Foreign entanglement • Is FCC considering new policy to discourage ownership by U.S. broadcasters of interests in foreign stations? Question arises from letter sent to RKO General relating to its agreement with NBC for tax-free swap of Boston-Philadelphia properties and $11.5 million purchase of WRC-AM-FM-TV Washington (BROADCASTING, Feb. 15). Broadcast Bureau inquired about RKO General’s ownership of 89% of CKLW-AM-TV Windsor (Ont.-Detroit, presumably in light of multiple ownership limitation, since RKO now has four vhf stations in U.S. and acquisition of WRC-TV would give it limit of five without Canadian outlet. Incidentally, RKO-NBC deal, including latter’s acquisition of ch. 2 KTVU San Francisco for about $7.5 million is proceeding according to schedule.

Letter, which hasn’t hit public record, originated in Broadcast Bureau and was not sent by order of FCC itself. This is believed first time foreign ownership question has been raised, either in tv or radio. All three tv networks either hold ownership interests in, or have working arrangements with, foreign stations, notably in Latin America—and each network has its five vhf station quota. Several other multiple owners (Bartell and McCow) hold Latin-American interests, and at least one motion picture producer (Paramount) holds Canadian interests through subsidiary. U.S. policy always has been to encourage investments abroad, particularly in Pan-American nations.

Going to press • Television broadcasters and advertisers may take some comfort in word that Federal Trade Commission will broaden its investigations to give other media as much attention as it has been giving tv. FTC is working on plan for massive and continuing study of advertising in 50-60 newspapers around country. Until now FTC has confined newspaper studies to isolated cases turned up by its investigators or by outside complaints.

Hollywood embrace • Paramount Pictures is scouting possibility of working arrangement with Talent Assoc., New York production outfit that Dave Susskind and Al Levy head. If Paramount makes deal, it will succeed where other Hollywood interests have failed. From time to time MGM, Columbia Pictures (through its tv subsidiary, Screen Gems) and 20th Century Fox have made passes at Talent Assoc.

If you can’t lick ‘em . . . • Community antenna operators are moving into tv broadcast field. Latest is Bill Daniels, owner of several catv systems, who has filed for ch. 12 Lamar, Colo., and ch. 3 Gallup, N.M. Earlier Jerrold Electronics filed for ch. 9 Flagstaff, Ariz. There have always been sprinkling of broadcasters in catv ranks: Among others, National Community Television Assn. President A. J. Malin owns WWNH Rochester, N.H., and former NCTA President Martin F. Malarey owns WRTA Altoona, Pa.

Second call • FCC has written letters to 300 derelict licensees who haven’t answered two-part payola questionnaire that Commission sent to all 5,200 licensees. Commission has made no decision as to how long the 300 will be given to answer or what steps will be taken if second letter is ignored. To help FCC in deciding future course, Broadcast Bureau Chief Harold G. Cowgill has compiled comprehensive 63-page legislative history of Sec. 317 of Communications Act. This is provision which requires sponsor identification. [Federal Communications Bar Assn. special committee has also written 28-page report on legislative history of same subject.]

Ford’s chiller • Ford Motor Co. has purchased half-hour Alfred Hitchcock Presents which is moving from CBS-TV to NBC-TV next fall. Program will be sponsored by Ford’s Lincoln-Mercury Div. through Kenyon & Eckhardt. Still in doubt are Ford’s other tv schedules, including Startime now on NBC-TV Tuesdays, 8:30-9:30 p.m. Company traditionally lines up oncoming season’s plans in April.

Home at last • Predictions, “unfixable” quiz being underwritten by Richard Hudnut cosmetics, looks likely for spring debut on ABC-TV. Quiz was announced in January by Hudnut President George Abrams, who noted that it had been reviewed and pronounced unriggable by ex-oversight committee counsel Richard Goodwin. Actually, idea for General Artists Corp. package predates fall quiz scandal, but timing of announcement apparently made network negotiations delicate. Show revolves around current events guessing game with big-money prizes for both studio and home audiences (see BROADCASTING, Jan. 25, page 50).
The distance from WMAL-TV, Washington, D. C., and its affiliated station, WSVA-TV, Harrisonburg, Virginia, is about 120 miles if you ignore the ups and downs of a mountain range you'd have to drive over en route to the rich* Shenandoah Valley. Assume that Ham Shea sets out by auto from WSVA-TV for WMAL-TV the same instant that Fred Houwink and an H-R Television rep. head for WSVA-TV by car. (Their staff work is really much better than that, but we like to personalize these things.) Suppose each travels at a constant 40 miles per hour. Just as Fred pulls away from WMAL-TV a pigeon takes off from his car's radiator, and flies directly at Ham's car, going 150 miles per hour. (This was a fast pigeon.) Once the pigeon reaches its destination, it turns around and heads for Fred's car without loss of speed. It does this repeatedly until the two cars meet.

(1) How far did the pigeon travel?
(2) Who picked up the luncheon check?

Notes on the bringing up of timebuyers • Station representatives play an important role in helping agencies train their fledgling timebuyers, according to Chicago's dean of timebuyers, Edward R. Fitzgerald, broadcast media manager of J. Walter Thompson Co. there. Timebuyers have to start somewhere, he says, and the helpful station representative can save the new buyer many embarrassing moments by anticipating and answering the basic questions before they are asked. His observations are in this week's MONDAY MEMO. Page 16.

Standard bearers • Even before there was a "tv crisis," the industry was turning away sub-standard advertisers and advertising. Most of the decisions are in the hands of three people who clear not only what appears on the tv networks but most of national spot advertising as well. BROADCASTING reports on the network continuity departments; what they do, what they turn away, what their problems are. Page 21.

Self-policing won't clean up ads • Not in the view of Fairfax M. Cone, chairman of the executive committee of Foote, Cone & Belding. He calls for swift, strong action by the Better Business Bureaus, FTC and FCC to curb false advertising in tv and other media. Page 24.

Gambles' tv gambol • Places marketing strategy and more than $250,000 on a regional tv special in a "network" hookup created by BBDO for Gamble-Skogmo. A how-it-was-done report. Page 28.

FTC plans • Law on deceptive tv ads to be determined through litigation. Page 34.

'Doubleteaming' payola • FTC and FCC to exchange any information gained on payola. That would include data from questionnaires sent stations last December. Page 36.

Payola & financial deals • Disc jockey "tells all" about payola, record men bare financial maneuvers and station-distributor record promotion examined by Oversights for past week. Page 40.

Reappointed • President sends name of Comr. Robert E. Lee to Senate for second full seven-year term on FCC. Page 48.

New network high in '59 • Gross time billing went over the $627.3 million mark, a gain of 10.7%; ABC-TV alone went up 22% and CBS-TV with $266.3 million was the top billing tv network. Page 54.

State roundup • Forty-five state associations represented in NAB's advance registration for Feb. 24-25 conference of state association presidents, to be held at Shoreham Hotel, Washington. Page 58.

Summer rates • WTOP-TV Washington announces new rates. They're higher in winter, lower in summer. Page 62.

Foreign fantasy? • CBS Films' Baruch warns that profits are not so plush in overseas sales of U.S. tv product as one would be led to believe. Page 66.

Harris, d.j. Clayton lock horns at probe

House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) and WHDH-AM-TV Boston disc jockey Bob Clayton emerged at loggerheads Friday during latter's testimony on whether "so-called hit tunes and questionable" tunes—as Rep. Harris described them—on radio can be stopped by disc jockeys themselves.

Rep. Harris testified disc jockeys could stop playing such records. But Mr. Clayton flatly contradicted this, saying public makes ultimate choice and broadcaster who doesn't compete with other stations for what people like finds himself running "charity" operation.

Rep. Harris also hinted disc jockeys should publicly acknowledge existence of payola (presumably on their programs) instead of making "slurring remarks" about subcommittee's investigations. He said it would take only "30 seconds."

Mr. Clayton denied he had anything to do with causing record artists appearing on his shows to sign statements saying they had received payment when they had not. WHDH doesn't have talent budget, he said, and record companies, etc., are responsible for paying AFTRA scale for appearances on WHDH-AM-TV shows.

"Never Took Payola" • Mr. Clayton also denied he ever received payola, but admitted accepting total of $400 as Christmas gifts and color TV set from record distributors or makers. He also hotly denied he had ever required exclusive use of new record releases in Boston area as condition to playing records.

Mr. Clayton defended last year's Miami disc jockey convention, saying seminars were serious in tone and he returned to Boston with six-inch stack of profitable notes. He said WHDH-TV began making payments for artists' appearances last Nov. 28, after station-union dispute in which AFTRA threatened to brand his show as "unfair."

He said nobody has tried to give payola to him since one tried it in 1956 and he reported it to WHDH Manager William McGrath, who returned check.

WILD Boston disc jockey Joe Smith acknowledged taking several hundred dollars from manufacturers and distributors, but said he never committed himself or favored records of givers in return, though he felt payments were made in "appreciation" to him for airing.

He also acknowledged receiving 4¢ or 5¢ royalty from Dale Records for sales in Boston area. Bandleader Sammy Kaye is one of Dale owners. He said he also accepted 2¢ royalty for Boston area sales from Coed Records, including one tune on which ABC-TV star Dick Clark held copyright.

Complaints • Irving Lewis, New York AFTRA official, said he received 15-20 complaints in 1959 from artists that they weren't paid for appearing on Mr. Clayton's WHDH show, but all kept names anonymous for fear of reprisal. One artist did identify himself and was paid by Coral Records through Boston's Mutual Distributors.

Irving Goldstein, general manager, Mutual Distributors, Boston, discussed transactions with WMEX Boston on latter's "golden platter" promotion (story page 40) and payments to disc jockeys.

In morning session, Donald DuMont, DuMont Record Distributing Corp., Boston, acknowledged few payments to disc jockeys not disclosed previously to subcommittee. He denied conspiring with d.j.s and others to fabricate non-payola reasons for having made payments.

He said DuMont paid from (petty cash) four recording artists to appear on WHDH-TV Boston and denied charge he had withheld payments and got artists to sign receipts showing they were paid $40 union scale. He admitted signing blank receipts for his promotion man's use and later admitted to "doubts" whether money was paid.

Kintner named
President Eisenhower Friday (Feb. 19) recommended reappointment of Federal Trade Commissioner Earl W. Kintner as member of FTC. Appointment, subject to Senate confirmation, is for full seven-year term. Mr. Kintner is now serving unexpired term of former FTC Commissioner John W. Gwynne which expires in September. Mr. Kintner, Princeton, Ind., Republican, is career FTC employee; he joined trade commission in 1948 as trial attorney, was appointed general counsel in 1953 and as commissioner and chairman last June.

 Freedoms Foundation awards in radio-tv

Walt Disney Productions and WRCV-TV Philadelphia, sharing with First Presbyterian Church, Germantown, Pa., won top Freedoms Foundation Awards in presentation today (Feb. 22) at Valley Forge, Pa. Disney's award topped general broadcast category and was for three ABC-TV Disneyland programs, "The Boston Tea Party," "The Shot Heard Around The World" and "The Swamp Fox." WRCV's First Presbyterian award was in spiritual values category for "Land Where Our Fathers Died" episode of Hope for the World series.

Build or quit, 54 uhf permittees are told

Uhf permittees who have not started building their stations were told by FCC Friday (Feb. 19) to get busy forthwith or have their construction permits revoked and call letters deleted. In letter to 54 such uhf stations which have applied for extension of time to build, Commission stated:

"It appears that delay in construction has been due ... to your voluntary decision to postpone construction because of your belief that the proposed station could not succeed financially under present economic conditions. On this basis, the Commission is unable to find that you have been diligent in proceeding with the construction. Therefore, the Commission has concluded that a grant of your application would not be warranted.'

Permittees were ordered to reply within 30 days. Failure to answer, FCC said, will result in immediate dismissal of pending applications, cancellation, and deletion of call letters.

Since decision not to build stations in most cases is voluntary, Commission said, most that permittees who want to retain grant can expect is oral argument before FCC en banc. If there are other facts, stations so showing will be given full evidentiary hearing, FCC stated.

This is first official action—a far more forceful FCC has taken against uhf permittees since ultimate in 1956 ordering 83 stations to explain why they were making no effort to go on air (Broadcasting, Nov. 26, 1956).

At that time, stations replied responsibility was Commission's to provide formula for successful uhf operation in competition with vhf (Broadcasting, Feb. 25, 1957). Some 10 stations were deleted at that time.

Permittees receiving latest FCC letter (with call and uhf channel number):

Latin tv net set

Formation of Central America Television Network, covering five tv stations in that area, announced Friday (Feb. 19) in New York to gathering of agency executives interested in that market. Network is to begin operation in six to eight weeks with Class A one-hour rate of $575. Network will be owned 51% by ABC Div. of American Broadcasting-Paramount Theaters and remainder by participating stations.

Advertisers will be able to buy time on all five stations under combination rates, according to Donald Coyle, ABC vice president in charge of ABC International Div. Affiliated stations are: YSB- TV El Salvador; TG-BOL-TV Guatemala; KRTG - TV Honduras; YNSA-TV Nicaragua and Television de Costa Rica. Combined set ownership was placed at 50,000 “and increasing.” Network will use film shows from all sources, including ABC-TV.

WDRG to drop CBS

WDRG Hartford, Conn., acquired by Buckley-Jaeger Broadcasting Corp. last July, has terminated its affiliation agreement with CBS Radio effective in six months. Station will place emphasis on regional and local programming. CBS Radio has not yet selected new affiliate in area.

That's a fancy title for a high-voltage condenser but it dramatizes one responsibility of radio as the most far-reaching of all means of mass communication. The real fighters on our last frontier — the limits of human knowledge — are the scholars and teachers of our great universities.

But when did you last have the opportunity to learn from any one of them? Your answer will tell you why KRLA presents "Seminar" each Sunday morning at 10:30, a specially-produced half-hour with representatives of five universities summarizing the newest in every field of study.
Every night, seven nights a week, at eleven o'clock, an average of 923,000 homes tune to reports of the news and weather on WRCA-TV. This is the largest audience reached by any local daily news program on any television station in the world! Providing comprehensive insight into events of the day, city-wide and world-wide, is another WRCA-TV service that marks true leadership in America's Number One Market.

MONDAY MEMO
from EDWARD R. FITZGERALD, broadcast media manager and senior timebuyer, J. Walter Thompson Co., Chicago

Notes on the bringing up of timebuyers

Timebuyers have to start somewhere. I'll never forget 11 years ago when I took over a group of six buyers just how valuable several station representatives proved to be to me.

Since then, I've always had a warm spot in my heart for station representatives. At every opportunity I have al- ways told my associates, my superiors, our clients and especially our account representatives how important a part station representatives play in any successful advertising campaign.

The station reps helped me get off the ground when the agency picked me to try my wings in timebuying supervision.

Frankly, the new work left me breathless. I didn't know a watt from a spot and the climate in the department, with an outsider heading up the group, was hardly lukewarm. But then, three gentlemen from the station rep ranks came to my aid.

Tribute • In the past year two of them have left the scene; one by death and one by retirement. Thank God the other is still around, because when he goes, maybe I will, too. Perhaps you are curious as to their identity and naturally I hope you are because over the years these men have created in me the fondest affection and respect I believe to be possible in a business association. Paul Ray of John Blair Co. was a pillar in my early days of broadcast; Joan Ash- enhurst of Edward Petry Co. and Art Bagge of Peters, Griffin & Woodward, are the others.

Time and again these men were called in to counsel with me; not at the same time, rarely on the same problem, because individually any one of them could capably represent the spot radio and/or television field.

Timebuyers have to start somewhere. The average station representative has years of experience on the average timebuyer. This beginner is usually bright and anxious to learn, so we always assign a more experienced buyer to work with the newcomer, to help him learn to think like an advertising man until he is far enough along to handle problems on his own. But during this breaking-in time he'll learn much from the station representatives with whom he is having contact. Even though the responsibility for his early training and throughout his timebuying career is ours, in reality we share it to some extent with many helpful station representatives.

Take the well publicized Kellogg spot TV campaign initiated and engineered by Chicago station representatives in 1958. It took good salesman- ship—from the representatives and from their inside salesmen, the media people. How many buyers, because of their training, would have bought (and sold) the idea?

Generally, agencies seem to have a tremendous turnover of timebuyers. Fortunately, turnover at Thompson is at a minimum. This is true in all departments and in all of our offices. Among the reps turnover is high, but they tell us it's probably much higher among timebuyers. There are a lot of reps who complain of quality. But they shouldn't if they are doing their share of the training.

History and Math • To beginners, the most important department is history. All availabilities tend to look alike at first. New timebuyers need station history, program history, personality history to differentiate. Reps can save themselves and us from bad buys by brushing up their history and letting us in on as much background as they can. And don't forget a little history from time to time would help older buyers to brush up once in a while, too.

Edward R. Fitzgerald b. Sept. 24, 1914, Chicago. He's been with JWT for nearly 24 years, moving up through ranks from financial department through print traffic to timebuying. Among accounts he services: Schlitz, Seven-Up, Murine, Elgin, Johnson Motors, Kraft, Libby, Quaker Oats and Sealy. Today he's regarded as "dean" of Chicago timebuyers. The Fitzgeralds live in Rogers Park.

There really aren't many different kinds of mathematical manipulations in timebuying and yet we see some pretty wild number-handling by inexperienced people. For instance, a lot of research tends to play up "tops." But NO! position doesn't always qualify the station for a schedule or reveal the significant facts that our own appraisal indicates. Therefore, the chances are such data may not influence our judgments or decisions. There are many times when reps, too, can help new buyers learn the few math ideas needed. Once they know the rules, they'll know when to break them.

The only thing coincidental about some surveys is their resemblance to fact. Reps can give young buyers the benefit of their experience to save them future embarrassment. This will help save them from being chewed up by the lions.

Beginners like reps who don't make them ask basic questions. Rate cards look mysterious, so reps should expect questions on how to cost different combinations. A sharp rep can sense how much a new buyer knows and without making him ask stupid questions will delicately lead from one to another and can provide the in-depth background needed for efficient buys.

First Impressions • Needless to say, reps shouldn't take advantage of newness—the new buyer will be around longer than the old; and they remember.

Most new timebuyers have some college business training and most colleges now use the case method. That is, they take a specific problem, say one that looks like a packaging snag, and try to analyze it in terms of all areas of business. They're taught that packaging interacts with financing, advertising, sales organization, production—you name it. In media terms the timebuyer trained this way thinks his 10-spot buy on Fal- con affects everything but Miss Ford's debut. Reps can help him learn more and more about clients so as to see a buy as part of an overall, far-reaching problem, not as an isolated decision in a business vacuum.

Daily Examinations • Exams come daily and beginners need to cram fast. Reps can be a good faculty adviser, somebody that we unconsciously call for counsel. Graduation will mean getting a timebuyer beyond the basics, with a sound backing of fact, so he can appre- ciate the creative sell we see in so many presentations today.
Our time is different. First, it is spent in careful programming to the widest practical variety of tastes and needs of our nearly 700,000 television families. Second, our accent is on quality. We believe that that variety and quality make the difference...not only in the superior merit of our programming but in the size and composition of the audiences which regularly enjoy it.

When an advertiser buys time in the Maryland Market, this difference will make a positive difference to him—a difference in the attention his message will receive...a difference in the wide variety of needs of those who will watch it...a difference in the buying power motivated as a result of it.

"All times are not alike..." the poet philosopher says. At WBAL-TV 11 in Baltimore, the difference shows in the positive effect our time has on the Maryland Market.

Perspective '60
EDITOR: Your issue of Feb. 15 (Perspective '60) is a virtuoso performance! I cannot recall any other single issue containing so much great reporting, so much "must" reading, about so many and varied facets of our industry. Bravo!—Ed Code, Vice President, Katz Agency, New York.

Harris group doing it
EDITOR: Let me congratulate you on your editorial in Broadcasting Feb. 15. I have never read an editorial that comes closer to what I would say about the Oren Harris Oversight Committee. I fully believe that the radio and television industry is being abused over the action of possibly one tenth of one percent of those working for it. ...—Nat L. EDITOR: TV on the whole need apologize to no one for its public service programming. Certainly there is room for continued improvement, just as there is room for improvement in medicine, in education, in public morals, in manufacturing processes, etc. ... Let me offer belated congratulations on the statesmanship you have shown throughout this entire debate. —William H. Weldon, President, KRCG(TV) Jefferson City, Mo.

FCC rules and abuses
EDITOR: ... Honestly, what more regulation do we need? Payola has always been against the rules and all the FCC need do to stop the rigging is add a section entitled "Non-Mechanical reproductions" and include [pertinent wording as now contained] under Sec. 3.118(b) with appropriate additional phrases referring to such falsifications. If they now can outlaw falsifications of recorded programs, why can they not do likewise with non-mechanical reproductions or productions, without further Congressional action?—Edward W. A BIG JOB: KEEPING AD COPY CLEAN

The behind-scenes story of the way three TV networks screen thousands of advertisements a week to protect the public

"You don't like the ads on TV? You should have seen the ones we didn't run!"

The remark was made by the head of a TV network continuity department. Though uttered strictly in a joking vein, it reflects a hard reality that has been overlooked by many in the current controversy over TV advertising:

- The TV industry, through existing self-regulation, each year turns down millions of dollars in advertising it feels unsuitable for its air, and, perhaps more to the point, either eliminates or forces modification of hundreds of ads that don't meet its standards.

