Two to the bar

Despairing of getting agreement by negotiation, All-Industry Radio Music License Committee has decided to ask courts to determine reasonable fees for radio stations' use of music of American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers. This course is available under consent decree governing ASCAP operations, and petition for fee fixing is expected to be filed in next 30-60 days in U. S. Southern District Court in New York.

When radio case goes before it, Southern District Court will have full house of broadcasting-ASCAP proceedings. Radio networks have already filed, and similar fee proceeding for television has been in and out of that court—on appeal—for more than two years. Radio committee, representing 1,150 stations, is headed by Bob Mason, of WMMN Marion, Ohio, and its petition will be filed by its New York counsel, Emmanuel Danni.

Fat purse

National Association of Broadcasters’ proposed budget for all activity for fiscal year, April 1, 1964-March 31, 1965, is to be proposed to association’s full board of directors at meeting in Sarasota, Fla., Jan. 27-31, is record-breaking $2,135,000. This is in contrast to approximately $2,000,000 for current fiscal year, not all of which was spent. Estimated income for fiscal 1964-65 is $2,350,000.

Revival of the soaps

North American Newspaper Alliance, long-established print media syndicate, is forming new division, NANA Radio, to become active in production of radio shows. As result of recent upsurge of interest in radio dramas, NANA Radio is planning to produce new versions of old-time favorites of soap opera variety. Details will be announced later this week.

Radio reports

FCC made considerable progress last week in putting final touches on proposed revision of reporting form for AM and FM stations, and most officials expect document to be put out this week for comments. As in case with proposed TV form that came out some weeks ago, not all commissioners are wildly enthusiastic about all aspects of AM-FM document, but they are anxious to get rule-making machinery started. Commissioners suggested many revisions last week, but most were minor. Form still calls for survey of community and listing of programs carried to meet needs; emphasis remains on reporting of news and public affairs programs and on commercial practices.

Economy wave

U. S. Office of Emergency Planning suffered grievous blow when Congress gave it only $4.7 million for fiscal 1964, as against $7.2 million requested. About 100 employees already have been dropped, effective Jan. 15, including Fred Alexander, long-time chief of OEP’s telecommunications division.

All OEP telecommunications activities are now centered under Ralph Clark, one-time radio consulting engineer, who officially remains as assistant to director of telecommunications management, though directorship itself has been vacant since resignation last year of Dr. Irvin Stewart, former FCC commissioner and former president of West Virginia University. Dr. Stewart quit OEP to return to teaching. He was also telecommunication advisor for President, job now being filled temporarily by presidential science aide, Jerome Wiesner, who is about to leave government.

One of their own

Committee selecting new president for National Community TV Association now is seeking man from its own ranks after rejecting idea of hiring top name or lesser known expert on Washington matters. While thinking still leaned toward seeking public figure, committee seriously considered offering post to FCC Commissioner Frederick W. Ford, whose FCC term expires June 30. Names of other government officials were before selectors, but all have been temporarily rejected with search now centering on CATV man. Martin Marlarkey of Washington is chairman of three-man screening committee. NCTA presidency has been vacant since Bill Dalton resigned last summer to open consulting firm (Broadcasting, Aug. 26, 1963).

Ready for action

Although Gene Autry is still awaiting FCC approval of his purchase of KTLA(TV) Los Angeles, station is already set for play-by-play coverage of Los Angeles Angels, also an Autry property. Total of 29 games is scheduled, including 10 exhibition pre-season contests, starting March 7. Home games will be colorcast and games reaching Los Angeles viewers in daytime will be taped and repeated at night. For past three seasons, Angels games have been covered by KHJ-TV Los Angeles. Autry-owned KNPC Los Angeles will feed radio play-by-play accounts of all Angels games to specialized sports network of some 20 stations as in previous years.

Alerting system

Methods of using radio and TV to alert public in event of war emergency are coming to fruition. After tests of several proposals in Florida late last year, under supervision of special committee of National Industry Advisory Committee, AM system is pretty well established and may be announced next month. Ideas for FM and TV alarm systems are scheduled to be tested over WFLIP-WFM-TV Philadelphia late this month, and after results are studied by NIAC single system will be adopted. Hope is for agreement on techniques by spring.

Help for H-B

Change in NBC’s West Coast news management—presumably in hope of bolstering ratings—is underway. John Thompson is out as manager of news in West Coast, will be replaced by Arthur Wakelee, now weekend manager of NBC News in New York, who will be acting head of NBC News western operations. It’s no secret that NBC has been disappointed in showing of Huntley-Brinkley during 6-7 p.m. news hour in which CBS’s KNXT(TV) has been hogging audience.

Foreign expansion

Time Inc. is negotiating for minority interest in Swedish TV production firm. If talks go through, Time may come up with quarter interest in firm that will produce programs for TV in Europe. Other parties were not identified, but Swedish interests reportedly will retain about half of new company.

No more room

Land mobile radio users who have been clamoring for additional spectrum space can't expect relief from FCC in near future. Commission's six-year-old proceeding aimed at finding extra space is drawing to close, with inconclusive results. At special meeting Friday commission instructed staff to prepare order terminating rulemaking. Document isn't expected to do more than list areas of possible future study. One such area is sharing of space now allocated, including that used by television. Commission is also expected to keep project alive through creation of industry-government committee to study problem of spectrum shortage, which is particularly acute in major cities.

AUTO AUDITS PICKS WEAM AS #1 IN WASHINGTON!

Auto-Audits, now in its fourth year, surveys Washington area motorists (including the surrounding Maryland-Virginia area) at traffic islands, parking lots and red lights; only listeners (with radios on) are tabulated... no recall... no diary... only face-to-face coincidental interviews. Washington is a city on wheels. Hundreds of thousands pour in and out of the District every day... commuters stretching out as much as 20 to 30 miles in every direction. Their companion on the road is radio. Their first choice is WEAM.

WEAM, the only fulltime Washington area station with the modern-radio concept, captures the number one spot with this big, important audience. This is supported by the unique survey that measures, exclusively, the auto radio audience, conducted impartially and subscribed to by many of the area's 18 radio stations.

The fact is simple enough: if you want to reach the city on wheels, in Washington you must use WEAM.

Tobacco men invited to TV code meeting

Chief executives of Big Six cigarette manufacturers have been invited to TV code board meeting of National Association of Broadcasters, Jan. 22-23 in Miami. In wire Friday (Jan. 10), TV code board chair Bill Pabst, ktry (TV) Oakland-San Francisco, told cigarette makers that board will be discussing U. S. surgeon general's report on smoking (see page 33) and would appreciate "the benefit of your views."

Mr. Pabst also invited George Allen, president of The Tobacco Institute, along with American Tobacco Co., Liggett & Myers, Philip Morris, R. J. Reynolds & Brown & Williamson. If NAB offer is accepted, cigarette industry spokesmen were asked to make arrangements for their appearances with Howard Bell, NAB code authority director.

On Thursday (Jan. 9), radio code review board had appointed subcommittee to study tobacco advertising and had asked TV board to name similar group for joint study.

Friday, radio board meeting in Washington rejected proposals to amend time standards of code. Proposed changes dealt with multisponsor category and maximum minutes per time segments were not involved. Charles Stone, radio code manager, reported that 65.8% of subscribers have been monitored past nine months and that violations were very low.

Miller urges Johnson to support TV debates

Representative William P. Miller (D-N.Y.), chairman of Republican National Committee, called on President Johnson Friday (Jan. 10) to "honor the Kennedy commitment for face-to-face TV debates between the candidates" in presidential campaign.

Speaking to national committee meeting in Washington, Representative Miller said Mr. Johnson "urged repeatedly in 1960 that there be more than four television debates."

GOP leader said President's support "would help to insure early enactment" of HJ Res 247, bill to suspend equal time for presidential race this fall.

Price boost in sight for GE division

General Electric's visual communications division, Syracuse, N. Y., is to announce today (Jan. 13) boost in prices up to 29% on some TV broad-casting gear. Largest single-unit dollar increase was new PE-25A, 3-10 color studio cameras—up 3.9%.

H. E. Smith, manager of visual communications products, said increased costs are being felt particularly in development of all transistorized monochrome and color TV equipment.

FRC&H joins complex of Interpublic firms

Fletcher Richards, Calkins & Holden is affiliating with McCann-Erickson Inc., division of Interpublic Inc. FRC&H will continue as autonomous operation called The Fletcher Richards Co.

Move brings approximately $11.5 million to Interpublic. Billing does not include National Distillers Products Co., which announced it was leaving FRC&H to seek new agency for its $5 million business because Interpublic affiliates already handle two other distillers, Shenley Industries and Brown Forman Distilleries Corp. (BROADCASTING, Jan. 6).

Fletcher Richards now becomes part of Interpublic's complex of advertising agencies, research companies, public relations organizations and sales development and merchandising firms. Interpublic's total annual billing exceeds $500 million. Third agency in Interpublic empire is Erwin Wasey, Ruthrauff & Ryan.

CBS says tobacco ads to be re-evaluated

CBS "is undertaking an immediate study" of surgeon general's report on smoking and health "and will re-examine its advertising standards in light of the findings," CBS said in statement prepared for release after report was made public Saturday (Jan. 11).

Statement also noted CBS representative on National Association of Broadcasters code board will participate in that body's studies later this month. It also said CBS radio and TV networks would give details of surgeon general's report "through continuing news coverage and through a special broadcast" Saturday night.

CBS statement was similar to one prepared earlier by NBC (story page 33). ABC spokesman said late Friday he knew of no plans for ABC statement on issuance of surgeon general's report.

'Reluctant' Nielsen drops network radio

A. C. Nielsen Co. is pulling out of radio completely. Firm announced Friday (Jan. 10) that after measuring network radio audiences for 21 years it will discontinue its network service (Nielsen Radio Index) as of mid-April. It dropped local radio audience measurements last spring.

Chairman A. C. Nielsen said changing conditions had aggravated technical problems and made radio measurement uneconomic. He cited (1) "substantial" reduction in radio listening due to TV; (2) fragmentation of audiences as radio station population has multiplied; (3) resultant lower radio ratings, making bigger and therefore more expensive samples desirable, and (4) need for separate measurements of plug-in, portable, auto radio audiences.

Mr. Nielsen said firm developed "two research techniques capable of producing reliable measurements of network radio even under today's difficult conditions"—but cost led to rejection by network clients.

Decision to leave radio, he said, was "reluctant" and would be "promptly" reconsidered if "any reasonable possibility for solving the economic problems" were found.

He said network radio service "represents only a very small percentage of our total sales and for a number of years has made no contribution whatsoever to profits." Radio withdrawal, he said, will not affect Nielsen television, magazine, newspaper and marketing research activities.

Decision leaves Hooper, The Pulse and Sindinger as principal syndicated radio audience research services.

CBS-TV claimed "average lead" in nighttime schedule of 12% over "second-ranking" network and 27% over "third-ranking" network in current season in yearend report released Friday (Jan. 10). CBS-TV said percentages were based on Nielsen Television Index. In daytime, CBS-TV claimed to have 56% lead over "second network" and 109% lead over "third network." Average rating for new programs this season was 16.8 for CBS-TV, network said, which represents 11% lead over other two networks in category.

Network report said CBS-TV was world's "largest advertising medium" for 10th straight year in 1963, that nighttime schedule was upward of 95% sold through most of year and that 24 out of 25 top network TV advertisers were represented on CBS-TV.

Disney TV revenues up more than one-third

Report notes that Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Color "continues to improve its audience ... it also continues to help sell color sets" and will start its fourth year on NBC-TV in color this fall. Mickey Mouse Club "is midway through its second year of syndication, with its success dictating plans for still a third season ... with new footage to be added."

What makes a great salesman?

Before he had perfected the incandescent electric light, Thomas Alva Edison initiated a full-scale press campaign to convince the public that the success of his invention was assured. The Jersey genius announced that he soon would light up the entire downtown area of New York with 500,000 of his revolutionary lamps, “powered by a few steam dynamos.” Edison’s salesmanship did more than convince the man on the street; it secured the critically-needed backing of Wall Street financiers, and doomed the gaslight to extinction.

Besides the electric light, the “Wizard of Menlo Park” contributed a wealth of innovations to benefit modern man: The phonograph. The motion-picture camera. The dry storage battery. While other inventors were tinkering in their basements, Edison pioneered the modern industrial research laboratory. And Edison sold his ideas so effectively that by the 1920’s his various manufacturing enterprises were grossing millions of dollars annually.

The value of Thomas Edison’s gifts to this century cannot easily be calculated, whether the measure is billions of dollars or trillions of kilowatt hours. Marconi called him “one of the world’s great benefactors.” He remained to the very end of his career a man of the people, his keen mind always seeking out new ways to serve mankind. No World sale or merger

EDITOR: I was quite disturbed to read articles published in Broadcasting on Dec. 16, 23 and 30, 1963, concerning sale of World Broadcasting System Inc. by me. They were grossly erroneous. Preliminary discussions were held concerning various sale of World, a merger, or a purchase by me of Mr. [John] Coyle's company [Commercial Recording Corp. of Dallas].

We were far from a deal as Philadelphia is from Dallas. Contrary to Broadcasting's understanding, no agreement had ever been reached, much less any written agreement executed. I fail to comprehend Mr. Coyle's purposes in seeking publication of the offending items.

We are an old line company, well established, and known to the trade and cannot permit such a disturbing thing to stand uncorrected.—Paul F. Harron, World Broadcasting System Inc., Phila- delphia.

Berkeley, not Barclay

EDITOR: A lot of broadcasters will regret the retirement of that "last Renaissance man," Carl Haverlin, from the presidency of Broadcast Music Inc. (Broadcasting, Dec. 23, 1963). His activities in our industry and his intellectual achievements will be missed.

This includes his "best known collection of Barclay, an obscure 17th century English philosopher," whom you made more obscure. The 1963 edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica lists no Barclay of that description. It does list George Berkeley, 1685-1753, pronounced "Barclay," and devotes over a

Davis fund needs cash

EDITOR: The first Elmer Davis Memorial lecture delivered by Herblock was an extraordinary success. The ovation from the capacity audience of 700 in the Low Rotunda at Columbia University was one evidence of this. The film of the lecture is now being completed for showing at other institutions and on TV.

The Elmer Davis Memorial Fund is still $27,000 short of its $75,000 endowment goal. The amount is needed particularly to cover the costs of filming (and taping) the lectures for use at other universities and on educational television stations.

Contributions will be greatly appreciated.—John Daly, for the Elmer Davis Memorial Committee, Graduate School of Journalism, Columbia University, New York.

EDITOR: Thank you for making such sense and seeming substance out of the bare material I gave you (Our Respects, Nov. 18, 1963). A TRADITION OF OUTSTANDING ACCEPTANCE

For eight years (May, 1955 to April, 1963), the A. C. Nielsen Company reported radio audiences in the Minneapolis-St. Paul market. Thirty-five separate bi-monthly reports—covering 141,120 quarter-hours of broadcasting—were released. Every report showed WCCO Radio was the overwhelming audience leader in the market.

WCCO Radio’s share of audience, as estimated by Nielsen, ranged from 64.8% to 68.6% in the final eight reports (November-December, 1961 to March-April, 1963). Average: 66.9%—or twice as many listeners as all other stations combined!

Nielsen data also showed WCCO Radio ranked as one of the very highest-rated stations of the nation in both share of audience and size of audience.

Nielsen no longer measures local radio markets. But the audience is still there—listening and ready to be counted.

WCCO Radio not only awaits the development of a new, authoritative service that will measure the total radio audience—but stands ready to support and cooperate in any way possible with such a project. It is sure to be another powerful affirmation of WCCO Radio’s great audience leadership and acceptance.

"...Mark Century is a polygamist!"

True! Absolutely true! We love more than just one, we love every one of our stations. Mark Century created and produced “Radio A La Carte” as a labor of love. And how do we love them? Let us count the ways: music, comedy, commercials, contests, public service, station promotions and so much more. Any polygamist will tell you it takes a lot of work to keep so many loves on an exciting plane. We think it’s worth it, and so do our “Radio A La Carte” stations.

On the opposite page are some of our loves.

side radio stations would want to send us 15-minute programs on either platter or tape? If so, the program might be a musical one with the announcer giving a two-minute description in the middle of the town from which the program comes. This probably should be identified country instrumental music which could be faded to give a local Samoan announcer an opportunity to translate. We would also like to have copies of the remarks in order to facilitate translation.

It would also give our people a good idea of what High Point, N. C., Red Wing, Minn., and other parts of the U. S. are like.—Governor H. Rex Lee, Page, Pag, American Samoa.

The pros and cons of FCC

Editor: I read with a great deal of interest the treatment of Billy James Hargis's letter to FCC Chairman E. William Henry (Mr. Hargis asked for time to rebut what he called unfair statement's by network TV commentators linking President Kennedy's assassination to conservative elements, BROADCASTING, Dec. 30, 1963).

We carried the Christian Crusade on this station for quite some time, in fact several weeks longer than we should have since we still have at a substantial unpaid balance due.

Now there are times when I very definitely do not see eye-to-eye with the FCC and there are times when I have said so in my editorial programs. But there are more often times when in all honesty and fairness I feel they are right.

