.

The premium offer began Nov. 21 with a series of ads in the Washington newspapers introducing Wilkins Decaffeinated coffee. The premium promotion was extended to television Dec. 5 with a 20-second spot daily on each of three local TV stations. The next step will come as Wilkins converts its product labels to include the puppet offer. It's still too early yet to determine the full impact of the premium promotion, but Wilkins last week was counting orders in the thousands.

The "Stars" in Profile • The cuddly editions of Wilkins & Wontkins stand eight and seven inches high, respectively. Will, as he is called in the Ver Standig shop, is as positive as his name implies and wears the cheerful look of a young frog who has just discovered he can croak. Wontkins, who hasn't even an apostrophe to his name, looks as if he has just swallowed something that tastes bad—"X" brand coffee, perhaps. His head is pointed, his eyes pop and his mouth droops. By some strange fate his pear shape happens to fit daddy's or mummy's hand much better than Wilkins.

The Wilkins & Wontkins premiums are possibly the only ones that ever became so popular through exposure of the originals on TV commercials—not programs—that they were created by viewer demand. The characters, called "muppets" from a L. Carroll-like fusion of "marionette" and "puppet," first began appearing to the possibilities of the area TV audience Nov. 1, 1957. They became so popular immediately with both adult and child audiences that the Ver Standig agency soon became quite busy parrying requests from viewers who just happened to think what ideal toys the puppets would make and decided to write in.

"There's such a thing as glutting the market," says Jim Young, agency creative director and copy chief, with tongue in cheek and eye on the comfortable Wilkins sales charts. He explains that the advertiser and agency didn't want to shoot up all their ammunition at once and were giving the first peak of the muppet craze a little time to level off.

Because of their year's exposure on television, the Wilkins & Wontkins toys didn't come into a townful of strangers. A day or so after the first premiums arrived, a ship's captain who is a friend of Mr. Ver Standig and his wife, who also use the Wilkins coffee, decided to bring a local supermarket carrying a pair of the vinyl toys. As he walked through the store he soon noticed a crowd of children and grownups following him: that is, most of the 40-or-so customers in the store. They asked if he was the man who did the "Wilkins" TV commercials.

The Wilkins Image • Agency executive Young likes to tell that story and similar ones to show that the puppets have successfully performed the all-important function of product identification; to viewers, says Mr. Young, they are not "TV puppets," but the "Wilkins TV puppets."

One thing that helps to retain this iden-

THE MUPPETS IN ACTION

Wilkins coffee's merrily insouciant approach to the Christmas selling season shows that there may be two ways of looking at it, as is shown here by the holiday TV commercial illustration featuring the Wilkins & Wontkins "muppets." Santa (portrayed by Wilkins) drives sleigh drawn by reindeer (Wontkins) and sparks this exchange:

WILKINS: "Merry Christmas! It's a joy to bring Wilkins coffee to so many people at Christmas."

WONTKINS (dourly): "It's a joy to you—You aren't pulling the sled."

Washington's favorite TV actors are equally adept at putting across the Wilkins sales message and making their audience laugh in any number of other situations. Some sample dialogues from the 43 commercials now going the rounds include a cannon scene, a pie-throwing scene and a "thinking man" scene, the last having a lisp and hilarious resemblance to a familiar cigarette commercial:

WILKINS (sitting on can of coffee, pointing cannon at Wontkins): "Okay, buddy, whaddya think of Wilkins?"

WONTKINS (sourly): "Never tasted it."

WILKINS (fires cannon: BOOM! Wontkins disappears in cloud of smoke; Wilkins turns cannon toward audience): "Now what do you think of Wilkins?"

WONTKINS (in water, bobbing up and down): "I'm thinking! I'm thinking! Have me!"

WILKINS (rowing up in boat, and holding out can of Wilkins coffee): "Have some Wilkins coffee?"

WONTKINS (coming up once more): "Why?"

WILKINS: "It's a thinking man's coffee."

Wontkins, bubbling, sinks slowly to bottom.

The Wilkins commercials, 7½-second "mellow dramas," feature Wilkins & Wontkins in an endless number of comedy situations. Wilkins makes the sales pitch for the product quite often irreverently, while Wontkins invariably winds up on the butt end of the joke, as he plays it dumbly straight. (See examples, page 32.)

Such combinations of repartee and action have so captivated Washington that they have been quoted at countless parties and lunch-table conversations. Newspaper columnists facing a dull day fill their allotted space with Wilkins & Wontkins dialogues. The m.e. of one of the city's highest-rated personality shows on radio once recalled off-W&Vs verbatim in a burst-of-generosity and admiration toward the competing tv performers.

Sometimes a new Wilkins & Wontkins can be near-disastrous. One local tv performer, coming on with a sincere-type live commercial immediately after the fantastic puppets, was near tears and had lost so much of his usual composure from laughing at the zany pair that his audience would have been startled if they had not been in the same hysterical condition. Newscasters following the puppets sometimes find themselves imparting events of the utmost gravity, broken by frequent snickers.

The idea for the Wilkins tv commercials came last year when a five-minute local tv show caught the fancy of John H. Wilkins Jr., president of the Wilkins Coffee Co., who felt that a "soft sell" tv campaign built around puppets might hold possibilities for his products. M. Belmont Ver Standig, president of the Washington agency that handles Wilkins, was quick to see the point. The client and agency heads reasoned that tv puppet characters, acting out a series of amusing situations, would set Wilkins advertising apart from that of Wilkin's competitors, larger coffee companies with national distribution.

How They Were Pre-Tested • The tv show's creators, James Henson and Jane Nebel, graduated art students at the U. of Maryland and Catholic U., were persuaded to join the Wilkins-Ver Standig team and with Messrs. Ver Standig and Young set to work on the commercial series. The two creators designed two dozen puppets, they were submitted to a consumer panel and the two favorites of more than 70% of the panel became Wilkins & Wontkins. The 7½-second tv spots were put on the air, a total of 36 a week on three Washington tv outlets. After 13 weeks Wilkins coffee sales had jumped 30% and the company began to realize it had a tiger by the tail. This began to be evidenced by the reaction from viewers, who wrote in to Wilkins to express their appreciation. One enamored fan asked that a schedule of the commercials be run in the newspaper so he wouldn't miss any.

Although the Wilkins & Wontkins spots are run-of-the-radar, the Ver Standig agency, which has earned package plan rates by placing more tv billing than any other Washington agency, doesn't have to worry about getting them in prime time. The three local tv outlets became quickly aware of the muppets' popularity, with the predictable result that a large share of them are placed adjacent to programs in prime tv time. Many viewers dared not budge from their tv sets all evening for fear of missing one of the 7½-second "mellow dramas."

"Though Wilkins & Wontkins were immediate hits, this spontaneous rapport between the wall audience didn't come about entirely by coincidence. Since the beginning every Wilkins tv puppet spot has been pre-tested by a system Ver Standig feels is sure-fire. The spots are made available for previewing, before airtime, to civic organizations, clubs and school groups, whose members are only too happy to write down their reactions to each one.

Even at that Wilkins misses no bets and shows the not-so-popular spots at least once, if only for the sake of collectors and connoisseurs. But the dailler ones get additional mileage with multiple exposures. Wilkins is so shy, it is said, that he would like to yield to viewer requests for more of the same.

With all the hue and cry about the muppet commercials, the Ver Standig agency turned to ARB in April to find out just what Wilkins & Wontkins had wrought in Washington's tv households. The result exceeded their most rash speculations: The Wilkins pair was rated "best-liked" by 50.1%, of the viewers, with 5.1% for runner-up Maypo cereal spots. The 16-market survey had Wilkins overshadowing such powerhouses as Piel's beer in New York (39%) and Hamra's beer in Minneapolis-St. Paul (38.3%).

Since then Wilkins' ARB has climbed and leveled off in the 60s, with a high of 66%, believed to be a record for an ARB rating. Wilkins' latest Washington rating, for November, is 60.2%—more than 16 times that of second-place Maypo (3.7%).

Verifying Those Figures • Just after the first ARB report last spring, Ver Standig engaged Data Unlimited, a local organization which maintains a consumer panel of 500 tv homes considered representative of the Washington market's socio-economic makeup, to make a similar survey of "best-liked" commercials. The DU figure was 52%, within 2% of the ARB rating. Mr. Young feels even that difference can be accounted for when it is considered that the time of the survey for the Wilkins commercial at that time was still rising, as later ARB figures bore out.

Wilkins, which has distribution only in the Washington, Baltimore and Richmond major markets, also introduced its puppet commercial in Baltimore with most gratifying results. With only 13 spots weekly on a single tv station, Wilkins & Wontkins grabbed first place with a 19.9% rating, while coffee sales increased 30% to 40%, according to an account in the Tea and Coffee Trade Journal. Remembrance value of the Wilkins spots in Baltimore was shown by ARB's survey for the full month of August. Wilkins & Wontkins took a hit in Baltimore tv from July 22 to Sept. 15. Wilkins' puppets placed second for "best-liked" commercial during August with 10.5%, compared to Gunther beer's 13.4%.

In another ARB survey for "best-liked" tv commercials all over the country, the Wilkins spots, aired only in Washington and Baltimore which represent only 4% of the national tv market, placed among the top 20 commercials with 1.9%, equaling or bettering such nationally advertised products as Newport cigarettes, Winston cigarettes, Kools toothpaste, Ivory soap and Alka Seltzer.

Starting in Washington with 36 W&W commercials weekly Nov. 1, 1957, Wilkins increased to 45 the first of this year and in mid-November stepped up exposures to 62 weekly. For the premium offers, which take longer to describe than it does to sell Wilkins alone, one 20-second spot is being aired daily on each of three tv stations, and a single spot daily in Baltimore. In Baltimore, the client is considering an increase in its present schedule of 13 times weekly, which most likely will boost its latest (November) second-place 17.5%. National Bohemian beer holds the top spot with 38.9%.

Have Muppets, Will Travel • Nothing succeeds like success, Ver Standig has found, and the agency, which has the puppet creators under contract, is producing similar muppet commercials for four other advertisers in other top markets, with each adapted to their respective products. These include Nash's coffee, Minneapolis, starts about Dec. 21, through Campbell-Mithun; LaTourine coffee, Boston, started Oct. 27, through Hoag & Provandie; Kraml milk, Chicago, started Oct. 30, through Wright, Campbell & Suit, and Faygo Beverages, Detroit, starting next Jan. 1, through W.B. Doner & Co.

Ver Standig produces the tv muppet commercials for other advertisers not competitive with Wilkins at three for $7,500. One agency already using the muppets has indicated interest in the premiums, too, and other agencies have inquired about the muppet commercials.

Of the 43 W&W commercials already produced, 26 have been exposed on tv. At what the agency considers the optimum capacity, and 17 more are ready to be shown. Wilkins and Ver Standig apparently feel W&W are going to be around for some time to come, for 40 more are in the creative or production stage.

One might reasonably suspect, the major part of the Wilkins Coffee Co. budget is in television. But the Ver Standig agency, which has handled the Wilkins account the past seven years, says it has used radio and newspapers from time to time for Wilkins with success. The Washington roasting house, which has more recently turned its sights against Maxwell House, Chase & Sanborn and other larger coffee companies, is of the philosophy that the medium is not necessarily ascendant to the idea; that a brilliant ad idea can always find a suitable medium. Ver Standig's Jim Young, who is riding herd on what is coming to be thought of as the outstanding regional tv success of the year, is a very busy man these days. He helps co-creator Henson write scripts for Wilkins & Wontkins, coordinates production of the tv commercials with the studios and the young creators, oversees the muppets' premium promotion and tries to keep the ever-growing Wilkins & Wontkins fan club happy.

Vignette of Success • For that reason he can sometimes be a hard man to talk to because his telephone keeps ringing. While he was making a couple of final points about the Wilkins tv story, the phone rang once more. It was a woman who had bought ten sets of muppets (or 10 cans of Wilkins coffee) for the children in her neighborhood.

Her query: Would Mr. Young be so good as to send over several scripts of the Wilkins-Wontkins dialogues so the kids may do their own Wilkins commercials?
"My Gawd, she's TALL!"

YES, she is tall-tall—the tallest thing man ever made in North Dakota—WDAY-TV's new antenna, 1206 feet above the ground (1150 feet above average terrain!).

As you know, tower height is extremely important in getting TV coverage—more important than power, though WDAY-TV of course utilizes the maximum 100,000 watts.

So WDAY-TV—with new Tower and new Power—will soon be covering 96% more of North Dakota-Minnesota's best countryside than before—60% more of the prosperous Red River Valley's families than before!

Even before building this tremendous new tower, ratings proved that WDAY-TV is the hottest thing in the Valley. Soon they'll be better and better, and for greater and greater distances!

DONALDSON ARF BOARD CHAIRMAN

Ben R. Donaldson, Ford Motor's advertising consultant, was elected Thursday (Dec. 11) as chairman of the Board of Advertising Research Foundation, succeeding Wallace H. Wulfec, executive vice president of William Eady Co. who served in the post for two years.

Aron Johnson, vice president, J. Walter Thompson, was elected vice chairman succeeding Mr. Donaldson. Mr. Johnson had served as treasurer for two years. Frank W. Mansfield, director of marketing research for Sylvania Electric Products and an ARF director since December 1954 was elected treasurer. Hugh M. Bevile Jr., NBC's vice president, planning and research, was elected for a two-year directorship and Richard J. Babcock, president of Farm Journal, for a three-year term.

Among those re-elected: (officers) A.W. Lehman, managing director; D.B. Lucas, technical director, and Gilbert H. Weil, general counsel, with ARF; (directors) Mr. Wulfec; Vincent R. Bliss, Earl Ludgin's president; Lindon O. Brown, Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample, vice president; Rex M. Budd, Campbell Soup advertising director; William R. Farrell, Monsanto Chemical advertising director; Donald S. Frost, Bristol Myers vice president-advertising director; Frederic R. Gamble, American Assn. of Advertising Agencies president; Arthur Hull Hayes, CBS Radio president; Charles A. Pooler, Benton & Bowles senior vice president; Harry F. Schroeter, National Biscuit advertising director; C.L. Rumrill, president of the Rumrill Co.; Paul B. West, Assn. of National Advertisers president, and others.

In a report as retiring chairman, Dr. Wulfec cited television and audience research as one important area where there exists a great need for basic research of the sort that might be undertaken by ARF but he noted also that this is a very difficult area. Despite the difficulty, however, he expressed hope that ARF's radio-tv committee would be able to come up with a recommendation regarding further exploration of the subject.

Other areas which Dr. Wulfec thought important for ARF study included methods of studying the components of effective advertising (such as copy, whether broadcast or print) and how much advertising, with some $11 billion being spent on it, the consumer is able to absorb.

Mr. Lehman reported that ARF's income this year from projects conducted in cooperation with radio-tv, set census, for example, would be about $48,000. He also said that out of a total income of more than $300,000 approximately 25% came voluntarily from media for special studies (including the set census) or consultations on research procedures.

Mr. Donaldson, reporting as chairman of the subscriptions committee, said that 14% of ARF's media income derives from am-tv; 61% from magazines, 11% from newspapers, 11% from business papers and 3% from other media. He said that at the end of 1957 ARF had 64 advertisers, 78 agency and 74 media subscribers, with each group contributing about 30% of ARF's income, and the rest coming from founder, international and academic subscribers.

Four New Partners at Mayers Co.

