From the thought for the day in the morning to the thought for the day at night

No matter what time it is...

More of your Sioux City customers are watching KVTV

At KVTV each day begins and ends with “the thought for the day.” Between these thoughts—between sign-on and sign-off—KVTV dominates the Sioux City audience. Because of the daytime-nighttime dominance of CBS, top-rated ABC shows and outstanding local productions, KVTV has more of your Sioux City customers viewing. Yes indeed, between “the thought for the day” in the morning and at sign-off, a lot of careful planning and thinking goes into every KVTV program.

Roving eyes - Look for new burst of activity by ABC International Div. in South America. Leonard H. Goldenson, president of parent AB-PT, leaves Aug. 9 for month's tour of virtually all countries there, may come back with new TV interests. ABC International already has acquired minority in Ecuador TV station, may add another, in addition to its previously announced association with five-nation Latin American TV network (it owns minority stake of all five stations, controlling stock of network and reportedly in verge of first major time sale on network, which, incidentally, is programmed with ABC films).

At same time Mr. Goldenson is in South America, Oliver Treyz, ABC-TV president, will be in Europe scouting television possibilities there. ABC officials say they're discussing expansion in as many parts of free world as possible and already have added part interest in Beirut, Lebanon, TV station to international holdings that also include piece of NWS-TV Adelaide, Australia.

Another traveler - World expansion is also on RCA's mind, though that company's foreign activities are already extensive. RCA Board Chairman David Sarnoff and his wife will leave U.S. in mid-October for two-month trip to Japan, Hong Kong, Thailand, India, Turkey, Greece, Italy, France and England. He'll be keeping eyes open for new markets.

Gen. Sarnoff has reputation for being international-minded. He sat in NBC working area on Republican convention speakers' platform last Thursday during Vice President Richard Nixon's acceptance speech. Afterward, Mr. Nixon was heard to confide: "General, you heard that my ideas on the cold war generally coincide with yours."

Better job - Nomination of Henry Cabot Lodge as GOP vice presidential running mate of Richard Nixon eliminated one of better prospects for presidency of NAB, vacant since death last March of Harold Fellows. Mr. Lodge, it's known, has been approached regarding NAB and was high on priority list. But while he showed some interest, he made no commitment, presumably at that time (last April) having had in mind possible selection for Republican ticket's second slot.

New ratings factor - Television ratings will be shown on new (and possibly deflating) basis in A.C. Nielsen Co. pocketpieces, starting with issue out this week. Instead of computing ratings on "program station basis," which compensates for fact that some programs are carried by fewer stations than others, pocketpieces henceforth will show ratings as percentage of total U.S. television homes. Thus, other things being equal, program on short lineup would have lower homes potential and thus get lower rating than one with long, major-market lineup. ABC, which traditionally has had more live-clearance problems than other networks, presumably will feel most effects of change.

Nielsen says, however, that actually there won't be any major change in rating levels because program coverage now is so high; lineup is longer on all three networks and there's more over-lapping of service of affiliates of same networks. Nielsen holds that there's no longer direct relationship between coverage and delivered audience -70 stations can reach 90% of U.S. TV homes and adding 100 others would increase figure by only 7% (but could increase audience by 35%). Nielsen also points out that homes-reached figures in pocketpieces will not be affected and, if anybody wants rating based on pure popularity, he can go to Nielsen 24-market report where all three networks are competing under identical conditions.

CBS Radio revisions - It's almost certain that CBS Radio's Program Consolidation Plan will undergo major changes (CLOSED CIRCUIT, July 25). Special committee of affiliates has agreed on details—including heavier news emphasis, end of daytime serials, cut in network free hours—and will present them to full CBS Radio Affiliates Board at meeting in Ponte Vedra Beach, Fla., Aug. 8-9. Board acceptance is regarded as inevitable. After that it's matter of working out timetable for change.

Almost but not quite - FCC last week seemed on verge of ordering en banc hearing on Hartford, Conn., pay TV test application but at last moment Friday decided to pass over vexatious problem until fall. Division at commission and at staff level seems to be on whether FCC en banc hearing should be limited to Hartford application (filed by RK6 General Inc. last June) or should be expanded to encompass larger policy issues of telcasting.

Delicate questions of law seemingly are involved and FCC staff, up to general counsel's office, are at odds on just what is correct procedure. Commission is also very much aware Congress is looking over its shoulder on this one. Subject of Hartford application is scheduled to be taken up again Sept. 6 at first meeting on return of FCC from August vacation.

Special reports - NBC's corporate planners are interested in new project to furnish business reports to companies via audio circuits. Venture is called National Business Communications (NABIZCOM), is being worked out by network in association with Leo Cherne's Research Institute of America. NABIZCOM was tested July 12-13-14, drew 150 calls to hear reports on labor relations, taxes, foreign trade, other specialized news. Subscribing businessman would call NBC number in New York (Circle 7-8300), ask for "NABIZCOM 1" (or 2 or 3, etc., depending on type of information he's after). Project is described as in "embryonic" stage.

Mirror, mirror - NBC is thinking of conducting private survey of advertising agencies to find out at first-hand what sort of image it has among its customers. If it gets go-ahead, project would be follow-up to similar study by Broadcasting showing varying agency attitudes toward all three networks (Broadcasting, July 25).

Back on the farm? - There's more than mere investment interest in Connie B. Gay's buy of KFEQ-TV St. Joseph, Mo. (see page 10). He makes no bones about desire to originate network coast-to-coast TV farm and home show from his St. Joseph station (after FCC approves his buy), similar to radio's venerable Farm & Home Hour on old Blue Network. Mr. Gay was producer of radio Hour when he was with Dept. of Agriculture back in 1930s.

Big brothers - How did network brass keep abreast of what competition was doing at political conventions? Each network had its own executive room, both in Los Angeles and Chicago, with monitors mounted parallel, duplicating master controls. Audio was controlled by remote push button. First arrangement of this nature was introduced dozen years ago by CBS Inc. President Frank Stanton, who customized set-up for his New York apartment.
Ask each of several persons to choose a number between one and ten—and you'll find an astonishing preference for seven*.

Now try another one on ten acquaintances—at different times, of course: Ask for a two-digit number between one and fifty. Specify that each digit must be odd—and different. Give as an example the number eleven, which, though each digit is odd, cannot be used because the two digits are the same. It is important to give the example.

For some reason, one number crops up far more frequently than others. Drop us a line† when you discover what that number is. After a few tries you'll be able to write down the number in advance—and be right a great number of times.

* Not at all astonishing in the Washington market, where WMAL-TV has emerged as the nighttime favorite.

WEEK IN BRIEF

Needed: exclusive spot tv organization ■ The rising cost and difficulty of doing business in spot television can be offset by (1) finding easier ways of doing business and (2) doing bigger volume. At least this is the practical theory of one midwest agency executive. To help achieve it, Ralph W. Klapperich, in this week's MONDAY MEMO, suggests the formation of an organization exclusively devoted to the promotion of spot television. He's vice president and media director of Knox Reeves Adv., Minneapolis. Page 24.

A sharper watch on programming ■ FCC tells broadcasters where and how they intend to make judgments at renewal time. Page 35.

And the staff's proposals ■ Accompanying the FCC programming report was a 380-page roundup of testimony at last winter's program inquiry plus recommendations for commission action (some of which were adopted). Page 36.

Tv-minded Lestoi shifts gears ■ House agency concept abandoned as account goes to newly-merged Sackel-Jackson agency. Page 40.

Cold war over post-'48s: Station buyers of film are cool to purchasing post-'48 features at prices they call "out of line", while distributors insist they will hold the price line. Page 48.

Tv, it's terrible ■ At least that's what a majority of comments indicated during Open End syndicated program including newspaper-producer-actor panelists but no broadcasters or advertisers. Page 56.

Politics ad infinitum ■ So you think Los Angeles and Chicago wound up the big coverage splurge in politics? They were just practice for the campaigns, broadcasters report, as the networks offer prime hours for Nixon-Kennedy debates (page 62) and FCC raps knuckles of Little Rock, Ark., tv stations for pre-empting GOP coverage to present local pre-election talks (page 64). The wrap-up starts on page 62.

Storer buys WINS New York ■ Agrees to pay $10 million for 50 kw outlet now owned by J. Elroy McCaw, puts up $100,000 for option. Storer must dispose of one of its am stations in order to close the deal. Page 76.

Vhf boosters authorized ■ FCC accepts vhf repeaters for television; issues order setting up requirements and agrees to begin processing applications Sept. 6; tells those already operating they must conform to new rules. Page 84.

Jerrold wins partial antitrust victory ■ Federal judge says Jerrold tie-in contracts in early days of growth of cable systems all right, but issues injunctions on practices from now on. Divestiture of Jerrold's nine cable companies denied, but additional acquisitions must have court's approval. Page 88.

Liquor ads in Canada ■ Ontario gives approval to all media for such advertising. Page 91.

NYC INVITES FCC UHF STUDY

Plans for federal-aid inquiry are reviewed

WNYC (TV) New York’s non-commercial ch. 31 facility has formally invited FCC to use its station for commission’s uhf study. Invitation came at meeting held July 29 at FCC with members of industry. Session, attended by more than 50 broadcasters, was for purpose of setting up industry advisory groups to aid commission in its two-year study in New York.

Edward W. Allen, FCC chief engineer, told group that commission has encountered stiff problem in antenna placement atop Empire State Bldg. He said that study was faced with placement of antenna without interfering with chs 2, 4, 5. He said that is one of problems industry people can help commission work out. Uhf transmitter will probably be operational from Empire State Bldg. next spring, he predicted.

“Time is no factor,” Mr. Allen said. “We can get an extension; also we can get more funds from Congress if we have to. But we are going to break our backs to keep within budget and monetary allowances.” Congress provided $2 million for study.

FCC Commissioner Robert E. Lee said that whether FCC would use ch. 31 WNYC would depend largely on interference problems. He said programming could give New York educators “a real chance” to practice tv presentations and do in-school work. He made it clear FCC does not want to be involved in programming and asked that educators work this phase out among themselves.

Dee W. Pincock, FCC assistant general counsel, reassured industry representatives their participation in uhf project would cause no antitrust problems so long as FCC approves agendas and convening of meetings and commission employe presiding. Committees will be set up much on order of TASS to avoid antitrust entanglements he said.

John Creutz, Washington consulting engineer, reflected mood of other members of meeting when he said: “I don’t know how well uhf works and I want to find out. I want to see this project done right. We need publicity; we need businessmen running this. We must put out programming; we must operate in competition with existing stations. We have to have a different approach to this than mere engineering.”

Ernest Jenne, representing Assn. of Maximum Service Telecasters, recommended that industry advisors be set up in small workable subcommittees under aegis of overall industry advisory committee. Five such subcommittees —general, transmitter-antenna, receiver development, observation and measurement, and analysis—were agreed upon, with 10-to-15 members each.

Charles H. Tower, NAB tv vice president, called for setting up an organizing committee which would select people and present names to FCC.

Mr. Allen said that uhf study would also develop better tuners which could be used by manufacturers as immediate improvement rather than long-range innovation. He said study will be under control of FCC “at all times,” with industry advisors participating through their subcommittees.

Advisory committee will meet again week from Tuesday (Aug. 9) with goal of staffing as many committees as possible.

GOP viewing below Democratic totals

Total of 56,635,000 homes, representing estimated 124,597,000 viewers, watched Republican convention on television last week. These figures for four-night GOP convention compared with 76,120,000 homes and 167,464,000 viewers for five-night Democratic proceedings two weeks earlier (BROADCASTING, July 25) and brought grand total for both conventions to 132,755,000 homes and 292,061,000 viewers. Figures are cumulatives, representing total of tune-in per average minute each night, and thus include homes and viewers who watched two or more of nine nights involved.

Homes figures are from American Research Bureau’s Arbitron national service (early story page 69), assuming 2.2 viewers per home. Average audience for Republican convention was placed at 14,159,000 homes per minute per night; for Democratic, 15,224,000.

In networks’ race for audience, NBC claimed higher average ratings and homes tuned-in than CBS and ABC combined during Republican convention and almost same margin in two-convention averages. NBC said its homes per average minute per night during GOP proceedings averaged 7,272,000, compared with 4,917,000 for CBS and 1,970,000 for ABC; for Democratic and Republican conventions combined NBC claimed nightly average of 7,329,000 homes per minute against 5,224,000 for CBS and 2,207,000 for ABC.

Nixon, Kennedy agree to radio-tv debates

Vice President Richard Nixon and Sen. John Kennedy have agreed to debates in prime time offered last week by networks (early story page 62). Mr. Nixon wired acceptance to CBS and NBC Friday. Mr. Kennedy, who accepted NBC offer day before (it arrived first), accepted ABC’s and CBS’ Friday. ABC officials expected similar response from Mr. Nixon.

All networks conditioned offers on congressional vote to suspend political broadcasting law, as it applies to presidential and vice presidential candidates, during this election. Suspension has passed Senate, awaits action in House.

Mr. Nixon proposed debates without prepared text or notes. Mr. Kennedy reportedly agreed.

KMA ruling ordered

FCC instructed staff July 29 to prepare opinion for renewal of license of KMA Shenandoah, Iowa. Renewal had been questioned because of overlap between KMA and KFAB Omaha, which is 48.86% owned by KMA licensee, May Broadcasting Co. Oral argument was held Thursday on application for renewal (see page 91).

Gay enters tv

Station sale announced Friday, subject to FCC approval:
KFEQ-AM-TV St. Joseph and KLIK Jefferson City, both Missouri: Sold by Jesse D. Fine and associates to country music impresario Connie B. Gay for $1,850,000. This is Mr. Gay’s first tv purchase; he owns WQMR Silver Spring, Md. (Washington, D.C.); WGAY (FM) Washington, D.C.; WTCR Ashland, Ky. (Huntington, W.Va.), and WFTC Kinston, N.C., and in last six months has sold KITE San Antonio, Tex., and WYFE New Orleans, La. Mr. Fine and group bought St. Joseph stations in 1957, paying $842,000. No changes in personnel contemplated, Mr. Gay said. KFEQ is 5 kw on 680 kc and its tv companion is ch. 2 with CBS primary and ABC secondary affiliation. KLIK is 5 kw daytimer on 850 kc. Broker was Hamilton, Landis & Assoc.

Tv code office opened in New York

NAB tv Code Review Board opens its new office in New York today (Aug. 1) with temporary quarters in Transcontinent Television Corp. offices at 380 Madison Ave. In charge is Stockton Helfrich, former NBC continuity acceptance director. “Opening of the tv code office provides for the first time an operating base in New York, the commercial capital of broadcasting,” said joint statement by Clair R. McCollough, Steinman Stations, who heads NAB Policy Committee, and E.K. Hartenb ander, KOMO-TV Kansas City, tv code board chairman. “The office will be available to agencies, advertisers and broadcasters alike. This is a giant step forward in the television industry’s program of self-regulation.”

Intervention approved

Private aeronautical interests have been given permission to intervene in WLUK-TV Marinette-Green Bay, Wis., case. FCC announced Friday it had overruled its chief hearing examiner, permitting following to become parties to hearing involving request of WLUK-TV to increase tower height by 330 ft., to 1,000 ft. above ground: Air Transport Assn. of America, Air Line Pilots Assn., National Business Aircraft Assn. and Aircraft Owners & Pilots Assn. At same time commission turned down joint petitions by Federal Aviation Agency and Departments of Army and Navy, already parties, to introduce into evidence criteria on antenna heights and locations and report of Joint Industry-Government Tall Structures Committee.

Business briefly

Spot advertiser Mitchum Co., Paris, Tenn., has begun spot radio campaign on behalf of Esoterica (skin cream). Announcements, one-minute spots on 52-week basis, will be presented initially in small number of markets. Mitchum’s new agency, Cohen & Aleshire, N.Y., will enlarge drive later if tests are successful.

WEEK’S HEADLINERS

Erwin H. Ezzes, formerly vp and director of Television Industries Inc., N.Y., elected to new post of executive vp, United Artists Associated Inc., tv and feature film distributing affiliate of United Artists Corp. Henry J. Zittau, vp, elevated to senior vp in first such top reshuffle following resignation of Eliot Hyman as UAA president. Mr. Hyman subsequently has been mentioned for executive post with Creative Telefilm & Artists which has leased for distribution to television about 110 post-‘48 feature films. Robert Rich, UAA vp in charge of sales, and his assistant, Don Klauber, have resigned from UAA and are expected to join Mr. Hyman at Creative. Mr. Ezzes has long been associated with Matthew Fox, who is president of Television Industries and held post of vp and director also with subsidiary C&C Films Inc., original distributor to tv of RKO feature library. Mr. Ezzes was vp in charge of sales for Flamingo Films (later Motion Pictures for Television Inc.) starting in 1952 and four years later joined C&C Films after one year’s association with Guild Films as vp in charge of sales. He also has been secretary of Worldwide Development Corp., import-export company formed by Mr. Fox, and had been vp in charge of sales of United World Films, subsidiary of Universal Pictures that distribute non-theatrical features. Mr. Zittau has been associated 11 years with UAA and predecessor Associated Artists Productions.

Ted Steele, well-known broadcasting personality in New York, appointed general manager of WNTA-AM - FM Newark - New York, succeeding Irving Lichtenstein, named to newly-created post of general executive in charge of special events, promotions and merchandising for National Telefilm Assc., parent company of stations. Mr. Steele currently is host on WNTA-TV’s Ted Steele’s Dance Party, which is telecast six evenings per week. Mr. Steele plans to limit his appearance to one night per week. Mr. Steele has been air personality at KMPC Hollywood, WPX (TV) New York and DuMont Television Network, and also has held various executive positions with NBC and John C. Dowd Adv., Boston. Mr. Lichtenstein joined stations last year, and earlier was with ABC as exploitation director and with WWDC Washington, D.C., in various executive posts.

In these two great markets, the leaders appoint

John Blair and Company

as National Representative, effective August 1, 1960

The new census spotlights the record growth and brilliant prospects of two great markets—Milwaukee and San Diego. Among Midwest cities, Milwaukee takes front-rank in growth with 24 per cent increase since 1950, and a gain of 41.5 per cent in suburban areas. Its tremendous industrial development has been accelerated by completion of the St. Lawrence Seaway. In the West, San Diego continues the fantastic growth that began in the '40s. Since 1950 its metro-area population has nearly doubled, putting San Diego well within the select group of America's million-markets. Effective August 1, Bartell Stations in these two key markets team-up with John Blair & Company. With the addition of WOKY, Milwaukee, and KCBQ, San Diego, Blair Stations alone can now deliver your sales message to 81.7 per cent of the national market each week—with decisive frequency.

EDITORIALIZING?
PLAN TO?

Station editorializing is one of the fastest growing broadcast trends. For good reason. "Opinioncasting" is dynamic and expanded station service in the public interest.

And it's good business; One station doubled the rating of a newscast by using the last three minutes for editorial comment!

Now . . . with Broadcast Editorial Reports—an important News Department adjunct—stations can supplement editorializing on local issues with opinion on national and international matters based on authoritative observation by top-rated global newsmen.

World-Renowned Staff

Broadcast Editorial Reports provides you with an "editorial staff" unexcelled in all broadcasting. Men who are as well known in the homes you serve as they are in newsrooms around the globe. Seasoned newsmen like H. V. Kaltenborn . . . Henry Cassidy . . . W. W. Chaplin . . . John Luter . . . Eugene Lyons . . . Louis P. Lochner . . . Will Oursler . . . Ansel Talbert—and a dozen others of the same stature—plus experts in science, education, business and industry and other areas of prime public interest.

New and Exclusive Service

BER is a completely new service exclusively for radio and television stations—unavailable from any other source. BER’s daily 3-minute "Opinioncasts" on national and international affairs consist of background and analysis, plus opinion. They can be used as received and attributed to their "name" authors; they can be re-written by station broadcasters and used as their material—with their own conclusions.

Low, Low Costs

Rates for BER service range from $7.00 to $70.00 per week—average less than $20. (Price is based on population of metropolitan area served.) Service is on an annual subscription basis, with cancellation clause. Broadcast Editorial Reports are limited to one licensee in each market. Secure them for your area without delay.

For the full story on BER—and sample editorials (without obligation)—write A. Maxwell Hage, President and Editor-in-Chief.

Station editorializing is one of the fastest growing broadcast trends. For good reason. "Opinioncasting" is dynamic and expanded station service in the public interest.

And it's good business; One station doubled the rating of a newscast by using the last three minutes for editorial comment!

Now . . . with Broadcast Editorial Reports—an important News Department adjunct—stations can supplement editorializing on local issues with opinion on national and international matters based on authoritative observation by top-rated global newsmen.

World-Renowned Staff

Broadcast Editorial Reports provides you with an "editorial staff" unexcelled in all broadcasting. Men who are as well known in the homes you serve as they are in newsrooms around the globe. Seasoned newsmen like H. V. Kaltenborn . . . Henry Cassidy . . . W. W. Chaplin . . . John Luter . . . Eugene Lyons . . . Louis P. Lochner . . . Will Oursler . . . Ansel Talbert—and a dozen others of the same stature—plus experts in science, education, business and industry and other areas of prime public interest.

New and Exclusive Service

BER is a completely new service exclusively for radio and television stations—unavailable from any other source. BER’s daily 3-minute "Opinioncasts" on national and international affairs consist of background and analysis, plus opinion. They can be used as received and attributed to their "name" authors; they can be re-written by station broadcasters and used as their material—with their own conclusions.

Low, Low Costs

Rates for BER service range from $7.00 to $70.00 per week—average less than $20. (Price is based on population of metropolitan area served.) Service is on an annual subscription basis, with cancellation clause. Broadcast Editorial Reports are limited to one licensee in each market. Secure them for your area without delay.

For the full story on BER—and sample editorials (without obligation)—write A. Maxwell Hage, President and Editor-in-Chief.

This is a story about healthy growth.

It begins on a day almost fifteen years ago. Then, there were three owners of stock in Avery-Knode, Inc. There were only six employees. Shortly, the number of stockholders increased to five. And as time passed, the number grew to seven... then to 13. Today there are 18 Avery-Knode stockholders. They are the only owners of this company. They are pictured below.

Each of these men works every day... all day... to improve sales and services to stations and advertisers. They are 18 of the almost 100 men and women who today make up the Avery-Knode selling organization.

Oh, yes... Avery-Knode’s able and experienced manpower and its new, broader corporate base get along fine, too, with an increasing number of top-flight radio and television stations.
We call it healthy growth.

