OREGON

Population 1,008,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, SALEM

Oregon is bounded on the north by Washington, east by Idaho, south by Nevada and California, and west by the Pacific Ocean. Its average length from east to west is about 300 miles; average breadth, about 260 miles; land area, 95,607 square miles; rank in area (1930), ninth.

It is divided unequally by the Cascade Mountains. East of this range the surface is generally undulating table land, with high, cone-like hills and deep canyons. Between the Cascade and Coast ranges is the Willamette valley, 60 miles wide by 150 miles long and exceedingly fertile; from the coast range westward the surface is mountainous, hilly, and broken. Dairying, wool growing, stock raising, and the growing of fliberts, winter wheat, barley, oats, and hay all flourish. The state has every character of climate, soil and production known to the temperate zone.

The fruit industry is among the most important in the country, particularly the apples, which are shipped to eastern markets. Prune growing and drying is also an important industry. The Weather Bureau at Portland gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 53.1; highest on record, 104; lowest on record, -2; total annual precipitation, 41.62 inches.

Several irrigation projects have been started in the stretches of semi-arid lands in the southeast. The Owyhee Dam, one of the highest in the world (530 feet from bedrock), is the key of a great reclamation project to cost $18,000,000, and provide water for 123,000 acres near the Idaho line.

The Columbia River, on the north, carries tonnage along the whole of its 400 miles from the Idaho line, and flows into the Pacific with a width of fourteen miles at its mouth, making one of the finest harbors in the world. The Snake River, on the east, also conveys much traffic. The salmon fisheries at Astoria at the mouth of the Columbia are among the world's greatest.

Oregon has almost half of more than one trillion feet of timber standing in the three coast states, Oregon, Washington, and California. For timber cut it ranks second only to Washington. Its great Columbia Highway, unexcelled for scenic beauty, Mt. Hood, and the unique Crater Lake, are points of tourist interest. The State University is located at Eugene; the State Agricultural College at Corvallis.

PENNSYLVANIA

Population 10,066,000 (U. S. Estimate, 1935)

State Capital, HARRISBURG

Pennsylvania is bounded on the north by New York and Lake Erie, east by New York and New Jersey, south by Delaware, Maryland, and West Virginia, and west by West Virginia and Ohio. Its greatest length from east to west is about 302 miles; its greatest breadth about 175 miles. Its land area is 44,832 square miles; rank in area (1930), thirty-second.

The surface is varied, chiefly level and slightly undulating in the east and northwest, mountainous in the interior. The Appalachian range traverses the state from northeast to southwest. In these mountains are many of the state's popular summer and health resorts. The Susquehanna, Delaware, Alleghany and Monongahela are rivers important in drainage and navigation.

Philadelphia is one of the principal ports for foreign and coastwise trade, one of the most important manufacturing cities, and, with Chester, one of the chief ship-building stations. Erie and Pittsburgh are also great commercial centers. Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, Reading and Scranton are the chief centers of iron manufacture, and Scranton is the greatest hard coal center of the country. The state produces nearly half of the steel in the country, shipping it to all parts of the world.

There is a wide diversification of agriculture in the state, the principal agricultural counties being Lancaster, York, Chester and Berks. Lancaster and York counties are the principal tobacco raising localities, Lancaster county probably producing more of it than any other county in the United States.

The Weather Bureau at Pittsburgh gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 52.8; highest on record, 103; lowest on record, —20; total annual precipitation, 36.17 inches.

In educational facilities the state ranks high, many of the important colleges and universities of the east being located here. They include the University of Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia; University of Pittsburgh and Carnegie Institute of Technology, both at Pittsburgh; State College, at State College; and Bryn Mawr, at Bryn Mawr.

POPULATION

Rank among the states, second. Urban population (1930), 67.8%. Of the 9,192,602 white persons, 1,233,051 are foreign born: 228,903 from the British Isles; Poles, 166,672; Russians, 115,792; Italians, 225,979; Germans, 110,622; Austrians, 49,692. The Negro population is 4.5%.

PHILADELPHIA † (L10), pop. 1,950,961; Philadelphia Co. (SE). Located on W bank of Delaware River at mouth of Schuylkill River. About 60 m from ocean and 87 m SW of New York. B&O; PA; READ RRs. Seven airports. It is the third largest manufacturing and wholesale distributing center and the second largest port in the United States. A Belt Line RR. connecting with the 267 wharves, 41 railroad piers and 8 municipal piers, in conjunction with the facilities of the railroads, makes it possible to transfer freight from any railroad point in the country direct to any steamship wharf in the city and vice versa. There were in 1936, 5,505 manufacturing establishments producing products valued at $1,371,845,500. The more important are the petroleum and cane sugar refineries; textile mills; printing and publishing houses; clothing and worsted goods factories; foundries and machine shops; meat packing plants; paper mills; fruit and vegetable canneries; cigar factories; tanneries; textile dyeing and finishing plants. A large percentage of the Building and Loan Associations in the country are located here. Philadelphia is noted for its places of historical interest, the largest municipal park in the country, residential suburbs with beautiful homes, and as a medical and educational center. Here are the University of Pennsylvania and many other higher institutions of learning including trade, business, art, medical and professional schools. A suspension bridge connects Philadelphia with Camden, New Jersey, and the seashore resorts. Fifty-two banks. Federal Reserve Bank. Bank clearings (1937), $1,643,000,000; deposits (9-30-37), $1,973,783,392. 499,953 electric (AC) meters; 478,110 gas (artif.) meters; 364,615 telephones.

PHILIPPINE ISLANDS

Population 12,082,366 (U. S. Census 1930)

Capital, MANILA

The Philippine Islands are an important group of islands in the Malay Archipelago, lying mainly between 19° and 38° north latitude and 117° and 126° east longitude. They number 7,083 and extend 1,152 miles from north to south, 682 miles from east to west. Of them 462 have an area of one square mile or over; 2,441 are named and 4,642 unnamed.

The port of Manila offers the finest harbor in the entire Far East. Other ports of entry are Cebu, Iloilo, Zamboanga, Jolo, Legaspi and Davao, and there are about 200 ports of call for inter-island vessels. The larger islands are mountainous with altitudes rising in places to more than 10,000 feet. Rainfall is abundant throughout the archipelago, varying from 60 inches in the driest district to 157 in the wettest. There are three seasons: the most agreeable, from November to March; the hot and dry season from March to July; the rainy, from July to November.

Since November 15, 1935, the government of the Islands has been a quasi-independent one with an elected Filipino president, a unicameral legislature and elected Filipino officials. Complete independence will date from 1945; until that time the United States maintains an advisory commissioner at Manila and directs the foreign affairs of the country.

POPULATION

Ninety-nine per cent of the population is native; the remaining percentage is made up of: Chinese, Japanese, Americans, Spaniards, Britons, Germans, French and Swiss. The American population is mostly centered in Manila. Although eight distinct languages and 87 dialects are spoken, English is used more extensively than all of these together.

AGRICULTURE

About 46,000,000 acres, or 65% of the total area of the Islands, are suitable for cultivation, but only about 10,000,000 acres were cultivated in 1937. More than half this area is on the island of Luzon; about one-third on the Visayan Islands. The total agricultural production in 1933 was valued at $142,345,000. Sugar cane is the leading product, with the value of the product sent to the United States in 1937, $57,706,193. Other crops with a value of more than $1,000,000 were: coconuts, copra, abaca or hemp, tobacco, bananas, mangoes, palay or rough rice, and corn.

FORESTS

Practically all of the forest land is in forest reserves under the control of the Bureau of Forestry of the Philippines. The reserves have a total area of 59,500 square miles; less than one per cent of the forest lands are privately controlled. There are 40,000 square miles of virgin forest. Lumber and timber exported in 1933 amounted to $1,268,607.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS

The principal manufacturing industries are those connected with coconut products, hemp, tobacco products and liquor. Exports from the Islands in 1937 amounted to $166,960,697. The leading products shipped were: sugar, both raw and refined, $57,706,193; coconut oil, $20,463,401; copra and copra meal, $18,900,000; hemp, $21,600,000; embroideries, $3,700,000; desiccated and shredded coconut, $6,350,000; cigars, $3,070,000; lumber, $1,980,000; cordage, $1,436,000.

