MASSACHUSETTS

Population 4,375,000 (U. S. Estimate, 1935)

State Capital, BOSTON

Massachusetts is bounded on the north by Vermont and New Hampshire, east by the Atlantic Ocean, south by the Atlantic Ocean and by Rhode Island and Connecticut and west by New York. Its extreme length is 160 miles, its breadth from 47 to about 90 miles; land area, 8,039 square miles; rank in area (1930), forty-fourth.

The surface is greatly diversified: mountainous in the extreme west, hilly and broken in the east and northeast, and in the southeast mainly low and sandy. Toward the west is the fertile valley of the Connecticut River. The mountains are the Taconic and the Hoosac (continuations of the Green Mountain ranges of Vermont) with detached members of the White Mountains. The Weather Bureau at Boston gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 49.6; highest on record, 104; lowest on record, —14. Total annual precipitation is 40.14 inches.

The state has abundant rail and coastwise shipping facilities. The Cape Cod Canal, an eight-mile cut, 25 feet deep, between Buzzards Bay and Sandwich, enables coasting vessels to avoid the long trip around Cape Cod peninsula and shortens the distance between Boston and New York by over 70 miles. The North Shore above Boston, Cape Cod and the "hill towns" west of the Connecticut River are popular summer resorts, the valley of the Housatonic, in Berkshire county, having hundreds of summer residences belonging to wealthy citizens of New York, Boston and other large cities. Massachusetts is the second densest populated state in the Union, having 514.6 persons to the square mile. It is the leading center of the American cotton, shoe, leather, wool and paper trades. Fall River, Lowell, New Bedford and Lawrence are the greatest cotton manufacturing centers; Boston, Quincy, Newburyport, and Salem lead in shipbuilding interests. Boston is the greatest fishing port in the country.

There is a large number of colleges in the state, including some of the country's most famous, for both men and women. Harvard University, the oldest in the country, is located at Cambridge, as is the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Nearly all of Massachusetts is rich in historical interest. At Provincetown, in 1620, the Mayflower made the first landing, going from there to Plymouth.

MICHIGAN

Population 4,661,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, LANSING

Michigan is bounded on the north by Lake Superior, east by Lakes Huron, St. Clair and Erie and their connecting rivers, south by Ohio and Indiana, and west by Wisconsin and Lake Michigan. Its land area is 57,480 square miles; rank in area (1930), twenty-second.

The state consists of two peninsulas, of which the southern is the principal seat of wealth and population, its length, north to south, being about 300 miles; width, about 200. Here manufacturing has grown to chief importance. This part of the state is a very level region, abounding in lakes and streams, with extensive forests of pine and other timber in the north, oak openings or natural parks in the south and prairies in the southwest. There are over 6,000 lakes, large and small, which are popular resorts of anglers and summer visitors. The northern peninsula is more rugged in surface and its chief industries are copper and iron mining and lumbering. The Weather Bureau at Detroit gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 48.5; highest on record, 104; lowest on record, —24; total annual precipitation is 32.05 inches.

The great extent of its water boundary line, about 1,000 miles, gives Michigan a commanding position in lake commerce. The ship canal between Lake Huron and Lake Superior at Sault Ste. Marie handles more traffic than the Suez or Panama Canal or any similar thoroughfare in the world. Detroit, noted throughout the world as the greatest center of automobile manufacture, is the fourth city in population in the country, and a great commercial center. A very large tonnage of freight traffic passes through the Detroit River. Grand Rapids is famous for its furniture manufactories. There are many institutions of higher education in the state, chief of them being the University of Michigan, located at Ann Arbor.

MINNESOTA

Population 2,627,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, ST. PAUL

Minnesota is bounded on the north by Ontario and Manitoba, Canada, east by Wisconsin and Lake Superior, south by Iowa, and west by North and South Dakota. Its extreme length from north to south is 380 miles, its breadth varies from 183 miles, in the center, to 262 on the south and 330 on the north borders. Its land area is 80,858 square miles; rank in area (1930), eleventh. It is a state of widely varied natural resources and rapidly developing wealth.