These commercials were not broadcast on TV:

- A laxative ad that compared the human colon with a railroad roundhouse.
- A beer commercial that stressed the product's non-caloric and nonfattening attributes.
- A commercial in a children's program which offered a picture of a bosomy babe as a premium.
- A soap commercial featuring an "over-exposed" model in a shower.
- Ads for a proprietary product whose counter displays, citing "as advertised on TV," made claims not permissible on the network.
- Commercials for a personal product which although not in itself harmful, might have led users to neglect medical attention.

These are but a few of the commercials and copy treatment that don't make it across the desk of network continuity departments. They are joined by countless others that never get in the door, banned specifically by the NAB's TV Code provisions (see below), to which all the networks subscribe.

Three in the Saddle - To a large degree, responsibility for what appears in television commercials rests with the three continuity acceptance directors of the networks: Grace Johnsen at ABC, Herb Carlborg at CBS and Stockton Helffrich at NBC. Their departments pass on every commercial that appears either on their networks or their owned-and-operated stations.

By extension, they rule on almost all commercials which appear in national spot. As a matter of policy, major agencies check first with the networks before they put a commercial into spot. If the network will take it, they reason, it's likely to make it everywhere else.

There's an economic as well as aesthetic reason behind this. Finished commercials cost money. If they're not acceptable, better to find out in the storyboard stage than when they're in the can. Also, a spot commercial campaign is likely to be run on an O&O somewhere, and many move from spot to network after their test market runs.

The three networks scrutinize well over 100,000 individual commercials a year. ABC puts its total at about 3,000 a month. NBC in 1959 cleared 3,500 film commercials for local accounts in Chicago, Los Angeles and New York alone. Last Thursday, 118 commercials cleared through NBC's continuity office in New York, 113 of them for network use. CBS establishes its workload as "in the many thousands," although the work is handled on both coasts, the lion's share of traffic passes through New York.

Clearing the Commercial • Almost universally, the first thing a network does when it's offered a new account is to check it with the Better Business Bureau. Not only does it check for any complaints about the product itself, but also about the reputation and standing of the advertiser.

Step 2 is with Federal Trade Commission and the Food & Drug Administration sources when applicable, to see if there have been citations against the advertiser or his product. If a commercial should be cited after it

On guard at networks • Two men and a woman wield make-or-break power over thousands of commercials submitted to them every week for screening. The three, who handle continuity acceptance functions at the major networks, are (l-r) Grace Johnsen, ABC; Herb Carlborg, CBS, and Stockton Helffrich, NBC. Their careful review of advertising copy as well as routine checks of company business records, protect viewers from large numbers of commercials, catching the objectionable copy frequently before it ever gets into production. NAB, as the industry's trade association, operates an extensive code structure based on ethical rules and an after-the-fact check of what goes on the air. Actually, NAB's code operation includes frequent informal contacts that sway decisions to use or abandon copy claims.
AFA's new self regulation procedure

Each club is to establish an advertising ethics committee to develop and direct a pledge of ethics for advertising in the area. The pledge will be distributed to all advertisers, agencies or media in the area to obtain full compliance. Names of signers will be published.

Ad club members will be asked to report all violations of ethical advertising to their own ethics committee and in turn to the BBB. endeavoring to halt abuses by conferences outside BBB. If local club action is ineffectual, the report will be in the hands of BBB which will make "normal contacts with the advertiser in an effort to secure compliance.

AFA hopes the local BBB review board will handle the problem. A procedure effective in Cleveland is based on a review panel manned by many ad club members. If all this fails, the next step is prosecution by the BBB. Ad clubs are advised to send complaints of offensive advertising to AFA headquarters, where a national ethics group will consider further action. In cities lacking a BBB unit, AFA will supply plans for a vigilance committee.

Morton J. Simon, Philadelphia lawyer and counsel for AFA, advised Media Research Assn. in New York Feb. 17 that "the spines of people who hate advertising are going to stiffen" during the election year. He found significance in this aspect of recent Washington hearings: "All the witnesses testified that the American system of commercial broadcasting is the best," he said. He predicted Congress will "be especially hard on the reliance placed on ratings," adding that he believes Congress "will be reasonably sensible about things."

More Problems • Not the least of the difficulties facing all network continuity is consistency—or lack of it. Especially when questions reach the subjective level, a case may arise in which a West Coast official clears a certain technique that the East Coast rules against. The same applies among the different networks themselves. When one network accepts a particular product or commercial, agencies quite often will use that clearance to try to persuade the others. When the commercial involved may represent several millions in billings, economic pressures on the holdouts can be substantial. This situation has caused some to suggest the need for more definitive standards jointly shared by all networks, removing the product and commercial acceptance aspects from the competitive arena.

Although it is difficult to rule on code or standards grounds, the networks make every effort to discourage the "negative sell"—that which points up the unpleasant consequences of not using a product, rather than the pleasant consequences of using it.

That the network continuity departments have not achieved perfection in conforming to all that their many publics demand is evident in the current storm which surrounds their work, as well as in the management efforts being expended to tighten operations still further. But there's at least a backhand compliment to their efforts inherent in one of their sorest problems: Persuading a new-to-tv advertiser that what he got away with in another medium just won't go in tv.

How NAB Operates • Self-regulation appears on the network, another investigation is started. If the network feels there's a question about it, the commercial is dropped. If on the other hand they're assured the first clearance still stands, the network adopts an "innocent until proven guilty" position and lets the commercial run pending official disposition of the case.) After touching these bases, things get more complicated. The networks require substantiation, in writing, of all claims for the product, including laboratory tests and verification of all endorsements. Disinterested parties, like the American Medical Assn., may be consulted. If that doesn't satisfy them, they'll look it over themselves. Once assured the product will do what it claims to do, then the network goes on to the commercial itself.

Quite often this investigation starts with shooting scripts and storyboards. After elimination of the more obvious violations of code or network standards, questions usually have been reduced to matters of (1) taste or (2) treatment. And now the shooting starts. In both areas guidelines become highly subjective, and the network continuity expert must rely as best he can on precedent and common sense.

The Problem Cases • The three network continuity departments, though independent, are in general agreement on most points. One is that proprietary products, as a category, cause the most grief, and their comparative selling techniques are the most troublesome.

When an advertiser starts knocking his competitor, or trying to show the advantage of his product over a competitor's, two things happen: (1) shading of the facts involved in the comparison and (2) magnification of the differences between the products. This can lead to such complaints as that in a medical journal against the speed claims of a headache remedy—the difference in speed between two products amounted to four seconds.

But even in more difficult areas the networks usually are able to reach a compromise. Actual turn downs because of inability to agree on how to handle a product which itself is acceptable number only several hundred a year.

Demonstrations, too, are a problem, although not as great as the comparative selling angle. Recent FTC citations in this area have intensified network activities and led to some new requirements. Now all demonstrations must be subjected to the same standards which previously were concerned mainly with the product itself. NBC's Heffrich puts it this way: "It's not poetic license we're after. We want only to insure that commercials are devoid of any artifice which materially misrepresents the facts." The general attitude is that there's no question about using a substitute for ice cream that will stand up under the lights during filming of a commercial. But there's definitely a question about using such a substitute to demonstrate the texture of the ice cream. Dramatizations, particularly the "white coat" kind that once were prevalent in tv commercials, are less a problem then before. There still are doctors in commercials, but they're actual ones, not actors posing as medical men.

22 (LEAD STORY—BROADCAST ADVERTISING)
A. C. Nielsen recently studied his entire New York sample, both Audimeter and Recordimeter — Audilog homes, and found "no significant difference" between the kind of people who watch WPIX-11—New York's leading Independent station—and New York's leading Network station.

The Nielsen "WPIX AUDIENCE PROFILE" study provides a direct comparison of audiences for the prime qualitative categories of:

- FAMILY INCOME
- HOME OWNERSHIP
- AUTOMOBILE OWNERSHIP
- SIZE OF FAMILY
- AGE OF HOUSEWIFE
- OCCUPATION, HEAD OF HOUSEHOLD

from 7:00-11:00 PM, seven nights a week. Qualitatively they are equal.

As Nielsen states: "NONE OF THE COMPARISONS YIELDED A SIGNIFICANT DIFFERENCE!"

The "content" of a rating point on WPIX-11 and the top network-station in New York is the same! Nielsen proved that incomes, home ownership, ages, jobs, etc. follow identical patterns. The reason is logical and understandable. WPIX-11 is programmed like a Network station with network-proven and network-quality shows every half-hour, every night. This WPIX-11 "network look" brings increased sales impact to your commercial messages — makes them more receptive, more effective, more productive.

Where are your 60-second commercials tonight!

of advertising through the industry's trade association, National Assn. of Broadcasters, takes two forms. First, the NAB Television Code; second, the NAB Standards of Good Practice for Radio Broadcasters.

The tv code has been strengthened recently to cover quiz rigging and related practices in direct language. Similar language has been added to the radio standards.

Enforcement machinery is inherent in the tv code, with station subscribers deprived of the code seal for violations. This is done by NAB Television Board action after informal complaint procedure has been followed through the NAB Code Review Board. In June, 1959 the TV Board pulled the seal from 13 station subscribers that carried commercials for Preparation H, a hemor-rhoid remedy not permitted under the "intimate personal products" section of the tv code. A dozen or so other stations resigned from the code rather than give up the Preparation H business.

The radio standards contain language generally similar to the tv code but there is no enforcement of punitive machinery involved. Both, of course, are purely voluntary.

Steps to strengthen both structures will be submitted to the NAB board at its March 9-11 meeting in Washington.

Back and Forth •  TV code enforcement at NAB Washington headquarters is directed by Edward H. Bronson and Harry Ward. Both have extensive broadcast experience. They shuttle to New York, keep in touch with an elaborate monitoring setup, contact the network clearance units and acquaint Donald H. McGannon, Westinghouse stations who is code board chairman, with current developments. They remain close to E. K. Hartenbower, KCMO-TV Kansas City, chairman of the code group's personal products subcommittee.

There's no way of tabulating the results of their activity. The two comment informally and interpret code language via telephone, luncheon and Manhattan liaison. Recently there have been signs that major networks weren't entirely happy with the NAB-network liaison [broadcasting, Feb. 15]. Since last summer the NAB proctors have been developing closer contact with Assn. of National Advertisers and American Assn. of Advertising Agencies. An NAB West Coast code office services the tv film production center in Los Angeles.

SELF-POLICING WON'T CLEAN UP ADS

So Fairfax Cone says, calling for action by FTC, FCC and BBB

Strong, swift action by the Better Business Bureaus on the local scene and the Federal Trade Commission and the FCC on the national scene to stamp out false and deceptive advertising was called for last week by Fairfax M. Cone, chairman of the executive committee of Foote, Cone & Belding.

"Talk of self-policing leaves me very cold," he told the Los Angeles Advertising Club in a luncheon talk Tuesday. While dwelling chiefly on the current dilemma in television, his feelings ranged to cover all media.

"There is no confusion in my mind about honesty in advertising. Nor do I think there can be degrees of honesty. Honesty and dishonesty are like white and black. And the grays all represent the latter," he said.

BBB, FTC and FCC "have all the power that is required," he said. "My only question about them has been why they have been so quiet and so painfully slow (as with cigarette advertising)."

Mr. Cone also offered some sweeping (though "tentative") proposals for reforms in television programming to improve the cultural level, equalize advertiser costs in line with actual listener "circulation" and conserve creative talent which is being used up "much faster than it can be recruited." His suggestions:

- Change the present 26-week alternate sponsorship pattern (actually 24 weeks, since the networks pre-empt two programs for "specials") so that four of each 24 programs are rescheduled with other than the regular features. Thus, if the advertiser's "regular program feature is Have Gun or Danny Thomas or Red Skelton, he would have 20 of these, scheduled five-in-a-row, with every sixth program devoted to political discussions, scientific developments, adventures in the arts or whatever might be developed for intellectual viewing." This would produce 1 1/2 hours of such shows each night (half-hour on each network).

- Advertisers possibly would find such a plan acceptable "if only the price for the programs of narrower interest were made commensurate with the audiences delivered." Actually, he said, "the only question I see here is whether the networks and the stations will willingly decrease their take. So far they have been unwilling to do this."

("Advertisers pay the same amount for time for a 15-rating show that they pay for a 30-rating program. And this, you know, is going to change.")

- Take all this week's programming, save the news, and "play them again next week." The alternate-week rerun plan would curb excessive creative drain and permit program improvement since 3,000 hours of annual nighttime programming would be reduced to 1,500 hours. Further, "instead of every program viewed eliminating two other programs where the time is the same, there would be an opportunity to view two out of every three programs broadcast."

- Taste and Tv Ads • Mr. Cone had something to say about "taste" in tv advertising too. "Fortunately, it is something that we can do something about. It requires no outside committee or commission."

One single thing governs taste in tv commercials, Mr. Cone said. "It is to remember that there are no three-inch advertisements in television. There are only full pages; or, better still, double trucks."

Mr. Cone said the "television experience is total."

He found it interesting "to compare the products that bother most people in television with the product advertising in newspapers and magazines. I can assure you that these are the same. The only difference is that they are only a part of what is there when you turn a page. You may actually never see them."

"In television there is no such freedom. You can't overlook what fills the Fairfax Cone talks about tv programs and ads

Here are some of the pungent observations made Tuesday by Fairfax Cone, chairman of the executive committee of Foote, Cone & Belding, before the Los Angeles Advertising Club:

- "Television has been a business to make money in, and not, primarily, a way to serve. This is wrong."
- "Exactly how broadcasting and advertising will answer their critics . . . I can't be sure." The Doerfer plan (FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer) whereby the networks will program cultural shows regularly in prime evening time "may be a beginning," but he deplored the fact it "came out of what seems to be an agreement with the FCC to trade-up television."
- "Let us decry the notion that any committee or commission is any more necessary to responsible television broadcasting than to the responsible theatre or the movies or the press. I know there are differences in these various means of communication. But I can't believe there is any difference at all in the accountability that each one has to itself and to its audience, to the public it serves, to be free."
- "The fact remains that it is everybody's air that the broadcasters and the advertisers are using. If, as I believe, they are satisfying a large majority in their use of this air today, there is another group, a minority, that has some rights tomorrow. . . . This minority . . . has been overlooked, or over-ridden, until its cause has become an intellectual and political cause through our neglect together."
- "The things most critics object to in television are things that hold up all the other mass media of communications, the western movies, crime stories in newspapers, popular fiction in magazines, and the sex and sadism of the paper-back novels. These are the great attractions in each field. . . . Altogether, this is why I cannot easily agree that television is at odds with the public taste."
- "The truth is that there is no advertising hold on programming. What there is, is a clear-cut preference by the majority of television viewers for regular programs of the type that make up the top of the Nielsen list. And advertisers buy these to talk to every one they can; just as they buy space in Reader's Digest and Life and Look and The Saturday Evening Post, and the Sunday supplements for the largest circulations available."

screen without turning away from that screen altogether."

Noting there are "certain subjects and certain products that are not discussed in detail and described, ever, in polite society," Mr. Cone felt "our networks and our stations should refuse advertisers and agents the right to introduce these anywhere and in any way that would be distasteful at a dinner table.

"There are some things that don't belong on television; and only an idiot or a money-grubber could fail to know precisely what these are."

Mr. Cone felt the "tasteless people in our business" can be dealt with effectively by those who uphold ad quality. "We can refuse to play in the same company. And when some General Foods and General Mills and General Electrics and Carnations and Purexes do this, their bad taste in tv commercials will be no problem."

Confusion and Compromise - Mr. Cone said he felt that the "belated proposals of the Assn. of National Advertisers for an advertising advisory council was the result of confusion and compromise." He also felt the interchange plan suggested by the American Assn. of Advertising Agencies "is slow and uncertain; it depends on sweetness and reason and logical persuasion."

Mr. Cone claimed dishonest advertising is "rarely amenable to any of these, or it wouldn't have been made in the first place. Somebody has to be tough to get rid of it; and who could possibly do this better than the duly constituted bodies?"

The FC&B official said, "I think it will take the law; just as it takes the law to put down other invasions of private property and personal rights by thieves and swindlers."

At another point, Mr. Cone noted incidentally that FC&B and one of its clients have been cited by FTC for a commercial "that the FTC believes fails to prove its promise. I tell you this because someone who doesn't know me very well may think that what I have said was in part butter for the FTC bread. But I assure you that it isn't."

"We hope to get an FTC reversal. Indeed, we expect to, because there was no intent to deceive. But however we fare in this instance makes no difference in the total picture."

"We need the FTC strong. And we need it successful."

Media not immune from ad responsibility

The public and moral responsibility of advertisers to the public must be shared by all media—newspapers, magazines and broadcasting—FCC Chairman Earl W. Kintner told the New York chapter of the Public Relations Society of America last Tuesday (Feb. 16).

Mr. Kintner also warned that media are not immune from responsibility for deceptive advertising. He said he hopes that the FTC "never will find it necessary to make any publishing medium, printed or broadcasting, party respondent in a deceptive advertising case."

If the FTC does its job under existing law and the advertising industry "does a proper job of self-regulating, then this serious step need not be taken," he stated. Wherever we can extend our effectiveness through cooperation and voluntary compliance, we try to do so," he added.

Although the FTC has not yet joined the publishing medium as a party respondent, Mr. Kintner pointed out that there is no express statutory exemption for media.

In discussing the FTC's stepped up efforts to meet "a serious trade regulation law enforcement problem," Mr. Kintner mentioned that prior to the congressional investigation of tv quiz shows, the Commission received each month from 20 to 25 letters of complaint covering television or radio commercials and about 175 letters on printed advertisements. When complaint letters, including those concerning printed advertisements, he said, jumped to almost 1,000 per month, "plus hundreds and hundreds I have personally received," the Commission launched a crash program to re-evaluate fairly the scope and extent of false, deceptive and misleading advertising. The Commission, he continued, has become a nerve center for the receipt of complaints from the public, the dispatch of guides for compliance with the law to the industry, and the institution of legal proceedings where they are called for. Mr. Kintner had good words to say of the broadcast industry's attack on the problem of deceptive advertising: "... Nor is there any doubt in my mind that the radio and television broadcasting industry is engaged in a good-faith, massive effort to clean its house in the same respect, to maintain public goodwill and approval of the advertising being broadcast over these media."

BROADCASTING, February 22, 1960 25
AD CLINIC DIAGNOSES RADIO-TV

But west coast group can't decide whether the patient is sick

Broadcast programming and advertising were attacked and defended with equal vehemence at the second annual Broadcast Advertising Clinic of the Hollywood Ad Club held Wednesday (Feb. 17) in Hollywood. But when the club's awards for the best commercials of radio and television for the past year were played at the luncheon session, everyone agreed with Thomas Freebairn-Smith, executive secretary of Academy of TV Arts and Sciences, that they were outstanding examples of "good taste, good entertainment, good salesmanship."

There was less agreement, particularly among the broadcasters in the audience, with the suggestion of the luncheon speaker, Douglas Anderson, partner in the Los Angeles advertising agency of Anderson-McConnell, that the most-needed contribution they could make to advertising would be to raise their commission to agencies from 15% to 20%.

Mr. Anderson said that the raise could be gradual, 1% every six months starting May 1 of this year. Broadcasters could easily absorb such increased commissions, he commented, by tight-ening their operating expenses or cutting down on the fees paid to their sales representatives. He said such a move might double the profits of the agencies receiving them. The result would be two-fold: Improved advertising, as the agencies could then afford to employ better people, and increased business for the stations.

The agency executive made his proposal after chiding the station operators for scheduling so many spots and becoming so rich that they no longer bother to say "thank you" for a $1 million order. Both the criticism and the suggestion for higher commissions were couched in language similar to that of his self-assigned topic: "Can Broadcasters Become Millionaires and Still be the Same Old Loveable You?" The remarks were delivered with a joviality that left many listeners in doubt as to just how serious Mr. Anderson was. He did nothing to clear up this doubt.

"Criminal Assault" • There was no doubt, however, that Marvin Cantz, partner in another Los Angeles advertising agency, Tilds & Cantz, was deadly serious when he charged some broadcasters with a "criminal assault" against the public and the advertiser in their misuse of "stagnant air for the reckless pursuit of listeners and viewers." Stating that "advertising depends largely on the public's attitude toward the medium that carries it," Mr. Cantz described good programming as not a "formula" but an "attitude, a responsible attitude by those who determine how and what is communicated to the audience and, equally important, what is not." An awareness of their responsibility to the public, an attitude of respect for the ambitions and hopes of the individual, the community, the nation, and a clear understanding of the proper advertising climate so essential in today's competitive economy, will give broadcast media the substance, purpose and maturity it desperately needs," he declared.

Neil Reagan, vice president of McCann-Erickson, called for a greater use in broadcast advertising of the "personal approach, the most comprehensive and effective form of human communications." It is particularly important in radio and television, he said, because the "broadcast message goes to a non-captive individual with unlimited freedom to accept, reject or ignore. It must overcome inertia and indifference."

"The personal approach is most likely to succeed when it is directed from personality to personality," he stated.

Good news for program producers who prepare some 200 pilot programs each year with only a dozen or so ever materializing into tv series was offered by Bud Stefan, head of BBDO's Hollywood office. Four of his agency's clients, he said, are telling producers exactly what their programming requirements are and are helping to finance the pilots. He said that, with video tape, such advertiser-producer cooperation could spread from network tv into regional and local campaigns, noting that it is a healthy and hopeful sign when advertisers begin thinking about the right kind of programs instead of only ratings.