On Jan. 1, 1959, the Henry Mayers Co., Los Angeles, will change its name to Davis, Johnson, Anderson & Colombo. Each of the four new principals has been with the agency for many years and each becomes owner of one-fifth of the stock, with Henry Mayers, who founded the agency more than 30 years ago and has headed it ever since, retaining one-fifth interest and his position as president. Don Johnson, oldest member of the new team in point of service, heads the media department and supervises internal operations. Robert Davis, next oldest in Mayers Co. service, is in charge of client services. Robert Colombo is head of the radio and television department. George Anderson directs the art and production departments. Mr. Mayers supervises all client planning.

In announcing the reorganization to the agency's clients, Mr. Mayers said: "My four associates have been largely responsible for day-to-day service to all local clients. . . . It places all agency management decisions in the hands of the same men to whom our clients look for guidance and service."

John Morrell & Co. (Red Heart dog-food), Chicago is expected to announce agency in next fortnight for $1 million account dropped last week by Campbell-Mithun. Company has received several inquiries from interested agencies, according to F. J. Torence, advertising director, but has not yet heard formal presentations. Morrell has used limited spot radio and tv (mostly in Carolinas) on test basis.

Abrams Suggests Co-op Video Ratings in Depth

Formation of a cooperative tv rating service providing depth studies of viewing habits was proposed Dec. 9 by George J. Abrams, vice president of Revlon Inc. Addressing the Infant Ad Club, he said advertisers, agencies and network stations should create an Audit Bureau of Television, using the personal coincidental interviews to measure quantitative and qualitative circulation.

Mr. Abrams first advocated use of the personal coincidental interview technique last spring following a Syracuse, N. Y., experimental study conducted by the M. A. Wallach research firm [Lead Story, Mar. 31]. He helped finance the study. Additional tests were conducted in other cities.

Advertisers, spending $1.5 billion on tv, have a right to question whether present rating services tell them what they should know, Mr. Abrams told the Washington club. This information should include size of audience, age, sex, income, brand usage, intent to buy, program attitude, viewing habits and similar data. He detailed his objections to information supplied by Nielsen, American Research Bureau-Arbitron, Pulse and Trendex.

"Unless the broadcasting industry accepts its responsibility and delivers the sponsors of America a single, valid, reliable rating report showing who is viewing, when they're viewing, and what they're viewing, I believe they will force the FCC to take over measurement control of the American television audience," he said. He also suggested FCC has moral responsibility for the programming fare on the air.

Mr. Abrams said his proposed depth studies would cost probably $4 million a year for monthly tabulations of tv audience viewing of every network program, with interviews in approximately 10,000 homes during each rating week. Present services cost more than this, he added.

The proposed rating project was outlined to the Assn. of National Advertisers last month by Mr. Wallach [Lead Story, Nov. 10, 17]. Mr. Abrams is chairman of the ANA Radio-Tv Study Group.

Members of the FCC at the head table —Chairman John C. Doofer, Rosel H. Hyde and Robert E. Lee—had no comment.

Don't let your judgment (or slide rule) get out of focus when you base a TV buying decision on ratings. Bud Sherak of Kenyon & Eckhardt, warned colleagues in a talk before the Radio & Television Executives Society last week (see below).

Mr. Sherak outlined various do's and don'ts and how "y" may come out looking like "z". Or, as he put it, these fit in the category of what information a timebuyer "can and ought" to get from the media research department in his agency.

They follow in summarized form:

Use total area ratings instead of metro area ratings—Station "A" can reach fewer TV households in a metropolitan area than station "B" when a metro area rating is applied to TV households in that area. But the shoe may be on the other foot when the rating is total station area and based on TV households in that total station area. (Moral: a buyer must understand what the rating is).

Don't buy on the basis of rating points only. Meet the coverage and frequency objectives of the campaign.—On the basis of two different daytime schedules, one might bring in a greater cumulative audience but at the expense of frequency, while on the other hand, frequency may be greater but coverage not important.

Use current ratings data for relative shares of audience, and use estimates of sets-in-use for the actual period.—He showed how a certain time slot appears to have the better rating than another when current sets-in-use figures are used but the situation is reversed when figures for the comparative period the campaign will run are used. (In his example, it was a drop in sets-in-use for a certain time slot during those particular months which threw the estimates in reverse).

Study the variation in sets-in-use by time of day—Example discussed was a choice of the agency of two corporate TV station network properties into which the buy for a product can be only one (but the product has year-round sales with slight peak in summer months). According to average sets-in-use, average share and average rating, the two programs were nearly identical, but when sets-in-use were studied on a per month basis the June-August period showed up stronger in one program than it did in the other. Therein lies the choice.

Make sure the audience is right for the product.—Shown was a wide variance in ratings according to the breakdown in ages of housewives watching three different program types, though in the national rating or women viewers per set the figures turned out to be nearly identical.

Whenever possible use ratings among prospects instead of the general population.—Similar to the situation described above and based on audience composition.

Watch the trends as new competition comes in—Showing year-by-year changes in household rating and audience share of a given program with identity given of program type of the competing show.

Don't always judge a program by its initial ratings.—For this example, Mr. Sherak listed the rating and share for "Real McCoys" on ABC-TV from the time it went on the air in October. The figures showed a gradual build up in the rating and in the share.

Ratings Do's, Don't's
By Sherak, Young

A top agency researcher—Bud Sherak, vice president-research director, Kenyon & Eckhardt, New York—flashed the amber signal on faulty TV rating 'use by agencies and stations during a "Ratings in Action" timebuying and selling seminar held Tuesday (Dec. 9) in New York by the Radio & Television Executives Society.

People who want to use ratings in buying decisions ought to know how and when to use them, not just why, said this agency researcher.

Mr. Sherak appeared on the program along with Adam Young, president of his own radio and television station representation firm.

Basically a TV rating measures audience size but the size can be shown in varying ways and for different purposes, Mr. Sherak emphasized, rectifying examples and pitfalls.

In most cases where error is committed in this area, the fault is in applying rating percentages to an incorrect base when coming to a decision.

Mr. Sherak devoted much of his talk to presenting hypothetical case histories of TV rating use (see box).

Mr. Young thought a "good" buy in broadcast media ought to be based on research but warned that station salesmen often run into the fight against the "emotional" view to a buy. A buyer many times retains a "mental image" of what a station appeared to be years ago. He advocated very hard selling by salesmen because competitive facts will come out and poor buying decisions often will be avoided.

Mr. Young was critical of station people making the rounds of agencies with tapes of a station's programming. He could not see just how this practice can improve a buy because "how does the buyer know if it is good or poor programming." The buyer, he thought, would be better advised to look at figures on programming results. Figures from ratings, said he, are more reliable than "intuition."

WHAT TO EXPECT FROM RATINGS

We have a feeling we're being followed... by CBS

And why not? The new programming concept about to be embarked upon by CBS is one we pioneered more than sixteen months ago. So a few words of confirmation to our worthy competitor: This new programming works! We know—our clearances are up... and our sales are up. Our sponsors know—they're getting results. And our stations go for it because it's flexible, workable... compatible with their local formats. More and more, "the feeling of confidence is Mutual!"

- - - in modern radio network programming—News, Sports, Special Events—essentially non-competitive with TV. Mutual wins powerful listener-loyalty—and station acceptance—with the kind of shows that radio and only radio can do best.

- - - in delivering listeners at the lowest cost per thousand of any network—Radio or Television. Ask us for proof!

- - - in TOTAL STATIONS and in NEW AFFILIATES. Since the inception of the New Mutual programming concept, 103 stations have joined the World's Largest Network—now 453 stations.

With more and more agencies, advertisers and stations the feeling of confidence is MUTUAL

100 Markets in NSI Revealed by Nielsen

A. C. Nielsen Co. last week bared its projected market data list by which it will expand 44 NSI (Nielsen Station Index) service from the present 40 to 100 markets by the end of 1959 [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Dec. 1].

Under the schedule worked out by Nielsen planners, NSI should be blanketing 50 markets by next March, 75 by late spring, touching 100 by November-December. In all of these NSI markets, Nielsen will continue to report on per-broadcast audiences (metro and station total), day and night audience composition, but frequency and depth will depend on markets selected by clients.

Thus, in the first 35 markets (covering the nation's top 30) Nielsen will retain the permanent radio-tv audience panels which provide four-week cumulative data on a standard basis; in the next 15, four-week cumulative data solely on tv will be provided on special order only, and by the second 50, report frequency will range from two to four with rotating samples for each report. (Report data and formats for markets 36-100 are identical, covering the metro and station total per-broadcast information and audience composition).

Rather than draw up a pat list of 100, Nielsen has come up with a list of 110 "possibilities," assuming that the remaining 10 won't lag far behind in being added. While three new markets being opened this month, Nielsen's NSI now is reporting in 41.

The 110 markets are classified in three categories. The 35 markets classified "A" are fully meter-based and the reporting year averages six to eight months. Ten of these go as high as 10 months and more per year. The 45 "B" markets are those in which NSI guarantees tv measurements only for an average three months of reporting per year; the remaining 50 markets are offered on a basis of tv only, an average two to three measured months per year. Twenty-five of these will be reporting by summer 1959.

"B" markets (now open): Fresno, Greensboro, N. C., Hartford, Oklahoma City, Omaha, Sacramento and Tulsa. Those slated to be opened shortly: Albany, Denver, Des Moines, Nashville, Norfolk, Va., Richmond, Spokane and Wichita.

Grants Staff Switches Complete

The personnel realignment at the New York office of Grant Adv. [ADVERTISERS & AGENCIES, Dec. 8], which resulted in a substantial staff reduction over the past month, is completed, officials of the agency indicated last week. The New York office has been bolstered by the addition of Robert Sutherland, formerly in charge of Grant's offices in Brazil, who has joined the international division. A spokesman said that John Wilson, now in Grant's Detroit office, may be shifted shortly to New York to handle Dodge regional advertising in the east.

Six Gillette Products for DRJ

For Dowd, Redfield & Johnstone Inc., New York, and its Boston affiliate, John C. Dowd Inc., it was a week of ups and downs. While losing $1 million of Revlon billings effective next month [AT DEADLINE, Dec. 8], the two agencies will gain six new products being introduced by Gillette Safety Razor Co., Boston. Billings are undetermined, the products not yet having been assigned allocations other than initial expenditures to cover test market introduction. All products represent diversification for Gillette, best-known for razors and blades. The new account will be served out of Boston but timebuying is expected to be conducted out of DRJ offices in New York.

Abusive Ad Levy Discourages Media Tax Efforts, Study Finds

Special city taxes on advertising aren't likely to become widespread, according to an analysis of the recent effort of Baltimore to levy taxes on media and advertisers. The analysis was conducted by American Municipal Assn., Washington.

Taxes similar to those adopted by Baltimore and later killed through legislative and judicial action have been "entertained" in St. Louis; Norfolk, Va.; Woonsocket, R. I.; Utica, N. Y., and in the states of Washington and West Virginia. "Nothing has come of them," according to the AMA analysis.

The study concluded: "It hardly requires a gift for prophecy to predict that the Baltimore experience will greatly inhibit experimentation with levies of this sort in the future.

"For any local government to set out to tax all advertising at work within its bounds with an obvious intent to control advertising other than---advertising messages fill the air in the form of national advertising via radio and television---wholly nontaxable if originating outside the city, and predominantly nontaxable even if station offices, studios and/or transmitters happen to be located within the corporate limits."

"The Baltimore ordinances were 'skullfully drawn' and yet were unable to avoid an unintended discriminatory result."

20th Century-Fox in Turnabout: $15 Million Tabbed for TV Film

- Skouras puts Martin Manulis in charge—with blank check
- Ambitious schedule for productions readied for marketplace

20th Century-Fox Film Corp., which seven months ago voiced profound anguish over the inroads of television (Film, May 26), last week staked a $15 million bankroll on “the most extensive tv production program ever undertaken by a motion picture company.”

President Spyros P. Skouras spelled out the change of heart in a New York news conference last Thursday (Dec. 11). Named to head the project—a project involving some 16 individual properties ranging from 30-minute situation comedies to 90-minute showcase specials—was Martin Manulis, 41-year-old former CBS-TV staff producer (Playhouse 90, Climax!) who joined Fox in September as head of the studio’s tv production arm.

In effect, Mr. Skouras has handed Mr. Manulis a blank check, saying “he can spend as much money as he wants... since the future of 20th Century-Fox (in television) rests in his hands.”

Then, turning to the producer, he added, “Good help you if you don’t do a good job.”

According to Mr. Manulis, the blank check is substantial; initially, $15 million have been allocated to cover production of the 16 series—of which are “ready to go,” nine of these possibly being ready in time for the 1959-60 season. All will be filmed shows, though “should an advertiser so desire,” Fox would custom-tailor the shows live as well. Pilots will be shot, although this activity will be “kept to a minimum.” Mr. Manulis is planning to tempt agencies and networks on the strength of his past credits.

Though no pitches have yet been made, agencies “have been informed of our plans.” Business negotiations will be handled through the William Morris agency and Fox, latter being represented by 20th Century-Fox Vice President Irving Asher and tv Business Manager John Beck.

TCF Productions Inc., the studio’s tv subsidiary, will continue but under a different name, it was disclosed. Effective immediately, TCF becomes “Twenty-First-Century Fox Television,” with access to all of the studio’s scattered lots and 28 sound stages. The old TCF group will continue to produce Broken Arrow for NBC-TV, and the NTA Film Network’s How to Marry a Millionaire and Man Without a Gun video series, and will also “be available to any outside tv producers who wish to enter into a joint production agreement,” Mr. Manulis said.

S. Charles Einfeld, vice president of advertising exploitation (representing the parent company), pointed out that the 16 programs would be geared for network exposure and that “little film work” had been given to setting up a syndication branch. Asked why Fox had launched such an ambitious program at this time—when most, if not all, of its sound stages were humming with theatrical film production—Mr. Einfeld said simply: “We want to make money.”

He added, “This in no way means we are any less unhappy over the effect of tv on box-office receipts. But we are an entertainment company in business to produce entertainment of all sorts... and obligated to our stockholders to earn profits...”

The company hopes to attract advertiser and network support before actually undertaking production—admittedly a risky proposition—and it explains the massiveness of its program by pointing out “we are geared for mass production.”

The seven properties that will get top priority:

- Mr. Belvedere, 30-minute comedy series based on Fox’s theatrical film, “Sitting Pretty” (Clifton Webb) and subsequent Belvedere shows; Esther Williams Show, 30-minute dramatic anthology featuring Miss Williams as hostess on weekly basis, as actress on alternate-week basis; The Many Lives of Dobie Gillis, 30-minute teen-age situation comedy based on Max Shulman’s book and adapted for tv by Mr. Shulman; Heilimarines, 30-minute action series on the U. S. Marine Corps’ latest combat arm, written by unofficial USMC historian Richard (“Guadalcanal Diary”) Tregaskis; Sunny Side Up (tentative title), 30-minute comedy series dealing with travel agents and designed for Fox contract player Tom Ewell;

Five Fingers, a 30-minute counter-espionage series inspired by Fox’s post-war film of the same name which dealt with “Operation Cicero” spy case; Whodunit, 30-minute murder melodrama series with a twist: viewers are asked to guess the solution to each episode, then are told in the closing moments.

Beyond these, Fox plans to produce The Peggy Lee Show, 30-minute situation comedy interlaced with music; The Forty-Niners, 30-minute adventure series set in the 49th state of Alaska; The Nanette Fabray Show, 30-minute musical comedy series with Miss Fabray; Tales of Broadway, undefined series of tv adaptations of Garson Kanin stories produced by the playwright; two series by Broadway author Leslie (“Marriage-Go-Round”) Stevens and a romantic adventure series with a South Pacific setting to be developed by Pulitzer prize-winner James M. Michener.

