THE COVER

JANE FROMAN. She wanted to be a newspaperwoman, but has become one of radio's most popular—and pretty—songsters.

Born in St. Louis twenty-five years ago. Graduated from the University of Missouri in 1928 with two degrees, an A. B. in music and a B. S. in journalism.

While in college was active in musical shows. Sang in the glee club and the university sextet. Her first professional job was singing with an orchestra in the Grand Central theatre, St. Louis. That was the end of her journalistic ambitions.

Her first radio opportunity came in Cincinnati following a party in the home of Powell Crosley, Jr., who heard her sing and suggested she join the WLW staff. It was there Paul Whiteman heard her and induced her to go to the NBC Chicago studios where she made an instant hit on network programs.

She recently started a new contract with the Iodent company for a Sunday series at 4 P.M. from the Chicago studios of the WEAf-NBC chain.

Is slender in build, has blue eyes, brown hair. Known as Ellen Jane to her family.

RADIOISMS

One of the liveliest and best acts to hear is the Four Eton Boys quartette . . . . These boys are heard with Irene Beasley, the popular Southern contralto, over WABC on Sundays at 6 p.m. . . . You'll find them entertaining. . . .

The most superstitious men in the world, observe David Ross, are xylophonists. They are always knocking on wood.

Julius Cerulli pianist accompaniment of Bill Jacoby, solo saxaphonist, is to be commended for his excellent renditions over station WPCH every Monday at 12:30 p. m.

Tom Brennie's Laughs

Tom Brennie and his Laugh Club is back on the air.

Conductor of his own program, in which he is chairman, secretary and entertainer, Brennie is continuing his morning sessions on a new four-day-a-week schedule over an NBC-WEAF network.

On Tuesday Brennie will be heard at 10:15 a.m. On Wednesday he will appear at 9:15 a.m., and on Thursday and Saturday, he will be on the air at 10:15 a.m. He will maintain this schedule until Tuesday, April 26, when he will be regularly scheduled at 9:15 a.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, each Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday.

His characters Tom and Wash, purveyors of slenderizin' tablets and Senator Ezra Simpkins, the forgetful politician, are again heard on his programs.

Brennie joined the NBC in 1931. He broadcast for more than six years over Pacific Coast stations and is noted for his original program ideas.

Izaak Walton Meet

The Izaak Walton League, which has for its aim, the conservation and preservation of America's outdoor resources, will meet in annual convention in Chicago on Friday, April 22, during which time its session will be broadcast in part over an NBC-WJZ network during the National Farm and Home Hour from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m., E. S. T.

Leaders of outdoor life, sportsmen, forest rangers, fishermen and conservationists from various states of the Union will be heard at the meeting.

A sketch depicting a phase of outdoor life, and music by Harry Kogen and his Homesteaders will be included in the broadcast.

Don't miss the Easy Aces on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 7:30 p. m., Columbia network, if you like bridge and humor.... For those of us who don't take our bridge seriously, this program is a funny spot in the evening's entertainment....

During the Mills Brothers and Victor Young's programs over the Columbia network, there is only one announcement made during the entire program. Incidentally, a phonograph company became so excited after hearing the trick orchestra Victor Young built for this program that they recorded it on the spot without waiting to see how the radio audience liked the new trumpetless and saxless combination.

BEHIND THE "MIKE"

With EVERETTA LOVE

"SN'T she cute?"
"Yes—and pretty! And so young—"

Sylvia Froos was the subject of the conversation. We watched her as she stood before the "mike" with all the poise of the oldest radio prima donna. She had on a bright red dress that accentuated her co-ed appearance, and was most becoming with her dark brown hair and grey-blue eyes. . . . Her childish five feet and two inches were hardly adequate for impressing her audience that here was a very grown-up young lady who had already found her niche in the entertainment world. . . . Yet one was conscious of the fact that she had "arrived" . . . that she was a radio personage. . . . there was something about her calm assurance and the ease with which she sang that placed her in a class with the seasoned celebrities.

She seemed to have all the irrepressible enthusiasm of extreme youth. Between her numbers, she carried on an animated conversation with the announcer, laughed and made faces at us. . . . and in her voice as she sang, there was a fresh, buoyant quality that isn't to be found in other blues voices on the air. . . .

With her eighteenth birthday due on April 19th, she was still in proud possession of her title as the youngest star in radio. "Baby Sylvia" she was called when, after making her debut at the age of seven, she became a sensation on the vaudeville stage. She toured all over the country and theatre managers paid fines, after legal battles with child labor boards, but they didn't mind for, wherever Sylvia appeared on a bill, she meant big audiences and money for the theatres.

