Future book

Astute observers of television network programming plans report that there now are enough scripts or pilots committed for 1964-65 to program all three networks’ nighttime schedules that season—given general expectation of carryovers from this coming season. That’s one side of coin, however. Other: More than half of commitments won’t materialize on schedules, and new deals will be made. But already it’s obvious that networks are committing earlier than ever in continuing effort to minimize rise of new program development by taking time to polish products before they reach air. Wrapup of some pilots will come as soon as middle or end of December.

From early sketches on drawing board, it would appear that in 1964-65 situation comedies will continue in half-hour format, with one-hour and occasional 90-minute lengths reserved for thrillers and adventures. Emphasis is still on all types of private eyes, with trend toward international intrigue. Latter interest has been sparked by boxoffice success of “Dr. No,” motion picture that dramatizes adventures of James Bond, British Secret Service agent in Ian Fleming’s novels.

Reinsch appointment due

Expected soon is formal announcement of appointment of J. Leonard Reinsch, executive director of Cox broadcasting stations, as executive director of 1964 Democratic national convention. Mr. Reinsch in past few weeks has participated in conferences at White House and Democratic National Committee on convention plans, and on Aug. 21 will make another trip to Atlantic City to meet with networks on arrangements for coverage of convention which begins Aug. 24, 1964.

Mr. Reinsch was executive director of both 1956 and 1960 conventions and has been associated with Democratic political convention and campaign activities since 1944. He handled arrangements for “Great Debates” between candidates Kennedy and Nixon in 1960 campaign.

Sweeney keeps pay-out

Kinks that had developed in administration of former president Kevin B. Sweeney’s deferred-compensation agreement with Radio Advertising Bureau appeared to have been smoothed out last week. They were subject of special meeting Monday in New York between Mr. Sweeney, now president of KGLM and KJAY (both Denver), and RAB’s executive committee headed by Harold Kreelstein of Plough Inc. Under agreement reached before he left RAB last Feb. 28, Mr. Sweeney is to get contract as consultant for about eight years—pay under total payment of some $90,000, with customary proviso that he not compete with RAB during that period. Details reportedly were worked out in Monday’s meeting.

Reports that executive committee admonished Mr. Sweeney against publicly criticizing RAB were discounted. Subject did come up, based on speech he made—just three days before—letting RAB’s current plans for $200,000 radio audience research methodology study (BROADCASTING, Aug. 5). He reportedly assured committee that in same speech he also said it was only one he’d be making for long time.

Proof of performance

Exploration of new, uniform system in certifying performance of stations’ spot TV schedules may get another go-round within next few weeks by informal agency-advertiser-broadcaster group. First such session was held late last June (BROADCASTING, July 1) at invitation of Newman F. McEvoy, senior vice president at Cunningham & Walsh, New York. Several agency-advertiser participants then met with broadcast representatives in general discussion of how certification of spot TV schedules could be improved. Some agencies have been thinking along lines of uniform system set up and paid for by broadcasters.

Drop-in precedent?

Recent action of FCC in approving short-sparse operation of ch. 5 koco-tv Enid by authorizing removal to Oklahoma City antenna farm could but does not necessarily portend new majority on FCC in favor of shorter space drop-ins. FCC voted 5-1 for move (BROADCASTING, July 29) but did so because previous standard separation action would have reduced KOCO’s coverage both in Oklahoma City and Enid due to limitation on antenna height required by Civil Aeronautics Board. It’s contended that action establishes no drop-in precedent since FCC previously had authorized short-space move for two stations in Albany, N.Y., area—WFTN (tv) and WAST (tv) as well as WTEV (tv) New Bedford- Providence.

Not directly affected by Oklahoma City action are seven drop-ins of new station’s schedule in early months to be considered when FCC reconvenes in fall. Oral arguments on these drop-ins have been set for Oct. 4 at request of new Commissioner Lee Loevinger, who then would be qualified to vote. Prior to that argument, FCC must act on motion filed by Association of Maximum Service Telecasters to fore- stall participation in these cases by Commissioner Ken Cox because of his prior status as Broadcast Bureau chief. At last level, betting is that Commissioner Cox won’t disqualify himself and won’t be disqualified. Fact that Chairman E. William Henry and Commissioner Robert T. Bartley, who previously had voted against drop-ins, voted for short separation move-in for KOCO-tv has both sides wondering.

Deals all over

Five separately owned television stations—two in South and one each in Rocky Mountain area and East and West Coasts—involved total outlay of about $25 million in negotiations in next few weeks. Last west negotiations were in progress for sale of properties (of which four are VHF) with prospects that transfer applications might be ready when FCC reconvenes after Labor Day.

Graham’s legacy

Philip L. Graham, brilliant young president of Washington Post Co. (wtop-AM-FM-tv Washington; wjxt (tv) Jacksonville), who ended his life Aug. 3, figured importantly behind scenes in broadcast affairs. Although he left operations of Post-Newswave stations to John S. Hayes, president of broadcast division and chairman of Washington Post Co. executive committee, Mr. Graham frequently participated in policy discussions with important personages, both inside government and in industry.

LeRoy Collins overtakes his selection as president of National Association of Broadcasters to Mr. Graham. Both Floridians, Mr. Graham proposed Gov. Collins for NAB presidency and largely ramrodded appointment through NAB selection committee in late 1960—after death of former NAB president, Harold E. Fellows.

Magazine concept

As part of biggest advertising and promotion campaign in its history, ABC-TV has bought 10 pages in September Reader’s Digest to promote its new fall program schedule and especially its 14 new nighttime shows. It’s said to be biggest consecutive-page, non-insert ad Digest ever carried. Cost, estimated at about $385,000, is being paid by ABC-TV in addition to other promotion activities including contributions to affiliates’ co-op advertising in newspapers and TV Guide.
The Flagship and The Saint

With only a single hour of available time and a choice of all the one-hour series now being offered, WNBC-TV, New York, flagship station of the NBC-TV network, bought THE SAINT, starring Roger Moore.

PETER M. AFFE, station manager WNBC-TV, tells why...

"This brand new series seems ideal for Sunday night on our station... its singularly skillful, fast-paced, professional series with just about universal appeal."

Mr. Abe Mandell
Executive Vice-President
Independent Television Corp.
555 Madison Avenue
New York 22, New York

Dear Abe:

I think you know how pleased we are that THE SAINT is joining us this Fall. This brand new series seems ideal for Sunday night on our station.

WNBC-TV proved last season that in the 11:15 PM Sunday night period an hour-long dramatic feature could gain an impressive audience (and advertiser) following in competition with the movies generally shown at that time. After intensive investigation, we concluded that THE SAINT represents the soundest successor to "Desilu Playhouse" and the strongest most logical addition to a Fall schedule that we consider our most exciting in years.

Our choice was, of course, based in large measure on the wide popularity of THE SAINT -- well-established through million-dollar sales of Leslie Charteris's many books about him, the years on radio, ten full-length feature films, world wide syndication in newspapers and magazines -- as well as the inherent attractiveness of the character as portrayed by Roger Moore and the final, compelling fact that this is a singularly skillful, fast-paced, professional series with just about universal TV appeal.

All of us at WNBC-TV are enthusiastic about the addition of THE SAINT. We anticipate that Sunday nights on WNBC-TV will be even more successful than ever in the coming season.

Sincerely,

PETER M. AFFE
Station Manager

WE ANSWERED OUR OWN QUESTION!

This ad posed a question of its readers last February. We'd like to tell you the result of the WTIC-TV documentary which alerted viewers to the fact that youngsters were becoming drug addicts through easy-to-obtain cough medicines, available without prescription. Before the 1963 Connecticut General Assembly adjourned, it enacted legislation which now makes it virtually impossible for persons to purchase such preparations without a physician's prescription. In fact, Governor John N. Dempsey stated that the program, "in no small measure was responsible for this law." So we'd like to answer our own question. It seems to us that one measure of a broadcasting station is the positive action its programs inspire.

BOOM FALLS ON THREE N.Y. STATIONS

Examiner finds hidden ownership and misrepresentation

FCC hearing examiner Friday (Aug. 9) recommended revocation of construction permit, denial of license renewal, denial of application for change in facilities and denial of application for new facilities, all involving three New York state stations.

In initial decision, Hearing Examiner Herbert Sharfman recommended that construction permit of WIZR Johnstown be revoked; that license renewal of WSPN Saratoga Springs be denied; that request of WSPN to change facilities be denied and that application of WSRA Saratoga Springs to move to Troy, N.Y., be denied. Both Saratoga Springs stations are dark.

Involved are character qualifications of Martin A. Karig. Mr. Sharfman found that Mr. Karig failed to keep FCC informed of his interests in these stations and continued to hold them after he had been told to dispose of all but one. He was found to own Johnstown with partial ownership in two Saratoga Springs outlets.

WSRA applied for new facility on 900 kc in Troy, allowing wspn to take over its present 120 kc frequency at Saratoga Springs. WSPN is now on 900 kc in that city. WSPN also applied for renewal of license.

Examiner Sharfman found that Mr. Karig’s interest in two Saratoga Springs stations were in violation of FCC rules prohibiting ownership of more than one facility in same community. He also found that Mr. Karig also misrepresented finances of wsra and applicant’s ability to construct.

When Mr. Karig acquired 50% interest in wsra permission was based on condition that he dispose of his 12.5% of wspn, however, he also was creditor to extent of $6,369 and had option to buy 76 shares more (positive control). Mr. Karig failed to inform FCC of facts, and continued to hold these interests in WSPN, examiner said.

Mr. Karig had become sole source of operating capital for both WSPN and WSRA, and continued to be prime adviser on stations’ business, examiner ruled.

House unit agrees on tax reductions

Revisions of tax laws given tentative agreement by House Ways and Means Committee Friday (Aug. 9) would mean savings for individuals and corporations in broadcasting.

Fifty-two percent tax on corporate income would be cut to 48%. Tax rates for individuals would be reduced from present 20-91% to 15-75%.

Committee already had tentatively agreed on provision for income averaging to help those who make sizable money all at once but face years of substantially less income. New amendment on that provision would exempt income earned on wagering; earlier committee said income from gifts or bequests would not be eligible either.

Pulse asked about unpublished surveys

Southern Nevada Broadcasters Association has asked The Pulse Inc. for “full and detailed explanation” of reason why last three Pulse surveys of Henderson-Las Vegas area have been “scrapped.”

Neveda broadcasters noted that Pulse surveys for December 1962, April 1963 and July 1963 were never published and said it is “time we find out just exactly why.” Joseph W. McMurray, KORK Las Vegas, president of SNBA, asked Pulse President Sydney Roslow that diaries and other pertinent information be made available for “our examination so that we might determine just what the discrepancies are.” Last published Pulse survey of area was in June 1962.

Other stations signing letter to Pulse were KTOO Henderson and KLUC, KVEG, KRAM, KLAS and KENO, all Las Vegas.

General Mills sponsors Winter Olympics on NBC

General Mills will sponsor NBC Radio’s 12-day coverage of 1964 International Winter Olympics. Network plans 100 five-minute reports from Austria, where games will be held.

Advance broadcasts from Olympic site will be carried starting Jan. 25, four days before reports of actual games begin. Programs will be aired between 8 and 9 p.m. weekdays and throughout Monitor program over weekend. Knox Reeves, Minneapolis, is agency.

Chunky buys spots on ABC-TV

Chunky Corp., Brooklyn, has purchased participations in four ABC-TV programs: Trail Master, Price Is Right, Beany and Cecil and Discovery, to advertise its Chunky, Bit-O-Honey, Kit Kat and Chocolate Sponge candy bars. Spot TV will be used in major markets. J. Walter Thompson, New York, is agency.

Screen Actors receive peak residuals for July

Residual payments for TV reruns distributed to members by Screen Actors Guild reached all-time high of $861,521 in July, 42% above July 1962.

For first nine months of SAG’s fiscal year, TV residuals totaled $5,600,577, up 28% from like period of last year. Current fiscal year residuals are expected to exceed 1962’s $6,052,665.

Covering TV entertainment films only, these residuals do not include payments for theatrical movies shown on television or fees for reuse of filmed TV commercials.

Set makers cooperating on all band units: Lee

Television set manufacturers appear to be cooperating fully with spirit of all-channel set law which goes into effect April 30, 1964, FCC Commissioner Robert E. Lee said Friday (Aug. 9) in talk before public relations institute of American Bar Association in Chicago. He said he has been talking to nearly all manufacturers and no one is attempting to circumvent law which will require all new TV sets in U.S. to tune full VHF and UHF channel range.

During panel discussion on how ABA can improve its public relations through more effective use of radio and TV, Joe Baisch, WREX-TV Rockford, Ill., noted that broadcasters and bar have somewhat common problem of “tarnished” public image. He said “we need each other’s mutual shoulder of support and cooperation.” Others on Friday panel included Ben...

Quaker Oats Company's towering elevators hold about 10 million bushels of grain. They're part of the world's largest oatery—20 buildings on 15 acres in downtown Cedar Rapids. Grain purchases amounted to about $30,000,000 in a recent year.

On any given day some 75% of the families in the U. S. have one or more Quaker Oats Co. products in their pantries. Besides world-famous Quaker Oats oatmeal, the company's ready-to-eat cereals include Puffed Wheat and Rice, Muffets, Pack-O-Ten and Life Cereal. The firm name is connected with more than 200 different food, feed, pet food and chemical products. Worldwide sales last year were $564,693,000. The Cedar Rapids plant alone employs 1,275 people.

Next time you think of Iowa only as the place where tall corn grows, think again. It's the place where farming is certainly important—but manufacturing produces five times as much personal income (about $5 billion vs. $1 billion annually).

For Courage and Devotion

Telephone men and women fulfill a long tradition

Kenneth E. Ferguson, Installer-Repairman, Newport News, Virginia. On route to a repair job, he came upon a burning house where a blind, bedridden woman lay helpless. Ripping out a window, he and a policeman entered the flaming room. They were forced out by intense heat and smoke. Mr. Ferguson ran to a nearby house for blankets, wrapped in wet blankets, the two re-entered and rescued the woman.

Leonard C. Jones, Supplies Serviceman, Morgantown, West Virginia. He noticed a neighboring house on fire. Rushing to it, he helped a father rescue three young children. Then he plunged back into the burning building and, guided only by cries through the choking smoke, found and saved another child who was hiding under a couch in the blazing living room. Minutes after he left, the wooden house collapsed.

Mrs. Dorothy Crozier, Operator, San Rafael, California. She took a call from a frantic mother whose small son had stopped breathing. After notifying both ambulance and fire department, Mrs. Crozier realized that traffic was heavy and time short. Over the telephone, she taught the mother mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. The boy was breathing when firemen arrived. Doctors credit his life to her alertness.

Franklin Daniel Gurtner, Station Installer, Auburn, Washington. He heard a request for emergency breathing equipment on his radio monitor and hurried to the address, where a baby was strangled. He found the child's air passage was blocked, cleared it, and successfully administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. Then the fire department arrived and applied oxygen to help overcome shock.

Charles J. Gilman, Communications Serviceman, Bellwood, Illinois. Driving to an assignment, he saw an overturned car and found a man under it bleeding profusely. Cautioning bystanders not to move, he helped remove the victim. The man's arm was almost severed below the shoulder and he seemed in shock. Mr. Gilman applied a tourniquet and kept pressure on it until an ambulance arrived.

Bell Telephone System
Owned by more than two million Americans

The first telephone call ever made was a call for help as Alexander Graham Bell spilled acid on his clothes: "Come here, Mr. Watson, I want you!"

Ever since that fateful evening in 1876, telephone people have been responding to calls for help—and training to supply it.

A tradition of service—a knowledge of first aid—an instinct to help—these keep operators at their posts in fire or flood—send linemen out to battle blizzards or hurricanes—and save lives many times in many ways.

Over the years, the Bell System has awarded 1,896 medals to employees for courage, initiative and accomplishment—for being good neighbors both on the job and off. Here are some recent winners:
They love us in Chicago, Philadelphia,

And appreciate us. And showed their appreciation in the form of awards too numerous for us to mention, but not...being in show business...to brag about.

Emmy came to our five stations seven times in the past twelve months. The International Police Chiefs cited us in Washington, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars in New York. We received five awards from the Illinois Associated Press in Chicago; five from the National Press Photographers in Philadelphia; and three from the National Association For Better Radio and Television in Los Angeles. We won the Ohio State and Freedoms Foundation Awards several times.

P. S. 138 big "Thank You's" to the awarding organizations.
And so it went... to the tune of 138 major awards in the past year. We don't mind taking a few bows, not for our bulging trophy cases, but for the recognition of our efforts in serving our communities. Some awards were for fine entertainment; some for popular personalities; a great many for public service. If we may say so ourselves... a nice balance.

Applause from professional and other organizations is music to our ears, but we appreciate equally the requests for advice and help. In fact, we constantly solicit the chance to work with all the various segments of our communities. Our role is to provide entertainment and service.

A voice in space for every nation

A dramatic advance by an ITT System company permits any nation in the world to share in the myriad advantages of communication by satellite.

For ITT has conceived and developed an entirely new kind of satellite communications terminal. Easily transportable, it can be shipped anywhere. It can be erected in 24 hours. Its cost: modest. Now telephone, telegraph and data channels routed through space can be made available between remote and distant points all over the globe.

This new universal ground station—the first of its kind—is a complete, self-contained terminal for transmissions to and from satellites. First used in intercontinental voice transmission with NASA's Project Relay, minor adaptions will permit the equipment to work with other communications satellites yet to come. Installed in Brazil, it has already been responsible for the first link through space between the two Americas!

ITT is active in virtually every area of the U. S. space effort—from ground control to the production of complete satellites...from the development of tiny components to the management of missile ranges thousands of miles long. It's a natural role for the world's largest international supplier of electronics and telecommunications.

A nice round sum?

