The mails in her life say the nicest things

In 1959 Big Aggie received 189,327 tender sentiments from the land where WNAX Radio is King

Big Aggie carries on quite a love affair with the mails. And it's been going on for 38 years! Last year she received a whopping total of 189,327 cards and letters from every corner of Big Aggie Land—and beyond... 11 states and Canada. Such an overwhelming testimonial of affection brings a blush to Big Aggie's cheeks. But it proves an important point. WNAX-570 gives listeners what they want in radio entertainment and service; gives advertisers what they want—active listener response.

Most of the mail in Big Aggie's life comes from an area spread across five of the nation's richest farming states; Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, North and South Dakota. In this five state, 175 county area there are 2¼ million people, 629,280 radio homes. These people earn $3 billion and spend $2½ billion at the retail level. All of this makes Big Aggie Land one of America's leading radio markets. WNAX-570 gives national advertisers a media with programs people like and listen to—popular shows that sell to people with money to spend. Your Katz man will get you a date with Big Aggie.

Seventh man • Who gets Doerfer vacancy? That became hot topic immediately after formal announcement by White House last Thursday of Wisconsin Republican's resignation and designation of Commissioner Frederick W. Ford as new FCC chairman. Because appointment will be for unexpired portion of Doerfer seven-year term, or until June 30 next year, it was generally thought that appointment might come from FCC staff level, rather than from outside.

And here are some of the names heard: Mary Jane Morris, Michigan Republican and FCC secretary since 1954; John L. FitzGerald, of Seattle, general counsel since September 1958 and before that chief of Opinions & Review; Edgar W. Holz, of Cincinnati, associate general counsel, who has figured most prominently in hearings growing out of Oversight committee cases. It's generally thought that former Sen. Charles E. Potter, Michigan Republican, who was defeated by his Democratic opponent, Philip A. Hart, in 1958 could have vacancy if he wanted it but in past he has shown interest only in chairmanship. He is now in consulting business practice in Washington, Detroit and New York.

Presidential pickers • Members have been tentatively picked for NAB committee to nominate successor to Harold E. Fellows, who died last week (story page 66), but they won't be announced for several days. Reason: Some couldn't be immediately reached for clearance. But C. Howard Lane, KOIN-TV Portland, Ore., has definitely accepted committee chairmanship and Payson Hall, Meredith stations, vice chairmanship. NAB board directive to committee permits both NAB member and non-member appointees, with total ranging from seven to ten committee members.

Together at last • Look for announcement that all major rating services, except A.C. Nielsen Co., have formed association to ward off threat of government controls and defend against government investigations. Introduction of bill in New York state legislature to regulate ratings was act that brought them together.

All-band sets • As in past, tv set manufacturers will oppose legislation to give FCC authority to require manufacture of all-band tv receivers, tuning uhf range as well as vhf. Historically manufacturers, through Electronic Industries Assn., have held that such legislation would be illegal, that it would impose upon public necessity of buying sets at higher prices than they might require, and that for first time Congress would try to regulate manufacturing per se.

While no formal position yet has been taken in relation to bills introduced fortuitously ago, S 3115 by Sen. Pastore (D-R.I.) and identical HR 10817 by Rep. Harris (D-Ark.), it is expected EIA board will formally resolve its opposition at its spring meeting which begins here tomorrow. FCC's new chairman, Fred W. Ford, personally endorsed such legislation at recent hearing before Senate Communications Subcommittee (BROADCASTING, Feb. 8) and held that legal legislation could be drafted. This view also was held by FCC General Counsel John L. FitzGerald.

ABCs of regulation • Next action by NAB's policy-making task force, 12-man unit that drew up association's program-concept testimony for FCC's hearings, will be to publish question-answer primer. Document will trace regulation by FCC, explain legal and constitutional angles, and tell how NAB reached conclusion that narrative petitions should be filed to support license renewal applications. Life of task force was extended at last week's NAB board meeting. It had been formed originally to prepare FCC hearing presentation by NAB.

Language problems • In prosecuting block-booking trial against feature film distributors (see page 78). Justice Dept. is expected to reveal some unusual film deals allegedly forced on tv stations. One southern station, in market having little Spanish-speaking population, reportedly was compelled to take six Spanish-language features in package it bought. Another outlet, with few Italian-speaking viewers, assertedly was "forced" to buy some Italian-language features. A Little Rock station, at height of integration controversy, allegedly had to take "Jackie Robinson Story" in package it acquired.

Ex-parte cases • Passed over at last week's FCC meeting were planned commission actions relating to several tv grants in which charges of ex-parte contacts were made before House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee (CLOSED CIRCUIT, Feb. 29). Before commissioners, with final action possible this week, are proposals to give clean bill of health to grants in Cheboygan, Mich., ch. 4; Fresno, Calif., ch. 12; Denver, ch. 7; Flint, Mich., ch. 12, and interwoven St. Louis, chs. 4 and 11. On same agenda are planned letters to original applicants for ch. 12 (WFGA-TV) Jacksonville, Fla., seeking more information on ex-parte charges.

Der tag • Today (Monday) is day FCC is supposed to consider new policy on program control issue. FCC Chairman Doerfer, who retires at close of business today, had called session. Special meeting was to determine whether FCC will drop present program category breakdown by percentages, required in existing license renewal form, and substitute narrative statement from stations on promise vs. performance, or adopt some variation of either idea.

Prior to Doerfer resignation, there had been indicated 4-3 split in favor of more rigid control using narrative thesis but it was thought this could change. Best prospect is that in lieu of changed FCC complexion with Comr. Fred Ford as chairman, final action may be deferred.

Boomerang • Sen. A. S. (Mike) Monroney (D-Okla.) has made hit with Adlai Stevenson and other political widows in announcing legislation to require television networks to give free time for presidential political debates (story page 72), but he raised hob with many of his own constituent stations. Immediately after announcement of plan which would implement Adlai Stevenson proposal that time be provided by networks for great debates, it's reported dozen Oklahoma stations protested directly or indirectly. They were particularly indignant because Mr. Monroney is former newspaperman who has always espoused freedom of press (and of radio).

Musical truce • Are old enmities just put aside at NAB convention time? That's question some observers were asking Friday, after ASCAP announced it would provide entertainment for convention banquet in Chicago April 6. They recognized that it's been standard procedure for ASCAP and BMI to alternate this assignment, but they wondered, in view of ASCAP's particularly bitter attack on broadcasters and BMI during FCC hearings (BROADCASTING, Jan. 18), how (1) ASCAP could face its targets so nonchalantly and (2) how broadcasters could be "entertained" by those who had so recently scathed them.

BROADCASTING, March 14, 1960
WEEK IN BRIEF

Benrus finds exceptions prove the rule • Although it failed to set a budget at start of the year, did not obtain frequency of exposure and did not use tried-and-true western or mystery formats, Benrus Watch Co. last year invested $1.8 million in six tv specials and boosted sales 7%—the first sales rise in jeweled watches since 1954. How Benrus put watch salesmen into hundreds of millions of U.S. homes for $4.50 a thousand is related by Harvey Bond, Benrus advertising director, in this week’s Monday Memo. Page 24.

St. Louis ch. 2 ruling would set aside shift

Shift of ch. 2 from Springfield, Ill., to St. Louis in March 1957 should be vacated because of private representations made to FCC commissioners—but no party in proceeding should be disqualified—FCC Hearing Examiner Horace Stern recommended in initial decision Friday (March 11).

Court had remanded case to commission because of testimony before House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee that ex parte contacts were made, principally by Harry Tennenbaum, president of KTVI (TV) St. Louis. Case was in court on appeal of Sangamon Valley, losing applicant for ch. 2 in Springfield. KTVI had been operating on ch. 36, which was shifted to Springfield, but was given special authority to operate on ch. 2 when that facility was shifted.

"Generally speaking, far greater latitude is permissible and even necessary in rulemaking proceedings than in adjudicatory proceedings," Judge Stern said. However, he said, in rulemaking concerning allocation of TV channel in particular area "such latitude must be somewhat restricted because . . . there are ordinarily likely to be parties having important self-interests . . . "

"If there be private interviews or personal letters in such proceedings from self-interested parties . . . the proceedings are thereby rendered voidable because of the danger of deception . . . ."

Rendered Void • In present case, Judge Stern said, private visits, letters and documents "imposed upon the commissioners by Tennenbaum . . . rendered voidable [shift of ch. 2] and it is necessary for the Commission to reconsider the subject matter thereof . . . ."

Judge Stern further recommended to FCC that Mr. Tennenbaum's company, Signal Hill Telecasting Co., not be disqualified in further proceeding. He said there is no evidence that Mr. Tennenbaum contacted any commission-er after cut-off date for submission of comments in rulemaking.

Examiner also stated that no commission-er, who "did little if anything more than courteously listen" to private communications, should be disqualified from ruling on further proceeding.

Albany ch. 10 plea

Veterans Broadcasting Inc., applicant for ch. 10 in Albany, N.Y., has asked FCC to persuade competitive applicant WTEN (TV) Albany, N.Y., to agree to joint operation on ch. 10 or rescind temporary authority under which WTEN is operating.

Basis for Veterans' request is court ruling last month reversing July 22, 1959, FCC order permitting ch. 28 WABF-TV Baton Rouge, La., to operate on ch. 9 that city temporarily pending outcome of comparative hearing for vhf channel (BROADCASTING, Feb. 15). Split three-judge court said temporary authority to one applicant could prejudice rights of other party.

Veterans, whose WVET-TV Rochester, N.Y., shares time on ch. 10 with WHEC-TV that city, told commission that applicants should be kept on par. It said it is ready to broadcast on cooperative basis with WTEN until completion of comparative hearing. If such arrangement cannot be made, Veterans stated, WTEN's operation on ch. 10 should cease.

WTEN has been operating temporarily on ch. 10 since December 1957. Its original grant is ch. 41.

More for FCC record

Half-dozen written statements will be presented Wednesday (March 16) for inclusion into record of three-month FCC programming hearing. Chief Hearing Examiner James C. Cunningham will preside to determine which of remaining statements should be included. Songwriter Gloria Parker, whose controversies with RCA-NBC and CBS have made news in past and Chicago's Ler Daly have both demanded opportunity to be heard. Hearing began Dec. 7 and ended Feb. 1. It produced 3,775 pages of testimony heard by commission en banc.

FTC cites 60th firm

Federal Trade Commission has filed its 60th — and latest — payola complaint against Ace Record Co. and affiliated Record Sales Inc., Jackson, Miss. Trade agency accused companies of having paid disc jockeys to play their records on air without revealing performances were paid for. FTC claimed action is unfair trade practice. Respondents have 30 days to answer complaint. FTC cited other firms fortnight ago (BROADCASTING, March 7).

Democrats review FCC political reply

Democratic National Committee was studying Friday FCC response to complaint by Paul M. Butler, Democratic national chairman, against CBS policy prohibiting saturation purchases during political campaigns. Mr. Butler was away from his office and could not be reached for comment.

FCC told Democratic Party chairman it would be "arbitrary" for it to order CBS to change its announced policy since programming was primary responsibility of licensees. FCC said Sec. 315 did not apply in controversy.

Commission made clear that it stood apart from feud by stating, "We make no affirmative finding . . . nor do we mean to imply that under a given set of facts a refusal to provide broadcast time may not raise questions . . . as to compliance with the Communications Act . . . ."

CBS's policy announced last month (BROADCASTING, Feb. 22) is to refuse paid political programs that are intended for simultaneous broadcast on two or more networks. In city where CBS owns station, network stated, it would not accept political broadcast carried on two or more local stations. Mr. Butler termed this policy "illegal, unjust and discriminatory to the Democratic Party."

New CBS policy, established by CBS' editorial board, applies only to purchase of time for political purposes and does not preclude simultaneous broadcasting of events of "clear" national or local importance.

Free time bill liked on hill; CBS opposes

Bill introduced Thursday by six senators to require tv networks and stations to give prime free time to presidential candidates of major parties (story page 72) had 13 more co-sponsors by late Friday: Sen. Francis Case (R-S.D.) and Democratic Sens. Joseph S. Clark (Pa.), Vance Hartke (Ind.), Mike Mansfield (Mont.), Gale Mcgee (Wyo.), Ernest Gruening and E. L. (Bob) Bartlett (both Alaska), Frank Moss (Utah), J. W. Fulbright (Ark.), Howard W. Cannon (Nev.), Pat McNamara (Mich.), Clair Engle (Calif.) and Ralph W. Yarborough (Tex.).

Meanwhile, CBS, which since 1955 has been offering free tv time for debates by major party presidential candidates provided splinter parties can't hold in, will oppose free tv time bill introduced in Senate.

This comes from Vice Presidents Richard Salant in New York and Ed Bunker in Washington, who note CBS tried in vain to get debates into exemptions to Sec. 315 enacted last year. CBS feels debates of national issues by major candidates can be exciting enough to merit "any amount" of free time from CBS if it's protected from splinter demands.

Critics of bill, observing it was "practically written" on floor, point out weaknesses. As introduced, it doesn't require "debate" format and is ambiguous on whether all networks and licensees would air at same or separate times, they note. On House side, one member interested in idea of free or government-purchased tv time for presidential candidates, said he is skeptical that Senate bill takes right approach and thinks it's full of shortcomings.

Strike statement

"Sufficient progress has been made to justify another meeting," John L. Dales, national executive secretary, Screen Actors Guild, and Charles S. Boren, executive vice president, Asn. of Motion Picture Producers, said Friday in joint statement after negotiating session of 2 hours, 50 minutes (see strike story, page 85). Next meeting is scheduled for tomorrow (March 15). Joint statement is first indication of any improvement in relations between producers and actors.

Slight deception

Many eyebrows shot up last week when Radio & Television Executives Society, New York, announced plans for luncheon address this Wednesday (March 16) by Lt. Gen. Francis H. Griswold, deputy chief, Strategic Air Command. Announcement said he would talk on "Use of the Broadcast Spectrum by SAC," then added this interpretation: "Or Why We Need Channels 1-6." Check with RTES officials brought assurance that, so far as was known, Gen. Griswold would discuss no such topic but rather would confine himself to ways in which SAC uses broadcasting. Their assumption was that RTES program announcement makers had taken it upon themselves to "jazz it up" presumably to hypo attendance.

Garry Moore talks

It appeared late Friday that CBS-TV, Garry Moore and four advertisers on his Tuesday 10-11 p.m. show had about ended performer's request that number of commercial "interruptions" be reduced. As it stood Friday: number of commercial interruptions will be cut from three to two in each half hour, making total cut from six to four in hour period. Commercial time, however, remains same: six minutes for total hour. Mr. Moore also had sought rotation of sponsorship as opposed to participation and elimination of middle station break, but these reportedly have not been changed. Advertisers include Kellogg, S.C. Johnson, Polaroid and Pittsburgh Plate Glass.

Discerning Philadelphians detect a sharp difference in the quality of what they see on their television screens. One reason is what they don't see: WCAU-TV's local public affairs program staff (Philadelphia's largest!), working constantly behind the scenes to create programming that is timely, compelling, effective.

Example: "Caucus," winner of a 1960 Freedoms Foundation Award. A weekly probe of the American political scene, "Caucus" has presented such notables as Dean Acheson and Senators Paul Douglas, Hugh Scott Jr., Richard Neuberger, Joseph Clark Jr., J. William Fulbright. In this election year, "Caucus" and other locally-produced shows, plus information programs that are a regular part of Channel 10's CBS Television Network schedule, will continue the all-important job of alerting the Philadelphia electorate to its responsibilities.

This programming-in-depth—this unending search for new avenues to community service—is but one more reason why audiences with an eye to more than surface value keep their eye on...

To paraphrase the old "Don't-look-now,—BUT" admonition, urgency compels us to say: DO look—BECAUSE this year's NAB Convention is almost at hand! April 3 to 6.

As always, it will attract an attendance from all segments of the broadcast advertising business...and an attention from TV and radio executives in every corner of the nation.

As always, too, BROADCASTING Magazine will serve this widespread interest with three of the most heavily-read issues it publishes each year: (1) pre-Convention on March 28; (2) during the Convention, April 4; and (3) post-Convention, April 11, rounding up everything that made news.

To accomplish this with the authoritative completeness that only BROADCASTING can, a full-scale news room is being set up in Chicago—staffed with a dozen of BROADCASTING's most experienced editors, equipped with direct lines to the BROADCASTING headquarters in Washington. These facilities (more extensive than those of all other TV-radio journals purporting to cover the Convention) assure BROADCASTING readers of thorough reports on every meeting, every committee session, every social affair. They'll probe out the trends and tenor of the Convention, its unexpected developments, undercurrents, and color. Skilfully edited, the result is the most authentic, comprehensive panorama of NAB's 1960 conclave anywhere—and indispensable as a guide to what's happening.

It adds up to a triple-barreled opportunity, too, for anyone with an advertising message that's aimed at TV- & radio's busiest decision-makers. You get the year's biggest bonus of attention with each of these three big issues, and at no increase in rates.

If you haven't reserved your space yet, this is the hour to get cracking! It's only days to deadlines—so wire or phone the nearest BROADCASTING office today. 25,000 circulation guaranteed.

YOUR POWER TO PERSUADE

In Minneapolis-St. Paul, WCCO Radio has offered top acceptance for 35 years. Now it's at an all-time high—56.8% share of audience (biggest since Nielsen began measuring the market). Which means with WCCO Radio you get more listeners than all other Minneapolis-St. Paul stations combined... lowest cost-per-thousand... and greatest acceptance ever. Adds up to the ideal setting for your power to persuade.

It takes some doing to keep up with Ernie Ford!

Ernie Ford's fast-moving NBC show is a masterpiece of precision timing that requires maximum camera maneuverability. That's why Houston Fearless Pedestals are used. Smooth, silent, steady, these tried and true units are completely dependable...a good reason why most of the big shows roll on Houston Fearless Camera Mounts.

POWER DRIVEN PD-9

Raising and lowering the camera is done by the touch of a switch with the motor-driven PD-9 Pedestal, giving the cameraman a more freedom, more versatility. Extra smooth, completely quiet. This de luxe unit costs less than you may think.

LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMP

For small studios and auxiliary cameras the Houston Fearless PD-10 Pedestal is ideal. Light weight, highly mobile, provides steady support for smooth dolly shots. Dis-assembles for easy portability. Priced lower than many tripod-dolly combinations.
Benrus finds exceptions prove the rule

In the year just ended Benrus was able to put watch salesmen into hundreds of millions of U.S. homes for $4.50 a thousand and in the process violated three tenets of time and talent buying.

The first violation was not committing our annual ad budget at the start of the year. The second was the old rule of frequency: we were not weekly or even monthly repeaters. The third was: we bought no westerns or private eye shows.

Each violation had its reasons. At the start of the year we embarked on a new pricing and guarantee policy: 17-jewel watches at $25 with an unconditional three-year guarantee. This was unprecedented, and to us, vitally important. Thus everything we did in 1959 was keyed to the word important. Obviously this eliminated any spot or "nudge" campaign from our thinking.

It also eliminated any weekly series wherein we might well talk to the same people each week. Also we would be talking to aficionados of westerns or mysteries and miss those who dislike either. And there is relatively little feeling of excitement or newness to a weekly show of any type, except the important loss of money by the sponsor when and if the series fails to build an audience.

The Special Is Special • A tv special, on the other hand, has importance, newness—the feeling of something special. It has important stars, an important time slot and important audience promotion. A message of importance gains some rub-off when it appears on an important special. These were the considerations that led us to buy Jack Benny's first special of the year and the Emmy Awards special.

Because our new, unconditional guarantee policy was designed to put honesty back into watch retailing, sincerity and credibility were the keynotes of the commercials. No trace of hard-sell or gimmickry could enter them. We had no desire to torture viewers and less desire to torture our watches: we consider them items of value to be worn proudly, not tortured, and felt that our three-year unconditional guarantee was ample proof of our endurance and honest value. When the commercials appeared, critics commented very favorably; one said they were "restrained, dignified and credible, inspired confidence and should do a good job."

Another inherent plus of the tv special is the merchandising value of a name like Jack Benny when he makes a non-routine appearance. The weeks, and often months, between the signing for a special and its appearance gives the sponsor time to prepare and distribute point-of-sale material, dealer mailings, streamers, etc., which tie the familiar face to the product, in print, and pin-point the date, day and hour with a "watch me" message. The time-lag also gives the network the time and the occasion to do a more thorough job of on-air and print promotion than they can do for a weekly series.

We continued our policy of buying specials throughout the year, collaborating in judging value with Al Hollender, Grey Adv.'s vice president in charge of tv. Often split-second decisions had to be made. In two instances we had to say yes on the phone to a proposition involving as much as $400,000. A half-hour delay would have lost us both properties. In all we bought six shows and spent $1,800,000.