The two series with which Mr. Manulis will be personally identified are Festival, a monthly, 90-minute “prestige show” which he hopes will attract the top writing, directing and acting tv talents and Profile, a 60-minute dramatic biography series he says was inspired by the “non-chronological” treatment given the lives of singer Helen Morgan, deaf-mute Helen Keller and Irish Dublin Mayor Robert Briscoe on Playhouse 90. These seem most likely to get the live treatment should such be ordered.

Fourth ITC Division, Promotions Announced

The evolution of Independent Television Corp. into a “tight tactical sales and service operation” in tv film sales, as explained by President Walter Kingery last week, appears complete.

ITC has set up a fourth sales division, that of regional sales, to add to its national sales, Arrow Productions (re-run) and syndicated sales divisions.

Four executive promotions were announced: Hardie Frieberg, assistant general sales manager of the syndicated division, to general manager of all syndicated sales operations, and William DuBois, general sales manager of the syndicated division, to director of operations and sales planning.

Mr. DuBois will supervise traffic, sales service, research and sales planning and development departments and work closely with all sales divisions including sales development, hiring and training of new personnel. Mr. Frieberg will supervise the geographic sales divisions, the New York City sales department and the newly formed regional sales division. The regional sales unit specializes in working with regional advertisers on new, first-run syndicated properties.

In the regional sales division, Kurt Blumberg, ITC’s manager of sales administration, becomes manager of regional sales, eastern division, and Carl A. Russell, formerly with Ziv Television Programs, becomes manager of regional sales, midwest division. Both men report to Mr. Frieberg.

ITC is a new $25 million tv film production-distribution-financing company established for world-wide operation by the Jack Wrather Organization, Beverly Hills, Calif., and Associated Television Ltd., London.

The only logical way you can see where you’re going is to look ahead of you. This wisdom is just as profound for people in the business of broadcast advertising as for navigators of submarines. Probably more so, since the deeps and shallows of our national economy in the year ahead are necessarily a matter of uncharted conjecture.

What are the potentials of 1959? More pertinently, what do they mean to you and everyone concerned with the continued health of television and radio advertising during the next 12 months?

Can 1959 be expected to take up where 1958 leaves off? Has the recurring bugaboo of recession been by-passed or merely shelved? Will consumers be confident to spend more of the unprecedented savings amassed during 1958 — and advertising budgets be scaled to tap their enormous buying potential?

Are the electronic media likely to increase their share of the U. S. advertising dollar? What changes seem probable in the general landscape of television — of radio — of marketing techniques — of audience preferences and the ways of evaluating them? How do the experts look to the new year; what do they say and why do they say it?

Answering these questions calls for the gift of prophecy — or the gift of interpretative analysis based upon solid knowledge of what you’re analyzing.

In short, it calls for perspective.

And this is exactly what a special issue of Broadcasting Magazine, scheduled for publication next February 9, will be called — “PERSPECTIVE ’59”. Within its many pages will be the assembly of facts that not only evaluate 1958’s accomplishments, but also the projection of trends forward into the new, enigmatic year of 1959.

Among all publications which purport to speak for the electronic media, only Broadcasting is equipped by skills, by staff, by insight and foresight, by years of growing-up with television and radio alike to attempt such comprehensive analysis of what conceivably lies ahead.

When you — like the most important decision-makers in TV-radio advertising — open your copy of “PERSPECTIVE ’59”, in early February, the least evident thing about it will be the many weeks of concentrated effort exerted by Broadcasting’s editors in quest of everything worth weighing against the future of broadcast advertising. Instead, you will find a completeness of factual content to be kept, studied, read and re-read for many months after its issue date.

Within the framework of anything so compelling, so definitely a working tool of working advertising men, the opportunity for telling your own message is as rich as a new-found claim of uranium-bearing ore! Through Broadcasting — in any issue — you command a PAIL circulation greater than that of the next three TV-radic papers combined. But, with “PERSPECTIVE ’59”, the bonus of readership and “pass-along” and re-readership is well-nigh like winning the sweepstakes.

If you haven’t reserved space yet in “PERSPECTIVE ’59”, we suggest you up-periscope and sound your klaxon. It will be heard (on your behalf) in all the most important and profitable places!

FACTS?

HERE THEY ARE:

DEADLINE: January 26 for proofs; final deadline, January 30.

RATES: No inflation here. For so much more, the cost is the same as any of Broadcasting’s 51 other issues of the year!

WARNING: Don’t forget that Broadcasting’s page size goes to a 7-by10-inch format with the start of the year. Check any Broadcasting office for complete mechanical details.

RESERVATIONS: No time like now. Wire or phone us collect to make sure you’ll be represented the way you want, with good position.
INVENTORY—1959...

Within this single issue of Broadcasting, almost 22,000 PAID subscribers representing TV & radio’s most influential people will be reading the most complete... the most authoritative... report, diagnosis and forecast of the broadcast advertising status obtainable anywhere. “PERSPECTIVE ’59” will bring them (and you) such important features as these:

- a comprehensive boxscore of estimated TV and radio net time sales—local, spot and network — for 1958, as compiled by Broadcasting (and contrasted with totals for previous years).

- a thorough analysis of how TV and radio advertising volume in 1959 will probably parallel general economic trends — a resume evolved from the considered opinions of such expert analysts as J. Walter Thompson’s Arno Johnson, TV-radio forecaster Richard P. Doherty, etc. (Hint: 1959’s outlook is better than 1958’s.)

- a situation report on the attitudes of television and radio audiences, as seen through the eyes (and investigations) of A. C. Nielsen — an analysis accompanied by graphic progress charts.

- informed reports by the heads of the two big media promotion bureaus working for television and radio — the by-lined outlooks of T B’s President Norman Cash and RAB’s President Kevin Sweeney.

- an examination of the TV film situation... whether 1959 will see a shortage of new feature film material... what and which pilot films are in the works... how big the TV film business really is (and will be in 1959)... the facts about all major TV film syndicators.

- a look at how videotape is revolutionizing television production — and where it is likely to go during the year ahead — with some side considerations about labor repercussions.

- a report on the sturdy resurrection of FM broadcasting, and the factors which again are making it a medium to be reckoned with.

- a factual view of technical advances during the past year — with some far-seeing investigations of what the space age technocracy may hold for trans-ocean broadcasting of TV signals and wide-coverage FM relays.

THESE, AND OTHER IMPORTANT CONTENTS, will make “PERSPECTIVE ’59” an exhaustive, provocative inquiry into every area of broadcast advertising activity upon which the success of TV and radio in 1959 depends. Nowhere else will facts of such scope and authority be available! And no single issue of any TV-radio business publication will command the attention or interest to be earned by “PERSPECTIVE ’59”.

THE COROLLARY IS OBVIOUS! If you are part of the broadcast media picture, don’t get left out of this one. The people whose time-buying plans determine your future will spend more time than ever with this issue. Why shouldn’t they read about you while they’re doing it?

Ambitious Sale-Production Plan Charted by Jones for CBS Films

An ambitious sales and production program for CBS Films Inc. during 1959 was charted last week by Merle S. Jones, president, CBS Television Stations Div., during a meeting of the organization's sales managers and account executives.

Mr. Jones, whose division embraces CBS Films, included the following as part of the unit's objectives for the coming year: sale of four to six CBS Films programs on the television networks; improvement of merchandising and sales service support; strengthening of its activities in the international market; importation of new product from abroad, and distribution of "the finest television news service available."

The week-long meeting opened last Monday (Dec. 8) with announcement of organizational changes dividing the creative and administrative direction of CBS Films (see this page).

Fred J. Mahlstedt, director of operations and sales services, told the meeting that servicing program syndicates by CBS Films now can be handled more expeditiously. He described functions of the various departments, including sales service, sales promotion, research, distribution, merchandising, advertising and publicity. In addition, he said, CBS Films employs the facilities and services of other CBS departments, such as legal, accounting, credit, business affairs, auditing, tax and music clearances.

Other CBS executives who addressed the meeting were Frank Stanton, CBS Inc. president; Louis G. Cowan, president, CBS-TV network; Hubbell Robinson Jr., CBS-TV executive vice president in charge of programs and Sig Mickelson, vice president and general manager of the CBS news division. Announcement was made during the meeting that two new half-hour shows now are available for regional and national syndication by CBS Films. They are Silent Saber, consisting of Revolutionary War stories and Rendezvous, a dramatic anthology. Air Power, 26 half-hour episodes previously carried on CBS-TV, also is being syndicated.

CBS FILMS GEARS FOR GROWTH

CBS Films Inc. was split down the middle last week, with production and business set up as separate units, in a move attributed to past growth and plans to expand.

Leslie T. Harris, vice president and general manager of CBS Films, was named vice president in charge of production; Sam Cook Diggins, general manager of CBS-owned WCBX-TV New York, was moved to CBS Films as administrative vice president; John F. Howell, sales manager of the film arm, was promoted to vice president and general sales manager, and Fred J. Mahlstedt, operations director, was appointed director of operations and sales services, domestic and international.

Frank Shakespeare, general manager of WXIX (TV), CBS-owned uhf station in Milwaukee, was advanced to general manager of WCBX-TV, succeeding Mr. Diggins, and Richard P. Hogue, WXIX general sales manager, was named general manager of the Milwaukee station.

The changes were announced by Merle S. Jones, president of the CBS-TV Stations Div., last Monday (Dec. 8) at the opening session of a week-long meeting of CBS Films sales managers and account executives in New York (see this page). The new assignments were effective immediately.

"We are coming to the close of a year of substantial growth in domestic as well as international business," Mr. Jones explained. "We are turning in to 1959 with broad expansion plans that necessarily call for distribution of responsibilities.

Mr. Shakespeare joined Procter & Gamble's sales division in 1947, entered radio in 1949 at WOR New York, subsequently moved to CBS-TV Spot Sales as account executive, became general sales manager of WBCB-TV in 1954 and general manager of WXIX in 1957.

FILM SALES

NHK Tokyo, Japan, which earlier this year purchased package of 15 theatrical films for tv from Atlantic Television Corp., N. Y., has signed for Atlantic's packet of Dr. Christian features.

Kansai Television Corp. has bought Rescue 8, Screen Gems, adventure tv series about Los Angeles rescue squad, for showing in five Japanese cities.

Cross-Krasno-Sillerman Inc., N. Y., reports its new Glencannon comedy tv film series, starring Thomas Mitchell, has been sold in 90 markets, including latest sales to Blue Plate Foods, New Orleans, and G. Heilemann Brewing Co., Chicago.

Seven members of the 11-man Legislative Oversight Subcommittee held three sessions in Washington last week without giving final approval to the investigative body's report.

On several phases concerning the FCC and other regulatory agencies, there have been conflicting statements in the subcommittee's interim report. Several changes were directed to be made in the preliminary draft and the subcommittee will re-assess the situation on Dec. 14 when the final report is due. The report must be submitted to Congress by Jan. 3, when the subcommittee's current authorization expires.

Following last week's meetings, one of those present predicted that "They [agencies, attorneys, congressmen and license-holders] are going to be amazed at the tough treatment . . ." the report will recommend. Receipts are long discussion was the method of selection of agency chairman (in most instances, including FCC, now appointed by the President) with the consensus of opinion being that the chairman should either be rotated yearly or elected by the members of the agencies. However, the committee did not give final approval to this point.

"Plenty of teeth" were promised for provisions of the Communications Act, and other agency authorizations, dealing with entry of contacts and attempts to influence. One paragraph of the preliminary approval, states that any contacts by members of Congress, the Executive Branch, attorneys, parties in contested cases or anybody else, written or verbal, "should be made a part of the public record."

A draft of criminal penalties for violators will be recommended. The committee of making all correspondence from members of Congress public, a participant in the latest closed meetings stated Thursday (Dec. 12): "We've either got to do that or do nothing at all." At the same time, he expressed doubt that the Senate would approve such a measure, since a provision was included in a House-passed version of the 1952 McFarland Amendments to the Communications Act that was killed in joint-committee conferences.

A definite recommendation will be made that the provision of the Communications Act authorizing commissioners to accept honorariums be repealed. However, the report presently is silent on the question of broadcasting associations paying commissioner's expenses for speech-making trips. In its interim report last spring, the subcommittee questioned the propriety of industry payment of expenses and called on the Comptroller General to clarify "conflicting" statements in this regard [LEAD STORY, April 7]. The conflict, as yet, has not been cleared up.

The FCC will receive "considerable criticism" in the subcommittee report on the Commission's handling of patent and antitrust cases. In an earlier report, BROADCASTING [GOVERNMENT, Nov. 24], the report also will include a recommended across-the-board code of ethics for all agencies. Five of the six agencies under the subcommittee's jurisdiction have submitted proposed codes—only the FCC is lacking. The code would include "civil and criminal penalties" which agencies would adopt.

Lending further credence to reports the subcommittee will be continued in some form [GOVERNMENT, Nov. 24], one member promised "a very comprehensive report, not only as to very definite recommendations but also further study." The report, formerly drafted, pointedly avoids any criticism of the method of selecting commissioners and verifying their qualifications, although these two items have been criticized by members of Congress, including some on the subcommittee. It was reported this subject was being omitted because it would constitute a direct slap at the Senate, which has the responsibility for approving Commission appointments made by the President.

Members of the subcommittee present for last week's deliberations included Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.), Reps. John Bell Williams (D-Miss.), C. Edward Loveman (D-Ga.), Peter F. Mack Jr. (D-III.), Charles Wolverton (R-N.J.), Joseph P. O'Hara (R-Minn.) and Robert Hale (R-Mo.). None of the three Republicans will be members of the upcoming 86th Congress—Rep. Wolverton and O'Hara having retired and Rep. Hale was defeated for re-election. Not present last week were Reps. Morgan Moulder (D-Mo.), John Moss (D-Calif.), John Bennett (R-Mich.) and John W. Heselton (R-Mass.). Rep. Bennett is the only minority member returning from the 86th Congress and is expected to be present when final approval of the report will be made after Christmas.

Ten-Days Jail for Marie Torre

Unless Court Modifies Sentence

Marie Torre, New York Herald-Tribune radio-listening columnist, who sought to maintain the anonymity of a newswoman in court and was sentenced to 10 days in jail for her efforts, declined to comment last week following the refusal of the U.S. Supreme Court to review her case. The high court's refusal will mean that columnist Torre will be required to serve her jail sentence for criminal contempt unless the U.S. District Court in New York modifies it. The refusal does not mean that the Supreme Court necessarily approves of the lower court decision, nor does it set a legal precedent.

Miss Torre had been called as a witness in a pre-trial examination of a more than $1.3 million breach of contract and libel suit filed by singer-actress Judy Garland against CBS [AT DEADLINE, Mar. 18, 1957]. The newspaperwoman refused an order by New York Federal District Judge Sylvester J. Ryan that she disclose the name of a CBS executive who allegedly told her that Miss Garland is "known for a highly developed inferiority complex," which opinion Miss Torre had written in the Herald-Tribune.

Judge Ryan's subsequent 10-day jail sentence of Miss Torre for contempt was upheld in an opinion by then Circuit Court of Appeals Judge Potter Stewart, now on the Supreme Court. In that opinion, Judge Stewart declared that the constitutional guarantee of press freedom "must give place . . . to a paramount public interest in the fair administration of justice." Judge Stewart did not participate in last week's action. Justice William O. Douglas thought the Court should have reviewed the Torre case, but four Justices must express such sentiments for a review to take place.