EDITOR: Congratulations to WQZ, St. George, S.C., for its action against SESAC. It is entertaining to note that SESAC charged us with exactly 18 violations versus WQZ's 17 after monitoring the smallest of our four stations, WMOW Meadville, Pa. Could it be that SESAC has found $4,000 a nice round sum with which to coerce and threaten a station? We never play any known SESAC controlled music. Other broadcasters should follow suit. The real power of the copyright license is the federal law setting a minimum of $250 damages per violation. If we can get this one clause removed, they are dead. Simply rephrase the law to let the federal courts decide the amount of damages, if any. The courts should set damages per violation at approximately the rate we pay ASCAP or BMI per selection—a few cents.—William F. Rich, president, Regional Broadcasters Inc., New York.

EDITOR: [You are] to be congratulated for doing such an intelligent job covering the booming FM medium. Your article will serve to document the status that FM already has obtained and the many unexploited uses to which it may be successfully applied.—Marshall M. Carpenter Jr., president and general manager, WDFM (FM) Detroit.

EDITOR: We are grateful for the research reflected in your "FM Today" article. However, I feel the San Francisco-Oakland FM market deserves more than the 15 lines it got. Satur- ration is about 50%, but your quote of Gary Gielow of KPEN (FM) (and I think he has been misquoted) would lead us to believe there are only 225,000 FM homes in the area instead of about 450,000. Stereo-wise, five San Francisco FM stations (KBGO, KFOG, KPMP, KPEN, KSFR) broadcast their entire schedules in stereo. I don't think it is equalled anywhere. In addition, a San Francisco educational outlet (KXKZ) transmits in stereo and KAFB has a partial stereo schedule.—Pete Taylor, program director, KFOG (FM) San Francisco.

EDITOR: The national advertiser list of those using FM has certainly grown. Your story mentions Philip Morris, Texaco, United Air Lines, Allied Chemicals, Mazola, P. Lorillard, Curtis Publishing and others. We would appreciate your readers knowing that these above named advertisers were all sold on FM through FM Group Sales Inc., and that until FM/GS, had not used FM radio before. Your article mentioned something about us "selling numbers," and we do. But we sell "large numbers" as well. Our Los Angeles group of six stations shows 54,000 FM homes delivered per average quarter-hour between 6 and 10 p.m. Monday through Friday according to Pulse, and it is this type of mass audience that we are currently selling to mass advertisers. FM radio through the group sales concept can right now, compete with all other media for national advertisers.—Art Sakelson, president, FM Group Sales Inc., New York.

They are KCWM, which is a fulltime country and western station; KCMM-FM, which is middle of the road format (including classics) and is stereo from 6:30 a.m. to midnight Monday-Friday and 8 a.m. to midnight on Saturdays and Sunday; KXTR, a fulltime classic station; KCJC another middle of the road varied programed station, and KMBC-FM, with adult-oriented music and regularly scheduled news, 24 hours a day with stereo from 6 a.m. to 1 a.m. It is interesting that all five separately programed FM stations appear in Hooper reports regularly. Set penetration in the Kansas City market is estimated at better than 170,000 homes. In a check with the three automobile manufacturers in this area, automobile FM units, through April 1, have been delivered in more than 2,800 cars.—Chris J. That of WLW Radio or WLW Television.

The Crosley Broadcasting Corporation has its own sales force. So when you call a WLW Radio or TV salesman, you get a WLW Radio or TV salesman. A man who is a vital member of Crosley Broadcasting... who knows his station... knows his market... knows his facts and figures. In short, knows his stuff. His briefcase is an open and shut case for Crosley—containing complete information on the WLW Stations and markets—specific, detailed, important—which adds up to fast cooperation and results for you and your product. Crosley’s sales division is constantly interested in the development of easier buying techniques, and is now working on experimental broadcast research with advertisers—an area unique to our industry. When Crosley started its own national sales organization over 20 years ago it was a revolutionary move, now widely acclaimed. Just another example of the outstanding leadership and spirit of the WLW Radio and TV Stations—which have made Crosley Broadcasting “prime time” in every category!
Don't let advertising's cost spiral dilute its efficiency

Advertising's present period of growth and prosperity is a good time to re-examine the fundamental trends in our business to insure that we will be strong and prosperous in the future. One immediate concern: advertising's rising cost.

Advertising is a business service which plays its part along with scientific development, manufacturing, finance and other business elements. It is subject to the same economic laws. Its costs must be commensurate with the service it performs.

The rising costs are of two kinds.

There are the actual dollar increases in what the advertiser pays and there are some slack-filled packages, some reduced values which he receives.

Chain Reaction • The difficulty in combating rising costs is that they occur in so many separate items dealt with by many separate buyers.

The cost of art and photography, I'm told, has increased about 74% from 1945-1960. The cost of a set of four-color lead mold electros rose 133% between 1947-1963. The cost of typography is estimated to have risen 137% between 1945-1962. One investigator suggests that the cost of a magazine schedule rose 89% between 1946-1960 and the cost of a business paper schedule rose 86% between 1946-1956 and has undoubtedly since risen still higher.

If the advertiser is using television the same problem appears in different ways. Let's take, for example, the cost of preparing a filmed commercial for broadcasting. A book on TV production about a dozen years ago exclaimed in amazement a commercial had cost $7,500 to produce. Today that commercial would cost at least $15,000—maybe more.

Some commercials produced in recent years have cost as much as $50,000. The average advertiser is paying about 85% more for a filmed minute spot than 10 years ago.

How have these costs built up? In one area alone, for example, the basic union rate for on-camera performers in 1955 was $70. Today it is $95. For an off-camera performer, the increase is from $45 to $70. These may seem modest.

Use Fee Spiral • But this is where the old joke applies—it isn't the original cost, it's the upkeep. In TV the upkeep is use fees. One agency recently calculated that a year's output of commercials which cost $700,000 to produce required payment of another $1.5 million in use fees.

Does this mean that media and suppliers are making an unreasonable increase in profit? I doubt it very much. In many areas I suspect the rate of profit is substantially less.

It might be argued that costs have risen only in proportion. But the test of advertising value is the cost of advertising vs. dollars of goods sold by the advertiser. Unless we believe that a reader or viewer has unlimited capacity to comprehend and retain messages, we are obliged to believe that the competition of other advertising and promotional elements surrounding the advertising must inevitably subdivide the effective communication of the advertising message and thereby reduce its selling impact.

I think all of us have been concerned about too many commercials, station breaks and ID's in TV broadcasting. These divide the attention and memory capacity of the audience and inevitably reduce the value of the advertiser's message. But when we add the show bumpers, promotion for other shows, promotion for color TV, production credits, titles and billboards, the straws on the camel's back begin to build up in a pretty dangerous fashion.

Breaking Point • If the cost of advertising is steadily going up and if internal competition within the medium is steadily reducing the attention which any advertisement can hope to secure, can the effectiveness of advertising be maintained? If it cannot be maintained, can we expect our clients to use more and more of our services?

One large advertiser has several quite different lines of products. He has given me the figures to compare the dollars of sales he achieved per dollar of advertising in 1962 as against 1948.

In category A, he had in 1948 $14.40 in sales for each dollar expended in advertising. By 1962 that ratio had declined to $8 of sales per dollar of advertising. In category B, his sales dollars per advertising dollar had diminished during the same period from $60 to $25. In category C, a more cheerful picture. Sales per dollar of advertising had diminished only from $7 to $5.

These figures are from a successful company whose over-all earnings are very good. But if we measure profit dollars in relation to advertising dollars we find that the dollars of profit per dollar of advertising declined about a third in the first category and about 50% in the second. In the third category, this company had an increase of dollars of profit per dollar of advertising; but it is clear, since the sales per dollar of advertising declined, that other economies produced the profit.

$1.55 Gets Dollar's Worth • Another of the world's largest advertisers has given me figures showing the percentage of sales spent on advertising from 1948 to 1961. With three exceptions these percentages have gone up every year during that period. And in 1962 this company spent $1.55 in advertising to produce the sales achieved by a dollar in 1948.

I look forward to the day when a producer of TV commercial films will come to our office suggesting more efficient methods of production through which we can cooperate to reduce the cost of filmed commercials.

I look forward to the day when the negotiating committees of the unions who serve the many different parts of the advertising complex will consider the dangerous effect of rising costs upon the volume of their work and the volume of advertising business.

I look forward to the day when broadcasters will ruthlessly weed out the extraneous elements in the program hour so that the messages of the advertiser can have a full and fair share of the audience's attention.

7 to 10% more spot TV this fall

Agencies, advertisers, representatives all report increases

Year’s totals will beat 1962, SRA and TvB executives agree

Buyers activity spurred by early opening of network programs

The fall buying season for spot television is in full swing—probably the busiest in television history.

Agency after agency, and many advertisers, reported last week that they currently are in the midst of planning and placing autumn and year-end campaigns that, by most estimates, will push 1963’s spot television spending to a record high.

Television sales sources, almost uniformly reporting gains in fall selling, estimated fourth-quarter sales would be 7 to 10% ahead of the same period a year ago. Their estimates for the full year ranged from $750 million to more than $820 million, as against approximately $721.2 million.

A number of station representatives and agencies reported that fall spot schedules are benefiting this year from early starting dates for the three TV networks’ new fall schedules. By Oct. 1, practically all network prime time shows will have started their new cycles, whereas in past years many programs, especially on ABC-TV, have been introduced in October.

Campaigns Advanced • The stepped-up starting dates for new network programs were said to have prompted a number of spot advertisers to advance their campaigns accordingly. Several were said to be scheduling the start of their spot drives about two weeks earlier than usual. When this happens, authorities said, it usually means that much more spot activity because advertisers usually do not tend to compensate for an early start by a comparably early stop.

The earlier spot starts were credited by some observers with a considerable share of the improved outlook for the fall season. One station sales representative thought it would help put spot business in September alone 25% ahead of last September’s figure.

Many executives in both selling and buying reported desirable major-market spot availabilities in short supply.

To keep their schedules from being frozen out or forced into less desirable time periods, some agencies have moved up both their buying and the starting dates of their campaigns.

Lever Bros., leading spot TV advertiser, though not appreciably boosting its spot expenditure for the fall, has found it necessary to keep close watch on its buying to preserve its franchises on certain time periods. This is reported to be the situation among other top advertisers.

BBDO, which anticipates a 5-10% increase in its spot TV volume this fall, acknowledged that its buyers in certain instances have had to begin earlier in fall planning and seek an advance in commitments because of this tightening up.

Prognostications • On the basis of current spot activity officials of both the Station Representatives Association and the Television Bureau of Advertising anticipated new records for 1963.

Norman E. Cash, TvB president, expected the figures to show a 15% gain for spot TV in this year’s second quarter, with 10% gains in both the third and fourth quarters. On top of a 20% gain already reported for the first quarter, when TvB’s spot estimates reached $219.7 million (BROADCASTING, June 17), these increases would mean spot billings of $217 million in the second quarter, $167 million in the third and $217 million in the fourth—a full-year total of almost $821 million.

Mr. Cash said that “the number of new products breaking in is forcing spot television to a new all-time high. The gains are reflected in new buying patterns, creative selling efforts, and more stations being added to existing market lineups. TvB admits the greatest proof of television’s selling power is the American businessman’s dollar investment.”

Lawrence Webb, managing director of SRA, was enthusiastic but somewhat more conservative in his dollar estimates. He said: “That the year 1963 will set a new record in spot television time sales appears to be an almost established fact, based on current available information covering the final-quarter buying this year. With last-quarter spot investments accounting for slightly more than 25% of the year’s total, conservative estimates put the gross dollar volume figure for the last quarter at

Spot flying high, trade heads agree

Bright prospects for spot television were predicted for the fourth quarter by well informed top executives of the Television Bureau of Advertising and the Station Representatives Association.

Lawrence Webb, managing director of SRA (l), expected “a new record in spot television time sales” in 1963. A gross dollar figure of $211 million for the final three months and $750 million for spot TV for the year was his prediction.

Norman E. Cash, TvB president (r), expected a 10% gain in spot business the final three months of this year as compared with last. His figures were $217 million for the quarter and $821 million for 1963.
about $211 million and the total figure for the year at slightly more than $750 million.

"Most of the 50 major agencies report increases in spot TV expenditures for the last quarter. Minute availabilities are scarce in most markets except in fringe time periods, and desirable 20 seconds are at a premium."

Big Chips At Bates: Ted Bates & Co., biggest spot agency, expects to maintain its spot TV placements at their 1962 level, when the year's total came to about $48 million.

Bates expects its Boyle-Midway Division of American Home Products, Colgate-Palmolive and Carter Products accounts to bill about the same in spot as last year, with Carter possibly adding to its network investment. A sizeable chunk of the Colgate billings will go behind a new product, Code 10 hair dressing, with its introduction in a spot campaign that is expected to go national in the fall.

Louis Marx toys, also handled by Bates, puts all of its budget into spot TV and expects to increase the total by 15 to 20% this year. It's buying in 25 markets in 13-week flights, using minute announcements in varying frequencies.

International Latex, another Bates account, is expected to continue the general spot TV pattern followed last year but may increase the schedule from 39 weeks to 52. Company is in 75 markets with 15 to 20 one-minute spots a week. Bras and girdles will continue to get about 70% of the TV budget.

Although details were not immediately available, other Bates clients known to be planning new fall TV drives included Continental Baking, Borden & Williamson's Viceroy and Kool cigarettes, Colgate's Rapid Shave.

A spokesman for J. Walter Thompson, while unable to pinpoint details, generalized for the agency that it will be a "big season in spot TV for our major clients."

Up At BBDO: At BBDO the high fall activity in spot is pegged at 5-10% over that of last year. A spokesman at the agency said that the major markets already are "tight" and reported such clients as Lever Bros., Campbell Soup (in spot TV for the first time), Pepsi-Cola, Shaefer Pen, B. F. Goodrich, A. C. Gilbert (new to spot TV) and Alberto-Culver (regular and new products) as among its top blue-chips in spot this fall.

Young & Rubicam, through a media executive, reported its buying staff was "up to its ears in spot availabilities—in their 'acquisition' or their purchase."
The spot leaders at Y&R are American Home Products, Procter & Gamble, General Foods and Bristol-Meyers.

At Benton & Bowles, Post cereals is hiking its full-year spot budget about 20%, using some 150 markets with three to a dozen announcements in each market each week. Procter & Gamble is said to be budgeting 7 to 10% more in spot TV this year, on lineups of from 100 to 150 stations. Maxwell House coffee is reported up 5%, Gaines Dog Food up 10%. Philip Morris reportedly is holding to its 1962 levels but Norwich Pharmacal has cut its spot budget by 15 to 20% and moved more heavily into network. Texaco's emphasis on sports continues to be predominantly in network sponsorships.

N. W. Ayer & Son, Foote, Cone & Belding, and Geyer, Morey, Ballard were among the agencies expecting their billing to maintain approximately last year's level, with no significant variation up or down.

Papert, Koenig, Lois estimates its spot TV buying is at about the same pace as last year. Pharmaceutics may be down slightly, but not much, while National Dairy's Breakstone Foods will be up. Clark Oil is using television for the first time, McGregor sportswear will be making its entry with a 15 to 20-market campaign, and National Sugar will maintain its 1962 level.

Active Accounts: At Fuller & Smith & Ross, American Chicle is using night-time minutes in 50 markets, Lestoll is moving in 30 markets with a bigger spot budget and is looking for higher-rated periods than last year, and National Cotton, Elmer's Glue-All and the National Oil Fuel Institute are among advertisers with spot TV drives running or planned.

Warwick & Legler authorities reported their spot billings are down, chiefly because of increased use of network participations, radio spot billings also were reported up. Mail Pouch Tobacco was one account for which W&L was said to be placing a fall TV test campaign in "a few" markets.

Among cigarette accounts, P. Lorillard was reported to be buying no spot at the moment, though authorities indicated this situation may—or may not—change almost momentarily. Agency is Lennen & Newell.

Another cigarette, American Tobacco's Dual Filter Tarleton, reportedly has scheduled an extensive campaign in 60 markets in its first use of spot television. The account, currently at Lawrence C. Gumbinner agency, moves Nov. 1 to BBDO (Broadcasting, Aug. 5).

Other advertisers for which fall spot activity was reported included:

Lever Bros., according to unofficial accounts, will be placing as much spot TV volume this year as it did a year ago, when it put an estimated $19 million gross in spot TV. For Lever, this means also a continuation of its spot spending level in the fall. Lever agencies are finding desired availabilities "more difficult" and the company is aware of the need to keep what franchises it has had in spot TV schedules.

Lever's "All" detergent continues as a heavy spot TV leader in the competitive array of soaps, and 5-20 brands now active in the medium.

Prestone Antifreeze, through William Esty Co., is using spot TV again as a supplement to its network advertising, putting about the same amount and proportion of its budget into spot this year as last.

Beecham Products, through Kenyon & Eckhardt, is expanding its spot cover-
Whitman turns to radio after Sampler sample

Convinced that radio offers the necessary flexibility and mobility within a limited budget, Whitman Chocolates has upset its traditional advertising practices to make room for a campaign on ABC Radio for at least several months' duration.

Normally a heavy advertiser during holidays only, Whitman announced early in July a series of 22 announcements to be carried on ABC emphasizing the theme, "You don’t need a reason or a season to give the Whitman Sampler.”

Last week, Price Heppe, Whitman advertising manager, said the radio announcements had received considerable response from local salesman already. "Their overwhelming enthusiasm and initial results tend to bear out the faith in our new concept,” he said.

The advertising, placed through N. W. Ayer, Philadelphia, came as a result of three separate studies conducted by the company and agency.

“All concluded,” said Mr. Heppe, “that the company could sell far more Samplers by spreading its advertising throughout the year and still maintain its traditional advertising hold on holidays.”

Mr. Heppe said that the network radio advertising would be supplemented by television advertising during the holiday season. He noted that more than half of the Sampler advertising budget, largest in the product’s history, was going into network radio, with the rest split between spot radio and television.

Whitman’s network radio advertising is being aired during drive time newscasts and weekend sports shows, with a particular effort being made to reach the male adult audience.

The exact allocation for radio has not been determined since the increase in sugar prices is expected to have some effect on company budgets, including advertising. Whitman does expect the radio drive to run more than six months and that its broadcast billings for this year will be around $750,000. Spending in broadcasting last year was negligible.