Principal imports in the same period, valued at $109,000,000, were: cotton goods, $15,200,000; iron and steel, except machinery, $11,650,000; machinery, including electrical, $7,322,000; oils, crude, illuminating, lubricating, etc., $4,482,473; automobiles, accessories and tires, $5,704,068; tobacco and its manufactures (preponderantly American cigarettes), $3,670,000; gasoline, $2,477,000; dairy products, $3,719,373; wheat flour, $4,102,000; chemicals, dyes and drugs, $2,851,042; silk goods, $2,882,204; paper goods, except books, $2,216,000.

MINERALS

During the year 1937 gold valued at $25,636,543 was produced. Gold production and the future of the gold mining industry is of increasing importance in the Islands. Exploration and mining of gold and other metals is being pushed and all indications point to record production in the near future. Silver, lead, copper, iron, asbestos, coal (lignite, bituminous and a little anthracite), natural gas and petroleum are mined, as well as clay, marble and salt. Two valuable deposits of manganese are now being worked and arrangements have been made to market the product in the United States. The Islands are rich in mineral resources, but these have not yet been greatly developed.

MISCELLANEOUS

The number of telephones in 1937 was 25,451; automobiles and trucks registered, 45,775. Radio receiving sets licensed in 1937, 32,800; number of post offices, 1,023.

The largest of the institutions of higher education are: The University of the Philippines, with an enrollment of nearly 7,000 students, located at Manila, and, in the same city, The Philippine Normal School. The University of Santo Tomas, at Manila, is the oldest university under the American flag.

PUERTO RICO

Population, 1,668,900 (U. S. Estimate, 1935)

Capital, SAN JUAN

Puerto Rico lies between 65° and 70° west longitude and 10° and 18° north latitude, 75 miles east of the island of Haiti and 1,400 miles southeast of New York. It is 95 miles long and 35 miles wide, has an area of 3,400 square miles, approximately that of Delaware and Rhode Island together, and a coast line of about 345 miles. The territory includes also a number of smaller islands, among them Vicques Island and Culebra Island, both east of Puerto Rico, and Mona Island, fifty miles west.

The island of Puerto Rico is traversed by a mountain range from east to west, with altitudes from 1,500 to 4,398 feet, cultivable to the summits. The climate is mild and healthful, with an annual mean temperature of 76°. Rainfall averages 77.30 inches.

There are two good harbors: San Juan on the north coast, Ponce on the south.

POPULATION

The average number of inhabitants to the square mile in 1935 was 506.8, a density of population exceeded only by Rhode Island, Massachusetts and New Jersey, among the states. White persons numbered 1,312,496, of which 5,316 were foreign born, 2,564 being Spanish; inhabitants of other races numbered 411,038. Rural residents made up about 67% of the population.

AGRICULTURE

The soil is remarkably fertile, the chief industry agriculture, and the land largely under cultivation. Sugar is first in importance among the crops, and the sugar industry employs about half the total number of persons engaged in manufacturing establishments. Other leading products are: tobacco, coffee, grapefruit, oranges and pineapples. In the southern portion irrigation is needed, water being supplied by an irrigation system constructed by the Government.

The census of 1935 showed 1,913,047 acres of land in 52,790 farms; 1,483,683 acres improved; 217,243 acres, woodland. Chickens numbered 684,448; cattle, 284,866; swine, 113,431; goats, 57,043; horses, 42,908; bees, 23,432 colonies.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS

The trade of Puerto Rico is carried on chiefly with the United States. In 1937, the Island was the United States' fourth customer in Latin America, and its eleventh customer in the entire world. Exports to this country in 1937-38 were valued at $79,808,113; imports at $84,987,994. Exports to other countries totaled $2,244,228 and imports $8,326,789.

Imports from the United States in 1937-1938 were principally textiles, $14,767,219; grains and preparations, $10,942,706; iron and steel manufactures, $5,808,846; meat products, $3,686,818; leather materials and manufactures, $3,431,383; tobacco and manufactures, $3,411,807; animal oils and fats, $3,185,342; vegetables and preparations, $3,172,511; automobiles and other vehicles, $3,023,713; wood and manufactures, $3,010,527; petroleum and products, $2,891,866; industrial machinery, $2,621,301; fertilizer and fertilizer materials, $2,353,319; electrical machinery and apparatus, $2,144,308; paper and manufactures, $1,747,736; soap and toilet preparations, $1,648,204; dairy products, $1,527,760; rubber and manufactures, $1,082,800.

Of the exports the value of all sugar was $50,144,811; of cotton manufactures, $9,784,201; leaf tobacco, $7,678,666; rum, $3,106,279; molasses, $1,215,826; pineapples, fresh and prepared, $1,103,162.

MISCELLANEOUS

Great improvements in the economic and social life of Puerto Rico have been made in the last decade. In 1937-38 there were about 463 miles of railroad and 1,363 miles of surfaced highways. Automobile registrations totaled 21,950 in 1937-38 and all automobiles, except one, were of American manufacture. Close to one hundred per cent of all communities of more than one thousand inhabitants are reached by electric power, now available in all sections of the country. In 1937-38, 2,732 vessels with a total gross tonnage of 10,157,462 entered the ports. Number of post offices (1936-37), 97; gross postal receipts, $660,644.

Education is free and compulsory between the ages of 8 and 14. Illiteracy has been lowered to 35.1%. The University of Puerto Rico, located at Rio Piedras, had an enrolment of 5,389 students in 1937-38. English and Spanish are spoken.

RHODE ISLAND

Population 681,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, PROVIDENCE

Rhode Island is bounded on the north and east by Massachusetts, south by the Atlantic Ocean, and west by Connecticut. Its extreme length from north to south is 47 1/2 miles; extreme breadth, 40 miles; land area, 1,067 square miles; rank in area (1930), forty-eighth.

The surface is mostly rough, hilly, and stony. There are no mountains and few hills of any altitude. Nearly one-fourth of the state is woodland. The Weather Bureau at Providence gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 49.8; highest on record, 100; lowest on record, —12. Total annual precipitation is 39.19 inches.

Newport, on Narragansett Bay, is one of the most famous of America's watering places and is noted for the palatial homes built there by wealthy patrons. Rhode Island's state college, located at Kingston, and Brown University, at Providence, are important among the state's institutions of higher education.

Rhode Island has the largest per capita industrial output of all the states. It is more than ninety per cent urban, has the densest population of all the states, 550 persons to the square mile, and exerts influence out of all proportion to its size and population. Providence, the capital, Woonsocket and Pawtucket are the chief industrial centers. Nearly half the state's manufactures are devoted to textiles; the manufacture of jewelry is highly important as well. Providence is the center for heavy foreign and coastwise trade and passenger traffic, as well as a rail center.

POPULATION

Rank among the states, thirty-seventh. Urban population (1930), 92.4%. Of the 677,016 white persons, 170,714 are foreign born: 49,061 from the British Isles; Italians, 32,493; Canadians, 7,777; French Canadians, 31,501. Negroes number 9,913.

SOUTH CAROLINA

Population 2,012,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, COLUMBIA

South Carolina is bounded on the north and northeast by North Carolina, southeast by the Atlantic Ocean, west and southwest by Georgia. Its greatest length from east to west is about 275 miles, and its greatest width about 210 miles; land area, 30,495 square miles; rank in area (1930), thirty-ninth.

The surface presents nearly the same features as North Carolina, a wide sand belt along the coast, then a tract of sand hills, then rising land westward to the Blue Ridge Mountains. The highest peak, Table Mountain, is 4,000 feet above the sea. The climate in the western section is comparatively cool, the central part medium, and the coast warm and humid. The Weather Bureau at Charleston gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 66.0; highest on record, 104; lowest on record, 7. Total annual precipitation is 45.22 inches.