Mack Joins Whiteside in Motion For Choice of Miami Trial Site

A motion by former Comr. Richard A. Mack that his trial be held in Miami was filed last week in the U.S. District Court in Washington.

The government has 30 days to answer this motion, as well as a similar one by Mr. Mack's friend, Thurman A. Whiteside, Miami attorney.

Both were indicted last September for conspiracy to defraud the U.S. government in connection with the award of ch. 10 Miami to National Airlines. Both are free on bail, awaiting trial.

Comr. Mack resigned from the FCC following charges he would be followed urgings of Mr. Whiteside to vote for National Airlines in the Miami ch. 10 hearings. The indictment charges that Mr. Mack received financial support from Mr. Whiteside for this action.

Civil Antitrust Judgement Made In Philadelphia Radio Case

The Justice Dept. Dec. 5 announced a civil antitrust judgment in the U.S. District Court in Philadelphia which terminated litigation against the Philadelphia Radio & Television Broadcasters Assn. and nine stations in that city. The stations involved were: WHAT, WDS, WIP, WIBG, WFTL, WCAU, WJM, WPEN and WPLN.

The judgment was entered with the consent of all the defendants and followed by more than a year the branding of these same defendants as violators of the criminal antitrust law [LEAD STORY, June 17, 1957]. In the criminal proceedings, the stations were fined $1,000 each and the association $5,000.

The government's original complaint of two years ago had charged that the defendants had agreed to adhere strictly to the time rates established for each station. Last week's final judgment contained appropriate injunctive relief ending these alleged activities. The local radio-tv association "is in the process of dissolution and the judgment requires that such dissolution be carried to a conclusion," announced Justice.

Information Hearing in January

Hearings by the Senate Constitutional Rights Subcommittee on S 2148, freedom of information bill, have been postponed until January. Sen. Thomas Hennings (D-Mo.), chairman of the subcommittee and sponsor of the legislation, maintains that a companion bill (HR 2767) passed last summer [LEAD STORY, Aug. 18] does not plug all the loopholes.

FCC Sets Aside Grant Of Seattle 'V' to KIRO

The FCC last week set aside its July 1957 grant of ch. 7 in Seattle to KIRO because on the basis of an appeals court's findings in the Indianapolis ch. 13 case that Comr. T. A. M. Craven shouldn't have voted in that FCC decision because he didn't hear oral argument. Comr. Craven didn't hear the October 1955 ch. 7 oral argument, either, because he didn't join the Commission until July 2, 1956.

The Commission set new oral argument for Jan. 30 on the ch. 7 case.

The FCC also last week set oral argument for next Jan. 23 in the Indianapolis case—in which the U. S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia had remanded the Commission's grant to ch. 13, now WLWI (TV), to Crosley Broadcasting Corp. (Government, June 23). The grant had been appealed by WIBC Indianapolis, losing applicant.

In the Seattle case, the Commission permitted KIRO to continue operating ch. 7 (KIRO-TV) pending the final outcome of the case. The FCC had taken parallel action in letting Crosley operate WLWI in Indianapolis until that case is finally resolved.

Last week's ch. 7 decision was made as a grant, in part, of petitions by losing applicants KXA and KVI Seattle for reconsideration and rehearing of the grant made in 1957 (Government, July 29, 1957). The petitioners, the FCC said, may make oral argument on all exceptions which have been previously filed to the 1955 initial decision, a later supplemental initial decision on the issue of KIRO's qualifications and on procedural errors charged by KXA and KVI in their requests for reconsideration of the grant.

Both KXA and KVI had claimed in their petitions that Comr. Craven shouldn't have voted because he did not hear the first (and principal) oral argument, made before he came to the FCC.

Last week's order said the FCC is of the opinion that, in view of the appeals court's remand in the Indianapolis case, the Seattle ch. 7 grant should be vacated and the case reset for oral argument.

The FCC issued instructions to its staff last March 12 to prepare documents looking toward denial of the KXA and KVI petitions for reconsideration, but never followed through with an order.

The FCC vote in the Seattle grant was 3-2, Comrs. Robert T. Bartley, Craven and former Comr. Richard A. Mack favoring, and Chairman John C. Denison and Comr. Robert E. Lee dissenting. Comr. Robert T. Hyde was absent in Oregon during the vote. The Commission had a vacancy at the time, due to the resignation of former Chairman George C. McConnaghey, and had a temporary membership of 6.
Our dollars travel to work where they're needed

There is a definite pattern and purpose, beneficial to the nation's economy, in the geographical distribution and in the industrial diversification of life insurance investments.

Take MONY's portfolio, for example. Our investment money generally tends to flow into those areas of the country and into those industries that have the need for capital.

Where do these funds for investment come from? They come from the premium payments we receive from our more than 1,000,000 policyholders living all over the country. These are the funds they entrust to us so that we may guarantee insurance protection for them and their beneficiaries.

In the meantime, this money is capital seeking employment. By channeling it into expanding regions and industries, it is put to useful work. Thus, MONY investments serve a double purpose: They keep our policyholders' money at work earning income which helps reduce the cost of their insurance protection; and they encourage industrial and economic growth in all sections of America.

General Electric television studio equipment is designed for ease of operation, economy, adaptability and simple maintenance.

A good example is G.E.'s new synchronizing generator.

Much smaller than previous units, it takes only 14 inches of rack space — requires far less power. Computer-type circuits using industrial-grade transistors assure maximum reliability at minimum cost. Only two operating controls are necessary because of the extremely stable design. The built-in power supply operates from a 90 to 135 volt input and convenient test jacks simplify servicing.

Cost-conscious TV stations across the country are turning to G-E video equipment for easier, more economical operation. POWER

Jupiter (Zeus to all Greeks) was top man on the totem pole, so far as the Olympian gods were concerned. He was described as Supreme Ruler, Lord of the Sky, the Rain-God and the Cloud-gatherer. Like a lot of male mortals, he also had an eye for pretty girls, but we’re not concerned with that here.

And what does all this have to do with WCKY? Well, we want you to know we’ve POWER, too—50,000 watts of it; in fact, we’re "as powerful as any station in the entire United States." We try to use our power constructively in the public interest. We operate 24 hours a day, serving the Cincinnati market, and doing our darndest to do a good selling job for our advertisers. Cincinnatians like WCKY’s 50,000 watts of POWER for its good clear signal covering all of the Cincinnati trading area. Advertisers like WCKY for its selling POWER to the Cincinnati adult audience, and by Jupiter, with a combination like that, how can you lose?

If you want to know more about WCKY’s POWER to reach listeners and produce sales, call Tom Welstead at WCKY’s New York office or AM Radio Sales in Chicago and on the West Coast.

GOVERNMENT CONTINUED

Justices Deliberate Antitrust-FCC Issue

When the FCC approves a transaction between two licensees does thisubar the Justice Dept. from bringing an antitrust action against the parties, or either one of them?

This significant question is being mulled by the U.S. Supreme Court following argument last week.

At issue is the government’s contention that the Justice Dept. can sue RCA-NBC on an antitrust violation charge even though the FCC in 1955 approved the exchange of radio and TV stations between NBC and Westinghouse.

The government’s suit was dismissed last January by a federal judge in Philadelphia. The court said that the Justice Dept. should have intervened before the FCC while the Commission was considering the swap.

If the lower court’s ruling is upheld by the Supreme Court, an upheaval in the FCC’s role on antitrust violations is seen. To date the FCC has maintained that it is not responsible for determining Sherman Act violations. It has held that this is for the Dept. of Justice to arbitrate.

Lee J. Rankin, solicitor general of the U.S., argued that if the lower court’s decision "is upheld it would ‘deal a blow to the whole antitrust machinery of the government.’ A court is the only tribunal to try charges of antitrust violations, he asserted. The FCC’s consideration of alleged monopoly infringements cannot be determinative, he said, because this is only one factor in a series considered by the Commission in judging the public interest.

The RCA-NBC position, that the FCC’s action in approving the station exchanges prohibits the Justice Dept. from bringing suit “on the same set of facts,” was argued by Bernard G. Segal of Philadelphia.

Mr. Segal charged that the Justice Dept. was seeking to set aside the very action approved by the FCC after "extensive" investigation. The Justice Dept. was kept "fully informed" of all the charges and allegations and did not act until seven months after the transactions were consummated.

The Justice Dept. charged that NBC threatened Westinghouse with loss of affiliations unless it agreed to the station swaps. These allegations were the basis for the Commission’s investigation of the agreement whereby Westinghouse turned over to NBC its Philadelphia stations in exchange for NBC’s Cleveland stations plus $3 million.

The transfer was approved Dec. 21, 1955, by a vote of five to one (Comr. Bartley dissenting). Justice filed its complaint exactly one year later.

Federal District Judge William H. Kirkpatrick last January dismissed the suit on the ground that the FCC has primary jurisdiction and that once the Commission approved the transaction no other government agency could attack it in the courts [At Deadline, Jan. 13].

NBC’s Philadelphia stations are also on the receiving end of another attack. Philco Corp., Philadelphia radio-tv appliance manufacturer, in 1957 protested the renewal of the licenses of WRCV-AM-TV and Philadelphia. The FCC dismissed the protest on the ground Philco had no standing. A court of appeals upheld the FCC and Philco asked the Supreme Court to review this ruling. Last month the Supreme Court asked the Solicitor General to ascertain the FCC’s views [GOVERNMENT, NOV. 17].

‘Globe’ Petitions to Intervene

In Boston Ch. 5 Remand Hearing

The Boston Globe last week petitioned the FCC to intervene in the Boston ch. 5 remand hearing. The newspaper claimed it not only had the right to be a party in the hearings, but said it had new evidence to present.

The Boston ch. 5 case was remanded to the FCC by the U.S. Court of Appeals last July. The court sent the case back because there were allegations that some parties had made off-the-record representations to FCC commissioners. The court, however, upheld the Commission’s grant to WHDH Inc. (Boston Herald-Traveller). The charges were filed before the House Committee on Legislative Oversight earlier this year and involved alleged contact with then Comrs. Richard A. Mack and George C. McConnaughey.

Two weeks ago the Commission reopened the hearing record and assigned Judge Horace Stern, retired chief justice of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, to hear the case.

The Boston Globe attempted to intervene in the Boston ch. 5 case when the grant was originally made in 1957. It alleged then that principals of the Boston Herald-Traveller threatened to use its tv station to drive the Globe out of business. WHDH Inc. won the final FCC decision by a vote of four to two (Comrs. McConnaughey, Mack, John C. Doerfer and Robert E. Lee favoring, Rosel H. Hyde and Robert T. Bartley dissenting). Comr. T.A.M. Craven abstained.

Other parties in the original hearing, who are also parties in the rehearing, are Greater Boston Television Corp., Massachusetts Bay Telecasters Inc. and Allen B. DuMont Labs. The Dept. of Justice was invited to participate amicus curiae.

Purchase of Rest of KNAC-TV

By Reynolds Requires Hearing

The FCC last week told broadcaster-publisher Donald W. Reynolds a hearing is necessary on the concentration of control issue in Mr. Reynolds’ proposal to buy the remaining 51% of KNAC-TV Fort Smith, Ark. (ch. 5), from Harry Pollock for $350,000, giving Mr. Reynolds sole ownership [CHANGING HANDS, Sept. 8].

The Commission said the application for sale made no showing on the factors of size, extent and location of the area to be served, the number of people to be served and the extent of other competitive services in the area; nor, the FCC said, was there any statement as to whether Mr. Reynolds would "Public power" is a favorite term of the proponents of federal government electricity. But what's so public about "public power"—except that the public pays for it through taxes?

The public never asked for federal government electricity in the first place. Opinion polls show that most Americans would rather have the independent electric companies run the electric business.

And nine-tenths of the public doesn't get the electricity from the federal power systems. That goes to the relatively few "preferred customers" near the government power plants.

But the public pays for it—and pays plenty! To date, about 53½ billion dollars in tax money has been spent to build federal government electric systems. These billions are just a beginning if the "public power" pressure groups have their way. Right now they're pressing hard for 10 billion more!

And the whole program is so unnecessary. The independent electric companies are ready and able to provide all the electricity the nation will ever need—without using tax funds.

So far, the federal "public power" lobbyists and pressure groups have succeeded with this multi-billion-dollar tax grab because the public doesn't understand the facts and forces behind it. But informed Americans can stop it.

Will you help spread the word?

Hoffman, Lee Get UHF Grant

The FCC last week granted Pacific Broadcasters Corp. a construction permit for ch. 29 Bakersfield, Calif. Pacific Broadcasters is owned by electronics manufacturer H. L. Hoffman, 60%, and Terry H. Lee, 40%, former president and general manager of KOVR (TV) Stockton. The grant was made with the provision that ch. 39 might be changed to another channel as a result of pending rulemaking. Ch. 10 KERO-TV, ch. 29 KBAK-TV, both Bakersfield, and Kern County Broadcasting (applicant for ch. 17 Bakersfield) had filed objections to the Hoffman-Lee application.

PERSONNEL RELATIONS

FINAL AFTRA OFFER GIVEN TO NETWORKS

- Still at odds on 'policy'
- Major stumbling block: VTR

The American Federation of Television & Radio Artists and the radio-TV networks were scheduled to meet in New York in an informal meeting last Friday afternoon (Dec. 12) to discuss an offer that AFTRA regards as its "final package." The old pact between AFTRA and the networks expired on Nov. 15 but performers have remained on the job.

The belief was that last Friday's informal meeting would be followed by a formal session today (Dec. 15). Sources close to AFTRA indicated that insofar as the union was concerned, this proposal was "final." It was said to represent the thinking of AFTRA's executive board, which met in New York last Wednesday, and of the key locals in Chicago and Hollywood. Though AFTRA spokesmen would not divulge the contract proposal, one official said: "This offer is one that both the networks and the union can live with."

It was reported that agreement has been reached on "money matters" but not on "policy matters." Areas said to be holding up an agreement include "stockpiling," the size of announcing staff (union wants guarantees against staff reduction because of use of videotape), and the question of the networks' right to use tapes made by independent producers, who use Screen Actors Guild personnel.

The networks and the union did not hold negotiation sessions last week until the Friday meeting, with the union devoting itself to formulating an offer it now regards as "final." The union already has received strike authorization from its members.

Talks have been held since late September. The main issue has been the new technique of videotape in all its ramifications. A satisfactory wage and re-use pattern is reported to have been evolved to be "considerably higher" than the Screen Actors Guild pattern with film studios covering tv film commercials and programs.

Network officials, meanwhile, were concentrating last week on contract talks with the Radio and Television Directors Guild, which forwarded its proposals to the networks on Dec. 4 [PERSONNEL RELATIONS, Dec. 8]. An all-day session was held last Thursday (Dec. 11) at which the networks sought clarification from RTDG of some of its demands. Negotiations will continue this week. This contract is slated to expire on Dec. 31.

Suit Testing AFM Trust Fund Up Today for Pre-Trial Hearing

A pre-trial hearing has been set for today (Dec. 15) on the first of four lawsuits brought by Hollywood musicians, members of Local 47, American Federation of Musicians, against the trust funds established by former AFM President James C. Petrillo. In this case, the plaintiff musicians allege that in negotiating its agreement with the phonograph recording industry, AFM improperly demanded that the employers make increased payments to the trust funds instead of increasing the wages of the musicians employed in the making of phonograph records.