"After careful research,” Mr. Heppe said, "we determined that radio rather than any other medium had the flexibility, mobility and reach to give Whitman the audience it wanted at a cost within its budget.”

HENRY AND AAAA GROUP MEET IN N.Y.
Wide range of topics discussed at informal gathering

An off-the-record discussion described as “instructive on both sides” was held in New York last Monday (Aug. 5) between FCC Chairman E. William Henry and the Broadcast Committee of the American Association of Advertising Agencies.

Chairman Henry went to New York at the invitation of Committee Chairman Sylvester (Pat) Weaver, of McCann-Erickson International. The same 4A committee met with former FCC Chairman Newton N. Minow, at the latter’s request, early in the Minow tenure.

Purpose of the four-hour meeting was for an exchange of views on subjects of common interest to the advertisers and the government and to give the committee members a chance to meet Chairman Henry. The chairman said he noted a lack of unanimity of views among the agencymen and AAAA emphasized that it takes no official position on any of the matters discussed.

Noting their own lack of a united position, one committee member said Chairman Henry probably was convinced that the advertising industry segments are as hard to bring together as members of the FCC on given issues. It was felt that the divergent views expressed by the agency executives helped to demonstrate to the chairman that none of the solutions to the problems discussed are simple.

There was no meeting “agenda,” but the key subjects discussed included option time, ratings and ratings services, commercial clutter, FCC encouragement of the development of UHF, quality programming and its saleability to advertisers, FCC emphasis on locally produced programs, children’s shows, self-regulation, the FCC’s proposal to adopt limits on commercial time and advertiser influence over program content.

All members of the AAAA Broadcast Committee were present, except David Miller of Young & Rubicam and AAAA President John Crichton. Members of the AAAA committee present were Chairman Weaver; Richard A. R. Pinkham of Ted Bates & Co., vice chairman; Charles C. Barry, Young & Rubicam; Philip H. Cohen, Sullivan, Stauffer, Colwell & Bayles; Robert L. Foreman, BBDO; Henry G. Fownes, MacManus, John & Adams; Alfred L. Hollender, Grey Adv.; William H. Hylan and Ruth Jones, J. Walter Thompson Co.; Edward H. Mahoney, Fuller & Smith & Ross, and Lee M. Rich, Benton & Bowles.

New Furness agency to stress marketing

Stan Furness, former director of marketing and advertising for Revlon's Thayer Laboratories, has formed the Stanley S. Furness Associates agency. Offices of the new agency are at 663 Fifth Avenue, New York, and at Jericho, Long Island. Mr. Furness says the firm will emphasize marketing aspects in its campaigns.

V.P. Service Drug Stores, Sulray Inc. and Maradel's Commerce Drug Division have signed with the new agency.

Billy Graham TV special

Billy Graham Evangelist Associations, Minneapolis, is buying time on about 200 TV stations to carry a one-hour program in early September based on a Billy Graham crusade starting Aug. 15 in Los Angeles. Some 50-75 Canadian and other foreign stations also will be used. The regular weekly Hour of Decision radio program continues on more than 800 stations here and abroad. Agency: Walter F. Bennett & Co., Chicago.

A new regional sales organization for radio and TV stations, Mario Messina Co., has been formed by Mario Messina in Dallas.

A native of Dallas, Mr. Messina has worked for Tracy-Locke-Dawson, Pepsi-Cola Co. and Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. Since 1951 he has specialized in regional advertising sales for newspapers, radio and television stations.
A guide for rheumatism and arthritis ads
NAB CODE HEAD SAYS IT'S NOT 'DOGMA'

Guidelines for the advertising of medicines for treatment of arthritis and rheumatism were announced last week by the National Association of Broadcasters. They were developed by the NAB code authority in cooperation with advertising agencies and have been endorsed by the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation.

Robert D. Swezey, code director, and Dr. R. W. Lamont-Havers, the foundation's medical director, said the guidelines “will promote more responsible TV advertising in a most delicate field.” They also will help broadcasters achieve more effective self regulation, Mr. Swezey said.

He emphasized that the suggested guides are not “dogma,” but general principles which can be changed as the need arises. The guidelines follow:

“A large number of people in this country suffer from some form of arthritis and rheumatism. Many have the potentially serious forms of these diseases which result in progressive crippling. As yet, the causes of arthritis and rheumatism have not been discovered. Also, there is no completely satisfactory means of treatment for all cases. Recognizing this, the code authority endorses the following common sense guidelines designed to assist advertisers and broadcasters in the preparation and evaluation of television commercials.

“SEEK—Audio and Video

1. Positive disclosure that the effectiveness of a product, in its recommended dosage or application, is limited to the temporary relief of minor aches and pains of arthritis and rheumatism.

2. Copy claims and video dramatizations consistent with limitations and directions for product use as shown on labeling.

3. Substantiation of product performance claims based upon bona fide clinical studies, testimony of medical experts qualified by experience and training or adequate references to medical literature.

4. To advise sufferers of serious or prolonged arthritis or rheumatic aches and pains to see a physician for proper guidance and care.

“AVOID—Audio and Video

1. Any implication that a product, in its recommended dosage or application, will do more than give temporary relief of minor aches and pains; references to treating the cause or in any way having an effect on the disease process.

2. Any implication which would tend to negate the concept that the product does more than relieve minor aches and pains. This could include the use of such terms as ‘agonizing,’ ‘torture,’ and before and after comparisons demonstrating a dramatic, marked improvement of joint movement.

3. Any implication that the product will work where others have failed, claims of effectiveness implied by references to ‘secret discovery,’ ‘like magic’ or ‘miracle drugs.’

4. Use of clinical studies not based upon adequate number of cases, not employing controls and accurate statistical analysis of the results, as substantiation of product performance claims.

5. Use of testimonials to support product claims that cannot also be substantiated by bona fide clinical studies, testimony of medical experts qualified by experience and training or adequate references to medical literature.

6. Any claims that products such as bath salts, food supplements and devices such as vibrators, water agitators, in themselves, are effective in the treatment of arthritis and rheumatism.”

Dial-a-program

Advertisers disenchanted with broadcast ratings now have the opportunity to evaluate Cincinnati radio stations by a new method—listening to the programs. And they don’t even have to leave their offices across the country.

WCKY Cincinnati’s engineering department has developed a monitoring device which can tune in all area radio stations, and an advertiser who wishes to compare programming in the market has only to call Miss Allee Sayers of WCKY at 241-6565, area code 513, to hear any area station he names.

Filmex Inc., New York, is using a “rig” to show the casual, natural expressions of driver and passenger of this Chevy II automobile. Using wires, strings and suction cup, the camera will record the actors’ moves with the car in motion. Marshall Stone (1) is director and Jack Horton is cameraman. Chevrolet’s agency is Campbell-Ewald, Detroit.

RAB opens membership to allied field groups

The Radio Advertising Bureau is opening its membership rolls, effective today (Aug. 12), to people and organizations allied to the radio business. The new “associate” membership is a departure by RAB which up to this time had restricted itself to radio stations, networks and station representatives.

Edmund C. Bunker, RAB’s president, said the move was partly based on the “urgent need for additional financial support of RAB at this juncture of ra-

Paint store chain sticks with TV after strike

"Immediate and impressive" sales results through the use of television during the New York newspaper shutdown have prompted Martin Paint Stores to move into TV on a large scale this year.

The paint store chain, which had never used television prior to the strike, has added $150,000-$200,000 to its advertising budget since the beginning of the shutdown for schedules on New York stations on a 52-week basis.

The company began using minute and 10-second commercials on WNBC-TV during the first week of July. The campaign will continue on that station through next July with 35 commercials going each week. Additional schedules will begin on WNEW-TV and WPXi(TV) later this month, with 13-week flights on each station. Total volume will be 65 announcements weekly.

Martin entered TV during the waning days of the newspaper strike with a series of 10-second announcements on WPix. WNEW-TV and WNbc-TV. At the conclusion of the strike it stayed on WNBC-TV and WPix.

dio's history." He cited the $200,000 radio methodology study plus anticipated costs of other research plans and said, "in addition, we must push harder in our sales efforts in order to heighten advertiser awareness of radio's strength as an advertising medium."

Mr. Bunker said he saw additional support coming from "those whose prosperity is dependent on the radio medium," mentioning as some examples the following: communications attorneys, program syndicators, station brokers, producers of commercials and station sales aids and equipment manufacturers.

He said associate members would be entitled to RAB's sales promotion material and would have the bureau's library facilities at their disposal.

INTERIM RATINGS REPORT

Richardson draft has 27 recommendations; urges government action if broadcasters don't act

An interim report which is now being prepared on a congressional investigation of broadcast audience measurement can be expected to convince anyone who thinks Congress has forgotten about ratings that he's quite mistaken.

The report, in draft form and still incomplete, includes 27 recommendations on ratings—everything from government regulation of ratings firms (if industry fails to straighten things out) to requirements on the size of type raters use to explain their techniques in their reports.

Robert E. L. Richardson, associate counsel of the House Special Subcommittee on Investigations, took the document last weekend to New York where he was to consult with Dr. Herbert Arkin, a professor of business statistics at the City College of New York, who was special consultant to the subcommittee during its hearing this spring (Broadcasting, Feb. 18, et seq.).

The hearing climax—more than 18 months of intensive investigation. It ran on and off for almost four months and was recessed after FCC Chairman E. William Henry testified that broadcast licensees would be held responsible for the use of ratings in advertising and sales presentations made by them or in government recoups part of lost billings

Lawrence C. Gumbinner agency which lost the American Tobacco Dual Filter Tareyton account and its estimated $7- to $12-million in billings (Broadcasting, Aug. 5) was assigned two new accounts last week.

Sudden Beauty, a cosmetic of Whitehall Laboratories, and Brioschi, an antacid distributed by Ceribelli & Co., each with billings said to be under $1 million, have been assigned to the Gumbinner agency.

The Sudden Beauty account was formerly handled by Ted Bates and Brioschi by Ellington & Co. The Gumbinner agency says campaigns including network and spot TV for Sudden Beauty and radio and TV spot for Brioschi are planned.

Also in advertising...

New agency - Calvert-Stearns Inc., new advertising and public relations agency, has been formed by Torrey Stearns and Patricia Calvert with offices at 1 East 53d Street, New York. Mr. Stearns was public relations director of Adams & Keyes Inc. where he handled Ethiopian Airlines account. Miss Calvert has headed her own company for the past four years.

Joins TVB - Metropolitan Broadcasting Stations (division of Metromedia Inc.) has joined the Television Bureau of Advertising, TVB and Metropolitan announced today (Aug. 12). TV stations are WNEW-TV New York; WTTG Washington; KTTV Los Angeles; KMBC-TV Kansas City, Mo.; kMOV Stockton, Calif.; WTVN Decatur, and WTVH Peoria, both Illinois.

their behalf by representatives (Broadcasting, June 24).

A Few Shocks - Mr. Richardson, author of a rough draft of the report and its recommendations, said last week that he proposed the kind of standards and procedures which a reasonable person might think that honest and efficient research companies would do on their own without government requirement. He said, however, that he thought the document contained a few "shocks." Broadcasters would in general welcome it, Mr. Richardson thought. Advertising agencies and research companies might have some "squawks.

As when the report might be released, Mr. Richardson said that that was difficult to tell. The subcommittee members, all on the House Commerce Committee which has been tied up with a heavy legislative load, have not met to consider their ratings course since June. But individual congressmen have told reporters that the subcommittee has no intention of dropping the ratings problem.

Broadcasters asked for and were given an opportunity to try to come up with a solution when Governor LeRoy Collins, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, and Edmund Bunker, president of the Radio Advertising Bureau, both outlined their plans for improvement. The subcommittee's recess was intended to give broadcasters an opportunity to show what they can do.

Mr. Richardson's recommendations are based in part on his observations at the hearing, where he conducted much of the staff questioning, and on his work as one of the two subcommittee investigators who prepared the bulk of the material used in the hearing. His recommendations do not at this point necessarily reflect the subcommittee's thinking, although members were in considerable agreement on criticisms which its staff leveled at the research companies.

Key Recommendations: If broadcasters are unable to solve the ratings problem by regulating the research companies through an audit of their procedures and new requirements for research standards, then the government should. Mr. Richardson notes that Governor Collins testified under questioning by Representative Paul G. Rogers (D-Fla.): "Well, we would certainly like to try our hand at the free, voluntary way. But I do not hesitate to say to you that personally, if it took a licensing program to give the broadcaster a sounder assurance of accuracy in these ratings, I personally would not look upon that with disfavor."

Research companies would have to provide full disclosure of their sampling, editing and tabulating procedures. Mr. Richardson took issue with an audit plan proposed by the A. C. Nielsen Co., biggest of the rating firms (Broadcasting, July 29). He said the raters should not sit on an industry committee. Contrary to a Nielsen proposal Mr. Richardson said that an auditing service should not be financially responsible for actions arising from the reports it audits. Nor, he said, should the researchers be given an opportunity to review audit reports prior to publication, as Nielsen recommended. Nielsen said this would be advisable for advance comment or clarification.

Along with full disclosure of their methods, research companies should be required to provide clearly written summaries of what they did to produce their reports, and this information should be printed prominently inside each report and set in the same size type as other editorial material. Broadcasters have told the subcommittee that they don't really understand ratings, and these researcher statements would be helpful in keeping broadcasters informed, Mr. Richardson said. Ratings research is not as difficult as researchers have made it out to be, and broadcasters should know this, he said.

Broadcasters should remain responsible for the accuracy and use of all reports they utilize in advertising and sales. This recommendation agrees with policies announced by the FCC and the Federal Trade Commission (Broadcasting, June 17).

One device which Mr. Richardson believes would be especially helpful in pointing out that ratings figures are only estimates and lack the precision their use seems to have given them, would be to require that all figures, percent-ages, averages and the like be expressed in ranges. Ranges would be a constant reminder that the figures represent estimates, he said.

Researchers should provide complete information on the size of their samples. Samples for audience composition data should be broken down. For example, Mr. Richardson explained, if a report stated that X% of a station's audience was in certain income group, the report should indicate how large a sample was used to determine this estimate.

Lawyer on Horseback

As a real-life lawyer in the rowdy West of the 1880's, Temple Houston once demonstrated the perils of the quick draw by suddenly whipping out a .45 and firing a few rounds (of blanks) at judge and jury. Nobody slept while he was on.

Any lawman with that much theatrical savvy must have sensed he'd one day be the hero of a television series—and he was so right.

Now, some 80 years afterward, the full-hour "Temple Houston" will be taking its place among NBC-TV's new offerings for the Fall.

There's no record that General Sam Houston (our hero's father) ever referred to Temple as "my son, the lawyer," but well he might have. For, as roving defense counsel in actions ranging from land-rights squabbles to murder cases, Temple built a reputation as one of the Southwest's most resourceful fighters for justice.
In the television series, he'll be played by Jeffrey Hunter, currently being seen as Sgt. Fuller in Darryl Zanuck's "The Longest Day." Like NBC-TV's Dick Chamberlain, Jack Ging and James Drury, young Hunter has the looks and talent that virtually insure a tremendous following.

The series' co-star—in the role of an itinerant U.S. Marshal—is Jack Elam ("male" spelled backwards), the "J. D. Smith" of TV's "The Dakotas." Most of the "Temple Houston" story-lines will originate in actual court cases of the period, giving the dramas a strong flavor of authenticity. Helping the series achieve and maintain this flavor will be its executive producer—fellow by the name of Jack Webb. Mr. Webb's documentary-style "Dragnet", also presented on NBC-TV, was restricted to a Los Angeles setting and ran for a mere seven years; "Temple Houston" will be roaming the entire Southwest. 16-year-old ham raises congressman's ire

A 16-year-old ham operator in Elizabeth Borough, Pa., has been causing considerable disturbance for the past year to local television reception. And he may have set off more static than just reception interference.

Representative Elmer J. Holland (D-Pa.) reported to the House last Tuesday (Aug. 6) that Charles Seaman, operating the amateur station K310P, has been creating quite a problem for his constituents in Elizabeth Borough. Representative Holland has taken his case to FCC Chairman E. William Henry who has promised to bring the matter before the commission.

Mr. Seaman's operation is in the 50-54 mc band which is adjacent to channel 2 on which KDKA-TV Pittsburgh operates and is interfering with the aural, and at times the visual, reception of area television sets. Representative Holland charged that he has deliberately stepped up his power "blasting TV reception off the air."

The FCC has made at least eight checks on Mr. Seaman's doings, of which several were entirely secret, and have found him to be within his license. The agency said it has asked the young man to stay within the lower portion of his band and he has complied.

Threatened Legislation • Representative Holland, however, is still anxious to see something done and has requested Representative Oren Harris (D-Ark.), chairman of the House Commerce Committee, to recommend legislation which would give the commission the power to take effective remedial measures.

At the present time the only possible recourse the FCC could have, since Mr. Seaman has been found to have a legal operator, would be to modify his license under the public interest provisions of commission rules.

The commission has been doing more, however, than just checking an agency source said that the commission, through the cooperation of TV set manufacturers, procured some 128 high-pass filters on a gratis basis for listeners who made their troubles known.

In a further step the commission's Buffalo field office tested the high-pass filters in the company of the Elizabeth Borough council at a location selected by the council and reception was clear. But the council, it would seem, was not convinced. It has voted a resolution urging communities to pass laws against interference by ham operators.

KDKA-TV has made no complaint to the commission concerning the operation of K310P. The commission said the TV station puts a highly receivable signal over the area.

The FCC reportedly handles thousands of interference complaints but this one appears to have caused one of the biggest uproars to date and still has not been settled.

Democrats told to take complaints to FCC

Democratic congressmen were advised last week to complain to the FCC if they feel that the party or the individual member of Congress has been treated unfairly by radio or TV.

Samuel Brightman of the Democratic National Committee sent to Democratic legislators a copy of the FCC's controversial policy statement delineating a broadcaster's responsibilities under the fairness doctrine to present all sides of controversial issues (BROADCASTING, Aug. 5, July 29). In an accompanying letter, Mr. Brightman said the national committee has received "quite a few complaints about unfairness."