WPIX-11 is the “Network Station” for Spot Advertisers in New York! Audiences have learned to expect network quality entertainment every night on WPIX-11. Advertisers know that of all seven New York stations only WPIX offers so many opportunities to place minute commercials in prime evening time in such network quality programming. And Nielsen has proved that WPIX audience incomes, home ownerships, jobs, etc. are the same as on the leading network station! You’ll never find “mail order” or over-long commercials on WPIX-11. You will find important looking programs, only the best advertisers and a proved quality audience... on a station that has a healthy respect for the rate card. Where are your 60-second commercials tonight?
Nielsen recently studied his entire New York sample, both Audi- and Recordimeter-Audilog homes, and found "no significant-ence" between the kind of people who watch WPIX—New York's independent station—and New York's leading Network station. Nielsen "WPIX AUDIENCE PROFILE" study provides a direct com-parison of audiences for the prime qualitative categories of: FAMILY ME • HOME OWNERSHIP • AUTOMOBILE OWNERSHIP • SIZE OF ly • AGE OF HOUSEWIFE • OCCUPATION, HEAD OF HOUSEHOLD 7:00-11:00 PM, seven nights a week. Qualitatively they are equal. Nielsen states: "NONE OF THE COMPARISONS YIELDED A SIG- NANT DIFFERENCE!"

MONDAY MEMO

from RALPH W. KLAPPERICH, vice president and media director, Knox Reeves Adv., Minneapolis

Needed: exclusive spot tv organization

Rising costs plague every business, be it agency, client, broadcaster or representative. This is true today and, if we can judge from the past 10 years, it certainly will be true in the 1960’s.

Two of the most basic ways to beat the problem of rising costs are: (1) To find a better and easier way of doing business; (2) To do more business.

In the field of spot television there is a correlation between these two basics. Finding easier ways to buy spot television will help relieve the pressure of rising costs for agencies and certainly will help solve the broadcasters’ and representatives’ battle of rising costs by creating more spot tv business.

Spot tv has proven itself as a powerful advertising medium. This is evidenced by the many products it has helped to succeed, and by its growth to over $1.25 billion—a large part of which has come from increased expenditures by happy spot advertisers.

Buying and Selling • But there must be an easier way to buy—and sell—spot television. One of spot tv’s greatest advantages is flexibility. Going hand in hand with this advantage is a serious disadvantage: complexity. Just how serious a problem is this?

A conscientious timebuyer, placing a spot tv schedule in New York, must contact seven representatives and explain to each of them what he wants. A buyer placing an extensive spot schedule easily can spend days just asking for availabilities. He must give to all of the representatives for all the stations in the markets to be covered a detailed and concise description of his buying objectives if he is to accomplish those objectives satisfactorily.

There must be an easier way to buy spot television.

There are many, many instances where an agency or an advertiser needs specific information about local television for the planning of a campaign or the developing of an idea months before he is ready to do any actual buying. Where can he turn when he wants an up-to-date answer to such questions as “What are the chances of clearing five-minute time periods for kids or sports shows?” and “What’s the outlook for getting 30-second spots?” Who does he ask when he wants to know how many stations are carrying daytime women’s shows, daytime newscasts, or sports shows?

He turns to the station representative and to get a broad picture he must ask the same questions of 15 to 20 different representatives. The representatives ask their stations and days (usually weeks) later the advertiser or agency has his reply—or at least a partial reply—in the form of several phone calls, personal calls and a sorry assortment of mail. There must be an easier way.

Sports Blackouts • Network sports telecasts have multiplied like rabbits in the past few years, from one baseball game per weekend to five this year. Hand in hand with network sports telecasts go “blackouts,” a list of major markets which are not cleared for these network telecasts because of league restrictions, whether it’s baseball, football or basketball. Thus, every network sports advertiser has a problem of local fill-ins in the same list of markets. There is a need for and a demand for a well-developed plan to solve this problem.

Those advertisers who have solved the problem without going to other local media have done so the hard way, market by market, station by station. There must be an easier way and the sports tv industry can and should actively help advertisers solve this problem.

Enough has been written and spoken about the complexity of local rate cards. Certainly, simple rate cards are possible.

What is this easier way? I believe the answer lies in the creation of an organization whose sole purpose is to promote the medium of spot television. Perhaps the Station Representatives Assn. is or can become this organization, perhaps not. Perhaps this can be a sub-organization within the Television Bureau of Advertising, perhaps not.

What would this organization do? Its basic purpose would be to make it easier to buy spot tv. It also could serve as a clearinghouse for availability requests, reducing the time a buyer spends in asking for availabilities. It would not in any way replace or compete with the selling effort behind specific availabilities by individual stations or representatives.

Central File • This organization also could serve as an information center to answer agencies’ or advertisers’ questions about the local television picture, programming, etc. It could greatly increase advertiser interest in syndication by providing a central point to which the film syndicator can turn in seeking availabilities for his latest package. Today, the advertiser is reluctant to buy a syndicated show without having market by market time periods at least tentatively set. Stations and representatives are reluctant to offer time periods without advertiser interest. The result: both syndicators and local tv stations lose revenue to a nice, neat network package with a lineup 50% in excess of what the advertiser really needs.

This new organization also could develop and make proposals to help advertisers solve such problems as the blacked-out sports markets.

Most of all, this organization could and should sell spot tv as a medium to all levels and types of agency and client personnel so that everyone involved in the important basic media decisions fully understands and respects spot tv to the same extent as any other medium.

All of these things not only will make the agency media department’s job easier, but they also will result in the sale of more local television time.
HOW DOES A TOMATO SOUND? Like the long chant of picturesque street hucksters and their horse-drawn carts. Like a tempting tossed salad on candle-lit tables in homes throughout the country. Or, like thousands of bulging lunch counters during the noon-day rush... This is the sound of the blossoming tomato business in Maryland... A rich sound... A growing sound. It's the busy sound of a large Maryland industry that grows, packs and ships over one-third of all the tomatoes consumed in the United States. It's a mighty sound that adds millions of dollars in spendable income to the millions more earned by Marylanders in countless other industries. You can harvest this plush market for your client when you plant his sales seed on WBAL-RADIO, the station with cultivated roots in Baltimore and beyond. WBAL-RADIO is the progressive Maryland station with the sound of elegance, the Sound of the Sixties... the sound that ripens prospects into full-grown customers in the massive Maryland market. QUOTES WORTH REPEATING

Time to call a halt

The Chicago American had some editorial comment after Lar Daly appeared on the Jack Paar Show (Thursday, July 7). Headlined "Tune out the clown act" it said:

Lar (America First) Daly is again back in the headlines, where he assuredly doesn't belong. Daly wangled a 25 minute appearance on Jack Paar's television program Thursday night, and is now demanding 22 more minutes additional air time from the Federal Communications Commission on the grounds that he is a Democratic presidential hopeful and is entitled to equal time with other candidates for nomination.

Daly, a Chicago furniture jobber, is a tiresome crank who keeps running for office—any office—dressed in an Uncle Sam suit. His drones are not even funny, except to those who could find matter for humor in a rubber crutch.

Yet under the FCC's interpretation of the "equal time" rule, he is entitled to afflct tv audiences for the same amount of time allotted to genuine candidates. This is a very bad joke on everybody, and it should be stopped as soon as Congress reconvenes.

The equal time idea is nonsense in itself, because it assumes that experienced tv newsmen won't give impartial coverage to political candidates unless they're regulated by stopwatch. Congress should throw it out.

When a clown like Daly can commandeer time on national networks, just when the networks are busy with the biggest story in four years, it's time to call a halt.

And another objection

Commenting on the Lar Daly appearance on NBC-TV's Jack Paar Show, following an FCC ruling, the July 14 Arizona Record (Globe weekly), had this criticism and fear:

How silly can this equal time provision get? That a great communications medium should be shackled by such an unrealistic law is pathetic. Yet it's true.

And now there are those who would extend this practice to newspapers with an equal-space provision...

What would the definition of "equal space" include? Number of words? Lines? Column inches? Photo sizes? Headline type? Position?

What candidates would be eligible? How would the law be enforced? No thanks! No space—by any definition—is equal space.

Community leadership in serving the public has been fundamental in the operation of KCRA ever since it was founded 14 years ago. Example: the KCRA Community Bulletin Board, broadcast a minimum of three times daily throughout the week, calling attention to civic, social, and charitable activities of all kinds... the only such regular broadcast service in the area.

Under the same ownership and management ever since its founding, KCRA has always given community service prime time and attention. Adult listener acceptance is the result... which is a contributing factor to the results consistently produced for KCRA advertisers. Good place for your clients' dollars.

...and probably the finest merchandising service in the West.

Convention coverage

EDITOR: I read with interest your fine roundup focusing attention on independent station initiative on [Democratic] convention coverage [page 57, July 18 issue]. May I bring to your attention an obvious oversight to the fact that the most extensive independent radio station coverage of any political convention was supplied by radio station KMPC who had a staff of more than 40 repeat 40 covering. The entire westhouse broadcasting operation you covered so well [page 56, July 25 issue] was backed by the KMPC staff who around the clock covered the network. Our independent KMPC newsmen broke the announcement of Lyndon Johnson's nomination 38 repeat 38 minutes before any other newsmen in the world, scoring the outstanding beat of the convention. The whole project [was] under the personal direction of KMPC vice president in charge of programs Bob Forward... — John Dickson, KMPC Los Angeles.

EDITOR: In the July 18 issue, page 60, I note that Time Inc. stations get credit only at WTCN Minneapolis for covering the [Democratic] convention. Actually, Bill Roberts is head of the news bureau of all of the TLF stations including KLZ and he fed many special broadcasts to KLZ, namely, those with high local interest.

Sheldon Peterson, who was at KLZ for 15 years, many years of it, as our news director, also represents all of the TLF stations and fed us numerous broadcasts and film shows of special interest from the convention. Coverages were given to each of the delegations of the states in which TLF has stations and special reports were filed with each of the TLF stations. Similar coverage was planned in Chicago.—Hugh B. Terry, President and General Manager, KLZ-AM-TV Denver.

Product protection trend

EDITOR: Broadcasting's story on "Product protection: on way out," is a discussion of July 11 (page 27), was read with great interest here at WABC-TV as this station has long been advising its clients that good television time is becoming tighter than ever before and that sponsors should be willing to stand on the merits of their products, creativity, inventiveness and persuasion to sell goods and services rather than having the comfort of 15-minute or half-hour separation from the selling points of a competitor.

Joseph Stiamler, vice president and general manager for WABC-TV, late last year advised a number of agency executives that the sole obstacle that stood in the way of an overall growth in advertising is this problem of product protection...

Banks, law firms, accounting services etc. have managed to prosper with competitive companies within their clientele. Similarly, newspapers, magazines, outdoor advertising etc. schedule copy for competitive advertisers adjacent to one another.—Lester Dinoff, Director of Publicity, WABC-TV New York.

Catv controversy

EDITOR: Because I have been on the go out of town, it has only just now been possible for me to get to read the editorial, "Tv's little businessmen," on page 122 of your June 13 issue regarding the catv... I came to the conclusion years ago that the public interest requires the non-duplication in the coverage area of a small market station of its programs. I for one believe that I can successfully compete in the case of KFBC-TV Cheyenne, Wyo., and KSTF (TV) Scottsbluff, Neb., with other programs, whether they be programs that are paid for by the viewer by dropping a dollar in the slot or by paying a monthly subscription price as in the present concept of catv, or whether these other programs come in some manner not yet contrived.

However, when it comes to competing with our very own programs, which we must now do in the case of the catv as it is presently operated, one only needs to consider what would happen to any metropolitan city station in the country if 95% of its programs from 6-10 p.m. were duplicated in its coverage area, whether it be by catv or another station or any other means. I am sure everyone would agree that this would result in, if not the demise of such metropolitan city stations, at least a crushing cut-back of the quality of their service, including their ability to do public service local broadcasting, maintain and improve the quality of their transmitting equipment, maintain...
Worthwhile In Philadelphia Wherever they go, Philadelphians are surrounded by history. They see it as made, in shrines that breathe life. They hear it in the making ... via public affairs service which has differentiated WIP from other Philadelphia radio stations for 38 years. Example: “World in Perspective,” new problem-facing documentary series, scrutinizing local, national, international situations. “WIP” typifies Metropolitan’s blending of traditional with new concepts, which have created growing audiences for WIP service ... and your story ... in Philadelphia.
high employment standards and all the other things that make the average big city station at the present time a great contributor to the public interest in its area.

And, yet, this duplication is what is happening and has been for years to dozens of small town television stations. As for me, it seems conclusive that the public interest lies in the stopping of this duplication, whether it be by exercising copyright rights, withholding of network permission, enactment of legislation or extension of the jurisdiction of the FCC over this part of television broadcasting.—William C. Grove, General Manager, KFWB-TV Cheyenne, Wyo., and KSTF (TV) Scottsbluff, Neb.

Hard sell or humor?

EDITOR: Kenneth S. Barasch develops his theme ["Hard sell, not humor, should win tv awards," Monday Memo, page 22, July 4 issue] with reason and logic, but on a foundation that will not stand intelligent scrutiny. (This is what makes philosophy interesting.) Mr. Barasch’s error is in supporting his argument on the basis that seriousness in a commercial is desirable. Anything [such as a commercial] that lives precariously on the periphery of real human value must not presume to take itself seriously. ...—Jim Taylor, Production Director, WKBW Buffalo, N.Y.

KCMJ’s dual representatives

EDITOR: In the July 4 issue of Broadcasting under "Rep Appointments" you have listed KCMJ Palm Springs as being repped by United Spot Sales.

This is somewhat misleading and has caused quite a bit of confusion since we (J.A. Lucas Co.) still rep the station here in Los Angeles and Southern California. United Spot Sales is reping the station nationally now with the exception of Los Angeles and Southern California.—James A. Lucas, J.A. Lucas Co., Hollywood.

Meteorological Assn.

EDITOR: You recently ran a story about a meteorological association for radio and television personnel who meet certain qualifications. I would like very much to have the address of that group.

We at KVLF feel we are qualified for the association since we have three staff members who are qualified to take Weather Bureau observations and have the "certificate of authority" as issued by the U.S. Weather Bureau. —Phil Wayne, Program Director, KVLF Alpine, Tex.

[The American Meteorological Society is located at 3 Joy St., Boston 8, Mass. Kenneth C. Spengler is executive secretary. We suggest inquiries be addressed to him.—The Editors.]

WWVA's Jamboree impressed the editors at Esquire Magazine when they commissioned the distinguished American artist, Tom Allen, to visit Wheeling and catch the nostalgia of the show that has done so much for lovers of country music. Literally hundreds of country music entertainers have appeared live on this show.
They come and they go—shows of all kinds, all over America, but WWVA’s gay, colorful Jamboree goes on and on. So does WWVA’s Tri-State Farm Broadcast (now in its 25th consecutive year.) And there’s the Junior Town Meeting of the Air (now completing its 14th consecutive year).

More than 2,000,000 people have travelled from near and far to see the famed WWVA Jamboree — a radio show! An average audience has consisted of persons from 119 counties in 21 states. But more important, the WWVA Jamboree has proven listenership in 595 counties of 23 states comprising the entire northeast section of the nation — 39% of the nation’s population.

The Tri-State Farm Broadcast is another example of live public service programming over WWVA. Produced in cooperation with the agricultural extension services of W.Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania, over 30 professional farm experts take part. First by far, choice of farmers for rural programming.

Award-winning Junior Town Meeting of the Air is produced by WWVA in cooperation with Bethany College and Oglebay Institute with 28 high schools (public, private and parochial) participating. Featured are Trans-Atlantic broadcasts with British high school students, arranged through the B.B.C.

These and many other continuing WWVA public service projects are dedicated to making the 67-county, Wheeling-Pittsburgh Area an ideal community in which to live and work and build a better America.

Pulse area survey proved dominant seven days a week. Only 50,000 watt network station in Wheeling-Pittsburgh area.

Commission issues stiff new policy on surveillance over radio-tv

The FCC served notice last week it intends to keep careful watch on all stations' programming and their efforts to discover and meet the needs of their communities.

From now on applicants for licenses must prove they have diligently studied their markets to find out what people ought to get from radio and tv. Then they must prove they are providing it.

The commission on Friday (July 29) issued a "report and statement of policy" which described its concept of the scope of its regulatory power over programming. Rulemaking will be instituted "at the earliest practicable date" to require applicants to spell out their programming plans and performance. A narrative report will be required in license applications.

At the same time, the commission released without comment a 380-page staff document recommending tighter controls over programming than the FCC assumed in its policy statement (see page 36). The document, prepared by the Network Study Staff which has been in charge of the FCC's general programming inquiry, has been under consideration for a month (Closed Circuit, July 4).

The FCC's own position report of July 29 is the first commission statement on programming policies since the controversial Blue Book of 1946. The Blue Book, officially called "Public Service Responsibilities of Broadcast Licensees," sought to outline program obligations. The policy statement of last week was less specific and somewhat less restrictive than the Blue Book.

The new policy statement was discussed for five hours in a special commission meeting last Monday (Broadcasting, July 25). Final approval came at the regular Wednesday meeting. The document is a result of an inquiry begun 18 months ago and featured by 19 days of en banc hearings before the commissioners last winter.

Station Obligations — "The broadcaster is obligated to make a positive, diligent and continuing effort to determine the tastes, needs and desires of the public in his community and to provide programming to meet those needs and interests," the policy statement says. "The commission does expect its broadcast licensees to take the necessary steps to inform themselves of the real needs and interests of the areas they serve and to provide programming . . . for those needs and interests."

The commission listed 14 "major elements" of programming usually necessary to meet the public interest— with entertainment at the bottom of the list. They included (1) opportunity for local self-expression, (2) development and use of local talent, (3) programs for children (4) religious programs, (5) educational programs, (6) public affairs programs, (7) editorials by licensees, (8) political broadcasts, (9) agricultural reports, (10) news, (11) weather and market reports, (12) sports, (13) service to minority groups, and (14) entertainment programming.

It was emphasized that these elements are neither all-embracing nor constant and do not serve as a "rigid mold or fixed formula" for station operation. "The ascertainment of the needed elements of the broadcast matter to be provided by a particular licensee for the audience he is obligated to serve remains primarily the function of the licensee," the policy statement continued. "His honest and prudent judgments will be accorded great weight by the commission. Indeed, any other course would tend to substitute the judgment of the commission for that of the audience."

This story continues on page 38.

Report on staff study that urged stronger program controls is on next spread.

Where policy was incubated — The "position paper" issued by the FCC last week was the outcome of extensive hearings the FCC held early this year to solicit views on the degree of program surveillance it ought to exercise. The picture above was made during the presentation of NAB's testimony on Feb. 1. At the witness table in the foreground with their backs to camera are (l-r) Whitney North Seymour, president-elect of the American Bar Assn., and special counsel to the NAB, Harold E. Fellows, NAB president who died five weeks later, and Douglas Anello, NAB chief counsel. Main thrust of the NAB testimony: Although broadcasting is protected by the First Amendment which guarantees freedom of speech and of the press, the FCC has the right to examine overall program performance as a means of evaluating the character of licensees.

THE BRYANT REPORT: PROPOSALS FOR MORE

The evidence in the FCC's program responsibility probe has been put into encyclopedic form, augmented by staff suggestions about how programming should be regulated.

A report covering the record of testimony was submitted prior to the July 29 report and statement of policy (see story page 35) over the signature of Ashbrook P. Bryant, chief, Office of Network Study, Broadcast Bureau.

In the 380-page document titled "Interim Report," Mr. Bryant and his staff exhaustively condensed the thousands of pages of testimony and then offered recommendations, some of which were adopted by the FCC. The interim report, submitted June 15, was released by the FCC along with its own policy statement.

High spots of the staff recommendations:

- The official concept that commercial sponsorship lessens the public service value of a program is disappearing; actually sponsorship encourages broadcasters in public affairs and cultural programming.
- Application forms should be revised so the applicant can describe his efforts to determine public tastes and needs in his area and the efforts he proposes or has made to meet these tastes and needs.
- Broadcasters should take seriously all the criticism aimed at their programming in the FCC inquiry, and do something about it.
- The idea of a government council or quasi-official consulting body to guide or direct industry programming was opposed.
- The FCC has a duty to consider a station's overall broadcast performance in granting cps or renewals. It was held that Sec. 326, the anticensorship provision of the Communications Act, doesn't interfere.
- There's no need for more legislation, other than that proposed to Congress by the FCC; network licensing was opposed.
- The staff's interim report was based on a detailed review of the hearing evidence. It dealt with station and network policies, practices and activities; policies of the FCC and its predecessor Federal Radio Commission, and suggestions covering reporting procedure for broadcast applicants.
- Summed up, the report proposed:
  - Changes in application forms (Part IV).

- Creation of liaison routines so persons and groups with an interest in broadcast service can apprise the commission of their views.
- Announcement by FCC and stations of pending renewal applications. Emphasis was placed on the adaptability of FCC standards and routines to changing conditions in broadcasting.

The "trustee" responsibility of the licensee as the "mouth of the air for the community it serves" is cited frequently throughout the report, with the requirement that an account of stewardship must be given at stated intervals. The commercial privilege, it was stated, "must be subordinated to his paramount obligation to act for the community and must be incidental to his trusteeship."

This guidepost is offered licensees: "A prudent, positive and continuing effort to discover and fulfill the tastes, needs and desires of his community for public service." The licensee is told he must assume responsibility for all material broadcast through his facilities, both programming and advertising. Good faith in determining and serving community needs and interests is offered as a basic requirement. The FCC should continue to consider licensee responsibility on a case-to-case basis rather than by any minimal standards or fixed formulas, it is stated.

Components for Service: Elements of a well-rounded program service are described as: opportunity for local self-expression; development of local talent; programs for children; religious, educational and public affairs offerings; editorializing under the Commission's 1949 report; politics; farm, news, weather, market and sports programming; service to minority groups; entertainment; licensee determination of standards; specialized program service.

An increasing need for specialized stations is noted since the development of fm and tv broadcasting, with observation that few specialized tv stations are feasible though there are many radio stations serving special groups and interests. Specialized programming, it was stated, should be based on a study of community or service area needs and the type of service being provided by other stations. The licensee should be able to show his specialized service isn't merely fostering his own private interests but is in the public interest, it was added.

The old FRC policy giving all applicants for broadcast privileges "a full and fair hearing" has been modernized administratively, according to the report, but remains essentially the same.

In proposing a closer liaison with the public, the report reminded there are over 5,000 broadcast stations operating and the FCC "obviously can make independent inquiry into the service of only a few of these. . . . It is to the public that the Commission must look for much of the information useful in evaluating community broadcast service. This is especially true with regard to license renewal."

An Ear to The Public = The report suggests the public can serve by informing the FCC of "excellence" of broadcast service as well as submitting complaints. It adds, "On a proper showing, the Commission should grant petitions of individuals and groups to set renewal applications for hearing and permit such individuals or groups to appear as public witnesses or amicus curiae to present evidence."

Local hearings are urged where warranted.

