BRITISH COLUMBIA

Population 1,898,464 (Census of Canada, 1956)

Provincial Capital, VICTORIA

British Columbia is bounded on the north by the parallel of 60° north, on the west by the Pacific Ocean and Alaska, on the south by the 49th parallel (the boundary of the United States), on the east by Alberta. The area is 366,255 square miles. This includes a number of islands, the largest being Vancouver, which contains the capital of the province, and has an area of about 12,000 square miles. The province is about 700 miles long and 500 miles wide. The rainfall, except in some limited districts in the southeast, is abundant. There is unlimited water power everywhere. The surface is mountainous and densely wooded with trees of enormous size. The wonderful scenery of the Canadian Rockies and of the lakes and rivers attracts thousands of tourists each year. Vancouver is one of the leading ports in exporting grain and lumber.

NEWFOUNDLAND

Population 415,074 (1955 Census)

Above includes the population of Labrador, 10,614

Provincial Capital, ST. JOHN'S

(For map see New Brunswick)

Newfoundland, a large island, lies to the eastward of the mainland of the Dominion of Canada, in the Atlantic Ocean. It is separated from the mainland by the Straits of Belle Isle, the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the Cabot Straits. It is the oldest English colony, is about the size of the State of Virginia. Newfoundland is bounded on the east, north and south by the Atlantic Ocean, and on the west by the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Its extreme length is 350 miles; average breadth, 130 miles; area, 42,764 square miles. The topography is generally rugged with many lakes and rivers. The central and eastern portion of the interior is thinly wooded and consists in part of elevated plains called "barrens." The river valleys and the western part of the island are thickly timbered.

Labrador is a Newfoundland dependency. It has a coastline of 650 miles, adds approximately 116,000 square miles to the area of the Province. Most of the inhabitants are Eskimos engaged in the cod and seal fisheries, and during the winter months in trapping.

The climate is healthful and more temperate than that of the neighboring continents. The Gulf Stream modifies the cold and the temperature is rarely below zero in the winter, and in the summer seldom exceeds 80° F. The heat from open fireplaces is sufficient to warm the houses. Winter usually sets in the first of December and lasts until the middle of April. The autumn, a period of fine weather, often lasts until November. Thunderstorms are rare, tornadoes unknown, and the fogs are confined to the shores and bays of the southeastern and southern coasts. Only 1500 miles from Ireland, Newfoundland is a vital outpost for both air travel and defense.

POPULATION

Province rank, ninth. Increase over 1951, 14.6%. Rural residents in 1956, 55%.

AGRICULTURE

Number of farms (1956), 2,387; owner operated, 2,226; with electricity (1951), 1,663. Average acreage per farm, 30.08. The most suitable areas for farming are in the Codroy Valley, Bay St. George, Humber Valley and the Avalon Peninsula. The principal crops grown are timothy hay, oats, barley, potatoes, turnips, cabbage, beets, carrots, persimmons and small fruits.

Value of livestock (1951): all cattle and calves, $2,059,340; horses, $621,425; sheep and lambs, $572,865; hogs, $66,595. Total value of livestock, poultry and bees, $3,561,985. The livestock population in 1951 included: horses, 16,635; cattle, 16,864; sheep, 76,839; swine, 2,990; goats, 6,054; poultry, 64,466.

FISHERIES

Fisheries constitute the principal industry of the island. Total value in 1955 was $29,374,400, an increase of $1,363,900 over 1955. The most important fish, commercially, is the cod ($15,080,700 in 1955) and the Newfoundland cod fisheries are said to be the most extensive of their kind in the world. Modernization has reached the fishing industry; the trend is now to big diesel craft, to fresh-frozen fish packing instead of hand salting. The seal fishery is also important and in 1956 the catch totalled 77,568 seals. Lobsters are in abundance while haddock, salmon, rosefish, herring, flounders, greysole, squid, scallops and meckerel, etc., are caught on an extensive scale. The whaling industry is also carried on fairly extensively, the catch in 1956 being 9,876.