He told the Democratic members of Congress the FCC statement was being sent to them because of the complaints received by the committee. "I hope you will keep it in your files in the event you feel any programing in your area has been unfair to yourself or the Democratic Party," he said.

Governors favor Sec. 315 suspension

Senate Commerce Committee records showed last week that 30 governors would like to see Section 315's equal time requirement for political candidates suspended for gubernatorial races as well as presidential, vice presidential and congressional races.

Only one governor who commented, Nelson A. Rockefeller (R) of New York, opposed the suspension down to the governor level. He favored suspension for president and vice presidential races (BROADCASTING, Aug. 5).

The governors' comments were solicited by Senator John O. Pastore (D-R.I.), chairman of the Communications Subcommittee, for a hearing on legislation to suspend or repeal Section 315 (BROADCASTING, July 1). Although the hearing has been concluded, the subcommittee has not had an opportunity to meet on the proposals because of hearings on railroad work rules and civil rights legislation.

Favoring suspension which would include gubernatorial races (S 252): George C. Wallace of Alabama (D), William A. Egan of Alaska (D), Paul Fannin of Arizona (R), Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California (D), John A. Love of Colorado (R), John N. Dempsey of Connecticut (D), Carl Sanders of Georgia (D), Robert E. Smylie of Idaho (R), Otto Kerner of Illinois (D), Matthew E. Welsh of Indiana (D), John Anderson Jr. of Kansas (R), Bert T. Combs of Kentucky (D), J. Millard Tawes of Maryland (D), Endicott Peabody of Massachusetts (D), John M. Rich (D) of Missouri (D), Tim M. Babcock of Montana (R), Frank B. Morrison of Nebraska (D), John W. King of New Hampshire (D), Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey (D), Terry Sanford of North Carolina (D), William L. Guy of North Dakota (D), Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma (R), Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon (R), John H. Chafee of Rhode Island (R), Donald Russell of South Carolina (D), Frank G. Clement of Tennessee (D), John Connally of Texas (D), George Dewey Clyde of Utah (R), Albert D. Rosellini of Washington (D) and William W. Barron of West Virginia (D).

Those who corresponded with the committee but expressed no view on the proposals included Farris Bryant of Florida (D), John A. Burns of Hawaii (D) and John W. Reynolds of Wisconsin (D).

There were no responses from the governors of Arkansas, Delaware, Iowa, Louisiana, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nevada, New Mexico, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Vermont, Virginia and Wyoming.

Editorializing 'waiting on the railroad'

BROADCASTERS PREPARE FOR NEXT HEARING PHASE

A second phase of a House hearing on broadcast editorializing was still sidetracked last week while the Commerce Committee turned its attention to problems surrounding new railroad work rules.

Representative Walter E. Rogers (D-Tex.), chairman of the Communications and Power Subcommittee, said he intended to resume the hearing as soon as time could be found. More than a dozen broadcasters have requested an opportunity to testify, Representative Rogers said, including groups from Georgia, South Carolina and North Carolina. The National Broadcast Editorial Conference held in Athens, Ga., last month, stirred regional and national interest in the congressional hearing on editorializing. "It is a well known fact that the Democratic party has gained the support of a substantial segment of the print media... We have fared well with the broadcast medium, particularly among individual stations at the community level. Admittedly we have not done so with the networks," Mr. Howell said.

Republicans should be wary of efforts "to intimidate [broadcasters] into silence," he warned. "This is a repeat performance of the gag rule by the FCC during the Roosevelt dynasty" when the agency banned editorializing in the Mayflower Decision of 1941. "You may be sure the New Frontiersmen among the broadcasters are not worried about possible recrimination, continuation of editorializing. "It is a well known fact that the Democratic party has gained the support of a substantial segment of the print media... We have fared well with the broadcast medium, particularly among individual stations at the community level. Admittedly we have not done so with the networks," Mr. Howell said.

Republicans should be wary of efforts "to intimidate [broadcasters] into silence," he warned. "This is a repeat performance of the gag rule by the FCC during the Roosevelt dynasty" when the agency banned editorializing in the Mayflower Decision of 1941. "You may be sure the New Frontiersmen among the broadcasters are not worried about possible recrimination, and as a result will continue to vigorously endorse candidates and issues." In a statement prepared for his expected forthcoming appearance before the subcommittee, Mr. Howell backed the fairness doctrine and urged a reaffirmation of the present FCC policy "as adequate and deserving of commendation."

The steering committee of the editorial conference, which plans another conference next year, will meet in Washington Aug. 22, ostensibly to discuss the next conference and name a chairman. It was thought unlikely, however, that the committee would pass up an opportunity to discuss editorializing with congressmen.

Just Trying to Help • Representative Robert W. Hemphill (D-S.C.), the only witness to testify against editorializing during the subcommittee's first hearing, said last week that he was "intensely disappointed" that broadcasters failed to see that he was standing up for them. Editorializing can only lead to more government regulation, Representative Hemphill said. First it will be an examination at license renewal time of what licensee can say in editorials; then an intrusion into programming and finally "they'll be controlling your rates," the congressman said.

Representative Hemphill said he has discussed editorializing with broadcaster friends for some time. Some larger stations are able to hire competent staff to do a professional job in editorializing, he said. What he's worried about, Representative Hemphill said, are little stations which may feel less obligated to be properly responsible in their editorializing. And their efforts are what bring on demands for regulation, he explained.

Woke Charleston, S. C., not in Representative Hemphill's congressional district, attacked his stand and called on its listeners to write their representatives in support of editorializing.

Charles H. Crutchfield, president of Jefferson Standard Broadcasting Co., wrote the congressman that he "couldn't disagree with you more on this subject. . . . If Congress legislates against radio and television editorializing, one of our most important tools in keeping the public informed will have been destroyed."

Asked about statements criticizing his hearing, Representative Rogers said Thursday (Aug. 8), "I think there's been quite a bit of misunderstanding... on the purpose of the hearings. . . . I think some broadcasters have thought we wanted to meddle with their business."

The subcommittee chairman added, "The whole hearing was set up in the first place to help the broadcaster. . . . I think a lot of people are looking for a fight that isn't there. . . . If they want to be belligerent with everybody who's trying to help them, that's fine and dandy."

In other developments related to the hearing, Robert E. Kintner, president of NBC, advised the managers of his network's owned stations and news executives about NBC's position on editorializing (not done on NBC) and emphasized that NBC has "serious concern in principle with government intervention." Programing in news and public affairs came from intervention "by continual adherence, in letter and spirit to the long-established NBC policies" of objectivity and responsibility, Mr. Kintner wrote.

CAN YOU THINK OF A FASTER WAY TO TURN OTHER LAWN PRODUCT DEALERS GREEN WITH ENVY? Just a few spots during a WTMJ-TV telecast of a Milwaukee Braves baseball game. That's all it took to seed the Milwaukee market for LIFE grass fertilizer and GUARD crabgrass killer. Sales soared for dealers of these two LAWNHOUSE products. And in the words of a company sales representative: “The Braves telecast on WTMJ-TV was the most effective short cut we could have taken to generate maximum sales volume and dealer cooperation at the critical time when our relatively short selling season was just beginning.” The response convinced LAWNHOUSE to carry a continuous spot program. It's the kind of response you can expect with WTMJ-TV in Milwaukee...one of the top ten metropolitan areas in many measures of sales per household. Rep. Dorn defends radio-TV editorials in House speech

Representative W. J. Bryan Dorn (D-S.C.) rose to the defense of broadcast editorializing in a brief speech on the floor of the House Tuesday (Aug. 6). He said broadcasters who choose to editorialize “should not be harassed, intimidated or censored by the federal government.”

Representative Dorn also said congressmen have been guilty of favoring newspapers in their releasing of news. “Radio and television broadcasters have very definitely been the victims of discrimination in the news,” he said.

The complete text of Representative Dorn’s remarks follows:

“Mr. Speaker, radio and television broadcasters should be protected and encouraged in their constitutional right of free speech. The right of broadcasters to editorialize is a basic, fundamental, and essential freedom guaranteed by the Constitution. I have been shocked and alarmed at proposals and regulatory practices that would drive editorials from the airways. This is a fascist concept to intimidate those who do not agree and is a threat to all free speech. Sinister suggestions have been proposed that broadcasters be completely controlled by a powerful, growing, centralized federal bureaucracy—sinister suggestions from those who would not dare propose book burning or censorship of editorials in periodicals and newspapers.

“Mr. Speaker, many radio and television stations do not avail themselves of the privilege of editorializing. This is their prerogative and is a manifestation of the freedom of choice. However, I strongly feel that those who desire to editorialize should not be harassed, intimidated or censored by the federal government.

The commission has also been notified by 13 of the parties involved in the drop-in proceeding that they will participate in the oral argument on the denial to be held Oct. 4. They are ABC, Megacity Television Inc., Gem City Television Co. and Greater Dayton Broadcasting Corp., prospective applicants for channel 11 in Dayton, Ohio; Magic City Television Corp. and Birmingham Television Corp., channel 3 Birmingham, Ala.; Peninsular Life Broadcasting Co. and New Horizons Telecasting, channel 10 Jacksonville, Fla.; Penn Traffic Co. and Rivoli Realty Co. (WARD-TV [ch. 56]), channel 8 Johnstown, Pa.; the Electronic Industries Association, consumer products division, and Century Advertising Co., channel 6, Charlotte, N. C., and Taft Broadcasting.

KGLC hearing plans

The FCC’s chief hearing examiner, James D. Cunningham, last week set the stage for the commission’s inquiry into the proposed sale of KGLC Miami, Okla. (BROADCASTING, Aug. 5).

He named Hearing Examiner H. Gifford Irion to preside over the hearing, set the preliminary conference for Sept. 17 in Washington and designated Oct. 14 for the hearing to begin in Miami. The hearing is to determine if the sale by Miami Broadcasting Co. would result in a concentration of media control. KGLC is the town’s only radio station and Miami, Okla., the proposed buyer, is the publisher of the Miami News Record, its only newspaper.

BRICKBATS AND ROSES FOR USIA
Former VOA director recommends foreign-language cutback

The U. S. Information Agency, which marked its 10th anniversary earlier this month, picked up some bouquets and a few brickbats along the way. But major attention was given the agency by one of its former directors who focused most of his comments last week at the Voice of America, the USIA's radio arm.

George V. Allen, director of the VOA from 1948-50 and head of the USIA from 1957-60, said the Voice would gain credibility if it abandoned its policy of programing propaganda in 35 foreign languages and concentrated primarily on an objective, unemotional news report in English—even if this loses some listeners in the process. He said the main reason the VOA does so much foreign-language programing is because of pressure from Congress and constituents with strong ties to countries controlled by Communist regimes.

Mr. Allen’s suggestions didn’t sit well with Representative John Rooney (D-N.Y.), chairman of the House Appropriations subcommittee which pretty well controls the USIA budget. "He [Mr. Allen] never suggested a way to save a nickel when he was there [as director]." Representative Rooney said in an interview Thursday (Aug. 8). There is plenty wrong with the USIA, but it’s not in the use of foreign languages for the VOA, he said.

"I’ve said several times," Representative Rooney continued, "that the Lord Himself couldn’t come down from on high and run that agency without somebody criticizing Him."

Edward R. Murrow, described as the agency’s "able director" by Mr. Allen, would not comment on the article last week. He was understood, however, to be willing to discuss it if requested by the Senate appropriations subcommittee which has yet to hear his agency’s budget request for fiscal 1964. (The subcommittee reported last week no date has been set for that hearing.)

In his article Mr. Allen, now president of the Tobacco Institute, said the VOA’s trouble today is the same one he encountered when he ran it—its multilingual propaganda effort satisfies the emotional urge of America’s refugees from Communism to "damn the dictatorship from which they fled." But this is "largely a waste of time and effort," Mr. Allen says, because foreign audiences know that the programs are especially prepared in their own languages and the audiences discount them as propaganda.

"An Israeli friend of mine, in commenting on the VOA programs he heard in Israel, said he always wondered what we were telling the Arabs," he said.

"Above all, let there be no more crusades," Mr. Allen said. The massive attack on Cuban Premier Fidel Castro during the missile crisis last year, to which 10 U. S. commercial stations contributed their facilities (Broadcasting, Oct. 29, 1962, et seq.), "actually did more harm than good . . . and nothing could have helped Castro more," he said.

Voice broadcasts "should be, to the maximum extent feasible worldwide in scope, should be applicable to American as well as foreign ears, and should be as unemotionally objective as the first news agency dispatch intended for publication in any newspaper, anywhere. Then and only then, will [the] USIA gain maximum credibility."

Commenting further on Mr. Allen’s suggestions, particularly on his contention that reduction of foreign language programing could save money, Representative Rooney said, "He never suggested a way to save a nickel when he was there . . . He has tried more ways to extract money from the U. S. Treasury than anyone else in the State Department."

Asked about Mr. Murrow’s statements earlier this year that the House cut his budget request, Representative Rooney said, "Every dime they’ve ever asked for has been granted in the years the Voice has been around . . . They’ve never been cut 15 cents."

Henry, Lee, Loevinger at Chicago bar meeting

Three members of the FCC are among speakers appearing before the annual convention of the American Bar Association in Chicago. Commissioner Robert E. Lee spoke Friday on allocations (see At Deadline) and this Wednesday Chairman E. William Henry and Commissioner Lee Loevinger are to speak.

Chairman Henry will address the ABA committee on communications at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Conrad Hilton. Henry thrice declined ABA’s invitation because of other business but finally was induced to appear at the behest of a personal friend, Jefferson Davis, general counsel of Southern Bell Telephone Co., Atlanta, an ABA source said.

Mr. Davis heads the ABA communications committee which concerns itself with the legal aspects of all forms of electronic communication. Mr. Henry is expected to discuss international communications developments.

Mr. Loevinger is to talk before ABA’s special committee on electronic data retrieval at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday at the Sheraton-Blackstone. He had accepted the invitation while still assistant attorney general with Justice Department’s antitrust division.

The ABA meetings last week and this include numerous events by 17 groups and 70 different committees. About 15,000 lawyers are attending.

A dream-come-true bill for politicians

An idea that may bring much joy to major political candidates is being entertained by FCC Chairman E. William Henry. Chairman Henry’s idea, if enacted, would require television stations to provide free time in direct proportion to the amount of time purchased by candidates.

The idea, which was described as being only that, could conceivably cut political campaign television costs by half. Television expenditures in the 1962 primary and general campaign were $12.5 million, according to the FCC (Broadcasting, June 10).

Such a proposal is not new and has often been discussed when the subject of political campaigns has arisen in Congress and elsewhere.

Senator Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.) has conducted his own investigation into a free time proposal, particularly at the grass roots level. Senator Kuchel reportedly sought broadcaster views. Although he has not released a report, at least one recipient of his inquiry said he was opposed to any government mandate that he give free time to candidates and questioned why print media should not be subject to a similar requirement.

Chairman Henry had in mind only major political candidates and has not been in touch with Senator Kuchel during the latter’s study. He also has not discussed the matter, at least not officially, with the other commissioners.

Two San Diego congressmen bury the hatchet

Two feuding U. S. Representatives from San Diego, one a liberal Democrat and a former broadcast salesman, and the other a Republican party leader and still an advertising executive, have called off their one-bitter conflict and agreed to forget the whole thing as best they can.

Representative Lionel Van Deerlin (D-Calif.), the newsmen, and Representative Bob Wilson (R-Calif.), chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, signed a statement which recognizes that the two men retain their partisan differences but pledges them to work for their community.

Representative Van Deerlin has been a news director and commentator for radio and television stations in the San Diego area. Representative Wilson has remained a partner in Champ, Wilson and Slocum, a San Diego advertising agency.

The men have been political foes since Representative Van Deerlin tried to unseat Representative Wilson several years ago and failed. He remained critical of the congressman in his role as a commentator and newsmen.

In the heat of last year's campaign in which Representative Van Deerlin defeated Representative Wilson's brother Dick in a contest for a new district seat, the Democrat filed a libel suit against four persons, including both Wilsons. The suit claimed that 100,000 copies of a right-wing "smear sheet" were distributed just before election day last year which charged Mr. Van Deerlin with "sympathy for Communist organizations and Communist front groups." Neither Wilson's name was connected with the pamphlet.

The statement of friendship which the two congressmen have signed states that Representative Van Deerlin has dismissed his suit. The document also said, "Bob Wilson states that he has known Van Deerlin a long time—and, while differing with him politically, has never felt Van Deerlin to be anything less than a loyal American."

Representative Van Deerlin said last week that the agreement had been worked out by the two congressmen's lawyers. Both had been told by San Diego leaders that the feud was detrimental to the city's representation in Congress.

Obscenity bill revived by District committee

A renewed effort of the House District of Columbia Committee to enact broad legislation in Congress against indecency would make it a crime to televise "obscene, lewd or indecent... or immoral" material.

Similar legislation originated in the committee last year and was defeated by presidential veto (Broadcasting, Oct. 22, 1962). Now the committee has passed a sweeping omnibus crime bill which includes a re-worked version of its 1962 anti-indecency legislation. The new bill, HR 7525, was introduced by Representative Basil L. Whitener (D-N.C.) and is scheduled to be brought to the House floor today (Monday).

A communications lawyer whose firm fought last year's bill says the new version is unnecessary because anti-obscenity laws already exist. However, if police authorities seize on some phrases in the new bill to go beyond prohibiting obscenity, they would certainly be acting unconstitutionally, according to Vernon C. Kohlhaas, a partner in Pierson, Ball & Dowd, Washington law firm which opposed last year's obscenity bill for WWDC-AM-FM Washington.

Some committee members have attacked almost all of the bill's provisions, including the "indecent publications" section, which is the one of concern to broadcasters.

If the bill passes the House—and opponents have pledged a strong fight—the Senate's District committee intends to hold hearings of its own, especially on the indecent publications section. The Senate unit has differed with its House counterpart in earlier attempts to legislate in the indecency area. The House group held hearings on certain provisions of the crime bill this spring, but its only public sessions on the indecent publications section were conducted last summer (Broadcasting, Aug. 6, 1962).