We and the FCC form a huge and not always happy family. Certainly we have our differences but we fight it out clean, as fairly as possible and above board. Nor do I think that august body will accuse me, or any of us, of "polishing the apple" when I say that as a member of the broadcast family when they are attacked unfairly we are just as quick to defend them.

'Sunday' omitted

Editor: We noticed with some distress that in your TV SHOWSHEETS section (BROADCASTING, Jan. 6) you listed Sunday afternoon between 2 and 4 p.m. as "no network service" for NBC-TV. For the record, Sunday with Frank Blair as host is presented on the NBC network each Sunday from 3 to 4 p.m. EST.—Robert Asman, Washington producer, Sunday, NBC-TV, Washington.
The case for special-audience TV

We've just finished weighing the impact of special-audience television in South Texas and have come up with a whopping 1,368 tons. This is the amount of flour—2,737,855 pounds of it—sold as a direct result of the year's liveliest promotion. A flour mill and a television station teamed up to create something new in amateur nights and audience polls.

Pioneer Flour Mills, founded in 1851, and kwex-tv, founded in 1955, are both San Antonio institutions. Pioneer, fastest-growing milling company in Texas, manufacturers standard, top-quality flour, corn meal and ready mixes for corn bread, biscuits and pancakes. Kwex-tv (ch. 41) is a UHF station that broadcasts entirely in Spanish (53% of San Antonio's citizens are Mexican-Americans).

A Wild Idea • Knowing something of the steady and loyal buying power of Mexican-Americans in our territory, I had a wild idea and I presented it to the brisk young head of kwex-tv, Emilio Nicolas. Why not stage a talent contest, to be telecast live with a built-in gimmick aimed at the channel 41 audience? Our agency (Fuller & Smith & Ross, Fort Worth) confirmed my belief that we could get maximum results in only one way: We would tie the balloting directly to the amount of Pioneer products a contestant could muster, alone or by proxy—exactly as a stockholder votes his shares at an annual meeting.

The result was Buscando Estrellas (literally, Searching for Stars), which packed the Alameda theater, San Antonio's largest Spanish-language house, every Sunday evening for weeks. Kwex-tv mobile units covered each one-hour amateur show, beamed live to an audience of upwards of a half million.

Pioneer sells flour to everybody, including the Common Market and the United Arab Republic. Buscando Estrellas was a device to push the company's sales in a strictly defined market—the Spanish-speaking population of greater San Antonio and nearby towns.

Kwex-tv began spot announcements in August, inviting amateur entertainers to sign up for auditions. Some 600 hopefuls sang, danced, played an instrument or otherwise performed during one-month tryouts which winnowed the group to 120. On each of 12 Sundays, an audience of 10 contestants appeared on the Alameda stage. The shows were professional in pace and appeal, fully mounted, with orchestra and mariachi players to back up soloists.

Bag Front Ballots • Votes received determined weekly winners and grand prize winners. Ballots were flour bag fronts or package fronts from Pioneer corn meal and ready-mix products. Voters of course could bring in "reasonable facsimiles" if they chose. No one did. Every pound of flour was good for two votes and Pioneer's ready mixes garnered five votes a package. The promotion was backed up with seven TV spots and 10 radio announcements daily, plus newspaper space, bus cards and point-of-sale material.

On Monday, Sept. 30, the morning after the first telecast, votes began to pour in. Within five weeks, the vote count exceeded 1 million; it totaled 1,744,312 at the end of nine weeks and reached 2,846,829 at the 11th week's deadline. During the 12th and final week, however, the count almost doubled to an incredible total of 5,475,730 on Dec. 19, when the polls closed.

In-Person Voting • Someone had to deliver every one of the 5,475,730 votes in person. Not one could be mailed, because each vote had to be registered, receipted in triplicate and locked up.

At first we asked that ballots be brought to the kwex-tv studios. One week's volume almost halted broadcasting when the mail room overflowed into the main studio. Then we rented an office in the Casa de Mexico building, next to the theater. Every evening the day's votes were trucked to a secret shed at Pioneer Mills, stored in bales and kept under lock and armed guard.

As vote deadline neared, the afternoon of Dec. 19, the line of people delivering ballots stretched around the corner. We added a half dozen clerks, three calculating machines, and extra guards who watched the headquarters office. When polls closed, ballots filled the office and anteroom to the ceiling. This dramatic home stretch led into an even more exciting finish, a 90-min.

ute spectacular telecast from the Alamedas stage. The winner was pure inspiration. A six-year-old orphan, Guadalupe Galvan, had caught the fancy of Latin San Antonio from the moment she first trooped out to center stage, some Sundays earlier.

Relatives and neighbors had amassed 835,500 votes in the child's behalf, or 16% of the total. Guadalupe won $1,000 and two round-trip air tickets to Mexico City. Pioneer awarded a TV set, major home appliances and $1,250 in cash to the nine runners-up.

A Powerful Ally • I consider this the greatest promotion in the 112-year history of Pioneer Mills. We also feel that the results have national significance in terms of special-audience broadcasting. By concentrating on the 750,000 Mexican-Americans between Austin and the Rio Grande, kwex-tv has built Spanish-language programing into a powerful emotional ally for its sponsors. In the Pioneer Mills promotion, this loyalty sold 10 pounds of flour for every man, woman and child among Mexican-Americans in the station's area.

Reaching a special audience may not be as easy as going after the so-called mass, but it's infinitely more effective for the advertiser who dares to try. His degree of success in wooing this special audience may surprise him. In this single promotion, we pulled the Mexican-Americans of South Texas out of mass statistics and wooed them as a group. The Spanish-language approach was important, but not the whole story: We wooed them by a streamlined, strictly show-business amateur hour that put a premium on their own rich culture of song and dance.

The response to this two-pronged approach exploded dramatically in a landslide of flour. We are still awed by the magnitude of the response, and it will affect planning of future promotions.

Alfred G. Beckmann, president and general manager of Pioneer Flour Mills, is the fourth generation to serve this San Antonio company, which was founded in 1851 by his great grandfather, Carl Hilmar Guenther. He worked briefly at the mill before entering the U. S. Army during World War II and has been at Pioneer since his discharge in 1945, becoming assistant sales manager in 1946, treasurer in 1951, vice president and general manager in 1954 and president and general manager in 1957.
YOU CAN'T COVER INDIANAPOLIS FROM INDIANAPOLIS

This provocative headline is more than a facetious approach to a marketing problem. If you presently have distribution in and are exerting advertising pressure on the Indianapolis market, then consideration of the Terre Haute market is of vital importance to your sales success.

HERE'S WHY:

1. Terre Haute is closely linked to Indianapolis for its distribution.

2. Two of the Leading Supermarket Chains in the Terre Haute-Indianapolis coverage area credit the WTHI-TV area with more than one fourth of their total area sales.

3. Indianapolis Television, even when extensively used, misses 80% of the Terre Haute metro area.

4. Combining WTHI-TV with any Indianapolis television develops sizeable, additional penetration without additional cost.

5. The combination of WTHI-TV with an Indianapolis effort reduces excessive duplication, substituting new potential customers.

6. The Terre Haute-Indianapolis media approach does not reduce the level of impact in metro Indianapolis.

MEETING THE CIGARETTE CRISIS

■ Tobacco commercials juggled to cope with smoking report
■ Radio code board starts cigarette study, urges TV do same
■ At stake for broadcasters: $132 million in tobacco billings

The nation’s tobacco manufacturers, representing more than $132 million in annual television and radio advertising, were ready today to cushion as best they could the effects of the U. S. surgeon general’s report on smoking and health.

In preparation for the long awaited study five U. S. manufacturers in tobacco’s big six called upon broadcasters to move their commercials out of positions in or adjacent to programs dealing with the report—and some went several steps further.

The sixth, Brown & Williamson, made to move, because, according to company officials, Brown & Williamson scheduled no commercial in or near newscasts or special programs involving the report. An executive said B&W planned to follow its customary advertising pattern without change.

Radio Code Board Committee • Also ready was the National Association of Broadcasters Radio Code Review Board which established a special subcommittee to study tobacco advertising two days before the U. S. report was released.

The Federal Trade Commission was reminded by Senator Maurine Neuberger (D-Ore.) that it now has all the power it needs to require that cigarettes be labeled as injurious to health. At least a half dozen bills putting controls on cigarettes are pending before House and Senate committees.

Tobacco companies were encouraged by a report from England that cigarette sales in 1963 were at a higher point than they were in 1962 following the smoking and health report by the British Royal College of Physicians.

In some cases the American tobacco companies’ precautions extended to the point of preparing special standby commercials for use when the contents of the report, which was to be released last week-end, had been studied.

One major manufacturer and its agency were known to have made special TV commercials as well as preparations encompassing other media, in case their use should prove desirable. Some others were thought to have similar plans in reserve, and it was widely believed that, since they’d had 16 months to get ready, most, if not all, had quietly worked out individual counter strategies to be put into play if the need proved urgent enough—and if the counter strategies proved appropriate to the need.

The request that commercials be isolated from broadcasts dealing with the smoking study represented routine procedures—as when an air or bus line’s commercials are moved or dropped immediately following a crash involving that line.

Broadcasters seemed glad to cooperate—as they do with transportation advertisers in such cases. Many voluntarily decided to move tobacco advertisers out of newscasts, whether requested or not.

Metropolitan Broadcasting’s WNEW New York, for example, disclosed that it would take cigarette commercials out of newscasts “and move them as far away from newscasts as possible” for a period of 48 hours from the report’s Saturday noon release date.

Uninhibited News • Other stations, both independent and group owned, made similar plans. The purpose was both to protect the advertiser from the embarrassment from seeming to sponsor a program contrary to his best interests and to make clear at the same

The thought of one tobacco study leads to another

Meeting in Washington last Thursday, the National Association of Broadcasters’ Radio Code Review Board named a three-man subcommittee to study tobacco advertising and make recommendations to the parent radio board of the NAB. The action was taken 48 hours before the release of the government report on smoking and health, and the radio board asked the TV code board, which meets next week, to name a similar group for a joint study (see story page 52). At the meeting were (1 to r) Robert B. Jones Jr., WFBB Baltimore; Elmo Ellis, WSB Atlanta; Charles Stone, NAB radio code manager; Howard Bell, NAB code authority director; Cliff Gill, KEZV Anaheim, Calif., and radio code board chairman; Robert Pratt, KGGF Coffeyville, Kan.; Lee Fondren, KLZ Denver; Herbert Krueger, WTAG Worcester, Mass.; Richard Dunning, KMQ Spokane, Wash.; Richard Mason, WPTF Raleigh, N. C., and Richard Fairbanks, WIBC Indianapolis. Messrs. Jones, Mason and Fairbanks were appointed to the NAB’s Radio Code Review Board tobacco subcommittee.
time that their news operations are uninhibited.

There was no indication that the tobacco companies were cancelling their news positions, rather, they were asking for substitute positions, or "make goods."

With few exceptions, both the advertisers and their agencies guarded their plans almost as carefully as the government guarded the contents of its report in advance of the release date. Most refused to confirm officially that they had even asked to have newscast commercials moved.

The list of such requests was compiled from sales representatives and others close to the situation. These sources said requests had come from Reynolds Tobacco, American Tobacco, Liggett & Myers, P. Lorillard and Philip Morris, all of the big six but Brown & Williamson.

Some of the requests were said to have been oral; others written. A letter sent out on behalf of Liggett & Myers, by Ruth Jones, supervisor of station and network relations, J. Walter Thompson Co., was cited as representative.

Shift News Commercials • Miss Jones said it was recognized that the subject of smoking and health was in the news and must be treated as such by broadcasters, but asked that any L&M commercials scheduled within a news, discussion or panel program relating to this subject be removed and a suitable make-good provided.

Miss Jones also asked that at least 30 minutes separation be provided between any L&M spot and any commercial or any educational message antithetical to smoking.

Although tobacco companies and their agencies were reluctant to comment officially about the report, they left little doubt that they expected it to be strongly adverse to smoking. They pointed out, but not for attribution, that since the report was to be based on thousands of studies already made—many of them sharply critical of smoking—and would contain no new research it would have little chance of being anything but adverse.

Even so, it was their view that no major changes in tobacco advertising policies would be immediately necessary—even though it is known that some changes, particularly in an ultimate shifting of their advertising into hours after 8:30 p.m., along the long-range agenda of some manufacturers (CLOSED CIRCUIT, Nov. 4, 1963).

With $130-plus million in advertising budgets involved, however, few would predict flatly that no revisions would ensue.

It was clear that broadcasters as well as the cigarette makers would be studying the report both individually and through the National Association of Broadcasters' code boards.

NBC Prepared • Although the networks also declined to speculate on the report, NBC for one, was prepared to tell questioners that it would review its own code in the light of the surgeon general's findings, as well as participate in NAB's review of the industry's code.

In the meantime, NBC said, it accepts advertising that meets the requirements of applicable law and conforms to its own and the NAB code's after satisfying itself that the commercials "are in good taste and that the advertising claims are not misleading and can be substantiated."

The NBC statement also noted that "cigarette commercials broadcast by Cigarette manufacturers were participating sponsors in 56 regular TV network shows in December, and during December and January had signed for sponsorship in eight specials, seven of them sporting events.

The radio purchases on the four networks centered on news and sports programs.

On ABC-TV, the cigarette firms sponsored 20 series; on CBS-TV they sponsored 23 series and two specials, and on NBC-TV they sponsored 12 series and six specials.

American Tobacco, Brown & Williamson, P. Lorillard and R. J. Reynolds were on all the TV networks. Liggett & Myers on ABC-TV and NBC-TV and Philip Morris on CBS-TV and NBC-TV.

Only Reynolds was on all four radio networks. Liggett & Myers and Philip Morris were on CBS Radio. Here's how the tobacco companies were represented on the networks in December 1963.

American Tobacco: ABC-TV—Murphy Martin with the News, Greatest Show on Earth (placed by Sullivan, Stautter, Colwell & Bayles as agency); Combat (BBDO); CBS-TV—Gunsmoke, Twilight Zone, CBS Match Play Classic (all BBDO); Judy Garland Show (SSC&B); NBC-TV—Monday Night at the Movies; Saturday Night at the Movies, Victory at Sea, Dec. 7; Liberty Bowl, Dec. 21 (all SSC&B).

Brown & Williamson: ABC-TV—Ron Cochran with the News, Ben Casey, Fugitive, Channing, Make That Spare (all Ted Bates); Breaking Point (Post-Keyes-Gardner);

CIGARETTES BILL MORE THAN $132 MILLION A YEAR

Cigarette makers have been spending more than $132 million a year on television and radio advertising. The spending runs to some $12 million in television (see table at right) and to something over $19 million in radio. The television figures are calculated for Television Bureau of Advertising by BAR-LNA reports. Radio lacks similar reports, so details by brands are unavailable.

Tobacco's Big Six spent more than $19.3 million in spot and network radio in 1962, according to estimates compiled by the Radio Advertising Bureau. These estimates did not include the companies' sponsorships of baseball and football coverage—traditionally big attractions for tobacco advertisers.

The $19.3 million total is believed to be fairly representative of the six companies' total investment in radio in 1963 as well as 1962—again not counting sports sponsorships. Individual company figures in 1963 may have varied from the 1962 levels, however, some going up while others declined.

By RAB's count, Reynolds Tobacco and American Tobacco led their industry's radio parade in 1962 with $5.5 million and $5.2 million, respectively. RAB placed Liggett & Myers third with $3.4 million, followed by Philip Morris at $2.5 million, P. Lorillard at $2 million and Brown & Williamson at $700,000.

Program Buys • The record of cigarette placements in network programs is available from the networks themselves.

What tobacco means to TV and radio

34 (BROADCAST ADVERTISING)
boards ratify the joint study—it will effectively forestall immediate steps by broadcasting to curtail cigarette advertising. However, despite actions by the code boards, NAB President LeRoy Collins is expected to repeat his call for immediate code amendments restricting cigarette advertising with a special appeal to children.

Three Members * Cliff Gill of K E Z Y
Anahiem, Calif., radio code board chairman, named three board members to the tobacco-substudy committee. They include Richard Mason, wfrf Raleigh, N. C.; Richard Fairbanks, wabc Indianapolis, and Robert Jones Jr., wfrb Baltimore.

Howard Bell, newly appointed director of the code authority, met for the first time with the board and stressed the need for an increase in the number of code subscribers (see page 56). As president of the National Association of Broadcasters, LeRoy Collins' public statements have caused controversy among broadcasters on various subjects—but none has equaled the continuing protests against his often-expressed position on cigarette advertising.

On Nov. 19, 1962, at the NAB fall conference in Portland, Ore., Governor Collins angered many segments of the broadcasting industry by suggesting that there should be a call for restrictions against cigarette commercials that appeal to minors. At that time, he said: "If we are honest with ourselves, we cannot ignore the mounting evidence that tobacco provides a serious hazard to health. Can we in good conscience ignore the fact that progressively more and more of our high school age (and lower) children are now becoming habitual cigarette smokers?"

"We also know that this condition is being made continually worse under the promotional impact of advertising designed primarily to influence young people.... Where others have persistently failed to subordinate their profit motives to the higher purpose of the general good health of our young people, then I think the broadcaster should make corrective moves on his own...."

