America's Little House

THEY planned it for years—and were called dreamers. They held to a vision, this group of thoughtful women, and were called visionaries—while their numbers and their vision grew.

Snuggle a little white house against the base of New York's giant skyscrapers? A bit fantastic. Build a little white house with a rolling green lawn and a white picket fence in the thundering heart of Manhattan? It would take a forty-story building just to meet the taxes on the ground! Set a little white chick of a home in the very shadow of the Chanin tower—almost at the door of the Grand Central Terminal—just to let the public come and look? Dear ladies!

"The house that couldn't be built" now stands completed at 39th Street and Park Avenue. The dream that couldn't come true—a modern model house for all America—dedicated by Mrs. Roosevelt, wife of the President of the United States, as its hearthstone was laid and millions of women listened to a nationwide broadcast of the ceremony.

The group of valiant and unselfish women who lead the New York Committee of the Better Homes in America movement have quietly imposed a gentle will, a personal ideal, upon the impersonal pageant of the largest city in the world.

In America's Little House, women from every corner of America see reflected their own homes . . . present and future . . . in the whole or in part . . . with improvements they will want . . . with equipment they will buy . . . with economy they will duplicate in their own cities and towns from coast to coast.

A special studio has been built into America's Little House and through the facilities of the Columbia Broadcasting Co., all of us are privileged to see, to learn and to profit. Daily, over the air, come the details of the further efforts of the United States Government to back up the home owners to the tune of $1,500,000,000 for repairs and the possible launching of a $15,000,000,000 ten-year home building program.

America's Little House is the setting for the stage of an intensive, human, industrial drama which will be enacted over the air throughout the winter and into the spring of next year. It symbolizes a potential, powerful force for the alleviation of unemployment and industrial stagnation. Its effect should be far-reaching—touching every strata of society and should find its way into every city, town and village of America.

We suggest that home owners and prospective home owners tune in on these broadcasts from America's Little House so they may keep informed what private enterprise and the Government has to offer them. It will be well worth the turn of the dial.

MICROPHONE GOSSIP

• • • The Al Pearce Gang has its idiosyncrasies. Al himself likes to accompany his perusal of a script by biting off the corners of the sheets. This is very amusing until he does it to a beautifully typed letter he is checking. Then it becomes a tragedy for his secretary, who must retype it. Morey Amsterdam keeps adjusting the fit of his coat at the neck while addressing the mike. Mable Todd, during her comedy routines with Al, stomps around like a skittish horse at the barrier. Hazel Warner leans over toward the mike in a quarter-moon arc, like a person trying to unlock the front door late at night. Yogi Yorgesson, if his yogisms fail to get a laugh, looks out appealingly at his visible audience, and this often causes a laugh on the rebound. Ralph Richards chews gum. Tony Romano walks into a room and sets his guitar case down right smack dab in the center of the floor.

• • • The complexities of social welfare have become a trifle bewildering to Hal G. Nichols, president and manager of KFOX. Recently he was accosted on the street by a lanky panhandler, who solicited the popular radio man the price of a meal.

The man looked hungry enough, and Hal promptly handed out a quarter. But the transaction, it developed, was not yet complete.

"How about slippin' a guy an extra cent?" the mendicant inquired, grinning ingratiatingly. "I hate to chisel on ya, brother, but ya can't eat these days without gittin' stuck fer the sales tax, ya know."

And by the time Hal had recovered from his daze the lanky one was hot-footing it across the street to the nearest lunchroom, with the quarter rubbing against the extra penny in his grimy palm.

• • • KGGC's program lineup sounds like a network schedule. Boasting live talent in the way of Arnet Amos, Jeanne Carole, Tropical Tramps, Yar Gypsies and special recorded recreations of Guy Lombardo, Jan Garber and Ted Fio-Rito. Another recreation with a tremendous following is Ray Lewis play-by-play description of the local Prep. football game.

• • • The charming person who answers the telephone in James Melton's New York apartment, makes appointments for the singing star of Town Hall Tonight, and identifies herself as the tenor's "secretary." is Mrs. Melton, if you please. She's a beautiful, blonde lady and she really does her husband's secretarial work, answering fan letters, among other things. Mrs. Melton thinks it keeps everything on a more impersonal and business-like plan if she calls herself a secretary.