Representative John Dowdy (D-Tex.), author of last year's bill and prime mover on the 1963 indecency section, has said that its supporters hope that the law would serve as a model for other communities. It is not aimed at broadcasters, Representative Dowdy said, but at purveyors of pornography and similar obscene materials.

But it is clear that the bill's language includes broadcasting and other media. It would make it a crime punishable by up to $5,000 fine and two years imprisonment to exhibit lewd or indecent materials, to advertise their display or anything "containing obscene, indecent, or lascivious language, postures or suggestions or otherwise offending public decency."

These broad phrases, notably "otherwise offending public decency," are subject to wide interpretation and they are what opponents find especially objectionable. Mr. Kohlhaas pointed out that the U. S. Supreme Court has very carefully limited the definition of obscenity; many phrases in the bill are not within that definition.

Comsat criticizes FCC ‘interference’

WANTS TO START SALE OF STOCK EARLY NEXT YEAR

The Communications Satellite Corp. told the FCC last week—politely of course—that it ought not to stick its nose into other people’s affairs. At the same time, in answer to an FCC inquiry late in July (BROADCASTING, Aug. 5), it said it hoped, under the proper conditions, to begin selling stock in the corporation in the early part of 1964.

This position was expressed in a letter to FCC Chairman E. William Henry from Comsat chairman Leo D. Welch which answered FCC charges that the corporation has been slow in offering stock to the public. The commission implied that the incorporators are making decisions that rightfully should be left to directors who will operate the corporation after stock is sold.

Mr. Welch wrote last week that Comsat is striving to make a stock offer just as soon as it will be practicable. He said that there are many technical and economic factors involved which must be thoroughly studied before an offer is made. Mr. Welch assured the commission that “in recognizing the essential nature of these factors, the directors are not seeking to prolong their own tenure.”

Mr. Welch pointed out the youth of the corporation as well as the fact that space communications is in only an “experimental” state of development. This is only the first step in creating a “commercial” system of space communications, he said.

Impeding Progress • Mr. Welch was disturbed by the stipulations that the commission attached to an order issued July 24 authorizing Comsat to borrow $600,000. The FCC said that only $100,000 could be used for operating expenses and that the rest was for research and design study contracts. The agency also said that it would probably not authorize further loans until definite plans for a stock issue have been made. Mr. Welch said that “the subjection of the corporation in the future to specific directions of this nature would place the commission in direct management of the corporation’s affairs.”

This was not intended by Congress when it passed the Communications Satellite Act, Mr. Welch contended. He said that he hoped the commission would recognize “that such an invasion of the managerial functions of the corporation would make impossible the effective discharge of the responsibilities of those charged with the conduct of the corporation’s affairs.”

Mr. Welch suggested that in the future any differences of opinion should be mutually discussed by the corporation directors and representatives of the government, including the FCC.

Comsat last week announced the first corporation study awards to AT&T, Hughes Aircraft Co. and RCA.

A group of senators, who have fought Comsat since it was established after prolonged debate last year, forced the Senate to postpone a vote on a space budget authorization bill Thursday (Aug. 8).

Senator Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), principal opponent to the private corporation and spokesman for 14 senators supporting his position, introduced an amendment to the bill, which would authorize the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to spend $5.5 billion in fiscal 1964.

The Kefauver amendment, expected to be voted on Friday (Aug. 9), would require the space corporation to reimburse NASA for a “fair share” of research and development of communications satellites. Since the corporation has a government-guaranteed monopoly in the field, it is the only party which stands to benefit from government research, Senator Kefauver said.

The bill, as approved by the Senate Aeronautical and Space Sciences Committee, authorizes $44 million for communications satellite research.

FCC advises TV station to be a little patient

The FCC, acting as referee in the scrimmage between CBS-TV and WPSD-TV Paducah, Ky., has told the station to be patient in awaiting the agency’s decision.

CBS-TV’s refusal to allow the telecast to the Paducah area of the home games of the St. Louis (football) Cardinals has prompted the NBC-TV outlet to protest to the FCC and file complaint with the Justice Department asking for an antitrust investigation (BROADCASTING, July 15, 8). The Paducah station had asked the commission to reach a decision before the start of the National Football League season.

WPSD-TV is 135 miles from St. Louis and KFVS-TV Cape Girardeau, Mo., a CBS-TV outlet, is 85 miles away. The stations’ coverage areas overlap, and the Kentucky station asks that CBS-TV allow one of the stations to carry the games so area football fans can have the opportunity to see Cardinal home games. KFVS-TV is blacked out because of its proximity to St. Louis, although it does not fall within the 75-mile radius usually denied football games.

The commission’s decision to go slow noted that the antitrust complaint filed by WPSD-TV “entails liaison with the Department of Justice.”

William Henry and two other guests at a party honoring his visit to WTTG-TV Washington’s new studios last week. The party was held at the Georgetown home of Lawrence Fraiberg, vice-president and general manager of the Washington TV station.
Continental’s 5/10 kw AM Transmitter uses the “Regulinear*” cathode-follower screen modulation circuit.

Using modern tetrodes and small low-powered modulation tubes, it is simpler than plate modulation and has no iron core components.

It permits overall feedback from transmitter output to audio input which results in very low noise and harmonic distortion. It eliminates the necessity of neutralization. By virtue of its constant power consumption regardless of percent of modulation, it minimizes power line regulation problems and carrier shift is less than 1%. It withstands overmodulation of continuous tone at any audio frequency for long periods without damage. End result? The Sound of Quality.

Proposed conclusions filed in Miami case

APPLICANTS ATTACK WLWB-TV'S BID FOR RENEWAL

The status of L. B. Wilson Inc. as an applicant for renewal of the license of WLWB-TV (ch. 10) Miami, was attacked last week by three other applicants for the VHF facility.

In proposed conclusions filed with Hearing Examiner H. Gifford Iront, the three applicants for the WLWB-TV facility contended that L. B. Wilson Inc. must be considered just another applicant. This is due, they claimed, because the FCC gave WLWB-TV an initial four-month license (instead of the usual three years).

In rebutting this argument, L. B. Wilson maintained that it has a special position in the proceedings as a licensee applying for renewal. Under FCC policy and equity, L. B. Wilson said, it should be granted a renewal of its license unless there are "compelling reasons" otherwise.

The Wilson company received the Miami channel 10 grant in 1960 after the FCC disqualified the other applicants in the original hearing (including National Airlines which received the 1957 grant for the same facility) because they were found to have engaged in off-the-record contacts with FCC commissioners.

In issuing the grant to L. B. Wilson, the only one of the four original applicants found to be unarrested by the ex parte charges, the commission awarded the initial license for only four months.

When the short-term license came up for renewal, three applicants filed with WLWB-TV: Miami Television Corp. and Civic Television Inc., both with a large number of local businessmen as stockholders, and South Florida Television Corp., 80% owned by William B. MacDonald Jr., a financier with real estate investments and other interests.

L. B. Wilson is principally owned by C. H. Topmiller, Thomas A. Welstead and Jeanette Heinze. It also owns WCKY Cincinnati.

No Recommendation - The Broadcast Bureau filed no conclusions in the case. It submitted a statement, however, that it considered Civic Television and South Florida Television financially qualified. This was one of the issues in the hearing.

L. B. Wilson claimed it should have its license renewed because it showed superior qualifications in integration of ownership and management, broadcast experience, past broadcast record, and above all, it stressed, "none of the other applicants have been able to 'contrive' a paper proposal superior to Wilson's actual record."

Miami Television claimed it should receive preference because of the civic and governmental activities of its stockholders in the Miami area, diverse interests of its stockholders, their scheduled participation in local programming through working committees and their relative youth.

Civic Television claimed it should be preferred because of its integration of ownership and management, the civic participation of its stockholders and their experience in the operation of TV stations.

South Florida contended it should be preferred because of local ownership, participation of stockholders in local activities, diversity of business interests, integration of ownership and management and the broadcast experience of stockholders.

The other applicants also claimed generally that L. B. Wilson should be denied its renewal primarily because it was deficient in local ownership and in programming. Two of the applicants, Civic and South Florida, stressed a possible conflict of interest involving Sol Taishoff, editor and publisher of Broadcasting and Television magazines. Mr. Taishoff, through a family trust, is an 11.3% owner of L. B. Wilson Inc. This interest was a bequest from Mr. Wilson who died in 1954.

WPAZ asks federal court to hear news case

WPAZ Pottstown, Pa., has asked a federal court to hear the suit filed against it by the Pottstown Mercury charging that the station was "pirating" the newspaper's news. The station filed a petition in the U.S. District Court in Philadelphia asking that the federal court assert jurisdiction on the ground that the newspaper's allegations involve the federal copyright laws.

The newspaper charges that WPAZ used local news items from its pages without permission. This is denied by the radio station. WPAZ asked the local court to dismiss the complaint because of the copyright angle, but this the local court refused to do. A Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruling last month upheld the local court (Broadcasting, July 8).

Bill would require airing of national anthem

Radio and television stations would be required to play the "Star Spangled Banner" at the opening and close of each broadcast day under terms of a bill introduced Thursday (Aug. 8) by Representative John W. Wydler (R-N.Y.).

The bill, HR 8010, provides that stations which broadcast 24 hours a day, 52 (GOVERNMENT) would carry the national anthem at least once a day. Many U. S. stations open and close with the anthem.

Another congressman, Representative Frank T. Bow (R-OH), noted on the floor of the House late last month that he had been told some stations were signing off and on the air with Lester Lanin's recording of "Hail to the Chief," a presidential salute.

Mr. Lanin's office in New York said last week that the recordings were mailed out as a promotion. The office said neither it nor Mr. Lanin had any idea how many stations are using it.

FCC actions concern microwave and CATV

Microwave relay stations designed to serve community antenna television systems last week figured in three separate actions by the FCC.

Hearing Examiner Asher H. Ende in an initial decision advocated denying renewal of licenses for common carrier microwave facilities which serve CATV outlets at Page, Winslow, Holbrook and Cottonwood, all Arizona.

The hearing examiner found that the microwave facilities, owned by Bruce Merrill, could not show public need for their services. When the licenses came up for renewal several years ago, Mr. Merrill owned the CATV systems as well. When the commission enunciated the policy that microwave stations in the common carrier band had to devote 50% or more of their services to the public in order to qualify for automatic renewal, Mr. Merrill sold the microwave and CATV systems to Vu- more Inc. (RKO General), though he leased the microwave operations back. Examiner Ende said, so the two enterprises would be under separate control.

Examiner Ende said that Mr. Merrill had wanted to devote his time and money to other business, and retained nominal control of the microwave facilities only to allow Vumore to use them for CATV purposes. Hence, the hearing examiner said, the microwave services are not justified by public need and should therefore not be renewed.

The relationship between the owners of microwave facilities and CATV systems also figured in a decision by the FCC's Review Board. W. A. Henley's applications to build common carrier stations near Kerrville and Midway, both Texas, were referred by the board to a hearing examiner with an admonition to inquire into the control of Mr. Henley's company and the CATV system he is to serve, Junction Cable View of Junction, Tex.

How DO You snare a Gold-Crested Budgetspender?

Here is a story with a purpose:

Once upon a short time ago there was this fellow, you see, and he built up quite a reputation for himself by the way he kept capturing that most elusive of all birds, the gold-crested budgetspender. The other ornithologists (who were usually happy enough just having a lark) began to grow jealous. "How," they asked archly—his name is Fred K. Archly—"do you manage to find so many gold-crested budgetspenders?"

"Well, sir," said Fred (a quiet, courteous fellow), "I just ask myself: 'If I were a gold-crested budgetspender, where would I go?' Then I do. And they have. It's all just a simple matter of media strategy!"

Your advertising story has a purpose, too.

That's why this thinly-disguised allegory carries a message for you. There are all kinds of gold-crested budgetspenders flying around the firmament of the broadcast business. Some have bigger wingspreads than others—which makes them more desirable (albeit more elusive).

As everyone knows, a gold-crested budgetspender in the hand is worth a whole flock hidden behind a door marked "Radio-TV Department" or "General Manager" (depending which side of the street you're selling). And—at risk of scuttling Fred K. Archly's secret—just have to know when and where you can find gold-crested budgetspenders at rest. Then you go there. And they're receptive.

The "when" is the time they happen to be in need of specific, up-to-date, indubitably accurate facts about the broadcast business. Which, in their case, is often.

The "where" is the place most of them go to find such information—a rich feeder of factual nourishment known to them (and, we hope, you) as Broadcasting Yearbook. Like the reliable oak tree, it's a perennial mainstay that puts forth new, fresh foliage every year. It has been doing this more and more comprehensively for the past 33 years—which is only one reason why so many gold-crested budgetspenders are attracted to its authoritative boughs... uh, pages. (Allegory can sometimes be tricky.)

And—would you believe it?—WE also have a purpose.

The 1964 Broadcasting Yearbook will displace the best selling 1963 Broadcasting Yearbook come next December 1. Every gold-crested budgetspender worth his salt will then send the old, frayed copy to his company's Reference Library, putting the bright, mint-new, bigger-than-ever edition within easy reach on his desk.

When he opens it (which could be a dozen times a day), his mind attuned to matters of budget-spending—will you be there? With your story? With the kind of facts about yourself to influence his decisions?

Fred K. Archly will. He's already sent in his space reservation for the 1964 Broadcasting Yearbook, smart fellow. But there are quite a few other prominent, advantageous positions still open. We can't guarantee for how long. (Here is a happy case where the early bird gets something really worthwhile for his foresight.) Lots of people are interested in making profitable contact with gold-crested budgetspenders. Some of them are probably those birds of prey you call competitors.

You can read a frank appraisal of the 1964 Broadcasting Yearbook's virtues in the column at right. The average reader will absorb all the facts in 74.3 seconds. But if you read faster, you can reserve your space that much sooner. Never put off until tomorrow what you can do TODAY—particularly when you're invited to call your nearest Broadcasting office collect. (We also accept postage-due mail.)
Some anonymous genius (with a flair for descriptive precision) has aptly called this—

WHY? Because the 1964 BROADCASTING Yearbook is a veritable library of 50 separate directories, comprising the most complete assembly of information about the radio and TV business ever published... yet all compacted with editorial skill into a single, easy-to-use volume.

The 1964 BROADCASTING Yearbook (biggest yet) will have nearly 650 pages, two-thirds of a million words, all tabbed for instant reference under six main sections:

A. Television Facilities
B. AM/FM Radio Facilities
C. Broadcast Equipment/FCC Rules
D. Codes/Program Services
E. Representatives/Networks/Trade Groups
F. Agencies/Advertisers/Billings

In short, this unique one-book encyclopedia covers every possible background fact needed by people who work with, and in, the world of broadcasting. No other reference work even approaches the thoroughness with which it documents the radio-TV business, including associated arts and services.

Your advertisement, strategically placed in the 1964 BROADCASTING Yearbook, will keep making multiple impressions throughout the whole 12-month life of this remarkable source book. It can be one of your most successful promotional investments because it delivers your story at the very times the people who buy are most receptive.

Circulation: 20,000 copies
Publication: December 1
Rates: same as BROADCASTING Magazine.
Deadline: final date is October 1; if advance proofs are required, September 15.
Special Positions: subject to immediate space reservation. Write, wire or phone your nearest BROADCASTING advertising office (Washington, New York, Chicago or Hollywood).
Recommendation: Reserve the position you want—TODAY—before somebody else gets it!
A watchdog for the budget

A bill to set up a Joint Committee on the Budget, made up of seven members each from the appropriations committees of the House and Senate, was introduced in the House Tuesday (Aug. 6) by Representative Seymour Halpern (R-N.Y.). In addition to preparing analyses of the budgets of all U.S. agencies, the committee would review all fiscal and budgetary information and messages prepared by the executive branch.

GRAHAM’S WIDOW GETS ‘POST’ CONTROL

Will retain present management and policies

Voting control of the Washington Post Co. (Post-Newsweek Stations) has passed to Mrs. Katherine Meyer Graham, widow of Philip L. Graham, president and chief executive officer, who took his own life Aug. 3. Mrs. Graham controls 55% of the voting stock of the company, all of which is in a trust. The details became known last week when Mr. Graham’s will was filed in federal court in Washington.

Mrs. Graham announced last Wednesday that the policies and management of the company would remain unchanged. She is the daughter of the late Eugene Meyer who bought the failing Washington newspaper at public auction in 1933.

John S. Hayes, president of the Post-Newsweek Stations, is an executive vice president, chairman of the executive committee and a member of the board of the Washington Post Co. Also a member of the Washington Post Co. board is Glenn H. Marshall Jr., president of WJXT.

Mr. Graham was an active leader in Washington and national affairs. He was a friend of both President Kennedy and Vice President Johnson and was said to have had a hand in arranging the Kennedy-Johnson ticket at the 1960 Democratic National Convention.

A long-time resident of Florida, Mr. Graham is understood to have been instrumental in suggesting the name of Governor LeRoy Collins to the NAB committee seeking a president for the association following the death in 1960 of the late President Kennedy.

Senate votes $7 million for ETV KILLS PROXMIRE AMENDMENT TO CUT $2 MILLION

Federal funds for educational television are headed for a Senate-House conference committee following Senate action last week recommending $7 million for the program during fiscal 1964. This is $2 million more than voted by the House as part of an overall appropriations bill for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

A program of matching federal funds for ETV was authorized by Congress in 1961 to be administered by HEW and $1.5 million was appropriated last year. The department has not made any grants under the program. Three additional applications for federal money were filed last week, making a total of 17 pending. A HEW spokesman said the first grants probably would be made late this month. The 17 applications seek a total of $3,155,418 for either the construction of new ETV stations or the improvement of existing facilities.

The $7 million voted by the Senate is intended to provide 27 grants for new stations and 18 for expansion of existing stations. Senator William Proxmire (D-Wis.) offered an amendment on the Senate floor reducing the appropriation to the $5 million approved by the House. The amendment was defeated.

Also last week, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People withdrew plans to protest three applications now pending with HEW (BROADCASTING, Aug. 5). NAACP had received an extension until Aug. 30 to comment on requests for federal funds for WHER-AM Hampton, Va., and new outlets in Charleston and Greenville, both South Carolina. In asking for the extension, the NAACP said that the stations are located in areas which practice school segregation and that most likely the TV stations would be used in the same way.