We constantly strove to reach consumers emotionally as well as cerebral-ly. For example, when selling diamond watches we pointed out that a diamond watch is the second most important gift—after the engagement ring—and was really a complementary gift. Thus we tried to convey the enrichment that the gift gave both giver and receiver.

We also try wherever possible to integrate our commercials into the show with both lead-ins and lead-outs—a basic Hollender philosophy. The abrupt interruption of a show with a cliche like "and now a word from our sponsor" has always struck us as poor bridge-work and poor showmanship. Jack Benny's bridges into and out of our commercials are particularly smooth and funny.

Talent's Touch • Our over-all desire to convey honesty and sincerity was also shown in our selection of stars. Jack Benny, we believe, is a dignified, sincere and lovable character. Arthur Godfrey's sincerity and believability have never been questioned by his millions of loyal fans. And the loveliness of the performers in the "Wizard of Oz"—that great pre-Christmas show—is sufficient to touch the emotions of the most hardboiled.

How did we do? We had more shows in the top 10 than any other sponsor of spectaculars. One show was No. 1: Another was No. 2; two ranked No. 3 in their rating period. Another rated No. 5. All of the others landed in the top 25. Let's say we were not disappointed.

Incidentally, our sales were up 7% for the year—the first sales rise in jeweled watches since 1954!

For the coming year, we're planning to ride the same policy horse—at least until midstream. This month and in May we have Jack Benny specials for the Easter and graduation selling seasons. For the fall and Christmas seasons we're playing by ear. We expect to make more split-second decisions on the phone and can only hope that we do as well as in 1959.

Harvey Bond is one of the new breed of marketing executives who concerns himself as much with the styling and distribution of his products as with the Nielsen rating of his last television spectacular. As a member of Benrus' four-man marketing team he shares responsibility, with the executive vice president and the sales director, for major marketing decisions. A native New Yorker in his mid-forties, he began his advertising career with Universal Camera during depression days, later becoming co-publisher of American Camera Trade. During World War II he was a Signal Corps officer. After a postwar association with Helbros Watches, he joined Benrus in 1950. Mr. Bond was made a vice president in 1956.

Dismayed at Erickson's view

EDITOR: I read with dismay what Rodney Erickson had to say about Voice of Firestone in the Feb. 29 issue, page 70, "Tv will be flinland distributor."

What a pity that a man of his position should make such an idiotic statement about good music. I was never aware that the prerequisite of enjoying good music was being a member of the country club set....—Woodrow B. Mount Jr., Salesman, WKTV-TV Utica, N.Y.

[Mr. Erickson, now Warner Bros. consultant and formerly with Young & Rubicam, said in part: "Nobody will take Grandma Firestone's music ever again. Nobody can afford a show like that again." Discussing sponsor control of shows, he cited the Firestone show as an example of the last of the so-called stubborn advertisers wishing to program what the country club set "might like" whether or not the audience favors such programming.—THE EDITORS.]

'Oldest religious broadcast'

EDITOR: In your OPEN MIKE column in the Feb. 29 issue, David G. McIntyre, business administrator, Calvary Baptist Church, New York, has called attention to broadcasts from that church weekly since March 4, 1923. He has asked whether those broadcasts may rightly be called "the world's oldest religious broadcast."

He will be interested, therefore, in knowing that weekly church service broadcasts from Detroit’s St. Paul’s Episcopal Cathedral were inaugurated on WWJ Detroit on Easter Sunday, April 16, 1922. Disagrees with Mason

EDITOR: I have read the letter printed in your issue of March 7 from Robert T. Mason, general manager of WMRN Marion, Ohio. Mr. Mason, for whom I have the highest regard, suggests that ABC’s support of the commission's proposal to provide at least three competitive television services in major markets of the country is designed solely “in order to gain individual advantage.” Mr. Mason misses the point entirely.

Certainly ABC would benefit by having additional outlets allocated to major markets in the country. The record shows that the commission’s judgment concerning the importance of having competitive television network service proceeds from a completely different point. Throughout its consideration of television and general broadcasting, the commission has emphasized the public importance of having truly competitive nationwide service. The commission has emphasized, also, the particular contribution that network programming has made to the growth and development of television in this country.

There is no reason why, if additional slots are available, more stations should not be put into major markets. The fact that the industry may not be able to have six services in many markets would hardly be a reason for refusal to provide at least three if these are technically possible....—Alfred R. Beckman, Vice President, ABC, Washington.

Look who’s sold on ABC

The company on ABC is not merely good. It’s smart. Knows, if you please, the selling import of these basic ABCs: A) Share of audience—ABC-TV is now consistently first or second every night of the week. B) Kind of audience—ABC-TV’s programming selects the younger homes, with growing, consuming families. C) Cost of audience—ABC’s cpm of homes ($2.88) is lowest in the business of network selling. If you agree on the value of these ABCs, you can be sold—successfully—on ABC Television.

BROADCASTING, March 14, 1960
A WEEK OF SHOCK AND SORROW

In three days last week broadcasting lost one champion through death and another through political calamity. In a time already marked by unprecedented crises, a new chief regulator of still uncertain inclinations came to power.

- Death claimed Harold E. Fellows, president of the NAB, and left broadcasting's main trade association without a full-time leader at a moment when leadership was never more to be desired.
- A political cross-fire caught FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer, a strong advocate of broadcasting freedom and foe of government controls. He resigned in the wake of disclosures that he had repeated an indiscretion for which he had been criticized two years ago.
- Into the FCC chairmanship stepped FCC Commissioner Frederick W. Ford who at times has been in sharp disagreement with Mr. Doerfer over FCC regulatory policies. What course the FCC would take under Mr. Ford's guidance, now that there are strong demands for crackdowns on radio and television, was the subject of wide interest in broadcasting.

DOERFER OUT, FORD IN, SEAT OPEN

Another joyride to Miami forces a change in the FCC command

The FCC loses one chairman today, gets a new one tomorrow and will then be left with a vacant chair.

The vacancy is to be filled by a Republican appointment to be confirmed by a Democratic Senate in a hot political year.

These conditions were created by the resignation of FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer after a week of strong congressional and newspaper criticism. The resignation was submitted last Thursday and immediately accepted by the President.

At the same time the President chose FCC Commissioner Frederick W. Ford, a Republican government career man from West Virginia, as the new chairman of the FCC. Mr. Doerfer's tenure is to end today (March 14) and Mr. Ford's to begin tomorrow.

Mr. Doerfer told the President he was resigning to avoid possible embarrassment to the administration, although he had no misgivings about his conduct.

The President complimented Mr. Doerfer for loyal and effective service but said that circumstances suggested that his decision to resign was wise.

Target of Congress • Head of the commission since July 1, 1957, Mr. Doerfer had been severely criticized by members of Congress and some newspapers because of social favors he accepted from multiple station owner George B. Storer (At Deadline, March 7).

The troubles leading to his resignation under fire began March 4 when Mr. Doerfer admitted, under sharp questioning, to the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee that he and Mrs. Doerfer had flown to Florida and back in Mr. Storer's private airplane and spent six days and nights aboard the broadcaster's yacht. The Wisconsin Republican had been under sharp attack by the same subcommittee in February 1958 for the same kind of trip financed by the same Mr. Storer.

Commissioner Ford's ascension to the chairmanship was an expected result of the resignation of Mr. Doerfer. He will be the fourth Republican head of the agency since Mr. Eisenhower became President in 1954. In addition to the man he succeeds, Commissioner Ford was preceded as chairman by George C. McConnaughey and present Commissioner Rosel H. Hyde.

Ford's Acceptance • The White House named the new chairman simultaneously with the 4 p.m. Thursday announcement that Chairman Doerfer had resigned. Commissioner Ford released the following statement Thursday afternoon:

"I appreciate the expression of confidence which the President has shown in designating me chairman. It is with a great degree of seriousness that I undertake this assignment. There are more problems facing the commission today than at any time in history. The problems at times seem almost insoluble. The commission, however, is composed of dedicated men, better qualified than any group I know, who will continue to apply their long years of experience, knowledge and ability to the solution of these problems. I am sure that solutions can be found and we are determined to find them."

Second to Go • The retiring chairman is the second member of the commission to resign under fire following testimony before the Legislative Oversight Subcommittee. Two years ago, Commissioner Richard A. Mack resigned and later was indicted and charged with conspiring with Miami attorney Thurman A. Whiteside to award ch. 10 Miami to National Airline. Their first trial ended in a hung jury, and they are awaiting a second trial (see story, page 81).

Last Wednesday morning, while the FCC was in its regular weekly session, Chairman Doerfer was at the White House conferring with the President. He first talked with the chief executive's aides and then asked for, and received, an audience with Mr. Eisenhower. At that meeting, he told the President that...
The resignation of FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer was announced six days, almost to the hour, after he had admitted to the House Oversight Subcommittee that he and his wife were taken to Florida and entertained by George B. Storer.

In that week the pressures built until he could no longer stand against them.

It was between 4 and 5 p.m. March 4, Friday, that Mr. Doerfer, under questioning by Rep. John Moss (D-Calif.), told the story of his Florida vacation (Broadcasting, March 7). He admitted that he not only had been the guest of Mr. Storer aboard the yacht Lazy Girl, as newspapers had reported earlier that week, but that he and Mrs. Doerfer also had been flown to and from Miami in the Storer plane.

Over the weekend of March 5-6 there was a scattering of newspaper comment calling for his resignation (see box page 36). But on Monday, March 7, Mr. Doerfer told friends he was confident that the White House would regard his trip as he regarded it—a harmless social occasion of no political consequence.

On Tuesday, March 8, he learned that some members of the White House staff had taken a more serious view. The next morning he went to the executive headquarters in an effort to settle things. Receiving little assurance from the President’s advisors, he asked to see the President himself.

What he wanted from the President was an endorsement. What he got amounted to an invitation to resign.

Interview With Eisenhower • Mr. Doerfer told the President he thought he was being subjected to unfair criticism by some elements of the press. There was no conflict of interest in his acceptance of Storer hospitality, he said.

He had asked to see the President. He explained to the Chief Executive, because he felt impelled to discuss with him the widespread publicity about the Florida vacation. As the President stated later in his letter accepting Mr. Doerfer’s resignation, the President expressed faith in Mr. Doerfer’s personal integrity but said that under the circumstances Mr. Doerfer’s decision to resign seemed wise.

The President and Mr. Doerfer agreed that Mr. Doerfer would write a statement to be sent to the White House the next day, Thursday. But he would resign. Both his formal letter of resignation and the President’s acceptance were dated the next day. In his formal statement to the President, Mr. Doerfer said:

“I am resigning as a commissioner of the Federal Communications Commission and its chairman, effective at the close of business on March 14, 1960.

“The mandate from Congress which requires a commissioner to study new uses for radio and generally encourage the larger and more effective use thereof requires day-to-day contact with many industry people. A number of these contacts eventually ripen into social acquaintances, and sometimes friendships, which, despite appearances, do not imperil the integrity of either the government official or the member of the industry.

“I have not, nor will I, waver from my views that the best solution to overnight Mr. Doerfer, advised by friends, decided to try to make a fight of it. He sought to delay White House action until Monday, March 14, hoping he could appear the day before on CBS-TV's Face the Nation or NBC-TV's Meet the Press to take his case to the public. As far as could be learned, he had not obtained clearance with either network.

On the morning of Thursday, March 10, Mr. Doerfer requested White House agreement to his plan. The request was denied. A White House car was sent to Mr. Doerfer's residence to pick up his letter of resignation.

Last Goodbye • At 4 p.m. Thursday Mr. Doerfer went to the FCC to advise a special meeting of department heads that he had resigned. To his staff chiefs he read his letter of resignation and made a brief statement thanking them for their "help throughout the years."

"I am satisfied that through all of your efforts throughout the years this country enjoys one of the finest communications systems in the world," he said. "You can take a deep and genuine pride in this—in between barricades."

He asked FCC Commissioner Rosel Hyde to read Mr. Eisenhower's letter accepting the resignation. Before Mr. Hyde started reading, Mr. Doerfer left. The meeting took about 10 minutes.

At the same time James C. Hagerty, press secretary to the President, released the texts of the Doerfer-Eisenhower exchange and announced the appointment of Frederick Ford as new FCC chairman.

modern day government regulation of complex industry problems demands a thorough knowledge of that industry and actual contact with the members thereof. Nonetheless, to avoid possible embarrassment to you and your administration, I submit this resignation as of the date above indicated.

"It was indeed a privilege to serve under you these past seven years."

Mr. Doerfer did not mention the House investigative subcommittee, either in his letter to the President or in a statement to commissioners and key commission staffers Thursday afternoon when he told them of his resignation (see box, this page).

Ike's Reply • In accepting the resignation, President Eisenhower wrote Mr. Doerfer:

"I have your letter submitting your resignation as member and chairman of the Federal Communications Commission.

"I regret the circumstances which have led you to your conclusion but they do, in my opinion, indicate your decision to be a wise one. Your resignation is, accordingly, accepted effective, as you suggest, at the close of business on Monday, March 14.

"In the discharge of your duties as a member and then as chairman of the Federal Communications Commission you have served tirelessly, loyally, effectively—and with dedication. For your public service over many years at local, state and federal levels you have earned the appreciation of your fellow citizens and of the administration.

"I wish you every success in your future undertakings."

An Empty Seat • The 55-year-old chairman's resignation raised immediate speculation as to who would be appointed to the commission vacancy in this presidential election year. Already before the Senate for confirmation is the renomination of Commissioner Robert E. Lee, a Republican, and now the Democratic Senate will be asked to confirm a second Republican appointment to the FCC.

Because of the Senate debate on civil rights, practically all committee activity has come to a halt. Moreover, Sen. Warren Magnuson (D-Wash.), chairman of the Commerce Committee which acts first on the nominations, has indicated that he will be in no great hurry to consider the Lee nomination since his current term does not expire until June 30.

Mr. Doerfer's successor would be appointed to fill the 15 months remaining in the outgoing chairman's unexpired term. While the new commissioner will be named to fill an existing vacancy, the Senate Commerce chairman has given no indication whether action on his confirmation will be expedited.

In announcing his resignation, Mr. Doerfer did not give any indication of future plans. A lawyer, he will be prohibited by the Communications Act from practicing before the commission for a period of one year. This prohibition applies only to commissioners who resign and not those who serve out their full term.

Now pending in the House is a bill (HR 2156) which would (1) ban any former federal employee from practicing before the agency he was employed by for two years and (2) prohibit former government officials from representing... any party on any matter "concerning which he had responsibility" while with a government agency.

Attorneys have interpreted the second provision as a lifetime ban excluding any former commissioner from appearing before the FCC on any application, rulemaking, etc., which was pending at the time he left the commission. This would be true, it was theorized, because a commissioner is charged with "responsibility" over every matter before the FCC.

During hearings two weeks ago by the House Judiciary Committee on HR 2156, FCC General Counsel John FitzGerald expressed the commission's opposition to these two provisions of the bill, introduced by Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.), chairman of the House committee (Broadcasting, Feb. 29).

First Ford Task • Somewhat ironically, the first official duty for new Chairman Ford will be to give the FCC's views tomorrow (Tuesday) on pending legislation dealing with the ethics of government officials and reforms at the commission. Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) of the House Commerce Communications Subcommittee has summoned the commission as the first witness when his group begins hearings on several government reform bills. Mr. Harris is chairman not only of the Communications and Oversight Subcommittee but also of the parent Commerce Committee.

The principal measure under consideration is HR 4800, introduced by Rep. Harris following the 1958 investigations of the FCC and individual commissioners by the Oversight Subcommittee, also headed by Rep. Harris.

FORD: SOFT-SPOKEN BUT FIRM

A career government servant . . . a Republican who rose to a top FCC staff job under a Democratic administration . . . an FCC lawyer who carried the ball in two of the Commission's outstanding policy proceedings . . . a protege of Attorney General William P. Rogers . . . a commissioner who is 180 degrees apart from the regulatory views of departing FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer . . . that's Frederick W. Ford, the new FCC chairman.

The youthful-looking, 50-year-old West Virginian has, during his 30 months on the commission, made a name for himself in one of the touchiest fields of today's broadcasting arena. He is a firm believer in regulation, including the consideration of programming.

He's been the FCC commissioner responsible for discussions with the Office of Civilian & Defense Mobilization of possible exchange of television's uhf frequencies for some of the military's vhf frequencies to set out a broad, contiguous band of vhf for television.

Although this examination is officially still underway, latest reports indicate that chances are dim for the hoped-for swap.

Mr. Ford is also considered the architect of the Commission's present interim tv allocations plan—the dropping in of vhf channels in major markets where there are fewer than three vhf channels, at less than the required minimum mileage separations.

Program Policy • The new chairman's position on regulation including programming consideration, was first made public last year. Speaking to the West Virginia Broadcasters Asn., Mr. Ford said that the FCC owed it to broadcasters to codify in some fashion its policies on programming.

"It's been my view for a long time," he said, "that it is highly unfair for the Commission to lie in ambush, so to speak, while practices are developing which violate its concept of the public interest, convenience and necessity, and then make an example of an uninformed broadcaster."

"I believe, rather, it is generally our duty to inform the public through appropriate orders or reports of the criteria we expect to apply in advance of action against an individual broadcaster."

Mr. Ford suggested that the FCC institute an "investigatory" proceeding on programming on a community basis, the purpose of which would be to determine the best way for the Commission "to carry out its responsibility under the law for the consideration of programming and determining that an applicant will serve the public interest, convenience and necessity."

Out of such a hearing, Mr. Ford explained, "I would hope there would develop a reasonably well defined policy where the greatest freedom would be assured the broadcaster in programming his station and at the same time the Commission would perform its function of protecting the public interest, convenience and necessity with the minimum of interference to that freedom."

Narrative Reports • He also expressed the idea that the broadcaster tell the Commission in narrative form what the needs of the community are and how those needs have been met by the licensee.

"So far as I know," Commissioner Ford stated, "no one at the Commission has the slightest desire to tell any broadcaster that he should or should not broadcast any particular program. It has been my observation that we all feel strongly that he should make an account to the Commission under the law for his stewardship of the public property committed to his care."

He belittled the common argument that the broadcaster gives the public what it wants and if the public doesn't like it he can turn the set off. Suppose, he asked, a station which was the only one in its community played five records continuously. The public interest would not be served, Mr. Ford declared, and the turn off process would be useless.

"If, as a matter of principle, the Commission is powerless to take action in such a case it is reduced to impotence in preventing the public property from being used to abuse the public by monopolizing its receivers with monotony."

Censorship Interpretation • To those who argue that the no-censorship provisions of Sec. 326 of the Communications Act prohibits the FCC from considering programming, Mr. Ford has this reply:

"To call this function [consideration of programming] censorship would be to give Sec. 326 an overriding dominance which would disregard the statutory scheme."

His concluding remarks might well be pasted in the hats of all broadcasters in the light of his elevation to the FCC chairmanship:

"No broadcaster should ever feel that he is in a strait jacket of any kind nor that his programming flexibility is fettered or his imagination is circumscribed. He should take seriously the burden and trust that Congress has placed in him that he will properly exercise his privilege to serve all the public in his service area. How he is to do this is his problem, but that he must do it the law demands."

This attitude was evident during the FCC proceedings on programming which concluded early this year. During questioning of witnesses, Mr. Ford consistently approached the question from this point of view.

When Attorney General Rogers’ report on the rigged quiz scandals was issued on Dec. 30, 1959, Mr. Ford hailed it as resolving the question of FCC authority in this field. Mr. Rogers maintained that the FCC does have the power to consider program content.

Mr. Ford’s attitude toward another regulatory area has also been made quite clear. This is the question of the transfers of stations. During the FCC hearings on the network study report, Mr. Ford implied at various times that he favored some sort of hearing when broadcast stations are sold. At one point he asked how the industry could justify the extensive hearings in contested application cases for initial grants, but be barred from a similar proceeding when a station was transferred to new ownership.

Career Man • The genial and soft-spoken Frederick Wayne Ford was appointed to the FCC in 1957. He replaced the retiring FCC Chairman George C. McConnaughey for a full, seven-year term that expires June 30, 1964. It was at that time, also, that President Eisenhower named Commissioner John C. Doerfer as chairman.

Mr. Ford’s appointment then was hailed as merit recognition. Mr. Ford had been an FCC attorney from 1947 to 1953. He was chief of the Broadcast Bureau’s Hearing Division when he left the FCC in 1953 for the Justice Dept.

It was during these years that he was chief FCC counsel in two of its biggest and most delicate hearing cases. One was the G.A. Richards case and the other was the ABC-United Paramount Theatres merger. The three-year-long Richards case involved charges of biased news broadcasts and was closed with the death of Mr. Richards in 1951. In the 18-month ABC-UPT case, the Commission decided a major policy—that previous antitrust violations did not automatically debar an applicant from receiving a broadcast license.