The Christmas holidays of 1931 brought two important events for her. She was booked for the Palace Theatre, New York, with the Four Marx Brothers and she made her initial bow over a big chain network. Now, she is the featured artist with Louis Silvers' orchestra, in the Richman Brothers program, heard over WABC and affiliated stations Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 7:30, and she has just begun a Sunday broadcast at 7:30 p. m. with the Three Bakers over WJZ and the NBC network. Such a busy and popular lady!

After her program which I visited, I cornered her away from the admiring males who were hanging around, and asked her all about herself. You might think, from some of her pictures, that she is sophisticated. I thought so. But, after one minute with her, I quickly changed my opinion. Rarely have I found such delightful naivete as hers. She talked eagerly about her work and what she hopes to do, always showing a dimple in one cheek when she smiled. When I asked her about the other dimple, she said that her cheek got fat and the dimple went away.

SYLVIA FROOS

"I'm sort of dieting now," she said, a little anxiously. "I don't eat candy or anything fattening."

But her mother takes good care of her and sees that she eats enough. For breakfast, Sylvia has grapefruit, wholewheat toast, a two-minute egg and milk. Maybe that's why she has a lovely clear skin.

"I never drink coffee, except when I'm reckless," she said.

Her days are always full of work and plans. After breakfast, she usually goes to the publishers' and picks out new songs, then rehearses. She makes all of her selections herself.

"I plan my radio programs as I did on the stage," she said. "I use two fast numbers and two slow ones. I think most singers use too many slow numbers, but it's hard to find good peppy ones."

She likes swimming and indoor sports, particularly ping pong, and she has two hobbies—collecting tiny pot plants and perfumes. She spends hours taking care of her plants. Nobody else is allowed to touch them.

She says she's too busy for dates—but what do you think?

FAN-FARE

PRISONER 30711, who, in his own language, is "finishing a five year stack at Leavenworth's big house on May 28," has written Myrtle Vail a letter in which he attempts to solve the Ray Hunt murder mystery, the current complication in Miss Vail's Columbia network "Myrt and Marge."

"It takes a crook to catch a crook," No. 30711 writes, "and I have this thing all doped out. You girls were all wet in the way you answered those cops. What you should have said to those flat-feet was 'Who wants to know?'" Then you should have burst out crying. I tried that once, but I forgot to duck!

"Sanfield and Slim are the brains of that gang you are mixed up with. . . . but you'll never get a peep out of them. Jimmy wasn't the trigger man, but he knows enough about it to clear you. . . Regards, and I'll bet I'm right!"

Two of the tallest men in radio are seen and heard in the Columbia studios on Sunday evenings. Engineers set up microphones six feet from the ground when William Hall, the "Beau Brummel of Song," and Edmund Ruffner, who announces the "Real Folks" program and who is known to his friends as "Tiny," go on the air.

Arthur Allen of the Stebbins Boys, besides collecting old clocks, goes in for amateur gardening at his home in Hempstead, Long Island.

Jessica Dragonette, the NBC soprano, was born in India, and is a great admirer of Ghandi. She thinks Ghandi is trusted by the Indian masses because anybody can see that he has nothing up his sleeve.

Walter Winchell, Eddie Cantor and George Jessel are all natural born leaders; they began their careers ushering in New York theatres.

Jesse Crawford to Play

Jesse Crawford, Poet of the Organ, who has been heard over National Broadcasting Company networks since September 13, 1931, will now appear over an NBC-WEAF network on Sunday nights only. Crawford formerly was heard six times each week.

However, on Saturday, April 30 and on Saturday, May 7, Crawford will play for NBC listeners at 11:15 p.m. His new schedule goes into effect on Sunday, April 17, when he presents a half-hour recital at 11:30 p.m., E. S. T.

Crawford recently completed his fifth year on Broadway with the Paramount Theater. He came here in 1926 from the Chicago Theater in Chicago and before that was soloist with Graumann's "Million Dollar Theater" in Los Angeles.

THIS HALF-FACE

BEAUTY TEST CONVINCED THE SCIENTISTS

IT SHOULD CONVINC YOU

"612 women, under observation of 15 dermatologists, use usual beauty methods on one side of their faces, and Woodbury's Facial Soap on other side, for 30 days."

By Dr. ( _____ )
(Nationally known dermatologist . . . name withheld because of professional ethics)

"At the end of 30 days, the contrast on those faces was startling! The cheek which had been washed with Woodbury's was clear, bright, firm. Smooth and fine as silk. Glowing with life. The other cheek was sallow, dingy, coarse-pored, in comparison.

"The results of that experiment convinced me, as they would any scientist."

Would you like to see YOUR complexion clear and fine in 30 days . . . perhaps less? Fresh, firm, velvety soft? Would you like to correct dry skin, oily skin, blackheads, coarse pores, pimples?

Try then Woodbury's Facial Soap as the directions advise. Make the Half-face Test yourself. Woodbury's is not just a soap. It is a scientific beauty treatment in cake form.