The staff report reminds that FRC set a basic policy that advertising must be presented as such and not in disguised form, with the amount and type consistent with public service requirements. Licensees are encouraged by the commission to adhere to NAB radio and tv codes, it is stated, citing NAB's increased code activity including drives to enroll more subscribers and stiffened rules.

Licensees are described as having a duty to screen advertising to eliminate false, misleading or deceptive matter. Similarly they have a responsibility to avoid vulgar and bad-taste matter, with the NAB codes described as "a most useful guide."

A reasonable balance is given as the criterion in avoiding over-commercialization, with a reminder that bills have been introduced in Congress to prescribe advertising rules.

Network Control = The going gets a little rougher in the discussion of network impact on station responsibility. Agency control in the commercial policy area is almost universal, according to the report's concept of the agency-network relationship, with agencies exercising considerable creative control over the subject matter of many programs. Ultimate responsibility for network programming must rest with the networks, subject to limitations, and the industry appears to agree with this concept, it was stated.

Networks are credited with "major contributions" to American broadcasting. Many licensees, it was said, "have virtually abdicated their trust with regard to network programming" but they needn't be helpless in exercising their station responsibilities. This warning is offered, "A trustee may not stand aside and thrust his duty upon another if he wishes to retain his trust."

The report proposes networks provide affiliates adequate advance information as to the subject matter of network programming, giving a chance to screen material in advance "with minute care."

The chapter on network regulation indicates the FCC's power isn't broad enough to reach some network policies and activities interfering with affiliates' exercise of responsibility for broadcast matter. It observes that affiliates bear the legal responsibility for program material over which networks exercise almost complete control. Actually, the report states, network responsibility should serve and implement station responsibility, adding a comment that FCC has asked Congress for suitable legislation affecting station responsibility rather than a scheme for licensing networks.

No Right Hand on Networks = The administrative headaches in network licensing would be numerous, the report contends, since a network is merely "a bundle of contractual relationships, creative know-how and goodwill." And, it suggests, "if the commission, for good cause, failed to renew or revoked the operating certificate of a national network, serious consequences to the public and station licensees would ensue."

was voiced that the FCC could award or transfer the "bundle of rights" to another person or provide for continuance of the network service to its affiliates. Economic injury and consequent lowering of programming quality were also mentioned, leaving the commission a choice of crippling service in many communities or resorting to a cease and desist order, for example.

Long litigation was envisioned in issuance of franchises, with a question of economic injury raised by grant of additional licensees. Courts might take a dim view of the idea, it was added. In any case, stations might show less interest in their trustee duties if networks operated under the sanction of a federal license and its responsibilities. For these and other reasons, the report favored elastic FCC authority over the networks rather than a rigid system of federal licenses.

In discussing advertiser-agency impact on stations the report said, "In general, no entertainment program goes on the air or continues without the approval of the agency or sponsor who is paying the bill." Any idea that the licensee may share in the production, selection and supervision of network programs is unrealistic, the report said in citing testimony by agency witnesses. Broadcasters who testified at the inquiry were described as "surprisingly uninformed as to the activities of advertisers and their agencies even though these directly affect the bulk of the material they broadcast."

A discussion of programming types stressed crime and violence, with the impact expressed this way, "... there is no doubt that many responsible and informed persons feel that our children and young adults are being damaged by excessive crime and violence on television."

Growth in public affairs programming in prime time during the past two or three years was pointed out, with a reminder that advertisers had testified there is economic support for much more such programming than is currently being offered by the networks.

Many of the conditions that led to the inquiry could have been avoided had broadcasters adhered more closely to the NAB codes, the report stated in urging the industry to step up its self-regulation.
A sharper FCC eye on of the licensee."

Narrative Coming ■ Noting the criticism of the present statistical programming data required in FCC applications, the commission said that it intends to revise Part IV of application forms to require a statement by an applicant as to:

■ "The measures he has taken and the effort he has made to determine the tastes, needs and desires of his community or service area.

■ "The manner in which he proposes to meet those needs and desires."

Adding a touch of philosophy, the policy statement continued: "Thus, we do not intend to guide the licensee along the path of programming; on the contrary, the licensee must find his own path with the guidance of those whom his signal is to serve. We will thus steer clear of the bans of censorship without disregarding the public's vital interest. What we propose will not be served by pre-planned program format submissions accompanied by complimentary references from local citizens. What we propose is documented program submissions prepared as the result of assiduous planning and consultation..."

The FCC said that the particular manner in which applicants are required to depict their proposed and past programming policies and services may have significant bearing upon its ability to decide if a station is operating in the public interest. A thorough study of the subject is now underway, the commission said, and, as soon as it is completed revisions will be announced for comment which will instill an "awareness" in broadcasters of their responsibilities to the public.

New reporting procedures will not require percentage breakdowns of types of programming nor will it place any stress on sustaining vs. commercial public service shows. "Our own observations and the testimony in this inquiry have persuaded us that there is no public interest basis for distinguishing between sustaining and commercially-sponsored programs in evaluating station performance," the statement concluded. "However this does not relieve the station from responsibility for retaining the flexibility to accommodate public needs."

Of comfort to licensees who wish to change programming, the commission also stated: "We wish to stress that no one may be summarily judged as to the service he has performed on the basis of the information contained in his application."

Freedom of Speech Conflict ■ The policy statement goes to great lengths to spell out the freedoms from programming interference guaranteed by broadcasting by the First Amendment and Sec. 326 of the Communications Act. "The broadcaster's license is not intended to convert his business into an instrumentality of the federal government," it states. "Neither, on the other hand, may he ignore the public interest which his application for a license should thus define and his operations thereat reasonably observe."

There are exceptions to the limitations upon the FCC in the consideration of programming and "... areas of affirmative responsibility which the commission may appropriately exercise under its statutory obligation..." the policy declares. "In view of the fact that a broadcaster is required to program his station in the public interest... his freedom is not absolute. The commission does not conceive that it is barred by statute from exercising any responsibility with respect to programming. It does conceive that the manner or extent of the exercise of such responsibility can produce constitutional or statutory questions."

The commission conceded that it is precluded from examining a program for taste or content, except under recognized censorship exceptions (i.e., obscenity, profanity, indecency, etc.). Also, "this commission conscientiously believes that it should make no policy or take any action which would violate the letter or the spirit of the censorship prohibitions of Sec. 326."

Broadcasting, the FCC policy continued, presents problems peculiar to itself which are not necessarily subject to the same rules governing other media of communication. "Although the commission must determine whether the total program service of broadcasters is reasonably responsive to the interests and needs of the public they serve, it may not condition the grant, denial or revocation of a broadcast license upon its own subjective determination of what is or is not a good program," the commission stated.

Flat Rejection ■ The FCC turned a cold shoulder to those witnesses making "persuasive arguments" that it has the authority and obligation to require licensees to present specific types of programs. "With respect to this proposition, we are constrained to point out that the First Amendment forbids governmental interference asserted in aid of free speech, as well as governmental action repressive to it," the commission said.

The commission and courts have consistently maintained that the responsibility for the selection and presentation of individual programming rests entirely upon the individual licensee, it was pointed out. "The commission's role as a practical matter, let alone a legal matter, cannot be one of program dictation or program supervision."

In addition to programs, licensees must assume final responsibility for advertising carried over their facilities, the policy statement continues. "With respect to advertising, the licensee has the additional responsibility to take all reasonable measures to eliminate any false, misleading or deceptive matter and to avoid abuses with respect to the total amount of time devoted to advertising as well as the frequency with which regular programs are interrupted... This duty is personal to the licensee and may not be delegated."

More to Come ■ The policy statement and upcoming rulemaking are a continuation of the commission's programming inquiry instituted in February 1959. Over 90 witnesses appeared before the commission in en banc hearings during last December-January. The record during the 19 days of testimony encompassed nearly 5,000 pages. The commission said that it will make every effort to expedite its consideration of the entire proceeding and will take "such definitive action as the commission determines to be warranted."

A BLOW AGAINST HOUSE AGENCIES

Lestoil switches $10 million to new Sackel-Jackson agency

Adell Chemical Co., which lavishly spent for tv time and became one of the medium's biggest sales success stories, is revising its agency tactics.

Change came last week with an announcement by Sol Sackel, president of the Sackel Co., Boston, that his five-year-old agency had merged with Jackson Associates, Holyoke, Mass., to form The Sackel-Jackson Co. Inc. Latter agency had been the Adell house agency. With acquisition of Lestoil (billing about $10 million), the new agency now has annual billings of approximately $12 million.

Last week's announcement described the merger as "a blow against the concept of the house agency," Daniel E. Hogan Jr., new president of Lestoil Products Inc., indicated a strong conviction that house agencies are too subjective and limited in scope to provide the objectivity and creativity necessary for strong, sound advertising.

"Less than 2% of America's advertisers use house agencies," Mr. Hogan said, "because house agencies lack the creative and competitive motivation so vital in today's market. The traditional agency is best equipped to render the service we need."

Mr. Sackel, who is president of the expanded agency organization, also announced these major appointments in the new Sackel-Jackson:

- Ralph Schiff, formerly vice president at Sackel, as executive vice president of Sackel-Jackson.
- Don Heath, previously executive director of Jackson Associates, as vice president and account executive at S-J.
- Irv Eison, formerly account executive on Sackel's Beacon Wax account, S-J vice president in charge of marketing.

Leonard Tarcher, with various top New York agencies, vice president in charge of media.

Rene Reyes, formerly tv time buyer at Jackson, director of broadcast media.

Andrew Halmy, formerly with New York agencies, vice president and creative director.

The Sackel-Jackson headquarters are at 18 Newbury St., Boston 16, Mass.

In addition it was announced that the Lestoil advertising department had been revamped as a separate internal advertising organization with Mrs. Eleanor Miller, formerly account executive at Jackson, named Lestoil's advertising manager.

On the road "Take to the Road for Fun" is the theme of radio and tv spots in the extensive pre-Labor Day campaign of Ashland Oil & Refining Co., Ashland, Ky. The radio drive will use 86 stations and more than 1,600 musical spot commercials per week on the theme. In addition the six tv stations on which Ashland Oil sponsors regularly scheduled programs are carrying special spots pushing pleasure driving. Newspapers will also be used in the campaign. Ashland Oil & Refining Co. agency is the Ralph H. Jones Co.

Beauty show Lestare Co. through Sackel-Jackson Co., Boston, and P. Lorillard Co. (Newport cigarettes), through Lennen & Newell, N.Y., will sponsor more than 12 hours of live tv coverage of the International Beauty Congress at Long Beach, Calif., on a special California hookup. KTTV (TV) Los Angeles will feed the progress of the congress, from the opening ceremonies on Aug. 6 to the crowning of Miss International Beauty on Aug. 12, to KOVR (TV) Stockton and KTVU (TV) Oakland-San Francisco, with pos-

For the Meteor-Mercury-Frontenac division, through Vickers & Benson Ltd., Toronto, shows will be Juliette, live from Toronto; La Pension-Velder, live from Montreal; and Klondike, American film serial based on book by Toronto newspaperman Pierre Berton.

BARTER PLAN
Ad agency advertises for new advertisers

Regal Advertising Assoc., New York, which supplies film for time on behalf of clients, has been advertising in the New York Times and the New York Herald-Tribune for two additional national advertisers who are in radio and television. Stanley Grayson, Regal's executive vice president and general manager, when asked about Regal's one-inch display ad in the financial section of the Times, said last week that the ad had brought in 30 or 40 replies.

Regal, according to the advertisement, wanted the advertisers as participants in a "new plan which yields sensational savings." Asked about this, Mr. Grayson explained: "We are looking for the average concern... We offer something different." Mr. Grayson said that Regal doesn't own time (which some bartering individuals will then resell to clients at discounts). Instead, Regal supplies products to stations which in turn provide time to the advertisers at a much lower cost than if the advertiser sought the time himself. Regal for its trouble takes 15% "agency commission" from the top worth of the time based on gross rates. Mr. Grayson said Regal was screening the advertisers which responded, adding "We seek the little company—the $200,000 to $400,000 ad account—that the large radio or tv agency cannot afford to handle."

St. Louis merger joins two agencies

Wilton Adv., St. Louis, merges today (Aug. 1) with Ridgway-Hirsch Adv. Co., that city. Max Wilten joins the latter agency as a vice president. Wilten Adv.'s entire staff will move into R-H's newly expanded offices at 8012 Carondelet Ave., where it will function as the Wilton Div. of R-H.

The merger announcement last week also pointed out that the Wilton Div. will service three branches of International Shoe Co., as well as the Samuels Shoe Co.

(or, you can’t sneeze at results like these...)

About three years back, one of our HR&P salesmen proposed a tailor-made spot TV plan to the makers of a cold remedy who were consistently majoring in network television. The plan wasn’t taken exactly as he presented it. But the company DID buy one which was at least a first cousin — and thus brought a new budget of nearly half a million dollars to spot TV.

This made our man happy, of course. Later — when the cold remedy’s sales went up about 15% — he was five times as happy because a fivefold boost in the spot TV budget was contemplated for the following sniffle season. Since, however, there are serpents in every Eden, we were called in twice before that time to defend our medium (this being one of our specialties) against other interests.

Successfully so, you should know. For the larger spot budget was continued during last Winter—and approximately the same amount is now earmarked for the 1960-61 season. Obviously the advertiser has benefited, the stations we represent have benefited, the spot TV medium has benefited. It’s always nice to see everybody win.

The moral is this: HR&P salesmen are picked for creative flair and resourcefulness—which directly rewards the stations who have picked us. But it goes beyond that. Since we concern ourselves with only one medium, there are no limiting factors to keep us from the creation of new business for the whole spot TV industry. In other words — and uniquely — we can afford to be doubly creative.

Car dealers top radio advertising roster

A new Radio Advertising Bureau study of 52 local business categories ranks car dealers and supermarkets in first and second place respectively among all local radio advertisers. The RAB report, which was released to members July 25, shows almost 98% of all stations receive some revenue from new and used car dealers, with the average station deriving 10.9% of its total local income from the car business.

Supermarkets account for more than 6% of radio's local revenue, and 92.5% of stations responding to the survey list supermarkets as clients, according to RAB's "who's who" report. Other leading local advertisers are ranked in this order: appliance stores, department stores, furniture stores, banks, soft-drink bottlers, movie theatres and tire, battery and accessory dealers. While spending less money in local radio, more than eight out of ten stations report carrying laundries, drug stores, night clubs and restaurants and jewelers.

Economic forecast: M-E surveys world

McCann-Erickson's continuing economic forecasting took on world overtones last week as it issued a new booklet that reports the free world in the sixties. It's titled, "The Decade of Incentive," the same title of an earlier study of radio's "who's who" report. 6% of average members ranks study of Car trends.

Boudoir brochure

Radio Advertising Bureau, New York, has set an alarm to wake up the nation's mattress advertisers. In an RAB pocket-size presentation released last week, one of a current series directed at specific groups of advertisers, mattress makers are given eight reasons why "radio is the wake-up medium for mattress sales." The brochure points out that "radio sells at the point-of-use—in bedrooms," People are most aware of their mattress needs while in their bedrooms and "surveys show nearly 7 out of 10 families have radio sets in bedrooms... also, surveys reveal that 26.4% of people listen to radio in a bedroom on the average weekday. Among other facts listed, RAB says one-third of U.S. families want additional mattresses or replacements.

Incentive New accounts for MacManus, John & Adams of Canada Ltd., Toronto, Ont., mean silver dollars for all the staff. The advertising agency announced this incentive program some months ago and has already received a number of new accounts as a result. Every member of the staff receives a silver Canadian dollar each time the agency gets a new account. Some recent silver dollars have become collector items in Canada. The agency has been operating in Canada about six years.

ECORDERs...NEW...AND ONLY FROM AMPEX
A tug of war is shaping up over one of the most eagerly awaited plums in local television programming—the post-'48 feature film. Distributors have evaluated this product as "superior" to the films of the pre-'48 era and have jumped the price tags. The station's post-'48s—"but only if the price is satisfactory." He indicated that if the price were "very high" or even "high," the station soon would lose interest. He said the station is well stocked with features and can program for several years with its present libraries. The prices that were mentioned to him by several distributors, Mr. Smith said, were "high" and sales were not completed.

Meanwhile, Al Perlmutter, program director of WNBC-TV New York, echoed the sentiments of other station executives in saying that he personally felt that post-'48 packages he has evaluated are "over-priced." He estimated that distributors are asking about twice as much for these films as for pre-'48s, and indicated that while some individual films are worth twice as much, others in the package are not. He said the station is in "no rush" to buy the post-'48s, since there is "a fair supply" of films on hand. He added too that the station has been buying and scheduling foreign films in some of its feature slots and this will prolong its domestic supply.

Low Supply The manager of a station in a big city in the Middle Atlantic area said: "Our supply of pre-'48s is getting a bit low. We do need some fresh product, but price is a worry. We positively will not pay more just because the pictures are post-'48s. We've had film from the middle and late 50s and we have learned that lateness is not important. Let's not forget that we still get a lot of pre-'48s from various sources. We have not negotiated with any big distributors for post-'48 films, but we expect to be negotiating soon—and the price better be right."

Al Flanagan, vice president and general manager of KCOP (TV) Los Angeles, said: "We're eager to get this new product, but not at the price they're asking for it, which is twice the price of the highest-priced pictures we had bought previously. There is only so much beer, so many bars of soap, used cars or packs of cigarettes to be sold in any market and they won't justify the price being asked." Mr. Flanagan acknowledged that feature films have been a "good buy—at the right price." He indicated that merely because a picture is post-'48 is no reason for a price hike.

George Burke, film buyer at KRCA (TV) Los Angeles, said no offers have been made to the station to date, but he understood that "the asking prices for post-'48s are outrageous." He said he "certainly would be interested in seeing what will be available—and at what price." Mr. Burke prefers to buy packages of films ranging in number from 39 to 100, explaining: "This is good for the station, as you know what you're buying. You don't get 'glamorized' by a batch of top titles, and then find too many unusable films at the bottom of the barrel." He voiced the view that post-'48s will have "a bigger appeal than earlier ones, since they are mostly better pictures with bigger budgets and fewer run-of-the-mill releases." He noted, too, that "they're longer, running 85-90 minutes, rather than 65 to 70 minutes of some pre-'48s."

Busy salesmen

International Television Programs Inc., foreign distributor of Ziv-UA announced it had made 150 sales of 30 shows in 31 countries during June, totaling more than $1 million.

According to Edward J. Stern, ITP president, sales were registered in all Latin American markets, in Europe, the Middle and Far East, as well as in Canada.

ITP reported that five sales leaders were Highway Patrol, Men Into Space, Man and the Challenge, Mr. District Attorney, and Sea Hunt. This indicated, the foreign distributor, "indeed they are.

NEW RCA 10 WATT TRANSISTORIZED MONITOR AMPLIFIER needs only half the space and 30% of power of earlier models!

Here's the newest in RCA's complete new line of transistorized audio amplifiers. The BA-34A is the latest in a large and famous line of RCA Monitor Amplifiers. It provides all the quality, reliability and convenience of earlier models but takes only half the shelf space and uses far less power. (Reduces heating as well as power consumption.)

Provides power output of 10 watts with excellent frequency response and very low distortion. Has bridging input and "high-gain" input for operation from low-level microphones. Standard RCA plug-in type shelf mounting—proved best and most convenient in hundreds of AM, FM and TV installations.

The BA-34A is completely compatible with other RCA audio and video units. With the BA-31 Preamplifier and BA-33 Program Amplifier it makes possible a completely transistorized custom audio installation.

Ask your RCA Broadcast Representative about the complete line of transistor amplifiers. Or write to RCA, Dept. K-22, Building 15-1, Camden, N.J. In Canada: RCA VICTOR Company Limited, Montreal. Another fine new product from the Broadcast and Television Equipment Division of RCA!
PAY HIKE NEXT?
AFTRA plans demand for 15% wage boost

Officials of the American Federation of Television-Radio Artists were still working and formulating wages and working condition demands last week for presentation to the networks Sept. 15 following the winding of the TV-radio entertainers' convention in Washington last Sunday afternoon.

High in the list of probable demands is a wage hike expected to average about 15% overall, and changes in various working conditions. The most radical change is expected to be AFTRA's attempt to revise the present wage scale format from a per program basis to a working day basis. Also significant is AFTRA's expected move to consolidate rehearsal periods along the lines of an eight-hour working day (BROADCASTING, July 25).

Among the items in which revised pay scales will be sought, it is believed, are those involving residual payments, rates for foreign replays and changes in the "wild spot" pay scales.

Among its final actions, AFTRA adopted a resolution proposed by its Chicago local to require the FCC to hold a public hearing whenever a protest has been filed against a licensee. The resolution is the result of the unsuccessful demands to the FCC last year by the Chicago local when NBC-owned stations in Chicago cut back on local originations. The protests were filed against the license renewals of WNBQ (TV) and WMAQ-AM-FM. The commission denied the pleadings last December (BROADCASTING, Dec. 28, 1958).

The resolution recited the claim that broadcasters are licensed in the public interest and that the public interest requires local programming. It also charged that "local and network broadcasters have cancelled, with increasing and alarming frequency, locally produced programs, therefore terminating services of many local technicians, performers, musicians and other highly trained personnel . . ."

The convention also, in an unprecedented move, re-elected its entire national slate of officers. Virginia Payne, for almost 27 years the star of Ma Perkins radio serial, was again chosen to be president. Other officers: Announcer Art Gilmore, 1st vice president; Eleanor Engle (Chicago), 2nd vice president; Walt Williams (St. Louis), 3rd vice president; Evelyn Freyman (Washington, D.C.), 4th vice president; Hal Newell (Minneapolis-St. Paul), 5th vice president; Jack Chase (Boston), 6th vice president; Willard Waterman (Los Angeles), 7th vice president; Jack Stambaugh (Los Angeles), 8th vice president; Clarence Johnson (New York), treasurer.

Movie musicians again to vote on AFM vs MGA

The National Labor Relations Board last week ordered an election to determine whether the American Federation of Musicians or the Musicians Guild of America will represent musicians at the major movie studios in Hollywood. The election to determine which union should represent musicians at Allied Artists, Columbia, Walt Disney, MGM, Paramount, 20th Century-Fox, Universal and Warner Bros. had been requested by AFM, and opposed by MGA. In a similar election two years ago, MGA, then only a few months old, won representation rights for musicians at these studios from AFM (BROADCASTING, July 14, 1958) and negotiated a contract which runs through Dec. 3, 1961. MGA and the motion picture producers opposed another election until the end of this contract, but NLRB overruled them, replying that "our policy of permitting employees the opportunity to choose between retaining their bargaining representative or selecting a new one at least every two years is in our opinion a satisfactory resolution."

Date for the new election has not been set, but it is expected to be held within the next 30 to 60 days.