The surface is generally undulating and diversified with plains, timber belts and extensive prairies dotted with lakes and groves. The northeast is generally hilly, has great deposits of iron ore, and was formerly entirely covered with immense forests. Much of the salable pine has been cut, but there is a vast quantity of valuable timber, both pine and hardwood, still standing. This region also contains innumerable lakes, abounding in fish and affording popular summer resorts. In the southeast there is a beautiful rolling prairie region, and from it the surface rises gradually to the Hauteur des Terres or Heights of Land in the northwest. The climate is particularly healthful, and extremely favorable to the growth of vegetation, especially grain crops. The Weather Bureau at St. Paul gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 44.2; highest degree on record as 104; lowest, —41. Total annual precipitation is 27.24 inches.

The state's shipping, both by water and rail, is immense. The Great Lakes, with Duluth as an advantageously located port, provide an excellent waterway to the Atlantic, and railroads branch in every direction. The grain trade control in Minneapolis is second only to that of the Chicago Board of Trade. There is in operation a very efficient school system. The University of Minnesota, with more than 13,000 students registered in 1934, is one of the great universities of the country. It is located at Minneapolis.

MISSISSIPPI

Population 1,961,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, JACKSON

Mississippi is bounded on the north by Tennessee, east by Alabama, south by the Gulf of Mexico and Louisiana and west by the Mississippi River, which separates it from Louisiana and Arkansas. Its extreme length from north to south is 332 miles; average breadth, 142 miles. Its land area is 46,362 square miles; rank in area (1930), thirty-first.

The surface is generally hilly except in the Mississippi bottom, from Vicksburg to the Tennessee line and between the Mississippi and Yazoo Rivers, where it is low and swampy, subject to inundation and covered with a dense growth of timber. Below Vicksburg the surface for some miles inland is hilly and known as the "cane hills" or "bluffs" and has a generally productive soil. There is a particularly fertile prairie region in the northeast where one of the chief products, alfalfa, produces from three to five heavy crops each year. The southern part is chiefly a level pine region and furnishes good pasturage and quantities of timber, tar and turpentine. The soil of this tract, although sandy, is with fertilization, particularly adapted to truck farming. The forest wealth of the state is extensive and it ranks second among the states as a producer of cotton. The climate and production are sub-tropical. The Weather Bureau at Vicksburg gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 65.6; highest degree on record, 104; lowest, —1. Total annual precipitation, 51.93 inches.

Plantation life, reminiscent of the past, still prevails in this primarily agricultural state. Transportation is supplied by rail lines and the Mississippi River. The University of Mississippi, the largest institution of higher education in the State, is located at University (Oxford).

State Capital, JEFFERSON CITY

Missouri is bounded on the north by Iowa, east by Illinois, Kentucky and Tennessee, south by Arkansas, west by Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska. Its length, north to south, is 277 miles; its average breadth about 244 miles, ranging from 208 miles in the north to 312 miles in the south. Its land area is 68,727 square miles; rank in area (1930), eighteenth.

The Missouri River flows across the state from west to east just north of the center. The surface north of the river is generally level, while that south of it is undulating, becoming rougher as it approaches the Ozark Mountains. There are also open, treeless plains, an extension of those in Kansas; and in the southeast, bordering on the Mississippi River, there is an extensive marshy tract called the "Sunk Country," the result of the earthquake of 1811-12. Plans have been made to reclaim the lands along the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers and their tributaries by levees along the great rivers and by drainage canals in the valleys of the smaller ones. The climate varies from north temperate to sub-tropical.

With about 500 miles of waterfront on the Mississippi and with the Missouri traversing it from west to east, the state has fully 1,000 miles of navigable waterways. St. Louis is a center for travel and for extensive freight traffic carried on both by rail and by river, the famous bridge across the Mississippi accommodating more freight cars than any other span in the world. Twenty-one trunk lines afford rail transportation. The city is the gateway for north and south tourist travel as well as freight traffic. The stock yards and meat-packing plants at Kansas City have gained world-wide fame. The Bagnell Dam across the Osage River in the Ozarks forms one of the largest artificial lakes in the world and floods about 60,000 acres. It is part of an enormous hydro-electrical development designed to supply power to St. Louis, Kansas City and elsewhere.