The coast is indented with several harbors, Charleston, the most important one, being a prominent coast-wise and foreign shipping point. Agriculture is the state's leading occupation, with cotton the principal money crop, followed by corn, tobacco, tame hay, oats, and sweet potatoes. The University of South Carolina at Columbia and Clemson Agricultural College, lead among the institutions of higher learning.

SOUTH DAKOTA

State Capital, PIERRE

South Dakota is bounded on the north by North Dakota, east by Minnesota and Iowa, south by Nebraska, and west by Montana and Wyoming. Its length, east to west, is nearly 360 miles; width, about 240 miles; its land area about 76,868 square miles; rank in area (1930) fourteenth.

The Missouri River, which drains most of the state, has depth enough for boats up to six hundred tons burden. East of the Missouri the state is mostly rolling prairie, and a succession of fertile valleys are highly productive in the growing of wheat, other grains and vegetables. West of the river the land is more broken, with rich mining and excellent grazing land in the southwestern or Black Hills region, a mountain district that is nearly 5,000 square miles in extent. It is largely forested and rich in mineral wealth.

A feature of the state is the large area in Indian reservations—the Rosebud, Cheyenne River, Pine Ridge, and the Lower Brule. In 1930 Indians numbered 21,833 and occupied 6,685,000 acres of land.

Another feature is the Mount Rushmore National Memorial, of which the first unit, a sixty-foot head of George Washington was unveiled in 1930. The second unit, the head of Thomas Jefferson, was unveiled in 1936 and the third, the head of Abraham Lincoln, was unveiled in September, 1937. The Memorial will include also the head of Theodore Roosevelt, now being carved, and a concise history of the nation. These are all on the face of Mount Rushmore (altitude, 6,200 feet).

The Harney and Black Hills National Forests cover 1,134,167 acres, nearly surrounding Custer State Park, containing Game Lodge where President Coolidge established the summer White House in 1927. The state university is located at Vermillion.

The Weather Bureau at Huron gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 43.6; highest on record, 108; lowest on record, —43; total annual precipitation, 20.65 inches.

POPULATION

Rank among the states, thirty-eighth. Rural population (1930), 81.1%. Of the 669,453 white persons, 65,648 are foreign born: 4,249 from the British Isles; Scandinavians, 24,899; Germans, 12,739; Russians, 9,023. Indians number 21,833.

TENNESSEE

Population 2,904,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, NASHVILLE

Tennessee is bounded on the north by Kentucky and Virginia, southeast by North Carolina, south by Georgia, Alabama, and Mississippi, west by Arkansas and Missouri. Its extent from east to west is 432 miles; north to south, 109 miles; land area, 41,687 square miles; rank in area (1930), thirty-fourth.

The state is popularly divided into East, Middle, and West Tennessee. East Tennessee, in the Great Smoky Mountains, comprises the eastern mountain border, the beautiful East Tennessee Valley, and about half of the Cumberland Mountain plateau. Here are produced corn, cotton, apples, peaches and winter wheat. Middle Tennessee reaches from about the center of the plateau to the Tennessee River, and is a region of fertile terraces, including the vast elliptical basin of nearly 5,000 square miles, known as the Garden of Kentucky. It yields excellent grain, tobacco, and much cotton. West Tennessee extends from the Tennessee River to the Mississippi, and is somewhat broken in the east, succeeded by a rolling plain descending to the latter river. It is extremely fertile, and produces good crops of cotton and corn.

The Weather Bureau at Nashville gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 59.3; highest on record, 106; lowest on record, —13; total annual precipitation, 47.20 inches.

The forests of the state are extensive, covering nearly 30,000 square miles.

The Tennessee Mountains are beautiful, and make delightful summer resorts. Lookout Mountain, site of a celebrated battle during the Civil War, is of particular interest at Chattanooga. Among the nine institutions of higher learning the University of Tennessee is located at Knoxville.

TEXAS

Population 6,077,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, AUSTIN

Texas, first in size among the states, is bounded on the north by New Mexico, Oklahoma and Arkansas, east by Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana, southeast by the Gulf of Mexico, southwest by Mexico, and west by New Mexico. Its greatest length is about 740 miles; greatest breadth, 625 miles; land area, 262,398 square miles; rank in area, first.

The surface is greatly diversified. From the Sabine River to the Trinity River extends the great timber region of Texas, generally level and sandy in the south, rolling and fertile in the north. From the Trinity to the Colorado is prairie, timbered along the streams, with extensive forests of live oak, extending through central and western Texas to the Red River, called the "Cross Timbers." Four-fifths of western Texas, between the Colorado and the Rio Grande, is prairies.

Between the Colorado and the Brazos Rivers are the Comanche and Leon River Mountain Ranges. In the north and northwest are the Church and Double Mountains, the surface rising gradually until the Lano Estacado, or Staked Plains, are reached. These arid mesas form a large portion of the section known as the "Panhandle," and the natural vegetation consists only of grass. There is some farming in this district, but the chief industry here and in the whole northwestern part of the state is stock raising. Between the Pecos and the Rio Grande are several ranges, sometimes as high as 5,000 feet. The Weather Bureau at San Antonio gives the temperature of the state (annual monthly mean) as 68.9; highest on record, 107; lowest on record, 4; total annual precipitation, 27.18 inches.

Almost every variety of plant grown in temperate and sub-tropical regions can be raised successfully in Texas. The principal crop, however, is cotton, its value amounting yearly to more than the rest of its crops together and more than the cotton crop of any other state.

Its mineral wealth is also great. Of chief importance is petroleum, which underlies vast areas of its surface. In recent years the annual output has averaged over 400,000,000 barrels. Oil refining forms the state's leading industry, followed by wholesale meat packing and the manufacture of cottonseed oil and meal. The gas wells in the Dallas-Fort Worth district are the chief source of helium supply in the country. Texas now leads in railroad mileage with a main line trackage of 16,683 in 1935.

Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College is located at College Station. The University of Texas at Austin is well known along lines of research, especially in geology. With the United States Geological Survey, it was responsible for the discovery of potash in an inland salt sea in the northwest.

Galveston is the chief seaport of the state. Houston, the converging point of 17 railroads, has also become a very important shipping center.

UTAH

Population 515,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, SALT LAKE CITY

Utah is bounded on the north by Idaho and Wyoming, east by Wyoming and Colorado, south by Arizona and west by Nevada. Its length, north to south, is about 350 miles, its width about 200 miles, land area 82,184 square miles, rank in area (1930), tenth.

Being in the Rocky Mountain region, Utah has a surface that is generally mountainous. It is, on an average, nearly 6,000 feet above sea level and much of it is a plateau broken by valleys and basins. The Wahsatch Mountains and the Uintahs divide the state into two portions, that lying to the north and west in the interior basin, from which there is no drainage, and that to the south and east which forms part of the scenic basin of the Colorado River. In the Uintah range some of the peaks rise to a height of 13,500 feet. Great Salt Lake, noted for its extraordinarily high percentage of salt, lies in the northwestern part of the state at an altitude of 4,218 feet and with an area of 2,360 square miles.

The climate is dry, stimulating and the weather exceptionally clear with cloudless skies 300 days a year. The Weather Bureau at Salt Lake City gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 51.6; highest on record 103, lowest on record —20. Total annual precipitation is 16.13 inches.

Mountains and grazing lands comprise about two-thirds of the state; the wooded area about 7,000,000 acres. Most of the latter is situated in the National Forests. The area of land under cultivation is relatively small; yet agriculture has become the state's chief source of wealth, gaining in recent years ascendancy over mining which formerly represented the greatest of the state's resources. Government reclamation projects have brought irrigation to nearly a million and a half acres, and "dry" farming has been practiced on land where rainfall is insufficient and irrigation not possible.