FORESTS

Of the total land area of the island about 17,145 square miles are forested, the chief components of which are spruce and balsam fir. Other species of lesser importance are white birch, pine, poplar or aspen, and larch (locally known as juniper). Within limited areas some hard maple and yellow birch are found. The forests furnish raw materials for an extensive pulp and paper industry consuming up to 900,000 cords per annum and employing up to 8,000 men per month throughout the year. Gross selling value of production (1956), $2,050,409. There were in 1956 542 licensed saw mills, producing $1,091,000 feet b.m.

FURS

Total fur farms (12-61-56), 68. Value of fur animals sold and pelts produced, $297,000. Total number of pelts taken from wildlife was 19,706 in the 1955-57 season, valued at $49,116. Principal furs: beaver, ermine (weasel), fox, lynx, mink, muskrat, otter.

MANUFACTURES

Selling value of factory shipments (1956), $123,691,844. Number of establishments, 766; number of employees, 10,502. Leading industries: pulp and paper, fish processing, breweries, sash, door and planing mills, bakery products, carbonated beverages, sawmills, printing and publishing.

MINERALS

Total value (1957), $76,244,756, rank, sixth. Principal minerals: iron ore, zinc, lead, fluor-spar, copper, silver, cement.

MISCELLANEOUS

Number of post offices (8-61-56), 641; gross postal receipts, $1,645,268. Number of motor vehicles registered (1957), 47,656. Highway mileage (1956), 7,101. Dwellings under construction (7-31-53), 8,116. Number of families (8-1-57), 66,000; number of radio homes (est. 5-31-57), 30,000. Number of telephones (1-1-57), 67,746.

NOVA SCOTIA

Population 694,717 (Census of Canada, 1956)

Provincial Capital, HALIFAX

(For map see New Brunswick)

Nova Scotia consists of a narrow peninsula, connected with New Brunswick by a narrow isthmus about 16 miles wide, and off the island of Cape Breton. It is bounded on the north by the Gulf of St. Lawrence, on the east and south by the Atlantic Ocean, on the west by the Bay of Fundy and New Brunswick. It is 300 miles long and from 80 to 100 wide, with an area of 21,068 square miles, or about 13,000,000 acres. Of the entire area only 5,000,000 acres are tillable, the remaining land being covered with dense forests. The Cohequid Range extends through the northern interior of the province and on each side of this range are rich arable lands where the agricultural activities of the province center. The valley of the Annapolis is noted for its beauty and fertility. The capital city, Halifax, is the winter port for mail steamers and has direct communication with Liverpool, Boston, Baltimore, Quebec and the West Indies. The harbor, which is over one-half mile wide at its narrowest part, is one of the finest in Canada.

SASKATCHEWAN

Population 880,665 (Census of Canada, 1956)

Provincial Capital, REGINA

The Province of Saskatchewan is bounded on the north by the parallel of 80 north, on the west by the Province of Alberta, on the south by the 49th parallel (the boundary of the United States) and on the east by the Province of Manitoba. Its length from south to north is 761 miles and it tapers from a width of 398 miles along the Canada-United States border to 277 miles at its northern extremity. Its total area is 251,700 square miles with about 81,618 square miles of fresh water, mainly in the north. From south to north, Saskatchewan is divided into four principle geographical regions; the open plains country of rolling prairies, interrupted by ridges and valleys; the park land; the commercial forest area, a great tree belt; and, the minerally rich Pre-Cambrian shield in the north.

The climate of the province runs from extreme cold in winter to intense heat in summer but the prevailing low humidity makes it both pleasant and healthful.

POPULATION

Province rank, fifth. Decrease since 1951 of 5.9%. Rural residents in 1956, 68.4%.