Radio production firm

A newly established Florida firm, Associated Radio-TV Studios Inc. of St. Petersburg, is offering what it terms a new service to radio stations. Dubbed the "Metromodern Radio Series," stations are offered a service where they receive 20 productions of their choice (commercials, promos, etc.) each month. Price for the service is based on the stations local rate card.

ARTS Inc. states that the service is designed primarily to serve small stations whose budgets will not allow a full-time production staff. The new firm is headed by Chris Rager. Production manager is Dick Stambaugh. The address of the new St. Petersburg firm is 1409-11 Fourth St.

Lawyers' appearances on tv shows defended

Last Monday, (July 25), the board of governors of the State Bar of California spent the day in Los Angeles, listening to arguments for and against a recommendation of the Los Angeles County Bar Assn. that lawyers be prohibited from appearing on TV court-room programs, chiefly because such appearances are self-advertising.

Among the witnesses was Selig Seligman, ABC-TV vice president and executive producer of Day in Court, Traffic Court and Accused, court shows on that network. Noting that the American Bar Assn. had given Day in Court its gavel award for "outstanding public understanding of the administration of public service," Mr. Seligman, himself an attorney, stated that "it is of vital importance that lawyers and organizations of lawyers realistically accept their responsibility to do everything they can as professionals in a free democracy to further the public acceptance and understanding of the administration of justice."

Bertram Berman, producer of The...
Verdict Is Yours on CBS-TV, also recipient of an ABA gavel award, said that “so many professional groups and private viewers have expressed approval of Verdict Is Yours and the manner in which the show makes known the workings and problems of our legal system that I’m frankly confused as to why the board of governors should take the position that bar members ought not to appear on television.”

The Beverly Hills Bar Assn. proposed that lawyers be permitted to appear on tv court shows, but that certain safeguards be established, such as limiting the tv appearances of any lawyer to one every three months and seeing that his name is not made public at any time. The state bar board will consider the testimony, making its decision at some later date.

Giantview General acquires tape firm

Giantview General Television Network (closed-circuit and video tape producer and equipment manufacturer), Detroit and New York, reports the acquisition of Tapes Unlimited Inc., an independent tv tape producer formed in New York last May. The merged organization will be the most completely integrated tape production facility in both New York and the Midwest, stated Stanley R. Akers, Giantview president.

Nat B. Eisenberg and Victor J. Kemper, former partners of Tapes Unlimited, will become executive vice president and vice president-engineering operations, respectively, of a new subsidiary, Giantview General Television Network of New York Inc. Richard L. Colten, formerly eastern manager of Giantview, will become a vice president of the subsidiary. Offices and video tape studios of Giantview General will be located at 1280 Fifth Ave., former CBS studio 57.

Giantview began as an electronic equipment manufacturer in 1957. Demand for its large screen tv projector led the company to expand into closed circuit tv and then into video tape production. It’s reported that Giantview has booked for August shooting in its New York studio two 15-minute political shows for the Democratic Party and commercials for four packaged goods advertisers.

Lost: more than 54 million potential customers! That's the cost, in the top 15 markets alone, to advertisers who bury their heads in the past. In today's market your customers (and their purchasing power) are moving out. While city population has remained static or declined, the suburbs and "extra-urban" areas beyond have increased in population at a remarkable rate. (The suburbs of the top 15 markets are up 46% in just the last nine years!)

How do you reach everyone? With spot television. No other medium gives you immediate impact on the entire market and market selectivity! No other medium reaches out beyond the "retail trading zone" with television's unique values of sight, sound and motion.

Fact is, you may be missing plenty. Our brand-new "Telemarketing" study will give you an accurate picture of where your customers are today...plus the first authoritative forecast (by Market Statistics, Inc.) of where they'll be in 1965. "Does he know what he's missing?"
Television's wealthy, angry young men

Television's "deadly mediocrity" was portrayed for three talkative hours on David Susskind's Open End (KTTV-TV Los Angeles, July 24).

The telecast left the impression that Mr. Susskind hadn't approached his program with an open mind as well as an open end since neither advertising nor broadcast management were represented on his panel.

The talk-till-we're-tired syndicated program brought out a parade of the criticism of TV programming received from press, government and public in the last year. Most of the panelists joined the parade.

"Next season's programs are going to be worse than ever," Mr. Susskind gloomily predicted, calling for leadership from the industry, mainly the networks. This is no more than proper, he said, "because broadcasting is almost in the nature of a public utility," owned by the people and leased by the government to the broadcaster.

The Cast - As moderator-participant he was flanked by actors Ernie Kovacs and Hugh O'Brian; Rod Serling, writer-producer; John Frankenheimer, director; Sheldon Leonard, director-producer; two newspaper critics, Cecil Smith, Los Angeles Times, and Hal Humphrey, Los Angeles Mirror-News.

Young Mr. Susskind, who has attained TV fame and financial reward in a brief period through his Talent Associates, took the viewpoint that advertisers and their agencies are stilling creative artists. Early in the program he said, "If the point of television is to sell products, what we have now is inevitable" because the best way to sell is with the lowest entertainment level.

Mr. Frankenheimer echoed the Susskind sentiments, observing "It used to be difficult to do anything controversial in television; now it's impossible." He claimed advertisers, agencies and networks forbid offense to any member of the audience so "there's no more good drama on the air. You can't fight the sponsor," he added. "Pay TV is the only hope."

This led Mr. Serling to suggest pay TV operators would be just as anxious to reach the maximum audience as today's sponsors, with the yardstick continuing to be quantitative.

Hands Off - Network should preempt prime evening time for programs of their own creation, Mr. Serling suggested. The time would be offered for sponsorship on a hands-off-content basis. "The advertisers need this time and would buy it this way if the networks insisted," he said, adding they might profit by reverting from hard-sell commercials to the old reminder that viewers buy the product if they like the program.

Hugh O'Brian conceded it's hard to inject newness into a western series with a two-a-week production schedule. He said Wyatt Earp leaves him six or seven free months every year to engage in summer stock and other pursuits.

Mr. Smith was pessimistic about the chance for improvement from the networks but said it doesn't matter much because pay TV will inevitably take over in a few years.

The panel showed agreement that people in television should stop underestimating public taste. "We keep feeding them a menu they've outgrown," he said.

"Any medium that tries to fill all the hours from 7 a.m. to 2 the next morning is inevitably open to criticism," Mr. Kovacs said, adding that it's unfair to criticize a TV show as if it were a Broadway play with long rehearsals, out-of-town tryouts and lots of opportunity to correct errors.

"We're on all day long, trying to do something for somebody—and sometimes what we do is great," he said.

The three-hour program was stuffed with chatter about life in New York vs. Hollywood, why some

TPT seeks tv lines for ‘groupcasting’
Irving B. Kahn, president of TelePrompTer Corp., confirmed last week that his company has applied for network tv facilities linking eight major cities, but emphasized that they would be used for “groupcasting,” not broadcasting (CLOSED CIRCUIT, July 18).

In addition to uses in TelePrompTer’s business and industrial closed-circuit operations, he said, the cable facilities which the company has requested from AT&T could be the backbone for feeding programs to TelePromPTer's community antenna systems, on which it hopes to start participation TV tests "in the near future."

Mr. Kahn said TelePromPTer had applied for the network facilities because "like anything else, closed-circuit telecasts could be cheaper by the dozenn. Savings achieved by leasing lines on a regular basis could be passed along to the closed-circuit customers. He said the eight-city lineup could be expanded by adding other cities or that fewer than eight could be used in any specific telecast, depending on the customer's needs. The cities are major markets extending westward from New York, Boston and Philadelphia to Chicago.

Mr. Kahn spoke at a luncheon meeting of the Philadelphia chapter of the American Public Relations Assn. last Thursday (July 28).

NBC'S ABOUT FACE 'Queen' moves throne to ABC-TV Sept. 2

The program, Queen For A Day, identified with NBC since 1945, first radio and then tv in 1956, will be seen on ABC-TV after Sept. 2 in the 12:30-1 p.m. period. NBC decided to drop Queen and not fight ABC in the courts on NBC's initial plan to pick up the program in the fall. Reason for NBC's decision, it was explained carefully last week, was an audience composition study conducted of two daytime programs, Queen For A Day (NBC-TV, Mon.-Fri. 2-2:30 p.m.) and From These Roots (same days, 3:30-4 p.m.). The study it claimed, found Queen's popularity had gone down, particularly in its appeal to women, including adult women to whom the show had always been attractive. The contrary was found for From These Roots, the audience appeal on the rise for this dateliner, according to the survey. NBC had threatened legal action to retain what it said was a right via "oral agreement" to renew the program after the contract runs out in December. This NBC complaint came after ABC in late June announced that it had obtained use of the program.

Program notes

'Sea' on NBC ★ A 90-minute special Victory at Sea is set for NBC-TV Dec. 3 to mark the 19th year since the attack on Pearl Harbor. The footage will be edited from the 26 half-hours which comprise the syndicated Victory at Sea that has played in 180 different markets (including most of the top 90 markets) since the network run in 1953.

Visual credits

Pictorial screen credits, showing the producer, writer, director or technician at work instead of merely his name in letters large or small will be used to identify those having a part in the production of Cameracade, TV series now in production by Jack Douglas Organizations. The method for pictorializing credits was created and developed by Elnora Rock Von Verdo, from whom Mr. Douglas has acquired all rights. "This idea is based on the old slogan that one picture is worth a thousand words," said Mr. Douglas. "Television is a visual medium, and we feel it is the people behind it receive strong, visual recognition. During the rolling of credits in the conventional manner, "the viewer is either raiding the icebox or flipping channels. People are interested in people, not unfamiliar names. We think the public will enjoy seeing the men and women who really make television click."

The series in New York alone now is in its 11th successive syndicated run (it can be seen on WPIX [TV] New York) and has been in virtually continuous performance for nine years. The series—syndicated by NBC's California National Productions—presents the story of naval warfare in World War II.

New syndicated properties ★ ABC Films Inc., N.Y., has released three films for syndication in the fall. John Gunther's High Road, consisting of 36 half-hour episodes, was produced by Jerry Stagg Co., Hollywood, and will be ready in October. Exclusive, a Kane-Lynn production, and Counter-thrust, produced by Bernard Luber, are each 13 units, and are available immediately.

Bears on tv ★ Chicago will receive a regular schedule of Bears' pro football league telecasts on WBBM-TV for the first time starting Aug. 21. The station has announced a package of training, pre-season and regular conference games, including those scheduled by CBS-TV. Four pre-season contests will be carried via video tape on a delayed basis. The local plans (apart from the CBS-TV schedule) were announced by Clark B. George, vice president of CBS TV Stations Div. and general manager of WBBM-TV, and George Halas, Chicago Bears owner-coach. Bears' games heretofore have been unavailable for local TV because of league restrictions involving the nowmoved Chicago Cardinals pro team.

Taped playboy ★ Playboy's Penthouse, hour-long taped series produced by Playboy magazine, will be distributed by Official Films, N.Y. for fall programming. The series features informal performances by personalities such as John Jones, Count Basie and Sammy Davis Jr.

Wolper-Sterling first ★ Two-hour TV special, Hollywood and the Movies, has been announced as the first production of the new Wolper-Sterling Productions (Broadcasting, July 25). David L. Wolper and Saul J. Turell will produce the documentary, budgeted at more than $400,000, with Sidney Skolsky, nationally syndicated Hollywood columnist, as writer and Jack Haley Jr. as associate producer. Planned as a history of Hollywood, the documentary will explore comedies, glamour girls, established stars and striving newcomers, the producers state. MCA will handle national sales rights.

SEG strike authorized ★ Screen Extras Guild members, by a vote of 1,579 to 188, have given their board authority to call a strike against the Alliance of Television Film Producers if the board finds this necessary "to obtain a fair collective bargaining contract." SEG is demanding a health and welfare plan with benefits comparable to those negotiated by other Hollywood guilds and unions, plus wage increases.

G-T adventure show ★ Goodson-Todman Productions, N.Y., has begun shooting an hour-long adventure-mystery series entitled Las Vegas. Andrew Fenaday and Irvin Kershner, producer and director of The Rebel, will helm this series about a private investigator who acts as a trouble shooter for Las Vegas clients.

On location ★ John Florea and Frank Cleaver have gone to Japan to film an hour-long pilot film of a new Vortex Productions series to be called M. R. According to the producers, the series will deal with the problems that face American tourists when they get in trouble in a foreign country. It will emphasize the difference between legal systems and concepts of justice in the U.S. and other nations. Messrs. Florea and Cleaver plan to film the episodes in the countries in which they take place for authenticity.

New film firm ★ Film editor Jerome G. Forman has formed Allegro Film Productions in New York City, offering a comprehensive production service. He had been news, sports and special projects film editor for Telenews and Hearst Metrotone News since 1947. His credits include The Big Moment, Gil-Petite Cavalcade of Sports, Time Out for Sports, Babe Ruth World Series, Esso News Specials, commercials for Nelson Rockefeller's 1958 gubernatorial campaign and U.S. government documentaries. Assignments also included directing. Allegro, Mr. Forman said, is designed to give custom service to the budget-minded client. The firm is at 723 Seventh Ave.

Postal sleuths The U.S. Post Office Dept. has given the green light and promised full cooperation to 20th-Fox Television on its new series Silent Investigators. Based on a book by John N. Makris, who will act as associate producer, the series deals with the Post Office Dept.'s criminal investigation division which looks into plane crashes, mail theft, forgeries and other felonies involving the mails.

The panel show, to be nationally syndicated by the church organization, will feature experienced Christian Science readers as well as non-professionals in discussion of their religion. Producers of the series are Robert G. Walker and Leroy M. Smith for Triangle Productions.

Re-run money Residual payments for re-runs of tv entertainment films, collected by the Screen Actors Guild and distributed to members during June, reached the all-time record of $635,078, SAQ President George Chandler has announced. This brings to $15,456,793 the amount collected by SAQ in tv film re-runs since the start of such payments in December 1953. These figures do not include payments to actors for theatrical films sold to tv nor use payments on tv commercials which alone total more than $11 million a year.

Quiet please Silents Please, a new filmed series, is being placed in a late evening half-hour slot on ABC-TV. The show, a history of the motion picture, was produced by Saul Turell and Paul Killiam for Sterling Television, N.Y. The series also has been sold to the Australian Broadcasting System, and will be presented in major markets there starting in September. Fremantle International, N.Y., holds distribution rights in foreign markets.

New dimension CBS Radio will start distribution to the seven CBS-owned stations a library of programming covering one-to-three minutes of recorded sound essays by outstanding persons in the world of entertainment, government, industry and the arts. Called Dimension, the programming initially will include 150 features and will be augmented by 25 to 50 essays each week.

KFAX gets the facts on its audience Will people listen to a station which broadcasts news and nothing but news? How long will they listen before turning elsewhere for more varied programming? Will enough of them listen for enough time and are they the kind of people that would make such a station a good buy for advertisers? These questions and many more have been asked consistently ever since May 16, when KFAX took over the facilities of KJBS San Francisco—daytime station operating on 1100 kc with 1 kw—and changed its programming to an all-news format. They've been asked by the listening public, by advertisers, by advertising agencies and particularly by Gil Paltridge and Ray Rhodes, top operating officers of KFAX (BROADCASTING, May 16).

To find some answers KFAX, in its fifth week of operation, engaged Media Audience Measurements to conduct a six-day telephone survey between the hours of 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. The survey showed that KFAX is gaining audience faster than was anticipated. The overall rating was three times that inherited from KJBS, considered a remarkable rise in so short a time. At various times of the day, KFAX garnered more listeners than some of San Francisco's predominately music stations.

But many questions remained unanswered. To get more answers, KFAX mailed a detailed questionnaire to a sample of 500 listeners. Replies indicated that its audience is almost entirely adult — 49% woman, 47% men, only 4% teenagers and no children. KFAX listeners are predominantly in the well-to-do class, 59% being in the above-average income group and 24% with family incomes of $8,000 or more.

How long do they listen? Longer than had been expected. Returned questionnaires shows 43% of the KFAX audience listens from one to three hours a day, while 72% listens for 30 minutes or more a day.

Questions about favorite programs revealed an overwhelming preference (86%) for general news and depth reports, with international news most desired and local news next. Then, in descending order, came business news, California news and Sacramento reports. (Sacramento is the capital of California.) Editorials are the most popular special features of KFAX (22% of the total vote), followed by sports news and features, weather news and Today's Top Story.

CONVENTION COVERAGE: A SPECIAL REPORT

AND NOW AN AIR-MINDED CAMPAIGN

Tough as it was, the convention coverage was only a warm-up

Networks, stations, news and program service suppliers quickly packed up their electronic gear in Chicago late last week and headed home to tackle another coverage job even bigger than the party conventions: the campaign trail—1960.

Among the significant developments:

- The major networks have invited the two presidential contenders, Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy, to appear in several debates during prime evening hours (see below). CBS and NBC offered to reserve eight prime hours each; ABC proposed a rotation plan for nine weeks with each network providing three hours.

- FCC displayed its concern about just how fairly broadcasters are going to implement the new “fairness” provision of Sec. 315 of the Communications Act in their handling of political programming. The commission, alerted by the complaint of a single viewer that the three TV stations in Little Rock, Ark., had preempted coverage of the GOP convention last Monday in favor of local election campaigns, wired the stations for a prompt explanation (see story page 64). The stations replied they would have done the same with the Democratic convention had the dates been different, but the FCC action was seen as an obvious warning to all licensees that Washington will be watching.

- With the presidential race expected to generate an unusually heavy flow of news, plus the congressional and local elections, television and radio broadcasters are preparing for fall schedules heavily loaded with campaign news. Political features and candidates’ speeches. To many network and local station executives and newsmen, the exhaustive coverage afforded the Democratic and Republican conventions was just the warm-up.

The GOP convention's TV audience averaged 14,143,000 homes per minute during the first three nights, just slightly behind the Democratic sessions for the same nights, according to American Research Bureau's national Arbitron service (story page 69).

According to educated estimates, broadcasters spent between $15 and $20 million to air the Los Angeles and Chicago events, with about two-thirds of this recovered through sponsorship. The radio-TV investment in campaign coverage will run into the millions, too. Hundreds of newsman and technicians swarmed over the convention halls to perform their various roles (for Chicago accreditation, see page 70); they will be joined by hundreds more along the campaign trail as it winds throughout the nation during the next three months.

The big debate

The major networks last week made good their promises to offer prime time for debates and other appearances of Democratic and Republican presidential and vice presidential nominees.

CBS and NBC offered to reserve eight prime hours each. ABC repeated its proposal that the three television networks make time available on a rotating basis to provide one prime network hour per week for nine weeks. Under the ABC plan each network would give up three hours during the campaign.

All networks conditioned their offers on the suspension of application of the equal time law to the presidential and vice presidential races during this campaign. The Senate has already passed a resolution suspending Sec. 315 for that purpose. The House is expected to act on it when it reconvenes.

NBC was the first of the networks to make the offer last week and Sen. John Kennedy the first of the candidates to accept.

NBC's board chairman, Robert W. Sarnoff, wired identical offers to Sen. Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon. He invited them to take part in four-hour-long "joint discussions" and four one-hour interviews.

A Public Service

Sen. Kennedy wired acceptance last Thursday with the observation: "I believe you are performing a notable public service in giving the American people a chance to see the candidates of the two major parties discuss the issues face to face."

Mr. Nixon, still preoccupied with the closing moments of the Republican convention and with the preparation of his acceptance speech, had not replied to Mr. Sarnoff when this was written.

All three network proposals were in line with those they made before the Senate Communications Subcommittee in urging approval of the resolution to suspend Sec. 315.

In his wire to the candidates Mr. Sarnoff proposed a "Great Debate" series consisting of four one-hour programs of "joint discussion of the issues
MORE OF THE SAME FOUR YEARS FROM NOW

For all its drain on manpower, money and, at times, the viewers' patience, network news coverage of political conventions isn't apt to be significantly changed.

That's the opinion of the network news chiefs as expressed at the end of the Republican convention last week. Here are some of the remarks they made to Broadcasting:

John Daly, ABC vice president: Gavel-to-gavel coverage is essential. Selective broadcast coverage of only the newswiest events would cheat the audience of perspective, interpretation and understanding. "The networks are here as news media to cover as efficiently and completely as possible what happens in the convention."

Sig Mickelson, CBS News president: "What is frequently overlooked is that present convention coverage is actually a profile of a party. The basic pattern of coverage shouldn't change much for 1964."

Robert Hurleigh, MBS president: Radio enjoys unique flexibility in covering conventions. It "can react instantly to unanticipated changes in procedure. It permitted the conventions to be broadcast as they actually are—a meeting of political delegates dedicated to furthering the candidates and causes of their parties."

William R. McAndrew, NBC vice president: "This type of coverage is likely to continue I don't think it's a question of television coverage but of the political system of picking nominees."

according to ground rules to be drawn up in consultation with the candidates" and four other hours "designed to elicit the views of the candidates in response to well-informed, impartial questioning by a panel of outstanding American journalists." Mr. Sarnoff added the network would "be pleased to consider any other ideas" for program format that the candidates might have.

On Thursday Leonard Goldenson, president of ABC's parent company, AB-PT, wired his network's proposal for the rotation programming. He said that with approval of the Dept. of Justice (a protection against possible antitrust violation) ABC would be prepared to meet with the other two television networks to work out a coopera-

Robert F. Hurleigh. "We will offer time just as we do in presidential broadcasts," he said. "All networks should work together in bringing the candidates to the nation as a public service."

Major investment

American citizens are better informed than ever before, Clair R. McCollough, Steinman stations, chairman of the NAB Policy Committee said July 28 in commenting on the role of broadcasting in the national political conventions.

"Broadcasting makes a momentous contribution to our system of government," Mr. McCollough said. He estimated total cost of radio-tv coverage of the conventions between $15 and $20 million, with about two-thirds offset by income from commercial sponsors.

Mr. McCollough said Sen. Thruston B. Morton, of Kentucky, Republican national chairman, had lauded the industry's convention service by giving the nation "an inside view of one of the most fascinating shows on earth and a valuable educating job at the same time." Gov. LeRoy Collins, of Florida, chairman of the Democratic convention, described coverage "as an outstanding contribution to good government and to the progress of our nation."

Etv center proposes presidential debates

National Education Television & Radio Center, New York, is offering eight hours of prime tv time for "definitive discussion of issues by two major presidential candidates" for presentation on 47 etv stations throughout country.

John F. White, president of the center, said he has forwarded his offer to chairmen of Democratic and Republican national committees. NETRC, he said, is prepared to produce and record on video tape statements on such issues as preparedness, civil rights, education, inflation and others that center and representatives of two parties will select. Each program may run 30 minutes, or whatever length political parties may decide. Stations would be obliged to telecast statements of the two parties on one topic as part of single program.