The mineral resources of Utah, which include every known mineral but platinum and radium, are highly valuable. Semi-precious stones are found in large quantities and high grade marble and onyx are quarried.

Three-fourths of all church members in Utah are Mormons or Latter Day Saints. This faith and the great Tabernacle in Salt Lake City are distinguishing features of Utah. Much of the early development of the state is due to the pioneering of the Mormons who fled to its religious security when it was little more than a wilderness. In Salt Lake City, also, is located the State University. Utah has two national parks of great scenic beauty: Zion and Bryce Canyon. The Great American Desert lies in the northwestern part of the state.

VERMONT

Population 377,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, MONTPELIER

Vermont is bounded on the north by Quebec, Canada, on the east by New Hampshire, south by Massachusetts, and west by New York. It is 143 miles long, from 40 to 85 miles wide, has a land area of 9,124 square miles and an area rank in 1930 of forty-second.

The Green Mountains, by whose name the state is so often called, traverse it from north to south, as do the Taconic Mountains. These are generally covered with forests but afford excellent pasturage, an important feature in Vermont, for here is found the highest per capita value of dairy products in the Union. In this state is found, too, the largest quantity of maple sugar, its millions of maple trees producing maple products that give it first rank in quantity and a reputation for quality. East and west of the central mountains lie beautiful stretches of countryside. The best soil is found in the valley lands of the Connecticut River and on the western slope of the mountains near Lake Champlain. This body of water stretches for a hundred and twenty miles along the state's west boundary, and its picturesqueness, along with the rugged mountains and many streams, attracts many visitors to Vermont annually who find it desirable as a summer residence region and an ideal vacation spot.

The chief mineral wealth of Vermont lies in its quarries. It leads all states in production of granite and marble.

The Weather Bureau at Northfield gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 41.4; highest on record, 98; lowest on record, — 41. Total annual precipitation is 33.84 inches.

The University of Vermont at Burlington and Middlebury College are the leading institutions of learning.

VIRGINIA

Population 2,637,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, RICHMOND

Virginia, the Old Dominion State, is bounded on the north by West Virginia and Maryland, east by Maryland and the Atlantic Ocean, south by North Carolina and Tennessee, and west by Kentucky and West Virginia. Its greatest length from east to west is about 440 miles, its greatest breadth 192 miles, land area 40,262 square miles, rank in area (1930), thirty-third.

The surface is divided into several natural divisions: the Tidewater, comprising the south and southeast, its soil yielding large crops of vegetables and small fruits; an extensive tableland in the center part rising to the mountains in the west; the Piedmont, the Blue Ridge and the Appalachian regions noted for their grasses; and the Shenandoah Valley region which has a rich fertile soil adapted to the growing of cereals, particularly corn, wheat, oats and rye. Both the Piedmont and Shenandoah areas are noted for the high quality and variety of their apple orchards. Nearly 19,000,000 bushels of apples were produced in 1937.

Much of the mountain region is uncultivated, being forested with a variety of trees. Among them are valuable hardwoods, and the export of lumber is large.

Of outstanding interest is Virginia's rich historical background. In the state are found the home of George Washington at Mt. Vernon, of Thomas Jefferson at Monticello, Arlington National Cemetery, Appomattox, and Old Surrender Field at Yorktown where Lord Cornwallis laid down his arms in 1781. Thousands of visitors are yearly attracted to these shrines and to Williamsburg, the colonial capital, that has recently been restored.

In Newport News is a large shipbuilding plant. In Hampton Roads the United States maintains a navy yard, and Fortress Monroe, between Chesapeake Bay and the James River, dominates the waterways.

The state has some noted as well as very old institutions of learning. Naming only a few, William and Mary College, second oldest in the country, founded in 1693, is located at Williamsburg, Washington and Lee University at Lexington and the University of Virginia, founded by Jefferson, at Charlottesville.

Among watering places, Virginia's Hot Springs is famous as a center of year-round social activity. The climate of the state varies with the topography, the Weather Bureau at Lynchburg giving the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 57.6; highest degree on record, 105; lowest, -6; total annual precipitation, 40.53 inches.

VIRGIN ISLANDS

Population 22,012 (U. S. Census 1930)

Capital, SAINT THOMAS

The Virgin Islands are situated about 55 miles east of Puerto Rico, and the capital, St. Thomas, is 1,442 miles from New York. They consist of three principal islands: St. Thomas, area 33 square miles; St. Croix, 80 square miles; St. John, 21 square miles, and about fifty smaller ones.

They were purchased from Denmark in 1917, for $25,000,000, and, although they had been in the possession of that country for over 200 years, the language of the people is English.

Despite their tropical location the Islands have an agreeable climate, due to their being fanned by the steady trade winds. The construction and operation of a large hotel in St. Thomas has increased the tourist and resident possibilities of the island. A homesteading program is gradually transforming an unstable agricultural population of field laborers into a group of small holders.

St. Thomas is the principal port of the Virgin Islands.

POPULATION

The population of the island of St. Croix was, in 1930, 11,413; of St. Thomas, 9,834; of St. John, 765. Nearly 95% are wholly or partly Negro.

AGRICULTURE

The farm land is about five-sixths of the area of the Islands. According to the census of 1930, there were 329 farms containing 68,322 acres, of which 24,744 were improved. Land and buildings were valued at $2,400,711.

Sugar cane, tobacco, cotton, hides and hardwoods are the chief products; cattle, horses, mules, hogs, goats and sheep, the live stock.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS

Trade is carried on mainly with the United States, imports amounting to $4,148,639 and exports to $1,319,895 in 1937. Greatest development was shown in the sugar and rum trade. Two sugar mills, a large rum distillery and 700 acres of land were operated by the Government, employing an average of nearly 1,000 workers. Approximately 200,000 gallons of rum were produced. In addition privately owned sugar mills and distilleries were busy and by these an additional 30,000 gallons of rum were produced during the year. Bay rum, for which the Islands have long been noted, had an export value of $23,993. The bay oil of St. John is of the finest quality known. The year 1937 showed a marked increase in the sale of hand-made articles, rugs, baskets, etc., and 689 workers were employed by the Handicraft Cooperatives.

MISCELLANEOUS

In May, 1935, the Virgin Islands National Bank commenced operations, taking the place of the retiring National Bank of the Danish West Indies. United States currency is now used. During the fiscal year of 1937-1938, 814 vessels with a gross tonnage of 3,239,975 tons, an increase of 37 ships over the previous year, called at St. Thomas. Of the total, 67% were foreign merchant ships. Ten tourist ships visited St. Thomas with approximately 12,000 transient guests. The regular weekly boats from New York brought full passenger lists to add to the tourist totals. A new and modern hotel has been built to accommodate the tourist trade.

Health conditions in the Islands have improved greatly in recent years, as have the economic and social life of the people through the expenditure of Government funds. Illiteracy was 16.1% in 1930, but is being reduced. Only 2% of the people cannot speak English. In 1937 public school enrolment was 3,374; high school enrolment, 681. Number of post offices (1936-37), 5; gross postal receipts, $19,635.70.

WASHINGTON

Population 1,633,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, OLYMPIA

Washington is bounded on the north by British Columbia, Canada, west by the Pacific Ocean, east by Idaho and south by Oregon. Its average length, east to west, is 330 miles, width 220 miles, land area 66,836 square miles, rank in area (1930), nineteenth.

The Cascade Mountains divide the state into an eastern and a western section, which contrast markedly in characteristics. A distinguishing feature of the western section is Puget Sound, with 1,594 miles of shore line and many harbors, among them the important cities of Seattle, Tacoma, Everett and Olympia. From its ports go extensive shipping and much passenger travel, to Asia, Alaska and points reached by means of the Panama Canal. Lumbering is the leading industry, western Washington being heavily wooded. The state has standing timber of about 330 billion feet and leads all states in the Union in timber cut. Near Puget Sound there are extensive coal mines. Another important industry is the fisheries. In 1935 the salmon pack had a value of $3,930,272.