He joined the Dept. of Justice in 1953 as first assistant to J. Lee Rankin, then assistant attorney general in charge of the Office of Legal Counsel. In January 1959, Mr. Ford was named assistant deputy attorney general, serving directly under Attorney General Rogers. He worked mainly in the field of congressional liaison.

Ford’s Schooling • Mr. Ford was born in 1909 in Bluefield, W.Va., the son of the state superintendent of schools. He received his A.B. in 1931 and his LL.B. in 1934, both from West Virginia U. He was associated with the Clarksburg, W.Va., law firm of Stathers & Crantrall for five years.

He joined the Federal Security Administration in Washington in 1939 in the general counsel’s office. He specialized in old age and survivor’s insurance. He went to the Office of Price Administration in 1942 but left in Sept. of that year for the U.S. Army Air Force. He served as chief of enlisted personnel in Montgomery, Ala., and Fort Worth, Tex. He was discharged as a major and returned to OPA. In 1947 he joined the FCC.

Mr. Ford married Miss Mary Margaret Mahony last October. Mr. Ford’s first wife died in 1958. He has a 14-year-old daughter, Mary Carter. They live in Alexandria, Va.

DOERFER: TARGET FOR TROUBLE

John C. Doerfer had a stormy career as chairman of the FCC.

In the first major hearings held by the Legislative Oversight Subcommittee after its formation more than two years ago, Mr. Doerfer was the first big target.

Under questioning by Bernard Schwartz, then the subcommittee’s special counsel, Mr. Doerfer testified he had made speeches, including some for pay, at broadcaster conventions; had taken, but later returned, travel expenses from KWTV (TV) Oklahoma City on a trip the government had paid for; and had been the guest of George B. Storer on a Miami trip to inspect uhf reception. He defended all these on the grounds that a commissioner must observe the broadcasting industry at first-hand so he can make wise policy decisions.

Mr. Schwartz was fired by the subcommittee, and the investigation then turned to FCC Commissioner Richard Mack who was forced to quit and later was indicted.

When the same subcommittee questioned him last March 4 about his recent trip to Miami as a guest of Mr. Storer, Mr. Doerfer asserted the same defense.

“I don’t think a commissioner should be a second-class citizen,” he said. “I . . . Shake, come out fighting • John Doerfer (l) and Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.) sparred verbally in many arenas, but Mr. Doerfer eventually lost.

The Doerfer case in newspaper, radio editorials

A sampling of 60 daily newspapers out of the nation's press last week showed that one out of every four editorialized about the March 4 testimony of FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer before the Legislative Oversight Subcommittee. All that editorialized were critical and the majority called for his removal.

WTOP Washington, however, in an air editorial March 7 said that although Mr. Doerfer erred in yachting with Mr. Storer, the FCC chairman's record in recent months "deserves more praise than blame." WTOP said Mr. Doerfer "has been one of the few in a position of high authority to stand firm against those who argue that the best way to curb broadcasting's ills is to impose much broader federal regulation. He has warned that such regulation would be self-defeating and that the most effective means for the industry to better its performance is by self-improvement and response to public criticism."

Typical of newspaper comment was the March 6 "Payola at the Summit" editorial of the Washington Post and Times-Herald, whose broadcast division operates WTOP. The newspaper concluded: "One may sympathize with Mr. Doerfer's good intentions, but the best that can be said of his acumen is that if he doesn't know any better he doesn't belong in the chairmanship of a commission which has the responsibility of regulating an industry which has shown altogether too many ethical lapses."

Columnist Roscoe Drummond, who is syndicated by the New York Herald-Tribune, on March 9 felt "the case against Mr. Doerfer's conduct—or misconduct—as FCC chairman goes beyond the improprieties. Attorney General William Rogers has already told the President, in effect, that the inaction of the FCC has contributed to the 'mess in television,' that the FCC had power to clean up the scandals and failed to do it."

Eisenhower's Headache • Mr. Drummond wrote that the next move was up to the President "because his appointee as FCC chairman has let him down."

The columnist contended Mr. Eisenhower "must share the blame for Mr. Doerfer's conduct as long as Mr. Doerfer remains in office."

The New York Herald-Tribune, also on March 9, ran a three-column editorial headed "Mr. Doerfer should resign" and asserted that his admissions before the Harris subcommittee "indicate that he is lacking in the moral perception required by his office."

The Hartford Courant on March 7 concluded, "It seems pretty evident that so long as Mr. Doerfer heads the FCC, not much is going to happen to force television to clean house."

If Mr. Doerfer's conscience is really clear and he was quoted correctly, the Salt Lake Tribune said March 6, "then his sense of ethics is dulled to the extent that he is hardly qualified for the office he holds. He would do well to step out and make way for the appointment of a man with the required understanding and stature."

The Toledo Blade on March 7 felt it was "bad enough" that Mr. Doerfer admitted accepting social favors from George Storer, "but that Mr. Doerfer professes to see nothing wrong in this cozy arrangement ... raises a serious question as to Mr. Doerfer's qualifications to be a member of the FCC, let alone its chairman."

The Wisconsin Republican had gained favorable comment as chairman of the Wisconsin Public Service Commission, a post he vacated to join the FCC. A cum laude graduate of the Marquette U. Law School, Mr. Doerfer also served three terms as city attorney of West Allis, Wis., a suburb of Milwaukee.

As chairman of the commission, Mr. Doerfer was outspoken in championing the broadcasting cause for self-regulation. He has repeatedly warned against the concept of government regulation and questioned closely—at times almost antagonistically—government control proponents during the recent FCC programming hearings.

It was Chairman Doerfer who sold the networks on the idea of alternating public service programming on a regular basis during prime time. He has staunchly maintained that the commission has no jurisdiction in the programming field. On the other hand, Mr. Doerfer entered vigorous dissents to station sales on the ground the buyers featured too many commercials on their other stations.

One of Mr. Doerfer's most recent proposals recommended that the NAB should adopt a seal of approval of programs and commercials (Broadcasting, Feb. 8). Mr. Doerfer openly urged repeal of Sec. 315 of the Communications Act, requiring stations to give equal time to all political candidates.

He has worked long and hard for the means and methods to cut down the commission's backlog and has been an outspoken critic of "due process" forced on the agency. In this regard, he has recommended to Congress that the legislative separation of commissioners from the FCC staff be repealed.

Mr. Doerfer never gave up hope that additional vhf tv space can be obtained from the government and has been against proposals to shift all tv to uhf on the grounds the public would suffer through loss of service and poorer reception.

The chairman's resignation came just three weeks before he was scheduled to play a leading role, topped by a major address, in the NAB convention to be held April 3-6 in Chicago.

Lawmakers approve Doerfer's action

Capitol Hill reactions to the resignation:

Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.), chairman of the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee: Said he is "not surprised. I think under the circumstances it was a wise decision and in the best interests."

Rep. Peter Mack (D-III.), Oversight member: "Doerfer's action in accepting hospitality from a broadcaster reflected on the President because it was the President who appointed him." He termed Mr. Doerfer's conduct as "not expected of one in high authority."

Rep. Walter Rogers (D-Tex.), Oversight member: "... I think it is very well things have taken this turn. It will help to keep the faith of the American people in their government institutions and in the proper investigation of these matters."

Rep. John Flynt (D-Ga.), Oversight member: "I'm not at all surprised."

Another thinly disguised WJR success story

"WON'T YOU PLAY A MONEY MELODY"

Strike the right chord for the right audience and you've got sales music.

Listen to the story of a retailer of home electric organs who was introducing a new model. The price of this organ restricted the market to a very distinctive group. He placed a 2-week announcement schedule on WJR.

On the day of the first commercial, a customer dropped in and asked to see the organ he had just heard about on his car radio. He bought. In fact, sales were slightly overwhelming throughout the advertising campaign.

This points up one of the basic philosophies at WJR. We program for minority groups as much as for general interest groups. Instead of day-in, day-out radio of the same type for the same daily audience, we broadcast something different for different audiences... for farmers, for housewives, for lovers of classical music, for people who listen for entertainment, for people who want to learn, not just listen.

We call it complete-range programming... programming with something for everyone. With it we serve our total audience, not just one part over and over again.

FOODS TOP NETWORK GROSS BILLING

Toiletries also help to bring network total to $627.3 million

Foods and toiletries advertisers were responsible for nearly one-third of the $627.3 million gross billing in network tv last year. The two advertiser categories of foods and food products and of toiletries and toilet goods spent a combined $215.4 million plus for network gross time purchases. Foods advertisers spent the most ($113,099,511) and toiletries advertisers put in $102.3 million. Final network gross time figures by product classifications were released last week by Television Bureau of Advertising with completion of fourth quarter statistics. The computations showed foods advertisers with more than $30.5 million and toiletries at the $26.2 million level in the fourth quarter.

Third top category in 1959 was in smoking materials, tobacco advertisers buying over $75 million worth of network time at the one-time rate. Just behind the smoking category came drugs and remedies advertisers at $74.95 million.

The four categories combined racked up a total billing at the $365.3 million level, or more than half of the total gross in network television. Each of these key categories—as well as soaps and household equipment—showed an increase in gross billing over 1958. Automobile advertising, however, was down nearly $6 million.

Political broadcasting will, of course, take a big leap this election year. The $274,290 totaled by the politicians in 1958, would probably not pay for a single network broadcast.

COMPILATIONS OF NETWORK BILLING

Compilations of network billing are made by Leading National Advertisers and Broadcast Advertiser Reports.

Robert Hall gets set

Robert Hall Clothes will lead off its parade of Easter season advertising with radio promotions of 13 new store openings in March. The firm will open up with the "most extensive radio and tv advertising schedules in history," according to an announcement by the advertiser's agency, Arkwright Adv. Co., New York.

The Robert Hall spring fashion campaign, which will peak through Easter and continue with saturation schedules through June, will be on 316 radio and tv schedules in 160 markets, the agency said.

Called America's largest family
There are fashions and fads and trends in advertising. The advertiser who starts one, has something very much his own. But he who imitates sometimes reminds the buying public of the advertiser who did it in the first place! It is an idea which sells the product. An original, more than a copy. People buy ideas.

Young & Rubicam, Advertising
Bulova will use a variation of its historic time signal announcement which at one time had made the expression, "Bulova watch time," familiar to radio audiences everywhere. The campaign reportedly will concentrate on the top 50 markets of the country using two or three stations in each market. As many as 50 IDs each week in each of the markets appear to be in the Bulova plan.

Bulova has not been in spot radio for some years. The advertiser vacated its time signal franchises and moved into television (network and spot) as the visual medium expanded. TV still will play a major role in Bulova's broadcast advertising.

Tv sells loans

In this television era, there are apparently many dissenters from Shakespeare's dictum: "Neither a borrower nor a lender be." Thorp Finance Corp., Thorp, Wis., is pleased to lend money. And thousands of residents in Wisconsin and Minnesota evidently are delighted to borrow from Thorp, a substantial television advertiser.

Since 1956, Thorp has allocated the lion's share of its advertising budget to TV. And the borrowers are flocking to its doors. In the past three and a half years, largely through TV's selling impact.

Thorp has opened eight new offices in Wisconsin and Minnesota, raising its total to 64 in its bi-state business area.

R. Goeres Hayssen, the company's director of advertising, cites two dramatic examples of TV's pulling power. Six months ago, Thorp offered shares of its stock to Wisconsin residents. Within a week the issue was oversubscribed. Mr. Hayssen contends that TV had "so impressed viewers with the Thorp name" that they rushed to buy company stock.

In June 1958, Klaue-Van Pietersom-Dunlap, Milwaukee, the company's agency, sent questionnaires to almost 2,000 past and current borrowers, seeking to establish the advertising factor that triggered their decision to do business with Thorp. The results, according to Mr. Hayssen, showed clearly that TV had been the most influential medium.

Thorp allocates about $175,000 annually for the broadcast media ($165,000 for TV and $20,000 for spot radio). It is sponsor of Lockup (Ziv) over WISN-TV Milwaukee, WFRV-TV Green Bay, WISC-TV Madison, WKBT-TV La Crosse and WEAI-TV Eau Claire. The radio schedule is spread over 20 stations.

Thorp uses live commercials to advance its objectives of stabilizing year-around borrowing with debt consolidation and increasing individual sum loans and seasonal loans. The success of Thorp in the finance field is indisputable. It is regarded as the largest Wisconsin-owned company of its type with capital of more than $27 million. Assets are more than $82 million and 1959 earnings were approximately $1.25 million.

Effective advertising is a significant factor in the highly competitive finance business. Mr. Hayssen explains Thorp's advertising strategy this way:

"TV is our primary medium. We rely on it for broad coverage, impact, prestige and the opportunity for sponsor identification."

A $70 MILLION GRAND SLAM

Radio and tv coverage of major league baseball in 1960, spurred by its ever-present line of sponsors, glittering extras and the anxiously-awaited debut of wide range colorcasting should boost the overall tab to a solid $70 million, an all-time high, according to Broadcasting's annual survey.

Tv coverage, impaired by bans in three tempting markets —Los Angeles, San Francisco and Milwaukee—still figures to increase slightly with networks expanding high, wide and handsome to neighboring areas.

Limitations imposed by the Dodgers and Giants stem from clubowners, Walter O'Malley and Horace Stoneham, respectively, who have kept an eye to the day when wire toll tv might become an actuality.

Heavy With Color • New, is the full-scale color move of WGN-TV Chicago and WLWT (TV) Cincinnati. WGN-TV leads off strongly with colorcasts of the Cubs' entire 77 home game (all daytime) schedule and counters with 43 colorcasts of all White Sox home day games. WLWT plans some nighttime colorcasting of Redleg games.

Both CBS-TV and NBC-TV are negotiating Game of the Week contracts which are said to be far in excess of 1959 figures that set a financial record up to that time. And Mutual will broadcast 130 games with an overall package cost estimated at approximately $750,000. Weekend games are available for national sponsorship—which will be announced shortly—while weekday contests are offered for local co-op sale.

Ham'n's Many Buys • As usual, beer and tobacco sponsors cling to the bigger sponsoring positions with oil companies a shade behind. Biggest new advertiser is Ham'n's Beer through Campbell-Mithun which will pick up the entire radio-tv tab of the Baltimore Orioles, plus one third each of the White Sox and Cub games. In all, 15 teams will be sponsored, all or in part, by breweries, with Los Angeles the only exception.

Below are the major leagues' lineups as of last Friday.

American League

WHITE SOX: WGN-TV Chicago will colorcast all 43 daytime home games of the American League champions and will telecast in black and white some away games. WCFL, that city, expanding its network to 60 stations in 12 states, will broadcast all White Sox games for the 10th straight year. Four sponsors (25% each) for radio are General Tire & Rubber Co. and Anheuser-Busch, both through D'Arcy Adv., General Cigar Co. (White Owls) through Young & Rubicam and General Finance Co. through Gordon Best Co. Package cost reportedly is $580,000. Tv sponsors, same as Cubs games, are Theodore Hamm Brewing Co. through Campbell-Mithun, Minneapolis, and Oklahoma Oil Co. through Needham, Louis & Brorby, Chicago. No figures are available.

INDIANS: WERE-AM-FM Cleveland will originate broadcasts of complete schedule over a 35-city network. WEWS-TV, that city, will televise 56 games, one more than in 1959. Most tv games will be weekends and nights. Sponsorship is shared by Carling Brewing Co. through Lang, Fisher & Stashower, Cleveland, Standard Oil of Ohio (Sohio fuel) through McCann-Erickson and Central National Bank through Fuller & Smith & Ross. This is second of two-year contract on both radio and tv.

YANKEES: Though not completely "official" yet, telecast plans for New York reportedly will follow last year's pattern with 125 games to be carried by WPIX (TV), that city, and a limited number to be fed on weekends to three or four tv stations in nearby areas. WMGM will air complete 154 game schedule. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. and P. Ballantine & Son, both through Wm. Esty Co., will share sponsorship. In addition, a regional 40 station radio network, sponsored by Ballantine and the Atlantic Refining Co., both through N.W. Ayer & Son, will broadcast games in upstate New York and parts of Pennsylvania. Total estimated cost has been set at roughly $1 million.

ORIOLES: WJZ-TV Baltimore will telecast 47 games (including one exhibition), 11 home and 36 road contests, with WBAL, that city, broadcasting the entire schedule. Hamm Brewing Co., through Campbell-Mithun, Baltimore, picks up the entire tab for both radio and tv.

TIGERS: Stroh Brewery Co. (a newcomer replacing Goebel Brewing Co.) and Speedway Petroleum Corp. will split the tab for Tigers baseball on a 50-station regional network and an eight-station tv hookup. Agencies are Zimmer, Keller & Calvert for Stroh and Doner Co. for Speedway. WKMH Dearborn will serve as originating outlet for the radio network which includes WWJ (afternoon games) and WJR (evening contests), both Detroit. The regional network covers all of Michigan and also Fort Wayne, Ind., and Toledo, Ohio. WJBK-TV will televise 42 games (12 night home and Saturday home each, plus nine Saturday and Sunday road games each).

RED SOX: The complete Boston schedule will be carried on WHDH Boston, 55 to be telecast by WHDH-TV. Radio coverage will include about 40 stations throughout New England on tv coverage being fed to five other stations (WPRO-TV Providence, R.I.; WTIC-TV Hartford, Conn., WMTW-TV Poland Spring, WABI-TV Bangor and WAGM-TV Presque Isle, all Maine. Tv sponsors will be Narragansett Brewing Co. through Cunningham & Walsh (¼); Atlantic Refining through N.W. Ayer (¼); R.J. Reynolds through Wm. Esty Co. (¼) and Ford Dealers of New England, through J. Walter Thompson (¼). On radio, one-third sponsorship will be shared by Narragansett, Atlantic Refining and Ford Dealers of New England. Rights to the games, owned by Narragansett (¼) and WHDH-AM-TV (¼), are estimated at $500,000. NBC-TV and CBS-TV each have scheduled 50 Saturday and Sunday games for broadcast through-out the season but sponsorship information has not been announced at this time.

ATHLETICS: WDAF Kansas City and six state radio networks again will broadcast complete schedule with WDAF-TV telecasting some away games to be announced next month. Joseph Schlitz Brewing Co. through Majestic Adv., Milwaukee, Skelly Oil through Bruce B. Brewer Co. and a third client still to be announced will share sponsorship.
SENATORS: WTOP Washington will broadcast the entire schedule with WTOP-TV increasing its telecast schedule of 1959 from 13 to 24 games (all on weekends with exception of Memorial Day doubleheader). National Brewing Co. through Doner Co. and two others to be announced will share sponsorship on radio. Sponsors on tv will be Colgate-Palmove-Peet (Wildroot cream oil) through Ted Bates, General Cigar Co. (Robert Burns) through Young & Rubicam, General Mills (Wheaties) through Knox Reeves and two others to be announced.

National League

DOCKERS: KFI Los Angeles will carry the complete regular season and exhibition schedule over 19 station network with KTTV (TV), that city, telecasting 11 games from San Francisco. Co-sponsors are Union Oil Co. through Young & Rubicam, Los Angeles, and American Tobacco Co. through Lawrence C. Gumbinner Adv., N.Y. Overall broadcast tab is said to be about $2 million, which includes 11 telecasts (presented by Dodgers as public service programming because of agreement which prohibits home game telecasting).

BRAVES: WEMP Milwaukee again will be the originating outlet for all broadcasts on a 50-plus regional network in parts of Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa and Minnesota, which also includes WMIL-FM, both Milwaukee. There will be no television. Miller Brewing Co. through Mathisson & Assoc., and Clark Oil & Refining Co., through Tatham-Laird again will pick up sponsorship, with American Tobacco Co. (Tareyton cigarettes), through Lawrence C. Gumbinner Adv., replacing P. Lorillard & Co. (Kent cigarettes) as the third sponsor. They are buying the complete regional network. Miller held exclusive rights 1953-55, sub-contracted half in 1956-57 and threw it open to two other advertisers in 1958—the start of a second new five-year pact. Mathisson handles details of the baseball package.

GIANTS: KSFO San Francisco and Golden West Network will broadcast entire schedule with Falstaff Brewing Co. (50%) through Dancer-Fitzgerald-Sample, N.Y., J.A. Folger Co. (coffee) (25%) through Fletcher Richards, Calkins & Holden, San Francisco; American Tobacco Co. (Tareyton cigarettes) (25%) through Lawrence C. Gumbinner Adv., N.Y., picking up the tab. Estimated cost listed at more than $1 million.

PIRATES: KDKA Pittsburgh will carry entire schedule with KDKA-TV telecasting about 30 away games, all Saturday and Sunday. Sponsorship on both radio and tv is shared by Ford Dealers of Allegheny County through J. Walter Thompson, Atlantic Refining Co. through N.W. Ayer & Son and Pittsburgh Brewing Co. through Ketchum, McLeod & Grove.