NOT JUST A SOAP . . . A SCIENTIFIC BEAUTY TREATMENT IN CAKE FORM

Tune in on Woodbury's Fridays, 9:30 P. M.,
Leon Belasco Orchestra. WABC and Columbia Network.

COUPON FOR PERSONAL BEAUTY ADVICE

STUDIO NOTES

It was five o'clock the other morning when a California bridge fiend awakened Ely Culbertson with a long distance telephone call to ask the master of the Approach - Forcing System, who now broadcasts three times a week over an NBC network for the William Wrigley Jr. Co., what he should do, as his partner had just made an impossible bid. "First", growled the bridge master as he sank back on his pillow, "shoot your partner—and then shoot yourself".

When D'Avrey of Paris was appearing in Cairo, Egypt, with a musical comedy troupe some years ago, an Italian Countess sent roses to his dressing room every day. He says the chorus girls got the flowers.

When June Pursell, the NBC ballad girl, went on the air in the east, for the first time several weeks ago and sang an old number, the composer wired that she sang the numbers "better than I ever heard it done before."

In a recent episode of "Raising Junior", the NBC daily sketch, Ken Lee complained because there wasn't a calendar in the house. Within three days the Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dixon who are the 'Joan' and 'Ken' in the series, received more than two hundred calendars of all descriptions.

Frank Vagnoni, NBC violinist and orchestra leader, left a position as first violinist of the Montevideo Municipal Symphony Orchestra to come to America.

Two of NBC's hottest jazz band instrumentalists were members of the Original Memphis Five, premier exponents of blues music. They are Miff Mole, trombonist, and Phil Napoleon, versatile trumpeter.

STAR DUST

Don't write the Boswell sisters, Connie, Vet and Martha, for a photograph unless you're all prepared to send of your own in return, even if it is only a snapshot. For Connie Boswell is starting an album of radio fans' photos, and as sure as they send you a picture, they'll ask you to send them your picture by return mail. And incidentally Connie has almost completed her symphonic vocal composition and it will be heard on thier program, with orchestral background music, very shortly.

LISTENING IN

With EVE

DO you write fan letters when you hear a program that pleases you? You may think it's a more or less silly thing to do, but if you knew how the sponsors pore over every line written in to their artists, and how they judge them by their letters and decide they're no good if they don't get many, you'd sit right down and write to your favorite singer, actor or announcer, or maybe you'd write to a station in gratitude for a program which you have enjoyed.

I was having it out with an official of one of the big broadcasting companies the other day, about why more prominence and money aren't devoted to really good stuff on the air, and he said that he regretted it, but that they had to plan their programs to satisfy the public which wrote in and indicated its approval of a certain type of entertainment. His company, he said, received twelve million fan letters during a year, that number being a third of the listening public of the nation. But, I argued, why make the other two thirds suffer for the pleasure of the third that writes letters. Most people wouldn't bother to write a fan letter. They think it is an inane pastime.

Nevertheless, he replied, the companies must have some means of judging what the public likes and, until some better medium is found, the fan letter is elected to serve the purpose. When there is a beautiful symphony broadcast or an unusually high type of program presented, they receive scarcely a letter, he pointed out, while the crooners and popular singers are snowed under with mail. There must be a reason, he said. The majority of the people don't enjoy more serious music. I think they do. I contend that it just doesn't occur to them to write letters. So, how about backing me up and putting down your appreciation in black and white the next time you hear a fine program?

And, speaking of good music, WOR offers some of the best to be heard on the air, with its Little Symphony, the Choir Invisible, Moonbeams, Eddy Brown, violinist, and Clarence Adler, pianist.. also Bernhard Levitow's Ensemble Symphonique....

That "K-7" series over WJZ on Sunday nights, secret service spy stories, is a thrilling one.... and somewhat different from any other mystery series.... Richard Gordon gave a splendid performance in one of the stories recently, taking a German role.... He told me that he perfected his accent by listening to the speech of a German waitress in one of his clubs...

Ziegfeld's Radio Show on Sundays at 9 p. m. over WABC is interesting mainly because of the idea of Ziegfeld being on the air.... As for its entertainment value, well Ziegfeld girls are noted for their looks, not their voices, and we can hear the other artists on some one or other of a half dozen guest star programs....so, figure it out for yourself....

While I'm on the subject of guest stars. I heard Frances Langford singing during Abe Lyman's broadcast over WABC the other night, and the way she did "Between the Devil and the Deep Blue Sea" should have made all the other blues singers blue, or is it green, with envy—That song was meant for her, all right...

If you're gone on somebody and are too bashful to let the Big Moment know about it, just write in to Love Letters on the Air at WOR and tell that person to listen in on Wednesday at 9:45 p. m.... Maybe your letter will be read (no name attached), and everything will be all fixed up for you.... Unique, isn't it?....