The valleys are productive in vegetables, fruits and hops; fruit growing being especially successful. East of the Cascades, most of the wheat is grown and in the valleys are the great ranges providing winter grazing. In the dry portions, irrigation is used, extensive developments having been carried on in this line. Two notable dams are the Rock Island at Wenatchee and the Grand Coulee, the latter to be raised to 300 feet.

The shore resorts of the state are popular, especially along Puget Sound. Many of the mountain peaks rise to great heights. Mt. Rainier has an altitude of 14,408 feet and is the third highest peak in the United States and is in a national park frequently visited by tourists. The University of Washington is located at Seattle. The Weather Bureau at Seattle gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 51.0; highest on record, 98; lowest, 3; total annual precipitation, 34.03 inches.

POPULATION

Rank among the states, thirtieth. Urban population (1930), 56.6%. Of the 1,521,099 white persons, 244,256 are foreign born: 37,118 from the British Isles; Scandinavians, 72,688; Canadians, 43,724; Germans, 20,542. Indians number, 11,753.

WEST VIRGINIA

Population 1,816,000 (U. S. Estimate, 1935)

State Capital, CHARLESTON

West Virginia is bounded on the north and east by Pennsylvania and Maryland, east and south by Virginia, and west by Kentucky and Ohio. Its greatest length from north to south is about 240 miles; greatest breadth, 160 miles; land area, 24,022 square miles; rank in area (1930), fortieth.

The surface of West Virginia's rivers is estimated at 135 square miles, for many navigable tributaries of the Ohio River flow through the state. Transportation on the Ohio in the west is heavy. A large part of the land is mountainous and hilly; about two-thirds covered with forests. West Virginia produces more hardwood than any other state except Arkansas, and has vast timber wealth. The soil of the mountain ridges is fertile to the tops, and the summits of many mountains are flat, natural meadows.

The valley of the great Kanawha is the finest grazing region in the state. No finer blue grass farms exist than those of the central, northern and Greenbrier sections. The soil is well adapted to the production of apples, peaches and other fruits, although agriculture in the state is not so important. The most valuable mineral resource of the state is its coal. The same Appalachian vein that supplies Pennsylvania gives West Virginia, too, coal of highest quality. Next to Pennsylvania it ranked highest among the states in 1935 in the value of coal produced. The state also ranks high in the production of glassware, in steel works and rolling-mill products.

The University of West Virginia is located at Morgantown. White Sulphur Springs, in the eastern part of the state, is a popular health resort, with a famous golf course. The Weather Bureau at Parkersburg gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 54.2; highest on record, 106; lowest on record, —27; total annual precipitation, 39.41 inches.

POPULATION

Rank among the states, twenty-seventh. Rural population (1930), 71.6%. Of the 1,613,934 white persons, 51,520 are foreign born: 6,037 from the British Isles; Italians, 12,088; Poles, 5,545; Hungarians, 3,683. The Negro population is about 7%.

AGRICULTURE

Number of farms (1935), 104,747. An increase of 22,106 since 1930. Average acreage per farm, 90.0. Average value per farm, $2,269. Value of land and buildings, $237,643,860. Number of farms: 175 to 259 acres, 6,995; 100 to 174 acres, 18,994; 50 to 99 acres, 27,560; 20 to 49 acres, 22,539; owner-operated farms, 77,133. Colored farmers, 693 farms.

WISCONSIN

Population 2,908,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, MADISON

Wisconsin is bounded on the north by Lake Superior, northeast by Michigan, east by Lake Michigan, south by Illinois and west by Iowa and Minnesota. Its greatest length from north to south is 300 miles, greatest breadth 260 miles, land area, 55,256 square miles; rank in area (1930), twenty-fifth.

The surface is generally an elevated plain with high bluffs along the rivers and lakes and elsewhere gently undulating, diversified with prairie, woodlands and numerous lakes. The northern part was heavily timbered, but there are now large tracts of useless cut-over forest land. However, the lumber cut is the greatest in the Lakes region. The principal rivers are the Chippewa, the Black and the Wisconsin, flowing toward the Mississippi, which forms the southern half of the western boundary.

The state's crops represent a varied list, for agriculture is exceptionally well diversified. The dairy industry is very important, butter, condensed and evaporated milk and cheese ranking high among the state's products. It has the largest number of creameries in the country. Wisconsin ranks high in value of commercial truck crops for canning and manufacture. Nearly half of the country's crop of canning peas is grown here.

Superior, at the head of Lake Superior, carries on extensive trade by rail and water, also considerable manufacturing of iron products. The University of Wisconsin located at Madison is especially known for its sociological research, domestic science, and practical arts. The Weather Bureau at Green Bay gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 44.0; highest on record, 101; lowest on record, —36; total annual precipitation, 31.58 inches.

POPULATION

Rank among the states, fourteenth. Urban population (1930), 52.9%. Of the 2,913,859 white persons, 886,213 are foreign born; 16,971 from the British Isles; Germans, 128,269; Scandinavians, 66,293; Poles, 42,359; Russians, 16,418. Indians number 11,548.

WYOMING

Population 232,000 (U. S. Estimate 1935)

State Capital, CHEYENNE

Wyoming is bounded on the north by Montana, east by South Dakota and Nebraska, south by Colorado and Utah, and west by Utah, Idaho and Montana; length, east to west, 365 miles; width, 274 miles; land area, 97,548 square miles; includes 2,973 square miles of Yellowstone National Park; rank in area (1930), eighth.

The mean elevation of the state is about 6,000 feet. The clear, dry atmosphere and the abundance of sunshine have made the state a favorite health resort, especially for persons afflicted with pulmonary diseases. Its surface is broken by mountain ranges, deep river canyons, and flat-topped hills or buttes, the latter a feature of south Wyoming, which rise from valley or plain like walled cities or mounds. In the northwest corner is Yellowstone National Park, one of the world's most famous scenic resorts. It was the first national park set up by Congress. There are over 8,500,000 acres in national forests and parks. The ranch life retains much of the old-time flavor of the West, the annual cowboy round-up at Cheyenne attracting many visitors.

Stock raising is the most important industry, the state ranking third in the Union for sheep husbandry. There are extensive areas of pine and spruce timber, widely distributed throughout the mountain regions.

There are few places, except in the eastern portion, where crops can be successfully grown without additional water supply. The many rivers flow in all directions providing valuable drainage for irrigation and making possible fine crops of alfalfa, sugar beets, vegetables, and small fruits. Over 1,500,000 acres are now supplied with water. There are now 1,000,000 acres successfully cultivated by dry farming methods.

The University of Wyoming is located at Laramie. The Weather Bureau at Lander gives the temperature (annual monthly mean) as 42.5; highest on record, 100; lowest on record, —40. Total annual precipitation is 12.63 inches.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Population, 694,263 (Census of Canada, 1931)

Provincial Capital, VICTORIA

British Columbia is bounded on the north by the parallel of 60° north, on the west by the Pacific Ocean and Alaska, on the south by the 49th parallel (the boundary of the United States), on the east by Alberta. The area is 355,855 square miles. This includes a number of islands, the largest being Vancouver, which contains the capital of the province, and has an area of about 14,000 square miles. The province is about 700 miles long and 500 miles wide. The rainfall, except in some limited districts in the southeast, is abundant. There is unlimited water power everywhere. The surface is mountainous and densely wooded with trees of enormous size. The wonderful scenery of the Canadian Rockies and of the lakes and rivers attracts thousands of tourists each year. Vancouver is one of the leading ports in exporting Canadian grain.