CARDINALS: KMOX St. Louis will carry the entire schedule on an 80-station network encompassing 12 states and KPLR (TV), that city, will televise 40 road games. Anheuser-Busch (Busch beer) sponsors the entire package through Gardner Adv., St. Louis. Estimated cost has been set at $400,000, with participating sponsors allowed in on both radio and tv. Anheuser-Busch also is set for regional half-sponsorship of NBC-TV's Game of the Week, on about 28 stations in its distribution area.

REDLEGS: WLWT (TV) Cincinnati will televise 53 games (23 home all in color, 27 road and 3 to be determined as the pennant races develop) and in addition, pioneers in full-scale nighttime colorcasting with a newly developed tube from the Crosley Broadcasting Co. that makes colorcasting possible under normal lighting conditions (both day and night). Picking up the tab will be Hudepohl Brewing Co. through Stockton-West-Burkhart, Cincinnati, Standard Oil of Ohio through McCann-Erickson and Colgate-Palmove-Peet through Ted Bates. WKRC Cincinnati will broadcast complete schedule under sponsorship of the Burger Brewing Co.

CUBS: WGN-TV Chicago completely breaks the color barrier by telecasting the Cubs' entire 77 home game schedule in color at no additional cost because of "experimental" programming. The Cubs, only major league club without lights, play all home games in the afternoon. WGN-TV also plans to originate a couple of colorcasts from Cincinnati (also making a color debut this season) as well as 17 other black and white telecasts of away games. WGN, under new five-year contract, will broadcast all 154 games. tv sponsorship will be shared by Theodore Hamm Brewing Co. (Ham's) beer and Oklahoma Oil Co. through Campbell-Mithun, Minneapolis, and Needham, Louis & Brorby, Chicago, respectively. Radio sponsors are Oak Park Fed-

On radio, coverage will be fed to 27 outlets in eastern Pennsylvania, Delaware and southern New Jersey. tv games will be fed to WGBG-TV Lancaster and WNEP-TV Wilkes-Barre. Sponsorship on all radio-tv outlets will be by Atlantic Refining through N.W. Ayer (1/2); Ballantine through Esty (1/4); Bayuk Cigars through Wermen & Scheur (1/6) and Tasty Baking through Aitkin-Kynett (1/6). Rights to the games, held by Atlantic Refining, are estimated to be $500,000.
TV viewers hear 15 famous Americans tell why they're Millions of Americans have been taking weekly strolls down memory lane recently. Their companions: fifteen of the nation's most prominent people, reading from their favorite works, usually to their children and grandchildren. The occasion: Reading Out Loud, a weekly series designed and produced by the Westinghouse Broadcasting Company in cooperation with the American Library Association. The purpose: to encourage reading by children and adults.

To the many viewers who remember the pleasure of being gathered with their brothers and sisters to listen to their parents read, the programs are a charmingly nostalgic experience.

And for the guest readers, too. For each faces the camera to tell, in his own words, the special personal meaning this treasured custom holds for him.

SRA SEEKS TO EXPAND SPOT MARKET

Proposes liberalized tv station breaks, tighter product protection

A three-ply attack on two of the thorniest problems in spot television—product protection of network sponsors and a dearth of premium-length time for spot sale—was proposed last week by Station Representatives Assn.

SRA President H. Preston Peters, of Peters, Griffin, Woodward, proposed to the presidents of the three tv networks that these problems be tackled in a conference of network officials, station representatives and owners of network-affiliated stations. Copies of Mr. Peters’ letter went to all network affiliates.

Network officials did not immediately react—at least not publicly. There was some feeling that some if not all of them might prefer to approach the problems through their respective affiliates’ advisory groups.

With regard to the SRA proposal that station breaks be liberalized to give affiliates more time to sell, officials of one network said—but in another context, before existence of the SRA proposal became known—that they would not be disposed to cut their programs any shorter than they are now.

Growing Trouble • Both product protection and a shortage of desirable availabilities have made life increasingly difficult for stations. Minute availabilities were reported virtually sold out eight months ago (Broadcasting, July 27, 1959). Product protection has been worrying stations more and more as shared sponsorships, cross-plugging and participation sales by networks have increased. Making it harder for affiliates to know just what network-advertised products they would be called on to protect (Closed Circuit, Jan. 4).

SRA suggested the following “tentative agenda” as a basis to stimulate discussion at the proposed conference (but noted that “there are probably many other items of mutual interest that might suggest themselves to you and the other participants”):

1) Definite standards of product protection with specific reference to:
   a) The number of separate products of a sponsor of a given program entitled to protection.
   b) Restrictions, if any, as to the protection to products of cross-plugged sponsors.
   c) Length of notice to stations required to provide protection to products of new sponsors or new products of existing sponsors.

2) Possibility of cutting time of 30-minute evening shows to 29 minutes. 20 seconds.

3) Possibility of cutting time of 15-minute daytime shows to 14 minutes and of 30-minute daytime shows to 29 minutes.

(4) Provision for spot availabilities during network programs exceeding 30 minutes in length.

(5) Greater flexibility on the part of stations in the sale of network sustaining programs.

Disagreement • There were some differences between SRA and network authorities over the suggestion that half-hour evening programs be cut to 29 minutes 20 seconds. Network authorities said that for the most part these shows already are 29:20. SRA leaders, however, maintained that they were at least five or six seconds longer than that—in any case, they said, the breaks aren’t long enough to accommodate two 20-second spots, which is what reps would like to have, foregoing the 10-second ID.

With a few exceptions which permit longer breaks, most daytime shows also run 30 to 40 seconds less than the full 15-minute or half-hour period. The SRA plan would shorten them by a full minute, which the representatives would like to sell en toto.

The idea of providing for spot availabilities in network shows longer than 30 minutes in length, according to SRA authorities, relates to station breaks. They said that while the general practice among networks now is to provide station breaks in most such shows, this has not always been the case and the representatives would like some assurance that it would be done in the future.

The final proposal on SRA’s suggested agenda, they said, simply means that representatives—and stations—would like to have the right to sell network sustaining on a national spot or local basis, subject of course to re-capture by the network if it finds a sponsor.

Current Practice • There are not now any “definite standards” on product protection of network advertisers by local stations, though it is generally agreed by networks and representatives that affiliates try to avoid selling competitive announcements adjacent to network programs. That they sometimes slip up is also freely acknowledged.

Scheduling cigarette advertisers so as to protect other cigarette advertisers is generally conceded to be one of the most difficult problems for stations, but there are a number of other situations involving soaps, toothpastes, etc.—where separation is hard to insure.

Many station operators have said it's not too hard to avoid putting a toothpaste spot, for example, adjacent to a network show sponsored by a rival toothpaste; the real problem, they say, comes in protecting a totally different product that may be cross-plugged on the toothpaste program.

The SRA letter listed four changes in the structure of network television which it said have had "significant impact on both network and spot": (1) an increasing number of one-hour and longer than one-hour programs; (2) multiple sponsorship and shared multiple sponsorship; (3) cross-plugging of advertisers' products; (4) campaigns and schedules of shorter duration. The letter continued:

"The net effect of these and other changes has been to impair the growth of stations' revenues from spot television. Network affiliated stations find great difficulty in accommodating spot advertisers because of the complicated system of product protection inherent in multiple sponsorships on the network.

"Moreover it is difficult to plan a stable spot schedule because a system of product protection that fits this month's or even this week's needs for network sponsors may soon be out of date because of the rapidly changing network-advertised products. The rate structures which television stations offer spot advertisers were developed during a period when the great majority of evening network programs were 30 minutes in length, sponsored by one advertiser on a fairly extended schedule. Then affiliated stations were able to schedule their spot commitments in such a way as to afford a reasonable product protection to network advertisers.

"Furthermore, spot advertisers are finding disproportionate advantages from the 60-second announcement vis-a-vis the 10-second one... ."

For Strong Networks, But • The letter said SRA "firmly believes that a strong network system is indispensable to the health of the entire television industry." But networks, it continued, should also recognize that a large part of the money on which stations must rely "comes to them from spot business."

The letter suggested that, if the networks were interested, a committee be named to contact "appropriate governmental agencies"—presumably including the Justice Dept.—to make sure such a conference would not be deemed improper.

John Blair of John Blair & Co., acting president of SRA in President Peters' absence from New York, said late last week he had had no response from the networks. Nor did they have any comment for publication.

Salada tea drops radio-tv advertising
Salada tea has pulled out of spot radio and tv. Its advertising budget, it was revealed in New York last week, will use magazine and newspaper advertising exclusively. A major share of the budget formerly had been placed in the broadcast media (roughly $2 million).

The tea brand is a product of Salada-Shirrriff-Horsey, Boston, the U.S. division of the parent company in Toronto, and therein lies a story. For apparently the parent firm in Canada was tv-minded at about the same time that Doyle Dane Bernbach, New York, charted the new Salada course for the U.S. company's advertising.

The parent firm—Salada-Shirrriff-Horsey Ltd., Toronto—and Leo Burnett of Canada, its agency, only two weeks ago put a Russia vs. Canada hockey game at the Winter Olympics (Squaw Valley) on ice and in television less than 40 hours before the Feb. 28 game time.

The rapid placements started on the preceding Friday afternoon when Bob Brown, account supervisor at Burnett, learned of the availability of the game on CBC-TV and then started a succession of events that included clearance with the network, approval by sponsor and setting up of commercials (for both English and French networks of CBC-TV). In Canada food commercials must be cleared with the Dept of Health & Welfare and usually take from four to six weeks.

CBS-TV REVISES COMMERCIAL RULES

New orders set 'guide lines' for taste and program interruptions

Two new memoranda were issued from CBS-TV last week, one setting down "guide lines" for taste in commercials, the other prescribing standards for positioning commercials within programs. The policies they contain became effective March 3 for new business and must be applied to existing commitments as well by Sept. 15.

Of the two, the one pertaining to taste is the more provocative and the least specific. It came from Joseph H. Ream, head of the network's internal practices unit, who prefaced it by saying that while taste is subjective, final decisions about it must be made by the network. The tone followed CBS Inc. President Frank Stanton's dictum that CBS-TV must be master of its own house.

One of its few specific provisos deals with newscasters. It prohibits them from leading into commercials with any descriptive phrases beyond a simple mention of the sponsor's name. Other prohibitions rule out: negative copy for foot remedies, "unpleasant" references to foot disorders, pictures or schematics of feet and schematic visual devices depicting bodily functions or unwanted hair.

Beyond those specifics, the guide lines principally suggest an "accentuate the positive" treatment of commercials for personal products and proprietaries. Dealing with headache remedies and similar products, the memorandum says they may use cause and effect techniques provided the emphasis is on pleasant after-effects.

Toilet Technique • Mr. Ream cited commercials for bathroom tissue which have appeared on the network as examples of how personal products may be presented in good taste and used them to argue that categorical refusal to accept such advertising would have been unwise. He also said that commercials for toilet bowl cleaners and room deodorizers could be treated with equal taste and would not be banned from the network.

In another of his prefacing remarks Mr. Ream said acceptability will be determined by "advertised claims, the selling line, the manner of presentation, the time of day at which broadcast, the nature of the sponsored program and

TEXT OF CBS MEMORANDUM ON COMMERCIAL TIME STANDARDS

The following time standards reflect the maximums allowable. In certain areas, for example, news programs, CBS-TV may apply stricter standards. Accordingly the Department of Program Practices should be advised as early as possible of plans for projected programs and sponsorship.

Allowances of time for commercials follows the standards as specified in the NAB Television Code.

Positioning of Commercials
1. Entertainment Programs
   a) Quarter-Hour Entertainment programs. A maximum of three commercial positions (in addition to billboards) is permitted, but the main entertainment portion of the program may be interrupted not more than twice. Because of general practice of alternate sponsorship, the major sponsor may be permitted three product commercials in two positions, in which event the bridge between the two commercials in the one position will be considered part of commercial time. Example: Opening program teaser
      Billboard
      Opening commercial
      Program
      Middle commercial
      Program
      Closing or alternate sponsor commercial
      Program
      Credits
      Closing billboard
   b) Half-Hour Entertainment Programs—Night. A maximum of three commercial positions is permitted, but the main entertainment portion of the program may be interrupted not more than twice. Four products or services may be advertised, but in this case one of the commercials shall be in a "piggyback" position, and the bridge between the two commercials shall be counted as part of commercial time. Examples are as set forth in (a) above.

   c) One Hour Entertainment Programs—Night. A maximum of six commercial positions is permitted, but the main entertainment portion of the program may be interrupted not more than five times.

2. News and Public Affairs Programs
   a) Quarter-Hour Programs. A maximum of three commercial positions is permitted with the main news portion of the program interrupted not more than once.
   b) Half-Hour Programs. The position requirements for half-hour programs are the same as for entertainment programs. Only four product commercials will be permitted either day or night. In the case of the evening programs, if the four product commercials are used, one will be in a "piggyback" position and the bridge between the two commercials shall be counted as part of commercial time.
   c) One Hour Programs. A maximum of six commercial positions is permitted but only four program interruptions will be permitted.

3. Billboards. These shall be limited to sponsor or product identification without additional descriptive phrasing.

4. Lead-ins to Commercials on News Programs. The lead-ins to commercials by CBS News personnel will be limited to "Now a word from (name of sponsor or product)."

5. Alternate Sponsor Commercial. Alternate sponsor commercials may advertise two products by "piggyback" provided the total number of products permitted to be advertised on the program is not exceeded and provided approval is secured from the major sponsor.

6. Effective Date. Subject to prior acceptances under existing commitments, the foregoing standards shall be effective immediately. Most programs presently fully comply, and the standards shall be fully effective on Sept. 15, 1960.

TEXT OF CBS MEMORANDUM ON COMMERCIALS’ TASTE AND ACCEPTANCE

The following guide lines will be applied in the consideration of taste in the acceptance of commercials for broadcast over the CBS Television Network.

Taste must, by its very nature, be a matter of subjective judgment, and the decisions on acceptance for broadcast shall be made solely by the CBS Television Network. However, the Department of Program Practices welcomes and invites discussion with advertisers, agencies and producers, and in cases of specific questions such discussions should be had in advance of commitments for any purpose.

The great majority of the products advertised on the CBS Television Network present, in themselves, no question of taste. As to these products, taste becomes a problem only in the manner of presentation of the commercial message.

Television by its very nature—its unique impact, its combination of sight, sound and motion—requires special standards. As a subscriber to the NAB Television Code, the CBS Television Network does not accept advertising of products or services not acceptable under the Code. A copy of the NAB Television Code, Fifth Edition, which includes interpretations adopted to Jan. 23, 1959, is attached. All persons concerned with production or acceptance of commercials should be intimately familiar with the Code.

Except for products which are not accepted for broadcast, acceptability as to matters of taste will be determined by advertised claims, the selling line, the manner of presentation, the time of day at which broadcast, the nature of the sponsored program and similar considerations.

I. Special Standards for News and Public Affairs Programs. Commercial copy which may be accepted for entertainment programs is not necessarily acceptable on news and public affairs programs. Stricter standards will apply in this area. CBS News personnel will be limited on lead-ins to commercials, to naming only the product or the sponsor without additional descriptive phrasing.

II. General Standards—Personal Products.

1. Cold and Headache Remedies and Antacids. Advertising for these products may utilize cause and effect techniques if the emphasis is placed upon the pleasant after-effects afforded by use of the products. A sequence showing a person with a cold or headache should never be over-emphasized. Schematic charts of circulatory, respiratory or digestive systems should be presented with restraint and only to indicate the principle of relief rather than clinical details of discomfort. Emphasis should be positive—on pleasantness rather than distress.

2. Foundation Garments. Use of live models should be avoided except when fully clothed. and product demonstrations should be confined to such elements as fabric, design and durability.

3. Remedies for Foot Disorders. These include corn and callous remedies, athlete foot remedies and other foot powders. Negative copy is unacceptable in this area. No unpleasant references to disorders of the feet or visual shots of the foot, and no detailed schematic showing of the foot for product demonstration will be allowed. Emphasis should be on good grooming or comfort as a result of using these products.

4. Bathroom Tissue. The commercials for this product have been presented in very good taste. This has been a good example of the wisdom of dealing with the question of product acceptability by recognition of the unique nature of television and consequent adherence to the highest standards of taste. In this case categorical refusal of product advertising, while presenting an easy solution, would have been unwise and undesirable.

5. Other Personal Products. These include laxatives, deodorants and depilatories. In the same area from the standpoint of taste are toilet bowl cleaners and room deodorizers. As in the case of bathroom tissue, advertising of these products is not refused provided the highest standards of taste are observed. As further guidance, negative or "scarce" copy (for example, showing persons who are in pain or discomfort or who are socially offensive) is not acceptable; neither are clinical visual devices. Also unacceptable are schematic visual devices depicting bodily functions or unwanted hair.

III. Implementation. These standards will be effective immediately, subject to prior commercial acceptances under existing commitments. The standards will be fully effective on Sept. 15, 1960.

Questions of interpretation in specific areas should be addressed in New York to Mr. Herbert A. Carlborg, director, program practices, and in Hollywood to Mr. William Tankersley, director, program practices, Hollywood.

IV. Additional Considerations. This memorandum, of course, is not intended to be all inclusive in the broad area of taste. In addition, other considerations, such as validity of claims, will be taken into account in accepting commercial material.

V. Continuing Study. Procedures are underway to secure, on as informative a basis as possible, the benefit of continuing viewer reaction. In addition, the Research Dept. will include typical commercials in a substantial number of program analyzer sessions and will tabulate the results for purposes of evaluation and interpretation.

/s/ Joseph H. Ream

similar considerations.” Mr. Ream concedes this leaves some room for discussion.

The second memorandum, issued by program practices chief Herb Carlborg and dealing with commercial placement, leaves far less room for discussion. It consequently may have more immediate effect on advertisers who deal with CBS-TV.

The most drastic of its changes is in regard to billboards which precede and follow a sponsored program. The general practice has been to limit them to 10 seconds per sponsor, with no limitations of what they may consist. CBS-TV now says the billboards may include only the name of the sponsor, with no additional descriptive phrasing. In effect, this ruling will deprive a sponsor of two 10-second commercials per program which he had been getting without counting against his allowed commercial time.

New Ground Rules • Most of the Carlborg memo dealt with the number of interruptions of program material allowed for commercials and for handling of dual-product commercials and those of alternate sponsors.

The Carlborg memo also says an alternate sponsor may advertise two products by “piggybacking” if it doesn’t push the number of commercials per show over the allowable limit and if the major sponsor approves.

A SAD SEARCH GETS UNDERWAY

NAB starts talent hunt for the man to take over presidency

NAB has started a nationwide manhunt—a search for someone of national stature to take over direction of the association.

Death of President Harold E. Fellows March 8 (see story page 66) left the association without an operating head. Interim direction was set up two days later by the NAB Board of Directors meeting in Washington.

Formal search for Mr. Fellows’ successor will start when a special nominating committee has been named. Formation of this committee was authorized March 10, its members to be picked by the respective chairmen and vice-chairmen of the Radio and TV Boards.

Until a new president takes over, the association will function under a three-man board committee. Everett E. Revercomb, secretary-treasurer and only remaining corporation officer since Mr. Fellows’ death was named acting administrator by the board.

Nine Year Rule • NAB operated under Mr. Fellows’ direction nearly nine years. He was selected and signed to a contract in 1951 by a committee empowered to name the new president and negotiate a contract. The current nominating committee is empowered to propose a successor but final decision will be up to the NAB board. Mr. Fellows’ contract had been renewed and revised, with his latest term having been extended to June 1961.

Talk of a non-broadcaster president of national eminence in politics, military or industry has been revived. Two past NAB presidents—Neville Miller (1938-44) and Judge Justin Miller (1945-51), came from the campus and courts, respectively. Mr. Fellows, a longtime broadcaster, had succeeded Judge Miller.

Named to serve on the three-man administrative group, which will act as an interim regency supervising NAB policy and operation were Clair R. McCollough, Steinman Stations; G. Richard Shafto, WIS-TV Columbia, S.C., chairman of the NAB-TV Board, and Merrill Lindsay, WSOY-AM-FM Decatur, Ill. A committee of seven to 10 members will be named to pick a nominee for the next NAB president. The committee is to include both members and non-members, according to the board’s directive.

Membership of the three-man regency group—all of whose members belong to the NAB Task Force named last December as a top-level association policy committee—and the nominating committee, was left to a four-man group comprising Mr. Shafto and Payson Hall, respective TV board chairman and vice chairman, and F.C. Sowell, WLAC Nashville, Tenn., and Thomas C. Bostic, KIMA Yakima, Wash., chairman and vice chairman of the Radio Board.

Draw Up Policy • The task force drew up NAB policy guiding the association’s participation in the FCC’s recent program-regulatory hearings. The NAB joint board voted to continue the task force at least until the next board meeting in June.