In withdrawing its plans to file a protest, the NAACP said that it did not want to prevent the stations involved from completing their plans or obstruct them in any way.

New applications received by HEW: University of Utah for $246,131 to expand the facilities of KUED (ch. 7) Salt Lake City. Miami (Ohio) University for $127,504 to improve WMMB-TV (ch. 14) Oxford, Ohio. Delta (Michigan) College for $187,049 to build a new station on channel 19 in Bay City, Mich.

TV 'reruns' teach copyediting

Reruns have invaded the closed circuit educational television field, and while the shows are old, the students are new.

At the University of Missouri School of Journalism, 22 teachers taking courses under a Wall Street Journal grant have learned copy-editing through TV. The teachers saw eight taped lectures of the 30 shown to the regular beginning copy classes.

The instructor, Dale R. Spencer, said using TV in this manner "to teach one of the basic disciplines of journalism" allows him to do some of the things that are not possible in a regular lecture session.

By watching the television the students see Mr. Spencer editing copy and can then follow the markings and editings on their copy. In addition to the taped classes, there are two weekly live lab periods.

The eternal scholastic problem of keeping textbooks current with the times is also dealt with in the television courses. But the revision may be simpler and less costly. Four or five new tapes will be made for use in the fall semester, bringing the subject up to date.

of Harold Fellows.

Governor Collins, who just returned from Friday, issued a statement last Tuesday from Tallahassee, Fla., in which he asked Mr. Graham's death was an "extremely heavy" personal loss and leaves "a real void in the whole communications industry."

Memorial services for Mr. Graham were held last Wednesday at Washington Cathedral (Episcopal) in Washington. Among those attending was President Kennedy.

Born in South Dakota, Mr. Graham was born July 18, 1915, in South Dakota, but was taken to Florida by his parents when he was six years old. He was graduated from the University of Florida in 1936, and Harvard Law School, where he was editor of the Law Review, in 1939. He was a law clerk to U. S. Supreme Court Justices Stanley Reed and Felix Frankfurter.

In 1942 he enlisted in the Army Air Corps as a private and when the war ended in 1945 he was a major in the intelligence staff of the Far Eastern Air Force.

He married Katherine Meyer in 1940. He was named president and publisher of the Post in 1946. He relinquished the title of publisher in 1961.

Under Mr. Graham's leadership the Post became one of the country's leading newspapers and entered television and radio seriously. In 1954 it bought out its only morning competition, the Washington Times-Herald, from the late Colonel Robert McCormick. In 1961 it acquired Newsweek magazine, and last year Art News and Portfolio.

Although it had owned the then winx-am-fm in Washington for several years, in 1950 the Post and CBS (as a 45% owner) bought the channel 9 woci(tv) from Bamberger Broadcasting Service Inc. for $1.4 million. Four years later the Post bought out the CBS interest for $3.5 million. In 1953, it bought the then wmb(FM)-tv Jacksonville from Ed Norton, Frank King and Glenn H. Marshall Jr. for $2.47 million; later it sold off the radio stations to WWDC Inc. (wwdc-am-fm Washington) for $375,000. Only three months ago, WWDC Inc. sold the Jackson-ville radio stations to Charles E. Smith (wtma-am-fm Charleston, S.C.) for $400,000.

Comsat Chairman Mr. Graham's interests and activities ranged far. When the Communications Satellite Corp. was first established, Mr. Graham was named by the President as chairmain of the incorporators. He resigned last January due to his ill health.

He also was a director of the National Press Building Corp. and of the Advertising Council Inc., a trustee of the Committee for Economic Development, the University of Chicago, George Washington University (in Washington) and the RAND Corp. He was a member of the National Press Club, Metropolitan Club and Burning Tree Club.

In addition to his widow, Mr. Graham leaves four children.

Jefferson Standard gives gear to S.C. ETV

Jefferson Standard Broadcasting Co., has donated TV equipment valued at more than $47,500 to the South Carolina Educational Television Center, according to Charles H. Crutchfield, Jefferson Standard Broadcast president.

Equipment includes a complete television transmitter and associated parts, projectors, monitors and other gear. The South Carolina Educational Television Commission is planning a channel 19 UHF at Greenville and a channel 7 VHF in Charleston.

R. Lynn Kalmbach, general manager of the television center, noted the timeliness of the donation "since my budget was cut nearly $65,000 in this legislative session."

WFIL-TV wants fewer ratings reports

Larger samples and fewer reports might spell greater accuracy in broadcast ratings, WFIL-TV Philadelphia has suggested to the American Research Bureau, which now supplies the station's television data.

The proposal advanced by the station asks for a reduction of ARB reports on the Philadelphia market from 10 to four a year, but a sample enlarged from 490 units to 2,400 units. The revenue realized by ARB would remain the same.

WFIL-TV said the adoption of its suggestion would "provide greater stability and validity to demographic data" and would keep the cost of the reports within the economic limits of both the stations and the research organization. And whenever it uses ARB statistics in printed matter, the station said, it will include a note cautioning that the figures are only estimates.

Pulse realigns method of audience measurement

The Pulse Inc. announced last week that it was discontinuing coincidental interviews and increasing its roster reconstruction (aided recall) interviewing in its audience measurements. It said the change, yielding a larger sample for each quarter-hour's ratings base, was effective Aug. 1 in most markets, and will be made Sept. 1 in the rest.

Pulse said its two years' experience with coincidental interviewing showed that it added nothing to the information gained by the firm's roster reconstruction interviewing. The change, officials said, is "part of a continuing process whereby radio audience research may have a maximum of clarity, dependability and usefulness as a tool in management and sales."

Rough waters for WAME, but it won't give up

WAME Miami, suing two major broadcast audience research companies, had its complaint against The Pulse Inc. dismissed from the Circuit Court of Dade county Monday (Aug. 5), but the station's lawyers promised that WAME would bring charges in the U.S. District Court. A Pulse motion to dismiss because of lack of jurisdiction was pending when WAME asked dismissal.

Later in the day the station was told that its complaint in the same federal court against the A. C. Nielsen Co. was too lengthy and too broad. WAME was given 30 days to amend its filing.

The station filed separate suits against both companies in the circuit court this spring (BROADCASTING, May 6, et seq.), but has been unable to get beyond defendant motions for dismissal. WAME is asking $250,000 each from Nielsen and Pulse, charging them with misrepresenting their surveys for metropolitan Miami between 1959 and 1963.

Irving J. Whitman, WAME attorney, said last week that the station's early difficulties in shaping its complaint and getting into the proper court have not been unexpected. He explained that there is no precedent for the actions.

WAME brought the suits against Pulse and Nielsen in the midst of a lengthy hearing on audience research which was conducted by the House Special Subcommittee on Investigations, headed by Representative Oren Harris (D-Ark.) (BROADCASTING, Feb. 18, et seq.). Both firms were principals in the subcommittee hearing.

Pulse gives Tucson group some 'courtesy' answers

The Pulse Inc. has informed Tucson (Arizona) Broadcasters Inc. that questionnaires, with respondents masked out, upon which a March Pulse rating of Tucson stations was based, are available for inspection in New York.

Nine of 10 Tucson radio stations had questioned the survey, which showed one station jumping from seventh to first in the market with no promotions or change in format (BROADCASTING, July 1). TBI had asked Pulse for a satisfactory explanation of "procedures" used in the March survey and of the "radical difference" in ratings since an October 1962 survey of the same market. They also asked for a description of the sample size, how it was selected and the names of those interviewed.

Dr. Sydney Roslow, president of Pulse, replied that "as a matter of courtesy, I am affording you answers to those questions which we as a responsible organization may give you." He said sample size is explained in the report itself, which shows 193 plus 45 roster reconstructions interviews totalling 238 and 781 house-to-house coincidental interviews. Sample areas were selected by a counting procedure, using 1960 census data, Dr. Roslow said.

The Pulse letter to TBI did not discuss the "radical differences" in the two surveys, six months apart. TBI has formed a special investigating committee on the Pulse survey headed by Harry Chambers, president of KTAN.

Kintner tours Europe

Robert E. Kintner, president of NBC, was to leave New York last Friday (Aug. 9) on a three-week trip to Europe where he will meet with NBC News officials and correspondents in four cities.

Mr. Kintner will inspect NBC operations in Rome, London, Paris and Berlin. In Rome, Mr. Kintner will meet with correspondent Irving R. Levine. He will confer with correspondent Kenneth Bernstein and Gerald Adler, director of European operations of NBC International, London. He will then travel to Paris where he will meet with Bernard Frizell, bureau chief and to Germany for meetings with correspondent Welles Hangen and Gary Stindt, chief of NBC News Film in Central Europe.

Changing hands...

ANNOUNCED * The following sales of station interests were reported last week subject to FCC approval:

- KVII(TV) Amarillo, Tex.: Sold by Trigg-Vaughn group to John B. Walton Jr. for $1.25 million. Mr. Walton owns KVKM-AM-TV Monahans-Odessa, and KFNE-FM Big Springs, both Texas. Trigg-Vaughn (Cecil L. Trigg, Jack C. Vaughn) owns KROD-AM-TV El Paso, KOSA-AM-TV Odessa, both Texas, and KRNA San Bernardino, Calif. The Trigg-Vaughn group acquired KVII in 1958 from John L. McCarty and associates for $136,052. KVII, on channel 7, began operating in 1957 and is affiliated with ABC-TV.

- WKTG Thomasville, Ga.: Sold by Mrs. Eunice M. Martin and associates to Mrs. Lem J. Clark of Macon, Ga., and group for $95,000. WKTG operates on 730-kc with 1 kw daytime only. Broker was Chapman Co.

Russells buy CATV system

Frank M. Russell, former NBC Washington vice president, and his wife, Phoebe, have purchased CATV systems in Norton and Appalachia, Va. The price was not disclosed. This gives them their third interest in a cable system. Mrs. Russell owns 50% of a CATV operation in Ellington, Wash. The Virginia systems, which are interconnected, have about 1,000 connections. They were bought from Harold C. Bailey, who owns a system in Pineville, Ky. Mr. Russell, since his retirement as NBC vice president July 1, 1958, has acted as Washington consultant for RCA-NBC, Jerrold Electronics and other entities.
CBS, IBEW stop contract talks

Negotiations between CBS and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers have been broken off, following a failure of company and union representatives to agree on terms of a new contract for the technical employees at the CBS radio and TV networks and the CBS-owned radio and TV stations, to succeed the agreement that expired at midnight of July 31. Work has continued without interruption since that date under an agreement that the terms of the former contract shall remain in effect until a new one is adopted or until formal notice is given of a desire for termination.

Breakdown of negotiations, which had been held in Hollywood during the last two weeks in July, are reportedly the result of differences in the company and union views of a satisfactory wage increase over the present base scale of $200 a week. IBEW is said to have proposed a new two-year contract calling for an increase of $15 the first year and another increase of the same amount the second year. CBS is reported to have proposed a three-year agreement, with an increase of $8 the first year, $3 the second and none the third year. CBS negotiators are also said to have flatly rejected the IBEW demand for a four-day, 32-hour work week. The company, in what was described as a "precedent-breaking proposal," offered a sabbatical vacation plan for workers with 25 years or more of service, which would give these men 10-week vacations with pay every five years.

The previous contract was a 2½-year agreement that went into effect Feb. 1, 1961, at which time the IBEW members employed by CBS received a $10 weekly increase (from $190 to $200) plus fringe benefits including medical and hospitalization insurance and substantial improvements in the arrangements for severance pay for those workers laid off by the company (BROADCASTING, Feb. 20, 1961).

TIO's Danish has high hopes for future

Roy Danish, director of the Television Information Office, expressed the hope last week that "the day may yet come" when broadcasters will be accorded the respect and confidence given to other professional men.

"Ordinarily there is a presumption in favor of the competence and professional judgment of the attorney, the doctor, the accountant," he told the commencement convocation of the Syra-

Way to make more dough

Broadcasting and baking ovens may not seem to go together, but there's one broadcaster who has made the move. He's J. B. Fuqua, owner of WJBF(TV) Augusta, Ga., who has bought 100% of Claussen Bakeries Inc., for more than $5 million. The 122-year-old baking firm is headquartered in Augusta and serves Savannah, Charleston and Greenville areas.

The present $400,000 Claussen advertising budget, Mr. Fuqua said, will be increased, with greater emphasis to be placed on the broadcast media. At present Claussen uses 12 TV stations and a large number of radio stations in South Carolina and Georgia. The bakery officially was bought by Georgia-Carolina Broadcasting Co., licensee of the channel 6 Augusta station. Mr. Fuqua also owns WROZ Evansville, Ind.

Radio banned on buses

The portable radio, banned from Baltimore city buses earlier this year, now finds itself unwanted on Columbus, Ohio, public conveyances. Declaring "the world we live in is noisy enough," C. Howard Johnson Jr., the city's utilities director, has placed signs requesting passengers to keep the sets off. If the request doesn't work, warns Mr. Johnson, more drastic steps will be taken.

K BAT to join ABC

K BAT San Antonio, Tex., will be affiliated with ABC starting Sept. 16. The station operates with 50 kw daytime and 10 kw nighttime on 680 kc. KBAT is owned and operated by Texas Star Broadcasting Co. Roy Hofheinz is president; W. Robert McKinsey is station manager.

Negroes step up drives on radio-TV
CORE BIDS FOR JOBS IN COMMERCIALS; NAACP MAKES BROAD DEMANDS

Two powerful Negro movements are converging on television and radio to gain added recognition for their race in employment and representation in programs and commercials.

In Los Angeles, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People—which has been negotiating with employers and unions in film production—turned its attention to broadcasting last week. At a meeting scheduled for last Friday (Aug. 9), the NAACP was to present demands to advertising agencies, broadcasters and labor groups in radio and television. That the NAACP attached special significance to the Los Angeles meeting was indicated by the planned appearance of Roy Wilkins, NAACP president. Mr. Wilkins has not been present at the meetings with the film industry.

In New York, the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) has begun a campaign to place Negro performers in commercials. The campaign has already had results. Lever Bros. has prepared a commercial featuring a Negro for presentation on network television next fall.

NAACP in Los Angeles • Arrangements for Friday’s meeting in Los Angeles were made by that city’s local of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists, acting at NAACP’s request. AFTRA sent invitations to some 300 representatives of advertising agencies, stations, networks, unions and other organizations in the broadcast field.

James Tolbert, president of the Hollywood-Beverly Hills chapter of the NAACP, said earlier in the week that he hoped to persuade the broadcasting business in the West that the integration of Negroes was “good business as well as good morals.” Mr. Tolbert said that the sizable Negro population in the Los Angeles area “represents a good market for the goods and services of organizations that the Negro feels treat him fairly.

“The inclusion of Negroes along with whites in training and orientation programs set up by stations, networks, agencies and unions is long overdue,” Mr. Tolbert said.

CORE in New York • In the East the campaign for Negro representation in television advertising made progress when it was revealed that Lever Bros. had taped a commercial featuring a Negro performer for showing on CBS-TV’s Art Linkletter’s House Party next fall. The commercial is for Lever’s All detergent.

It was also learned that the New York chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality plans to meet with another major TV advertiser early this week to

How public service cartoons do a job for professional groups

“Almost overnight we’ve become the country’s largest producer of public service television spots. And it all started because my wife wore her big feathered hat to the Radio-Television News Directors Association’s 1961 fall convention in Washington.”

That’s how Charles A. Ranallo, vice president of Television News Art Inc., Cleveland, recalls his young company’s brief but successful history in the TV cartoon animation business for several major professional organizations. He described the firm’s new public service cartoon series of spots for the American Bar Association last Friday during an ABA public relations institute in Chicago. FCC Commissioner Robert E. Lee also participated (see AT DEADLINE).

“It seems that the feathers in my wife’s hat tickled the eye of Dick Reinauer, then radio-TV director for the American Medical Association,” Mr. Ranallo said. Mr. Reinauer halted his inspection tour of the RTNDA exhibits long enough to comment about the hat and discover Mr. Ranallo and his company’s cartoon product.

The result of that chance 1961 RTNDA meeting: Television News Art dropped its growing business of supplying some two dozen TV stations with still cartoons each day on current news events and went into cartoon animation.

The initial product was a public service spot series for the American Medical Association.

The AMA series of educational TV spots deals with such broad topics as medical quackery, the medicine chest at home, sun bathing, artificial respiration etc. They are produced one each month and now run discuss that company's plans on the casting of Negroes in its television commercials.

The company will be selected from a number of prominent broadcast users, including Procter & Gamble, Colgate-Palmolive, General Foods, General Mills and Best Foods, according to a reliable source.

A spokesman for CORE pointed out that the companies being reviewed are all heavy television advertisers and manufacturers of consumer products. The choice of the firm will be based on the amount of money it spends in television advertising, its record on representation of Negroes in its commercials, and the significance attached to its corporate name.

Threat of Boycott • He said that CORE was ready to initiate its program of "selective purchasing" if it could not come to a favorable agreement with the company. In this effort, he added, CORE has enlisted the support of a number of community organizations and unions including the Protestant Council of New York, United Federation of Teachers and the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

Lever Bros. has been reviewing the matter, however, since last May in an effort to discover whether it "might be good business to use a broader representation of America in its advertising," the company spokesman said.

James Farmer, national director of CORE, and P. Jay Sidney, a Negro actor and consultant to the organization, met with officials of Lever earlier this month. Lever informed Mr. Farmer that it was making the commercial and agreed to have it on the air between Sept. 15 and Sept. 30, according to a reliable source.

The commercial will feature Art Linkletter standing in the audience with a Negro woman who says that she is a user of All.

Lever, in addition to making the new commercial, is sending letters to its six advertising agencies informing them of its decision to "take affirmative action" in the representation of minority races on TV.

The company, which is the third largest advertiser in television, reportedly is also notifying the networks and independent producers of its desire to "mirror fully a representative cross-section of America" in its programs.