Suit was filed two years ago [PERSONNEL RELATIONS, Nov. 26, 1956], followed by similar suits covering transcriptions, tv film scores and the sale of theatrical films to tv. Numerous legal skirmishes have advanced the litigation to the point at which the first case, the phonograph recording suit, is expected to come to trial early next year, probably in February or March, in Los Angeles Superior Court. Meanwhile, some $2 million dollars in payments which employers have contracted to pay into the trust funds is being held in receivership in Los Angeles by court order.

As a sidelight to those proceedings, Judge Lynch of Santa Monica (Calif.) Superior Court on Dec. 5 denied a motion to remove Cecil Read, Earl Evans, Uan Rasey and Bill Ulyate as trustees of the Musicians' Defense Fund, raised among members of Local 47 to carry on the litigation. The motion was based on a charge that since Mr. Read and the others were among the organizers of Musicians Guild of America as a rival union to AFM, they were no longer proper trustees of a fund established by members of AFM Local 47. With consent of all parties, the court continued the order restraining the use of defense fund money to aid MGA.
THE WASH THAT STOPPED THE DRAIN

More than fifty years ago, U. S. Steel scientists found a way to reclaim the iron particles in low grade ores by washing away the useless sandy particles. Thus they obtained a high grade ore from a low grade one—which early miners had pushed aside as worthless. In 1910, they built their first plant to handle this job of ore beneficiation, because they knew that even vast ore deposits like those of the Mesabi Range in Minnesota would soon be drained if only the richest ores were scooped out to feed our steel-hungry economy.

Today, more than ½ of all the iron ore shipped out of Minnesota is beneficiated ore. And U. S. Steel's research work on ore beneficiation is still going on to find even better ways to utilize and stretch our ore deposits.

RADIO ASKS COURT EDICT ON ASCAP

Members of the All-Industry Radio Music License Committee voted unanimously last Thursday (Dec. 11) to go to court for "reasonable fees" for ASCAP music licenses for radio stations.

The move had been anticipated since the committee's negotiations with ASCAP were broken off when both sides agreed Dec. 9 that they were "hopelessly apart" and further discussions would serve "no useful purpose" [Lead Story, Dec. 8].

The committee authorized Emanuel Dannett, its counsel, to send letters immediately to the approximately 640 stations contributing to the committee's support, advising them what steps they must take to assure themselves of the right to continue using ASCAP music after current licenses expire Dec. 31. This letter was expected to go into the mails over the weekend. Another letter was slated to go to all other radio stations early this week.

Under the ASCAP consent decree as amended in 1950, any station applying to ASCAP for a license may continue using ASCAP music while rates are being determined. ASCAP must respond to this application by offering terms. The station may accept the terms or, if it considers them unreasonable, negotiate for better ones. If agreement is not reached within 60 days the station may then ask the U. S. District Court for the Southern District of New York to fix reasonable fees in a rate proceeding.

Issued by Robert T. Mason of WMIR Marion, Ohio, chairman of the all-industry group, the announcement of last week's decision said that efforts to work out "an equitable formula" for the use of ASCAP music had been met by refusal by ASCAP "to make any concession to the radio industry. As a consequence, members of the committee were of the opinion that they had no recourse other than to bring a court proceeding to have fees fixed."

He said the stations represented by individual members of the committee voted unanimously to go to court.

Committee members present at last week's meeting were Chairman Mason; George W. Armstrong, WHB Kansas City, KOMA Oklahoma City, WITX New Orleans, WQAM Miami and WDDY Minneapolis; Cy N. Bahakel, WRIS Roanoke, and WWOD Lymburg, Va.; WKXO Kosciusko and WABG Greenwood, Miss.; WKN Kingsport, Tenn., and WLBJ Bowling Green, Ky.; Richard D. Buckley, WNEW New York and WHK Cleveland; Herbert E. Evans, WGAR Cleveland and WRFD Worthington, Ohio, WTTM Trenton, WMNN Fairmont, W. Va., and WNAX Yankton, S. D.; Bert Ferguson, WDIA Memphis; J. Wallen Jensen, KSL Salt Lake City; Herbert Krueger, WTAG Worcester, Mass.; William S. Morgan Jr., KLIF Dallas, KILT Houston, KTSF San Antonio, KEEL Shreveport, and WAKY Louisville; Elliott M. Sanger, WQXR New York; Calvin J. Smith, KFAC Los Angeles; Sherwood J. Tarlow, WHIL Boston and WARE Ware, Mass., WHYE Roanoke, Va.; WWOK Charlotte, N. C., WLOB Portland, Me., and WJBW New Orleans; and Jack S. Younts, WEWEB Southern Pines, N. C. Mr. Dannett, as counsel, and his partner, William W. Golub, also participated.

Barring new overtures by ASCAP, committee authorities anticipated no further meeting of the group until early 1959, when preparations will be started for negotiation of new radio music license contracts with BMI. Current BMI contracts expire in March.

ZECKENDORF: WJAR-AM-TV BUYER

- Webb & Knapp, Mullins ready to expand in broadcasting
- Stevens out of Providence deal; Sinclair fights sale

Now you see him, now you don't.
That was the fate last week of Broadway producer Roger L. Stevens in his venture to purchase The Outlet Co. and WJAR-AM-TV Providence, R.I. His former "mystery" associates were revealed late Wednesday night (Dec. 10) in the sale picture, as Mr. Stevens faded out.
But a cloud shadowed the whole purchase as an Outlet Co. heir started litigation to block the sale.
For reasons they preferred to keep to themselves but apparently purely financial, Mr. Stevens assigned his interest in the settlement of a suit filed by Joseph (Dody) Sinclair, second-generation heir to one of the principal estates, which seeks to stop the trustees from making the sale.
Mr. Sinclair is station manager of WJAR-TV and grandson of the late Col. Joseph Samuels, who with his brother, the late Leon Samuels, founded The Outlet Co., Rhode Island's largest department store. Mr. Sinclair is protesting sale of the stock by the trustees on the ground the estate will be unnecessarily diluted through the estate tax payments which will be required.
State Superior Court Judge G. Frederick Frost on Wednesday denied Mr. Sinclair's petition for temporary restraint but set Jan. 19 for hearing of a petition for formal restraint. The cumulative stock acquisition cannot be completed before then, it was noted, and the station transfer applications also must have FCC approval. The agreement allows six months for the FCC to act.
Whatever the outcome of the Providence venture, Messrs. Zeckendorf and Mullins are moving ahead aggressively now to diversify and increase their broadcast holdings (Mr. Zeckendorf not personally but through Webb & Knapp) to the full limit allowed by the FCC. Mr. Mullins will be in charge of the exploration and negotiations, not only for himself personally but also for Webb & Knapp [CLOSLED CIRCUIT, Dec. 8].
"We are only interested in big properties," Mr. Mullins said Thursday, "We are negotiating now on a third and a fourth TV station, one of which would involve the purchase of a large newspaper property along with it," he added, not detailing where or how soon agreements might be signed. He said he has been working on the Providence purchase for nearly 1/2 years.
Mr. Mullins said there is no timetable for the ultimate acquisition of a full complement of stations and the search and purchase of Denver Post properties.

ODD MAN OUT—A week previous, Broadway producer Roger Stevens would have been in the empty chair with William Zeckendorf (r) and John C. Mullins to complete the threesome buying The Outlet Co. WJAR-AM-TV Providence. Last week he was gone leaving only Messrs. Mullins and Zeckendorf to talk about their further broadcast diversification in the glass penthouse overlooking 383 Madison Ave., New York.

nearly $12 million Providence purchase to real estate magnate William Zeckendorf whose Webb & Knapp Inc. plans with John C. Mullins to buy out the outstanding stock of The Outlet Co. from several estates and individual stockholders for $120 a share [BROADCASTING, Dec. 8]. Webb & Knapp and Mr. Mullins, president of KBTV (TV) Denver, are each 50% owners of KBTV. The new purchasing entity in the Providence purchase is the 91065 Corp., a subsidiary of TV-Denver Inc., the KBTV licensee.
91065 Corp. is described as "traditional Zeckendorf." He is said to keep at hand various numbered paper corporations which can be ready facilities to meet any emergency faced any time and anywhere by Webb & Knapp, self-styled as "the world's largest real estate development company." Mr. Zeckendorf is president of Webb & Knapp and he and his family own 35% of its stock.
The 91065 Corp. doesn't have an absolutely open door to consummate its Providence purchase. To proceed finally, it will have to be able to acquire at least a cumulative 35% of the outstanding stock in Outlet (55% from trusts and a minimum of 15% from others) and it will have to await the

THE BROADCASTING HOUSEHOLD

IT STARTED AT BREAKFAST

The budding broadcast holdings of real estate's legendary William Zeckendorf and television's John C. Mullins had a casual beginning.
Mr. Mullins already was half-owner and president of KBTV (TV) Denver at the time (1955), the seed was planted. He had sold KPHO-AM-TV Phoenix to Meredith Pub. Co. two years previous, a property he acquired in 1949 after many years as an amusement park operator in Tulsa and Phoenix (Mr. Mullins started Tulsa Pati Page on her vocal career in 1928 at $20 a week).
Messrs. Mullins and Zeckendorf first met as breakfast guests of Denver Post Editor Palmer Hoyt aboard a train for Cheyenne, Wyo., "Frontier Days" festivities. But the first impressions were impressive, for Mr. Zeckendorf's Webb & Knapp only months later became the other 50% owner of KBTV, acquiring the interest of Frank Leu. They now modestly hope the rest will make industry history. It will be a new "view" for Mr. Zeckendorf to scan from his $500,000 two-story glass-walled penthouse office atop 383 Madison Ave., New York.
Even Mr. Zeckendorf's executive secretary, Mrs. Mary E. Blessington, is in broadcasting to a degree. Her son, formerly of NBC-TV, is now a radio account executive with Branham Co. in New York and her daughter works for NAB in Washington.

Murray Snyder, assistant secretary of defense, said military leaders are deeply concerned over the vast amount of information made available to the public and other nations. He said he knows of no important military man who favors censorship in peacetime but added that national security must be protected.

Samuel J. Archibald, staff administrator for the House Government Information Subcommittee, said there still is a “paper curtain hiding official actions in Washington.” He anticipated friction between Congress and the executive branch over executive claims of constitutional power to impose secrecy. He said a bill enacted by Congress last August sought to remove any secrecy authority from a 189-year-old statute giving department heads the power to run their offices but said there aren’t any signs that public records have since been turned loose by bureaucrats.

Chicago’s 17 Am, Fm Stations Act on McGannon Promotion Idea

A kickoff date of Dec. 22 has been set by Chicago am and fm stations for an aggressive institutional “sell radio on the air” campaign.

The idea for the drive stemmed from a suggestion by Donald H. McGannon, president of Westinghouse Broadcasting, at last month’s Broadcasters Promotion Assn. convention in St. Louis [TRADE ASSNS., Nov. 24].

Agreement by Chicago’s 17 area radio outlets was reached at a meeting held by Westinghouse’s WIND in that city. Purpose of the campaign is to “build interest in radio as an advertising medium,” Mr. Archibald pointed out. WBC include air spots, consumer advertisements, envelope stuffers and basic radio statistics.

Webb Blames Spot Radio Decline On Dual Pricing, Network Rates

“Bargain basement” prices being offered by radio networks and the double rate structure employed by “so many stations throughout the country” were cited Wednesday (Dec. 10) by Lawrence Webb, managing director of the Station Representatives Assn., as foremost reasons for the further decline of spot radio billings, especially in smaller markets. Mr. Webb reported national spot radio suffered a decline in the third quarter of this year with a loss of $1,544,000 over the same period of 1957.

Estimated figures for the third quarter totaled $43,085,000, compared to $44,629,000 for the same quarter last year. They were compiled for SRA by Price Waterhouse Co.

Gross time sales for the first nine months of 1958 were estimated to total $136,939,000, an increase of 4% over the $131,397,000 for the first nine months of 1957. But preliminary figures for October and November, Mr. Webb said, indicate a further decline in the use of national spot radio advertising and final figures for the entire year “may run slightly behind 1957, when total estimated sales were $183,097,000.”

Mr. Webb said that until such time as stations establish a clear-cut one-rate policy, “or at least a sound workable policy with regard to a local or retail rate, radio advertising will never reach its maximum potential, even though advertisers know it is one of the greatest means of communication this country has ever known.”

WIRL Puts Strong Spotlight On 7-week Caterpillar Strike

WIRL, Peoria, Ill., claims part-credit for breaking the seven-week strike deadlock at Caterpillar Tractor Co. The strike was called Oct. 9, and affected not only Peoria but neighboring Morton and Decatur, Ill., as well as York, Pa., where Caterpillar maintains plants.

WIRL went on the air thrice weekly with hourly, two-minute editorials, taking no sides but urging conciliation. The station broadcast man-on-the-street interviews with spokesmen of both labor and management, following this up by covering negotiations in Chicago. Reporter George Barrette parked outside the conference suite, delivering 30 telephoned reports to WIRL listeners. Before the settlements, Mr. Barrette (former executive editor of the Peoria Journal-Star) predicted it would come by Nov. 27 with a return to work at Peoria the following Monday (Dec. 1).

The prediction came true, and WIRL says it scooped competitors by at least 30 minutes with the announcement of the strike’s settlement.

WTIG Offers Broadcast Time For Southern Integration Views

Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss.) Thursday (Dec. 11) promised that WTIG Missillon, Ohio, would be taken up on an offer to air both sides of the integration question. In a recent interview telecast by WDSU-TV New Orleans, Rep. Williams stated that many radio and tv stations are guilty of using a “propaganda curtain” to shut out news about the South’s position on civil rights.

Hearing of the congressman’s statement, Richard J. Scholem, co-manager of WTIG, wrote the station “has been active in editorializing for integration, equal treatment and human rights over states’ rights.” He said, however, that WTIG would be glad to give the other side of the controversy “if there is any substance in the South’s present position.” Rep. Williams said WTIG would be offered a series of programs outlining the position of opponents of the Supreme Court’s 1954 integration decision.

Music-News Stations Show Badly In Study of Housewives for WOR

Another salvo in the battle between “music and news” and “varied programming” stations will be fired this week when WOR New York releases results of a special survey by The Pulse Inc., which indicates that New York housewives prefer varied programming outlets by a substantial margin. The study, conducted by Pulse last March-April among 1,081 housewives in the 17-county New York metropolitan area, sought to determine both the listening and shopping habits of respondents.

The survey shows in regard to shopping habits that housewives shop in food and grocery stores throughout the week, rather than merely weekends; more than twice as many housewives listen to radio as read newspapers prior to going shopping; varied programming outlets reach more housewives than music-news stations prior to shopping.

Copies of the study will be distributed to key executives at advertising agencies this week, starting today (Dec. 15). Other interested organizations may receive copies by writing the WOR Research Dept., 1440 Broadway, New York, N.Y.

Stations Strain to Fill Void Left by Silenced N. Y. Press

New York City’s 16 am, 12 fm and 7 tv stations strained to the limit last week to bring the news—and the commercials—to a town deprived of its nine daily newspapers by a delivery strike. Items:

WQXR, owned by the New York Times, had that newspaper’s entire staff—including foreign correspondents—turned over to it for radio news, including reviews, financial reports and editorials.

WABC-TV pre-empted commercial time to carry news bulletins.

WNEW pressed five new staffers into service, expanded its news schedule to present programs every quarter hour.

WOV distributed a “news sheet” in Harlem subway stations, and broadcast extra financial-business newscasts sponsored by Bache & Co., stockbrokers.

WLIB recruited over 100 “stringers” from civic organizations to cover local news, also distributed mimeographed news bulletins in Harlem subway stations.