Urged Code Changes * Governor Collins, a nonsmoker, proposed that the NAB radio and television codes be amended to deal directly with cigarette advertising. The cigarette portion of the prepared text of the Portland speech was added as an insert after the rest of the talk had been mimeographed. The governor discussed his proposal with several individuals in advance, most of whom advised him not to make such a public statement. They included Robert D. Swezey, code director at the time.

The NAB president said following his Portland speech—and has repeated many times since—that he was not speaking for the NAB but expressing his own viewpoint, reached after much thought and consideration. In the nearly 14 months that have followed, Governor Collins has consistently maintained his same position.

Two months later, at the meeting of NAB radio and TV boards in Phoenix, Governor Collins asked that the code director be instructed to seek voluntary agreements from tobacco advertisers to avoid advertising of "special appeal to minors." The boards rejected the president's proposal and announced that it would take no position pending the report on smoking and health of the U.S. surgeon general.

Other Legislation Pending • At least half a dozen bills on smoking are already pending before House and Senate committees. Chief among them is a proposal to bring smoking products under the federal food and drug laws.

The House version was first. Representative Morris K. Udall (D-Ariz.) introduced HR 5973 on April 30, 1963, and a companion measure, S 1682, was introduced in the Senate by Senator Frank E. Moss (D-Utah) and co-sponsored by Senator Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) on June 6. This bill, as other House bills on the subject, is before the Commerce Committee, which, under the direction of Representative Oren Harris (D-Ark.), chairman, requested reports from the Bureau of the Budget, HEW, the Department of Agriculture and the FTC. None have been forwarded to the committee, although it was understood these federal agencies were awaiting the Surgeon General's report.

Representative Udall, particularly concerned about the effects of cigarette commercials appealing to young people, discussed the matter with the National Association of Broadcasters last spring (Closed Circuit, June 17, April 1, 1963).

The Senate bill is before the Labor and Public Welfare Committee, headed by Senator Lister Hill (D-Ala.).

Other House measures before the House Committee:

- HR 3610, to require disclosure of the effectiveness of filters on cigarettes; introduced February 7, 1963, by Representative Vernon W. Thomson (R-Wis.).
- HR 4168, to require cigarette packages to be labeled with nicotine and tar content, introduced by Rep resentative Paul A. Fino (R-N.Y.) Feb 25.
- HR 7476, to require labeling of cigarette packages to read "WARNIN(CONTENTS MAY BE DANGER OUS TO HEALTH," introduced July 10 by Representative Bernard F. Gra bowski (D-Conn.), a member of the commerce committee.
- HR 9512, identical to Representative Udall's bill, introduced Dec. 13 by Representative John J. Rhodes (R-Arizo...

Iowa Plus is WHO Radio's Nielsen '61 coverage area shown in the map above — America's 23rd radio market. It is the home of 808,480 families of 239,000 families who listen daily to WHO Radio.

Covering Iowa Plus, metro area by metro area, is a costly process. But you can do it with WHO Radio at remarkably low cost. If this sounds "too good to be true," let PGW document the facts for you, item by item, from sources that you yourself know to be dependable. Soon?

What’s up front is now counted

The American Tobacco Co. jumped into the lead last week in what could become a new "tar derby," with distribution of the Carlton cigarette, a new filter brand with "tar" and nicotine contents printed on cartons and individual packages.

Gardner Advertising, St. Louis, which already has cigar accounts of American Tobacco, has been appointed agency for the cigarette and will handle the account through its New York office.

Introductory marketing of the cigarette has begun in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles, backed by heavy radio campaigns and newspaper advertising. Saturation radio schedules encompassing 50 stations in the three metropolitan areas will run for 13 weeks and tentative plans call for national television coverage. The company is a big user of TV (see table page 35).

Talk of tar content in cigarettes has been missing from tobacco promotion for several years. In late 1959 and early 1960 the Federal Trade Commission persuaded cigarette advertisers—especially those featuring filter brands—to cease using claims of low tar or nicotine content. Until then a number of companies had been stressing such claims in what became known as the "tar derby."

American Tobacco said the Carlton had been designed to appeal to that segment of the market which is concerned about the amount of so-called "tar" and nicotine in cigarettes and noted that "more than half of today’s smokers are filter smokers."

The Carlton has a "two-stage" filter; an inner filter treated with activated charcoal and "flavoring elements" and an outer estro filter.

An American Tobacco official stated that current distribution of the Carlton represents an "introduction" of the cigarette, not a test marketing period. "If we had enough of them, they’d be in national distribution right now," he asserted.

Announcement of the new cigarette had no immediate significant effect on the price of American Tobacco stock which opened at 28% on Monday (Jan. 6) and stood at 27% at midweek.

On the initial Carlton packages the per-cigarette "tar" and nicotine counts are stated to be 2.5 mg and .4 mg respectively. Also on the package is a statement that an analysis of the smoke of the cigarette will be made periodically by an independent research laboratory. A footnote defines "tar" as smoke components commonly, but inaccurately, called "tar." The research laboratory making the analyses is understood to be Foster D. Snell, New York, the same firm that has done similar cigarette studies for The Reader’s Digest.

No hearings have been held on any of these bills.

The history of tobacco sales and advertising regulations abroad after the British report in 1962 became increasingly important following the U. S. report.

The announcement of results of the smoking and health study in Great Britain resulted in a sharp 4% drop in cigarette sales in that nation. However, at last reports cigarette sales had passed the 1962 peak and were at an even higher level than before the report.

In Britain where an estimated $30 million was put into cigarette advertising last year, five kinds of tobacco advertising have been banned by the Independent Television Authority. An estimated $14 million was spent on ITA by cigarette manufacturers in 1961 (Broadcasting, April 9, 1962).

Today, under voluntary agreement, tobacco spots on ITA are seen only after 9 p.m.

Spots banned are those which:
- Greatly overemphasize the pleasure to be obtained from cigarettes.
- Appeal to pride or general manliness.
- Feature the conventional heroes of

A campaign by the British Ministry of Health warning of hazards of smoking has been limited to posters to date. However, the ministry is considering putting the campaign on television in the form of 30 and 60 second spots beginning about July. Both the ITA and the BBC have agreed to show the films, which would be considered as public service material on the commercial network.

N Advertising: In Italy the government-controlled radio and television stations no longer accept tobacco advertising, even from the government-controlled domestic tobacco industry. Italian stations are carrying antismoking messages.

In Finland the tobacco industry voluntarily has ceased tobacco advertising on the government and commercial television stations.

In Canada by 9 p.m. ban, similar to Britain's, is in effect voluntarily.

In Denmark the state-owned radio and TV stations do not carry advertising. However, the tobacco industry there has voluntarily ended cigarette advertising in magazines and movies.

In New Zealand legislation to ban tobacco advertising on all media is under consideration.

JUST SIMPLE STANDARDS

FCC fishing in overcommercialization debris for license renewal criteria on advertising

The FCC's proposed rulemaking to establish commercial time limits may be dead—but an effort was launched within the commission last week to salvage something from the remains.

A relatively mild draft order terminating the rulemaking and declaring only that the FCC would consider commercial practices on a case-by-case basis has been awaiting commission approval for the past several weeks.

But last week the commissioners began considering a suggestion that the agency—in addition to adopting this order—develop and publish standards against which a licensee's commercial practices would be examined by the staff at renewal time.

Applications that didn't meet the standards would be sent up to the commission for a closer look. This could mean that the commission would ask the licensee to explain the reasons for his commercial policy.

Standard Set: Thus, although the commission would abandon efforts to limit commercials by rule, it would at least have a "standard"—and it was the lack of a meaningful standard that Chairman E. William Henry cited in discussing the need for the rulemaking on "overcommercialization."

There was no indication last week, however, that the proposal would be adopted, for it sparked considerable debate among the seven commissioners. Chairman Henry and Commissioner Kenneth A. Cox are among those who favored it, while Commissioner Lee Loevinger led the opposition. The issue is expected to come up again this week.

The standards would not, according to present discussions, resemble the NAB commercial codes, which the commission had proposed adopting as an agency rule. Rather, only the number of spot announcements would be considered, with the data to be secured from the present application form.

Radio And TV: There were conflicting reports last week as to whether the proposal to revise the standards applies to television as well as radio. But one official said the staff is preparing, for consideration, proposed standards for both services.

The new suggestion was contained in a memorandum submitted by the staff. One official said the procedures under which the commission examines commercial practices has been "under consideration from the beginning"—that is, since the start of the commercialization rulemaking last March.

And in connection with the proposal to terminate the rulemaking, he said, the commission is faced with the question of what standards to apply in considering commercial practices on a case-by-case basis.

The commission now has standards which the staff, acting under its delegation of authority, applies in determining whether an application should be granted routinely or referred to the commission.

However, the feeling of many at the commission is that the criteria used in considering commercial practices are vague and inadequate. Officials say that few, if any, applications have been referred to the commission solely because of commercialization questions.

Furthermore, the criteria used by the staff have ever been made public.

Some officials point out that the proposal to publish criteria is not new. Former Chairman Newton N. Minow last January advocated making public all criteria used by the staff in considering renewal applications. (BROADCASTING, Jan. 13, 1964)

When a motion picture, usually thought of as “entertainment,” conveys an idea, examines a problem, or lifts a heart—isn’t that serving the public?

And how often have we found this to be true of a movement of music, a moment of drama, a minute of history? Isn’t it also true that the best TV documentaries are those that arouse the mind and appeal to the emotions?

The more programming we plan and do—public service or otherwise—the more we realize that the familiar compartments and categories can use some reappraising. The content is what counts. The form is secondary in importance and the old distinctions seem less valid.

When we plan what are traditionally called “public service” programs we aim to inform, to broaden understanding, and to stimulate thought. We choose a subject and then we select the form. We have found that the special magic of TV and radio, properly employed through sound broadcasting techniques, often lifts public service programs out of their assumed narrow limits, and enables them to appeal to the broadest possible audience.

Thus, without sacrificing content, we can choose the form of program which will do most for—serve, if you will—the public. This is the way it should be. As we face 1964 and the rest of this challenging decade, let's keep it this way.

A woman's view of women in TV commercials

Mrs. Esther Peterson, America's No. 1 consumer (by designation of President Johnson) has strong convictions about the portrayal of women in TV and radio commercials—"they're cliches, stereotypes and unrealistic," she says—and she intends to do something about it.

Two weeks ago President Johnson named Mrs. Peterson a special White House aide on consumer affairs to give the consumer a voice in the highest councils of the executive department. He also established a presidential committee on consumer interests, with Mrs. Peterson as its chairman.

Mrs. Peterson is assistant secretary of labor in charge of its Women's Bureau. She also was executive vice chairman of the President's Commission on the Status of Women which issued its report last October.

Mr. Peterson, whose background includes long years as a union official in educational and woman's fields, feels incensed at the way some advertisers portray women in TV commercials. Most of them show women living in rose-covered cottages, a housewife and mother of children, with her whole life centered on cooking, washing dishes and doing the laundry.

"This isn't what we are at all," Mrs. Peterson protested the other day. "Women are in all sorts of positions and conditions. They're much more varied in their pursuits and status." They should be shown that way—as wage earners, as civic workers, as career professionals.

Notwithstanding her sunny smile, Mrs. Peterson is seriously concerned, she says, about advertising that attacks basic American values. "My clothes are whiter than yours" messages she characterized as the very opposite of American ideals.

Price and Safety Protection

The purpose of the consumer committee, Mrs. Peterson says, is to see that the consumer gets a fair break in pricing, packaging and health.

"When you go into store and buy staples, like butter or flour or milk," she says, "you buy by the pound or the quart. But when you want to buy some of the new products, you need a slide rule to figure out what 54 ounces 10 grams is equivalent to, or what 1 pound 13 ounces is equal to.

"And prices are confusing too. Why must a store sell a product for 67 cents less 2 cents off? That's an insult to the consumer."

Mrs. Peterson says she is going to try and persuade businessmen to make things simpler for the housewife. And if safety is involved, or where deception is practiced, she is going to act with all the power of the government. If legislation is needed, she says, she'll ask for it—although she doesn't think there will be great need immediately.

Membership on the committee includes representatives of government departments and agencies which have anything to do with consumer affairs—Justice, Agriculture, Interior, Commerce, Federal Trade Commission, and the like.

Advertising is not all black, Mrs. Peterson acknowledges. It has served to enhance the American standard of living "and that's what we want, don't we?", she asks.

Vital, competent, a confirmed feminist, Mrs. Peterson is the wife of a retired foreign service officer, and the mother of four children. She is a native of Utah, taught for many years, and for the last 20 years has been active in labor union affairs.

She has worked for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, and the AFL-CIO, both at home and abroad. She was appointed to her present post by President Kennedy in 1961.

Brothers, through J. Walter Thompson Co., New York, have purchased sponsorship of an hour comedy special scheduled for April 19 (8-9 p.m. EST) over CBS-TV. The show, which will feature Lucille Ball and Bob Hope, is tentatively titled "Mr. and Mrs." It will pre-empt the Ed Sullivan Show.

The Xerox Corp., through Papert, Koenig, Lois, New York, has purchased sponsorship of "The Kremlin," a full-hour color special to be repeated Jan. 26 (10-11 p.m. EST) over NBC-TV. Xerox sponsored the historical program when it was first presented by NBC-TV in May 1963 and again when it was repeated two weeks later.

The Noxema Chemical Co. of Baltimore, through Sullivan, Stauffer, Colwell & Bayles, New York, has launched a nationwide lipstick campaign featuring heavy use of radio and TV. The drive for Cover Girl Lipstick will include spot radio and TV in top U. S. markets as well as nighttime sponsorship in NBC-TV's Mr. Novak, Jack Paar Show and The Virginians and ABC-TV's Hootenanny, Ben Casey and Jimmy Dean.

Davis, Higginbotham get recess appointments

President Johnson last week gave recess appointments to three federal judges, two of interest to broadcasters. One of them has broadcast interests, another opens a vacancy on the Federal Trade Commission. Both are for U. S. district judge in Philadelphia. They are:

- John Morgan Davis, former lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania. Mr. Davis with his wife owns 50% of WAWL Middletown, N. Y. WALL owns 100% of WSPB Sarasota, Fla. Mr. Davis is a director of WRBB Tarpon Springs, Fla.
- A. Leon Higginbotham Jr., appointed an FTC commissioner in 1962. He was a Philadelphia lawyer.

Mr. Higginbotham and Mr. Davis were nominated to the bench by President Kennedy last September. A Senate judiciary subcommittee approved their nominations, but Congress adjourned before the full committee could act.

At that time, President Kennedy also had nominated John R. Reilley, Department of Justice attorney, as a successor to Mr. Higginbotham on the FTC. This, too, failed to be acted on before Congress adjourned. It is believed that President Johnson will send Mr. Reilley's name to the Senate again.

Ratings Council hangs its shingle

M'GANNON CITES LONG STRIDES MADE IN TWO OF THREE AREAS

The newly incorporated Broadcast Ratings Council Inc. became an official going concern last week.

Donald H. McGannon, president of Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. and chairman of the committee that set up the nonprofit corporation and charted its objectives and procedures, was elected chairman of the board.

The founding committee itself was disbanded and operation of the new council was taken over by its own 15-man board of directors, representing 10 organizations, at a meeting in New York Wednesday (Dec. 8).

Before going out of business, however, the old committee sent a progress report to Representative Oren Harris (D-Ark.), chairman of the House Special Subcommittee on Investigations, the ington Wednesday (Jan. 15) to report to the full subcommittee—also in a closed-door session (story page 47).

Long Strides • Both in his letter to the subcommittee and in his news conference, Mr. McGannon said long strides had been made toward two of the council's three major objectives-establishment of minimum criteria and standards for rating services, and development of an auditing service to assure maintenance of those standards—and that the board was already at work also on the third objective—development of long-range methodology studies to improve audience research.

He declared to describe publicly the methodology project under consideration, pointing out that discussions were still in progress and that, in any event, is what he spelled out in his letter to the subcommittee: that he expects the NAB to approve "a major appropriation which will be used for important methodology studies in the local area."

Mr. McGannon reiterated the council's hope that audit service will be "in the hands of the council" by the end of the first quarter of the year.

He said council officials had talked with 11 independent auditing services in quest of one to handle the auditing of rating services; that six of these already have submitted proposals and that the five others are expected to do so.

In addition, he said, the printed media's Audit Bureau of Circulations also has shown interest in the broadcast audit job and is considering entering the competition.

Direction of the ratings council will be in the hands of its 15-man board, whose officers include, in addition to Chairman McGannon: Douglas Anello, NAB general counsel, assistant secretary; Melvin Goldberg, NAB research vice president, assistant treasurer. No vice chairman was named to back up Mr. McGannon, who also heads the NAB research committee.

The appointment of Dr. Kenneth Baker as executive director (BROADCASTING, Dec. 30, 1963) was ratified by the board. Mr. Baker also was named secretary and treasurer.

Standards And Criteria • The general criteria and standards for rating services, Mr. McGannon noted, already have been distributed to the services for their reactions (BROADCASTING, Dec. 23, 1963) and one of the companies has given its approval. He said there may be some modification of the proposed criteria but that no substitute changes are expected.