Educationally the state ranks exceedingly high. In addition to the University of Missouri, at Columbia, it has fourteen colleges and universities, besides many professional and technological schools and teachers' colleges.

MONTANA

Population 531,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, HELENA

Montana is bounded north by Saskatchewan and Alberta, Canada, east by North and South Dakota, south by Wyoming and Idaho and west by Idaho. Its length, east to west, is about 540 miles; breadth, about 280 miles; land area, 146,131 square miles, including 240 square miles of Yellowstone National Park, rank in area (1930), third.

The Rocky Mountains occupy the western two-fifths of the state's area; east of them the country forms part of the "Great Plains." The Missouri River is navigable for steamboats as far as Fort Benton. The Yellowstone River is navigable during high water. The lowest altitude is 1,800 feet above sea level, while Granite Peak in Carbon county reaches a height of 12,350 feet. The climate is dry, healthful and invigorating. The Weather Bureau at Helena gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 43.3; highest on record, 103; lowest on record, —42; total annual precipitation as 13.63 inches. Irrigation has been highly developed, and immense reservoirs on the Madison and Missouri Rivers are sources of water supply. As a result, standard fruits of the Temperate Zone have been produced in large quantities.

Montana, with its vast expanse of mountain country, its 500 lakes and fishing streams, its thousands of miles of winding mountain roads, its national forests, dude ranches, mountain hotels and tourist camp resorts, affords unequalled recreational advantages. The state is fast improving its national highways. Glacier National Park, extending to the Canadian border line, is one of the most wonderful public parks in the world. Among the State's major educational institutions are The University of Montana, at Missoula, three colleges, professional and technological schools and normals.

NEBRASKA

Population 1,364,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, LINCOLN

Nebraska is bounded north by South Dakota, east by Iowa and Missouri, south by Kansas and Colorado and west by Colorado and Wyoming. Its width from north to south is about 210 miles; its length about 420 miles; land area, 76,808 square miles; rank in area (1930), fifteenth.

The surface is generally a vast, gently undulating plain, with a gradual ascent toward the mountains in the west; the river bottoms are level. There are some bluffs along the Missouri River, some hills in the northwest, a small part of this region being occupied by the Mauvais Terres or Bad Lands. The state is well watered, three large rivers, the Niobrara, the Platte and the Big Blue drain eastward into the Missouri which flows for 500 miles along the eastern border. Only the Missouri is navigable. East of the Bad Lands and south of the Niobrara there is a tract called the Sand Hills region, 15,000 square miles in area, the valleys of which produce an abundance of corn and wheat, while the rest of the country is used for cattle. Nebraska was once practically treeless, but more than two billion trees have been planted by state and national government. The soil is very fertile. The climate is dry and healthful and there is an abundance of sunshine. The Weather Bureau at Omaha gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 50.6; highest on record, 111; lowest on record, -32. Total annual precipitation, 27.77 inches.

Omaha is a great railway and meat-packing center, and the state's largest city. The University of Nebraska, its largest institution of higher education, is located at Lincoln.

NEVADA

Population 99,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, CARSON CITY

Nevada is bounded on the north by Oregon and Idaho, east by Utah and Arizona and southwest and west by California. Its extreme length from north to south is 485 miles in the eastern, and 210 miles in the western, boundary; greatest breadth 320 miles, decreasing to 310 miles in the north and to a point in the south. Its land area is 109,821 square miles; rank in area (1930), sixth.

The surface generally is desert land and averages 5,500 feet above the sea. It is traversed by nearly parallel mountain ranges, between which are valleys varying in width from 5 to 20 miles. The highest point is Boundary Peak, in Esmeralda county, about 13,145 feet; the lowest is along the Colorado River in Clark county, 470 feet above sea level. The mountains have produced more than a billion dollars of mineral wealth. The Weather Bureau at Reno gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 49.8; highest on record, 102; lowest on record, —19. Total annual precipitation is 7.63 inches. Irrigation has helped the state greatly in productivity.