The Film Campaign • Although the NAACP in Los Angeles was primarily interested last week in its new move against broadcasting, it has not abandoned its campaign for recognition in the production of television and theatrical films.

The association has met with film producers and unions (Broadcasting, Aug. 5, July 29, 22). Asked about progress on that front, the NAACP's Tolbert said last week that the immediate goal "is to make everyone in the film industry aware that the time has come to give employment opportunities to Negroes. We expect the guilds and unions to alert their members through their various bulletins and publications. Personal contacts will be used to get the message to studio heads, production officials and that kind of executive in employer organizations. We've been promised this kind of cooperation and we expect to get it."

No date has been set for the next meeting of the studio producers committee established at the meeting of July 31, he said, but one probably will be held within the next few weeks.

Mr. Tolbert said that although a number of studio unions have held meetings to discuss the proposal that they add Negro members at least in the one-to-nine proportion of Negroes in the U. S., none of them had reported to the NAACP what the outcome of the meetings has been. Mostly, it has been negative, with the adoption of resolutions expressing sympathy with the aspirations of Negroes to work in motion pictures, but stating that such hopes are impractical at this time.

Publicists' Action • One exception was the action taken last week by the Publicists Association, Local 818 of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, whose executive board issued a statement expressing "the basic right of all qualified persons of any race, creed or religion to belong to any union and be given equal opportunities for employment without any designation as to the proportion of races or minority representation on individual crews or projects."

Pointing out that its own membership has always been open to all, the publicists' board proposed that "the interests of all minority persons and regard to employment opportunities in the motion picture industry should be safeguarded by an overall committee representing all of the unions who, in turn, will work with all bona fide representatives of minority groups."

The proposal that certification actions be filed with the National Labor Relations Board against unions discriminating against Negroes will not be acted on immediately, Mr. Tolbert said. Robert Carter, general counsel of the NAACP, will be in Los Angeles following the demonstration scheduled to Additional cartoon public service spots now are being produced and distributed by TNA for the American Dental Association (200 stations), American Veterinary Medical Association (205 stations) and the American Bar Association (started in May and now on about 250 stations). Mr. Reinert is handling radio-TV for ABA this week during the group's convention in Chicago.

Mr. Ranallo formerly was TV production director for Storer Broadcasting Co. for 11 years, working at WJW-TV Cleveland. It was at WJW that he got to know Rick Reinert, who now is president of TNA. Mr. Reinert was art director for Storer there and earlier had been with MGM's Terrytoons in Hollywood. They left Storer and formed TNA in 1960. TNA also has done industrial cartoon films for Chrysler Corp. and Republic Steel.

Mr. Ranallo said that six months after the AMA spots started he surveyed the TV stations carrying them and found they were being used an average of 13 times a month per station. AMA's spots in 1964 will include four in color. All TNA animations for TV until now have been black-and-white.

Television's great public service spirit was cited by Mr. Ranallo during his talk before the ABA institute Friday. He explained that ABA has just embarked upon a regular spot series as a result of the tremendous station response to the initial spot distributed earlier this year in behalf of ABA for "Law Day, May 1, 1963." Local bar groups help defray print costs for ABA in some areas.

"The ABA and broadcasters may not be in agreement on Canon 35 which stops radio and television from courtroom coverage," Mr. Ranallo observed, "but there certainly is no disagreement over the importance of public service."

ABA's spots deal with such topics as jury duty, legal responsibilities when one gets married, auto accidents, credit cards etc.

Mr. Ranallo told the ABA meeting he has just surveyed stations using the new ABA spots and has found the frequency rate on 110 out of some 250 stations carrying them averages nine exposures per month per station. If bought commercially the monthly time costs to ABA would top $400,000, he estimated.

And that is a lot of feathers for television's cap, too, Mr. Ranallo told the ABA.
take place Aug. 28 in Washington, and the matter will be reviewed by him then. Meanwhile, Mr. Tolbert reported, the NAACP is encouraging Negroes with the qualification for membership in the studio craft unions to apply for membership.

"No union is going to be able any longer to hide behind a statement that the only reason is has no Negro members is that no Negro has applied for membership," the NAACP official stated. "We're going to see that membership applications are filed, and we'll know who filed them, and we'll also know what action was taken on them. Then we can guide ourselves accordingly."

CBS has problems with Garland show

For the second time in three weeks, CBS-TV found itself in the market for a producer last week.

The resignation of George Schlatter, producer of the Judy Garland Show, and his staff of three writers, marked the second of the network's new programs for the fall to lose its producer in mid-stream.

Earlier, John Houseman resigned his post as producer of The Great Adventure series, after the completion of six of the programs, and he was replaced by Bert Granet.

Mr. Schlatter's resignation followed completion of five taped programs, and was prompted by what the network called a difference of opinion about the future course of the production. CBS-TV moved quickly to fill the vacancy by offering Norman Jewison the post as executive producer and Gary Smith the job of producer, but as of late last week no word had been received from either of the men. According to the offer, the new producers would appoint their own writers to complete the show's staff.

Writers resigning from the Garland show were John Bradford, head writer, and Tom and Frank Waldman. One report indicated that Cy Howard had been asked if he would be interested in writing special material for the show, but he made no immediate answer.

Actors' pact may be reopened for pay TV

If subscription television becomes a reality, the way is cleared for a return trip to the negotiating table to pinpoint the method of payment to union screen actors.

The new collective bargaining agreement reached by negotiating committees of the Screen Actors Guild, the Motion Picture Producers Association and the Alliance of Television Film Producers sets the framework for such definitive talks at any warranted time even though the news actors' contract runs for two years.

The pact, subject to ratification by the boards of the three organizations and by the membership of SAG, provides that it may be reopened for discussion of terms for pay TV by either party, on due notice after Dec. 31, 1963. And, if no agreement is reached within 60 days, either side may cancel the entire contract. It also calls for any producer of motion pictures intended primarily for pay television to negotiate terms with SAG before employing any actors and, if no agreement is reached within 60 days, SAG may tell its members not to work for that producer.

This falls far short of the SAG demand at the opening of contract negotiations in March. At that time, the guild announced that it was asking for payment to actors of 6% of the world-wide gross receipts from pay TV (minus distribution expenses of not more than 40% of the gross) in addition to the original pay the actors receive for making the picture. SAG also asked that when the picture was first released to pay TV, the producer pay each actor a sum not less than 75% of the applicable minimum compensation as a "nonreturnable advance" against his share in the worldwide gross. (The SAG contract continues the previous provision that actors receive 6% of world gross [less 40%] resulting from the sale of theatrical movies to free TV, but without advance payment.)

The contract also calls for a nondiscrimination policy in casting by the producers. A new provision in the contract permits the present 50-50 allocation of employers' contributions to the SAG health and welfare plan and its pension plan to be changed by mutual agreement between the guild and the producers.

Warner Bros. Records, Sinatra's Reprise merge

Warner Bros. Records and Reprise Records Co. will merge into a single company, Warner Bros. Records-Reprise Co., early next month, it was announced last week by Jack L. Warner, president, Warner Bros., and Frank Sinatra, owner of Reprise Records.

John (Mike) Maitland, president of Warner Bros. Records, will be president of the combined company and Morris Ostin will continue to head operations of the Reprise division, with both labels remaining active and no changes contemplated in distributors, foreign licensees or personnel.

A separate agreement calls for the employment of Mr. Sinatra as a consultant on theatrical and TV pictures to Warner Bros. Pictures. A third deal, still under discussion, would have Warner Bros., finance and distribute films produced by Sinatra Enterprises.

Drama specials get sponsors

United Artists Television reported last week that its six one-hour Wolper-UA-TV dramatic specials, scheduled for distribution in November 1963, are already fully sponsored in 33 markets. The company reported further that stations in 36 markets had cleared prime time for their presentation.
Even brave men tremble

It's still hard to understand that strange phenomenon in the broadcast business known as "mike fright," particularly when it affects a person whose fame rests on daredevil courage.

Craig Breedlove set a world land speed record in Utah driving his jet-engine racer at 407 miles an hour on the salt flats. He was interviewed soon after for Mutual's The World Today (8:05-8:30 p.m., EDT), but it was necessary to retape a four-minute segment three times because of Mr. Breedlove's extreme nervousness. He later apologized to Louise Barry, the program's producer, explaining that he was "frightened" by microphones.

Georg ETV's to decide fate of feature movies

A special meeting of the regents of the University System of Georgia will be held in Atlanta tomorrow (Tuesday) to "take whatever action is necessary" in a dispute over the use of feature movies on Georgia's three educational TV stations.

Last spring the Georgia Association of Broadcasters protested the use of movies, some of which had been purchased by commercial outlets, during prime time on the ETV stations (Broadcasting, May 6). A GAB spokesman said that since the earlier complaint to the regents, the three TV stations—WGTV Athens, WETV Atlanta and WXGA-TV Waycross—had reduced the use of movies to a single night per week. All three stations are programmed during evening hours by WGTV.

Tuesday's meeting has been called by James A. Dunlap, chairman of the board of regents, Raymond E. Carrow, WALB-TV Albany and president of the GAB, and Jack Williams, GAB executive secretary, have been invited to attend.

WJOR loses ASCAP case

A U. S. district court in Michigan has awarded three publisher members of ASCAP a $750 judgment against WJOR South Haven, Mich., for unauthorized broadcast of three ASCAP songs. Judge W. Wallace Kent also ordered WJOR to pay $200 in attorneys' fees and court costs.

The songs involved are "S Wonderful" (World Music Corp.), "My Funny Valentine" (Chappell & Co.) and "The Guns of Navarone" (Columbia Pictures Music Corp.). Judge Kent also granted the publishers an injunction which restrains WJOR from broadcasting the three songs in the future.

Program notes...

Sacramento news bureau • KNXT(TV)

Los Angeles is establishing a fulltime broadcast news bureau in Sacramento, capital of California. The bureau, consisting of a reporter-cameraman team will be located in the state capital building to provide daily film coverage of government activities for KNXT's The Big News, which is extending its air time from 60 to 90 minutes Sept. 2, and other news programs. The bureau is expected to be in full operation by Aug. 19, according to Roy Heath, KNXT director of news.

'Bachelors' for '64-'65 • Tandem Enterprises Inc. and United Artists Television Inc. have reached a joint agreement to produce a half-hour television comedy series for the 1964-65 season, The Bachelors. Bud Yorkin and Norman Lear will develop and produce the new series.

EQUIPMENT & ENGINEERING

First Symco II relays labeled as successes

America’s new stationary communications satellite twice last week successfully transmitted still photographs between the United States and Nigeria, as well as teletype news dispatches.

On Aug. 4, Symco II relayed a picture of President Kennedy from Lakehurst to the U. S. S. Kingsport, anchored in Lagos harbor. A photograph of Nigeria’s governor-general was simultaneously moved from Nigeria to an Army Signal Corps ground station at Lakehurst, N. J.

On Aug. 8, the Associated Press transmitted a picture of the Nigerian ambassador to the United Nations and the son of the Nigerian governor general from Lakehurst to Nigeria.

Reception of the pictures in both instances was termed excellent.

Symco II, launched July 26 from Cape Canaveral, Fla., is in orbit about 22,800 miles above the earth. When it reaches the desired position at 55° west longitude ground commands by scientists of the National Aeronautics & Space Administration will fire gas jets to “lower” the satellite to its proper 22,300 mile high orbit, where it will “hover” over the earth with little perceptible movement. The synchronous satellite was built for NASA by Hughes Aircraft Co.

Technical topics…

New film editor • Harwald Co., Evans- ton, Ill., last week introduced a new 16mm film editing machine designed for TV stations and producers which features solid state circuits and several other improvements over its earlier model Q unit. Price: $5,450.

Award winner • A portable video tape recorder designed and produced by Machtronics Inc. of Mountain View, Calif., has won the 1963 paceetter award for the fifth annual Wecon industri al design competition. Kurt R. Machen of Machtronics was the project engineering supervisor. The design was created and carried out by Robert Montgomery, design director, and his colleagues at the San Francisco industrial design firm of Hisata, Ishimaru, Montgomery and Marsh.

Altec Lansing expands • Altec Lansing Corp., subsidiary of Ling Temco Vought and a major manufacturer of amplifiers, speaker systems, microphones and other sound equipment for use in studio, stage or home, has acquired Gosek Inc., communications equipment manufacturer, formerly a division of Young Spring & Wire Corp. Gosek operations will be moved from Burbank, Calif., to a new building with more than 50,000 square feet of space at Altec Lansing’s location in Anaheim, Calif.

Film protection • National Educational Television & Radio Center, Ann Arbor, Mich., has obtained a franchise from Panafil Inc. for installation of that company’s Perma Film and Perma New equipment at NET’s Ann Arbor film center. Permafilm says it has now made 67 such installations in 24 countries.

Stereo receiver • McMartin Industries, Omaha, announced last week it is now producing its new TBM-1500 FM stereo rebroadcast receiver which enables an FM station to directly retransmit an FM stereo multiplex program without first demodulating and then regenerating the composite wave form. The unit first was displayed last April at NAB’s Chicago convention. Price: $450.

New all-channel converters • Jerrold Electronics Corp. has announced its entrance into the all-channel UHF converter market with the introduction of two models. The Super-Vista model is designed specifically for “weak signal areas” and the Vista model for strong signal areas. Both models are mounted on top of the set and cover the complete UHF band. Jerrold also offers converters for translators.

Zenith antennas • Entry of Zenith into the antenna business with a full line of VHF, UHF, FM and stereo-FM antennas has been announced by L. C. Truesdell, president of Zenith Sales Corp. Complete lines of accessories also will be carried.

Low-speed hi-fi stereo

A new tape recorder capable of recording high fidelity stereo sound at 13% inches-per-second (one-quarter normal tape speed) to get up to eight hours of music on a single reel of tape has been introduced by Roberts Electronics, Los Angeles. New recorder (Model 770) utilizes a third head—the Roberts Crossfield head—to separate the recording and bias functions usually combined in a single head and so prevents the erasure of high frequencies occurring in other recorders. Robert O. Metzner, Roberts president, said. Model 770 operates at speeds of 7/8 and 3/4 as well as 7/16 IPS (with a 15 IPS kit available) and has an automatic shutoff switch for nonattended recording. The unit can be rack mounted.

New film editor

A projectola with a large picture, permitting three or four people to sit in on the editing of 16mm sound film, has been developed by S.O.S. Photo-Cine Optics Inc., New York and Hollywood. Priced at $679, the S.O.S. TV Newsfilm Projectola Editing/Timer unit has two-sprocket unitized timer/synchronizer, special circuit 10 w amplifier to mix any two tracks, built-in magnetic heads, optical soundhead, among other improvements. An alternate model, with a magnetic head built into each sprocket but without optical head, is available for $629.
NO AUTOMATIC RENEWALS—ITA’S HILL

Current British commercial contracts expire next July

There will be no rubber-stamp approvals when the present British commercial television companies seek renewal of their broadcast contracts, according to Lord Hill of Luton, new chairman of the Independent Television Authority.

Lord Hill, who took over July 1 as head of ITA, which oversees commercial television contractors in Great Britain, sounded this warning last week at his first news conference since becoming chairman. He emphasized that "present companies and new companies are to apply for any area they choose... and there will be a fair field for all."

Lord Hill pointed out that there will be a second network that could start sometime between autumn 1966 and the middle of 1967, but in the meanwhile there would be no big alteration in the structure of the commercial network.

Contracts of the 15 present companies expire at the end of July 1964. Applications will be invited for new contracts in September. Because of the possible start of a second network these contracts will have a three-year life, subject to conditions relating to uncertainty about a new network.

Lord Hill explained that there was now a question whether there should be "a fundamental recasting of the pattern from next July, bearing in mind that a drastic reshaping is likely to occur two or three years later." It would be wrong to do anything which prejudiced the long term plan, he said. Describing the near future as "an interim period during which the second phase will be planned" and a time when the expanded competition of BBC-TV will be felt, Lord Hill said the Authority had decided not to submit commercial television to two upheavals in a few years. With a few changes, the existing allocation of days and hours in the different network areas will continue during the interim period, he declared.

Lord Hill stressed he was speaking of the pattern of broadcasting, not of companies. Present companies and new ones could apply for any area they wished.

When there is a second network there possibly could be "six or more" companies broadcasting seven days a week, operating in competing pairs in the three major network regions, he said. An unspecified fourth region might also get all-week competition.

The new ITA chairman announced several regulatory changes in commercial television. He said he will; set up British television's first viewers' council to advise ITA on programing; regulate prices charged by big companies for programs carried by smaller companies; cut transmitter use rentals paid to ITA by smaller companies and increase those paid by bigger companies; instruct companies to screen educational programs produced by outside sources, including universities.

To make improvements and prepare for a second network, ITA will need $22.4 million a year, $7 million more than at present, it was said.

Calcutta transmitter poses problem to Voice

The Indian government wants to alter the terms of a contract under which the Voice of America would construct a 1 megawatt transmitter in Calcutta, Prime Minister Nehru said last week.

It was not revealed what provisions... of the contract prompted this, but the issue seemed to hinge on India's policy of foreign nonalignment. Communist leaders in the country organized protests on the grounds that the transmitter was "a clear infringement on our sovereignty."

The transmitter is planned to counter Communist Chinese propaganda broadcasts aimed at India, which explains in part why Communists in India strongly oppose the transmitter.

Under a provision of the contract, the Voice of America would be allowed to relay three to four peak hours daily of the station's broadcasts for the next five years, a clause which reportedly has been protested also.

Cubans jamming WBT's Russian language shows

Russian language broadcasts intended to reach Soviet personnel in Cuba and beamed from WBT Charlotte, N. C., have been subjected to extensive jamming operations, according to a letter from the Navy Department to the station.

Charles Crutchfield, president of the Jefferson Standard Broadcasting Co., which operates WBT, said the letter also revealed that the broadcasts have been monitored since May 24 at the U. S. Naval Base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, and that further monitoring will be done to determine whether the jamming is effective throughout the island.