He also pointed out that the council is beginning to get returns from exhaustive questionnaires it submitted to nationally syndicated services asking for details of their systems and methods. Of the services, he said, has answered fully, two have supplied more than half of the requested information and others are completing their replies.

In the letter to the subcommittee, dated Dec. 30 but not received on Capitol Hill until Jan. 8, Mr. McGannon said "We have received full response from The Pulse Inc., a considerable portion of the response from the American Research Bureau, and the NTIS [Nielsen Television Index Service] from the A. C. Nielsen Co." Other Nielsen data was expected in two to three weeks. The Nielsen Station Index had been mailed and C. E. Hooper's sub-

THE RING OF THE BELL PROPOSAL

Agencymen, reps disagree whether to kill the piggyback

Executives at advertising agencies and station representative companies last week expressed mixed reaction to the proposal by Howard H. Bell, director of the NAB Code Authority, to outlaw piggyback announcements (BROADCASTING, Jan. 6).

Mr. Bell, in a memorandum to members of the television code board, which meets in Miami on Jan. 22-23, proposed that approval be given only to "integrated" commercials meeting the following specifications: the product or service must be related in nature and produced by the same advertiser; the spot must be produced in such a way that it appears to the average viewer to be a single announcement.

In general, both those executives who agreed and disagreed with Mr. Bell stressed that there must be an extremely clear definition of what constitutes a commercial that is acceptable and one that is unacceptable. In addition, there was a feeling on the part of some unit that set off last year's ratings row when it held an extensive public hearing on audience measurement and research (BROADCASTING, Feb. 18, 1963, et seq.).

Meanwhile, a special group of network television vice presidents met privately with Representative Harris in his Washington office Thursday (Jan. 9) to explain results of special studies being conducted on network TV research. They are to return to Wash-officials who supported Mr. Bell's move that from a practical viewpoint it might prove difficult to enforce such rules regarding piggybacks, since some stations may give a broader interpretation to the definition.

Pro And Con • These were some of the points made by those who backed Mr. Bell: The NAB action will provide the impetus for stations to tighten their definition of piggybacks and the implementation of this proposal will tend to increase commercial effectiveness and help television generally.

Those who differed with Mr. Bell offered these comments: There is no proof that piggybacks offend the viewers or result in lowered commercial efficiency; there is a strong possibility that a large number of stations will not honor a prohibition against piggybacks; there is an opportunity for stations to charge premium rates for piggybacks; there can be no "fool-proof" definition of piggyback, and this can lead to confusion.

it must be approved by the board of the National Association of Broadcasters. This work is in addition to the radio methodology study being conducted jointly by the NAB and the Radio Advertising Bureau, he said, and also in addition to specific studies—such as conceptual matters and sample size—that the networks are conducting with the NAB research department.

 Appropriation Expected • What Mr. McGannon may have been hinting at mission was expected by the end of the week, he continued. A. E. Sindlinger Co. should be in by the end of January, Mr. McGannon said.

He appeared satisfied with this rate of return, pointing out that the material requested is so voluminous that Pulse required a crate to transport it all.

This material on systems and methods, along with the criteria established by the council, will form the “underpinning” of the audit service, Mr. McGannon said.

Unresolved Problems: He said the frequency at which audits will be made involves a problem of a reconciling cost and effectiveness—a problem not yet resolved. With five rating services and hundreds of markets involved, he pointed out, the auditing job will be complex and costly.

The services are those offering regular nationally syndicated audience-measurement reports: A.C. Nielsen Co., ARB, Hooper, Sindlinger and Pulse. Mr. McGannon indicated that others, offering more specialized services, like Trendex and Videodex, would undoubtedly be involved on a secondary basis.

Mr. McGannon said it was contemplated that the cost of auditing the services would be borne by these services themselves, and that presumably these costs would be reflected in their charges to their subscribers.

In a brief reference to ratings council accreditation, Mr. McGannon mentioned in his letter that “we are now in the process of having this reviewed legally because of the sensitive anti-trust problems involved.” The letter adds that “this includes review and hearing on shortcomings and noncompliance [of rating services] as well as the possible consequence of disaccreditation.”

Representative J. Arthur Younger (R-Calif.), ranking Republican on the ratings subcommittee, commented favorably on the report. “I think they’re making progress in the right direction.”

Representative Paul G. Rogers (D-Fla.), a subcommittee member who has expressed concern that ratings legislation might be needed if broadcasters didn’t “clean up their own house,” said earlier in the week that the council’s issuance of proposed ratings criteria was “very significant.”

The list of council members released last week contained one not on earlier lists—Mutual Radio.

Members pay at the rate of $5,000 a year for each seat they have on the board of directors—a total of $75,000 a year. NAB has five representatives on the board; the American Association of Advertising Agencies has two and the other members one each. The directors and their organizations are:

NBC—Hugh M. Beville Jr., Mutual—Raymond T. Anderson.

Television Bureau of Advertising—Norman E. Cash.

Station Representatives Association—Edward Codel, The Katz Agency.

FM Broadcasters Association—James Schulte.

The council’s headquarters will be in New York. While office space is being sought, Dr. Baker is working temporarily in the Time-Life building there.

Research directors of the television networks and the National Association of Broadcasters met privately with Representative Oren Harris (D-Ark.) last Thursday (Jan. 9) to explain what the networks are doing jointly to solve ratings problems.

Representative Harris, chairman of the Special Subcommittee on Investigations, invited the broadcasters to return Wednesday (Jan. 15) and tell their story to the full panel.

The unannounced, closed-door session in Washington followed by one day a public report by the Broadcast Ratings Council, now incorporated, on progress broadcasters and rating companies have made toward improving ratings (story above).

Those attending the Washington meeting included Melvin Goldberg, research director of the National Association of Broadcasters; Julius Barnathan, ABC research vice president; Jay Eliasberg, CBS research director; Hugh M. Beville, NBC research vice president; Representative Harris, Charles P. Howze Jr., subcommittee staff director, and Kurt Borchardt, communications counsel of the parent Commerce Committee.

The network executives are members of the Committee on National Television Audience Measurements, an offshoot of the NAB’s research committee, that works in conjunction with Mr. Goldberg. The networks, through an independent market research company, are sponsoring three methodology studies: a comparison of ratings with various levels of sample size; a comparison of the viewing habits of persons who cooperate in audience research studies in the national audience field with viewers who do not cooperate, and a comparison of the results of the American Research Bureau and A. C. Nielsen Co.

Incredible Correlation: Two of the studies have been completed, but the research company is still at work on unanswered problems about noncooperative respondents, the researchers reported. This study is limited to ARB and Nielsen, who have been conducting similar studies of their own for some time.

The completed studies show that separate ARB and Nielsen reports on the popularity of the top and bottom 20 network television programs carried in prime time result in “an incredible correlation,” as one meeting participant put it.
RAB DETAILS 1964 PLANS

‘Balanced’ approach of multiphase sales program can double radio’s growth rate, Bunker claims

The Radio Advertising Bureau last week unveiled a sales program of ambitious proportions for 1964 which, if successful, would eventually see radio's annual growth rate climb to 10%, twice its present yearly rate.

The plan, titled “operation acceleration,” was outlined by RAB President Edmund C. Bunker for 16 radio representation firms. Mr. Bunker said “it’s not enough for radio to grow just as fast as other media. We’re growing from too low a base. . . . We are not growing fast enough as we deserve to grow on merit.”

A significant departure for RAB described by Mr. Bunker as part of the multiphase radio sales program will be a new emphasis on presentations to agency media departments. He said he would lead the presentation to the top 50 agencies himself, and that these would be followed up with talks to as many account groups as possible.

Robert H. Alter, RAB vice president and director of national sales, outlined a new “balanced” approach in the bureau's selling method which would involve “a far greater penetration of agencies than had been possible previously.” Calls which have been directed principally at national advertisers in the past would now include both media and account departments of agencies.

The Plan - Mr. Bunker said the first phase of “operation acceleration” would consist of a new presentation drawing its sales data from $175,000 worth of research already done in carrying out the RAB Radio Marketing Plan campaigns aimed at large national advertisers.

Another phase, described by Miles David, RAB administrative vice president, would be aimed at establishing new advertisers by putting existing ones on record. He said RAB would release a list of the top 50 national spot radio advertisers during 1963. The figures, now being compiled, will be based on information offered by representation firms and other sources. Mr. David assessed the technique as follows: “We expect to create and we believe you will create dozens of new advertisers just by putting radio's advertisers on the record.” Another aid to radio salesmen will be a monthly compilation of a business barometer for spot radio, intended to provide a measure of comparable sales activity for the medium from one year to the next.

Mr. Bunker described the creation of an RAB station representatives liaison committee as another integral part of the overall sales effort. The purpose of the committee would be to decide where the radio industry's major selling efforts should be directed, hopefully eliminating duplicated efforts.

Ratings Leadership - Mr. David said the radio industry's leadership in presenting for audience measurement methodology research has resulted in radio's getting the credit for leadership in this area in the minds of advertisers and agency people. He added, though, that “full benefits of the RAB-NAB methodology study won't come until next year because of the depth with which the study is to be undertaken.”

The RAB sales acceleration program will also place a new accent on the importance of creativity in radio commercials. As part of its plan to foster creativity RAB plans to double the number of awards it gives yearly for the most creative radio commercials from 12 to 24. Mr. Bunker called on station representatives to assist RAB in expanding radio's sales force, singling out personal salesmanship as the basic ingredient for more radio revenues. He said RAB plans a continuing increase in its sales force through 1964.

Those attending the meeting and their organizations: Thomas B. Campbell and W. B. Taylor Eldon, Advertising Time Sales; Bill Losee, AM Radio Sales; Arthur McCoy and Lou Faust, Blair Radio; Carl L. Schuele, Broadcast Time Sales; Maurice Webster and Ron Gilbert, CBS Radio Spot Sales; Richard Arbuckle, Robert Eastman Co.; James Alsbaugh and Max Friedman, H-R Reps; Morris Keilner and Martin Beck, Katz Agency; Ralph Guild, McGavren-Guild; Herb Hahn, Meeker Co.; Bud Neuwirth and Robert Coppers, Metro Radio Sales; Fred Lyons and Wilbur Fromm, NBC Radio Spot Sales; Roger O'Conner and Gay Eckard, Roger O'Conner Inc.; Tom Taylor, Peters, Griffin and Woodward; Ben Holmes, Edward Petry & Co., and Peggy Stone and Saul Frischling, Stone Reps.

AFTRA, networks agree on new codes

The extensive negotiations for new codes governing performers appearing in TV and radio commercials, and network radio and television programs were headed for conclusion last week as networks and the American Federation of Television & Radio Artists reached agreement on the final phase of the overall contract.

The joint negotiations between the Screen Actors Guild and AFTRA on the one hand, and the advertising agencies, advertisers and networks began last October to replace various codes that expired Nov. 15. An agreement was reached between AFTRA-SAG and the advertisers and agencies last month (BROADCASTING, Dec. 9, 1963) in the critical television commercial area. In conformity with custom, no overall contract was signed pending the outcome of AFTRA's negotiations with the networks for codes covering the areas of transcribed spot announcements, radio-TV network programs and network-owned stations' staff announcers and newsmen.

An AFTRA spokesman said union and network negotiators held through-the-night sessions last Tuesday (Jan. 7) and evolved a "workable formula" on Wednesday (Jan. 8). He said proposals will be submitted to members of the national board in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles this week for approval and to members for ratification.

It is expected that all codes will be signed within the next two to three weeks.

Though details of the various agreements have not been made public, it is reported that the unions again made gains in the critical TV commercial area. The session fee was raised from $95 to $105 and the use payment from 15% up to 100% in some instances.

The proposed agreement with the networks reportedly calls for increases in salaries and fees ranging from 5% to 10% and added fringe benefits.

Toy firm, FTC agree

AMT Corp., Troy, Mich., last week agreed to a consent order issued by the Federal Trade Commission forbidding AMT from making misrepresentations in its TV commercials for the "Authentic Model Turnpike," a toy. According to the FTC, the turnpike kit does not include two cars (but only one), and several other accessories, contrary to statements and pictorial presentations in the firm's commercials.

The order also is binding upon four officers of the company. The agreement is for settlement purposes only and does not constitute an admission of guilt by AMT, the FTC said.

Retail merchants convention hears praise of UHF

Delegates to the National Retail Merchants Association convention in New York last week heard UHF television extolled as a medium suited to their advertising needs. William L. Putnam, president, Springfield Television Broadcasting Corp., suggested that UHF stations must stay local rather than regional in outlook in order to operate profitably and that this attitude works to the advantage of local advertisers. Large volume purchases, he said, are generally made by people who have travelled no more than 20 miles from their home to the point of purchase. “Normal retailing trade areas,” he added, “have grown up which are substantially smaller than the normal coverage areas of most old channel VHF television stations. This is what makes the rates too high for most retailers . . .”

In concluding remarks to the retailers, Mr. Putnam said “furtherance of local television by the widespread development of the UHF channels gives you the best opportunity to reach your customers that you have ever had.”

Audience delivery up

NBC researchers last week calculated TV usage based on average program ratings for all the networks and found audience delivery to be up this season over last. The research department at NBC reported 9.44 million homes delivered per “average minute” in the fourth quarter of 1963 compared to 8.81 million homes delivered on that basis in the like period of 1962.

Collins intends to go on talking

HE TELLS NAB BOARD CHIEFS HE’LL SAY WHAT HE THINKS

LeRoy Collins, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, told the NAB’s executive committee last week that he will continue to speak publicly on controversial matters—including those not related to broadcasting—and that he would not accede to any arrangement requiring him to clear his statements in advance.

The governor was determined and unyielding in his position when called on the carpet last Monday (Jan. 6) in Washington by the association’s five-man executive committee, all of whom were present. The committee—consisting of the chairmen and vice chairmen of the NAB boards—questioned the president for approximately two hours on his recent public statements, primarily those on civil rights (BROADCASTING, Dec. 9, 1963) and cigarette advertising (BROADCASTING, Dec. 2, 1963).

Governor Collins and the committee—William Quarton, WMT-TV Cedar Rapids, Iowa (chairman); James Russell, KXTV(TV) Colorado Springs, Colo.; Ben Stoupe, WWDC-AM-FM Washington; Glenn Marshall, WJXT(TV) Jacksonville, Fla., and Richard Chapin, KFOR Lincoln, Neb.—agreed that he would state his position before the NAB combined boards in Sarasota, Fla., later this month.

The committee neither endorsed nor disapproved of the governor’s past actions. The question of approval will be put to the board. Although no vote was taken at the executive committee session, the sentiment was said to be 3-2 against the governor’s contention that he is duty-bound to speak out on any subject of his choosing without any restrictions. This lack of unanimity, it was reported, is the reason the board took no action, publicly or privately.

Mr. Quarton, who also is NAB board chairman, made the following statement: “We discussed routine association matters in preparation for the board meeting later this month in Sarasota. We also had a frank discussion with Governor Collins about several of his recent speeches. He feels he is doing a fine job for the broadcasters and proposes to continue to speak out on important national issues as well as on matters directly concerning broadcasting.”

ALLIED ARTISTS TV
William Quarton (standing) reports to nine other members of the radio and television boards of the National Association of Broadcasters at an informal dinner session in Washington last Monday (Jan. 6). Mr. Quarton, WMT-TV Cedar Rapids, Iowa, is chairman of the NAB combined boards. Major topic of discussion was a meeting earlier in the day of the NAB executive committee (also chaired by Mr. Quarton) which NAB President LeRoy Collins attended.

whom the president has confidence, or that any one in the country could be quickly reached by telephone, and that perhaps he should check out his ideas in advance with one of them. The group did not propose any particular broadcaster or a formal or informal committee for the governor to talk with but suggested he select the man or men.

No, replied Governor Collins. He would not be as effective, he reportedly told the committee, if he cleared his talks in advance under any arrangement. He said, it is understood, that he wanted his audiences to know that his speeches were a product of his own thoughts and not of a committee of broadcasters. Also, it is understood, he objected on the grounds that he did not want to set a precedent of agreeing to discuss his statements in advance of their delivery.

At the executive committee meeting the governor reportedly was told by one of the members that a majority of the board did not agree with his position. To which the governor was said to have countered that he was convinced most broadcasters did support his viewpoint on the duties of an NAB president.

All members of the executive committee except Mr. Strouse met that same evening with six other NAB board members who were in Washington for an NAB finance committee meeting the next day. They discussed Governor Collins's position and the executive committee's decision to present the matter to the board for possible action. The other board members agreed informally that the executive committee had been correct in taking no public position and referring the matter to the full board.

Private Views - Some of the board members expressed strong private opinions on Governor Collins's statements, but only Mr. Russell made a comment for the record. "The governor has been a great asset to the NAB although I would prefer that he devote his future speeches to matters directly concerned with broadcasting," Mr. Russell said.

"I personally don't want him to editorialize for us on broadcast matters," another broadcaster in Washington for the many NAB meetings said last week. "We [the board] are going to set policy on broadcast matters—or else," he said, and the governor will be instructed that he is to accept this position.

Late last week, there was considerable talk that a resolution would be presented at Sarasota placing some form of prior review on the NAB president's statements, particularly on broadcast matters. However, even those backing this approach felt that it was doomed.