Responsibilities • Asked to discuss "The Broadcaster's New Responsibilities," a panel of station executives agreed that there are no new responsibilities, just the same ones they have always had, only "now they're on page one." Stations are responsible to their audiences, their advertisers, their owners, the FCC and the FTC, they said. But the panel members agreed that if they gave their listeners and viewers the best possible service, they would also be serving all the others. Robert Light, president, Southern California Broadcasters Assn., was moderator of the panel, which represented all types of stations: Peter Robinson, KABC-TV, and Fred Ruegg, KNX (network-owned stations); Al Flanagan, KCOP (tv), and Bob McAndrews, KBIG (non-network stations); Art Crawford Jr., KCBH (FM) (fm stations).

The advantages of group station operations were described by Robert Purcell, Crowell-Collier Broadcast Div. (radio); Kenyon Brown, Broadcast Div. of NAfI Corp. (tv); Wendell Campbell, Storer Broadcasting (both radio and tv).

Functions of the station representatives, originally confined to selling time, now include so many other services that "Only about 40% of a rep firm's employees are salesmen, the remaining 60% devoting their time to administrative work and such creative services as research, sales development, sales promotion and advertising," Walt Davison, NBC-TV Spots Sales, reported. Station representation is a $178 million-a-year business, he said.

Also participating in the station rep panel session which opened the day-long clinic, Bill MacCrystal of H-R Television and Walter Lake of Daren F. McGavren Co. stressed the importance of keeping time buyers fully informed about not only the stations on a rep's list but the markets and the competitive media as well. Garry Hollihan, Edward Petry & Co., noted that "At least once a month a major revolution takes place when a station changes its program format and it's up to the rep to let the buyers know about it."

The pick • Outstanding radio and tv commercials produced in Southern California during 1959 were honored February 17 when the Hollywood Ad Club presented its Broadcast Producers Awards. Awards were presented to producers of 11 tv and four radio commercials. Honorable mentions went to producers of nine tv and four radio commercials. Thomas Freebairn-Smith, executive secretary, Academy of Television Arts & Sciences, made the presentations. The luncheon was part of an all-day Broadcast Advertising Clinic (see story, page 26), presented by the Club in observance of Advertising Week.

REGIONAL ONE-SHOT DEAL

Store chain purchases show in prime time

A novel one-time “network caliber” telecast, placed in prime time on a regional line-up of 70 stations, has been purchased by a midwest store chain. Total cost for time, talent and other expenses—$250,000.

Gamble-Skogmo Inc., Minneapolis, wanted to present a program which would celebrate its “100th anniversary” during its 35th year of business.

Its selling area covers a large part of the Midwest, where it owns 300 general merchandise stores and has franchises with another 2,000. The merchandising area is too small for a national network, but too large for any available regional hook up.

So, Gamble-Skogmo took its problems and ideas to BBDO, Minneapolis. The results will be seen on March 10, when Way Back in 1960 is telecast in pre-empted network time cleared by the agency.

For Betty Hitch, BBDO timebuyer in Minneapolis, the show offered an unprecedented challenge. All she had to do was clear an hour of prime time (in as uniform a pattern as possible) on the “strongest” station in each market, regardless of network affiliation.

Network Pre-emption • In essence, the timebuyer had to think partly in “spot” buying and partly in “network” clearance terms. She had to work within two extremes, one of feeding all stations simultaneously or servicing each station with a tape or kinescope. Making the chore even more difficult, she was asking stations to clear, and thus pre-empt, network time. After an agency survey of stations and representatives, sampling their “reception” to such a move, BBDO proceeded.

Surprisingly the clearance problem worked out quite well. By establishing three feed points (Denver, Minneapolis, and Detroit) BBDO was able to proceed on a pattern which amounted to this: Better than 80% of the stations in each zone cleared 7:30-8:30 p.m. (in the central region), 7-8 p.m. (in the moun-

Thales of Miletus rubbed a piece of amber back in 600 B.C. and small particles of other substances were attracted to it. This was the start of a long series of attractions which have culminated in the recent clean sweep of tv watching in Eastern Iowa for WMT-TV. But that's another story. One Bill Gilbert, a physician and Latin buff, got to fiddling around with amber in 1600 A.D. and published a work called De magnete. He named the phenomenon electricity, after the Greek name for amber (elektron). Many centuries later another work, Forever Elektron, created something of a stir, electrifying, but far afield.

In the early 1700's Stephen Gray discovered he could lead electricity around by the nose through certain substances, and not through others, a personality trait proved almost daily by ARB, Nielsen, and Pulse.

The invention of the Leyden Jar in 1745 (not to be confused with the San Francisco Earthquake of 1906) set things up for a Mr. Franklin, founder of a competing medium (space on kites).

We pass lightly over the contributions of Davy (electrolysis, safety lamps, and laughing gas, the latter a forerunner of technically augmented soundtracks), Ohm, Faraday, and Hertz ("It only, when you laugh") and come to Guglielmo Marconi, who invented the antenna in 1896 and the submarine sandwich a few days later. Fleming (1904) and DeForest (1906) whipped up the vacuum tube, Armstrong the regenerative circuit (1912), the superhet (1918), and frequency modulation (1939).

What happened after that is so familiar to our readers that a refresher seems pointless. It's interesting, however, to record one more fact: The reference work we've been consulting calls the use of a cathode-ray tube—instead of a scanning disk—"promising." The work was published in 1946.

The same could have been said—with accuracy—of WMT (1922) and WMT-TV (1953), CBS radio and tv for Eastern Iowa, represented nationally by the Katz Agency.

Reynolds still leads
Nielsen Radio Index

R.J. Reynolds still led the network radio pack last month, in terms of homes, holding onto a command the tobacco firm established last September in the National Nielsen Radio Index. Whitehall-American Home Products, No. 1 in network radio minutes since the preceding month, retained that place in the four weeks ended Jan. 10. Vick Chemical and Hudson Vitamin Products, regulars on the list, hit seasonal peaks in the network radio Top 20.

Time sales

Spring term • National Home Study School, N.Y. (high school correspondence courses), is buying spot radio schedules in all regions except the Far West as part of overall ad plans for spring. Daytime and nighttime minutes are being purchased at rate of 20 to 60 per week. More stations are to be lined up in coming weeks. Account also uses some tv spot. Agency: William Warren, Jackson & Delaney, N.Y.

Space education • The Martin Co., Baltimore, producer of military aircraft, rockets, missiles and nuclear electronics, has signed for 13 weeks as participating sponsor of Space Scope, new science information program on ABC Radio (Mon.-Fri., 9-9:05 p.m. EST). The program is produced and narrated by Dan Peterson in cooperation with the Martin Co. Research Institute for Advanced Study. Example of sponsor's institutional messages on Space Scope: "Basic research is like a savings account—if you wait until you need it, it’s too late.” Order was placed directly.

Airline on air • Lone Star Airlines Inc., Dallas, has embarked upon an extensive radio campaign, using KLIF and KBOX, both Dallas, KNUZ and KLIT, both Houston. Other stations being used on a promotional basis are: KOBY San Francisco; KOSI Denver; KULD Kansas City, and KONO San Antonio, Tex. David M. Segal, president of the airline, is also president of Mid-America Broadcasters Inc., operator of WGVM Greenville, Miss. and other properties.

Light of day • Electric Auto-Lite Co., Toledo, signed for 91 participations from April through Nov. 9 on NBC-TV’s Today show. Purchase is one of the year’s major investments on the weekday morning program, the network said. Agency: Grant Adv., Detroit.

Leg show • Morpul Inc., Greensboro, N.C., hosiery manufacturer, plans an extensive tv campaign beginning March 1. Twenty-five or more one-minute commercials per week will be used on stations in Winston-Salem, Greensboro and Charlotte, all North Carolina. Ted Cramer, account executive and tv director for Bennett Adv., High Point, N.C., which handles the account, says that similar campaigns are scheduled for Cleveland, Detroit, Boston, San Francisco and other major markets at a later date. Transfilm-Wylde, N.Y., has filmed the one-minute spots, which feature ladies’ stockings with texturized nylon tops.

Lark on radio spree • The Studebaker Lark dealer associations for Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Bakersfield, San Bernardino, Calif. and Central Arizona through Coleman-Parr Adv., L.A., plan a $350,000 ad campaign for 1960. The bulk of the budget will be spent in radio and newspapers. A radio saturation schedule of 60-second spot announcements began Feb. 1 on KMPC, KLAC, KBIG, KFWB, all Los Angeles, KWIZ Santa Ana, KCKC San Bernardino; KACE Riverside; KPAS Banning; KWOW Pomona; KTMS Santa Barbara; KUDU Ventura; KATY San Louis Obispo and KBIS Bakersfield, all California.

Tube spots • Radio and tv spots, plus newspaper and magazine space will be used in a $250,000 western advertising campaign for Du Mont tv picture tubes, distributed by Dutrex West, Compton, Calif. Anderson-McConnell, L.A., is the agency.

Full ‘Journey’ • American Motors Corp., Detroit, for Rambler automobiles, to join North American Philips Co. (Broadcasting, Feb. 15) in cooperation on NBC-TV’s Journey to Understanding—Volume III, 16-program series on overseas missions of President Eisenhower and other leaders. Series of six one-hour and 10 half-hour programs starts Feb. 27 and will conclude July 1. Rambler’s president and tv creative director, Peter Cardozo, the agency’s vice president and tv creative director, and F&S&R’s Byron McKinney, a vice president, was film producer. There are 15 distributors in the U.S. which buy the vehicles from Volkswagen of America and channel them via their own dealers. It is estimated there are over 400 Volkswagen dealers in the country. The tv commercials are available to the distributors at a “nominal” fee. The parent company does not buy time. This phase is handled by distributors and/or dealers.

TV PREVIEW

The German-made Volkswagen has become a familiar sight on the American scene. But the scenery is incidental to Volkswagen of America in its television advertising.

In a set of four one-minute tv commercials, newly-prepared and part of a new dealer advertising campaign (dealers place the tv spots), agency Fuller & Smith & Ross, New York, and Transfilm-Caravel Inc., commercial producer, use a production device to keep the viewer’s attention on the vehicle (a Volkswagen truck) with a minimum of background “distraction.”

The technique employed eliminates natural backgrounds which may divert the viewer, permits the trucks to be highlighted against simple art drawings of homes, countryside, loading platform etc. and does away with weather problems in outdoor shooting.

This set of commercials was filmed inside a studio. The vehicles were placed on jacks so that the wheels could be rotated at a speed simulating actual road movement. Transfilm-Caravel employed blue backgrounds and floors, when the color was filtered out from the color negative, eliminated all but the vehicles and the actor in the printing process. The Volkswagens were then combined with art work that was previously filmed on an animation camera stand.

Optical and editorial work were handled by Harvey Plastrik of Transfilm-Caravel; the commercials con-

FTC’S PLAN: CASE-BY-CASE TV LAW

Big companies being cited since they can litigate all the way

The girl in Johnson’s Klear Wax tv commercial holds up a sheet of glass. Half is clear; half is tinted. She says: “. . . Ordinary wax turns yellow with age . . . like this tinted glass Klear made with miracle plexon dries clear as this clean glass . . .”

Durward Kirby in the Scotties’ commercial takes a sheet of “ordinary” facial tissue and spoons some water on it. He does the same to a Scotties tissue. He picks up the first tissue and blows through it. It tears apart. He picks up the Scotties and does the same. It holds.

Which of these two advertisements is being scrutinized by the Federal Trade Commission?

Probably the Scotties’ commercial. Why? Because it specifically demonstrates a claim of the product—that Scotties is stronger than “ordinary” tissue.

This is the new campaign under way at the FTC. It is a task force approach to nail down once and for all how far an advertiser may go in putting his product through its paces on television. The program has nothing to do with the merits of the product; that is another matter.

Using an ingenious building block approach, FTC officials hope that the results of this program will end up with hard and fast guidelines for advertisers on what is and what is not permissible on tv.

Study Began in Fall • The campaign started last fall. So far 35 tv commercials have come under the scrutiny of FTC investigators.

Seven of these 35 studies have already resulted in public complaints:

• Colgate-Palmolive for Colgate Dental Cream with Gardol.
• Brown & Williamson, for Life Cigarettes’ millicel super filter.
• Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass and General Motors, for L-O-F plate glass.
• Lever Bros., for Pepsodent toothpaste.
• Colgate-Palmolive Co., for Palmolive Rapid-Shave.
• Standard Brands Corp., for Blue Bonnet margarine.
• Aluminum Co. of America, for Alcoa Super Strength Wrap.

All involve tv commercials which purportedly, according to the FTC, are invalid demonstrations of the product’s worth—or unfairly show up a competitor’s product as worse than it actually is.

The current study of tv commercials, which is under way under the leadership of the FTC’s Tv-Radio Monitoring Unit, is the FTC’s answer to the call by advertisers for rules to guide advertising men in forging tv campaigns for their clients.

FTC officials were stung when the cry went up last year that the advertising industry needed to know FTC rules. This was brought to a head earlier this year in the now-famous Ted Bates’ advertisement asking FTC Chairman Earl W. Kintner: “What are your rules?”

The easiest thing to do when tv commercials came under stringent FTC scrutiny was to throw the book at all advertising that appeared deceptive or so when final determinations are made.

Thus, there will be solid ground rules for advertising based on a case-by-case determination.

This might explain why the FTC apparently has chosen one allegedly errant ad using a particular technique as the subject of a formal complaint and has permitted others using identical approaches to continue unquestioned.

This philosophy stems from the belief that when one of the specific tv ad techniques is litigated and determined finally, it will apply to all similar approaches.

A rundown of the seven complaints thus far in the litigation process shows that each is pegged on a different variation of the demonstration principle.

In the case of Colgate toothpaste with Gardol it is the prospective shield device which is attached. No dentifrice said the FTC, completely protects teeth from decay or the development of cavities, which is implied in the tv demonstration.

The Life Cigarette tv commercial showed two filter tips in test tubes side by side, one of them being the Life millicel filter. Announcer drops water in both tubes, with “X” brand leaking water, while Life filter retains moisture. This purported to show high absorption qualities of Life filter. FTC charged this does not indicate how millicel filter inhibits tars and nicotine from getting through to smoker.

Early Case • L-O-F-GM commercial showed freedom from distortion of the L-O-F plate glass used in GM cars. FTC claimed some shots enhanced distortion of plain glass and freedom from distortion of plate glass through use of different lenses on camera. Also that one shot showing distortionless plate glass was actually shot through open car window.

Pepsodent ad shows a smoking machine depositing film on a piece of enamel (like enamel in teeth) and being brushed away by Pepsodent.

Palmolive Rapid-Shave showed sandpaper being “softened up” through moisturizing qualities of Rapid Shave and then shaved easily. FTC charged sandpaper was really a mockup of sand on plexiglass.

Blue Bonnet ad showed Blue Bonnet margarine and regular butter with droplets on top called “flavor buds,” with “X” brand margarine without droplets. Implication was made that flavor gems enhance quality of product. FTC charged that droplets are really glycerin and that actually industry tries to eliminate moisture drops.

Alcoa showed fresh-looking ham purportedly wrapped and unwrapped a number of times in Alcoa Super-Strength aluminum foil while dried out ham is enclosed in crumbled and torn ordinary foil which also has been wrapped and unwrapped same number of times. FTC alleged that hams were hand-chosen to show up differences and that they were never wrapped and unwrapped many times and that "X" foil was crumbled and torn by hand to simulate wear while Alcoa was not.

Step by Step Analysis • The procedure followed by the FTC in selecting a tv ad to be charged as misleading is ringed with care. When an advertisement is brought to the attention of the FTC's tv-radio unit, it is studied and discussed to determine whether there is any aspect which is deceptive and whether there is anything new or different from cases already out on complaint.

If there is, a conference is held with FTC lawyers for study from a legal viewpoint. These lawyers want to know whether they can sustain the charges in public hearings.

If they so find, a proposed complaint is drawn up and submitted to the five-man FCC. If they approve, it is then issued.

The respondents have 30 days to answer the complaint. It is then scheduled for hearing before one of the FTC's hearing examiners. They are junior judges; employees of the trade commission but independent.

After a hearing is concluded before the examiner, he issues a proposed decision. This is subject to confirmation by the FTC commissioners before it becomes final. In most cases examiners' rulings are accepted by the commissioners, but it is within their authority to reverse the examiner. They have done so on occasion.

So far only one of the complaints involving tv demonstrations has gone to hearing. This is the Colgate Gardol charge.

After the FTC has acted, the respondent may appeal this decision to the U.S. Court of Appeals for review.

And, after that if they still don't like it, they may ask the U.S. Supreme Court to take a look.

So far the FTC apparently has singled out the larger companies in this campaign. This challenge appears to be deliberate. The trade commission apparently wants these complaints to be contested, fully and adequately.

In this way, FTC staff members feel, the law will be clarified—and advertising men will know what they can and can't do on television.

FCC AND FTC IN PAYOLA 'MERGER'

Two agencies agree to share names of payola violators

The old one-two, but this time directed at phonograph record makers and distributors, came to light last week with the disclosure that the FCC and the Federal Trade Commission had agreed to exchange information on payola.

In a nutshell, the FCC agreed to furnish to the FTC any information which it gathered from its payola questionnaires, sent to all radio and tv stations last December.

This means, it is presumed, that where stations have indicated the acceptance of payola by an employee, the FTC will be informed.

Since the answers to the FCC questionnaire are under oath, this might be considered sufficient for the FTC to issue formal complaints against record manufacturers and distributors who are identified in the station responses.

Exchange Letters • The liaison agreement was contained in an exchange of letters Feb. 17 and Feb. 18 between the two agencies, signed by FCC Acting Chairman Rosel H. Hyde and FTC Chairman Earl W. Kintner.

It stemmed from a Feb. 5 meeting between staff members of the FCC and those of the FTC.

Actually, the FTC has been furnishing payola information to the FCC under a 1936 liaison agreement between the two agencies. This grew out of the FTC's interest in tv advertising. At that time an arrangement was perfected to furnish the FCC with information secured by the FTC on purported misleading or fraudulent advertising appearing on tv and radio.

More than 100 names of disc jockeys and others who allegedly were recipients of payola have already been furnished to the FCC, it is understood. Presumably these lists also identified the stations with which the d.j.'s were employed.

Key Point • One of the key points of the latest agreement has to do with the use the FTC might make of the information furnished by the FCC and vice versa. This was, it was understood, in order that one agency does not upset the activities of the other agency through precipitous action.

The question of primary jurisdiction—that is the question of which agency is responsible—is also understood to be the object of the latest agreement.

The agreement provides that the FCC will make available or bring to the attention of the FTC the information it
Air France jets were flying before Gigi was born!

Gigi is six. Yet it was more than six years ago (February 19, 1953, to be exact) that Air France began flying regularly scheduled pure jet aircraft!

Since then, Air France has logged over 4 million jet passenger miles. First, with the sleek, vibrationless, 500-mile-an-hour Caravelle. And now, Air France has added the fabulous new Boeing 707 Intercontinental to its fast-growing pure jet fleet.

The Intercontinental is the world’s fastest, largest, longest-range jetliner crossing the Atlantic non-stop between New York and Paris in only 6½ hours.

The Boeing 707 Intercontinental is the most thoroughly tested airliner in aviation history. First, with thousands of hours of testing on the ground; then, more thousands of hours of actual flights.

Yes, Air France jets were flying before Gigi was born. A reassuring fact to remember whenever you fly overseas on the world’s largest airline.

receives about payola from its licensees.

In return the FTC agrees to advise the FCC of information in its files which may involve payola.

In both instances the communications refer to the payola practice as "unannounced sponsorship."

ANNOUNCEMENT REQUIRED • This is in reference to Sec. 317 of the Communications Act. This requires an announcement of sponsorship for all programs for which money or consideration is paid.

The agreement also provides that each agency will recognize the confidentiality of the information if so characterized by the other agency. It was agreed that nothing will be made public that is classified by each of the agencies unless consent is obtained from the agency furnishing the material.

The FCC on Dec. 5 sent out 5,200 questionnaires to all broadcast stations asking licensees to determine (1) whether any employees received payola since Nov. 1, 1958, and (2) what steps have been taken to prevent the practice in the future.

Deadline for the answer to the second question was Jan. 5; to the first, Feb. 5.

As of Feb. 11 only 300 stations (5.8% of all broadcast licensees) had not answered the two-part payola questionnaire, it was learned.

The FTC has issued 43 payola complaints in the last three months. Cited have been record manufacturers and record distributors. Two consent judgments have been agreed to: RCA and David Rosen Inc., Philadelphia. Several other respondents have indicated a willingness to accept consent orders. It is understood that there are a dozen or more consent judgments awaiting official FTC action.

The FTC investigations have turned up the names of about 200 disc jockeys, it is believed.

The FTC earlier this month recommended that the taking of payola (and the rigging of quiz programs) be made a crime. (For text of FCC legislation see Broadcasting, Feb. 22, 8).

ROUND TWO: BOSTON PAYOLA PARTY

The House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee's payola hunt continued last week with testimony from a station operator, disc jockeys and record makers and distributors.

Most of it concerned the Boston area. The Subcommittee announced hearings will be recessed in about three weeks.

Highlights last week included:

• Release of the secret testimony of a former WBZ disc jockey, given Feb. 8, that he accepted money to play records on the air, the first such admission up to last week.

• Testimony by a station operator and record distributors on agreements between station and distributors to air records for pay—the station owner holding the money was to defray "handling" expenses for what was called a promotion.

• Testimony by a record company president and his former associate that they used a record distribution firm to make short-term loans for which they received returns of up to 25%.

Three witnesses testified last week behind closed doors. Harry Carter, president of Music Suppliers, Boston, pleaded that public testimony might cause him to suffer a mental breakdown. Samuel H. Clark, president of AB-PT subsidiary of Am-Par Records, said public testimony might injure his health because of a coronary thrombosis he suffered last fall. Their Wednesday testimony was made public Thursday morning.