WRNY has some unusually good artists for a small station.... Mogilof's Russian Gypsy Orchestra, on Mondays at 8:30 p. m., plays spirited music from the land of the steppes and also popular music, in a Russian manner.... Edythe Handman, heard on Tuesday nights, has a voice not unlike Connie Boswell's... like the famous Boswell's, her voice has a sweet, plaintive quality that makes it popular.... And, last, but by no means least in importance, there is Ed Sammons, who is heard on Fridays at 6:15 p. m. A newcomer to radio, Ed is one of the most pleasing singers on the air, and, no doubt you'll be hearing him over a big chain before many moons....

STUDIO BITS

DID you hear Bullneck Mooseface and Andy, of the NBC's famous Amos 'n' Andy, fall to the mat in their bone-crushing contest of the century? Bullneck was a telephone directory tied with strings and Andy Brown was a felt and leather padded board.

Ed East and Ralph Dumke, NBC's Sisters of the Skillet, refer to their announcer, Howard Petrie, as "Little Howard" because he weighs only 190 pounds, although he is six feet-four inches tall. East and Dumke weigh close to 500 pounds together.

A group of Japanese Naval officers, now in New York, were guests of the National Broadcasting Company over the weekend. The party, which included nine lieutenant-commanders and Captain Hiraoka, viewed programs in rehearsal and on the air, and listened to engineers' explanations of technical operations.

Paul Van Loan, the husky hand-leader on Alice Joy's program, has discovered a novel use for the trade name of the smoking tobacco which sponsors his program. It seems that medical students are called upon every so often by their instructors to name and identify the four valves of the heart, which are in order, the pulmonary, the aortic, the mitral and the tricuspid. To stave off embarrassing moments the fledgling doctors have invented a little catch phrase to help them keep their valves straight. "Prince," they say to themselves, thereby remembering the pulmonary valve. "Albert" is the second step, calling to mind "aortic." "My," the third, and "Tobacco" the fourth. You can't go wrong, they say, if you use this system.

The world would go crazy, according to New York University scientists, if the human ear were as sensitive as the microphone. In proof of their point, they broadcasted on Saturday, April 9th, the roar of bursting soap bubbles, explosions of a glass of beer and music as relayed by a bath towel.

These and other phenomena were broadcast over the Columbia Broadcasting System from the laboratory bench of the General Science Department in the School of Commerce of the University. The 15-minute experiment was climaxed when a professor blasted dirt from his hands.

The latter was accomplished with soap. Its capillary force, science explains, lifts particles of dirt from the human hand. The resulting noise through the microphone sounded to the listener much like dried peas dropping in a dish pan or distant machine gun fire on the Chinese front. But it merely was the professor flecking a drop of lather from his little finger.

The purpose of the broadcast was to demonstrate the force of what science calls capillary attraction. There is enough such force in a single bar of soap to lift the Empire State Building, the department says, though the experimenters did not intend to try it.

Instead they put a microphone near glasses of soda water, ginger ale and beer. Listeners heard millions of bubbles arise and burst in air, the ginger ale going "bang!" and the beer only "phooching." The beer noise was softer. Soap bubbles were noisier and, as bits of dust punctured them, their explosions were heard from coast to coast.

The crashing noise produced by water, soaking and swelling a sliver of wood, also was heard while the professor explained that if man had as much force, in proportion, he could pick up an elephant in each arm and run up six flights of stairs. Cheops of Egypt knew this 5,000 years ago when he blasted rocks from the pyramids. Slaves drove pieces of wood into drill holes, poured water on the wedges, and the rocks split.

The professors also broadcast "the noise of water rising in a towel." Further, they plucked a dry cotton thread from a towel, connected it with a phonograph and the microphone, and—did you hear the music? You did not. But the professor squeezed a drop of water on the thread and, instantly, you heard the music.

The climax came with the "stripping apart of two pieces of glued paper." This scene, according to the producers, created a bombardment much like the sound of lifting a cancelled postage stamp.

Someday, in similar experiments, they hope to broadcast the sound of a man thinking. Right now, they say, this is impossible. They haven't found a way to eliminate such "static" as heart-beats.

You can't improve on Nature!

Why sweeten the wild bee's honey?
Why change the cherry's taste?
It sure would seem funny
To mix maple sap with paste.

The rose would seem no sweeter
If a chemist loaned his hand,
Nor will the lily-bed look neater
When painted by an artist grand.

Choose your cigarette discreetly,
And by words do not be tricked . . .
NATURE does the work completely
When OLD GOLD tobacco's picked!

UNDERTHINGS

*f*rom the shapeless unmentionables of our grandmothers, underthings now demand the knitter's best skill, the designer's keenest imagination. And with the trend toward greater femininity in the whole costume, now comes still greater beauty in those delicate garments which are the very foundation of both comfort and smartness.