Operation successful for network tv pool

How successful was the tv pool operation at last week's GOP conclave? It went off easily and successfully, according to Bob Doyle, pool director and owner of WICO Salisbury, Md.

What of the future of network pool coverage? "If the networks could see their way clear to go over totally to pool coverage, as has been suggested, it might be desirable economically but their competitive spirit would probably preclude this," Mr. Doyle said.

MONDAY NIGHT TV IN LITTLE ROCK

FCC rattles Sec. 315 sword over all-local election, no GOP news

A majority of the FCC last week told three Little Rock, Ark., tv stations that it "appears" their pre-emption of Monday night's Republican convention coverage in favor of state and local campaign speeches was in violation of the fairness provision of Sec. 315.

Notwithstanding the interest in the local elections, the commission told the stations that from the facts available they had not made a reasonable effort to present both sides of the national political picture.

Receiving a telegram from the commission asking for a "full statement" were KARK-TV, KTHV (TV) and CATV (TV). The four Republican members of the commission—Frederick W. Ford, Rosel H. Hyde, Robert E. Lee and Charles King—approved that portion of the telegram concerning an alleged violation of Sec. 315. Democratic member Robert T. Bartley dissented to that portion but concurred in the request for more information. Commissioners John S. Cross of Arkansas and T.A.M. Craven both dissented to the entire action.

The unusual FCC step was taken on a telegraphed complaint lodged last Monday morning by Mrs. W.Y. Pape, president of the Little Rock Young Republicans Club. She charged that the stations did not plan to carry that night's convention coverage provided by the networks "although complete coverage of the Democratic National Convention was carried by all three stations."

All three Little Rock stations were saturated with speeches by Arkansas political candidates last Monday night on the eve of the state's primary elections. In defense, the stations pointed out that the orders for political time were received well in advance and that the same action would have been taken if it had been the Democratic convention falling on election eve. All of the candidates appearing were Democrats in the heavily-Democratic southern state.

The Fairness Doctrine — Last week's action was the first official move by the FCC under the fairness amendment to Sec. 315, written into law last year as part of the amendment exempting newscasts from equal time. It states that broadcasters must "...afford reasonable opportunity for the discussion of conflicting views on issues of public interest." The commission stated in its telegram to the stations:

"Sec. 315 of the Communications Act requires reasonable opportunity for discussion of conflicting views on issues of public importance. It would appear from information available to commission that your plans for coverage of Republican National Convention compared with your coverage of Democratic National Convention do not comply with this provision. Requirements of local political election are recognized; however, it does not appear from the facts available that a reasonable effort has been made also to meet the fairness provisions of Sec. 315. Full statement is requested."

The FCC moved fast last Monday after receiving the Pape complaint. Already in a special meeting on another matter, the commissioners ordered telegrams sent to KARK-TV, KTHV and CATV at noon for their replies by 2:30 p.m. After the stations' answers were received, commission staffer Et Brown (license renewal chief) solicited further information from the station and/or their lawyers by telephone. Mr. Brown asked:

(1) If any delayed presentation was planned; (2) if any affiliated radio station planned to carry the convention (KTHS, under common ownership with KTHV, did carry the Monday night convention session); (3) exact date of network order for station and dates of local commitments, and (4) did the licensee believe it had met the fairness requirement of Sec 315?

Answers to these questions failed to nullify the doubts of a majority of the commissioners and the wrist-slappping telegrams followed.

The Arkansas Show • Of the three stations, only KATV carried any of the opening night GOP convention proceedings. The ABC affiliate aired the convention from its beginning (5:30 p.m. Little Rock time) until 6:15 p.m., when it switched to campaign speeches by state and local candidates. The politicians held forth on KATV solidly until 9:30 p.m. except for one 15-minute period when the candidate who had contracted for the time failed to come forth with the station's time charges. A Navy film was programmed in the slot (8:45-9 p.m.).

KATV also aired The Big Story from 9:30-10, a period which had been sold to a candidate originally but the station refused to permit a simultaneous tripelcast with the other two stations. KATV returned to its regular programming at 10 p.m. on Arkansas time. The station featured a half-hour digest Wednesday afternoon using KARK-TV tape facilities. ABC, while it granted permission for the tape to be made, refused to let KARK-TV broadcast it also.

Little Rock Defense • Executives of all three stations involved stoutly defended their Monday night programming as being in the public interests and maintained that had the Democratic convention opened on election eve, the same actions would have been taken. B.G. Robertson, general manager of KTHV, pointed out that the state had 63 contested races with candidates wanting to be seen and heard. He said that the stations knew of the conflict early, with election eve in Arkansas "historically" a time for candidates to seek air time, and that "it is just unfortunate that this convention fell within the election period." KTHV did not carry the first hour of the GOP convention Monday night, Mr. Robertson said, because the proceedings at the beginning were not of great importance and the station might have been forced to switch to local programming at a very critical time. KTHV had carried all the network-ordered Democratic convention except 30 minutes.

Robert Doubleday, KATV general manager, said last Tuesday that "under the circumstances, every effort has been made to do what we can to see that the GOP convention coverage is given." KATV already was committed to local politicians before receiving the ABC order for the convention coverage last June 7 and the network was so informed at that time, he said. The station had carried all the Democratic convention.

Douglas Romine, vice president and manager of KARK-TV, said: "We read all the rules before we went into this

'Good neighbors'

KARK-TV Little Rock really practiced the good neighbor policy last week. The station invited Mrs. W.Y. Pape to come to its studios and watch the Monday night session of the Republican convention on closed circuit. Mrs. Pape, who complained to the FCC because none of the three Little Rock stations were carrying the first night convention activities, accepted and brought approximately 15 of her friends. A second Little Rock station, KATV (TV), announced over the air that the convention would be on closed circuit in its studios and all were welcome to come down. About 25 people accepted.

And no one lost

While last week's Arkansas primary elections drew considerable indirect attention from the FCC, that state's best known member of Congress to broadcasters was not involved. Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.) did not draw either a primary or Republican opponent and thus won re-election without a contest. Rep. Harris is chairman of the House Commerce Committee and its Communications and Legislative Oversight Subcommittee.

and we didn't think we were doing anything wrong." He pointed out that KARK-TV had blacked out 2¼ hours of the Democratic convention for local programming, including the highly-popular Miss Arkansas contest.

The station, Mr. Romine said, had received orders for time last Monday night as far back as May and had told NBC July 5 of the local commitments. All three stations pointed out that they were obligated under Sec. 315 to offer time to many of the candidates who appeared Monday night because opponents for the same office already had used the stations. Also, the stations said, they had carried the daytime convention proceedings both Monday and Tuesday.

Election Returns • After receiving the FCC telegram, two of the Little Rock tv stations changed their planned election return coverage for Tuesday night in favor of GOP primaries. KARK-TV, which planned convention coverage all along, superimposed election returns, without audio, on the bottom of the screen. KATV carried all the major portions of the Tuesday night convention with local cut-ins for election reports. Such reports were never given during a major speech, Mr. Doubleday said.

KTHV carried the convention until 7:16 p.m. Tuesday, at which time it switched to election returns. The station returned to the convention for President Eisenhower's speech from Chicago and then continued its local programming until 2 a.m.

The Dissents • Commissioner Bartley agreed that more information was needed but stated: "... The complaint ... received today does not contain sufficient information on which to base a decision as to whether stations have exercised reasonable diligence to provide fair treatment as compared with coverage of the Democratic National Convention. Complications arising from conflict with local campaign and election returns may have presented stations with impossible clearance conflicts."

Commissioner Craven, in dissenting, said that from the standpoint of reasonableness the Little Rock stations made a proper decision in airing the speeches by the state politicians rather than the Republican convention.

Commissioner Cross closely acquainted with the Arkansas political climate, stated that under the circumstances, "I consider the licensees in question have done all that can be reasonably expected of them to live up to their licensee responsibilities." He pointed out that it is the duty of the station to consider the tastes, needs and desires of the viewing public and to carry them out as well as possible.

KRNT-TV
DES MOINES
A COWLES STATION
Winning combination - This team of NBC News strategists were responsible for the heads-up coverage of Democratic and Republican conventions that won the biggest network audiences and the most critical applause. Last week, in a closed circuit interview with Broadcasting, they analyzed the reasons for NBC's emergence as a major news force. Shown during the interview, in picture above, are (l-r) William McAndrew, vice president in charge of NBC News; David Brinkley, half of the network's strong anchor team; Julian Goodman, director of news and public affairs; Elmer Lower, Washington manager of NBC News and operations manager for the conventions; and Huntley, the other anchor man, and Reuven Frank, producer of the NBC convention coverage.

HOW NBC NEWS BUILT ITS MUSCLE

"For style and sustained interest NBC has a commanding lead—Jack Gould, New York Times; "NBC was far and away the most interesting"—Sherwood Kahn, Louisville Times; "On Huntley and Brinkley's performance alone NBC scored a clear beat but NBC also pretty much outside the other networks in overall reporting and picture coverage — Time magazine; "NBC is now definitely in front position"—Frank Judge, Detroit News; "Landslide vote for Huntley and Brinkley"—Terrence O'Flaherty, San Francisco Chronicle.

To broadcasters, one of the biggest surprises of the Democratic and Republican conventions was NBC-TV's runaway sweep of audience and critical acclaim. To NBC News the biggest surprise was that everyone was surprised.

Most of the elements that put NBC-TV ahead in 1960 have been there since 1956, according to William McAndrew, vice president in charge of NBC News, and the men around him who put together this year's coverage.

This expression of confidence that NBC news has been "on the way" for the past several years emerged last week when Broadcasting editors in New York interviewed six key figures of the NBC news team on the scene at the Chicago convention via closed circuit (see picture). Besides Mr. McAndrew, they included Chet Huntley and David Brinkley, the anchor men and principal "stars" of NBC news; Julian Goodman, director of news and public affairs; Reuven Frank, producer of the Huntley-Brinkley news shows and of the convention telecasts, and Elmer Lower, Washington manager of NBC news and operations manager for the conventions.

There's a natural lag in public and critical acceptance, said Reuven Frank. "The edge in audience is to a great degree determined by the coverage four years ago," Mr. Frank maintained. Whatever edge CBS enjoyed in 1956 could be attributed to their performance in 1952, and our edge this time can be attributed to what we started in 1956. And unless we throw it away, we should have assured ourselves a good reception in 1964."

Bigger Audience Share - In terms of the like time periods programmed both in 1956 and 1960 at the Democratic convention (19 half hours), the audience "edge" Mr. Frank referred to comes out like this: In 1956 NBC was 14% behind CBS, 111% ahead of ABC. In 1960, NBC was 44% ahead of CBS, 188% ahead of ABC. In 1956 CBS led in 16 of the 19 half hours; in 1960 NBC reversed that standing. The ratings referred to were Nielsen in 1956, Arbitron in 1960. Last week in Chicago, NBC's average for the first three days was higher than CBS and ABC combined (see story page 69).

Chet Huntley made the assertion that "I am convinced we had the best news team in 1956, but apparently NBC was doing something rather new and so there was a little tinge of doubt when we said it. Today, and for the past three years, when we say we have the best news organization anywhere, we say it with a ring of conviction. We know it."

The other half of the hyphen con- curs. Mr. Brinkley said: "I don't think it's anything new. Anything that happens in a time like this tends to be exaggerated. If it's good, it's credited as being better than it really is, and if it's not so good, it's said to be worse than it really is. I say in all modesty I think we've been doing it for several years, and I think the record will show it going back over similar public events for some time."

With a bow to the competition, Mr. Goodman noted that the other net... works did good jobs of covering the conventions, too—which makes NBC doubly glad to have come in first.

Story's the Formula = NBC's success this year was compounded of equal parts Huntley-Brinkley (“turned loose with no instructions to make speeches or to deliver college courses in history”), an aggressive team of floor reporters (the same number and many of the same people as in 1956), more than two dozen “beat” reporters whose job was to supply news to the on-air men, an internal news wire that operated from 8 a.m. to a half hour after sign-off each night, and a tight editing control system.

More than that, says Bill McAndrew, it was due to the basic premise handed down by President Robert Kintner before the conventions. That was simply to cover the story and not worry about electronic gadgetry. The reporters were to cover the news and the cameras to follow the reporters.

Mr. Lower, who was with CBS in 1956, cited one specific to demonstrate the de-emphasis on gadgetry and the emphasis on news. He reminded Mr. Huntley that in 1956 NBC was making a big thing out of the five-way split screen but that in 1960 “if we decide to split a screen, we do it because that’s the best tool to use for this particular thing—and we make no mention of it. We just go ahead and split it.”

How Much HELP? Even allowing all this, the network achieves a major share of its success must be credited to Messrs. Huntley and Brinkley themselves. Yet those two, while pleased that their performances have been well received, make a strong case for elements in the news organization.

“David and I look only as good as the team is good,” said Mr. Huntley, giving special credit to floormen Frank McGee, Martin Agronsky, Merrill Mueller and Herb Kaplow. “I’ll swear I don’t know how they do it...That’s the noise on the floor, and they’re being pushed and jostled....And while they’re questioning some delegate or some governor or senator, directions keep banging in their ears from the director: move over a little bit, or throw it to Mueller, nod your head if you understand, or just plain shut up.”

Mr. Brinkley followed with a description of how little he and Mr. Huntley knew of what’s going on: “While we’re in this tank over the floor, practically sealed in, all we know is what we can see through the glass window—not nearly as much. All the real information we have we see on the NBC program monitor and what we get off the NBC news wire. We’re not in there manufacturing things.

“I get the feeling up there that we’re on the extreme end of a tremendous tangle of copper wires that is owned by NBC and goes all over Chicago, which if it were all laid end to end—we wouldn’t be on the air. We do not generate very much; we pass it along. It’s of course the polite thing to say but it’s also the true thing.”

While the behind-the-scenes decisions on what not to put on the air next, what location to send the cameras to and similar strategies were worked out through a complicated maze of wires and electronics, no such devices existed in the booth where Messrs. Huntley and Brinkley operated. It was a matter of spontaneous combustion there.

“I don’t have the faintest notion of what I may say in the next five seconds,” Mr. Huntley said last week. The two accomplished their personal communication by “a look in the eye.”

“I can glance at David and tell by the expression on his face when he has something to say,” said Mr. Huntley. “It works the same way in reverse.”

AGAIN NBC LEADS THE RATINGS

The GOP convention’s television audience averaged 14,143,000 homes per minute during the first three nights, according to American Research Bureau’s Arbitron national service. Assuming 2.2 viewers per set, the average audience would be 31,115,000 at any given moment.

On a cumulative basis the three night sessions attracted 42,430,000 million homes or 93,346,000 viewers per average minute, including homes and viewers who watched on two or more nights. No figures were available to show the number of different homes and viewers who tuned in at some time during the three evenings.

The tv audience figures for the Republican convention ran slightly behind those for the Democratic sessions on the same three nights. The GOP average of 14,143,000 homes per minute per night compared with 14,487,000 for the first three nights of the Democratic convention. (BROADCASTING, July 18).

Last week’s measurements covered all three networks from 7:30 to 11 p.m. New York time; those for the Democratic convention, which had earlier opening times, started on one of the three days at 6 p.m. and on another at 7 p.m. Viewing past 11 p.m. was not counted in either case; neither was viewing of daytime coverage.

As in the case of the Democratic convention, NBC walked off with the biggest ratings last week. Its pernight 16.1 rating and 7,227,000 homes were higher than those of CBS (10.8 and 4,915,000 homes) and ABC (5.1 and 2,001,000 homes) combined.

Audience studies also showed again that non-network stations and their entertainment programs often rivalled and sometimes exceeded the convention in attracting viewers. Arbitron national figures did not show audience shares, but the Arbitron multi-city report, covering seven major markets, showed that in only four half-hours of the first three days did the convention coverage—all three networks combined—command 60% or more of total sets in use.

In one half-hour period the three networks had less than half (47.6%) of the total tv audience. Here, by half-hours, are the Arbitron national figures on the three-network GOP convention tune-in during the first three nights, plus the comparable Democratic convention figures:

BROADCASTING, August 1, 1960
with dirty carbon paper on their fingers. Although we had no doubts as to what we could do—given the chance—we were not accepted unanimously inside the organization." Top management looked so casually on NBC news that when the news department recommendation to put Messrs. Huntley and Brinkley in the lineup was accepted, management delayed six weeks before announcing it.

Bob Kintner changed that, Mr. McAndrew said. A former newspaperman, Mr. Kintner pulled the news department out of the programming department and ordered it to report directly to him. He gave news more money and staffers a free hand.

Oddly enough, Mr. McAndrew thinks 1960's convention coverage will cost the network less than 1956's, mainly because of the decreased reliance on electronic effects. Although NBC used as many technical people as before, it used fewer production people—as Mr. Frank put it, "people with ideas you can't use." Mr. McAndrew estimated his out-of-pocket convention expenses at between $1.75 and $2 million. This does not include money lost through pre-emptions of sponsored programs.

Tape's Role One of the technical developments that enabled NBC to cover more ground this year was tv tape—a blessing not without drawbacks. Rather than easing the load, tape added to it; being able to cover a number of events simultaneously on tape, the network was drawn into wasteful use of manpower. Mr. Lower said: "We were using live television cameras [for tape recording] almost as if they were hand-held, 16 mm, single-system sound film cameras. Our crews in the hotels were really breaking their backs to move this around. It meant we had crew calls last Wednesday for 5 a.m. in four different hotels—the Sheraton, the Blackstone, the Hilton and the Morrison, and then the crews were there until after 11 o'clock at night." Although back-breaking, the tape permitted NBC to cover news it could never have brought in before, tape's benefit.

Mr. Lower also credited tape with permitting NBC to develop another key element in its coverage—the "connected background narrative." Translated, this means the half-hour or so of taped summation of the day's events that NBC put on the air just before kickoff of each night's sessions, recapping both the major events that were televised earlier in the day and other vignettes taped but not televised live.

Mr. McAndrew went out of his way to commend two other behind-the-scenes members of his convention team, Jack Sughrue, who had worked on the design of NBC's quarters since last September, and Charlie Jones of the Washington staff, who operated the preset center that screened all camera pickups before they went to Messrs. Frank and McAndrew for decision as to what would go on the air. Mr. McAndrew described them both as "angry young men" so enthusiastic for their work that they conducted tours for rival CBS newsmen.

Stick With The Story NBC's newsmen kept returning to the central theme that concentration on the story was the prime element in their success. Julian Goodman noted that "we refused to be diverted by things that had no real concern with what went on in the convention. For instance, one of the networks interviewed Harold Stassen four times last Tuesday—and he was not a prime mover in the convention.

Mr. Frank added that NBC went to Chicago "reasonably convinced that there was no big story there. We'd probably been reading the papers too much. But we made the decision that we were going to cover the story. If it was a dull story, our function was to cover it. We would make it as interesting as we could, within the legitimate limits of news coverage."

He summed up with this analysis:

"It's a very old fashioned idea. We applied it to the convention in 1936. It's how to cover a story. Never mind the electronics. How do you cover a story? We have come to the point in television that you cover a story the way stories are covered. It's the story that counts, not the gadgetry."

On hand in Chicago The following stations, station groups and news, programming and other services, plus reporters, photographers (not including the networks), were accredited to cover the GOP national convention in Chicago last week. The preliminary list totaled 662, though many failed to pick up their credentials from the Republican radio-television unit under Bob Menouno. In many instances passes were given to other radio-television representatives during the week. Various other passes were distributed for various remote coverage events, as well as social functions. The following list, as of Monday, July 25, was supplied by the GOP convention committee.

The issue of political convention credentials, always a sore point with radio-TV newsmen, may get a fresh airing on the basis of further complaints against last week's Republican convention.

The move possibly will be made by the Radio-TV News Directors Assn. in view of discussions by some of its officers and other members at an informal meeting in Chicago Tuesday evening. They agreed there's room for "some improvement" in the machinery of handing out radio-TV credentials. Most of the complaints concerned the lack of passes for newsmen to the convention floor. Passes also were at a premium during the Democratic convention in Los Angeles, prompting similar complaints.

William Small, WHAS-AM-TV Louisville and RTNDA president, reportedly will sound out members on specific suggestions and recommendations for improving the credentials picture. RTNDA, it is understood, feels strongly that newsmen should have a greater voice in setting up credentials procedure for the political conventions, other than through the Senate and House Radio-TV Galleries. A $20 registration fee was suggested in some quarters.

Actually, RTNDA members stressed, there's no severe conflict on credentials, rather a hope for improvement in 1964. One of the problems of the credentials group's is the traditional rash of late applications stemming partly from the previous fortnight sale of news sheets. Another problem emphasized by RTNDA: that some stations don't send actual news representatives to the big shows, thus brass come instead.

GOP briefs

- Networks got off to a bad start last Monday because of line and interconnection difficulties both at the amphitheater and in hotels in Chicago. AT&T said that, while the interference to video signals, which occurred intermittently during the morning session of convention, was cleared up quickly, and that by evening normal operations were restored.

- While no figure was available on telephone company costs in Chicago, unofficial reports placed Pacific Telephone Co. (AT&T) outlay in Los Angeles for Democratic convention at $2 million. Not all of it was recouped, customers were told informally. Los Angeles service was described as optimum.

- Newsmen covering floor proceedings yearned for those wide open aisles and efficient air-conditioning available at Democratic meet. They experienced extreme difficulty in Chicago in moving about with their creepy-peepies and remote equipment. Camera shots from booths were all but impossible. Four men found it necessary to maneuver their interviewees into camera position, usually away from state delegation seats.

- Among the better-attended spaces at the amphitheater in Chicago was the Nixon Volunteers' news trailer, utilized as a "staging area" for radio- tv interviews and equipped with soft chairs, air-conditioning, phones, typewriters and other gear. Politicians were brought into the trailer where crews from networks and independent stations interviewed them in a special broadcasting room.

- Those who caught ABC-TV's remote coverage from the Conrad Hilton on Monday will appreciate the momentary anguish of commentator John Secordi while describing the meeting of Vice President Nixon and former President Herbert Hoover. He told viewers that "President Nixon is going into the suite of former President Herbert Hoover."

- Mr. Secondi, a polished commentator, now takes his place alongside Harry Von Zell, who once called the elder statesman "Hubert Heever."

CONVENTION PRE-EMPTION STORY

Republican's shorter show caused less network rescheduling

The shorter Republican national convention caused fewer pre-emptions of tv and radio network programs and advertisers than the Democratic convention, which ran a full night longer. The networks last week pre-empted all night time programming Monday through Thursday, as well as much of last Monday's daytime programs.

Since the Republicans held two sessions on Monday, to keep the convention length down to four days, the total number of hours of convention coverage compared equally to that given the Democratic meet. Listed below are the hours given over to the Republicans and the network reports on the programs and advertisers affected by pre-emptions. All times are EDT. As was true during the Democratic convention, the networks again were able to reschedule a few programs and a large number of commercial messages.