WRCA-AM-TV expanded news schedules, published “commuters editions” of bulletins for distribution at Grand Central and Pennsylvania terminals and other key points in mid-Manhattan. Circulation: 150,000.

WCBS, in addition to expanded news programs, broadcast excerpts of news stories from non-distributed New York papers.

WPAT to Carry ‘Daily News’

The New York Daily News, deprived of a radio outlet when WNEW New York announced it would sever their 17-year association Dec. 31 (Stations, Nov. 17), has connected with a new station. Effective Jan. 1, the paper’s News Around the Clock programs will be heard on WPAT Paterson, N.J.

CAROLERS AT YOUR DOOR?

Are they legitimate solicitors or not? You want to be sure.

If a Seventh-day Adventist solicitor calls at your home this Christmas season you can be sure that he represents a sound, accepted program of public service:

1. The INGATHERING work, or world missions appeal, in which he is engaged has a 55-year record of community support throughout the nation.

2. He is an unpaid volunteer worker.

3. Your contributions do not go to the support of his local church but help speed humanitarian and educational work around the world.

4. His denomination last year performed welfare services worth more than $24,000,000, yet received less than one-fifth of this in public contributions.

5. He, himself, gives generously, more than 10%, perhaps 20% of his income.

6. He, and we, wish you personal happiness, not only for this season but also for an eternity to come!

SONG HITCH

“Beep Beep,” No. 2 on the song hit lists, last week provided WIBG Philadelphia with a promotion-contest that a local advertiser was only too happy to underwrite. Lyrics of the song tell the maddening effect of the Rambler’s horn behind a Cadillac that tries to accelerate away. WIBG announced several times a day that phone calls would be placed at undisclosed times and, if the person called started the conversation with “Beep Beep,” a Nash Rambler would be awarded. The custom-tailored sponsor for this caper was Thorton - Fuller Metro Rambler of Philadelphia.

RCA to Show Color Microwave

Live color demonstration of new microwave system developed by RCA to be held Thursday (Dec. 11) in Camden, N.J. Broadcast engineers and community antenna people will attend showing of simulated 240-mile multiple-hop system claiming no deterioration of picture. Application: for community tv antenna systems, for broadcasters in multiple-station markets and possibly to permit stations not now receiving color off network to do so.

Boost Seen in Tv Set Sales

"Sharp improvement in tv set sales in 1959" is predicted by the "value line" investment survey of Arnold Bernard & Co., New York, published this month. It is cited among several factors which will make electrical and electronics equipment companies a top growth group next year. The study notes tv set inventories are approaching a seven-year low and one-fourth of sets now in homes are more than five years old. The firm forecasts a color set spurt in a few years, jumping from a production estimate of 250,000 units in 1959 to 4.2 million annually in the period 1962-64. The "most promising" stock label is affixed to Admiral, Emerson, Philco and Raytheon "and for more conservative portfolios, RCA."

Manufacturers Honor McDonald With Memorial Lab in Chicago

A memorial lab has been established at the U. of Chicago Medical Center in honor of the late Comdr. Eugene F. McDonald Jr., founder-president of Zenith Radio Corp., who died last May 15.

The lab, which will be devoted to expanded use of "exfoliative cytology" techniques for cancer detection, has been financed by members of the radio-tv manufacturing industry. The memorial reportedly was suggested by Paul Galvin, board chairman of Motorola Inc., and the appeal was signed by Powell Crosley Jr., radio pioneer and former president of Crosley Radio Corp. Its formation was announced Thursday by Dr. Lowell T. Cogeshall, dean of the U. of Chicago's biological sciences division.

Contributions reached approximately $155,000 by last week and are still being received by the school. The memorial was established because of Comdr. McDonald's interest in cancer research.

High-Fly Market to Peak Next Year, Silber Forecasts

George Silber, president of the Institute of High Fidelity Manufacturers, has predicted that makers of components high fidelity equipment for the home will enjoy a record year in 1959. "Perfection of stereophonic sound reproduction and dramatic advances in stereo broadcasting" will bring industry retail volume to about $300 million, Mr. Silber said, adding this would be an increase of 15% over 1958 sales of $260 million.

Total retail sales in 1950, the year in which the component high fidelity industry "actually started," amounted to $12 million. Volume increased to $27.5 million in 1951; $47 million in 1952; $73 million in 1953; $96 million in 1954; $121 million in 1955; $163 million in 1956; and $225 million in 1957, Mr. Silber reported.

Installed at Sandale, the equipment (used by BBC) is believed the only one transmitting four fm programs at different frequencies from one antenna. Several U. S. stations share a single antenna for beaming two fm programs simultaneously.

GRIMSON WIDENS THE OPEN SPACES FOR TV

A New York manufacturing firm has come up with a system it says is destined to "revolutionize" television. Called "Scanoscope" and devised by Grimson Color Inc., the system converts an ordinary tv picture image of wide-screen proportions by "squeezing" the traditional image (4:3 ratio) onto a wider field of vision (7:3 ratio).

Though it would face an impressive number of obstacles before being applied to commercial tv under present standards, its developers are hopeful that "Scanoscope" holds the answer to an old problem faced by all set manufacturers: how to increase the replacement market. Furthermore, they say that should "Scanoscope" find eventual acceptance, tv producers of such events as sports matches and theatrical extravaganzas—both of which are played out horizontally—will have an easier time of it.

Borrowing a leaf from the Cinemascope patent holders, Grimson engineers intend "shooting" a 7x3 proportioned scene via their "Scanoscope" lens, which imparts a 2:1 optical squeeze to the image. The resulting 7x6 image then passes through a standard camera lens onto the pick-up vidicon and from there—in accordance with EIA standards—to the monitor. There, an "unsqueezing device" expands the 7x6 image back to the original 7x3 scene where it is viewed on the face of the cathode ray tube, masked to handle the new wide aspect ratio [see schematic above]. Thus, by cutting back the standard 21-inch tube to 19x8½ inches, Grimson has come up with wide-screen tv.

Though it sounds simple, it isn't. Grimson engineers know that they are facing "a massive selling job," but hope, at least, to get one foot in the door by limiting "Scanoscope" applications to closed circuit tv. Grimson's first public demonstration is currently being staged on the sidewalks of Manhattan's 34th St. shopping district, where Grimson has set up—in the store window of L. B. Spears—its full rig, hoping to entice passers-by into the store by showing them the layout inside—via wide-screen tv. Next, it intends to "sell" its widescreen process to industrial firms using closed circuit tv for sales conferences. Later, it hopes to convince military leaders that "Scanoscope" used in the field—will give their battlefield tv a wider range of vision than is now possible. By this roundabout way, the manufacturers of "Scanoscope" think they'll arouse the commercial tv industry. But they admit success is still "a long way off."

BROADCASTING
WSAN, KTUL PULLING OUT OF CBS

CBS Radio lost its second affiliate as a result of its new Program Consolidation Plan last week as WSAN Allentown, Pa., served cancellation notice and signed with NBC Radio.

The CBS network also lost a 25-year member of its family, KTUL Tulsa, but station officials attributed their disaffiliation not to PCP, though they, too, called it "totally unacceptable," but to dissatisfaction with programming generally, including that of other networks.

CBS officials acknowledged that WSAN had cancelled in dissatisfaction over terms of the new programming plan, but said their confidence in general affiliate acceptance was unshaken. They said this and the WJR Detroit cancellation notice last month [NETWORKS, Nov. 24] were the only ones they had received since PCP was announced some seven weeks ago [LEAD STORY, Nov. 3].

The official announcement of the WSAN move from CBS to NBC, issued for release today (Dec. 15) by NBC Station Relations Vice President Harri Bannister, made no reference to PCP. Nor did the accompanying statement by Reuel (Bud) Musselman, general manager and his sister, Mrs. Olivia P. Barnes, co-owner of WSAN.

Mr. Bannister noted that WSAN had been an NBC affiliate for 20 years before moving to CBS two years ago. In this light, Mr. Musselman said "we feel we are returning home and as comfortable as if we had never been away," Matthew J. Culligan, NBC executive vice president in charge of the radio network, cited the recent signing of Todd Storz' KOMA Oklahoma City and also the addition of KIMA Yakima, Wash., and noted the WSAN return "evidence of the continuing parade of top stations to NBC Radio's banner."

WSAN is on 1470 kc with 5 kw and operates around the clock. Confirming KTUL's severance from CBS, station officials said their original notice preceded or approximately coincided with announcement of the network's new program consolidation plan but was not caused by PCP. Disaffiliation, they said, followed many months of trying to find ways to use network programs better. Termination date originally was set at May 1, they reported, but by mutual agreement has now been advanced to Jan. 4.

James C. Leake, president of KTUL and also John T. Griffin radio-television interests, noted that KTUL had been affiliated with CBS Radio since the station commenced operations just one month short of 25 years ago. He called the decision to disaffiliate "one of the most painful" the station management had ever had to make.

Having been a part of network radio's growth to a "position of dominance and fantastic influence" through long affiliation, Mr. Leake said, is difficult for us to believe that nationwide organizations are incapable of providing the kind of programming that today's listener wants and needs. However, it is abundantly apparent that radio networks are no longer performing this service."

He said that "we are perfectly willing to accept the responsibility of finding what the public wants and should have, then supplying it to them." He said KTUL had an "admirable record" in programming and in the development of talent, and noted that singer Patti Page was one of the stars who got her start on this station.

If KTUL can find a "national organization" that contributes the sort of programming the station feels is needed, Mr. Leake indicated another affiliation might result. If not, he said, KTUL will go it alone.

While authorities said PCP did not motivate the defection, General Manager James H. Schoonover called this plan "totally unacceptable" and "nothing more than a brokering arrangement."

Under PCP, CBS Radio is trimming its broadcast time, consolidating programming into shorter morning, afternoon and evening blocks and, in lieu of regular compensation, is furnishing hourly newscasts for sale by stations in return for their clearing other periods to be offered for sale by the network. The plan is slated to go into effect Jan. 5.

KTUL is on 1430 kc with 5 kw. Other Griffin stations are KTUL-TV Tulsa and KATV (TV) Little Rock, Ark., both ABC-TV affiliates, and the company also owns 50% of KWT (TV) Oklahoma City, a CBS-TV outlet.

CBS-TV Figures Out Must-Buy Replacement

The broad outline of CBS-TV's replacement for its must-buy station list was presented to affiliates last Thursday (Dec. 11).

Instead of requiring advertisers to use the stations which now make up the must-buy list, the new plan calls for a minimum-dollar expenditure [CLOSED CIRCUIT, Dec. 1] — but with embellishments. It sets minimum requirements, but they don't necessarily have to be met.

If an advertiser's network purchase doesn't measure up to these minimums, however, he can be bumped after 13 weeks and replaced by an advertiser who wants the time and does meet the basic requirements.

As outlined to affiliates in a closed-circuit call last Thursday, it will work this way, effective March 1:

The must-buy station list will be.

In its place CBS-TV will issue two lists of all its affiliates, one arranged in alphabetical order and the other in order of their rates, with the highest-price station at the top and the lowest at the bottom.

From these lists the advertiser will pick his lineup. But if the lineup's total cost is less than a specified percentage of the total gross hourly rates of all affiliates, or if the lineup omits "important" geographical regions, CBS-TV reserves the right to cancel after 13 weeks—if another advertiser wants to.
to buy the time and meet the minimum specifications.

The specified minimum is 80% of the total gross hourly rates of all affiliates in the case of nighttime periods and 75% in daytime.

While it is thus theoretically possible for an advertiser to buy less than the minimum and stay on for at least 13 weeks, this does not seem apt to happen often in practice, especially in evening hours. All sponsors now on the CBS-TV nighttime schedule are meeting or exceeding the new minimum requirements, and the same is true of all but two current daytime sponsors.

Current advertisers will be protected under the plan.

Further details of the new policy are due to be forwarded to the affiliates in a letter shortly.

The practice of designating certain stations as must-buys has been sharply condemned in Washington and other quarters in network investigations over the past few years. NBC-TV as well as CBS-TV currently has a must-buy station list, but is known to be considering alternatives, presumably using a minimum-dollar base [CLOSED CIRCUIT, Dec. 8]. ABC-TV already is on a minimum-dollar basis.

Dozen NBC-TV Chiefs PowWow In Florida on Long-Range Plans

NBC-TV top brass and key program executives opened a four-day Florida retreat last Thursday (Dec. 11) to canvass program plans and prospects, particularly for the 1959-60 season.

The long-range program thinking reportedly was being done against a background covering considerably more than entertainment. Such considerations as the recent rounds of criticism leveled at TV fare generally and Washington's bristly attitude toward TV networking also were said to figure prominently in the program planning.

The meeting, held at the Diplomat Hotel at Hollywood Beach, was described as one in the series of annual sessions at which NBC top executives get away for a few days of uninterrupted consideration of long-distance program plans. Last year's was held at Atlantic City.

The Hollywood beach group, numbering about a dozen, included board chairman Robert W. Sarnoff and president Robert E. Kintner; Robert F. Lewine, vice president for network TV programs; Don Durgin, vice president and national sales manager; Hugh M. Beville, vice president for planning and research; Thomas W. Sarnoff, vice president for production and business affairs, Pacific Div.; Alan W. Livingston, vice president for TV network programs, Pacific Div.; Alan Courtney, director of nighttime programs, and Carl Lindemann Jr., director of daytime programs.

Two-Party Group Meets On Network '60 Appeal

The networks last Tuesday (Dec. 9) made their appeal for a common 1960 nominating convention — city to a joint Democratic-Republican committee. But they will have to wait until late February to learn if their request is granted.

Sig Mickelson, vice president in charge of CBS News, again made the networks' presentation to the politicians, using substantially the same tack as presented to the Democratic Site Committee 10 days ago [NETWORKS, Dec. 8]. Last week's meeting was held at the request of Mr. Mickelson, who also was successful in getting the Democrats to withhold selection of a 1960 convention city.

Donald Coe, director of ABC special events, and William McAndrew, vice president in charge of NBC News, represented their networks at the Tuesday session, although Mr. Mickelson was the principal broadcasting spokesman. The politicians reportedly were sympathetic to the broadcasting plea, based on personnel and equipment difficulties and extra high costs in covering the two 1956 conventions, held in separate cities.

"We were delighted with their spirit of cooperation," a broadcaster present at the meeting stated, although nothing concrete was established. The Democrats' site committee will meet Jan. 16, to be followed by a meeting of the National Committee late in February. The Republican site and National Committees are to meet late in January, with both parties expected to make final selections at their respective meetings.

Although network officials expected the Democratic and GOP group to huddle again prior to naming of the 1960 cities, spokesmen for both parties said this was not planned. Sam Brightman of the Democratic National Committee said the Tuesday meeting ended on an "inconclusive" note and, at the present time, no future session is planned.

Albert Herman of the GOP stated there is "no particular reason for future meetings." He said "neither committee (Tuesday) was in a position to do anything except listen ... " and report back to their respective site committees. In addition to Mr. Herman, Republicans present included Ray C. Bliss of Ohio, Richard F. Cooper of New Hampshire and Mrs. Louis C. Rogers of North Carolina. Democratic participants included Mr. Brightman, Camille F. Gravel Jr. of Louisiana, William Potter of Delaware and C. Girard Davidson of Oregon.

Although no formal meetings are planned in the future, both parties said there undoubtedly would be informal discussions between GOP Chairman Meade Alcorn and Paul Butler, his Democratic counterpart. Cities bidding for the 1960 conventions include Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago, Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Miami Beach and New York.