• • • James Petersen, KVI's newest announcer, whose vocal expression is not limited to speaking, was recently accepted for membership into the Orpheus Club, Tacoma's very exclusive male chorus. And then, only two weeks after his entry, he was chosen as one of four to try out for the only solo part in any of the selections to be included in the club's concert this year. As a sideline, Jim plays several comedy characters on KVI's "Wednesday Nite Mixer."

• • • Irvin S. Cobb, who is frequently heard on the radio, is the first living author to have 500,000 copies of a book ordered before it was printed. He wrote a book of drink recipes for the Frankfort Distilleries and when the officials saw it in proof form, they ordered a half million copies. Cobb wrote the book originally because he wanted to express his opinions about various spirituous concoctions.

• • • Virginia Rea, who was Olive Palmer for many years on the air and who is now a star in her own right, first reached fame after she had sung to a New York producer over the telephone. That story has been printed hundreds of times—and there is only one reason for reviving it now. In the Pocono Mountains, Virginia Rea and her new husband, Edgar Sittig, are building a stone castle. The house will have inlaid walls and the fixtures in the bathroom will be gold. Even though it is in the mountains it will have every modern convenience—except a telephone!

• • • New faces at KYA these days are plentiful and include Commander A. W. Scott, well-known aviator, who does those aviation broadcasts, Jeanette Lockwood and her songs, Cora Lee Scott and Adolph Dorenwend, song and piano team, Dee J. Ball, continuity writer, Jack Moyles, Alyss Luthi and Raymond Deleney dramatic talent and several others.

• • • Sixty short minutes once saved Art Van Harvey. Vic of Vic and Sade, from possible death in a train wreck. He was visiting in North Dakota and planned to take a train back to Minneapolis that night. His hosts persuaded him to wait for a train leaving an hour later. The train he had planned to take was completely demolished before reaching Minneapolis.

NEWS and COMMENT

Sitting at their home radio sets Tuesday morning, November 13, ninety-nine men and women of the Pacific Coast learned that they were richer than they had been an instant before.

The voice of Clinton Twiss, NBC announcer, brought word to Mrs. Alice Faneuf, 4526 Harbord Drive, Oakland, that she had won $1,000, first prize in the Wheat Hearts slogan contest conducted by the Sperry Flour Company. At the same time, Miss Leana Byers of Portland learned she had won the $500 prize, and Miss Mary Haney of Los Angeles the $250 award.

Announcement of the winners was made during the Martha Meade Society broadcast over the NBC-KPO network, with Genevieve Callahan, editor of Sunset Magazine, at the microphone with Miss Meade and Twiss. Miss Callahan was one of the judges of the contest, which was conducted through newspapers and magazines as well as on the Martha Meade program, which is heard Tuesdays and Thursdays over NBC. Helen Webster, Home Science Editor of the Woman's Magazine of the Air, and Professor Dwight E. Watkins of the University of California were the other judges.

Ten entrants in the contest who were runners-up to Mrs. Faneuf, Miss Byers and Miss Haney were awarded ten-dollar prizes. They included Mrs. James M. Baer of Seattle, Miss Edna Aguirre of Riverside, California, C. W. Tilden of Altadena, Mrs. J. C. Strasser of Colbert, Washington, Miss Blanche M. Harcourt of Berkeley, H. P. Coates of Upland, California, Miss Frances Parrish of Napa, Miss Jessie Allen of Los Angeles, Miss Elise Peck of Spokane, and Mrs. Mabel Christenson of Stanwood, Washington.

Eighty-six other men and women also won cash prizes.

Grand Opera, in English, condensed into a full-hour program will be available to the radio audience each Sunday, commencing December 2 at 5 p. m. over the transcontinental NBC networks, with the inception of the Chase and Sanborn Opera Guild series.