"Roy is very persuasive, and after the board hears him, the members will stick with him," a director said. "The governor is convinced he is doing the best job any NAB president has ever done and he simply refuses to be hobbled."

NAB Successes - A source close to Governor Collins maintained the NAB is stronger and more vital than ever solely because of the Collins leadership. "Because the governor is a public figure holding public respect, the same public has heard of the NAB and its president for the first time," he said. "Collins's speeches are the major reason for this... He does not mouth the utterings of the usual NAB president."

The NAB boards meet Jan. 27-31 in Sarasota and the first meeting of the combined radio and TV boards is set for Jan. 28. It is expected that the Collins question will come up at that time.

New CATV comment deadline

The FCC last week announced that parties wishing to comment on the commission's rulemakings to regulate microwave systems servicing community antennas may have until Feb. 24 to submit their views and until March 16 for reply comments. The action, which extended the deadlines from Jan. 22 and Feb. 12, respectively, was requested by the National Community Television Association.

The rulemakings would require that grants to microwave systems be conditioned on the CATV not duplicating for a 15-day period the programing of local television, with their grade A service area (Broadcasting, Dec. 16, 1963). It would also be required that the CATV carry local station signals if so requested.

The Next Half-Hour Will Be Brought To You By...?

Bob Whiteley, WMAL-TV National Sales Representative,* went out to round up four businessmen to sponsor the telecast of the basketball championship play-off between a local five and a neighboring rival. He found eight of the town’s more solvent industrialists attending a Board of Trade luncheon and broached the subject. All eight of them were eager to sponsor, but they laid down such peculiar conditions that Whiteley was somewhat at a loss to pick the needed four.

The manufacturer of Peerless Pickles and the owner of The Three Seasons Restaurant (closed July and August) said they would co-sponsor with anybody. However, Harry’s Hardware won’t sponsor unless United Trust Bank does and United Trust won’t sponsor with The Three Seasons. Comfy Drive-In won’t sponsor unless Bob’s Bowling Alley does. Sam’s Supermarket won’t sponsor with Comfy Drive-In unless Superba Stores does, and won’t sponsor with United Trust unless Comfy Drive-In sponsors too. Superba Stores won’t sponsor with both Harry’s Hardware and United Trust, and with either Peerless Pickles or The Three Seasons. Bob’s Bowling Alley won’t sponsor unless Harry’s Hardware or Sam’s Supermarket does, won’t sponsor with United Trust unless Superba Stores does too and won’t co-sponsor with both Peerless Pickles and The Three Seasons.

Bell outlines drive for code subscribers

BOARD TOLD OF FUNDS FOR COMMERCIAL RESEARCH

An intensive drive for new members and extensive research into radio commercial practices and problems were key areas discussed last Thursday (Jan. 9) at a Washington meeting of the Radio Code Review Board of the National Association of Broadcasters.

The board also named a subcommittee to study tobacco advertising in light of the U. S. surgeon general's report issued Saturday (story, page 33).

Howard H. Bell, newly-appointed NAB code authority director, who was meeting with a code board for the first time, outlined a program designed to increase the importance of the radio code to broadcasters and to make it better known to the public. He said first priority must be given to increasing the number of station subscribers, now standing at 1,854, 38% of the total U. S. radio stations.

"An all-out effort will be launched for new subscribers," he said, with a combination salesman and promotion man to be added to the code staff. The membership campaign will include direct mail promotion, personal calls and telephone.

Melvin Goldberg, NAB vice president for research, reported that the NAB research committee has appropriated funds to conduct a study of radio commercial practices. Several weeks ago, the code authority had requested the committee to undertake and finance such a project and a similar study is planned for TV, Mr. Bell said.

The code board members discussed various approaches for the research and commercial problems with Mr. Goldberg. The research will include quality of commercials, placement, individual tastes and other areas.

Mr. Bell said the response and support of the research committee to the code effort is "extremely significant and valuable to our whole program."

The code board also heard reports from Douglas Anello, NAB general counsel, on government action on time standards and Paul Comstock, NAB vice president for government affairs, on legislative matters.

All radio code board members attended the meeting. They include Cliff Gill, KEZV Anaheim, Calif., chairman; Richard Dunning, KQX Spokane, Wash.; Elmo Ellis, WBB Atlanta; Robert Jones Jr., WPEI Baltimore; Herbert Krueger, WTAG Worcester, Mass.; Robert Pratt, KGRF Coffeyville, Kan.; Richard Fairbanks, WIBC Indianapolis; Lee Fondren, KLZ Denver, and Richard Mason, WPTF Raleigh, N. C.

NAB radio board election to be held

It's election time again on the radio board of the National Association of Broadcasters with the terms of 12 of the 29 directors ending with the NAB convention next April. Radio members will elect eight district directors, one FM and one each from the three market classifications by population.

Nominating forms will be sent to members Thursday (Jan. 16) with actual ballots to be mailed Feb. 1. Results of the mail ballot will be announced March 2 with the new directors to take office at the close of the convention in Chicago.

Only four of the directors whose terms expire are not eligible for re-election under NAB by-laws which limit board members to two consecutive two-year terms. They are Richard Chapin, KPOR Lincoln, Neb., and radio vice chairman (District 10 which includes Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska); Allan Page, KGWA Enid, Okla. (District 12, Oklahoma and Kansas); John Patt, WJR Detroit representing large markets, and Robert Mason, WMBN Mason, Ohio, representing small markets.

John F. Box Jr., WIL St. Louis, now is on the board representing medium-sized markets. His term expires this spring and while he is not eligible for re-election to his present board spot he can be elected a director from a district or large market.

The television board will elect new directors at the convention with the terms of six board members expiring at that time.

CBS TV stations have their best year

The CBS Television Stations Division last week released a yearend report saying that 1963 was the most successful year in the division's history. The report showed an 11% increase in net sales for the division's components: five CBS-owned television stations, CBS Television Stations National Sales and CBS Films Inc.

The stations reported a 12% combined net sales increase over 1962, and CBS Television Stations National Sales reported a 14% increase. CBS Films, which said 1963 was its best year since 1958, reported that by the end of last year it was distributing 82 program series in 70 countries—an increase of eight countries and six program series.

The division report covered 1963 programming activities for the stations: WCBS-TV-New York, KNXT (TV) Los Angeles, WBBM-TV Chicago, WCAU-TV Philadelphia and KNOM-TV St. Louis. The report stressed increased news coverage and public affairs at the stations. Heavy news schedules last year prompted the stations to set up a full-time Washington news bureau employing sound-on-film equipment.

The report also noted that WCBS-TV, which it claimed has the largest local news operation in the country, increased its local news schedule two hours and 40 minutes a week. Plans are being completed now for WCBS-TV news bureaus in Albany, N. Y., and Trenton, N. J.

Oral argument on licensee morality

IT’S CENTRAL ISSUE IN BARRY-ENRIGHT RENEWAL CASE

Licensee morality was given a hard look last week as the FCC held an oral argument in the WGMA Hollywood, Fla., renewal proceeding. The Hollywood station is owned by Jack Barry and Daniel Enright, two prominent figures in the quiz show scandal of several years ago and two men the commission’s Broadcast Bureau doubts are morally qualified to be licensees.

Arguing against WGMA’s attorney Marcus Cohn, the Broadcast Bureau’s William A. Kehoe Jr. told the commission that there is no doubt that Mr. Enright “fixed” the quiz shows Twenty-One and Tic Tac Dough giving complete instructions to a number of contestants—such as answers, how long to pause before answering and other histrionics—and that Mr. Barry was fully aware of the dishonesty. Strong doubt is cast upon the two men’s character qualifications to be licensees, Mr. Kehoe said.

This has been a pivotal question throughout the renewal hearing. Hearing Examiner Elizabeth C. Smith, in her initial decision recommending renewal, said that Messrs. Barry and Enright’s actions were not to be condoned, but that they didn’t equal “an absolute disqualification as to the basic character attributes” necessary to be a licensee (Broadcasting, May 6, 1963). She also pointed out the so-called “moral climate” of the times in making her evaluations. The operation of WGMA she concluded had been exemplary.

This was not the thinking of the Broadcast Bureau which charged the initial decision would “invite further assaults on the moral fabric of television” (Broadcasting, June 10, 1963).

Public Tarnish • Among all the falsehoods committed Mr. Kehoe felt the worst was the statement read by Mr. Barry, and prepared by him and his partner, on the Twenty-One show broadcast Sept. 8, 1958. In the statement Mr. Barry assured his viewers that the quiz show was not rigged, as it had been publically claimed, and that any charges to that effect were “wholly untrue.” Mr. Kehoe claimed the two WGMA owners were guilty of using a network broadcast to communicate an untruth to the public—which, he said, is not a good recommendation for a commission licensee.

Mr. Cohn couldn’t deny that Messrs. Barry and Enright had run fraudulent quiz shows, but claimed credit due the two men as they admitted their wrong doings before the House Committee on Legislative Oversight hearing held on the question of quiz-show fixing. Mr. Cohn said that their actions were not done as commission licensees and that they had violated no existing law.

Mr. Cohn said that Messrs. Barry and Enright were not alone in rigging or other false practices. He recalled the observation of the hearing examiner that there was existing at that time a widespread attitude in the broadcast industry accepting false practices. He said that NBC-TV “knew or should have known” that the rigging was going on. Commissioner Lee Loewinger, however, wondered how this could exonerate Messrs. Barry and Enright.

Redemption? • Mr. Cohn said as long as the owners of WGMA have proven themselves reliable, since the scandal broke, they should be judged qualified to hold a license. “Sinners can be redeemed” according to the attorney. But Chairman E. William Henry appeared to wish to make the record clear that Mr. Barry was, as well as Mr. Enright, a commission licensee during the show fixing. Mr. Cohn agreed but said that the quiz show had no bearing on the operation of WGMA which has been highly praised.

Mr. Cohn said that the Hollywood station has not committed any of the violations on which the commission has based revocations and nonrenewals. The present case, he said, is far different from the kwwx St. Louis revocation case or the nonrenewal of krlaPasadena, Calif.—wogm's record is clean, he said. Mr. Cohn cited the kordPasco, Wash., case—involving the programming question of promise vs. performance—in asking for another chance for the wogm licensees. This suggestion brought a question from Commissioner Frederick W. Ford, who asked if the commission should be responsible for reminding its licensees to be good.

Mr. Cohn also noted that the commission renewed the 14 licenses of Westinghouse Broadcasting Co., despite the fact that the parent corporation had been found guilty of price fixing.

Rebutting Mr. Cohn, Mr. Kehoe again returned to the personal qualifications of Messrs. Barry and Enright—Mr. Enright in particular who was characterized as consistently untruthful during the revelation of the rigged quiz shows.

MBS announced the addition of three more affiliates, effective the first of this year.

The new stations are kwyz Everett, Wash., with 1 kw day, 250 w night on 1230 kc.; kpg bellingham, Wash., with 1 kw on 1170 kc, and wxvw jeffersonville, ind. (Louisville, Ky.), with 1 kw day, 250 w night on 1450 kc.

'Whale of a year' for CBS Radio sales

A CBS Radio year-end report issued last week by Arthur Hull Hayes, president of the network, said sales volume picked up 50% over its 1962 level and went on to predict further advances for the coming year.

The financial picture was contained in the network's annual letter to affiliates. The letter included news that "sales for the first quarter of this year are already 9% ahead of the same three months in 1963."

Mr. Hayes noted unusually high interest in network affiliation during 1963 and remarked on "a much stronger line-up of stations than we had a year ago."

In his letter Mr. Hayes made particular mention of the possibility that dramatic programming might return to network radio. In this connection he said: "We're weighing the many improbabilities of terms of audience appeal and of economics. Our own knowledge does not suggest an immediate move in this direction; it appears that listeners primarily want news, information, informal entertainment, and music." He stated, however, that the idea of radio drama is "under serious consideration."

He also indicated that a revival of comedy shows of the past is a distinct possibility.

Turning to the problem of research, Mr. Hayes said CBS Radio would give strong support to programs of the Radio Advertising Bureau, National Association of Broadcasters, Advertising Research Foundation and the Broadcast Rating Council, directed at improvement of quantitative audience measurement.

Mr. Hayes said the network had offered listeners 146 special programs in 1963. He characterized the fiscal year as "a whale of a year."

Metromedia's Kluge is a 'foster parent'

John W. Kluge, president and chairman of the board of Metromedia Inc., last week became an unusual sort of a "foster parent." It came about with the birth of a rare white tiger at the National Zoo in Washington where the zoo directors watched the event on closed circuit TV. They feared that viewing in person would disturb the mother, herself a white tigress. Two kittens of less distinction were also born at the zoo.

The closed-circuit facilities were provided by WRTG(TV) Washington, a Metromedia station, which filmed the proceedings for a special program Sunday (Jan. 12). Mohini, the mother, was presented to the zoo three years ago by Mr. Kluge.
Commission pondering Clarksburg TV sale

The FCC heard oral arguments last week in a case that could become a benchmark in the history of the commission’s dealings with community antenna TV systems.

At issue is whether the FCC should permit common ownership of a CATV system and the only viable television station in its community—and if so, under what circumstances.

The case involves the proposed sale of WBOY-TV Clarksburg, W. Va., from Rust Craft Broadcasting Co. to Northern West Virginia Television Broadcasting Co., for $950,000. The proposed purchaser is a subsidiary of Fortnightly Corp., which also owns CATV systems in Clarksburg and nearby Fairmont, W. Va.

The commission has permitted CATV systems in Yuma, Ariz., and Helena, Mont., to purchase the TV stations in those communities. The commission’s rationale was that the stations were failing and the areas were in danger of losing their television service—although Commissioner Kenneth A. Cox last week said figures indicate the stations showed a profit in their last year of independent operation.

Rust Craft and Fortnightly have had a number of legal battles over the years as a result of the conflict between their operations in Clarksburg. Several issues are still in court. But the proposed sale would terminate the cases.

The commission reportedly wrestled with the question of whether to approve the WBOY-TV sale for some time before deciding to hold oral arguments and attempt to make a policy determination.

Key Question - In ordering the argument, the commission said it wanted to examine the question of whether the common owner of a CATV system and a broadcast station, both of which compete for audience, “can be expected to be as zealous” in promoting both properties. The commission noted that the station’s profits depend on advertising, while the CATV system’s revenues “come in the more direct and regular form” of subscriber payments.

The commission’s Broadcast Bureau opposed the proposed sale. Robert Rowton, the head of the bureau’s renewal and transfer division, said “a hopeless conflict of interest” would be created if the sale were approved.

He said the commission should institute a rulemaking proceeding to deal with the question of common ownership on a national basis.

Attorney E. Stratford Smith, representing Northern West Virginia, said it would be in the self-interest of the common owner to promote the television station as zealously as possible. Fortnightly, he said, wouldn’t invest close to $1 million in a property it intended to let deteriorate.

Former Foe - Support for the sale came also from Rust Craft, as well as WJPB-TV Weston, W. Va. WJPB-TV had originally protested the sale on the ground that it would give WBOY-TV a competitive edge in the Clarksburg-Weston-Fairmont area since Fortnightly intended to carry WBOY-TV’s signals on its CATV systems in Clarksburg and Fairmont. However, WJPB-TV withdrew its opposition after Fortnightly agreed...

to carry that station on the two systems.

Mr. Rawson said the question of competition is of prime importance. The CATV system, he said, "is interested in hooking up as many homes possible."

As a result, he said, Fortnightly wouldn't be expected to improve the operations of its television station to the point where its ability to secure and retain subscribers for its CATV system would be impaired.

He recalled that the commission in 1959, in studying the question of CATV's impact on television broadcasting, had considered whether CATV's should be made subject to the commission's multiple ownership rule. "Based on experience since 1959, we feel there is a hopeless conflict of interest [in common ownership of a CATV system and television station] and should not be allowed."

Northern West Virginia has volunteered to accept a number of unusual conditions if the sale is approved. It has offered to take a one-year license and submit periodic reports to the commission to permit a close surveillance of its operation of the station.

Close Look: Mr. Rawson, however, said these conditions "would have the commission looking over the station's shoulder, looking at its programming."

He said the commission wouldn't want to get involved in scrutinizing the station's operations that closely.

Mr. Smith said there is nothing that would "per se justify" the commission prohibiting, as a matter of policy, common ownership of a CATV system and a television station. He noted that CATV's don't originate programs or compete with television stations for advertising.

Consequently, he said, the common ownership of a CATV system and television station in the same community is not analogous to owning two or more TV stations in the same area.

Economic Interest: "But," asked Commissioner Lee Loevinger, "isn't economic interest a factor to be considered?" He noted that Congress is opposed to monopolistic practices.

Mr. Smith replied that although CATV systems provide the public with a wider choice of channels, "no economic conflict is involved—CATV systems and stations are not in competition, as such."

Mr. Smith also said the question of whether wboy-tv is viable should not be relevant. A policy that would permit CATV systems to own money-losing stations but not profitable ones, he said, "could not be within the contemplation of the commission."

He said under such a policy a CATV operator who takes over the only local station, which is losing money, and turns it into a profitable operation would become ineligible to hold the license. Such a policy, he said, would penalize aggressive promotion of the station.