If so, the programs will be rescheduled for different, random times, to confound the jamming procedures. The programs, which began on April 15, are beamed to Cuba daily at 12:30-12:45 p.m. and 4:45-5 p.m. EST. They are prepared by Radio Liberty in New York, and narrated by Boris Orshanksy, a former Soviet Army captain. The programs are fed by land line from New York to Charlotte, and feature news and background on international events, as well as coverage of the Soviet domestic scene.

Abroad in brief...

New film service • Editing Associates has been formed at Toronto to provide complete editing services to producers of TV commercials, TV film programs and motion pictures. Donald Ginsberg, formerly of the National Film Board, Ottawa, has formed the new company at 47 Dundonald Street, Toronto 5. Company does work in both English and French.

Rep appointments • Ckey Toronto, Ont., has appointed All-Canada Radio & Television Ltd., Toronto, as representatives in the United States and Canada, except Toronto. CFPA Port Arthur, Ont., has appointed Cam Logan & Associates Ltd., Toronto and Montreal, as station representative.

Nielson survey • A. C. Nielsen Co. of Canada Ltd., Toronto, is to make a cross-Canada study of radio and television station audiences during November and December for release early in 1964. About 50,000 homes are to be sampled for both radio and TV reception by mail ballot for in-home as well as out-of-home listening and viewing for all family members. Total daytime and nighttime circulation of each station will be reported, as well as the weekly circulation.

Canadian fact book • A 40-page fact book on broadcasting in Canada has been prepared and published by All-Canada Radio and Television Ltd., Toronto, Ont. The booklet gives a brief history of Canadian broadcasting, its various royal commission inquiries, broadcasting legislation and regulations, sales and audience measurement services, market data by provinces, networks, and lists all radio and television stations. The last two pages are devoted to the representative firm and the All-Canada offices in Canada and the United States.

Parliament on TV? Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has suggested that there should be inter-party talks when the British Parliament meets again next October on the advisability of televising a short edited program of proceedings in the House of Commons. Labor leader Harold Wilson has said his party would be glad to take part. Insisting that this was a matter for the whole House and not just the government, Mr. Macmillan said the talks would be aimed at getting the general view of the House.

Sweden in New York A New York studio will be opened in December by the Swedish Broadcasting Co., Sweden's noncommercial radio-TV network. It will be located in the Sperry Rand Building, 1290 Avenue of the Americas. The studio will tape television interviews and broadcast radio news reports directly to Sweden. The network, which has been represented in New York for more than 10 years, also has an office in Washington.

K&E in Central America Kenyon & Eckhard-Novas, Interamericana, has been appointed for Colgate-Palmolive products in Guatemala, Honduras, El Salvador, Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Panama. K&E has set up operating subsidiaries in Central America to service the account.

Promotion group An association aimed at promoting the interests of the 11 smaller television companies in the United Kingdom has been formed. It is called the British Regional Television Association Marquess Townshend, chairman of Anglia Television Ltd., is the chairman of the new association for the first year.

Rate increase The Austrian Broadcasting Service has announced a rate increase of 30% to 40% for its commercial television operations. The Austrian service is still fighting a financing gap which is resulting from a low growth rate in TV set circulation. Service is paid partly by set license fees and partly by commercial income. The number of licensed TV sets in Austria is now estimated at over 500,000 with a monthly increase rate of an estimated 20,000.

Commercial TV's audience Three out of every four homes in the United Kingdom commercial network areas can now watch commercial television. Latest Television Audience Measurement Ltd. figures show that commercial network programs can be seen by 12,633,000 homes, 91% of all television homes in areas covered by the network. TAM estimates that 41,020,000 viewers are now able to watch commercial television in the United Kingdom.

BBC-TV cuts reruns During this summer repeat programs will account for 3.4% of prime viewing time, 7:30 to 10 p.m. on BBC-TV. This compares with 3.5% last year and 4.8% in 1961.

Films on display The semi-annual International Film, TV-Film and Documentary Market exhibit will be held in Milan, Italy, on Oct. 14-24. Distributors in TV films and motion pictures may make arrangements to show their product by writing MIFED, Largo Domodossola 1, Milan, Italy. Last April 179 distributors from 54 foreign countries, including the U.S., displayed 1,526 TV and motion picture subjects.

Sales of own sets up Made-in-Canada receiving set sales in the first five months exceeded the same period last year, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, Ottawa. TV set sales totalled 146,970 in the January-May period this year as against 140,509 last year. Canadian-made radio receiver sales totalled 272,944 this year, compared with 237,648 in the first five months of 1962. Sales of radio sets were up in all categories except portables.

International role of radio-tv cited

Donald H. McGannon, president of Westinghouse Broadcasting (Group W) called for "an electronic rainbow of hope" throughout the world instead of "a rain of fall-out" last week in an address to a communications specialist seminar in Boston.

Mr. McGannon said the mushrooming number of radio and television receivers throughout the world is leading to stronger international bonds in both educational and entertainment areas. With broadening international understanding, he said, governments may someday use the electronic media for "round tables of the world" effectively aiding the work of the United Nations.

British programmer awards $32,200

Southern Television Ltd., one of Britain's commercial television companies, has made grants totaling $32,200 in the past year to the arts and sciences. Among the awards were $3,500 each to the Universities of Southampton and Sussex, $2,800 each to the Chichester Festival Theater and Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra.
Russians stop jamming Voice of America

The present feeling of a goodwill on the part of the Soviet Union would seem to have gone a step further with announcement that it has ceased to "jam" Voice of America programs directed behind the Iron Curtain.

An American diplomat in Moscow last week reported that the Soviet Union has notified the International Telecommunications Union that the jamming was stopped. This is the first time the jamming has been ceased since Premier Nikita Khrushchev's 1959 visit to the United States. However, Soviet satellite countries are still jamming.

The BBC also announced that its Russian language programing is now getting through intact, although this is not the case with Radio Free Europe or Radio Liberty.

German firm courts Yanks

Bavaria Atelier GmbH, German TV and film production company, is offering American producers use of its studios in Munich for independent production and has also announced interest in co-production deals with American companies.

The German producer reported last week that negotiations are in progress for distribution of some of its TV productions in this country.

Brochures mailed for commercial contest

The fourth annual International Broadcasting Awards competition, sponsored by the Hollywood Advertising Club, has been officially opened by this year's general chairman, John T. Reynolds, CBS-TV senior vice president, Hollywood. Brochures announcing the competition, open to all commercial stations for radio and television produced anywhere in the world and broadcast between Dec. 1, 1962, and Nov. 30, 1963, are going into the mail this month to 12,000 broadcasters, advertising agencies and commercial production firms.

Return postcards included with the brochures will bring kits with full information to anyone interested in entering one or more commercials in this year's competition. Deadline for entries is Dec. 1. Awards to the best-of-class commercials in 14 TV and 8 radio categories, plus special trophy awards for the best use of color, best use of music and the best public service spots, as well as sweepstakes awards for the world's best radio and TV commercials, will be presented Feb. 25, 1964, at an IBA banquet at the Hollywood Palladium.

Brochures and entry kits can be obtained from the Hollywood Advertising Club, 6362 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood 90028, California, USA. Cable address is HADCIBA.

CBC names Weed U.S. rep

The Canadian Broadcasting Corp.'s owned and operated English language TV stations have appointed Weed & Co., New York, as sales representative in the United States effective last week.

According to the rep firm this marks the first time the CBC has appointed a U.S. representative for its stations. The TV stations to be represented by Weed are CBUT Toronto, Ont.; CBMT Montreal, Que.; CBUT Vancouver, B.C.; CBOT Ottawa, Ont.; CBWT Winnipeg, Man.; CBXT Edmonton, Alberta; cbeft Halifax, N.S. and CBCT Corner Brook, Newfoundland.

FINANCIAL REPORTS

Zenith 6-month profit exceeds $7.6 million

COLOR TV SALES RESPONSIBLE FOR NEW RECORD

Sparked by a rapid growth in color television, Zenith Radio Corp. established a 45-year company record in both sales and earnings for the first half of 1963.

Distributor unit sales to dealers of Zenith color TV receivers increased nearly 100% over the similar 1962 period. In the black-and-white TV set field, Zenith factory shipments and distributor sales to dealers reached new highs for a six month period. New first half records were also established in production, factory shipments and distributor sales of Zenith stereo high-fidelity instruments.

Production of color TV picture tubes has begun at a recently completed addition to the Rauland Corp.'s manufacturing facility in Chicago. Rauland is a subsidiary of Zenith.

OUR RESPECTS to Horace Styles Fitzpatrick

He sees ‘responsibility’ when he looks at his license

Wherever the remote unit of wsLs-TV Roanoke, Va., goes on location, a station executive in the person of Horace Fitzpatrick is almost sure to be there. Vice President-Manager Fitzpatrick is not a member of the remote crew nor is he there to check on their efficiency or general demeanor. He is just so intimately associated with his industry and his job that he likes to keep close touch with wsLs-TV operations and the public the station serves.

In addition to his “fire” calls with the remote crew, Mr. Fitzpatrick also travels extensively throughout the wsLs-TV coverage area to keep in personal touch with the people. “He is a rather stupendous little guy [5’5”] who looks at that FCC license on the wall and sees the word ‘responsibility,’ ” a close associate and friend said last week.

The wsLs-TV vice president is highly respected in both the industry and Roanoke for his extreme loyalty toward those who have his confidence. He has strong likes and dislikes and is more energetic in the support of his “causes.”

“He is outstanding in his desire to assist others,” according to James Moore, president of the Shenandoah Life Stations (wsLs-AM-FM-TV) and Mr. Fitzpatrick’s boss ever since the latter entered broadcasting. “Not only is he loyal, but he has applied boundless energy and tenacity to everything he has done.”

Permanent Spot • Horace Styles Fitzpatrick has been associated with the Shenandoah Life Stations for nearly half of his 50 years, an age he attained just yesterday (Aug. 11). He left a promising career with a power company in 1940 to join wsLs as a salesman when that station first went on the air. After holding down many jobs and titles in the interim, he was made vice president of Shenandoah Life Stations Inc. in 1959 and has been wsLs-TV’s only manager since the station went on the air in 1952.

Fitz was born in Roanoke in 1913 and graduated from that city’s Jefferson High School in 1933 as a football and basketball star. Early in life he showed a flair as a promoter, a sideline he has continued to pursue throughout his life. While in high school he sold newspapers, worked in various retail stores and gas stations and booked local bands and dances.

Young Fitz went against the wishes of his family and turned down a scholarship to Roanoke College offered because of his athletic prowess. Instead, he attacked the business world as office boy for the Appalachian Electric Power Co. He wasn’t office boy for long, however, rising to head of the billing department.

His dance promotions went big league, too, as he jumped from local talent to such name bands as Johnny Long, Guy Lombardo, Sammy Kaye and others. Mr. Fitzpatrick also was gaining a Roanoke-wide reputation as a top salesman which served him well when wsLs was constructed in 1940.

The late Paul Buford, first wsLs president, suggested to his manager, Mr. Moore, that Mr. Fitzpatrick would make a good radio salesman and as a result Fitz joined the new voice in Roanoke.

Still Selling • He has been selling very successfully ever since. Knocking on doors that others would bypass, Mr. Fitzpatrick quickly became a leading radio salesman of co-op time. The then new ABC network conducted many contests for local salesmen and Fitz won more than his share of prizes, many of which still adorn the Fitzpatrick home.

He still has a reputation among NBC-TV affiliates as “that guy who is always selling.” The statement is literally true, witnessed by the fact that just last week Mr. Fitzpatrick made a sales trip to South Carolina and Georgia.

The Fitzpatrick promotion abilities have benefited the city of Roanoke as well as servicemen during World War II. In 1944 he became manager of the Academy of Music and brought many “firsts” in cultural productions and legitimate plays to Roanoke. During the same period he organized, promoted and transported entertainment acts to area military bases.

His “star” continued to rise at wsLs, also. In 1945 he was named assistant commercial manager and three years later he was promoted to commercial manager. Shenandoah Life Insurance Co. had been a one-third owner of wsLs (FM was added in 1947) from the start, and in October 1952 acquired 100% of the stations. Just two months later, wsLs-TV went on the air and Mr. Fitzpatrick was named manager of the combined AM-FM-TV operations. He has since dropped the radio reins.

A Crisis • wsLs-TV had been on the air only 15 minutes before Manager Fitzpatrick had to face his first major crisis. A freak thunderstorm knocked the station off the air, but before the lightning had stopped Mr. Fitzpatrick was on the way to RCA in Camden, N. J., for replacement parts. WsLs-TV was back on the air the next day to stay.

Mr. Fitzpatrick is convinced that the people in wsLs-TV’s coverage area look upon the station as tops in public service, the one thing of which he is proudest. And, he says, “TV has only scratched the surface of its potential power to serve the public. There is no other medium that can compare with it. The same applies to the variety of entertainment television offers. It is unsurpassed.”

A strong supporter of the National Association of Broadcasters and its industry codes, Mr. Fitzpatrick feels the NAB has done an “excellent job.” The greatest strides made in self-improvement of the industry have been made through the NAB, he feels.

Another important facet of the Fitzpatrick image of public service is the broadcasting of editorial opinion. WsLs-TV airs a daily editorial.

Mr. Fitzpatrick is the current president of the Virginia Association of Broadcasters and plans to devote a lot of time before next spring to two VAB goals: increased membership and a standardized savings time plan in Virginia.

He also is president of the Sales and Marketing Executives Club of Roanoke and a charter member of the Roanoke Advertising Club.

Early in 1938 Fitz went on a blind date with a student nurse at the Lewis-Gale Hospital in Roanoke, and before the year was over she had become Mrs. Fitzpatrick. His marriage to Marie DeHart was kept a tight secret for several months because of hospital rules against married student nurses.

When Fitz is not selling TV, he often can be found on the golf course (low ‘80s) or bowling (160 average).
Up in smoke

In their advertising and public relations the tobacco companies, it seems to us, are running scared—too scared for their own good.

Their sudden emphasis on smoking as an “adult” pleasure, including their decision to withdraw completely from campus promotions, was obviously a concession to the save-the-youth wing of cigarette critics. But instead of stopping criticism, concessions sometimes lead to assumptions that are even more damaging. The cigarette companies’ indirect acknowledgement that smoking may not be good for preadolescents inevitably raises questions about just how good they think it is for anybody else.

Against this nervous background, Lucky Strike’s new advertising theme, emphasizing that “Smoking’s a pleasure meant for adults” (Broadcasting, Aug. 5), looks capable of developing into the biggest boomerang outside of the Australian bush, accomplishing the exact opposite of its stated purpose. The copy, by BBDO, certainly is not apt to alienate any sizable group between the ages of 12 and 20 with its claim that “Luckies separate the men from the boys—but not from the girls.”

If this tack seems cynical, or appeals to ages it professes to avoid, we venture that it’s because it attempts to articulate an impossible policy—that of trying to separate the too-young from the old-enough when nobody knows which is which. The futility of trying to eliminate appeals to youth is evident now as never before.

Let us make it unmistakably clear that we are defending, not questioning, the right of tobacco companies to advertise their products in any truthful and tasteful way they wish. Cigarettes have been accused repeatedly of being harmful to health—but they have not been proved guilty. The surgeon general’s commission, which may supply a definitive answer, is still deliberating. At least until its report is in, tobacco products are entitled to the same latitude in their advertising as banks or soaps or Smokey Bear.

Can 30 governors be wrong?

In the din of recent arguments over broadcast editorializing—and attempts by Congress to curb it—little has been heard about other legislation to change the political broadcasting law. Editorializing and political broadcasting are parts of the journalistic function of radio and television. To the degree that either is regulated by the government, the effectiveness of broadcast journalism is impaired.

Pending in the Senate are several bills that would make adjustments in the existing law that governs political broadcasting. They range from one—the most desirable but least likely to pass at this time—that would repeal Section 315 altogether to one that would suspend Section 315 in its application to candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency in 1964. The latter has been passed by the House.

Within recent weeks still another bill has received important support from the governors of 30 states. This bill would repeal Section 315 in its application to candidates for the Presidency, Vice Presidency, U.S. Senate and House and all state governorships. The author of the bill is Senator John O. Pastore (D-R.I.), chairman of the Senate Communications Subcommittee. The 30 governors who have advised Senator Pastore of their support for his bill add up to a formidable array of political influence.

With that kind of backing, the Pastore bill cannot be ignored. But still more pressure is needed to force the movement of the legislation through the Senate, and even more than that to get it some attention in the House.

It was only after intense effort by broadcasters that the Congress was persuaded to make permanent liberalizations of Section 315 in 1959 and temporary suspension of the law’s application to presidential and vice presidential candidates in 1960. It will take at least as much effort to get Congress to move again. The chance for passage of the Pastore bill is slight at best. There is no chance at all unless broadcasters go into action.

Small thanks

Conelrad—the coined word meaning “control of electromagnetic radiation”—expired last week.

Its greatest claim to glory was that during the dozen years of its existence the occasion never arose for its activation, which was to alert the public in the event of an enemy bombing attack.

Last Monday, when Conelrad was terminated, the Emergency Broadcast System took over as the new standby broadcast service. Some 1,400 AM and 200 FM stations now hold interim authorization from the FCC for EBS. All stations, including TV, later will be eligible to qualify for EBS, but with TV stations utilizing only their audio transmissions.

The new emergency system has much to commend it. Its purpose is to fulfill national security requirements while providing for transmission of vital information to the public. It is basically under civilian rather than military control.

Actually, it replaces an obsolete system. Conelrad might have been a good idea in 1951. But that belonged to the bomber era. The advent of the missile which can travel a calculated course to any given target area terminated the need for Conelrad.

All that is history, although it isn’t necessarily recorded. Some 1,400 AM stations spent over $20 million in implementing the Conelrad program.

In announcing 10 days ago that Conelrad was out and EBS in, the FCC in a public notice expressed its “appreciation to all who have participated in this patriotic effort.”

These broadcasters, we submit, are entitled to more formal and appropriate recognition for their contributions in time, money and equipment. An inscribed certificate or perhaps a personal letter would be more suitable recognition.

With or without such an expression, old Conelrad stations generally will cooperate in the new EBS structure. And, as was the case with Conelrad, they will do so in the hope that the day will never dawn for its use.