Deems Taylor, noted composer, critic and commentator, will personally supervise the production of the Opera Guild presentations. Wilfred Pelletier, Metropolitan Opera conductor, will direct an orchestra of symphonic proportions throughout the series.

The outstanding opera singers of the world will be cast in the Grand Operas which will be heard in these new Sunday night entertainments. In addition to the principals and members of the orchestra, a full chorus of forty trained voices will be regular members of the Opera Guild Company. The total number of artists on each program will exceed one hundred.

The twelfth anniversary of one of radio's pioneer programs was celebrated on Sunday morning, November 18, when the 624th consecutive weekly program emanating from the Capitol Theater in New York was broadcast over an NBC nation-wide network.

The Capitol program first went on the air to crystal and peanut tube set listeners on November 19, 1922. It immediately established itself as top rank radio entertainment, a position it has maintained through the years despite the increasing competition of many other fine programs. During the 624 Sundays on which it has been broadcast, the Capitol Theatre program has brought to millions of NBC listeners scores of entertainers who have achieved national radio popularity.

Major Edward Bowes, manager of the big Broadway screen house, inaugurated the now famous Capitol Family series in July, 1925. With only a few absences, most of them due to illness, the Major has appeared each Sunday as the genial master of ceremonies in the widely heard program, and his readings of appropriately topical and inspirational verse have become a feature looked forward to by millions of listeners from coast to coast.

Lou Holtz, creator of Sam Lapidis and other dialect characters on Rudy Vallee's Fleischmann program on NBC, had spent the last few weeks in Hollywood. A chance to star in the new Lew Brown show in New York "Calling All Stars" came to him. So Lou accepted.

On Thursday night's Vallee program, Holtz walked up to Cal Kuhl, producer of the program.

"Vell, Toots," he dialected. "I'm getting away from you and as fast as a plane can take me."

Profuse good-byes were said.

Two hours later Holtz dashed up to the Los Angeles Airport, showed his ticket and stepped on the plane.

There, not only was Kuhl, but his wife and young child as well, bound for a brief stay in New York.

And Holtz was so surprised he talked without a dialect.

SILHOUETTES

WHEN Bing Crosby went East a few years ago, one of the innumerable questions an interviewer asked was what he would do if he had a million dollars. Bing regarded his possessing such an amount as quite improbable, but answered without hesitation that he would build a home in California, buy a boat and a car, fish, golf, take up some light work, and raise a small family. And he has accomplished all that within a short span of time, with the exception of taking up some light work. His days on location, at the studio, and rehearsing for his Tuesday night broadcast over KHJ and the Columbia network with the Boswell Sisters and Georgie Stoll's orchestra, could hardly be called light work.

To begin at the beginning, Harry Lillis Crosby, Jr., of Tacoma, Wash., always wanted to be an actor. His nickname, "Bing," was inspired by his simulation of the bing, bang, boom of a blunderbuss, as he daily enacted "Custer's Last Stand" in the public park. His talents were encouraged by his parents, who were members of an amateur theatrical group, but their son's attraction to the stage became a problem when he played hookey from school to be property boy for Al Jolson in Spokane.

During his undergraduate days at Gonzaga University and Law School, Bing was a leading figure on the campus as a member of the glee club, dramatic and debating societies, an all-round athlete, and editor of the college paper.

Bing's first radio performance was in 1927 with Hal Rinker, brother of Mildred Bailey. A subsequent tour of the Fanchon and Marco circuit, the Public Theatres, and with the Will Morrissey Revue in California, led up to their engagement with Paul Whiteman. Joined by Harry Barris they became famous as the original Rhythm Boys. It was at this time that Crosby made his debut in pictures with Whiteman's Orchestra in "The King of Jazz," and was subsequently seen in several Mack Sennett shorts. Although "coming events cast their shadows before them," there would have been the darkest shadow of doubt on Bing's face if anyone had told him that within a couple of years he would be a star in both radio and pictures.

When the Columbia Broadcasting System offered Bing a network spot, it was just a matter of time before his original style of crooning got him a "commercial." This was followed by demands for personal appearances and stardom in the film, "The Big Broadcast." Bing's triumphal trek back to California was a contrast to his undervalued arrival in New York a short while before.