Boulder Dam, in the Black Canyon of the Colorado River, is the highest dam in the world and was completed March 1, 1936. The purposes of construction were irrigation, flood control, water storage, silt control and power development. It has attracted wide attention and many visitors. The University of Nevada, established in 1864, is located at Reno.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

Population 502,000 (U. S. Estimated 1935)

State Capital, CONCORD

New Hampshire is bounded on the north by Quebec, Canada, east by Maine and the Atlantic Ocean, south by Massachusetts and west by Vermont. Its length is 180 miles from north to south; its average breadth, 50 miles; land area, 9,031 square miles; rank in area (1930), forty-third.

Most of the state, except the southeastern part, has a rough and hilly surface. The White Mountains, in the north, reach altitudes of more than 6,000 feet. The state is generally well wooded, and toward the sea becomes more level. This latter section is agricultural and industrial, river water power being utilized. The valley of the Connecticut is famed for the beauty of its farms and villages. The Weather Bureau at Concord gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 45.4; highest on record, 102; lowest on record, —23. Total annual precipitation is 37.51 inches. The state has an almost ideal summer climate, especially in the central and eastern portion and the scenery throughout is noted for its beauty, that in the White Mountain district being unsurpassed in all the eastern states. Large numbers of tourists are attracted yearly, and visitors from many parts of the county spend the summer months here.

The most outstanding of the state's educational institutions are Dartmouth College, at Hanover, and the University of New Hampshire, at Durham.

NEW JERSEY

Population 4,288,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, TRENTON

New Jersey is bounded on the north and northeast by New York, east by New York and the Atlantic Ocean, south by the Atlantic Ocean and Delaware Bay, and west by Delaware and Pennsylvania. Its extreme length is 167 miles; its average breadth, 50 miles; land area, 7,514 square miles; rank in area (1930), forty-fifth.

The surface is mountainous in the northwest, hilly in the northern and central parts, low and gently undulating in the south. The mountains, a part of the Appalachian system, are the Kittatinny or Blue and the Highland Range. Between them lies the productive Kittatinny Valley, about 10 miles wide. The central part of the state is the most thickly settled and is a vast market garden for New York City and Philadelphia. The truck crops raised here are of a quality not surpassed anywhere. The Weather Bureau at Atlantic City gives the temperature for the state (annual monthly mean) as 52.3, highest on record, 104; lowest on record, —7. Total annual precipitation is 40.56 inches.

Newark, the metropolis, has a population of 442,337 and its manufacturing industries are said to be more important in proportion to population than those of any other city in the United States. Jersey City, Hoboken, New Brunswick, Trenton and Camden are all seats of numerous manufacturing industries, their factories producing almost every kind of manufactured goods.

The state is well provided with marine transportation, as three-fourths of its border is on navigable waters. It shares with New York the Port of New York Authority; with Pennsylvania in the Delaware River Joint Commission. Its coast trade is extensive and its railway facilities highly developed. Its shore resorts are many, and the beaches, the finest in the country; of them Atlantic City is world-famed. Of the state's many colleges, three are outstanding: Princeton University, at Princeton; Rutgers College, at New Brunswick, and Stevens Institute of Technology, at Hoboken.

POPULATION

Rank among the states, ninth. Urban population (1930), 82.6%. Of the 3,829,209 white persons, 844,442 are foreign born: 151,118 from the British Isles; Italians, 190,858; Germans, 112,753; Poles, 102,573; Scandinavians, 27,895. The Negro population is 5.20%.

NEW MEXICO

Population 402,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, SANTA FE

New Mexico is bounded on the north by Colorado, east by Oklahoma and Texas, south by Texas and Mexico and west by Arizona; greatest length, north to south, 390 miles; average width, 335 miles; land area, 122,503 square miles; rank in area (1930), fourth.

Its general surface is a region of desert plateaus, traversed by the Rocky Mountains. The valleys are generally nearly level and their soil fertile. In the southeast is a part of the "Llano Estacado" or "Stake Plain." Some of this region is being brought into use under the modern systems of "dry farming" for arid and semi-arid lands. The central western portion is drained by the Rio Grande; the eastern districts by the Pecos River. The state's average height above sea level is 5,700 feet; lowest elevation, 2,876 feet. The Weather Bureau at Santa Fe gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 48.8; highest on record, 97; lowest on record, —13. Total annual precipitation is 14.27 inches.