The third secret witness, Don Masters, disc jockey-librarian at WHAL Boston, asked closed-door testimony because he felt his testimony might tend to defame someone. It was not released.

The FCC last week had no announcements on any action it might take concerning several station licenses involved in testimony.

The sessions were enlivened Wednesday afternoon when Mr. Carter, who had just come out of a closed-door session with the subcommittee in a backroom, objected to photographs by AP and UPI photographers. Mr. Carter's promotion man, Harry Weiss, who testified Thursday, came to the aid of the slight and harried-looking Mr. Carter when the cameramen insisted on shooting pictures anyway. Sheltering Mr. Carter, Mr. Weiss threw a bound transcript of previous testimony at one photographer (see picture page 41).

Last week's testimony:

Harry Carter, president, Music Suppliers Inc., Boston. Mr. Carter acknowledged he, Mr. Clark and Mr. Dinerstein used MS as a "conduit" to make personal loans to Verve Records, repayment of which was made in records with discounts ranging from 10% to 25% below regular prices to distributors as a form of interest on the loans. He denied MS made any special effort to push Verve records.

Record manufacturers, he said, gave MS promotional allowances for promotion of records.

The witness said he put up $2,000 in 1946 to buy 50% of MS from Mr. Clark and when the latter moved to Am-Par in 1955 under a five-year contract as president, he signed a contract with Mr. Clark to buy his 50% for $50,000 which was to be paid over a 20-year period with no interest. To assure payment, the shares were held in escrow by Edward F. Smith, an attorney. As a further guarantee, Mr. Carter's 90% of the shares in Music Distributors also was held in escrow, under a contract dated Aug. 7, 1956, he explained. Both Mr. Carter and Mr. Clark took out $25,000 life insurance policies, each naming the other as beneficiaries.

The subcommittee's primary interest in the Carter-Clark transaction was a further contract, agreed to Aug. 10, 1955, which gave Mr. Clark an option to repurchase his 50% of MS if his contract with Am-Par were terminated in any way during the five years. The Carter-Clark contract did not specify the price. Mr. Clark would pay to reacquire his 50% and the subcommittee held this and other provisions gave him effective control over Mr. Carter and MS and that he could... exercise the option at any time, paying nothing. The subcommittee also noted MS itself had paid the premiums on both the policies since Mr. Clark left MS.

Sue to Buy • Mr. Carter told the group that Donald DuMont has an option to buy back this June the 50% of DuMont Record Distributing Corp. Mr. Carter holds, for $25,000 to $30,000.

The witness denied he had anything to do with putting the letters “BMI” on a record distributed in January, 1959 by MS in which Mr. Carter acquired 50% interest for distribution and promotion work. Ray Lewis, deputy sheriff of Manchester, N.H., had told the subcommittee MS had “BMI” placed on the label. (It was brought out that stations will not air a record unless it is known to be licensed.) The subcommittee said BMI has denied licensing the record. Mr. Lewis is manager of “The Downbeats,” a group which made the record.

Mr. Carter said MS had no “set pattern” in paying disc jockeys, but that payments were made only for “advice” and for promotion of tunes at record hops.

Rep. Moss said the loans to Verve involved “fantastic interest” and thought this might be a way of dodging taxes on corporate profits. He expressed disbelief in Mr. Carter’s testimony and proposed that he be required to testify in public.

Samuel Clark, president, Am-Par Records, New York and AB-PT subsidiary—Mr. Clark said he became “alarmed” at finding Am-Par was capitalized at only $10,000 and was advised by his lawyer against taking the Am-Par job unless he had “someplace to go back to.” The result, he said, was the option agreement with Mr. Carter.

Same Price • He said he was under the impression that if he repurchased his MS stock he would pay the same price for it as Mr. Carter paid him. He admitted, however, that the option did not require this.

The witness noted his contract with Am-Par has been renewed and the option with Mr. Carter is now void, but expressed apprehension at what ABC might do, since his agreement with ABC was that he should have no interest in other music publishing, recording or allied companies. “I was imprudent,” he said. He said the Am-Par presidency job was too good to turn down and that he would have been willing to sell his MS stock for $10-$15,000, except for Mr. Carter’s offer.

He said Am-Par bought suits of clothes at Shaw-Ross, New York, for Ronnie Granger, Rick Willard and “possibly” Johnny Brantley, all of whom he identified as record librarians, but said he didn’t feel this influenced their choice of records for airing on stations. Am-Par, he said, sometimes supplied its recording artists to disc jockey Bob Clayton of WHDH Boston for interviews, at the latter’s request.

He said Music Suppliers and six other distributors receive promotion money from Am-Par, but doubted it was used to pay disc jockeys. He acknowledged Am-Par always asks for the copyright on records by unknown artists. He denied “coercing” a copyright from Sam Lembo, but said the copyright for a record made by Mr. Lembo was “assigned” to Pamco (an Am-Par label). He called Mr. Lembo a “disgruntled artist” who took $5,000 from a record on which Am-Par lost $5,000.

Discussing the loans to Verve, Mr. Clark said he was not told the exact amount of return he would receive.

Near The Top • He acknowledged that Am-Par has paid to get “preferential treatment” in that the company likes to get its records “up near the top” of packages of 150-200 records disc jockeys receive weekly, but that payments are to assure they will be heard, not aired.

The witness said Am-Par has paid only about $5,000 in four years to disc jockeys and agreed to furnish a list of payments. Authorization for payments, he said, is up to him in each case.

Mr. Clark said when he first went to Am-Par as a salesman, he opposed what he felt was a policy on ABC’s part of “leaning over backward” to keep from favoring play on the network and owned stations of records made by its subsidiary companies. He said he tried to create the impression CBS and NBC played records by their own subsidiary companies more than did ABC.

Rep. Harris had a list read showing that Dick Clark on his ABC-TV program in October 1959 played nine Am-Par records 30 times, eight Columbia records 28 times, eight Victor records 22 times, eight MGM records 21 times and 7 Capitol records 36 times.

Up The Lists • The witness said he didn’t believe Dick Clark “or any other disc jockey” of Dick Clark’s stature would play Am-Par or ABC-Paramount records unless they were established hits. But he said some ABC company records using “creative” talent have made their own way up the lists without much help.

Harry Weiss, promotion man, Music Suppliers, Boston—Mr. Weiss acknowledged part of his salary is paid by Am-

Publicity shy • Harry Carter (seated), president of Music Suppliers, didn’t want his picture taken when he emerged from closed session with Harris subcommittee. When photographers tried anyway, MS promotion man Harry Weiss, also a witness, tried to shield him and later threw a bound transcript of testimony at a photographer.

Par, but said he shows no more favoritism to that label than others in talking to disc jockeys. He denied having any policy position at MS and called himself a “messenger boy.” He admitted, under prompting, that he had made reports to Mr. Clark at Am-Par on the “listening” situation among Boston disc jockeys for that label.

Mr. Weiss admitted, to questioning, that he had obtained blank letterheads from people at WBOS Brookline, WHIL and WBZ Boston, with signatures of people at these stations. He identified only Norman Prescott, former WBZ disc jockey.

He said he used the letterheads to make up Top 50 lists to send to Cashbox magazine, favoring MS-distributed tunes. He did this, he said, after being told competitors were doing the same and thus implying the station named on the letterhead had made up the lists itself.

Helped Sell • He said he once helped sell a record to Am-Par for $5,000, was paid $300 by the seller and gave this to Mr. Carter, who returned $200 of it to him.

Mr. Weiss said he helped Ray Lewis market a record through MS for which he received $100 from Mr. Lewis for promotion. Under questioning, he acknowledged receiving $650 more from Mr. Lewis, but called it expenses. Questioning by the subcommittee tended to indicate Mr. Weiss actually charged off part of the $650, also for promotion.

Subcommittee questioning hinted he had concealed the $650 charges from Mr. Carter. Mr. Weiss denied he caused the BMI label to be put on the record.

Subcommittee evidence indicated one of the tunes on the record was on best seller lists before it was released.

Mr. Weiss denied making payments to disc jockeys named specifically in subcommittee questions to him and said he did not know payola existed until the subcommittee investigation started.

Jack Gold, Paris Records, New York
- Mr. Gold said he was told by two KYW Cleveland employees (Joseph Finan and Charles Young, who testified the week before) that he was with the "wrong" distributor in Cleveland. He said he went to KYW Cleveland Program Director Mark Olds and Station Manager Gordon Davis with his complaint of discrimination, threatening to go to the FCC.

Mr. Gold said Mr. Young told KYW officials that he was lying and that Mr. Gold had offered payola to Mr. Finan. Afterward KYW played his record "at least twice," he said.

Mr. Gold denied giving payola to disc jockeys, saying that he had paid only about $400 over 3½ years for Christmas gifts and for savings bonds presented to children of disc jockeys.

Cecil Steen, Records Inc., Boston
- Distributor Steen said he paid WMEX Boston $1,400 over 13 weeks for having one of his records selected by the station as its "golden platter of the week." The station played the record about eight times a day, making no announcements of payments by Records Inc., he said. For one other week he paid WMEX $150 for the golden platter selection, he said. Overtures were made by Maxwell Richmond, president of WMEX, he said.

Mr. Steen said he paid a total of $2,050 to Boston disc jockeys and felt he received some favoritism in airing records, but thought also he had wasted money making payments.

He said a "top 40" or other top list of records might be put together by anybody, a distributor, a disc jockey or based on information from the public.

Rep. Harris said he felt deception enters the picture because the lists often are falsely ascribed to public choice and that stations are used to further this deception.

Maxwell Richmond, president-general manager, WMEX Boston
- Mr. Richmond said WMEX made charges to record distributors for selecting their records for the "golden platter" promotion and that the charges were for expenses incurred to the station in handling and mailing out 50 to 75 records furnished by the distributor and mailed out free to listeners.

The station made no charge for this service until it began to become "bursdensome" to WMEX financially, he said. The WMEX charges dropped from a high of $150 weekly to $10 weekly, he said, because the handling and mailing procedures later were streamlined. He denied charges were based on "negotiations" with distributors. WMEX received payments totaling $2,225 over 13 months from distributors for its "golden platter" and "Mr. X" promotions, he said.

The WMEX president said he ordered affidavit forms made after learning in December 1959 that two employees, Program Director Mel Miller and disc jockey Arnold Ginsberg, had received payments from record companies and distributors. The affidavits were circulated among employees and returned last month, he said, and the station decided not to discharge the two because they were "essentially honest" and promised they would accept no further payments. He said no instances of payments were uncovered at his other two stations, WPNC Morningside, Md., and KBMI Henderson, Nev.

The WMEX president was criticized for what subcommittee members felt were laxity in keeping in touch with day-to-day operation of WMEX, failure to move faster with his own probe of payola and failure to fire the two disc jockeys.

Robert S. Richmond, commercial manager, WMEX
- A brother of 85% WMEX owner Maxwell Richmond, the witness said his primary duties were in time sales and he had nothing to do

Foreign broadcasters at the Olympic Winter Games are also using the Collins Announcer, a three-channel remote amplifier-console with two turntables. The 212F-1 Speech Input Console serves the public address system in the modernistic Ice Arena.
Payola is fair

Payola is not an unfair trade practice, a Chicago music distributor told the Federal Trade Commission last week.

Not only that, said James H. Martin (owner of James H. Martin Inc. and Music Distributors Inc.), but the number of "exposures" by a disc jockey is no guarantee the public will buy the record.

The public's acceptance of a phonograph record, the Martin reply to a Jan. 8 FTC complaint stated, is dependent on the merit of the record and is "separate and in dependent from, and unaffected by, the number of exposures. . . ."

There would be deception, the Martin response said, if the public was inveigled into buying an inferior rather than a superior product. But there is no objective standard, it stated, to determine the superiority of one record over another. Therefore, no deception. It asked that the complaint be dismissed.

Meanwhile the FTC issued its 43rd payola complaint; against two affiliated Milwaukee record distributors — Garmisa Distributing Co. and Garmisa Inc. The firms were charged with paying radio and TV disc jockeys to play records on the air without acknowledging that they were paid to do so.

under "accounts payable," a category usually reserved for trade purposes. The insurance payments were made on the life of Samuel H. Clark, president of AB-PT subsidiary Am-Par Record Corp., and former president and owner of Music Suppliers. Mr. Keelan said Counsel Robert W. Lishman noted Mr. Clark joined Am-Par in 1955 and as a condition agreed to divest his holdings in Music Suppliers.

Mr. Grimaudo said his examination of the books of Shaw-Ross, a New York department store, showed Mr. Clark had an account there for $2,250 in purchases in 1958-59 and that a check of $777.77 from Music Suppliers was credited against the account. Am-Par spent $309 for clothes at the store, including $103 for a suit for Ronnie Granger, identified as a disc jockey, he added.

Gordon J. Dinerstein, vice president, Music Suppliers, Boston • Mr. Dinerstein said he joined Music Suppliers in 1947 or 1948, became vice president in 1955 and holds 25 shares (25%) of the firm, 15 shares of which is held in escrow along with his undated resignation as vice president, both as security against his "jumping" the company and going elsewhere. Harry Carter, president, holds the other 75%, he said.

Music Suppliers paid disc jockeys to create and maintain goodwill, for record promotions at record hops and for listening and evaluating records, but not for airing them on stations, he said. He denied he talked with WBZ Boston disc jockey Dave Maynard to agree on some "innocent purpose" for which payments to Mr. Maynard could be explained.

Mr. Dinerstein admitted he and Mr. Carter acquired 50% of DuMont Record Distributing Corp., also Boston, in June 1958 (same 75%-25% proportion) for $5,600 plus their work in adding new record lines to DuMont's label list, including Epic Records.

Mr. Carter is treasurer of DuMont and the two theoretically have as much say-so in DuMont as Donald DuMont, who owns the other 50%, but doesn't exercise it, he said.

Mr. Dinerstein said he, Mr. Carter and Mr. Clark had made personal short-term high-interest loans of $15,000 in October 1956 and $25,000 in January 1958 to Verve Records, but that the loans were carried on the books of Music Suppliers for the purpose of recouping principal and interest (10% in 1956 and 25% in 1958) in the form of records from Verve at 10% and 25% respectively below the usual prices to distributors. Mr. Clark was reimbursed, with 10% and 25% interest, by Music Suppliers, he said, and the checks charged to "accounts payable."

But Music Suppliers did not get any of the discount benefits since the loans were personal, he said.

Mr. Dinerstein said he and Mr. Carter made subsequent loans of $18,750 (at 25% discount-interest) and $15,000 (at 20% discount-interest) of the same nature to Verve, making a total of $73,750 for the four loans, with some 40,45,000 albums required for repayment (about $90-$100,000 worth at distributor prices). All the loan agreements were oral and were for only a few months, he added.

Norman Prescott, former WBZ Boston disc jockey, now with Embassy Pictures, New York • Mr. Prescott, whose Feb. 8 testimony to the subcommittee was released last week, admitted accepting $9,955 in payola for which he aired records of four record distributing companies.

Mr. Prescott's testimony largely consisted of asssenting to leading questions put by counsel Lishman, who in notifying subcommittee members this would be the form of questioning, said the subcommittee already had confronted the witness with "documentary proof" against him to elicit the answers sought. Mr. Prescott's testimony also was in conflict in some places.

He said he left WBZ and radio in July, 1959 because of disgust with payola conditions and with himself. He said he had accepted payola only 2½ years but had known about it since he entered radio in 1947.

He called payola "almost a big business," but he said he feels most station managers have not been aware it exists.

One form of payola in which stations themselves participate, he said, is in playing records from motion picture soundtracks in exchange for purchase of time on the station to advertise the movie. He said he was ordered to do this by disc jockey at WHDH Boston and WBZ. WHDH put such an order on the announcers' bulletin board, he said, while at WBZ he was instructed by "Mr. Fitzpatrick," an account executive, to play records from a movie.

He said he was moved to suggest a station promotion involving Lester Lanin (BROADCASTING, Feb. 15) after a "pep talk" by Paul O'Friel, WBZ manager, who was seeking promotion "ideas." He said disc jockeys were ordered to play Mr. Lanin's music on Epic records so WBZ wouldn't have to pay "musicians."

Mr. Prescott said he accepted money from Music Suppliers for playing the latter's records on the air, but was able to pick out—from the company's list of labels—records he would have played anyway.

He said he was forced to play Top 50 lists and said methods of making up the list are "implausible," varying with each station. He felt payola was a prime factor in establishing such lists. Mr. O'Friel, he said, instructed him and George W. Givens, former musical director, to promise record companies in New York that WBZ would "lay on" records donated to WBZ's library (BROADCASTING, Feb. 15). "Just fill up the room!" he quoted Mr. O'Friel as ordering.

Exclusive Rights • Mr. Prescott charged that while he was a disc jockey at WORL Boston, pressure was used by WHDH Boston (through disc jockey Bob Clayton) against record companies, distributors and recording stars to get exclusive airing on Mr. Clayton's show to the detriment of other Boston stations and disc jockeys. He said WHDH did this by refusing to play records that had been aired on other stations. WHDH once announced on the air during one two-week period that it had exclusive rights to play certain records.

He said he "lived with" this condition almost three years. Once other disc jockeys held a meeting with distributors to try to break down the WHDH exclusivity, he said, but distributors only "listened, smiled" and continued the practice. He called RCA Victor "one of the worst offenders."

Mr. Prescott said he didn't believe rock and roll music would ever have gotten on the air without payola.

The witness acknowledged receiving $5,515 in payola from Music Suppliers, $3,690 from DuMont Distributing Corp., $200 from Mutual Distributors and $550 from Records Inc.

PAUL H. RAYMER, NATIONAL REPRESENTATIVE
IKE REAPPOINTS COMR. LEE

President Eisenhower last week nominated Republican Comr. Robert Emmett Lee to serve a second seven-year term as a member of the FCC. The reappointment, 133 days before the expiration of his present term June 30, goes first to the Senate Commerce Committee for action and then must be approved by the full Senate.

Comr. Lee, who often is more prone to express his views outside the sanctum of executive Commission meetings than most of his colleagues, first received a recess appointment to the FCC in October 1953. After a spirited debate, he was confirmed the following January by a 58 to 25 vote.

The newly reappointed commissioner joined the FCC from the House Committee on Appropriations, for which he was director of surveys and investigations. Prior to that, beginning in 1938, he was a special agent for the FBI. In 1941 he was made administrative assistant to Director J. Edgar Hoover and subsequently was appointed chief clerk of the FBI. He joined the House committee in 1946 after that body asked the FBI for help in organizing its professional staff.

During the present investigations of television, Comr. Lee has not been hesitant in making public his recommendations to help improve the situation. While the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee was investigating quiz programs last fall, Comr. Lee sent up a legislative proposal that programs be labeled as to content. He also has advocated at one time or another during the investigations:

Commission sanctions short of license revocation; conditional or probationary licenses and licenses for a duration of more than three years; direct regulation of networks; adoption of the NAB TV Code as part of the FCC rules with sanctions for violations; close inspection of sale applications, possibly with automatic hearings on all stations sold before the expiration of the first three year license period, and credentials for radio-TV personalities.

In July 1956, Comr. Lee was appointed FCC defense commissioner and he never misses a chance to push Conelrad and civil defense before meetings of broadcasters. He was the first member of the FCC appointed by President Eisenhower for a full term. When he was sworn in Oct. 6, 1953, the Republicans gained a majority on the Commission for the first time.

Comr. Lee, a native of Illinois, will be 49 years old March 31. He is married and has three children.

SEC EXTENDS BAN

Skiatron stock trades further suspended

Arthur Levey, president of Skiatron Electronics & Television Corp., described in detail stock transactions he has made over the past four years at the Securities & Exchange Commission last week. He also told of the ordeals of trying to pioneer in pay tv. The SEC has extended a trading ban on Skiatron stock through Feb. 26 and is seeking a stop order at its continuing hearing (BROADCASTING, Jan. 18, 25). The SEC charges that Skiatron failed to register adequate and accurate information which would provide prospective investors with sufficient knowledge of the company.

Mr. Levey said he had loaned Matthew M. Fox, whose Skiatron of America holds promotion rights to the parent company's pay-tv system, some 206,000 shares of stock. The SEC claims these shares were pledged as collateral to raise cash from loan companies which sold them when Mr. Fox defaulted. This would violate SEC registration regulations, according to its attorneys. Mr. Levey disclaimed knowledge that Mr. Fox's stock had been sold at the time of registration, although he said his attorney, Kurt Widder (who had testified earlier), had reported to him that Mr. Fox should be cautioned to be sure he was following SEC regulations since he was not giving the attorney requested information concerning the borrowed stock.

Mr. Levey testified that Matthew Fox had become associated with him in 1954 and had been highly recommended as a man "with the ability to swing multimillion dollar deals." He said he had lent Mr. Fox the stock to raise money because Mr. Fox was "going into an important aspect of this pay-tv business, one in which he might possibly need several million dollars." In October 1957, Mr. Levey said he lent Mr. Fox 50,000 shares in connection with a deal with Horace Stoneham, president of the San Francisco Giants. He said Mr. Stoneham still retains the stock. The negotiations with Mr. Stoneham were for closed-circuit cable pay tv broadcasts of Giant's ball games, Mr. Levey said (BROADCASTING, July 27, 1957). Mr. Fox reportedly still has agreements for such pay tv programming, as well as others with Walter O'Malley of the Los Angeles Dodgers and impresario Sol Hurok.