Crosby, who acts with a tongue-in-cheek expression, is the most romantic comedian to have hit the film capital in many a moon. Bing decided at the very beginning that his attempts at drama would be quite disastrous, so in his own words, he decided to "slide by." Considering the box office records that have been broken with his pictures, "Going Hollywood" with Marion Davies; "We're Not Dressing" with Carole Lombard, and "She Loves Me Not" with Marian Hopkins, "sliding by" is one of the grossest understatements that has ever come out of Hollywood.

Side Glances: Bing is thirty years old and celebrates his birthday on May 2 . . . his brother, Everett, is his manager, and brother Bob is a vocalist . . . has written lyrics to "I Surrender, Dear," "At Your Command," "Waltzing in a Dream," and his famous "Blue of the Night . . . stands 5 feet 9 inches and weighs 165 pounds . . . is married to Dixie Lee and has three sons—Gary Evans, born in July, 1933, and the twins, Dennis, Michael and Phillip Lang, born in August, 1934.

THE mistress behind the singing strings of violin melodies, heard on many of KOIN's programs, is pretty Dorothy Robinson Bain. Mastery of the instrument has won her popular acclaim on the stages of leading theaters on the Pacific Coast, doing musical stunts with her sister and a group of dancers. In addition, her services are highly valued in the first violin section of the Portland Symphony.

Beginning her study of the violin at the age of seven, she was one of a family of six and resided in Spokane, Washington. Her radio career began about five years ago in the same city. The way she received her college education was to drive down to Washington State College at Pullman on her day off, and study public school music.

She was a member of the class which produced many fine players for the orchestras of Ted Fio-Rito, Gus Arnheim, and Phil Harris, the conductor of the Grays Harbor Symphony Orchestra, and the supervisor of music in the Tacoma public schools. Popularity and scholarship won her membership in Mu Phi and Phi Kappa Phi, honorary Greek letter societies.

Now as the wife of a fine doctor, her music still occupies a greater part of her spare time, which she uses very profitably in entertaining her thousands of followers.

"Symphony music is the finest, and should be encouraged over the radio and elsewhere; it is my favorite."

The OPEN CIRCUIT

This department is open to all. Send in your letters. Anonymous letters will not be published. Give full name and address.

Not Ghosts—Just Smoke in Your Eyes!

Medieval ghosts have arisen among the pleasant pages of "Broadcast Weekly." The readers of this informative little publication have, since your November 18 issue, the uncomfortable feeling of being haunted.

For three years One Man's Family has cheered and pleased and inspired thousands of listeners. The following has grown till the program is now to be broadcast from coast to coast. Honors have been conferred upon its author, Mr. Morse. During the last two years I have heard scores of people speak of the Barbour's with as much genuine affection as they would have for members of their own families. And these people who have so spoken I know to be clean, right-thinking, wholesome.

And now, I have that unearthly feeling of being haunted. All day long the sad, sad fact that Mr. Morse is falling down on the job has been preying on my mind. I am greatly distressed.

May I suggest that you bring relief by devoting fifteen minutes to the reading of the scripture and another fourteen minutes to a desecration on the evils of cigarette smoking—your sponsors notwithstanding.

That would pretty well take up the half hour and you can keep your listeners in suspense about the stranger who knocked on the door, late one evening.

In the meantime, my dear Carlton, I suggest that you mind your own good business, and continue to grant me the privilege to dig out my own religion. That's something intensely personal, something between me and my maker. It has no place in entertaining radio programs, and One Man's Family is of that type of program. Ghosts should stay buried, or betake themselves to ghostly regions where the environment is more propitious to their activity.

D. E. S., Oakland, Calif.

Yep, Beth Is Slipping! How's Her Fractured Ankle, Carlton?

I just read A. L. T., Watsonville, Calif.'s letter to the "Broadcast Weekly" and wish to say I agree with A. L. T. I have always thought of One Man's Family as an ideal family and thought Carlton Morse solved the problems that came up in such a beautiful way, but I have noticed that God was left out of everything. I thought it would have been so much better for Paul to give Teddy a Bible verse to go to sleep on than some sentence that a child could not understand.