The two-day meeting of the full NAB board and the separate Radio and TV Boards took these steps:

- Cut the maximum allowable one-minute spots in half-hour participating programs from six to five.
- Approved naming of E.K. Hartenbower, KSMO-TV Kansas City, as successor to Donald H. McGannon, Westinghouse Stations, as chairman of NAB TV Code Review Board.
- Opened Standards of Good Practice for Radio Broadcasters to NAB non-member stations and set scale of fees for subscription. (See code and standards story, page 68).
- Endorsed proposal to put teeth in radio standards.

A committee headed by Arthur Hull Hayes, CBS board member for radio, will draft a resolution paying tribute to the service of President Fellows. The directors were honorary pall-bearers March 11 at funeral services for Mr. Fellows.

Persons of Stature • Informal talk of the NAB presidency included persons of the stature of Gen. Alfred Gruenther, former chief of staff, and Dean Acheson ex-Secretary of State. Other names discussed by broadcasters included Paul A. Porter, communications attorney and former FCC chairman; Joseph H. Ream, CBS-TV program practices vice president; Robert D. Swezey, recently retired from active direction of WDSU-AM-TV New Orleans; Theodore C. Streibert, ex-broadcaster (MBS, WOR-AM-TV New York), former director of U.S. Information Agency and now with the Rockefeller interests in New York; Robert K. Richards, former NAB assistant to the president and more recently special NAB advisor, head of a public relations firm and holder of interest in broadcast stations; John C. Doerfer, who resigned last week as FCC chairman, and Lester W. Lindsey, executive director of Assn. of Maximum Service Broadcasters (on leave from WFDF Flint, Mich.).

The NAB presidency will be a main topic among delegates attending the April 3-6 industry convention in Chicago, assuming the new man hasn’t been selected by that time. At the board

Mr. McCollough  Mr. Shafto  Mr. Lindsay  Mr. Revercomb

NAB’s interim regency • Three veteran NAB board members were named March 8 to direct administration of the association until a new president is named to succeed Harold E. Fellows. They are Clair R. McCollough, Steinman Stations; G. Richard Shafto, WIS-TV Columbia, S.C., chairman of the NAB-TV Board, and Merrill Lindsay, WSOY-AM-FM Decatur, Ill. All three are members of the special NAB task force named in December to direct NAB’s participation in recent FCC hearings into its regulatory powers. The full task force (six directors and six NAB department heads) continues in operation. The three-man regency will direct NAB administration, with Everett E. Revercomb, NAB secretary-treasurer, serving in the role of acting administrator handling day-to-day operations.

When Harold E. Fellows took office as president of the NAB in 1951, he told Broadcasting: “Whatever I’ve got, I’ll give to the job.”

Last week he gave the last of it. On March 8 at the age of 60 he died in an oxygen tent in Washington’s George Washington U. Hospital. A few hours earlier he had been stricken with a heart attack at the NAB office after returning from lunch.

In his service of nearly nine years, he devoted a seven-day week to the mounting problems he faced as NAB president. His health had been deteriorating for several years, forcing him at times to take brief periods to recuperate from fatigue and respiratory illness. He had been bothered, too, with a circulatory condition in his legs. Through this period of illness he had maintained his normal work load.

Recent months had been the most difficult of his administration, particularly after quiz-rigging scandals and payola charges had whipped up public indignation and legislative pressures for increased broadcast regulation by federal agencies.

The Last Day • Mr. Fellows had lunch March 8 with Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, after sitting with the NAB TV Finance Committee in the morning. Returning to NAB’s headquarters, he sat down in the lobby complaining of shortness of breath. Staff executives called an ambulance, whose crew administered oxygen. He was able to talk for a while but the crew, headed for Georgetown U. Hospital, took him instead to George Washington U. Hospital, much closer, when his condition became worse in the ambulance.

En route to lunch he had talked briefly with an old acquaintance, answering a question about his health with the comment, “Oh, I just keep going.”

Funeral services were held at noon, March 11, at Westminster Congregational Church, Washington. Burial was scheduled at Gilmanton, N.H., where he has maintained a residence for a number of years.

A simultaneous service for Mr. Fellows was conducted in Boston Friday noon at New Old South Church.

Surviving are Mrs. Fellows and two daughters, Mrs. Barbara Spangler, of Weston, Mass., and Mrs. Jeanne Edgerly Steele, of Brookline, Mass., and seven grandchildren.

Mr. Fellows belonged to a large number of civic, industry and social organizations as well as advisory committees to government agencies. Among government committees were the President’s Advisory Council on Youth Fitness and President’s Committee on Employment of the Physically Handicapped. He belonged to the Congregational Church. Fraternities were Theta Chi, Alpha Epsilon Rho and Alpha Delta Sigma. He was chairman of the board of Governors of the Broadcasters Club of Washington.

Hundreds of telegrams and messages were received from all parts of the world as news of his death was carried by press associations.

Honorary pallbearers at the funeral were members of the NAB Board and NAB department heads.

Mr. Fellows maintained a Washington apartment at Cleveland House, 2729 29th St. NW but spent as many weekends as work permitted at his farm home in New Hampshire. He flew almost fortnightly to Boston early in his administration when he lived at suburban Swampscott, continuing the practice when he moved to The Farm.

A Massachusetts Man • Harold Everett Fellows was born March 22, 1899, at Amesbury, Mass., near Boston. He attended Haverhill (Mass.) High School, writing advertising copy after school. At 17 he was a student at New York U., studying business administration at night classes and working at the New York Tribune during the day.

From NYU he returned to Haverhill, going into the beef-selling business. He married Janet Edgerly June 10, 1919. After a day of beef-selling he would take a singing troupe to evening engagements all over New England. When he discovered people liked to hear him talk and tell stories, he dropped the singing act for monologues and the banquet circuit. He has always been at his best in front of an audience, a knack that helped build his broadcast industry popularity and provided literally thousands of opportunities to tell the broadcast message to audiences all over the nation.

In 1928 he did a program series on WEEI Boston. This led to a job at two joint board sessions, the presiding officers were G. Richard Shafto, WINS-TV Columbia, S.C., Board chairman, and F.C. Sowell, WLAC Nashville, Tenn., Radio Board chairman. Mr. Fellows had presided at joint board meetings in his capacity as NAB board chairman.

Chicago in ’64 • The joint board decided to hold the 1964 NAB convention at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, Chicago. This interrupts the tradition of west coast conventions every five years. The 1961 convention will be held May 7-11 at the Shoreham and Sheraton Park Hotels, Washington. In 1962 and 1963 the conventions will be held at the Conrad Hilton, setting a pattern of three consecutive conventions in Chicago.

Next autumn’s series of eight NAB Fall Conferences will open Oct. 13 at the Biltmore Hotel, Atlanta, winding up Nov. 21-22 at the Edgewater Beach Hotel, Chicago.

At the Radio Board meeting Robert L. Pratt, KGGE, Coffeyville, Kan., urged expanded use of NAB promotional and public relations material. Reporting as chairman of the Radio Public Relations Committee, he said the committee had adopted a resolution giving “formal recognition to the skillful and strenuous efforts in behalf of radio public relations in recent months by the staff of NAB.”

Head of the NAB public relations staff is John Couric.

Richard H. Mason, WPTF-FM Raleigh, N.C., reported on FM activities as chairman of the NAB Fm Radio Committee. A special Fm Day April 3 will feature the opening of Chicago convention activities.

Increase Shown • A report showing an increase in NAB radio membership was submitted by Ben Sanders, KICO Spencer, Iowa, and William Carlisle, NAB station relations manager. Radio membership stands at 1,567 am and Harry M. Frost agency as radio director. In 1931 he moved to Greenleaf Advertising Agency for a year and in 1932 became assistant general manager and commercial manager of WEEI. Five years later he was named general manager when CBS leased the station from Boston Edison Co. He was intensely interested as a station manager in civic and charitable causes, building a wide reputation for public service programming.

An Association Man • Mr. Fellows’ NAB connection began with committee service during the forties. In 1947 he began a four-year term on the NAB Board of Directors where he served on the finance committee. His NAB record included service on the public relations committee and he was active in developing the Standards of Radio Practice that became effective in 1948. His in finance activity gave him an insight into association problems that was helpful when he was named for the presidency in April, 1951, by a board-designated selection committee.

When Mr. Fellows took office, Judge Justin Miller shifted from the presidency to board chairman and general counsel. At the time Mr. Fellows took over the presidency, the board had been seeking someone with practical broadcast and business experience to serve as operating head of the association. Mr. Fellows met the specifications and quickly became an active president and administrator.

During his regime he led a ubiquitous life, visiting broadcasters, attending meetings, making as many as two and three speeches a day, and holding down one of the busiest desks in Washington. He beefed up some of the NAB headquarters departments and kept in touch with legislative and regulatory agencies in Washington. As an administrator, he gave department heads freedom to carry out their work on their own, intervening only when he wondered if results were not coming up to his expectations.

No Let-Up • For years Mr. Fellows had cautioned him to slow down, especially during the press of broadcast scandals and adverse industry publicity. In February he spent a few days in Nassau but didn’t seem rested after the brief vacation. His last public appearances in Washington were on Feb. 24 when he delivered the keynote address to the NAB State President’s Convention and appeared on the platform the same day during the Voice of Democracy Awards luncheon.

Since he became a national industry figure in 1947 he had been active in the fight for broadcast freedom. Last Jan. 26 he appeared at the FCC’s hearings into its own powers, proposing in formal testimony a new “test of public responsibility” doctrine of FCC regulation in which licensees would justify their right to renewal by filing a narrative petition with the Commission. This doctrine was drawn up by a special NAB task force.

Last week was especially trying for the man who had been both president and chairman of the board of NAB since 1954. With broadcasting and its trade association embroiled deeper than ever in a crisis, he faced a major board meeting to prepare for the NAB convention April 3-6. It was the day before the board met that he died.

A. James Ebel, KOLN-TV Lincoln, Neb., chairman of the NAB Engineering Advisory Committee, reviewed the FCC proposal to consider applications for waiver of the FCC’s minimum tv station separation mileage.

Reporting for Television Information Committee, Mr. McCollough, NBC television, said approximately 150 tv stations are subscribers to Television Information Office. He predicted the number will be increased to 175 by the end of next month. Louis Hausman, director of TIO, outlined steps taken to improve industry image of television.

Mr. Revercomb, acting administrator, has had extensive experience at NAB. He had been the association’s auditor from 1935 to 1943 when he entered the Navy. After the war he returned to NAB as assistant treasurer, leaving in 1950 to join National Assn. of Home Builders. He was named in 1956 to succeed the late C.E. Areney Jr. as secretary-treasurer. The board re-elected Mr. Revercomb last week.

Six directors, all on the Radio Board, were absent. They were Jack S. Younts, WEEB Southern Pines, N.C.; Mel Figi, WAUX Waukesha, Wis.; John H. DeWitt, Jr., WSM Nashville, Tenn.; Rex Howell, KREX Grand Junction, Colo. Robert F. Hurleigh, MBS, and Harold Hough, WABP Fort Worth.

Appreciation

Mrs. Janet Fellows, widow of NAB President Harold E. Fellows, voiced her appreciation and that of her two daughters, for the tributes and expressions of sympathy from industry, government, organizations and friends. “The warm friendship for Harold that is reflected in the flowers and the many messages that came to Washington in the last few days is deeply appreciated and my family and I would like to express our sincere gratitude. The kindness of all of our friends is a great consolation to us at this time.”
NAB ADDING STARCH TO CODES

Tv: spot limit cut, N.Y. code office set; radio: standards open to non-NAB outlets

NAB's board of directors for the second time in three months strengthened the association's tv code structure and the standards of good practice for radio.

The NAB tv board of directors, acting on recommendation by the NAB tv code review board, voted to reduce the maximum number of spots in participating programs and to open a code office in New York.

The radio standards were opened to non-NAB stations and a scale of subscription fees was adopted.

Under the NAB board action, a paragraph was added to the tv code specifying that no more than five one-minute spot announcements may be presented in a half-hour participating program. The former maximum number of spots was six.

Less Irritation • Behind the move was a desire by code officials to reduce the irritation factor in participating programs, where commercial time allowances are more liberal than in the case of normal programs. In some areas tv stations were described as occasionally interrupting feature films and syndicated tv films as often as every five minutes with one-minute commercials. Reduction of the maximum number of spots in a half-hour participator from six to five is expected to help solve the irritation problem. This would expand minimum program segments between commercials from four to five minutes.

Donald H. McGannon, Westinghouse Stations, presented the tv code board's report to the NAB tv board. It was his final act as code board chairman. His term ends with the NAB April 3-6 convention, since he was ineligible for reappointment.

E. K. Hartenbower, KCIO Kansas City, becomes the new code board chairman. Size of the board was increased from five to seven (see photo legend this page). Appointments to the board were made by Harold E. Fellows, NAB president, prior to his death March 8.

Both the tv code and radio standards had been stiffened last Dec. 4 by the NAB directors to meet criticism that resulted from quiz-rigging scandals and payola charges.

New York Code Office • Another important tv code step was the decision to open a New York office in the near future. An assistant director will be in charge. He will report to Edward H. Bronson, tv code affairs director, who will continue headquartering at NAB's Washington headquarters. Constant contact with networks, advertisers and agencies will be possible in New York when the branch office is opened in that city.

A new executive assistant will be named for Washington headquarters to handle detail work. He will report to Mr. Bronson.

The West Coast office, servicing the tv film industry in Hollywood, will be expanded by addition of an executive. Frank Morris, an assistant director, heads the Hollywood code office.

Retiring chairman McGannon described the plan to increase the code budget to more than $250,000 compared to the original $125,000 budget last year (plus cost of Hollywood office added in summer). He praised the work of the personal products subcommittee under the chairmanship of Mr. Hartenbower.

Agencies, advertisers and stations have been cooperating in the board's effort to keep personal products commercials within the bounds of good taste, he told the tv board, mentioning recent revision of Ban (deodorant) commercials based on dramatic shots of revolving statues. This has led to improvement all along the line, he added.

Work May Grow • The New York office may be expanded as the tie with Madison Avenue develops. As in the case of the Hollywood office, the board is hoping to improve its effectiveness in keeping objectionable program material and commercials from getting on the air.

In approving the plan to put teeth into the radio standards of good practice, the radio board left details of enforcement to the radio standards of practice committee and staff.

The annual subscription rate will be 10 times the highest published one-time, one-minute spot rate with NAB member stations receiving a 40% discount (paying 60% of the rate). Maximum annual fee will be $360.

The teeth proposal and admission of non-member stations to the standards structure were voted Dec. 16 by the standards committee. In addition it adopted new standards language governing payola and other deceptive practices. This language was approved by the radio board in a mail ballot.

NAB's present standards were approved in the spring of 1948, with a number of amendments added from time to time. The standards committee's work in strengthening the code was reviewed by Cliff Gill. KEZY Anaheim, Calif., committee chairman, at the FCC's recent hearing on its regulatory powers.

The radio board adopted a resolution commending Mr. Gill for his FCC testimony.

From five to seven • NAB's tv code review board was expanded by two members at March 9 meeting of association's tv board of directors. E. K. Hartenbower, KCIO-TV Kansas City, who had been head of the code board's personal products subcommittee, becomes tv code chairman effective with the NAB April 3-6 convention in Chicago. Donald H. McGannon, Westinghouse Stations, retires as code board chairman.

New members named to the code board were George Whitney, KFMB-TV San Diego, Calif.; Robert W. Ferguson, WTRF-TV Wheeling, W.Va., and James M. Gaines, WOAI-TV San Antonio, Tex. Continuing on the

3M MAY BUY 25% OF MUTUAL

Negotiations are underway by the giant Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co., St. Paul, to acquire a 25% interest in the Mutual Broadcasting System.

Reports current last week were partially confirmed by Minnesota Mining. A spokesman for the company said that "the company was approached by the present owners of the network and after listening to the presentation has agreed to consider acquiring some financial interest in MBS." Company sources refused to go into further detail.

MBS is now owned by Albert Gregory McCarthy Jr., who holds 50% interest; Chester H. Ferguson, Tampa, Fla., attorney, who holds 25%, with a third entity which was supposed to acquire the remaining 25%. The McCarthy-Ferguson group acquired MBS in July 1959 following the Alexander Guterma debacle.

GEN. SARNOFF’S CRISIS TALK
Urges conference of opinion leaders to analyze TV’s role in American life

Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff, RCA board chairman, last week urged the broadcast industry to initiate an annual conference of the nation’s opinion leaders to “analyze the role of television, in all of its aspects, in American life.”

Gen. Sarnoff spoke in New York March 10 at the 20th anniversary dinner of the Radio & Television Executive society. He received the RTES' first gold medal award for outstanding achievement in broadcasting.

He described the “primary demands of the hour” for the broadcaster as: “To resist any form of direct or disguised censorship, to defend the freedom of broadcast communications won over 40 years; [and] to improve and diversify the quality of the mass appeal program service.”

It was Gen. Sarnoff’s first public address dealing with the industry crisis.

He explained he had remained silent because “I realized that the defense of the industry’s position was in the hands of men like Dr. Frank Stanton [CBS Inc. president], my son, Robert [NBC board chairman] and other capable leaders who hold the reins of day-to-day operations.” But, the general said, he “could not ignore events and proposals that threaten to make more remote, or even to blot out” the most promising of the "unlimited horizons in the electronic age" (which was the theme RTES assigned to him).

The RCA board chairman and broadcast pioneer was quite specific as to how he visualized such a conference: It would be sponsored “through an appropriate industry organization... along the lines of the highly successful American assembly of Arden House.” (Arden House is a retreat area on the Hudson River outside of New York City where Columbia U. sponsors symposiums for prominent leaders to discuss a wide area of affairs both national and international.)

No Klieg Lights • Gen. Sarnoff proposed that leaders of “all areas of American thought and endeavor... in government, religion, education, business, labor, advertising and publishing” exchange views and seek new ideas, clarify issues and explore new services “away from klieg lights, microphones, printing presses.”

He said the meeting would be “no summit conference conducted in secrecy for the purpose of deciding the fate of television” nor a move by the broadcaster to shift his “obligations” to someone else. “To seek informed advice is not to abdicate responsibility; it is the timorous leader, not the bold one, who fears fresh ideas or a change of status.”

Gen. Sarnoff suggested that perhaps

FREE TIME FOR POLITICIANS?

Senate bill would give presidential candidates 2 hours weekly for 2 months

Six Democratic senators last week introduced a bill to require TV stations and networks to turn over two prime evening hours weekly to the presidential candidates of the major political parties for the eight weeks preceding elections.

The free time bill (S 3171) was offered Thursday by Chairman Warren G. Magnuson (Wash.) of the Senate Commerce Committee and Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (Okla.), the committee's third ranking Democrat. During a short debate, Sen. John O. Pastore (R.I.) of the committee's Communications Subcommittee, George A. Smathers (Fla.), another committee member, and Frank Church (Idaho) and Estes Kefauver (Tenn.) added their names as co-sponsors. Other senators were invited to co-sponsor the measure.

The bill's sponsors envision a "debate" type format, with each major party presidential nominee using an hour each but does not specify that the two hours be consecutive. Introduction of the bill followed along lines suggested Sunday in This Week newspaper supplement by two-time Democratic nominee Adlai Stevenson. CBS noted its president, Frank Stanton, made a similar proposal in 1955.

S 3171 would restrict eligibility to the presidential nominee of a party which received at least 4% of the total popular vote at the previous election. Thus it would eliminate from consideration all splinter parties polling less than 4% of the vote four years ago and also would eliminate any sizable "third party"—such as States Rights—until four years after such a party amassed 4% or more of the total vote.

Hope For Hearing • Sens. Magnuson and Monroney both expressed hope hearings could be held and action taken by the Senate in this Congress, which recesses about July 1. Sen. Pastore said on the floor he is ready to begin "immediately" with hearings by his Communications Subcommittee as soon as the current Senate debate on civil rights ends. But another senator said that in view of the bill's importance to the coming election campaign, Sen. Magnuson may decide to hold hearings with the full Commerce Committee.

No proposals have been announced for a similar bill in the House.

The Senate bill would require the

As the figures show, you’ve got 5 out of 6 chances of picking a winner when your money goes on ABC or Net Y—it’s a toss-up between them—but only 2 out of 6 chances on Net Z. And the figures themselves are most significant...being taken from a national Nielsen at the season’s peak viewing period. (What isn’t a toss-up is ABC’s edge in younger homes, with growing, consuming families. And ABC’s lead in cost efficiency: $2.88 per M.) ABC TELEVISION
FCC, the networks and stations to agree on weekly dates for the presidential candidates' TV appearances for the eight weeks from Sept. 1 to the November elections, with the provision that the date for the last week be on the Monday preceding the Tuesday election day in November. (They presumably would agree also on whether to alternate the order of appearance for each week if the two hours are required to be consecutive.)

The presidential candidate of each party would be authorized to designate the vice presidential candidate to use up to two of the half-hour periods given him, but no one else could use the time. If the presidential candidate of one party declined to appear it would not disqualify his opponent.