Rust Craft has a number of other broadcast interests. It owns wstv-am-fm-tv Steubenville, Ohio; wrcb-tv Chattanooga, and wwal-am-fm-buffalo. It has 40% interest in wvue-tv New Orleans; and through its parent, Rust Craft Greeting Cards, has interests in wftp-am-fm Pittsburgh; wsut Tampa, Fla., and wrdw-tv Augusta, Ga.

Broadcasters oppose daylight time extension

The New York state joint legislative committee on motor vehicles and traffic safety last week released an annual report noting strong opposition from several broadcasters to a proposal to extend daylight saving time to nine months in New York, Massachusetts and Connecticut. The opposition from "daylight-only radio stations and radiotelevision networks" was cited as a major obstacle to the bill, which was filed last week in the New York State Legislature by State Senator Edward J. Speno (Broadcasting, Dec. 16, 1963).

One of the recent attacks on the proposal came last week from Paul Godofsky, chairman of a New York State Broadcasters Association subcommittee Mr. Godofsky, who is also president of whlt Hempstead, n. y., charged that passage of the bill would mean that school children and commuters "would get to their destinations in pitch dark of winter mornings." Many daytime stations contend the daylight saving extender would decrease their morning new broadcasts.

Kraushaar withdraws from channel 5 case

The Boston channel 5 comparative hearing received a new hearing examiner last week when David I. Kraushaar voluntarily withdrew.

Herbert Sharfman was named by Chief Hearing Examiner James D. Cunningham to conduct the hearing which involves whdh-tv Boston, on license renewal, and three applicants for the same facility.

Mr. Kraushaar took the action after whdh-tv moved that he disqualify himself because he had, as a member of the FCC's Broadcast Bureau staff in 1957, filed an interlocutory pleading in the original Boston channel 5 case (Broadcasting, Jan. 6).

At the present time, the commission has been ordered by the U. S. Court of Appeals to show cause why the four-month license granted whdh-tv last

Court upholds FCC on UHF translator grant

A federal court in Washington last week upheld the FCC on a technical legal point.

Three judges of the U. S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia agreed with the FCC in dismissing a petition for reconsideration of a grant of a UHF translator on the ground the protestant had not filed a pre-grant objection and that the plea did not warrant setting aside the grant.

Springfield Television Broadcasting Corp. had asked for reconsideration against the grant by the commission of a UHF translator in Athol, Mass., to Millers River Transmitters Inc. Springfield Television (which operates WRLP [tv] Greenfield, Mass., among other stations in New England) claimed that the Millers River translator was going to be used to pick up WHDH-TV Boston which is an NBC affiliate. WRLP in Greenfield, about 20 miles away from Athol is also an NBC affiliate. Springfield claimed NBC policy is to approve use of its programs by translators from only the nearest affiliate.

Millers River also received approval for two other UHF translators to pick up the signals of CBS and ABC affiliated stations. These were not involved in the litigation.

FCC allocation plan on AMST board agenda

A computer study of the FCC's proposed new table of allocations for UHF is being used by the Association of Maximum Service Telecasters in preparing comments on the rulemaking. The AMST board of directors will meet in Hollywood, Fla., Friday (Jan. 17) to go over the results of the computer evaluation of the FCC plan to add 411 UHF channels (Broadcasting, Oct. 28, 1963) and to plan its own comments.

AMST also is applying the computer to a new allocations plan proposed by the National Association of Educational Broadcasters, which itself used a computer in an attempt to convince the FCC to assign more channels to ETV, NAEB said it would need 1,200 assignments in the next decade (Broadcasting, Nov. 11).

The AMST computer has been at work since shortly after the FCC rulemaking was announced.

At the Florida meeting, the board also will take a position on the request of the Midwest Program on Airborne TV Instruction Inc. for the permanent allocation of six UHF channels to its use and Federal Aviation Agency proposals on antenna farms and restricted tower heights.

Jack Harris, KPRC-TV Houston, is president of AMST.

Broadcasters dine with LBJ, business leaders

Executives of some of the top broadcast groups were among those members of the Business Advisory Council having dinner with President Johnson last Tuesday (Jan. 7).

The President also had lunch the same day with major labor leaders, among whom were several representing unions having jurisdiction in the broadcast field.

Representing broadcast interests in the Business Advisory Council were: Fred Bohern, Meredith Publishing Co. (Meredith Stations); John Cowles, Minneapolis Star & Tribune (which owns 47% of WCCO-AM-TV Minneapolis-St. Paul, and 80% of KTVH-TV Hutchinson-Wichita, Kan.); Edgar F. Kaiser, Kaiser Industries Corp. (Kaiser stations), and Frank Stanton, CBS Inc.

Labor officials representing broadcast or film unions at the luncheon were: Joseph A. Beirne, Communication Workers of America; Joseph D. Keenan, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; Herman O. Kenin, American Federation of Musicians; Richard F. Walsh, International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees of Moving Picture Operators and James B. Carey, International Union of Electrical Workers.

Ottumwa citizens reject another CATV proposal

CATV proposals just don't seem to be doing well in Ottumwa, Iowa, these days, but an optimist might say things are getting better.

Ottumwa citizens voted by a 7 to 1 margin Wednesday (Jan. 8) against an Iowa Cable Television Co. proposal to establish a community antenna system.

That was an improvement over the last Ottumwa referendum on CATV which rejected a Jerrol Electronics proposal by 10 to 1 Jan. 17, 1961.

Wednesday's referendum was the second of five CATV proposals to be put to Ottumwa voters. Ottumwa Cable TV Co. is up next on Feb. 18. Still to come, but not yet scheduled are Cable TV Inc., Able Cable and KTVO(tv), which put in its own CATV bid as a protection measure.

Broadcasters join in tribute to library

Broadcasters joined their colleagues in the motion picture and recording fields Thursday (Jan. 9) in honoring the Library of Congress on the 70th anniversary of the first motion picture copyright.

Governor LeRoy Collins, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, noted that "in a very large sense we in radio and television are recording for history, and much of what we put on tape and film and disks will ultimately pass into the archives of this great library."

The Hollywood Museum, sponsored by the NAB with recording and motion picture associations, was host for the luncheon tribute in Washington. Sol Lesser, who arranged the anniversary program, heads the museum which will serve "as a repository for the history of our own industries," Governor Collins said.

The first copyright motion picture—it recorded a sneeze—was received for copyright Jan. 9, 1894.

BASKETBALL ON TV THURSDAY NIGHTS

NBA pro games on 23 stations, mostly independents

Professional basketball is making a comeback on home television screens.

Twenty-three major television stations across the country are carrying National Basketball Association games on a live basis every Thursday night until the end of the season. This is in marked contrast to last season when stations in three NBA cities, Los Angeles, St. Louis and Cincinnati, occasionally carried a game. Network telecasts were carried during the 1961-62 season. Interest mounted again this season in Baltimore and Philadelphia which gained franchises in the NBA, and a network was formed to begin carrying games on a regular basis beginning Jan. 2.

Most of the stations are independents and occasionally they will omit a game from the schedule because of prior commitments. But WTTG (TV) Washington signed up for the games last week and NBA President J. Walter Kennedy said he believed the number of stations in the network will be increased "substantially," particularly for the playoffs which begin in mid-March.

Mr. Kennedy said no regional or national sponsorship has yet been obtained, but added that individual stations apparently have completely sold out the games to local sponsors.

While the possibility of a contract with one of the major networks for the remainder of this season is "remote," Mr. Kennedy held out hope for such an agreement for next season, although there have been "no negotiations as yet."

It's understood that stations carrying NBA basketball games in addition to WTTG, include, WOR-TV New York; KHJ-TV Los Angeles, WPIL-TV Philadelphia and KPLR-TV St. Louis.

Supreme Court hears Birmingham libel case

An echo of the bitter integration demonstrations of three years ago was heard in the U.S. Supreme Court last week in a case which has significance for TV and radio.

The court heard oral argument on an appeal by the New York Times against a $500,000 judgment for libel won by a Montgomery, Ala., city commissioner. The judgment in favor of City Commissioner L. B. Sullivan was upheld by Alabama courts, for criticisms of city officials in handling race demonstrations expressed in a paid advertisement run in the Times in 1960. Mr. Sullivan was in charge of police activities then. The advertisement had been paid for by a Committee to Defend Martin Luther King. Although it did not mention Mr. Sullivan by name, he sued on the ground that he was the target of the criticisms and that there were errors of fact in the advertisement.

Attorney Herbert Wechsler for the Times agreed that there were factual errors in the ad, but argued that Mr. Sullivan had no basis for claiming personal injury. He also claimed that the $500,000 award was excessive. Public officials cannot, he contended, sue for libel over statements about their official conduct.

M. Roland Nachman, attorney for Mr. Sullivan, argued that the statement critical of Montgomery police pointed directly to Mr. Sullivan. He disputed the argument that criticism of city officials is immune to libel laws under the First Amendment, made by Mr. Wechsler.

Also appealing are three Negro ministers whose names were listed in the advertisement as supporting the charges.

Both the Times and CBS have been sued by Birmingham officials, the former on a series of articles and the latter for the CBS Report "Who Speaks for Birmingham?"); Suits total $3 million against the Times, and $1.7 million against CBS.

Study shows moppets aided by TV programs

A study of children's TV viewing habits made in Chicago indicates that more than 50% of elementary school children are aided in their school work by television programming.

A survey of 200 such children by Dr. Paul Witt of Northwestern University singles out Discovery '63 (ABC-TV) as the "most helpful" program cited by children of elementary grades.

The report, originally printed in Elementary English, the publication of the National Council of Teachers of English, has been reprinted and distributed by the Television Information Office.

Among other data in the report is the finding that more than 50% of the children questioned read books associated with TV programs they watch.

In the entertainment program category children in grades four through six ranked the following ten shows as their favorites in 1963 in this order: Beverly Hillbillies (CBS), The Lucy Show (CBS), Dick Van Dyke Show (CBS), Combat (ABC), Family Classics

'Car 54' rolls down syndication highway

George A. Graham Jr., chairman of the boards of NBC Films Inc. and NBC International Inc. (1), talks over agreement for syndication by his firms of Car 54, Where Are You? series. Originally shown on NBC-TV, the 60 half-hour programs were produced by Eupolis Productions Inc. With Graham are Howard Epstein, president of Eupolis (c) and Morris Rittenberg, president of NBC Films. The comedy series has already been purchased by WABC-TV New York.
TV news chiefs to urge LBJ pool

When the TV network news chiefs visit the White House again this week, they are prepared to recommend coverage of President Johnson's news conferences on a pool basis, similar to the procedures that were in effect at President Kennedy's conferences. The only trouble is that President Johnson hasn't held that kind of a news conference; he's more inclined to call in White House reporters without advance notice.

Although President Johnson has said he would have televised news conferences from time to time, the proposals to be brought to Washington by the networks are expected to play a major part in deciding on the format.

The meeting this week (the date had not been set as of Jan. 9) will be the second that the President and news secretary Pierre Salinger will have had with network officials. The President had representatives of all three TV networks to lunch successively last month (Broadcasting, Dec. 23, 1963).

In addition to the televising of news conferences, a second Conversation with the President, where the President is interviewed by three newsmen from the networks, may also be discussed. President Kennedy held the first such Conversation in December 1962 and had planned a second.

Discussions in New York have been among these network executives:

ABC, James C. Haggerty, American Broadcasting-Paramount Theaters vice president; Elmer W. Lower, president, ABC News; Frank Marx, president, ABC Engineering.

CBS, Frank Stanton, president, Richard S. Salant, president, CBS News; Edward L. Saxe, vice president, operations, CBS Television Network.

ABC Radio gets rights for Liston-Clay fight

ABC Radio has gained the exclusive radio rights in the U. S. and Canada for the Sonny Liston-Cassius Clay heavyweight championship fight, Tuesday, Feb. 25 (10:05 p.m. to conclusion), the sixth consecutive heavyweight title bout ABC has carried.

Terms of the contract between ABC Radio and Intercontinental Promotions Inc., which is promoting the fight, were not announced. The network also said it has not tried to find sponsors for the event, but does not anticipate any difficulty as its previous broadcasts were practically sold out.

Howard Coswell, ABC Radio sports director, will provide the color commentary during the bout. A decision has not yet been made concerning who will describe the fight itself.

Networks giving library film of JFK coverage

The Library of Congress, seeking an audio-visual record of news coverage of the events surrounding the assassination of President Kennedy, will be given NBC's entire coverage—all 71 hours and 36 minutes of it.

ABC, CBS and Mutual are providing segments, too, but how much was unknown last week.

The networks said they would absorb all costs of preparing their contributions.

Primary debate = WDSU-AM-TV New Orleans last week originated a debate between two Louisiana gubernatorial candidates, John McKeithen and Dellesseps S. Morrison, which was fed to a state network of four other TV stations and seven radio outlets. The one-and-three-quarters hour program features questioning by a panel of newsmen and government experts. The two hopefuls in the Democratic primary, held Saturday (Jan. 11), were the last of the 10 candidates who were presented on WDSU-TV.

Houston branch = Branch offices for producing live, taped and film shows have been opened by G. Prentice Baker Productions, Conroe, Tex. The new facilities are at 6207 Sherwood, Houston.

Back at Sherwood Forest = Next entry for The NBC Children’s Theatre will be a new dramatic version of the story of Robin Hood, in color Saturday, Feb. 15 (noon-1 p.m.). It will replace in the time spot “Petye and the Pogo Stick,” which NBC-TV has in turn shifted to Sunday, April 12 (6-7 p.m.). For “Robin Hood,” executive producer is George A. Heinemann, producer-of Johnson’s activities during the past week.

Television Affiliates Corp. = Thirty-three television stations have renewed their membership in Television Affiliates Corp., Robert Welsberg, TAC vice president, announced last week. Sixty-five stations belong to TAC, which serves as a clearing-house for the distribution to members of documentary-public affairs shows and special news, weather and editorial programs produced by stations.

News specials on Cuba = NBC-TV has rescheduled two NBC White Paper programs dealing with Cuba. “Cuba: Bay of Pigs” will be telecast Feb. 4 (10-11 p.m. EST) instead of Jan. 26, and “Cuba: the Missile Crisis” will be presented Feb. 9 (10-11 p.m. EST) instead of Feb. 4 as originally scheduled.

The Xerox Corp., through Papert, Koenig, Lois, New York, has purchased sponsorship of “Cuba: the Mis-

Programs wanted = Alan Sands Productions, recorded radio program distributors, is in the process of expanding its catalogue. Individuals possessing completed series of one- and five-minute programs are asked to contact: Sands Productions, 565 Fifth Avenue, New York.

More ‘stars’ = An order from NBC-TV for another five half-hour specials raises to 31 the number of Hollywood and the Stars programs that Wolper Productions will produce for the network this season. Mel Stuart, who produced-directed The Making of a President, 1960, will produce and direct two of the five Hollywood programs, with Nicolas Noxon, Al Ramus and Irwin Rosten producing one apiece.

New TV talent = The pilot for New Faces, half-hour comedy-variety show which George Schlatter Productions is preparing for ABC-TV goes into production this week in New York, with Bobby Morse, star of the Broadway musical, “How To Succeed in Business Without Really Trying,” as host. Seg-

How Ben Casey got that way = A series of three half-hour programs covering medical doctors’ years in school, intern-

Newsfilm releases—the new image maker

A prediction that major companies in the future will make a more extensive use of the “newsfilm release” to get their names before the public was made last week by Benjamin Greenberg, president of Mercury Newsfilm Co.

Mr. Greenberg, whose firm has been producing such films for the past year, said the newsfilm release would generally take the form of press releases now in use for the print media. However, he added, that to be usable in regular television newscasts, nothing “blatantly commercial” is included in the film, and that news in the film must be timely and worthwhile.

Mr. Greenberg said that the typical television station today receives only about six newsfilm releases a week, compared to about 300 a week received by the average newspaper. He saw the judicious use of newsfilm releases as an excellent opportunity for advertisers to improve their public image by illustrating projects with which they are connected.

vivisection Society has protested to FCC Chairman E. William Henry and plans possible legal action. John Weigel, WCTU president, said he chose the bullfights because they are controversial. The station hopes to air a test pattern this week or next.

Noisy program = The sounds of nuclear reactors, atom smashers and other moddirector is Frank Pacelli and script is by Richard Kintner and Kay Rockefeller.

The First Lady = The nation’s first lady, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, granted her first extensive television interview since her husband assumed the Presidency when she appeared on NBC-

TV’s Sunday program yesterday. In addition to the interview, the program also showed films of some of Mrs. Johnson's activities during the past week.

Lloyd Bochner is headlined in the pilot, written by Harry Julian Fink, and will carry a leading role in the one-hour series. Richard Boone directed the two-part program in which he also played a minor role and Buck Houghton produced the show at MGM-TV for Goodson-Todman.

After 'Hercules' - Embassy Pictures Corp., which recently disclosed plans to enter the TV production field with a Hercules series for 1965-66 (AT DEADLINE, Jan. 6), reported last week that it is blueprinting two additional TV series. One will be based on Casanova, the legendary lover, and the other on D'Artagnan, one of the heroes of the drama, "The Three Musketeers," by Alexandre Dumas.

A NEW FAIRNESS CASE
This time it's funeral directors vs. Dr. Kildare

Does the FCC's fairness doctrine apply to dramatic programs?