I was shocked also when Beth Holly smoked with Paul. I don't think a woman that smokes has any place in an ideal family. I always admired Beth Holly before but I think she lowered herself. Aside from that one thing, everything has been clean and what any parent might be proud to have his family to be.

From the uplifting thoughts and high ideals expressed, I never thought Carlton Morse would lower the standard by having one of the women smoke. I am very much disappointed for I wanted this family to be above the disgusting things around us.

I believe the programs on the radio are cleaner and of a higher type than they were for a while. I enjoy the programs very much, especially the Country Church of Hollywood. That program is a real inspiration and helps to start the day right.

I enjoy my "Broadcast Weekly" very much. The articles by the Editor have been very, very good.

Mrs. W. A. T., Carnation, Wash.

But She's Going to Keep on Listening

I am a constant reader of your worthy little magazine and have often felt I should like to add my "Amen" to some who write in. In the publication November 18-24, I have just read an article signed A. L. T., Watsonville, Calif., and wish to say I thoroughly agree with this view of the matter, although not to such an extent that I will not listen to "One Man's Family" again. I think a personal letter to Carlton E. Morse might be the best way to reach the matter. I heard Gypsy interview him last Sunday and think he is a splendid character, and I realize he must be up to date in his writings. I feel very strongly against women smoking or men either and have two sons in their twenties who do not smoke at all and they are not sissies, in fact are real "he" men as they play football and wish to keep their bodies fit.

Mrs. L. M. VanN., Alameda, Calif.

Stop Smoking Beth, And Let the Show Go On

A. L. T., Watsonville, in your "Open Circuit" voiced the sentiments of many listeners to One Man's Family. I feel sure, in the protest against cigarette smoking Beth Holly. Up until now we have considered this program clean enough in every sense for a fourteen-year-old girl to listen to, but now we wonder "What next?"

And couldn't Carleton Morse be persuaded to bring a little respect for the Sabbath into his play? Our very nation was built on a Christian foundation, and no matter how much freedom we may allow as to creeds, etc., it makes a better home, a better state, and a better nation when we are taught a respect for God and his holy day.

This little note isn't for publication, but is written because I think there are many listeners who (like myself) have never expressed appreciation, or dissatisfaction, of the very entertaining programs which Mr. Morse has supplied for us, and along with the above criticism would want to say a hearty "Thank You" to him for his One Man's Family.

L. A., San Bernardino.

We Could Fill a Book

"Open Circuit" put a couple of extra pages in your magazine, as me thinks you will be needing them. Criticizing One Man's Family is OK, but picking on them—as the Dutchman said "Dot is somding oderst."

First of all A. L. T., any family as good as the Barbour's have a place with God, otherwise they would not be so good. And remember the song "All Those Shouting About Heaven Ain't Goin' There." And in most cases one would rather take chances with the non-shouters.

I do not smoke, have a grown daughter, and it so happens that she doesn't either, but just because a woman does smoke does not make me think that she is going where every one "smokes."

So you see it's just a matter of opinion. It's not what one puts in their mouth, but what comes out of it. As I see it, smoking is absolutely one's own business.

And here is a wager I would like to make with A. L. T., and that is that they still do listen to the program, if for no other reason, just to find out if Mother Barbour does smoke.

Here is luck to you Mr. Morse and don't let them get you down, and best wishes to "Broadcast Weekly."

L. O. P., Central, Mont.

Well, Mr. Morse, Why Did You?

I want to add my comment to the letter in "Open Circuit" written by A. L. T. Watsonville, Calif., "Will the Barbour's Shed the Purple Behind a Screen or Blue Smoke?" This is the heading and then closes with, "Oh Why Did Carlton Morse fail us? Yes Why?" And now we find the program is to be sponsored by makers of a brand of cigarettes which may give place for more chance to freely advertise the tobacco habit in an otherwise "Ideal Family" program. It will spoil the sacredness which many homes have felt in receiving this Home Life program which we have been proud to listen to. It has always been clean and fine for all the family. But now the influence on the young of the family will be tainted by listening each time to this advertisement of cigarettes. This can not help having a great influence on the young during their habit forming years.