The measure would require the FCC, networks and stations to arrange for simultaneous telecasts in all time zones "to the extent possible" and independent stations presumably would be required to hook into one of the networks to carry the telecasts. Where this would not be possible, the station would be required to carry a delayed telecast, but the candidates would have to pay the costs of taping or kinescoping and "distribution."

No Costs Given • The bill did not specify how cable costs would be split, if so, among networks and stations. The bill would relieve networks and licensees of any responsibility for commercial contracts for programs preempted by the political telecasts. No commercial would be allowed during the broadcasts.

The measure does not amend the Communications Act, but provides that Sec. 315 will be inapplicable where its provisions are involved. Networks and stations would be required to report on use of their facilities for the political telecasts and such reports would be considered by the FCC at license renewal time in determining whether they had carried out their public interest obligations. The bill would prohibit censorship of a candidate's speeches.

Sens. Magnuson and Monroney both conceded the final total time arrived at in hearings might be less than that proposed in last week's bill (e.g., an earlier draft provided a half-hour weekly for each candidate, plus 15-minute rebuttal periods, the same as that suggested by Mr. Stevenson. This would mean a total of 1½ hours rather than two hours.)

Sen. Magnuson said the proposed bill had been discussed with the chairmen of the two major political parties and with representatives of the networks and stations. He noted that consideration of the bill should come as soon as possible because "time is short" before the election campaign.

Free Time for Congress • He said proposals had been made to give free time also to candidates for the Senate and House, but that this "poses more practical problems" for licensees and networks. He felt the "beginning" should be made on the presidential level and discussion on free time for lesser offices might be acted upon "in the future."

Sen. Monroney said he felt there would never be a time when the selection of a president means "so much to the preservation of the nation as at this time." The choice, he said, should be made on knowledge and understanding of the issues, rather than the "hoopla, Fred Waring orchestra, singers, stand-ins, stage settings and other theatrical mechanisms that have dulled and blunted televised past political presentations.

Sen. Pastore noted such a bill cannot be liberalized to extend to small minority parties because of the dilemmas that have "plagued" TV and radio in the past from such groups.

Also commending the purposes of the bill were Sens. Francis Case (R-S.D.), John Stennis (D-Miss.) and Gale McGee (D-Wyo.).

WSPA-TV answers request for rehearing

WSPA-TV Spartanburg, S.C., last week answered the third request of two South Carolina uhf stations to subpoena correspondence between WSPA-TV and CBS-TV. WAIM-TV Anderson and WGVL (TV) Greenville have charged that Walter J. Brown, chief owner of WSPA-TV, made ex parte contacts with members of the FCC and cited a July 10, 1954 letter in the case.

In answer to the latest move, WSPA-TV stated that the correspondence in question was turned over to the uhf stations' counsel and its receipt acknowledged on July 11, 1955. The record shows that the stations had access to all of the WSPA-TV and CBS files up to that date, WSPA-TV maintained.

The conversation (between Mr. Brown and then FCC Chairman Rosev Hyde) referred to in the letter, WSPA-TV stated, had to do with the question of whether the court of appeals would be asked to hold a special summer session to hear arguments in the case.

The 6-year-old case began when the FCC granted WSPA-TV permission to move its transmitter and increase power. The court of appeals has remanded the case back to the FCC, which has quashed two earlier subpoena requests.

The Broadcast Bureau on March 10, said that the hearing examiner's earlier denial was sound. The bureau asserted that the protesters had not shown need for the letters sought. WGVL (TV) withdrew Feb. 23.

WCKY IS SOME BUY!

It's that simple. When it comes to the numbers that count, no other Cincinnati station even comes close to WCKY. And what numbers! 50,000 watt power sprays a 16-State area; huge circulation stacks up hundreds of thousands of different homes weekly; rock-bottom rates knife that cost-per-thousand down to pennies. Divide them; add them; multiply them; slide-rule them. They come out to this: WCKY is some buy — for Cincinnati and the Tri-State area.

FTC'S NEW TARGET: PLUGOLA

Now investigating 8 hidden plug firms

Another under-the-counter payoff in broadcasting is getting the Federal Trade Commission's attention. The practice: Plugola.

This is FTC Chairman Earl W. Kintner's ugly-sounding word for the alleged widespread practice of hidden commercials in radio and tv programs. He first made known the FTC's interest in this practice in testimony before the House Oversight Committee March 4. He went into detail on the subject last Wednesday (March 9) in a speech to the Philadelphia chapter of the Federal Bar Assn.

The FTC has undertaken a formal investigation into eight firms which engage in this surreptitious practice, Mr. Kintner told the Philadelphia lawyers. These firms, unidentified, "appear to solicit a cross segment of American industry to buy hidden plugs or commercials on regularly sponsored tv programs," Mr. Kintner said.

Costs of the unofficial commercial vary from $200 to $275 for each plug, Mr. Kintner noted. He said that one firm assured prospective clients that it could promise the following:

- Visual and audio identification of the product.
- 15-20 words of descriptive copy delivered simultaneously with visual identification.
- Copy prepared and written by the person paying for the plug.
- Advance notice of dates on which plugs will appear.
- A recording of the broadcast plug.

The "hidden persuaders" are plant-ed through tv writers, prop men, producers, entertainers, directors and cameramen, Mr. Kintner declared.

[BROADCASTING Magazine's own investigation of the free loader was extensively covered in the lead story of the May 21, 1956 issue.]

More on Payola - In discussing payola, Mr. Kintner mentioned some of the variations on straight cash transactions by which record makers and distributors paid off disc jockeys and other station employees:

Royalties on records, buying advertising in "hit sheets" published by disc jockeys, paying for record label listing in these private publications, reimbursement to the disc jockey for the appearance of a recording artist on a disc jockey program or at record hops, the supplying of artists free of charge at record hops and expensive gifts.

It is common practice, Mr. Kintner said, for record manufacturers to supply gratis to distributors 300 records for every 1,000 they order. These "freebies," as they are known, he said, are commonly sold as regular merchandise and the proceeds are used to pay off disc jockeys.

The FTC has issued 60 complaints on payola and has already signed 16 consent judgments. Mr. Kintner revealed that the trade commission is investigating 95 additional music firms. Involved in the 60 complaints, he said, were 255 disc jockeys or other employees of broadcast licensees in more than 56 cities in 26 states. At least seven licensees received payola, he said.

Mr. Kintner repeated again his opposition to proposals which would have the FTC approve advertisements before they appear in print or on the air. He said it would tax the physical capacity of his agency "and would impose an unnecessary and frightening burden on industry."

FCC first witness at Harris hearing

The FCC will be the first witness tomorrow (Tuesday) at 10 a.m. when the House Commerce Committee headed by Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.) begins hearings on federal agency "code of ethics" and other bills before it. Agencies will appear in the order the acts creating them are listed on HR 4800, one of the bills being considered.

A spokesman for Rep. Harris has said still other bills, incorporating recommendations of the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee last month (At DeadLine, Feb. 8), possibly will be discussed if they have been introduced by that time. Several bills are in the drafting stage, it was said last week.

Bills under consideration are: HR 4800 to prohibit improper influence on agencies, set up ethical standards for agency members and employees, bar off-the-record contacts during pending proceedings, provide for agency members' election of their own chairman, make agency members more responsible and clarify the powers of the President to remove agency members for cause; HR 6774 to prohibit ex parte presentations; S 1735 to repeal the honorarium provision for FCC members; S 1736 to eliminate the requirement for an oath in certain papers filed with the FCC; S 1738 to redefine the duties of the FCC review staff, and S 1965 to require an agency member whose term has expired to serve until his successor is appointed and has qualified. The last four bills have been approved by the Senate.
BORGE IS SPECTACULAR

on "SCOTCH" BRAND Video Tape

The accent will be on music for the forthcoming Pontiac Star Parade Special, March 18. And in it, Victor Borge will be picture-perfect thanks to the miracle of video tape. Thousands of great moments in television, ranging from rebroadcast of the knockout round of a championship fight, to a "live" looking commercial that wasn’t "live" at all, to a smooth network production that appeared so perfectly "live," were telecast on "SCOTCH" BRAND Video Tape. Video tape has revolutionized the television industry, cut production costs sharply and made schedules more flexible. It has provided more ideal rehearsal conditions, eliminated fluffs and minimized shooting time. It has brought about production possibilities limited only by the imagination of the user. "SCOTCH" BRAND Video Tape, like audible range and instrumentation tapes, was pioneered by 3M research—the research that keeps 3M magnetic products first in proven quality for professional use.

BLOCKBOOKING TRIAL BEGINS

First week hears testimony of only three witnesses out of more than 100 to appear

The blockbooking case against six distributors of feature films to television opened in New York last Monday (March 7) and crawled at a snail's pace throughout the week, leading the presiding judge to comment: "It looks as if we'll still be in the trenches by Christmas."

Only three witnesses—all associated with WTOP-TV Washington—had testified for the government by last Thursday evening (March 11). The government elicited testimony to advance its contention in the civil antitrust suit that stations were compelled to buy features in "packages," thereby acquiring both wanted and unwanted product.

In cross-examination, defense counsel attempted to show that buying and selling in bulk constituted an "accepted practice" of the TV industry and met the programming requirements of stations. The defense also attempted to develop the thesis that "coercion" was not implicit in selling film product in bulk but this sales procedure was part of a traditional negotiation process.

The companies on trial (their feature packages in parenthesis) are: Loew's Inc. (MGM), Screen Gems Inc. (Columbia), Associated Artists Productions Inc. (Warner Bros.), National Telefilm Assoc. Inc. (20th Century-Fox), C&C Super Inc. (RKO) and United Artists Corp. (its own films and those of independent producers). Associated Artists is now United Artists Associated and handles both Warner Bros. and RKO Pictures. It acquired the RKO films following the initiation of the suit in the spring of 1957.

Three Witnesses • The lead-off substantive witnesses were John S. Hayes, president of WTOP - AM - FM - TV; George Hartford, vice president and general manager of WTOP-TV and Thomas Jones, program manager of WTOP-TV until last June and now program manager of WJIM - AM - TV Lansing, Mich.

Mr. Hayes was praised on several occasions by U.S. District Court Judge Archie O. Dawson, who characterized him variously as "brilliant . . . intelligent . . . articulate . . . forthright." In essence, he made the point that during negotiations with the various film companies, they offered him films in varying numbers and he emphasized that he preferred to select the number of films and the features themselves.

He recounted that both C&C and MGM-TV had attempted to interest him in the purchase of their complete libraries, each numbering in excess of 700 features. Mr. Hayes reported that in 1956 he had told Matthew Fox, C&C president, that he would consider buying about 200 of the RKO films and he quoted Mr. Fox as replying that he would have to "think about" this proposal. Regarding the MGM library, Mr. Hayes continued, he was advised by one of the company's salesmen that he could not consider a suggestion to sell less than the entire library since it contravened MGM-TV policy at that time (January 1957).

Under cross-examination by Louis Nizer, who is representing UA, Loew's and AAP in the proceedings, Mr. Hayes recounted that several months later he had bought 120 features at $2,100 each with two options to purchase 240 additional films. He added that WTOP-TV had exercised no option. (In this connection, a government contention is that only after the antitrust suit was begun in March 1957 did MGM-TV institute a general practice of selling less than a complete library, when requested.)

Mr. Hartford testified that early in 1956 WTOP-TV bought a package of 26 features from Screen Gems and in the summer of that year also acquired a package of 52 SG pictures. He said he would have preferred buying fewer pictures from each package and indicated the transaction could not have been completed if the station had imposed this condition. He conceded he was permitted to pull out several musicals and other features were substituted.

Condition Nine • A heated exchange erupted during cross-examination of Mr. Hartford by Mr. Nizer who dramatically produced a contract signed by the station with UA for the "Award 52" package in mid-1957. He pointed to a condition nine or disclaimer clause, which stipulated that pictures could be contracted for on an individual basis.

Mr. Hartford replied that though he personally was not acquainted with the clause, it was his understanding that if the station wanted to acquire "desirable" pictures, it would sign the contract with the clause. Judge Dawson, showing surprise and anger, barked: "Who is lying here?" Mr. Hartford, slightly abashed, said: "I am telling the truth, Your Honor."

Leonard R. Posner, Justice Dept. counsel, asserted the clause nine "club" would be cited by many other witnesses too.

In negotiating for 100 pictures from MGM-TV, Mr. Jones told the court that C.P. (Pete) Jaeger, then the film company's sales representative, "had the attitude throughout that he did not enjoy what he was doing but did what he was supposed to do." WTOP-TV did not want to take any features from the two lowest levels out of seven qualitative categories, Mr. Jones said, but did ultimately buy them in a package containing 120 features. The issue of the film company's disclaimer clause was again raised. Mr. Jones said he remembered that when he read the contract he had said, "I'm reluctant to sign my name to this because it doesn't represent the truth." Asked if he did sign the clause in question, Mr. Jones replied affirmatively. Asked for a reason, Mr. Jones said, "We needed some of the pictures badly."

"Ridiculous Performance" • Judge Dawson repeatedly expressed dissatisfaction, even exasperation, with the pace of the trial. He described the government's intention to call more than 100 executives from more than 50 stations "a ridiculous performance . . . and a disgrace to the enforcement of antitrust laws." Warming up to his annoyance, Judge Dawson, at one point, asserted that he felt like going to the attorney general and resigning, rather Across our desk come letters of honest and sincere praise like the letter from the Navy wife who wrote: "Your station has always afforded the finest entertainment...we have lived in many parts of the country and never before have I enjoyed watching television as much." The satisfaction of our viewers, as expressed by the volume and content of our mail, is more impressive, we think, than any rating picture could be.
than having the case tie up his court for many weeks.

His feelings were directed judiciously toward both counsel for the government and defense. He interrupted each side often with the admonition: "Let's get down to the meat of the case—the basic issues. Is this blockbooking or isn't it?"

The case is regarded as an extension of the Paramount case, under which block booking in the motion picture industry was outlawed under the terms of the Paramount consent decree of 1948.

Gila Broadcasting Co. in FCC hot water

The licensee of six Arizona broadcast stations last week found itself on the brink of deep trouble. Gila Broadcasting Co., licensee of KCKY Coolidge, KWJB-AM-FM Globe, KVNC Winslow, KGGL Safford, and KCLF Clifton, all Arizona, was directed by the commission to state why its renewal applications should not be designated for hearing. Gila was told in a 309(b) letter that the following charges had been made:

- A management contract entered into between Gila and Radio Assoc. Inc. provided that Radio Assoc. was not to have any voice in control or direction of the station chain. However, the FCC indicated that Radio Assoc. had asserted complete control.
- Licensee records filed with the FCC indicated that President L.F. Long had from 1938 through 1959 held 50% interest in Gila. The Commission said, however, that during this period his holdings had ranged from 40% to 75% and this was never reported to the agency. In addition, Mr. Long was convicted of violating income tax laws and fined $5,000 in December, 1959.
- Certain Gila stations have been operating with transmitters unattended and station logs have been falsified for the unattended hours.
- An unlicensed transmitter has been in operation for a year and a half at KCKY.

In addition to its present difficulties Gila has been accused of breach of contract. Willard and Wilma Shoecraft complained to the FCC that they had paid $1,500 to Gila as an option agreement to purchase three stations but that Gila instead entered into an agreement with Earl Perrin Co. for the sale of all its stations. The Shoecrafts told the commission that they are suing Gila for $100,000 (BROADCASTING, Feb. 29).

FCC bureau questions an initial decision

The Broadcast Bureau told the FCC last week that an initial decision awarding station 2 in Terre Haute, Ind., to an existing TV station "will leave the public of Terre Haute precisely where it is now ... with only one television station to satisfy its needs."

The commission on Dec. 9 awarded a modification of license to WTHI-TV to move from ch. 10 to ch. 2. Illiana Telecasting Corp. had filed for a construction permit for ch. 2. The bureau said that an FCC grant to Illiana will tend "to improve the general competitive situation" by the establishment of a second station in Terre Haute. Illiana, in exceptions filed last week, asserted that WTHI-TV had no "valid reason for its proposal to move ... to ch. 2." The sole purpose, Illiana suggested, was to "perpetuate their monopoly position."

Wabash Valley Broadcasting Corp., licensee of WTHI-TV defended its position by stating that it had applied immediately for ch. 2 when it became available. This created "a potential monopoly position on ch. 10 and Illiana and other newcomers could have applied for the channel. In assuming the burden of competing with the existing station, we think Illiana assumed the burden of demonstrating very substantial superiority. This it has failed to do," Wabash asserted.

FCC grants new uhf, etv and translator

Three TV grants were made by the FCC last week ... one commercial, one educational and one translator.

The commission granted the application of the West Coast Telecasting Corp., Clearwater, Fla., to operate on ch. 32. Owned by a group headed by George E. Reynolds Jr., the station will operate with 9.3 kw visual and 5 kw aural with an antenna height of 280 ft. above average terrain.

A construction permit was granted to the Weber County School District, Ogden, Utah, to operate a noncommercial educational station on ch. 18. The new station will operate with 4.5 kw visual and 225 kw aural with an antenna height of minus 850 ft.

Mid-Columbia Community TV Corp., The Dalles, Ore., and Goldendale, Wash., was granted a cp for a new translator station on ch. 73. The station will reproduce programs of KGW-TV (ch. 8) Portland, Ore. Mid-Columbia, a group headed by H. D. DeLano, is also licensed to translate programs of KPTV (TV) (ch. 12) Portland.
FCC denies requests for 1030 kc stations

The FCC last week denied requests for immediate additional use of a clear channel frequency pending outcome of proposed rulemaking.

On pleadings by WZB Boston and WABC New York, the commission denied the requests of Northern Calif. Bestg. Co., Sacramento, and Stokes Gresham Jr., Elwood, Ind., for new stations on 1030 kc. KATR Corpus Christi, Tex., already operating on 1030 kc, was denied an application to make operational changes.

The frequency in question is considered a 1-A clear channel according to FCC proposed rulemaking of Sept. 18, 1959 (Broadcasting, Sept. 28, 1959). The commission has ruled that no new allocations to the clear channels shall be made until finalization of the rulemaking. Accordingly, the three applications for use of 1030 kc were returned to the pending file.

Mack found fit to stand trial

Former FCC Commissioner Richard A. Mack was discharged from a Miami hospital last week and found fit to stand trial.

Mr. Mack and his friend, Miami attorney Thurman A. Whiteside, are scheduled to be tried in federal district court in Washington for the second time April 25. They are charged with conspiring to throw the award of Miami ch. 10 to National Airlines. The first trial ended with no verdict when the jury failed to agree.

Mr. Mack was admitted to Jackson Memorial Hospital last January at the request of his father. The senior Mr. Mack stated that his son was drinking heavily and showed signs of a mental breakdown.

The former FCC member was released from the hospital and judged sane after examinations and tests lasting a month. The hospital’s chief psychiatrist found “no evidence that this man is suffering from any major mental disease.”

“I’ll be there. I want to get it over with,” Mr. Mack was reported as saying when he was asked whether he would be in Washington when the retrial commences.

Mr. Mack is also being sued for divorce.

Rep. Bennett presses for Dick Clark data

John B. Bennett, ranking GOP member (Mich.) of the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee, last week renewed his request that ABC-TV star Dick Clark be called to testify before the group. He also asked that ABC executives be heard.

Rep. Bennett said an affidavit obtained from Mr. Clark by ABC indicates he played songs on his ABC-TV show in which he had a financial interest and that a record manufacturer gave him and his wife gifts totaling $3,400 in value. He said Mr. Clark’s admissions in the affidavit make a stronger case against him than those made against “any of the rinky-dink disc jockeys we’ve had as witnesses so far.”

He charged ABC receives a seven cent royalty on each record carrying case sold by a firm once controlled by Mr. Clark and asked for ABC testimony on this and Mr. Clark’s activities.

Mr. Clark and ABC previously have denied that Mr. Clark was involved in payola. He said a “reliable source” had told him Mr. Clark once owned 41% of Raye Products Inc., which makes “The Dick Clark Record Case.” The other owners were Edward S. Barsky of Philadelphia, 39%, and Anthony Mammarella, 20%, Mr. Clark’s former manager, who has testified before the Oversight group in closed session.

Rep. Bennett and Oversight Chair- man Oren Harris (D-Ark.) emerged at odds during the subcommittee’s last session when the Michigan Republican asked that Mr. Clark be called “as soon as possible” to testify and Rep. Harris said he would not be called until staff members had made further investigations. (At Deadline, March 7).
ZESEN ON-AIR  PAY-TV TEST
Will file bid with

Zenith Radio Corp. has made arrangements with "another large and fine company" and will apply to the FCC for permission to demonstrate on-the-air pay television before the end of the month.

This was the statement by Joseph S.

Wright, president of the Chicago radio-tv manufacturer, to the New York Society of Security Analysts last Tuesday

(March 8).