The commission, which sidestepped this question last month in disposing of a complaint against a CBS-TV program (BROADCASTING, Jan. 6), is faced with it again, in a petition filed by the Los Angeles County Funeral Directors Association.

And this time the question has been posed in a manner that gives the commission less room to maneuver.

The association's complaint was against a Dr. Kildare episode on NBC-TV, "The Explorers," which aired on Oct. 31. The association said the program damaged its members' professional reputations, and it wants equal time on the network to present a "contrasting view.

The program dealt with the problems of a nurse who was high pressured by a moritician into spending more than she could afford on her husband's funeral.

The association said the program portrayed funeral directors as "ruthless, cunning, greedy, cut-throat, fraudulent, vulturous, deceitful, overbearing hucksters of grief."

Such a portrayal, the association added, is "false, slanderous, libelous and defamatory."

No Comment Yet - NBC officials are aware of the association's feelings about the program. But a network spokesman said there would be no comment on the complaint until company officials had an opportunity to study it.

Commission officials could not recall a previous instance in which a demand for equal time was made in connection with a dramatic program.

The question of whether the fairness doctrine applies to drama was previously raised in connection with a complaint about the CBS-TV program "Smash-up," which was an episode in the Armstrong Circle Theater series. The National Association of Claimants Counsel said the program, which dealt with fraudulent auto injury suits, prejudiced juries against claimants.

But that association didn't ask for equal time. It simply asked that the commission keep such programs off the air. It was CBS-TV, in commenting on the complaint, that raised the fairness doctrine issue, saying the doctrine does

A summit meeting of 'Big 3' of TV news

The mixed views among legal and broadcaster groups on the desirability of televising courtroom proceedings were reflected last week in the opinion of the individual TV networks' top news personalities.

Ron Cochran of ABC, Walter Cronkite of CBS and Chet Huntley of NBC appeared together as a panel to answer questions at an International Radio & Television Society meeting in New York.

Based on the possibility of TV gaining access to the Ruby trial in Texas, Mr. Huntley said flatly he favored courtroom telecasting and said it was technically feasible to use cameras in an unobtrusive manner.

Mr. Cochran said he was against telecasting courtroom proceedings because it would change the principals' attitudes and affect proceedings "no matter how unobtrusive."

Mr. Cronkite said TV must fight for the right for admittance though he cautioned that TV would run up against the legal interpretation that the defendant has the right to a public trial as distinguished from the public's "right" to be present at a courtroom proceeding.

Among other subjects covered by the panel:

not apply to dramatic programs.

A majority of the commissioners would not accept that argument. They feel that drama could be—and has been—used as a vehicle for propaganda.

There was also the feeling that the doctrine should be applied only in extreme cases.

Some Opposed = Other commissioners, however, said the doctrine should never be applied to dramatic shows. And all said they loathe to issue a statement that might have the effect of inhibiting producers from dealing in controversy.

As a result of these conflicting views—and since the claimant attorneys themselves never raised the issue—the commission abandoned its effort to draft a policy statement. It rejected the attorneys' complaint, saying there was no evidence insurance companies had instigated the program and declaring that the commission has no authority to censor shows. And, in a letter to CBS-TV, the commission said merely that its decision doesn’t imply acceptance of the network's position.

However, some commission officials expressed the view that it wouldn't be as easy to avoid discussing the issue in disposing of the funeral directors' complaint.

Their petition said NBC and its Los Angeles outlet, KNBC-TV, rejected two requests by the association for time to respond to "The Exploiters."

Therefore, it added, the commission should "order" the network and its affiliates to make time available.

The petition also asked that a hearing on the complaint be held in Los Angeles and that NBC be ordered to make a transcript and film of "The Exploiters" available to the association.

The petition noted that the ethical standards of funeral directors and the costs of funerals have developed into an issue of national interest. It cited numerous books, magazine articles, newspaper stories and radio and television programs that have been devoted to these subjects during the past few years.

PEPPER STUDIOS ACQUIRES MARS

Transaction adds third force to production company

In a purchase exceeding $500,000, Pepper Sound Studios, Memphis, has acquired Mars Broadcasting Co., from the Winston-Salem Broadcasting Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

Mars, a radio program and feature producer, will maintain its production facilities in Stamford, Conn., but the sales and administrative units will be centered in Memphis.

Bob Whitney, executive producer and programming consultant for Mars will continue in charge of the firm as executive vice president.

William B. Tanner, president of Pepper, also becomes president of Mars. Wilson Northcross, vice president for sales development of the firms, will be primarily concerned with Mars's "Demand Radio," a customized program service.

The Mars acquisition brings a third sales group to Pepper—one force will continue to work directly with radio stations in attracting new advertisers on long-term contracts; a second will service library and station identification material, and the third will represent Mars.

Mars has produced and syndicated the Dick Clark Show, Fun Test, Star Test and Promotion of the Month in the U. S., Canada and Australia.

Pepper produces library services, station identification series and commercials.

As part of the agreement, Winston-Salem, which owns WTOK Winston-Salem; WSN Birmingham, Ala.; KTHT Houston and 55% of WQHP-TV High Point, N. C., signed to continue to use the services of both Mars and Pepper. The stations had purchased program features from Mars and jingles from Pepper.

Washington news bureau opened by WGN Inc.

Another major station interest, WGN Inc., will open a Washington news bureau this week (CLOSED CIRCUIT, Sept. 23, 1963). WGN Inc. is licensee of WGN-AM-TV Chicago and parent firm of KDAL-AM-TV Duluth-Superior, Minn. The bureau will serve both outlets.

Ward L. Quail, executive vice president and general manager of WGN Inc., said the news bureau will open Wednesday (Jan. 15) and will have a staff of four to cover Capitol Hill and general Washington news. Bureau chief will be Robert Foster, who has directed WGN's bureau in the Illinois capital at Springfield. He will be assisted by Bert R. Martin, WGN-TV newscast cameraman.

Among other station groups, besides networks, which maintain their own news bureaus in Washington are Westinghouse, Time-Life, Metropolitan, Storer and Triangle Stations. The WGN Inc. bureau will be located at 1737 DeSales Street, N.W.

General Electric's PE-24-A has already been ordered by 13 television stations across the country. What sold them? The fourth vidicon. A monochrome signal that gives the picture detail and luminance while the other three "paint in" the colors. Registration problem is eliminated. Result: you get a sharp, detailed picture for both color and monochrome reception. Program after program.

And you get it more economically. Because the G.E 4-V camera is transistorized, it operates cooler and has increased component life and reliability.

Programing is next for Williamsport CATV
NATIONAL GENERAL SYSTEM WILL USE EXTRA CHANNELS

Subscribers to the community TV antenna service in Williamsport, Pa., will soon be receiving locally originated programs in addition to those picked up from outside sources, as part of an extensive experiment being undertaken by National General Corp., owner of the CATV system.

"It's really very simple," Frank Jones, assistant to the NGC president, told Broadcasting. "We were installing new equipment at Williamsport to improve service and found that we could put in an all-channel system at no additional expense. This gives us 12 channels, more than are needed for the program pick-ups from out-of-town TV stations, so we decided to experiment with local programming, to be supplied to subscribers without charge as an extra service."

The nature of this local programing is extremely tentative at the moment, Mr. Jones said, but the plan provides for programs of civic interest, with the mayor, the chiefs of the police and fire departments and other city officials as speakers. Lycoming College, located at Williamsport, might provide educational programs and there are educational and industrial films of general interest which might be used. "Obviously, we can't spend a lot of money for programing we're giving away," he commented, "but we do want to experiment and find out whether there is any local interest in this kind of public service programing." Arrangements are now in progress toward acquisition of a small studio equipped for local live programing.

The availability of appropriate local programing in Williamsport is now being explored by the new manager of the Williamsport Cable Co., Warren Maus, who has both broadcasting and theater experience. Williamsport is a good site for the experiments with local programming for a CATV system, Mr. Jones said, as it has no local TV station and therefore will be able to conduct its tests without encountering any locally competitive situations. If the experiments in Williamsport prove successful, local programs may also be introduced into the NGC CATV operation in Biloxi, Miss., he said.

The Williamsport CATV system serves 14,000 subscribers with programs from WFGG-TV Altoona, WQAL-TV Lancaster, WDAU-TV and WNEP-TV Scranton and WBRE-TV Wilkes-Barre, all Pennsylvania.

MARK CENTURY'S FIRST
Herson notes progress
radio production firm
Mark Century Inc., New York, which specializes in radio programing services, last week marked its first year in business with more than 125 station clients, a new package offered to stations and other new program ideas ready to be launched.
In an interview, Milton Herson,
Mark Century's president commented on the sales buildup of the company that signs two-year servicing contracts for "Radio a la Carte" providing exclusivity for the station in its market.
Mr. Herson noted that on Jan. 7,
1963, the company "started on the road with one salesman" and by Jan. 30, 1963, had a total of eight stations. As of last week, Mark Century's list was 126 stations in 65 of the top 100 markets in the country, a total sales force of seven people and two agency companies—Mark Ten in Canada and Distributors in Australia.
Mr. Herson said the highpoint of the service has come with reports from the majority of subscribers that they've sold enough time to advertisers in the first three to six months on the basis of the features to pay for the cost to the station of the two-year package.
Mark Century each month provides production and commercial music in lengths of 20, 30 and 60 seconds; a different comedy series; fully-produced contests; sound effects; public service
material; materials for commercials (musical ingredients and a commercial copy service); air checks on station subscribers in other markets to sample sounds and programing methods; intros especially tailored for the station to use in weather, news and special broadcasts and seasonal promotions for sale to local advertisers.
A new jingle package introduced last fall and already sold to 20 stations is called "Fabulous Las Vegas Sounds." Still other ideas which Mark Century is preparing for 1964 are a series of original dramatic programs of 15-minute length, and programing episodes that'll capture the sounds and music of foreign lands.
Since its inception, Mark Century has attempted to integrate itself within the industry in a way that it hopes will help radio programing and sell more of its product. At the National Association of Broadcasters convention last spring and in October, the company held program seminars (BROADCASTING, Oct. 28, 1963). Also in October the company began distributing a 14-page newsletter to clients exchanging information on successful radio programing and programing ideas. A newsletter is being mailed about every two months.

What compact can do everything a console recorder can?

The Ampex PR-10 gives you all the features, all the performance of a console recorder. Even remote control. And it's all wrapped up in a suitcase-sized package. That means you can take a complete recording studio out into the field, into the school, the church, industry—anywhere you need it. The PR-10 features positive push-button controls; record-safe switch; and separate erase, record and playback heads. And there's room for an optional 4-track stereo or additional playback head. There's also a new electro-dynamic clutch system to give you fast, gentle starts and lower braking tension. of the American delegation, Joseph H. McConnell, was superb, Mr. Harris said.

$25,000 Limit * Earlier in the week, the FCC unanimously adopted procurement rules for the satellite corporation which would apply only to purchases of $25,000 or more. In a proposal several months ago, the commission had suggested an exemption from its regulations for purchases of $2,500 or less. This brought a storm of objections, from Comsat as well as from communications carriers and electronic manufacturers.

The FCC rules require Comsat and major contractors to file with the commission on a notification statement prior to the award of a contract involving more than $25,000. Unless the FCC acts within 10 days, the contract may be awarded.

The commission urged that wherever possible contracts be broken down into small lots so small business firms may bid on them.

The rules become effective Feb. 24.

Short renewable recommend for engineering violation

An initial decision by FCC Hearing Examiner Chester F. Naumowicz, Jr., last week recommended that license renewals for KCHY Cheyenne, Wyo., and KDAC Fort Bragg, Calif., be granted for a one-year period.

The examiner found that the owner of the two stations, Charles W. Stone, failed to maintain a first-class engineer at KCHY and attempted to obscure this from the commission. But, the examiner said, circumstances were such that nonrenewal would be too harsh a penalty.

Also involved in the proceeding is an application to change the facilities of KCHY from 1590 kc, 1 kw daytime to 1530 kc, 10 kw daytime and 1 kw nighttime. Examiner Naumowicz would grant this application in the face of the one-year renewals for Mr. Stone’s stations.

Soon after Mr. Stone acquired KDAC in 1960 the chief engineer then employed at the station was discharged and after failing to find another Mr. Stone sent his engineer at KCHY to KDAC. Mr. Stone then made a verbal contract with a first-class engineer in Cheyenne to watch the technical operation of KCHY until a regular engineer could be hired. The examiner found that Mr. Stone attempted to convince the commission that he had an engineer on duty when in fact that engineer was not aware that he was to check the operation on such a basis.

Mr. Naumowicz found that Mr. Stone did mislead the commission but that “His misrepresentations were the product of bad judgment inspired by fear rather than a willful attempt calculated from its origin to deceive the commission.” The examiner predicted that the commission may rely on Mr. Stone in the future, but the short-term renewal would not release the licensee without some penalty.

Request denied for night increase for class IV’s

The request by class IV AM stations for an increase of nighttime power to 1 kw from 250 w was denied last week by the FCC. The petition for such a rulemaking, made by the Community Broadcasters Association, also would have provided for local channel stations using 500 w or 1 kw daytime to continue on that power at nighttime.

In refusing to propose such a rulemaking the commission said that the possibility of raising the night power of local channel stations can best be considered after future renegotiations of the North American Regional Broadcasting Agreement and the U. S.-Mexican Agreement. The commission said that the renegotiations will study how far it would be possible to ease the restrictions on domestic use of nighttime powers greater than 250 w.

CBA filed the request for a rulemaking in July 1962. The association at that time said that 708 stations had responded to its proposal with 670 approving the 1 kw power. Only 35 stations did not approve (BROADCASTING, July 9, 1962). CBA said 268 failed to respond. The association said that with the increased power nighttime service would improve because interference from other means could be overcome and the economic position of local stations would be improved.

Temporary standards extension sought

TV manufacturers have asked the FCC to extend for another year the temporary standards on radiation from UHF television sets under which they’re operating now.

At the present time, UHF receivers may radiate no more than 1,000 microvolts per meter at 1,000 feet, but this is due to be tightened to the VHF standard of 500 mv/m by April 30.

The Consumer Products Division of the Electronic Industries Association last week asked the FCC to extend the temporary 1,000 mv/m standard for another year because there is not sufficient information now on whether UHF tuners using solid state devices can meet the 500 mv/m requirement. EIA submitted measurements made by 10 companies on UHF tuners and receivers which show “improvement in the ratio of UHF sets with radiation of less than
Only a tiny piece of paper--but it's worth $1,000,000,000!

This, of course, is a trading stamp—well-known to shoppers for the little “extras” of good living it makes possible.

But it’s much more than this from an economic point of view.

Today the trading stamp industry is a dynamic economic force that helps make America a prosperous nation.

This year alone, the industry will buy an estimated $500,000,000 worth of products (at cost or wholesale prices) from more than 600 U.S. manufacturers of consumer goods in 75 different industries.

In addition, the stamp industry is expected to generate another $500,000,000, ranging from over $120 million for transportation, warehousing, and redemption store operation, to more than $90 million in farm purchases of cotton, wool and other primary materials used in the production of merchandise for stamp redemption.

The full-time employment of more than 125,000 workers will be required at one stage or another of production or distribution to operate stamp companies and to supply merchandise for stamp redemptions.

So the tiny piece of paper shown above represents an industry that contributes one billion dollars to our economy every year.

Actually, the total retail value of merchandise received by consumers redeeming stamps in a state usually comes to more than 100 per cent of the money paid by the merchants who purchase stamp services. In all cases, the total value going back into the state when the payrolls, rents, taxes and other expenditures of stamp companies are taken into account is substantially more than the money paid for the stamp service.

All told, the trading stamp industry not only brings extra value to consumers, and a powerful promotional device to merchants, but contributes importantly to a stronger economy—both on the national level and in every state and community in which it does business.
500 mv/m since 1960," but noted there's insufficient data on tuners using transistors and "a number of industry members who have had experience with semiconductor devices in current tuner designs are concerned with their inability to make production models radiating as little as 500 mv/m."

EIA pointed out that both vacuum tube and semiconductor tuners will be required to implement the all-channel set requirement which goes into effect April 30.

Magnavox '64 outlook

The Magnavox Co., New York, last week predicted a 50% sales increase in 1964, a forecast which would place the company's volume for the year over $260 million.

Magnavox President Frank Freimann also commented on color TV set production capabilities of the company, noting he expects "an adequate number of color tubes this year will enable Magnavox to produce its full line of models." Color set sales, he said, are expected to make a sizable contribution to volume and profits this year.

Mr. Freimann confirmed that Magnavox has entered an agreement with Montgomery Ward to produce private label television and stereo hi-fi sets for the department store chain.

ITA RENEWS PROGRAMERS' LICENSES

"Closer and earlier supervision"

The programers' licenses for Britain's 14 commercial television stations were renewed by the Independent Television Authority last week, but ITA dropped a few weeds among the roses, promising "closer and earlier supervision" of the commercial stations in the future.

ITA also said it would exercise greater control over advertising and, additionally, warned that it would scrutinize the rates charged in the sale of programs. Smaller companies have claimed of stations promised that the larger firms have overcharged them for programs, ITA noted, and an investigation will be held with a view toward reducing "the financial burden on the smaller companies. . . ."