We appreciate very much the "Broadcast Weekly" as it comes to our home.

Enjoy the way the programs are listed. This method can not be improved on. I wish very much we could have our religious programs back again on the Sunday schedule. We miss so much Dr. Cadman, Dr. Sockman and Dr. Fosdick. Also miss the Sunday morning Roxy programs. Wishing you continued success in your work.

M. N. K., Springfield, Ore.

"O Wad Some Power, the Giftie Gie Us"

Why, oh why, do so many people try to impose their ideas on others?

Evidently A. L. T. considers himself (or herself which ever the case may be) a devout Christian. If I remember correctly the Bible says: "Judge not that ye be not judged."

How many so-called Christians like to sit back with that smug feeling, and criticize others. If they could only get behind a tree and watch themselves go by.

I don't approve of women smoking, but they have the same right as men to smoke cigarettes, and I never heard of a man being considered degraded for doing so. Maybe A. L. T. likes his little smoke on the side as he thinks "Mother Barbour" does.

The Barbour Family is a modern family not a perfect one by any means, they have their faults and troubles the same as most of us have.

I wonder why we all seem to think we can do things so much better than the other fellow. Some of us even think we could run the United States better than the President, himself.

I have been a subscriber to your little magazine for nearly two years. I enjoy it so much and look forward to it each week.

There are so many good clean programs on the air at the present time, Myrt and Marge head the list. The In Laws, Frank and Archie, and many others.

Mrs. H. C. S., Diamond Springs, Calif.

"My Dear A. L. T. of Watsonville":—

I am a minister's daughter, and my dad used to serve in and out of your little city. Way back in the late '80's. In all our travels around these United States, I have come across all kinds of people. I used to tell my father, it seemed too bad, there wasn't a special paradise set aside for such very perfect individuals as you must be. I have listened to the Barbour family for as long as I can remember them on the air, and I will tell you why I love them as if they were my dearest neighbors, next door. We were just such a family in my father's home, with music and happy songs, good books and literature, a clean and fine understanding of the better, worthwhile things in life.

It seemed so useless and trivial for you to write a long protest just to find fault, because Miss Holly and Paul enjoyed a cigarette together. You certainly must be forgetting that women are not bad nor loose characters because they enjoy a cigarette, nor do they need to be considered unwomanly. And, if all our radio entertainers gave as much real home-like joy and happiness, and neighborly interest to the world as the Barbour's in One Man's Family we should all be a very grateful audience.

And now a few words to the Barbour family. I don't just know how to express my sincere appreciation to you all, but please, may I first say thanks a million for your lovely weekly visits. I enjoy them more than I can tell you, and that goes for all the rest of you dear people of the air who come in to our homes. I appreciate you all and God Bless you, may the happiness you give out to others come back to you a hundred fold. And to "Broadcast Weekly" and its personnel, I wish continued success.

M. M. M., San Francisco, Calif.

I feel I must express my thoughts through the "Open Circuit" about One Man's Family. I deeply regret that the National Broadcasting Company has seen fit to accept a sponsor who is unquestionably demoralizing the Nation through the curse of smoking. As one looks around we see slaves, both men and women, to the cigarette habit which makes the negro slave look small in comparison.

The standard of morals in our beloved country are certainly being brought to a low level indeed, when the air lanes are full of such ideas.

Mrs. W. H. B., Berkeley, Calif.

Leave It To Father Barbour

Just received my "Broadcast Weekly" and always devour it before doing anything else, and I want to voice my approval of A. L. T., Watsonville, about the Barbour family episode being spoiled when Beth Holly accepted a smoke from Paul.

I fully agree with A. L. T. and hope Carlton Morse will keep One Man's Family as clean and fine as heretofore.

Mrs. O. E., Los Gatos, Calif.

HANDWRITING AND Radio Personalities

By ZITA LOMAS

(This is the first of a series of character analyses of radio personalities which the Broadcast Weekly will publish weekly.)