The Zenith president said the application will be filed in a few weeks.

Observers speculated that the identity of the other company is a franchise holder rather than a licensed station in one of the five markets being considered for the Zenith on-the-air tests.

A second pay-tv system, Tele-Globe, announced last week also that it planned air tests soon. It expects to announce the test market in April, with the begining of the demonstrations sometime in the fall. TeleGlobe proposes to broadcast the video portion unscrambled, with the audio transmitted via telephone lines.

Important Market • Mr. Wright said that Zenith would institute its toll tv operation in one of the country's important markets. He saw a broadcast pay-tv system as better than the wired service because it eliminates "the tremendous expense and problems connected with hooking up every home on a coxial cable network." Mr. Wright obviously was referring to the Telemeter operation which began Feb. 26 in a Toronto, Ontario, suburb (Broadcasting,

Feb. 29).

Once a broadcast subscription tv system goes into operation, Mr. Wright stated, an estimated 50% of tv homes would subscribe. He said equipment can be installed and maintained in the customer's home for "a few pennies a day."

He continued: "There was never a more propitious time for us than right now when the public is so extremely sensitive about the whole medium of television and the quality and calibre of its programming. Once you get through all the propaganda and the emotion that has surrounded this subject, generated largely by the networks and the motion picture theatre groups who feel that their business would be adversely afected, you find that there is a real and substantial demand for this kind of service on the part of a large segment of the public, and I venture the prediction that before the 60's are over this will be a major nationwide service."

It also could well provide "a shot-in-the-arm" for color tv, he said.

VOA shows to Cuba considered by U.S.

The possibility of beaming radio broadcasts to Cuba to counter anti-

American propaganda coming from that country's government-controlled press and radio are under discussion by the State Dept. and the U.S. Information Agency, it was disclosed last week.

No plan has yet been adopted, but one is that the Voice of America buy time on commercial stations in Florida or Puerto Rico for the broadcasts to Cuba, with possible increases in power for these stations, it was said.

An historic switch

For more than three decades

critics of commercial broadcasting have been quoting former President

Herbert Hoover to bolster their case.

When he was Secretary of Commerce and radio was in its infancy,

Mr. Hoover expressed misgivings about advertising on the air. He was speaking on a subject about which there was still very little known, but his words have been used time and again in efforts to demean commercial radio and television.

Last week Mr. Hoover publicly changed his stand, and, in the act, deprived commercial broadcasting critics of one of their staunchest cliches. After 37 years, he said, he had come to realize that advertising made a great radio and television system possible.

He made the statement in a telegram acknowledging a special award given him by the Radio and Television Executives Society in New York. The telegram was read by

Frank E. Pellegrin, of H-R Representatives, president of the society, at an RTES banquet last Thursday

(see story, page 70). Here is what

Mr. Hoover said:

"It is a great honor to receive the award of the Radio & Television Excutives Society. This revives members of this group and I worked together to bring the benefits of a great scientific discovery into American homes. You have carried it to the level of a great art and a sturdy protector of the American way of life.

"On this happy occasion I will not expand my forebodings to you of 37 years ago as to commercials. They surround your great programs for and aft with a half dozen plugs. However, even in the pain of singing commercials, I justify even these by the realization that from the support of advertisers you have kept the wavelengths and channels in the safer hands of private enterprise rather than in those of government."

The Original Stand • The time was 1924. The scene the hearing room of the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries. The witness was then Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover. This is what he said about radio:

"Radio communications is not to be considered merely as a business to be carried on for private gain, for private advertisement or for entertainment of the curious. It is a public concern impressed with the public interest to the same extent and upon the same general principles as our other public utilities..."

Two years later the same Mr.

Hoover said this at the Third National Radio Conference in Washington:

"Direct advertising is the quickest way to kill broadcasting. The reader of the newspaper has an option

whether he will read an advertisement or not, but if a speech by the President is to be used as the meat in the sandwich of two patent medicine advertisements there will be no

Eastman Kodak plans new film developments

Film is here to stay as the major source of tv programming according to Donald E. Hyndman of Eastman Kodak Co. Moreover, kinescopes have not been killed by video tape but are coming back better and stronger than ever.

Two years from this spring, Eastman expects to be ready to demonstrate equipment that will record, process and project tv program material (or commercials) on film, ready for inspection in less than one minute, Mr. Hyndman, manager of Eastman's motion picture department, said Tuesday (March 8) in a talk to the Television Film Assn. in Hollywood.

Ready for showing at next month's NAB Convention in Chicago, Mr. Hyndman said, is a new Eastman projector equipped with General Electric circuitry that will project 16 mm film with a quality equal to or better than that of any 35 mm film projector today. CBS-TV is currently installing one of these new projectors at WBBM-TV Chicago.

Now in development at Eastman and expected to be ready for demonstration in prototype before the end of the year is a new unit designed to process 16 mm film to a precontrolled density and contrast in 30 seconds dry-to-dry time (negative to print), he said. Although liquids are employed in the process, they are all contained inside the apparatus so that the operator can handle the film without getting his hands wet.

Also in the works at Eastman is "a radically new type of kinescope recording camera for 16 mm film designed to provide a photographic image directly comparable to tv monitor quality," Mr. Hyndman stated. Declining to discuss details of this camera, "which is still to be built, still to be tried," he said that it is based on new principles and "will bear no relation to any existing camera." If it works—and he expressed no doubt that it will—the negative will be much nearer theatrical quality than any kinescope has been up to the present.

Other Projects • Under design is a direct reduction printer for making 16 mm prints of pictures made on 35 mm film. The improved quality of the new projector makes such a reduction printer a necessity, Mr. Hyndman stated.

To be introduced this fall is a new 16 mm movie camera of professional quality, which stations will find useful in filming news events and other local program segments and commercials.

In the future Eastman will offer high speed films for both black-and-white and color negatives, which will permit filming of lower light levels, making sets more comfortable for actors and cutting production costs by 10-15 percent for producers, he said. Before announcing the new products his company has in the works for television, Mr. Hyndman briefly reviewed the history of the role of motion picture film in tv. As the medium has grown, so has its use of film, he declared, noting that today 65 percent of all network programming and 75 percent of the programs on independent stations are on film.

• Technical topics

Zenith's record • Zenith Radio Corp. enjoyed a record year for sales and earnings in 1959, Board Chairman Hugh Robertson told stockholders last week. A preliminary report for the year ended Dec. 31 showed net profits of $16,630,144 (or $5.63 per share on 2,954,784 shares outstanding) compared with $12,116,165 ($4.10 a share) in 1958—a 37% increase. Consolidated sales hit $260,033,866 as against $195,041,624 the previous year—a 33% boost.

Larger camera tube • RCA Electron Tube Div., Harrison, N.J., has developed a new 4 1/4 inch image orthicon camera tube (RCA-7389-A) which is unilaterally interchangeable with conventional 3-inch types (7389). Among the new tube's advantages: pictures with greater sharpness, more realistic tonal values, wider range of contrast, greater freedom from noise effects, and a high quality picture signal that permits the making of successive recordings which retain picture quality.

UA FINALLY GETS ITS HANDS ON ZIV

$20 million purchase moves UA into top TV film syndication ranks

United Artists Corp. has moved into the top TV film ranks.

Last week UA acquired Ziv Television Programs Inc., formed in 1948 and now a leader in film syndication. The purchase price included installment notes and debentures totaling $6.75 million and an assumption of a bank debt of about $14 million.

The UA purchase had long been expected. The motion picture financing and releasing firm made its first overtures late last year (Broadcasting, Dec. 21, 1959).

Ziv Television's control changed hands in July of last year. Two Wall Street investment firms, F. Eberstadt & Co. and Lazard Freres & Co., purchased about 80% of Ziv's stock in a deal then reportedly involving $14 million. Frederic W. Ziv, board chairman, and John L. Sinn, president, retained some 20%.

UA had eyed the Ziv company after initial purchase by the Eberstadt and Freres companies. It had a close association through Eberstadt which had floated stock issues and served as an investment broker for UA. Acquisition was delayed for tax purposes (the investment houses holding a minimum of six months for long-term capital gains).

Purchase Details • The Ziv holdings were acquired through issue of obligations of a subsidiary, United Artists Television Investments, but did not involve issuance of UA stock or equity financing.

The obligations included $1.75 million in three-year 5.6% installment notes which mature between 1963-1965 and guaranteed by United Artists Corp.

Another $3 million of 6% debentures of the purchasing subsidiary (not guaranteed by parent UA) mature 1966-1970 with conversion privileges after four years into UA stock at 10% above the average market price during the six months prior to the end of the four-year period. These are exercisable only if the debentures are not called within four years.

The purchasing subsidiary also acquired $2 million of subordinated notes of Ziv TV for $2 million of three-year 5.6% installment notes of the investments subsidiary. These mature 1961-1963 and are guaranteed by UA.

The first $1 million of the installment notes are convertible at the option of the holders into common stock of UA at any time before Dec. 31, 1961, at $30 a share. If the option is exercised, management stockholders of UA agreed, at the request of the company, to assume fulfillment of the conversion option. The investments subsidiary also assumed the bank debt of about $14 million.

New Name • The new wholly-owned United Artists TV film subsidiary will be known as Ziv-United Artists Television Co. Inc. Mr. Ziv and Mr. Sinn retain their current posts and directorships. The present officers and management "will continue, as heretofore, to conduct its operations," UA announced.

United Artists in effect has merged its United Artists Television Inc. subsidiary with the new subsidiary. All personnel—with two notable exceptions—will come under the Ziv-United Artists banner. The two exceptions are Herbert L. Golden, president of UA-TV, who resigned to devote full time as vice president of the parent company, and Bruce Eells, executive vice president of UA-TV, who is expected to coordinate his activities in a liaison capacity with the new subsidiary.

The immediate effect of the integration is this:

United Artists' tv subsidiary now has a total of five filmed series on the networks: Ziv's Men Into Space on CBS-TV, The Man and the Challenge and Bat Masterson on NBC-TV, UA's The Dennis O'Keefe Show on CBS-TV, UA's and The Troubleshooters on NBC-TV.

In syndication, the portfolio already well stuffed by Ziv's productions will add UA's The Tales of the Vikings now sold in over 115 markets (UA also has been preparing Miami Undercover and Hudson's Bay to be offered to network advertisers, Ziv reportedly has Underwater, a new one-hour series, set as a CBS-TV show this fall).

Many Ziv Shows • Ziv's syndicated offerings are extensive. Newest product is Time For Ginger, a situation comedy. A sampling of its top series in syndication would include Home Run Derby, Sea Hunt, Tombstone Territory, This Man Dawson and Lockup. It is in the third year production of Sea Hunt and has such well known properties as Bold Venture, Dial 999, Harbor Command, Highway Patrol, MacKenzie's Raiders, The New Adventures of Marlin Kane, Science Fiction Theatre, Target and Cisco Kid. A Ziv unit, Econometric Tv, handles the reruns of such properties as Highway Patrol, Harbor Command and Marlin Kane.

The UA acquisition gives that company its first studio facility in Hollywood. Aside from the "first-run" syndicated and network properties, Ziv has wide distribution in foreign markets. Ziv, it was said, had revenues estimated at $25 million last year and reportedly spent about $21 million in production of tv shows in 1959 compared with some $16.5 million the year before.

United Artists finances and distributes motion pictures made by independent producers (and with Universal Pictures Co., the only major movie companies not affected by the present Screen Actors Guild strike). UA’s revenues were reported at over $90 million last year. The bulk coming from theatrical film rentals. It owns a record company and wholly owns United Artists Associated, a subsidiary. UAA grants the Associated Artists Productions purchased by UA to give it access to the Warner Bros. pre-1949 library. Short subjects, cartoons, various feature packages and a merchandising operation, all for tv.

HIGH HOPES
SAG, movie producers start talking again

Hopes were kindled late last week for an early conclusion to the strike of the Screen Actors Guild against the Association of Motion Picture Producers. Federal Mediator Jules Medoff got SAG and AMPP to meet Friday afternoon (March 11) in an attempt to resolve the deadlock in the week-old strike—SAG’s demand that actors be given a share in the proceeds of the sale of theatrical films to tv.

It was not evident just how Mediator Medoff planned to achieve a compromise between the SAG stand and the AMPP position that the demand is merely for double pay for a single acting job. But the very fact that both sides had agreed to sit down together again was considered a long step in the right direction.

Meanwhile, technical workers and craftsmen at the studios had joined the actors, writers, and directors in demanding a share of any revenue earned from selling pictures made for showing on home screens by tv. (Writers Guild of America has been on strike against the major movie makers since Jan. 16 over this issue.)

Shortly before the strike began, SAG had secured a contract with Universal-International whereby U-I agreed to pay 6% of the gross proceeds from any sales of post-‘48 theatrical films to tv, after deduction of 40% for distribution costs. U-I had earlier made a similar arrangement with WGA, agreeing to pay 2% of the gross less distribution costs to the writers (Broadcasting, March 7). A number of independent picture producers also signed with SAG, chiefly to permit completion of movies now in production. Frank Sinatra’s Dorchester Productions (‘Ocean 11’!?) and George Sidney International Pictures - Posa Films Internacional S.A. (“Pepe”) were among these companies.

I.A. Demands • Almost immediately after they had signed with SAG, Dorchester and Sidney-Posa were approached by the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees with a demand for a share in the tv take double the size of the cut going to the talent guilds. In addition to the IA unions (stagehands, projectionists, film editors, makeup artists, etc.), the so-called basic crafts unions (teamsters, building service employees, etc.) would share in the sum asked for by IA. The IA contract, which Dorchester and Sidney-Posa accepted, prohibits any tv showing of pictures until five years after their first theatrical release. It also provides that IA can reopen negotiations if the films are released for pay-tv.

The IA terms were estimated at bringing the total union cut in the producers’ tv revenue to at least 30%—6% for actors, 2% each for writers and directors, plus double that total or 12% for the 1A unions. Some Hollywood observers feel that these demands are not intended to be pushed in actual negotiations with the major producers: but are designed to give IA a seat at the council table of the various talent guilds.

If this is so, the strategy was immediately successful. On Tuesday morning (March 8), IA President Richard Walsh and a delegation of technical union executives including Ralph Clare, business agent for the teamsters, who represented the basic crafts, sat down with a SAG group headed by Ronald Reagan, president of the actors union. That afternoon the union conference met with representatives of the independent producers releasing through United Artists. The meeting reportedly included most of the major independent movie producers.

Purpose of the meetings was to try to evolve an overall formula that would give all interested guilds and unions a satisfactory share of the revenue from the sale of theatrical pictures to tv. Such a formula, it was felt, would be of material value in effecting a speedy end to the SAG and WGA strikes. The meeting was reported to have made some progress and further meetings will be held.

Fees Into Funds • The fees, in whatever amount, will not be paid to the individual guild and union members employed in making the picture. Instead, they will go into union pension funds. That had been understood to be the IA plan, but only in midweek did SAC reveal its intention to use the money in this way rather than distributing it to the individual actors. This plan was expected to be vigorously debated at a special SAC mass membership meeting scheduled for yesterday evening (March 13) at the Hollywood Palladium.

$17.5 million revenue for NT&T in quarter

National Theatres & Television and its voting-controlled subsidiaries had consolidated revenues of $17,475,631 for the 13 weeks ended Dec. 29, 1959 (first quarter of the NT&T fiscal year), compared to $12,237,695 for the same period of the previous year. Net income for the quarter after provision for federal taxes was $401,159, or $362,843 for the quarter ended Dec. 30, 1958.

Figures include the operations of National Telemfilm Assoc., in which NT&T acquired a majority interest on April 1, 1959. A consolidated profit and loss statement issued by NT&T covering the 14 months ended Sept. 30, 1959 (moved from July 31 to agree with the NT&T fiscal year), showed a loss of $5,857,874, of which a $4,034,387 write-off, advances to and receivables from NT&T television network was a major item. A change in the method of reporting income from exhibition contracts with tv stations and in the amortization tables for motion pictures licensed for tv added approximately $1,100,000 to the loss total.

Annual meeting of NT&T stockholders will be held tomorrow (March 15) in the Beverly Wilshire Hotel, Beverly Hills, Calif.
THE FILM SYNDICATOR'S WOES
More competition and high costs lead list

The plight of the film syndicator at the tv mart is at the least perplexing and to some degree precarious. There are several reasons for the situation but the chief ones are high costs, and increased competition from network and station programming.

And yet, declared Herminio Traviesas of BBDO and E. Jonny Graff of National Telefilm Assoc., speakers at a Radio & Television Executives Society timebuying luncheon held last week in New York, the syndicated film program merits national spot advertising interest. The troubles of film syndication, they noted, are apart from its value to advertisers.

The toughest test for the syndicator is yet to come. Mr. Traviesas, BBDO's vice-president-manager of tv-radio, said that in the coming season networks and even local stations (via production on tape of "quality programs") will present more competition "than ever before."

Mr. Traviesas foresees less prime time available, with all three networks clashing in hour shows in the 7:30-8:30 p.m. period for the coming season. The first 20 minutes of some of these programs will be sold locally on a co-op basis. This, he said, will give the advertiser "many of the advantages of syndication and with a network property." The 10:30-11 p.m. period also has been slotted by the networks, he reminded. These periods "traditionally reserved for syndicators" will now be unavailable.

Scatter Plan • Still another factor working against the film program syndicator: the scatter plan which permits a one-third participation in network shows on an alternate-week basis, giving the advertiser a billboard and a one-minute commercial one week and a cross-plug the following week. Mr. Traviesas noted that this type buying can be made over several programs for a short period of time.

The way open so far as BBDO's broadcast official could determine it would have three avenues for the film syndicator. First, an educational campaign among agency people and clients on the value and "place" of syndication in tv; next, a need for syndicated programs of "quality and diversification" and third, stabilization of program prices at current levels.

While it's difficult for the syndicator to improve quality while keeping prices stable, Mr. Traviesas saw a partial solution in bringing up the difference in higher costs through additional income potential from foreign markets. Without doubt, he emphasized, the foreseeable trends will make 1960-61 a buyers' market in the syndicated field.

Mr. Graff, who is NTA's sales vice president, found the law of supply and demand increasing the price differential of prime as against non-prime time on stations. He noted that it is in non-prime time where most syndicated film programs fall.

This favored position of syndicators in the time cost structure brightened further when stations generally increased the discounts offered for unit buys of programming while reducing their discounts for announcements.

This, he labeled as an argument for advertisers "buying program units as against spots."

Pressure of Costs • How about the high costs of syndication? Mr. Graff took after this question in detail. It takes at least $1.3 million to produce 39 episodes once the syndicator is committed. Added to this base are print and lab costs at $10,000 plus $30,000 for advertising, a total then of $1.34 million. On top of this: 35% or $400,000 more for the cost of sales and distribution.

He concluded the syndicator must count on roughly $1.75 million in gross sales "before the profits show or even before he pays the bank interest."

On this basis and with knowledge that 85% of potential revenue for the syndicator comes from the top 25 markets, the film man must price markets based on costs alone. For example:

Pittsburgh $950, Boston $900, Chicago $2,250, New Orleans $450 and New York $4,250. But, he reminded, these are "way out of line" unless the shows are in prime time or at a good adjacency. "Otherwise the sets in use and the resultant ratings make the cost-per-thousand look sick and the media buy a bad one."

More often, Mr. Graff said, the syndicator is committed to a market by market "give-off," the bagroll is short and "wheeling and dealing starts almost with the first can of film." From the syndicators' point of view, stations do not Henge on programming by initially stocking up but rather "watch for the trouble signs then try to buy the film as cheaply as possible regardless of quality."

Said Mr. Graff: "Ziv, ITC, TPA and NTA, we all have our unamortized productions on the books and frankly, it'll be a long time before the numbers come out." The syndicator on a "good" show, might net $25,000 per episode or "probably $6-7,000 less than the show cost him to make, he emphasized. At one time, this could be made up through residuals, Mr. Graff admitted but this is no longer the case for the syndicator who encounters a soft market "loaded with dumped product . . . if he grosses $15,000 per episode, he's lucky." And still expenses must come off the top of that figure, he said.

Mr. Graff thought a talent balance might be a different wage scale for network film shows as compared to syndicated film production. The talent charges (above-the-line costs) "are keeping the syndication business bogged down," he declared.

How Flexible? Syndicated programming can offer a flexibility to the advertiser in the various buying methods now being developed. He directed attention to program discounts beyond the end frequency rate which enticed Kelloggs, through Leo Burnett, to switch from network to syndication.

He illustrated how NTA has worked out a formula whereby a major spot advertiser's budget is applied to a market by market placement in which programs are purchased as cheap as run-of-stations schedules. This is accomplished through stations' program discounts and by NTA discounting its own prices based on multiple unit buys.