Mr. Levey also told of circumstances surrounding the sale of some 130,000 shares of unregistered Skiatron stock to his friends, relatives and two men he did not know. He said he had checked with these people at the time the SEC proceedings began and that most of them told him they were holding the stock.

Under cross-examination by his counsel, Julian Jawitz, Mr. Levey said he had made an average salary of $100,000 a year between 1921 and 1939 in the movie industry. Since he founded Skiatron in 1949, he said, his salary has been a maximum $10,000 and that for long periods of time, he received no salary. He further stated he works seven days a week, averaging "at least 10 hours and often more" a day, and has

Meeting delayed

The Senate Commerce Committee's "round table" conference with FCC and FTC, broadcasters, networks, advertisers and agencies—scheduled last Friday—has been postponed to 10 a.m. March 1, Chairman Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) announced last week. The reason: Not enough senators were able to be present last Friday.
If you think the great era of railroad building is gone, you should see Russia today!

The Russians are feverishly building new railroads... improving existing trackage... adding modern equipment — electric and diesel locomotives, roller-bearing cars, automatic coupling, welded rail and plenty of new and improved rolling stock.

And while Russia's railroads are by no means up to American railroad standards, they're moving ahead fast.

In the United States, by contrast, public policies tend to reflect indifference to the railroads, while they encourage railroad competition.

Railroads are burdened with over-regulation and discriminatory taxation — while their competition uses highways, waterways and airways built and maintained by the government.

The railroads ask no special favors. All they ask is the equality of treatment and opportunity fundamental to the American concept of free enterprise. Granted this, the public would then be assured of the efficient, low-cost rail service which a dynamic economy and national defense demand.
taken no vacation during a period of 11 years.

He said that pay tv plans over-the-air had not been abandoned and that Westinghouse had perfected the technical aspects which are ready to operate as soon as the FCC gives approval. He claimed that an independent report from Stanford U. said the Skiatron system was superior to the two other pay tv systems. Skiatron's current project is a "crash program" of implementing wire pay tv, he said. But he told SEC attorney Frederick Moss, the company does not now have the money to carry these plans through.

NARBA vote slated for Senate tomorrow

Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) has scheduled Senate votes tomorrow (Tuesday) on the North American Regional Broadcasting Agreement and a separate international treaty on broadcasting with Mexico. A two-thirds majority is necessary to approve the pacts.

The NARBA agreement was signed by the U.S., Canada and several Latin American countries in November 1950, while the Mexican treaty was signed in January 1957. In reporting both agreements unanimously 10 days ago, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said that "national interest will be injured" by further Senate delay in ratifying the two broadcasting treaties (At Deadline, Feb. 15).

NARBA has received full industry support in recent years but that part of the Mexican treaty prohibiting U.S. stations from operating at night on Mexican clear channels is opposed by the Daytime Broadcasters Assn.

Another FCC look at WXTV ownership

The FCC last week said that it wants to take another look at a corporate change in ownership of ch. 45 WXTV (TV) Youngstown, Ohio—approved routinely two months ago by the Broadcast Bureau. Assignment of the construction permit from Community Telecasting Co. to WXTV Inc. (both owned by Sanford A. Schritz and Guy W. Gully) was set aside.

Ch. 33, WKST-TV Youngstown, had petitioned the Commission for reconsideration, challenging the permittees legal and financial qualifications. The FCC dismissed the WKST-TV petition as moot, but said it would consider the charges just the same. WKST-TV has been on the air since 1953; WXTV was granted in 1955 but has never been on the air.

Lane's BMI protest dismissed by FCC

The FCC last week dismissed on procedural grounds a protest by Burton Lane, president of the American Guild of Authors and Composers, seeking divestiture of station ownership with BMI stock.

Mr. Lane had asked the Commission to deny license renewals to 563 radio stations until their owners divested themselves of all BMI stock ownership. He also requested that the FCC order a general investigation and hearing into alleged payola on BMI-broadcaster-owned music (Broadcasting, Jan. 11).

The Commission announcement last week said that all information brought to its attention "which bears on the qualifications of broadcast licensees . . . will be studied to determine what action, if any, is warranted."

The Lane proposal met violent opposition by KSAN San Francisco, WAAF Chicago, and KKO El Centro, Calif., all of whom claimed that it was "jurisdictionally defective" since none of the stations were served with the protest within the 30-day period provided by Commission rules.

C-P, Lever deny commercials misled

Two major advertisers denied last week that tv commercials which demonstrated qualities of Palmolive Rapid-Shave and Pepsodent toothpaste were false or misleading.

Both asked that the complaints, filed against them by the Federal Trade Commission last month, be dismissed.

Colgate-Palmolive Co. stated that its sandpaper demonstration of the "moisturizing" quality of its Rapid-Shave shaving cream were not deceptive. The company said that a mockup of plexiglass and sand was used instead of real sandpaper because of technical limitations of the tv camera.

It reported that the challenged commercials have been permanently abandoned.

Colgate-Palmolive also asserted that it has continuously submitted sample advertising and tv commercials to the FTC, had voluntarily made suggested changes, and had actually demonstrated to an FTC representative that Rapid-Shave could in fact be applied to shave sandpaper. It reported that the FTC agent had performed the demonstration to his "apparent satisfaction."

The company argued that "the use of mockups or other properties to effect lifelike representations of objects is necessarily of widespread use in the entire television industry given the technical limitations on accurate reproduction inherent in the medium . . . ." It added that the FTC has approved this practice provided there is no material deception.

Lever Denies Deception • A similar response was made by Colgate-Palmolive's agency, Ted Bates & Co.

Lever Bros. and its agency, Foote, Cone & Belding, denied that the tv commercial for Pepsodent toothpaste purported to prove that Pepsodent is effective in removing tobacco stains from the teeth of all smokers.

The FTC complaint charged that the Pepsodent tv commercial implied that the toothpaste was effective in removing tobacco stains from the teeth of all smokers. The commercial showed a cigarette "smoking machine" depositing a yellow smoke stain on enamel ("like the hard surface of your teeth"). When the enamel was brushed with Pepsodent and rinsed, the stain disappeared.

Lever Bros. contended that the challenged commercial demonstrated to only deceived or misled the public or unfairly diverted trade from competitors.

The advertising agency and William H. Ambrose, account executive in charge of the Lever Bros. account, maintained that the commercials were "true and accurate" but in any event they acted in good faith and with due care.

These are the first answers to the four complaints issued by the FTC last month against four of the nation's largest users of tv advertising. The other two were Standard Brands and Aluminum Co. of America.

Guterma, Everleigh draw sentences, fines

Former Mutual President Alexander L. Guterma was sentenced last week to 4 years and 11 months in a federal prison and fined $160,000 for stock fraud.

Robert J. Everleigh, a business associate of Mr. Guterma, was sentenced to two years and 11 months and fined $10,000 and two of Mr. Guterma's personal holding companies—Confecor Inc. and the Chatham Corp.—were fined a total of $130,000. New York Federal Judge Lloyd F. McMahon refused to set bail for the two men, pending appeal.

The defendants were convicted last Jan. 27 (Broadcasting, Feb. 1). Specifically they were found guilty of conspiring to defraud the government by willfully failing to file necessary reports with the Securities & Exchange Commission and the New York Stock Exchange that would have disclosed the looting of company assets and the rigging of stock transactions by insiders. Violations occurred between 1956 and 1958 when Mr. Guterma headed F. L. Jacobs Co., a holding corporation.

Mr. Guterma faces three more criminal indictments. One is in Washington on charges of failing to register as an agent of the Dominican Republic when he headed MBS and two in New York for failing to comply with SEC registrations. Mutual is not involved in Mr. Guterma’s predicaments.

Eight uhf channels assigned Ala. for etv

The FCC on Feb. 18 finalized its rule-making and amended the TV table of assignments to add eight uhf channels for educational use in Alabama. The Commission made the following allocation changes:

Reserved ch. 29 (formerly commercial) in Andalusia, in addition to its present vhf; ch. 2; reserved ch. 48 (formerly commercial) in Birmingham, in addition to its present vhf; ch. 10; deleted commercial ch. 14 and substituted ch. 77 in Clanton; reserved ch. 18 in Demopolis and ch. 19 in Dothan (both formerly commercial); added ch. 21 to Florence by deleting it from Gadsden where it was commercial; added ch. 24 to Munford in addition to its vhf; ch. 24 in Sylacauga for commercial use; and added ch. 24 to Tuscaloosa for educational use.

These eight uhf assignments, the Commission pointed out, augment the three vhf and four uhf channels now reserved for educational use in Alabama. The Alabama Educational Television Commission operates three stations, all vhf; the four uhf channels are not yet in use.

The Commission, in making the assignment said it was initiated by Alabama’s “indicated interest in additional educational channels to spark the expansion ... of its present educational network ... to provide for total educational TV coverage of the state by a two-program-channel network.”

Mich. channel switch

The FCC had a new thought last week on its proposed rulemaking to add a v to the Grand Rapids-Kalamazoo, Mich., area. Originally, the Commission, which offered two plans on the proposal, sought to substitute ch. 3 for ch. 9 in Alpena, ch. 7 for ch. 13 at Cadillac, ch. 9 for ch. 7 at Traverse City, and add ch. 13 to Grand Rapids from Cadillac.

Now the FCC would substitute ch. 6 (instead of ch. 3) for ch. 9 in Alpena. It feels that this move would cause less interference to service provided by Canadian stations. April 19 is the date set for filing comments on this and the original proposals.
Clears' duplication proposal clarified

In answer to a petition for clarification by the Clear Channel Broadcasting Service, the FCC last week issued a supplement to its notice of further proposed rulemaking to duplicate 23 clear channels with additional nighttime service.

In its notice, the Commission stated that the individual merits and deficiencies of each application for unlimited time assignment on a particular channel in certain designated areas would be thoroughly studied. Consideration would be given to the nighttime interference which would result from each proposed operation to the dominant station on the channel, the notice said.

Interested parties were informed that they could include in their comments (1) the general interference situation which would result from implementation of the plan; (2) the approximate pattern of nighttime utilization of any particular channel under the plan; and (3) proposed engineering standards for the limitation of nighttime co-channel interference to Class I-A stations under this plan or any other involving nighttime duplication of the clear channels.

Comments are due on April 1. In the clarification, Comr. Robert T. Bartley abstained from voting.

'Ex parte' rears head in WSPA-TV rehearing

Two South Carolina uhf stations got specific last week in a third move to subpoena correspondence between ch. 7 WSPA-TV Spartanburg, S.C., and CBS-TV. Last month, the Commission quashed an earlier subpoena as too broad ( Broadcasting, Jan. 18). Chief Hearing Examiner James Cunningham has denied a second request ( Broadcasting, Feb. 8).

WAIM-TV Anderson and WGVL (TV) Greenville charge that Walter J. Brown, chief owner of WSPA-TV, made ex parte contacts with members of the FCC in the 6-year-old case. In their latest request, the uhf stations cited a July 1954 letter from Mr. Brown to CBS referring to "a long talk with Chairman [Rosel] Hyde." They also charged that Mr. Brown stated in the letter he planned to talk with the then FCC chairman "again next week after he has conferred with his colleagues and legal people."

It is perfectly reasonable to believe, WAIM-TV and WGVL maintained, that Mr. Brown also had ex parte contacts with other commissioners.

The case began in 1954 when the FCC granted WSPA-TV permission to move its transmitter and increase power. The court of appeals has remanded the case back to the Commission.

Crutchfield gives FCC his pay tv views

The general manager of a string of southern television stations has told the FCC that pay tv would be "a very lucrative thing," but not in the public interest.

Charles H. Crutchfield, general manager of Jefferson Standard Broadcasting Co. stations, made known his view during comparative proceedings involving Jefferson and three other applicants (High Point Television Co., Southern Broadcasters Inc., both High Point, and TriCities Broadcasting Co., Greensboro, all North Carolina) for a ch. 8 construction permit in Greensboro-High Point-Winston-Salem, N. C.

One of Jefferson's licensees, WBTV (TV) Charlotte, N.C., became involved (along with affiliates of all three networks) in a 1958 shuffle with Skiatron Television & Electronics Corp. when it editorialized against pay tv. The editorials drew protests from James M. Landis, Skiatron counsel, who complained to the Commission that they were "biased." WBTV told the FCC that it has wired toll tv proponents offering free time to them to tell their side of the controversy but that none had accepted the offer ( Broadcasting, June 9, 1938).

Mr. Crutchfield made clear to the Commission that Jefferson's position against pay tv was unchanged. He said that viewers purchased their tv receivers with the understanding "that programming would be free to them." However, he said, if the FCC "should authorize pay tv, we would start telecasting . . . on the air pay television."

Under a pay tv system, Mr. Crutchfield asserted, "we could make at least as much income as we now derive from our commercial system and we would spend considerably less money."

Jefferson Standard Broadcasting Co. owns WBT (AM) and WBTV (TV) Charlotte, WBIG Greensboro, both North Carolina; WBTW (TV) Florence, S.C. and has minority interests in WFMY-TV Greensboro, N.C.

Tv channel switches

The FCC last week invited comments to its proposed rulemaking looking toward the shifting of the educational tv reservations in Kalamazoo, Mich., from ch. 74 to ch. 46. Channel 46 is now allocated for commercial use in Kalamazoo. Western Michigan U. petitioned for the change.

Two other requests for TV channel assignments are pending before the Commission: WACO Waco, Tex., for the assignment of ch. 12 to that city and KNOT Prescott, Ariz., for the assignment of ch. 7.

WACO said that its request is in line with current proposals and rulemaking for vhf drop-ins at reduced mileage separations. The proposed ch. 12 assignment would be 174 miles from KXII (TV) Ardmore, Okla., and 165 miles from KONO-TS San Antonio. Both operate on ch. 12. Using a 500-ft. tower and 316 kw, it would cause no greater interference to any existing station than would be caused if it operated at the full 190-mile separation with maximum antenna and power, WACO stated.

Claims in ad raise question of tv grant

Advertising doesn't always pay, Helena Tv Inc., Helena, Mont., learned when the FCC set aside its Dec. 29, 1959 grant for a new tv station on ch. 10.

In explaining its action, the Commission cited an advertisement Helena Tv Inc., also a catv operator, ran in a local paper. The ad blamed the Commission for holding up progress on construction of its new tv station by withholding permission to transmit signals of two Spokane stations on the catv system.

"This reduces our income materially," the ad said, and "makes our plans to subsidize the operation of a tv station economically impossible."

In a letter to the Helena company, the Commission "noted the contingencies upon which construction of your station is predicated." As a result, FCC said, "substantial questions" have been raised concerning Helena Tv's financial qualifications.

Government briefs

Rulemaking out • The FCC last week denied a petition and amendment by Blythe Telecasting Co. for rulemaking to assign ch. 25 to Blythe, Calif. The petition was defective in that the proposal conflicted with the ch. 25 assignment at Sonoma, Sonora, Mexico. At the same time, the Commission, on request by J. Patrick Beacon, dismissed without prejudice his petition for rulemaking to assign either ch. 14 from Lake Wales or ch. 15 from Ocala, to Fort Pierce, all Florida.

Wants new ID • WNEM-TV asked the FCC to waive Sec. 3.652(a) of its rule to permit station identification as Bay City-Saginaw-Flint, Mich. WNEM-TV presently identifies as Bay City-Saginaw.

Feb. 17 granted the Georgia State Board of Education a construction permit for an educational TV station to operate on ch. 9 in Savannah, Ga. The Commission conditioned that any electrical interference resulting from WTVM(TV) operating on ch. 9 in Columbus, Ga., must be accepted by the board. The board earlier asked the Commission to waive Sec. 3.610 of its rules when the FCC granted a cp to WTVM whose transmitter site is four miles short of 190-mile separation from the board's transmitter site. (BROADCASTING, Feb. 15).

Cut the gab • The FCC has announced new regulations for the citizens radio service to eliminate unnecessary talk and transmissions over wide areas in that band. Class D stations, effective March 15, are limited to five consecutive minutes of conversation with another outlet, to be followed by a silent period of at least two minutes. The stations, designed to cover only very short distances, also would be required to contact stations within their groundwave coverage area only. The new FCC rules specifically prohibit transmission of music or any material intended for amusement.

Grant protest • The FCC on Feb. 18 granted a protest by KLIX-TV Twin Falls, Idaho and stayed a Dec. 22, 1959 grant to Idaho Microwave Inc. pending a hearing. Idaho Microwave had been granted fixed microwave stations to carry programs of KSL-TV, KCPX-TV and KUTV(TV) all Salt Lake City, into Twin Falls for distribution via catv.

Extends time • The FCC has extended time for filing comments on the amendment of Conelrad manual BC-3 to provide for transmission standards for the Conelrad attention signal from Feb. 8 to April 11. The Commission also extended the time for filing reply comments from March 9 to April 25. NAB had petitioned for the time extension.

Cp granted • The FCC has granted a construction permit to the Wheeler County Translator System, Wheeler County, Tex., for a new tv translator on ch. 80. The new station will repeat programs of KVII (TV) Amarillo (ch. 7).

Microwave space • The FCC has amended its administrative rules to permit am and tv stations to use 942-952 mc for studio-to-transmitter aural microwave links. Similar action was taken a year ago in Part 2 of frequency allocation rules. The latest action makes both sections uniform, the Commission said.

'59 TV NETWORK BILLING UP 10.7%

All three show increases as record year hits $627 million

The tv networks' gross time billing last year totaled over $627.3 million. This was an increase of 10.7% above the 1958 level of $566.5 million.

The new record high in gross billing found each of the networks faring well individually. ABC-TV continued to gain momentum during 1959, its gross up 22% above 1958. CBS-TV had top billings in 1959, its $266.3 million-plus representing an increase of 7.5%. NBC-TV's over $235.2-million billing reflected a 9% gain.

The billing figures were released last week by Television Bureau of Advertising. They are compiled by Leading National Advertisers-Broadcast Advertiser Reports and represent advertiser purchase of time on the networks computed at the one-time rate.

In day parts, the largest billing increase was reported in daytime hours when advertisers in 1959 purchased $203,103,778 worth of time at the one-time rate, an increase of 17.7%. Nighttime network billings for 1959 were $424.2 million, a gain of 7.6%.

December Input • In December 1959, ABC-TV came up with over $13.2 million in gross billing, an increase of nearly 27% over the same month of 1958. CBS-TV near $24 million for the month, a gain of 4.8%. NBC-TV had over $21.4 million in December, a 4% increase.

For the combined network total, December was second to October as the top billing month in 1959. More than $58.6 million in gross billing was recorded. December was the highest grossing month for ABC-TV and CBS-TV (October was the high mark for NBC-TV).

Earlier in February, TVB President Norman E. Cash had reported that network and spot tv (national and regional) gross billing was "in excess" of $1.24 billion in 1959, an increase of about 15% over gross time purchases of the year previous (BROADCASTING, Feb. 15).

HARMONIOUS MEET
NBC-TV affiliates
board approves plans

Enthusiastic approval of NBC-TV's projected summer and fall programming was voiced by the Board of Delegates representing affiliates at its weekend meeting at Boca Raton, Fla., 4-16.

At an unusually harmonious meeting, the affiliates and network executives, headed by Chairman Robert W. Sarnoff and President Robert E. Kintner, agreed on a number of innovations in sales practices. The delegates also unanimously approved a resolution supporting NBC for the action it had taken in connection with the Jack Paar incident (see page 60) and commended the network for the manner in which it had handled the entire situation.

Tentative arrangements were made for a special meeting of all affiliates Sunday, April 3, 3:30-5 p.m. at the Drake Hotel in Chicago, preceding the NAB convention.

The planned summer schedule was described by affiliates as a "big improvement" with more fresh programming which, in their judgment, should solve the "repeat" problem. Included are a new hour program titled Summer on Ice, a new one-hour adventure series and eight new half-hour evening shows.

Hour-Long Openings • In considering proposed fall programming (lead story, Feb. 15). The affiliates expressed general support of NBC-TV's plan to open prime evening time with hour-long shows (7:30-8:30 p.m.). Also described was the "inventory" of NBC-TV's programming department (under David Levy, vice president, network programs and talent) containing some 25 "projects" (series on the drawing board) and from which NBC-TV might draw for scheduling in 1960-61 or the season after.

Plan for convention-election coverage this year (to be handled again by Chet Huntley and David Brinkley) were reviewed by William R. McAndrew, vice president, news and public affairs.

Several affiliate proposals dealing with station break and other time availabilities resulted in improvements for stations. NBC agreed to a request for two additional daytime minutes at 3:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. EST.

Request for a nighttime minute before the last network nighttime show (prior to the Jack Paar late show) was not resolved but the network agreed it would provide four minutes per week, beginning in the fall, with a reasonable co-op fee. Similarly, NBC agreed to make available additional nighttime minutes during the summer with rea sonable co-op fees.

Affiliate delegates attending the session were Jack Harris, KPRC-TV Houston, chairman; Edwin K. Wheeler, WWJ-TV Detroit, and Robert W. Ferguson, WTRF-TV Wheeling, vice chairman; A. Louis Read, WDSU-TV New Orleans; Marcus Bartlett, WSB-TV Atlanta; Harold Grams, KSD-TV St. Louis; Joseph H. Bryant, KCBD-TV Lubbock, and Richard O. Dunning, KHQ-TV Spokane.

Present for NBC, in addition to Messrs. Sarnoff and Kintner, were David C. Adams, senior executive vice president; Walter D. Scott, executive vice president, tv network administration; George D. Matson, vice president and treasurer; David Levy, vice president, tv programs and talent; Alan Courtney, vice president, nighttime programs; Don Durgin, vice president, tv national sales manager; William R. Knodle, vice president, station relations; Donald J. Mercer, director, station relations, and Stephen Flynn, sales service manager.