BERMUDA

Population 87,408 (White, about 38%; Colored, about 62%) 1950 Census

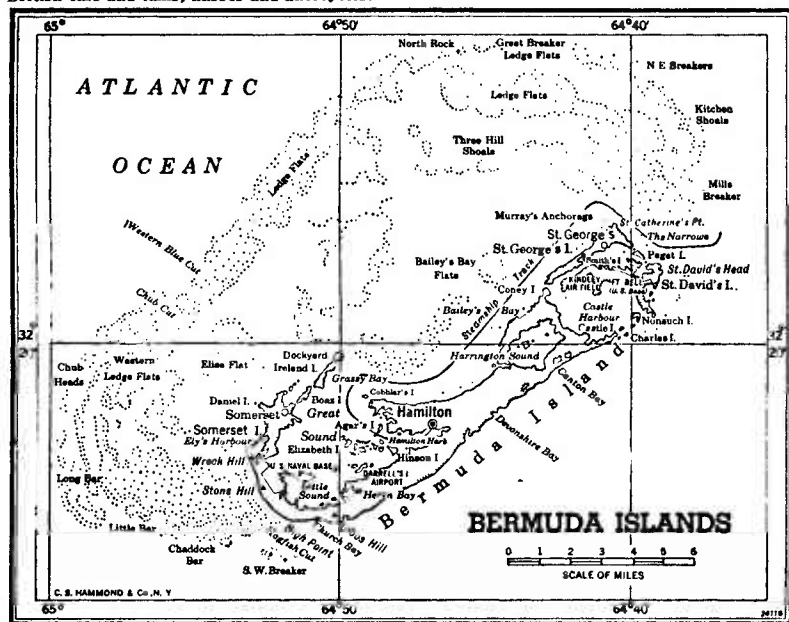

Capital, HAMILTON

A group of islands in the Atlantic Ocean, about 700 nautical miles southwest of New York, occupying a space of only 20 1/2 square miles. The climate is delightful, without extremes of heat or cold; the temperature averages 70.7 degrees. The five largest islands are connected by bridges and causeways. They are of coral formation on the summit of a submarine mountain. The islands, part of the British empire, have their own representative government for local affairs, with the oldest parliament among all the British Colonies.

The extremely fertile soil produces almost every description of fruit, flowers and vegetables in great abundance. Potatoes, tomatoes, bananas, carrots, cabbage, onions, beans, sweet potatoes and salad vegetables, together with Easter Lily flowers and bulbs, are the chief crops. Two crops a year are harvested.

The islands, popular as an all year round pleasure and health resort, are visited by thousands of tourists from the United States, Canada, England and elsewhere. Weekly voyages of luxury ships, and daily airline flights bring visitors direct to Bermuda from New York.

Bermuda is the headquarters of the British Atlantic and West Indies Fleet. There are over 100 miles of paved roads, with transportation by bicycle, horse and carriage, ferries, small British cars and taxis, buses and autocycles.

REPUBLIC OF PANAMA

Republic of Panama Population 805,285 (Census of Panama, 1950)

Canal Zone Population 52,822 (U. S. Census, 1950)

The Republic of Panama is situated between 7° and 10° north latitude and 77° and 84° west longitude. It is bounded on the north by the Caribbean Sea, east by Columbia, south by the Gulf of Panama and the Pacific Ocean, and west by Costa Rica. The area is 28,575 square miles.

The climate is antitropical with warm days and cool nights, the temperature at Colon varying from 68° to 95° F. Under direction of American health authorities of the Canal Zone modern sanitation has made Panama one of the most healthy spots in the tropics. The concentration of population is in the towns, chiefly Panama at the Pacific and of the Canal and Colon on the Caribbean.

There are some gold mines. Oil has been found and copper and iron have been located. There are also important salt mines. The Panama Canal brings to Panama the largest tonnage of shipping of any country in Latin America. In 1958, imports amounted to $71,602,929, and exports were valued at $15,495,282. Chief of the exports were bananas, frozen shrimp, abaco fibers and cement. Rice, tobacco, rubber, coffee, pineapples and sugar cane are also raised and stock raising is extensively carried on. Principal imports are foodstuffs and beverages, textiles and manufactures, machinery, chemical products and metals. Trade is chiefly with the United States.

Nine commercial banks operate in the Republic, with total deposits (12-31-52), $77,992,900. Tourism is a major source of income in Panama. The airports at Bocas del Toro and David, as well as that in Panama City, operate with international service.