WGA, networks talk

Writers Guild of America representatives meet with officials of ABC, NBC and CBS last Wednesday and Thursday in New York to discuss the union's proposal for a new contract covering live tv and radio staff and free-lance writers (Broadcasting, Feb. 29). Discussions were said to be "amicable," but the networks were reported to be resisting the union's demands for a 15% hike in staff wages and a hefty 50% increase in free-lance program fees. Other sessions will be held this week. The present pact expires on March 31.

WORLD RADIO SETS UP SHARPLY

USIA reports count outside U.S., Canada

The number of radio sets in the world (excluding the U.S., its possessions and Canada) increased by 12 million in 1959 for a total of 163,667,000, the United States Information Agency reported last week. Also last year, wired speakers (for public listening) over the world reached 38,9 million, a 22% increase of 7 million over the 1958 total.

Greatest expansion in radio receivers during the past year. USIA reported, occurred in communist East Europe (3.3 million), with 50% of the increase in Russia proper. Communist China reported 1.5 million more radio sets in use in 1959 than 1958. Radios in Western Europe increased by 2.2 million; Near East, South Asia and Africa, 2.9 million; Far East, 2.1 million. and Latin America, 1.5 million.

USIA reported that there appears to be a slowdown in the rate of radio sets increase in Western Europe and the Far East. This can be attributed, the agency said, to the rapid growth of television in these areas.

Communist countries accounted for almost all the growth in wired receivers, the report said, with communist China claiming a 370% increase. However, USIA warned, "radio set statistics are approximate and should be treated with caution, particularly when they refer to newly-developing countries."

British protest

With high dudgeon, a leading British movie and television union condemned the quality of American motion pictures being shown on tv there. At the annual conference of Cinematograph, Television & Allied Technicians, a resolution was passed stating that the average American movie presents a threat to the education of children and to the British way of life and thought. It further suggested that the number of foreign movies on tv be limited to 30%.

Mounties raid tv

Tv screens of a Red Rock, Ont., community antenna tv system suddenly went blank on March 3. Reason: the system's equipment had been seized by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the Canadian Dept. of Transport. The equipment was confiscated on charges that antenna owner Bert Lohr of Terrace Bay, Ont., had no license to operate. Mr. Lohr also operates a catv system at Terrace Bay where he has 335 subscribers. The Red Rock operation had 60 subscribers, each paying $100. Mr. Lohr built his Red Rock tower last summer at a cost of $20,000.

Seven tv applicants to Canada hearings

Two applicants for a competitive tv station at Calgary, Alta., and five for a second tv station at Edmonton will present their cases when the Canadian Board of Broadcast Governors holds hearings the week of May 9.

Privately owned stations are currently operating in the two cities—CHCT-TV Calgary, and CFRN-TV Edmonton. Applicants for the Calgary station are Chinook Communications Ltd., and CFRCN Television Ltd. Chinook consists of a group of 14 local businessmen, including Herb S. Stewart, until re-casting Ltd. (Dr. C.A. Starko, president); Edmonton Video Ltd. (Gerry Gaetz, manager of CJCA Edmonton, president); Mayfair Broadcasting Co. Ltd. (cleaner-furrier Michael Starko, president); Northgate Broadcasting Ltd. (Dr. C.A. Allard, president), and CHED Edmonton.

Criticism is already developing against CBC's Edmonton application. Opponents say there are areas in Canada not yet served by television, which should have first consideration for a new CBC tv station. They point out that CBC's national programs are already carried by CFRN-TV. The station was required to carry CBC programs when granted its license five years ago.

Abroad in brief

Set sales down Sales of radio and television receivers were down for January 1960, according to figures released by the Electronic Industries Assn. of Canada. A total of 33,860 radio sets were sold in January compared with 36,987 in the same month last year. Television set sales totalled 24,817 units in January 1960, compared with 31,741 in January 1959. Almost half the radio receivers, 16,042, were sold in Ontario, where over a third, 9,527 television receivers were sold. In Quebec province 8,020 radio and 5,197 tv sets were sold in the period.

Far East clients United Press International has reported the start of world news service to nine radio and tv outlets in Hong Kong. Arrangements were completed with the following: Radio Hong Kong and the Hong Kong Commercial Broadcasting Co., each with one English language and one Chinese language network; and Rediffusion (H.K.) Microwave facilities from Ottawa are located at Renfrew, near Pembroke.

Power boost CKY Winnipeg, which has operated with 5 kw for the past 10 years, has increased power to 50 kw day and night. Station engineers state that with its frequency of 580 kc and the high conductivity of the terrain where the transmitter is located, CKY will have one of the biggest coverage areas on the continent. The power increase cost the station some $300,000.

Royal wedding The BBC has asked permission to broadcast and televise Princess Margaret's wedding to Antony Armstrong-Jones. It is expected that the British commercial tv network will seek the same privilege. Whether or not it will be granted is up to the royal family. Queen Elizabeth's wedding in 1947 was broadcast and her coronation in 1953 was covered by tv. The date for Princess Margaret's wedding has not yet been set.

Color tv tests

Color tv transmission tests were made last year in West Germany with considerable success, it was reported last week. The test consisted of allowing color slides over a uhf transmitter (ch. 17 in Haardt kopf). No films or live programs were tested. The West German Institut fuer Rundfunktechnik (Institute for Radio Equipment), a research organization supported by broadcasters there, conducted the test using the American NTSC color transmission system. It learned that color reception was good where good black-and-white signals were received and bad where strong reflection effects were noted. High-gain antennas were reportedly used successfully to improve color reception in these areas. Although color tv is not yet used commercially in West Germany, it is presumed that it will be used only on certain uhf outlets.

Gospel talent hunt

Continuing its policy of testing new radio promotion ideas, Pet Milk Co. has completed a five-week gospel talent search contest on KCOH Houston—with highly gratifying results to its agency, Gardner Adv. Co.

Bidding for the Negro market, Pet Milk launched its search on a test basis early this year, with KCOH airing auditions each Sunday through Feb. 21. The station reports it received over 15,000 votes from the five hourly programs and an attendance of over 4,000 people for the finals despite inclement weather.

First prize was an all-expense-paid trip to Chicago for the winning gospel group, with scheduled appearances on Pet Milk’s Sid McCoy Negro program, Sunday Morning, aired on about 60 U.S. stations.

Purpose of the Houston promotion was to achieve roughly the same results as the advertiser claims to get from its sponsorship of the Grand Ole Opry country and western music talent hunt on Keystone Broadcasting System.

Bowling anyone?

The Armed Forces Radio Service will broadcast the match to its outlets throughout the world.

Volunteer politicians sought

WIND Chicago has embarked on a campaign to attract volunteer workers for major political party activity.

Gordon Davis, general manager of the Westinghouse outlet, described it as “frankly an experiment” in radio and “for all we know in any medium.” The plan was evolved in cooperation with the Citizens of Greater Chicago and has the approval of both the Republican and Democratic parties.

WIND has obtained recorded statements from over 20 political workers, testifying to their effectiveness as volunteers and decrying earlier fears which originally deterred them from any political participation.

Payola written in blood

WWDC Washington entered into an agreement with top local record promoters and distributors to pay for what the station want, blood? Exactly.

Each record magnate agreed to donate a pint of blood to promote Red Cross Month in exchange for exposure of their platters by WWDC disc jockey Fred Fiske. The personality’s show originated from the Red Cross blood donor center and some 14 pints of blood were contributed as a result of the “payola” arrangement.

Citizens speak up

KMOX St. Louis is airing a daily discussion show At Your Service, featuring a different civic leader each day speaking on a topical subject. Plant a tree week

KCBS San Francisco has organized and promoted an extensive campaign to urge citizens to beautify the Bay Area by observing “Plant a Tree Week.” California’s Gov. Edmund Brown wired praise to the station for donating the time to the civic project. He said that Californians and their children and the generations to come will benefit from the trees.

The mayor proclaimed the week an official observance and commended KCBS and the chamber of commerce for their participation. The station is offering a perpetual trophy to the community in that area that makes the most significant improvement. Each day of Listeners tell tv views

KWTV (TV) Oklahoma City used a half-hour of prime evening time to stir viewers’ interest in the problem: “What is Wrong with Television?”

After attempting to demonstrate the difference between “imaginative advertising” and “deception,” moderator Bruce Palmer, the station’s news director, showed a number of man-in-the-street interviews and then asked the viewer “What do you think?” The response was substantial, the station reports, with most viewers in favor of TV as it is and opposed to added government control. Those interviewed on the program seemed opposed to some commercials, but not all felt that violence on TV was not excessive and that the industry should clean its own house where needed without government prodding.

Mr. Palmer explained the technical problems in producing commercials under studio conditions showing how plastic facsimiles were used for food products that would be ruined under the strong lights, how colors are distorted by the black-and-white cameras, etc. He also pointed out that balancing the action programs that have come under fire are public service and cultural programs presented regularly.

KWTV says it is encouraged by the success of the show and is planning to do a similar program on “taste” later this month.

• Drumbeats

Booster days • WOW-TV Omaha, Neb., was invited to Creighton U.’s business administration booster days last month. The station installed a booth which featured literature WOW-TV publishes to sell the Omaha market and ch. 6 to national advertisers, tying in directly with the theme of the show—dynamics of consumer relations.

‘Dog of Flanders’ promotion • In cooperation with Chicago’s Balaban & Katz theatre chain, WBKB (TV) there offered free tickets to viewers for special preview showings of a new motion picture, “Dog of Flanders.” The ABC-owned station ran a series of 11 promotional spots on three of its children’s programs—Joblewocky Place, Here’s Geraldine and Chatter’s World—over a seven-day period. As of Feb. 26, WBKB reports it received 5,233 mail pieces and that the requests completely filled three B & K theatres previewing the film the following day.

In all, there were requests for over 10,000 tickets, far exceeding the combined theatre capacities of 6,000 seats.

Gorilla on the streets • In an effort to promote interest in Fred Gage’s weekday record program, WBBM Chicago is sending out a gorilla to area high schools and shopping centers. It’s part of the station’s “Name the Gorilla” contest in which listeners are competing for prizes during a month-long promotion.

Not too shy • In a leap year telephone romance heard over WQAM Miami, Fla., a young lady proposed to a young man. He accepted. Part of the station’s leap year contest, the couple was provided with the marriage license and the girl received a watch. To receive her prize the proposal has to lead to marriage within one year. A quote by the “acceptor”: “I’ll have to... because it would be much easier than me havin’ to think up words of my own to ask her later . . .”

Week at Elysee • In one week (Feb. 22-26) Ralph Dawson, national sales manager, WXYZ-TV Detroit, made 10 presentations, each consisting of color transparencies and taped narration on “A Week at Broadcast House,” the new WXYZ-AM-TV facility. The presentation, held at the Elysee Hotel in New York, took agency executives through one full week of broadcasting. More than 250 agency people that week were guests at either luncheon at noon or hors d’oeuvres at cocktail time.

OUR RESPECTS TO . . .

The Fletcher Family

Ordinarily if you want to make a splash in Washington you throw a cocktail party, serve lots of good liquor and food and mix with famous faces, pretty ladies and lots of conversation.

It remained for a couple of Tarheels, however, to give this tradition an extra filip. They not only fed their guests (including members of Congress and the FCC) the usual, but they had them sit through 90 minutes of video-taped opera: Donizetti’s “Don Pasquale.” It happened last month.

The North Carolinians who perpetrated this cultural break with Washington standards were A.J. and Fred Fletcher of the WRAL stations in Raleigh.

The gathering was a high spot in a burgeoning movement that is bringing opera out of the Metropolitan Opera House haute monde and back to the people. This is the National Grass Roots Opera Foundation and it is the particular passion of Alfred Johnston Fletcher, the owner of WRAL and the father of three sons, all in broadcasting.

A.J., still trim and spare at 73, founded WRAL in the North Carolina capital 21 years ago. His three sons are Fred, general manager of the WRAL stations; Floyd co-general manager of ch. 11 WTVD (TV) Durham, N.C., and Frank, a communications lawyer in Washington (and new president of the Federal Communications Bar Assn.).

Music Lovers • This grouping of father and sons in broadcasting is unusual in many ways. All the boys share their father’s interests in music. A.J. is not only founder and president of the grass roots opera movement but he’s also opera chairman of the 600,000-member National Federation of Music Clubs. Frank sings in the church choir at Briggs Baptist Church in Washington. Floyd was president of the North Carolina Symphony.

Tennis is another common interest among the four. When the boys were younger (they’ve all slacked off recently, even A.J.), the father issued a worldwide challenge for the father-and-three-sons championship. Since there were no takers, A.J. proclaimed the Fletcher tennis foursome world champs.

There are other bonds aside from sanguinity. All the Fletchers are alumni of Wake Forest College. Two of the Fletcher sons won identical honors as Junior Chamber of Commerce “Young Men of the Year”—Fred in Raleigh in 1943; Floyd in Durham in 1950. Two of the Fletcher brothers are followers of that large, loyal order of Isaac Walton—Fred and Frank. Both A.J. and Fred have been active in YMCA work. Both Fred and Floyd were disc jockeys of sorts in their young life—Fred at WRAL and Floyd with what was then WINX Washington.

The patriarch of this foursome—whose energies and enthusiasm belie his 73 years—is a lawyer and businessman. A.J., as he is formally known everywhere, was born in 1887 in Ashe County, N.C., the son of a Baptist minister. He entered law in 1911 and is still a practicing member of the bar.

Built Stations • His business interests have touched many fields. He founded the Southern Life Insurance Co., a cemetery, a laundry and dry cleaning establishment. In 1939, at the urging of son Frank, he built WRAL and in 1955 WRAL-TV. There is also a WRAL-FM.

The great enthusiasm of A.J.’s life now is the National Grass Roots Opera Foundation. He founded it in 1948. Its purpose is to make opera available as mass entertainment and to provide young artists with professional careers. Many are employed at WRAL stations—which probably gives that broadcast property the distinction of having more tenors, baritones, sopranos and coloraturas than any other U.S. station.

A.J. married Elizabeth Hardy Utley in 1910. There is also one daughter, Mrs. Ray H. Goodman Jr. of Raleigh. There are nine grandchildren.

Working alongside his father in Raleigh is Fred Fletcher, the eldest of the sons, born in 1910. He was a YMCA recreation and sports worker in his youth and for a time worked in the South Chicago YMCA. He is chairman of the Raleigh Recreation Commission.

Helped Start WRAL • He returned to Raleigh in 1939 to join his father in the establishment of WRAL. He was an announcer, program director and since 1942 the general manager of that station. Since 1956 he has been vice president and general manager WRAL-AM-FM-TV.

He helped develop the Tobacco Radio Network and the Tobacco Sports Network. The sports network now counts 65 stations for football and 25 for basketball and came to fruition after Fred persuaded academic dons there was nothing dirty in permitting their sports contests to be sponsored.

Twenty odd miles away in Durham, brother James Floyd holds forth. Floyd was born in 1915. He served with the Navy in the Pacific during World War II. After discharge as a lieutenant (j.g.), Floyd built WTIK in Durham. In 1950 he merged with Harmon L. Duncan’s WDUK—retaining the WTIK call. In 1957 they sold the radio outlet and built ch. 11 WTVD (TV) in Durham. In 1957 they sold the vhf outlet to Capital Cities Broadcasting Corp. (Frank Smith, Lowell Thomas and others) but remained as co-managers.

Floyd is vice president for television of N.C. Assn. of Broadcasters.

Frank Utley is the Washington Fletcher. He is a cum laude law graduate of Wake Forest and studied administrative law as a graduate student at Duke U. in Durham.

FCC stint • He came to Washington in 1934 and joined the FCC as a lawyer in that new agency, writing appellate briefs and opinions. During five years with the FCC, Frank edited the first five volumes of that agency’s reports and codified the 1939 FCC regulations.

In 1939, Frank left the FCC and joined the Washington law firm of Spearman & Roberson. Both Paul Spearman and Frank Roberson had been at the FCC. This association lasted for three years and ended when Uncle Sam beckoned. Frank served in U.S. Army ordnance as a legal officer in the Pentagon and in San Francisco.

He was discharged as a captain.

He returned to private practice in 1945. Eight years later he returned to Spearman & Roberson as a partner.

The Fletcher relationship is warm and close. It might best be described in a paraphrase of the words of A.J. on the day WRAL opened its broadcast service to the people of Raleigh: This family is operated with integrity and independence and enlightenment.
Revolving chairmanship

THIS week the FCC will be presided over by its third chairman in less than three years. Frederick W. Ford, who became a commissioner in 1957, takes over from John C. Doerfer, who at the same time in 1957 succeeded George C. McConnaughey upon his resignation. All are Republicans.

Mr. Ford is young, vigorous and ambitious. He is a tough-minded West Virginian who came to his commission-ership from the Dept. of Justice where he had been a deputy to Attorney General William P. Rogers. But he knows the FCC ropes because he had been a staff attorney and head of its hearing division for six years until 1953. He is labelled a "modern" Republican of the Eisenhower philosophy. Some of the views he has expressed since becoming a commis-sioner, particularly in the area of programming scrutiny and control, have been the cause for consternation among broadcasters and attorneys.

Mr. Doerfer is the victim of injustice. He submitted his resignation to President Eisenhower ostensibly to avoid possible embarrassment to the administration after the over-publicized Storer hospitality incident of last month. Acceptance of the resignation, which had been urged at the staff level, was an act of political expediency in an election year.

What Mr. Doerfer did under the circumstances was an indiscretion. But the acceptance of hospitality by people in public life is an everyday occurrence. High ranking members of the administration and of Congress hunt, golf, cruise and fly with tycoons of industry and seem to think nothing of it. There are no recriminations or outraged outbursts from high places or from the press.

No questions have been raised in any responsible quarter as to Mr. Doerfer's integrity or honesty. We can't fathom how an official who has the fortitude to disagree in a public meeting with the chairman of the powerful House Oversight Subcommittee can be criticized as one who might be influenced in his decisions by an applicant, or for that matter, pushed around by anyone.

Mr. Doerfer steadfastly refused to agree with those who condemn broadcasting as corrupted because of the excesses of a few overzealous individuals. He leaves the FCC chairmanship with no stigma in the eyes of any broadcasters we know. He performed his duties honestly and perhaps too conscientiously. We wish him and his family well as he returns to private life.

So the order changes. Mr. Ford is realistic in stating that the problems facing the commission today "are more serious than at any time in its history." Broadcasters, as well as his fellow commissioners and co-workers, are interested in seeing Mr. Ford succeed in his determination to lead the way toward their equitable solution—without doing violence to free enterprise broadcasting.

Fellows tragedy...

HAROLD E. FELLOWS, whose career as head of the NAB came to an untimely end last Tuesday, was another victim of the bewildering pace of broadcasting.

He was the nation's best known broadcaster. He never learned how to slow down. He had been tired for months, but he refused to consider retirement.

Hal Fellows was unwilling to ask anyone else to shoulder any part of the tremendous burden of running the NAB. He was both president and board chairman. His devotion to duty was such that he would undertake virtually all speaking assignments rather than impose upon members of his staff. And no invitation to speak in the interest of radio or television was too small.

For a stormy decade, Hal Fellows served as spokesman for the nation's broadcasters. He was a professional—the first full-time chief executive of the NAB with a background in both radio and show business. And it was during his tenure, fraught as it was with controversy from without and conflicts of interest from within, that the NAB saw its greatest expansion.

It was, and probably always will be, impossible to satisfy all the diverse elements that constitute the membership of the NAB as the organization is now constructed. Mr. Fellows had his share of differences with members who espoused views at variance with his own. But these differences were never personal or bitter and no one could question his honesty, zeal and sincerity. No person ever worked more diligently to fulfill a mission that had no ending. He was a valiant warrior in the continuing crusade for freedom.

...NAB crisis

THE passing of Hal Fellows comes at a critical juncture in broadcasting's history. To find a qualified successor will not be easy. It will take time. Yet important decisions that inevitably will bear upon the future well-being of radio and television cannot wait. National policy is being shaped now, in Congress, at the FCC and FTC, and by broadcasters themselves through the self-policing process.

A heavy-hearted NAB board met in Washington last week. The meetings had been called by Mr. Fellows to prepare for the NAB convention next month and to strengthen the self-regulation codes for radio and tv.

The board last week did the best thing it could have done. A committee of respected broadcasters was induced to serve as a regency during the critical time ahead until a new president or chairman or both can be selected.

Questions are certain to arise in regard to possible reorganization of the NAB. Serious thought has been given to an overall federation of trade organizations in radio-tv, functioning separately, but working under the aegis of a reorganized top structure in Washington to which would be delegated all high level policy matters involving legislation, regulation and public relations.

Mr. Fellows himself, we believe, recognized the need for change to keep pace with the development of broadcasting and the increased complexities of operation. He had been reared in both show business and broadcasting. He relished the "show must go on" tradition. It is unfortunate that in his zeal to get things done and his dedication to his mission he did not have time to train an understudy.