ABC-TV pre-empted all Monday-through-Thursday nighttime programs from 7 p.m. onward for Republican convention coverage. Several daytime programs fell by the wayside on the first day. ABC news chief John Daly and associates went on the air at 11 a.m. Monday, presenting early informal coverage. Several daytime programs were able to report from UN headquarters, an exclusive two-city interview with Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, a two-hour presentation of Vice President Nixon's arrival and motorcade, a 40-minute interview with Mr. Nixon and an at-home interview with Governor and Mrs. Rockefeller.

CBS-TV had a lineup of 190 stations carrying its network service. These network programs were pre-empted last week:

CBS-TV

- (Mon., 10:30 a.m.-4 p.m.; 7:30 p.m.-12:03 a.m.) Far Horizon, Toni; Love of Life, Esso, Nabisco; Search for Tomorrow, Procter & Gamble; Guiding Light, Procter & Gamble; As the World Turns, Procter & Gamble; House Party, Lever, J.B. Williams; Millionaire, Colgate; Verdict Is Yours, Esso. Also, The Texan, All-State; Father Knows Best, Scott; and June Allyson Show, DuPont. Three half-hours normally sponsored by General Foods were not counted as pre-emptions because in each case there was a week's break between changes in programs.

- (Tues. 2-4 p.m.; 7:30 p.m.-12:30 a.m.) House Party, Kellogg, Toni; Verdict Is Yours, Toni; Dible Gillis, Pillsbury; The Spirit, Lever, General Foods, Whitehall; Light, Procter & Gamble; Night Time at the Ritz,Whatever; Spot. S.C. Johnson; Diagnosis: Unknown, S.C. Johnson and Polaidol. (Wed. 7:30 p.m.-1:15 a.m.) Reckoning, Esso; Men Into Space, American Tobacco; I've Got A Secret, R.J. Reynolds; Armstrong Circle Theatre, Armstrong Cork; Johnny Ringo, Lorillard; Zane Grey Theatre, S.C. Johnson; Markham, Renault; To Tell The Truth, Helene Curtis.

CBS Radio's simulcast coverage of the convention last week was not only picked up by all 203 affiliates but three extra stations in uncovered markets also joined the hookup. Monday daytime program pre-emptions (11:30 a.m.-2 p.m.) were Garry Moore, Crosby/Clowney, Bob Richards, Couple Next Door, Right To Happiness, Kingston Trio, Whispering Streets, Ma Perkins, Young Dr. Malone, and Second Mrs. Burton. Monday through Thursday nighttime broadcasts (7:05-conclusion each night) pre-empted the following programs: Amos & Andy, Kingston Trio, Bob Richards, In Person, World Tonight, and Dance Orchestras. Capitol Cloakroom was cancelled on Thursday night. The majority of these programs are sold on a participation basis.

Big Feed = NBC-TV began feeding convention coverage to 160 stations last Monday at 10:30 a.m. A total of 9 hours and 45 minutes of convention programming was carried the first day. Two reports from the U.N. were inserted the first day, a 29-minute insert at 10:39 a.m. and a two-minute segment at 2:20 p.m. In addition to gavel-to-gavel coverage, NBC News listed 11 special telecasts dealing with the Republican session from July 19 to 27. Nighttime programs and advertisers pre-empted last week are listed below. Advertisers whose commercials were rescheduled are identified with an (R). Refunds were in order for few participants in early portions of the late night Jack Paar Show.

NBC Radio was forced to cancel several regularly scheduled news programs last week, but all commercials which conflicted with convention coverage were rescheduled in other time periods. Morgan Beatty's News of the World (7:30-7:45 p.m.) was cancelled Monday through Thursday, as were three News on the Hour broadcasts and one Sunoco Three-Star Extra. Coverage started last Monday with 7 hours and 10 minutes of convention programming. Tuesday's schedule read 2:30-3 p.m. for the President's motorcade, 5:26-5:48 for Governor Rockefeller's news conference and 7:15-12:15 for convention session. On Wednesday and Thursday the convention was covered from 7:15 p.m. to conclusion. The network service got 95-98% pickup from affiliates. Coverage included several live pickups from the U. N. Security Council. The network's coverage of the Democratic convention two weeks ago totaled 34 and one-half hours, including special programs dealing with the conventions, NBC said.

Mutual Broadcasting System had a lineup of 382 stations for gavel-to-gavel coverage of both conventions. Mutual learned on July 22 that 308 of the stations had sold all their available time, with 57 showing majority sponsorship and 19 half-sponsorship. Last January affiliates were told they could sell 80% of the overall time MBS had set aside for coverage of the conventions and on election day to local sponsors. Mutual advertisers knew in advance that some newscasts on the half-hour would be pre-empted and be presented at a different time. Because the conventions stayed close to schedule, the plan was followed.

According to Herbert J. Cutting, director of sales service, there is no way of knowing what all of Mutual's stations did with the newscasts on the hour, "but they did so well in selling the convention package the stations not only had additional business on it but were also in a position to take care of clients normally on the newscasts.

We feel safe to assume that many of the local sponsors in these newscasts also sponsored convention broadcasts,"

Mutual's convention broadcast schedule last week: Monday, 11:05 a.m.-1:30 p.m., 7:35 p.m.-midnight; Tuesday, 7:35 p.m.-Midnight; Wednesday, 7:35 p.m.-1:15 a.m.; Thursday, 7:35-11:30 p.m. (estimated). In addition on Monday and Friday (9:35-10 a.m.) Mutual again aired its special Convention Preview & Review.

WINS PURCHASED FOR $10 MILLION

Storer buys N.Y. station in industry's biggest radio purchase

In the largest radio station sale in broadcast history, Storer Broadcasting Co. has agreed to buy 50kw WINS New York for $10 million.

The transaction, signed July 8, was made known last week. A copy of the 90-day option agreement—in which Storer laid out $100,000 as a binder—has been filed with the FCC.

The agreement is between Storer Broadcasting Co. and Gotham Broadcasting Corp., licensee of WINS. Gotham is wholly owned by broadcaster J. Elroy McCaw.

The sales agreement, filed with the option agreement, is in full force until Jan. 10, 1961. Storer has the right to three extensions of six months each.

The arrangement provides that an application for FCC approval of the transfer will not be filed until Storer has made provision to sell one of its present am stations. Storer now owns the full quota of seven am radio outlets, in addition to the maximum five vhf tv stations.

It also provides that Storer will forfeit the $100,000 if it withdraws from the agreement. The sum will be counted against the purchase price upon consummation of the transaction after FCC approval, it states.

Offers $8-12 Million In Chicago for the Republican convention, Mr. McCaw said last week that he entered the option agreement with Storer after he had received a number of offers ranging from $8 million to $12 million for the New York property.

The transaction is for $10 million cash and does not include net quick assets.

Howard Stark of New York was the broker in the transaction.

Mr. McCaw told Broadcasting that he was motivated in making the deal by several factors. He said that during the past five years, he had suffered losses approximating $2.5 million in the operation of his independent television stations (KTVW [TV] Tacoma-Seattle and KTVR [TV] Denver). He said he nevertheless was still a firm believer in independent tv operation in major markets and that he would bolster these operations with the funds that are being realized from the sale of WINS.

He added, moreover, that he has found it a physical hardship to operate WINS because of the cross-country commutation problem. His home is in Seattle, he noted, and the operation of the New York outlet required almost Seller's holiday

J. Elroy McCaw, whose $10 million sale of WINS New York puts a new high on radio station sales (see page 76), said last week he will devote more time to a new capital fund investment company of which he is president.

The fund is the Small Business Investment Corp., he stated, which is capitalized at $15 million and includes on its board some of the nation's outstanding business executives. Mr. McCaw said the board included Spyros Skouras, president, 20th Century-Fox; Sylvester L. (Pat) Weaver, chairman, McCann-Erickson International and former NBC president; Jack C. Vaughn, Texas industrialist who with Cecil L. Trigg, owns KVII-TV Amarillo, KOSA-AM-TV Odessa and KROD-AM-TV El Paso, all Texas; John O'Connor, Dressen Industries, and Henry Blackstone, Servel Inc.

weekly trips to and from the coast.

Mr. McCaw also owns 50% of KELA Centralia, Wash.

Paid $450,000 in 1953 Mr. McCaw bought WINS seven years ago from Crosley Broadcasting Corp. He paid $450,000 for the independent 1010 kc station. At that time, he asserted, it was losing about $160,000 a year.

The WINS transaction is $4 million more than the previous high in a radio station sale. WNEW New York was acquired by Metropolitan Broadcasting Corp. in 1957 for $7.5 million but there was $1.5 million in net quick assets acquired as part of the transaction. In the WINS sale, Mr. McCaw retains the net quick assets.

The agreement with Storer provides, however, that Storer will receive 50% of the net earnings of WINS between Sept. 1, 1960 and the closing date or Dec. 31, 1960, whichever is earlier.

Storer owns WJBK-AM-TV Detroit, WJW-AM-TV Cleveland, WSPD-AM-TV Toledo, WITI-TV Milwaukee, WAGA-TV Atlanta, WIBG Philadelphia, WGBS Miami, WWVA Wheeling and KGBS Los Angeles.

Storer net income up

Storer Broadcasting Co.'s total net income for first six months of 1960 reached $2,820,939 ($1.14 per share), company reported last week. This compares with $2,714,549 ($1.10 per share) for same period in 1959. The 1959 figure included $582,417 in non-recurring net gain. In the six months period, revenues from the sale of time and programs showed an increase of 13% over 1959, Storer reported. Per share earnings are based on 2,474,750 shares outstanding of Common and Class B common stock. Storer owns five TV stations and seven radio outlets: WJBK-AM-TV Detroit, WJW-AM-TV Cleveland, WSBD-AM-TV Toledo, WITI-TV Milwaukee, WAGA-AM-TV Atlanta, WBIG Philadelphia, WGBS Miami, WWVA Wheeling and KGBS Los Angeles.

Changing hands

The quality man

A new type of station executive, designated quality manager, has been set up at WRPB Warner Robbins, Ga. This executive is responsible for adherence of all programs to FCC, NAB and Federal Trade Commission requirements as well as the station's own standards. He is expected to bring about constant upgrading of all programming and production.

Some of the program director's functions are included in the position, such as supervision and improvement of the spoken word in writing and delivery, quality of music and production standards.

The quality manager will be familiar with all federal regulations and industry standards, sponsor response and civic needs. He will try to strengthen the station's position in the community in terms of prestige, listenership and commercial success. Back of the new position was the station's feeling that it would help meet recent criticism against broadcasting, according to Edgar M. Nobles, WRPB president.

Commission conditioned sale to such action it may take as a result of pending petition by the U. of Maine, Orono, Me. for rulemaking relating to ch. 10 in August. Bates College will use the station as a non-commercial ctv.

Rollins registers stock with SEC

Rollins Broadcasting Inc., multiple station owner, last week filed a statement with the Securities & Exchange Commission to register 110,000 shares of common stock, part of the proceeds to be used for further expansion. The Wilmington, Del., corporation owns and operates six am stations and two vhf outlets, with an application pending at the FCC to purchase WCHS-AM-TV Charleston, W.Va., for $2,598,000.

The statement shows that in the year ending April 30, 1960, Rollins' radio revenues reached $2,516,575; tv revenues were $1,244,436 for net earnings of $780,649 or 96 cents per share. This compares with 1959's figures of radio revenues of $2,121,149; tv revenues of $352,074 and net earnings of $286,610 or 34 cents per share. The 1960 tv figure was boosted by acquisition of WPTZ-TV Plattsburgh, N.Y.-Burlington, Vt., and earnings per share that year were affected by property sale, but the rise in profits is still substantial.

O. Wayne Rollins is president, treasurer and a director of the corporation and owns 70.6% of the outstanding stock. He was the only officer or director who received remuneration of more than $30,000 during the 1960 fiscal year, according to the statement. His salary was $117,157. Henry B. Tippie is vice president and a director; Madalyn P. Copley is vice president and secretary and John W. Rollins, brother of O. Wayne Rollins, is a director and owns the remaining 29.4% of outstanding stock.

The statement breaks down the businesses the stations bring in from local, national spot and network advertising:

CBS' NEW ADDRESS
It will be Ave. of the Americas in 1964

CBS' years-long search for new headquarters is over. It will be in its own new building by the spring of 1964.

That's the corporate plan outlined last week by President Frank Stanton, who announced the purchase of a mid-Manhattan site for a skyscraper headquarters building yet to be designed.

The site is almost an acre on the east side of New York's Ave. of the Americas between 52nd and 53rd streets. The land reportedly cost about $7 million.

Dr. Stanton said the building would be designed by Eero Saarinen & Assoc., a noted architect with a reputation for originality. It will be Saarinen's first skyscraper in a series of projects which has included the General Motors Technical Center, the U.S. Embassy buildings in Oslo and London, Kresge Auditorium at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Dulles International Airport in Washington, and new research facilities for International Business Machines and Bell Labs.

The height and form of the building will be determined by several factors including changes currently being made in the New York zoning code and the exact space requirements of CBS. In the meantime Clarence H. Hopper, CBS vice president in charge of facilities, said the cost of the structure could not be estimated. But he emphasized that it would be "a prestige building, not a bulk building."

The new site is two blocks west of the current CBS building at 485 Madison Ave., where the executive offices have been housed since 1929, and two blocks north of NBC's headquarters in the RCA Bldg.

In a memo to CBS personnel Dr. Stanton noted that CBS has been "cramped for elbow room" both at 485 Madison and in its other New York locations "because of the four-fold expansion of our business during the last 10 years." He said CBS wants a building of "character and distinction" and that the new structure would be "an imaginative and functional expression of CBS' special nature—immersed, as it is, in art and science, communication and entertainment."

Educators planning own radio network

Managers of educational radio stations last week were mapping plans for live networks in their own states and regions before launching an interconnected national network.

A major ingredient of such a live network is news commentary and analysis, to supplement educational, cultural, informational and entertainment features, participants concluded at U. of Wisconsin seminar in Madison July 17-21. The meeting was conducted under auspices of the National Assn. of Educational Broadcasters for some 50 non-commercial station managers. Purpose of the seminar was to discuss the possibility of creating a live radio network. An NAEB committee has been set up to study legal and engineering factors.

Today's tv and radio news coverage is inadequate, particularly that involving the Congo crisis in Africa the meeting was told by Hartford N. Gunn Jr., general manager of WGHB Boston. He called for a new communications system to improve news coverage. Mr.
Gunn noted that no American network maintains a regular correspondent in Africa and claimed that in a recent network broadcast, a BBC correspondent's report from the Congo was limited to 30 seconds of air time.

Meanwhile, NAEB has asked the National School Boards Assn. to endorse a project to determine education's needs for electronic frequency spectrum space. The project was undertaken by NAEB at the request of FCC Chairman Frederick W. Ford. NSF's executive committee expressed "extreme concern" over educational spectrum needs at a recent meeting. Harold E. M. Hill, NAEB's administrative vice president cited "pressures" on the FCC for space allocations and asserted they raise a "real threat" to educational broadcasting. NAEB plans to conduct a nation-wide survey to supply the FCC with the "necessary statistics." Jansky & Bailey, Washington engineering consultants retained by NAEB, will help with the study.

No action: KOMY Watsonville has settled its $100,000 damage suit against KDON Salinas, both California, out of court. The suit charged false advertising, trade libel and misuse of a Western Union survey.

Why? An editorial broadcast by WCBS New York last week, exposing the reportedly forced and unwarranted committal of a sane woman to a New Jersey state mental institution for four years, has prompted an investigation of the matter by the Hudson County (N.J.) prosecutor's office. The case involves Mrs. Mae Dean, a registered nurse, who suffered a severe attack of asthma in 1956 and was sent to the Hudson County Hospital for Mental Diseases. A year later WCBS said, she was examined and judged sane but was not released from the institution until last week. WCBS' editor asked "why?"

Stein scholarship: Balaban Stations group has authorized the U. of Missouri School of Journalism to establish a $250 annual radio journalism scholarship in the name of the late Albert E. Stine of the Associated Press. Mr. Stine, AP special membership executive, died in Kansas City July 20 (Broadcasting, July 25). "The Albert E. Stine Radio Journalism Scholarship" will be presented each April to the university's outstanding radio journalism student.

Construction began: Construction work has begun on the new WCRM Clare, Mich. Station will operate on 990 kc with 250 w and is owned by Richard E. Hunt and Norbert C. Peepelman, who also own WCBY Cheboygan, Mich.

WCRM programming will consist of music, news, public service, sports and general programs of an educational and informational nature. Its studios, transmitter and sales offices will be on U.S. 27, one mile south of Clare.

Moving day: Harry Maizlish, owner of KRHM(FM) Los Angeles and head of V.I.P. Productions, has moved his personal offices to the Union Bank Center, Wilshire at Beverly, Beverly Hills, Calif. Telephone is Bradshaw 2-8641.

Copyright suit: Chappell & Co., music publisher, N.Y. has filed suit for copyright infringement against James E. Jaeger, owner of KAGR Yuba City, Calif., charging that the songs "Ev'ry Time We Say Goodbye" and "The Lady Is a Tramp" were performed by the station without authorization. The plaintiff, a member of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, seeks damages of $250 for each unauthorized performance, together with court costs and attorneys' fees.

Ends bottleneck: The "Skyway Patrol" plane of WFYI Garden City, Long Island, takes credit for the elimination of at least one source of traffic jams during the commuter rush hours on Long Island highways. After the plane spotted highway workmen repainting the white lines on one highway, causing traffic to back up, Wallace Dunlap, WFYI station manager, brought it to the attention of state highway headquarters in Albany. A wired reply from the Dept. of Public Works expressed apologies and assurance that future line-painting work would be restricted to non-rush hours.

WOR mediates § WOR New York's news department was credited last week with serving as a mediator in a labor dispute involving the New York Sanitation Dept. and the City of New York. Approximately 10,000 members of the Sanitation Dept. participated in a work stoppage. When Sanitation Commissioner Paul Screvene and Sanitary Workers’ Union head John DeLoury told separate WOR interviewers that they would waive protocol and agree to a meeting, station news officials took them at their word. A meeting was arranged and the first step toward solving the dispute was taken.

Montana scholarships § Montana State U. has announced the recipients of its annual radio-tv scholarships. The awards are made from a grant by the Montana Broadcasters Assn. Recipients of this year's awards are Richard L. Maney of Butte, a part-time employee of KOPR Butte, and Robert W. Ranstrom, Missoula, who has been active in the operation of his high school's wired-radio station KONA.

Operatic talent search § WGN Chicago is joining hands with the Illinois Opera Guild on a third annual search for outstanding new operatic talent. Performers will appear on a 13-week Opera Guild Auditions of the Air series starting Nov. 20 and receive prizes. First-place winner will be presented with a $1,000 award and second-ranking a $500 prize.

Ford announces new educational tv grants

The Ford Foundation, New York, today (Aug. 1) announced a new series of grants to elementary and secondary schools and to colleges and universities for the development of instruction by television. The list of grants include: U. of Connecticut, $34,550; Mohawk-Hudson Council on Educational Television, $33,550; Tri-County College, $18,000; Clover Park School, Tacoma, Wash., $1,950; Pacific Lutheran College, $3,000; Twin City Area Educational Television Corp., $23,500; U. of Akron, $55,640; Central Michigan U., $75,366; U. of Detroit, $24,800; U. of Houston, $22,000; National College of Education, $15,682; U. of New Hampshire, $51,666; U. of New Mexico, $41,400, and U. of Missouri, $90,000. An appropriation of $776,000 was granted to continue support for two experiments in classroom teaching tv: the National Program in the Use of Television in the Public Schools, and the Washington County, Maryland, closed-circuit tv program. Two grants for school systems participating in the first experiment were made from a previous appropriation. The grants are: Florida West Coast Educational Television Inc., $19,760; Dade County (Fla.) Board of Public Instruction, $38,760. The Clover Park Schools in Tacoma, Wash., also received a grant of $96,000 to assist six tv courses.

Off to Europe

Ollie Treyz, ABC-TV president, left Chicago Wednesday for a month-long trip to Europe. A combination business-vacation, Mr. Treyz was to complete arrangements for the new Winston Churchill memoirs series to begin in November. Also on the agenda for negotiation is a biblical special (in two one-hour segments) produced by Bill Goetz, son-in-law of Louis B. Mayer, to be scheduled this fall. A two-part program, titled David the Boy and David the Man, stars Jeff Chandler, and has a basic cost of $600,000. If they go well, Mr. Treyz said, contract will be entered for additional segments. On location shooting in Israel has been completed, with interiors being done in London. The specials have not yet been offered to advertisers, but Mr. Treyz said he anticipated no difficulty in producing sponsorship.

NCAA tv slate set

The 1960 National Collegiate Athletic Assn. football telecast schedule was released last week by Thomas W. Moore, vice president in charge of ABC-TV, which will carry the games this fall. The schedule consists of 13 dates, covering nine national and four regional telecasts. National contests are: Georgia at Alabama, Sept. 17; Michigan State at Pittsburgh, Sept. 24; Syracuse at Kansas, Oct. 1; Washington at Stanford, Oct. 8; Notre Dame at Northwestern, Oct. 22; Ohio State at Iowa, Nov. 12; Texas A&M at Texas, Nov. 24; Army at Navy, Nov. 26 and Duke at UCLA, Dec. 3. The games will be sponsored by the Gillette Safety Razor Co., Humble Oil & Refining Co. and the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

The regional slate will be announced at a later date.
Color tv stations cover 98% of U.S.

Number of tv stations equipped to carry network color cover nearly 98% of the U.S. tv homes, according to a new RCA-NBC survey. Of the country's 520 tv stations, 367 are equipped to rebroadcast network color, the survey reported. Number of color-equipped stations was determined on the basis of equipment installed and in operating condition, Charles M. Kinsolving, NBC plans department manager, said. There are additional outlets to which color equipment has been sold or actually delivered.

Status report revealed 104 stations, almost one-quarter of the nation's total, are equipped to originate local color in some form (live, film or slides). Breakdown of stations by networks shows 170 NBC affiliates and satellites can rebroadcast network color, compared to 152 for CBS and 132 for ABC, the survey found. Report itemizes color status of each station by network affiliation.

3M sales, profits up

Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co., St. Paul, Minn., reports second quarter sales and earnings are both up from the same period a year ago. Second quarter sales totalled $134,343,955, with earnings of $16,148,091, or 32 cents per share of common stock. In the same period in 1959, sales were $122,186,325, with earnings of $15,640,554, or 31 cents per share. For the six months ending June 30, 3M's sales totalled $263,013,173, compared with $237,358,645 in the first half of 1959. Consolidated net income for 1960's first half was $32,366,002, or 63 cents per share compared with $29,597,074, or 58 cents per share in the same period last year. All 1959 figures have been restated to reflect the 3-for-1 stock split of May 1960 and to include 3M foreign operations, which, except for Canadian and export, were not included in prior years, the company announced.