NAB seminar deadline

NAB will close book March 1 on applications for its second annual executive development seminar at the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. The broadcast seminar, to be held July 10-22, will be under the academic direction of Dr. J. Sterling Livingston, of the school. William P. Gormley, Jr., assistant dean in charge of the advanced management at Harvard, will be administrative director.

Top management executives at radio-tv stations are eligible to apply. Cost will be $75$, including tuition, teaching materials, and room and board. One application will be accepted from a station and not over two from an organization. Applications must be sent to NAB Washington.

Half of car radios on during peak hours

Half of all auto radios are turned on during peak listening periods, with a low tune-in of $36\%$, between 6:30 a.m. and midnight, according to a survey conducted in the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area by Doug Bailey Advertising, of suburban Kensington, Md. A significant finding of the survey, based on 4,035 completed interviews of radio-equipped cars, was this: $39.7\%$ of those who listen in the automobile do not listen at home.

The survey was conducted in January by Auto-Audits, a Doug Bailey subsidiary. It was described by the agency as the first major auto study in the area.

“The $39.7\%$ of those who listen to the radio in the cars but do not listen at home represents an important and until now unmeasured audience,” Mr. Bailey said. He termed power, frequency and transmitter location as well as programming format, the key elements in auto-radio listening. Teen-agers, when present, are important in selection of stations even when an adult is driving, he added, but the auto audience is primarily adults 35-45 years old.

Peak listening weekdays to auto radios starts during the 6:30-7 a.m. period, the survey shows, averaging around 50$\%$ tune-in. It drops to a low of 35.9$\%$ at 12:30 p.m., quickly picking up by 4 p.m. to 47.8$\%$ and dropping to 40.7$\%$ at 6-6:30 p.m.

“In some car pool situations the radio sometimes is not turned on,” according to William Lee Mockbee, media director of the agency.

On weekends the Saturday morning auto audience runs around 46$, dropping at noon to 37.7$\%$ and rising to 45$\%$ at dinnertime. Sunday noon the audience starts with 44$\%$ tune-in and drops to a low of 37.5$\%$ at 6 p.m.

Radio-tv majors at colleges conducted the interviews, contacting only autos with antennas.

ARE YOU BREAKING YOUR OWN HEART?

The normal heart is a remarkably strong and durable organ. But to protect and conserve its strength for years to come, you should guard against certain “enemies” of the heart.

Above all, control your weight. Overweight is probably the worst and most insidious enemy of your heart. Excess weight serves no useful purpose. It is simply a burden—and the more overweight you are, the more likely you are to impair your heart’s efficiency.

Eat sensibly. If you do put on unnecessary weight, let your physician prescribe a diet that will take it off slowly—from two to three pounds a week. And after you’ve brought your weight down to normal, you should make every effort to keep it there—permanently.

Work off tension. Many people who develop high blood pressure—which puts a strain on the heart—are tense, hard-working individuals. They should learn to work off tension.

When you feel tense- up, try physical activity—work in the garden, take a long walk or do something that you really enjoy. Any diversion helps relieve tenseness. In fact, anyone who works under constant strain should probably have a definite schedule for daily rest and relaxation.

So, get enough rest and try to take it easy. Every bit of relaxation you get gives your heart a chance to relax, too.

Avoid over-exertion and fatigue. After middle-age, it’s wise to avoid sudden or strenuous activities to which you are unaccustomed. But reasonable activities that don’t leave you huffing and puffing are usually good and safe for your heart.

Even when the heart has been damaged, it usually mends itself through rest and skilled medical care.

In fact, about four out of every five people recover from their first heart attack—and many of them recover fully enough to enjoy many useful, active years.

If you give your heart the care that it deserves—including regular health examinations—it may serve you well for many long years.

STATE RADIO-TV HEADS MEET
Self-regulation, 1960's on Feb. 24-25 agenda

Forty-six states and Puerto Rico will be represented at the fifth annual Conference of State Assn. Presidents, to be held Feb. 24-25 in Washington under NAB auspices. Since Nevada and Alaska do not have associations, final representation may be complete, according to Howard H. Bell, NAB assistant to the president in charge of the conference.

Ways to make self-regulation of broadcasting work efficiently will be taken up at the conference. NAB staff executives will give a report on “Broadcasting in the Sixties.” Taking part will be John F. Meagher, radio vice president; Thad H. Brown Jr., tv vice president; Douglas A. Anello, chief counsel, and Vincent T. Wasilewski, government relations manager.

The second day will include a report on the Freedom of Information Center at the U. of Missouri by Dr. Paul Fisher, its director: a defense briefing session by FCC Comr. Robert E. Lee, Lewis Berry, assistant director of Office of Civil & Defense Management, and David E. Driscoll, WCBS New York, National Industry Advisory Committee program chairman. Mr. Wasilewski will participate. John M. Couric, NAB pub-

PAAR VS. NBC-TV
Network wins as they kiss and make up

The Jack Paar-NBC cause celebre has collapsed quickly. Early last week NBC announced that Mr. Paar conferred in Florida with Board Chairman Robert W. Sarnoff and President Robert E. Kintner and would return to his network show on March 7. He had walked out Feb. 11 during the taping of his show for that night, indicating he was not about to return.

The contract with Mr. Paar remains as before. It runs through the fall of 1962, and provides the performer with two weeks’ vacation after each 11 weeks of show ministering and a choice of Monday nights off totaling five days in each quarter. In addition to the contract, there were other things preserved or assured:

- Preserved was NBC’s stand that it must assume full responsibility of what goes over the network. “No censorship concessions” were granted, NBC observed, and Mr. Paar will operate under the same policies and rules that bind all performers with the network.

- Apparently assured are advertising revenues the Paar show grosses for NBC-TV. Last year the program brought in approximately $12.8 million in gross billing, and it’s estimated the show will gross in excess of $4 million this quarter.

The Action Mr. Paar, unhappy because the network had deleted from the preceding night’s show what it considered an off-color joke, went before the Feb. 11 taping session prepared to take a walk. He did so after informing the audience of his intention. The network decided to run the tape as it was without editing, with Hugh Downs, announcer on the show, who usually fills in on the vacation periods, taking Mr. Paar’s place (At Deadline, Feb. 15).

Mr. Sarnoff and Mr. Kintner were in Boca Raton the following weekend attending a meeting of the Affiliates Executive Committee (see story, page 55). Mr. Paar had left New York for his “vacation retreat” in Florida. Last Tuesday, the NBC executives and Mr. Paar met. The performer in a prepared letter said he was aware of his contractual obligations, had acted hastily and on “impulse” and was sorry if the action embarrassed the network and himself. Mr. Kintner said the network asked him to return and was delighted on his acceptance to return after a three-week vacation.

A CBS-owned station, WCBS New York, editorially supported NBC’s stand on the Paar incident that “the broadcaster, whether he is a network or a station operator, must assume the final responsibility to the public for the quality of his programs,” and that “no amount of breast-beating and public soul-searching by an individual performer can alter the right of a network to control its own programming.” To WCBS’ surprise the morning 5-minute - 40 - second editorial (aired at 8:15 a.m.) drew a vote of listener confidence. A later airing of the editorial at 8:15 p.m. didn’t evoke a similar response but the results were academic since news reports of Mr. Paar’s return had already been made known.

The peacemaker & the pacified Mr. Paar with his wife as the NBC-TV entertainer told how she helped bring about reconciliation with NBC, and promise of his return to the Tonight show on March 7.

Letter from Ike

President Eisenhower added his plaudits to those of the Printers’ Ink awards jury which cited Dr. Frank Stanton of CBS for his contributions to advertising. The President noted that “the broadcast industry has grown so fast in recent years that its road has not always been free of pitfalls, nor its way ahead surely marked. But you have clearly discerned from the beginning the potentials for good that it possesses. And you have accepted the responsibilities commensurate with those potentials.”

A little regulation must lead to a lot

A warning that any government regulation of TV programming could lead to total regulation of TV and to influence over all media was sounded last week by Dr. Frank Stanton, president of CBS Inc.

Dr. Stanton’s remarks were made at a luncheon meeting in New York last Thursday (Feb. 18), at which he received the annual advertising gold medal award presented by Printer’s Ink. He stressed that in any move by government to regulate tv programming, there would be “no practical way to stop its total regulation.” He explained there is “the difficulty of drawing the line between what is cultural, what is entertainment and what is informational.” Dr. Stanton added: “Once the government tells three television stations in a city what they must broadcast, how long does anyone suppose it would be before the government also tells the only newspaper in town what it must print? Most metropolitan centers in the United States have more competing television stations than competing mass circulation dailies. It would be as logical to seek constitutional reforms to impose government standards on newspapers, because their number is limited by economics, as to regulate programming on television stations because their number is limited by the spectrum.”

He rejected the idea of government supervision as “the wrong, the precipitous, the penny-wise, pound-foolish way of seeking improvement.” “The major part of the burden in solving TV’s problems, he asserted, rests with the broadcasters. Television, he said, will fulfill its highest capacities when it realizes the objectives and values of all the people, respecting minorities as well as the majority.

SUMMERTIME AT WTOP-TV

New rate card has two-season schedule

Acknowledging the differential in summer and winter viewing, WTOP-TV Washington on March 1 puts into effect its new rate card No. 11 which spells out one rate schedule for the 39 weeks of fall-winter-spring and a lower schedule for the 13-week summer period starting with the third Sunday of June.

The new winter rates include increases for spot announcements ranging from 12½% to 25% above those now contained in card No. 10. Summer spot rates in card No. 11 are approximately the same as those now in card No. 10. Program rates in winter go up in the new rate card too, but considering the new lower summer rates, the 52-week cost for the year-round advertiser will remain the same as in card No. 10.

Sales Manager Robert A.J. Bordley said the new summer-winter schedules were devised by John S. Hayes, president of the Washington Post Broadcast Div., as an answer to the summer season problem. He explained it is more realistic to the seasonal advertiser in terms of viewer coverage and is also equitable to the same degree to the 52-week advertiser.

WTOP-TV’s winter availabilities have been running about 90% sold out and summer at least 60%, with one-half of the latter representing 52-week business, it was estimated.

The current top one-time one-hour rate of $1,800 for WTOP-TV will remain the same in the new card for winter, since virtually all the AAA time falls in the evening network option period anyway. A summer top hour rate of $1,650 is specified for AAA time. Other AAA program rates follow this pattern.

It’s in the other program categories where the summer-winter differential and 52-week averaging pattern can be found. For instance, class AA time, 10:30-11 p.m., the one-time one-hour rate in current card No. 10 is $1,250. In new card No. 11 it will be $1,175 in “Season No. 1” (13 weeks, summer) and $1,275 in “Season No. 2” (39 weeks, winter). In Class D time, 12:30 a.m.-10 a.m., one-hour one-time now costs $400. In new card No. 11, it will cost $375 summer and $425 winter.

Spot Increases • The spot announcement schedules incorporate the most changes. The one-minute sound-on-film spot rate for AAA time, now $400, goes to $500 for winter and $400 summer. But, again, since this is evening network option time, virtually no availabilities ever occur. In the class AA time (Monday-Friday 7:59-8:29 p.m., Sunday 6:59-7:29 p.m. and daily 10:31-11 p.m.), the one-time one-minute rate is now $400. In new card No. 11 it goes to $450 winter, $400 summer. With all possible discounts, the minute spot will be $270 winter, $240 summer. In class C time (9:59 a.m.-5:59 p.m. and 12:31-1 a.m. daily), the one minute S-O-F spot now runs $125 one time. In card No. 11 it goes to $150 winter and $125 summer. With all discounts it will be $66 winter, $55 summer.

There is no summer-winter differential for minute spots in class D time (sign-on to 9:59 a.m. and 1:01 to sign-off daily) or change from the current rate: $80 one-time, $28.16 all discounts.

Ten-second ID’s, now $200 one-time in AAA time, go to $250 winter, $200 summer. Class C time ID’s, now $50 top, go to $60 winter, $50 summer. With all discounts, they’ll run $21.12 winter, $17.60 summer.

There will be no seasonal differential for participating minutes or ID’s in The Late Show or The Late Late Show. In The Late Show, a minute of 20-second spot continues $200 one-time top to $88 with all discounts; ID’s $75 top, $26.40 all discounts. In The Late Late Show, minutes and 20-seconds continue $80 top, $28.16 all discounts; ID’s, $40 to $14.08.

Newest CBS policy draws Butler protest

CBS last week announced a political broadcasting policy designed to avoid duplication of a candidate’s exposure on two or more networks or stations at the same time and immediately drew the ire of Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler.

The network’s Editorial Board set forth new ground rules prohibiting saturation purchases during political campaigns that “would significantly diminish the choice by viewers or the listening public among programs.” CBS announced that it would not accept any paid political program intended for simultaneous broadcast on two or more networks or two or more TV stations in a city in which CBS owns a station.

The new policy applies only to purchase of time for political purposes and does not preclude simultaneous broadcast of events of "clear national or local experience." the network said. For example, CBS stated that an address by the President, in inauguration or a speech by a governor or
Charge it

Bad debts from advertising are no longer a problem at WEEL Fairfax, Va. (a Washington, D.C. suburb). The station's billing and collection problems are handled by Central Charge Service, Washington. At the end of a billing period, Central Charge (a consumer credit organization with over 900 member businesses) pays WEEL for advertising carried, bills the station's clients and handles collections, including those of overdue accounts.

Mayor (on the local level) would not be covered by the new policy.

Mr. Butler, in a Thursday (Feb. 18) wire to CBS Inc. President Frank Stanton, said that he was "shocked" by the CBS decision. "We consider your policy to be illegal, unjust and discriminatory to the Democratic Party," he said. He continued:

"It is the opinion of the Democratic Party that all paid political programs in a presidential campaign are of the utmost 'national and local significance'.... We are making concurrently a request upon the FCC and appropriate committees of Congress to consider this policy and to take appropriate steps to prevent its application in the 1960 presidential campaign."

Mr. Butler maintained that a major political party, under the CBS policy, would be denied "equal opportunity to present its views to the vast CBS audience" to answer presidential speeches with political overtones if the party also purchased time on "another network.

'ESQUIRE'S' RADIO-TV UNIT
New division to buy broadcast properties

Esquire Inc. has created a radio and television division that will seek "immediately" the acquisition of properties. The move by Esquire, primarily a publishing house, was described by its president, John Smart, as being in accord with Esquire's expansion and diversification. He also announced that Barry Sherman, operations manager and assistant to the president, WITH Baltimore, will head the division as managing director.

A spokesman for Esquire, which is headquartered in New York, said last week that it was too early to determine the direction of the new division but acknowledged that Esquire would concentrate first on radio stations "possibly in the Southwest." The firm publishes \textit{Esquire} and \textit{Coronet}, both monthly magazines, and \textit{Gentlemen's Quarterly} which appears eight times yearly, claims to be the largest producer of educational films through Coronet Instructional Films, a division, and owns real estate (through Garland Court Properties, another division which operates a 24-story building in Chicago). A newly-acquired subsidiary, Scott Publications Inc., handles stamp catalogs and publications.

Mr. Sherman's 21-year broadcast background includes a nine-year association with WSCR Scranton and WBRE Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and with WRVA and WLEE in Richmond, Va. His sports connections include general manager of the Baltimore Bullets in the Eastern Professional Basketball League, and organizer and former head of a similar franchise in Scranton.

It's talk, not records at KMOX noon-7 p.m.

KMOX St. Louis announced last week that it will drop all weekday afternoon record programs. An all-information format will replace the record shows effective next Monday (Feb. 29) from noon to 7 p.m.

Robert Hyland, CBS Radio vice president and general manager of the station, said the elimination of record programming during the peak audience time is designed to "broaden and widen the scope and function of radio."

The new KMOX format will be a combination of present CBS network features plus local features both old and new. Highlighting the afternoon will be a series called \textit{At Your Service}, which will be heard from 3:05 to 7 p.m. Most station personalities will work on the program which will feature interviews with civic or business personalities, news, celebrity interviews, special events, reviews and sports. The station's Saturday and Sunday format, which does contain record programs, will remain essentially the same.

Metropolitan income hits new record high

Record levels in 1959 of $16,543,422 in sales and a net income of $1,416,108 for Metropolitan Broadcasting Corp. were reported last week by John W. Kluge, chairman and president. Stressed Mr. Kluge's statement was a rapid rise in sales and earnings over the past three years.

Sales stood at more than $14.4 million in 1958 and over $10.2 million in 1957. Net income was at $302,035 in 1958 and $243,460 in the year prior. Earnings per share have gone up from 16 cents in 1957 to 20 cents in 1958 to 91 cents in 1959. There are a total of 1,549,012 shares outstanding in Metropolitan which operates WNEW-AM-FM-TV New York; WTTG (TV) Washington, and WHK-AM-FM Cleveland; and—with but not included in the 1959 summary—WIP-AM-FM Philadelphia; KOVR (TV) Stockton-Sacramento, Calif.; WTVH (TV) Peoria, Ill. (acquired this month).

- Media reports

\textbf{Env's growth} • WPIX (TV) New York, has discovered that there are currently 494,370 New York public school children per week utilizing the station's telecasts of the Regents Educational Television Project. The record number of pupils is the total obtained in a survey conducted by the Div. of Educational Communications of the State Education Dept. The etv classes started on WPIX 16 months ago with an initial 20,000 pupils per week. New York parochial and private schools and schools in Connecticut, New Jersey and Pennsylvania using the tv classes were not included in the survey, it was pointed out.

\textbf{Budget guide} • Radio Advertising Bureau Inc., N.Y., has issued a pocket-sized book designed to give local radio salesmen a handy sales reference in building business from retail and service advertisers. Titled "Retail Ad Budget Guide," the compact report details the average "percentage of sales" invested annually in advertising by sellers in 52 different retail and service businesses. RAB points out that the guide can be used to help in one of the following ways: create advertising budgets, for retailers who now spend nothing; expand advertising budget, for retailers currently investing less than the national average for their category, and to advise on existing ad budgets by using the booklet as a ready source of information.

\textbf{New am for NW} • The newest am station in Washington is KARI Blaine, just below the Canadian border. KARI is owned by Birch Bay Bestg. Inc. George A. Wilson and L.N. Ostrander are principal stockholders. It operates with 500 w on 550 kc and went on the air Feb. 1.

\textbf{NABET loses WDOE} • National Assn. of Broadcast Employees & Technicians has been decertified as bargaining agent for all employees of WDOE Dunkirk, N.Y., according to National Labor Relations Board. Nine employees voted against the union, one voted to retain it.

\textbf{New CBS station} • WCMC Asland, Ky.-Huntington, W.Va., will affiliate with CBS radio, effective Feb. 29. WCMC, owned by WCMC Inc., is on 1340 kc with 250 w. Henry G. Grad is general manager.

\textbf{MBS Chicago} • WAIT Chicago, daytime-only independent outlet, has signed as exclusive Chicago affiliate of the Mutual Broadcasting System. The station operates with 5-kw-D on 820 kc.

\textbf{Color survey} • A telephone survey completed by WFBM-TV Indianapolis, shows that more than half of that city's color tv set owners made their purchases within the past year, while 30% purchased within the last six months. Under the supervision of John Hurbit, WFBM-TV promotion director, the survey's sample represented 200 completed calls selected at random the week of Feb. 8. The survey also showed that color set owners are "enthusiastic . . . and generally satisfied with color tv set service."

\textbf{New ABC-TV affiliate} • KNBS-TV Walla Walla, Wash., has affiliated with ABC-TV.

\textbf{KUTE's new sound} • KUTE (FM) Glendale, Calif., opened its new studios Feb. 21 with a completely transistorized control center. The station claims that the use of this equipment and the concomitant elimination of vacuum tubes results in higher program fidelity with negligible distortion and background noise. Its transistor equipment was custom built by Stephens Electronics, Burbank, Calif.
HOW SAG-AFTRA WOULD MERGE

Consultant for two unions tells members of advantages consolidation would bring

The idea of a merger of American Federation of Television & Radio Artists and Screen Actors Guild has been enthusiastically and officially endorsed by David L. Cole, national consultant in labor affairs engaged jointly by the two unions to study the feasibility of their consolidation. The favorable action was first indicated last month (Broadcasting, Jan. 11).

In a summary of his full report sent last week by the SAG board to all of that union's members, Mr. Cole states: "The advantages of merger outweigh the disadvantages so strongly that it is inconceivable to me how the persistent desires of the members in favor thereof can be resisted."

Reasons why the merger is desirable, Mr. Cole lists as follows:
1. "It would enhance the bargaining strength of members.
2. "It is the only truly effective means of coping with the recurrent jurisdictional problems.
3. "It would improve the legislative activities of the members by unifying their voice at both the federal and state levels.
4. "It would permit the development and joint administration of uniform pension and welfare plans, thereby giving protection to the employees at the lower earning levels who most need the benefits of such plans.
5. "It would enable the employees to have a uniform residuals program which could be efficiently jointly administered and policed.
6. "Competition for superior wages and working conditions would be eliminated, thereby eliminating a serious cause of friction and instability in the industry.
7. "Except for the temporary period of transition, there are numerous economies that would result which would be reflected in no appreciable increase in the dues or charges of members or in improved service and effectiveness at the same level of income.
8. "Finally, all this could be accomplished without affecting the essential democratic processes now enjoyed in both unions, or the vital control of the segments of the industry over their own conditions of employment—in fact, such an amalgamation would be the proper response to the wishes of the members expressed repeatedly and insistently over a period of many years."