NOVA SCOTIA

Population 512,846 (Census of Canada, 1931)

Provincial Capital, HALIFAX

Nova Scotia consists of a narrow peninsula, connected with New Brunswick by a narrow isthmus about 16 miles wide, and of the island of Cape Breton. It is bounded on the north by the Gulf of St. Lawrence, on the east and south by the Atlantic Ocean, on the west by the Bay of Fundy and New Brunswick. It is 300 miles long and from 80 to 100 wide, with an area of 21,428 square miles, or about 13,000,000 acres. Of the entire area only 5,000,000 acres are tillable, the remaining land being covered with dense forests. The Cobequid Range extends through the northern interior of the province and on each side of this range are rich arable lands where the agricultural activities of the province center. The valley of the Annapolis is noted for its beauty and fertility. The capital city, Halifax, is the winter port for mail steamers and has direct communication with Liverpool, Boston, Baltimore, Quebec and the West Indies. The harbor, which is over one-half mile wide at its narrowest part, is one of the finest in existence.

QUEBEC

Population 2,874,255 (Census of Canada, 1931)

Provincial Capital, QUEBEC

Quebec is bounded on the north by Hudson Bay, east by Labrador and the Gulf of St. Lawrence, south by New Brunswick, Maine, New Hampshire, New York and the Ottawa River, which separates it from Ontario, and west by Hudson Bay and Ontario. It is the largest of the provinces, its extreme breadth from east to west being 1,080 miles, its length from north to south 1,280 miles, its area 594,434 square miles. The surface south of the St. Lawrence is generally hilly, further north it is mountainous and rocky and abounding in rivers and small lakes. The extreme northern part is an unexplored wilderness. A great part of the surface of the province is covered with forests. More than four-fifths of the people are French. The city of Quebec and the neighboring villages, noted for their quaintness and charm, attract great numbers of tourists yearly, netting the province a large income. Montreal, too, attracts tourist trade. It is the largest city and chief commercial center of the Dominion.

YUKON TERRITORY

Population 4,230 (Census of Canada, 1931)

Seat of Territorial Government, DAWSON

(For map see Alaska)

Yukon Territory is bounded on the north by the Arctic Ocean and Mackenzie Territory, on the east by Mackenzie Territory, on the south by Alaska and British Columbia, and on the west by Alaska. Its extreme length from north to south is about 675 miles, its greatest breadth about 625 miles, and its land area 206,427 square miles. Manufacturing data are not given in the following statistics for the reason that they are included in the figures given for British Columbia.

POPULATION

Province rank, tenth. Slight increase over 1921. Rural residents in 1931, 68%.

FISHERIES

Total market value (1937), $8,767, rank, tenth. $4,618 decrease since 1936. Principal fish: salmon, $6,438; whitefish, $1,401.

FURS

Value of pelts (1936-37), $347,558, rank, tenth. Principal furs: lynx, marten, mink, muskrat.

MINERALS

Total value (1937), including the Northwest Territories, $3,904,797, rank, eighth. Percentage of Canadian production, 0.86. Metallics: silver, $1,832,262, rank, third. Gold, $991,876, rank, sixth. Non-metallics: crude petroleum, $56,855, rank, third.

Yukon contains the great Klondike gold-producing region. Mining is the chief industry of the territory.

MISCELLANEOUS

Number of post offices (1937), 18, rank, tenth. Gross receipts of offices collecting $10,000 and upwards, $17,129, rank, tenth. Number of motor vehicles registered (1936), 300, rank, tenth. Number of radio sets (1937), 329, rank, tenth. Number of telephones (1936), 138, rank, tenth. Experimentations are being carried on in the field of agriculture. The 1921 census reported 10 farms in the Territory with a total of 1,622 acres, 475 of them improved. Oats, wheat and barley have been successfully grown. Total productive forested land including the Northwest Territories, 10,000 square miles.

DOMINION OF NEWFOUNDLAND

Population 289,516 (1935 Census)

Above includes the population of Labrador, 4,716

Capital, ST. JOHN'S

(For map see New Brunswick)

Newfoundland, a large island, lies to the eastward of the Dominion of Canada, in the Atlantic Ocean. It is separated from Canada by the Straits of Belle Isle, the Gulf of St. Lawrence and Cabot Straits. It is the oldest English colony, is about the size of the State of Virginia, and has a government entirely separate from that of Canada. Newfoundland is bounded on the east, north and south by the Atlantic Ocean, and on the west by the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Its extreme length is 350 miles; average breadth, 130 miles; area, 42,000 square miles. The topography is generally rugged with many lakes and rivers. The central and eastern portion of the interior is thinly wooded and consists in part of elevated plains called "barrens." The river valleys and the western part of the island are thickly timbered.

Labrador is a Newfoundland dependency. It has a coastline of 850 miles, and 4,716 inhabitants, mostly Eskimos. They are engaged in the cod and seal fisheries, and during the winter months in trapping.

The climate is healthful and more temperate than that of the neighboring continents. The Gulf Stream modifies the cold and the temperature is rarely below zero in the winter, and in the summer seldom exceeds 80° F. The heat from open fireplaces is sufficient to warm the houses. Winter usually sets in the first of December and lasts until the middle of April. The autumn, a period of fine weather, often lasts until November. Thunderstorms are rare, tornados unknown, and the fogs are confined to the shores and bays of the southeastern and southern coasts.

AGRICULTURE

Over one-sixth of the land, or about 7,000 square miles, is suitable for cultivation and grazing. The most fertile portion is that of the Codroy valley. The soil is also fertile in the Bay St. George district, Humber Exploits valleys. The area of cultivated land is rapidly increasing and about 200,000 acres are now under cultivation. The principal crops are hay, oats, garden vegetables, apples and small fruits, especially berries. The country is especially adapted for sheep grazing, and the live stock industry in general is becoming important.

FISHERIES

Fisheries constitute the principal industry of the island. The most important fish commercially is the cod; and the Newfoundland cod fisheries, said to be the most extensive of their kind in the world, yielded $6,890,278 during the fiscal year 1936-37. The seal fishery is also important, the 1938 catch being 226,747 seals. Lobsters, too, and herring, salmon and trout are valuable catches, and the net whaling industry is carried on to a limited extent. Turbot, haddock, halibut are also abundant.

FORESTS

There are large forests of pine, spruce, birch, juniper and fir which furnish ample materials for an important timber trade, for shipbuilding, and pulp for paper. Other species that abound in the forests of the interior are mountain ash, poplar, aspen and a variety of evergreens. Berry-bearing plants, flowering plants, ferns, wild grasses and clover cover vast areas of the land.

INDUSTRIES

The chief industry is the making of pulp and paper, lumber, saw and planing mill products. There are also boot and shoe, nail, cordage, paint, furniture and carriage factories, fish and lobster canneries, shipyards, and many others.

MINERALS

Lead, zinc, copper and iron ore are the most important minerals found on the island. Other existing minerals are silver, gold, fluor spar, antimony, asbestos, mica, manganese, graphite, nickel, plumbago, lithographic stone, talc, slate and coal. There are also marble and limestone quarries and indications of oil. The mineral lands as a whole are being successfully developed.

TRADE

The exports of the Island go chiefly to the United Kingdom, United States and Canada. The most important of them are fishery products, newsprint paper and ground pulp, iron ore, zinc and lead concentrates. Goods exported to the United States during the fiscal year 1936-37 were valued at $6,276,887; imports from the United States in the same period were valued at $7,446,945. The total trade in 1936-37 amounted to: exports, $28,058,073; imports, $23,924,886. Number of families having radio sets (1938), 12,000.

Capital, HAMILTON

A group of islands in the Mid-Atlantic Ocean, 666 miles southeast of New York. Although said to be 365 in number, of which a score are inhabited, they occupy a space of only 19¼ square miles. The largest has an area of 9,000 acres, the whole group containing only about 12,000 acres. The climate is delightful, without extremes of heat or cold, the temperature ranging from 55 to 85 degrees. The more important islands are connected by bridges and causeways. They are of coral formation on the summit of a submarine mountain. Although a governor is appointed by the British Crown, the islands have their own representative government for local affairs, having the oldest parliament among all the British Colonies.

In 1938 there were 2,500 acres under cultivation. The soil produces almost every description of fruit, flowers and vegetables abundantly. Potatoes, celery, tomatoes, early table vegetables and lily flowers and bulbs are the chief crops.