MICHAEL RAFFETTO (PAUL BARBOUR TO YOU)

Underneath the curly black hair and behind the laughing dark eyes of Michael Raffetto is a sharp, shrewd and astute mind, with a quick penetrative insight into essentials, and a spontaneous grasp of human nature and character.

This very separated, almost printed style of writing is always a sign of keen intuition, and an analytical, critical mind. "Mike," as he is familiarly called, possesses the ability to catch the vibrations of what is going on in the minds of others, with the result that he senses things. He knows without knowing why he knows. Practically all of his decisions and conclusions are the result of his own inner feelings and impressions, rather than of logical deductive thought. He is almost psychic. His intuitive flashes would be more accurate and reliable, and more crystal-clear than many people's carefully thought-out conclusions. One with this faculty should always trust first feelings, and he will seldom go wrong.

*Dear Miss Lomas —
Let us pray you don't reveal too much.
Michael Raffetto*

NOTE: This handwriting is considerably reduced from natural size.

The elimination of beginning strokes and the absence of frills from his writing show mental cultivation and development. It is the sign of a superior mind, which can dispense with superficials and trivialities, and concern itself with important issues. Michael Raffetto simply does not permit his mind to become cluttered up with petty details.

But he is not without a detail sense—not by any means. The neat formations of his letters, and the well-placed diacritic signs and punctuations reflect the qualities of system, order and carefulness. It is because of his fine mental development that he would be fussy only with essential details. He is never slipshod about anything that matters. And he can generally refrain from getting into a dither about things that don't matter.

Those Greek "e's," printed "s's," single-stroke "t's," and simple capitals, are all signs of intellectuality, constructiveness and exacting tastes. They show a feeling for the highest kind of form, line, balance and proportion, and a keen appreciation of the niceties of art and culture.

Mr. Raffetto is not easily pleased or satisfied. Harmony, symmetry and elegance in his surroundings are essential to his artistic, beauty-loving, sensuous nature. His feeling for form, line and color is so strong that he he could achieve outstanding success in the field of painting or designing.

The fine letter formations, and absence of hard, rectilinear strokes reveal delicacy of feeling and refinement, while the general simplicity of the whole denotes a modest, unassuming nature, without personal vanity, conceit or ostentation.

Don't imagine for one moment, however, that there is anything weak or "soft" about our friend Mike. . . . Not when his writing shows those firm, decisive strokes, and particularly the long, strong T-bars. In ideas, theories and opinions, he's positive, definite and emphatic. He knows his own mind, and does not mean maybe. In addition, that strength of will and resolute purpose gives him the courage and fortitude to survive a lot of opposition and difficulty, and be still strong where less "gritty" individuals would have collapsed by the wayside. Michael is not a man to give up easily, or admit defeat readily. Tenacity of purpose is expressed by his writing as a whole, and emphasized by little sharp ticks at the end of the strokes.

After saying so many nice things about him, the time is ripe for a little venom. But search as I will, I can find only one really noticeable fault. The man is stubborn. Tsk. Tsk. The downward slant of his t-bars betrays that. A sure sign of a stubborn streak.

There's only the one knock in this analysis. Now I'm back on the boosts again. When Mike came out to meet me at the NBC studios, I thought to myself, "Aha, here comes a man with a grand sense of humor. When he talked to me, I still thought it. And when he took a pen in hand and got down to business on a sheet of paper, I knew it. Those little curved dashes for i-dots are a never-failing indication of the ability to see the funny side of situations and incidents, and a terrific appreciation of the ludicrous.

What does your handwriting reveal? . . . An analysis may gladden, madden or sadden, but will certainly surprise you!
(See special offer on page 13 of this issue.)

For Ladies Only!

THE charming voice of Miss Laretta La Marr, celebrated up and down the coast as an exponent of household affairs and problems in home economics, is now heard over KTAB, every day except Saturdays and Sundays, from 5:00 to 5:15.

So, ladies, if you are looking for tasty new recipes and novel methods in your household activities that will save you time and energy and money—and, of course, you are—tune in with Laretta La Marr.