The state is becoming more and more popular as a health, tourist and artist resort. Santa Fe, Las Vegas and Albuquerque, provided with modern travel facilities, receive many visitors. The relics that remain from an ancient Indian civilization, including the 18 Indian pueblos, are of particular interest. Carlsbad Caverns, made a national park in 1930, and comprising 35 miles of caves and corridors, also offer attraction.

There were in the state in 1930, 28,941 Indians on reservations. The Mexican population is 59,340. Notable among the state's educational institutions are: The University of New Mexico, located at Albuquerque; The College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, at State College; The School of Mines, at Socorro.

POPULATION

NEW YORK

Population 12,889,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, ALBANY

New York is bounded on the north and northwest by Lake Ontario and the provinces of Ontario and Quebec, Canada, east by Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, and the Atlantic Ocean, south by the Atlantic Ocean, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and west and northwest by Pennsylvania and Lake Erie. Its greatest length from north to south is 312 miles; its greatest breadth, 412 miles; land area, 47,654 square miles; rank in area (1930), twenty-ninth. The Weather Bureau at Buffalo gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 47.0; highest on record, 95; lowest on record, -14. Total annual precipitation is 36 inches.

The surface is exceedingly diversified and most of the soil very fertile, so that the state produces nearly every kind of fruit, vegetable, grain, and forage crop that can be grown in the temperate zone.

New York ranks first of all the states in manufacturing, in number of wage earners as well as value of products. New York City is the great commercial metropolis of the United States. Buffalo is the greatest grain distributing point in the country and the leading flour milling center of the world.

Transportation facilities are of the best. Railroads penetrate everywhere, and the state has about 800 miles of navigable ocean, lake, and river waterways. The Barge Canal, which is mainly the historic Erie Canal, connects the Great Lakes with the Hudson River, the main canal running from the Niagara River to the Hudson River at Troy, with branches to Lake Ontario at Oswego, and from the Hudson to Lake Champlain at Whitehall. Other branches connect through Lake Cayuga with Ithaca, and with Geneva on Lake Seneca. The canal permits vessels of 2,500 tons to pass, without transferring cargo, from any of the lake ports to the ocean.

The Adirondack in the north and the Catskill Mountains in the east attract hundreds of thousands of tourists and campers; there are many yacht clubs along the shores of Long Island Sound, and the ocean beaches are popular. Niagara Falls, near Buffalo, attracts 1,000,000 visitors a year. New York has sixty-five state parks in which are many points of natural beauty and interest, and much of the surface of the state is dotted by small lakes which make popular summer resorts. Saratoga Springs is a fashionable watering place and has a famous track for horse racing. It has been developed into a modern and elaborately equipped Spa.

The state's highly developed and closely integrated system of primary and secondary education is under the control of the Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York. Some of the most famous colleges and universities in the country are in New York State, including three with more than 20,000 students in the city of New York: Columbia University, New York University and the College of the City of New York. The Military Academy of the United States Army, in a location famed for beauty, is on the Hudson River above New York City at West Point.