Sub earth waves

Successful transmission of radio waves through the earth was announced last week.

The project, by Developmental Engineering Corp., consisted of sending a teletypewriter message from one mine to another in New Mexico. Both mines were 1,000 ft. deep and were 4½ miles apart. Developmental Engineering Corp. is headed by Lester H. Carr, one-time radio consulting engineer in Washington. The transmitter used 200 w. Success was attributed to the electrical properties of a strata of sodium chloride and the low noise levels deep inside the earth. The system has been given the name of "Lithocom."

Technical topics

New field ▲ RCA has entered the electroluminescent lighting field. D. Y. Smith, vice president and general manager, RCA Electron Tube Div., said that RCA's work with phosphors for color television proved valuable in the development of light-emitting panels for consumer, industrial and military uses. The panels, to be merchandised under the name "Panelray," will be offered to equipment manufacturers in green, blue, yellow, orange, and white. Full scale manufacturing will begin in early fall.

More recorders ▲ Ampex Professional Products Co. has announced the delivery of 23 more Videotape tv recorders to broadcasters and production companies. This brings the total of the Ampex recorders in use throughout the world to 653. Latest additions to the list include WAST-TV Albany, N.Y.; KOMU (TV) Columbia, Mo.; KTAL (TV) Los Angeles; WWRL (TV) Columbus, Ga.; WTVJ (TV) Miami (2 recorders), and others. The Stratovision Project, Purdue U., received four of the machines while four others went to Sports Network in New York City and one machine each went to Educational tv, Atlanta, and the U. of Georgia, Athens.

New pacts ▲ Mobile Video Tapes Inc., L.A., has announced signing five contracts for its mobile recording units. The orders came from KJH-TV and KTAL-TV, both Los Angeles, NBC and CBC. The network orders were to tape portions of the Democratic convention. In addition, the company said, it has been retained to tape the Medicine 60 series which reaches 43 markets.

New line ▲ Collins Radio Co., Dallas, has a new series of microwave radio equipment operating in the 11,000-15,000 mc range. The company announced that the new system, MW-601, will provide terminal circuits for lower frequency systems entering congested areas and will open new frequencies for present licensees and others who do not... presently have microwave radio systems. The equipment features a temperature control chamber for the klystron which uses no electrical power for temperature regulation. A spring-operated mechanical device automatically controls chamber temperature with the klystron used as a heat source. For further details write P.O. Box 1891, Dallas 21.

Handy = General Electric offers a new portable two-way radio which some broadcasters are using to cover special events. The transistorized radios can be easily recharged from automobile cigarette lighters or electrical outlets and can be operated in the 25-54 mc and 144-174 mc frequencies. They will run two days without any battery charging.

Name changed = CECO Inc. antenna division has been renamed Decibel Products Inc. The new Dallas company will continue the antenna product line of CECO with emphasis upon a complete line of antennas for mobile two-way communications.

Move completed = General Electric Co.'s Radio Receiver Dept. headquarters have been moved from Bridgeport, Conn. to Utica, N.Y. The manufacturing facilities of the department have been in the latter city for several years, the company undertook the move in stages. Headquarters are now located at 1001 Broad St., Utica.

Versatile camera = Mitchell Camera Corp. has introduced the new R-35 professional lightweight 35mm cine reflex camera. It can be used on a tripod or hand-held for theatrical or tv productions, underwater photography, high speed instrumentation and both animation and stop motion filming. A blimp is available for use with sound. The R-35 is equipped with dual shutters which facilitate fades and dissolves. Zoom and anamorphic lenses may be used. Further information is available from Mitchell Camera Corp., 666 W. Harvard St., Glendale 4, Calif.

FCC LEGALIZES VHF BOOSTERS

Off-the-air relay authorized after 6 year battle aided by boosters on Capitol Hill

The FCC last week bowed to the inevitable—Congress. Vhf boosters were authorized to pick up and retransmit tv signals from distant stations to hamlets and isolated communities.

The six-year-long fight of thousands of isolated Americans aching for tv—and intrepid enough to improvise an off-the-air relay service was aided andabetted by powerful voices in the halls of Congress.

The FCC announced last week that beginning Sept. 6 it would start processing applications for the new service—1 w vhf boosters.

All commissioners, except newly appointed Commissioner Charles H. King, voted for the action. Commissioner Robert E. Lee concurred in part.

Only requirements for the vhf boosters, the commission announced was the power limitation, provision for on-off control and an automatic cut-off device.

The vhf repeaters must protect reception of tv stations, the commission ordered. It also said that interference problems among licensees of these devices must be resolved by the licensees themselves.

With last week's action, the FCC now permits three distinct types of television relays. These are the so-called vhf translators, the uhf translators, and vhf boosters. The last are to fill in shadow areas in Grade A uhf service areas.

Uhf translators were established four years ago as the answer to the growing operation of unauthorized vhf boosters. They provide that a vhf tv signal may be received and retransmitted on a uhf channel. Booster operators objected that these devices cost too much.

Twice the FCC denied requests for the establishment of a vhf repeater service. Twice the commission reopened the subject following strong and vehement congressional pressures.

Began in Northwest = The on-channel repeater service sprang up in the Pacific Northwest early in 1954 when tv-hungry residents of the Chelan Valley area of Washington improvised a repeater to bring Spokane programs to their area. Residents chipped in to raise the costs.

Discovery of the operation by FCC field monitors resulted in the first one, near Bridgeport, Wash., being padlocked. The padlocks were broken and the device put back on the air. With the growth of this type of booster, the commission finally brought suit against the Bridgeport operators. The court found the FCC had jurisdiction, but failed to find the operators guilty. This followed a public hearing in which the commission's examiner ruled that the devices were not illegal.

The commission feared, it explained, that unregulated vhf repeaters might cause interference to tv reception and to other services.

In its announcement last week the FCC said that the requirement that a licensed engineer be on hand at broadcast stations could be waived. This resulted from the passage by Congress and the President's signing of S-1886.

Congress also passed, and the President signed, an amendment of the Communications Act which gave the FCC authority to waive the provision forbidding the FCC from granting a license to anyone who builds a station before a permit is granted.

This permits "grandfathering in" the existing vhf repeaters it was explained.

As with uhf translators, the FCC stated, low-power vhf translators cannot retransmit tv signals on the same channel on which it receives the incoming signal. It must "translate" the signal to another channel, in the vhf in this case.

Other directives require call letters for each vhf repeater and permission of stations whose programs are to be retransmitted.

Use Uhf for Higher Power = In response to requests that power higher than 1 w be permitted, the commission said that higher powers are possible (up to 100 w) by using uhf translators.

Applications for new translators, the commission said, will not be processed until the Sept. 6 effective date, and should be made on FCC Form 346, now being used for uhf translators.

WHAT PRICE PROSPERITY?

The greatest prosperity this country has ever known depends on our knowing—and acting upon—these facts:

- Foreign competition has already invaded American industry to the danger point. As a result of this alarming loss of sales to foreign manufacturing, hundreds of American companies are moving their manufacturing abroad—in order to survive!
- The largest cost in American production today is labor. American wage levels have ballooned production costs sky-high in comparison with foreign costs. Wage increases that force selling prices above competing materials, also can create unemployment within an industry by inroads of these competing materials. This is what happened in the coal industry where ever-rising prices invited competition from other fuels.
- Cutting production costs must come through the ingenuity of American management. Productivity must be increased. Products must be constantly improved. Inflation must be controlled. Waste of manpower must be eliminated. All are basic ways production costs can be cut, to help bring American industry into a competitive price area with foreign imports.

The most vital need facing Americans today is to learn the economic truths about ourselves. We must know exactly what we will have to pay for sound prosperity. And we must act upon these facts.

If we don't, we will be committing slow economic suicide.

REPUBLIC STEEL

CLEVELAND 1, OHIO

Republic Steel helps create sound prosperity with modern steel products

One way to increase purchasing power is by producing better quality goods with fewer man-hours per product. Republic Steel has some of the most modern, highly productive machinery for turning wire into bolts, nuts, and rivets—15 million pieces a day.

Republic is also one of the largest manufacturers of barbed wire and woven wire fence for farm use. Additionally, miles and miles of wire are sold to specialty manufacturers who convert it into a variety of articles, such as screws, springs for mattresses and automobile seats, supermarket push carts, and display racks.
With the FCC taking a three-week break beginning today (August 1), its seven weary commissioners have scattered to the four winds. Original plans called for an August 1 meeting and a return date of Sept. 7, but that has been cancelled in favor of an August 31 meeting date.

All the commissioners plan to some travelling, with some hardy souls planning to mix in a little work along the way.

FCC Chairman Fred Ford will squeeze in a trip to visit his in-laws in Blackstone, Mass., between testifying Aug. 10 at the Senate Commerce Committee payola legislation hearing and delivering a speech to the West Virginia Bar Assn. meeting at White Sulphur Springs on Sept. 2.

Commissioner Robert Bartley issued a statement about his vacation: "I am going to get out of Washington by automobile, but not away from communications. I have made plans to observe the tests of fm stereophonic systems, community antennas, uhf translators, uhf boosters, observe the operations of Forest Products' radio, visit our newest monitoring station, observe the St. Lawrence Seaway radio operations and Canadian marine inspection procedures, visit international telegraph station, see how bridge-to-bridge ship experiment is progressing, all of this in the northeastern part of the U.S., listen to as many radio stations as I can, watch very few repeat tv shows, and read the minimum amount I can get by on."

Commissioner Charles King who is getting a respite from a hectic first week on the job, has gone back to Detroit to wind up his affairs at the Detroit U. Law School from which he is on leave. Mr. King returns to Washington for the American Bar Assn. convention on Aug. 28.

Commissioner T.A.M. Craven is resting and relaxing at Laconia, N.H. This is a favorite spot of the commissioner and his family "with plenty of pine trees, lots of sun and good fishing."

Commissioner John Cross is heading home to Eureka Springs, Ark., where he owns the Cross Motel. During vacation periods, the commissioner likes to do odd jobs around the motel which is generally packed with Ozark tourists this time of year.

Commissioner Rosel Hyde is en route to Idaho, his home state, to visit family and friends.

Commissioner Robert E. Lee, a staunch Republican, is heading toward "Eisenhower country." The commissioner will attend a communications seminar on civil defense at Gettysburg, Pa., on Aug. 3-5.

structed prior to July 7, must apply for temporary authorization to continue operations pending compliance with new translator requirements, the FCC said.

The commission underscored the fact that it was aware of the time requirements needed by "these unauthorized repeaters" to "arrange for this transition" and said it was giving them until Oct. 31 to furnish "minimal information on a special application format being prepared for that purpose." These interim authorizations will expire Oct. 31 for stations which have operated on or before July 7. All steps needed to comply with the new translator rules must be completed by Oct. 31, according to the FCC announcement.

Owners of existing repeaters were given until Feb. 1 to apply for modification of existing equipment or for construction of a new station to meet the new commission rules.

Examiner ignored Act, tv applicant claims

Livesay Broadcasting Co., trying to get the facility of an existing station in Terre Haute, Ind., for itself by contesting its license renewal, told the FCC that it lost the initial decision when the examiner chose to repudiate the Communications Act.

Livesay, which lost the initial decision of Hearing Examiner Herbert Sharfman to existing station WTHI-TV (ch. 10), said that the decision was based on the opinion that an existing licensee "had acquired vested rights . . . and guaranteed status in the facility involved."

The applicant maintained that Mr. Sharfman's point of view seemed to be that "no mere applicant" could displace an existing station at renewal time. This notion, Livesay maintained, is contrary to the Communications Act.

Livesay is owned by J.R. Livesay, who is principal owner of WLBH-AM-FM Mattoon, Ill.

Tv applications set for hearing

Applications for ch. 3 in Salem, Ore., and ch. 12 in Wilmington, Del., were designated for consolidated hearing by the FCC last week.

For the Salem facility, the applications of Oregon Television Inc. and Willamette-Land Tv were set for hearing. Oregon Tv Inc. is owned by George Harrary and is licensee of KPTV (TV) Portland. Willamette-Land Tv is 31% owned by W. Gordon Allen who has interests in KGAL Albany-Lebanon, Ore., and KGAY Salem.

In related action, the commission denied an Oregon Tv Inc. request to modify the license of its Portland tv station to eliminate an overlap between that station and the proposed station for Salem.

For Wilmington, Del., the applications of five firms were designated for hearing: Rollins Broadcasting Inc., Wilmington Tv Co., WHYY Inc., Metropolitan Broadcasting Corp., and National Telefilm Assoc. Inc. Rollin owned 66% by Wayne Rollin owns WPTZ (TV) Plattsburgh, N.Y WEAR-TV Pensacola, Fla., and stations a few stations. Wilmington is 50% owned by George I Herrenreich, who owns KFPG Ft. Smith, Ark., and 27% owned by Richard Goodman, who has interest in WOPA-AM-TV Oak Park, Ill.

WHYY Inc., another applicant for Wilmington's ch. 12, is the licensee of WHYY-TV Philadelphia, a non-commercial tv station. Metropolis Broadcasting, headed by President John W. Kluge, owns WNEW-AM New York, WTTG (TV) Washington D.C., and WTVH (TV) Peoria, Ill.: addition to several other am station National Telefilm is 90% owned by National Theatres Inc., John Berter president, "National Theatres" own WDRA-AM-T Kansas City, Mo., at holds 90% interest in WNTA-AM-FM TV Newark, N.J. and KMSP-TV Minneapolis.

Possible violators of Sec. 317 revealed

The identity of stations possibly involved in violations of Sec. 317 of the Communications Act (sponsorship identification) is slowly becoming known.

As the FCC deals daily with a son of the 600 applications now being he up because of such possible violation conditioned grants and license renewa indicate which stations may be involved.

Grants to these stations are genera
y prefaced with the remarks, "granted... without prejudice to whatever action the commission may deem appropriate in light of any information developed in the pending inquiry concerning compliance with Sec. 317 of the Communications Act."

Latest stations to receive this preface are grant for license renewals are VAMO Homestead, WAZL-AM-FM in Hazelton, WHLM-AM-FM in Bloomsburg, WCAE and WTAE (TV) in Pittsburgh, WHGB Harrisburg, WJET Erie, WTIV Wilkes-Barre, WLBM-FM Lancaster, WPEN-AM-FM Philadelphia, all Pennsylvania, Also WMCA New York and WCTC-AM-FM New Brunswick, N.J.

In its grants to such stations, the broadcast Bureau of the commission (also uses the Sec. 317 preface. Stations noted last week were KSAN San Francisco, KDAY Santa Monica, both in California, and WJOB Hammond, Ind.

The proposed findings on Miami ch. 7 case

Protesting against a stiff FCC general counsel document which called for their disqualification because of ex parte contacts, three of the four originall applicants for Miami ch. 7 again maintained their innocence in any off-the-record representations made in their behalf.

The proposed findings of the applicants were filed with the FCC last week following a hearing last June in Philadelphia before Hearing Examiner Horace Stern. The case was returned to the commission by the surts because of ex parte contacts ade on behalf of the applicants for ch. 7.

The FCC general counsel's proposed findings asked that a January 1956 CC grant to Biscayne TV Corp. (WCTV [TV]) be set aside and found by Sunbeam TV Corp. of Philadelphia before Hearing Examiner Horace Stern. The case was returned to the commission by the surts because of ex parte contacts ade on behalf of the applicants for ch. 7.

A STRING ON JERROLD DEALS
Catv acquisitions must be court approved

A federal judge last week found Jerrold Electronics Corp., Philadelphia manufacturer of community television equipment, partially guilty of antitrust violations. Most of the company's practices between 1951 and 1954 were upheld as "not unreasonable" in the early days of the community antenna business.

The FTC complaint issued two weeks ago (Broadcasting, July 25), Glenn E. Wallichs and John K. Maitland, chairman and president respectively, said the FTC complaint names no names, no dates, no cities, nor does it state what form the alleged payola took. "We have always taken great pride in the integrity of our operation," these officials said. "As a matter of company policy, we have not and do not indulge in the practice of 'payola'. . . ."

FCC makes 102nd payola complaint

The Federal Trade Commission has issued four more payola complaints, charging that the following record companies made underworld payments to radio-disc jockeys and other station personnel to have their records played on the air: Dot Records Inc., Hollywood; John Kay Distributing Co., and Cadet Distributing Co., both Detroit; and Prestige Records Inc., Bergenfield, N.J. This marks 102 such complaints issued since the FTC began its campaign last fall.

Oral argument set on idle uhf permits

At least 23 idle uhf permits are scheduled to appear before the FCC Sept. 23 to explain why they have not started construction of their stations and why they should be allowed to retain their television construction permits.

The FCC began a "get-tough" policy with uhf permittees last February when it ordered 54 uhf stations to report on their failure to build (Broadcasting, Feb. 22). Delay in construction has

West request

A trip to Pasadena, Calif., was requested by the FCC Broadcast Bureau last week to hold the license renewal hearing of KRLA of that city "on location."

The bureau told the commission that it will "be very likely" that several witnesses residing in the Pasadena area will be called and that as the hearing progresses it will be necessary to have "available records which at the present time cannot be specified."

The commission has designated KRLA's renewal for hearing because of past programming, contests and promotions (Broadcasting, July 4).
Alpena ch. 9 grant has strings attached

The FCC told Lake Huron Broadcasting Corp. last week that it has been granted its application for a new tv station on ch. 9 in Alpena, Mich. However, it added a number of conditions which may mean that construction of the new station may take some time.

The grant was made subject to a condition that the commission may substitute another channel for ch. 9 as the result of rulemaking involving allocations for Alpena, Grand Rapids, Cadillac and Traverse City, all Michigan.

Also, the grant contains a condition that no construction will begin on the new station until the commission decides just which channel Lake Huron may use. That decision will not be made until rulemaking is completed.

In addition to these stipulations, the commission subjected the grant to one other condition. It stated that the grant was made without prejudice to whatever action the commission may deem appropriate in light of any information which might be developed in the pending inquiry concerning compliance with Sec. 317 (sponsorship identification) of the rules. (Lake Huron also operates WKNX-AM-TV Saginaw, Mich.)

Commissioner Robert E. Lee voted to make the grant without conditions. Commissioner T.A.M. Craven dissented to the condition involving Sec. 317.

In another ch. 9 decision, the commission granted the application of Liberty TV Inc., for a station in Eugene, Ore., and denied the competing application of KEED Inc. An initial decision last September looked toward this action.

FCC proposes rule on Class IV power

The FCC has taken steps to help expedite a backlog of more than 400 now-pending applications by Class IV stations to 1 kw, by moving to relax requirements which now cause automatic hearings.

The commission has announced proposed rulemaking which would permit existing Class IV am stations to increase daytime power from 250 w to 500 w or 1 kw regardless of the extent of interference caused by the increase.

Present commission rules provide for power increases of Class IV stations in excess of 250 w if interference received as the result of such increased power does not affect more than 10% of the population in its normally-protected primary service area.

The commission pointed out that the "10% provision" would still apply to... new stations regardless of their power.

In 1958, the FCC reminded, it raised the maximum power for Class IV stations to 1 kw. The 400 application backlog for power increase in "nearly all cases" for additional areas and populations would be served by such power increases, the commission reported.

ANTI-PAY TV
Exhibitors to seek petitions to Congress

A new move to kill off pay tv—on the air or by wire—is being prepared by the Joint Committee Against Pay TV. The committee is undertaking a gigantic national petition campaign against pay tv with the avowed hope of deluging Congress with 30 million signatures.

The campaign’s key move will come Aug. 15 when it will be launched in 16,000 motion picture theatres. The drive reportedly has pledged support of all motion picture exhibitors.

Sparking the move is Phil Harling, Fabian Theatres executive. Last week in New York he said the effort will take three to four weeks to reach a desired goal of 30 million signatures.

Mr. Harling is chairman of the joint committee, which includes, he said, unions, Rotary and veterans groups in addition to theatre owners. The committee is preparing some 100,000 petitions as well as cards and kits. Cards will be displayed in theatre lobbies and tables manned by “civic and community-minded” volunteers who will urge patrons and passersby to sign the petition addressed to the congressman of the district and state in which the theatre is located.

The petitions will request that Congress ban all forms of pay television, either on-the-air or wired subscription tv, and will urge passage of two pieces of legislation—HJR-130 and HR-6245—both introduced by Rep. Oren Harris, chairman of the House Interstate & Foreign Commerce Committee.

How should a station log political spots?

Westinghouse Broadcasting Co., anticipating a slew of political spot announcements in coming months, asked the FCC for clarification of the sponsorship identification rules pertaining to the logging of political broadcasts. The commission explained that FCC rule 3.111, which governs the requirements of maintaining a program log, states that with the exception of station ID announcements no reference is made to broadcast matter other than “each program broadcast.” Announcements as such are not specifically provided for and there have been several cases where the commission held that the rules do not require the logging of each individual commercial on participating commercial programs, WBC stated.

The rules also provide for a log entry briefly describing each program broadcast and further provides that if a speech is made by a candidate, the name and political affiliation shall be entered. However, Westinghouse pointed out that if a speech is one minute or less in duration it is the practice of the industry to treat it as an "announcement for descriptive, rate card and logging purposes."

FCC rejects NBC request in rep case

The FCC has slammed the door on NBC’s request for a two year transition period after judicial review for divestment by affiliated stations of network sales representation.

The commission remained firm on giving the network two years to divest regardless of judicial review. NBC has argued that its affiliates need two years after judicial review since changing representatives is a long and costly process and that most of its affiliates would stay with the network until the case is finally resolved if the rule was changed. Under present rules, NBC has until Dec. 31, 1961 to make divestment.

NBC and four affiliates, KOA-TV Denver, KSD-TV St. Louis; WAVE-TV Louisville; and WRGB (TV) Schenectady, are appealing the case to the courts (Broadcasting, June 20).

Government briefs

Lack of ID • KBUH Brigham City, Utah, was reminded by the FCC last week of the provisions of Sec. 317 a the result of broadcasting programs in behalf of the Thiokol Chemical Corp during periods preceding National Labor Relations Board elections.

Band splitting • A plan to make 14 more frequencies available to the local government radio service has been advanced by the FCC. In a notice of proposed rulemaking, the commission proposed splitting of the 150.8-152 m band in the public safety radio service and making the resultant 16 frequencies, between 150.999-151.475 m available to local government radio service. Since the commission does not propose to eliminate or amend preser conditions normally attached to such frequency usage, it specifically seek comments on the issue. Deadline for comments is Sept. 15.