The Canal Zone is situated between 8° and 10° north latitude and 79° and 81° west longitude. It is a strip of territory extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific Oceans, includes five miles of land on each side of the Panama Canal, and is under perpetual lease to the United States. Its land area is 872 square miles, its total area, 648 square miles.

Cristobal, formerly a part of Colon, is the Caribbean port of entrance to the Canal, and that at the Pacific entrance is Balboa. East of Panama is the residential town of Ancon, with a hotel and a hospital. The Panama Railway runs on the eastern side of the canal. The canal is 50.72 statute miles long.

All industrial activities within the Canal Zone are controlled by the Government which holds the title to all land. The Zone is fortified and occupied by a garrison in addition to the civilian employees of the Canal and railroad. Airports are maintained at France Field on the Caribbean side and at Albrook Field on Balboa Heights on the Pacific side. A part of the territory is adapted to stock raising, growing of tropical fruits and sugar cane.

NORTH BORNEO

REPUBLIC OF THE PHILIPPINES

Population 19,284,182 (1948 Census)

Capital, QUEZON CITY, (Luzon)

The Republic of the Philippines comprises the largest island group in the Malay Archipelago. There are 7,088 separate islands in this area which extends 1,152 miles from north to south and 688 miles from east to west. Of this large number 462 have an area each of one square mile or more. Eleven have an area of more than 1,000 square miles each. Total land area of islands is 114,880 square miles.

After nearly a half century as a territory of the United States, the Philippine Islands became an independent republic in 1946. Quezon City is the capital.

The port of Manila offers the finest harbor in the entire Far East. Other ports of entry are Cebu, Iloilo, Zamboanga, Jolo, Legaspi and Davao, and there are about 200 ports of call for inter-island vessels. The larger islands are mountainous with altitudes rising in places to more than 10,000 feet. Rainfall is abundant throughout the archipelago, varying from 60 inches in the driest district to 157 in the wettest. There are three seasons: the most agreeable, from November to March; the hot and dry season, from March to July; the rainy, from July to November.

POPULATION

Ninety-nine per cent of the people are Filipinos; the remaining percentage is made up of: Chinese, Japanese, Americans, Spaniards, Britons, Hindus, Dutch, Italians and Swiss. The American population is mostly centered in Manila. Although eight distinct languages and 87 dialects are spoken, English is the most widely used. The basis for the national language is the Tagalog dialect, spoken by one third of the people.

AGRICULTURE

The cultivation of many crops heretofore imported but which may be grown locally is now being emphasized in agricultural development. Average size of the farms is 10 acres, but there are many large plantations. For the crop year ending 6-30-52, the estimated value of agricultural production was $750,845,120. This does not include the value of sugar, molasses, copra and all other manufactured agricultural products. Chief crops were unhusked rice, shelled corn, coconut, sugar cane, abaca, root crops and tobacco. The principal export fruit is the pineapple, but there are also bananas, mangoes, papaya, lanzones, lanzones, chico, mandarins and oranges. Other export products are: sugar, fiber, minerals, and forest products.

FORESTRY

Timber for construction purposes and for various types of lumber production is produced in large quantities. Rattan and bamboo, also dye woods and barks for tanning purposes, as well as rubber and gums and resins are in considerable production. Lumber production in 1952 was 436,969,000 board feet. Philippine forests cover 68,200 square miles.

MINERALS

Gold production and the future of the gold mining industry are of increasing importance in the islands. Exploration and the mining of gold and other metals is progressing. In 1952, gold production was valued at more than $16,200,000, placing the Philippines eighth among world gold producers. In addition, the islands produce silver, lead, zinc, copper, iron, coal, petroleum, chromite, asbestos and manganese. In 1945, important deposits of uranium were located. Salt and clay are also found. The main islands have a wide variety of natural resources. The coal fields already located are estimated at close to 100 square miles in area, and contain both hard and soft coal.

MISSCELLANEOUS

Number of telephones (1952), 51,240. Motor vehicles registered (1952), 105,944. Number of families having radios (1952 est.), 150,000. Number of retail stores (1951), 187,128, with gross receipts of $489,092,882. Number of radio stations (1952), 58.