The islands are very popular as a summer and winter pleasure and health resort, and are visited every year by increasing numbers of visitors from the United States, Canada, and England. Frequent and regular steamship communications carried 83,092 tourists to Bermuda in 1937. Much of the revenue of the islands is derived from the tourist trade.

The culture of lilies, especially Easter lilies for the flowers and bulbs, is an important industry; potatoes, celery and tomatoes are also exported, all principally to the United States and Canadian markets. The Islands' chief imports are food, clothing, chinaware, hardware, perfumery, liquor, and feed for horses. In 1936 imports from the United States totaled $3,491,328 and exports to the United States $414,840.

Bermuda is the main Atlantic naval station of the British Navy.

CUBA

Population 4,055,156 (1935 estimate)

Capital, HAVANA

Cuba, the largest and most populous of the West Indian Islands, is situated about 100 miles south of Florida, from which it is separated by the Florida Straits. It is 760 miles in length, has a width varying from 25 to 124 miles, and a coast line of more than 2,000 miles. The total area is 44,164 square miles, or approximately that of the state of Pennsylvania. Several irregular mountain chains cross the island in the provinces of Pinar del Rio, Camaguey and Oriente, forming fertile and healthful valleys and plateaus.

Cuba is in easy reach of the United States both by steamship and airplane. From New York several boat lines have regular sailings to Havana and other Cuban ports, and there are also regular steamers from Boston, Baltimore, Norfolk, Mobile, New Orleans, Tampa and Galveston to Havana. Between Key West and Havana there is daily ferry service. The principal ports of the country are Havana, Matanzas, Cardenas, Cienfuegos, Nipe, Guantanamo, and Santiago de Cuba.

Of the country's crops, sugar-cane is by far the most enormous one. Nearly 1,600,000 acres are devoted to this one product alone, and raw sugar represents 50 per cent of the island's exports. Next in importance is the raising of tobacco, cultivated chiefly in the famous Vuelta-Abazo district near Pinar del Rio, and the manufacturing of cigars and cigarettes.

Quantities of fruits and vegetables also flourish in Cuba's tropical soil, pineapples, oranges, grapefruit and bananas being grown in abundance, as well as tomatoes, onions and potatoes. In smaller quantities are produced: mangoes, mameys, sapotes, guayabas, guanabanas, aguacates, limes, pomegranates, melons and figs.

Cocconuts and cacao are important products of the island, and much attention is recently being given to the production of coffee and rice.

Another industry that is being fostered is the raising of live stock, particularly in the province of Camaguey. Cuba has 4,000,000 cattle and a substantial supply of hogs, and furnishes more meat for home consumption than ever before in her history. The island has favorable conditions for stock and poultry raising and for bee culture. Chickens thrive and bring good prices, and in a recent year 11,000,000 pounds of honey were exported.

Oriente is richest in mineral wealth, with 1,500 mines registered. Of chief importance are iron, copper, manganese, gold, mercury, zinc, lead, silver and antimony, coal, asphalt, asbestos and petroleum. Santa Clara has had registered about the same kinds of minerals, and sulphur. Pinar del Rio has hundreds of registered mines, including those of iron, copper, gold, lead, manganese, coal and asphalt. Mineral springs with water of medicinal value are also found at a number of points on the island.

The forest area is said to cover about 8,000,000 acres, and produces mahogany and other valuable cabinet woods, as well as an abundance of cedar for the manufacture of cigar boxes.

Large quantities of sponges are gathered on the south coast of Cuba, near Batabano, opposite the Isle of Pines; on the north coast smaller beds are also to be found.

A number of factories have been established in recent years. At Bayamo there is a condensed milk factory of large capacity, and in the vicinity cheese and butter factories. At San Antonio de los Banos yeast is made, chiefly from sterilized Cuban sirups. Textiles are manufactured, and shoes, clothing, paints, hardware, cement and perfumes. Pineapples, guavas, tomatoes, peppers and lima beans are canned, as well as other fruits and vegetables. Still another manufacture is that of mosaic tile, and a number of factories are devoted to its production. One of these, it is claimed is the largest of its kind in the world.

In the first six months of 1938 Cuban exports amounted to $81,698,889; imports to $59,386,564. Chief of the exports were raw and refined sugar, tobacco and manufactures, molasses, fresh fruits, vegetables, cereals and grains, hides and skins, distillates, iron, copper, manganese and asphalt. Principal imports were cereals and flours, cotton and manufactures, vegetable fibres including rayon, charcoal, shales and bitumens, wrought iron and steel, chemical and pharmaceutical products, machines and accessories, meats and fats, carriages and automobiles, vegetables and fruits, paper and manufactures, edible oils, woods in logs, rough-sawn or semi-manufactured, glass and crystalware, hides and skins, wool fabrics and manufactures, simple drugs, canned goods, musical instruments, colors and varnishes. Trade was carried on chiefly with the United States, United Kingdom, France and Germany.

Cuba is well served by railroads, there being in operation more than 3,000 miles owned by 20 or more companies. Of improved highways there are about 2,000 miles. The island is visited by thousands of tourists yearly, and becomes increasingly popular as a winter resort. Spanish is the language chiefly used, but in Havana and other of the cities, English and French are also spoken. About sixty per cent of the inhabitants are native white; the remaining percentage colored and foreign white. Density of population is about 90 persons to the square mile.

Among higher institutions of learning is the University of Havana founded in 1721.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

Population 1,479,417 (1935 Census)

Capital, CIUDAD TRUJILLO

The Dominican Republic occupies the eastern and the larger part of the Island of Santo Domingo, and has an area of 19,325 square miles, more than double the area of the Republic of Haiti. It is separated from Puerto Rico by the Mona Passage, a strait about 75 miles wide. The central part is mountainous, reaching the highest elevation in Monte Tina, 13,300 feet, but the valley lands and the plains along the northern coast are extremely fertile, and abundant crops of tropical and sub-tropical fruits, vegetables, etc., are grown. The country is well watered, numerous rivers having their origin in the mountain ranges. The largest in the north are the Yaque del Norte, which rises near Yaque mountain, and after a course of 249 miles flows into the ocean at Monte Cristo Bay, and the Yuna, which rises a few miles east of the source of the Yaque and flows 186 miles to Samana Bay. The basins of these two rivers form the great valley known as the Vega Real de Colon, reaching from Samana Bay on the east to Manzanillo Bay on the northwest, which is unexcelled for fertility. The chief rivers of the south are the Yaque del Sur and the Ozama. While the climate in general is hot and humid, there are districts in the south and east where the rainfall is so slight that agriculture is not successful. The population is of mixed ancestry. Their language is Spanish.

There are about 15,500 square miles under cultivation. Agriculture and stock raising are the chief industries. The principal products are sugar, cacao, coffee, molasses, tobacco, rice, hides, beans, corn, honey.

The forests produce large quantities of mahogany, satin-wood, logwood and cedar. The timber has been cut chiefly near the coast, and the extensive forests of the interior have scarcely been touched. These contain vast amounts of the most valuable hardwoods and dye-woods, and the higher elevations in certain regions are covered with a large growth of pine. The mineral resources have been neglected, although deposits of silver, platinum, copper, coal, salt, petroleum and iron are known to exist.

The leading industries are the manufacture of sugar, rum, cigars and cigarettes, leather, soap, candles, furniture, starch, shoes and linen besides minor industries. The major portion of the people are engaged in agricultural pursuits.

Two railroads in the northern portion and another along the southern coast connect the chief cities in those districts. There is regular steamer communication with France, the United States and Cuba, and three submarine cable connections over French systems. Regular air schedules from Miami include the Dominican Republic, thus increasing passenger, mail and express service. There are about 325 miles of highways.

Imports from the United States in 1936 (latest available information) showed a valuation of $4,765,201. Chief imports were: machinery and apparatus, $509,534; cotton and manufactures, $490,020; mineral oils, $380,538; foodstuffs, $371,547; iron and steel manufactures, $356,667; automobiles and trucks, $350,079; chemical and pharmaceutical products, $279,331; paper and manufactures, $197,009; hides and skins and manufactures, $171,725; rubber and manufactures, $123,425; paints, pigments, etc., $102,457.