Promptly Worked • Proposing that a merger agreement "be promptly worked out by the members of a Joint Unity Committee," Mr. Cole recommends that:
- The new organization should be named Television, Radio & Screen Actors Guild.
- Its headquarters should be in Hollywood, where the combined membership is much greater than in New York. (In an analysis of changes occurring in membership of both AFTRA and SAG since the advent of tv, Mr. Cole found SAG's membership in nine years grew from 7,338, almost 90% in Hollywood, to 13,403, only 70% in Hollywood. From 1952 to 1959, the number of AFTRA members rose from 8,500 to nearly 10,000 with 75% divided almost equally between New York and Hollywood. SAG's members now earn more from tv [including commercials] than from theatrical entertainment pictures, formerly their exclusive field of employment. Half of SAG's members have another parent union [for 2,425 it is AFTRA]; so do 42% of AFTRA members [2,134 designating SAG].)
- It should be legally a voluntary organization, "with active and financially strong locals in all major cities. The supreme body shall be the convention (to be held annually for two years, biennially thereafter). Locals will elect the 140 delegates on the basis of one delegate for each 150 members.
- An executive council of 70, plus the president and the four vice-presidents.

AFTRA welfare

The radio-tv-recording industry contributed almost $2.8 million in 1959 to the pension and welfare fund of the American Federation of Television & Radio Artists, according to Donald F. Conaway, AFTRA national executive secretary. Indications are that talent earned about $55 million in 1959, since pension and welfare contributions amount to 5% of earnings.

Mr. Conaway said that welfare claims in 1959 by 983 members or their dependents amounted to $306,000, covering largely medical surgical expenses.
FOREIGN TV RULES
Reduce overseas sales of U.S. tv programs

A CBS Films official warned last week of foreign restrictions which reduce further the amount of U.S. tv product that can be sold overseas.

Ralph M. Baruch, director of CBS Films' international operations, said that American advertisers apparently "demurring" at high program costs demand that film distributors "get the difference" abroad. But bearing down on the distributor from the other side of the water "are more barriers which if put in the way by short-sighted organizations" can only result in the "exclusion of foreign sales."

That, Mr. Baruch observed, already has happened in the "live" show area abroad.

An alternative to exclusion could be a reduction in program quality, a possible development he decried as "an irresponsible step to take from all points of view."

In Britain, Mr. Baruch told a Radio & Television Executives Society luncheon, tv product is set this way: Independent Television Authority rules permit only 14% of total programming hours on commercial tv devoted to foreign program material. "Out of 50 hours a week, about an hour a day can come from abroad." (ITA claims 12.3% foreign-originated last year and British Broadcasting Corp. which is government-owned, claimed 10% of American origin.)

He indicated also that most available program time and thus the more desirable commercial time in the United Kingdom fall into prime hours, limiting advertiser movement and crowding the number of spots.

Hurdles To Overcome • There are still other restrictive factors. He noted: "CBS Ltd. in England competes with NBC, MCA, Screen Gems, Ziv, ABC, Warner Bros., ITC, sometimes William Morris [talent agency] and others. This has resulted in a buyer's market and a very selective buyer's market at that."

"If the product is not the best available," he continued, "you are faced with the choice of selling or seeing one of dozens of other shows waiting in line to be sold. We are already practically priced out of the international syndication market of live programs."

Mr. Baruch questioned figures released publicly by film firms which claim "X dollars in foreign grosses." Proper analysis, he said, would find the figures don't amount to much on a per country basis and mostly apply to product produced in Great Britain and thus not subject to the quota. (He added though salable at top prices in England, such product "is, to say mildly, a gamble in the American market").

The CBS Film executive summed up British tv, both commercial and the government-owned BBC, noting that a new company has been picked to program the southwest of England. The firm is to be made up of a number of film concerns including Film Producers Guild and the president of the Assn. of Specialized Film Producers. The new company is expected to begin transmitting in the summer of 1961.

Profit Picture • In a summary of British commercial tv, Mr. Baruch reported that in the 1959-60 season, commercial "program contractors" will net a profit of 23 million pounds ($64.5 million). He said ITA telecasts of American programs (Wagon Train is No. 1) beat the BBC opposition.

As painted by Mr. Baruch: American programs sold in Britain cop the ratings, that is, the big audiences for advertisers in that country and this despite growing restrictions and an already effective quota against U.S. tv imports.

'Play of the Week' adds 8 new outlets

National Telefilm Assoc.'s The Play of the Week dramatic series, which faced cancellation a few months ago because of a lack of advertiser and station support, was sold last week in eight new markets. The two-hour dramatic offering now has been sold in ten markets.

The Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), which was credited with keeping the program on the air after several sponsorless months by buying the series on WNTA-TV New York, has agreed to place the program on WTOP-TV Washington. Commencing Feb. 27. Standard Oil, through Ogilvy, Benson & Mather, New York, has bought 13 taped dramas for showing once a week on a rotating schedule of day and time periods.

In the other seven markets, 39 episodes were purchased by stations. They are WROC-TV Rochester, N.Y.; WRGB-TV Schenectady, N.Y.; WBEN-TV Buffalo; WIC (TV) Pittsburgh; WBAL-TV Baltimore; KOA-TV Green ville, N.C.; KCP-TV Los Angeles bought Play several weeks ago. On WNTA-TV the series is presented seven days a week but elsewhere it will be carried once a week.
Tanny Guild Films combine operations

The Vic Tanny chain, which operates gymnasium centers across the country and Guild Films Co. have combined operations. A straight stock transaction will make Mr. Tanny the largest single stockholder in the new corporation. He will serve as chairman and chief executive officer.

The transaction had been in negotiation for the past seven months (Broadcasting, July 20, 1959).

The Tanny operation, a heavy user of tv, will have access to tv time obtained by Guild Films through barter of its product. Guild will use the newly-available working capital to acquire and produce additional programming. Vic Tanny now owns health-recreation centers in 72 locations in the U.S. and plans further expansion. Under the agreement, Mr. Tanny continues to operate his health-recreation chain from Beverly Hills, Calif., while Guild Films will maintain its activities in New York.

John J. Cole, GP's president, continues in that post assisted by Arthur Lerner, who is vice president and treasurer.

Tv banker duties set for Republic Pictures

Plans for financing the production of films for television and theatres at attractive terms and thereby keeping Republic Pictures Corp. facilities busy, were announced last week by Victor M. Carter, president.

Republic definitely has no plans for producing any theatrical pictures or tv shows on its own, Mr. Carter said, nor is the company interested in ownership of any completed films. "Our function is that of a banker," he stated. "We will finance a tv series or theatrical picture for a nominal interest charge plus a percentage of the gross."

Republic will require a guarantee that the money it advances will be repaid in 18 to 24 months, he said. For a tv pilot film, the term will be shorter, probably seven months, but there will be no interest charge in that case. Republic expects to make its money from the use of its facilities—40 acres, with 22 sound stages (and room to build as many others as may be needed, he emphasized)—and its film processing laboratory (Consolidated).

Republic earned $884,882 for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1959, after a write-off of $1,123,216 and $600,000 in federal income taxes, but before $400,000 in preferred stock dividends, Mr. Carter reported. Net income was 24 cents a share on the 2,004,190 shares of common stock outstanding. He said that for the first quarter of the current fiscal year, preliminary reports indicate earnings substantially better than the 6 cents earned in the like period of fiscal 1959, with exceptions of earnings "close to $1 a share of common" for fiscal 1960.

Producers guild seeks company recognition

Television Producers Guild last week sent basic agreements to 26 producing companies asking for recognition as exclusive bargaining representative for all tv producers employed by members of the Assn. of Motion Picture Producers, Alliance of Television Film Producers and the networks. Major provisions called for are: guild security, credits and a residual schedule.

Letter, signed by all TPG board members, describes the organization as "a fraternity of television producers constituted as the sole and exclusive bargaining representative for approximately 85% of the currently active television producers directly employed by your company, subsidiaries and/or member companies of your association, alliance or network."

Ben Brady, TPG president, said residual demands would not be disclosed until they have been discussed with the producing companies. No minimum salary provisions are proposed because the "guild security section will require membership of all tv producers who function as producers... and any overall salary schedule would present difficulties at this time to both the guild and the producing companies." As to credits, he said, the guild is asking for solo card credit for the producer, without sponsor identification.

UA cash box jingles to $10 million tune

United Artists Corp. was in receipt of more than $10 million worth of good news from subsidiary United Artists Associated Inc. The figure represents 1959 sales reported by Eliot Hyman, president of UAA, and covers leases to tv stations of motion picture features, cartoons and other products.

The UAA subsidiary distributes films from the Warner Bros. feature library as well as other feature packages and cartoons. United Artists, a motion picture financing company and film distributor, also has UA-TV which co-finances tv film for network sale and syndication. UA additionally is buying Ziv Television Programs, a leading tv film producer and distributor.

• Program notes
Hitchcock switch • NBC-TV has announced that Alfred Hitchcock Presents will move over next season from its five-year stand on CBS-TV. Neither time nor sponsorship was announced by NBC-TV for the half-hour which is seen on CBS-TV Sundays, 9:30-10 p.m., sponsored by Bristol-Myers through Young & Rubicam.

NBC-Aussie pact • Charles Michelson Inc., N.Y., international representative for overseas stations, reports that a contract has been signed with NBC-TV on behalf of stations he represents in Australia, giving them exclusive rights to all NBC-TV news and public affairs programming for three years. Under the pact, at least 87 hours per year of such programming will be taken by the stations. Mr. Michelson earlier negotiated a contract for the CBS newsmfilm service.

Spanish for kiddies • WTPA(TV) Harrisburg, Pa., began televising Spanish courses for 6th grade pupils on Feb. 10. The instructor, a Harrisburg housewife who speaks fluent Spanish, is teaching conversational Spanish in 13 telecasts, each 15 minutes long. Arrangements for the telecasts were made by Donald D. Wear, general manager of WTPA (TV) and the local superintendent of schools. The 16 school districts in the area have pooled to buy the facilities (out of pocket expenses for personnel and equipment use). WTPA is donating the time.

Imported series • Aimed at Spanish markets in American cities, WKQA-TV San Juan, P.R., is re-reading in a taped bilingual program for New York, Detroit, Chicago, Miami, and Los Angeles. Programming will consist mainly of light musical comedy for the 39 half-hour shows. The programs will be produced in association with Milton H. Lehr and Lawrence S. Rapport, of Telemundo and International Productions Inc.

KRLA's program plans
Five documentary public service programs have been added by KRLA Pasadena-Los Angeles, which has organized its religious, educational and documentary broadcasts into planned blocks of programming.

Three new programs go into the Sunday morning block: Spirit of Today (8:30-9 a.m.), with representatives of different faiths demonstrating the application of the Bible to modern life (also rebroadcast at 11:30 p.m.); Scope Unlimited (10:10:30 a.m.), news, interviews and discussions of community issues, and Seminar (10:30-11 a.m.), developments in education, discussed by representatives of five Southern California universities and colleges. Remote broadcasts of full services from different churches (9-9:55 a.m.) and (11 a.m.-12 noon) complete the Sunday morning schedule. Other new programs are: Topic: Youth (Monday-Friday, 9-9:30 p.m.), salutes to Southland high schools, one each night, with school news, and California (Monday-Friday, 11-11:10 p.m.), reports on developments in industry, government and education, presented by selected leaders in each field.
Here are the next 10 days of network color shows (all times are EST).

Chicago vtr Center

Three Chicago groups have joined together to set up the city's first video tape center and mobile recording unit, it was announced Thursday.

The principals: Fred A. Niles Productions, Chicago-Hollywood film firm; Telecasting Services, closed circuit equipment firm headed by Walter Thompson, and Max Cooper, producer of the syndicated Cuban Winter TV Baseball series. About $225,000 worth of equipment including Ampex recorders, RCA Image orthicon cameras and sound stages has been installed in a communications center at the Niles firm. The mobile unit includes two Ampex video tape recorders and remote gear, with Lester Hunt Jr. as chief engineer.

Clients will be able to shoot complete videotape tv series or commercials and use the mobile unit for any outdoor location work.

AP moves to improve radio-tv wire service

Steps to improve the Associated Press national broadcast wire were taken last week when the AP Radio & Television Assn. named three subcommittees to examine these areas of operations—general news, sports and features.

Daniel W. Kops, president of the association and president-general manager of WAVZ New Haven and WTRV Troy, N.Y., appointed the subcommittees, to examine these areas of operations—general news, sports and features.

Others named are: General News—William Garry, WBBM Chicago, chairman; Ed Ryan, WTOP Washington, D.C.; Tom Powell, WDAU-TV Scranton, Pa.; Bill Williams, WSM Nashville; Bill Monroe, WDSU New Orleans; Robert Hardy, WIL St. Louis; Ray Wilson, KFMB San Diego and Gene Shumate, KRKX Ruxburg, Idaho. Sports—John Wilson, KONO San Antonio, chairman; Ted Hodge, WENY Elmira, N.Y.; Lou Corbin, WFBR Bal-

Reports of the subcommittees will be made to the annual meeting of the APRTA board of directors in New York in September.

One-minute programs

In support of a growing trend toward use of one-minute program features on radio, a new company, Radio Programming Inc., New York, announced last week it is offering stations five one-minute shows. The company is located at 143 W. 51st St., New York. Telephone is Judson 6-3860.

The company is distributing 50-second tapes (with 10 seconds open for commercial) of Capsule Conversations with Bess Myerson, a discussion of fashions and beauty; A Moment of Beauty with Janie Douglass, hints set to words and music on make-up, hair care, etiquette and diet; Teen Talk with Joanie Winters, tips to teen-agers contained in original songs; Friendly Freddy with Mort Lawrence, featuring safe driving and car care hints in a humorous vein, and Miniatures, a library of transcriptions on various topics and general subjects. The transcriptions were offered for sale last week for an April 15 start. Stations already signed include WABC New York, WILI Willimantic, Conn., and WTRY Troy, N.Y.
The largest display of broadcast equipment in NAB history will be shown by manufacturers at the April 3-6 convention in Chicago.

Already leased space to exhibitors is running over 2,000 square feet ahead of the 1959 convention, according to Everett E. Revercomb, NAB secretary-treasurer. Demand for space is expected to spread the exhibit into the north end of the Conrad Hilton Hotel's lower lobby. Present leases already have filled the space available in the adjoining south section.

Final convention plans will be approved at the March 6-8 NAB Board of Directors meeting to be held at the Statler-Hilton Hotel, Washington. The board will decide which of the formal meetings April 3-6 will be open to all registered delegates. Separate radio and tv sessions will be held the afternoon of Monday, April 4, Tuesday morning and Wednesday afternoon preceding the windup banquet.

A number of non-agenda meetings are scheduled the preceding Saturday. Sunday will be featured by an FM Day program, reflecting the growing importance of FM in the broadcast business. The equipment exhibit opens Sunday.

Free Afternoon • While the 1960 convention is one day shorter than the 1959 meeting, a new open-afternoon feature will be retained. This Tuesday afternoon spot leaves delegates free to visit exhibits and hospitality suites.

Programming and film firms will not be permitted to show exhibits in the Conrad Hilton. Last year a few service companies exhibited in other hotels, as did some of the station representatives. NAB's convention rules specify, "Conditions to the granting of hospitality headquarters will include an agreement that no form of exhibit be located in such quarters."

In a promotion piece for the convention, NAB featured "the threat to the American system of free broadcasting." The association summed up the problem and its approach this way:

"Broadcasting entered 1960—its fifth decade—facing the grave threat of needless government regulation... Find out how radio and television are marshaling their forces to counter those who would restrict broadcasting's ability to serve the public. Hear predictions of possible future dangers to your industry. Take advantage of management sessions offering the latest technical, research, programming and economic information."

Joint Meetings • The separate Engineering Conference will meet jointly with management delegates at the Wednesday morning FCC panel and other general sessions and luncheons, but will hold its own programs at other times.

Advance registration, closing March 21 at NAB Washington headquarters, will be $27.50 ($30 afterward). Separate banquet tickets are $10.

The list of equipment exhibitors who had definitely booked space last week follows:

Kliegl Bros., MacKenzie Electronics, Metropolitan Electric Mfg. Co., Minneapolis - Honeywell Regulator Co., Nems - Clarke Co. (division of Vitro Corp. of America), Programatic Broadcasting Service (division of Muzak Corp.), Radio Corp. of America, Raytheon Co., Sarkes Tarzian, Schaefer...
SARNOFF GLOWS OVER FUTURE

RCA head predicts electronics industry will jump $11 billion in five years

Sales of the electronics industry will jump from an estimated $14 billion in 1959 to $25 billion in 1965, Brig. General David Sarnoff, chairman of the Radio Corporation of America, predicted last Wednesday (Feb. 17). He said the rise would be paced by the “three C’s” of computers, controls and communications which would grow from a present $2 billion-a-year business to about $7 billion by 1965. While all other major areas of electronics would contribute to the growth pattern of an industry which is advancing at a rate three times faster than that of the national economy.

Gen. Sarnoff addressed a dinner of the New York Society of Security Analysts. He cited developments in the electronics field since 1953, when he last spoke before the group. “This growth has been accompanied by a fundamental alteration in the character of RCA’s business,” he said. “At the decade’s start we were dominantly an entertainment company, with only 12% of our business in non-entertainment fields. Last year the proportion was 54% entertainment, 46% non-entertainment, and I expect this corporate mutation to continue on an accelerated basis.”

Record Radio Year • RCA does not subscribe to talk that describes the home entertainment segment of the industry as a “mature market,” he stated. “For years radio has been allegedly on the wane. Yet, we sold more radios last year than in any other year since we opened for business,” he noted. He also pointed to the replacement market for continued growth in tv set sales, adding that 40% of tv receivers now in use are six years old.

Color television sales earned RCA a profit for the first time in 1959, the board chairman said. Plans are to double color production in 1960. It is estimated by the industry that 200,000 color sets were sold by all manufacturers last year, with RCA accounting for the greatest share of the total.

Research Pays • In discussing RCA’s pioneering role in electronics, Gen. Sarnoff said there “comes a point . . . when pioneering and profits do become compatible; when the risk, if soundly conceived, pays off for the leader.” He supported this with figures which have been adjusted since his year-end statement on RCA’s sales (BROADCASTING, Jan. 4). Sales increased 19% over 1958 to a record $1,395 billion, profits after taxes increased 30% to a total of about $40.1 million, and earnings per share of common stock rose from $2.01 in 1958 to $2.65 last year—an increase of 32%. RCA's annual report will be issued this week, he said.

Gen. Sarnoff said RCA interprets these profit gains as a sign of progress only. "We see ourselves in the posture of a track team. The warm-up period in color and in semiconductors is over and we are away from the barrier on the stretch run for profits. We have a little further muscle-flexing to do in computers, but the race against the champ is not too far in the offing." He credited RCA's president, John Burns, for doing a "superb job over the past three years in fashioning and guiding . . . product thrusts, in solidifying our management group through 2,400 promotions from within the company and through the acquisition of 150 executive specialists from without."

Technical topics

Tape-measurer • Scott Instrument Labs. Inc. announced a new tape speed measuring device for magnetic tape. Tape speed accuracy can now be determined for speeds ranging from 1½ ips to 60 ips. For further information: Scott Instrument Labs., 17 E. 48th St., New York.

Zoomar converter • A third converter has been developed for the Super Universal Zoomar Lens, a product of Zoomar Television Co., N.Y. This changes the range, which with two converters is 2¼ to 40 inches, making it now capable of zooming from 12 to 72 inches. The company announces that this development was specially designed for the national political conventions but recommends its use for football, baseball and other sporting events.

FATES & FORTUNES

- E. McCord Mulock Jr., formerly vp of all accounts at Grant Adv.'s Detroit office, to McCann-Erickson Adv., that city, as vp and account director on Buick.
- John B. Mills, formerly head of the cooperative advertising accounting division of Young & Rubicam, Chicago, to Clinton E. Frank, that city, as comptroller.

In 1937 he opened the magazine's Los Angeles bureau which he managed until 1954 when he moved to Washington headquarters as special projects editor. In the past five years he has been in charge of Broadcasting Yearbook production. Mr. Glickman will make his home in Los Angeles.

More than 450 attend Ampex vtr clinics

More than 450 broadcast managers and engineers took part in a cross-country series of three Videotape clinics staged by Ampex Corp., winding up Feb. 16 in Washington, according to Thomas E. Davis, manager of the Ampex video products division.

Interest centered on the new Ampex Inter-Sync, which permits fast shifts of program sources. Currently Ampex is in short-run production of Inter-Sync at around $6,500, but the equipment will be available at $4,000 on a production basis, Mr. Davis said.

The Marconi tv camera distributed in the U. S. by Ampex was on display at the meetings in San Francisco, Chicago, and Washington. Its features include simplicity and monitoring of other camera sources during a program, according to Mr. Davis. Five service depots are provided.

The three clinics were so successful that Ampex may stage a non-broadcast session later in Washington for government, industrial and other closed-circuit users.

Creative genius

Two creative talents, Albert Meglin and John Tobias, not content with confining their ability to working hours, have sold hour-long dramas to CBS-TV. Mr. Meglin, media specialist at The Katz Agency, N.Y. station rep, sold "The Girl at the Wainwright Hotel" to the new Friday night series, Manhattan, (9 p.m.-10 p.m. EST) which debuts March 4. Mr. Tobias, member of copy staff of Wunderman, Ricotta & Kline, that city, wrote "Head of a King," seen Jan. 31 on the CBS Television Workshop.