The licenses had a Nov. 18 closing date for renewal applications (Broadcasting, Dec. 16, 1963). In giving the 14 commercial firms the affirmative nod, ITA rejected three applications from new groups which wanted to take over licenses: Beaverbrook Newspapers, Edward Martell's Freedom Group, and an association consisting of 126 writers, producers and artists. The three challengers failed, ITA said, to establish their superiority over the present licensees. The contracts renewed last week will run to 1967.

Canada plans to regulate community antenna TV

Canada will regulate community antenna television systems in the same way as television stations, especially as regards Canadian program content, State Secretary J. W. Pickersgill and Transport Minister George Mcllrath announced at Ottawa on Dec. 31, 1963. The Board of Broadcast Governors has been asked to study any legislative action necessary, and the Department of Transport will not issue new licenses for the time being for community antenna systems intending to relay programs from the United States. The projected study is understood not to include closed-circuit pay-tv systems.

Last June the BBG held a public hearing on cable systems and made a report to the government, but did not recommend any action. Both independent TV broadcasters and the government's Canadian Broadcasting Corp. want to see the cable systems regulated as to Canadian content, since most cable systems now import U. S. programs. U. S. ownership of cable systems is also increasing.

Grey Advertising acquires interest in Europe agency

Grey Advertising, New York, is taking a new expansion step—an acquisition move that will put the agency's name in Europe. Grey is purchasing a substantial minority interest in Dorland S.A., Paris, and Dorland, Brussels. The European firms will become Dorland & Grey S.A. with offices in Paris and Brussels.

Grey said the expansion will allow it to provide "more extensive service to those clients who either have or plan operations in the increasingly important European Common Market." The agency, which opened a Canadian office in Montreal in 1958, expanded its interests overseas in 1962 with purchase of an interest in a London firm, now Charles Hobson & Grey Ltd. Last October, it set up an office in Tokyo in a joint venture with Daiko Advertising.

Powers, Shrader move to Grant's Kenya office

Grant Advertising, Chicago, has established a new foreign office in Nairobi, Kenya, which will handle broadcast advertising along with other media, it was announced last week by board chairman Will C. Grant. There are 40 Grant offices, with 32 outside the U. S.

J. Murray Powers, formerly regional manager for Grant offices in India, Pakistan and Ceylon, will head the Kenya office with Morgan Shrader, formerly with Grant in Chicago, serving as radio-TV director there.

Corinthian, IRS briefs filed with tax court

The final paper round in Corinthian Broadcasting Corp.'s battle against the International Revenue Service—involving the legitimacy of depreciating $4,650,000 allocation to network affiliation—took place last week when both parties filed reply briefs with U. S. Tax Court Judge Howard O. Dawson Jr. Judge Dawson is expected to rule in 60-90 days.

Corinthian, which has $2 million in taxes at stake, is attacking an IRS ruling disallowing amortization of the $4.65 million allocated to the CBS affiliation for WISH-TV Indianapolis and WANE-TV Fort Wayne, both Indiana, when those two TV stations, and their AM adjuncts, were bought by Corinthian in 1956. IRS claims network affiliations have no determinable life. Corinthian paid $10 million for the four properties. The case was argued before Judge Dawson last June (BROADCASTING, June 24, 1963). Briefs were filed last October (BROADCASTING, Oct. 28, 1963).

In the documents filed last week, Corinthian emphasized that IRS regulations permit taxpayers who do not have a history for amortization to use industry practices. This is what Corinthian has done, it noted, coming up with a 14-year life expectancy for network affiliations in TV. The IRS has not refuted this, it claimed, and has not advanced an alternative method.

IRS reiterated its contention that network affiliation contracts do not have a specific life. It also challenged a goodwill figure of $1,450,850 used by Corinthian for 1957, 1958 and 1959—the tax returns at issue.

130 STATIONS TAKING PART IN SCREEN GEMS PROMOTION

Screen Gems Inc. reported last week that 130 of 150 TV stations carrying the Yogi Bear cartoon series have agreed to participate in “Yogi Bear's Jellybean Sweepstakes,” in which 10 youngsters under 12 and their parents will win an all-expenses paid trip abroad next summer.

The contest opened officially last Saturday (Jan. 11) and will continue through March 7. Stations have been supplied with jars and jellybeans. Each station puts a certain number of jellybeans in the jars and the children are asked to send in postcards guessing the number. The first postcard with the winning number in each city will be eligible for the grand contest. In turn, names of the winners will be eligible for a second drawing, at which time 10 names will be selected for the overseas trip.

The grand prize winners and their parents will be flown to Tokyo, Rome, London, Moscow, Sydney, Singapore and other cities to be chosen. Each child also will be given a live bear cub to be presented to a zoo in the city he visits on behalf of the children of America. Consolation prizes of Yogi Bear games, toys, books and records and dolls will be awarded to local winners. Screen Gems has supplied stations with an extensive array of promotional and merchandising materials.

Tennessee broadcasters to promote good health

The Tennessee Association of Broadcasters has joined with four other Tennessee groups for a one-year campaign to promote "good health for Tennessees." The project will run throughout 1964 and Tennessee radio and TV stations will donate time and production services for thousands of public-service announcements and programs.

The good health campaign is designed to give the people of Tennessee facts and suggestions for improving their health and to make them aware of available facilities. The project will be headed by Dr. Kenneth Wright, director of broadcasting services for the University of Tennessee. The university will produce the announcements and programs for airing by the 99 TAB member stations. Participating with TAB are the L. G. Noel Memorial Foundation, Tennessee Heart Association, Tennessee Public Health Association and the Tennessee State Dental Association.

NAB plans Radio Month

"Radio, your constant companion" will be the theme of Radio Month (May) this year, sponsored annually by the National Association of Broadcasters, according to John M. Couric, NAB director of public relations.

This year's theme, he said, was adopted because of "radio's unique ability to serve a mass audience on an individual basis throughout the day, regardless of the listener's location, occupation or activity." Individual station kits for promotion of radio month will be mailed to NAB members early in March, Mr. Couric said.

Pioneers and mayors sponsor radio-TV award

Members of a seven-judge panel were named last week to select winners of a community service award for radio and television stations to be sponsored by the Broadcast Pioneers and the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

The award is intended to honor "the radio and the television station making the greatest over-all contribution to the good of the local community."

The selection committee will base its decision on station operation during the 1963 calendar year. All entries are to be submitted to mayors of respective communities before Feb. 1.

Named to the judging panel were Neil S. Blaisdell, mayor of Honolulu; T. A. M. Craven, consultant to the FCC and former commissioner; William S. Hedges, former vice president of both NBC and the National Association of Broadcasters; Sigurd S. Larson, former president of Young & Rubicam, New York; David Lawrence, special assistant to President Lyndon Johnson and former governor of Pennsylvania; Professor Leo Martin, chairman of communications arts, Michigan State University, and Neville Miller of Miller & Schroeder, Washington law firm, and former president of the NAB.

Now... the new EASTMAN Sound Recording Tape

Mark well the coding shown here. You'll find it on the back of all EASTMAN Sound Recording Tapes.

Look! “Lifetime Coded” for Positive Identification!

“Lifetime Coding”—your assurance of highest quality! A permanent legend continuously repeated on the back of EASTMAN Sound Recording Tapes (1) identifies Eastman Kodak Company as the manufacturer; (2) provides positive batch-coating identification, thus assures the most closely matched sound characteristics, tape after tape, in the industry. The coding also provides a convenient means of cataloging tapes.

No stretch—thanks to the new DUROL Base! A specially prepared form of cellulose triacetate, this support material is distinguished for its high strength, low elongation. When equipment accidents happen, the new Eastman tapes break clean with practically no stretch. As a result, splices are made quickly, easily, with minimum program loss.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY
Rochester, N.Y. 14650

New “R-type” binder provides a smoother, tougher surface to suppress tape noise and distortion. In addition, it is extremely abrasion-resistant, thus reducing oxide build-up. Even more important are the superb magnetic characteristics of “R-type” binder dispersions which make possible two great recording tapes—both available now...

At leading electronic supply houses: Type A303, a vastly superior low-print tape with output comparable to a fine general-purpose tape... also Type A304, a high-output tape with remarkably low print-through.

All business is good until you know something about it—like meeting the payroll.

Which is exactly why our congressmen and other elected officials must be more thoroughly apprised of the practical day-by-day problems of the broadcaster. They need to be brought much closer so that can see the grass root viewpoint.

So reasons E. L. (Red) Byrd, vice president and general manager of WLS Lansing, Mich., who always seems to go out of his way to try to whip a new challenge.

Elected president of the Michigan Association of Broadcasters last fall, Mr. Byrd feels that one of his primary goals is to help awaken broadcasters everywhere to the need for closer liaison with their government representatives at the local, state and national levels.

This was the reason Mr. Byrd went before the House Communications Subcommittee in early November in behalf of the state association to oppose the FCC proposal to set standards for the length and frequency of radio-TV commercials. It was the same reason Mr. Byrd has gone before committees of the state legislature and worked with state officials.

"State association work is a bigger job than most broadcasters realize," Mr. Byrd says, but he feels it is an honor to be chosen by business associates and to know one has their confidence. Mr. Byrd believes that for a state group to be effective each station member has to become well known to his elected representatives and communicate his views on issues affecting radio-TV.

Losers Not Wanted * The fact that broadcasters did stand up to be counted on the commercial limitation issue carried considerable weight with the congressmen, Mr. Byrd says. "They don't like to back a loser," he notes.

Broadcasters now should rally behind the industry on other major issues too, he feels, such as the licensee fee and fairness doctrine proposals. Mr. Byrd indicates that when it seems futile to get appropriate action from the FCC it is up to the broadcasters to take their case to congress which established the commission in the first place and lays down the ground rules.

Active in his state association's work for several years now, Mr. Byrd is the third member of the WLS executive family to hold office in the MAB. Earlier John C. Pomeroy served on the MAB board and Bill Pomeroy was president. The Pomeroy's were co-founders of WLS in 1947.

The MAB's Feb. 5-6 meeting at the Jack Tar hotel in Lansing includes an annual legislative dinner session. Mr. Byrd also is planning a dinner meeting with the Michigan delegation in Washington in early May, a repeat of a successful similar event last year.

The Grass Roots * Getting down to the grass root viewpoint, Mr. Byrd cites the station's role within the community itself. It's a role that includes being a good corporate citizen and business success as well as offering an opportunity for its employees to keep in touch with the station staff.

One can't succeed without the others, he indicates, and all of the parts are necessary to fulfill the total job of public service. WLS always has given of its money, time and services to worthy local causes, he recalls, and the people of the community freely come to the station for assistance in their projects. WLS also has editorialized for four years.

An independent outlet featuring bright music and news, WLS has a staff of 32. Of these six are in news and a dozen in programming. Mr. Byrd feels selection of music is an especially exciting job, requiring careful weighing of the desires of the available audience at a particular time and the matching of the right mix of golden records, ballads and pop tunes.

"Radio is far more important than a medium to entertain the kids," he feels, explaining that just because a record is on some "top" list doesn't mean it will be used on WLS.

Goose Necks And Bouts * Music sparked Mr. Byrd's interest in the radio field. He recalls in his early childhood listening for the first time to a crystal set and hearing the tune "Over the Waves." Then came the gooseneck speaker set on the family porch and folks gathering from blocks around to sit in the yard and listen to a championship fight.

But the interest was to remain somewhat passive for many more years while Mr. Byrd pursued various other fields that attracted his attention. Before World War II he delved into electrical engineering and architecture. During the war he was a naval aviator flying a PBY-5 seaplane on various missions, including make-shift bombing runs on Japanese shipping in the Pacific.

Before leaving the service in 1946 he had met and married Miriam Jane Pomeroy and with their savings they joined with her brothers in the founding of WLS, an investment that often had to be "sweetened" with new money during the lean early years. Although not directly active at first, Mr. Byrd kept in close contact with the WLS operation and recalls he became an avid student of the business through his weekly copy of Broadcasting.

"Glorious" Defeat * In 1950 he bought a dairy farm near Lansing and his involvement with WLS subsequently decreased. He learned grass root politics as school board member for the one-room school near his farm and went down in "glorious" defeat for township road commissioner ("I lead the ticket but lost").

The pitfalls of business are equally perilous, he knows, remembering long and expensive efforts to keep UHF channel 54 (WLS-TV Lansing) afloat around 1953-54. Eventually the WLS group obtained a 40% interest in WILX-TV there which became possible through the channel 10 drop-in at Onodaga.

But it always will be the dairy farm which really sharpened Mr. Byrd's respect for the other fellow's viewpoint. A city boy who learned farming the hard way, Mr. Byrd discovered something even the FCC doesn't know yet: "Cows are people too."

The mess in mutuals

THE FCC must act without delay to fulfill its promise of a re-examination of its criteria for fixing limits on the number of radio and television stations a licensee may own. A prolonged delay could cause unwarranted financial setbacks to station owners whose stocks are traded publicly.

The need for a revision in the FCC multiple ownership rules became evident when the agency discovered that a number of mutual investment funds held blocks of stock in several broadcasting companies. Under its present rules, the FCC considers that a common ownership of 1% or more in multiple station properties is enough to count all the stations against the maximum portfolio of seven AM's, seven FM's and seven TV's (of which no more than five can be VHF) that any single licensee may own.

The subject came up a couple of months ago when the FCC approved Metromedia's purchase of WCBM-AM-FM Baltimore on the condition that certain mutual funds holding more than 1% of stock in Metromedia and in other broadcast license-holding companies reduce their Metromedia holdings below 1%. Three weeks ago the FCC rejected a Metromedia request for a waiver of the multiple ownership rules but applied a new condition: that the mutual funds refrain from voting their Metromedia stock until the FCC comes to a final decision on the whole question of multiple ownership.

The question has its complications. As Metromedia told the commission, in asking for a waiver of its rules, cross-ownerships among investment funds are common. Metromedia cited several examples of super-multiple ownership that could be construed from literal interpretations of the rules. One mutual fund holds small minorities of stock in seven different station groups that together hold 91 licenses. Another has interests in groups holding 51 licenses. We have no doubt that further research would turn up many other situations of that kind.

It is the argument of Metromedia, and of other publicly owned broadcasting companies, that the mutual funds exercise no control over any of the broadcast operations in which they have invested and that there is therefore no reason for FCC concern. To this we agree.

As a detailed report in this publication last week pointed out, the investment community is developing considerable respect for broadcast stocks that are publicly offered. That respect could be diminished if the FCC were to be rigid in its adherence to its present rules or to procrastinate in its revision of them.

Why?

THE Olympic games are presumed to be the quintessence of amateur sportsmanship.

In recent years, particularly since the advent of television, these quadrennial games have taken on a commercial aspect. This probably would have been shocking to the ancient Greeks, but it doesn't seem to disturb today's entrepreneurs who pay millions for the rights to broadcast "amateur" college football games and other sports events.

What must be shocking to every broadcaster, however, is the affrontery of the U. S. Olympic Committee in disqualifying broadcasting as a news medium. An announcement by the U. S. Olympic Committee setting forth regulations governing "press" credentials for coverage of the Japanese Olympic games does not include radio or television among the "qualifying groups." The qualifying groups are listed as representatives of newspapers with net circulation of 100,000 up, and the news magazines.

"Radio, television, motion picture and still photography representatives are not included in the U. S. quotas," the U. S. Committee said. Representatives of those media, it added, must apply directly to the Japanese organizing committee in Tokyo "in order to be considered for credentials."

The U. S. committee based its action on the quota of 50 accreditations to which it said it was limited by the Japanese committee. Doesn't the U. S. committee know that radio and television are fully accredited news media in the United States, with White House, congressional, state house, court, county, city and township recognition?

The Olympic group may have made its exclusive deals for "play-by-play" full coverage of the events by networks and for exclusive newsmagazine picture and by-lined coverage. But these cannot preclude coverage of public events by all legitimate news media.

An experienced news director of an important station puts this question: "If the U. S. Olympic Committee doesn't even recognize broadcasting as a news medium, why the hell should we be helping them raise money?"

Why?

The image overseas

WHEN television critics run out of things to be alarmed about on the domestic TV system, they turn to worrying about the image of America that American television films project when exported overseas.

Now a survey by the United States Information Agency has disclosed that fears about foreign reaction to American TV shows have been exaggerated. As reported in Broadcasting, Dec. 2, 1963, and in other publications more recently, the USIA has discovered that the more American television is seen in foreign lands, the more favorable is the impression it makes.

In England, for example, where 67% of television viewers had seen at least some American programs, 70% of those who had seen American programs found them enjoyable and 60% thought they conveyed a favorable impression of American life.

In France, only 20% of television viewers had seen American shows. Of those, 48% found U. S. programs enjoyable and 45% thought they conveyed a favorable impression of American life.

On the strength of the USIA survey, it may be suggested that as the volume of American exports increases, the image of America will be improved. At the very worst, the survey indicates that no harm is being done by the foreign distribution of our programs.
When very important people appear on television, you're most apt to see this famous camera. It reflects a preference for the best. With its 4½-inch image orthicon picture tube and built-in aids to production, the TK-60 produces pictures of peak quality. Where striking reproduction can mean higher sales for a product or service, this is the camera that does it best.