NEW YORK † (H17&N17), pop. 6,930,446; New York Co. (SE) and Bronx Co. (SE). The city is divided into five boroughs: Manhattan, 1,867,312; Bronx, 1,265,258; Brooklyn, 2,560,401; Queens, 1,079,129; Richmond, 153,346. (Of this population 33.1 per cent are foreign born white.) On Manhattan Island at mouth of Hudson River and on Long Island Sound, East River and New York Bay. Terminal of 13 important railroads, including the NYC; PA; NYNH&H; LV; ERIE; CNJ; LI; NJ&NY; NYS&W; SIRT; B&O; DL&W; NYO&W; WS, and of the State Barge Canal. Thirteen airports. The commercial and financial metropolis of the United States. 151 banks. Federal Reserve Bank. Bank clearings (1937), $186,737,777,000; deposits (Dec. 31, 1937), $15,439,232,000. One of the finest harbors in the world. The foreign commerce of New York comprises almost half the entire import and export trade of the nation and is the heaviest in the world. Its domestic commerce is also great. About ten per cent of the nation's products are manufactured in the New York City industrial area: the five boroughs, Westchester County and six counties in New Jersey. Some of the most important industries are clothing and accessories, foods and beverages, printing and publishing, metal and machine shop products, chemicals, paints and allied lines, textiles and textile products. Many of the country's largest publishing houses are located here. Its electric meters number 2,579,929; gas (artif.) meters, 2,360,427; telephones, 1,626,350. Among its many colleges and professional schools are New York University; Columbia University; Fordham University; Hunter College, and Manhattan College. It has a wealth of museums, is noted as an art center, numbers its theatres at about 600. New York and Bronx Boroughs are served by the New York post office and only the publications in these two boroughs are listed here. Publications in Brooklyn Borough are entered at the Brooklyn post office and will be found under Brooklyn. There are numerous post offices in Queens Borough and the publications issued therein will be found under their respective post offices. Richmond Borough publications are served by the Staten Island post office and will be found under Staten Island.

NORTH CAROLINA

Population 3,417,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, RALEIGH

North Carolina is bounded on the north by Virginia, east and southeast by the Atlantic Ocean, south by South Carolina and Georgia, and west by Tennessee. Its extreme length from east to west is 490 miles; extreme breadth, 185 miles; land area, 48,740 square miles; rank in area (1930), twenty-seventh.

The surface is varied. For nearly 100 miles inland from the coast the country is level, marshy, and swampy; the soil is sandy but very fertile, well adapted to the growing of cotton, corn, apples, peaches and pears. It is estimated that there are nearly 3,000,000 acres of swamps in this region, which is known as the "Tidewater" section. Next is the middle or "Coastal Plain" section, with varied surface and fine soil. West of this is the "Piedmont" section, a fine farming region producing North Carolina's staples, cotton and tobacco, in abundance, as well as large crops of wheat and other grain. It is a land of fertile valleys and gently sloping hills, which gradually increase in altitude until they reach the mountain region in the west.

Some of the peaks in the Black Mountains and the Blue Ridge form the highest land east of the Rocky Mountains. Mt. Mitchell, the highest, is 6,684 feet. This region contains good grazing land, and much timber. The scenery is remarkably beautiful, and the climate mild. There are many islands off the northern coast and the many inlets along the shores provide a favorite resort for hunters. The Weather Bureau at Asheville gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 55.1; highest on record, 96; lowest on record, -6; total annual precipitation, 40.28 inches. With such a climate the state is a popular health and pleasure resort. Asheville is the chief resort and is the eastern gateway to the New Great Smoky Mountains National Park. The Pinehurst golf course is one of the most famous in the country.

The State University is located at Chapel Hill, Duke University, at Durham, and the North Carolina State College of Agriculture and Engineering, at Raleigh.

NORTH DAKOTA

Population 700,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, BISMARCK

North Dakota is bounded on the north by Manitoba and Saskatchewan, Canada, south by South Dakota, east by Minnesota, and west by Montana. Its length, east to west, is about 355 miles; width, about 200 miles. Land area is 70,183 miles; rank in area (1930), sixteenth.

The Missouri River, in the southeastern part of the state, furnishes navigation for boats of from three to six hundred tons burden. The Red River, in the northeast, drains on its eastern border the great wheat valley where a premium grade of the cereal is grown. The Missouri River and all small streams and lakes are lined with timber.

That portion of the state east of the Missouri River is mostly rolling prairie. The soil on the Missouri slope is a black, sandy loam, with clay subsoil; while in the Red River valley it is a vegetable deposit of unsurpassed richness. West of the Missouri River the surface is more broken, with stretches of excellent farming and grazing lands along the line of the Northern Pacific Railroad. In the north is a group of hills of moderate elevation, known as the Turtle Mountains. In the southwest is a district of eroded clay hills, called the "Bad Lands," generally a good grazing region.

Although great extremes in temperature are recorded, the climate is healthful and the soil productive. The Weather Bureau at Bismarck gives the annual monthly mean temperature as 40.5; highest on record, 108; lowest, —45. The total annual precipitation is 16.34 inches, not a great amount, but sufficient in ordinary years.