Mr. Mickelson said the networks would like to have the conventions held in cities where they maintain permanent origination ofignal facilities. Selection of San Francisco and Philadelphia would present difficulties, he said, while Miami Beach and Atlantic City would present "tremendous problems."

Representatives of other news media also presented requests at Tuesday's meeting for the same city for 1960 conventions.

NBC-TV Will Tape 'Paar Show' Three Out of Five Times Weekly

NBC-TV will tape three out of five programs of the Jack Paar Show each week from 8:15 to 10 p.m., starting Jan. 12.

Though NBC-TV programming vice president Robert F. Lewine, in announcing this move, merely explained that VTR would be used "to permit Jack to enjoy a more flexible work schedule and to accommodate earlier audiences," it's been no secret that Mr. Paar wanted out altogether if something wasn't done to ease his staggering load. Initially, the star had asked NBC to trim his weekly show back from its a.m. EST sign-off, but with business booming, NBC refused.

To be taped are the Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday shows, leaving Thursday and Friday in their regular 11:15 p.m.-1 a.m. live period. At the same time, NBC has decided to quit originating the show out of the Hudson Theatre in mid-Manhattan where the Paar show and its predecessors, Tonight with Steve Allen and America After Dark, had been staged since 1954. The studio audiences no longer need wait out in the cold; now they'll line up inside the RCA Bldg., the series emanating from studio 6B effective Dec. 29.
CBS-TV Rules Relaxed, Affiliate Tapes OK'ed

As an experiment, CBS-TV is relaxing its regulations forbidding affiliates to tape-delay network broadcasts. Carl Ward, vice president and director of affiliate relations for CBS-TV, last week sent a statement to the affiliates outlining the principles under which taped delays will be permitted. He stressed that these instructions will be in effect until a set of detailed rules can be devised.

CBS-TV's general rule: "Except in unusual circumstances and unless a clear showing to warrant exceptions is made, tape delays of network programs by affiliates will not be permitted." Mr. Ward observed, in this connection, that "the very essence of networking precludes haphazard or piecemeal rescheduling of programs on station-by-station basis..." this would cause dislocation of the unique benefits which networking provides to the public, to advertisers and affiliates themselves.

To obtain permission for a tape delay broadcast, an affiliate must apply in writing to the affiliate relations department of CBS-TV and receive the prior consent of the network and of the sponsor. Affiliates must cite the reason for not broadcasting the network feed direct; must agree to telecast the tape only once and erase the recording within six hours of use; must record and broadcast the entire program and must not broadcast the delayed tape as part of any other program.

The network reserved the right to revoke its consent to tape and delay particular programs or series with not less than six days' written notice.

Mr. Ward said that up to this time, the network has been unable to spell out ground rules covering taped delays because it lacks knowledge of the effect on the network, advertisers and affiliates of such broadcasts, and of the specific circumstances under which affiliates might propose to use taped delays. He added that the network will review results during this experimental period and will issue to affiliates supplementary rules and procedures, as they are formulated.

WJMR, an independent station until Dec. 1, is owned and operated by the Supreme Broadcasting Co. Inc. NBC Aiming Ads at Admen

NBC Radio is borrowing a leaf or two from the printed media in scheduling what it calls "house ads." Using unsold participations in three of its evening series, Morgan Beatty and the News, Life and the World and Nighline, NBC is filling the "empty air" with one-minute announcements addressed directly to those of its listeners engaged in advertising and sales.
NAB MEET ASSESSES RADIO TODAY

Am broadcasters are enjoying rising audiences and income in many areas but they’re coping with recession leftovers, occasional spot declines, network problems, and intense local competition.

This generally optimistic roundup of radio trends was gathered at the Dec. 11 meeting of NAB’s Am Radio Committee, held in Washington. F. C. Sowell, WLAC Nashville, Tenn., presided as committee chairman.

The committee went into such industry matters as liquor advertising, revision of FCC forms, promotion of the am medium and copyright negotiations.

NAB’s board, which meets Feb. 2-6 in Hollywood Beach, Fla., was asked by the committee to reaffirm its position opposing the advertising of hard liquor on the air.

Reviewing the problem of FCC license renewal forums, the committee urged the association to ask the Commission to give broadcasters an extra two months to study proposed changes in the forms. Committee members felt individual broadcasters haven’t had a chance to study these changes. John F. Meagher, NAB radio vice president, announced NAB would reprint the revisions and send the material to member stations. Replies are due Jan. 19, but a 60-day delay would extend the deadline date into mid-March.

Vincent T. Wasilewski, NAB government relations manager, described the proposed license form changes.

An account of ASCAP and BMI radio copyright negotiations was phoned to the committee from New York by Jack Younts, member of the WEEB Southern Pines, N.C., a member of the All-Industry Music License Negotiating Committee.

NAB’s Radio Standards of Good Practice program has attracted 600 stations that have pledged adherence. Mr. Meagher said. He gave a review of tentative plans for the 1959 NAB convention to be held March 15-19 at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, Chicago, and reported on the series of eight NAB fall conferences that ended Oct. 28 in Washington.

An analysis of 1959 convention wishes of some 400 radio members is being compiled by NAB and will be submitted to the NAB Convention Committee when it meets tomorrow (Dec. 16) at NAB Washington headquarters.

Donald N. Martin, NAB public relations assistant to the president, reported on observance of Radio Month in 1958. The NAB Committee endorsed the NAB Radio Board’s decision to hold a monthlong radio observance in 1959, following the successful 1958 month. The committee urged radio members to use the NAB film “Hear and Now” in local organization meetings.

Mr. Sowell said response to the NAB “Look for a Room With a Radio” campaign, aimed at travelers, has been excellent.

Charles H. Tower, NAB broadcast economics-personnel manager, said the association will decide shortly whether to hold a Broadcast Management Seminar at the Harvard Business School. He said 85 broadcasters have definitely indicated they will attend if the course is offered next July and another 85 have voiced interest. Frederick H. Garrigus, NAB manager of organizational services, outlined the long-range plans of the Assn. for Professional Broadcast Education to upgrade college broadcast curricula.

New tax exemptions for broadcasters, granted under the 1958 Excise Law revision, were explained by Douglas A. Anello, NAB chief attorney.

FCC has authorized remote control for 10 directional and four 50 kw nondirectional stations, according to A. Prose Walker, NAB engineering manager. He predicted more authorizations will be granted. NAB has been working in Washington with Minneapolis Honeywell and WTOP on automatic logging experiments. Prototype equipment is being rebuilt to log fm and tv transmission records as well as am.

Mr. Walker said NAB is studying technical standards for measurement of powerline interference to be used in discussions with power companies.

The committee was given reports on NAB radio research and radio transmission tariff activities.

Attending the meeting, besides Chairman Sowell, were Gerald Bartell, Bartell Family Radio; Grover Cobb, KVBG Great Bend, Kan.; Harold Krelstein, WMPS Memphis; Vernon Nolte, WJBC Bloomington, Ind.; Jerome Sill, WFPG Atlantic City, N. J.; Todd Storz, Storz stations; W. H. Summerville, WWL New Orleans; C. L. Thomas, KXOK St. Louis; Edward DeGray, ABC; Arthur Hull Hayes, CBS; Charles W. Godwin, MBS, and P. A. Sugg, NBC.

NAB participants included President Harold E. Fellows; Richard A. Allerton, research manager, and Thomas B. Coulter, assistant radio vice president.

Nothing Sacred About 7-9 A.M. In Advertising Foods—Sweeney

One of the “erroneous pre-conceptions” of agencies buying time for a food product is the “must-buy 7-9 a.m. philosophy,” Kevin Sweeney, president of the RAB, declared last Thursday (Dec. 11) in a talk before the Television Radio Advertising Club in Philadelphia.

Mr. Sweeney said RAB had conducted new research on the subject, and asserted:

“The first of our studies on the listening habits of the purchasers of various types of foods, in this case frozen food, shows that the admittedly precious 7:30-8 a.m. period is the most important. Although the 24 hour buying segments between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. The 3:30-7 p.m. period is about 20% more than others at that time, and 24% more than at that time. The key to the study is that the first of these ‘downtown’ associations are ‘fighting back’ suburban shopping competition, radio is the vital ingredient—taking anywhere from 33 to 100% of the ad budget.”

For example, downtown Tulsa Unifld., comprised of 250 member stores, annually spends $20,000 (via a radio personality dubbed “Don Towne”) to combat 18 suburban shopping centers, finds its sales 11% higher at a time when downtown shops usually are experiencing sales slumps. Another RAB case-in-point: The commercial development fund of Greater Paterson Chamber of Commerce (Paterson, N. J.) which allocates 75% of its budget in ’round-the-clock radio announcements, also “merchandises” the radio campaign by staging allied promotions, in one instance found sales rocketing 500%.

Copy in these association ads usually stresses transportation conveniences, parking facilities and wide selection of merchandise. The downtown promotion division of Merchants Assn. of Indianapolis tells listeners “if you’re buying a hat, you’ll find 25,000 downtown.” Radio also helps win new converts; for instance, a Brockton, Mass., “downtown drive” has won new converts to the medium—stores that hadn’t ever used radio before.

RAB is making available to members case histories of these campaigns.

Radio Downtown Shops’ Weapon In Battle With Suburban Trend

Suburban shopping developments are being blunted by radioactivity—radio campaigns sponsored by various downtown shopping associations in an effort to reverse a modern merchandising trend. According to Radio Advertising Bureau’s latest study of how 16 of these “downtown” associations are “fighting back” suburban shopping competition, radio is the vital ingredient—taking anywhere from 33 to 100% of the ad budget.

For example, downtown Tulsa Unifld., comprised of 250 member stores, annually spends $20,000 (via a radio personality dubbed “Don Towne”) to combat 18 suburban shopping centers, finds its sales 11% higher at a time when downtown shops usually are experiencing sales slumps. Another RAB case-in-point: The commercial development fund of Greater Paterson Chamber of Commerce (Paterson, N. FAB Files Petition
On State Court Ban

Florida broadcasters want the state Supreme Court to give the question of electronic reporting a fair hearing.

Last week the court upheld contempt of court convictions of two Miami cameramen for taking pictures of an accused rapist in a courthouse corridor. The picture-taking violated an order by Circuit Judge Vincent Giblin.

A fortnight ago the highest state court had quietly amended the state's judicial code by reaffirming Canon 35 of the American Bar Assn. and making minor changes in its provisions.

The Florida Assn. of Broadcasters filed a petition Dec. 9 asking the court to reconsider its code action, taken Nov. 17 but announced only in a letter sent to judges.

FAB asked an opportunity to demonstrate how radio and tv can report trials without interfering with judicial processes. At the same time FAB pointed out that broadcast coverage will enhance public appreciation of court proceedings.

The decision upholding convictions of Robert Brumfield, WTVJ (TV) Miami, and Ben Silver, WCKT (TV) Miami, was unanimous. The two TV cameramen had been fined $25 each on contempt charges by Judge Giblin. TV pictures of the defendant in a rapist trial had been banned by Judge Giblin in the courtroom or any place within 30 feet of any entrance to the courtroom. The order had also covered photographing of the defendant while in jail prior to arraignment or on his way to or from the court sessions.

The contempt convictions were appealed on the ground the order violated state and federal constitutional guarantees of freedom of the press. The ban was described in the appeal as arbitrary and discriminatory because other photos of the defendant had appeared in Miami newspapers and on TV programs at the time of the defendant's arrest Court records show the Silver and Brumfield photos were not telecast.

In writing the Supreme Court decision, Justice E. Harris Drew held Judge Giblin's order was proper because it is the judge's duty to protect the pretrial processes of the court and to ban publicity that is not vital to giving the public full information in a criminal case.

There was no compelling reason or need to photograph the defendant at the particular time and place, he held. The ruling noted there is no need for a running battle between the court and the press on the question of taking photographs within the confines of judicial chambers.

Judge Drew wrote that concepts of a fair trial and free press are basic in our constitutional government, adding, "All that is required is for both the court and the press to place the emphasis upon the constitution and not upon themselves."

In filing the FAB petition J. Kenneth Ballinger, FAB general counsel, contended Canon 35 makes unsupported statements as matters of fact which the court erroneously perpetuates. He argued broadcasters do not "intend" to detract from the dignity of court proceedings, as implied in the canon. He said the canon assumes without proof that electronic reporting degrades the judicial process, pointing to the way newspaper reporters operate during trials. "The court shuts its eyes to the facts of electronic life," he contended. He pointed to an anomaly in the canon—its support of electronic reporting of naturalization trials while criticizing such reporting in other proceedings.

Ralph Renick, WTVJ news vice president, stated in an on-the-air editorial that the court "could have performed a service to the public by looking at both sides of the issue." He said no newspaper, radio, tv or photographic representative had been given a chance to state the other side of the question.

Allow Adman to Do Job—Hardesty

Top-level company executives are hampering the growth of the advertising profession because they insist upon playing the role of advertising "expert," John F. Hardesty, vice president and general manager of the Radio Advertising Bureau, told the 54th annual convention of the Ice Cream Manufacturers at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago last Thursday (Dec. 11). He insisted that advertising agencies often "are put in the impossible position of trying to sell sensible media policies, arrived at through experience, to a closed-minded management." On another subject, Mr. Hardesty recommended that ice cream manufacturers direct their advertising to adults rather than to children and suggested radio as the "best medium" to achieve this.

World Theme for SMPTE Parley

The overall theme of "films and television for international communications" will be developed in speeches and demonstrations at the 85th semi-annual convention of the Society of Motion Picture & Television Engineers in Miami, May 4-8. One feature of the convention will be an international equipment exhibit at which motion picture and television equipment manufacturers and distributors from all over the world will be invited to show their latest products.

PROGRAMS & PROMOTIONS

‘Music Man’ Leads WIRL Event

Meredith Willson, composer of the Broadway attraction “Music Man,” starred in a television music, retailing and Red Cross promotion campaign sponsored by WIRL Peoria, Ill. Mr. Willson was featured at a high school band festival in Peoria, where he conducted a massed band of some 1,200 musicians in his “Music Man” song hit “76 Trombones.” In addition, he sang the Willson tune “It’s Beginning to Look Like Christmas,” which was accepted as the official selling slogan by the Peoria Downtown Retailers Assn. for the 1958 Christmas season. WIRL also urged listeners to make blood donations at the American Red Cross Blood Center where Mr. Willson autographed “Music Man” albums for donors. Over 1,000 pints of blood were collected, according to WIRL President Robert Frudeger, and more than 40,000 persons attended the massed band concert.

WNEW-TV’s ‘Chaste’ Ads Appeal

WNEW-TV New York—bucking “thousands of lines of network newspaper ads”—has hit upon a novel way with which to garner reader attention. It’s taken out 85 3-inch all-type newspaper ads—described by station advertising director Ken Klein as “chaste”—and has slipped them unobtrusively into the women’s pages of major New York newspapers. There, adjacent to pictures of the newest shoes, bridge columns and household hints, the ad asks in bold type: “If you have children who watch TV... we invite you to watch ch. 5 with them tonight at 5.”

For one WNEW-TV show, re-runs of the old “our gang” film shorts, this type of ad has resulted in a 200% increase in Arbitron ratings, the station claims.

Old Circus Wagon Drawn to KETV

A colorful antique circus wagon, now decorating the stage for the daily Cartoon Circus program on KETV (TV) Omaha, has been loaned to the station by the Omaha Zoo, Eugene S. Thomas, KETV vice president and general manager, has announced.