Exports to the United States in 1937 totaled $5,828,304. Principal exports of the same year were: cacao, $1,559,477; molasses, $985,263; raw sugar, $952,834.

HAITI

Population 3,000,000 (1932 Estimate)

Capital, PORT-AU-PRINCE

Haiti occupies the western or smaller part of the Island of Santo Domingo and has an area of 10,200 square miles. It lies east of Cuba, separated from that island by the Windward Passage, about 40 miles wide. Ninety per cent of the population is of the Negro race. There are about 3,000 white foreigners. French is the official language of the country.

Owing to its mountainous character and constant sea breezes the climate of the country is pleasant and healthful. In 32 years temperatures in Port-au-Prince have ranged from 60° to 100°. The soil is, in places, remarkably fertile. Of the crops coffee is most important, followed by cotton, sugar, logwood, sisal, cacao, tropical fruits, tobacco and cashew nuts.

Mining is little developed, although there are considerable resources, including gold, silver, copper, iron, tin, coal and others.

Railroad development is still in its infancy, there being about 200 miles of railroad. During recent years more than 1,000 miles of highways have been constructed, connecting practically all the large cities. From Port-au-Prince the road extending northward to Cap-Haitien is about 175 miles long. By the use of this north and south highway tourists find it convenient to land at Port-au-Prince or Cap-Haitien and cross the country by motor car, rejoining the steamship at either one of the ports. An average of 500 to 600 ships stop at Haitian ports yearly.

Imports from the United States in 1937 were valued at $4,698,380. Principal imports: cotton and manufactures, $1,009,738; wheat flour, $797,983; mineral oils, $277,423; motor vehicles, $244,396; wood and manufactures, $208,234; machinery and apparatus, $171,479; yarns and manufactures, $128,811; tobacco and manufactures, $114,587; fish, $103,412; iron and steel manufactures, $103,338. Other important imports are chemical and pharmaceutical substances and products, lard and substitutes, paper and manufactures, rubber and manufactures, food stuffs, paint and dyes, etc., meats, perfumery, copper and manufactures, clothing, boots and shoes, soap.

Exports to the United States in 1937 were valued at $2,500,351. Principal exports: coffee $818,325; sisal, $666,640; bananas, $375,465; cacao, $192,672; goat skins, $155,677. Other important exports are: sugar, logwood, molasses.

Among Haiti's institutions of higher education are the Schools of Medicine, Law, Applied Sciences; Training of Agricultural and Industrial Teachers; Military and Apostolic Schools.

Population 59,808 (1931) (Three-fourths Negroes)

Capital, NASSAU

A chain of islands nearly 600 miles in length, extending north from Haiti to the east coast of Florida. It includes 20 inhabited islands, 153 islets, and innumerable reefs, and has an area of 4,404 square miles. The climate is healthful, and the temperature in six years had a minimum of 54° and a maximum of 92.5°. The islands are the winter home of many Americans and Canadians, and bid fair to grow more popular year by year. There is an abundance of fine hardwoods and pine. The principal products are sponges, tomatoes, sisal, pine lumber. Imports in 1935 were valued at £723,762; exports at £126,313. Trade is carried on chiefly with the United States. Chief imports of £15,000 and over: unclassified goods, alcoholic liquors, piece goods (linen, silk and wool), flour (wheat or rye), motor cars and trucks, apparel, furniture, unclassified provisions, hardware, lard and all substitutes. Chief exports of £15,000 and over: sponges, raw tomatoes. An air mail line is operated between the Bahamas and the United States.

CURACAO (Dutch)

Population, 87,104

Capital, WILLEMSTAD

An island in the Caribbean Sea, situated about 40 miles north of Venezuela, with an area of 210 square miles. Its surface is generally flat, and the shores are deeply indented, forming several natural harbors, the chief one being that of St. Anna on the southwest coast. The group of islands, of which Curacao is the largest and the seat of government, contains six which have a total area of 403 square miles. The climate is hot, but modified by the northeast trade winds. The chief products are salt, phosphate, straw hats, aloes, orange peels. The chief industry is the refining of oil. Imports from the United States in 1935 amounted to fl.18,070,042; exports to fl.20,659,926. In 1935, 9,259 steamships and 3,185 sailing vessels of 54,351,687 Bruto Reg. tonnage entered the ports of the islands.

Capital, SAINT GEORGE

In the Windward group, northwest of Trinidad. Length, north to south, 24 1/2 miles; breadth, 10 miles; area, 133 square miles. Surface rugged and picturesque, traversed from north to south by an irregular mass of volcanic mountains rising to a height of 3,000 feet above the sea. The soil is extremely fertile, adapted to tropical productions generally. The climate is remarkably healthful; the scenery unsurpassed in all the West Indies. The island offers exceptional advantages as a winter resort, having abundant natural facilities for sea bathing, fishing and all aquatic sports. More than a quarter of all the inhabitants are engaged in agriculture. The Government is establishing schools and assisting other schools, with the result that illiteracy is decreasing. The people, owing to an equitable system of land distribution, are counted among the most prosperous of the West Indian colonists. The greater part of the island's trade is with Great Britain. The chief articles of export are cacao, nutmegs and other spices, lime, oil, mace, bananas. Total imports of the Windward Islands in 1933 amounted to £546,000; exports £391,000.

Capital, BASSE TERRE

Guadeloupe is the largest of the Lesser Antilles; area, 494 square miles. It consists of two distinct islands, the western and largest one known as Guadeloupe proper; the eastern called Grande-Terre. Other dependent islands are Marie-Galante, La Desirade, Les Saintes, St. Martin and St. Barthelemy. Guadeloupe Island is of volcanic formation and traversed by a ridge of mountains, one of which, Mt. Soufriere, reaches a height of 5,000 feet, and is an active volcano. Grande-Terre is generally flat. Soil is fertile and well cultivated; climate hot but salubrious. On the upper slopes of the mountains, however, the temperatures average only 68 degrees for the year, the minimum being 50 degrees. There have been no cases of yellow fever for many years. There are forests of valuable hardwoods and dye-woods; thermal mineral springs of medicinal repute. In 1933, 40,954 metric tons of sugar were exported. Other articles of export are coffee, rum, limes, vanilla beans, logwood, cacao. The imported goods, machinery, tools, foodstuffs come largely from the United States. The exports go chiefly to France. In 1934 the trade of Guadeloupe and Martinique with the United States was: imports $2,787,686; exports $183,081.

Capital, KINGSTON

The most important of the British West India Islands, situated about 90 miles south of Cuba between 17° and 18° north latitude and 76° and 78° west longitude. Its extreme length is 144 miles; width varies from 49 to 21 1/2 miles; area is 4,450 square miles. It is traversed by mountains in all directions, the highest of which (Blue Mountain Peak) reaches an elevation of 7,388 feet. The climate is dry and invigorating. Temperatures range from 70.8 to 87.5, at sea level, and 60.1 to 71.6, at an altitude of 4,000 feet.

The largest towns beside Kingston are Spanish Town (8,694), Port Antonio (6,272), and Montego Bay (6,580), a well-known seaside resort. There are several natural harbors, Kingston being one of the finest in the world.

The soil is very productive, vegetation extremely luxuriant, and there is an abundance of timber including all tropical hardwoods. In 1934-35, 210,832 acres of land were under cultivation. Bananas, sugar and rum are the chief products, in addition to most other staple products of tropical climates. The 1936 export of bananas was valued at £1,911,605; sugar, £632,451; coffee, £161,009; rum, £194,645; coconuts, £76,276; pimiento (dry) £140,858.

The total exports (not including Parcels Post) amounted to £3,807,239. Exports to the United States totaled £296,557. Jamaica, not being a manufacturing country, imports a great part of