Among the recreational attractions of the state is the hunting for big game in the west and for game birds on the prairies (especially the prairie chicken), and geese and ducks with which the streams abound.

The University of North Dakota at Grand Forks, and the North Dakota Agricultural College at Fargo, are the leading collegiate institutions of the state.

OHIO

Population 6,707,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, COLUMBUS

Ohio is bounded on the north by Michigan and Lake Erie, east by Pennsylvania and West Virginia, south by West Virginia and Kentucky, and west by Indiana. Its greatest extent from east to west is 225 miles, from north to south, 200 miles. Its land area is 40,740 square miles, of which less than 700 square miles are waste land; rank in area (1930), thirty-fifth.

The general character of the surface is that of a plateau about 800 to 1,000 feet above sea level. The most prominent feature is the divide which separates the drainage of Lake Erie from that of the Ohio River. This passes diagonally across the state from Trumbull County in the northeast to Mercer and Darke counties in the west. Its average height is about 600 feet above the lake. Deep valleys cut by rivers and streams give the whole state a distinctively undulating surface. The soil is everywhere fertile and the state ranks high in all branches of agriculture.

Ohio has navigable waterways for the 430 miles of the Ohio, the 230 miles of lake frontage, and for 100 miles up the Muskingum River in the southeast. Rail transportation, also, is heavy in all directions. The state ranks first in the Union for production of lime. The port of Cleveland on Lake Erie is the heaviest handler of ore in the world.

One of the interesting features of Ohio has been its political life. It is regarded as a pivotal state in many elections, and has given the United States five Presidents. Some of its institutions of higher education are Ohio State University at Columbus; Western Reserve at Cleveland; Cincinnati University at Cincinnati; Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware; Oberlin at Oberlin.

The Weather Bureau at Columbus gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 52.2; highest on record, 104; lowest on record, —20; total annual precipitation, 36.34 inches.

POPULATION

Rank among the states, fourth. Urban population (1930), 67.8%. Of the 6,331,136 white persons, 644,151 are foreign born: 88,331 from the British Isles; Germans, 95,697; Italians, 71,496; Czechoslovakians, 68,738; Scandinavians, 11,224. The Negro population is about 5%.

OKLAHOMA

Population 2,509,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, OKLAHOMA CITY

Oklahoma is bounded on the north by Kansas, east by Arkansas and Missouri, south and west by Texas. It is over 300 miles in length from east to west, and in width from north to south averages about 160 miles. Its land area is 69,414 square miles; rank in area (1930), seventeenth.

The surface is a vast, rolling plain, treeless in the west, but rising in the east to the Chautauqua, Wichita, and Ozark Mountains, which are heavily wooded. The Arkansas and Red Rivers are navigable for boats of light draft for some distance into the state. The prevailing type of soil is a deep, dark red loam. The climate is variable and the rainfall in the west is scanty, though it is generally sufficient in the east. Dry farming is extensively practiced in the western section. The Weather Bureau at Oklahoma City gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 59.4; highest on record, 108; lowest on record, —17. The total annual precipitation is 31.15 inches.

The Indian Territory, which was combined with Oklahoma Territory to form the state, was the home of the Cherokee, Creek, Choctaw, Chickasaw and Seminole Indians. Their descendants in 1930 numbered 92,725, according to the census, and their holdings in land were 19,551,890 acres of land, valued at $320,496,333, or nearly a third of the total.

The development of petroleum in the state dates from about the beginning of the century. In 1927 Oklahoma ranked as the first producer of oil in the country; in 1933 only Texas and California ranked higher, Oklahoma occupying third place.

Among the institutions of higher education in the state are the University of Oklahoma, located at Norman, and the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College at Stillwater.

POPULATION

Rank among the states, twenty-first. Rural population (1930), 65.7%. Of the 2,123,424 white persons, 26,753 are foreign born: 3,152 from the British Isles; Germans, 5,893; Russians, 3,613. Indians number 92,725; Mexicans, 7,354. The Negro population is 7.2%.