Formerly owned by Tony Jentry’s Dog and Pony Circus which traveled from coast to coast after World War I, the wagon cage was offered for use by the station after KETV announced plans for its afternoon cartoon show. Floyd Henton, Omaha Zoo supervisor, discovered the abandoned wagon in a small Nebraska town nearly 30 years ago, and restored the wagon for a display at the city zoo, according to KETV.

Redheads Mob WPEN’s Red Benson

Red Benson of WPEN Philadelphia is partial to redheads, according to the station. When the musical hit, “Lil’ Abner,” came to Philadelphia recently, Mr. Benson announced that he would be in the downtown section of the city and would give four tickets to the show to redheads who said “WPEN Lil’ Abner” to him, two tickets were allowed two minutes at the dial. Qualifying as an “expert safecracker” was a Louis ville bank employee who swung open the vault door after studying the clues from the start of the contest, according to WTMT.

KID-TV Tests Atomic Power

Cameras and recorders operated by atomic power were used by KID-TV Idaho Falls, Idaho, in its dedication coverage of the Argonne Low Power Reactor, Dec. 2, at the National Reactor Testing Station in Idaho. The Argonne reactor produces 200 kw of electricity and 400 kw of space heat for installations in remote areas such as the Arctic DEW line. KID-TV shot film and made tapes for broadcasts that night, using power from the reactor as it began output at 12:30 p.m. The reactor, according to Argonne Labs, will operate with minimum supervision for three years on single fuel loading and may possibly be used to power radio transmitters in remote areas.

WGMS Also Beethoven Fan

Suddenly public recognition of composer Beethoven’s birthday, due to its promotion in the comic strip “Peanuts,” has prompted WGMS Washington, D.C., to combine “only (blank) more days til Beethoven’s birthday” with its announcements of “only (blank) more shopping days til Christmas.” The precious little composer in the strip, Schroeder, has heralded his idol’s birthday daily. WGMS will celebrate the Dec. 16 (1770) event with a broadcast of Beethoven’s Symphony No. 8 in F, Op. 93 at 11:15 a.m. WGMS airs at least one work by the composer almost every day of the year, and no departure from its regular schedule is necessary, the station reported.

WTOL-TV Dynamizes Its Message

WTOL-TV Toledo, Ohio, has been mailing simulated sticks of dynamite to agencies to emphasize it as T.N.T.—Toledo’s New Tower—according to the station. Inside each stick of dynamite and taped to the “fuse” for easy removal is basic information about the new station, which went on the air with a special premiere program last week [At Deadline, Dec. 1].

Y., station representative for four Connecticut stations now being sold as a group—WKNB New Britain, WNHC New Haven, WATR Waterbury and WNAB Bridgeport—is asking New York agency timebuyers to name the new group and is offering as top prize a 16-day California-Hawaiian holiday for two, courtesy Transocean Air Lines. Texas Tall Tower Toured

After touring the $1.25 million facilities, the guests were entertained at cocktails and dinner. Speakers included newscasters David Brinkley of NBC-TV and Ned Calmer of CBS-TV. The guest list includedThomas E. Knodle, vice president, NBC station relations, and Carl Ward, CBS affiliate stations, as well as other local, state and national officials. Bucks Fall for KTBC's Guests

Friends and customers of KTBC-AM-TV Austin, Tex., are taking the bucks home this fall. More than 30 deer have been taken from the several thousand acres in two deer leases maintained by the stations in the hills west of Austin. Sportsminded advertisers and agency personnel from Austin, Dallas, Houston, San Antonio and other Texas cities have been invited for weekend and mid-week hunting expeditions during the deer season.

KLAC Gives Big Push in L.A.

Included are facts on the KLAC "Supermarket Plan." The station reports it "delivers mass displays within the markets... creates point of purchase impact..." All these extras are delivered "by the KLAC team," says the station.

WCBS Sends Leather-Bound Digest

WCBS New York has distributed about 500 copies of the "WCBS Radio Data Digest" to agency account executives and buyers, advertiser officials throughout the country, and the staff of CBS Radio Spot Sales. The promotion piece, bound with a leather covering, contains information on the station's programming, personalities, audience, marketing area and merchandising facilities.

Texian Girls Romp at WILS

What happens when a group of station d.j.'s tangle with a team of Texian girls on the basketball court? Top box office, thanks to an unusual public relations effort.

This was demonstrated by WILS Lansing, Mich., when it pitted its d.j. teams against the Texas Cowgirls in the local civic center as part of a double-header that also featured the Harlem Globe Trotters and the Hawaii 50th Stater team. A record 5,100 fans turned out, despite bad weather, for the best attendance at the center in two years, WLS reported. The Cowgirls won, 42-28, but it might have been more lopsided—the WLS group included some recruits from Michigan State U.

Money in The Streets, Via WDGY

There’s money on the street where you live in Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn., thanks to a recent WDGY promotion. Every morning, WDGY’s personality Don Kelly names two winners from the “money streets” selected by Twin Cities, and listeners living on these streets are invited to send their names and addresses to the station. Five envelopes with random addresses are kept at the station, containing amounts from $5 to $100. If a postcard is received from any of these five people, WADY awards each of them $20. The first day this contest was run there were over 100 entries from streets announced, according to WDGY, and two winners collected a total of $50.

Thomas, Gentleman Jim Bradley was created to fill the station’s Monday and early afternoon time schedule as well as to appear for five hours on Sunday afternoon.

Santa’s Helpers Welcome to WAMP

In a pre-Christmas contest at WAMP, Pittsburgh 28 children between the ages of 6 and 12 will win “shopping sprees” in a local department store by completing the sentence, “I want to be Santa’s helper because...”. Co-sponsored by Rosenbaum’s Department Store and promoted on WAMP’s “Rex Dale Show,” the contest offers $250 worth of credit in the store to each of the three top winners. The 25 runners-up will each receive $5 merchandise certificates. All 28 will be treated to lunch, after which they will appear on Mr. Dale’s program.

D.J. Adds Realistic Note

A personal touch of realism was incorporated into a dairy’s commercials on WPBN-TV, Traverse City, Mich. D. J. Ted Simon tied in the live commercials of a local dairy which he also ran away the nation sports cars in exchange for daily cartoon tops, by giving his “pitch” from beside and inside his own real sports car.

More interest has been generated on the subject of fm during the past six months than at any other time during the past three or four years. This long-ignored medium may finally be coming into its own. It is not a moment too soon. For I am convinced that 1959 will be fm's year of decision.

In the past four years I have spent more money in fm than any other national buyer. I continually am asked: "How do you go about buying fm?" and "Is it worthwhile?" I can only offer one conclusive answer: I have spent a great deal of money in fm for just one reason. It works.

Too many people say "fm" but really mean "Good Music." There are some fm managers who will argue this point but they are wasting their time. The simple fact is that the expression "Good Music" relates to both am and fm. It is the difference between the station which exclusively programs classical music and that which does not. Therefore, the obvious difference is the programming, not the facility.

Like most timebuyers I originally came to the conclusion that it was virtually impossible to buy Good Music stations. This was especially true in fm. No matter how many yardsticks you apply, you never arrive at a satisfactory cost-per-thousand. Coverage, in terms of area, is meaningless. The stations' favorite measurement, number of sets in the market, generally is unrealistic.

I was convinced that the Good Music stations had the right kind of audience for the products I was selling, even if I could not find it on paper. The results of the first test schedules were immediate—and astounding. Ten 1-minute announcements on one fm station pulled close to 2,000 postcards in 10 days. This phenomenal success was duplicated in various degrees on the other test stations. As things turned out, the campaign was not to be an isolated success story. During the past four years I have used Good Music stations, both am and fm, for a wide variety of products and each campaign more than paid its own way. True, a great deal depends upon the product. Equally true, however, the audience is there, even if to this very day we are having a tough time trying to prove it.

The only possible way to measure the size and depth of that audience is by making a qualitative survey of its potential size and characteristics.

A very substantial percentage of people who listen to Good Music stations simply cannot be reached by an advertising message in any other way. The degree of selectivity among Good Music people is very high. On the whole they do very little dial twisting. Many subscribe to the station's program guide. These range in cost from $1 up to $4 per year. The total number of program guides sold nationally is unbelievably high. When these people tune in, they listen attentively because they chose to listen.

This, then, is the kind of audience you buy when you buy fm. It is a well-informed, highly educated audience, a highly selective audience, and one whose income to a very large extent is higher than average. It is, in short, a quality audience—and it is a large audience—even if it cannot be found on a slide rule.

The problem boils down to this: How can the fm stations prove they have an audience? Over-simplified, my answer would be: Give them something to sell. If the product matches their specialized audience, they will soon have all the proof you need.

Up to now fm has been just too difficult to buy. There is no steady flow of information—no handy point of reference that reveals availabilities and programming—no day-to-day contact that has become such an important part of today's timebuying. With the exception of Good Music Broadcasters Inc., there is no large organization set up to discuss Good Music am and fm stations on a nation-wide basis, and GMB represents only a handful of stations. Once you get beyond those, you have to dig up every bit of information you need the hard way.

However, despite some obvious faults, fm has been growing at a phenomenal rate. More stations are on the air. Probably 100 more will be operating within the next 18 months. Locally the picture is rosy. Bigger audiences, more revenue. More stations are enjoying their biggest year. This first blush of prosperity, however, will do more harm than good if fm fails to take advantage of its hard won gains.

That is why 1959 will be fm's year of decision—the year when it must go all out to gain recognition as a national advertising medium, or suffer the consequences of its shortsightedness. Even now new surveys and reports are popping up to indicate that stereo will soon by-pass fm. I, for one, doubt very strongly that it will. But the surveys cause comments, and the comments cause confusion, and confusion generally ends in apathy to the whole subject.

If that is not enough, we now also have the unhappy situation of several sources discussing the possibility of forming a nation-wide fm network. Why? If at the present time the stations are finding it difficult to prove to anyone's complete satisfaction that they have a local audience, how are they ever going to justify a national one? In my opinion, a national fm network is not feasible.

If my four happy but harrowing years as a timebuyer and a consultant with fm stations and advertisers mean anything, I would strongly suggest that the station owners play out the cards they now hold. Build a strong station in the market. Program it effectively. Constantly improve it.

To potential advertisers I can only recommend a re-evaluation of attitudes. While fm may be more difficult to buy, it is in my opinion definitely worth the effort. Forget about cost-per-thousand for the present. Judge the medium only by its ability to sell your product. That, in the final analysis, is the only real test. Get all the advice and guidance you can from the stations and take advantage of their specialized format. The audience is there, but it is up to you to make it a responsive one.
Programming for the Public

As any reader of newspapers or magazines knows, television programming is being unmercifully drubbed.

To read recent pieces in Fortune, Newweek, Reader's Digest and more newspapers than we can name is to believe that there is nothing on television but mayhem and mediocrity. There will be more pieces of that kind, and lest the magazines and newspapers run out of material a U.S. Senate committee is preparing to manufacture more. Next month (the exact date hasn't been set) the Senate Commerce Committee will hold hearings in New York on the effect of television rating services.

You can bet that there will be testimony that ratings aren't true measurements of the audience, that the popular programs, as indicated by ratings, aren't really attracting audiences as big as the researchers say, that television's use of ratings leads to imitativeness and hence shallowness in programming.

What has been happening in the magazine and newspaper pieces on TV programming and what we fear will happen during the Senate hearings next month is that persons of higher than average tastes are applying their personal judgments to their analyses of TV programming. They assume that because they personally may not find every television program rewarding the experience is universal. By every statistical method in use, this assumption is inaccurate.

There is no evidence whatever to suggest that the mass of the people are turning off their television sets. The total audience is increasing, and the time the audience spends with television remains at an astonishing peak.

Mass media must attract the mass or go out of business. To be sure, their responsibility does not end with the collection of a large audience. They must also provide a reasonable amount of fare for the minorities and, in realistic degree, endeavor to assist in the general cultural development of the public. In its short history television has been more successful at this complex job than any other medium.

There is no denying that it could do more—particularly in the field of serious journalism. But that is not to say that it has not already done much—so much more than its critics give it credit for.

Golden Opportunity

Time was when broadcasters would man the turrets at the drop of a bureaucratic phrase threatening to impinge upon their right to program as they saw fit. "Censorship," they would loudly proclaim, reacting in the manner of the press, then and now.

But over the years, by default, attrition and legalistic dicta, broadcasters by degrees have accepted program regulation. It has been perpetrated by interpretations of the "public interest, convenience and necessity" clause of the law. Ignored is the clear language of another section of the same law which precludes censorship.

This has come about through acceptance by broadcasters of FCC requirements that stations specify, in their applications for renewal of licenses, the amounts of time devoted to various categories of programming.

Three weeks ago, the FCC issued rulemaking proceedings proposing to modify the renewal forms to make them less onerous in the programming categories. While the proposals admittedly are much better than the existing forms, they nevertheless continue to require data on programming categories and "balance."

Only one member of the Commission—T. A. M. Craven—dis- sented. He feels the programming requirements are both illegal and impractical. He speaks from experience, not only as a two-time member of the FCC, but also as a former broadcaster who knows the vagaries of programming for audiences in wholly different geographical areas. He regards the FCC's imposition of its programming ideas through the category breakdown as a direct violation of the First Amendment and of the anti-censorship provisions of the Communications Act.

This is not the horseback opinion of a neophyte. It is the studied judgment of an able public servant with vast experience in government and industry. Here an opportunity is presented for an all-out test of the law, if broadcasters will accept the challenge.

The time to act is now. Replies to the FCC's rulemaking are due Jan. 19. Perhaps more time is needed to prepare the broad-casters' case. It is an undertaking not for individual stations but for the NAB and perhaps the Federal Communications Bar Assn.

FCC consideration will simply be the start. It will be a long hard pull—perhaps all the way to the Supreme Court. Only that court can clear away the haze and confusion engendered by more than a quarter century of contradictory FCC decisions and court opinions which are in derogation of the First Amendment to the Constitution which guarantees a free press and, by court interpretation, a free radio.

Last Resort

The break in negotiations for new ASCAP music licenses for radio stations, announced a week ago (Lead Story Dec. 8), has to be described as disappointing, especially since it came after only two real sessions between the radio and ASCAP representatives.

If the impasse continues, the issue must surely land in court. In our view, that stop is as yet premature.

This is not to say that the All-Industry Radio Music License Committee should have capitulated to ASCAP's demands, which at best seemed to require a one-year extension of present contracts.

The problem—at the moment—is time. It was Dec. 3 when the negotiators agreed to disagree, and the licenses to be renewed will expire on Dec. 31. The stations had to be kept informed on how to protect their rights in case the negotiations were unsuccessful; they had to be given time to ask questions and be answered, and, all this had to be done in time for them to apply to ASCAP for new licenses before Dec. 31.

So a great deal had to be done in a relatively short period. It can be argued that this notification process could proceed without breaking off negotiations. But it should be remembered that ASCAP took the position that lower rates, which were among the committee's objectives, would come only if the court imposed them. In these circumstances, with time short, a schism can appear "hopeless" when it would seem less formidable at a somewhat greater distance from the deadline.

A rate case in court can be immensely expensive and, quite possibly, fail to pay its own way in terms of concessions won by either side.

At this late date it appears that the only course for the stations is to go ahead, before Dec. 31, and apply to ASCAP for new licenses. This automatically allows 60 additional days to negotiate new terms. While applicant stations may negotiate individually with ASCAP, we would hope that this 60-day grace period would be used by the all-industry committee and the society's representatives to resume their discussions in search of a reasonable agreement.

Even if further negotiation should prove as useless as it appeared on Dec. 3, it deserves a try in circumstances less hurried than the last. The court is always there as the last resort, but that is what it should be—the last resort.