ZANY PROMOTIONS
Canadian BBG calls some objectionable

Authority for the Board of Broadcast Governors to modify promotional broadcasts considered objectionable will be discussed at the public hearing of the BBG at Montreal on March 7. The BBG is proposing an amendment to its regulations to permit it to make modifications to promotional broadcasts which, in its opinion, are objectionable or offensive or are likely to contribute to any public disturbance or disorder.

There have been some promotional broadcasts which have tied up traffic in major cities while listeners hunted for station personalities dressed in special clothes, or for people distributing money at certain street corners. The new regulations will permit the BBG to ask the station to show cause why it should not change its promotional broadcasts, and to make necessary modifications.

Seven applicants for two competitive TV station licenses will be heard at the Montreal session, four for a French-language station on ch. 10 in Montreal, and three for an English-language station on ch. 12. The city currently has CBMT (TV) (English) and CBFT (TV) (French).

French-language applicants are CKVL Verdun, Que.; CKAC Montreal; CIMS Montreal, and Paul L'Anglais, radio program and film producer, Montreal. Each of these applicants, except CKAC, has associates in its proposed TV station set-up, mainly in the film or entertainment business.

CFCF Montreal, which first applied for a TV station license 20 years ago, is one of the English-language station applicants. Other applicants are Sovereign Film Distributors Ltd., which has small interests in CHCH-TV Hamilton, Ont., and CKLW-TV Windsor, Detroit, and Mount Royal Independent Television Ltd., an investment group without radio interests.

Tv near for Rhodesia

Commercial television will begin in Rhodesia on Nov. 15. Sir Andrew Strachan, chairman of Rhodesia Television Ltd., made the announcement following the formal signing of a contract with the Federal Broadcasting Corp.

Sir Andrew said that the service will begin in Salisbury, capital of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland, with an initial broadcasting schedule of 28 hours a week, or four hours a day average.

Advertising will take 10% of programming time, Sir Andrew said, "and the demand for time may involve us in problems of allocations."

Canadian ad billings

MacLaren Adv. Co. Ltd., Toronto, Ont., is Canada's top advertising agency, according to the Canadian advertising publication, Marketing (Toronto).
Its 1959 billings were $29.8 million. Cockfield, Brown & Co. Ltd., Monttreal, Que., placed as second largest agency with $28.5 million in billings. Both agencies increased their billings by about $1.4 million over 1958.

In 1958 there were 123 advertising agencies in Canada with total billings of $237,654,038, according to the official Dominion Bureau of Statistics, Ottawa, Ont.

Canadian fm network set to go in April

Canada's first fm network will begin operations early in April. CBC-FM Tortonto, Ont., CBO-FM Ottawa, Ont., and CBM-FM Montreal, Que., will be linked by a network being set up by the communications system of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways.

Operation of the fm network will be on an experimental basis for the first 18 months, Alphonse Ouimet, president of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp., stated at Ottawa. The commercial potential will be assessed before commercial policy is determined.

The network will be on the air Monday through Friday during evening hours only, and on Saturdays and Sundays from noon to midnight. Announcements of the programs will be made in English and French at the beginning of each day's operations. During programming there will be no interruptions for translations as announcements are made in either language.

Programs will include high fidelity recorded music, regular CBC Trans-
Canada, Dominion and French network concerts and recitals, recorded programs of the British Broadcasting Corp., Radiodiffusion Francaise, as well as news, talks, commentary and some live entertainment. It is hoped to obtain some U.S. fm programs on an exchange basis. Programs will not be bound by standard half-hour or one hour lengths. They may be of varying lengths up to three hours.

Talent imports hit

Canada's largest talent union, the Assn. of Canadian Radio & Television Artists, with headquarters at Toronto, has written the Board of Broadcast Governors, regulatory body, at Ottawa, charging that the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. is importing too many television artists to the disregard of Canadian talent.

The 1,000-member association said there had been a serious cutback this year in almost every area of Canadian content on the English language tv network. It asked for an immediate investigation "to ascertain what pressures or lack of controls are causing this defiance of Canadian broadcasting policy."

H.G. Walker, general manager of English networks of CBC, at Ottawa, claimed, however, that the number of imported actors is not large. From October to December 1959, only 18 had been imported, while 1,281 professional Canadian actors, not counting musicians, had been used on CBC.

- Abroad in brief

Ethiopian bids • The Ethiopian government working through George P. Adair Engineering Co., Washington, D.C., has announced that bids will be accepted for a radio broadcast system for the training of technical personnel. Contracts may be examined and procured at the office of the Adair firm, 1610 Eye St. N.W., Washington. Deadline is June 9.

Benton & Bowles abroad • Major expansion in Benton & Bowles' overseas subsidiary, Lambe & Robinson-Benton & Bowles Ltd., London, was announced by the agency last week. The British agency has been appointed to handle advertising in the United Kingdom for all tobacco brands of Philip Morris Ltd., Barclay Ltd. (brewery) and the

Florida Citrus Commission. For the last advertiser, the B&B subsidiary will cover western Europe, establishing working affiliations with Gumaelius Agency (Sweden, Norway and Denmark), the Brose agency (West Germany); Bureau D'édudes Publicitaires (Switzerland), and the Dorland Agency (France and Belgium).

N. Z. tv • New Zealand will have government owned and operated tv, according to the Labor Government Minister in charge of broadcasting. The announcement culminates a three year consideration the government has given to television. Prime Minister Nash said that because of the tremendous impact tv would have on the country's economy, "the service must necessarily be introduced on a gradual basis."

New station • CFOX is the call letter of a new 1 kw station on 1470 kc licensed to Gerald Duffy at Pointe Claire, Que., in the Montreal suburban area. The station plans to be on the air by April 1.

New am • CJLM Joliette, Que., on 1350 kc, with 1 kw, will start operations late in April. Maurice Baulianne, manager of CWJS Sorel, Que., is also manager of CJLM.
Summer's a little early

Following up last summer's "watermelon promotion" of "juicy" findings by Sindlinger & Co., which showed radio surpassed TV viewing for eight consecutive summer weeks (Broadcasting, Aug. 31, 17, 1959), Radio Advertising Bureau, New York, last week sent bottles of Coppertone sun-lotion as pre-season reminders of radio's summer audience to the executives of some 100 advertising agencies. Attached to each gift bottle was an RAB memo reading: "Only one advertising medium really e-x-p-a-n-d-s for summer selling. Radio not only reaches more people for more hours, it does so by an incredible total of 321 million hours of use per week —six hours more per family.

"1960 summer selling will be easier and far more profitable for your clients if you plan their shift to radio right now."

RAB said the sun-lotion presentation was the opening gun in a continuing campaign that will be waged during the next few months, in an all-out effort to put more summer radio advertising into the plans of advertisers and their agencies.

Fm promotion

In an effort to inject new life into its fm operation, WRRN (FM) Warren, Pa., has established a five point promotion which it hopes will provide fm sets in all area homes. Paradoxically, over 52.5% of Warren homes have fm sets, (a relatively high figure) yet the station is losing money. The new promotion is based primarily around the exploitation of the low-priced Sarkes-Tarzian fm set which WRRN is making available to area dealers at cost along with free advertising. The station also awards, at intervals, a free set to persons writing in stating, "I want an fm radio." The promotion, which already has brought nearly 5,000 responses in the first month, will continue until April 21.

Safe drivers 'ticketed'

WPEN Philadelphia is now "ticketing" motorists. In a campaign, made in cooperation with local police, the station is saluting safe and courteous drivers with small cards congratulating them. Names of recipients are selected by the municipal highway patrol and are broadcast by the station each day. A gift is also sent to those saluted.

KING's favorites

Inspired by the song "My Favorite Things," Ray Briem, personality with KING Seattle, asked listeners to send his lists of their favorite things. From the hundreds of letters he found that sunrise on the Cascade mountains and sunset over the Olympic mountains were the most common favorites.

The wife of a U. of Washington dental student won, however, with an uncommon list including "walking out of a dentist's office; finding that the scale has been weighing five pounds overweight; having the policeman driving behind me turn down another street." Grand prize was a typewriter.

Thoughts for food

KABC Los Angeles has a field force of 14 experienced merchandising experts to strengthen the presentations of its food advertisers. At no extra cost, these advertisers receive professional merchandising in over 600 super markets in metropolitan Los Angeles. The experts check products in stores and order when they are out of stock, replenish shelf stock from warehouses, increase and revamp shelf facings. In addition, they work with stock in warehouses as well as in retail stores, arrange for 21 30-second product announcements broadcast in over 400 stores during shopping hours and products to be featured in stores' newspaper advertisements. KABC states that this plan has resulted in new distribution and increased sales for food advertisers.

Another chipmunk?

Some lucky listener to KRLA Pasadena, Calif. will win the chance to make a record with the Chipmunks in a two-week contest now being conducted by the station in association with Liberty Records. Retail record shops throughout Southern California are distributing 10,000 entry blanks bearing pictures of David Seville, voice of the Chipmunks through multiple recording. The writer of the most original caption will win the chance to make the special record, which will be broadcast by KRLA and pressed in gold for him to Radio airlift

Radio Station Promotions

Channing A. Waddell, director of Radio Station Promotions, recently received a special 100,000 audience response jingle from WDKA, Atlanta and WBBM, Chicago. The jingle is being broadcast by WBBM along with their Chipmunk musical series, "Alvin's Drumbeats," which will have its premiere Feb. 27 on 1360 kc, in Chicago. The Chipmunks will appear live on 1360 kc.

Radio spots have started course on advertising for local advertisers, the course covering all phases of handling and making up advertising.

Extra day • KFBB Great Falls, Mont., will celebrate the extra leap year day (Feb. 29) with a special "after hours" broadcast in conjunction with the New-ark (N.J.) News Radio Club. The broadcast will take place from midnight to 3 a.m. MST on Feb. 29 during which time KFBB will announce the winners of its special leap year jingle contest in addition to a mood music format.

All that glitters • Gold is being featured in a current promotion by WOWO Fort Wayne, Ind. The station is running a "golden opportunities" talent search in conjunction with the Ted Mack Amateur show; a "gold record" day, when only records which have sold a million or more copies are played; a trip to "golden" Haiti for agencies and timebuyers who can match the selection of records which columnist Earl Wilson has picked to take with him on a desert island. Listeners participated in a Valentine prom-to which the prize was the winner's weight in "gold."

Warning flag • KONO San Antonio, Tex., mobile news units have been flying a black flag after a traffic accident in which a death occurs. In addition, the station broadcasts announcements of each death and that the black flag is flying so "resolve to drive carefully."

Gourmet's delight • WWL-TV New Orleans is offering a new Creole recipe book, "How to Please a Gourmet," which contains many rare culinary secrets gathered through the years from the French Quarter of New Orleans. It may be obtained free by writing to Promotion Department, WWL-TV 1024 North Rampart St., New Orleans, La.

Here is how a representative of your station can be awarded a Trip to Europe to inspect the broadcasting facilities of Radio Free Europe through the CRUSADE FOR FREEDOM'S RFE INSPECTION TRIP AWARDS PROGRAM

America's radio and television broadcasting stations may again participate in a challenging way in the Crusade for Freedom's 1960 Truth Broadcast Program, sponsored in cooperation with The Advertising Council and the National Association of Broadcasters.

It includes four inspection trips to Munich, Lisbon and Berlin as special awards for the four best individual station promotions of the Truth Broadcast Program.

For many years Radio Free Europe has concentrated on telling the truth through the broadcasts of trusted exiles to the captive people behind the Iron Curtain. Now the Crusade for Freedom, which supports Radio Free Europe, is offering an opportunity for the American people to prepare messages of truth and hope to be broadcast to the people behind the Iron Curtain.

A trip to Europe will be awarded to the station managers (or staff persons named by them) of two radio stations and two television stations for the best promotional effort to generate entries in the Truth Broadcast Program.

Stations will be divided into four categories from which the four winners will be picked:
1. Radio stations of under 10,000 watts.
2. Radio stations of 10,000 watts or more.
3. TV stations located in cities with populations of under 500,000.
4. TV stations located in cities with populations of 500,000 or more.

The station selected as the winner from each category may delegate one representative to join with other prominent American leaders in Crusade for Freedom's annual 10-day inspection trip by plane to Radio Free Europe's Munich headquarters in October 1960. The personal, on-the-ground expenses are paid by the participants and, for a 10-day trip, will probably not exceed $200, depending of course on gift shopping expenses.

Each radio and television station submitting a report of its Truth Broadcast promotion will receive a special Crusade for Freedom—Radio Free Europe award.

OUR RESPECTS TO...

Peter George Levathes

Twelve years ago this month—Feb. 16, 1948, to be exact—television’s daily network newscast made its debut on a hookup of five East Coast NBC-TV affiliates. It was named Camel Newsreel Theatre; sponsored by R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.; produced by Twentieth Century-Fox Movietone News division. It was created, sold and supervised by Peter Levathes, then sales manager of short subjects, newsfilm and that new thing called television for the motion picture company.

In less than a year this pioneer tv news show had lengthened to 15 minutes a day, renamed Camel News Caravan and had its scope extended from five to 22 stations. (Before it left the air after a run of more than seven years it was seen regularly on 90 stations coast-to-coast.)

Caravan to Crusade • Its creator, today president of 20th Century-Fox Television, has also grown with television. The growth has taken him in a number of unexpected directions. His second major tv project, turning Dwight D. Eisenhower’s best-selling book, Crusade in Europe, into a tv film series of 26 half-hour installments, led to his taking a leave of absence from his job to serve as tv consultant to Citizens for Eisenhower during the entire 1952 presidential campaign.

During the campaign Mr. Levathes became well acquainted with Sigurd Larmon, chairman of Citizens for Eisenhower, with the result that at campaign’s end, instead of returning to 20th Century-Fox, he went to work for Young & Rubicam, also headed by Mr. Larmon. His title was vice president and general executive. His job, he recalls, was to keep his eyes open and do whatever he saw needed doing. His vision and his follow-through were so accurate that a year later he was named head of the agency’s media department, largest in the business, with a staff of 70. He spent some $225 million a year buying time and space for Y&R clients.

How to Spend • “Here, I learned the strategy of spending advertising money,” Mr. Levathes said, commenting that it is a “process fully as complicated as the logistics for a major military campaign.” Here, too, he found himself up to his ears in television. Young & Rubicam was the number one agency spender for this medium and during the years from 1954 to 1957 its time purchases zoomed from $45 million to $84 million.

On Jan. 1, 1958, Y&R realigned its functional structure, combining tv media and programming operations into a single department. Peter Levathes was put in charge of this new unit, responsible for planning programming as well as media strategy and for purchasing tv programs as well as time, activities that by then accounted for about half of all money the agency was expending for its various accounts.

Mr. Levathes enjoyed getting back into programming again, but as months went by he began to chafe under the restrictions of his agency role. Being a buyer had many advantages and privileges, but he wanted to have a more direct hand in making programs than was possible at Y&R. So, on Oct. 25, 1959, Mr. Levathes returned to 20th Century-Fox as president of its tv division.

Better Balance • For the coming season, he foresees a better balance in tv programming, with more comedy shows and fewer programs featuring crime and violence. “Advertisers and networks are reacting to public opinion, as they should. I think the family type of show has a better chance than ever before.” Accordingly, his company’s pilots for next season include four situation comedies as well as two new adventure series.

Rising tv costs will inevitably change the present pattern of tv advertising.

Mr. Levathes believes, “Five years from now we’ll very likely have a system where program time will be predetermined by the network and the advertiser will buy a position in the schedule. I don’t think ‘magazine concept’ is a very apt analogy; perhaps ‘run-of-schedule’ comes closer to it.”

“No one particularly wants to go to this new pattern, but no one has come up with any feasible plan for preventing its occurrence. Like it or not, the hard fact is that it’s becoming uneconomical for advertisers to assume full sponsorship of programs any more. To sponsor a half-hour program every other week costs about $3 million a year. Because of the high risk of backing the wrong show, most advertisers are already diversifying. Even if they have $5 million or more to spend, they’re more apt to buy alternate broadcasts of two series than to buy one exclusively.”

To the Movies Born • It could honestly be said that Peter George Levathes was born into motion pictures. At the time of his birth (July 28, 1911) his father owned a movie theatre in Pittsburgh, which he sold shortly afterwards and moved his family to Washington, D.C., with no movie connections. There Mr. Levathes spent his boyhood and there he returned in 1933 after earning a B.S. from Harvard (where he took a pre-med course). Four years later he had added a master’s degree in Romance languages (from George Washington U.) and a law degree (from Georgetown U.).

Mr. Levathes had planned on joining a Washington law firm. But the day after he was admitted to the bar, the firm had a call from a client in New York who wanted a bright young man to assist him. So he went to work for Spyros Skouras, then president of National Theatres, a subsidiary of 20th Century-Fox.

After the war, which he spent as a member of the FBI and about which he has little to say except that his language education "came in handy" in counter-espionage work in Latin America; he returned to 20th-Fox, Came television and the rest is history.

In 1938 Mr. Levathes married Christine Chakeras, whose family was in the theatre business in Ohio. With their two youngsters, Peter Jr., 14, and Louise, 11, they live in a Manhattan apartment during the week and a house in Westport, Conn. on weekends. "I hate commuting," he says, "particularly the Hollywood-to-New York commuting I’m doing these days.

Reading and listening to music are major hobbies. He’s a hi-fi bug and acquired his own rig. His New York clubs are Union League and Salamagundi. He also belongs to Radio & Television Executives Society.

End of feudalism

WE HAVE been around broadcasting long enough to understand how a Jack Paar incident can happen. It can happen because there has been no clear answer to the question: Who's boss?

In the past six months there has been a gradual effort by television management to settle that question. Management has been asserting its authority in situations which it would have treated with timidity at this time last year.

But it is an uphill effort, as the Paar incident showed. In no other business could so trivial a dispute between employer and employee be blown into national prominence. Management is not at an advantage when a performer can go before an audience of millions to complain of censorship because he has been deprived of the chance to tell a dirty joke.

Yet the movement toward management control must be continued if broadcasting is not to be permanently at the mercy of talent whims or talent abuses.

Most of the unhappy incidents of the past six months can be traced to fragmentation of control. The quiz scandals occurred because quiz programs had become feudal enclaves, almost untouched by higher authority. Payola existed because disc jockeys were in a position to operate with virtual autonomy.

It will be difficult for broadcast management, especially network management, to work its way into a position of control that talent will respect. It was not easy for NBC to risk the loss of Mr. Paar or of the $15 million annual billings that his show is bringing in. Yet NBC must be respected for having risked them. And the network will gain still more respect if it continues to keep firm and wise editorial control over Mr. Paar's future performances.

No Canadian capers

SINCE the community antenna industry has advised Congress that is has no objection to regulation by the FCC, our government would benefit in reviewing what our good neighbor, Canada, has done to cope with its cable problem.

Canada has handled the problem simply and forthrightly. Its regulations are designed to protect the broadcaster. It is all set out in a document issued last September by the Department of Transport, which controls telecommunications but does not directly regulate broadcasting.

First, cable operators in Canada must procure a license. And before the authorization for a radio relay, the Department of Transport must seek the advice of the Board of Broadcast Governors (Canada's new counterpart of the FCC) "on the effect, if any, on television broadcasting."

Then this language:

"The license authorizing the microwave relay would become void if a television service were to be provided to the area."

This is sensible and reasonable. Several stations in our sparsely-populated West have gone under because they could not compete with cable systems. Others are teetering on the brink.

Both Congress and the FCC in their current consideration of the cable problem, will find it advantageous to give serious thought to the Canadian control policy. Even the National Community Television Assn., which is now on the record in favor of regulation, might regard the Canadian plan as fair and equitable.

Solon broadcasters

LAST week we published our annual report of members of Congress identified with ownership or operation of broadcasting stations. There are 30 legislators—13 senators and 17 representatives—who have interests in commercial or non-commercial, educational stations, either in their own names or through their families.

A decade ago there were a dozen.

The current list does not include former commentators or newsmen who won public office largely because of their air exposure, but who do not own financial interests in stations.

This active interest, whether in commercial or educational outlets, is healthy. There is nothing in the law to preclude such holdings. Nor should there be. Otherwise it would make of these legislators a sort of second-class citizenry.

We haven't seen a recent analysis of congressional holdings in newspapers or magazines. We know of several, off-hand. Before the emergence of broadcasting, there were a substantial number of publisher-legislators. The transition from newspapers to stations is in tempo with the trend of newspaper ownership of stations. Both are journalistic pursuits.

Members of Congress who are familiar with the inside of broadcasting, notably in commercial operations, know the fallacy of the popular notion that a license means huge automatic profits. They know that the current goings-on over payola and advertising excesses apply to an infinitesimal percentage of licensees and their employees.

The trouble is that these very legislators seem to avoid participation in any of the debates, or proceedings involving radio, television or advertising. They know about the problems of station operators at first hand. There is no reason for them to be gun-shy.

Legislator-broadcasters should speak up in defense of their fellow broadcasters, especially in these troubled times. They should torpedo the half-truths and the slurs. They should not regard such actions as self-serving. On the contrary, they would be fulfilling their sworn duties by providing their colleagues and the public with the facts gleaned from their own depths of knowledge.

"When our spots follow political broadcasts, we find the viewers have already been put to sleep."

Two kinds of husbands . . . one kind of television!

Husbands come in all shapes and sizes. So does KPRC television. Leave it to the program-wise wife to select the right KPRC television for her husband. One glance at the bias-cut says KPRC-TV will sell when he watches, never bind when he turns away. Always comfortable. Assorted sizes, in programs, spot announcements, participations.