Grants protest • A protest lodged b WWLP (TV) Springfield, Mass., was granted by the FCC last week. The station protested an application by WNHC (TV) New Haven, Conn., to change its transmitter location and increase antenna height. In granting WWLP’s protest, the commission denied the WNHC application with commissioners T.A.M. Craven and Jon S. Cross dissenting. In a related action the commission dismissed WWLP’s petition to withdraw action and deny requests by WNHC to take official notice of certain applications filed by WWLP.

Baseball wrangle • The FCC has thrown a dispute between two Lexin ton, Ky., tv stations over the airing - CBS’ Game of the Week event between the protests. WHAS-TV and WKY TV became embroiled over the refusal of WHAS-TV to grant WKY-TV permission to rebroadcast the Game in means of off-the-air pickup of the WHAS-TV signal. WKY-TV petitioned the FCC for a cease and desist order. The commission said that a hearing is required and that the two stations have 15 days to “reconcile their differences and respond.”

No move • A request by WHYZ-Duluth, Minn., to move its studio transmitter location was refused by the FCC. The ch. 10 facility had asked that the grant be made without hearing and further asked for change in antenna system and height. The station’s petition continues in hearing.

Back in court • Philco Corp. has again gone to the U.S. Court of Appeals over an FCC dismissal of its petition for reinstatement of the license renewal.
NBC's WRCV-AM-TV Philadelphia. The FCC earlier in July refused to hold an evidentiary hearing on its 1957 license renewals of the NBC stations and dismissed a protest filed by Philco (Broadcasting, July 11). The court of appeals in 1958 upheld the Philco protest and remanded the case to the FCC. Philco again told the court that the FCC grant causes "undue concentration" of control in mass communications by NBC.

Proposed change A proposal to change its rules to specify a single level or allowable noise and hum in am transmitters has been advanced by the FCC. The change would specify that noise be at least 45 decibels below 00% modulation. Such a move, the commission stated, would minimize the need for complex measuring equipment and permit more uniformity in making measurements to determine the compliance. Comments on its proposal are invited and an Aug. 22 deadline has been set for such comments.

Argues back KMA Shenandoah, Iowa, last week answered FCC objections to its application for license renewal. The commission contended that the May Broadcasting Co, licensee of KMA, was in violation of mileage separation rules for multiple station owners since it also owns 48.86% of KFAB Omaha, Neb. KMA, in argument before the commission, stated it does not serve Omaha in any way. The station admitted to a certain amount of overlap, but states that in terms of "listening audience" such overlap is negligible. It further stated that minority interest was not sufficient to violate the mileage separation rules and that there was no "undue concentration" involved. May Broadcasting is also licensee of KMTV (TV) Omaha.

Common antenna site The FCC has granted three Sacramento-Stockton, Calif., TV stations a common antenna site about 22 miles south of Sacramento and 20 miles north of Stockton. The three, KCRA (TV) (ch. 3); KXTV (TV) (ch. 10); both Sacramento; and KOVR (TV) (ch. 13), Stockton. The grants are condition to KOVR dismantling its old tower and KCRA-TV reducing its old tower to a height not to exceed 200 ft. FCC also said that the three grants are without prejudice to any action it may take in the pending inquiry on compliance with Sec. 317.

Authority lacking The FCC does not have the authority to grant an additional two-years' grace for TV stations to continue to be represented by NBC Spot Sales, station representative Edward Petry & Co. said. NBC and four of the stations it represents had asked the commission to stay the divestment order, issued last fall, until Dec. 31, 1963. The stations represented by NBC now have until Dec. 31, 1961, to find new reps. In comments filed on the stay request, Petry said the question should have been raised in petitions for reconsideration—which were denied April 19—and now can be taken up only in new rulemaking.

INTERNATIONAL

ONTARIO LIQUOR ADS STARTED

Prohibition ends on radio-tv in province

Radio and television stations are authorized to carry licensed liquor advertising in Ontario. The new Ontario Liquor Control Board of ethics goes into effect after radio and television today (Aug. 1), for newspapers on Sept. 1, and for magazines and transportation media on Nov. 1.

The new code is to control an estimated $40 million in advertising placed by Ontario breweries, distilleries and inners. Much of this was placed in 'nited States radio and television stations close to the international border, specially in Buffalo, N.Y., and Detroit, Mich. There is expected to be a decline in advertising with Ontario beverage interests now being able to place advertising on Ontario stations. Some S. S. advertising is expected to be continued, but changed to meet restrictions on the Ontario Liquor Control Board's code. Beverage companies have been warned that advertising outside Ontario which violates the Ontario code, may result in the companies being blacklisted with the Ontario Liquor Control board, the only buying agency in the province.

All advertising continuity for the me being must be approved by the Ontario Liquor Control Board, and for idio and television is to be confined to a announcement before and after a program naming the sponsor. Programs must be of at least 10 minutes duration. No devices may be used to advertise the product directly or indirectly. Changes may be made for television advertising later when the Canadian Board of Broadcast Governors sets regulations for such advertising on television.

West Germany to have 'semi-commercial' tv

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer last week personally solved the long-time debate about a second television service for West Germany. In a move that drew quick criticism from labor leaders, churchmen, Social Democrats and state governments, the chancellor established German Television Ltd., a semi-commercial operation. Capital stock for the new outlet will be divided between the federal government and West Germany's 11 state governments on a 12-11 ratio. The new tv service is to start Jan. 1, 1961.

Objection of the state governments to Chancellor Adenauer's action of last week apparently stems from their concern over their constitutionally-guaranteed sovereignty in cultural affairs. Several religious denominations have expressed fears that commercial tv would lower the moral climate of the country.

The present five-year old tv service in West Germany programs just six hours daily with production on a cooperative basis by the country's seven state-owned tv authorities.

Plans for German Television Ltd. will allow advertisers to purchase up to 10% of the company's air time but have no voice in programming. Spot public service programs and one daily news show will be provided by the company. Private production firms will sell packages to fill the rest of the transmission time.

Abroad in brief

Study group Special committee to consider all aspects of future radio-tv in Britain has been set up by the Postmaster General. Sir Harry Pilkington, industrialist, heads the group which will consider which services should be provided by the tax-supported British Broadcasting Corp. and which services should be rendered by the Independent Television Authority (commercial).

Among other subjects on the committee agenda: subscription television, closed circuit tv and the control of a third television service in Britain.

Legitimate monopoly Italy's constitutional court has ruled that the present government monopoly in radio-tv is legitimate and simultaneously rejected attempts of two private financial groups in Rome and Milan to set up "free" tv outlets.

UAR tv United Arab Republic on July 21 commenced its first television service from Cairo. Inaugural show included an address by President Nasser.

Roy M. Malone elected vp of CJME Regina, Sask.

Jacques Arial, formerly of CHLR Quebec, Que., to manager of new Quebec office of Schneider Cardon Ltd., Montreal advertising agency.
CBS Radio’s puzzles

What’s in a name? The question forms the basis for a booklet of puzzles designed to illustrate the lineup of CBS Radio’s personalities and programs. The series of 26 puzzles is called “a game of fun and profit for advertisers.” Each puzzle consists of a “formula” of letters and various objects, plus blank spaces to fill in the correct answer. A brief description of the person or program is included as well as an identifying picture. CBS Radio admits the test is easy, “but in any case, everyone wins, because if you didn’t already know that some of the stars were here, think of the educational value (and along the way, you may find just the solution to a media-buying problem, neatly turning education to profit).”

The mail must go through

A new tv series, Pony Express, seen on WBTW (TV) Florence, S.C., got a boost from its sponsor and from the U.S. Post Office last month. On July 19, the Post Office issued a Pony Express commemorative U.S. postage stamp in Sacramento, Calif. The stamp was issued in connection with the 1960 centennial celebration of the historic postal service.

Sponsors of WBTW’s series, a cooperative of area electric companies, issued a mailing with a “first day” cancellation as an invitation to watch the series. A card enclosed in the cancelled envelope stated that the stamp and envelope were due to become collector’s items if they remained intact.

‘Little League’ golf

A “little league of golf,” sponsored by WIP Philadelphia, got underway last week at two Philadelphia-area country clubs. A total of 80 youngsters in two divisions competed in the semi-finals, and the two low scorers in each division will compete later this month for trophies and prizes.

This is the first time that WIP has sponsored the tourney. The Metropolitan Broadcasting Company’s station hopes to make the Junior Golf Tournament an annual affair.

The tourney is administered by a committee consisting of Jim Leaming, WIP sports director, Gene Milner, WIP air personality, and Jonny Yocum, Galen Hall Golf Course pro.

Cartoon contest

With the start of Q. T. Hush, Private Eye, five-minute cartoon series, on KJH-TV Los Angeles as a part of Engineer Bill’s Cartoon Express program (Mon.-Fri., 6:30-7 p.m.), M&A Alexander Productions, distributor of the series, also started a contest for young viewers. They are asked to write their names and addresses on post cards and send them to the station. Five cards are drawn from the bunch each night and dolls, games or toys are awarded the lucky youngsters. These cards are then put in a separate group from which the grand prizes, a boy’s bicycle and a girl’s bike, will be awarded at the end of the four-week period. Program and contest began July 18. At the end of a week more than 9,000 cards had been received. If the promotion proves successful at KJH-TV, it may be extended to other markets.

WPOP’s big picnic

A fireworks display of WPOP Hartford’s call letters signaled with dramatic flourish the end of the WPOP family outing and picnic on July 7 at Riverside Park, an amusement ground some 15 miles from Hartford. More than 30,000 listeners attended the outing, after writing to the station for free admission tickets. Each person received a free hot dog and a bottle of soda, all rides at the park were half- price and bus transportation was provided for those without cars. WPOP personalities and recording stars offered entertainment throughout the day. The station also gave away radios, bicycles and one automobile.

Drumbeats

Center ring = WCBS New York sent seven of its personalities to share ringmaster duties last week at a shopping-center circus. The Valley Fair Department Store in Hillsdale, N.J., staged the event, featuring clowns, animals and aerialists to promote its annual summer festival sale. Alternating ringmasters from WCBS were Jack Sterling, Lanny Ross, Allen Gray, Dick Noel, Lee Jordan, Stan Freeman and Ed Joyce.

24 hours a day

Cleveland residents can now get a one-minute capsule of the news over the telephone (thanks to WERE, that city), and Philadelphians can now get daily dinner menu suggestions the same way (thanks to WCAU there). WERE’s “Dial-A-News” service operates 24 hours daily, with station newsmen recording new summaries as major stories break.

WCAU’s “Dinner Bell” features John Trent of the Housewives Protective League. His menus include plugs for WCAU food advertisers.

under permit here granted until further order of commission to be issued subsequent to conclusion of proceeding and specification of either ch. 9 or such other channel as may be specified in it in latter docket as channel on which Lake Huron shall operate, and (2) without action of commission may deem appropriate in light of any information developed in pending inquiry concerning compliance with sec. 317 of Communications Act, Comr. Lee voted to grant without conditions; Comr. Craven dissented to latter condition. Ann. July 27.

By order, commission (1) denied exception filed by KCRA Inc. (KCRA) Sacramento, Calif., and (2) made effective March 29 initial decision and granted application of Leo Banoz, Bestg. Co., for new am station to operate on 1300 kc, 500 w, d, in Los Banos, Calif.; engineering condition, Comr. King not participating. Ann. July 27.

INITIAL DECISION

Hearing Examiner Basil P. Cooper issued initial decision looking toward granting applications of Eastern States Bestg. Corp. to change location of station WSNJ-FM Bridgeton, N.J., from 98.9 mc to 107.7 mc and increase ERP from 9 kw to 15.2 kw, Bulletin Co. for new class B fm station to operate on 98.9 mc, ERP 4.8 kw and ant. height 840 ft., in Philadelphia, Pa., condition that program tests will not be authorized until WSNJ-FM fulfills program tests on 107.7 mc and license to Bulletin Co. not be issued until WSNJ-FM is licensed on 107.7 mc; and Pillar of Fire Inc., to increase radiated power of WAWZ-FM Zarephath, N.J., from 4.8 kw to 20 kw, operating on 99.3 mc. Ann. July 27.

OTHER ACTIONS

Commission invited comments by Aug. 22 to proposed rulemaking to amend sec. 3.40 to specify single level for allowable noise and hum in am transmitters that such levels may be at least 3 decibels below 100% modulation for such transmitters. This proposal would minimize need for complex measuring equipment and permit more uniformity in making measurements to determine rule compliance. Ann. July 21.

By memorandum opinion and order, commission denied petition by Radio Station KBLA for waiver of sec. 1.354(c) to permit expedited consideration of its application for mod. of cp of KBLA Burbank, Calif., to change from DA-1 to DA-2, on 1500 kc, 15 kw, unl. (Station is licensed on 1490 kc, 200 w, unl.)

By memorandum opinion and order, commission denied request by Ridge Radio Corp. for reconsideration and oral argument directed against April 27 action which (1) denied Ridge request to consolidate its application for new am station to operate on 1260 kc, 2 kw, d, in Windber, Pa., in hearing with other mutually exclusive applications and (2) dismissed Ridge application for untimely filing. Ann. July 21.

By orders, commission granted petition by Marlette Bestg. Corp. to change location WZKRO-TV, ch. 10, Bakersfield, Calif., to extent of extending time from Aug. 8 to Sept. 6 for filing comments and from Aug. 22 to Sept. 21 for reply comments in tv rulemaking affecting Bakersfield, Calif., and granted KERO-TV petition for extension of time to respond to related show cause order to Sept. 6. Comrs. Bartley and Lee dissented to extension of time. Ann. July 21.

By memorandum opinion and order, commission denied petition by KERO-TV to set aside or suspend show cause order and rendered moot its request for stay of requirement to respond to that order by Aug. 8, Ann. July 21.

By report and order, commission finalized rulemaking and amended sec. 3.71, 3.261 and 3.263 of its rules governing minimum operating requirements for broadcast stations so as to (1) enable daytime-only am stations to sign-off air at 6 p.m., and (2) not require notification by am, fm and tv stations of operation stoppages because of technical difficulties when such stoppages occur.

VALUES GIVEN ARE FOR CLASS C OSCILLATOR, RF POWER AMPLIFIER
OUR RESPECTS TO . . .

Alvin Earl Unger

Alvin E. Unger one day this summer after 55 minutes with a prospective client emerged with his signature on a contract to sponsor a filmed series.

An easy sale, Mr. Unger admits, but one that took more than 55 minutes: "I was busy for three exhausting hours beforehand meticulously gathering all the facts there were. After I got back to my hotel that afternoon I sprawled across the bed utterly fatigued."

This is how Al Unger, vice president in charge of syndication at Independent Television Corp., New York, works. As Mr. Unger philosophizes: "The easy sale usually is the one on which you work the hardest."

As a trained sales expert who can be considered an authority and pioneer in tv syndication, Mr. Unger sparked a sales unit at Ziv to which he devoted a substantial part of his career. With colleagues there, Al Unger got across a new image for syndication salesmen. In early radio years, he recalls radio transcription salesmen had a poor reputation: "Stations would be urged to lock everything up and to send all the girls home before the transcription salesman got into town."

Serious Sell Mr. Unger helped change all this. At Ziv he, along with others, established a sales training program that discarded hit-and-miss selling for seriousness: "The salesmen with Mr. Unger would tell their colleagues, 'must represent the company'on the road he's often the company." By early 1949, Ziv had a training schedule down on paper blocking out a full week's attendance. Today it still is used by many syndicators as basic to training programs.

Given typical home-grown advice, Mr. Unger tells his new sales people that they are being hired as "'account executives' and when you bring in your first sale, you'll qualify to earn the title of 'salesman.'" Mr. Unger says salesman with a reverence applied to the profession over a 20-year period of dedication.

Alvin Earl Unger was born in Cincinnati on Sept. 29, 1911, was educated in local schools and attended U. of Cincinnati night classes.

Even then he showed grit and tenacity. In 1928 he graduated from high school having established himself as the only circulation manager for the class annual who could claim to have oversold (actually an excess in money).

At night, Mr. Unger studied business administration and merchandising while during the day he was a shipping clerk at a specialty store. When he became a window trimmer that job took up many nights and he had to stop his study.

In 1933, Mr. Unger had progressed from Cincinnati to Indianapolis to become a store superintendent and a year later was back home as a fur salesman, followed later by a stint selling soft drink franchises. In the fall of 1939 Alvin E. Unger went to the Frederic W. Ziv Co. as a salesman. In early 1941, he became sales manager and a year later vice president in charge of sales. In 1943 he left for three years in the army as an artillery master sergeant in the European Theatre of Operations.

Sales Saddle Back from the war he was assigned in 1945 to open and operate Ziv's first radio office in Chicago. In October 1948 he was transferred to New York where Ziv had purchased World Broadcasting (transcriptions) and was sampling tv syndication. He was in New York for three years, returning to Cincinnati in 1951 and becoming in the fall of 1955 vice president in charge of radio and tv in Chicago.

In August 1958 he resigned his Ziv post and after a short rest was back in the sales saddle again as general manager of administration in New York for Independent Television Corp.'s subsidiary Arrow Productions. A year later he took over special projects for ITC and in 1959 was elected vice president in charge of syndication, a post which brought him deeper into policy.

In Mr. Unger's eye, the syndication chief ought to keep in touch with his market. He says it is "dangerous" to anchor oneself in New York, that one must get out to talk to advertisers and stations over the country. Immobility, he explains, leads to a "narrow perspective." To widen his, only this summer he devoted six weeks to frequent hotel trips (including selling trips).

Image Factor The chief ought to keep up with television stations, he has found, now seek an image as well as ratings, citing ITC's remarkable reception for its syndicated Ding Dong School. Stations, he continues, want quality series but ones that fit in with a station policy—they may not seek to buy product only for ratings.

Away from his office in the Look Bldg. on Madison Ave., Mr. Unger commutes to a suburban Long Island home (at Manhasset). He bowls a little to tone up physically, is an ex-golfer who is partial to the Caribbean, (Nassau, Jamaica, etc.) for holidaying with Mrs. Unger, the former Suzanne Langan of Cincinnati to whom he was married in 1937 (they have two children, Mike, 16, and Holly, 9).

Mr. Unger remembers his first broadcast sale to a furniture retailer in Paducah, Ky., in December 1939 and can recite price, episodes and title and other details of the transcription program deal. And he recalls the many which followed, even one in Detroit where a brewing company as a gag had an actor pose as an official hard of hearing who during the presentation kept asking Mr. Unger to turn up the volume until the dialogue and the program itself became "indistinguishable." There was another in which the advertiser (a woman) took ill and retired to her boudoir taking with her a retinue of officials. Equipment was set up and the presentation made and contract signed by a client sitting up in bed.

Fate of the post-'48's

Whether there will be a flood is a question that may be argued both ways, but there is no question about Warner Bros., having gouged out the biggest hole thus far made in the dam that has been holding post-1948 motion pictures away from television.

There have been some substantial leaks in the dam before, but Warners is the first of the present-day Hollywood majors to breach it. The precedent of the mid-1950s, coupled with Hollywood's historic respect for the big buck, makes it easy to think that other major producers will soon be in line offering at least some of their own post-1948 product to stations and advertisers. Indeed, 20th Century-
Fox already is moving quietly in that direction.

There is much less certainty, however, about the volume of post-48 films that will be offered. If we read the signs correctly, stations would lose nothing by going on the assumption that the "new" movies will not be swampinc them in the carload lots that were common when the pre-1948 dam broke in 1955 and 1956. The majors are apt to be more cautious this time—and certainly the packages will be more expensive.

There are several reasons to expect the majors to move more slowly this time. Quite likely they will probe around, at least at first, to see how many features the market can absorb. In many areas the market is relatively tight; many substantial users of feature films are in no hurry to add new titles, even post-1948 editions, to what they already have.

Pay television is bound to be another factor. It must be clear now that pay tv's potential for the movies will not rival free television's any time soon. But moviemen haven't given up on it, either.

Their dilemma, then, has three horns. They must try to avoid
(1) glutting the market and driving down prices; (2) wait-ting too long and missing television sales that could be made now, and (3) not waiting long enough to enjoy the returns from pay tv if it comes.

Nobody's business but their own

More and more it appears that the federal government wants to be the program director of the American broadcasting system.

Take the case of the FCC's telegram to three Little Rock, Ark., television stations last week.

Acting upon one complaint from a Republican resident of Little Rock, the commission majority advised the stations that they were wrong in broadcasting local political programs instead of the Republican national convention on the eve of the Arkansas primary.

The FCC said it appeared that the stations had violated the fairness provision of the political broadcasting law by carrying full coverage of the Democratic convention two weeks before and rejecting one night of the Republican convention last week. The commission said it recognized that the Arkansas primary had local importance but not enough to justify eliminating part of the Republican convention in favor of programs featuring candidates on whom Arkansas viewers would be voting the next day.

We find here the spectacle of seven members of a federal agency deciding what Arkansas viewers ought to see. It is precisely the kind of spectacle that the writers of the First Amendment thought they had permanently outlawed.

The four Republican commission members who voted to send the telegram have obviously accepted the concept that the FCC is empowered to determine what kind of a political program is suitable for Little Rock.

The two Democrats who dissented indicated no objection to that view. They reached judgments favoring the stations, but to do so they had first to accept the principle that they and their fellows were in a position to judge whether the stations were right or wrong.

The third Democrat issued a separate statement con-curring with the commission's decision to ask the stations for an explanation but saying he felt the FCC had inadequate facts upon which to base its assumption that the stations had been unfair.

Plainly the FCC's acceptance of its role as political program manager of 5,000 broadcasting stations is unanimous.

In fairness we must say that the role has been thrust upon the FCC, although we have noticed few signs of any struggle to reject it.

It is the U.S. Congress that has kept the FCC in the program manager's chair. By stubbornly retaining some of the controls of Sec. 315, the political broadcasting law, the congress has insisted that the FCC meddle in editorial decisions that properly belong to the broadcasters them-

Some broadcasters—but not enough—have made valiant efforts to obtain repeal of Sec. 315. These efforts have achieved some relief in the amendment of 1959 and they promise more in the probable suspension of the law as it pertains to presidential and vice presidential candidates during this campaign, a measure that has passed the Senate and is expected to get through the House after the recess.

But until Sec. 315 is entirely off the books, the FCC will continue to get into the act as it did in Little Rock last week. We would think more of the commission if it showed more signs of wishing to stay in the wings, and we would be prouder of some broadcasters if they joined their fellows in the long struggle for repeal of Sec. 315.

The renewed fight for repeal of the political broadcasting law must await the seating of a new congress next year.
Meanwhile, broadcasters must do as alert and adu a job of political journalism as was done on the two party conventions.

The job will not be easy. It is plain that both parties intend to take their campaigns to the air. The struggle for position on television and radio will be intense. If broadcasters handle political presentations with editorial vigor and intelligence, they will compile a record of accomplishment on which to base their case for full freedom.
